If Voters Approve Proposition 2

High School To Be Air Conditioned

By Pat Blair

Should Rockport - Fulton High School be air conditioned?

And should the Aransas County Independent School District be authorized to issue $170,000 in bonds to do the job?

Those are the two questions Aransas County voters must answer at the polls Saturday, September 13, when they vote on Proposition 2 in the county's proposed $3.6 million bond issue election.

Unlike Proposition 1 which proposes expenditure of $1.7 million for improvements to all five county schools, Proposition 2 proposes expenditure of a tenth of that sum for only one purpose: to air condition the high school.

In theory -- and in fact -- voters will make their decisions on each of the three propositions in the election independently. It would be possible for one or two propositions to pass while the remaining proposal(s) fail.

But, say school officials, the work proposed under Proposition 2 can be performed only if Proposition 1 passes.

Under Proposition 1, if it is adopted, officials would authorize some extensive remodeling in the high school, including installation of ceiling fans and replacement of windows.

While the remodeling is underway, it would be feasible, officials say, to install air conditioning in the high school. It would not be economically feasible to perform the work if the remodeling under Proposition

County Looking At Sewer System Alternatives

Water board officials are looking at three alternatives for a basic sanitary sewer system to serve Aransas County.

The alternatives are included among information on the proposed county sanitary sewer project on public display at Aransas County Library.

And they are expected to be discussed at a public meeting on the sewer project set for 7 p.m. Tuesday, September 9, in the county courthouse.

The meeting is part of the public participation phase of a study being conducted by the Aransas County Conservation and Reclamation District on the feasibility of the proposed sewer system.

The study is being funded by a federal grant through the Environmental Protection Agency, which provides 75 percent of the cost of the project with the county picking up the remaining 25 percent.

The ACCRD received a grant for the Step 1 feasibility study. At the end of the study period, the water board will apply for a Step 2 grant to help fund the planning of the proposed facilities.

The water district's consulting engineers on the firm, Walsh Engineering, have presented board members with three basic plans for sewer service: on-site systems (septic tanks); "multiple independent systems"; and the conventional central wastewater treatment plant.

Alternative 1, the "on-site systems" would upgrade the existing septic tank sewage absorption systems in the county.

The report from Walsh Engineering on this alternative notes that this is "best-suited for isolated homes or small clusters of homes within the planning area" and that it "would not be a reliable alternative for existing subdivisions."

The advantages of this alternative, according to

Pirates Play Aransas Pass Friday

By Bob Crawford

Officially, football season will open for the Rockport-Fulton Varsity Friday night, September 5, as they go to Aransas Pass to play their annual rival, the Aransas Pass Panthers.

Both teams have an abundance of speed in the backfield.

The Pirates returned Michael Simmons and Ernest Gonzales, both of whom gained better than 600 yards last year as sophomores, and quarterback Jim Eaton, a better than 50 percent passer.

Added this year will be the speed of freshman Dwayne Walls at the fullback slot.

Rockport's line is anchored by Bubba Scott and Michael Henderson, with Gene McElveen, Mac Schmidt and Mike Arthur rounding out the interior. Dennis Hull and Mark Goodin handle the pass receiving.

Goodin and Scott have been hampered with injuries this past week, so the Pirates will have to wait until Friday to see who is ready to go.

Rockport's defense has fared well in their two scrimmages, but they will get their first real test come Friday. Aransas Pass has Mike Schultz at quarterback, and he is capable of breaking the long one at any time.

Also in the backfield with Schultz will be Robert Butler and Reggie Hanna, if

Hargrove Chosen President Of Holiday Beach Board

J. Gordon Hargrove was named the new president of Aransas County Water Control & Improvement District No. 1 during a meeting of the board Saturday, August 30, at the board's office.

Choosing of board officers followed canvass of the August 23 board elections during which Freddie Lingner was elected to her second term on the board and L.E. Pettus was elected to his first term by write-in vote.

Some 102 votes were cast in the election for residents of Holiday Beach, with Miss Longner receiving 54 votes and Pettus 48.

Dr. M. Joan Nish, seeking her second term on the board, received 46 votes and Robert Hifler received 41. "Other" write-in candidates received a total of four votes.

Dr. Nish and Miss Lingner were the only candidates whose names appeared on the ballot. Hifler, like Pettus, was a write-in.

In the officers' elections that followed the canvass Saturday, Frank H. Smith was re-elected to his post as the board's vice president and Miss Lingner was re-elected secretary.

All board members serve for two years.

The five-member board was first organized, following an election by Holiday Beach voters, a year ago. Its purpose is to investigate

Elderly Should Take Medical Records On Vacation

Editor's Note: Experienced travelers generally agree that tourists — especially the elderly — should take copies of pertinent medical records with them on vacation. You can, of course, buy U.S. insurance to cover hospitalization in foreign countries. And a credit card can usually serve as ready cash in a medical emergency. But there is no insurance policy now available in this country which would have prevented the near-tragedy in French Polynesia that Dr. DeVore has called a "horror show."

By Dr. Greggory R. DeVoe
Second of two parts

While arrangements were being made in the United States, the Consulate in Suva, Fiji, called me in Tahiti to confirm my father's illness since there was no consulate in French Polynesia.

The next morning the Consulate called again but was unable to speak with me and therefore spoke with my father and told him, "Before you can be taken home it will cost $10,400, which has to be paid in full." What an appropriate remark to make to a man recovering from the acute phase of a heart attack!

On September 21, my family in the United States informed me by phone that final arrangements for a medical evacuation had been made, with the understanding that we would have to pay $10,400 prior to departure of the military med-evac airplane from Australia and that a letter must first be obtained from the attending physician stating the evacuation was necessary and indicating that a commercial airliner could not provide a similar service.

Another requirement was that the airlift had to be in the "national interest"!

My father's company, Wyle Electronics, offered to pay the $10,400, since it was not covered by insurance, and Dr. Auger transcribed the letter stating that transport by airplane with oxygen, cardiac monitoring equipment, a stretcher and a physician were mandatory for his safe return home.

As I was about to send the letter to the Consulate in Suva, Fiji, in the late afternoon of the 21st, a second call from my mother in the United States informed us that, according to the Department of Defense, the evacuation had been indefinitely postponed because of a two-to-three-week delay due to the need to arrange diplomatic clearance with the French government in order for a military plane to land in Tahiti.

Therefore I did not send the letter to the Consulate in Fiji. That evening the Consulate called to inform me of the requirements for med-evac transport, which had been scheduled for September 25.

I informed them that they were six hours behind in their communication and that the trip had been postponed because of a diplomatic clearance problem. Mrs. Stillman of the Consulate's office did not believe me and called the State Department in Washington, which confirmed the latest action of the Department of Defense.

* * *

We were now back to square one. I did nothing over the weekend. I could tell that the many phone calls from the United States, the Consulate in Fiji, and the changes in evacuation plans were beginning to wear on my father. He was not sleeping at night and was becoming quite depressed over the difficulty with what appeared to be a simple matter.

On Saturday, September 22, my mother was given the home phone of the lieutenant colonel who had blocked the evacuation because of diplomatic clearance problems.

She informed him that she had spoken with the French Embassy which told her that it would require only two or three days for clearance.

When confronted with this the colonel said, "Well, I guess it could be done if we really needed to."

On Monday, September 24, the Defense Department and the State Department received phone calls from Bill Simpson of the White House, wanting to know why the evacuation plans were not completed.

The Defense Department proceeded to blame the State Department because it did not have the letter from Dr. Auger.

The State Department blamed me because the letter had not been sent.

I had not sent it because the evacuation had been cancelled after I had obtained the letter.

A copy of the letter was then sent to the Consulate in Fiji to transmit to the State Department with a copy to the brother-in-law of the Secretary of the Air Force who lived in San Lorenzo, California, near our home. Copies were sent in French with a translation in English.

Meanwhile Dr. Auger was contacted by a military physician in Honolulu, who informed him that the evacuation plane would be routed from Australia to Tahiti-Honolulu-San Francisco and would take two days.

It would fly at 10,000 feet (a propeller-driven plane), was not as well pressurized as the commercial airliners and would stop in Honolulu for the night.

On September 26 Dr. Auger received an urgent telegram from the Consulate in Fiji requesting his recommendation.

He stated that a two-day trip from Tahiti-Honolulu-San Francisco was unacceptable because it would greatly fatigue and endanger the health of my father. He suggested that a direct flight from Tahiti to San Francisco would be the most appropriate.

If this was not possible, then a commercial flight from Tahiti to Los Angeles with a private plane from Los Angeles to our home in Hayward, California, would be the second best alternative.

This, however, posed a certain risk because monitoring and defibrillating equipment would not be available on a commercial airliner.

When the possibility of a direct flight to San Francisco was pursued with the Defense Department, we were told it would cost us $72,000 paid in full before the plane would evacuate my father.

When my mother asked a Defense Department official what would happen if people did not have $72,000, or even $10,400, for the medical evacuation, she was told, "Then they would die."

The only alternative was to fly my father home on a commercial airliner on a stretcher. These arrangements were made for September 29. No monitor or defibrillator was available.

I accompanied him home with intravenous solution, morphine, anti-arrhythmic agents, lasix and other medications.

The price for the tickets was equivalent to four first-class tickets (a cost of over $5,000) because the stretcher occupied 12 economy seats.

The plane was a 747 and turned out to be packed because one of the competing airliners scheduled to return the passengers to the United States had had an engine explode over the Pacific on the flight from Los Angeles to Tahiti two days before.

My brother Steve was on that plane to bring the money to pay the hospital, hotel and telephone bills, and to assist me through Customs on the return flight to the United States.

Because the plane almost crashed, and he could not catch a flight which would arrive in time to have the money changed to pay the bills, he returned to San Francisco.

* * *

I left the hospital in Papeete after promising to send the money for the hospital bill by a bank check.

I paid the other bills by credit card, with my father signing blank forms in the hospital and having the amounts filled in for him later.

The hospital bill was only $1,800, the hotel was $3,000, car rental $1,000, phone calls $4,000, plane tickets $5,500, and the private jet used to transport my father from Los Angeles to Hayward, California cost $2,000, for a total of more than $17,000.

On the flight home, passengers would walk by the stretcher, which was enclosed with a curtain, and ask, "What's behind there?"

Three people, wanting to sit in the three empty seats which had been blocked off in front of the stretcher, asked if oxygen was being used because they wanted to smoke. I tactfully told them just where they could sit!

Upon arrival in Los Angeles, my father was removed from the plane by ambulance and transported to a waiting jet.

The Immigration officers were helpful, but Customs was of no assistance. A second brother, Jim, helped me through Customs, a process which took two hours because the airlines lost our luggage. We finally left L.A. and in 40 minutes landed in Hayward, where an ambulance was waiting to take my father to our local hospital.

He remained hospitalized for more than 10 days. During this time further observation and tests were done.

As I returned to my own reponsibilities at Yale-New Haven Hospital, I reflected on the many problems we encountered. My father was fortunate; his son spoke French and happened to be a physician.

His wife had some prior experience in dealing with the U.S. government and knew when she was getting the run-around.

I wondered about the thousands of Americans who travel abroad each year to the far corners of the earth and those unlucky ones who become ill, and who do not have the family or financial resources which would permit their safe return to the United States in those cases where medical facilities are inferior.

As I inquired further, I learned that in Europe travelers can now purchase insurance which will provide for immediate air evacuation from any place in the world with whatever is necessary: physicians, nurses, equipment, etc.

Dr. Auger's comment to me as we left was that a country as great as the United States certainly should have a better and more efficient means of aiding its citizens who become ill abroad.

Dr. DeVore is Clinical Fellow, Perinatal Medicine, in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Yale University School of Medicine.

LOW VISION AID

Dear Dr. Pettey: I have retina disease but I can still see well enough to move around, and can see some large print with a high-power magnifier. Are there some worthwhile large print publications I can get? I get real tired trying to read.

Yes, there are. One prominent publication, the Reader's Digest, prints an excellent large print edition, and it is available at very little extra expense over the regular print edition. Write to: Reader's Digest Fund for the Blind, Inc., Pleasantville, New York 10570. It is printed especially for people like you.

Large-type Bibles are also available. Simply write or call the nearest book store for information. If not available from an ordinary book store, contact a religious book store. They likely have them in stock.

Since you live in Central Texas, the Commission for the Blind, in Austin, will help you. They will send you a great deal of information you could use, such as the availability of Talking Books and other aids.

Go to your local library. They may have a number of volumes ready to loan. These books would be most worthwhile.

If I can help further in locating such publications, please write me again.

Allen Prepares Area For Evacuation

COLLEGE STATION - Hurricane Allen, which caused hundreds of millions of dollars in damage on the lower Texas coast, was instrumental in preparing Texans along the upper coast for a major evacuation.

"Hurricane Allen was unique. It provided an excellent trial for evacuation of both vessels and coastal residents," said Dr. Wallace Klussmann, state leader of the Marine Advisory Service of Texas A&M University's Sea Grant College Program.

"Now we know where the bottlenecks are," he said. "This storm has been a catalyst in getting agencies together to solve existing problems and to prepare citizens before the next one comes.

As part of their ongoing projects, county extension marine agents — such as Jeff Messinger who serves Aransas and San Patricio counties — working with the Sea Grant College Program, have been assessing preparedness and cleanup procedures used for major storms.

"Our job is before and after the storm," explained Klussmann. "During the storm, other public agencies take over."

The seven extension marine agents, seaside counterparts of the well-known agricultural extension agents, serve a combined area of nine coastal counties from Brownsville to Beaumont. They conduct hurricane awareness programs all along the coast during the hurricane season from June through October.

The seminars deal with topics such as past storms, safe and unsafe structures, individual attitudes toward evacuation, small craft preparation and evacuation procedures.

When a hurricane moves away from an area, said Klussmann, residents are faced with a new set of problems — cleanup.

In the aftermath of Hurricane Allen, which destroyed several marinas and sank a number of shrimp boats, the county marine agents worked closely with public health agencies, Civil Defense, Department of Public Safety, Texas Coastal marine Council and local disaster groups to prepare citizens for their return home, Klussmann said.

County marine agents continue to be active now in assisting with disaster relief and insurance claims since public health is of primary concern, especially. when hurricanes contaminate water supplies.

RF Pirates Bomb Bishop

By Bob Crawford

A week ago, the Rockport-Fulton Pirates went to the air to account for their scoring against Ingleside, but last Friday night the Pirates' running game went to work against the Bishop Badgers in the final warm-up of the season.

Rockport's defense held the Badgers in the first half to give the Pirate offense a chance to shine. The scrimmage was held under game conditions with just a few exceptions, so the ball changed possession many times.

Bishop made a serious threat in the first half, but linebacker Eddie Naro pounced on a loose football, and the Pirates stopped that threat at the 13 yard line.

When the Rockport offense did have the ball, they generally made something happen. Early on, the Pirates had a 43-yard TD by Ernest Gonzales called back by a holding penalty. A short time later, Michael Simmons broke away for a 48-yard run for paydirt. David Williams hit the extra point.

Later in the first half, the Pirate line opened a hole, and Dwayne Walls shot 30 yards for the score. Williams again added the extra point.

The Pirates nearly made the pass go for the distance as Gonzales had cleared behind everyone, and Jim Eaton hit him with a pass that Gonzales had to wait on.

So that the chance would not be lost entirely, Williams was called on to nail a field goal from 25 yards away, and he split the uprights.

The Pirates kept up the pace in the second half, with the defense shutting down the Badgers until the Pirate second unit set up a Bishop score by the way of a fumble.

Before that bizarre series of events, the Pirates did use the airways to score, with Eaton finding Mike Kautz all alone in the end zone for a seven-yard TD.

When the second unit for the Pirates went in on offense, fumbles plagued the group. Bishop took one of those fumbles and drove the ball to a score.

Rockport's defense hit extremely hard and shook the ball loose on three occasions, and Shane Harper came up with two recoveries. Adam Harden snared an interception for the Pirates.

Scott Woodall and Naro led the Pirates in tackles, but overall, it was a team effort.

Now the Pirates must get ready for Aransas Pass. Coach Connolly said after the scrimmage, "We've still got a ways to go. We really did move well at times."

Lady Pirates Challenge District 15-4A In Volleyball

By Bob Crawford

Led by coaches Tom Chrobocinski, Peggy Laughlin and Dennis Gartman, the Rockport-Fulton Lady Pirates will send out three teams against the opposition in District 15-4A volleyball play this season.

The ladies have already met Woodsboro and Ingleside with successful results.

Members of the Varsity team include Dee Aine Rossman, Diana Herman, Sundi Price, Darlene Dilworth, Theresa Roberts, Julie Huff, Barbie Mosier, Holly Garrison and Belinda Cross.

Lusk, Anna Lopez and Sandra Solis.

Freshman team members are Lee Anna Cassel, Mona Cowen, Lou Anna Barrera, Julie Barrera,

Younger Pirates Do Well In Scrimmage

Rockport-Fulton's Freshmen and JV accounted for themselves very well in last Friday's contests against Bishop.

On defense, middle backer Tommy Barnard kept crushing the Badgers with tackles all over the field.

For the JV, Paul Beck and Peter Nichols made some strong runs to pace the Pirate ground game, and the JV defense held the Badgers away from the goal as well.

As of now, the Pirates are scheduled to play Aransas Pass on Thursday. The Freshmen go at it at 5:30 p.m., and the JV will follow at 7 p.m. The games will be in Rockport.

Lady Pirates Ice Ingleside

By Bob Crawford

All three teams from Rockport-Fulton took victories from Ingleside last Thursday in volleyball action.

"These girls were much bigger than we were, but we played the net with them and picked up everything off the floor," stated Coach Tom Chrobocinski after the win which brings the Varsity record to 2-1.

"Ingleside had one girl over six feet, and another two or three close to that height," he pointed out, "but we hustled and jumped well with them."

Diana Herman was the leading point maker with 10 points; Belinda Cross added nine points.

The JV also recorded a victory, and the Freshmen team remained undefeated in three contests.

This Thursday night, September 4, the practices will be open to parents and interested friends, with practice running from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The coaches welcome the chance to meet those who attend.

EPA News

The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) reminds farming enterprises which were adversely affected by Hurricane Allen that they must now file for disaster loan assistance with Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

"SBA will no longer be making disaster loans to most farmers and ranchers," said SBA regional administrator Mercurio Martinez, Jr. "Congress recently passed legislation which practically removes the Agency from farm lending."

According to Martinez, federal law requires that farming enterprises needing non-housing disaster assistance file for a recovery loan with FmHA instead of SBA.

"This applies to all disasters occuring on or after July 3," Martinez said.

"If a farmer or rancher suffered damage to his home, he may apply with either agency for help. But requests for farm business loans for crop losses or damage to farm equipment or structures must go to FmHA."

Enterprises which are not eligible for FmHA loans may be referred by letter to SBA for consideration. The letter from FmHA will specify the reason for ineligibility.

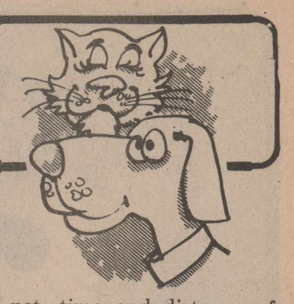

Enterprises that may be referred to SBA include corporations, partnerships and cooperatives not primarily engaged in farming, farm owners who do not operate their farm, and aliens.

Martinez noted that disasters occuring before July 3 are covered under previous legislation which allows farm enterprises to apply for loans directly with SBA.

Therefore producers who lost crops or livestock in counties declared a disaster because of the spring and summer drought may apply to SBA under previous eligibility criteria.

For more information, producers may visit the nearest federal-state disaster assistance center or call toll-free 1-800-772-5929.

Pet Talks

By Dr. Hap Lutz

Dr. Lutz is a graduate of Baltimore City College and Texas A&M University. He specializes in small and exotic animal practice. He was an instructor of small animal diseases and surgery in the Veterinary School at Texas A&M and was in private practice in Waco for 25 years.

TRAVEL BY AIR

[Second of Three Parts]

Air travel is of most concern to pet owners. You can minimize the chances of an unpleasant experience by following a few guidelines.

Federal regulations state that dogs and cats must be at least eight weeks old and weaned at least five days before flying.

Current health and rabies vaccination certificates will be required. These should be issued by a registered veterinarian.

Contact the airline well in advance to check regulations and services, and to make reservations. Try to book a direct, mid-week flight or one with a minimum of stops.

During warmer periods reduce risk of overheating by choosing early morning or late evening flights.

Ask about other cargo on your flight. (For example, fumes from dry ice can be lethal.) Be at the airport early, exercise your pet, place it in the cage yourself, and pick up the animal promptly upon arrival.

Don't take leashed animals on escalators.

The proper cage, available from most airlines or pet shops, should have the following features:

1. Large enough to allow the animal to stand, turn and lie down.
2. Strong, free of interior protrusions, with handles or grips.
3. Leakproof bottom covered with plenty of absorbent material.
4. Ventilation on opposite sides, with exterior rims or knobs to prevent blocked air flow.
5. Lable "Live Animals," with arrows indicating upright position, and your name, address, and phone number.

Consult your veterinarian for specific feeding instructions. Age and size of the pet, time and distance of the flight, and regular dietary routine must be considered.

Rockport, Fulton Get Two Sales Tax Checks

A change in the State Comptroller's office has resulted in Rockport and Fulton each receiving two sales tax rebate checks -- totalling more than $50,000 -- for August.

The announcement came from Comptroller Bob Bullock in Austin who said that, thanks to continued improvements in the tax processing system in his office, Texas cities collecting city sales tax would receive more than $100 million in August.

The first check is for the sales tax collected from last month's rebate cutoff through the end of July. This is money collected under the old system in which the allocation period ran from the end of one month to the first of the following month.

The second -- and for most cities, larger -- check is the result of allowing an extra week of tax allocations for cities during the first week of August.

In Rockport's case, the first check totalled some $18,894.05 for the period from July 31 through August 7, amounted to $28,589.88.

For Fulton, the two checks amounted to $2,099.78 and $3,195.77 respectively. The second check brought Fulton's sales tax collections for the year to date to $10,518.85.

Rockport's total sales tax collections so far in 1980 amount to $160,937.80.

The second check rebated to Texas cities is a one-time bonus, Bullock emphasized, resulting from the revision in the accounting system. The revision means that, from now on, the allocation period will run through the first week of each month.

Tax rebates will be made about the 15th of each month, Bullock added.

He said the "extra" check includes a large amount of money from second quarter returns filed with his office on the July 31 deadline. These returns normally would not have been rebated to the cities until September.

The city sales tax is collected by merchants and businesses along with the state sales tax and is refunded monthly to the cities from the Comptroller's office.

Aransas Students Set For 175 Days

Students in the Aransas County Independent School District can plan on roughly 175 days of school during 1980-81, broken by three "regular" holiday periods and four days when students get a holiday but teachers have to work.

That's all, according to the "Approved Calendar" of the ACISD as announced by Superintendent Joe Randow.

Classes began Tuesday, September 2, and will continue weekly until October 24 when classes are dismissed for a Professional Day for the teachers.

Then it's back to school until the Thanksgiving Holidays, November 27 and 28.

Classes will break for Christmas holidays from December 19 until January 5, 1981, and will break again for a teacher workday on January 19.

The third six-weeks period begins on January 20. Students will be dismissed from classes on February 16 for teacher in-service and again from April 15 to April 21 for Easter Week.

Graduation will be on May 28 followed on May 29 by a teacher workday.

Randow said school will dismiss at 2:30 p.m. on those days classes are dismissed for holidays.

The school calendar is subject to change "if conditions warrant," Randow added. Otherwise, it will be followed.

Cobb and Lucia Cobb.

All cash collected is retained for use in the Southern District, while pledges are sent into the MD National Headquarters and returned on a pro-rata basis, Ruth said.

She added that the success of this year's drive "was due to the dedication, cooperation and hard work of a group of people who should be recognized."

These people include the Rockport Business and Professional Women who sponsor the annual local fund-raising effort; the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department who donate the use of the fire station for the "telephone headquarters"; Southwestern Bell and Rockport Cable TV.

Also to be recognized are Rockport Bakery, Den's Golden Fried Chicken, Pizza Hut, Ron's Crispy Fried Chicken, Dairy Queen, Clydene's Pizza Palace, Corky's Restaurant and Circle K for donating food for the volunteers who manned the telephones and collected cash donations.

If both Propositions 1 and 2 are approved, says School Superintendent Joe Randow, then in the remodeling work, "we'll put in fewer windows."

Fewer windows will mean less loss of air conditioned air -- but the school will retain enough windows so that, at certain times of the year, the air conditioners can be shut off and the windows and ceiling fans can be used to keep classrooms comfortable.

Next: Proposition 3: a new auditorium.

Student News

Rebecca Ann Williamson of Rockport was among some 251 students of Corpus Christi State University who received degrees in summer commencement exercises Friday, August 15.

She received a Master of Science degree in Guidance and Counseling from the CCSU College of Education.

She attended Texas A&I University and Del Mar College and holds a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Northern Colorado.

She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, an honor society for education students at CCSU. She is the daughter of Mrs. Virginia D. Williamson of Glenwood Springs, Colorado.

EVERYTHING'S SO TEMPTING!

Ann Gunnells, right, and an unidentified man look over one of several tables of "goodies" during the Aransas County Republican Party's Labor Day Rummage Sale Monday, September 1. The sale, to raise money to operate the GOP's Aransas County headquarters at Concho and Highway 35, was an unqualified success. Some $420, enough to pay at least most of the headquarter's operating expenses through Election Day, November 4, was raised by Monday afternoon. The new headquarters opened with formal ribbon-cutting ceremonies at 10 a.m. Tuesday, September 2.

Police Report

Ethyl Wise Dormand, 51, of 704 Liberty was fined $78.50 on a charge of public intoxication following an accident Saturday night, August 30, at the Del Camino Motel.

Police said the accident occurred about 10:30 p.m. when Dormand's car—being pushed through the yard of the Del Camino by a car driven by his brother, Norman E. Wise — struck the porch railing of the motel's office.

Damage to the motel was estimated at $300. Wise, 56, is a resident of the motel.

Faires Lee Davis, 30, of Alice was placed under $500 bond on a charge of driving while intoxicated following his arrest about 1:32 a.m. Saturday.

Davis was stopped by Rockport police on South Bronte (Highway 35).

* * *

Gary Eugene Cartwright, 21, of Ingleside was treated at Lyman-Roberts Hospital in Aransas Pass for apparently minor injuries following an accident on South Bronte Friday afternoon, August 29.

Cartwright was riding his motorcycle on Bronte along a ditch beside the roadway when the vehicle skidded and Cartwright fell head first on the roadway.

The accident happened about 3:12 p.m. about 500 feet north of King Street. Cartwright was transported to the hospital by an Aransas County ambulance unit.

* * *

Luis Daniel Rojas, 31, of Kingsville was ticketed for following too closely after an accident on East Liberty at North Pearl about 11:25 a.m. Thursday, August 28.

Police said Rojas's car was in collision with a vehicle driven by Marion Bell Mullinax Jr., 43, of Rockport when Mullinax attempted a left turn from Liberty onto Pearl.

* * *

John Morice Turmel Jr., 21, of Natalia was fined $53.50 for public intoxication and placed under $500 bond on a charge of possession of marijuana following his arrest Monday, August 25.

Turmel was stopped by police about 12:05 a.m. at the intersection of Market and Water streets.

SEWER

the engineers' report, are that it uses facilities (septic tanks) that already exist in most residences and costs for septic tanks and drainfield are incurred only as each lot is developed.

Disadvantates include the fact that installation "will tear up yards in existing subdivisions" and, because each homeowner is responsible for the maintenance of his or her own facilities, it is difficult to monitor compliance with standards."

The report also notes, as a disadvantage, that this type of system will not work in subdivisions with small lots and poor drainage.

The second alternative presented for consideration by the engineers is the "multiple independent" in which there are several small wastewater treatment plants — four or more — with each serving a subdivision or group of subdivisions.

Each individual wastewater facility under this proposal would consist of collection, transmission and treatment facilities which would be located near the area served.

The report notes this system could be used either as an interim or a permanent facility.

Advantages to these multiple systems include the fact that they are an "immediate means to improve wastewater treatment in the future subdivision." This type of system would also eliminate from future subdivisions problems such as odor and surfacing of wastewater — problems now being experienced in some existing subdivisions.

An other advantage of this system is that it lends itself to "phasing construction" during periods of growth.

Disadvantages include the difficulty in operating and maintaining numerous treatment facilities. Subdivision residents may object to the nearness of a treatment plant to their homes, and the system requires ordinances and long review periods to assure that proposed new systems meet all local, state and federal requirements.

Alternative 3, the central wastewater treatment plant is the convention system in use by most cities, in which the sewage is collected and transferred to a central plant for treatment.

Among advantages to this system is that it is a "reliable and proven technique," the engineering report says, and land use patterns could capitalize on the availability of a system that is proven.

In addition, this central collection system avoids problems with odors and surfacing of wastewater.

The report cites two disadvantages to such a central system: it requires "skilled personnel" to operate and manage the facility, and local opposition may be encountered when residents are required to connect to the system.

The county waste board proposes to provide sanitary sewer service to the northern part of Live Oak Peninsula plus West Terrace, Oak Terrace, Peninsula Oaks, and Rattlesnake Point area, Copano Village, Copano Cove, Copano Ridge and the areas along FM roads 1781, 3036 and 2165 and Highway 35 north of Rockport.

The planning area also includes the city of Fulton which was not incorporated at the time of the original county grant application.

Registration Set For Israeli Course

Registration for an undergraduate course on "The Religious Experience of Israel" is set for 8 a.m. Friday, September 5, in Room 127, Corpus Christi Hall, Corpus Christi State University. Tuition fee is $50.

Classes will be held from 8 to 9:40 a.m. every Friday beginning September 5 in room 127 instead of in the Baptist Education Center as previously announced.

The course offers two undergraduate credits applicable to degrees at Corpus Christi State University or Del Mar College with approval from the schools' academic advisers.

Teachers for the course are the Reverend Charles H. Miller, S.M., associate professor of graduate theology, St. Mary's University, San Antonio, and Sister Kathleen McDonagh, I.W.B.S., Incarnate Word Academy, Corpus Christi.

The course is one of three offerings in religion that St. Mary's University of San Antonio is bringing to Corpus Christi this fall under sponsorship of the Most Reverend Thomas J. Drury, bishop of Corpus Christi Diocese.

For more details on the program, interested persons are asked to call the bishop's office of Sister McDonagh at IWA.

School Fund Benefits

The Texas Permanent School Fund received $244.6 million from the petroleum industry in 1979 for lease rentals, bonuses and royalty payments.

The University of Texas Permanent Fund received $88.8 million in petroleum lease rentals, bonuses and royalty payments in 1979.

Total contribution by the petroleum industry has been $1.1 billion to the UT fund since 1924 and $1.9 billion to the Permanent School Fund since 1932.

Accent On Health

What do you think about while mowing the yard?

About 60,000 people each year obviously have their minds on something other than what they are doing — because that's the number who are seriously injured by power mowers annually, according to Harold R. Ray, Director of the Product Safety Division of the Texas Department of Health.

The most frequent cause of injuries is contact with the rotating blade. "This often happens when the victim is clearing the discharge chute, adjusting the mower without turning it off, or when the machine hits an obstruction and the victim's foot slips under the housing," Ray said.

Another principal danger is that of being hit by objects — rocks, twigs and other debris — thrown by the spinning blades. Many victims in these cases are innocent bystanders. Be especially alert to prevent children from playing near a power mower while it is in use, said Ray.

To help reduce these two types of accidents, the Consumer Product Safety Commission in Washington, D.C., has adopted some new performance standards. "After December 31, 1981, the rotary, walk-behind power mowers must be equipped with a safety device that shuts the machine off three seconds after the operator leaves the normal operating position," explained Ray.

The standards also require a foot probe test to determine whether a foot could contact the blade through the discharge chute or at the rear of the mower.

"In addition, both reel-type and rotary power mowers must carry a label that warns the consumer of the dangers of blade contact," Ray said. "This label must be on all mowers manufactured after 1979."

Ray said that many riding mowers used on steep slopes are involved in "over-turning" accidents. "Mow up and down the slope with a riding mower," he cautioned, "but it's important to mow across the slope with a walk-behind mower."

Injuries also are caused by mowers running over the victim. "This often happens when a riding mower or garden tractor is being driven in reverse. The victims are usually young children whom the operator hasn't seen," Ray said.

Young children should not be passengers on riding mowers. Sometimes a child falls from the seat or engine hood and is injured before the operator can react.

Operators sometimes back over their own feet with walk-behind mowers. That's why it's a good idea to wear sturdy, closed, rough-soled shoes when mowing the lawn.

Ray said that reel lawn mowers are safer than rotary lawn mowers primarily because their blades move more slowly. "A common accident with reel lawn mowers, however, is attempting to release the reel when it is jammed by an object without shutting off the engine first."

Since reel lawn mowers cannot cut tall grass efficiently, most home owners prefer rotary mowers. Almost 90 percent of all power mowers manufactured each year are rotary mowers.

The blades can reach speeds of 200 miles per hour and can hurl objects 50 feet or more, unless they are equpped with chute deflectors. "If your mower has a deflector, don't take it off," Ray advised.

How about that gasoline used to power your mower? It can be a time bomb just waiting to explode or catch fire.

"Don't store gasoline in a glass container," says

Ray, "and keep it out of the storage room where a water heater is located. Gasoline fumes can be as explosive as a stick of dynamite."

Don't refuel a mower while it is running or while the engine is hot. Never refuel a mower indoors because the unseen vapors could be ignited by a spark.

"Never start your mower or work on it with the motor running in an enclosed area where the carbon monoxide can collect," Ray advised.

SUNNY SIDE UP OYSTERS

Serve Oysters The Year Round

Many seafood fanciers rate oysters as the number one ocean treasure. And well they should! Oysters offer delicious, delicate flavor. They are an excellent source of high quality protein, minerals and vitamins. They are also easily digestible whether eaten raw, steamed, fried, baked, frittered or in stew.

Yet, strangely, this centuries-old favorite is surrounded by misconception. The most common fiction is the so-called "R" rule. This rule says that oysters should not be eaten in the months which do not contain the letter "r," but it has no basis in fact.

As a matter of fact, oysters are available year round. Using the time-tested harvesting methods of their forefathers, Virginia watermen tong for oysters season after season to produce the largest supply of fresh shucked oysters in the nation.

Oysters are, however, highly perishable. But because of modern processing, transportation and storage practices, you can enjoy oysters whatever the time of the year.

Oysters are sold live in the shell, fresh shelled, frozen and canned. When sold in the shell, they must be alive when purchased with shells tightly closed. Fresh shelled oysters should be refrigerated or surrounded by ice. If properly handled, they will remain fresh for a week to 10 days. Frozen oysters should not be thawed until ready to use and they should never be refrozen. Also, be sure to use the liquid content along with the oyster meat for maximum flavor.

For a unique seafood experience sure to brighten breakfast, lunch or dinner, try this outstanding recipe from the collection of Virginia Chef Johnny Lockhart of Lockhart's Gourmet Seafood in Norfolk.

SUNNY SIDE UP OYSTERS

8 large oysters
1 large egg
2 oz. cream
1 pat butter
1/8 teaspoon ginger

Melt butter in a small casserole dish. Add cream. Lay oysters side by side at one end of dish. Open egg and place sunny side up on other end. Sprinkle on ginger. Bake at 350° F. for about 5 minutes or until egg firms up. Garnish with parsley, or watercress and lemon wedge or sliced lemon and lime. Serves one.

USDA CHOICE

When it comes to steaks we think we offer the best . . . there's no secret why, it just takes skill. One of the things that makes a steak is the angle of the cut. That first cut is made by an expert at H.E.B.'s own meat plant. Then the rest of the slices keep the same angle. It's quality control! The H.E.B. Meat Tenders do it themselves, so they know it's right. Steak after steak, roast after roast.

Understand Ants To Control Them

CORPUS CHRISTI — To control ants either inside or outside the home, it is necessary to know not only the type of ant causing the problem but something about its life style and habits, advises Dr. Roy Parker.

Ants are social insects, living together, feeding their young and protecting their nests under a caste system evolved perhaps 60 million years ago, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service entomolo explains.

He says most species of ants have colonies with a single egg-laying queen but some may have several. The colonies may be established in the soil, in trees or rotten logs, under stones — or in the walls of your home.

No other adult insect is known to live as long as the queen ant, he says. She may lay eggs for years and a single colony be active 15 to 20 years in some cases.

Although they prefer different foods, most ants are omnivorous, eating both plant and animal material, regardless of their species.

Ants require water for drinking and will travel great distances to get it. Worker ants carry it back to the queen and young in their stomachs.

They will enter a home for both food and water, especially during dry, hot weather.

Those which build their nests in the walls and behind the baseboards in the home are the pharaoh ants and the thief ants. Small red-to-yellow creatures less than a quarter inch long, the pharaoh ant prefers sweets while the thief ant likes greasy foods.

Outside nesters who often come inside are the Argentine ants, carpenter ants, little black ants, odorous house ants and pavement ants.

The native southern fire ant—not to be confused with the infamous imported fire ant—prefers the lawn while Texas leafcutting ants are to be found in huge mounds, where they culture an edible mold from leaves stripped off trees.

The harvester ant is the large, red one which builds those mounds on the edge of the curbing or in your driveway.

Before attempting to control ants in the home, Parker advises first answering three questions:

1. What type of ant is it?
2. Where do they ne where are they entering the home?
3. What is attracting them inside?

Parker says proper control often depends on the answer to one or more of these questions since no one insecticide controls all ants.

"A variety of ant baits is available but knowing the ant and what it feeds on is important in proper selection."

For best results, sprays should be applied along ant crawlways and at the point where they are entering their nest or moving to an outside nest. The baseboards and any cracks should be treated. Baits should be place alor crawlways out of the reac of children and pets.

The outside walls and foundations should be treated with a residual spray to prevent ants from entering the home.

Ant mounds and nests may be treated directly with a spray or insecticide mix poured into the mound. Baits and dust are often applied as a band around the mounds of fire ants, Texas leaf-cutting ants and harvester ants.

And finally, the entomologist concludes, be sure to read the label on the insecticide and follow the manufacturer's recommendations.
