CHRISTMAS BUYING BOOM MAKES PARKING SPACES RARE
Traffic teems Saturday as holiday spirit brings horde of buyers to town

Yule Gift Shoppers Throng Stores Here

Big Spring citizens Saturday suddenly realized, it appears, there are only 16 more shopping days until Christmas. They also decided to do something about it — to get busy with their gift buying for the Yule season.

Traffic was at a snail's pace downtown all of Saturday afternoon. Stores were thronged with buyers. "Not lookers," explained one merchant, "but buyers who knew what they wanted and were ready to buy it."

Parking was at a premium in the downtown area.

"We had the biggest Saturday since last December," was the comment of all of the merchants contacted both downtown and at the shopping centers.

"STARTED LATE"

"They were late getting going," said several of the store managers. "The morning started rather dull. About noon the invasion hit. From then on until quitting time, we were really busy."

"The buyers are purchasing good merchandise," said another merchant. "They know pretty well what they are looking for and they aren't haggling over prices."

Christmas wrapping departments were buried and some of the stores recruited additional help.

LATER DELIVERY

The stacks of Christmas packages being held for later delivery were becoming small mountains. Additional storage areas were being arranged by some stores.

Weather was good Saturday for the eager buyers. The air was nippy but there was a sun and the chilly winds which have prevailed for the past several days were not so acute.

Out in the shopping centers the same happy situation developed. The stores were busy. One big store on the outskirts of town said it had the biggest day in months.

"I only had 15 minutes for lunch," said one cashier. We were too busy to take longer than that."

Man Known In Big Spring Oil Circles Dies In Crash

MR. AND MRS. ADRIEN GRANDJEAN

Word was received here Saturday night of the traffic death earlier in the day of Adrien Grandjean near Angleton, Tex., on Texas Highway 35.

Grandjean, a chemical engineer from Petrochim, Antwerp, Belgium, was well known in oil circles in Big Spring. He arrived at Cosden in early October with his charming wife, Jacqueline, for study and research.

While here, the Grandjeans were dinner guests at a party hosted by Raymond L. Tollett, president of Cosden Oil & Chemical Co.

TWO-CAR MISHAP

At the time of his death, Grandjean, 35, was on temporary assignment with the Phillips Petroleum Co. His wife was with him at the time of the two-car mishap. She sustained minor injuries and was due to be released from the hospital some time today.

Mrs. Grandjean is the niece of Jacques Meeus of Brussels, executive director of Petro-Fina, who is also well known here.

The couple were making their home at Old Ocean, a community near Angleton at the time of the mishap.

Lawrence Garza Salinas, 19, driver of the other car, was not injured.

PLANNED TRIP

Grandjean was pronounced dead at an Angleton hospital by Justice of the Peace Robert F. Potts. The victim's Belgium home was Elizabeth, Anvers.

The Grandjeans had planned a trip home during the holidays and would have made their way via Montreal, where his brother resides.

While residing in Big Spring, the Grandjeans lived in a Mayo apartment.

In addition to the wife, a 9-year-old daughter and two sons, ages 7½ and 4, survive.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

The car driven by Lewis Tierney didn't clear the tracks at the Salem road crossing Thursday morning, and a Texas & Pacific passenger train broke it in twain and crumpled it. He was injured fatally — the first grade crossing fatality in the county in many years. It's a moot point to argue whether his was a traffic fatality or a crossing fatality—the tragic part is being a fatality.

* * *

Those who have been waiting for a touch of winter had it toward the end of the week. Temperatures dipped to 21, and there were some who said they saw flurries of snow and bits of sleet. This got all foliage, and there's no reason now why farmers can't use machines to gather the remainder of the lagging cotton crop.

* * *

We got another reminder during the week that cold weather can be a dangerous time—dangerous for carbon monoxide. One young couple barely escaped with their children because they had presence of mind enough to get outdoors when monoxide symptoms came on. Last year a couple died here because of a faulty heater connection. If you experience a headache, dizziness and nausea for no apparent reason, open a window—or better still, get outside and get some air. You can check later. And of course, don't run your car motor in a closed garage.

* * *

Speaking of cotton, Howard County's allotment for 1965 is 71,699 acres, a gain of 282 over this year. A gain in acreage is welcome, but what farmers and

Texas Cold, Dry, Sunny

By The Associated Press

Texas was cold, dry and usually sunny Saturday.

Another cold night was forecast with a freeze hitting virtually all the state.

Most of the High Plains in Northwest Texas had subfreezing temperatures most of the day. Sun shining through clear skies pushed the mercury above freezing in interior parts of Texas, but usually only into the 30s and 40s.

The southern, eastern and western fringes of Texas had clouds but the great expanse of the state was clear.

A disturbance was pushing southeastward toward the Panhandle at a high level. This was expected to increase cloudiness in West Texas during the night and spread to North Texas Sunday.

The Weather Bureau said rain and possibly snow in the Panhandle might develop in the northwest quarter of Texas Sunday.

Sunday will be a little warmer, the forecasters said.

Legislator Accused Of Masquerade

DETROIT (AP) — A re-elected Democratic state representative was alleged Saturday to have masqueraded under the name and educational background of a New York lawyer who died in 1961.

In a copyright story, the Detroit News said State Rep. Daniel W. West, 54, of Wayne (Detroit) County's 24th District, also concealed a prison record.

West was re-elected to his second legislative term in last month's general election.

The News said the masquerading allegations against West were made by William H. O'Brien, executive secretary of the Civil Searchlight, Inc., and by Thomas W. O'Hara, a Ford Motor Co. worker and one of five candidates West defeated in the party's primary election last September.

Detroit police Sgt. Leonard Clippert of the Detroit police Special Investigation Bureau said the Detroit West's fingerprints identified him as a felon who served sentences in three prisons under other names.

O'Hara and O'Brien, the News said, claimed West assumed the background of Daniel W. West of New York.

The New York West died at the age of 36 in 1961.

Contacted by the News, Rep. West said he would have no comment at this time on the allegation by O'Brien and O'Hara.

Rep. West is a Negro. The West of New York was white.

Rep. West currently is awaiting trial on a charge of aiding and abetting the false registration of voters.

'PAYOFF' INQUIRY

Sensational Tips Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said today secret testimony given the Senate Rules Committee by Don B. Reynolds has been turned over to the FBI.

"They've seen it," the committee chairman said. "They can check out any leads."

Reynolds is a key witness in the current Rules Committee investigation of an alleged secret political payoff to the Kennedy-Johnson campaign in 1960.

He testified last week he was the "bag man" for Democratic fund raiser Matthew H. McCloskey and Bobby Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democratic majority.

McCloskey, once ambassador to Ireland, heatedly denied any knowledge of such a deal.

Baker, 36, is now under investigation by a federal grand jury as well as being the central figure in the committee's renewed inquiry into his affairs.

Testimony about party girls, pleasure trips and a $5,000 payment to Baker for legal services never used were among highlights of last week's hearings.

Jordan said the investigation will resume this week, probably Tuesday.

There were vague hints that the testimony given in closed session last week was sensational in character.

Lennox P. McLendon, special committee counsel, would not guess how long it would take to investigate the new statements.

ELLEN ROMETSCH

The name Ellen Rometsch had popped up several times in questioning. Once was when Baker, who invoked the Fifth Amendment to all questions, refused to say whether he ever took a trip with her, or had heard her say she was employed by the Communist East German government.

Mrs. Rometsch, a popular girl-about-town, reportedly had a wide range of acquaintances in government and among lobbyists.

DAY TO THINK OF THE NEEDY

Wouldn't this Sabbath Day be a good time, as you ponder the approaching Christmas, to remember the needs of those less fortunate than you?

You can help with a bit of holiday cheer by contributing — no matter how small your gift — to the CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND. This money — every cent of it — goes to help unfortunate children: Buys parts for toys that city firemen repair, makes available money when poor children are hungry or ill. It's part of the spirit of Christmas.

Other friends were heard from Saturday. Blanche Lester sent a check for $10, and Mrs. Buel Fox offered a $5 gift, in memory of Papa Archer. The Fund is now up to $190.

Your help is needed. Just make your check to . . . CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND and send it to The Herald for acknowledgement. You'll feel better for having done it.

Military Craft Hit By Sniper

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A month - long investigation ended Saturday when FBI agents arrested Gilbert H. Hagerman, 67, New Carlisle, Ohio, for shooting at military airplanes landing at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

Hagerman lives on a farm beneath the route taken by planes in their landing pattern to the base north of Dayton. by planes in their landing pattern to the base north of Dayton.

E. D. Mason, special agent in charge of the Cincinnati FBI office, said Hagerman has worked for a Springfield firm since the early 1930's and "has had an opportunity to work on sensitive government contracts."

The investigation began Nov. 4 after Air Force officers told the FBI a bullet hole was found in the fuselage of a KC135 jet tanker. Mason said five airplanes were hit by bullets fired from the ground, but no crewmen were injured.

The FBI complaint filed against Hagerman accused him of shooting at three planes on Nov. 3, Nov. 14 and Nov. 24.

Hagerman's farm is about seven miles north of Wright-Patterson and within a mile of the line of flight of airplanes taking off or landing.

Police Smash Red Spy Ring

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — An East German spy ring smashed by Austrian security police tried to obtain formulas of heat-resisting metals used in space rockets, informed sources in Vienna said Saturday.

One of the suspects arrested was a 32-year-old Austrian technician who had worked in the Planseewerke metallurgical plant, an Austrian-American operation developing special alloys for supersonic and space flights.

In all, five suspects were arrested, including the leader, an East German-born man arrested at Linz. The arrests were disclosed recently in a speech by Interior Minister Hans Czettel, who gave no details.

Hong Kong Turns Up Cache Of U.S. Arms

HONG KONG (AP) — Police announced Saturday discovery of a large cache of American-made high explosives and weapons believed to have been intended for use against Communist China.

The cache, largest ever found in Hong Kong, was discovered on the top floor of an apartment block in a densely populated section of the colony. A ballistics expert told a news conference the explosives could have levelled a city block.

HID IN RUBBISH

"They are fantastically dangerous," he said. "Thousands of people in this crowded area could have been killed if the explosives had gone off."

The cache was stored amid rubbish in a room whose walls were covered with Nationalist Chinese flags.

A government spokesman told the news conference, held alongside the explosives, that police had been tipped off. He refused to say by whom but reliable sources said Chinese Communist agents were believed to have done so.

The ballistics expert told the reporters the cache included 200 pounds of plastic high explosive, and five explosive mines of the limpet type, each capable of sinking a large-sized ship. Other objects in the cache included large amounts of booby trap bombs, hand grenades, cigarette tin bombs, various types of detonators, time-clocks and fuse wire.

The cache also included a number of revolvers with large quantities of ammunition.

The government spokesman refused to say who had stored the cache or if anyone had been arrested. He said police were making inquiries which could lead to the discovery of other caches and a later announcement reported discovery of 50 pounds of high explosives, pistols, detonators and illegal radio equipment in the new territories bordering on Communist China.

Stranger Leaves Sample Of Winter

This big chunk of dirt-blackened snow and sleet, half the size of a businessman's desk, melted slowly away at the corner of Scurry and Fourth Saturday. The icy boulder was dropped by some big truck which had hauled it from the northern part of the state where snow fell late last week. The ungainly snowball attracted much attention from the throng of Christmas shoppers downtown Saturday.

Hearing Date Near On CRMWD Bid

One week from Monday, the Colorado River Municipal Water District makes its bid to secure a permit for a second lake on the Colorado River.

At issue in a hearing before the Texas Water Commission in Austin on Dec. 14, will be the location of a prospective dam immediately northwest of Robert Lee in Coke County. The district previously had been granted a permit for a lake in southern Mitchell County, conditioned on demonstrating an ability to control saline pollution.

Plans to seek a change in location, which CRMWD officials said was prompted by engineering studies, has drawn a protest from Mitchell County interests. Far downstream, the Lower Colorado River authority has given notice it will protest, contending that the project along with five others in one agency's master plan proposal of development, would cut sharply into LCRA's potential supply. The Upper Colorado River Authority, with embraces Coke, Runnels, Sterling and Tom Green Counties, is expected to file statements stating its position with reference to assurance of salt water disposal, care of Coke and Runnels needs, and availability of surplus water.

Possibly a dozen and a half representatives from the CRMWD and member cities will be on hand for the hearing, E. V. Spence, general manager of the CRMWD, said. Mayor Hank Avery and members of the Midland city council, also are expected to appear in support of the amended application. Several cities and communities within a 11-county area to be served by the project have made their anticipated needs known to CRMWD.

The district also is asking for permission to erect pollution control structures up river to trap highly saline normal flow of the river. This will be utilized in meeting waterflood contracts, which furnish an economical means of disposal. Without this, said Spence, the water to be impounded would be of marginal quality, and this was one factor upon which the original permit was granted but not issued.

Under the amended application, the district is seeking to impound a lake with a maximum capacity of 488,000 acre feet, which engineers estimate would supply a safe yield of 48,000,000 gallons per day. Engineers reported that the Robert Lee site offered a more certain foundation picture, together with prospect of some additional water which would help reduce the chlorides to still more tolerable limits.

'Hello, Lyndon'

NEW YORK (AP) Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and daughter Lynda received an ovation from the Broadway audience at a "Hello, Dolly!" performance Friday night. They later learned from Carol Channing, the show's star, that she has new lyrics for President Johnson's campaign song, "Hello Lyndon."

Miss Channing is scheduled to perform at the President's Inaugural Ball and presumably will use the revised lyrics then. The music for "Hello, Lyndon" is the same as that of her Broadway show-stopping tune.

When Mrs. Johnson and daughter arrived at the St. James Theater the audience spotted them and applauded. Mrs. Johnson stood and waved.

She and Lynda, who said she had seen the show several times, went backstage afterwards and congratulated the cast.

Former Resident Reported Aboard Lost Navy Plane

Memorial services were to be held this weekend in Denver, Colo., for Richard A. Meyers, former district engineer here for Phillips Petroleum Company.

He is missing and presumed dead aboard a Navy plane which crashed a fortnight ago in Alaska. Friends here learned only recently that he was reported aboard the plane.

Meyers was a graduate of Shawnee Mission High School in Miriam, Kans., and took his bachelor of science degree in mining from the University of Missouri in 1961.

He began a training program with Phillips Petroleum on June 12, 1961 and was assigned to the district office in Big Spring on March 18, 1962. He left here Aug. 17, 1962 on military leave and subsequently was graduated from the Navy's aviation cadet program.

Last summer he visited friends here while on leave and expressed eagerness to get back to his old job.

Music Teachers Slate Program For Friday Eve

Officers will be elected at the meeting of the Big Spring Music Teachers Association, set for Friday at 8 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hendrix, 2715 Lynn.

In addition, Joan Matthews, a talented young Midland pianist, will be featured in a brief program with Hendrix. She will play first piano in allergro con brio movement of "Concerto No. 1 in C Major, Op. 15" by Beethoven, and the andante and presto from "Concerto in G. Minor, Op. 25" by Mendelssohn. Miss Matthews was a state winner in her division last year in the student affiliate auditions sponsored by the Texas Music Teachers Association.

The association here is relatively young, having been granted a charter by the Texas Music Teachers Association in June. It also is affiliated with the national association. Nineteen charter members have registered, and more are expected to join at the December meeting.

Out-Of-Towners See "Music Man"

Out-of-town student groups joined with Big Springers in acclaiming the presentation of "Music Man" by the high school drama and music departments here Friday evening.

A near capacity crowd in the high school auditorium gave the troupe a standing ovation at the conclusion of an animated performance Friday evening. In the audience were about 40 students and their sponsors from Muleshoe, and 15 from Sul Ross College. More than two score Lamesa students were due to be on hand for the finale Saturday evening.

Ax To Swing At Reserves?

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time in two years, defense officials appear to be preparing for major surgery on military reserve forces.

Just what form that surgery will take is not yet clear. Studies have been under way in both the Air Force and the Army.

The service recommendations are awaited by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who will make the final decisions.

Indications point to possible heavy losses for the Army and Air Force Reserve, perhaps virtual elimination of the Reserve and its merger with the National Guard.

The aim of any new streamlining would be elimination of wasteful and cumbersome duplication and strengthening of the readiness of Reserve forces which cost about $2 billion a year to support.

Pentagon planners find it hard to understand why the Army and Air Force should maintain dual organizations — the Reserve and the National Guard — serving essentially the same pirpose.

Little fault is found with the Marine Reserve whose 45,000 men would form a fourth Marine division and supporting air wing.

Officials claim it would be ready to go overseas in 30 days from call-up.

Martin's Cotton Estimate Cut Additional 6,000 Bales

Martin County's 1964 cotton production estimate, which started out at the beginning of the season at 45,000 bales, has been cut an additional 6,000 bales. This is the second reduction the Texas Employment Commission office has made in the Martin figure, and it now stands at 21,000 bales.

The Midland TEC office said that each week's check offered a gloomier prospect for the Martin County area and that the cut to 21,000 seemed essential if the prophecy is to come anywhere near being correct.

At the same time the Midland office cut the Martin County guess, it hiked that of Glasscock County from 10,000 to 10,200 bales. Glasscock County has already ginned 9,752 bales of this year's cotton and still has about 500 bales in the fields.

The week saw the gins in the eight county Big Spring area booming. Many were at full operation for the first time this season. Strippers were moving into the fields, blackened by the biting cold nights, and the week brought an increase in ginnings over last week of 99,464 bales.

As of Friday afternoon, the TEC survey showed 196,454 bales of the eight county estimated crop of 207,200 bales had been processed.

In Howard County, the TEC office checkers said that ginners in the county estimated the crop total at 14,888 bales.

The TEC had set a crop total for this county at 15,000 bales. "We believe that we are going to be right on the nose," said the TEC spokesman, "so we plan no change in our guess."

Through Friday, the gins in this county had turned out 6,919 bales. Harvesting is well under way in the Knott, Vincent and Lomax areas where strippers are in the fields in numbers.

The biting cold weather of the last three days of last week brought a slow-down of harvesting in many areas.

Dawson County, for example, where the gins turned out 22,000 bales last week, was almost at a standstill Friday. Bitter cold, with a very light fall of snow, had stopped cotton harvest all over the county.

Ten or 15 more days, if the weather permits, will see the end of the 1964 cotton harvest in many of the counties. Glasscock, for example, could wind up its crop, to all practical purposes, this week. Nolan County is within 1,500 bales of its finish.

Scurry County is within 3,000 bales of its 18,000 bale estimate.

Strippers are harvesting at least 95 per cent of this year's cotton, the TEC checkers say.

Brick Roads Used 4,000 Years Then Decline Swiftly

AUSTIN (AP) — For a road material that was No. 1 in the hearts of drivers for 4,000 years, the decline of bricks for paving was swift.

The Texas Highway Department, in a recent publication, noted that brick highways date back to 2,200 B.C. In several parts of the world, brick pavement laid down by the Romans still is in normal use. For thousands of years, no one devised a better pavement for roads and highways.

It was late in the 1800s, says the highway department, when American cities and towns, eager to get out of the mud, began to hunt for a material which would stand up under steel horseshoes and wheels and picked brick.

Arrival of the automobile after 1900 brought an increased clamor for paved roads, and brick pavement was given new impetus. In 1914 there were about 1,600 miles of brick pavement in the United States, and by 1924, this had increased to 4,319.

The 1920s brought developments in concrete and asphalt, and methods of building with these materials were refined. Brick began a decline as a road material.

Most roadways that originally were paved with brick now are covered with asphalt or concrete, and the brick makes an excellent base. Brick surfaces caused automobiles to vibrate and were slick when wet.

Texas has no brick highway surfaces left. The westbound lane of US 180 between Weatherford and Mineral Wells is an example of a brick road now covered with asphalt.

In the old days, a skilled bricksetter could lay more than 500 feet of 20-foot-wide pavement a day. He received 50 cents an hour, twice as much as the men who assisted him. The bricks were longer and thinner — more like tile — than the bricks used for buildings.

If the interstate system in Texas, comprising 3,029 miles, were to be built by bricksetters, the completion date probably would be the year 2000. The goal with modern materials is 1972.

WINGS OVER BIG SPRING

Webb Aero Club Trades Mooney For Cessna 172

By M. A. WEBB

There's a new airplane—at least new to Howard County Airport—out there this week. Webb Aero Club has traded its Mooney 120 for a Cessna 172, a four-place airplane formerly used as a demonstrator. It had only a few hours of flying time on it until it arrived here. The club now has a Cessna 150 and the new 172.

• • •

The weather man has done his share of keeping down the flying at the airport this week. Several local flights were made during the week, but no long ones. Incidentally Trans-Texas had a flight to Lubbock turned back from Big Spring, to Abilene, Thursday morning as the front moved deep into the Panhandle.

• • •

Big Spring Flying Club members up in the two aircraft this week, were: Colt — Faulkner, Norton; Cessna Skyhawk — Cootes (2), Simmons (two cross countries and 1), Stanley (cross country).

Howard County Flying Club's Colt was flown by: Green (cross country), Brumley (two cross countries), McRae.

Webb Aero Club members up were: Cessna 150 — Warner, Brown (2), Bryan, Pagan, Green (2), Barrington, Foster; Cessna 172—Cook, Carr.

"Don't be grounded because of an inactive Airman's Medical Certificate," Aircraft Owners and Pilots Assn. President J. B. Hartranft Jr. warns. "The AOPA is going to send you a reminder, 30 days prior to expiration of your certificate, to renew it at once so there need be no lapse in flying activities. This is one of many AOPA services performed throughout each year for the 300,000-plus who pilot general aviation aircraft."

The association provides many services for pilots and owners, along with help with problems, insurance, monthly bulletin, AOPA Pilot—top magazine in the general aviational field for information, instruction and entertainment; airport directory with all airports listed; chart subscription service; domestic flight planning; international flight planning; insurance plans, and finance plans, plus more.

He also intends to handle the highly controversial project in such a way as to keep open the possibility, however slight, that France eventually may be persuaded to cooperate.

MR. AND MRS. RUSSELL MILLER ARE "DAD" AND "MOTHER"
Dependent girls find real home in High Sky Girls Ranch

Girls Ranch Seeking Help For Operational Support

Appeals are being made throughout the Permian Basin during the Christmas season for operational support of the High Sky Girls Ranch near Midland.

The ranch home — and that is exactly what it is — offers warmth and human concern for dependent, neglected girls from 10 to 18 years of age. Although the home has facilities for 24 girls, it has operational resources to care for only half that number, according to Mrs. Gloria Strom Ezzell, Midland.

"In making the appeal for funds," she said, "we are talking about meat and potato money."

The Fraternal Order of Eagles has undertaken, as a national project, to supply another wing for the ranch home, but the source of operating funds is from big hearted people in this area.

The ranch is located three miles northwest of Midland and is incorporated. It is licensed by the Texas State Department of Public Welfare as a nonprofit organization and gifts to it are tax deductible. Its address is Box 989, Midland.

Noel D. Cason is chairman of the board of directors, and Mrs. Ezzell, a former resident of Big Spring, is on the board of directors.

She emphasized that the girls are not delinquents, but some of them had delinquent parents. All of them, however, are dependent upon the area for support. It requires about $150 a month to sustain each girl and provide her with a good home atmosphere under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Miller, the "Dad" and "Mother" of the ranch.

Electors To Meet, 'Vote'

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' 25 electors will meet here Dec. 14 and officially cast their votes for president and vice president.

The official canvass Nov. 20 of the general election showed that the Democratic ticket of Lyndon Johnson and Hubert Humphrey got 1,663,185 votes in Texas' popular vote while the Republican ticket got 958,566.

The results of the Texas electoral vote will go to Washington where electoral votes of all states will be counted at a joint session of Congress Jan. 4.

Contractor Is Named In Suit Over Contract

Shiflet Bros., Abilene contractors, who filed a big lawsuit against the City of Big Spring a few days ago, Friday were cast in the role of a defendant in another suit filed by a Big Spring firm in 118th District Court.

Shiflet Bros. sought nearly $400,000 in its suit against the municipality. In the case filed against them, the plaintiff, D. W. Rankin, operator of the Mar-Vel Garden Center, seeks $4,450.

The big suit against the city and the lesser action against the contractors concerns the same project—the municipality's new sewage treatment plant. Rankin alleges in his petition that on April 4, 1962, he and the defendants reached an agreement by which Rankin was to seed, fertilize and maintain grass on property located at the sewage treatment plant. Rankin claims he was to have been paid at the rate of $500 an acre for the job.

He is suing for $3,450 for the contract and asks $1,000 additional as attorneys fees.

Air Crash Kills Four

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Four persons died and another was injured when their single - engined airplane crashed Friday night while attempting to land at the municipal airport here.

The Federal Aviation Agency said the Cessna 206 was enroute from Modesto, Calif., to Fayetteville. It was scheduled to land at Fayetteville.

It was last heard from, the FAA said, when the pilot, Merle Heffner of Modesto, radioed for landing instructions at 7:54 p.m. and said he was making his final approach on instruments.

When the plane failed to land, search parties went out and combed the rugged Ozark Mountain terrain throughout the night. The wreckage was spotted by an airplane this morning.

The only survivor was Mrs. Kenneth Gladden. She was found outside the wreckage beneath a sleeping bag.

Authorities said other occupants were Mrs. Gladden's husband and her 4 - month - old daughter. She did not identify two other men.

Turkish Craft Brush Plane Carrying Pope

ROME (AP) — After a close brush with Turkish planes, Pope Paul VI came home today to a tumultous welcome from Bombay saying he hoped his visit to India would have "historic and spiritual consequences."

An Italian airline jet carrying the Pope nonstop set down at Fiumicino Airport after the brush with Turkish planes sent aloft as an honorary rescort over Turkey.

Turkish jet fighters, their pilots waving, cruised so close to the airliner that their wings almost brushed. The papal pilot made emergency radio efforts to have the planes withdraw, but they stayed alongside until

POPE PAUL VI

NOT PERTURBED

Members of the papal party said the Pope was aware of the Turkish planes but was not perturbed.

Aboard the plane, the Pope conducted a combination audience and news conference and spoke enthusiastically about India.

"We hope that this trip will have historic and spiritual consequences," he told the reporters. He left open the question of further trips abroad.

The Pope looked rested as the plane touched down at 3:49 p.m. to a 21-gun military salute.

Premier Aldo Moro and cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church welcomed the 67-year-old pontiff home.

The Pope's plane had arrived more than half an hour ahead of schedule for the nonstop flight from Bombay over Pakistan, Iran, Turkey, Greece and Italy.

From the heat of Bombay the Pope stepped out of the plane into Italy's chill 45-degree weather.

An Italian air force band snapped out the Italian and pontifical anthems during the airport ceremonies, while automobiles lined up for the ride into Rome.

Water Usage Drops Again

Water consumption along the Colorado Water District system dipped again in November, according to production figures.

Member cities used 312,500,000 gallons, a decline of 7.03 per cent from November of 1963, and the oil companies took 281,832,878 gallons, a decline of 4.73 per cent. Net decline for the district for the month was 6.11 per cent or a total of 695,332,878.

This brought to 10,843,117,648 gallons the amount of water delivered so far this year, a gain of 9.95 per cent for the 11-month period. Prospects are that the year's total will be close to 11½ billion gallons, according to O. H. Ivie, assistant general manager.

During November, Odessa required 212,810,000 gallons, a decline of 5.36 per cent from November a year ago, while Big Spring took 162,555,000, a drop of 5.22. Snyder, with 37,135,000, was down 21.54 per cent.

Storm Loss Heavy On Lobster Traps

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — Preliminary surveys indicate lobstermen in Lunenburg, Queens and Shelburne counties suffered about 25 per cent losses or damage to traps and gear in the violent wind and snow storm that swept the Canadian Maritimes early last week. A fisherman in the Bridgewater area said the catch in the first four days of the new season was about half-normal.

Conflicting Views Heard At Dallas 'Bracero' Meet

John L. Taylor, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who headed a group from Howard County at a Dallas hearing Friday on extension of the Bracero Law, said Saturday he felt that some type of supplemental extension would be granted when the law expires Dec. 31. He was accompanied by Malcolm Patterson, chairman of the chamber's agricultural committee; Cecil Leatherwood, and Jimmy Taylor.

"The labor available next year may be possible under more restrictive conditions," he said, "but we feel that some kind of supplemental bill may be forthcoming after the program under Public Law 78 expires."

Taylor said the views of farmers of the cotton belt were given at the hearing, attended by between 200 and 300 persons, and it was expected that an announcement from the Secretary of Agriculture may be forthcoming before the end of December, and following other hearings scheduled on the program.

U.S. Blames Viet Laxness In Red Raid

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. military board has found South Vietnamese troops were lax in taking security measures around the U.S. air base at Bien Hoa when Communist guerrillas pounded it with mortars Nov. 1, killing four Americans and knocking out 27 U.S. planes.

Military sources reporting this Saturday said the United States has decided to ship several hundred U.S. security men, military police, Marines and air police to improve security around American bases in South Viet Nam.

About 150 of these men will be sent to Da Nang, the key coastal air base 380 miles northeast of Saigon, the sources said.

BIEN HOA

In the attack on Bien Hoa, the Communist Viet Cong moved into the surrounding jungles, carefully set up and aimed their mortars and lobbed about 100 shells in a predawn attack. In addition to the four Americans killed, 72 were wounded. Among the planes destroyed or damaged seriously were 20 parked B57 jet bombers.

The Viet Cong raiders slipped away into the jungle and so far as is known never were tracked down, despite a counterattack by air and a ground search after daybreak.

The Bien Hoa base is 15 miles outside Saigon.

INQUIRY HELD

After the attack, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, named a seven-man board of inquiry.

U.S. sources said the board found that while the South Vietnamese did take precautions around major air bases after the Gulf of Tonkin crisis in August, in the particular case of Bien Hoa these precautions "broke down operationally." They did not go into details.

But since the attack, the sources said, the Vietnamese have tightened security around Bien Hoa and other bases.

The defense of U.S. bases is the responsibility of Americans but the security in the area of the bases is in the hands of the Vietnamese, the sources said.

Diplomat Now Ambassador

Both packages were gift wrapped. One had a name and the other didn't. The clerk, by mistake, thought both went to the lady who wanted to claim just one. The return will be appreciated.

Five Of Arrested Tagged Klansmen

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — Frank Herndon, divorced, a man the FBI calls the exalted cyclops of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, went home Friday night to the trailer where he lives alone with his daughter, 2.

Jimmy Townsend, 17, a high school dropout, went home to his parents at Zephr Hill in the red clay highlands of east Mississippi.

Lawrence Rainey, 41, a career law officer, went back to his sheriff's office.

The three and 18 other men were arrested and charged Friday by the FBI in connection with the murder of three civil rights workers last summer during an all-out drive for Negro rights.

Most of these men are known throughout this area of rolling hills and mushy swamps. Most of them have lived here all their lives. Their kin include many of the people in Neshoba and adjoining Lauderdale counties.

KU KLUX MEMBERS

But who are these men?

The FBI said five were members of the Ku Klux Klan, a secret anti-Negro terrorist organization. Federal agents also said that most of the others were Klan sympathizers.

The 21 represent a broad spectrum of the population of this rural Mississippi area. Their ages range from 17 to 71, their vocations from preacher to service station attendant, their backgrounds from high school dropout to respected businessman.

Rusk, Gromyko In Crucial Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko probed issues splitting the two superpowers Saturday in a two-hour session both diplomats called "inconclusive."

They agreed to meet soon again in a further effort to lower East-West tensions.

Weather Forecast

Rain is forecast Sunday from South Carolina to Rhode Island. Light snow is expected in parts of the Ohio valley, lower Great Lakes, New England, upper Mississippi valley and southern Rockies. It will be warmer in the southern Plains and colder in the south Atlantic coast states. (AP WIREPHOTO MAP)

Commander's Trophy

2nd Lt. Robert A. Entrican receives the ATC Commander's Trophy from Col. George E. Franks, deputy commander for materiel. The award is given to the most outstanding officer among the distinguished graduates.

Pilot Training Class Graduates

Pilot training Class 65-D, which entered training at Webb AFB on Nov. 18, 1963, graduated Saturday at ceremonies held in Withycombe Hall. The 36 members of the class received their silver wings from Col. Edwin J. White Jr., deputy commander for training.

In the absence of Col. A. F. Taute, wing commander, Col. George E. Franks, acting wing commander, presented the graduates with their certificates of aeronautical rating.

Daniel Darnell Jr., manager of customer relations with Northrop Norair, a division of the Northrop Corporation, said that "the wings indorse without question your self-application of of mind and body toward this individual goal. However a special memento should be given to your parents and loved ones for their faith and their prayers for you."

Darnell went on to forecast that "someone in this group will eventually be flying in space, perhaps within the next decade."

The honor graduates of Class 65-D were named at a Dining-In ceremony held at the Webb Officers Open Mess.

Darnell, also guest of honor and featured speaker at the Dining-In, presented the Outstanding Officer Graduate award to two members of Class 65-D, 2nd Lt. Thomas M. Stone and 2nd Lt. Robert A. Entrican. Lt. Entrican also received the Air Training Command Commander's Trophy for his overall academic standing, military performance, and flying proficiency.

Receiving the individual award for academic training was 2nd Lt. Lowell H. Body; for flying training 2nd Lt. Craig S. Jacobsen; and for officer training 2nd Lt. Eugene O. White.

Following the graduate ceremony, family and friends of the graduates attended a wing commander's coffee at the officers open mess. Next on the schedule was a tour of the base, followed by the culmination of graduating activities with a formal reception for the graduating class, 65-D and the incoming class, 66-D. The reception was followed by a buffet dinner and a graduation ball.

Spacecraft Due Nudge By Rocket

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 4 performed an intricate maneuver with clockwork precision Saturday 1.25 million miles out in space and scientists here fired a rocket expected to drive it within 4,400 miles of Mars next July 14.

With no hint of troubles which called off a similar attempt Friday the camera-toting spacecraft streaked smoothly on through space, apparently well ahead of its rival in history's first interplanetary race — the Russian Zond 2 launched Monday.

Fire In Freight Depot Kills Two

LONDON (AP) — A fire destroyed a big freight depot in London on Saturday, killing two workmen and leaving two customs officials missing.

NF-MOD Meeting Set For Dec. 8

No less than two children, with birth defects, will be born in the United States while this story is being read.

The National Foundation-March of Dimes has undergone a transformation of purpose because of the increase in the number of children born with defects, and a decrease in the number of those afflicted with polio. Its former program for prevention, treatment and care of arthritic patients has been transferred to a new voluntary agency, the Arthritis Foundation of America.

The National Foundation-March of Dimes now supports 50 birth defects centers, three of which are in Texas, but is in need of at least twice the number. Texas centers are Southwestern Medical, Dallas; Baylor Medical, Houston, and the University of Texas Center, Galveston.

ANNUAL DRIVE

The annual drive will begin Jan. 15, but a dinner meeting will be held at the Holiday Inn at 7 p.m. Tuesday, at which details of the program for this area will be discussed. Jim Calmes president of the Howard County chapter; Wade Choate, the March of Dimes drive chairman; Tim Wood, state representative for the National Foundation, and Mrs. H. H. Stephens, coordinator for the district, will be on the program.

The success of the Salk and Sabin polio vaccines, both of which the National Foundation sponsored, has a residue of public confidence to draw on in its campaign against birth defects. In the March of Dimes, it has the machinery through which to raise the necessary funds. The new program eliminates duplication in the health agency field, justifying renewed public support of the annual fund-raising campaign in January.

DIMES MARCH

Dr. Virginia Apgar of Tenafly, N. M., head of the congenital malformations division of the March of Dimes Foundation, said that while 250,000 babies are born annually with birth defects, the layman knows virtually nothing about congenital problems.

"WHO (World Health Organization) reports 1,024 classifications of birth defects," she said recently. "In my own opinion 704 of these are amenable to treatment right now. I know that a survey, taken by a hospital in Washington, D. C., showed that 45 per cent of the mothers who had babies there had never seen a doctor."

She is the developer of the Apgar Score, a clinical evaluation made 60 seconds after a child's birth to determine the child's over-all condition.

The Salvation Army seems to have a sixth sense about picking the coldest days to open the kettle season to provide gifts for Christmas. However, this is symbolic of the need—it's going to take more fuel in the form of gifts if this year's greater load is met. So while you're shopping for others, don't forget to drop in some coins or bills for those whose Christmas promises to be mighty, mighty lean.

Since the Kiwanis Club was organized here 35 years ago, Nat Shick has been a faithful member — so faithful that he hasn't missed a meeting in the past 23 years. He had made up his mind that it was time to drop out, but before he could tell anyone, the club had a wonderful surprise for him. Thursday evening Nat Shick was told that there would always be free meals for him from here on out. A trifle more substantial than a plaque or certificate.

Santa Claus made his initial pre-season visit to the city Thursday to get it straight from the kiddies themselves what they want for Christmas. This time he came by stage coach drawn by Shetland ponies. In previous years he's come by horseback, car, train, plane and reindeer. What's next—the rocket?

Martin County, which for many years couldn't get an oil-well if it had hauled in the oil, is getting to be a versatile county for production. Last week Texaco No. 2X State of Texas, which had completed for 265 barrels in the Devonian reported a discovery in the Ellenburger about a thousand feet deeper at 13,271-277. It made 274 barrels of high, high gravity oil from this deepest zone.

Postal receipts, which have been lagging most of this year, took an upturn in November. The $31,581 for the month was about $200 more than the same month a year ago. Here's hoping that this presages a gain in December—and here's hoping also that you help by mailing early.

Two health groups added to the news during the week. The Tuberculosis Association got some good early response with $2,400 received toward a $6,000 goal from sale of Christmas seals. Medical science has the weapons to whip TB, but the problem now is spotting incipient cases, and this is where your seal purchases help so much. The Howard County Heart chapter named Dr. Donald Terry its president, praised Dr. R. E. Koenig for his work, and picked Mrs. C. O. Nalley to head the 1965 membership campaign.

Coahoma fans, and just about everyone else who saw him play, will concur in the choice of Eddie McHugh as an all-stater in Class A. Anyhow, it's a mighty fine tribute to a mighty fine player.

We made a record during the week — the kind we want to sweep under the carpet. Our United Fund offices were obliged to close with the goal still just about $10,000 away. Some of this may be reduced as late gifts trickle in, but not much. The plain fact is that a lot of people didn't measure up to what they ought to have done on this.

High school students, faculty directors and other adults who had a hand in the presentation of "music Man" have every right to be proud. They tackled a mighty big job, but then they did it in a mighty big way. And they got pretty good support at the gate, too.

Six Join ABClub

Indoctrination ceremonies for six new members of the American Business Club were held during that organization's luncheon Friday at the Settles Hotel.

The six men were Athol Atkins, Lee Herndon, Wally Slate, Howard Lloyd, Bob Brock and Bob Tatum.

Justin Holmes briefed the newcomers on the history of the organization. Bob Hickson told the local club's operation while Elmo Phillips spoke on projects planned and executed within the ranks of the Ambucs.

Holmes mentioned the fact that the first ABClub was organized in 1922 and the national organization now has in excess of 4,000 people.

Richard Hughes spoke briefly to the entire club on the need for additional projects and appealed for the gathering to respond with fresh ideas.

Tickets were distributed for the Dec. 19 Christmas party planned by the club.

London Fast-Growing Bank Run By Soviet Communists

LONDON (AP) — The fastest expanding bank in London is run by Russian Communists.

It does business on fully traditional lines with the avowed aim of turning a profit — and it does, indicating a Communist institution can flourish in capitalist surroundings.

The Moscow Narodny (People's) Bank was founded here as a branch of a Moscow bank back in czarist days. When the Bolsheviks took over, they had it incorporated under British law.

Moscow Narodny started out cautiously in the heady world of capitalist high finance. Its first modest office overlooked leafy Finsbury Circus, several blocks from the heart of the city, London's financial section. Its business was confined largely to finding credits for then almost nonexistent British-Soviet trade.

In a few years the Russians moved their bank to larger quarters on Moorgate, just the toss of a ruble from the Bank of England. There city gents in bowler hats with furled umbrellas, top-hatted bank messengers, whistling office boys provided the atmosphere.

Last June, with its business booming after the removal of embargoes on much East-West trade, Moscow Narodny moved to a new eight-story steel and glass structure on the approach to London Bridge.

GOLD MOSAIC

The main hall is like that of any British bank — black and white marble, a gold mosaic wall, lots of polished mahogany. Discreet gold emblems on the plate-glass windows proclaim: MNB — The Bank for East-West Trade.

Most of the staff of 200, including clerks and cashiers, are British. So is General Manager Cyril Dicks — "You don't have to be a Communist to work here." The over-all boss is a jovial-looking Russian, Andrei Doubonossov, and there are one or two other Russians in the top executive posts.

Moscow Narodny's money comes from the Soviet state banks and those of the satellite countries. It is used to purchase goods from Britain and the Commonwealth — Malaysian rubber, Australian wool. In reverse it finances sales of Russian timber and furs and hides.

On its retail side the bank pays diplomats and other Russians working in Britain. It has a few English accounts, mainly held by exporters. Any Englishman producing the proper references may open an account.

DOUBLES CAPITAL

Last year the bank doubled its capital to $11.2 million. Assets rose from $291 million to $582 million. Profits after taxes were $1.29 million, providing enough for a dividend of $1.12 million to its state shareholders back in the Soviet Union.

Although Moscow Narodny claims to have financed more than half the $2.4-billion trade between the Soviet bloc and the sterling area, it is seeking to broaden its business.

"We have excess funds to employ and it is naturally best to do so at a profit," said Chairman Doubonossov early this year. "It is not good business to have all our money tied up in one activity, such as East-West trade."

The bank has invested in British government securities to the tune of almost $4 million.

Its other activities include dealing in the foreign exchange market, financing of some British trade with the United Arab Republic, and loans to British municipalities to finance improvements.

Most of the loan-seeking municipalities have been Socialist-controlled, but some have been Conservative too.

One of the loans was to the Tory Urban Council of Chorleywood in the Buckinghamshire stockbroker belt, H. J. Ryman, chairman of the council's finance committee, found himself temporarily embarrassed because titled houseowners and wealthy company directors don't pay their taxes on time. He went to the Moscow Narodny for $140,000 to tide him over. He got the loan at 4½ per cent. "We're certainly in the red now," he jokes.

HEADLINE NEWS

Another Tory-controlled council to seek aid was that of Wanstead and Woodford, better known as Sir Winston Churchill's old parliamentary district.

Although these loans sometimes make headline news in Britain, the Moscow Narodny bank hasn't always had such favorable publicity.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, then home secretary, told the House of Commons in 1928 that he had definite proof that British Communists were receiving "Moscow gold" through the Narodny bank. The bank directors denied any knowledge of such transactions.

In 1957 the bank attracted the attention of Scotland Yard, which was investigating its cashing of a $56,000 check during a provincial bus strike. Similar withdrawals had coincided with industrial troubles in England before, it was alleged at the time.

WALKS OUT, BUT . . .

'Watchdog' Senator Keeping Baker Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams, whose lone wolf sleuthing triggered the Bobby Baker probe, said today his walkout from the Senate Rules Committee hearing won't stop his sifting into Baker's money deals.

It was evidence dug up by the Delaware Republican which figured largely in setting off the original committee investigation a year ago into the tangled financial dealings of Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democratic majority. The investigation wound up amid Republican charges of "whitewash" and "coverup."

And it was more Williams evidence which triggered the current round of hearings to explore charges linking the names of Baker and builder Matthew H. McCloskey to an alleged $25,000 payoff to the 1960 Democratic presidential campaign fund.

INVOKES 5TH

McCloskey has sworn the charges are false. Baker invoked the 5th Amendment and refused to testify about them.

Williams wasn't even a member of the committee from which he staged his walkout Thursday after its Democratic special counsel, Lennox P. McLendon, accused him of making untrue statements. The senator had been sitting in on the hearings as an adviser to its Republican members, and had accused the committee of rejecting some of his evidence.

Williams was asked in an interview if his departure means he is dropping the Baker probe.

"No, sir," he answered. "I still have my sources of information. It won't make any difference to them — or to my interest in this case. And I have six years to express that interest, and the Senate is my forum." He was just re-elected to a six-year term.

NAMES GOAL

He spelled out his goal: "Full and complete investigation and exposure of the wrongdoings."

What of any additional evidence he may dig up? Would the committee get it?

"From now on, I won't embarrass them in any way," he said. And if the committee asks for matter from his files "we'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

"Senate committees don't mind investigating waste and impropriety in the executive branch of the government," Williams said in explaining his interest. "Here is a matter affecting a former top Senate employe and it is a reflection on all of us until we clear this up."

Gas Users Reassured Supply OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those who use natural gas to heat their homes will be able to get all they need this winter.

That's the word from the American Gas Association. And a record 25,166,000 customers will be heating their homes with natural gas by the end of the year, compared with 24,006,000, it estimates.

The association also predicts that proved recoverable natural gas reserve in the United States will be around 280 trillion cubic feet at the end of 1964. The estimate at the end of 1963 was 276.2 trillion.

Withdrawals (new production) totaled 14.8 trillion cubic feet in 1963. Officials believe this figure will show an increase of around one trillion cubic feet this year.

The pipeline system which funnels gas from the wells to various parts of the country continues to grow. The Federal Power Commission reports that in the first nine months of this year it granted 174 applications for expansion of natural gas pipelines.

At the end of September the commission had on file an additional 128 applications, of which had been approved temporarily.

The commission generally requires a showing that enough gas will be available for 12 to 20 years to take care of any proposed expansion.

Yule Mailing At High Point

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the time of year the folks at the post office glance nervously at the sky for signs of snow, talk of possible transportation strikes very seriously and, above all, keep their fingers crossed.

"The peak mailing period is upon us right now," a department spokesman said today as he discussed the delicate delivery system that is designed to get your mail to you before the holiday — not after it.

The deadlines have been posted, the promotional campaign mounted — "Shop early, mail early, use zip codes" — and the trouble spots that turned up in previous years hopefully have been erased.

Chicago is especially important because it is the approximate center of the country, and most east-west mail goes through it.

Last December a severe Midwestern storm and subzero temperatures slowed things up. So this year, the Windy City has on its South Side a brand new parcel post facility, inspected just Thursday by the top man himself, Postmaster Gen. John A. Gronouski. And $1 million worth of new mechanical equipment has been added.

Still, because there is no way of keeping snow from falling, "We're keeping our fingers crossed for the next three weeks," the spokesman said.

This month the Post Office Department expects to deliver 7 billion pieces of mail, 300 million more than last December. And it hopes to do it with the help of 145,000 "Christmas assistants," only 2,000 more than the 143,000 extras taken on in 1963 and less than half of the 300,000 hired the year before.

Once again the department is asking for adherence to mail deadlines.

For gift parcels to distant points in the United States the deadline is Saturday, for air parcels to servicemen overseas Dec. 10 is the date, for local gift parcels it is Dec. 14, and for local greeting cards Dec. 15.

Carter Admitted To Area Hospital

J. D. Carter, Big Spring man employed at the Volkswagen agency in Odessa, was admitted to the Medical Center Hospital there Thursday afternoon with a badly crushed left arm and elbow.

Carter told friends Saturday afternoon that a pickup began rolling across the shop floor, and he attempted to stop it before it damaged the building. His left arm was caught between the vehicle and the wall.

Carter will undergo surgery Monday if conditions are favorable, his physician said. He will remain in the hospital for at least a week following surgery. Mrs. Carter is in Odessa with her husband.

A Good-Will Ambassador team, representing Christian Business Men's Committee International, will hold a dinner meeting Dec. 9 at 6 p.m. at Coker's Restaurant. Local officers of the committee, Ted Phillips, chairman; Earl Kelley, vice chairman, and Bob Cozart, secretary, said three nationally-known men will be in the team.

"CBMCI is an interdenominational organization representing more than 15,000 business and professional men in about 600 local committees and 35 countries," Phillips said. "One of our objectives is to show that Christianity does work in business. Another is to encourage business and professional men, in particular, to meet together once a week, primarily to pray for the nation, its leaders, and for local officials. We feel that there is a challenge to Christian business men to be more consistent witnesses for Christ."

All men in the Big Spring area are invited to the Wednesday night meeting, Phillips said. Members of the Good-Will team coming, are: J. Elliott Stedelbauer, a director, and owner-operator of El-Sted Motors, Ltd., Ontario, Canada; Paul H. Johnson, president of Paul H. Johnson, Inc., Detroit, Mich., and Dr. Donald R. Actor Denies He Gagged, Beat Singer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor-producer Steve Cochran has denied a charge by a singer that he tied, gagged and beat her after she spilled a drink in his Hollywood home.

The singer, Ronie Rae, 23, told police Cochran tied her hand and foot with neckties, gagged her with a towel and beat her. A police officer reported Miss Rae had two black eyes, a lump on her head and bruises on her face and body when he took her report.

"There's absolutely no truth in this story," Cochran said Friday.

Richard, Liz Legal Parents

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor are the lawful parents of a German girl adopted by Miss Taylor, a court in Munich has ruled.

A spokesman for the Bavarian justice authorities said Friday this is now the legal situation. The court granted Miss Taylor's application of Dec. 21, 1961, for adoption of little Petra Heissig.

It was explained that since the court's approval came after Miss Taylor's divorce from her previous husband, Singer Eddie Fisher, the child never had any legal ties with Fisher.

Army 'Loan Sharks' Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Military Appeals Friday upheld the convictions of two Texas-based lieutenants who charged enlisted men 50 per cent monthly interest in a "loan shark" operation.

The officers, 2nd Lt. Robert R. Giordano and 1st Lt. Jackie H. Sims, commander of a company at Ft. Hood, Tex., were dismissed from service after their convictions on multiple counts of violating the camp regulations and of engaging in conduct unbecoming to officers.

The two men contended they were unaware of a camp regulation prohibiting interest rates of more than 3 per cent.

Local Artists To Take Part In Chorale - Symphony

The Midland-Odessa chorale will make its first appearance of the season Monday in Odessa at Bonham auditorium at 8:15 p.m. and Tuesday in Midland at Lee auditorium at the same hour. The chorale will join with the symphony orchestra for a joyous musical salute to Christmas.

Conductor (Dr.) Lara Hoggard has planned a varied program, and the music covers the spectrum of baroque, renaissance and contemporary.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased by out-of-town guests for $2.50 for adults and $1 for students, elementary through college age.

Several Big Springers are among the soloists and chorale symphony members.

Featured along with the chorale and orchestra will be a return appearance of a treble choir composed of girls from eight area high schools. The treble chorus which performed during the "Elijah" concert last May caused widespread comment.

Big Spring High School students participating are Cynthia Pond and Patsy Thompson.

Dr. Hoggard has planned a special role for the treble choir in the December concerts. The group of 26 especially selected girls will have the difficult task of singing in unison the five solo parts called for in Vivaldi's "Gloria."

The treble choir also will have a part in "Glory To God in the Highest" by Jolley, which has been arranged and orchestrated for this concert by Dr. Hoggard.

Four soloists will share the spotlight with the chorale and orchestra in the performance of the "Magnificat," sometimes called Bach's choral masterpiece. The soloists are Mrs. David R. Shaw, Mrs. Don Newsom, Gary Ebensberger, all of Big Spring, and Ira Schantz, a former member of the chorale who is now a voice instructor at Texas Christian University. Michael Connally, Lamesa, will sing the bass role in the Odessa concert, and Ebensberger will sing in Midland.

Other Big Spring members of the 80-voice chorale are Mrs. Carl Bradley, Milvern K. Ivey and Hubert Murphy. Jack Hendrix is the chorale accompanist.

Orchestra members from Big Spring are Russell McKiski, Dr. Charles N. Rainwater, Ted James, Russell McKiski Jr., Joe Burchfiel, James Beckham, Mary Frances Malone and Mrs. Douglas Wiehe.

The orchestra will be featured in Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary in D Major" which will open the concert. And just after intermission, the orchestra will play the Vaughan Williams arrangement of "Fantasia on the tune Greensleeves."

Crucial TV Day Looms

NEW YORK (AP) — Monday will be the 23rd anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor — and it may prove to be a Pearl Harbor for some limping television programs. It will be network television's N day — N for national Nielsens, the first estimates of program popularity this season which the industry considers really meaningful.

The Nielsen Research Organization reports on its estimates of the size of audiences for network TV shows every two weeks. Monday's report is considered critical because the period covered — the middle two weeks in November—were the first this season when no programs were preempted for political broadcasts.

Although there has been a barrage of criticism directed at sampling methods and although the size and composition of the sample — about 1,200 homes to reflect the viewing choices of more than 52 million TV equipped homes — has been questioned, the report is used as the authoritative yardstick by the industry. Millions of dollars and the future of many programs are affected by it.

Tascosa Turns Back Ysleta By 26-8 Tab

AMARILLO (AP) — Amarillo Tascosa rolled up four touchdowns in the first half and turned things over to the second and third stringers in the last half Saturday in crushing Ysleta 26-8 to advance to the Class AAAA schoolboy football semifinals.

Tascosa will meet Garland, the defending state champion, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas next Saturday at 2 p.m.

Garland reached the semifinals with a 21-7 victory over Fort Worth Paschal Friday night.

Ped Pospisil passed for two touchdowns in the first period as Tascosa won a comparatively easy victory on a muddy field. A crowd of 8,000 looked on.

His first throw was for 29 yards to Richard Ross and Billy Hobbs kicked the extra points.

Pospisil also pitched for 29 yards to Hobbs for the second touchdown and again Hobbs converted.

In the second period Ross climaxed a 56-yard drive by slamming across but the try for point was blocked.

The final Tascosa touchdown came on a 3-yard run by Pospisil to end an 80-yard surge. Again the try for point was missed.

Ysleta scored in the fourth period on a three-yard pass from Pat Dwyer to Danny Blanco. Dwyer also passed to Hector Beltran for the conversion.

Tascosa romped to 195 yards rushing and 183 passing while Ysleta got only 64 on the ground and 91 in the air.

Big Lake Is 21-12 Winner

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) —Big Lake, led by 205-pound fullback Don Childs, who scored twice, and Ken McFarland's 86-yard touchdown run, beat Stratford 21-12 Saturday or advance to the semifinals of the Class A schoolboy football race.

Stratford took the lead in the second period when Terry Matthews scored from two yards out, but the pass for the two-point conversion failed.

Big Lake tied it up on the ensuing kickoff when McFarland, an end, ran back 86 yards to a touchdown and went ahead when Bren Holland kicked the extra point.

Big Lake scored its second touchdown in the third period when Childs crushed over from the Stratford one-yard line and Holland again converted.

Childs wound up the scoring with 1:53 left in the third period when he again pounded over from the one. Holland kicked his third extra point.

Gators Surprise LSU, 20 To 6

By BEN THOMAS

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Florida's football team adapted to near freezing temperatures faster than Louisiana State and riddled the Tiger defense for a 20-6 upset Saturday night before 65,000 shivering fans.

The victory gave Coach Ray Graves' Gators second place in the Southeastern Conference behind national champion Alabama and knocked Sugar Bowl-bound LSU, No. 7 in the rankings, down to fifth place in the league standings.

The only solace for LSU was the toe of flanker back Doug Moreau. The left-footed kicker booted two field goals to equal the national all-time standard for one season — 13. His six points also gave him the 1964 SEC scoring crown with 74.

The Gators, unranked in the final Associated Press collegiate poll, ripped LSU's defense with the passing of Steve Spurrier as well as his stand-in, Tom Shannon, while Larry Dupree's power running gave Florida an additional advantage.

The Gators got their final touchdown in the third period when Mike Lyle faked a field goal, then pitched to Allen Trammel, who tossed 20 yards to Jack Harper in the end zone.

At the start, it appeared LSU was ready to roll to its eighth victory. Early in the first period, barefooted punter Hal Seymour's kick was blocked and recovered on the Florida seven by LSU's Remy Prudhomme. Three plays later, Billy Ezell's pass into the end zone to Ken Vairin was deflected and then stabbed by Florida's Steve Heidt.

That seemed to take the steam out of the Tigers. Florida quickly marched 80 yards in 14 plays with Graham McKeel going over from the one for the Gators first touchdown against LSU sinie 1960.

Engineers Wreck Rice Owls, 71-56

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech held it throughout Saturday night to whip the Rice Owls 71-56 for a second straight basketball victory.

The Yellow Jackets turned what had been a tight defensive duel into a runaway in the last five minutes. Tech had taken a commanding 51-38 lead shortly after the half but had watched it dwindle before the sharpshooting of the Owls' Doug McKendrick to 56-50 with 10 minutes left.

McKendrick, who collected 24 points, and 6-foot-7 Don Siegmund who pulled down nine rebounds in the first half alone, kept Rice in the game until McKendrick fouled out with seven minutes to go.

Tech was led by Ron Scharf who collected 15 points and scored key baskets the second half during the Rice surge. He was followed by substitute Charles Kenney with 12 and Mick Stenftenagel with 11.

U.S. Golfers Take Charge In Cup Play

KAANAPALI, Maui, Hawaii (AP) — Jack Nicklaus rallied with a record-equaling seven-under-par 65 and Arnold Palmer turned in a brilliant 67 Saturday to send the United States team into complete command with one round to play in the 12th Canada Cup Gold Championship.

The two spectacular rounds over the Kaanapali course gave the Americans a three-round total of 406, twenty-six strokes under par.

The South African team of Gary Player and Denis Hutchinson, tied with the Yanks at 274 starting the day, fell back under the pressure.

Nicklaus approached to within 18 inches on the first hole, sank a four-footer at the second, a 10-footer at the sixth and five-footer at the short seventh for birdies. He birdied the par-five eighth and came within a whisker of repeating on the ninth.

He eagled the 11th with a four-wood second shot to within 12 feet of the cup and birdied the par five 15th after three-putting No. 14.

Palmer, seeking to win his first individual title in his fourth try, met the Nicklaus challenge head-on, and also birdied the first two holes with putts of 12 and three feet, bogied the short fifth when he drove into a trap but came back with birds at the eighth, 11th, and 13th and 14th. His best putt was an 18-footer at the 14th.

Palmer's third consecutive round of five-under-par or better—66-67-67—sent him farther in front of the individual competition with a 54-hole score of 200.

Nicklaus showing awesome power after a slow start, was still six shots back of his partner and chief rival with 206.

Oilers Will Use Stadium

HOUSTON (AP) — Owners of the Houston Astros and the Houston Oilers ended a long disagreement and agreed on terms Saturday under which the Oilers will play in the $24 million Harris County domed stadium.

Carroll Martin, general manager of the American Football League Oilers had announced the settlement, said the Oilers and the Houston Sports Association had agreed on a 10-year lease. Other provisions of the contract were not announced.

While most fans had taken for granted the Oilers would move from the public school Jeppesen Stadium, the negotiations had been long and at times near the breaking point.

The Houston Sports Association owns the Houston Astros, National League baseball team, and has a year-round lease on the domed stadium.

K. S. (Bud) Adams, owner of the Oilers, is a former vice president of the Association.

Later Adams and other minority stockholders sold interest in the association to majority stockholders, Board Chairman R. E. (Bob) Smith and President Roy Hofheinz.

The University of Houston also will play its home games in the stadium.

Aggies Win; Ponies And Arkansas Lose

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Four starters hit in double figures as Texas A&M shot at a 53 per cent clip Saturday night in beating Arlington State 97-80.

John Beasley led the attack with 27 points while Ken Norman flipped in 20, Paul Timmins 15 and Dick Stringfellow 12.

However, high man of the game was Bruce Tibbets of Arlington State with 28.

The Aggies led all the way and the 97 points was a new home court scoring record. The previous high was 96 against Sam Houston State last year.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Vanderbilt's sixth ranked Commodores chalked up their second basketball victory Saturday night by smothering Southern Methodist 99-67.

The victory came before a capacity crowd of 7,474 who screamed "make it a hundred" for the last five minutes.

The Commodores tried, but Jerry Southwood's jumper at the final gun bounced off the front rim.

A pair of field goals by Southwood followed by a tip shot by Bob Grace set the Commodores on fire and they pulled into a 43-28 halftime lead.

Hottest of the Commodores was John Ed Miller with 18 points. He got 13 of those in the second half.

All-Southeastern Conference center Clyde Lee pumped in 16, hitting five field goals from out around the foul circle.

Stanton Girls Win Tahoka Tourney

Phils, Senators Pick Up Power In Trades

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Editor

HOUSTON (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies, the Washington Senators and the commissioner of baseball all picked up power at the winter meetings of the major and minor leagues.

The Phillies got first baseman Dick Stuart from the Boston Red Sox, the Senators got outfielder Frank Howard from the Los Angeles Dodgers and Commissioner Ford C. Frick got more authority from major league club owners.

If anything was weakened at the six-day meeting, it was the bargaining power of the young ballplayer with no professional experience.

He will shortly be subject to draft—like college football players —and no longer will be able to run up his signing price by offering his services to the highest bidder.

Ten deals were made at the meetings and only one was between clubs in the same league. That was a trade between Cleveland and Washington, the Indians getting outfielder Chuck Hinton for first baseman Bob Chance and infielder-outfielder Woodie Held.

Talks begun here could lead to additional transactions between American and National League clubs in coming days. The deadline for inter-league trading is Dec. 15.

Two of the biggest trades of the meetings were made on the final day, Friday. First, the Los Angeles Angels traded pitcher Bo Belinsky to Philadelphia for first baseman Costen Shockley and pitcher Rudy May.

A few hours later the Los Angeles Dodgers traded Howard, infielder-outfielder Ken McMullen and pitchers Phil Ortega and Pete Richert to Washington for pitcher Claude Osteen, third baseman John Kennedy and $100,000.

The Phillies acquired Stuart five days earlier, sending pitcher Dennis Bennett to Boston.

The Phils, excused from the World Series after blowing 10 consecutive games in September, were the most active club at the meetings. Besides trading for Stuart and Belinsky, they picked up pitcher Ray Herbert and first baseman Jeoff Long from the Chicago White Sox for outfielder Danny Cater and shortstop Lee Elia and sold first baseman Vic Power to the Los Angeles Angels.

Other deals:

The Dodgers sold catcher Doug Camilli to the Senators. The Angels sent pitcher Dan Osinski to the Milwaukee Braves, completing a deal in which the Angels had acquired pitcher Ron Piche. The White Sox traded pitcher Frank Baumann to the Chicago Cubs for catcher Jim Shaffer.

The Minnesota Twins traded pitcher Gerry Arrigo to the Cincinnati Reds for outfielder Cesar Tovar.

The commissioner's power was broadened in two ways:

First, club owners repealed a rule providing that no action taken by vote of the clubs could be construed as detrimental to baseball and overturned by the commissioner.

Second, owners reinstated a rule providing that they have no recourse to the courts against actions taken by the commissioner.

These changes restore to the commissioner the powers given the first man to hold the office, Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

The football-type player draft will go into effect next June. There will be three drafts each year thereafter, one in January and one in June for college players and high school graduates not planning to attend college, and one later in the summer for American Legion and sandlot players.

Each major league team will have one pick at each draft. As in football, clubs will make their selections in inverse order of their positions in the standings.

If a player cannot come to terms with the club that drafts him, he will be made subject to draft by some other club at a special session preceding the next draft.

Had Formula For Success

Pictured above are members of the 1919 Big Spring High School football team, which won six of seven starts. Back row, from the left, they were H. H. (Hub) Rutherford, Athol A. Porter, Conway Craig, coach E. H. Poteet, Elmer Boatler, Omar Pittman, Errot A. Nance and Gil Alfred (Kin) Barnett. Front row, Frank Covert, Kimble Dunbar, Wesley (Citizen) Line, Willard Sullivan, Claud Mims, Hayden Griffith and Jim Little.

Seven Of Local '19 Club Still Live Here

By TOMMY HART

The 1919 Big Spring High School football team set a pattern for success that succeeding schoolboy clubs here found hard to follow.

The local club played seven games, two of them against Midland College, and won six of them. Its only defeat came in a return game against Sweetwater by a 20-0 score. In the initial outing against the same eleven, Big Spring won by the comfortable score of 26-6.

The remarkable thing about the 1919 contingent, however, is the fact that seven members of the team still call Big Spring home. Two other members of the squad, who have since died, lived in and around Big Spring.

The Jayhawkers, as they were then known, were coached by E. H. Poteet, who doubled as the high school principal and science teacher. Poteet went into retirement a year or so ago after serving A&I in Kingsville as its president. M. H. Brasher, now deceased, was superintendent of the Big Spring schools that year.

In other starts that fall, the Jayhawkers defeated Midland High twice, 54-0 and 9-0; Midland College twice, 20-6 and 12-7; and closed out with an 18-0 victory over Merkel on an ice-covered field Thanksgiving Day.

The Big Springers played all their home games on a rock-littered field immediately back of what is now Runnels Junior High School.

The spectators ran the sidelines, except for those fans who brought their own chairs with them.

Members of the team included H. H. (Hub) Rutherford, Athol Porter, Elmer Boatler, Errot Nance, Gil Alfred (Kin) Barnett, Willard Sullivan and Jim Little, all of whom now call Big Spring home; Wesley (Citizen) Line, who spends much time here to be with an ailing mother; Conway Craig, now the publisher of the San Antonio Express; the late Frank Covert; Omar Pittman, who now is a McAllen jeweler; Kimble Dunbar, an Austin stock broker; Claud Mims, now the livestock agent for the Missouri Pacific railway, Denver offices; and the late Hayden Griffith.

Rutherford is a Big Spring contractor. Boatler is the local postmaster, Porter the assistant postmaster. Nance is also a Civil Service employe there. Barnett recently moved back here from San Antonio, after having retired from a Civil Service job there. Line works for a sales organization out of Dallas. Little is a well known attorney here. Sullivan is a pharmacist who has his own business in the Settles Hotel.

Nance, a speedy halfback, played in the first football game he ever saw. Dunbar was a tackle who carried the ball on occasions. Barnett was an end who specialized in the drop kick. The relatively small Sullivan performed at center and was equally well known in school as a debater and a class president.

Boatler ran at halfback off a T formation and was a constant touchdown threat. Little performed at tackle and was widely known for his blocking ability. Pittman was a hard running fullback and a good passer.

Griffith was a stalwart guard while Covert played all along the line. Porter performed at end but later was moved into the backfield.

Quarterbacking duties were inherited by Rutherford. Hub was also elected captain of the squad. He was, and still is, known for his general good humor. Rutherford was also a star baseball player in his salad days as an athlete.

Craig, who served as the school's basketball captain in season, found time to work at his life's calling—that of assistant editor-in-chief of El Rodeo, the school's annual. Little was the foreman of that particular edition, having been elected editor-in-chief.

Among girls in school that year who cheered the team on to victory were Isabel Harris, later Mrs. J. Y. Robb; Vivian Johnson, now Mrs. Hilo Hatch, destined to be elected El Rodeo Queen, Gertis Curtis, Jena Jordan, Josephine Smith, Ida White, Gould Osborn, Gillian Buchanan, Pearl Warren, Mable Moss, Kathryn Bainbridge and others.

The team kept the name, Jayhawkers, until 1924, when Joe Ward came out to take over as coach. He prevailed upon the school officials to rename the club the Steers, in honor of his alma mater, the University of Texas.

Nunnally Named On Academic 11

DALLAS (AP)—Four players from Texas—ends Knox Nunnally and Dan Mauldin, tackle Tommy Mankin and linebacker Timmy Doerr—landed on the Southwest Conference All-Academic football team selected by a panel of sports writers.

Arkansas and Texas Christian each placed two while Baylor, Texas Tech and Rice came up with one apiece.

Players were selected on the basis of skill both in the classroom and on the football field. An "A" or "B" average was required to qualify.

Sidle Agrees To Contract With Cowboys

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Auburn halfback Jimmy Sidle, a 1963 All-America, signed Saturday with the Dallas Cowboys and hopes to play quarterback with the National Football League club.

Injuries to both shoulders this year forced Sidle out of the signal calling slot which won him national honors in 1963.

Terms of Sidle's contract — with bonus — were not announced.

"I signed with them because they gave me what I wanted and because I wanted to play in the National Football League," he said.

The New York Jets selected him ninth in the American League draft.

"I would like to try at quarterback first," Sidle said.

Sidle is the second 1964 Auburn player to sign for pro football. Tucker Frederickson, an All-America fullback, signed with the New York Giants.

Sidle said his injured right shoulder appeared to be improving.

Sidle, 6-3 and 215 pounds, gained 1,006 yards during the 1963 season and was the No. 2 rusher in the nation in leading Auburn to a 9-1 record and the Orange Bowl.

After his shoulder troubles this season, he was used as a tailback and proved effective as a blocker and pass receiver.

He was married last Saturday.

Champagne David Whited

Jockey David Whited and his pretty wife Beanie distribute champagne to members of the working press at Sunland Park. Whited said he would give the "bubbly" stuff when he won his first stake race of the season. The 22-year-old Texan captured the $12,000 Enchantment Stakes and four other races on the card Sunday, Nov. 22. The fourth-estaters are, left to right, Ray Sanchez, turf editor, El Paso Herald Post; Chuck Whitlock, sports editor, El Paso Times, and Luis Galvan, sports editor, Correo, of Juarez, Mexico.

Baylor Wins Over Tigers

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana State's cagers blew a three-point halftime lead and Baylor came on strong in the second half to take an 84-72 basketball victory Saturday.

It was the third straight for Baylor against no losses, but it marked the first time this season it had been held under 100 points.

The loss squared LSU's mark at 1-1. The Tigers return to action here Monday against Texas.

LSU took a 5-0 lead and built that as high as 38-31 in the first half. The score was tied six times before the Tigers could hold their three point edge at intermission.

Leading Baylor was Darrell Hardy, who sank 24 points, and Spencer Carlson, who made 18. High for LSU was sophomore Brad Brian who flipped in 22 points, and Harry Heroman, who sank 15.

LSU jumped to a 44-39 lead as the second half opened on a set shot by Brian but the Bruins caught fire, and went ahead 54-53 on two free throws by Tommy Hatfield with 13:52 left in the game. LSU never caught up.

Cards, Browns Clash In NFL Barn-Burner

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Wally Lemm's St. Louis Cardinals make their last ditch stand against the Cleveland Browns Sunday in a game that could give Cleveland its first division title in the National Football League since 1957. A Cardinal victory would send the race down to the final week of the season.

Jimmy Brown and Co. need only to win or tie against the Cardinals in the feature event of a six-game Sunday NFL program. Baltimore has won the Western Conference crown and is assured of a shot at the league title Sunday, Dec. 27, in the home city of the Eastern winner.

The American Football League still has a race in the East between Buffalo and Boston. San Diego needs only to win or tie in one of three remaining games to clinch the West. The AFL title game will be played in the home park of the East champ on Saturday, Dec. 26.

Buffalo, with a one-game lead on Boston, plays at Oakland Sunday and Boston is at Kansas City. Buffalo has three to play and Boston two, including a rematch with the Bills at Boston Dec. 20. San Diego is at home to New York. Houston and Denver are idle.

The Browns are concerned about the physical condition of Paul Warfield, their leading pass catcher. He is doubtful because of a pulled hamstring muscle. The Cards have been crippled for weeks, with Sonny Randle lost for the season and Joe Childress hurt. Both Lou Groza and Jim Bakken, the field goal specialists, were active in the 33-33 tie Sept. 20.

Baltimore will be shooting for its 12th straight, since its opening game defeat by Minnesota, when the Colts take on the Detroit Lions at Baltimore. The Colts thumped the Lions earlier 34-0 when Johnny Unitas threw three touchdown passes.

Minnesota, still hoping to catch Green Bay and take second place in the West, visits the New York Giants for the first time. Bill Brown, Tommy Mason and Fran Tarkenton will find the Giants in a battered condition, having just moved up the last man from their taxi or reserve squad to take the place of injured John Contoulis. Gary Wood will get the call at quarterback over Y. A. Tittle for the second week in a row but the Giants are down to three running backs.

Los Angeles ran over San Francisco 42-14 earlier with Roman Gabriel tossing four TD passes. It will be up to Gabriel again because Bill Munson is a doubtful performer due to injuries.

Philadelphia ends its home season against a crippled Dallas team that took a 44-21 beating from Green Bay last week. The Eagles shaded Dallas earlier 17-14.

Pittsburgh, finishing out its season on the road, plays at Washington. The Redskins beat the Steelers earlier 30-0. The Redskins have won six of their last eight while the Steelers have dropped six of seven.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Angel Operated On Williams

By TOMMY HART

The fellow who performed the 5½ hours of surgery on Cleveland Williams in Houston after the ranking heavyweight boxer was critically injured by a policeman was Dr. Robert T. Angel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Angel of Big Spring and a member of the great 1953 Steer football team that went all the way to the state finals . . . Robert was a reserve quarterback on Carl Coleman's crack Steer team that fall and even then believed in therapeutic treatment — he was the club's good-humor man, a boy who used a light-hearted approach to ease the club's tensions . . . Eddie McHugh was the first Coahoma gridder ever to make an all-state football team and Eddie, who lives out from town, didn't know about the honor until a schoolmate told him one afternoon last week . . . When oriented with the news, McHugh retorted: "You're kidding, aren't you? Why they haven't even named the all-district team yet" . . . Bud Wilkinson reportedly has already turned down ten offers for head coaching jobs from other colleges . . . Odessa High recently handed Lubbock High its first defeat of the basketball season, 64-57, but the Westerners played without the services of star Gary Washington practically all of the game . . . Washington hurt his ankle early in the opening period . . . Eddie Dominguez, who scored 18 points in Lon Morris' 91-67 basketball victory over HCJC here last year, is now a member of the Texas A&M varsity squad . . . That recent fight in Houston between Tod Herring and Roy Rogers drew a turnout of 1,521 and a cash gate of $4,452 . . . Big Spring's Charley Johnson of the St. Louis Cardinals is currently the NFL's ninth leading passer but has completed more aerials (180) than any other back in the circuit . . . Sonny Jurgensen of Washington is the only quarterback who has thrown for more yards than Charley — 2,624 to 2,507.

Bowl-Bound Ole Miss Is Upset By Maroon Crew

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State's luckless, injured-plagued Maroons backed heavily-favored Mississippi into a corner early and then hung on to whip the Rebels in football Saturday for the first time in 18 years, 20-17.

Halfback Dan Bland was the big man for State in the bruising Southeastern Conference game.

He set up the field goal that sent Mississippi State ahead in the closing seconds of the first half and intercepted a pass late in the fourth quarter that led the clinching State touchdown.

On the pass interception, Bland took in a Jim Weatherly aerial on the Ole Miss 46 and returned 40 yards to the six before he was stopped. Two plays later Hoyle Granger carried it over from the one.

Ole Miss' Doug Cunningham then took the kickoff on the 20 and returned 80 yards to pull the Rebels to within three points — 20-17 with 1:29 to go.

But Mississippi State was able to hang onto the ball for the final 1½ minutes to preserve victory.

The Maroons, whose Justin Canale kicked a 48-yard field goal to put State ahead 6-3 on the final play of the first half, went ahead 13-3 on a 17-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Don Edwards to Marcus Rhoden on the last play of the third period.

Mississippi State then managed to put down repeated Rebel offensive threats and controlled the ball most of the way.

Ole Miss pulled to within 13-10 with 5:28 to go when quarterback Jimmy Heidel teamed up with halfback Mike Dennis on a 10-yard touchdown pass.

The play that might have saved the game for Mississippi State came with 9:10 to go in the final period when State held the Rebels on its 16 and took over on downs. Had Ole Miss kept that drive going and scored, the Rebels probably would have had the momentum to whip obviously weary Mississippi State.

The game may prove costly for more ways than one for the Rebels, who have a Bluebonnet Bowl date with Tulsa Dec. 19 in Houston.

Weatherly suffered a possible broken rib and played in obvious pain.

Two players were carried from the field on strectchers, but neither was believed seriously injured. They were State's Tommy Inman and Ole Miss' All-America end Allen Brown.

The loss dropped Ole Miss's season record to 5-4-1 while State closed out 4-6.

The last time Mississippi State won the intrastate battle was in 1946 when it beat the Rebels 20-0.

Hawks Romp To Easy Win Over Buttons

HCJC's Jayhawks jumped out in front early and stayed there in clobbering H-SU's Buttons, 95-69, in a basketball game here Friday night.

The victory evened the Hawks' won-lost record at 3-3. The locals go to El Paso Monday night for a return engagement with Texas Western's freshmen.

HCJC was playing without the services of its star rebounder, Eddy Nelson, who cut his foot in an accident at home earlier in the day. Eddy worked out briefly prior to the game but could not stand to put pressure on the foot.

All ten of the Hawks who got into the game got into the scoring act. Keith Bond led the way with 15 points while Buddy Glaspie tossed in 14.

Three other Hawks were in double figures, each with 12 points. They were Tom Carter, Charles Price and Charles Vass.

H-SU was led by Jim Hodgin, the former Abilene High star, who paced all scorers with 21.

The Hawks built up a 50-26 advantage at half time and the Buttons never managed to close the gap.

HCJC was also poisonous from the free throw line, making 19 of 24.

Kurt Papp of the Hawks fouled out late in the action, after scoring nine points. The visitors lost two boys via the foul route, Hodgin and Lee Jones.

The 95 points set a season's scoring high for the Hawks and many of the fans present were yelling for the locals to make it 100 or more. Coach Buddy Travis, however, thought it better to thoroughly test all his hands.

Hirschi Upsets Andrews, 14-0

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—David Brasier scored both touchdowns and kicked one extra point Saturday in leading Wichita Falls Hirschi to a 14-0 victory over undefeated, untied Andrews to advance to the semifinals of the Class AAA schoolboy football race.

He ran 88 yards for the first touchdown and banged over from a yard out for the other. Both scores were in the last half.

Eight thousand fans watched the Wichita Falls team pull an upset.

The first half was scoreless then Brasier made his long run midway of the third period with Joe Burton kicking the extra point.

The second touchdown came with 9:41 left in the game and after bouncing over for this score, Brasier booted the extra point himself.

Andrews' most serious threat came during the opening drive of the game when the Mustangs got to the Hirschi 24-yard line.

Hirschi threatened in opening minutes of the second period when it moved to the Andrews 15 but lost the ball on downs.

Andrews got to the Hirschi 33 in the fourth period for its only other threat. Buddy Shepard intercepted a pass to halt this surge.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The University of Pennsylvania fired John Stiegman as its head football coach Saturday after a disastrous season in which the team won only one game.

No successor was immediately named.

Penn lost eight games this season. The only victory was a 13-6 decision over Lehigh in the first game of the season.

In Stiegman's five years here, Penn had a 12-33 record, 6-29 in the Ivy League. He came to Penn in 1959 from Rutgers.

Missile Bowl Is Won By Benning

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Ft. Benning turned two first-half fumbles into scores, stopped a Ft. Eustis drive at the two-yard line in the closing minute Saturday and won the fifth annual Missile Bowl 9-3.

Ft. Benning started the scoring when fullback Gene Donaldson, a former star at Purdue, fumbled on Ft. Eustis' six. Mickey Carmack, who used to play for Georgia Tech, kicked a 20-yard field goal.

Jim Taylor Shines In Packer Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — Fleet Willie Wood's brilliant punt returns and Jim Taylor's battering to his fifth successive 1,000-yard rushing season swept the Green Bay Packers to a 17-3 National Football League victory over the Chicago Bears Saturday.

Wood's punt returns of 64 and 42 yards set up both Green Bay touchdowns in the nationally-televised game before 43,646 shivering fans in snow-steeped Wrigley Field.

Fullback Taylor, who exploded 13 yards for the second Packer touchdown in the third period, wound up with 89 yards for the day and 1,005 yards in 13 games, first man in NFL history to rush more than 1,000 yards in five straight seasons.

Wood's first big punt return gallop, 64 yards to the Bear 16 came in the second period. Four plays later, Paul Hornung smashed five yards for the touchdown which gave Green Bay a 7-0 lead.

Hornung also booted a nine-yard field goal in the fourth period and kicked the points after both Packer touchdowns.

The Bears never advanced beyond the Packer 15 and had to settle for Roger Leclerc's 31-yard field goal five seconds before halftime.

The Bear attack was weakened considerably when quarterback Rudy Bukich, who paced their previous three triumphs, was injured in the last minute of the first half.

He was replaced by Bill Wade, who was the victim of a 28-yard pass interception return by Wood that set up Hornung's fielder in the last period.

The triumph gave Green Bay an 8-5 record and left them one victory shy of clinching the runner-up spot behind the Baltimore Colts in the NFL's Western Conference.

The dethroned champion Bears now own a 5-8 record.

Merchandise prizes are in the offing for winning tandems and entries can tee off anytime during the day.

Jerry Green, the club pro, said a special invitation has gone out to players from the Muny course and Webb AFB.

Huarte, Staubach Headline Classic

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two Heisman Trophy winners—Notre Dame's John Huarte and Navy's Roger Staubach—plus the nation's best all-time passer and the country's top rusher head the most glittering line-up ever chosen for the North-South all-star college football game.

"We have the greatest collection of college players by far since this game started 17 years ago," game director Andy Gustafson said Saturday. "We got every big name star we wanted."

Huarte, who led Notre Dame back to the football heights and won the 1964 Heisman Trophy as the outstanding player in college football, will quarterback the North in the nationally televised game on Christmas Day in the Orange Bowl.

Opposing Huarte on the South side will be Staubach, who romped off with the Heisman award last year.

Staubach, recovered from injuries which kept him from repeating his 1963 All-America selection, will be spelled by Tulsa's Jerry Rhome, runner-up in the 1964 Heisman voting and holder of virtually all NCAA passing records.

Brian Piccolo of Wake Forest, the nation's top runner, will join Staubach and Rhome on the South squad.

Alternating with Huarte in directing the Yankee attack will be Army's Carl Stichweh, who ended five years of Army frustration by directing the Cadets to victory over Navy last Saturday.

Huarte, Staubach and Stichweh will be playing under their own coaches. Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame and Paul Dietzel of Army will coach the North team. Navy's Wayne Hardin and Florida's Ray Graves will coach the Rebels.

Joining Huarte for the trip to Miami will be his favorite pass receiver, Jack Snow, who was fifth in the Heisman poll, and four other Notre Dame players.

Another standout already named is Fullback Tucker Frederickson of Auburn, No. 1 draft choice of the National Football League.

With 17 players invited, the North has seven more to pick. The South has 14 in its line-up and will name 10 more. Acceptances are expected by midweek, Gustafson said, from "several more players who were high in the pro draft."

Choices so far include six players from Notre Dame, five from Army, three from Miami, Fla., two each from Indiana, Illinois, Auburn and Duke, and one each from Iowa, Michigan State, Tulsa, Wake Forest, Florida, Baylor, Duke, Virginia and Navy.

It is called the Champion Bowl and matches teams that emerged from an elimination.

Sam Houston won the Eastern NAIA playoff by beating Findlay (Ohio) College 32-21.

Concordia, rated No. 1 by the NAIA, whipped Linfield (Ore.) College 28-6 in the Western NAIA playoff.

Sam Houston has a 9-2 record, Concordia 10-0.

Both teams have outstanding ground attacks with Sam Houston scoring 207 points to 93 for its opponents. Concordia rolled up 286 points to 58.

Tickets Scarce For Sun Bowl

EL PASO (AP) — Sun Bowl teams — Texas Tech and Georgia — start official practice Monday to prepare for their game here Dec. 26.

Both teams will fly into El Paso Dec. 22 to wind up their drills at the scene of the game.

Meanwhile, tickets for the contest are becoming scarce. Only a few scattered seats still are left near the 40 yard line.

From the 20 to the end zone are where ticket buyers now will have to sit. The 30,000 seats are all due to be sold.

The nationally televised game will kick off a week of sports events.

There will be a bowling tournament, a pro-amateur golf tournament, pistol and gun shooting, ski slalom, polo, a bullfight, schoolboy tennis tournament and two-night collegiate basketball tournament.

The cage tournament, with New Mexico, Texas Christian, William and Mary and Texas Western competing, will be Dec. 29-30.

Wave Of Upsets Hits Schoolboy Elevens

By The Associated Press

Twelve teams rode an upset trail into the semifinals of Texas schoolboy football Friday night but Garland, the only defending champion left in the field, merely indicated that it again was the team to beat.

The Owls hung to the ground most of the way for a 21-7 victory over Fort Worth Paschal to arch into the penultimate round, where they will meet Amarillo Tascosa.

Galena Park rolled on unbeaten and untied with a 21-0 victory over Houston Jones and San Antonio Highlands rapped McAllen 20-12 in the other two Class AAAA quarterfinal games.

Galena Park and Highlands will clash in the semifinals.

The loudest crash of the season occurred at El Campo where swashbuckling Hull - Daisetta, rated No. 1 all the way, took a 20-8 hammering from Ingleside to throw Class A topsy-turvy.

Other favorites fell in a Friday night of surprises. Clifton, well ranked in Class A, took a 36-14 licking from twice-beaten Archer City. Unbeaten, untied Atlanta was clubbed 20-14 by Marlin in Class AA where Palacios showed fearsome power in a 32-6 triumph over Los Fresnos.

Things went according to form in Class AAA with a 103-yard run proving the sensation. Rox Goodwine of San Marcos did the job-running back an attempted field goal for this distance as he sparked his team to a 7-6 triumph over Kerrville.

Palestine beat Bonham 22-0 and undefeated, untied Vidor rushed over Lamar Consolidated 28-2 in other Class AAA quarterfinals.

In Class AA, Denver City, unbeaten and untied, edged Stamford 6-0 in the snow at Snyder Friday night while Marlin was nudging Atlanta and Palacios was manhandling Los Fresnos.

In the semifinal bracket, Denver City plays Marlin and Taylor-Port Acres winner meets Palacios.

In Class A Rosebud got past Jefferson 14-13 to become Ingleside's foe in the penultimate round.

Joe Marek was the hero in Rosebud's narrow triumph over Jefferson. He not only scored the second touchdown but ran over the two-point conversion that was the margin of victory.

But a guard had his moment of glory for Jefferson. He was Butch Haggard, who lined up at end and ran 66 yards for a touchdown on an end-around play.

Another outstanding performance was that of James Armstrong of San Antonio Highlands as he got his team into the semifinals for the first time in history. He made three touchdowns and added two extra points to furnish all the scoring.

Pampa Defeats Steers, 65-41

PLAINVIEW—Big Spring was ushered to the sidelines in the second round of action in the Plainview Invitational Basketball tournament here Friday evening, losing to Pampa, 65-41.

In other second round games, San Angelo won over Andrews, 55-38; Midland Lee turned back Borger, 60-47; and Plainview flogged Brownfield, 89-53.

Twenty fouls were called against Big Spring, only seven against the Harvesters and the Pampans made hay at the penalty line. The Harvesters beat the Steers only four baskets from the field.

Joe Jaure fouled out with about five minutes to play but not before he had scored 12 points, tops on the Big Spring ledger.

Pampa was led by David McDaniel, who tossed in 24 points, half of which were the result of gratis pitches.

Coach Allen Simpson of Big Spring said he was pleased with the overall effort of his team, despite the loss, and felt the Steers were showing improvement.

The Longhorns, now 1-3 on the season, visit Lamesa for a game Tuesday night.

Two Odessa Men Fired

At least two schools in District 2-AAAA will have new football coaches next fall. More heads may roll before spring training starts.

The Odessa school board announced Friday that Bradley Mills of Odessa High and Jim Cashion of Permian High had not been rehired for the 1965 season.

Mills recently was named 2-AAAA Coach of the Year after his Bronchos rallied to win the conference championship. The Bronchos, however, were upset in the bi-district round by Ysleta High School, 10-7.

Odessa High finished with an overall record of 6-4-1 and was 5-1-1 in conference play. Permian wound up with a 4-6 overall mark and was 3-4 within the league.

Before the 1964 season ever started, rumors out of Odessa said this was the year of decision for both Mills and Cashion. Cashion told intimates long before the 1964 season ended that he was convinced he would not be rehired.

Many thought Mills had survived his crisis when the Bronchos straightened up to win the district championship but the loss to Ysleta hurt and hurt badly.

Actually, the school board went on record as saying that Mills and Cashion would not be rehired simply because the principals at their respective schools would not recommend them, but there's more to the problem than that.

The grumbling started about Mills when Big Spring knocked off Odessa High early in the season, 20-6. Neutral observers said early in the year that Mills had the kind of material that gets a coach fired—meaning if the Bronchos didn't produce that the consequences could be dire.

Mills' salary was $10,696—few coaches in high school circles anywhere are better paid. One who was was Cashion, who was making $10,848 per annum (due to his longer tenure).

The question now becomes: Who will Odessa go after? Will the board there try to lure the highly respected Don Robbins away from Big Spring—Robbins has been a thorn in the side of Odessa teams ever since he took over at Big Spring? Or will the trustees go after someone who has made a reputation in a lower classification?

It's doubtful the board will tap someone within the district's own ranks for the two jobs, at least to those who are familiar with the problem.

Don Robbins, no doubt, would give any offer from Odessa a long, hard look—if for no other reason that his father, Cooper, is director of athletics in the Odessa system. Although the relationship between the two is very close, such a situation could pose problems Don might not wish to be visited with.

This is for sure. Big Spring now has one of the most highly esteemed coaches in the business. The Steers have finished second in the 2-AAAA race three years running now and the past season missed the championship by only half a game. A mentor with a record like Robbins is bound to be a lure to other schools which have had their problems in recent years.

Incidentally, coaches of at least two other schools within the district are said to be on shaky ground and could get the bad news at any time. The august old league could have undergone more changes than at any time in its history by the time the 1965 campaign rolls around—By T.H.

Arapahoe Lodge Suffers Damage

DENVER (AP)—The Arapahoe Ski Lodge in the Rockies west of Denver burned Saturday and 22 residents escaped without injury in near zero temperature.

Loss of the two-story, four-year-old building was placed at $200,000.

The lodge was adjacent to the Arapahoe basin ski area, a major Colorado winter resort on U.S. 6. Operation of the ski area was not affected with lifts running as usual today and the mountainside thronged with skiers enjoying the best snow conditions for years this early in the season.

IT'S OLD STUFF FOR TEENAGER

Kills 2 Deer With 1 Shot

By The Associated Press

A Fort Worth teen-ager killed two deer with one shot recently. He did the same thing two years ago.

Hunting 22 miles west of Mason, Willie Law dropped two does, weighing about 80 and 60 pounds.

He was one of 170 boys from eight orphans' homes taking part in the annual hunt.

* * *

With deer hunters tramping the woods, the Texas Safety Association offers a few suggestions.

—The hunter's signal for help is three shots at evenly spaced intervals.

—Keep out of brush, and on high ground. Stand in front of a tree or rock so that your silhouette won't invite another hunter's bullet.

—Don't trust completely the safety device on your weapon.

"Each year more than 2,000 lives are lost in firearm accidents due primarily to carelessness," said J. O. Musick, general manager of the association.

Out-of-staters know there's fishing in Texas, but "almost without exception (they think) it is salt water fishing," says Frank Hildebrand of the Texas Tourist Development Agency.

In a recent talk, Hildebrand said the image that Texas has to combat in the contest for the tourist dollar is that of a "great, flat desert."

SWC Meeting Is Likely To Be Serene This Time

DALLAS (AP)—The Southwest Conference's winter meeting goes on Thursday, Friday and Saturday with indications that it will be far different from the spring session in Lubbock when half of the members got their knuckles rapped.

Southern Methodist was stuck with a two-year probation, Texas was handed an indefinite probation but without sanctions and Baylor and Texas Tech were reprimanded, all for recruiting violations.

None of this is scheduled to come up at the winter meeting, not even Texas' probation, which was to be lifted, according to the conference ruling, when the university had removed the recruiting practices complained of.

But it won't be brought up at this meeting because the NCAA has yet to act and it is considered protocol to determine what the parent body is going to do before taking action to clear the member of wrongdoing.

Dr. J. William Davis of Texas Tech, a member of the NCAA infractions committee, had requested the NCAA to take no action at all in view of the fact that the Southwest Conference had assessed severe penalties in cleaning up the situation itself.

The main point on the agenda for the meeting of the faculty committee, government body of the conference, is a proposal to limit the length of athletic scholarships to two years, subject to renewal.

The conference at this time has no limit and the boys are given scholarships for the duration of their eligibility. They retain them whether they compete or not.

The proposal to set a limit of two years is designed to get the "dead wood" off the athletic squads—force the boy to make good or have his scholarship dropped.

Another reason for the move stems from the joint letter-of-intent agreement with the Big Eight Conference, whereby the schools of both conferences recognize the letters-of-intent of all other members. The Big Eight has a one-year limit and wants the Southwest to set some kind of limit so the two leagues can be in accord.

Another matter will be a renewal of discussion on establishment of minimum college entrance requirements in an effort to bring a more uniform system whereby all schools would handle athletes in the same way. Therefore entrance requirements would be no more difficult at one school than the other.

A proposal to change the plan on golf championships from a round-robin to a single tournament where both the team and individual titles would be determined is expected to bring some opposition.

Hogs Land Nine On All-League

DALLAS (AP) — Arkansas landed nine players, six of them on the defensive unit, on the All-Southwest Conference football team selected for the Dallas Times Herald by the players.

Ballots went to 176 players—the top 22 on each of the eight conference schools. They were not permitted to vote for members of their own team.

Texas came up with five places, Texas Christian three and Baylor, Rice, Texas Tech, Southern Methodist and Texas A&M one each.

Donny Anderson, Texas Tech halfback, received 145 of the possible 154 votes to come nearest to unanimous selection.

He also was named back of the year.

Tommy Nobis of Texas made the team both as offensive guard and linebacker and also was voted lineman of the year.

Terry Southall, Baylor quarterback, was picked as sophomore back of the year.

Loyd Phillips, Arkansas Tackle, was named sophomore lineman of the year.

Bitter Wintry Blast Numbs U.S. Sectors; 22 Left Dead

By The Associated Press

Winter's bitter elements embraced wide sections of the country today, and at least 22 deaths were attributed to the weather.

In the northern Midwest and Great Plains states, bone chilling and record-setting cold held an icy grip over communities. International Falls, Minn., had —24 early today.

Winter snow and crippling ice storms raked the Northeast, causing at least 10 deaths in the New England states, with scores of injuries.

DIXIE RAINFALL

Rain fell over the Deep South. At Ocala, Fla., nearly 1¾ inches of precipitation was recorded today. Cape Hatteras, N.C., had more than one inch.

In the cold belt, Bemidji, Minn., had —23, Wichita, Kan., had a record-equalling 4, and Topeka, Kan., also tied a record with 2. At Fargo, N.D., —16 was two degrees under a 77-year record for the date. Alamosa, Colo., had —25.

Snow again fell over parts of New England, where an ice storm Friday crippled transportation and inconvenienced thousands of persons.

The snow had started over parts of the Midwest and Great Plains states Thursday and Friday, and over portions of the eastern sections of the country. Within hours it had spread eastward and southward from the Rockies, covering nearly all the northern third of the country.

Downtown Chicago dug out of nearly 12 inches of snow. Many suburbs of the Windy City reported up to 18 inches of snow. Drifts up to five feet covered wide areas around Chicago.

Col. Taute Lauds Police

A commendation has been received by the Big Spring Police Department from Col. A. F. Taute, Wing Commander of Webb Air Force Base, concerning recent police work in the case of a Webb airman who reported he was robbed and shot, but later admitted the story was a hoax.

In a letter to Police Chief Jay Banks, Col. Taute commended the department and several officers for work in the rapid solution of the case.

"I wish to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the excellent cooperation that Webb AFB receives from your department and particularly in the recent expeditious handling of the incident involving Airman Dennis C. Robey," Col. Taute said.

"Security and Law Enforcement and its Office of Special Investigation have informed me that the efforts of Assistant Chief of Police Leo Hull and Detectives Wayne Tollett and A. P. Hurley were principally responsible for the early determination that a major crime had not been committed in this incident," he said. "Please convey our appreciation to them for their fine work. Our thanks also for the immediate and efficient response of your department."

Amarilloan Dead In Parked Vehicle

CHANDLER, Okla. (AP) — Fred L. Ponder, 62, of 2209 Crockett, Amarillo, was found dead in his parked car Saturday beside the Turner Turnpike.

A physician said Ponder's death was due to heart failure.

Patrolman Ray Harral found Ponder's body about 7:30 a.m. in his car, parked in a rest area just west of the Chandler entrance to the toll road.

GOV. BROWN

Sit-Inners To Be Arraigned

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Hundreds of rebel University of California students and others face mass arraignment Monday, in this week's wild campus sit-in, as officials gear up for a whopping legal headache.

An army of police, at the direction of Gov. Edmund G. Brown, dragged limp bodies out of the Berkeley campus' administration building Thursday and arrested them.

The 814 students and sympathetic outsiders demonstrated to pressure the university into permitting recruiting and fund-raising anywhere on the 27,000-student campus for off-campus causes such as civil rights—now allowed only in one place on the campus.

CHARGE LINEUP

The insurgents were charged with trespassing, unlawful assembly and a few with resisting arrest.

A faculty group gathered enough contributions to guarantee an $85,000 blanket bond for the demonstrators, who were freed from jails Friday. Municipal Court Judge Rupport Crittenden will arraign them at one time in the 3,000-seat Berkeley High School Community Theater.

NOT LIKELY

It was considered highly unlikely that demands for jury trials could be broken down into individual ones.

In San Francisco, where hundreds of demonstrators, including students, were arrested last spring for sit-ins in support of more Negro jobs at hotels and auto show rooms, the resultant trials were held in groups of about 10. Even so, these clogged the court calendars and made necessary bringing in trial judges from outside the area.

GOP Governors Shun Burch Ouster Proposal

DENVER (AP) — Republican governors agreed unanimously today on a statement calling for expansion of their party's leadership but avoiding any proposal for the ouster of national Chairman Dean Burch.

Gov. Paul Fannin of Arizona, who represented defeated presidential candidate Barry Goldwater at the conference here, told reporters the statement was acceptable to him.

OKAYS DECLARATION

Gov. Tim Babcock of Montana, also a Goldwater backer, said he approved of the declaration.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie of Idaho, chairman of the Republican Governors Association, had led an effort to put the organization on record as calling for the replacement of Burch, one of the chief architects of Goldwater's disastrous defeat.

But Smylie ran into opposition, not only among the Goldwater, but such progressives as Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, to any formal demand for Burch's ouster.

AVOIDS MENTION

Fannin said the statement, which the conference expected to make public later, "doesn't say anything about Burch." He said it proposes an expanded Republican leadership in which the governor's congressional leaders, influential individual Republicans and state officials would share in the policy-making process.

Previously, Michigan Gov. George Romney had voiced a personal opinion that "it is necessary for Dean Burch to be removed or for him to resign." Romney said it was impossible to unify, broaden, and strengthen the party under Burch's direction.

Gov. John A. Love of Colorado, who has blown hot and cold on Burch's removal, said there was unanimous support for the statement.

DEAN BURCH

Missionary Visit To Angola Denied

TORONTO (AP) — Portuguese officials have refused permission for two top missionaries of the United Church of Canada to visit Angola, church headquarters announced. They applied in October for visas in order to confer with officials of the Council of Evangelical Church of Central Angola with whom the United Church cooperates.

Can Enlist In Abilene Unit

Capt. David C. Weaver, commanding officer of the Army Recruiting Main Station at Abilene, announced that the Army will accept young men for enlistment in the Nike Hercules Missile Unit stationed in Abilene. Under this limited enlistment option, men who enlist for the Abilene Unit will be assigned there directly after basic training.

"This is an opportunity for young men interested in military service," the captain said. "They will gain technical training in the unit, as well as fulfilling their military obligation at the same time." If they wish, they may continue their civilian education during off duty hours under the Army's educational program at one of Abilene's three colleges.

"The importance of enlisting for the Abilene unit is that the individual will serve near their homes," Capt. Weaver said.

Those interested may contact the local Army recruiter, Sgt. Raymond Woolverton, 207½ W. 4th Street, or call collect AM 4-8940.

Firemen Needing Lot More Toys

More bicycles and tricycles are needed if the annual Christmas toy campaign of the fire department is to reach its goal, Fire Capt. John Waddell emphasized this morning.

"We need a lot more toys," he said of this year's drive. Trikes and bikes, which can be either repaired or which can be utilized for spare parts, are the biggest need, he said.

Dolls which can be repaired and fitted with new dresses, to be made by several individuals and by classes at Big Spring High School, are also needed. Residents may take toys to any city fire station.

Talk His Retirement Near Amuses J. Edgar Hoover

WASHINGTON (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover has survived more than 40 turbulent years as director of the FBI under seven presidents. Now he merely chuckles at those who talk of his early retirement.

Hoover, who is 69 years old, said in an interview: "I feel fine. I'm in better physical condition than I have been in years. And I intend to remain active because I just don't like the rocking - chair life. If I retired, I wouldn't enjoy life very much.

HOOVER

Hoover gives every appearance of a man who is enjoying life hugely, even when it becomes a bit hectic as it has been in recent days. He is 33 pounds lighter than he was six years ago. He appears to have lost little if any of his old restless energy. And he places no cutoff date on his future.

HOOKED, HAPPY

Part of his exuberance, no doubt, comes from the fact that President Johnson waived last May the requirement that he retire at 70, which he reaches in January.

"So you might say I'm hooked — and I'm happy about it even though staying on the job will cost me money," Hoover said. "If I retired, I could, under the new law, draw a tax-free pension of $30,000 a year. But by staying on the job I must pay a substantial part of it in income taxes."

Hoover said he had observed that men who remain physically and mentally busy are less subject to heart attacks and other ailments than those who retire, slow their working pace, and grow fat from leisure.

He mentioned Bernard Baruch, Winston Churchill and the late Herbert Hoover as examples of men who continued active, useful lives long after they had passed 70.

"If I quit," he said, "I think I would have trouble. After three or four days of vacation I get so itchy for activity that I call the office and ask them to send me some work."

The FBI chief at first was more interested in talking of his health than such matters as his tiff with the Rev. Martin Luther King, the civil rights leader, and his annoyance with the Warren Commission's report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. He shoved them into the background.

"A few years ago," Hoover recalled, "I spent the Christmas holidays in Miami with friends. We ate at all the best restaurants — a lot of rich food — and when I got back to the office I was much too heavy.

"Then I got an invitation to a formal dinner at the White House. When I got out my dress suit, I could hardly squeeze into it. In fact, I was afraid during the evening that I'd pop something loose. That is when I decided that I — and all my special agents — were going to take off weight. A survey had showed that almost 1 agent in 10 was too fat.

"I took off 10 pounds in a short time merely by leaving off the bread, butter, potatoes and chocolate cream pie. Now I'm down 33 pounds to about 170. And we have only five overweight agents in the entire bureau."

Girl Who Played Cupid On Stolen Money Freed

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A girl who played Cupid with stolen money was out of jail Saturday because her boyfriend paid it back.

No charges will be pressed against Patricia Ann Kremer, 19, Evansville, who spent several hours behind bars Friday after it was learned she mailed four $100 bills to Gary Bugg, 20, so they could get married.

Bugg informed a local newspaper of his mystery windfall and officials at the department store where Miss Kremer worked noted $500 missing and put two and two together.

The girl also admitted sending $100 to a garage to pay for repairs on Bugg's car.

Miss Kremer told police she and Bugg planned to marry last October but postponed the wedding because of the youth's debts.

But Bugg didn't use the mailed money to get married. He made arrangements to buy a new car.

Submarine Visit Stirs Traffic Jam

BRISTOL, England (AP) — The arrival of three Royal Navy submarines for a four-day visit caused a road traffic jam Friday in Bristol. Cars were jammed for two miles by the opening of two swing bridges to let in the 1,200-ton Artful, Alaric and Astute.

Elk Memorial Rites Planned

In the belief that remembrance of departed brothers should be a happy time, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks will hold a different type of memorial service this year.

Informal rites have been set for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Elks Hall, and the Rev. Donald Hungerford, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church will speak on "Pleasant Memories."

There also will be two films projected by Glenn Gale on Elks' work and purposes.

Families of deceased Elks are being invited as special guests, and all members are being urged to take part in the memorial rites, said E. H. Lawhon, exalted ruler.

"We have decided to forgo the usual formal service," said W. C. Ragsdale, past exalted ruler and chairman of the memorial service. "The theme this year is one of reviving pleasant memories of moments spent with out departed brothers."

Invocation will be given by Kenneth Saint, chaplain, and Joe Clark, also a past exalted ruler, will be master of ceremonies. Lawhon will lead in the 11 o'clock toast to departed Elks.

Gunmen Flop In Holdup Try

BEN WHEELER, Tex. (AP) —Two young gunmen flubbed a holdup of the First State Bank in this Northeast Texas town Saturday.

Bank president Truitt Fulgham said the two thugs were waiting inside when he arrived at the bank. They held him at gunpoint momentarily, then haltingly backed to a rear door which had been jimmied open, and fled.

With no money.

Fulgham, unable to give police a good description of the pair because the bank lights were off, said he didn't know what made the gunmen leave. He said they were about 22 and wore coats.

"One of them told me, 'Stop right there,' and then he said 'come here.' When I walked toward him he started backing to the door, and took off," Fulgham said.

Jack Stangel, bank cashier, followed Fulgham into the bank but then stepped outside. The gunmen apparently saw him leave, Fulgham said.

State police said the pair fled in a waiting car with a third man. The car, reported stolen earlier in Dallas, was found abandoned later a few miles from the bank.

Brine Ruling Appeal Due

AUSTIN (AP) — The Water Pollution Control Board will appeal an Austin judge's decision taking away its authority to regulate disposal of oil field brine and other wastes.

In a statement read today by Chairman Joe Carter, the board also said it will recommend that the legislature spell out the pollution control functions of the various state agencies in greater detail.

Dist. Judge Herman Jones ruled last month that the Railroad Commission has exclusive jurisdiction over what oil and gas operators do with waste material produced by their wells.

VOIDS ORDERS

His decision nullified Pollution Board orders forbidding disposal of salt water and other wastes in unlined pits in several Northwest Texas counties overlying the water-rich Ogallala formation.

Carter said the board would process applications and issue permits for oil field waste disposal for operators who wish to submit voluntarily to its regulation, pending outcome of the appeal.

Until the case is finally settled by the appellate courts, Carter said, "the board does not plan to conduct hearings, adopt any rules, regulations or orders; or conduct other regulatory activities with respect to the disposal of oil and gas field wastes."

DEVELOP PLAN

Carter also said the board's staff has talked to Railroad Commission staff members "to develop a working arrangement acceptable to both agencies in defining the phases of the oil and gas industry in which the board will continue to exercise pollution control authority and jurisdiction" during the appeal.

The case decided by Jones was brought by Superior Oil Co., joined later by Sun Oil Co., the Railroad Commission and George Mitchell and Associates.

GETS COMPANY STOCK

Champ Rainwater Serves Gas Company 35 Years

CHAMP RAINWATER

"We get service pins at five-year intervals, through 25 years of service with the company," Champ Rainwater, district manager for Pioneer Natural Gas Co., said this week. "For 30 years of service we get watches. But for 35 years we get stock in the company, which means we have to keep working to make it pay."

Rainwater received his 35-year award Tuesday night in Midland when several service awards were made.

He started work in Bristow, Okla., on May 27, 1925, with the old Oklahoma Utility Co. That company was sold in 1944 and Rainwater was moved to Big Spring Feb. 15, 1945 as assistant manager for Empire Southern Gas Co. He moved up to the manager's position in May of 1946. Empire Southern merged with Pioneer in March of 1958, and in August of that year he became district manager for an area including Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan, Ozona, Brady and Gorman.

Rainwater was born in Uniontown, Ark., 18 miles from Van Buren (home of comedian Bob Burns), and the family moved to Bristow when Champ was 11 years old. He was graduated from Bristow High School, where he was a three-year letterman on the football team, and played on the basketball team.

"We had two teams which played for state championship, each of which was defeated by one touchdown," he said. "That was before the day of classifying schools according to enrollment."

When he finished his high school work he went to work for the J. C. Penney Co. for one year, and then moved over to the Oklahoma Utility Co. as a clerk. He moved up to cashier and finally to manager in Bristow, where he remained until he was transferred to Texas. He held his years of tenure when he moved.

The Big Spring office has had only three managers since it was established in 1931 or 1932, he said. Jim Davis, now a vice president of the company, was manager here until 1937. A. P. Kenney, now with Pioneer in the Lubbock district, was manager from 1937 to 1946 when Rainwater came.

He was married to Marjorie Schrader, a Bristow girl, April 5, 1931. They have two children. The son, Dr. C. N. Rainwater, practices dentistry in Big Spring. The daughter, who now lives in Waco, is Mrs. Julie Shirey. Both were graduated from Big Spring High School and from Texas Tech.

Champ Rainwater has been active in church, lodge, and civic affairs in Big Spring. He is a member of the First Methodist Church, and has served on the board of stewards; has served as president of the Bristow, Okla., and Big Spring Rotary Clubs; is a member of the Masonic Lodge, Shriner, and member of the Suez Temple.

Rainwater is a past president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, and has served in several capacities, as director and committee chairman. He is now a member of the Base-Community Council promoting relationships between Webb Air Force Base and Big Spring. He has been president of the United Fund, drive chairman for the Red Cross, member of the YMCA board, and has always been associated with Boy Scouts. He is now on the TB Association board.

When he has time, Champ Rainwater enjoys fishing, golf, and some hunting.

Twelve Veteran Col-Tex Employes Are Honored

Twelve veteran employes of Col-Tex Refining Co., a division of Cosden Oil and Chemical Co., were honored at an award party Friday evening at the Baker Hotel, Colorado City. A group of Cosden executives attended from Big Spring.

A. C. Benson, Col-Tex superintendent, presented diamond-studded pins for 35 years of service to L. H. Brown, stillman and relief night foreman; I. J. Pierce, treator; H. T. Bryant, operator and relief night foreman; and Ell May, pumper-blender. Pins also went to Grady Beach, night foreman, and Richard Lange, a craftsman, for 30-year tenures.

Two men received engraved watches and diamond-studded pins for 25 years of service. C. W. Shouse, vice president-refining, made the presentation to Charles Mann, stillman. Representing the pipeline department, vice president R. W. Thompson awarded the pin to Sidney Jones, district gauger.

Ruby-studded pins for 20 years of continuous service were presented by Willis Jones, assistant superintendent. Recipients were Otha Conaway, loader; W. J. Hollaway, boiler fireman; R. C. Bell, stillman; and E. V. White, loader.

Jack Y. Smith, director of industrial relations, was master of ceremonies. Other guests from Big Spring included R. L. Tollett, G. K. Chadd, E. B. McCormick, E. W. Richardson, Trevor Crawford, Paul Soldan, O. L. Bradford, Jerry Allen, Joe Gunning and M. M. Hines.

Cosden 25-Year Club Gets 12 New Members Dec. 11th

Twelve new members will be officially inducted into the Cosden 25-Year Club, with appropriate ceremonies, Dec. 11, when a special program will be held at Cosden Country Club.

Officers of the quarter-century club are: E. W. Richardson, president; R. W. Thompson, vice president; V. A. Whittington, treasurer, and Mrs. Alma Gollnick, secretary.

Those to be honored, listed in alphabetical order, are: Joe E. Adams reached his 25th anniversary with Cosden Nov. 16. He is classified as No. 1 operator-pumper. He has been in the pumping and treating department since March, 1948. His early service with the company was as a loader and blender, then tank car rackman.

J. Leonard Blackwell came to Cosden, June 12, 1939. He was a truck driver out of Fort Worth, and in 1942 joined the general sales office at Big Spring. Prior to transferring to the staff of salesmen July 16, 1950, he had been chief clerk in the marketing department. For a time he was manager of dealer training. He was assistant to the chemical salesman in the Dallas area prior to leaving Cosden June 30. Blackwell now lives in Arlington.

James L. Edwards' continuous tenure with Cosden dates from Aug. 15, 1939, but he had had a year's previous experience with the company. Since 1939, he has spent his entire tenure at the refinery warehouse, of which he has been supervisor since February of 1944.

Wayne Arnold Laswell came to Cosden 25 years ago last Aug. 7, to take the job of tank car repair foreman. The size of the fleet has varied in the intervening years, but Laswell has remained in charge of tank car maintenance as tank car superintendent. He sees that the cars are ready to move out products to market.

Leonard V. Morgan began with service to Cosden Dec. 20, 1939. He was a painter for a few months before going to the Armed Forces. He returned in June of 1945 as a warehouseman No. 2, subsequently working as boiler fireman and water tender. He is now operator at the boilers.

William Edward Pate's continuous service with Cosden dates from Oct. 16, 1939. It has been interrupted only by Army service. He was foreman at the topping unit early in his career, and stillman at the poly plant, crude unit, Dubbs and cat cracker. From No. 1 operator at the styrene unit he advanced to shift foreman on the chemical side. Since September 1960 he has been utilities foreman.

Louis F. Poynor lives in Arlington. His early years with Cosden were at Big Spring as a truck driver and dock foreman, following a period of Army service. In November, 1946, he became bulk plant manager at Fort Worth and subsequently manager of Orme Terminal. He is now located at the Grapevine terminal. His record dates back to Sept. 14, 1939.

J. F. Reidy is a welder No. 1, a classification he has held for the past 16½ years. Briefly he drove a winch truck at the plant, but most of his years since Oct. 23, 1939 have been devoted to the welding department.

Palmer M. Smith began his continuous tenure Oct. 23, 1939. It was interrupted for three years by the Armed services. He is a B craftsman in the electrical department, where he has spent 13½ years. Prior experience was gained as a boiler fireman helper, water tender and painter helper.

Raymond Lee Tollett joined Cosden in Fort Worth July 16, 1939 as secretary-treasurer. He became executive vice president of the following April, and on June 10, 1940 assumed the office of president and general manager. He moved the general offices to Big Spring on Labor Day of 1940. When the Cosden Petroleum assets were sold to American Petrofina, Inc., April 29, 1963, the Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. was organized as a wholly-owned subsidiary. Tollett is president and general manager.

James Thomas Wilkinson joined Cosden at the bulk plant Feb. 15, 1939. By the end of the next year he was pipe line steno, and worked at the Forsan office. He transferred July 16, 1950, to the general offices as chief clerk in the marketing department, and became truck dispatcher in mid-1961. In the summer of 1963 he transferred to Fina offices in Dallas as assistant market analyst. Wilkinson resides in Irving. For part of his Cosden tenure he served as part-time copilot for the Dove.

Olan Wilkerson is an A craftsman in the mechanical department. He has been in that department for many of his 25 years, which began Nov. 6, 1939. He has also been a welder and boiler helper.

BILLY RAY WARD

The catalytic cracker is often referred to as the heart of the Big Spring Refinery. Billy Ray Ward understands the term. He has worked at the unit since July 1, 1951 — first as a helper, then a stillman and now an operator.

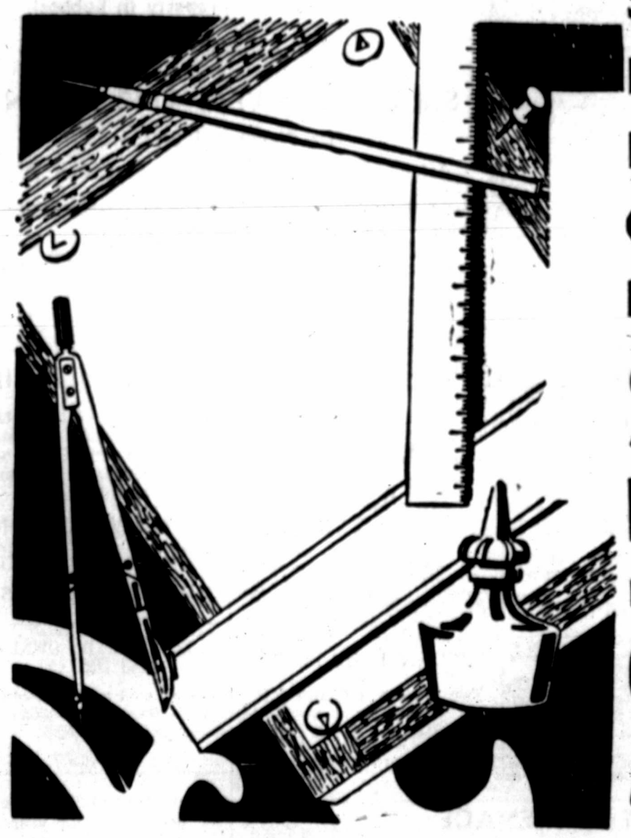

Ward moved his family here from his hometown, Lamesa, when he got the job with Cosden, Oct. 17, 1949. He worked briefly as a warehouseman and at the Dubbs, before moving to the cat cracker.

He and his wife, the former Emma Lee Brown, have two children. Virginia Ann, 16, is a junior in high school and a member of the French Club. Forrest Ray, 12, attends sixth grade at South Ward; he participates in various sports at the YMCA, and is a Little Leaguer during the summer. Home is at 2302 Lynn Drive.

Bridge interests Mr. and Mrs. Ward. He also likes fishing and hunting.

First Methodist Church is the family's church home. Ward is a member of the board of stewards; his wife teaches a class and works in the WSCS.

Murder Plot Laid To Pair

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A young woman and a man were arrested Saturday after, police said they hired two detectives to kill the woman's husband.

Police said Peggy Jo Johnt, 22, and Robert C. Pitz, 24, both of Buffalo were unaware of the detectives' identity.

Mrs. Johnt and Pitz were charged with conspiracy to murder Mrs. Johnt's husband, Paul E., 35.

Michael A. Amico, assistant detective chief, said that, after Police Commissioner William Schneider had received information a murder plot was developing, he contacted Pitz in a tavern, where Pitz was a part time bartender.

Amico quoted Pitz as saying he had a girlfriend who was having difficulty with her husband.

Pitz, Amico told a newsman, reported that the woman wanted her husband killed so she could collect his life insurance and other assets reportedly worth $50,000. They actually were worth $25,000, Amico said.

The detective chief said he and detective Sgt. Samuel N. Giambrone later agreed to accept a $1,500 fee. They received two payments totaling $175 and were promised the remainder after Mrs. Johnt collected the insurance, Amico said.

The slaying had been scheduled for Friday night, Amico said. Mrs. Johnt and Pitz were arrested early Saturday after, Amico said, another policeman had informed Mrs. Johnt her husband was dead.

Johnt, meanwhile had been taken to police headquarters and told of the plot, police reported.

"I'll take her back," police quoted Johnt as saying.

One Designation Wanted For Connecting Links

Initial steps to secure a single designation for state highways connecting Borger with Big Spring were taken at a meeting Friday in Post.

L. D. Patton, Borger, chairman of the highway committee of that city's chamber of commerce, was named president of an organization to work for uniform designation.

Presently there are eight different numbers on state roads over this almost-straightline route from the edge of the Edwards Plateau across the Plains into the Panhandle.

County Judge Lee Porter, Commission (No. 3) Joe Hayden, and Joe Pickle, member of the local chamber's highway committee, were named to a committee to represent Howard County.

Representing this county at the Friday session were Carroll Davidson, manager of the chamber, and R. H. Weaver, chairman of the highway committee.

Jaycees Sponsor Orientation Meet

Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes got a refresher on the history, traditions and objectives of their organizations Thursday evening.

Kermit Wilson, Sweetwater, state director for area II, and Glenn Wortham, Sweetwater, member of the state awards committee, were here for the meeting of 21 Jaycees and their wives at the First National Bank conference room. In charge of the meeting were Jack Orr, Jaycee president, and Mrs. Dub Moore, head of the Jaycee-ettes.

Wilson traced the growth of the Junior Chamber of Commerce from an idea in 1915 to a bustling international organization today. He also went into the tenets of the Jaycees and explained how objectives were translated into projects. This was the first such orientation, but the affair may become an annual one.

PERSONAL C-5

I HATE to do it. For many years I have been extremely interested in Electric Trains. I have accumulated the greatest stock of Lionel, American Flyer, and Marx electric trains west of the Mississippi River. Now these trains must go. After 45 years in the hardware business I am closing up shop and must sacrifice this tremendous stock. I am offering all of this merchandise, every item produced by American Flyer, Marx, and Lionel at a tremendous loss. Discounts on every item from 1-5 to ¾ off the original list price. If you need trains, locomotives, cars, tracks, switches, transformers, operating accessories, be sure to shop my store before the end of the year. Every item is brand-new, never-been-used, in the original factory package or carton. Many of these pieces are collectors items, have not been produced for many years, and will never be manufactured again. If you have a Lionel, Marx, or American Flyer train that needs repair, look me up. I am authorized service and factory parts for this area. As an added incentive, I will give you one dollars worth of free train stuff for each ten dollars worth that you buy if you will bring this ad with you. I hate to lose my trains, but they have to go. Waldo Wilcox, Wilcox Hardware, 506 West Wall, Midland, Texas.

What's the catch?
There isn't any.

Plunk $1701 into any Salesman's hand at Western Car Co. and he'll plunk you into the seat of a new 1965 Volkswagen Deluxe Sedan. (Give him $30 more, and you'll be plunked into a Volkswagen with matching leatherette upholstery.)

Of course, you'll have to buy license plates and pay local tax. But that is it.

Sound a little too simple? Perhaps. But then the Volkswagen is a simple little car.

MR. AND MRS. ERNEST GIBSON, SONYA, TANYA AND KELLI

Twins Bring Variety To Gibson Household

The most exciting event in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gibson occurred a little over three months ago when a doctor informed them they were to be the parents of twins. Four short days later this prediction was a reality when Tanya and Sonya arrived to bless the Gibson home.

These little girls are not identical and have been bubbling little individuals since the day they were born. Their big sister, Kelli, who is four was quite a hit in the neighborhood. Other children had mother come home from the hospital with a new baby, but she carried the distinction of having two at one time.

The Gibsons moved to Big Spring a few weeks ago to make a new home at 1603 Wren. He is the supervisor of the Seven-Eleven stores in the community and divides his time between the four units. This is a continuation of the work he did in Midland, their former home town.

VARIED ROUTINE

Schedule is a rather uncertain element in the Gibson home. Although the twins very conveniently sleep the night through, the days are never the same, for three young girls in a household do not lend themselves to split-second routine. Gibson has charge of the personnel of the stores and must keep in constant touch so he does not always know what hours he will be in or out of the house.

The first and most important chore each day is washing, and Mrs. Gibson finds there are plenty of garments to clean with her growing family. Hobbies are not a part of her schedule these days but she is looking forward to a time when things settle down a bit. Then she can join her husband at the bowling alley for a bit of family fun. Also, with the coming of summer, they will again head for the lakes to indulge in their favorite sport, skiing.

This summer will be special for they will go to Midland, Mich., to visit the place of Mrs. Gibson's birth and take a leisurely vacation. There they will get to test the water sports in that area that is dotted with lakes and perhaps do a bit of fishing.

OVERSEAS STINT

Gibson served four years in the Air Force in ground safety. He spent some time in Florida and did an overseas stint in England, the continent and Africa. If he could go back for a visit Scotland would be the land he would head for.

"The people are so warm and friendly" said Gibson. The quality of neighborliness among these people makes itself felt to visitors and they find the natives are easy to get acquainted with.

He is a graduate of an Odessa high school and learned in those earlier years to enjoy football and basketball. Today he is an avid football fan and is jubilant over the rating of his favorite pro team, the Baltimore Colts. This team is his choice because of an acquaintance with one of the players and a special interest in the action of several of its stars.

Mrs. Gibson is a graduate of Hobbs High School in New Mexico. She met a handsome young man just out of the service in Lovington, a few short miles away, and that acquaintance led to marriage in 1957.

This young family is looking forward to getting settled in Big Spring and have been impressed with the warm welcome they have received.

Gift Affair Given For Bride-Elect

Mrs. Abby Phillips was the honoree Thursday evening at a gift shower held in the home of Mrs. Bill Poland, 177-B Fairchild. She will be married Dec. 21 to Lt. David Skilling.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Lee Singletary, Mrs. Kiola Bateman, Miss Selma Roberts and Miss Melita Singletary.

The honoree was attired in a dark blue wool suit and black accessories as she greeted the 23 guests who called between the hours of 7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

The refreshment table was covered with a pink linen cloth and appointed with silver and crystal. The centerpiece was of pink wedding bells tied with pink satin streamers.

The hostesses presented Mrs. Phillips with an electric skillet.

Susannas Hold Dinner

A Christmas dinner was held by the Susanna Wesley Sunday School class Friday at the First Methodist Church. Mrs. W. A. Laswell gave the Christmas story as the devotion.

Dr. H. Clyde Smith worded the invocation, and Mrs. W. E. Moren presided during the business session. Plans were made to take food and candies to the children at the Methodist Mission.

The U shaped luncheon table was decorated with pine cones and poinsettias.

Mrs. H. T. Sefton and her group served a holiday lunch to 33 members and guests. The visitors were Dr. and Mrs. Smith, Howard Smith, the Rev. and Mrs. Marvin James and family and Mrs. Wade Bledsoe. Dr. Smith worded the closing prayer.

Miss Roberts Weds Larry K. Gist Friday

Miss Patricia Ann Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Z. Roberts, 1406 Wood, exchanged wedding vows with Larry K. Gist Friday evening in Slaton. The ceremony was held in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gist.

The minister of the First Baptist Church, a Rev. Wood, read the double ring vows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a sleeveless white wool knit sheath styled with a jewel neckline. She chose brown and white accessories, and her bridal bouquet was of white glamelias.

Miss Paula Leonard, Big Spring, served as maid of honor in a pale blue frock accessorized in white. Tommy Newton, Big Spring, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Gist home and the bride's table was adorned with a centerpiece of white carnations arranged with a miniature bride and groom. The two-tiered cake was decorated with ribbons.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's parents, Mrs. Dwain Leonard, Guy Talbot and Don Coker, all of Big Spring.

The couple left for a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination following the wedding ceremony.

The bride is a senior student at Big Spring High School where she will graduate at mid-term. She is a member of Tri Hi-Y and Future Homemakers of America. The bridegroom, a member of Future Farmers of America, is a Big Spring graduate and presently is serving in the Army infantry. He has recently finished training at Fort Polk, and will be stationed in Hawaii, where he will be joined by his bride after her graduation.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

The weather is about to get us set for concentrated Christmas shopping and the time is getting away so fast that we are fearful of coming nose to nose with Christmas eve without any shopping done. We have tried, however. The trouble with me and shopping is that I find so many friends with whom I haven't visited in some time and I fall to talking. This is a habit I fell into years ago and I am probably not going to be able to kick it now.

Friday I set out to spend the afternoon choosing gifts for this one and that one. . .I came home with nothing but a good feeling of holiday cheer after having had coffee with MRS. RANDALL POLK; of having seen MRS. JACK COOK in three different stores and exchanging pleasantries . . . said hi to two other Bobbies, LASSITER and SATTERWHITE. . . Pondered a gift problem with MRS. LOWELL BAIRD. . . spent some time in a radiator shop talking over the Ford's lastest illness (which wasn't pleasant).

Finally, I decided to go home and start again another day so next week I fully intend to make a list, set my sail and get into the act along with the other shoppers who are making the stores hum. . .and I do hope all my friends are in town, too, so we can talk and buy together.

Sculpting is an art I have always admired but have never delved into but recently I had the privilege of seeing some bronzes by GEORGE PHIPPEN who, with his wife, was in Snyder as the guest of the C. T. McLAUGHLINS and so I asked him some questions about his beautiful bronzes. He is a western artist working from his home near Flagstaff, Ariz. His work is meticulous and he seemed very pleased to explain to me each step that goes into the making of the facinating pieces. The details of his work, such as the strappings on a saddle, the brand on a tiny brading iron, the fringe on a cowboy's chaps are captivating and one could spend hours studying each piece. His pictures are pretty and there were many shown in the McLaughlin's Diamond M Museum, but the bronzes took my interest. I think I shall have to visit the museum again hoping to have another opportunity of seeing some more of Mr. Phippen's pretties.

A clever door piece for the holiday season is one fashioned by MRS. JOHN BALCH and MRS. CAL GUILLIAMS for the Balch front door especially for the Big Spring Garden Club meeting Wednesday morning. Children's garden tools, a hoe, rake and shovel, were sprayed white and tied with a large red bow from which hung small flower pots, inverted and sprayed white with red Christmas balls serving as the clappers.

Many nice things have been said about the high school production of "Music Man" and they were all true. Big Spring has always had good talent in its schools but they have not always been blessed with men and women who wanted to help develop it. It takes a lot of patience and work on the part of those in charge and those who take part. We think it's wonderful for our children to have the opportunity to work together on something that is so rewarding to them and their school. Congratulations!

Save That Paint

A special cleanser for washing painted furniture without taking the paint off is made by dissolving ½ cup of neutral soap flakes in a quart of water and cool. Stir this in ½ cup of whiting.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Thomas, Abilene, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ethel, to Charles Pope, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Pope, Andrews. The couple plans to be married Feb. 6, 1965, in the Pioneer Drive Baptist Church in Abilene with the Rev. Jack Ridlehoover officiating. They will make a home in Big Spring where Pope is employed with Universal C.I.T. Credit Company.

INSTALLATION SCHEDULED

The Howard County Home Demonstration Club Council will meet at 2 p.m. Dec. 16 in the Community Room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building for the installation of new officers. Mrs. Aubrey Russell of Lubbock, district agent, will conduct the installation.

LGA Chooses New Officers

Mrs. Joe Moss was named president of the Ladies Golf Association during the December luncheon held Friday in the Gold Room at Big Spring Country Club.

Serving with Mrs. Moss will be Mrs. John Davis, vice president; Mrs. Garner McAdams, secretary; and Mrs. Jimmy Taylor, treasurer. The new president will name her committee chairmen at the Jan. 3 luncheon.

Those on the nominating committee were Mrs. Jim Zike, chairman; Mrs. Dee Jon Davis, Mrs. R. L. Heith and Mrs. Malcolm Patterson. Their recommendations were unanimously approved during the business session conducted by the retiring president, Mrs. D. G. Gingold.

Preceding the luncheon a social hour was held in the club foyer. The round refreshment table was covered with a red cloth and accented with a tall silver candelabra holding white tapers and decorated with red carnations, eucalyptus leaves and silver baubles. Mrs. A. Swartz and Mrs. E. L. Powell presided at the silver punch service.

The luncheon was held in the Gold Room where the U-shaped table was graced with red carnations and silver baubles arranged in a low container. Corsages of red carnations centered with tiny silver bells were presented to the new officers.

Hostesses were Mrs. Heith and Mrs. Tommy Gage, and guests were Mrs. Earl Ezzell and Mrs. Charles Neefe. The centerpiece was won by Mrs. Swartz.

On behalf of the organization, Mrs. C. T. Jackson presented a gift to the Hamiltons. The benediction was given by Bishop Slater for the 60 members attending.

The table was laid with a yellow linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow flowers.

The group adjourned to the First Methodist Church for the district meeting.

Study Reveals Clerical Opportunities Growing

Clerical employment in the United States is 10 million and continued job expansion in the clerical field is expected, according to a new study recently released by U.S. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

"The most significant change since the invention of the first office machines is the major conclusion of the study entitled 'Clerical Occupations for Women—Today and Tomorrow' just issued in report form," Wirtz said.

Copies of the report have been received in the office of Rhobia C. Taylor, director of the U. S. Department of Labor's Women's Bureau regional office in Dallas.

"Two-thirds of the women holding clerical jobs are concentrated in seven occupations: secretary, stenographer, bookkeeper, typist, cashier, telephone operator and office machine operator," Miss Taylor said.

The report, in bulletin form, describes these and 14 more jobs, including computer operators, dental and medical assistants, filing clerks and bank teller. It discusses job duties, opportunities for employment and advancement, educational and skill requirements and earnings.

"The study also covers specialties within the secretarial occupation such as medical, legal, educational, engineering and linguistic," Miss Taylor pointed out. "Stressing the wide range of skills and abilities required in various clerical jobs, the study is directed to the student yet to hold her first job, the woman returning to the labor force and the employed women seeking to explore new opportunities."

MRS. STANLEY EDWIN HANEY

Miss Phillips Weds Stanley Edwin Haney

Miss Sandra Phillips and Stanley Edwin Haney were united in marriage Saturday evening in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. James A. Puckett in the Baptist Temple.

Vows were exchanged before an altar centered with a large basket of white gladioli and chrysanthemums with flanking arrangements of similar design. The scene was illuminated by candelabra holding white cathedral tapers, and emerald green fern trees formed the background. The bridal aisle was marked with white wrought iron standards connected with satin roping, and family pews were marked with satin bows. The couple knelt on a white prie dieu for the wedding prayer.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Phillips, Vealmoor Route, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Merel Haney, Gail Route.

Mrs. H. M. Jarrett, organist, accompanied Mel Ivey as he sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Always."

PEAU DE SOIE

The bride entered the sanctuary with her father who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was fashioned of white peau de soie with the molded bodice overlaid with imported French silk lace, and fitted sleeves forming petal points at the wrists. The draped satin of the skirt swept into a full chapel train, scalloped at the edge and trimmed with lace appliques.

She carried a cascade arrangement of Frenched carnations centered with red sweetheart roses and showered with white picot satin.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Nancy Easley, and the bridesmaids were Miss Peggy Spier, Miss Kay Dyer and Miss Regina Haney, sister of the bridegroom. Their floor-length dresses were of red peau de soie styled with belled skirts, scooped necklines and three-quarter sleeves.

Each attendant carried a nosegay of white chrysanthemums backed in satin and maline and showered in matching satin.

The best man was Jimmy Mays, and the groomsmen were the bride's brother, Edgar Phillips, Garmen Finley and Donnie Reid.

Lighting the candles were Dona Yater and Becky Ringener, nieces of the bride, who wore belled-skirted dresses of emerald green peau de soie.

RECEPTION

During a reception at the church, guests were greeted by the honored couple, the parents and attendants. Mrs. Jimmy Mays presided at the register.

Dominating the white linen-covered table was the three-tiered wedding cake which was accented with white roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom. The table skirt was of white ruffled satin and net, and the attendant's nosegays were used as a centerpiece.

Members of the house party were Mrs. Arlis Yater, Mrs. Shirley Fryar, Miss Sue Grant, Miss Beverly Womack and Mrs. Roy New.

Attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Haney, Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Knight, Grand Prairie; and Mr. and Mrs. Mac MacWilliams, Fredericksburg.

WEDDING TRIP

For a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride chose a three-piece green and blue mohair wool suit with royal blue accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet. The couple will return here to make a home.

The bride attended Big Spring High School and will enter Howard County Junior College at mid-term. The bridegroom, a graduate of Coahoma High School, is employed by the Welcome Well Service in Coahoma.

End Those Spots

Eradicate white spots on mahogany furniture by spreading a thick coat of vaseline over the spots and letting it stand 48 hours before wiping off.

Don't Soap Ivory

Wipe piano keys with cloth slightly dampened with denatured alcohol. Wipe dry with soft cloth. Never use soap on the keys for it will stain the ivory.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Has Unusual Way To 'Grill' Sandwiches

As the mother of five, and number six on the way ... my ironing board is always up, and my children are always hungry! So here's how I fix sandwiches in a hurry . . .

I prepare a cheese sandwich as I would for grilling, wrap it securely in aluminum foil (shiny side of the foil next to the sandwich), set my hot iron on top of it for a few minutes, then flip the foil-wrapped sandwich over and set the iron on that side for a few minutes. Presto, grilled cheese!

HELOISE

I do this in an assembly line process right on my ironing board, and the sandwiches are delicious.

My ironing may not be up-to-date, but at least my children get pressed sandwiches for lunch! . . . Gail Kenner

• • •

Dear Gail:

Will you forgive me for being a little dubious (that means we just couldn't believe it!) about this hint?

I don't have five children but my ironing board was up anyhow! I fixed the sandwich and wrapped it just as you said, preheated my iron at "cotton", set it on the sandwich for one minute, turned the sandwich over and put the iron on that side for one minute.

I opened the foil and the sandwich was a beautiful golden brown on both sides . . . and delish!

I washed the foil and it is ready for my next pressed sandwich.

It doesn't take as long to preheat the iron as it does for a sandwich grill, and it doesn't take as much electricity, so we are saving time and money by using the iron to make our sandwiches.

Haven't tried anything except the cheese so far but am going to try roast beef or ham next time. This is a great idea too for those who have no sandwich grill.

Thanks a million, Gail . . . Heloise

• • •

Dear Heloise:

On wash day, I launder my dark clothes first, and when they are partly dry, I take them down from the line and just roll them up . . . no sprinkling and no fading.

Then I do the white clothes and leave them out on the line as long as I like, as the sun is good for them. Sometimes I can iron them the same day if my laundry is small. . . Elsa Adeheida

• • •

Dear Heloise:

Do you ever make dishes that call for small amounts of onion . . . and you hate to make a mess for just one tablespoon of onion?

I have a trick that I have not seen in your column:

I buy a large quantity of onions and run them through my grinder. Then I divide the ground onions into small amounts, like the portion I will be using in hamburgers, soups, etc. I put the little portions of onions into small plastic containers and freeze them.

This way, there is no spoilage or waste, and I get all the mess of preparing onions over at one time! . . . Mrs. Lervold

• • •

Here is a tip for mothers (or for anyone with sick people to care for) who need to take temperatures often:

Cut a hole in the plastic top of an empty pill bottle (a glass bottle is heavier, therefore better).

The thermometer will always be sterile, and since the bottle can be left in the sick room, it saves many trips to the medicine chest and back. . . Diane Patch

Deck The Halls

A picture from the past is this scene in the family room of the Halvard T. Hansen home, 621 Tulane. Decking an old-fashioned Christmas tree and reminding visitors how things were done 50 years ago are Mrs. Hansen and her daughter, Toni, Mrs. Jack Watkins, Mrs. Lee Porter and Mrs. Tom Rosson.

'Christmas Caravan' Can Be Seen Today

The 'Christmas Caravan,' a tour of homes beautifully decorated for the holiday season, will be open to the public this afternoon from 5 to 7 p.m.

Under the sponsorship of the Oasis Garden Club, the tour is being offered primarily to encourage interior and exterior decoration of private homes during this month. Tickets are $1 per person and may be obtained at the door of the homes to be visited.

Proceeds from the tour will be applied to the garden therapy project which the club has undertaken at the special education school. There, the club has provided seeds and plants which the children care for under the supervision of their teacher and club members. The women volunteer their time at the school on a regular schedule in discussing fundamentals of gardening with the children.

The homes to be toured are those of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hohertz, 2800 Parkway; Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Hansen, 621 Tulane; and Mr. and Mrs. Boone Horne, 1604 Indian Hills. Tea will be served at the Horne residents.

Hostesses with Mrs. Hansen in her home will be Mrs. Paul Kionka, Mrs. Moran Oppegard, Mrs. Jack Watkins, Mrs. Lee Porter, Mrs. M. C. Stulting and Mrs. Tom Rosson.

Assisting Mrs. Horne will be Mrs. J. D. Leonard, Mrs. Joe B. Johnson, Mrs. J. R. Hamilton, Mrs. W. R. Douglas, Mrs. C. V. Wash and Mrs C. B. South.

Helping Mrs. Hohertz greet guests will be Mrs. Jim H. Zike, Mrs. Lois O'Barr Smith, Mrs. C. O. Hitt, Mrs. Toby Cook, Mrs. Gene Turner and Mrs. W. F. Taylor, who is general chairman of the tour.

Styles Vary In Themes For Holiday

Christmas decorations to enhance any type home will be shown today during the 'Christmas Caravan' sponsored by the Oasis Garden Club.

Those who call at the residence of the Boone Hornes will enter through a festive door to be greeted by the hostesses and their husbands.

"Getting Ready for Christmas," is the theme which will be carried out on a mirror scene at the end of the hall where small angels will be used. The formal living room features green and gold in the oriental candles from Thailand and the complementing decorator trees.

Cranberry wassail and Christmas cookies will be served in the family room where the traditional colors of red and green predominate. The white felt-covered refreshment table, edged with an illuminated holly wreath, will be the center of attraction. Appointments are of milk glass.

A feature of the family room is the children's corner where stuffed toys, story books and a miniature carousel will be displayed on a table next to "grandpa's chair." The cloth is red felt trimmed with sequined trees and reindeer.

The "traditional" Christmas, as exemplified at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Halvard T. Hansen, utilizes greenery and antiques.

The tree is a sight seldom seen anymore. Tall and stately, it is lit by candles, and decked with homemade decorations such as paper chains and strings of pop corn.

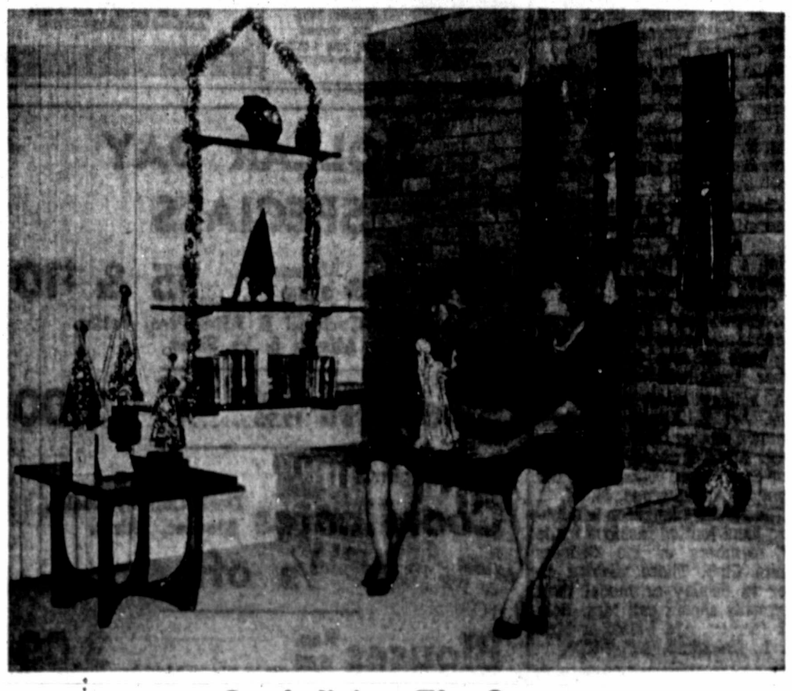

Daughters of club members will play an old pump organ during the tour.

The charming kitchen is a picture of preparations, as they were 50 years ago, when it was time to get ready for the Christmas meal. Red and gold is used in the living room to enhance antiques. Mistletoe is in the crystal chandelier, roses are used liberally throughout the room, along with poinsettias and green foliage.

Other rooms in the home carry out the general theme.

Modern Christmas ideas are interpreted in the Hohertz home where the teachings of the Bible provided bountiful inspiration. Symbolism is present in each seasonal study, subtle in one and dramatic in another.

Here, in these arrangements, reverence and art are paralleled and manifested by this symbolism in a season abounding with love and beauty.

Symbolizing The Season

Mrs. C. O. Hitt and Mrs. Albert Hohertz, shown in the latter's home at 2800 Parkway, examine a golden angel with trumphet which will symbolically herald the Christmas season during the tour this afternoon. Modern art and vivid colors have been used in the home with Bible quotations as a basis for each arrangement.

The Wassail Bowl

Refreshments will be served this afternoon to touring guests when they reach the Boone Horne home at 1604 Indian Hills. Presiding at the punch table will be the hostesses, among them Mrs. C. V. Wash, Mrs. C. B. South, Mrs. Horne, Mrs. Joe B. Johnson and Mrs. W. F. Taylor, general chairman.

CWF Hears Review Of 'The Gift Of The Magi'

Mrs. Anna Steen reviewed "The Gift of the Magi" by O. Henry at the Thursday meeting of the Christian Women's Fellowsip held in the First Christian Church parlor.

Mrs. Clyde Hallum led the group in singing Christmas carols, and Mrs. Lloyd Brooks gave the devotion. Each member brought a gift to be presented to the Westside Center and a donation was made to purchase sports equipment.

Plans were announced for an open house to be held Dec. 12 from 7:45 to 9 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Joe B. Johnson, 2205 Morrison, in honor of Mrs. Helen Pearson. She will be the guest speaker for the woman's day service Dec. 13 at the church at 10:50 a.m. Others who will participate in the service are Mrs. Harold Rosson, Mrs. J. C. Thames and Mrs. M. B. McFall.

Announcement was made of the white gift service for the Juliette Fowler Home to be held Dec. 20 at 7 p.m.

Refreshments were served by the Mary Martha Circle to 25 members.

Luther Club Sets Party

"Lining For Shape and Body," was the program presented Tuesday when Mrs. Louis Underwood, hostess, presented a program for members of the Luther Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. J. L. Lloyd Sr. gave the devotion for nine members and a guest, Mrs. Barron Graves.

The group will have a Christmas dinner at 11 a.m., Dec. 10, in the home of Mrs. John Couch when there will be a gift exchange and secret pals revealed.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Underwood.

S. P. PETTY SR.

Birthday Celebration Honors S. P. Petty

S. P. Petty Sr., 601 E. 15th, will be joined by his 12 children and their families today to celebrate his 90th birthday. Friends will drop in from 2 to 6 p.m. to join in the festivities.

The hosts include nine of the children who live in the Big Spring area. They are B. J., B. F., J. R., Hershell, Corkett and S. P. Petty Jr., Mrs. Noel Lester, Miss Opal Petty and Mrs. Birdie Lee Turk, who shares a home with her father. Also, from Forth Worth three daughters and their families will be helping at the open house.

There are 17 grandchildren and 29 great-grandchildren, many of whom will be on hand for reminiscing and sharing of a big special birthday cake.

Petty has been a resident of Howard County for 56 years, moving here from Brown County. Farming has been his occupation throughout the years, and when he moved from the Elbow community to Big Spring 41 years ago, he continued to oversee his farming interests.

He came from Louisiana in a covered wagon in the latter part of the 19th century and recalled the days when oxen were an important farm animal. He attended a country school in Brown County where he met and later married Miss Eva Estelle Bruton in 1894.

When Mr. and Mrs. Petty moved into the home place on Fifteenth Street in 1923 they were living on the outskirts of the town in those days. Mrs. Petty passed away in 1945.

With the approach of Christmas he recalled the time when there were 12 long stockings hanging by the fireplace filled with oranges, candy and simple gifts.

On his birthday he will enjoy the blessings of 90 years of fine health and the sharing of the day with all of his children, their families and many longtime friends.

An exchange of handmade gifts will be made, and an installation service for new officers conducted. Also, constitution changes will be discussed.

Nine members were served refreshments from a table decorated with a red candle encircled with holly and poinsettias. The cloth was green net and appointments were china. Vanilla and pepper were distributed for sale.

Neat Trick, No Smudge

How to pull the new tight, turtleneck sweaters, high-neck dresses and blouses over your head without ruining your coiffure and smudging your makeup is a wonderful trick you should know and one which fashion models practice dozens of times every day, says beauty authority, Max Factor.

All you need is an inexpensive silk scarf at least a yard square. Choose the thin, slick, shiny silk which will allow other materials to slip over it easily and quickly. Before taking a garment off or putting it on, place the center of the scarf at the top of your head and let the four corners fall around your shoulders. Grasp the two corners of the scarf that fall over your back, bring them toward the front of your neck and loosely tie them just under your chin. Now, carefully and slowly pull your garment down or up over your head as you dress or undress.

Remove the scarf, look in the mirror, and see the miracle of fashion know-how. If you follow this beauty hint every day, your applications of important makeup essentials will be completely undisturbed, the necklines of your clothing will be kept clean, and much time and money will be saved.

Christmas Party Held By Class

Mrs. Charlie Creighton, West Highway 80, was hostesses at a Christmas party for the Lydia Sunday school class of the First Baptist Church Thursday evening. Mrs. George Pittman served as cohostess.

Mrs. E. D. Neal played the piano for Christmas caroling by the group and presided at the gift exchange. Mrs. Fred Rice was a guest, and 22 members attended. Mrs. T. K. Price gave the devotion.

Plans were made to furnish a basket of clothing and food to a needy family at Christmas.

Refreshments were served at a table laid with a gold lame cloth and centered with a gold mesquite tree arrangement accented with leaves, bows and bells. Silver appointments were used.

TRAVEL TALK

Nassau Is Jewel Of Atlantic

By HULIN FOWLER

There is a beautiful exotic foreign land just 3½ jet hours from Dallas where English is spoken exclusively, and which uses U.S. money as well as its own.

The place is New Providence, a 21-mile-long island of the Bahamas, better known for its lovely capital city, Nassau. The Bahamas consist of nearly 700 lush, tropical islands scattered over more than 70,000 square miles of the sea. Yet they lie almost at the doorstep of the United States, just 60 miles east of Palm Beach, Florida.

Columbus discovered the islands, set like crown jewels in the Atlantic, over 470 years ago. Ever since, tourists have been wondering why the old discoverer left the island paradise to go on and discover America.

The powdery, soft-hued beaches of the Bahamas are famous as the cleanest and most beautiful in the entire world, and the sapphire waters surrounding the islands is without doubt the most crystal clear to be found anywhere. In fact, the iridescent waters have brought on one of the islands' most interesting tourist attractions, a trip in a glass-bottomed boat which offers an excellent view of coral, fish and other sea life deep in the sea.

Nassau, quaint tropical British city of about 50,000 people, is a cosmopolitan vacation center noted for its smart shops, restaurants and fine air-conditioned hotels. The weather at about this time of year is brisk and pleasant, with the temperature averaging about 75 degrees.

Nassau is well known for its rythmic steel bands which turn out delightful Latin-type music on instruments which seem to be made, in the main, of old gasoline drums. The fine shops in the city offer all types of luxury items but the most popular seem to be the delightful straw articles, mostly hats, which can be bought for a song in thousands of shapes, sizes and fashions. Visitors can bring back up to $100 in gifts duty-free.

Although Nassau offers all types of water sports, the world's finest fishing and excellent night life, the island is essentially a place to relax, to get away from the cares of the world.

One of the most relaxing pleasures of the island is a leisurely drive in one of the quaint fringe - topped, horse-drawn surreys. As the soft clop-clop of the horses' feet lulls the tourist into quiet reflection, he passes through the typically tropical city and goes on to see incredibly colorful tropic scenery — graceful green - leaved palms, bougainvillea, delicate pink and white frangipani, jasmine and gay scarlet poinciana.

Nassau has a buccaneer history and your trip will doubtless take you to the old forts, including Fort Charlotte with its eerie dungeons, Blackbeard's Tower, and Queen's Staircase, a flight of 66 steps hand-hewn from solid rock.

The British, who have controlled the islands since 1718, make it easy for tourists to visit their tourist paradise. All you need is proof of citizenship — even a poll tax receipt will do— a reasonable amount of finances for living expenses and a desire to relax for a few days or weeks.

2½ MILLION MILES TRAVELED

Eddie Criswell Winds Up Career On Ackerly Route

By SAM BLACKBURN

If G. E. "Eddie" Criswell, rural route mail carrier on Route No. 1 out of the Ackerly post office, was a little late getting around to the last of the 182 mail boxes on his 90-mile route Friday, there was a good reason.

It was Eddie's final round — he retired from a job he held for 38 years at 2 p.m. Friday. And, because hundreds of patrons and former patrons were aware this was his concluding tour, there was a lot of talking to get done at the mail boxes along the way. This was most pleasant, to Eddie, naturally, who is a most gregarious individual, and to his patrons, but it certainly contributed nothing to expediting the delivery of the Friday mail.

MAIL MAN WINDS UP 38 YEARS SERVICE

FAREWELL PARTY

Friends of the veteran postmaster, who celebrated his 69th birthday last Monday, are planning a big farewell party for him on the night of Dec. 14 at the Ackerly school. They had intended, it seemed, to keep the plans completely secret from Eddie. However, too many good people were in on the scheme, and the veteran mail man is sharp - eyed and sharp - eared. He knows about the party for himself and Mrs. Criswell, and he thinks it's a mighty fine gesture.

Mrs. Cecial Allred, who recalls that "Mr. Criswell delivered mine and Cecial's love letters to us long before we married — and we have been married for 30 years," is the ringleader in the plan to honor the mail carrier. Several committee meetings have already been held to shape up plans. It will be at 6 p.m. in the school and there will be music by Tom Castle's string band, refreshments, speeches and probably a lot of reminiscing.

Criswell was born Nov. 30, 1895, in Cottonwood County. He came to the high plains in 1914 with his family. They settled at Ralls where Eddie attended school. In 1918, he came to the Ackerly area (five years were to pass before the town came into existence) to teach school. He taught in the old Sparenburg school. He had just finished a hitch in the Army in World War I at the time.

IN 1923

Ackerly came into existence in 1923. The W. A. Wilson store was already on the scene and naturally, the store became the post office. Wilson was the first postmaster. After his death there were two or three interim postmasters but the present postmaster, J. L. Rudeseal, who took over in 1926, is the only other official postmaster the town has had.

The mail route was established in 1926 and Criswell made his first run Nov. 22, 1926. At that time, the mail was delivered on a tri-weekly basis and covered less than 30 miles.

"I began work," said Criswell, "at a salary of $100 a month including my car mileage allowance."

Since that memorable day, Criswell has bought and used 36 automobiles and has driven an average of 65,000 miles a year. This means his total mileage is about 2,500,000 miles. He has had only one accident — and that occurred on a trip other than one he was making with the U. S. mail.

"I've delivered the mail in all sorts of weather," said Criswell. "But I have missed making the rounds only one day because of weather. That was a terrific blizzard and snowstorm we had."

ROUTE EXTENDED

The route extended and became a six day a week run. At the present time, there are 182 mail boxes on the 90 mile loop that Criswell has been covering. He said the 182 boxes serve 270 families and there are more than 800 individuals on the route who have been relying on him for mail.

"I make about 200 stops a day on the route," he said.

Seventy-six of the patrons on the route are the same he first served in 1926. M. T. Mitchell, now 82, is one. He lives about four miles west and a mile north of Ackerly. Another is Mrs. G. F. Cook, whose home is six miles west and a mile north.

The sons and daughters and, in some instances, the grandchildren of men and women whom Criswell served as mail man 35 years ago, are still living on the route.

Route 1 originates at the Ackerly post office. It swings in a big loop, around the town and back.

"I served people in four counties," said Criswell, "and I would like to pay tribute to the county commissioners of those four counties — and thank them for the cooperation they have shown me. I don't believe any mailman anywhere could have had better county commissioners to work with."

BAD STORM

"I remember one day," said Criswell, "when I delivered the mail in a sandstorm so bad it cost me a new engine in my car."

In the early days, there were few roads and what roads existed, were seldom graded. Often, Criswell had to take down fences and go through fields and pastures or detour around lakes and rain swollen ravines.

He bogged down one day in Sulphur Draw. "The water was running so deep," he recalls, "it washed all of the lube out of my crank case. I also had to go 20 extra miles one day to get across the Draw in order to reach patrons who lived on the opposite shore.

"One time I pulled up at a mail box just after a four inch rain. The engine drowned out. When I opened the car door, the high water poured into the car. I went to a house nearby and the lady told me she would put on her rain coat, crank her tractor and pull me out. The tractor wouldn't start, but then her husband drove up. He got the tractor going and pulled me out. He dried out the distributor, lent me some dry clothing and on I went."

NO CHARGE

Although Criswell said he had bogged many times on his run, he never had a patron who charged him for pulling him out of the mud or sand.

"I always carry a tow chain in bad weather," he said, "to pull my patrons out of the ditch if they get in trouble."

During the depression, Criswell served as more than a mail man. He delivered groceries, blacksmith repair jobs, and other supplies to his patrons. "I would pick up their order and bring it back the next day—leaving it at the mail box." He said that the horses his patrons had were usually so worn out after a day of plowing they couldn't make the trip to town.

"One snowy day," said Criswell, "I shot a fox near one mail box."

On another occasion, he said, a woman came running out of the house to his car. The woman told him that her husband had just shot himself and to get help.

Sure enough, he said, the man was sprawled on the ground, shot between the eyes with a small calibre rifle. He got the injured man to the hospital where, Criswell remembers, the man recovered from his wound and later became a preacher.

EXTRA WORK

One of the services he provided in the 38 years he served the route was to deliver hundreds of sick and death messages. "I would come back from the route," he said "and the message would be waiting. I would set out to deliver them. Sometimes I drove 12 to 15 miles to make such deliveries."

Mrs. Criswell, a native of the Ackerly Community, has been her husband's substitute on the route for 15 years. She will continue to operate the route for the next few weeks until a new appointment has been made.

The Criswells were married just north of where Ackerly now stands on Sept. 14, 1921. They had six children, all born in Ackerly. Five of the children survive.

Eddie is a veteran of World War I, and it is a matter of pride to him that all of his five children—four sons and a daughter—have served their country in the armed forces. Three saw service overseas in World War II.

Criswell served as a scoutmaster for 10 years. He served 10 years as a member of the Ackerly Lions Club. He has a pin signifying 25 years as a Master Mason, and is especially proud of his 32 year-record for safe driving.

He has held every office in the Ackerly Methodist Church that a member can hold. Mrs. Criswell was church pianist for many years.

LAMESA

The Criswells now live in Lamesa. Criswell has only two plans for his retirement. "I intend to sell some insurance," he said, "and I plan to do a lot of work in my yard." He thinks he'd like to fish, and he has a number of grandchildren to keep in touch with.

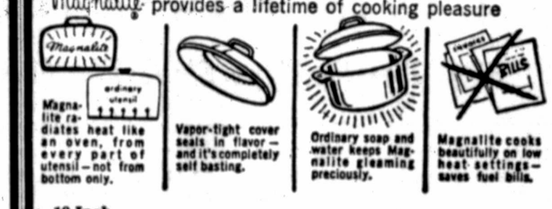

"It will take some adjusting," he said, "to get used to not making the route every weekday."

A Devotional For The Day

Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us. (Isaiah 25:9)

PRAYER: Lord God of the nations, we give Thee thanks for Thy fulfilled promises. The coming of Jesus Christ testifies to Thy faithfulness. Strengthen our faith, give us new courage, grant us to be faithful to Thee, and to accept the challenge of life, as those redeemed by our Savior; in whose name we pray. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Spirit Of The Season

This is the season of cliches which both promote and deplore the idea of a merry Christmas.

Just as it takes more than a slogan to commercialize the occasion, so it takes more than a catchy phrase to keep the occasion in focus.

The spirit of Christmas is the spirit of Christ dwelling in the hearts of men. The problem, therefore, is not to "put Christ back in Christmas," but rather to get Him into the heart from whence the spirit of love and concern can be translated into action.

This is more than a negative approach of not just confining our largess to our own circle, or not simply exchanging gifts, or not unconsciously seeking favor, or not just being passively reflective. This is a positive thing which can be expressed in a positive way.

Mutual expressions of love and appreciation are well and good, but in addition, why not do something this year for "one of the least of these" around us, or even around the world? Try doing at least one thing during the season which is completely selfless.

Matter Of Choice

City officials have concluded, in the light of Texas Supreme Court decisions, that specific action against establishments for business operations on Sunday is impractical if not futile.

It is a wise decision and probably would have been apart from any supporting decision. In the final analysis, businesses stay open because there is a need for them or because they find that it is profitable to do so. The matter seems to become a major issue only when the major enterprises are involved. And usually the majors become involved only when the minors aspire to cut more than a minor swath.

Fundamentally, it is a moral issue, and thus imposes a burden of choice on the individual. Those who have convictions on the subject—and happily there are still many who do—are free to back those convictions by first doing the things which should be done on Sunday, and secondly by refraining from actions which would prevent others from doing what they should do. Individual answers will help supply the answers to the larger problem.

When enough people follow such convictions, a public atmosphere can be created which solves the controversy.

COMMUNISM'S CONGO BRANCH

David Lawrence

How The Russians Flout The U.N.

WASHINGTON—The world isn't getting the truth about the real reason why Russia is refusing to pay assessments in the United Nations. Neither the United States nor any other Western government has ventured to define the basic issue. There is, in fact, an ironic consistency in the Soviet's refusal to make payments on its debt of several million dollars to the United Nations. For the amounts owed by Russia were spent by the U.N. in an attempt to defeat the objectives of Moscow's expenditures of probably a billion dollars a year in carrying on revolutionary movements on nearly every continent.

THE DISPUTE over the payment of U.N. "dues" is a technical one. The Soviet Union has been keeping up with its regular dues but refuses to pay certain special "assessments" which have been levied in connection with the expenses incurred by the United Nations in trying to maintain peace in the Congo, the Middle East and the other areas.

The Soviet Union contends that it did not vote for such projects and is not obligated under the charter of the U.N. to pay for them.

PROPOSALS have been advanced recently that the Security Council of the U.N. should have a voice in approving or disapproving the special assessments, but even in 1950, when this same Council called upon the various member nations to send troops into Korea to repel an invasion, the Soviet Union took it upon itself to furnish arms and ammunition to the Red Chinese to carry on their invasion of Korea. No action was ever taken by the United Nations to expel the Soviet Union from the Security Council because of this act of treason to the organization.

THE SITUATION remains unchanged today. The Soviets still are engaged in a world-wide revolutionary movement which constitutes treason against the United Nations itself. The Communists are furnishing arms and supplies and stationing their agents in various countries in Latin America and Asia, as well as in Africa, all with the avowed purpose of stirring up trouble and overthrowing constituted governments. The United Nations for several years now has remained silent on this violation of its charter. Even the United States has not denounced such activity in explicit terms. Nor has it called upon the United Nations to obtain respect by the Soviet Union for the principles of the U.N. charter, which abounds in phrases about maintaining peace and respecting the sovereignty of member nations.

IT IS THE irresoluteness of the Western nations and the failure to face up to the facts which are making a sham of the current debate over U.N. "assessments." For the real problem is not related to the mere payment of money. It is the attitude of the Soviet and Red China governments toward the peace of the world which is the real cause for concern.

There's a long battle ahead, and it will not be won until the Washington government takes off the gloves and gets into the debate with far more hard-hitting tactics than have been used before. What is really needed is an exposure of the facts concerning Soviet and Red Chinese infiltration and subversion, including financial support for student groups and other revolutionary bodies in many countries in the world where disorders have been going on for several years now.

SO THERE'S more at stake now in the question of payment of special assessments than merely support for the United Nations' treasury. The real issue is whether the free nations of the world are going to continue to pussyfoot and flounder in their relations with the Soviet Union instead of coming out in the open and setting forth the true facts about Soviet hostility to freedom and peace in the world.

Billy Graham

I hear so much about "Grace," what is the meaning of it as far as a Christian is concerned? R. N.

The word "Grace," in relation to Christianity, has two meanings. First, it is the "unmerited favor of God toward man." It is a love and consideration we have not earned. It is best described in John 3:16: "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." It is the golden clasp that binds together sinful man and a Holy God. That is the first meaning.

The second meaning is this: "Grace is the Divine influence working in man to make him pure and morally strong." In other words, grace flows from God, but it also flows from man to God in good deeds and gracious acts. Grace, on God's part, is unmerited love. Grace, on our part, is gratitude and unstinting service to Him.

One other thing: the scripture suggests "means of Grace" — ways in which we may grow in grace. Prayer, worship, service, communion, witnessing, are all means by which we grow stronger, spiritually. Unless these exercises do something in me, to me, for me, and with me, they become a form of goliness without the power thereof.

Young Newcomers Flooding The Job Market

A lot of doubts can be raised about 1965. And President Johnson has set forth with admirable frankness his own concerns. His remarks to the Business Council in Washington on Wednesday added to misgivings generated by the weakness in Wall Street.

Is the drop in stock prices due to tax-loss selling of shares or an augury of troubles to come?

Are business analysts concluding that the length of recovery, now in its 47th month, is a liability? Is prosperity too tired to go on?

PRESIDENT JOHNSON enumerated the four problems which deeply concern him. They might be termed challenges:

1. To maintain and accelerate the rate of growth so as to whittle down unemployment.

2. To keep prices stable—avoid inflation. This applies to labor as well as to management.

3. To strengthen the nation's balance of payments.

4. To find means to reduce the "tragically high rate of unemployment among teenagers."

HERETOFORE, apprehensions have been dissolved by glowing vital statistics. Nineteen-sixty-five is the 20th anniversary of peace. The bumper crop of babies born just before and just after the war will be entering their years of critical decision whether:

1. To enter the labor force;
2. To continue their education;
3. And, in either event, perhaps to get married.

Economists have regarded the entry of these youngsters into man-and-womanhood as a boon, not a burden. Many would go to the altar. Marriages would boom. Sales of household goods — rugs, furniture, appliances, utensils — would rise sharply. The demand for automobiles would be heightened.

This thinking still prevails. Optimism remains high. Most economists are not yet willing to write off 1965 as a "down" year. The worst, they say, is that progress will be made more slowly. Yet, that very statement causes doubt.

A RECORD number of young men and women — 12,000,000— will reach the critical ages of 18-to-21 in 1965. This is a million more than in 1963 (see chart). And of this million increase, a large proportion will look for jobs. Only a vibrant, expanding economy will absorb them. This explains President Johnson's concern.

The unemployment rate among newcomers to the labor force, specifically among 18-to-21-year olds, is 12 per cent. This compares with about 5 per cent for workers generally.

Youngsters don't know how to look for jobs. They go here, there and elsewhere haphazardly. They can't relate their particular aptitudes or skills to the jobs that are available.

DURING THE Great Depression, both marriages and births declined. People put off setting up new households and having children until the job outlook improved.

In contrast, after the war when jobs looked for people, economic conditions fostered earlier marriages.

IN RECENT YEARS — since 1965—the age of first marriage has advanced slightly. Can this be due to economic conditions—the difficulty of finding jobs? Or is it because more and more young people prefer to defer marriage for higher education?

Look at the want ad sections of the newspapers. Plenty of jobs are being offered. But, most of the jobs demand special skills. And next year, the country will be confronted with an unprecedented bulge. A million more youngsters than in 1964 will reach 18.

Some of these will continue their schooling. But many of them will be looking around for work, without being able to offer the skills the want ads call for.

Sandblasting

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —Studies indicate that if an astronaut walked about the surface of the moon for a week, every square inch of his space suit would be bombarded by more than one million tiny micrometeorites.

A suit only four-hundredths of an inch thick would protect him for that period. But the visor of his helmet would be so pitted that he probably would not be able to see through it. Eventually, the suit itself would erode under the sandblast effect of the nearly invisible particles.

Thus, space scientists say that astronauts planning long excursions on the moon will require protective shelters.

There Are Many Causes Of Cracking Finger Tips

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My finger tips keep bursting open. Nothing else hurts but the very tips. Please tell me how to stop this.—E. F. R.

Like so many problems, this one may not come from just a single cause. There are several common possibilities. So let's discuss them, along with some ideas which can help you figure out which are bothering you.

If the skin is either especially thick or especially thin on the finger tips, it can crack easily, from pressure or from the action of some irritant.

This can mean handling things—packages in a store, objects at work, or whatnot. Oil can irritate some skins. So, of course, can cleaning compounds, chemicals of various sorts, or smoke or fumes. There have been cases of the skin being sensitive, to smoke from a cigarette.

Another underlying cause can be improper diet. Lack of enough protein, and lack of vitamins are the chief factors in this. So, do you eat a balanced diet?

The problem can stem from allergy, or sensitivity to something you touch, or even something you eat. One victim had no luck in clearing up his cracked fingertips until he stopped drinking coffee. This, I would say, is a rather unusual case, but it shows what odd quirks of allergy can prove to be important.

Keeping the skin soft and pliable can make the difference between cracking and not cracking if your skin tends to be dry. Use of a lotion or skin cream can be helpful for men as well as for women.

But don't depend too much on just lotions, or on combatting food allergies until you have first considered (1) is the cracking caused by something you constantly touch? (2) are you eating a well-balanced diet?

Dear Dr. Molner: I had an attack of pneumothorax in the summer. Would this result from a run-down condition or would it have happened regardless?—MRS. J. S.

Spontaneous pneumothorax means a bleb at the surface of the lung ruptured allowing air to escape and be trapped in the chest cavity between the lung and the chest wall. Being "run-down" had nothing to do with it. Extreme physical activity or a sudden strain or cough might cause a bleb to break.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have something floating before my eyes, not a veil, but it seems to look like a circle. It started just a short time ago. At night in the dark I seem to get a flash across my eyes. I also see dots at times. I am 65.

Do you think I am going blind? Is there any help? —H. B. A.

From the description, this could be the beginning of glaucoma, or excessive pressure building up inside the eyeball.

Glaucoma is the commonest cause of blindness. Fortunately, when it is detected early, it can be controlled and sight saved.

Glaucoma can be determined very quickly by use of a pressure-reading instrument called a tonometer. The eye doctor, would, at the same time, make other examination of your eyes to be sure that the trouble isn't from some other cause.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald requesting a copy of the booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

After The Campaign Is Over—

A few weeks ago, at the end of the campaign — if you'll forgive me for dredging up an old horror — it looked as though Lyndon and Lady Bird Johnson had "had it." Physically, that is, after weeks of tortuous travel, speech-making and hand-shaking.

The same undoubtedly went for Barry Goldwater and all the other major candidates.

I THOUGHT the last TV appearances in the campaign revealed the President to be overly exhausted, and heard that Mrs. Johnson was completely worn out.

It's a pleasure to report that by now they seem to be in fine fettle. This was apparent during the afternoon and evening we spent at their LBJ ranch home a week ago. I wrote earlier in the week that the Man himself had an air of complete relaxation, although for Lyndon this means keep moving. Mrs. Johnson, who had had several hours of tramping in the hills on a glorious autumn day, had a sparkle about her, and he had his humor.

SO IT CAN be reported that the physical rigors of the campaign are behind them, and whether you are an LBJ admirer or not, it's good to know that the nation's President is in apparent good health.

Although the campaign is past, its memories are still fresh in the Johnsons' minds, and they seemed to want to talk about it. If there was a touch of victor's relish about this, who's to blame them? Aren't we all pleased when we win?

BUT BY NOW they were able to recall with humor some incidents of the campaign trail that possibly were agonizing at the time.

Mrs. Johnson recited experiences of her famed whistle-stop trip through Dixie, an alien land in the political game. She recalled one city where there was a small group of rabid foes at the edge of the crowd, waving antagonistic banners and shouting down all the words of the campaigners on the train. This was distressing then, but she found some fun in reciting the way a local politico got up and quieted the group in the name of Southern hospitality.

AND THE President jovially admitted to some boo-boos. In one state, in a major address in a major city, he inadvertently failed to mention the name of the party big-wig; and, he recited, the very next day a campaigning senator in the state also forgot the big-wig's name in another major address. It took some doing to heal wounded pride. Of such stuff, I suppose, are campaigns made.

The President was pleased that he had turned out a pretty good guesser on how the various states would vote in the election. He still carries in his pocket a crumpled up newspaper clipping which compares the final Democratic appraisal with the ultimate vote. LBJ went down the list for us, to show that, with only a couple of exceptions, the estimate and the results were mighty close.

THIS SORT of talk was among the easy conversation of our afternoon at the ranch. The President and his family obviously are always at ease there, and I think it could be said that this is good for the nation.

Truman had his walking sorties, Ike loved his golf, John Kennedy was at his best on a sailing boat. It's that Texas ranch that is in the Johnsons' hearts. It's where they need to go at regular intervals.

Eucharistic Congress In India

BOMBAY—As Pope Paul VI set foot for the first time on the soil of India an extraordinary era for the Roman Catholic Church was inaugurated. This firsthand meeting of Rome and Asia opens a new and fabulous chapter for both worlds.

For the church it is a certification of the universality of Catholicism. Attending the 38th International Eucharistic Congress, the Pope heads a delegation of distinguished churchmen from every part of the world. But the emphasis is on Asia and Africa and the Congress is, in a sense, an advertisement for the strides the church has made among people of color in the newly independent nations.

VALERIAN Cardinal Gracias, the first Indian Cardinal, is president of the Congress. Elevated to the College of Cardinals by Pope John XXIII, he first proposed to the late Pope that he attended the long-planned Congress. John replied that however much he might like to come his health would not permit. With the election of Pope Paul, Cardinal Gracias never ceased his efforts to persuade him to make the long journey. The Pope's pilgrimage to the Holy Land last January was a precedent.

LEADING A STUDY session on "The Missionary Task of the Church" as part of the Eucharistic Congress program is Laurian Cardinal Rugambwa, Bishop of Bukoba in Tanganyika. In 1960 he became Africa's first Negro Cardinal. Rufino Cardinal Santos, of Manila, the first Philippine Catholic to receive the red hat, is one of a dozen Cardinals taking part in the great ceremony on The Oval in the heart of Bombay. High churchmen from all over Asia are here.

Diversity marks the religions of the Indian mass. In Bombay are an estimated 320,000 Catholics, with about 12,000,000 in the country, most of them in the South.

HINDUISM in its infinite variety, the Jains, the Parsees, these and innumerable sects and branches and offshoots of the principal religions have their followers. Jains can be seen walking in the street with gauze over their mouths so they will not by chance swallow an insect and cause its death. High-caste Brahmin women seldom leave their apartments lest they be contaminated by contact with non-Brahmins.

Deep religious feeling was for a time a threat to the Eucharistic Congress. Hindu rightists sought to enjoin the city from giving any support to the Congress with the problems it inevitably creates with 300,000 to 400,000 visitors with both water and food in scarce supply. The courts rejected the plea.

COPING PATIENTLY and with a small staff with the innumerable problems of organization is Father Herman D'Souza, general secretary to Cardinal Gracias and liaison with the Indian government. He arranged to house some of the visitors, including the 600 to 800 news representatives, on four ships in the harbor. From the beginning the risks in this extraordinary adventure were evident enough. But once the Pope had taken his decision the drama of this union of East and West began to take form.

What About The 26 Million?

WASHINGTON—"Brothers, can you spare 26 million votes?" asked Congressman Oliver Oldstyle (R.), whom they were getting ready to drum out of the party for his support of Barry Goldwater.

They sat in their seats of judgment and rubbed their Me-Too buttons. The political corpse of Goldwater lay in state, and its wounds were bleeding, for these were the slayers of Mr. Conservative.

A DEMOCRATIC witness had said so. Chairman John Bailey had told friendly reporters in Washington that Goldwater was mortally wounded before he ever left the Republican Convention. But now the slayers were trying to pin the rap on Oliver Oldstyle and other old-style Republicans who had always opposed Me-Tooism and who had vigorously supported the party's nominee.

"If you can spare 26 million votes," continued Oldstyle in his defense summation, "go ahead and drum me, and all Republicans like me, out of the GOP. But those 26 million Goldwater voters are the only grubstake you have left."

HIS INQUISITORS put their heads together and reread the bill of indictment. It was a horrendous scroll. The party had hoped to gain some young stalwarts, like Bob Taft and Bud Wilkinson, in the Senate. It had dreamed of adding as many as 20 seats in the House of Representatives. But the Goldwater debacle swept across many Republican delegations in Congress like the Angel of Death.

Worse, there was the carnage at the State capitals, where Republicanism had been able to survive many a defeat at the national level. More than 500 legislative seats passed from the GOP to the Democrats last November, according to a survey by Congressional Quarterly.

"ALL THAT is true," conceded Oliver Oldstyle. "Goldwater led us to a deep and undeniable defeat. But I supported him. Did you? I did not knife up the party candidate so that he was a dish for the Democrats to feed on. Did you? I and my kind are not yet willing to cutout what's left of life in the party. Are you? Some of us believe we'd better start binding up the wounds. Do you?"

His inquisitors began to whet blades on the soles of their shoes. They were going to purge Dean Burch, the National Chairman. They were going to stab John Grenier, the executive director. They were going to make a list of State chairmen, national committeemen and local leaders who had backed Barry.

WHO ELSE was listed? Anybody who preferred to see the GOP take an honorable beating rather than play me-and-my-shadow with the Democrats. It was a long list . . . a long list.

"It has to be," declared Oliver Oldstyle. "It has to include 26 million hard-core anti-Democrats who may well form their own Conservative party if the GOP throws them out."

At that, the inquisitors again put their heads together. They commenced some second, sober thinking about how to treat their brothers in the Goldwater chapter of the Republican fraternity.

Shocks Tenants

LONDON, Ky. (AP) — Basil Poynter was able to calm his wife and another customer after a .303 rifle discharged while a customer was examining it. The bullet went into the ceiling and no one was hurt. But he had more trouble calming upstairs-apartment dwellers who returned home and found a hole the size of a half dollar in the floor and a bullet in the mattress.

Webb Personnel Urged To Drive Home Safely

With hopes of equaling the 1963 record of no fatalities, Lt. Gen. William W. Momyer, air training command commander, has launched the 1964 Operation Homesafe campaign. As a part of the program, most ATC personnel planning a long holiday trip will be personally counseled by their commander or ground safety officer.

In a recent letter to commanders, Gen. Momyer said:

"For the first time in the history of Operation Homesafe, our personnel celebrated the 1963 Christmas-New Year holiday period without a fatal ground accident. Moreover, our personnel did not have a fatal ground accident during December. Our past achievements are attributed to the combined efforts of all personnel and the dynamic leadership of each commander."

Operation Homesafe is an annual effort to prevent private vehicle accidents in the command during the year-end holiday period. The program was originated at ATC in 1953. Over the years, other commands have picked up the program, using an elaborate guidebook prepared by the ATC ground safety office.

ATC activities will be using many methods to get the facts of Operation Homesafe over to all personnel. Among them will be posters through the bases, promotion in December Commander's Call programs, seatbelt installation "clinics," and vehicle inspections.

"Drive according to conditions" is the advice of J. G. Steussy, ATC Operation Homesafe project officer. "Many ATC bases are located in areas of the country where bad winter driving conditions are rare. Those going to areas where adverse conditions prevail must be prepared to rapidly adjust their driving habits," he said.

Col. A. F. Taute, wing commander, has assigned W. W. Brown, wing ground safety officer, as the project officer for Webb.

"It will take everyone's cooperation to make Homesafe a success. We know that it can be done because Webb personnel and their families traveled over one million miles from Dec. 1 to the first work day following New Year last year. It is anticipated that this number will be equalled again this year," Mr. Brown stated.

This year, all squadron commanders will be asked to take a personal interest in Operation Homesafe.

Films on traffic safety will be shown and individual counseling will be done. Dependent wives, sons and daughters who drive are asked to do their part in making it a safe trip, whether it is a long one or just a local pleasure drive.

Most of the base's fatal accidents this year occurred within 100 miles of Webb. The National Safety Council statistics indicate that most serious to fatal accidents occur within 25 miles of the family's destination.

Careful, defensive driving can make Operation Homesafe a success. One detrement to accidents is the use of seat belts, AF personnel are told. Everyone is encouraged to install seat belts in their automobiles, and to use them.

DEAR ABBY

Good Advice For Teeners

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL TEENAGERS: J. Edgar Hoover, the Director of the FBI, set down the following rules, which deserve to be read thoughtfully —and remembered:

1. IF ANY STRANGER — OR EVEN A SLIGHT ACQUAINTANCE — MAKES IMPROPER ADVANCED, TELL YOUR PARENTS IMMEDIATELY.

Young people are too often kind-hearted about such things — they dislike the idea of getting an offender into "trouble." Just remember that if you DON'T report him, he'll probably get into worse trouble later on — to say nothing of the harm he may cause.

2. IF YOU KNOW OF ANY PORNOGRAPHIC PICTURES OR LITERATURE BEING PASSED AROUND, NOTIFY YOUR PARENTS IMMEDIATELY.

Obscene reading matter is a favorite habit of degenerates. If the authorities can run down the source and trace the material, they may be able to rid the community of danger before it starts.

3. KNOW YOUR DATE! DON'T GO OUT ON "BLIND DATES" UNLESS ANOTHER COUPLE IS ALONG — AND EVEN THEN BE CAUTIOUS.

If someone phones and says he's a friend of Jack Jones, tell him you'd be glad to have Jack Jones introduce him.

4. STAY OUT OF LOVERS' LANES.

It's natural to want to be alone with your date, but experience shows that "Lovers' Lanes" are favorite haunts of sex criminals.

5. DON'T WANDER AWAY FROM THE CROWD AT PICNICS AND OUTINGS. STAY WITHIN CALLING DISTANCE.

Sex criminals are easily attracted to any group of young people, and given an opportunity they can strike with frightening speed.

6. DON'T ASK FOR TROUBLE — DRESS SENSIBLY.

Provocative clothing may attract the attention of a potential sex criminal.

7. BE CIVIL TO STRANGERS WHO ASK DIRECTIONS. BUT NEVER GO PART WAY WITH THEM.

The "directions" trick is a favorite among sex criminals. They count on the natural helpfulness of young people.

8. BE VERY CAREFUL ABOUT ACCEPTING WORK FROM A STRANGER.

This is another insidious dodge. Always make sure that the person is a respectable businessman.

9. DON'T GO ABOUT THE HOUSE HALF-DRESSED.

This may seem harmless, but it's an invitation to "Peeping Toms" — who may later become something more dangerous.

10. NEVER, NEVER HITCHHIKE!

And never, never, pick up a hitchhiker!

Larry, a sophomore, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don McKinney. He serves as president of the sophomore class, president of the Science Club, is a member of the Student Council, photographer for the annual, and a member of the FFA.

Personalities in the last edition of the "Bark" were Pat Chapman and Robbie Haney.

Robbie is a member of the annual staff, plays basketball, and is the secretary of the FFA.

The Student Council met Wednesday during homeroom. The Boy and the Girl of the Month were elected. A report was made from the West Texas Forum which some of the members attended in San Angelo earlier in November. Plans are being made for a door contest to be held. Each class will decorate their homeroom door and the winner will be announced the day school turns out for the Christmas holidays.

The main discussion of the meeting was about the basketball games. Starting at the next home game, the school song will be sung before the game starts to help promote good sportsmanship, not only in our school, but in the opponent's.

The basketball teams at Coahoma were entered in several different tournaments this week. The A-team girls and the B-team boys were entered in the Forsan tournament. The A-team boys went to the one held in Hamlin, while the junior high teams traveled to Silver.

Practicing For Christmas Concert

RUNNELS

By LYNN PUCKETT

Three school choirs, Runnels, Goliad and BSHS are making preparations for a joint Christmas concert Dec. 17. New choir robes were received Wednesday and will be worn during the concert.

Some parents of choir members are being asked to purchase the robes and donate them to the choir. Anyone wanting to purchase robes should contact Mrs. William F. Nolen, choir booster club president, or Hubert Murphy, Runnels' choir director.

Booster meetings are held the third Tuesday of each month in the high school library, and begin at 7:30 p.m.

A musical program was presented Tuesday evening for members of the P-TA by the Runnels band and choir. Mr. Murphy directed the choir and Joe Burchfiel conducted the band.

Runnels sent two of its basketball teams to Snyder Thursday. Runnels will field a fairly tall team in its ninth grade. Members of the team include Joey Baker, Richard Belew, Jack Cathy, Danny Clendenin, Randy Foster, Mike Gartman, Terry Hanson, Larry Johnson, Wayne Johnson, Larry McGuire, Inacio Mendoza, Johnny Middleton, Jim Mills, Lonnie Newton, Danny Nichols, Dwayne Ray, Eugene Scott, Wayne Sturn, Charles Tubb, James Webb and Jimmie Wilson.

Members of the Round-Up staff turned in their stories Monday. Copies of the paper will be sold next week and will feature letters to Santa Claus.

Pink slips were issued to those students faltering in their school work. The notices mark the end of the first half of the nine week period.

The band is selling fruit cakes and candy with profits going to the band boosters. Everyone is urged to buy a fruit cake or candy and help support the Big Spring bands.

Goliad Introduces Basketball Teams

GOLIAD

By MARTHA JORDAN

Goliad's basketball teams were introduced Thursday during a special assembly-pep rally, in preparation for their first games held Thursday evening. Pep talks were given by Coach Hallmark, Coach Hagood, Don Crockett, freshman, and Steve Russell, 8th grader. FHA president Judy Fletcher presented a black and white warm-up ball to Coach Hagood and the players as a symbol of well-wishes and good luck. After this rally the freshman team won a decisive victory over Snyder Travis.

An invitational basketball tournament was held Friday and Saturday in the Goliad and BSHS gyms. Teams from the surrounding area were invited to compete in the tourney. Trophies were awarded winners and runners-up.

Gary Newsom and Jimmy Stuteville were chosen as basketball photographers from the annual staff. Mrs. Cornelia Gary, "Maverick" sponsor, announced the appointments this week.

Members of the girls' freshman volleyball team attended a volleyball clinic Saturday, 8:30 to 3:30, at the YMCA. A group, including coaches, high school and college players, of more than 120 was expected to attend. Barbara Harwerth, a member of the United States Women's Olympic Volleyball Team gave talks and demonstrations intended to improve the quality of volleyball games.

Goliad's a cappella choir, directed by Mr. Don Morton, has several programs scheduled before the Christmas holidays. A program is to be presented Dec. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at Gay Hill. Dec. 9, the choir will hear the West Texas State College Choir give a performance at BSHS. On that date, also, the Goliad choiristers will perform for a luncheon crowd at the Cosden Country Club.

The Goliad Spanish Club, sponsored by Miss Mary Sue Warner, held a meeting to elect officers last Monday. Sherry Arbuckle was elected president; Denise Estes, vice president; and Jack Fletcher, secretary-treasurer.

Driver education classes received a new 1965 Chevrolet during the past week. A detonator test was held Tuesday afternoon after school as a demonstration for drivers' education classes taught by Mr. C. W. Tanner and Mr. William Hallmark.

Social science teachers attended the West Texas Regional Council for Social Studies which was held locally yesterday.

The end of the third 4½-week period was noted Wednesday. Pink slips, an indication of failing or unsatisfactory work, will be issued Monday. Students receiving pink slips must return all of them, signed by their parents. The pink slips are issued as a warning to students; their purpose is to indicate need for improved grades before report cards are issued at the end of the nine-weeks period.

Play practices for "The Meaning of Christmas Day" were held during the week. The play, directed by Mr. Barry Clayton is to be presented at the Christmas assembly.

Goliad home economic classes are presently studying family and friendship and the art of cooking.

Success Formula Elusive, Bad Writing Recipe Easy

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — No one is quite sure how you teach a high school student to write well, but there's no secret about how to produce bad writing: Throw the student in over his depth.

When that happens, says a new publication of the National Council of Teachers of English, the students "are uncomfortable. They start producing what they imagine the teacher wants. They drown in a sea of confused verbiage."

Edwin H. Sauer of Chicago Teachers College South cited as an example an examination question which invited the student to decide whether he shares the sense of futility found in much of 20th century literature.

"First of all," Sauer said, "It is hazardous to invite a youngster of 17 or 18 to consider whether or not he has a sense of futility, precisely because he is likely to think that he has.

"If he really has, he probably needs psychotherapy. But the student who thinks he has and starts writing about it is likely to produce great globs of very bad prose."

Sauer was one author of the new publication, "English Programs for High School Students of Superior Ability." It was released here today at the opening of the annual meeting of the English Teachers Council.

About 6,000 English teachers from elementary schools, high schools and colleges are expected to attend the three-day convention.

The publication stresses that high school programs for superior students must be so carefully designed that the student neither gets out of his depth nor becomes bored and loses interest.

Fred H. Stocking of Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., made these suggestions:

Classes for superior students must be small, to encourage discussion and argument. Fifteen is an ideal maximum.

The teacher should spend little time "telling" his students; most of his time should be used in asking questions that guide them to their own conclusions.

DURWOOD (DUKE) LEDBETTER
Classes urging flying safety

Retired, But Plugs Away At Safety

By BILL HARRISON

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) —Durwood (Duke) Ledbetter started flying in 1923. A year later he saw a plane crash into the streets of Kansas City, killing the barnstorming pilot and scattering hundreds of leaflets the plane was carrying.

"Flying is safe if conducted properly," the leaflets proclaimed.

Duke Ledbetter was deeply impressed by the message—and the example of its disregard. He has been plugging flying safety ever since.

A robust 61, today he's still flying—more than 33,200 hours logged. And although mandatorily retired at 60 from American Airlines, he finds himself working harder than ever.

Duke conducts weekly classes on air safety here and talks air safety to groups all across the nation. He does it free.

"It's selfish," he says. "I feel I'm doing something worthwhile —this makes me feel good."

Now Duke is enlisting other retired pilots in his speaking-teaching program.

"I thought if I could enjoy it, why not other retired airline pilots," he says.

Ledbetter is president of the Grey Eagles, an organization of 317 American Airlines pilots over 50, each with a minimum of 2,200 flying hours logged.

Duke flies with the Civil Air Patrol, hunting the lost pilots who too often are found dead in the wreckage of their planes plastered on some hillside.

"Malfunction of equipment is rarely involved when a private pilot flies into trouble," Ledbetter maintains. "Almost always it's lack of knowledge and experience, violation of some basic safety rule. Ninety-eight per cent of the accidents can be traced to pilot error or deficiency."

Duke thinks that percentage—and the accidents—can be cut way down.

"The pilot needs to realize his own limitations and those of his aircraft," he says.

"For example," says Duke, "the vortices (air whirlpools) created by big jets can turn a light plane inside out three miles behind the jet. It's like tying into a miniature tornado. It can cause structural failure or throw a plane upside down. If it crashes, nobody knows what happened."

Fire Prevention Boost Scheduled

Plans for an increased program for Fire Prevention Week next year were discussed by representatives of the chamber of commerce and city officials at city hall Thursday.

Jerry Mancill and D. M. McKinney of the chamber met with Fire Marshal A. D. Meador and City Manager Larry Crow.

Meador will submit recommendations for a joint effort next year with the chamber and the city fire department, with emphasis on the poster contest for fifth and sixth grade students and use of a check-list for all elementary school children of the city to take to their homes.

Ways to increase use by residents of the home inspections provided by the fire department were also discussed. Materials provided by the National Association of Fire Underwriters were examined and considered for incorporation into the fire prevention program here.

Murder Described In Four Versions

The adage that the truth lies in the eyes of the beholder forms the basis of the offbeat and controversial drama, "The Outrage," starring Paul Newman, Laurence Harvey, Claire Bloom, Edward G. Robinson, William Shatner, Howard Da Silva and Albert Salmi.

Set in the West during the latter part of the last century, the story centers on a vicious bandit, portrayed by Paul Newman in the most unusual role of his career. The bandit, Juan Carrasco, has been convicted and sentenced to hang for the murder of a traveling southern gentleman (Laurence Harvey) and the violation of the latter's wife (Claire Bloom). At the trial he confesses that he tied up the Southerner, violated the wife, then killed the husband in the course of a "duel of honor."

But then the wife and a witness take the stand with totally conflicting versions of what occurred in a forest glen. The wife claims that as a result of her degradation after she had been attacked by the bandit, her husband, believing she had encouraged the attacker, held her in such contempt that she became enraged and killed him.

The witness, an old Indian, states that he had spoken to the husband just before his death and that the latter had told him he had plunged the dagger into his own heart because of the humiliation he had suffered.

And now, a fourth version of this extraordinary crime is given by a prospector to a preacher (William Shatner) and a vagrant con-man (Edward G. Robinson) on the platform of a deserted railroad station. His story is that the woman shamed her husband and the bandit into fighting for her and, during the fight, the husband tripped and fell onto the dagger. Before the story ends, a simple act of humanity involving an abandoned child restores to the preacher the faith which he had lost in mankind since the trial's beginning.

Which of the four different versions of the murder is the true one? The picture depicts each of the disparate happenings, and each member of the audience can come to his own conclusion. The moral might be summed up in the statement of one of the characters . . . "People see what they wanna see an' say what they wanna hear . . . truth is like that little ball under three shells . . . now you see it, now you don't."

Filmed in Panavision, largely outdoors on locations in Southern California and Arizona, "The Outrage" holds a spell-binding grip on the spectator.

Production of an annual children's play was begun by the Civic Theatre group last year and it proved quite popular with the younger set. As a result, a big crowd is expected this week for "Hansel and Gretel."

'Looking For Love' Stars Connie Francis

In one of the skylarking sequences of "Looking For Love," Connie Francis sings "Let's Have a Party." And that's exactly what this romantic comedy is — a happy-go-lucky party, hosted by Miss Francis.

As a member of the audience you are invited to mingle with such guests as Johnny Carson, George Hamilton, Yvette Mimieux, Paula Prentiss and Danny Thomas and to enjoy the hijinks of co-stars Jim Hutton, Susan Oliver, Joby Baker, Barbara Nichols and Jay C. Flippen.

If ever there were talented performers at a party, director Don Weis has rounded them up for this gay affair. The result is a festival of song, laughter and romantic twosomes that insures everyone of a good time.

The plot revolves around that perennial question — which is more important to a girl, career or marriage? Winsome young singer Connie decides that love is more important than fame and adulation, and it is in her quest for the man-of-her-heart that she encounters a variety of amusing and romantic complications.

But it seems that she can never leave her songs far behind. Having inadvertently invented an ingenious gadget which enables a career girl to get dressed and arrive at the office in record time, she is persuaded by enterprising young pusher Jim Hutton to promote the contraption via television and night club appearances and, of course, falls in love with him. But Joby Baker, her accompanist, seems always to be getting in the way. In the end it is a "kiss test" which decides the issue. Connie knows that bells will ring when she is kissed by the right guy and in the climax of "Looking For Love," they ring loudly and unexpectedly.

Miss Francis has never appeared more attractively or more effectively than she does in this offering, and she is given support by the large cast of co-stars and guest stars.

Johnny Carson plays himself as an amiable TV master-of-ceremonies, George Hamilton has a delightful scene in which he makes a movie test with Connie, the Misses Mimieux and Prentiss also play themselves as glamorous film stars, and Danny Thomas joins Connie in a duet in one of the picture's many tuneful moments.

Susan Oliver enacts Connie's practical - minded roommate, Barbara Nichols is very funny as an irate prima donna and Jay C. Flippen adds to the laughs as a bemused advertising executive.

New Jet Opens Wednesday

Newest and largest unit on the local entertainment scene—the new Jet Drive-in theatre — will open Wednesday night, barring unforeseen interruptions.

The Jet, on the old San Angelo Highway near the City Park entrance, replaces the drive-in of the same name which was on Highway 87 south, where a shopping center is now under construction.

Opening attraction, said owner-operator Ike Robb, will be one of the major movie extravaganzas of recent months, the sweeping story of "How the West Was Won."

The new Jet becomes the largest such theatre that Big Spring has had. It will accommodate some 700 automobiles, and the viewing area of its screen will be 92x42 feet. The concession house is completely new and offers many public accommodations new to the local drive-ins.

William Holden Stars In Guerrilla Warfare Film

After almost a decade of peace, the thunder of gunfire exploded in Malaysia again. Fortunately for the planters, peasants, businessmen and the other residents of this new independent nation in Southeast Asia, the battle was virtually bloodless. For the renewed outburst of hostilities signalled the start of actual location filming of the excitement-filled Technicolor adventure-drama, "The 7th Dawn."

"The 7th Dawn" stars Academy Award - winner William Holden, Susannah York and Capucine as the film's principal players caught up in a turbulent triangle of love and intrigue. Holden portrays an American plantation owner, Miss York is the daughter of a British administrator and French star Capucine as a Eurasian schoolteacher.

In the role of a guerrilla leader, top Japanese star and Karate champion, Tetsuro Tamba, co-stars with a trio of noted British actors, Michael Goodliffe, Allan Cuthbertson and Maurice Denham.

Filmed on a spectacular scale, this color production recreates the terror-filled days when guerrilla warfare raged in the rubber-rich area.

Based on the widely-acclaimed novel, "The Durian Tree," by Michael Keon, the story of "The 7th Dawn" ranges through the jungles, mountains and populous cities of the Malay States of the bitter struggle that erupted shortly after the end of World War II, and dramatically chronicles a saga of passion and murder.
