Bloodmobile Here August 12

The Hansford Plainsman

VOLUME 7, NO. 41 THE HANSFORD PLAINSMAN, SPEARMAN, TEXAS 79081 SUNDAY, AUGUST 8, 1976

Goal Is 150 Pints

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Spearman August 12 at the Catholic Parish Hall. The hours are from 10 until 3:15.

Hansford County did not meet its quota of blood donated last year. The need for blood in this region has increased due to more population which leads to more accidents and other cases needing blood.

The procedure for donating will be the same as that used last year, except those donors who have made appointments will be tagged and will be taken first so that they will not have to wait so long to donate blood.

For an appointment to donate blood you may contact Joy McCormack, 659-2271 or Terrye Womble, 659-3272.

A nursery for donors' children and workers' children will be available at the First United Methodist Church. If children are there during the noon hour they should bring a sack lunch.

The quota for Hansford County for this year is 150 pints so you are urged to donate blood if you are physically able to do so, so that others may live and people in this area will have a blood bank when the necessity arises for blood transfusions.

Screwworms Found In County

MISSION, Aug. 3: Lab identification of a screwworm sample in late July marked the first time the livestock pest has been known to be in Hansford County since August of 1972.

Dr. Robert Miller is veterinarian in charge of sterile fly distribution for the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Screwworm Eradication Program. He says ten maggots from castration wounds in steers at Caprock Feedyeard No. 2, eight miles northeast of Gruver, were identified as screwworms on July 30.

The Program is operated for USDA by the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS).

Miller asks livestock owners to submit samples of any worms found in wounds. Free, self addressed, postage paid sample kits are available from County Agents, veterinarians, or livestock inspectors.

By August 2, the Texas screwworm count had grown to 7,170 cases from 137 counties. Other Panhandle counties with known screwworm populations are Dallam, Hartley, Randall, Armstrong, and Collingsworth.

Screwworms are larvae (maggots) of the screwworm fly. Adult females of this species deposit eggs on wounds in warm blooded animals.

As eggs hatch the tiny worms enter the wound to feed on live flesh. While feeding for about a week they grow to nearly half an inch in length; then drop to the ground to pupate for another week before emerging as adults.

The APHIS Program uses the sterile male principle in fighting this pest. Female scarewworm flies mate only once in their lifetimes.

Wild screwworm populations are located by lab study of samples collected by livestock owners. Sterile flies, produced in the APHIS insectary, are released to mate with the wild flies. Eggs produced as a result of a sterile to fertile mating will not hatch, ending the life cycle.

To Model In District Show

SHELLEY FRIEMEL

KAREN KENNEY

ANITA WALKER

Three young fashion experts from Hansford County will model their own creations Thursday, August 12 as they vie for top district honors and the right to represent the 20-county Panhandle area in state competition in San Antonio this fall.

They are Anita Walker, Karen Kenney and Shelley Friemel.

"Bell Ringing 4-H Fashions" is the theme for the 1976 version of the District I 4-H Dress Revue, according to Peggy Marrs, County Extension Agent for home economics.

Site of the event is the Fine Arts Building of Amarillo College.

Already winners of county competition, the young junior and senior 4-H'ers will model creations they've constructed themselves. Contestants are judged on their sewing and construction skills, overall appearance, modeling abilities, and their 4-H record books.

A luncheon for participants at 12:15 p.m. will precede awards presentations. Revue and awards ceremonies begin at 2 p.m. State Senator Max Sherman will present the awards for juniors, and Congressman Jack Hightower will do the honors for seniors.

In addition to the naming of five top seniors, awards will include the recognition of the 4-H'er making the best all-cotton outfit, the best all-wool, and the best all synthetic garment.

Again this year a division has been set up for the best all-western or riding outfit. The dress revue committee explained that because "this mode of dress has become a part of our way of life and heritage, it should be a part of the contest".

The junior level contest, to be staged at the same time as senior competition, is for younger 4-H'ers, ages 9-14. They will not compete beyond the district level. For them, the event offers experience and leadership development.

Senior winners will take their designs to the State 4-H Dress Revue in San Antonio September 17-18.

Parents, 4-H leaders, and special guests will be on hand for the occasion. The public is invited to the revue at 2 p.m.

A 3 p.m. tea sponsored by the Texas Home Demonstration Association will climax the event.

Gruver New Home For Industry

Gruver, Texas, U.S.A., has been selected by Keystone Foods Corporation to be the home of their subsidiaries, the recently formed Cattle Development Corporation, which initially will manage a cattle development program with Caprock Industries.

The new corporation is designed to provide a further step in vertically integrating their business of producing and supplying hamburger patties to their customer which is the well known "McDonalds". In other words, this enterprise is beginning to "grow hamburger patties"!

The chain of events will include Caprock, a subsidiary of Cargil, Incorporation, feeding cattle; Cattle Development Corporation buying cattle from Caprock; having the cattle custom slaughtered and processed and using the boneless meat for their finished products. Caprock will build up the numbers of cattle on feed to provde approximately a 1000 cattle slaughter each week.

The new enterprise for the Gruver area culminates two years of research by Keystone into the raising of cattle particularly suited to the requirements of the fast food industry. Ultimately, this cattle development program is expected to provide a ready and continuing source of domestic beef to support the industry's continued growth and to insure maintenance of the high quality standards requiredc by Keystone.

Richard Ligon is the Vice President/General of Cattle Development Corporation. He and his staff are looking forward to completion of their office unit to be located at 510 Main in Gruver. Other members of the Gruver-based staff will be Quentin Martin of Hereford who will be in charge of cattle purchases; Greg Pye, of Stratford, who is in charge of the cattle on feed; and Jack Birkholz of Dumas who is the accounting manager.

Ligon states that he is looking forward to making Cattle Development Corp. a viable part of the community.

Mr. Ligon and his wife, Bobbie, have two children, Greg, age 14 and Tammy, age 11. For the present, the Ligons plan to maintain their residence in Oklahoma City where Mrs. Ligon is on the faculty of the Yukon School. They will visit Gruver frequently and will maintain a temporary residence here.

Richard, a graduate of Texas Tech, has found several former acquaintenances already during his short stay in the area. Bobbie is a graduate of Hardin Simmons in Abilene. The whole Ligon family are looking forward to being a part of our Gruver community in the future.

Jack Birkholz and his wife, Janice, live in Dumas where Mrs. Birkholz is a CPA, working at Dumas Public Accounting firm.

Insurance Corner

Loss Of Rental Income

Every business has some sort of income - otherwise it wouldn't be much of a business. There is insurance available to cover the gross income in case of a loss through an insured hazard (such as fire) until the business gets back in working order again.

For the owner of commercial or residential-rental property, business income is in the form of rent. When the premises are rendered untenable by reason of the occurence of a peril, the tenants move out and the rental income ceases.

This loss of rental income can be insured also and for the period of such loss, pro-rated in monthly increments would be payable to the insured until, with "due dilligence and dispatch", the insured can make the premises once again livable or operational. This form is most valuable on commercial property, but it is increasingly used on dwellings. It is available as an endorsement (added to the regular hazard policy) or as a built-in feature of available package policies.

Rothe Named Associate Director

Joe H. Rothe

COLLEGE STATION--Joe H. Rothe has been named associate director of the Extension Service, effective August 1. He has served as Extension assistant director and state agent since May, 1971.

Rothe's appointment was announced July 27 by the Texas A&M University System Board of Regents. The Extension Service is the TAMU System's public service agency which provides educational assistance in agriculture, family living and consumer information, 4-H and youth, and community resource development to thousands of Texans.

Rothe has served with the Extension Service for 29 years in roles ranging from state agricultural agent to district agent, county Extension agent and assistant county agent.

"Rothe is uniquely qualified for the position of associate director of the Extension Service. He is extremely knowledgeable about the overall operations of the organization, and is highly respected by both staff members and the agricultural leadership of Texas," said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Extension Service.

The new associate director will fill the position vacated by Pfannstiel when he was named Extension Director, June 1.

"Rothe has provided dynamic leadership in the development of Extension education programs in Texas, and has repeatedly demonstrated his ability to mobilize Extension resources and initiate and implement educational programs to meet the needs of people," Pfannstiel added.

Exemplifying Rothe's leadership has abeen the success of the Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE) control program for Texas horses in the summer of 1971, continuing educational efforts on the part of Extension for the screwworm eradication program, other animal health programs, hurricane and disaster emergency preparedness programs, and in-depth educational programs.

"The expeditious manner in which Rothe has initiated and implemented these vital programs has saved Texas agricultural producers millions of dollars from potential losses, and ultimately reduced food and fiber costs to consumers, said Dr. H. O. Kunkel, A&M's dean of agriculture.

Rothe began his Extension career in 1947 as assistant County Extension agent in Lavaca County, and transferred the following year to Brown County as agent. From 1954 to 1963, he was district agent for Extension District 12, and then served as district agent for District 11 from 1963 to 1965, when he became state agricultural agent.

He received the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Superior Service Award in 1973. He was cited for "Phenomenal success in conducting and supervising educational programs to combat diseases, pests and emergencies, and in mobilizing resources to assure equitable opportunities for farmers in a growing Texas agriculture."

Rothe also was responsible for initiating the successful use of paraprofessional program aides in establishing the Intensified Farm Planning Program as a pilot effort to assist low-income farmers. Through involvement of local committees working with county Extension agents, he was highly effective in the use of production guidelines for many in-depth educational programs.

A native of Hondo, Rothe is a graduate of Texas A&M University and took other graduate courses in supervision at the University of Arkansas.

He achieved the rank of colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve. During World War II, he was awarded the Bronze Star and the French Croix de Guerre for meritorious military service.

Rothe is a past president of the Professional Agricultural Workers of Texas.

He and Mrs. Rothe have a daughter, Mrs. Jim Chiles of Bryan, and a son, Joseph M., of San Antonio.

INDIAN SCENE from "TEXAS", the musical drama of Texas Panhandle history, Chris Spence, Cloetta Benge, Rodger Wilson, John Red Fox, Frank Farmer, Gary Burkman. For tickets write "TEXAS", Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or call 806-655-2182.

Cast Members Have Indian Heritage

Canyon, August 2, 1976... "Texas", the musical drama which plays on summer evenings, is the story of the land in the Texas Panhandle and the people who lived on it, both Indian and Anglo.

The story is told by a cast of eighty, and a supporting company of sixty more - both Indian and Anglo.

Twenty members of the performing company have Indian drums in their heritage, as do eight members of the technical and hospitality crews. Though their names are Lynn, and Cook, Green and Watkins, nine have at least one great-grandparent who was a full-blooded Indian. Stan Easter, Teresa Cook and Rosemary Burkhart each have an Indian grandparent.

Cherokee and Comanche, Sioux and Choctaw, Greek and Apache are represented in the company.

John Red Fox leads the list. He is the grandson of the famed Sioux Chief, William Red Fox who is renowned for his interpretation of Indian characters on stage and in films. Director of the Indians for Buffalo Bill's Wild West Shows, and later for those of the 101 Ranch, he appeared in more than a hundred movies and spent his long life representing his race for audiences of all kinds. He died this spring at the age of 105. John Red Fox plays the role of the old chief in "Texas", and bases a good deal of his interpretation on the character of his grandfather.

The others playing Indian roles in the production draw on the experiences of the ancestors of cast members for their parts.

To see and hear Paul Green's story of the old west write "Texas", P. O. Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015, or call 806-655-2182. The season will run through August 21, nightly except Sundays, and there are many seats left on weekday evenings.

County Agent's Report

Although there is still plenty of hot summer weather ahead, it's time to start getting things in shape for your fall vegetable garden, says Jim Kuykendall, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Spring gardens generally did well in most parts of Hansford County although adverse weather conditions reduced some yields.

Now the fall gardening season is approaching, and that means getting land prepared and getting transplants started as soon as possible.

According to Kuykendall, many popular vegetables such as tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, pole beans, potatoes, okra, cucumbers, and squash can be planted during the coming weeks.

Also, the so-called "winter" vegetables such as broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, greens, parsley and carrots can be planted at this time for early harvesting. Later plantings of these cold-hardy crops will supply fresh vegetables well into winter.

What are some of the important aspects of fall gardening?

First of all, get the land into good shape, emphasizes Kuykendall. If a garden was planted this spring and fertilizer was applied, little if any additional fertilizer will be needed before fall planting.

For new gardens, Kuykendall recommends applying two to three pounds of a complete fertilizer such as 10-20-10 per 100 square feet and working it into the soil. If plants make slow growth, a light amount of fertilizer may be applied between the rows and watered into the soil.

Of major importance for a successful fall garden is an adequate water supply, contends Kuykendall. Since planting is done during hot weather, sufficient water is needed for germination and early growth. Light waterings three or four times a week may be necessary to keep the soil from drying out and crusting. Water stress during early growth of plants can reduce later yields.

Since transplants of recommended varieties of vegetables may be hard to find at local nurseries, Kuykendall suggests buying seed and growing your own transplants. Four to five weeks should be allowed from the time of seeding to setting young plants in the garden.

Transplanting is a good practice in the fall since this allows seed to be started in areas sheltered from high temperatures and drying winds.

Of course, as with all gardens, a wary eye must be kept for such problems as weeds, insects, and diseases. However, Kuykendall contends that the quality and flavor of many vegetables grown in the fall are superior to those from spring gardens.

So, even though the weather will remain hot for a while, get an early jump on your fall garden. Just the thought of fresh garden vegetables this fall should be enough to entice mos: folks, even those with the summer blahs.

Amarillo A's win tourney

Perryton Blues are second

The Amarillo A's, a conglamaration of top young softball talent, defeated the Perryton Blues 13-2 to capture first place in the 16-team Perryton Jaycee Softball held this weekend.

The A's breezed through the tourney unbeaten, while the Blues, who were not picked in the first division of the tourney, fought their way through the losers bracket after losing their first game, and simply ran out of gas in the championship game.

By contrast, the A's, by going the winner's route, had to play only 4 games, while the Perryton team had to play 8 games.

Third place in the tournament went to the Hansford Hustlers of Spearman, who were eliminated by Perryton 11-9 in a game Sunday afternoon.

To get to the finals of the tournament, the Perryton Blues fell first to the Hustlers 13-12 in a very close game, but then came back to put 6 wins on the board in succession.

They defeated the Booker Bombers 14-3, with David Flowers and Rick Cornielson leading the hitting attack. Flowers, in this game, had 3 hits, including a home run and two singles, while Cornielson had two triples and a single. The Perryton Odd-Balls had earlier lost a close decision to Booker, 12-11.

The Blues came back to defeat the Odd Balls 16-1. Sam Lilly had 3 hits in this game, and Flowers had a home run and a double.

Rick LaFollett of the Blues, who was named the most valuable player in the tourney, led the Perryton softballers to their biggest upset of the tourney, as he hit 2 home runs, driving in 6 runs, to lead his team to a 14-12 decision over BAMCO of Amarillo, the pre-tourney favorite.

BAMCO came into the game with the Blues Saturday night, having destroyed the top Oklahoma team in the tourney, Guymon Merchants, 34-6, but the Blues played inspired ball to win.

Coming back Sunday afternoon, the Blues eliminated the Hansford Hustlers from the tourney in a close 11-9 game.

Hansford led 5-0 in this game after 3 innings, but the Blues erupted for 7 in the fifth, and then held off a last minute rally from the Spearman team to get the win.

In this game, LaFollett and Flowers each hit a home run, and David Lilly had 3 hits, including a 3-run double.

In the championship game, the Blues remained close all the way, before the A's broke the game open in the last inning with 6 runs.

The only 2 runs for the Perryton team in the 13-2

Screwworm Cases Cause Concern

Recent cases of screwworms from Armstrong and Dallam Counties have caused some concern among livestock producers in the area. These cases have appeared much earlier than normal and, with 1976 on its way to probably the third worst screwworm case year since the Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program began in 1962, it may be important that we cite the probable cause of the present situation and review the preventative measures in the screwworm eradication program.

The winter of 1975 and 1976 was relatively mild and allowed the screwworm to overwinter farther north and in larger numbers than normal. This condition results in cases occurring farther north much earlier than usual and produces a larger area in which sterile flies must be relased resulting in less potential for satisfactory control.

Another situation that has arisen since the eradication effort began is the lack of adherence to screwworm preventative measures as a result of the sense of security that has developed from the success of sterile-male release programs. Many producers no longer manager their livestock in such a way as to prevent problems with screwworms. It takes a cooperative effort of producers and eradication personnel to produce a successful screwworm eradication program. Adherence to screwworm preventative measures can avert the development of several hundred screwworm flies, each of which can infest additional susceptible animals. All livestock producers should attempt to follow these preventative measures: 1. Inspect animals frequently for sounds and treat navals of all new born calves with a protectant material or manage herd so that calving does not occur during screwworm fly season. 2. Delay animal surgery until cold weather. If surgery is absolutely necessary, treat wounds thoroughly with a protectant material and inspect frequently. 3. Spray animals every two to three weeks until cold weather with preventative sprays of Co-Ral or Korlan. These sprays additionally control hornflies.

Corn Disease Demonstration

DIMMITT--The George Sides farm at Dimmitt is the site of a corn disease demonstration tour Tuesday, Aug. 17 at 1:30 p.m. for corn growers and other interested persons, says County Extension Agent Jim Kuykendall.

A corn disease demonstration nursery was set up this year with 70 commercial hybrids in four-row plots one-half mile long for observation of disease development. Kuykendall says that Dr. Robert W. Berry, area plant pathologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Lubbock, planted the nursery with the cooperation and help of George Sides and Castro County Extension Agent Charles Hottel.

"The most damaging disease has been head smut," Kuykendall says. In 1975 the field had 30 percent infection by head smut which resulted in a 30 percent yield loss below the long time average on the Sides Farm.

"This year," Kuykendall adds, "preliminary evaluations are showing wide differences in varietal response to head smut."

Tour guests also will be able to view the effects of corn rust which attacked all but one of the commercial hybrids. Kuykendall says that with recent rains and dews, ideal rest conditions exist.

Maize Dwarf Mosaic Virus, another serious disease of corn, are also evident in the Sides farm demonstration although infections are not prevelant in most hybrids, Kuykendall adds.

Corn growers and others interested in that increasingly important High Plains crop are urged to attend, Kuykendall says. The tour will begin at the George Sides home seven miles west of Dimmitt on Hwy. 86.

A Laugh from OSHA

WASHINGTON—I never cease to be amazed at the mindless and astonishing ways that federal bureaucrats devise to waste our tax dollars. One marvel follows another.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) of the Department of Labor is perhaps the most controversial of the alphabet-soup regulatory agencies that have sprung up in Washington.

OSHA's foolish, arbitrary and capricious regulations like the one that requires each farmer to place toilet facilities and running water in his fields have reduced many a grown man to tears. I myself have often felt rage, frustration, anxiety or despair upon reading them and then battling to get them modified to conform, a least a little bit, with the circumstances of the real world.

Thus OSHA's latest effort, a pamphlet entitled: "Safety With Beef Cattle," came as a welcome relief. I nearly split my sides laughing as I read it.

This brochure, which OSHA produced at a cost to you and me of $10,000, would be grossly insulting to farmers if it weren't so hilarously funny. Anyone reading it would have a hard time deciding whether it was written for morons or by morons or both.

The "safety tips" that the bureaucrats of OSHA—many of whom, I suspect, would not be able to tell one end of a cow from the other—have to be read to be believed. Let me give you a few examples:

"Hazards are among the main causes of accidents."

"When floors are wet and slippery with manure, you can have a bad fall."

"Ladders that are not strong or have broken steps can cause a bad fall. If yours is broken, do not climb it."

"Tired or hungry or frightened cattle can bolt and trample you."

"Bare feet or sneakers aren't safe around cattle. Wear heavy shoes."

Such rubbish insults the intelligence of everyone who has ever worked on a farm or ranch. I can't imagine a more frivolous waste of taxpayers' money.

OSHA aparently agrees with me. It is attempting to suppress distribution of the existing 100,000 copies of the brochure pending publication of a revised version. OSHA is refusing to hand out copies of it even to U.S. Senators.

The only reason for OSHA's suppression of this brochure is to protect its already poor reputation among farmers and ranchers by trying to prevent public knowledge of its abysmal stupidity.

I'm for handing out all 100,000 copies of "Safety With Beef Cattle." It provides the most graphic illustration possible of the positively astounding ways in which federal bureaucrats waste money. It should be read by every taxpayer.

Dismissed were Ruth Garrard, Mary Lou Eudy, Louise Carroll, Gladys Williams, Sandra Younger, Carrie Russell, Joyce Sparks, Norman Yale, Bill Osborne, Marshal Walker and Donnie Moyer.

IN MEMORIAM

To the friends of David.

When I must leave you for a little while
Please do not grieve and shed wild tears
And hug your sorrow to you through the years.
But start out bravely with a gallant smile;

And for my sake and in my name
Live on and do all things the same.
Feed not your lonliness on empty days,
But fill each waking hour in useful ways.

Reach out your hand in comfort and in cheer
And I in turn will comfort you and hold you near;
And never, never be afraid to die.
For I am waiting for you in the sky!

County Agent's Report

Screwworms have mounted a siege on the Lone Star State this spring and summer, and the coming months hold little promise for relief.

Virtually all of Texas is now subject to the menacing flesh-eating livestock pest, points out Jim Kuykendall, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Recent cases in Montague county in North Texas and in Baylor, Cottle, Kent and Motley counties in the Rolling Plains mean that screwworms are now within striking distance of all livestock in the state. Therefore, it's vital that producers check their livestock regularly, spray for flies, treat any wounds, and send any worms found in wounds to the Mission Lab for identification, emphasizes Kuykendall.

If the worms are identified as larvae of the screwworm fly, then action will immediately be taken to bombard the area where the case was reported with sterile flies reared at the Mission Lab. Sterile flies will breed with wild screwworm flies, rendering any eggs that may lay as sterile. Thus the eggs won't hatch. Of course, the screwworm fly dies after mating, so the mating process with the sterile flies breaks the reproductive cycle of the screwworm.

Texas screwworm cases in June totaled 2,306 and were double those recorded in June of 1975, points out Kuykendall. That makes this June the third worst on record since the screwworm eradication program got under way in 1962. Through July 28 a total of 6,398 screwworm cases have been confirmed in Texas this year.

With the recent wet weather in South Texas, a letup in the screwworm siege is not likely. And, traditionally, screwworm cases have been high during the fall months. So, the outlook isn't good, surmises Jim Kuykendall.

However, a new effort that may eventually keep the screwworm eradication program begins in Mexico. That's when the first consignment of flies from the new insectary at Tuxtla Gutierrez is scheduled for delivery to Baja, California.

Livestock producers lose millions of dollars each year to parasites. And total losses are even higher when parasite-weakened animals fall victim to various diseases, points out Jim Kuykendall, county agent with the Texas agricultural Extension Service.

The first step to controlling and eliminating parasites is to understand how they infest livestock.

'Parasites are organisms that feed off other living organisms, Kuykendall explains. Fleas, lice, ticks and mites are the most common external parasites. Inside the host, roundworms, hookworms and tapeworms cause considerable damage.

Horses, cattle, pigs, sheep, goats, dogs, cats and rabbits may serve as hosts to parasites. And since these animals often live in close confinement and under unsanitary conditions, parasites are often difficult to control.

Young stock are more susceptible to parasites, notes Kuykendall. Immatureanimals may die of anemia caused by blood-sucking worms in the intestinal tract or from severe infestations of lice on the outside.

Other young animals die from damage to vital organs caused by immature forms of roundworms moving through the organs during their life cycle.

As these animals reach maturity, they develop some immunity to the effects of internal parasites and certain external ones. Their natural defenses usually keep parasites under control, except in adverse conditions and times of stress.

The best way to control parasites is to break life cycle, points out Kuykendall. This can be accomplished by preventing infection of the animal by the free-living forms of the parasite through proper nutrition, pasture rotation, cleanliness and good sanitation. And in areas of intense livestock production, slatted floors for penned animals help prevent reinfection from contaminated wastes.

Most livestock also need regular worming treatments to destroy internal parasites until the animal is old enough to establish immunity. Even then, periodic worming is beneficial when combined with proper management and nutrition.

External parasites are best controlled with recommended sprays and powders.

If you have a serious parasite problem in your livestock consult a veterinarian for a complete control program, adds Jim Kuykendall.

Lost, strayed, or stolen is this beautiful two-year old female Alaskan Malemute, a valued animal and family pet, who disappeared from the W. L. Maupin Ranch east of Gruver between 8:00 and 8:30 A.M. Tuesday, August 3rd. A reward is offered for information leading to her safe return. Call collect 806-733-2564 or 806-733-2988 for her owner, Sher Maupin, misses her very much.

IF OVERCOME BY GAS

Over 1500 people a year are accidentally killed by poisoning from gas or vapors. Of these, over two third occur in or around the home. If you do find someone overcome by gas, in all cases, first remove the victim from the contaminated area into the fresh air. If this is not possible, open all doors and windows and shut off the poisonous gas at the source. Immediately give artificial respiration and call a doctor.

The gas most often causing asphyxiation is carbon monoxide, a colorless, odorless by-product of incomplete combustion in any material such as coal, wood, gas, paper, or charcoal. This gas is usually produced in the home because of faulty heating equipment. However, other gases capable of asphyxiation are: Manufactured gases leaking from appliances, and fumes from chemicals such as carbon tet (cleaning fluid) when used with little or no ventilation.

REMEMBERING...

QUILTING

During the winter months the ladies would get together at one house for quiltings. The hostess would have the quilt frames set up ready to use. She would have enough quilt squares done up and provide other materials necessary to make a quilt.

A quilt frame consisted of four boards which could be pinned together to form a rectangle the size of a quilt. Several holes about an inch apart in each end of the boards allowed for adjustment. Large nails fitted into the holes to pin the corners together. The frames were hung about 30" above the floor by cords attached to hooks in the ceiling. They were pulled up to the ceiling when not in use.

The bottom, or backing, of the quilt was the first thing to be put on the frame. It was usually a large piece of unbleached muslin, sometimes dyed a pretty color (some quilters just used a sheet). It was stretched tightly and pinned to cloth strips that had been tacked over the length of the frames.

Next a "batting" or layer of cotton was placed over the muslin. The cotton had been carded to an even thickness. The top, the pretty part, was put carefully in place over the cotton.

The top was made of several "squares" or small pieces of material about 12" square that had some sort of design on them. The designs were patchwork, embroidered, cross-stitched or might be colored pieces sewn to a plain background. The squares were all sewn together, sometimes on the tredle sewing machine, but usually by hand.

With the top in place the ladies gathered around, sitting on cane-bottomed chairs and, with needle, thread and thimble, started stitching the layers together, slowly, surely, with a feeling no machine could match. The stitching was done amid talk that bordered on gossip (not gossip really, more like conversation of community affairs).

The stitches had to be done to a set pattern. Each had to be the same length and pulled to just the right tautness. When stitching was finished on the outer part the frames were unpinned and rolled up so that the inner part of the quilt could be reached. When the stitching was done the quilt was removed from the frame and a border was sewn around its edge.

The thing I remember most about quilting was the fun young boys could have. We would crawl under the quilt as they were working on it and we would pretend it was a big circus tent or a fluffy cloud. We would sometimes stand up and push our heads up into the softness of it only to get thumped with a thimbled finger and told to get down lest we catch a needle in our heads. One lady disapproved of pets in the house and had a general dislike for dogs. For meanness we used to get right by her leg under the quilt and growl. She was usually the first one to leave.

The quilts would last for many years, most being handed down. Many are still in use today.

Guymon Artists Showing Set

Artist Studio Northwest of Guymon will have a members' limited price showing on Saturday, August 28th from 10:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. There will be art work available in all media and various craft items. Everything will sell for $30. or under. On art work frames may be priced seperately.

The show will be in Courthouse Park at 319 N. Main in Guymon. If weather does not permit the outdoor location, the exhibits will be set up in the County Annex building adjacent to the courthouse.

According to Jo Dunham, Club president, "There will be many lovely paintings and craft items priced within everyone's budget. Also, there will be a drawing every hour during the day and ten lucky people will win a prize. If you are an early Christmas shopper, the show will provide an excellent opportunity to see an interesting variety of gifts.

This will be the second show for the art club. The first was held in May during the Pioneer Day celebration and was received very well by the public. The non-profit organization began in October, 1975, for the purpose of fostering interest in the fine arts and related fields, to create a civicminded fellowship among practicing artists, and to promote public interest and appreciation of local artists. These past months, the meetings have included demonstrations in oil, watercolor, wood-carving, and printlifting. A series of watercolor classes were also established by Richard Harris from Hugoton, Ks.

In the future, the club plans to continue interesting programs, and establish workshops and classes in various media. Anyone living in the area who is interested in art is invited to join the organization.

DOORSTOPS

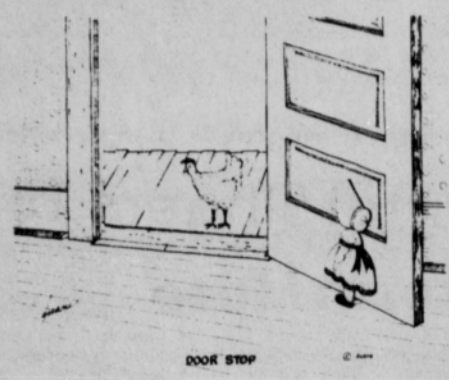

Years ago folks were as apt to decorate their homes as they are today — by adding special little knick-knacks here and there. The difference is that most items like this are bought in stores today but back then many were made by hand right in the home.

One thing I was remembering the other day that I haven't seen in quite a spell is doorstops. Everyone used to have one or several in the home to prop the doors open for ventilation. There were hundreds of different designs and styles but each showed the individually and craftsmanship of its maker.

The simplest ones were wedges of wood that could be pressed under the bottom of the door to hold it in place. There were ordinary bricks wrapped with cotton padding and covered with bright colored material. This type set on the floor and held the door in position by the weight of the brick while the cloth cover brightened the room.

Often times large and unusual or pretty rocks were used for doorstops — they were usually a conversation starter as well. Some friends of ours had such a rock by their front door. It looked like an ordinary rock, but it had small chunks of bright gold-colored things in it that we figured were real gold nuggets, worth maybe a "hunnert dollars." The man finally told us it was something called "fool's gold," not worth much except to look at. I could see how it got its name because it certainly fooled us.

More elaborate doorstops were made of wood from apple boxes. They were sort of silhouette pictures of people or animals or other things. The ones I remember like this were a Dutch windmill, a rabbit, and a little girl with a bonnet. They were painted bright colors and a wedge-shaped piece of wood was nailed to their bottom. The wedge fitted under the door and held the fancy doorstop upright. These were very popular projects for youngsters to build at vacation Bible school.

One lady took a quart mason jar, pasted pictures of all her children inside it facing outward. Then she painted the rest of the inside of the jar so that just the pictures showed and you couldn't see inside it anymore. She molded a base for it from plaster of paris and it made a nice doorstop. She used to laugh and say her kids were holding the door open.

People liked things better back then if they served more than one purpose. The doorstops did their job properly but most added a touch of cheerfulness to the home as well.

Frisky, playful children will be going back to school, soon. It's up to every motorist to drive extra carefully, extra watchfully. Our children's lives may well depend upon it. Play it safe.

How To Drive The Freeway

Amarillo -- A Highway Department pamphlet, "How to Drive the Freeway," instructs the following about getting off the main lanes of a highway; "When you enter the frontage road, adjust your speed to the new driving situation. Remember, you no longer are on the freeway."

New driving situations now exist at the Interstate Highway 40-Western Street westbound exit ramp and at Interstate Highway 27-45th Avenue, both north and southbound exit ramps.

Motorists westbound on Interstate Highway 40 exiting at Western and north or southbound on the Canyon Expressway exiting at 45th should be aware that now neither they nor the frontage road traffic are forced to yield right of way.

The yield signs at these exit locations have been removed. Parking has been restricted on the right side of the frontage road from the exit ramps to Western and 45th.

"This increases the efficiency of the frontage road," said A. L. McKee, Amarillo District Engineer of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The volume of traffic on the frontage road at the Western Street exit warranted the change from the customary exit ramp, McKee said. The Interstate Highway 40-Western site was changed on July 1. However, the Interstate Highway 27-45th northbound ramp was altered on a trial basis in January 1975.

The new traffic feature has proved successful here and at highway frontage roads statewide. Most freeway exit ramps in El Paso, for instance, are now free of yield signs.

At Western and Interstate Highway 40, frontage road traffic in the far right lane had to yield to exiting vehicles. The new feature eliminates the need for the driver in the far right lane to yield or slow down. Vehicle positioning rather than forced yielding is the means by which the motorist now enters the frontage traffic flow at these three sites.

The exit ramp alterations were performed by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation in conjunction with the City of Amarillo

Intensive Seminar Is Scheduled

"All the Bible You'll Ever Need" is the title of an intensive seminar resourcing imaginative change, led by the Rev. Roger B. Knapp of Austin at the First Presbyterian Church of Spearman on September 10-12.

Roger B. Knapp, a member of the Palo Duro Union Presbytery, is recognized as an innovative interpreter of the scriptures and contemporary living. Now completing his doctoral studies at McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, Knapp has been awarded a certificate of biblical studies from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland. Having been graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary and Duke University in North Carolina, Knapp has served congregations in Taos, New Mexico; Bartlesville and Tulsa, Oklahoma; Hereford and Sweetwater, Texas.

The seminar will be open to a minimum of twenty persons and a maximum of twenty-four. While Presbyterians will be given the preference, this will be open to anyone. People planning to register should do so with Helen Etter by August 31. The cost is $15 for an individual and $25 for a couple. It is intensive and fun and is a playful workshop for energetic people who dislike traditional bible studies. Sessions will be Friday, September 10, 6:30 to 11:00 p.m.; Saturday, September 11, 9:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.; Sunday, September 12, 1:30 to 6:00 p.m.

TENNIS: PLAY IT WITH STYLE

As with other forms of recreation, winning or losing isn't nearly so important as how you play the game. This year more than ever the tennis buff is expected to play with style.

In a California tennis shop, a portly but well-coordinated gentleman was overheard saying: "When you play on the John Wayne courts, you gotta be in whites or you don't play."

Most tennis courts aren't so classic in their dress code, however. In fact, most courts are a blaze of colors this year as men and women rush to the net in striped T-shirts and matching shorts.

Even tennis whites have a surprise smash of color. Men's white shorts sport tricolor stripes down the leg. Rather Gucci in effect and very chic. White tennis skirts for the ladies might hide flashes of orange, strawberry, chocolate or lime in inverted pleats. Very kicky.

The adult tennis player averages four or five outfits. If your own style game is under par, get with the action.

If your game on the court needs more action, take a tip from Olympic athletes. A light meal before the game is the way to go. Carnation Instant Breakfast mixed with whole milk supplies plenty of food energy and bounce. Maybe that's why it's the official instant breakfast of the 1976 Summer Olympics in Montreal.

There's still more action in the racquets themselves. The newest thing is a frame of graphite. Light yet amazingly strong, graphite is the most elite racquet you can buy at a cost of about $160.

If you're not ready for such an investment, consider dressing up the racquet you already have. Forget novelty canvas and vinyl covers. What you want this year is something with quality and class. The genuine leather tennis racquet cover is in, and happily it's available in a wide range of styles and prices.

Twenty-five dollars buys quite a respectable leather racquet cover with a large enough pocket for several tennis balls. Fifty dollars buys a double racquet cover attached to a satchel, providing room for clothes and towels as well. And forty dollars buys the mind-blowing banjo cover that's definitely oneupmanship. It wraps the racquet—handle and all—in smooth cognac colored leather. Sling it over your shoulder by the matching strap and stride purposefully onto the court. Your opponent is dead.

Even if you don't usually care for strenuous sports, how can you resist such a dashing game?

In these days of energy consciousness, plastics have at times been branded as a waste of natural resources and energy. The fact is, plastics use less than two percent of the total world production of petroleum and help save energy because less is used in manufacturing plastics and plastic products than in alternate materials.

Additionally, plastic products, such as those made from widely-used polypropylene, add to the comfort and convenience of modern-day life. The appliance, automobile, clothing, food packaging and medical supplies industries are just a few of the manufacturers of today's necessities that broadly use plastics to improve their products.

Please Note . . .

We are frequently being asked what new crop milo will bring. At one time we were able to buy all that was offered to us on the contract price of $4.50 per cwt. However, since the market has declined substantially, it is most difficult to tell a farmer what the market is on new crop milo until we have actually made a sale. Lately we feel it has been too cheap to sell.

J. C. Cluck of Gruver looks at his cattle and grass. Grass was established on his farm while participating in the Great Plains Conservation Program.

Lush Grass Result of Conservation

A federal law that has brought about a more stable agriculture, more dependable income, and an improved quality of the environment in the Great Plains is 20 years old this month.

The Great Plains Conservation Act was signed into law by President Dwight D. Eisenhower on August 7, 1956. Under terms of the legislation since that time, more than 50,000 farmers and ranchers in 10 states have entered into long-term conservation contracts with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Under the contracts, producers agree to carry out all needed conservation on every acre of their farm or ranch. This might include improving rangeland, installing minimum tillage farming systems, terracing, establishing windbreaks, strip cropping, or converting erosion-prone cropland to grass.

USDA's Soil Conservation Service provides technical assistance to producers in planning and installing needed conservation measures. SCS also shares in the cost of installing certain measures.

In 1969, Congress enacted a bill to extend the provision of the program to December 31, 1981. The program is applicable in 123 counties in Texas.

During the first 20 years of the program in Texas, there have been 14,696 Great Plains contracts planned and developed covering more than 18 million acres. Major practices installed to date include range seeding 1.2 million acres; terraces, 29,000 miles; brush management, 3.4 million acres; cropland converted to grass, 488,000 acres; and rangeland improvement, 7 million acares.

The lush grass on a 246 acre tract of the Pete Cluck farm 9 miles west of Gruver is living evidence of what the Great Plains Program has accomplished. Before treatment, the track was treated as dry farm land with very low production.

The good growth of grass now provides Mr. Cluck with extra forage for his livestock, and protects farm land below it from erosion.

Other practices under the Great Plains Program in the District include installation of waterways, diversion terraces, parallel terraces, land leveling and re-organization of irrigation of irrigation systems by installing underground pipeline and tailwater recovery systems.

Rangeland has been improved through the program by brush control and re-seeding, crossfencing of pastures and establishment of livestock water wells and water storage facilities.

Since the inception of the Great Plains Program in Hansford SWCD 163 contracts have been developed with producers for treatment of 164,826 acres of cropland and rangeland.

Bullock Takes Steps To Stop "Drip gas" Operations

AUSTIN--Comptroller Bob Bullock said that agents from his Amarillo District Office have seized a tractor-trailer truck and sealed the pumps at a McLean service station as a first step in an effort to shut down illicit "drip gas" operations in the Panhandle.

Bullock said the truck, valued at $2,000, will be pending an audit for motor fuel tax liability.

If the taxes are not paid, the truck and its load will be auctioned off, he said.

The Comptroller explained that Panhandle oil field operators have been plagued by thefts of "drip gas", which is rough fuel that condenses naturally into collection containers in the oil field. Much of the stolen drip gas finds its way into service station pumps, he said.

"If it's mixed with regular gasoline, you might not notice," Bullock said. "But if it's sold straight, it causes engines to knock badly. All we have to do then is follow the line of complaining motorists."

He said the truck's operator was charged with transporting motor fuel without a manifest and without a motor fuels permit. The service station pumps were sealed after the owner could not prove taxes had been paid on their contents, he added.

Bullock said his office is cooperating with Gray County authorities in connection with any criminal charges that may be filed.

Speech & Hearing Center Hits ⅓ of Goal

The $400,000 mark or one-third of the $1.2 million campaign goal for the Speech and Hearing Center has been reached. The sum was announced Wednesday morning at the meeting of the Community Division.

Leading the campaign group was Jim Cook, chairman of the Special Gifts Division with a total of 48 pledges totaling $51,358.00.

Cook said that he knew that everyone involved in the campaign was moving rapidly to put "this one....over the top".

Among the pace setters is the Amarillo Clearing House which pledged $60,000. The Clearing House is made up of Amarillo National Bank, Bank of the Southwest, The First National Bank of Amarillo, North State Bank, Tascosa National Bank and Western National Bank.

The monies will be used to construct the new Amarillo Speech, Hearing and Language Center in the Amarillo Medical Center on Wallace Blvd.

The Center presently serves over 6,000 Speech, hearing and language impaired adults and chiladren from all over the Tri-State region. The new Center will double the capacity as well as housing the most up-to-date technological equipment available anywhere. A potpourri of three houses, a tractor showroom, and a garage, the present Center opened its doors in 1959, thanks to the generous and diligent work of C. Lowell Munday.

Agriculture's Top Ten Problems

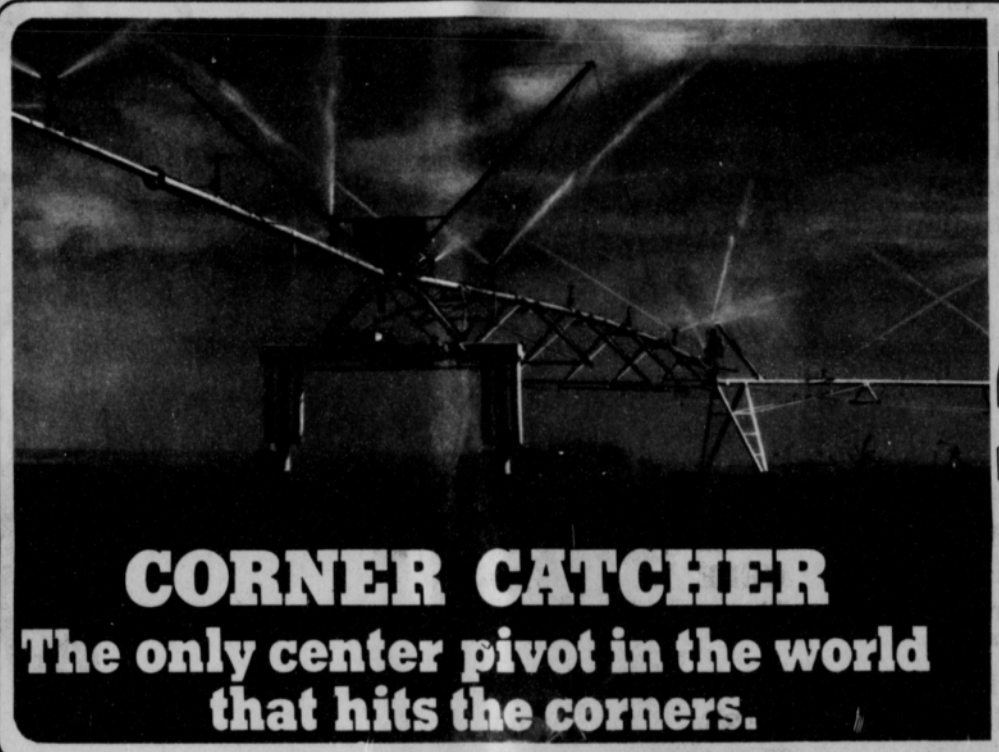

In the July 9th "Cattle Feeder's Report", it was noted that according to Dr. Thomas Jukes, professor of Medical Physics, University of California at Berkley, agriculture's top ten problems include (1) Environmental Protection Agency, (2) environmentalists, (3) consumer activities, (4) Congress and government, (5) mass media, (6) school science textbook industry, (7) academicians, (8) "health food movement", (9) transgressions of the chemical industry, and (10) severe deterioration of public attitudes toward agriculture.
