So This Is Texas

Old West Texas—
Loan on Cotton—
Now We're on Map—
Diversification Does It.

By H. N. Fitzgerald

TEXAS is the banner cotton producing state. West Texas has made it so. In the memory of men yet in their prime, west Texas was a grazing country given over to the herds of the cattle barons. Now the former grazing lands in season are white with cotton and the tremendous increase in acreage is due to the man with the hoe and the plow who has invaded west Texas in recent years. Of course, the same story of transformation applies to Oklahoma. West Texas produced a vast crop of cotton this year. Not all of this vast crop has been picked.

* * *

GROWERS of the fleecy staple are reminded that the latest plan of affording relief to the grower has been announced by Eugene Meyer, president of the cotton committee appointed by President Coolidge. Over in North Carolina he advised the formation of a $1,000,000 finance corporation capable of holding through assistance of cotton co-operative associations 300,000 bales of North Carolina cotton from the market. His advice was taken by the North Carolinans without delay.

* * *

AND now the movement in North Carolina will be financed through the Farm Loan bank and intermediate credit banks. In other words, each state must form a similar organization. Uncle Sam will advance money but he will take no chance. There must be a state organization to handle the state situation and the bankers and financiers of the state must come across with financial aid in order to see to it that the farm loan board is not out a dollar at the end of the game. Business is business.

* * *

AS THERE is a vast quantity of cotton to be marketed by the growers of west Texas, they are reminded of the words issued from the lips of a very wise planter and financier, "the solution of the farmer's problem is not to hold cotton merely for a higher price, but to hold it until such time as the world is able to absorb it." That is, just as fast as the world is able to absorb it, cotton should be sold. It is the contention of Col. Henry Hester of New Orleans that the world will be able to absorb the cotton crop of 1926 if it is marketed wisely, which calls for slow marketing when there is a demand for it at a fair price. Organization is not confined to the cotton states.

* * *

GOV. JOHN HAMMILL of Iowa, in letters to the western and southern governors of 25 states has requested the farmers of all 25 states to affiliate with the north central states agricultural conference, an organization that includes a variety of agricultural and commercial interests and which has been working on the grain belt federation of farm organizations for legislative relief for agriculture. Governor Hammill in his letter says the general nature of the agriculture difficulties warrants an extension of the organizations sponsoring relief measures to all sections of the country. He proposes the organization of a permanent agriculture conference board of national scope, which he declares would be of inestimatable service to farmers and other interests. Texas has been invited to participate in this Iowa conference of representatives of the agriculture interests, including the governors of the 25 states. An economic alliance of the farmers of the 25 states would mean a political alliance when relief measures are pending in the American congress. It may come to this at last. It has been the dream of many thinkers of the various sections in recent years.

* * *

WEST TEXAS agriculturally speaking is on the map. Garza county, way out in the Plains country, was awarded the state fair of Texas grand prize for the county exhibit section of the 1926 exposition. Indeed, the counties of the Plains country and the Panhandle and other sections of Texas made tremendous showings this year at the Dallas exposition. Hale county boomers claimed to have won more awards in both county and individual agriculture classes than any other ten counties in Texas. Hale county has been exhibiting yearly at the state fair since 1907, and Col. R. P. Smyth, the father of Plainview, was the first exhibitor for that section of West Texas. More blue ribbons were won by west Texas counties than the counties of any section of the state.

* * *

ALL THIS reminds the writer that the gospel of diversification is preached continuously in west Texas. Farmers are told to produce poultry. There is ever a market for eggs and chickens. They are told to produce hogs. There is ever a demand for hams and bacon. They are told to grow all the foodstuffs for the table and all the feedstuffs for their livestock. They are told to plant orchards and

Two Die, Ten Hurt, In Oil Field Fire

EIGHT TANKS IN SOUR LAKE OIL FIELD EXPLODE

Death Toll May Go to Three In Trail of Blaze Early Sunday

FRICTION CAUSES IT

Manager of Humphreys' Oil Corporation Dies In Fight On Fire

BEAUMONT, Texas, Oct. 24 (AP)—Two and possibly three men are dead and damage estimated at $500,000 resulted when fire swept the new Sour Lake oil field, 25 miles from here, early Sunday morning, leveling six derricks, drilling rigs and other equipment, and destroying eight 500-barrel tanks, most of them filled with oil. Ten other men badly burned were brought to Beaumont hospitals for treatment.

Body Not Recovered

Included in the dead is Fred Tuff, of Houston, general superintendent of the Humphreys Oil corporation and former chief of the United States bureau of mines. His body had not been recovered at 4 p. m. The charred and mutilated boy of T. Chambless, field employe, was taken from the ruins at 1:15 p. m. Another body, the identity of which has not been established this afternoon, is also believed to be in the fire.

Friction Causes Fire.

Friction is believed to have been the cause of the blaze which originated in Humphrey's B No. 3, which was being prepared for pumping at the time. Tubing was being lowered into the casing and the scraping of metal is said to have generated the spark that started the conflagration.

The original fire broke out at 4 a. m., destroying only the derrick. It was practically under control

COOLIDGE FOR BUTLER CHOICE

He Wants Massachusetts Man Re-Elected As Member Of U. S. Senate

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 24. (AP)—In a letter made public today by the Massachusetts republican state campaign committee, President Coolidge said that it was his desire to see Senator Butler "continue the eminent service he is rendering Massachusetts and the nation."

Mr. Coolidge, writing in reply to a telegram asking whether he intended to cast his vote in his home city of Northampton, said that he and Mrs. Coolidge planned to make the trip to this state for election, and added warm endorsement of Senator Butler and of Governor Alvan T. Fuller, who is a candidate for re-election. He said Senator Butler would "rapidly take rank as a great senator."

"ROADS IN AIR" MAY SOLVE TRAFFIC JAM IN LONDON STREETS

LONDON, Oct. 24.(AP)—A London on trestles in years to come has been visualized by Lord Montague, traffic expert, who is aiding in unravelling the city's traffic puzzles.

The traveling public has a rooted objection against going down into the bowels of the earth for the underground systems, Lord Montague believes and his plans for the future include viaducts 200 feet above the present street level with escalators for both pedestrians and vehicles.

Addressing the royal commission which is confronted with the task of solving the problem of the constantly increasing traffic, Lord Montague peered along the roadways of years to come and saw a city entirely rebuilt.

Lord Montague's plan also includes six-way main ground roads with allotted spaces for slow, medium speed and express traffic in each direction, underground roadways for vehicles as well as the elevated arrangements and underground parking places for automobiles.

Kisses Of Love Turn To Scorn Of Hate

A striking profile of Frances "Peaches" Browning, child wife of Edward West Browning; an interesting photo of Peaches and her middle-aged husband partaking of a honeymoon kiss shortly after their marriage, and at right, Mrs. Heenan, Peaches' mother.

'Peaches' Mother Not Fit To Guard Girl Says 'Cinderella Papa' Who Goes To Court To End Unhappy Romance

By Central Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Having won his first move to separate himself from his sixteen-year-old wife, Edward W. Browning, millionaire real estate dealer, is awaiting the outcome of his second action. Browning's first step was to petition the New York courts to appoint another guardian for his child-wife, Frances "Peaches" Browning, claiming her mother is not the proper person to be her guardian. Court Justice Morschauser named N. Otis Rockwood of New York City as the new guardian.

Now, the 52-year-old Browning is awaiting the outcome of his suit for separation. Summons has already been served on Peaches.

Browning's suit for separation came as somewhat of a surprise, for right up to the day he filed his papers he had consistently continued to tell newspaper reporters of his love for Peaches and his hope that she would return. He even was snapped by photographers wiping tears from his eyes.

Meantime, Peaches is busy telling through the newspapers that her marriage to Browning was a nightmare of personal indignities and newspaper notoriety. She even goes so far as to say she is surprised her millionaire husband didn't call in cameramen to photograph various intimate scenes of their nuptial night.

The promises of Browning to his bride never came true, Peaches charges. She says the newspaper stories that he was spending $500 and $600 a day on her are all the bokum. The girl-bride says her millionaire "daddy's" stinginess cropped out as early as the days of their honeymoon. In fact, Peaches charges, her "daddy" was generous in everything except where money was involved.

Browning has told newspapermen that he spent $30,000 on his young wife since their marriage in May. "Proof," says Mrs. Frances Heenan, mother of Peaches, in answer to this. "It was less than $12,000 and that includes jewelry, clothing, doctor's fees and our pin money."

Mrs. Browning's mother says there will be no stage career for her daughter. "I have received an offer for Peaches for $3,000 per week to appear at a New York theater," Mrs. Heenan says. "She will not go on the stage. We'll scrub floors first."

Armenia Quake's Toll Passes 400

Destruction of Property In Millions of Dolars Unestimated

LENINAKAN, Armenia, Oct. 24. (AP)—Upward of 400 persons have been killed, hundreds of others mortally injured and 100,000 made homeless by earthquakes which, starting Friday night and recurring until early today have destroyed the greater part of this city of 40,000 inhabitants and twelve thriving towns in the vicinity. The whole of Armenia has been terrified and the destruction amounts to millions of dollars.

Frantic efforts are being made by soldiers of the Red army, firemen and American relief workers to extricate those buried alive.

Leninakan, seat of the largest American orphanage in the world, is like a vast sepulchre of ashes. From time immemoral Leninakan forme. Alexandropol, has been a gigantic volcanic amphithcatre due to the activity of Mount Ararat and Mount Alagos in the Teritary period, but the city never before experienced such violent and disastrous upheaval as that which levelled nearly all human habitations on the great Lenanikan Polian Friday night.

BRITISH SLOOP GOES DOWN OFF BERMUDA ISLES

19 Sailors Are Rescued As They Float in Stormy Sea After Hurricane

FREIGHTER ALSO SINKS

Exact Details On Sinking Of Two Vessels Not Yet Learned

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Oct. 24. (AP)—Sinking of the British naval sloop Valerian and the British freighter Eastway with aggregate loss of approximately 100 lives, heavy damage to buildings here and unprecedented havoc among harbor shipping, made up the toll of a West Indian hurricane which drove up from the south and swept over Bermuda on Friday morning.

19 Sailors Rescued

From the 19 survivors of the Valerian's crew of 103 officers and men little could be learned tonight as to the cause of her sinking. Her commander, Captain William Usher and one other officer were among those saved. Captain Usher tonight was reported very ill and none of the other survivors was in condition to discuss the wreck.

One seaman said the sloop turned turtle and that only the life rafts could be used as a means of escape.

As the survivors were picked up by the British cruiser, Capetown, which did not leave port until Saturday morning it was presumed that the men were afloat on the life rafts at least 24 hours.

On Mercy Errand

The Valerian was returning from an errand of mercy to the Bahamas where she had gone to carry succor to those stricken in the hurricane of a month ago.

The British freighter Eastway, foundered Friday night. The British schooner Lucilene reported that she answered an SOS call from the freighter but the Eastway had gone down when she reached the location given and the crew were drifting at the mercy of the storm. The third officer and 11 other members of the crew were picked up and safely landed.

'Key Man' Named In Probe of Ohio Editor's Murder Gives Up To Police After Officers Fail In Long Hunt

Patrick MacDermott, Indicted for Slaying of Don R. Mellett, Is Surrendered to Canton, Ohio, Police By His Relatives After Hide in Hills

CANTON, Ohio, Oct. 24. (AP)—Patrick McDermott, much-sought "key man" in the murder of Don R. Mellett, crusading Canton publisher, last July 16, was arrested at Nanty Glo, Pa., this morning by Detective Ora Slater and Prosecutor C. B. McClintock of Canton.

Mellett, who was publisher of the Canton Daily News, was shot down at the door of his garage in the rear of his home. The slaying was attributed by authorities to leaders of the Canton underworld because of Mellett's active newspaper campaign against vice conditions here.

Kin Surrender Herc.

McDermott was arrested upon information provided by relatives who desired that Pat be returned to Canton "to face the music" and clear his name of suspicion if he is innocent.

For three months, while hundreds of detectives were searching the country for him, McDermott was in hiding in Cleveland. A week ago relatives learned of his whereabouts and took him to Nanty Glo and placed him in further hiding in a residence in the mountainous regions near there.

Brother Calls Police.

Early yesterday morning Prosecutor McClintock received a telephone call from Nanty Glo. It was from a brother of McDermott who told McClintock to come there at once as they had "good news" for him about Pat McClintock, and Slater conferred with the brother and other relatives in Nanty Glo last night and it was agreed that Pat should be taken into custody at 10 o'clock this morning.

Promptly at that hour Canton authorities captured Pat after the "key man" had been led into a trap by relatives. He offered no resistance. Within a few minutes he was in an automobile with his captors and speeding back to Canton. Tonight Pat is in Stark county jail under heavy guard.

Three Indicted.

McDermott, Ben Rudner, Massillon and Louis Mazer, all alleged to have had connection with the Canton underworld, which Mellett had flayed, were indicted on first degree murder charges, September 3, by the grand jury which investigated the Mellett slaying. There is a reward of $5,000 for the capture of McDermott. While no public announcement has been made, it is believed that the Nanty Glo relatives will be the beneficiaries.

RANCHER WILL QUIT SADDLE TO SIT IN BRITISH PARLIAMENT

BIG HORN, Wyo., Oct. 24. (AP)—Henry Wallop, Earl of Portsmouth, plans to relinquish his role of rancher and dirt farmer to return to his peerage and seat in the British house of lords early next month, he announced today.

The earl said he would remain in England during the winter months and return to his ranch at Little Goose creek near here next summer to rough it.

He declared he did some "real ranching" this summer, rising at 5 o'clock daily and "going to bed with the chickens." The earl said his cattle had been sold at an "excellent price" and that he had threshed 5,500 bushels of grain on his ranch within the last fortnight.

MANIAC KILLS FIVE IN FAMILY

Ousted U. S. District Attorney At Marion, Illinois, Runs Amuck

MARION, Ills., Oct. 24. (AP) During a sudden fit of insanity late last night, W. O. Potter, 56, former state senator and United States district attorney, killed his wife, two daughters, and two grand-daughters, one a three-week-old baby, and then drowned himself in a cistern at the rear of the Potter home. The skulls of each of the five victims had been crushed with an iron furnace shaker.

List of The Dead.

The dead are: Mrs. Potter, 52; Mrs. Lulcille White, 28; Eloise Potter, 16; Phyllis White, 4; and Cynthia White, three weeks old.

Mrs. White was the wife of Dr. Gilbert White, of Miami, Fla., who left that place last Wednesday to drive to Marion, but has not been heard from since.

The bodies, all in night clothing, were discovered by a son, Morris Potter, a Marion attorney, who had been to Murphysboro, a nearby town, and who returned home about 2 a. m.

Terrific Struggle.

The bodies of the wife and the younger daughter were found in one bedroom and that of Mrs. White in the bathroom. The grandchildren were killed as they slept. Evidence of a terrific struggle were found in several of the rooms on the second floor of the home.

A coroner's jury late today returned a verdict that the victims "were killed by W. O. Potter while temporarily insane."

Neighbors, who testified at the inquest, said they saw a light in the Potter home about midnight and that they heard a commotion about that time.

Brooded Over Troubles.

Relatives declared that Potter recently had been brooding over financial losses, ill health and the loss of his position as U. S. district attorney about four months ago.

He is said to have lost money in a St. Louis insurance company and in Florida land developments. A brother-in-law, John Spiller, testified that Potter recently had told him that he planned to take his own life.

BULLET-RIPPED BODY FOUND IN DOOR OF STORE

J. K. Beacham, Night Guard, Slain Early Sunday; Killers Escape

SLIGHT CLUE FOUND

Sack of Loot Is Left By Men Who Leave Scene After Killing

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Oct. 24.—Nightwatchman J. K. Beacham of Haskell was found dead in the doorway of the Davis Economy store at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, his head lying inside the open door, with a bullet hole through the brain, and another bullet hole through the heart. His pistol with one chamber empty was lying by his side, and a bullet hole in the ceiling was the evidence that he had fired a shot in an attempt to avoid the escape of robbers who looted the store, and left as the only clue a navy bag of merchandise from the establishment.

A rear window of the store was open and it is believed the bandits entered the store in that manner.

Citizens of Haskell were aroused Saturday night at 10:30 o'clock by the sharp report of three pistol shots, but they were not alarmed. Sunday morning when the city marshal was making a round of the city he found the body of Beacham.

The only clue to the identity of the robbers is the navy bag left in the store, but a number of citizens recalled seeing three strange men in Haskell Saturday afternoon who attempted to cash checks in a store near the one where the tragedy occurred.

It is believed Nightwatchman Beacham discovered the robbers, and was attempting to prevent their escape when he was killed The two bullets striking him are from pistols of different caliber, and indications pointed to two men firing at him.

Finger print experts from Abilene were called and are working on the case.

Beacham is survived by his wife and three children.

Man Fails To Give Wife Little Things She Desires

Why Don't Husbands Pay Wives the Little Attention They Crave? —On the Other Hand, Why Must These Attentions Loom So Large in a Woman's Life? What a Pity Men Can't Remember "Little Things."

BY DOROTHY DIX

The chief indictment that the average woman brings against her husband is that he does not pay enough attention to the little things of life, and this is what turns matrimony into cinders, ashes and dust for her.

Oh yes, he is a good man, she will mournfully admit when she goes off on one of her orgies of self pity. He has no roving eye for other women. He doesn't drink nor gamble, and he works like a dray horse to support her and her children. He is a good provider. There isn't a woman in her acquaintance who has prettier clothes or a better car, or a nicer home but he never does any of the "little things."

He never pays her a compliment. He never tells her how young and beautiful she grows. He never notices what she has on. He never remarks on what a wonderful housekeeper and manager she is. He never sends her any flowers or brings her a box of candy. He never takes her out in the evening without a fight. He never remembers anniversaries. He never even tells her that he loves her, or gives her a kiss that isn't a perfunctory peck of duty that is as liable to land on the back of her neck or the tip of her nose as on her lips.

Wherefore, all of his virtues are as nothing in his wife's eyes and she beats upon her breast and wails out that marriage is a failure and that she is of all women, most miserable.

Now, inasmuch as it is well known to all men that women have this crazy obsession about little things, it has always seemed to me that it was the height of stupidity for a husband not to gratify his wife's mania on the subject. If a little flattery and a pound of chocolates and a sentimental token now and then would make a woman happy, and keep her eating out of your hand, for Heaven's sake why not let her have it?

There is no other way in the world that a man can invest a little time and trouble and money, where it will pay such enormous dividends in peace and comfort and well-being for himself as it will if put in on showing his wife some little attention.

If I were a married man, I should make it a rule to begin the day just as regularly by paying my wife a florid compliment as I did by brushing my teeth. At the commencement of the year I would mark down on my calendar the anniversary of the day I met her and the day I popped the question and her birthday and our wedding day. And I'd send her some little memento on each occasion, even if it were only a ten-cent bag of peanuts. And when she asked me how I liked her new dress I'd tell her she looked lovely in anything, instead of gurgling in my throat or handing out a knock.

For well I'd know that if I'd sacrifice to the feminine Little Gods she would be so well pleased that she'd never notice what else I did, and she would go about congratulating herself about her luck in having got a perfect husband, no matter if I beat her and starved her. Moreover, all the other women who had husbands who worked themselves to death for them, and who gave them fine clothes and fine houses instead of fine speeches, would envy her.

As I said before, it is sheer asininity that keeps husbands from paying their wives the small attention that they crave so greatly, but, on the other hand, it shows an equal lack of intelligence for women to put such an inordinate value upon trifles.

Why they make such a fetish of little things nobody knows. Nor can anybody explain the peculiarity of feminine vision that makes a little thing loom larger in a woman's life than a big thing. It just happens, that way, as Michael Arlen would say.

On every side of us we see women putting such stress upon some trivial thing that they are letting it ruin all of the great happiness that life has for them. We see women turning the thought that their husbands do not love them like a knife in their hearts just because their husbands do not tell them that they adore them in so many words.

Yet these very men prove their devotion every day by their works. They say it with labor, with luxuries, with the chivalry that makes a man sacrifice himself to keep his family safe and warm, but because they do not put it into actual speech their wives doubt them.

And all about us we see women who should be happy—who have all of the raw material of happiness in their hands in the shape of good, kind, generous husbands and comfortable homes—making themselves miserable over trifles. They are like the princess in the fairy tale who searched upon her forty mattresses of ease until she found a crumpled rose leaf.

They find theirs in the fact that their husbands don't want to go out in the evenings; or that their husbands don't feel like talking after a hard, trying day's work; or that their husbands forget their wedding anniversaries, or give them a check instead of picking them out a present at Christmas.

What a pity that these silly women, who make mountains out of mole hills, haven't enough vision to see how small little things are! For in matrimony it isn't the presents and picking up of handkerchiefs that count. It is the big things, the tenderness, the faithfulness, the willingness of a man to stand before his wife and fight the world for her.

Why a pity women haven't enough philosophy and sense of humor to realize that as long as a man is nailed to his own fireside of an evening and brings his pay envelope home, it's a proof of affection you could draw money on at the bank. That when he passes his plate back for a second helping it's the most fulsome compliment he can pay his wife's cooking, and that nobody ever really gives you what you want as a present, but you can buy exactly the things you crave on a charge account.

Crabapple and Pineapple.—Take crabapples, wash clean, cut in quarters and add small amount of water to boil them down soft, then place in jelly bag and drain. Place juice on stove and boil for twenty minutes, then add as much sugar as juice and resume boiling until it jellies after which add the contents of one can of shredded pineapple (without the juice), stir well, let boil a little and place in glasses immediately.

Candied Sweet Potatoes.—Peel the sweet potatoes left over from dinner. Brown in butter and brown sugar in proportion of three-quarters cup sugar to one-half cup butter.

Ginger Pickles.—Twelve medium sized cucumbers, eight rather small onions, one pint vinegar, one cup granulated sugar, one teaspoon celery seed, one teaspoon powdered ginger, one-half teaspoon mustard seed. Slice cucumbers and onions, salt them, using three level tablespoons salt, and let stand three hours. Mix sugar and spice with the vinegar and boil together for two minutes. Drain cucumbers and onions; add to vinegar mixture and heat them to the boiling point. Then pack in cans and seal. Makes four pints of pickles.

Raw Tomato Relish.—One peck ripe tomatoes, peeled and chopped fine. Drain. Five large onions chopped fine. Five green peppers chopped fine. Two cups celery chopped fine. Drain over night. In morning add two pounds brown sugar, one cup salt, two tablespoons white mustard seed, one tablespoon cinnamon, one and one-half pints vinegar. Stir well and bottle cold. Put all through food chopper, using largest knife, except celery which should be cut.

Apple Sauce Cake.—One cup light brown sugar, one-half cup melted butter, one and one-half cups strained, unsweetened applesauce, one large teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, two teaspoons soda in a little cold water, one cup chopped raisins, two cups flour.

Queen Marie's Visit To Washington Turns Things Upside-Down At Capital As Folks Strut Their Stuff For Visitor

By JEAN JARVIS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The long heralded arrival of the queen of Rumania and the constant thrills that attended her forty-hour sojourn really constitute the history of Washington's social week and if it may be told, the constant state of qui vive and tip toe got rather too much for this doughty old town.

Usually quite self-contained and rather blase in the presence of notables, foreign and "domestic," Washington simply deflated with a "blump" immediately subsequent to the royal departure.

In departing, the only individual in the party which set off so gaily for Annapolis, Baltimore and New York, who was really going strong, was her Majesty herself.

Queen Goes Strong.

Up at 6:30 a. m., precisely as is her custom when at home, the queen had her usual morning cup of tea, her cold "dip" and after that settled down to a solid two hours work at her desk.

At 8:30 came the second breakfast which was very little more substantial than the previous cup of coffee.

Marie of Rumania, according to those attached to her suite is a very heavy worker and a very light eater. She is punctual, methodical. Very clear headed, very keen witted, very sympathetic, very gay-hearted and absolutely indomitable in her energy and interest.

Their royal highness, "Nicky" and "Ileana" left Washington showing the effects of their lively program of sight seeing. They were a trifle listless and shadowy circles beneath their eyes suggested weariness. Not so their mother; the queen set out with her usual verve and it takes a mighty good walker to keep up with the royal stride.

Nowhere was this more noticeable than on the station platform on the night of her arrival. Scarcely were th egreetings over with when down the long esplanade, swinging along with a buoyantly youthful step, came the queen setting rather a pace for Secretary of State Kellogg and the naval and military officers, who with their wives made a most impressive company.

All the way along, everybody was doing his absolute best. Even at that the queen was one good step ahead and when she waved to the group lined up to witness her arrival she swung a vigorous right arm.

Skirts Not Too Long.

Those queenly skirts, after all, are not too long. On her several appearances the queen's various costumes "escaped" the ground by a very considerable distance. Always her very shapely slender feet were shod to perfection. The night of her arrival, she wore high heeled slippers of blonde satin with sheer silk hosiery to match.

White House Struts.

The White House certainly did put its very best foot forward when preparing for the Rumania royal party. Masses of dahlias, shading from pink to cream color were used in the east room, the decorations being confined to the four mantlepieces, each in itself a lovely bit of carved marble.

"HONEY LOU" By Beatrice Burton

AUTHOR OF "LOVE BOUND," "HER MAN," ETC.

READ THE FIRST:

"Grumpy" hired Honey Lou not only because she was clever, but because she is nice to have around. Everyone else at the mills likes Honey Lou, too, from ANN LUDLOW, the office vamp, to JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk. But Honey Lou is half afraid of Meadows without quite knowing why.

Young JACK WALLACK comes to work in his father's factory to learn the business. He falls in love with Honey Lou's beauty the first time he sees her, and later with her prim, old-fashioned ways and her sweetness. Brought up by her unworldly widowed mother, Honey Lou is a queer mixture of modern flapper and clinging vine. She has never "petted" in her life, and never taken a drink. But she has smoked three or four cigarets, and she does rouge her lips.

At a party given by Jack's neighbor, ANGELA ALLEN, Honey Lou drinks two cocoktails, thinking they are fruit punch, and "passes out." She makes love to Jack on the way home, too, not realizing how she is disillusioning him. Neither does she know that, while she is unconscious, Angela Allen called her "hard boiled" and told Jack she had not two but seven cocktails.

TIM DONEGAL, a friend of Jacks, becomes attentative to Honey Lou, and takes her on many night drives to a neighboring town, where he seems to have some mysterious business. But when Jack begins to see Honey Lou once more, Donegal drops out of the picture.

Angela "rushes" Honey Lou—takes her to tea and to lunch, drives her home from the office and warns her against taking Jack seriously. She hints to Honey Lou that Jack was once deeply in love with her, just as he is now with Honey Lou. And she breeds in Honey Lou the beginnings of a love luxury and fine clothes.

One night while MARGRET MOODY, Honey Lou's half-sister, is out-of-town on her summer vacation, her friend, DR. STEVE MAYHEW, comes to the house. While Honey Lou is showing Dr. Steve some snapshots of Margret he begins to make love to her in a timid sort of way. Honey Lou is astounded.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER XV

"Don't—Please, Stevuns, don't," Honey Lou begged, using Margaret's nickname for him.

She pulled her strong little hands away from him with a jerk that upset the checkers and the board on the floor.

For a second her face went white in the warm glow of the yellow lamp. Then the wild-rose color came flowing back into her lips and her cheeks. And she laughed.

"Sentimental Stevie!" she chaffed him as lightly as she could. The only thing to do was to treat this thing lightly, she made up her mind. Pass it off as a joke. Laugh it off.

Honey Lou did not know what to do or to say next. She wished fervently that Mrs. Huntley would come upstairs from the flat below. But through the thin floors of the building she could hear the murmur of her voice and Miss Maccomber's, as they chatted together.

But the room where she and Steve sat perfectly quiet. So quiet that the silence seemed to beat like a great heart—thud—thud—thud—

Now and then the curtains at the west windows would sway into the room as the breeze filled them. They floated toward her like filmy wedding veils, she thought, as she looked at them. Behind them the sky was violet-blue and filled with stars.

A bowlful of daisies on the window sill shook a little, too, in the night wind. Steve had brought them to her from the country yesterday—Steve.

Now that she stopped to think about it, Steve was always bringing her something. Flowers, candy, a magazine with a particular good story in it.

"But he's Margaret's friend, really," she told herself sitting there in the pulsing stillness. "He's been coming to see her for more than a year."

He had. At least, he had been coming to the flat for more than a year. And Honey Lou knew that Margaret, in her own mind, expected him to ask her to marry him.

But there had never been anything lover-like in their attitude—Margret's and his. Margret had always shared him with her family, and he had come to seem almost a member of the family.

On Saturday nights he often drove them to market in his car. Sometimes he bought a couple of ducks for their Sunday dinner. Sometimes he would send them a freezer of ice cream for their Sunday night supper. Or a basket of hot house fruit or a cake from Sabine's glittering tea shop.

He had a way of dropping in on them at odd times with theatre tickets or the offer of an automobile drive. He brought them the books—his highbrow scientific books—to read.

Neither Mrs. Huntley nor Honey Lou made any attempt to read them. Margret, being in love with him, plodded through them religiously.

Honey Lou knew that Margaret looked to Steve Mayhew for most of the sweetness and life that came her way. He spelled for her not only friendship, but romance—her only romance. Her only love affair.

And now it began to look to Honey Lou as if it had never been a love affair at all. Only a friendship. Poor Margaret.

"Margret cares a lot about you, Steve," she said, "and she's worth 10 of me, you know. I'm shallow, frivolous and silly. If you knew me better, Steve, you wouldn't think much of me."

She broke off all at once and cocked her head to one side, listening. Through the windows came the low humming sound of an automobile.

Honey Lou knew that sound as well as she knew the sound of Jack Wallack's voice. It was Jack Wallack's car. Two minutes later the door-bell rang.

"Steve," she said, touching Steve's coat-sleeve, "that's Jack Wallack. Do you want to see him?"

Steve stood up and looked around for his hat and was gone. He went out through the kitchen and as Jack Wallack came up the front stairs to the flat, Steve was going down the back steps. Honey Lou heard him start his own car and drive away.

She opened the door to Jack.

"Alone?" he asked and she nodded.

"All alone," she said.

He stood in the doorway, looking at something on the table under the yellow lamp. Then he gave a low, long whistle.

Honey Lou turned to see what he was staring at so steadily. It was Steve's brier pipe, still burning in a brass tray where he had laid it.

She laughed. "Steve Mayhew was just here," she explained, blushing a little in her confusion. "He went out the back way. He's awful shy, sometimes."

Jack came into the room and sat down without saying a word.

"He's like one of the family—runs in and out without bothering to let us know he's coming." Honey Lou went on, leaning against the table and knocking the ashes out of Steve's pipe as she talked. "He and Margaret have been good friends for ever so long."

"Then why does he come to see you when she's away—and sneak out the back door when I show up unexpectedly?" Jack asked harshly. "You wouldn't have told me he'd been here, either, if I hadn't seen that pipe. Would you?"

Jealousy was written plainly on his face. It rang out from the very tones of his voice as he asked the question.

"Why—why—of course, I would have told you he'd been here," Honey Lou stammered.

There was a moment's silence.

"Where's your mother?" Jack asked.

"Downstairs with Miss MacComber," the girl answered.

Another long silence followed.

"Well, it's mighty funny she'll leave you here alone with Dr. Mayhew when she won't go out of the room for a minute when I come to see you," he said, after a minute or two.

He got up.

"I just happened to be passing and came in to say 'hello.' I'd better be getting on, I guess."

Jack's mouth twisted in a sarcastic smile. He looked down at the checkers that were scattered all over the rug.

"No—I think I'll be going," he repeated. "Then your friend, the doctor, can come back and finish his game of checkers. I seem to have broken up a cozy game."

Before Honey Lou could say a word to stop him, he had wished her goodnight and was gone.

She stood alone in the mellow lamp-light, looking first at the pipe she held in her two hands, and then at the checkers. She got down on her knees and began to pick them up.

"Well," she said aloud to the blank walls of the room. "I just reckon there ain't no Santa Claus."

Margret came back to town on the last Saturday of June. Her train came in at 2 o'clock and Honey Lou went straight from the office to meet her.

Margaret was sun burned a dark red and her nose was peeling. There was a certain vacation carelessness about her clothes, too."

"Don't I look like a wild Indian?" she asked Honey Lou, with a broad smile that made her teeth flash in her red-brown face. "I'm going straight home to have a bath, a shampoo and a manicure. Let's be extravagant once and take a taxi."

"All right," Honey Lou answered, "but we'll have to stop at the mills on the way. I left my pay envelope in the top drawer of my desk. My brain isn't working these days, I reckon. It's a regular blank cartridge."

"How's young Mr. Jack Wallack behaving himself these days?" Margret wanted to know as soon as the jolting cab had begun its headlong journey.

Honey Lou shrugged her slim shoulders.

"I haven't laid eyes on him for days," she said. "He came to the house one night just after Steve Mayhew had been there and got peeved because I wasn't sitting alone twiddling my thumbs."

Margret laughed.

"Didn't you tell him that Steve is my special private property?" she asked, "my -one-and-only?"

"I did," replied Honey Lou dolefully, "but it didn't register with him at all. He's terribly jealous."

When the cab came to shivering, shaking stop. Margret jumped out of the cab after Honey Lou.

"I've never seen this place where you work," she said. "I'm going to run up, too, if you don't mind."

"Come ahead," Honey Lou called back over her shoulder. "There's never anybody there on Saturday afternoon."

But when they reached the big dreary office, they heard a low buzz of voices from the room beyond. The small room that was Mr. Wallack's private office.

"Somebody's in there," Honey Lou whispered, unlocking the drawer of her desk. "I wonder who it is?"

Margret was only a few feet from the door. She walked a step or two towards it. Then she stood still and listened, with a finger raised to her lips.

"Come on," Honey Lou whispered to her when she found the envelope and closed the desk once more. "Come on."

She was afraid that Grumpy might suddenly open the office door and find Margret eavesdropping there. And then woundn't he blow off the roof? Wouldn't he though!

"Come on, Margret," she repeated in a lou whisper. "Come on!"

Tomorrow's installment of "Honey Lou" will tell you who were in "Grumpy's" office and what they said.

MAYFIELD AND THE KLAN

SENATOR JAMES A. REED of Missouri as chairman of a committee investigating expenditures of money in state primaries and political lineups the country over, is devoting himself to conditions in Indiana, where Senators James E. Watson and A. R. Robinson are republican candidates for re-election.

Now in Indiana the former king of the K. K. K. is an inmate of the penitentiary, doing a life term for the murder of a young woman.

This convict, Stephenson by name, and many of his followers are not training with the klan directed by Mr. Hiram Evans of Texas.

In fact the klan appears to be split into various regiments or detachments in Indiana and the leaders of one faction are divulging the secrets or the alleged secrets concerning politics and politicians and pouring it into the willing ear of Reed of Missouri.

Senator Earl B. Mayfield was dragged in by Hugh Emmons of South Bend, Ind., former grand cyclops of th eklan. Emmons declared that Dr. Hiram Evans had described Senator Mayfield as one of the best klansmen in the United States and that the klan was supporting Senator Watson because of what he had done in seating the Texas senator.

This calls to mind that Mayfield was given his seat on the strength of a report prepared by the senate committee on privileges and election. There was not a descenting senatorial protest and Mayfield was seated by the senate without a record vote being taken.

There may be method in the madness of these Hoosier republicans, cyclops or former cyclops, who are pouring their tales into the ear of Senator Reed. Dr. Evans and his followers are opposed to the league of nations; they are opposed to the world court and they are for forcing the full settlement of all loans made by this government in war times.

This was made known more than a year ago and when the world court proposal was before the senate, Dr. Evans declared that his invisible order was arrayed against it and that all good klan senators or those who had been elected by the klan were expected to vote against the proposal, regardless of the wishes of the president or the champions of the proposal.

Senator George of Georgia ignored the advice or instructions. Senator Mayfield of Texas ignored the advice or instructions. They voted for the world court proposal and the proposal won. According to Washington advices, at the time, this angered the Texas doctor and his followers. In Georgia a candidate was entered against Senator George in the primary contest this year. George won by an overwhelming primary majority.

Senator Mayfield will come up for re-election in 1928. He is said to be for the league of nations. He is on record as having voted for the world court. Senators Watson and Robinson of Indiana, two republicans, accepted the advice or instructions of Dr. Evans.

They voted against the president of their own party and they voted to ditch the world court. They were candidates for re-election this year. They won the primary nomination. It is said that party lines have gone to smash in Indiana.

Two democrats who are the senatorial nominees for their party, are for the world court. They are against the platform of the former Texas dentist, but now the high chief of the remnants of the invisible empire.

Away down here in Texas former Governor James E. Ferguson in a recent newspaper interview declared that the klan leaders are right in their attitude on the league of nations and the world court, that the first is in direct operation to the teachings of George Washington and the second as un-American in principle as the first.

This may make it interesting in 1928 with a former anti-klan leader backing the Evans proposals in his race for the senate and a senator who was backed by the klansman to victory in 1922 made the target of Dr. Evans and his faithful followers in his race for re-election as a member of the upper house in the American congress.

It must be true that politics makes strange bedfellows.

DAWES NOT POPULAR

VICE-PRESIDENT CHAS. G. DAWES is not popular with the machine leaders of his party. He talks too much; no, not too much, but too direct. He was invited to make a speech in the city of Philadelphia.

He made it and he advocated the repeal of the direct primary. Now this did not appeal to the machine leaders. Many are for the repeal of the direct primary but the rank and file are not for its repeal.

Furthermore, these leaders say it was bad politics for the vice-president to speak out so emphatically on the eve of an important general election. Hence, the vice-president will make no more speeches in this campaign.

Senator William A. Borah of Idaho will make one speechin the east. He will go to New Hampshire to boost along the cause of his friend, Senator George H. Moses.

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri is not making speeches. He is the champion investigator of America just now and heaven help the politician who has been handling too much money for favored interests or favorite candidates.

Reed is shaking down the Hoosier politicians, and the newspaper correspondents declare that the aforesaid politicians are panic-stricken.

Not long since, Dr. Hiram Evans spoke kindly of Senator Reed as a presidential possibility in 1928. This must have been amusing to the Missouri terror. In 1922 the invisible order fought him to a finish and knifed him at the polls, but he made his appeal direct to all voters of all parties and triumphed over all his enemies in the democratic party.

He has served three terms in the United States senate. He says that three terms are sufficient and at the end of his term he is going back to Kansas City, practice law and do his best to accumulate a competency for his family.

EMMA GOLDMAN

EMMA GOLDMAN, noted woman anarchist, is in Canada and asking for permission to return to the United States for a short stay to visit members of her family. Emma was a red flag shouter for years. She boldly preached the gospel of communism under the protecting fold of Old Glory.

Then came the deportation of Emma and she hastened to Russia where Lenin and Trotsky had seized upon the reins of government and were applying communistic principles to everything and everybody under Slav skies.

Emma found existence hell in soviet Russia and fled to England. There she was given asylum and devoted her time to the writing of newspaper articles and a book or two. Soviet Russia had made her as gentle as a cooing dove. She lost her taste for communism as it is applied in the Slav world.

Experience is a wonderful teacher. Now Emma wishes to return, not to the land of her nativity but to the land of her adoption in her youth when she fled from the economic conditions which prevailed in the land of her birth.

There is no land like this; there is no flag as free as ours.

Town Talk - - - By H. F. J.

"How did S. M. U. and the Aggies come out?"

"Did the Longhorns beat Rice?"

"Give me some of the Big Ten results, please."

"What did Harvard and Dartmouth and Navy and Princeton do?"

That was the song of the telephone from 5 o'clock Saturday until almost midnight. And in answer to the queries, the telegraph wires sang their monotonous clicking almost as long.

Wichita Falls takes its football seriously. Much more so, apparently, than its baseball, its golf and all its other diversions. Hurricanes may sweep Miami, quakes may level Armenian villages, Aimee and Fanchon may carry on their outlandish squabbles with the law, prison scandals in Texas and klan corruption in Indiana may pursue their slimy way across front pages and Wichita Falls takes only passing heed.

But when the whistles began to blow and the pigskin soars high—then there's something under way as it is something. The fortunes of a gridiron fatality mean a lot to Alma Mater and her old man. A stinging defeat is deep dyed tragedy—far more so than that the more stern reckoning that a real catastrophe exacts. And conversely, the smile of fortune that lifts a team to the heights of victory still was assumes a place of paramount import for those who dream to make it so.

Ask any local high school youngster what the most important piece of news in Sunday morning's paper was. To him, that such a question could even be conceived is in itself inconceivable. Electra's licking at the hands of the Coyotes was far and away the all-trascending feature. Perish the thought that anything could be more important.

Nor is the interest confined to the younger ones alone. There were mature voices on the other end of the wire that led from The Record News switchboard Saturday evening. Men, and women, too, of all ages wanted to know. They made inquiry, and their expressions of disappointment or elation were quite as pronounced as those of the youngsters when the scores were quoted.

College, high school and prep school football still ranks as the foremost amateur sport of the nation. For the most part it is still free from the tincture of commercialism despite the fact that the staging of an important game which draws a crowd of 60,000 or more has been reduced to a business proposition developed to the highest degree. Money must and does enter into it, yet the old idea of sport for sport's sake still holds good.

This is no doubt one factor entering into the popularity football holds not only here but all over the country. And the unquenchable enthusiasm that is engendered in youth when school days are lively and cares are unknown is another and, perhaps, the most important factor.

At any rate, football is back for the fall, and may its reign continue.

Pathetic Figures

THE Fun Shop

We'll Say They Need It!

Lots of memory courses designgit to help a guy
Remember names and faces and make a hit thereby,
But why not for those glum birds we're meeting all the while
Some kind of course to help 'em remember when to smile!

Not the Only One.

Dr. Pearson: "My fee is $500."
Patient: "Ye Gods! And you said it was ME that had gall trouble!"

THIS IS MY LUCKY DAY

A tall and burly man sat down beside me in the smoking car. My first glance told me that it was the tailor whom I owed $300.

He leaned over, "I've got a receipt for $200 made out to you," he said.

"You hand me the money now, or I'll tell the conductor I'm a deputy, take you off at the next station, and beat you within an inch of your life!" I had just $300 with me!

There was no way out. I paid and got the receipt.

Just then the train stopped with a jerk. Two masked men came through the car and held up everybody.

Tee, hee!
THAT was my lucky day!
—Edwin M. Kernahan.

* * * *

"I am sending you," wrote Jim Donovan, "a gallon of some stuff I made myself."

I got the precious package at the postoffice. On the way down the steps I slipped, fell and broke both my leg and the jug.

The police took me to the hospital, and from there to jail. I was sentenced for six months.

When I came out, I stopped to drop a nickle into the cup of a blind man. I looked closer, and saw that it was Donovan!

Man, oh man!
THAT was my lucky day!
—Hugh J. Bunting.

What Was Your Lucky Day?

In association with George White's "Scandals"—the leading musical revue now playing in New York—THE FUN SHOP invites its customers to send in their luckiest days. The brightest and funniest will be reprinted not only in THE FUN SHOP but will be quoted at the "Scandals."

From Our Own Infantry Drill Regulations

Last Christmas my little girl, aged four, received a toy which so pleased her that she constantly played with it.

"Margaret," her mother asked one day, "can't you play with something else all the time than that toy?"

"Let her play with it!" insisted her older sister. "As soon as the novelty wears off she'll stop."

"What are you looking for?" she inquired.

—William A. Machols.

MY FACE.

I take good care of my handsome face—
It's the ONLY face I have!
I garnish it well with parsley and mace
And rub it with cucumber salve.
I lay it on pillows of delicate weave,
And I keep it from harm and from stain,
And I try to remember I never must leave
It outside over night in the rain!
—Arlie Huber.

Modern Punishment.

Judge: "What was this man guilty of stealing?"
Attorney: "Thirty-seven dollars, Your Honor."
Judge: "Twenty years in prison!"
Attorney: "Wait a minute! I've made a mistake! It was $37,000."
Judge: "Oh, excuse me! Two years."
—Gustave Slagle.

HUNTINGTON'S CHOREA

Such is the name of one of the strangest maladies known to the human race. Its victims all belong to one family—though they do not all bear the same surname, of course. A family having its origin in the marshlands of eastern England has the misfortune to be subject to a sort of palsy. It is not the palsy of old age but something far more arbitrary. It manifests itself at any age. The more its sufferers try to control the spasms of shaking that set in, the more they shake. The disease is incurable. It has been found, after much research that everyone having it is in some way descended from the original family that displayed it, no matter how lost the relationship in marriage and changing names.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to Saturday's questions:
1. Bison are not extinct.
2. Passenger pigeons have been extinct for about thirty years.
3. Sabre tooth tigers have been extinct for many thousands of years.
4. Egrets are not extinct, but are almost so in the United States.
5. Flamingoes are not extinct, but are very rare in the United States.
6. Dodos are mythological birds.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch.

OTHERS MIGHT HAVE GIVEN HER MORE.

Others might have given her more
Than you gave your wife,
Higher roof and wider door,
Lots of things in life.
But you never need to worry—
Get right over in a hurry
That idea women wed
For the things that I have said.

Others might have given her less,
And she knows it well,
Less of lasting happiness,
Less of joy to tell,
Less of love that you have told her,
Hands to help her, arms to hold her
These the things that they recall,
Things they want the most of all.

Others might have given her ease,
Greater ease than you,
But the heart of her to please
Wealth will never do.
Wealth will never do a woman;
Gold is gold, but hearts are human.
And there's something more than gold.
Women want as they grow old.

Others might have given her much,
You have given her more
Every time your lips would touch
At the open door
Gold allures when years are younger,
But a woman's heart will hunger
For your kindness, your caress—
Others might have given her less.

DAUGHTER WEDS

Haskell Mother Gets Notice Of Girl's Wedding.

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Oct. 24.—Mrs. J. W. Sowell received a night letter last Tuesday night from her son J. K. Gilbert of San Diego, Calif., telling of the marriage of her daughter, Miss Virginia Gilbert, to O. G. Hovespadt of Los Angeles, Calif., in that city on the evening of October 19, which wedding was solemnized in the Trinity Methodist church, South, by Rev. "Bob" Schuler, the paster.

Miss Virginia Gilbert was born and reared in Haskell, going to Los Angeles three years ago after her graduation from the Haskell high school to continue her studies in that city. Mr. and Mrs. Hovespadt will make their home in Los Angeles.

CITRUS SHIPPED

Rio Grande Valley Sends Out First Of 1,000 Cars

HARLINGEN, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—Citrus growers in the lower Rio Grande valley have shipped 29 cars of grapefruit to date this season and expect that 1,000 carloads will be shipped before the season closes. Last year at this time shipments had not started. If the total output equals 1,000 cars it will more than double last year's record.

SIGNS BOND BILL

Governor Ferguson Approves Validation Statute.

AUSTIN, Oct. 24. (AP)—House bill 222, passed at the recent call session of the 39th legislature validating county-wide road bond issues to be issued and providing for the assessment, and collection of taxes, has been signed by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson.

"I'M THE GINK"

I'm the kingette who insists that I am going to give up swearing. I make this statement practically every day to anyone I'm with. Then I am pretty sure to use "damn" or "hell" in the next sentence. I always giggle and let it go at that. Of course, I never mean it when I say that I am going to swear off. I like to show people that I am an inveterate swearer. I think it gives me a "cute" and "coy" air. Of course, others don't think so, but I go ahead telling about how I must quit swearing.

Texas Border Water Problem To Get Attention of U. S.-Mexico Commission

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—Official dispatches received here today from Mexico City state that under the supervision of the Mexican department of agriculture a complete study is to be made of the problem of the Rio Grande and Colorado rivers as affecting Mexico and the United States.

Jose Manzanares has been designated by the department to make a careful study of the legal aspects of the problem while technical experts are making a study of the engineering and other features of the control and distribution of the waters from these rivers.

Commission of Eight.

The international commission will consist of eight members, four appointed by the United States and four by Mexico. The department indicated that meetings of the joint commissions will probably start the first of the year.

The American members of the commission were appointed over a year ago, the commission consisting of Dr. Elwood Meade, director of the United States reclamation service; General Lasing H. Beach, retired chief of army engineers, and W. E. Anderson of San Benito, Texas.

The objective of the international commission is the division of the waters of the Rio Grande and Colorado and the ratification of a treaty which will guarantee the water rights of the respective nations.

American Experts Ready.

The American members of the commission have signified their readiness to start discussion as soon as Mexico is prepared.

The announcement of Mexico's intention to undertake at once a solution of the water division problems is of particular interest to the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas and the Imperial valley of California, both of which are to a great measure dependent upon Mexico for their supply of irrigation water.

CAN SHARKEY BE LABELED CONTENDER?

Tunney Could Have Socked Wills Cold Where Jack Failed

BY SPARROW M'CANN
Copyright By The Record News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—How about Jack Sharkey as a challenger for Gene Tunney's title?

Ever since the former bluejacket dispelled the idea that Harry Wills was really a menace to those hankering for the biggest honor in pugilism, the fans have been speculating about his ability as compared to Tunney's.

There are plenty to disparage Jack's showing against the negro, asserting that the latter was nothing more than an old man and a mark for a fearless and courageous young battler.

This may be true. But it took this same Jack Sharkey to show everybody that fact. It is an open secret that few heavyweights wanted any of Wills' game. It is clear now that had Wills and Tunney met, Gene would have knocked Harry's head off. But they did not meet.

Nor did any one see any other heavyweight rushing in to sign with Wills, even with such high paying promoters as Rickard and Fugasy straining their eyes to find an opponent for the black fighter.

Sharkey took the assignment probably figuring he had nothing to lose. He did not, as a matter of fact it will be recalled that in the early part of the year Sharkey met Eddie Huffman was accused of being chicken-livered because he did not try to knock out the coast lad.

Saved His Life.

The fans were off him and he seemed to be sliding into unknown spaces when up he steps and makes his showing against Wills. It was his life saver, that battle.

There are some judges of boxing who think that Sharkey would have knocked out Harry had the fight gone another round. But the writer does not agree with this. Being hogged and wrestled by a man who outweighs you more than 25 pounds is wearing and it is a fact that Jack's rushes were not so sustained in the latter stages of the fight and he appeared tiring under the negro's foul tactics. All the same he fought a great fight and has to be considered among the leading heavyweights.

Tunney, fighting as he did against Dempsey, would have stopped Wills. Sharkey's leaping left jab and then a quick rush into close quarters worked well chiefly because Wills was not allowed by the referee to do any of his questionable stuff in close.

Tunney with his educated left, leading up to his straight right hand crosses, would most surely have brought Harry down. Don't forget that Tunney in his battle with Dempsey showed that he has a real knockout kick in that straight right.

Tunney says that five years ago he figured out a way to beat Dempsey and that was to beat him to his rush by that right hand wallop. Every one who saw the battle will remember how he uncorked it in the early rounds and had Dempsey mellowed thereafter.

Two Contracts in Hand.

Sharkey has in hand two contracts to fight. One is with Jack Delaney and the other is with Tunney.

If Delaney has taken on weight and wants to fight Sharkey, the chances are that the two will come together this winter for the right to meet Tunney in the spring—that is if Dempsey doesn't beat them to it by flashing his old time form and getting the match.

Dempsey's plans the writer learns, involve a sojourn in the north woods, after which he will meet all comers for a nickel a head, so to speak, in an effort to recover his old time ability to get in that left of his no matter how skilled the defense.

The latest candidate who seems willing to put Tunney out for the count is none other than the irrepressible opera star, Mary Garden. Of course, Mary means the matrimonial count but she doesn't say anything about weighing in at 145 pounds at the altar. Just back from Europe, Mary referred to Gene as "an angel" in one breath and spent the rest of her energy talking about reducing to her "willowly" 118 pounds figure.

One of the great ex-champions in the fistic world has closed a colorful career. In the death of Harry Greb, former middleweight champion, the boxing game has lost a man who had fought everybody in the world, including wine, women and song—and it was only the combination of wine, women and song and Tiger Flowers that ever beat him.

grow vegetables for family use as well as for marketing. There are thousands of new comers in west Texas. They hail from states where the tillers of the soil feed themselves and do not go into the market for corn or bacon or canned vegetables or berries or fruits. This is one of the reasons why the low price of cotton will not affect the farmers as it does in some sections of Texas where cotton is the sole crop, and diversification is practiced only by the few.

Boston Red Sox Manager Resigns His Post

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 24. (AP)—Lee Fohl of Cleveland and a one time manager of the Indians announced here Friday that he has tendered his resignation to President Robert Quinn of the Boston American league club, of which he has been the leader for the past three years. There is a possibility that he may be connected with the Pittsburgh club next year.

Coyotes Exceed Hopes Even of Most Optimistic Fans As They Develop More Power In District Title Drive

Bud McCallum's Wichita Falls High School Coyotes will gather Monday to take stock on their accomplishments in Tigertown Saturday and will continue their efforts of preparation to annex a district title during the next two weeks.

The Pack came out of the battle with the Tigers with more glory than the most optimistic before the game were willing to give them credit for and also came out with no serious injuries, according to a preliminary survey of the bunch.

Quanah Comes Next.

Quanah will furnish the next barrier in the pennant rush of the Pack. But the lads up the Denver are not expected to give the lads of Brown and Bud much to worry about if the Red and Black are in any kind of shape and spirit at all. Vernon overpowered Quanah, 55-0, last week without apparently stretching any joints in doing so.

While most observers rate the Lions of Vernon stronger than the Coyotes the latter are not expected to be so very much below the Wilbarger crew in power and hence should find Quanah easy to solve.

Wichita Falls fans will again have to go traveling in order to see their favorites play as the odd arrangement of the league schedule this year forces the Coyotes to play all their contests for the district title out of town. Vernon at Vernon, November 6, will be the real stumbling block in the way of the Pack, most observers believe.

Coyotes Develop

Saturday's test of strength with Electra brought out the fact that the Coyote team had developed tremendously in the last few weeks and had probably learned many a lesson from its heavy competition handed it by Mac's plans of scheduling games with college elevens against whom his relatively young team stood little chance of getting anything else but a drubbing and a lot of concentrated experience. Another two weeks of development and the Coyotes should be able to meet even the Lions with confidence.

There is no over-confidence in the Coyotes camp even though the Pack found itself possibly four or five touchdowns better than their ancient rivals; for everyone knows that Vernon has been the toughest proposition in the district for the Wichita Falls team every year for the past four or five annual races. Saturday's game showed too that the old tendency on the part of the Coyotes to fumble or to make a bad connection between center and backfield was still dogging the team. Such errors almost proved fatal one time Saturday, and in a game as close as the contest with the Lions is expected to be might prove the deciding factor.

Offensive Power

A look over the performance Saturday, when the Coyotes hammered out 15 first downs to four for their old rivals, shows as the most gratifying thing the fact that "Wichita Falls has not only a strong defensive crew but also packs an offensive power that has not been seen here since the days of Baldwin and Coffey. In Dobson in the line and Francis in the backfield there is the old Coffey-Baldwin plunging and fighting combination again or something just about as good. If Mitchell can now keep in line, together with the help of Edmonson, Perk Ray, McKinney and Raynor, and possibly Sisk if the latter can make his grades, the team will have a good supply of other capable ball carriers. Pinney, Downing, Brown, Hobbs, and Powell ably seconded the efforts of their captain in giving the Coyote forwards offensive push in addition to defensive mettle, while the youngsters at the wings, Allred, Neal, Ewing and Newman, showed much promise that the weakness expected in this department of the Coyote line-up might be pretty well solved too. In Hunkie Ray the Coyotes have a hard-fighting line-man who is not easily duplicated and his steady kicking will mean many a good gain for the Coyotes as it was against the Tigers and against the big teams played in the practice season.

Much Work Ahead

There will be much work ahead of the coaches and the team before the Wichita Falls entry is ready for any big state championship talk, such as working out a better co-ordination between backfield and center and perfecting better pass formations for desperate battles, but with the wealth of good material at hand such things are not impossible.

Five Touchdowns In Five Minutes

That's Record Set in Last Five Minutes of Game By Wellington High

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Texas, Oct. 24.—The Wellington high football team smothered the Claude high school team at Claude Friday by a score of 74 to 0, before one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a football game in Claude.

Red McInnis, Wellington half back, made many sensational plays which included four touchdowns and the kicking of six goals.

Loyd Powell, Wellington captain, and quarter back, and often termed the greatest high school quarterback in Texas, battered the Claude line for substantial gains almost at will. Paul Williams also starred.

A unique thing about the game was that Wellington scored five touchdowns and kicked five goals in the last quarter in five minutes, each touchdown and the kicking of the goal requiring exactly one minute each to the second. This is believed to be a record in the making of touchdowns and the making of goals. Wellington made twenty first downs to Claude's one.

This makes a total of five interscholastic games played by the Wellington team without a defeat. They have scored to date 127 points to their opponents 13.

TRIBE TO FACE JUNIOR AGGIES

Junior College Eleven Goes To Arlington School For Game Friday

Coach Herb T. Ludgate's Junior College Indians will this coming Friday test their mettle against their first conference opponent when they tackle North Texas Agricultural college at Arlington. The game is expected to be a hard one for two reasons. In the first place the Aggies are usually rated next to Tarleton in the conference. In the second place the Aggies will be out for revenge for the unexpected defeat handed them here by the Indians last year in their first conference start.

Only Two Letter Men

Ludgate's lads, starting with only two letter men from the last year back and with but half a dozen more with any real big high school experience, found it necessary to groom several men for important positions on the team from candidates who had never participated in a game of football in their life. And that is not an easy job for anybody anywhere. The Indians also turned out with much lighter and less experienced backfield material than they had last year. Hence the conference outlook was woeful, indeed. But Ludgate and his boys went quietly to work, with no one paying any particular attention to them and with no one having much hope for them until games played made people sit up and take notice that here was a young fighting eleven that meant to be counted in on the victory business.

Tribe Surprises 'Em

First the Tribe surprised by battling out a muddy victory over the heavier and older Fort Sill army aggregation. Next came the journey to Cordell where the Indians through sheer fight overcame a much superior eleven which had not been defeat in a year and which figured as one of the strongest junior college combinations in Oklahoma. Then came the only set-back thus far when the Indians fell before the heavier Randolph Badgers of Cisco, who this year boast an eleven made up of experienced men from other colleges and schools and heavy enough to do credit to southwest conference schools. Last week the Redskins sprung another surprise when they uncorked an unexpected offensive that poured it on the much touted Memphis high school team that out-gained the Vernon Lions several times and felt strong enough to send a free-for-all challenge to all high schools and junior colleges of Northwest Texas. Not a bad record for a group of youngsters and a new coach.

Again Under-Dog

In the Aggie contest with Arlington's school this week, the Indians are again entering decidedly the under-dog and with just an outside chance to win. But the team and the coach are working hard to make that outside chance a reality. If the Indians should win they would at once establish themselves as title contenders.

New Grid Stars With Old Names

Football Seems to Run In Blood of Some Families Records Show

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP) — Football seems to run in families. The present captain is a member of the third generation of Thayers to play at Penn. Dern, also on the squad, is a brother of Johnny Dern, who piloted the eleven in 1923. The father of the boys is Governor Dern of Utah. A huge youngster who stands six feet three and a half inches when erect in the Penn line, answers to the name of Stafford, made famous by his illustrious dad, first as a Yale star and later as coach at Rutgers.

The football squad at Yale has "Doc" McGonigle shining in a heroic light just now as the result of the sensational play that beat Dartmouth last week. McGonigle is a nephew of Al Sharpe, famous in grid history. Lee Mallory of the Elis is a brother of the Yale captain, Bill Mallory, who smashed opposing lines to splinters from a fullback position a few years ago.

LEGION FIGHT CARD TONIGHT

Scrappers Will Show Their Fists in Majestic Arena

American legion face frescoers move inside tonight with the first installment of the winter sock series being staged at the Majestic theatre. Curtain raiser goes on the canvas at 8:15, according to Matchmaker A. Friedman.

Freddy (Hart) Cello, the Baltimore welterweight smasher, and Miami Joe Rivers, the Mexican fistic flash, clash in the 10-round main event. The pair rank as two of the most celebrated performers at the gentle art of mistreating the auditory organs ever swung into line for a biff encounter on a Wichita Falls canvas. These highbrows or pugdom may develop an attack of ennui and not display their talent at its best if the gathering at ringside does not stack up in proportions to suit, but at an offhand glance the offering looms as the best along the tin-ear classification billed locally for many months.

But Kosse, the walloping Wichita Falls youngster, is carded in the semi-final with somebody or other. The kid always has been a crowd pleaser.

ELECTRA SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Oct. 24.—The Primo Bridge club was entertained Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Harris. The color scheme of Hollowe'en suggestions were used with shaded lights, and decorations of deep red roses. Score cards of jack-o'lanterns were used. Mrs. C. P. Engelking won the high score which was a boudoir pillow, with Mrs. Paul Green the guest prize, a fruit knife; and Mrs. I. K. Williams the cut prize, a dainty powder puff. Those present were Mesdames Paul Green, Claud Suggs, George Ezell, B. V. Magee, J. T. McDonnald, I. K. Williams, E. E. Merkt, M. D. Goldsmith, Edd Campbell, W. C. Pool, A. S. Haaf, and the hostess. Mrs. Haaf will be hostess next week.

Boy Scout Troup

The Boy Scout troup of the Presbyterian church met at the church at 7 o'clock Friday with Scoutmaster Bill Latham in attendance. The scout laws were repeated, after which the practice in knot-tying and the tender test were reviewed. Games such as captains base and others were played for a half hour. The scout oath was given and the meeting dismissed. Those present were Raphéal Wilson, Claud Vernon, T. L. McCracken, Thurman Hastings, Stewart Jones, Ira Lick, Edward Terrill, Henry Lay, Ancel Vaught, and the scout master.

The Methodist church of County Line was the scene of a delightful old fashioned box supper Friday evening when approximately 75 people were present. The purpose of the box supper was to raise money on the conference claims of the Methodist church, which amount of $39.85 was raised. Rev. W. N. Vernon had charge of the program which consisted of congregational singing, "Count Your Blessings," after which Mrs. J. A. McDonald gave a piano solo. Little Miss Opal Vernon gave a reading, Miss Eloise Gafford read two short selections; Mrs. J. A. McDonald read, "School Exhibit" in a very pleasing manner. Mr. Wilson rendered a vocal solo, and the climax of the whole event was a negro dialect by Dodd Vernon.

Mr. McDonald, who is principal of County Line school, auctioned the boxes, which were sold for splendid prices. Miss Edna Gardner received the cake for being the most popular girl present.

The Thursday Bridge club met with Mrs. Edward Schlaffke with four tables of bridge, with decorations of red roses, zinnias and dahlias, being used in the rooms with the refreshments also suggesting the color scheme. Mrs. E. R. Brown, won the high score, a handsome boudoir lamp in pale green. The guests were Mesdames Frank LeBus, H. T. S. Totten, Dave Brown with members being Mesdames E. R. Brown, J. P. Parr, R. H. Cook, C. R. Miller, W. H. Chaffle, G. R. Davidson, M. O. Turner, Johnnie Marriott, Jr., H. B. Krohn, Ralph Watson, Paul Green, Tom Hoxie, S. B. Marchant.

ALABAMA HOLD ON FLAG FIGHT

But Sewanee Holds Leaders Of South to Smallest Score for Score

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 24. (AP)—Held by the University of the South to the smallest score in three years, the University of Alabama yesterday eked out a 2 to 0 victory to maintain an undefeated conference record for the season. With four victories and four more conference teams to play, the Tide is confident of winning its third conference title.

Following the Tide for supremacy are Virginia Poly, who beat Virginia, and the University of Tennessee. The Volunteers went outside the conference to defeat the Centre Colonels, 30 to 7. Both Virginia Poly and Tennessee have conquered their two conference opponents this season.

Mississippi Third.

In third place, the University of Mississippi, has one conference victory and no defeats. Saturday they lost to Drake university, 33 to 15, in the only inter-sectional contest played.

Georgia Tech went into its contest with the Washington and Lee Generals Saturday an even choice, but strengthened by the return of Carter Barron, flashy halfback, the Tornado downed the opposition, 19 to 7. Tech now has three victories and one defeat.

Vandy Comes Back.

After leading Vanderbilt for more than three-quarters, the University of Georgia finally crumpled under a powerful attack and lost to the Commodores, 14 to 13. Mississippi A. & M. defeated Louisiana State, 7 to 6. North Carolina lost to Maryland, 14 to 7, while Kentucky came from behind to trounce the Florida 'Gaitors, 18 to 3. Virginia Military academy won from North Carolina State, 7 to 0.

Clemson and South Carolina played Thursday, Bill Rogers running wild to help Carolina to a 24 to 0 win.

Harvey Elected Loop Vice-Prexy

Wichita Falls Man Chosen For Robinson's Post In Texas League

DALLAS, Oct. 24.—(AP)—After unanimous agreement to raise the player limit to 18 instead of 16, the present limit, Texas league baseball officials Saturday night shoved unfinished business over to the scheduled meeting in January which will be held at San Antonio. The player limit was raised in order to promote consistency in that line among the eight clubs in the league, President Doak Roberts said after the meeting.

Harvey Elected.

R. O. Harvey of Wichita Falls, former owner of the Spudders was elected vice-president of the league to succeed the late H. L. Robinson of Houston who died during his term of office.

Revision of the constitution and by-laws to eliminate inaccuracies and place the Texas league on the same basis with other class "A" leagues was delegated to a committee composed of Paul Lagrave, Fort Worth; Walter Morris, Dallas, and Fred Ankerman, Houston. The committee will report at the San Antonio meeting.

Airey At Meeting.

Those present at the meeting were R. L. Stuart and James Galloway, Beaumont; Fred Ankerman, Houston; Harry Albles, Houston, Mitze and Dr. Burleson, San Antonio. Mr. Albugh, Waco; R. O. Harvey and Secretary Airey, Wichita Falls; Paul Lagrave and W. F. Stripling, Fort Worth; Walter Morris, Charles Maxvill and Ike Sablosky, Dallas and Art Phelan, Shreveport.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

This promises to be the busiest season in the managerial market baseball has ever had. Right now the Simon Legrees of baseball are so busy whipping the Uncle Toms that baseball is still vieing with football for sport page prominence.

First, the St. Louis Browns announced they were through with Sisler as a manager and were ready to sell him down the river. Then the Boston Red Sox turned Lee Fohl into the snow and cold. Now Bill McKechnie, king of the baseball world a year ago this month, finds himself headed for a new plantation. And Art Fletcher of the Phillies is looking for another job.

And the end is not yet. Ty Cobb's name still is whispered about on the axe-laden air and at least one other pilot is due for a long talk with the club owners. It's going to be a wise major league ball player who knows his boss next season.

There is interest in the fact that while other club moguls are seeking to put new life in their teams and turnstiles Emil Fuchs, judge of the courts and judge of good managers, is still stringing with Davey Bancroft. This despite the fact that the Braves won no pennants to amount to anything in 1926.

Bancroft showed clearly that he can handle a big league ball club and the players on it. He put over some clever trades—thanks to Fuch's cooperation. There might be a tip-off to other club owners in this.

* * * *

Art Fletcher, who was to be manager of the Philadelphia Nationals "as long as he wanted the job," apparently doesn't want it any more. He has tossed in the towel, according to word from the home of the fizzling sesqui centennial. Stuffy McInnis, veteran first-sacker for five major league clubs, is supposed to have signed a two-year contract to boss the team.

Fletcher proved his worth as a manager with the hopeless Phillies. He was handicapped by the hesitancy (a consistent one) on Owner Baker to step out in the open market and buy playing material.

Eyes of Mat Fans Center On Main Go Tuesday Eve Between Dutch Mantell And Yaqui Joe At 11th And Ohio Arena

Somebody's all wrong again!

Those grapple contests slated between Dutch Mantell and Yaqui Joe, Dynamite Charley Grip and Gustavus Anderson will NOT be held on the Majestic stage Tuesday night as announced, but will be taken to the Eleventh and Ohio arena, weather permitting.

But, of course, if she's cold outside or a bit moist, then the program will be shoved indoors at the Madge, says Promoter A. Ross.

So take your choice—at the arena if Indian summer returns, which it probably won't, or roll up the curtain at the Majestic if it doesn't.

With Yaqui Joe already on hand the four principals are expected to be present or accounted for by Monday night, according to Ross.

Resumption of the year-old feud between the noble Redskin and Luxembourg's Grand Duke has it's drawing powers, but special ballyhoo is being given the advent of Charley Grip, who, it is declared, has no peer in the wrestling world at 150 pounds. Grip is expected to take the rough-and-tumble Anderson to a full-fledged licking. Charley will be giving away 15 pounds, but he doesn't know it yet and probably doesn't care. He hasn't been told who he meets.

Both matches are to be figish affairs.

Wilbur Will Be Dodgers' Leader

Brooklyn Manager Reappointed As Pilot of Club By Owners

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.(AP)—Directors of the Brooklyn National league baseball club Sunday announced that the contract of Wilbur Robinson manager had been renewed. The officials refused to state, either the terms of the agreement or the number of years it will run. Robinson, who is also president of the club, has been slated to relinquish one of his offices in the re-organization program being undertaken at Brooklyn.

Rest This Week For Iowa Park

Doughty Little Eleven Will Recuperate From Its Strenuous Drive

Coach Brewster's Iowa Park Hawks probably will lay off a bit this week, said the coach yesterday, to recuperate from the recent heavy campaign they have battled through. It is not likely a game will be played by the Birds this week.

Beasley, Cheves and Fillmore, backfield men, are on the injured list while Penn, wingman, is crippled up a bit, also. Several other players are hampered by minor injuries.

Brewster is finding it difficult to keep his schedule filled. He said his team is open for a game or so with any club near its class.

The Hawks held the powerful Seymour eleven to a scoreless tie Friday at Iowa Park. The game was a fight from start to finish, neither club making any great advances. Seymour made 16 first downs, most of them in the second half, to Iowa Park's 14.

The invaders waged a great offensive game during the third and fourth periods while the crippled Hawks, with only one man able to carry the ball, played purely a defensive game after having spent their strength during the first half. It was a splendid exhibition of fight training and coolness on the part of the light, fast-charging Iowa Park forward wall that stopped the powerful Seymour machine three times in the shadow of the goal. With 12 downs to make five yards, Seymour failed.

For the Hawks it was Quarterback Paul Enloe who was the entire offense and defense. He must have made 75 per cent of all tackles in the last half. Marshall was the leading performer with Seymour.

The following line-ups started: Iowa Park — Cheeves left half; Beasley, right half; Wiley, center; Fitzgerald, right guard; Denny, left guard; Enloe, quarterback; Wigley, right tackle; Fields, left tackle; D. Smythe, left end; Corder, right end; Fillmore, fullback; and for Seymour — Humphries, left half; Walker, right half; Lunsford, center; Shawver, right guard; Davis, left guard; R. Morris, quarterback; C. Morris, right tackle; R. Crawford, left tackle; Gorman, left end; Easley, right end; Ray Crawford, fullback.

Substitutions: Seymour—Waston for Easley, Foster for Humphries, Cowan for Crawford; Iowa Park—none.

Eight Tanks

when an explosion followed in one of the nearby tanks. Tuff was near the tank at the time, attempting to close a valve when the blast occurred. Chambless is said to have been on top of the tank and a third man was seen standing near Tuff just before the explosion.

Many Tanks Explode

Explosion of seven other tanks, each containing nearly 500 barrels of crude oil followed in rapid succession and in addition seven derricks, two of which were steel crumbled in the path of the spreading oil flames. Due to a broken pipe line from one of the producing wells to one of the dilapidated tanks the flames were still raging at a late hour this afternoon with no apparent indications of an early end. Mud and steam was being used by two hundred or more workmen to bombat the flames.

Fire Lasts All Day.

The fire was under control at 6 p. m. after burning for more than 12 hours. Search for the body of Fred Tuff, general superintendent of the Humphreys Oil corporation, and former chief of the United States bureau of mines, and that of another man, not yet identified, was being carried on tonight under the glare of powerful spot lights.

Officials of the company and roustabouts alike were scraping around in the smouldering ruins for possible trace of the missing men. Tuff was last seen between two of the 500-barrel tanks which were among the first to explode and it is likely, in the opinion of these who witnessed the blast, that his body was buried beneath the heavy steel plates of the tank and subsequently cooked in boiling oil. It is not likely, if either of the bodies are found at all, that they might be identified.

One Body Found.

The body of T. Chambless, field worker, which was taken from the ruins shortly after 1 p. m. was charred and mutilated beyond recognition. Identification was made by means of a pocket knife and a belt buckle.

In the meantime Ed. Duhon, 43, of Sour Lake, field manager for the Thels Oil company, and J. S. Leleaux, 27, of Sour Lake, crew foreman, who narrowly escaped with their lives, are in a grave condition at a local hospital. Duhon, it was stated, will in all probabilities not live, while Leleaux has a bare chanace to recover.

Curious Crowds Gather.

Thousands of morbidly curious from Sour Lake, Beaumont, Port Arthur and other neighboring towns, braved the mud and slush of the oil field this afternoon and tonight. Every available workman was pressed into service and fire hose was being hauled to Sour Lake from several neighboring cities. Mud and steam, the only available agent, was being used to fight the flames.

The scene of today's tragic fire is about two miles from the city of Sour Lake in the southwestern part of the old field. There are no homes close by. The place has been the scene of intensive oil drilling for the last three months on account of the striking of a deep oil stratum there. Nearly two score derricks have been thrown up in an area not greater than 50 acres. Four of the large operating companies in the lease holders there.

Field 25 Years Old.

Sour Lake came in as an oil field 25 years ago shortly after the development of Spindle Top here. It has been one of the good fields of the Gulf Coast country. With the new strike there, the city had taken on a new boom but the home building has extended the other direction as the old oil field which is still producing lies between the new operations and the town.

It was said at the hospital here late tonight that Ed Duhon, one of the only two men brought there as the result of burns probably would not survive the night.

ARKANSAS TOPS SW CONFERENCE

Razorbacks Have Best Record So Far to Capture 1926 Pennant

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—Arkansas university emerged with the best standing, although not the highest, from the southwest conference clashes, winning its second conference-rated tilt when it beat the Centenary Gentlemen 33 to 6. Texas university won its first conference game when it beat Rice institute 20 to 0 and Southern Methodist university beat Texas A. & M. college 9 to 7 in the first conference meeting of both teams. It was also the first conference game for Rice.

Texas Christian university won a non-conference game 3 to 0 from Oklahoma A. & M. college, former conference member. Baylor university, the remaining conference member, played outside the loop when it defeated Howard Payne college 23 to 7. Neither the Christians nor Baylor can count a conference victory yet, although they met a week ago, tying 7 and 7.

Arkansas, allowed conference rating on its games with Centenary college and Mississippi, thus has two victories and no defeats, against one vitcory and no defeats for Texas and the Methodists, and one defeat and no victories for Rice and Texas Aggies.

From now on, intra-conference games will be the rule.

WICHITA GINS CUT PRICE TO HELP FARMERS ON CHEAP COTTON

LOCAL GINNERS DECIDE ON CUT AT CONFERENCE

Ginning of Picked Cotton At 30 Cents Per Houndred At Bollies 54 Cents

Cotton ginners of Wichita Falls announced another cut in cotton ginning prices following a meeting of the Ginners association held Sunday morning. George Dashner Jr., of th eWichita gin, stated that this was the second cut made by the local gin fraternity for the purpose of helping the farmers with their low priced cotton, and evidenced the opinion that many other ginners throughout the state would be doing the same thing soon.

Picked Cotton 30 Cents.

The new cut applies to both picked and bolled cotton, the reduction on picked cotton being from 35 cents to 30 cents per hundred and on bollies cotton from 50 cents to 45 cents per hundred. This cut amounts to about $1 per bale and will be of considerable help in the ginning expenses.

There were four local gins represented at the meeting held yesterday and the decision to cut the prices was unanimous and is believed that it will be the impetus toward the cutting of the ginning price throughout the country for this year.

27,000 Bales Ginned.

Only a small per cent of the cotton of the section has been ginned to date it was announced at the meeting, the total bales ginned in Wichita Falls up to Saturday night was approximately 2,700 bales, while upwards of 10,000 bales is expected to be ginned here if the government estimate of the production is anything like accurate.

At present prices of picking the actual production of bolly cotton does not leave the farmer very much profit, as the picking expenses and ginning costs are higher than on picked cotton, while the price received is proportionately lower. For this reason farmers are being urged to pick as much of their cotton as they can and not to resort to bolling it until absolutely necessary.

NO CLUES YET

Police Have No Solution In Jewelry Robbery.

No clues had been uncovered late last night by police officers who are searching for thieves who entered the apartment of R. W. Flournoy at 1815 McGregor and carried away a quantity of jewelry and heirlooms, Saturday night.

The thieves entered a bedroom at the rear of the apartment and ransacked the room while Mr. and Mrs. Flournoy and Mr. Flournoy's mother were sitting in the front room. Entrance was gained through a window, the screen having been removed and the sash pried up.

Police officers have been investigating the robbery since it was reported Saturday night, but have not as yet uncovered any tangible clues to the thieves.

QUAKE RECORDED

Shocks On Coast Follows Line Of 1906 Frisco Quake

SAN JOSE, Cal., Oct. 25. (AP) Vibrations of an earthquake perceptible for several seconds here at 1:53 this afternoon were registered for a period of from four to five minutes on the seismograph of Lick observatory on Mount Hamilton, near here, according to Dr. Robert Aitken, associate director of the observatory.

Dr. Aitken described the quake as of minor intensity and on the same line as the big quake of 1906. Although detailed study of the seismograph record will not be made until tomorrow, Dr. Aitken estimated the center of the disturbance as from 15 to 100 miles from the observatory.

Special Pullman Service For Oil Men To Be Inaugurated On 'West Texan'

A new special Pullman and drawing room service between Wichita Falls and Amarillo will become effective on the Fort Worth and Denver railway the 28 of this month, was the announcement received by J. W. Chatham, traffic manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, from F. D. Daggett, general passenger agent of the road at Fort Worth.

A 12-section drawing room Pullman car will be set out every night in Wichita Falls and will be picked up on the West Texan leaving Wichita Falls every night at 12:05 a. m. The car may be occupied after 9:30 p. m. each night.

The same service is offered on the return trip, the car arriving with the "West Texan" each morning in Wichita Falls at 6:30.

This service will be highly appreciated by the general travel between here and Amarillo, but will be more especially pleasing to the many oil operators who are now visiting the Panhandle oil fields at frequent intervals.

ARABIAN SHEIK WEDS PRINCESS

Great Ceremony For Son Of Morocco's Sultan To Last One Week

MARRAKECH, Morocco, Oct. 24. (AP)—Thousands of Agab sheiks, mounted on beautiful steeds and resplendant in white silk robes and multicolored burnouses shining in the bright African sun, are gathered here to attend the wedding of the son and heir of Mulai Youssef, Sultan of Morocco, to the daughter of El Glaowi, Pasha of Marrakeck, and most powerful lord of the Atlas district.

The festivities, in a setting worthy of and rivaling the Arabian nights, began at sunrise today and will last a week. Mulai Youssef, accompanying his son, Mulai Idriss, arrived here this morning. Mulai Idriss bears the name of the greatest sultan in the history of Morocco, who in the seventeenth century asked for the hand of the daughter of Louis XIV, of France in marriage.

Never Saw Bride.

Idriss will marry a woman whose face he never saw. The bride's heavy veil, as in the case of all faithful Moslem women, will not be taken off even for the bridegroom, until the wedding night. The bride has not been consulted regarding the choice of her husband, and this is not a love match.

El Glaowi, desirous of putting the finishing touch on his great prestige, simply agreed to produce sufficient gold and jewels to induce the sultan to permit the son of a prophet to marry the daughter of a Pasha.

8,000 At Tables.

This is mendicants day and none needs go hungry Marakech, more than 8,000 persons, many of whom were poor only for a day, ate at noon under tents set in place just outside the palace of Bahia, the Pasha's residence. Whole beeves, steers and sheep were impaled on the stout limbs of trees and revolved slowly over log fires, every diner was his own waiter, eager fingers tearing off great strips of meat from the animals, and to be devoured ravenously. For sweets and pastries alone 1,100,000 francs were spent by El Glaowi for this gargantun repast.

The wedding present, brought from mountains and plains by Caids and shieks, valued at more than 15,000,000 francs, were displayed in a series of delightful courts where fountains play against colored tiles.

7,000 In Escort.

This evening, just as the sun dropped behind the Atlas range and a marabout, or holy man, from a minaret on the towers of Koutoubia mosque announced in the plaintive tones of muezzin's prayer that the daughter of a Pasha was wedding the descendant of the prophet, a cavalcade set forth from Bahia palace. The bridegroom, attended by 7,000 horsemen bearing torches and rifles, paraded through romantic Karrakech, the roads lined with pink wallsean palm trees. Vast quantities of fireworks were set off by negro slaves, whose position of servitude was marked by a silver ring piercing one ear.

TILDEN TO VISIT

Former National Tennis Champion To Europe

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—William T. Tilden, former national singles champion, will return to the scene of his former triumphs to compete in the Wimbledon and French hard court tennis championships in 1927, the American Lawn Tennis magazine announced in a current issue.

The trip will mark Tilden's third invasion of Europe and his first since 1920 and 1921, when he won the world singles title at Wimbledon.

DOOMED MAN IS SAVED BY TALK WITH GIRL IN CELL

CAPETOWN. — A last-moment reprieve, without parallel in the judicial annals of South Africa, prevented a death sentence being carried into execution at Pretoria. Jan Nortje, the condemned man, was convicted, with a girl named Dirkie Duplessis, of the murder of his wife by administering strychnine in coffee. The death sentence passed on the man was confirmed by the executive council, while that passed on the Duplessis girl was communted to one of imprisonment for life. When she was informed of the decision the girl begged to be allowed to see Nortje, and their conversation, indicating their innocence, was reported to the authorities, who immediately reprieved Nortje and ordered the arrest and another suspect.

Factories Not For Short Week

Five-Day Labor Plan Will Increase All Costs, They Declare

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers made public today a symposium of opinions expressed by executives of 33 leading industrial organizations throughout the country on the five-day labor week.

The consensus, as summarized by the National association was that general adoption of the reduced basic working week, as proposed by Henry Ford and endorsed by the American Federation of Labor at its recent convention would:

Increase the cost of living; increase wages by 15 per cent and decrease production; prove impracticable for all industries; create a craving for additional luxuries to occupy the additional spare time, causing a "trend to the arena—Rome did that and Rome died;" react against the best interest of workmen who desire to advance; make the United States more vulnerable to economic onslaught from Europe.

The only approximate favorable reply noted by the National association was that the scheme "would be all right to meet a sales emergency, but would not work out as a permanent thing."

RECALL BACKFIRE

Supporters of Washington Governor Endorse Him

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 24. (AP)—A movement to recall Governor Roland Hartley of Washington, started after Henry Suzzallo was dismissed as president of the University of Washington, met its first backfire today.

Businessmen, lawyers and citizens of both republican and democratic parties from all sections of Washington met here and organized to circulate petitions throughout the state containing expressions of confidence in the governor and his administration.

Attendance at the meeting was by invitation.

SEEK THIEVES

Nichols Grocery Store Robbed Sunday Morning

Police were searching the city Sunday night for thieves who entered the Nichols grocery store on Bluff street early Sunday morning and carried away a small quantity of groceries.

The store was entered through a back door that opened in to a garage adjoining the building. Little valuables were taken, and so far as the owner could ascertain the loss will amount to very little.

656 DIE IN WRECK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—Deaths due to automobile operation reported from 76 of the larger cities in the country numbered 656 during the four weeks ended October 9. This figure, the commerce department announced today is the largest reported in any like period since the collection of the figures was begun, nearly two years ago.

CONVICTS USE KNIVES IN TRY TO KILL GUARD

Break for Liberty Checked As Guns Spray Buckshot On Prisoners

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 24.(AP)—Buckshot from the shotgun of guards in the Missouri state penitentiary today stopped the rush for liberty of seven convicts who tonight lay wounded in the prison hospital.

Armed with knives, the prisoners battled their keepers in a cell house, the prison yard and in a shirt factory to which five of them had fled and were routed after a siege of nearly two hours.

One guard, J. L. Fleeman, was stabbed in the melee and another, a prisoner, Ollie Cooper, a negro, who came to the defense of Fleeman, also was stabbed. None was in a serious condition.

The revolt started in "B" cell house just after the luncheon dishes had been cleared away. The seven prisoners rushed at a signal upon W. R. Burks, a guard, brandishing knives.

Guard Overpowered.

The guard was knocked down as the convicts burst through the door, after overpowering A. J. Wekenborg and J. T. Wynes, guards.

They rushed to the tuberculosis hospital, a small building isolated in the center of the compound. Here they overpowered Fleeman, stabbing him and taking his pistol away from him.

"Let's kill this nigger," a convict yelled, according to Cooper 47-year-old negro trusty. The negro picked up a chair and brought it down on Henry Mitchel, two-termer, who crashed through a window unconscious.

Cooper then went out of action with stab wounds and six convicts leaped ten feet through an unbarred window to the ground and made a dash of several hundred feet under fire of guards for the shirt factory. One convict was down when they arrived at the factory and all had been sprinkled with buckshot.

In the building the rebels stood at bay while prison officials sought means of evicting them. R. E. Herrick, a prison officer and Clyde Lane, a guard, then entered the factory.

The convicts emerged from beneath a pile of overalls after a few rounds of buckshot had been discharged into it.

All are Wounded

At the hospital tonight it was learned that every prisoner participating in the attempted delivery was wounded, none seriously. Their names were: James Wadlow, 23, six years for grand larceny from St. Louis; Raymond Crews, 25, 18 years for bank robbery from De Soto; Henry Mitchel, two-termer from Cedar county; Carl Pittman, 22 years for robbery from St. Louis; Charles Jackson, 23, five years for robbery from St. Louis; Joseph Harris, 21 years for robbery from St. Louis; Robert Harrison, 21 years for burglary from Jefferson county. Pittman was one of two convicts who last February made a daring attempt to escape by floating across the Missouri river on cakes of ice.

Sun Spots

Leading meteorologists and scientists suggest that the recent Florida hurricane and other disturbances can be traced to giant spots on the sun, which have been visible for some time. The photo above shows some of these spots blamed for making nature "step out" a bit. It is from the Astronomer Royal, Royal Observatory, Greenwich, Eng.

YOUTH INJURED

Fitzie Larmon, 20, Suffers Cuts In Accident

Fitzie Larmon, 20, is in the Hargrave-Walker hospital suffering from injuries received at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon in an automobile wreck at the corner of Scotland and Twelfth. He is suffering from painful injuries, a deep cut over the right eye and a severely bruised left arm.

Details of the accident were not obtainable last night, but it is said the car overturned in rounding the corner at Twelfth and Scotland.

DEAF GIRL TO STATE SCHOOL

Little Wichita Girl Sent To State Institution For Training

Another good piece of constructive welfare work was completed yesterday by W. G. Brawley, county juvenile officer, when a little 8-year-old deaf and dumb girl was sent from here to the state school for deaf and dumb at Austin.

Several months ago Mr. Brawley found a family in destitute circumstances living near the river north of town. The family was preparing to get work in the cotton fields, but the husband and father had been ill in bed for two months and the family were without funds. In this family was a little blue-eyed deaf and dumb girl of 8-years-of-age. Mr. Brawley saw that she was a very bright little girl, and asked the father and mother to make an effort to get her in the state school. They consented for the child to go, but at that time the applicaion was held up because the school was full and there was no more room at the institution for additional stud...ts.

Last week Mr. Brawley was informed by the school that they would take the little girl if her transportation and clothing was furnished. Mr. Brawley immediately furnished these necessary items and Saturday night the little girl boarded a train here for Austin, where she will enter the state school for deaf mutes, and there will receive just as good an education as any other public school gives despite her physical handicaps.

SEEK NEW TRIAL

Convicted As Murderers, Man To Continue Fight.

BOSTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—The defense of Nickola Sacco and Bartolemeo Vanzetti, whose conviction of murder six years ago had aroused international interest will continue the fight for a new trial despite denial yesterday by Judge Webster Thayer of motions for that purpose.

William G. Thompson, chief of the defense counsel, said today that exceptions undoubtedly would be carried to the supreme court.

Appendicitis Operation Is Fatal for Jim Guthrie, 54, In Hospital Here

Jim Guthrie, 54, a resident of the Byers community for the last 30 years, died Sunday at noon in a local hospital. The body will be taken from the home of his brother, Ed. Guthrie, of this city to Charlie by the Hines Undertaking company, and the funeral service will be held there Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Richard and Charles, of Byers; two sister, Mrs. J. S. Vineyard, of Byers, and Mrs. Ed. Fields, of Henrietta, and two brothers, Willie Guthrie of Duncan, Okla., and Ed. Guthrie, of Wichita Falls.

Mr. Guthrie was a successful farmer of Byers and was well known in that city and had friends in Wichita Falls. He underwent an operation for appendicitis Saturday afternoon in a local hospital and never rallied from the operation.

Are You Overdoing?
Hurry, Worry, and Overwork Bring Heavy Strain.

MODERN life throws a heavy burden on our bodily machinery. The eliminative organs, especially the kidneys, are apt to be overtaxed and become sluggish. Retention of excess uric acid and other poisonous waste is apt to give rise to a dull, tired feeling and, often, toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is sometimes shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. More and more people are learning to assist their kidneys by drinking plenty of pure water and the occasional use of Doan's Pills—a tested stimulant diuretic. Ask your neighbor!
