

Top Leaders Launch Steel Parleys Today

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Top negotiators met today in their first formal session aimed at reaching a new labor contract for the basic steel industry.

President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers Union sat down in a summit bargaining session with R. Conrad Cooper of U.S. Steel Corp., chief industry negotiator.

They met with sides while union and industry teams representing 11 major steel producers continued separate meetings.

Cooper and McDonald repeated their hopes they can reach a fast agreement but had no other comment.

Katanga Sets Stage To End Secession

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—After a stormy four-hour session, the Katanga Parliament agreed today to end the province's secession but demanded that the central Congolese government line up with the free world against communism.

President Moise Tshombe went before the assembly to lay U.S. policy in the Congo, accusing American financial interests of trying to turn the nation into a colony under their domination.

The Katanga assembly met in a shabby building still showing the scars of last December's fighting. Most of the windows had been broken by bullets and shrapnel and glass still littered the hall.

The legislators were called by Tshombe's government to approve the Katanga agreement—subject to three pages of conditions and the Katanga authorities have since demanded.

Tshombe signed the Katanga agreement with Prime Minister Cyrille Adoula at the end of last December's two-week battle with United Nations forces. It carried out it would virtually end Katanga's 18 months of independence.

Katanga legislators today gave Tshombe the green light to open negotiations with Leopoldville. Katanga's conditions may not be completely unacceptable to the central government and there is some feeling that Katanga and Leopoldville are closer than at any time since Katanga's break away in July 1960.

Nine days—Mobil, 235,000; Sun, 110,500; Texaco, 158,000; Atlantic Refining, 84,985; and Standard of Texas 37,400.

Both Indiana and Mobil reduced their nominations from the written predictions given to the commission before the hearing. Mobil said warm weather had reduced demand for heating oil.

The pattern for the past several years has been an allowable hike from February to March. Only once in the past five years, 1958, has the February scale been reduced for the next month.

In his farm message, the President said it was necessary to resolve these problems, particularly to reduce federal outlays on export subsidies. He said cotton's problems could best be reconciled by a program which would establish a support price upon allocated acres, but permit efficient growers to grow additional cotton at world prices. This would cut government export costs and help U.S. cotton retain overseas markets.

The cotton industry is divided sharply on policies. The Southeast, with small unmechanized farms, is largely content to stick by the present program.

Most growers from the Mississippi Delta west into California, an area marked by larger farms and mechanization, see the present program driving U.S. cotton out of foreign and domestic markets unless the government is willing to continue to spend large sums to make the fiber crop competitive.

These latter growers are willing to take a gradual reduction in prices, to gain larger markets. They, of course, are in a better position to absorb price reductions because of their greater efficiency.

Because of the strategic position congressmen from the Southeast hold, it would be difficult if not impossible to get legislation they opposed.

Unless Congress enacts a new program this year, the earliest a new program could be put into effect would be 1964. There is doubt the administration would attempt to push new legislation

It seemed clear, however, they had gotten together beforehand, not once but frequently, and already were pretty well worked over their area of differences to ward early new agreements to succeed the industry labor pacts expiring June 30.

Cooper, for example, told newsmen Wednesday that the industry-union human relations committee, which has been meeting regularly for some time, has worked out certain joint recommendations. Just what, he would not say. Nor would McDonald.

Both men expressed high hopes—as 1962 steel bargaining got underway in an unprecedented early and amicable start Wednesday—that they could achieve the quick, non-inflationary deal with little or no price boost that the White House has been urging.

Wednesday's bargaining opened brought together about 600 steel mill managers and an equal number of local union officials divided into 11 sessions representing the major steel companies.

These were "sound off" meetings designed to let local people let off steam and relate woes built up since the 1955 contract was negotiated after a record 116-day strike.

Some degree of heat was expected as the natural thing, but industry men said they were surprised at the intensity of some of the "beefs" expressed by union men at the meetings. This especially related to grievance and nepotism problems.

Reports persisted, however, that even before the formal bargaining started the principals had pretty much agreed on what they had in mind in the way of a settlement.

This was reported to be 10 or 12 cents an hour in pay and job security gains for the union, annually over a three-year period, and probable federal tax relief, through more generous depreciation concessions for the industry, thereby avoiding price increases.

Others, however, counseled that much speedwork and selling on both sides had to be done before any such agreement could be reached before early March—the informal target date of both sides.

Cooper was said to have mentioned such a target in the U.S. Steel "sound off" meeting Wednesday.

The 430,000 steelworkers now earn between $2.38 and $4.38 an hour.

Without the endorsement of the advisory committee and a South-eastern congressmen, from various groups and areas in the industry, recommended that for 1962 the present program be continued with its $42.50 a bale export subsidy and last year's price supports, which were raised above the 1960 support levels.

But it would set up quality differentials which would support prices of lower grades of the 1962 crop at higher levels than under the 1961 program and lower supports from the higher grades. Such differentials would be designed to reflect the pattern of prices set by markets for the 1961 crop.

The committee said its rates as a whole would average the same as last year, although the base market grade—1 inch middling—would be a little below the 1961 rate of 33.04 cents a pound for this grade.

8-Day Crude Flow Endures

By BOB ROOKER
AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission set the March oil allowable for Texas today at eight production days.

The March order, handed down at the monthly statewide production hearing, sets the total allowable at 2,681,000 barrels a day, a reduction of 157,125 from February.

The action broke the pattern of past years when the March allowable has been raised as many as three production days.

Eight of the 13 major producers at the hearing asked the commission to retain the record low eight-day scale set for February.

An increase in the pattern to 9 days would have meant increasing the daily allowable by 26,005 barrels.

John Crutchfield, representing Corpus Christi area independents, asked the commission to boost the pattern to nine days.

Jake Hammon, representing Dallas producers, asked the eight day production scale.

"There is no need in pushing the situation now," Hammon said. "We got in trouble last year by producing too much oil. There is still gasoline and too much stock above ground and that is physical waste."

Purchaser nominations included: Eight days—Indiana, 225,000 barrels daily; Shell, 190,000; Sinclair, 112,000; Cities Service, 82,300; Gulf, 201,500; Phillips, 124,386; and Continental, 30,000.

Soviets Refuse To Broaden Contacts

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP)—While Premier Khrushchev is pressing their work at occasional plenary sessions, at which Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen and S. K. Romanovsky, the U.S. and Soviet delegation chiefs, presided.

U.S. informants would not venture to predict when the delegations could conclude their work, considering that no agreement has been reached thus far on any of the important issues.

The U.S. delegation, these informants said, has made considerable effort to accommodate differences. There has been no similar effort apparent on the Soviet side so far, they said.

An added problem is communications, as the Soviets have to get the approval of their government to make the smallest concession.

The atmosphere of the talks was described as businesslike, and U.S. specialists still hope that a mutually satisfactory agreement can be reached before the end of this month.

U.S. negotiators reported this after two weeks of talks between U.S. and Soviet delegations. The conference started Jan. 31 with the signing of a new agreement on cultural exchanges to replace the one that expired at the end of last year.

Although the Soviet attitude was more or less expected by U.S. specialists, it is nonetheless disappointing to those who hoped for greater flexibility. This hope was based on recent direct contacts between President Kennedy and Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, on the one hand, and Alexei Adzhubei, Khrushchev's son-in-law, and Mikhail Kharlamov, the Soviet press chief on the other.

Kennedy told a news conference Jan. 31 that his talks with Ivestia editor Adzhubei, Salinger's Paris meeting with Kharlamov and the White House press chief's invitation to Moscow are "directed to improving communications."

Kennedy said: "I believe that any exchange of information, any exchange of views, any cooperation of any kind in these very hazardous times will be very useful."

During the two weeks of talks between the delegations, the Soviets asked for a greater number of exchanges visits by scientists, technicians and artists.

But the Soviet negotiators showed no interest in more exchanges in the field which the U.S. side considers most important and which had been neglected until now. The general area of information, including newspapers, magazines and books, radio and television broadcasts, and exhibitions.

The U.S. view is that better understanding between the two peoples could best be promoted in this broad field.

The two delegations formed separate committees to discuss every area in question. Most of the committees met twice daily and simultaneous talks were held between them.

FIREMEN FIGHT STUBBORN FIRE—A barn containing hay and feed was destroyed in a fire reported at 2 a.m. this morning on the Earl McDow place just south of Thirty-seventh and Avenue E. Fifty-five cattle near the barn were moved out safely. Firemen fought the blaze of undetermined origin for two hours. The property is leased by W. B. Chitsey.

Widespread Rains Fall Over Texas

By The Associated Press
Widespread rains fell on thirsty ranchland and farms Thursday, bringing some violent weather with them.

The welcome moisture is expected to help the critical livestock grazing situation in some areas and to stop a wave of prairie fires.

The heaviest reported rain was 4.5 inches at the residence of Mrs. F. A. Albrecht, 20 miles north of Victoria. The downpour fell in one hour.

Other rural sections around Victoria received 2.5 to 3 inches of rain. The official Victoria reading was 12 inches.

High winds unroofed two barns on the John Thompson farm about 20 miles south of Fort Worth. The winds slammed one roof on a cop power line and disrupted service.

The rains began in the Panhandle Wednesday and moved south-east. Skies began clearing behind the line of rain.

The Weather Bureau said scattered thundershowers would occur in South Central and Southeast Texas during the day.

Although many points reported only very light rains, any moisture was expected to ease the fire threat at least temporarily.

Other official rainfall totals for the 24 hours ending at 6 a. m. Thursday included:

Amarillo .38 inch, Lubbock .02, El Paso .18, Presidio .15, San Antonio .27, Houston .02, Beaumont .04, Austin .32, Dallas .08, Waco .23, Brownwood .02, Tyler .51, Lufkin .27, College Station .20, Texarkana .13, Trinidad 1.67, Corsicana (eight miles east of city) 1.79, Randall .80, and Richmond 1.12.

While the rains brought a cooling off of the unusually high temperatures for February, the weather bureau said the spring-like weather would continue.

The 30-day forecast issued in Washington Wednesday said the nation could look forward to "unusually mild late winter weather." Temperatures 6 to 9 degrees above normal were predicted.

Two Cases Are Heard

Albert Lee Crumley of Lamesa entered a plea of guilty in County Court this morning. He had been charged with illegal transportation of alcoholic beverages. The charges were brought by Texas Highway patrolmen.

He was assessed a fine of $200. That charge also had been brought by the Texas Highway Patrol.

In another County Court case yesterday afternoon Troy William Renfro entered a plea of nolo contendere in a charge of DWI. That charge also had been brought by the Texas Highway Patrol.

Renfro was assessed a fine of $100 plus costs of $26.35 and the mandatory three days in jail.

Suspect Is Vindicated By Tests

HOUSTON (AP)—A Houston truck driver convinced a polygraph examiner Wednesday that he had nothing to do with the murder of an unidentified woman about Jan. 31.

"The tests vindicated him," said Tom Carr, police polygraph operator. "It is my opinion he had nothing to do with the murder."

The 28-year-old man was arrested Tuesday. Police said he resembled the description of a man who reportedly removed two boxes from a station wagon near a highway culvert in San Jacinto County, 60 miles northeast of Houston.

Carr said the man was tested twice Wednesday morning and then allowed to sleep until late afternoon when he was tested three more times.

Carr said the man showed what appeared to be strong guilt reaction to questions about four torso murders, but showed equally strong reactions to queries about three mythical crimes.

The woman's torso was found packed in two boxes in which milk cartons had been shipped to a Houston dairy. The head, legs and arms still are missing.

Officers from four states are to meet here to exchange information of the San Jacinto case and on similar cases at Roswell, N.M., El Paso, and in the Florida, Georgia area.

The other three cases also involved dismembered bodies.

Parts of the body of a young man were found two weeks ago along highways in Georgia and Florida. The body of a school teacher was found near Roswell in 1960. El Paso police found the dismembered body of a man in 1959.

Texas Ranger Capt. Eddie Oliver, Sheriff Bob Bailey of El Paso County Sgt. Don Whitley of the El Paso Police Department, Sheriff Dave S. Hudson of Worth County, Ga., Lt. H. E. Smith of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, Dr. Herman Jones of the Georgia Crime Laboratory, Sheriff's deputy J. P. Hall Jr. of Clay County, Fla., Chief of Detectives J. C. Patrick of Jacksonville, and Police Chief Tommy Thompson of Roswell will attend the conference.

Scientists Seek Little Bit Of Venus

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Space scientists hope to bring the environment of Venus down to earth by filling an enormous tank with sunshine and draining it of air.

At Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, they call the contraption an environmental simulator. What it is, actually, is a $4-million tank full of space.

Scientists say they do, to reproduce the severe environments to be encountered by space vehicles like the Mariner — which will be sent on a scientific mission to the vicinity of Venus later this year.

Vacuum chambers have been built before to reproduce conditions in space. But this one is different. For one thing, it is the largest ever built in the United States. It's cylindrical — shaped like a silo — and is 80 feet high and 27 feet in diameter. It has a steel shell capable of withstanding more than 1,000 pounds of pressure per square foot. More important, it is the first to employ a lighting system that will come close to duplicating the rays of the sun as they are encountered in space.

Damage to the Chapman car was estimated at $120, and to the Yates car at $85.

No personal injuries were reported in either accident.

Custody Case Trial Ends

The three day child custody trial of B. F. Darby vs. Franklene Darby Hoffman and her husband Johnny Hoffman was concluded yesterday afternoon in 132 District Court.

Judge Sterling Williams received the verdict of the jury which was composed of 10 men and two women.

The jury found that there had been a change of conditions since the previous order fixing custody of the two children over which the case was called. They found that the change affected the welfare of the children, and that it was in the best interest of the children to now be placed in the full care and custody of their father, B. F. Darby.

Judge Williams will enter judgment at a later date. Darby was represented by the Snyder firm of Blanchard, Carroll, and McLaughlin. Hoffman was represented by the Lubbock firm of Huff and Bowers.

Officials of the Eisenhower Library Commission made the announcement. The library is across the street from the Eisenhower Museum and the general's boyhood home.

Two Mishaps Are Logged

The Snyder Police department reported a two car accident this morning at 7:56 a.m. at the corner of Avenue H and Twenty-sixth Street.

Involved were a 1957 Chevrolet driven by Peggy Houston Hardin and a 1961 Chevrolet driven by Johnny Douglas Wharry. Damage to the Hardin car was estimated by Snyder police officers at $250 and the Wharry car at $150.

Another accident was reported at 7:37 a.m. yesterday at the corner of Thirty-seventh Street and Big Spring Highway.

A 1956 Mercury driven by Jerry Ann Chapman and a 1957 Ford driven by Joseph Albert Yates of Hermleigh were involved.

Damage to the Chapman car was estimated at $120, and to the Yates car at $85.

No personal injuries were reported in either accident.

Hospital Auxiliary Topic At Altrurian Daughters Club

Mrs. Borden Gray was hostess to the Altrurian Daughters Study Club when they met at Martha Ann Club for their most recent meeting.

The program for the day was on health, and was given by Mrs. Ross Carroll, who took for her subject "The Hospital Auxiliary". She said in part:

"The Hospital Auxiliary was organized in April of 1968 with approximately 127 interested ladies. The purpose of this organization is to advance and promote the welfare of Cogdell Memorial Hospital. It is a national and state organization. Our local auxiliary participates in the state by paying dues and sending delegates to the state convention each year. The state president at this time is Mrs. Guy Neas of Odessa, who spoke to our general meeting in October. We do not participate in the national organization."

"After an orientation for the members was given by the Superintendent of Nursing and other members of the hospital staff, our members began working in May of 1969 in different parts of the hospital. Members take care of the magazine cart, for which good used magazines are always needed. Some work in central supply, sterilizing needles and making bandages. Others work on the desk in the lobby, directing visitors, delivering messages, or renting television sets.

"The renting of TVs is one of the fund raising projects of the Auxiliary. We have seventeen of these at this time, which we rent on a monthly basis from a local dealer for the patients for one dollar per day. Other funds are raised by making pictures of the new babies, from the dues of one dollar per year from each of the 105 active members, then the ten dollars per year from each of the 105 active member, and from the operation of the snack bar."

Iced Tea Drinks Are Popular The Year Round

The most significant influence on America's eating habits was brought about by refrigeration.

"The Everlasting Pleasure," a history of American cookery, claims: "Refrigeration probably did more to change the flavor of the American meal than any other single invention, and in doing so brought health as well as enjoyment to the table."

The American homemaker's enthusiasm for refrigeration is second to none in the world. And the man most responsible for this remarkable transformation is Thomas Moore, a Maryland farmer, who is credited with inventing the refrigerator and was granted a patent for it in 1803.

It's said that we have a natural taste for chilled foods and drinks. Hotels and restaurants abroad and shipping lines have reluctantly accepted this national characteristic and now know it is wise to keep a supply of ice handy, regardless of the season, for Americans.

Modern heating and air conditioning, too, have strongly influenced our eating habits. In fact, they have made paradoxical changes. Air conditioning often reduces the temperature to such a chilly level in restaurants, business places, and many homes that hot foods and beverages are welcome on warm days. Conversely, overheating during the winter is so common that we find iced drinks are especially refreshing with meals.

Iced tea has long been a favorite mealtime beverage. It has no sticky, sweet flavor to overwhelm the fine flavor of foods and does not interfere with keen appetites. A glass of iced tea without lemon or sugar is virtually calorie free. Even with the addition of sugar and or lemon, iced tea is considered ably lower in calorie content than most carbonated beverages.

Not long ago a leading tea packager in this country, published a booklet, "33 New Tea Drinks." It includes a wide variety of iced tea drinks, as well as hot tea drinks. Thousands of homemakers tried and enjoyed these imaginative tea drinks.

The booklet also gives "10 Tips For a Perfect Teen-Age Tea Party" and has a number of special features, such as the recipe given below for "Spiced Tea Fruit Cubes," which add a delightful touch to a tall glass of iced tea.

SPICED TEA FRUIT CUBES

2 sticks of cinnamon,
2 inches long
8 whole cloves
3 cups boiling water
4 Tea Bags
1 6 oz. can frozen lemonade concentrate
Thin lemon slices
Cut in halves or quarters
Maraschino cherries
Mint sprigs
Simmer cinnamon and clove in boiling water for 5 minutes. Remove from heat, add tea bags and steep for 5 minutes. Strain and add lemonade concentrate. Pour in ice cube trays. Insert lemon slice, maraschino cherry, or mint sprig into each cube and freeze until solid. Delicious iced tea or fruit drink.

There Comes A Time When All Must Back Uncle Sam

BY INEZ ROBE

Instant incineration is a fate devoutly abhorred by mankind. Atomic war is a prospect too horrible for most of us to visualize. So earnest women and student groups that picket the White House and the United Nations protesting such a war are in the American tradition of defending their beliefs, popular or no.

But the time has come for such demonstrators against atomic war, with particular reference to a resumption of testing in the atmosphere, to put aside their slogans, banners and their marching shoes.

There isn't any doubt that Uncle Sam will begin—is forced to resume—testing in the atmosphere in a matter of weeks. That will produce one of those real moments of truth when Americans, like it or lump it, must join up solidly behind the old gentlemen.

For the White House announcement of the resumption of atmospheric testing will signal the time when a feller—our feller—needs a friend. All hell is going to break loose around Uncle Sam's ears when he says that for the safety of the nation and the preservation of freedom everywhere, he is forced to resume testing in the air.

At the announcement, the so-called neutral nations, particularly in Asia and Africa, can be expected to howl like banshees. And this despite the fact that at the Belgrade Conference they could not bring themselves to see, hear or speak of Khrushchev and the U.S.S.R. for cynically and treacherously breaking the three-year-old atomic test ban.

Nor, when the neutrals start screaming, the European "Better Rides Than Dead" go into action, and the marchers head for Holy Loch, Scotland, to protest polaris missiles, will any of them pause long enough to get it through their heads that Russia, by breaking the three-year-old test ban, has forced the United States to atmospheric tests.

By some mystic formula that escapes me, the neutral crowd and the anti-America critics find no harm to mankind—or milk—in Communist strontium 90. It only poisons the atmosphere and threatens future generations when

Seven Children Die When Home Burns

KANKAKEE, Ill. (AP)—Seven children, ranging in age from 1½ to 12 years, perished late Wednesday night in a fire which swept their frame house in St. Anne Woods, 15 miles east of Kankakee, sheriff and police officials reported.

The mother of the children, identified by authorities as Gwendolyn Mallory, a widow, was not at home when the fire broke out. It was not learned immediately where she had gone.

Firemen from St. Anne Woods and Pembroke Township fought the blaze. The bodies of all the children were not discovered until nearly 3:30 a.m. today.

Kankakee is about 40 miles southwest of Chicago.

It comes from Bombs marked "Made in the U.S.A."

Strontium 90 is strontium 90, whether its source is Communist or democratic. I do not ask anyone to like strontium 90. But neither do I buy the theory that Communist strontium 90, by some political hocus-pocus, is good for us.

Even our alleged friends at the Belgrade Conference, one of whom is soon to play host to the First Lady, could find no words of real condemnation for Russia's abrupt end of the atomic test ban.

The American government and the American people do not want war of any kind. But neither do we hanker for involuntary servitude.

What the Communist want is world domination and their own way. And what Khrushchev wants one day he rejects the next. Nothing so illustrates the contemptuous implacability of the U.S.S.R. as the American-British offer to combine the stalled nuclear test talks (in Geneva) with the talks on general disarmament.

For months the U.S. and the United Kingdom resisted the combination of the two, while Khrushchev kept up an incessant demand that they be combined. The instant that the two Western governments informed Russia that they had at last decided to accede to its request was the very instant that Khrushchev rejected it—his own baby!

The idea that the Francis G. Powers-Col. Rudolf Abel exchange means a thaw in the cold war is absurd. It probably means only that Russia wants Abel—at this juncture—more than it wants Powers.

The President deserves the backing of the nation when he announces the resumption of atmospheric testing. As it is, the international roof will fall in. He needs a solid structure at home.

What's Right With Women? Plain Luck

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — What's right with women?

Men, who usually feel inferior in the presence of superior beings, spend considerable time knocking women and saying what's wrong with them.

The usual wall is: "Women are illogical, capricious and unreasonable. They are too demanding. They act like the work was made just for them. They don't have any real brains, and if they did, they wouldn't know what to do with them."

There is, it must be admitted, some validity to these criticisms, however tinged they may be with masculine vanity and downright envy.

It is probably true also that most women lack what men call "plain ordinary common horse sense." On the other hand, why do they rarely break here? For she dwells in sublime great expectations. She knows her natal gift of good luck will surely change the situation for the better.

The answer is simple: Women are born lucky—and believe in luck all their days. Men aren't—and don't.

It is this magic difference that makes men doubt themselves and will under the buffets of time. Hardship may bend a woman, but they rarely break here. What is the fate of even the most sensible horse in this world, compared to that of the average woman?

If a man is honest enough to drop his prejudices, he has no trouble piercing the so-called mystery of women. He has no trouble figuring out why women outlive men, get to spend most of the money men earn, and generally are better adjusted to life and its problems.

Luck is illogical, capricious, unpredictable and unreasonable. That is why women are too. And it is their blind belief in their luck that gives them the supreme self-confidence which men mistake for arrogance.

It isn't their intuition that saves them. It's just that unfair advantage of having been born lucky. Any man who has had any experience at all with women can, if he looks back, find many instances to prove this theory.

A man is crazy to look for a wife who is merely intelligent, clever, or blatantly beautiful. The thing to do is to look around and marry the one who has the best knack of "beating the laws of chance."

Then trust to luck—hers! Maybe some of it will rub off on you.

Fire Chiefs Are Killed

CHICAGO (AP)—Two Chicago fire chiefs were killed Wednesday when the roof of a flaming three-story apartment building collapsed and buried them amid tons of cascading rubble in the basement.

O'Brien, 52, and Battalion Chief Thomas A. Hoff, 44, were on the third floor building directing the efforts of firemen at the extra-alarm blaze when the roof suddenly gave way. The two men fell from the third floor to the basement and were buried under the debris.

Fireman James L. Conley, 30, also fell with the two chiefs but he was rescued by firemen who worked 45 minutes sawing through charred timbers and pulling away rubble. Conley was hospitalized suffering from bruises and shock.

Junior Editors Quiz on STARS

QUESTION: Why do stars seem to be pointed?

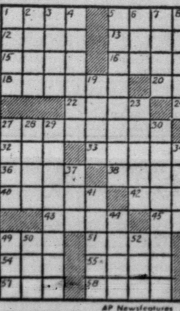

ANSWER: As we look up at the stars they always seem to have sharp pointed rays spreading out from their centers, and they seem to twinkle and whirl. They really are all huge masses of gases, and they look pointed and twinkling because we see them through the earth's atmosphere. Did you ever watch hot air rising from the sidewalk or the road on a hot summer day? The hot air itself is impossible to see, but you can tell it is there because the rest of the road looks wavy. Just so, the stars seem pointed and twinkling because we view them through the heat of the atmosphere. Centuries ago, men did not know this. They really believed that stars were pointed and they drew them that way. Today we know what the stars really look like, but we still like to think of them as sparkling five-pointed figures and we draw them just the same way as did the ancients.

FOR YOU TO DO: See if you can learn to identify some of the stars in the sky.

Republicans Boast Of Record Field

AUSTIN (AP)—Republicans say this is the year Texas will become a full-fledged two-party state.

For the first time, voters will have a choice of Republican candidates ranging down the ballot, in many instances, to justice of the peace and county judge posts.

James Leonard, executive director of the state GOP, says he is still trying to get a tally on the number of local candidates for the May 5 Republican primary ballot.

"It will run into the hundreds," he said.

"A man who sticks his neck out and files for justice of peace or the Republican ticket, evidently has support behind him or he wouldn't make the move."

"The number of courthouse candidates on the ballot indicates just how extensive the grass roots support is. We had a fair amount of legislative candidates in 1960 but nothing like the number of local and legislative candidates this year."

Democrats assert that all this is a lot of wishful thinking.

"GOP primaries are planned in only a handful of counties," said Clyde Johnson, executive director of the state Democratic headquarters. "In my opinion, the names of Republican candidates should not be printed on the general election ballot in any county that fails to conduct a primary election as is required by law. The Republicans are hoping, as always, for a free and

Pair Charged In Slaying

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—Murder charges were filed Wednesday in nearby Henrietta on two young Negroes arrested in the shooting death of James Earl Adams, 19.

Adams, an all-night attendant at his brother's service station here, was apparently killed early last Saturday morning. His body was found in a roadside ditch about 8:30 a.m. by a passerby.

Thomas Walker, 21, was arrested at the home of relatives Wednesday in Flint, Mich. In a statement he said his body was found in a roadside ditch about 8:30 a.m. by a passerby.

Walker said he would waive extradition to Texas.

Charges were filed in Henrietta, in Clay County, because Adams' body was found in that county, a few miles east of here. Officers theorized at the time that the youth had been forced to drive his slayer to the site, was shot four times, and his automobile stolen.

The vehicle was found abandoned later in Wichita Falls.

Walker first became suspected, police said, when his fingerprints were found on Adams' automobile.

They said about $72 of the youth's money was missing but that $53 was found in his pockets and about $145 left in his service station.

Fire Sweeps New Building

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Fire swept through the partially completed new U.S. Embassy building here Wednesday night. Flames shot as high as 250 feet, causing steel girder work to collapse and destroying wooden scaffolding. No one was hurt.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined. A Mexican official estimated damage at $160,000.

Officials feared the fire may have set back completion of the $4 million structure from six months to a year past the original target date of August 1963. Only the foundation, basement and first two floors had been completed before the fire. The building was designed to be the largest U.S. Embassy in Latin America and one of the three largest embassies in the world.

About 400 construction workers were on the job when the fire broke out in the building on the Paseo de la Reforma, the city's major thoroughfare. Firefighters were hampered by low water pressure but managed to get the fire under control 90 minutes after it had started.

Bachelor Actor To Wed Socialite

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Longtime bachelor Arthur O'Connell picked Valentine's Day to announce that he will marry a Washington, D.C., socialite, Mrs. W. Laird Dunlop III.

The character actor, nominated for Academy awards for "Anatomy of a Murder" and "Picnic," said he expects the marriage to take place within a few months.

He met Mrs. Dunlop a year ago at President Kennedy's inauguration and visited her during the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Dunlop is a widow and mother of two girls, 12 and 15, and a boy, 14.

Child Killed By Escaping Steam

NEW YORK (AP)—Steam escaping from a bedroom radiator took the life of one-year-old Shawn Lambie, lying in his crib. The child died Wednesday while his mother, Marian, was doing housework in another room of her Manhattan apartment.

Police believe a broken radiator valve caused the steam to gush out.

easy ride into the general elections.

In statewide contests, 11 candidates are in the Republican primary compared to 23 in Democratic races.

In legislative races, 90 Republicans seek posts in the Senate and House, compared to 543 Democratic candidates. The Republicans include two representatives who won recent special elections.

There are 21 Republicans in the district congressional races and 33 Democrats.

Texas has voted three times during the 20th Century for a Republican presidential nominee, but there has been no GOP governor since Richard Coke defeated E. J. Davis in 1873 at the end of the Reconstruction period.

The GOP nominees seriously threatened the Democratic supremacy in 1924 and again in 1932, both times when Mrs. Miriam (Ma) Ferguson was the Democratic nominee. George Butte polled 294,970 out of 717,528 votes cast in 1924. Orville Bullington got 317,807 votes out of 849,538 in 1932.

The 600,000 votes cast for William Steger out of a total of more than 2.2 million in the 1960 general election, is the largest Republican vote ever counted in Texas.

Harris County Republicans, in the state's most populous area, will have a record 23 candidates seeking nomination to 89 offices.

For the first time in Tarrant County history, there are GOP candidates for every position in the state Senate and House, plus a full slate for county offices.

"We have a real powerhouse for the first time," said John Edwards, Republican county chairman.

Labor Takes Dim View Of Mergers

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Labor is taking a particularly jaundiced view of 1962's merger proposals. It has never liked corporate get-togethers that might mean fewer jobs through elimination of duplicated work or closing less profitable plants.

But today the subject is doubly touchy.

Unemployment is higher than anyone likes. Mergers, running at around a thousand in each of the last three years, is blamed by labor for some of this.

Automation—mechanization of plants that let machines do much of the work formerly done by men—is blamed even more for drying up job opportunities. Labor thinks mergers favor automation, both by keeping the automated plant running and closing the less modern one, and by making the remaining unit company big enough to afford the price of more automation.

And finally, many of today's proposed mergers are aimed at cutting costly competition and duplication even more than at just making one big company prosper where two or more smaller ones struggled along before. Labor translates this, rightly or wrongly, into the loss of jobs wherever the duplication is eliminated.

Take the railroads. When the Pennsylvania and the New York Central said they wanted to merge, the Transport Workers Union immediately threatened to strike unless guaranteed that every present job would be preserved.

That threat was turned over to the federal courts. And now a union-sponsored study urges an immediate moratorium on railroad mergers until a broad national transportation policy can be worked out.

Management's reply is that the merger would be in the interests of the employees because the resulting giant railway would prosper, assuring jobs. Without the merger, the roads contend, they face continuing loss of business and perhaps even bankruptcy. Less business would mean fewer jobs.

Whenever a corporate merger, in whatever field, threatens job paring, management tries to convince workers they should look beyond the immediate personal loss to the opportunity for long-term gains. The argument is that a merger by making the resulting company larger and stronger increases available funds for new plants, equipment, sales activity. All of this, management says, means sooner or later more jobs in a factory, in the office, in the sales and distribution activities.

Management uses the same arguments about automation, which in many workers' minds is linked with the strong trend toward merging, either as a cause or an effect. And in all events, automation is linked in workers' minds with the loss of jobs to machines and with the high and still stubborn volume of unemployment.

White collar workers and the executive class often fear mergers as much as do the factory, mill or rail and airline workers. After a corporate marriage it's often hard to find places for two executives who have been doing the same line of work, or for two clerical workers when one piece of paper may now take the place of the two when the companies were separate.

It's all very well to tell workers—sometimes even to show them—that in the long run there'll be more work, not less. It's the short run that the worker sees. And he doesn't like to contemplate it from the line at the employment office.

Dr. Hohnberg, a native of Sandpoint, Idaho, was married and the father of three boys when he was reported missing in Syracuse May 11, 1955. University officials at the time expressed fear he was an amnesia victim.

The gaunt, bespectacled Hansen was informed at the Rockford Paint Manufacturing Co. Wednesday of the identification linking him to the professor.

"It seems rather incredible," he said, appearing dismayed. "I do not see how a man can break off one life and start another. I don't know what I'm going to do now."

Hansen said his earliest recollection is that a mortician gave him a lift from Elgin, Ill., to Rockford sometime in 1955. He was wearing a business suit. He had a few dollars, but no personal identification except an empty briefcase with the initials VH on it.

He said he decided to call himself Verne Hansen.

After giving newsmen the slip for several hours Wednesday night Hansen locked himself in his room in a second-class, downtown Rockford hotel.

The professor's wife, Dorothy, moved to California with her three sons—Carl, 18, Lee, 11, and Richard, 9—and divorced Hohnberg two years ago. Last year she married Gordon Babcock, a consulting electronics engineer, and the family lives in Menlo Park.

Says Bobby Misinformed

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel says U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy apparently doesn't know his American history.

Daniel said Kennedy is completely misinformed if Kennedy was quoted correctly in a statement he made about Texas annexation to a group of Indonesian students.

Daniel said it was reported that Kennedy said that the annexation of Texas and subsequent Mexican-United States war was "not a very bright spot" in American history.

The governor said if Kennedy was quoted correctly and intended this broad disapproval of this chapter in American history, it could be due only to the fact that he is completely misinformed and unfamiliar with the facts of this historical period in mankind's long fight against tyranny and despotism.

U. S. Coins Get Commission's Okay

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A select group of citizens Wednesday tested U. S. coins made at the Philadelphia and Denver mints and found they conform to specifications.

The mints make pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars. Denver samples were shipped here for inspection.

Under federal law an assay commission appointed by the President must meet annually to check whether America's coins are of the proper weight and fineness.

President Kennedy appointed 17 persons to the commission.

CONVENTION REPRESENTATIVES—Mary Ann Moffett (left) and Jean Young will represent the Snyder High School Future Teacher Club at the club's state convention in Austin Friday and Saturday. They will lead a workshop on "Winning State Contests". Four voting delegates are allowed in each district, and Miss Moffett will represent District IV as such. (Photo by Jackson)

Auditions for the talent show will commence this Friday, and will be held in the Travis Junior High auditorium from 2:30 until 4:30 p.m. Friday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The show will be held at the Travis auditorium.

Already scheduled to appear as featured performers are the May-o-d's of Snyder, John H. Hamblen and his son James; The Spastic

100 Pigeons Bagged In Georgia Town

SANDERSVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Two policemen using shotguns killed more than 100 pigeons roosting on the courthouse and other buildings in this central Georgia town.

Merchants had complained the pigeons were a nuisance.

About 100 persons watched Police Chief Tom Wiggins and his assistant, Ray King, as they bagged the birds one after another Wednesday. They gave the dead birds to anyone who wanted to cook them.

Four Persons Hurt By Grenade In Paris

PARIS (AP)—Four persons were injured late Wednesday when a youth pushed open the doors of an expensive restaurant near the Champs-Elysees and tossed in a hand grenade.

The bartender in Luigi's Bar, at 6 Rue du Colisee, managed to kick the grenade toward a refrigerator in the few seconds before it went off and damage was not heavy.

Baron Marcel-Henri Jaspary, Belgium's ambassador to France, was among the diners who escaped injury.

"It was definitely a surprise dinner," he remarked.

Pearls were used as legal currency for more than a century in colonial Venezuela.

Professor Missing Since 1955 Found

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—A pigment grinder in a paint factory, Verne Hansen, refused to talk today about his life as Dr. Carl Vernon Hohnberg, a Syracuse University professor who disappeared in 1955.

Hansen, 45, who works as a $1.90-an-hour laborer, was identified as the missing chemistry professor through a routine FBI fingerprint check.

Dr. Hohnberg, a native of Sandpoint, Idaho, was married and the father of three boys when he was reported missing in Syracuse May 11, 1955. University officials at the time expressed fear he was an amnesia victim.

The gaunt, bespectacled Hansen was informed at the Rockford Paint Manufacturing Co. Wednesday of the identification linking him to the professor.

Training Is Described

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. George C. Decker, Army chief of staff, said Wednesday soldiers get realistic training in how to conduct themselves and to resist brain washing if they become prisoners of war.

But Decker suggested this training could be carried too far and backfire.

Simulated prison camps staffed by officers and men in "Communist uniforms" are used to lend realism to the training, the general told the Senate Censorship Investigating subcommittee.

The objective is to condition the men to try to avoid capture, he said, adding: "There's a little danger in this. We don't want the men to feel we expect they are going to become prisoners of war."

Illness Fatal To Ethiopian Empress

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Empress Menen of Ethiopia died during the night after a long illness. She was 71.

The empress, the former Walzeru Menen, was a daughter of the half sister of Emperor Lij Jasu, who was deposed by Ethiopia's feudal barons in 1916.

Wed twice before, she married Haile Selassie in 1911.
