EXCITING SHOW KEEPS SPECTATORS CHEERING

"Never a dull moment" was the order of the opening performances of the Ranger Jaycees' World Championship Rodeo in the Ranger arena Wednesday night, when the third annual show got off to the fastest start yet witnessed in Ranger and showed to a capacity crowd. The grandstand was sold out and standing room tickets were sold for the opening night.

From the time of the grand entry in which more riders participated than ever before, the packed grandstands were an uproar of excitement as the crowd witnessed the hair raising events.

Wirey calves, hard pitching broncos, tough steers and vicious bulls were giving the cowboys a rough night of it.

Only two bull riders held on to their mounts and three men were injured in the Brahma bull riding event. David Shellenberger of Marietta, Oklahoma and J. B. Bradshaw of Bandera were the successful riders and injured were Boots Hawthorne of Lampasas, Tex Lewis of Dallas and J. T. Tacker of Waco.

Norris Patton of Austin gave the spectators the first fearful thrill when the saddle bronc he was riding pitched him head first to the ground. Patton was only stunned and walked from the arena.

George Elliott of Muskogee, Oklahoma, at the microphone announced the opening of the rodeo and introduced the officials, judges and events.

Spectacular trick riding was furnished by Ruth Mariani of Ranger Ruby Tacker of Waco, Marge Monroe of Fort Smith, Arkansas

Pipe Lines Are Being Laid Into Old Leray Field

Natural gas from a "ghost town" will help to heat homes, stores and offices of a wide area next winter.

Lines are being laid from recently-completed wells in the vicinity of the one-time boom town of Leray (on the boundary between Eastland and Stephens Counties) to connect with a main line of the Lone Star Gas Company.

Leray witnessed a brief rush many years ago, but the crowds moved on, the buildings were moved away and the area was regarded as "played out" from the standpoint of oil and gas until recently when a deeper pay was found in the old townsite and production was encountered in a new area some miles to the west. Now the sector, to the northwest of Eastland, is witnessing renewed activity.

and Ray Ramsey of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Winners in the various events were: bareback bronc riding, David Shellenberger of Marietta, Oklahoma, first; J. B. Bradshaw of Bandera, second and Harold Watson of Belton, third; calf roping, Dan Taylor of Odessa, 19.9; George Brown of Keller, 20.4; and L. J. Freeman of Abilene, 20.7.

Cowboy saddle bronc riding; J. B. Bradshaw, Bill Barton of Abilene, and Herbert Frizzell of Beaumont.

Cutting horse contest; Robert Corbett of Breckenridge of House keeper, first, Margaret Montgomery of Ozona on Scarber, second and Harold Dixon of Aledo of Flying H, third.

Bulldogging contest; Bill Leach of Kilgore, 10.3; Bo Chesson of Beaumont, 14.1; and Goldie Corbin of Fort Worth, 14.6.

Cowgirls' barrel race; Amy McGilvery of Ozona, 10.9; Margaret Montgomery of Ozona, 11.5; and Doris Streater and Bobbie Dell Streater of Hamilton, 12 seconds each.

Cowboy Brahma bull riding W. N. Rice of Brooksmith and Shellenberger.

John Lindsey and his educated Bull, Iron Ore, spiked the entire show with their humor, with the aid of Ike Tacker of Waco.

Preceding the grand entry Sheb Wooley and the Calumet Indians furnished music from the center of the arena and the Pope Trailer Ponies were shown in a special exhibition.

Event judges for the show are Charlie Broadnax of Pampa and Buck Jones of Fort Worth. Judges for the cutting horse contest were Huey Long of Crescent and Sig Faircloth of Eastland.

The stock which is as tough as has every been used in Ranger is being furnished by Homer Todd of Fort Smith, Arkansas.

Music was furnished throughout the show by members of the Ranger, Comanche, Breckenridge and Eastland bands under the direction of Arthur Shelton and Jimmie Petty of the Ault Music Company in Fort Worth.

Kilgore Drops Game To Blevins Score 14-10

With errors playing a top role in the game, Blevins defeated Kilgore 14-10 Wednesday night in a softball slugfest. Heavy hitting and shoddy fielding, by both teams combined to make the score tremendous.

Blevins had to come from behind to win the game. They held a slim 1-0 lead after the top of the first inning which was short-lived as Kilgore, in its half of the inning took a 3-1 lead. They continued to lead for the first four innings. After a scoreless second, Blevins tied it up in the third with two runs, but Kilgore made three to forge ahead once more, 6-3. Two runs in the fourth narrowed it to 6-5.

Then, in the seventh, Blevins started a game-winning, seven-run rally. Trout singled. Williamson walked. After walking Williamson, Crosby moved to second and Tommy Edwards took over the pitching chores. He issued two hits and three free passes, but was hindered by four errors, all of which netted Blevins seven runs, and a six-point lead.

Kilgore's counter-rally in the sixth fell three runs short of erasing Blevins' lead. After Nelson and Woods had each got base hits, Crosby homered for three runs to make the count 12-9.

Two home runs in the seventh widened the score to 14-9. A home run by Kilgore made the final score 14-10.

Outstanding at the bat for Blevins was Jack Willis, who got four hits in four trips. The plate, walked once and scored four runs. The line score:

|         |     |     |   |    |    |   |
|---------|-----|-----|---|----|----|---|
| Blevins | 102 | 270 | 2 | 14 | 11 | 5 |
| Kilgore | 303 | 003 | 1 | 10 | 9  | 6 |

County Draft Board Members Are Named

According to news reports, Governor Jester has named the following to be members of the Eastland and Stephens county Draft Board: J. Frank Sparks, Eastland; E. M. Howard, Rising Star; E. J. Norville, Breckenridge.

The Eastland-Stephens county board is No. 36.

Mr. Sparks could not be located this morning for a statement regarding the appointment of the board personnel and the plans for setting up quarters.

Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey has told congress that 25 year olds would be drafted first and after that the draft would be worked progressively downward until it reaches the 19 year olds.

General Hershey also stated that the first call will be for 30,000 men and will come about Oct. 1.

Relatives Visit E. T. Tucker And Family Here

Sgt. and Mrs. Walter Tucker and children returned to their home Saturday in Alamogordo, New Mexico, after spending a two weeks furlough with his parents Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Tucker of 611 S. Walnut St. Eastland. Mrs. Walter Tucker had the misfortune of losing a brother while here, Mr. Paley Stedum of Olden.

Pfc. and Mrs. Jack H. Tucker of Albuquerque, New Mexico, were called home, she being a sister to Mr. Stedum. They returned home earlier in the week.

Erie Lee (Pete) Tucker, who is employed at the Willy-Willys Furniture Store went home with Jack and family while on his vacation. On his return home he came by Dumas, and visited another brother T. J. Tucker and family. T. J. is employed by the Shamrock Refining Co.

Mrs. Seaberry To Celebrate 92nd Birthday

Mrs. Nancy Seaberry, mother of Mrs. F. H. Toombs and Judge Virgil Seaberry of Eastland, will celebrate her 92nd birthday with a family reunion on August 4, at her home in Poolville.

Born in 1856 near Mount Ica in Montgomery county, Arkansas, the daughter of John and Mary (Coburn) Voyles, she came with her parents to Parker county before the Civil War, living there a short time before returning to Arkansas. In 1870 the family moved to Logan county Arkansas, near Booneville, in 1870, and again to Parker County, Texas, in 1879.

Married to H. J. Seaberry on December 16, 1880, at Poolville, Mrs. Seaberry still lives on the farm they settled on that year. Mr. Seaberry died in 1937. Eight children were born to them and all of them are living. Those other than Mrs. Toombs and Judge Seaberry, reside in Mineral Wells, Santo, Weatherford and Poolville.

Mrs. Seaberry also has twelve grand-children and six great grand-children. She has two sisters and one brother living.

Mrs. Seaberry's parents were pioneers of Parker county.

Mrs. Seaberry enjoys unusually good health and delights in her radio and friends. She keeps in touch with her numerous relatives.

Britain Stops Part Of Her Demobilization

LONDON, July 29 (UP)—Part of Great Britain's demobilization program has been stopped because of the Berlin crisis, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin announced today.

At the same time Bevin offered to begin discussions with Russia on an overall European settlement if the Soviet blockade of Berlin is lifted.

Bevin made a statement in the House of commons on Foreign affairs. Debate which has been scheduled was cancelled.

Bevin told Commons that the forthcoming three-power approach to the Kremlin was designed to find out "whether there is any prospect of removing obstacles which have arisen, with a view to a settlement which his majesty's government hope might lead to peace and security in Europe for all of us."

He said demobilization of "certain groups" of the Royal Air Force had been stopped because of the flight of supplies into Berlin. Steps are being taken to defer demobilization of other forces, Bevin added.

Explosion Rips Du Pont Plant In West Virginia

NEMOURS, W. Va., July 29 (UP)—An explosion ripped through the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours and Co. Plant here today. Plant manager T. A. O'Barr said three workers were killed.

O'Barr said the explosion occurred in a small building used for pressing black powder for soft rock and coal blasting. Other buildings escaped damage but operations were halted pending an investigation.

Blood cells are so small that 60,000 could be placed on the head of a pin.

WASHINGTON, July 29, (UP) — The White House today asked Congress for price and wage control legislation which would give the administration authority to roll back prices on cost of living items to last November.

The administration's proposal was outlined to the house banking committee by Paul Porter, former OPA administrator and now a special adviser to President Truman on an anti-inflation program.

The proposed legislation followed recommendations which Mr. Truman set forth in his message to the special session of congress on Tuesday.

Porter said the bill embodied all of Mr. Truman's recommendations except that of a new excess profits tax which will be proposed in separate legislation.

Draftees May Go Overseas Soon After Are Called

WASHINGTON, July 29 (UP)—

The Army indicated today that some men called up under the new peacetime draft may be on their way overseas 10 to 12 weeks after donning uniforms.

The estimate was included in an official draft circular sent by the army to its advisory boards throughout the country, local draft boards are expected to start drafting men 19-through-25 about Oct. 1.

But Lt. Gen. Willard S. Paul, Army personnel chief, hinted the Army may not need as many draftees as originally estimated. If the army gets enough volunteers, he said, "we probably won't draft anyone."

The new army circular said each draftee will receive eight weeks basic military training after he has been processed and assigned. After that he may be sent aboard, to school or to posts in this country.

Paul stated that draftees could be on their way overseas in from 10 to 12 weeks.

Labor Chief In MacArthur Hdq. Resigns Today

TOKYO, July 29 (UP)—Paul S. Stanchfield, deputy labor chief at allied headquarters, resigned today in protest against Gen. Douglas MacArthur's restrictive labor policy for Japanese government workers.

Stanchfield said he hoped to return to the United States with his boss, James H. Killen, who yesterday announced his intention of resigning as labor chief.

A "wildcat" teachers walkout has spread over Japan in the wake of MacArthur's "no strike" edict.

M. P. Herring Resting Better Is Report

M. P. Herring who has been quite ill in the West Texas hospital in Ranger, rested very well Wednesday night, relatives stated Thursday morning. Mr. Herring has been having blood transfusions every day the last several days.

Maurice Stalter Reported Going To Austin, Soon

Maurice Stalter, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stalter of Eastland and Fort Worth, who has been vice-president of the American Airways for some time and residing in New York City, with his family, is reported as having resigned and entering the Television business in Austin.

Mr. Stalter, wife and children have sold their home in New York and are moving to Austin.

The bill presented to the committee provided that the prices would be set at the level prevailing last November or the nearest appropriate period, with consideration given to—
1. Speculative fluctuations.
2. Changes in costs.
3. Changes in profits and other relevant factors.

The bill provided that wage controls may be established only after a maximum price has been fixed for a particular industry and then only if the employer requests a wage adjustment for his employees as a basis for seeking price relief.

It called for revival of wartime restrictions on installment buying. It would require a one-third down payment on such items as automobile and cooking stoves with a specified length of time for paying off the balance.

Price controls could be established on cost of living commodities on those important to production when ever the price has risen or threatens to rise at least 20 per cent above the June, 1946, level or nearest representative period, whenever regulation of the price is "practicable and enforceable."

WASHINGTON — The Senate headed into a long-deferred filibuster over civil rights legislation today with a compromise plan arousing some interest — but no action — from three warring groups.

Southern Democrats, who sometimes shy away from the term "filibuster" admitted they were ready to do just that after prolonged debate on the "merits" of the Anti-poll tax bill. The compromise plan envisaged elimination of poll taxes by constitutional amendment.

It was that bill, outlawing poll taxes in federal elections, which Senate Republicans picked for the showdown fight on the civil rights issue. Sen. John C. Stennis, D., Miss., was nominated by the southerners to lead off the debate. Some 20 other Senators have been lined up behind the campaign to talk the bill to death.

Duster Area Attracting Much Interest

The area in the vicinity of Duster, where there are several wells which have been producing a number of years and where recently a 40-barrel well was completed, is attracting attention.

This interest has revived a yarn that goes back to the days of the big Eastland boom of 1918-21 when acreage in all directions was in great demand.

A newcomer according to the story, bought a lease in Comanche County without looking it up on a map. When he did get around to locating his tract on the map, he found close by, in big letters, the word, "Duster." In oil field parlance, "duster" of course means a dry hole. So he hunted up the man who had sold him the lease and gave him a licking.

The town of Duster was named long before oil was dreamed of and refers to "dust-storms" or "dusters," which sometimes are to be seen in the sandy country hereabouts.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

U. S. Statistics Diggers Will Turn Up Some Hot Potatoes

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—President Truman's mid-year report from his Council of Economic Advisers is due any day now. Also on tap is the summary on government expenditures for the next fiscal year ending June 30, 1949. This latter document is prepared by the Bureau of the Budget after a most careful check on all the appropriation bills passed by the last Congress.

Both of these reports are supposed to be cold analyses of conditions and outlook in business and government spending. This year, however, the two reports will be important campaign literature.

In the case of the budget summary, there is a first real accounting on how much the Republican dominated congresses were able to cut President Truman's $39,000,000,000 estimate of last January. Congress voted to cut this budget by $2,500,000,000. Chairman John Taber of the House Appropriations Committee claims they did.

There are so many hidden gimmicks in appropriation bills, however, that many "contract authorizations" substituted for outright appropriations—that it usually takes a month after Congress goes home before the true totals can be obtained.

ANY way this year's government budget is looked at, it is inflationary. The increased appropriations for European recovery, for China relief and military aid, for the 70 group U. S. Air Force plan, increased Army and Navy appropriations and provision for the draft—all give government spending a great big boost, regardless of any legal or theoretical budget savings.

Similar inflationary trends are bound to be noted in the President's economic report on private business conditions.

Wholesale prices reached a new postwar peak of 166 per cent above the 1926 level at the end of June.

In the past year the cost of food has gone up over 20 percentage points, clothing over 10 and rents about eight. As compared with perwar, food is up over 105 per cent, clothing 90 per cent, rent 10 per cent.

All this is political campaign ammunition. Republicans will blame the Democrats for the increased foreign spending programs. Democrats will blame Republicans for refusing to do anything about putting some anti-inflationary controls back on. Labor will blame management for boosting prices and management will blame labor for demanding more wage increases.

RECENTLY the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report took over from the President's Council of Economic Advisers the job of publishing an up-to-the-minute monthly survey of business statistics, to be called "Economic Indicators." By graph and table, it will give the latest data on prices, employment, production, business activity, purchasing power, money, banking, federal finance.

But already it has been discovered that the government doesn't have enough data in many fields to do an accurate job of economic diagnosis. In a report just issued by the Joint Committee's staff, attention has been called to some of the statistical gaps—the areas in which there still isn't enough dope to tell where business has been or is, and where it's going.

These are some of the fields in which the government needs more statistics to throw at you:

Surveys on consumer purchasing demand by geographic areas.
Reports on wages of employees not covered by geographic areas.
Information on capital returns of unincorporated business.
Detailed breakdowns on unemployment by areas and occupations.
More about how small and medium business is faring.
A new census on wholesale and retail trade establishments.
Better data on the volume and costs of new construction.
New methods on measuring productivity in U. S. industry.

THE SCOREBOARD

Dempsey Faced Gibbons, Firpo In Epic Fights 25 Years Ago

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Proponents of Jack Dempsey as the greatest of all heavyweight champions—despite venerable Billy Roche to the contrary—bolster their claim by pointing out that every one of the Manassa Mauler's battles was an epic.

This year marks the 25th anniversary of two of his engagements that were unique, yet diametrically opposite in every way.

Dempsey's fight with Tom Gibbons, July 4, 1923, in the frontier town of Shelby, Mont., was the only one of his championship battles to go 15 rounds. Gibbons, well versed in the clever stuff, however, found more than his match in the champion, and was hard put to it to go the distance.

The setting, and circumstances leading up to and surrounding the affair lent vivid color. Shelby, it seems, wanted to put itself on the map, and local businessmen conceived staging the Dempsey-Gibbons fight there. Jack Kearns, then managing the champion, was promised a guarantee of $300,000.

The usual influx of star sports writers converged on the scene. Almost overnight the frontier town boomed into full flower.

When it was staged, there were more gate craters than cash customers for the great tent, and poor Gibbons wound up fighting for nothing. Dempsey collected about $250,000, and Shelby went broke.

THE Shelby fight proved a warm-up for the wildest, most tumultuous of all Dempsey's battles, that with Luis Angel Firpo, the Wild Bull of the Pampas, at the Polo Grounds the following Sept. 14. There never was such a shambles in the history of prize-fighting—probably never will be.

Before the echo of the opening gong had died, the Tiger Man had hurled himself at the Wild Bull and had been jolted to his knees. He pulled himself up like a boy climbing a tree, and proceeded to batter Firpo to the floor seven times. Then the South American electrified the wild crowd by smashing Dempsey through the ropes and out of the ring.

How Dempsey was half-pushed, half-crawled back, how he came back after that tempestuous round and knocked out Firpo is history. But the hysterical madness of the crowd probably never will be fully recorded. For instance, Mickey Walker, then welterweight champion, found himself beating a man in front of him on the back and shrieking crazily for Dempsey. Suddenly the fellow turned and smote Walker on the chest, knocking him four rows back.

When some semblance of sanity was returning, the big fellow turned to Walker and apologized: "Gee," gasped Walker, "no wonder you hit me so hard. Honest, Babe, I didn't know it was you." But that's who it was—Babe Ruth!

THE STORY: Jessica goes to a movie with Doris and sees David in the audience—with Sara Linton. She feels she must speak to him and phones him at his office. David urges her to meet him that afternoon. She agrees. Mrs. Blake has overheard the phone call and tells Jessica that after Tom's return "there'll be no more of this gallivanting about with strange men." Jessica tells Mrs. Blake that her marriage to Tom has been a mistake.

XXI

JESSICA dressed rapidly, late for her engagement with David, woke Betsy and hurried her into her clothes and across the street where Doris was busily engaged cleaning out her closets.

"Bill's coming home," said Doris over her shoulder. "After the training he's had in the Navy he'll expect to have the place looking shipshape, won't he? I got off early this afternoon. I'm not going back to work until Monday so if you want me to keep Betsy any time—"

Jessica smoothed Betsy's ruffled curls. "It will not be long now until we leave here," she said confidently. "Any further word from Tom?" Doris frowned at a spot on a man's cheap sports coat and removed the coat from its hanger. Betsy ran about eagerly investigating the contents of a box Doris set on the floor for her to examine.

Jessica stood in the doorway stripping her gloves through her nervous hands. "No," she said, "but he's due home any day now. I'm planning to leave just as soon as I can after he arrives."

Doris shot her a glance. "You think it will be easy?"

"How can he keep me?" Jessica shrugged. "I've never known anyone more stubborn than Tom Blake, unless it is his daughter."

Jessica left with that stifling her own doubts as she took the bus, and wishing that she had abided by her first decision not to see David.

BUT just seeing him dispelled all doubts. It was fun to have a handsome, broad-shouldered man come forward to greet you eagerly. Exciting to read the gleam in his bright eyes.

"You look wonderful today," he said, and his eyes darkened. "But this is no place to tell a woman that you love her."

Jessica said, "I'm a fool to see you after begging you not to call me, David."

"Such a lovely fool."

"David, I'm scared," she said.

"Scared?"

"Of myself. I can't explain exactly. Maybe I'm trapped by a sense of duty. Maybe I'm infected with a feeling of obligation which makes me fear I won't have the strength to oppose Tom when he comes."

"What do you mean, exactly?" "I'm afraid of Tom's mother, David. Really, I'm not being silly about this." She told him about the scene that afternoon and David listened gravely.

"It's probably just as well that she knows the truth," he said. "Why not tell her quite frankly that you plan to divorce her son?" "I couldn't," Jessica shivered. "There will be unpleasantness enough later. Besides, I owe it to Tom to tell him first."

There were so many things Jessica wanted to discuss with David that afternoon. Mrs. Blake's growing influence with Betsy, her attempt to awaken Betsy's interest in her father, her own uneasiness. But there were eager plans for the future to discuss, too. Already David had requested a leave of absence. Possibly he might be sent abroad for his firm, and it was not impossible that he could combine business and a honeymoon.

Events moved swiftly these days. Rationing was abandoned on many things, regulations lifted. Was it impossible that he and Jessica take a wedding trip on a clipper to Europe?

She found herself alarmed by David's indifference to any obstacle which might arise to prevent the fulfillment of these plans, plans which seemed fantastic and unreal as Jessica listened.

THEY drove deep into the park where David had surprised her that day in October. He stopped the car and indicated the bench where she had sat so lonely, never dreaming that she would see again the man she had talked with at the airport—David. Odd now, to think of David as a stranger.

"There was never a doubt in my mind about you from the first moment I saw you, Jessica," he said. "You were lovely then—you are beautiful now. That's because you belong to me."

But she didn't belong to David—not yet.

She couldn't bear to discourage him when he pleaded with her to let him hold her in his arms.

All wrong, she knew, knew with an odd and growing sense of apprehension, a strange presentiment that they were crowding their luck.

"David," she spoke his name brokenly, her heart torn by a great fear.

David said, "You're crying. This is no time to cry. Look, darling, tell me why you are afraid."

She only clung to him, unable to put into words her feeling, unwilling to spoil this hour with doubts and apprehensions. By a sense of bereavement, he lifted her face to meet his gaze by kiss.

Maybe she lacked courage. Maybe weakness explained her failure to have the hope David held that they would soon be happy together. Possibly she was a coward, unable to make the right decision. Why else should she stand and look after David's car as it drove away, wanting to cry but and beg him to take her with him?

Jessica was obsessed by a feeling of deep despair which haunted her all that evening. There were so many obstacles between her and the new happiness David considered so certain.

"Tiny Tim," a rocket with 125 pounds of TNT in its warhead, rests on its 1500-foot launching rail, left, before being tested. The flying missile is undergoing research at the Navy's Michelson Laboratory at the Naval Ordnance Test Station, Inyokern, Calif. The rail does not vary one-sixteenth of an inch in its entire length. At right is a sheet of two-inch plate, through which "Tiny Tim" punched holes.

Farm Of Tomorrow Is Something You Would Hardly Recognize Now

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—A farmer's life will be much easier on the push-button farm of the future.

University of Wisconsin scientists have set up a model electrically-operated "farm of tomorrow" that cuts today's farmer's time and labor some 30 per cent.

The project started when university scientists found that more than 56 per cent of the average Wisconsin farmer's work consists of daily chores. And 41 per cent of that time, they found, is concentrated in the dairy barn.

The university got a grant of $100,000 from the Wisconsin Utilities Assn., took over a 140-acre farm near Madison and went to work.

That was two years ago.

Now the model farm is on display, showing farmers how to get merely pushing a button.

For example, cow stalls are kept clean by paddles on a moving chain that sweep the gutters. When the cow needs food, silage is brought down through an electric suction chute to a feed cart. The cart is pushed in front of the cow, measures the feed and throws it in the mangers.

A foot operated lever opens doors into the milk house so the farmer can enter it with full milk pails in both hands.

In the new farm, warm dry air from a ventilating fan is forced through green hay for curing. Tests prove artificially dried hay produces more milk than field-dried hay that has been soaked with rain.

The model farm also comes to the aid of the farmer's wife. Kitchen drawers and shelves have roller bearings so they can be pulled out without sticking. An electric stove, refrigerator and mixer are standard equipment.

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Brucker

THE STORY: Jessica sees David again. She is happy to be with him but feels a sudden upsurge of fear. David is sure everything will turn out all right. Jessica can't seem to fight off her despair.

XXII

LUCY was different. She would come home from work and make a listless effort to eat her supper, help with the dishes as usual, and sit down with a book or her sewing. But her thoughts were not upon the book. She would drop the sewing in her lap and stare vacantly across the room at nothing in particular.

Her gray-blue eyes mirrored alarm when Jessica asked her one evening, "What's wrong with you, Lucy?"

"Wrong?" She tried to speak briskly, picked up her sewing, a dress she was making for Betsy, and began to work with almost feverish activity. "What could be wrong?" she demanded.

Mrs. Blake came in from the kitchen and sat down near them. She said, "She's worn out waiting on Betsy. It isn't her place to take so much responsibility. When I had children—"

Lucy spoke mildly but firmly. "When you had children the situation was entirely different. Mother. You had a husband in the home who could help you."

Mrs. Blake paid no attention to her daughter but went on to eulogize Genevieve instead. How capable, such a good girl and so helpful. "I really don't know how I could have managed this past year without her," she observed; and, although she did not look up, Jessica felt her mother-in-law's hard eyes fastened accusingly upon her.

Finally, Mrs. Blake, receiving no response from Lucy, and no evidence that her baiting would bring a retort from Jessica, got up and returned to the kitchen.

LUCY dropped her sewing as the kitchen door closed behind her mother. "I wish Genevieve would not persist in coming here," she said. "She upsets Mother." She smiled faintly. "You have probably guessed that Genevieve has wanted to marry Tom ever since they went to Sunday school together. Mrs. Miles and Mother had no other idea but that Tom and Genevieve would marry eventually."

"Maybe she still has hopes," remarked Jessica, tossing aside the paper. "Look—why does your mother hate me, Lucy?"

Lucy's work slid from her lap to the floor. She stooped and retrieved it, removed her thimble and stuck her needle into her throat before she answered.

"Mother's bitter," she said slowly. "She's always been like that—hating someone. I think she despised my father. He liked to laugh, have fun. Mother taught us that pleasure was a sin. I grew up thinking of only one thing—what I must do or not do to go to heaven. Now, I wonder—"

She broke off and her eyes shifted away from Jessica's as she went on hastily. "I shouldn't say that. I try to do what is right."

Jessica swung her chair about and caught Lucy's slender fingers. "You're too good, Lu," she said impulsively. "You should have a life of your own, marry, have a husband."

The color flooded Lucy's delicate skin. "I'll never marry," she said bitterly. "I'll live here with Mother until I'm pensioned. I'll be like those horrible old maids who become queer!" She covered her face with her hands.

She was crying, Lucy crying! "You'll be nothing of the kind," Jessica assured her. "You're sweet and lovely, Lucy. All that stiffness is a sham. You're a little fraud, pretending you like to think of nothing but work. It would do you good to leave this town and go away from your mother. Really, I mean it. A change would do wonders for you. Buy some new clothes—remember you're young—find a boss who isn't a slave driver like Hugh Linton."

LUCY dabbed at her eyes, bit her lips. "I don't know why I went to pieces like that," she said apologetically. "Things haven't gone so smoothly at the office lately. I've been nervous and Hugh has been impatient with me—"

She looked up startled. "I mean Mr. Linton. And I shouldn't criticize Mr. Linton. He's been so generous to me always..." Her voice trailed off and again her face worked pitifully. "I'm ashamed of myself," she said angrily. "Please don't tell Mother, will you?"

"Of course not," said Jessica. "But you work too hard. No man should expect his secretary to spend her evenings bent over a typewriter."

Shortly afterward Mrs. Blake returned, flashing a suspicious glance at Lucy. "Would you like to walk over to Genevieve's, Lucy," she asked, "and see if she can help me tomorrow evening with my jelly? I've never seen a girl so capable as Genevieve."

She rambled on, but Jessica rose and said: "Want me to go with you, Lu?"

"Will you?" When they were outside together walking down the street, Jessica took Lucy's arm. She said, "I want to tell you something. Something which may upset you, but I think you should know."

Lucy said, "It's about David Gregory, isn't it?" "He is in your office?"

"Yes. Of course, I seldom see him, for I'm in another office, but he has frequent conferences with Mr. Linton."

Lucy knew a David Jessica had never seen. Jessica thought of how little she knew of David except their meetings. She felt a stab of uneasiness. Once before she had been tricked by ardor and infatuation. Was she weak and starved for affection and consequently vulnerable when she had met David Gregory?

the Texas Memorial Museum. They returned to the University with 20 different kinds of shells, and bones of almost 40 different kinds of fish and birds.

"We also got a good idea how the Karankawas lived," Dr. Campbell said. "We found flint tools, arrow points, scraping and cutting tools. We also found quantities of pottery. Those Indians used melted asphalt to decorate their pots, and also to line their baskets."

The Karankawas were living on the Texas coast when the Spaniards and French came to Texas, and were the tribe which destroyed La Salle's Fort Louis.

The shell heap investigated by the University anthropologists is known as the Mustang Lake site, and it belonged to the Rockport culture.

Full Use of Electrical Appliances

Your kitchen planning should provide properly placed convenience outlets for all of your portable electrical appliances—those you have now and those you plan to add later.

There are many small appliances to make your kitchen tasks easier—the toaster, mixer, coffee maker, waffle iron, toaster, grill and many others. List those you will want in your kitchen and plan outlets for them.

Your overhead wall cabinets can be equipped with built-in outlets on the under surface. (See illustration at the left.) Or, regular double-socket outlets can be installed along the walls, above the drainboard.

The importance of proper wiring cannot be overemphasized. The cost of good wiring, including all the outlets you need, is insignificant compared to the convenience it will bring to your electric kitchen.

Consult your electrical contractor-dealer, architect or builder about adequate wiring.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

I'm agin any rationing of gasoline for Texas!

Last winter, we shivered and dozens of cities shut down and hundreds of schools were closed because we didn't have gas—when at the same time hundreds of millions of cubic feet of Texas gas was going to the North and East.

Let's quit being saps. We produce the oil and refine the gasoline that we want and the rest of the United States can have the rest.

The Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts referred to the people of the Southern states as "backwoods yahoos," or something to that effect not long ago, and if we let him and the other people of his section impose rationing of our gasoline on us, we are exactly what he says we are.

Do the people of Chicago refrain from going to big league ball games which are played in their city simply because we of the Southwest can't go? Do the people of New York refrain from going to a Broadway hit just because we of this section can't see it? You can bet your favorite fedora band that they don't. Being able to see big league baseball and Broadway shows is one of the advantages, I might say—that living in the North offers.

If the Yankees want plenty of gasoline, let 'em move to Texas—(As a good many of them have).

The career of an athlete, even the greatest, is tragically short. Years and years ago, there was an old-timer who pitched for the semi-pro club in Eastland. He summed up the whole story of an athlete in this remark, "When I was a youngster, they said I had a million-dollar arm and a two-bit head; now, I've got a million-dollar head and a two-bit arm."

It's mighty nice to be able to add a few extra dollars to the family fun fund... especially if you're planning a vacation or week-end trip. So why not start saving them now with the help of dollar-stretchers like these?

BRIGHT SAIL BUDGET AIDS

If you want efficient products that save you money, I heartily recommend the BRIGHT SAIL line of household cleaning aids. From floor wax to soap flakes they're marvelous buys. Get them the next time you're shopping at your thrifty A&P!

LOW-COST CROQUETTES

To make 12 economical fish croquettes, melt 1/2 cup of A&P's "Perfect Blend" DEXO, and stir in 1/2 cup flour, 1 1/2 tps. salt, dash pepper and 2 tps. chopped parsley. Add 1 cup milk gradually; and cook, stirring constantly, till smooth and thick. Add 2 cups cooked flaked fish (1 lb.) and 2 cups soft bread crumbs. Chill. Form into croquettes and roll in fine cracker or bread crumbs. Add 2 tps. water to 1 beaten egg; dip croquettes in mixture, covering entire surface; roll again in crumbs, and fry in hot DEXO (390° F.) about 1 1/2 inches deep, till golden brown.

FREE RECIPE BOOKLET!

The recipe I just gave you is from one of my favorite collections—"24 Ways to Win Praise." This FREE booklet contains 24 simple recipes for making luscious cakes, frostings, pies, cookies, muffins and fried foods with "Perfect Blend" DEXO, A&P's all-purpose shortening. Just write: A&P, Dept. G, 420 Lexington Ave., New York 17, N. Y., for FREE copy.

MEAT MONEY-SAVER

The rump and round are among the most economical cuts of beef and veal. Yet they're just as good sources of protein as more expensive cuts. Just as good to eat, too, fixed this way: Season 1 lb. beef or veal rump or round, cut about 1 inch thick. Sprinkle with flour, pounding to help make meat tender. Cut into serving pieces; brown in fat; add 2 cups A&P's IONA TOMATO JUICE; cover and simmer gently till meat is tender (about 2 to 2 1/2 hrs.) Serves 4.

INDOCTRINATED BY SOVIET, GERMAN POW'S GO WEST

By Josie Thompson
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOF, Germany (UP)—Thousands of former German soldiers, prisoners of the Russians for at least three years, cross this U. S. Soviet zone border daily to their homelands in western Germany, with the preaching of the Communists still ringing in their ears.

Intelligence officers concede it is a problem. Obviously some of the ex-prisoners have been repatriated to act as Communist agents in the western zones, but it is impossible to investigate all of the thousands who have returned in the past two months to determine whether they really believe that the Americans and British are war-mongering fascists.

The majority, interrogating officers believe, are just happy to get home again.

A typical group of 600 Wehrmacht soldiers, including six officers, is an example.

Ragged and unshaven, suffering from malnutrition and war wounds, they shuffled happily off a transport train after a 14-day trip across Russia and eastern Germany.

"Where did you come from?" a Bavarian Red Cross worker shout-

H. Hottenburg of London demonstrates the starting block he invented and his proposed starting style to help athletes in the Olympic Games this summer. The blocks can be moved backward of ed at them. "Siberia," answered one with a broad, toothless grin.

"Stalingrad," answered another. Most wore ragged Wehrmacht uniforms and wooden clog shoes with canvas tops which made walking difficult. Their spirits were not dampened by a cold drizzling rain, no family or friends to greet them, nor by the long queues in which they stood to have their papers checked and to be interrogated.

Ranging in age from youths in their early twenties to old and broken men, the returnees apparently came from prisoner camps throughout Russia.

They told varying tales of conditions in the Russian internment camps.

All agreed that conditions in 1945-46 were "so bad that it was unbelievable." It sounded like a tale of German concentration camps: potato soup and bread three times a day for food, back-breaking labor in construction crews, and men seriously ill with tuberculosis.

However, none died in the prisoner of war camps. As soon as a prisoner became seriously ill, he was transferred to a nearby hospital, so the death rate in the camps was practically nil, they explained.

Questions as to whether they had been instructed to join the Communist party on their return to Germany brought loud snickers from the majority.

Asked if they had heard any talk of war between the east and the west, they replied that if one believed what one read in the Soviet press, the Americans are advocating war.

They tell weird stories of sud-

Coast Oil No. 2 Griffin topped pay at 2748 feet and are drilling on into the Marble Falls to determine the extent of the streak.

J. W. Baldwin No. 3 Sanders still waiting on drill pipe at 1630 feet.

Luling Gas and Oil No. 1-H. I. Stapp coring at 2615 feet. Found some saturation in the first core taken at 2686-2728. Very little porosity and small degree of saturation was encountered at that level. The present coring indicates some saturation and this streak has been tested from 2765 to 2815. They will continue to drill through the Marble Falls which should run the drilling to about 2840 or more.

Harley Sadler of Sweetwater has been in town two days looking over some leases and preparing to make locations.

S. B. Messer and H. H. Hutto of Taft are here in the interest of their Company which is called the South Texas Oil and Gas Co. of Taft. With them also are S. M. Messer who has had some experience before in this area having drilled at least one well out from Gorman several years ago, and Mr. M. W. Messer, both of Taft. T. Nash Smith President of Luling Oil and Gas Co. and T. Nash Smith, Jr. Vice Pres. are making an inspection trip looking over Luling properties in this area.

A Statement From Harley Sadler

Time will not permit a personal letter, so I take this means of expressing my sincere appreciation to all friends in this section for their efforts in my behalf during the recent campaign for the State Senate.

I regret that in the closing hours of this campaign misleading information was distributed through the U. S. Mail and by cleverly designed newspaper ads. The returns of the election established that these tactics resulted in causing me to lose the vote of many of the type of people with whom I have had my most intimate relationship throughout my life and for whom I have always attempted to work for their best interests. Except for this, I have no regrets.

Personally, I feel that great responsibility has been lifted from my shoulders. During my six years of legislative service I took my work seriously and endeavored to give fair and impartial service to all. I did so at a great personal expense and absence from my business. I fully realize that the future of Harley Sadler is of very little consequence, but the importance of the legislative branch of our government means everything to the people, and I urge that the voters, not just during elections but at all times, show an interest in it.

So I ask you, my friends who believe in me please feel as I do. With kindness in our heart and malice toward none, let us all work for a bigger and better world.

Harley Sadler
