US Reports Employment Up

Unemployed Drops 200,000 In May

By WILLIAM J. EATON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government reported today that employment rose 1,200,000 and unemployment dropped 200,000 in May.

The Commerce and Labor departments said unemployment went down to 4,904,000—a larger than usual decrease for this time of year. April unemployment was 5,120,000.

Government economists regarded as most significant in today's figures the fact that the seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment dropped to 7.2 per cent of the labor force in May as compared with the high of 7.5 per cent in April. This was the first reduction in the seasonally adjusted rate since it started to climb last summer.

Due largely to a seasonal expansion in agriculture and service industry jobs, plus a larger than usual gain in construction, total employment in May rose 1,200,000 to a total of 64,100,000.

Fewer Factory Jobs

The sore spot in the employment picture continued to be in manufacturing. May employment in manufacturing declined by 67,000 jobs to about 15 million. Two-thirds of this drop was in the durable goods industries.

There have been a series of sharp cutbacks in manufacturing for the better part of a year, and the May decline was described by the Labor and Commerce departments as slightly more than seasonal.

Compared with a year ago, manufacturing employment was down by 1,700,000, with four-fifths of this loss in durables—plants making automobiles, steel, all types of heavy machinery, and the larger household items. Substantial job declines during the year occurred in transportation, construction, trade and mining.

Meanwhile, congressional economists predicted there may still be five million unemployed in early 1959 even if there is a good business recovery before then.

Few Optimistic Signs

The staff of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee said "less rapid recovery could be accompanied by as many as seven million unemployed—or over 10 per cent of the civilian labor force"—in the first three months of next year.

The report, made public by Committee Chairman Wright Patman (D-Tex.), said economic activity has "continued to decline and there are as yet few signs of an early upturn." It said that on the basis of past experience it seems unrealistic to count on a business upturn before October-December this year.

The Commerce-Labor report said non-agricultural employment, aside from manufacturing, showed a better than seasonal increase for the first time since late last summer. This was due largely to a sharp rise in construction which contributed heavily to an increase of 260,000 employees on non-farm payrolls.

Employment figures for June were expected to show a large increase in the number of unemployed because of the many thousands of students seeking work this month. These figures will not be available until July because the surveys are made in mid-month.

Directors Of CRMWA Set Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority Monday in the Hilton Hotel in Plainview, beginning at 10 a.m.

This will be the first get-together since last February 10. Meetings have been cancelled successively since that time in order that the directors of Amarillo and Lubbock might have sufficient time to negotiate with one another in an effort to establish their position in the project. The cities of Amarillo and Lubbock have grown to the extent they now represent approximately 80 per cent of the total project.

The meeting to be held Monday has been considered by President Hoffman as appropriate and necessary in order to bring the directors of the Authority up-to-date on what has transpired since the last meeting.

The position of the project at Washington seems to be the most encouraging at this time as indicated by the following remarks taken from a letter dated May 6, 1958, signed by Fred G. Aandahl, assistant to the Secretary of the Interior:

"The Authority may be assured that, as there is opportunity to do so, every attention will be given to the Canadian River Project, along with other reclamation projects which are on the shelf and ready to go."

The meeting of the Board of Directors is a public affair and open to the public. As is the usual custom, the city officials of the 11 member cities will be urged to attend the session.

Club Slates New Type Meetings

Starting next week the Pampa Evening Lions Club embarks upon a summer of mixed meetings, riding upon the recommendation of Dr. Philip Gates. Gates, heading the Program Committee, scheduled hamburger suppers in Lions' back yards and special nights at Poole's Steak House for Lions and their friends.

The meeting next Thursday will be Guest Night and, says Dr. Gates, "You won't get in the door unless you bring a guest."

Lion Frank Lard turned up at the meeting last night with a special representative of Lions International, Edwin N. Judd of Denton. To Speaker Judd, Lions Clubs are like the music of John Philip Sousa, the composer who added much to the repertoire of large and small bands the world over. Like Sousa's marches, the Lions are adaptable. Judd said there are Lions Clubs in communities of every size. Lions are non-political, sectarian and commercial, explained Lion Judd.

The Evening Lions drew a commendation on their adaptability in view of the limitations that summer meetings impose. Judd agreed that a break in routine for the summer would bring new life to the Club.

D. V. Biggers, Robert Hamilton, Lard and E. J. Lewis Jr. will go to Miami Tuesday for the installation ceremonies of the Lions' Club. They are some of the Evening Lions who gave the Miami Club its start.

Credit Group To Move Offices

Saturday will be moving day for the Pampa Retail Merchants' Association. Manager W. L. Vele reports. The Association will move offices from the Rose Building to the three room suite in the Hughes Building.

Vele expects that business will go on as usual Saturday. The new office hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

De Gaulle Seeks Support Of Government In Algeria

United Press International
ORAN, Algeria (UPI) — Gen. Charles de Gaulle today called on the insurgent public safety committees of Algeria to submit to the legal government in Paris. He said the work of the committees is done.

De Gaulle said flatly he would run Algeria from Paris, with Gen. Raoul Salan as his "delegate general" in this North African land. "The Algerian movement has achieved its target—in other words, a change of government in Paris and a clarification of our national policy in Algeria," De Gaulle said. "The elements which had taken part in that clearly must change their (political) orientation now."

"It is not up to them to substitute themselves for the authorities and to infringe upon their (the authorities') powers."

A Showdown Comes

The move brought the new French premier into a showdown conflict with the right wing civilian and military junta whose rebellion against Paris authority on May 13 eventually led to De Gaulle's return to power.

But De Gaulle showed he was not prepared to compromise with this group, headed by paratroop Gen. Jacques Massu. His decision to appoint Salan also was a rebuff to the insurgents, who had hoped to see Jacques Soustelle, who wants to keep Algeria French at any price, named to the top job.

The premier has been promising equal rights and duties to the European and Moslem populations of Algeria with considerable favorable response from the natives and coolness from the settlers.

His announcement today made it clear that he intended to carry out his plans without interference from the military or the settlers, who have the Algerians and want to keep the status quo intact.

Returning to Paris

De Gaulle made his announcement a few hours before boarding a jet plane to take him back to Paris from his three-day fact-finding tour of Algeria.

Crowds of more than 100,000 persons hailed the former French general at this port city.

Informed sources said De Gaulle would soon order all military members to resign from the committees whose rebellion against authority finally swept him to power.

The committees were still making gestures of defiance to the new premier. Thursday night a committee spokesman said the groups would stay in power regardless of De Gaulle's rise to power.

Several setbacks marred his campaign:

—The Algerian National Liberation Federation (FLN) in Cairo officially rejected his peace offers and said his Algerian policy will mean a continuation of the 2½-year-old Algerian war and its extension to the whole of North Africa.

France Accused

—Tunisia accused France of new attacks on Tunisian forces in the troubled Remada region of southern Tunisia where scattered fighting has been going on for several weeks between Tunisian and French troops. Tunisia supports the Moslem drive for independence in Algeria.

—There was new defiance from right-wing members of the revolutionary "Committee of Public Safety" in Algiers. The committee itself said it intended to stay in power. And Leon Delbecq, spokesman for the committee extremists, challenged De Gaulle's authority by demanding destruction of the "Paris system"—the Fourth Republic.

The 67-year-old De Gaulle, looking pale and tired from his grueling visits to Algiers, Constantine and Bone, arrived in Oran today (See De Gaulle, Page 3)

Two Chrysler Plants Close

By JIM KLOCKENKEMPER
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT (UPI)—Two Chrysler Corp. plants were shut down today in the wake of company disciplinary action taken against an estimated 200 to 250 union committeemen and stewards.

Troubles began Thursday at a number of Chrysler plants and at the General Motors Fisher Body plant in West Mifflin, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

It was the first unrest since GM, Ford and Chrysler started working without contracts Monday. The GM Fisher plant returned to normal operations at 11 p.m. Thursday after a union picket line withdrew.

A half-million auto workers at the three firms Monday started working without contracts following the expiration last weekend of agreements between the companies and the United Auto Workers.

A walkout or work stoppage occurred first this morning at Plymouth body plant here employing an estimated 1,500 workers. The company then closed down the Plymouth assembly plant, employing another 2,000 workers.

At the Dodge main plant in Hamtramck, where the trouble started in Chrysler Thursday, the 32 union stewards and seven plant committeemen of UAW Local 3's dayshift again were disciplined.

The union representatives still refused to comply with new company rules requiring them to work during the first, fifth and eighth hours of their shifts and handle grievances for workers at other hours. This time the company suspended them for three working days instead of one.

'Hoppers' Are Moving Into Pampa Area

Gray County agent Ralph Thomas was out in the fields this morning inspecting the wheat and trying to find out how bad the grasshoppers have become.

The wheat crop in Gray County and surrounding areas is supposed to be the best in many years, and it is a big if, the grasshoppers don't take over.

Grasshoppers are thick in some parts of Gray County and in other parts there are no grasshoppers at all. The "hoppers" are small in size and seem to have appeared in just the past week.

Last week, farmers and county agents were predicting a bumper wheat crop and had no insect worries. But during this past week, the grasshoppers have swarmed into the fields and are endangering the wheat crop.

Thomas could not be reached for comment on the situation today but should have some further word on the situation soon.

Bill Taylor, who lives five miles north of Pampa, had the honor of being the first farmer in Gray County this year to bring in a load of barley, according to officials at Barnett and Wilkinson Grain Company. The moisture test showed 12.05 and the weight test was 48.

Top Horse Breeders Due Here

Leading horse breeders from Texas, New Mexico and Arizona will take part in the Quarter Horse Halter and Reining Contests as part of the Pampa Roping Club program beginning Saturday at Recreation Park. Horsemen will devote two afternoons, Saturday and Sunday, to roping, cutting horses, reining and haltering activities.

Starting time for the contests will be 1 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. Admission will be free for the Saturday contests but a 90 cent admission charge will be in effect Sunday afternoon.

O. G. Hill, Hereford, and James Randall, Montoya, N.M., will enter their horses in the Quarter Horse contests. Other entrants will be horses from the Triangle V Ranch, Winslow, Ariz.

A Cutting Horse Contest Sunday will feature horses named "Asbeck's Billy," "Booger Red," "Joos Last" and "Miss Elite."

FLATTENED

Mrs. Spencer Felstad searches the scattered rubble of her home in Colfax, Wis., for usable items after it was flattened by a vicious tornado that killed her husband. An undetermined number of tornadoes in eastern Minnesota cut a 40-mile-wide path through the state, hopped the Mississippi River into Wisconsin leaving 30 dead and hundreds injured in numerous towns in the area. Hardest hit was Colfax where one-third of the homes were destroyed and at least 13 persons killed. (NEA Telephoto)

Tornadoes' Death Tally Is Now At 30

MENOMONIE, Wis. (UPI)—The death tally in the five-county area of northwestern Wisconsin stricken by tornadoes late Wednesday stood at 30 today. Hundreds more were injured, unable to participate in the massive mopping-up campaign.

Volunteers massed in work groups, working side-by-side with National Guardsmen, 275 of which had been assigned to Colfax alone. Colfax's Methodist church was converted into clothing headquarters for the needy, and the Lutheran church served hot meals to the rebuilders.

Damage was staggering. Ray Conley of the American Red Cross estimated that 130 homes were destroyed in two of the counties, Dunn and St. Croix. Another 140 suffered lesser damages, while almost 340 farm buildings were hit by the black funnel.

Entire herds of livestock were wiped out and above 1,000 carcasses were found strewn in the fields.

Total losses came to an estimated ten million dollars including $1,630,000 in hard-hit Colfax where 13 persons were killed. Hundreds of families were homeless.

In Washington, the Small Business Administration named St. Croix, Chippewa and Dunn counties as disaster areas, permitting owners to apply for loans at 3 per cent interest.

Polio Shots Program Is Scheduled

You will not need a doctor's appointment for a Salk shot next Thursday and Friday in Gray County and you may not have to stand in line. In cooperation with the Gray County Polio Board, the County Medical Board is proclaiming June 12 and 13 "Get Your Polio Shot Days."

Learning from the Polio group that deaths from Polio hit the 40,000,000 mark, in 1957 the Medical Board promises fast service at Pampa medical clinics.

The Board's move will have no effect on the free polio shot program operative Saturdays at Highland General Hospital. As on previous Saturdays, those who cannot afford to purchase polio shots can receive them at the Hospital if they arrive between 9 and 9:30 a.m.

Youth Fined On Driving Charge

Arthur Lee Wilkerson, 15, 832 Murphy, was fined $25 and costs in Gray County court this morning for driving while license suspended.

Wilkerson was picked up late yesterday afternoon after being observed by local officers.

Macmillan To Leave For US

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan leaves by air tonight for Washington, where he will confer with President Eisenhower on France's future as an ally of the West and other pressing problems.

Macmillan will be accompanied by Cabinet Secretary Sir Norman Brook and several members of his personal staff.

After conferring with Eisenhower on Monday and Tuesday, the prime minister will receive honorary degrees from De Pauw University, where his grandfather studied medicine, and Johns Hopkins. The President will accompany him on a helicopter flight from Washington to Baltimore for the Johns Hopkins award.

Macmillan will wind up his stay in North America with a two-day stopover in Canada, where he will confer with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

Informed sources said major topics to be taken up by Macmillan and Eisenhower include the questions of nuclear tests and of future Anglo-American cooperation in strengthening the economic defenses of the West.

They said he will ask the U.S. President not to consent to any suspension of nuclear tests at least until U.S. law has been revised to allow the sharing of atomic secrets with its allies.

Railroad Prexy Says Reds Expanding Rail System

United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—The head of the nation's largest railroad pointed out today that Soviet Russia is building up its railroad system at a time when America's railroad industry is on the decline and in a precarious position.

James M. Symes, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, made this chilling statement in an exclusive interview with United Press International.

In the event of a national emergency this situation obviously would be of vital importance, he said.

Symes, a veteran of 42 years in the railroad industry and recognized as one of the country's most able transportation executives, said Russia is "really going to town" in expanding its railroad network and the tonnage handled over it.

"For example," Symes declared, "Russia in 1940 had 64,000 miles of railroad but by 1955 it had increased to 75,000 miles."

"On the other hand, the United States in 1940 had 234,000 miles and yet in 1955 this had fallen off to 220,000 miles of railroad."

"This contrast is illuminating and significant."

"If our railroad industry is in a precarious position, and it is, it follows that the country is, too—because the railroads are an absolute necessity to our future growing economy and defense protection."

Double Track Mileage
Other disconcerting facts brought out by Symes were:

—Russia doubled track mileage between 1945 and 1950.

—The U.S. has 40,000 fewer freight cars than ten years ago. The U.S. passenger fleet has shrunk by 7,000 cars.

—Russia has electrified 3,326 miles of line since 1928, will almost triple it to 4,328 by 1960. Average Russian carloadings per day have been stepped up from 24,007 in 1928 to 169,400 in 1955.

"While we have been shrinking our mileage, Russia has been expanding theirs," said Symes.

"They are not dumb."

"Take 1945. In that year 86 per cent of the ton miles (tonnage multiplied by miles hauled) were hauled by the railroads in Russia. And in 1955 it was 83½ per cent."

"In 1945 in the United States it was 67 per cent of ton miles by rail. In 1955 the figure was only 49 per cent."

Emphasizing the importance of our railroads in the national defense picture, Symes pointed out that in World War II the railroads hauled 90 per cent of the military material and 97 per cent of the military personnel movements.

This remarkable achievement, he said, resulted in an enormous saving in manpower and war materials.

For the purpose of illustration, Symes took as an example the moving of 100,000 tons of freight from New York to San Francisco.

Cheaper By Rail
"If done by rail," said Symes, "it can be done with $32,000 gallons of fuel oil. If it moves by highway it takes four times that amount. If it moves by waterway through the Panama Canal it takes five times that amount. And if it moves by air it takes 25 times that amount—in gallons of oil."

"I'm sure that if we had to call on the railroads to move men and material in World War II we'd have to do it again in the event of a similar national emergency."

"Moving such traffic by railroads would mean a tremendous saving in manpower and in the transportation of essential war material."

"For the railroads to move that 100,000 tons of material across the nation from New York to San Francisco, it would take 3,200 man days. If moved by highway 13½ times that amount. If moved by water 3½ times as long in man days."

"My contention is that the two most essential things in war time are manpower and fuel. It seems to me this is a situation which they (the government) should do something about so we could handle the job expeditiously and economically in the next war, if one comes."

Sums Up Problem

Symes said that never in his 42-year association with railroads has he seen the outlook for the American railroad industry as alarming as it is now.

A number of Eastern lines have been operating at little or no profit despite lay-offs of personnel in efforts to economize. On the Pennsylvania employment has been reduced by more than 11,000. The situation in the South and West is not as bad although he says "the makings of it are there."

The real railroad problem, according to Symes, can be stated in a dozen ways but basically "the trouble begins by government—federal, state and local government—treating the railroad industry as if it were still the wealthy monopoly it was generations ago."

CORONATION—Miss Ronnie Roach, center, receives her Queen's Crown from Dr. Douglas Carver as a symbol of her four year's work with the First Baptist Church Girl's Auxiliary. Working and studying her way through scripture and mission work, through the steps of maidenhood, lady-in-waiting, and princess, Miss Roach has attained the honor of Queen. Serving as her attendants were Teddy Trice, Queen's brother, as ring-bearer and Robbie Ramsey, cousin of Miss Roach, as flower girl. (News Photo)

Queens' Coronation Jelly, Preserve Making Demonstration Held By Auxiliary

Coronation ceremonies for the Girls' Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church was held on Wednesday evening in the lower auditorium of the church.

"Steps For Christ" was the program theme presented under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Franklin, who is the Girls' Auxiliary director. The Girls' Auxiliary is a missionary organization for young girls between the ages of 9-16. Many scriptures and mission work are learned by each member as they advance each step from maidenhood to the Queen's throne; taking as much as four years work and study. Each step taken in the advancement to the Queen's position, is more difficult as the girls advance and grow.

On Wednesday evening, Miss Ronnie Roach was crowned Queen, after four years' participating in the work, by Dr. Douglas Carver. She was attended by her brother Teddy Trice, as crown-bearer and her cousin, Robbie Ramsey, as flower girl.

Members taking their Princess steps were Misses Carletta Johnson and Suzanne Johnson, who received a gold GA monogram to go on the white star they received as lady-in-waiting and green octagon as maidens.

Jelly, Preserve Making Demonstration For Goodwill Home Demonstration Club

Goodwill Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Ray Frazier on Tuesday morning.

Mrs. A. P. Coombes, president, urged all members to turn in individual reports for the year.

Council delegate, Mrs. John Johnson, announced a training school on the making of dress forms will be held on June 12 at 9 a.m. in the home of Mrs. William Estes, 2216 Coffee.

It was also announced that the council would entertain Senior Citizens on November 20.

Mrs. H. V. Wilkes gave a demonstration jelly making. She said, "To have a clear, smooth jelly, a cotton flannel bag in the shape of a small pillow case is best to extract the juice." "Also, for strawberry preserves, if one cools the preserves before pouring into jars, the strawberries will be large and plump. Use ripe fruit for color and taste, but be sure there is enough green fruit for pectin, so that it will jell."

Mrs. Wilkes gave a recipe for making pectin as follows, two tablespoons cooled fruit juice, 2 teaspoons sugar, one tablespoon Epsom salts. Add sugar to cooled juice than add salts and set aside, for about five minutes. If juice begins to have jellied particles, there is enough pectin, if thin and runny, there isn't," she said.

Mrs. Wilkes advised using wax paper to remove skin from juice, instead of spooning it off. She stated, "It is also better to seal jellies and preserves with a thin layer of paraffin so as it expands during warm weather, the paraffin will give instead of cracking."

Mrs. Wilkes plans another demonstration on the making of preserves on Aug. 5.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Attending were Misses T. and Y. McGlohon, Leland Diamond, John Johnson and W. L. Epps.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband operates the movie projector in a large movie house and it has created a big problem for me. From his booth he sees all those love scenes and he also gets a good view of all the lovers romancing in the balcony. He comes home full of ideas and expects me to be in a romantic mood also. To tell you the truth, we've been married 27 years and the honeymoon has been over a long time for me. What should I do?

NOT ROMANTIC

Dear Not: Maybe you should sit up in the booth with him?

DEAR ABBY: I am a normal single male in better than moderate circumstances. Naturally I enjoy the company of an occasional female, but I do not want to get married. I know myself well enough to know that I would make a poor husband and a miserable father. In other words, I am NOT GEARED for marriage. Every attractive female I have ever romanced wants to get married. Should I keep my marriageless intentions to myself or lose my lady friends by declaring honestly that I am not geared for marriage?

NOT GEARED FOR MARRIAGE

Dear Not: It is a grand lacency to take the best years of a girl's life under false pretense. Either tell them from the start that you're not "geared for marriage" — or shift gears.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this as a favor to me and several of my boyfriends with the same problem. Some of the girls we know wear entirely too much lipstick and eye junk. It gets on our shirts. How do you explain this to your mother?

STUCK FOR WORDS

Dear Stuck: I don't think you'll have to "explain" anything to your mother but I suggest you tip off the girls who are "laying it on too thick."

DEAR ABBY: I had a husband who was good for nothing and I mean absolutely good for nothing. If I told you what all he was charged with you'd never put it in your paper. Anyway, we had three children and he was sent to prison and locked up and he is still there. I told the kids their father is dead because by the time he gets out the kids will be grown up and it won't make any difference to them. Was that all right?

WHITE LIE

Dear Mother: This was NOT a right. The truth about your husband is sure to leak out. When a relative is imprisoned, the best explanation is the truth.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married three months to a man who was married once and divorced. I am 19 and never cooked before. He made me quit my job because he wants me to stay home and be a housewife. My problem is I can't cook to please him so he wants me to call up his ex-wife and ask for her recipes and have her explain how to cook certain things the way he likes them. I've never met her and I don't want to call her, but I don't want to lose my husband. Do you think I'm being foolish?

NO COOK

Dear No: If cooking were so important, your husband would still be married to his ex-wife. Take a cooking course and do the best you can.

Foreign Aid Bill Is Due Passage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate probably will pass a $3,713,000,000 foreign aid authorization bill today before recessing for the weekend.

The House called it quits Thursday and scheduled only committee work for today.

The amendment kept the Senate at work on the foreign aid bill until nearly midnight Thursday. The tumultuous session ended when the Senate by a 43-42 vote defeated an amendment which would have given President Eisenhower discretionary power to give economic aid to Communist nations.

The President had made it known that although he wanted the power, he opposed tying it to the aid bill.

Still pending were more than a score of amendments, including one series which would impose cuts in the bill totalling some $485,750,000.

Foreign aid likely will be discussed today when the Senate hears testimony from Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. He was to discuss U.S. foreign policies on a global basis.

Another top administration official, Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, was called before the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The committee was starting work on a House-passed defense money bill. The House Thursday overrode the administration by tacking on an amendment to give the Army an extra 99 million dollars to maintain the Army at 900,000 men.

The President wanted to pare the Army to 870,000 men by July 1, 1959.

A "moderate" labor reform bill was under consideration of the Senate Labor Committee today. Proposals to toughen the bill were expected to be turned down.

The Senate Rackets Committee, meanwhile, prepared to hear from publisher Maxwell C. Raddock, who it says got $310,000 out of a "do it yourself" book writing project. Committee staff investigators have testified Raddock and his enterprises took in that amount for publication of Raddock's biography, "Portrait of an American Labor Leader, William L. Hutchison."

Other congressional news: German President — Theodor Heuss, president of the Federal Republic of Germany, addressed a joint session of Congress, speaking of the Congress in the House of Representatives.

President Roosevelt, once stood and led the United States into war against Germany and the Axis powers. He told the crowded chamber that Hitler forced the United States into war, and that "behind us lie the bad times."

Taxes — The House approved by voice vote a bill to continue present taxes on corporations, liquor, automobiles and cigarettes.

Defense Reorganization — Rep. Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex.) told the House in an hour-long speech that President Eisenhower's defense reorganization proposals would endanger the future of democracy. Kilday, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, said the administration's proposals left a clear implication that it intends that Congress "shall not know what goes on in the Department of Defense and the military services."

CHRYSLER

fin Fisher Body plant charged the company had doubled the work of the men on the shipping dock since the GM contract expired last Thursday.

McCarroll and other Local 544 leaders called a one-day "protest" and 2,400 workers walked out.

The Chrysler troubles ran deeper. Even before the expiration of Ford and Chrysler contracts last Sunday, Chrysler had been demanding the union cut the number of union plant committeemen and stewards and the company-paid time of these union representatives.

Chrysler claimed it had paid more union representatives and given them more for their time settling worker grievances than either General Motors or Ford.

Chrysler ruled that committeemen now could spend only 10 hours in labor negotiations each week, at the rate of no more than two hours a day, and that the union representatives must be on their regular jobs during the first hour of their shift, the fifth hour and the eighth hour.

The union committeemen and stewards declared this would make the settlement of worker grievances impossible because grievances must be settled when they occur and some take longer to settle than others. They put the new company procedure to a test and Thursday the company took action.

Chrysler suspended a union-estimated 380 union plant committeemen and stewards for "disciplinary" reasons. Most of the suspensions were for one day and most were in the Detroit area and at the Los Angeles assembly plant.

There is a road and a seawall that were not there 14 years ago. When the tide is in and the sea running high, the waves pound against the wall and send pebbles and tons of water onto the open, desolate stretch of land.

A few houses remain, their fronts torn apart and their roofs ripped. A tall simple stone monument stands at the foot of the road leading down to the sea from Colville.

LITTLE GIRL CRUSHED
DALLAS (UPI) — Jo Helen Elson, 3, was crushed to death Thursday when she rode her tricycle behind the family car and the vehicle's emergency brake failed. The car rolled over the youngster. Her 2-year-old sister was caught under the tailpipe of the car but wasn't seriously injured.

Actress Is Sentenced
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Attractive Barbara Burns, 20-year-old daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns, today faced a possible sentence of 90 days to a year in jail on a misdemeanor narcotics conviction.

A municipal court jury of seven men and five women who deliberated less than an hour after a two-day trial convicted her Thursday on narcotics charges.

Municipal Judge Harold C. Shepherd set sentencing for Monday.

Miss Burns testified tearfully Thursday she had been promised immunity from prosecution by police if she revealed the person who supplied her with heroin.

She said she was arrested Jan. 7 by narcotic officers who walked into her Hollywood apartment without permission, examined her arms and hands and took her to the police station.

Arab Group Split On Lebanon

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Lebanon gave the Arab League another chance today to solve its dispute with the United Arab Republic. The UN security council stood ready to take up the case if the effort failed.

The council Thursday was about to take up Lebanon's charge that President Gamal Abdel Nasser's UAR is stirring up and supplying men and arms to anti-government rebels in Lebanon.

But Lebanese Foreign Minister Charles Malik, in an hour-long talk with the June president of the 11-nation council, Ambassador Tingfu F. Tsiang of China, got a 24-hour postponement.

His purpose was to give the eight-nation Arab League, meeting in Benghazi, Libya, another day to come up with a satisfactory solution to the dispute between Lebanon and the UAR.

According to reports reaching here, the Arab League meeting was split wide open on the question.

Members of the Arab League are the UAR, Lebanon, Iraq, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Libya and Sudan.

an the last day of his visit to Algeria. He planned to fly home to Paris tonight or early Saturday morning.

Will Confer Saturday
He has called a meeting of his cabinet in Paris Saturday for a full review of the North African problem—the war in Algeria, the mounting hostility of Tunisia and mounting suspicion in friendly Morocco.

De Gaulle apparently hoped his repeated pledges of equality for the Moslems and his appeals to them to lay down their arms would end the costly war which throws France deeper into the red at a rate of five million dollars a day.

De Gaulle's peace platform includes complete equality for the 2,800,000 Moslems and 1,200,000 French Algerians, participation of these ten million Frenchmen in the referendum on constitutional change and general elections in both France and Algeria, with the Moslems voting to send delegates to the National Assembly in Paris.

New Style Polaris Is Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Navy launched a speedy test version of its solid fuel Polaris missile today.

The Polaris, one of the nation's most advanced missiles, rocketed up with a loud roar and trailing a thick cloud of smoke. It, shot through the sky for 25 or 30 seconds and then its engine seemed to burn out.

What apparently was the burned out shell of the test rocket splashed into the ocean not far offshore the cape. But it was not a full scale Polaris and this apparently was expected.

The Polaris is a 1,500-mile missile and is expected to be put into operation in 1960. It is the first of the large ballistic missiles to use solid rather than liquid fuel which gives it great versatility.

A brief announcement after the launching said the test vehicle was fired "to test certain components of the Navy's Polaris missile system under more difficult conditions than on previous launchings."

Lufkin, SFA Reach Finals

AUSTIN (UPI) — Lufkin High's Panthers fought off Houston Lamar for a 3-2 victory in the 10th annual state schoolboy baseball tournament here Thursday to join Stephen F. Austin, 3-0 upset winner over Fort Worth Paschal, in today's finals of Class AAAA competition.

Tommy Fleming and David Skinner teamed up to pace the Panthers past Houston Lamar in a free-scoring affair while a two-run triple by Centerfielder Mike Noe staked the Austin Maroons to their 3-2 verdict.

Anstia's Ray Culp mowed down Paschal, allowing only three hits, Fort Worth's prize lefty, Burt Griffin, who beat Lufkin 5-4 in the opening round of the state meet in 1956, was tagged with his first loss of the year.

Lufkin and Austin will meet for the state crown at 3 p.m. tonight, following a 7 p.m. Class AAA title game between the winners of South San Antonio vs. Snyder and Corsicana vs. Fort Neches games.

SUNDAY LAST DAY TO QUALIFY FOR CC MEET

Time is running out for Pampa Country Club golfers to post qualifying scores to post Warren, local pro, for the three-week club tournament.

Sunday is the final day for shooting qualifying rounds of turning in average scores to Warren. Pairings are expected to be made Sunday evening.

Last year 10 eight-player flights and the championship bracket of 16, competed here. Pampa CC golfers, who put up a $5 entrance fee, will be shooting for merchandise certificates, trophies and other valuable prizes.

Finals in the tourney are slated for June 29. All first round matches must be completed by June 21.

Warren remarked Thursday, "We don't look for as many to play in this summer's meet as competed last year when we had 184. We'll be fortunate to draw 80 entries this year, and it's a shame too, our fairways are in good shape because of the spring rains, and our greens have never looked better. They're really smooth right now."

And as a reminder for hot and weary golfers, the club pool opened today so that at the finish of an 18-hole trip you can take a dip.

Utility, Cabot Post LL Wins

Utility Oil plated two runs in each of the last three innings Thursday evening to erase a 4-2 E. M. Keller lead, score an 8-5 victory, and ease into a tie for first place in Eastern Little League Standings.

Meanwhile, Cabot was scoring an identical 8-5 decision over Celanese to increase its first place hold in the Western Little League to 1 1/2 games.

Jessie Washington sparked Utility's win with a six-hitter and a two-run homer in the 8th. Teammate Gene Stone had poked a two-run homer in the first. Gene Condeli was roughed up for 14 hits to absorb the loss. He led the losers at the plate with a pair of singles.

The game left Utility and One Bull Ranch tied for first with 4-3 records while Keller dropped to second with a 4-4 mark.

De Wright picked up the win with a seven-hitter and blasted a homer for Cabot while Eddie Langell took the loss. Jim Beshears also homered for the winners.

While Bobby Price had three hits to pace Cabot and Jim Harper had two to lead the losers' attack.

Daly Will Halt Fight If Akins Uses Rabbit

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Fiery Bill Daly threatens to jump into the ring tonight and stop the welterweight title fight between Vince Martinez and Virgil Akins if Virgil uses rabbit and kidney punches.

Daly, manager of underdog Martinez, declared today, "You'll see a real rubebarb there tonight if Akins uses those illegal punches. I'll stop the fight, even though it's on television. And you know I'm a man of my word."

Martinez, of Patterson, N.J., and Akins of St. Louis are scheduled to fight 15 rounds at the arena for the vacant welterweight crown. A crowd of 10,000 and a gate of $65,000 are expected.

Akins, an aggressive Negro boxer-puncher, is favored at 2-1 over the handsome, black-haired but somewhat timid boxer-puncher from the East.

They are the survivors of a six-man tournament announced last November to produce a successor to Carmen Basilio. Carmen automatically relinquished the 147-pound title when he won the midweight championship from Sugar Ray Robinson in September.

Virgil, cockily confident of becoming the first St. Louis-born world champion in boxing history, has predicted a knockout over Martinez "within three rounds."

New Jersey Vince restricted his forecast to a win "by decision or by a knockout if the opportunity occurs."

Kempa Murders Packers, 18-0

Kempa Humble kept its winning streak intact Thursday night, slaughtering Panhandle Packing, 18-0, in an Industrial League conflict.

Kempa lashed out 21 base-hits including homers by Joe Fortin, Hook Gipson and Burl Moore. It was the 4th straight win for Kempa after losing their opener of the season.

Rangers Rattle Sens, 1-0, 7-6

By United Press International
There's little breathing room in the Texas League today as only 1 1/2 games separate the first four clubs.

Dallas Rangers aided neighboring Fort Worth Tuesday by knocking off Austin in both ends of a twin bill, 1-0, 7-6, and giving the Cats a half-game edge over the Senators.

Fort Worth, meanwhile, was clobbered by third-ranked Tulsa, 16-4.

Corpus Christi moved closer to the first division by topping San Antonio, 4-2, and cellar-dwelling Victoria edged past Houston, 6-5.

Yankee's Castoffs Ain't Playing Dead

By JOE SARGIS
United Press International

Even the Yankee castoffs are making like Yankees this season. Take the cases of Ralph Terry and Woody Held. They were considered throw-ins in the "Billy Martin deal" with the A's last summer, but if you ask New York manager Casey Stengel he'll tell you they are two "guys I really hated to give up."

Both deported themselves in typical "Yankee" fashion Thursday night as the Kansas City Athletics defeated the Washington Senators, 2-0, in 13 innings. Terry, a 22-year-old righthander from Big Cabin, Okla., scattered seven hits over those 13 frames and in four different occasions snuffed out Washington rallies.

Held provided the two big runs when he rammed a home run into the left field bullpen in Griffith Stadium with Vice Power, another ex-Yankee, aboard.

Gala On Yankees
The win moved the second-place A's to within seven games of the front-running Yankees in the American League "ace." The Yankees annihilated the Chicago White Sox, 12-5, in the opening game of a doubleheader, but the Sox bounced back to take the nightcap, 3-2, behind the six-hit pitching of Ray Moore.

Elsewhere in the AL, the Boston Red Sox came from behind to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 5-3, and Ray Boone's seventh-inning grand slam homer powered the Detroit Tigers to a 6-3 win over the Baltimore Orioles. In the National League, the San Francisco Giants edged the Milwaukee Braves, 5-4, in 12 innings; the Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 8-4; the Philadelphia Phillies rallied to down the Chicago Cubs, 7-6; and the St. Louis Cardinals shaded the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3.

'Sing Along' Succeeds In Its Objective As Television Show

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—It's difficult to fault a show like CBS-TV's "Sing Along" because its aim was so low. However, I will try. "Sing Along," which made its debut Wednesday night, is a show that doesn't pretend to be much and is simply and as a result, I suppose, it should have great appeal for the simple-minded.

Songs are played, lyrics are flashed on screen and performers and audience sing. If that were all I wouldn't mind too much. There are some who might consider it a curious form of entertainment to star down the mouths of hundreds of members of a studio audience while they bawl "Cuddle Up a Little Closer," but not me. I've always found teeth kind of fascinating. Too, there's nothing wrong with a community sing. The movies, after all, saved the ping pong ball business back in the '30's by turning out hundreds of community sing stars.

However, "Sing Along" falls on a far more serious count—it waltzes in phony folkiness, making an awkward bid to come up with front porch-lemonade-swinging glider charm, but winding up only with Madison Avenue corn.

Thus the performers are referred to as "the family" and the announcer coos: "Our family invites your family to join with us and sing along. . . Singers are called back on stage with heaping of golden bantam like: "Come on, Somethin' Smith and the Redheads—there's no sense in the world for you to sit over there like a wart on a pickle."

And, of course, the chatter is full of soothing inanities like this exchange between emcee Jim Lowe and singer Tina Robin: Lowe: "When they told me you were going to be on the show, I was just tickled pink." Miss Robin: "Well, that makes me happy, cause pink is my favorite color." Lowe: "Well, Dog my cats!" Well, dog my cats, too. And pickle my warts if this show doesn't make Lawrence Welk look like Noel Coward.

NBC-TV's "Kraft Theatre" closed out its life in TV Wednesday night with F. Scott Fitzgerald's "Last of the Belles." It was an affecting piece, effectively stepped in the melancholy gaiety of the Flapper era. Next week over.

I talked with Jackie Gleason on the phone Wednesday night after CBS-TV announced Gleason would return next season as star of a new live half-hour series on Friday nights.

Gleason said he had signed on for a minimum of 24 shows, but said he would do 15 more (for a total of 39) if he felt things were going well. "Art Carney? I want him to join me," said Gleason. "If he feels like it, he'll certainly be welcome."

Jackie won't pour as much production into the new show as the old one, but he does intend to unveil some new characters. He plans to do "The Honeymooners" on an occasional basis, which means, probably, that Audrey Meadows won't be a regular.

"I don't think comedy is liked by any means on TV," said Gleason. "I could have worked this season just as Berle could have worked this season if he had wanted to. To tell you the truth, I didn't even feel like working next season, but this offer was too good to turn down."

TV highlights tonight: "Playhouse 90" (CBS-TV)—"The Innocent Sleep" with Hope Lange, Dennis King, Buster Keaton. Tad Mosel drama about a young girl who marries a wealthy invalid.

Friday night: "Gerald McBoing Boing" (CBS-TV). Remains of UPA cartoons, some funny, some very funny, all of them civilized.

"Phil Silvers Show" (CBS-TV)—Sgt. Bilko enters Doberman's poodle in the National dog show.

Walterweight championship bout (NBC-TV)—Virgil Akins versus Vince Martinez in a 15-round.

Presbyterians Fifth Largest Church Group

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
In number, Presbyterians rank fifth among U.S. religious bodies. In prestige, they rank near the top.

Presbyterians have played an influential role in U.S. history since their first church was founded by Scotch immigrants at Rehoboth, Md., in 1633. Their handiwork is strikingly evident in the U.S. Constitution, which set up a system of government patterned after a Presbyterian synod.

Today there are about 4,200,000 Presbyterians in the United States more than any other country of the world. Among them are President Eisenhower, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and scores of other prominent persons.

Nearly three-fourths of American Presbyterians belong to one denomination, the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., which was formed at Pittsburgh last week by a merger of two groups. The Southern Presbyterian church with 330,000 members, is the second largest body. There are eight other Presbyterian denominations, ranging in size from less than 500 to more than 85,000 members.

Three Basic Forms
Presbyterians get their name from a system of church government which is their distinctive contribution to Protestant Christianity.

There are three basic types of church organization. Churches governed by bishops are said to have an "episcopal" form of government. Those in which local congregations rule their own affairs by majority vote are "congregational."

The Presbyterian system is a representative form of government in which authority is vested in "elders" elected by the people. Presbyterians believe it is the same system used by the early Christian church. They cite numerous New Testament passages referring to "Presbyters" (the Greek word for "elders") conducting church affairs.

The governing body of a local Presbyterian church is called "the session." It consists of the minister ("teaching elder") and several elected laymen ("ruling elders"). A "presbytery" exercises authority over all churches in a particular city or other geographical area. It is composed of approximately equal numbers of ministers and ruling elders chosen to represent their sessions.

A "synod" is a similar representative assembly governing a number of presbyteries. All of the synods in the country come under

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

John Dyer, Pastor
HOBART STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

MAN OF SORROWS

Isa. 53:3

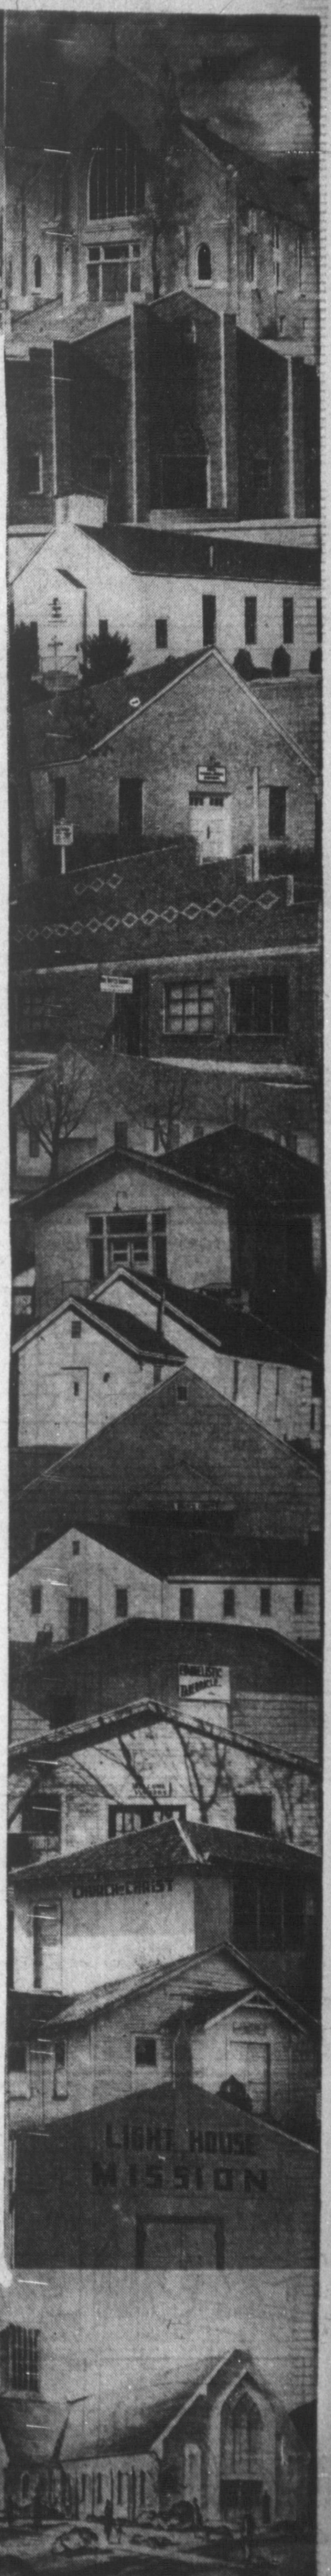

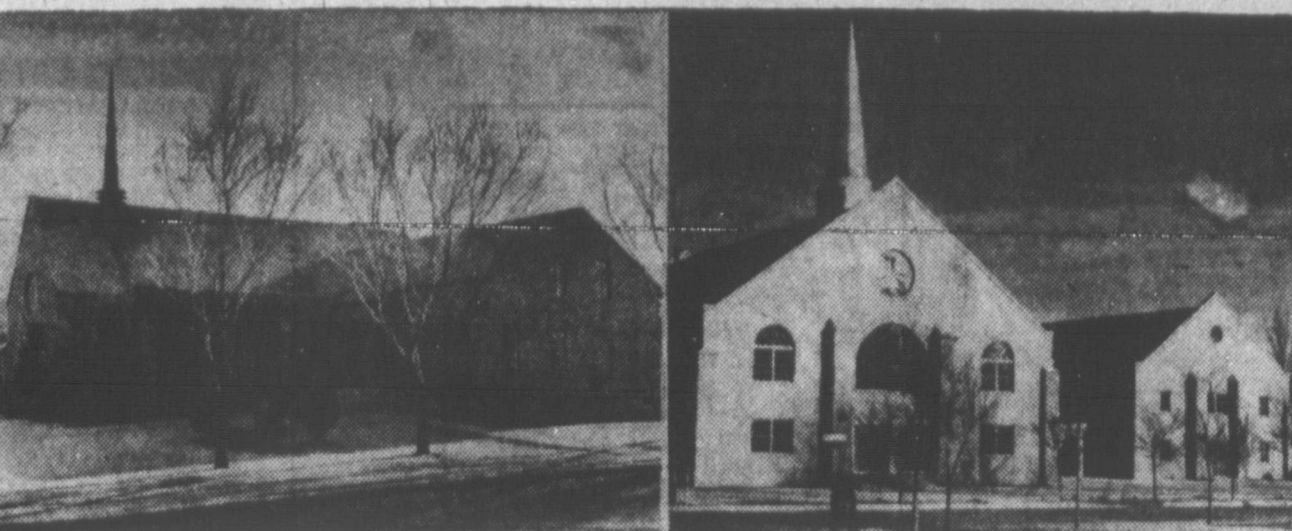

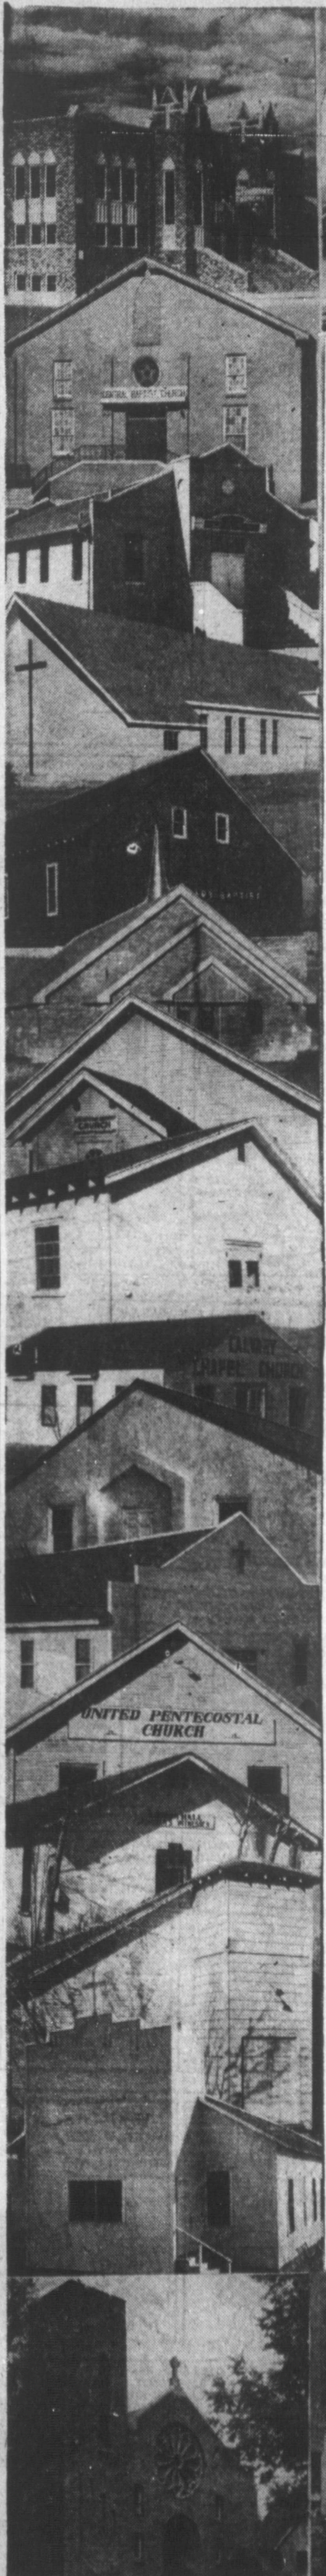

This was one of the marks by which Israel was to know his Christ. He was to be a man of sorrows. The power by which He was to draw men to Himself, the charm by which He was to keep men near Himself, was not to be the charm of cheerfulness, not the pleasantness of His speech or the gladness of His character; it was to be just opposite of this; it was to be His acquaintance with grief.

I. His own personal life was a sorrowful one. He was away from home, from His father's presence. He was a stranger in a strange land. From His childhood He was full of thoughts which He could not utter, because, if uttered, they were not understood. He was a lonely man. His sympathy with others by no means implied their sympathy with Him.

II. His sorrows, like His labours, were for others. (1) Jesus Christ sorrowed over bodily suffering; (2) He sorrowed over mental suffering; (3) He sorrowed over spiritual suffering.

III. He sorrowed over SIN. (1) He had to see sin. (2) He had to bear sin, yours and mine.

IV. This subject teaches us, (1) As a man of sorrows Jesus Christ comes to us it must be, first of all as a memento of the fitness of sorrow to our condition as sinful men. (2) Only a man of sorrows could be a Saviour for all men, and for the whole of life. (3) Sorrow, however deep, has its solaces and its compensations. Whatever it be, it is the nature of sorrow to bring a man nearer to truth, nearer to reality, nearer therefore to hope. Sorrow makes a man more useful. Until a man becomes sorrow enough for his sins and turns to God for forgiveness he is USELESS. Will you turn now in repentance to Christ for salvation and usefulness?

Political Science

One of the more popular and important subjects getting attention today in our various and sundry government schools is called "political science."

We have read a number of the more important works on the subject. Our off-hand conclusion, taken from a wealth of material, is that if there ever was a subject which lacked a moral base, this is it.

Political science as it is taught currently, is the art, or skill, if you prefer, of bending others to your will. In substance, that is it.

It is not a true science, but if science can be impugned, then let us say that it is the science of compulsion, refined to the point of artistry, and hallowed by reference to the Constitution and the democratic process.

Once upon a time in this fair land, politics had a direct relationship to basic principles. Our legislators, our mayors and governors and presidents were dedicated to the concept that individually, men must make their own way. Politics, as the device which turned the wheels of government, was simply a means to a protective end, in which our own individual freedom could be guaranteed. That was the purpose of both politics and government.

Essentially it was a negative purpose. It was of interest to only a very few persons. Most Americans, until very recent times were not interested in politics as a positive device. On the positive side, Americans were content to maintain a minimum of government so that a maximum of freedom and free enterprise could flourish. The idea was that each human being was to make his own way in the world. His ability to make this way was to be protected by making a climate unhealthy for the thief, the liar, the cheat and the murderer. That was the function of government. Basically, it had to be the function of the politician.

But how times have changed. And political science courses are in the forefront ranks of the reasons for the change.

Government is no longer a protective device which is supposed to guarantee our freedom. Instead, government is a cornucopia, a device of opulence and bounty which can be manipulated by power hungry groups into providing everything from relief in hard times to subsidies in good times.

Government in the mind of the political scientist, comes close to replacing God. One no longer has to do his best, keep his powder dry and live an honest and constructive life. Instead, one must learn the devices for forming and controlling majorities; for organizing precinct workers; for following a party line; for compelling all others to follow a pre-ordained path toward a particular regulation or tax.

The fact that the regulation or tax may injure some to the benefit of others is not in question. The duty of the political scientist is to win his way; to ride over others, rough shod if need be, but to ride to victory. That is political science.

Despite the character of this subject and the direction it has taken, persons who submit to this course of study frequently ask good questions. There seems to remain in the minds of present-day students a basic, though frequently unexpressed conviction, that the whole business of organizing politically has certain immoral overtones. There are some questions which are asked from time to time in such classes:

"How can one be certain that the tax (or law) being promoted is actually right and proper?"

"How can one learn in advance who is the best candidate for a particular job when men are all subject to error and when we see on every hand a betrayal of promises made by those who once appeared as the very best candidates?"

"How can the workers in a political campaign of any sort be controlled unless patronage is offered?"

"Isn't it always wise to join a political party which is 'out' because the political party which is 'in' has the advantage of being able to control patronage, and this patronage would always go to people already in the party?"

"Isn't it true that people get into politics because they want something?"

"Have you ever seen a political worker who was dedicated, who didn't have some favorite scheme he was promoting, frequently his own election or appointment?"

"What do you do to lick the opposition in a campaign when they can buy up votes at $1.00 a head and organize so that these purchased votes are carried bodily to the polls? What is to stop us from doing the same thing?"

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Difference Between Communism And Labor Unions
Except in Name

A letter writer to one of Freedom Newspapers made a statement that made what labor unions are plainer to me. The letter writer related that his brother was being constantly asked to join a labor union; that his brother then asked the union members this question: "Would any of you either ask me to or want me to join the Communist Party?" They all immediately told him "No." Then this non-union member said: "I'll put an offer in writing if you wish that is, I'll pay $1,000 to any of you who can show me ANY difference at all between unionism and communism except in name."

Try It

I'll confess I cannot. I can, however, see how they are the same. Communism is based on the use of aggressive force to make some overlords over others; to give some people the right to interfere with other individuals' rights to plan their own lives.

Communism is based on the theory that one man must get permission to life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness from another man rather than from nature or the Creator.

Communism uses aggressive force to sustain this relationship of superiority and inferiority of master and subject.

It uses the government to subjugate those the leaders would exploit, claiming at the same time they are benefiting those they are controlling.

Now compare the above with what the labor unions do. They say, "If you do not pay what we arbitrarily say you should pay, we will strike and try to prevent you from producing the service you are rendering to your customers."

"We will try to prevent you from hiring anyone else."

"We got a law through the government that we can cease working but are still your employees; that if you contend we are not your employees and try to fire us we'll make you pay while we are idle, and we'll even make you put us back on the payroll."

"We got a law through that takes away from an individual his right to make an individual contract to sell his services to the world's highest bidder."

"We, the labor unions, will tell how much wages each individual in the union will get."

"We will determine the wages between the efficient and the inefficient. In other words, we'll tell what maximum wages dare be, as well as what minimum ages dare be. Our unit will be the supreme law of economics."

"We have no way of determining what wages should be other than by arbitrarily using aggressive force and taking our ideas out in the thin air."

"We deny that each and every man should get all he produces unless we are the sole judge of what he produces."

"We will not permit competition to establish the value of anything."

"We, the majority or our elected representatives, have the final say not only of what wages you get, but when you dare buy, what you dare read—just as the communists do."

"We get this monopoly by a conspiracy to limit apprentices, to make employers pay for work not done, using seniority rather than efficiency as a guide as to who shall be employed and what wages they shall get."

It will be noted from the above that communism and labor unions use the same means — aggressive force and fraud.

Communism and labor unions are similar also in the fact that production goes down and the standard of living goes down to the degree that communism and labor unions are successful in depriving individuals of the fruits of their production.

Maybe someone can tell the difference, other than in name and in degree, between labor unions and communism. If so, I would be under great obligation if they would do so.

The columns are open for them to report the difference, other than in name and degree.

BID FOR A SMILE

An eminent specialist who devoted much of his time to charity work in clinics was surprised to have a bewhiskered old gentleman ushered into his Park Avenue consultation room one day.

Man: Remember me, Doctor? You treated me over at the clinic. Well, I've been left a little money and I guess I can afford my own doctor now.

Doctor: But what made you come to me? I wasn't the only doctor who treated you at the clinic.

Man (quietly): I know, but you were the only one who helped me with my coat.

MILES PER HOUR

Here is a tricky little puzzle, so don't let it fool you. If you drive an automobile one mile at the rate of 60 miles per hour and another mile at the rate of 20 miles per hour, what will be your average speed for the two miles?

You will perhaps get the wrong answer unless you are extra good with figures. Anyhow, think it out clearly.

You drive the first mile in one minute, and the second mile in two minutes. Therefore, it took three minutes to drive the two miles, which is at the rate of 40 miles per hour.

We first in the office every morning, the last to leave at night, never be absent, always work through your lunch-hour, and one day the big boss was watching your work carefully, Jones. Just what the devil are you doing?

An editor was dying, but when the doctor bent over, placed his ear on his breast, and said, "Poor man! Circulation almost gone!" the dying editor shouted: "You're a liar! We have the biggest circulation in the county!"

Not That I Love You More

Robert Allen Reports:

Senate Committee Hits
Ambassador To France

WASHINGTON — Amory Houghton, Ambassador to France, is under sharp fire in the influential Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The State Department is being bluntly "advised" to replace him. Leading Committee members, in their significant backstage complaints, are berating Houghton mainly on two grounds:

Failure to perceive De Gaulle's return to power. Up to as late as a month ago, Houghton discounted the likelihood of De Gaulle again becoming Premier.

General ineffectiveness as a diplomat. Prior to taking over the Paris embassy in March 1957, the former head of Corning Glass Works had no diplomatic experience. In striking contrast to Houghton, the ambassadors of Britain, Italy, West Germany, Russia and other powers are among their ablest and most skilled.

Particularly embarrassing to Houghton on the first charge is that the Central Intelligence Agency flatly forewarned De Gaulle's resumption of authority.

Months ago, CIA reports and analyses pointed clearly to that. After the fall of the Gaillard government, CIA became increasingly positive that De Gaulle's "political resurrection" was inevitable. This was unequivocally predicted, within days after Fulbright became Premier.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee members are saying privately that despite the CIA's detailed and accurate forecasts, Ambassador Houghton persisted almost up to the end in expressing doubts about De Gaulle's return. It is charged this was done in the face of the known fact that other ambassadors were sending directly opposite reports to their governments.

Foremost among them were Italian Ambassador Pietro Quaroni, the late Turkish Ambassador Numan Menemencioglu, and Russian Ambassador Sergei Vinogradov.

Vinogradov also carefully established personal ties with De Gaulle.

While Houghton made no effort to meet and talk with him, the Soviet envoy drove to De Gaulle's home and conferred with him at length. On one of these visits, early in May, Vinogradov assured De Gaulle the Kremlin was eager to restore the "traditional" amity between France and Russia.

On this same issue it is being asserted by the senators that not only is Houghton unacquainted with De Gaulle, but with most of his close lieutenants.

Particularly included are Andre Malraux, Minister of Information, novelist, art critic and philosopher; Maurice Couve de Murville, Foreign Minister and former Ambassador to the U.S.; Emile Pelletier, Minister of Interior; Bernard Cornut-Gentille, Minister for Overseas France, and former Ambassador to Argentina; and Pierre Gaillaumat, Minister of Defense and atomic energy.

The contention is made that

By HENRY
McLEMOREPost Another Guard
Or Two At Fort Knox

General Charles De Gaulle is back, and my guess is that Uncle Sam had better put an extra night watchman on duty at Fort Knox. Maybe two.

The General returns to power with the best bargaining power since Tito first started to play both ends against the middle.

The United States, it seems, is always caught in a squeeze — and the squeeze is never a hug, if you know what I mean. Some country always has something we want, or need, and we always have something some country wants, and the name of it is money.

Right now France — meaning De Gaulle — has real estate that the United States must have if NATO is going to operate. NATO has gotten along without much French help in the way of divisions, planes, tanks, etc., but it will have rough going without French soil.

It would be hard to estimate what the United States has on the ground and under the ground in France. Just about everything you can name, I suppose, and millions and millions of millions of dollars worth of it. If De Gaulle said that all this material for defense against Russia must be removed, that France no longer was to be the European warehouse, it would really knock the props out from under NATO.

General De Gaulle may not make any such demands, but I'd hate to bet that he isn't going to have a price for not doing it. You probably noticed that right along with the announcement of the General's victory came the news that France's economy is bordering on bankruptcy despite the 600-plus millions in aid given it in January.

The man who combines the build of a basketball player with the mysticism of a Joan d'Arc, has always been a tough man to deal with. Now, holding the high cards, and dead broke, he isn't likely to go soft all of a sudden. He might even ask for that job of extra night watchman at Fort Knox for himself!

You may rest assured that De Gaulle, like all the other European leaders, will be influenced by his dislike and fear of West Germany. One only has to travel about Europe for a while, and read its newspapers, to learn very quickly how France, England, and the rest feel about the amazing recovery of the country that was rubble in 1945.

The papers average an editorial a week on Germany's industry and wealth. Germany's economy is as solid as a rock, and is getting more solid, and one is hard put to figure out where jealousy leaves off and fear begins. None of the editorials I read, however, saw fit to mention that Germany, where state hand-outs are at a minimum, was doing much better than the countries where a man could get everything free from a wig to a pedicure.

One can't help but feel sorry for the lads of the State Department. Ours, I mean. There must be a dreadful monotony about their work. Every week, on the hour almost, they have to start guessing what a new man in power will do. What he thinks, how he feels, what he would like in the way of a pacifier, and which way he is going to jump from day to day.

Now it's De Gaulle. Wonder who it will be next week?

CRACKER BARREL

On September 12, 1952, General Eisenhower said, "The greatest threat to liberty is internal, from the constant growth of big government through the constantly increasing power and spending of the federal government... the essential thing is to keep our expenditures... at a percentage of our total income which will not destroy our free economy at home and further inflate our debt and currency."

He knew the right words even in those days but, somehow, he never learned the tune.

'Stalinists' Attack Commie Leaders

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The No. 1 leaders of both Soviet Russia and Red China appear to be under attack by the "Stalinists" in their Communist parties.

Dispatches from Eastern European capitals say this party dispute lies behind the new Communist denunciations of President Tito of Yugoslavia for his persistently independent attitude.

The "Stalinists"—the men who insist that a harsh dictatorship is essential in a Communist country—are directing the anti-Tito campaign.

It is said also that the Chinese Communists are the prime movers in the anti-Tito offensive and that they put pressure on the Russian Communists to join in it.

Prestige Loss Indicated

Dispatches say the dispute in the Russian Communist Party was so serious recently that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was threatened with loss of control of the ruling Presidium and Central Committee.

It is reported also that Chinese Red Leader Mao Tse-Tung has lost a considerable degree of party authority to Liu Shao-Chi, the Chinese Communist Party's chief theoretician who for years has been regarded as the real No. 2 man.

If the reports are accurate, it means Khrushchev and Mao are paying the penalty for the party crime of liberalism, and that Tito is being made the whipping boy.

Realizes Strategic Mistake

Khrushchev has long been aware that he went too far in his denunciation of Josef Stalin's policies. He could hardly fail to realize that, because it was his denunciation of Stalin-type leadership that led to the Polish and Hungarian revolts.

Mao, of course, made the same mistake. In his now-famous "Let a hundred flowers bloom" speech, he invited criticism of the Chinese Red regime.

The response was so enthusiastic, both inside and outside the Communist Party, that a drastic purge of the critics became necessary.

Mao appears to have suffered more blame than Khrushchev for the failure of the liberalization campaign.

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The Chinese Communists are represented as fearful not only of internal unrest, due to a bad industrial and agricultural situation, but of any lessening of world tension which would weaken Russia's part in the cold war.

Each year the Association of Playing Card Manufacturers conducts an Intercollegiate Bridge Championship in which the students play 16 selected hands with certain pats.

In today's hand North and South must get to six diamonds and then make it.

West opens the ten of spades. How would you play the hand?

You win the ace of spades of course. You might next play king, ace and a small club and ruff low in dummy. This wins unless the second club is ruffed or the third club overruffed. As an alternative you might ruff the club high. This will work unless you now run into all four diamonds in the same hand and is a slightly better line of play than the preceding.

If you now look at the East-West cards you will see that the first line of play loses and the second line wins.

However, you should have adopted a third line that would win against any combination of cards once East followed to the spade lead. Your sure thing play is to draw trumps and lead your last spade. You still have two entries to dummy. You get in the first time in order to ruff a spade and the second time in order to discard your losing club on a spade which will have been established by that time.

More Than Meets Eye In Farley Bid

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—There could be more than meets the eye in James A. Farley's announcement that he will seek this year's Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate in New York State.

The New York contest between Republican and Democratic nominees in November will be for the seat for which Sen. Irving M. Ives, a Republican, will not seek renomination.

Those New York Democratic political leaders who commented on Farley's announcement were friendly but far from enthusiastic. That was the tone of what Democratic national committeeman Carmine G. De Sapio had to say, and of the comment of Michael H. Frendergast, Democratic state chairman.

Gov. Averell Harriman did not hurry immediately into print with any comment whatsoever and, perhaps, his moments of silence have a meaning all their own. Harriman is the political freshman who shell-shocked the Republican Party four years ago by winning the governorship from Ives.

Boost Toward Washington

Harriman won that one by a slim 11,000-vote margin, but to win at all was a great personal triumph, and it would have been so rated if his bid had been a mere few hundreds of votes. The governor made a run for the Democratic presidential nomination thereafter under the whip of former President Truman.

It is reasonable—almost necessary—to assume that Harriman contemplates his own practical assured reelection as governor this year as a boost toward another shot at the White House in 1960. There would be no boost for Harriman, however, in a narrow margin reelection. The governor is handicapped, as is, by his age.

He will be 60 years old in 1960 which is far, far along for a presidential aspirant.

To overcome the handicap of years and to impress Northern and Western Democrats with his political sex appeal, Harriman needs a lopsided reelection triumph this year. He needs to win big, to lead the ticket as the late Sen. Robert F. Wagner used to do.

Farley might not be the ideal running mate in New York state for a governor who not only must win reelection, but must lead the ticket—or else. Farley is a popular man, a skilled politician, a Democrat with sound foundations in his own party and, yet, so widely respected among Republicans that he would be likely to draw heavily from the opposition.

Lesser Men Available

Could be, therefore, that Farley might turn up leading the Democratic ticket next November if he succeeds now in winning the Democratic senatorial nomination.

There are lesser men and lesser Democrats whom Harriman might choose for ticket partners this year and, perhaps, these things are running through his mind. He and De Sapio, of course, will have Democratic senatorial nominees.

The hard core of the Franklin D. Roosevelt cheering section may oppose Farley unless they have forgotten and forgiven the fact that he tried to block FDR's nomination for a third term.

Farley did not believe FDR would buck the third term precedent. He didn't believe it because the President had told him he would not do so. When that promise was erased by the world's best organized spontaneous draft, Farley backed, explaining to friends:

"I am a patriotic American first, and a Democrat second."

On The Business Scene

By United Press International

Unfinished gasoline and other unfinished oils were brought under President Eisenhower's voluntary import controls. The action followed reports in trade circles that some companies planned to boost imports of unfinished gasoline to compensate for cutbacks in crude imports.

Donovan Wilmot, vice president of Aluminum Co. of America, forecast an aluminum price increase this summer unless the United Steelworkers Union foregoes a 25 cent an hour wage boost. He said the wage hike could not be absorbed at existing prices for aluminum products.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. said it is recalling a "limited number" of employees to its plant in Cleveland, Ohio for partial resumption of cold rolled sheet production. The action was said to reflect increased orders for immediate delivery.

The Commerce Department reported that inventories of manufacturers, retailers and wholesalers continued to decline in April. The book value of manufacturing in trade inventories at the end of April was estimated at $88,300,000,000 or about $2,800,000,000 below April, 1957.
