Burn ban in effect for county

Mitchell County and Colorado City have joined much of the state in banning outdoor burning because of the threat of fire.

At the request of the fire marshal, County Judge Ray Mayo signed a temporary emergency burn ban last Friday prohibiting outdoor burning.

"A state of disaster exists in Mitchell County based on the imminent threat of disaster from wild fire," stated the ban.

The declaration of disaster authorizes controls on activities which could increase the likelihood of fires.

The ban prohibits burning any combustible material outside of an enclosure which serves to contain all flames or sparks or ordering such burning by others; engaging in any activity outdoors which could allow flames or sparks that could result in a fire or ordering such activities by others.

Violators could pay up to $1,000 and/or spend up to 180 days in jail. Any duly commissioned peace officer can enforce the ban.

Mitchell County commissioners extended the ban at a called meeting Tuesday morning.

Colorado City also has a burn ban in effect.

The city will probably remain under the burn ban until it rains, said Fire Marshal Billy Ray Williamson.

Despite tinder-like conditions there were only a few grass fires last week, Williamson said.

Local firefighters burned dry grass in a controlled burn along the railroad tracks on First Street last week after four or five grass fires had occurred in the area the previous week.

Williamson noted that the area, so far, has been luckier than many around the state. There have been no major fires. The accident on I-20 caused by smoke from a grass fire last week has been the worst incident we've had so far, he said.

More than 2,900 fires were reported by Texas fire officials to have broken out statewide this year as a result of the tinderbox

Candidate filings light in local races

Only a few incumbents on local city council and school boards filed for re-election by the end of the first week of the filing period.

Filing for the May 4 city and school elections ends March 20.

No candidates for seats on the Colorado City council have filed since incumbent place 4 councilman A. W. Rowe filed on the first filing day Feb. 19.

Three seats on the Colorado City Council will be on the May 4 election ballot: seats currently held by Patrick Parker, Gary Redwine and A. W. Rowe.

Three Loraine council positions will be open for seats currently held by Chrystene Hall, Aurthur Zuniga and Lee Matlock.

In Loraine, incumbents Lee Matlock and Chrystene Hall have filed for places on the city council.

None of the candidates for the Westbrook City Council seats filed last week.

In Westbrook, positions held by Mayor J. L. Rees, Ronnie Diese and Nick Lopez will be up for election as well as the third council seat left open after Sally Parker's resignation.

SCHOOL BOARDS

In the school board elections, two incumbents from the Colorado Independent School District board of trustees have filed: Tony Turner and Larry Blassingame.

Colorado Independent School District board of trustees seats up for election include Jesse Munoz, Jr., place 1, Larry Blassingame, place 2 and Tony Turner, place 3.

All three of the incumbents on the Westbrook Independent School District board of trustees filed as candidates during the first week of filing.

Westbrook ISD board members include Elton Carlisle, Kay Gregory and W.E. Smith, Jr.

Loraine ISD board seats up for election include positions held by

Planned merger will not affect Mitchell County Hospital

A representative from Methodist Hospital told the Mitchell County Hospital District Board that a potential merger between Lubbock Methodist Hospital System and St. Mary Hospital will not affect MCHD's affiliation with Methodist.

Ray Mason of Methodist told the board during their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening that although everything was speculation now until the 120 day period while the attorneys worked out the details, he did not see that a merger would change anything between

First Trade Days of '96 is planned March 16-17

Plans for the March 16-17 Railhead Trade Days are underway at the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce.

This will be the first of three Railheads to be held this year. Formerly, the Railhead was an annual event.

The change reflects the chamber's long-term vision of the Railhead developing into an event that will have a significant impact on local businesses by attracting out of town visitors.

Capitalizing on the history of the area, Railhead Trade Days will link with the city's historic sights and the burgeoning emphasis on antiques. Flyers encourage visitors to the trade days in historic downtown Colorado City to see the museum, Heritage House and antique shops.

Kiwanis Club annual pancake supper is Friday

The local Kiwanis Club will host its annual Pancake Supper Friday, March 1 from 5:30-7 p.m. in the Colorado Middle School.

In years past, the event has been held at the Kelley Elementary cafeteria. Those planning to attend the supper this year need to note the change in location.

Adult tickets will cost $4. The cost for children age 12 and under will be $2. The supper is all-you-can-eat.

All proceeds from the event will go towards the many youth projects the Kiwanis Club sponsors throughout the year.

Playhouse supper is rescheduled

Colorado City Playhouse members are hoping to get everyone involved in rejuvenating theatrical productions in Colorado City.

A Rejuvenatin' Meetin' has been rescheduled for Saturday, March 2, instead of Friday evening because of the Kiwanis Pancake Supper.

The meeting and covered dish supper will be held at 7 p.m. at the C. C. Thompson Room.

Marsha Moore, director of the recent production Crimes of the Heart said, "we haven't done many productions lately and we really want to get the Playhouse back to doing the four-plus shows a year as we did in the past."

"To do this we need the help of the community," she said.

Moore said that no one needs to worry that they'll be asked to do a time-consuming job they dislike.

"But the more people, the less work there is. Everyone can do a part," she said.

Beer party leads to 13 arrests

Thirteen people, including six juveniles between the ages of 13 and 15, were arrested when Colorado City police officers broke up a beer party in the 200 block of East 11th Street Friday night.

Two adults—Michael Stevens Santana, 21, of Colorado City and Gabriel Dominic Villa, 21 of Sweetwater—were charged with making alcohol available to a minor, according to Colorado City Police Chief David Montgomery.

Seven of those arrested were between the ages of 17 and 21.

The majority of the youngsters were from Sweetwater, said Chief Montgomery.

"We don't know why they were here and don't want to see a trend of Sweetwater youngsters coming over here and drinking," said Montgomery. "That's something the community doesn't need."

The case is under investigation.

Montgomery said that officers found a 16 gallon beer keg at the party. Officers have checked with local businesses, believe the beer was not purchased locally, and have expanded the investigation.

"If we find any adults involved in supplying the alcohol, we'll file a case on them, he said.

The buyer would have been required to pay a $100 deposit on the keg, according to Montgomery.

"By state law we are allowed to seize the keg and after turn it over to the TABC after the court case," he said. "The store doesn't get it back and whoever purchased the keg will have to forfeit the deposit."

COOK'S CORNER

by Sheila Plagens

Mildred Rogers is a "take-over" type person (by her own definition). She stays busy all the time doing something—whether for herself or for someone else. That may be because she worked for so long at "Mildred's", her beauty shop—she can't sit still. She couldn't or wouldn't tell me exactly when she started in the beauty business, but she did tell me you could get a permanent for $2.50. She retired in 1977 and has been going strong ever since.

While working and raising her daughter, Judy Chitsey, Mildred cooked from recipes. She now enjoys cooking low fat, low cholesterol dishes. She makes lots of dishes with vegetables and fruit.

One fruit in particular she likes is apricots, which leads me to a funny story Mildred told me. She hadn't been cooking long when she was given a recipe for fruit cobbler. Wanting to try it out, she acquired some apricots. The recipe called for two cups fruit, one cup sugar. Always following a recipe, Mildred did just that, not allowing for the tartness of apricots. She served the cobbler, took one bite and threw it out. She said it tasted like vinegar! Moral of the story is: adjust your sugar in the recipe when using tart fruits.

These days, Mildred stays busy playing bridge twice a week, walking for fitness and quilting. She quilts at home and at the First United Methodist Church. Her friends say she is the only person they know who can hand-quilt a queen size quilt in two weeks by herself—and do all the other things she normally does, also.

Mildred enjoys her family. She has two grandchildren she is very proud of: Douglas Chitsey, who is married to Allison; and Amy Dierschke and husband Ward. She is also anxiously awaiting the arrival of her first great grandchild sometime next month.

Mildred is sharing three recipes with us today, all signifying her belief in healthy eating. Enjoy these dishes!

OAT BRAN AND RAISIN MUFFINS

2 cups uncooked 100% Oat Bran
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
1 cup skim milk
1/3 cup honey
1/4 cup salad oil
2 egg whites
1 cup dark seedless raisins

Preheat oven to 425°. Place paper liners in muffin pans. In large bowl, mix first four ingredients. In small bowl, beat milk, honey and egg whites. Stir in oat bran mixture just enough to moisten oat bran. Fold in raisins. Spoon batter in muffin cups. Bake 20 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

RANCH CRISPY CHICKEN

Combine:
1 oz. packet of Hidden Valley Original Ranch dressing mix
1/4 cup unseasoned bread crumbs

Add:
6-8 pieces of chicken (bone-in)

Shake until coated. Bake 50 minutes on ungreased baking sheet at 375°.

CAULIFLOWER AND BROCCOLI SALAD

1 head broccoli, cut in bite size pieces
1 small head cauliflower, cut in bite size pieces
1/2 cup sunflower seeds
1 cup raisins
1 small purple onion, chopped

DRESSING:
1/2 cup Miracle Whip
1/4 cup vinegar
3 to 4 Tbsp. sugar

Mix together and toss with vegetables. Refrigerate overnight.

FIRST MEETING of the executive board for the Mitchell County Immunization Coalition is held at the Texas Tech University Health Science Center Clinic. Pictured, not in the order shown, are: J. A. Sadler, Terry McAdams, Terry Coe, Francis Cooper, Friday Moore, Lillie Funderburg, Doris Henderson, Pam Butler and Mary Ann Fincher.

Women attend SCVI program

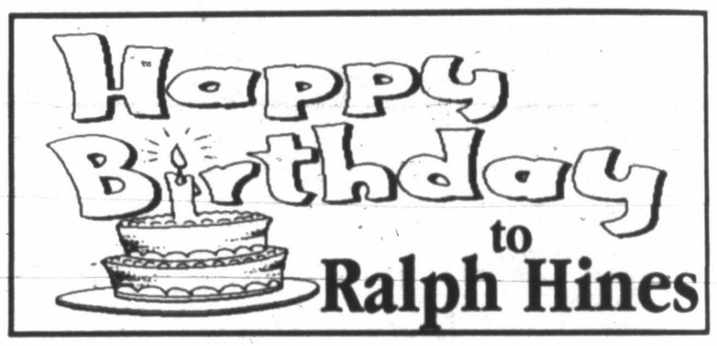

Friday Moore and Lillie Funderburg attended a two-day training session for the Seniors/Volunteers for Childhood Immunization (SCVI) program last month.

The training was conducted at the University of North Texas in Denton. Volunteers are trained to educate and remind parents to immunize their preschool children.

The training and resource materials were developed by the Texas Institute for Research and Education on Aging at the University of North Texas especially for use by community volunteer agencies in Texas conducting an SVCI project.

The aim of SVCI projects is to improve the immunization rate among children under two years of age.

According to Texas Department of Health statistics, 97-98 percent of children are immunized by the time they enter school. However, only three out of every 10 two-year olds in the U.S. have been immunized, which makes the others susceptible to pertussis, polio, mumps and rubella.

SPRING IS HOME IMPROVEMENT TIME

Spring is only a month away and, now is the time to start thinking about those fix-up jobs you've been planning.

We're talking HOME IMPROVEMENT

If you need money for Home Improvement projects,
The City National Bank has loans available for you.

1. A garage or carport to protect your vehicle from the Spring storms and Summer heat.
2. Maybe you need more room and you want to add an extra bedroom or den.
3. Perhaps you would just like to repair a few things around the house.

For any Home Improvement project, the City National Bank is the place to turn to for the funding. Come by CNB and talk with Don Jones, Bobby Lemons, Royce Clay or Susan Wallis and discover how easy it is to fix up your place. Remember as spring approaches...

Think Home Improvement.

THIS 'n THAT

By Sheila Plagens
Greetings to everyone!

I noticed in the Sweetwater newspaper the other day that a former resident of Colorado City was chosen as Valentine Queen at the Holiday Retirement Center. Thelma Rogers was the honoree.

Happy anniversary to Warren and Leola Anderson. On February 23, they will celebrate their 49th anniversary. Congratulations!

I read the other day that we haven't received any measurable precipitation since Oct. 30, 1995! That supposedly breaks a record, which was 98 days without rain. That record was recorded in the 1980 book Gettin' Started by Joe Pickle. The year was 1950, between Sept. 25 and Dec. 31 and not even the infamous drought of the mid-fifties could best that mark.

I also read that in 1915 (or thereabouts) this area once went 672 days without a rain of at least one-half inch. I hope we're not in for another drought like that!

Congratulations to Jeremy and Machelle Strain. Their son, Cole William Strain, was born on Valentine's Day. I would say that is some kind of Valentine gift Machelle gave Jeremy!

I'm sorry I missed the Chamber banquet last weekend. I was in San Antonio visiting with my brother and sister-in-law and attending the funeral of her mother. From all the reports I've heard, everyone had a great time! Congratulations to Warden Rodney Cooper and Robert and Mary Margaret Cox on their awards.

...Speaking of the Chamber banquet, I need to defend myself. The program stated Wayne Scott was with the institutional division of TDCJ. The biography we recieved from TDCJ said that, so it really wasn't our fault, Rob Junell!

Leola Anderson and Wilma Reynolds did a wonderful job of displaying old pictures from the county in the new McDonalds. I was there Monday morning and it was quite entertaining to look at the old photographs.

Don't forget the Kiwanis Pancake Supper is this Friday night, March 2. It willbe held at the Middle School Cafeteria this year. Tickets may be purchased from any Kiwanis Club member or are available at the door. See you there!

The Rejuvenatin' Dinner for the playhouse is scheduled for Saturday night at the CC Thompson Room. Local folks interested in the Playhouse will discuss future productions. Anyone interest is encouraged to attend the potluck dinner.

Carolyn Smith let me know Tuesday that former resident and school teacher Florence B. McShan (age 93) is temporarily in a rest home receiving therapy for a broken bone in her leg. She would enjoy receiving cards and letters from her friends. You may send the correspondence to: Florence B. McShan, Coronado Rest Home, 1751 N. 15th St., Station 41B, Abilene, TX.

Friday Moore said she really enjoyed her trip to College Station to visit her granddaughter, Amy Moore. She and Therman, along with son Cleve and his wife Wilma, visited over the weekend. Amy is a sophomore at Texas A&M, majoring in petroleum engineering.

Don Delaney isn't doing much these days but playing golf. He was in the office today, buying office supplies. What for? ...To mark his golf balls, of course!

Another 49th anniversary: on March 2, Howard and Marilyn Tartt will also be celebrating 49 years! Congratulations to you also!

A lady called Sunday and was telling about a rattlesnake she found in her home that morning. Does this mean the snakes are leaving their dens already? Have there been any more sightings in the county? If so, let me know!

A story you won't want to miss...

Walking can be hazardous to your health

A true story of a rabid bobcat

Local author and ranch wife Doris McClellan has been interviewed extensively since she was attacked by a bobcat last spring. She has written an account of her experience. The following is reprinted with her permission:

By DORIS McCLELLAN

I received a crash course in lessons from nature because of the rabies epidemic which covers a large area of Texas. Rabies is one of nature's ways of controlling an over-population of wild animals.

On the cool spring morning of March 23, 1995, I decided to take my usual solitary walk before going to a ladies' luncheon. The place I always walk is on a secluded ranch road which crosses both a spring and Hackberry Creek. This creek is near our home and is an "oasis" for West Texas. This is also where my grandchildren like to walk and play, pick up turkey feathers and rocks, fish, climb trees, look for animals, butterflies, and birds of all kinds. It is a beautiful place with huge pecan trees overhead—a place where monarch butterflies stop to rest in migration to and from Mexico. There are deer, wild turkeys, squirrels, armadillos, turtles, raccoons, snakes...

Never before this morning had I been led to select a belt to strap my .38 revolver around my waist. It took three tries to find a belt that would fit my holster. The belt that fit was red with conches. I felt ridiculous, yet, I made sure the belt was securely fastened and that I could reach the holster with my right hand. I think I had a guardian angel.

At about 7 a.m., I picked up a cup of coffee and walked out the door. As I walked past the spring, about 100 yards from the house, there were limbs in the road. As the wind and roosting turkeys often prune the big trees naturally, this is an everyday occurrence. I picked up the limbs to put them in a brush pile near the road.

Upon getting back to the road on the north side, a terrible squalling roar erupted from the throat of a mad bobcat which came bounding toward me from the south side of the road. I stood still, thinking he might not attack. As the cat kept advancing rapidly, I dropped my coffee cup, drew my pistol and fired twice at the oncoming cat. I missed the fast-moving target. On the second shot he was already leaping up toward my throat, so I shoved my arms in front of me. He latched onto my right elbow with his powerful jaws and clawed my arms with his front paws. Sometime during the struggle, he also viciously bit the inside calf of my right leg, repeatedly. I was holding my right arm away from my body as far as I could with a 30-pound beast clenching and clawing the flesh of my arm and being thankful this was not happening to my grandchildren, who had been right at that spot just a few days before.

My mindset went from a "bad dream feeling" to a clear, calm, calculated survival plan. I must transfer my gun from my useless right hand to my left and keep my balance.

I had to draw my hands in close together in front of me. This meant I must endure more wounds from the cat's slashing hind feet that were still swinging down from my elbow. I then shot the bobcat through the belly with my left hand. The growling and snarling noise became "blessed silence." The cat dropped to the ground as softly as a cotton ball falling and went back to the south side of the road, wounded. I felt as much relief from the cessation of that terrible attack sound as I did from his physically letting go of me.

As I was walking up the hill toward the house, looking over my shoulder, wondering if I could fend off an attack on my back should it occur, I'm glad I never thought about having only two bullets left. The only number that came to my mind was 911.

The 911 operator kept asking questions about directions. (We live 30 miles from town.) Also, she wanted to know if I were bleeding. "Yes, I am bleeding, but I am not bleeding to death. I have to go so I can drive the two and a quarter miles to the highway. I need to unlock the gate for the ambulance."

I am embarrassed to admit it, but at this point I went to the bathroom to try to brush my teeth and put on lipstick; my arm did not work very well. Then I started driving to the highway to unlock the gate, looking for the cat as I crossed the creek, wondering if I might go into shock.

After reaching the highway safely and unlocking the gate, I took my gun off the belt. Then I used our cellular phone to try to call my husband, who was working on horseback 25 miles away. I called my parents to reassure them that I was okay. (They are 88 and 89 years old and I was afraid they would get excited and have a wreck driving to the emergency room of the hospital.)

Then I called my nearest neighbor (eight miles away) so that she could tell my husband what had happened when he came in from work. I hadn't been able to reach him by phone. I checked with the 911 operator to be sure they were on the way and not lost.

The emergency ambulance personnel took excellent care of me—dripping saline solution onto my skin flaps and wounds on the way to town. This cleaned the wounds and kept the skin alive so it could be grafted.

Upon arriving at the hospital, the doctor and nurses were ready to sew me up and start human rabies immune globulin, rabies, tetanus, and other shots with antibiotics to combat infection. The emergency treatment involved over two hours worth of stitching. The doctor left the bite wounds open so they could drain.

Meanwhile, Mitchell County Sheriff Patrick Toombs and his deputy, who had arrived before the ambulance and offered to take my pickup back to the house and look for the rabid bobcat, had this to report.

"I got to the area where Doris said the attack occurred and looked for the cat. The next think I knew he was attacking the truck." Toombs, who had his elbow hanging out the window, laughed as he explained his struggle to roll it up. "I was looking for a handle to roll the window up with and it was a punch button.

"The bobcat attacked the truck three times. When the animal retreated back into the brush, I rolled the window down and shot him three times in the shoulder with a 12-gauge shotgun before I could kill him. I have never heard of one coming after someone like that."

Toombs added that the bobcat left claw marks on the truck that scratched through the metal. (A 30-pound cat attacking a 6,000-pound machine!) The sheriff stated, "The .38 revolver Doris carried saved her life."

I think if the cat had knocked me down, or I had dropped my gun, the outcome would have been very different.

The sheriff and game warden took the cat to the veterinarian, who sent his head to Austin to check the brain for rabies. Of course, it was rabid.

In the six days of excellent care in the hospital, I forced my infected arm to work. Little by little, I regained full movement.

I will recover from this. I do not think I would ever recover from someone else's being attacked and/or killed on the ranch. The physical wounds have healed. The mental and emotional wounds are much slower to heal. I refuse to let fear cripple me—to keep me from roaming the great outdoors that I love. Even though I survived, I have no doubt that a child or a weak, elderly person would have been completely overpowered.

What is rabies? Questions are addressed concerning rabies

Doris McClellan has spoken to numerous civic organizations and school classes since she was attacked by a bobcat last year.

She not only tells them about her experience but shares information she has researched about rabies.

With spring just around the corner, McClellan said she is concerned that people will become complacent about the rabies epidemic in Texas beause of the recent air drops of the rabies vaccine in this area.

The following information about rabies, compiled by McClellan using information from the Texas Department of Health, is reprinted as a public service to Record readers and with McClellan's permission.

What is rabies?

Rabies is a fatal viral infection which affects the central nervous system. It takes from 10 days to one year to develop.

Kinds of rabies:

a. Fox rabies—"dumb type."

b. Canine rabies—"aggressive type."

An epizootic (epidemic/ outbreak) of canine rabies is spreading north. Rabid coyotes can move long distances. This increases the spread of canine rabies. Rabies in domestic dogs increases the chance for human exposure.

Which animals carry rabies?

Skunks, raccoons, bats, cats, foxes, cattle, dogs, horses, mules, sheep, goats, swine, coyotes, and bobcats carry rabies. All mammals, including man, are susceptible to rabies, which is usually transmitted by an infected animal's bite, scratch, or lick.

How do you recognize a rabid animal?

Since bites by cats and dogs are the leading cause for humans to need treatment for rabies, look for these stages.

The disease of rabies progresses through a number of stages. In the early stages, the personality of pets may change. A normally friendly dog may stay alone, another may begin to seek more attention. Some animals may scratch at the place the virus entered their bodies until it bleeds.

Later symptoms follow a "furious" pattern, a "dumb" (paralytic) pattern, or a combination of both. "Furious" symptoms include excitement, viciousness, roaming, unusual noises, and a tendency to attack anything attracting the animal's attention. Such animals may snap at anything, including themselves. They tend to drool and their saliva may be mixed with blood. They may swallow objects such as sticks and stones. These symptoms progress to paralysis and eventually death.

"Dumb" symptoms include difficulty chewing, swallowing and drinking, or trouble walking. An animal may not be able to close its mouth. People have been exposed by trying to clear the throats of such animals which seemed to be choking.

Paralysis spreads throughout the body until death. Parts paralyzed by rabies are limp, not rigid or stiff. If any of the above signs are noted in a pet, a veterinarian should be consulted immediately.

Watch for wild animals that lack fear of humans or seem to be tame. Look out for night animals like skunks and foxes that are seen in the daytime. Bats that are unable to fly or swoop down and bite you may be rabid.

How can we minimize our risk of getting rabies?

Immunize all cats and dogs that are over three months of age annually.

What do you do in case of contact with a rabid animal?

According to the Texas Department of Health, if bitten by an animal, treat the bite as if the animal were rabid and follow these steps. They may save your life.

a. Identify the animal by kind, size, color, and place. Caution children to seek the help of a policeman, schoolguard, or other adult.

b. Immediately cleanse the wound thoroughly by washing with soap and water. Rinse well and disinfect with alcohol, iodine, or other disinfectant. This lessens the chance of contracting rabies by removing or inactivating virus in the wound.

c. See a doctor immediately after washing the wound. The physician will decide on the need for treatment to prevent rabies.

d. Report the incident to the local health officer and animal control agency.

e. If possible, have the biting dog or cat tested for rabies or placed under observation.

What is the treatment for rabies?

The current treatment for rabies after a bite is not the ordeal that it once was. In the old days, it involved a long series of very painful shots given in the stomach area. Now the treatment involves an injection of "rabies immune globulin, human" (HRIG), half in the area of the wounds and half intramuscularly, and a series of five shots of "human diploid cell rabies vaccine (HDCV), which is given in the back of the upper arm.

With the new treatment, adverse reactions are far less common. The closer the bite is to the brain, the less time one has to begin treatment. Once the rabies is contracted, it is almost always fatal.

For persons at high risk of exposure, such as veterinarians, zookeepers, or animal trappers, the "pre-exposure" immunization is available. It involves a three shot series of the HDCV vaccine given in the arm. For most risk categories, either a two-year booster or a two-year test for rabies antibodies is given.

Does this mean that we ought not to have pets or that wild animals should be totally exterminated?

Certainly not. It does mean that we need to keep our pets vaccinated and that we not handle wild critters. In some cases, excess populations of wild animals need to be culled, or immunized.

The answers to these questions were taken from the material of the Texas Department of Health. Brochures can be ordered from The Texas Department of Health Zoonosis Control Division, Austin, Texas.

Couple recuperating after accident

Sam and Doris Crenshaw are recuperating at home after their wreck with an 18-wheeler Sunday, February 18.

The Crenshaws were returning home from church in Sweetwater when their 1991 Ford Ranger slammed into the rear of the truck.

Due to smoke from a grass fire drifting across I-20, Mr. Crenshaw reported that he didn't see the semi until he was right upon it. The Crenshaw vehicle ran under the semi and lodged.

Doris Crenshaw was admitted to Mitchell County Hospital, where pieces of glass were removed from her hand. She was also treated for cuts and bruises and held for observation. She was released Monday, February 19.

Sam Crenshaw suffered more serious injuries. After Mr. Crenshaw was transported by ambulance to Mitchell County Hospital, Dr. Gus Gross spent an hour and a half stitching the upper part of his face. He was also treated for head and leg injuries before being flown by helicopter to Hendrick Medical Center.

When he arrived at the Abilene hospital, technicians performed a CAT scan on Crenshaw to check for head or internal trauma. The scan showed no damage.

Crenshaw complained of pain in his right foot and doctors found that he had a severely dislocated ankle. Sunday at 7 p.m. he underwent surgery, performed by Dr. Robert Dickey of the Orthopedic Association of Abilene, to repair the ankle. Crenshaw will have to wear a cast for approximately four weeks.

Methodist and MCHD.

"With managed care coming down, changes in medicaid and medicare, hospitals should be joining together, pulling together," he said.

In other busines, the hospital board of directors gave final approval to purchasing real estate at 1602 Chestnut Street and the two adjacent lots. They also approved trying to recruit another dentist to come to Colorado City and setting up an office in the Chestnut Street building formerly owned by Dr. Steakley.

After a lengthy discussion, the board approved by a 3-2 vote the purchase of an additional treadmill and stairmaster for the Healthstyles Center.

Board members Kent Boyd and Virgil Stone voted against the purchase of the commercial treadmill for $2700 and paying half the $2700 total price for the stairmaster. Dr. Dee Roach offered to donate half the price for the stairmaster at last month's meeting.

Boyd suggested that the equipment could be donated by local businesses.

Laurie Lowrance, Healthstyles director, answered questions from the board, defending the purchase by saying that the treadmill was extremely popular with the health club members who often had to wait to use the equipment.

In other discussions on Healthstyles matters, the board approved a $500 purchase of exercise clothing to enable the health center to sell the exercise wear locally. Lowrance said that many members had to drive to Big Spring or Abilene to find clothes to wear when exercising.

The MCHD Pink Ladies hospital auxiliary will be partners in the exercise clothing venture. They donated $500 towards the clothing purchase and will share half the profits.

RIBBON CUTTING CEREMONIES were held Monday at two new businesses in Colorado City. Guess Express Exxon and McDonald's held a joint ribbon cutting and open house for the Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors and local citizens. Participating in the ribbon cutting included (l to r) Ellie Aviles, Saul Aviles, McDonald's manager and general partners, Joel Hook and Brenda Hook, owners of McDonald's, Tammy Guess and Johnny Guess, owners of Guess Express Exxon. The businesses are located at the intersection of Hwy. 208 and I-20.

West Texas Championships planned here March 9th

The Second Annual Heart of West Texas Championships will be held Saturday, March 9 at Wolf Gym, "The Pit".

Approximately 100 contestants from 4-21 years old will compete in over 30 different events—dance, cheerleading, flags, twirling and modeling.

Kakai Wulfjen, director of the events, said that between 40 and 50 local competitors from around the county are expected to participate.

Contestants will be coming from as far away as El Paso, Dallas and Amarillo, said Wulfjen.

There will be judges from Lubbock, Las Vegas, Dallas and Abilene.

The Heart of West Texas Championships will run from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. The order of events include modeling in formals and sportswear, individual twirling, dance events, group dance, cheerleading, flags and twirl events.

A concession stand will be open throughout the day.

For more information, call 728-2149.

K. Pherigo indicted for possession

Keith Pherigo, 42, was indicted Thursday by a Mitchell County grand jury for third degree felony possession of marijuana.

Pherigo was arrested in January at the house he was renting at 1223 E. 10th Street in Colorado City.

Following a tip that a large marijuana growing operation was being conducted inside the house, city and county law officers executed an early morning search warrant.

According to police reports, they found 135 plants, from six inches to four feet tall, growing in more than half of the two bedroom house.

Pherigo is a former Department of Public Safety trooper who was based in Snyder and once managed the Palace Theater in Colorado City.

He is being held in Mitchell County jail.

Grand jury returns 11 indictments

A Mitchell County grand jury returned nine indictments and two sealed indictments Thursday, Feb. 22.

Keith Pherigo, 42, of Colorado City was indicted for a third degree felony posession of marijuana.

Joseph Venzor, 47, of Sweetwater, was indicted for a felony driving while intoxicated.

Jerry Michael Cordoza, 29, of Sweetwater; Samuel Franco Rivera, 28, of Colorado City, and Henry Alvarez, 33, of Snyder were each indicted for felony driving while intoxicated.

Annette Hampton Mahoney, 32, of Colorado City was indicted for forgery.

Juan Manuel Santana, 34, of Colorado City, was indicted for criminal mischief.

Gillis Ellis, Jr., 43, of Colorado City was indicted for possession of cocaine.

Immunition group gets TDH grant

The Mitchell County Immunization Coalition recently received a $7,538 Texas Department of Health grant for the immunization coalition.

Receipt of the grant was announced at the coalition's executive board meeting Thursday, Feb. 22.

The one-year grant will be used to track immunization rates of infants in Mitchell County.

A volunteer group from the Pink Ladies auxiliary of the Mitchell County Hospital, coordinated by Friday Moore and Lillie Funderburg, will be educating new mothers after delivery about the importance of receiving vaccines on a timely schedule.

The group will be responsible for inputting immunization information into a computer system assisted by special project staff from the University of North Texas at Denton.

Guess Express Exxon opened Monday a.m.

Guess Express Exxon formally opened Monday with a ribbon cutting along with McDonald's. Tammy and Johnny Guess own and operate the convenience store which was formerly Snow's Exxon.

The Guess' have owned Snow's Exxon for the past eight years.

"The marriage with McDonald's has been great," Tammy Guess said following the ribbon cutting ceremonies Monday morning.

"We want to thank Joel and Brenda Hook and everyone associated with McDonald's. They have been great to work with and we look forward to a very successful relationship with them," she said.

Guess Express Exxon is a full line convenience store with heavy emphasis placed on the traveler. Also, the convenience store carries a much larger grocery inventory than most convenience stores. Local shoppers can always find fresh milk, bread and much more at reasonable prices.

"I would like to thank J.R. Heidelberg of West Texas Building Systems for all his help during the construction. He has really been a big help to us." Guess added.

McDonald's ribbon cutting held Monday

The long awaited McDonald's opened with a ribbon cutting ceremony Monday morning.

Owned by Joel and Brenda Hook, this location is a test fast food restaurant and unique in the McDonald's sytem of over 18,000 restaurants worldwide.

"There's not another one like it in Texas," said owner Joel Hook.

Similar to the McDonald's Express found in areas like Dallas, the restaurant features a shorter version of the full McDonald's menu.

The test will last a year and then after an evaluation, McDonald's will decide whether to copy this hybrid of the Express, said Hook.

The Hooks are also owners of the McDonald's in Snyder. Joel Hook said McDonald's has been active in the community and plans to also be active here in Mitchell County.

Joel Hook said he's been looking at Colorado City for the past five years as a site for a McDonald's. Having the prison system here was one of the reasons Hook said he was interested in locating in Colorado City.

"This is definitely an active, growing community and McDonald's wants to be in these kinds of communities," said Hook.

Henry Mitchell, Monte Wilkes and Charles Bowen.

Charles Bowen is the only Loraine school board member to have filed last week.

HOSPITAL BOARD

The Mitchell County Hospital District called the May 4 election at their regular board meeting Tuesday evening. Seats held by Virgil Stone, Dale Geiger and Fred Thompson are up for re-election.

Filing for a place on the hospital board ballot will open March 5 and end April 9 at 5 p.m.

City candidates file at City Hall. School candidates file at the respective administration offices. Hospital board candidates file at the hospital administrator's office.

Early voting ballots will be mailed to applicants after March 20. Early voting by mail ends April 26.

Early voting in person begins April 15 and ends April 30.

in with the same long range plans. The event won't be limited to arts and crafts but expanded to include a diversity of items at the booths with an increased emphasis on antiques.

Local antique merchants plan to set up booths at the Railhead and an antique auction will be held at Apache Flats in conjunction with the Railhead. Maps showing the locations of the city's antique shops will be distributed to Railhead attendees.

conditions.

President Clinton declared Friday that an emergency exists in Texas because of the extreme threat of fire. The emergency declaration makes federal disaster funds available to pay 75 percent of the cost for mobilizing and staging federal firefighting resources to assist state and local efforts in controlling fire outbreaks as they may happen across the state.

year, Jan Lemons, cited a lengthy list of some of the many projects he's been involved in since coming to Mitchell County.

In accepting the award, Warden Cooper credited his staff and inmate field crews who have made improvements in every area of the county and also credited Rep. Rob Junell and TDCJ executive director Wayne Scott for the legislative and administrative support of allowing inmate work crews to give back to communities.

The Farm/Ranch Family of the Year award was presented to Robert and Mary Margaret Cox.

State Representative Rob Junell introduced the featured speaker, Wayne Scott, executive director for the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Junell described the Texas prison system as the best prison system in the United States.

Executive Director Wayne Scott provided the audience with an overview of the TDCJ system and described the impact of the Wallace Unit on Mitchell County.

"What you've brought into your community is a very clean industry and an industry that I would term recession-proof," said Scott.

Scott shared statistics from the State Comptroller's office which showed the impact in dollars.

In 1993, before TDCJ came into the community, the annual total sales for Mitchell County ware $64 million.

In 1994, that had increased to $71 million. Scott pointed out that the figures did not yet include the Ware Unit.

Besides the economic impact of the prison system, Scott said that prison field crews are being used and positively affecting communities all around the state as they have done in Mitchell County.

"We want to be a good neighbor and lend a helping hand to the community," he said.

Outgoing president Don Jones described the chamber's many accomplishments over the past year—from putting on new events such as the Bluegrass Festival to renovating the long unused Truss King Building to house the revived Railhead Trade Days event.

Incoming president Beverly Collier said that the chamber will continue the plans initiated in the last few years which requires the personal involvement of the community.

Golda Redwine provided the music for the evening's entertainment and the meal was catered by A Catered Affair from San Angelo.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

During a recent interview with us regarding our son Brad, we asked that no mention be made of the investigation concerning Brad's shooting. We didn't want to hinder the case in any way. However, you chose not to grant that request and interviewed the sheriff, thereby allowing him in effect to make a political statement.

Since your readers might possibly get the idea from the article that we support the sheriff in the upcoming election, we would like to set the record straight. Our experiences with Patrick Toombs and the Sheriff's Department since our son was shot will not, in all consciousness, allow us to vote for him in the upcoming election

Sincerely,
Molly and Byron Bruce

Editor's Note: When I telephoned for an interview, Mr. Bruce asked that I not ask about the investigation when I spoke to his son. That request was not disregarded as I never mentioned the investigation when I spoke with Brad or his parents by phone and at their home. I believe readers would want to know if the case was closed or under investigation and that was the only question I asked the sheriff. His answer occupied one paragraph out of a long story about Brad's accomplishments.

Dear Editor:

My wife, Doris, and I wish to express our grateful appreciation to our many friends who were so much help and comfort after our accident on Sunday, February 18.

We have the greatest fire department who risked their lives to help us, working in a cloud of smoke. Our ambulance people are caring and tried to comfort us in our pain. Our hospital has to be one of the best for its size in West Texas.

There was never a moment that we were unattended. Dr. Gross took charge and attended Doris and I at the same time. He decided to keep Doris for observation, but to fly me out because of the extreme head and foot injuries. I stayed in Hendrick for three days.

Doris and I are home, sore and bruised, but doing great. It will take time and patience to get back to normal.

Thanks again for everything that was done for us.

Sincerely,
Sam and Doris Crenshaw

Dear Editor:

The basketball season is drawing to a close for several Mitchell County teams and I think we need to congratulate these teams on a job well done. The Lady Wolves made the playoffs for the first time in several years, as did the C-City Wolves men's team.

Both Loraine and Westbrook made the men's playoffs and won their first rounds in games played at Coahoma last Friday night. They continue their march on Tuesday night with Westbrook facing Roscoe and Loraine going up against Roby. We wish them both well as they strive toward their goal of making a trip to Austin and the state's final four.

I would also like to add my two cents worth to last week's letter to the editor concerning the coverage of all the local sports. With so many teams to cover I know it is not an easy task but I think your staff did an excellent job.

Carl Graham

Dear Editor:

I would like to respond to a claim in Sheriff Toombs' campaign ad of February 22 in your newspaper. He said:

"Since 1993, Sheriff's Department has arrested a larger percentage of people than any other law enforcement agency in Colorado City."

Time out!!!

Shame on Sheriff Toombs for making the number of arrests a campaign issue. Someone's freedom should never depend on "who has the most arrests."

Fortunately, the state and the FBI recognized this when they established Uniform Crime Reporting. The criteria for comparisons has always been number of crimes reported and solved, never number of arrests.

To make matters worse, the sheriff's claim is misleading. The truth is that in 1993 and 1994 when compared with actual officer initiated and solved offenses, the Colorado City Police Department made 63% of the arrests. These facts are further substantiated by a 1992 study of the Mitchell County Attorney's Office, which showed that the D.P.S. filed 45% of the total cases for the years, Colorado City Police Department 40%, and the Mitchell County Sheriff's Office only 15%.

The Mitchell County Sheriff's Office never has been known for keeping very good records. Before the sheriff makes any more claims, I invite him to check with me first.

Sincerely,
D.L. Montgomery
Chief of Police

Dear Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to thank everyone for all their help in our effort to show James T. Green, Jr. our appreciation for all he does for our community, our town, our needy and the list goes on, by nominating him for the Citizen of the Year award for Mitchell County.

Three hundred and thirty-four of us thought he was deserving of it. Of course, we were disappointed, but we think he probably knows we all consider him a great citizen of our community. We congratulate Mr. Cooper, as he has done a lot for us in Loraine and the surrounding community, also.

Thank you,
Verlie Owen

The candidates speak out...

Political candidates participated in a question and answer session in the Record office. They did not know beforehand what questions they would be asked and their unprepared responses were taped. Some anwers were edited for length only. Questions and answers from place 3 County Commissioner candidates, Commissioner Buddy Hertenberger and Wendell "Wendy" Inman will be in next week's issue.

Tax Assessor-Collector

Linda Clary

What do you feel are the biggest challenges of the tax assessor/collector's job?

Probably learning all the programs that the computer has, because each kind of program has a different format, different rules—that will probably be as big as anything.

What about the question of certification? I understand that there's tax assessor/collector certification required. Do you have that requirement?

No, I didn't know anything about it. I'm completely willing to get whatever certification or classes are needed for the job.

Why do you think you would do a better job than your opponents?

I like to work with people. I've always enjoyed working with numbers, with books, ever since I got out of high school, so I think that would be something that would be interesting about it.

If elected, what, if anything, can you do for the county as tax assessor/collector that's never been done before?

I want to have a friendly office. I want to have one that treats people fairly. I think you can do both, be friendly and fair, as well as efficient.

Mitchell County residents often say thay they feel they're overburdened with taxes. What, if anything, can you, if elected as tax assessor/collector, do to help relieve the tax burden on Mitchell County residents?

If I understand correctly, there's nothing that the tax assessor/collector can do about that. It's the appraisal office that has that responsibility. I've heard the statement many, many times that taxes need to be more fair in the county, but I don't believe the tax assessor/collector's office can adjust that.

What do you think the taxpayers want most in the person who holds this office?

To be treated fairly, to be treated with respect, and again, to do it in a friendly manner.

Integrity is an important trait for anyone holding a public office. In what ways does your past behavior or experience show that integrity is one of your character traits?

Well, being a secretary and a receptionist at the Church of Christ for 19 years, you'd have to pretty well be an honest person and have integrity.

What is the most important goal that you'd like to accomplish during your first term of office?

To change the office hours.

Citizens often look to the tax assessor/collector for information on property taxes, voter registration, vehicle registration, and to be made aware of deadlines and law changes. How can you ensure good communication between the office and the citizens?

On deadlines and so forth, you can have it publicized, on the radio and in the paper. Just be sure that you know how to get the information when they ask for it, so you can respond to their questions when they ask.

Faye Lee

What do you feel are the biggest challenges of the job?

From my perspective of being already in the office and being familiar with the procedures, I feel that there are not as many challenges that would be, well, as great as they would be for somebody else just coming into the office. I feel that I have the qualifications, so I do not see that there would be any great challenges or problems in going into the office.

What about the question of certification? I understand that there's tax assessor/collector certification required. Do you have that requirement?

I do not at this time. With my 14 years of service, I will be eligible to complete my certifications within two years, whereas someone else coming into the office will take five years.

Why do you think that you will do a better job than your opponents?

I have 14 years experience in working in all phases of our office.

If elected, what, if anything, can you as the tax assessor/collector do for the county that's never been done before?

I feel that there's no need for a major change in the office. Mr. Burt and the previous outside auditors have set up an excellent system and I do not feel that there need to be major changes in the office. It has been run efficiently all these years and I think that there's no need for it being changed.

Mitchell County residents often say thay they feel they're overburdened with taxes. What, if anything, can you, if elected as tax assessor/collector, do to help relieve the tax burden on Mitchell County residents?

As far as the burden of the assessment of taxes, that is not the office of the tax assessor. That is not their job, to set the tax rate. The appraisal district sets the values, and then the tax assessor/collector presents this to the commissioners, saying, "If you need to generate this much money, when you have this much value, this is the tax rate you will need." That is the job of the tax assessor. It is not to set the rates themselves. So I do not have the authority to do that, to change that.

What do you think the taxpayers want most in the person who fills this office?

I think they want someone that has been in the office, that has been there and knows the work—that has been in there and has the experience, the ability to continue the office in the manner that it is now, without having to go through a training process.

Integrity is an important trait for anyone holding a public office. In what ways does your past behavior or experience show that integrity is one of your character traits?

I am a very honest person. I am a person that has strict moral convictions. I have never been known to have ever done anything that would jeopardize my integrity or the name that I carry.

What is the most important goal that you'd like to accomplish during your first term of office?

My goal is to continue the same efficient job that is being handled now. I see no major changes. I think the office has been carried in a very efficient manner.

Citizens often look to the tax assessor/collector for information on property taxes, voter registration, vehicle registration, and to be made aware of deadlines and law changes. How can you ensure good communication between the office and the citizens?

Well, our office is always open to the public and we do get many questions on all areas of this. And of course through the newspaper and radion communications there is always a free communication line with the public and we have always been available to them.

Kakai Wulfjen

What do you feel are the biggest challenges of the job of tax assessor/collector?

I believe that one of the biggest challenges of tax assessor/collector is to run an ethical, well-managed office. I know that you have a budget to work in and you work for the people in the county and so I think it's a big challenge to run the office efficiently, professionally, and ethically to represent every resident of the county the same.

I understand that there are certification requirements. Do you have tax assessor/collector certification?

No, I don't. I don't have that but when I worked at City National Bank for seven years I went to numerous schools every year that I was there and I sure don't mind going to school and becoming certified.

Why do you think you would do a better job than your opponents?

I think I would do a better job because I think it's a management position and I have a bachelor's degree in business administration. I have taken numerous courses in marketing and management and when I worked at The City National Bank I was in a management position. I think the job is more about managing the office in a professional way and working for the people. I've done that, having a business of my own. I think it's more than just knowing how to work the computer or how the office is run. It's running the entire office from a management standpoint.

Mitchell County residents feel they're overburdened with taxes. If elected, what, if anything, can you do to relieve the tax burden on Mitchell County residents?

It's my understanding, I might be mistaken, that the commissioners set the rates and the appraisal district assesses the value of the property, so I don't know that there's a lot that can be done in that office. It's also my understanding, that right now the county doesn't allow people to pay out their taxes as the school district does. So as far as changing their taxes, I don't necessarily believe that comes from the office but I do believe that to allow them to pay their taxes out, as the school district does, that would have to be approved by the commissioners. I know that is done county by county and that might help to relieve some of the burden and stress on the people.

What do you think the taxpayers want most in the person who holds this office?

I think the taxpayers want and need someone who will work for them. Basically, you are paid by the taxpayers of Mitchell County and you work for them. If they want a change in hours—you can go into a lot of details and a lot of minor things—but I think the taxpayers want and need someone who will work for them. They want you to be friendly, but more than anything, I think they want someone who will be ethical and fair to everyone that walks in the door.

Integrity is an important trait for anyone holding public office. In what way does your past behavior or experience show that integrity is one of your traits?

I believe integrity is one of my strong traits for two reasons. When I went to work at The City National Bank I went in with no title, worked hard and I became an officer there within a reasonably short period of time. I believe if I didn't have integrity, especially working at a bank, I would be unable to achieve that status. And also, I did asset liability management—everything I did had to have a lot of integrity when I worked there. I worked in loan review, where you have to show a lot of integrity.

If elected, what is the most important goal you'd like to accomplish during your first term of office?

During my first term of office, if I were elected tax assessor/collector, I would like to go into the office and I would like to learn as much as I can about the entire process. One thing I learned from going to school and receiving my bachelor's degree, was that there's a lot of different ways to do things. You don't necessarily do it the way it's been done and you don't necessarily change it for the sake of change.

Citizens often look to the tax assessor/collector for information on property taxes, voter registration and vehicle registration and to be made aware of deadlines and law changes. How can you ensure good communication between the office and the citizens?

I think through good communication. With the way that laws have changed every day I'm sure especially things that have to do with our government and our state of Texas, that it would be very important to have an open door policy to your office to where anyone in the county felt like they could walk through your door and sit down and visit with you just like they were your sister or your neighbor and they didn't feel intimidated, they felt comfortable. Also, I think you could use some of the news media to relate any law changes, go through radio, newspaper, any other source that's available and maybe even possibly on some type of basis, not necessarily weekly or monthly, but even annually or semiannually, maybe some type of open house or forum where people could learn about the new laws or the changes that have happened.

If elected, what, if anything, could you as the tax assessor/collector do for the county that's never been done before?

I know this has been done in the past but I'd like to do this even more—attend more schools and conferences to keep our county abreast of any new regulations and laws.

Sheriff

Charles Rice

The budget for the sheriff's office, including the Mitchell County Jail, accounts for the largest percentage of the county's budget, as it does in most areas. What plans do you have to hold down expenses?

To really answer that fairly I would have to be in that position, go in and look over what he has because a lot of those records I am not aware of and not familiar with. All I can answer is that I would to the best of my ability keep it under budget as Patrick has.

Why do you think you would do a better job than your opponent?

Because I can bring the leadership that I have learned in the police department, and from teaching children, and the leadership I have gained from the citizens of Colorado City and Mitchell County to the sheriff's office.

What do you think citizens most want in the person holding the office of sheriff?

Someone who cares about them, that they know will be there whenever they're needed.

What is the most important goal you'd like to accomplish during the next term of office?

To have a better managed, more citizen-oriented sheriff's department with a better crime clearance rate.

The sheriff supervises around 15 people in Mitchell County. What in your past record or experience shows your supervisory or leadership skills?

Running the D.A.R.E. program for the city during the past three and a half years, taking that over and supervising myself. I'm kind of on my own in that department, along with Lt. Taylor.

For many years there have been conflicts between the city and the county. Why do you think there is a problem and what do you think can be done about it?

I think the problem stems from the city and the county both not sitting down and talking. I think that in my experience with the city, seeing one side of it, I believe I can take that to the sheriff's office and create more unified departments.

Patrick Toombs

The budget for the sheriff's office, including the Mitchell County Jail, accounts for the largest percentage of the county's budget, here, as it is in most areas. What plans do you have to hold down expenses?

Every year when we go through the budget process, that's what we look at, what ways to cut the budget. We just kind of go with what the previous year's expenses were. Much of it is flexible. If you get more inmates you're expected to go up for food and stuff like that.

The same way with the sheriff's office. We've gone through the process of updating some equipment. We replaced one radio each year so we wouldn't have a big expense all in one year.

Personnel and salaries for employees are the biggest parts of each budget, the biggest expense.

Why do you think you would do a better job than your opponent?

Basically, I've gone up the ranks in the sheriff's department, starting out as a deputy, knowing the county, working with different people on cases and also as chief deputy, supervising the deputies and jailers, and taking over as interim sheriff, then being elected, seeing what it takes to run the sheriff's office. It's not a real easy task. The sheriff has a lot of responsibilities and duties besides investigating crimes or running the jail. There's the responsibility of the courts, the sealed papers, working with the probation department with MHMR, transporting prisoners back and forth. Once you get into it you find out there's a lot more to it than going out and fighting crime.

What do you think citizens most want in the person holding the office of sheriff?

Dependability and honesty. If they call they expect someone to come and they want you to be honest with them and also try to do what you can. People know that there are cases you're not going to be able to solve, but if you show interest in it and care—that's one of the things, that you show interest in what concerns them and about what happens.

What is the most important goal you would like to accomplish during the next term of office?

One goal as far as the jail goes is to pass inspection each year. It gets harder with older facilities. Nearly half of my total budget is taken up each year maintaining the jail so we don't have to put the burden of having to build a new jail on the people.

As far as the sheriff's office goes, our goal would be to meet the needs of the people, whatever they ask for.

The sheriff supervises around 15 people in Mitchell County. What in your past record or experience shows your supervisory or leadership skills?

I've had the experience of supervising so I know what needs to be done. I have a good working relationship with all my people and I believe that my education has helped train me to make decisions. People have shown me the confidence they have in me by asking me to serve as chairman of various committees, such as task forces.

For many years there have been conflicts between the city and the county. Why do you think there is a problem and what do you think can be done about it?

It's not unusual for police departments and sheriff's offices, especially in towns our size, to have differences. I've seen that in surrounding areas and in other areas when I've visited both police and sheriff's departments. It's not just common to this area and I believe it comes about because of personalities and as a source of power.

The problem comes about because sometimes there's a lack of communication between the departments. I believe we need to have meetings and also to work on sponsoring schools together so the departments can work on projects together instead of being two separate entities.

District Attorney

Frank Conard

The district attorney's office works closely with law enforcement agencies and personnel. What is your record in working with them?

I've had a particularly unique experience in that I was deputy sheriff for three years in Sweetwater; I have many good friends in law enforcement and I have worked very closely with law enforcement. Prosecuting is a team effort and you have to work with law enforcement to obtain convictions.

Since there will soon be three prison facilities in Mitchell County, does that affect the district attorney's office and if so, how?

It will increase the caseload on the district attorney's office by virtue of more people maybe moving in that also end up sometimes having legal problems. We are responsible for prosecuting cases in the prison, although there are ways that we can get some assistance either financially or with special prosecutors from the state of Texas. But essentially it will increase the caseload on this office.

By how much?

It's hard to say. For instance, we have seven capital murders pending that could break the county if they were all tried to a jury trial. So it depends on what's done. Most of what happens involves assaults on guards or other inmates and escapes and, of course, it can go from there.

Why do you think that you would do a better job than your opponents?

Well, I have a lot more experience both as a criminal defense lawyer and as a prosecutor. I believe I have already proven that I can perform the job in a very efficient and effective manner. I can get the cases tried and get the convictions from a jury. I can keep those convictions—none of the cases that I've tried have been reversed on appeal. I recognize that you have to move huge numbers of cases through plea bargains in order to keep up with the number of cases indicted. The only way to do that, of course, is through reasonable plea bargains and then try the cases that are the serious kind of cases that need to be tried. Again, utilizing a limited number of jury weeks that we have available to us in Mitchell County.

What do you think citizens most want in the person holding this office?

I think they want to see someone that shows good character, shows wisdom and common sense in disposing of cases and someone that, in the kind of cases that a jury needs to decide, is able to bring that case to a jury, prove it up to a jury so that that jury has something to hang its hat on and can return a conviction and an appropriate punishment in the case.

What is the most important goal you would like to accomplish in the next term of office?

I still think the main problem is moving the huge number of cases that we have indicted in this district. And I guess my goal would be to continue to do that, as well as continue to try to bring in as much help as we can on the drug problem.

Deferred adjudication seems to be the hot issue in this campaign. Why do you think that is?

I really think that it's become a hot topic because my opponents have decided to portray it as something that's not a good thing. I personally believe that deferred adjudication is one of the strongest tools available to prosecutors to move cases. It allows certain offenders, even young offenders, to pay restitution, be put on probation, go through the probation process, drug counseling, whatever is necessary, and then if they live that out and rehabilitate themselves, they don't have a felony on their heads for the rest of their lives.

On the other hand, if they don't want to conform to society's standards, then we can actually revoke them and the judge still has the full range of punishment.

Mark Edwards

The district attorney's office works closely with law enforcement agencies and personnel. What is your record in working with them?

When I worked at the district attorney's office in San Angelo, I had an extremely good relationship with the police department there and the sheriff's office. In Sweetwater, where I have been practicing, I have a very good relationship with the folks in law enforcement, especially the police department and the Department of Public Safety.

The candidates speak out...

Mitchell County will soon have three prison facilities. Will this affect the DA's office and if so, how?

It will affect the DA's office because there will be crimes committed within the prisons by the inmates that will increase the work for the district attorney's office. And also, the district attorney will have to take into consideration the finances of the office, how much it's going to cost to prosecute these inmates and with making a decision to do so.

Why do you think you will do a better job than your opponents?

I truly believe I will be tougher on crime. I will not use deferred adjudication as it has been used in the past and I think I will work harder at the job and there won't be over 700 pending cases if I were district attorney.

What do you think citizens most want in the person holding the DA's office?

Two things. I think they want integrity and probably more importantly, they want someone who will pass along the community values as to how criminals should be punished. In my views, that's not deferred adjudication. They want adequate punishment for criminals who violate the law.

If elected, what is the most important goal you would like to accomplish during this next term of office?

Two things go hand in hand. One I've already mentioned. There are over 706 cases pending. That's something that has to be reduced but the best way to reduce that is to get the message to criminals that when they violate the law they will be punished. Once they learn that we're going to have less crime in our communities and fewer cases pending on the docket.

Deferred adjudication seems to be one of the hot issues of this campaign. Why do you think that is?

Deferred adjudication probation is a process where a criminal is placed on probation but is found guilty of the crime he has been charged with. If he completes his probationary period without getting into any more trouble, then the criminal case against him is just flat out dismissed and he has no conviction on his record. I do not believe that's right. I do not think that's the way things should be, especially for serious offenses like delivery of drugs, aggravated sexual assault of children—those people need a conviction on their record so if they move off somewhere and start applying for a job and fill out an application that asks have they ever been convicted of a felony, they received deferred adjudication probation. They can truthfully put no on that application and they can get a job working with children.

Gary Harger

The district attorney's office works closely with law enforcement agencies and personnel. What is your record in working with them?

In college I worked for both the police department and the county sheriff's office for a combined period of probably two and a half years, so I've always had a good rapport with the officers. When I was the assistant district attorney here, I worked real closely with them in the preparation of cases, working with the grand jury testimony and trial testimony, getting them ready to testify in court, and since that time I still continue to be a contact person and represent several of the district officers in their personal legal matters as well.

Mitchell County will soon have three prison facilities. Will this affect the DA's office and if so, how?

I think absolutely, in terms of caseload particularly, with the DA's office being responsible for the prosecution of those who commit felonies in the prison units themselves; we'll have a continuing amount of cases that end up coming through the grand jury and being set for prosecution, so I anticipate we're going to have to have a much stronger active presence here in Mitchell County by the DA's office to adjust it to accommodate that. An example is the seven capital murder trials now pending.

Why do you think you would do a better job than your opponents?

I believe it's because I've made the commitment to do this as a full time position. There is going to be the need for a stronger, more active presence than a part time DA can dedicate to the job. The part time commitment means that they're still having to generate enough income to cover their overhead in their private office or staff and I just think those distractions need to be put aside. The job pays close to $70,000 a year and you ought to be able to make a full time commitment for that.

What do you think citizens most want in the person holding the DA's office?

Again, I really believe that they want someone who's committed to doing the job, who doesn't allow the distractions of their private practice, the distractions of their personal lives or whatever to interfere with making the job a priority. I just believe people expect for you to be there when they have a problem. They expect you to prosecute aggressively and swiftly without a bunch of delay and by that I think you come back to the commitment to do the job full time.

If elected, what is the most important goal you would like to accomplish during your first term of office?

There are probably two things. One is to decrease the backlog of cases, but I think more importantly, I want to implement an education program geared out of the district attorney's office directed toward the local law enforcement to make them more effective officers, and to our students, young people in school, talking to them and advocating to them accountability and consequences.

Deferred adjudication seems to be one of the hot issues of this campaign. Why do you think that is?

Deferred adjudication is a very important issue in the campaign. I have a real problem believing that you can simply have a defendant come in and say, "Yeah, I'm guilty," in a plea bargain and the judge say, there's enough evidence to find him guilty, but then based on the recommendation of the prosecutor, of the DA or his office, they stop the proceeding at that point and place him on probation. It's like throwing up a false wall there that says although he's admitted he's guilty and the judge says there's enough evidence, technically he hasn't been found guilty, so we can go ahead and give him probation.

Cotton marketing workshop to be held here March 18th

By JOE RAFF, CEA-AG

There will be be a cotton marketing workshop Monday, March 18 in the C.C. Thompson Room starting at 9 a.m. This workshop will focus on cotton marketing for the future and how it fits into the new farm bill. (We should have a good idea what the bill will include by then.) Dr. Jackie Smith will be conducting the workshop.

It would be a good idea to attend the marketing workshop sponsored by Farm Bureau on March 12. This workshop will deal with the basics of cotton marketing. After obtaining the basics on the 12th, growers can gain more information on cotton marketing on the 18th.

After lunch, I will be giving an overview of last year's result demonstrations and some new requirements on CEUs. There will be CEUs offered for this meeting on the 18th for those who stay for the whole day. The meeting will be over around 1 p.m. There is no cost for this meeting and lunch will not be provided.

For more information call the Extension office at 728-3111.

School Lunch Week to be celebrated

"Don't Miss a Golden Opportunity–Eat School Meals" is the theme for the 1996 Texas School Lunch Week celebration. Westbrook ISD will join thousands of schools across Texas in celebrating this occasion.

This year's Olympic theme promotes the 50th anniversary of the National School Lunch Program. Since 1853, school food service in the United States has evolved from a single philanthropic program in New York City to a national program available to 92% of the nation's children.

In 1946, Congress recognized the need to establish a national, permanent, federally-funded school lunch program and passed the National School Lunch Act, which was signed into law by President Harry Truman.

Today, over 93,000 schools participate in the program, feeding over 25 million students.

For Texas School Lunch Week, schools will feature special menus that focus on popular student choices. The school lunch menus also emphasize the dietary guidelines for Americans, which include:

- eat a variety of foods;
- maintain a healthy weight;
- choose a diet low in fat, saturated fat, and cholestrol;
- choose a diet with plenty of vegetables, fruits, and grain products; and
- use sugars, salt, and sodium only in moderation.

"The challenge of serving nutritious foods that students will eat is never ending, but one we are working to meet," said Superintendent Hollis. "We know that hungry children cannot learn, and Westbrook ISD is dedicated to serving nutritious, good-tasting meals to our students."

The Texas School Food Service Association and the Texas Education Agency's Child Nutrition Programs Division sponsor the annual celebration.

Anderson is named to NCC producer's steering committee

Fourteen Texans were elected to leadership positions in the National Cotton Council at the Council's annual meeting February 8-12 in New Orleans.

Cottonseed crusher Wayne Martin, Plains Cooperative Oil Milll, Lubbock, was re-elected as council vice president.

Elected to the Council's 35-member board of directors were Corpus Christi grower Craig Shook; F.A. Underwood, the Trinity Co., Lubbock; Paul Ruh, Paul Reinhart, Inc., Richardson; David Stanford, Plains Cotton Cooperative Association, Lubbock; and David L. Hand, Southwest Irrigated Growers, El Paso.

Colorado City grower Woody Anderson was elected vice chairman of the Council's Producer Steering Committee. Shook was re-elected regional director; and Farwell grower Mark Williams was elected state producer chairman.

Jerry Harris, general manager of King-Mesa Gin and a cotton grower from Lamesa, was elected president of the National Cotton Ginners Association.

Dear Mr. Conard,
...The expertise and expedience you have shown in each and every case that we have brought before you is highly commendable. Obviously, each case must be handled according to its own merit. The constant support you have shown our unit, not only thru your legal assistance, expedition of our criminal and civil seizure cases, financial assistance by providing pagers for our agents which would otherwise not be affordable, and taking of your personal time to have served as the Chairman of our Board of Governors, is evidence of your dedication and commitment to the eradication of drug trafficking and abuse in our area. ...

Dear Editor, Colorado City Record,
...Since the November 30 issue of the Record that contained Mark Edwards announcement of his candidacy for district attorney, I have been asked several times about our current district attorney office. ...
... "After twenty-five (25) years in law enforcement, the last five in Colorado City, I can honestly say that Frank Conard is the best district attorney I have ever worked with. Every time that the Colorado City Police Department has asked for assistance from Mr. Conard, he has been more than helpful. Every felony case that the Police Department has filed in the last five years has been vigorously prosecuted. Mr. Conard has even had the courtesy to contact the Colorado City Police Department and discuss plea bargains on cases we have filed. Mr. Edwards promises to eliminate deferred adjudications and to be in Mitchell County two days a week. The problem with these promises is that Mr. Edwards is on the outside looking in. Frank Conard is working with the realities of the criminal justice system and doing an outstanding job." ...

THOMAS L. BRIDGES
DISTRICT ATTORNEY
36th Judicial District of Texas • Arkansas and San Patricio Counties
Past President Texas District and County Attorneys Association

To whom it may concern:
I write to encourage the people of the 32nd Judicial District to keep Frank Conard as their District Attorney. ...
... "As soon as Frank Conard became a prosecutor, he began serving his profession, both locally and statewide. He served a term on the board of directors of the TDCAA and continues to be considered one of those individuals to who other prosecutors can turn for advice and support.
... "As the people of this state and country express mounting concern over the ability of their criminal justice system to do the job it is supposed to do, it is imperative that we keep experienced, proven, competent and dedicated professionals in positions of leadership in the system. Frank's law enforcement experience, first as a Nolan County Deputy Sheriff and now as the chief felony prosecutor in three counties, makes him more than the best choice — he is a godsend in menacing times. Frank is a quiet man who goes about his job without flourish and fanfare, yet is always available to give advice and counsel to members of the law enforcement community.

FHA class is teaching kids to work out problems

Colorado High School's FHA has been helping children within the school district learn conflict resolution skills. Club members have demonstrated their goal for this school year—teaching children to get along with others and work out their problems in a peaceful manner—through several activities with the children.

The club's promotion committee has made posters and bulletin boards and hung them in the halls of the elementary schools, while the correspondence committee created coloring books entitled, How to Get Along with Others.

FHA members have traveled to Kelley Elementary to play with students during recess and second grade classes have visited the high school's home economics classes.

Both elementary and high school students found the project to be beneficial in learning social and conflict resolution skills.

CARD OF THANKS

Card of Thanks

The Family of J.M. Munoz

We express our deepest gratitude to all who were so generous with their prayers, time, and sympathies at the passing away of our loved one. We feel a deep appreciation to Dr. Roach, Dr. Gross and Dr. Scott, the nurses and staff at Mitchell County Hospital, Family Medical Clinic, and Home Health Clinic for their loving care and compassion. For the prayers, calls, food, flowers, plants, cards and other expressions of love and sympathy from relatives and friends, thank you very much.

May the Lord bless you.

I will praise You, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made;
Marvelous are Your works,
And that my soul knows very well.
My frame was not hidden from You,
When I was made in secret,
And skillfully wrought in the lowest parts of the earth.
Your eyes saw my substance, being yet unformed.
And in Your book they all were written,
The days fashioned for me,
When as yet there were none of them.
How precious also are Your thoughts to me, O God!
How great is the sum of them!
If I should count them, they would be more in number than the sand;
When I awake, I am still with You.
Oh, that You would slay the wicked, O God!
Depart from me, therefore, you bloodthirsty men.
For they speak against You wickedly;
Your enemies take Your name in vain.
Do I not hate them, O Lord, who hate You?

Psalm 139:14-18

Card of Thanks

We want to thank everyone for their gifts of love, cash, cards, food & flowers given to us during the passing of our precious husband and father. I want to thank Home Health and Hospice for all their love and care and also the Bus 10 gang.

The Family of Melvin Smith
Gail, Bryne & Zackary Paul
Mike & Kelly, Kailey & Brittany Smith

Card of Thanks

Our sincere thanks to our friends and co-workers for their cards, prayers and flowers during our recent loss. A very special thanks to the employees of Valley Fair Lodge for taking care of our Dad. Thanks to Sheriff Patrick Toombs, the deputies and DPS Trooper Negri for their assistance and respect to our family.

Family of Emerson Garrett

"Introduction to Computers" class to begin March 21st

The Wallace Center is offering a continuing education course, "Introduction to Computers," Thursday evenings March 21 through April 25 from 6:30-9 p.m. at a Colorado City school location to be announced later.

The course is designed for those with very little or no computer experience. Participants will learn computer terminology and use by working with word processing, spread sheet and database applications.

Ann Nobles, instructor for the course, explains, "The class will provide non-computer users with basic skills which will help them learn many computer applications."

The cost of the course is $75 and includes an excellent student book which will serve as a reference guide after the course.

Registration is due at 5 p.m. March 8. Participants must bring $37 for the student book to the Wallace Center by that time so that books can be ordered to arrive in time for the first class

For more information call the Wallace Center at 728-2392 or Ann Nobles at 728-3195.

Westbrook plants Garden City, 66-52

The Westbrook Wildcats continued their winning ways as they defeated Garden City 66-52 in their bi-district playoff in Coahoma last Friday.

The Wildcats drew first blood, scoring nine unanswered points before the Bearcats realized what hit them. Garden City finally woke up and closed the Wildcat lead to three, 12-9, with 2:34 remaining in the first quarter. The quarter ended with Westbrook up by five points, 17-12.

Nobody really took charge in the second quarter until Garden City closed the lead to two points, 20-18.

Homer Matlock then took over, extinguishing a brief Bearcat rally by nailing back-to-back three-pointers. (Matlock was a perfect 4-4 from three-point range in the half.) That put the Wildcats back up by eight, 26-18, with 2:58 remaining in the half. Westbrook then took a 30-23 lead into the locker room.

The Wildcats came out ice cold in the second half, allowing Garden City to climb back into the game.

Westbrook just couldn't quite put them away. Garden City finally closed the third quarter out, only down by three points, 42-39.

Westbrook coach Jim Hill had a long talk with his team after the third quarter ended. "I told them that we needed to stop making mental mistakes," he said.

Hill also emphasized stopping #20 Batla and #32 Lankford. Together they accounted for 35 of Garden City's 52 points.

Hill's speech seemed to work, as the Wildcats turned a 44-41 lead into a 54-41 lead, thanks to a 10-0 run in only three minutes. That blew the game wide open as the Wildcats closed the game out with phenomenal free throw shooting, hitting 17-23 for 74%.

Westbrook finally put the scrappy Bearcats away, defeating them 66-52.

"We tried to throw different things at them [Garden City]," Coach Hill commented. "I felt like they'd have trouble with us mixing up different looks on defense and they did. I think that's why we jumped out to a 9-0 lead," he added.

The Wildcats once again had balanced scoring. Four players were in double figures, Jeff Hill, 16; Homer Matlock, 15; Justin Hill, 13; and Casey Hill, 11.

Also scoring were Scott White, four; Chad Morris, three; and Randy Byington, two.

Plowboys end Wildcats season in playoff, 64-53

The Westbrook Wildcats season ended abruptly last Tuesday night in their Area Playoff against Roscoe. The purple-clad Plowboys just were too strong for Westbrook as they handed them a 64-53 defeat.

The Wildcats dug themselves a hole early on as turnovers plagued them the entire first quarter.

"We were minus 11 in turnovers," Westbrook coach Jim Hill commented. " We are usually on the plus side of that category."

In the second quarter, the Wildcats mounted a small comeback with Scott White and Jeff Hill scoring on the inside. The Wildcats pulled within eight points, 39-31 just as the half ended."

"I was pretty confident at halftime," Coach Hill said. "We played about as bad as we could have and Roscoe shot the ball extremely well, hitting 6 three pointers in the half. And still we found ourselves down by only eight points."

A game full of turnovers got uglier in the third quarter. Both teams had more turnovers than field goals in the quarter.

Westbrook held Roscoe scoreless until 4:23 was left in the quarter. The problem was the Wildcats could only manage two points themselves during that stretch. Poor shooting seemed to be contagious as both teams struggled. In one span, Roscoe missed 11 consecutive shots nine of which were three pointers. Westbrook didn't shoot much better, missing five layups in that quarter alone.

"We made some mistakes," Hill said, "and the inability to capitalize on Roscoe's poor shooting was a big one. Just things like that helped Roscoe pull away."

Westbrook did turn things around at the end of the quarter when Jeff Hill hit a big 3-pointer with 1:45 left in the third. That trimmed Roscoe's lead to two points 42-40. The third quarter closed with Westbrook down 47-43.

The fourth quarter started with both teams trading buckets and turnovers.

Roscoe's shot selection improved a few minutes later as they extended their lead to 59-48. Roscoe then went into a stall and clinched the win with clutch free throws down the stretch.

"Roscoe was just the better team tonight," Hill stated. Roscoe's a good team but they're not unbeatable. We just didn't do it tonight."

"This loss doesn't take anything away from what we accomplished this year, however. I'm very proud of these kids. No one expected to beat Loraine who were pre-district favorites. To get to this point just shows how much heart these kids have," Coach Hill concluded.

The Wildcats relied on Scott White and Jeff Hill for 40 of their 53 points. Jeff Hill scored 21 and Scott White added 19. Others scoring were Justin Hill 12 and Chad Morris one.

The Wildcats finished their season at 15-6.

Lions just too much for C-City Wolves

The Wolves' season ended last Friday as they fell in their bi-district playoff game to 7-3A champion Clint, 64-48, in Pecos.

Colorado City represented District 8-3A as runnerup following a strong finish in the district race, posting a 6 and 4 district record.

The Wolves started the game strong, taking an early 4-0 lead. But the lead didn't last long, as Clint took the lead and control of the game.

The Lions outscored Colorado City 15-11 in the first quarter and 15-10 in the second, propelling them to a 30-21 halftime lead.

"In the first half, Cole Lindsey carried us, scoring nine of our 21 first half points," Wolves coach Hayden Merket said.

"I told our kids in the locker room that we were only down by nine and we've come back before," Coach Merket said. "I also told them that we needed to play tougher defense and work for points off transition."

Seemingly motivated by the speech, the Wolves cut the Lions' lead to 38-34 on three straight three-pointers in the waning minutes of the third quarter.

But a strong fourth quarter shooting performance from the field by Clint and hitting 14 of 16 free throws was too much for the Wolves to overcome. Clint scored 26 fourth quarter points to only 14 for the Wolves to nail down the victory.

Coach Merket, noting the Wolves' hard work, said that throughout the season they achieved more than they thought they could at the beginning of the year.

He attributed the Wolves' playing in Friday's game to nervousness early on. "We just didn't shoot well," he said.

"I think the way our season ended didn't reflect what we've done throughout the year," he added.

Powerlifters place 3rd

The Colorado Wolves powerlifting team traveled to Sterling City Saturday.

Participating Wolves had an excellent meet, according to Coach Larry Hartwick. "We placed third in the meet with 19 points! We look forward to our final meet this weekend in Eldorado," he said.

In boys powerlifting, placing second in the 198 lb. class was Tim Garrett with 320 squat, 240 bench, 360 deadlift and a total of 920. Javier Quintero came in second in the 181 lb. class with 320 squat, 215 bench, 380 deadlift, and 915 total. Jarrod Foster was third in the 181 lb. class with 300 squat, 195 bench, 300 deadlift and 795 total.

Fourth place winners were Rudy Flores, 315 squat, 160 bench, 345 deadlift and 820 total in the 220 lb. class; Chuck Lee, 270 squat, 200 bench, 305 deadlift and 775 total in the 132 lb. class; and Larry White with 310 squat, 125 bench, 345 deadlift and 780 total in the 242 class.

Chris Fambro had 310 squat, 205 bench, 345 deadlift and 860 total.

In girls powerlifting, Rachel Foster came in first place with 220 squat, 110 bench, 250 deadlift and 570 total. Stephanie Hoyle was second with 200 squat, 105 bench, 240 deadlift and 545 total; and Ashley Scott won third place with 190 squat, 105 bench, 240 deadlift and a total of 535.

Loraine knocks out Red Devils, 84-78

Excited Loraine fans gathered in Coahoma's gym last Friday night in anticipation of the Bulldogs' bi-district playoff against 18-7 Rankin.

Palms were a little sweaty, though, due to Rankin's big man Tomas Wrotten standing on the other side of the court. The Bulldogs wouldn't disappoint, however, as they advanced to the area round of the playoffs for the third time in four years. With an 84-78 win over the Red Devils, Loraine proved they weren't a mediocre team.

The Bulldogs took control early as they used their scramble press right from the start. That helped Loraine build an 11-0 lead.

Rankin remained scoreless until 4:34 was left in the quarter, when they broke up Loraine's run with a pair of free throws.

The Bulldog defense didn't let up as they built their biggest lead of the night of 15 points, 22-7, with 1:36 left in the first quarter. Rankin answered with two buckets as the first quarter ended 22-11.

The Bulldogs held big six-foot five-inch post Wrotten scoreless in the first quarter, but the quarter did prove costly as Loraine's main scoring threat, Alvin Crawford, picked up three quick fouls and was forced to sit the entire second quarter.

The Red Devils opened up the second quarter with two quick scores and trimmed Loraine's lead to seven points, 22-15. Rankin cut into the lead even more, as they made it a two-point game, 37-35, with only 31 seconds left in the half.

Bear Cooper added a free throw to make it 38-35. Cory Wooddell's half-court desperation shot hit the front rim and backboard, then rolled off as the buzzer sounded.

Even with the lead, the Bulldogs didn't come out of the second quarter unscathed. Tomas Wrotten finally began to assert himself underneath the basket and the Crawfordless Bulldogs struggled to mount a consistent offensive attack.

"We were forced to use a smaller lineup when Alvin got into foul trouble," Loraine coach Barry Gill said. "We played tough defense on him [Wrotten] but he still hurt us down low."

The Red Devils went back to Wrotten in the second half, scratching and clawing their way to a 41-41 tie before taking the lead for the first time, 46-45 with 3:27 left in the third quarter. Loraine then called a timeout a few moments later, following three straight three-point attempts with nothing to show for it.

"Shot selection has been our Achilles heel all year long," Coach Gill said. "I told our team during the timeout not to take any more three-pointers.

The quarter ended with Rankin clinging to a 54-53 lead.

Loraine quickly regained the lead in the fourth quarter as Alvin Crawford scored seven of the Bulldogs' first nine points.

The Bulldogs held the lead until Tomas Wrotten drilled a three-pointer to give Rankin a 67-66 lead. That would be the Red Devils' last lead as Loraine outscored Rankin 18-11 the rest of the way.

Despite Wrotten's 40 points, 20 of which came in the fourth quarter, Loraine held on to win 84-78.

"This was a big win for us," Coach Gill commented. "Everything seemed to click. Our press was certainly a big factor early on for us. Our back cut play was also effective, especially in the fourth quarter."

Wrotten's 40 points were the most scored by one player against Loraine all year.

"He's the best player we've seen this year by far," Gill said. "He surprised me a little when he worked at the top of the key and started pulling from three-point range, but other than that we knew what was coming.

"You have to hand it to the guy [Wrotten]. He worked for every point he made," Gill said.

The Bulldogs showed very balanced scoring, placing four players in double figures, Kyle Moore, 23; Alvin Crawford, 22; Cory Wooddell, 20; and Bear Cooper, 17. Miguel Gomez added two.

Loraine finishes season 20-13...

Roby ends Dogs' season

SWEETWATER - One bad thing about making the playoffs, if you don't win it all, your season ends with a loss and that is what happened to the Loraine Bulldogs Tuesday night here as they were defeated in the Area playoffs by Roby, 72-58.

Kyle Moore got Loraine on the scoreboard first after sinking two free throws to open the game, but Roby would come back and take a 19-13 lead at the end of the first quarter.

In the second period, Roby's Lonnie Green got hot underneath and scored 12 second quarter points, but the Lions' big man would get in foul trouble and not play most of the second half.

Green picked up his fourth foul early in the third quarter and remained on the bench until 4:28 in the fourth quarter, but he only lasted 18 seconds before fouling out with 4:10 to play.

Roby scored 26 second stanza points to only nine by Loraine as the Lions took a 23 point halftime lead, 45-22.

Most thought the Bulldogs were finished, but no one told them as they came out in the third quarter and made a ballgame out of the contest.

Cory Wooddell led the comeback effort for the Bulldogs with seven third quarter points. Roby went ice cold in the quarter and could only score four points while Loraine made it a ten-point game at the end of the third, 49-39.

With 4:28 left to play, Loraine's Alvin Crawford went up for a lay up and made the basket, but was fouled. He sank the free throw to cut the Roby lead to six, 59-53.

But Roby would not allow Loraine to get any closer as they outscored the Bulldogs 13-5 the final 4:28 to take the win and advance to the regional tournament this weekend in Abilene.

Crawford was high point for Loraine with 22 points. Wooddell added 11 while Miguel Gomez and Moore each had nine and Richard Cooper seven.

Shea Feagan had a game high 24 for Roby. Also in double figures were Green with 18 and Casey Terry 10.

Loraine's season comes to an end with a record of 20-13. Roby continues its march to the state tournament with a 22-6 record.

Texas 4-H program reaches more youth

The Texas 4-H program, the largest youth organization in the state, has grown even bigger. At the end of 1995, the state 4-H and youth development program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reported a 4-H membership of 628,172, almost 16 percent of all Texas youth ages five to 19.

"Enrollment increased about 44 percent between 1993 and 1995," said Dr. Nelson Jacob, 4-H and youth development specialist. "It has more than doubled from 308,000 since 1989."

Jacob said that diversity in the organization is increasing. "The 4-H program is reaching new audiences, appealing to a broader cross section of youth. Also, the increase demonstrates the soundness of current educational programs tied to practical experiences, which capture the minds of young people."

Part of the success of the program can be credited to a variety of learning opportunities provided through 4-H projects based on current research and designed to target youth in specific age groups, said Dr. Lynne Thibodeaux, assistant director of the 4-H and youth development program. These projects allow children to develop life skills that will help them become more productive individuals.

"Various programs are presented throughout the state by county Extension faculty and well-trained volunteers who lend tremendous support and leadership to 4-H," she said. "Also, donors have provided grants and other support, which make it possible to initiate new programs that address critical youth problems such as literacy."

Young people enroll in 4-H by joining a community or school 4-H club, by participating in a short-term, special-interest group or by enrolling in a 4-H School Curriculum Enrichment Project. Members can choose from more than 40 projects that focus on science and technology and building life skills.

Special-interest groups make up the largest portion of the 4-H enrollment increase, Dr. Jacob said. Membership in this area increased from 58,618 to more than 153,800 in just one year.

"Today, we are structuring more programs to meet special needs in certain areas for a specific amount of time," he said. "We offer these programs where and when there is interest."

4-H programs offered in Texas schools provide educational curriculum for students, Jacob said. Membership in these programs is up by more than 85,000. School courses in food science, health, the environment, science and technology, agriculture and other areas have been enhanced by 4-H program material.

The racial makeup of 4-H members is reflective of the state's population, Jacob said. About 45 percent of 4-H members are white; 33 percent are Hispanic; 20 precent, African-American; more than one percent, Asian; and less than one percent, Native American.

Figures show that 4-H appeals to a wide range of youth—preschool through twelfth grade, rural and urban, and all ethnic groups. About 62 percent of 4-H members live in cities and suburbs; nearly 26 percent live in towns; and close to 12 percent live on farms and in rural areas.

Children age eight and younger are called 4-H Clover Kids and make up 30 percent of the membership; 48 percent of 4-H members are ages nine-11; 11 percent are 12 or 13; and 11 percent are 14 and older.

Texans are realizing that 4-H involves more than just animal projects, which are still an integral part of the program, Jacob said. Parents in urban areas are recognizing the value of enrolling children in such projects as consumer life skills, foods and nutrition, aerospace and horticulture.

The opportunities for youth to communicate with others from various backgrounds, for older children—teen leaders—to teach younger members and for families to work together with their children continue to be main reasons for 4-H's success, Jacob said.

Youth learn how to make decisions, solve problems, set goals, get along with others and deal with failures and setbacks, Thibodeaux said. Parents also benefit by spending quality time with their children, which increases communication within the family.

"The 4-H program has become more visible over the last decade," Thibodeaux said. "We have become partners with people from all walks of life and donors who are investing in youth. They want to make sure that young people reach their goal of 'making the best better' through positive educational programs."

CHIEF LONE WOLF

BY JIM BAUM

"The people must build a holy place for me so I can live among them. Build this tabernacle and everything in it by the plan I will show you."

Exodus 25:8

The tabernacle in Colorado City stood at Third and Oak Streets where the library now stands. It had a dirt floor, long wooden benches and a stage. The building was used for revivals, fairs, singing conventions and chautauquas, as well as other functions.

Estimates of how many people could fit in the tabernacle vary. Some folks say "several hundred," others estimate 500. When the Colorado Booster Band was named the "Gold Medal Band of West Texas" in 1925, the Colorado Record boasted that 2,000 persons turned out to welcome the band at the tabernacle. (See Lone Wolf December 7, 1995.)

THE TABERNACLE as seen from the Mitchell County Courthouse. A day-long experience awaited those in attendance. Photo compliments of George Womack.

Frances Chesney lived two blocks from the tabernacle when she was a little girl and she has no trouble recalling the building. "It was an enormous plain structure. There were lots of preachers and the thing would be filled."

There was something else Frances remembered about the tabernacle. "It was just hotter than Hades in there. There was nothing to keep you cool."

Mrs. R. J. (Mary) Lloyd can vouch for that. "I remember people fainted because it was so hot in there," she told us.

Both Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Chesney spent a lot of time as little girls in the tabernacle. Mrs. Chesney remembers when she was about six years old she was disciplined in the tabernacle.

"Chester Thomas was sitting behind us. His daughter and I were sitting next to each other. He thought we were talking. Well, we weren't. He thumped both of us on the head."

While Mrs. Chesney may have been falsely accused, Mary Lloyd probably wasn't. "I did a lot of running around when we went to the singing conventions. Being kids, the programs didn't interest us like running around did."

And make no mistake about it; children were expected to be quiet and there was to be no running around. "They didn't have any loudspeakers back then," Mrs. Lloyd recalled. "We just had to be quiet. That's why we kids didn't like to stay in there."

Ruby Wyatt Bryant agrees. Born in Mitchell County in 1909, she recalls "we always made up some excuses to go outside for awhile. We either had to go to the bathroom or get a drink of water."

Mrs. Bryant had an ulterior motive for going to the tabernacle anyway. "Our neighbor had a car and we didn't. So they would stop and pick me up and I would ride with them. They were good church people and I was so happy to go because I got to ride in a car!"

For many families, coming to the tabernacle was an all day experience. Mrs. Lloyd told us "we lived in the country and when we would come in we would bring our lunch. You know, stay all day. Stay all day and have dinner on the grounds.

"Mother would make potato salad, fry chicken, bake a cake, things like that. We'd eat our lunch there."

Mary's husband, R.J., also remembers those tabernacle days, but for another reason: terrapin races.

"We used to have races between the courthouse and the tabernacle back in the '20s," he said. "I'd catch terrapins out in the field, put 'em in a wagon and bring them to town. Other people would, too.

"This was in July when the pavement was hot. A great big circle about as big as a room would be drawn and they'd put those terrapins under a tub, then they'd raise the tub up and those ol' terrapins would take off and see which one could get out of the circle the quickest."

Another man who remembers frolicking around the tabernacle is 71-year-old John Morgan.

"When we were kids, we used to shoot marbles in there." As boys were prone to do, Morgan says he and his buddies went in the tabernacle whether or not they were supposed to.

He also remembers the Tate-Lax medicine shows that used to be held there. "Dr. Tate was this ol' boy's name and he had a blackface comedian and people would come up and give testimonials [about Tate-Lax]."

"Most of that old "medicine" had alcohol in it and if it didn't do the people who bought it any good, at least they thought it did."

Morgan says he also remembers boxing promoters setting up a ring in the tabernacle and local men were offered money to take on the promoters' boxers. (The tabernacle obviously became something other than a "holy place" at times.)

L.B. Elliott remembers the community singings, not the boxing matches. "They would have contests and the singers would be judged. No prizes, they just did it for the fun of it."

Elliott also remembers chautauquas which featured speakers and musicians. During the program, a packed audience would sit on hard wooden benches with patrons fanning themselves with fans given out by local businesses, which had their company names printed on the fans.

For Bob Ratliff, the tabernacle has a very special memory. "That's where I got my first lickin' from my dad. I was runnin' up and down the aisles and he told me to sit down and I didn't. He took me outside and busted my rear," said Ratliff, who will be 71 next month. He was four years old when he got the whipping.

Then there's the story Bob's dad told him. It concerned his grandfather, M.C. (Uncle Mike) Ratliff. Back in 1915 or 1916, Granddad Ratliff, who lived just a couple of blocks from the tabernacle, was trying to run off a stray dog.

The dog had been hanging around Ratliff's house. "My granddad," Bob related, "got the dog and poured a little Highlife on its rear." (Ratliff explained that Highlife was a caustic solution that "burns like the devil for a little while.")

That dog took off and about every 20 feet, it would scoot on its rear just a-yelping, then it would run another 20-30 feet and scoot again."

The dog ran straight for the tabernacle. "And it went down the aisle yelping and a-scootin' and the preacher yelled, 'MAD DOG!!' And the whole congregation went out the side."

The Colorado City tabernacle was torn down, probably in the late 1930s or early '40s. The "holy place" had reached a time, oldtimers say, when the building had outlived its usefulness.

In 1996, on the vacant lot where the old unpainted tabernacle had stood, an attractive brick library building was constructed. Today only memories of the tabernacle live on. Memories of singing conventions, revivals, lunch on the grounds and children being disciplined with a thump on the head, or a slap on the rear.

Or boys shooting marbles. Or a yelping dog scooting down an aisle.

Endangered species is found in Mitchell Co.

By JOE RAFF, CEA-AG

The Texas Poppy Mallow was put on the federal endangered species list on January 13, 1981. It was identified in Mitchell County in April 1994. Since then, steps toward a recovery plan to strike a balance between profitable agriculture and recovery of the endangered species have been implemented.

A recovery plan has been sent to the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA), which passed. However, the same plan has not been adopted by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The plan simply calls for restricted use of some herbicides during active growth of the plant. Herbicide boundaries were included in the plan that parallels the label of the herbicides.

Site visits are also included in the plan, which have been done the last two years. In each visit the population has not changed in total numbers, or total land occupied by the plant.

The Texas Poppy Mallow is a flowering plant that is 10-50 inches tall with taproots that can reach four feet in length. The flowers are red to purple with deeper red basal spots and are cup-shaped like most tulips. The plant can only survive in deep sand along the Colorado River in Mitchell, Coke and Runnels counties.

If anyone would like more information on the Texas Poppy Mallow please give us a call at the Extension office (728-3111). We should be getting in more fact sheets from TDA in mid to late March.

First manure conference set

How to manage and recycle livestock manure will be the topic of a first-of-its-kind conference scheduled for March 5 at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd., Amarillo. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m., with the program beginning at 10 a.m. The cost is $10 and includes a catered lunch.

The conference is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and cooperators USDA-ARS, West Texas A&M University, Texas Tech University, and Texas Cattle Feeders Association. Speakers will address new, efficient ways to handle and recycle livestock manure with a focus on residue management at the point of origin to the application on crop and range land.

The program will end by 4:30 p.m. To preregister for the conference, contact Susan Booth at (806) 359-5401.

Defensive driving class set

A defensive driving class is scheduled for Saturday, March 16 from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. in room 6 of the Wallace Community Education Center with Charles Watlington as the instructor.

Sponsored by the National Traffic Safety Institute, the classroom session offers pointers in preventing accidents in spite of the incorrect actions of others and adverse driving conditions.

Films and other visual aids will be used to demonstrate driving skills. There will be a one-hour lunch break.

Those who complete the course will be eligible for possible ticket removal from their driving records. Each student must bring an approval letter from the judge to take the class. The fee for the course is $30. Registration must be completed by March 15.

For more information, call the Wallace Community Education Center at 728-2392.

Officer Charles Rice

Democrat for Sheriff

Addresses the problems in the Sheriff's Office

Questions That Were Not Asked In The Sheriff's Race, directed to Sheriff Toombs

(1) Why do your Deputies spend so much time on the Interstate? Isn't this the job of the D.P.S.?

(2) Why did your office accept a $49,000 Federal Grant for a Youth Center, Teen Court and DARE officer? Where is the Teen Court? Where is the Youth Center?

(3) Why do you employ Reserve Deputies that live out of Mitchell County?

(4) Why did your department destroy the arrest records of the wife of one of your deputies?

(5) Why do you allow the cover-up of employee activites such as: sexual activity with a female prisoner, unprofessional letters, abusive language and public assult?

(6) Why do you make claims of the most arrests when your cases solved is below the National average?

(7) Why do you claim to have done so much for DARE programs? Didn't Sheriff Bryant establish the DARE program, not you? Why don't you teach DARE prgrams? Again, where is the Youth Center and were is the Teen Court?

(8) Why do you not have any minority employees?

(9) What Cultural Awareness and Ethics training have you or your employees had?

(10) What Crime Scene and Investigative training have you or your deputies had?

(11) Why do you spend so little time at work? Why can't you work a shift, respond to calls or teach a DARE class?

(12) What investigation or case solving have you been involved in? Would the Bruce case be solved if an experienced professional approach had been used?

(13) How much time do you spend out of the county working for the State Sheriff's Assocation.

Charles Rice Responds To These Problems ... The Real Issues Of The Sheriff's Race

(1) During my administration, Deputies will be spending their time on county roads protecting people where they live and work.

(2) I have operated the City DARE program for four years with no help from Federal grants, City or County money. I teach DARE programs myself and raise our own funds. I, too, would like to know where the Youth Center and Teen Court are.

(3) I was born and raised in Mitchell County and plan to use Mitchell County people to fill those positions.

(4) The destruction or falsification of documents will never be tolerated.

(5) Family values and professional behavior will be demanded. Employees will be given ample training and direction to know what is expected for a higher standard.

(6) The Sheriff's Department arrest record for Part I Felonies is well below the national average. I have the training to correct this problem. I have 7 years experience with a much higher success ratio. I will see to it that all Deputies are adequately trained.

(7) I am actively involved in DARE Programs. I teach and work directly with the kids. Our County DARE program could be much more effective.

(8) Under my administration, minority groups will be represented in the Sheriff's Department. I will personally recruit and look for interested, qualified people.

(9) I have many hours of State Certified Cultural Awareness Training and Ethics Training with the Southwestern Law Enforcement Institute.

(10) I have State Certified Crime Scene Investigation training. Numerous hours with my Criminal Science studies at Hardin-Simmons and Howard College.

(11) I will be in the office early and late. I will be pulling a shift responding to calls and be personally involved in investigations and upgrading the training of employees.

(12) I have 7 years experience with the Colorado City Police Department in investigation. While on special assignment to the Ennis, Texes Police Department, I had a 95% conviction record. The Bruce case certainly could have been handled differently. I was the lead investigator in the L.B. Elliott case.

(13) I plan to spend my time in Mitchell County doing my job.

Loraine News

By Bessie Ann Vaughn

Greetings from Loraine. Please do a rain dance, have a pray-in, seed some clouds, wash the car, leave clothes out on the line, pay the preacher more, whatever it takes. We are now expecting March winds but wishing for April showers.

Since the weather is so erratic and unpredictable, it might just start raining out of the blue.

It could even rain out the Rattlesnake Roundup, and wouldn't that be something? I've always heard of raining cats and dogs, but not cats, dogs and rattlesnakes.

I doubt the Snake Roundup will be rained out, so whet your appetite for some good food!! I can hear it now. "This way ladies, gentlemen and children, step right up and get your chicken fry." Bread, onions, pickles, french fries, and chicken fried snake. Yum. Yum.

Royce and Margaret Mahon recently spent a week in Sherman visiting with their son James and his wife and children, Jason and Angela. They also visited Susan Cheshire and Tiffany, who live in Sherman as well.

Nola Taylor is spending this week in Lubbock visiting with her children, Kitty and Dalton Gage.

Rev. Monte Wilks from Colorado City has been presiding over Sunday night services at the Loraine United Methodist Church during the month of February for a teaching exercise. His wife Noma has been coming over with his as well.

Bro. James Merrell is still preaching Sunday morning services.

Kenneth Butler enjoyed a special 80th birthday party with his family and friends last week in the nursing home. Out of town family members present were Kennie Sue Irwin from Dallas and Dawn and Krystal Butler from Hardin-Simmons.

Bobby and Wanza Graham visited with Willie and Dianne Hughes from Roscoe. Their daughter Holly was at home from Tarleton State College, so they were pleased to get to visit with her as well.

Mary Love Allbright from Odessa was in Loraine Monday visiting her mother, Syble Walker, and other relatives as well.

Weldon McAdams (Nubbs) was in town Monday and stopped by the center to visit his sister, Joan Long.

Our sincere condolences to Aurora and the entire Munoz family as our friend and neighbor, J.M. Munoz, passed away last week.

Harley and Verlie Owen went to Corpus Christi recently via La Grange, where they stopped to help Sheila Owen celebrate her birthday. The party get-together was held in Darrell and Teena Owen's home.

Also there was Rookie and the two children, Dot and Wayne Oliver, along with Brenda and Megan. Verlie reported that Harley had a good medical check in Corpus.

It is exciting to see work in progress at the clinic site here in town. Everyone is happy about having a clinic here that I have spoken to about it. It is a little early yet to talk about an open house but "whenever" will be great.

Senior Center News

A makeup meal, along with an installaton of new directors and officers, took place last Tuesday night at the senior center.

After a nice meal and the directors' installation, everyone present enjoyed the "Pot Bellied Band" from Roscoe. We sure hope they can come again, as everyone enjoyed their music and singing.

The board of directors has a new president. Mr. J.A. Sadler was installed for that position. Other officers are Bro. James Merrell, vice president; Doris Henderson, treasurer; Bertha Fay Snyder, secretary. Other directors are Agnes Haney, Millie Rose, James Jarrett, Ralston Bruce and Margaret Brame.

The entertainers were Herschel McDonald, Jimmy Smith, Joe Brad McVey, and Freddy Freeman. Also coming with the band were wives Pat McDonald and Linda Freeman, plus Jennifer Turnage, Patti and Jason Graham.

Visitors to the center lately have been Faye Spivey, Nell Doyle, George and Fay Lee, Lupe Luja, Joe Garza, Louella Hall, Barzie and Joyce Parker, Patrick and Lorianne Toombs, Debby Carlock, Don and Diane Marshall, Vita Evans, Nelda Fuller, Bertie Kidd, R.J. and Mary Loyd, Sarah Smith, Inez Hock, Charles Carter, plus Mary Love Allbright, James and Lela Birmingham, James Wooten, Donna Givens, and Hilda Ethridge.

Monday at the bingo table Geraldine Parnell won all she could win in regular bingo. I don't know if she won a blackout.

Margaret Brame played bingo a short while. It was great to see her.

Loyd Ray and Ina Finch came over Monday and Ina was in a big old arm cast. She said she fell off a ladder. Sure hope it will heal fast.

Elsie Lecroy told me she had a granddaughter, Tracie Turnbow, in a Colorado City hospital and her son, Jerry Lecroy, in a Sweetwater hospital. We wish them both a speedy recovery.

We are pleased to report that Lynetta Dubose is back home from a stay in the hospital following surgery. Get better soon, Lynetta.

We have concerns for Eva Wells. She continues to have medical problems after being in an auto accident. We hope she soon gets better.

Visiting in the home of Eva Wells recently were her brother, Bob Smith of Groesbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Robinson from Abilene and a cousin, Modine Porter.

Loraine Nursing Home News

Gill told me Monday that she will be taking a job in Ft. Smith, Ark. late next month with her last working day in Loraine being March 15. We are really going to miss her, but certainly wish her well and good luck in her new job.

She has a daughter, Joanne Harris, living nearby, so that will be good for her.

Taking Gill's job as social director will be Joetta Hollis, who lives in Loraine and has been working at the manor as bookkeeper.... I look forward to meeting her.

J.D. Iglehart is in a hospital at this time and so is Lula LaFevre. (She was sent to Lubbock.) We wish them both a speedy recovery.

The Stanton band, "The Old Sore Heads," will play at the nursing home Thursday for the leap year party.

F.C.E. Club Meeting

C.E.A. Mary McMullen gave a program last Wednesday for the North Loraine Club at the Loraine center on tax benefits for people who work, mainly concerning Earned Income Credit.

LORAINE SCHOOL STUDENTS Katherine Lewis, 7th grade (left) and Jennifer Rich, 8th grade (right) participated in the Tau Beta Sigma Solo Contest at Texas Tech University on Saturday, Feb. 10. Jennifer received a 1st Division on her clarinet solo and Katherine received a 1st Division on her flute solo.

Cotton producers to meet at Senior Citizens Center in Loraine

In its nonstop effort to seek input from area cotton growers, the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation, Inc. will hold the first of several public meetings in the Rolling Plains Central Zone Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Loraine Senior Citizens Center.

As the zone looks forward to a fall start, other meetings will be scheduled throughout the 19-county area to conveniently allow growers to attend one of the sessions.

"No question or concern is too large or too small to be discussed at these gatherings," said Woody Anderson, Colorado City cotton grower and chairman of the Foundation board of directors.

"Everyone with an interest in the future of Rolling Plains cotton is encouraged to attend," he said.

While this particular meeting will focus mainly on the eradication program in Mitchell and Nolan counties, anybody is invited to participate, Anderson said.

The next scheduled meeting will be held March 4 at 7 p.m. at Frazier's Restaurant in Aspermont. Meeting locations will continue to be announced as they are scheduled.

She distributed brochures containing different questions and answers pertinent to taxes. V.I.T.A., a program from the IRS, helps people fill out their tax forms free. To find out the V.I.T.A. site near you, call 1-800-829-1040. You may also call the C.E.A. in her office during the week.

Following the agent's report, the regular meeting got underway with Doris Henderson presiding.

Minutes were read by Secretary Shirley Kendall and the treasurer's report was given by Billie Schroeder.

No new business came before the club, so the the meeting was adjourned.

Attending were Doris Henderson, Shirley Kendall, Billie Schroeder, Millie Rose, Effie Wheeler, Mary Rose Bowen, Billie Ruth Abernathy, Wanza Graham, and Mitchell County Extension Agent Mary McMullen.

PUBLIC NOTICE
CITY OF LORAINE
TEXAS COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

The City of Loraine will hold a public hearing at 6:30 p.m. on March 5, 1996 at City Hall, 703 5th Street, in regard to the submission of an application to the Texas Department of Housing & Community Affairs for Texas Community Development Program (TCDP) grant. The purpose of this meeting is to allow citizens an opportunity to discuss the citizens participation plan, the development of local housing and community development needs, the amount of TCDP funding available, all eligible TCDP activities, and the use of past TCDP funds. The City encourages citizens to participate in the development of this TCDP application and to make their views known at this public hearing. Citizens unable to attend this meeting may submit their views and proposals to Christine Britton, City Secretary, at the City Hall. Persons with disabilities that wish to attend this meeting should contact City Hall for assistance. Individuals who require auxiliary aids or services for this meeting should contact City Secretary at least two days before the meeting so that appropriate arrangements can be made. If anyone interested in attending the public hearing requires a translator, please contact City Hall. For further information, contact Christine Britton at the City Hall (915) 737-2222.

RHODE CONSTRUCTION CO. WORKERS lay new water lines at Tenth and Chestnut Streets. Crews, contracted by the city, have been laying new lines throughout Colorado City the past several weeks which has involved digging up streets and yard edges. City officials are reassuring residents that after all the individual meter connections are made, crews will restore areas that were disturbed when the lines were originally laid.

TU Electric receives award

TU Electric has been presented with the Vendor Recognition Award by The Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs.

The company was given the award at a meeting in Austin of the state's Low Income Energy Assistance Program, which helps people in need pay their energy bills. Several other awards were also presented.

During 1995 TU Electric processed more than 118,000 calls from state agencies regarding Energy Aid.

Since the program began in 1983, Energy Aid has provided more than $7 million through approximately 90,000 payments to people with financial difficulty due to sudden illness, unexpected job loss or other temporary emergency situations. The funds may be used to pay for electricity, natural gas or other energy sources such as butane and propane.

Energy Aid is funded primarily by customers who make a monthly or one-time donation of a dollar or more when they send in their electric bill payments. Proceeds from TU Electric's employee recycling program also support Energy Aid. Since 1990, the employee recycling program has contributed about $95,000.

Experienced social service agencies throughout the TU Electric service area screen applicants and contribute funds directly to energy providers on behalf of those who qualify.

"Energy Aid has been an effective private enterprise-government partnership that helps people through rough times," said TU Electric Manager Linda Edwards.

"One local benefit of this partnership is that the funds come back home. With the agencies' cooperation, we are able to channel the funds donated by customers to the residents in need who live in their own communities," said Edwards.

TU Electric provides electricity to about 2.3 million customers in 91 counties across North, Central, East and West Texas.

Crop insurance programs revised

By JOE RAFF

Every year brings a new crop of revisions to crop insurance programs, and 1996 is no exeption. Courtney Goodman, risk management specialist with the Farm Service Agency in College Station, describes some of the key changes that farmers can expect in the next year.

Multiple ownership. To remain eligible for federal programs, farmers were required to buy crop insurance in 1995. This meant that in a multiple-owner situation, each of the owners had to pay the $50 fee for the most basic level of insurance to cover their share of the farm.

The problem is that some families have divided their shares into amounts as small as one to five percent for each shareholder. What's more, the crop insurance liability (the amount to be paid out in the case of a total loss) often is less than $500 for some of these shareholders. With such small liability, some farmers complained about being required to pay the $50 fee for Catastrophic Crop Insurance (CAT).

Changes in 1996 attempt to solve this problem. If crop insurance remains mandatory, the exemption for small shareholders will be expanded from what it was in 1995. If shareholders have less than a $500 liability, they can decide not to insure their interest in the farm without jeopardizing their participation in farm programs.

Multiple owners can also purchase a single "joint venture" policy if they meet the requirements for having an "undivided share" in a crop. For details, contact the nearest Farm Service Agency office.

Increased levels of coverage. In 1995 and previous years, producers in the buy-up portion of the Federal Crop Insurance Program could insure their crops at 50, 65 or 75 percent of their annual production history yield. But in 1996, producers in the buy-up program will have more options. They can choose from six insurance levels—50, 55, 60, 65, 70 and 75 percent of Actual Production History (APH) yield.

The price election for buy-up coverage will vary frm 75 percent of the established price to 100 percent of price.

High-risk land exclusion. With buy-up insurance, you can exclude high-risk land from coverage. However, the high-risk land still must be covered by Catastrophic Crop Insurance.

New requirements for prevented planting. If conditions prevent producers from planting a certain crop, but the acreage is subsequently planted to a substitute crop, insured farmers can receive equal to 25 percent of the guaranteed yield.

Example: Assume that a farmer has CAT coverage of 50/60 (50 percent of the yield at 60 percent the established price) and an APH yield of 100 bushels per acre. In this case, the guaranteed yield would be 50 percent of 100 bushels per acre, or 50 bushels per acre.

If the producer must plant a substitute crop, the indemnity payment will be based on 25 percent of the guaranteed yield, or 12.5 bushels per acre. (50 bushels per acre x .25 = 12.5). To determine the indemnity payment, 12.5 is multiplied by 60 percent of the established price.

If conditions prevent a producer from planting a crop, but the acreage is not used for haying, grazing or a substitute crop, insured producers can receive a prevented planting payment equal to 75 percent of the guaranteed yield.

Change in production history for apples. In 1995, apple growers could base their crop insurance coverage on five or 10 years of yields. But in 1996, apple growers must use five years of yields.

Yield limitations in the Nonstandard Classification System. Producers who suffer high losses for several years may be put in the Nonstandard Classification System, or NCS. What's new in '96 is that during a producer's first year in the NCS, cups and caps will not apply. A cup limits the percentage that yields can drop to 10 percent, while a cap limits the percentage that yields can increase to 20 percent. After the first year in the NCS, caps will apply, but cups will not.

Donahue show features Texas prisons

Officers of the Wallace Unit in the coming days will be viewing a video of a recent Phil Donahue show featuring the Texas prison system in a program exploring the penal system's sometimes competing missions of rehabilitation vs. long-range imprisonment of violent offenders.

The show includes Texas prison boss Wayne Scott, executive director of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, on a panel with an Ohio corrections officer, a Florida congressman, an ex-inmate from New York and an American Civil Liberties Union attorney.

On the program, Scott displays a collection of homemade weapons seized from Texas inmates and talks about the tough jobs correctional officers face every day. The program also shows several film clips from inside Texas prisons showing inmates attacking both correctional officers and other prisoners.

Scott makes the point that even while TDCJ copes with the "hardening of the system" as inmates serve longer and longer terms, the Texas system also "concentrates on trying to help those getting out in a short time to be successful as they re-enter society."

"But if you really want to cut recidivism, you've got to start with the children before they ever get in the penal system," Scott says.

Anyone wishing to see the video should contact the Warden's office at 728-2162.

Cotton growers meet with boll weevil group

Seeking an information exchange, Central Rolling Plains cotton growers and boll weevil eradication program personnel met last week to discuss launching a successful boll weevil eradication program this fall in the zone that includes a portion of Taylor County.

During the meeting, which is the first of many all-important communications with growers, a steering committee made up of grower-representatives from each of the 19 counties in the zone was encouraged to ask questions, voice concerns, offer suggestions and then carry information about the eradication program back to the growers in their county.

Similar meetings will follow at the end of the month in each of the seven 100,000-acre operation areas in the zone. All growers and the public are invited and encouraged to attend these information exchanges, said Woody Anderson, chairman of the foundation's board of directors.

Aside from the meetings, a monthly newsletter will be mailed to all producers and landowners to keep them apprised of program activities. The first edition of the newsletter, the Boll Weevil Monitor, was mailed in December.

Additionally, a Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Manual and an informational poster will be available at gins, extension services, farm services agencies and foundation offices throughout the zone.

Osama El-Lissy, statewide program director, presented an overview of the current status of the Central Rolling Plains program, reviewing the program's procedures and benefits.

"It's important to mention that a grower shouldn't wait until we have a meeting to voice a concern," Myers said. "We encourage growers to maintain contact and ask questions of field personnel throughout the program."

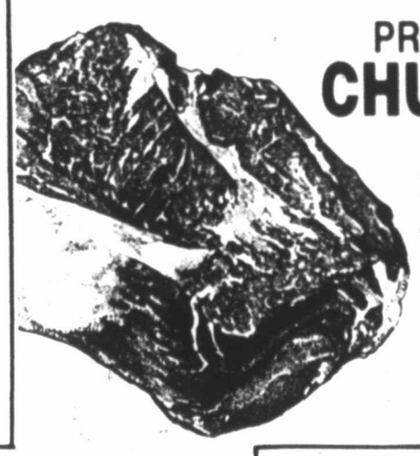

Operations supervisors in each of the 100,000-acre areas are currently in temporary offices. Telephone numbers and addresses will be made available to growers as permanent offices are established.
