Martinez sentenced to 25 years

Eddie M. Martinez was convicted of the May 19 murder of Florentino "Tino" Sanchez and sentenced to 25 years confinement in the institutional division of the Texas Department of Corrections, on Thursday in the 32nd Judicial District Courtroom.

Wayne Basden of Big Spring and Frank Ginzler of Colorado City represented Martinez, and Frank Conard represented the state in the case presided over by Judge Weldon Kirk and heard by an eight woman, four man jury.

Basden told jurors at the beginning of the third day of the four day trial - as the defense began to present its case - that Martinez and his family were happy until Tino Sanchez came into their lives.

Sanchez began arriving at the house late in the evening and on six occasions the children asked him to leave, Basden said, he even once asked Martinez's 13-year-old daughter to go drink beer.

His wife left in April, Basden said, and at that time Martinez was told by his children that Tino had come to the house and of tales of drugs.

"We want you to know how Eddie felt," Basden told the jurors, "at that moment of the incident."

Eddie Martinez was the first witness that the defense lawyers called to the stand on the third day of the trial.

He told the jurors that since last October, when he returned from east Texas where he worked at a cotton gin, that there had been problems - arguments and tension - between his wife, Yolanda, and himself.

The arguments continued until April 1991, Martinez said, at that time her parents came to Colorado City and took her and their youngest son home with them.

Martinez said that his daughter, Jennifer, told him - about a week after Yolanda had left - that she had left because of Tino Sanchez.

He was told that his wife was seeing Sanchez at his work and that Yolanda had been calling Sanchez at work.

She returned to Colorado City on May 16 and drove up to the house, Martinez said, at about one-quarter till eight as the kids were getting ready to leave for school.

Yolanda wouldn't get out of the car, he said, and I finally dragged her out.

As she went into the house I saw that she had her sweater on inside out and saw hickies on her neck, Martinez said, and she took the sweater off to turn it right-side out and I saw hickies on her breasts.

When I asked about it she told me - don't think what you're thinking, Martinez said, and told him that she had stopped in Loraine and had seen a person.

The knowledge of what his children had told him led to the conclusion of who the person she had seen was, Martinez said.

On that same day, after the children left for school, Martinez and his wife went to Snyder to buy groceries, he said.

As Martinez went to open the trunk of the car to put the sacks of groceries in, he saw enough

MAJOR WRECK: This 1982 Oldsmobile was involved in the major accident on Interstate 20 near Loraine on Wednesday, one of the seven weather related wrecks that occurred in Mitchell County.

Icy conditions lead to 7 accidents; 2 fatalities

Icy road conditions in the area on Wednesday were instrumental in 7 accidents being investigated in the Mitchell County area.

The first accident occurred at approximately 5:15 p.m. at Loraine and involved a 1982 Oldsmobile passenger car and a 1984 Peterbilt truck. Two persons died in the accident.

Laverne Byrd Bell, 61, the driver, and Glenn N. Bell, 68, both of Midland, who were in the Oldsmobile, were pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Keith Ruddick.

Department of Public Safety trooper Kenneth Wadsworth noted that both vehicles were westbound when the incident occurred.

The passenger car was passing the truck when they came up on the icy bridge, the car struck the truck, then the guard rail, then slid in front of the truck and was hit on the drivers side of the car by the Peterbilt - driven by Paul Eddins of Moncure, North Carolina - Wadsworth said.

Mrs. Bell was a deputy county clerk in Midland County, he noted, and they were returning from a trip to check into purchasing a retirement home.

The efforts of the Loraine Volunteer Fire Department were recognized by Wadsworth, who noted their help in directing traffic and assisting at the scene.

The second major accident occurred at approximately 8 p.m. on Wednesday evening and involved a 1987 Mazda driven by Jeremy Alvarez, with his father, Marcello Alvarez, Jr., as a passenger in the car.

State lottery amendment to be decided Tuesday

Of all the propositions on the Nov 5 ballot, Proposition 11 is probably the one which needs no explanation. It is the least complicated and the most controversial.

A constitutional amendment - Proposition 11 - which would permit the legislature to authorize the state to operate lotteries and to enter into a contract with one or more legal entities that will operate lotteries on behalf of the state will be questioned by voters on the Nov 5 election.

Since the constitution was adopted in 1876, the legislature and the Penal Code has prohibited lotteries and 'gift enterprises.'

In 1980 the state amended the law to permit bingo games and again in 1989 to permit raffles. Under the constitution, bingo and raffles may be conducted only by charitable organizations. The state taxes gross receipts from bingo, rentals for bingo halls and bingo prizes. Charitable raffles are not taxed.

Pari-mutuel betting on horse and dog racing was authorized by a statewide referendum in 1987; no constitutional amendment was proposed.

Pari-mutuel pools are divided between bettors, track owners, horse and dog owners, and the state.

If Proposition 11 is approved, the legislature may, but is not required to, adopt a law authorizing a state lottery.

The amendment specifically provides that all or part of the operation of the lottery may be delegated to private firms.

House Bill 54, passed in the 1st Called Session of the 72nd Legislature, establishes a lottery to be administered by a division of the office of the comptroller of public accounts.

Proceeds from the sale of lottery tickets will be used to pay prizes, administrative costs, and ticket sales agent commissions, with the balance going into the state's general revenue fund.

House Bill 54 will take effect only if the constitutional amendment authorizing a lottery is approved.

Vote for Prop. 4 on Tuesday ballot

Proposition 4 may be the most important of the constitutional amendments that voters will decide on the Nov 5 election.

The ballot totals of this proposition are to be used as a referendum by the county's Board of Economic Development to decide whether the community wishes to pursue a unit of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, specifically a 500 bed drug and alcohol rehabilitation center, which local state legislators have voiced that they would assist in the efforts of securing for Mitchell County.

Law enforcement officials have come out with strong support of the amendment which will provide $1.1 billion dollars in general obligation bonds for prisons and substance abuse punishment facilities.

The current facilities of the Texas prison system, youth corrections institutions, and mental health and mental retardation institutions are below current needs and projections of future needs.

The Texas Department of Criminal Justice and the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation have been monitored by the federal courts since 1974 as the result of two federal court cases that challenged on a constitutional basis the adequacy of the services and facilities provided for inmates in the Texas prison system and for retarded patients in mental health and mental retardation institutions.

The lack of facilities and unsuitable facilities have resulted in the state operating a system that are arguably in contempt of federal court orders.

The lack of prison facilities has also created a backlog of convicted felons in county jails, causing an overcrowding crisis in many of those jails.

This proposition has been supported by many local organizations, as well as state organizations that wish to deter crime.

The management and staff of the Record urges your vote in favor of this important proposition!

Chamber of Commerce hires executive director

Chamber of Commerce president, Marsha Burrus-Jordan, has announced that Jay McCollum has been hired by the chamber to assume the duties of chamber manager effective on Nov 18.

"I am excited about the opportunity to come back to Colorado City," McCollum said in a recent interview, "the job of a chamber manager requires that the community be sold as a product, and I believe in Colorado City - it's people and assets."

"Colorado City has assets that point to bringing in industry and tourism," he said.

McCollum noted that, "the transportation network of highways and railroads, the two lakes, excellent hunting, the climate and a relatively low cost of living point to industry and tourism."

McCollum is returning to Colorado City from Houston where he has served as vice-president of marketing/sales for Santrol Products of Houston.

He has worked with oil-related See CHAMBER, page 2

300 hunters expected for season opening

Over 300 deer hunters are expected in Mitchell County for the official opening of hunting season, game warden Randy Bullard said.

Landowners and hunters are reminded that white-tailed deer season in Mitchell County will open Sat, Nov 2 and run through Sun, Jan 5, 1992.

The usual number of hunters that arrive on the opening weekend is in the range of 500-600, he said.

The reduction in this year's opening weekend hunter count is due to the Spade Ranch participating in a wildlife management program, Bullard said.

Up to 280 hunters have been at the Spade Ranch on opening day in the past, he noted.

Bullard said that hunting will begin at the Spade Ranch on Nov 16.

Vote against

Voters should be aware of the negative controversy which is associated with constitutional amendments 6, 7 and 10, before casting their ballots in the Nov 5 constitutional amendment election.

These propositions have gathered the most negative controversy.

Proposition 6 - Creating the Texas Ethics Commission and authorizing the commission to recommend legislators' salaries, subject to voter approval, and to set per diem for legislators -

The Texas Ethics Commission was created by statute during the last regular session. The commission will assume primary responsibility for the enforcement of ethics laws, including those dealing with campaign financing, lobby registration, financial disclosures, ethics training and complaint investigation.

If this proposition fails the Ethics Commission will still exist with all the same responsibilities except those relating to legislators' compensation. The commission would be statutory instead of constitutional.

Texas voters have cast their votes against similar amendments in 1971, 1972, 1973, 1984 and 1989.

The argument in favor of having the commission established constitutionally is that it would be protected from future legislative raids.

Those against are unhappy with the selection process for commission members and are concerned with the monetary salary and per diem levels of the lawmakers that the commission will have.

Proposition 7 - Expanding the investment authority of the boards of trustees of statewide public retirement systems -

Such boards of trustees of statewide retirement systems are restricted by the constitution to investing system funds "in such securities as the board may consider prudent investments."

A 1980 attorney general's opinion concluded that the use of the term "securities" in the constitution precludes any direct investments in real estate by retirement system boards.

If this proposition were to be passed, they would no longer be restricted to investing only in securities and could make direct investments in real estates.

There are a lot of mixed emotions concerning this proposition as investing in real-estate seems inappropriate as well as a risky use of state funds.

Proposition 10 - Authorizing a property tax exemption for property owned by a nonprofit water supply or wastewater service corporation -

This proposed amendment would authorize the legislature to provide an ad valorem tax exemption for property owned by nonprofit water supply or wastewater corporations.

The argument supporting this proposition is that they are in fact non-profit organizations.

The opposing view is that tax bases will be further eroded and that though the organizations are considered non-profit, many of them could lose any difference and that the general public would end up paying for the corporations to get a break.

Similar amendments to provide property tax exemptions for nonprofit water supply corporations were turned down by the voters in 1969 and again in 1973.

Vote for

A milestone of sorts will be reached on Nov 5 when voters go to the polls to pass judgment on a baker's-dozen of proposed constitutional amendments - this means that Texans will have been asked to amend the constitution more than 500 times since its adoption in 1876. So far, 328 amendments have been approved.

For a variety of reasons, certain types of amendments have a tendency to appear on the ballot with a great deal of regularity.

The most frequent propositions deal with debt creation, permanent/dedicated funds, property tax exemptions and local government.

The set of proposed amendments is no exception as 9 of the 13 deal with these same topics.

Local government: Proposition 1 on the ballot is the only local government-related proposal on the ballot.

Under a strict reading of the home-rule amendment, a home-rule city loses the authority to amend its charter if the city's population decreases to 5,000 or less.

If the proposed constitutional amendment is approved, a home-rule city may amend its charter regardless of the city population.

Currently, there are approximately 36 home-rule cities in Texas - of which Colorado City is included - with populations of 5,000 or less.

Those cities, many of which have operated under home-rule for decades, should not be prevented from amending their charters simply because their populations have decreased to 5,000 or less.

Bonded Debt: Propositions 8, 12 and 13.

Since the constitution contains a general prohibition against the creation of state debt, an authorizing amendment is required before any general obligation bonds can be issued.

Proposition 8 sets out a new procedure for approving bond issuance; Proposition 13 involves new debt for college student loans; and Proposition 12 concerns the permissible uses of existing water bonds.

Dedicated Funds: Propositions 2 and 3.

A number of special funds dedicated to specific uses are established in the constitution which details their sources of revenue, investment policy and allowable expenditures.

Proposition 2 allows state highway fund spending for toll roads and Proposition 3 allows the expansion of investment options made by the Veterans' Land Fund or the Veterans' Housing Assistance Fund.

Property Tax Exemption: Proposition 5:

Because all property is subject to ad valorem taxation unless the constitution provides otherwise, property tax exemptions have been a very popular source of amendments over the years.

Proposition 5 would permit entities to exempt property taxes of certain property in an established enterprise zone.

Land Patents: Proposition 9:

The proposed amendment is designed to remedy title defects in certain public free school fund lands held by individuals.

If a landowner meets certain criteria, the commissioner of the General Land Office is authorized to issue a document in the form of a patent, which establishes title to the land in question and confirms the property interest of the landholder.

The Texas Constitution provides that the legislature, by a two-thirds vote of all members of each house, may propose amendments revising the constitution and that proposed amendments must then be submitted for approval to the qualified voters of the state.

A proposed amendment becomes a part of the constitution if a majority of the votes cast in an election on the proposition are cast in its favor.

An amendment approved by voters is effective on the date of the official canvass of returns showing adoption though an amendment may provide for a later effective date.

The comptroller has estimated that the lottery will produce about $462 million in the current 1992-93 biennium and will grow to more than $622 million a year by 1996.

The legislature took estimated lottery receipts into account in balancing the current state budget.

A rider in the appropriations bill states that $471 million of general revenue spending is contingent on adoption of the lottery and directs the legislative budget board to instruct the comptroller to reduce state agency budgets by that amount if this proposition fails.

Those in favor of the lottery amendment passing have noted the significant revenue that will be generated for the state; that it will be self-supporting; that it will stimulate the Texas economy; that participation in the lottery will be voluntary and that the lottery may attract people who would otherwise gamble illegally.

The groups opposing the passage of the amendment have stated that the revenue to be gained from a lottery is relatively small part of the state's budgetary needs and will not prevent future tax increases; is a highly regressive method of funding government; is an inefficient way for government to raise money; that the money spent on lottery tickets would otherwise be spent on other needs; and that a lottery will compete with other forms of legalized gambling.

If Proposition 11 is passed, it has been specified that lottery sales must begin no later than 240 days after the official passage of the amendment.

The tickets would go on sale for the first time around the middle of next summer. The first lotteries would be instant-win games using paper cards with computerized games to follow early in 1993.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I have a few questions which need to be addressed and am hoping this will help provide some answers.

I would like to know how so many good athletes come through our athletic department as winners and then turn into a losing team when they get to Varsity levels. Is it they were only fooling us as we watched them win time after time? Were they coached better at Middle School level or were they switched around to play in positions in which they were not familiar with?

These junior and senior boys now playing varsity have come through years of winning seasons, some even undefeated. As they approached varsity level, these boys are not allowed to play the position in which they excel. If these boys cannot do the job at the position in which they are playing, then put someone in that just might surprise and thrill the fans that pay money to watch their kids play. There are a few fine coaches at Colorado High but the athletic department leadership is lacking.

The repositioning of these boys and the discipline on the field for some are hurting these kids. Some of these boys, in which are being watched for possible scholarships, are not getting the opportunity to play.

Not only is this affecting the football players, it is affecting the whole student body and support of the community. At the pep rally held Friday, November 1st, there were only a handful of parents as compared to the number of parents at the beginning of the season. This has caused a damper on the school spirit. This group of kids is just ready for the season to come to an end.

There are many more problems that need to be addressed but the priority is the leadership of the athletic department.

Gramm urges citizens to "Thank a Veteran"

WASHINGTON -- U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm is urging all Americans to "thank a veteran" on Veterans Day, November 11, for the service that millions of vets have rendered to America.

"On Veterans Day, we honor the brave men and women who have answered the nation's call, who have gone all over the world to defend our freedom," Gramm said.

"I hope you will join me in remembering the 600,000 Americans who died for our freedom in this century and to join me in thanking the tens of millions who have served," he said.

"Like all of us, they had their individual lives which they left to stand up for America. They left their families, their schools, their jobs and went far away and served with distinction. Many faced combat and they fought with courage and pride.

"From Operation Desert Storm to this Revolutionary War, millions of Americans put on the uniform of our nation and pledged their lives to the ideal that is America," Gramm noted.

The senator said that "all of us can remember and honor those who have served and all of us can commit ourselves to the highest ideals for which they fought by working to make America the greatest country in the world."

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

...BY DON NIMMO

Sometimes parents say they have trouble motivating their children to take action--whether that means studying, doing their chores, participating in activities or finishing projects.

One of the life skills that we try to impart to students from elementary school through high school is self-motivation or self-discipline. Even young children can learn the importance of time management, organization and sound study habits. In the younger grades, students are more closely supervised in their work; in older grades, students are given more and more responsibility and are expected to do some work independently. By high school, self-discipline should be in place.

Nurturing responsibility is one of the most important things we do; without it, a student will have trouble after graduation from high school. Self-motivation is a skill that is necessary not only for success in school, but in work, relationships and life in general.

Whatever a student's level of academic achievement or skill, improving self-motivation will improve performance. With encouragement both at home and at school, a student should have many opportunities to learn self-discipline. Students need to learn how to motivate themselves in order to transform intentions and goals into action and accomplishments. There are no short cuts for students; goals can only be achieved with some measure of hard work, persistence and enthusiasm.

Like any other skill, self-discipline is a learned behavior, which means that anyone can achieve it with the right guidance and encouragement. What does it take to foster motivation in a child or teenager? There are many factors involved, including what the student learns--and sees--at home. While self-discipline is to a certain extent a state of mind and a function of attitude, it can be helped along by following some specific steps.

Parents can help by reinforcing some concepts, many of which the child is also learning at school. Students need to focus some attention on setting priorities, constructing schedules and sticking to them, and learning the difference between "I can't" and "I won't".

If homework seems overwhelming, mapping a strategy and making a schedule will help it seem more manageable for your child. It is important for them to understand that because they don't feel like completing the book report or science project, doesn't mean they can't.

Students can also be encouraged to observe those who manage their time well and to ask for help when necessary, whether it's from a teacher, counselor, parent or friend. If a particular task seems difficult, it might help to think back to a problem of a similar nature that was handled in the past.

With especially large or complex projects, a great "trick" is to learn how to break it down into smaller, more manageable tasks in some order that makes sense and according to a time schedule that will allow for timely completion.

With so many distractions around today, it's easy for students to forget that their most important job is learning and that sometimes studying must come before other things.

Too many students don't realize the importance of self-discipline until after they have graduated; then they are sorry they didn't take full advantage of what school has to offer. Encourage your child to become focused and disciplined now by showing him how to wisely structure his time to leave room for both recreation and schoolwork and by setting priorities. Self-discipline is a skill that will carry your child through life.

Let's work together to foster an attitude and atmosphere of self-discipline.

To Fight Crime!

Overcrowded prisons threaten the safety of our families and our communities. Because we don't have enough prison cells, violent criminals get put back on our streets years before they complete their sentences.

Passage of Proposition 4 will authorize the state to sell bonds to build prisons and drug/alcohol abuse rehabilitation centers to house approximately 25,000 prisoners.

The site for either facility will be selected by the state and Mitchell County is working on getting a criminal justice facility here. A drug/alcohol abuse rehabilitation center would provide jobs for about 170 people and a prison would employ about 300 people. Either of these facilities would help our county, including our hospital.

If the citizens of Mitchell County will vote in large numbers, and vote for Proposition 4 by a large majority, it will improve our chance to get one of these facilities.

marijuana seeds and leafs in the trunk of the car to fill the palm of his hand, he said.

When he questioned her, Martinez said, she remembered that she had loaned the car to her brother-in-law while she was in south Texas and that he might have had some drugs in the car with him.

That evening, when getting home from work, he saw in his wife's purse that she had a datebook with the date May 9 circled, Martinez said. Written beside the date was a notation of the birthdays of her son and of Tino Sanchez.

He said that on asking her about it, she told him that her sister had written Tino's name on the page.

The next day, Martinez said he discovered a vial of cocaine that fell out of his wife's purse when she brought him a hamburger out in the field.

Martinez said that she confessed to him that she had been using cocaine since the second week of November and that she had brought the bottle in her purse from Rio Grande City for the purpose of giving it to Tino Sanchez.

The explanation she gave Martinez was that she needed to raise money for their daughters 15th birthday party - Quincenera - celebration, he said.

Martinez also testified that his daughter told him of a phone call his wife had made to Snyder in order to check on drug requirements - using the code name 'la familia' - for which the daughter was told she could drink wine coolers and smoke cigarettes if she didn't tell anyone.

He was also told, by his children, that while he was in east Texas working, that Sanchez would show up between 11:30 p.m. and 1 a.m. at night to see his wife, Martinez said. He was told by his daughter that Sanchez told them it was about tires.

On May 18, the family went to track meet in Midland where the children were participating.

As they returned from Midland, Martinez said that his oldest son asked Yolanda why she was going out with Tino Sanchez, an accusation she denied.

They returned from Midland at about 3 p.m. and Martinez said he went to work until approximately 7:15 p.m. that evening.

When he got off work, he went to see his children at a baseball game they were participating in and found out his wife had left to go back to the valley, he said.

Martinez said that he wanted to get the truth and went by himself out to Loraine - at approximately 9 p.m. - to the Sanchez residence, found that no one was there and returned home.

After watching some television, he decided to go back to Loraine, and asked his son to go with him, he said, and told his son that he was going to take a rifle for protection.

We got there about 10 p.m., Martinez said, and no one answered the knock at the door.

He said that he had his son drop him off at his sister's house which was about one-and-a-half to two blocks away, so that he could wait for them to return.

Martinez testified that he thought his wife was with Sanchez.

After waiting on the porch of his sister's house from 10 p.m. until a quarter till one he heard a pickup pull up at Sanchez's house, he said.

Twenty minutes later he carried the rifle and went over to the house, he said.

Martinez said that he put the rifle down by the door - out-of-sight - and knocked on the door.

Tino Sanchez opened the door and ran back into a bedroom, Martinez said.

I shouted for him to stop, Martinez said, and told him that I wanted to ask him some questions.

Martinez said that Sanchez returned with a pistol which he pointed at him and clicked it.

I thought I had been shot, Martinez said, and noted that he thought - I came to ask questions and he's trying to kill me.

Martinez said that Sanchez ran to the bathroom.

He followed him through the house and looked at a night stand in the bedroom where a picture of his wife was sitting next to a radio, Martinez said, and I believed that they were going out.

Martinez said he told Sanchez that he just wanted some answers and that Sanchez responded by saying that I was crazy.

Sanchez opened the door and pulled the trigger on the gun, Martinez said, and I thought I was being shot at.

The bathroom door closed and the gun I was holding accidentally went off, Martinez said, and the bullet went through the door.

When Sanchez came back out, Martinez said, I 'hit' him two or three times.

Martinez said that he took Sanchez's pistol when he fell and it came out of his hand.

Martinez went back to the bedroom and said he saw the pictures, letters and a little car that his youngest son had talked of playing with several days before and took them outside, then saw some rifles and took them outside.

After gathering the evidence, Martinez said, he left and took Sanchez's Chevrolet El Camino to get back to town.

He testified that he went home and told his children what he had done, then had his oldest son follow him to Ruddick Park where he left the Sanchez vehicle, then went to his father's house.

After talking to his father, Martinez said that he went next door to his sister's house and used the phone to call the Sheriff's Department.

Under cross examination, Conard produced a phone bill that showed Martinez had called Rio Grande City from his sister's house at 2:30 a.m., an hour and a half before calling the Sheriff's Office.

Eddie Martinez, Jr. was called as a witness and testified of the times that Sanchez had come to the house looking for Yolanda, of the hickey on his mother's neck and her blouse being backwards, of asking his mother if she was going out with Sanchez and of taking his father out to Loraine on the night of the incident.

Jennifer Martinez then testified of meetings between Sanchez and her mother behind the store where he worked, of Sanchez coming to their house, of her mother's drug connected call to Snyder, of hickey on her mother's neck and of a remote control car her younger brother had told them about playing with in Loraine.

The defense also entered into evidence a report that indicated that a brown paper package containing 32 milligrams of cocaine was found in Sanchez's wallet by the funeral home before the defense rested its case.

Lawyers representing the two sides presented jurors with opposing details concerning the incident which occurred sometime in the early hours of May 19, 1991 and resulted in the death of Sanchez.

In opening comments, district attorney Frank Conard told jurors that he would present evidence which would prove that Martinez intentionally took the life of Sanchez.

Martinez, Conard said, went to Sanchez's house at 10 p.m. on May 18 with plans of confronting him because of his dealings with Martinez's wife.

Conard speculated that the dealings concerned what Martinez perceived to be an affair between his wife and Sanchez, or drugs.

When Martinez decided to confront Sanchez, Conard noted, he took a .22 caliber semi-automatic rifle with him to the Sanchez house.

No one was home and Martinez somehow got into the house, he said.

Evidence shows that while Martinez was waiting in the house, he found: affectionate letters and cards that concerned the relationship between Martinez's wife and Sanchez, pictures of his wife, and a remote control car, Conard said.

He also found several guns in the house. He took several guns and hid them in the flower bed, Conard said, and unloaded another weapon - a .22 pistol - and left it in the house, Conard told the jury.

Sanchez arrived home at 12:30 a.m. and went into the house where he was confronted by Martinez, Conard said. The result is that Sanchez got to the unloaded pistol - not knowing that it was unloaded - and rushed into the bathroom with it.

Sanchez was shot through the left forearm and twice in the chest during the incident, Conard said.

Martinez then left the residence, using Sanchez's pickup which he ended up abandoning, Conard said.

A couple hours later, after Martinez had talked to members of his family, Conard said, he contacted the Sheriff's office.

The statement that Martinez made at the Sheriff's office on the morning of May 19 was entered into the case by the prosecution.

Martinez said that he went with his son to Loraine at about 10 p.m. on May 18 and had his son drop him off at his sister's house, where he waited - some 2 blocks away from the Sanchez house - for Sanchez to get home.

He had a rifle with approximately 10 rounds of ammunition, the statement read.

When Sanchez got home, Martinez left his sister's house and walked to Sanchez's residence, Martinez's statement said, where he knocked on the door.

Sanchez answered to door, then ran into a bedroom when he saw that it was Martinez, the report said. The two hollered at each other and Sanchez reappeared with a pistol which he carried to the bathroom.

The report said that Martinez asked Sanchez about a relationship between Sanchez and Martinez's wife, then states that, Sanchez denied it and said that Martinez was crazy.

There were shots, with Sanchez attempting to fire a gun that would not shoot three times at Martinez, in an exchange that resulted in Sanchez's death.

At that time, according to the report, Martinez took the pistol from Sanchez.

Before leaving the house, Martinez reported, he found some rifles which he took outside, a remote control car, pictures and the letters.

At this time he went home and told his family what had happened. He was driving an El Camino belonging to Sanchez and had his son follow him to a park where he left it, then went to his father's house, and the statement indicates that at that time he called the Sheriff's office.

After finding the defendant guilty of murder at the end of the third day of the trial, the jury returned Thursday morning to hear evidence relating to the punishment phase of the trial.

"Other than capital murder," Conard said, "murder is the most serious offense in the laws of Texas, and serious offenses require serious punishment."

"It is important for you," he told the jury, "to send a message to the wrongdoers in the society, that they will be punished."

The states witnesses included Colorado City Police sergeant Tim Atkins, Texas Highway Department trooper Frank Costabile, Adult Probation officer Donna Starr and county attorney Clay Strange who testified about two driving while intoxicated arrests and the period of probation that Martinez had served as a result of those convictions.

The defense lawyers, Ginzler and Basden, called Martinez to the stand as they presented their case.

He testified that he had pled guilty to the 2 driving while intoxicated charges because he had been guilty and that he had quit drinking after being charged.

Martinez and his lawyers asked that the jury consider a probated sentence in the case since he had no prior felonies; could comply with probation requirements; and desired to raise his children.

In cross examination, Conard asked Martinez if he didn't think that Sanchez would like to be with his family.

Eddie Martinez, Jr. and Jennifer Martinez were also brought back as witnesses in the punishment phase of the trial and testified of their need for the loving father who has been their primary parent.

Also testifying for Martinez's reputation and character were Charla Hall - whose daughter goes with Martinez's son, Ed and Winnie Roach - to whom Martinez was employed for until earlier this year, and James McLean and Rick Robinson of the Colorado school system.

The charge to the jury in this phase of the trial - after having found the defendant guilty as charged in the indictment - was to fix a punishment.

The jury was told of parameters of the punishment were not less than 5 years to 99 years, or life - and could assess a fine of up to $10,000.

The defense lawyers asked the jury to consider a probated sentence for Martinez, citing that his children need a daddy and that he is an industrious person who was involved in an unusual set of circumstances.

Because the use of a deadly weapon was involved, Martinez must serve one-quarter of his sentence before becoming eligible for parole.

An appeal of the case is anticipated, officials have indicated.

Colorado River Bridge west of Colorado City and involved ice that caused the driver to lose control of the car, Wadsworth said.

Marcello Alvarez, Jr. was transported to a San Angelo hospital where he was reported in stable condition on Friday, reports state.

The work of Colorado City Police Department sergeant Tim Atkins was recognized by Wadsworth.

Due to the large number of accidents caused by the bad weather, officers with the Sheriff's Department were also called on to work accidents in the county.

Another wreck occurred on Thursday at approximately 2:15 p.m. near Dunn.

A 1991 Honda, driven by Craig Thomas Pacinda of Lubbock, was southbound on Highway 208 with his sunroof down when a chunk of ice fell from a power line and fell through the sunroof, Wadsworth said.

The driver lost control of the car, hit the guard rail and overturned.

management programs; is four deer, with no more than two bucks.

Hunters on ranches participating in the wildlife programs need to contact the ranch if they are not aware of the limits.

A spotlight deer count conducted in late summer by a biologist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department indicates this year's deer population to be about 25 percent higher than last year, Bullard said.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will be checking to make sure that all hunters have licenses, watching for illegal hunting done from public roads, hunting done illegally with the use of spotlights and that all deer are properly tagged, he said.

Hunters are also reminded of the necessity of having the new turkey stamp in order to shoot a turkey.

All hunters are reminded to show proper respect for the land on which they are hunting and to practice good sportsmanship and gun safety - the future of sport hunting depends on you!

Wolves lose battle with Owls

The Colorado City Wolves lost their last home game of the season to the Reagan County Owls by the score of 48-13 in District 6-3A action.

The Reagan County running backs, Nuno Rivero and Michael Goodloe, each scored three touchdowns on the night and both rushed for over 150 yards in the nights action as the Owls marched for 465 rushing yards.

The Wolves were held to 75 yards rushing yardage, but made 143 yards with their passing attack.

Colorado City managed to score twice in the third quarter on the combination of Kelly Ramsey to David Castillo to put 13 points on the board.

Reagan County fumbled the kickoff to open the second half and the Wolves took possession of the field at the Owl 26 yard line.

It only took one play, and only 17 seconds had worked off the clock when Ramsey and Castillo connected for the first Wolves score of the game.

With 1:44 left in the third quarter, Ramsey and Castillo connected again on the first play of a series after taking control of the ball from their own 43 yard line.

Castillo caught 3 passes for 97 yards and 2 touchdowns in the game.

Kevin Green led the Wolves ground attack with 76 yards on 18 carries.

The defensive highlight was an interception by Mark Monroe with 1:04 left in the first half.

The Owls had worked the ball from their own 49 to a first down on the Wolf 38 when Jackie Hill, who failed to complete a pass in three attempts, had the ball snared by Monroe.

Reagan County was spurred on by three play drives of 13 yards, 77 yards, 23 yards, 13 yards, as well as a 2 play 75 yard drive, 6 play 55 yard drive and a 8 play 56 yard drive.

Rivero completed the night with 22 rushes for 172 yards and 3 touchdowns and Goodloe ended up with 150 yards on 18 carries and 3 touchdowns.

The Owl quarterback, Jackie Hill, ran the ball 6 times for 55 yards and scored 2 touchdowns. The first was a 1 yard plunge and the other was a 28 yard run.

Reagan County stays in the district race with a season record of 7-1 and a 3-1 district record.

Colorado City falls to 2-6-1 on the season and 0-3-1 in district action with the loss.

Next week, the Wolves will complete their football campaign by traveling to Midland Greenwood.

C-Court enters agreement with local pest control service

County Commissioners' entered an agreement for the pest control of county buildings, tabled action concerning an ambulance contract and investing in Tex-Pool and approved the payroll and bills at Monday's called meeting of the Mitchell County Court.

A discussion of the current procedures of pest control was explained to the court by George Giles of Davis Exterminating.

The commissioners' and Giles discussed the requirements of each of the county owned buildings to devise a preventative maintenance system for maintaining a pest-free environment.

The agreement was set-up so that the jail will continue to be sprayed monthly, the Community Care Center will be sprayed every three months and the Courthouse, Library, Department of Public Safety office and County Annex will be sprayed every six months.

The cost of this routine spraying will run $900 per year.

The county will also spray the Berman Building the first time after the completion of renovations.

The court tabled action on a ambulance service contract in which would dissolve the current - December 1973 - contract and form a new one.

The new agreement would put Lloyd Slappey, speeding 71/55, transferred from JP2, October 28.

COUNTY COURT ACTION

the personnel of the ambulance service under the umbrella of the hospital, commissioners' noted.

The contract was tentatively approved with a provision to have county attorney Clay Strange give an opinion on the contract wording to the court.

The court then discussed Tex-Pool, a investment program offered by the state which is open to governmental entities and pays a higher rate of interest than financial institutions.

County treasurer Ann Hallmark and county auditor George Griffith told the commissioners of a meeting that they had attended on the program in Snyder, to find information about the program.

They said that the investment program had over 600 accounts and deposits of 2-and-a-half billion dollars as of Sept 30.

The interest rate for the period of Oct 25-27 being paid by the program was 6.064 percent.

Commissioners' tabled action on the program until the Nov 12 regular meeting when they plan to discuss the program further.

County Judge Ray Mayo and Commissioners Ed Roach, Carl Guelker, Buddy Hertenberger and Bill Preston were all in attendance at the meeting.
