U. S. Recognizes Soviet Policy In Europe, Byrnes Tells Forum

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes declared tonight that the United States is "fully aware" of Russia's "special security interests" in the countries of Eastern and Central Europe and will never join in intrigues against them.

At the same time he expressed confidence Russia would keep hands off the Americas.

Approves Soviet Leadership

Byrnes implied American favor for a kind of Monroe doctrine arrangement under Soviet leadership in Eastern and Central Europe, but spoke out strongly against forceful imposition of the Soviet system on any country.

Byrnes and two of his fellow cabinet members, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and Secretary of War Patterson, were among the speakers at the final session of the New York Herald Tribune forum on current problems.

Leaders Ask Cooperation

General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, who addressed the forum by radio from Wiesbaden, Germany, said international cooperation must meet the challenge of "suspicion, hungry, privation, fear of disease and fear of death" or face world chaos."

Secretary Patterson outlined a five-point program for national security and understanding world peace, while Schwellenbach declared that "stubborness, greed, ambition and malice must be eliminated if we are to solve our labor-management problem."

President Truman, in a message to the forum, said "it is incumbent upon all of us as we move into the task of reconversion to bear constantly in mind the responsibility of victory." He said "we need all of the counsel and guidance that can be obtained through discussion of such paramount problems as those presented by proposals to control atomic energy; to strengthen international relations; to merge the Army and Navy; to adjust the differences between management and labor; to determine a price and wage stabilization policy, and a fair and equitable system of taxation."

Byrnes called for complete integration of regional systems into the world-wide system of United Nations and said that in this atomic age:

"There must be one world for all of us or there will be no world for any of us.'

Cites U. S.-Soviet Friendship

Much of his speech was a statement of American friendship for Russia. He said this country could not deny to other nations the right to develop a regional policy such as it has fostered on the basis of the Monroe Dostrine in the Western hemisphere.

"Far from opposing, we have sympathized with, for example, the efforts of the Soviet Union to draw into closer and more friendly association with her Central and Eastern European neighbors," he said.

"We are fully aware of her special security interests in those countries and we have recognized those interests in the arrangements made for the occupation and control of the former enemy states.

"We can appreciate the determination of the people of the Soviet Union that never again will they tolerate the pursuit of policies in those countries deliberately directed against the Soviet Union's security and way of life.

"And America will never join any groups in those countries in hostile intrigue against the Soviet Union. We are also confident that the Soviet Union would not join in hostile intrigue against us in this hemisphere."

Truman's Plea Fails To Get Quick Action

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — President Truman's plea for higher wages without general price increases tonight had produced no perceptible break in capital-labor tension.

The President's companion appeal for speedy enactment of jobless pay and "full employment" legislation likewise failed to stir up any action in Congress.

Words And No Action

In Congress—at which he beamed his first sharp criticism for not passing his jobless pay and "full employment" bills—reaction to the wage-price policy split along the usual party lines, some Democrats applauding, some Republicans critical.

Thus the situation remained—at least on the surface—pretty much as it was before Mr. Truman talked Tuesday night: Labor and management looked at each other across a stone wall of disagreement.

BUS WORKERS STRIKE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Four thousand employes of the Greyhound Bus lines, serving New England and points as far west as Chicago, struck tonight at midnight for pay raises of from three-fourths of a cent to a full cent more per mile. Effects of the strike became evident slowly. No immediate sign of its results was shown here at midnight. Bus drivers — of who approximately 2,000 are striking —said they would finish their runs or shifts before stopping work.

Meeting Next Step

Mr. Truman himself apparently now was waiting to see what labor and management—when they meet here Nov. 5 at his request—will do toward agreeing between themselves on some solution for the whole wage problem.

Some people closest to the President's economic thinking said his latest statement on wages and prices was hardly more than a restatement of the policy he laid down last Aug. 18 after the Japanese surrendered.

Briefly, the policy was and is this: Wages can be raised without government approval if they don't mean price increases but if they mean price increases then approval will be given in comparatively few cases at this time.

Strike Votes Planned

Meanwhile the CIO Packing House Workers—with contracts in about 200 plants — have notified the government they want to vote on whether they'll strike. They'll vote 30 days from now. They want higher pay.

Federal conciliators worked to head off a strike of Greyhound Bus drivers and garagemen—AFL members — at midnight tonight. They want more pay. They threaten to tie up virtually all bus travel east of the Mississippi river.

Area Tense In New Flareups

By RALPH MORTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

BATAVIA, Java, Oct. 31 — British reinforcements including warships and fighter planes were reported speeding to trouble spots in Java tonight after the Allied commander warned Indonesians in a stern ultimatum that unprovoked attacks would be crushed ruthlessly.

The ultimatum, inspired by the killing of British Brig. A. W. S. Malaby at Soerabaja, came as 900 Indian gurkhas battled to put down a new Indonesian uprising at Magelang, where strong nationalist forces appeared to be massing.

President Appeals to People

President Soerkarno of the unrecognized "Indonesian republic" was scheduled to broadcast to his people tonight to remain orderly, and announced he would fly tomorrow to Magelang in Central Java to try to halt the fighting.

Meanwhile, Soerkarno announced we would begin informal discussions tonight with acting Governor General Hubertus Van Mook on Indonesian demands for independence. There was no confirmation immediately either from Dutch or British sources.

Important Developments Imminent

A British Army spokesman said there would be extremely important developments in the Indonesian situation within the next 24 hours. He did not amplify.

The Dutch news agency Aneta said the British had sent an urgent request for reinforcements to the Southeast Asia command in Singapore and that the reguest has been granted. Aneta said 16 Mosquito bombers were due to arrive today and a full RAF squadron tomorrow.

The dispatch also said all available British warships were ordered to Soerabaja immediately and that aircraft were being rushed there to evacuate European women and children interned in the vicinity.

Using Jap Weapons

British Lt. Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Netherlands East Indies, declared that Mallaby was "foully murdered" by the Indonesians at Soerabaja while trying to arrange "details of a cease-fire order."

Christison declared the "unauthorized surrender" of the Japanese to a Dutch captain had given the Indonesians at the Soerabaja Naval base huge quantities of arms, including tanks and armored cars, which were used against the British.

Sordid Account Of Jap Orgies Related In Yamashita's Trial

By DEAN SCHEDLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Thursday, Nov. 1—A sordid account of 25 young girls being raped in a night long orgy by Japanese officers and men was detailed behind locked doors today at the war crimes trial of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

Seventh Fleet is scheduled to land troops. Military police flanked every door of the high commissioner's resident, with press and public excluded, as women testified at the trial.

Happened During Batile

The women's story, as briefed for the press:

On Feb. 9, while the battle for Manila was on, some 400 females —young women, old women, children — were taken from their homes in Ermita district of Manila and separated into groups.

Twenty-five young girls were chosen by the Japanese and taken to a small restaurant where food and drink was forced upon them.

Then the girls were taken to the top floor of the Bayview hotel where Japanese officers and enlisted men raped them in the night long orgy. Some of the girls were as young as 12 years old.

Many Escape Captors

The next day the girls were taken under guard to the Alhambra apartment house near the Bayview and forced to go through the same acts.

As fires raged in Manila on Feb. 12, many of the girls escaped from their Japanese captors but only after they had been brutally attacked repeatedly.

One witness, identified only as "Miss G", said the 25 girls were crowded into one room. Japanese Marines came in, selected girls and took them to other rooms.

Atrocities Described

She said attentions were forced on her "12 to 15 times" that night, often at the point of a bayonet.

A "Miss A" said a Marine who selected her slapped her, forced her to undress and lie on the floor, then placed a pistol on one side of her, a saber on the other.

She testified he was unable to effect the attack at first, but took a knife, inflicted a "bad operation", then proceeded with the criminal act.

Massacre Is Described

Witnesses told of seeing girls pushed and slapped into the halls while being taken from room to room. They also testified of hearing screams of "mother, mother" throughout the night.

Yesterday witnesses testified that at least 800 men, women and children were butchered by Japanese in a dining hall.

The massacre took place at St. Paul's college here Feb. 9, while American troops were battering their way into the Japanese-occupied city.

Brought In Candy

Camilo Diego, one of the survivors, told the court how Japanese of Yamashita's Philippines command advised him to take his family to St. Paul's for "safety."

Luisa Borohana, 30-year-old Spanish woman, testified that after the Japanese had crowded about 1000 civilians into the college dining hall "they brought in candy and drinks and placed them in the center of the room."

"I noticed huge black balls hanging from the center of the ceiling," she said. "I thought they were blackout lights."

Survivors Are Slain

But when the crowd of children women and men surged toward the tempting spread of sweetmeats and refreshments, she added, the black balls turned out to be bombs. They exploded, killing or wounding many. And then the Japanese who had touched off the blast from outside the hall rushed back through the doors, tossing handgrenades into the

German Unrest Near "Revolt;" Some U. S. Soldiers Attacked

(By The Associated Press)

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 31—Gen. Eisenhower told Washington in a grave report today that there was dangerous unrest in Germany, which was "just one step" from organized resistance.

Some U. S. troops already have been attacked by youths and returned German soldiers, he said.

He also reported that "no real progress" had been made toward setting up central administrative machinery for Germany and that a "disappointingly" small number of problems had been settled by the Allied Control council because of failure to obtain unanimous agreement.

Displaced Persons Problem

Other developments mentioned in his third monthly report:

The problem of handling thousands of displaced persons continues serious. "Cases of murder and organized looting occurred at an unpleasant rate," and the German populace has become increasingly bitter as a result of the increased lawlessness.

The food and fuel situation was growing worse as winter approached. "There will be practically no coal for German civilians," and extensive plans are now being made for mass feeding of Germans in the American zone.

Communists Said Active

The failure of the German masses to respond to free political movements was retarding any program to restore self-government. Only the Communists and Social Democrats have shown much life in the American zone.

President Truman announced in Washington that he had set June 1 as a goal for transferring the German government from military to civilian hands.

The move was recommended by Eisenhower in agreement with the other three occupying powers. Military occupation, as distinguished from military government, will continue as long as necessary, it was announced.

Germans Attack Soldiers

He reported that while some attacks had been made on individual American soldiers, the activity of the German youths consisted mainly of distributing handbills and posters warning "faithless" German girls who were fraternizing with Americans and displaced persons.

"There is a potential danger that this jealous resentment against and hatred of displaced persons will serve as a popular rallying point for idle youth and young discharged German soldiers," the report said.

Just One Step From Revolt

"From this type of resistance activity it is just one step to organized resistance directed against the occupation forces."

Eisenhower said there had been some improvement in the control of displaced persons, but that they continued their forays against the civilian populace in some areas and that raids on their camps invariably produced some firearms and explosives.

Referring to difficulties of the control council itself, Eisenhower expressed disappointment over delays in disposing of important matters and said he hoped the other three powers would follow the American example of giving in when they held a minority view.

French Are Blamed

"For the sake of obtaining agreement and in order to further the aim of joint government, the United States' policy has been to conform wherever possible to decisions on which the other three representatives of the control council and the coordinating committee were agreed.

"It is our constant hope that this principle will find greater acceptance, as it is evident that only by a spirit of joint accommodation of views can there be any real success for an Allied control authority."

He said one difficulty in trying to set up central German administrative machinery, as provided by the Potsdam agreement, was the "unwillingness of French authorities" to approve proposals of the other three powers.

Additional Educational, Loan Benefits For Veterans Urged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP) — Revision of the G. I. Bill of Rights to make it easier for veterans to go to school at government expense or get loans in buying homes, farms or businesses was recommended today by a Senate subcommittee.

It proposed:

1. Extension until 10 years after the war the time in which veterans may apply for government-guaranteed loans. Present law allows only five years after the war's official end.

2. Authorization for loans on farms or businesses to include not only the value of real estate but also supplies, capital and inventory.

3. A 35-year period, instead of 20, for repayment of loans on farms.

4. Authorization for loans based on the "reasonable value" of the property. The present law reads "reasonable normal value" and complaints have been made that the word "normal" is being interpreted by appraisers as barring many loans on present market values.

Boost In Allowance Asked

5. Opening of the educational program to veterans irrespective of age. The present law applies to those who education was interrupted by reason of war service and says this is presumed to be the case for men inducted below age 25.

6. An increase from $50 to $65 in the monthly living allowance for single veterans attending an educational institution and from $75 to $90 for those with dependents.

7. Authorization for the veterans administration to enter into an agreement with state institutions on payments for tuition of veterans without regard for the usual tuition charges.

The latter recommendation grew out of this situation:

Some state colleges make no charge for tuition for residents of the state and in other cases tuition charges are considerably smaller than the actual costs to the state.

It was argued that the federal government should make some payment to state institutions more in line with payments to private institutions.

The original G. I. bill provides

Jap Army-Navy Funds Probed

TOKYO, Thursday, Nov. 1. (AP) —The War ministry today ordered an audit of the billions of dollars spent by the Japanese Army and Navy in the war years 1937 to 1945.

The ministry also announced it will investigate reported wholesale theft of money and materiel by both officers and men between the surrender and American occupation.

Army Expenditures High

The Japanese press quoted Col. Takekatsu Endo, director of the War ministry's accounts bureau, as saying extraordinary Army expenditures totaled 222,000,000,000 yen (about $31,500,000,000).

The civilian government was not permitted to audit the accounts of either service throughout the war.

(Endo's 222,000,000,000 yen estimate, translated into pre-Pearl Harbor exchange rates, was approximately $100,000,000,000).

Cost Of Supplies Soared

Endo told a press conference that open rivalry between the Army and Navy and mutual disregard of government established ceiling prices for war manufacturers boosted expenditures.

Anti-militaristic letters to newspapers have increased greatly. One proposed the imposition of forced labor upon professional soldiers who indulged "in haughty,

Train Crushes Truck; 15 German POW Die

BLISSFIELD, Mich., Oct. 31. (AP) —Fifteen German prisoners of war were killed and 11 other persons were injured, several critically, when a truck in which they were riding was struck by a westbound New York Central passenger train this afternoon a half mile east of here.

The injured included nine prisoners, all members of Rommel's Afrika korps prior to their capture, an American soldier and a civilian.

Eleven of the prisoners were killed instantly and the other four died a few hours later.

Bodies of the victims, some of them mangled, were strewn over a 300-foot stretch along the railroad right of way.

Solons Ignore HST's Appeal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — President Truman's blast at Congress last night got quick results. But not the kind he wanted.

Mr. Truman said Congress is responsible for delay of two top reconversion bills. He got some members pretty riled. Mostly Republicans. But the legislation itself just gathered another day's dust.

Committees Not Acting

Two House committees criticized for not acting on the bills gave no indication of rushing them out.

One is a jobless pay proposal. The President wants to liberalize compensation up to $25 a week for 26 weeks. The other aims at full employment by advance planning and government spending if necessary.

Mr. Truman was blunt about it in his nationwide broadcast. It was the first time he had talked about Congress that way.

Relief Fund Pushed

How serious is the breach? It can't be known yet. Mr. Truman might have been risking Congressional ire to gain public support of his program. Most members were yet to be heard from.

The day on Capitol Hill was concerned mostly with these matters:

UNRRA. This United Nations organization for succoring war-torn areas appears about to get $550,000,000 more to round out the nation's promised $1,350,000,000 contribution. But before the House gives approval, Republicans want an amendment. They would cut off relief to countries denying the American press the right to report UNRRA activities.

Two Men Slain During Shreveport Jail Break

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 31 (AP) —Two prisoners were shot and killed tonight as ten men made a daring break from the eighth floor jail of the Caddo parish courthouse in downtown Shreveport.

Another prisoner was recaptured soon afterwards.

Sheriff Howell Flournoy identified the two killed as William C. Moore and Leo Brady.

The break occurred as the evening meal was being served in the jail. The sheriff said the prisoners slugged two deputies, Gordon Kennedy and Cherley Kneippe, who were eating in the dining room.

Kennedy regained consciousness as the men fled toward an elevator, the sheriff said, and shot and killed two prisoners. Flournoy said Kneippe also shot two other escapees, one in the arm and one in the leg, but they continued their flight.

City police soon afterwards arrested a man identified by the sheriff as one of the escapees, Louis Mangham.

The sheriff named the other escapees as John Cavalero, John Eickmeyer, Roy Smith, Henry Billingsley, William Tyner Nevers, jr., J. V. Junter and Otis J. Cook.

Price Of Butter Boosted Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP) — The OPA announced today a five to six cent increase in retail butter prices will go into effect tomorrow, rather than November 8.

The effective date was moved ahead a week to prevent interference with promal distribution of butter, OPA said.

Explaining, the agency said that with wholesalers' price ceilings going up five cents a pound tomorrow as scheduled, "retailers would be reluctant to purchase at the sharply increased cost to them if this increase could not be reflected (immediately) in their ceiling prices."

The ceiling increase results from cancellation of a government subsidy of five cents a pound which has been paid to processors.

OPA reiterated that retailers and others owning butter stocks in excess of 1,000 pounds will not be permitted to increase their ceilings until they have filed an affidavit with OPA, together with a check.

The affidavit must state the number of pounds of butter the merchant owned at the close of business today. The amount of the check must be figured at five cents a pound on quantities in excess of 1,000 pounds.

This is prevent collection of both the subsidy, which expires today, and five cents a pound more on sales.

U. S. Forces In China Scored

CHUNGKING, Oct. 31. (AP) — Activities of American military forces in China were criticized today by the No. 2 leader of the Chinese Communists.

Gen. Chou En-Lai, who was named by the Communists to negotiate with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek for peaceful settlement of China's internal problems, said in an interview:

Scores U. S. Aid

"We consider there is no necessity at all for the United States transportation of Kuomintang (Central government) troops to areas which the Communists have recovered from the Japanese."

General Chou denied, however, a cabinet spokesman's assertion the Communists have informed Chungking their troops would fire on Central government soldiers landing from American ships in Communist "liberated areas."

(This does not exclude the possibility such a warning might have been given by a local Communist commander).

Meanwhile, informed quarters said the Communists had rejected

Tragic Details Of How 1,200 U. S. Prisoners Died Is Told

DALLAS, Oct. 31. (AP)—On December 13, 1944, a gaunt group of 1,619 American prisoners shuffled into a Jap freighter hold off Manila and headed out to sea.

Six weeks later the tragic remnants—only 400 of them—arrived in Japan.

The remainder, approximately 1,200, were dead.

Some died of pneumonia, dysentery and suffocation. Others died from bombs loosed upon them by American airmen who knew only that they were attacking Jap shipping.

One of the survivors came home to Dallas today, Capt. David Snell, a man of Bataan who lived through three years and four months of bondage hard to believe.

"It's a pretty grim story—that prison ship trip," Capt. Snell, graduate of Texas A. and M. college and son of Mr. and Mrs. James Snell, began.

Once down to 95 pounds, now edging back to his normal weight of 190, Capt. Snell told this story of one of the war's great tragedies.

"We were herded into the ship on December 13 and left Manila. It wasn't long before American Navy carrier based planes found us. They didn't know it was a prisoner of war ship, and they got us good.

"Next morning, just off Subic bay, the Japs beached the ship. Carrier planes plastered the aft

Spooks And Noise Rampant As City Celebrates Hallowe'en

With characters running the scale from a nice Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs to two youths carrying a skeleton made of freshly scraped bones, together with a gruesome assortment of witches, zombies and goblins, all topped off with plenty of noise, Lubbock's second annual Hallowe'en parade was consigned to history last night by exhausted members of the city recreation department who staged the show.

Several thousands persons lined the streets as the parade wound through the downtown area, escorted by police. The Junior Chamber of Commerce safety float consisted of a wrecker towing a recently wrecked car.

A late check of hospitals revealed that no one was reported injured as a direct result of Hallowe'en pranks.

The police department reported numerous calls on disturbances caused by celebrants, and most merchants will not have to furnish soap to clean their windows today.

Out of the several hundred contestants, judges picked 38 winners, first prize of $25 going to a group of four boys, representing three donkeys and their master—Harold Teal, Spencer Lingle, Royal Hagerty, Lloyd Good; second prize of $15 to Dan Davis, third prize of $15 to the seven dwarfs group composed of negroes, led by Dr. J. ## Texan Says Handling Of Surplus Property In Europe Efficient

TEXARKANA, Oct. 31 (AP) — C. E. Palmer, publisher of the Texarkana Gazette and News, writes from Paris, France, that disposal of surplus property is being handled in a "businesslike and efficient manner" in Europe.

But he said in an article to the Gazette that Americans who were having difficulty in buying such articles might be interested in knowing that trucks, tires and farm implements were being sold in Europe.

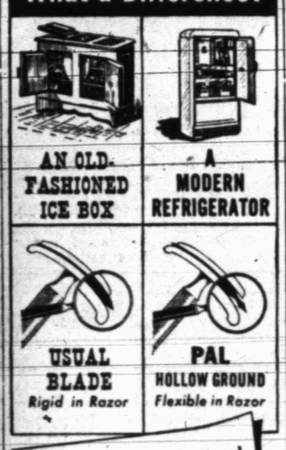

He said he saw at one spot over 250,000 tires and thousands of tubes, many new American trucks and quite a bit of farm equipment.

"UNRRA is not operating in France as the French preferred the Red Cross, but it is in Belgium, where some new civilian American trucks and farm implements are appearing, which may interest many Americans unable to purchase these at home.

"Much surplus equipment will be sold to UNRRA for use in the Balkans, Greece, Poland and elsewhere."

Potato Silage For Cattle Shows Good Results In Tech Experiment

Potato silage appears to be a satisfactory feed for cattle, according to results shown at completion of one feeding period in an experiment being conducted by the Texas Tech division of agriculture in cooperation with the Texas Agriculture Experiment station, College Station.

Most outstanding gains were recorded during a 28-day finishing feeding period when cattle averaged an increased weight of 3.46 to 4.57 pounds daily, W. L. Stangel, dean of Tech's division of agriculture, said.

Started In December

The experiment was begun Dec. 14, 1944 when 30 stocker calves were secured by the agriculture division from the Spade ranch. The calves were placed in three lots, 10 head to each lot.

Cattle in lot 1 were wintered on sumac sorghum silage, lot 2 on sumac sorghum fodder and lot 3 on native grass pasture. All cattle in the three lots received one pound of alfalfa daily. Those in lots 1 and 2 daily received one pound of cotton seed meal and cattle in lot 3 were fed one pound of cotton seed daily.

Those in lots 1 and 2 daily received one pound of cotton seed meal and cattle in lot 3 were fed one pound of cotton seed daily. This feeding period was continued until May 1.

Graze Native Grass

Calves were then given access to native grass pasture with no supplement. Sept. 1 the stockers (then long yearlings) were moved from the pasture and placed in a feed lot for a 27-day period. Here they were fed daily rations of 60 pounds of irish potatoes and six pounds of alfalfa hay.

During this feeding period each lot of calves lost weight, ranging from .19 pounds (lot 1) to .57 pounds in lots 2 and 3. Due to the lateness of feed crops, it was deemed inadvisable to hold cattle to field grain combined milo so they were placed in a dry lot Sept. 27 for the finishing period, Dean Stangel said.

Steers in lot 1 were fed sumac sorghum silage, those in lot 2 irish potato silage, and lot 3, cotton seed hulls. Same amounts of milo chop, cotton seed meal and alfalfa hay were given steers in each lot, the only difference being roughage.

Outstanding Period

It was during the 28-day period ending Oct. 25 that steers made the most outstanding gain, Dean Stangel said. Those in lot 1 averaged 855.9 pounds and gained 3.46 pounds daily. Steers in lot 2 weighed 847.7 with a daily gain of 4.57 pounds; lot 3, 875.6 with daily gain of 3.51.

"These remarkable gains can be partially explained by the loss of weight during the preceeding 27-day potato feeding period," Dean Stangel explained. "Until the tests end no definite conclusions can be drawn on the value of potato silage," he added.

The second trial of potato silage feeding period is in progress.

Othman Sees Bright Future For Scarce Metals And Atoms

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Put on your medieval robes, come down into the alchemist's dungeon and I'll tell you how to turn lead into gold.

Simple. Take the sashweight from your window, or any handy chunk of lead. Then rearrange the atoms in same in accordance with the standard pattern and that's it: Gold. You've got a solid 21-karat gold sashweight.

Cost Would Be Factor

That's official. Cen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (pronounced Oh-may-oh-knee) of Wyoming, put on his horn-rimmed pince nez, and wondered aloud whether the scientists of the atomic age intended to do much in the way of turning one kind of metal into another. His idea was, if you've got a shortage of tin, say, it would be pretty handy to make some from old brass door knockers, iron velocipiedes, and pewter mugs.

Dr. Allen W. Bateman of the Foreign Economic administration, said it could be done, all right, but for Sen. O'Mahoney not to worry for a while; it'll be a long time before it's as cheap to turn lead into gold as it is to mine your tooth fillings in the first place.

Need More Lead

That's not the point, anyhow. There's plenty of gold around, but only enough lead is left in the earth of the U.S.A. to last 12 more years. After that we may have to think about turning gold into lead. Or as Dr. C. K. Leith of the War Production board said:

"Eventually our gold hoard in Kentucky will be exchanged for something useful."

What brought this up was an array of scientists called to tell the Senate what thought about spending $4,000,000,000 to lay in a stock pile of metals for the fighting of the next war. They agreed this was a good idea, because they agreed there probably would be a next war. Maybe the United Nations will succeed but the metal experts have got to be shown. As Dr. Leith put it:

"We all welcome a world agency to keep the peace, but it's now in the stage of wishful thinking."

Plenty Other Supplies

The news about metal supplies isn't all bad. There is, fortunately, enough air. The ocean is deep. These facts, according to Elmer W. Pehrson of the Bureau of Mines, are good. Nitrogen comes from the air and he said he doubted if we'd ever run out of that. You take water from the ocean, boil it down, and you get magnesium. There's plenty of sea water.

We're not likely to run out of salt and our soft coal should last for 4,300 years, but we'd better go easy on iron. Pehrson produced a magic lantern to shine upon the wall a chart which indicated there's only enough iron in the country's mines to last for 111 years.

Worked With Uncle Sam

Dr. Leith said this was a good chart, all right, but it didn't mean much because it included iron ore with hardly any iron in it. He said the high grade iron in Michigan is good for 35 years more. By 1980 there'll be a shortage of bobby pins, bridges, brake drums and battleships. Or at least the price will go up.

Dr. Bateman, who resignation from the government is effective tonight and who doesn't mind looking happy about it, said we'd better pile up some stuff to fight the next war before we fight it, instead of after. He spent the last four years getting metals from foreign lands and it was no easy job. Mica, tin, talp and tantalite we needed so desperately we had to fly it in from the four ends of the world. This cost so much it gave Dr. Bateman the shudders.

Me, too, and I think I'm going to hoard those sashweights; some day a lead nickel will be worth more than the genuine article.

Liberals, Communists Gain In Denmark Vote

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 31. (U.P.)—Denmark's Liberal and Communist parties cut deeply into the strength of the Social-Democratic party in yesterday's general election, final returns showed today.

The Social Democrats, who campaigned for election on a pledge of nationalization of industry, retained only 48 of their 66 seats in the last lower House of Parliament, but still had a slight plurality.

Mushrooms contain 90 per cent water.

New Tales Of German Atrocities Revealed

NEUSTADT, SCHLESWIG-HOLSTEIN, Oct. 31. (AP)—Between 8,000 and 9,000 Nazi concentration camp victims are believed to have died when the Germans crammed them into four ships which were sent deliberately into the Baltic sea to be sunk by Allied warplanes, five days before V-E day.

A ruthless hunt now is on for the German Naval commander held responsible.

Bodies of thousands of Nazi slave workers who perished in blazing prison ships or were drowned in the icy Baltic waters still are being washed up on the beaches.

Nazi doctors who worked at the Neue Gamme concentration camp, from whence most of the victims came, also were being hunted. The doctors were said to have experimented on the internees by injecting them with tuberculosis.

The story will not be told fully until the war crimes trial of the Neue Gamme concentration camp commandant and his staff. But in a displaced persons camp which once was a U-boat school, 23-year-old Pieszerock Nikodem, a Pole, told how he swam to shore from one of the doomed ships. To his version was added that of an Allied Naval officer who watched the sinkings of the four prison ships and helped rescue 490 of the victims.

Cotulla May Receive First Nueces Dam

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 31 (AP) — Cotulla, 70 miles south of San Antonio on the Laredo highway, probably will receive the first dam of six to be built in southwest Texas in the Uueces irrigation and reclamation district, Ray Keck, vice president, said today.

Keck said preliminary plans for all six dams have been completed by the United States Bureau of Reclamation, Department of Commerce.

Abandoned Elevator Is Burned In Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP) — An abandoned grain elevator on the Chicago river burned like a torch last night and flames shooting several hundred feet into the air cast a red glow on the sky which was visible for some 30 miles.

The flames roared through the nearly block long, eight story wood and brick structure, creating a heat so intense that firemen at first were unable to approach closer than a half block.

Extra and special alarms brought 65 pieces of fire apparatus and a fireboat to the scene. More than 300 policemen kept thousands of persons several blocks away while the fire was at its height.

Damage to the elevator, which was built in 1872 and had a capacity of 750,000 bushels of grain, was estimated by Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan at about $125,000. Origin of the fire was not determined.

Veterans To Be Given Training In Farming

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 31. (AP)—State Education Supt John E. Coxe said today he had signed a contract with the Veterans administration to train returning servicemen for the occupation of farming.

Under it, he reported, veterans are to receive without charge vocational agriculture training on an all-day, part-time or evening class basis in public schools, with the Veterans administration paying for the training of certain groups whose training must meet federal special requirements.

A veteran receiving this type of training will live on his own farm, attend special courses, probably at night; will be supervised periodically and for special purposes, and will operate his farm under a plan he prepared himself, with assistance of his teacher.

The most important agricultural product of Turkey is tobacco.

Regents Hope To Have Texas Off Probation

DALLAS, Oct. 31 (AP)—The University of Texas board of regents hope to have the school off probation early next year, Dudley K. Woodward, jr., chairman of the board announced here.

Woodward's announcement referred to the action last July 22 of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary schools, which placed the University on probationary status as a result of differences between former University President Homer P. Rainey and the former board.

Woodward said two of the basic objections of the Southern association—the overlapping of the bard into routine administrative affairs and the divergence in some procedural routine from what is considered sound lines—have been remedied.

Huge Mass Graves Said Found In Europe

METZ, France, Oct. 31 (AP) — Two huge mass graves containing 23,000 bodies believed to be those of Russian soldiers who died or were killed in a German hospital and prison camp, were investigated today near the little town of Boulay.

A grave in a Jewish cemetery contained 3,000 bodies and another, two miles from Boulay, yielded 20,000.

Truman Denies FDR And Churchill Had Secret Agreement On A-Bomb

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (U.P.)—President Truman today described as untrue a report that the late President Roosevelt and former Prime Minister Winston Churchill had reached a secret agreement on peacetime control of the atomic bomb.

The report of the secret agreement was made to the House of Commons in London yesterday by Capt. A. R. Blackburn, Labor member.

Share Knowledge Together

The President said that he did not think this statement was true.

Mr. Truman added that as nearly as he could determine Great Britain, the United States and Canada were in equal partnership in the development of the atom bomb.

Under questioning, the President said that Great Britain and Cadana know as much about the mechanics of actual production of the atomic bomb as this country.

Subject Of Attlee Visit

This whole subject, he added, was the reason Prime Minister Clement Attlee was coming to this country next month.

Asked whether Attlee's talks here would be limited to this one topic the President said the British prime minister could talk to him about anything he wanted to.

Mr. Truman also was asked whether the conference here with Attlee and Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King of Canada was a prelude to another meeting of the Big Three. The President said he could not answer that question directly. But he explained that the next step after Great Britain, Canada and the United States agree on an international policy regarding the atomic bomb, will be to discuss this policy with the other governments of the world.

The President confirmed that he had two or three messages from Attlee about the Palestine situation, but said he was not in the position to release this correspondence for publication because the matter is still under discussion.

Individual senators, meanwhile, split sharply over the propriety of inviting Attlee before new special Senate atomic energy committee to present his views.

Chairman Brien McMahon, D., Conn., refused to comment on the proposal. He said the question would have to await tomorrow's formal organization meeting.

Solons Give Views

Sens. Millard Tydings, D., Md., and Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R., Iowa, said they would have "no objection" to hearing Attlee. But Sens. Tom Connally, D. Tex., and Edwin C. Johnson, D., Colo., said "it wouldn't be the thing to do."

Hickenlooper said that Attlee's opinion "might be helpful and I can see not reason why we shouldn't ask him" as long as it did not embarrass the prime minister.

Tydings agreed that it wouldn't hurt to ask Attlee to appear but observed that he probably would present the committee the political rather than scientific aspect of the bomb.

"And we can get a lot of that in Washington," he said.

Johnson said any appearance of the British leader should be before the Senate Foreign Relations committee. The atom committee is concerned only with the domestic aspects of the bomb.

Vargas Hints He May Return To Politics

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 31. (U.P.)—Deposed Former President Getulio Vargas left by plane at 5:55 a. m. 2:55 (CST) today for Sao Borja, his ranch in southern Brazil, but hinted he may return to politics.

Before leaving he told a United Press correspondent he was "going to take a much needed rest—two months sooner than I thought."

Asked about returning to politics, he smiled broadly and said: "That depends entirely upon the events. You may say that I am very tranquil and very satisfied."

Brazil appeared to be calm today after high tension of the last few weeks but tanks and machine guns remained at strategic points in the capital

Several of Vargas' ministers and aides were reported unofficially to be under house arrest. These included Ministers of Justice Agemenon McAlhaes and of Labor Alexander Marcondes Filho; the Varguisra Leader Segadas Vianna and Communist Leader Luis Carlos Prestes.

Leaders of the revolt which overthrew Vargas have not indicated that any charges will be filed against the former president.

Vargas' opponents moved quickly to set up a provisional government. One hour after President Joe Linhares was inaugurated yesterday he was able to select seven of 10 cabinet ministers from among men who have kept aloof from politics during Vargas' 15 year rule.

Agents Could Plant A-Bombs Over U. S., Scientists Claim

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 31. (U.P.)—Foreign agents could plant atomic time bombs in this nation's major cities and military bases during peace time to destroy it in one big blow, according to the Association of Cambridge scientists.

Advocating international control of atomic energy, the newly-formed association predicted an atomic war would be waged with atom mines smuggled into a country rather than with airborne atomic weapons.

"Atomic explosives are sufficiently compact to permit an infernal machine to resemble a grand piano, or a chest of drawers, or a sofa," said Dr. Louis N. Ridenour, one of the many nationally-known scientists gathered here for radar development.

"Rich" Chinaman Held By Houston Cops

HOUSTON, Oct. 31. (U.P.)—Police today questioned a transient Chinaman who spoke three languages but refused to talk in any of them about $5,000 found in his hotel room.

The Oriental was arrested last night after police found $2,000 in cash and $3,000 in checks neatly stacked in his battered suitcase.

In English, Spanish and Chinese, the man repeated he was just passing through Houston. The narcotics squad, meantime, was checking some preparations also found in his room to determine if they contained drugs.

Restrictions On Child Labor Are Tightened

Restrictions on child labor regulations have tightened with the easing of the manpower shortages and controls, M. W. Waldron, office manager of the local U. S. Employment service, said in releasing an announcement by Katherine F. Lenroot, chief of the children's bureau of the labor department, telling of the revocation of wartime amendments to child-labor regulations.

Child labor regulation No. 3 controlling the employment of 14 and 15-year-old children has been restored to its prewar standards for all industries. Hazardous occupations order No. 5 regarding operation of power-driven woodworking machines will no longer contain the emergency exemption under which 16 and 17-year-old minors were permitted to work on a few of the least hazardous of these machines. The minimum age for most employment in establishments subject to the Fair Labor Standards Acts is 16 years, with an 18-year minimum for certain work defined in Regulation 3 as not harmful.

The emergency amendment affecting the fruit and vegetable packing industry has permitted the employment of 14 and 15-year-old minors for work in perishable fresh fruit and vegetable packing sheds after 7 p. m., and until 10 p. m. Effective since May 19, 1943, the amendment was revoked at midnight last night.

32,000,000 Heard His Talk, Truman Claims

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—President Truman told his news conference today a radio poll showed 32,000,000 adults listened to his wage-price policy address broadcast last night.

The Hooper Radio rating on the President's audience, shown to the news conference, reported that the address was heard by 98.4 per cent of all families whose radios were in use from 10 to 10:30 p. m. (EST).

POETRY

OUR morning calls for news are rarely dialed around 10:45 o'clock because we learned long ago that Lubbock homemakers have set that time as "must" to hear Ted Malone. His popular radio program of poetry reading, "Between the Book Ends," was interrupted by the war but now he is going full swing once more; which we may list with other good things that returned with peace.

In the meantime Mr. Malone has compiled for Pocket Books a 300-page volume called "The Pocket Book of Popular Verse." In this little 25-cent edition, has been gathered some of the best-loved poems of the English language: "Oh, to be in England, now that April's there," "The night has a thousand eyes," "Somebody said it couldn't be done" . . .

MEMORIZING POETRY

WERE you born too late to have been a grade school student during the era when "memory gems" were recited Friday afternoons? That was not the beginning of poetry learning for us because we knew most of "Hiawatha" by heart before we started to school, but we loved those programs.

Those Friday afternoon sessions meant that we learned Whitier's nostalgic lines about the old schoolhouse:

Still sits the schoolhouse by the road
A ragged beggar sunning.
Around it still the sumac grows
And blackberry vines are running . . .

We committed to heart Longfellow's "Psalm of Life," "The Children's Hour," "The Village Blacksmith,' "The Rainy Day," "The Arrow and the Song,' and parts of Whittier's "Snowbird," "The First Snowfall" by Lowell, and the opening of "Thanatopsis," and the closing stanza.

Poems were never more readily learned than in those childhood days, or better remembered many years after.

WHAT was started under obligation was later indulged for its own sake. We can remember after storing those poems in our mind, that we read them while trudging to a music lesson, walking to school or taking a bath. There came a time when the ringing measures of Rudyard Kipling's works just suited the energies of youth. Or with the descent of fall, the drop of haze over the town, the smell of burning leaves, there was a delight in chanting from "The Long Trail." We'll never forget when we discovered there was poetry for many moods, but long before we felt it John Masefield had written, "Sea Fever," and we could join him in saying:

I must go down to the seas again, to the lonely sea and the sky,
And all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by,
And the wheel's wick and the wind's song and the white sail's shaking.
And the gray mist on the sea's face and a gray dawn breaking.

WASHING MACHINES

HOUSEWIVES will soon be buying new washing machines. To keep machines in good repair, household equipment specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture offer six simple rules:

1. Know your machine. Study the manufacturer's printed directions in order to get the best and most lasting service.
2. Wash the right clothes load for your machine. Avoid overloading.
3. Keep drains clear of lint, surfaces clean and dry.
4. Take special care of all rubber parts, drain hose, keep rubber free of oil.
5. Keep moving parts properly oiled, bolts and screws tight.
6. Have regular check-overs to avoid trouble and unnecessary expense.

Youths Admit Several Burglaries In City

Confessions of two boys, 13 and 14 years of age, cleared seven daylight house burglaries here, the sheriff and juvenile departments announced Wednesday.

Additional offenses may be uncovered before investigation is completed, officers indicated. Charges have not yet been filed against the pair.

The boys admitted taking a German-made gun from 1211-A Fifteenth; a watch from 1509-A Broadway; a fountain pen and $2 in money from 2418 Ave. K; two cartons of cigarets and a watch from 1308 Twenty-third; nine packs of cigarets and field glasses from 1707 Sixteenth; a watch from 1505 Broadway and a fountain pen from 1402 Ave. M.

Practically all the property has been recovered, officers said.

All burglaries occurred at residences where the occupants had left without locking the doors. The boys related that they would first take the precaution of knocking, then if no one answered, they would walk in.

The 14-year-old is on parole for similar offenses.

Three South Texans Charged In Car Theft

Three South Texas residents, charged as W. H. and Ordie Lee McClure and Marshall Parker, were named jointly in an automobile theft complaint prepared Wednesday by District Attorney Burton S. Burks, and probably will be returned to Lubbock late this week from Quitman.

The machine, belonging to Florene Bingham of Dallas, was taken from a parking place on Ave. H Sept. 30.

Sheriff Grady Harrist said the car and the three suspects were located Tuesday by the sheriff's department at Quitman, Tex.

The complaint was filed in the court of Justice of Peace C. E. Lynn.

Navy Reveals Fate Of Long-Lost Destroyer; Many Of Crew Survive

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (U.P.)—The Destroyer Pope didn't simply disappear on that March day in 1942, nor was it sunk by the enemy; it committed suicide.

The Navy told the Pope's story today, clearing up a mystery which had persisted since Feb. 28, 1942, when the destroyed sailed from Soerabaja, Java, with two British warships into waters dominated by Japanese sea and air power.

Most Of Crew Survive

The big news disclosed by the Navy was that 123 of the Pope's 152 crew members survived its last action and more than 3½ years of life in Japanese prison camps. All have been repatriated since Japan's defeat.

From Feb. 28, 1932, until the survivors were found alive in captivity, not a word had been received here about the fate of the Pope and its fighting partners, the British Cruiser Exeter and the British Destroyer Encounter.

Of the crew members who did not survive the war, one was killed in the Pope's final battle and 28 died in prison camps.

Shortly After Java Sea Scrap

The Pope met its doom shortly after the disastrous Java sea battle in which the U. S. Cruiser Houston was sunk without trace. The American destroyer and the Encounter were assigned to escort the Exeter, which had been damaged in the Java sea fight.

They left Soerabaja and headed for Soenda strait, the escape route between Java and Sumatra to Australia. Midway between Java and Borneo, however, the enemy spotted them.

At 9 a. m. on March 1, 1942, Japanese planes and surface ships —including four cruisers and four destroyers — attacked the slow moving Allied flotilla. In a savage three-hour battle, the underdog team succeeded in damaging some of the enemy ships, but at a terrible cost.

Shortly before noon both British ships went down, sunk by gunfire. The Pope fired all her topredoes and 140 salvoes from her guns, and was going strong when 12 Japanese dive bombers and four level bombers joined the battle.

Goes Out Of Control

A near bomb miss on the port side knocked out one of the Pope's engines and blew many holes in the side. In 15 minutes the destroyer was out of control.

After setting charges to blow up the Pope and keep it out of enemy hands, the crew abandoned ship.

For nearly three days, the survivors kept together, in and around three small life rafts and a motor launch built to carry only 19 persons. On the third night, they were picked up by a Japanese destroyer.

Cotton Scattered In Highway Wreck

Lubbock Highway patrol reported that a truck loaded with about 20 bales of cotton was sideswiped by a car between 8 and 9 o'clock Tuesday night 1½ miles west of Ralls, scattering cotton for 150 yards down the highway.

Patrolmen reported that Neal Boggs, 37, of Dumas, driver of the car, paid a fine for drunk driving and was released by Roy Hillin, sheriff of Crosby county, this morning.

Jesse Lyndon Jones, 17, of route 2, Petersburg, driver of the truck, was going east when struck by the car coming from the opposite direction. Neither of the men was injured.

Judge G. V. Pardue of the 99th district court Wednesday afternoon denied application of A. F. Woods for a writ of habeas corpus. Woods claimed that he was given an improper hearing last week before Justice of Peace D. W. Robertson on a sworn statement of C. M. Farr that Woods had threatened his life. The justice, at that time, placed Woods under a $500 peace bond. Woods claimed, too, that Farr had threatened his life, and Robertson set a $500 bond for Farr, who posted the amount. Woods, however, refused to post his bond, court officials said, protesting that he had not been given a legal hearing. He gave notice of the intended habeas corpus action to Judge Pardue, who set bond of $100 conditioning his appearance at Wednesday's hearing, which Woods posted. Woods was reported last night ready to post his bond. Officers said trouble developed between the two men at Wood's farm near Lubbock, of which Pharr is a tenant.

Officer Promotions Announced At LAAF

Ten officer promotions, including one for 1st Lt. Richard H. Chamberlain to the rank of Captain were announced at Lubbock Army Air field Tuesday.

Capt. Chamberlain, popular as a singer here, was transferred earlier this month to Kearns, Utah, pending overseas assignment. He had been military personnel officer at LAAF.

Other LAAF officers promoted with new ranks include:

Capt. Herman A. Knopp, trial judge advocate, a former San Antonio lawyer; Capt. Marion B. Butler, assistant air inspector, of Erie, Kans.; Capt. Olan M. Atherton, aircraft control officer, Sherman, Tex.; Capt. Benjamin J. Sorrell, Houston, who left recently for separation base; Capt. Norman J. LaForest, maintenance engineering officer, of Wayne, Mich.; Capt Donald W. Feuerstein, a ground school instructor, of Fremont, Nebr.; Capt. Wallace W. Dawson, jr., sales officer, of Kansas City; Capt. Robert F. Avis, instructor, of Fresno, Calif.; and 1st Lt. Donald E. Metzler, auto maintenance and repair officer, of Fresno, Calif.

What AMINOS in hospitals teach us about MEAT at home

READ THE MENUS for any of the service convalescent hospitals, and you'll find the word "MEAT" running through them, day in and day out—for breakfast, for dinner, for supper.

Take a look at the trays at Great Lakes, for example, and you'll see that the amounts of meat are generous. Here is Corporal Charles W. Allman of the Fifth Marines, Colby, Wis., wounded at Okinawa, getting his noontime meal with plenty of good juicy meat in it.

All this is because wartime medical science has demonstrated that, given plenty of meat, men suffering from wounds, burns, starvation or infections, recover faster.

The secret of meat's restorative power lies in "the amazing aminos" (a-mee-nos)—those mysterious substances in the proteins we eat which our bodies use to build and rebuild our tissues, organs, blood and infection-fighting antibodies.

What do these aminos in hospitals teach us about meat at home? Just this:

Children cannot grow and adults cannot rebuild tissues (which wear out constantly in the process of living) without the amino acids of protein foods. Our blood cannot be regenerated —our resistance to many infections cannot be maintained unless we obtain them.

Knowledge gained through wartime medical advancements is guiding women in the feeding of their families. Now we know that the amino acids in meat are as essential to maintaining healthy adult bodies and to growth in children as they are to repairing the bodies and rebuilding the health of fighters.

Twenty-two amino acids have been isolated. Ten of them are known to be essential. Without them, life is not possible.

The protein of meat has all ten of the essential aminos; is rich in them. If we have a generous amount of meat in our diets, we can be assured of getting the aminos we need.

You may have thought it was hunger for the good flavor of meat that prompted your desire for it. But isn't it more likely that it was the hunger of your body for those essential aminos that instinctively guided you?

...Chiefs Charge House Plan ...uld Destroy Unions And Rights

By DEAN W. DITTMER
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Organized labor charged today that a move is underway in Congress to destroy labor unions and "make a mockery of collective bargaining."

The angry statement was issued by the CIO after the House Military Affairs committee approved legislation to penalize unions for contract violations and to ban political contributions by unions in primary as well as general elections.

House members said the measure would outlaw the CIO Political Action committee and probably have the same effect on the National Citizens' Political Action committee, sponsored by the CIO-PAC.

The bill is virtually a redraft of the Smith-Connally anti strike law. It would repeal the sections of that act which provide for strike elections and authorize government seizure of struck property.

CIO President Philip Murray labeled the bill "a punitive measure," depriving labor union members of the right of assembly and free speech—and "a clear violation of our federal constitution."

"The bill is aimed at the very destruction of labor unions and makes a mockery of collective bargaining agreements," he said.

Would Kill Committee

Rep. Chet Holifield, D., Calif., a member of the House Military Affairs committee, charged that the measure "would put the CIO-PAC out of business."

"I notice it does not provide any penalties for employers who violate their contracts by lockouts," he added.

Rep. Michael J. Bradley, D., Pa., also termed the measure "definitely anti-labor."

"Its purpose is to create chaos in the ranks of organized labor," he said. "The ultimate result will be in favor of the open shop."

Rep. Leslie C. Arends, R., Ill., was author of the proposals to tighten government control over labor union political activities and to provide penalties for strikes in violation of contracts. He said his only intention was to put labor unions on the same basis as corporations.

Penalties Under Plan

As approved by the committee, the measure would make corporation and labor unions liable to fines of $5,000, and officers to a $1,000 fine or a year's imprisonment or both, for contributions or expenditures, or soliciation of funds from members, in behalf of a political candidate in primary or general election.

Under the provision involving union violation of contracts, an employer would be relieved of his obligations under the contract, the union would lose its bargaining right privileges for a year, and any labor organization would be liable to damages in court.

Government To Help Halt Unemployment Vinson Tells Solons

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Government, not business, must assume responsibility to prevent unemployment, Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson told Congress today.

He voiced his opinion while urging the House expenditures committee to approve the administration's so-called full employment bill.

Following up President Truman's admonition to the committee to get on with its job, Vinson testified:

"Unemployment is not the fault of business. Give American business the markets, the demand for output, and we will witness a new miracle of production that will surpass everything we have seen before.

"It is equally clear that unemployment is not the responsibility of business. When demand falls off, businessmen have no alternative. They must cut production.

"When we face the issue we must admit that all of us have a responsibility to see that our economic system works, to see that there are opportunities for jobs for men and women able to work. This is a responsibility of all the people and we must look to the government, acting for all the people, to meet this responsibility.

"The full employment bill . . . recognizes the full responsibility of the government to see that there are enough job opportunities."

Strain On Stadium In Contest To Be Tested

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31. (AP)—The cheers, screams and groans of the anticipated 74,000 fans at Saturday's Ohio State-Northwestern football game here will be measured and recorded.

Ohio State university engineers will use strain gauges to record the strains and vibrations the steel girders of the concrete horseshoe undergo as the capacity crowd rises and cheers a touchdown.

No mere stunt, this investigation Saturday is expected to show important construction data.

Engineers for years have thought an excited fan creates a strain on the girders equal to twice his own weight and steel has been designed accordingly in the construction of stadiums. Ohio State's 25-year-old stadium will be used to test the soundness of the engineering formula.

Truman Has No Plans Yet For Second Term

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (U.P.)—It happened today at the White House—President Truman, for the first time since he entered the White House, was asked at a news conference whether he plans to run for reelection in 1948.

The President said that, standing on his rights, he did not think he had to testify against himself at the present time.

And as an added matter of fact, the President continued, the matter had not entered his thoughts; he had been too busy on other things.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 31 (AP)—Organization of "the federation of parties of the people" by supporters of Gen. Miguel Henriquez Guzman, possible presidential candidate, was announced today. Senators, congressmen and Army generals comprise the executive board.

General Henriquez Guzman remains an enigma in the political picture. Although his supporters are actively campaigning for him, he has not said he will run.

If he becomes a candidate, he will oppose Miguel Aleman, apparent PRM (government party) choice, and Ezequiel Padilla.

Wheeler Wants Solons To Keep Army Control

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D-Mont.) demanded today that Congress keep the power to say when American troops assigned to the World Security council may act against aggression.

He told a reporter he will fight an administration proposal that the President, without consulting Congress, may order use of the troops.

The State department has drafted a bill which also would empower the President alone to authorize casting the U. S. delegate's vote on the council for employing force to keep the peace.

Packing House Union Seeking Strike Vote

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—CIO packing house workers have asked for a nationwide strike vote.

In announcing this today, the National Labor Relations board said the workers have contracts in approximately 200 plants.

NLRB said it could not estimate how many thousands of workers would be affected in the poll, which will be taken in 30 days if the strike vote request is found to be in order.

The dispute is over wages.

Verdict Returned In Elnora Collins' Death

BEAUMONT, Oct. 31. (U.P.)—Justice of Peace Horace Blades today returned a long awaited inquest verdict in the bobby socks murder of Elnora Collins, 30-year-old preacher's daughter.

"Death by strangulation and burns" was the justice's verdict.

Miss Collins' heat-seared body, nude except for two red bobby socks, was found in a wooded glen about a month ago just four days after she accepted a ride in Houston with "an affable stranger."

Immigration Program Planned For Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 31 (AP)—Mexico next year will re-establish immigration quotas but there is provision for exceptions.

A decree published today effective during 1946 authorizes unlimited immigration by citizens of Spain and all countries of the Americas.

Immigration up to 1,000 persons each annually is authorized from Belgium, Denmark, France, Holland, British Isles, Italy, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland and the Soviet Union.

A limit of 100 is placed on citizens of other countries.

Outside these quotas the government may approve immigration of "colonies" or special workers needed here.

This year war regulations restrict immigration to citizens of Spain and the Americas.

During the first three months of 1945, American soldiers in Europe required 340 Liberty shiploads of food. It included 13 shiploads of fruit juices, 33 of milk, 56 of fresh meat, 41 of flour and 54 of canned vegetables and fruit, according to the American Merchant Marine Institute.

Precedent-Making Yamashita Case May Leave Heavy Imprint On Asia

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31 — How will the first Pacific war criminal trial look 50 years from now?

It is the trial in Manila of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, the Japanese commander-in-chief in the Philippines. His troops killed thousands brutally and insanely before they gave up. Yamashita is being tried for what they did. He is charged with not controlling them, which is true undoubtedly, and the death penalty is asked.

WHITE

There is no military law which makes a commander responsible for personal crimes committed by his troops, so the military commission trying Yamashita may set a precedent which could make commanding troops a risky business in the future.

Precedent Making

Because it is spectacular and precedent-making, the Orient is likely to gain from it a lasting impression of American justice at work.

In this light it is tremendously important, because American justice is based upon Anglo-Saxon concepts of common law, and the Yamashita trial appears destined to go beyond some of these concepts.

Two important countries in the Orient, Japan and China, chose European law concepts rather than Anglo-Saxon ideas when they set about modernizing their own legal systems a century ago. For instance, their courts treat a defendant as guilty until proved innocent, not the other way round.

British Backdrop

China made her choice against a background of British imperialism which had forced her to sign treaties (which she considered unequal) that accorded the British—and soon others, including Americans—special privileges in China.

China's own laws often were harsh, but their application was softened by Confucian ideas of moderation, so that when Anglo-Saxons insisted upon living up to the letter of laws and treaties the Chinese were inclined to feel that this insistence was based as much upon a determination to maintain the status quo as upon any passion for law itself.

Later, Japan levelled substantially the same charge against the Anglo-Saxons.

Jap Attitude On Might

The Japanese, appeased in spots by the Western powers, decided that might was what really determined right after all, and went to war on Dec. 7, 1941, to do their own determining.

It is possible that the Yamashita, trial proceeds to establish legal precedent (along with similar trials in Europe) that the power-conscious Orient may accept the idea as normal and inevitable.

It is also possible that that acceptance will be based on a cynical conviction that Anglo-Saxon ideas about the sanctity of law don't work out so differently from their own.

McFadden Seeking Divorce In Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 31. (AP)—A divorce was recommended today for Bernard MacFadden from the English beauty contest winner who, the 77-year-old physical culturist declared in his complaint, failed to keep her body beautiful, trim and healthy.

Special Master John C. Gramling submitted findings favoring an end to the marriage hailed 32 years ago in London as a "perfect union." Seven children, six of them still living, were born to the couple and there are nine grandchildren.

Mrs. MacFadden, the former Mary Williamson, called her husband a "crackpot" during the bitterly contested proceedings and told of her husband standing on his head, exposing his children to wintry weather, ordering his first child dipped daily in cold water in bitter weather, and imposing his extreme ideas of physical culture on his family.

"Be that as it may," said Gamling in his report to Judge Paul D. Barns, "MacFadden, with the use of these 'crackpot' ideas, amassed a great fortune and it was out of this fortune that a trust was created which insures the defendant a home, with taxes and repairs all paid, and a minimum of $13,000 a year during her lifetime.

A master's recommendation usually is accepted by the court but Judge Barns must review it before making a final decision.

Houston Studies Plan To Take Care Of Ship

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (AP)—Officials of the City of Houston, the Houston Chamber of Commerce and Harris county are considering means of financing the reception and berthing of the U. S. S. Texas, veteran battleship which the Navy department has offered to the state of Texas for a shrine.

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson said he had received a letter from Secretary of the Navy Forrestal offering to the state the 33-year-old veteran of the fleet.

He added that since no state funds are available for berthing and maintaining the ship the proposition was referred to Houston and Harris county for discussion which are now under way.

The governor said considerable expense might be involved in berthing the U. S. S. Texas in the Houston ship channel since it would be necessary to dredge a space for it outside of the channel proper. Maintenance funds would raise another state problem. The governor said he felt confident that a plan would be developed eventually for properly berthing the ship.

Drinking And Smoking On Increase In Texas

AUSTIN, Oct. 12. (U.P.)—Texans this month smoked more cigarettes and drank more liquor and beer than during October a year ago, a report by state treasurer Jesse James today showed.

Tax stamp collections on cigarettes totaled $1,476,657, or $448,580 more than last year. Liquor revenues were $1,005,023, up $11,599, and beer taxes aggregated $295,536, an increase of $22,882. Wine taxes were down $1,463 to total $39,828, while prescriptions were unchanged at $154.

Total of the stamp taxes was $2,817,201.

...sh Endorse HST's 12-Point ...gram To Keep World Peace

LONDON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Britain's ... or government endorsed President Truman's new 12-point foreign policy program for world peace today, and advocated international agreements instead of regional economic and commercial pacts.

In accepting the plan outlined by Truman in a Navy Day speech in New York, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told Commons the American policy would prove a valuable contribution to world peace, "the more it becomes effective."

Situation Now Disturbing

During a foreign policy question period, however, the blunt-spoken foreign secretary reflected grave concern generally over international poblems.

To a proposal for a western-northern European conference on coordination of economic and commercial policies, Bevin declared he was committed to the United Nations, and that regional economic and commercial pacts should give way to world agreements.

Soviet Action Disclosed

Bevin also disclosed Russia had informed Britain the Soviet government does "not consider that legitimate British interests" are affected by the recent Soviet-Hungarian and Soviet-Romanian trade pacts.

Admitting he had not had time to consider the Soviet reply to Britain's protest of these pacts, Bevin said Moscow had explained the agreements were to "promote the development of economic relationships between the Soviet Union and the countries geographically near her."

Veterans' Benefits

costs of tuition up to $500 a year.

Also directs that any payments under the educational program shall be deducted in event a future "bonus" is paid to veterans. This provision would be stricken from the law under a recommendation by the Senate group.

The recommendations came from the Veterans subcommittee of the Finance committee.

They are subject to later review by the full Finance committee as well as by the Senate and House.

Chairman Johnson (D-Colo) of the subcommittee said he hoped to get them before the full committee early next week.

No change was recommended in the maximum amount of the government guarantee of a loan. This is now up to 50 per cent or a maximum of $2,000.

In a chiefly technical change, the subcommittee proposed that any national bank or Federal Savings and Loan association be allowed to make 20-year loans if they are guaranteed up to 20 per cent. General banking laws now forbid such institutions to make loans for longer than 10 years on real estate mortgages.

Wall Street

STOCKS SHOW RISE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—The stock market negotiated a fast and broad upswing today, with many issues touching eight-year peaks, as inflationary interpretations of the President's wage-price policy inspired heavy investment buying in virtually all departments.

While dissenters were plentiful, Wall Street opinion generally was that notwithstanding the hold-the-line decree of the chief executive, his advocacy of boosted pay ultimately must involve price increases if industry is to continue to operate. In addition, bullish sentiment was popped by the thought that approaching tax relief would go a long way in offsetting lifted wages.

Closing gains ranged from one to three points. Transfers totaled 2,060,000 shares, largest since June 28, compared with 1,170,000 Tuesday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up 1.1 points at 72.6, equaling the rally of Sept. 18 which was the widest since Aug. 23. The utilities established a top since March 9, 1937, up .7 at 50.3.

The power group especially was aided by expected benefits from tax relief, refundings and forecasts of amended recapitalization programs.

In the "new high" class were Commonwealth and Southern, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power and Light, American Power and Light, Columbia Gas, United Corp., Schenley and National Distillers. Prominent on the push were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Distillers Corp., General Electric, Du Pont and Montgomery Ward.

Bonds were mixed but rails did better.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP) — Grain futures held fairly firm most of the time today but there was no pronounced strength after an early buying flurry attributed partly to bullish interpretation of President Truman's speech on wages and prices.

Profit-taking and liquidation influenced by weakness in the cotton market cut into the advances in all grains, particularly in oats.

Wheat closed ⅝ higher to ¼ lower than the previous finish, December $1.77⅝, corn was unchanged to ⅛ down, December $1.18¼, oats were off ⅛ to ⅜, December 64⅝-⅞, rye was ½ up to 1¼ cent down, December $1.61½-⅞, and barley was ahead ¼ to 1 cent, December $1.19⅝.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31 (AP) — Wheat No. 1 hard, 1 78⅝-84⅛.
Barley No. 2, 1.30-31.
Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo or No. 2 white kafir per 100 lb. 2.48-53.
Oats No. 3 white 76½-77½.

At A Glance

NEW YORK, Oct. 31, (AP) —
STOCKS — Higher; utilities lead advance.

COTTON—Lower; commission house profit taking.
CHICAGO:
WHEAT—⅜ higher to ¼ lower; late liquidation influenced by cotton weakness.
CORN — Unchanged to ⅛ down; followed other grains.
RYE—½ up to 1⅛ down; influenced by cotton.
HOGS — Active and fully steady. Top $14.85, ceiling.
CATTLE — Mostly steady. Choice steers very active. Top $18, the ceiling.

Cotton

NEW WYORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—The cotton futures market moved over a wide range today in response to price control and parity developments. Final prices were 30 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher.

The 12 points advance in the October cotton parity and the belief the administration's plan on wages will increase pressure for higher prices brought in heavy commission house and trade buying in early dealings.

After gains of 80 cents a bale were reached, the market encountered profit taking and dipped as much as 90 cents a bale under the previous close before rallying.

The American Cotton Shippers association estimated it will be a month before any arrangements are completed on foreign credits for purchases of American cotton.

Futures closed 30 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher.

arrogant crimes during the war."

Allied headquarters moved yesterday to clear Japan's educational system of influences that brought war and suffering to the common people.

A directive ordered the dismissal of all known militarists and ultra-nationalists from the nation's school system and temporary denial of teaching positions to former members of the military element.

Labor Takes New Hand

The order supplemented that of Oct. 22 which directed Japan to overhaul the school system so it would fit into the Democratic picture of the future.

The trend toward a Democratis state has reached the ranks of Japanese labor and it has thrown off its governmental restrictions, said a headquarters summary. With the conservative Japan Trade Union congress and the left wing of the National Council of Japanese labor unions reaching an agreement on differences, labor leaders announced they would sponsor a meeting Friday to create a Socialist party.

Black Market Broken

Indications were that labor would depend upon a united political front to further its aims. Labor officials were drafting legislation designed to legalize unions, dissolution of which began in 1940.

Occupation authorities announced smashing of a black market involving at least half a million dollars worth of stolen army rations and clothing. Four American soldiers, two Italian middlemen and three Japanese distributors were arrested.

Two Dead, Four Hurt In Sweetwater Crash

SWEETWATER, Oct. 31. (AP)—Two persons were fatally injured and four others were hurt in a truck-automobile collision 10 miles north of Sweetwater tonight.

Enrique Ortega, 50 and his 10-year-old daughter were killed. Lewis Ortega, 85, Adelina Ortega, 15, Margaret Martinez, 15, and Miscoela Martinez, 21, were in a Sweetwater hospital. Their injuries were not believed serious.

The victims had been picking cotton and were returning to their homes in Sweetwater. Their automobile was in a collision with an oil field truck, Deputy Sheriff Homer Bradford of Sweetwater said.

Plans Announced For Series Of Youth Rallies To Be Held In City

Beginning Sunday, Nov. 11, and continuing four consecutive Sundays a series of youth rallies under the direction of Rev. Jimmy Bell, youth speaker from Clovis, N. M., will be sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce aiming at a city-wide "better youth" movement.

In an adopted resolution the Jaycees have outlined a program for the "underprivileged and unchurch youth of Lubbock," at the same time setting forth a statement declaring they are interested in the welfare of the community and the youth, not "holding forth as a religious organization."

Ministers To Cooperate

The meetings will be inter-denominational and will be held at a public meeting house or church, to be announced upon completion of arrangements. The cooperation and aid of Lubbock ministers has been asked and received by the civic club.

At each of the rallies, according to the club resolution, a religious message will be brought by Bell to the attending youth "touching on major fundamental Biblical principles and omitting controversial religious interpretations.

The importance of youth taking a more dynamic part in church activities and civic projects and "bringing about a closer unity and understanding of the various denominations" will be emphasized in the meetings, according to the Jaycee statement.

Youth Council Planned

"We realize the churches of this city are doing a great and progressive work in training our youth spiritually and we are only trying to strengthen their efforts and solicit their cooperation in a city-wide 'beter youth' movement," the statement said.

The program outlined by the Jaycees includes the forming of a "stronger inter-city youth council that shall meet periodically to discuss and outline projects for the alleviation of juvenile delinquency and at the same time set up a code of religious ethics to abide by through being a member of the organization." Meetings of this council will be held after each rally with the representatives from various sections of the city having voice in all matters having to do with the welfare of the youth.

An adult council will be set up to aid and advise the youth group to "bring about closer cooperation of youth and adults, going back into the home to give another curb to juvenile delinquency."

Recreational Group Suggested

A recreational council has also been suggested by the Jaycees for the youth to study their needs and present them to an adult group, including the Ministerial alliance of the city, to impress upon the public "the importance of proper supervised recreational facilities . . . for progress in this respect and a closer unity with the recreational department of Lubbock."

One youth organization, the student religious group at Texas Tech, has already endorsed the program through its president, Miss Norma Cleavenger, and has pledged cooperation. A like statement is expected from the high school organizaion.

Rev. Bell will speak to the college group tonight at the First Presbyterian church and arrangements are being made for him to appear before all civic and church groups of the city.

Rev. Bell, a graduate of the Arkansas Law School with theological training received at Southern Methodist university at Dallas, has received the endorsement of the state Jaycee group and has headed a move of this type for the Chicago, Ill., Junior Chamber in the past. His work in Chicago was endorsed by over 15 ministerial alliances and the Chicago Federation of Churches.

Inspector To Visit Marine Recruiter

On a tour of inspection of the local Marine recruiting station Col. John R. Lanigan, officer in charge of the Southern Procurement division of the U. S. Marines, will arrive in Lubbock today.

Capt. John F. Gheen, officer in charge of El Paso district recruiting, arrived last night for a three-day stay here. Green is accompanied by Sgt. Ralph Kaffka.

Col. Lanigan, of Washington, D. C., has recently succeeded Lt. Col. Louis G. Monville as head of the Dallas headquarters. The change was announced Oct. 6.

Veteran Of Pacific

The new commanding officer is a veteran of campaigns in Nicaragua and China and action in the Marianas and Iwo Jima. He wears the Navy Cross, Legion of Merit and the Purple Heart, the latter for wounds received in action against the enemy in the Marine conquest of Saipan.

Col. Lanigan will arrive by Marine corps plane, accompanied by a pilot and a crew sergeant.

S/Sgt. D. N. Pope, in charge of the local recruiting sub-station located on the second floor of the post office building, also announced the quota of 30 recruits for November and the names of 12 South Plains men who enlisted during the past month.

Marine recruits in October included John D. Brophy, Harry LeMaire, Harold Harry Anderson, Floyd Dudley Hustead, Gilly Gene Petree and William Bruce LeMaire, all of Lubbock; Elmer C. Adkins, Littlefield; Bruce Dayton Strickland, Muleshoe; Dan Max Florence, Seminole; Barney L. Stence, Idalou; Robert L. McCauley, Plainview; and Henry M. Stephens, Melrose, N. M.

James L. Monroe, Jr. Given Army Discharge

HALE CENTER, Oct. 31 (Special) James L. Monroe, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Monroe, sr., pioneer residents here, arrived home this week from Lowrey field, Colo., where he received his discharge from the Army Air forces. He had reached the rank of major before securing his discharge. He asked retirement from the service after being employed as business manager for the Hale County Co-Operative hospital, recently chartered here.

Monroe received the air medal and other honors for his services with the Eighth Air force in England. He was the inventor of a special type bomb case used in pinpoint distribution of propaganda literature inside occupied European countries.

He had served more than four years in the Army Air forces, and was enroute to the Pacific to work with propaganda warfare when Japan surrendered.

The hospital here now has 520 family memberships and donations have brought funds on hand to $31,000, Treasurer R. A. Jefferies said this week.

A membership meeting is to be held in November when a permanent board will be elected, by-laws and constitution adopted and complete plans for the hospital building announced.

Monroe said this week he would open a temporary office in the next few days in a room at First National band here, where memberships will be handled, and other matters taken care of.

Tech Foundation Aims Outlined

Aims of Texas Tech Foundation were outlined by Dr. Clifford B. Jones, Texas Tech president emeritus, when the board of directors assembled this week in chamber of commerce office for first session since the June 30 reorganization meeting.

Dr. Jones urged board of directors to make the organization more active and improve its present situation. The Foundation serves as a receiving agency for gifts to the college.

Anyone wishing to contribute gifts or funds to the college may do so by making their presentation to the Foundation which accepts it on behalf of the division or department for which it is intended. Donors who stipulate that gifts be used for a special purpose may write a check payable to the Foundation which in turn earmarks the sum for that use.

Approximately $14,824.82 is in the Foundation fund at the present time, the major portion of which is designated for special purposes, according to W. T. Gaston, Tech business manager and secretary for the Foundation.

Other Board members are Dr. R. C. Goodwin, vice-president; Dr. Wm. M. Whyburn, Tech president; O. B. Ratliff, Arch Lamb, A. B. Davis, Parker Prouty, Jack M. Randall, Dr. W. C. Holden, and J. Doyle Settle.

October Enlistments In Navy Total 25

Twenty-five men have enlisted in the regular Navy through the local U. S. Navy Recruiting substation, second floor of the post office, during the month of October, according to Chief Specialist John C. Oldham, recruiter in charge.

Men who have enlisted from this area include William H. Branch, David C. Brannon, M. C. Weatherford, all of Lubbock; Eddy L. Huff and James C. Powers, Slaton; Billy Eikenhorst, jr., Plainview; Troy E. Field and Billie J. Dosher, Littlefield; Edward H. R. Green and Marvin R. Steagall, Levelland; Loyd L. Borough, Brownfield; Meguel S. Melendez, Lamesa; Lester L. Clary, Seminole; Darrel W. Suitt, O'Donnell; Jerome W. Squyres, jr., Tulia; Samuel J. Thornhill, McAdoo; Donald D. Atwood, Kermit; and Paul J. Jackson and James Kirkland, Lubbock negroes.

Now at the main station at Dallas taking examinations for enlistment are Eugene F. Johnson, Roy O. Taekell, Robert L. May, Charles D. Hughey, Jessie W. Carpenter and Hubert Wilhite, jr.

China has two of the great rivers of the world—the Yangtse and the Yellow.

GI Benefits Go To Current Enlistees

Men enlisting in the U. S. Army for the first time are still eligible for all benefits coming under the GI Bill of Rights, according to an announcement from the Army's West Texas District recruiting headquarters on third floor of the post office.

Benefits have been extended over the period of enlistments up to Oct., 1946, governed by the length of time for which they enlist.

The announcement pointed out that a 17-year-old boy may enlist for a three-year "hitch," be discharged when he reaches the age of 20, enabling him to enter college for a period of three years with tuition and books paid and a monthly allotment of $50 going to single men and $75 to married men. (A bill is now pending in Congress to raise this allotment to $60 and $85 for single and married men, respectively, according to the announcement.)

November 21 has been set as the last day that veterans, discharged under the point system, may reenlist and retain their previous rank. After that time, however, a veteran will still get a reenlistment allowance, based on $50 pay for each year served previously in the last enlistment, and the reenlistment furlough.

It was pointed out that the reenlistment allowance will only reach back to 1938, giving a limit of seven years for which a person will be paid.

...erners Polish Defense For Brownfield Cub Battle

...bbock Westerners turned ... attention to the defense Wednesday afternoon at Chapman ...d, and spent a long session at defensive scrimmage in getting ready for the powerful running game of the Brownfield Cubs here Friday night in a conference game.

The club was looking far from perfect on their tackling during the scrimmage session, however, the linemen were finding the second string line unable to keep them from swarming the backfielders on the reserves.

Heading this slashing brand of play was Paul Waters, big tackle of the club, who appears about ready to make a strong bid for a berth on the starting lineup this week.

Reserve linemen couldn't keep the big fellow out of their backfield, and he was breaking up the reserves offense, running off Brownfield formations, with great regularity.

Coach Dixie White and George Philbrick topped off the defensive scrimmage with a short offensive session of dummy scrimmage, during which the squad ran through the entire lits of plays before calling it a day.

Brewer, Wall Look On

George Brewer, top ball carrier and leading scorer, was still on the sidelines, but he had company Wednesday afternoon. Stoney Wall, regular guard, was nursing a bruised shoulder from the sidelines, but likely will be ready to go Friday night.

The club will have one more session this afternoon, but it will be more in the form of a tapering off drill and a final brushing up of both the offense and defense.

The two teams will be seeking victory No. 1 in the league standing Friday night, both suffering two losses in conference play. The pair of league losses, however, are the only ones charged against Brownfield this season.

Buffs Seek Victory At Homecoming Tilt

CANYON, Oct. 31.—After five straight losses to bigger schools, West Texas State Teachers is gunning for a Homecoming day victory this week over Dalhart Army Air field.

The game will be played at 3 p.m. on Saturday, November 3. In addition to ex-students, the audience will include a dozen high school bands here for their annual marching contest, which will begin at 1 p.m.

For the first time in many weeks, Coach Gus Miller will have a line intact for a week of intensive practice. His backfield cripples, too, may be in better condition this week.

On paper, the prospects of the Buffs are good this week. Last week Dalhart AAF's Dominators lost to Amarillo Army Air field, 36-0. The Buffs lost to the Sky Giants by a 12-21 score. Yet, considering the fact that the Dalhart club is just getting under way, one is not moved to give the Buffs a very wide margin.

However, West Texas State

Yanks, Giants Start Big Feud

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP) — There's a feud a-brewin', pardner, between Laughing Larry MacPhail and Happy Horace Stoneham over just how the Yankees and Giants would cut up the rent from Uncle Mike Jacobs for the Joe Louis-Billy Conn clout party next June.

Seems that the two clubs have always split rentals from fights and college football down the middle, no matter which ball park was the battle pit. But professional football was a horse from a different garage. The New York pro grid Giants play all their games in the Polo Grounds, so the baseball Giants always have had the rent for themselves. Naturally, Laughing Larry wouldn't mind getting a piece of that, if it could be worked out.

From what you hear around and about now, Laughing Larry expects to be the landlord at Yankee Stadium when Uncle Mike trots out Joe and Billy in June. Uncle Mike, of course, is still giving off about the possibility that Philadelphia, Chicago or Detroit may be the spot, but insiders insist the way matters stand now the Bomber and the pretty boy will do their nose-mashing no further than a subway ride from Times Square.

Larry has told Stoneham that he considers the agreement between the Yanks and Giants on fight rentals to be slightly worn out now. The Louis-Conn clambake figures to draw up there around $2,000,000 at the gate anyway, and nine per cent rental "take"—a mere $180,000—makes a neat apple pie to cut. Happy Horace realizes that.

One guy, who's supposed to be "in on the know" in such things, tells you the fight may even be "chased out of New York if this rhubarb gets too bad.

Hood Disqualified In Main Wrestling Event

Wrestling returned to Lubbock Wednesday night, with the Lubbock Horse and Mule auction arena packed for the opening show, and many turned away at the gates.

The Hood, masked wrestler, battled with Tony Ross on even terms through two falls before he was disqualified after seven minutes of the third fall for roughness and persistent use of his thumb in the eye of Ross.

The action of Referee Babe Ritchie in disqualifying the Hood met with the approval of the fans, but fans were disappointed when efforts to unmask the Hood proved fruitless.

The Hood had won the first fall in 17 minutes. Ross bounded back to even the match in seven minutes, to set the stage for the finishing session of seven minutes which ended in the disqualification.

George Hackenschmidt was the winner in the semi-final of the card, taking the first and third falls, while Milt Olsen won the second.

Hackenschmidt used an airplane spin to win the opening fall in 20 minutes. Olsen evened the match in five minutes with a leg split, but again fell victim of the crash landing of the airplane spin after eight minutes of the third fall.

The opening preliminary went to Ivan Jones, who used 16 of the allotted 30 minutes time limit to pin Sebastan Vturbe, using a pin fall for the winning fall.

Teachers struck with considerable power last week, disorganizing the Texas Tech attack and leading in the first half, 6 to 0. The Raiders called in the ailing but nevertheless sensational Walter Schlinkman to score twice in the second half and win, 12 to 6.

One thing is certain this week: The Buffaloes are determined to win for the exes—and themselves.

Baugh, Hutson In Class Alone

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (U.P.) — Two of football's all-time great players were in danger of slipping into obscurity today because of flawless perfection has made them "monotonous stars."

They are Slingin' Sammy Baugh, of the Washington Redskins and spindle legged Don Hutson of the Green Bay Packers, whose wizardy at throwing and catching a pigskin first startled the professional football world almost a decade ago.

Get Too Good

But paradoxically, they have become too good. Down through the years, this pair of sinewy Southerners have continued to make big gains against father time. Instead of growing mellow with the years, they have become greater—but they make it look too easy.

Fans, tired of cheering the same name, and sports writers, searching for new adjectives, have turned to other players. Now Texas Sammy and Alabama Donald are taken for granted and receive the most publicity when they have a "bum day."

But weekly National Football League statistics released today show that Baugh, 31, the Rotan, Tex., rancher with the rifle-shot arm, and Hutson, 32, the Green Bay bowling proprietor with the sticky fingers, remain the greatest in their departments the game has ever seen.

Have Sensational Record

Slingin' Sammy Baugh has pitched 88 passes and connected 61 times for 781 yards and a .694 average, an all-time high for the wollowy Texan. That's hitting seven out of 10 throws, comparable to winning 30 games in baseball's major leagues.

Hutson is running neck-and-neck with Sammy. The "Darling of Green Bay" has caught 29 of the Packers' 40 completed passes for 633 yards, and has scored 75 points, 48 per cent of Green Bay's total.

With the pro season at the halfway mark, Hutson and Baugh stand sky-level high as the two leading candidates for the most-valuable-player award. For in addition to their individual excellence, on paper, they are the principal reasons their respective teams are at the top of the N. F. L.

Rookie Bob Waterfield of the Cleveland Rams has crashed the big time with a loud noise and undoubtedly will receive a lot of votes. There's Steve Van Burean, the Eagles' sophomore sensation. But considering the excellence that is pushing Baugh and Hutson into limbo, there's nobody close.

Abernathy B Defeats Lubbock Junior Club

The Abernathy B team proved to be too big and too powerful for Coach J. Mule Davis' Cowboys Blue grid team from Lubbock Junior High school Wednesday afternoon at Abernathy, and rolled to a 38-to-0 win over the Lubbock lads.

Two more Junior High elevens from Lubbock will go into action this afternoon, both on the road. The Purples will journey to Petersburg and the Reds will play at Idalou.

Red Raiders Leave Today For Owl Tilt

Texas Tech's Red Raiders took their last workout on the home field, and leave this morning for Houston, where they battle the Rice Owls, the team that knocked off the vaunted Texas Longhorns last Saturday, in a non-conference battle Saturday afternoon.

Coach Dell Morgan did not announce any traveling squad for the trip, but is expected to carry much the same personnel as has made past trips with the Red Raiders.

At Mason Today

The squad will journey to Mason today, arriving there in time for a final rough workout at Mason, then spend the night there. The journey to Houston will be completed Friday, arriving there in time for a final limbering up the day before the game.

There was no rough scrimmage on the schedule for Wednesday afternoon, but Coach Morgan mapped out a busy session for his charges. There was plenty of dummy scrimmage on the menu with most of the work centering on punting, punt returns, down field blocking and passing.

Walt Schlinkman, Tech's bid for All-American honors, was taking an active part in the work Wednesday afternoon, indicating that he will likely be back at his starting post this week against the Owls. Ed Robinet, however, was getting in as much work as Schlinkman, and may get the starting nod.

Kickers, Passers Work

Schlinkman and Robinet were doing most of the punting during the kicking drill. On the passing, Gene Hardey and Jack "Spider" Dillon were sharing the load, with Jiggs Jackson back in uniform again, and taking an active part in the passing drill.

Morgan was spending a lot of time working with the linemen during the drill. Pat Farris, former Lubbock Westerner, was getting in plenty of work at the guard slot, and likely will see a lot of action against the Owls Saturday afternoon.

Starters In Doubt

Morgan indicated that he was somewhat in doubt about who would be the starting eleven Saturday, but is not expected to vary much from the lineup generally considered the starters. These would be Moyers and Kelley at ends; McShane and Winkler at tackles; Lawhorn and Birdwell at guards; Turner at center; Hardey at quarter; Norris and Shahan at halves and Schlinkman at fullback.

The Raiders are in for some tough sledding Saturday afternoon. The Owls have been gaining speed with each passing week-end, after a rather rocky start, and this week will be bolstered greatly by a number of seasoned performers, most of them from Louisiana Tech, a school that has been going strong.

The chief addition to the Owl club is George Walmsley, all-conference back of last year, who recently returned to the Houston school from the U. S. Navy Academy at Annapolis. Walmsley, who was an all-state schoolboy performer two years ago at Goose Creek, is rated as one of the greatest all-time backs of Texas grid history, and sure to be a big boost to the Owls.

Baseball Draft Has Poor Picking Today

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (AP)—Baseball will find pickings unusually slim in the annual player draft tomorrow as representatives of the major league clubs meet to comb the minor leagues for fresh talent for the 1946 season.

Although players are eligible at prices ranging from the top $7,500 downward, the selections will be of low quality because the topnotch stars of the minors already have been snapped up. Virtually all players calculated to be of value to a major league club were purchased before the close of last season at prices above the draft level.

The major leagues, figuring on the return from military service of a wealth of tested veterans before the spring training season opens, do not figure to be in the frame of mind to risk paying fancy prices for untried minor leaguers.

The Philadelphia Athletics, who will have first choice in the draft they finished last in the American League race this season, probably will not make even one selection.

"I do not think there is one good young player left in the minors," said Connie Mack, 83-year-old manager-president of the Athletics. "The older fellows—what can we do with them?"

The National League tail-enders, the Phillies, will have second choice and the selections will alternate by leagues upward thereafter.

A year ago the major leagues selected 21 players. Not more than 10 to 15 probably will be plucked tomorrow.

After Commissioner A. B. Chandler finishes with the draft session, he will meet with baseball's promotion committee to discuss means of best utilizing a $50,000 fund to promote interest in the sport throughout the nation.

One of the largest underground parking places in the world is San Francisco's Union Park Garage. Its four floors hold 1700 cars.

Shells Scarce, Ducks Plentiful

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (AP) — When Texas sportsmen open the duck season Friday, they will probably have better luck finding birds than they had in locating ample ammunition.

This year it's not so much a matter of hunting ducks as it is hunting shells. The War Production Board's relaxation of restrictions on civilian ammunition, announced yesterday, will not be of much immediate help.

SOME SHELLS PROMISED

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31 (AP) — An allotment of 3,411,000 shotgun shells for the four-state area of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, will be divided equally among orders received, the Office of Surplus Property headquarters here announced today.

Hunters who have been able to set aside a few boxes of shells should find plenty of ducks, says Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the game commission.

To hunt legally out of the county of your residence, you need a $2 state hunting license. To hunt ducks at all, you must also have a $1 federal duck stamp.

Mustang Aerial Beats Central Ward Spurs

Breaking across into pay dirt on a short aerial play, the McWhorter Mustangs nosed out the Central Ward Silver Spurs, 6 to 0, in a grade school touch football game Wednesday afternoon at Dupre field.

Henry Ussery heaved a pass to Hershel Beaty for the lone score that meant the difference between the two clubs.

PLAY AT HOME

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 31. (AP)—The Dartmouth football schedule for 1946, published today, shows that for the first time since 1884 Harvard will meet the Dartmouth Indians at Hanover Nov. 9, 1946. The games always had been played at Cambridge.

NO BIDS, PLEASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Columbia's unbeaten and untied football team will not accept a bid to the Rose Bowl or any other post-season game even if the Lions go through their remaining four contests without defeat.

Ballinger Seeks To Enter District 3-AA

ODESSA, Oct. 31. (AP)—Ballinger High school, long a top-ranking team in Class A football, has asked admission to District 3-AA which has Abilene, Odessa, San Angelo, Midland, Sweetwater, Big Spring and Lamesa.

The application was filed with the district committee.

Murry Fly, Odessa school superintendent who is a member of the committee, said he would be guided by the views of the Ector county school board in the matter.

The San Angelo Standard-Times polled all district 3-AA committeemen and reported that Ballinger was certain to be accepted for next year.

Wilson Romps Over Sanders Bulldoggers

The Wilson Wranglers took to the air Wednesday afternoon to defeat the Sanders Bulldoggers 18 to 0 in a grade school touch football game at the Dupre grid.

Carlos Holton flipped an eight yard pass to T. Jones for the first touchdown. Wallace Wilson took a 15-yard pass from Holton, and romped 45 more yards for the second touchdown. The third touchdown was a ten-yard heave from Holton to Wilson.

...'s Foreign Policy

...rom The People's Heart

THERE was nothing startlingly new in President Harry Truman's enunciation of United States foreign policy.

If the contents of Mr. Thuman's declaration be our formula for international conduct, then we have had a foreign policy all along.

In the last several months, various "brains" have been running around spouting that we have no foreign policy, that Uncle Sam is an old woman not knowing when or where to cross the street, and that a dire fate awaits us if we do not fix our sights. Consequently, the general public got the idea that Uncle Sam was away up the creek without a paddle—and in a leaky canoe.

But Mr. Truman's speech has led us to realize that we have been following many of his "twelve points" for years, some of them since the very earliest days of our history. For example, he re-states the Monroe doctrine thus: "We believe that the sovereign states of the Western Hemisphere, without interference from outside the hemisphere, must work together as good neighbors in the solution of their common problems."

We have believed for a long time in international cooperation, but not until recently have we been willing to go to bat for it. We have also stood for freedom of the seas and waterways, and full economic cooperation among large and small nations. For years, we have advocated eventual return of sovereign rights and self-government, without foreign interference, to all peoples who have been deprived of them by force.

But the President outlined some comparatively new principles. Notable among them are the resolutions that the United States will strive to promote freedom and expression and religion throughout the world, and that we, as a member of an international peace organization, stand ready to use force, if necessary, to insure the peace. This is in contrast with our old policy of refraining from attack until someone attacks us.

Mr. Truman evidently did not intend a literal interpretation of this statement: "We seek no territorial expansion or selfish advantage." It has been voiced many times in high official places that this country must, for self protection, retain some of the foreign-owned islands which it has captured in the Pacific.

We can find no fault with the declaration. It speaks for the heart of America.

While Mr. Truman dwelled on precepts not entirely new, there was a definite need for a foreign policy speech by the President. Foreign nations had become a little vague and uncertain on our aims. This country had got slightly off course; a compass reading was in order. Our intentions are good and sound. The problem now is to carry them out.

Peacetime Patriotism

NOWADAYS, the average citizen probably had rather fulfill any other public obligation than that of jury service. For this duty there seems to be a shameful lack of responsibility.

It is a strange coincidence that during the time a man is asked to serve on a jury there are a hundred-and-one things that he must do to preserve the health of his family and the solvency of his business.

The jury problem is particularly difficult in capital cases. Sometimes days are required to select a jury. Many men who believe in the death penalty will deliberately violate their conviction to escape service.

This reluctance to sit in trial of a defendant in a capital case is not wholly the fault of the citizen. Obviously, the statutes are at fault, too. The legislature should take action to eliminate the delay and the expense in these cases. It should not be necessary to summon a venire of, say, a 150 men to get only 12 jurors. There are too many reasons for which a lawyer may challenge a juror and keep him from serving. There is too much procedural red tape to cut before a trial can get underway.

Statutes should be amended to "streamline" the administration of justice and to make more mandatory the responsibility of jury service.

Above all, the citizenry should resolve itself into an attitude of greater responsibility toward this necessary adjunct of our democracy. Students should be taught that jury service is a sacred obligation and that it is one of the pillars of our way of life.

One-Minute Sermon

Charity suffereth long, and is kind: charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, Doth not behave itself unseemingly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil. I Corinthians 13: 4, 5.

PRESENTATION AT COURT

XVIII

To please Leslie, I agreed to a ridiculous whim he had always bothered me about—a formal presentation at one of the Court Balls in Buckingham Palace. For some reason, he felt that this would firmly establish the fact that he had not made a mesalliance in marrying me.

At the bottom of the whole silly business was Lady Mildred, a formidable dowager, a relative on his father's side.

Lady Mildred certainly turned an honest penny every year, for together with another titled dowager who gave classes in "court protocol," she turned up debutantes from the United States and daughters of wealthy English tradesmen who had been knighted, and sponsored their invitations. She then sent them to her friend's "court classes" in deportment where they were taught how to curtsy before Royalty and handle their long trains. In addition to this, the candidates were referred to the Court dressmakers, who, under Royal Command, had the distinction of making the Court gowns in whatever colors the Queen decreed for that season.

Lady Mildred used all her powers of persuasion to entice me into one of the most expensive houses in London, but I was not having any and went to a Frenchwoman called Maghele, who had extremely good taste, and let her cook up a creation in the requisite color, a light blue, the shade of a star sapphire, which suited me and was perfectly lovely when she got through with it. There was the added charm of its being much cheaper than anything purchased at the other house. I was supposed to get into the gown and attend the "class" at the house of the expert in deportment, the Honorable Mrs. Something-or-Other.

I went there with mother and witnessed the astounding spectacle of a line of rather hefty young women, crouching on their haunches with their skirts spread around them, striving to rise to an upright position with approximately the same amount of grace as a pack camel getting on its feet in heavy sand. Mother's eyes shone with joy when I dropped a sweeping curtsy and rose again in one movement.

When the night of the ball came, we set off in the pouring rain, and I was amazed at the crowds blocking the sidewalks around the Palace, while the police formed a cordon to hold them back. Inside the immense vestibules and antesalas I found myself jammed by crowds of excited women and impeccably groomed men. Court officials in tail-coats and black satin knee-breeches dived in and out with invitation cards, and small boys dressed as pages in black velvet suits, some with kilts, were struggling with yards of satin and brocade forming the trains they were to carry for the peeresses. In the crush I managed to get separated from my party and on looking around could not see Leslie anywhere. Clutching my train, I made for a small salon where there was a chair to sit on; I was extremely nervous about losing some of mother's diamonds in the jam.

While sitting there, I became aware of a tiny, dapper old man dressed in the court costume of a foreign diplomat—tail-coat, decorations, and skinny legs in black silk stockings—who was bowing before me, speaking in French and asking my permission to sit down. He introduced himself as an attache of the Belgian legation, but he looked like a personage from a fairy tale.

He was perfectly delightful and paid me compliments with such old-world grace that they were not in the least boring. When nobody was looking, he said, "Mademoiselle, will you permit an old man one moment of intense joy?" and kissed my arm just above my elbow at the top of my long white kid gloves. It was precisely at this moment that I heard the strident voice of Lady Mildred and beheld her quivering with indignation, accompanied by Leslie and an usher with a notebook.

The rest of the evening was a confused nightmare of long galleries, immense chandeliers, red carpets, busts of Queen Victoria, and a group of nervous women curtsying before Their Majesties, who somehow gave me the fantastic illusion that they were sitting miles away on the top of red and gold clouds. They bowed and smiled straight through everybody with the most exquisite indifference. Meanwhile, the ushers and court chamberlains bellowed out the name of every one who entered the enormous gallery.

The presentation took only a minute; then I was out of the line and being carried along toward the ballrooms with the stream of excited giggling girls. There a most frightful altercation took place with Leslie. He raved on and on about my scandalous behavior and what his aunt had said and thought, while every two minutes our conversation was interrupted by some man who wanted to be introduced and have a dance with me when the ball opened.

I managed to get Leslie down a corridor and told him I was sick and tired of being badgered and insulted, since I had come only to please him, sacrificing my own holiday and work in Paris for his sake. When I had got this across I turned on my heel and left him standing there.

The next morning I started to pack my things, intending to leave for Paris on the 2 o'clock boat train.

Five programs of 16 m.m. films are available for public use through the extension department of Texas Technological college to stimulate the sale of Victory loan bonds, J. H. Millikin, Texas extension head, has announced.

"These programs are available without charge and bookings are invited at once," he said. Prompt return of the films is requested.

The programs run from 25 to 50 minutes and include the following film subjects: "Objective Security," the story of what the Marines found on Okinawa; "Peace Comes to America," "It's Your America," "Diary of a Sergeant" "Stilwell Road" "Target Invisible" and "Voyage to Recovery."

Crude Oil Production Again Shows Boost

TULSA, Oct. 31. (AP)—Increases in almost all sections pushed daily average crude oil production up 42,150 barrels to 4,270,000 in the week ending Oct. 27, the oil and gas journal reported today.

The week's biggest increase was in California, where output rose 28,000 barrels to 845,750, but Texas climbed 10,000 to 1,711,700 and Illinois gained 6,800 to 212,350.

The eastern area inched up 50 barrels to 62,400, while Oklahoma climbed 6,250 to 367,500 and Kansas slid downward 9,000 to 264,950. Louisiana slumped 3,400 barrels to 353,000.

The Rocky Mountain area of Colorado, Montana and Wyoming increased 650 barrels to 134,350.

Mississippi's production was 52,450 barrels compared with 52,000 the previous week.

Scurry Pioneer Dies When Struck By Car

SNYDER, Oct. 31. (Special) — A Scurry county resident for 50 years, C. H. (Charlie) Jones, was killed instantly about 6 o'clock this morning when he was struck by a car while walking on U. S. Highway 180 in the southeast part of town.

Simon Best, city marshal who investigated the accident, said lights from an approaching vehicle apparently blinded the driver of the car, Billy Nicks of Snyder. Jones, who was going to work, was knocked off the highway into the bar-pit.

Survivors are the wife, six children, five brothers and two sisters.

Jones lived for many years in the Plainview community east of Snyder.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

A NEW JERSEY paying teller has surrendered to the police, by whom he was wanted for the embezzlement of $65,000 from his bank.

"How did you spend it?" he was asked.

"Oh, I just blew it in at bars and places like that, and I bought a lot of nice things and had a lot of fun."

BRANDEIS

This fellow will undoubtedly spend quite a few years in prison and his wife will be disgraced and probably in want. He shouldn't have done it, there's no doubt about that. But let us stop a moment before we condemn him too much.

His salary was $50 a week. There he was, in his cage, from morning to late afternoon, day after day, handling thousands and thousands of dollars.

Those dollars did not belong to him, and he had no right to touch any of them. But they were brought in—many of them, at least—by prosperous people, most of whom made more than he did.

At the end of the week he might have handled a hundred thousand of those dollars, maybe a half a million. And then fifty dollars were handed to him as his week's pay.

The fellow wasn't very old—in his early thirties. When you are thirty there are a lot of things you want and so many things you want your wife to have.

But fifty dollars doesn't go very far these days as any shop window will tell you if you'll just look at the price tags. So he "borrowed" the money to buy a few of those things—just as every thief at first only "borrows" what he steals.

Then came the inevitable, of course — disgrace and prison.

I have never been much in sympathy with strikes and labor troubles. I think that often they are selfish and that there should be better ways to improve conditions than by completely disregarding the needs and convenience of the public.

But neither am I in favor of paying miserable wages to people whose very merchandise is temptation and not insuring them against temptation by giving them enough money to live decently.

I understand that in the candy business all employees are allowed to eat all the candy they want—and thus they soon get their fill and don't steal any from their employers.

You couldn't use the same system in a bank, of course, because the amount of money that gives a person indigestion has never been determined as yet.

But you can at least give them enough to avoid malnutrition.

Schwellenbach On Spot

Doubt Is Cast On His Ability

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

TOP-FLIGHT representatives of management and organized labor have begun to entertain some doubt of Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach's ability to handle the grave postwar conflicts between these two factions of industry.

Their fears have been stirred by their private dealings with him during the recent walkouts in the bituminous and petroleum fields, which closed many key plants at a critical period in the reconversion operations.

When the coal miners struck to force employers to agree to unionization of their foremen, Mr. Schwellenbach sent a hurry call for rugged John L. Lewis, the czar of the United Mine Workers. The cabinet member proposed a compromise which the Welshman accepted after some consideration.

TUCKER

It contemplated an immediate return to work without a $2,-a-day penalty usually applied for violation of a no-strike agreement in the contract.

It also provied that the question of organizing the supervisry men should be deferred for future negotiations.

When President Truman's labor aide submitted this proposal to the operators' committee and their counsel, former Sen. Edward R. Burke of Nebraska, they turned it down cold; they refused to listen. They feared that even tentative willingness to discuss the foremen's problem would be interpreted as an admission that they were weakening on this key issue. Several individual coal owners demurred to this attitude, but they were out-voted or silenced.

BOOST: The next move was up to Secretary Schwellenbach, but he did not see fit to make any. Instead of arguing and wrestling with the spokesmen for management, he meekly accepted the turndown. He did not fight for his own solution by an appeal over the operators' heads to the White House or the public.

He simply reported to John L. that the negotiations were off.

Thus the strike continued, with the loss of millions of tons of coal, until the shrewd UMW chieftain called it off pending a more opportune moment for resuming his demand for adherence of the foremen to his organization.

The oil operators, like the coal miners, had an unsatisfactory encounter with the Secretary of Labor. When the CIO demanded a 30 per cent wage increase, Mr. Schwellenbach persuaded the employers to grant a 15 per cent boost. Then he suggested that the two parties get together and negotiate on how much of the other 15 per cent should be allowed.

COLLAPSED: Management objected on the ground that this was contrary to standard procedure in industrial bargaining.

They contended that future talks should not be limited to the margin between 15 and 30 per cent, but the whole demand. They insisted that the question should be argued from scratch, or from zero to 30 per cent. Even labor men concede that this is the ordinary practice in this kind of arbitration.

The negotiations collapsed on this issue, and the strike continued until the government was forced to take over the oil refineries.

KEY: Two Detroit auto magnates, Henry Ford II and C. E. Wilson, head of General Motors, likewise had difficult experiences in Washington. In talking with Mr. Schwellenbach and President Truman, respectively, they got the impression that no definate labor policy or machinery has yet been established. And they doubt whether any prospective formula will prevent a labor tie-up of their plants.

With labor peace the key to future prosperity, these incidents account for the naming of John R. Steelman as a temporary aide to the White House in this field. Mr. Steelman is one of the ablest and best liked men in the industrial relations business. As former head of the Federal Conciliation Service, he had the confidence of management and labor alike.

TIPS: John L. Lewis gave Mr. Schwellenbach some inside tips on how to run his job, although it is doubtful whether the Secretary of Labor appreciated the advice. Mr. Lewis, however, acted with the best of intentions, for, whereas he detested FDR (and the feeling was mutual), he has a yen for the friendship of both the cabinet member and President Truman.

Discussing the broad problem of prespective industrial unrest, the UMW czar told Mr. Schwellenbach not to try to settle these difficulties by dealing with the "small fry" in the oil, coal, steel and automobile industries.

He recalled how he and "Miss Frances Perkins," former Secretary of Labor, had gone over their heads to Wall Street financiers and banking houses that actually control the nation's manufacturing plant.

"Don't talk with Ed Burke or Harry Moses and the osensible owners of these coal and steel and oil companies," he said, in effect.

LISTENED: Then he recalled how, when he broke away from the American Federation of Labor and organized CIO, he obtained a contract with U. S. Steel by going straight to Myron C. Taylor, the chairman of the board. He related how he had contacted what he called the "big shots of finance" in Wall Street, and persuaded them to issue mandates to their subordinates that rescinded previous antiunion instructions.

"Miss Perkins," he continued, had taken her plea direct to Thomas W. Lamont, who directs the affairs of the House of Morgan and U. S. Steel, and got him to insist that "industrial relations issues involving large corporations be met fairly and squarely."

John L. refuses to discuss his conversations with Mr. Schwellenbach for publication, but he gives the impression that the government official now on the hot spot "merely listened."

ACTIVE: President Truman's proposal for universal military training would be enacted by Congress almost unanimously if the members had the courage of their convictions. Leaders on both sides of the aisle in House and Senate admit that sentiment for one year of intensive drilling has been demonstrated in the result of private canvasses.

But the volume of letters from back home on this subject register moving protests against the scheme from parents, especially mothers. In most instances they represent the voluntary appeals of individuals who are deeply stirred, although there is evidence that church and educational and pacifist organizations have promoted the letter writing.

Not since they propagandized for passage of the prohibition laws have these groups been so active on any question before the Congress.

DIVIDED: While the activity of these elements frighten legislators from southern and western states, where the antiliquor movement was strongest, other factions have swung the whip over the men from the cities.

Liberals, labor and the Communists have bombarded the representatives from the large metropolitan centers, where they exercise tremendous political influnce. If a man goes wrong on this question, he figures that he may not come back to Washington next year.

On the other hand, advocates of a stronger national defense system are divided. A powerful coterie close to the White House prefers an enlarged and modernized National Gaurd, and until the last moment this group thought it had sold the idea to the Chief Executive.

Only the Army topnotchers have stepped forth as sponsors of the more extreme program, and although the American people trusted Gen. George C. Marshall with their fortunes and destinies in the world emergency, they seem disinclined to follow his advice now.

Social, Economic Revolution On In Detroit

Labor Seeks New Business Role

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

DETROIT, — The current conflict between labor and management in the automobile industry was no surprise.

It is a natural result of situations created by and during the war, and they apply to other industries as well. These factors were the government's holding down wage increases, the increase in the cost of living, which industrial managers agree justifies some wage increases and the promise of labor leaders to do something after the war.

STOKES

More than ever the rank and file is pushing its leaders now. This is true particularly in the automobile industry, where the rank and file is really a dynamic and explosive force.

But here in the giant automobile industry there is more at stake on both sides than the mere question of wages, it becomes apparent on investigation. Other issues reach deep and wide because of this key industry's close relations with so many other. They so far beyond Detroit.

On the side of Labor, the CIO's United Automobile workers is capitalizing the present situation to aim for a greater influence in the decisions of industry itself. That has been a constant goal of its alert leadership, which is impelled by a social philosopher.

This is obvious, in the approach used by Walter Reuther, UAW vice president who directs union matters with General Motors. He is asking that the workers, as an economic unit, share in management's information about profits and prices, and that wages be tied up with profits and prices.

This would make labor more of a partner in the industry, with its own economy considered a regular part of the whole economy of production. Mr. Reuther argues it is in the public interest; that the public should know whether price increases are necessary in event of wage increases.

In the present instance of the union's demand for 30 percent increase he insists a price increase is not justified, in view of profits and other factors. Industry claims a price increase would be necessary. This is a matter of controversy which will not be resolved here.

This is merely to emphasize the principle which UAW is seeking to establish. This principle has operated a long time in a few older and smaller industries, such as the garment and needle trades, but never on such a big scale.

Industry is thoroughly aware of UAW's aim. This is apparent in the adamant refusal of General Motors to enter into any argument about economics in such a way that would require it to disclose inside facts of its business.

But, beyond standing pat on this principle, it is evident that industry also has other purposes of its own in the GM and other automobile cases.

Industry Also Has Aims

It is becoming clear that industry on its side is ready to capitalize the conflict here to force Congress to legislate on labor. It is indicated that some quarters hope this situation will become such a national issue that Congress will legislate rather drastically. It seems to be the expectation that the public hunger for new cars may push this campaign along.

Those who want drastic legislation are counting on the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition. The desire to force the whole issue into Congress is manifest in private conversations of industrial leaders and in the advisory type of literature that passes among themselves.

MR. Reuther, on his side, along with other labor leaders, is aware of this compaign. He expresses that awareness by charging that General Motors is trying to force a strike, and that industry is on a "sit-down" strike of its own to force legislation and to compel price increases by OPA. This same analogy of a sitdown strike by industry in reconversion is echoed in some administration quarters in Washington, with a reference to the alleged hold-back by industry on conversion to war in 1940 until it got satisfactory terms on tax adjustments and recapture of government-built plants.

Restriction Changed On Women's Clothes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (U.P.)— Those leg-of-mutton and Dolman sleeves, ladies, are now legal as well as stylish.

The War Production board, which takes such matters quite seriously in the interest of fabric conservation, has removed restrictions on Dolman or leg-of-mutton sleeves, which have been officially barred since early in the war.

The agency also lifted its prohibitions against belts or sashes more than two inches wide, shoulder tabs, cuffs on slacks and sleeping pajamas, skirt and slack waistbands more than three inches wide, dress cuffs with more than two buttons, wool skirts and dresses for evening wear, suspenders on children's dresses, skirts and slacks, and belts more than 1½ inches wide on robes, housecoats and negligees.

Other women's clothing restrictions, such as the ban on accordion-pleated skirts, remain.

Prideaux and his unknown heirs, their heirs and legal representatives; Chas. L. Pickett and his unknown heirs, their heirs and legal representatives, Defendants, Greeting:

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to wit: Trespass to try title suit wherein plaintiffs assert that they are the owners in fee simple of the surface, minerals, and oil and gas leasehold estate, as their interests may appear, and plaintiffs assert and claim right to title and possession of all that certain 680 acres of land more or less, out of the SW corner of the Jas. R. Robertson Survey No. 33, block X, abstract No. 272, in Lubbock County, Texas, and being more particularly described in plaintiff's petition, to-wit:

BEGINNING at the SW corner of said survey; Thence, East with the South line of said survey, 2324½ vrs to the SE corner of Lot No. 4 of the subdivision of said survey described in Volume 1, page 72, of the Deed Records of Lubbock County, Texas, here referred to; Thence, North with the East line of said Lot No. 4, 1423½ vrs to a corner in its East line; Thence, West 318½ vrs to corner; Thence, North 264½ vrs to corner in North line of said Lot No. 4; Thence, West 2006 vrs to the NW corner of Lot No. 2 in West line of said survey; Thence, South 1688 vrs to the place of beginning.

In cumulation of, and without prejudice to, such title or titles as plaintiffs and each of them have otherwise, they further plead the three, five, ten, and twenty-five year statutes of limitation.

as is more fully shown by Plaintiff's Petition on file in this suit.

The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs.

Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Lubbock, Texas, this the 3rd day of October A. D. 1945.

(SEAL)—Attest:
ALYENE FURGESON, Clerk,
72nd District Court, Lubbock County, Texas.

News Briefs

Glen Williams of 2417 Twenty-third, reported to police that a black 1940 Ford convertible, Michigan license number BC63-36, was stolen while it was parked in front of a house in the city last night. The car belongs to Cpl. J. C. Bartelsen of Lubbock Army Air Field, Williams said.

Mrs. Jessie Jones, 1908 Ninth, is a grandmother of Marine Pfc. Roy Kenneth Reynolds, whose dog, Sandy Tex, was pictured on the front page of Wednesday's Lubbock Evening Journal, final edition, gazing at a portrait of his master, who was killed on Iwo Jima. The aunts and an uncle living here are Mrs. Odessa Stone, 606 Ave. W, Mrs. W. W. Clark, 1908 Ninth, and Burl Jones, 1908 Ninth. Two cousins are Mrs. J. A. Nunley, 2402 Twenty-seventh, and Mrs. R. A. Parramore, 606 Ave. W. Other relatives reside in several neighboring towns.

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. E. B. Teague of Shallowater, who died Tuesday in West Texas hospital, and Thomas J. Cloer who died Tuesday at the home of a grandson south of Tahoka, had not been completed last night, pending arrival of relatives in each case, the funeral homes in charge reported.

White Man, Woman Slashed In Affray

George Harris Harden was stabbed under the left arm and cut on the face, and Mrs. Annie Griggs was cut on the face in a scrape which resulted late Wednesday in the arrest of a 43-year-old white man, who was lodged in city jail. Charges had not been filed against him last night.

Harden was treated at West Texas hospital and released, and Mrs. Griggs was taken to Lubbock Memorial hospital for treatment and released. The incident occurred at Thirteenth and Ave. A.

Crop Insurance May Cut Loss

WASHINGTON, (U.P.) — Federal crop insurance may run in the black financially this year for the first time since the government offered it to farmers in 1939, according to J. Carl Wright, manager of the program.

Insurance against weather, insects, disease and other hazards was revived on three crops—wheat, cotton and flax—after a two-year lay-off of federal insurance.

Cotton Loss Soon

Congress killed crop insurance in 1943 after early ventures, covering cotton and wheat, proved too costly, running in the red more than $37,000,000 over a five-year period.

Wright said the 1945 insurance probably will come out on the profit side of the ledger unless flood or frost bring unforeseen losses during harvest. The Federal Crop Insurance Corp. expects to take a considerable loss on cotton policies, covering about eight per cent of the 1945 crop, but probably will take money on spring wheat and flax.

Policies were written for virtually all of 164,444 applicants. Cotton led the list if insured commodities with 95,756 applications. There were 14,390 applications for spring wheat insurance, 31,131 for flax, 10,603 for corn and 12,564 for tobacco.

To Extend Plan

Corn and tobacco insurance was on a trial basis. In 1947, insurance will be extended to citrus fruits, potatoes and peanuts, also on a trial basis.

Three new crops may be added experimentally each year, and after three years, with Congressional approval, continued permanently.

Rates offered by the revived FCIC are about 10 per cent higher than under the old money-losing program.

"Two hours later—they gave us enough time to get out of the way they came back and plastered the ship. Of the 1,619 who started, only 1,500 of us got ashore at Subic bay."

Taken To Formosa

On January 4, aboard another prison ship, the Americans arrived in Formosa.

"It was January 7, as we lay anchored in the harbor, that we got it good," continued Capt. Snell. "Two direct hits smashed into hatches on the decks. One bomb was a near miss alongside.

"The next four days were unbelievably tragic. One hundred of the men in my hold were killed outright. Another hundred died right by our sides the next four days.

All Were Wounded

"Not once in those four days while we lay there with dead, dying and wounded—every man had had at least a scratch—all around us, did the Japs come into the hold. No medical aid, no attention, no nothing.

"We placed the dead on one side of the hold, one by one. It was terrible. We were all cold. We had only light clothing. We had only a loosely filled canteen cup of rice between three to five men. We had about five teaspoonfuls of water daily. We had no medicine. Men died all the while."

Given Warm Clothing

Finally, those who were able to walk to the aft hold. Then all were transferred to another ship and the long, three weeks journey to the Kyushu group in Japan started.

"There were about 1,200 of us left when we started," said Capt. Snell. In the next three weeks approximately 800 died from pneumonia, dysentery and bombing wounds."

When the pitiful band arrived in Japan, close to imperial headquarters, on January 30, 1945, there was a sudden change in conditions.

"Soon after we docked our new Jap officers immediately gave us overcoats, warm clothing and food. The treatment became better almost instantly. We had hot tea and attention. But we still didn't get medical supplies."

Later, Capt. Snell was transferred to Korea, where he was living in a prison camp when liberated.

Newspapers Asked To Aid In Hunt For Cat

HOUSTON, Oct. 00(U.P.) — Texas newspapers have been requested to find an Air Corps major and his cat.

If the major and his cat isn't found there's liable to be trouble in the Larry Borenstein household in New Orleans.

Borenstein sold his cat—which his wife had raised from a kitten—to an Air Corps major, who wanted it for "my boys back at a Texas air base." The transaction took place in Borenstein's shop.

Then he went homeand said, "Honey, I sold our cat and here's the money"—or words to that effect.

Mrs. Borenstein took a dim view of the whole deal. She told her husband to write the newspapers of Texas and solicit their help in locating Tabby.

"I'll call every air field in Texas if necessary," she said.

Public Calmly Takes Lifting Of Rationing

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—The buying public either is well-stocked with shoes or is heeding the industry's prediction that new and better footwear is on the way.

The National Shoe Retailers association said it has had no reports of even a flurry of buying brought on by the end of shoe rationing and that a check of New York shoe departments showed today's business to be normal.

Australia has about 3,000,000 square miles of land, and about 7,000,000 people.

French Stepping Up Penicillin Orders; Rush Own Factories

PARIS (U.P.)—France, first of the lyiberated countries to begin the manufacture of penicilin, hopes, with American aid, to supply enough for her own use in a year.

"We are counting on the help of American technicians because you are far ahead of Europe in science," a Health Ministry official told the United Press.

France has at the moment only one penicillin factory, but by the Army last year. It produces an insignificant amount and this country receives most of its supplies of the drug from America. Beginning with a monthly supply of 50,000,000 units last winter, she ordered from the United States 50,000,000,000 units last month.

Penicillin distribution is carefully controlled. Patients in Paris must go to one of 15 centers in Paris for treatment. In the country, where there is only one center for each French department, ill people often are unable to get treatment because there is no transport to take them to the center.

The French must manufacture heavy machinery before they can set up more factories. But penicillin has captured their imagination. Sir Alexander Fleming, its inventor, was welcomed on a recent visit here with touching enthusiasm. Small crowds of people gathered before buildings he was expected to visit and cheered him.

panic-stricken throng and shooting survivors who attempted to flee.

The witness estimated at least 800 men, women and children were killed.

Yamashita Gets Sleepy

Yamashita grew drowsy as other witnesses recounted details of the carnage, his head nodding sharply from time to time. But he perked up suddenly and followed the interpreter closely when 13-year-old Winfred Coloma took the stand and, in a schoolboy voice, told how his family met death.

"I was eating candy," he said, "when the bombs exploded. I think I was thrown to the floor. Then I saw my mother, two sisters and one of my brothers was dead. My other brother and I ran outside with the Japanese shooting at us and machinegunning people in the street."

The two boys got away but, the youthful witness added bitterly, "my brother later was killed in the shelling."

Priests Also Killed

Another mass killing by Yamashita's men — on a somewhat smaller scale—was described by a Spanish priest and the Chinese gardener of San Marcelino church.

Father Manuel Antonio Garcia told how he found the bodies of six priests, their hands tied, face down in the river near the church. Besides these priests, four lay brothers and two altar boys were killed or missing, he said.

Co Ching, the gardener, testified he was in an air raid shelter in the rear of the church with about 17 other persons. He said the Japanese lined up and bayonetted 10 of them, shot several others, then bayoneted him and left him for dead.

8,000 Said Victims

The dollars and cents angle of such widespread slaughter was injected into the proceedings when Mariano Del Rosario, Manila city undertaker, testified that between Feb. 3 and March 31 he and his helpers collected and buried more than 8,000 bodies.

When defense counsel questioned this figure Del Rosario insisted his records were correct, adding sadly:

"I billed the government of the United States for 120,000 pesos ($60,000)—and I still am not paid."

World War I, declared it is time to get air, land and sea power under one cabinet head. He testified before the Senate Military committee which is considering such legislation.

The jobs bill. Another administration chief, Secretary Fred Vinson of the treasury, went to the Hill to give it a push. He told the House expenditures committee that government must be responsible for preventing unemployment. When demand drops business can't do anything but cut production, he pointed out. The bill, he said, seeks to deal with the unemployment problem by prevention rather than relief.

Building Program Boosted

Postoffices. House members sought to pump up the federal building program. Five of them told the House buildings committee that $193,000,000 proposed is not enough for the immediate program.

Rivers-Harbors. The Senate Commerce committee voted to let work go ahead on a big program without waiting for official end of the war.

The atom. A joint committee considering a law for national science foundation heard from CIO President Philip Murray. His statement said the country was entitled to know more about peace-time uses of atomic energy.

Veterans benefits. A Senate sub-committee voted revisions of the GI Bill of Rights to east the way for veterans to attend school at federal expense or get loans. The amendments may go before the full Finance committee next week.

Plane Wreckage Gives Up Nine Burned Bodies

MENA, Ark., Oct. 31. (AP) — Prosecuting Attorney George Steel said tonight nine badly burned bodies had been removed from the wreckage of a plane, which crashed into Rich mountain near Page, Okla., about noon today.

Steel said a heavy fog apparently caused the crash, which first was reported by U. S. Forestry service officials and a telephone lineman.

A search for the wreckage was begun shortly after the plane was seen falling.

Thousands On Streets

The parade was the highlight of the night's observance and occupied hundreds of the city's youngsters and thousands of grown-ups and youngsters who lined the downtown streets, causing traffic jams almost as bad as those when the war ended.

The usual minor reports of broken lights, ringing doorbells, overturned cans and other signs of Hallowe'en. Hundreds of persons crowded downtown sidewalks long after the parade and theaters were jammed for special midnight Hallowe'en "spook" previews.

Safety was the rule in most cases and those walking and driving alike paid attenion to the crowded conditions. Police were busy keeping things moving on downtown streets. Also observed during the night's otherwise safe and sane observance, however, was an auto "race" up Broadway in which an Army officer and civilian roared down the thoroughfare in excess of all speed limits.

WINNERS ARE NAMED AT BOYS CLUB CELEBRATION

Five hundred persons, 352 members and 148 guests, attended the Hallowe'en celebration at the Boys' club last night. All persons attending had to enter through the House of Horrors. Featured entertainment included bingo, several contests, fortune telling and a cake walk.

Winners in a month-long membership contest, which resulted in 115 new members for the club, were announced. First was D. L. Nicholson, who brought in 16 new members and won $5 and a three-month theater pass; second, Pat Warren, 13 new members, $2.50 and two-month pass; third, Bobbie Lee, 11 members, two-month pass; fourth, a tie between Freddie Ross and Leon Littleton, nine members each.

Seventeen members of the American Business club, sponsors of Boys' club, aided in the night's events.

Russia has agreed to detailed plans for the landing of Chinese government troops in Manchuria, an official dispatch from Changchun said today, after discussions conducted in a "most cordial" atmosphere. Chiang Ching-Kuo, eldest son of Generalissimo Chiang, participated in the conferences.

There was no immediate word as to whether the agreement grants the requested use of Port Arthur and Dairen for the landings.

Communist Units Mass

The accord came as fighting Communist forces were massing in efforts to block overland movement of the government troops into far -northern China to assume control from surrendered Japanese.

Intended D-Day For Japan Passes Quietly

TOKYO, Nov. 1, (AP)—This is the day thousands of Americans would have slogged ashore on southern Kyushu, many to meet death.

Nov. 1 had been designated D-day for Japan by the Allied command. It would have been ideal for such an operation with a bright sun and good flying weather.

Many men who might have died today already are at home in civilian clothes and doing civilian tasks. They, as battle-tested veterans, would have been the key men of the invasion, in the most dangerous assignments.

Head Of Atomic Energy Committee Urges Full Caution In Procedure

By BRIEN McMAHON
U. S. Senator From Connecticut
(Written for Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Many people have expressed their opinion during the last two months on what should or should not be done with the atomic bomb.

These expressions have been based on sincere convictions and beliefs and in a few cases were made after an investigation of the facts. I, myself, have voiced an opinion as to how we should proceed in this matter.

Reexamine Conclusions

The time has come for all of us to reexamine our conclusions in the light of a full and complete presentation of the scientific facts.

The special committee on atomic energy, of which I have the honor of being chairman, has an epochal task before it. We eleven members of the committee are entrusted with the duty of ascertaining the facts and of recommending action for the consideration of the U. S. Senate.

We must have the benefit of the full testimony of the outstanding scientists in the nuclear energy field, equipped with all the facts. If we are provided with the facts, we should be able to make logical decisions.

The scientists who have worked on this bomb, and who will, I hope, be able to assist our committee in its work are first-rate teachers as well as scientists.

Because the first use of atomic energy was for destruction, our attention naturally has been almost entirely focused on its terrifying possibilities, therefore, education is sorely needed as to its full potentialities.

It is my sincere hope that as a result of the committee's work we will be able to recommend policies which will result in the encouragement of peacetime utilization of atomic energy for the benefit of all mankind. This can only come to fruition in an atmosphere favorable to scientific research.

40-Hour Work Week Resumed At Baytown

GOOSE CREEK, Oct. 31. (AP) — Notices that a 40-hour work week schedule will be resumed at the Baytown plants of the Humble Oil and Refining company on Nov. 16 were posted today by Gordon L. Farned, Baytown plants manager.

The more than 6,000 employes at the plants have been granted a blanket wage increase of 15 per cent. The Baytown Employe Federation (Independent), bargaining agency with the company, has entered into negotiations for an additional 15 per cent increase in line with demands of other unions in the industry.

Roosevelt Trouble Boosts Bond Sales

ALBANY, Tex., Oct. 31. (AP) — Elliott Roosevelt, who spent the night here Sunday when his car broke down, helped boost Shackelford county's victory bond drive.

Roosevelt and his wife were heading east Sunday when their car broke down on the highway near here. A former Navy pilot brought it to town and two former Army veterans repaired it.

Roosevelt, well known here for having purchased Hereford cattle in Albany some years ago, yesterday bought victory bonds from Mrs. Margaret Matthews and Mrs. John F. Sedwick.
