TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 19. (By radio to The Associated Press)—Rebels headed by Ramon Diaz attacked Tela this afternoon at 3 o'clock and after severe fighting were repelled by government troops commanded by Gen. Jose Maria Reina. The exact number of casualties was unknown but reported small.

Other troops attacked Sonaguera but also were repelled. At Saba and near Progreso, government troops defeated rebels headed by Mariano Gonzales and Ladislao Santos.

La Ceiba was not attacked. American warships will arrive there early Monday.

The government is taking energetic measures and possibly will declare martial law Monday.

WASHINGTON, April 19. (US)—Honduras was in the throes of a revolution tonight and concern was felt for the safety of American lives, according to advices received here.

Three American warships were ordered to speed to the north coast of Honduras and protect American citizens.

Breaking out suddenly, the revolution in Honduras overshadowed the situation in Nicaragua, where bandits have opened a new offensive marked by murders of American citizens.

The U. S. S. Memphis was ordered to leave Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, for La Ceiba, Honduras, where the light cruiser is due to arrive at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

Air Carrier Moved

Orders were sent by the navy department to the commander of the scouting force at Guantanamo, Cuba, to despatch immediately two other cruisers to Honduras.

One will go to Trujillo, while the other was ordered to Puerto Cortes.

The aircraft carrier Langley was ordered to Puerto Cabezas to replace the Memphis.

Gen. Ramon Diaz is leading the revolutionary forces, according to advices received by the state department. He has captured the town of Progreso and with 800 men was reported to be heading toward Tela, on the Honduran coast.

Country Restless

Unrest, born of business depression and unemployment, was said to have reached revolution temper in other Honduran communities along the north coast.

Julius G. Lay, American minister to Honduras, received reports from the American vice consuls at several communities yesterday that there were rumors of a revolution about to break forth.

BOSTON, April 19. (AP)—The Boston fishing trawler Comber, which sent out an SOS last night giving her position about 400 miles out of Boston, was believed to be on her way here today. No word was received from her since a message shortly before midnight saying everything was "O. K."

The Comber was disabled by a leaking boiler. Her first message requested assistance and the coast guard cutter Agassiz, about 100 miles away, was ordered to speed to the disabled craft.

The last message said the boiler had been repaired and that low pressure was then available.

Slayer Hangs Girl From Lonely Oak

SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 19. (AP)—Dangling from a 15-foot rope which had been thrown over the limb of a tree, the nearly nude body of pretty 17-year-old Louise Teuber was found today at the base of Black mountain in the eastern part of the city.

Discovery of the body was by T. Martinez, who, with his family, was seeking a picnic location. Police and deputy sheriffs said the girl had been dead about eight hours.

Clad only in a pair of black shoes and gun metal colored hose, the body was found in a half-sitting position with the heels resting on the ground. One end of the rope, tied in double halfhitch, was drawn tightly around Miss Teuber's neck, run over the tree limb with the other end anchored to the base of another tree 15 or 20 feet away.

Officers found Miss Teuber's fur-trimmed coat, green dress and underclothing nearby. A package containing a woman's brassiere and a pair of hose, which, according to a purchase slip found with them, had been bought yesterday in a downtown store here, also was picked up.

A pocket of the girl's coat contained four addresses, three of them men and the other of Miss Mary Beatty.

Miss Beatty quickly identified the body as that of Miss Teuber, an employe of a downtown department store.

The only tangible clues to identity of the slayer was the peculiar knot tied in the rope around Miss Teuber's neck and an army blanket found with the clothing.

The knot was of a type known to all sailors and officers immediately started a hunt for

MEMPHIS SENDS HELP IN FIGHT TO SAVE TOWN

Prowlers Take Switch Key From Fire Engine And Start Blazes

ALL-NIGHT BATTLE

Valiant Efforts of Two Sets Of Volunteers Hold Loss To Minimum

Special to The Record News.

ESTELLINE, Texas, April 19.—After the switch key of the principal fire-fighting machine in the city had been stolen, flames simultaneously swept through two downtown business houses on opposite sides of the square here after midnight Saturday, threatening the entire town before Estelline and Memphis volunteers won an all-night battle for control. One Memphis fireman was slightly hurt and damage of approximately $21,500 was incurred.

The fire was discovered when a nightwatchman found a gasoline saturated sack pushed under the door of the E. and P. Chevrolet company garage, where flames first appeared. While firemen were shorting the truck wire circuit to start the keyless fire engine, the J. L. McCollum general merchandise store burst into flame.

Call Outside Help

With the first blaze apparently under control, the meager equipment was concentrated upon the second until five automobiles stored in scattered corners of the garage blazed simultaneously, starting the fire anew.

An emergency call for help brought the Memphis truck and 10 firemen who joined the local men in a struggle that lasted until dawn.

Several automobiles were entirely destroyed and about 25 damaged in the garage fire, where losses were estimated at approximately $1,500.

Stock Destroyed

The McCollum store stock was practically destroyed by fire, smoke and water, and firemen were forced to hack holes in the blazing roof and throw streams of water on the flames within. Losses will exceed $30,000, owners estimated.

While battling the two buildings already aflame, firemen worked through the night to save adjoining structures and stayed on duty after the flames had subsided for fear of a fresh outbreak.

Belief that the two fires were of incendiary origin and were started by prowlers who first broke into the fire station to steal the key brought investigations Sunday. No trace of robbery had been found Sunday night, but the inquiry will be continued Monday.

Co-Ed, Kidnaped by Ex-Husband, Outwits Captors After Wild Ride

MADISON, Wis., April 19. (UP)—Miss Helen Fisher, New York university co-ed who was kidnaped last Thursday night, obtained her release from three captors here today after a melodramatic ruse which ended an automobile dash half way across the country.

Sheriff Fred Finn arrested Harry H. Brill, 20, a former Minnesota university student; Howard Caldwell, a St. Paul sign painter, and Elmer Peterson, a St. Paul pressman, and held them without charges for New York authorities. Sheriff Finn said another man, Robert Hoffnagel, was under arrest in New York in connection with the same case.

Miss Fisher, a pretty 20-year-old girl, formerly of St. Paul, Minn., was on the verge of collapse, hysterical and physically weakened but managed to tell the sheriff how Brill, whose marriage to her was annulled last year, engineered the kidnaping after she had obtained an injunction to keep him from annoying her.

She said she went to New York and was attending classes there in the City college. When she was returning to her room Thursday night Hoffnagel, she said, threw a coat over her head, dragged her into a waiting automobile and sped 15 miles out of the city, whereupon she was transferred to Peterson's car.

Brill, Caldwell and Peterson then started on a race westward, she continued, keeping her by force from crying out for help. In Buf-

REVOLT RAGES IN HONDURAS

U. S. Sends Warships To Protect Citizens

report on the situation, Secretary of State Stimson conferred with Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations. Orders went forth at once to despatch the warships, to protect American lives.

The state department was without confirmation of rumors that Dr. Vincente Majia Colindres, president of Honduras, had been overthrown. The reports from Honduras given out by the state department indicated that the revolution was chiefly in the northern part of the country, but spreading.

Women Concentrate

American women and children in the Truxillo district were reported as having been concentrated at Castilla. The Standard Fruit company was reported as having a ship in the harbor of Tela. The vessel is being held there to evacuate Americans if necessary.

Anticipating the arrival of the insurgent General Diaz, civilians in Tela were reported to be arming themselves for an encounter.

The situation in Honduras was represented as entirely different from that in Nicaragua. In the former there appears to be an organized attempt to overthrow the government. In Nicaragua the present activities are those of bandits under Sandino.

Orders were said to have been given to the officers of the American warships despatched to Honduras to limit operations to making provisions for the safety of the lives and property of American citizens in coast towns.

Men Landed

Orders for three more warships to enter the Central American trouble zone, brought the total to seven in that area. The navy department was advised that the cruiser Rochester from Balboa, Canal Zone, reached Bluefields, Nicaragua, this morning.

The gunboat Asheville is at Cape Gracias Adios, Nicaragua, and the gunboat Sacramento is at Bluefields.

Before leaving Puerto Cabezas, the cruiser Memphis landed a force of one officer and 13 enlisted men, with arms and ammunition to protect Americans there pending the arrival of another American warship.

The American consul at Bluefields reported that in view of repeated rumors of an attack by bandits on the El Gallo Fruit company plantation at Galloon, three American marine officers and 27 men from the Nicaraguan national guard had been sent there.

Upon arriving at Bluefields at 5:35 o'clock this morning, the Rochester landed a force of one officer and 30 enlisted men.

A lull in bandit operations in Nicaragua was reported to the state department from its agents there. Quietness generally prevailed. At Puerto Cabezas and Cabo Gracios a Dios, which had been the center of much violence, the tension of natives and foreigners had lessened.

Fear of Attack May Drive Alfonso To Seek Seclusion in Rural Town

PARIS, April 19. (AP)—Desiring to avoid possible complications, French police are understood to have invited the Duke of Toledo, formerly Alfonso XIII of Spain, to retire with his suite from Paris if he intends to remain in France.

It was pointed out that France can not prevent fanatics from crossing the frontier, and attacking the royal visitors. It is hinted the cabinet discussed the problem of the exiled king's safety last night and a police official later visited the Duke of Miranda, Alfonso's chamberlain.

The former monarch was unofficially reported to be planning to seek refuge at a Fountainebleau hotel tomorrow or Tuesday. The police attitude is that he could be better protected against a possible attack in some smaller locality.

MADRID, April 19. (AP)—After a tempestuous week which saw the ancient Spanish monarchy swept aside and a republic established, the new government today took inventory of its accomplishments during its brief existence and counted 11 nations which have given it recognition.

The country was reported peaceful today, in contrast with the excitement of last Sunday's epochal elections.

The countries which have recognized the new republic, according to the announcement here, are Greece, France, Mexico, Portugal, Uruguay, Cuba, Chile, Argentina, Turkey, Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia. The provisional government feels confident the United States and other powers will soon take similar action.

10 Tickets for Each Town in Wichita Territory Posted For Awards First Week; "Secret Six" to Open

Out-of-town readers of The Record News who want to win free tickets to the Strand theater this week have four more days to prepare their letters before the close of the first week's contest Thursday night.

The Record News is giving away each week in each town of this territory, 10 free tickets to the Strand theater for the best letters discussing Wichita Falls or some activity in Wichita Falls. The first week's contest will close Thursday night, and the second week's contest will open Friday morning.

Contestants should remember that 10 tickets are being given away in every town—in other words if letters are sent in from 10 towns The Record News will give out 100 tickets to the Strand theater this first week. The contest will run for three weeks, the first week ending Thursday night, April 23; the second Thursday night, April 30; and the third Thursday night, May 7.

Tickets awarded as prizes in the first week's contest will be good for four days. Incidentally, holders of these tickets will get to see Wallace Beery and Lewis Stone in "The Secret Six," declared one of the most thrilling pictures ever produced. Beery plays the role of "Slaughterhouse" Scorpio in this film, and his characterization is said to be even better than his work in "The Big House."

In writing letters for the contest, there are no set rules or subjects. The contestant can select his own theme just so it pertains to Wichita Falls. He can write anywhere from 10 to 200 words. He may even write more, if he desires, but The Record News prefers that letters be made 200 words or less.

Send the letter to the Movie Contest Editor, care of The Record News. Tickets to winners will be mailed out Friday.

The contest is open to all residents of towns in the Wichita Falls territory (Wichita Falls excepted)—Archer City, Grandfield, Iowa Park, Olney, Graham, Bellevue, Henrietta, Waurika, Burkburnett, Electra, Devol, Randlett, Seymour and all other towns in this area. Ten tickets have been set aside for each of these towns for the best letters received this week.

"The Secret Six" will open Friday at the Strand, and will run for four days.

EAST TEXAS C-C MEETING OPENS

Business Leaders Gather in Annual Convention

MARLIN, Texas, April 19. (AP)—East Texas business leaders gathered here today for the opening of the fifth annual convention of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce. Two special trains from Dallas, one from Houston, and another from Fort Worth were expected tomorrow, besides a delegation from Waco coming in automobiles.

Marlin residents meanwhile festooned the streets with flags and made holiday. Today's program was largely religious, special services being held at all churches. The Marlin High school band gave a concert in the municipal pavilion during the afternoon. Directors of the East Texas chamber and their wives were guests of the local chamber at a dinner; and the evening was given over to a religious mass meeting at the First Methodist church.

United States Senator Morris Sheppard of Texarkana gave an address on "Christianity as the Basis of Modern Society and Government" at the night service.

Tap Dancing Number Will Not Be Given At Church Program

IOWA PARK, Texas, April 19.—Wednesday morning, April 15, The Record News published a program to be given by Miss Katherine Sue Ralston's pupils at the dress contest of the home demonstration club, at the First Mehodist church in Iowa Park. This program was planned to include tap dancing and was to be presented at the high school building. Due to conflict with the home economic meeting, scheduled for the high school building on this date, the transfer to the church was made and through error the wrong program was printed. The program to be presented at the church will not include tap dancing, or dancing of any kind.

passage of this old world delegation into the land of the free.

The king was under the care of his physician because of an attack of malaria and bronchitis which came upon him in mid-Pacific last week, and Queen Rambai preferred to remain secluded with his majesty. Both had detrained at division points across western Canada for brief intervals, closely guarded by Canadian officials.

Reports from Vancouver, B. C., where the king disembarked from the S. S. Empress of Japan had indicated that Prajadhipok was suffering some pain but not dangerously ill. Canadian officials turned their responsibility into the hands of United States special agents who met the train at Portal.

Village Turns Out

Although it was nearly midnight before the Canadian Pacific pulled the king's train up to the border, most of Portal's 512 souls were at the little station, hoping for a glimpse of the 98-pound monarch. Boys with lean hounds at their heels, men and women in the plain dress of North Dakota farmers made up the delegation. Ike J. Donovan, acting mayor of Portal, was leader of his townsmen.

Portal had spent an ordinary Sunday. Most of its citizens went to church in the morning. In the afternoon a few of them walked across the main street which serves as an international boundary, took rooms in the Canadian Grandview hotel and drank bass ale to the health of the Siamese king.

Others went down the border a few hundred yards to watch an amateur baseball game by teams from Portal and North Portal, Sask.

Sundown failed to quiet a rowdy wind which had filled the air with dust in the afternoon. It was still blustering and cold when a long blast from a locomotive was the signal for the arrival of the royal train. A few minutes later the beams of a headlight and the grinding of brakes announced that the United States was receiving its first visit from an Asiatic monarch.

While department of state representatives exchanged courtesies with the royal party the train was iced and watered by crews working under the personal supervision of Soo line officials who had come to Portal from Minneapolis.

Within 30 minutes the task was done and the kingly entourage, enriched now by the addition of American diplomats, special agents and newspaper men, was away on its 600-mile run to Minneapolis.

Labor Plans Drive for 'Temperance and Sanity'

WASHINGTON, April 19. (AP)—Organized labor today announced plans for initiating a nation-wide campaign for "a return of temperance and sanity" through modification of the Volstead act.

Announcement was made by labor's national committe for modification, set up by the American Federation of Labor, that a meeting would be held in Philadelphia April 27 and 28 by approximately 300 elected delegates from all parts of the country.

Matthew Woll, president of the committee and a vice president of the American Federation of Labor, said "a network of local organizations reaching into every American community will be formed" immediately after the conference.

Meantime, the Methodist episcopal board of temperance hit out again at the Quebec liquor control system. An article in its weekly clip-sheet said the board had reached the "staggering conclusion that apart from its consumption of beers, Quebec has, through its liquor commission sales, increased its consumption of absolute alcohol over 64 per cent in six years."

The announcement from the labor committee of its plan of campaign for a return of beer and wine said it intended to "use all honorable means" to secure this end.

GIRL'S BODY FOUND NEAR CLINTON, IOWA

CLINTON, Iowa, April 19. (AP)—The body of an unidentified girl about 22 years old was found in the Wapsiconon river, 10 miles south of here today. Apparently she had been murdered.

A rock had been tied around her neck and one on her feet. Brass wire was used to secure the rocks. The body was discovered about noon today by two fishermen who failed to give their names.

They notified Sheriff E. R. Cooke and Coroner L. O. Riggert of Clinton, who examined the body.

The sheriff said that apparently the body had been tossed off a high bank nearby. Dr. Riggert indicated that he believed the girl was choked to death. A wound near the heart, apparently inflicted by a small pointed instrument, such as an ice pick, was not serious enough to have caused death, the doctor said.

The girl was about five feet, seven inches tall, weighed 125 pounds, had dark auburn hair and was dressed in a dark blue ensemble with sports shoes, the sheriff said. A signet ring, one with a yellow gold band and two crests of roses, two handkerchiefs and a skeleton key were the only possessions.

Bridged teeth and marks of an operation may assist officers in identifying the body, Dr. Riggert believes.

falo, N. Y., and in a town in Ohio, she said, she managed to scribble notes for help during brief stops for food.

During another such stop early today at La Porte, Ind., she wrote a third note which she left in a rest room. It read:

"Have been kidnaped. Please inform —— at Port Richmond, N. Y. Our next stop Park hotel Madison. My clothes sent there. Helen Fisher."

Sheriff Tom McDonald of La Porte, who refused to divulge the name mentioned in the note, telephoned Sheriff Finn here. The latter had his men waiting at the Park hotel when Peterson, Brill, Caldwell and Miss Fisher drove up late this afternoon.

The sheriff hustled the three men to jail and obtained medical attention for Miss Fisher, who then sobbed out her story.

She said that she married Brill two years ago, but that their parents forced annullment of the marriage because of their youth. He thereupon threatened to commit suicide unless she remarried him and once did shoot himself, she continued.

Miss Fisher, meanwhile, said she had inherited an estate of $50,000 at Power, Minn., and had gone to New York to study when Hoffnagel bundled her into the car and her impetuous exhusband rushed her back toward their old home in St. Paul.

Wichita Falls Will Invite Next District Conference

Invitations to be extended to the first district, T. F. W. C., for the 1932 convention are a matter of unusual interest to local clubwomen this year, though they will not be extended until the last day of the meeting. Mrs. Newton Maer will invite the federation to meet in Wichita Falls at that time.

Members of the executive board will be in Graham at noon today to take part in the board luncheon to be given in the basement of the Methodist church, with Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, president of the district, presiding. This luncheon will also mark the 30th anniversary of first district and the 20th anniversary of the Graham Chatauqua club, hostess club.

In the afternoon a garden party at the home of Mrs. A. A. Morrison will be open to all visitors and delegates. President's evening will be observed this evening when Mrs. Oneal will speak on "Woman, the Builder," and Ex-Governor Pat Neff will make an address.

Tuesday morning delegates will register from 8 to 9 o'clock and at 9 o'clock the convention proper will open. Mrs. H. E. Griffin reported Saturday that 140 delegates had been heard from. Business committees will report. Atty. Gen. James V. Allred and Mrs. R. F. Lindsey, president of T. F. W. C., will be speakers. Reports of delegates will begin with the last letter of the alphabet, so that the reports from Wichita Falls delegates will come early in the session. The public welfare luncheon will take place at noon with Mrs. R. R. Darrah presiding.

In the afternoon reports from delegates and chairmen will again be featured and at 4:30 o'clock men's clubs of Graham will honor the federation body with a barbecue. The feature of Tuesday evening will be "16 Rue Pigalle," given as the fine arts program by Fort Worth. Wichita Falls and Graham artists.

Wednesday morning at 8:15 a parliamentary drill will be given by Mrs. Ola G. Hamlin and the convention will open at 9 a. m., when a club institute will be held by Mrs. R. E. Buchanan of Fort Worth. An address will be made by Mrs. W. R. Potter, state director to the national federation and at noon Mrs. J. L. Hard will preside at the press and publicity luncheon. Paul Wakefield, private secretary to Governor Sterling, will be the chief speaker. Mr. Wakefield is an ex-newspaper man who managed the campaign of the governor and who was sent to Europe on a special commission by President Hoover.

Wednesday afternoon the conference will be closed. Election of officers will take place and prizes will be awarded. Delegates must be present to receive prizes. Invitations for the 1932 meeting will also be made at this time.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Ethel Barrymore seems to have departed from more than one precedent following her appearance in Wichita Falls Thursday night. Immediately on the curtain's fall, several young people dashed madly to the stage. In their wake, members of the junior college Blue Curtain club, quite formal in tuxedoes and evening frocks, followed their director behind the scenes—embryo actors and actresses seeking a word from the leader in the profession.

It was not long before mothers of the first contingent went stumbling back to see what had become of their progeny. The stage was a strange world. Dozens of workmen were taking down the magnificent Barrymore properties while worried managers kept snapping out "Step on the gas! Step on the gas!"

The first young girls to arrive, then the embryo Thespians and finally the anxious mothers and chaperons were herded together into a small room out of danger—a room from which one could gaze up a passageway to the star's dressing room. There were three figures standing immovably in the doorway—a tall young blonde, a small bobbed admirer from Henrietta and a school girl usher with lovely Titian hair.

It was only a few moments until an awed murmur arose, "She's coming—she's coming," and down the passage the artist moved with that same glow on her face that shone in the high points of her play.

Tired—yes, a little. But really interested in children and young people who waited so eagerly for her. A mother always. Mascara on the lashes of her heavy eyelids, yes—but eyelids that were raised high enough so that her glorious gray eyes might shine on every one.

"I'm always glad to see the little ones," she said in the throaty voice that had carried through the auditorium and she gave the small Henrietta girl a special smile.

Some one spoke of liking Texas and asked eagerly, "Have you seen our bluebonnets?" The gray eyes flashed wide. "Have I" she repeated—then with an inimitably graceful gesture with her lovely hands, "why I've seen acres and acres of them and they came right in the car to me with their odor."

She missed nothing. One of the hands that spoke whole sentences in gesture, reached out and touched the school girl usher's head. "That beautiful hair," she murmurmed. And doubtless the school girl felt that she had received an accolade.

Of course every young person there carried a program and the blonde at the door had an editorial pencil. The Barrymore autographed one after another in a script that showed vivid personality. Then the pencil was handed back to the happy owner; it will probably be examined for finger prints then framed with the autograph for future generations.

The program in Fort Worth Saturday was their third radio performance, they having played in Wichita Falls and Amarillo on different occasions.

Roy C. Shelton, junior coach of the Estelline High school, is the manager and goes with the boys on their trips.

Spirit Of Texas Featured In Junior Forum Program

More than the usual patriotic appeal was felt at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Saturday in the luncheon and program of the Junior Forum members. Bowls and baskets of bluebonnets, alternating with the vivid gold of the calendula, made a typically Texas decorative motif and the program included original work of Texas writers.

Miss Mary Hamilton gave a group of readings from Carl Wilson Baker, Texas lyric poetess, including "Gray," an exquisite nature poem, "The Housewife," and "The World at the Bottom of the Lake." The beauty of the verses was given perfect expression by the talented reader.

Miss Bertha Mae Kruger, local poetess whose work has been recognized as of unusual talent, read four of her own compositions, "Clipped Wings," "On Being as Tall as the Moon," "The Only Flood," and a noble composition on the Scripture verse, "I have caused thee to see the promised land but thou shalt not go over into it." Beautiful ideals, intense humor and nobility of conception were demonstrated in the verses which were beautifully given.

Miss Mary Tancred, who presided thanked Mrs. Darrold Kahn for her splendid work in composing, setting to music and directing the operetta. "Opera Versus Jazz" given by Junior Forum members and Mrs. Kahn was gracious and graceful in response. Misses Shelby Mitcham and Roberta King were introduced as new members and Mrs. Sam Mann, Misses Agnes Morton and Burns Irby as guests. Miss Mary Louise Staley and Miss Gilbert were welcomed as "home coming" girls.

Gift to Forum

In accordance with the usual splendid work of the Junior Forum, the group voted a gift of $75 to the senior forum. Each year since its organization, the Junior Forum has presented the senior club with a gift manifesting an unusual spirit of cooperation.

Miss Jeannette Moore and Mrs. Thomas Korn were named delegates to the first district T. F. W. C. meeting in Graham Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Miss Moore will make an oral report for the club and Mrs. Korn will be on the press and publicity program Wednesday at luncheon, a special tribute to the junior club for its splendid 1929-1930 work.

Mrs. T. A. Hicks gave a clever parliamentary drill to close the day's program.

Among the members and guests registering were Misses Mary Louise Staley, Lydia Cook, Marguerite Peery, Mary Virginia Barron, Marjorie Bright, Mary Tancred, Mary Hamilton, Dorothy Lee Taylor, Jeannette Moore, Bertha Mae Kruger, Kay Cason, Roberta King, Mariette Hunt, Dorothy Knight, Mary Sue Gilbert, Elizabeth Gilbert, Shelby Mitcham, Kathleen Melat, Adeena Kouri, Laure Burns, Agnes Morton, Elizabeth Allbritton, Elsie Fay Barron, Mable Rowe, Jonnie Green Hawkins, Frances Gardner, Burns Irby, Mary C. Spring shopping week at the Telephone Office

Have you ever included the telephone office on your spring shopping tour?

If you haven't, spend an interesting half hour there this spring. Learn some of the things that can be done to save you time, work and worry during spring housecleaning time, and add to your pleasure and enjoyment the year round.

Saving Steps for the Housewife

It's no joke to climb up and down the stairs all day. Many a tired woman, at the end of a particularly hard day, vows that woman's work, indeed, is never done.

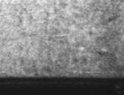

One solution is an extension telephone...upstairs ...or in the kitchen. Or, if you live in a large bungalow or apartment ... an extension in a rear bedroom. You'll be surprised at the small cost.

℞ For Housecleaning Victims

If you haven't a telephone already, you'll be surprised to see how one helps. It saves weary shopping trips, brings needed supplies post haste from drug store or grocery, relieves the monotony of housework by making possible intimate chats with friends. Some folks go so far as to maintain that it soothes the temper and sweetens the disposition!

It's really an asset all the year... helpful in times of pleasure, comfort or emergency. In cost it's just about the cheapest servant you can hire—works for you for a few cents a day.

The telephone book is its best testimonial. Most of the names have been there for years.

Handsets are easier to use than other telephones, designed with graceful, flowing lines, and cost (in black) only 25 cents a month additional.

Tactics for Cleaning Campaigns

We suggest that you carry your telephone with you during housecleaning time...to basement, bedrooms, sun room.

Portable telephones cost comparatively little. You plug them into sockets like floor lamps or vacuum cleaners. Then you answer calls or order groceries and supplies without leaving your work.

They're handy, too, for guest room, sick room, sewing room.

For Spring Gardeners...

Lots of folks tell us that when they're outside washing windows or working on spring flower beds, they can't hear the telephone ringing inside.

To them, we recommend extension bells, gongs, or sirens. Put one in your kitchen ...it will ring loudly enough to prevent loss of important calls.

If you live with relatives of another name, you can list your name with their telephone number for a few cents a month. Ask for an "extra listing."

Call or visit the telephone office and ask about the services described here. Or talk with any telephone employee (Except operators on duty). Your order will be taken care of promptly. — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Mr. Gandhi in Trousers
A Shirtless Prince
Political Broomstick
Recommending Divorce

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Mr. Gandhi, little man weighing less than 100 pounds, who goes around in a loose robe, regrets he will have to wear trousers when he goes to London for a round-table conference on the Indian constitution. American gentlemen, torturing themselves in evening dress, will envy Mr. Gandhi's independence in refusing to wear a white, starched shirt even for the king of England. If he has to go to Buckingham palace he will not wear silk knee breeches either.

"I am ugly enough without such foppery," he says.

You have to admire this candid little man who knows himself. And because he knows himself the British empire is ready to listen to him.

But Mr. Gandhi, like the rest of us, has clung to his superstitions. He has been wearing a pigtail, known as a "chutia." It is a long tuft of hair worn religiously by Hindus who believe that it enables friends, when the wearer dies, to pull him out of hell. Mr. Gandhi will shave off the pigtail. Many of us, wearing our own pigtails of superstition, would not be as brave.

Prince George, of England, lies on the beach of Sao Paulo, Brazil, without his shirt, and the event is radioed from one end of creation to another. Clyde Beatty, circus performer who arrived in New York the other day with the Ringling Brothers' troupe, performs twice a day with 28 lions and tigers—and the feat is accepted as a matter of course.

The apple vendor on the street corner or the hobo on Cratham square may express himself in words of Socratic wisdom. No one will heed him. But a platitude by George Bernard Shaw or Mussolini will be repeated to the end of time.

It is not sufficient, obviously to be brave or wise. First, you must be famous or powerful.

The Hon. Mr. Cermak, new mayor of Chicago, makes good use of his political broomstick. He sweeps out 2,200 from political jobs. About 800 more superfluities are to be thrown out. The total refuse may come up to 3,000 Thompson appointees. Presumably all of them believed the king of England was planning to seize Chicago.

Every administration has its parasites, its holders of sinecures, persons who do nothing and draw fat salaries. That as many as 3,000 could be dropped without interfering with the business of governing Chicago is something for tax payers to think about. But it would not surprise many if New York got along with a dumping of 5,000. Anyhow, someone ought to do a little broom-sweeping in Gotham. But politicians are too busy vindicating themselves.

Girls who dread the prospects of divorce should marry before they are 25. This is the suggestion of former Judge George A. Bartlett, contained in his book "Men, Women and Conflict" which concerns itself, as the title implies, with social relationships, and principally with the institution which we call marriage.

Judge Bartlett sees no cause for alarm in the increase of divorce, nor does he see anything deplorable or disgraceful in it. As a matter of fact, he is willing to believe it is a healthy sign. He recommends it as "a sort of clean and justifiable surgery."

The trouble is, there are too many people who prefer going through life suffering the most excruciating tortures of body and soul, the most degrading humiliations rather than submit to any kind of operation. These people do no tknow that they have died long ago.

Beauty in Business

A FEW years hence, according to a writer in the current issue of the American Architect, every business man will be an artist.

This, it seems, will not be because of any sudden flowering of a latent creative impulse. Rather it will be because business is learning that beauty has a high sales value. Beautiful things sell better than ugly things. Everybody is going to have to fall in line.

"This all means," says the magazine writer, "that soon a new generation will be in our midst, a generation with a fine conception of art and beauty, a conception so fine that it will pervade all business. And so, the business man brought up in this atmosphere must of necessity be himself an artist if he is to survive the stern competition of a business world actuated by beauty."

It is at least encouraging to realize that beauty, in America, does have a high sales value nowadays. In the past—even the recent past—this has not always been quite true. Certain real estate developments on the edges of great cities, for example, have contained houses as supremely ugly as anything man ever made anywhere. There have been times when Americans went in for furniture that was frankly hideous. Some of the proudest buildings and monuments in some of our leading cities have been of a kind to give an artistic person the shudders.

So, if a new order is coming into existence, we can only be thankful. It is, of course, overdoing it a little to say that every business man will be an artist. Probably it would be nearer the mark to say that every big business man will take pains to hire artists.

All of this is just another indication that the frontier period in American life is passing. Until very recently, the entire nation was under the dominance of a frontier atmosphere, even though the actual physical frontier had long since passed out of existence.

A frontier society values deeds above all else. It puts the doer on a pedestal, and either refuses altogether to put up with the artist and the thinker or, at best, barely tolerates them. It is bound to display that attitude. It has too much work to do to display any other.

Today America is just emerging from that frame of mind. The actual hostility to beautiful things which critics of American life observed in the past is disappearing. The artist, along with other creative workers, is getting a better break.

The Beauty of Forgiveness

MORE wonderful than the beginning of a beautiful friendship is the mending of a broken one. To forget and to forgive is still the noblest concession man can make; it inspires in him, in our opinion, his most heroic quality.

Quite casually the other day it was reported, and with not too much emphasis, that David Belasco, famed producer and Mrs. Leslie Carter, his renowned first "star," had become friends again after a feud which separated them for more than 25 years.

It was a bitter feud, as every drama lover of the time will recall. Mrs. Carter, at the height of her dramatic fame after successes in "The Heart of Maryland," "Zaza" and "Dubarry," violated a Belasco precept by her secret marriage. The producer vowed never to speak to her again.

Now, a quarter of a century later, Mrs. Carter confides from her Hollywood home that she is preparing once again to appear under Belasco's management. "We are good friends now," she declares.

However you regard this historic episode, you must admit it presents its moral. It is that no breach is so bitter but what time, that great healer, can mend it again. The world would be a sweeter place to live in if differences which keep people and nations at odds could be settled with the same spirit that Belasco and Mrs. Carter have ended their breach.

Remnants

My scars will heal in time—my bitterness
Will fade to sheer oblivion at last;
The weight of memories will cease to press—
And I will grow forgetful of the past;
The time will come when your enchanting ghost
Will fail to haunt my deep, untroubled rest,
And you will be a stranger at the most,
A trivial and most infrequent guest.

But yet, it may be good for you to know
That you have marred a magic world for me;
That all my days are meaningless and slow—
And I am stranger, now, to ecstasy;
With little left to offer to the maid
Who comes too late to pillage and to raid!
—Young Man of Manhattan.

Gag

At the Mayor Walker testimonial dinner given by the Joosh Theatrical guild on the Sabbath evening, Harry Hershfield told the one about the palooka fighter whose manager kept yelling: "Hit the big bum, the big stiff, the big tramp! Hit him good!"

But the "big bum" proved to be the better walloper during the first two rounds, handing the palooka a sweet pasting. When the third round began, the manager again yowled: "Don't mind that big bum, hit that tramp!"

When the palooka got into a clinch he turned to his manager and cried: "Cut it out will yuh? He's beginning to hit me for you, now!"

Merciless Truth

Hershfield also comforted the Mayor by reminding him that only a friend can become an enemy—a relative is one from the start!

Oop!

George Jessel, the Guild's first-rate toastmaster, has no patience with feeble speech-makers and always crushes them with a squelch when they flop. At the dinner to the Mayor, Jessel stifled several false alarms—and then after getting a loud laugh at their expense, he turned to the victim and said: "I'm only kidding."

However, Walter C. Kelly evened matters for all concerned when he called Jessel "one of Gus Edwards' juvenile delinquents."

You've Met the Type

(From "Moon Over B'way.")

Two wives, whose pet hobby is squandering their husband's money, were waiting for some one to open the door of a new gambling house.

"I hear," said the first, "that the wheel here is crooked."

"Sh-h-h," cautioned the other, "they might not let us in!"

Hehehch

Harry Merer wonders what we all are coming to. "I've just seen my neighbor's husband," he writes, "with another loaf of bread; and I'll bet they haven't a drop of whisky in the house."

O, Mr. Wlistach!

Suggested for the simile dictionary: John Broughan's: As eloquent as a bushel of alphabets . . . Ted Cook's: As obscure as last year's Miss America . . . Russell Crouse's: As unlikely as finding "old age" on a gangster's death certificate . . . Chauncey W. Keim's: As balled up like a pool table . . . Noel Coward's: Women are like songs—they should be struck regularly . . . Bugs Baer's: Her face looked like an overstrung ukulele, and the Pathfinder's: As hard to slam as a revolving door.

Newspaperman Stuff

Editor and Publisher tells of the thoughtful editorship displayed by the Miami Daily News when the news of Rockne's death reached the town. The paper had just gone to press and the editor had replated. Newsboys were calling the extra on the street when the word came that Mrs. Rockne had just been seen entering a department store.

The managing editor immediately decided that she must be protected from the shock of hearing her husband's death cried out by newsboys, so he assigned several reporters to the store. The boys were silenced until Mrs. Rockne reached home, where she received the news.

Just Like a Mother

Irving Caesar, who helped write Jolson's new show "Wonder Bar," says that his mother always has to see his shows twice.

The other night he asked her why she had to see them a second time.

"Becuss," she replied, as she tenderly fingered his brow, "de foist time I look on the pipple's faces to see if dey are enjoying it."

Rhapsody in Dialect

Then there's the one about Lou Holtz's mother, who met Lyda Roberti, another dialectician, starring in Holtz's "You Said It" show. Lou brought Lyda up to the house for dinner the other night, and the girls began talking shop. Lyda had been out of the cast because of illness.

"You know," said Mrs. Holtz, "de rizzon you was so seeck was becuss de audience employs you too motch."

"You minning to say, Mrs. Holtz," corrected Lyda, "dot dey geev me too much opplous!"

"Look, look!" exclaimed Mrs. Holtz, "she's in dis country hunly two years and I'm in dis country already forty years and she's taling me how to tukk Haingliah!"

The Vienna Manner

I. Kaye Davis, an ambitious playwright, thinks the critics conspire against him. Once he publicly announced that his plays failed because the critics "went into a huddle" between acts and plotted against him.

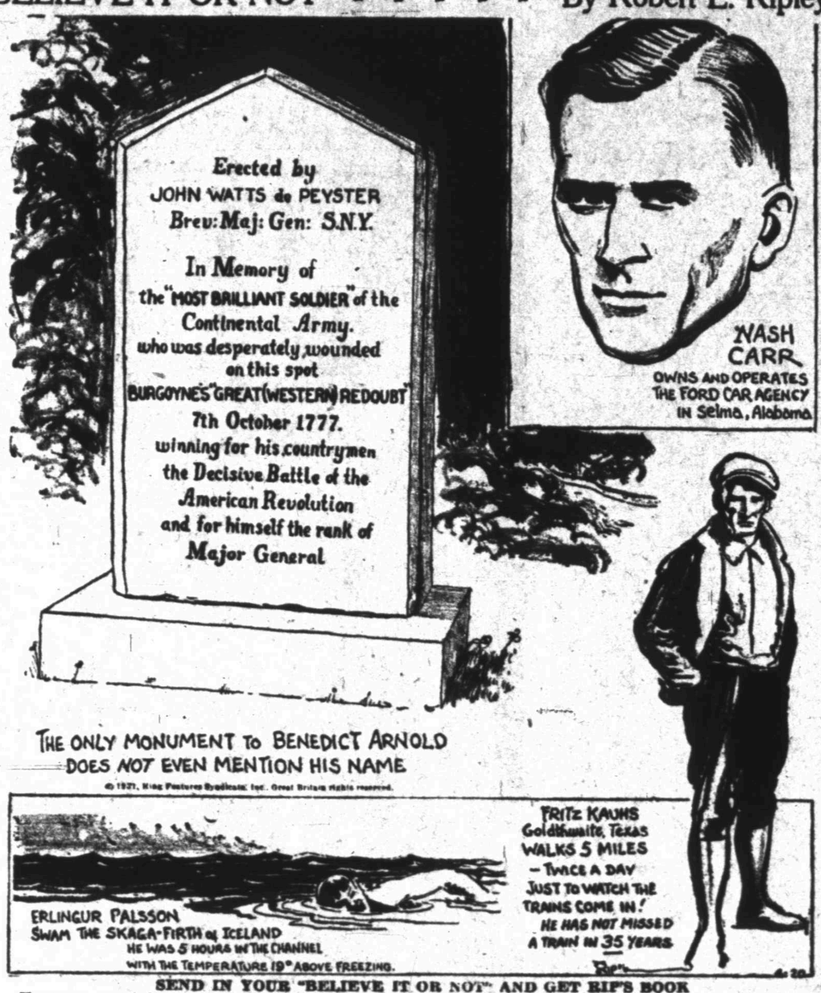

Recently one of his pieces was produced in Vienna, where one critic shouted his protest over the production from his seat. "It is an outrage," the critic yelled, "to make people see such a show. I am leaving immediately."

The show closed that eve, before the critics' reviews appeared, so some of us are wondering how Mr. Davis will explain that.

SYNOPSIS

When Helen Heather becomes engaged to Tommy Delamater there is quite a stir in the social circles of Kingsway. Helen is by far the most popular girl in town. And Tommy, has an assured social position, as his father is president of the bank in which Helen is a typist. Helen lives with her cousin, Nina Higginson, a young and wealthy widow, who had married a man much her senior, after throwing over the courtly Ethan Gingsway. Free again, Nina sets her cap for Ethan once more. She even follows him to Europe. Tommy's father has secured a place for him in a bank in Wisconsin. Helen prepares to join her future husband. She gets a letter from Tommy breaking the engagement. It is plain that Mrs. Delamater has encouraged Tommy's action. Doris Milliken, who is secretly engaged to Nina's stepson, Ronny, tries to comfort Helen. Half sick, Helen wanders into the Kingsway grounds, not knowing Ethan has returned from Europe. Ethan and his little cousin, Patricia, sit on a bench near Helen. In trying to get away, Helen strikes the limb of a tree and is stunned.

In trying to get away, Helen strikes the limb of a tree and is stunned. The Kingsways take care of Helen.

She becomes governess for little Patricia.

INSTALLMENT XIV

Helen arose from the walnut chaise longue, and pulled herself together. She had forgotten herself and her troubles for the first time since they happened. She smiled. "I suppose it's because mother would have loved it all so," she said, and found her coat and hat and gloves and bag, and went down the hall again under the round walnut frames which held valuable engraved reproductions of Thorwaldsen's Night and Morning.

Someone stood at the head of the stairs, leaning lightly against the wall. She saw, with a little nervous shrinking, that it was Ethan. But when he turned to greet her there was none of the covert antagonism she had always felt under his manner. All the charm and friendliness he had half hidden, or held out and snatched back before, were here now with no hiding. Perhaps it was because he was in his own house. As friendly, as human and as simple as his mother had been, he looked at her, the curious long gray eyes narrowing into a friend's smile.

"You are better? I am so glad." The words were commonplace enough, but behind them were a warmth and actuality that Helen accepted with a feeling of peace. At least, this trouble was gone. . . . Perhaps Ethan felt a sympathy for anybody who had been jilted. . . . No, she wouldn' think about that all the time.

She smiled back at him, unconsciously, on her side, without any affectation of the stage flapper.

"I feel like a cool million. I don't know when I've had such a rest. I love your grandmother's room—wasn't it?"

"Yes, it was. You'd either like it or hate it. Her personality is so strong in it still that I believe people who sleep there might almost be calling on Grandmother." He spoke as to someone who would understand his language. Yes, they were friends. He was taking her in as one of this own kind.

"I felt as if I were back home." She gave him back friendship for friendship in those simply spoken words. They were not antagonists, suddenly.

"Did yo?" His voice was interested. "Yes, You would." He looked at her, suddenly, as if he had not seen her like this before, as if he were seeing something new. She wondered why; so far as she knew she was just the same. Then she realized that she had seen someone different in him, though the proud, easy figure, the strong grace and the gray eyes, were not changed. They were on common ground. They loved and knew the same things. The Ethan whose grandmother had owned the same green cloth set of George Eliot, and put her feet on the same Brussels hassocks that Helen's grandmother had, the Ethan whose great-grandparents had been simple and heroic and sentimental about the same civil war, and who had told the same jokes about President William Henry Harrison as Helen's, was more than her friend. He was her own kind. He was her ally. They had both known it underneath, and fought it. Now they were fighting no more.

She laughed, suddenly. Helen would laugh till she died. She made him a curtsy.

"If you please, sir. I am the governess."

Anything less like a governess, with all that light and color, had never been seen in the old Kingsway house.

He laughed, too. His face changed to the most helpless masculine relief she had ever seen in him. There were places where armored and invincible Mr. Kingsway was human, then! Helen, woman-like, liked him better for it.

"Thank the Lord!" said Ethan Kingsway. "You are really going to take charge of our little wild animal!"

"Oh, you really do need me, then?" Helen spoke with pleasure. "I was so afraid your mother was making a place for me. She is such a dear."

"Need you!" said Ethan bitterly. "I have done exactly one-half my work at the office since she came, and my polo is rotten, what there is of it. I liked my cousin John, but no man has any business to die and leave a child like that to a busy man and an invalid woman! You are the first person besides myself she has tolerated anything from."

"Well, that's a relief," Helen said, with her new-found friendliness. "I do like to be needed. But the whole situation was so exactly what any girl would be crazy to get, that I wasn't sure. Your mother is such a darling. And I love this home, of course. I never saw anything quite like it. As for Patricia, I really think I can manage her. She's such an—an exacting child!"

"I don't know," he said, "that any girl would find herself fitting into this household as you seem to be doing."

"Well, it's like this," said Helen. "All you need to do to be comfortable is to keep near people who think the same things are valuable, and the same things are worthless, that you do. If you begin having contacts with people who don't, you get into trouble."

"That's wisdom," said Ethan. "It took me a long time to learn it, but I think I am beginning to now. And," said Ethan, with a sudden forthrightness, "I want to apologize to you if you will let me, I have misjudged you. Will you forgive me, Miss Helen? Even—" his eyes lighted with amusement for the moment, "even if you've tried to make me misjudge you?"

Color and light flew to Helen's face.

"Why, of course, I forgive you!" she said. "If you thought I was horrid you couldn't help it, could you? And I did try to shock you, when I found you did," she added honestly.

"Thank you, Miss Helen," he said.

It was only when she was back at Mrs. Birch's sitting down to sort out her ideas, that she remembered something. Not a word had been said about Nina. Possessed with a curiosity which she felt was equal to Marietta's, she ventured to ask Mrs. Kingsway, two days after she had begun her duties as Patricia's professional aunt, if Ethan had seen her cousin when he was abroad.

"Nina never writes unless there is business to be attended to," she was able to say truthfully, "and I'll be glad to hear from her."

It was Patricia who answered, rejoiced to have any excuse to abandon her copybook. They were all three in the library by the hearth-fire.

"If her last name is Higginson, she telephoned twice. But Ethan didn't have time to see her. He had to hurry home with me."

Helen fled down the right-hand pathway of the maze with her bright scarf blowing behind her, and dropped, laughing, on the stone seat. She could laugh again, and it occurred to her that is was almost incredible. Only a month; and to be laughing, merely because it was a tingling September day, with leaves crackling underfoot and a smell of burning in the air, and a child to play with and bring you back to the pleasure of running outdoors!

"Oh, here you are! You aren't very clever in your hiding-places," said Patricia. Helen had crouched down in the curve of the S-shaped windbreak, near "Mrs. Kingsway's pet walnut" which had been the beginning of her association with the Kingsways.

"I forgot. I really wasn't exactly hiding—I was just enjoying the weather," Helen explained. "Give me time to get my breath and we'll do it again."

Helen had found it impossible to deal with Patricia as with a child. Most other people had found it impossible, too, but they still tried to do it. Helen had stopped. It worked better.

Helen found that her association with the Kingsways made a good deal of difference in Mrs. Birchs' attitude toward her. Small services were showered on her; and the proposition that she take down Mrs. Birch's wall-adornments and put up her own things was acceded to sweetly, instead of being met, as before, with an aggrieved feeling that Helen didn't like Mrs. Birch's ideas of art. Patricia, as Helen told her, had as much "satiable curiosity" as the elephant's child. Every moment of Helen's life, past and present, had to be in her possession; and Helen, remembering that she had undertaken to civilize more than to give her formal teaching, allowed Patricia (if allowed was a word you could use with the clear-headed, dominant child) to help her reconstruct the little room at Birch's. Helen came to like the room better than her silken expensively brocaded one at Nina's, indeed. This was all her own—its prettiness paid for out of her generous salary which Ethan always gravely sent her, with a bill to receipt every week, saying "To Taming Patricia" in his small square handwriting.

Patricia and she were driven by Andrew to Philadelphia, where they found exquisite Persian-patterned India prints; the colors and patterns, even where they were in bright colors, blending as softly and beautifully as a cashmere shawl. They bought recklessly, one to cover the narrow bed, one for the bureau and chiffonier, each; a soft smooth dull green Numdah rug—this was an extravagance, reduced to $9—for the bedside; and a final gift from Patricia's own pocket-money, bought very furtively while Helen was in the rug department, two trumpeting elephants who were book-ends, which made the pine shelf for Helen's books a charming and exotic spot. "They're to match the dear little yellow elephants very dim under the palm trees on the bureau," she explained, her whole face and body aquiver with the excitement of giving. "And I'll come here sometimes and spend times with you. I could stand even principal exports like Miss Russell and Miss Horton were so crazy over, with those elephants to look at."

When it was done they surveyed it with delight, and had a reading lesson on the spot, Helen improving the mood of the moment.

Q.—For pitching horseshoes, what weight horseshoes should be used? —D. S.

A.—The horseshoes used in pitching shall not exceed 2½ pounds each.

Q.—How did the clock in London get the name, Big Ben?—C. M.

A.—Big Ben, the chimes on the Victoria tower of the houses of parliament in London, was named for Sir Benjamin Hall, president of the public works of London at the time Victoria tower was built. Sir Benjamin was called Big Ben because of his enormous height and girth.

Q.—Does all fruit ripen a certain length of time after the trees blossom?—O. A.

A.—There is no coordination between the season of blossoming and ripening of fruits. Some that blossom early may ripen late; others that blossom late may ripen early.

Q.—Has the drone bee a mother and father?—E. B. B.

A.—The queen bee lays both fertilised and unfertilised eggs. The unfertilised eggs hatch into drones. Hence drones may be said to have no father or it may be said that the queen bee is both the father and the mother.

Q.—How are the 7,000 years of the earth's existence to be divided according to the Epistle of Barnabas?—W. B.

A.—According to this epistle, the life of the earth will be divided: 2,000 years between the creation and the fall; and the declaration of the promise of redemption through the prophets; 2,000 from the prophetic era to the era of redemption or Christian era; 2,000 of the Christian and preparatory era to the beginning of the millenium of 1,000 years of rest; after which will come the final judgment and the destruction or reorganization of the present earth.

Q.—How long has there been an organized effort to assist people who are traveling?—B. S.

A.—The first recorded work in this line was started in St. Louis in 1851 with a bequest of $1,000,000 left by Bryan Mullaphy to assist persons "traveling to the West." Other societies followed, and in 1917, the National Association of Travelers Aid societies was formed.

Q.—Does the sun have an orbit? —G. M. S.

A.—The sun does not move in an orbit. The sun and the entire solar system, including the earth, are traveling in the direction of the constellation Hercules or Lyra at a velocity of approximately 12 miles per second.

Q.—In what way is the American Red Cross connected with the government?—C. W. I.

A.—The American Red Cross is chartered by the congress of the United States. Its accounts are audited by the officials of the United States treasury and the president of the United States is the honorary president of the Red Cross. Apart from this it is a self-governing organization.

Q.—Please give some information about Salt Palace in Salt Lake City. —D. N. J.

A.—The Salt Lake Real Estate board says: "The Salt Palace was built as a dance hall in a local pleasure resort where were formerly had a bicycle race and various other entertainment attractions. The Salt Palace was not constructed of solid salt as many suppose, but rather was a coat over frame construction which, however, had all the appearance of a real salt structure. Salt is extracted from the brine in Great Salt lake by pumping the water into evaporating ponds, where the salt is finally deposited on whatever happens to be on the ground. It was discovered that when the brine, which is approximately 20 per cent in the lake, had evaporated sufficiently so that the solution was about 40 per cent in strength, articles dipped into the brine would attract the crystals and they would form on any surface, particularly wood. This was how the lumber was coated for the Salt Palace. It was taken to these ponds, one side was allowed to become covered with these crystals, and then later salt water was poured over to weld the joints. At first the building was very bright, the crystals dazzling in the sunlight. However, they were not immune to rain and after several seasons they were no longer the same bright color they were originally. The origin of the fire which destroyed it was never definitely determined. However, like many resorts in smaller cities, it had too much competition and was, therefore, not sufficiently profitable to warrant rebuilding."

FOOD COMBINATIONS DISCOVERED AT LAST

There has recently been a large amount of discussion in medical circles because some prominent English physicians have called attention to the fact that meat and starchy food eaten at the same meal may cause digestive disturbances in some people. It is well and good that such information be given to the public and recognized by the doctors, but this fact may scarcely be called a new discovery. I have been teaching the same thing for over 20 years and have already distributed over a million copies of my articles on food combinations.

I first became convinced that wrong food combinations will cause indigestion in many people by watching, with the aid of the X-ray, the action of the stomach and intestines upon various foods, and also by experimenting with the action of different digestive fluids on foods in test tubes.

The human digestive system has been arranged to handle almost every kind of food. It can digest protein and starches, but it digests them with different types of secretions which are actually to some extent antagonistic to each other.

In order to understand food combinations better, let us consider what happens when you swallow food. The digestion begins in the mouth, but only one kind of food is acted upon by the ptyalin of the saliva. That one food is starch. Protein, such as meat, is not digested in any way in the mouth except that the chewing breaks it into small particles. The digestive ferment in the saliva acts only upon the starch, partly converting it into sugar so that it can be used by the body. When the mixture of meat, bread and greens enters the stomach the gastric juices are mixed and churned into the food mass. The digestive juices of the stomach have no effect whatever upon the starch except that the starch absorbs some of the gastric juice which should be used to digest meat. The gastric juice, containing a large amount of hydrochloric acid, stops the digestion of the starch, as the ptyalin can only work in an alkaline medium. The ptyalin of the saliva continues to work in the stomach until the gastric juice is produced in sufficient quantity to overcome the alkalinity of the saliva. After this, no digestion of starch can take place in the stomach, as there is no part of the gastric juice which acts upon starch.

As the food passes into the intestines the bile which is alkaline is mixed with this combination of foods and if the mixture has been too acid the bile converts it into an alkaline medium which can then be acted upon by the digestive ferments of the pancreas and small intestines.

Any starch which remains undigested after passing through the small intestines undergoes excessive fermentation and this is one of the principal causes of dyspepsia in those with weak or rundown digestive systems.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Spot on Lip

Question: C. M. writes—"Have a purple spot on the left side of my lower lip. It has been there for years, but have just lately noticed that it is pulling the lip down. What could it be?"

Answer—You should by all means have this spot examined, as it may be something dangerous. I could not give you any definite opinion about it without first examining you or having a doctor's report.

Sun-Dried Wholewheat Bread

Question: O. J. writes—"Please give me your opinion of sundried wholewheat bread made by mixing wholewheat flour, almond butter, honey and distilled water into a stiff dough, rolling thin, and cutting into wafers which are dried in the sun."

Answer—The combination of almond butter and wholewheat flour can be used, but the honey mixed with this might cause some gas. Cereals are not as easily digested when raw as when they are well cooked. Some raw foods are necessary to health, but one obtains the greatest benefit from the green vegetables and the fruits.

Angioneurotic Edema

Question: S. writes—"The doctors seem to think that I am suffering from angioneurotic edema, but what is causing it they claim they do not know. Could you tell me, also whether or not there is a cure?"

Answer—Angioneurotic edema is caused by a toxic irritation of the vasomotor nerves supplying the blood vessels. I have found good results for this trouble in the use of the fasting and dieting regimen, which assists in eliminating the toxins from the system. I would advise repeating the fast at intervals of about a month apart, using a well balanced diet in between these fasting periods.

SPUDS GO DOWN FIGHTING IN LAST DUEL WITH CATS, 7-4

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

Ted Gullic, future home run king of the Texas league—King Ted and his swatting mates return to Wichita Falls today, not with banners flying of course, but conscious that they have royalty in their midst.

Gullic's feat in slamming out four home runs in the first two games he played in the league this season will be remembered for a long, long time. He is off to a good start, and we look for Gullic to lead this circuit in home runs and runs batted in and several other departments when the curtain goes down.

He is a prettier hitter than Bettencourt. He is more of a showman than Bettencourt. He has more grace about him than Bettencourt. And the Rambler will lay a good bet that he hits more home runs this season than Bettencourt did last year. I'd rather watch Ted Gullic hit one home run than watch Bettencourt hit five. Gullic doesn't fight with the bat when he socks 'em, he just gives a graceful but terrific upward swing, and out they go. King Ted—that's the boy.

In his royal baseball circle there are several other persons of note, Buck Stanton being next in line for the crown, and Debs Garms somewhere close up in the waiting list. Garms' two triples in the games down at Fort Worth indicate he'll be a good hitter this season, maybe better than Euller was last year.

Today the Spudders meet Shreveport. Jake Atz' outfit has fared pretty rotten against Dallas, almost as bad as the Spudders fared against Fort Worth. But neither team is as "set" as the Panthers and both will be out today in a fighting mood, remembering the disastrous series behind them.

And I'll bet King Ted swats two more home runs!

Chillicothe Pitchers

W. L. Boyd, manager of the Chillicothe Cubs, came up to the Rambler's corner the other day with his left hand all swollen up and red and aching, and he was complaining that he had been catching Bruce Taylor while the latter warmed up.

Bruce Taylor is the star portside flinger of the Chillicothe ball team. He's the boy, says Boyd, whom the Cubs will send down to the Spudders whenever Manager Williams finds he can't make the grade with his present pitching staff.

Boyd described this Taylor. He said Taylor is a big six-footer, 18 years old, has a curve as round as a barrel bottom and a dead ball that is the despair of every catcher in Chillicothe.

Boyd had been catching that dead ball and that's why his left hand didn't know what the right dideth. It was too numb. Taylor has so much smoke on that floater, said Boyd, that it landed in his mitt with a pop as loud as a rifle shot.

All kidding aside, Taylor is going to try out with the Spudders next spring (if Manager Williams doesn't call on him sooner). Boyd said the kid is ambitious and is working hard with that dream in mind—to try out for Carl Williams' team.

Such youngsters sometimes turn out to be good ball players. The main requirement is that they accept patiently the dictates of the higher-ups. If Taylor comes down here next year, and is released the first week or so and then gets downhearted and bilious, he'll probably fall by the wayside. But if he keeps plugging away, and comes back next year he might be a different man. He might show enough promise to warrant farming out for development.

Remember that Carl Williams first played the game in a town just as small, if not smaller, than Chillicothe.

These Cubs of Chillicothe are attracting a good deal of interest among the local adherents. Last week they lost their first game to Farmers Valley, 10 to 7, but later in the week they beat the same team, 8 to 5. Boyd plans to take on many out-of-town teams this season. It is not exactly a semi-pro team. No admission is charged for the games, but the fans have the privilege of kicking in a half dollar or so in order that the team can keep supplied with gloves and baseballs and meals while on the road.

Homer Worley is another left-handed floater specialist on the Cubs' team. Worley's dead one also makes Skipper Boyd blink occasionally. The team has one other left-hander, Pete Francis, who is also 18 and ambitious.

For right-handers they have Carl Stewart and Wayne Pennington. Stewart, who is 20, is one of these stern fellows who never gets rattled, according to Boyd. The skipper told the following story on the right-hander. In a tight game in which the pitcher on Stewart's team was doing okey, it was decided towards the middle of the fray to jerk the starting pitcher for a pinch hitter in an effort to shove across a badly needed run. After that Stewart was sent to the mound.

He was rather cold. The three balls he threw to his catcher before the batter came up failed to get him warm enough, so he deliberately threw three balls to the batter, placing each of them so that they whizzed just about two inches away from the plate.

Then he felt like going to work. His next pitched ball was called a strike. Then the batter got a faint blow and was retired by the fielders.

Sounds like this Grover Cleveland Alexander control stuff, eh?

Concerning Vincent

Manager Art Phelan of the Fort Worth Cats has a lot of respect for the pitching of Fred Vincent, but he believes old Stormy could improve a lot.

"Vincent has a good fast ball," Phelan said when here last week, "and he could use it to tremendous advantage if he would use his head more. Instead of just sailing those fast ones across one after another he ought to take his time, try to figure out what kind of ball to deliver to the batter facing him, and in this way master his control."

"Scoop" Scharein

That's Arthur's new name. The speedy little shortstopper got his nickname from the best author of nicknames in the league, Carl Williams. It was Williams who tacked "Spider" on to the first part of Levey's handle because Jim was all arms and legs. Scharein got so good on scooping up grounders that Williams decided "Scoop" was the best name for him.

LOSERS SCORE TWO IN NINTH

Team Opens Series With Sports Here Today

Special to The Record News.

FORT WORTH, April 19.—The Fort Worth Panthers made it four victories in five games with the Wichita Falls Spudders by winning Sunday's game here, 7 to 4.

Dick Whitworth pitched for the Cats and had little trouble, allowing only four hits until the ninth when he weakened and was touched for two runs.

Ash Hillin started the game for Wichita Falls and did fairly well for the six innings he worked. He was taken out for a pinch hitter in the seventh and Dick Florrid finished.

> The Spudders, back from the wars with Fort Worth, open a three-day series with the Shreveport Sports this afternoon. The game will start at 4 o'clock.

Both sides went out in order the first inning.

After the Spudders were easily retired in the second Ed Brown led off for Fort Worth with a double to left but got no further than third as Perry, Cox and Yaryan went out.

For the third consecutive inning the Spudders went down one, two, three.

Cats Score Two

The Cats scored twice in this inning to take the lead. With two out Eddie Moore singled and stole second. He scored on Dalrymple's doubled. Fowler drove Dalrymple across with a single.

Garms broke Whitworth's string in the fourth with a triple to center and he scored on Kelly's use-to-be sacrifice fly. Stanton flied to Moore and Gullic fanned swinging.

There was no more scoring until the last of the fifth. Yaryan doubled, went to third on Engle's single and scored on Whitworth's fly to Kelly.

An error by Engle and a single by Kelly put two Spudders on base in the sixth but Stanton retired the side wih a bounder to Whitworth.

Fort Worth made another run in the sixth, again after two were out. Perry singled, Cox hit a high infield bounder and it went for a hit when Hillin and Stanton ran together while going after it. Hillin finally got the ball and made a wild throw to third in an attempt to get Perry. The throw enabled Perry to score and Cox went to second. Yaryan went out.

Gullic Doubles

A double by Gullic and a single by Badgro scored a run for Wichita in the seventh. A walk put another runner on base but Cox pulled down Pinch Hitter Fuss' drive for the third out.

Florrid went to the box for the Spudders. A two-base error by Scharein on Engle, a stolen base, a walk, a single by Dalrymple, another base on balls and a double by Brown scored three runs.

Singles by Gullic and Geygan and a double by Bradbury scored two for Wichita Falls in the ninth.

Tennis Youths Who Would Duel France Face Rocky Road

By CLAIRE BURCKY
NEA Service Sports Writer

For Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood Jr., the tennis road leads to Paris for the Davis cup challenge round with the French champions, July 24, 25 and 26.

Perhaps it is just as well that William Tatem Tilden III will lead no more tennis crusades against France. The way is long, with no short cuts, and is neither straight nor down hill. It is not even level, but winds upgrade, with dangerous curves appearing at intervals of approximately two weeks.

Thus it seems best that the responsibility of the 1931 crusade rests on younger shoulders. The combined ages of Shields and Wood is only one more summer than Tilden's. They will be able to negotiate the turns at greater speed than old Bill.

The youthful pair—Shields is 20; Wood is 19—strikes the first obstacle next month. It is Mexico and, from all indications, the youths ought to take this corner at most any speed. They also are expected to swing around Canada without difficulty two weeks later. But thereafter the going gets more treacherous as Argentina and England, probable winners of the France's crown as none too secure in the summer challenge round. In the recent illness to Rene Lacoste they see a chance to break through for a win. Of course, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra remain to fight it out, but these optimistis figure that the youth and fine tennis of America's youngsters may skid the French veterans out of the championship picture, which is not entirely impossible.

SIDNEY B. WOOD JR.

South American and European zones, loom up in the path to Paris.

Some of our more optimistic followers of the court game vision

After Shields flopped in the recent indoor championships, he worked his tennis fever up to a high pitch and blasted Borotra clear off the courts in the international team matches. The young man entered that match determined to "shoot the works" and win in straight sets or be eliminated in the same manner.

Shields occupies No. 2 ranking behind Johnny Doeg, blond Californian southpaw. The difference in their rating is fine—only a matter of two straight games in a five-set match which strung out over 30 games in the deciding set for the national championship.

FRANK X. SHIELDS

Vincent Richards, well-known tennis professional, declares that Shields' one fault is nervousness. Says Richards:

"When he gets a little older and overcomes that nervousness, he'll be hard for any man to beat."

Wood lacks the strength and physique of Shields, but he is a cool one and master of a soft game that pesters a hard hitter to distraction. He holds No. 4 in the national ranking, only Wilmer Allison separating him from Shields.

He came with a rush last summer. During the Seabright tourney, the lanky youth mixed his soft strokes with sizzling drives to halt the sensational campaigning of Ellsworth Vines, who had played havoc with Frank Hunter, George Lott and others. Vines folded up in straight sets under this very trying change of pace.

Wood's fine work did not end with the Seabright championship, however. He trounced George Lott at Southampton and followed this with a victory over Shields after that young man had routed Tilden. Going into the finals at Southampton, Wood continued his deliberate, easy-going game to win the championship from Allison.

PHILLIES 6, ROBINS 4

BROOKLYN, April 19. (AP)—Harry McCurdy's pinch single in the tenth inning off Relief Pitcher Hollis Thurston drove in two runs and gave the Phillies a 6-4 decision over the Brooklyn Robins today. Brooklyn, making its first home appearance of the season, suffered its fifth straight defeat.

Home runs by Herman and O'Doul gave the Robins an early lead which evaporated in the eighth when the Quakers scored four runs to knock out Clark and resume the lead. Slade's single drove in the tying run in the ninth but the Robins bowed to a tenth-inning rally which started after two were out.

Twenty-six thousand fans watched the game. Score:

PIRATES WIN AGAIN

CINCINNATI, April 19. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates made it two straight over the Cincinnati Reds today, combing Si Johnson for nine hits to win 5-1, and inflict the fifth straight defeat on the Reds, who have not won a game this season.

Although the Reds gathered eight hits and were given six walks by Kremer, poor base running and lack of punch at the right time left them scoreless until the ninth inning. Score:

Women Concerned Over What to Wear at Tennis Meet

By LILA D'ALVAREZ
Spanish Women's Tennis Champion

LONDON, April 19. (US)—To me, all the bother being raised today as to whether or not women tennis players at Wimbledon should wear stockings is quite beside the mark.

The only possible costume for tennis is either a bathing suit or shorts.

But it appears that neither of these costumes will be counted acceptable for play at Wimbledon.

The present short skirt which is "de rigeur" at Wimbledon is really not a skirt at all but a nice, flowing feminine affair which we have cut in half.

I am not sure that it is even decent.

The proof that it is not a suitable sports costume is that for women the problem of complimentary undergarments has never been solved.

BOUT DECIDES CHAMPIONSHIP

Canzoneri and Kid Berg Clash Friday

NEW YORK, April 19. (AP)—A double-barreled championship affair in Chicago involving Tony Canzoneri and Jack (Kid) Berg tops this week's fistic program beyond dispute.

They will battle 10 rounds in the Chicago stadium Friday night with Berg's junior welterweight championship at stake definitely and Tony's lightweight crown perhaps. The catch in lightweight titular aspect of the affair is that Berg must make 136 pounds, the class limit. There is no question that the busy British leather-swinger can make the required poundage, but whether he will remains to be seen.

The principal supporting bout of eight rounds will pit Steve Halaiko, former amateur flash from Auburn, N. Y., against Tony Herrera, El Paso lightweight.

Out on the Pacific coast a somewhat lean week is topped by a 10-round bout between Tod Morgan, Los Angeles lightweight, and Cecil Payne of Louisville, Ky., at Los Angeles Tuesday night. On the same night at Boston, Johnny Risko, India rubber man from Cleveland, battles King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight.

Two San Antonio Players Are Released

SAN ANTONIO, April 19. (AP)—Two San Antonio Indians were given their release tonight. President Homer Hammond of the San Antonio Texas league club announced before the team left for Beaumont. One of them is Pitcher Ray Pipkin and the other is Outfielder Otis Butler.

With the previous release of Outfielder Carl Honea the Tribe is now down to 19 players, lacking one of being within the limit of 18.

GROCERS WIN OPENING GAME

King Hurls Two-Hit Ball To Beat P. D. Q.'s 2-0

Loopy King, southpaw ace of the Sullivan grocery nine of the City league, opened the 1931 season in rare form Sunday afternoon on the Jalonic street diamond in besting Ben Fletchner, P.D.Q. right-handed ace, in a spirited 2 to 0 pitchers' battle. The Grocerymen afforded King very sloppy backing in the field with eight errors chalked up against them while King was a bit wild. With men on the bases King seemed to settle down to business, with a result of a net total of 18 of the P. D. Q. nine were left stranded on the bases, 11 being left on in the first four frames. As a contrast, Sullivans Grocery never left a single runner on the paths. Poor base running in the first two innings cost Sullivan's two wonderful chances to score.

Loopy King was touched for only two singles, a scratch hit in the first inning by Jimmy Ford and a clean single in the second by Horton. The little left-hander pulled out of three tight holes in the first three innings after errors and walks had filled the bases behind him. In the second inning after the bases had been filled with one out, King whiffed Mathews and Bearden to come out of the hole untouched. Third Baseman Eubanks saved the day in the third inning with a leaping catch over third base of Horton's slashing drive into left with two men out and the bases full. Neat catches by Left Fielder Paul Meyers and Roy Anderson aided much in the Sullivan defense. Berry and Smith, left and center fielder for the P. D. Q.'s also had great days in the field.

On the other side Ben Fletchner was the victim of hard luck, and should have won an average City league ball game with his wonderful brand of pitching. The Grocerymen could comb only five hits from his deliveries while he struck out five and walked only two. Fletchner kept the five hits widely scattered with no two coming in the same inning. The P.D.Q. infield worked like clockwork with two double plays to their credit and several bits of nice fielding.

Sullivan scored their first run in the second inning when Malcom Mauldin, one of the greatest little maskmen Wichita Falls has seen in years, crashed a single into right. Ring laid down a sacrifice bunt and both men were safe when Duncan dropped the throw to first. Mauldin moved to third while Ray was forcing Ring, and scored on a squeeze play with Thorn doing the bunting.

The second run was also scored with a aid of an error. Ring got a single past third. Ray forced Ring at second. A moment later Ray stole second and when Horton's throw went into center field he raced home with the second run. Score:

International Road Plan Hits Money Snag

WASHINGTON, April 19. (US)—It is not jungles, mountains, or great rivers that present the greatest problem to engineers in the construction of the pending 3,200 mile international highway from the United States to Panama, but finances.

This was the diagnosis today of E. W. James, assistant chief of the bureau of public roads of the department of agriculture, in explaining problems of the great central trail, now almost completely surveyed.

The financial condition of the Central American countries at the present time is such, James said, that it is extremely difficult for them to obtain the necessary funds to undertake the road construction.

Auction Bridge

Lesson No. 66

THE GRAND COUP

In AUCTION bridge, the grand coup occurs when declarer holds one more trump than junior, and the holdings are similar to the two tenaces, such as ace, queen and one small card in declarer's hand and king and jack in junior's. Played in the ordinary way, declarer would need to win the eleventh trick, then lead up to junior's tenace, which would be sure to make the king good for a trick. The method of handling such a play will be told tomorrow.

Benjamin Lake Open For Fishing May 1

Special to The Record News.

BENJAMIN, Texas, April 19.—May 1 will be a red letter day in Benjamin, since the city's lake will be open for fishing on that date. The lake was completed two years ago. Rain came immediately and filled it to the brim, it was stocked at once with 12,000 fish, bass, brim and crappie, from the state hatchery near Dundee.

No fishing has been allowed since that time. The keeper who has been employed by the city to look after the lake has been busy this week establishing a camp near the entrance.

Approximately 100 acres is covered by the lake, with a maximum depth of 27 feet at the dam.

One especially fine feature of this city water supply is that the water is soft and has proved an ample supply for household use and the irrigation of yards and gardens for the past two years.

The lake is well situated above the town, one mile to the southwest. The watershed that drains the water into it is the clean river breaks.

It is a picturesque little body of water viewed from any direction, a fine place for fishing and recreation.

Exhaustion of Toxoid Halts Tillman Plans

FREDERICK, Okla., April 19.—Because no more toxoid can now be obtained plans for treating children of Tillman county as a diphtheria preventive have been temporarily abandoned. The Tillman county health council was recently organized when representatives were here from the state health department and it was planned to have children up to 12 years of age meet at central points in the county to be vaccinated. Dates set for vaccination were April 28 and 29.

Dr. Bilby, head of the state health department, said he expected more toxoid can be obtained after the end of the present fiscal year and it is possible that toxoid will be shipped here later.

Nocona Factory Adds Equipment

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, April 19.—The Nocona Boot factory, under name Nocona Boot company, Inc., is making the second addition to the factory building to accommodate increase in business and new products. Several months ago the company built onto the first building, a two-story brick structure, and now the new addition is to make room for the spur and bit factory which the company acquired about a year ago, and has been operated in a separate building.

Until the spur and bit factory was added, the Nocona Boot company only manufactured cowboy boots, and shoes, and lace boots. Now its products consists of cowboy boots, lace boots, shoes and a special line of field and military boots just recently added, besides the manufacture of bits and spurs. This bit and spur factory equipment was purchased from the McChesney Bit and Spur company, formerly of Pauls Valley, Okla. All experienced workmen were taken over with the factory.

During the months of depression this factory was working almost full force in both boot and shoe factory, and spur and bit factory.

BEES SWARM

'Honey' Convention At Hotel Causes Excitement

Smoke poured from the side of the Texan hotel and fire engines roared here Sunday afternoon—all on account of a swarm of recalcitrant honey bees.

From whence they came, no one knew, but bees by the thousands collected in an area of a square foot, inches deep, on the outer wall of the hotel. They clung to the wall and to ordinary coaxing refused to budge.

A smoke fire was started by a man who had learned that bees will not sting when subjected to smoke. Seeing smoke pouring from the building a spectator rushed to a telephone and announced to the fire department that the Texan hotel was burning.

A crowd gathered. Fire engines came and departed. The last seen of the bee expert he was still doggedly plying his apiarian knowledge with varying degrees of success.

'Atonement' Subject Of Science Sermon

The subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist Sunday was "Doctrine of Atonement."

The golden text was from Psalms 111:9. "He sent redemption unto his people: he hath commanded his covenant forever: holy and reverend is his name."

The reading from the Bible included the following from Psalms 51:2, 10: "Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin . . . Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me."

Included in the service was the following from page 337 of the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Christian Science demonstrates that none but the pure in heart can see God, as the Gospel teaches In proportion to his purity is man perfect; and perfection is the order of celestial being which demonstrates Life in Christ, Life's spiritual ideal."

Tiffany, small company that it is, has scored another "beat" on the larger producing companies of Hollywood in their newest presentation—the Kentucky singers, who are presented in a too-short subject at the Majestic this week.

Those who don't like Buster Keaton's antics in "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" or the display of talent by the Siamese twins on the stage will find this one short subject worth sitting through all the rest of the program. Eight cornfield negroes, with beautiful voices and the musical spirit born in negroes, present a hauntingly beautiful series of spirituals.

As for the main feature, Charlotte Greenwood steals the show from Buster Keaton in spite of his entirely new role as a great lover. She's the same old tall girl that stuck one leg on top of a refrigerator while examining it in a short subject shown here not long ago, and when she and Keaton do the bedroom scene, Buster himself is the only person in sight who can keep from smiling.

The Siamese twins sing and dance, but the adulence is the real show during their act. There are almost as many different reactions as there are people

Back to "The Front Page" to hear Pat O'Brien and Adolphe Menjou fuss at the rate of 280 per, then to the Majestic in time to catch the Kentucky singers just once more, and I'll rest these eyes until "Millie" opens at the Strand Tuesday afternoon.

Episcopal Men To Hear Bishop

Members of the Men's club of the Church of the Good Shepherd will be provided with a two-fold program at the monthly dinner meeting to be held Monday night at the parish house, according to E. C. Jordan, secretary.

Bishop Harry T. Moore of Dallas will speak relative to the work of the organization in the program of the local church, and a one-act play will be presented by a cast which includes some members of the club. The play has been prepared under the direction of F. C. McClung, director of the Wichita Falls Little theater.

The dinner is scheduled for 7 p. m.

CHILDRESS HAS ROAD MUDDLE

Court Ruling Complicates Highway Tangle

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, April 19.—The decision of the state supreme court in remanding injunction suit back to the district court of this county with instructions to hear evidence on the questions involved, has placed the highway building in Childress county in a serious condition. The suit asking for an injunction prohibiting the building of highway 4 on the route selected by the state engineers was opened several months ago.

In the meantime the contract for the grading and drainage structures on about 10 miles of the route selected has been let and the work completed. In addition, the right-of-way for the same highway from Red river to the north line of the county has been purchased. It was expected the contract for grading this section, about 12 miles, would be let at the latter part of April.

If the courts should enter a permanent injunction, requiring the highway to be built on the old route, which has been in use for more than 40 years, the money spent on the grading and right-of-way of the new location would be lost. Also, it is admitted if the route is changed from the location made and approved by the state and federal governments there is no chance of securing aid in that direction. In that case the county could not grade and pave the highway.

The case is to be tried on its merits, coming up at the next session of the Childress county district court, which meets the latter part of May. No matter which side wins the case will be carried to the higher courts, therefore it will be a year or longer before decision can be looked for. In the meantime all work on highway 4 will be at an end.

County officials were in hopes the entire highway work would be completed by the last of the year or at least early next spring.

The Reader's Opinion

GRANT GIVES VIEWS ON SOVIET WORK

Editor The Record News: Referring to your editorial in this morning's issue entitled "Wage Reductions" I note some very palpable communistic propaganda to which I wish to apply the light of facts.

I heartily agree with your reasoning that wage reductions is not the road to recovery and am in accord with your opinions until you reach this paragraph which I desire to quote.

"In addition, it is possible that we haven't handled our situation very intelligently. The other day a high Soviet official named Piatakov went to Berlin and placed an order for $75,000,000 worth of German factory products. A little earlier he had tried to come to the United States to buy those goods of American factories—but our government had refused to let him in."

I do not know where you received this idea, but the same argument is being flaunted all over the country at this time and I feel sure that you swallowed it without considering its source. The fact is that had the Russian government desired to purchase these goods that could easily have done so through their trading company incorporated in New York and called "Amtorg," which has 489 employes. It is very likely that they could not negotiate that amount of credit in the United States as anyone selling to Russia is able only to look to this corporation for payment and they now have a credit of $80,000,000 on their one-million-dollar capital. Would you, as a business man, want to sell this corporation $80,000,000 worth of goods in view of the record of Red Russia for repudiation?

As to Mr. Piatakov, he was excluded on account of his long record in Russia as an agitator. I desire to quote his record as shown on page 65 of part 3, volume 3 of the hearings before a special committee to investigate Communist activities in the United States. "Victorian Piatakov. Born 1878. In 1896 started to work in a factory. Organized a great number of strikes. Was arrested the first time in 1898. Has record of serving terms in 50 prisons. Has escaped a number of times. Joined Communist party in 1903. A very able propagandist and organizer. Was secretary of labor, member of the Politburo."

The third international, which is an international force, now in control of helpless Russia shifts its generals about over the globe wherever it has important work to do and where a particularly reprehensible member is excluded they start their propaganda to work through various channels to bring pressure to bear on the government. Your article is one of their stock arguments. Another thing you overlooked is the desirability of selling Russia at all, inasmuch as it is their declared aim in their five-year plan to develop production with confiscated lands and forced labor to break down the very governments which lends them aid. I feel sure it is not their intention to pay the bills they are now making over the world in the sum of hundreds of millions of dollars. It is an open assault upon what they are pleased to term the capitalistic system and every dollar supplied them is a weapon against our government, our homes and institutions.

In England, in Germany, where Russia has official recognition, they are unable to buy on credit from the factories except on the guarantee of the English or German governments. Do you want the United States government to guarantee their credit so that they can secure the weapons for their final assault on civilization. That would be their next step if they could secure recognition and I am sure that the same arguments would be used; i. e., that it would help business and furnish employment.

They have a corporation in New York capitalized at $1,000,000 which has now secured $80,000,000 worth of credit and it has been discovered in two particular instances in using pressure and manipulation to bring down our prices during this depression. In September, 1930, this corporation sold short 15,000,000 bushels of wheat and it was developed at this congressional investigation that they placed the order over the telephone without putting up one cent of margin. In another instance they purchased $1,000,000 worth of steel securing two years credit and immediately sold the steel on the American market at 20 per cent below cost, which, of course, had the effect of depressing prices.

Their corporation in New York is in the hands of Communists of long experience in subversive work and it is clear to people who have studied their activities that trading is only a side line of their activities. Conspiracy against our institutions is their main work. This is evidenced by a document introduced by Commissioner Whalen of the New York police. I desire to quote one of those documents and I wish to call your attention to its date; i. e., Dec. 16, 1928. That was at the height of the so-called Hoover boom. It is odd how they knew of our depression long before any American would even consider the possibility. I quote a communication emanating from Moscow addressed to the head of Amtorg, as follows:

"Absolutely confidential.

"Memorandum.

"Dear Comrade Saul: (Bron) In connection with the approaching economic crisis in the United States, it is requested that all funds in your possession should be turned over to Comrade Lizs for the enforcement of the proletarian front. The sums must be expended by the American committee of Communist party in branches most affected by the crisis, i. e., textile, mining, fur and other industries; and the money should be given for the support of strikers with the approval of the communistic cells of each striking group. A detailed list of regions of action will be frowarded to you within the next two weeks together with additional funds. The profits from the publication of your catalog are to be turned over to Comrade Grisha for distributing among subsidized publications in Russian and other foreign languages.

"With comradely greetings,

"Signed, Feodor.

"Address for telegrams, Kom, Moscow; for cablegrams, Poliakoff, Moscow."

In view of the fact that communism is working to undermine all institutions where hospitality is shown them, and in view of the fact that their record of repudiation is sufficient to make their trade unprofitable, and in view of the fact that their credit purchases are for the open purpose of disrupting the institutions in all Christian nations don't you think your paper should make a particular effort to secure the facts and present the American side of the question instead of parroting their propaganda. I feel sure if you were in possession of the facts you would be advocating the expulsion of "Amtorg" their propaganda headquarters, and Ankimo, their film importing institution.

While I am on the subject let me state that recently four propaganda films produced in Russia have been sold to Texas exhibitors and I think that their exhibition should be stopped and it is my intention to use whatever efforts at my disposal to stop them. The titles are as follows:

"Fragment of An Empire."
"China Express."
"Fall of An Empire."
"Ten Days That Shook the World."

These pictures are for propaganda purposes and the profits are used for subversive work. It is one of the means Communists have for carrying out their idea of "getting the work done and having the enemy pay for it."

The Communists recently secured a foothold in Wichita Falls with an open organization, but these people joining the Trade Union Unity League, are not to be censured nearly so much as others in possession of all of the necessaries and luxuries of life, who through mental laziness fail to inform themselves and use their means of expression to do Communistic work.

Very truly,
R. O. GRANT.

TELEVISIONS

YOU WOULD say she had X-ray eyes . . . was clairvoyant . . . a fortune teller—except that thousands of shoppers see as clearly as she into the contents of perfectly opaque jars, and foretell with the same swift accuracy the future of the things they buy.

Advertising is her television. Advertising gives her complete advance information. Quietly, in a congenial corner of her home, she thinks and determines before she buys. Finding out about the newest foundation cream, the crispest breakfast food, the most gossamer brand of hose. Comparing these with others. Making selections serenly. Going forth to buy . . .

She has only this left to do. No worrying or hesitating when confronted by two jars, each equally inviting. No doubts about their makers. Advertisements have told her the invisible merits—given her clear true images of the contents of those jars, and the results of their use.

Rare is the woman who can boast she has never bought anything she wishes she hadn't bought. But with the aid of advertisements, that sort of buying is almost entirely done away with. A regular reading of advertisements keeps shopping-tempers sweet.
