

FAA Gets Olton Aid Application

Members of the Air Port committee of the Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture received word Friday that their recent request for federal assistance in building new air port facilities in Olton has been forwarded to the FAA head office in Washington D. C.

Notification of the action came in a letter to committee chairman Charles McClain from regional FAA representative Ray Biscamp in Clovis, N. M. who filed the application.

Request was filed slightly more than a month after committee members, including chairman McClain, Louis Hair, and Bill Kelley, first approached Biscamp about requirements for obtaining the financial assistance.

Biscamp did not indicate in his letter how long the main office would ponder the request or suggest steps that could be taken on any level until the pending decision is made.

In Week At Olton School

Hondoquin Learns New Lessons

School days mean the "same old routine" for most Olton students who trudged from their homes back to classes last week.

For 17-year-old foreign exchange student Hugo Hondoquin, who came more than 5,000 miles from his home in Brussels, Belgium, however, they have already meant a world of new—and nice—changes.

Hugo, who will live the next nine months with the Ed Thompson family of Olton, requested to come to the United States through a student exchange program of the American Field Service after finishing 12 years of schooling in his own country.

He talked quietly, but with obvious amazement this week, about what he already thinks is his lucky thirteenth year of education.

"Here you have a choice of courses," he began. "In Belgium, we do not have a choice. It is decided for us."

Hugo explained that his high school curriculum, like that of all schools, was regulated and largely financed by the national government rather than by local districts as is the case in Olton.

During the first two years of their so-called high school, a student may choose from among six pre-determined programs which stress either languages, mathematics, science, or economics. By the time he enters the last four years of study (equivalent to the U. S. high school), he must decide to major in one of the last three programs named.

His courses last year included Latin, mathematics, Dutch (his native tongue), French, English, geography, world history, physics, chemistry, Biology, religion (Roman Catholic, in his case), and physical education.

A varied six-day week is required to learn the varied list. School days in Belgium run in length from eight hours on Tuesday to four hours on Saturday.

Methods of teaching vary as much as the material taught. Hugo said, adding that he had already grown to prefer the American system.

A major point of fascination and contrast to Hugo is the relative informality of the student-teacher relationship.

"Here", he pointed out, "a student may call a teacher over to his desk for an explanation of something." In Belgium, the student must go to the teacher who almost always stays at his own desk and may or may not provide formally requested aid.

"If you called a teacher over like that in Belgium," Hugo said with an uneasy smile, "you would be out of school for three days. And if there was a second time, you can wait another year!"

Hugo contended that such formality did not breed teacher respect, but noted that grades on conduct forced it.

A passing grade on conduct, given in each course along with academic achievement grades, means the difference between passing and not in Belgium. Failure to make a satisfactory grade in any one course results in the student's repeating the entire year's program, he said.

"And each teacher makes his own decisions," he added. "If he does not want you to pass, you do not pass."

Strictness between instructor and student is also required among students themselves.

Talking in class, for instance, is forbidden; and conversation between classes is restricted to a few words.

"You have to keep your

Lions Slate Sale Of Light Bulbs

Olton area residents will get a chance to brighten the future of this year's foreign exchange student—and their homes and businesses at the same time—during the annual Lions Club-sponsored light bulb sale Tuesday afternoon.

Four teams of Lion volunteers, totaling about 40, will roam the streets beginning at 3:30 p. m. literally bulging with bulbs.

Each package sold will contain four 60-watt, two 75-watt, and two 100-watt bulbs at a price of $2.

Sales will be conducted door-to-door or at the businesses of most Lions Club members.

Proceeds will go to help finance 17-year-old Hugo Hondoquin from Brussels, Belgium, Olton High School's second foreign exchange student in as many years.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

Olton football fans will not have to wait for the results of Friday night's local grid tilt to try their hand at second-guessing the sport.

All they have to do is become one of the Enterprises "Thursday Afternoon Quarterbacks" and enter the big football contest now being waged in the pages of this and the next 10 issues.

A lucky guesser—or a fan with the intuitive flare—could win two free tickets to the Cotton Bowl game on New Year's Day, two tickets to the Sun Bowl or any of the three cash prizes for the trio of winners with the most correct selections each week.

This Friday is the last day to clip the coupon and get in on the first week's game.

Entering—and winning—is simple. Complete the forms in each issue of the Enterprise and bring it to any of the participating merchants by 4 p. m. each Friday at the latest.

To complete the forms, circle the team number figured to win supply the score for the "tie-breaker" games, and fill in the blanks for contestant's name and address.

Entering each week provides the best chance of winning the Cotton Bowl grand prize.

Partner Golf Play Planned This Weekend

Approximately a hundred golfers from half a dozen area towns are expected to pair off this weekend for the annual 36-hole Partnership Golf Tournament at Olton Country Club.

Players will vie for a share of some $750 in golf merchandise that will go to the lucky winning linksters in the top three places of each flight at the end of the two-day competition Saturday.

Entry fee is $15 per team. Play will be scored by selective shot, and handicaps will be used.

Last year's match attracted about 80 golfers and offered prizes valued at nearly $600.

Golf Pro Fred Pendergrass is expecting an even larger turnout this year, and adds that the greens are in exceptionally good shape.

P-TA Schedules Meeting Tonight

Parents will get an opportunity to see some of the faces—new and old—that their children have been seeing for the past week during the first of five regular Parent-Teacher Assn. meetings at 7:30 p. m. tonight in the Olton School Cafeteria.

Supt. Ray Schultz will introduce the dozen new faculty members along with other school personnel during the hour-long "get-acquainted" session.

New P-TA officers for this year will also be introduced. They will be working for a record 500 membership this term.

Defensive Fight Seen In Friday Night Tilt

It will be about 50 miles from the practice field to the playing field as the Mustangs open their 1967 football season against Morton Indians in Morton Friday night.

Head Coach Don Beck cautioned that it could seem a great deal farther than that, depending on how the football bounces for the Ponies against what he called a greatly improved and defensively dangerous opponent.

"Otherwise, the teams should be about even," he said, and drew several comparisons to back his thinking.

He pointed out that both teams have an overall equal weight. Olton's backfield, which tips the scales at about 175-pounds per man, outweighs Morton's back boys, but they will have to get through a defensive Indian line that tops the Pony defensive string by nearly 15 pounds per man.

Leadership of the Mustang drive for holes in the Morton wall will fall literally on the shoulders of Steve Burleson, 200-pound junior, and Eddie Hooper, 180-pound junior.

Offensive Mustang lineup for the game included ends Joe Luera (145) and R. L. Copeland (145), tackles Steve Burleson (200) and Mike Crowder (155), guards Tony George (145) and Eddie Hooper (180), halfbacks Kenneth Johnson (168) and Benny Akin (192), fullback Bobby Turner (189), and center Jason Latimer (145).

They will be led by senior quarterback Johnny Lewis who will pit his skills against another talented senior middleman from Morton, according to Beck, Donnie Harvey.

He added fans would probably see only minor air action during the contest with most of the battle fought out in a low-scoring, defensive ground battle.

Defensive 11 will be safety Charles McClain (163), end Stacy Pendergrass (181) and Akin tackles Danny Dial (214) and Burleson, linebackers Ricky Smith (145) and Luera, corner halfback Butch Hudgens (124), Steve Spain (131), and Johnson, and guard Hooper.

Major weight welders among the Indians are Bob Hobson, 180-pound guard; Roger Sandefer, 180-pound end; and two titanic tackles, Kenneth Taylor, a 240-pounder and Jerry Wisely, a 230-pounder.

Both teams will also be hitting the field at or near full strength, barring injuries on the eve of the game.

Most seriously hurt is the Morton squad which will go into action without star letterman end LaMell Abbe, a senior who will be on the shelf with a shoulder separation till sometime in October.

Beck said he was looking for a real ball game this season, in spite of the traditionally one-sided match with Morton in the past.

Olton easily took the season opener from Morton last season by 28-0 and went on to split regular season play 5-5 and took third in the district race with a 4-3 won-loss record. (Morton, on the other hand, has not defeated the Ponies since their 26-15 scalping raid in 1961.)

"Morton is so much better this year than they were last year," that there's no comparison," the Mustang mentor conceded. He pointed out that nine offensive and nine defensive lettermen were returning to the camp this year.

"We really won't know how improved we are, a couple or three ball games," he said. As of now, most Olton fans are thinking in terms of one game at a time, and the ONE game field in Morton at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Sundown for a year and a half before coming here. He was previously the pastor of the Seagraves Spanish Mission, his first post after entering the ministry.

He and his wife Esther moved to Olton near the end of August with their seven children, Chela, 17; Marcus Jr., 12; Felipe, 11; Sylvia, 10; Raymond, 8; Ruth, 6; and Minnie, 4.

During Good-Will European Tour

Norfleet Finds World's People Have Same Desires

Relative physical and mental conditions of working men may be the deciding factor in the world struggle between democratic and communist political ideologies in the future, predicts an Olton businessman just back from a good-will tour of both sides of Europe's Iron Curtain.

Owen Norfleet, former president of Olton State Bank, made the observation this week, calling it one of the most outstanding lessons gleaned from his recent experiment in people-to-people relations.

He was among 33 Americans—including a dozen from the South Plains—selected to act as good-will ambassadors on the tour of agricultural developments in Europe last month.

Norfleet's invitation came from delegation host Thomas R. Owens, associate professor of agricultural economics at Texas Tech, who cited the Oltonite's interest in Texas and U. S. economy as the prime reason for the selection.

"Every citizen in the USSR is working," Norfleet explained with obvious fascination. The working force there is tough and hard—and the contrast with softer American workers could make a big difference in the years to come."

He noted that every person there seemed to be imbued with an unmistakable spirit of determined competition not to be found even in the American capitalistic society.

Working women were also a common sight—pouring concrete and pitching hay beside the men.

"Nobody is at play except the children," he added. Enjoyment of fine music and art, though evidenced in sight-seeing tours of Moscow, comes only after the work is done.

The group's 21-day jaunt, beginning the second week in August, also took the Americans to Belgium, Holland, France, Czechoslovakia, Italy, and Spain, and exposed them to farms as varied in size as the countries in which they were located.

Smallest site was a 160-acre field in Belgium.

Largest of the farms spread across 60,000 acres of the Russian Ukraine. Its 3,700 farm hands, paid approximately $90 a month each, make their homes on the land, itself.

Some of them were busy tending the 40,000 sheep, 3,200 laying hens, and 1,200 acres of fruit trees while the rest looked after expansive crops of wheat, corn, and sugar beets.

Norfleet conceded there was little in the farm's outward appearance to distinguish its operation from those back home in Texas.

Business proved to be on as large a scale as farming in the world's largest country. One of the several sights seen by the troop in Moscow included the GUM Department Store which, while they were there, contained some 20,000 customers.

"Of course, we knew they were showing us their best," Norfleet added.

A contrast like what he termed "the difference between daylight and dark" developed on the groups three-hour flight from the free world to the first Iron curtain country.

Yet, Norfleet said he discovered the contrasts melted away as soon as the unsmiling Russian faces grew accustomed to the strange American ones often being viewed for the first time.

And with that discovery, came one of the biggest and best discoveries of all for the Olton traveler.

"We now realize, I think, that all people do not desire war," he said. People all seem to have the same feelings—and deep down in their hearts, they all want peace."

The visitors worked hard, too, trying to destroy pre-conceived images of themselves in foreign eyes while at the same time readjusting their views of others.

"This was one of the main purposes of the trip," Norfleet stressed. We all tried to change the ugly American image that we sometimes create in going over to other countries and making unreasonable demands."

"Agriculturally, I guess we didn't really learn anything from the tour," Norfleet conceded.

He noted American use of scientific graded fertilizers and seeds, coupled with more intensive farming methods, make crop production in this country far superior to anything seen in Europe.

"We didn't learn anything new about their agriculture," he corrected after a moment, "but I think we learned to appreciate what we've got a little more."

He pointed as example to farms visited in Spain where mules were driven around in circle on wheat to thrash it. Next, it was thrown into the air, as in Biblical times, so the wind could carry the chaff away.

The Americans, in turn, advised the Europeans on more efficient uses of available seed and fertilizers, but Norfleet doubted that local tradition and economics would permit proposed alterations.

"We went to exchange ideas," Norfleet explained simply, and he stressed that people, rather than agriculture, were the main concerns in the swap.

Teachers Thank Chamber

EDITOR'S NOTE (The following letter was received by the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, who requested that it be published so that all members of the Chamber might be properly recognized and thanked.)

Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture
Olton, Texas

Gentlemen:

On behalf of the Board of Trustees, teachers and staff members, we want to thank you for allowing us to be your guests last Friday evening. We want you to know we appreciate the effort put forth by the business men and farmers by having demonstrated to us their interest and appreciation for our profession.

It is activities such as this that bring all of us closer together and help us to both understand one's problems, and perhaps, with everyone pulling in the same direction, OLTON can become a better place to live.

Again we thank you for the enjoyable evening, for the hamburgers and ice cream were delicious.

Sincerely yours,
Ray Schultz, Supt.
Olton Ind. School District.

Spirit

BY SUE CANNON

Football season is upon us and the excitement of our first game is in the air!
And the high school is bubbling with SPIRIT!

Boy, never did I see so much spirit! or hear so much yelling! Last Friday when the high school held their first assembly, I went over at the request of Sandee Gregory, who told me it was going to be a really big thing.

Well, she was so right!

The auditorium was plastered with signs from each class trying to show more spirit than the others and bright balloons tied to the stage and blue and white streamers...It was all so pretty.

And then things begin to really happen.

New yells were taught to the student body by the cheerleaders, who won ribbons and spirit sticks when they were in cheerleader school recently at Dallas.

And can that bunch of kids HOLLER!

I'll say this for them--if spirit has anything to do with a football team being a winning team, they could have licked anyone right after that assembly!

Everyone was so excited and tears were sparkling in the eyes of the cheerleaders and I heard a girl remark, "Oh, I wish we had a game tonight!"

When the sophomore class president was presented the prize for her class, who showed the most spirit during the week, they went completely wild! But to cap that off, they were also presented the spirit jug and they just about took the roof off then!

Sure did bring back memories of my school days.

There weren't quite as many of us back then but I guess we probably had just as much spirit about us as these kids do nowadays.

I know I remember coming home from football games so hoarse I could scarcely talk. (And I haven't outgrown that yet. I'm still just as loud at a football game as the next guy when it comes to yelling for our team.)

After all the shouting had finally calmed down at the assembly and Mr. Turner had his turn at the mike introducing the new faculty members, then came time for the school song and dismissal.

There is still something about our Olton High School that makes me swallow a lump in my throat and blink back a few tears.

Guess you'd call it spirit?

are new phases of high school education to him. Hugo responded to questions about something called Belgium "school spirit" with a blank, unknowing look.

The word "student" in any particular Belgian school generally means all girls or all boys.

"There are very few mixed classes," Hugo said. "In the lower grades, you don't see any girls at all. So when you meet a girl at a party or something, you don't know how to act."

He added that only one boy in his graduating high school class of 20 students even had a girl friend--and almost none had cars with which to impress girls in the American tradition.

According to Hugo, much of the care-free behavior which has become synonymous with our high schools are found only on the college level in his country.

Whatever the differences, it is clear that Hugo already learned more in a week than most of his American classmates will learn--much less even recognize--in an entire year.

The farm equipment display and demonstration will again be a major attraction at the 11th Annual Field Day of the High Plains Research Foundation on Thursday, Sept. 14.

This feature of the Annual Field Day has grown in popularity each year. At the 1966 Field Day, sixty-two major firms had their latest in farm equipment on display. The exhibitors were occupied all afternoon showing, describing and operating their products for the thousands of farmers and other visitors.

The displays include nearly every kind of equipment used in successful operations of farms and ranches. Some of the displays included irrigation equipment, tractors, combines, land levelling, planting, cultivation, spraying, flame farming, herbicides, insecticides and fertilizer equipment manufactured and sold by various companies and individuals.

A group of members of the Board of Trustees will be hosts for the display and exhibition. Members of the host committee will be on duty one hour each during the afternoon to direct visitors to the type of equipment they would like to see demonstrated. Cold drinks will be available as usual furnished through the courtesy of Gifford Hill Western. Their traditional location will be at the spot where visitors unload at the end of the field tours.

Dr. Tom Longnecker, Director, stated "It has been our custom to assign sites for the location of displays on a 'first reservation first choice basis'. Due to the number of people interested in the display who will arrive early on the 14th, it has been the custom to have the equipment in place by Wednesday evening."

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

Well, it's "back to the old routine" for our boys and girls. (How many years does it take for them to realize that it's the most wonderful time of their lives?)

Colleges will be beginning classes in a few days and it makes me remember when I went to college. (I did, even if it has worn off).

If you 1967 graduates who are leaving home for the first time get a little homesick DON'T FEEL BADLY - be proud of your misery! And, oh, what misery.

I went to West Texas and it might just have been West California! That First Day Daddy carried me to school, helped me to unload my few possessions and went on his way to do some "store shopping" in Amarillo. (That was when we had a variety store and he bought from several wholesale firms in Amarillo.) Perhaps he had a few misgivings when he drove off leaving his weebeone little girl at that strange place because he promised me faithfully he'd stop back by and tell me good-bye again.

In no time at all I had my belongings in place and nothing to do but wait for Daddy... there among all those strange girls. My roommate was to be Jo Dent (McGill as you know her) and she was LATE arriving. There was even another girl from home in the same dorm and she was LATE. A third Olton classmate was to stay in a different dorm and - you guessed it, she was LATE.

Well, I was feeling pretty deserted. By the time Daddy came by I would have given "most anything to say I'd never heard of West Texas State saying "bye", again, did come off without tears tho- (if I remember).

After supper, the four of us climbed in the middle of my bed and we began to talk things over. I told them that I just believed I'd change my mind. I didn't need a college education to work in a variety store and at that minute that was the most wonderful work I could think of!

I marched right downstairs and phoned Daddy - collect, of course - "Daddy, I've decided that I want to come home and work in the store. I don't want to go to college." Daddy paused for a bit and said "Now, Mozelle, you know that you've talked about going to college for a long time. You don't want to come home." (Don't want to come home! Oh, how I wanted to go home!) After a little more conversation I persuaded him that he should come after me and his parting words were "O. K. then, I'll be up there after you the first thing in the morning."

I'm telling tales on the others but when I told them that I was, indeed, going home the next day two of them decided to quit, too. In a few minutes I began to have a few qualms about my decision and decided I just might have been a little hasty. Well, in just a little while I marched back downstairs and called Daddy - collect, of course. "Daddy? Daddy, I've changed my mind. I believe I do want to go to college so don't come get me in the morning!"

After the first 90 days it wasn't so bad at all. I look back on those two years at W. T. as very wonderful years of my life. Money couldn't buy better memories. And so, to you who will suffer some pangs of homesickness, I agree it is AWFUL-- but someday it'll be "awful nice."

Smith-Collins Wedding Vows Solemnized Friday Evening

A double ring ceremony uniting Miss Linda Mae Collins and Billy Roy Smith was performed Friday, Sept. 1, at 7 p. m. in the First Methodist Church. The Rev. Tommy E. Nelson, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Collins. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Smith, Jr. are the parents of the groom.

The altar was decorated with baskets of Silver Wedding dahlias and greenery. Candleabra with white cathedral tapers were entwined with greenery and pom pom pink flowers. Pews were marked with white bows and large white dahlias.

Wedding music was provided by Harold Dean Carson, organist. Soloist was Mrs. Danny Smith of Clovis, N. M., cousin of the bride. She sang "One Hand, One Heart" and "Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white imported silk peau de soie and alecon lace. The basque bodice featured a Sabrina neckline and three quarter length sleeves. Appliques of Alecon lace and seed pearls enlivened the bodice and sleeves. The controlled A-line skirt was accented with trumpet flares of scalloped alecon lace. Her chapel length train was caught at the waist and was designed with three panels and appliques of lace. A bouffant veil of English silk illusion fell from a coil of lace petals embellished with seed pearls and iridescents. Her bouquet was a cymbidium orchid surrounded by white rosebuds atop a white Bible. For something new the bride wore a necklace, a gift of the groom. For something old and borrowed she carried an earring fastened in her bouquet that belonged to her great-great-grandmother. She wore the traditional blue garter and a penny in her shoe.

Miss Sherrie Tannahill of Friona, a college roommate of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmatron was Mrs. Robert Bonner of Amarillo, sister of the groom, with Miss Charlotte Williams of Anton as bridesmaid. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Cinda Stephenson of Idalou and Miss Nelda Sue Collins of Abilene, cousins of the bride.

Mike Hipp was best man and Robert Bonner of Amarillo, brother-in-law of the groom, and Steve Collins, brother of the bride, served as groomsmen.

Junior groomsmen were Danny Collins and Mark Stephenson, cousins of the bride. Guests were seated by Ronnie Redinger, Tommy Hall of Pampa, Gary Turner and Burney Hooper.

Candlelighters were Miss Carolyn Collins of Abilene and Miss Laura Stephenson of Idalou, cousins of the bride. Flower girl was Miss Nelda Sue Collins of Abilene, cousin of the bride.

Attendants dresses were formal length gowns styled with bell sleeves and empire waists accented with a bias band that extended into full length streamers. Their headpieces were of the same fabric as their dresses, of a rose cluster design, with illusion veils. The maid of honor's dress was of shocking pink satin accented with pom pom pink. Junior bridesmaids' dresses were identical. Bridesmaids and candlelighters dresses were pom pom pink with shocking pink accents. Attendants carried a single long stemmed pink rose.

Mother of the bride wore a brown voile sheath with royal accessories and a corsage of white princess dahlias. Mother of the groom wore a three piece suit of aqua with black accessories and a corsage of white princess dahlias.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was laid with a white ruffled tulle cloth over white. The bride's bouquet formed the centerpiece. A three-tiered wedding cake and pink punch served from silver and crystal appointments completed the table decor. Miss Donna Roberson assisted by Miss Gayla Mills served the cake. Miss Mary Aigaki presided at the punch bowl. Guests were registered by Miss Belva Howard of Sunray.

For a wedding trip to Santa Fe, N. M. the bride wore a burnt orange sheath of heavy tweed with accessories of bone lizard. Her corsage was a cymbidium orchid lifted from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Olton High School. She is a business major at West Texas University and is employed as a secretary in the history department at W. T.

The groom is a 1965 graduate of Olton High and is attending West Texas. He is a biology major. He was employed by the U. S. Public Health Service in Plainview this summer.

Especially we thank those who came and served food and took care of us so wonderfully - we thank each of you and may God's richest blessings be on each of you.

Margie Slatten, Jack and Jackie Bob Slatten and family, Paul and Pat Spain and Family.

We wish to take this method of expressing our thanks to our friends and neighbors for the field work and the tractor that was furnished and those who took care of my garden and did my deep freezing.

Also for the many many cards, letters, gifts, food, flowers and visits and the words of encouragement during my stay in the hospital.

Youngster's Jobs Hold Double Tax Deduction

Summer jobs for son or daughter hold double deductions when income tax time rolls around.

Be sure you cash in on the extra break, says Mrs. Doris Myers, Extension specialist in home management at Texas A&M University. For examples, parents may still take the $600 dependency deduction, no matter how much their youngster earns, provided the following conditions exist.

The young worker is a full-time student during at least five months of the year, or he is 18 years old or less.

The parents continue to furnish more than half the cost of his support.

In addition to parents' claiming a deduction, the young wage earner can claim his own $600 exemption when he files his tax return. And it is now possible for him to earn as much as $899 tax free.

So take advantage of this double deduction, says Mrs. Myers. When claiming your deduction, also make sure junior files a return to claim a refund on taxes withheld by his employer.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

The teams that are playing in this week's contest games are listed in each of the ads on this page. Each team is numbered, 1 through 26.

Use the handy entry form at the lower right hand corner of the page and circle the numbers of the teams you predict to win. Print the scores you predict in the tiebreaker game in the spaces provided.

Each week's entry must be turned in to one of the merchants sponsoring the contest. Contestants are given a week to prepare and turn in their entries.

Sponsoring merchants may accept mailed entries. All late entries will be discarded.

In case of ties, a coin will be flipped to determine the winners.

Each week the number of games predicted correctly will count toward each contestant's season total. The person picking the most games correctly for the entire season will receive the grand prize. The person with the second highest total will receive the second grand prize. In the event of a tie on the season total, a coin will be flipped to determine the winner.

The weekly prizes will be given to the persons picking the most number of games for that week. The tie-breaker will count as one of the games picked, and the predicted scores will be used to determine the top three places in that week's contest, if necessary.

Only one entry per person is allowed.

BY SANDEE GREGORY
AND JANE ANN DUNCAN

Morton will be our first game this season again and the boys are ready to defeat those Indians for the 28th time. All of the workouts and gut practice will pay off in the game Friday, and we hope it pays off in a victory for Olton! OHS has been getting ready for the season opener and the students are eager for an OHS victory. Students have been helping to raise the Mustang spirit and some of the boys have even been using valuable time to fix the VICTORY BELL, that was broken last winter, in time to ring it Friday night. OHS is behind the Olton Mustangs but we also need the adult support too! If you don't go to Morton, you'll miss a mighty good game!

ROUND THOSE MORTON INDIANS UP, MUSTANGS LET'S BE VICTORIOUS FRIDAY NIGHT!!!

"Sophomores have spirit!" was the winning battle cry of last week during the OHS Spirit week. There was a petition in each class to determine which class had the most spirit. The sophomore class had the most signatures of any other class. They received bubble gum for their prize. Then during the special assembly the sophomore class yelled the loudest in the competition yell so they then received the SPIRIT JUG. The SPIRIT JUG is the same thing as the SPIRIT STICK last year. This year organization will be able to get the SIIRIT JUG and if there is a single person that has shown more spirit than any organization that person will get the SPIRIT JUG. Last week the spirit was the best it has ever been this early in the year and the spirit assembly given by the cheerleaders Friday was the climax of that week.

What kind of a party is real good at 5:30 a. m.? A Come-As-You-Are Party is, of course! At least the senior FHA thought so! Last Saturday morning at 5:30, the senior FHA officers had a Come-As-You-Are Party for the new freshmen members. Some of the re-vice-president; Kathline Carson, secretary; Jackie Harrod, Lynn McGill, Glenda Turner, and Janet Chester, librarians. Keep up the good work, Choir, and remember that there's no better time than now to start working for that sweepstakes!

Rain! Rain! Rain! Doesn't it always seem to rain when something important is planned? At least that's what the FTA'ers thought last Friday night when an outdoor ice cream feast was moved inside. But regardless of the set-back, approximately 80 kids showed up to start the year off with much enthusiasm.

The Fighting Mustangs, The Fillies, the Mustang Chorale, the Mustang Band, the FTA, FHA, FFA, and the other organizations that are such an important part of student life in Olton High School . . . we're proud of all of them!

PASSING THOUGHT: The big deal this Friday night will be the scalping of the Indians. Last Friday night, it was the end of "The Fugitive"!

ALL FOR FUN

Mr. Turner: "Does the water always come through the roof like that?"

Bob Starritt: "No sir, only when it rains."

Steve Spain and Joel Nelson were talking about girls. "Which would you advise me to do? Marry a sensible girl or a beautiful girl?" Joel asked. "I don't think you will be able to marry either," Steve said. "Why not?" asked Joel. "A beautiful girl could do better and a sensible girl would know better."

Mrs. Holladay asked Sharon Hendrick: "What is the term 'etc.' used for?"

Sharon replied: "I think it's used to make people think we know more about something than we really do."

YOU NEEDN'T FEEL BAD ABOUT NOT HAVING SELF-CONFIDENCE. IT JUST PROVES YOU HAVE GOOD JUDGMENT!

Spotlight On Senior Citizens

MRS. CASSIE COPELAND

Birthday Girl 'Spins Yarns' --With Needles, Of Course!

Unlike many male senior citizens who confess to spinning yarns, Mrs. Cassie Copeland knits them. She also crochets them, embroideries them, and needle points them.

And while her 88 years prevent her from doing many of the things she once did, she can still do almost anything she wants to with yarn.

Ironically enough, she says one of the hardest things for her to do is make something for herself. Her large family--and their families--form such a demand for everything from sweaters to socks that she happily confesses to giving everything she makes away.

Her immediate "customers" include daughters, Mrs. Herman Bell of Plainview, Pelina Weathers of Olton, and Mrs. Roy Roberts of Olton, (with whom she now makes her home), and sons Roy, Ray, Jay and Derwood, all of Olton. A late son Earl also lived in Olton.

The family was so big, in fact, that their original homestead about seven miles southeast of town has become commonly called the "Copeland Community" since she and her late husband W. T. settled there in 1922.

Mrs. Copeland got into the habit of giving away her handy work from the first day she took up needles seriously again to make sweaters for the American soldiers in WWI. . . and the habit apparently stuck.

"I like to knit," she said, rolling a big ball of yellow yarn around in her lap. The loose end of the ball had swelled into what she said would be a warm sweater for a grandchild in a matter of days.

"It's relaxin' to sit, and it doesn't tire you out," she added.

This, at least, is the sentiment of a lady who is marking her 88 birthday today. But she noted with a grin that her attitude had changed considerably since another day when she was a younger girl growing up on an Alabama farm.

"I didn't like to knit then," she said. "Like all children, I liked to play."

"But we had to knit," she continued after a moment. "Everything we had, we had to make it."

Mrs. Copeland recalled that knitting as a girl was more of a household chore than a pastime hobby. Mother was in charge of spinning, carding, and weaving the thread while daughter sat reluctantly by to work the homemade thread into homemade socks for three brothers.

"I got to make the everyday socks for the boys," Mrs. Copeland remembered. "Mother wouldn't let me make mine because the ones I made were not as smooth and nice as hers."

"I wasn't a very good knitter," she conceded with a little laugh.

Obviously, many things change with the years, and for Cassie Copeland, even the years are changing by one on this very special day.

Tax Free Retirement Plan Now Available To Farmers

Congress in 1962 passed its long-discussed Keogh Bill, allowing professional men, farmers and individual self-employed persons a tax deduction on a retirement plan for themselves.

In November of 1966, the President signed into law an amendment which will double the tax deduction available to producers. This tax deduction is one of several advantages, both tax and non-tax when they establish a Keogh Pension Plan.

For the tax year 1967, area residents come under a formula. They may take 30 per cent of their earned income as personal services then take 10 per cent of the 30 per cent and one-half of this is deductible. However, in 1968, they may deduct 10 per cent of their earned income up to $2500.00. This is 100 per cent tax deductible. If recipients under the plan have other employees, they must be included. Employees with less than three years service and those who are seasonal or part-time workers regardless of their years of service may be excluded. If there are no eligible employees a retirement plan may be established in an operators own behalf.

PFC To Offer New Debentures

Plains Finance Corporation of Plainview announced today the company will offer for sale to the public a $250,000 -- 6-7/8 per cent Convertible Subordinated Debenture issue.

Announcement was made by John W. Warrick, president and chairman of the board, who said the debenture issue represents the first phase in the company's multi-million dollar expansion program.

To support the company's rapid expansion, the stockholders recently authorized 200,000 shares of Common Stock and $500,000 in Debentures.

Plains Finance Corporation plans major expansion in its Consumer Loans Division. This division represents about 40 percent of the company's total assets and makes loans on all types of consumer goods--automobiles, furniture--appliances, boats and mobile homes.

According to Warrick, new branch loan offices will be established over the state, but the major part of the company's expansion is expected to come through mergers and acquisitions.

Each office, Warrick said, will ultimately serve as a "Supermarket for financial services," offering any and all financial services the area will support.

Six Flags Open Weekends Only

After Monday, Sept. 4, the last day of the Labor Day Weekend, Six Flags Over Texas will be open on weekends only, beginning with Saturday, Sept. 9. Operating hours on both Saturdays and Sundays will be from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. This schedule will remain in effect until Six Flags closes for the season on Nov. 26.

Previously the closing date had been announced as Oct. 29. Mr. Angus G. Wynne, Jr., president of Great Southwest Corporation, owner-operator of the popular tourist attraction, said that "in order that Six Flags may comfortably handle the unprecedented large number of advance group ticket holders as well as individuals expressing their desire for Six Flags to stay open through November as it has in previous years, we are extending the season one month."

One of the highlights of the season at Six Flags Over Texas occurred recently on Aug. 21 when the total number of visitors to the historical-theme park since opening in 1961 passed the 10,000,000 mark.

Executive Director of the Texas Tourist Development Agency, Frank Hildebrand, commented on the attendance milestone by saying, "According to surveys, Six Flags is maintaining its position as the most popular single tourist attraction in the State of Texas."
