The SDN Column

For several years The Snyder Daily News published a column titled "Lightest Mexico" about twice a week.

The column was distributed promptly by the International Good Neighborhood Commission in Mexico City and was written by John Abney, an experienced newsman and writer.

Suddenly, the supply of columns was exhausted several months ago.

Just as suddenly the other day, a "Lightest Mexico" column arrived through the mail. There was just one column in the envelope, with no explanation about a sudden re-appearance after a long, unannounced absence.

So, we are not going to raise any questions and the newest column about Mexico is included in this issue of the Daily News. We hope there will be more. A number of readers expressed regret when "Lightest Mexico" disappeared several months ago.

With the Olympics in Mexico this year and the HemisFair in San Antonio, there should be even more interest in life across the border.

Storm Kills 13 Persons In Arkansas

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer

GREENWOOD, Ark. (AP) — A tornado that devastated this western Arkansas town Friday killed at least 13 persons, police said today, as the search for additional victims resumed.

More than 270 persons were treated for injuries, either at hospitals in nearby Fort Smith or in an emergency medical center established in the library here, state police said.

The tornado swooped out of a spring thunderstorm at 3:23 p.m. Friday and slammed into the business district, leveling about half of the buildings on the town square and heavily damaging most of the others.

A search of the rubble resumed at dawn and workers feared that more dead and injured would be found.

The area was guarded through the night by about 30 Marine reservists from Texarkana, shifted from weekend training at nearby Ft. Chaffee, and some Air Force reservists.

Every building in the main building area, which is built on a square, was damaged.

Ambulances from several cities in the area converged on Greenwood to carry the injured to hospitals in Fort Smith, 18 miles north.

Bill Kennedy, a Forth Smith Times Record newsman, who flew over Greenwood two hours after the storm struck, said the path of destruction was about 200 feet wide and half a mile long.

The storm brushed through a residential area in southwest Greenwood before it slammed into the business district and then moved on to the northeast. Most of the dead were found in the first area hit.

Communications were knocked out and traffic jams developed on highways leading out of Greenwood, hampering rescue efforts.

The rampaging twister was spawned by a squall line that dumped rain on eastern Oklahoma and western Arkansas late Friday.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said tornadoes also struck near Waveland, Booneville, Dardanelle and Clarksville, all towns north and east of Greenwood, but the only deaths and injuries reported were at Greenwood.

U. N. Team Is Attacked

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — The U.N. Command charged that north Koreans opened fire on U.N. members of a joint observation team today in the Korean demilitarized zone.

The U.N. observers were conducting an on-the-spot investigation of an earlier shooting incident today in which North Koreans wounded an American soldier on patrol duty in the buffer zone, the command said. It said two North Koreans were wounded in the exchange of fire which ensued.

A spokesman said the second shooting incident was brief and no one was hurt.

U.S. Rear Adm. John V. Smith accused the North Koreans of the two shooting incidents today at the 267th meeting of the joint Military Armistice Commission at the truce village of Panmunjom.

160 Missions In One Day

By ROBERT D. OHMAN

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes set a 1968 record for the second straight day Friday as they flew 160 missions to blast supply targets in North Vietnam's southern panhandle.

American fliers had set a record for the year Thursday when they flew 145 missions, the largest number in nearly four months.

The Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots on Friday's raids said they encountered light ground fire and evaded several antiaircraft missiles fired at them in the coastal area between Vinh and Dong Hoi.

They hit bridges, roads, trucks and supply points in the area left open to them under President Johnson's bombing curtailment order, designed to draw Hanoi into peace talks.

The northeast monsoon over North Vietnam is almost over and with the rapidly improving weather, the number of American air strikes is expected to increase unless the President orders further curtailment.

Although Friday's 160 missions set a record for 1968, the number is well below the all-time Vietnam war record of 209 set last Aug. 19 before the monsoon season began.

The U.S. Command said the deepest penetration Friday was about 168 miles above the demilitarized zone against a railroad spur near Vinh. This was below the 19th Parallel, a boundary U.S. planes have been observing even though Johnson's public statements gave the northern limit as the 20th Parallel.

No American planes were reported shot down, but in a weekly report the U.S. Command said 1,070 American warplanes had been lost in combat as of Tuesday—823 over North Vietnam and 247 in the South. Another 1,002 planes have been announced lost in accidents not involving direct enemy action.

The command also announced that 643 helicopters have been shot down, all but nine in South Vietnam, and another 920 choppers have been lost to nonhostile causes.

In ground fighting, some of the 100,000 allied troops in Operation Complete Victory—the biggest allied campaign of the war—reported three clashes Friday near Saigon. They said 58 Viet Cong were killed while U.S. losses were five killed and 28 wounded.

Along the northern frontier, North Vietnamese troops struck at the newly reopened overland supply road to Khe Sanh Friday, ambushing a U.S. Marine truck convoy while pinning down Leathernecks on a road clearing operation nearby.

Unmanned Sputnik Orbited By Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today launched an unmanned sputnik into the same kind of orbit as the last manned Soviet spaceship. The craft was designated Cosmos 216.

Some thought the launching might be another test for putting up cosmonauts to attempt the first Soviet linkup of manned spacecraft.

Snyder Play Rated Tops In Region I

ODESSA — Snyder High School's one - act play won top regional honors and several cast members were cited for outstanding performances in the Region I University Interscholastic League competition Friday.

The Snyder players presented "The Crucible." Royce Starnes and Susie Hendrix were named best actor and best actress, while Dianne Lewallen and Jack Greene were named to the all-star cast. Sharon Carter received honorable mention for the all - star cast.

The SHS play was directed by Jerry Worsham, speech and drama instructor at Snyder High School.

Perryton High School's presentation of "Impromptu," took second place, while Seminole presented "A Marriage Proposal" for the third place award.

Other events in the regional meet were being held Saturday.

Tiny Carved Head Found

NEW YORK (AP) — A tiny human head carved on a limestone pebble around 20,000 B.C. has been discovered in northern Afghanistan and identified as one of the oldest pieces of sculpture known.

Dr. Louis Dupree, an anthropologist with the American Museum of Natural History, told Friday of finding the head in 1965 on an archeological site at Aq Krpruk on the Balkh River. It was brought here for study and tests.

The stone measures 2½ by 1¼ inches with carving representing round eyes, a nose, a month and what appears to be a rough outlined right ear. Some specialists also think there are traces of hair or a cap on top.

ARMED AND DANGEROUS

Galt On 'Wanted' List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Escaped convict James Earl Ray, sought as the sniper slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was placed on the FBI's "most wanted" list today.

The FBI said Friday a systematic search of its vast fingerprint files identified the 40-year-old Ray as phantom fugitive Eric Starvo Galt, charged in Tennessee with murdering King April 4.

The FBI action today added formality to what was already fact—the escapee from the Missouri state penitentiary is the nation's most intensely hunted man in years.

Ray was decribed as an avid dancer, a high school dropout, Army reject, man who likes to drink beer and vodka, and who tugs his ear when he's nervous.

"Ray should be considered armed and extremely dangerous," the FBI said.

The suspect is actually the 11th man placed on the traditional list of "10 most wanted fugitives," but the search for Ray obviously overshadows all others.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the 40-year-old white man was added to the list specially "to insure the widest possible dissemination of Ray's photograph and description to help effect his earliest possible location."

When Galt was left off the list at the time a 10th man was added Thursday, an FBI spokesman said the principal reason for listing fugitives was to "attract publicity for a guy you're looking for—and in this case there's been plenty of publicity."

The FBI said today Ray "has been the subject of a massive and intensive search" since the slaying of King 16 days ago in Memphis, Tenn.

Sentell nominated Bob Harlin for treasurer, and John Bollinger seconded the nomination. Harlin promised to keep a good record of the books.

troops, hiding along Highway 9 about eight miles northeast of the Khe Sanh combat base, opened fire simultaneously on the slow-moving 12-truck convoy.

Along the northern frontier, North Vietnamese troops struck at the newly reopened overland supply road to Khe Sanh Friday, ambushing a U.S. Marine truck convoy while pinning down Leathernecks on a road clearing operation nearby.

An estimated 135 enemy troops, hiding along Highway 9 about eight miles northeast of the Khe Sanh combat base, opened fire simultaneously on the slow-moving 12-truck convoy and the road-clearing patrol about 200 yards away.

The U.S. Command said the patrol called in artillery and air strikes and tried to encircle the attackers, but when the eight-hour fight ended at dusk the enemy had faded away, dragging their dead and wounded with them. Four Marines were killed and 20 wounded, spokesmen said, and the convoy suffered moderate damage.

Highway 9, closed since November, was opened in the allies' Operation Pegasus, which broke the 77-day North Vietnamese siege of Khe Sanh two weeks ago. During the siege, the Marines at the northwest frontier outpost had to be supplied by air.

John Glenn Is Criticized

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — John Glenn, the nation's first person to orbit in space, was criticized Friday by the commander of the Gemini 7 mission for actively supporting the presidential campaign of Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y.

Veteran astronaut Frank Borman, an Air Force colonel, said Glenn "should make it perfectly clear that whatever he does, he is doing as a private individual."

Glenn, who left the space program in 1964, is now a vice president in a soft drink company. He still resides near the Manned Spacecraft Center, the training base of U. S. astronauts.

"The one thing that does concern me personally," Borman said, "is that when a person comes from a group as publicized as this...he often speaks as an astronaut rather than as a private individual."

Borman was asked if his remarks about Glenn's support of Kennedy applied to all political activity by astronauts.

"It sure does," he replied. "I don't think this is something any of us ought to be doing." Borman said, however, "I am only speaking for myself."

Glenn, he said, "is technically and politically out of touch with the rest of us. He hasn't been with the program for about four years and certainly he can support anybody he wants to."

Mary Kay COSMETICS

Some years ago there was a man whose business was tanning hides. One day he decided that if one could take an old, stiff, ugly, big-pored hide and turn it into a beautiful, small-pored soft piece of leather like a glove — then, somehow, the same miracle could be wrought with human skin — particularly since there were living cells with which to work.

He experimented with his own skin, using in a modified form the things used in tanning hides. At 73 he had smooth, unblemished skin like that of a much younger man.

From this original discovery evolved MARY KAY COSMETICS. You, too, can enjoy this beauty secret. Let me show you that "No Woman Need Ever Look 40!"

Racists Come In 2 Colors

DALLAS (AP) — Herbert Jenkins, Atlanta police chief and a member of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorder, said Friday the "social and racial revolution in this nation has increased crime in the streets and civil disorders."

Jenkins, in an address to federal judges from six Gulf Coast states, said "racism was the mot prominent cause of the riots, and racists come in two colors — black and white.

"I'm convinced riots can be prevented. They must be prevented by local communities. The National Guard and the U. S. Army can't prevent a riot; they can only control and stop it. The responsibility for prevention rests squarely on the shoulders of local police departments."

Two Cases Are Solved

Police Patrolman Ruben Gonzales has solved cases of dog murder and hit-and-run driving recently, according to an announcement by Chief of Police Stephen Clark.

Clark said a 16 - year - old boy, who is "out on probation" was implicated in the dog's death. He killed the animal with a rock last Tuesday while it played in the backyard of its master's home at 905 Twenty-seventh Street.

"It originally was thought the dog had been shot with a B-B gun," said Clark, "but an autopsy revealed it died from a blow received from a blunt instrument."

Officers said the youth admitted killing the dog while in the company of two other boys. He was turned over to Juvenile Authorities.

The hit-and-run incident occurred at 2:13 p.m. Thursday when an 80-year-old man ran his 1955 Model Pontiac through the front of the B&B Parkway Grocery, 1212 Lubbock Highway, shattering the plate glass window. Damage to the store was estimated at $325.

Police said the driver told them he did not know the law required him to stop at the scene of the collision.

He was charged in City Court with failure to stop and give information.

Hospital Auxiliary Awards Banquet Held Thusday Evening At Snyder Country Club

The Hospital Auxiliary held their 10th annual Awards Banquet Thursday evening at the Snyder Country Club. The banquet room of the clubhouse was filled with capacity for the event with special musical entertainment by the Slumtown Symfunny group from Lamesa.

Tables laid with white linen held arrangements of daisies and gladiolus. The buffet style meal was enjoyed by candlelight, depicting a serene and enjoyable evening for all.

Mrs. E. L. Ball, out - going president spoke briefly to the group and Mr. Cy Miller, hospital administrator, presented award pins. Rev. Bill Parkey gave the invocation and Pat Abbananto gave the benediction.

Hospital board members and their wives, county commissioners and husbands of the auxiliary members were special guests.

Although many persons who have not had the misfortune of needing to be in the hospital do not know the many hours of volunteer services the ladies in the "cherry pink" uniforms put in. There is no salary for such work but their rewards come from the knowledge they have made their contribution to the people who need them. There is no limit to the many duties they perform and thus save nurses many hours of extra curriculum so they will have more time with regular medical duties.

There is three phases of hospital volunteer work.

The first — Service. Service with a smile. The cheerful "good morning" when delivery of mail or flowers to patients; the TV rentals and the snack bar are all part of the auxiliary's efforts to bring a touch of home comfort to hospital patients.

Second, Public Relations: The auxiliary's opportunity to show the public by their volunteer service and by their knowledge of hospital procedure, their great pride in our fine hospital.

The last phases, Financial: although last in importance, the more tangible. Hospital auxiliaries being non - profit, any surplus funds over and above operating costs are used to purchase a piece of equipment for the hospital. Over $3,000 was donated the past year.

Much praise and recognition should be given these women who have worked so faithfully the past years. Each attends an orientation program in an effort to outline for the Hospital Auxiliary the ethics concerning doctors, patients and nursing services. The volunteer has the good of the hospital at heart or she would not pay dues, buy her own uniforms nd arrange her household affairs to include a four - hour shift at the hospital. She identifies herself with the needs of others and is anxious to serve.

Eye Touching

Texture is an "eye-touching" element of interior design. We "feel" texture with our eyes as well as with our touch, and it can complement color and pattern in creating attractive and pleasant surroundings. Many wall and floor surfacings now come in varied textues; even such a material as ceramic tile offers "sculptured" three - dimensional effects.

Drearily Selling The Diaries

THE THREE SUITORS. By Richard Jones.

There is a decided quaintness —or should it be called high camp?— about this first novel by a British author.

The key figure in the plot is Mignon (Auntie Micky), a dotty septuagenarian who lives, with her foolish, ineffectual brother Freddy, in a deteriorating Welsh farmhouse.

She is the widow of a civil servant who had risen high enough in the British bureaucracy to have a few brushes with famous people. The old boy had kept a series of rambling diaries and letters. Hoping to raise a little money to fix up the house, she seizes upon the idea of selling his papers to a publisher.

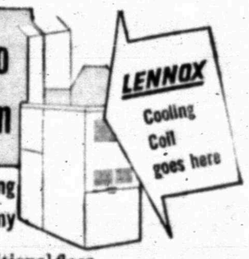

The three suitors of the title are comic figures who rise to the bait of acquiring the old boy's papers.

First there is a callow, immature esthete representing a stodgy book publisher; he is a juvenile fumbler, but has sense enough to know trivia when he sees it. The second is a brassy, crude free - lance writer supposedly representing a might be interested in serializing the diaries (if they have any spice). The third, arriving after Mignon had given up, is an American collector-dealer of books who knows that there are inland universities in the States that will pay fancy money for historical papers, regardless of their quality.

There is a lot of tedious byplay in the story, recounting family feuds and small - town jokes. This all may seem hilariously funny to British readers. But to an American reader, it is slow-paced, dreary, and antique Victorian. Jones may be a facile writer, but his ambience is inescapably 19th Century.

AMERICA'S QUIET CRISIS

Rape Of The Wilderness

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In the beginning was the land, all there would be, then and forever: mountain and meadow, forest and prairie.

Man came later.

He humbled the land, mile upon mile, town upon town. The wide spaces narrowed and narrow still. And will it end only when the suffering land, all of it, is gone, rutted and shorn by man's plow and his axe?

The Dust Bowl of the 1930s; the clawed scars of strip mines in the Kentucky hills of yesterday and right now; scummed rivers lethal to life: man has done it all.

Such rape and its consequences, says Stewart Udall, is America's "quiet crisis."

Not just because of its sheer waste, but because man, as he changes the land, is tampering with the very house in which he was created. And no one, none, can say if after millenia of such tampering man will not stand homeless in an alien nature he desecrated. An example:

A young boy desirous of a bike saved up money by trapping skunks around his family's upstate New York farm. The bike finally bought, he pedalled to the pond where he used to enjoy watching wild ducks raising their young. They were gone. Why? The skunks he trapped fed on turtle eggs. No skunks, more turtles—who ate the ducks.

That has the simplicity of a bedtime story. Consider, then, this potential nightmare. In Brazil there is talk of making a reservoir in the Amazon basin as large as Western Europe. "Has any one asked what withdrawing this much oxygen-producing green might mean to mankind?" asks David Brower, outspoken executive secretary of the Sierra Club, a U.S. conservationist group.

Can man, who dams rivers, levels forests and paves the swamp, be so arrogant as to be sure he is no more than that little boy traveling a path whose end he knows not?

Voice have been heard before: keep America's air fresh, her streams pure, her cities clean. Now there are those that warn: save the wilderness while some remains.

They argue for reasons of aesthetics, for traditional reasons of conservation. And for a newer one: that the virgin wilderness may some day be man's ultimate chance for his own survival.

"It is not given man to make a wilderness," said Brower, quoting from author Wallace Stegner. "But he can make a desert. And has."

And cut off in such a desert, having blighted the plant and animal whose destiny he shares, man conceivably could wither. Some day.

Some facts:

—The land and water area of the 50 states totals 2.3 billion acres.

—Of this, about 10 per cent remains as time has made it. The rest: cities, farms, highways, reservoirs, factories.

From this 10 per cent the United States will set aside large areas of wilderness. This was decided by the Wilderness Act of 1964.

But pivotal questions have not been decided: how much wilderness is enough: for aesthetics, for conservation, for, perhaps, survival? And what, to be sure, is a wilderness?

The act defines wilderness as "an area where earth and its community of life are untrammeled by man, where man himself is a visitor who does not remain."

But ...

Congress, confronted with political realities, will permit mining in wilderness areas of the U.S. Forest Service until 1984.

Mining? In a wilderness? What, then is a wilderness? Others wonder.

—A lodge owner who owns land within a Forest Service wilderness is suing because, under the act, the service will only allow him to reach his property by wagon, not a gasoline-powered jeep.

—Poachers have all but eliminated the American crocodile in the Everglades National Park to supply the market for ladies' shoes and handbags.

—Udall, secretary of the interior, whose department contains the Park Service, battled with Orville Freeman, whose Department of Agriculture contains the Forest Service, over a proposed four-lane highway through Sequoia National Park to open up a skiing center on national forest land.

—Trees thunder to the ground daily while the argument goes on whether to create a redwoods national park.

"Every day they constantly chip away more of our resources."

—That is a timber industry lobbyist talking of land set aside for conservation.

"They are constantly whittling away our resources."

That is a conservationist talking of the commercial users of the land. Clearly, each does not see each other's forest for the trees.

Some more facts:

The major land holders of the United States are the Bureau of Land Management, 452 million acres, about two-fifths of the nation, the Forest Service, 186.3 million acres, two-fifths of the nation's forests, the Fish and Wildlife Service, 28.5 million acres, and the Park Service, 27.5 million acres. The lands of the latter three agencies will be sites of the proposed wilderness areas.

The Forest Service, which allows multiple use of its lands including mining, grazing and logging, has, nonetheless, set aside 15 million acres as wilderness and primitive areas in a program begun in 1924.

By the act, however, these lands will have to be restudied as well as proposals of the other agencies and receive congressional approval.

The Forest Service has studied wilderness areas totalling 1.9 million acres so far and has designated one million to be presented to Congress. The Park Service is studying 57 areas ranging in size from 5,000 acres, the minimum under the act, to 100,000 acres, including such national parks as Isle Royale in Lake Superior and Lassen in California. Fish and Wildlife is considering about 90 refuges ranging from the huge 1.8 million-acre Kenai Moose Range in Alaska to the 5,900-acres Great Swamp refuge in New Jersey.

Last month President Johnson sent Congress the first actual proposals for official designation: 24 areas in 13 states totalling almost one million acres.

Making a capital "W" wilderness out of a wilderness, is, however, a thorny business. The Forest Service has proposed a 142,000-acres San Rafael Wilderness in the Los Padres National Forest in California. The Wilderness Society, a conservationist group that treads more softly but as determinedly as the Sierra Club through the nation's forests, claims the wilderness should include several thousand additional acres the Forest Service insists is vital for fire control.

Unlucky Day For Mr. Vernall Lucky

DALLAS (AP) — Vernall Lucky, 20, didn't have a very lucky day recently.

He was beat up, stabbed, shot at, hit on the head with a jagged rock and hit and dragged by a car.

By the time he reached the hospital he had lost all his clothing except his shorts.

His problems grew out of a dice game dispute, officers said.

Junior Editors Quiz on ELECTRIC BULB

QUESTION: What's inside an electric light bulb?

ANSWER: The little men running across the top of our picture are symbols of electrons passing at great speed through an electric wire. This movement of electrons is the electric current. Some metals, such as copper, will conduct the current easily. Other kinds of wire will resist the current so that it has to force its way through, which is what the little men in the center are doing. They make so much heat forcing their way through that the wire becomes white hot and gives off light. This is how an incandescent electric light works. Look inside the large bulb at left and you will see a glass pedestal with two wires at each side and a little wavy wire across the top between them. An electric current passes easily up one of the side wires and easily down the other, but it has to fight its way across the wiggly wire at the top, which is made of a material to partly resist the current. So, this cross wire gets white hot, and this is what makes the lamp give off light. It was Thomas A. Edison who made the first practical light bulb in 1879.

Expect Hundreds For Big FCA Rally Monday

Hundreds of local and area athletes and coaches are expected to attend the Area - Wide Rally of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes to be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Surry County Coliseum.

The Rally is sponsored by the Snyder Chapter of FCA and the Snyder High School Huddle. Admission is free.

Coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys will be the featured speaker for the program. Also included on the program are Jack Spikes and Grant Teaff. Both are former football stars at Snyder High School. Spikes made the All - American team while playing college football at Texas Christian University. Later he went into professional football. Teaff is former head coach at McMurry College in Abilene and now is a member of the Texas Tech coaching staff.

Landry is due to arrive in Snyder on a private plane about 5 o'clock Monday. He will go directly to the Coliseum to the rally after a luncheon with local FCA officials.

Eddie Nicholson, singing evangelist from Lubbock, Coach Truman Nix of Colorado City and Coach Donald Jay of Lamesa also will appear on the program along with several local persons connected with the FCA Chapter or Snyder Huddle.

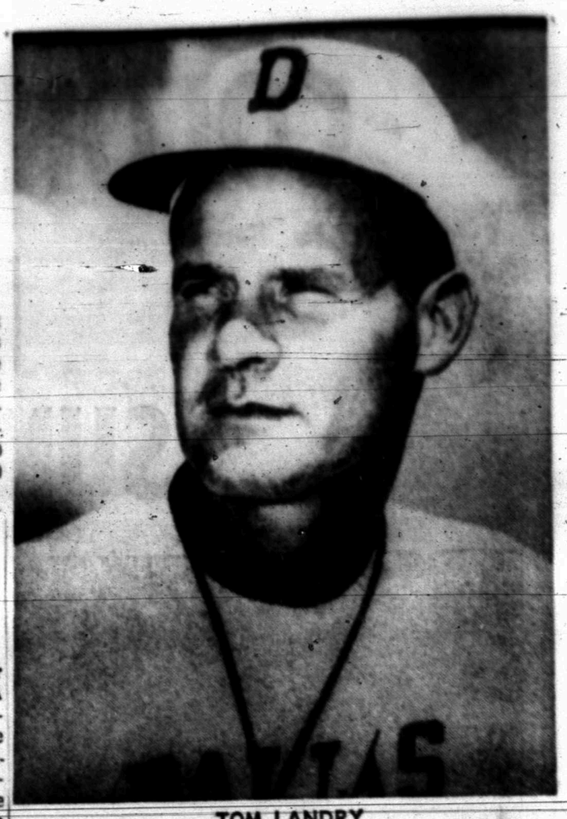

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a national movement whose primary purpose is to confront athletes and coaches, and through them the youth of the nation, with the challenge and adventure of following Christ in the fellowship of the Church.

The organization includes both Catholics and Protestants. It is a non-profit organization financed by tax-free gifts from persons, foundations, churches, business, industry and other groups.

It began in 1954 when its first executive director and founder, Don McClanen, met with Dr. Louis H. Evans, Sr. and other interested laymen, clergy and athletes to share the dreams of such a program and to raise sufficient funds to launch this new venture in the Christian faith.

The first program was in Oklahoma where 18,000 high school and college young people were reached by prominent athletes through speaking engagements. In July, the late Branch Rickey, former baseball executive, hosted a meeting of Pittsburgh businessmen who agreed to underwrite a year's budget.

The first executive director and part - time secretary opened a home office in Norman, Oklahoma in August of 1955. The next year the national headquarters was moved to Kansas City, Missouri. Current executive director is James Jeffrey. Also in 1956, the first FCA National Conference was held at Estes Park, Colorado with 240 persons attending. Last year, there were 10 conferences with over 8,000 attending.

Tigers Win On Cub Miscues 4-2

BROWNFIELD -- Ruben Garcia and Jim Patrick hooked up in a tight pitcher's duel here Friday afternoon, but costly miscues by Garcia's Cub teammates enabled Snyder's Tigers to walk off with a 4-2 verdict.

Garcia sent 13 Tigers to the water cooler after the third strike, and Patrick whiffed 11 Cubs. Garcia walked only one, but he hit two batters with pitches. Patrick gave up only two free passes, but a wild pitch in the 7th allowed a run to score.

Brownfield took a 1-0 lead in in the 1st as Lopez singled to right, advanced on a sacrifice and scored on a triple by Baccus.

Snyder evened the count in the 2nd. David McGinnis scored on a eostly error at short after reaching first on a hit-by-pitched-ball. The Tigers had loaded the sacks when Larry Wadzeck walked and Moreland was struck by an errant pitch.

The Tigers went ahead 3-1 in the 3rd. After a strike out, Merce Hernandez singled and raced in on another single by David McGinnis when the center fielder bobbled the ball. David scored when the right fielder dropped a long fly hit by Larry Wadzeck.

Snyder tallied its last run in the 4th on a single by pinch hitter Jodi Williamson and a throwing error by the shortstop.

Brownfield got its last run in the 7th. Joplin tripled and came in on the wild pitch.

The Tigers left eight men stranded while the Cubs left three on the bases.

Each team collected only four hits. Joplin was the leading batsman with two hits in three trips to the plate.

Next Tuesday, the Bengals host Lamesa on the Towle Park diamond in a 4 p.m. affray.

Snyder now is 2-1 in district.

New Texas Loop Leaders

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Both divisions of the Texas League race had new leaders today.

Shreveport clouted Dallas-Fort Worth twice, 2-0 and 6-5, to surge into first place in the Western Division, replacing Memphis, Friday night.

Amarillo swept a double bill with San Antonio to vault from third to first in the Western Division. It passed Albuquerque.

Two unearned runs gave Shreveport its first victory. An error let in the deciding tally in the second game

Five homers were hit in the second game, three by Dallas-Fort Worth.

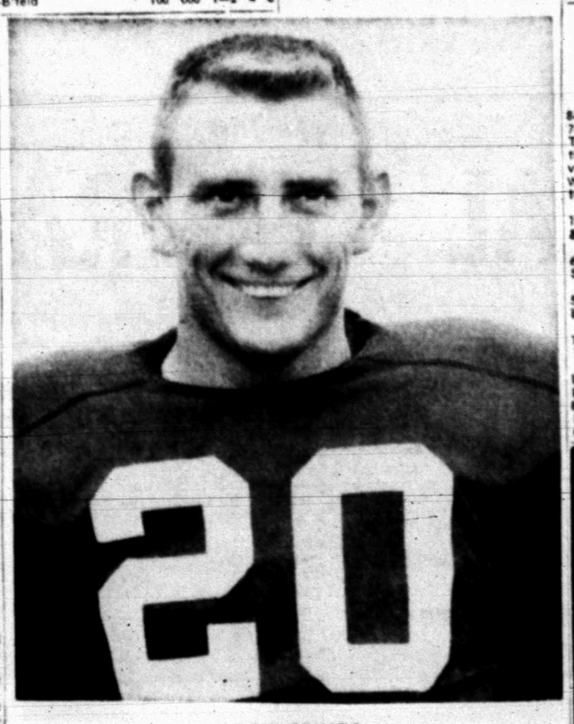

Amarillo beat San Antonio 10-5 in the first game, driving four runs across in the first inning to gain a lead San Antonio never threatened.

Amarillo blasted all its runs across in the fourth inning to take the second game 4-3. Don Engers, Bobby Holbert, Jimmy Rosario and Frank Ferro drove in the runs.

El Paso whipped Albuquerque 5-1 behind Jim Holbrook's four-hit pitching in the first game. The Sun Kings then took the nightcap 7-5 as Jon Lervig scattered seven Albuquerque hits.

Arkansas and Memphis split a doubleheader and that's why Memphis fell out of first place in the Eastern Division. Arkansas took the first game 13-2 with a 13-hit attack. Memphis struggled 16 innings to beat Arkansas 6-3 in the nightcap that was finished at 2:30 a.m.

Al Helfer and Monte Moore will have the broadcasting and television duties for the Oakland Athletics in the American League next season.

Richey Lone U.S. Hope At River Oaks Net Tournament

HOUSTON (AP) — Top seeded Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., was the lone U. S. hope today in the semifinals of the 34th River Oaks Tennis Tournament, dominated by foreign stars since 1961.

Richey, No. 3 amateur in the country, was paired against Rafael Osuna, Mexico's top player.

Mike Belkin, Canada's No. 1 player, and Boro Jovanovic of Yugoslavia staged upsets Friday to enter the semifinals.

Belkin eliminated second seeded Clark Graebner of New York City, 6-4, 6-1. Jovanovic deflated fourth seeded Ray Ruffels of Australia 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Richey lost to Ramanathan Kishman of India in the 1965 finals. Manuel Santana of Spain defeated U. S. star Chuck Mc Kinley in the 1963 finals.

Jovanovic was not included among the tournament's original list of 16 players exempt from the qualifying round, but was added to the group after two entries withdrew. He lost the first set to Ruffels but later drew even and broke servie in the tenth game of the third set to assure the victory.

Graebner, the No. 4 U. S. player, netted two fairly easy returns, committed a double fault and slammed a return beyond the baseline in losing to Belkin.

Top seeded Nancy Richey, Cliff Richey's sister, defeated Becky Vest of Los Angeles 6-2, 6-1 in the women's quarterfinals. Second seeded Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., eliminated Mary Lowden of Fort Worth, Tex., 6-1, 6-1.

Kathy Harter of Seal Beach, Calif., seeded third, defeated Emilie Burrer of San Antonio, Tex., 6-2, 8-6, and fourth seeded Linda Tuero of Metairie, La., eliminated Esme Emanuel of Mississippi State, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Boston Celtics Clip Philadelphia 100-96

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Boston Celtics' achievements take up plenty of space in the National Basketball Association record books. And just when it looked as if the Philadelphia 76ers were about to start a dynasty of their own the old boys came up with another piece of history.

The aging Celtics edged the 76ers 100-96 Friday night in the seventh and final game of their Eastern Division championship playoffs, becoming the first team in NBA history to win a seven-game series after trailing 3-1.

As amazing as the Celtics' comeback was the Wilt Chamberlain puzzle. The greatest offensive player the game has ever known took one shot and scored only two points in the second half. He wound up with 14 points.

Coach Alex Hannum said he was as puzzled as the 15,202 fans at the Spectrum. "From my point of view we got the ball in there for him to handle," Hannum said. "We played 'center-in basketball.' It was a question of hitting the open man. I never told him not to shoot the ball. The answer is simple. He didn't shoot the ball. There was no intention on my part to take the ball out of the pivot.

Chamberlain said he was that kind of shooting. And give Boston some credit. The Celtics played tough defense.

The hard-fought game was tied five times in the fourth quarter before John Havlicek hit a 15-foot jumper for an 89-88 Boston lead with 4:41 remaining. Philadelphia never did catch up.

Celtics, player-Coach Bill Russell scored 12 points, grabbed 26 rebounds, and blocked countless shots in what Chamberlain and other 76ers described as a magnificent performance. Sam Jones led a balanced Boston attack with 22 points. Havlicek scored 21, Larry Siegfried 18 and Bailey Howell 17.

Said Russell after the game: "I'm going to tell you something. I was never more worried about a game than this one. It was the seventh and final and away from home. It was a tough situation. But we haven't won anything yet," he said, looking ahead to the NBA title series starting Sunday afternoon in Boston against Western champion Los Angeles.

The championship playoff series in the American Basketball Association resumes tonight with New Orleans at Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh beat the Bucs Thursday night in the first game of the best-of-7 set. The third and fourth games will be played next week in New Orleans.

PLAN RALLY — Busy with plans for the big Fellowship of Christian Athletes Rally to be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Scurry County Coliseum are, from left to right, Billy Johnson, Roy Carter, Les Francis, Bill Hartsfield and Jerry Rains. Coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys will be main speaker for the occasion.

THE LONGEST NIGHT — A Houston Astro lady fan gets comfortable as the message board in the Astrodome flashes words that Houston and New York Mets have set mark for longest game in total time, surpassing old record of 5 hours and 13 minutes. This picture was made at 12:43 a.m. and the game ended at 1:37 a.m. with Houston scoring a run in the bottom of the 24th inning for a 1-0 victory. (AP Wirephoto)

AROUND OAKLAND

Maybe Joe Don't Know His Way

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Oakland isn't much of a city to visit, says Joe Coleman of th Washington Senators, but it's a good place to play cards and a better place to pitch.

"I don't mean to say anything bad about Oakland," Coleman said, "but there's nothing to do here. We woke up at 7 thi morning (Friday) and there was nothing to do so we sat around and played cards."

But then Friday night rolled around and Coleman started pitching, and now Oakland wishes he hadn't come at all. The 21-year-old right-hander pitched the Senators to a 3-0 victory over Oakland for his first major league shutout.

Coleman, 8-9 last season and 3-0 in parts of two other seasons with the Senators, allowed only six hits and had only minor problems with the A's as he won his first game of 1968 without a loss.

Another second-year man, Gary Waslewski, also hurled a six-hitter and Boston clobbered Cleveland 9-2 in a game of hit batsmen in which the pitchers did almost as much hitting as the batters.

The California Angels edged Baltimore 2-1 in 10 innings on Bobby Knoop's hit in the only other game.

Detroit's game at Chicago was postponed because of cold weather and Minnesota and New York were not scheduled.

In the National League, Los Angeles tripped the New York Mets 3-2, Atlanta blanked Cincinnati 3-0, San Francisco stopped Pittsburgh 5-2 and St. Louis routed the Chicago Cubs 9-2.

Coleman, who probably will be looking forward to another visit to Oakland, outdueled Jim Nash with the help of Frank Howard's third home run and the hitting and fielding of second baseman Frank Coggins.

Coggins, who had three hits, tripled in the fifth inning and scored on an infield out. After Howard made it 2-0 in the sixth, Coggins snared a line drive with two on and none out in the bottom of the inning and turned it into a double play. Then he made a diving stop for the third out.

Mike Epstein closed the scoring in the ninth with his first homer.

"I felt a little keyed up in the first inning," said Coleman, who gave up three unearned runs in 2 2-3 innings in his only other start, "but that was good. It made me pitch better."

"We really needed a complete rest," said Washington Manager Jim Lemon after watching Coleman pitch only the second complete game for the Senators this season.

Waslewski fell behind 2-0 on Tony Horton's two-run homer, but Carl Yastrzemski's double tied the count in the third and his second double broke the tie in the fifth. The Red Sox hammered out 12 hits.

But Waslewski and Indian starter Sonny Siebert and reliever Hal Kurtz got in some knocks, too. Waslewski hit two batters and Siebert and Kurtz one each and other hitters found themselves hitting the dirt to avoid pitches despite warnings by the umpires.

Knoop's run-scoring single with one out off reliever Eddie Watt followed a walk to Bob Rodgers and a wild pitch.

George Brunet of the Angels and Bruce Howard of the Orioles battled through seven innings, both with four-hitters, before leaving with the score tied 1-1 on Rick Reichardt's second-inning homer for California and a sacrifice fly by Mark Belanger of Baltimore in the fourth.

Lunn Upsets Golf Cart

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The few players of star stature were supposed to dominate the $35,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament this week, not unheralded Bob Lunn.

But Lunn held a four-shot lead at the 36-hole halfway mark today, after tacking a 66 Friday onto his opening round 63 for a 1 9 total, 13 under par.

Several other lesser lights followed before the first name contender for Sunday's $5,000 top prize.

Dick Rhyan, shooting a 67 Friday, held second place at 133 and Dale Douglass and Dave Ragan were locked in third at 135.

South African Gary Player, firing his second 68, was tied at 136 with Steve Reid and Hugh Royer.

Bruce Devlin, the slender Australian, finished fourth in the Masters last Sunday, but his 138 gave him nothing better than a seven-way tie for 18th going into today's third round.

Frogs Leap Past 'Horns

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas Christian nipped Texas 7-5 Friday and the Southwest Conference baseball race was tied in knots.

The Frogs brought their record to 8-4 against 9-4 for Texas while Texas A&M, in third place, split with Texas Tech in a doubleheader and ran its record to 5-4.

Rice beat Southern Methodist 3-0 in the only game that didn't seem to matter.

Texas Christian overpowered Texas with home runs, belting four of them. Three of the circuiters were back-to-back and they came in the third inning with Texas leading 2-1. Jeff Newman doubled and then Bill Ferguson, Mickey McCarty and Dick Turner clouted homers to give the Frogs a lead Texas could never overcome.

Texas Tech beat Texas A&M 13-11 in the first game while the Aggies got to the Red Raiders 17-6 in the nightcap, slugging 14 hits. Jerry Haggard had three doubles and batted in four runs for Tech during the afternoon. Joe Staples scored five runs and drove in two for A&M.

Dave Ownby allowed Southern Methodist only three hits as Rice trimmed the Mustangs.

Baylor scored all its runs in the fourth inning to beat Pan American 5-4 in a nonconference game.

Texas and Texas Christian play at Fort Worth again today while A&M is at Texas Tech for a single game and Southern Methodist engages Rice at Houston.

Dye Defeats Day

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Mrs. Alice Dye, whose husband, Paul, is a noted golf architect, knows her way around a golf course, too, as she demonstrated by winning the North and South Amateur Tournament Friday.

Mrs. Dye scored a 1-up victory over Connie Day in the 18-hole final.

The victory was especially welcomed by the 41-year-old Indianapolis woman, who twice this year was runnerp in Florida tournaments and was makinb her 10th North and South try.

The 1-up score was the fourth straight in the finals and for Miss Day the second such defeat. She lost by that margin a year ago to Tish Preuss.

Brave Fielding Saves Jim Britton's 7-Hit Shutout

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Britton, warming up for his first major league start, hurt his arm. And then things got worse.

The young Atlanta right-hander surrendered hits to Cincinnati's first two hitters Friday night and seemed ripe for a early shower. But the first of four Atlanta double plays rescued him and he came on to pitch a seven-hitter and shut out the Reds 3-0.

Britton rode consecutive third inning homers by Hank Aaron and Sandy Valdespino and three more Atlanta DPs to the victory—the third straight for the Braves.

In other National League action Friday, Chris Short hurled a three-hitter as Philadelphia nipped Houston, 2-1, Jim Hart and Willie Mays led San Francisco to a 5-2 victory over Pittsburgh, Orlando Cepeda and Dick Simpson smashed two-run homers as St. Louis crushed Chicago 9-2 and Los Angeles squeezed past New York 3-2.

In the American League, Boston walloped Cleveland 9-2, Washington blanked Oakland 3-0 and California edged Baltimore 2-1 in 10 innings.

Detroit's game at Chicago was postponed by cold weather.

"My arm was dead," confessed Britton after beating the Reds. "That's the first time I haven't struck out anybody in a game. I guess you have to finesse them a little bit."

Britton finessed the Reds plenty in the opening inning when singles by Pete Rose and Alex Johnson put men on first and second. The youngster got dangerous Vada Pinson on a pop foul and then fed Tony Perez the double play pitch.

In the third, he ran into trouble again with two on the two out. But again he got Pinson, ending the threat. After that, it was all downhill.

Aaron's shot followed Sonny Jackson's two-out walk in the third and then Valdespino connected for his first National League home run. "It feels good to win," said Britton.

It felt good, too, for Rich Allen, who tagged his first home run of the year and helped Short beat the Astros. Allen, who missed the final two months last season after cutting his hand in an accident, had managed just one extra base hit in the first eight games this year. "I'm just glad to hit one hard," he said.

Bobby Wine also homered for the Phillies and John Bateman spoiled Short's bid for the shutout with an eighth inning shot for the Astros. Short struck out nine.

Mays drilled a run-scoring single and Hart followed with a two-run homer that broke an eighth inning tie and beat Pittsburgh's Jim Bunning for the Giants.

Willie McCovey also homered for the Giants as Juan Marichal won his second game.

Simpson's two-run homer and Lou Brock two-run triple got the Cardinals started against Chicago. Later, Cepeda hit his second homer of the year after Curt Food had extended his hitting streak to nine games.

Rookies Mike Torrez and Hal Gilson combined for the eight-hitter—Torrez' first major league victory.

Claude Osteen pitched a six-hitter and beat the Mets when Jim Lefebvre's eighth-inning double snapped a 1-1 tie and Rocky Colavito's single drove in an insurance run.

The Dodgers needed the extra run when Ron Swoboda opened the ninth with a home run but Osteen got the next three hitters to end it.

Sr. League Will Expand

CHICAGO (AP) — The National League will expand to 12 teams next season and, like the already expanded American League, probably will have divisional playoffs.

The NL originally had a target of no later than 1971 for expansion to 12 teams but was spurred to the earlier date by the fast-moving American League.

Warren Giles, president of the NL, left no doubt here Friday, at a league meeting, that his circuit will follow suit in splitting into two divisions. The only problem left unresolved was the choosing of the two new cities.

The AL has already said it will start 1969 with new teams in Kansas City and Seattle and meets in Chicago next Thursday to make up the two six-team divisions. The winner of each division would meet to determine a World Series representative against the rival NL.

Bidding for NL Franchises are Milwaukee, San Diego, Dallas-Fort Worth, Buffalo and Montreal.

Milwaukee and San Diego already have major league playing facilities but the other three areas could be ready by next season if selected.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know if I have a problem or not. My next door neighbor is a sweet young woman who comes over quite often as her husband frequently "works" nights and she doesn't like to be alone. I am a widow, and I love having her, so that's not the problem.

But the other day I visited my niece in a nearby town, and who should be her guest for the evening, but my neighbor's husband! He has seen me only when I'm throwing my trash out in the alley, so he didn't recognize me all dressed up with my "face" on.

Should I tell my niece about him? Should I tell his wife? Or should I approach the husband? Or should I just keep my nose in and my mouth shut?

WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: Tell your niece that you "think" her friend is your neighbor's husband and let her take it from there.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for four years, altho thus far we have not been blessed with the children we both wanted right away.

After a year, I saw my physician, and he assured me that I was perfectly normal, and he could find no reason why I couldn't conceive. (He is a specialist in this field, and gave me all the tests.)

After another year, and no baby, more tests were made. My doctor's conclusions were the same, only this time he asked me to have my husband come in for similar tests.

Abby, when I suggested this, my husband hit the ceiling and said, "There is nothing wrong with me — I am man enough for any woman," etc. . . . .

We are still childless, after four years, and my husband still refuses to see a doctor. I have tried to tell him that even if he were found to be sterile, it wouldn't reflect on his so-called "manhood," but that hasn't helped. Have you any suggestions as to how I can get him to change his mind about seeing a doctor?

STILL HOPING

DEAR STILL: You probably can't, and any urging you may do in that direction will only toughen his resistance. Get someone else to talk to him—preferably a medically trained person.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I had to laugh at that letter from the husband who complained because over the years he'd bought his wife so many beautiful sheer nightgowns but she just kept them in their original boxes and wore old faded flannel ones instead.

I have been wearing gorgeous sheer, sexy nighties for years (I buy them myself) and when a friend complained to my husband recently because HIS wife wore nothing but flannel pajamas to bed, I mentioned what I wore, and my husband said, "Yeah, that's why she has so many colds."

Curbs For 'Provocative' Mail Okayed

Mail patrons offended by pandering advertisements can now take steps to curb such mail, Postmaster H. D. Moreland said in announcing plans for administering a new law which gives each family the right to decide that an ad is "erotically arousing or sexually provocative."

When an advertisement sent through the mails is offensive on these grounds, a postal patron can now ask the post office to direct the mailer to send no more mail to him and to remove immediately the patron's name from all mailing lists he owns, controls or rents.

To assist patrons, the Post Office Department has published a brief pamphlet — How You Can Curb Pandering Advertiements — which is now available at the Snyder post office. In addition to explaining how the law works, the pocket-size leaflet contains a form letter one can use when sending his complaint to the post office.

The pamphlet explains that when a patron receives an advertisement which is, in his opinion, pandering, he must send the ad, its envelope and the form letter, or one which includes its language, to his post office with the words, "Request for prohibitory order" on the face of the envelope.

Moreland said: "This new law should give some protection to American families offended by advertisements they believe to be morally harmful, particularly to their children.

"Last year the Post Office Department received some 140,000 complaints from those offended by pandering advertisements. While in most cases the ads were not legally obscene and were therefore mallable, they are often offensive and are usually not the type of material one would want his children to read," Moreland said.

Completions Still Lagging

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission reported Saturday that 96 oil and 41 gas wells were completed the past week in Texas.

That raised the total oil completions for the year to 1,468, compared to 2,001 a year ago, and gas completions to 694, compared to 823.

The commission said 131 wells were plugged, including 49 dry holes.

Six wildcat oil wells were drilled—three in the Abilene District, two in an Antonio's 2nd District, and one in the Midland District, seven wildcat gas wells were drilled—four in an Antonio's 2nd District, two in the Houston District, and one in the Kilgore District.

Big Eye Sees Into The Past

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

MOUNT PALOMAR, Calif. (AP) — It sits on its perch on mile-high Palomar Mountain, the world's largest telescope, peering from its 135-foot dome into worlds billions of trillions of miles away.

In those far reaches are things no eye saw before. Vast clusters of suns pinwheel through the void, exploding and collapsing, ever racing outward at unbelievable speeds.

The telescope sees far because the "lens" of its eye is 200 inches across—1,600 times the size of the lens in a human eye.

It is not really a lens, but a mirror. It would be impossible to build a faultless lens that size, so it was given a reflector that serves the same purpose: bending and focusing light. Shaped like a shallow dish, it collects the falling light from distant stars and stores their images on film.

When men fashioned it two decades ago it was a marvel of science. It could see in four dimensions. Other telescopes before had done this, but not in such magnitude. As it looks out through the three conventional dimensions farther and farther, it becomes apparent that it is seeing backward in time, almost to its beginning. It takes so long for light from distant worlds to reach it—billions of years—that it is seeing things that no longer exist.

Now starting on its 21st year, its sight has been sharpened electronically so that it may see even farther into space and further back into time.

Somewhere in this cosmic outback may lie the secret of one of the deepest mysteries to tantalize the minds of men, a mystery they didn't know was there until they unshuttered the eye of the Mount Palomar telescope.

This great enigma is the quasar. Quasars are quasi-stellar, or star-like, objects on the rim of the universe that date back close to the beginning of time. They are the brightest, most distant, fastest-traveling things yet found in all creation.

The Palomar telescope found the first quasar, and nearly 100 since. It has discovered many other strange things.

Astronomers now know that the universe is at least eight times larger than they thought.

Twenty years ago, men figured the distance of a star or a star cluster by its brightness. With the telescope's sharper eye, it discovered clouds of dust and glass intervening; the stars actually were much brighter and thus more distant.

Astronomers already had observed that the universe appeared to be expanding, but they miscalculated the speed. They thought stars were receding so fast — by reason of a theory which says objects must shrink as they approach the speed of light—that they would cease to exist somewere out about 1.5 billion light years.

"Light year" expresses the distance a 186,000-mile-a-second photon of light would cover in a year; about six trillion miles.

The telescope showed that the speed of receding stars is only about one-eighth of earlier calculations, and that the most distant stars are thus eight times farther away. This pushes the edge of the universe out quite a distance.

Actually, however, most astronomers don't believe the universe has an edge. They think space curves, that if the telscope could see far enough it would see the back of its own dome.

It also found that the number of quasars increases with distance. The farther away they are, the more of them it can see in a cubic volume of space.

Until a few years ago astronomers generally were convinced they had a yardstick for measuring distances in the universe.

They were sure the universe was expanding and that the velocity of the expansion increased with distance. They based this belief on observations that the faster an object goes, the redder its light becomes. By measuring the degree of shift to the red, they calculated speed and distance in relation to other receding objects.

Using the red shift as a yardstick, astronomers figured the rate of expansion as about 160,000 miles per hour for each 3,260,000 miles distance from the earth, and that the radius of the universe was about 60 billion trillion miles, or 10 billion light years.

It was a cozy cosmos, with few unanswerable questions.

Then the huge telescope discovered quasars.

Quasar red shifts are so great that no one yet has come up with a generally acceptable concept of a process that would give quasars enough energy to go as fast as the red shifts indicate they are going.

The red-shift yardstick may work for the "near" part of the universe, out to about four billion light years, but apparently it doesn't apply to more distant quasars.

This raises some serious questions. If quasars aren't traveling as fast as they seem, maybe they aren't as far away as they appear, and maybe the universe isn't as big or as old as presumed.

As originally designed, the Palomar telescope was a huge camera. Now it is something like a television set, equipped with a device something like a TV tube. Focused starlight, instead of striking a photographic plate, is directed into the tube. Here light is converted into electrons in a reverse of the process that in home television sets converts electrons into light. The electrons then are amplified, turning a dim image into a bright one. Thus it can see dimmer, more distant stars.

The findings the telescope has made are spurring an unpreecedented new interest in the stars. Eight giant telescopes have been built or projected in recent years.

One of them, a 236-inch reflector nearing completion in the northern Caucasus in the Soviet Union, will preempt Palomar's title as the world's largest telescope.

SIGN OF PROGRESS IN SPRING — James R. Warren of Tallahassee, Fla., just might get a few wet newspapers this spring as a mother wren chose his protected newspaper depository for a nest to rear her family. Yarborough And Gladden Endorsed

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Yarborough of Houston and Don Gladden of Fort Worth had the endorsement today of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen for the state's two top political offices.

Yarborough is one of 10 candidates seeking the Democratic nomination for governor in the May 4 primary election. Gladden is a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor.

A spokesman for the railroad brotherhood said the decision to support Yarborough and Gladden was made at a meeting in Austin.

Despite the large number of candidates, Gov. John Connally said "there is a great deal of apathy and lethargy in the governor's race."

Connally said at a news conference Friday after meeting with mayors of 20 Texas cities that the disinterest is "regrettable because the next governor will be the most important governor in many, many ways."

Gladden apparently does not see the same voter apathy as the governor.

Speaking to workers at a Galveston shipyard, Gladden predicted Friday that a record 1.9 million Democrats would vote May 4. He said the high turnout would reflect free voter registration.

As the campaign moved into its final two weeks, the governor candidates fanned out across the state to gain voter support.

Eugene Locke, in a speech in El Paso, endorsed local option liquor by the drink and called for expanded tourist promotion. He recommended opening a travel and information center in New Orleans.

In a swing through Houston, Baytown and Freeport, Dolph Briscoe said if he were elected governor he would bring more young people into state government.

Former Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr struck a blow for women's rights by recommending a state constitutional amendment prohibiting discrimination because of one's sex.

This is what some of the other governor candidates advocated Friday:

John Hill — Establishment of a system by which voters could renew their registration by voting, rather than by annual registration.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith—State acquisition of more wildlife areas to keep a "portion of natural Texas near every city."

Yarborough — Raise workmen's compensation benefits from the present $35 a week maximum to two-thirds of a person's pay.

In the Republican primary campaign for governor, Paul Eggers said the state should do more in the area of vocation training and adult literacy programs.

Eggers added in an interview in Amarillo that U. S. Sen. John Tower has "openly endorsed my campaign."

In other GOP politics Friday, state Chairman Peter O'Donnell Jr., said he would support Albert Fay of Houston for reelection as Republican national committeeman.

O'Donnell said it is not his intention to seek the position held by Fay at the June state convention.

Fraudulent Policy Aired

Clay Cotten, Commissioner of Insurance, today warned elderly Texas residents of a fraudulent operation which has developed recently. The operation is being conducted by unknown parties and is being investigated in several areas where activities have been reported.

Apparently, the operation is directed against elderly Texas residents and concerns promise of insurance policy refunds.

"These parties," Cotten said, "will review policies and then tell the policyholder that he is due a substantial sum of money which the State Board of Insurance is requiring the company to refund. The policyholder is then advised that he will have to pay a sum of money (ranging from $200 to $700) and that the party will return in about three weeks with the substantial refund."

Commissioner Cotten stated, "In no instance where a company is required to make a refund by the State Board of Insurance is there any requirement that the policyholder must first advance any money to secure such refund." He advised the public to notify local police authorities after being approached with this or any other similar proposition which involves advancing money to secure a refund on a policy of insurance.

Snyder Student On Superior List

SAN MARCOS — Joyce Greenway, a freshman from Snyder, was among 100 students at Southwest Texas State College who made the Superior Dean's List for the fall semester.

According to Dr. Joe H. Wilson, vice president of academic affairs and dean of the college, there were 30 seniors, 19 juniors, 25 sophomores and 26 freshmen on the list.

To receive superior honors at Southwest Texas, a student must carry at least 15 semester hours and make at least four A's and not more than one B.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — So getting back to the unanswered mail department we have a letter from this couple in Tacoma, Washington, asking about Zihuatenejo. They are contemplating an economy trip to Mexico and want some definite information on prices and details of the place.

All right, Zihuatanejo is a fishing town about 150 miles up the coast from Acapulco. Nice drive along a beautiful coastal route, or you can catch a plane from Mexico City, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, round trip for about $24. U.S.

The little town is an economy man's paradise. There are several small hotels fronting the beach that will put you up starting at $4 U.S. a day for a double room and bath.

Also, you have two plush hotels, the Catalina and Safari, that run $10 or $12 a day per person with meals.

In the real economy division, the pensiones (boarding houses) will take you in for around $3 per day — room and meals. It is a question of looking several places over and deciding which one you like.

This isn't hard. Zihuatanejo is a small place.

An awful lot of the people speak English and will buzz around helping you find a place you want.

You also can rent houses, cabins and apartments for as little as $30 a month in case you plan on staying for a while.

The city water supply is good and there is a new hospital which is modern, compact and ready to take on all comers. In the education department, you have two schools, one of which teaches English.

There are two drug stores, several grocery markets, a hardware store, clothing store and a variety of booze shops.

Zihuatanejo spreads lazily around the bay facing a cliff-sided portal on the Pacific. There are three fine beaches, clean and fringed with coconut palms. They are seldom crowded.

A breeze sweeps the town and goes up the green mountains rising to the north. Consequently, you have no insect problem like you find in the hot, still tropical villages.

There are boats for rent: canoes, launches and cabin cruisers with crews. Fishing is excellent. For game fishing you can go after sail fish or marlin. Smaller species like red snapper, white sea bass, mackerel and pompano are plentiful.

The big commercial trawlers do not work along this section of the coast and Zihuatanejo's fleet consists of about 25 primitive boats with the fishermen using handlines or a few hand nets.

For communications you have telegraph, short-wave telephone and air mail to the outside world. Three bus lines make regular daily runs to Acapulco so you'll always be in touch.

Fortunately, the big wave of tourists has not discovered Zihuatanejo yet and it qualifies as an off-beat spot. But you generally will see a few Americans — the ones who like things peaceful — on the beach or wandering around town.

For pure living, you can lie on the beach picking up a sun tan and whistle for a tray of lobster, oysters or clams. And if that won't do it, I don't know what it takes.

Snakes Are Used For Booby Traps

By JOHN BARBOUR

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The Viet Cong used a poisonous snake called the bamboo viper to booby trap their caves against pursuing U.S. soldiers, an Army major said today.

The snakes—three to four feet long—are hung from the cave's ceiling by the tails, which agitates them and makes them more likely to bite, said Maj. James A. Vik, a pharmacologist at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington.

The Southeast Asian theater of operation has seven poisonous snakes in all and they constitute a strong pyschological factor for American troops, Vik said in a speech for the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

The worst, and one of the most venemous in the world, is the blue krait in Vietnam. This small, bluish-black snake is barely four feet long and injects only a small amount of venom. But it is so potent that it can kill a monkey in 10 to 12 minutes.

He estimated that there were some 50 snake bites among U.S. troops in South Vietnam each year but that the figures were not necessarily accurate.

Of the 50, perhaps five were fatal, he said. Vik who has not been to Vietnam, said that the Army may send experts to study the snake situation.

The trouble with the standard antivenoms, useful against U.S. snakes, is that they are not effective enough against the Asian snakes. Working with the venoms of the Asian snakes, the Army hopes to have antivenom against all of them within a year.

Besides the krait and the bamboo viper, the troops encounter the Indian cobra, the king cobra, the fer de lance and the habu. The two cobras rate just behind the krait in deadliness, their bites almost always fatal, their manners aggressive and their size the largest, running to 12 feet long. The troops do not usually encounter the sea snake which inhabits the beach areas of Vietnam.

For the snake-bitten soldier, the bite of any of the six land snakes means usually that he will be unable to walk within a half hour. The bites are extremely painful and the venom quickly depresses the heart rate and blood pressure.

Victims are taken to an aid station by helicopter. The bite is cut open, suction used to draw out the poison and a tournaquet applied loosely to restrict the spread. Then antivenom is given if it is available and sometimes steroid hormones, useful in fighting inflammation, are administered Vik said.

Weary Group Is On Top Of World

CHICAGO (AP) — A weary team of amateur explorers was on top of the world today, the first men to reach the North Pole by surface travel since 1909.

"We're all very tired but very happy," said the leader of the six-man expedition, Ralph Plaisted, via radio connection with The Associated Press.

The team, undaunted after their unsuccessful attempt last year, reached the pole Friday at 4 p.m. EST—after a 4-day, 474-mile trek across the polar ice cap.

Plaisted, a St. Paul, Minn., insurance man, said the North Pole looked no different from the massive ice cap the team traveled over by gasoline-powered vehicles to get there.

"It's strictly a geographic location," he said, "and it's cold too. The temperature is 23 degrees below. We're camped on a large block of ice."

The party planned to spend at least a day at the pole to allow a U.S. Air Force weather reconnaissance plane to confirm their position and take pictures.

A spokesman for the Selz organization, Chicago public relations firm which acted as contact for the expedition, said four members of the six-man party covered the final 10 miles to the pole.

"It's a little overwhelming," Plaisted remarked. "As soon as we got here we bowed our heads. We'd made it. The North Pole. We shook each other's hands and laughed."

Two other members of the expedition, were prevented from from rejoining the surface party when the support plane was grounded by bad weather.

The expedition was traveling by four gasoline-powered vehicles towing supply-laden sleds. They were resupplied with food and gasoline by a support aircraft.

The Flemings, who speak Dutch, and the Walloons, who speak French, rarely have been on good speaking terms for the 1,400 years they have shared Belgium.

What's Happened To Stars Of Yesteryear's Westerns?

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Those TV Western stars of yesteryear, where have they gone?

What's happened to the heroes of the old action-packed, cliche-ridden television oaters gunned down by today's adult Westerns, which are more interested in character development than action?

Defeated without a showdown gunfight by "Gunsmoke", "Wyatt Earp," "Bonanza" and the like, what's happened to the old favorites? Gene Autry, Roy Rogers, Gabby Hayes, Hopalong Cassidy, The Lone Ranger.

Some, at least have gone thisaway:

Multimillionaire Autry, 60, sits at a big desk next to a scowling wooden Indian and makes more millions.

Rogers, 56, and his wife Dale Evans, 55, still break records in personal appearances. Back at Roy's museum in Apple Valley, tourists gawk at thousands of Rogers' treasures, including his stuffed horse Trigger and his first, hock-shop guitar.

Bill Williams, who was TV's Kit Carson, collects $6,000-a-month rentals on business properties he builds.

William Boyd, 72, TV's first great idol, Hopalong Cassidy, lives with his wife in retirement in Southern California.

And Gail Davis, blonde, fortyish and still beautiful, awaits a call from some producer daring enough to forget her image as TV's first Western heroine, Annie Oakley.

In 1959 there were 32 Western series on the air. Many fell by the wayside—to a low of five in 1963-65 and this season's 11.

The old juvenile Westerns loosed multimillion-dollar sales of kid paraphernalia, especially enriching Autry, "Hopalong" Boyd and Fess "Davy Crockett" Parker.

Horse operas, both movie and TV, had their chases, gunfights, saloon brawls, stagecoach robberies and cattle stampedes. The trade papers called them oaters, shoot-'em-ups, giddyappers, mesa melodramas and thatawayers.

There were the comic sidekicks: Smiley Burnette, Fuzzy Knight, Whiskery George "Gabby" Hayes, now 82, widowed several years and bedridden.

And the lines that became famous cliches: "They went thataway." "Head 'em off at the pass!"

"Another was, 'You stay here with six good men and I'll take the buckboard into town,'" says Pat Buttram, who sidekicked with Autry in 150 TV episodes and 60 movies.

Buttram, now in his third season as a country con man on TV's "Green Acres," recalls: "There were two kinds of heavies. The smooth heavy ran the saloon. The dog heavy would tell his henchmen, 'Get rid of him. Make it look like an accident.'"

The Lone Ranger's companion, Tonto, was played by Jay Silverheels, a full-blooded Mohawk, now 50 and living in the San Fernando Valley with his wife.

TV's Lone Ranger—the series had begun on radio in 1933 with other actors—was Clayton Moore.

The onetime circus aerialist and film stuntman is a ruddy 6-feet-1 and 185 pounds, with brilliant blue eyes and iron-gray hair. He won't tell his age—"the Lone Rangr is ageless"—and is never photographed without his narrow black mask bcause: "I don't like to spoil the image for the kids."

Gene Autry, at 180 pounds, is now 20 pounds paunchier and jowlier than when he acted in movies and TV films.

A onetime railroad telegrapher and guitar-strumming singer, he was encouraged by Will Rogers to go into show business and introduced the singing Western.

After 90 movies and recordings that sold 25 million copies, he has investments in radio and TV stations, hotels, baseball's California Angel, their new stadium, ranches and music publishing.

He last acted 10 years ago. Will he again? "Oh, gosh, I doubt it. I don't think I have the time. You go from one career to another."

William Boyd bought TV rights in the 1940s to 100 horse operas in which he had starred as Hopalong Cassidy. They went on the air in 1948 and made Hoppy nationally famous and very rich.

The series still shows in many countries, Boyd boomed by phone from his home in Palm Desert. He declined an interview visit—"The past has had it."

Like the real Annie Oakley, her TV portrayer, Gail Davis, was a sharpshooter. On personal appearances she could shoot out a lighted candle at 40 feet.

"Annie Oakley" ran in 1953-60 and Gail, previously Autry's leading lady in 15 movies, hasn't done much since.

"A few commercials and an Andy Griffith. I've called producers and directors, but I'm still identified as Annie Oakley. I can't blame them except that I'm supposed to be an actress—and I've cut off Annie's pigtails."

Bill Williams, 52, the Kit Carson of 150 TV episodes in 1950-55, got into movies in 1943 and the same year started building commercial buildings, now 40 in all.

Portly, scraggly-haired Andy Devine, 62, played Guy Madison's clumsy deputy in 118 episodes of "Wild Bill Hickok" in the 1950s.

Career-wise, Devine recently did a Doris Day picture, "The Ballad of Josie" and "I do a lot of summer theater every year. I've played Captain Andy in 'Showboat' about 400 times in 10 years."

Between assignments, which include TV commercials, he operates his voice-radio gear. On the air he renders his call letters, WB6RER as "WBy Red-Eyed Rooster."

"I've made some wonderful friends out of ham radio," he said. "I got on the handicap net—shut-ins and people in hospitals all over the country—and maybe bring a little happiness into their lives," he said in his well known croaking-violin tones.

GOSPEL LYRICIST — Mrs. Roland (Lillie) Cantrell, 201 Thirty-third Street, has written the lyrics for a gospel song, "When Jesus Knocks, Let Him In." It will be released soon in an album — Singing The Gospel — featuring Jimmy Davis, former governor of Louisiana.

Snyderite's Song Included In New Jimmy Davis Album

Mrs. Roland (Lillie) Cantrell, 201 Thirty - third Street, began writing lyrics for gospel songs about eight years ago as a hobby. Now there is a good prospect that her hobby will turn into a well - paying professional career.

Her first song, "When Jesus Knocks, Let Him In," will be released soon in an album — Singing The Gospel — by Jimmy Davis, former governor of Louisiana who first gained fame as a country and folk music singer.

The song has been played several times recently over radio station KHEM in Big Spring.

"They have a religious program from 10 o'clock in the morning until noon," said Mrs. Cantrell.

"I love gospel singing — we don't have enough of it today," she added. Her song also has been sung by the Loraine Quartet.

"I first met Jimmy Davis at a concert in Big Spring two or three years ago," recalled Mrs. Cantrell. "He gave his address and I sent him the song. He called later and said he was tickled to get it."

A contract providing for 50 per cent of the royalties arrived in the mail soon after the telephone call. The album could be in local stores as early as next week.

Mrs. Cantrell says she writes the words for her songs. She's written about 12 now, including another one that will be released by Jimmy Davis.

"I know what tune I want and sing the song for a tape. Then, a musician writes the music to fit the words and tune," Mrs. Cantrell pointed out.

Mrs. J. W. Lewis of Ira wrote the music for "When Jesus Knocks, Let Him In," and Mrs. Bob Womack is working on some more songs that Mrs. Cantrell has written.

The album that will be released soon is backed by the Anita Kerr singers. Its number is DL 4976.

"Mr. Sunshine" (of Radio Station KHEM) received a copy of the recording on the 10th of this month — it's the one he's been playing on the religious program," said Mrs. Cantrell.

The Snyder woman said that Jimmy Davis sings mostly religious songs today.

"They say he is an awfully good Christian man," she observed. Her recording is a gospel song of three verses, but Jimmy only recorded two of the verses.

Asked who her favorite quartet is, Mrs. Cantrell said: "The Chuck Wagon Gang and the Happy Goodman family."

She is a member of Morningside Baptist Church where she teaches a Sunday School class for beginners.

The Cantrells moved to Snyder about 7½ years ago after living in Dunn for about the same length of time. Roland is an employe of Permian Oil Co.

There are six children in the family, including two sons — Billy and Jackie —, who live at home. Another son, Army Sp4 Joe Dale Cantrell, has been stationed at Lai Khe, 29 miles north of Saigon in Vietnam for the past 10 months.

"He will be here in June," said Mrs. Cantrell, "—if the Lord is willing — and I hope so."

Barnard Slates New Transplant

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Christiaan Barnard says he plans another heart transplant attempt in about six weeks, this one using permanently implanted silver studs as physiological signposts.

Barnard, leader of a South African team that performed the operation on the world's only living heart transplant patient —Dr. Philip Blaiberg—revealed plans for his third heart transplant operation at a Friday news conference in Washington.

He said surgeons will sew several silver clips around the edges of the heart after taking it from a newly dead person and implanting it in the chest of a gravely ill patient yet to be selected.

The idea will be to have the small silver clips serve as signposts to allow Barnard and his colleagues to quickly spot by Xray any enlargement of the heart, however slight, following the tranplant surgery.

At the same time Barnard reported that Blaiberg, who has now gone 109 days since his surgery, "is improving every day."

"We doctors feel very happy about him," Barnard said. "He has improved beyond our expectations."

Barnard earlier told a standing-room-only audience of about 1,500 at the George Washington University School of Medicine that there is suggestive evidence from the first two operations performed by his team that a certain enlargement of the heart may accompany the always feared "rejection reaction."

That reaction is the body's natural tendency to reject tissue that is foreign to it. Doctors seek to combat it by administering drugs and radiaion.

Barnard said that up to now, early detection, by Xray of the rejection reaction is difficult because the heart is surrounded by a tough fibrous protective envelope and other tissues that tend to becloud the outline of the organ.

He said the silver clips will used as readily observable markers, so that any change of their position in Xray pictures taken at intervals would provide a quick tip-off of any enlargement.

AN INTOLERABLE PROGRAM
Bobby Is Against Violence

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, whose campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination has been aimed largely at minority groups, has denounced Negro violence and said it "Must and will be met with the full force of the law."

In a speech Friday in San Francisco, Kennedy said he understood what makes a Negro slum dweller turn to violence but insisted it solves nothing.

The result of Negro violence, he said, "is not a better life for black people. It is a devastated America.

"It is a program for death, not life. It is an intolerable program—a threat to all that makes life in society worthwhile.

"It must and will be met with the full force of the law.'

The New York senator again urged a sweeping reconstruction of American cities and said it should take precedence over other costly projects already started, including the race to the moon.

Kennedy's only announced rival for the nomination, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, said Friday payment of ransom to secure the safe return of the captured U.S. ship Pueblo and its crew would not be without precedent.

"I think that once you get to be the No. 1 power you have to expect once in a while to pay ransom, especially if you have your ships adjacent to countries that don't respect international law," McCarthy said at a news conference in Philadelphia.

The candidate explained later he was not advocating that the United States pay the North Koreans to release the Pueblo and her company.

But there have been similar exchanges before, he said, noting the United States paid for the release of a large number of exiled Cubans captured by the forces of Fidel Castro in the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion.

Both Kennedy and McCarthy were accused of trying to buy the May 7 Indiana primary.

Gordon St. Angelo, Indiana's Democratic chairman, said Friday each of the contenders is spending $2 million on the contest in attempts to defeat the favorite son candidate, Gov. Roger D. Branigin.

"This is the testing ground of whether or not the presidency of the United States can be bought," St. Angelo said. "If it isn't stopped here it will never be stopped."

The only big-name Republican in the presidential sweepstakes, Richard M. Nixon, conferred Friday evening with Michigan Gov. George Romney, who had been an active contender himself until he decided last month his campaign wasn't succeeding.

Nixon told newsmen afterward they talked "issues, not politics."

Romney said the discussion gave him a better understanding of Nixon's positions on various issues, adding: 'I have no commitment."

PCA Plans To Observe Anniversary

The Sweetwater Production Credit Association will observe its 34th anniversary at its annual stockholders' meeting to nual stockholders' meeting to be held in Sweetwater, at the Nolan County Coliseum, Thursday.

More than 900 members and guests from the home-owned and operated agricultural financing institution's six county area of West Texas are expected to attend the business meeting and barbecue luncheon, Field Manager S. E. Rogers announced. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. followed by the business meeting at 10 a.m.

"We want to urge all our stockholders to make every effort to attend this meeting," Rogers said. "An interesting and entertaining meeting has been planned. This is the one time each year our members have the opportunity to gather to conduct the business of the association."

A feature of the business meeting will be an address by W. H. Calkins, Vice President of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston.

Nominated for the one director's post is incumbent W. J. "Dub" Harvey, Jr. of Fisher County.

Holdover directors are T. L. Finley of Loraine; E. W. Wiman of Roscoe; Audry Head of Snyder; and L. D. Echols of Lamesa.

Other business includes a report of the activities of the board and the election of a Nominating Committee to serve for the ensuing year. Following the business session cash prizes will be awarded to the lucky ticket holders, and at noon a barbecue lunch will be served.

The Sweetwater PCA, owned and operated by its farmer - rancher stockholders has provided a source of short and intermediate - term agricultural credit since 1934. It is one of 35 associations serving all 254 Texas counties. Since its organization, the association has provided more than $186,881,000.00 in agricultural credit in the six county area.

"Association loan funds are obtained through the sale of bonds on the nation's commercial money market by the Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, Rogers explained. "We have but one business, and that is to provide a dependable source of agricultural credit at the lowest possible cost," Rogers declared.

MS Drive Set Tuesday

Retirement at 25? Not likely. And yet it can happen to young men and women afflicted with multiple sclerosis.

Called the great crippler of young adults because it strikes most frequently between 20 and 40, MS affects the central nervous system. It is a chronic, debilitating disease for which there is no known treatment. The cause and cure also elude scientists.

There is hope, however, that through research the cause and cure will be found. You can help make hope a reality through your contribution. During the evening Tuesday the local Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society will conduct a house - to - house drive seeking funds to find the cause, cure and effective treatment of the disease. A greater portion of the funds raised will stay here in the community to provide services for MS patients and their families, and to conduct professional and public education programs.

Please be generous, and let's be grateful that we don't have to retire at 25.

Mrs. Brooks died at 7:30 a.m. Friday in Anson General Hospital. She was born April 14, 1881.

Other survivors include the husband of the home; another daughter, Mrs. T. G. Brown of Beaument; four grandchildren and three great - grandchildren.

CAREER CORNER

By F. J. LAIN

Meteorology: Tomorrowland Of Weather Wizardry

Q. — "I would like some information about a career in meteorology. Will this field change much in the future?" — C. D., Statesville, N. C.

A. — Meteorology is the science of the atmosphere and experts think it will become spectacularly sophisticated as weather forecasting becomes more reliable, and as man develops the means to actually control certain weather conditions (full control is fantasy).

TODAY: Scientists already can disperse some types of fog, produce rain and snow in special circumstances, and make other small - scale modifications. Currently they're working on new wonders like reducing the intensity of hurricanes and tornadoes.

TOMORROW: A career in the top echelons of meteorology requires above-average intelligence. As weather science advances, enormous moral, legal and technical problems will be created. For example, while in the future man may have the technical tools to perform such Buck Rogers feats as melting the Arctic ice-cap to make the Arctic a navigable sea, this act might start a new Ice Age by forming glaciers elsewhere — or flood major coastal cities.

MODERATION: No one should become a meteorologist who does not have a highly developed sense of responsibility. Brownlee Haydon, assistant to the president at the Rand Corporation (a "think tank" of principal predictors of tomorrow) cautions "Most meteorologists . . . take a very conservative view of weather modification. They are only too aware that some act of man may begin a process that could not be reversed and that might have unpredictable consequences for life on the Earth."

JOBSCOPE: Most work in the speciality of weather forecasting — are called SYNOPTIC METEOROLOGISTS. Another group of specialist are CLIMATOLOGISTS: they are concerned with weather data for a given area over a long period of time. There are other branches of specialization also; however, disciplines tend to overlap. Meteorologists do many kinds of work on everything from air pollution abatement to atmospheric problems caused by nuclear experiments.

WHERE EMPLOYED: U. S. (Environmental Science Services Administration) Weather Bureau stations . . . other Federal agencies such as the Forest Service . . . the Armed Forces . . . airlines . . . educational institutions . . . weather consulting services . . . private industry —meteorological instrument manufacturers, aerospace and insurance companies, utilities, etc . . . State and local governments . . . radio and TV weather shows.

BACKGROUND: At least the equivalent of a bachelor's degree with a major in meteorology. Advanced degrees are desirable for research, teaching and higher level positions. A good grounding in math and physical sciences, and the ability to express yourself clearly are essential. In high school, take physics, chemistry, math, English, German and - or French.

EARNINGS: Average is about $12,000 now, and 10 per cent make over $18,000, according to the American Meteorological Society.

HEADSTART: Talk with meteorologists at the Weather Bureau, airports and universities. The Weather Bureau no longer has a summer student trainee program — it has been replaced with a student assistant plan available only to college students.

San Antonio All Set For Fiesta Week

By PAUL C. FREEMAN

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Fiesta week, a gala affair for this city celebrating its 250th year, gets off to its 43rd showing today in the shadow of San Antonio's HemisFair world exposition.

The opening event of the formal fiesta program is the 7:30 p.m. proclamation of King Antonio XLVI.

Things get into full swing Monday with an afternoon pilgrimage to the Alamo, historic shrine where on March 6, 1836 the 185 defenders of the Alamo were annihilated after holding for 13 days and allowing Gen. Sam Houston to asesmble a fighting force that overcame the Mexican forces at San Jacinto.

Monday evening is the King's River parade on the San Antonio River, a 2.5 mile trip by 80 colorful floats and 20 music groups with offerings from Dixieland jazz to mariachi and psychedelic music.

And a few blocks away is HemisFair, the first world's fair held in the southwestern United States.

Attendance at the fair still remained below the 400,000 mark after 13 days of a six-month run. Fair officials were expecting a large turnout to accompany fiesta week.

A survey by HemisFair official Everett Jenkins showed San Antonians outnumbered by residents of Dallas and Houston among HemisFair-goers.

Only 13 per cent of those in the early days of the fair, Jenkins said, were from San Antonio or its Bexar County environs. Dallasites showed up with 7.6 per cent, Houston with a 6.5 per cent of the total crowd.

Easter fell on April 25 in 1943 but will not do so again until 2038.
