Anti-Smith Forces Organize to Block Nomination Million Increase In Texas Cotton Acreage Seen

Crop Conditions Reported Fair By State Farm Head

Crops Generally, With Exception of Wheat and Oats, and Lateness of Cotton, Look Favorable.

GOOD COTTON PRICE LEVEL IS EXPECTED

Twenty Million Bushel Crop Of Wheat Forecast By Agricultural Commissioner In Statement.

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, June 22.—Texas has increased its cotton acreage 6 per cent, or about 1,000,000 acres, and the crop, two weeks late, is fairly good, George B. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture said Friday in his first general acreage and condition report for this year.

Crops generally, with the exception of the condition of wheat and oats, and lateness of cotton and corn, compare favorably with any average year, Mr. Terrell said. Wheat and oats are in low condition because of the dry weather in April and May.

"The general condition of livestock is good," the commissioner's report related. "Rains in the grazing sections have made the grass good. The goat, sheep and cattle industry is now in the best condition it has been in for several years. Rains have been general since the middle of the state reporting too much rain, some too little."

Slight Weevil Damage.

"Boll weevils are now showing up in several parts of the state with slight damage so far. Some cotton fleas are reported but are doing no damage. Recent rains have retarded the maturing of cotton in some sections and some crops are late."

Six Men Indicted In Lynching Quiz

Statement By One Of Men Tells Details; Murder Is Alleged Against Those Held.

HOUSTON, June 22.—Six men were indicted for murder today less than 48 hours after they are alleged to have lynched Robert P. Gray, 24, negro, secretary of City Detective A. W. Davis.

Murder charges were filed against seven men late Thursday, and five of them were arrested a few minutes later. The seventh, Allen M. "Bubba" Kent, still is at large.

The other six men, who are charged with having taken Powell from his bed in a hospital where he was near death from a bullet wound in the stomach, supposed to have been inflicted by Detective Davis, are A. B. Wheeler, 26; hotelkeeper; John "Slim" Kent, 21; ambulance driver; Charles Odham, 24; F. T. "Clay" Shuck, 22; and "Duke" Minton, 22; and "Tack" Reese.

One of the men, Wheeler, made a statement to officers and newspapermen to which he described the lynching. The negro, Wheeler said, was not killed when he first was dropped from the bridge from which his body was found hanging by a rope. Powell was shot back on the bridge, the rope shortened, and the negro thrown off a second time, the fall dislocating his neck, the statement said. The statements of witnesses that one of the riders wore a uniform were not borne out in Wheeler's statement. Wheeler was not indicted.

Detective Davis was shot to death last Sunday when he attempted to disperse a group of negroes.

COOLER WEATHER, SAYS FORECAST

About the most important news in the paper today—so thousands of Lubbock people who have been sweltering under a dizzy thermometer for the past few days—is the weather forecast that predicts unsettled and cooler weather for late today and tomorrow.

Yesterday, for the fourth day in succession the thermometer rose beyond the 100 degree mark. Maximum yesterday was 102 according to the experimental station gauge. Thursday the maximum was also 102. Wednesday and Thursday a mark of 101 was attained by the vanishing mercury.

The nights, however, continue fairly cool, the minimum yesterday being 70.

Air Partners

The new Bellanca plane that Theo Rasche will pilot on her Atlantic flight attempt is owned by Mrs. James A. Sullivan. She bought the ship, christened the Nickel Star, and loaned it to the German aviator, whose picture you see here below that of her backer.

LET MORE CONTRACTS

Highway Board Finishes Meeting

AUSTIN, June 22.—Ending its June meeting, the highway commission today let contracts costing $422,406 for road work in six counties and granted aid to three others. Including yesterday's transactions awards made in the session run to about $1,300,000.

Counties aided today were Gray, Harrison, and Ellis. The first was given two-thirds state and federal aid for grading and drainage structures on Highway No. 75. Harrison got the promise of state money to aid in hard surfacing No. 8 from Marshall to the Marion county line and Ellis $80,000 toward erection of a railroad overpass at Waxahatchie on No. 6.

RASCHE LEAVES

Takes Plane Away to Avoid Injunction

NEW YORK, June 22.—The New York Times tomorrow will say that the monoplane North Star in which Theo Rasche, German aviator, plans a transatlantic flight, landed tonight at Bradley field, N. J., outside the jurisdiction of the New York courts where an injunction suit is pending to restrain Miss Rasche from making the ocean flight.

TO START OIL GAUGE

Yates Pool To Be Measured For Protraction

FORT WORTH, June 22.—Provisions for starting an immediate gauge of the Yates pool in Pecos county in order to put into effect the new protraction order issued by the railroad commission Wednesday were adopted by the Pecos county advisory committee in a session in Fort Worth Friday.

Taking of gauges will start in the field Saturday and will be completed by June 29, giving ample time for figuring of percentages before July 1, when the order is effective.

STATE LOSES PLEA

Sought Instructed Verdict In Oil Case

AUSTIN, June 22.—An instructed verdict sought by the state in its "twenty million dollar" suit for some 500 acres of Hutchinson county oil land was denied in district court here today and trial of the action was continued until early next week, when arguments will begin.

Examination of witnesses having been completed yesterday, counsel's speeches were scheduled to start today, but did not.

Simmons Not To Make Trip

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(P)—Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who led the opposition in his state against the candidacy of Governor Smith of New York announced today that he would not attend the Democratic convention at Houston. He said his decision was made on the advice of his physicians as he had not fully recovered from the effects of a recent operation.

Injunction Forms Echo Charge On Cotton Price Drop

Unethical Practices In Dumping Pooled Cotton On Market To Lower the Price, Alleged.

TEXAS FIRM ALSO IS DEFENDANT IN SUIT

New York Cotton Trader Declares This Practice Was Reason For Decline In Quotations.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(P)—Charging that the New York cotton market has been demoralized through unethical practices, Louis N. Omond, New York cotton trader, obtained a temporary injunction in the state supreme court today restraining the New York cotton exchange and its members from delivering low grade cotton in violation of the exchange's contract.

The injunction was obtained from Justice Lyden as part of Omond's $500,000 damage suit against the exchange and the cotton houses of Anderson, Clayton and Co., and George H. McFadden and Bros.

Omond states in his complaint that the two houses concentrated in New York a large quantity of low grade cotton, below the legal seventh-eighths of an inch standard, and delivered it and re-delivered it back and forth between themselves and their agents, for the purpose of demoralizing contract holders and breaking down the price structure of the market.

Through these practices, which he states were carried on with the full knowledge of the exchange and its managers, Omond claims to have suffered damages for which he is suing, and declares that farmers, traders, merchants and mill-hands have been misled of hundreds of millions, and the Port of New York has been discredited as a cotton market.

Omond charges that last September, when the department of agriculture estimated the cotton crop at 5,000,000 bales less than the year before, which sent the price of cotton down, the two defendant cotton houses caused 200,000 bales of cotton, most of which was defective to be dumped on the market for delivery on the cotton exchange contracts. This, he continues, caused the market to drop violently below the 17 cents per pound, which was the intrinsic value of the low grade cotton delivered.

There were intimations that Mr. Reed might confer tomorrow with some of the other presidential candidates and members of the anti-Smith faction although he has declined to enter into any coalition, playing his usual lone hand.

Senator George Correll Many Southern Votes

HOUSTON, June 22.—(P)—Senator George of Georgia, one of those upon whom the southern democrats may concentrate in their drive to stop Governor Smith, arrived in the convention city tonight to carry forward his campaign for the presidential nomination.

The Georgia delegation is instructed to cast its 26 votes for the senator who said that in addition he had been given the personal assurance of the delegates that they would stand by him as long as he might desire.

"I am quite certain that Governor Smith will not win the vote from Georgia," the senator said. Word has reached Senator George that on the first ballot he will get support from Florida, South Carolina and Alabama to tugment the 26 votes of his own state.

Hull Is Opposed To Any Pro Modification

HOUSTON, June 22.—(P)—Decided opposition to any modification or weakening of the present federal prohibition measures was voiced tonight by Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, who has the endorsement of the democracy of his state for the presidential nomination.

"Whether this effort takes the form of an attempt to commit our party to modification, he said, or whether it takes the form of a de-

Bubbling With Optimism, Candidates Start Arriving For Big Show at Houston

HOUSTON, June 22.—"Jim" Reed of Missouri, came to the ring-side tonight full of confidence in his fight for the democratic presidential nomination and he was given a hearty reception by the early arrivals to the party convention, who met him as he entered his headquarters in the Rice hotel.

The Missouri senator was smiling and happy as he and Mrs. Reed were hailed by a crowd of enthusiasts and camera men at the station upon the arrival early tonight, but he was silent upon politics beyond an expression that the "situation seems satisfactory."

Efforts to draw out the usually outspoken campaigner upon the pending row over prohibition and the prospects of his entry into a coalition aimed to stop Al Smith proved unavailing pending a conference he has planned with newsgapmen tomorrow.

Arrival of the Missouri injected about the first outward display of the pre-convention proceedings. Both at the station and at the Rice hotel where he was establishing headquarters, just above Alfred I. Smith he was given a rousing reception.

Flash lights banged like artillery fire as cameramen sought pictures in the twilight and the senator stood naturally waited on the last step of the car until the bevy of picture takers had been satisfied.

A "Reed band" opened up some snappy tunes to add to the first outbreak of convention spirit as the Senator and Mrs. Reed made their way through the crowded hotel lobby.

There were intimations that Mr. Reed might confer tomorrow with some of the other presidential candidates and members of the anti-Smith faction although he has declined to enter into any coalition, playing his usual lone hand.

Bank Hearing

Charges Against Dallas Reserve To Be Aired

DALLAS, June 22.—United States Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, chairman of the senate committee on banking and currency, will open a hearing here on the charges that have been made against the administration of the Dallas federal reserve bank immediately following the Houston convention.

"Have it distinctly understood that there will be no repetition of testimony given before the board of directors of the Dallas bank," the Virginia Senator said in a telegram today to Governor Lynn P. Talley of the Dallas federal reserve bank.

SMITH BACK AT WORK

Worries Over State Business, Not Campaign

ALBANY, N. Y., June 22.—(P)—With the scenes all set at Houston for the presentation of a political drama which may affect the rest of his public career Governor Smith returned here tonight from New York prepared to plunge immediately into consideration of state business which has piled up during his absence.

MEXICAN GIVES BOND

Faces Charge of Aggravated Assault

E. Bustillo, Mexican, who was injured in a shooting altercation Thursday morning with Gov. Solos, deputy sheriff of "Little Juarez," Mexican settlement of the city, yesterday made bond of $500 on charges of aggravated assault.

The bond was set in justice court by Judge W. S. Clark. Charges were filed against the injured man Thursday when Deputy Solos reported that Bustillo drew a gun on him, causing him to shoot in self defense. The bullet wound of Bustillo proved not serious.

No charges had been filed last night against the other Mexican, said by Deputy Solos to have been connected in the altercation.

Midnight Blaze Claims Lubbock House; Busy Day For Firemen

Clad only in their nightclothes, occupants of the 8-room house at 703 Avenue M, narrowly escaped when the residence went up in flames shortly before midnight. Origin of the blaze, which practically destroyed the house and furniture is unknown.

The house belonged to Charles F. O'Neill, local real estate man. It was occupied by two families: Mrs. Tony Couey and family; and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Duval. All of the furniture was lost and no insurance was carried on it. Mr. O'Neill could not be reached for a statement on the insurance carried for the residence.

"Not a thing was saved," dolefully added Carroll Couey one of the occupants who fled at la pajama. "Not even my new set of false teeth, which I purchased only yesterday."

The blaze attracted a large crowd of spectators. It was the third call answered by the fire department during the night.

COOLIDGE TAKES REST

SUPERIOR, Wis., June 22.—(P)—President Coolidge decided today to wind up the remainder of this week in the solitude of the Wisconsin woods, thus getting ten full days of open air life before paying his first call at his executive office.

COMMUNISTS KILLED

Recurrence of Riots At Salonika

HELIGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, June 22.—(P)—Newspaper dispatches from Salonika relate that in a recurrence of the Greek political riots today seven communists were killed and twenty wounded. They had tried to incite tobacco strikers to violence against the government. Several policemen and soldiers were wounded.

14 INDICTED IN ELECTION ECHO

CHICAGO, June 22.—(P)—Fourteen indictments against eight persons were returned here today by a special grand jury investigating terrorism in the April 10 primary. The indictments are a sequel to the 19 voted last week.

Three of the eight persons indicted were named, and two are under arrest. The others listed will not be named until arrested. The indictments charge assault with attempt to kill, kidnapping and perjury.

Policeman George Hartigan, is charged with perjury. Johnny Armada, with assault and Silverman, with kidnapping and assault. The latter pair are under arrest.

Pilot With Night Air Mail Dashed To Death by Wind

First Fatality Since Dallas-Chicago Line Was Started In Operation; Woman Flier Killed.

(By Associated Press)
EMPORIA, Kas., June 22.—Speeding southward through the darkness with the night air mail, Wayne G. Neville, 28, Dallas, Texas, was dashed to death by a tornado near Lebo, Kas., 20 miles east of here, early today.

His plane crashed nose-first in a pasture on the farm of John Steinhilber, who reached the wreck in time to extinguish the fire which followed.

Neville was the first pilot of the National Air Transport, Inc., air mail contractor, to be killed since the Chicago-Dallas route was established two years ago.

A violent windstorm which blew down telephone poles, uprooted trees and unroofed small buildings broke over Kansas soon after Neville had taken off at Kansas City at 3:25 a. m. and a tornado, swirling high in the air passed over Garnett about 20 miles southeast of Lebo. Whether the pilot struck the tornado or was dashed to earth by the whipping straight wind was not known.

Nebraska Woman Dies As Plane Crashes

NORFOLK, Neb., June 22.—(P)—Mrs. Charles Tillotson, Nebraska's first aviator, was killed here tonight when the plane which she was piloting alone went into a tail spin over a flying field.

KELLOGG SENDS TREATY

Outlines The Provisions To Outlaw War

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(P)—Secretary Kellogg has sent to fourteen world powers, it was learned today, a note containing terms of the proposed multilateral treaty for the renunciation of war.

The text of the note, it was said, would not be made public until all of the proposed participating nations receive it. It is expected that the text will be made public next week.

OFF FOR MANAGUA

Marine Corps Flier Takes Away Yesterday

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(Saturday) (P)—Major Charles A. Lutz, marine corps aviator, took off from the naval air station here at 1:05 a. m. for a flight to Managua, Nicaragua.

Major Lutz planned to land at Miami, Fla., enroute on his 2,000 mile air voyage. Previous plans for a non-stop flight were disapproved by the navy department.

LINDY FORCED DOWN

Yokels of Pennsylvania Town Get a Thrill

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 22.—(P)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, forced to land at Duryea near Coon, about 7:30 this evening by fog, became the unexpected guest of the Lehigh Valley railroad at the Y. M. C. A. building at Coon yards, three miles north of Pittston. He said he would resume his flight to New York early tomorrow morning.

Colonel Lindbergh ran into fog banks a few miles above Duryea, and succeeding in landing in a field near the junction of the Lehigh and Susquehanna rivers. The sight of the plane landing caused hundreds of persons to hasten to the place.

MOBILE GETS SUPPLIES

Second Batch Dropped Out Of Air

KING'S BAY, Spitzbergen, June 22.—(P)—General Umberto Nobile and the five men marooned with him on the Arctic ice today received their second batch of supplies from the air. Major Maddalena and Penna flew their big Italian seaplane over the camp of the refugees. They found no opportunity to land however, and again made use of parachutes to get provisions and radio equipment to the stranded men.

While this effort of the fliers was successful, they failed to find any trace of Roald Amundsen and his five companions in the French seaplane piloted by Rene Guindard.

MAKING CANVASS OF DELEGATE SITUATION

With Prohibition Issue Now Thrown Sharply Up To Democrats, Drys Seem Panic-Stricken.

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, June 22.—A series of conferences among Democratic leaders of the South was started here today in an effort to stop Alfred E. Smith in the party convention which opens here next Tuesday.

Faced with necessity for quick action if they are to head off the candidate whose foes concede he has within a hundred votes of enough to obtain the presidential nomination, these leaders made a thorough canvass of the delegate situation, assessing the potential strength against the New York governor not only in their own group but in other anti-Smith camps.

Daniel Roper Leader. Daniel Roper, of North Carolina, internal revenue commissioner, in the Wilson administration and one of William G. McAdoo's chief lieutenants in the Madison Square Garden convention four years ago, appeared to be one of the moving spirits in the effort to coalesce the elements that are not reconciled to Smith's nomination. He declined, however, to discuss the movement.

PUBLICITY METHODS

Utilities Probe Tells Of "Back Slapping"

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(P)—Methods, including "back slapping," used to influence newspaper editors in Tennessee to publish power concerns' publicity to defeat the government operation of Muscle Shoals were described today in the federal trade commission's utility investigation.

Guy P. Newbern of Nashville, director of the Tennessee public service information bureau, who was the witness before the commission, testified that the first piece of importance for the utility publicity organization was "to call the country editors by their first names and slap them on the back."

Those Killed In Belgrade Shooting Are Buried

ZAGREB, Croatia, Jugo-Slavia, June 22.—(P)—Forty thousand persons packed the streets here today as the bodies of Paul Raditch and Dr. Basaritch, killed in the chamber of deputies of Belgrade, were borne from the railroad station. The coffins were carried to the headquarters of the Democratic peasants party where they lay in state while long lines of men, women and children filed past them. The fatal rioting of yesterday and last night gave way to sorrow augmented forces of troops were on hand to preserve order, but there were little need for their services.

Airplane To Take Position As Vital Adjunct To Automobiles In Commerce And Industry, Marmon President Says

Rapid Growth of Commercial Flying and Improvement of Aircraft Indicate Future for Aviation

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 22.—Business men as well as private citizens the country over should keep well abreast of the rapid advances in aircraft design and dependability since the airplane, in the near future, will take its place as an important adjunct to the automobile in commerce and industry as well as in long distance passenger transportation.

Such is the opinion of G. M. Williams, president of the Marmon Motor Car company, who has taken a step forward in the direction of acquainting the public with the development of commercial aviation by announcing his sponsorship of the Indianapolis stop of the National Air Tour which starts from Detroit June 30.

25 Plans To Tour
The twenty-five or more tour planes of the latest design, piloted by some of the best known fliers in the country, will be the guests of the Marmon company after completing the first leg of their 6,000 mile reliability journey which will take them, in four weeks, to thirty cities including the most important points on the Pacific coast.

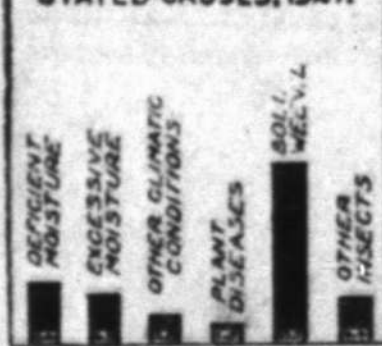

"Many people," said Mr. Williams, "are prone to confine their entire interest in aviation to trans-oceanic flights, endurance tests and so-called stunt flying. All of these, of course, have their proper place in the development of air travel and it is an important place, indeed, as the splendid achievements of our now famous ocean fliers will bear evidence.

Commercial Flying Growing
But the rapid growth in commercial flying that has accompanied the improvements in the design and dependability of modern aircraft is scarcely realized by the average citizen. Even now the airplane is in a more advanced stage than was the automobile at the time of the Glidden tours in 19, and the annual National Air Tour in which airplane manufacturers compete for the Ford Reliability trophy shows, year by year, how air travel is progressing to a safe, sound and highly practical basis.

"The immediate future of aviation, to my mind, lies in the continued establishment of regular passenger and commercial air routes between points that are not quickly accessible by train or automobile because the distance is too great or because topographical hindrances. There are still numerous drawbacks to practical air travel over short distances, mainly the increasing number of good roads which have speeded automobile travel and the lack of landing fields of sufficient size and situated conveniently to the business centers of cities and towns. For the present, at least, the automobile and the airplane will continue to serve their respective fields of commerce and pleasure without detracting from the usefulness and popularity of the other."

Cotton Crop Cut

COTTON PERCENTAGE OF REDUCTION FROM FULL YIELD PER ACRE FROM STATED CAUSES, 1927.

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—Reduction in cotton yield per acre due to known causes in 1927 is reported to have been 38.5 per cent of a normal or full crop. Estimates are based upon an inquiry to federal crop reporters as to causes for the reduction.

The reduction in 1928 was reported as 23.5 per cent, and in 1925 as 36.6 per cent. Individually, the boll weevil was responsible for the greatest loss, 18.5 per cent, in the opinion of reporters. This damage is the fifth largest since surveys first were made in 1909. The smallest percentage of damage since that time due to boll weevil was 1.3 per cent in 1911, and the largest percentage was 31.2 in 1921. Until 1914 boll weevil damage was confined largely to the states west of the Mississippi river, and it was not until 1922 that it had spread over the entire cotton belt proper.

Reduction from a full yield per acre due to deficient moisture was cut from 34.4 per cent in 1925 to 6.4 per cent in 1927; excessive moisture, increased from 1.4 to 4.2; other climatic conditions, reduced from 3.6 to 2.8; plant diseases, increased from 0.7 to 1.5; boll weevil increased from .41 to 18.5; and other insects increased from 2.2 to 4.4.

AFTER THE ROUND-UP

In the early days of the World War the officer in charge of a British post, deep in the heart of Africa, received a wireless message from his chief.

"War declared. Arrest all enemy aliens in your district."

A few days later the chief received this communication: "Have arrested seven Germans, three Belgians, four Spaniards, five Frenchmen, a couple of Swedes, an Argentinian, and an American. Please inform me when we are at war with..."—Watchman-Examiner.

In an Indiana penitentiary, a convicted murderer was told by his wife that he was doomed to die unless he could get a pardon from the Governor of the State. She asked: "How do you go about getting a pardon from the Governor?"

"That's easy," he replied, and raised his voice: "Hey, Governor—how about a pardon?"

"Sure," was the reply that came from the next cell.—Life.

Last Half of Season Gets Started In Same Manner As First, Fans Hoping It Will Be Different Matter At Close

Hubbers Are Intact For the First Game Since Early In Season; Five Homers Feature Tilt.

The same story was told yesterday afternoon in the opening game of the first half of the West Texas League as was told in the circuit's opening day in late April. The Lubbock Hubbers lost to Jimmy Malone's Colts by a score of 16 to 11. From the first round until the last out of a five hitting engagement was enjoyed by the team, the Hubbers, the Colts getting to three Hubber choppers, Willis Knight, Alex Orr, and Bill Gregory for fifteen outs over the route, while Bill Busby, Midland pitcher, weathered the nine innings against the Hubbers allowing the homebatters a total of sixteen base knocks.

Home runs were hit out of the Merrill lot by "Blackie" Williams and Ray Robinson for the Brown, and Cheever, Lewis, and Sanguet, all contributed one each for the guests.

Opening up with plenty of punch the Hubbers drove in four runs off six hits in the initial frame and again shoved over a pair of counters in the second session with three base hits.

Knight Forced Out. Willis Knight, working under an apparent handicap, as he was stiff in his delivery, was forced to retire from the mound in the fourth inning, giving up to Alex Orr, who hit on every trip of a Midland hit, and for the second time since Bill Gregory, Southland lad, has joined with the Hubbers he came in to check the drives of the opposing club. He stopped the league leaders, Abilene, and yesterday, following Orr in the fourth inning, worked the rest of the game, whirling seven Midland swatters and dished out six scattered bingles to the Colts.

Team Again Intact. Yesterday for the first time in weeks the Hubber machine was intact, that is every man playing at his regular post, and while they failed to put over a win in the opening game it is sure to be there sooner or later. Bill Bean, out for several days due to an injured finger, was on the first base job with his usual chatter and hustle; Homer Burch, Hubber catcher, worked behind the plate for the first time in a week or more; Barney (Red) May, infielder of the Hubbers, who has been in the outfield, was at the shortfield again.

This afternoon the second game of the last half opening series with the Colts will be played at the Merrill lot, and it is likely that Gene Bunt, Hubber rookie hurler, will be assigned duty on the mound for the homebatters.

The box score:

MIDLAND	AB	R	H	P	O	A	E
Lewis 3b	5	1	3	0	2	0
Cheever 1b	5	4	1	0	0	0
Sanguet cf	4	2	3	1	0	1
Adams 2b	4	2	3	1	0	1
Lagunas ss	4	2	3	4	2	0
Bryan 1b	4	1	2	15	0	0
Hays c	5	0	1	2	1	0
Brink 2b	4	2	0	3	2	0
Busby p	4	1	1	0	2	0
Totals	42	16	16	27	9	2

Can Homer Burch throw? Ask most any of the boys who try to steal a base on him. He got Blackie Adams yesterday by four full strides as he attempted to pilfer second base on Homer.

Sheron M. (Blackie) Adams, who was a member of the Hubber outfit during most of the first half play and was sold to Midland, is playing in the rightfield with the Colts, and hitting in the cleanup position. He rapped out two hits in four trips yesterday and was passed twice.

Today the same clubs meet in the second game of the opening series at the Merrill lot. Four o'clock.

Over The Coffee Cups

Small Items Of Real Interest

Worthy enough, surely, was the purpose for which Senor Olivares, Mexican Methodist pastor, announced a sale of enchiladas and hot tamales for yesterday at "Little Juarez." Proceeds were to have been applied to expenses for a revival campaign now in progress at the constrained to comment that Sr. Olivares selected an inappropriate day for his little sale. About the only thing left to make yesterday the "mth" dearest in hotness would have been a couple dozen hot tamales. Maybe we can have a sale of eskimo pies and ice cream comes next January.

Memories of army camp days no doubt will be recalled in the minds of some of the Lubbock business men who are to be selected for "Kitchen Police" duty at the Fair Grounds next Wednesday and Thursday, when the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Lubbock County Farm Bureau serve a dinner to the hundreds of boys and girls expected here on that day for the annual encampment of club youths.

Workmen were busy all day yesterday in erecting a frame club house on grounds of the Lubbock Gun club, in the east-Broadway

ALL-AMERICAN TEAM

Davis Cup Squad Scores Another Victory

LONDON, June 22. (AP)—Another victory by members of the American Davis cup team resulted in an all-American final for the London championships, to be played tomorrow at Queens club. Junior Coen, 16-year-old American, put up a plucky battle against his opponent, William T. Tilden, but lost in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

At least half of the doubles final will be an American affair. Hamlet and Tilden, the Wimbledon champions, reached the final bracket today by winning two matches defeating the brilliant French pair, Rene Lacoste and Henri Cochet, 6-1, 6-4, then eliminating the Irish Davis cup doubles team of C. F. Scroop and Captain O'Callaghan after a hard three-set battle in the semi-finals, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

St. Louis, 3-6; Detroit, 3-12; Boston, 0; Washington, 1; Chicago, 7; Cleveland, 4; Philadelphia-New York, rain.

Notes On The Game

Over the entire circuit yesterday the results of the opening games were somewhat disappointing. A ninth inning rally for Hamlin defeated the Abilene Aces, 10 to 3, and Coleman romped to a 4 to 1 win over the Snappers; and at home Jimmy Malone's Colts, of Midland, scored a 16 to 14 victory over the Hubbers.

Southland's lad, the latest addition to the Hubber hurling staff, looks better in every engagement. Yesterday he was called in at the fourth inning to check the hitting attack enjoyed by the Colts off of the deliveries of Willis Knight and Alex Orr, and he did. From the time he took over the mound duty until the final out he whiffed seven of the Colts, dished out six scattered hits.

Lin Storti, the Hubber "bambino," got his share of the base raps yesterday. In five journeys the Hubber's flashy third sacker, rapped out four clean hits, including one for two bases. Not only did the star third baseman of the circuit put up a good game at bat but played a bangup good exhibition in the field, which is not at all unusual.

Both Red May and Blackie Williams profited in the shift made by Brownlow yesterday. In the center garden and Williams in the shortfield—both yesterday Bennie switched the lads and May got four safeties in four trips, Williams rapped out a homer and a double.

Bill Bean's presence around the initial bat looked good yesterday. Bill's work has always been one of the outstanding features of the Hubber's infield work and while his injury kept him from the lineup it was certainly felt. Bill is meeting the agate squarely on the nose now, which also aids.

Lagunas, Midland's crack infielder, is one of the best in the circuit. He is a sure hitter and fielder, and one of the best switch hitters in the business. Charlie Middleton, one of Lubbock's strongest fans, had plenty of fun with the Colt's shortfield as he continues to make suggestions to the lad about his sheep herding.

DENY EXECUTIONS

Press Reports Out Of China Declared False

WASHINGTON, June 22. (AP)—The press reports from Canton relating the execution of large numbers of young Chinese boys and girls because of communistic beliefs are denied in a cablegram from General Li Chai Sun to Dr. C. C. Wu, representative of the Chinese national government in this country.

"Press reports of execution in Canton of young girls and boys on account of communism entirely untrue," the cablegram read.

Religion just beyond the golf course. The new club rooms, which will serve as a dispensary for cold drinks, will be ready for operation at time of next shoot of the club, to be held Sunday afternoon immediately after the baseball game here.

Featuring the report of real estate transfers here yesterday was the sale of a lot at Thirtieth and Avenue K by S. C. Arnett to W. A. Bacon for $20,000. This brought the June total for transfers to the high mark of $506,905.

Atlanta Youth Is Winner Comor In Feature Match

Carlton, Twice Champion In State Tilt, Winner Over Jacoby In Second Brilliant Battle.

BROOK HOLLOW GOLF CLUB
DALLAS, June 22.—Watts Gunn youthfull star from Atlanta, Ga., and Ossie Carlton of Houston, twice a Texas state champion, will fight it out over the 36 hole route here tomorrow for the Southern Amateur Golf championship.

They won their way into the final today in grueling matches. Lanham Connor, Dallas country club and University of Texas player, participating in his first formal tournament carried Gunn one extra hole before he succumbed one down.

Louis Jacoby, Dallas veteran and twice a runner-up in the Southern Amateur championship, fought a bitter battle with Carlton only to lose on the final green.

Connor broke under strain. He broke under the strain of competing with a golfer of the Gunn calibre, however, and his showing on the extra hole was extremely poor.

He topped his drive and it rolled weakly about 100 yards into the rough to the left of the fairway. He hit far back of his ball with his iron and got a bare ten yards. Right there his hope of playing in the final tomorrow vanished, although Gunn himself was wabbling all over the course and took the hole virtually because Connor forced it upon him. Connor took a seven and Gunn got down in six.

Gallery Follows Connor

The huge gallery followed the Gunn-Connor match and obviously favored the Dallas man. He was regarded as the underdog because Gunn has been picked as the likely winner since the list of entrants was announced.

Fewer than half a dozen spectators witnessed the bitter contest between Jacoby and Carlton.

The finalists won their way into the semi-finals today by top heavy scores, while the men they ousted in the afternoon round had hard struggles.

Gunn put out Fred Lamprecht of New Orleans, former intercollegiate champion, 5 to 4, and Carlton ousted Charles Dwyer, Jr., of Dallas, southern champion thirteen years ago, by the same score.

Connor bests Robinson. Connor, shooting the wonderful golf that had marked his progress through the event, put L. R. Robinson of Dallas, the medalist, after a ding dong battle that ended only on the home green, with the college youth winner on up.

Jacoby, who came back to Dallas from Boston, Mass., for the southern amateur, had a terrific struggle with Charles Cawthorn of Memphis, Tenn., the last of seven from the Tennessee city who qualified. Strangely Dallas qualified eight of the 32 championship flight players and saw its hope of keeping the gigantic Adair cup, emblematic of the championship, when its two semi-finalists went out. Despite the closeness of the play today, the scores ran comparatively high. Just as on every day since the tournament began Jacoby and Tuesday, a terrific wind swept the course and played havoc with poorly calculated shots. It worked to a double disadvantage, because at times it would die down just in time to let a shot which had been played wide with the expectancy that it would be swept true, keep on the false course.

Cal Uses Both Worms and Flies

Indian Guide of Coolidge Fishing Trips Clears Up Much Disputed Questions

(By Associated Press)
SUPERIOR, Wis., June 22.—Amid the long shadows of the forest President Coolidge's new Indian guide stood bareheaded and arms folded, facing the setting sun. He was contemplating the day's fishing trip with "the Big White Father" and those of days to come.

"Fine, the president is fine when he catches fish," John Larock, Jean Larouque his paternal forbear, might have spelled it—said quietly. A smile of satisfaction played over the strong face of the broad-shouldered, powerful guide, a chief from head to foot.

"Doesn't excited, not a bit. Good fisherman, President Coolidge." With that gruff woodsman's expression of approval, John glanced at the retreating banks of clouds over the tall pine trees, then down toward the lake, whose waters once were colored with the blood of his mother's people, the Chippewas, as they drove the Sioux tribes from the region. These were the beautiful hunting and fishing grounds that the white man later took from the Chippewas.

John Larock's father was a Frenchman, but his mother's Indian blood predominates in his appearance and actions. He was born 50 years ago in Ashland, Wis., and came to the head of the lakes when a lad of ten. A maker of canoes, professional guide and helper on nearby estates, the Indian is noted for his skill as a hunter and fisherman. He knows where the trout hide and when they bite.

Cal's General "Flunky." Larock pilots the president's canoe through the river and lakes on the huge estate of the late Henry Clay Pierce, baits the hook and removes the fish as Mr. Coolidge pulls them in.

"Did he catch any today?" the Indian laughed. "Yes, many. It's just a matter of throwing out the hook."

The guide, who speaks remarkably correct English for one who never went to school, settled a question of much import, Mr. Coolidge used both worms and flies in his angling. And John also provided first hand information as to how the president dresses on his expeditions. He was guided him only two days, but on the first the president wore a big cowboy hat and high, heeled boots, and the next time he was in his office clothes with a black felt hat.

Likes The Dogs The white house dogs come in for their share of the trips, for they have learned to sit quietly in the canoes and thereby earned John's admiration.

"Pretty dogs, fine dogs," he commented. A GRACE with three secret service men always follows that of the president and John Larock, only canoes being used on the river. Larock lives several miles from Cedar Island lodge, not far from the banks of the Brede river, with his wife and two adopted children.

"Soon," he said proudly, "I will have a birch bark canoe ready for the president. He likes that canoe very much and we will use it for the trips when I get it finished."

Darkness was settling, and the Indian waved goodbye—"O'er the water pointing westward, To the purple clouds of sunset."

That kind of game would be even a surprise to the 15 or 16 fans who still go to see the Philadelphia Nationals.

Put America Ahead In The Davis Cup Tilt

EASTBOURNE, England, June 22. (AP)—While their three teammates were holding the center of the stage at London, today, George Lott and John Hennessey, American Davis cup players, put the United States into the lead in the International team matches against England here by winning a hard fought doubles encounter from L. A. Godfree and I. G. Collins, 8-10, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5, 7-6.

Has the American League declined or have the Yanks become wonderfully good? Another split spot for the experts.

COACHES' SCHOOL

Twenty Enroll Under Frank Bridges

ABILENE, June 22.—Twenty coaches, mostly from points over West Texas, are enrolled in the Athletic Coaching School, which opened last week under the direction of Coach Frank B. Bridges of Simmons University at the school here. Coach Bridges has for his assistants Coaches Edwin Kubale, T. C. U. Floyd (Juni) Crow, Baylor Earl (Mule) Frazer, Baylor, and Charlie (Rott) Anderson, Simmons.

Theory and practice in football were the first things taken up in the school, coming under the direction of Coaches Bridges, Kubale and Crow. Frazer, famous track expert, will arrive during the latter part of the course to give instruction in track.

Reason for the action was given in a statement of the team following the forfeiture of the Abilene team. The team, which was suspended, was the Abilene team.

Stephenson has notified Army, which is the manager of the team, that the entire team will be declared ineligible if the series is played. Stephenson said that he was not a quitter and that he would stand by his decision.

Jones and Hagen Play Sensational Golf In Tourney

Rounds By Two Shot-Making Kings Keep Gallery Alternately Gasping And Cheering Their Progress.

(By Associated Press.)
OLYMPIA, June 22.—(P)—Shot-making kings of the American League, Jones and Hagen, played a sensational round of golf today in the International Open championship.

When the bunkered brigade had finished the first half of the 72-hole test, Jones, after a brilliant par-equaling round of 71 today, stood two strokes in front of the field with a 36-hole total of 144. The great Georgian, completing his round before a huge gallery just before the storm broke, was three strokes in front of Hagen, who rallied with the suddenness of the downpour to finish his incoming nine holes to the record-breaking total of 147.

Von Elm and Leach were two others who moved up into contention positions. George Von Elm of Detroit and Bill Leach, Philadelphia, each with totals of 146 while the British open king at 157, was tied by two more, Willie MacFarland, 1925 champion, and Henry Cuddeback, Stratford, Conn., who fell off to 77 today after his dazzling 70 of the opening round.

It was a day of dazzling storm-swept golf, filled with shattered hopes for such as John Ball, the Atlanta pro of Bobby Jones' home course, who blew up with an 81 after helping Cuddeback set the pace with a 76 yesterday, and for such stars as "Light Horse" Harry Cooper of Buffalo, runner-up a year ago but among those eliminated tonight as he turned in a dismal 163.

Wood Makes Seventy
It was a day of sensational fights for such as Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J., pro who blew himself to the best round of the day, a 70, but for the spectators the most spectacular stuff was turned in by the two giants of American golf, Jones and Hagen.

Where Hagen gave the galloping gallery its biggest thrill on his homeward journey through the rain, shooting four birdies in five holes with golf such as only Sir Walter can flash when he is "hot," Jones carried a huge and unruly following some 3,000 strong through a steady succession of exciting moments. Hagen had to shoot his 32 to offset a mediocre 40 on the outgoing nine but Jones slugged it out with old man par all the way around to make it a draw at the finish.

Woods Cause Trouble
Jones was wild and often in trouble with his wooden shots but he has seldom, if ever, been any more brilliant with mashes and niblicks or with his famous putter, "Calamity Jane."

The deadly accuracy with which he laid his approaches dead to the pin from traps, rough or plain fairway and the uncanny touch with which he rolled the long ones on the green, smack up to the hole had the gallery alternately gasping and cheering.

Breaks About Even
The Atlanta wizard got the "breaks" on such occasions as when his hooked drive came off a bunker to safely, when another bounced from a tree to the fairway and when one of his putts spun around the hole before dropping in, but he also experienced ill luck when at least a half dozen of his shots for "birdies" missed out by margins averaging about two inches.

Had even half of his putts against par, ranging from five to ten feet, dropped as they seemed to be inclined to do, Jones would have put the old man down for a long count and jumped into an almost unbeatable lead.

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

Joe Williams

These are good days for the ex-players to pick a winner—in the American League. Singularly enough, predictions as to the National League are remarkable for their absence.

Since Hornsby took over the management of the Braves, you noticed how wonderfully the playing of the Red Sox has improved?

They're taking up baseball in London now. One of the newspapers says, in reporting a game: "The pitcher broke off his earned conversation with the white-coated umpire to hurl an occasional ball at the batter when he least expected it."

Just what kind of baseball is London taking up?

"High and outside," the catcher signalled in Chicago the other day. Babe Ruth was at bat. The catcher made the same mistake twice.

beatable lead.

Hagen's Great Finish
Jones' play, under the harassing conditions imposed by the gallery was remarkable enough but it is doubtful whether the tournament will see another finish such as Hagen put on later in the day. The storm seemed to electrify the Hagen, who missed by inches his bid for a birdie on the tenth, then stepped out while the storm was at its height to knock off the next three holes in 3-3-2. Clipping a stroke off par at each, Sir Walter holed a chip shot from just off the green on the eleventh, clearing a big puddle of water to do so; sank a 25 footer for his "bird" at the twelfth and rammed in a 12 footer on a soggy, treacherous thirteenth green for a duce.

Hole high on the fourteenth with a smashing iron, Hagen just missed his putt for another birdie, but sagged his fourth on the 555 yard fifteenth, where he was home: in three to sink a curling putt clear across the green, easily fifty feet. He was putting for a birdie again on the sixteenth but missed and was forced to be satisfied with mere par for the remaining two holes.

Arkansas Flood Situation Much Improved, Report

Engineer In Charge Of Protection Work Makes Report On Success Of Prevention Labors.

(By Associated Press.)
MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 22.—The White river flood situation in Arkansas is greatly improved, Major L. D. Worsham, U. S. engineer in charge of the protection work, said today.

"We passed a critical period last night and so far have come out with flags flying," he added. "I do not say that conditions are so greatly improved that we are entirely out of danger. It is still serious but we have plenty of labor and are well equipped for maintaining the dikes."

More than 800 laborers were working today on the White river levee south of Georgetown, Ark. The water came to a stand at Georgetown this morning at 29.6 feet, the highest ever reported there. All this water now will pass down the White, increasing the stages to dangerous levels south of Devall's Bluff.

Augusta, Ark., reported half a foot fall in the White in the last 24 hours. The gauge at Newport was 30 feet, and city officials said the new rise from the upper White and Black rivers will not cause any rise there.

The new rise headed down the St. Francis river was expected to reach St. Francis, Ark., during the day.

Grand Britain now has over 1,500,000 telephones, an increase of 8.3 per cent over the figure for 1926.

Last year the Pennsylvania railroad handled ten millions tons of bar and sheet iron and 2,800,000 tons of pig and bloom iron as freight.

$10,000 Damage In Fire At Southland

Six Business Houses Of Garza County Town Are Razed In Blaze There Early Saturday.

(Special To The Avalanche) SOUTHLAND, Garza County, June 22.—Fire originating with the explosion of an oil stove early today swept through the business district of this place, destroying six frame business structures at an estimated loss of $10,000.

Fanned by the dry, hot winds the flames gutted one whole side of the street. A hange in the direction of the wind saved a number of other buildings.

A hastily organized bucket brigade of more than fifty local men fought the raging flames desperately but all efforts proved futile against the roaring blaze.

The fire began about 8:30 o'clock this morning in a local cafe and spread to the adjoining buildings. An emergency call was placed with the fire department at Slaton, nine miles northeast of here, but the flames were under control by the time the Slaton trucks arrived.

Crop Conditions

becoming grassy but this is not general.

Texas has increased her cotton acreage about 1,000,000 acres and Oklahoma has increased her acreage slightly, but most of the principal cotton states have not increased acreage, although they have increased the amount of fertilizer used on cotton. Georgia, Alabama, and Arkansas report a heavy damage from excessive rains and floods, and it now seems that a large cotton crop cannot be made. With a crop less than 15,000,000 bales. The price of cotton should remain around 20 cents or higher.

Wheat Acreage Same. Wheat acreage is practically the same as last year, but acreage in oats was reduced. Much of the wheat and oat crop was ruined before the rains came the latter part of May and early in June. The wheat crop probably will make 20,000,000 bushels—a little more than last year, while the oat crop likely will be less than last year.

Corn and grain sorghum acreage is nearly the same as last year and the condition is fairly good. Sorghum is already made and with one more rain during this month to finish the crop in Central, North and East Texas a reasonably good crop will be made. Some of the corn is two weeks late. Prospects are good for a large crop of grain sorghums, with late rains.

The sweet potato crop is just about normal and with late rains, a good crop will be made. The peanut crop is about average and is doing well. Tomatoes and watermelon acreage has been increased but prices will prove profitable.

Here is Summary.

Following is Mr. Terrell's acreage and condition summary in percentages:

CROP	Acreage	Condition
Cotton	106	79
Corn	100	87
Oats	88	65
Wheat	98	62
Grain Sorghum	100	86
Sweet Potato	93	86
Peanuts	95	85
Tomatoes	105	82
Watermelons	112	86

Midnight Fire

ing the day, neither of the other doing material damage, however.

Carelessly Dropped Match Starts Blaze

Fire originating from carelessly dropped match yesterday afternoon broke out in the rear of Spikes Brothers Furniture company, 1212 Avenue H.

Little damage resulted from the blaze as the rapid work of the fire department prevented the flames from spreading.

The two main fire trucks, fire hose car, and the chief's car answered the call. The large crowds which gathered around the smoking building and the intense smoke from the blaze hindered the firemen in combating the fire.

One of the employees of the furniture company had spilled a bottle of laquer thinner on the floor when another dropped a lighted match.

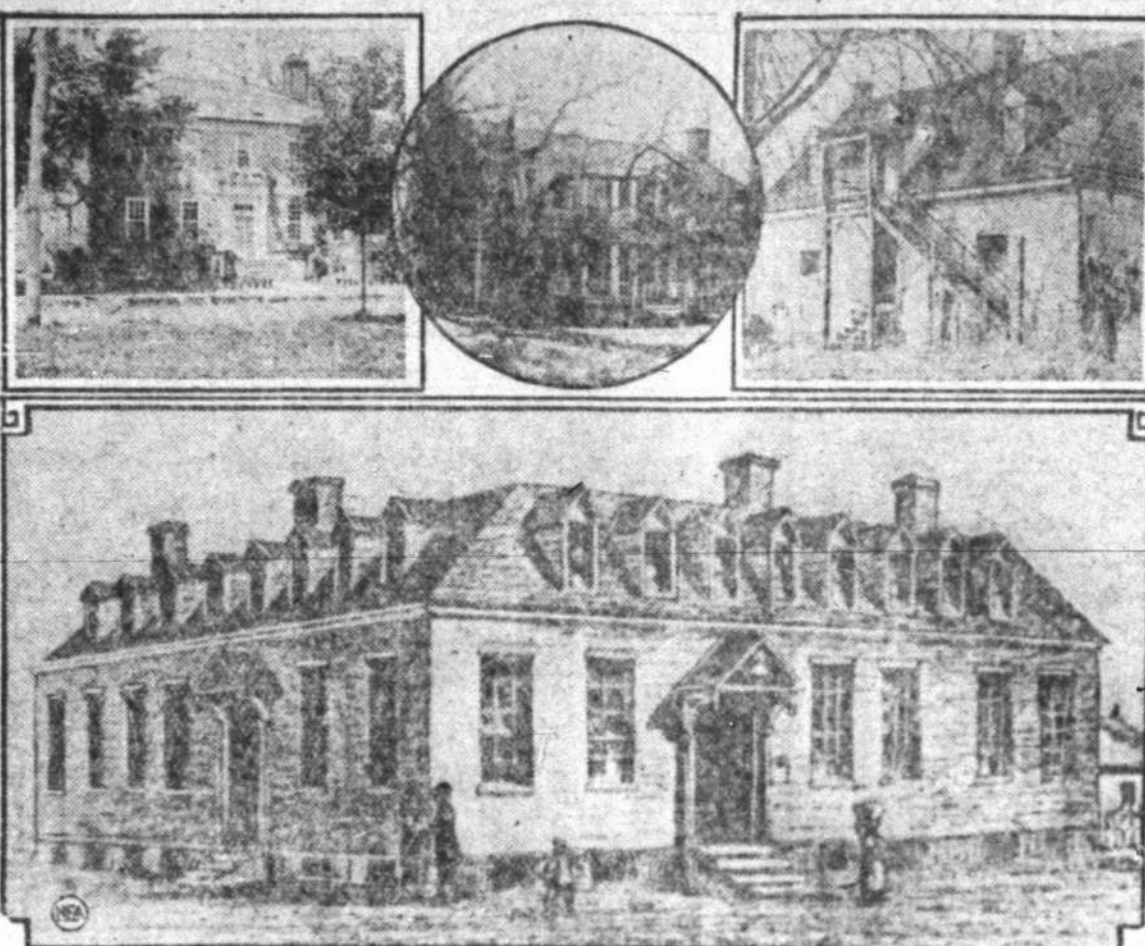

"Dynamite" Disperses Crowds. "Jan" Bogan, janitor of the City hall, who accompanied the firemen on the call proved the hero of the day. When the crowds gathered near the entrances of the building, hindering the firemen in their fire fighting, "Jan" yelled, "Look out! There's dynamite in the building." The crowds not only looked out but got out of the way.

This was the second fire of the day. The other was a trash fire in the 2000 block on 20th street. The fire was extinguished by the fire truck from the station on 19th street before the arrival of the central station trucks.

Smith Opposition

(Continued from page 1) Tennessee for the presidential nomination, was called in on the conference, but he said that his only participation was to prepare a statement setting forth his views in favor of prohibition, a statement called forth by headlines in a local newspaper, but coming quickly upon the heels of Gov. Smith's retirement at Albany that he had not changed his belief that the prohibition provisions should be amended.

Where Rockefeller Millions Will Turn Back History

Here are some of the famous old buildings of Williamsburg, Va. which soon are to figure in the greatest historical restoration ever attempted in America. The entire town, rich in colorful memories, is to be rebuilt just as it was 150 years ago. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will finance the project at a cost of more than $4,000,000. Upper left is the already restored George Wythe home, where Washington and Lafayette planned the victorious Yorktown campaign. Center is Bassett Hall, built by a nephew of George Washington. The old prison, where Blackbeard and his men were executed in 1718, is pictured at the right. Below is a drawing of the Raleigh Tavern, destroyed by fire in 1859, which will be restored. Here, it is said, more colonial history was made than in the capital itself.

La Follette and Young Roosevelt Offer Contrasts

Two Great "Rebels," Sons of Famous Leaders Stand High in the Political Panorama of Nation.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 22.—Two great rebels stand large in the historical panorama of politics in this century. Both led this nation toward a new high ground of social progress, both are now dead and both gave their illustrious names to sons who followed their footsteps in national politics.

Two rebels were Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin and Col. Theodore Roosevelt of New York.

Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin and Col. Theodore Roosevelt of New York have been conspicuous at this Republican convention. They are known as Young Bob and Young Teddy. One of them is a rebel and the other is not.

One of them is taking up more and more room in the large shoes left by his father and the other has failed after desperate attempts.

YOUNG BOB has taken his father's seat in the Senate and has never stopped fighting for the La Follette principles. Young Teddy, with a head start, apparently can't quite live up to the Roosevelt traditions. He failed to capture his father's old job as governor of New York and will never get within shouting distance of the White House, no matter how hard he tries.

Young Bob is 41 years old, Young Teddy is 42. Let's take a look at these two boys in the convention hall. La Follette is just being introduced to the convention by Chairman George Moses. He wears a short black sideburn, is quite short and would pass for a college boy, for he has youth's appearance and exuberance.

He is there to present the minority progressive platform of Wisconsin as it was presented in the days of Old Bob from 1904 to 1924. Put this in the first time a La Follette platform ever has been presented by a La Follette. The Wisconsin delegation always used to vote for Old Bob for president, and such jobs are not delegated to candidates.

THE great crowd looks at Young Bob and feels almost assured that such a young man will stumble and falter. Perhaps from its sympathy, he gets a large round of applause and much of the ovation comes from the galleries.

Then the convention suddenly learns that Old Bob handed down to Young Bob his gift of oratory. And it engages in several more outbursts as he hits his high spots, which is a considerable tribute to the young senator, considering the sour attitude of the convention toward Wisconsin men since Henry Allen Copper was booted, biased and told to "curry it out the window" when he brought the first of the Wisconsin platform series in 1904.

YOUNG BOB throws himself into his preliminary address with all Old Bob's fire and sincerity. Every one listens. Most of the delegates hate these ideas and ideals.

As the old man forced their admiration, so now it appears does the son. Young Bob explains why Wisconsin and its platform are here, which is interesting, since the convention won't consider this minority platform for a minute. There are 38 planks in the 1908 platform and 33 have since been adopted by Congress.

They included demands for woman suffrage, direct senatorial elections, federal income and inheritance taxes, railroad valuation, the seaman's act, a tariff commission, power power for the Interstate Commerce Commission, limitation of working hours for railroad trainmen, and so on.

That's why, says Young Bob, Wisconsin makes its quadrennial convention fight. Someone must keep pushing these progressive measures which the party isn't ready yet to adopt.

True, the convention applauds loudly and longest when Young Bob reads the section mentioning Coolidge's McNary-Haugen veto, but with all the grace of a veteran campaigner he calmly thanks the convention for its unexpected applause for a Wisconsinite, gets a big friendly laugh and goes on.

AFTERWARD there is much complimentary talk about Young Bob and dozens of persons visit his hotel to congratulate him.

He is up for re-election this year and the registry and the power interests of Wisconsin will spend large sums attempting to beat him. But from his father Young Bob learned much about how to lick these very same folks. He was his father's confidential secretary and clerk of a Senate committee in Washington, which did enough investigating and other work to teach him national affairs.

The End of the Farm Revolt?

NEA Kansas City Bureau The nomination of Senator Curtis, Kansas, as Herbert Hoover's running mate in the presidential race, appears to have settled the "farm revolt" in the Republican ranks. Here are Bascom Simpson, a Hoover leader, (right) and B. J. Dickinson, Iowa congressman and farm bloc champion, shaking hands just before leaving Kansas City.

QUARTERLY REVIEW

General Topic—Jesus the Saviour. Scripture Lesson—Zechariah 1:14-17. 14. Sing. O daughter of Zion, shout, O Israel; be glad and rejoice with all the heart. O daughter of Jerusalem.

15. The Lord hath taken away thy judgments, he hath cast out those enemy, the king of Israel, even the Lord, is in the midst of thee: thou shalt not see evil anymore.

16. In that day shall be said to Jerusalem, Fear thou not; and to Zion, Let not thine hands be slack.

17. The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty; he will save thee, he will rejoice over thee with joy; he will rest in his love, he will joy over thee with songs.

Golden Text—Choose you this day whom ye will serve—Joshua 24:15. The twelve leaders of this day whom ye will serve—Joshua 24:15.

The first lesson tells of His going with His disciples to the eastern northern part of Palestine, to the town of Caesarea Philippi, and of Peter's bold confession: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." Soon afterward, on the Mount of Transfiguration, He permitted His chosen three, Peter, James and John, to behold His glorified person, to hear the Father's voice from heaven. "This is my beloved Son," and to see the heavenly Father.

We come finally to the last week of Jesus' life, beginning with His triumphant entry into Jerusalem on Sunday before His crucifixion on the following Friday, being greeted as a king by the joyous multitude shouting with enthusiasm, "Hosanna to the Son of David." A few days later, after the base betrayal with the treacherous kiss of His own disciple, Judas, and after the mock trials before the Jewish Sanhedrin, before Herod and before Pilate, He is led away, a condemned captive, carrying His own cross through the streets of the same city to a place outside the walls, Mount Calvary—a name and place forever sacred—there to suffer the horrible death of crucifixion, dying for sinners, dying for you and for me, dying that "Whosoever believeth in Him might not perish, but have everlasting life." All this we have studied in order that we might know Him better, appreciate Him more thoroughly and serve Him more faithfully as "Jesus Our Saviour."

The topics and the golden texts of the twelve lessons together with a few suggestions in regard to each lesson, are as follows:

1. April 1. Jesus the Suffering Messiah. Mark 8:27-9:32; 10:32-34. Golden Text: If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.—Mark 8:34.

The training of the Twelve. Who are the Twelve? The Son of man. What kind of a Messiah the Suffering Servant. "Get thee behind me!"

2. April 2. The Resurrection. (Master Lesson.) Mark 16:1-20. Golden Text: Because I live, ye shall live also.—John 14:19.

The Resurrection truth. The need of a living Christ. Our experience of Christ's resurrection. The empty tomb the sign.

3. April 3. Transfiguration and Service. Mark 9:2-28. Golden Text: him, the same beareth much fruit; for apart from me ye can do nothing.—John 15:5.

The meaning of the transfiguration. The appearance of the transfigured, Peter's proposal. The voice. What the transfiguration means to Jesus. The injunction to silence. The cure of the epileptic boy.

4. April 4. Jesus and the Home. Mark 10:1-16. Golden Text: Honour thy father and thy mother (which is the first commandment with promise).—Ex. 20:12.

The family as a social unit. Jesus and marriage. The Pharisees' question. The Mosaic law and divorce.

5. May 1. Jesus Teaching in the Temple. Mark 12:13-44. Golden Text—He taught them as one having authority.—Matt. 7:29.

To Caesar, Caesar; To God, God's. Pharisee and Herodians try to "catch" Jesus. The poll-tax. Jesus' sermon from the coin. His attitude toward government, and the Christian's. The most important commandment.

6. May 2. The Wicked Husbandmen. (Temperance Application.) Mark 12:1-12; 13:1-37. Golden Text—Jehovah knoweth the way of the righteous; But the way of the wicked shall perish.—Ps. 1:6.

The vineyard of the journeying husbandmen. Their treatment of the beloved son. The punishment. The missed opportunity. Our individual social and national misuses of power and opportunity.

7. May 3. Jesus Facing Betrayal and Death. Mark 14:1-42. Golden Text—Not what I will, but what thou wilt.—Mark 14:36.

The Last Supper. The Last Passover. Its preparation. The fellowship of eating Gethsemane. The prayer. The share of a sleeping church.

8. May 4. The Arrest and Trial. Mark 14:43; 15:1-39. Golden Text—He was despised, and rejected of men.—Isa. 53:3.

The verdict of the council. Pilate. Where he failed. The charges against Jesus. "Art thou King?"

In what sense? Pilate and the Jews. Pilate and Jesus. "Delivered." The voice of the crowd.

12. June 17. The Crucifixion. Mark 15:16. Golden Text—Good commendeth his own love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.—Rom. 5:8.

The four accounts. Golgotha. The crucifixion and the cross. The agony. Nature's sympathy. The dying cry. The parted veil.

VENIRE OF 715 And Even That Not Enough For Moly Trial

NEW ORLEANS, June 22. (AP)—After 380 persons had been examined for jury service and only six accepted a mistrial was declared today in the trial of Henry Moly, charged with murdering his sister-in-law.

Seven hundred fifteen were summoned for jury service but only 380 reported.

Moly killed his wife and sister-in-law Mrs. Joseph Moly, last summer dismembered their bodies and packed them in trunks in his residence here. He was tried for slaying his wife and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The mistrial was declared today because the jury panel had been exhausted.

WINDSTORM DAMAGE Telephone Poles Leveled In Kansas

KANSAS CITY, June 22. (AP)—A windstorm early today leveled telephone poles and broke the main long distance line into Kansas, causing suspension of service between here and Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Bartlesville, Hutchinson, Emporia, Pittsburg, Independence, Wichita, Fort Scott, Cherokee, and other points. It was expected repair work would be completed before night.

LOUISVILLE, June 22. (AP)—Harry Culver, founder of Culver City, California, was elected president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at the annual convention of the association here today.

MOODY NONCOMMITTAL Has Not Statement On Declaration of Al

AUSTIN, June 22. (AP)—Governor Moody would not comment Friday on Governor Al Smith's statement from New York, reiterating his stand for state control of alcoholic content of liquor under the prohibition laws.

"I have not read the statement and don't want to say anything about it at present," Governor Moody said.

He conferred in his office with former United States attorney general, T. W. Gregory, a supporter of Governor Smith.

PAIR EXONERATED Dallas Couple Cleared In Murder Case

DALLAS, June 22. (AP)—Mrs. Precilla Knight and her brother, Lewis Dawn, 19, both charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Lloyd Knight, May 20 at the Knight residence here, were exonerated by the grand jury today.

A no-bill was returned in each case. Only one shot was fired, according to officers who investigated.

Young Dawn declared to the District Attorney that he fired the shot after Knight had attacked his sister.

Lone Four-Masted Schooner Left

Survivor of Craft that Once Plied the Seven Seas Rides at Texas Anchor

(By Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, June 22.—In days of old when young men went "down to the sea in ships," a four-masted schooner was commonplace. It was not even classed as a "windjammer" with other ships of romance which depended upon the erratic winds for their power.

But now, things have changed, and even a schooner with four masts is regarded with awe by the youngsters and hailed by old seafaring men as an emblem of the past.

Texas has such a ship. She is the Mable Gale of Houston, now being taken on cargo for a voyage to "who knows where?" And the Mable Gale, while not as young as she used to be, soon will sail away to "foreign shores" and old timers will watch her leave them behind as they wish for a chance to re-live the days of their youth.

Built in 1902, the Mable Gale was built in Port Blakely, Wash., in 1902. With four masts reaching 125 feet toward the heavens, she sailed the oceans of the globe for 26 years before she was bought by a Texas firm. During her lifetime she has touched at many points in Australia, Europe, Africa and South America, carrying her cargo of 1,000 tons and her crew of nine through storms that swamped many less hardy ships.

She is 200 feet long and draws 18 feet. She carries before the wind four large sails, four topsails, four studding sails and three jibs. Only one note shatters the picture of a figure from the past—her sails are raised and lowered by donkey engine, and not by husky sailors rolling out their chanleys as they heave.

Her captain, Owen D. Tibbets, as are all good sailing vessel captains, is well capable of bearing weather. Although he is only 39 years old he has had 18 years at sea, having taken a post as cabin boy when he was 14. He has ten brothers, and all of them follow the sea.

WOMAN CANDIDATE

Mrs. Cunningham to Make Talk Here July 7

Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, the Texas woman who is pitted against Tom Connally, Alvin C. Wiley, Thomas Byrnes, and Earle B. Mayfield for the senate position now held by the latter, will speak in behalf of her candidacy here on July 7. It was announced yesterday Mrs. Cunningham has been very active in state politics during the past several years. Her talk will be given in the district courtroom.

Jake Jackson, 60, of near Petersburg, died in a local hospital yesterday afternoon.

The body was prepared for burial by Rix Undertakers, and was carried to Petersburg yesterday afternoon in a F. C. Harmon ambulance of Floydada.

Funeral services will be held at Petersburg today.

PLAN REFINERY

5000 Barrel Plant To Be At Big Spring

BIG SPRING, June 22.—Final negotiations have been made for the building of a 5000 barrel refinery located two and one-half miles west of Big Spring. This plant will be built by Charles R. Groff and Wm. Patterson of Dallas. According to Mr. Groff, material is being assembled and actual construction will begin within the next few days. This refinery will be an outlier for the oil that is now being produced in the Big Spring field 18 miles southeast of Big Spring. Wells in this field ranging in production from 100 to 4000 barrels daily.

FIVE AUTOS LICENSED

June's record average of five new car registrations each day was maintained yesterday with the granting of licenses for five new cars.

In addition to this, licenses for three new commercial cars and three old cars were issued. Thirty-two new cars have been registered here this week. June's total for new cars was booted to 112 and the year's total to the new-high mark of 788. Total registration of all cars for the year now stands at 7,571.

Yesterday's registrations were to L. C. Denton, J. U. Biggers, Lawrence Lundgren, E. W. Couchman, and C. M. Crosby. Licenses for new commercial cars were issued to Harper Huston, Melson Haxley and Nisler Hardware company.

Americans spent nearly one billion dollars for the building of apartments in 1927, which is more than the total outlay for one family houses. All told the cities spent $3,569,839,406 for building operations.

Potash Found On Big Spring Land

Is Second Good Showing Of Mineral To Be Encountered In Howard County Oil Fields

BIG SPRING, June 22.—A good strata of potash was struck sixteen miles northeast of Big Spring at 980 feet on the C. D. Ranch located on section 12, block 31, township 1 north, Howard county, by the Laurel Oil Co. This is the second good showing of potash found in the Big Spring oil field, the other being on the McDowell ranch in Merriweather No. 1. According to report from Congressman Claude B. Hudspeth, a survey of Howard county and several other west Texas counties where potash deposits have been found in paying quantities will be made in order to determine the value of the potash deposits.

PAVING AT SAN ANGELO

SAN ANGELO, June 22.—The city of San Angelo has received 24 of 30 blocks of paving completed here by L. E. Whitman & Company, contractors, and the other six blocks, practically all of which are in the business or semi-business section of the city, will be opened to traffic within two weeks.

AID WHEAT GROWERS

West Texas C. of C. Working Out Plan

FORT WORTH, June 22.—Working on a plan to aid wheat growers of the upper plains district to move their wheat this spring, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is sending J. E. Briggs, its field representative in the Amarillo district, on a tour, starting today, of the wheat section.

Delegates from the plains country in Fort Worth for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention this week predicted an unusually good crop. They explained weather conditions have been almost ideal for wheat this spring.

Interruptions from lightning have been reduced over 80 per cent on some lines of the American Gas and Electric Company by the installation of tested protective devices. A research department is constantly studying the problem and additional improvements are expected in the coming year.

In 1927 splices reached a new high import record—more than 111,202,000 pounds valued at $25,088,000.

Most bicycles contain about 2600 parts.

Introducing Our Latest Motor Fuel

Magnolia

Anti-Knock Gasoline

Powerful Even Burning Knockless

Climaxing extensive research work, we now offer Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline to those motorists who operate high-compression motors and motors affected by excessive carbon and others who require "something extra" in flexible power and freedom from "knock" under all conditions. This, our latest Motor Fuel, gives you more lift for the steepest hills, steady tugging power through the deepest sand and mud and new fleetness down the straightaway.

Being a pure petroleum product, Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline accomplishes its task of removing "knock" without injury to gas lines, cylinder walls, pistons or valves. You will be glad to use Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline not only because of its smooth added power, but also because of its non-injurious character.

Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline is a Red gasoline, but all red gasoline is not ANTI-KNOCK. Look for the sign.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service

NEA

by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 VIRGINIA BREWSTER, is in love with an artist, NATHANIEL DANN, but she is tricked into promising to marry FREDERICK DEAN, in one year if she fails to earn $100,000 that he alleges her father cheated him out of.

BREWSTER had lost his fortune in speculation before his death and VIRGINIA is left destitute. She pawns some of her jewelry, and a broker friend OLIVER CUTTER, promises to invest the money for her.

She seeks work, but without success. She discovers that she is being shadowed and suspects that DEAN has bribed the agencies not to help her. After word leaks out that the "Brewster girl" is job-seeking, she is besieged by reporters.

CUTTER insists on taking VIRGINIA out to dinner and hints that it won't be necessary for her to work for her money, but pretends innocence when she challenges his remark. NIEL, resenting the attentions of CUTTER and VIRGINIA does not like the familiarity with which his model, CHIRI MOND, treats him.

A gorgeous evening wrap comes to VIRGINIA and she discovers that DEAN sent it. She phones him that she is returning it and he tells her he doesn't want his future wife to work. His threat to ruin CUTTER frightens VIRGINIA and she warns OLIVER. Then she hears of an available position and, after interviewing the manager, gets the place. The summer passes and in early September VIRGINIA is amazed when charged by CUTTER's wife with trying to alienate his affections. Frantically, she appeals to OLIVER to explain and tells him she considers it best to withdraw her account from him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
 CHAPTER XXXVI
 VIRGINIA was at Oliver's office the next morning before he arrived. She had experienced a night of terrible suspense, wondering how much money he actually had made for her and what had happened to the oil stock he mentioned. She prayed that the losses sustained had not been severe. It would be tragic to endure a setback, especially at this time when she was facing the necessity of finishing what she had started out to accomplish, without his assistance. For she must take her account elsewhere she knew. There was no hope of concealing anything in her life from Frederick Dean, apparently.

And then there was Jennie with her ready acceptance of the basest construction that could be put upon the affair. Virginia burned with mingled anger and shame when her thoughts turned back to Jennie's scathing indignation. Nathaniel had noticed her perturbation several times at dinner and finally asked if anything was troubling her. She had assured him with the best composure she could summon that there was nothing at all the matter.

"You know I've considered a few times lately if I'm not becoming of less importance in your scheme of things," he said thoughtfully. It disturbed Virginia.

"Niel," she expostulated, frightened, "please don't say that."

"Well, you haven't even mentioned any of your plans for weeks," he complained.

"Oh, my dear, I thought everything was going so well I wasn't making any plans. You're happy in your work, aren't you?"

"I can't deny that, but what's become of all those promises to marry me when you'd had a fair fling at self-expression? seems to me you've proved pretty conclusively that you can make good on your own effort. And I'm doing well enough to support a wife, you know. About as well as my wife ever will be supported. I mean to say, of course, when I'm famous, but you can't expect me to wait until that time, Virginia."

"Oh why did you bring this up now?" Virginia wailed.

"Well, why not now?" Nathaniel drove on doggedly. "Just because I haven't said anything about it was no reason for thinking I'd lost interest in the subject."

And so again Virginia was forced to put him off, and when they said good night she felt that he was hurt and pained. There was even a touch of aloofness in his kiss—and he took only one. It was not like Nathaniel.

 RIGHT NOW!

All night she tossed and turned, dwelling alternately upon his attitude and Jeanie's accusation, with the specter of defeat ever drawing closer, driving her to the verge of despair.

Small wonder she looked a pitiful sight when she walked into Oliver's office and asked if he had come in. Miss Evans started visibly when she saw her and was impelled to ask if she was ill.

"No, I'm all right," Virginia answered wearily. "Do you think Mr. Cutter will be in soon?"

"He may," Miss Evans answered kindly. "Quite often he is here before I am." Quite often, yes, but perhaps once or twice a year, but Miss Evans wanted to encourage Virginia even if she did have to stretch the truth a little. She was sorry, conscience-smitten, on Virginia's account. Her mental state had not been a pleasant one since she had been called into her employer's office on the day she had first lunched with Virginia, and instructed to refuse further invitations from the former society girl.

She was astonished to have her hopeful assumption regarding Oliver's arrival justified a few minutes later. He showed no surprise at seeing Virginia there and asked her into his private office almost without a preliminary greeting. Miss Evans understood the meeting had been arranged.

But what passed between the two she could only guess when, about 20 minutes later, Virginia staggered out of Oliver's office and collapsed upon the floor. She had closed the door behind her, however, and there was no sound from her lips. Oliver did not know what had happened. Miss Evans instantly decided not to call him. She only glanced at the door with fierce hatred before she stooped to assist Virginia, who lay motionless at her feet.

The girl was not easily revived, though Miss Evans worked frantically over her limp body. At the first sign of consciousness there was a wild, desperate light in her eyes. It terrified Miss Evans. Virginia seized the latter's hand and clung to it while a veritable paroxysm of trembling shook her like the ague. Miss Evans imagined she heard her teeth chattering. Fortunately no one from the other offices came into the reception room before Virginia was able to get to her feet and waver to a chair.

Miss Evans cast many anxious glances toward Oliver's door while she aided Virginia to regain her composure.

"I want to talk with you," she whispered when Virginia was calm enough to heed what she was saying. "Please go out and wait for me in the hall. I'll get one of the girls in the inner office to take you down and then we'll go to the rest room. I've something important to tell you."

Virginia looked at her searchingly and appeared to realize her seriousness. She nodded and Miss Evans helped her to her feet and led her to the door. A few minutes later the secretary joined her in the hall and guided her to the rest room.

It was a modern, cheerfully furnished place with couches and comfortable chairs. Miss Evans made Virginia remove her hat and lie down before she would talk to her. Finally she pulled a chair close to her side and said: "You may have wondered why I refused to lunch with you after that first day. Well, she hurried on without waiting for an answer—"Mr. Cutter instructed me to have nothing whatever to say to you. He made it quite plain that it would cost me my position to do so."

Virginia raised herself on an elbow. "Do you know why?" she asked.

"No, I don't," Miss Evans told her, "but if you will tell me what happened just now in his office perhaps I may be able to figure it out."

"I learned that he has lost all the money he had made for me," Virginia informed her unhesitatingly; "all but about $500. I have a check for that. It was the shock of finding out that I haven't a great deal more that upset me so completely."

Miss Evans looked blank. "The money he made for you?" she repeated, perplexed. "He didn't make any, Miss Brewster. I know that. Your account has stood at $300 all summer and he never once bought anything for you."

"Are you sure?" Virginia cried mad now, and he at once saw that something had happened to turn her against him.

"I want to know why you've been lying to me," she demanded as he got up and faced her. Her words clipped off like bite of ice. Oliver made a stammering gesture to pretend fear, but Virginia did not thaw in the least.

"Oh, you mean about the difference between your money and that?" he said, observing the check in her hand. "Just a little trick to give you a life, Virginia. How did you find it out?" His voice was light but he could not conceal an expression of uneasiness in his eyes.

"Give me another check at once," she ordered him, quickly deciding to play his game until the matter of her account was properly settled, and throwing the slip of paper on his desk.

Oliver drew out his check book and wrote a second check. When Virginia had it in her bag she raised her eyes to his and gave him a look he was to remember with a sheepish feeling for a long time to come.

"Now I want to know why you have been pretending you were making money for me," she said with dangerous quietness.

—holding his trumps—that she had been lulled into perfect confidence in him. "But I'm not altogether sure," she went on, more to her self than to her listener. "I will know very soon, though. Will you get me a glass of water, please Miss Evans?"

Miss Evans brought water in a paper cup and Virginia sipped it slowly. "I don't suppose you could give me a check for $300 and take this one," she said suddenly.

"That would be impossible for me to do," Miss Evans replied.

"Never mind, I'll get it from him."

Virginia walked firmly back to Oliver's office and right to his desk without faltering. She was fighting mad now, and he at once saw that something had happened to turn her against him.

"I want to know why you've been lying to me," she demanded as he got up and faced her. Her words clipped off like bite of ice. Oliver made a stammering gesture to pretend fear, but Virginia did not thaw in the least.

"Oh, you mean about the difference between your money and that?" he said, observing the check in her hand. "Just a little trick to give you a life, Virginia. How did you find it out?" His voice was light but he could not conceal an expression of uneasiness in his eyes.

"Now I want to know why you have been pretending you were making money for me," she said with dangerous quietness.

From housewives' own statements we know that the average woman cannot afford to bake many different kinds of breads, cakes, cookies and pastries. Their families need only small quantities and home bakings grow stale before being eaten; besides, they have so many other important things to do that they cannot afford to become baking specialists.

To us, on the other hand, baking is a business. We have the equipment and experience to make all the kinds of good baked foods any hearty family needs. We use just the same quality ingredients you have come to know as reliable.

We can supply you with wholesome, appetizing, white and dark breads, rolls, cakes, cookies and pastries for luncheons, teas and parties as well as for every meal. We are organized and operate for your convenience. Why not let us furnish you with the spice of life?

When Caesar was a boy

The Forum was the common market-place for all of ancient Rome. Today a few crumbling columns stand as mute reminders of its former grandeur.

In our present-day complex civilization, market-places have become scattered. It is no longer possible to visit them all in a morning—or even in a day.

Advertising, instead, has become the convenient Forum of modern buyers and sellers. If you are considering the purchase of a new car, you scrutinize the automobile advertising. Or if it's a razor or a talking machine that you want, you turn again to the advertising. Here is the national market-place for merchandise.

Furthermore, as you leaf over those same pages of products, your mind is storing away for tomorrow a compact and valuable fund of information. Instinctively, you will remember those facts when you make your future purchases. Increase your store of knowledge by reading the advertisements regularly.

ADVERTISING HAS BECOME THE COMMON MARKET-PLACE OF THIS TWENTIETH CENTURY
