Forsan ISD recently receives recognition from Great Schools.org

2020 College Success Award recipient

Special to the Herald

Forsan ISD recently announced recognition from GreatSchools.org. GreatSchools.org is the nation's leading non-profit - empowering parents to unlock educational opportunities for their children. The organization recently announced the recipients of the 2020 College Success Award. Forsan High School was among only four campuses receiving this award in Region 18, which covers an area from Big Spring to Van Horn and from Andrews to Alpine. The Award honors high schools around the country that excel in ensuring students are prepared for college and careers — as determined by available data in each state. These schools graduate students who are academically primed for college-level courses, enroll in two- or four-year colleges and persist into their second year. As the COVID-19 pandemic continues to threaten the physical and financial health of the nation, the award-winning schools are ensuring students graduate with the skills and resources to succeed as post-secondary scholars and productive citizens. College and career-ready graduates are critical to fueling the U.S. economy, as 70 percent of jobs will require a post-secondary degree by 2027.

“Congratulations to our students, parents, and staff for their hard work and dedication in making this happen,” said Forsan ISD Superintendent Mr. Randy Johnson. “Both college success and career success are important right out of high school. We have a great responsibility – along with parents – to develop students who are ready to enter the adult world. Awards like this are encouraging to our community.” The College Success Award delivers a snapshot of whether a high school

NRCS announces 2021 deadline for Conservation Assistance Funding

Special to the Herald

USDA

The USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Texas has announced the first funding application deadline of December 4, 2020, for the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP). A second funding application deadline will be February 12, 2021. Applications are taken year around for NRCS programs, but deadlines are announced to rank and fund eligible conservation projects. Producers interested in signing up for EQIP should submit applications to their local USDA service center. If already a USDA client, a producer can submit applications online via Farmers.gov. EQIP is a voluntary program that provides financial and technical assistance to agricultural producers. Technical assistance is provided without a fee from NRCS specialists to help landowners and land managers plan and implement conservation practices to help them meet their land management goals, address natural resource concerns and improve soil, water, plant, animal, air, and related resources on agricultural land and non-industrial private forestland. For additional information visit the NRCS Texas website at www.tx.nrcs.usda.gov. Applications for EQIP are accepted on a continuous basis. Producers interested in EQIP can contact their local USDA service center or visit our NRCS EQIP web page.

YMCA of Big Spring expanding childcare/daycare curriculum

By AMANDA DUFORAT

Managing Editor

Fitness classes, youth sports and after school programs are normally the first things that come to mind when someone mentions the YMCA; however, an additional service that isn't widely known about in the community is the childcare program offered Monday through Friday. “Our after school program is popular and services the Howard County Youth. Our staff offers a safe place for kids to go after school lets out until parents can get off of work,” Dathan Jones, Big Spring YMCA Director, said. “The good thing about our program is that not only are we offering a safe place for the youth to go after school, but we are supporting them in their education as well. We make sure our youth have their homework done that way when parents come to pick them up they have more time to spend as a family when they get home for the night.”

For the past several years, the YMCA has been offering childcare services for kids between the ages of 18 months and 5 years old. While the childcare area has received physical updates to enhance aesthetics and security, as of Sept. 1, their curriculum has received an update. “Providing a safe place for parents to drop their kids off while they go to work is important to us, but we also want to make sure that the kids in our care are growing and learning while they are here,” Jones said. Childcare Senior Program Director Tonnies Blanco has been working hard, alongside the staff, to implement this new curriculum which offers a focus on math skills, multi-language lessons, reading and social cognitive skills. “To help with the implementation of the new program we have also divided up our age groups, which also helped our country's future," said Jon Deane, CEO of GreatSchools.org. "We commend these award-winning schools for prioritizing college readiness, giving their students opportunities to build the bright futures they deserve. The Award also underscores the need for more states to make post-secondary school-level data publicly available in order to identify successful schools that prepare students for success in school and in life."

Forsan ISD partners with Howard College in offering a core set of dual credit (high school and college credit gained simultaneously) courses. "Forsan High School has had a couple students who went beyond the dual credit classes and took additional college credit classes while in high school which gained those students an associates degree from Howard prior to high school graduation. Most of our students take at least some college classes while in high school. What a confidence builder and a "leg up" for our students as they enter adulthood. I am also very excited about the students who are gaining industry certifications while in high school. Those certifications set them up for jobs that are beyond the normal "entry level" jobs."

Forsan Elementary students in Mrs. Hirt's Class were learning about the letter 'U' last week. The short /u/ sound is a difficult sound to learn, so the class took part in several activities to help the creative kindergarten students remember the sound. Students were tasked with painting a letter 'U' under their tables, linking "under" to the letter U reinforces the /u/ sound. After each of the students had completed the task, the class posed for group pictures showing off their final products. Each of the U's were colorful and uniquely designed and displayed the personalities of the students.

Trump sues for Michigan ballot access, asks Wis. recount

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Trump campaign filed a lawsuit Wednesday in Michigan state court demanding access to locations where ballots are being counted in one of the undecided states that could determine whether President Donald Trump gets another four years in the White House.

The campaign said it is calling for a temporary halt in the counting until it is given "meaningful access" in numerous locations and allowed to review ballots that already have been opened and processed. Trump is running slightly behind Democratic nominee Joe Biden in Michigan.

The campaign also said it would ask for a recount in Wisconsin, a state The Associated Press called for Biden on Wednesday afternoon. Campaign manager Bill Stepien cited "irregularities in several Wisconsin counties."

The actions came as elections officials counted votes in several undecided states that are crucial to the outcome of the presidential election.

The former vice president's campaign meanwhile welcomed the ongoing vote count and a Biden campaign attorney said they are ready for any legal fight. And Michigan Democrats said the suit was a longshot.

Lonnie Scott, executive director of Progress Michigan, a liberal advocacy group, said Trump only filed the suit to stop The Associated Press and other media outlets from calling the race for Biden. "This is a Hail Mary," he said.

Opening lead — jack of diamonds.

A defender cannot allow himself to get so caught up in the rhythm of the play that he loses his overall perspective. West was guilty of such a lapse in today's deal, and as a result, declarer made a contract that might easily have failed.

West led the jack of diamonds against three notrump, won by declarer with the queen as East followed with the discouraging deuce. South finessed the jack of clubs, losing to East's queen, and won the diamond return with the ace.

Declarer led a low club toward dummy, taken by West's ace. West then returned a third diamond to establish his suit while he still had the ace of hearts as an entry.

This defense might have worked nicely on some other deal. But on this occasion, it was just what the doctor ordered for declarer, who ran off four spades and the rest of his clubs to finish with 10 tricks.

Had West taken the time to count declarer's tricks after winning the second club, he would have seen that a diamond return at trick five amounted to a concession. With dummy's clubs now established, and South known to hold the king of diamonds from the earlier diamond plays, it was clear that declarer would collect at least nine tricks after a diamond return.

West should therefore shift to a low heart at trick five, reasoning that the only chance to defeat the contract is to score three immediate heart tricks. This requires that East hold at least the Q-10-x of hearts, certainly not an impossibility even though South bid the suit.

Faced with a heart shift, declarer might well misguess by playing the jack from dummy and quickly find himself down one.

Tomorrow: Bidding quiz.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By HOLIDAY MATHIS

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). The most resilient bonds will be the ones that bring together light things. These that you have already figured out the challenges in the old places and by now have

Context and the Cancer Moon

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Your success formula: Get up, brush yourself off, try again and repeat. Proof that you're living to the limit, the way you always aspire to. Failure isn't falling down. It's staying down.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). What if you knew that all of today would become a fond memory? Could you touch and let go? Tonight, you'll follow this rule of thumb: Be kinder than is necessary.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). They are not offering what you need right now. Stay observant though; there's more to this story. Also, maybe what you have already is perfect for you. Before you look for more, spiff-up the old stuff.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). People who are good at relating to others will show you those skills, and you'll be in a position to decide how much of it is genuine as opposed to having an attached agenda.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). The magic equation: intelligence, diligence and awareness. This will be the combination that separates the crowd. Most will remain within the group, but you will put those that possess this magic in a special place.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). One reason to go to new places is deemed many of them unworthy of your continued attention.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You communicate thoroughly, and this is a gift to all who have the pleasure and privilege of your interaction. It is also important to note that sometimes the most essential messages are communicated through silence.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Controlling people are hard to give gifts. They would rather tell you exactly what they want and are not afraid to relay dissatisfaction when you go outside those parameters, which you totally should because it will be worth the risk.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You'll be adding new friends to the mix, and it's a stellar idea to find ones who are reasonably self-sufficient. The ideal scenario is that you can offer something they want but don't need.

ties are not taxed by the heaviness of the work before them. They will wrap around and adhere because it's the easiest thing to do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Struggling to keep an expired project, dream or relationship alive is much more painful than letting go at the right time. Letting go at the right time requires two things: awareness and hope.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). To be at liberty to curve to your own impulses and expressions is a precious privilege. It's the things you do without the pressure of an audience that will form you in the most authentic way.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Nov. 5). You're ambitious! Ambition can turn deserts into cities, jobs into careers, acquaintances into epic love stories. Ambition can also be something to bear at times, as it comes with the implication of a rejected present. Concentrate on loving what is and adding more to it instead of rejecting what is and changing everything. Gemini and Pisces adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 45, 2, 20 and 16.

COSMIC RELATIONSHIP ALERT: A fear that will crop up as Mercury and Saturn square off is the fear of engulfment. It has to do with being afraid that the person getting too physically and/or emotionally close to us will steal our freedom. Often, people who want to get close don't intend to steal anything at all. Yet, relationships come with expectations, and expectations create invisible structures that can be traps more powerful than any made of ropes and bars. It's a week to check ourselves in relationships. While it's true that most connections cannot thrive without some degree of attention and affection, it is also true that relationships can suffocate without space and acceptance, acknowledgment and support of the other person's autonomy.

Do you fall into a tendency in relationships? Do you give so much that the other person can't possibly keep up? Or do you run from love, interpreting the gift as a pressure and expectation? Pose the question and do an honest assessment. This is the cosmically ideal time to get familiar with the psychological concept of attachment styles.

Husband Mean Since Concussion

Dear Annie: How much can a woman take before she finally gets enough guts to leave? My husband and I are older (60) parents to 19-year-old twins. Things were OK for the first 15 years we were married. Then he got cancer, which was tough. He went through chemo and is now in remission. But two years ago, he fell down a flight of stairs and had trauma to his head, and he has never been the same. He is on disability insurance. I work 50 hours a week.

My youngest twin moved out because my husband is so controlling. For example, she was working late one night to get caught up. She called and said she would be home at 12. At 12:10 a.m., he called her place of employment and demanded she come home, embarrassing her in front of her peers and boss. He calls the other twin lazy, even though she works two jobs. The usual fight between us consists of him calling me fat trash and the worst mistake he had ever made. When I say that I am leaving, he gives me a sob story about how it's his concussion that makes him this way. I want out but can't afford to leave; he controls the money. Am I overreacting? -- Worn-Down Wife

Dear Worn-Down: No. Your husband's behavior is unacceptable. The name-calling and constant insults constitute verbal abuse. If leaving feels like the healthiest option for you, then I encourage you to do so.

This situation is complicated, though, by the fact that his personality only changed after he suffered the trauma to his head. It is true that concussions can have lasting effects on one's brain functioning. There are some treatments that can help with this.

Neuropsychologist Dr. Celeste Campbell notes, it "is not unusual for the person with a brain injury and/or his or her family to need some counseling or therapy to understand this new identity, personality, and emotional reaction style." Campbell says that the person who suffered the traumatic brain strategy may learn strategies to "better express emotions, avoid those situations likely to be particularly frustrating, read signs of emotional distress, and react in a calmer manner to emotionally charged situations." You and your husband might want to talk to his doctor about potential treatment plans toward this end. If your husband is willing to seek that help, perhaps your life together can be manageable again. I'm sorry that you've had such a difficult few years, and my heart goes out to you and your girls.

Dear Annie: Here in my hometown, several women's groups at parishes knit weatherproof mats for the homeless from donated "plarn" -- i.e., plastic yarn, from recycled plastic grocery bags. They are good for the person, as they keep them dry and can be rolled up and carried with an attached handle. It takes about 600 bags to make one mat. If you are a knitter, then maybe you can make one of these mats yourself. Besides helping your fellow man, you are keeping these bags out of landfills. Instruction videos for making these can be found on YouTube.

If you're not a knitter, then you can still help with the process by making "plarn" and donating it to local groups that are making mats. There are instructional videos online for how to make the plarn, too. It's very simple. I make the plarn as I sit and watch TV in the evening. It makes the time go by, and you are helping others from the safety of your own home. -- Plarner

Dear Plarner: I had never heard of this endeavor before. What a smart idea. Thanks for writing!

FRIDAY NIGHT UNDER THE LIGHTS

Big Spring beginning preparation for Bi-District game against El Paso Riverside

Following a shortened, seven-game 2020 season in a strange year that has caused many scheduling changes, the Big Spring Steers are heading to the postseason once again. Big Spring finished third in District 3-4A and they will face El Paso Riverside (4-1, 3-1) who finished in second-place of District 1-4A next Friday night in Pecos.

The Steers lost their Bi-District playoff game in Pecos last year to El Paso Mountain View 42-36. This year, the Steers are an improved overall team that are led by the playmaking ability of junior quarterback Gabriel Baeza on offense and the versatility of their hard-hitting linebackers on defense.

Big Spring has started their preparation for El Paso Riverside this week but are mostly taking their Bye Week as a chance to work on themselves, get healthy, and begin developing their gameplan.

“We’ve starting to work on our gameplan and we’re slowly implementing it while also pulling back a little bit,” Head Coach Cannon McWilliams said. “On Monday, we watched the film on Lake View and we’ve hit the field the past two days to get ready for next week and to get our legs back so we can feel as fresh as possible and as ready as possible for next Friday night.”

Big Spring is coming off of a big district win over San Angelo Lake View to finish the regular season and will be trying to replicate their strong offensive performance from that game the next time they hit the gridiron under the lights. After a rough first six games on the ground, running back Orlando Sanchez was able to have a breakout game last week with 93 yards on 12 carries. If the Steers are able to scheme up another gameplan - and the offensive line puts together another strong performance - then that will allow the talented big back to break into the second-level of the defense and possibly get free for a few big gains like he had last Friday night.

Bulldogs set sights on Abernathy following loss to Lubbock Roosevelt last Friday

By SHAWN MORAN

Coahoma (6-2, 2-2) is moving on from a close loss to a tough Lubbock Roosevelt team last Friday night and will be looking to get back on track this Friday night in Abernathy.

The Bulldogs will continue the toughest stretch of their 2020 schedule with a season finale against the Antelopes (6-3, 3-1) in a contest that could have crucial seeding implications for the postseason. Head Coach Chris Joslin knows that in order for his team to take care of business, they first need to focus on how they can limit their own miscues.

“We need to take care of ourselves. We need to quit making the mistakes, which are the turnovers and the penalties at crucial times. I feel like if we can do that, we’ll be in the ballgame,” Joslin said.

The Bulldogs will face an Abernathy team that has defeated them each of the past two seasons and outscored Coahoma by a total score of 76-7 in those games. That has not deterred the Bulldogs from heading into this matchup with a positive attitude and the mindset that they can win the game.

Coahoma currently sits fourth in the district, but could make their way all the way up to second with a win and a few other results going their way. They have already locked up their spot in the playoffs but a win could help even more.

Forsan’s last district title in football came back in 2015. The most recent district title before that came all the way back in the 1980’s.

With a win this Friday night over Hawley, and a few other factors going their way, the Buffaloes could pick up their second district title in the past six seasons. It will not be an easy feat to complete, but the entire Forsan program is excited for the opportunity.

“It’s not like we have football district championships around here every year, so I think all of the kids are very excited. They realize the task that we have in front of us, and it’s going to be a tough game on the road. I think we’re up for the challenge. We’re playing with confidence and with a little bit of a chip on our shoulders because of how we’ve been overlooked,” Head Coach Jason Phillips said.

Forsan is led by their strong running back duo of Nate Hernandez and Chris Mendez, and Phillips knows that a big game from both of them would be pivotal towards a win on Friday. Each of them has recently had big games (Mendez had 173 yards and three scores against Haskell while Hernandez had 129 yards and three touchdowns last week), and the Forsan offensive line will be working to get both backs over 100 yards.

“It would be awesome to get both of them going,” Phillips said. “You throw in Major and Sawyer to that group, too. The good thing about our offense right now is we have several guys who can get big yards.”

Players of the Week

GABRIEL BAEZA

The junior quarterback lit up the field last Friday night when he passed for 242 yards and three touchdowns. He also led the Steers on the ground by adding 102 yards and two more touchdowns to his game total. Baeza has proven to be unfazed by mistakes he makes (he also threw three interceptions) and is able to bounce-back with a short memory. The play of the game was a 46-yard Hail Mary touchdown pass he completed to end the first half.

RICKY ESCOVEDO

The hard-hitting hybrid line-backer made his presence felt from sideline-to-sideline last Friday night against San Angelo Lake View. Escovedo finished third on the team with nine total tackles and added one tackle for a loss. He also came up with an interception for the Steers on a night where the defense played hard-nosed all night long. Maverick Yanez also grabbed an interception for the Steers and those two turnovers were crucial towards a Big Spring win.

BRYSEN KERBY

Brysen Kerby once again performed like the best player on the field last Friday night at home against a tough Lubbock Roosevelt team. The junior rushed 23 times for 124 yards and two touchdowns. He also took his one and only reception of the game 52 yards to the house for another Bulldog touchdown. Kerby has now rushed for over 1,200 yards and 21 touchdowns so far this season with one game left to play.

PATRICK GUTIERREZ

Patrick Gutierrez was a one-man wrecking ball on defense last week. The Coahoma Bulldog outside linebacker led the team with a jaw-dropping 18 total tackles. One of those was behind the line of scrimmage on a night where it was tough to get to the Eagles in the backfield. There were a handful of Bulldogs that finished with double-digit tackles and defensive back Sean Striegler was able to grab an interception.

MAJOR STOCKTON

Forsan's new solidified starting quarterback played great in his dual-threat signal-caller role by passing and rushing for over 100 yards apiece. He connected on a touchdown pass to Joshua Cervantes for a 43-yard score and his great command of the offense helped the Buffaloes steamroll Stamford on their way to a 42-14 win last Friday night. Running back Nate Hernandez also had a big game by rushing for 129 yards and three touchdowns. On defense, Michael Stilwell led the Buffaloes in tackles and was making plays all over the field. Ernesto Rivera and Colten Wallis added two more sacks to their season total, both Cayden Morgan and Paul Evans (one sack) were able to grab interceptions and the Forsan defense played lights out as a unit. All of those players were instrumental towards a potential big win over Hawley this Friday night on the road.

STEERS

On the other side of the ball, the Steers will have their hands full with a team that was able to put up big points through their first four games of the season. Their only loss was last week to Clint, who was able to limit the Rangers to only 13 points en route to a close 14-13 win.

Was there anything that McWilliams saw from Clint’s defense that his staff plans to use next Friday night in Pecos?

“Oh, yes. But I’m going to have to keep those in-house,” McWilliams joked.

Both of these teams have offenses with the potential to put up a lot of points and also the ability to score quickly. The Rangers are led by a sophomore quarterback (Angel Munoz) and a sophomore running back (Jose Guardado) who account for most of Riverside’s production on offense. McWilliams is confident that defensive coordinator Brad Harman and the rest of the defensive staff are putting together a strong plan that will help the Steers advance to the Area round of the postseason for the first time since 2018.

“They’ve got a good quarterback and running back and they have some speed, so hopefully we can keep them in front of us. They play more of a spread-style offense to run the ball so we’re going to throw them some different looks to keep them in front of us. On offense, we’re just going to continue to do what we do and if we can continue to execute, then I feel like we have a good chance at winning a gold football next Friday.”

BULLDOGS

“If they told you in August of every year that your destiny would be in your own hands the last week of the season, you’ll take that every time. The approach we’re taking is that we don’t have to rely on anyone else, just ourselves, and we’re going to go out and play the best we can,” Joslin said.

Abernathy is coming into the game following wins over Lubbock Roosevelt and Stanton in back-to-back weeks. Their only district loss of the season was to the powerhouse and undefeated Idalou Wildcats. The Antelopes are led by a strong junior quarterback in Jess Hoel who leads them in both passing and rushing.

The Antelopes run a different defense than Coahoma is used to facing this year so there will be a few new wrinkles added to the offense to try to counter those new looks. Abernathy defensive back Sean Rodriguez has five interceptions this season and any Coahoma passing attempt aimed in his direction will need to be accurate and decisive.

If the Bulldogs are able to pull off a big win against an opponent that has gotten the better of them each of the past two years, it would surely be a boost to Coahoma heading into the Bi-District round of the playoffs next Friday night.

“They’ve had a good program over there for a while. It would be a big confidence-booster to win going into the playoffs. Whatever happens, we’re glad to be in this spot that we’re in right now already knowing that we’re in the playoffs, because not very many people gave us a chance at the beginning of the season. That’s a tribute to our kids coming out ready to play every week,” Joslin said.

Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m. in Abernathy.

On the other hand, the Buffaloes will be trying to limit any big gains by the Bearcats on Friday night. Phillips is satisfied with the way his defense has performed and progressed as the season has gone along, and will be looking for another strong game from the defense after they have limited their opponents to just 28 points the last two weeks.

Hawley primarily runs the ball and run an offense that is comparable to Forsan’s. The Bearcats’ sophomore running back Austin Cumpton will be the player to watch for most, as he has already rushed for over 1,200 yards (1,215) and 16 touchdowns on the ground.

“We have to do a good job defensively with our front seven maintaining our gaps and being great tacklers. We also will be trying to control the line of scrimmage. I think we match up pretty well with them,” Phillips said.

Hawley’s defense has shown a knack for meeting their opponents in the backfield and forcing turnovers this season. If Forsan can overpower them with their big, physical offensive line and also control the line of scrimmage on defense - the Buffs could very well be the 2020 District 3-2A Champions.
