Does anybody have a room, an apartment or a house to rent? Lorraine is catching the overflow from the Snyder oil boom along with a natural growth and needs a lot of apartments to take care of the people who want to live here. Most every day we have from one to three or four people looking for a place to live. We have to tell them we know of nothing.

There are several places in town where the owner could be making some extra revenue by preparing a bedroom or an apartment. If they would do it would relieve the situation to some extent. What is really needed is for someone to build several small apartment houses.

Children follow the examples set by older people. If older people set the example of holding raffish to raise money for any cause it is natural for the children to resort to the unlawful practice when they want to raise money for school activities and such.

We are not condemning the children—they are following the leadership of the American Legion and the Lions Club for both organizations have held lotteries in the past. Adults are to be held accountable for lotteries in school.

It is the duty of schools to teach children to be law abiding citizens, to conform cheerfully to the government of the country in which they live. It is not lawful to conduct a lottery for any purpose in the United States therefore school officials who permit any school organization to conduct a lottery are not leading the children in the path to good citizenship.

No person can be a good citizen and violate the laws of the land openly or otherwise.

Recent Bride Given Gift Shower

A gift shower honoring Mrs. J. D. McGuire, the former Doris Hays, was given in the home of Mrs. G. C. Martin Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Martin welcomed guests and invited them to the dining room where Mrs. Forest Faulkenberry served punch and cake squares from the last laid table.

The Halloween theme was used in decorations for the house; napkins, favors and other decorations.

Games were directed by Mrs. James Bennett and Mrs. Bennett Blair. Gifts were presented Mrs. McGuire in large Halloween decorated boxes.

Miss Doris Peterson presided at the brides book.

NORTH LORRAINE H. D. CLUB

The North Lorraine Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. M. C. Bynum Wednesday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Jack Linam, gave a report of the State H. D. meeting at Wichita Falls. Reports from such meetings really give facts that prove the great value of H. D. work throughout the state and nation.

Plans were made for an all day meeting to be held at the Lions Den November 3, starting at 10 a. m. to make aluminum trays. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon. Visitors are cordially invited to be present to observe this work.

Club members attending the annual H. D. meeting in Colorado City on October 20 were Mrs. Jack Linam, Alva Bennett, Loyd Brame, J. E. Price, and Jim Johnson. This meeting was for the purpose of giving annual reports and showed that there was a great variety of better home making projects being carried out in the county.

On October 29 a bake sale and rummage sale will be held by the North Lorraine Club for the benefit of H. D. Council funds.

Mrs. Linam served refreshments to nine club members, one new member and two visitors.

Guests of Mrs. Gertrude Peterson Monday were Mr. and Mrs. David Collier and family and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Collier and family of Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Yarbrough and Jerry, and Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Collier and Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Webb of China Grove were guests of Mrs. Gertrude Peterson Tuesday.

Doris Butler Honored With Parties

Miss Doris Butler, bride-elect of Harry Dockrey, has been named honoree at several lovely pre-nuptial parties during the past week.

Wednesday night, October 19, Miss Lillian Pond entertained with a Mexican supper and surprise kitchen shower in the form of a treasure hunt. The clues were found in a booklet entitled "The Bride's Garden of Verses," and Miss Butler found her gifts by following the clues. Guests included Misses Mildred Mann, Hettie Hutchinson, Mary Logan, Verdie Lee Mize, Lella Roddy, Cleo Pritchett, Erna Lou Merrill and Mesdames Kirby Rice, Joe Reeder, Johnny Moore, and the honoree and hostess.

Saturday morning Miss Merrill and Mrs. Moore complimented Miss Butler at a coffee in the Merrill home. Orchid asters in a crystal bowl and tall pink tapers in crystal holders decorated the dining table which was set with the silver coffee service and silver bowls containing glazed grapes, chilled pineapple tidbits, and pecan rolls. Miss Lillian Pond poured for the following guests: Mesdames Bill Brown, Joe Reeder, Bill Cooper, Charles Godwin, Kirby Rice, and Misses Minnie Strain, Mary Logan, Lella Roddy, Gypsy Ted McCollum, the honoree and hostesses.

Miss Gypsy McCollum, Mrs. Harold Johnson, and Miss Eloise Cooper entertained with a rummy party and paper shower Monday night in honor of the named bride-elect in the home of Miss McCollum in Lorraine. The party rooms were decorated with beautiful chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. The centerpiece for the dining table was a miniature bride and groom set on a pedestal holding the cord that hung from a large wedding bell suspended from the ceiling. Each guest wrote a line to the Courtship Story of Miss Butler and Mr. Dockrey which was read by Miss McCollum. The honoree was then asked to follow a cord that fell along the walls of the party rooms which led her to her treasure of many useful paper gifts.

The guest list included Misses Verdie Lee Mize, Helen Bennett, Minnie Strain, Margaret Leath, Erna Lou Merrill, Laverne Henderson, Joyce Glass, Lillian Pond, Lella Roddy, Ray Ann Hamm, Cleo Pritchett, Mary Logan and Mesdames Joe Reeder, L. A. Strain, Oren Moore, Truett Butler, the honoree and hostesses.

Honored On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Graham were honored with a surprise party Saturday night, October 22, the date of their 17th wedding anniversary. The party was hosted by their children. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Luther Anders, Mr. and Mrs. Worth Bruce and sons Byron and Ronald.

Games of flinch and 42 entertained the guests. Refreshments of candy, coffee and punch were served.

Pink Robertson of Midland spent Tuesday with his mother, Mrs. Ruby Robertson.

J. A. Faulkenberry, Jr. and family of Lamesa and Jack Griffin and family of Big Spring were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Faulkenberry, Sr. Sunday.

Mrs. J. D. Sheffield spent from Sunday until Tuesday with her sisters in Tuscola and Abilene and attended the Iceland performance at Abilene Monday night.

Mmes. W. R. Martin, Marion Mahon, G. K. Baker and Roy Baird attended the Iceland show in Abilene Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Green and son Roy Clay of Plainview spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hughes. Little Roy Clay remained to spend this week with his grandparents while the Greens are on a vacation trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Neff spent Tuesday and Wednesday with Mrs. Dennis Cranfill and Jimmy at Odessa.

Enrollment Up In Lorraine School

Enrollment in the Lorraine Public Schools reached 403 at the close of the seventh week this year as compared to 368 at the close of the same week last year. This increased enrollment, however, has been partially offset by the number of absences due to the heavy demands for hands in the cotton fields. There has been more total absences this year than last and the increase will not be reflected at the close of the year as greatly as it would have been if it had been possible to maintain a high percentage of attendance.

The figure of 403 for total enrollment was not reached last school year until the end of the 19th week or January 29. If the same trend is followed this year the enrollment at the close of the school year should reach approximately 475 which is considerably more than has been enrolled in the Lorraine school for the past 20 years (only years for which records are readily available) and possibly many more than have ever been enrolled in the Lorraine schools with the exception of the year 1943-44 at which time the enrollment almost reached the expected peak of this year by reaching 470.

There is still tremendous need for co-operation from the patrons in the fight to maintain a high average daily attendance since the number of teachers a school is allowed to employ is based upon the number of pupils enrolled in school the preceding year. Our school is allowed to employ one teacher for every 24 pupils in average daily attendance in addition to a Vocational Agriculture, Home-making teacher and Superintendent. The increased enrollment has forced the school to employ one additional teacher above that allotted by the State this year and with continued increased enrollment classes will become increasingly crowded necessitating adding additional teachers next year and the only way that the school will be able to draw State money to pay the salary of additional teachers is to earn these additional units by increasing the attendance.

An urgent plea is extended by Gilbert Parish, School Superintendent, and the School Board to each and every parent to make every effort possible to help their children get to school every day that health will permit. Officials of the school have understood the farm labor problem this year and have attempted to co-operate by shortening the school day and taking up early so as to release the school pupils in time to be quite a bit of help in the fields but would like to encourage more parents to send their children to school on days that the weather will not permit going to the fields. This action will assist in keeping up the attendance figure but even greater still is the advantage gained by the pupils through enabling them to stay closer to the children that have not had to stay out of school.

Former Lorraine Man Dies At Corpus

Funeral services for A. M. (Buster) Dunnahoo, 37, were held at Corpus Christi Monday afternoon.

Mr. Dunnahoo died of a heart attack Saturday night. He had been in ill health for several months.

He was reared in Lorraine and was a graduate of Lorraine High School. He married Miss Ethel Mae Murphree of Colorado City and they moved to Corpus Christi 14 years ago.

He is survived by his wife and 7 children and one brother, Alphonzo Dunnahoo of Lorraine, and one sister, Mrs. G. W. Perry of Corpus Christi.

Mrs. W. B. Martin spent Sunday and Monday in the home of Mrs. J. W. Hunt in Abilene visiting her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. David Hunt, there for the week end from Dallas.

Mrs. W. J. Coon spent last week with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Dorn, at Colorado City.

Week End Rain Slows Gathering

Rain fell in abundance over the week end starting with a flurry Thursday night that left little moisture in this territory, and was resumed on Saturday night and Sunday most of the night and day. Total amount of moisture received in town was 1.80 inches.

Although the rain did some damage to open cotton especially where it had been blown out onto the ground, the moisture will be of great value to small grain and winter pastures.

Cotton pullers have been out of the field for several days so gins have been idle.

Rain for this year up to Oct. 25, as measured in the government gage here in town by J. W. King, volunteer weather observer, has amounted to 21.50 inches. Divided into the months the moisture received in each follows: January 2.50; February 1.90; March 4.0; April 4.50; May 6.10; June .60; July .20; August .20; September 2.90; October 2.20.

BULLDOGS LOSE TO ROBERT LEE FRIDAY

The Lorraine Bulldogs lost to a more powerful Robert Lee team at Robert Lee last Friday night 30 to 0 to make it their second conference loss of the season.

Bronte will be in Lorraine Friday night of this week and the Bulldogs hope they will be able to come through with a win.

HOSTS TACKY PARTY

Rev. and Mrs. Wayland Boyd hosted a tacky party Thursday night for members of the Young Peoples Training Union.

After games were played a vote was taken to determine the tackiest couple and Donald Gene Black and Bettie Horton were voted the tackiest.

Refreshments of cake and ice cream were served.

Those present were Laverne Henderson, Betty Horton, Homer Lucas, Bobbie Ray Linder, Donald Gene Black and Mrs. Evert Henderson.

Tax Discount Offered By School In Oct.

Many people in the Lorraine School District have taken advantage of the discount offered for paying school taxes during the month of October. This discount will continue through Monday of next week, after which time there will be no more discount allowed, according to Gilbert Parish, Superintendent.

Of a total of $20,419.67 in taxes on the rolls of the Lorraine Independent School District there has been $9,337.78 paid to date or above 45% of the total. This early payment has earned for the taxpayers of the district a saving in taxes of over $285.00.

The discount for early payment of taxes is allowed to encourage payment during the month of October to enable the school to secure money to operate on without resorting to borrowing and the accompanying "red tape" necessary to securing such loans through Board action. Interest on the money, if borrowed, would amount to a little less than the amount of the discount, according to Mr. Parish.

HOSTS CLASS PARTY

Mrs. John Horton and Mrs. Wright Hock entertained the Ready Sunday School class at the Horton home Thursday afternoon at three o'clock.

Mrs. Tom Ray, class teacher, brought the devotional after which Mrs. Wayland Boyd directed games during the social hour.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cheese twists, dream bar cookies, coffee and hot chocolate were served to Mesdames Price Hall, Ed Small, Kenneth Butler, Tony Snyder, Tom Ray, Jack Richey, Howard Tartt, Woodrow Pratt, and Wayland Boyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Beights attended the McMurry ACC football game at Abilene Saturday night and remained over for the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Willard Groom. Little Willard Groom returned with them and is spending the week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Beights.

Howard Hooker Buried Monday

Funeral services were held at the Baptist Church Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock for Howard Wayne Hooker, 64, with the Rev. J. E. Shewbert of Colorado City and the Rev. S. H. Salley officiating. T. J. Riden had charge of the song service.

Howard Wayne Hooker was born in Johnson County, Texas, September 21, 1885, and departed this life at Lorraine, Texas, October 23, 1949.

He was married to Miss Laura Richards at Roscoe on August 19, 1924. He was a member of the Methodist Church. Mr. Hooker was a prominent farmer of this community and had lived here about 50 years.

He is survived by his wife, two sisters and one brother: Mrs. Ette Cranfill, Lorraine, Mrs. Stella Bodine, Buford, and Hall Hooker of Corpus Christi.

Burial was in the Lorraine Cemetery with Kiker and Son in charge.

Pallbearers were H. G. Cranfill, D. L. Cranfill, Truman Bodine, Hamer Bodine, Johnnie Robison, Sam Robison, Jimmy Robison and Lee Furgurson.

Out of town relatives attending the funeral were D. L. Cranfill, Odessa; Mrs. Luther Dennis, Waco; Milton Yator, Mr. and Mrs. Whit Yator, and Landon Yator, all of Big Spring; H. F. Hooker, Fort Worth; Mrs. J. C. Hooker, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hughes and Mrs. Artie Porterfield, Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Robison, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Robison, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Robison, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Furgurson, all of San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Dee Pinkston of Pioneer; and Mrs. Earlene Burgess of Cisco.

Lions Hosts To Boy Scouts Tuesday Noon

Members of Troop 24 Boy Scouts of America, were guests of the Lions Club Tuesday at noon and gave a demonstration on first aid. Claude Woods is Scoutmaster.

The Lions Club voted to give the proceeds from the Donkey baseball game recently to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Elliott to assist them during their misfortune. The amount was $40.50.

The date for the annual Lions Club Carnival was set for Saturday, November 12. The carnival is held each year to raise funds for all activities of the club for the year.

The club also voted to assist the city in financing the curb and gutter work on Main Street. The street is to be paved from the highway to the city limit on the south by the highway department as a part of the farm to market road to be built in the near future.

CUB SCOUTS MEET

The Cub Scouts met Monday night with Cub Mother, Mrs. Varnell Templeton. All took part in singing Hall, Hall, the Gangs All Here, When We All Get Together and America. Games of stage coach turnover and dog and bone were played.

Those present were Billy Dale Blair, Joe and Don Templeton, Elmer Miles, Leslie Joe Parish, Billy Dean Walker, Jerry Lynn Woods, Sammy Salley, Den Chief Henry Salley, and assistant chief John Miles. Visitors were Larry Phillips, Jerry Templeton and Kenneth Harris.

Refreshments of pop corn, marshmallows and cookies were served.

Eldon Mearse of Sweetwater is spending a weeks vacation here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mearse. His friend, Jerry Teston of Sweetwater was a visitor in the Mearse home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Collier and children have moved to Lorraine from Odessa.

F. M. Sweet, Mrs. Ella Porter Mrs. Ben Bowlin and Delmas and Weldon McCollum were visitors in Abilene Wednesday.

J. H. Payne of Ballard, Texas, spent Tuesday night with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Willis.

Robert Hackfeld Wins Fair Award

Dallas, Oct. 19. (Special)—Winner of the first and second place premium awards in the Junior Swine Show division of the Junior Livestock Show of the 1949 State Fair of Texas was an animal entered by Robert Hackfeld of Lorraine, Texas.

The Junior Livestock Show was the largest in the history of the Fair, with 1603 steers, fat barrows, lambs and dairy heifers entered, an increase of more than 50 per cent over last year.

A total of 650 farm boys and girls representing 73 county 4-H Clubs, 80 Future Farmer chapters and 12 Negro 4-H and New Farmer groups from 156 of the 254 counties of Texas took part.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Elmer Johnson hosted a dinner Sunday honoring her little niece, Peggy Hancock, and Mrs. Howard Combs on their birthday.

The dinner, consisting of chicken and dressing and all trimmings, was served at noon. The large birthday cake held the three candles for Peggy's age.

Others present were Mr. Combs, Doyle and Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson and Elmer Johnson.

Mrs. J. B. Carlock returned to her home in Gilmer, Texas, Friday after being here with her mother, Mrs. O. D. Britton, who is ill. Mrs. Annie Walding of Colorado City is here with her mother.

Jimmy Parish and Sonny Johnson spent the week end with their grandmother, Mrs. L. L. Medlock, in Roscoe.

Insemination Program Operating

By Frank King
The Mitchell County Artificial Insemination Association began its actual breeding program on October 24, when a shipment of sperm was due to arrive from the dairy herd of Texas Tech College at Lubbock. There are six top bulls in the herd that are available to dairymen in the county, three Jersey and three Holstein. One of these bulls was bought at a cost of $15,000. Another of the bulls has improved the production of his daughters over their dams by an average of 1,492 pounds of milk per year. All of these bulls are proven sires and are registered in the Registry of Merit.

The procedure for Mitchell County dairymen to follow in order to obtain the services of these bulls is very simple. At the time when service is required, telephone Mr. Ed Roach, the technician for the Association. His phone number is 683-W-2. Tell him the location of your place and the type of sperm required, either Jersey or Holstein. This is all that is required.

The price of service is very reasonable. Your cows may be mated to these high index bulls at a charge of $8.00 per head for non-members of the Association and $6.00 per head for members. Membership fee is $5.00 and can be paid to Corley Rogers, president of the Association, or to Frank King at the Lorraine Co-operative Association office.

HOST CLUB
Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Pratt were hosts at three tables of bridge Tuesday night when they entertained the bridge club.

A sandwich plate with banana nut cake and coffee was served to Messrs and Mesdames John Hamblen, Glen Coon, H. E. Thomas, Dale Johnson, and Mesdames Jack Coffee and Bruce Johnson.

Refreshments of banana pudding with whipped cream and iced tea were served to Mesdames W. I. Barron, S. E. Brown, T. F. Finley, G. A. Hutchins, Cora Hall, J. D. McDonald, Glen Coon, Tom Ray, Frank Johnson, Doyle Hester, K. L. Taylor, Wade Preston, and two guests, Mrs. R. D. Leffevre and Mrs. J. L. Pratt.

The program was closed with prayer by Mrs. Mahoney.

ENTERTAINS CLUB

Mrs. Tom Bennett entertained the Sewing Club Wednesday afternoon. Visiting and hand work was enjoyed.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Harvest This Year Second Largest In U.S. History, Government Says; Reds Purge Czech Property-Owners

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the newspaper.)

HARVEST:
Second Largest

America's horn of plenty continued to go all out in its production of food for the world.

Latest crop summary of the U.S. department of agriculture showed that good harvest weather would assure the nation of its second largest volume of crops in history, topped only by the record-breaking haul of 1948.

Equally important was the fact that a record supply of corn was on tap for producing meat, dairy and poultry products.

The month of September brought conditions sufficiently favorable to boost total production prospects 1 per cent, despite a slight decline in the corn estimate. Total crop volume was indicated at 131 per cent of the 1923-1932 base level, second only to last year's 137 per cent.

However, present indications are that this may be the last year for some time that crop production reaches such astronomical heights. As surpluses were mounting almost alarmingly, the government was preparing to take action to reduce output next year.

There was every likelihood that market quotas would be slipped on some of the basic crops which have been overflowing into storage in recent years.

THIS YEAR'S huge output is the result of fairly large production of most individual crops, rather than record-breaking yields of just a few.

Nearly 128 million tons of livestock-feed grains are being produced this year, including a corn crop of about 3.47 billion bushels. Last year's corn crop of 3.65 billion bushels set an all-time record.

The 36.5 billion tons of food grains now estimated, though exceeded in each of the past three seasons, is greater than in any earlier year. Included in this figure is a bumper wheat crop of 1.12 billion bushels, virtually all of which has been harvested.

CONGRESS:
Half a Loaf

The first session of the 81st congress headed toward an October adjournment with less than half of President Truman's program written into law.

THE PRESIDENT could count 15 major accomplishments, by his reckoning, at least, on the part of the congress he helped ride into office last November.

Left as unfinished business for the 1950 congressional campaign, however, were a number of highly controversial proposals among the 22 requests that Mr. Truman had laid before the present session without getting final action.

Chief among these is the Taft-Hartley act repeal, which was turned down in both houses during this session. The President undoubtedly will revive the issue in January, and the outcome this time may depend upon how some special elections this year to fill senate and house vacancies turn out.

SOME OF THE other requests which Mr. Truman is almost sure to re-introduce early next year will be for a system of compulsory health insurance, civil rights legislation, standby price-wage controls and the passage of "Point 4" legislation to guarantee U.S. support in developing backward areas of the world.

PAY BOOST:
For Cabinet

There was good news for cabinet members, who have been plugging along at the same old salary ever since 1925.

A joint senate-house conference managed to arrive at an agreement to boost cabinet members' salaries from $15,000 to $22,500 a year.

THE CONGRESSIONAL group also approved pay raises for some 200 other top-drawer federal officials—at a cost of $1,087,000 annually.

In addition to raising cabinet salaries, the pay bill will:

GRANT Undersecretary of Defense Steve Early $20,000 a year instead of $14,500, and the armed-services secretaries $18,000 a year instead of $14,000.

Most of the undersecretaries of the various departments will go up from $10,330 to $17,500. J. Edgar Hoover, who, as head of the FBI, now receives $14,000 will get a raise to $18,000.

IGNORANCE COSTLY

Story of $200-Bills Trips Up Gambler

It was not the first case where unfamiliarity with big money had tripped up an individual who was attempting to finance with it, but navy petty officer James G. Stratton, New York, might have made his story stick had he known more about money when he reported to police he'd been robbed. He said a tall, thin, mustachioed man held a knife to his back and took $21,500

Witness

Admiral Arthur W. Radford took the stand before the house armed services committee to testify that current defense plans and military setup relegate the navy to a role "useless and inadequate" in the event of an atomic war.

CZECH PURGE:
Slow Terror

Slow terror, the kind that eventually is born in persons living under any totalitarian government, was seeping through Communist Czechoslovakia.

Cause of it was a Red purge, aimed primarily at supposed bourgeois elements, but leaving no man—he he a Communist party member or not—free from the fear that he may become a victim sooner or later.

UNCONFIRMED reports of the total seized or marked for arrest in the Communist police roundups ranged between 30,000 and 40,000. No information was being given, either as to causes, results or any other details of the widespread arrests.

The pattern of the purge was clear. Landlords, architects, confectioners and other small shopkeepers were being picked up and their business confiscated. In some cases, their apartments were seized and families dispossessed.

In the main, it was a drive against Czechoslovakia's property classes, theoretically the mortal enemies of Marxist communism.

HOWEVER, the prosecution of the property owners was accompanied throughout Bohemia and Moravia by purges of government employees, the clergy, army and even the Communist ranks.

Charges, where there were any, ranged from high treason and sympathy with Titoism or "western imperialism" to simple denunciations by snoots who had overheard suspicious bits of conversation.

Possible hint as to the reason behind the purge was the report that the government is having trouble not only in its campaign to control the Roman Catholic church, but also its efforts to prod higher production out of the workers.

CHINESE REDS:
Win Diplomats

Was it a case of rats deserting a sinking ship?

That might have been a plausible construction of the move as Chinese diplomatic staff members in Paris deserted to the Communist regime at Peking and called on Chinese diplomats throughout the world to follow their example.

GEORGE MONG, counselor of the Paris embassy, made the announcement. He reported that 11 diplomats, eight from the embassy and three from the consulate had walked out on Chiang Kai-shek and the Nationalist government at Canton.

The development posed a problem for the French foreign ministry's Asiatic affairs section. They were particularly concerned by the threat of a rebel sit-in at the embassy. However, the issue was resolved when the French moved firmly to back up the Nationalists and struck the disloyal Chinese envoys off its diplomatic list.

THE FRENCH difficulty was clear. While Paris still recognized the Nationalist government, it was becoming increasingly apparent that the western powers eventually may recognize the Communist regime of Mao Tse-tung. Already there have been conversations on that subject.

BURLY:

U.S. Likes Quotas

The government took first steps toward continuing existing rigid marketing controls on burley tobacco amid calls by agriculture secretary Charles Brannan for another three-year control program and for views by interested persons on the question.

BRANNAN'S REQUEST for the three-year extension of control on the burley crops stemmed from the fact that this year's prospective production of about 590 million pounds is well above the current annual rate of disappearance.

The leftover of burley on October 1, the beginning of the 1949-crop marketing year, was estimated at 970 million pounds—about 7.5 per cent above that of a year ago. It was the highest on record.

Brannan, in asking for expressions of views by interested persons, was acting under requirements of the law. The question is expected to be submitted to a referendum in December. Approval by at least two thirds of those voting would be required.

QUOTAS for the 1947, 1948 and 1949 crops were voted in 1946. Brannan is also required by law to proclaim quotas by December 1 if he finds there is a surplus within terms of the law, and there would be few who would not concede that a surplus exists.

BIG STEEL:

Try, Try Again

The government was pledged to do its best to bring peace into the steel industry.

MORE AND MORE meetings had been arranged in an effort to end the deadlock between workers and operators. Cyrus Ching, U. S. conciliator director, made the first peace move in the extended strike when he arranged informal meetings with steel companies and the striking CIO United Steelworkers.

Both sides had been holding doggedly to their pre-strike positions—the union for company-paid insurance and pensions recommended by a presidential board, and the industry for welfare benefits with workers helping to foot the bill.

SOME COMPANIES had agreed to accept the union terms, but this did not mean strike's end.

The stakes were big in the contest. Where big steel went there would go most of U. S. industry, inasmuch as steel usually sets the pattern in wage and labor negotiations.

NAVY:

Blue Fading

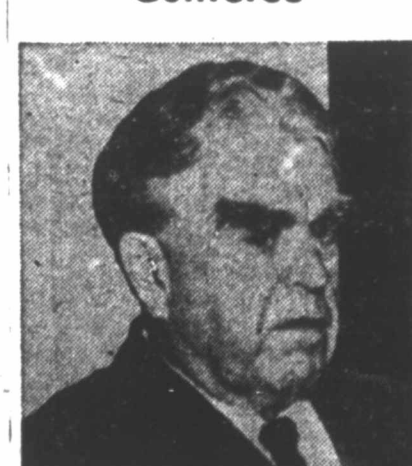

The man with the charming smile, the iron will and a weakness for salt water and blue uniforms was no longer in the White House. Top man in U. S. government, instead, was a hard-bitten captain of artillery in World War I, an army enthusiast with little in common with sailors.

THUS THE NAVY, embattled against a horde of critics, detractors, and air-minded big brass was literally fighting for its life before congress. The battle dragged on and on, while the huge B-36, world's largest bomber, shook and bumped about in the verbal hurricane raging in Washington.

The U. S. air force, for the moment, at least, held the center of the stage, seemed assured of most support. The navy, according to one witness, would be relegated to the status of a convoy force if present unification plans for the armed services were carried out.

Hitting out viciously at the air force, the navy declared building of the B-36 was an inexcusable waste of taxpayer money, claimed the big ship could never do the job expected of it, argued and fought for a chance at a duel between the navy and the bomber.

BENEFITS:

For War I Vets

President Truman signed into law a bill increasing disability and dependence payments to World War I veterans by an estimated 112 million dollars annually. Among its major provisions were:

Provide full compensation, instead of 75 per cent, for veterans whose disability is presumed to have resulted from war service. Increase the length of time for which payments may be made.

I Love You, Adore You—Will You Divorce Me? . . . AND BEST MAN AT DIVORCE TRIALS

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MY HUSBAND and I are parting on the friendliest terms. I am very sorry to say we have been parted for some time," said a charming star of the stage and screen the other day. The mood was that of numerous recent divorce announcements. What's become of the old-fashioned couple who used to part with the crash of pots and pans, mutual cries of "See you!" and a stern demand from the cops: "Make way for the wagon. They're both all cut up!" In Hollywood a husband announcing that he is through with his bride says, "she is a very fine person. I have the highest regard for her. We just agreed to disagree." A New York society gal, enduring matrimony for a couple of years, announces: "We are both very fond of each other."

What goes? Away with these folk who announce a separation in tones and manner of making known a decision to cancel a magazine subscription or change the brand of white shoe polish. Let's demand some harsh words, a few swings and a blow by blow of the fight leading up to the parting.

Divorce has been a sufficient blight on the social fabric without this nonsense about it entailing merely a slight drop in friendliness. It is getting routine to read of marriages being busted up because he and she like each other so much! If matrimony must go on the rocks, let's cut the business of fitting the ship with lovecasts and assigning a flock of harpists to sit on the rocks and play "When We Come to the End of a Perfect Day," and "Dear Old Pal of Mine."

What is civilization coming to, mates? There was a time when the marriage state was regarded as sufficiently binding to command a little respect and nothing to be smashed up without a rousing battle, some broken furniture, a few shattered window panes and mutual shrieks of "Oh, Yeah! I was warned about you three months before the wedding."

You couldn't get a good lawyer to take the case if neither side had an arm in a sling.

Not even a gossip reporter would credit a rumor of divorce proceeding if the principals were still capable of exchanging tender looks. No court would go on with the hearing if there were no dirty looks.

No self-respecting neighborhood would stand for a couple breaking up a home on the friendliest of terms, and a sweet "please don't get the idea we dislike each other." It would regard such a mood as definitely tougher on community morals than if all the kids had seen him throw her from the second-story window, and if what she said to him withered the leaves on the backyard maples.

Parting on the friendliest of terms! The very thought is corroding. It cheapens marriage. You wish to break up your home? Gwan, get in there and do it right away! There should always be an excuse for divorce.

YE GOTHAM BUGLE
AND BANNER

The picture of the year was Art Whitaker's recent flash of the Sonja Henie wedding showing the kids "under the tent" with expressions which painters strive to catch. . . . Sonja's new husband has failed in three marriage tries, but the skating star figures that if he keeps hold of her arm he can get the hang of it yet. . . . Attorney General McGrath has sued the A & P stores. . . . The Democrats want those little bundle-wagons in the chain stores to carry the customers, too. . . . Walt Disney has the screen rights to the life of Sigmund Freud, and F. X. Scamini says the title may be "Who's A-Fraid of the Big Bad Wolf?" . . . Ernie Davis left a tooth in America in memory of the British "bite" . . . Broadway now has a sort of tip sheet on new shows with quotations on what it costs to get a share. . . . What's Rodgers & Hammerstein First Refunding Sines selling for?

Joe's Star and Big Muddy won a daily double at $3,420 in Chicago recently. "I nearly had it," declared Shudda Haddin today. "I was at the mutuels window when I changed my mind."

A Peruvian mummy has been unwrapped at the Museum of Natural History. He is dry as dust and about 3,000 years old. At noon today, strange as it seems, neither party had nominated him for the presidency.

When Jesus Saw Their Faith

HERE are phrases running through the word of God That strike the ear, that gleam to catch the eye: These simple words, "When Jesus saw their faith," Ring out as clear and startling as a cry. He saw their faith, the one thing he required Before he granted what their hearts desired.

When Jesus saw their faith, the lame arose, And darkened eyes were given sudden sight; The dead were quickened into life again, And hearts bowed down with sorrow were made light. Because of that white inner burning flame He changed the world for everyone who came.

Lord, Lord, I, too, have faith; behold the fire That burns in me and grant my heart's desire.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

BY INEZ GERHARD

IN 20 YEARS Gertrude Berg has made "The Goldbergs" one of the best loved families in the country, with herself, as "Molly Goldberg," its most popular member. This is one radio show that the country evidently cannot do without. It went off the air in 1946, and

Mrs. Berg turned it into a successful play; last January it began on television, and soon people were giving its presence as the best reason for buying a set. Now it's on the air again, on CBS Friday evenings. And charming, warm-hearted Mrs. Berg is spending her days writing and rehearsing, but saving evenings for her husband, two children and friends.

Some years ago Susan Hayward was brought to New York by Paramount, part of a plan to build up a gorgeous looking young actress into a star. Everyone who met her admitted that she was all the press agent said. Susan has gone right ahead, though not still with Paramount; it's reported that she gets $5,000 a week since 20th Century-Fox bought her contract from Wanger.

Paramount's stars will be linked with a kind of crackers on the air beginning November 14. Three times a week, over 366 Mutual stations, Erskine Johnson will interview a Paramount star—one star each week. Alan Ladd leads off.

Vaughn Monroe will have Ella Raines to sing to in the color movie he is slated for; made independently, it will be released by Republic. It's a wild western, "Singing Guns"; Monroe will broadcast from Hollywood while making it.

George Burns and Gracie Allen have been joking for years on the air about brother Willie. Few listeners knew that Burns' brother Willie wrote gags for the show and managed George's affairs. Now he is the show's producer.

RANDY'S GIRL

By Richard H. Wilkinson

RANDY SUMNER told the girl he loved her. She was beautiful and he was human and he couldn't help himself. He felt chagrined when he thought of it later because that night he had forgotten that he was a police detective and she the girl friend and accomplice of the notorious Tony Quarles.

He had to get away from her for a few days. It was the only way he could think clearly. So he ran up to Chicago and there he dropped in on the chief.

The chief got sore when he saw him.

"What the hell! The dame will take a powder on you. If she shows it's curtains as far as our chance of bringing in Tony is concerned."

Randy felt like telling the chief to jump in the lake. But he didn't. He knew the chief was right. Pamela was Tony's girl. A new one. They'd been seen together at The Lobster Club and the story was that Tony was nuts over her.

Right after that the Ryegate job was pulled; a night watchman and a cop shot dead. Of course Tony vanished. They couldn't hope to find him. The girl vanished too. A week later one of the boys saw her down at Ocean Bluffs.

They didn't pick her up. The chief was too smart for that. He sent Randy down. "You're a good looking kid, Randy, with a nice, friendly smile. Go down there and play the sucker game. Sooner or later she and Tony will join up. It's our only chance."

Randy's part was easy. He played the part of a lumber king's son down from Michigan on vacation. The friendly smile worked. Pamela trusted him. She seemed lonely and glad to have him around.

Then came that night when impulsiveness gave way to logic. He kissed her and told her he loved her.

Randy made plans. The payoff was due to come soon now. He had orders to take both the girl and Tony. Well, he'd do just that.

Days passed. They saw each other once at least every 24 hours. They danced and went sailing and swam and played tennis. Randy suffered. He was haunted by the scene that was inevitable.

There was a haunting light in the girl's eyes also. He wondered if she too, were suffering because the same thing had happened to her.

THEN ONE DAY he called for her and found wild fright in her eyes.

"Randy! I'm afraid! He's here!" "Who's here?"

"That man. The man I tried to tell you about—why I left Chicago. He—he's horrible! At first he was nice to me, then—I had to run away to keep him from—from—" "What's his name?" said Randy hoarsely.

"Lancey. Tom Lancey. He's at the Seaside. He called and said—" "We'll go down and have a talk with him," Randy snapped.

"Randy! I can't! I—" "You're coming too!" She didn't understand Randy's attitude, but she trusted him.

They went to the Seaside. Inside the door Pamela stopped. "There he is!" she whispered. "On the divan reading the newspaper."

It was Tony Quarles. Randy felt sick. He put his hand under his coat and started across the lobby. Tony saw him coming. But it was too late. Randy got his gun out and shot before Tony reached his feet.

The gangster went down. Randy looked at him, then remembered the girl. He had to take her too.

He looked around, and there she was, staring in wild-eyed horror. "Randy! You shouldn't have—you've killed him."

Randy's lip curled. Tony Quarles opened his eyes and saw the girl. "Hello, sister," he managed. "Congratulations. You're the first woman a copper who ever fooled me, but I guess you were worth it. Baby, you're a looker."

Of course she wasn't a copper. But she wasn't Tony's girl either. She was just who she said she was. She'd been telling the truth. And Randy was so surprised he let her swoon in his arms before he could gather his senses enough to explain his own identity.

PUZZLE NO. 32

Weight and Age

SOME YEARS AGO I ran across an old friend. His name was Keene Fitzpatrick of Yale, Michigan and Princeton. One of the great trainers, Keene Fitzpatrick belonged to Mike Murphy of Yale and Pennsylvania. I would also like to add Mike Sweeney of Hill School and Yale.

Murphy, Fitzpatrick and Sweeney were three of the best. So was Johnny Mack. The Irish have it. Mike Murphy has been dead a long time. What a coach, trainer and philosopher Mike was. Not too many remember him. He was one of the all-time greats. Keene Fitzpatrick was another. Keene reported at Yale weighing 164 pounds. He weighed around 164 pounds at Michigan. He was around 164 pounds at Princeton.

In forty-four years Fitzpatrick was never two pounds away from 164 pounds. I couldn't tell you the number of times Keene and I met and talked over this matter of weight and age. It is only in the later years I appreciated the logic and philosophy of Keene's long-time knowledge.

Keene could coach and train football, track, rowing and the art of living.

"I've never missed a day's work in 44 years," he said once. "I've never been out of condition. There are times when I get upset by watching some of these young fellows from 19 to 22 years old reporting for football practice. Too many of them are overweight and soft from a summer that certainly wasn't devoted to keeping in condition. At my age, over 60, I could outrun many of them. I've seen them come to early practice at least 25 pounds overweight. One man reported 35 pounds above his best weight. He was of little value most of the year. It isn't hard to put on excess weight. In fact it is quite easy. But try to take it off and see what happens. It's hard, slow work."

"A man of 50 or 60 should try to keep his weight close to what it was at 25 or 30. He might be a few pounds heavier, but the difference should be slight."

There were more than a few young fellows this past September who would have given more than a shilling to be in better shape when football practice opened. When you have to spend most of your time lopping off 10 or 20 pounds the punishment more than fits the crime.

But it is twice as tough 20 or 30 years later.

Tack Hardwick's Example
Those who feel Tack Hardwick's recent death more than anyone else are the Boston kids.

I have just had a letter from one of the head men of one of Boston's leading boys clubs.

"I only wish," he said, "that every athletic star in this country could only follow Hardwick's example. He was one of Harvard's all-time greats, living when he cared to, in a wealthy, exclusive society. Yet he had been the most active member of our club for the last 23 years. No one had worked harder. Tack came to almost every meeting to talk and mix with the kids. They loved him and he loved them. Not long ago we had to have 27,000 folders that were badly needed. Tack paid for them all. With Tack it was all a work of love. Only two days before his sudden death, he dropped into the office."

"I've had a lot of lucky breaks," he said. "But I can tell you this—I've gotten a bigger kick out of the little I've been able to do for these kids than all the honors I've ever known wearing that big H on my crimson sweater. I wish a lot of other former athletes would do all they could for this younger generation. We have never given them a break."

This comes from the Hardwick that I knew so long. If former athletes, former stars, can't help the kids—no one else can. The boys certainly get little help from the politicians, whose main interest is a government pay check.

The kids today get their thrills from the stars of football, baseball, boxing, golf, tennis, track, etc. It has already been proved that a big part of juvenile delinquency is due to senior stupidity.

Sport has done a fair share in helping the juvenile delinquency. It has done a bigger share than any other form of our social organization.

But the raw fact is that the so-called civilization we know today has never approached the dream of Tack Hardwick and others who understood the problem of today's youth in the big cities.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Little Expense Is Required for Hobby Room

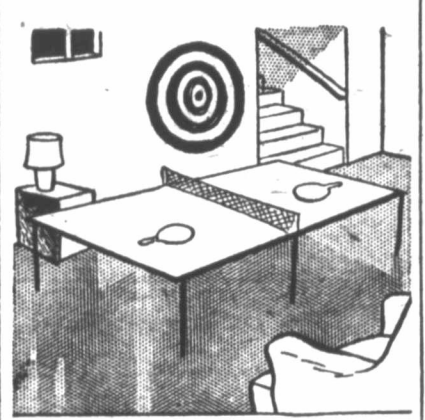

MOST FAMILIES agree they should have game, hobby or work rooms, but little is done about it for the simple reason that most people are afraid of the cost. As long as you have the space, and most people do, it seems a shame not to have such a room, either for youngsters, adults or both.

The cost of these rooms runs much less than any other room in the home, and the hours of pleasure they can provide can usually be reconciled with the budget since little outside, or more expensive entertainment need be provided.

Much of the work on these rooms can be done by members of the family, and the materials required are not usually expensive, or, at least, they need not be. Most of us have enough odd furniture or outdoor furniture that can be used in the room, so this need be no problem.

Actually your imagination is the only limit as to what can be done with the room. With a few pointers to apply to your particular problem, and some guides to point the way, make it a project to convert attic or basement into a recreation room for the family. You'll love doing it.

Decide first on the nature of the room. Some people like it for games which cannot be played in the other rooms, like ping pong; others like it for music or snack bars; some like to have the room for their hobby, woodwork, photography, etc. Families with dramatic interest may want to construct a stage on which they can perform. How To Overcome Some Architectural Problems

If your recreation room is going to be in the basement, you will probably run into the problem of hiding the furnace unless this has been built in the laundry unit, or separated by walls or partitions when the unit was constructed.

Draw a plan of the basement, then block off the furnace. Include blocking off the coal bin, too, or your oil tanks, whichever may be the case.

These may be partitioned off with wall-board, but you'll naturally have to leave a door to get into the unit.

Walls are usually in need of some kind of finishing. If the room is to be in the basement, the walls should be finished with cement paint and line them with inexpensive wallboard.

To disguise pipes, it's usually best to build a false ceiling of pine studding and a dropped ceiling nail-

Black Velvet Decor

woods like knotted pine. If the cellar is dry and has masonry, brick, plaster or cement walls, you can work out some attractive color schemes with white-wash or cold-water paints. If you have the least bit of dampness, waterproof the walls with cement paint and line them with inexpensive wallboard.

To disguise pipes, it's usually best to build a false ceiling of pine studding and a dropped ceiling nailed to this type of studding. This will help keep the room clean, since no dust can sift in.

How To Solve Floor Problems

Floors in a recreation room have to serve a practical purpose, and the floor covering may be one of three: concrete or cement, wood over concrete and linoleum or asphalt tile.

If the floor is poor, but dry, and if you do not want to bring up the cost of doing this room, the cement or concrete may be painted with paint designed for just such a purpose. Paint the floor in a color that will harmonize with the furnishings of the room.

For the room designed as an extra living room, or one that will be used for dancing, the best choice is wood over cement or concrete. Stained and waxed floors are best for dancing; other colors may be used for a more general purpose room.

Asphalt tile and linoleum are considered flooring rather than floor coverings, and both offer good possibilities for the type of room under consideration.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Obedying Duty Is Mental Tonic

"MY MOTHER-IN-LAW is a great one for talking about 'duty,' writes a very young wife from New Mexico. 'I would like to know what 'duty' is. It has a very disagreeable sound to me. The only connection I ever had with it is that on some occasion or other, England expected every man to do his duty. To my husband's mother it means everything disagreeable. 'I was an only child, motherless from babyhood,' the letter goes on, 'and spoiled, I supposed, by a rich father. Most of Papa's money is gone, now, however, and Phil and I and our baby live very quietly. My husband's mother lives next door, and as I say, she is always at me about duty. My duty to Phil, to her, to Johnnie, to my neighbors, church, everything. What is duty, anyway? I never had a mother's guidance, and I really want to know who makes these laws about duty and what they mean. Phil is 33, I am now 18, and the baby is seven months.' finishes this artless letter.

Word Seldom Heard
Your letter, Marie Louise, reminds me that one doesn't often hear this little word nowadays. But it used to be the very backbone of everything we were told, as children, to do. Many a mother today, worrying about nursery psychoses and fixations and inhibitions and allergies might find a short-cut solution to her troubles in that simple word.

Duty means, of course, the thing you ought to do, for the general good. For the good of the family, the commonwealth, the nation. Duty consists of a thousand small acts, perhaps not important apart, but extremely important when taken together.

Thousands of years of painfully achieved civilization are back of that word. A husband's duty, a wife's duty, an employee's duty, an employer's duty. Law and order only mean that men and women are expected to do their duty, and will be held responsible if they don't.

You and I owe a duty to every human being with whom our daily lives bring us in touch. The postman, the bus driver, the children's teachers, everyone from a neighbor's baby to the old man sitting in the sun at the poorhouse, has that claim on us.

Sometimes mothers today look on anxiously as their children's marriages go on the rocks. "Bob and Marjorie have everything in the world to make them happy," they say bewilderedly. "What do youngsters expect of marriage, anyway?"

Bob and Marjorie go to psychiatrists. They are not apt ever to suspect that that little word "duty" holds the answer. Neither one has ever been taught what it means.

Need Not Be Angel
A wife who does her duty need not be superhuman; she need not be an angel. She has merely to think of husband, children, friends, parents, school, her dressmaker, dentist, weekly helper, in terms of "what is my duty?"

Such a wife weathers the psychopathic perils of the monotony of marriage without any outside help. She has her bad times, perhaps, but when she looks at her peaceful happy home, her normal, happy children—who, by the way, have

Be Smart!

Jersey blouses, so important in the current era of separates, take on smart styling all their own. For example, the blouse sketched at the left employs clean cut contrasting color by means of a sewed-in stripe, and at the same time makes a perfect background for a beautifully decorative choker to be worn at the jewel neckline. At the right is a design that is representative of the smartly tailored effect equally good worn with a suit or a separate skirt.

Household Hints

Temporary Adhesive
For a temporary adhesive—or to mend something that will just be kept around and never used or put in hot water—try transparent nail polish. It works on dishes as well as glassware.

Separating Stuck Glasses
To separate two glasses which are stuck together, dip the outside glass in warm—not hot—water, and at the same time put cold—not iced—water into the inside glass.

Dusting Fryables
For dusting fryables, pancake flour gives a better flavor than ordinary flour. The handy way to do the dusting is to put the paper in a large paper bag along with the pieces of meat, fish or fowl to be coated, then shake up the works.

Prevent Cracking
To prevent the glaze on china ware from cracking, don't pile freshly washed cups on top of each other. Spread them out and give them plenty of time to cool before they are put away.

The W. S. C. S. of the Methodist Church met in the home of Mrs. G. W. Parish Monday afternoon.

Mrs. C. H. Martin gave the Bible lesson followed by prayer by Mrs. B. B. Blair.

Mrs. Percy Bond reviewed a supplementary mission study book on Japan, The Seven Stars, which gave the life story of seven Japanese boys from high school age through World War 2. It portrayed a very good picture of daily life and manner of living among these interesting people and was presented in a highly instructive and entertaining manner by Mrs. Bond.

Mrs. Blair presided at a brief business session and urged all the women to attend the district meeting of the W. S. C. S. to be held in Lamesa November 3, at 10 a. m.

Mrs. T. C. Wilson and Mrs. Jim Johnson are members of the District Executive Board and will attend its session on the evening of November 2.

Refreshments were served to 10 members.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Walker and son Randy returned to their home in Odessa Sunday after spending last week with their parents. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hallmark and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Moore visited relatives in Big Spring Saturday night.

Mrs. W. M. Mahoney returned Friday after spending several days with her son, C. W. Mahoney, and family at Big Spring.

Mrs. J. R. Wheeler left Friday to spend this week with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Love, in Ft. Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Reynolds have moved to Lorraine from Coleman. They are living on the Alva Bennett farm.

Mrs. Estell McAfee and son of Wrightstown, N. J., are here visiting in the Bert Shepherd home.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Forest Faulkenberry spent Sunday and Monday with the James Gunnells in McCamey and Kenneth Jackson at Andrews.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Claxton and children spent the week end with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Allen, at Odessa.

Marie Jarratt of Roscoe spent the week end with her father, A. E. Jarratt.

Former Lorraine Girl Weds In Austin

Miss Martha Lee Herm became the bride of Seaman First Class Edgar Robert Martzloff in a formal candlelight ceremony held October 8 in the First Baptist Church in Austin, Texas.

Mrs. Martzloff, daughter of Mrs. Mattie Lee Herm of Austin, is a graduate of Lorraine High School, a member of Theta Chapter of Nu Phi Mu Sorority in Austin and has been employed with the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company for the past year and a half. Seaman Martzloff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Martzloff of Detroit, Michigan, a graduate of McKinsey High School in Detroit. He served two years with the U. S. Navy during the war, with nine months sea duty. He is now serving a four year enlistment with the Navy and is stationed with the U. S. Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, Texas.

The double ring rites were read by Dr. Carlyle Marney before an altar banked with white mums and flanked with candelabra. The candles were lighted by Miss Wanda Jean Weber, who wore an aqua blue gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice, full skirt and by James Herm, brother of the bride.

Paul Kennard, organist, accompanied Miss Faye Wiese, who sang "I Love You Truly and Because."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Coolidge A. Logan. She wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with lace yoke outlined with a bertha, fitted bodice, full skirt and cathedral train. Her finger tip veil of illusion fell from a tiara of satin decorated with seed pearls. She carried a satin covered white Bible topped with Gardenias and streamers tied in love knots. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Coolidge A. Logan, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor. She wore a kelly green taffeta gown fashioned with sheer sleeves, fitted bodice and full skirt with matching gloves. Her head-dress and bouquet were of pink carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Ernestine Denlsano and Miss Sue Lively, both of Austin. Their gowns were fashioned identically to that of the matron-of-honor. Leonard Herm, brother of the bride, from Corpus Christi, was best man. Ushers were Walter C. Herm and Harold E. Herm, of Austin, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Herm, mother of the bride wore a forest green crepe dress with brown accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the brides sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge A. Logan, 1711 East 38th St. in Austin.

After a wedding trip to Fort Worth, Dallas and Houston, the couple will be at home in Corpus Christi.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Herm, Mrs. Roy Little, Mrs. Virgil Parnell, all of Lorraine; Miss Jean Slack and Mr. Earl Williams of Marlin; and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schoen of Round Rock.

Mrs. G. A. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pope spent Sunday with relatives in Big Spring.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: Our drains are stopped up very often in spite of the fact that we have had the pipes cleared by a tree-rooter machine. I am of the opinion that it is a clogged vent and not tree roots in the pipes. Can you give me any advice?

ANSWER: It is possible that the pitch of the horizontal soil pipe is insufficient, so that grease and other sediment matter congeals and closes up the line and retards the flow of waste matter to the sewer. Re-laying of the pipe is one solution, if that is the case. I doubt if a clogged vent would cause the condition. The other solution to such a problem is to install a grease trap in the line from the kitchen sink and clean it out periodically.

A & P Anti-Trust Suit
THROUGHOUT the country there are stores of the A & P grocery chain. Their red fronts and gold lettering are a familiar part of the American landscape. And prior to the red front stores, the traveling salesman of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company was a welcome visitor at farm homes as far back as the horse and buggy days.

Despite the casualties, along the years, of independent competitors the A & P company can tell you just how many thousands of dollars they spend each year for farm crops in your state; they can tell you how much taxes they pay; how their local managers and their clerks are home folks and a part of the local scene and there is not much argument over the fact that as a result of their integrated system of purchase of raw food stuffs, manufacture and process of many items in their own plants and their ability to purchase in such tremendous quantities, A & P has had a hand in bringing about lower food prices for the nation.

But this reporter cannot help but feel that it is either stupidity or a deliberate thumbing of their noses at the department of justice by A & P officials that again has placed the company in the role of a defendant in an anti-trust suit, this time with the threat of dismemberment of the corporation into seven companies and a divorce of the retail and non-retail activities as the penalty, if found guilty.

For it was only a few months ago that A & P was found guilty in federal court on criminal charges of violation of the Clayton anti-trust act and they paid a fine amounting to $175,000. The government in that suit did not charge A & P with being a monopoly because of its bigness, but did charge it with certain monopolistic practices in restraint of trade and in violation of the Clayton act.

Two federal courts, including the federal court of appeals at Chicago, found them guilty. It was Judge Sherman Minton, who has just been named to the United States supreme court, who wrote the opinion in the case holding A & P guilty.

The new suit against A & P is a civil suit and if the government wins, the company will be broken up. It seems a shame to break down an efficient organization like A & P which undoubtedly, at least at the present time, is partially responsible for lower food prices.

It seems a shame that A & P did not correct its operation, after it was found guilty of law violation, to comply with the Clayton act. But even at the risk of higher prices, the people cannot permit continued law violation. A & P has waged an advertising campaign against the suits.

For although for a short time unfair competition practices, such as the government charges against A & P, may benefit consumers by lower prices, in the long run these temporary consumer benefits may be dearly paid for by the suppression of normal competition and the ruin of many other small businesses, which would finally leave one monopoly or a few dominant powers, with consumers at the mercy of dictated prices.

Day for Farmers
Rep. George M. Grant, of Alabama, introduced a resolution suggesting that the first Wednesday in October be named National Farmers Day, whereby the nation could pay tribute to the tillers of the soil.

Another New Era
Whatever happens in the immediate controversy as between the United States Steel company and the CIO union steelworkers, this reporter believes that a new era in labor-management relations has been opened as a result of the report of the President's steel fact-finding board.

Pensions and insurance for workers in lieu of labor increases definitely will alter the picture in collective bargaining, and in the opinion of many from the ranks of both capital and labor opens a new chapter in industrial relations. Someone has given it the name of welfare capitalism as opposed to the welfare state.

Postal Employees' Lobby
It seems the postal employees have a better lobby or a more effective approach to congress than has the postmaster general. Postmaster General Donaldson asked for legislation to streamline his department and for realistic postal rates to wipe out an annual deficit of some $450,000,000. It looks like he will not get it. But postal employees asked for a pay increase and got it to the extent of some $187,000,000, increasing the deficit.

Fragrant Quick Breads Are Easily Made (See Recipes Below)

Bake Them Often
QUICKLY BAKED BREADS provide inspiration for any meal and snack, so they're easily worth the few minutes it takes to mix and bake them.

Give your breakfast a lift with some delightful fruit and nut bread by baking it while the stragglers are getting down to breakfast. Or, why not plan to make an inspired lunch box with some delightful variations of a quickly baked bread?

Snacks are something special if you have some beautifully textured prune bread with a spread of cream cheese and jelly. Dinners, too, can be budget-wise if you'll take less than half an hour to mix and bake honey butter roll-ups or orange-date muffins.

Hot breads give cool weather meals the essential stick-to-the-ribs quality. More than that, their aroma and appeal gets the family to the dining table without coaxing!

FIRST on our parade of quick bread recipes is this for a bran nut bread which may be varied in four different ways:

Bran Nut Bread
(Makes 1 loaf, 4 1/2 x 9 inch pan)
1 egg
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1/2 cup bran
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup chopped nuts
Beat egg and sugar until light. Add milk, shortening and bran. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; combine with nutmeats; add to first mixture, stirring only until flour disappears. Spread in greased loaf pan, which has been fitted with waxed paper at the bottom. Bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 1 hour and 10 minutes.

DELICIOUS pineapple coffee cake which bakes in less than an hour will be welcome at breakfast on chilly mornings.

Pineapple-Cranberry Coffee Cake
(Makes 1 9-inch cake)
2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup shortening
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cranberries
1/2 cup drained, crushed pineapple
Orange crumb topping
Sift together flour, baking powder and salt with sugar. Cut in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Add egg and milk, stirring until flour is moistened. Drop batter into greased nine-inch cake pan spreading evenly. Spread cranberries and pineapple over top of batter and sprinkle with orange crumb topping:
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons grated orange rind
1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
Mix all ingredients together and

THIS PRUNE BREAD has some of the endearing qualities of cake, without being as sweet and rich. You'll like its texture.

Prune Bread
(Makes 1 loaf)
2 cups white wheat flour
1 cup white flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked, drained, chopped prunes
1 egg
1 cup prune juice
1/2 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted butter
Sift together dry ingredients. Add prunes and mix well. Combine beaten egg, prune juice and milk, and add with melted butter to the first mixture. Pour into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 1 1/2 hours.

Honey Butter Roll-Ups
(Makes about 16)
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon melted butter
2 tablespoons honey
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening. Add enough milk to form a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead 1/2 minute. Divide into two equal portions. Roll each portion into a circle and spread with melted butter and honey; sprinkle with cinnamon. Cut into pie shaped pieces. Roll up beginning at wide end. Bake in a hot (450°) oven for 10-12 minutes.

Orange-Date Muffins
(Makes 12 muffins)
1/2 cup sifted flour
1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup dates, chopped fine
Grated rind of 1 large orange
1/4 cup molasses
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
1/2 cup melted shortening
Sift together white flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Add dates and orange rind; mix well. Add whole wheat flour. Combine molasses, egg, milk and melted shortening. Add to dry ingredients and mix only until ingredients are moistened. Do not beat until smooth. Spoon batter into well greased muffin pans. Bake in a hot (400°) oven about 20 minutes.

Leftover meat and chicken can be made into really generous hot sandwiches if they're dipped in egg-milk mixture, then fried. Serve with spiced fruit for a completely satisfying supper.

Hard-cooked eggs, cut in quarters, swimming in rich cream sauce with pink shrimp, are hard to resist when served on small, split, toasted and halved biscuits.

Popovers split and filled with creamed chicken or chipped beef will satisfy the hungriest crowd for Sunday evening suppers.

Choose The Best!
Lesson for October 30, 1949

IT HURT Isaiah's patriotism, and his religion too, to see how fast his country was going down hill. Most of the troubles Isaiah saw are with us today. Wealthy women spending more and more on themselves; leaders who are irresponsible, self-seeking and incompetent; poverty unprevented and uncared-for; drunkenness high and low. Isaiah, and other prophets as well, saw in the sin and drunkenness of the times the sign and symbol of national decay. To the careless, the selfish and the wild, to those who were "leaders" but were leading in the wrong direction, Isaiah kept saying, in many different ways, Choose the best!

The Prophets' Successors
THERE WAS A TIME when the church put most of her preaching emphasis on individual religion: Get right with God! was the cry. The church of today has not by any means given up her emphasis on personal religion, but we are learning from the prophets what social righteousness means. The church in our time is the logical and actual successor to the prophet's work.

The church is doing more than ever to awaken the conscience of society, in fact the church itself has a duty to be the conscience of society. One of the problems about which our nation needs to be waked up is one that Isaiah and Jeremiah faced, only we have it in a more desperate form.

We call it alcoholism; they called it by an uglier, more suitable word: drunkenness. Even in those days drinking was a problem; it cut down the national health, wealth and wisdom. Nowadays it is worse because of two factors. One is the higher percentage of alcohol in beverages such as whiskey, unknown in those days. The other factor is advertising.

Where Drunkards Start
AGAINST ALL THIS the church must keep saying and persuading people, Choose the Best! But it does comparatively little good to say this to the confirmed alcoholic. It makes more sense to say it to young people. For the sad feature of alcoholism is that it begins in the high schools.

The Yale School of Alcohol Studies has collected evidence indicating that two-thirds of all alcoholics begin drinking habits in the early high school years.

A recent Gallup poll shows the greatest percentage of drinkers to be in the age group 21 to 29. Today, it is estimated, there are four million alcohol addicts or excessive drinkers who are in more or less constant trouble with their families and employers.

Drunkness costs industry in America no less than one billion dollars a year, and has a lot to do with the break-up of homes and with crime generally.

Allied Youth
SOMETHING is being done to stop this, which you should know about. There is a movement known as Allied Youth, a national educational organization working in high schools all over the country. Its work is positive, not negative. It is not trying to pass laws or to bring back prohibition. What it does try to do—and it is succeeding remarkably well in many places—is to give young people a way of life that will enable them to meet social pressure for drinking without loss of "face." Every Allied Youth post in a school has three aims: 1. To meet the social and recreational needs of young people.

Every New Year's Eve, for instance, when millions of Americans are getting sickly drunk, more than 6,000 young people gather in Detroit for the biggest dry party in America, sponsored by Allied Youth.

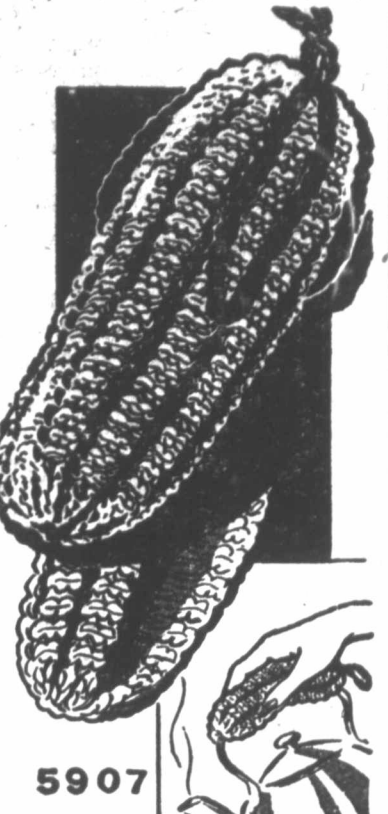

2. To establish within the school a fellowship of young people who do not think it is necessary to drink to be smart. Such a group can change the attitude of an entire school.

3. To build a solid foundation of education for total abstinence. Essentially, Allied Youth is saying to young people everywhere, "Choose the Best!"

U. S. Motorists Learn To Drive More Safely

CHICAGO.—American motorists are learning to drive more safely, according to the 1949 edition of the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook, "Accident Facts."

The 1948 traffic volume was the greatest in the nation's history—8 per cent greater than 1947. Yet the mileage death rate—deaths per 100,000,000 vehicle miles—was the lowest in the nation's history. The 8.0 rate was 30 per cent lower than the average rate of 11.5 through World War II. If the higher rate had prevailed last year, 14,000 more lives would have been lost.

However, there still were 32,000 traffic deaths in 1948—only 700 fewer than in 1947.

Don't wait for pie in the sky—eat it now and eat it often in Fresh Cranberry Time! Cranberry Pie is the Dessert Beautiful—but it's also the Dessert Easy! Use prepared pie crust mix for real speed—use fresh cranberries for a real old-fashioned filling! Cranberry-Raisin Pie is practically a classic—here's how:

ANN PILLSBURY'S
EATMOR CRANBERRY-RAISIN PIE
1 package Pillsbury Pie Crust Mix
2 1/2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup water
1 cup raisins
4 cups Eatmor Cranberries
1 tablespoon grated orange rind

Prepare pie crust mix as directed on package. Roll out one half of dough and fit into 9-inch pie pan. Combine sugar and cornstarch in saucepan and mix thoroughly. Add water and cook 5 minutes. Add raisins, cranberries and orange rind. Bring to rapid boil. Cover saucepan and remove from stove; cool. Pour cooled mixture into prepared pie shell. Roll out remaining crust and cut into leaf shapes. Arrange cut-outs over surface of pie and brush with melted butter. Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) 35 minutes. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Autumn ushers in the Time of Minicemeat—combine cranberries and minicemeat in a delicious pie for double the tradition, double the good eating:

CRANBERRY MINCE PIE
2 cups Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce*
1 package prepared minicemeat
Pie pastry

Combine cranberry sauce and minicemeat and heat to soften and blend filling. Fill pastry-lined 8-inch pie plate with mixture; arrange strips of pastry, criss-cross fashion, over top. Brush pastry with milk. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) 30-35 minutes. Makes one 8-inch pie.

TEN-MINUTE CRANBERRY SAUCE
2 cups sugar
2 cups water
4 cups cranberries

Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes. Add cranberries and boil without stirring until all the skins pop open (5 minutes is usually sufficient). Remove from fire and allow the sauce to remain in saucepan until cool. Makes 1 quart sauce.

Note to wise cooks: Keep a big red bowlful of Cranberry Sauce handy in Fresh Cranberry Time—it's so good it disappears from the table in double-quick time!

Introducing Jr. Hall

William L. Hall, Jr. is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hall. He was born April 15, 1933 at China Grove, Texas. Jr. has brown hair, brown eyes, and is 5 ft. 4 1/2 in. tall. He came to Loraine in his junior year from Colorado City. Jr. has been a member of the F. F. A. chapter for four years and Historian for F. F. A. one year.

Some of Jr.'s favorites are: actor, Johnny Mac Brown; dish, anything that is eatable; day, Friday; sport, baseball; and all the girls are his favorites.

Jr.'s ambition is to be a car and motorcycle mechanic.

Senior News

The senior class seems kind of empty this morning. Could it be they were afraid to venture out in the rainy weather?

We seem to be breathing a little easier now that tests are over for another six weeks. (But that doesn't eliminate daily and weekly tests).

The senior candidates for King and Queen are Deryl Bennett and Shirley Taylor. We think we made a good choice.

The seniors have a game booth at the Halloween Carnival. Be sure to come and try your luck at this exciting game. You may win a prize!

Sophomore News

Well, the rain brought us 3 new pupils. There are Mary Ellen Bryant, Ray Bryant, and Fannie Fay Bradbury. We are glad to have them.

We have started studying "A Tale of Two Cities" in English 2. We all think it is very interesting.

Everyone be sure and come to the carnival Saturday night. The Sophs have Penny Pitching and want lots of trade.

Our candidates for King and Queen are Don Martin and Joan McAdams. Everyone be sure to vote for them.

Sadie Hawkins Day

It seems like the weather is trying to spoil our "Sadie Hawkins Day" but we may catch our man yet.

The "Fish" have chosen Joe Edd Coldewey and Maurine White as their candidates for Halloween King and Queen. We want everyone to be sure and vote for them.

We have two members this morning: Edith Bryant and Nelda Woodell, we are very glad to have them.

All the Fish were sorry to hear about the game Friday night, but we are looking forward to beating Bronte next Friday night.
