Lose Conference Game Friday

The Tigers lost to the Panthers last Friday night by a score of 0 to 6. The game was played in the way and the fans were disappointed to leave until the next week.

The field somewhat better than last week, but the odds, the Tigers gave an unexpected surprise and did not rip the Tiger line and his defense was very spectacular. Nicholson played a good game. The McLean line as a whole was congratulated on their turned in on a good game and Braxton was a threat of the local end, was taken with a sprained wrist, unable to play for the game.

McLean had a quarterback sneak tackle that netted 15 yards, Smith carrying the ball. Sparks, 180 pound power and mainspring of the team.

McLean led 6 to 0 and then the Panthers scored a few minutes of the game. The Tigers threatened to cross the line, but the Panthers tackled the Tigers tackle, opponents from behind. The fastest team but not the best.

McLean gave his all for his team. He tackled a 180 pounder from scoring. The game was taken from the Panthers. The Tigers lost the game, but was a glorious defeat. The field with the Panthers and the McLean team to a sandhill ram of the visitors. The Panthers won a victory, but it was a much better game than the last one. Let's back up or lose.

Lions Hear Dr. Rhodes and Thatcher

Dr. Jeremiah Rhodes of the State Educational Department at Austin, and T. D. Thatcher of Kokomo, Ind., field representative of Lions International, were the principal speakers at the Lions luncheon held at the Meador Cafe Tuesday.

Dr. Rhodes gave an interesting outline of the three classes of service club members; those who make only physical contacts, come for the food; those who make intellectual contacts, those who try to contribute something to the program; and those who make spiritual contacts, or attain the human touch in their relations with others.

"A fundamental truth is that success depends upon success," said the speaker. "There is no way to prosper when your competitor fails; money is made only as long as both prosper. There is no way to make money out of failure."

Arthur Erwin and John Harding were presented as local visitors.

Lions Meador and Greene reported the Oklahoma City trip.

Secretary Holloway announced the International meeting at Dallas, and some three local Lions expressed an intention of attending the meeting.

Vice President Creed Bogan presided in the absence of the Boss Lion.

MRS. STOKES HOSTESS JUNIOR STUDY CLUB

The Junior Progressive Study Club was entertained Friday afternoon by Mrs. Travis Stokes.

A very interesting program was presented, featuring famous women. Marie Curie, Madame Schuman-Heink, Florence Nightingale and Elizabeth Barrett Browning were some of the famous women discussed.

Delicious refreshments were served to Mrs. Roy Barker, Mrs. Frank Howard, Mrs. Norman Johnston, Mrs. Leslie Jones, Mrs. Vernon Johnston, Mrs. Herman Robertson, Mrs. Ruel Smith, Mrs. Murray Boston and the hostess.

PENTECOSTAL REVIVAL

Revival services began last Sunday at the Pentecostal Holiness Church with Rev. Paul P. Finchum of Oklahoma doing the preaching.

Services are held each evening, beginning at 7:30, and everyone has a cordial invitation to attend the services.

PLENTY OF RAIN

Most people are saying "too much rain" this week. A cold norther brought rain with it Tuesday and rain has fallen almost steadily since, a steady drizzle falling as we go to press Thursday morning.

ROOM MOTHERS TO MEET

The room mothers of the ward school will meet in called session at 2:30 Monday afternoon at the ward school auditorium.

Mrs. J. L. Collier and daughter, Mrs. Ira Unsel, of Groom visited in the J. A. Sparks home Saturday.

Memphis Meets Tigers Here Friday Night

The climax to the Jericho gap festivities Friday of this week will be a conference football game between the Memphis high school eleven and the McLean Tigers. All seats in the grandstand will be reserved, and the game will be called promptly at 8 p. m.

Memphis is bringing a veteran aggregation to McLean for the fray. Coach Walker has a heavy team that is plenty fast, and his brother has been playing on the team for three years. Memphis is noted for their aerial attack this year, so the McLean boys will have to get high to break up their passes. Coach Allen has been drilling his team on a new defense all week, to try to stop those passing Memphis backs.

McLean will meet their foe with none on the injured list. Bogan has been working out all week and will be in first class condition for the game.

Memphis defeated Lefors last week by a lopsided score and they are still smarting from the defeat the Tigers handed them last year. Memphis will be here in full force because the town is backing the Cyclone for conference honors this year. This game will be the third conference tilt for the Tigers.

MRS. BUTLER HOSTESS TO PIONEER CLUB

Mrs. J. W. Butler was hostess to the Pioneer Study Club last Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. Thurman Adkins leader of the program on "Women in Law."

The program was one of the most enjoyable and instructive of the season. Mrs. Adkins' address on proposed laws being especially enjoyed.

Roll call was answered by quoting some obsolete laws. Mrs. Roger Powers gave a history of Marriage Law, Mrs. T. A. Massay spoke on Marital Rights, and Mrs. Boyett on Recent Laws.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 15 with Mrs. Finley as hostess and Mrs. Greene as leader. The subject will be "The Home."

100% ENROLLMENT INCREASE BY BOSWELL

G. C. Boswell, president of Weatherford College, is given most of the credit for 100% increase in enrollment this season, 150 freshmen registering for the sixty-fourth session of the school.

President Boswell traveled 15,000 miles from June 15 to Sept. 7, speaking each Sunday from one to three times in churches, and making seven service club talks.

Mr. Boswell was formerly superintendent of the McLean schools.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY

Celebrating her twelfth birthday, Miss Dorothy Helene Bailey entertained at a party Tuesday afternoon.

Games were played, after which the children were called to the dining room where two tables were decorated in the Halloween motif. Centerpieces were lighted candles in jack-o-lanterns. In front of the hostess' plate was the beautifully decorated birthday cake with rosebuds, a birthday greeting and 12 candles. Favors were small Halloween hats filled with candy, with whistles as place cards.

Sandwiches, hot chocolate and cake were served. Martha Joyce King won a large jack-o-lantern as prize in a game.

Those attending were: Bennie Mae Wade, Dorothy Nell Woods, Martha Joyce and Frankie Sue King, Gloria Jean and LaVeta Jo Gunn, Billy Ruth, Patsy and Marion Rupe, and the hostess.

The hostess was assisted in entertaining and serving by her mother, Mrs. Bailey; her sister, Mrs. Kenneth Brodie; Mrs. Bill Rupe and Mrs. Booth Woods.

FREE POLO GAME

Arrangements have been made by the BOD to have a free game to the polo game during the Jericho gap celebration. Everyone is invited to see the game free of charge.

W. C. Carpenter made a trip to Amarillo the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Enloe Crisp of Alameda were in McLean Saturday.

Barbecue and Big Celebration Here Friday

Everything is set for the big Jericho gap celebration and barbecue, Friday afternoon of this week.

Beginning at 1 o'clock, the program will open at the Lone Star Theatre, with Rev. W. A. Erwin making the welcome address to visitors, followed by talks and musical numbers furnished by different towns along the highway.

Oklahoma City will have a 30 minute "spot" on the program; Amarillo is bringing several stage numbers, including a tap dancer, and other towns will add to the theatre program.

After the program, a monster parade is planned with bands, old timers, schools, merchants' floats, etc. in the line of march.

A polo game will be played after the parade and the barbecue will be served at the football stadium at 5 o'clock. The program and parade is entirely free, and a number of bands are expected to be present and furnish music during the afternoon.

Barbecue tickets may be had for 50c each, and the time for buying tickets has been extended one day. Local people can buy tickets any time today and be in plenty of time.

BAPTIST W. M. U. TO GIVE MISSION PROGRAM

Beginning Monday evening and continuing through the week, a special mission program will be given at the First Baptist Church, sponsored by the W. M. U.

BACK PTA

By Mrs. W. R. Ferguson

The Back Parent-Teacher Association was well represented at the school of instruction held in the Pampa high school building on Saturday afternoon. We feel that a great deal was learned from the instructions and discussions of the other organizations and that we will be better able to carry on our work for the year.

It was decided at the last meeting of the PTA that because of the large number of pupils in the primary rooms, additional room representatives be elected. On Friday afternoon the children, with their teachers, elected Mrs. Herbert Hale and Mrs. Ernest Dowell to serve with Mrs. Milton Carpenter. The upper grade room representative is Mrs. Grady Pearson.

Redecoration of the school building was completed last week. The interior of both rooms has been painted. New wall maps were hung in the upper grade room and a new blackboard in the primary room. Six new lights were placed above the stage and a new curtain ordered. A tennis court is also being constructed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Kunkel have returned from a visit with the former's brother in Eastland county.

JUNIOR FOOTBALL TEAM ORGANIZED

Coach Bill Allen has organized a junior football team for all boys interested in football but not heavy enough for the Tiger team. The average weight of this team will be around 105 pounds.

"Red" McCarty is coaching the boys and as soon as their suits arrive they will begin playing games regularly. A small fee will be charged to cover the cost of the suits and traveling expenses.

Games will be played with Lefors, Wheeler, Pampa junior high, Panhandle, Buchanan junior high at Amarillo, and other eligible teams in this territory.

Coach McCarty has a very formidable aggregation and these boys bid fair to put up a very interesting game of football. These boys are the future Tigers.

A first team has not been picked yet, but the boys on the squad are as follows: Turner, C. Carpenter, B. Cooke, L. Braxton, V. Smith, J. Bogan, Simmons, Finley, Windom, Guill, E. Ledbetter, J. Woods, Harris, D. Dorsey, Hugg, and Trimble, manager.

The games will most likely be played in the afternoon, announcement of which will be made.

BACK PTA WILL ENTERTAIN COUNCIL

By Mrs. W. R. Ferguson

A special business meeting of the Back Parent-Teacher Association was called Thursday afternoon. Arrangements were completed for caring for the visitors expected October 10th, when the County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations will meet at the Back school. A cordial invitation is extended to every parent and teacher in Gray county.

The aim of the Back Parent-Teacher Association is to become a superior organization this year. This was stressed by the president, and co-operation urged of every member, that we might attain the required points.

Preceding the business meeting, the room mothers gave a birthday party for the children who have had birthdays since the beginning of school. Cocoa and cake were served and a special birthday cake with candles for the five honored pupils.

MRS. KIRBY HOSTESS 1934 SEWING CLUB

Mrs. J. E. Kirby entertained the 1934 Sewing Club last Friday with a covered dish luncheon at noon.

The day was spent quilting for the hostess.

Among the members present, beside the hostess, were: Mesdames S. W. Rice, D. A. Davis, J. S. Howard, C. S. Rice, I. D. Shaw, W. W. Wilson, Wheeler Foster, L. S. Tinnin, Scott Johnston, Byrd Guill, T. A. Landers and C. E. Anderson. Guests were Mesdames Willie T. Boyett, Allen Wilson and J. H. Bodine.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. B. Upham, at which time the club quilt will be quilted.

FOOTBALL PROGRAMS PRINTED

The McLean Athletic Association sponsored football programs for the Panhandle and Memphis games. The programs were made possible by the merchants that have advertisements on them. Such merchants are behind the football team and are also community boosters.

Five hundred programs were distributed in Panhandle last week and likewise in Memphis this week, as well as in surrounding communities. Two thousand programs were printed for each game, and in this way the games as well as the merchants received advertisement.

The numbers were not right for the McLean players at the Panhandle game because their jerseys had been stolen, but this discrepancy will be improved for the Memphis game.

TO BROADCAST CELEBRATION

The Pampa radio station, KDPN, will have operators in McLean Friday afternoon from 1 to 3 o'clock to broadcast the program.

Joe Ginnings of Wichita Falls was in McLean Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Webb of Mobeetie were in McLean Friday.

PTA to Work for Ward School Present Year

According to a vote taken at the Parent-Teacher Association meeting last Thursday evening, the body will work for the ward school this year.

This action was taken after it was pointed out that the work of the PTA has been practically taken over by the room mothers at the high school and it was thought that confining the work to one school would be for the betterment of all concerned. However, it was pointed out that there is nothing in the way of having a separate PTA for the high school if it is thought desirable at any time.

It was voted to spend approximately $100 dollars on chairs for the ward school auditorium, instruments for the rhythm band, and first aid kits.

Supt. Cryer stated that he has received a dozen requests for the rhythm band to play for other communities. Some 120 children are enrolled in this work.

Mrs. W. L. Campbell, past president, was in charge of the program, and as all newly elected officers except the secretary, membership and publicity chairmen, had resigned, the following nomination committee was appointed: Mrs. R. L. Appling, C. A. Cryer and Mrs. A. B. Christian.

Mrs. Campbell exhibited a certificate from the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, making an award to the local body for outstanding work done last year.

The program given before the business session was opened with singing "The Eyes of Texas," Mrs. Campbell leading. T. A. Landers offered the invocation, and Mrs. T. A. Massay led the devotion by reading from the 6th chapter of Ephesians.

Miss Frances Sitter sang a solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Cecil G. Goff.

Supt. Cryer spoke on the Responsibility of the School, and T. A. Landers spoke on the Responsibility of the Home.

Four boy scouts put on a first aid demonstration under the direction of Scoutmaster Martin Murdock.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 22 at 8 p. m.

SHELburne HAULS BUS LOAD HIKERS

Maybe it is because he sold a car to a hitch hiker at one time, or maybe he became lonesome while holding a new school bus down to 30 miles per hour, that caused S. D. Shelburne of the Cooke Chevrolet Co. to pick up every hitch hiker he saw on a trip from Dallas to McLean in delivering the new Chevrolet school bus recently.

Mr. Shelburne says he had as many as 15 hikers in the bus at one time as they got on and off the bus during the trip, and he delivered the last one at Shamrock.

Most of the hikers were young fellows who seemed anxious to give their life history and they had a lot of fun stopping to pick up fellows who were very skeptical of riding in a school bus.

Shelburne says the hikers kept the slow trip from becoming monotonous.

DOCTORS TO HOLD MEETING

The second and third districts of the Panhandle Medical Societies will hold a joint meeting at Lubbock, the 13th and 14th of this month.

This is the first meeting of its kind to be held in Texas and assures the two districts prominent guest speakers that might not otherwise be possible.

Every physician in the Panhandle has an invitation to attend.

TWO FIRES MONDAY

Early Monday morning saw "Fire Prevention Week" ushered in by two fire alarms, the first being a car in Rush addition, and the second an overheated motor at the City Drug Store which was discovered before any serious damage was done.

Hoopin' Around

By D. A. Davis

Old fashioned "flap jacks" are old ribbon can syrup and country butter eaten for breakfast. I think a person have night-mare.

My wife cooked up a batch of flap jacks and I ate a couple of them. I think I had a nightmare about it. I dreamed one dream right after.

My dreams was, I thought down to town and dropped Bogan's office and the whole thing was crowded and jammed. I was trying to pay their taxes. He had on a force of clerks working like mad and just making money in the process.

I plan to use that money. I could use that money. I planned out to improve the streets and the city park. I was just getting ready to go down the water rates, and I was just getting ready to go down the water rates, and I was just getting ready to go down the water rates.

I got my philosophy mixed up. I was just reading one of our leading doctors where he claims it's all on one's health to all the other things. I've been for a long time what was my health, and there it is. I was just getting ready to go down the water rates, and I was just getting ready to go down the water rates.

I got my philosophy mixed up. I was just reading one of our leading doctors where he claims it's all on one's health to all the other things. I've been for a long time what was my health, and there it is. I was just getting ready to go down the water rates, and I was just getting ready to go down the water rates.

hour on them now. I'm sorry we could not get to them sooner, which forced you to drive at a twenty-five mile rate, and hope it didn't inconvenience you very much. Seems like it's awful hard to keep the streets smooth so you can burn up the road, so to speak, and I know it's awful aggravating to have to slow down to twenty or thirty miles an hour when you come down town after your mail or go home to a meal in a hurry, but folks, it just couldn't be helped. I'll try to not let it happen again.

And that street up by the high school sure is in fine shape, folks. If you will just push your gas pedal clean down to the floor just as you start down that dip between the Baptist church and the high school, you can pass the high school at ninety miles an hour easy.

FARMERS' DEBT ADJUSTMENTS

One farmer of Gray county has been enabled to avoid foreclosure or forced sale of farm or equipment as a result of voluntary debt adjustments reached through aid of the Settlement Administration. A total of 1,600 acres of land, as well as other property was involved. Debts amounting to $33,430 before adjustment were reduced by $10,430.

"One long-time purpose of the Settlement Administration is to help farmers toward ownership of the land which they operate," said A. B. Keahey, chairman of the county debt adjustment committee. "It is just as important to keep them from losing land which they already own as to help them buy new land." He said that the debt adjustment work is largely with small farmers whose financial needs are so small that other agencies find no profit in handling them, or where the debt is so large, in proportion to the value of the property, that other financing agencies consider it unsafe. The Settlement Administration makes no loans for paying delinquent taxes, interest or principal, but through committees of local volunteer workers brings about agreements between the debtor and creditors for reducing or extending the indebtedness to such an extent that the debtor has a reasonable opportunity of paying it off. Assistance is rendered in refinancing the debt, through the Farm Credit Administration or other public or private lending agencies.

Although it can make no loans for payments on land or taxes, the Settlement Administration is authorized to make loans for purchase of teams, tools, and supplies. Such loans were made in many of the cases adjusted during the year. Unsettled cases pending Sept. 1 totaled five.

Members of the debt adjusting committee for Gray county are: A. B. Keahey, F. L. Stallings and D. W. Osborne, all of Pampa.

Mrs. Henry Bossemeyer of Fayetteville, Ark., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Cecil G. Goff, and family.

TEACHER RETIREMENT

By John Harding

On November 3 the people of Texas will be given the opportunity of voting on an amendment to the constitution making possible the formulation of plans for a teacher retirement program.

The plan has as its general purposes:

- The elimination from active school service of those who have lost their efficiency because of advancing age or mental or physical disability;
- The improvement of the morals of those who remain in service;
- The retention in the service of the best of the present employees, many of whom in the absence of such a system resign to accept positions elsewhere or in other fields of work;
- The attraction to the service of a higher grade of employees.

Stated briefly then, the primary purpose of a school employee retirement system is to improve the school system. It will give employees time to give their attention primarily to their professional duties without the pre-occupation that the problems of making provision for old age require.

Fear is a most devastating human emotion; it gradually possesses the conscientious teacher who faces a destitute old age. Membership in a sound retirement system tends to overcome this fear, and safeguards both self-respect and security. Self-respect is probably the most valuable human emotion, and a sense of insecurity the most harmful. Professionalism demands self-respect and security.

The retirement allowance will be jointly purchased by and jointly beneficial to the teacher and the state. The state and the teacher make contributions concurrently, usually 5% of the employee's salary. To the teacher it constitutes a highly desirable savings account and offers an old-age insurance plan, which will strengthen the teacher's personal dignity and professional pride. This "pay as you go" policy is sound. It represents rights, privileges, and benefits, jointly contracted and paid for by the individual and the state.

Retirement of the aged teacher creates opportunities for the employment of an increasing number of better trained, vigorous, unemployed young adults. It is the duty of every citizen to give his whole-hearted support to sound retirement legislation thereby giving his children the benefit of alert, progressive, happy, professional-minded teachers.

Next week—What other states have done with teacher retirement laws.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly
Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained. Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes, feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

CHAPTER X

Pilar stood motionless, her hands clasped tightly around the railing, staring at him. Bryn moved off again, toward the house. He suggested to Pilar that they go in, but she shook her head and did not answer, and Bryn did not wait. It had suddenly occurred to him what it was that he must do, and do quickly. He must find Deborah, and tell her that he loved her. He reached the door of her sitting room. He tapped. There was no answer. He entered, and closed the door gently behind him.

Bryn hesitated, his eyes going to her closed bedroom door. He straightened his shoulders. He rapped lightly on the door. She would be there. She would be dressing for dinner.

"Yes?" her voice answered, softly, with that small lilt in it that sang in his heart night and day.

"It's I, Bryn," he said. "I . . . could you come out and . . . and speak to me? I want to tell you something."

"There was a little hesitation, and then she said quietly, 'Just a minute.' And, after the minute, she opened the door and came out.

She was wearing a dress he had never seen, another old-fashioned one, the quaintest and most old-fashioned one possible, but her beauty in it took his breath away.

"You wanted to tell me something?" she repeated.

Bryn looked at her. There she was, the girl he loved, with his wedding ring on her finger; and he had come racing to tell her that he loved her, and now that she was here before him, he was afraid.

"Aren't you going to tell me something?" Deborah repeated, knitting her brows faintly.

Bryn started. "Yes," he muttered. He swallowed. "Deborah, that is . . . did she . . . I mean, what did Pilar say to you this morning? I mean, what she said isn't important, but I want to know . . . that is, did she try to make you think that . . ."

Deborah was looking at him with those quiet eyes. She shook her head. "It doesn't matter," she said gently. "I understand."

Bryn took a deep breath. "You . . . you don't understand," he protested. "I'm trying to say that whatever she told you was wrong. It isn't true."

Her glance dropped quickly to her hands, clasped together before her. "It is true," she said with conviction.

"What is?" Bryn said in desperation.

"What she said. But it doesn't matter, you know. That is, not to me. I can imagine that you must be troubled, when you think about the position you find yourself in, but you needn't be troubled on my account. Really, Bryn. If only we . . . if only there were some way . . . but Grandmother . . ."

"The position I find myself in?" Bryn repeated incredulously. "What position do I find myself in?"

Deborah was silent for a long moment, her eyes still hidden. Then she raised them, and said, "Let's not discuss it, Bryn. It isn't necessary."

"Did she suggest," Bryn demanded tensely, "did she suggest that I was, or ever had been, in love with her? I suppose that's not a question a man ought to ask, but I think I'm justified. I'm just beginning to wake up to a number of things. Tell me . . . did she?"

Deborah's eyes darkened. "She showed me her ring."

"Her ring? What ring?"

"The ruby you gave her."

"Oh," Bryn said after a moment. He turned and walked away across the room. He couldn't stand being there so close to her without touching her, and there was still too much between them to think of touching her. "Did she suggest it was an engagement ring, Deborah? Did she dare say it was?"

"I . . . it wasn't what she said. I thought that was what she meant. But you needn't explain these things to me, Bryn. There isn't any explanation due me, you know. The explanation, it seems to me, is due to Pilar herself. She . . . she doesn't know exactly why you married me. It must puzzle her dreadfully. It must hurt her. Couldn't you tell her? She is all torn to pieces with being hurt about it, wondering about it. I can see why she talks as she does. I don't quite . . . it doesn't matter," she said hastily, and then, again, "I think you ought to tell her."

"I have told her," Bryn said, and came a step closer. "She knows exactly why I wanted to marry you, Deborah. Nobody in this world could have it any plainer."

"I'm glad."

Bryn came back to stand before her. "Deborah, if I explain about that ring, will you believe me?"

"It isn't necessary for you to explain. It isn't any of my business."

"But I want to explain. Will you believe me?"

Her eyes met his steadily. "Of course. But . . ."

"Don't object, please. Listen, Deborah . . . it was as businesslike a transaction as this. When I went to the Orient I was headed for India. We had talked all sorts of nonsense about jewels and precious stones and old treasures there, and after I got there I kept my eyes open for that sort of thing . . . and once or twice, in writing home to Pilar, I told her about one or two things I'd seen. So, in one letter I had from her, she enclosed a check and asked me to buy her the most beautiful ruby I could find. I bought the ruby, and had it set for her in India. That's the ring that she is wearing now."

Deborah did not speak. Bryn moved a step closer. He put out his hand and touched hers, gently. He took her cold fingers within his own, and held them as he spoke. She did not draw away.

"I have an engagement ring to give," he told her. "It was my mother's. It isn't a ruby, Deborah. It's a pearl. And the ring itself is much too small for Pilar's hand. I didn't realize it until lately, but I think I've been waiting all my life for a girl who could wear my mother's ring."

Deborah drew her hand away swiftly, and put them both behind her. She stared up at him, her face pale. Her eyes were very dark. Bryn stood silent, smiling down at her.

"Do you know what I'm trying to say, Deborah?"

They stood so, facing each other, eyes clinging together. Bryn took a step forward, lost, the world swinging around him.

A long slow sound floated in through the open windows. It persisted. It cut into his consciousness. Deborah heard it, too. She caught her breath.

It was Joe's horn, clear, demanding. It came again.

A wave of color began to sweep up over Deborah's face. She moved quickly. She had heard the horn, too, but now . . . she smiled at him.

Bryn put his arms out. He put them around her, lifted her off her feet, held her close against his breast. She buried her face against him. He bent and kissed the tip of her ear.

"I love you," he whispered, then set her gently on the floor and went swiftly away lest he should be tempted to look into her eyes again and so forget what must be done at once for the sake of her happiness.

Bryn dashed madly down the stairs and out of the house. Half-way down the path to the little bridge he overtook Tubby, thrust his arm through the crook of Tubby's elbow and dragged him along.

"And Who Are You?" He Inquired Belligerently.

Bryn flung open the narrow door at the back of the stable, and they stepped inside. Simon was already there, leaning against Bryn's car at the end of the row, his cigarette glowing brightly.

"Well," Bryn announced, "here we are, little buttercup."

"Oh," Simon murmured. "That's nice."

The headlights of a car came slowly across the bridge down at the road. A man's voice called out something to a sharp tone, and Gary answered from the gate. The car turned; the gate opened; the car swung through and stopped, as Gary shut the gates behind it and fastened them, according to his instructions. He came back to the car, climbed to the running board and stood beside the driver as it moved slowly forward toward the wide door of the stable.

"It's Graham, all right," Bryn decided. He stepped through the narrow door beside Hazel's stall, and the others followed.

The car jerked across the end of the incline, and slid along with protesting brakes to a halt beside the shadowy bulk of Pilar's car. Gary got down off the running board and went immediately back to slide the stable doors shut. Meanwhile, the driver flung open his door and stepped out, and one look at him was sufficient to assure Bryn that this was, without any shadow of doubt, Stuart Graham at last. He was out of his navy blues and in dark civilian clothes, a big blocky figure with tremendously wide shoulders that swung as he moved.

He was speaking to Gary. "Mrs. Larned expects me?"

"Yes, sir."

"Miss Mayne arrived home again safely?"

"Yes, sir."

Bryn stepped in through the narrow door. He was not a yard from Graham.

"How do you do," Bryn said pleasantly.

Graham whirled. He surveyed Bryn steadily, with eyes that glistened in the light. "And who are you?" he inquired belligerently.

Bryn lifted his eyebrows. "Sure you don't remember me, Graham?"

Graham straightened. His hand, hanging at his side, clenched itself. "So," he said softly. "It's you."

"Yes."

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

One Human Shipload
A Floating Microcosm
Intelligent Mrs. Widener
Mrs. Astor and Dr. Carrel

On Board the Normandie.—The ancient writer made this admission:

There be three things which are too wonderful for me, yea, four which I know not:

The way of an eagle in the air; the way of a serpent upon a rock; the way of a ship in the midst of the sea; and the way of a man with a maid.

What would that inspired writer say of this modern ship in the midst of the sea? The biggest ship he ever saw could be hung from the ceiling of the dining salon on this boat or tucked away in a corner of the sun deck, disturbing no one.

A modern ocean liner, Queen Mary, Normandie, Rex or Europa, as it crosses the ocean indifferent to waves and winds, is a small world in itself, a microcosm, with this little earth playing the role of "Cosmos." If this ship should sail to some new, uninhabited island of Utopia, it might supply everything necessary to start a new civilization better than the one invented by Sir Thomas More, who has been made a saint since he wrote "Utopia" to amuse himself and had his head cut off for his Catholic faith.

On board, with his friend, George Bacon, is Myron Taylor, head of the United States Steel company, biggest industrial unit on earth. He would supply the material for skyscrapers, ships, railroads and machinery, plus organization.

Simon Guggenheim would tell them how to make corporations profitable, by "holding on."

Various newspaper workers on the boat would be ready to start "the New Utopia Gazette"; Floyd Gibbons for war correspondent, plus members of the Edward H. Butler family, that own the Buffalo News, and the able Abraham Cahan, known to more New Yorkers than any editor in America, with one exception. And, most important to newspaper prosperity, the ship carries Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia, who has traveled up and down in every corner of the earth and says to your narrator:

"Mr. Brisbane, I have always wanted to meet you, because I read your articles every day."

There spoke the nucleus of a highly intelligent reading public.

Mrs. Vincent Astor, on her way back from a grouse moor in Scotland, would resume her real job of promoting deep music, finding co-operators in the passenger list—Madame Flagstad, the admirable Norwegian singer, a deep soprano able to make Isolde more impressive than Wagner ever imagined her. On board also is Arthur Bodanzky, ready to conduct the "New Utopia orchestra."

Mayor LaGuardia of New York will tell you how earnestly Mrs. Astor talks to him about her plans for a great musical center. But Mr. LaGuardia will never know what shudders would sweep from Ward McAllister's pineal gland to his Achilles tendon if he could hear Mayor LaGuardia say of the young lady in question, "That Mrs. Astor is a nice, serious girl, thoroughly in earnest."

To make this list complete, P. G. Wodehouse is on board, one who could and should describe this shipload of "important humanity" going nowhere in particular, for no reason in particular, some in the steerage, some "tourist" and some, with cabins on the sundeck, whose names break up passenger list continuity to make room for the magic words "maid, valet and chauffeur."

The contest between modern ships for the "Atlantic blue ribbon," or ocean championship, held at this moment by the British Queen Mary, supplies most amazing proof of modern engineering efficiency. Consider that, in a race across 3,000 miles of water, the Queen Mary, after being beaten several times by the French liner Normandie, beat the latter and took the Atlantic blue ribbon by a margin of less than half a mile, across 3,000 miles of ocean.

The oftener you cross, the more clearly you realize that the ocean is a great deal too big for our small planet. It is all one ocean—Atlantic, Pacific, Arctic, Antarctic, all touching—water covering three-quarters of the earth's surface.

Consider the Pacific; take your world map, Mercator's projection, fold it over from Asia toward New York and beyond. It will cover the United States, the Atlantic ocean and all Europe to the Bosphorus.

Comfort, Style in Pajamas

1923-B.

This suavely tailored club style pajama set is the essence of simplicity. Whether your cotton, satin, silk crepe, pongee or rayon is expensive or not you won't be taking a chance with pattern No. 1923-B for step-by-step sewing instructions are included and guarantee to guide you every stitch.

College girls approve its conservative styling—busy housewives find them adequate to greet the unexpected guest and the business girl revels in their comfort and ease assuring details. The trousers are amply cut and the soft blouse roomy enough for any 12 to 20's daily dozen. A natty pointed collar, wide cuffs and belt add an air of distinction to your garment.

Barbara Bell Pattern No.

Sour milk beaten into mayonnaise dressing gives it a delicious flavor.

When buying fish see that the eyes are not sunken in and dull. A fresh fish has clear eyes and the flesh is firm to the touch.

If the neck of a bottle is broken when opening, tie a pad of absorbent cotton over the top of another bottle and pour contents of broken bottle through it. Cotton will catch pieces of glass as liquid is poured through.

Marks on painted walls which have been caused by carelessly striking matches on them will disappear if rubbed first with the cut surface of a lemon, then with a clean cloth dipped in whiting. Afterward wash the surface with warm water and soap, and then quickly wipe with a clean cloth wrung out of clear water.

In the fall pack plenty of acid soil plants, such as daphnes, azaleas and rhododendrons. These leaves rot and make an excellent fertilizer. They may be mixed with the soil in the spring.

Hard cooked eggs, sliced, are made a tasty dish when added to a thickened tomato sauce and the whole sprinkled with cheese and baked 20 minutes. This is good for evening refreshments or Sunday supper on a rainy night.

Some fifty years ago the term legitimate was applied in theatrical usage to dramatic productions that followed classic lines—to the plays of Shakespeare, for instance—and distinguished those plays from farces, burlesques, or extravaganzas. The usage of today has broadened, and an actor in "the legitimate" is an actor, other than a vaudeville performer, who appears upon the actual stage as distinguished from one appearing in motion pictures.—Literary Digest.

HOMEMAKERS INITIATE EIGHTEEN NEW MEMBERS

The Homemaking Club accepted eighteen new members last Tuesday night at the regular meeting. The initiation service was followed by a hour and a theatre party. A good time was had. The club meeting for this week was postponed on account of the football queen contest. A new table and a roll of brown wrapping paper have been added to the foods laboratory. Articles pertaining to various phases of homemaking are being clipped from some of our old magazines. The articles are to be mounted and used as reference material.

TIGERETTES MEET SANDIES; ARE HARD AT PRACTICE

Last Friday morning the Tigerettes journeyed, along with the band and Tigers, to the depot to greet the Amarillo Sandies, who were on their way to Oklahoma City where they clashed with the powerful Capital Hill team. The girls yelled and sang, wishing the Sandies the best of good fortune.

Time was all too short when the Tigerettes began practicing for their formation last Friday night at the Panhandle game. But although they had had very little preparation for that particular event, they showed that they had had some excellent training. All the girls hope to give a perfect exhibition during the festivities Friday of this week. Their new uniforms will be here, therefore expect them out in full regalia.

FIGHTING TIGERS DEFEATED

The Tigers were defeated by the Panhandle Panthers last Friday night, but everyone gave them praise by saying that they looked greater in their defeat than in their victories. McLean played on the defense mostly and the offense was very seldom shown to any great advantage against their heavier opponents. The heavy backs from Panhandle could plow the McLean line for five yards each time until that goal line stand became too fierce, and the Panthers were stopped. Although the score was 13 to 0 it was a hard fought game until the last whistle, with the "breaks" being the real difference in the two clubs.

There is a very definite chance that the two teams may meet again for higher honors later this fall. That should be an even greater battle.

The Tigers meet Memphis Friday night in a game that promises to be one of the high lights in the district race since both are undefeated, and according to "dope" are stronger than the remaining teams. The McLean squad defeated Lakeview to the tune of 28-7, while the Cyclone dropped them by the wayside by the almost identical score of 27-6.

Scores of the conference games last week end were: Shamrock 9, Lakeview 6; Clarendon 0, Wheeler 0, first downs, 8-9; Lefors 6, Memphis 19.

BAND NEEDS NEW MEMBERS

The band is still in need of new members. Many have the opinion that the band is a boys' organization. This is a mistake. Instrumental music training is every bit as profitable for girls as boys. There is no reason why there should be more boys than girls in the band. At any rate, whether girl or boy, consider seriously the proposition of taking up the study of instrumental music.

SENIOR CAKE WALK

The senior class enjoyed a cake walk at the gymnasium last Monday evening. The boys invited girls not in the senior class, and the girls invited boys outside of the class. Admission of 10c each was charged. Two large circles were drawn on the floor, one smaller than the other. Then the circles were divided into parts and numbered. The boys had to pay a nickel to walk on the circle. The cakes that the girls brought were given to the boy who was lucky. "Cowboy" Finley was luckiest and had to pay the meager sum of a nickel for his cake. Poor old "Metz" Christian was the last one to get a cake (we think it had to be given to him at that). Then everyone received a large helping of cake and cocoa. After the cake walk, the entire class went to the show.

AGRICULTURE REPORT

The Future Farmers of McLean have settled down for the year's work. Some have brought their profits already. The sale that the town is sponsoring is a great help indeed to the boys in buying pigs and such livestock for projects. Some of the first year boys have learned to caponize by watching the older students perform the operation. The older students are supposed to be the leaders in showing the first year men how to perform any operation needed. This is so that we may have leaders every year in the future.

LIBRARY REPORTS NEW BOOKS

During the past week, nine new books have been received by the library. These books are by well known authors such as Faith Baldwin and Temple Bailey. The English classes receive credit for reading all the books received. During the past week, much repair work has been done in the library. This includes pasting backs on, fixing torn leaves, and other items. Again the library asks the cooperation of the students in keeping the books and magazines in good condition.

FOOTBALL QUEEN CONTEST

It has been customary in the past years that McLean high school conduct a football queen contest. The money raised in the contest is used for buying football sweaters. The queen contest was opened on Wednesday morning, after announcement of the rules in chapel by Mr. Harding. Since that time the town and country-side has been "lousy" with high school students. If the ball it will not be because the rest of the students have not tried. The candidates are announced in the following class reports.

SENIORS

The seniors met Monday of last week for the purpose of selecting football queens. Since we had a "sneaking" idea that it would not be long before the contest would begin, we elected our two queens two days early. May Belle Grogan and Marietta Young were elected. Marietta withdrew from the race Monday morning. Some of the lower classmen seem to think that this was another trick.

JUNIORS

At a class meeting Monday morning the juniors selected their candidates for football queen. Shirley Johnston and Lavoy Donaldson were chosen.

The junior class sponsored a carnival last Saturday in the empty building next door to the News office. Coffee, cake and candy were sold. Booths with various games interested the spectators.

These booths were run by members of the junior class. The money raised at the carnival will be given to the junior football queen.

The first elimination was held Monday afternoon at 1:05. Shirley Johnston survived and will be the junior queen in the final run-off between the classes. The contest closes Thursday afternoon. The junior class is going to try its best to break down the tradition that only the senior queen will win.

Naomi Gunn and Dorothy Sitter were the sophomore candidates for football queen. Dorothy won the primary election and has entered the final with the entire sophomore class backing her.

The sophomores have been working hard since the queen race began. They sponsored a show Saturday and they have also been busy selling candy and popcorn. Although their votes are not counting up very rapidly they hope to finally reach the top.

The sophomores also expect to have a fire prevention display, on which a committee is now working, in the parade Friday.

FRESHMEN

The freshmen nominated Bernice McClellan and Opal Thacker as their candidates for football queen. One was eliminated Monday, leaving Bernice to compete with the representatives from other classes.

Donald Angle will be absent a great deal this fall due to his working in the harvest.

The class sponsor, president and assistant sponsor chose a committee to design and build a float to put in the parade Friday. On the committee are Opal Thacker, Bernice McClellan, Adeline Riddle, Robert Wilson and James Fulbright.

SNOOPER

At the most thrilling moment in the ball game Friday night, George and Roy were running down the field on a touchdown. Roy yelled at George, who was carrying the ball: "Don't look now, but there's a guy following us."

When the band attended the Tri-state fair at Amarillo, Wanda and Jeff, of course, went together. As they approached the big city, Wanda was attracted by the Burrus Mills elevators. "Oh my," she exclaimed, "what are those things?" "Those are elevators," Jeff patiently replied. "Humph," said Wanda, "people won't come 'way out here to ride 'em."

 Pastor First Baptist Church

BECOMING A CHRISTIAN

Lesson text, Acts 16:22-34; Philippians 3:7-14. Golden text, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." Acts 16:31.

When Paul and Silas, with their company, reached Philippi, they found that it was not a religious city. There was a group of religious women who gathered together by the river side on the Sabbath day. Here Paul and his followers went. There was evidently not even a synagogue in the city. Paul preached to the little group of women who had gathered there, and Lydia was converted. She was a woman of wealth and did much to assist these Christians in their work. Thus the building of a church in Philippi was quickly begun.

The small group of evangelists continued their work through the city. One day there appeared a girl possessed of a demon, who was the property of a group of men who were making a living by the fortune telling of the girl. She followed the Christians and proclaimed the truth about them. This was not the kind of publicity Paul wanted, and finally one day he turned and cast the demon from the girl and she was again sane and of no more value to her owners. These men caught Paul and Silas and drug them to the market place and charged them before the officers. The people took up the cry and soon the two great Christian leaders were being severely beaten. They were then cast into prison.

The physical plight of these men with their suffering was next to unbearable. They were in the inner dungeon, unattended, bleeding, in chains and stocks. There, under those conditions, they sang praises unto the Lord. Such faith brought in response from God an earthquake that freed the prisoners. The keeper would have taken his life, but was stopped by Paul. Naturally the keeper knew the reason for the imprisonment, and knew something of the message these new men in the city had to give. Therefore, when he saw and recognized the miracle that had been brought about, and that these men were not ready to fly at the first opportunity, but had regard for his life, he fell at their feet and asked what he must do to be saved. It may be possible that even while he was taking much care to see that they be made fast so that they could not escape, that they had preached to him their message of salvation. This doubt made an impression upon him at the time. He could no longer resist the demand of his heart that he do something about it.

The message Paul had for the man was a simple one. The message of Christ's salvation is simple. It is so simple that many have missed the way looking for something hard. To be sure the result of the simple method of God is tremendous. But the greatness of the result makes the method no less simple. The simple answer was: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house." Not only the jailer could be saved by belief, but also the other members of his house or any one else, could be saved by the same method. Man's part is to believe with a whole heart without any reservations. Man is to wholly and completely place himself in the hands of God. This is a simple matter. It is then God's promised business to save the soul. God's saving work is a new and spiritual birth, according to the third chapter of John. According to John 1:12 and Romans 8:14-17, that spiritual birth brings the human soul into the relation of Sonship with God and in the Eternal Family.

The jailer believed. They went home, and while the wounds were being attended, the rest of the family heard and believed. The sought water that they might obey the first command of the Master, to be baptized. This was for the jailer and his family a wonderful experience and yet one that is offered to every human soul. The second scripture of the lesson shows something of the life of a Christian who has been born of the Spirit and is following the will of God.

Regeneration is not the end, but the beginning. Too many feel that when they are saved that is all. No, that is only the beginning of the spiritual blessings through service that God has in store for us. It is the blessed privilege of every follower of Christ to grow in grace and knowledge of Christ day by day. The teaching of the Bible would indicate that the individual who feels that salvation is the end, needs to experience true regeneration. From there one goes on to greater heights.

News from Back

The regular PTA met at the school house last Thursday at 4 o'clock. We had only a few present.

Room mothers for the primary room are as follows: Mrs. Ernest Dowell, first grade; Mrs. Jack Carpenter, third grade; Mrs. H. D. Hale, fourth grade.

Last Thursday afternoon Mrs. Jack Carpenter arranged a birthday party for those primary pupils who have had birthdays since school started. Billy Ferguson, Loujiana Roberts, Walter Todd and Rheta Pearl Hale were the honorees. Cocoa and cake were served to both rooms and the visiting mothers, after which Miss Anderson gave each child a present and they were dismissed to play. We thank the mothers for the nice party.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson and Miss Anderson spent the week end at Canyon.

May Lee Morse spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Racy Morse.

Mrs. Ernest Dowell has just returned from Dallas, where she went through the clinic. We are very happy to learn that nothing very serious was found to be wrong with her.

The County PTA will meet here Saturday. We are hoping for a large crowd. Everyone is invited.

Mrs. Sam Kunkel is visiting her son at Eastland.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leaf of Lefors were in McLean Thursday.

Season of Intriguing Woolens

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The new woolens are having their day and a grand and glorious day it is, marked with new designs in color, in designfulness and in versatility. They are as varied and glorious beyond description as they have taken on a sheer and featherweight texture that is much to their lure. With the thought of a back-to-school wardrobe that does not include a costume suit fashioned of some wool is inconceivable. So it's wool-gathering these fair designers are going with all the enthusiasm of youth that sets forth to what it wants.

College-faring girls are only ones engaged in the wild world to be first in fashion by stepping in a brand new autumn ensemble styled of chic and some wool weave. Fact is every woman who is fashion-wise is making a grand dash in the direction of the glamorous wool fabric season, which is exactly what she'd be doing to be smartly apparelled in the days to follow.

Among the woolens to meet the curious gaze of the woman in a modish materials for her costume are the most enticing and patterned weaves fancy possibly picture. These are new you will get all the thrills come with having a forward into fashion futures. In these wool weaves the pattern are woven right into the material. Then there are the cunningly patterned woolens which promise quite the rage. These make up so smartly in tunics, and waistcoats. They come in pretty floral and old coin dots and other clever mostly wide-spaced but not recently all-over designed. As to plaids and stripes and checks name is legion. The big idea now is a gay plaid skirt with one blouse or sweater. The flaring plaid tunic is also outstanding in the new stylings. As to the fantastically nubbled tweeds that are so important this season, everyone who sees falls prey to their wiles at first glance.

Designers are playing up the new woolens for all they are worth, using them by the two's and three's in combinations that stress striking contrast both in color and weave. The costume made up of two or more woolens is the "hit" of the season.

Two of the three models in the picture make contrast their theme, in use of versatile woolens. The ensemble to the left can be worn from early fall to early spring in perfect comfort, with or without its matching coat. Here a plaid rabbit's wool dress in pencil silhouette with a high surplice bodice and a bright velvet ascot has a plain rabbit's hair tunic coat with double-breasted front and wide revers of the plaid. The new "swing" effect is achieved with unpressed box pleats that start from the waist.

To the right in the trio a striped rabbit's wool plays a duet with a plain rabbit's wool weave. The dress in pencil silhouette has as complement a flared tunic coat of the plain wool with tuxedo fronts of the stripes. A bright velvet ascot and belt buckle match the color in the stripes. The dress is ideal to wear under a separate winter coat later on.

Centered is a cape outfit of jacquard tweed. It is this sort of novelty woolens that is glorifying the fabric style picture just now. The raised shoulder line which is the much-talked-of new silhouette is carried out in sunray tuks. The long sleeved dress has a flared skirt. The popular stand-up collar adds a keen touch, also a patent leather belt to match the patent leather shoes.

NEW-STYLE BAGS

ROSE DECORATIVE THEME FOR AUTUMN

Newest feature of this season's costume flowers is the American beauty rose. Singly, or in clusters, it is worn with full-length stem almost to the knee. The flower, flatteringly soft and graceful, is posed just below the shoulder.

The rose motif is also prominent on printed and blocked scarfs and in formal chiffon evening handkerchiefs. Rich evening brocades follow the romantic mode in large all-over rose or leaf designs. Rose patterns have all the old-world air so typical of the Victorian and Edwardian revivals that are dominating the fall modes.

Accents of rose on black are a leading theme for fall: copper-rose buckles, necklaces of rosy crystal, touches of lace in a faint blush-rose, nail polish in old rose with faintly smoke-blue undertone. Polish this autumn is going romantic, along with everything else. Soft shades of old rose, coral, mauve—or if you're wearing gold or autumn-leaf red, a new light rust polish—faintly echo the undertone of the gown or its accessories.

Knitted Reading Jackets

Novel nightdresses and matching reading jackets in pale blue, loosely-knit fine wool are featured in the fall collections.

Hand-painted buttons, decorated in the Swiss peasant style, are now to be had, and are strongly advised for the ski suit.

Taupe Felt Models

In felts for early fall there is an increasing trend toward taupe models.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Praising California.

VERNALIS, CALIF. — They used to say that California flowers had no real smell, and that California birds had no song—and that's a lie because the resident mocking bird feels it his Christian duty to get right under my bedroom window and sing all night—and that California grown foods had no flavor.

It's true California still produces one pear which suggests a low grade of damp cotton batting, and one variety of fig which could pass for library paste, and a certain tropical pawpaw which makes you think you've been licking postage stamps. And there's a special breed of mushrooms which is about the size of a derby hat and tastes like one.

But we can grow apricots and cherries and nectarines and peaches as toothsome as you'd ask for; and noble berries and luscious prunes and delectable grapes; and, on this great ranch, about the finest melons I ever ate. There's likewise a red onion which has a taste all right—eat it raw and you taste it for days and days.

And if you think our flowers don't smell enough, try our politics.

Troubles of a Pioneer.

LIFE in these parts is just one thing after another, and sometimes it's several things after another, all at once—such as the rush of the autograph collectors upon a poor, shy movie star, or the yelping onslaught of our estate beagles when a visiting nobleman incautiously intimates that he might sell his trailer and buy a lot.

But complications also pile up for a life-long resident who has been here, as I have, nearly two years now and so is qualified to join the Early Pioneers' California society. Here I go and take on a radio program—and I did so hope to fly east to see what Mrs. Harrison Williams will be wearing this fall. At times the temptation just to drop everything and start has been well-nigh overpowering.

Reducing Motor Accidents.

WE'RE great people at starting something, but, just then, along comes a new crusade or a new movement or a new style in divided skirts and we trail off after that, forgetting the issue which had seemed so passionately important.

Last January we were all enlisting to make 1936 a safer year on the highway. With the year nearly three-fourths gone, what have we done to reduce the appalling mortality? And what are we going to do before all of us, except the idiots and drunkards, who are supposed to be the special ward of providence, have been mowed down?

I'm reminded of the colored man in Mississippi who was convicted of murder, and his lawyer forgot to file an appeal, and finally the condemned man sat down and wrote this letter: "Dear Guvnor: Please, suh, I is on the middle of a particular fix and onlessen you do somethin' right away, they hang me Friday—here 'tis Wednesday already!"

Saving Your Teeth.

THOUGH thy teeth be but stately ruins, with English ivy growing all over them and bullbats nesting in the hollows, fight off for as long as possible those who think the root of all evil is the bottom of your remaining bicuspids. Don't let 'em be too fast about photographing your jaw either.

No man ever yet had an X-ray picture that flattered him. Particularly is that true when it's an interior view of the human face.

Because, the next thing you know, a gentleman in a white smock is testing some forceps and saying, "This may hurt—just a little." And then the next thing after that, your uppers are as false as Judas.

I did so and the result is that, no matter what else is on the menu, I go in for the Cobb pink plate special. A fellow does get tired of having everything he eats taste like rubber.

Sea Horse Is a Fish

The sea horse is a fish, but a very strange kind of fish. It spends almost all the time in an upright position, with its head up and its tail down. With the tail it can do something which the common fish can't do. It can cling to a weed. A sea horse swims while in upright position. A fin on the back is moved to give forward motion, and this fin has been compared to a propeller. It does not look or turn just like a propeller, but it gives about the same result. An air sac, or "swim bladder," helps the sea horse keep in balance. Most of the time, however, the fish holds tightly to a sea weed, wrapping its tail around it in spiral fashion.

GROUND GRIP TIRES

SAVE time and money and get greater efficiency by equipping the rear of your car and truck with a pair of Firestone Ground Grip Tires. They will give you the super-traction needed to pull through mud and unimproved roads and will save you the time, trouble and money of applying chains.

Harvey S. Firestone was born and raised on a farm in Columbiana County, Ohio, which he has operated ever since 1904. It was here on this farm that Mr. Firestone conceived the idea and worked with his tire engineers in developing a practical tire for farm use. Mr. Firestone's experience in farming gave him the realization of the need for a pneumatic tire with lugs of rubber that would increase the drawbar pull, roll easier, save time, and speed up farm operations on cars, trucks, tractors and all wheeled farm implements.

Firestone engineers are continually working with Mr. Firestone on his farm to secure greater farm efficiency. They developed the Ground Grip Tire which is so designed that in soft mud roads it cleans itself and the bars of rubber are so placed that they will not bump on paved roads. The design of this tire is so unusual and its performance so amazing that a patent has been granted by the United States Patent Office covering its exclusive features. The secret of the extra traction of Firestone Ground Grip Tires is the scientifically designed rubber lug of the tread. Under this extraordinary super-traction tread are placed two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords. This is a patented Firestone construction feature which makes it possible to weld this heavy tread to the Gum-Dipped cord body, making it one inseparable unit.

Go to your nearest Firestone Tire Dealer or Implement Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store today and ask to see these money-saving tires. And when you order a new tractor or implement, specify Firestone Ground Grip Tires.

SERMONETTE

By Rev. Stephen M. Tuhy
Lutheran Pastor, Oviedo, Fla.

Vol. 3

No. 38

Text: "Therefore, if thou
bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath aught against thee, leave there thy gift before the altar and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift."—Matt. 5:23, 24.RECONCILIATION DEMANDED BY THE LORDDuring Old Testament times, the children of God were required to offer burnt sacrifices upon the altar to God. This act of worship was a shadow of the greatest sacrifice on the hill of Calvary, the sacrifice of Christ Himself upon the altar of the cross. By means of this sacrifice our Lord took away the sins of the world. Christ became our Mediator.
When Christ died upon the cross
the ceremonial laws of the Old Testament were completely fulfilled and removed. Therefore, it is neither necessary nor required of us to offer burnt sacrifices upon altars in outdoor temples. However, we are to bring sacrifices and gifts to God, especially in the form of prayers and thank-offerings. When one wishes to bring an offering or prayer upon the altar to God, one must first be reconciled with his fellowmen. The Lord does not want the sacrifice of fools. To obey is better than to sacrifice.In His sermon on the mount our Lord and Master said: "Therefore, if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath aught against thee, leave there thy gift before the altar and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift." In this statement Jesus makes it very clear that when one brings his gift to the altar of God to be reconciled with God, one must first be reconciled with his brother.
Even if a person is actually in church and there remembers that someone has a grievance or grudge against him, he should not proceed with his act of reconciliation with God but leave the place of worship and go straight to the person who has ill feelings toward him, or whom hehimself has offended in any way.
Jesus said: "Leave there thy gift before the altar and go thy way;
first be reconciled to thy brother."
After the offending and offended parties are reconciled, then and only then may they offer their gifts to the Lord and be reconciled with their Master. The Lord says: "And then come and offer thy gift."When we petition the Lord to forgive our trespasses, sins and debts, the Lord requires that we also forgive our fellowmen their trespasses.
For do we not say in the Lord's Prayer: "And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us"? We cannot expect to be reconciled with God if we refuse to be reconciled with our brothers, sisters and neighbors, in fact with all of our fellowmen.The Lord wants His children to dwell in love, peace and unity. In order to bring this about there must be complete reconciliation between the people themselves and between the people and God. That is why the Lord unconditionally demands reconciliation on our part. Only the gifts of reconciled persons when placed upon the altar are sweet and acceptable to the Lord. God grant that our gifts and prayers may also be acceptable upon the altar before God's throne of grace. Amen.Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Regal of Amarillo accompanied the lady's mother,

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Jim H. Sharp, Pastor

Last Sunday was the first Sunday of our church school year, with a fair attendance. C. O. Greene, our new general superintendent, was in charge and he sure made a good talk to the school at the close of the hour. We are expecting a good year within our church school this year with the group of workers that we have. They need the help of everyone and there are many ways to help, but one that must not be overlooked is attendance. Be sure and help by being regular in attendance.The young people of the Clarendon district are to have a district League meeting here Saturday and Sunday and we want everyone to help our young people to have a good meeting.The following program will be given:
Saturday evening there will be a business meeting and social.Sunday, 6:30 a. m.—Vesper service
