Increasing Cascade Of Bombs Poured On Japs Over Wide Area

Japs Make First Grudging Admission Of Losses In Bismarck Sea Battle; Claim Only 7 Ships And 7 Planes Are Lost

(By The Associated Press)

United Nations air power poured an increasing cascade of bombs on the Japanese from the Solomons to Burma, Allied communiques announced today, as dispatches from the United States Pacific fleet reported a general feeling among warship crews that the war in the Pacific is entering a new phase.

The widespread belief by the men who man the Navy's guns that the Allies are shifting to the offensive in that theater, as well as the European front, was given a boost by the smashing success of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen in destroying a 22-ship Japanese convoy off New Guinea last week.

Japs Admit Losses

Concerning that defeat the Japanese imperial headquarters today made its first grudging admission, though it was only a half-way acknowledgement in the light of Allied communiques from Australia.

The Japanese communique admitted that two of the Mikado's destroyers and five of his transports had been lost in the Solomons-New Guinea area between February 16 and March 5, a period covered by the convoy battle and numerous bombings in the Solomons as well.

The Japanese communique made no mention of approximately 15,000 Japanese soldiers the Allies claim to have wiped out in the sinking of the convoy, which Gen. MacArthur said consisted of three light cruisers, seven destroyers and 12 transports.

Lost Only 7 Planes?

Tokyo also acknowledged the loss of only seven planes in that period, although MacArthur's communiques have announced that 102 of the enemy's aircraft were put out of the convoy battle alone.

On the other hand the Japanese claimed to have shot down 113 Allied planes and to have sunk four Allied submarines.

The latest communique from Australia told of Allied attacks on Japanese airfields from the Kai islands, northwest of Australia, to Gasmata and Gloucester, New Britain, and said two fights of Allied attack planes made 31 strafing passes over Guadagasal saddle area near Mubo, which Allied jungle patrols apparently are approaching in their drive toward Salamaua, New Guinea. Another Japanese ship was said to have

Source Plan On Taxes Favored

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 8—The House ways and means committee approved tentatively today the source collection feature of a pay-as-you-go income tax system, including a 20 per cent with-holding levy against the taxable portion of pay envelopes and salary checks.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said the committee probably would vote later in the day on the Ruml plan which proposes to skip a tax year as a means of transition to a current collection system.

MAY GRANT EXTENSIONS

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) —Extensions up to 60 days in filing income tax returns because of "the unusual situation due to the war conditions and the uncertainties as to revenue bills in Congress" will be granted in justifiable cases, Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) said he had been advised today.

Gillette said Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, informed him a memorandum had been sent all collectors authorizing them to consider those facts when specific requests for extensions are made.

Action Is Endorsed

The approval of source collection endorsed the action of a subcommittee which worked out a method for pay-as-you-go collections against America's 44,000,000 individual income taxes.

The subcommittee by-passed the issue, raised by Ruml, and it is this question that the full committee was to consider later.

Two Republican members of the 25-member ways and means committee, Representatives Gearhart of California and McLean of New Jersey, voted against approval of the subcommittee report.

Cover All Income

The current collection mechanicisms approved by the committee today cover income from all sources. Under the plan, all taxpayers must file their 1942 returns and pay the first installment by March 15 and the second installment by June 15.

After July 1, the committee-approved collection system would provide:

1. Wage and salary earners — a withholding levy of 20 per cent (covering both income and victory taxes) on the taxable portion of pay envelopes and salary checks through weekly, semi-monthly or monthly deductions. These collections would not be an additional tax but would be applied to actual taxes computed at the year end at the statutory rates and exemptions. The wage and salary earners would file income tax returns each March 15 as usual.

Service Men Exempted

2. Men in the armed services, domestic servants and agricultural labor — would be exempted from the withholding levy of 20 per cent.

3. Farmers — would pay two-thirds of their current year liability (including income and victory taxes) at any time on or before December 31 of the current year and the remaining amount

Sliced Bread Ban Out

Restrictions To Be Removed In Order Today

Improvement Said Noted In Paper And Wax Situation

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Agriculture department today agreed to remove restrictions on bakers' slicing of bread for home use, it was learned authoritatively.

The action was taken after the paper and wax situation improved, it was said, and followed consultation between Agriculture department officials and the War Production board.

Announcement Later Today

Formal announcement of removal of the ban is expected later today.

It was explained the ban was ordered primarily because of the paper and wax situation, sliced bread requiring a greater quantity of wax to keep it from drying out.

The ban went into effect January 18, applying to all bread. However, it subsequently was amended to exclude certain commercial types of bread.

Bakers were understood to have appealed the ban.

Drivers' Fees Cause Surplus

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, March 8. — Money paid in by motorists for automobile driving licenses has piled up an excess of $850,000 the Texas Senate was told today.

The money will not go back to the motorists but was ordered transferred to the state general revenue fund under a bill passed by the Senate today and sent to the House.

Some senators reminded others that if the legislature had made the license fee $1 instead of 50 cents, as urged by safety committees, the surplus would have been still larger. The original bill was passed on a plea that it would provide funds to insure better road law enforcement and save lives. Now the safety department has difficulty in keeping motor patrolmen.

To Hold Back Expenses

The bill to transfer the fund provides that $75,000 for operating expenses shall be held back each Sept. 1, and the remainder go to general state uses.

The House voted 90 to 34 to appropriate $290,000 a year for support of junior colleges in 22

Jehovah's Witnesses Convictions Reversed

WASHINGTON, March 8. (U.P.) —The Supreme court, apparently reversing a long line of past decisions, today set aside the conviction in Texas courts of two members of the Jehovah's Witnesses religious sect on charges of distributing literature in violation of municipal ordinances.

The court held both convictions infringed on constitutional guarantee of freedom of worship and of freedom of the press.

In one case, the court invalidated the conviction in Dallas, Tex., of Mrs. Ella Jamison, a member of the sect who was arrested while she was distributing leaflets advertising a public religious service. The second decision set aside the conviction in Paris, Tex., of Daisy Largent, another member of the sect who was convicted of violating an ordinance banning the sale of books in a residential district.

'Several Million' Of U. S. Married Men Said Facing Draft

Limit On Draft Over 37 Years Ordered Lifted

Older Men May Be Called To Release Younger Fighters

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, March 8 — A Selective Service directive ordering reclassification of over-age men indicated today that the present draft age maximum of 37 may later be lifted to obtain men for limited service and to force others into essential occupations and agriculture.

The broadest hint was found in the order that all 4-H registrants who have no claim to deferment other than age are to be classified 1-A so that they will be "the first men over 38 inducted if and when the armed forces determine they can be used in the military establishment."

Would Release Younger Men

By using the term "military establishment," Selective Service gave the inference that the present line of thinking is that these men could be used at desk jobs and for types of service other than fighting. That would release younger men for combat.

Selective Service and War Manpower commission officials would not comment on the full meaning of the move, but one said its first objective was to help ease the farm labor prbolem. It also was said that the move would serve to attract men in non-deferable jobs to jobs contributing to the war effort.

No Hint On Deferments

A list of jobs for which no deferment will be given after May 1, regardless of dependency, was issued recently, but at that time it affected only men aged 18 through 37, as older men were not in the draft age. With the reclassification order, there was the hint to men aged 38 to 45 that they best had shift to essential occupations and thereby get an occupational deferment.

Under the Selective Service directive, local boards were instructed:

1. No more men 38 years of age or older are to be classified 4-H, the class for registrants over the present military age limit.

2. Prior to May 1, all 4-H registrants engaged in an agricultural occupation or endeavor should be classified 2-C or 3-C, depending on whether they are single or have dependents.

3. Beginning May 1, all other 4-H registrants are to be placed in the classes to which they properly belong by reason of occupational, dependency, or other

Citizens Are Born More Frequently, Die Less Often In Texas

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP)—Citizens are born more frequently and die less often in Texas than in the U. S. A. generally, Dr. W. A. Davis, state registrar, today said latest census figures show.

Texas had 148,480 births recorded in 1942, an increase of more than 10,000 over 1941 when the rate was 21.2 per thousand population as against the national figure of 18.9, Dr. Davis said.

Deaths in 1942 increased about 2,000 over 1941 but this was not enough to influence the rate of 9.4 because of the great increase in population, Davis maintained. The national rate was 10.5.

In the last ten years the Texas still born rate declined from 38.4 to 30.2, and the rate of infant mortality (under one year of age) dropped from 75.5 to 56.9, the figures disclosed.

Meats, Vegetables Lead Food Advances

AUSTIN, March 8 (U.P.) — Fifty-two basic food items included in a survey by the state labor department increased in price during February, meats and fresh vegetables heading the advances.

Average increase over January was less than one per cent but the average was 30.48 per cent over April, 1941, State Labor Commissioner John Reed said.

Committee Named By FDR Studying Manpower Problem

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, has told a Senate appropriations subcommittee that the pool of single men capable of military service was "practically exhausted" in February and that "several million" married men face a call to the colors, it was disclosed today.

Publication of testimony given the subcommittee, which investigated the manpower problem particularly as it affects food production, revealed that Hershey in February said "this month will finish up the source of single men not in essential occupations or otherwise deferred or exempt."

Virtually the only single men now available are some 400,000 high school students who will become eligible for induction this summer, Hershey added.

Publication of Hershey's testimony followed disclosure that President Roosevelt has established an informal five-man committee headed by Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes to explore the manpower situation and to advise him on a course of action. The other members are Admiral William D. Leahy, Mr. Roosevelt's personal chief of staff; Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier; Harry L. Hopkins, confidante and special assistant to the President; and Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, New Deal trouble shooter No. 1.

Half Physically Fit

The shortage of civilian manpower is not expected to be relieved materially by a War department plan to release approximately 546,000 men this year for service in industry and agriculture.

Committee Vote Favors Allred

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The controversial nomination of ex-Gov. James V. Allred of Texas to a federal judgeship was sent to the Senate judiciary committee today with a favorable 2-1 vote by a subcommittee.

Senator Hatch (D-N. Mex), who announced the vote, said he hoped the full committee would act on the recommendation later today. Hatch reported he and Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) favored Allred, a Democrat, in the subcommittee while Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) voted against confirming him for the fifth circuit court of appeals.

Just before it acted on the Allred nomination, the subcommittee received a written statement from Senator Ellender (D-La) protesting the appointment.

Allred's nomination had been opposed by Louisiana members of Congress and Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex) who defeated the one-time governor in the state's senatorial election last year.

Charges Denied

Charges have been made, and were denied by Allred before the sub-committee, that he resigned from a Texas federal district judgeship to run against O'Danniel with a promise from the President that if he should be defeated he would again be named to a federal judgeship.

Louisiana Senators Overton and Ellender, opposing confirmation,

Discussion Of Fourth Term Is Premature, First Lady Says

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today that speculation about a fourth term for President Roosevelt is premature and could possibly impede the war effort.

"It is too soon to begin to think about that," Mrs. Roosevelt said at a press conference. "Nobody knows what will happen in the next two years. We may all be dead by then. I feel that talk about a fourth term stirs political feeling and hurts the war effort."

She said she believed in "thinking ahead on anything constructive, but that it is useless thinking about things that are secondary to the war effort."

Called "Special Situation"

She said the President's third term was a "special situation" and that it "was not strictly political but was involved with the world situation."

"People felt he was better fitted than anyone else because of the uncertainty of the world at war," Mrs. Roosevelt said.

Mrs. Roosevelt also was asked for comment about the letter her

World Headed For Collapse, Says Man Who Lived 17 Years Without Spending A Dime

(By The Associated Press)

WOODLAND, Calif., March 8. —Emil Soeth, 59, who says he has lived on walnuts, raw fruits and jackrabbits for the last 17 years during which he has never earned a dime or bought a single item from a store, paced in his jail cell today and clicked his tongue. He thinks the world is in a bad way.

It is sure to collapse, he said, if people don't stop living like freaks.

Habits Puzzle Residents

Soeth, whose life and habits have long puzzled the residents of eastern Yolo county, explained his point to Sheriff's Deputies Thomas Wallace and Rex Buckles who booked him for investigation after a dispute over his right to "squat" on some Putah creek bottom land.

People, Soeth declared, go along earning money, buying things, throwing things away that they've bought—like clothes and old razor blades—and, eating wrong. So, they are unhappy, usually broke, and often they get sick.

Soeth himself got sick 17 years ago.

"I cured my illness and decided nature could serve me best," he said. "I went away by myself and started eating one meal a day with walnuts as the main dish. Now you can't find a healthier man."

Soeth told the deputies that the only meat he has eaten was that of jackrabbits he picked up from the highway after they were killed by cars. He boiled the meat to kill germs, and bottled it in jars he found at the Winters City junkyard.

Drive Captains Meet Tonight

Preparations for the Red Cross War Fund drive will edge toward the zero hour with the final pre-campaign meeting of men team captains tonight at 7:30 o'clock, according to report this morning by George P. Kuykendall, general chairman.

They are to meet in the general salesroom of Kuykendall Chevrolet company, Thirteenth street and Avenue K, for final discussions of the campaign which has been set for Wednesday and Thursday.

The most important job in connection with the meeting, the chairman said, is to make certain that teams headed by the individual captains are complete. Each captain is to name his own team. The chairman urged that every captain be present at the meeting.

To Give Instructions

It also is most important, Kuykendall said, that every captain and every team member be present at the kickoff meeting in Lubbock hotel Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock. This includes both men and women. Coffee and doughnuts will be served. Final instructions will be given and campaign materials will be distributed at that time.

Military's Taking Over Plant Urged

LOS ANGELES, March 8. (U.P.)— West coast aircraft workers, protesting the War Labor board's "unsatisfactory" award of wage increases, demanded today that the Army and Navy take over Consolidated aircraft's huge San Diego plant "to end inefficiency and waste" by management.

The workers, members of the International Association of Machinists, (AFL), also urged the removal of Economic Director James F. Byrnes(whom they charged with being "the man behind the scenes" of the WLB's recent attempt to stabilize wages in the West coast's aircraft industry.

The demand that military authorities operate the Consolidated plant was made in a resolution adopted yesterday by 2,500 Consolidated employes at San Diego. At a mass meeting, the workers adopted unanimously a motion to denounce the WLB wage directive and to demand formation of a presidential committee to find out "why more planes aren't being produced."

Nazis Retreating In Southern Tunisia After Losing 33 Tanks; Surprise Raid By Yanks Badly Upsets Italian Forces

(By The United Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA, Mar. 8.—Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps, repulsed by the British Eighth army in six attempts at offensives, is retreating toward the hills north and northwest of Medenine, and off the Tunisian coast. American bombers have smashed a convoy carrying supplies to the German-Italian forces.

The German retreat in the south began yesterday afternoon, an Allied headquarters communique said. Rommel had thrusts at the Eighth army's lines, but ran into heavy artillery and tank resistance. Thirty-three enemy tanks were destroyed in Saturday's fighting without the loss of a single British tank, the communique said.

An American armored patrol, badly outnumbered, charged into an Italian position with machine-guns clattering last night and took 85 prisoners without losing a man.

Italians Badly Upset

The action occurred in a pass 10 miles west of Gafsa where a force of Italian military police had taken up their position. The attack upset the Italians so badly that they thought the Americans were making a general assault on Gafsa, and early today 70 enemy tanks appeared in the pass ready t. defend the town. They found that the American patrol had withdrawn with its prisoners after destroying considerable enemy eqnipment.

Lt.-Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army patrols, veterans at chasing Rommel's men across Africa, took up the pursuit of the Germans in the Medenine area and were giving them no rest as they attempted to save their armor and other equipment.

Seven of the ships in the Axis convoy were hit by American bombers in a two-wave attack. In the first wave, B-25 Billy Mitchell bombers, escorted by P-38 Lightnings, made a low-level attack. One ship was sunk, another was left sinking and two more were set on fire. Five enemy planes, seeking to protect the supply ships, were shot down.

Bombers Attacked Convoy

Three and a half hours later, heavy bombers attacked the convoy, which was circling a burning ship. One ship blew up immediately and two others were set on fire.

Two Red Columns Aim At Important Nazi Stronghold

BY EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, March 8—The Red army rolled on westward today with fresh Soviet troops pouring into gaps in the German lines far west of Gzhatsk and south of Olenino where two Russian columns apparently are planning the doom of the important German base at Vyazma, 35 miles west of Gzhatsk.

The capture of more than a hundred more settlements was reported in the last 24 hours, while numerous others are falling continuously and still others are blockaded by the Red army and on the verge of falling.

Winter weather is still holding its strong grip on central and northern Russia, but during the day the fast climbing sun melts the top layers of snow and ice. They freeze again quickly when the shadows hit them.

Two large Red army forces are slicing large chunks out of the German lines and converging in the area northwest of Gzhatsk.

One of these forces, driving west and northwest from Gzhatsk, increased the threat to Vyazma from the front flank. The other, pushing south and southwest of Olenino, further increased the threat to this vital German base from the rear.

Although no exact distances were reported, Gzhatsk dispatches stated that artillery fire from the fast moving battlefront was barely distinguishable in the city, captured only Saturday.

Permanent residents of Gzhatsk who survived the German occupation are now digging out household belongings, food and possessions. Red army sappers are removing mines in numerous buildings and helping to repair wrecked structures.

Pravda reported that the Red army was forcing the Germans from numerous settlements in

Britain Raided By Nazi Planes

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, March 8 — German raiders dropped high explosive bombs in the home counties surrounding London and in southern and southeastern England early today, but early authoritative reports said only a small number of casualties had been reported.

The Berlin radio reported that British planes flew over Helgoland last night without dropping bombs and later the Vichy radio said targets in France were attacked, but there was no immediate confirmation of these reports here.

The British Air ministry communique reported merely that "last night mines were laid in enemy waters" and "two of our bombers are missing."

It was authoritatively reported that three of the German planes which raided England shortly after midnight were destroyed.

Soldier Queried By King Former Techsan

The soldier to whom the king of England addressed the query— "Is there anybody left in Texas?" —is the William A. Hutcheson who attended Texas Technological college in 1938 and 1939 from Bridgeport, Tex., according to the registrar's office.

Now Staff Sgt. Hutcheson on duty in England, he was questioned by King George VI, at a Red Cross club in an English town, according to an Associated Press story Sunday. "Every American soldier I meet seems to be from Texas," the king commented.

Staff Sergt. Hutcheson, 25, was an arts and sciences student. His home now is listed as Fort Worth.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

As the war goes on more and more women, when asked their occupation, will be answering "Housewife — part time." Employers are becoming so desperate for help they are agreeing to take on women who, because of their home duties, can only work a half a day or a few days a week.

Already government agencies in Washington have opened their doors to part-time workers, and private concerns in many other cities are doing the same thing.

It's a great break for housewives, for several reasons. Part-time employment can be managed by most able-bodied women who don't have small children. And with living costs and taxes both high it is nice for a family to have some extra money coming in each week.

Then, too, the chance for part-time work will give many a woman who has never before held down a job an opportunity to discover that she can do something besides keep house.

BREAK FOR HUBBY

Husbands will get a break out of their wives being able to work part-time, too. The men won't be neglected if their wives only work a few hours a day. And since most men are working harder than usual in these times, it will be easier on them if their wives also keep so busy in the daytime they aren't eager to go calling or have another couple in for bridge at night.

Sometimes it is hard on a marriage for a woman to work full-time outside the home. But only good can result when women put their leisure hours to good use by taking on a part-time job, instead of letting it all go to waste.

Hundreds Of Women To Take Part In Red Cross Drive

Approximately 300 Lubbock women are to take part in an intensive financial drive Wednesday and Thursday to reach every home in Lubbock that wishes to join 10,000 communities in the nation in an annual American Red Cross roll call which this year is in the nature of a War Fund of $125,000,000. Quota for Lubbock county is $35,000.

It is hoped that the drive will be carried to a successful conclusion within two days. Workers who are calling at residents are asked to leave the "workers' tags" on their doors in order that duplicate calls will be avoided. Women who are employed downtown or elsewhere are asked to leave a card with their names and where they work and whether or not they are contributing in order that this information may be turned in with the check-up report.

Lubbock homemakers are urged to receive the callers who have volunteered to ask for contributions to help carry on one of the most important jobs in the world, support for the fighting man and his family.

Cadet Marries In Pasadena

Mr. and Mrs. M. V. McClendon of Lubbock have received word of the marriage of their son, Aviation Cadet Elmo McClendon, who is a student in the meterological branch of the U. S. Army Air corps in Pasadena, Calif., and Miss Virginia Ridge of Alexandria, La. The ceremony was read Friday at Pasadena.

Cadet McClendon is a graduate of Texas Technological college and his bride is a graduate of the University of Louisiana.

Male "Bridesmaid" Keeps Bouquet After Serving At Wedding At SPAFS

A man served as "bridesmaid" at a wedding at South Plains Army Flying school here last week.

Lieut. Winston H. Lewis, the bridegroom, and Miss Evelyn Esslinger, both of Birmingham, Ala., were to be married. He had been at South Plains Army Flying school only a week when his bride-to-be showed up. Everything was set. The wife of Lieut. Frederick J. Campbell of Carsonville, Mich., was to arrive in time to be the bride's attendant. She failed to get here—late trains and all that.

Something had to be done—and in a hurry.

The solution was found a few minutes before the ceremony — one of the acquaintances Lieut. Lewis had made since arriving at SPAFS was called in as "bridesmaid."

"She" was Lieut. Sterling M. Stough of Siloam Springs, Ark.

Lieut. Stough kept the traditional bouquet. He is single.

Publishers Denounce Printed Matter Tax

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The American Newspaper Publishers association asserted Saturday in a brief filed with the Supreme court that a municipality is forbidden by the constitution from imposing a license tax "as a condition precedent to the dissemination of information and opinion."

Elisha Hanson, counsel for the association, urged the tribunal to overrule a decision it delivered last June and to declare unconstitutional an attempt by three municipalities—Opelika, Ala., Fort Smith, Ark., and Casa Grande, Ariz.—to impose license taxes upon the sale of printed matter.

Constitutionality of the ordinances was sustained, by a five to four vote, in the June decision. Since then Justice Byrnes, who voted in favor of constitutionality, has resigned and been succeeded by Justice Rutledge, who as a member of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia voted to hold similar legislation unconstitutional.

Revisions Ordered In Farm Labor Program

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) — A House appropriations subcommittee has slashed by more than 50 per cent the funds sought by the Agriculture department to recruit farm labor and has ordered revisions in the program, it developed Saturday — a new move to shape administration plans to congressional views.

The department wanted $65,000,000 to recruit and transport labor to farms. Of this, $6,000,000 would have been allocated to the agriculture extension service to obtain the services of 3,000,000 persons for intrastate farm labor. The remaining $59,000,000 would have gone to the Farm Security administration for intrastate movement at government expense of 350,000 seasonal workers and 42,000 to be employed on a year-around basis.

Seen As Delay

The subcommittee reduced the total apparently in the belief the plan should first be given a test, with indications that additional funds will be forthcoming later if the program proves successful.

At the same time the subcommittee recommended that the entire program be placed under the extension service on the ground that it already has a working organization for the purpose.

This would deny the Farm Security administration any connection with the program.

Indian Problem Is Far From Hopeless

(EDITOR'S NOTE: With this article, DeWitt Mackenzie, war analyst, concludes his interesting series on the Indian situation, which he studied at first hand on his long tour of war zones. Tuesday, he resumes his daily column, "The War Today" in the Evening Journal.)

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

We come to the end of this series of articles on the dangerous Indian political crisis—a situation which has overrun its natural boundaries and has become a threat to the war effort and post-war interests of the United Nations.

Perforce it's in some ways an unsatisfactory termination. It leaves us without any concerted move, at least any evident action, to break the deadlock between the British government and the Indian nationalists.

Still, the position is far from hopeless. As I've tried to make clear, I found a widespread belief in both camps that the quarrel is susceptible to settlement. That also represents my personal belief. There has been a great change in viewpoint since those bitter days of last summer when the Cripps negotiations over dominion status collapsed, to be followed by bloody disorders and arrests of nationalist leaders.

Solution Is Possible

Now, mind you, when I say the crisis is susceptible to settlement I'm not predicting that it will be settled. The first requisite for solution is for somebody to forget face-saving pride and make a move which will permit the case to be reopened. The second requisite is speed, for there are dangerous tendencies afloat.

Fortune has chosen to smile on reconciliation by bringing Mahatma Gandhi through his hunger-strike. Had this most powerful individual in all India died in internment, under circumstances which his worshipful followers would have called martyrdom, it might have lighted a conflagration which would have swept far.

Which of the belligerents is going to make the first move?

Arbitrary Methods Needed

The consensus as I found it among impartial observers was that success probably could be achieved if the government would adopt arbitrary methods and set up a provisional national government in which the Indian factions would be invited to participate as a patriotic move in the interests of an Allied victory.

This view also was held by some of the greatest of the Indian leaders who, not so long ago, would have refused even to consider any such strong-arm procedure. There also was some support for this in the government camp, but my observation was that the government had made up its mind that no good could come from reopening negotiations during the war.

The British authorities would, without reference to anybody, announce the inauguration of the provisional national government. All the leaders of the Indian parties, and the princes of the Indian states, would be invited to participate.

Would Be Developed

This provisional government would be developed as fast as possible into the sovereign government which the Indians have been promised. The leaders would be asked to make the initial business a whole-hearted cooperation in the war effort, and let the constitution and permanent government follow.

Some form of federal government would be aimed at, in order that there might be a unified India which would include both the provinces and the states ruled by the princes. This would eliminate any such project as the Moslem demand for Pakistan — the division of India into two wholly independent states, one Moselm and the other Hindu. The Moslems claim that this is necessary because the Hindus have a majority of three to one which would place the former in a hopeless position in a federal government.

Pakistan Opposed

The British government and the Hindu leaders oppose Pakistan as destructive of unity and say that the Moslem minority can be safeguarded by the constitution. Many observers believe that Mahomed Ali Jinnah, the great Moslem leader would be prepared to compromise and join a federal government.

There would have to be a revision of some of the present provincial boundaries in order to adjust some existing inequalities. Many unbiased experts also contend that a large number of the princely states, of which there are same 562, would have to be wiped out and reformed into provinces.

These states present one of the larger problems involved in the establishment of a federal government. The bigger states—Hyderabad, Baroda and Bikaner, for instance—fit into the new picture very well. But scores of the rest are merely glorified country estates.

Uncomfortable For British

This would create an uncomfortable position for the British government, especially since these states are largely sovereign, insofar as concerns international affairs. Britain has treaty obligations of long standing to consider.

The elimination of some of these tiny princely states might help solve another situation which has been crying for redress through the generations. That is the plight of the 60,000,000 Hindu untouchables who are condemned by the caste system to live as pariahs by their fellows.

These unfortunate people, who in language, face and figure vary not one whit from their countrymen, are outcasts. They are denied the right to live inside any of the 700,000 villages of India, but must build their little mud hovels outside. They may not even draw water from the village wells. Their sole privilege is to empty the night slops of their betters, and do even more filthy tasks.

New State Needed

There is a growing feeling in India that the only cure for this terrible evil is to create a new state for the untouchables and collect them into this from all over the country. This state would take its place in the free India.

The units in the new national set-up would be given a large degree of autonomy. It probably would take some years to create a new constitution and establish the national government. In this the Indians would need, and would have, the assistance and guidance of the British government. The British maintain that for them to desert India abruptly would result in utter chaos, and I found a large degree of agreement with that even among Indians.

The above is the general idea on which many serious minds are working in India. The difficulties of such a program are recognized, but none of these seems unsurmountable. Obviously the only way to find out whether the plan is feasible is to try it.

What Readers Of The Evening Journal Say— The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters from readers are welcomed at all times and on all subjects. However, no letter of more than 500 words will be considered for publication, and all letters belittling, or impugning the motive of any individual, firm or corporation must include for publication, the true name of the author. The Editor shall be the sole judge of whether or not letters may be published and cannot engage in correspondence concerning them.)

STIRS HOME FRONT

Dear Plainsman: More than two million American young men have gone to war! They have set aside their hopes and dreams. They have left comfortable homes. Postponed careers. Declared a moratorium on life.

Turned abruptly from the ways of peace—they are digging ditches, building roads, peeling potatoes, swabbing decks, emptying garbage, drilling, training—learning to shoot! We may thank our lucky stars they don't have to learn to die. They are Americans. They just don't like being kicked around.

They went cheerfully — went where they were sent, and no questions asked. Rich and poor. Republicans and Democrats. Catholics, Protestants, Jews, Gentiles, wealth, position, religion, politics, color—these don't matter when the question is one of freedom or slavery.

There are no eight hour days where these boys work now. No rules decide their pay. They've got a grim tough job to do, and they're doing it—like men.

They're learning things every day—these boys we say we cherish. Learning a lot of things we should know—but stupidly refuse to admit.

They're learning that courage alone is a thin weapon against Axis planes and tanks.

They're learning the tragedy of losing for want of a few extra bombers in the right place at the right time. They're learning the brutal bloody cost of haggling and arguing and debating and stalling —while our sons die!

We stood on the curb as they left. We cheered. We went with them to the station—and shed a few tears. We drove home in our cars—to our warm firesides. Then in a week or two—we stormed the stores when the demand for cloth to clothe them removed the cuff from our pants! In God's name, America—let's be men—at least as big as our sons!

We are the unarmed forces of the U. S. No one of us is without responsibility or duty.

We haggle over an hour of overtime—our sons are being slaughtered.

We live our comfortable lives back of the ramparts they watch. If they fail—there will be no life —but slow, living death.

Our supreme duty—our only duty is to deliver to these young men the planes, tanks, guns and ships they need. Deliver them at top speed—and work as many hours making them—as they willingly work using them.

They are out there now. Waiting with the coming of each dawn. And for their courage—their bravery—their sacrifice—they've asked just one thing of us—"Don't Let Us Down!"

This should be, (and is mine) our unequivocal answer—We declare war on partisanship. War on all political intrigue. War on special privilege. War on blindness and bickering.

We demand every citizen of the U. S., in or out of office, in or out of management, in or out of labor, shall exert every human effort toward the production of war munitions and supplies in maximum quantity at maximum speed and minimum cost.

As a sacred duty to our armed forces—and to the government and all the people—we the unarmed forces declare war on all swollen salaries, dividends, bonus payments or profits on war contracts for munitions or supplies, in excess of profits made in peacetime under conditions of full and free competition. And we demand full and detailed exposure of all violations.

We declare war on all rules, regulations or agreements which may prevent any worker on any war contract for munitions or supplies from working as many hours or as many days as he or she is willing to work, or doing as much work as he or she wants to do to increase production. And we demand full and detailed public exposure of organizations and individuals responsible for obstructing production.

We declare war on all acts or failures to act, by members of the U. S. Senate or House of Representatives, which permit or encourage representatives of either capital or labor to increase costs or obstruct production of war materials. And we demand full public exposure of any member of Congress guilty of failure to protect our armed forces and our people against saboteurs of production in either group.

We are not concerned with political partisanship. We are neither for nor against any employer or group—nor any group of employees.

We are concerned with action! And we propose to devote ourselves to these tenets—as a sacred trust. We promise that when men die needlessly—the responsibility shall be firmly placed insofar as it is within our ability to place it.

To our Commander-in-Chief, the President of the U. S., to Donald Nelson, chairman of the WPB—to the armed forces and the people, we pledge ourselves to this unalterable view for the duration of the war.

George Duval,
Lubbock.

Shipbuilding's Goal Is Raised

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, March 8 — An announcement by the Maritime commission that it set a new record of delivering 1,239,200 tons of cargo ships in February was followed today by a revelation that Chairman Emory S. Land has his eye on a goal of 20,000,000 tons by the end of this year.

In announcing the February record, Land said that the increasing momentum in ship construction will set a new mark in March. He has told members of Congress that it can be boosted to a total of 20,000,000 tons by the end of this year if steel is available in sufficient quantities.

Progress Encouraging

Combined with a Navy department announcement showing February deliveries of 150 combat vessels—also to be exceeded this month—and encouraging progress on a program calling for more than 300 small destroyer-type escort vessels, it gave members of Congress their most encouraging outlook on the ability to get an army of 4,000,000 overseas by the end of this year.

Land said the total amount of shipping available in the light of the new construction records is a military secret. Other witnesses have told members of Congress that it takes eight ship tons per man to transport a soldier to any battle front and 1.3 tons per month to keep each individual supplied.

Land's 20,000,000-ton goal is exactly double the program which President Roosevelt last year set for the Maritime commission in 1943 and is 4,000,000 tons higher than the program so far approved with the necessary priorities.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on discomfort after meals, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin, as directed on label or as your doctor advises, and feel world's better. Get genuine Dr. Caldwell's. Adv.

Cardinals Favored In National League

War Inroads Hit Champs Lighter Than Opponents

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 8.—In preseason betting, the St. Louis Cardinals unquestionably will be one of the shortest priced pennant favorites in National league history, regardless of who makes the book.

And we don't know who will handle the baseball prices this year in the absence of grand old Jack Doyle who died in December.

From now until April 21, when the season opens, nearly every sports columnist and baseball writer in the country will deliver his predictions on the major league flag races. And we would not be surprised if about 95 per cent of the writers designate the Cards as repeat victors in Ford Frick's division.

Look Like Shoo-In

At the current writing, these Cards look like a shoo-in. The dynamic young club that snatched the National gonfalon from the Dodgers in an electrifying stretch fight and went on to wrest the world championship from the Yankees in five games, apparently has been affected less by war inroads than any other outfit in the senior circuit.

Counting regulars and possibles, the Cards have lost about 13 men to the services. But only four of these can be listed as important absentees. They are: Terry Moore, inspiring field captain and centerfielder; Enos Slaughter, slugging rightfielder; Johnny Beazley, freshman pitching sensation of the World Series, and part-time second baseman Creepy Crespi.

Squad Looks Strong

Accordingly when Billy Southworth's squad reports soon for training at Cairo, Ill., it will shape up stronger than any other club in the circuit. The catching will be ably handled by Walker Cooper, brother of Pitcher Mort. Walker, beginning his third full season with the Cards, hit .281 in the last campaign and was a defensive bulwark in the World Series. Ken O'Dea, who worked in 58 games, will return to handle the relief back-stopping.

Big Mort Cooper, bell-weather of the mound staff and the league's most valuable player, again will head a potent pitching corps. The man who registered 22 victories and an earned-run average of 1.77, will be backed by Ernie White, Howie Pollet, Murry Dickson, Max Lanier, Bill Beckman and Howie Krist.

Infield Nearly Intact

Except for the loss of Crespi at second, the infield remains practically intact. George (Whitey) Kurowski, third base hero of the World Series, was rejected by the Army last week because of a bad arm. Johnny Hopp and Ray Sanders, who shared the first base duties, will both be back. Jimmy Brown, who played about a third of the season at second, and hit .300 in the World Series, is slated to return. Also Slats Marion at shortstop.

Southworth's big problem is the outfield—trying to find replacements for fleet-footed Moore and strong-armed Slaughter. Pilot Billy plans to form a new flying corps around Stan Musial, last year's freshman surprise who hit .312 in 140 games. Leading candidates for the two vacant posts are veterans Coaker Triplett and Frank Demaree. They will fight it out with rookie aspirants headed by Buster Adams, who hit .309 for Sacramento, and Dain Clay, who batted .270 for Houston.

Southworth seems to be holding the winning hand, and he knows how to play his Cards.

Buck Fausett Named Little Rock Pilot

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 8. (AP)—The Little Rock baseball company has named Third Baseman Robert (Buck) Fausett to pilot the 1943 travelers in the Southern Association. It was the second time in two years the Traveler management has named a skipper from its own roster.

Fausett, who hit .334 and fielded .946 in 1942 when the Travelers won the league pennant, succeeds Pitcher Willis Hudlin who enlisted in the Army Air corps. Fausett is employed in the off season by a copper mining firm in El Paso, Texas. He is married, the father of an eight-year-old son and has a 3-A selective service classification.

Six Cagers Make Up All-Southwest Five; Closs Is Unanimous

BY ED FITE
United Press Staff Writer

Contrary to the rules of the game six — not five — men compose the United Press' 1943 all-Southwest conference basketball team compiled from the votes of the loop's seven coaches and sports writers from each of the member cities.

Only one player, Rice's towering ace, Bill Tom Closs, the six foot seven center, was unanimous choice of the 13 pickers, but two of the others missed only one vote of getting the maximum 26 possible under the system of counting two points for each first-team vote and one for second team.

Hargis, Wynne High

These two were lanky John Hargis, the Texas star, and Arkansas' Clayton Wynne, who each polled 12 first-team nominations and one second team.

Third honors went to the Texas Aggies' Leland Huffman, recipient of nine first team votes and two for the second team, for a total of 20 points.

Overall, Carpenter Tie

Tied for the fifth spot were Buck Overall, the Texas star and Gordon Carpenter of Arkansas with 14 points each. Overall was more popular than Carpenter, receiving nominations for either the first or second team from 11 of the 13 voters, but Carpenter got the most first-team votes, four to three, to make the final count even.

The second team was made up of Harold Lambert of Rice, Tommy Tomlinson of Southern Methodist, John McDonald of Rice, Bob McHenry of Texas Christian and Cokinos of the Aggies.

Sports Roundup

TEXANS END DRILLS

AUSTIN, March 8 (AP) — The University of Texas closed spring football practice Saturday with an intra-squad game in which 47 poinst were scored.

Max Minor and Jackie Field went over twice each, Walton Roberts once and Roberts passed to Minor for a touchdown.

Ray Borneman, freshman from Houston, passed to Ed Bacak for his outfit's only score.

Texan High In National Meet

Cage Tournament To Begin Today

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, March 8.—The little man who is always there is Roy Barber, 5 foot 8 inch forward on the Texas Wesleyan team that ranks as one of the favorites in the National Intercollegiate basketball tournament.

The sixth annual tourney opens today and Barber and his mates are on the initial program, meeting St. Cloud, Minn., teachers in the fourth afternoon affair.

Barber is a midget in a sport specializing in skyscraper performers. In contrast, the co-star of the Fort Worth team is giant Weyman Cotton, 6 foot 7½ inch center, but he doesn't overshadow Barber—except when they're standing together.

Fastest In Texas

The mite is considered the fastest player in Texas and he gets to the right spot, meaning the basket, at the right time. He's a hard-driving player and a difficult assignment for defensive men. A San Antonio Army team thought it had the solution to the Barber problem, but Roy foiled the plan, hitting eight baskets from far out.

First round pairings include:

Monday:

1:45—South Dakota State, Brookings, S. D., vs East Central State, Ada, Okla.

3—Southwestern, Winfield, Kas., vs Ouachita, Arkadelphia, Ark.

4:15—Texas Wesleyan, Fort Worth vs St. Cloud, Minn., teachers.

Tuesday:

1:45—Stout Institute, Menominee, Wis., vs North Texas State Teachers, Denton.

3—Southeastern State, Durant, Okla., vs Luther college, Decorah, Ia.

Texas, Rice To Be In Major Tourneys

DALLAS, March 8 (AP) — Texas will have two basketball teams playing in major tournaments this month.

The University of Texas, which tied Rice for the Southwest conference championship, goes to Kansas City March 26 and 27 for the western regional tournament of the National Collegiate Athletic association.

Rice will journey to New York March 18 to play in the metropolitan invitation.

The selection committee for this district of the NCAA recommended that Texas and Rice meet in a three-game series to decide the area's representative at Kansas City. Texas voted to play but Rice accepted the New York offer.

Yesterday the committee, composed of J. W. St. Clair of Dallas, D. X. Bible of the University of Texas and Hub McQuillian of Texas Christian university, named Texas as the team to participate at Kansas City.

Bantamweight Bout To Clear Up Muddle

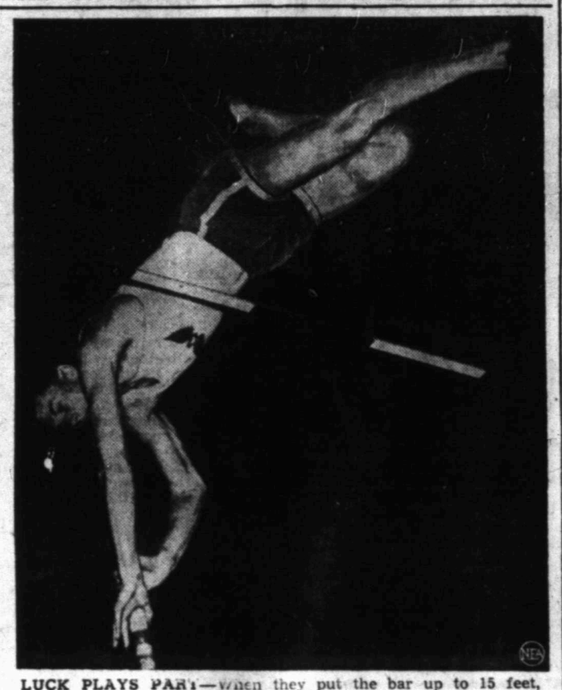

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP) —The bantamweight championship picture will be cleared Wednesday night when Lou Salica, New York recognized champ, and Manuel Oritz, the N. B. A.'s titleholder, clash in a 15-rounder at Oakland, Calif.

This is the only title fight on the week's national program but other important bouts send Henry Armstrong against Tippy Larkin at San Francisco tomorrow night and Jimmy Bivins against Tami Mauriello in New York's Madison Square garden on Friday. Both are ten round affairs.

Eight Rice Cagers Are Given Letters

HOUSTON, March 8. (AP)—Basketball letters were voted to eight members of the Rice Owls, co-champions of the Southwest conference, by the Rice athletic committee today.

Lettermen are co-captains Bill Tom Closs and Harold Lambert, seniors; John McDonald and Bill Cummins, juniors; Willie Croucher and Rusty Darling, sophomores; David Cook and Bill Henry, freshmen.

LUCK PLAYS PART—When they put the bar up to 15 feet, 8 inches, a height never attained, Cornelius Warmerdam was confident he could make it and better his world record of 15 feet, 7¾ inches. Warmerdam apparently cleared the bar with ease, but he exhaled just in time to scrape it with his stomach on the downward flight. Scene was the National A. A. U. track and field championships in Madison Square garden.

Heading East Is Important, Too . . .

Equator Is Place To Set New Records, According To Science

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Wrjter

NEW YORK, March 8.—Some day some enterprising gent is going to take a squad of track and field men to a mountain top on the equator and come back with a complete new set of world records.

Some day some bloated bloke who may not know much about boxing but knows his directions is going to punch from west to east and knock Joe Louis for a home run.

Some day some ambitious broad jumper is going to take off on a tremendous leap and just keep going, as the earth has moved right out from under him because he jumped from east to west.

Sounds Fantastic

It all sounds a little fantastic, but you can't argue with science and Prof. Paul Kirkpatrick of Stanford has the scientific data to back his theories on the effects of the earth's rotation and the pull of gravity on athletic events, particularly field events in which a projectile is whipped through the air; with the greatest of ease.

Prof. Kirkpatrick has figured that you can leap farther or higher at the equator because the pull of gravity is less there. He has figured that the direction of the jump or throw makes quite a difference in the distance achieved, In fact, he's figured how to make everything go farther except the dollar.

He even contends that many official records are inaccurate and some even credited to the wrong men, an intriguing observation in that you might have a hard time convincing some of Joe Louis' knockout victims they weren't knocked out by Joe Louis at all, but by some other guy.

Doesn't Touch On Boxing

Prof. Kirkpatrick doesn't touch on boxing, but he is talking about projectiles. A bomb is a projectile, and if Louis' punches aren't bombs a lot of his rivals would like to know what a bomb is.

Up to now the only things taken into account when a new track or field mark was made were whether the wind was blowing the athlete or the projectile along, whether he was running downhill, or whether he had an outboard motor secreted somewhere on his person. Now they'll have to figure the advantage he may have gained by running in the right direction, or on the right spot on the globe.

We've always figured that there was only one right direction to run, and that was forward. Now we find a man can be running forward and still be going in the wrong direction. It's slightly confusing.

Might Affect Baseball

Prof. Kirkpatrick doesn't touch upon baseball, either, although that's a sport that really is under the influence of gravity and direction, and we'll have to check up on the right field foul line at the Yankee stadium as when Babe Ruth hit all those home runs he must have had a direct west to east impulse.

We have a clear picture of teams with good left-handed sluggers changing their fields all around so that the right field line runs east and west, with home plate at the west. It will be a little tough on the pitchers, as they will be throwing against the grain, you might say, but it will give them a stock alibi:

"What could you expect? Here he's batting due east and I'm throwing northeast to southwest. He had the earth turning for him."

We always wondered why so many records were turned in by Texas track men, and Prof. Kirkpatrick clears that up. The Texans were cheating, taking advantage of their location on the globe and, who knows, secretly running or jumping or throwing from west to east. Prof. Kirkpatrick discloses that a broad jumper should be good for three-etights of an inch more in Texas than in Massachusetts, for instance.

It's all a little dizzy, but Prof. Kirkpatrick gives one sound hint. He says a thrown hammer should go 4½ inches farther in Tokyo than in Finland. That's all we wanted to know. Just give us a hammer and turn us loose in Japan.

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You

No. 7 of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of Chiropractic.

HEART TROUBLE is one of the most common diseases of the present day and the one which seems to give the patient the most concern. Of all the organs of the body, this one probably does the most actual physical work. It is the great central pump of the circulatory system which, by its alternate contraction and relaxation, forces blood through the body. The heart must function continually and consistently for the body to enjoy the maximum of health.

CONTROL OF HEART ACTION

Before the muscles of the arm contract to produce movement we first think the thought and as a result the contraction takes place. The same process is true of the heart, except that here the thought is a subconcious one. This thought, or impulse, takes place in the brain. Tiny nerve fibers then transmit it to the heart and contraction results.

There must be no interference with these nerves leading from the brain to the heart else they cannot properly transmit these impulses. If this energy, or nerve force is interfered with, even slightly, the function of the heart will be come abnormal.

The spine is the only place along the course of the nerves where such an interference can exist. If the bony segments of the spine through which the nerves pass get out of position they will produce pressure upon the nerve fibres. This pressure must be removed before impulses from the brain can "get through" to the heart and govern its action.

CORRECTING HEART TROUBLE

Because of his training, the Chiropractor is able to locate the point of pressure in the spine that interferes with the transmission of mental impulse supply and is able to render that Chiropractic health service that will adjust the spine at the location of this interference so that normal transmission is restored, There can be only one result—the heart receives its normal supply of mental impulses and is enabled to function properly.

To the thousands up on thousands of sufferers who are now living under a handicap produced by an abnormal heart action, Chirapractic offers a real and logical solution.

National Loop Schedule Set

Circuit Trips Cut To Three

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 8 — The National baseball league schedule, with such innovations as only three trips around the circuit and intersectional competition on holidays and at the finale, is released today.

The 154-game program opens on Wednesday, April 21, and closes Oct. 3.

In contrast to previous years when every club visited each league member's diamond four times, only three trips will be made this season because of war-jammed traveling facilities.

Holiday Games Different

The schedule also differs from that of the immediate past in that intersectional games mark both Decoration day and Independence day. The closing series also finds the eastern teams — Boston, Brooklyn, New York and Philadelphia — at Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Pittsburgh, respectively.

The April 21 openers, however, find New York at Brooklyn, Philadelphia at Boston, St. Louis at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh at Chicago. On April 27, Boston is at New York, Brooklyn at Philadelphia, Cincinnati at Pittsburgh and Chicago at St. Louis in the "second" inaugurals.

Hamline To Defend Basketball Title

KANSAS CITY, March 8 (AP)—Teams from 19 states start play in the sixth annual National Intercollegiate basketball tournament here today.

Defending champion Hamline University of St. Paul, victorious in 19 of 20 games this season, opens defense of its title against Central college of Fayette, Mo., Monday night. The titleholders won the Minnesota state conference championship this year.

Hamline's victim in last year's finale, Southeastern State of Durant, Okla., is back and makes its debut against Luther college of Decorah, Ia., Tuesday afternoon.

Threats to Hamline's retention of the crown include Pepperdine college of Los Angeles, Loyola of Chicago, Murray, Ky., State., Texas Wesleyan of Fort Worth, Appalachian State of Boone, N. C., Indiana State of Terre Haute, Lawrence Tech of Detroit and Akron, O., university.

GAME IS CANCELLED

PALO ALTO, Calif., March 8 (AP)—Stanford and Notre Dame have agreed to call off their football game here, scheduled for next Sept. 25, because of the war transportation emergency.

A planeload of beet, cauliflower and lettuce seeds was recently dispatched from the United States to India.

LAST November, a salty, 71-year old lifelong Democrat ran on the Republican ticket in Oklahoma for U. S. senator.

His opponent was the incumbent, Sen. Josh Lee, red hot New Dealer and White House "office boy" whose name has been legendary in every Oklahoma cross-roads town since 1915.

When the votes were all counted, New Dealer Lee was beaten in a terrific political upset that not even the rankest anti-Rooseveltian in the Sooner state had been optimistic enough to hope for. And to the U. S. Senate marched the septugenarian, millionaire oil man, Ed Moore.

When he was running for the Senate, Ed Moore told the people he was for economy in government. He walloped the New Deal for its thriftlessness, for "buying votes with the taxpayers' money;" for handing out billions to this, that and the other pressure group. He said that if he went to the Senate he would do all he could to put an end to pork barrel politics and to wreck the "Tammany-Hall-on-a-nationwide-basis set-up of the Roosevelt administration in which the battle cry is we'll take care of you on all the other days if you'll take care of us on election day."

Yes, Ed Moore promised to fight waste and all unessential government expenditure. But it is doubtful if even his strongest supporters took him seriously.

Many candidates have promised that in the past, but none within the memory of living man has remembered the promise after being elected.

So it's no wonder that Oklahoma voters figured Ed Moore was just "talking for votes."

BUT Ed Moore seems to be different. Although he has been a member of the Senate less than three months, already he has become a sort of legendary figure. And here's why:

The other day a chamber of commerce president in a not-so-large Oklahoma town, wrote Senator Moore asking him to expedite the town's application for $700,000 in federal funds for an airport expansion in that community.

But instead of the usual "I'll be happy to do all I can" reply from the senator, the chamber of commerce president almost fell into a faint when Moore inquired what in the world such a small town could do with such an expanded airport; and said that in his opinion the town had "no more use for it than a cat has with two tails!"

A few weeks ago, a dozen Oklahoma towns solicited the Moore support in securing the location of a large and expensive Army hospital. Said hospital eventually went to Moore's onetime home town, Okmulgee.

But before the location, instead of writing each competing city a politic note, pledging "all the cooperation possible," Moore frankly wrote leaders in each place saying that in his opinion the most business-like thing to do would be to increase the size of an already established and operating Veterans hospital at Muskogee. He said establishment of a new hospital was both unnecessary and too costly!

After the hospital was placed in Okmulgee, some of the local city builders felt sure that the senator had pulled a fast one and slipped it to his one-time home town. They wrote, thanking him. Moore wrote back that he hadn't had a darn thing to do with it. He said he had been tipped off in advance that the hospital would be located in Okmulgee, but that he had kept the confidence even to the extent that he did not give advance information to an architect there, an old friend, who might have "cashed in" on the information!

SHORTLY after Moore was seated in the Senate, an old friend in Oklahoma wrote him congratulating him on his fight against New Deal spending and urging him to "keep up the good work."

Moore wrote back, chiding the friend for his Johnny-come-lately anti-New Dealism.

"Why," he said, "I'll bet you're still accepting benefit payments on your farm, yet all the while you're cussing the New Deal and yelling for 'economy in government!'"

According to the Daily Oklahoman, in Oklahoma City, most Moore constituents are tickled to death with their new senator's attitude. His frankness disarms them and banishes anger. And, says the Oklahoma City newspaper, other of the Oklahoma congressional delegation chuckle merrily over his every letter rapping "boondoggling" and privately congratulate him for his stand.

It is too bad Senator Moore is not a younger man. Being 71, the chances are he will not run for re-election in 1948, when he will be 76. Therefore the nation probably never will know if straightforward, business-like methods will bring re-election, or certain defeat as most politicans seem to believe.

But there is a morale in the Moore attitude, and that is this:

He is in the Senate to do what he thinks best for the country, regardless of his own personal political fortunes.

He does not weigh the "political significance" of his every move. He's not running for re-election by his every word and act and he does not let politics interfere with his job.

The nation could use—in fact, today it desperately needs—more men in high office who are willing to do just what Ed Moore is doing; who will act for their country's best interests, regardless of what effect such action may have on their own, selfish interests and ambitions.

METRO-GOLDWYN - MAYER'S claim for draft deferment for Mickey Rooney, its top boxoffice star, on the grounds that he should be permitted to remain in civil life because of his "contribution to public morale" leaves us colder than a frozen mackerel.

We have nothing against young Rooney, but it seems to us that any father and husband, no matter what his business, has more right to deferment than childless, wifeless Rooney, or any other young man without dependents.

Mickey must be good; he is too popular with movie fans not to be.

But if he is put into a uniform, along with millions of other boys his age, the country will be able somehow, some way, to rock along. There never has been an indispensable man yet — and if there ever is one, he won't be a movie comedian.

Wilderness Girl

BY LETA ZONE ADAMS
(Copyright, 1943, For The Journal)

YESTERDAY — Sandy Morse has had great difficulty finding anyone who knew anything about the Forbidden Land, to which he wants to go because concealed there is the key to the secret history of the Maya race. Now he has found Tyra Fleming, one of the few to have left the Forbidden Land safely, and she has infuriated him by refusing point blank to help him in any way. He has returned her to the fiesta in Onha, and has left her in anger.

Chapter Six
The Soothsayer

For a moment Sandy watched the lithe figure of the girl. He was conscious of confused emotions, a haunting curiosity to know more about her, disappointment, and smouldering anger for the nonchalant way in which she had disposed of his request to travel with her party.

He pushed through the throng, then, and came upon McIntyre, Gil and Helen before one of the booths where Helen was making a purchase.

Gil lifted a questioning brow and Sandy gave a slight shrug. He did not think it wise to tell McIntyre the outcome of his interview.

Helen turned from her appraisal of a little rosewood box to glance up at Sandy. Her eyes held a question, too, but of a different kind.

"You weren't gone long," she said.

"It didn't take long," Sandy answered non-committally. Presently they moved on, McIntyre talking about the natives.

"Here is something that might interest you," he interrupted himself to remark, "A curandera."

It was not a regular booth before which he had stopped, but a corner between two booths. Squatted there was an aged woman surrounded by little pottery jars. A pungent incense rose in a thin, gray smoke from a shallow bowl placed on a mat before her.

She looked up at the group and said something in the native dialect, which Sandy only partly understood.

For the benefit of the others McIntyre translated. "She tells us that she can cure any malady, drive out evil spirits, change luck from bad to good, or overcome a pending tragedy. She says she can even ward off death if an owl has hooted over the rooftree."

"Quite somebody," Gil said. "I've run into some of them in Mexico City and Yucatan." He placed a small coin upon the mat in front of the old woman. "To buy myself a little luck," he remarked.

They started to turn away but the old woman fixed her eyes upon Gil and began to speak slowly, jerkily, spacing her words.

McIntyre listened with attention. "Otea is a real soothsayer. She has just told you that you're about to embark upon a hazardous journey."

Sandy grinned. "She is probably shrewed enough to know that we are not in Onha for our health."

"If you put another coin on her mat she may tell you more," McIntyre suggested.

Gil drew a few coins from his pocket. "I've always like a gamble. I'll risk a few centavos."

The woman was silent a moment, then gesturing dramatically with a withered arm, began jabbering.

The four stood still, watching curiously, until she had finished.

McIntyre's shaggy brows worked. "She says you will see strange and wondrous sights."

"Cheering news, if not exactly original," uttered Gil.

"There will be great dangers. You will overcome many of them."

"What about the rest?" Helen asked quickly.

"She said something rather odd. 'Two of you will pass through a rainbow.'"

"Alice in Wonderland stuff," Gil jeered.

"They talk in symbols," McIntyre said. "A rainbow could be a good many things, I suppose. No use asking her. She won't tell any more."

"Could it mean—deaths?" Helen questioned, her eyes round and solemn.

"It might well mean just that."

"Does she think we should not go? Ask her, Mr. McIntyre," Helen directed.

He put the question and the old woman answered at once with a sweeping gesture.

McIntyre translated: "She says you have no choice. It is the same as, 'It is written.'"

"Let's move on," Sandy said, his voice crisp. He thought: "This sort of thing is bad for the morale on the eve of an expedition. Why in blazes did we have to stop and hear it?"

He wished the others would have enough so they could all leave. But they showed no sign of it. Helen had stopped at another booth where lacquer ware was being sold and was inquiring about shipping things to the States.

Helen's voice roused him with a start. "Penny for your thoughts, Sandy."

"It isn't hard to guess them."

"You're looking at Miss Fleming," Helen pointed out significantly. There was a probing alertness in her eyes that she attempted to hide behind a smile.

"If you've finished your shopping let's get out of here," Sandy said and took her arm with an air of finality.

McIntyre sat with them for an hour or two in the patio of the hotel. When he had gone Helen, too, excused herself saying, with a dainty yawn, that she would try out the cot in her room. There was no hint of a complaint in her voice when she spoke of the hard, mattressless bed.

Both men watched as she made her way along the bricked floor to her room.

"Looks like she is really going through with it," Gil said. "Somehow you have to admire her spunk."

Sandy granted that, but he scowled into the shadows, recalling the scene of the afternoon.

"But I still don't like it. She's certain to cause us trouble of one kind or another."

Gil's shrewd eyes regarded Sandy a moment. Of a sudden he said, "Of course you've suspected her real reason for coming, chief."

Sandy felt a warmth mount to his face. He was neither more nor less vulnerable than the average man in matters concerning the apposite sex. "I never guessed it until today."

"I knew it from the first," Gil said. "But didn't like to mention it. As a matter of fact, I thought it might turn out—differently."

"I don't get you."

"Well, she's attractive. I thought you might find out that you liked her. . . . It would simplify everything. I know it sounds crude, chief, but you'd have your backing. She'd give you anything you wanted, if you married her before we start, and . . ."

"And I'd be a damn' gigolo," Sandy observed.

"Not if you were really fond of her."

As usual, in matters relating to Helen, Sandy felt as a cat must feel when its fur is stroked the wrong way.

"Let's forget the whole blooming subject," he snapped. "I want to talk about my interview with Tyra Fleming. She refuses to allow us to join her party when she returns to the Forbidden Land."

Gil sat up straighter. "I'll be tied to a rattler! What excuse did she give?"

Sandy shrugged. "None, really. First, she tried to talk me out of making the expedition at all. Said it was impossible."

Gil mused, "I thought she looked like a girl who would be kind to stray dogs. She must have some reason, chief."

"If she has she's not telling it," Sandy said. "I offered to pay her, but that didn't even tempt her."

"Then it's back to friend McIntyre, chief," Gil said. "Maybe he knows some other nice people who are aching to help the cause of science."

"It's not back to McIntyre," Sandy stated firmly. "I don't even want him to know that Tyra Fleming has refused her help. Instead, you and I are going to do some underground work so we'll be ready to start at the crack of the gun."

"Meaning what, chief?"

"We're going to trail Tyra Fleming when she starts."

Today's Journal Editorial

SCARE BUYING OF CLOTHING

People of the nation apparently are justified in accepting with confidence the assurances from the highest official sources that no immediate rationing of clothing is contemplated.

These assurances have come from such sources as Donald M. Nelson, Prentiss Brown and Elmer Davis, heads of the War Production board, the Office of Price administration and the Office of War Information, respectively.

True, the assurances have been worded in such a way as to leave loopholes for those who have given them. They are in position to offer alibis if clothing rationing should be put into effect suddenly.

But these officials know that most people will interpret their words as meaning that there won't be immediate rationing of clothing.

The officials know, or certainly should know, that if such rationing should be put into sudden effect without warning now, a great many people never would have confidence in any future promises they might make or assurances they might give. Few people would be willing to accept the alibi which is heard so frequently: "I didn't actually say what you thought I said." There would be the widespread popular feeling that people of the nation had been wilfully and deliberately deceived.

Perhaps the officials wouldn't care what the reaction might be. But the more likely probability is that people can ignore the sort of rumors that have led in many places to rush buying of clothing.

The Axis Monkeys

Here's Something For The Isolationists To Chew On!

U. S. Feeding Of Europe Is To Be Given Study

(First of two columns on the U. S. Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabiliation.)

BY PETER EDSON
Journal Washington Correspondent

PRESIDENT Roosevelt's indication that an exploratory United Nations conference on post-war food supplies might be held sometime this spring points up consideration of how this critical problem of feeding Europe is to be handled this time.

EDSON

Relief for Europe cost the United States $2.3 billion after the last war. The $300 million was private funds—Red Cross, Quakers, Near East Relief and the like. The $2 billion was government money, and the U. S. contribution represented approximately 85 per cent of all the relief handed out, the remaining 15 per cent coming from Great Britain and other countries.

Theoretically, this $2 billion worth of food relief was sold. The ex-enemy countries had to pay cash and did buy about $500 million worth of surplus American wheat for which farmers had been paid $2 a bushel by act of Congress.

Liberated countries and the allied nations that needed relief got food on credit and that added about $1.4 billion to the war debts which were never collected, so in the long run that post-war relief was pretty much of a gift.

PANTRY OF DEMOCRACY

THE total shipment of foods to Europe after World War I were 6.7 million tons, three-fourths of it cereals and sugar. Up to Jan. 1, 1943, Lend-Lease shipments of food to United Nations countries have reached 4.6 million tons or nearly two-thirds of the first post-war relief load. Less than a fourth of the Lend-Lease shipments have been grains and sugar, the bulk being meats, dairy products, fruits—in short, vitamins. There you have the principal difference, aside from quantity, between feeding Europe after the last war and feeding the world after this one.

Heavy wartime drains on U. S. food supplies, making this country the pantry as well as the arsenal of democracy, mean simply that when this war is over, the United States will not have the food surpluses she had in 1918-19 and lead to a conclusion that feeding Europe after this was is a job for the United Nations as a whole.

Although the United States has set up an ambitious organization to distribute food in its Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation under ex-Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, the job of producing all this food will require the combined resources of all nations on earth, and it is to marshal these resources that the Roosevelt exploratory conference will presumably be called.

First steps toward the formation of a United Nations relief and rehabilitation distribution program have already been taken through the U. S. Department of State and the Lehman organization.

Before the United States got into the war, the British and representatives of 10 countries overrun by the Nazis formed in London an Inter-Allied Bureau of Post-War Requirements. Its chairman is Sir Frederick Leith-Ross and the organization has become known as the Leith-Ross committee.

POLITICAL DANGER

CHINA and the United States were not included in the Leith-Ross committee, and any set-up which counts out those two countries simply won't count. Also, the Leith-Ross committee has no authority to do anything about production of food or relief and rehabilitation—it merely collects statistics on the need.

It is in the execution of any United Nations program for world relief and rehabilitation that political danger lies. The refugee governments seated in London represent only people who got out of Europe ahead of the Nazis. It is entirely possible that the people who had to stay at home and take it will have something to say about their government when this war is over, and the refugee governments may or may not in every case be the ruling faction.

If, however, the food, the relief and the rehabilitation of the United States or the United Nations are dished out through these refugee governments, their mere action in disbursing relief from outside sources will give them power to save their own interests.

The question is whether to insist that all American relief and rehabilitation be ladled out by American field service men in post-war Europe where they may have a voice in shaping the future of those countries, or whether this problem can be handled by international relief agencies—the first step, perhaps, toward the creation of an international police force which might maintain order in this post-war world. Let the isolationists chew on that one for a while.

BOWMAN LUMBER CO.
619-15TH STREET DIAL 5718

"MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR HOME" could well be the home owners' wartime theme song. Making the most of your home means:—Utilization of all wasted space. If there is a roomy attic—change it over into usable, livable quarters. Remodeling existing rooms—if modernizing the kitchen will lead to more economical home management, you may be able to get the materials that will enable you to do it—provided it does not exceed current remodeling restrictions. Creation of additional space by adding a room enhances the value of your home and adds convenience as well as sorely needed new accommodations. Making the most of your home has the hearty approval of our Government. The American home is the backbone of American Morale and its maintenance to its top efficiency should be the obligation of every patriotic American. We have the following materials available for interior remodeling.

THE most outstanding WALL PAPER values in Lubbock.

Saving up to 66 2-3% in Room Lots with border ..... $1.00 Up

Wall paper canvas and sheeting, per yard ..... 5¾c Up

4 Oz. Canvas tacks, per lb. 20c

Golden Harvest pure Wheat Paste 5 lb. cartons, per lb. 15c

Wall paper Cleaner, box 10c

Upson Beaver Board—4 ft. x 8 ft. sheets, per sq. ft. 3½c

Masonite Tile Board—4 ft. x 4 ft. sheets per sq. ft. 10c

Upson Tile Board, all sizes, Per sq. ft. 5½c

Sheetrock—⅜" Mill End Boards, per 100 sq. ft. 2.50

½ inch Liner Board, per 100 sq. ft. 2.85

¼ inch Sheetrock—4 ft. x 6 ft.-7 ft.-8 ft.-9 ft. and 10 ft. lengths, per 100 sq ft. 3.00

⅜ inch Sheetrock, all above sizes, per 100 sq. ft. 3.50

We also have many other materials most of the time, such as Fir-Tex and other insulation Boards.

Stock Market

SPECIALTIES ADVANCE
NEW YORK, March 8 (AP) — Low-priced specialties accounted for the principal gains and most of the volume in today's stock market while many leaders slipped to lower levels on a meager turnover.
Among favorites, Celanese rose a point to a new 1942-43 top in the wake of a pleasing earnings statement. In the "new high" class also were Hayes Mfg., Budd Mfg., Thermoid, Studebaker, Sperry and Curtiss-Wright. In front at intervals were American Smelting, Northern Pacific, Oliver Farm, Texas Co. and Westinghouse.
Backward movers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Kennecott, U. S. Rubber, American Can, Deere, Boeing, United Aircraft and American Telephone.
Secondary railway bonds maintained popularity.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT
CHICAGO, March 8 (AP) — Grain prices held within narrow limits today in the absence of any news concerning possible legislative developments at Washington. Wheat was under some pressure from hedge selling, but oats and rye maintained a firm undertone.
The food distribution administration announced it has purchased 87,000,000 pounds of flour on March 1 and 3, equal to about 435,000 barrels.
Wheat closed ⅝-¾ lower, May $1.47¾-⅞, July $1.48⅛-¾, corn was unchanged at ceilings, May $1.06, oats were unchanged to ¼ lower and rye was ⅝ lower to ¼ higher.
FORT WORTH REPORT
FORT WORTH, March 8 (AP) — Wheat No. 1 hard winter, 1.48¼-51¼.
Barley No. 2 nom 1.05-06.
Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo, per 100 lb. nom 1.90-92; No. 2 white kafir nom 1.81-83.
Corn, shelled, No. 2 white 1.36½-38½; No. 3 yellow 1.21-21½.
Oats No. 3 white 73¾-76¼.

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, March 8. (AP)
Stocks: Easy; low-priced specialties active.
Bonds: Mixed; rail issues advance.
Cotton: Higher; price-fixing commission house buying.
CHICAGO:
Wheat: Declined ⅝-⅞ on hedge selling.
Corn: Unchanged at ceilings.
Hogs: Strong, 10 to 20 cents higher; top $16.00.
Cattle: Strong, active; fed steers $17.35, some held higher.

Draft Limit Raised

status.
In order to distingush men of 38 or older from those under 38, the new regulations provide that the new classification be followed by the letter "H". In the case of a 1-A, for example, the full designation would be 1-A-H.
Four other new Selective Service regulations were issued over the weekend designed to keep agricultural workers on the farms. They provide:
1. When a man is granted deferment for farm work, local boards have "no further discretion" and must keep him deferred. If this makes the local board unable to meet its quota for the armed services, the military call "should be left unfilled."
2. Any man with farming experience now in other work is to get farmer deferment if he returns to farming before he is notified to appear for induction.
3. A farm worker in danger of losing his deferment through failure to meet production requirements must be referred to the county farm war board and 30 days must be allowed for his placement in another farm job before he can be drafted.
4. County farm boards may request the deferment of farm workers or appeal draft board rulings if the worker himself or his employer does not act.

Russian Fighting

Smolensk districts along a wide front.
The mid-day communique announced a further Soviet advance west of Sevsk, where several settlements were captured.
In the Don basin, in the district southwest of Voroshilovgrad, the Red Army was reported fighting off attacks by large enemy forces of motorized infantry assisted by 60 tanks.
Twelve tanks were reported destroyed and a battalion of Germans killed as the attackers were beaten back to their initial positions closed that War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt estimated that only half of the 22,000,000 men in the 18-38 draft age are physically fit. After allowing for essential services in industry, agriculture and for other reasons, he added, 3,300,000 more of this group may expect induction.

Manpower Problem

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard said that we are "approaching pretty rapidly a level of nutrition in this country" comparable to, though not yet equal to, Canada and Great Britain.
President Roosevelt's informal committee has been meeting for several days and has heard Wickard, Hershey, McNutt and others. The question they are discussing is whether the armed services can expand to 11,000,000 persons this year without dislocating agricultural and munitions production and the civilian economy. There is bitter protest from many in Congress that the figure is too high.
The Byrnes board also is expected to develop administration policy toward the Austin-Wadsworth draft-labor bill which would make men 18 through 64 and women 18 through 49 liable for work where and when directed. War Secretary Henry L. Stimson, one of two Republican members of the cabinet, has endorsed draft-labor legislation. McNutt has said he considers such unnecessary and Mr. Roosevelt has been cannily quiet.

May Accept Principle
It is understood, however, that the administration may accept the draft-labor principle at some stage of Congressional debate of the Austin-Wadsworth bill. An administration bill has been drafted differing from the pending measure in that it would put certain compulsions on employers to accept labor as provided under its terms. And it is most likely that the administration would sharply oppose the Austin-Wadsworth plan to relieve men or women drafted for work from any liability to join a union. That provision would end closed shops for the duration.

Decision On Taxes

when the annual return is filed March 15 of the following year.
4. Others — would be required to make quarterly returns and pay quarterly one-fourth of their estimated annual tax (income and victory) for the current year's income. This would affect servicemen, domestics and agricultural labor exempted from the withholding levy; business and professional men; income from interest, rents, royalties, etc.; the tax on salaries above that part covered by the 20 per cent withholding levy.
Supporters of the Ruml plan for a full year's abatement pressed their case in the committee and opponents appeared equally active although willing to cancel a substantial part of the tax year.

Hope For Early Decision
Ways and means committeemen expressed hope a decision might be reached today or early in the week.
The full committee took up the problem again today when the sub-committee failed to report a solution.
The four original tax payment proposals thus reopened are:
1. Ruml plan first proposed by Beardsley Ruml, New York banker — this would abate a full tax year, with certain safeguards against wartime tax "windfalls."

Would Erase 70 Per Cent
2. Robertson plan — Abate the six per cent normal and first bracket 13 per cent surtax on the first $2,000 of 1942 taxable income of all persons. This would erase the 1942 tax obligation completely for 70 per cent of the taxpayers; 90 per cent of taxpayers then would be put on a current payment basis through a withholding levy for earnings deductions, and the 10 per cent in the higher brackets would continue paying their taxes as usual, the current year's taxes falling due in the subsequent year.
3. Doughton No. 1—Apply the much softer 1941 rates and exemptions to 1942 income, and permit the taxpayers to amortize the reduced 1942 obligation over a relatively short period while simultaneously remitting on taxes for the current year.
4. Doughton No. 2—Cancel half of either the 1942 or 1943 tax obligation, the Treasury suggested this as an "alternate" plan.

Allred Favored

said Allred was named to succeed the late Rufus Foster of New Orleans and argued Louisiana should have representation on the court because of that state's peculiar Napoleonic code of law.

Higgins Recommended
They had recommended state supreme court Judge Archie T. Higgins of New Orleans for the post, and asserted Attorney General Francis Biddle had assured them weeks ago that he would recommend Judge Higgins to the President for nomination. Biddle denied before the sub-committee that he had ever committed himself to recommend anyone before he discussed Allred with the President just before the Texan was named.
Allred's confirmation will give Texas two of the six judges on the Fifth circuit court bench and Louisiana none.

News Briefs

The boys out at South Plains Army Flying school will just have to toot their own horns for the next few days. The 329th band stationed at SPAFS, under direction of Warrant Officer Harry Dunham, has gone on a mass furlough. That's right, the entire band. P. S.: Warrant Officer Dunham, minus a band to direct, just went along too.

G. H. Connell, 20, who came here recently from employment at Childress, pleaded guilty this morning of liquor law violation and was fined $100 and costs by County Judge G. V. Pardue.

Luther Frazier, about 35, and Joe Castillo, 17, a Mexican, were removed today from county jail and taken by a penitentiary transfer agent on the first leg of a trip to Huntsville. They were sentenced recently in 72nd district court by Judge Daniel A. Blair, Frazier to two years for forgery, Castillo to five years for robbery by assault.

Burglary of the service station of Earl W. Ince at 2408 Avenue H was reported Sunday to police, who said $25 was taken from a hidden can. Mrs. J. B. Ross of 1811 Avenue J said she lost a money sack stamped "Citizens National bank" and containing $20 to $40. Haskell Patterson of 1923 Second street, Robert Geurin of 201 Avenue R and C. L. Brownlow of Amarillo reported bikes stoen in Lubbock. A 20-year-old Abernathy man was arrested at a night club and held for investigation into whether he had deserted from the Navy.

Grace Singleton Holt, evangelist of New Orleans, will continue a series of revival services at Foursquare Gospel church tonight, speaking on the subject, "Perfect Ammunition." The evangelist recently returned from South America, where she was engaged in missionary work.

A joint meeting of city and county commissions was about to be convened at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon, Spokesmen said they would consider the problem of disposing of physical assets owned by County-City Welfare association and left here by liquidation of WPA. The county commission met this morning. Dr. A. J. Lewis, assistant state veterinarian, appeared before the group in connection with hog cholera and its ravages, and the commission named John LeMond as county sanitation law enforcement officer for three months, at $175 a month, LeMond to furnish his own car and pay his own expenses. His bond was set at $1,000. Otherwise, the session was routine, commissioners said.

I. M. Smith, 60-year-old Brownfield resident, was injured Sunday when the automobile which he was driving struck a culvert on a road south of Brownfield. Lubbock General hospital reported this morning that he received bruises and lacerations and chest and back injuries. An X-ray was planned to determine other injuries, if any. Relatives told hospital aides that Smith apparently dozed at the wheel.

Knocking ice coating off trees Sunday, 12-year-old Bobbie Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Russell of Turkey, received a severe eye injury when a limb flew off and struck him. There is a question of whether his eye may be saved, said Lubbock General hospital officials.

C. E. Luce, deputy U. S. marshal, returned to his office here today after an absence of a week, during which he transferred federal prisoners to the penal institution in Leavenworth, and visited superior officers in Dallas and Ft. Worth. Luce said snowplows were operating on the roads in Kansas and Nebraska, that weather was cold everywhere, and he found little war-time congestion in that area, with food and lodging plentiful everywhere until he returned to Texas—"where the war really is going on," he said.

The cold wave which struck with full force Saturday was losing its grip in the South Plains area today and thermometers were rising. The temperature range Sunday was a low of 13 and a high of 34 for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. This morning's low was 17 degrees, while yesterday the high reading was 45.

C. J. Cummings, 41, 1630 Fifteenth street, Lubbock barber, received cuts and bruises Sunday night when a blowout threw his automobile out of control several miles east of Lubbock, Lubbock General hospital reported this morning.

Three South Plains men are included in a list of 334 American soldiers and officers held as prisoners of war by the Japanese in the Philippine islands, the Associated Press said today. They are Pfc. James C. Gilmore, son of Mrs. Mary Charlett Gilmore of Lubbock, Pvt. Arthur Reed, son of Mrs. Fanne Hall of Lamesa, and Pfc. Guy H. Sisco, son of Claude Sisco of Brownfield. Names of 29 Texans from New Mexico were on the list.

E. A. Scudamore, step-father of H. B. Prickett, 3017 Twenty-second street, died at his home in Natchez, Miss., Saturday night. Mr. Prickett had been at his bedside since Wednesday. Other survivors are the widow and a granddaughter, Mrs. Roger Kuykendall of Pittsburg, Calif., who is visiting her parents. Mr. Prickett will be accompanied by his mother when he returns this week.

Rites Set Today For Mrs. W. C. Garrison

Funeral services for Mrs. W. C. Garrison, 2005 Ninth street, who died Sunday afternoon in Lubbock General hospital after an illness of about a month, were to be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Rix Funeral home chapel, with Rev. John A. Winslow, of St. Paul's Episcopal church, officiating.
Mrs. Garrison had lived in Lubbock 17 years.
She is survived by one daughter,

Market Closes This Afternoon

Despite extremely cold weather, the semi-annual market of Western Wholesale Market association of the chamber of commerce has measured fully to the highly optimistic advance expectations, according to report this morning to Newton Walton, association president.
The three-day market is to come to an official close at 6 o'clock this afternoon. Four floors in Lubbock hotel, including the mezzanine, are in use for the event.

Sunday Is Busiest Day
Sunday was perhaps the busiest one day in the entire 15 years' history of the market, according to long-time observers.
The total volume of business done—exact figures are never tabulated—probably has been exceeded on other single days. But the only reason that this record was not broken, too, officials said, was the fact that quantities of merchandise which could be sold by wholesale and manufacturing representatives was more limited than ever before.
Some of these representatives, according to the report, would not accept new customers. Old customers were given preference, and they took all the merchandise available.
Association officials said that more towns and a larger area were represented by the retailers who came to the market than ever before. They came from points as widely scattered as Texline, Olney, San Angelo, Fort Stockton and numerous points in Eastern, Central and Northern New Mexico.

been bombed off the northern coast of New Guinea.
The most ambitious attempt of the Japanese to retaliate was at Goodenough island, off eastern New Guinea, where 15 enemy planes attacked without causing damage or casualties.
A second formation of four-motored bombers swooped low over the Thailand frontier, and poured bombs into the docks, starting a fire the size of a city block. Lighthouses, a landing field, and a radio station also were shot up, and the approaches to the Myitnge bridge south of Mandalay were bombed.
The Chinese central news agency said the Japanese on the west bank of the Salween had begun a general retreat.
Brig. Gen. Clayton L. Bissell, commander of the U. S. Air force in India and China, said the Japanese air force had been driven out of the sky over the Burma-Yunnan area during February.
The U. S. Navy communique yesterday reported continued air attacks against the Japanese at Munda and Viru in New Georgia island, and Kahili, Buin and Ballale in the Shortland islan darea in the Solomons. Two men were killed when the Japanese attacked American positions at Tulagi, near Guadalcanal.

"Red Cross Like Santa Claus," Marine Says

George P. Kuykendall, chairman of the Red Cross financial drive which will seek $35,000 in donations in a whirlwind, two-day drive here Wednesday and Thursday, today quoted a U. S. Marine wounded on Guadalcanal regarding the help "the Greatest Mother in the World" gives men in the armed forces.

GIVE WAR FUND

The Marine, Rex Moore of Bloomfield, Mo., said while convalescing:
"The Red Cross was just like Santa Claus to us. When we left Guadalcanal, we didn't have enough clothes to get off the island with. Red Cross gave us clothes and duffel bags with shaving outfits, toothbrushes and tooth paste, writing materials, cigarets and other things we needed badly. They sent cablegrams to our folks and looked after our welfare in general.
"At Pearl Harbor the Red Cross saved hundreds of lives. It does lots for the boys. When you help the Red Cross, you help the fighting man."

Mrs. Belle Smith Dies Sunday Night

Funeral services for Mrs. Belle Smith, 70, who died at 9:45 o'clock Sunday night at her home, 1312 Twenty-fifth street, will be held in Southside Church of Christ, with Elder O. D. Dial officiating. Time of services has not been set, pending arrival of a son in the Navy.
Mrs. Smith, a Lubbock resident since 1932, will be buried in Foster cemetery near Brownfield, according to Sanders Funeral home.
She is survived by six sons, A. L., Plains, G. H., with the Navy in California, R. R., Loop, Tex., W. C., Lubbock, C. C., Devine, Tex., J. L., Lubbock Army Flying school; four daughters, Mrs. Ida Blackwell, Campbell, Tex., Mrs. C. H. Fry, Lubbock, Mrs. O. V. Hill, Tokio, Tex., Mrs. Pete Hill, Lubbock; two sisters, Lodie McDonald, Tipton, Okla., Nannie Allison, Waco; one brother, John Norie, Tipton, Okla.; 31 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Mrs. J. E. Mann, 2117 Eighth street; one brother, Marshall Mance, Sanger, Tex.; four sisters, Mrs. W. D. Burkholder, Mrs. Joe Wade, Mrs. Ben Bentley, all of Sanger and Mrs. C. S. Walker, 1607-A Avenue Y.

British Repel Nazi Thrusts

No American plane was lost in either operation.

The Eighth army won a clean-cut victory in the opening phase of the battle which the Allies hope will drive Rommel's forces northward into the sea. The Axis made six separate attacks on Saturday, and after all of them failed the retreat toward the hills began. With an American-British army advancing from the west and the Eighth army beginning to move northward, Rommel was caught in a pincers operation, which the German army used with such success in the early days of the war.

The first attack by the Afrika Korps was made at dawn Saturday. It was repulsed, but an hour later the Germans tried again. This one, too, was beaten back.

At 2:30 p. m. the Afrika Korps attempted to storm the British lines with tanks and infantry six miles northwest of Matamour where the land slopes down to both the southeast and southwest. After it failed, Rommel tried again at 4:30 p. m., striking from the north this time in the Matamour region. That thrust was turned back, and then Montgomery ordered a counter-attack by British tanks and infantry.

Meantime, two other German attacks had failed and by dusk the British controlled the field.

American troops entered Pichon Saturday but then withdrew and took up positions west of the town.

The bill must come up again for final passage.

The senate had difficulty keeping enough members in the capitol to operate but passed finally and sent to the House one proposed constitutional amendment. The amendment would authorize partition of community property of a husband and wife. Now all the estate is subject to inheritance taxation if the husband dies.

The Senate concurred in House amendments to five bills that enlarge the investment field for various funds now limited by statute. The main effect is to include investments in building and loan shares.

House members voted to permit introduction of Jim Crow bill by Rep. H. A. Hill of Fort Worth for segregation of races on busses. Hull said the present Jim Crow law applies to railroads and street railways.

Rep. W. R. Chambers of May offered a bill to clear tax titles on 89,000 acres of land bought by the federal government for Army camp construction in Brown county. Chambers said the land was bought in October, 1942, but owners did not sign deeds for release of the land until Jan., 1943.

New bills in the Senate would let civilian defense auxiliary policemen carry arms; and authorize agreements for release of persons held for venereal treatment if they make periodical reports to the health officers.

Bills on the Senate calendar, any of which might be taken up if four-fifths of the Senators agree, include:

Regulation of campaign expenditures; loan shark injunctions; state aeronautics regulations; increased membership for the board of public welfare, and recodification of the banking laws.

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson had filed with the secretary of state today his approval of bills finally passed last week, providing for a registered system of tattoo mark identification of hogs, sheep and goats; authorizing issuance of teacher certificates to those who instruct deaf, dumb or blind persons; and authorizing by law the small vehicle license plates that the state highway department has purchased for use this year. The bill also permits use of the small plates for 1944 and 1945.

Belgians Are Told Punishment Certain For Axis Criminals

LONDON, March 8 (AP) — Premier Hubert Pierlot of the Belgian government-in-exile assured his countrymen in a broadcast last night that Axis war criminals would not escape punishment by fleeing to neutral countries.

Even now a list of the guilty and their misdeeds is being drawn up, the premier said.

"All attempts on their part to escape punishment will be in vain," he declared. "Germany will not be big enough to hide them. As for the neutral countries, the new international law will not allow them to refuse extradition and they will realize, moreover, that it is in their interest as well as ours to cooperate in securing the establishment of true order in the human society, based on law and legality."

Victims Of Bomber Crash Identified

DALLAS, March 8 (AP) — The Eighth Service command public relations office Saturday released the names of nine men killed in the crash of an army plane near its Alamagordo, N. M., base yesterday.

Those killed, as identified by the command here, were: Second Lieut. John G. Stirplin, Gustine, Comanche county, Texas; Second Lieut. Joseph L. Shumsky, Plainfield, N. J.; Second Lieut. Royce G. Matthews, Diamond (no state indicated); Tech. Sgt. Patrick B. McKay, Latrobe, Pa.; Staff Sgt. William F. George, Chicago; Sgt. Marvin Litz, Philadelphia, Pa.; Sgt. Lawson R. Lewis Warns Against Capital Bureaucrats

BY RANDALL ABERNETHY
Journal Staff Writer

Official Washington is permeated with scholars of "the Louis IV and let-em-eat-cake school" bent upon "vivisection" of the American people, youngish, crisp-talking Fulton Lewis, jr., one of the nation's top-notch radio news commentators, Sunday afternoon told an amiable audience which filled Lubbock High school auditorium.

His listeners—perhaps significantly—applauded every blow dealt "legalistic theorists in a thyroid-ic orgy of regulation making."

Cites Growing Autocracy

"In Washington there is a growing autocracy of bureaucrats, economic sadists and cliches in the White House with the urge to direct everything and do away with the system of free enterprise," he said.

There is a deliberate propaganda campaign, he declared, being waged subtly through press and radio to convince the public that congressmen are "a bunch of bumpkins."

Something can be done about these inroads upon democratic government, he said, by a "realization of fact." His implication was that representatives responsible for radical governmental departures must be voted out and replaced with government fundamentalists.

Should Vote The Men

"A beginning in that direction has been made in Oklahoma," Lewis said, apparently referring to New Dealish Josh Lee's defeat by conservative Ed Moore.

Mindful of Democratic Texas, he said he was not advocating election of Republicans, nor of representatives of any party, for that matter.

"I believe that we should begin to vote men and not parties," he asserted. By doing this, he ventured, we can control the situation and begin to repair the "damage."

Democratic Party Stripped

Speaking of parties, he said the "Democratic party has been stripped of its label; all its principles discarded; its old tenet of decentralization of government has been reversed; and that there is no resemblance between today's Democratic party and the Democratic party of a decade ago.

"All we have left now," he said, "is that little group of master minds."

Lewis divided the Capital scene into two sides: the armed services and war production and the "home front" administration.

"On the first side, they're doing a tremendous job, a magnificent job," he stated. President Roosevelt was commended for his selection of military leaders and his handling of foreign affairs. He praised the Maritime commission and Donald Nelson and the war production set-up.

Jibes At Priorities System

The commentator jibed at the complicated priorities system and its penchant for alphabetical ratings—"the quadruple double-A," for one. He added that new methods were introduced recently featured by "directives" and were so simple and easy that they seemed out of place in Washington.

He attributed the steel "shortage" to production moving ahead of schedule. "The ship plates that were scheduled for delivery next fall already are on ships now at sea . . . The fabricating side is ahead of the output of raw steel."

Expressing gratification at the speedy production program, Lewis cited, as an example, an automobile plant which was making anti-aircraft guns 13 days and eight hours after the last car rolled off the assembly line.

"Other Side" Not Going Well

The "other side"—rationing, price control and manpower programs, the home front economics system—is not going so well, he said.

He discussed the home front government as it affects morale. Its administration, he said, bears greater weight on the citizen's morale than does news from the battle fronts, because, regardless of whether the news is good or bad, the citizen has confidence in his fighting forces and knows his country eventually will be triumphant. He said the citizen's morale is involved when he receives a questionnaire that does not make sense, and when he is asked to sign his car's license number on gas rationing coupons. "He knows that these requirements are unnecessary and that they're just the whim of some theorist."

Scorns Morale-Building Attempts

He scorned attempts of certain officials to build morale. "They seem to think morale is a matter of facial muscles—making them work so that the face is wreathed in a smile . . . As a matter of fact, morale is not there but—inside."

He said it was putting a worker in a frame of mind where he'll make five rivet operations when he can get by with making three.

While expressing hope that point food rationing will be successful, Lewis said that for some time Washington planners have engaged in a "fad like monopoly, mahjong and auction bridge"—trying to work out a "theoretically perfect rationing scheme." Widespread and dangerous black markets have been one result, he said.

Disapproving a trend to try England's social and economic reforms in the United States, he said food rationing was adopted in this country because "Leon Henderson went to England and came back sold on it.

"Now it appears we must have a Beveridge plan," he said. "That's what Mrs. Roosevelt brought back."

"There is room for much improvement in the selection of home administrators," and noting the president's practice of "taking care" of "old friends" . . . "It seems that one of the prerequisites for a government job these days is an election defeat."

Henderson, he observed, was a college professor with not a single day of practical business experience, and added, "professors are necessary—in colleges."

Lewis, who is touring the nation, talked here under sponsorship of the Junior Welfare league. He was introduced by Chas. A. Guy, editor of Avalanche-Journal publications.

Red Cross Campaign

paign neared completion, the chairman emphasized that this is not a "dollar drive" for the Red Cross. Many people, he said, seem to have confused the campaign with the annual Red Cross roll call, when $1 is the usual contribution.

Dollar Apiece Won't Do

"A dollar apiece won't get this job done," Kuykendall declared. "In the annual membership roll call, the usual objective is $10,000,000. In this War Fund drive, the Red Cross is asking $125,000,000 to carry on its war work. The Red Cross cannot do its job with the usual $1 roll call subscription."

The Lubbock county quota, he reminded, is $35,000, of which approximately 45 per cent—nearly half—will be kept here to be spent through the local Red Cross chapter in war work from which the fighting man or his family will benefit.

Rural Meetings Arranged

The chairman also was advised, he reported, that two meetings in rural areas also have been arranged for the present week. B. Sherrod is the rural areas chairman, and serving with him on the committee are Roy Boyd, county school superintendent, and Ed Allen, county clerk.

Boyd announced that the first of a series of meetings to be held within the next two or three weeks in all rural school districts is set for Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in Roosevelt school.

The next is set for Thursday night at 8 o'clock in Idalou community clubhouse. The Cooper district meeting is to be held the night of Tuesday, March 16, also at 8 o'clock.

The program in each place, he added, will include a band concert.

Proper Recreation Is Seen As Aid In Stopping Absenteeism

By JAMES MARLOW And GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

NEW YORK, March 8.—All work and no play makes Jack and Jill—what? Not only dull but maybe an absentee from a war job.

Would you:

Feel ill at ease if you went into a war plant where you knew no one and were just given a number and a job to do?

Or feel a lot better if you were introduced to your fellow workers and put in touch with those who like to do the same things as you in off-work hours—like bowling or dancing?

Association Believes So

The industrial recreation association believes so.

It says that a worker who has good recreation and teamwork with his fellows in a plant is more willing to go back there to his job every day.

The association is non-profit organization which is trying to get industrialists interested in seeing that their workers have some means of recreation after working ours.

Eases Workers' Minds

Recreation, the association says, eases a worker's mind and nervous tension and builds up his muscles, all of which would mean better plant morale and better production with a decrease in absenteeism and labor turnover.

A worker unhappy and discontented in one plant is apt to look for work in another.

Lack of recreation, of course, is only one of the causes of absenteeism. But war plant workers looking for recreation sometimes take time off the job to find it.

Some Extensive Programs

There are war plants which have extensive recreation programs for their workers, but the number of them seems comparatively few.

A plant that has one, however, often employs a full-time recreation director to handle the program, which is treated as an important part of personnel relations.

The association is supported by industries.
