Clearing of tornado debris starts Monday

By BECKIE CANN
Staff Writer

Heavy construction equipment will move into Wichita Falls' Faith Village area Monday morning to begin the multi-million dollar job of clearing debris left in the wake of the April 10 tornado.

The neighborhood, the first of many to be cleared along the tornado's 10-mile path, is about a mile wide and half-mile deep. It is bounded by Southwest Parkway, Kemp, Elliott, Rhea, Boren, Pool and Hughes streets.

The perimeter of the target area is made up of the 2800 to 4200 blocks of Southwest Parkway; 4300 to 4700 Kemp; 4500 to 4325 Hughes; 4298 to 3019 Pool; 4340 to 4398 Boren; 4333 to 4301 Rhea; and 2953 to 2801 Elliott, inclusive.

Federal Coordinating Officer Joe D. Winkle said insurance company adjusters will concentrate their efforts in this area during the rest of the week to insure that owners of property in the area have been contracted.

Gene Dretke, emergency operations officer for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said bids will be sought later this week from private firms which will be given the job of clearing the wreckage.

Debris clearance will be done in Wichita and Wilbarger counties, including the cities of Vernon and Wichita Falls. Clay County officials have agreed to do cleanup there and be reimbursed by FDAA.

No estimate has been made on the cost of the first major cleanup project. However, preliminary estimates have suggested the total cleanup bill may run as high as $10 million.

Debris removal will be limited to that which is considered to be in the public interest and that which is necessary to protect the public health and safety, FDAA officials said.

Winkle emphasized that no debris removal would be done on private property until the owner of the property has signed a right of entry agreement with the federal government. Agreement forms are available at the one-stop disaster assistance centers.

"It is absolutely essential that we have this agreement before cleanup contractors will be allowed to go onto private property," Winkle said.

Winkle assured owners of private property that extra care will be taken to insure that cleanup operations do not further damage permanent or potentially useful improvements remaining.

"The contractors will be directed to exercise caution to be certain they do not damage any repairable structure or other improvements such as foundation slabs, driveways, walks, trees and other improvements," Winkle said.

Property owners, however, will be responsible for salvaging all usable materials and personal property from the debris.

Wreckage will be moved to a site yet to be identified where combustible debris will be burned. The residue from the burnings will then be buried, officials said.

The same guidelines used to determine the eligibility of urban debris removal work will be applied to rural areas where debris is a problem, Winkle said. However, there is no provision for removal of debris from farm and pasture lands, he said.

"Farmland owners who have debris accumulations other than those clearly affecting the immediate area of their residences should contact their county Agriculture and Stabilization and Conservation Service office to learn if some help

Grand jury says officer acted 'in line of duty' in shooting

By ROCKY SCOTT

Wichita County grand jury Wednesday said a rookie police officer acted "in the line of duty" when he shot and killed an illegal alien who had been detained for curfew violation.

In a prepared statement released Wednesday night in District Judge Keith Nelson's 78th District courtroom, the grand jury said "preliminary investigation by (the jury) indicates that the police officers involved in the shooting incident April 16th acted in the line of duty.

"Further investigation (into the shooting) is being conducted by proper authorities."

Rosendo Sosa Ortiz, 19, originally from Ciudad Acuna, Mexico, was shot and killed in the 100 block of Ohio by police officer Jay Wright. Ortiz reportedly had fled from a car after Wright and police officer John Bailey stopped the car because of an 11 p.m. curfew violation.

Both Wright and Bailey were questioned about 25 minutes each Wednesday behind the grand jury's closed doors.

Filberto Delgado, the driver of the car, also was called before the panel, along with Wichita Falls police detective Sgt. James Shelton, the officer investigating the shooting.

Grand jury foreman John E. Sibley and Wichita County District Attorney Tim Eyssen both said they had "no comment" on the jury's decision, and both refused comment when asked what "proper authorities" the jury referred to in its prepared statement.

However, both Eyssen and Police Chief Curtis Harrelson said earlier they had been contacted by the FBI about the shooting.

Harrelson said he "couldn't say" if the FBI was conducting a formal investigation, adding "they weren't called in by us."

However, Wichita Falls FBI agent Lee Hale said Wednesday the FBI would be looking into the matter at the request of the U.S. attorney's office. The U.S. attorney's office was asked to investigate the shooting by leaders of the American GI

Grand jury indicts former district judge

By ROCKY SCOTT
Staff Writer

Former 78th District Judge Stanley Kirk Wednesday was indicted on a charge of tampering with physical evidence in connection with alleged alterations of a June 1978 trial transcript.

Kirk, now a partner in a Houston law firm, testified Wednesday before the Wichita County grand jury. He had been indicted April 5 on a charge of aggravated perjury, but that charge was dismissed on a technicality.

Kirk and three attorneys appeared at Wichita County courthouse Wednesday, where Kirk had resigned in February amid allegations of misconduct.

The Class A misdemeanor alleges Kirk made false statements and altered records and tape recordings of a trial over which he presided in June 1978.

A member of the jury that acquitted defendant Robert Wayne Ensey, who was charged with indecency with a child, wrote a letter to the State Judicial Qualifications Commission saying Kirk had berated jurors immediately after they reached their verdict.

An investigation by James Jard of the commission's legal staff allegedly found a tape recording of the trial was altered and that Kirk had made his court reporter falsely swear to statements on the record.

The grand jury also returned 17 other indictments Wednesday, among them a charge of capital murder against James Moore, 24, and Nobel Mays Jr., 25. The pair was charged with killing Jerry Lamb, whose body was found strapped to an abandoned pickup hood last Friday southwest of Olney, Texas.

A partial list of those indicted Wednesday includes J.T. Brackett, aggravated assault; Warren Tony Davis, escape; Mark A. Elkins, burglary of a habitation with intent to commit theft; Larry Fulfer and James R. Hubbard, burglary of a habitation with intent to commit theft; and Johnny Mack Foster, possession of a controlled substance (cocaine) and robbery.

Helicopter crash kills at least 3

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A commuter helicopter plunged 100 feet onto a runway at Newark International Airport shortly after take off Wednesday night, and at least three persons were killed and 12 others injured, authorities said.

The Federal Aviation Administration said 18 people, including a crew of three, were aboard the 30-passenger New York Airways aircraft, which came down on its side on runway 22.

FAA spokesman Robert Fulton said the pilot of the Sikorsky S61 helicopter reported shortly after takeoff that he was experiencing control problems.

Officials said the aircraft was at about 1,000 feet when the pilot reported the trouble and started to return to the airport.

"He was trying to return to land," said FAA controller Gordon Wilkes, an eyewitness. "It looked like he was going to make it, but about 100 feet from the ground it nosed off."

Flight 972 was en route to LaGuardia and Kennedy International airports in New York, Port Authority Police Sgt. William Olsen said.

Crash victims were taken to five area hospitals, where four persons were listed in guarded condition and five were in fair condition, authorities said.

The three crew members were reported in critical condition at Martland Medical Center. They were identified as the pilot, Capt. Leslie Carter of Rockville Center, N.Y., co-pilot Capt. Lee Richmond of Northport, N.Y., and stewardess Lannie Chevalieri of Jamaica, N.Y.

Ben Kosivar, spokesman for the commuter airline, said Richmond and Chevalieri were among the crew of a New York Airways helicopter that crashed in New York City in 1977, killing five people.

Three passengers were not harmed, Kosivar said.

The FAA said the helicopter crashed at 6:23 p.m., coming to rest about 200 yards away from the New Jersey Turnpike.

Airport Manager James Dickerson said the helicopter made a "normal departure" from the airport and was over the turnpike, which runs parallel to the runway "when it developed some form of problem."

The airport was immediately closed, another FAA spokesman said, but officials did not know how many flights were diverted before it was reopened about three hours later.

Meanwhile, commuters awaiting the helicopter for a trip to Newark were transported to Newark by limousine, officials said.

Study challenges Carter oil price decontrol plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil price deregulation will save and produce less oil and create more inflation than envisioned by the White House, a congressional study said Wednesday.

The Congressional Budget Office study was released by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who opposes the lifting of controls on domestically produced crude oil. The study said President Carter's decision to remove all oil price controls by mid-1981 would:

— Reduce imports by 300,000 barrels of oil a day by 1981 and 650,000 barrels by 1985 — instead of the savings of 370,000 a day in 1981 and 950,000 a day in 1985 projected by the administration.

— Add a total of 1.25 percent to the rate of inflation by 1982 instead of the 0.75 percent predicted by the administration.

— Increase domestic production by from 400,000 to 500,000 barrels a day through 1985 — compared to the White House range of 742,000 to 839,000 over the same period.

However, the study generally concurred with the administration's claim that lifting controls will add about 5 cents a gallon to the price of gasoline and other petroleum products by 1981. This does not reflect inflationary price increases or pricing decisions of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

A study made last week by the House energy and power subcommittee predicted a price hike of about 3.6 cents a gallon while other congressional estimates have ranged as high as an increase of 15 cents to 20 cents a gallon.

Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said the new study showed that "we get all the inflationary impact of the president's proposals with no real benefit. The new production will be less than one-half of 1 percent of our domestic demand for oil ... It just isn't worth it."

However an administration energy official who asked not to be identified noted that despite Jackson's assertion, the figures in the Congressional Budget Office study do not really differ that much from those determined by the White House.

"It's really just a political question," the official said.

Jackson is an outspoken critic of Carter's move to lift oil price controls, and the senator is the sponsor of a bill designed to block the action.

The president has announced he will lift price lids on domestically produced oil, beginning this June, until they reach world-market levels by the end of September 1981.

Bentsen vows to help city

By STEVE OLAFSON

After holding up a bumper sticker that says "Wichita Falls Is Coming Back Strong And Fast," U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said Wednesday he is impressed with the way the city is recovering from the April 10 tornado and promised to do everything he can to help.

Bentsen, a Democrat, said he will push for supplemental appropriations for the Small Business Administration to aid Wichita Falls' recovery effort.

"I think you're looking at an

Hired Hand

A brilliant idea

By GLENN SHELTON

The Redhead nixed my idea of concreting our yard and painting it green, so I still am seeking an easy way out of my lawn problem. Though I assured her I would supervise the job and allow her the fun of manning the mixer and brushes, she stubbornly refused to change her mind.

So I hit her with another brilliant idea: "Why don't we all hire somebody else to mow our lawns and then nobody would have to perform that lousy chore?"

Doris stared, and then her eyeballs rolled heavenward in a gesture of divine supplication. "You had a similar solution to the energy problem," she sighed. "Remember what that was?"

"No," I said, "I can't say that I do."

"Well, your idea was a real lulu: You said that if everybody hitchhiked wherever he went, then nobody would have to own an auto and the demand for gasoline would decline drastically.

"I didn't bother James Schlesinger with this one because I suspected your reasoning was flawed."

"Yep, there must have been something wrong with that somewhere," I conceded, "though I never knew what it was."

"Well, I knew all along that I didn't marry you for your mind," replied the Redhead, who by now was looking downright melancholy, "so I'll just have to use mine, and mine tells me that hands that glide so skillfully over the console of a typewriter can be trained to adjust to the handles of a lawn mower. So get with it!"

While I'm mowing this summer, I'll keep studying this problem. There has to be an alternative to pushing a lousy lawnmower!

OFF ON A TANGENT — Amid all the tornado ruins, the arrival of the hummingbird is duly noted. Mrs. Jack Chipley, 2407 Inglewood, called to report that early Monday, April 9, the spring's first hummingbird twice visited a feeder and was noted by Mrs. Chipley while doing her breakfast dishes.

Backdoor Theater now comes up with the classic "Mr. Roberts" which is one of the most successful plays ever to run on Broadway.

It will be previewed tonight for the press.

JOKE? Dad criticized the sermon. Mother thought the organist made a lot of mistakes. Sister didn't like the choir.

But they all shut up when little Johnnie said, "I thought it was a pretty good show for a quarter!"

The Dallas Times Herald's Dick Hitt gave his readers a superb description of the Wichita Falls tornado. "It didn't look like a funnel," he quoted Mrs. Kathy Stath, who watched it.

"It looked like a gigantic theatrical curtain, dark gray, descending from a rolling tier of clouds and sweeping across the landscape with the noise of a hundred chain saws.

Reporters traditionally have a hard time describing the indescribable sounds of a twister. "Like a hundred freight trains" is the old cliche.

Annette Crabtree gave me a perspective: "You are terrorized by the awful winds and then when they cease everything is pitch dark and you have no lights and no transportation and all around you is devastation."

In the aftermath of a tornado, the victim is completely alone in a terrible no man's land!

Good Morning!

Grand jury clears officer in shooting

Forum, a Mexican American organization.

Harrelson also said he didn't think calling in an outside agency to investigate the shooting would have made a difference. "The same facts are there now as when it (the shooting) happened," he said. "I don't think (calling in another agency) would have made any difference."

The police chief would not comment when asked if he thought the officers involved in the shooting used good judgment. He also had no comment when asked if Bailey had told Wright to "shoot" just before Ortiz was killed by a single shot from Wright's .357-magnum revolver.

When reporters asked to see a narrative report of the shooting, Harrelson said he would have to "check with our legal department about that."

Eyssen and Harrelson both said they could find "no racial overtones" connected with the shooting. Several Mexican American groups have harshly criticized the incident, and have predicted a "whitewash" by Wichita County authorities.

Authorities said Ortiz was identified through a workman's compensation claim he made after recently injuring his left hand. The chief immigration officer in the victim's hometown confirmed Wednesday that Ortiz had entered the United States illegally.

Police said the dead man knocked Wright down when he ran from the car shortly after midnight Sunday, and that Wright fired when Ortiz stopped, put his hand in his pocket and started to turn around.

Wright fired once and struck Ortiz in the back. The victim was dead on arrival at Wichita General Hospital.

Bodies recovered

The bodies of Glyndon Johnson, 44, and Billy Johnson, 46, Wednesday were recovered from a farm pond about five miles northwest of Crowell, Texas. Bentsen hears stories of tornado from victims

By GLENN SHELTON
Staff Writer

Stunned by the devastation he had seen earlier, a grave Sen. Lloyd Bentsen Wednesday afternoon visited some of the victims of one of history's most terrible tornadoes.

At Wichita General Hospital, Bentsen talked with Gwen Walker and her daughter, Christie, 7. Along with Christie's 4-year-old sister Brandie, they were in a mobile home at Dawn Circle, just off the Windthorst exit of U.S. Highway 287, when the trailer house exploded from the force of the twister.

"I was working two jobs to pay for the trailer house I had just bought," Gwen told the senator. "I stopped at a store, and then went home. I heard no sirens, no indication that a storm was approaching.

"I called mother and told her the clouds sure were shifting around, then I saw boards, trees, wood of all kind, just swirling. 'Oh, my God, we're going to get it!' I cried. Then I grabbed the girls and threw quilts over them, but before I could finish a prayer it hit us.

"The trailer exploded and I was knocked out."

When she regained consciousness, Gwen had a bed spring impaled through an eye and protruding from her head. One of her legs was broken. She feared she might be blind.

She heard her 4-year-old daughter whining from underneath the mattress. Stitches underneath her chin was all the emergency treatment she later required.

"I tried to walk, but couldn't," Gwen told Bentsen. "I just yelled until a friend came by in a pickup. My back was broken, but he lifted me and placed me in the pickup and took me to the hospital. We were among the first to arrive."

Seven-year-old Christie, her broken leg trussed up, greeted the senator with a broad smile.

"I hope you get well right soon," Sen. Bentsen told the Henrietta elementary school student.

Leroy Sellers, 73, had a pitiful story to tell. He was living in a camper near the National Guard Armory, dressed only in underwear, when the twister hit his camper. He lost his shoes, his pants, his old-age pension check and his false teeth. He was found by rescuers lying at the side of the road. No sign of his camper was in sight.

The storm took everything he owned except three heart pacemakers inside his chest.

Bentsen also visited 24-year-old Nathan Christian, a mechanic at International Harvester in Vernon, who was found bruised and bloody between two lanes of an expressway near Vernon.

A distraught daughter of patient Earl McDaniel stopped the senator as he was walking down a hospital corridor. "My father is a disabled veteran of World War II, and has six months to live," she told reporters following Bentsen.

Weeping while she talked, she said her father had been denied Social Security benefits and "we have no food, no electicity, nothing in our house!"

The Senator told the woman that he would look into her case. The daughter, who said she lived in the Sunnyside addition, declared that her father's house at 1217 Third Street was demolished in the tornado.

Hospital Administrator Clay Ellis and businessman Ray Clymer accompanied Bentsen on his hospital rounds.

expenditure in federal funds that will involve $150 to $200 million," Bentsen said. "It means we're going to have to do some things with the SBA in the way of supplemental appropriations because I know they're running low on appropriations now. This is going to be coupled with what's happening now in Mississippi, so I will urge and support supplemental appropriations for the SBA to assist in this regard."

Bentsen took a helicopter tour of Wichita Falls' disaster area where 44 persons were killed last week. He also visited a federal disaster aid center at the 4-H Center and talked with victims of the tornado at Wichita General Hospital.

Bentsen said he was impressed with "the way people in Wichita Falls have been pitching in."

"These people who get cynical about America, all they need to do is to see the kind of neighbor contribution that's been taking place in Wichita Falls, the compassionate people and the tough spirits of the people and the good humor they're still expressing. And to see contributions coming from all over this nation from as far as North Dakota and Wyoming and other places that Wichita Falls has touched around the country ... I think it's a great inspiration.

"You've suffered quite a loss, a very major loss in lives, and I marvel at the fact that you didn't lose more than you did when I look at the devastation flying over it by helicopter. That sort of devastation you see in war, not in peacetime," Bentsen said. "I've never seen tornado damage that approached this. This is the most complete and devastating that I've ever seen and I've seen a lot of tornadoes. I was a bomber pilot in World War II and flew 50 missions and as far as residential area, I've never seen this kind of damage."

Bentsen promised to introduce legislation that would allow the Internal Revenue Service to waive the interest IRS charges on late income tax filings. IRS can waive penalty charges for disaster victims, but it can't waive the interest charge.

"They ought to be able to waive the interest payment too and I'm going to introduce legislation to see if we can't give that discretionary authority," he said. "I'm going to push to see if we can get early consideration of that. I'm on the (Senate) Finance Committee, which puts me in a particularly good position to assist in that regard."

Bentsen said there is a "good chance" of passing the legislation.

He added that he would have visited Wichita Falls earlier, but the cancer death of a granddaughter prevented him from coming.

Bentsen also lauded federal workers who have worked long hours in the disaster recovery effort.

He refused comment on the fatal shooting of an illegal Mexican alien who was killed by police early Monday morning after the 11 p.m. curfew because he said it wouldn't be proper until after a federal investigation is completed.

Wichita Falls firm wins plant contract

The fact that Wichita Falls is coming back strong from last week's tornado was demonstrated Wednesday when Ingersoll-Rand representatives told the Board of Commerce & Industry that the construction contract for the Proto Tool Plant has been awarded to Miller-Holmes of Wichita Falls.

BCI officials were concerned the tornado damage might alter plans to built the plant, which was announced last November. But Wesley Dynes, Ingersoll-Rand vice president, said his company still feels Wichita Falls is "the best location for the new plant."

Dynes said cities hit by natural disasters "bounce back fast and continue to be great places to live and work in."

The construction contract covers construction of a new 185,000 square foot plant to be located on Production Boulevard just southeast of Wichita Falls. Grading of the site is almost completed.

When finished, the plant will represent a total investment in excess of $11 million and will manufacture a broad range of mechanic's hand tools.

"We still believe in this community, and we didn't come here for a few months, but for 50 years," Dynes said.

may be available," Winkle said.

Owners of private and commercial property who receive insurance reimbursement for debris removal will be obligated to turn such payments over to the federal government, Winkle said.

"It would be inappropriate for a property owner to collect insurance for debris removal costs, then have the work actually done without cost by government contractors," he explained.

Property owners who have questions concerning debris clearance may obtain further information by calling 322-8841 between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. daily.

Ranchers' bodies recovered from plane

By VIRGINIA SHIRLEY Correspondent

CROWELL, Texas — Foard County Sheriffs Department officers and divers recovered the bodies of two prominent ranchers from a farm pond near here Wednesday.

They were still in the small airplane the pair was using to check cattle.

Billy Johnson, 46, and Glyndon Johnson, 46, were last seen Friday. They were both found in the two-seat plane.

The two were not related, but they were close friends and both ranched and farmed land in Foard and Hardeman Counties.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department said it has not been determined who was flying the plane when it crashed.

A U.S. Army helicopter crew spotted a wheel from the cloth-covered airplane floating in a pond about five miles northwest of Crowell.

Three professional divers brought the plane to the pond's surface by using air lift bags. The pond was about 18 feet deep.

A wench truck was used to haul the plane to shore and the bodies were removed and taken to Womack-Manard Funeral Home in Crowell.

The plane was found right-side up in the water, and a Department of Public Safety helicopter took the bodies to the funeral home.

A massive search for the airplane that involved airplanes, helicopters, pickups and men on horseback was conducted.

Federal Aeronautics Administration officials from Fort Worth have been assigned to investigate the accident.

Billy Johnson is survived by his wife, Faye; a son, Don of Canyon, Texas; a daughter, Debbie Forrester of Hereford, Texas; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal Johnson of Talia, Texas.

Glyndon Johnson is survived by two daughters, Lesley and Lynne, both of Vernon, Texas; his mother, Mrs. Ernest Johnson of Crowell, and brothers and sisters. Glyndon Johnson owned and operated the Rayland, Texas, Cotton Gin.

Salvation Army receives $2,500 from United Way for relief work

A $2,500 grant to the Salvation Army has been presented by the United Way of Greater Wichita Falls to supplement immediate disaster relief funds.

Don Wills, president of United Way, said, "The Salvation Army has worked around the clock to help feed and clothe victims of the disaster. They deserve our help and support in their efforts."

Wills also pointed out that the Salvation Army "has assumed the gigantic task of securing storage for donations of food and clothing that are arriving from all over the state and nation plus the coordination and dispersal of the donations."

The Salvation Army is a United Way-funded agency in addition to receiving funds from the national organization of the Salvation Army.

In addition to donations to the Salvation Army, contributions are pouring in at the American Red Cross, Box 5166, which has been designated the central agency for receiving funds for disaster relief.

"Although the American Red Cross has been designated as the principal receiver of aid to the city of Wichita Falls," Mayor Kenneth Hill said Wednesday, "this is in no way intended to discredit the Salvation Army or Mennonites organizations.

Repair shops behind

New car stocks said plentiful

Wichitans with automobiles that were severely damaged or lost in the April 10 tornado that struck Wichita Falls will find a plentiful supply of new models available at dealers here at fair prices, said representatives of Wichita Falls New Car Dealers Association Wednesday.

"Dealers here have an abundant supply of new cars in stock and many more on the way. Our trading policies have been and remain the same as before the tornado," they said in a statement.

"We ask for the public's patience on body repair estimating delays and suggest that owners of damaged cars first contact their insurance companies, since procedures for handling claims differ from company to company," the dealers' statement continued.

Because of the thousands of damaged vehicles in Wichita Falls, lengthy delays may result before parts are available for repairs, the dealers said. Automotive glass was in short supply before the tornado, and demand for auto glass in many instances cannot be filled without a delay of two to three weeks.

The dealers suggested that tornado victims whose vehicles are missing in the storm call one of the four auto dealers with wrecker service, since each wrecker service has an impoundment area and many cars were taken to these areas on other authority than the owner's.

All four American manufacturers, plus major import suppliers, have increased their allocations of new cars for the Wichita Falls market and plenty of vehicles will be available to fill the need, the dealers emphasized.

Federal funds to pay for MSU damage repair

By PAT ZAJAC
Staff Writer

Most of repairs and clean-up of Midwestern State University's estimated $700,00 tornado damage will be paid for with federal funds, Dr. John G. Barker, university president, said Wednesday.

A grant from the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration will pay for debris removal, repairs and reconstruction, he said.

Repairs for D.L. Ligon Coliseum, which incurred about $80,000 damage to the dome, will be paid for with insurance, Barker said.

The board of regents took emergency action recently to authorize application for the money, Barker said.

An estimated $70,000 in damage was done to the president's mansion. The outdoor education center, which cost $140,000 to build, was destroyed. About $48,000 in fences were destroyed also.

The FDAA will pay for repairs to public property and certain private, non-profit buildings unless they are insured, Jess Ward, state coordinator officer for the Wichita Falls disaster center, said.

Each governing body makes repairs and is then reimbursed, he said. Teams of engineers from various state and federal agencies are now surveying the city to assess damage to public utilities, public buildings, roads and water facilities and requirements for debris clearance.

Lebanese Christians shell U.N. force

TYRE, Lebanon (AP) — The Israeli-backed Christian militia holding a small enclave in southern Lebanon shelled a Lebanese army unit Wednesday as it joined U.N. peacekeepers in the area. Israeli radio said the Christians declared themselves under "self-rule" and proclaimed a new "Free Lebanon" state.

A United Nations spokesman in New York said the peacekeeping force headquarters in the town of Naqoura was "under very heavy mortar and artillery fire" early Thursday from the Christian militiamen.

"Our intention will be to liberate all Lebanon from all the invaders and all who are foreigners and who have bad intentions against Lebanon," said Christian militia leader Maj. Saad Haddad, whose 1,500 rightist Christian troops control a six-mile strip along Lebanon's border with Israel.

Haddad's militia contends the Lebanese forces are heavily influenced by Syria, which are seen as rivals for control of Lebanon.

The Israelis and Haddad's Christians share the view that a Lebanese army aided by Syria will allow Palestinian guerrilla infiltration of the Israeli border and heighten tension in the area.

Israeli radio said Haddad announced the birth of "Free Lebanon" at a news conference in the northern Israeli town of Metulla.

Lebanon's state radio called Haddad's statement "Israeli-inspired secession." Pierre Gemayel, leader of the rightist Christian Phalange Party, also condemned the declaration, saying "enough of states within a state."

Gemayel's much larger forces number some 20,000 men and are based primarily in northern Lebanon.

A statement from the presidential palace denounced Haddad's step and said it "does not attach any importance to it." It asked that the world not overestimate Haddad's remarks.

There was no immediate response from Israeli officials to Haddad's declaration. Diplomatic sources reported that the United States had asked Israel to be a moderating influence on its Christian allies and allow the Lebanese army deployment in the area to proceed.

An Egyptian Foreign Ministry spokesman said his country "strongly condemns" what he called the seccessionist movement in southern Lebanon.

Cairo's official Middle East News Agency quoted the unnamed spokesman as saying Egypt opposes "all irresponsible actions and foreign interference which threaten the peace and security of the Middle East."

Haddad's artillery shelled the 560-man Lebanese contingent as it moved into the village of Dirdghayya, the battalion headquarters about seven miles east of Tyre. Two Lebanese soldiers and a civilian were reported injured in the shellfire.

Haddad forces were given control of a strip along the 59-mile border with Israel when the Israelis withdrew from the south after they moved against Palestinian guerrillas in the March 1978 invasion.

The attack on U.N. headquarters in Naqoura was reported by U.N. spokesman Francois Giuliani. He said 300 shells fell on the encampment within a 90-minute period early Thursday.

The U.N. troops are authorized to fire only in self-defense, but Giuliani said the peacekeepers had not returned the fire "as far as I know."

He said the United Nations had contacted officials in Lebanon and Israel in an attempt to get the barrage stopped.

Earlier, Samir Sambar, a U.N. spokesman in Beirut, said two civilians were killed Wednesday in Haddad's shelling of Irish U.N. troops, and Norwegian and Nigerian troops also were being pounded by Haddad's guns.

A U.N. spokesman in Jerusalem, however, said one Norwegian soldier was killed and one wounded in the shelling.

Spokesman Hugo Rochas said all seven units of U.N. forces "came under artillery or mortar fire during the day."

U.N. officials said 30 Lebanese soldiers were assigned to each of the U.N.'s Senegalese, Fijian, Dutch, Nigerian and Irish contingents and the remainder occupied a large area east of Tyre.

U.N. spokesman Sambar said the civilian U.N. staff at Naqoura, just off the Israeli border, was evacuated when it came under small arms fire from Haddad's men.

He said a U.N. helicopter returning to Naqoura from a trip to Beirut was hit by small arms fire, and three of Haddad's men were seen placing explosives around the helicopter pad. One of the alleged saboteurs was killed, he said.

National Guard still on duty

By JODY COX
Staff Writer

Though their numbers are decreasing slowly, military personnel continue to maintain a reassuring presence in tornado-stricken areas of Wichita Falls.

Operating on a 24-hour basis, "saturation patrols" of National Guardsmen are serving as security police to detect and deter looting. Though they cannot arrest suspected looters, the Guard can detain them until Department of Public Safety units arrive.

"They are serving as security," said Col. Bobby L. Myers, commander of the 49th Armored Division Artillery and of National Guard troops on duty in Wichita Falls.

"By maintaining a constant presence, they get real familiar with their areas and can provide tornado victims with protection and reassurance," Myers said.

The 2nd Battalion of the 112th Armored Division from Fort Worth pulled out of town Sunday afternoon, its 235 men and women having served in disaster relief, security and traffic control roles since their arrival last Wednesday, the day after the tornado struck.

Some 150 members of the 2nd Battalion of the 131st Field Artillery of Wichita Falls, Bowie and Breckenridge remain on duty in Wichita Falls, and Myers said the National Guard probably would be kept on the job until Friday.

"We're working closely with the chief of police and the Department of Public Safety on this," Myers said, "but right now it appears that we will be pulling out by the end of the week. It appears that the city people are going much faster with their recovery operations than expected."

Some 250 people from Sheppard Air Force Base assisted with cleanup and traffic control, but they were pulled out Monday, Myers said.

About 430 National Guardsmen were on duty at the height of the disaster relief and recovery efforts, Myers said, including a special communications unit from Austin which brought along its communications van center.

Myers praised the services military personnel provided. "All of them, the National Guard, the men and women from Sheppard and all the rest, just did a fine job while they were here," he said.

State officials tour Roloff's youth homes

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A staff from the Texas attorney general's office toured evangelist Lester Roloff's youth homes Wednesday to check for health and safety code violations.

Attorney General Mark White said later the visit will have no official bearing on Roloff's struggle to prevent his homes from being subject to state licensing.

"We are going to observe that there is no imminent threat to the saafety or welfare of the children," said White. He said the visits were being made by "mutual agreement" with Roloff and at Roloff's invitation.

Panel approves convention bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate State Affairs Committee voted 7-1 Wednesday to make it unlawful for an employer to refuse to let an employee attend a precinct, county or state political convention.

Current law specifies only that the employee must receive time off to go to a precinct convention.

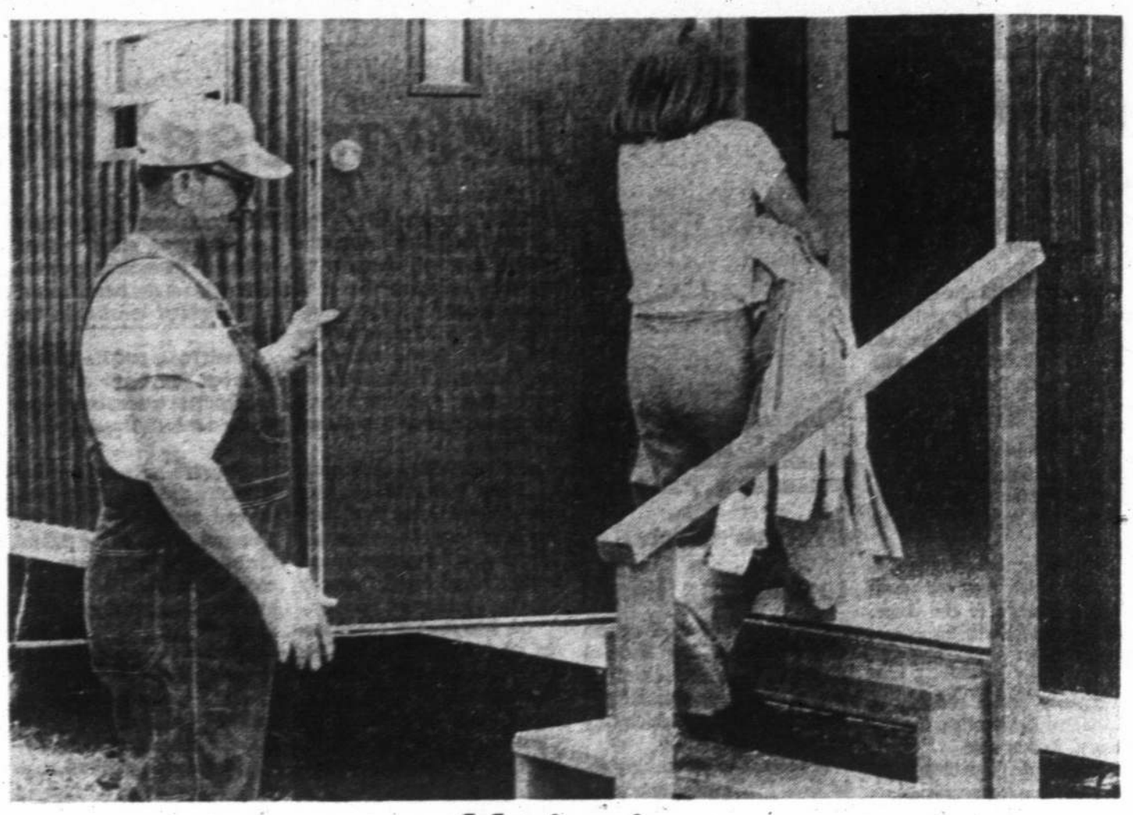

Sen. Carl Parker's bill left intact the law that states an employer does not have to pay the employee for the time he or she is absent to attend the convention.

An employer who violates the law can be fined $500.

Parker's bill now goes to the full Senate.

Most deny fearing quakes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Most Californians realize the possibility of destructive earthquakes, but few worry about them, according to the California Poll released Wednesday. While 41 percent of those surveyed found it extremely or very likely that a quake could cause major damage in their locality and 32 percent found it somewhat likely, 61 percent said they never worried about earthquakes.

Moving in

Don Briscoe Wednesday holds open the door to his temporary home while daughter Anna Marie, 11, carries in some of the belongings the family salvaged from its home, which was destroyed by last week's tornado. The Briscoes were the first Wichitans to move into one of the mobile homes provided by the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration. (Staff Photo)

Family hit hard, but not giving up

By MARK PEEL
Staff Writer

The story of the Don Briscoe family of Wichita Falls reads a lot like that of many of the other thousands of residents left homeless by last week's tornado: $30,000 home demolished, $10,000 in uninsured belongings lost, car destroyed and $5,000 worth of jewelry and family heirlooms lost to looters.

But Briscoe and the four other members of his family are not giving up. They were the first Wichitans to move into one of the mobile homes provided by the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration for displaced residents.

Briscoe, who is retired from the Coast Guard and employed at PPG, took possession of the new mobile home Wednesday afternoon at Lakeside Village Mobile Home Park near City View Lane. The trailer is 70 feet by 12 feet and has three bedrooms. For the first year of use or until the Briscoes move into permanent quarters, all they will have to pay is the utilities.

Briscoe and two of his three children, Thomas, 12, and Anna Marie, 11, moved a few possessions into the fully furnished unit. Briscoe's wife, Beverly, was at the family's old home at 1303 Christine, packing more belongings. The oldest daughter, Cheryl, 18, is on vacation in Alaska.

The Briscoes plan to rebuild their home as soon as their application for a low-interest loan from the Small Business Administration can be processed. Briscoe filed his application at one of the FDAA centers Saturday morning, waiting in line from 7 a.m. until 5 p.m.

"The main thing now is just waiting on our loan to come through so we can start building our new home," Briscoe said between trips from his new station wagon to the trailer with armloads of clothes and kitchen utensils. "We've had tremendous cooperation from everyone in this deal and, of course, we were thrilled to be one of the first to get a mobile home.

"This will give me a good opportunity to do a lot of the labor when we start rebuilding and I can save some money there," said the native Wichitan.

One of Briscoe's main concerns was the relocation of Thomas and Anna Marie from McGaha Elementary School to City View Elementary. However, Thomas didn't seem worried. "I've got at least one friend at City View and he told me to be sure and check out his school when we got out here," Thomas said.

Asked if he had any fear about living in a mobile home, Briscoe said, "I'll tell you, if we see any bad clouds coming, we'll be over at my mother's in the cellar. In fact, a storm shelter is one of the first things I'm going to build."

The Briscoes were not able to salvage much of their furniture and personal belongings, and looters made off with a jewelry box containing jewelry and irreplaceable heirlooms as well as "$220 of the kids' hard-earned money."

This is Briscoe's third tornado, and he and his wife also survived an earthquake in Alaska and a hurricane in Louisiana. "I guess disasters just sort of follow me around," he joked. But he plans to stay in the area. "My wife is from Alaska and she likes it down here, so I guess we'll stay.

"I think all in all, we came out of it pretty well. The people of Wichita Falls have all been tremendous and this whole thing has restored my faith in human beings."

ATTENTION DISASTER VICTIMS

Victims of W/F tornado who are Texas Farmers Insurance Company policyholders should report their claims immediately, according to James MacKinnon, president. He said victims insured with other member companies of Farmers Insurance Group should follow the same procedure.

Mr. MacKinnon said that a special Farmers Disaster Team has been rushed to the devistated area and a local Disaster Office has been set up at 3006 Midwestern Pkwy. Phone 692-0953 "We expect several thousand claims to be made for damage done by this tornado," said Mr. MacKinnon. "We urge our policyholders who have claims to promptly contact our Emergency Office in the disaster areas."

He said that these instructions apply to claims for home, business, automobile and their property.

Community bulletin board

For as long as it is needed, Wichita Falls Times and Record News as a public service will publish in all of its editions a Community Bulletin Board listing information of a public nature concerning the recovery of Wichita Falls from the April 10 tornado.

Gathering information for the bulletin board will be the responsibility of the community relations department of the newspapers.

The daily listings will be designed to act as a referral service for those affected by the tornado and to keep the general public informed about the city's status as the massive recovery effort continues.

Churches pay their dues

Wichita Falls long has been known as a city of churches. To visitors to the city, these churches, both in number and in facilities, are pointed to with pride.

In the aftermath of the killer tornado that swept through Wichita Falls on April 10 Wichitans had another reason to feel pride in their churches. Most of the shelters set up and operated by American Red Cross disaster workers were in churches, which were opened and their full facilities offered to house, feed and care for persons made homeless by the storm.

Holy Week was an inconvenient time, with its emphasis on the upcoming Easter observance, for churches to have to open their doors to indigents, but is there a convenient time to destroy the homes of hard-working, law-abiding good citizens?

No praise can be too lavish for the type of community effort that kept the pain of lost homes, injured, missing and dead loved ones, minimized. Our churches played a major role last week, and will continue to play the same role as Wichita Falls goes through the slow and harrowing process of recovery from the giant storm. Our pride in them was justified, time and again, during the hectic few days following the tornado.

Old issue still lives

It's an issue that's almost as old as the nation, but it refuses to die. That's the argument over unfair public competition with private firms, and once again we must take the side of business.

The Navy proposes to rebuild four Forrestal-class aircraft carriers, not only to extend their life by about 15 years but to save several billion over the cost of new ships.

Virtually everyone agrees that the four ships should be rebuilt rather than replaced by new vessels. The argument comes over who will do the work, the Navy or private industry. Both Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Co. and Philadelphia Navy Yard want the jobs.

By all accounts, including statements from the Chief of Naval Operations and General Accounting Office, the Newport News shipyard not only is more qualified to undertake such a massive job, but could do it for less money than the Navy yard.

At issue, of course, are peripheral considerations of unemployment, the Navy's selfish interests and a political tug of war between congressmen from Pennsylvania and Virginia.

None of these side issues should take precedent over the simple matter of what is the quickest, best qualified and cheapest way to get the job done.

Scaring off 'scare talk'

By GARRY WILLS

Our crazy political life is a joy to watch. By selective quotation, it would be easy to represent many of Ralph Nader's old predictions as having undergone a sudden conversion to most of his crusades.

Just yesterday, these people were inveighing against seat belts, air bags, surgeon-generals' reports, air quality controls and saccharin bans. But today they are telling us, just this side of exaggeration, how dangerous are cars, pollution, coal mines, cigarettes and cholesterol. Risk and danger is their theme; they sound as alarmist as the man they criticized, a short time ago, for alarmism.

What brought about this striking change? It might be called the politics of inoculation. Inject a little Naderism to fend off Nader. All the talk of danger elsewhere used to tell us that nuclear plants, by comparison, are safe. The scare talk about smaller things is meant to pooh-pooh scare talk about a great concern.

To bless nukes, the celebrators of our technology will reverse themselves and curse cars. "No one has died from a nuclear plant's presence in the neighborhood. Who can say that for a coal mine? Or even for the neighbor's car?"

That argument has become a song, the top one on the right wing's hit parade. But one can nod yes to the "argument" and remain uncomforted. Consider that 60,000 persons have never evacuated the vicinity of a coal mine, as they did the Three Mile Island area. Nor was that a panicky reaction. Would you have wanted your family there when the possibility of emitted radioactivity was real?

It is true that we run, in life, a gauntlet of risk, each time we cross the street, climb a ladder, deal with substances from gasoline to tobacco. But the problem here is not one of cumulated past dangers confirmed (X number have died in coal mine cave-ins). It is a matter both of scale and of control: How many might die if the statistically slight possibility takes its numerically huge toll?

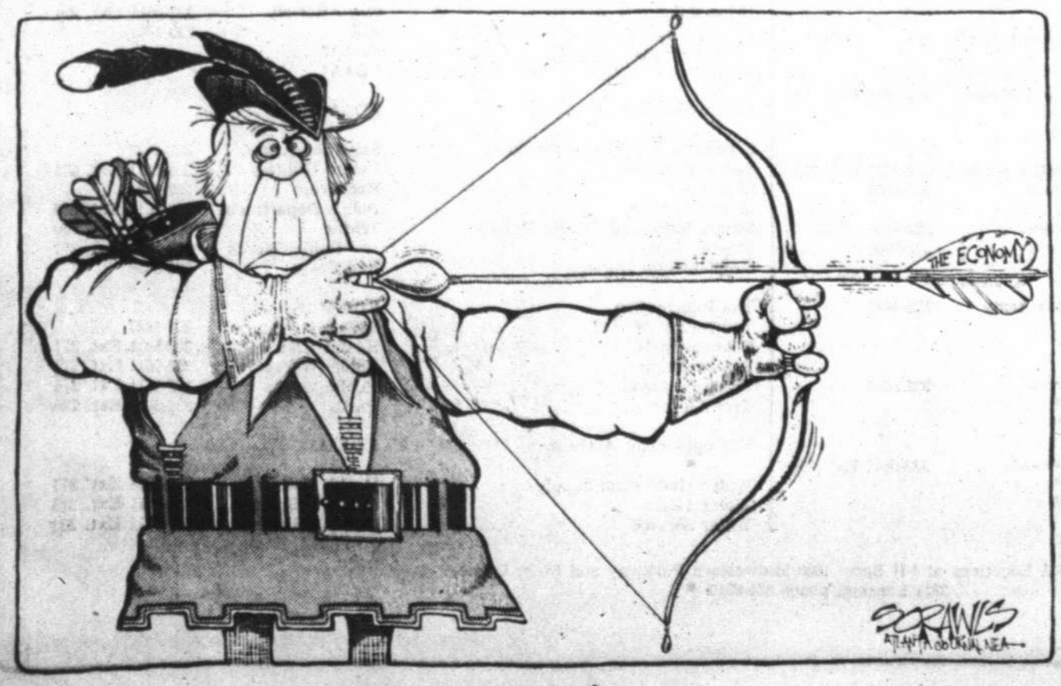

Suppose a person comes to you and says: "I want to fill your basement with live TNT. I'll pay you well for storing it, and I'll pack and cushion it so that the possibility of its going off is statistically slimmer than the chance that a sleeping smoker or a faulty wire would start a fire in your house."

Even if the statistics alleged should prove sound, wouldn't you hesitate to accept that proposal? Sure, one cigarette can destroy a house. But it might smolder out; and even if a fire starts, one can escape. There will be many more fires than TNT explosions, but the fire hazard often is controllable, even if it occurs.

If a major nuclear emission occurs, it is not similarly controllable, and its effect would be on a scale to dwarf even the fires that burn down entire cities. Most people can run from a burning city, but not from radiation wafted on the wind.

The point of fears raised over nuclear plants is not that they present higher dangers in quantitative, cumulative terms; but that they offer a qualitatively different danger. We are more likely, perhaps, to choke on a lightning bug than to be struck by lightning. But most of us would still rather consort with the former than the latter.

Risk and benefits

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The avid, everything-is-lovely advocates likely will do most to turn the public from nuclear power unless they show themselves intent upon learning and applying the lessons of the accident at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania.

They will be playing into the hands of the emotional, unreasoning opponents who want to consign nuclear-produced electrical power to the scrap heap, however much it is needed and however safe it has proved to be.

There are risks and there is a haunting sense of danger. The only way to reduce these risks even more and dissolve the sense of fear is for the nuclear industry to take the lead, and not wait to be pushed by government, to do whatever is needed to make an unprecedented record of safe operation still better.

They will get no help from the anti-nuclear activists, who are not out to promote safety but to demand prohibition, like the 18th Amendment which most Americans regretted they ever enacted.

One of the most reassuring things which emerged from the experience at Three Mile Island is the attitude shown by the thousands of people living in the neighborhood. In the wake of the massive publicity heralding the radiation danger that surrounded them (radiation exposure actually about equal to an X-ray treatment for chest cancer) there was concern but no panic. The majority wishes to see nuclear power continue.

It is evident that most Americans do not expect to live in a risk-free society.

During the past 25 years about 1,375,000 persons have been killed in automobile accidents at a steady rate of about 55,000 a year.

Over this same 25-year span, since nuclear power plants have been in operation, not a single person has been killed by radiation.

A record of 1,375,000 to zero is impressive.

The emotional, unreasoning anti-nuclear protesters eagerly ignore the facts, call the nuclear energy plants "merchants of death." But one never hears them demanding that Detroit be turned into a museum.

I believe majority opinion will not yield to the fear tactics of the anti-nuclear activists nor will it accept the bland assurance from some in the industry that nothing more need be done to make a remarkably safe operation still safer.

The world's crude oil resources are finite and are being steadily depleted. Nuclear power is inexhaustible. Nuclear facilities now built and others planned or already under construction can yield the equivalent of the nine million barrels of oil daily we have not been getting from Iran.

The sources of all Mideast oil are precarious. Until we free ourselves from dependence on it, both our independence and our fate are subject to the dictates of foreign governments.

The only alternative to continuing nuclear power and expanding other domestic sources of energy is to accept a no-growth economy and a high-growth unemployment.

Inside Report

Economic chaos in Iran

By ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK

TEHRAN — Leading Iran's revolutionary problems is the onset of economic anarchy which, if not stopped quickly, will cost the newborn Islamic republic all chance to consolidate its revolution.

A Korean construction firm recently got an order from the unofficial "committee" that oversees it to hire 2,000 Iranian workers. Yet unpaid bills owed to it by the government were piled high in the firm's accounts receivable file. The chief engineer of a European firm with a government contract had his passport lifted. His offense: the firm's failure to pay its Iranian workers, which was due to the same phenomenon of uncollected bills owed by the government.

Such madcap methods of coercing foreign concerns to lubricate the cash-shy economy are routine. Following the general strike and the immense dislocations of a violent revolution that cost billions in unproduced oil, the Iranian economy has not begun to revive. Some western authorities wonder whether it can.

The staggeringly complex problem of doubling agricultural production, following decades of Iranian peasant farmers drawn to the cities by promise of quick rewards, is one of the difficulties. Just how difficult was made clear by Deputy Prime Minister Amir Entezam. "We will make Iran self-sufficient in agriculture," he said. "Considering that the shah imported $8 billion in food in the single year of 1977, you can see the problem."

Such huge imports of food, Entezam said, sacrificed domestic agriculture and were specifically tied to the shah's pro-American policy of relieving horrendous U.S. trade deficits. American officials flatly disagreed, claiming that food imports were nowhere near that high and that the allocation of labor from farm to city was part of the shah's plan to jerk Iran into the industrial age and give it enough muscle to stay healthy when the oil runs out.

Inflation here makes the U.S. cost of living look horizontal. Estimates vary from 50 to 150 percent. With fresh meat pegged at an official rate of about $1 a pound, a black market is thriving at prices three times that. Oranges, an Iranian staple, have tripled in price. This is true despite high unemployment, the number in Tehran alone estimated at more than one million.

The mushrooming "committees," ostensibly controlled by Ayatollah Khomeini but operating virtually independently of the government, run almost everything. They exert power over business and industry through "workers' councils." Tens of thousands of workers who marched against the shah's guns have not yet returned to drab life at the lathe or in the counting house.

The partial exception is in the lucrative oil fields. Production is holding fairly steady, not at the claimed 2.5 to 3 million barrels a day but at about 2.2 million barrels. That is far less than half the pre-revolution rate. Boosting oil production to sell to the famished world market offers the best immediate salvation.

Economic crises are the offspring of most revolutions. What worries economic managers is the lethal political implications of continued chaos. The noisiest preachment of the Marxist fedayeen, the armed, underground force on the anti-Khomeini extreme left that so far has only barely been kept under control, is that the teachings of Islam lack a foundation for helping workers. The fedayeen are sending agents through the 55,000 villages with this war cry: the new government is hooked on theology; it is betraying the poor.

Watching for windfalls

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — The showdown of the year at the Capitol will not be over the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty, assuming it makes the agenda at all. It will be over windfall profits tax on oil, demanded by the president to accompany his decontrol of oil prices starting in six weeks.

An election year is coming up: To voters at large, the precise terms of a weapons agreement with the Russians may matter a trifle, but not nearly as much as they matter to the Republican conservatives contesting the 1980 primaries. Mr. and Mrs. America and little Kevin with his gas guzzler care more about their utility bills and gasoline prices.

Jimmy Carter knows that, so he is putting his windfall tax effort up front. Sen. Henry "Scoop" Jackson, D-Wash., knows where the voter's heart lies, too. He is not just for the windfall tax, he is against decontrol, insisting it will not boost production as advertised. So is Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass. So are Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and at least a dozen other Senate Democrats. So is a bloc of House Democrats.

And so we have the lineup for what appears to be a bloody confrontation between the president and liberals of his own party. However, it may turn out to be a sham battle. This is what to watch for:

Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, knows he may not succeed in blocking decontrol. To do so, he would have to reverse what Congress did last year, giving the president decontrol authority.

Strategically, however, Jackson and his heavyweight companions are staking out a flank position, against decontrol, that will help make decontrol, accompanied by a windfall tax, seem a moderate course. Thus, when the oil state legislators have had their say against any windfall tax, the combination of tax and decontrol urged by the president will occupy the middle ground and its supporters can say it is a reasonable compromise.

In the process, New Englanders such as Kennedy and Toby Moffett, the Connecticut congressman who leads the parallel effort in the House, will have their chance to display all the angry indignation demanded by their oil-dependent home folks.

That scenario, with Carter prevailing, would be predictable were the Senate Finance Committee not under the generalship of Russell Long. The chairman has been the main bumfuzzler of federal tax law for years, starting even before Wilbur Mills departed from Ways and Means. He has been a diligent protector of oil interests. His style is not brute force, but finesse.

Long did not assail the windfall tax proposal head-on the moment the president spoke. He will divulge his tactics as time goes by. They will not be simple.

Some time a few months from now, we are likely to see something held up proudly by the finance chairman, and the son of the ol' Kingfish will tell us with a grin that it is a genuine, accept-no-substitutes windfall tax. But it will be so complex that only about half a dozen experts in America will understand it, and they will know it has only superficial resemblance to what Carter had in mind back on April 5 when he proposed to prevent the companies from "cheating the public and damaging the nation."

White House efforts to head off Long's traditional prestidigitation with tax law will be crucial. Right now, Carter is bravely whacking the oil companies at every opportunity, warning them he would like to "constrain" their use of added profits for purposes other than boosting production, even grasping the idea of oil company divestiture as a club to make his point. But all that is show business for the public, designed to bring voter pressure on Congress to adopt the tax.

What counts is what the president does next week and next summer when the dealing gets heavy in committee. The memory is vivid of how his first energy program was sliced apart after he committed himself to "the moral equivalent of war" in its behalf.

Quick, and no fair using fingers: What do 2,243,000, 1,122,000, 3,329,000, 1,405,000 and 218,998,000 add up to?

Don't bother spending any more time on the answer. It's not a mega-number, but a statistical profile of Americans.

The first figure is the number of marriages recorded throughout the country in 1978 and it works out to 10.3 per 1,000 population. That is the highest since 1974, indicating that the decline in the marriage rate of recent years may be in the process of being reversed.

The second figure is the number of divorces for the same year. Again in terms of 1,000 population, that is a rate of 5.1, virtually unchanged from the year before and indicating that the long-term rise in the divorce rate may be leveling off.

The two sets of statistics are recorded in the latest edition of "Births, Marriages, Divorces and Deaths" issued by the National Center for Health Statistics. Taken together, they suggest that even in an era of freer lifestyles, there's still a lot to be said for wedlock, and a lot being done about it.

Births during 1978 numbered 3,329,000, about the same as for 1977, giving hope that the population isn't as explosive as feared. But we're still a long way from the zero growth society advocated by some population experts, since the year's live births outnumbered deaths by 1,405,000. The difference, plus immigration, brought the official U.S. population to 218,998,000 as of Jan. 1, 1979, a new high.

It figures.

Keeping Up — Labor Department statisticians have news for a significant segment of the U.S. population.

As of April 1, an urban family of four with an income of less than $6,700 will be categorized as poor. That is an increase of $500 over last year's income standard.

For a single person, the poverty level goes up from $3,140 to $3,400. Similar increases for statistical purposes were announced for households of other compositions.

That's how it is with inflation. It costs more just to be poor.

House adds funds to welfare bill

AUSTIN (AP) — A small sack of cheap clothes and toilet articles would consume a child's monthly welfare check, Rep. Craig Washington demonstrated Wednesday.

Washington's emotional appeal brought an overwhelming House vote to add $20 million to the state budget bill for Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC).

The additional money would raise the average monthly welfare payment from $32.58 to $38.60 per child, he said.

The 1980-81 appropriation bill before the House would spend $20.2 billion from all funding sources and leave about $370 million available for tax cuts or other spending.

Rep. Bill Presnal, D-Bryan, chairman of the House Appropriationss Committee, opposed Washington's amendment but accepted it after representatives refused to table it, 37-103.

Washington, D-Houston, is a black but said this wasn't a case of a "black man fighting for black kids. I'm fighting for little hungry kids because they don't have anybody but you and me."

He told the House 56 percent of the children on the welfare rolls are white.

Washington brought a brown paper sack to the podium and emptied it item by item to show what a $32.58 monthly welfare check would buy at "the very cheapest place in town where they sell dry goods."

He pulled out a pair of children's blue jeans, three pair of socks, a pair of "the cheapest shoes with crepe soles you could find anywhere," a roll-on deodorant, a tube of toothpaste, a tube of shampoo and a bottle of hand lotion.

The bag's contents totaled $27.20, Washington said, and that left "pocket change" from a $32.58 check. The leftover money, he said, would have to cover "shelter, other toilet articles, a shirt, underwear, a toothbrush."

"I want you to look at what you are giving our children because you will see them again. You'll see them at the Texas Department of Corrections or the Texas Youth Council. ... If you could save 10 people from the Texas Department of Corrections, it would pay dividends. ... Help them while they need help," Washington said.

Presnal contended the added $20 million wouldn't raise AFDC payments by as much as Washington said. He said the best way to help welfare children would be to retain the committee's recommended $100 per year "non-recurring payments" to help with such things as school clothes.

Washington replied that his figures showed the average grant would, in fact, rise to $38.60.

Chicago's police chief resigns post

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Police Superintendent James O'Grady resigned Wednesday during an hour-long meeting with Mayor Jane Byrne at City Hall, an aide to the mayor said.

William Griffin, the mayor's press secretary, said Mrs. Byrne accepted O'Grady's written resignation, which is effective immediately.

Mrs. Byrne, who won election April 3 and took office Monday, said during her campaign that she wanted to replace O'Grady as police chief because, she said, he had politicized the department.

O'Grady will retain his civil service rank of captain. He told the mayor that he would take a month-long vacation before returning to a new assignment.

Griffin said that until a new police superintendent is nominated and approved by the City Council, First Deputy Superintendent Samuel Nolan will be acting police chief. Nolan is the first black to serve in that capacity.

Mrs. Byrne has said that she favors Patrick Murphy, a former New York City police commissioner, as O'Grady's replacement.

O'Grady, 50, had been superintendent since April 1978. He reportedly was interviewed recently for a top-level job at a Chicago bank.

Good news, bad news

Connally visits Delaware governor

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Republican presidential candidate John B. Connally began a brief campaign swing through Wilmington Wednesday with a half-hour courtesy call to Gov. Pierre S. du Pont IV.

Connally, 62, called the 44-year-old governor "an enlightened young leader that the Republican Party is going to have to rely upon in the future."

But du Pont did not accompany Connally to three fund-raisers and a news conference later in the day.

Connally said he did not ask du Pont to support his candidacy at this time, but he added, "At some point, I will ask for his support."

Du Pont has been active in national GOP functions recently and is often mentioned locally as having aspirations to become vice president in 1980.

But du Pont has said publicly he plans to run for a second term as governor that year.

Connally said du Pont is "timber for any national political office — vice president, president, cabinet," but he said they did not discuss the possibility of du Pont becoming Connally's running mate.

One subject of conversation, according to Connall and du Pont's press secretary, Fredrick Stern, was GOPAC — a political action group created and chaired by du Pont. GOPAC's purpose is to raise money to help Republican candidates for state legislatures in 1980.

Canal Zone residents uncertain of future

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — The first anniversary of U.S. Senate ratification of the Panama Canal treaties passed without ceremony Wednesday, but Canal Zone residents expressed concern over their future when Panama takes control of the zone in October.

The 35,000 American residents of the zone worry that the end of benefits provided by the Canal Zone company will cause a drastic reduction in their standard of living.

Congress now is considering enabling legislation that includes provisions for cost-of-living allowances, early retirment benefits and higher annuities. Zonians fear the final legislation will delete many of these benefits.

The residents also fear their haven from the problems of Panama, which will take over the canal completely by the year 2000 under the treaties, will be cut off with no assurance the Panamanian government can maintain the zone area.

Residents speak of poor sanitation, vandalism, potholes in the streets and lack of control over street vendors in Panama, which many are afraid also will become problems in the Canal Zone.

Members of both the Pacific and Atlantic side civic councils in the zone are concerned for churches and other nonprofit organizations. One worry is that utility bills will triple and force many to close down.

Businessmen say they do not know what salaries they should pay, what benefits they should provide, what auditing procedures they will have to comply with or what taxes will be.

The main decision for the residents now is whether to stay.

Bud Henson, press information officer of the U.S. Embassy, said, "They want to stay. Many of them, most of them, want to stay if they can be accommodated in many of the areas that they are used to. It's hard for people to pick up their roots and many of these Americans who have worked so hard in the zone consider this really their home. They have no other place to go, though they are very much American citizens.

"I think many of them have made the decision that, if they can, they will stay and work with the Panamanians to make the treaties work."

3 Hart witnesses accused of perjury

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — A Dewey woman and her two sons, who gave testimony implicating a Kansas prison inmate in the 1977 slayings of three Girl Scouts, were charged Wednesday with perjury in the trial of the man charged with the killings.

Another man earlier targeted by Mayes County Sheriff Pete Weaver as a perjury suspect had not yet been charged.

Sources said former Mayes County jailer Allen Little had committed himself to Eastern State Hospital in Vinita, fearing for his life.

Mrs. Joyce Paine, 39, and her teen-aged sons Larry Short and Owen Short were charged with lying on the stand March 27 in the first degree murder trial of Gene Leroy Hart.

A jury deliberated overnight before finding Hart innocent March 30 of the sex slayings at Camp Scott near Locust Grove. Hart is serving other sentences at the state prison.

Mrs. Paine and her sons identified a flashlight found beside the victims' bludgeoned bodies as the one she gave Bill Stevens in Okmulgee a month before the killings.

They also testified Stevens, now serving a sentence for rape at a Hutchinson, Kan., state prison, appeared at their Okmulgee home the morning of the June 13, 1977, slayings with scratches on his arms and red stains on his boots.

Okmulgee is some 50 miles from Camp Scott, where the girls' bodies were found at 6 a.m.

Authorities said they tested hair and sperm samples from Stevens against samples from the victims and eliminated him as a suspect.

Mrs. Paine and Larry Short were released from the Mayes County jail here on $8,000 bail late Wednesday after appearing before Associate District Judge Bill Thomas.

Weaver was en route to Shawnee late Wednesday to pick up Owen Short from Pottawatomie County officials who had him in custody. He was scheduled to be arraigned Thursday.

Former Wichitans bring Uvalde tornado aid

By BECKIE CANN
Staff Writer

Two former Wichitans who are members of the Uvalde Lions Club drove a truck about nine hours to bring goods for victims of last week's tornado.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Holcomb, who have lived in Uvalde two years, brought blankets, sheets, clothes, kitchen items, furniture and money collected from the concerned citizens of Uvalde.

The Lioness and Lions clubs were concerned about the parents of the Holcombs, who live in Wichita Falls. About $150 was collected to give to the Wichita Falls Lions Club. Frank H. Rush and Lloyd Neeley accepted the check. They, in turn, will distribute the goods and money to tornado victims.

The truck used to transport the goods was offered by Pay Less Factory Furniture Outlet.

Mrs. Holcomb said that more furniture was donated than the truck could hold. Another truck may bring it to Wichita Falls or it will be transferred through the Salvation Army, she said.

Mrs. Holcomb teaches English in the Uvalde public school system while her husband teaches at Southwest Texas Junior College in Uvalde. Both took off work on their own time.

"It's a small town, but it has a big heart," Mrs. Holcomb said of Uvalde. She expects more money donations to be collected in the future.

Nichols said the center will offer assistance with temporary housing, home and business loans, farm loans and grants, insurance aid and tax adjustments. Help also will include agricultural assistance, Social Security benefits, veterans benefits and food stamps.

Dear Citizens

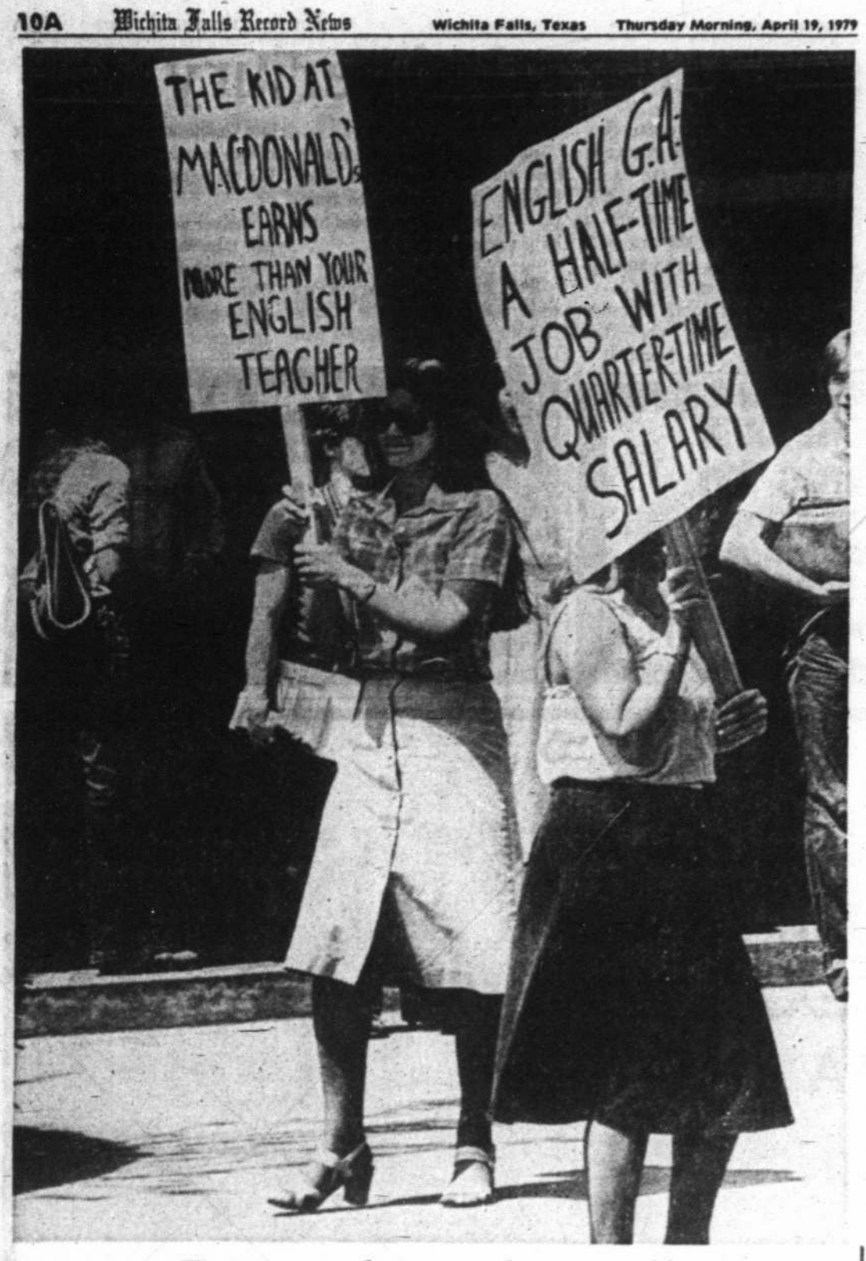

We are a city truly blessed. Blessed with a great people, people of great personal resolution, strength, pride and charity.

We faced a great tragedy together on Tuesday, April 10 and there were mournful losses. But in tragedy the proud people of Wichita Falls won a great victory. I am honored to be a part of a town that gave so much, yet found the strength and compassion to offer itself in service to its neighbors.

In the minutes and hours after the storm were many acts of personal heroism, among them a doctor and emergency personnel who helped us search and care for the injured. Sheppard and Naval Reserve personnel also volunteered immediately to help secure the building. Teenagers and adults helped to clear up the debris that would have endangered the health of those searching for survivors. The Salvation Army and Red Cross provided support for the volunteers. The list is endless.

Sikes Senter will be back soon, prettier and fresher than ever, but certainly we owe so much to you. God bless all of you!

Nuclear trial witness defends safety precautions

Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Safety was always "the first consideration" at the nuclear fuel plant where Karen Silkwood worked as a lab technician, a semi-retired Kerr-McGee Corp. executive testified Wednesday.

Parker Dunn, 68, of Oklahoma City said he never put production ahead of safety or instructed his subordinates to do so.

"Over the years, I found when you say safety first, they don't really believe it unless you put safety first," Dunn said.

Dunn, the former head of Kerr-McGee's nuclear operations, said employees were briefed on safety procedures as they were hired.

He also said safety reports and the discussion of safety problems always came first at monthly management and supervisory meetings.

Earlier witnesses have testified so much emphasis was put on production that safety was often ignored.

Miss Silkwood's survivors are suing Kerr-McGee for $11.5 million alleging negligence in connection with her plutonium contamination.

The company claims she contaminated herself, possibly while tampering with her urine samples to dramatize complaints about working conditions. Miss Silkwood died in a 1974 auto crash.

Dunn said the then-Atomic Energy Commission was thorough in inspecting the plant and that inspectors made both announced and unannounced visits at the plant.

Before Dunn took the stand, a Nuclear Regulatory Commission investigator, Gerald Phillip, 54, of Glen Ellyn, Ill., underwent further cross-examination by Silkwood lawyer Gerry Spence.

Phillip was asked why he turned over to Kerr-McGee two urine specimens from Miss Silkwood's locker at work instead of keeping them for analysis by the AEC.

"At that point," he said, "we weren't suspicious of anyone's motives and had no reason to believe anyone had any ulterior motives."

After his testimony, Phillip outlined for reporters his theory of how Miss Silkwood became contaminated. He said he believes she stole plutonium from the plant Nov. 5, 1974, and spilled the radioactive material in her apartment on Nov. 7, 1974, heavily contaminating it and herself.

U.S. District Judge Frank Theis of Wichita, Kan., ruled Phillip couldn't testify in court about his theory. The ruling was made after an April 13 evidentiary hearing.

Lawmaker opposes halting nuclear plant construction

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — Rep. Mike Synar is not in favor of a moratorium on construction of the Black Fox nuclear generating station but wants an energy plowback tax credit on President Carter's windfall profits tax.

Synar, visiting in his 2nd congressional district during a recess, said Tuesday he favors a balanced federal budget, but does not support the drive for adoption of a constitutional amendment requiring it.

On the Black Fox plant being built near Inola, Synar said he is confident investigations of the accident at the Three Mile Island plant in Pennsylvania, coupled with more cautious licensing procedures, will insure the Oklahoma plant will be safe.

Principal requirement will be that location of the location is satisfacory, that security of the plant from sabotage or terroist attack is adequate and that there is adequate means of nuclear waste disposal.

On oil industry taxes, Synar said the plowback provision is necessary to give credits for domestic development and research. Without it, he said, there would not be enough incentives for the required work.

Official said Steven Dixon, 12, was admitted to Healdton Municipal Hospital with a broken pelvis and internal injuries. He was listed in stable condition.

Carmen Gover, 13; Shane Gover, 10; Nelson C. Dixon, 14; and David Dixon, 9, were admitted to Ardmore Memorial Hospital with head injuries. All were repoted in good condition.

The Highway Patrol said four of the five other children aboard the bus were treated and released. One passenger reportedly was not injured.

David Blackburn, the bus driver, did not require treatement for cuts he suffered.

The Highway Patrol said the accident occurred three miles southeast of Wilson in western Carter County.

The patrol said the bus was crossing the 21-foot long and 12-foot wide wooden bridge when the west end collapsed.

Extra insurance benefits may be due tornado victims

By LEON HOOTEN
Business Editor

Emergency living expenses and coverage of buildings other than the home are extra insurance benefits that may be due residents in North Texas who sustained losses in the tornado April 10 that slashed across the area.

In addition, students at Midwestern State University or other educational institutions in the area may have been covered by their parents' insurance policy if the students lost possessions in the storm.

Persons who have "A," "B," and "C" homeowner policies probably have extra insurance coverage for additional living expense and coverage for "outbuildings" not considered part of the primary dwelling, according to insurance company officials in Wichita Falls.

Homeowners with these type policies also have insurance on property not on the premises and most companies are extending this coverage to include almost total value, not the limitation imposed by existing policies.

This coverage applies to persons who have moved salvagable property from damaged buildings and placed them in storage, DeValse Cox, president of Williams-Dwyer Co., said Wednesday.

Some persons who have standard fire and extended coverage may have the additional living expense and outbuilding coverage but probably will not have coverage on off-premise property. A call to your agent or an examination of the policy will determine the extent of the coverage, he said.

"And don't dig through the rubble of your ruins trying to find a copy of your policy. Your insurance agent has a copy and the company has one locked in a safe place," Cox added.

He advised homeowners to "act like you don't have any insurance coverage at all and make decisions based on that assumption."

This means that a homeowner should take all steps necessary to protect property from additional damage, such as boarding up windows, patching leaky roofs and any other emergency provisions to prevent additional loss.

Insurance will pay for all materials used for such repairs and, as Cox quipped, "It will make your insurance company damn happy."

An invoice should be kept on all materials purchased and these should be turned over to the agent or adjuster for repayment.

In fact, insurance officials said a requirement of about all policies is that "all steps be taken to reduce additional loss."

MSU students who lost all or part of their belongings from the storm but didn't have insurance coverage here may be covered by their parents' homeowner policy in the city or town where they live.

This is covered under policies that have off-premise coverage, Cox said. Students who lost possession should send a list of their losses to their parents if they are considered a "member of the parents' household," and the parents should contact their insurance agents.

Most insurance companies are providing victims with an "advance-payment check" to tide them over until final determination of loss and settlement has been accomplished.

Lawyers and insurance agents agree that even though you accept a check for "final settlement" with the company, it does not mean that if additional losses are discovered, another claim can't be filed and additional money obtained.

Any so-called release signed by a homeowner does not prevent a later claim. The release is for damages known and evaluated at the time of settlement, according to Wichita Falls attorney Ed McIntosh.

And McIntosh and insurance company officials said that if a homeowner isn't satisifed with figures provided by an adjuster, the homeowner should contact his local agent.

Free legal advice is available to storm victims at disaster relief centers provided by Wichita County Young Lawyers Association.

Additional living expenses will cover up to 10 percent of a basic "A" policy and up to 20 percent of "B" and "C" policies. This includes meals that had to be eaten out and housing or room rental caused by loss of home.

"Persons incurring this type of expense should keep copies of restaurant tickets, motel bills and all other expenses. If they haven't been keeping this, then they should start at once and their agents can reconstruct expenses where details weren't maintained," Cox said.

This coverage even includes having a telephone hooked up to a temporary home. It won't cover the bill itself because that would have been there before the home was destroyed or damaged, but it will cover the hook-up fee, officials said.

Based on a $50,000 homeowner policy, buildings on the property that aren't the main home are covered up to an additional 10 percent, for a maximum of $5,000. This applies to a building or group of buildings and in case the structure was just "blown away" leaving no trace of its existence, the homeowner can sign an affidavit that it existed before the storm hit.

Coverage on the home contents not only covers basic items such as furniture, dishes and pot and pans, but also "unscheduled items" such as cameras, silver services and jewelry up to a limit with a deductable, generally about $500. All of this is property not attached to the house.

If the property was insured for 80 percent or more of the replacement value, most companies will pay for full damage, total or partial, with no depreciation taken into account.

"It's like replacing a new building for an old, up to the face value of the policy," one insurance agent said.

Also, storm victims with vehicles "totaled" or damaged can check with their agents or go by one of the drive-in settlement stations and will "for the most part, get a check on the spot," Cox said.

If the vehicle is missing or undriveable, the car title can be presented and a check will be made for the retail value, officials said.

"Probably the single most important bit of advice a lawyer should give someone who has sustained property damage is to be certain to choose a building contractor who is permanent and has an established reputation. And verify this reputation with our Board of Commerce and Industry," McIntosh warned.

"Do not prepay for work not yet done or for materials not installed," he cautioned.

In all cases, storm victims should read their policy, talk with their insurance agents and report all damage as soon as possible, regardless of how small.

Adjusters and agents have set priorities so that the homeless are serviced first, those with marginal living quarters next and so on down the priority list, officials said.

"If you have minor damage and have made an initial report to the agent or company, be patient, you will be contacted in order of priority," insurance officials said.

DAV offers financial aid

Veterans with service-connected disabilities, as well as widows of such veterans, will have another chance to receive immediate financial aid from Disabled American Veterans.

Lynn Meador of DAV said service representatives will return to Wichita Falls Friday to continue providing funds to meet immediate needs of qualifying veterans who were victims of the tornado.

The officials will be at the DAV Center, 417 Indiana, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Veterans with service-connected disabilities within the designated disaster area are eligible for these benefits regardless of the degree of their disabilities.

The disaster area includes Wichita, Wilbarger, Clay, Baylor and Foard counties. Persons need not be members of DAV to qualify, Mrs. Meador said.

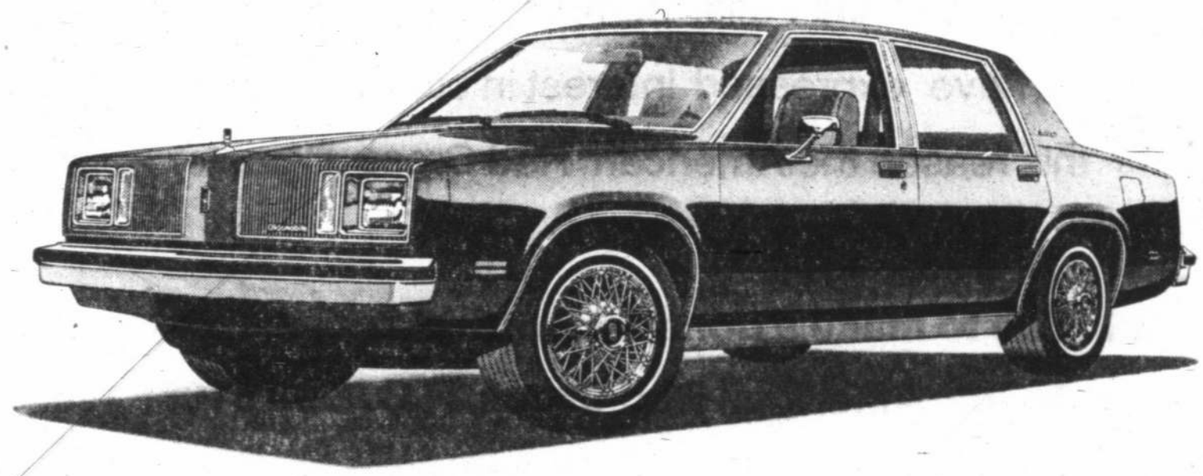

Persons wishing to apply for aid must have their C numbers, and DAV officials ask that applicants bring their hospital cards if possible.

Further information may be obtained by calling DAV at 723-7462.

Tetanus shots offered

The Red Cross will open a tetanus clinic at the command post at Southwest Parkway and Fairway at 1 p.m. Thursday.

Tetanus shots also are available at Wichita Health Unit from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily, Josephine Dimock, director of nursing services, said.

Omega also has very good mileage for a car this size. With standard engine and transmission, the EPA estimate is (24) mpg. And the highway estimate is 38 mpg.

Remember, the circled EPA estimate is for comparisons to other cars. Your mileage depends on speed, weather and trip length; your actual highway mileage will probably be lower than the highway estimate.

Notre Dame students taking volunteer role in community

By PAT ZAJAC
Staff Writer

Seniors at Notre Dame High School are not hiding their lights under bushel baskets, but are applying their talents in the service of others.

The 44 students in the class of '79 are doing volunteer work in various agencies one day a week as part of their Theology of Ministry course.

"A lot of Christianity is not just knowing the doctrine and the facts, but living it out also. Christ's teachings are not just words, but can be put into action," explains Paul Bernardy, vice principal of Notre Dame and coordinator of the program.

The students have been working at Wichita Falls State Hospital, Highland Nursing Home, Washington School, Bethania Hospital, Cunningham School for the Deaf, Community Child Development Center and Notre Dame Elementary.

Some of the students are working as teacher aides at Notre Dame Elementary and the Child Care center, helping supervise the children at meals and recess, helping with classroom projects and tutoring the children.

Students at the nursing home spend time with the residents, talking with them or playing table games. As one of their projects, they planted tomato plants for the residents to care for. They have befriended one resident who is blind and take him for walks, describing to him what they see.

The senior service project has made the students more aware of their talents. Some have the obvious talents for music, art and sports. Others have found that their sense of humor, patience and ability to listen to others are talents also.

Their experiences have exposed them to various career possibilities and have broadened their thinking, the students say.

"I always shied away from nursing homes. I thought it would be depressing. But each of those people has lived a long time and has interesting stories to tell," says Arthur Litteken.

Jeanette Palkowetz uses her artistic talents to draw illustrations for the deaf children at Cunningham. Ms. Palkowetz and some of the classmates are helping the children in physical education and accompanying them on outings. They are also learning sign language.

Alex Drtil and some other seniors are working in the radiology and surgery sections at Bethania Hospital.

Other students work in occupational or music therapy at Wichita Falls State Hospital or tutor some of the students in the adolescent ward.

The senior service program is now in its eighth year at Notre Dame High School.

Watch out — old laws could slip up on you

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Think twice before you discard that banana peel.

Modern-day littering laws notwithstanding, it has been illegal since 1911 to throw a banana peel on the street in Tennessee. The law prescribes a $50 fine.

The banana-peel law is one of many unusual or undated statutes on the law books in Tennessee.

A 1939 state criminal law says marathon dancing and other endurance contests can't last more than eight hours. It says those involved in the contest must take a 48-hour break before competing again.

It is illegal to call another person a coward if he refuses to participate in a duel. The law, dating to the 1800s, carries a two-year prison term.

The law also calls for a 10-year prison term for persons involved in a duel.

The sale of logs that have been hollowed out and plugged at the ends with a piece of wood has been illegal since 1901.

The owner of a dog which has chased, bitten or wounded a goat or sheep is subject to a $25 fine.

Persons who handle dangerous snakes violate a 1947 law which carries a maximum $150 fine and a six-month jail sentence.

A law which makes it illegal to "interfere, disquiet or in any way disturb pupils of any school or college for females" should give males intent on raiding sorority houses some reason to reconsider.

Steamboat racing carries a $50 fine and a six-month jail term.

Barbers are prohibited from cutting hair on Sunday, and other types of work on Sunday except in emergencies or for charity work are also illegal. Persons who hunt on Sunday are subject "to the same penalties as those who work on the Sabbath" — a $10 fine.

Ancient city of Pompeii facing a second death

By SAMUEL KOO
Associated Press Writer

POMPEII, Italy (AP) — Pompeii, the bustling Roman city transformed into a ghost town by a blanket of volcanic dust 1,900 years ago, is threatened today with a second death, say Italian preservationists.

"We're doing our best to preserve and consolidate what has been excavated, but the task is overwhelming," said Dr. Stefano De Caro, the 29-year-old resident archaeologist and administrative director of Pompeii.

A Pompeii exhibit is now touring the United States.

Bruno Molajoli, an art historian, termed the fight against the city's deterioration "almost hopeless ... if unchecked it will lead to the total, final destruction of Pompeii."

The ancient city, located about 14 miles southeast of Naples, was once a popular resort of stately one-and two-story villas, shops, paved streets and public theaters graced with statues and mosaics.

But on the morning of Aug. 24, 79 A.D., the long-dormant volcano Vesuvius blew up, covering the city in ashes. The site was discovered in the early 1700s and unearthed. Now, the forces of nature, thievery and poor administration are taking their toll.

Two-thirds of the oval-shaped city, about two miles in circumference and the home of 20,000 people at the time of the eruption, has been laid bare. There are no plans to excavate the rest since officials want to preserve what has been found.

Molajoli said the unearthed buildings are mostly brick with marble or plaster facing, which is not fit to resist severe weather.

The houses have no roofs because they collapsed under the weight of cinders, exposing to the sun and rain the delicate wall paintings.

The city's paved streets and stepping stones are taking a "terrible beating" from the feet of more than 1.3 million visitors a year, while a parasite-infested vegetation chokes the ancient walls and threatens the foundations, Molajoli said. The growth must be pulled by hand because chemicals can adversely affect the old structures.

Security is also a problem. De Caro said he needs 250 guards to do an effective job, and since he has only 178, he has closed parts of Pompeii to visitors.

Four serious thefts took place last year. In one, thieves took four valuable statues and chiseled 6 paintings from the walls of a house.

A system of lights and an "unobtrusive" fence were built on the northern edge of the city, but De Caro said he does not expect the security measures to end thefts and vandalism.

Most art snatchers are motivated by "artistic fanaticism" and not by money-making considerations, De Caro said, since the artifacts have been catalogued and are known to museums and dealers.

Souvenir-seeking tourists take their toll by sneaking off with bits of decorated plaster, mosaics or stones. Others engrave their names on the walls next to the names of ancient Pompeiians.

De Caro and Molajoli agree that it is impossible for only one resident archaeologist to oversee the city. "It's a job for 20," said Molajoli.

De Caro said he must devote half his time to paper work, and he has fewer than 50 technicians and laborers to do restoration and maintenance.

Italy's parliament appropriated nearly $4 million in 1976 for a five-year program for Pompeii, but De Caro said a permanent arrangement must be found.

"Pompeii's last hope rests on international solidarity of those who are willing to preserve this treasure for the common interest of all nations," says Molajoli.

"We are often asked how we plan to commemorate the 1,900th anniversary of the eruption of Vesuvius," said one staffer. "We're so preoccupied with problems of daily upkeep that we hardly can think of any other project."

The immensely popular Pompeii exhibition has drawn 4,000 to 5,000 persons a day during its tour of Boston, Chicago and Dallas. The exhibit opens in New York's Museum of Natural History on April 22.

The display, the first in the United States, represents a cross-section of the art and craftsmanship of the buried city as well as life in an ordinary town in the greatest country of its time.

Another foreign tour is likely soon, perhaps to Australia and some European countries.

Former New Hampshire governor publishes book

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Freedom is the "happiest condition of man," former Gov. Meldrim Thomson writes in his first book, "Live Free Or Die."

The book is a rewritten collection of articles and speeches the conservative politician gave before, during and after his six years as New Hampshire's 91st governor. He left office Jan. 4.

The book's title comes from a phrase attributed to Col. John Stark, a Revolutionary War hero, in a letter to veterans of the Battle of Bennington. The full quotation, attributed to Stark, who later became a general, is "Live free or die, death is not the worst of evils."

Thomson used the motto during his three terms in office and points out in a footnote the "great motto has since been removed from official state stationery by a Democratic governor (Hugh Gallen) and bills were introduced in the 1979 session of the Legislature by liberal legislators to remove the motto from all motor vehicle license plates."

Proceeds from the book will go to Thomson's newly formed organization, Conservative Action Inc., he said in an interview Wednesday. It is part of his campaign "to keep the faith in America," he said.

The book is published by Thomson's Equity Publishing Corp. in Orford, and will sell for $7.95.

"While it is a testament to one man's strong conservative principles and his belief in the need to preserve the ancient landmarks of America's heritage, it portrays many of the confrontations he had and stands he took in defending and advancing the cause of freedom," he writes.

He also wrote on energy self-sufficiency, free enterprise, gun control, judicial "permissiveness" and "the federal snoopers who try to control our lives."

And he renews his attacks on the United Nations, the "give-away" of the Panama Canal and what he views as the Soviet Union's military superiority to the United States.

1980 census will do more than simply count people

WASHINGTON (AP) — Back in the old days, census takers had one job: to count people. Nothing more.

The 1980 census, which will start April 1 and cost an estimated $1 billion, has become a pie that every American interest group wants its finger in.

Women wanted to be sure the government knew that men weren't the only ones to head households. So feminist groups persuaded the Census Bureau to eliminate the "head of household" question. Instead, "householder," the person who owns or rents the dwelling, will be named.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, won a battle to restore a question about disability. But there no longer is a question about religious affiliation.

And Sar Levitan of the National Commission on Employment and Unemployment Statistics could not get inclusion of a question about persons who abandon the search for a job and drop out of the labor market.

People will be asked not only whether they are married, but how many times.

Each group of Americans wants to be sure it's counted. The primary reason is simple: money. Big money.

The census once was used mainly to help draw congressional districts for the 435 members of the House of Representatives.

Nowadays, census statistics are used to measure the quality of American life — income, education level, employment status, age, housing quality, occupation, number of children and military service.

The federal government devises formulas from these figures to determine how to distribute $50 billion in federal funds to states and local communities for job programs, health services, civil rights enforcement and other social services.

Local officials know that if not everyone in their area is counted, they won't get as much federal money as they need. Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson says an undercounting of blacks in his city in the 1970 census meant a loss of $11.7 million in job aid funds to Atlanta over more than five years.

District of Columbia Mayor Marion Barry testified before Congress that the undercount of blacks in Washington cost the city $1.9 million in general revenue sharing funds in fiscal 1978.

Henry Smith, spokesman for the Census Bureau, says the biggest challenge for the 1980 census is to reduce the undercount, particularly among minority groups.

In 1970, the bureau estimates it failed to tally 3.4 million whites, or about 2 percent of the entire white population. At the same time, it failed to count 7.7 percent of the black population, or 1.9 million persons.

"The undercount can't be totally eliminated," Smith said. "But we hope to significantly reduce the disparity between the undercount for whites and minorities."

To achieve this, the bureau organized minority advisory committees and hired hundreds of temporary workers to go door-to-door in local communities to gather information and explain the census questions to those who don't understand them.

Some groups complain the Census Bureau is asking too many questions that aren't the government's business.

John Shattuck, director of the American Civil Liberties Union's Washington office, has said in congressional testimony that the 1980 census presents many problems of privacy and confidentiality.

The ACLU objects that names are kept on individual questionnaires and stored in census computers for many years.

"We've tried to persuade them to eliminate the names, but they resist," Shattuck said.

However, he said, the bureau has a good reputation for keeping information confidential. "Other government agencies such as the Internal Revenue Service and Social Security Administration are not free to examine their (census) records," he said. "But there are obvious problems in terms of leakage."

By law, the Census Bureau is forbidden to divulge any personal or private business information from the questionnaires to anyone without exception, Smith said.

At the same time, answering census questions — which are approved by Congress — is mandatory. Refusal could result in a maximum $100 fine.

Meanwhile, work continues on writing the questionnaire forms.

Childress hospital shows hefty profit

CHILDRESS, Texas (Special) — Childress General Hospital operated at a hefty profit during the month of March, swelling the year-to-date net gain to more than $20,000.

Administrator Pat Horn said the hospital cleared more than $16,000 during March to improve its financial situation.

Several of the winter months showed operating figures in the red, although patient occupancy during periods of flu and related illnesses boosted income above operating costs.

Horn said the hospital is finalizing plans to operate its own respiratory therapy service. A contract with an out-of-town service was not renewed by the hospital board of directors and the local operation is expected to get under way in September. Horn noted that the present personnel with the respiratory therapy service will be hired in the new program.

State House doorkeeper aids Wichitans

AUSTIN — When the doorkeeper of the Texas House of Representatives — Joe C. Wagner of Austin — received some pay for extra work he knew just what he wanted to do with it: send it to help the people in storm-torn Wichita Falls.

Wagner was paid $25 for some extra work, and added $25 of his own.

He then quietly sought out State Rep. Dave Allred (D-Wichita Falls) and explained he wanted to do his part in helping in disaster relief. Allred is forwarding the money to relief officials in Wichita Falls.

Wagner has been doorkeeper at the House of Representatives for 16 years, and he and Allred have been friends for almost that long.

Affectionately known to House members as Joe or "Colonel" Wagner — originally from Boxton, Mass., — is a retired lieutenant colonel who served in the United States Air Force.

"Joe's kindness is just one more example of the great concern and support that people are showing for Wichita Falls, and I think it's fine," Allred said.

Clay disaster fund started

BYERS, Texas (Special) — A Clay County and Dean disaster relief fund has been established at Byers First National Bank to aid victims of the tornado that swept across the county April 10, according to Joe Parker Sr., bank president.

Contributions to assist residents suffering damage may be made at the bank.

"All amounts received will be assigned and dispersed in accordance with sound business judgment and good faith in an effort to bring the best possible relief-under the circumstances," Parker said.

"Members of Clay County Disaster Relief Committee will be determining to what use the monies will be put," he said.

Members of the committee are Dean Mayor Bobby Reese; Earl Sargent of Wichita Falls, publicity; Parker; Clay County Sheriff Jake Bogard; and Clay County Commissioner Bob Brown.

Marvin decision 'likely' to encourage more suits

By BARBARA RIEGELHAUPT
Associated Press Writer

LEE MARVIN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Legal experts agreed Wednesday that the decision in the Marvin vs. Marvin case is likely to encourage suits by other spurned live-in lovers. But they differed on whether the courts will be flooded or simply sprinkled with similar actions.

"The decision was surprising to me because it means that there will be a tremendous flood of this kind of litigation," said Stuart Walzer, a Beverly Hills attorney.

"I thought he (Superior Court Judge Arthur Marshall) was conservative and his instincts would push him away from encouraging litigation. I suppose he figured in view of the overall amount demanded, this was a modest sum. But unfortunately, it will be touted as a great triumph and this will encourage more litigation."

Michelle Triola Marvin, who lived with actor Lee Marvin for six years, was awarded $104,000 by Marshall "for rehabilitation purposes." The decision was based on a 1976 California Supreme Court decision giving judges discretion to impose an equitable remedy in cases where couples lived together without a contract.

Miss Marvin had sought $1.8 million, one-half the actor's assets accumulated during the time they spent together.

Tony Carsola, an attorney specializing in family law, disagreed with Walzer's prediction that the courts would be inundated with suits.

"I don't think this case is going to open a floodgate because it's telling women they better have a basis on which to allege their damages," he said. "The court is looking for more than just a love relationship."

Raoul Felder, a New York attorney considered one of the country's foremost matrimonial lawyers, said the ruling did not set a precedent but did show that Miss Marvin presented a poor case.

"I think every case is going to stand and fall on its own," he said.

"But the victory for Miss Marvin to be in court was a victory for all women," he said, referring to the 1976 ruling. "Unfortunately, too many people will lose sight of this by focusing on the (trial) decision."

Warren Deutsch, another Beverly Hills attorney, said many lawyers had received calls from women in situations similar to Miss Marvin's since when the case first attracted publicity. Many are pending, others have yet to be filed.

More 'Marvin suits' filed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The impact of Wednesday's decision in the Marvin vs. Marvin property rights trial on similar cases pending around the country is unknown, but the initial filing of the case has already resulted in several similar suits.

Superior Court Judge Arthur Marshall awarded Michelle Triola Marvin $104,000 for "rehabilitation so that she may have the economic means to re-educate herself and to learn new, employable skills."

Miss Marvin had sued actor Lee Marvin for $1.8 million, half of the assets he accumulated during the six years they lived together.

Miss Marvin's attorney, Marvin Mitchelson, has himself filed two other suits in which ex-roommates of entertainment figures are seeking alimony-type payments. Cindy Lang is suing rock star Alice Cooper and Karen Ecklund is asking compensation from actor Nick Nolte.

Comedian Flip Wilson is also being sued by a former live-in companion, and Mitchelson added a twist to the Marvin concept when he filed suit in behalf of Mrs. Rod Steiger for alimony and a property settement that included the nine years the couple lived together before they were married.

On Tuesday, another similar suit — filed against rock star Peter Frampton by former companion Penelope McCall — was dismissed by New York State Supreme Court Judge Joseph Galiardi because their living arrangement had involved adultery, a crime in New York.

Ms. McCall had asked for half of Frampton's earnings from the five years they lived together. When she met Frampton, she was married to a stage hand in the rock group with which Frampton got his start.

Free symphony tickets offered

Free admissions are offered to the 8:15 p.m. Saturday concert of Wichita Falls Symphony Orchestra in Memorial Auditorium.

Unsold reserved seats will be distributed first, then the unreserved second balcony section will be opened, said Virginia Pierce, symphony manager.

"This is a come-as-you-are concert. We feel this is something we can do to give people a few hours without thinking about the tornado," Mrs. Pierce said.

She also asked holders of season tickets who do not plan to use them to call her so the seats can be distributed.

The all-Gershwin program is the last of this year's subscription series. Pianist Todd Hughes will play "Rhapsody In Blue," Marsha Henderson and James E. Mumford of University of Indiana will be soloists with Midwestern State University Concert Choir in a concert version of "Porgy and Bess" and the orchestra will play "An American In Paris."

Ronstadt worrying Carters

By LIZ SMITH
Chi. Trib.-N.Y. News

Entertainment

"The constant fear of a performer is to become what is reflected back at you," says Linda Ronstadt in a new "Book of Quotes" by Barbara Rowes.

Guess who Linda Ronstadt is worrying these days? Well, it's not the mother and father of Gov. Jerry Brown of California; it's the mother and father of Chip Carter. Yes, I mean the Carters of White House fame. How so?

You do remember way back long ago when Chip made a celebrated trip to California to see Linda perform? Washington's Ear column duly reported his enthusiasm. The thing is — Chip's enthusiasm hasn't waned. He has been separated since last November from his wife Caron and their child, but Chip shows no sign of abating his mad, devastating, wipe-out crush on Linda. It is worrying the Carters no end. (Maybe the Carters are just natural born "worriers." Look magazine will soon report that Miz Lillian and Rosalynn Carter are worried about Jack Carter running for Congress and trying to talk him out of it. They fear a career in politics will cause the press to be hostile to Jack.

Anyway, Linda was off trekking around Africa with her pal Jerry Brown, but that's just an unusual friendship, a non-romantic companionship. I haven't been able to dicover what the singer feels about her admirer Chip Carter — if anything.

P.S. ANGELS: Producers Spelling-Goldberg have no one to blame but themselves if word of their interest in actress Barbara Bach to replace Kate Jackson in "Charlie's Angels" leaked out via this reporter Wednesday.

Another ubiquitous gossip reporter has written: "One TV executive close to the show said the starlet's name may have come up through the efforts of an overzealous press agent who sought to promote her chances."

Why should press agents get all the credit every time news slips out? In this case, that whole concept is wrong, wrong, wrong. If Barbara Bach has a press agent, I don't know who it is and have never heard from same. I've also never heard from Barbara, who wasn't promoting herself at all to my knowledge. Spelling-Goldberg know perfectly well that their own offices have been in negotiation and they can't blame Barbara. If they don't firm up signing her as their third angel just because of a news leak, then all I can say is they didn't want her very much anyway. Imagine the silliness of penalizing an actress because news about her happens to leak out!

People are always asking who are your sources? Where do you get your best news? I will say it again: A columnist's best sources invariably are other media people, other reporters, other noses for news who just can't resist what Carl Bernstein once termed "truth-saying." In other words, Pssst — pass it on! And if Spelling-Goldberg didn't want the world to know they were interested in Barbara Bach then they should never have even discussed it with one another, let alone let it leak to my many intrepid pals who are forever girdling the globe like Clark Kent in "Superman."

SIMPLY DIVINE: The divine Miss Bette Davis will look even more so when she emerges soon from Manhattan's Eye and Ear Hospital, where some of the city's best plastic surgeons ply their trade. (I know, because one of them named Tom Rees once plied his trade there upon yours truly!). . .The divine Paige Rense's Posh Architectural Digest will feature Peggy Guggenheim's Palazzo Venier dei Leoni in Venice in its May issue. . .The divine food taster Gael Greene discovered tall, blond, blue-eyed Danish doctor Niels Lauersen for herself; then she discovered his book, "It's Your Body." Now she has convinced the divine shrink Mildred Newman and other divines of women's liberation — Betty Friedan, Barbara Seaman and Nancy Friday — to endorse same for the big paperback edition. These females are not apt to applaud a male gynecologist unless they think he is the cat's meow — or divinely right.

GUARDED — Good Housekeeping is guarding the Winzola McClendon manuscript of the Martha Mitchell book as if they had the crown jewels. Word-of-mouth indicates that perhaps they do. The publishing trade hears only good about "Martha" — the story of the late heroine of Watergate. It is said to be simply spectacular, with much of the "hot stuff" in the second installment. The magazine starts its two-parter in May, and Random House publishes June 22.

AND HE'S NOT even Republican! But Oscar winner Jon Voight is eyeing "The Elephant Man" as a film project. The magnificent and unusual play by Bernard Pomerance moves to Broadway's Booth Theater this very week.

Special 77 Ranch sale set

By JOE BROWN
Farm Editor

Wichita Falls' 77 Ranch will hold a "Super Select" all female sale beginning at noon Monday at the ranch, said George Graham, owner.

To be sold will be 78 lots of pairs, bred cows and bred heifers. Louis Hartmangruber, ranch manager, said many of the cows will have calves at their side by the top herd sires Big George and CRR Emulous 26-1.

Clay County 4-Hers

HENRIETTA, Texas — Several Clay County youths will participate in the 4-H Share-the-Fun contest for District 4 in Denton, Texas, on Saturday, said John Holland and Rita Lindsey, county agents.

Participants will be Dana Erwin, Sheila O'Neal and Tisha Thomas of Bellevue, and Jeff Forrester, Kyle Rater, Tim Seymour, Tandy Rater and Lance Shepherd of Midway.

The Bellevue team is the senior group. Midway 4-Hers are juniors.

Horse Show Set

An open horse show will begin at 10 a.m. April 28 at Wichita County Mounted Patrol Arena, according to Janice Fuhrman. More information is available by calling 723-2967.

Lamb Sale Friday

LAWTON, Okla. — About 200 choice wether lambs will be offered in a club lamb sale beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the fairgrounds in Lawton.

About 30 consignors represent some of the best sheep breeders in Southwestern Oklahoma, said Larry Lawler of Comanche, Okla.

All breeds and some crossbred lambs will be included in the annual Great Plains Club Lamb Sale.

Planting Estimates

AUSTIN — Planting intentions in Texas for 1979 indicate a sharp increase in cotton and soybean acreage, which will more than offset declines in sorghum and corn, according to Texas Crop Reporting Service in Austin.

Cotton planting intentions, at 7.6 million acres, are up nine percent from last year. If full intentions are realized, this will be the largest cotton crop planted since 1955.

Sorghum acreage is forecast at 5.2 million acres, down nine percent from last year, the lowest level since 1949.

In the U.S. the prospective cotton acreage is placed at 14.4 million acres, up eight percent from 1978.

Record World Crop

A record world cotton crop of 64.4 million bales is in prospect for the 1979-80 cotton year, according to economists at Cotton Inc.

If growing conditions continue favorable as the year progresses, the crop should exceed the previous record of 64.3 million bales in 1974, they said.

Meanwhile, said Cotton Inc. analysts, world cotton use should reach a level of about 62.3 milllon bales in the upcoming cotton year beginning Aug. 1, a 300,000-bale increase over this year's estimated use of 62 million bales.

FFA Banquet Held

BOWIE, Texas — Named Honorary Chapter Farmers at the annual FFA awards banquet in Bowie were Ronnie and Larry Ogle of Bowie Livestock Auction.

More than 375 persons attended the banquet. Todd Smith was named Star Chapter Farmer and also received the DeKalb Award.

Neal Treadwell was named the Star Chapter Greenhand for outstanding first year vocational agriculture work.

Mrs. Frances M. Kirby was presented the chapter's Distinguished Service Award.

Redevelopment panel begins work

By JIM MILLER
Staff Writer

The Wichita Falls Reconstruction and Redevelopment Commission Wednesday plunged into the mass of complex issues involved in reviving devastated areas of Wichita Falls.

With input from City Manager Gerald Fox, commission members spent more than two hours discussing redevelopment issues, but they barely scratched the surface on what Wichita Falls architect Charles Harper called the group's "monumental task" of dealing with the long-range implications of redevelopment.

"I envision our job to be basically as that of a plow to prepare the ground for the city council so this city can come back strong and fast," Harper, who was elected commission chairman by acclamation, told members. "This is what we must do."

The city council named the commission Tuesday to serve as an advisory group to the council. A formal resolution officially establishing the ad hoc commission is scheduled for presentation at the next city council meeting.

Wednesday, the group discussed temporary housing of displaced persons. Fox told the group that federal disaster assistance centers had received applications from 2,118 heads of households for temporary housing. He said the number was growing daily.

As the discussion continued to turn up complication after complication in meeting temporary housing needs, commission members decided that further study of all issues involved was needed before any recommendations could be made.

A housing subcommittee was formed, as were a number of other subcommittees, to address the issue and give the commission a preliminary report at its next meeting at 5 p.m. Thursday.

The commission also discussed how to keep residential areas hit by the tornado from becoming commercialized. The group also considered asking the city council for agreements with other cities to allow electricians from those cities to practice in Wichita Falls without a Wichita Falls license.

These issues also were tabled for further study.

The commission agreed to meet Monday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week at 5 p.m. in the Conference Room of Memorial Auditorium.

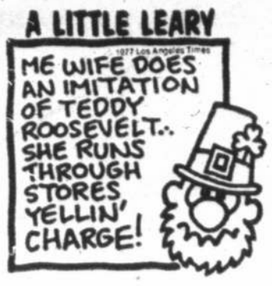

Members of the commission, in addition to Harper, are Larry Lambert, attorney; Ray Ashbrook, former councilman; Jerry Estes, finance; Charles Dunham, architect; John Wilson, Realtor; Elvin Dudley, home builder; Jacque Allen, planning board; and Lonny Morrison, attorney.

Also, Bob Mathews, engineer and planner; Bruce McClain, finance; George Ross Jr., contractor; Tommy Robinson, parks board; Herb Smith, finance; Ronnie Rucker, architect; Isabelle Hunt, legislative; Ronald Longino, insurance; Don Wills, school board; and Maj. Gen. Charles L. Donnelly, Sheppard Technical Training Center commander.

GOP events canceled

Two Republican fund-raising events featuring U.S. Rep. John J. Rhodes, House GOP leader from Arizona, scheduled April 28 have been canceled.

Jacque Allen, county GOP chairman, said the events were called off because of the tornado which devastated Wichita Falls April 10.

Dutch girl's teeth restored

EINDHOVEN, Netherlands (AP) — A 13-year-old Dutch girl who lost her two front teeth in a youth club brawl had them successfully reimplanted by surgeons, authorities said.

Police officers had to retrieve the teeth from a trash can at the youth club. They had been discarded before surgeons concluded they could be restored as long as the roots still were attached.

The unidentified girl lost the teeth after being hit by a beer bottle, authorities said.

600-year-old butter found

MOSCOW (AP) — A container of 600-year-old butter has been unearthed in Razdan, Soviet Armenia, and it may prove to be a valuable medicine, the Soviet news agency Tass said Wednesday.

Allred argues against change in aid program

By AUSTIN BUREAU

AUSTIN — Rep. Dave Allred of Wichita Falls argued Wednesday that an appropriations bill rider could prevent survivors of disasters — such as the Wichita Falls tornado — from collecting food stamps. But the House didn't listen.

Allred's motion to remove the rider was tabled, 92 to 51.

Rep. Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline pushed for the rider — or budget directive — which prevents the Department of Human Resources from seeking new food stamp recipients.

Hollowell said bureaucrats have designed advertising programs in an effort to swell the food stamp rolls.

Allred expressed fear that the rider would prevent the department from advertising to disaster survivors that they could get food stamps.

He said $250,000 in food stamps already has been distributed in the Wichita Falls area.

Allred's attempt to remove the rider from the appropriations bill drew support from liberal and minority members but was opposed by most conservative members.

Reps. Charles Finnell of Holliday, Bill Heatly of Paducah and Joe Hanna of Breckenridge voted to table Allred's proposal.

Finnell and Heatly are on the Appropriations Committee, which included the rider in the proposed bill.

For those readers who think that experts live in ivory towers where everything works out perfectly, here is a hand from a recent Swiss team event that shows some experts at their worst.

South really should have rebid to two diamonds instead of one notrump. At least that is what happened at the other table where South did rebid to two diamonds and did make nine tricks for a score of plus 110.

At this table South elected to rebid one notrump. When it came around to East, he decided to compete with a double. This was not a takeout double. Not only did it ask his partner to pass, but it went one step further. It asked his partner to open a spade.

West was fully aware of this. At least he should have been. West did pass, but West decided to open a heart anyway.

This wasn't a happy choice. South won in dummy and started on diamonds. East took his ace and went right after spades, but all he could gather in were four spade tricks plus that ace of diamonds. South made an overtrick for a score of plus 380 and a profit of seven IMPs.

Had West opened a spade the defense would have set up their clubs before South could clear diamonds. South would have been down two for minus 500 and an 11 IMP loss.

U.N. energy conference urged

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo personally will appeal to the United Nations next fall to set up a special conference to deal with the world energy crisis.

Mexican Foreign Minister Santiago Roel told reporters Tuesday night the president will present his proposal at a U.N. General Assembly meeting Sept. 27.

Lopez Portillo who first broached the idea during a Feb. 14-16 meeting with President Carter in the Mexican capital, has been publicly urging that the U.N. deal with the recurrent oil shortages and the world energy crisis.

The Mexican president claims that unless solved, the energy crisis could eventually provoke a wave of international violence.

Lopez Portillo says oil producing and consuming countries should coordinate prices, consumption and supplies under the supervision of the U.N. and alernate sources of energy should be developed to eventually replace petroleum as a fuel.

Mexico is fast becoming one of the world's richest oil nations. Its proven reserves of crude oil and natural gas equivalent total 40.1 (b) billion barrels — two thirds of its crude and the rest gas — place it sixth after the Soviet Union, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Kuwait and the United States.

One teneth of the country's possible oil-bearing areas have been fully explored, yet potential combined reserves amount to 200 (b) billion barrels.

Mexico currently produces 1.5 (b) million barrels of crude oil daily, of which 400,000 barrels are exported to the United States.

By next year, the state petroleum monopoly Pemex plans to produce 2.25 (m) barrels a day and export approximately half that amount.

Motorcycle club member testifies

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating the attempted assassination here last Nov. 21 of an assistant U.S. attorney heard testimony Wednesday from another member of the Bandidos motorcycle club before adjourning indefinitely.

Jimmie Hicks, a member of the El Paso chapter of the club, told the grand jury he knows nothing about the attempted slaying of Assistant U.S. Attorney James W. Kerr, said Hicks' lawyer.

The panel, which has queried other members of the motorcycle club, including its national president, also asked Hicks about several weapons found in the garage belonging to Hicks' mother, said attorney Charles Butts.

"She keeps the garage padlocked, but the combination for the lock is written on the door so anybody could get in. He (Hicks) doesn't know anything about the guns," said Butts.

Two revolvers seized in February at the garage were traced back to the property room at the El Paso County Sheriff's Department. A former sheriff's employee, Ransom Patrick Cross, was charged with theft, but the charges were later dropped.

Cross testified before the grand jury Tuesday and Wednesday.

The panel, which has been investigating the case since January, adjourned Wednesday and Assistant U.S. Attorney Fred Rodriguez said no further meetings have been scheduled. He also said no indictments are currently contemplated.

Two assailants, firing from the back of a stolen van, pumped more than 15 rounds of automatic rifle fire into Kerr's luxury car as he drove to work. Kerr escaped serious injury by ducking behind the dashboard. Since the attack, he has been given 24-hour protection from federal marshals.

Several Bandidos have taken polygraph exams and taken part in a police lineup viewed by Kerr. Federal officials have refused to reveal the results of the tests and lineup. No charges have been filed in connection with the case.

Bill would put citizens to work

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — An Illinois legislator wants citizens not only to pay taxes, but to give government some of the sweat off their brow as well.

Rep. Raymond Ewell of Chicago is sponsoring legislation that would require all Illinois residents from 7 to 64 years of age to register for and provide a certain number of hours of work each year to the government.

Ewell says it's a cost-cutting measure that would "absolutely" help offset future tax increases. And he says that with anti-tax fervor in the air, people would rather work a few hours a year for the government than see their taxes go up.

SAFB assistance said 'invaluable'

By VEDA McGINNIS
Staff Writer

More than 1,000 persons from Sheppard AFB have been among scores of volunteers assisting wherever needed in the aftermath of the April 10 tornado.

Sheppard Regional Hospital treated more than 275 persons suffering tornado-related injuries (of that number, 225 were civilians), and students and instructors from the School of Health Care Sciences have been assisting staffs at Bethania and Wichita General hospitals.

In addition to the volunteers, hundreds of base residents responded to Red Cross and area hospital calls for blood donors.

Federal Disaster Assistance Administration officials in the Wichita Falls scene Friday secured housing for 70 persons and 6,000 feet of office space from the base.

The SAFB airstrip was landing field for medical supplies from Kelly AFB, Texas. Base volunteers then distributed the supplies throughout the devastated city.

The base also provided housing to Texas Electric Service Co., state highway department and U.S. Department of Agriculture employees.

Also assisting were Fort Sill, Okla., Altus AFB, Okla., and Carswell and Dyess AFBs, Texas.

Federal jury indicts three

A federal grand jury in Abilene has indicted a Vernon woman for mail fraud and two Wichitans for harboring a federal fugitive.

Marsha Ayers Longacre, accounts payable clerk with the Stein Hall Co. guar plant in Vernon, was indicted for allegedly creating fictitious accounts on the company's computer and having checks mailed to addresses or post office boxes she set up.

Also indicted were Steve Bailey and his wife, Linda Kay Colvin, for allegedly harboring in their Wichita Falls home federal fugitive William Gregory Forbes, wanted in Missouri on a first degree murder charge.

Forbes was killed in a shootout with FBI agents March 2.

The three are expected to be arraigned Thursday before U.S. Magistrate Gene Richie.

Curfew law is related

Curfew ordinance is as follows: "After 9 p.m. and until 6 a.m., no unauthorized person will be in or remain in those areas of the city which were affected by the tornado. Unauthorized persons are all persons except people who own property, live in such areas, their relatives and emergency crews.

Any violation of this ordinance shall subject the offender to a fine of not more than $200 or not more than 60 days incarceration or both upon conviction.

Ailing 76ers can't melt the Spurs' 'Ice Man'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Philadelphia forward Bobby Jones, still weak from a recent bout with the flu, admits he's not exactly comfortable with the idea of another night dogging San Antonio's explosive George Gervin.

But all indications are that Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham, whose 76ers return home Friday trailing the Spurs 2-0 in the best-of-seven playoff series, will continue to use his renowned 6-foot-9 defensive specialist in a desperation attempt to slow the high-scoring Gervin.

The 6-7 Gervin, winner of back-to-back National Basketball Association scoring titles, blistered Jones and a variety of other Philadelphia defenders for 29 points Tuesday night as San Antonio shaded the 76ers 121-120.

In another second-round playoff game Wednesday night, the Los Angeles Lakers traveled to Seattle to play the SuperSonics. The Sonics, runnersup last year to the Washington Bullets, won the first game of the series against Lakers. On Tuesday night, the Phoenix Suns started their series against the Kansas City Kings with a 102-99 victory.

On Friday night, in addition to the Spurs-Sixers game, the Suns and Kings will play their second Round 2 game, and going into their third games will be the Lakers and Sonics in Los Angeles and the Bullets at Atlanta.

Gervin has been able to roam virtually at will with the absence of Philadelphia's injured 6-6 All-Star guard Doug Collins. He got 31 points in 29 minutes over 6-1 Henry Bibby on Sunday when San Antonio won the first game of the Eastern Conference semifinal series, 119-106.

In the two games, "the Iceman" has hit 25 of 37 shots — a 66 percent clip. Meanwhile, forward Larry Kenon, usually guarded by Jones, has collected 57 points in the two games.

Cunningham opened Tuesday night with Jones guarding Gervin. The 76ers sometimes had to use a one-guard offense to accomodate that arrangement. Cunningham also unsuccessfully used Bibby, 6-9 forward Joe Bryant and 6-4 reserve guard Al Skinner on Gervin.

"Gervin came through in the clutch again," said Cunningham. But he indicated he intends to continue the experiment Friday and Sunday in Philadelphia. "It was just two points away from being successful," he said.

"I'm not really comfortable about doing it," admitted Jones. "For me to guard Ice (Gervin), we'll have to get more action on defense. You have to recover so quickly (on defense) because he can beat you. It takes something out of your offense. It has both its good points and bad points."

"Jones was tougher, but I've got to be ready to work no matter who they put on me," said Gervin.

"You could see George's eyes light up when he knew they were changing their defense just for him," said San Antonio center Billy Paultz.

The victory provided a critical mental boost for the Central Division-champion Spurs, who haven't won a playoff series since 1968 — when they were the Dallas Chaparrals in the now-defunct American Basketball Association. They've lost 10 straight series since then, never winning two consecutive games.

They also had the homecourt advantage last year over Washington, but lost the crucial second game at home and were eliminated in seven games.

Tuesday night the Bullets lost Game 2 of their series, 107-99, to an Atlanta team bolstered by the late-arriving but effective powers of John Drew and Tree Rollins.

Drew who had foul trouble in the first-game loss to the Bullets and at the start of Game 2, scored 10 of his 14 points in the last quarter. Rollins played strong defense Tuesday and contributed four key points in the fourth quarter.

Their good deeds came only midway through the last session when Washington's Elvin Hayes fouled out. At that point the Hawks were able to get Dan Roundfield over to high-scoring Bullet Bobby Dandridge, who had 36 points in the game.

"The victory gives us control of the series," said Rollins. "If we win in Atlanta, we take the series."

The Midwest Division champion Kansas City Kings were anything but tentative after a week off as they took a 58-49 halftime advantage over the Suns Tuesday night, but Phoenix chipped away and went ahead with 1:44 left in the game.

"We stood around too much, didn't get good shots and they got back in the game," said Kings Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons.

Paul Westphal had 25 points and Walter Davis 24 for Phoenix. Otis Birdsong led the Kings with 20.

Cleveland homer sinks Rangers, 6-4

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gary Alexander slammed a three-run homer to give the Cleveland Indians a 6-4 victory over the Texas Rangers Wednesday.

The victory ended Cleveland's 13-game losing string against the Rangers and was only their third victory against Texas in their last 24 meetings, dating back to July 1977.

Sid Monge, 1-0, got the victory in relief of rookie Eric Wilkins. They combined to limit Texas to seven hits.

Doc Medich, 0-1, took the loss. Medich, who came on in the fourth inning, left with Texas ahead 4-3 with two out and one on in the seventh. Alexander greeted reliever Sparky Lyle with his first homer of the season.

Alexander had three hits in the game and also was credited with a run batted in when he was walked with the bases loaded in the Indians' three-run third against starter Doyle Alexander.

The Rangers jumped into a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Wilkins walked rookie Bill Sample, gave up a single to Al Oliver and a run-scoring infield out to Buddy Bell.

Texas made it 3-0 in the third on an infield hit by Sample, a triple by Oliver and another infield bouncer by Bell.

Cleveland, which threatened almost continually in the game, broke the ice in the third. Jim Norris led off with a single and Rick Manning singled him to third. A sacrifice fly by Bobby Bonds brought in the first run and, after Toby Harrah flied out, Alexander walked the next three batters to make it 3-2.

Duane Kuiper then tied the game with an infield hit against reliever Dave Rajsich.

Texas moved into a 4-3 lead in the seventh. Pinch hitter Pat Putnam chased Wilkins with a leadoff double — the Rangers' seventh hit. Monge came on and wild pitched the runner to third before Bump Wills brought him home with a sacrifice fly.

Adding a 'kick' to cleanup

Midwestern State's soccer players have cancelled the remainder of their spring schedule in order to help Wichita Falls "clean up from last week's disaster. Since we're a club sport during spring, we have cancelled the remainder of the schedule to help out. We can wait until fall to play soccer," MSU coach Howard Patterson said. (Photo by John Barwell)

NASL players end five-day strike

WASHINGTON (AP)— The five-day strike against the North American Soccer League was ended by the players Wednesay in the wake of a decision by the federal government that foreigners would not be deported if they played.

Ed Garvey, NASL Players Association staff director, said all striking players had been asked to return to work immediatly because of what he described as the "incredible ineptitude of the U.S. government."

Garvey said the union had been informed by the Labor Department and the Immigration and Naturalization Service last week that foreigners would be subjected to deportation if they played during the strike, called by the union last Friday because management refused to recognize the association as the collective bargaining agent.

Last Saturday, the INS issued a statement in which the service said aliens in the United States on temporary work visas could be deported if they played during the strike. However, the INS said Tuesday that no action would be taken against foreigners who play during the walkout if they had valid visas issued before the strike.

The NASL, with some 55 percent of its players from overseas, played its entire schedule last weekend despite the strike. Most of the aliens played in the 12 games.

"The INS and Labor authorities told us clearly what the law is with respect to alien employees," Garvey told newsmen. "Despite the law, management continued not only to threaten players with the loss of visas for next year but induced the foreign athletes by guaranteeing contracts, some for two years, if they came to work, and told them they would handle all legal fees and not to worry about the immigration laws.

Tom Watson favored for TC title

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Although Masters champ Fuzzy Zoeller is the most recent winner, Tom Watson brings the gaudiest current credentials into the $300,000 Tournament of Champions that begins Thursday.

Watson, pro golf's Player of the Year for the past two seasons, has finished second, first and second in his last three starts, the latter a playoff loss to Zoeller in the Masters. Watson, as is becoming customary, is the year's leading money-winner with more than $175,000.

"I'm striking the ball well. I'm pleased with the way I'm playing," he said after a practice round over the 7,889 yard, par 72 La Costa Country Club course, "but my putting is atrocious. It's just awful.

"If I'd putted just average, I could have won (the Masters) last week. But what's past is past. You can't dwell on it. You have to go on.

"That's behind me now. Now I'm looking forward to this week's tournament."

He comes in as a mild favorite in the elite, 28-man field of winners from the last 12 months that will be chasing a $54,000 first prize.

With the withdrawal of John Mahaffey, the PGA and World Cup champion and winner of two other titles, Watson is one of nine multiple winners from the qualifying period.

Mahaffey, who opened the 1979 season with a victory in the Bob Hope Desert Classic, has been out of action for almost three months with a damaged hand. He hoped to make a comeback in this prestigious tournament, and attempted to play an early-week practice round, but had to withdraw when his left hand became badly swollen.

With him out, the other multiple winners are Watson, Zoeller, Jack Nicklaus, Andy Bean, Lee Elder, Lon Hinkle, Bruce Lietzke, defending champion Gary Player and Lanny Wadkins.

Baseball roundup

Homers power Yanks over O's

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy John scattered eight hits in 72-3 innings for his third consecutive victory and Jim Spencer and Reggie Jackson belted tape-measure home runs to lead the New York Yankees over the Baltimore Orioles 3-1 Wednesday night for their fourth straight triumph.

Spencer, who hit a two-run homer to beat Milwaukee in John's first appearance for the Yankees, connected off Dennis Martinez, 0-2, to open the fifth and snap a 1-1 tie. He hit a drive which struck the facade of the third deck in right field.

Jackson unloaded his third home run of the season — all against Baltimore — with two out in the sixth. The ball cleared the fence near the 417-foot mark in almost straightaway center. It was the sixth home run off Martinez in his last two starts.

White Sox 12, Blue Jays 5

TORONTO (AP) — Greg Pryor had three hits and drove in three runs to spark the Chicago White Sox to a 12-5 victory Wednesday over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Richard Wortham, 3-0, went eight innings for Chicago. He allowed seven hits while striking out six and walking just two. Dewey Robinson pitched the ninth in relief.

Wortham was backed by a 18-hit attack that also featured three hits each by Chet Lemon, Alan Bannister, Eric Soderholm and Mike Squires.

Jim Clancy, 1-2, started the game for Toronto but left in the third inning with the bases loaded and Chicago leading 3-0.

Angels 11, Twins 6

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Rod Carew had four hits, drove in two runs and scored three times Wednesday as California bombed Minnesota 11-6 and won its seventh straight game.

Carew, the longtime Twin who was traded to the Angels in February, had two doubles and two singles plus a walk in five at-bats. He blooped a two-run double to right field in California's five-run second inning and also doubled and scored in the fourth.

Joe Rudi drove him in with a double in the second and a sacrifice fly in the fourth.

Don Baylor and Willie Aikens also drove in two runs apiece for the Angels, who scored five unearned runs.

Phillies 3, Pirates 2

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Greg Luzinski became the first visiting player to smash a home run into the fifth level at Three Rivers Stadium and Bake McBride hit his third homer in two games to power the Philadelphia Phillies to a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night.

Randy Lerch, 1-1, tossed a nine-hitter for the Phils as they notched their fourth victory in four games this season with Pittsburgh.

McBride, who had a pair of homers Tuesday night as the Phillies pounded Pittsburgh 13-2, gave the Phils a 1-0 lead with a solo homer in the third inning off loser Don Robinson, 1-1.

Reds 6, Tigers 0

CINCINNATI (AP) — Champ Summers drove in a pair of runs with a homer and two doubles and four Cincinnati pitchers combined for a two-hitter as the Reds beat the Detroit Tigers 6-0 in exhibition baseball Wednesday night.

The loser for Detroit was Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, who hadn't pitched since spring training because of arm trouble.

Fidrych gave up two runs in the second inning on doubles by Summers, Dan Driessen and Cesar Geronimo. Summers' home run led off the Cincinnati fourth, Driessen walked and scored on a triple by Geronimo and Vic Correll followed with an RBI single.

Brewers 4, Red Sox 1

BOSTON (AP) — Paul Molitor and Sal Bando hit consecutive home runs in the seventh inning to help right-hander Lary Sorensen and the Milwaukee Brewers to a 4-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox Wednesday.

Milwaukee got its first run in the sixth when Red Sox starter Steve Renko, 0-1, forced in Molitor with a bases-loaded walk to Sixto Lezcano.

With two outs in the seventh, Molitor and Bando slugged homers to left field and Cecil Cooper followed with a long triple off reliever Bill Campbell. Larry Hisle scored Cooper with a single.

Sorensen, 2-1, was aided by three Brewers' double plays and allowed only a solo homer by Rick Burleson in the eighth.

Cardinals 3, Cubs 2

CHICAGO (AP) — Tony Scott's second single of the game drove in Keith Hernandez from third base with two outs in the 14th inning Wednesday, lifting the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Hernandez doubled to the center field wall with one out against loser Donnie Moore, 0-1. Ted Simmons was issued an intentional walk and Hernandez advanced to third when Dane Iorg rapped into a force play.

Scott, who had scored the game's tying run in the seventh inning, then lined a single to left field to drive in Hernandez and give the victory to Tom Bruno, 1-0. Darold Knowles retired the final batter in the 14th and earned his first save of the year.

A's 5, Mariners 2

OAKLAND (AP) — Rob Picciolo's tie-breaking bases-loaded single in the bottom of the seventh inning lifted the Oakland A's to a 5-2 victory over the Seattle Mariners Wednesday.

The victory was the third in a row for the A's following a 1-9 start. A crowd of 1,215, second lowest in Oakland A's history, watched the game. The record low of 653 attended Tuesday night's game.

Larry Murray opened the seventh with a single and went to third on Jim Essian's double. Reliever John Montague replaced loser Rick Honeycutt, 0-3, and Wayne Gross was walked intentionally, loading the bases.

Expos 6, Mets 5

MONTREAL (AP) — Ellis Valentine's single scored Andre Dawson from third to cap a two-run ninth-inning rally that gave the Montreal Expos a 6-5 victory over the New York Mets Wednesday.

Pinch-hitter Jerry White led off the inning against reliever Dale Murray, 0-2, with a double and Dawson walked before Rodney Scott's infield single loaded the bases.

Warren Cromartie's double play ball scored White with the tying run before Valentine delivered the game-winning blow. Reliever David Palmer, 2-0, picked up the victory.

YWCA soccer resumes Friday

The YWCA girls' soccer season will resume Friday at Jaycee Park with Monday's postponed games being made up, according to Ann Whitmire, athletic director.

Also, Saturday's regularly scheduled games will be played.

In softball news, there will be a rules clinic for all coaches Monday, April 30 at the YWCA. Whitmire said teams living in areas damaged by the tornado will have the option of starting the season late.

She urges all coaches in those areas who have not yet contacted the YWCA to please do so.

Also, the junior high and senior high church slow-pitch league is in its organizational stage and anyone wishing to coach or play should contact the 'Y'.

Whitmire added that the high school volleyball league will start back up next week. All games will be held at the YWCA because of the damage to the National Guard Armory.

Sheppard hosts bowling meet

Sheppard Air Force Base will host a Men's Invitational Bowling Tournament May 5-6, 12-13. Bowlers from the base and surrounding area are invited to participate in either the teams, doubles or singles events.

Team events will be rolled at South Lanes, Building 318, while doubles and singles matches will be conducted at North Lanes, Building 832, according to tournament directors John Dunfee and Jack Phelps.

Bowlers may obtain entry blanks at either of the bowling centers. Participants may also sign up at Spudder Lanes, Falls Bowl or Village Bowl in Wichita Falls, or at Boomtown Bowl in Burkburnett. Tournament officials urge bowlers to submit the entries early in order to assure their choice of bowling shifts.

Entry fee is $6 per event with an additional $2 fee for those entered in all events. Free bowling towels will be given to each all-events participant.

For additional information call the South Lanes, 851-2170.

Five WF girls in net regional meet

DENTON, Texas — Five Wichita Falls girls will be competing in the Region II Class AAAA Girls Tennis Meet here beginning Thursday, including the No. 2-seeded doubles team.

Rider's Joannie Waltko and Leslie Towry, No. 2 seeds, drew a first round bye and will play a team from W.T. White at 9:30 a.m. Thursday. Top doubles seed is the team of Mowry and Evans of Richardson.

Wichita Falls High's Eleanor Bibb also drew a first-round bye and will play at 1 p.m. against the winner of the first-round match between Tammy Paxyton of Duncanville and Jane Adams, Dallas Sunset. Top singles seed is former state champion Jane Johanson of Highland Park.

Another doubles team from Rider is in the tournament. Christi Gowan and Susan Jeter play a first-round match against Perkins and Riley of Fort Worth Arlington Heights at 9:30 a.m.

MSU reopens sports slate

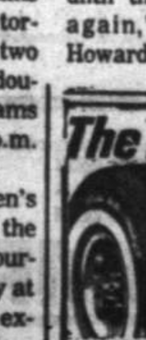

Midwestern State University officials, trying to find new homes for the MSU baseball and tennis teams, have announced this week's sport schedule as follows:

Baseball — The MSU Indians will host their final home games against Texas Wesleyan College this weekend at Sheppard Air Force Base since Hoskins Field was damaged by the tornado. Midwestern will play two Texas Athletic Conference double-headers against the Rams at Sheppard, starting at 5 p.m. Friday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

Tennis — Midwestern's men's tennis team will compete in the Texas Athletic Conference tournament Friday and Saturday at Plainview. The Indians are expected to battle Texas Wesleyan for the conference championship.

Midwestern's soccer team, originally scheduled to compete in the Lubbock Soccer Association Tournament Friday and Saturday, has withdrawn from the tournament "because the MSU president (Dr. John Barker) has asked any organizaton that can to curtail their schedule in an effort to help in the clean up around the area, and since we're just a club sport during the spring, we'll wait until the fall to start playing again," MSU soccer coach Howard Patterson said.

Walton hopes so

Will college stars find 'team' play

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Walton, who fervently believes and practices individuality off the court but team play on it, says that All-Americans Larry Bird and Magic Johnson would make "excellent pros if they can get into the right situation."

But the red-haired center thinks there are only a handful of current teams with the appropriate philosophy to accommodate the pass-making geniuses of Bird and Johnson.

He cites Washington, Phoenix, Portland, Atlanta and Seattle as the pro teams that fully understand the advantages of team basketball over five individuals hogging one ball.

And that state of the art moves Walton to call the troubled National Basketball Association "too individualistic."

"When was the last time the league scoring leader was on a championship team?" Walton asked. "Never."

Walton also calls for the return of zone defenses and a move from the 24-second clock to a 30-second shot clock. "The NBA needs more strategy," he said. "The fans love strategy, and zone defenses and the 30-second clock would give it to them."

When Walton talks about the benefits of team play, he knows what he's talking about. Walton's unselfishness made UCLA the dominant team in his college days and helped the Portland Trail Blazers to a world championship in 1977.

But when Walton first preached passing and unselfishness to Portland in 1974, his message fell on deaf ears. "When I first got there, Portland had a lot of individual shooters. It took some time."

A relaxed and friendly Walton was in New York recently to beat the promotional drums for his Sunday segment on ABC's American Sportsman. In the show, the 6-foot-11 Walton will be seen climbing a 145-foot tree in the Philippines to view the nesting places of the nearly extinct monkey-eating eagle.

"I was plenty scared," he said.

On the expedition, Walton joined four founders of the Film Research for an Endangered Environment who have been living in the Philippines the past two years, attempting to preserve the world's largest and most powerful eagle by improving its breeding and habitat.

Lyle still has title dreams

NEW YORK (AP) — Former heavyweight contender Ron Lyle, at 37, and after personal problems which included being tried for murder last year, said Wednesday he has not given up his dream of becoming champion.

"I want to be world champion not because of what I can reap, but because of my dream. Every man has a dream, and he believes if he works hard, if he sweats and toils in the fields, he can realize that dream. I have slaved in the fields and I want to my dream to be fulfilled."

Lyle waxed philosophical and quoted the Bible as he alluded to his troubled past and talked about his future at a news conference to publicize his scheduled 10-round bout with Scott LeDoux in Las Vegas May 12.

In declaring that, "I, Ron Lyle, want to be heavyweight champion of the world," the fighter recalled he had made the same declaration 10 years ago. "But now, I am a better fighter," he said. "I know how to fight better in the clinches. I know how to slide a punch. I know to press an opponent."

Some boxing people feel that had Lyle been more adept at those qualities when he fought Muhammad Ali in a championship fight in May, 1975, he could have taken the title. Lyle had the edge in the early rounds, but after being stunned by a couple of Ali punches, "he suddenly lost heart," as someone then close to him recalled. Ali won when the bout was stopped in the 11th round.

Lyle was ranked among the contenders until a stretch of inactivity forced by his trial last year on second degree murder charges stemming from the shooting death of Vernon Clark, a former road work aide, in Lyle's suburban Denver home on New Year's Eve, 1977.

UT owns best time

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas has run the fastest time in the nation this year in the 1,600-meter relay — 3:05.68 at the Texas relays April 7 — but Coach Cleburne Price says the foursome can go faster.

In that race Ian Seale led off in 46.9, Ricky Faggett ran 46.3, Michael Paul 46.1, and Ben Omodiale anchored in 46.3.

"That's the first time I've had all four people run under 47 seconds," said Price.

"Of course we expect to improve, but we don't want to get into thinking just how fast we can be," said Price. "I do know that all four people are capable of running in the 45s."

Four 46.0 legs would be 3:04.0.

Unknown Mayer takes WCT spot

HOUSTON (AP) — Unheralded Gene Mayer of the United States defeated Francisco Gonzales of Puerto Rico, 6-0, 7-5, in a World Championship Tennis tournament to surprisingly qualify for the WCT championship finals at Dallas next month.

Mayer, who earlier upset No. 1-seeded Harold Soloman, clinched at least an eighth-place finish in the WCT standings and earned a shot at the $100,000 first prize in the Dallas finals beginning April 30. Second-seeded Roscoe Tanner of the United States met Italy's Adriano Panatta in a later second-round match.

Fourth-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain defeated West Germany's Ulrich Pinner, 6-4, 6-0, in another second-round match of the $175,000 tournament at River Oaks Country Club.

"I came to this tournament not even thinking about making the finals," Mayer said after easily defeating Gonzales. "First of all I didn't count on beating Harold in the first round."

Mayer broke Gonzales in the first, third and fifth games of the opening set and took a 3-1 advantage in the second set.

"But then I got to thinking about the point standings and I lost my concentration," Mayer said.

Gonzales held in the fifth game and broke Mayer in the sixth to pull even in the second set. But Mayer broke back in the 11th game and then served for the match in the 12th game, winning three straight points to clinch it.

Market ends losing streak, DJI up 2.34

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP). — The stock market chalked up its first gain in a week Wednesday as fears of new upward pressure on interest rates continued to abate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off almost 21 points in the last four trading days, recovered 2.34 to 860.27.

Advances outnumbered declines by close to a 2-1 spread in the daily tally on the New York Stock Exchange.

Several individual stocks gained ground on favorable earnings news. American Motors, for example, picked up ⅜ to 8⅛ as the company listed quarterly profits of $1.06 a share against 9 cents in the like period a year ago.

At the end of last year, AMC shares stood at 4¾.

CBS, which said it expected record earnings this year despite a decline in the first quarter, gained 1⅛ to 45⅞.

Chase Manhattan, which listed a sharp quarterly earnings gain late Tuesday, added ¾ to 35⅛.

And Mary Kay Cosmetics picked up 1 to 13¼. The company reported first-quarter profits of 42 cents a share, up from 15 cents in the first three months of 1978.

American Telephone & Telegraph, however, slipped ⅛ to 61⅛ despite posting record results for the first calendar quarter. Chairman Charles L. Brown told the annual meeting that "earnings improvement will be harder to come by" this year.

At the start of the week, there was considerable speculation that the Federal Reserve's policy-setting Open Market Committee, which held its monthly meeting Tuesday, might seek to tighten credit further.

But G. William Miller, the Fed's chairman, told several interviewers he was against imposing any additional restraint on credit.

In the money markets since mid-day Tuesday, analysts said there was no evidence that the Fed had adopted a tighter monetary policy, and bond prices rallied as a result.

Wichitans seeking to relocate face critical housing shortage

By LEE ANDERSON
Regional Editor

A survey of area towns indicates a critical shortage of rent houses for Wichitans attempting to temporarily relocate in nearby towns.

Most towns within a 50-mile radius of Wichita Falls are without rent property or apartments, although a few new homes and trailer spaces are available for last week's tornado victims.

Margie Swenson, manager of Electra Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday said, "We are desperate for rent houses in Electra. We had a problem before the tornado. We housed a few people from Wichita Falls last week, but the chamber doesn't have any listings now."

Norma Graham, a representative of Best Realty in Electra, who has combed the town for needed housing, said, "I only know of two houses right now and they are not too good, but they are liveable. I also know of one at Punkin Center.

"There are about 22 older homes that probably could be made available, and there are a few new homes for sale. Most are in the medium-price range and are two- and three-bedroom homes. All are in and around Electra," she added.

Mrs. Swenson noted that Electra has several spaces available for persons with trailers."

Jan Bruendl, secretary of Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce, said, "There is nothing available in Burkburnett. Everything is just about gone (rent houses) and most of the new homes have been sold.

"We only have one apartment complex in Burkburnett and I understand it stays full. We had a rental problem already and there's not much at all," she said.

Margaret Ford, real estate broker at Pioneer Realty in Burkburnett, pointed out, "We have been flooded with telephone calls. I don't know of any rentals at this time, but we have a few new and older homes for sale."

The response by Henrietta Chamber of Commerce officials was similar to the other towns in the immediate area.

"We don't have a thing in the world that I know of," Edd Williams, Henrietta Chamber of Commerce manager, said. "There is nothing listed here at the chamber. There are no rent homes or anything else that I know about."

Longtime Bowie realtor Alvin Roberts added, "I don't think there is a rent house in Bowie. There are about 15 houses for sale in Bowie and there are three or four homes for sale in Nocona.

"The apartments are pretty well loaded. In fact, I don't think there are any available. We do have trailer spaces for rent in Bowie, but there is a waiting list for trailer houses," Roberts said.

"We have exhausted our list of rent homes," Majil Pittman, manager of Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce said Wednesday. "We don't have any homes for rent and all of the apartments are full."

Mrs. Pittman said water meters were turned on at 20 new locations last week and many were for storm victims from Wichita Falls.

"We have helped quite a few people so far. Some people have offered rooms in the homes and Iowa Park churches are offering cooking facilities and transportation. The chamber is compiling a list of availabilities. We also have been checking on the availability of trailer spaces. We have some right now and if there is a need, we will make more available. Also, we are trying to find owners of vacant houses in Iowa Park and see if we can make them available," she said.

Housing shortage big Vernon problem

By LEE ANDERSON
Regional Editor

VERNON, Texas — A shortage of temporary housing for victims of last week's killer twister is the biggest problem facing Vernon residents this week as cleanup operations continue, City Manager Sam Phelps and Civil Defense Director James Nelson said Wednesday.

"We haven't received any official word as yet, but we understand some mobile homes are coming in," Phelps said. "We are still into the process of checking out all the requests. There are about 80 to 90."

Phelps, who explained that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has assumed the responsibility of cleanup operations, said about 20 to 25 housing sites have been cleaned up by city and county workers.

"We just turned the cleanup operation over to the Corps and they will let bids to private contractors to complete the work. It shouldn't take too long to get it cleaned up after the contracts are let, but none of the commercial areas have been touched yet," the city manager said.

"Everything seems to be running smoothly over here (disaster relief center)," the Civil Defense director said. "The only needs we have are for housing. We have had good participation and donated items are still coming in. If we have a shortage, it is pots, pans and toiletries."

Federal Disaster Assistance Administration officials in Wichita Falls anticipate closing the center in Wilbarger Memorial Auditorium Saturday morning.

"The traffic is not too heavy today," Don Philpot, manager of the Vernon disaster relief center said Wednesday. "We have had a lot of returnees needing help with their forms. The numbers have dropped drastically, but we're still serving the people."

About 200 Vernon residents were left homeless by the tornado that killed 11 persons and injured 66 others.

Vernon residents said most of the twister victims are being housed with friends and relatives.

German general to visit SAFB

German Gen. Juergen Brandt, general inspector of the Federal Armed Forces, Germany, will arrive at Sheppard Air Force Base at 10:50 a.m. Thursday for briefings on the 80th Flying Training Wing, which trains German air force students.

He will be accompanied by Brig. Gen. Hans-Ulrich Flade, commander of German air force Training Command USA from Fort Bliss, Texas.

Bids sought for furniture

Federal officials are taking bids from furniture rental companies to furnish apartments and other dwellings for tornado victims, a Federal Disaster Assistance Administration spokesman said Wednesday.

Bids should be made at the FDAA headquarters at Avenue G and Third on Sheppard Air Force Base by 5 p.m. Thursday, the spokesman said.

Thousands more flee Mississippi floods

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
Associated Press Writer

Thousands of Mississippians downstream from their stunned capital city of Jackson packed bags and fled Wednesday to escape record flooding of the Pearl River that already has cost half a billion dollars and displaced more than 17,000 persons.

In neighboring Alabama, hundreds more joined the 5,000 families in the Black Belt region who have abandoned their homes to rising water. Officials warned of the added peril of snakes and alligators driven from their river lairs.

While the Deep South bore the brunt of this week's floods, which have been blamed for at least five deaths, the 2,000 residents of the northwestern Minnesota twn of Warren awoke to find streets inundated by the overflowing Snake River which runs through the center of town.

Mary Irby and her 10 children of Selma, Ala., a city of about 28,000 on the Alabama River, were among hundreds plucked from the floods by boat.

"This man came up in a boat to try to get us out to feed the hogs," she said. "But the hogs had all come up on our front porch. That's when I knew it was time to leave."

The water was inching down in Jackson, but it still lapped at the rooftops of some houses and officials warned of record high water advancing on communities to the South.

Jackson Mayor Dale Danks warned residents to stay out of flooded neighborhoods because of hidden dangers, including snakes and weakened roads and bridges.

"We now face added problems by the receding water, which we consider just as critical as when the river was rising," he said.

Record crests were expected downriver at Georgetown, Monticello and Columbia where more than 2,000 residents already have been evacuated.

Sandbagging was going on around the clock in Columbia, a town of 8,000 about 80 miles south of Jackson, and many residents were packing their belongings and heading for higher ground.

"The river is nearing 22 feet and it is forecast to reach 28 feet later this week," said Jim Thornhill, Marion County Civil Defense director in Columbia. "The crest will reach 2,000 people and if the river climbs even a foot above that level, we're talking about 5,0idmorning after cresting at 43.2 feet on Tuesday, more than 25 feet above flood stage.

Police and National Guardsmen continued to patrol the flooded downtown area, permitting only authorized persons and convoys of dump trucks with sandbagging dirt past roadblocks.

Jackson authorities estimated the damage so far at $500 million.

"We've still got a serious situation here," said Viva Polk, a spokesman for the city of Jackson. "Our homes and businesses are still flooded, we've got thousands still out of their homes and we're having to conserve our drinking water and electricty because of damage to equipment.

The Mississippi flood Wednesday forced Amtrak to cut off its Chicago to New Orleans passenger trains at Memphis, using buses for the ride around submerged tracks.

Civil Defense officials said 500 other families in the path of flood crests surging into west-central Alabama were evacuated Wednesday in the Selma area. At Demopolis, a city of 8,000 on the Tombigbee River, officials said 600 families had left their homes.

George Sparks, deputy director of Civil Defense in Selma, warned that snakes driven from the rivers often seek dry shelter in abandoned homes.

"We also have alligators down here," he said. "The flood waters sometimes wash them up out of the river and they sometimes end up near some of the homes. It happened in 1961."

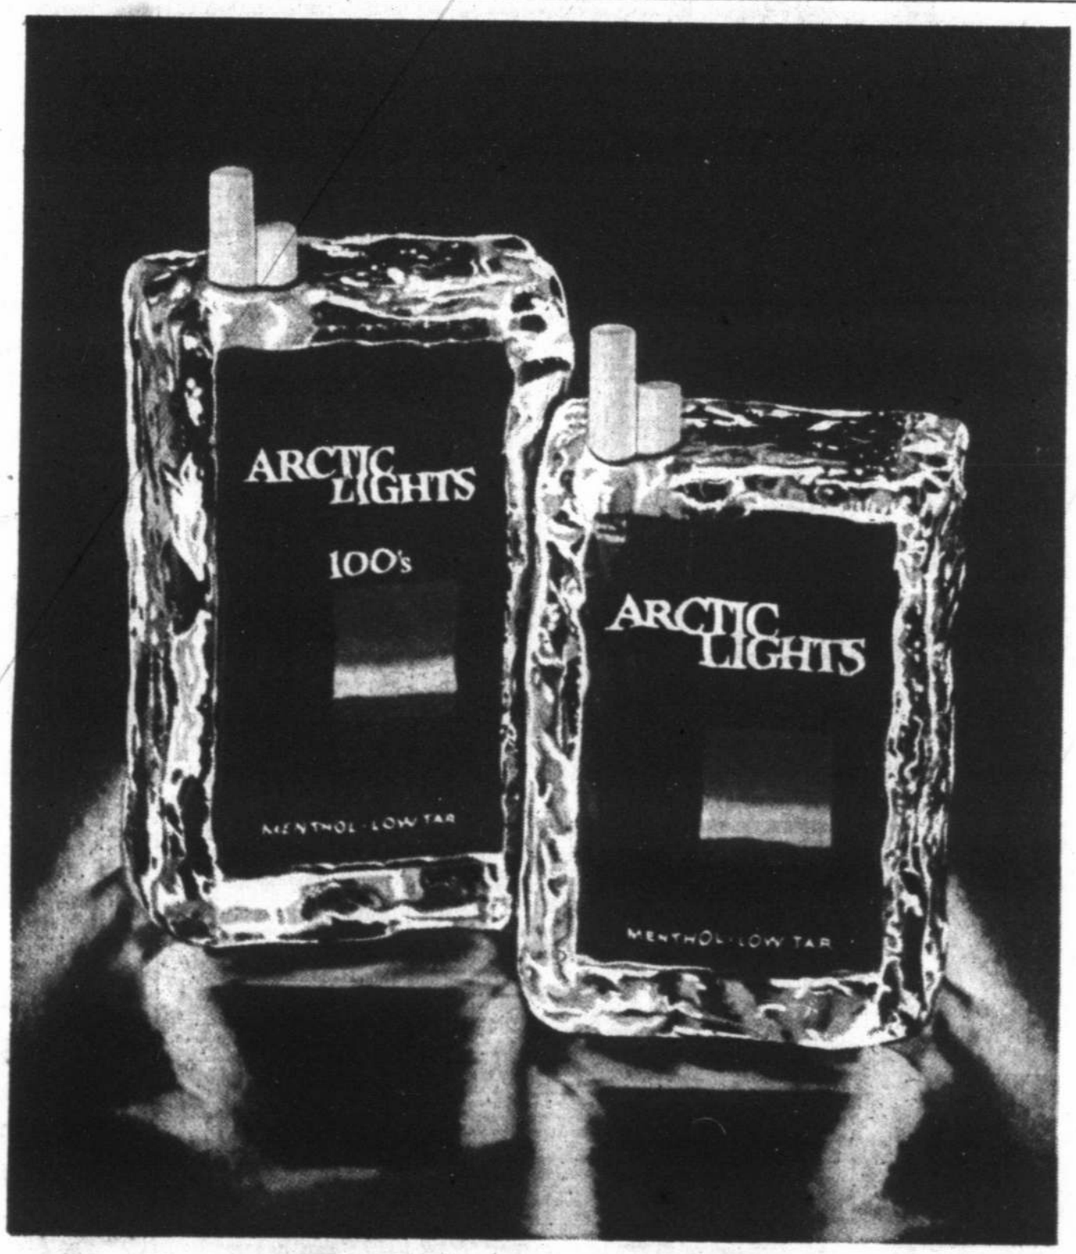

Alabama officials also urged residentaminated water has already turned up in Greene County and some was suspected in the Tuscaloosa area.

Elsewhere, a storm accompanied by high winds swept through Southeast Texas on Wednesday, dumping eight to 10 inches of rain that left much of the Conroe area without power, flooded some subdivisions and closed schools.

John Caswell, Civil Defense coordinator in Houston, said there were reports of two or three tornadoes touching down in the area north of Houston. He said a mobile home reportedly received some damage from high winds, but no one was injured.

Caswell said some people were being evacuated from their homes in several subdivisions of Montgomery County.

Fishing for compliments with lemon and seafood

Tempters for two. .

Two is all that's needed for excellent conversation, or to enjoy excellent dining. With the increased number of smaller families, meals are often intimate affairs with the emphasis on quality rather than quantity.

Two popular and nutritious seafoods, North Pacific halibut and Pacific canned salmon are easily purchased in small quantities for the two member household. However they're prepared, remember that a squeeze of fresh lemon will enhance their subtle flavor.

Halibut Marengo features snow white halibut steaks baked with a colorful medley of chopped fresh vegetables. Fresh lemon juice and grated lemon peel point out the delicate flavor of the fish.

Prepared lovingly with lemon, savory Salmon Balls topped with a creamy Lemon Mustard Sauce are served over shell macaroni. Waste-free canned salmon is delicious just as it comes from the can or combined with other foods in a variety of salads, entrees or appetizers. It's low in calories and rich in protein — so let yourself be tempted!

HALIBUT MARENGO

2 North Pacific halibut steaks (3/4 to 1 pound)
Grated peel and juice of 1/2 fresh lemon
1 medium tomato, diced
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon olive oil
Lemon cartwheel twists

Place halibut steaks in oiled shallow baking dish or oven-proof skillet. Sprinkle with lemon peel and juice. Combine vegetables and seasonings; spoon over halibut. Drizzle with olive oil. Cover and bake at 350° F. 25 to 30 minutes, until fish flakes easily with fork. Garnish with lemon cartwheel twists. Makes 2 servings.

Horsemen help in search

By G'ANNA SMITH & VERNON SMITH

We have had reports that from 12 to 25 horsemen showed up for the participated in the disaster search the day following the April 10 tornado. Riders covered the mesquite-dotted pastures northeast of U.S. 287 and Sun Valley Apartments, in a radius of about five miles.

Paired off, the horsemen rode from three hours to all day in the area. Stew Taylor, the Curly Garners and the John Simmons remembered, among others, included Jim Adolphus, Pete Putnam, Skip Elliott, Jack McCuen, Dennis Taylor and Mac and Marilyn Reeves and their son, Chris. W.J. Marlow of Jolly said two "fellows from Ringling, Okla., on mules," also helped. Marlow and his son, James, participated. Only one body was found, along with dozens of stuffed animals, stray pets and a wide variety of debris. Taylor said his horses' feet got cut and he knew of others with the same problem. The riders are due everyone's appreciation for their assistance.

Hundreds of cases of kindness have been reported. We know of some at Dean who lost animals. Although Three J Stables on Sisk Road was damaged, the horses were saved and the Johnsons are OK. These families and others have been overwhelmed with offers of help from other horsemen.

Sherry Ott at Route 3 is offering pasture and-or stalls for those who might need temporary pasturage for their horses or calves. You can contact her through us, in care of Wichita Record News, Box 120, Wichita Falls 76307.

House supports milk inspection

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House has voted to put the state in charge of inspecting and grading milk, now a task performed largely by city health departments.

The bill (SB315) advanced, 108-23, Tuesday with a final vote expected next week that would return the measure to the Senate for action on amendments.

Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso, fought to preserve cities' milk inspection authority.

He called the bill a "$3.3 million gift" to milk producers — a figure representing the five-year cost of state assumption of all milk inspection authority.

Why buy extra liquid?

Get less liquid, but the same amount of servings as the taller cans when you buy Freshlike® "Tender Crisp" Vegetables, from the people who bring you Veg-All® Mixed Vegetables.

We cook Freshlike vegetables in less liquid than vegetables in taller cans. Why? Because we think that's the very best way to give them the "Tender Crisp" flavor you'll love! So why buy extra liquids? Buy Freshlike . . . the most like fresh.

Don't overcook

Hard-boiled eggs? Never! Overcooking eggs can toughen them so don't ever boil them for any extended length of time. Instead, cover them with water, bring to rapid boil then remove from heat, cover pan and let stand 15 minutes for large size eggs. Adjust the time 3 minutes up or down for each size larger or smaller. Cool immediately under cold running water and refrigerate.

Why the rings?

Do you wonder why your hard-cooked eggs have green rings around the yolks? The rings are a by-product of a chemical reaction between the iron and sulfur in the eggs and are usually caused by overcooking the eggs. Proper cooking and immediate cooling will help eliminate the unsightly but harmless rings.

Keep firm

Add tasty sauce

Zesty sauce accents Corned Beef Dinner

Serve corned beef with sauce

A hot Zesty Horseradish Sauce is a great way to add variety to Corned Beef and Cabbage. Part of the liquid from the corned beef can be quickly mixed with horseradish and an envelope of chicken gravy mix to prepare a nippy sauce to accent the meat.

CORNED BEEF WITH ZESTY HORSERADISH SAUCE

- 3 to 4-pound corned beef brisket
- 4 to 6 carrots, cut in quarters
- 4 to 6 wedges of cabbage
- 1 envelope (⅞-oz.) gravy mix for chicken
- 1 to 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish

Cover corned beef with water in large pan; simmer, covered, 2 ½ hours or until almost tender. Add carrots; simmer 20 minutes. Add cabbage; simmer 10 minutes longer, until meat and vegetables are tender. Arrange meat and vegetables on platter. Measure 1 ½ cups cooking liquid; stir in contents of gravy mix envelope and horseradish. Bring to a boil. Serve meat and vegetables with sauce. 4 to 6 servings.

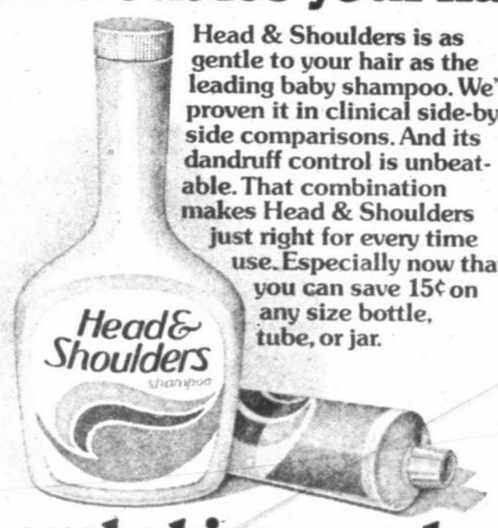

SLOW COOKER DIRECTIONS: Trim excess fat from meat. Place carrots and cabbage in slow cooker; top with meat. Add 3 cups water; cover and cook on low 10 to 12 hours. Measure 1 ½ cups cooking liquid; stir in gravy mix and horseradish. Bring to a boil.

More than flavor

You might be getting more from garlic than just good flavor. Medical research is studying the possible beneficial effects of garlic on a range of diseases, including lumbago, arthritis, high blood pressure and arteriosclerosis. Although the Garlic Association makes no medical claims for its product, there is no hesitation about making claims for its product, there is no hesitation about making claims for improved flavor and the enjoyment of foods enhanced by the distinctive flavor and aroma of fresh garlic.

Show houses more laughs than chills

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

SHELLEY FABARES

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There are more laughs than chills on "Highcliffe Manor," NBC's take-off on all those spine-tingling tales of the macabre.

If you like your nonsense dark and mysterious and played in dead earnest, this may be for you.

Shelley Fabares stars as an innocent among a houseful of sinister characters. She has just inherited her late husband's foundation, a "think tank" housed in a castle on an island off the Massachusetts coast.

She is blissfully unaware of all the experiments that are going on there, or that all the scientists and philosophers are out to wrest control of the Blacke Foundation from her.

Felix Morger (Gerald Gordon) tries it by wooing her, even over her late husband's coffin, although he really seems to be hung up on sheep. Down in the dungeon, Frances Kiskadden (Eugeni Ross-Leming) is building her own man with parts from an Erector set and whatever Cheng (Harold Sakata) can dig up for her.

The Rev. Ian Glenville (Stephen McHattie) arrives one stormy night with his valet (Ernie Hudson). He says he was on his way to Africa by canoe to prove his theory that the black man originated in America and migrated to Africa to keep warm.

All the while, the villagers, pitchforks and rakes in hand, keep storming the castle to protest the grave-robbing and grisly experiments.

The whole thing is absurd, but it does have an appeal that could improve as the writers get a better idea of where they're going and the actors get a better handle on their characters.

It's a continuing serial like "Soap," and like "Soap," it's a bit complicated and difficult to get into until you learn the characters and story lines. NBC has ordered only six episodes, which may not be enough for a show that requires viewers to become addicted over a period of time.

Robert Blees created the concept for T.A.T. Communications, and it was developed by Eugene Ross-Leming and Brad Buckner, who also are the writers and co-producers. Miss Ross-Leming and Buckner were writers and co-producers in the second year of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman."

T.A.T. began experimenting with the Gothic comedy three years ago, with the idea of syndicating it five times a week, as it did with "Mary Hartman."

"The show has a unique slant on sex," Buckner said. "There are a lot of sexual relationships. Because it's a collection of men and women under one roof there's bound to be a lot of attention to relationships. There are love affairs and marriage proposals."

Singer uses brains and lungs

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The sleepy newlyweds answered the rap at the door of their honeymoon haven and found a bearded young man in a blue-striped shirt, sleeve garters and old-fashioned conductor's cap, strumming "Ain't Misbehavin'" on a guitar.

Mike Fredrickson, delivering a singing telegram from the groom's mother, suggested the couple "Start Misbehavin'". The newlyweds were speechless, Fredrickson recalls.

That visit was all in a day's work for Fredrickson, 34, the brains and lungs behind Sing-A-Gram, a thriving business run out of a roomy, high-ceilinged old apartment in Minneapolis.

His credentials are what you might call impeccable: Magna cum laude grad in English from Macalester College, two years on a Rhodes scholarship at Oxford, a master's degree in medieval literature from the University of Toronto.

Fredrickson started singing telegrams as a lark two years ago. Now he has a full-time business, grossing several thousand dollars a month. His brother Steven, a Redwood Falls businessman, is a partner in the enterprise, and another brother, Mark, is one of three performers he hires to help out.

Fredrickson charges $25 to deliver a singing telegram in person in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, a little more in the suburbs. A message delivered by phone costs $10.

He and his colleagues are doing 30 or 40 telegrams a week, mostly in person, in the Twin Cities area, and he recently hired three performers and opened a branch in Detroit. He also tapes copies of his performance for $3.50 apiece.

Others have gotten into the singing telegram business in the area, but Fredrickson seems to have the lead, in terms of volume and expertise.

His lyrics, delivered in a mellow baritone, often go beyond mere doggerel.

Caribbean-Style Stew has island allure

Aruba, Barbados, Curacao—the Caribbean islands are an ABC of everything enchanting, including a cuisine that partakes of many cultures, exemplified by exotic stews which combine meat, vegetables and spices that belong to no one nationality. This bean-based version, adapted to ingredients available in the United States, may not be quite like being there, but its taste and aroma will evoke sunsets and hibiscus for a little while at least.

After soaking, kidney or pink beans are cooked with pork, onion and garlic before cumin and oregano join the simmering pot. Next come large lima beans, followed by bright yellow winter squash, shiny green pepper and stewed tomatoes. Serve this stew over eice accompanied by a tossed green salad and hot bread.

When entertaining, Caribbean-Style Bean Stew may be prepared in advance and heated through before serving.

Beans are as good for you as they are delicious. Supplemented with small amounts of meat, dairy products or certain grains such as rice or corn in the correct proportion, beans provide balanced protein.

CARIBBEAN-STYLE BEAN STEW

1 cup light or dark red kidney or pink beans
1 cup dry large lima beans
6 cups water, divided
¾ pound lean boneless pork
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
2 teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon cumin
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup chopped green pepper
3 cups yellow winter squash, cut in 1 ½-inch cubes
1 can (8 oz.) stewed tomatoes
Cooked rice

Wash beans separately; combine each variety with 3 cups water. Soak overnight, or for quick soak method, bring beans and hot water to boil and boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat, cover and let stand 1 hour. Cube pork; add to kidney or pink beans along with onion, garlic and seasonings. Simmer 15 minutes. Meanwhile, drain lima beans, reserving 1 cup liquid. Add to kidney beans along with the reserved liquid; simmer an additional 45 minutes. Add green pepper, squash and tomatoes; simmer 20 to 25 minutes, or until meat and vegetables are just tender. Serve in individual bowls over cooked rice. Makes 6 servings.

Canned bean variation: Substitute 2 cans (15 ½ oz. each) kidney beans and 1 can (15 oz.) dry limas for the dry beans. Omit water; reduce salt to 1 teaspoon. Drain beans, reserving liquid. Cube pork; simmer 30 minutes along with onion, garlic and seasonings in the reserved bean liquid. Add beans, green pepper, squash and tomatoes; simmer an additional 20 to 25 minutes, or until meat and vegetables are just tender.

Potato pancakes move from classic to space age

At one time kitchen gadgetry was a luxury. Now, any tool, appliance, or food for that matter, that speeds up the making of a meal looms on the border of necessity. Small, popular appliances, like toaster ovens, food processors and microwave ovens are the cook's foils to today's time resraints.

Potato Pancakes move from classic to space age when whipped up with the help of an electric food processor. Fresh potatoes are easily shredded and the binder ingredients, eggs, cheese and flour, instantly blended to a smooth consistency.

HOT POTATO SALAD WITH KNOCKWURST

3 potatoes
2 slices bacon, diced
½ cup chopped onion
⅓ cup cider vinegar
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon ground celery seed
¼ teaspoon caraway seed
¼ teaspoon dried parsley
¾ teaspoon salt
Dash Tabasco pepper sauce
4 knockwurst, cut in halves lengthwise

Wash and dry potatoes, prick with fork. Bake in microwave oven 15 minutes or until almost tender, turning once. Cool potatoes, peel and slice; set aside. In 2-quart glass baking dish combine bacon and onion. Cook in microwave oven 5 minutes; stir. In small bowl mix vinegar, water, sugar, celery seed, caraway seed, parsley, salt and Tabasco sauce. Arrange half the potatoes in baking dish with onion and bacon; pour over half the dressing; repeat. Arrange knockwurst over potatoes. Cover with plastic wrap or waxed paper. Cook in microwave oven 3 minutes. Turn dish. Uncover, cook 2 minutes longer or until heated through. Let stand 3 to 5 minutes before serving.

Yield: 4 servings.

POTATO PANCAKES

2 potatoes, pared and shredded (1¾ cups)
1 cup Ricotta cheese or pot cheese
1 egg
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup chopped ham
1 can (6 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained

Shred potatoes with shredding disk of food processor; set aside. In container of food processor combine Ricotta cheese, egg, and flour; process until smooth. Stir in potatoes, ham, and mushrooms. Lightly oil electric fry pan or regular skillet. Drop heaping tablespoonsful of potato mixture onto skillet. Over medium heat, brown pancakes on one side, about 3 minutes; turn and brown other side. Repeat with remaining batter.

Yield: 24 three-inch pancakes.

Food For Thought

Body stores Vitamin B-12

By DR. JEAN MAYER
DR. JOHANNA DWYER
Chicago Tribune

Q: Several times you've said that vegetarians who eat no animal products should take vitamin B-12 supplements. Could you please explain why vitamin B-12 is so important? What are the best animal food sources?

A: The B vitamins generally function in the breakdown and utilization of the so-called energy nutrients, carbohydrate, protein, and fat. In addition, B-12 has other important roles and is essential to the health of both the red blood cells and the nerves.

Vitamin B-12 is necessary for the normal development of nucleic acids, especially the key substance called DNA, the constituent of cell nuclei that determines heredity. In order for red blood cells to be formed, DNA must be produced in the parent cells of the bone marrow. Without adequate amounts of the vitamin, fewer red blood cells are made and many that are produced are oversized and misshapen. B-12 is also required for the synthesis of myelin, the sheath that surrounds nerve tissue in the brain and spinal cord, without it, myelin slowly degenerates.

Our requirement for B-12 is extremely small, only about 3 micrograms a day. And on a diet which regularly includes animal products there is absolutely no reason for concern. Liver is the outstanding source, with a three and a half ounce portion providing 80 micrograms. Other organ meats also contain generous amounts. But muscle meats, fish, shellfish, eggs, milk and most milk products, except butter, yogurt and evaporated milk are all good sources, too.

We should point out that the body stores B-12 extremely well and thus even in strict vegetarians who eat no animal products and take no B-12 supplement it takes several years before neurological symtoms of deficiency develop. The problem is that by the time they do appear the damage to the nerves has become irreversible.

Q: As a parent of two growing children I'd really appreciate your ideas about snack foods to replace the soda pop, candy and potato chips consumed in our house, especially while studying or watching .

A: In general, good snack foods are simply good foods eaten between meals. These include such things as raw vegetables and fresh fruits, unsweetened juices, sandwiches, milk, unflavored yogurt, cheese cubes, plain popcorn, muffins, or even a cup of soup.

There are, of course, important considerations which depend on the individual child. For example, during the day snacks should be kept small and timed so that they do not interfere with regular meals.

If weight is a problem, then it is important to depend more on those snack foods which provide something to chew but little in the way of calories.

For that purpose, nothing is better than a bowl of crisp cut-up vegetables, including such things as celery and carrot sticks, green pepper rings, cucumber spears and zucchini slices.

If you have sons who are approaching their teens it's a good idea to have snack foods available that are low in fat, especially saturated fat. The foods we've suggested are excellent choices for teen-agers, with just a few qualifications. First, be sure to encourage them to use low-fat dairy products. When they decide on a sandwich to satisfy what to adults may seem like an insatiable appetite, suggest such things as tuna fish, turkey, or part-skim cheese rather than cold cuts, roast beef, or hamburger. provides in his "31-Day Reducing Diet." Even Dad can make these bean dishes

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Beans are a less-expensive source of good protein.

Whip up a quick bean dish if you're holding down the home fort while wife and children are visiting relatives or busy with early evening activities.

Consider prices

When making your choices at the meat counter, consider price per serving rather than price per pound. Boneless cuts such as boneless pork loin roast, smoked ham and boneless chops will yield more servings than chops, steaks and roasts with bone. As a general rule, allow 4 to 5 servings per pound for boneless, 2 to 3 servings per pound for bone-in and 1 to 1 ½ servings for bony cuts, such as spareribs and hocks

One contains bacon, chopped green pepper and corn to round out an individual can of pork and beans. Another variation adds canned bean salad and leftover ham strips to a small can of pork and beans.

Arrange some sliced tomatoes on a bed of lettuce, add dressing and serve with English muffins or a hard roll for a quick but pleasing meal. Top it all off with your favorite fresh fruit or ice cream.

PORK AND BEANS

1 slice bacon
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon chili powder
½ can (16-ounce size) pork and beans with tomato sauce (or 1 8- ounce can)
½ cup whole-kernel golden corn

In saucepan, cook bacon until crisp. Remove and crumble.

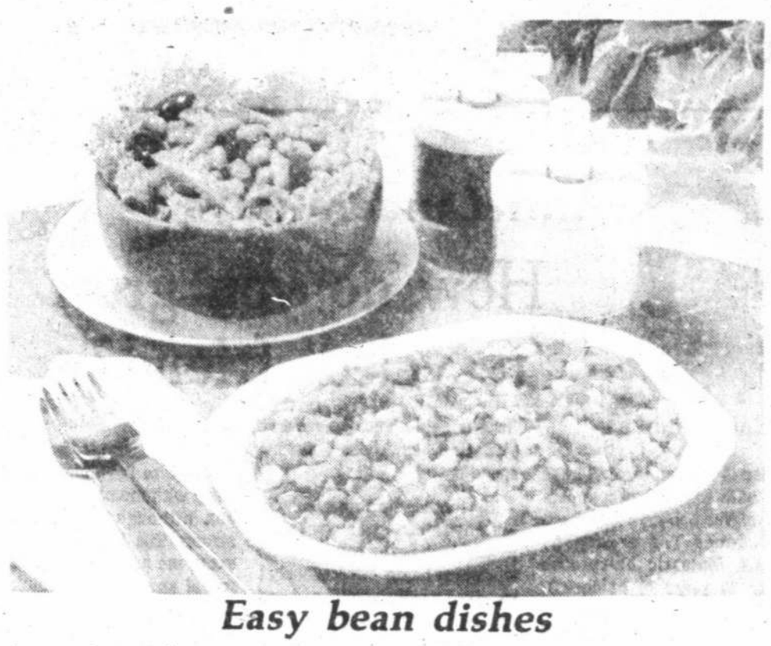

Cook green pepper with chili powder in drippings until tender. Add remaining ingredients except bacon. Heat, stirring occasionally.

PORK AND BEAN SALAD

½ can (16-ounce size) pork and beans with tomato sauce (or 1 8- ounce can)
⅓ cup drained canned bean salad
¼ cup ham, cut in thin strips
1 teaspoon prepared mustard

Combine all ingredients. Chill. Serve on salad greens. Makes about 1 cup.

Easy bean dishes

Added ingredients dress up a can of pork and beans.

Forget about second servings

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Writer

Forget the advice your mother gave you about cooking enough to provide seconds for everyone. That was before rampant inflation.

Also discouraging seconds are the warnings against overeating from nutritionists and doctors.

So, measure carefully. Use good cooking skills. Prepare just enough for everyone.

That's the advice of Chris Pines, director of information for a large corn products organization. A home economist and mother of three, she has much experience in judging the nutritional needs of Americans.

Asked if she thinks men will be content with beef only twice a week, she replies, "They will have to be — or else be content with no new clothes for the family this spring."

Beef, lamb and pork are becoming more expensive every day. Though still priced higher than before, chicken costs less than the meat while offering complete protein.

Sound protein also can be had from canned tuna, eggs, cheese and dry beans.

"For example," says Ms. Pines, "look at these three protein dishes, all without meat protein: tuna in celery soup with rice, lentil soup with tuna sandwiches and kidney beans in casserole with sliced green pepper, onion and garlic with a generous scattering of cheese. All good, all complete protein, all near your budget. Good eating with economy nutrition."

She adds that peanut butter is another good source of protein. "Learn to blend it with other foods," she advises.

And don't forget stew. "A large pot of good, tender stew can be an extender of meat protein," says Ms. Pines. "Throw into it several vegetables — more vegetables than meat — and you'll be amazed how good it is."

This experienced home economist also suggests looking into the refrigerator just before going to market.

"You may be surprised at what you can do with leftovers in the refrigerator," she explains. "You may save a trip to the supermarket for one day."

And join the crowd of food coupon clippers to save money, too.

More good advice comes from Anita File, who earned a biochemistry degree from Cornell University and now is vice president of a public-relations firm. She warns against being casual about food shopping.

"To survive during inflation, the food shopper must know exactly what she needs," Ms. File says. "The days of impulse buying are out."

She advises shoppers to read labels religiously to learn the nutritional content of foods.

Use fresh vegetables and fruits as much as possible, she says. Prepare foreign vegetable dishes from scratch instead of buying them frozen. And blend your own rice mixtures rather than buying them packaged.

According to Ms. File, turkey is a good buy because it has a large percentage of meat to bone.

Lamb from Australia and New Zealand is cheaper than American lamb but different in taste, she notes. It is particularly good in stews.

"Never shop on an empty stomach," adds the mother of two, "or you, like your children, will want many items you could use but cannot afford."

Chicken recipe a bit different

CHINGKIANG CHICKEN

3 whole chicken breasts (about 2 lbs.) skinned, boned, and cut in thin strips
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 cups diagonally sliced celery
1 cup sliced green onions with tops
1-½ cups (6 oz.) fresh edible-pod peas (snow peas)
1 can (8 oz.) bamboo shoots (rinse and drain)
1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
1-½ cups chicken broth
1-½ tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons sherry
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 cups hot cooked rice

Each serving provides: 236 calories, 3 meat exchanges, 1 bread exchange, ½ fat exchange, ½ vegetable exchange.

Saute chicken in oil for 3 minutes or until tender. Add celery, onions, pod peas, bamboo shoots, mushrooms, and ¼ cup chicken broth. Cover and steam for 1-½ minutes. Remove cover and stir once. Blend cornstarch, soy sauce, sherry, pepper, and remaining broth. Stir into chicken mixture. Cook and stir about 1 minute or until sauce is slightly thickened. Serve at once over beds of fluffy rice. Makes 6 servings. Or 1 package (6 oz.) frozen Chinese edible-pod peas. Each serving provides: 292 calories, 3 meat exchanges, 1 bread exchange, 1 fat exchange, 3 vegetable exchanges.

Where you can help!

(Editor's Note: Many individuals are concerned with what they can do to help those who have been tornado victims with specific needs, such as doing laundry, transporting people to appointments or providing hot meals and supplies. To offer information on any small, individual aid that can be given, the following column will run daily in the Wichita Falls Times and Record News family pages.)

● Persons whose homes have been affected by the tornado and who have no laundry facilities may contact Mrs. William Jones at 691-0240, who says she will be glad to do some laundry.

● Neighbors also may volunteer their time to take a child (without transportation because of the tornado) to a music lesson.

● Other needs will be picking up clothes from the cleaners, providing a mattress or going to the grocery store for tornado victims.

● Peggy Darter of Community Council Voluntary Action Center, phone 723-4194, said that group needs registered volunteers to take children to the North Texas Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center at 516 Denver.

"This is because regular volunteers whose homes were damaged have not been able to work. Also, the car that the Red Cross had supplied is being used in the disaster area," she said.

"We need volunteers to pick up children at 11 a.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and at 9 a.m. on Thursday. Volunteers should drop by Voluntary Action Center, Seventh and Scott, in the Executive Building for instructions.

● There are still plenty of clothes for tornado victims at Floral Heights United Methodist Church.

● The Rev. W. C. Harting, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, where three pickup truck loads of clothing, food and supplies were received from four Lutheran congregtions in Dallas, said the clothes have been sorted to size and placed in the church basement.

"Those who suffered loss are welcome to come by between the hours of 8 a.m.-noon and 1-5 p.m. at the church, 11th and Holiday.

"In addition to clothing there also are food, pots and pans, bedding and a few items of furniture," Harting said.

The church and Our Redeemer Lutheran Church of Wichita Falls, both affiliated with the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, also are administering cash assistance sent from the Dallas congregations, as well as the Synod's district, Harting said.

The monies we are administering jointly are monies available not only to lutherans but to others, too," the pastor said.

Ann Landers Says

How do you greet 'recycled' friend?

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: These days with so many people popping up with bobbed noses, vastly reduced (or enlarged) breasts, fantastic hairpieces (after 20 years of baldness), capped teeth, facelifts and eyejobs, what should a surprised observer say?

You dealt with this problem several weeks ago, but I didn't get much out of your answer.

So many of my friends are going in for recycling that I'm truly at a loss as to how to deal with the startling transformations.

Do these people want to be told they look better? It seems that after going to so much trouble (not to mention expense), something should be said. On the other hand, I'm told, most women who have had facelifts prefer to pass themselves off as "well-rested." How about some guidelines? — Ambushed In Azuza

Dear Am: "You look wonderful" or "terrific" is always appropriate — assuming she or he does, of course. Unless the individual volunteers more information, stop there.

Dear Ann Landers: I've read many letters in your column from parents whose children have broken their hearts. Very little is said about the reverse situation. It's time someone spoke out.

My mother was an alcoholic and my father was a workaholic. She was never sober and he was never home. Miraculously I survived a hellish childhood and I'm still beleaguered by their problems. I get incoherent calls from Mother about Dad. I get calls from Dad begging me to "do something" about Mother. They both beg me to come home and "straighten things out." It's not as if I live next door, Ann — I'm thousands of miles away!

For years I've tried, without success, to help them. It's useless. Yet they continue to cause me untold grief by trying to draw me into their disputes. Any suggestions? — Anguished Son

Dear Son: If you've urged them to get counseling — suggested AA for her and Al-Anon for him — you've done as much as any child caan do. The rest is up to them. Parents can guilt-trip children in a very subtle manner. Don't let them booby-trap you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a male homosexual in my very late teens who would give anything in the world to be straight. I refuse to have physical relations with members of my own sex although the desire is strong. The thought of it disgusts me and goes against my moral and religious training.

My friends are all heterosexual. No one suspects I have this problem. I have no feminine mannerisms — not a single clue that I am not perfectly normal.

I've tried so hard to change on my own, but it hasn't worked. Please tell me, is it humanly possible to cure this sickness? Has anyone ever done it? I pray that you can help me. — Your Friend In Virginia

Dear Friend: Some homosexuals have been "cured," but they must be strongly motivated and lucky enough to find the right therapist.

If you have not tried counseling, I urge you to do so. Write the American Psychiatric Association headquarters for guidance: 1700 18th Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20009. If you can't change, therapy can help you understand your dysfunction and accept yourself as you are.

MRS. POAGE
(Miss Mills)

Vows announced

The bride wore a long white gown with lace jacket and a veil.

Patricia S. Mills was matron of honor. She wore a long blue dress.

Terry Wirmel was best man.

The bride's parents were hosts for a reception in their home.

After a trip to Possum Kingdom Lake the couple are living at 1808 Fillmore. The couple are seniors at Hirschi High School. She is employed by McDonalds on Enterprise and he is employed by United Supermarket.

Rubber gloves slip on/off easily . . . just sprinkle a little cornstarch inside each glove. Idle items you no longer need sell fast with a low-cost Classified Ad.

Don't freeze eggs

Don't attempt to freeze hard-cooked eggs (either in or out of the shell) or any dishes containing them. Temperatures below freezing will toughen the egg white causing it to be rubbery and unpalatable.

Meyer-Masoner vows read

FREDERICK, Okla. (Special) — Miss LaDonna Kay Masoner and Robert John Meyer were married Saturday morning in the Old Post chapel at Ft. Sill, Okla., with Chaplain Joe D. Worley officiating.

Parents of the couple are Lee Roy Masoner and Mrs. Vyvyane Masoner, both of Frederick, and Mr. and Mrs. John Dale Meyer of Allen, Neb.

Mrs. Sharon Masoner was matron of honor for the bride, and John Dale Meyer was best man for his son. Ushers were Roy Don Masoner, brother of the bride, and Gary Platt.

The bride wore a formal gown of organza in a silhouette fashion with Venise lace and empire bodice.

Plan ahead

Plan ahead! Buy eggs for hard-cooking a week in advance and tuck them away in the refrigerator for a few days before cooking. Fresh-from-the-store eggs may not be as easy to peel as those that are a little older. Hard-cooked eggs should be stored in the refrigerator -and will keep a week after cooking.

Your Health

Avoid putting strain on knee

By DR. LAWRENCE LAMB
NEA Writer

DEAR DR. LAMB - Our 12-year-old son has been diagnosed as having Osgood's disease. Our physician explained that this mostly occurs in boys when they are going through the growth spurt, but he has noticed it in some girls as well.

We've tried to find out some information to help our son understand his restrictions, but we're not certain how restricted he should be. The X rays of his knee show no significant changes, so, apparently, we've caught the problem early.

We need to know if being overweight can aggravate the problem. Should his legs be propped up when he is sitting? Is prolonged standing a problem? Will climbing a flight of stairs three times a day create any difficulties?

We were told that walking is OK. During school, should he prop his legs if it can be arranged with his teachers? Are we correct in assuming that any action which causes the knees to bend should be curtailed?

Our physician is very optimistic about our son overcoming this without requiring any surgery and we want to make sure of this by doing what is beneficial.

DEAR READER — You're talking about Osgood-Schlatter's disease. I sometimes think this should be called "adolescent knee" because that's when it occurs. The whole problem is related to the bony knob just under the kneecap over the surface of the shin bone (tibia). This is the spot where the tendon from the huge muscle group over the front of the thigh attaches to the shin bone. The kneecap is in this tendon.

This is also the area where there is quite a bit of cartilage in the shin bone during the growth phase. That may have something to do with the reason this area is easily injured. The pull on this point is made when you straighten the leg. Bending the leg wouldn't be such a problem if it weren't that bending it is followed by straightening it. During a knee bend, for example, the pull on this spot just below the knee as the leg is straightened when the person stands up is tremendous.

Pain is the main feature of this disease. There may be some swelling. Some doctors think a small piece of the bone is literally pulled loose from the shin at the point of attachment.

Opinions vary on how much restriction of physical activity is required.
