New Trial Pondered

HOUSTON (AP)-District Judge Wallace Moore met informally Friday with prosecution and defense attorneys in the Cullen Davis murder solicitation trial, which ended in a mistrial Jan. 22.

Moore said the meeting was held to determine what arrangements must be made for the possible retrial of the Fort Worth millionaire.

Another meeting has been scheduled Feb. 23 to continue the discussions, the judge said.

Test-Tube Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP)-An ethics advisory board is trying to devise a compromise that could free government funds for so-called test tube baby research, but with strict limitations.

The 13-member panel planned to decide today what recommendations it will make to Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. on whether to end a four-year-ol dmoratorium on government funding for the research.

Traffic Threatened

WASHINGTON (AP)-Officials are telling Capitol Police to expect 12-hour shifts next week and commuters are being urged to leave for work early Monday in case farmers follow through with their threat to clog city streets with more than 2,000 farm vehicles.

Hundreds of tractors and other vehicles were already crowded into campsites on the outskirts of the nation's capital today with still more moving toward the city.

Gerald McCathern of Hereford, Texas, national wagon-master of the "tractorcade" sponsored by the American Agriculture Movement, said Friday the farmers would keep coming into the city every day until "we get some assurances that something will be done to solve our problems.

GAO To Testify

WASHINGTON (AP)—General Accounting Office officials are set to testify Monday that President Carter lacks legal authority to deny government contracts to firms that violate his voluntary wage-and-price guidelines, according to sources.

Some officials in GAO, an investigative agency of Congress, believe there is no "authority for the president to do it without specific authorization from Congress," said one source who asked to remain anonymous.

The SDN Column

We have been advised that the youngsters on the Snyder High School basketball team, their coaches and parents were as pleased over the turnout of fans Tuesday night as the fans were of the victory over Lamesa.

There is no substitute for fans at athletic events. Their reaction to play on the court or on the field is an important part of the game and when you have the Scurry County Coliseum at least two-thirds filled with interested spectators, it is bound to be a factor. Lamesa brought a lot of fans over here Tuesday night, but our side still had them out-numbered by a good margin.

We have been asked unofficially to pass along the fact that the team, coaches, parents and all others involved appreciated the good turnout.

Income tax season is upon us again, and while doing some preliminary work on our return, it suddenly dawned on us that Uncle Sam still gets the biggest bite, no matter how much our state and local taxes may fluctuate. If you want to get an idea of what we are talking about, get out your tax receipts for payments to the city, county, schools, state, junior college district, etc., and add them. Then compare the grand total with the amount you are paying the IRS for the past year's income.

But you can't win anyway, when it comes to money.

If you run after money, you're materialistic. If you don't get it, you're a loser. If you get it and keep it, you're a miser. If you don't, you lack ambition. If you get it and spend it, you're a spendthrift. If you still have it after a lifetime of work, you're a fool who never got any fun out of life.

IN SNYDER AGAIN—Steve and Flora Stephens were evacuated from Iran late in December, ending a two-month stay in that country. Although anti-American sentiment was on the upswing when they left, they personally encountered little hostility. They might even go back someday, they said. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Despite Low Profile...

Snyderites Saw Their Welcome Expire In Iran

By JOHN LONG

Although Steve and Flora Stephens kept a low profile while they were in strife-torn Iran, there was no getting around the fact they were Americans in a country where foreigners were not wholeheartedly welcomed. As the situation worsened, they were evacuated.

Their Dec. 31 evacuation ended an Iranian visit that had begun Oct. 26. It was the first trip abroad for the Snyder couple, however, and they had been eager to go.

"We really thought things were going to calm down," said Mrs. Stephens. "It didn't sound that bad to us."

It wasn't at first. But as civil forces mounted against an unpopular shah, the situation in Iran started becoming hostile to Americans. That hostility resulted in the assassination of an American oil executive.

Stephens, too, was employed by the Overseas Service Co., a conglomerate of oil companies. The Stephenses were stationed in Ahwaz, a city in southwestern Iran, that was spared much of the anti-American sentiment

Khomenini Issues 'Holy War' Threat

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini declared today he hoped to create an Islamic republic through peaceful means but threatened holy war if the government of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar put up resistance with U.S., British and Israeli backing.

Khomeini told his first news conference since returning to Iran on Thursday that he would announce his provisional government "very soon" and again called on Bakhtiar to resign.

Asked is he would resort to holy war if Bakhtiar ignored his call, the 78-year-old Shiite Moslem leader of the Iranian revolution said:

"We will try to solve the problem through non-violent means, but if the illegal government of Bakhtiar, with the support of the Americans and British, continues to defy the will of the people and brings in forces from Israel, then we will take other measures to bring it down...If the moment comes, we will get arms from the proper places."

In Moslem tradition, a holy war, or jihad, is fought against infidel enemies, or in the broad sense, against foreign enemies.

Enrollment At College Sets Record

Western Texas College has reached a new all-time enrollment record with a total of 1,267 students, Dr. Duane Hood, Dean of Student Services, said.

The total includes 1,233 semester credit hour students and 34 students enrolled in clock hour programs. Jan. 30 was the last day for spring semester enrollment.

WTC's previous high mark was 1,258 in the fall of 1975. Enrollment is traditionally highest in the fall semesters.

Ask Us

Q--What are the facts about the Firestone recall and why wasn't it in the Snyder paper?

A--A number of Firestone 500 steel belted radial tires experienced tread separations and blowouts, according to government officials, and over 10 million of these tires were recalled. These tires were manufactured during a specified time bracket. "The American recall is now in effect, but the company said it will be a few days before dealers at more than 6,000 outlets will know the procedures to follow," said a story under a five-column headline on page 3A of the Oct. 22, 1978, issue of The Snyder Daily News.

City Building Figures Zoom

Snyder building figures are off to an impressive start for 1979.

The city issued permits for construction costing $800,126 in January to get the new year started with a huge gain over last year. The total for January of 1978 was $448,121.

Two major projects accounted for most of the January activity this year, including a $522,000 expansion program at Snyder National Bank and a $239,000 addition to facilities of Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

Residential activity was slowed to a virtual standstill during the month, which had a prolonged period of icy weather.

The January figures also pushed the city's fiscal year total well ahead of the previous year. The city's fiscal year began last Oct. 1. So far, this fiscal year has accounted for construction costing $1,942,976, compared to a total of $1,554,662 during the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year.

Mall Construction To Begin In March

Construction is expected to begin in March on the Snyder Mall, a major retail development planned by Ainbinder Associates Developers of Houston.

A tract of land was purchased in December for the mall site. It is located south of the Varsity Square Shopping Center on the east side of College Avenue, with frontage on both College Avenue and 37th Street.

Alan Smith, project manager for Ainbinder Associates, said he expected to be in Snyder within the next few days and that actual construction work is expected to begin in March.

Ainbinder Associates is a nationally-known developer, and the Snyder Mall has been planned by the architectural firm of Charles L. Thompson Associates, also of Houston.

The design for the Snyder Mall is moderately contemporary with brick paver flooring and acoustical tile ceiling lighted by a combination of flourescent and incandescent lighting.

There will be 205,000 square feet of enclosed, air conditioned shopping mall.

Adding to the beauty and convenience of the mall will be sunken courts, rest areas with seating, a sparkling fountain and large plants. Overhead, special skylight units will admit natural daylight to the interior of the mall.

The outside construction will be of masonry with wood trim enhanced by an abundance of landscaping. Convenient parking will accommodate 1,015 cars with a special area and ramps provided for the handicapped.

Grand opening of the Snyder Mall is planned for the spring of 1980.

Major tenants will include K mart store and two major department stores. Smith said that several of the other tenants will be identified soon.

Tenant inquiries should be directed to Smith at 5850 San Felipe, Suite 500, Houston 77057, or by calling 713-978-7800.

HEALTH TIP
from DEAN

"In general, to use vitamin C for colds and similar illnesses, I think you need from 250 to 1000 milligrams a day", writes Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb in his health column. "Less than 250 won't help much, and more than 1000 won't give any added benefit".

"Some studies suggest that vitamin C does help prevent the severity of colds, but there is doubt that large doses actually prevent colds", writes Dr. Lamb. Nevertheless, he states, "I don't think anyone is going to have any trouble from doses of 1000 milligrams a day or less."

found in the rest of the country.

"I never had anyone come up to me and say 'Yankee go home,'" said Stephens. Mrs. Stephens said, "I didn't personally have any bad encounters with any Iranian people."

"Really, until the neighbor's son made a certain statement, I thought we were well thought of," she added. That comment the boy made was that Americans had practically stolen Iranian oil. It finally came down to the point that President Carter was called a "fascist butcher" in propganda broadcasts.

Even in Ahwaz, however, there were riots. "We were two or three miles from where the demonstrations were occurring, so we didn't see any of it," said Mrs. Stephens. They did hear some occasional gunfire, though, and they saw tanks and machinegun-mounted jeeps.

"We were told when we went over there to keep a low profile," Mrs. Stephens recalls. She was able to do so by staying around their rented house. Her husband, on the other hand, had to work in the field.

Stephens said he never seriously feared for his own life, "but I spent a lot of time worrying about her."

As the tension mounted, they were evacuated. From Iran, they flew to Athens and spent nine days there. From Athens, they went to New York. From there they went to Houston, then to Midland, and finally back to Snyder.

Although it will probably be several years before Americans can safely reenter Iran, the Stephenses indicated they might consider returning.

Such a return, he said, would be possible "if the government were stable and we had an assurance it would be safe."

FAMILY -- John Hopkins and Marca Parham, Harry and Edith Lambert in "Never Too Late," chat with Robby Moore, their son-in-law in the play. "Never Too Late" is scheduled for March 2-4 and 9-11 as the WTC dinner theatre production.

FATHER-SON--Rex Hopkins, left, Director of Continuing Education at WTC, and his son, John, will be making their first joint appearance in a WTC drama production in the March dinner theatre. WTC Dinner Theatre...

Rehearsals Underway For 'Never Too Late'

Rehearsals are underway for the Western Texas College dinner theatre production of "Never Too Late" scheduled for March 2-4 and 9-11.

The cast for the comedy includes John Hopkins and Marca Parham as Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lambert, Robby Moore as the Lambert's son-in-law Charlie and Debbie Busciglio as their daughter Kate, Rick Mantooth and Janice Posey as Dr. and Mrs. James Kimbrough, David Galvan as Mr. Foley the carpenter, Darrell Hayes as a policeman, and Rex Hopkins as Mayor Crane.

In "Never Too Late," Mr. and Mrs. Lambert are jarred out of a familiar rut when they discover they are to become parents again when their daughter, Kate is 24. Kate and her husband have taken up residence with Mom and Dad, since Kate finds it convenient to sleep until noon each day and her husband enjoys solitaire more than work.

The play was produced on Broadway where it was a tremendous success, and was described in the New York News as being "...a good old-fasioned domestic farce...plain and simple laughter."

Most of the members of the cast are WTC drama scholarship students already known to local audiences. John Hopkins and Miss Parham, both freshmen from Snyder, made their initial appearances at WTC in the fall production of "The Little Foxes."

John has numerous drama credits including "The Sound of Music," "Oliver," and "The Corn is Green".

Miss Parham's credits include "Romeo and Juliet" in which she won the Samuel French award, and "The Corn Is Green" in which she was named Best Actress at UIL state competition. She received impressive reviews for her performance as Regina in WTC's production of "The Little Foxes."

Moore, also a Snyder freshman, has appeared in "Romeo and Juliet," "Oliver," "The Corn Is Green," and WTC's "The Little Foxes."

Mrs. Busciglio is a newcomer to Snyder, having formerly lived in Virginia Beach, Va. She brings with her credits including "Oklahoma," "Guys and Dolls," and "Up the Down Staircase." Her husband, Gary Busciglio, is the manager of the Country Fare Restaurant.

The part of Grace Kimbrough, the sweet wife of Dr. James Kimbrough and Edith Lambert's gossip-loving neighbor, will be played by Janice Posey, a freshman from Seminole. Her prior acting credits include "Magic Well," "Music Man," and "Hansel and Gretel."

Dr. Kimbrough will be portrayed by Rick Mantooth, a sophomore student from Seminole. Rick's dramatic credits include "Hello Dolly," "Antigone," "The Bad Seed," and WTC's "The Little Foxes." He has also been a dancer in the play "Texas" in Palo Duro Canyon for the past four years.

David Galvan, sophomore from Loraine and president of the WTC Student Senate, is cast in the part of Mr. Foley, the carpenter called in to do the new nursery. Galvan will be remembered as the humorous telephone man in last year's dinner theatre production of "Barefoot in the Park."

The policeman will be played by Darrell Hayes, freshman from Caldwell. Darrell's acting experiences include "Our Town," "Dark of the Moon," and "You Can't Take It With You."

Rex Hopkins has been cast as Mayor Crane. He is the Director of Continuing Education at WTC and has performed in the past two dinner theatres, "The Odd Couple" and "Barefoot in the Park." He and his wife, Mary, are the parents of John Hopkins who is to appear as Harry Lambert, and they also have a daughter, Judy. This will be the first time Rex and John have appeared in a stage production together.

"Never Too Late" will be directed by Jeanne Kobuszewski. She has announced that this year's play will be staged in the Fine Arts Theatre, with the dinner to be served in the Student Center preceding each performance. Both Sunday performances will be 2 p.m. matinees, with evening performances scheduled for 8 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling the Fine Arts Division office at the college.

Hermleigh Highlights...

Many School Functions Scheduled This Month

By CURTIS W. TATE

HERMLEIGH-----Most Hermleigh students and residents can expect to stay busy participating in and attending school functions despite the ending of basketball season this month.

The junior high basketball teams will end their regular season play Monday, Feb. 5, in home games against McCaulley at 6:30 p.m. The Cardinal teams will play in the tournament at Hobbs on Feb. 8-10 to determine the district championship. Seeding will be determined by the season record of each team. The first-round play schedule will be posted in the schools by Wednesday, Feb. 7.

The high school basketball teams will play at Roby on Tuesday night, Feb. 6, and at home against Highland on Friday, Feb. 9, to end their regular season play. Junior varsity games will begin at 5:30 both evenings and will be followed by varsity play. The dates of Feb. 15-17 have been reserved for play-off games if needed in order to determine the district champion.

On Wednesday, Feb. 20, representives of the U.S. Army will be at the school between 11 and 12 a.m. to discuss the results of vocational aptitude test that were administered to the juniors and seniors earlier in the year.

During the week of Feb. 11, most members of the Hermleigh FFA Chapter will prepare for the Hermleigh Stock Show on Feb. 13 and the Scurry County Stock Show on Feb. 14-17. Both shows will be held at the Scurry County Agri-complex. Some students will also participate in the Houston Stock Show which runs from February 26 through March 3.

A photographer from Marquise Studio will be at the school on Tuesday, Feb. 20, at 8:30 a.m. He is scheduled to photograph any faculty members or students who were absent when photographs were made last fall. The photographer makes color picture packets ($4 per packet) for students and sends black and white copies of each picture to the yearbook staff for use in the Cardinal Call.

The staff urges any student who has not yet posed for a photograph to do so at this time in order for the student's picture to be included in the class section of the book.

In an effort to offer yearbook subscriptions to students and community residents who have not reserved a copy of the 1979 Cardinal Call, staff members will have a booth set up for yearbook sales at the Feb. 5 and 9 basketball games. The cost of the yearbook is $9.

Phone Is Seldom Quiet...

Ringing Sound Familiar To Police Dispatchers

By JOHN LONG

The telephone rang 27,590 times during 1978 at the Snyder Police Department. It was answered between radio transmissions, waiting on customers, typing reports, and sending and receiving teletype messages. The adage of the phone always ringing at the most inconvenient time is true, said dispatchers.

The 27,500 yearly figure is broken down into 75.5 calls received per day. That is in addition to the 12,067 telephone calls sent out during the year by dispatchers.

The 27,590 figure represents calls received at the police station from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1978. Last month there were 2,085 calls received and 934 calls dispatched, according to figures kept and compiled by Omega Vargas.

Ms. Vargas, the corporation court clerk, also does some dispatching. She has worked at the police station about two years.

"I was looking for a job," she recalls, "and the employment agency told me to come down here and apply." The referral was made by Eula Stone, the wife of Police Chief Bill Stone, who works at the employment agency.

Ms. Vargas' most unusual telephone call came shortly after she started to work at the police station. "I had just started to work here," she said, "and this old lady called me and told me there were Martians shooting at her with a glotin machine."

A native of El Paso, police dispatcher Kathy Helms came to Snyder to attend Western Texas College. "I was majoring in law enforcement and I got a job through the school," she said of her beginnings at the police station.

Her job first entailed only typing and filing. Later, a full-time dispatcher quit and Miss Helms moved into her spot. She has now been at the police station about 3½ years.

"It's exciting. It's not every day you get an earthquake and have people call you from New York," she declared.

Although unable to think of any particularly unusual phone call, Miss Helms confided that the type of call she dislikes the most is the call reporting a major accident. That is "because you can't get someone out there to it quick enough."

An employee of about a year and a half, Belinda Bridges could recall two memorable telephone calls. One was from a woman who said a cat was in the kitchen oven. The other was even more unusual.

"She (the second caller) said someone was after her. She said that whenever anyone said her name someone always shot at her," Miss Bridges said.

All agreed, however, that possibly the greatest advantage to their dispatching job was in the perspective they gained. Most people, they said, view police stations from the outside. They, however, get to see both sides and they "see what the officers go through."

"Working on the inside," said Ms. Vargas, "you can see both sides, and you can balance it out in your mind."

Lawmakers Face Highway Dilemma

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas legislators will have to decide whether to forfeit federal highway funds or expend more money for enforcement of the 55 mph speed limit, a study prepared for lawmakers concludes.

"If the Department of Public Safety's efforts to enforce compliance with the federal law fails to achieve the specified limits, the state department of highways will be sanctioned by the federal government," says a report by the Texas Transportation Institute at Texas A&M University.

"On the other hand, to force the traffic to comply with the federal standards will require significant increases in our enforcement capability," said the report, prepared by Charles J. Keese, A&M transportation professor.

In 1969, Premier Eisaku Sato swept to victory in Japan's election for the House of Representatives.

Pair Sentenced In Rape Case After Guilty Plea

Craig Merritt and Gary Wayne Lee, two juveniles at the time of an alleged Nov. 10 rape of a 16-year-old girl, pleaded guilty Friday afternoon in 132nd District Court and drew a pair of 10-year prison terms that were probated for 10 years. They were also fined $2,500 each.

Although the youths were not quite 17 years old at the time of the reported rape, they were certified to stand trial as adults in what might have been the only such court proceeding of its kind in Scurry County history. The youths, however, subsequently turned 17, the minimum age at which a person can be tried as adult. Merritt turned 17 in December, and Lee in January.

They were two of four persons to enter guilty pleas Friday afternoon that made the court stay in session until 6 p.m.

One guilty plea was entered by Ronnie Stroud to a theft charge. Stroud was charged with theft in what investigators allege was a check writing scheme conducted during July. He was given a two-year prison term probated for two years, fined $500, and order to pay $353 restitution.

The other guilty plea was entered by Johnny Bernal. He had been arrested Dec. 16 and charged with driving while intoxicated. He received a two-year prison term that was probated for two years.

Goat Takes Rap For Auto Mishaps

ORANGE, Conn. (AP)-A West Haven stock farm escapee blamed for at least two traffic accidents is back in custody today.

Police said a "black goat with big ears" stopped traffic Thursday when it wandered onto the roadway. Apparently some cars stopped quicker than others, causing at least two accidents.

The goat was returned to the Latella Carting Co. farm, where an employee reported it was purchased by a family that heard of its misadventures.

JODIE HART

Snyderite Joins Holly Sugar Corp.

Jodie Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hart, has joined the Holly Sugar Corporation as an agriculturist. She is believed to be the only female to hold that title in the domestic sugarbeet industry.

Ms. Hart is a 1973 graduate of Snyder High school. She went on to graduate from Western Texas College and West Texas State University in Canyon where she took a B.S. degree in plant science in 1977.

Prior to joining Holly, she had been one of two women employed full-time by the soil Conservation Service working in Hereford.

"If a girl's going into some type of work that is customarily done by men, she definitely needs a good sense of humor, a good outlook on everything and it sure doesn't hurt to be willing to work extra hard," she said of her experiences with SCS.

However, working in fields more often pursued by men is nothing new to the 23-year-old. She grew up helping her father on the sprawling Fuller Brothers ranch northeast of Snyder.

After 6 Years In the Air...

Women Finding Friendly Skies

EDITOR'S NOTE—The skies are getting a little friendlier to women fliers. Six years after the first woman became captain for a scheduled airline, a score of others are flying airliners and more are waiting in the wings - or between them. If the total number of female airline pilots remains small, progress and acceptance have been steady.

Associated Press Writer

ABOARD FRONTIER FLIGHT 138 (AP)—The co-pilot is a lady, and she's at the controls as the Boeing 737 jetliner begins its final approach into the Memphis night.

Emily Warner has made thousands of takeoffs and landings in nearly six years with Frontier, and tonight she doesn't feel pressured to prove herself. She was the first woman pilot for a scheduled U.S. airline, and today there's a score of others.

From 40 miles away at 13,000 feet Memphis is a blur of lights in a sea of darkness. Ms. Warner looks for the lights that mark the runway.

"There it is, that black triangle over there," Kenneth Sleater, her captain, calls out. "I have it."

Minutes later she eases the 737 over the flashing approach lights. It glides for several hundred feet before she firmly, smoothly pushes its wheels to the concrete.

"Nice approach, Emily," Sleater says. "Can I open my eyes now," he jokes.

Flight 138 was at the end of the line for the night. It had flown from Denver to Wichita to Little Rock to Memphis. As they usually do, captain and co-pilot flew alternate legs, with Ms. Warner handling the first and third.

"I was under an awful lot of pressure when I started in 1973," she says. "Everyone was watching me, waiting for me to make a mistake. I'll never forget the first time I walked into the crew room. It was like walking into a room full of little old ladies."

Had she failed, she feels, ambitions of other women would have suffered a blow. But she succeeded, and earned the respect of most of her male counterparts.

"There are a few holdouts among some of the older, more conservative pilots who feel it's a man's job to fly the airplane and a woman's to serve the passengers," says Sleater, a 20-year veteran with Frontier. "But Emily's an excellent flier and 99 percent of us are for the women pilots."

After she broke the barrier, scores of women began applying to the airlines for pilot jobs. But there was a recession in the mid-1970s and the carriers were furloughing pilots, not hiring them.

But by 1976, the situation had eased, and, with the women's movement in full swing, a few airlines began hiring females.

Their number is small compared with the 34,000 male pilots flying for U.S. trunk carriers, but it is growing. By the end of 1977 there were 40 women in the cockpits of major airlines. Then came cheap fares and the air travel boom of 1978, and in one year the number has doubled to about 80.

Plans Announced Here For 4th Spelling Bee

Dr. Thomas H. Scannicchio, Director of the Scurry County Spelling Bee, has announced that students from the Snyder, Ira, and Hermleigh Public Schools will participate again in the 4th Annual Scurry County Spelling Bee in March.

Students in grades 4 through 8 are eligible to enter their local school contests. Two top spellers from each school in the county will enter the Scurry County Bee. The winner of the Scurry County Spelling Bee will then compete with the winners from over 20 other South Plains counties. The regional Spelling Bee is sponsored annually by the Lubbock Avalanche Journal and is tentatively scheduled to be held March 31.

Approximately 400 students are expected to enter the preliminary contests which will be scheduled in individual schools. Local school sponsors will distribute the booklet "Words of the Champions" to all students interested and eligible to enter the contests. The booklet has 3000 words and more than 550 word changes from the previous year's booklet.

Last year, Raymundo Fuentes, representing Hermleigh Junior High School, won the Scurry County Spelling Bee. The runnerup was James Crowder, an Ira Junior High School student.

Prizes of ribbons and medals will be awarded to the winners at the local and county level. The top prize for the regional winner will be an all expense-paid trip to the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C. during the week, June 4-9. Julianne Raines of Howard County was the Regional Spelling Bee winner in 1978. In 1972, Robin Krall of Lamesa won the National Spelling Bee.

All students in grades 4-8 interested in entering the spelling contests should contact their school sponsors. These are Wanda Hudgins - North Elementary, Jerrald Bowen - Northeast Elementary, Anne Adams - Stanfield Elementary, Roy Rosson - Central Elmentary, Elizabeth McCloskey - West Elementary, Dora Blakey -East Elementary, Laura Greene-Snyder Junior High School, Mickey Rundell - Ira Schools, and Jean Schooler - Hermleigh Schools.

Bill Restricts Ownership Of Farm Land

AUSTIN (AP)-Rep. Bill Sullivant has introduced a bill to restrict foreign, absentee ownership of Texas farm land.

Sullivant, D-Gainesville, said in a statement figures of the U.S. Department of Agriculture indicate that 21 percent of all farm sales in 1977 were to foreign entities.

His bill would prohibit a foreigner from acquiring any interest in farm land, with some exceptions. A permanent resident alien of the United States, for example, could buy such land.

A foreigner also might acquire Texas land through inheritance or in collection of a debt. If the land is acquired in repayment of a debt, however, it must be disposed of within three years.

Economy Takes Uncertain Path

By KRISTIN GOFF
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-After boom growth in the final months of 1978, the economy started out this year on an uncertain path.

While some reports issued this past week indicate the economy may be headed for slower growth, the nation's latest employment figures show businesses are hiring workers at near-record levels. Meanwhile, the fight against inflation doesn't offer much immediate hope for food shoppers.

Here in capsule form are major economic indicators announced this past week:

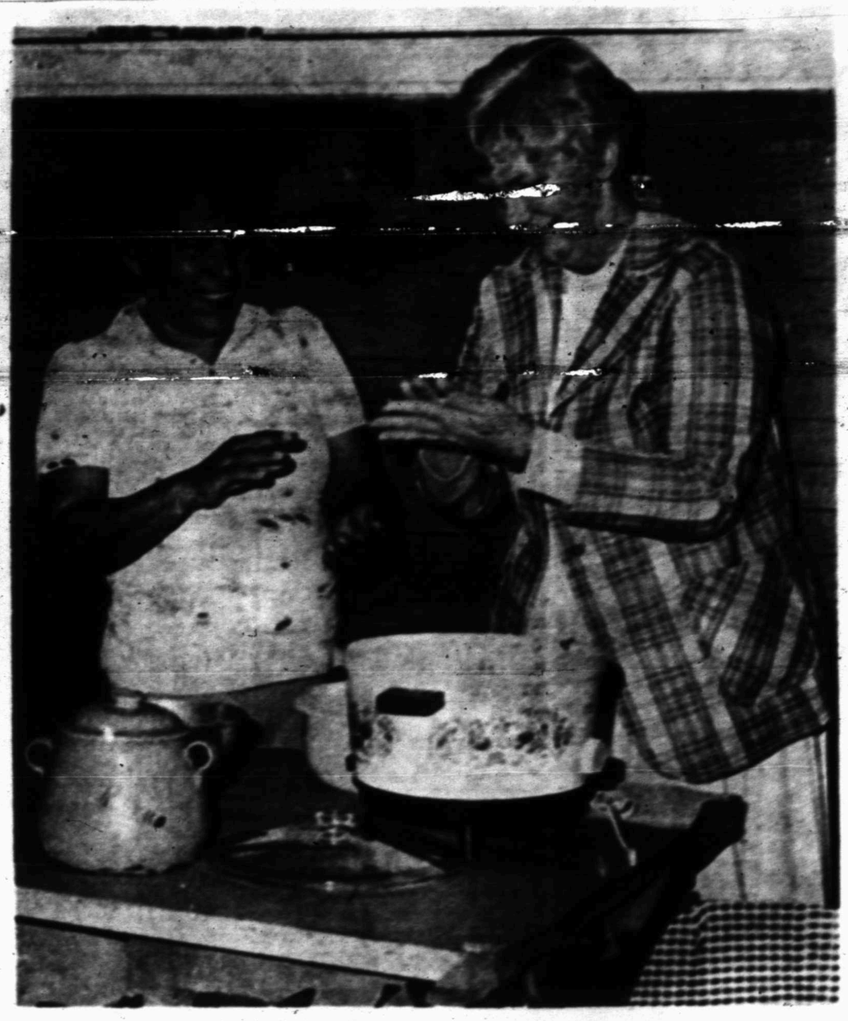

-Farm prices rose 5 percent in January from the month before and economists say most of that increase will soon show up at the grocery store. Economists for the Agriculture Department said it was clear to them that there will be sharp increases in food prices at least through the first three months of this year. Consumer prices of foods and beverages rose nearly 12 percent last year and some private economists are predicting increases of 10 to 14 percent this year. The Agriculture Department's forecast calls for consumer food prices to rise 6 to 10 percent this year.

-The government's index of 10 economic indicators dropped 0.5 percent in December, following a similar decline the previous month. Among factors responsible for the December drop were lower business orders for plant and equipment, a decline in the nation's money supply, and fewer contracts for building.

-The nation's unemployment rate slowed to 5.8 percent in January from 5.9 percent in December. At the same time, 450,000 new workers found jobs bringing the country's labor force to 96.3 million workers. Employment gains were made by all sectors - men, women, minorities and teen-agers. The department said hiring was up in all major industries, but the retailing business led with 130,000 new positions.

-Major department stores, with the exception of Sears, reported double-digit increases in sales for January on the strength of continued strong consumer buying and heavy use of promotional sales. Analysts said part of those large gains were caused by the comparison with sales a year ago, which were lagging because of severe storms. Sears, the nation's largest retailer, began a new marketing strategy earlier this year and has reported declining sales for the past five months.

-The U.S. trade deficit hit a record of $28.45 billion last year, up from 1977's previous record of $26.53 billion. The trade gap had been expected but the government forecast that it would narrow this year. One reason is the decline in the dollar's value against other currencies. Already many imported products are higher in price to make up the difference in the lower value of the dollar, and U.S. products abroad are relatively less expensive. Commerce Department economists say that tends to discourage U.S. imports and encourage exports.

Food Samples Used As Aid In Social Studies

A mini-fiesta featuring beans, peppery guacamole salad, a chicken and rice gumbo, and cheese enchiladas was dished out in child-sized portions Friday afternoon as children were allowed to sample what they were studying at Northeast Elementary.

They were studying Mexico and food, and the studies were combined in the form of a live demonstration put on by the mothers, aunts, and grandmothers of three classes of children at Northeast.

"My social studies class were studying Old Mexico," said Gayle Wittie, one of the teachers whose class was participating in the festive event," and Mrs. (Venona) Gilstrap's class was studying food."

The class of Sara Richter, also participating in the Friday fiesta, was studying science. That study included heat conduction, but it was never fully explained how the guacamole salad conducted so well the heat of the peppers.

As a practical demonstration, the mothers-cum-cooks prepared many of the foods in the classroom so the children could see, smell, and taste the subjects of their study.

The preparation of the authentic Mexican foods was made by Mrs. Della Alvarado, Mrs. Margarita Ayala, Mrs. Conde Sauceda, and Mrs. Eva Ramos. Mrs. Frances Felan gave a demonstration on making tissue paper flowers.

"It has really worked out to the satisfaction of all," said Mrs. Wittie. "We have mothers and grandmothers doing this. Those who didn't cook helped furnish the supplies. It was definitely a cooperative effort."

"I think the children became acquainted with the customs of Mexico, and it gave the parents of the children an opportunity to participate in a school activity. I think that's very important," said Gerri Parker, the school principal. "It also gave the parents an opportunity to work with teachers."

The event, however, was aimed at enlightenment for the children. "They've really experienced something this afternoon," said Mrs. Parker.

Hancock's Album A Surprise

HOLLYWOOD (AP)-The unsuspecting jazz buff who plops Herbie Hancock's new album on his turntable is in for a surprise.

Instead of the funny keyboard creations which Hancock's most recent recordings would lead a listener to expect, the hapless fan is going to be hearing shades of Saturday Night Fever - disco.

The album, "Feets Don't Fail Me Now," is due for release this month, but you can almost hear the screams of the purists.

After all, this is the same man who's dazzled jazz lovers - particularly those of the electronic persuasion - with nearly two dozen albums of his own since 1961, not to mention well over a hundred as a sideman. The Herbie Hancock who's played in bands with such jazz artists as Donald Byrd, Freddie Hubbard and the legendary Miles Davis. The composer of "Watermelon Man" and "Maiden Voyage."

Well, it won't be the first time Hancock has changed his musical orientation to the wails of some unprepared fans - and to the delight of countless new ones.

His 1973 "Headhunters" album, in which he turned from his increasingly complex works of the '60s and early '70s to a more accessible jazz-rock sound, also prompted some complaints.

Modern Elegance on Three Levels

HOME DESIGN
By Larry Farnsworth

Turn your back on tradition and embrace the modern and elegant simplicity of this distinctive tri-level. Its 1,935 square feet offer all the livability of a more traditional design in a manner uniquely its own.

The angular roof, the complimentary weathered wood siding, and the suppstone foundation — all add distinction to the exterior.

Inside the separate entry with its convenient beside-the-door coat closet there is an immediate straight-ahead view of the large, uniquely shaped sunken living room at the back of the house. Find here the perfect spot for entertaining around the large fireplace, or step beyond the sliding glass doors for additional outdoor living delights. And, note the exciting balcony-like view of the lower level family room over that living room railing.

At the front of this portion of the house and up an angled step from the living room, an oversized dining and kitchen combination offers an additional spacious area. Note, too, the U-type gourmet kitchen with its bounty of work and storage space.

In the central hallway one of the twin flights of stairs leads down to ground level and that large family room glimpsed earlier from above. Here sliding glass doors lead outside and an adjacent, oversized utility room offers space for washer, dryer, water heater, sink and counter. A short hall leads to an inside doorway to the big, double garage.

The third level, just a short flight up from the mid-floor hall, offers two bedrooms, a den or third bedroom, and two baths — one with a uniquely shaped corner shower. The master bedroom merits special attention with its large walk-in wardrobe and that very private deck just outside its sliding glass doors.

For the homeowner who demands an impressive house to equal an impressive life style, this modern and elegant model is exactly right.

More Cold Steps Up Cattle Feeding Work

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) Stockmen are busy supplying hay and protein supplement to their herds as winter wears on, and cotton harvesting is nearly complete across the state, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Weight losses are evident in cattle throughout the state due to the adverse winter weather and lack of green forages. Small grains such as wheat and oats are providing little or no grazing because of freeze damage. There have also been numerous pneumonia deaths among lambs, calves and stocker cattle.

Cotton harvesting is nearing completion over the High and Rolling Plains and in Far West and Central Texas. Pfannstiel said. About 35 percent of the crop remains to be harvested in the Rolling Plains, with lesser amounts in the other areas concerned.

Wet conditions are hampering land preparation over much of the state, including the Rio Grande Valley. However, some vegetable, citrus and sugar cane harvesting continues. Most of the citrus now being harvested will be processed into juice.

Some early watermelons are being planted in the Valley where field conditions permit, and a few early spring vegetables are being planted in sandy soils in East Texas.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: Some cotton remains to be harvested. Small grains are at a standstill due to cold. Adverse weather has been hard on cattle, with widespread shrinkage and some death losses. Supplemental feeding is heavy.

SOUTH PLAINS: Only a few cotton fields remain to be harvested. Ginning will continue in full swing for some time due to the large amount of cotton field-stored in modules. Wheat remains at a standstill due to cold. Cattle feeding is heavy due to poor grazing conditions.

ROLLING PLAINS: About 35 percent of the cotton crop is still out. Most small grains are making little progress due to recent freeze damage; oats were especially hard hit. Heavy cattle feeding continues. Dairy herds in Archer County are being culled heavily due to high market prices for beef.

NORTH CENTRAL: Agricultural work continues at a standstill except for livestock feeding. Cold, wet conditions are hampering small grains and limiting spring land preparation. Cattle feeding continues heavy, with stock holding in fair condition. Calving is increasing in some counties.

NORTHEAST: Small grains are hurt by freeze damage and winter grain mites and army-worms. Lack of grazing is keeping the pressure on livestock feeding, with most stock in fair condition. Wet fields are hampering spring land preparation.

FAR WEST: Cotton farmers are wrapping up a generally good harvest. Ranges are in generally good shape. Livestock feeding, calving and lambing are active. Some land is being prepared for spring crops.

WEST CENTRAL: Some cotton remains out. The crop was better than first expected. Small grains will benefit from recent rains but need warmer weather. Land preparation is under way for spring planting. Livestock are in fair to good condition, with feeding heavy. There is some lambing and calving, with some losses to predators and cold weather.

CENTRAL: Livestock feeding and care remain the main activity, with heavy shrinkage in most herds due to the adverse weather and lack of grazing. Small grains are in poor shape, with freeze damage especially heavy in oats.

AAM Leaders Mapping Their Monday Strategy

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- American Agriculture Movement leaders continued mapping out final battle plans Sunday in war-like preparation for Monday's tractor-led attack on Capitol Hill.

While District of Columbia police urged commuters to leave for work earlier than usual on Monday, the farmers feasted on barbecue and blue grass music in Warrenton, Va., Saturday night and scheduled a church service in the Department of Commerce auditorium Sunday morning.

More than 1,000 slow-moving tractors escorted by an equal number of support vehicles will begin creeping toward Washington early Monday morning, driven by farmers angered over Carter Administration policies.

The White House, Department of Agriculture and the Capitol are the three rendevous points of the tractorcades.

"You've got to have patience like you've never had before," Hereford farmer Gerald McCathern told an AAM gathering Friday night. "People are going to be getting in your way...sometimes Monday morning you're going to get locked down in the dangdest traffic jam you've ever seen and you may be there for three days."

While farmers weren't saying they would walk off and leave their tractors to block traffic, they hinted that some of the tractors wouldn't be driven out of Washington.

"When you get a lot of excited people together, you never know what's going to happen," said Marvin Meek, a Plainview farmer who, along with his wife and four-month-old daughter, traveled more than 1,800 miles in a tractorcade from Abilene.

Freshman Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, urged farmers from his West Texas district to "keep a cool head...certain people may try to get you in a bad situation and make you look bad. Don't let 'em do it. Keep everything smooth."

"I know you were a little mad when you got in a tractor in Lubbock and drove it all the way to Washington D.C. and you're disposition hasn't improved along the way.

"I have had several House members come up to me and ask about the problems of the farmers and where I stand."

"I repeat that old Darrell Royal line...'I'll dance with the one who brung me," continued Hance referring to the legendary University of Texas football coach.

Following Hance's speech, McCathern gave the congressman some advice.

"If you're planning on driving to work Monday, you'd better get an early start...and plan on staying in town Monday night. You might not be able to get out."

Americans spend some $4 billion a year to discard 140 million tons of solid waste that is rich in recyclable materials.

Blonde Skater Is Rising Star

HOLLYWOOD (AP)-Illinois-born Lynn-Holly Johnson skates like a dream in her first movie, and you might suppose she would be headed for a career like Sonja Henie's.

"I don't think a run of skating pictures would go over today," says Miss Johnson, who just turned 20. "Ice skating is much more popular today than it was in Sonja Henie's time, and it's no longer a novelty to see it on the screen."

On the blades or off, critics have predicted a promising career for the girl whose only previous acting was in a neighborhood play. She has a captivating naturalness as well as blonde beauty that is near perfection. Also a mind of her own.

"When they first showed me the script of 'Ice Castles,' it was aimed for an 'R' rating," she remarked. "I said I wasn't interested. Apparently they were in the process of changing the script, anyway, and it became a PG. Then I was interested."

Columbia Pictures is hoping that "Ice Castles" will be the first sleeper of 1979. The film was released in eight selected cities in December, with encouraging results. Receipts for the third week equaled the first, indicating that the film has staying power.

The movie is unabashedly sentimental. Lynn-Holly Johnson plays an ice skater who is being pushed toward Olympic competition by her widower father, Tom Skerritt. She is also influenced by her coach Jennifer Warren and a rink owner (Colleen Dewhurst) as well as a sportscaster David Huffman. An accident leaves the girl almost blind, and help comes from a young hockey player, Robby Benson.

William Pitt, English orator and statesman, died in 1806.

Vincenzo To Be Famer

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP)--Argentine golfer Robert de Vincenzo, who has won more than 240 tournaments and 29 national championships, will be inducted into the PGA Hall of Fame on Sunday.

The 55-year-old de Vincenzo becomes the 47th recipient of the award given by the Professional Golfers Association since its creation in 1940.

The son of an Italian immigrant who turned professional at 15 will be inducted at ceremonies at Disney World, where the PGA is completing a month-long series of tournaments.

Despite his great number of victories around the world, the colorful de Vincenzo is probably best known for losing the 1968 Masters Tournament - by signing a score card which showed one stroke higher than he actually shot.

Host Odessa Monday...

Dusters Squeeze A Win

PLAINVIEW--Western Texas College Dusters tuned for an important conference tilt by edging Wayland Junior varsity here Friday evening, 73-71.

The victory puts the Dusters at 17-9 on the season going into Monday's conference game with Odessa at 6 p.m. Monday in Snyder's Scurry County Coliseum.

"It was a well played ball game," noted WTC Coach Joe Cushing. "I think we were concentrating more on Odessa, but the girls responded real well," he added, noting that Wayland was one of the better teams we've played this year."

The contest was close all the way, with both WTC and Wayland taking six point leads at times, only to see them whittled away.

Nodia Vaughn reved the Duster effort, hitting 12 of 15 shots from the free throw line and four field goals for 20 points. She also accounted for 12 of WTC's 33 rebounds.

Joyce Plagens and Brigett Hamilton also landed in the doubles. Plagens hit six of 10 from the field, four of five from the line for her 16 points. She also had five rebounds. Hamilton was six of 13 from the floor and five of six from the stripe for 17 points. She grabbed seven rebounds and four steals.

Cushing was especially pleased with the performance of Liz Hooper, commenting, "She played one of the best games she's played all year. Nodia, Joyce and Brigett all followed suit."

Hooper was three of five from the field, and two of two from the line for eight points, and directed the Duster offense, while playing a tough defensive game.

WTC grabbed the win from the charity stripe, hitting 25 of 33 freethrows for 75.7 percent. The girls were 24 of 60 from the field, 40 percent.

Welch paced the Bee's with 28 points, while Kennedy had 12 and Brasher scored 11.

WTC Schedules Father-Son Night

Western Texas College hosts a pair of important Western Athletic Conference games in the coliseum Monday, which has been designated Father & Son Night by school officials.

Fathers and their sons will be admitted free to the double header, which is scheduled to begin at 6 o'clock as the Dusters entertain Odessa Junior College.

Odessa girls come into the contest boasting a 17-2 record and lead the conference with a 6-1 mark. WTC however, is 4-1 in league play, making Monday's contest an important battle for the conference top spot - if only temporarily.

Facing a two-game road stint beginning Thursday, the Dusters could also gain some added strength with a victory Monday.

Coach Nolan Richardson's Westerners again took over the conference lead in men's play last week as WTC defeated Howard College and Midland fell to New Mexico Junior College.

The week's outcome left the Westerners with an 8-2 mark, while Midland, NMJC and New Mexico Military Institute are all one game back at 7-3. Odessa - Monday's 8 p.m. Westerner opponent - holds a challanging 6-3 record.

Odessa will be coming to Scurry County Coliseum riding on a pair of victories. Odessa defeated Amarillo 79-76 last Monday, and Frank Phillips 102-89 on Thursday.

The Westerners tripped at NMMI, 80-69, but came back to slap Howard College 97-66 on Thursday.

WTC officials have announced that a Mother & Daughter Night will be held in the near future.

Tigers Breeze By Cubs

BROWNFIELD-Snyder High School grabbed its fifth consecutive District 3-3A win, a second one in round-two play, whipping the Brownfield Cubs here Friday, 107-59.

The Tigers rolled out to a 22-14 lead in the first quarter, and never relinquished the lead. Every Snyder player participated in the contest, and a dozen put points on the board.

Sid Everton, 5-9 guard, geared the offense, throwing in 20 points. Mike Hicks drilled the cords for 15 points, and Kyle Short and Greg Hinton scored 10 apiece.

The effort was "one of the best we've had," commented Coach Jack Stephenson. "We hadn't played really well since Christmas, but last night it looked as if maybe we're getting some of it back," he added.

The victory gives Snyder - ranked No. 4 in the state - a 24-5 record, and a 2-0 mark in round two of District 3-3A play.

The Tigers need wins over Sweetwater, 0-2, and San Angelo Lake View, 1-0, to net a berth into the playoffs against Lamesa, which won the first round.

In the meantime, Snyder will stage a non-conference outing with Andrews on Feb. 5. Andrews was ranked No. 6 according to the latest poll.

For Brownfield Friday, Wilkes scored 16 points and Romero had 10. The loss knocks the Cubs out of the district race with a 0-2 record. They are 1-27 in season play.

Tuesday's game with Andrews will be preceded by a 6:15 junior varsity contest. The varsity tilt will begin at 8. On Friday, the Tigers will resume district play, hosting Sweetwater at Scurry County Coliseum.

National Basketball Association Wrapup...

Irate Free Burns Out On Denver Nuggets

By The Associated Press

Lloyd Free of the San Diego Clippers, who grumbled openly after being overlooked for duty in the National Basketball Association All-Star game, backed up his remarks with action against the Denver Nuggets.

Free, the snub ever on his mind, scored a career-high 49 points Friday night in carrying the Clippers to a 124-10 rout ruining the coaching debut of Donnie Walsh.

In the other NBA games on the final night of competition before the All-Star contest, the Seattle SuperSonics nipped the Milwaukee Bucks 104-102, the Boston Celtics beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 112-98, the Indiana Pacers trimmed the Golden State Warriors 87-84, the New York Knicks edged the Philadelphia 76ers 105-101 and the Chicago Bulls topped the New Orleans Jazz 116-110.

Meanwhile, the Washington Bullets dropped the Houston Rockets 120-106, the Kansas City Kings pasted the Detroit Pistons 130-114, the Phoenix Suns drubbed the San Antonio Spurs 133-108 and the Portland Trail Blazers bombed the New Jersey Nets 117-100.

SuperSonics 104, Bucks 102

John Johnson's layup with 10 seconds remaining carried Seattle past Milwaukee, overshadowing a 31-point performance by the Bucks' Marques Johnson. Jack Sikma had 22 points for the SuperSonics.

Celtics 112, Cavaliers 98

Cedric Maxwell collected 27 points and Chris Ford added 23 as Boston bested Cleveland for its third consecutive victory.

Pacers 87, Warriors 84

Indiana got 24 points from Alex English to beat Golden State and extend its winning streak to five — the team's longest since a six-game streak during the 1976-77 season. Phil Smith led the Warriors with 24 points.

Knicks 105, Philadelphia 101

Marvin Webster canned a pair of free throws with 36 seconds remaining to cap a New York rally and lift the Knicks over the 76ers.

Bulls 116, Jazz 110

Chicago snapped a four-game losing streak as Artis Gilmore scored 14 fourth-quarter points and finished with 26. New Orleans got 20 points from Jim McElroy.

Bullets 120, Rockets 106

Bob Dandridge, with a game-high 32 points, helped Washington win its fourth consecutive game and hand Houston its fourth straight loss.

Kings 130, Pistons 114

Otis Birdsong continued his hot shooting, scoring 32 points to break the 30-point barrier for the third time in four games as Kansas City pummelled Detroit.

Suns 133, Spurs 108

Phoenix had seven players in double figures, including Alvan Adams' team-high 22 points, in besting San Antonio.

Sutton To Apologize

AUSTIN (AP)—Arkansas basketball Coach Eddie Sutton says he'll write a formal apology to Texas guard John Moore "for any embarrassment I might have caused him" by remarks during Thursday night's game.

But Sutton denies he bumped or shoved the Texas player during a confrontation moments after the halftime buzzer.

Sutton's remarks to the 6-foot-3 Moore infuriated Texas Coach Abe Lemons, who grabbed Sutton's coat lapels before bystanders and security guards quickly separated the two coaches.

Moore, a senior from Altoona, Pa., tried to draw a charging foul by stepping in front of an Arkansas player with two seconds left in the half. No foul was called and the buzzer sounded, but Sutton confronted Moore as both teams headed for the dressing room.

Lemons said Sutton bumped Moore and called him a "dirty player."

"I asked him what the hell he was doing badgering my player. He (Sutton) wasn't calm. He was right up against John, raving at him. He was screaming like a banshee. He's not supposed to berate the kids."

"I told Moore he was too good a player to take a cheap shot like that. I did not say he was a dirty player," Sutton explained after 19th-ranked Arkansas' 68-58 Southwest Conference victory over the 11th-ranked Longhorns.

"I have too much respect for John Moore to say a thing like that," Sutton continued. "I didn't think what I said was that hard on him, but maybe I shouldn't have said anything. I apologize for that. Maybe I was out of line."

But Sutton insisted, "There was no physical contact between" himself and the Texas player.

Moore, kept away from reporters after the game, has not commented.

Lemons said his face-off with Sutton almost got out of hand.

"He was shouting and I was shouting, and people started pushing and shoving," he said. "The next thing you know, it looks like a riot when it's really just two people standing there."

Sutton and Lemons exchanged heated words again at the end of the game.

"I told him (Sutton) that if he ever says another word to any of my players, I'll whip his butt. And you can print that," Lemons stormed after the game. "I'll liquidate him. I'll tear his Sunday clothes."

The tempers cooled a little Friday.

Black Makes Finals; Snyder Gold Falls

SWEETWATER — Snyder's eighth grade boys Black team popped the Big Spring Toros 36-26 here Friday to advance to the finals of the Sweetwater Tournament.

Snyder Black was to play Big Spring Brahmas at 6 p.m. Saturday in the finals.

In other action Friday, Snyder Gold lost to the Brahmas 50-45.

Curtis Gafford and Glenn Parham led the Black team's effort scoring 14 and 12 points respectively. Kirk Herrley, and Ken Kitching scored 4 points each, while Whit Parks had 2.

The win leaves Snyder with a 12-1 record.

The Gold team was paced by Brent Roemisch's 17 points, while David Nicholson scored 16. Gerald Hicks had 6, while Richard Derrick, Richard Johnson and Matt Davis noted 2 each.

Snyder Gold is 6-6 for the season.

Trotter Fan Gets Wish

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-After a friend interceded with a letter to sportswriters, 9 year-old David Riojas got a job as ballboy for the Harlem Globetrotters.

"He may never see them again," his buddy implored - David is going blind.

David has uveitus, a disease for which there is no known cure, said his mother, Grace Riojas. The illness causes inflammation in the iris.

"I keep telling myself he will get better, but he doesn't," she said. "It's horrifying to think that one day my son will no longer see."

The barnstorming Globetrotters are David's idols. He's a star on a local YMCA team and aspires to be a pro basketball player. But doctors say the rare eye disease likely will interfere.

"The boys on the other teams make fun of him a lot and sometimes he crys. He loves basketball," William Linthicum Jr., David's best friend, wrote in a letter to the San Antonio News.

"Please let him be a ballboy for the Globetrotters because he may never see them again," the pal said in a note scrawled on tablet paper. A few words were misspelled.

Linthicum, which is also 9 years old, did not tell David he had written the note. But he had the permission of his friend's mother.

The Globetrotters publicity agent was told of the appeal by News sportswriters, and arranged for David to act as ballboy during an exhibition game today.

Thursday, David learned he would be ballboy for the Globetrotters.

"He's very excited," said Mrs. Riojas. "He's really counting down the days."

But David also was told Thursday that doctors could not operate on his cataract-closed left eye for fear that surgery would inflame the disease.

"I guess I know that one day I will go completely blind," David said quietly. "It scares me."

Mrs. Riojas said David first showed signs of the disease two years ago, when he ran into a tree and injured his head.

"He said he didn't see the tree. He began rubbing his eyes a lot," she explained.

Since then, doctors have operated on the boy's right eye to remove a scab that had formed as a result of the disease and medicine.

Few Bouts For Fem Wrestler

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP)-Bellevue High School's best-known wrestler is in a fighting mood because grapplers from other schools won't go to the mat with her.

Sophomore Rhonda Bingham is undefeated in three trips to the mat because her male opponents forfeited rather than face her in what they acknowledge is a ticklish situation.

"I like to wrestle. I have a right to wrestle," says the 5-foot-2 Bingham, who enters in the 115-pound weight class.

The latest forfeiture was by sophomore Lynn Martin of Interlake High School, who was so uncomfortable at the prospect of grappling with a girl that he bowed out Thursday night.

"I asked Martin if he was willing to wrestle with her and he told me he would be willing to wrestle if the team needed him but he really didn't want to," said Coach Thurmond Lander. "I decided I couldn't put him under that kind of pressure."

When Bingham made her solo trip to the mat to have the official raise her arm in victory, the Interlake team applauded her and fans cheered.

One Interlake sophomore said, "Martin, he just didn't want to be the first. You'd be teased, you know, about brutalizing a girl."

On Wednesday, a Redmond High School No. 1 seed contestant for the KingCo Conference finals forfeited his match. Redmond Coach Ted Kuykendall read a preapred statement that wrestler Art Veyna decided to forfeit the match, noting that the forfeiture jeopardizes Veyna's seeding.

"But if he wrestles, he will be going against his morals and ethics," said the coach.

Bingham said Kuykendall "threw a temper tantrum. First he challenged my hair and then my fingernails and then my nail polish. The he said my T-shirt wasn't league regulation.

Pro-Am To Be Restarted

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Barring more bad weather that washed out Friday's opening round, a field of 144 was to restart the fifth Crosby Southern Pro-Am Golf Tournament Saturday.

Rain, sleet and a waterspout caused a one-hour delay, forcing officials to cancel Friday's round.

The two-day tourney, a satellite of the Crosby Open, will run today and Sunday at Irvine Coast Country Club.

Final Chance To Qualify

POMONA, Calif. (AP)—Last-minute qualifying was scheduled today after poor weather plagued the Winternationals for the second straight year.

Officials spent four hours working on the track at Los Angeles Fairgrounds Friday, but showers washed out all but one hour.

Drivers who did not qualify during the hour of activity have only today to do it. Single-elimination finals and eight separate categories are still scheduled for Sunday.

Source Of Legionnaires Disease Found

ATLANTA (AP)-Health officials say Legionnaires disease bacterium discovered in the cooling towers of six Dallas hotels may have been sucked into the hotels' air conditioning systems last August during a Veterans of Foreign Wars convention, causing 18 cases of the disease, one of which proved fatal.

Dr. Albert England of the Center for Disease Control said Friday that researchers had found Legionnaires bacterium in the cooling towers of hotels where conventioneers stayed. He declined to identify the hotels. England said neither hotel employees nor Dallas residents are in danger.

Six Mishaps Are Reported In City

Six minor traffic accidents and one criminal mischief were reported to city police Friday.

The criminal mischief complaint was made by Oscar Garcia who told officers his $200 windshield was broken while his car was parked outside the Chamizal Club. That report was received shortly after 10 p.m.

Otherwise, reports of traffic accidents dominated police investigations.

The city's first collision was reported at 1:30 p.m., but it occurred Jan. 20 in the 2500 block of Ave. W. There, reports show, a 1977 Ford pickup driven by Michael Lee Keller struck a metal post.

The second mishap was at the parking lot of Snyder Shopping Center. A 1979 Ford driven by Joyce Gibson Barrett of Pampa was in collision with a 1969 Chevrolet driven by Golda Caffey Foster of Hermleigh. It took place at 1:45 p.m.

A 1977 Peterbilt truck driven by Gumar Blazge of San Antonio struck a traffic light in the 2500 block of Ave. R. Damage to the light was set at $600. It was reported at 1:55 p.m.

The 2600 block of College Ave. was the scene of a two-car collision at 1:57 p.m. According to reports, a 1974 Mercury driven by Joanne Sterling and a 1978 Chevrolet driven by Nolan Richardson collided.

A 1974 Ambassador driven by Walla Fish collided with a parked 1976 GMC pickup owned by Ted H. Young. That mishap was at 3:30 p.m in the 2700 block of Ave. R.

At 4:38 p.m. a 1973 Dodge driven by Prentice Elmer Smith and a 1969 GMC pickup driven by Carroll Pete Harbin collided in the 2700 block of 32nd St.

Punk Rocker Drug Death Accidental

NEW YORK (AP)—Sid Vicious, the punk rock pioneer whose career was marked by violence - both real and imagined - apparently died of an accidental drug overdose, authorities say. He was 21.

Vicious' nude body was discovered by his mother Friday at his girlfriend's apartment after a party celebrating his release from city jail the day before, police said. His latest girlfriend, Michele Robinson, was asleep beside him, authorities added.

Others at the party told police that Vicious, who was charged with stabbing another girlfriend to death Oct. 12, drank beer at the gathering. But about midnight, he crept into the bathroom and injected an unknown amount of heroin into his body, they said.

"About 45 minutes later he went into a seizure, but came out of it," detective Richard Houseman said he was told.

The party broke up about 2 a.m., Vicious went to bed about an hour later, and died during the night, Houseman said.

In 1969, European industries and services were paralyzed by a major epidemic of influenza.

Nobody Loves A Ceremony

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)-Everyone may love a parade, but there's good reason to believe the same can't be said about ceremonies.

Off-duty Jefferson County sheriff's deputies were summoned to attend the sheriff's inauguration Jan. 19, and 41 showed up.

But the county personnel director said the deputies demanded and will receive two hours of overtime pay for their appearance.

Sheriff Mel Bailey termed the pay claim "childish."

Concern about mineral oil

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 13-year-old daughter has had a problem with bowel movements since she was an infant. She sometimes only has one or two bowel movements a month.

A few years ago, the doctor had her take mineral oil at bedtime which didn't help. Recently he has had X-rays taken and the doctor said everything seems to be fine. He now has her taking mineral oil four times a day. As a result she has a bowel movement about twice a week.

I am very concerned about the statement on the mineral oil bottle that prolonged use can cause a dependency on laxatives. Should she continue taking mineral oil and is there anything else we can do for her?

DEAR READER — Many people will be surprised at your story. It's probable that your daughter has a megacolon, which means nothing more than a very large colon. Some people are born with the problem. They lack the normal nerve fibers in the distal part of the colon and rectum.

Since they don't have normal contractions in the terminal portion of the colon, they don't have normal bowel movements. In many of these instances the problem is treated surgically. The area of the colon that doesn't have any nerve fibers is removed and the rest of the colon is attached at that point. This removes the functional obstruction that the person was born with.

Most instances of megacolon are functional or developed later. Megacolon usually develops during bowel training. These people resist having a bowel movement and develop a large distended colon. Surgery is not indicated in these cases.

Mineral oil in large amounts is used for the condition that you describe. I'm personally not very fond of its use in this case or in other cases on a long-term basis. It doesn't correct the underlying problem. It can lead to chronic dependency in the same way that a person can become dependent on any form of laxative.

Aside from that, studies have shown that mineral oil is a foreign substance to the body. Some of it is absorbed and is treated as a foreign substance in the organs where it deposits. Also, there is always the danger that a small amount of mineral oil in the back of the throat when it is swallowed can be sucked into the lungs, leading to a condition called lipid pneumonia (fat drop pneumonia).

In cases of acquired megacolon, some doctors recommend using enemas and developing a bowel training program. This isn't easy and it takes a long time. The danger of using enemas is that if you use plain tap water, the water may be retained and lead to water intoxication. To avoid this, a saline enema is commonly used.

You might get some help out of stool softeners that don't pose the same problems that you have with mineral oil. I am sending you The Health Letter number 12-6, Laxatives, Enemas and Suppositories. It will give you some general information on what you can expect from laxatives.

Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I would like to caution that laxatives and measures used for ordinary adult constipation won't relieve the kind of problem your daughter has. She needs to train her normal bowel habit. In the process she will probably need help with enemas. Since you are concerned about the mineral oil usage, I think you should discuss this with your doctor.

Daughters Of 17th Century Has Meeting

The Whit Clark residence north of Rotan was setting for the Saturday luncheon meeting of Tejas chapter of the National Society of Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century. Miss Delila Baird, chapter president, presided.

Mrs. Ruple Morrow voiced the opening prayer. Following this, the group was served a buffet luncheon prepared by the hostess, Mrs. Clark.

The business meeting opened with the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America led by Mrs. Clark. She also gave the national defense report which related to attitudes and lack of active concern on the part of citizens of our nation.

During reports of officers Mrs. Morrow gave the treasurer's report; Miss Josie Baird, registrar, noted that three lineage claims of applicants are pending with the registrar general, and presented names of five prospective new members for chapter approval; and Mrs. Al Harris, historian, displayed the scrapbook depicting the history of Tejas Chapter since organization in 1977.

Committee chairmen reporting were Mrs. Leland S. Herod, commemorative stamps; Mrs. Ernest Thomas, junior membership and historical activities; and Miss Josie Baird, genealogical records.

A nominating committee made up of Miss Josie Baird, Mrs. Whit Clark and Mrs. Kenneth Whisenant was elected. Officers for 1979 through 1982 will be elected at the April meeting. Delegates chosen to represent Tejas Chapter at the National Assembly in Washington, D.C. in April are Miss Delila Baird, president, Mrs. Ruple Morrow, Mrs. Bernie C. McCrea and Miss Josie Baird.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Bernie C. McCrea introduced Mrs. Henry F. Clark who presented the program for the meeting. Mrs. Clark gave a treatise on the topic, "The First Ladies." She also showed pictures of her subjects which helped portray the wide range of characteristics of those ladies who have graced the White House and served as hostesses for the presidents of our country.

Attending the luncheon meeting were Mmes. McCrea and Whisenant of Abilene; Mrs. Harris of Kermit; Mrs. Thomas of Odessa; Mmes. Whit Clark, Morrow, Connie Tutt, and the Misses Bairds of Rotan; Mmes. Ophelia Blackard, Henry F. Clark, Herod of Snyder; and Mrs. L.T. Nelson of Sweetwater.

The next meeting will be the last Saturday of April and will be hosted by Snyder members.

The National Society of Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century is an organization of women who can trace lineal descent from an ancestor who settled in America, and performed certain designated services to the colonies, prior to 1700.

PRESENTS PROGRAM-At left, Mrs. Bernie C. McCrea of Abilene and Mrs. Henry F. Clark look over materials presented by Mrs. Clark on "The First Ladies," at the recent Tejas Chapter of Colonial Daughter of the 17th Century. Mrs. McCrea is vice president and program chairman of the chapter.

One of the most versatile "vegetables," the mushroom isn't really a vegetable at all. It's a fungus.

Though sold in vegetable sections of stores, the mushroom cannot be called a vegetable because it has no green coloring matter and cannot take carbon dioxide from the air. It is produced from spores under precise conditions of temperature, light and humidity.

For calorie counters, mushrooms are ideal--they have only 66 per pound. Nutritionally, they have a relatively high phosphorus content and contain good amounts of riboflavin, niacin and other B-vitamins. They even contain protein.

Store mushrooms in the refrigerator uncovered in a tall plastic container. Fresh mushrooms will keep a week, but don't wash before storing.

Select white firm, slightly moist mushrooms. Mushrooms are perfectly good when opened or if they have brown spots on them. Size does not affect taste--it's merely a matter of personal preference.

It isn't necessary to peel mushrooms. Rinse them quickly in a ligh stream of cold water, never let them soak. Cook no longer than 10 minutes in a little butter or margarine with salt and pepper to taste.

Turning to past glories of the mushroom, centuries ago the Chinese treasured them as a delicacy and a medicine. The Romans prized mushrooms highly as a food for the gods. Cultivated mushrooms were grown in caves and cellars of France in 1749. Today the U.S. is the leading cultivator of mushrooms.

The business meeting was conducted by Durelle Gorman, president. The meditation was given by Geraldine Parker, and the Golden Moments were presented by Mary Devenport.

The program was presented by the educational services committee. In part it was stated that during the Decade of Women it is appropriate that the United Nations has set aside the International Year of the Child. It will include something for everyone. The focus will not only be on the disadvantaged but on the gifted and creative as well. The year-long observance began this January as the 20th anniversary of the United Nations' approval of a Declaration of the Rights of the Child, a document modeled on the earlier Human Rights Declaration.

In preparation for this observance the organization is aware of the goals set forth in the U.N. Declaration for the Year of the Child:

"The right of affection, love and understanding.

The right of adequate nutrition and medical care.

The right of free education.

The right to full opportunity for play and recreation.

The right to a name and nationality.

The right to special care, if handicapped.

The right to be among the first to receive relief in times of disaster.

The right to learn to be a useful member of society and develop individual abilities.

The right to be brought up in a spirit of peace and universal brotherhood.

The right to enjoy these rights, regardless of race, creed, color, sex, religion, national or social origin."

Perhaps the best solution would be to foster cooperation between home and school, the committee added. If children are the world's most precious resource, everyone must work together to protect that wealth. Parent involvement, good teaching, strong administration and well-planned, stimulating curricula are a four-lane highway to helping a child develop to his full potential. Everyone shares in the responsibility, the educational committee concluded.

Girl Scout Cookies Make Tasty Desserts

Brownie, Junior and Cadette Girl Scouts are selling cookies in this area. They began Friday and will continue through Feb 17th.

Two new cookies have been added to the five sold last year. They are granola and sesame wheat crackers. Others are peanut butter sandwich, peanut butter patty, mint, sandwich cream and shortbread.

Girl Scouts offer the following recipes using the various kinds of cookies for tasty desserts.

COOKIES 'N FRUIT
(Sandwich Cremes)

Pour 1 can pie filling into 8 inch pie plate. Press 6 to 8 Sandwich Creme cookies slightly into surface. Heat at 400 degree oven until bubbling, about 15 minutes. Spoon into dessert dishes. Serve warm with cream. 4 to 6 servings. Peach, pineapple, or appie pie filling may be used.

BANANA-COOKIE PUDDING
(Sandwich Cremes)

Place a layer of Sandwich Creme cookies (Shortbread may also be used) in a dish. Add a layer of your favorite pudding, then a layer of sliced bananas. Repeat layers, chill before serving.

Strawberry-Whipped Cream-Cookie Compote
(Shortbread Cookies)

Layer Shortbread cookies in dessert dish, add a layer of chilled strawberries and top with whipped cream.

MINT ICE CREAM
(Thin Mint Cookies)

1 pint whipping cream
1 14 oz. can sweetened condensed milk
12 to 20 chocolate mint cookies chilled

Beat whipping cream and add condensed milk slowly, mixing well. Put mint cookies in a paper bag and roll to crumbs. Stir these into the cream and pour into an ice tray. When partially frozen, remove from refrigeration and stir once. Refreeze.

APRICOT WHIP
(Shortbread cookies)

½ Tbls. plain gelatin
3 Tbls. cold water
1 C hot apricot syrup
¾ C crumbled Shortbread cookies
1 C whipping cream
12 stewed apricot halves, sweetened to taste

Soften gelatin in cold water; add to hot syrup and stir until dissolved. Cool and chill. When slightly jellied and beginning to set, whip until fluffy. Fold in crumbled cookies and whipped cream. Place the apricot halves in bottom of mold and stand the cookies around the edge. Pour in gelatin mixture and chill until firm.

Today's hand shows the invention of a common sense convention. The late Sonny Moyse (long editor of the Bridge World) sat West. The late Al Morehead (once editor of the Bridge World, but best known as bridge editor of the New York Times) sat East.

Moyse and Morehead claimed to be bad card holders and they certainly were with today's hand.

Three notrump is unbeatable. But back in 1930, and right now in 1979, any North-South pair would arrive at the four-spade contract.

Al won the diamond lead with his ace. A club shift was obvious and Al made the abnormal lead of the queen rather than the normal king lead.

When he continued with the king, Sonny went into communion with nature. Why had Al led the queen?

Finally, Sonny said to himself, "He must be meaning to tell me something and that something must be that he was dealt just those two clubs."

So Sonny rose with his ace, gave his partner a club ruff and still was minus 50 points since lucky South had 100 honors.

Valentine's Day 1979: Love's Not What It Was

By JOE WING
For AP Newsfeatures

This being the season of St. Valentine, let us consider the status of love in America. The status of romantic love, since its invention in the 12th century by French toroubadors, has rarely changed more than in the decade past. Originally, the idea was for a knight to sigh after the favors of a high-born lady. Now, hopeless sighing is out of fashion. A young man is likely to move right in with his girl friend.

Recently, the Population Reference Bureau estimated that nearly a million unwedded couples are living together, an 83 percent increase since 1970. It's not only the youngsters who are doing it, but also oldsters who fear marriage will slash their Social Security benefits.

Unmarried bliss is not unalloyed, however. Psychologists observe that unmarrieds have many of the same problems of money, personality conflicts, division of labor and sexual conflicts as do marrieds. And their breakups are often as traumatic as divorces.

By no means are all singles enamored of one night stands or two-name households. A New York man who announced in singles bars that he was looking for a wife received 5,000 letters from women.

There have been commentaries by the yard on how pervasive sex is in America's culture. Advertisements and novels, as well as movie, TV and theater themes, bear this out. Obvious also is the spread of prostitution, massage parlors, sex shops, racy entertainers, girlie magazines and peep shows. Police are hampered in efforts to control this, they say, by court rulings.

With such goings on, it might be expected that the nation's birth rate would shoot up. Instead, there was a decline from 18.4 births per thousand to 14.7 in 1976. This edged up to 15.2, however, part way through 1978. Even that small rise was puzzling to those who noted that in a decade the number of working women had risen from 29 million to 35 million, legalized abortion had spread, zero population growth had been touted and birth control techniques and materials had proliferated.

A rise in the marriage rate to 10.1 per thousand population was reported in 1977 after a drop from 10.6 in 1970 to 9.9 in 1976. That was still double the divorce rate, even though the latter had risen spectacularly.

Still, when all statistics are said and done, and sociological developments ticked off, the spirit of Valentine lives on.

One story is that this third-century saint, on the night before he was beheaded, wrote an affectionate note to the jailer's daughter, whom he had cured of blindness, and signed it "Your Valentine."

In America, Valentines have been exchanged since early in the country's history. And Valentine's Day continues to be a red-letter day for greeting-card shops, candy stores, flower shops and lovers.

Consumer Food News

COLLEGE STATION—Poultry, root vegetables and selected fruits are among budget buys at Texas grocery markets this week, according to Gwendolyne Clyatt.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Current price and quality trends are the following:

POULTRY--Eggs are a bargain with large sizes offering the best buy. Fryer chicken prices, generally, are a bit higher, but some markets continue to offer specials on both whole birds and fryer parts.

FRESH VEGETABLES--Best values include carrots, dry onions, rutabagas and potatoes.

Current supplies of lettuce are undependable, however spinach, escarole and endive offer excellent substitutes. Cabbage is a good guy, but reduced supply may increase prices.

FRESH FRUITS--Best buys include apples, bananas, avocados, oranges and pears. Look for most economical grapefruit buys on large-size---they are more plentiful than the smaller size grapefruits.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES--Feature items include canned tomatoes and tomato products, pot pies and some dinners.

RED MEAT OUTLOOK--Adverse weather conditions continue to make the red meat market irregular. Prices are higher on some items, so careful comparison shopping is necessary for best values.

BEEF--Features generally include chuck roasts and steaks, a variety of steaks for broiling, ground beef and beef liver.

PORK--Some markets feature Boston butt roasts, shoulder steaks, quarter loan cut into chops and pork liver.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Rice makes an excellent "stretcher" for meats and other protein foods.

His Kids Block Her Bridal Path

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old divorcee and, if I say so myself, I am attractive and desirable. I recently met a gentleman, also divorced and equally attractive and desirable. He is 60. Sam has two married children living in another state.

He gave me a big rush and I know he wants to marry me, but he says he cannot formally propose marriage until after his children meet me and agree that we are right for each other.

Abby, I have grown children, too, but the man I marry doesn't have to pass my children's inspection. Naturally, I would hope that my children liked the man, but if they didn't, it wouldn't matter to me.

This business of having to get approval from Sam's children irritates me. In fact, it turns me off. Do you think it means anything?

LIL IN BROOKLYN

DEAR LIL: YES. It means that, after Sam's children, you come first.

DEAR READERS: There are thousands of people in hospitals, institutions and homes because the transplant organs they need are not available. These include kidneys, corneas, heart, pituitary glands and other organs and tissues that must be removed from accident victims quickly before oxygen starvation renders them useless.

What most people do not know is that most states now use the driver's license to identify organ donors. Under the Anatomical Gift Act, people who are killed in traffic accidents may avoid dying in vain.

The organ-donor sticker form (or decal) authorizes doctors to remove needed organs immediately after the victim's death, and to use those organs in transplant operations.

Readers may acquire the details of organ-donation laws by writing to the motor vehicle departments of their own states. They may write also to the National Kidney Foundation, 116 East 27th St., New York, N.Y. 10016.

"Gift of Life" laws are relatively new. Their application through the driver's license is increasing in all states. The universal adoption of the Anatomical Gift Act (with its strict safeguards to verify that the donor is in fact dead before organs may be removed) would offer new hope to the country's afflicted.

I have personally willed all my usable organs, and feel that nothing I could leave after my death will be of greater value.

LOVE,
ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I recently ran into a girl with whom I had gone through school. I had heard she had married recently, so I said, "Oh, by the way, congratulations on getting married!"

She reacted in a peculiar way, and instead of thanking me for my congratulations, she said, "Why congratulate me as if I had accomplished the impossible? Didn't you think I was capable of getting a guy to marry me?"

I was shocked, since this was the farthest thing from my mind.

When I told my mother what had happened, she said I had committed the cardinal sin – that one never congratulates a bride. The bride should be given best wishes and the groom congratulations.

Is this true?

NEW TO ME

DEAR NEWS: It's true. But if that's the greatest "sin" you ever commit, you may qualify for sainthood.

Fat Couple Win Right To Adopt

MADISON, Wis. (AP)- Barbara and Gordon Ray say they gained a victory for fat people when the state backed down and said they had as much right as thinner folks to adopt a child.

The state Thursday suspended a rule which barred the couple from adopting a child because they are overweight.

"I think we've served a function in getting the rules changed," said Gordon Ray. "I'm happy we could do some good for other so-called fat people."

The couple, both 28, began their efforts to adopt two years ago after doctors said they would probably never have children.

Social worker told Gordon, 6-foot-2 and 215 pounds, and Barbara, 5-foot-9 and 210 pounds, that she had to lose 40 pounds and he 25 pounds before they could be considered as adoptive parents.

Reports of the obesity rule triggered a legislative investigation, criticism of the rule from portly Gov. Lee S. Dreyfus and suspension of the order by Wisconsin Health and Social Services Secretary Donald Percy.

Percy said he issued a directive that obesity should be ignored in state adoption proceedings except at the recommendation of physicians. He promised the Rays' application would be considered.

Percy cautioned that the Rays, certified earlier as healthy by doctors, must meet all other adoption criteria. He said one in 25 couples who apply actually receive a child.

Wallace Has Short Career As Columnist

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Former Gov. George C. Wallace's career as a newspaper columnist may be one of the shortest on record - one column.

Edward H. Sims, editor and publisher of Editor's Copy Syndicate of Orangeburg, S.C. said Tuesday his firm would be distributing a weekly comentary, written by Wallace, to more than 300 newspapers.

A sample column was printed this week, Sims said.

But, according to Wallace's agent, Robert Bray of Nashville, "The governor decided yesterday he didn't want to do the column right now so we're going to place it on the back burner for a while."

Nearly 75 percent of the homes in Iceland are heated by geothermal energy derived from the ground.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your first thoughts are not necessarily your best ones today, even though you may think they're rather clever. Don't give them more credit than they deserve.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is one of those days when friends could do things to test your patience to the limit. Keep your temper. Don't react in a manner you may later regret.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There will be a price to pay today if you are too insistent upon having everything done your way. Such behavior will disenchant allies.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Weigh your words with considerable care today, or you could blurt out something that will be very difficult for you to retract.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your luck today is not likely to extend to speculative-type situations, although you may feel it does and gamble on something foolishly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Extreme tolerance will be required today in your one-to-one relationships. Hold your temper even though others may deserve your wrath.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your attention span could leave a little to be desired today. You could mess up your work. Be especially attentive if you're using hazardous tools.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Pleasurable pursuits that cost you a pretty penny will be the ones you'll derive the least fun from today. Seek pastimes that carry no charge.

February 5, 1979

A heavy social calendar might be in store for you this coming year because you will be much more outgoing and adventurous than usual. Others will seek out your company.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Meet your challenges head-on in a bold and clever manner, but don't bet a dollar just to win a dime. Be realistic about your potential returns. Like to find out more about yourself? Send for your copy of the all-new 1979 Astro-Graph Letter by mailing $1 for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your mate might be a little hard to please today, but you possess the patience, understanding and staying power to forgive and live and let live.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It might be difficult to concentrate on work today. Your energies are geared to being around people and having a good time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You could be more daring than you should be concerning a chance for personal gains. Check everything out before taking a flyer.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll eagerly defend that which you think to be right today. Make certain, however, that you take into consideration other people's viewpoints too.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Though your investigative or probing faculties are sharp today, you're too negative to fully take advantage of your discoveries. Trust your perception.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If one who has assisted you requests a favor today, go out of your way to help, no matter how difficult it may appear at first.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's no doubt that you can achieve what you go after today, but make certain your goals are worthy of your time and talents.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are exceptionally open and friendly today and should be extra-cautious who you take into your confidence. One you'd least suspect might betray you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Put your natural penchant for transforming the old and discarded into something new to work today, when that which you were banking on shows signs of wear.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you choose a partner whose goals are in harmony with yours, all will go well for you today. If not, the opposite will be true.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The best results can be obtained today in things you handle personally. As much as you might like to, you won't be able to depend on others.

WWII German Spy In U.S. Had Money Woes

By Randolph E. Schmid
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- Spying may sound glamorous, but lack of money forced at least on Nazi agent to curtail his illicit American activities and get a job, according to government documents.

Once-secret World War II documents released Thursday by the National Archives include nearly 500 pages of intercepted messages between German spies in the United States and their base - called Uncle - in Hamburg, Germany.

The messages sent in 1944 and through the end of the war the next year include many items of military information. They also present a picture of one worried agent, trying to cope without enough money.

"I need money badly. I have an opportunity to go to the West Coast at an excellent salary. You ought to provide some safe method of effecting payment," the unnamed spy based in Washington messaged Germany on Sept. 11, 1944.

But he didn't go, and there was good news shortly.

On Oct. 21 he messaged Hamburg: "I have received $16,776 from Montevideo (the capital of Uruguay, where the Germans maintained an embassy). I am very happy about this."

But spying is an expensive business, and he referred continually to "friends" who demanded more and more for their assistance and information.

By Nov. 14 he was "disappointed in your continued failure to make remittance. I am despondent and I wonder whether it's worth the risk."

By Jan. 2, 1945, he said, "My financial situation is critical as service expenses here are enormous."

The fatherland, however, didn't understand. On Jan. 4 Hamburg responded:

"Absolutely incomprehensible. Just a few weeks have passed since you acknowledged receipt of the last sum sent you, which was...quite an amount."

Meanwhile, two German spies who had been brought to Maine in a submarine were caught, getting considerable publicity.

The Washington agent immediately messaged Hamburg: "Did they have the money for me?"

His contact in Germany tried to be encouraging, messaging him on Jan. 19: "Sorry old boy to have made you wait so long. All the money at my disposal I sent you already. I am sure to get some more, but it will take a while."

But it was too late. On Jan. 27 the agent messaged Hamburg:

"I am sorry. I have found it necessary to accept a job. I shall not be at your disposal except on Saturdays."

And, the documents reveal now, it was all in vain. The information the spy was sending home was being secretly fed to him by the U.S. government, which told the Germans only what it wanted them to know.

Texas Crude Production On Decline

AUSTIN (AP)-Texas Crude oil production declined by some 52 million barrels from 1977 to 1978, state Comptroller Bob Bullock reported Friday.

But the price per barrel rose 60 cents to a record $8.93.

Bullock said the 4.7 percent drop in production was the largest decrease in five years. Texas production totaled approximately 1,059,000,000 barrels during the 1978 fiscal year.

The average price of crude oil per barrel has steadily increased over the past five years, starting with a $3.29 per barrel jump from 1973 to 1974.

Despite projected production declines, he added in a statement, oil tax revenues are expected to increase by 3.7, 4 and 3.1 percent during the next three years.

Not Smoke Filled

LANSING, Mich. (AP)- The Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission doesn't allow smoking at its meetings, but commissioners were told to find a new meeting place because of complaints that they clouded the air in the rest of the building.

Since the 1973 ban, it seems, smokers attending the meetings have fled to the halls and restrooms of the building, creating smoke everywhere but in the meeting room.

Strikes Account For Lost Days

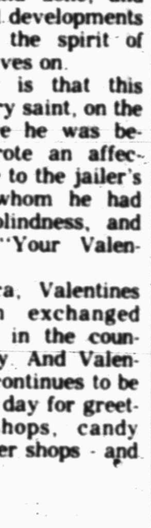

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lengthy coal and railroad strikes are being cited for the rise in the number of working days lost because of walkouts last year, the government says.

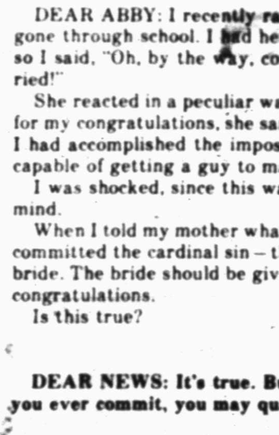

The Labor Department said Monday there were 4,300 work stoppages involving 1.6 million workers in 1978, the lowest number of strikes in 13 years. The decline was due in part to the fact that few major contracts were up for bargaining, the government said. Despite that, the number of days lost by business because of strikes rose to 39 million, the highest in four years.

free market

Another voice has been added to those who believe that our energy and economic problems can better be solved in the private sector. Herbert A. Simon, winner of the 1978 Nobel Prize for economics, says that the government is not doing a good job to help solve the problems of energy, inflation and unemployment.

"Too much of the effort goes into putting out today's fire and not enough to deal with long-range problems." Simon said that it would be wrong to presume that government can provide the answer.

"We have had in the last 10 years a sobering experience of what the government can do," Simon said, "government is like a blunt instrument. You can't do delicate surgery with it."

Simon said that he was optimistic that the free market system and further technological progress will continue to provide a high living standard for Americans.

He said, "I favor development of nuclear energy without endangering ourselves and our environment, I also favor raising oil prices to discourage consumption." He said there is no reason why the energy problem can't be solved with research on the nuclear front and by using coal.

We don't believe that petroleum prices should be raised simply for the sake of cutting consumption. Rather we would favor lifting regulations and letting the marketplace take over the pricing. This is the only way we will begin to get a proper balance in all the ramifications of the oil problem.

Simon mentioned the use of coal and we have advocated greater use of this great in-nation resource. As long as oil and natural gas prices are held to unrealistic levels, coal cannot come into its own as a competitor.

When petroleum is free to seek its level in the marketplace, supply and demand can cure many of the ills which now plague us. Interference by government regulation simply inhibits incentives for greater production within the nation. Most of all, as long as political indicators prevail, industry will hesitate to forge ahead.

Industrial officials are willing to go ahead on economic indicators for expansion and development but they will always shy away from areas where the political interference can disrupt the best of plans for progress.

Nuclear progress has almost been brought to a standstill as the result of uncertainties created by the bureaucracy as it yielded time after time to the cry of wolf from a minute segment of the population. This coupled with the miles of red tape with which the industry is bound has set this nation back in the development of needed nuclear power by about ten years.

All of this delay was based on an entirely false premise that the use of nuclear power was unsafe. We have had nuclear plants in operation for over 20 years and not one member of the public has been injured or killed due to the production of such electric power.

The potential of coal has been diminished by the very government which has sought to increase it. Federal agencies, out of control of the administration and the Congress, have put roadblocks of every kind in the path of increased use of this resource.

We are pleased that last year's Nobel prize winner has taken the position that the marketplace is the proper medium to solve our energy and econmic problems. His approach may not be as blunt as ours, but the ultimate goal appears to be the same.

making of a budget

Credit the Carter administration with one budget-making plus: honesty.

The spending plan as finally unveiled for 1980 is pretty much what advance word said it was going to be. There are no major surprises, none of those out-of-the-hat tricks seeming to close gaps between income and outgo such as some previous administrations developed to an accounting art in the certainty that the illusions need be maintained only as long as it took Congress to begin rewriting the budget script and the public to forget about the whole dreary business.

The administration draft does look forward to an early drop in interest rates, contrary to the expectations of business economists, which would save the government a couple of billion dollars on the cost of its borrowings. But that may be more wishful thinking than trickery. And when the subject is more than half a trillion dollars, it's not easy keeping a firm grip on reality.

For those with the stamina - a touch of masochism also helps - to follow the entire process through, it will be interesting to see what Congress comes up with in the way of a final budget next September. Congress, with its greatly expanded staff and research support of recent years, is more than ever an active partner in the budgeting process. It is perfectly capable of coming up with a document that only remotely resembles the Carter first draft.

budget power

President Dwight Eisenhower brought inflation under control by slashing federal spending. Over the preceding four years our dollar had shrunk 10 cents. And considering black market prices which were masked by price controls, the inflation rate was actually worse than that.

The previous Truman budget had called for spending $78.6 billion with a $9.9 billion deficit.

Eisenhower's budget reduced expenditures to $67.5 billion with a deficit of $3 billion.

Eighteen months later, in August of 1954, the price index stabilized, our dollar stopped shrinking, economic activity resumed its progress.

But where the Eisenhower budget proposed $3 billion of red ink, President Carter now proposes almost $30 billion worth.

President Carter calls his proposed budget for fiscal 1980 "lean and austere."

Critics say it is "too lean, too austere," that it "punishes poor people."

Yet the President proposes spending $68.5 billion on poor people--more than the total Eisenhower budget for everything in 1954. The Carter budget would increase government money for the poor by an additional $4.5 billion next year. Medicaid, food stamps, nutritional supplements, subsidized housing, educational grants.

So the President is not shortchanging poor people. Even allowing for inflation, more taxpayers' dollars will go to the poor than ever before.

Let's remember this about that. The money government spends falls into two categories--dollars which stay and dollars which go away.

Subsidies for poor people, for all the admitted waste, extravagance and inevitable fraud, continue to circulate through our own economy.

This is true also of the $8 billion Carter proposes spending on space exploration: those dollars do not "go to the moon"; those dollars go to workers in space-related industries in Houston and Seattle, Fort Worth and San Diego, and everywhere else that components are researched or produced.

On the other hand, American dollars spent to maintain foreign governments and-or American troops overseas are mostly gone forever.

President Carter wants to close military bases in the United States while increasing military money, generally, to almost $123 billion. He says "our NATO commitment requires it."

President Carter no longer talks of a "balanced budget" but he does hope to reduce the inflation rate from last year's 9.2 percent to next year's 7.4 percent.

What the President has done is to compromise the realities of inflation with the practicalities of the next election---and the unmentioned, unspoken, ominous and omnipresent threats of the have-nots--at home and abroad.

There are landmarks and then there are landmarks.

We Americans, for example, take justifiable pride in such impressive features of the national scene as the Washington Monument, the Golden Gate Bridge, New York City's Flatiron Building and Katharine Hepburn, whose acerbic wit drew a comparison in terms of vintage and durability between the last-cited structure and herself during a recent appearance on the estimable television program, "60 Minutes."

It was a lively interview, ranging over a long career and related subjects, in the course of which the actress delivered herself of a one-word review of current movies: "filth." She also had a suggestion for dealing with the situation which, considering the way decisions have been going of late, made her sound like promising material for the Supreme Court.

"They say, 'Oh, no censorship. No, no - freedom of the press,'" she observed. "The hell with that! They've got to do something."

Well.

Everyone is entitled to an opinion, of course, and there is undoubtedly a large body of it out there in viewerland which would agree emphatically with this one. Amid all the sex and violence in films these days, it's not easy to detect the occasional redeeming social value.

How to deal with the situation is another matter, however, and one on which there may be a considerable difference of opinion. Who, for example, are "they" who must do something. Congress? The courts? Federal or local law-enforcement authorities? A special agency?

The movie industry is not unfamiliar with the subject. The Hays Office was a power in Hollywood during the '30s. While during that period the studios produced many classics, they were also restrained from picturing much that was true about American life. It might be noted in passing that under the then-prevailing code, two pictures for which Katharine Hepburn was to receive Academy Awards in the '60s might not have been produced. "The Lion in Winter" for its frequently spicy language and "Look Who's Coming to Dinner" for its taboo subject matter, (whisper the name) miscegenation.

Freedom, particularly of expression, is fragile and relative. In the arts, is often is a matter of taste and value judgments. One person's filth can be another's pristine truth, a point that was made not long ago by one of the persistent dissenters on the present Supreme Court Justice William Brennan:

"I find," he commented in a case involving the radio broadcasting of objectionable language, "... a depressing inability to appreciate that in our land of cultural pluralism there are many who think, act and talk differently from (the members of the court majority), and who do not share their fragile sensibilities. It is only an acute ethnocentric myopia that enables ... censorship of communications solely because of the words they contain."

The almost 3,000 fans who watched the Snyder-Lamesa basketball game Tuesday night got more than their money's worth.

The Scurry County Coliseum, a pride facility for this community, was three-fourths full. Such a turnout had to be an incentive for the Snyder Tigers.

Few communities have a facility like the coliseum, and we like the idea of it being used to the maximum. This year for example, Snyder has excellent basketball teams both in high school and at Western Texas College.

Good teams combined with good facilities are great reasons for getting out and backing the locals.

While it is common to bemoan Johnny's inability to construct a grammatical sentence, two English teachers at Eastern New Mexico University say its not important.

In fact, the two associate professors of English made news recently with a call to abolish grammar, not to mention punctuation and spelling rules.

If Johnny can't read, the two say, grammar and the other rules are at fault. They claim grammar rules are too complicated and so they should be abolished."

"Grammar and spelling are the property of a once-privileged minority class imposing its order on a willing majority anxious to rise out of its own supposed ignorance and vulgarity.

"The arbitrary rules are the cause of the decline in English. It has already caused a decline in literacy that is alarming. Teachers want to blame it on TV. But it isn't TV. It's grammar that's to blame."

it's possible

"Have a good day," I said, rather routinely. "I certainly will have a good day," my friend replied.

Startled by his confidence, I asked, "Tell me why you sound so sure."

"Because," he enthused, "I make all my days good, with God's help. I think a good day, believe a good day, pray a good day, work a good day! So I have to have a good day.

A sensible formula, I thought as I walked away. He had the right idea.

That common little phrase uttered so often without thought, "Have a good day," is not really an idle or meaningless comment. It can be a real fact of life! Indeed, it is possible to make every day a good day!

Now you'd better notice, I didn't say that every day can be an easy day. Nor do I mean that all days will be free from pain, disappointments or suffering. But we can take these factors and make good days out of them.

There's nothing soft about life, but neither is there anything that is impossible — even having a good day! The secret is in taking God as a partner for life and walking with Him. Then every day that you live can be a good day!

Even a possibility thinker encounters situations where it is very difficult to break good news. This past Christmas eve I was running late, so our family jumped into the car and we headed off for the church. I had to make it in time for our first of five services.

As we neared the campus of the church, I suddenly realized that I had to make a left turn. I was in the right lane so I hurriedly looked into my rear view mirror, saw that nobody was behind me and swerved over into the left lane. Well, what I didn't see was a guy in my blind spot!

I cut him off and almost clipped his front bumper. I don't normally drive that way, but I just didn't see him behind me. I made the lane just as the light turned red.

The next thing I knew, a large, burly man was standing outside my car motioning me to roll down my window. He was furious! I could see the blood vessels swelling in his neck! And his mouth was expelling some words I can't repeat.

I hesitated a moment before rolling the window down, and then only rolled it down part way and tried to say I was sorry. But he wouldn't let me utter a word! I tried to interrupt him but he would just go off on another tirade! I tried smiling, but that only made him madder.

Finally, he had to take a breath and I moved in. "Hey, wait a minute! You know what? It's Christmas time..."

But he took a deep breath and started in again. I wanted to break some good news to him, but he wouldn't give me the chance. Fortunately, he had to take another breath, so I jumped in again. (Now I know why God made the lungs with a limited capacity — it's the only way negative people can be turned off for a second.)

In the brief time, I looked him in the eye and said, "God loves you and I'm trying!"

Environmental Rules Curb Coal Consumption

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—A petroleum economist says coal consumption has been affected very little by curtailments on the use of natural gas.

"The reason is not economics, since on a British thermal unit basis coal now costs significantly less than gas for most utility and industrial plants," says John H. Lichtblau.

"The differential can be expected to rise in the future. What keeps coal consumption from increasing in these markets are environmental regulations and, to a lesser extent, lack of transportation. If we want coal to displace more gas in the industrial markets, we will have to deal with these problems."

Lichtblau, executive director of Petroleum Industry Research Foundation Inc., an independent New York agency, was commenting on the current natural gas surplus which he said had prompted a Carter administration policy reversal to permit industrial gas sales.

"Those of us who have been around the energy industry some time remember the fervent insistence of government energy officials as well as some industry economists the last seven to eight years that the use of gas as an industrial or utility boiler fuel was downright sinful because it was a waste of a depleting resource," he said.

"Gas, we were lectured, should be reserved for priority consumers and should never be used where other fuels could be substituted."

He added that such "wasteful" markets in 1973 accounted for more than 60 percent of total domestic gas sales.

"Between then and 1977 the reduction in sales to these markets was equivalent to 50 percent of total gas sales to the U.S. residential - commercial sector," he said.

"Obviously, this was an over-correction for the perceived shortage which contributed substantially to the glut that began about a year ago."

Lichtblau said the current gas surplus is likely to be relatively short-lived and it can be expected in the not too distant future that attempts will be made to revive the now suspended policy of reducing gas sales to industrial and electric utility customers.

In days of declining supply, he said, it made sense to protect high priority gas users such as residences.

"But the logic of a policy which permits the expansion of gas to new homes while phasing it out from existing industrial and power plants is a good bit less clear," he said.

"In the period 1973-77 nearly 40 percent of all new homes were fitted with gas heat," he said. "All of these homes had ready access to alternate heating fuels. In the colder regions of the country a major alternate is heating oil. In the Sun Belt region it is electricity."

One potential problem with new homes, Lichtblau said, is that once a heating system is installed such structures, for practical purposes, become permanently dependent on the selected fuel source.

Lichtblau said that in the electric utility sector the decline in power generation from gas from 1973 to 1977 was accompanied by significant increases in power generation from coal and oil, with coal rising slightly more rapidly than oil.

"Hence, to some extent the reduction in gas availability appears to have caused a shift to coal, but, at the same time, a significant part of the reduction was made up by the increased use of oil," he said.

In the industrial market, he said, the phasing out of gas over the same period seems to have caused no shift to coal, since coal, in both market share and volume, declined.

"While the policy of reducing gas sales to the industrial markets may well have been justifiable because of the perceived gas shortage, it did not reduce the level of oil imports, nor was it meant to," Lichtblau said.

Indirectly, he said, it caused higher oil imports while contributing to the present gas surplus.

This is true, he added, because, obviously, a higher gas consumption would lower the prevailing level of oil imports.

Rural Areas Transportation System Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government should set up a new federal independent agency to help create a national transportation system in rural areas, says an advocacy group, Rural America.

The recommendation was included Sunday in a report, "Rural Transportation - a Modest Proposal," issued Sunday by the organization.

Its author, Joe Moore, calls for a national Rural Transportation Administration to be created as an independent agency "to assume responsibility for extending minimal transportation facilities to all eligible persons in rural areas and small towns" over the next five to seven years.

Moore said that "urban bias rules out" placing the proposed agency in the Department of Transportation and that it should not be in the Agriculture Department because it has a "single-minded fixation on product shipment."

"Transportation is much more than a mere handmaiden to agribusiness," the report said. "It is a human service, and a key part of the economic and social vitality of the local community."

Moore said legislation to provide the new effort should "create a network of statechartered, public and private non-profit rural transportation cooperatives controlled by those they served."

A bird thought to have been extinct for 100 years - the white-winged guan - was spotted last year in Peru.
