Reds Raise Threat Of New Ultimatum In Berlin

MEN, MACHINES & ATOMS

A bulwark against possible Communist aggression in Europe are the 200,000 American soldiers in West Germany. Main part of the force is the U.S. Seventh Army with combat divisions. Not shown on the above map are North Atlantic Treaty Organization troops in Germany and elsewhere in Europe, or U.S. forces in other countries. Against these, East Germany has an army of 110,000 and a Russian-equipped air force. The Soviets have 400,000 men in East Germany and smaller numbers in the satellite nations.

Herter Replies For President

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

GENEVA (UPI) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko has raised the threat of a new Berlin ultimatum if the Geneva foreign ministers' conference does not go the way the Kremlin wants, American sources disclosed today.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter immediately replied with a near ultimatum of his own, that President Eisenhower will not attend any summit conference under duress and no summit conference unless Russia guarantees Allied rights in West Berlin.

The top level exchange was disclosed after both East and West had rejected each other's opening positions at the Big Four conference.

Herter personally informed Gromyko that the West's minimum price for a summit conference would be a stand-still agreement recognizing the present Allied rights in Berlin until the foreign ministers or the heads of state reach final settlement.

Private Conversation

The Herter-Gromyko exchange was one of the most significant of the conference. It took place in a private conversation last Thursday at a dinner given by British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, the sources said.

Gromyko's implied threat of possible new Soviet moves in Berlin was disclosed at the same time authoritative sources said Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev apparently has fixed a deadline in his own mind for winding up the current talks.

This report said Khrushchev has summoned the Communist Party Central Committee for June 24, apparently to assess the results of this conference and to prepare his mandate for the summit conference he hopes will follow.

Khrushchev originally demanded the Allies quit Berlin by May 27. A month ago he dropped his May 27 deadline after the West agreed to attend Big Four talks.

American sources said Gromyko has gone out of his way to be polite to Herter, and that he opened the conversation by saying he hoped Herter would appreciate that the Russians had no ulterior motives in their proposals on Berlin and Germany.

Herter replied that this was difficult to believe in view of the fact that the whole meeting here stemmed from Khrushchev's Nov. 27 demand that the Allies get out of West Berlin and convert it into an undefended "free city."

Gromyko replied he was sorry Herter had mentioned the May 27 ultimatum, deadline because he had not intended to bring it up

FAVORITE SUBJECT

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, right, is a favorite subject of photographers from all nations at the Geneva Conference. At left is Gromyko's deputy, Valerian Zorin. Gromyko has raised the threat of a new Berlin ultimatum it was disclosed today by American sources.

Cold War Might Be Thawing!

GENEVA (UPI) — There were growing indications today of a slight thawing of the East-West cold war positions despite strong statements on each side.

The first official hint from the Communists came from East German Foreign Minister Lothan Bolz who let it be known the Russians would drop their insistence on a German peace treaty as the price of a Berlin settlement.

The West continues to stand by its package plan but it, too, has broken the ice by disclosing readiness to negotiate an "interim settlement" on Berlin pending a final accord in the wider frame of global and European cold war settlements including German unification.

Both sides have thus tentatively — and very guardedly — moved toward a possible Berlin arrangement in Geneva without prejudice to their respective overall policy stands and even before a summit conference.

The Communist fallback was foreshadowed by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in recent private talks with British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery in Moscow.

Montgomery reported the Soviet leader had agreed in principle to drop the demand for a German peace treaty as a preliminary to a Berlin accord. Official Moscow remained silent.

Soviet Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin hedged on this point when challenged at a press conference in Geneva last week.

The Soviet drive no doubt will be Western discussion of the Berlin crisis without strings attached, more especially without any advance commitment on German reunification.

The West stands heavily committed to its package deal but could move toward separate Berlin talks without having to untie the strings that hold its peace plan togeher.

Ompa, Ompa, Whoo, Whoo Kim, Kim, Kim!

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — An official appearance by Kim Novak at Milan's railway station Monday night disrupted rail traffic, set policemen to fighting one another and almost caused an old locomotive to blow its stack.

Miss Novak showed up to do the honors at a retirement ceremony for a 44-year-old locomotive.

The excitement started when the blonde star having warmed up to the task at hand discarded her furs, revealing a tight - fitting evening gown with bare shoulders and back.

"My God," gasped a police official, "We ought to clamp a state of siege right now."

Railway officials were brushed aside by Novak fans, who were brushed aside by policemen, who were brushed aside by press photographers. The gendarmes, not knowing whom to grab first, grabbed each other.

"Kim, Kim, Kim," chanted the crowd.

"Oompa, oompa, oompa," went the big brass band.

"Whooo, whooo, whooo" went the old locomotive.

Miss Novak managed a feeble wave.

Railroad fans who had tired of Miss Novak's bare back pushed and shoved their way, unasked, into the locomotive cab. Joseph Novak, Kim's father and a former railroad man himself, elbowed his way out of the cab to join his besieged daughter.

"I was afraid the old thing would blow up under the weight of so many people," he said, referring to the locomotive.

The star eventually was rescued by police employing the old flying wedge formation and the crowd dispersed.

Defense Secretary Will Stick Fast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy announced at the White House today that he had cancelled plans to resign and would remain in the Cabinet indefinitely.

McElroy made his decision known after he conferred with President Eisenhower and Thomas S. Gates Jr., who was selected by the chief executive Monday to be the new deputy secretary of defense.

The secretary, who leaves Washington for the foreign ministers' meeting in Geneva late today, said he decided to change his plans to resign when Deputy Secretary Donald A. Quarles died recently.

As McElroy and Gates walked out of the White House, the defense chief said: "I am suspending my plans for departure and now I really don't know when I'll be leaving — if at all."

McElory said that before leaving for Geneva he wanted to clean up accumulated plans with Gates and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, retired. Radford was called back to duty Monday while Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is recuperating from a lung cancer operation.

McElroy said that his decision to remain in office was not altered by the appointment of Gates, but dictated by the death of Quarles. McElroy, former president of Procter and Gamble, had planned to return to private life this fall.

He said he still had some personal problems to resolve. But he added that because of the international situation and "the problems of this summer"—obviously a reference to East-West tensions and a possible summit meeting—"there was really no choice for me" after Quarles died.

Board Approves Plans For Junior High Work

Architect's drawings for the remodeling of the old Pampa Junior High School building were approved by the Pampa School Board Monday afternoon. Bids on the job — estimated to total around $46,000 — will be opened June 3, and contracts will be signed at a meeting June 8.

The drawings were presented by Architects Waldon Moore and Gene Hollar at the board's monthly meeting in the Junior High School building.

Nine pages of specifications call for a revamping of classrooms into a lunchroom, the addition of restrooms and the building of a bandroom which will adjoin the auditorium. If all goes well, work will be completed in time for the '59 fall semester.

Pampa's five-member school board also looked into the possibility of participating in a state program of aptitude testing, a program inspired by funds from the National Defense Act.

But the board, in deciding to participate, made it clear that it will not ask for federal government reimbursement, which the program provides. It was decided to participate to "take advantage of the program's lower cost," approximately 80 cents per pupil per test.

The testing program is made up of five tests to determine aptitude, ability and achievement for students in the seventh through 12th grades.

In other business the board heard that school construction in Pampa is proceeding on schedule. Some concern was shown, however, over the recent mishap at the newly-built Robert E. Lee school where a concrete partition tumbled down causing one youngster to suffer a broken hand.

The board was told by Superintendent Knox Kinard that two of the school's 15 partitions have been taken down and three others repaired.

Kinard, in other business, said he has been "deluged" with requests for a summer session drivers education course. The board decided that this overflow of students seeking drivers education can be lowered to a more workable figure by raising the course tuition to $20 instead of $12 which at present does not cover the whole cost of the course.

The board also is hoping new car dealers will lend at least four new cars to the schools for upcoming instruction courses.

Strauss In As Secretary Of Commerce?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lewis L. Strauss today won narrow Senate Commerce Committee approval of his controversial nomination as secretary of commerce. The vote was 9 to 8.

Three Democrats joined the six committee Republicans in favoring committee approval.

However one of the Democrats — Sen. John O. Pastore (R.I.) — indicated that he would file a separate report to the Senate favoring Strauss' approval rather than join the other members who voted to confirm him.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) announced the committee's action. He hopes the nomination can be formally reported to the Senate next Monday. The actual time for debate, Magnuson said, will be a matter for Senate Democratic leaders to decide.

Sen. E. L. (Bob) Bartlett (D-Alaska) told United Press International he would be among those opposing the nomination if it reaches the floor. He said he believed Strauss' chances of approval were about 50-50.

Generally, a committee recommendation carries weight when the full Senate votes on a nomination. Barring introduction of some new evidence, it was considered likely Strauss would be confirmed.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), fighting the nomination, said in a prepared Senate speech Strauss should be rejected as an issue of "public policy" just as the Senate turned down Charles B. Warren, a Republican nominee for attorney general in 1925.

Opponents linked Warren with the "sugar trust" of that era, O'Mahoney pointed out.

"The same principle, though not the same incident, is involved in the Strauss case," O'Mahoney said. "The admiral has been too closely identified with the fiscal and complex corporate devices of modern big business to be trusted to administer the functions of the Department of Commerce in the public interest."

up, Up, UP — Pictured above is an Atlas missile as it prepares to leave its Cape Canaveral launching pad amidst thunder and while belching smoke and fire. A similar Atlas to this one exploded in flight today.

Twin Explosion Dooms 4th Atlas

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — A twin explosion like the crack of an artillery salvo marked the death of the second combat-type Atlas missile high in the sky early today. It was the fourth straight Atlas that failed to carry out its test assignment.

The Atlas, scheduled for limited deployment to troops by July, had been in flight for only one minute when it suddenly was engulfed in flames.

The Air Force said "the cause of the malfunction is not known." A spokesman said the missile was not intentionally destroyed, as was the first operational-type Atlas after a brief and wobbly flight April 14.

Five hours and 14 minutes before the Atlas blasted off at 12:30 a.m., e.d.t., a Polaris test rocket made what apparently was a partially successful flight

Water System In Good Shape

The status of Pampa's water system at the present time is "excellent," Wayland Merriman told the Pampa City Commission this morning.

But, said Merriman, the city is growing rapidly, and to keep up with water requirements the city must drill three new water wells soon, and add one new well a year through 1970.

Merriman, the city's engineering consultant, presented a glowing 70-minute report of city growth and water needs. According to estimates, he said, Pampa should have a population of 38,000 by 1970. Pampa is growing by 41 new families a month and now has a population of about 26,000.

Merriman said water consumption at this time is three million gallons per day, but on peak days jumps up to 8.3 million gallons. The present well system can produce up to 11 million gallons a day from nearly 20 wells.

In the future, he told the commission, the city can drill more wells south of Pampa where water rights have already been obtained. By 1980 he estimates Pampa may have to drill in land southwest of Lefors where there are proven vast underground water supplies.

According to Merriman, Pampa now has four elevated water tanks with a total capacity of 1.53 million gallons. The largest tank (1 million gallons) was recently completed in the North Crest addition at a cost of just under $200,000.

In other business Mayor Ed Myatt read a telegram from Gov. Price Daniel who told Myatt he has opposed from the start" a state bill that would limit the working hours of police and firemen. The law at present does not effect Pampa.

The governor's telegram was prompted by a request from Myatt for information on the state senate vote on the bill. Myatt expressed concern that the measure was another step toward limiting local rights.

The commission also turned its sights on eliminating a now unused "loading zone" in front of the fire-ravaged LaNora Theatre. No concrete action was taken.

City Manager John Koontz reported that the annual problem of weeds on vacant lots is becoming acute. He urged a publicity campaign to combat weeds.

This morning's meeting was opened with an invocation by Rev. Richard Crews, pastor of the First Chrician church.

Bourland Invited To Tech Program

Joe Bourland, a Pampa High School junior, has been invited to participate in the 1959 Summer Physics program at Texas Tech, Lubbock. He is one of 26 students with outstanding ability in science who have received invitations.

Eleven Ward 3 Ballots Are Cast

Voting in Ward Three in today's runoff election is light, according to a noon-time report from Ward's Cabinet Shop. Eleven persons had cast ballots from the time the polls opened at 8 a.m. until noon.

The Ward Three election brings together Leon Holmes and incumbent City Commissioner R. K. Parsley. In the April 7 city elections Holmes garnered 55 votes to Parsley's 37, but neither man gained a majority of the ward's 141 votes.

Polls today will close at 7 p.m.

Toastmasters To Hear Frazer Talk

Henry Frazer will be the main speaker at a weekly meeting of the Pampa Toastmasters Club tonight. The Toastmasters will meet at 6:15 p.m. in the Pampa Hotel to hear an address by Frazer and extemporaneous talks by Paul Ellison, Charles Nix and Dan Jones.

Charles Massey will be the general evaluator. An educational talk on the duties of a grammarian will be given by Griswold Rogers. Richard Cooke will be toastmaster of the evening.

Water Safety Registration Is Set Here

Registration for the Pampa Water Safety and Summer Recreation Program will begin Monday in the Chamber of Commerce conference room. Those persons who expect to take part in the first two week phase, June 22-July 3, of the program should register at that time, Clifton McNeely, coordinator, announced today.

The conference room will be open for three hours May 25, 26 and 27. Registration for the second two weeks, July 6-17, will be held Tuesday and registration for the third and final session, July 20-31, on Wednesday, May 27.

The hours are 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. each day. The total cost to registrants will be $1, covering swimming instruction and, for children, summer fun.

Mrs. Euna Lee Moores will be in charge of registration, assisted by staff aides and other volunteers.

The water safety program will be held at the City Pool, with beginner, intermediate, swimmer and adult beginner classes taught from 9 to 10 and 10 to 11 a.m.

Those interested in junior or senior lifesaving are invited to call the Red Cross office. Lifesaving classes will be set up prior to June 22.

Marion Fugate has begun a class at the Black Gold Motel for lifeguards of the Lefors Pool.

Value Days Set Here, July 1-3

A Merchants Activities sub-committee was set up this morning to work out details for Operation 1776, a Pampa Value Days promotion July 1, 2, 3. Members of the Chamber of Commerce Merchants Activities Committee set the dates this morning.

The committee also reaffirmed its previous action by which most merchants will be closed on Memorial Day and July 4. A subcommittee for a Rodeo Values Round-Up was also established. This promotion is set for Rodeo Week.

Rites Held For Father Of Pampans

Funeral services for Carl Maurice Johnson, father of Mrs. Riley S. Walters and Mrs. James Weatherly of Pampa, were held recently in Breckenridge. Mr. Johnson died of cancer last week at his Breckenridge home.

Mr. Johnson was born on March 12, 1899 in Greenville. He was reared in Jean, Tex., and married to the former Velma Whitt on Jan. 15, 1919 in Olney. The couple moved to Stephens County in 1927.

For many years Mr. Johnson was employed as an auto mechanic in Breckendridge. At the time that ill health forced his retirement, he was self-employed.

Pair Sentenced On DWI Counts

Two men were fined and both sentenced to three days in jail by a county court jury Monday for driving while intoxicated.

The jury found Ira Winfred Green, Pampa, guilty of drunken driving following a morning session. Green, who had entered a not guilty plea, was fined $225 and given three days in jail.

James William Stephen of Borger entered a plea of not guilty but was fined $200 and sentenced to three days.

Four other cases set for jury hearings were dismissed when the complaining witnesses failed to appear in court. The defendants were Albert Young and Norman Thornton, both charged with aggravated assault; Billy Morse, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor; and Joe Chambers, charged with disturbing the peace.

Counties included in the study are Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Carson, Gray, Wheeler, Armstrong, Donley and Collingsworth, all in Texas, and Ellis County, Oklahoma.

HERTER

—unless he did so at the end of the conference.

Implied Threat

Herter took this as an implied threat by Russia to reinstate its ultimatum if the conference did not go the way Russia liked. He told Gromyko the United States would not go to the summit under threat of a new cutoff date in Berlin.

Herter's non-nonsense stand — which officials said had firm British, French and West German support—came after the East and West for the first time formally rejected each other's rival plans for a European cold war settlement.

The Big Four foreign ministers were holding their seventh formal session this afternoon (10:30 a.m., e.d.t.) apparently deadlocked on the broad questions of German reunification, European security and disarmament.

Herter and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd meanwhile scheduled a noon conference with Gromyko—outside the regular program of the East-West conference —to try to agree on some means of ending nuclear test explosions and on how to enforce such an agreement.

They already were reported to have told the Russians that agreement to speed the nuclear talks, being held here by Anglo-American and Russian ambassadors, will not be enough to warrant a summit conference.

Doctors Should Know Today If Tumor Malignant

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A hospital spokesman said doctors should know today whether the tumor removed from the left breast of Mrs. Harry S. Truman was malignant.

Preliminary examinations indicated the growth was not malignant. It was removed during a two-hour and 45-minute operation Monday.

The former President paced the floor while his 74-year-old wife, Bess, was in surgery. He telephoned his daughter, Margaret, in New York once during the operation, and again immediately afterward.

Margaret, now Mrs. Clifton Daniel, is expecting a second child next month.

Truman told newsmen after the operation that it was a "grand success" and that his wife was in a "very satisfactory conditon." He looked tired. The spring was out of his step.

"I just don't feel like any pictures today," he told photographers.

The surgery was performed by Dr. Wallace Graham, the Trumans' family physician who attended them at the White House, and Dr. Phillip Reister, Graham's assistant.

Flash Flood Thunders Into St. Joseph, Mo.

United Press International

A flash flood sent six feet of water thundering into St. Joseph, Mo., Monday night, killing one man and forcing hundreds of persons to rooftops for safety.

The floodwaters subsided rapidly, uncovering the body of William McKinley Thomas, 62. Thomas' wife was missing and feared drowned.

Thomas' body was found near his car. Authorities believed he and his wife were washed from the auto by the wall of water.

The raging waters from Black Snake Creek and backed-up storm sewers came with such suddenness that residents had no time to flee. Instead they climbed to the roofs of their homes to await rescuers in boats.

The floods came in the wake of an unofficial 3.25-inch rain, one of a number of violent storms in Kansas, Iowa, Illinois and Missouri during the night.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old and fell in love with a boy 18. We asked our folks to sign for us to get married. At first they refused because Bud had to go to the Army. Then they agreed on the condition that we promise not to live like man and wife until after Bud gets back from the Army. They said that way I could draw his allotment check and we wouldn't have to worry about having children before we could afford it. Abby, Bud and I didn't keep our part of the bargain and I am pregnant. I am afraid to tell my mother. Please tell me what to do and where I can go: I hate myself for sinning this way.

SINNING

DEAR SIXTEEN: Tell your mother at once. If your parents consented to your marriage they had no right to forbid you to consummate it. You made a foolish promise but you committed no sin. Stay home until your husband can make a home for you elsewhere. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: I go with a fellow who says he likes me very much. I go steady with him, but he isn't going steady with me. We have no agreement, but I never accept another date because I am always waiting until the last minute in hopes that he will call me. Sometimes he calls and sometimes he doesn't. I know he's made dates in advance with other girls, and when he can't get anyone else, he calls me. I am a little tired of playing second fiddle. Have you any advice?

"SECOND FIDDLE"

DEAR "SECOND FIDDLE": What you need is a new "bow"!

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother who lets her little five-year-old boy hit her over the head with anything he happens to have in his hand when he gets mad? A toy gun, a car, it doesn't matter what. She just laughs and says it doesn't hurt and makes no effort to correct him. I feel sorry for her.

NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Don't waste your sympathy on the mother. The boy will need it when he goes to school and uses those tactics on his teacher and classmates. When a mother fails to teach her child how to control his temper, the child learns it the hard way and pays dearly for the lesson.

DEAR ABBY: I gave my husband a surprise party for his birthday. Naturally everybody gave him a kiss and wished him a happy birthday, but this one cousin of mine took advantage of the occasion. When she kissed him you could have counted to twenty-five before she let go. This may seem like nothing to you but it is plenty to me. I am still so mad I can't look her in the face and she lives around the corner from me, which makes it awkward. My husband says to forget it. How can I?

STILL MAD

DEAR STILL: Put it down as a little stunt to get attention, prompted by the excitement of the celebration — and forget it. We've all got kissing cousins.

RUTH MILLETT

Dr. Smiley Blanton who has written a book "Now or Never: The Promise of the Middle Years" refers to the years between youth and old age as the "magnificent middle years."

It's a nice - sounding phrase—but does it really mean anything?

They can be and they are magnificent if—

You don't strive to imitate the young but are quite willing to act your age.

You have learned the all important lesson that you and you alone are responsible for your own happiness.

You have begun to learn how to conservve your strength and budget your time so that you have both the hours and the energy for the things you really want to do.

You have given up the idea that the world should revolve around you and are happy to be a small frog in a big puddle.

You realize that life is too short to be spent regretting the past, trying to change other people or carrying on personal feuds.

You know that it is much more satisfying to work for a sense of personal achievement than to knock yourself out trying to impress others.

You are eager to try new things and aren't afraid to take a chance or risk failure.

You still find learning exciting.

You don't assume that because you have never done a thing you aren't capable of doing it.

Manners Makes Friends

When you run into a person who may not remember you, don't put him on the spot by asking, "Do you remember me?"

Be kind enough to say, "You may not remember me. I'm John Smith. We met at the Jones house several years ago."

BE IT ORDAINED

BY THE CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS:

SECTION 1. TITLE

This ordinance shall be known as the "Natural Gas Code" of the City of Pampa and may be cited as such.

All such gas piping and gas appliances installed, replaced, maintained, or repaired within the corporate limits of the City of Pampa shall conform to the requirements of this ordinance and to the specifications, rules, and regulations entitled "City of Pampa Gas Code" approved and adopted by the City Commission of the City of Pampa, Texas, at its meeting held on the 31st day of March, 1959, by Resolution No. 558R, which specifications, rules, and regulations are hereby incorporated herein by reference and made a part of this ordinance as if fully set forth herein. Copies of such specifications, rules, and regulations shall be kept on file in the office of the Secretary of the City of Pampa, Texas. In any instance wherein Resolution No. 558R shall be in conflict with any of the provisions of this ordinance, the latter shall govern.

SECTION 3. USE OF EXISTING PIPING AND APPLIANCES

Notwithstanding any provision in this ordinance to the contrary, consumer's piping installed prior to the adoption of this ordinance or piping installed to supply other than natural gas may be converted to natural gas, if the Inspector finds, upon inspection and proper tests, that such piping will render reasonably satisfactory gas service to the consumer and will not in any way endanger life or property; otherwise, such piping shall be altered or replaced, in whole or in part, to conform with the requirements of this ordinance.

SECTION 4. BOND AND LICENSE

(a) No person shall engage in or work at the installation, extension, alteration, of consumer's gas piping or certain gas appliances, until such person shall have executed and delivered to the City of Pampa a good and sufficient bond in the penal sum of $1,000, with corporate surety, conditioned for the faithful performance of all such work, entered upon or contracted for, in strict accordance and compliance with the provisions of this ordinance. SECTION 6. POWERS AND DUTIES OF INSPECTOR

(a) The Inspector is authorized and directed to enforce all of the provisions of this ordinance, and the Inspector, upon presentation of proper credentials, may enter any building or premises at reasonable times for the purpose of making inspections or preventing violations of this ordinance.

(b) The Inspector is authorized to disconnect any gas piping or fixture or appliance for which a certificate of approval is required but has not been issued with respect to same, or which, upon inspection, shall be found defective or in such condition as to endanger life or property. In all cases where such a disconnection is made, a notice shall be attached to the piping, fixture, or appliance disconnected by the Inspector, which notice shall state that the same has been disconnected by the Inspector, together with the reason or reasons therefor, and it shall be unlawful for any person to remove said notice or reconect said gas piping or fixture or appliance without authorization by the inspector and such gas piping or fixture or appliance shal not be put in service or used until the inspector has attached his certificate of approval in lieu of his prior disconnection notice.

(b) When only temporary use of gas is desired, the inspector may issue a permit for such use, for a period of not to exceed sixty (60) days, provided the consumer's gas piping to be used is given a test equal to that required for a Final Piping inspection.

(b) FINAL PIPING INSPECTION shall be made after all piping authorized by the permit has been installed and after all portions thereof which are to be concealed by plastering or otherwise have been so concealed, and before any fixtures or gas appliances have been attached thereto. This inspection shall include a pressure test, at which time the piping shall stand an air pressure equal to not less than the pressure of a column of mercury six (6) inches in height, and the piping shall hold this air pressure for a period of at least ten (10) minutes without any perceptible drop. A mercury column gauge shall be used for the test. All tools, apparatus, labor and assistance necessary for the tests shall be furnished by the installer of such piping.

Massive Airlift Broke Eleven Month Berlin Blockade In '49

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

Ten years ago last week the Soviets gave up on their greatest effort thus far to squeeze the Allies out of Berlin.

On May 12, 1949, Dr. Philip C. Jessup of the United States and Jakob Malik of the Soviet Union concluded in New York successful negotiations to end Russia's Berlin blockade.

It was a decisive defeat for the Soviet Union, won by the West through a combination of grim determination and a massive airlift which kept two and a half million West Berliners supplied with the essentials by air alone.

It lasted for nearly 11 months, during which in one record day the Allies poured nearly 13,000 tons into West Berlin's three airports aboard 1,383 flights.

Lives Were Lost

It was not without cost in human life. Thirty-one American and 39 British airmen died to keep the airlift going.

The foreign ministers' conference which began Monday, May 11, in Geneva, is the 15th since Allied victory in Europe in 1945. Nearly half of those meetings have been devoted to fruitless efforts to find a basis agreeable to both East and West for a German peace treaty and an end to the occupation of Berlin.

The course of those meetings has shown the steady deterioration of relations between the Soviet Union and the Western powers, from devoted allies to open threats of a shooting war.

As this deterioration progressed, drastic changes began taking place in the relationships between the Western powers and the 40 million people of West Germany. A review is enlightening.

In 1945, at Yalta, President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill of Britain and Premier Josef Stalin of the Soviet Union agreed to the broad outlines of a plan for Germany. The plan had been proposed by the late Henry Morgenthau, former U.S. secretary of the Treasury.

It would have reduced Germany virtually to an agricultural state, devoid of the industrial tools for making war.

In 1946, the Allied Control Council limited Germany's industrial output to 50 per cent of the 1938 level.

But in 1947, after unsuccessful meetings of the foreign ministers in London and in Moscow, came the first of the drastic changes.

The Allies had failed to reach agreement on reunification of Germany, and the United States, Britain and France, independent of the Soviet Union, announced West Germany would be permitted to produce peace-time goods up to 95 per cent of 1938 levels.

Germany was on her way once again as a great industrial power.

Events Moved Swiftly

As the Allies drifted farther and farther apart, events in West Germany moved swiftly.

In 1948, the Western Allies announced a currency reform for West Germany, divorcing Western currency from the East. The currency reform was a trigger to the Berlin blockade.

In 1951, the Western Allies lifted the last restrictions on West Germany's peacetime production.

Dr. Kozol Urges Reasonable Treatment For Psychopaths

Science Today
By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — One scientific view of psychopaths is that withoua them "there would be little if any art, literature, music or science—or crime."

"One does not have to be a psychopath to be a creator or a criminal, but it helps," according to Dr. Harry L. Kozol, neurologist of Harvard University.

He was urging what he considered a more reasonable treatment of criminal psychopaths by both the law and psychiatrists. Both tend to keep them out of mental hospitals where they might be helped and to keep them in jails where they aren't helped, he complained.

Kozol began by trying to say plainly what is a psychopath.

Most Non-conformists

"Although there are vast differences between individual psychopaths, there are even greater differences between them and the average (normal?) members of the community," he said. "A single generalization about psychopaths would characterize them as non-conformists.

"Is there any difference between legal non-conformity and artistic or literary or even academic non-conformity? I doubt if there is. In my opinion there is no basic difference between the psychopath who enriches society and the one who robs it. They are cut of the same cloth, and any apparent difference is in their goals rather than in their substance."

He wasn't concerned for the enriching psychopaths. Society rewards them generously, he said, "and has often overlooked or forgiven very serious deviations from conventional norms of behavior." Nor was he critical of society's vigilance toward anti-social psychopaths.

Some Are Threats

"It certainly cannot afford to be complacent about them," he said. "Whereas some are merely nuisances, others are genuine threats. There appears to be a vast aggregate of such anti-social individuals who appear to be dedicated inexorably to making trouble for themselves and others.

"Can anyone question how close psychopaths have come to the conquest and destruction of the present social order? The psychopath of tomorrow will be no different from the psychopath of yesterday. He will either enrich and create civilizations, or he will impoverish and destroy them."

The thing for society to do is "to reconize and rehabilitate the psychopath at the earliest possible moment in the hope of preventing anti-social behavior and channeling his energies into socially contributive pursuits," he said.

Hale Center, Tex., Farmer Reports—

8100-pound Average Grain Sorghum Yield

J. C. Hurt, successful farm owner of Hale Center, reports unusually high yields of grain sorghum: He says: "Planning with J. W. Trimmier, Sr., tenant, on the proper use of Phillips 66 Ammonia and water really paid off for us.

"On one plot of 18 acres, we planted our sorghum on 20-inch rows. We side dressed it with 100 pounds of Phillips 66 Ammonia when it was five inches high. Then, following careful use of our water, we cut an average of 8100 pounds per acre from this plot. On another 300 acres, using 100 pounds of ammonia and the right amount of water, we averaged 6000 pounds.

"Without ammonia, the average yield around here is about 3000 pounds."

Other successful Southwestern farmers have discovered that they make more profit per acre, using Phillips 66 Ammonia. They get more cotton that classes higher at the gin . . . yields of sorghum grain or ensilage are increased . . . profits on wheat and small grains are increased through higher grain yields and improved forage . . . more marketable vegetables are harvested.

Phillips 66 Ammonia can be easily applied either by you or your distributor. See us today about Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia . . . it gives you more nitrogen per dollar than any other form of fertilizer—a full 82%.

Eisenhower Fights To Balance Budget

WASHINGTON WINDOW
By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's belligerent stance in dealing with Congress this year finds him close to 180 degrees from the position he took in the earlier years of his administration.

Whereas he used to propose and let Congress dispose, he now appears more willing to fight at a time when the Democrats have gained top-heavy majorities in the House and Senate. While he has lost some skirmishes this year, he has not yet lost the war.

There is evidence that the new Republican congressional leaders—Rep. Charles A. Halleck and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen—have had a hand in prodding the President into more aggressive opposition to the Democrats in Congress.

Thus he sent his extraordinary message to Congress this week scolding the legislative branch for inaction on his recommendations for dealing with the highway program, the wheat surplus and housing. It was the sort of thing that Harry S. Truman might have enjoyed.

Unattractive Issue

Six months ago, Republican professionals nursing their wounds after 1958 election defeats were lamenting that there were no votes in advocating a balanced budget. Democrats felt the same way when the Senate passed bills early this year with housing, depressed area and airport programs more liberal than Eisenhower proposed.

But now under Eisenhower's lead, the GOP is acting as if there were hardly an issue worth mentioning after a balanced budget. It could be that the fading of the recession made the issue more popular.

THE 'BIG' STORY

Wynn, Spahn May Win 300

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

It's no idle chatter when Early Wynn and Warren Spahn say they may wind up their careers in the charmed circle of 300-game winners.

Only six modern pitchers have reached that majestic total but the seemingly indestructible Wynn and Spahn just keep rolling along toward the goal. Wynn, 39, is pitching his best ball in three years this season and Spahn, 38, is rolling again after a slightly faltering start.

Wynn pitched the Chicago White Sox into first place in the American League for the first time since June 27, 1957, Monday night when he beat the Washington Senators, 9-2, and Spahn topped the San Francisco Giants, 4-2, to help the Milwaukee Braves stretch their National League lead to 3½ games.

It was the 255th victory of Wynn's 20-year career while Spahn registered the 251st triumph of a 15-year career. Cy Young, Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Eddie Plank and Lefty Grove are the only modern pitchers who have reached the 300-mark for their careers.

The White Sox tagged Chuck Stobbs for three runs in the first inning and kept drawing further and further away. Wynn, whose record is 6-2, lost a bid for the 40th shutout of his career when Reno Bertoia hit a two-run homer in the sixth inning.

The victory, coupled with the Baltimore Orioles' 3-0 decision over the Cleveland Indians, gave the White Sox a three-point hold on first place. They shared the top spot the first four days of this season but this is the first time they had sole occupancy since 1957.

Spahn struck out six and scattered nine hits in posting his fifth win of the year for the Braves. The veteran pitcher also singled to touch off the Braves' decisive sixth-inning rally—a rally capped when Hank Aaron bombed a double off the center field fence in San Francisco.

Skinny Brown and Billy Loes combined in the six-hit shutout of the Indians. Don Ferrarese walked in the first Baltimore run and three singles, a sacrifice and an infield out produced the other two Oriole tallies in the fifth.

The Detroit Tigers crushed the Boston Red Sox, 14-2, in an American League day game and the Cincinnati Reds beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 9-7, in the other N.L. game. The other teams were not scheduled.

Pitcher Jim Bunning drove in five runs with a homer, triple and two singles as the Tigers battered four Boston pitchers for 16 hits.

Vada Pinson doubled home two runs in the eighth inning after Johnny Temple and Gus Bell homered in the fifth for the big blows of Cincinnati's victory over the Dodgers.

PROMOTES NEGRO BASEBALL

NEW YORK (UPI) Sid Gordon a former National Leaguer with the Giants, Braves and Pirates, will help promote Negro National League baseball at Yankee Stadium this summer. The first game will be a doubleheader between the Kansas City Monarchs and the Memphis Red Sox June 7.

Openers Delayed In Little Leagues

The Little League baseball openers, originally scheduled for tonight, have been postponed for a week. Work has not been completed on the three Optimist Club parks—Western League, Eastern League, and Pony League.

Eastern League president Bill Jenkins asked Optimist Club members Monday night to put in all the time they possibly could on the fields between now and next week, to get them ready for play. He asked that there be no workouts on the three fields until work is completed.

Jenkins said that, despite the week's delay, there will still be almost three weeks between the end of the season and the opening of the regional tournament, so the delay should not cause any scheduling difficulties.

The Pampa Industrial Softball League will begin its season tonight, as scheduled, with two games at Lions Park and one game at Bowers Park. All six teams in the league will be in action.

At Lions Park, Kempa Humble will play the Sinclair Oilers at 7 p.m. and Electric Supply will go against Panhandle Packing at 9 p.m. At Bowers Park, Phillips will play Somerville 66 at 7 p.m.

Whazzis? Senators Lead In Homers!

By SAM FOGG
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Time was when a Washington baseball fan could sit in comparative security in Griffith Stadium's left field bleacher beer garden to watch a game.

This year, he has to maintain constant vigil lest a baseball propelled by one of his home team heroes comes plopping into his suds.

It all boils down to the surprising fact the Senators are leading the American League in home run output, and the beer garden is their favorite target.

As of 35 games through Monday, the Senators had whacked 35 home runs—20 of them in their own park which has no Chinese paint to it.

Bellwether of the Washington bombardment, of course, is young Harmon Killebrew who is leading the league with 14 homers this year. In his eye-popping performance, Killebrew has on five occasions smashed two home runs in a single game. His last two-homer performance was Sunday against the Chicago White Sox when he had a touch of flu.

Worth noting in the Senator slugging performance is the fact that Roy Sievers, who was home run king with 42 two years ago and hit 39 last season, has been declined much of this year and has chipped in with only two thus far.

Jim Lemon has belted nine, Rookie Bob Allison eight, Reno Bertoia six, Ron Samford two, and Ken Aspromonte one.

The blows have been paying off. Homers have figured in 15 of the victories the club has won. Attendance is, starting to surpass that of recent years. The Senators, picketed for eighth place in preseason predictions, are in fourth place.

Their best home run record was last season when they clocked 121. They're well over a third of the way to surpass that after 35 games this year, and the beer drinkers are restless these nights.

For instance, when Killebrew hit his second homer on Sunday, some of the fans in the beer garden area kicked loose the boards barricading them from left field. In a spirit of togetherness they held the fence up until the end of the game, then let it collapse on the field.

Pampa Skaters Sweep Field

The team of skaters representing the Pampa Skating Club walked off with the majority of honors at the Skating meet held at the Pampa Roller Rink Sunday. The meet was the First Annual Pampa Championships.

The Pampa club challenged the clubs from Amarillo, Borger and Clovis. Points were awarded for each of the first four places, 10 pts. for 1st, 7 for 2nd, etc. Final point standings for the teams were Pampa — 191, Amarillo — 174, Clovis — 35, and Borger — 14.

The Pampa team won 11 first places to seven for Amarillo and one for Clovis while Borger was shut out of the winners circle.

Members of the Pampa Skating Club competing were: Teddy Heiskell, Cynthia Rasco, Susan Dorley, Morriss Johnson, Grover Heiskell, Linda Nelson, Dean Bettis, Kay Lard, Freddy Thurman, Kristi Kemp, Erma Henson, Barbara Spinks, Ann Stein, Carolyn Watson, Vicki Heiskell, Bobby Nelson and Mike King.

Besides the 11 first places the Pampa team garnered points with six seconds, one third, and three fourth place finishes and placed lower than fourth in only two events. Next competition will be the State Championships to be held this year in Houston on June 13, 14 and 15.

CHAMPION WHITE DEER DOES—One of the city's many newly-formed bowling teams, the White Deer Does, made a shambles of the Friday morning Housewives Bowling League this season at Harvester Bowl. The Does outdistanced a six-team field, and early this year placed high in the Women's City tournament. The Does, left to right, are Sharon Dickens, June Kelp, Delores Hodges and Pat McBrayer.

Texas Teams Take 5 of 6

United Press International

Texas League teams whipped Mexican League clubs 5-1 in the Pan American Loop Monday night. It was the second division teams that showed power.

Cellar-dwelling Amarillo smashed the Mexico City Red Devils 17-3 and Tulsa, in fifth place just ahead of Amarillo, pounded out a 15-6 margin over Poza Rica.

Amarillo's Al Nagel smacked a grand slam home run in the rout. He hit an earlier one with one aboard. Hank Moreno and Bert Barth also got four-base clouts.

Tulsa led Poza Rica 7-6 before its eight run outburst in the top of the ninth that put the Mexican club out of commission for the night.

Austin, tops in the Texas circuit, beat Monterrey, 6-4. Victoria defeated the Mexico City Tigers 11-7, Corpus Christi nudged Nuevo Laredo 7-4 and San Antonio, the only loser in the Texas loop, dropped a 7-3 decision to Veracruz.

It's the same scenery tonight with Nuevo Laredo at Corpus Christi, Mexico City's Tigers at Victoria, Monterrey at Austin, San Antonio at Veracruz, Tulsa at Poza Rica, and the Red Devils playing host to Amarillo.

REDSKINS SIGN BACK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins of the National Football League signed fullback Stan Chapin of Kansas as a free agent Monday. Chapin spent the past two years in the Coast Guard.

Notre Dame Will Televise All 1959 Football Games

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Notre Dame University announced today it will televise on a delayed basis all of its 1959 football games over a national network.

The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh president of Notre Dame, said the 10 games will be televised over a minimum of 115 stations from coast to coast. The telecasts will originate from WNDU-TV, university-owned station.

Transmission and network facilities will be provided by Sports Network, Inc., of New York. Because of the rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) governing telecasts of college football games, the Notre Dame games will be video-taped for delayed broadcasts.

Richard Bailey, president of Sports Network, Inc., said that while no definite times for the telecasts have been determined, most of them probably will be carried an hour before the telecasts of the Sunday games of the professional National Football League.

Sale and distribution of these telecasts has been assigned to United Press International. The package will be produced by Newspix, Inc., of New York, with Harry Wismer, one of the nation's leading sportscasters, handling the play-by-play. Edward (Moose) Krause, director of athletics at Notre Dame, will supply the color background.

Mims Thomason, first vice president and general business manager of United Press International, hailed the television arrangement as one that "will enable fans to see more college football games this season than any year since the NCAA began restricting the live telecasts of college football in 1951."

"Now the fans each week will be able to see Notre Dame against one of the top teams in the country," he added, pointing out that the 1959 Irish schedule includes these opponents:

Sept. 26, North Carolina (home) Oct. 3, Purdue, at Lafayette, Ind.; 10, California, at Berkeley, Calif.; 17, Michigan State, at Lansing, Mich.; 24, Northwestern (home); 31, Navy (home); Nov. 7, Georgia Tech (home); 14, Pitt at Pittsburgh; 21, Iowa, at Iowa City; 28, Southern California (home).

Thomason also revealed that United Press International is planning other television sports programs in collaboration with Newspix, Inc., which is a subsidiary of Bert A. Coleman Associates, Inc., of New York.

Joe Giambra Tops Jones

But 'Tiger' Lands Most Of The Damaging Punches

DALLAS (UPI) — Joey Giambra whipped Ralph (Tiger) Jones but you wouldn't know it today from looking at them.

Giambra, once a top challenger for the title held by Sugar Ray Robinson, scored a unanimous decision Monday night in the 10-round tussle with Jones, the New York middleweight trial horse.

Giambra says he's in good shape today and ready to challenge Robinson. His manager, Mike Scaniand, doesn't agree.

"He was too tense and trying too hard to please the crowd," Scaniand said. Giambra, formerly of Buffalo, N. Y., now calls Dallas his home.

It was the third straight victory for the good-looking Giambra, who is climbing back toward a top challenger's spot after a seven months' layoff because of an elbow injury.

Jones was virtually unmarked today. But Giambra sported a beaut of a right eye. It was swollen nearly closed. There were vivid red marks around both eyes, and when he climbed through the ropes after 30 minutes of Jones' punishing body blows, his left side looked like raw hamburger.

Jones, who holds a non-title decision over Robinson, said he thought he won, or the least he would get was a draw. "I threw more punches," he said.

But referee Tom Attra scored it 99-94 for Giambra, and the two judges had it 99-93 and 99-95. The United Press International scorecard agreed with Attra.

Giambra, weighing 156, used sharp counter-attack combinations to build up an easy lead over the two pounds heavier Jones. In the fifth Joey jolted Jones with a series of lefts and rights on the button, but the New York battler survived the barrage and bored in to carry the battle back.

Scaniand said he would try to get a couple of "spots" for Giambra before seriously challenging Robinson. "That is, of course, if they can't slip Robinson down here in the meantime," he added quickly.

Basilio To Testify Before Commission

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Carmen Basilio and co-manager Johnny DeJohn are slated to be star witnesses Wednesday at the continuation of Sugar Ray Robinson's title hearing.

Carmen, former middleweight champion, and his co-pilot have accepted an invitation from the New York State Athletic Commission to attend the session. It was an invitation, not an order.

Their readiness to be honored guests at Sugar Ray's trial may have been inspired by curiosity about the certified check for $225,000 that Irving B. Kahn is offering Basilio if he'll fight champion Robinson at Philadelphia Sept. 21.

DeJohn announced Monday night at Pittsburgh that he and Carmen would be present Wednesday. Johnny and Carmen stopped off at Pittsburgh while en route from Syracuse, N.Y., to Weirton, W. Va., where they'll attend a fight tonight.

Before Monday's hearing was adjourned to Wednesday, Robinson's attorney, Martin Machat, asked the commission to send for Carmen and Johnny.

Machat wants them as defense witnesses, who may explain their alleged reluctance to negotiate with promoter Sam Rose of Philadelphia and his agent, Harold Salkind, for the Philadelphia fight.

Robinson signed a solo contract for the bout—their third (rubber) title match—on May 12, and he has been offering Basilio the "biggest purse of his career" if he, too, would sign. But Carmen and co-managers DeJohn and Joe Netro have been regarding the entire Philadelphia deal as a "phony," aimed at saving what's left of the Sugar man's title.

The National Boxing Association vacated Robinson's 160-pound title on May 4 for his failure to defend in nearly 14 months. And the independent New York commission would have stripped him of the rest of his crown last Friday, "the deadline," were it not for Robinson's shouted guarantees of a fabulous purse for Carmen.

Accordingly, the commission — instead of vacating Ray's title Friday—granted him this week's hearing in which he must prove he has gone all out to make the Philadelphia match.

Brenham finished 6-3-1 last season.

Most Of Top Golfers Reach The U.S. Open

NEW YORK (UPI)—Most of the nation's better golfers survived preliminary qualifying skirmishes for berths in the U.S. Open golf championship but among the familiar names missing today were Jimmy Demaret, long-hitting George Bayer and big Tim Holland, who created a sensation last season by reaching the semi-finals of the British Amateur.

They were the leading casualties as more than 2,000 pros and amateurs in 56 cities battled for the 403 places available in a second series of trials coming up June 1. Another 21 will qualify at Chicago today plus four more at Des Moines, Iowa, where heavy rains forced postponement of the second 18 Monday.

With 69 leading players exempt from Monday's tests, the sniring ran fairly true to form. Pros Gardner Dickinson, Bill Collins and Ewing Pomeroy paced the nation with brilliant 36-hole totals of 135 and failures among "name" players were infrequent.

But some of the glitter went out of America's biggest championship, scheduled at Mamaroneck, N.Y., June 11-13, when Demaret, Bayer and Holland failed to get their names on the qualifying rosters in their local sections.

Demaret was entered at Houston and Bayer at Little Rock. Holland made a hot late run in the Long Island, N.Y., section but lost out in a three-way playoff for the final Open berth.

Horton Smith missed at Detroit, Toney Penna failed at Cincinnati, Dale Morey grabbed a shaky alternate's spot at Indianapolis and Marvin (Bud) Ward missed out at San Francisco.

Two surprises: Quarterback John Brodie of the San Francisco Forty-Niners led the San Francisco section with 71-76—147 and former big league pitcher Lou Kretlow of Edmond, Okla., got in with 154 at Oklahoma City.

Forty-nine of the 69 exempt from Monday's trials will have to play in the next eliminations June 1. In that group are Sam Snead, Mike Souchak, Art Wall Jr., Arnold Palmer, Doug Ford, and Ken Venturi.

Another 20, including defending champ Tommy Bolt, Ben Hogan, Cary Middlecoff and Dow Finsterwald, automatically qualify for a berth in the Open's starting field of 150 at Winged Foot June 11.

Freeman Magazine

For a number of years we have been an enthusiastic reader of "The Freeman Magazine." This little magazine has had a somewhat stormy career since it first got started as the brain child of Albert Jay Nock a pair of decades ago.

At present it is in the competent hands of the Foundation for Economic Education and constitutes its major contemporary output. Persons who are not getting this magazine can easily do so. There is no subscription fee and your name and address sent to Foundation for Economic Education, Irvington - on - Hudson, New York, will bring it to you every month without charge. In the event you wish to assist the Foundation in meeting its expenses, the organization is tax exempt and does receive and welcome voluntary contributions.

The reason we are mentioing this magazine at this time is because we have the May, 1959 issue on our desk at the moment. And we have been more than pleased with this particular issue. The particular article which spurs us to comment is called: "A Child's Diary" written by Rose Grieco, who is herself a teacher of dramatics and dancing and who is sponsored by the PTA.

From this, to us, dubious background, Miss Grieco has penned an absorbing account of the intimate thoughts and desires of a little eleven year old girl. It is must reading.

The child finds herself in the midst of a battle ground between her parents; mother, a busy soul doing good by means of the PTA and the Brownies and similar public organizations; daddy, the hero in her childish eyes, who wants mother to stay at home once in a while and serve a meal consisting of something other than scrambled eggs. We can't begin to convey the simplicity and charm mof Miss Grieco's writing and woul suggest that ALL members of various PTA groups and other busybody organizations read this item over carefully for a bit of soul searching on their own.

If you happen not to be particularly interested in the problems of 11 year olds, there is plenty of other solid and engrossing stuff between the covers of this pocket size periodical. Authors to be found in the May issue include Oscar W. Cooley, Henry Hazlitt, William Henry Chamberlin, Vollie Tripp, H. P. B. Jenkins, Sylvester Petro, E. F. Hutton, Leonard Read and John Chamberlain. This is a truly worth while publication and no family should be without it.

Will Highways Go?

As most of us are already sadly aware, the federal government of the United States has embarked upon a massive program of highway building. Billions are being spent. Great tracts of land are being split up and buried under layers of poured concrete. Private homes have been pre-empted in favor of the age of four, six and eight wheeled locomotion behind gasoline and diesel engines. And when the whole program was outlined and rammed thru the Congress, one was supposed to believe that without this enormous expenditure of time and treasure, the nation would revert shortly to a horse-and-buggy status.

It is now possible, despite the gloomy forebodings of those who envisioned a virtual economic collapse of the empire without this highways system, that when these gigantic roadways are completed they will be the most silly and outmoded devices ever constructed. According to advices reaching us, the day of wheeled vehicular traffic is perhaps drawing to a close.

And we are vigorously reminded once more that when force is applied to the collection of funds for the presumed "public good" that no market place criteria can be invoked, and that therefore we never know whether the assumed benefit would be a real one, or a needless burden upon the taxpayers.

If only free enterprise built the roads as well as the vehicles!

But, alas, we have been committed to the fallacy that only government can build roads. Now, it appears, the government will have built about $10 billion worth of roads that will be obsolete before the concrete hardens.

What is the reason for this? While the government and its dependents have been clamoring for the super-highway, private enterprise has been seeking to provide a better vehicle. From reliable sources we understand that the super-vehicle is almost with us, a type of "flying-saucer" which the Army has dubbed a "ground proximity" type of transportation. It is, in short, a flying automobile which will not require highways.

The free enterprise agencies which are working toward this super-vehicle include such as the Ford Motor Company, Spacetronics, Inc., and the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corporation, among others. These staunchly private enterprise firms are in the process now of testing a machine which operates on a cushion of air which is projected under pressure beneath a vehicle and thus lifts it sufficiently from the ground so that no ground friction (or wheels) is necessary.

Also in experimental stages are such things as a flying train which will travel up to 300 miles per hour at a height of one or two feet above a concrete roadbed shaped like an inverted V. Steel rails will be things of the past.

Then there's to be a seagoing, ocean proximity ship that can float, rise 20 to 50 feet above the surface of the water, and travel between the continents at speeds up to 175 miles per hour.

Of greatest interest to passenger car users of today, is the passenger vehicle designed for private operation. This will be a car, able to rise into the air without a runway or landing field; to hover motionless in the air, and to proceed with greater margins of safety than any known wheeled vehicle at speeds in excess of anything our highways can stand.

Some have dubbed this private passenger car a "flying mattress" which will require little more than a cleared area over which to proceed. Highways will be as useless to it as a whip and harness shop is to a present day motorist. Best of all is the good news that these low-flying space vehicles will probably be priced below $4,000 and some have actually forecast a small car of the air-borne variety which would cost less than $1,000.

Army, Navy and Air Force are experimenting with these devices for military use and one Department of Defense official has been quoted as saying: "I've never seen anything like it in all the years I've spent in aviation, and that's most of my life."

government g n nupt

So, the penalty for relying upon government to provide highways, may end up being those very highways, outmoded, choked with weeds and as antique and unwanted as the dodo.

When will we learn to rely upon private enterprise and the inventiveness and ingenuity of free people who are filled with personal incentive; who long to make a profit; and in the search for these rewards, can and will advance us repeatedly into new ages of convenience and enjoyment?

U.S. Debts $850 Billion

I have been attempting to report what Dr. Medford Evans estimated the national obligations of the federal government were in 1957.

He started with $275 billion admitted debts. He added $105 billion of appropriations and hangovers at the beginning of each fiscal year. This brought the total up to $380 billion.

Then he estimated the best guess of the federal government's obligation to Social Security not to pay in dollars but to take care of the needs of the public was $350 billion. This brought the total obligations to $730 billion. Then he estimated the contingent liabilities at that time amounted to another $100 billion.

He pointed out that the Federal Housing Administration had guaranteed $18 billion in mortgaged loans up to that time; that this amount has greatly increased since that time. Then he observes:

"When you consider what tiny equities many of the owners of these homes have in them because of the small down payments that were required, you can readily imagine the wave of foreclosures that the first winds of a depression would roll up against these properties. The resulting cost of the government of making good its guaranties of the mortgages, under the forced-sale conditions which would follow, would be sizable."

Then he points out that besides these actual guaranties of mortgaged loans, the government has obligations such as "agreements to make or insure loans, purchase mortgages, or make other payments." As of November, 1956, this amounted to $8 billion 300 million.

So Dr. Evans concludes that a safe estimate of these guarantees would be $100 billion. Adding this to the $730 billion we had above, we have $830 billion in indebtedness up to October, 1957. And for the fiscal year 1958-59 we are going in debt $13 billion, and other guarantees would bring it up to at least $850 billion.

Dr Evans doesn't even include such a small item as $5½ billion in claims against the government that Willis Stone points out there are on file against the War Department for cancelling contracts.

$5,000 debt for every person

If we would divide $850 billion into the 170 million citizens in the United States, we find that every man, woman and child in the U. S. owes to the federal government alone $5,000. When we add what he owes to the state, county, city, board of education and different other local governments, the amount is astonishing.

Dr. Evans goes on to show the total federal government assets, including everything, amounts to in the neighborhood of $200 billion. So the federal government is in the red $650 billion.

Ability To Tax

Then Evans writes: "But with 200 billion in assets and 800 billion in liabilities, your federal government would be hopelessly insolvent, if it were not for one asset which the (First National City Bank of New York) mentioned in their monthly letter but did not capitalize — the power to tax.

"How much is this last asset worth? There are two limits on it: (1) the ability and (2) the willingness of the taxpayers. One estimate, which seems to be as authoritative as any we could find, gives the total financial resources of United States taxpayers in 1954 as 588 billion 400 million dollars. The same authority gives a grand total of the current value of all property of every kind in the United States in 1948 as 797 billion dollars. If the latter figure includes property owned by the federal, state, and local governments, as well as nontaxable property, as it apparently does, the figures seem to jibe fairly well. And if the first amount has increased by 3 per cent, compounded annually, then United States taxpayers have a total net worth today of 643 billion dollars. For the federal government to make itself barely solvent tomorrow, therefore, it would have to take all but 43 billion dollars of everything of every kind which every taxpayer in the United States owns. That prospect certainly raises the question of the second limitation, the willingness of the taxpayers."

Willingness To Pay Taxes

"Of course, the willingness to pay taxes depends a great deal on how the tax money is to be spent — just as the willingness to help any other debtor depends on his expenses and to put his affairs in order. If our federal government, reversing its attitude of callous indifference to the consequences of its financial folly, would discontinue its wild spending and profligate waste, and begin to act like a responsible debtor seriously concerned with the threat and the consequences of bankruptcy, there is no doubt that the taxpayers would have both the ability and the willingness to see it through to solid ground again. • • •"

"But what happens otherwise? The answer has been given a hundred times in history."

Dr. Evans closes with this statement:

"What is our national debt? It is the greatest danger our country and our people have ever faced."

Robert Allen Reports:

Strauss Expected To Be Okayed by Senate

WASHINGTON — Commerce Secretary Lewis Strauss will be confirmed by the Senate.

Despite the long and turbulent fight against him, some 20 Democrats are privately listed as set to vote for the controversial cabinet member. With solid Republican support, this sizable Democratic backing gives him a safe majority.

That is forecast in two polls, one Democratic and the other Republican.

So, barring an unforeseen explosion, such as caused Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce to resign after winning Senate approval as Ambassador to Brazil, Strauss finally appears headed for confirmation.

According to these backstage polls, the Democrats now planning to vote for him include:

Senators Harry Byrd and A. Willis Robertson, Va.; John Stennis and James Eastland, Miss.; Strom Thurmond, S.C.; John Pastore, R.I.; Allen Frear, De.; Frank Lausche, O.; Albert Gore, Tenn., in direct contradiction to the anti-Strauss stand of Estes Kefauver; and Dennis Chavez, N.M., who is also differing with his colleague, Clinton Anderson, head of the Joint Atomic Committee and a leading Strauss critic.

Senators Lausche, Pastore and Thurmond are members of the Interstate Commerce Committee that is conducting the hearings on Strauss. Their votes will give him a 9 to 8 margin there for a favorable vote.

Notwithstanding the two pro-Strauss polls, the fight against him is far from over. If anything, his foes are intensifying their efforts to defeat him.

One of their moves is to make his confirmation a partisan issue.

The Senate Democratic Policy Committee has been sounded out on this. But while the group has discussed it, nothing has been done. Further, the chances are strong against anything being done because of the large number of Democrats leaning toward Strauss.

Also being considered by the opposition is raising a stormy issue over certain changes reputedly made by Strauss in the transcript of the Commerce Committee's hearings.

Even if Strauss is confirmed by the Senate, that will not end his difficulties on Capitol Hill.

Already, in the expectation he will be approved, a committee in the House and another in the Senate are preparing to subject him to new grilling on certain operations of the Commerce Department in the seven months he has run it.

BATTLING HARRY — Former President Truman is embroiling himself in another noisy congressional issue — the tight money policy of the Federal Reserve Board.

Representative Wright Patman (D.,Tex.) long - time critic of the Federal Reserve, wants to investigate it, and Truman has promised to vigorously back him in putting that over.

For this purpose, he has authorized Patman to disclose a "secret" regarding Federal Reserve Chairman William McChesney Martin.

According to Truman, he appointed Martin as head of the Reserve Board in 1951 on the express understanding he would support maintaining the interest rate on government bonds at 2-½ percent.

At present, it is around 4 percent.

According to Truman, Martin is an important factor in this increase which has hiked government interest costs from $5 billion a year in 1952 to more than $8 billion.

Martin disclaims knowing anything about the interest rate understanding with Truman. But the former President told Patman:

"I had an explicit verbal agreement with Martin that he would use the Federal Reserve to keep the interest rate on government bonds from exceeding 2-½ percent. That was the express figure, and that was our understanding when I made him chairman of the Reserve Board. At that time, he was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under Secretary John Snyder. There was no ifs, ands or buts about my agreement with Martin."

"Can I tell that to the Joint Congressional Economic Committee?" asked Patman. "I'm proposing an investigation of the Reserve Broad's tight money policy, and this account of yours will shed important light on the subject."

"You have my full permission to make what I have told you public," replied Truman, "and that isn't all. If you want me to do so, I will be glad to come to Washington and testify regarding this understanding with Martin. His reversal on this agreement with me has cost American taxpayers some 13 billion a year in interest charges. And unhappily that isn't the end of it, either. The way the Reserve Board is operating, interest charges will continue to go up."

"They certainly will," agreed Patman. "President Eisenhower will shortly ask Congress to raise the national debt ceiling to $290 billion. Treasury Secretary Anderson has already indicated that request will be forthcoming later this month. And he has also hinted they may ask for an increase in the official maximum interest rate of 4 percent. That's why I want an investigation, to get at the bottom of this tight money policy that is not curbing inflation but is constantly boosting interest rates and the national debt."

"You can count on me to the hilt in this fight," declared Truman. "It's of utmost importance, and it will be tragic if Congress does not thoroughly investigate this vital matter."

At present there are two statutory national debt limits: A permanent one of $283 billion, and a temporary one, expiring June 30, of $283 billion. Both are compromises voted by Congress last year when the President sought a permanent increase to $285 billion.

Currently, the national debt is running around $283 billion as compared to, approximately $275 billion last year this time. Since 1953, the President has asked for four hikes in the national debt.

If you want to quickly educate yourself on the nature of Communism and to be entertained while you are doing it, read: "The Great Prince Died", a new novel by Bernard Wolf, published by Scribners. Mr. Wolf documents an argument, long suppressed in the United States that Stalin deliberately sold out the Spanish Loyalists in an effort to appease Hitler into entering the Berlin - Moscow Pact. Ernest Hemingway, in his "For Whom the Bell Tolls", did not exactly foresee this, but he seems to have been disturbingly aware of the fact that the Communists in Spain seemed more interested in liquidating the Socialists and Democrats than in defeating the Fascists. J. Hernandez, the Moscow trained Commissioner General of the Loyalist army, writes in his book, "I Was A Minister of Stalin", about the two month battle of the Ebro in which 70,000 were slain. "Is it possible," he says, "that the Soviet military advisors did not know that pushing us into this battle was forcing us to commit suicide. They knew it well."

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — Into each life some rain must fall and lots of girls like to start the day by taking a shower. It was raining the other afternoon and when I got to her place on 10th Street, Cloris Leachman was taking a shower. The door between her living room and her bedroom and the door beyond that to her bathroom both were open and I heard the water cascading in there.

"Is it wet out?" she cried. I said it was.

"It's wet in here, too," she said. "I'll be out soon. I talked too much last night and didn't get to sleep until 7 o'cock this morning. What time is it?"

I said it was 3 o'clock and she said that was a fine hour for anybody to be getting up and why didn't I look at a magazine or something until she was ready to come out? She came out in four minutes, as fresh as a rose and without a trace of makeup. And clothes, of course.

"If you can stand me without makeup," she said, "talk to me while I get some breakfast. Some people can't stand me with makeup."

I said I thought she looked fine, which she did. We went into her kitchen and she squeezed four oranges into a beaker as deep as a vat, drained that off and then fell upon a cup of coffee. After the second cup she said she thought she might begin to make a little sense now and what was the news about England?

"Some dead, some dying," I said, stealing the line from 'Serena Blandish.' "But they hope to make everything come out their way. De Gaulle, meanwhile, is preserving a frozen silence."

"Well, let's not do that ourselves," she said. "Let's talk. I am just beginning to get into things at 'Touch Of The Poet,' and I doubt that three people alive realize what a difficult role Kim Stanley withdrew from and I went into. Last night was my fifth performance. Another three and I'll feel better about it, I hope. But everyone is being charming and helpful."

This meant that Eric Portman and Helen Hayes were making no difficulties for her, as co-stars. Miss Stanley had implied that her own experiences backstage with the O'Neill play had been less than poulticing. Miss Leachman didn't imply. She said right out that both of the stars were impeccably pleasant and helpful.

"I sometimes think we in theater tend to grow cacti when roses would have been better," she said. "I cannot speak for anyone else, and wouldn't if I could, but I have no reason to feel either neglected or put upon. I trust this stifles all base rumors, if any exist."

Miss Leachman, in case you want to know, speaks this way. Let not her fame as an almost Miss America, not so long ago, cause you to put her down as a good-looking, mightily good-looking, but brainsprung creature. She was known in her home town as Miss Intelligence of whatever year was involved. She still has a crackling brain that takes in more cosmic issues than who was at Sardi's last night and did yez hear about Sally Button and that boy boy from Princeton? When not using her brains to discuss world matters, she skitters off into hearty humors calculated to evoke bellows of laughter. Her humor is rich, earthy and useful.

She has had much good luck and some bad. She came straight from the Miss America finals at Atlantic City to understudy for Miss Hayes in "Happy Birthday," has illumined many another show, some pure dogs of plays, a movie or so and a stint as a farm mother in some soap opera on TV having to do with a collie dog. Missie, Lassie, something like that. I took great pains not to mention that incident, since if there ever was a bright and pretty young girl of talent ill equipped to make the role of farm mother credible, C. Leachman is that girl. She might have thrown the percolator at me. She has yet to achieve Her Triumph, as the saying goes, but it probably lies not too far away. Meanwhile, she has produced a theater - wide conviction that any role assigned to her is a role that will be played with distinction and flavor. You couldn't say much more than that about Sarah Bernhardt. She had distinction and flavor.

By this time Miss Leachman was thoroughly dry. I bid her good-day and went out into the rain again.

The Doctor Says:

by EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Polio has not been entirely conquered.

There are probably from 300,000 to 350,000 persons alive today in the United States alone who have had paralytic polio. Of these about 190,000 acquired the disease between 1947 and 1956.

Of the 190,000, 18,000 had no apparent disability when discharged from the hospital, 43,000 had slight muscle weakness, 78,000 had moderate paralysis, and 50,000 were severaly crippled.

Before 1900, polio was a relative rare disease in the United States. Since that time it has fluctuated both in frequency and as a cause of severe paralysis and death. Now, several years after the polio vaccine has been made available, serious problems remain.

For example, as pointed out in a pamphlet for the Health Information Foundation, last year eight states reported cases of paralytic polio in more than three per 100,000 inhabitants.

It is true that the greatest amount of trouble occurred in some portions of these states. Nevertheless, this indicates the importance of keeping up our guard.

There is overwhelming evidence that the full series of three or more polio inoculations provides a high level of protection. Like other preventive measures it does not, nor can it be expected to, give absolute protection.

But is is sufficiently great to make such an inoculation extremely advisable. The fourth inoculation in the nature of a booster dose is now under debate and is recommended by some.

One of the principal problems today is to being the benefits of the vaccine to all who need it, particularly persons under 40. This has not yet been done.

It has been estimated that by the end of 1958 41 million persons below the age of 40 had not been vaccinated at all. An additional 16 million were incompletely vaccinated.

Only one-half of the population below age 40 (about 57 million) had had the full series of three or more injections.

Vaccinations were distressingly few during 1958. The need for such vaccination is particularly great in preschool children and in persons between the ages of 20 and 39.

The search goes on for still better methods of prevention. New and more potent vaccines, and ones which can be taken by mouth, are being studied.

In the meantime, parents of children and young adults carry grave responsibility for seeing that their children or themselves are properly vaccinated.

No Use Asking For Some Household Items!

By HENRY MCLEMORE

If any of you visit us in the near future, please don't ask for any of the following items:

Lighter fluid.
Any medicine — liquid, capsule or pill.
Household cleaners.
Spot removers.
Candy balls.
Nuts.
Mints.
Chicken bones.
Matches.
Paint.
Varnish.
Kerosene, gasloine, tuprentine.

I ask you this because all these items, plus scores of others, are now kept on the roof of our house, and have been ever since Megan began crawling and I read an article about home safeguards for children.

Whenever one of these articles is needed I have to get the ladder from the garade, lean it against the house, and make what is for me a very dangerous ascension.

When Megan learns to walk, and that day is not far away, I am not sure what we'll do with these baby booby traps. I might forget to take down the ladder, and up she'd go to forage on the roof. A free balloon might be the only answer.

The article was the scariest I ever read. My first reaction was to get out of the house and move into a tent pitched on a tennis court.

No cupboards, drawers, ect., for baby hands to explore there. No, that's no good, she might get a leg caught in the net.

We had planned to buy a gate for the top of the stairs, but the article said gates were no safeguard — too many parents forgot to keep them locked — and that the only sure way to save the baby from nasty falls was to keep the baby away from the stairs.

This means I'll either have to quit my job, or set up office on the first landing. For Megan, even with the crawl as her only means of locomotion, is perpetual motion in diapers Couldn't someone invent a Toddler Tether that would keep a baby from ranging far and wide?

Even if I did set up office on the landing, I wouldn't be able to stay there. According to the article, lamp cords must be draped high over the shades at the break of day, a constant check kept on pot handles to see that they are turned in, and barricades erected at tables to keep the baby from crawling under and getting nasty head bumps.

Also, I must install a new safety lock on all bathroom doors, and, if I want to be extra, extra cautious, fix the windows so that they open only from the top.

It seems to me, now that Megan is on the move, that the best thing to do would be to dynamite the house we are in, and move into a linen closet at the nearest hospital. For, as yet, I haven't read where eating a few sheets and pillow cases is harmful to a baby.

UNIONS AND ANTI-TRUST LAWS
(N. Y. Daily News)

The Justice Department suspects Local 25 of David Dubinsky's International Ladies Garment Workers Union and three employer associations of conspiring to monopolize manufacture of women's blouses in the metropolitan area. Accordingly, Justice is bringing suit under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

The defendants obviously are worried; witness the fact that defense counsel will include Adlai Stevenson, ex-Judge Simon H. Rifkind, and ex-Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr.

Without trying to prejudge the case, we'll say it is a most interesting government attempt to smash alleged racketeering in industry via the anti-trust laws.

We've long thought it would be a good idea to make unions formally subject to those laws. But if this suit succeeds, there may be more of such flank attacks on racketeering labor leaders and managements addicted to shady or illegal practices, without the necessity of passing new laws on the subject.
