Pickens to open Pampa office for wind, water ventures

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

Boone Pickens is opening an office in Pampa to handle information on his wind energy and water projects, Mesa Power, L.P., and Mesa Water, L.P.

Mesa Power and Mesa Water will be at 220 N. Ballard in Pampa.

"We have a young guy there who is our office manager by the name of Moreland Sherrod," Michael Boswell, vice president for Mesa Power said Friday. "The purpose of the office is to have a location where landowners in the area, their representatives, lawyers and others can come and have a place to talk about our development of primarily the wind energy thing, but also our continuing effort to acquire additional acreage of water rights."

Boswell said the office should be open this week. He said the available information would be very specific as to the financial terms being offered.

"We intend to be completely competitive with anyone else in the area," Boswell said. "Our offer is not going to be couched in confidential terms as some of the other people in the area are couching their terms. We want everybody to know what our terms are."

He said they are offering what they call "a most favored nation clause" that would allow people to sign up early and if a lease had to be changed in the future, the landowner would still get the benefit of the terms in the early lease.

Lila Marsh, a Dallas lawyer representing Mesa Power, told a gathering of landowners in August at M.K. Brown Auditorium that some leases may have to be adjusted for specific sites, but that for the most part, they would be standardized.

She said Mesa Power would be open and transparent on their leasing.

The area Mesa is looking at covers between 233,000 and 300,000 acres in southern Roberts County, northern Gray County, western Hemphill County and part of Wheeler County.

"There's a little bit of Hutchinson and perhaps a little bit of Carson counties," Boswell said.

Pickens, a Dallas businessman who owns a ranch in Roberts County, created Mesa Power earlier this year to build a 4,000-megawatt wind farm. In addition to the wind farm, Mesa plans a 750-megawatt

Community Partners Board seeks volunteers

By KERRI SMITH
Staff Writer

The Top of Texas Community Partners Board, which works to better the lives of abused and neglected children in our communities, is in need of a few special volunteers.

Several people are needed from the Pampa, Lefors, McLean, Canadian, Miami, Wheeler and Mobeetie communities.

A board meeting will be held at 6 p.m. Monday at the Child Protective Services office at 1517 N. Banks in Pampa.

This board is a member of the Greater Texas Community Partners Organization, which is a statewide organization formed to meet the critical needs of abused and neglected children through state and local collaborations. To help raise awareness of child abuse and provide resources these children need to become healthy, productive adults, it takes the collaboration between community volunteers, businesses and state and local government.

Five 2007 PHS graduates named AP Scholars

By KERRI SMITH
Staff Writer

Pampa High School announced last week that five of its 2007 graduates earned the designation of AP Scholars by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement Program Exams.

PHS Counselor Karla Howell explained that students took AP exams in May 2007. Students took these tests after completing challenging college-level courses at the high school. She said the College Board recognizes several levels of achievement based on students' performance on AP exams.

"At Pampa High School, two students qualified for the AP Scholar with Honor Award by earning an average grade of at least 3.25 on all AP exams taken and grades of 3 or higher on four or more of these exams," Howell said. "These students were Landon McNeely and Aaron Pepper."

"Three students qualified for the AP Scholar Award by completing three or more AP exams with grades of 3 or higher. These students were Natasha Bailey, Adam Hagerman and Angela Mechelay."

The college board's AP program gives students the opportunity to take challenging college-level courses while in high school and to receive college credit for successful performance on these exams.

According to Howell, about 18 percent of the more than 1.4 million high school students in more than 16,000 secondary schools worldwide who took AP exams performed at a sufficiently high level to merit the recognition of AP Scholar.

The college board is composed of more than 5,200 schools, colleges, universities and other educational organizations. Among its best known programs are the SAT, PSAT/NMSQT and the Advanced Placement Program.

These Pampa High School graduates are all currently pursuing higher education are different universities. McNeely is attending Baylor, Pepper is at Northwestern, Bailey decided on Abilene Christian, Hagerman is at the University of Texas and Mechelay is attending Texas A&M.

Haiduk, Fred A. — Celebration of life services, 10 a.m., Sacred Heart Catholic Church, White Deer.

Martha Ann Davis, 68

Martha Ann Davis, 68, of Pampa, died Oct. 6, 2007, at Pampa. Services are pending with Carmichael-Whatley Funeral Directors. —Sign the on-line register book at www.carmichael-whatley.com.

Fred A. Haiduk, 91

Haiduk

A prayer vigil for Fred A. Haiduk will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday, October 7 at Schooler Funeral Home Brentwood Chapel in Amarillo. Services to celebrate Fred's life will be held at 10 a.m. Monday, October 8, 2007, at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in White Deer. Father "Mitch" will be the celebrant. Deacon John Peters will assist.

Burial will be held at Sacred Heart Cemetery in White Deer. Arrangements are made by Schooler Funeral Home, 4100 S. Georgia, Amarillo, TX 79110.

Fred was born March 27, 1916, to Ben and Tekla Haiduk of White Deer. He grew up during the very difficult years of the Great Depression and was intimately involved in farming from his childhood until his retirement in 1993.

He married Edith Myre Melton on June 14, 1938, at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in White Deer. Fred and Edith considered their greatest accomplishment raising two children and instilling in them the values of honesty, hard work and dedication, and seeing that each has accepted these ideals and projected them into their own communities.

Following their marriage, they purchased land on what is now known as Pantex. This land was confiscated to build the facility that stands today. In 1942, he purchased a section of land in Gray County. This section was the former Col. Groom ranch headquarters. Col. Groom was an associate of Col. Goodnight.

This place, which was abandoned and left to the vagaries of nature, was developed with many years of backbreaking toil into a showplace, which was often noted in local publications. Over the years, he expanded the operation to become one of the more prominent operations in Gray and Carson counties.

Fred was an active member of the Grandview Community southwest of Pampa. He served on, and was the chairman of the school board for the Grandview School, now Grandview-Hopkins ISD.

He was a member of and, ultimately, president of the Texas State Farmer's Union from 1946-1954. He served on the Gray County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service County Committee from 1951-1953. He was a member of the Extension Services Planning Committee from 1960-1962. He also served on the Gray County Airport Board of Directors from 1953-1958.

He served on the Carson County's Square House Museum Board and Carson County's Historical Survey Committee from 1964-1972.

He was selected "Outstanding Farmer and Rancher of the Year" for 1961 by the Gray County Soil Conservation District. Fred and his beloved wife Edith were one of five families to receive Farmers Union's highest honor in 1980 by having the "Pioneers in Agriculture Board Room" dedicated to them in Waco.

Following his move to Amarillo in 1993, Fred was an inspiring living example to friends, caretakers and family who all noted the positive and inspiring example he provided for how to live; and how to die. He lived with courage, a strong set of core values, and with integrity.

He is preceded in death by his beloved wife on Christmas Day, 1996.

Fred is survived by his children, Harry Paul Haiduk of Amarillo and Myrna Broman of Vega; his brother, Gilbert Haiduk of Lubbock; his sisters, Regina Hawkins of Tallahassee, Florida, and Emma Kuehler of Panhandle; six grandchildren; and 14 great-grandchildren.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests memorials be to Sacred Heart Catholic Church, 613 N. Main, White Deer, TX 79097, the American Cancer Society Amarillo Chapter, 3915 Bell, Amarillo, TX 79109, or the Ware Living Center, 400 SW 14 th, Amarillo, TX 79101.

Sam's pulls beef patties after E. coli reported

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Sam's Club warehouse chain has pulled a brand of ground beef patties from its shelves nationwide after four children who ate the food, produced by Cargill Inc., developed E. coli illness.

Cargill asked customers to return any remaining patties purchased after Aug. 26 to the store or destroy them.

The children became ill between Sept. 10 and Sept. 20 after eating ground beef patties that were bought frozen under the name American Chef's Selection Angus Beef Patties from three Sam's Club stores in the Twin Cities area. Sam's Club voluntarily removed the product from its stores nationwide after the illnesses were reported, the company said.

"We can't be certain that meat from other stores is not involved, since the brand was likely sold at other Sam's Club locations," said Heidi Kassenborg, acting director of the dairy and food inspection division of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

Cargill, based in Wayzata, Minn., is one of the nation's largest privately held companies and makes food ingredients, moves commodities around the world and runs financial commodities trading businesses.

The patties were produced by Cargill and had an expiration date of Feb. 12, 2008, Sam's Club said in a statement. They were coded UPC 0002874907056 Item 700141.

are passionate about stopping child abuse," said Joan Gray-Soria, board president. "We need a few more people who feel the same way to help us make sure these children are cared for and don't suffer any further harm."

The Top of Texas Community Partners Board, which has been in existence since 2001, works closely with Child Protective Services. Some of the board's projects include the Rainbow Room, which is an emergency resource room for abused and neglected children, and the Adopt a Caseworker, which is used to match the needs of these children to adopting groups in the community.

In fiscal year 2006, CPS completed 288 abuse/neglect investigations and 115 were confirmed victims in Gray, Wheeler, Roberts and Hemphill counties. During that time period, one child died in the four county area from abuse or neglect.

"In the effort to decrease the prevalence of child abuse, volunteers are a key ally," said Greg C u m m i n g h a m, Department of Family and Protective Services spokesman. "Child abuse is a community problem that requires a community solution. We need people in every city and county willing to dedicate their time to make sure our most vulnerable population, our children, is safe and protected."

Gray-Soria said that becoming a board member requires minimal time commitment, usually only a few hours each month. Anyone interested in joining the board, can attend the meeting Monday, or can contact Gray-Soria at 669-8033 or Cindy Vandiver, DFPS community initiatives specialist, at 806-354-5325.

coal-fired plant to supply energy when the wind isn't blowing and a 600-megawatt natural gas-fired plant to handle peak loads.

Mesa also plans a 320-mile transmission line to the Dallas area to tap the fast-growing urban markets of North Texas.

The transmission lines, Pickens told landowners at the August meeting, were the key to the project.

Other companies are working through the state's Competitive Renewable Energy Zones, which could be a lengthy process.

Boswell said that while there is a lot of activity with Mesa Power right now, Mesa Water is still looking to expand their water rights in the area.

Mesa Water now has more than 200,000 acres of water rights in the Panhandle.

The right-of-way Mesa hopes to develop between the Panhandle and the Metroplex could have an aqueduct and electrical transmission lines to take both water and power to a higher priced market.

Middlebury College gets archive from Hemingways

By DAVE GRAM
Associated Press Writer

MIDDLEBURY, Vt. (AP) — No matter where he lived, Ernest Hemingway cared what people thought of him back home.

That's clear from a letter he wrote to his father, Dr. Clarence Hemingway, from Paris in 1925. A collection of short stories, "In Our Time," had won good reviews in the New York newspapers. He hoped the local press in his hometown of Oak Park, Ill., would take note as well, he said, "so they will hear I am not considered a bum in N.Y. at least."

He added, "I wish the book would have a good sale in Chicago and Oak Park as I'd like the people I know to see what the stuff is that I am doing, whether they happen to like it or not."

The letter is among hundreds written by Hemingway and other members of his family — including mid-19th century journals and Civil War letters written by his grandfather. The letters and photos of Hemingway and his family at home in Oak Park and at their summer place in Michigan were recently acquired by Middlebury College from the author's nieces, Anne and Hilary.

Hilary Hemingway's husband graduated from Middlebury in 1975.

Andrew Wentink, curator of Middlebury's special collections, calls the Hemingway collection the most significant acquisition by the college's archives since it got Henry David Thoreau's personal copy of the first edition of "Walden," complete with Thoreau's margin notes, in 1940.

"To have been in this position at a time when this came to Middlebury — it's hard to get over it, it's just so exciting," said Wentink.

It will take months to get the letters and photos fully catalogued.

A public opening isn't expected until next year. The college paid for some of the materials — though Wentink wouldn't say how much; others were provided as gifts by Hemingway's heirs.

Wentink and Tim Spears, dean of the college at Middlebury and a professor of American studies who teaches a course on Hemingway, said the materials contain clues they think will be important to Hemingway researchers.

"Scholars have put a lot of weight on Hemingway's early years ... the context of his early family history is really important," Spears said. The roots of Hemingway's love for the outdoors likely were formed during his childhood summers at the family compound on Walloon Lake.

Early photos show the young Hemingway with a big fish and with a toy gun given to him by his grandfather. "A lot of his short stories are set in the outdoors," Spears said.

Spears said students at the college — and scholars from elsewhere — soon will have an opportunity to do original research on one of the 20th century's greatest writers.

The archive traces Hemingway's family history from the journals written by his grandfather, Anson Hemingway, in the 1850s through letters between Hemingway's father and mother, a once aspiring opera singer, to the author's death in 1961.

Aside from being of interest to the writer's fans and literary scholars, the materials provide a fascinating glimpse for a social historian into the lives of a prosperous Midwestern family during that period, Spears said.

Thoughts on Afghanistan, the war on terror, and heroes

I walked in the land of the Taliban. The land of scorpions scurrying across the infectious dust and the lethal sawscale viper that curls up under the tents. It is the land of the jackals who scream out in the darkness like gargoyles who have been set free. With an average of 40 landmines per square mile, you dare not walk beyond the fence. It is a hell where the direct sunlight temperature in the Summer of 2005 exceeded 150 degrees, and its winter brought temperatures in the 20s, with cold flood waters that broke a 10-year drought. The people who inhabit this land have to be yielding, for the land is not.

In September of 2004, I accepted an offer from a defense contractor to work in Afghanistan as an electrician at the airbase in Kandahar in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. On several projects I had the opportunity to work directly with the Afghan people, but I found it difficult to look them in the eyes for fear of looking into the eyes of an untrusting animal. I soon realized their eye contact made me feel uncomfortable, for they look at your eyes to read you.

Most people will make casual eye contact with you then look away, but the Afghan people look at you not feeling uncomfortable at all. When they looked at me, they were simply communicating without words. Searching to see what type of person this strange one in their land was, and when the eye contact is held, they smile. I realized I distrusted them more than they distrusted me; and who is in who's land?

During the 26 months of working in their country, I have taken time to write down certain thoughts, especially those engraved in the hidden coves of my mind.

The other day, I noticed a big soldier walking off the flight line with a large bag draped over his shoulder. A stuffed backpack hung off one elbow and his Kevlar helmet hung off the other as he clutched a duffle bag. He had his rifle slung over his other shoulder and his sidearm strapped to his thigh. His body armor around his waist added additional weight. He was a big man and he was tired. I watched him stumble slightly on the loose rocks underfoot. I stopped my vehicle and rolled down the window.

"Hey man, you need a lift?"
"Yes sir! You got room for my gear?"

"In the back."
He opened the side door of the van and I felt the vehicle shift under the weight he deposited. Sitting in the cab, he reeked with the smell of jet fuel and body odor.

"I really appreciate the ride, sir."
Sir? I always feel strange having them call me sir. I tried for years to get my kids to address me as sir, and here these soldiers do it out of habit.

"Man it feels good to be back! They sent me to Cobra (a Forward Operating Base) to work on a fuel line for 12 days and it ended up being over a month."

"So you missed Christmas?"
"Yeah, and New Year's! Man, we got fired on every other day. Even the SF (Special Forces) says it's too hot! Man, the first thing I'm gonna do is take a long hot shower. A real shower. Then get some good chow. Man! My roommates will be surprised to see me."

He talked about how good it was to be back. Over and over. When I dropped him off, he extended his big hand and thanked me again. I tried to tell him he was the one to be thanked, but my emotions wouldn't let the words out.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Oct. 7, the 280th day of 2007. There are 85 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Oct. 7, 1765, the Stamp Act Congress convened in New York to draw up colonial grievances against England.

On this date:

In 1571, allied Christian forces defeated an Ottoman fleet in the naval Battle of Lepanto.

In 1777, the second Battle of Saratoga began during the American Revolution. (British forces under General John Burgoyne surrendered ten days later.)

In 1849, author Edgar Allan Poe died in Baltimore, Md., at age 40.

In 1916, in the most lopsided victory in college football history, Georgia Tech defeated Cumberland University 222-0 in Atlanta.

In 1949, the Republic of East Germany was formed.

In 1954, Marian Anderson became the first black singer hired by the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York.

In 1960, Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy and Republican opponent Richard M. Nixon held their second televised debate, in Washington, D.C.

Our readers write

Officials should seek what's fair ...

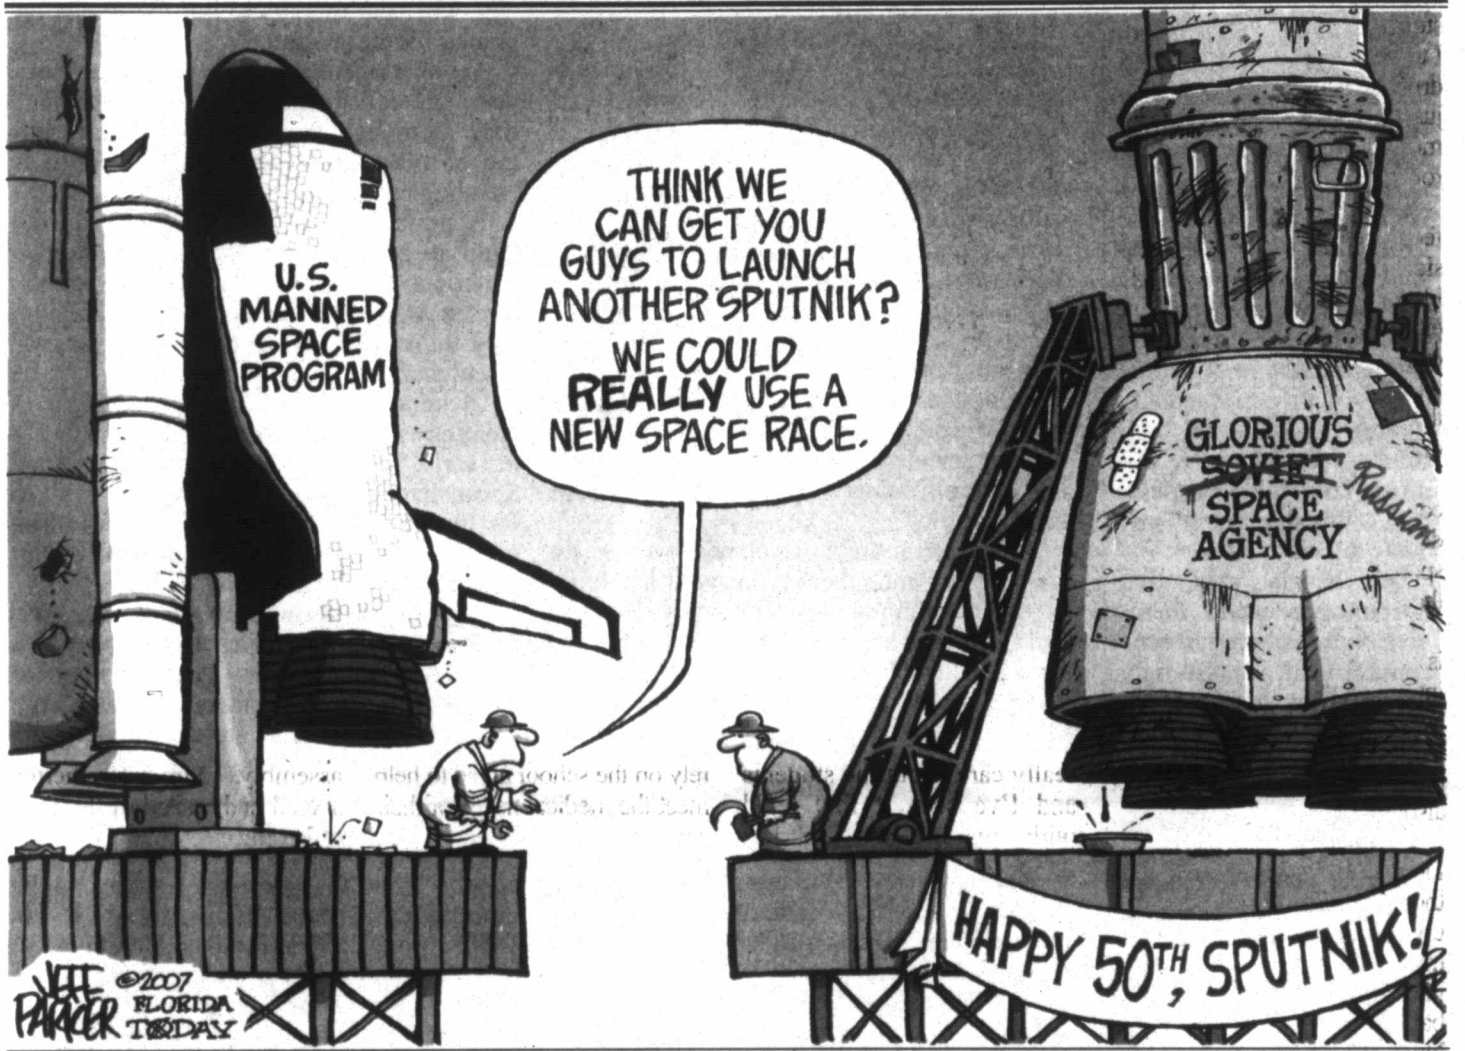

I've noticed in the paper that the Gray County commissioners discussed raising the rental of land at the airport for hangar space. It's been so long since it's been raised there is no longer any record of when it was. The highest price anyone pays is $750 a year for space for 3 hangers. There are three ways the county receives revenue: (1) hangar rental, (2) revenue from a contractor who runs the airport, and (3) rental from land at the McLean airport (for which the landowner receives a government subsidy for land layout). The airport receives about $9,000 and spends about $90,000. (Can't run my family budget that way.) Anyone can use the runway without any cost or use fees. I'm sure there must be several millionaires using Pampa's Perry Lefors Airport for almost nothing. I asked a commissioner about the small income from the airport and he said it had "always been like that."

Our judge and county commissioners are getting paid good money to take care of county business. I can hardly believe the most wealthy among us are being subsidized by the rest of us.

I have a camper and pay $500 per year for covered shelter and I pay $450 a year to use the golf course (no complaints from me there).

The Idle American: Outside the lines ...

The recent Oklahoma State University-Texas Tech football game was an entertainment classic, but comments and actions by the head coaches a few hours later swung the spotlight away from the game. It beamed straight toward them, darkening memories of a thrilling contest.

State won, 49-45, but Tech coach Mike Leach and OSU mentor Mike Gundy no doubt wish for mulligans.

Alas, there's no rewind, no pushing of toothpaste back into the tube. Cameras are rolling, microphones are hot and newspapers continue to buy ink by the barrel. ...

That Gundy would choose the post-game news conference to blister a writer about a column that didn't suit him and that Leach would make such a mess of discharging his defensive coach makes little sense. They violated the long-honored "time and place for everything" mantra.

Legitimacy of the coaches' views is not the issue. But the news conference was not the place for Gundy's diatribe, and Leach gets the prize for miserable timing.

A while back, a UT fan took umbrage at a billboard claiming OSU to be a "brighter shade of orange." He figures that if the ad campaign continues, maybe there should be an asterisk noting small-print explanation "except for the football coach." Meanwhile, out in Lubbock, surely Leach's blushing is a "brighter shade of red." *****

Late President Harry Truman, a highly quotable plain speaker, reminded that those who have an aversion to heat should stay out of kitchens.

"Kitchens" of big-time sports have become far too hot, with pressures far too great.

Coaches in all programs — major or in between — must remember that they are teachers and role models, like it or not.

It is said that when games are well-officiated, fans don't even realize the officials are there. Maybe the same goes for coaches. ... *****

More than a half century ago, my school superintendent/teacher, the late O.B. Chambers, repeatedly made this suggestion: "Win modestly and lose graciously."

It would be a good thing if this credo could be resurrected by CEO's of universities into big-time athletics.

"How quaint," would be some coaches' response. Others, committed to the tail-wagging-dog philosophy, would suggest that the CEO "butt out."

On a lighter note, Dr. Joe B. Rushing, a retired educator, is now well into his ninth decade. Maybe one of the reasons for his longevity is that he was spared athletic-related headaches. The retired chancellor of Tarrant County College was a CEO for some 30 years.

The Dallas Morning News on Kurds' talks with Hunt Oil:

In any other part of the world, this deal wouldn't have drawn headlines: The semi-autonomous Kurdish regional government in northern Iraq may be sitting on oil, and by signing an exploration agreement, Dallas-based Hunt Oil gets in the door early.

Iraq, however, is not just any other part of the world. It's a country divided along ethnic and sectarian lines with a central government in Baghdad trying unsuccessfully so far to hammer out an oil-revenue-sharing agreement among ethnic Kurds and Arab Sunnis and Shiites.

Moreover, as a matter of policy, the United States considers the equitable division of oil revenue essential to holding Iraq together and tamping down sectarian violence.

What makes for good timing in business doesn't necessarily make for good timing in geopolitics. The Baghdad government quickly denounced the deal as illegal, and President Bush, responding to a reporter's question, said he would be concerned if the deal disrupted oil-revenue-sharing talks. A senior State Department official in Baghdad told The New York Times on Thursday that the agreement had "needlessly elevated tensions."

Both Hunt Oil and the Kurdish government say that, in the absence of a national revenue-sharing law or any other restriction on regional autonomy, they can legally negotiate their own arrangement. Last month, the region's leaders passed their own oil exploration law, which is the basis for the Hunt deal.

Put aside for a moment the question of whether the Hunt contract has complicated the revenue-sharing talks, which frankly only time will determine. Even before the Kurdish province signed this deal, the Baghdad government had failed miserably to find consensus that satisfied all.

Nonetheless, the actions of the Kurdistan government, which sought

We pay when we use the Rodeo Grounds or M.K. Brown Auditorium. We pay when we go to our area lakes. We pay everywhere but the library, and I wouldn't mind a small fee there, too, since I use it a lot.

I say everyone who uses county property should pay a fair amount, and anyone who lands regularly on our airport should pay a fair amount.

I realize our commissioners court will do nothing about this unless enough people are interested in fairness and make their feelings public. If nothing happens about this matter, I hope we remember come election time.

Safety is an issue for all behind wheel

I normally don't moan and groan, but lately I couldn't help but notice the way some people are driving. Some are either speeding down the road then hit the brakes to come to a stop. Plus they are talking on their cell phones while coming to a stop. Now don't get me wrong, I too have made some mistakes driving (running a stop sign). I just wish some drivers would be more observant to their surroundings.

I know that nobody is a "perfect" driver, but please give consideration to your surroundings. I have had several close calls on either getting t-boned or rear-ended because the other drivers were either too busy talking on the phone or playing with their radio and not paying attention.

Usually when someone comes close to me, I either slow down or if I am doing under the speed limit, I will speed up to the limit.

I think what gets me the most is at the Somerville and Sumner intersection. I know that there is a stop sign for Somerville only. I recently had a lady think that there was a stop sign on Sumner also.

Fortunately she did stop after I let her know verbally that I had the right of way. Yes I was upset, but not enough to stop my car and cause a big scene. I just went on my way and verbally expressed my displeasure. No, she didn't hit me, but came close.

Anyway, please people, watch what your doing. Be considerate to the other cars out there.

Sometimes boo-boos need attention

After reading the letter from the mom upset that her child received an "over the counter medication" from the school nurse, I felt compelled to share my experiences with these nurses. I teach at another PISD school and my students go to the same nurses who work at Austin Elementary. Also, my daughter goes to school at Austin Elementary, and visits these nurses anytime she has a medical need.

This is my daughter's fifth year with Pampa schools. Since kindergarten she has had many situations requiring visits to the school nurse. My daughter never received any medications unless I brought the medicine in with a permission slip. My daughter wasn't even allowed a cough drop without a permission slip!

As a teacher in Pampa ISD, I have children each day complaining about ailments. The nurses send the students back to my classroom with a note to the parent if the child needs medication. The nurse also attempts to phone the parent so they can bring the medicine to the school. Additionally, the nurse will allow the parent to fill out a permission slip and leave the medicine so the nurse can administer the medicine.

However, there are times when one of my students simply has a small "boo-boo" that needs attention. It is a relief to the student (and myself) when he or she returns to the classroom after receiving an antiseptic and a Band-aid. Now this student can focus on learning. I don't know what type of "over the counter" medicine this child received, but I can't imagine her child being treated any differently than my students and my child have been.

The nurses at Austin school are the same two nurses who work at my school. The students, parents and faculty of these two schools are lucky to have these caring, kind and talented ladies there to care for the students. I've even seen these ladies with tears in their eyes after they have seen a student. They really care about the students and I've seen it first hand with my students and my daughter.

School staff inspires parent's trust

In response to last Sunday's letter to the editor ...

The state of Texas is not required to hire school nurses. PISD is fortunate to have six very qualified individuals taking care of its students. These nurses follow strict guidelines when administering medications. Parents are required to fill out a medication form when their child is bringing either prescription or over-the-counter medications from home.

Parents are also required to fill out a health form for their students. This form includes a place for allergies. This information is placed on a health card which is kept in the nurse's office. If there is no notation of allergies on the health form, that means there are no allergies that the parent is aware of. If the parent isn't aware of any allergies, there is no way they can expect the nurse to be aware of them. In addition, most allergic reactions start within a short time of application of medication.

Sometimes a situation arises when the nurse is required to use her best professional judgment. This may be something as simple as applying a bandage or as serious as notifying a physician or an agency for child welfare. These actions are within the nurse's scope of practice.

It is unfortunate that this event occurred. However, if a policy is in effect which does not allow a nurse to use her best professional judgment when evaluating a student, that effectively ties the nurses' hands. Eventually, the nurse will not be allowed to apply a Band-Aid without calling the parent and obtaining permission. Worse yet, the parent could be required to leave work, come to school and treat the student themselves. This could be not only inconvenient for the parent but also a poor use of one of the district's best resources, the school nurse.

This could also affect schools with a lower socio-economic population whose parents may rely on the school nurse to help meet the medical needs of their children.

My own child attends Austin Elementary. I know that when she is at school she is being looked after. I have complete trust in their staff, and I hope they know they have my total support.

Some animals get a bad 'rap'

Concerning the letter about the vicious dog in the 700 block of North Faulkner: If the nosy neighbor would mind her own business then there would be no problem, especially since she does not live in the neighborhood either.

And the letter also said that she hoped none of the kids got mauled or killed. Well, my kids have been around the dog and it doesn't bother them. I have even been in close contact with the animal.

If I was going to be attacked then it would have happened one of the many times that I have gone into their house. And if the neighbor who was so worried about it would not walk down the alley, then the dogs in the backyards would not have a reason to be barking and jumping at the fence toward her. My grandfather has owned this house for 41 years.

Causing a scene achieves nothing

I am writing in response to the letter from Karin Brotherton regarding her child being given an over the counter medication. She left out information which I feel led the reader to make incorrect assumptions. She failed to mention what the medication was. The child's throat was sprayed with Chloraseptic spray. I believe this product is a topical antiseptic. However, she did write her child had an adverse reaction to the spray hours later. She listed many names in her letter, but did not mention who diagnosed this adverse reaction. Did she take the child to seek medical care? Who diagnosed the reaction and how did they determine it was from the spray?

She also mentioned Ms. Owens yelling at her and kicking her out of her office and being more interested in the assembly. I believe the version she gave was incorrect. The assembly honoring Austin's 50th anniversary was about to begin and Mrs. Brotherton was in the lobby outside of the auditorium yelling. Ms. Owens invited her to come into her office and managed to calm her down. Ms. Owens explained she needed to begin the assembly and asked if they could discuss the situation after the assembly. Mrs. Brotherton agreed and waited in the front office and everything seemed to be fine.

After reading her letter in the paper I felt compelled to respond. I am frustrated to find out that as a working mother, I now cannot depend on the nursing staff to take care of my children as they are trained to do. This has been the practice within our school system for many years and as far as I know there has never been a problem. Many parents do not have the luxury of being able to take off from work and run up to the school for minor problems. I have always received a call when necessary, for example when my child has a fever or the nurse feels my child needs to go home or see a doctor. I trust the school nursing staff to make judgments based upon their training. I am sorry if the child did have an adverse reaction, but I also know many things can cause a minor reaction and it is not anyone's fault. Would she have been so quick to cause a scene if her child had an adverse reaction of the laundry detergent she uses at home? I am sorry she felt the need to try and ruin the reputations and careers of individuals over the use of a topical antiseptic.

College mixing it up with variety of continuing education courses

CLARENDON — This fall Clarendon College will be hosting a variety of continuing education classes with everything from floral design to Texas Hold'em to basic computer skills.

For those of you new to Texas Hold'em poker or those of you wanting to hone your skills "Texas Hold'em Poker" will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. beginning Oct. 17 and ending Nov. 19. Grett Betts will teach this class in room 101 of the administration building and the cost is $50. Texas Hold'em is an easy game to learn, just difficult to master. The "mastering" part is the costly part, especially in the traditional setting of a casino poker room. Thankfully, you can practice all you want for free in this class. Not only will you practice but you will learn how to bid and other strategies for winning.

"Introduction to Word Processing for Mature Beginners" is an 8-hour class to introduce mature beginners to Microsoft Word. Learn basic mouse concepts, computer terminology and how to organize computer files. This is an excellent class for mature adults in need of computer skills for the workplace. This class will meet on Tuesdays from 6 to 8 p.m. starting Oct. 23 and ending Nov. 6. Pam Denney will teach this class in room 203 of the administration building and the cost is $30.

"Introduction to Electronic Spreadsheets for Mature Beginners" is an 8-hour class will introduce mature beginners to Microsoft Excel. Learn basic mouse concepts, computer terminology and how to organize computer files. This class will meet Nov. 13, Nov. 27, and Dec. 4 from 6 to 8:40 p.m. in room 203 of the administration building. Pam Denney will team this class and the cost is $30.

Chriss Clifford will teach "Advanced Floral Design - Holiday Florals" and students will take the information from beginning floral design and learn how to apply it to holiday arrangements, wreaths, and swags. The class will meet on Mondays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. starting Oct. 29 and ending Nov. 19. The class will meet in room 106 of the administration building and the cost is $30.

"Holiday Gift Wrapping" will teach you gift wrapping and bow making techniques to make your gifts look extra special for the holidays. This class will meet on Monday, Dec. 3, and Monday, Dec. 10, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in room 106 of the administration building. Chriss Clifford will teach the class and the cost is $20.

For a copy of this schedule visit www.clarendoncollege.edu. If you are interested in any of the classed listed here or have suggestions for classes you would like offered in the future, give us a call at 806-874-3571 or 800-687-9737.

12th Annual Parenting Conference in offing

LUBBOCK — What's the best way to balance work and family? Is there a rule of thumb when trying to choose quality child care? What language is my teenager speaking these days? Am I losing my mind?

Parents can find the answers to these and other difficult questions at the 12th annual "Building Strong Families: Tools For Success" parenting conference set for Nov. 6 at the First Church of the Nazarene. The church is at 6110 Chicago Ave.

The conference is specifically designed for parents and professionals who work with and counsel parents in a 20-county area surrounding Lubbock.

The conference begins with registration at 8 a.m. and will run until about 3 p.m. It will feature local, area, and state presenters. Attendance typically ranges from 700 to more than 1,200 persons.

Concurrent morning and afternoon sessions will cover a variety of family topics. Spanish and English sessions are scheduled during each time period.

Morning speakers and sessions will cover topics including: balancing work and family; helping children of divorce; maintaining unity in marriage; using sign language with children; today's journey through adolescence; dealing with disturbing memories; common parenting mistakes; and choosing quality child care.

Two keynote speakers will address the conference. Dr. Steve Joiner, Lubbock Christian University, will present "Managing Conflict In Important Relationships" at 9 a.m. George Comiskey, Texas Tech University, will address "Family Fun Time" at 1:45 p.m.

Topics for afternoon sessions include: language and teenagers, reducing stress and forgetfulness, community anti-drug efforts, and today's journey through adolescence.

Educational exhibits from more than 30 agencies will showcase local resources for parents and families. Registration is $10 per person, and includes a continental breakfast and lunch. The registration deadline is Oct. 26.

Registration and other information is available by calling 806-792-5468, extension 831 or 836. Additional information about the conference is available from E. Kay Davis, Texas Cooperative Extension agent for family and consumer sciences in Lubbock County, at 806-775-1680.

The annual parenting conference was founded by the Lubbock County Partners for Parenting Coalition.

SUNDAY GARDENING with West Texas Landscape

Now that Fall has arrived you can dedicate some time to your water feature. Or even begin one, small or large they add such serenity to any location. Here are a couple of questions and answers that may help you out with your water feature.

Question: During freezing temperatures in the winter, do I need to empty my pond or leave it alone?

Answer: If you have a small pond and don't have fish it is best to remove water and if there is no reason to leave pumps, statues, etc... then remove them. If you have fish in your pond it should be at least 30" deep and have an aerator and pond de-icer for your fish to stay out during winter.

Question: How much salt can I use in my pond?

Answer: Ponds with plants - 1 pound per 100 gallons
Ponds without plants - 2 pounds per 100 gallons
Divide this into three consecutive days and dissolve salt in a container with water drawn from pond.

Houston to Paris on Air France, I was one of about 35 people in our group. About midway, when the cabin shades are pulled so people can sleep, a few passengers gathered in the back to talk and drink wine. My seat was second from the back, so I couldn't help but stay awake from the giggling and laughing. I realized several of our guys were in back flirting with two pretty French girls. At one point, one of the girls rushed forward four or five rows to her companions and pointing to the back, rapidly spoke something about "Afghanistan" in French. I realized those guys in back were bragging about going to Afghanistan, to become heroes and work on foreign soil while having to watch out for the deadly Taliban!

No. We're not heroes. We were going to Afghanistan to make money. Do you think we were there for anything else? Take away our pay, and what do you think we would do? We would go home.

Any hat we wore had to have the company logo on it. So when we bought a hat, we took it to a small embroidery shop on base and had the logo put on it, usually with our name and call sign. Some people bought jackets and had all sorts of words and dates embroidered on it, bragging about being in Afghanistan, as if it was a symbol of their accomplishments. Some of them would go home within a month or less - usually the first rocket attack culled those out. Some refused to get off the plane on arrival.

Most of the people who go over there to make money are worth their weight and do quality work for the military. But there are others who just should not be there on that side of the world, to "support" the War on Terror. Yet on the other side of the world from me were loved ones of the soldiers who struggle to make ends meet while praying for their safety. Those soldiers joined the military knowing the pay is low. When the rockets came, they couldn't decide if it's time to go home.

I will concede the soldiers have many things to make their service comfortable. The food served is actually good. I was quite surprised at the menus. Practically anything you could want for a meal, even fresh fruits: mangos, kiwi, bananas, etc. At times lobsters and crab legs are available. Steak is served often even for breakfast. After savoring a meal they can go to the fully equipped gym with an assortment of exercise machines. All the luxuries are there for the military to make their service more comfortable - and for those of us who are there for the money.

Entertainment is even provided. Just before one Christmas, Robin Williams came and gave a quick show. He is a very funny comedian, actor, and producer. His humor is a bit rough, but the show was packed. Robin Williams had several other people with him, including John Elway, the retired quarterback for the Denver Broncos. After the show I waded through the crowd to see Robin Williams "in real life." But a few weeks later I noticed a picture on my foreman's desk of him with the famous actor. Just the two of them. My boss had a big smile on his face as anyone would, but I noticed something I had not seen before. Robin Williams' eyes. I have not seen the eyes of an adult more drained of energy than his. Yet he stood up during the show and gave a performance with vigor and vitality. Even with all the money he has, his time and health was given for the entertainment of these soldiers - and for those of us who were there for the money.

When I was a young innocent boy in a parochial school, I remember a nun defining a hero as someone who gives their life for others. I had assumed giving one's life meant dying. I don't feel that way now. I am convinced someone can give their life for others and yet live. These soldiers are examples. Yes, the military has its share of losers. They are the ones who keep a supply of hash, opium, and other drugs purchased from the locals. Eliminate those soldiers because they are not giving their lives for others; they are destroying their lives for themselves. Just like on the streets of many cities. The losers.

If you were to talk to those people who are in it for the common good of mankind, you will find few who would admit to being heroes. My father served America during World War II at an airbase in Texas. He has talked about it from time to time, always as an interesting story but I do not ever recall hearing him complain about having to serve. If I had asked him if he regretted serving America, he would have found that to be an absurd question, yet he would not see himself as a hero.

'No, we're not heroes. We were going to Afghanistan to make money.'

In the first few months I was there, we had one of our co-workers pass away in his sleep. He was working to make a better life for his wife and two young kids. Is he a hero? To his family he is. Is being a hero relative only to family?

When we learned of his death, I really didn't think of it as anything but a very sad and unfortunate circumstance of being over there. So I was a bit surprised when supervisors started a fund to send to his family. The company gave a memorial service for him at the airfield when his body was brought in and solemnly placed in the big C17 for a final ride back to his family. Our employees stood in several rows on either side of the procession. I have never before heard so much silence come from over a thousand people. And add to that hundreds of military personnel attending a service for a young civilian they never knew. Would you see that as heroes honoring a hero?

It would be just a few months later, when the Special Forces would have a solemn procession of their own - one of many more to come - for one of their fallen comrades.

'This is one of those days I feel tired all over. I will go to bed early this evening.'

July 26, 2005

I watched something both beautiful and sad today. Soldiers from all the different forces gathered in a formation. Not knowing what was happening, I sat and waited, wishing I had my camera. Not just Americans, but British, Canadians, a few Romanians, and Dutch. Then I saw a long string of soldiers marching in double file from the Special Forces compound heading out to a C17 sitting out on the runway with its big ramp in the back lowered down. None of the men were smiling; and then I remembered seeing the flag at the SF compound at half staff.

As the main formation marched out to the big plane, I noticed several carpenters who work in the SF compound walking with them, so I followed behind. By the time we got out onto the flight line, about two to three thousand soldiers stood behind the big plane. I went over and waited under one of its huge wings to get out of the sun. It was extremely hot and I removed my hat.

Several members of the Afghan National Army showed up and spoke to some of the American officers through an interpreter. We waited quietly for about 30 or 40 minutes until a procession of five vehicles entered the flight line. As the last one went by, I noticed it had a coffin draped with an American flag. From where I was standing, I could not see where they parked, but a few minutes later someone spoke a firm command and all the troops went to attention. Another command and they all threw a salute and held it, each in their customary way. Several of the flag holders lowered their flags, but the American flag stayed tall and firm.

Minutes later a photographer led the procession filming the scene. Something like this should never be forgotten. Six or eight men carried the coffin up the ramp to the plane, followed by about a dozen more.

Another command was given and all withdrew their salutes and the flags returned upright. A few moments of silence, then another command was spoken and another salute made. Again, the flags were lowered and another coffin brought on board.

After a few minutes, the ramp on the plane was drawn up, and with commands given, the troops turned and marched back to their camps.

I have to make sure I remember the families these men left behind, and bring them into my thoughts for just a moment or two during the next week. It's the least I can do for them. The photographers will make sure these heroes will stay in the minds of those of honor, like their comrades who will continue to fight terrorism.

It's sad. People all over the world will view this war as something it's not. They want so bad to point fingers and make accusations, yet ignore the real cause of terrorism. Slowly, over time, each country will be affected by this evil. And yet some will still have the audacity to blame the United States. They want us to run and hide in a corner and admonish ourselves for being the defenders. I hope America never succumbs to that.

This is one of those days I feel tired all over. I will go to bed early this evening.

Sept. 10, 2005

I attended Mass for an airman killed in action. Instead of the usual dozen or so people attending Saturday evening Mass, I counted more than 150 of his fellow soldiers. I sat near the back and watched these good people who worked with the airman and knew him well. I could imagine them in their aircraft with all their weaponry and firepower, and fully cognizant of their missions. Many of these work first hand in the death they deliver, yet in a Mass to honor their fallen comrade, their love for life stands out. I saw it in their tears and heard it in their words. I cannot imagine more proof. They fully understand what many at home do not. This war is about the terrorism slowly moving into each country, like a cancer to the world.

In the few years I worked in Afghanistan, I attended three Christmas Masses. I enjoyed watching the soldiers enter the church, wishing each other "Merry Christmas," shaking hands and kissing cheeks. Each removed their hats as they entered with steam rising from those with shaved heads. Many times I marvel at the health these soldiers have and their peace of mind in a country such as this in a time of war. The many times I attended Mass in this country, I saw irony in having to watch where I walked in church due to the weapons on the floor. I now see the weapons as tools for the protection of things sacred. Unlike the violent religion of Islam, Christianity is a religion of compassion. The soldiers of this war who are fighting Islamic terrorism do not realize this is a religious war. They know only they are fighting those who wish to destroy us.

April 24, 2006

I came upon another ramp ceremony about to take place. Seems the good Lord puts me in these places just at the right time, but I also noticed I didn't have my camera again. It feels as if He doesn't want me to take pictures of these. It was like being in the morgue a few months ago where I saw the posting of the names of the recent fallen. Yet no matter how hard I tried to count the dozen or so names on the list, I could not. There are some things I am not allowed to do, so I have to engrave these images in my mind. If only the slate was made of granite instead of sandstone.

There were at least 2,000 soldiers already in formation. Several of the coffins had already arrived in armored carriers in a slow solemn procession. These are the four Canadians who died the previous Saturday. Their remains will be loaded into a C130 and taken back to their families. Canada has a news team in Kandahar I have seen from time to time, and were on the flight line filming.

As the last armored carrier arrived, someone in the U.S. formation gave a quick, sharp command, and the U.S. group went to attention. Afterward, the same took place for the Romanians, the French, British, Australians and then the Canadians. The Canadian chaplain is the Catholic priest I see at Mass every week, a very quiet and peaceful man. He spoke a few prayers and blessed the remains, but I was unable to hear what he said because of the distance and noise. I stood just off the flight line among a few other civilians and military personnel.

A bagpipe started playing a solemn melody as the four coffins were carried through the formation up the ramp of the plane. I watched several of the Canadian personnel taken out of the formation by others because of grief. One had to be carried after fainting. I watched the female newscaster turn and walk away from her crew so she could cry. How can anyone not be affected by this?

'A bagpipe started playing a solemn melody as the four coffins were carried through the formation up the ramp of the plane.'

In the months I worked there, I had the honor of attending several of these ramp ceremonies. I always wondered what families they left behind. The hundred or so flags on base are flown at half-staff for a week on report of a death. I even saw personal flags from individual tents, honoring heroes they did not know.

Everywhere on camp are the flags of many countries. Along with all sizes of "Old Glory" you can see the "Union Jack" of Great Britain, the Canadian flag, the Australian flag, French, Romanian, and Dutch. The Texas flag is prominent as well as several other state flags. The flag of any nation is a representation of it. Whether on a personal home, business, military installation, the peak of a mountain, the surface of the moon, or a grave, the purpose is the same - a country is represented there.

When the American flag is set at half-staff, it is first raised to the top, then lowered to half-staff. No one can bring America to its knees; but we as a nation will bend a knee to honor our heroes who have made it possible for this country to remain the most powerful and thus the freest nation on Earth.

Not only are we its people, we are America.

Who would you deem a hero? The big soldier stumbling under the weight, coming in from a dangerous forward operating base? I witnessed a soldier at the camp hospital carrying a little Afghan boy with head and leg wounds out to the latrine several times a day to relieve himself. Perhaps a menial task, but is he a hero? Ask the little one.

'Those who continue to use the Islamic religion for an excuse to hate and kill will make this war ongoing.'

I met an Afghan who fled to America as a child during the Russian-Afghan war who returned home to help rebuild the country of his heritage, and to put many of the local people back to work. Is he a hero? I know of a woman who helped write the part of the Afghanistan constitution concerning women's rights. Hero? How about the Afghan women who have the courage to run for public offices? I met Special Forces medics who take time to treat the locals who come to them for help, at times caring for young girls physically and sexually abused because of the Muslim's treatment of women. What about the people who give their time and talents to help lift the soldiers' spirits? Is my father a hero, who simply did what he had to do, because it was the right thing to do?

If these people are asked if they are heroes, what would they say? The dictionary defines a hero as a man admired for his achievements and noble qualities. One who shows great courage.

I walked among those who that defines. I was blessed to know these people and be a part of their task. Yet these are just the heroes on the war on terrorism. The world is filled with heroes. At any one time, many walk among us and never display their gift to us. Most will not see themselves as such; and many others pass away leaving only a memory and are never known for the good they do, except by the Almighty Creator. Those who build statues to themselves have their rewards.

"We live in a heroic age," Andrew Carnegie wrote in the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission's founding Deed of Trust in 1904. "Not seldom are we thrilled by deeds of heroism where men or women are injured or lose their lives in attempting to preserve or rescue their fellows, such the heroes of civilization."

Yet it is the quiet heroes of this world who truly sustain humanity. Leo Tolstoy once commented, "A political party has never accomplished anything for humanity. Individuals and geniuses have been the pioneers of every reform and of progress." I've found this to be so. The goodwill performed by any corporation, religion, or government is achieved at the human level. That is where you find the heroes. I find it difficult to imagine a world without them, for it is an impossibility. No government, no kingdom, no religion can keep heroes from existing. They will exist because of their very nature. They choose to light a candle rather than curse the darkness.

This is something I've had on my mind for years: who are the heroes in life? When I chose to write about this, it became an obsession. I would find myself in the dining facilities watching people, almost reading their minds. One particular night, while attending Mass, it flooded my mind to the point of tears. I tried to think of something else but it kept coming back over and over. I was never so glad for Mass to end that evening. And now, I still find myself in search of heroes, still watching and listening among those I walk with, those who are lighting the candles. I find myself searching the eyes I see and listening to the silence of others. Silence does not necessarily mean no words. It is in the stillness of people where the unsung heroes are found. I feel only after my life here is complete will I know who they are.

I went to work in Afghanistan for several reasons. One of which was to live it and write about it, but also to do something, no matter how insignificant to aid the war on terror. I was not allowed to handle any firearms. No one would let me throw any bombs out the window. Couldn't pull any triggers or lob any grenades. But I did something to allow me to express my words on this war, and this life. It's not unlike having to vote before you have a right to complain.

This was the land of the Taliban. It is now the land of the Afghan. Those who live here have to yield to it. I looked into their eyes and most times saw good, simple people; but I also saw hatred and its darkness in some of them. As a local contractor told me during my first year in Kandahar, all these people were Taliban at one time. They became such because it was the thing to do. After the United States destroyed its government, most became just people again, with desires, fears and needs like ourselves.

Those who continue to use the Islamic religion for an excuse to hate and kill will make this war ongoing. If the controls of our country are given to those who do not acknowledge this, we all lose. Our only consolation is, there will be a point in time when the Creator says, "Enough." It will then no longer be in our hands.

WT announces 2007-08 theater lineup

CANYON — Drama, music and comedy are on tap as the Branding Iron Theatre (BIT) at West Texas A&M University opens its 2007-2008 season in the Sybil B. Harrington Fine Arts Complex at West Texas A&M University.

This year's season features five productions staged for the University's two theatres — the BIT and the Happy State Bank Studio Theatre. Three are student-directed productions and two are faculty-directed productions.

"The Happy State Bank Studio Theatre was designed to be a student lab," Royal Brantley, professor of theatre and head of the Department of Art, Theatre and Dance, said. "I taught the directing class last year, and the top three students from that class were chosen to direct in the studio theatre this season."

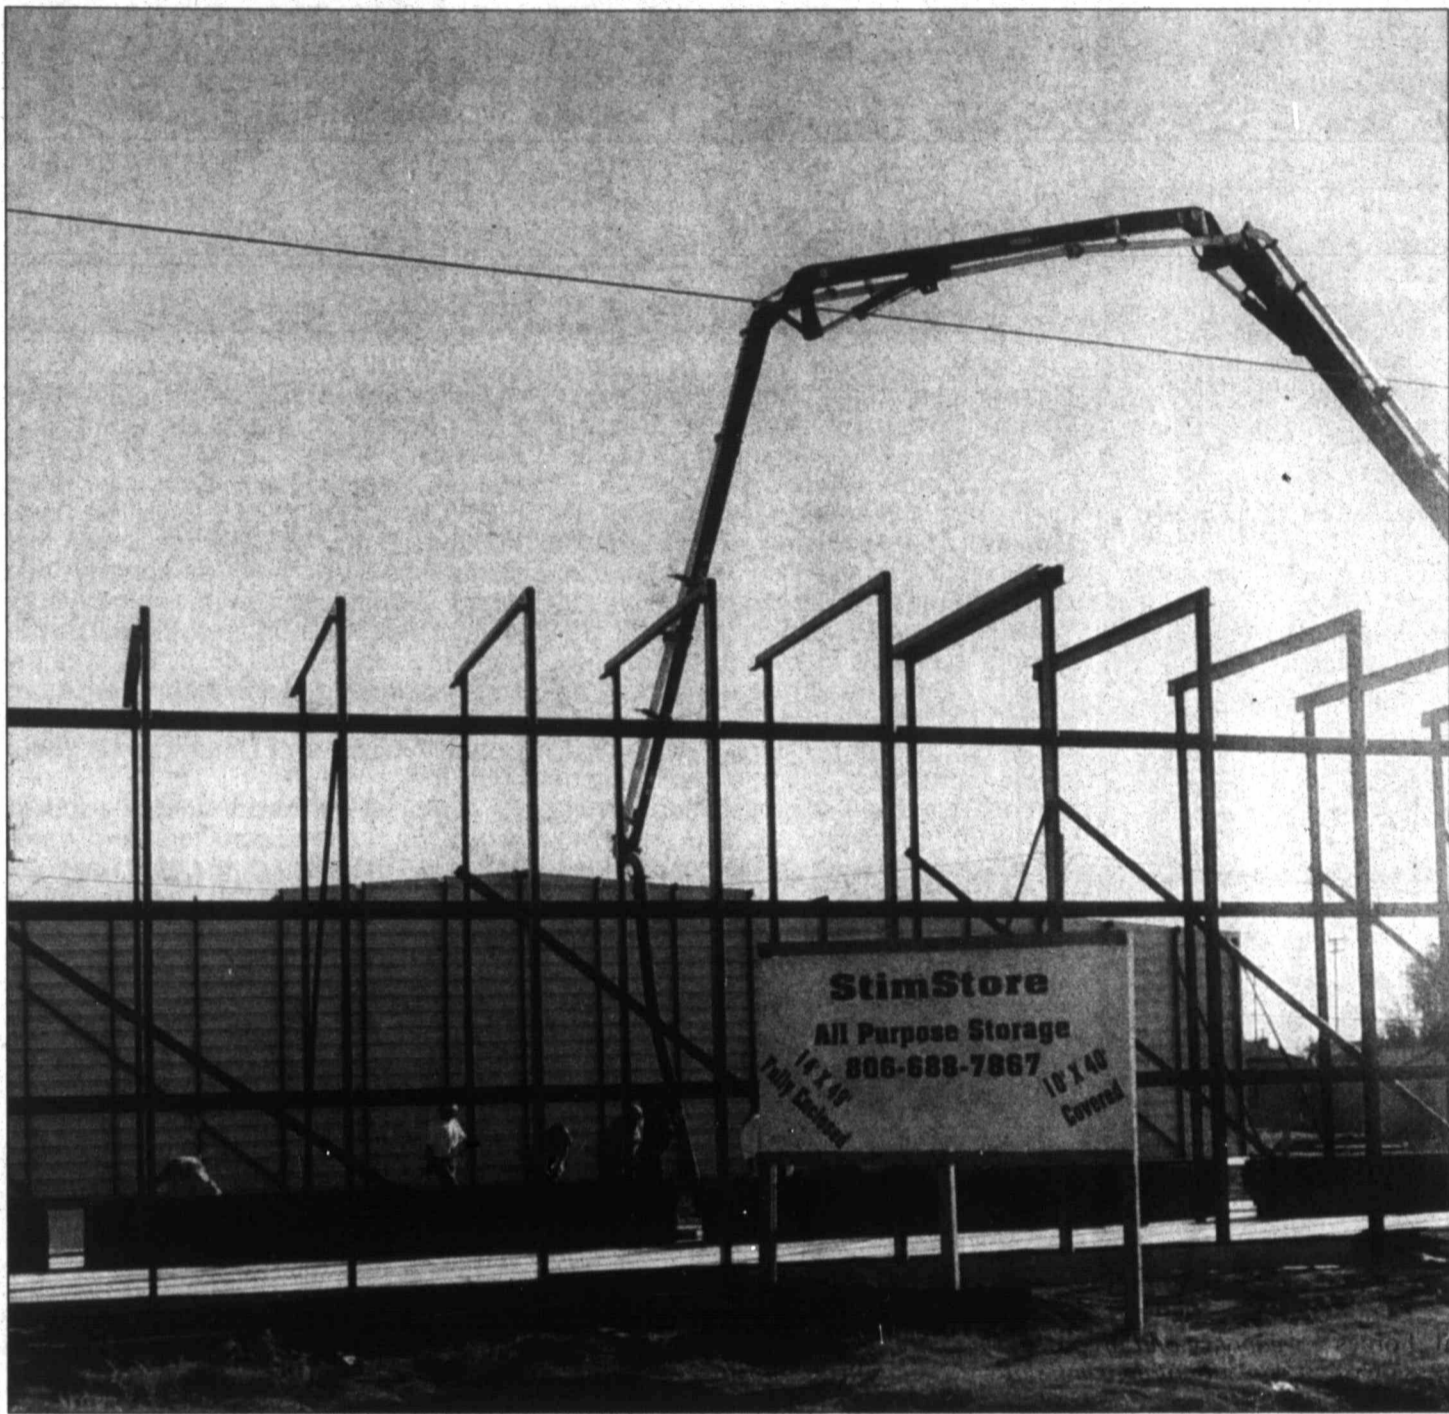

The BIT will open with "Cabaret," a musical by Joe Masteroff, John Kander and Fred Ebb. Performances are at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 17-20 and Oct. 24-27. "Cabaret" explores the relationship between Sally Bowles, a singer, and Clifford Bradshaw, a young American writer, and the scandalous world of the Kit Kat Klub right before the rise of Hitler's Third Reich. Perry Crafton, associate professor of theater, and Dr. Robert Hansen, professor of music, will direct, and Leslie Williams, assistant professor of dance, will be the choreographer. "Cabaret" is not recommended for children.

significant number of students ever mounted a campaign, and they didn't." (A strong intramural program worked well on the metropolitan campuses in his charge.)

Now a resident of Lampasas, he was befuddled during a recent trip to the grocery store, unable to find the 90-second rice. A friend tried to help out.

"Joe, here's rice that cooks in 21 minutes; will it do?" he asked.

"No way," Dr. Rushing countered. "I'm 86 years of age, and I don't want to spend 21 minutes of what time I've got left cooking rice!"

 Another friend, the Rev. Palmer McCown, doesn't quite know what to make of a comment offered following a recent graveside service.

Before it began, the daughter of the deceased was regretful that her mother's favorite hymn, "In the Garden," would not be sung.

"No problem," McCown responded. "I'm also a singer, and it's one of my favorites, too."

Following the service, she said, "Brother McCown, your singing would make the angels cry."

On the way back to town, the preacher re-thought the response.

"I'm not at all sure that she had a compliment in mind," he laughed. "When singers make me cry, I don't compliment them!"

 The minister, now semi-retired, is director of senior adult activities at his church.

Leaders are elected to what they call the Senior Advisory Group.

Oh, you're way ahead of me, aren't you? Yep, an acronym has cropped up. Members of the leadership group are called "SAG."

 I refuse to conclude in a negative vein, and will forego the opportunity to mention how few shopping days remain until Christmas. However, you might want to go ahead and shop for trick-or-treat goodies. But don't give out apples.

Some years back, a sweet little 5-year-old girl, dressed to the nines as Goldilocks, broadly smiled as she did the trick-or-treat bit. My neighbor dropped a big shiny apple into her half-filled bucket.

"You broke my #&%*# cookies!" the little tyke exclaimed. ...

play, written by Stephen Belber, tells the story of two high school friends, their long-held secrets and the fine line between memory, truth and perception. Performances are at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14-17. "Tape" is not recommended for children.

A William Shakespeare tragedy will open the spring semester when the BIT presents "Julius Caesar" at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 13-16 and Feb. 20-23. This production, adapted and directed by Brantley, will offer a new twist on Shakespeare's classical tale of political ambition.

The theatre season will close with the final student-directed production, "Unexpected Tenderness" on the studio theatre stage. Dustin Swartzell, a senior theatre major from Vernon, will direct performances at 7:30 p.m. April 23-26. The play, written by Israel Horowitz, is set in the 1950s and explores domestic violence in a blue collar family.

In addition to theatre productions, the BIT also is the site for other events.

"Having two main productions in the BIT allows elbow room for other events like Elie Wiesel," Brantley said. "We also have two dance concerts and a special collaborative event scheduled, and more than 200 high school students will visit our campus to compete in the statewide UIL One-Act Play contest.

"We are continuing to experiment with the new building, its performance venues, and how, with a limited staff, we can best serve our students, the University and our community."

The special collaborative event will see the WTAMU Chorale, Symphony Orchestra and dance program joining forces with the Canyon High School Choir and the Amarillo Boys Choir in a presentation of "Carmina Burana" March 6-7. The WTAMU dance program also will present its fall dance concert on Nov. 30-Dec. 1 and a spring dance concert April 18-19 on the BIT stage.

Tickets for WTAMU theatre productions are priced at $10 to $15 each for reserved seating and $7 to $9 each for senior citizens and children 12 and under. Season tickets are available and offer ticket holders convenience and savings. Group rates also are available. For more information, call the BIT box office at 806-651-2804.

UNITED WAY CAMPAIGN

Crisis center gives victims of domestic abuse a 'place to go'

About 25 years ago, a Pampa social worker's heart sank as he watched a badly beaten woman he had just counseled leave the hospital emergency room with the man who had caused her injuries.

She left with her attacker — her husband — because she had nowhere else to go.

That night Travis Plumlee vowed he would do something about this deplorable situation. He turned that vow into action and with the help of a caring community, Tralee Crisis Center for Women, Inc., came into being.

For more than 20 years, Tralee Crisis Center has given thousands of women victims of violent crime a place to go. It has grown to include eight counties covering approximately 6,400-square miles and serves an estimated population of 51,639 people.

Tralee offers a "place to go" for hurting victims with nowhere else to turn. It offers a place to go for law enforcement and social service agencies to refer victims of violent crimes.

Tralee's 24-hour secure, homelike shelter can provide a comfortable, safe environment for up to 30 victims. Last year, 91 victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and other crimes took refuge there. The majority were women with their children seeking refuge from violent situations.

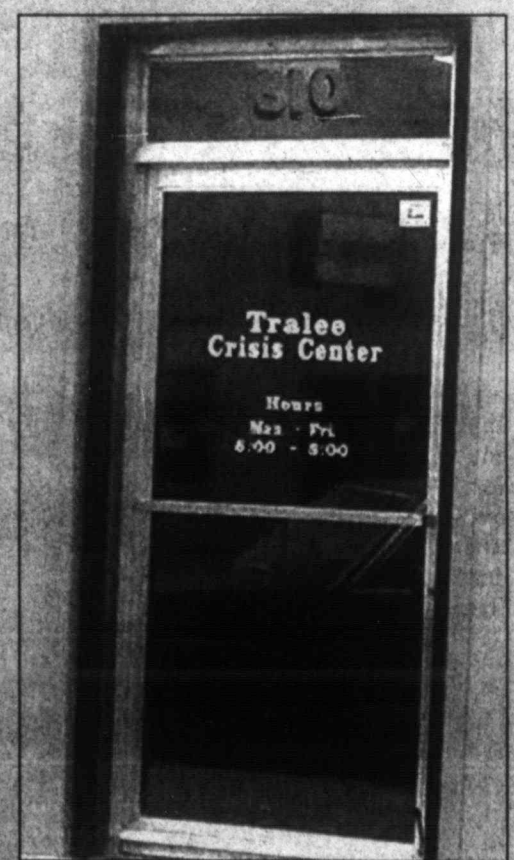

Victims from throughout the eight-county area can also go to Tralee for crisis intervention. They can call a 24-hour, 365-day-a-year hotline for help with crisis situations.

Manned by trained hotline volunteers and experienced staff members, the hotline is often the first step for women in their journey toward a better life.

In 2006, 1,472 persons called the hotline about family violence, sexual assault and other crimes. More than 500 calls were for information and referrals.

In 2006, 733 victims sought help from Tralee. The center provides emergency transportation, crisis intervention, peer counseling and a caring person to accompany rape victims during sexual assault exams.

Tralee helped establish SANE (Sexual Assault Nurse Exam) programs at the Pampa and Childress hospitals, helping ease an already traumatic experience for sexual assault victims by cutting down the time needed to drive to Amarillo and wait for the exam to be conducted which sometimes could take hours.

Tralee's experienced advocates provide court accompaniment, assistance with protective orders and crime victim compensation applications and guidance through the legal process. Weekly women's group meetings are based on an empowering curriculum.

Victims are assisted with clothing, food and household goods through donations from the community. Tralee works with other agencies to ensure clients receive the services they need.

Tralee recognizes that many residents of its service area are silent victims of domestic abuse and sexual assault. By

Amarillo Symphony to celebrate magic of movie music

AMARILLO — The Globe-News Center will be transformed into a glittering Hollywood party spot as the Amarillo Symphony celebrates the greatest movie music ever written.

In its Oct. 19-20 concerts, the Symphony will play selections from a cavalcade of popular films, including "Gone with the Wind," "Psycho," "Dances with Wolves," "West Side Story" — even "Groundhog Day."

But the fun won't just be on stage.

"We've never put on a concert like this before," said

Nathan Newbrough, the Symphony's executive director. "Actually, calling it a 'concert' really isn't accurate. It's truly going to be an experience."

Concertgoers will be treated to a red-carpet arrival straight out of an Oscars ceremony. Inside, the lobbies of the Globe-News Center will look like a fantasy movie house, with decorations designed by Freeman's Fresh Flower Market. Ushers will be on hand with complimentary bags of popcorn, and the audience will be treated to some surprises during the concert, as well.

"We were incredibly inspired by the music," Newbrough said. "Our guest conductor, Emil de Cou, has helped design a phenomenal program that was just begging for a party, and we're glad to provide it."

Concerts begin at 8 p.m. in the Globe-News Center for the Performing Arts. Tickets normally run from $18 to $56 ($16 for students and seniors), but by taking advantage of the Fly Standby with the Symphony offer, many audience members will get their seats for $15 each in some of the best seats in the house. For these limited standby seats, call the Symphony office at 376-8782 or visit www.amarillosymphony.org. Otherwise, patrons can purchase tickets through Panhandletickets through its several outlets, via phone at 378-3096 or its Web site, www.panhandletickets.com.

Film music inspired de Cou, now the associate conductor for the National Symphony Orchestra in Washington, D.C., to pursue a conducting career.

"My history teacher took me and some friends to see Disney's 'Fantasia' when they re-released it when I was a junior in high school. This was before everything was out on video. Hearing all of this music in a movie theater just blew my mind," de Cou said. "When I left the theater, I knew this was what I wanted to do for the rest of my life."

After high school, he continued to play the French horn for seven years, including time spent studying at the Music Academy of Vienna. But soon, conducting — and a realization that life as a professional horn player was exceedingly difficult — led him in new directions. After working with such organizations as the American Ballet Theater and the San Francisco Symphony, de Cou was hired in 2002 as the assistant conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra and was promoted to associate conductor the following year.

A great deal of his work still focuses on pops concerts, many featuring music from the movies.

"There is something just so captivating about the combination of music and images," de Cou said. "When you have a program like this, it ties into the dramatic undercurrent of the music and how it was set in its original context in the film, and the audience responds to that."

The concert weekend also will feature pianist Karl Shymanovitz, featured in the Warsaw Concerto heard in "Dangerous Moonlight" and Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini, a Sergei Rachmaninoff piece that has been used in several films, including "Groundhog Day" and "Somewhere in Time."

Since 1924, the Amarillo Symphony has been filling audiences with an unbridled enthusiasm for the performance and discovery of great orchestral music. As the only professional orchestra in the Panhandle area, the Symphony employs 85 skilled musicians to perform for more than 2,300 subscribers each year.

In addition to its regular concerts, the Symphony offers an array of successful education programs, from youth orchestras to specialized music programs for underprivileged children, bringing the gift of music to thousands of young people throughout the Texas Panhandle each year.

For more information, please contact Nathan Newbrough, executive director, at 376-8782.

Harvesters improve to 3-2 over Plainview

By JORDAN REAGAN
Sports Editor

With their heads held high Friday night, the Pampa Harvesters left Greg Sherwood Memorial Bulldog Stadium with another positive win-loss record and a much needed victory over the Plainview Bulldogs.

"It was definitely great to get a scoreboard win," head coach Andy Cavalier said. "It validates all the things we talked about this week regarding teamwork and commitment."

Senior running back Shavious Kelley scored three Pampa touchdowns to put the Harvesters ahead 21-6 in the Harvesters' first victory since Sept. 6 when the team played Lubbock Estacado on Lowrey Field.

Kelley finished Friday night with 112 yards rushing and junior quarterback Casey Trimble had 168 yards passing.

The game opened with a long kickoff return by Plainview, but the drive was not successful. With just over two minutes remaining in the quarter, Pampa lit up the scoreboard when Kelley ran for 28 yards for the Harvesters' first touchdown.

The extra point by Colby Copeland was good to put Pampa ahead 7-0. Pampa then forced Plainview to punt from where they received the kickoff after the first touchdown, and the quarter ended with Pampa on the Bulldog 20-yard line.

Pampa slowly worked their way closer to the end zone, and in a risky 4th down play, a quarterback sneak by Casey Trimble picked up a first down on the 4-yard line, but an illegal motion on the next play put Pampa back on the 9.

A pass to Andy Parker got Pampa to the 3-yard line in the next play, but another penalty on the Harvesters, this time unsportsmanlike conduct, put Pampa back again, this time on the 18-yard line.

With 8:43 left on the clock, the Harvesters' attempt at a second touchdown ended with a turnover on downs.

Ex-Bills coach takes Cowboys to Buffalo

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Wade Phillips is heading back to Buffalo and insisting it's no big deal.

He's already coached there once since the Bills fired him following the 2000 season, so muscle memory won't tug him toward the home locker room.

He's not the revenge type, so there won't be any fiery speeches for his team to stick it to his old bosses.

Heck, about the only significance he'll attach is the chance to visit old friends.

Do you believe him?

While it's all true, there's no way this is just another road game to Phillips. In his brief tenure as coach of the Dallas Cowboys, he's showed so much pride in his career accomplishments and talked about how this job will likely seal his legacy that he deserves to do some strutting Monday night.

His team is 4-0, and for all the highlights from Tony Romo, Terrell Owens and DeMarcus Ware, the real buzz is how much "fun" the team is having. Crack the code and what everyone is really saying is how much more they enjoy playing for Phillips than his predecessor, Bill Parcells.

"I'm just fortunate enough to be around him," Romo said.

The respect is mutual, of course, another reason why Phillips has no grudge against Buffalo—especially not with the Bills languishing at 1-3 and likely to miss the playoffs for the seventh straight year since his departure. Buffalo has had only one winning season in that span and has a cumulative record of 39-61; Phillips went 29-19 over three years.

"There aren't many guys with winning records in the NFL as a head coach. I was one of those guys when I left Buffalo," said Phillips, who visited Western New York last year when he was running San Diego's defense. "As a head coach or a coordinator, I've been lucky, I've been real lucky. But I think I've had a little bit to do with it."

utes later on the clock, Shavious Kelley returned a punt to the 42-yard line, then ran the ball to Plainview's 24 in the play that followed to put Pampa within scoring distance again.

As Pampa drove closer to the end zone, another charge for illegal procedure put the Harvesters back a little further and kept them from scoring once again.

The score remained 7-0, Pampa, going into halftime.

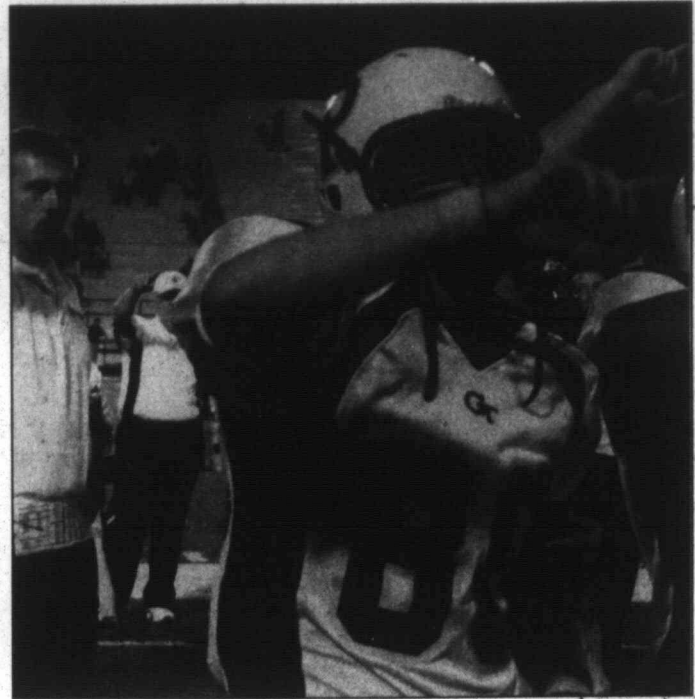

Less than a minute into the second half, Trimble took matters into his own hands, running from the Harvester 34-yard line to the Plainview 14.

Following immediately, Shavious Kelley ran the ball into the end zone for Pampa's second touchdown to make the score 14-0, with the extra point.

Less than three minutes into the fourth quarter, a long pass to receiver Wayne Parker moved Pampa from their own 32-yard line to Plainview's 15.

Another touchdown by Shavious Kelley with seven minutes remaining, and an extra point put Pampa ahead 21-0.

After the kickoff, in a short drive back to the Harvesters' end of the field, the Plainview Bulldogs put sophomore receiver Anthony Castillo in the end zone for the team's first touchdown.

The two-point conversion was unsuccessful as the Bulldogs trailed behind Pampa 21-7.

In the Harvesters' next drive, a 35-yard pass to receiver Heath Skinner put Pampa on Plainview's 44-yard line, but the Harvesters did not manage to get close enough.

In Pampa's last drive, another desperate quarterback sneak by Trimble on fourth down got Pampa a first down on the Bulldog 29-yard line. Trimble then threw an interception to Plainview's Tanner Velasquez, and the Bulldogs ended the game with another unsuccessful drive.

"I hope we learned that a road trip victory is good to get anytime you can get it," Cavalier said, "We were able to go into a hostile environment and finish a game, which we have talked about all week."

The Harvesters will play at home next week, against Caprock at 7:30 p.m. Friday on Harvester Field.

Winless Dolphins expect run defense to be tested by Texans

HOUSTON (AP) — Miami's Jason Taylor didn't have to think too hard to figure out what to expect from Houston on Sunday.

"It wouldn't take a genius to figure out that we have a problem with the running game right now," he said. "I fully anticipate Houston to do the same thing that Oakland did, that Washington did and the Jets did. And we're going to see it until we stop it."

The winless Dolphins are allowing an NFL-worst 199 yards rushing a game. The good news for them is that the Texans have averaged just more than 63 yards rushing the last two games with starter Ahman Green out with a knee bruise.

He'll likely miss Sunday's game, giving backup Ron Dayne his second start of the season. Dayne had 15 carries for 62 yards against Atlanta, but couldn't convert three third-and-1 plays.

Coach Gary Kubiak said he changed the pattern of practice this week to devote more time to getting the running game back on track. The Texans rushed for more than 100 yards in each of their two wins, but have lost the last two when the ground game stalled.

"It's an attitude," Kubiak said. "It's something you've got to be committed to. We tried to be committed to it the other day until we got down, but we're not going to run away from it by any means. We need to find a way to do it."

Miami's struggles in defending the run have some questioning whether the defense still has faith in coordinator Dom Capers, Houston's head coach for four seasons. Taylor said everyone has to share the blame.

"Dom has proven over a length of time that he knows what he's doing," Taylor said. "It takes more than just coaching to make this thing work. It takes players, too. Right now the players aren't doing a very good job and I'm sure Dom would say he was doing some things wrong, because everyone looked at it that way."

Ramirez hits game-winner to lift Red Sox over Angels for 2-0 lead

BOSTON (AP) — Los Angeles manager Mike Scioscia made his choice. Boston slugger Manny Ramirez made it the wrong one.

Ramirez hit the ball far over the seats behind the Green Monster after David Ortiz was walked intentionally and sent the Angels on a cross-country journey in the middle of the night.

They were headed for what could be their last game of the year after the Red Sox beat them 6-3 on Ramirez's three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth Friday night.

"The only real devastating loss in the series is when you lose that third ballgame, so we're still alive," Scioscia said.

Barely. With the score tied 3-3, Scioscia chose to have Francisco Rodriguez walk Ortiz, putting runners at first and second with two outs. That seemed to make sense since Ortiz had reached base on 20 of his previous 24 plate appearances.

But the next batter was Ramirez.

"They're about as good a 1-2 combo as there is in this league," Scioscia said.

Ramirez took Rodriguez's first pitch for a ball. Then the star closer threw one more pitch.

"The ball got elevated a little bit and he hit it," catcher Mike Napoli said. "End of game."

Ramirez missed 24 games late in the season with a strained left side muscle and is coming off his worst full season offensively.

But he had a solid final week. And he was ready for his confrontation with K-Rod.

"He's one of the greatest closers in the game and I'm one of the best hitters in the game," Ramirez said.

To bring the AL division series back to Boston for a fifth game next Wednesday, the Angels must beat perennial postseason star Curt Schilling on Sunday and staff ace Josh Beckett, who pitched a four-hit shutout in the opener, on Monday. Jered Weaver is set to face Schilling.

They have a day off Saturday to shake off the disappointment of their 2-0 deficit in the best-of-five series.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

Sealed Proposals addressed to Peggy Baer, Mayor, City of McLean, P.O. Box 9, McLean, Texas 79057 for the construction of a booster pump station and associated appurtenances, entitled

WATER DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM IMPROVEMENTS PUMP STATION MODIFICATIONS TEXAS COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT

CONTRACT No. 726421 will be received by City of McLean, in the City Commission Chambers at City Hall, 220 North Main Street, McLean, Texas until

Thursday, October 25, 2007 3:00 PM

The bids will be publicly opened and awarded at 3:30pm, Thursday, October 25, 2007, in the City Commission Chambers at City Hall, 200 North Main Street, McLean, Texas.

A cashier's check, certified check or acceptable bidder's bond, payable to the City of McLean in an amount equal to not less than five percent of the bid submitted, must accompany each bid as guarantee that, if awarded the contract, the bidder will, within fifteen days after receipt of Contact Documents, enter into a contract with the City of McLean and will execute bonds on the forms provided in the contract Documents. Any bid received after the time and date listed above will be returned unopened and will not be considered.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the federally determined prevailing (Davis-Bacon and Related Acts) wage rate, as issued by the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs and contained in the contract documents, must be paid on this project. In addition, the successful bidder must ensure that employees and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of race, religion, sex, age, or national origin. Bidders are expected to inspect the site of the work and inform themselves regarding all local conditions.

Contract Documents are on file and may be examined in the office of the City of McLean, City Hall, 220 North Main Street, McLean, Texas, phone (806)779-2481. Plans and Specifications may be obtained from the Engineers, Brandt Engineers, 4357 Canyon Drive, Amarillo, Texas 79110, phone (806)353-7233 in the following manner.

Public Notice

1 Public Notice

Cost: One Hundred ($100.00), non-refundable, for each set of plans and specifications. Performance and Payment bonds shall be set forth in the Contract documents.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any informalities in the bidding. In case of ambiguity or lack of clarity, the Owner reserves the right to adopt such interpretations as may be most advantageous or to reject the bid as informal. No bid may be withdrawn until the expiration of 30 days from the bid opening date.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Oct. 7, 2007:
Discover the power of forethought and planning. Sometimes others might judge that you are immobilized, you seem so quiet. Little do they know just how busy your mind is, working overtime. You actually might not appreciate spending so much time alone, but you could decide that thinking time is important when eyeing the results. Finances score as a big issue. If you are single, make sure the apple of your eye is available. You will tend to draw people who aren't exactly as they appear. If you are attached, time spent on weekends as a couple will enrich your bond. VIRGO is your natural healer.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Relax and don't give in to a sense that you must have everything done yesterday. With a little R and R, you will get much more done when you feel like tackling a job. Pick up the phone and return calls. Tonight: Find your favorite armchair.

This Week: Your good work ethic could make the difference between success and disaster.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ If you have a tendency to be a flirt or more kidlike and playful, act out. Listen to your instincts with a person who might be unusually solemn or withdrawn. A few words might open the door. Tonight: Frolic in your favorite pasture.

This Week: Reining in your imagination could be close to impossible, but daily life calls!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Stay close to home or invite family over. Everyone needs time to recycle with his or her closest kin. Some might want to check out a real-estate investment. A purchase made now would be very long to come to term. Tonight: Return calls.

This Week: You get going very slowly but become an undeniable force by mid-week.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Add that extra pizzazz to a situation. You know when to defer to someone's stern attitude. As a result, a discussion paves the way to better understanding because of the respect you give this person. Tonight: Dinner with friends.

This Week: Speak out and identify where you would like to make changes. Thursday, send a resolution from your mind to the universe.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ Defer to reason and necessity. Someone might need a special offer or gesture. Don't clam up at the last moment. The more open you are, the better the end results will be. Share your feelings with an eye to a better relationship. Tonight: Make it your treat.

This Week: Your focus will swing mid-week. You also will be more at ease from Tuesday on.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ You might want to understand more but could close down at the last minute. Your strong energy and willingness to make an inquiry separate you from the majority. A conversation, though difficult at first, will flow. Tonight: Enjoy being top dog.

This Week: Charge into work Monday. You might be hard to stop once you get an idea in your brain.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ Take your time. If you are feeling vulnerable or uncomfortable, step back. Use your feelings to guide you in a new direction. If you follow your instincts about a financial matter, you'll gain. Don't push yourself at all. Tonight: Vanish if you want.

This Week: Aim for more of what you want after Tuesday, when the Force will be with you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ A friend might not be able to ask you for what he or she wants. You have a lot to share with a friend or loved one. Through being open, you'll succeed beyond your expectations. Someone cares very much. Tonight: Where the crowds are.

This Week: Zoom in and make what you want happen Monday, while you can. Your energy dissipates as the week moves on.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ Tension builds and unfurls its vibes all over the place. You might feel like rebelling and heading in a new direction. As you juggle opposing wishes, stay on the preordained path. Don't react right now. Tonight: A force to be dealt with.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ If you sense many conflicting wishes, pull back. You might see the thread that lumps all of these different facets together. Only then can you pull a project or event together. Others are full of surprises. Tonight: Let your mind wander. Relax.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ You might want to defer to an important friend or loved one. You might be delighted when this person decides to start up a talk. You will be more relaxed as a result. You don't need to take the lead. Tonight: Be with your special person.

This Week: Let someone have his voice, but still let your bohemian mind break into new turf.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ Allow others to dominate and take a step forward. How you handle a situation could change after a talk. You could be more comfortable after this discussion. Someone at a distance could be pushing you hard to do what he or she wants. Tonight: Defer, defer, defer.

This Week: Others want the limelight; let them have it.
