Pope's Visit To Mexico Preceded By Strong Quake

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A strong earthquake rolled through downtown Mexico City today, some nine hours before Pope John Paul II was to arrive. Tall buildings swayed but no injuries or serious damage were reported.

The Mexico City seismological station said the quake registered at 6.3 on the Richter scale and was centered in the Pacific Ocean about 280 miles southwest of Mexico City, probably off the coast of Michoacan state.

The quake struck at about 4:10 a.m. (5:10 a.m. EST) and lasted about a minute. Almost two hours later, at 6:05 a.m., there was an aftershock measuring 5.0 on the Richter scale.

The pope was scheduled to fly in from the Dominican Repubic to this city of 13 million at 1:30 p.m., and the quake was not expected to change his flight plans.

Some tourists in downtown hotels fled into lobbies or into the street when their hotels stopped swaying.

There was an unusual amount of predawn activity when the tremor hit. Many people were gathering in the dark around Mexico City's main square to find a spot to see the pope's motorcade.

At least 5 million people were expected to turn out to greet him as he begins a five-day visit.

Officials at Red Cross headquarters throughout central Mexico said they had no reports of casualties.

One Red Corss duty officer in Oaxaca in southern Mexico, another earthquake-prone city, said he didn't feel anything. "But that may be just because I am so tired," the worker said by telephone.

The pope is to visit Oaxaca on Monday and about 500,000 Indians are expected to gather at a monastery outside Oaxaca to see him. The Red Cross official had been helping install sanitary and medical facilities in the huge field where the Indians will gather.

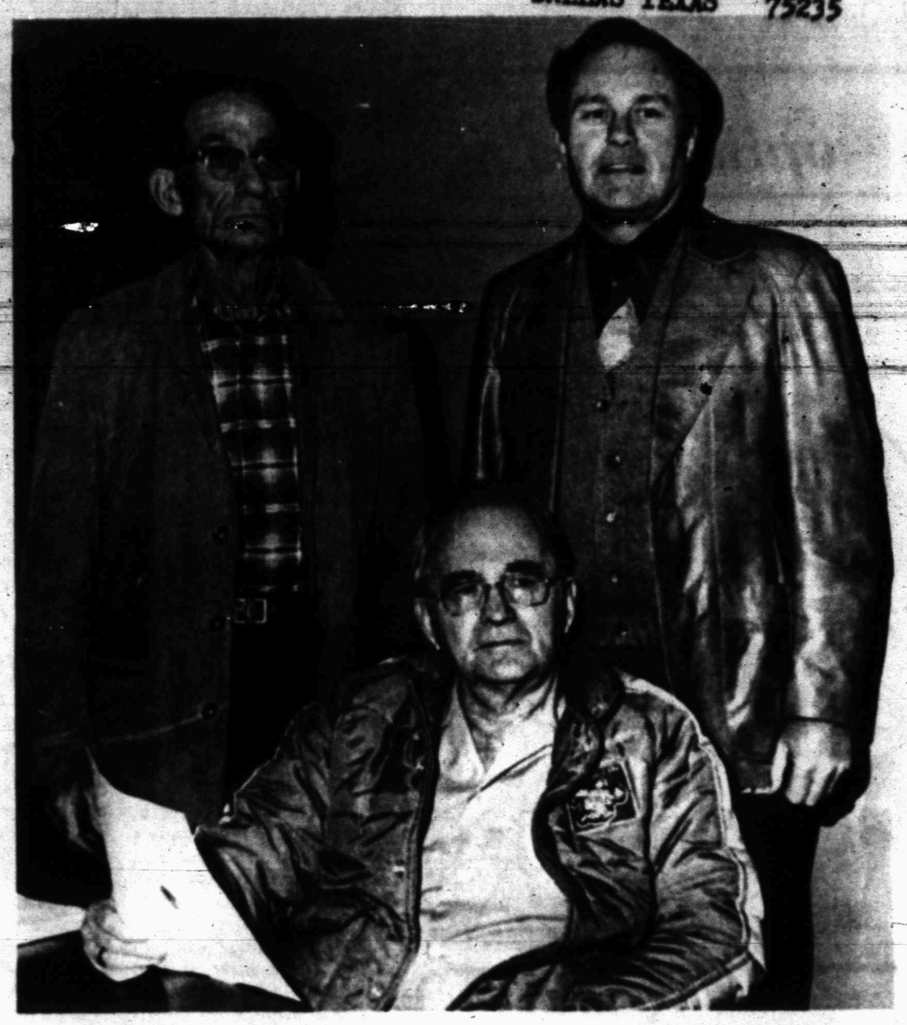

The last quake to hit Mexico City was Nov. 29. It measured 6.7 on the Richter scale and caused widespread panic but no casualties.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. An earthquake of 6 can cause severe damage and a 7 reading is a "major" earthquake, capable of widespread heavy damage.

Texaco Agrees To Pay Fines

PORT ARTHUR (AP)-Texaco has agreed to pay $169,000 in fines and make changes in its safety policies, mainly as a result of an explosion and fire at its refinery in March 1977 in which eight persons were killed and 15 others hurt.

This follows another compromise agreement between the giant oil company and the federal government. On Jan. 11 Texaco agreed to pay another $12,900 in penalties.

Says Senate Armed Services Comittee...

President's 3% Defense Pledge Only A Guideline

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter's pledge to NATO to raise military spending by 3 percent is only a guideline that Congress is free to ignore, leaders of the Senate Armed Services Committee say.

Sen. John Stennis, chairman of the panel, said the figure "is just a kind of legislative term, a phrase, an argument." If Congress were obliged by the figure, he said, it could "vote now and close the books" on the defense budget.

Instead, said Stennis, Congress will make a judgment on each part of the administration's $122.7 billion budget, which has touched off a guns-versus-butter debate because defense spending is going up while social programs are being restrained.

"Maybe 3 percent is too much, maybe 3 percent is not enough," said Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who ranks first behind

Avoiding Tax Bite

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)-Under a proposal by state Rep. Phyllis Pond, Indiana married couples could separate for a day - at least on paper - to avoid a higher tax bite.

The Internal Revenue Service had no official comment Thursday, but a spokesman indicated the IRS didn't think highly of the idea.

Mrs. Pond, a Republican from New Haven in northern Indiana, says it's unfair that married wage-earners are taxed more heavily than unmarried, live-together couples.

Holding 40 Hostages

TOKYO (AP)-Blasting away with a shotgun and demanding a quarter of a million dollars, a masked bandit charged into a bank in Osaka today and seized as many as 40 hostages, officials said. The siege was still going on eight hours later and police said they believed the bandit had killed four people.

Celebrating Victory

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)-The new Cambodian government staged a victory celebration in Phnom Penh despite continuing fighting in the countryside. Radio Phnom Penh said Heng Samrin addressed thousands at the capital's sports stadium Thursday and called on his forces to "sweep away" the remnants of former Premier Pol Pot's army. It was his first public admission of continuing resistance.

He said the country's economy was a shambles and called on the people to make sacrifices to build a new society.

Demonstrators Shot

TEGRAN, Iran (AP)-Troops in Tehran and the western city of Sanandaj opened fire today on thousands of supporters of Ayatullah Ruhollah Khomeini angered by the government's delaying his return to Iran, and there were reports of at least 11 dead and 53 wounded.

500 Feared Killed In Train Wreck

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A passenger train packed with men, women and children ran off the tracks in western Bangladesh today and as many as 500 persons were feared dead, the United News of India reported. It could be one of the worst train wrecks in history.

UNI, quoting the Bangladesh Eastern News Agency, said the locomotive and four passenger cars jumped the tracks and landed in a ditch.

It said the accident occurred in Chuadanga, about 95 miles west of Dacca in Kusthia district near the border with India.

Lions Due Here For Conference

Lions representatives from 82 clubs in the area will begin arriving in Snyder Saturday for the annual District 2-T2 mid-winter conference.

The Snyder Lions Club, home club of District 2-T2 Gov. Howard Harrington, will host the two-day event which begins at 7 p.m. Saturday.

The meet will begin again at 12:30 with a luncheon. Grindstaff, a Ballinger attorney, will be the guest speaker. Following the luncheon, there will be additional Lions business conducted from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m.

District 2-T2 is composed of 82 clubs and some 250 persons are expected to attend. Dr. Thom Scannicchio of Snyder is chairman for the mid-winter conference.

Coliseum Hookups Planned By BCD

The Scurry County Board of Development discussed plans for installing water and electric power hookups for recreational vehicles at the coliseum at its meeting Thursday.

Phil Ragland, coliseum manager, met with the board and submitted drawings of a system which might be suitable here.

Bill Warner, chamber of commerce manager and BCD consultant, said that such facilities are becoming more and more important factors in attracting rallies of trailer and motor home groups. Also, a number of trailers and motor homes are used by participants in events such as rodeos, which are held at the coliseum.

The BCD hopes to have the water and electric hookups available later this year. Heretofore, portable rigs have been used, but these present problems and confusion, it was noted. Also, Ragland said permanent installation are much more desirable from the standpoint of safety.

The board agreed to subscribe to a directory of business and industrial firms which will provide information on the companies as well as their executives. Warner said this directory, which will cost $175 and will be up-dated regularly, will provide valuable information in industrial expansion efforts.

Ask Us

Q--Can you tell me the increases the commissioners have voted themselves year-by-year the last eight years?

A--Figures supplied by County Auditor Jay Massingill at our request show that county commissioners have had raises averaging approximately seven percent per year the past 10 years. This has increased the salary from $8,476.42 to $15,583.55 over the decade. Raises for all other offices came at the same time, with others now ranging from $16,217.97 to more than $18,000.

Hospital Board Re-Elects Slate

Cogdell Memorial Hospital's board of managers last night re-elected its officers and welcomed a new member.

John Jarrell was re-elected president of the board, while A.Z. Glover was re-elected vice president and Rex Robinson was re-elected secretary.

Leon Autry was sworn in as a new member of the board at the same time Jarrell and Glover took the oath for new terms. Autry was appointed by the commissioners court to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Henry Clark.

County commissioners were guests of the board at the first regular meeting of the new year.

During the session, a report on the operation of the hospital's radiology department was presented by Dr. Anil Goswami, radiologist. He gave a detailed description of the procedures which may be performed at Cogdell, using X-ray pictures as illustrations.

Cy Miller, administrator, presented the final report on 1978 operations of the hospital which showed that the hospital averaged 68.9 patients per day and operated "in the black" by some $230,000. The patient census is expected to increase during the coming year, Miller said, as more doctors join the staff. Two other doctors are expected to begin practice here in June and another later in the year.

The board renewed certification of all present staff doctors for the new year.

Security Measures Tight For Teng's First Visit

By JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer

Groups ranging from anti-communists to radical Maoists plan a barrage of protests when Chinese leader Teng Hsiao-ping arrives this weekend.

But federal officials say Teng's entourage and the demonstrators probably will never get within a block of one another as authorities plan to tightly control the protesters' movements.

Secret Service and State Department officials were reluctant in interviews Thursday to discuss the security precautions, which are known to be heavy for the first visit ever by a leader of China's 30-year-old communist government.

"It's going to be quite tight and secure," said State Department spokesman Warren Magriuder. Chinese security officials have been in this country to help plan security, but U.S. officials would give no details on their activities or say when they arrived.

Teng, the 74-year-old deputy premier who has led China's shift toward greater diplomatic and economic cooperation with the West, arrives Sunday to begin a six-day stay that also will take him to Atlanta, Houston and Seattle.

The U.S. Park Service, which controls activities on federal land near the White House, has issued demonstration permits to five groups and said Thursday more permit requests may yet come in.

A last-minute cancellation of planned demonstrations Sunday and Monday by hundreds of Iranian students took some pressure off police and security agencies. The Iranians are not concerned about Teng's visit, but sought to renew their criticism of President Carter's support of the shah.

bureaucrats respond

Only days after President Carter announced his anti-inflation plans, his bureaucracy reacted. The greatest burden of his project was aimed at compliance by the private sector, but government agencies were given a slight nudge in the right direction.

The bureaucracy was not told it would have to cut back existing staffs. It was only suggested that federal agencies should only fill one out of two vacancies in staffs as they occur.

The president also suggested that unnecessary regulations be curtailed so that these costly burdens on industry could be cut and thus not be passed on in higher prices for goods.

This slight frost (it can hardly be called a freeze) on federal jobs set bureaucrats clamoring for relief before the week was over. Federal agencies began filling for exemptions from the limits placed on filling vacancies.

The Interior Department wants to hire 400 more people to enforce stripmining controls. The Environmental Protection Agency wants 200 more for job safety controls.

It seems to us that we just read where OSHA was instructed to drop nearly a thousand piddling regulations which have been harassing private enterprise, mostly small business. With that much of their "work load" dropped it would seem this agency might even be able to cut back existing staff.

The quick reaction by these and some others of our multiplicity of agencies makes it apparent that the cries for relief came too quick to reflect any evaluation of real needs to have been made.

One agency head said that cutting out wasteful rules means extra work. Although he is not part of the OSHA menage, this might explain that agency's "need" for added staff.

We would be inclined to guess that some of these exemptions will be granted and that before another year rolls around we will see the federal bureaucracy growing like weeds in good bottomland.

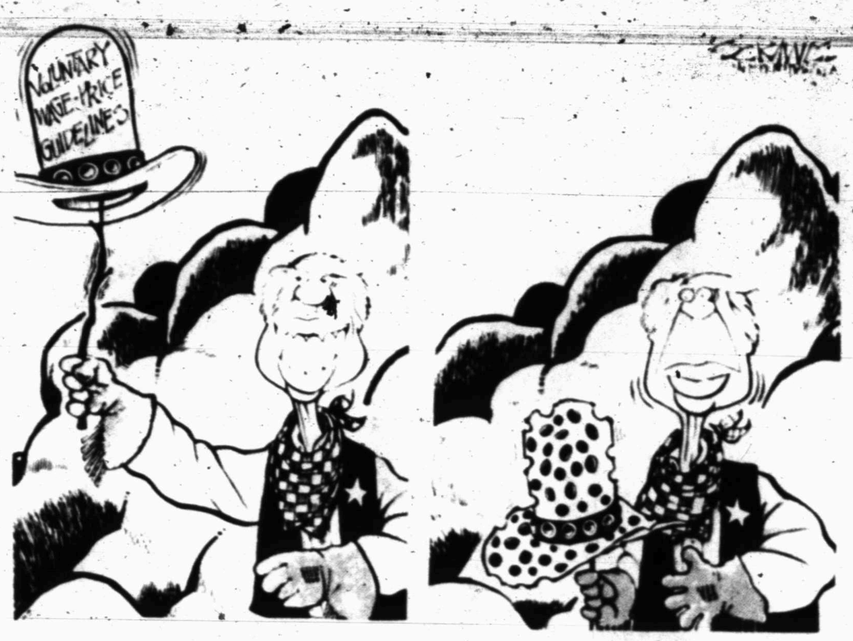

It is going to take far more than a presidential statement of policy to bring about any sizable cut in the waste now proliferating within the bureaucracy.

There is only one way we can see that the taxpayers are going to get any relief. If Congress and the administration will team up to tighten the purse strings, cut the budget of every agency below present spending levels and simply tell the agency heads to start being executives in meeting the challenge, or else.

It would then be up to those managers in government to demonstrate their abilities to manage and bring about some efficiency in their departments.

If total attrition was enforced and if this were coupled with efficient management devoted to the most essential services, we doubt that anything other than a better living level would result.

Those not hired by the government would be shunted to the productive private sector and all Americans, even those in the bureaucracy, would gain.

at wits end

Today's women get ragged to death about their push-button world. Men like to remind them of the days when their mothers baked from scratch, carried wood, and the only thing self-cleaning was the cat.

In answer to these accusations, I can only reply, "Was there ever a leisure suit for women? Do we have the counterpart of a lounge chair called Lazy-Boy? Was there ever a style of shoes made just for us called Loafers?"

Despite the impact of the women's movement, a recent survey showed that 90 percent of the wives and 85 percent of the husbands interviewed said women still do most of the household chores.

I have never understood that. Who says a man compromises his masculinity if he puts a toilet seat down? Whatever happened to that wonderful old adage, "He's not heavy, Father, he's my dog going to the vet." Why do most men live by my husband's philosophy on garbage, "You make it. I'll carry it to the can!"

Somehow, I don't think we're getting through to the men. Let me tell you how housework was explained to me and maybe it will seem atttractive to you.

Housework is creative. Especially when you do it right. You'll never know how good you can feel until you've spent $26 and three hours making a casserole of goose eggs, imported eel and lettuce leaves from Taiwan only to have your wife sniff and say, "I had it for lunch."

Housework prolongs your life. Studies show that waxing, scrubbing, flushing, dusting, scouring, polishing, and mopping actually reduces your chance of heart attack and you can outlive your working wife. Or maybe it will just seem longer.

Housework gives you the freedom to control your own time.....as long as you get the kids to school by 9:00, Frank to the orthodontist by 10:00, pick Eric up at noon, Debbie to baton twirling class at 3:00, cookies to Scouts by 4:30, dinner in the oven by 5:00, 36 empty egg cartons to Sue's house by 6:00, and antibiotics into Marsha at 10:00, 6:00 and 2:00 a.m.

A reader who is convinced housework will never catch on with men told me a few Sundays ago she put a roast into the oven while the men watched a football game in the family room just off the kitchen.

A few hours later when she returned she opened the door to huge, black clouds of greasy smoke. Coughing her way to the kitchen she passed her three sons and husband who were haunched over, hands cupping eyes blinking through the smoke.

Housework is not an Equal Opportunity Employer. If this bothers you, it should.

my turn

It seems unnatural for a jail to swing its doors open but that is just what is going to happen Sunday. The new Scurry County Jail Building and its unlikely companion, the new Senior Citizens Building, are staging an open house beginning at 2 p.m.

With football season over and everyone still a little stir-crazy from the recurring spells of bad weather that keep us home bound, it is an excellent opportunity to get out and mingle. And hopefully, for most of us, it will be the only time we will see the jail from the inside out.

Also on display will be several county and state offices now conveniently located under one roof. Previously they were scattered all over town. The Senior Citizens Center also accommodates the offices of two other age-related organizations, the RSVP and Green Thumb.

For more information about the new facilities look for our special tabloid in your Sunday paper.

Speaking of the Senior Citizen Center reminds me of a joke Delbert Downing told a gathering of old-timers at a banquet a few months back.

A city man, hearing that a farmer had a milk cow that produced an extraordinary amount of milk, set about finding out just how much milk the cow gave.

"Well I don't rightly know," said the farmer. "But it provides me and my family with all our milk and most of the neighbors get their milk here. Then we sell the rest and make enough off it to pay the rent on the farm."

"Wow!" said the city man, that is some milk cow. Tell me how much does an animal like that eat?"

"Well," said the farmer, "That is the best part, she sucks herself and we don't have to feed her at all."

The jail also reminds me of an old joke. There was this West Texas cowboy who was killed in an attempted jail break. Naturally he found himself in Hades. A demon gave him three choices of where he wanted to spend eternity. The first was a long brick road with everybody standing on his head.

"I could never do that," he thought.

In the second place, everybody was standing on his head on an asphalt road.

"Gives me a headache just to think about it," he muttered.

The third place was a wide open prairie covered with about six inches of cow manure. Everyone was sitting around drinking coffee.

"I spent most of my life doing no worse than this, he thought, so he told the demon that this is where he wanted to spend eternity.

"So be it", said the demon and disappeared.

But no sooner had the old cowboy got himself a cup of coffee and started to relax than the Devil himself appeared and bellowed.

"Okay sinners, coffee break is over, back on your heads!"

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

Concerning President Carter's State of the union speech last night, (Tuesday) we find that the Texas delegation was not pleased at his failure to stress energy matters. Rep. Bill Archer said, "He apparently feels that our energy problem is no longer worth mentioning in spite of the fact that massive energy imports still contribute so heavily to our trade deficit and inflation." Rep. Kent Hance said, "The energy bill isn't going to produce one more drop of oil or one more foot of gas. Our energy problems are not going to be solved as long as government is playing a major role in the regulation of energy."

The latest results from an ABC News-Harris Survey showed a rise in the percentage of people favoring decontrol of all oil produced in the United States, if this would encourage development of more oil production at home. A 65 percent majority said they were worried by the OPEC oil prices and the uncertainty about the Iranian oil supply.

We need to write our representatives to continue the fight for deregulation and to make the peoples wishes known to the president. We need complete deregulation not just part.

Snyder oilfield is no longer what it once was but it would help royalty owners to be able to receive more per barrel for what they have left. Our drilling is confined mostly to shallow wells; if you compare the prices for new oil with that of old oil you will find there is quite a bit of difference.

We need an energy program that will assure us of having enough for the future. The oil industry needs help. Please let the government know how you feel.

WASHINGTON (NEA)- When he was running for president, Jimmy Carter was especially outspoken about the fact that "the American people have been excluded from the process of evolving and consummating our foreign policy."

But now that he's ensconced in the White House, Carter has enthusiastically embraced the "unnecessary secrecy" he once so vigorously deplored in his recent predecessors' conduct of international affairs.

The most recent - and undoubtedly most blatant - example of Carter's abandonment of his position was his unilateral decision to extend diplomatic recognition to the People's Republican of China and the concurrent withdrawal of recognition from Nationalist China.

That initiative was revealed only after it had become fait accompli, without any prior notification to either the electorate or Congress and with virtually no opportunity for any form of public or political debate in the two weeks between the Dec. 15 disclosure and the Jan. 1 effective date of the agreement.

As the White House repeatedly notes in its defense, restoration of diplomatic relations between Washington and Peking probably has been inevitable ever since President Richard M. Nixon visited in February 1972 and signed the Shanghai Communique.

Moreover, normalization of relations between the two nations is a long-overdue development that holds the promise of political, economic and diplomatic benefits for both countries. The issue, however, is not what Carter did but rather how he did it.

It certainly is not entirely by coincidence that the president's announcement came at a time when the 95th Congress had adjourned and the 96th Congress was not scheduled to convene for another month.

That timing, coupled with the exceptionally hasty schedule for implementation, effectively precluded any debate on the issue within the legislative branch of government.

In terms of Carter's personal and political priorities, the timetable was a stroke of genius. He still bears some wounds from the full-scale Senate debate on the Panama Canal treaties and this year must endure an even more bruising Senate struggle over ratification of the SALT II treaty with the Soviet Union.

Confronted by countless other domestic and international issues that are both difficult to resolve and threaten to erode an already weak base of support, the president understandably sought to minimize the controversy over China.

But in allowing those tactical considerations to dominate the decision-making process, Carter grossly abused - and probably destroyed - his stated principles on public notification and participating in the shaping of international policy.

The most eloquent exposition of those principles is contained in a March 1976 speech before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, when Carter was especially critical of then-Secretary of State Henry M. Kissinger.

"Our foreign policy is being evolved in secret, and in its full details and nuances it probably is known to one man only," candidate Carter said on that occasion.

"That man is skilled at negotiation with leaders of other countries but far less concerned with consulting the American people or their representatives in Congress," he added.

Carter's standard was a high one: "Our policies should be shaped with the participation of Congress, from the outset, on a bi-partisan basis. And they should emerge from broad and well informed public debate and participation."

That approach may indeed be hopelelssly naive; but Carter promoted it when he was seeking the support of the electorate and has never subsequently disavowed it.

His recent performance, on the other hand, merits only the Nixon-Kissinger Memorial Award for Devious Manipulation.

growing older

Harold Blumenfeld

Most of the mail I receive from my readers deals with specific problems such as Social Security, Medicare and other matters confronting the aging population. It is not possible to answer all these letters personally, so I try to answer as best I can in this column.

Sometimes, however, letters refer to problems that may affect not only senior citizens but people of all ages. This column is devoted to those inquiries.

Diabetes afflicts many older people, but it is not only a disease of the aging. Even children, unfortunatly, are victims of this illness.

It's often difficult to prepare for diabetics meals that are nourishing, appetizing and appealing. As a result, meal planning becomes a chore. The patient may lose interest in the food that might improve his or her health.

Several books and other materials are available on diet and cooking for diabetic individuals:

— Specific information about diabetes may be requested from the Diabetes Information Center, P. O. Box 237, Philadelphia, Pa. 19105. The center also operates a dial-a-message for diabetics at (215) 627-2722.

— "Exchange Lists for Meal Planning," a 24-page booklet, can be obtaied for 50 cents from the American Diabetes Associaion, 1 West 48th St., New York, N.Y. 10020 or from any American Diabetes Association state affiliate.

— Registered dietitian Dorothy Revell's "Diabetes Control Cookery" is published by Berkley Publishing Co., 200 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10016. The 167-page book is priced at $1.25.

— Then there is "The New Diabetic Cooking Made Easy" by Virginia M. Donahoe. The 74-page book can be ordered for $3 from Diabetic Research Fund, 10208 Wildwood Road, Bloomington, Minn. 55437.

— Finally comes "The Art of Cooking for the Diabetic" by Katharine Middleton and Mary Abbot Hess. The $11.95 book is available from the American Diabetes Association, 620 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 60611.

I have also received a number of letters from people who have had difficulties with merchandise ordered by mail. Most states have consumer-affairs departments that might help with such complaints.

But there is also the Direct Mail Marketing Association's Mail Order Action Line at 6 E. 43rd St., New York, N.Y. 10017. This is a free service to help consumers with mail-order problems they haven't been able to solve by dealing directly with the mail-order company.

You must provide the DMMA with the company's name and address plus photocopies of your cancelled check and all correspondence concerning the purchase. Don't forget to describe the item ordered.

The DMMA will send you a postcard after it writes the company. Send the card back if you don't receive a money refund or merchandise replacement within one month. The DMMA will then resume trying to help you.

But it might be advisable to first try to get help from your local agency that deals with consumer frauds.

Finally comes the problem of a man who drove a very old car that was missing its left taillight. He had not been able to find a replacement anyplace in his city.

Help for such predicaments is available from Automotive Obsolete, 1023 E. Fourth St., Santa Ana, Calif. 92701. The firm specializes in parts for old cars, except Fords.

Automotive Obsolete just might have something for you in its collection of just about everything needed to keep an old car running plus reproductions of some parts that are no longer available. Not surprisingly, the company receives requests from all part of the world.

Your Birthday

January 27, 1979

Much to your delight you'll be able this coming year to function in a more independent manner. Many restrictions of the past are lifting, and an easier road is ahead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your intuition is pretty sharp today. However, there's a good chance you'll ignore it and go along with another against your better judgment. You'll be sorry. Learn more about yourself by sending for your 1979 copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't talk about your friends today unless you have something flattering to say about them. They'll have a way of finding out everything you said.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Although you will be most anxious for socializing, you may have trouble feeling in synch with what others are doing today. Don't collect guilt from it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Persons important to your cause may not be as easy to win over as you thought. When you present your case, be sure it is believable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Strive to be more philosophical than materialistic today. If you place too much emphasis on materialism you are going to wind up disappointed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be prepared to make some concession today where you share something of value. A give-and-take attitude is needed in order for either party to gain.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Misunderstandings with co-workers should be settled promptly today. Otherwise, the chance of them being blown out of proportion is great.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Too much fun and games today could cause your work to suffer. Unfortunately, it will then have to be done at a far less convenient time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your priorities tend to be out of order today. You are likely to place more attention on that which is easy, causing your responsibilities to pile up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If at all possible, try not to bring problems home that have nothing to do with the family. You'll get everyone all stirred up for no reason.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You might be better off to forego any business deals today. Although it might first appear like you're getting a deal, you'll be the one who is taken.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's a very fine thing to be helpful, but today take care you aren't drawn into something only to find yourself left holding the bag.

Mike Gottlieb, one of the greatest players of the Thirties who had already won three Vanderbilt cups before he retired in 1936, has started playing bridge again in California. He recently played in a sectional Swiss team in Palo Alto where his team won with a score of eight wins out of eight matches.

Here is a hand he played against Ely Culbertson back in 1933. The play was short and effective. Mike won the diamond lead, entered dummy with the ace of hearts and led a spade to his king. Culbertson won with the ace and played two more diamonds.

Mike ruffed, went to dummy with the ace of clubs, led a second trump, rose with his queen, dropped Ely's jack and while he still had to lose a club he had his game home.

Why did Mike play for that jack drop?

He explained later that in similar circumstances, Ely always ducked with ace-small. Hence, when Ely won the first spade with the ace and East followed low on the second spade, Ely either had held ace-jack doubleton, ace-jack-small or singleton ace. As there was no way to avoid the loss of another spade trick against the last two, Mike utilized his only chance.

Museum Poll

LONDON (AP)—President Carter is the favorite politician, Superman and Winston Churchill are the top all-time heroes and Sophia Loren is the choice for most beautiful in poll results announced by Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum.

Margaret Thatcher, leader of Britain's Conservative Party, had the dubious distinction of joining the top five in the Hate and Fear category, trailing Adolf Hitler and Ugandan President Idi Amin.

The results were gleaned from questionnaires answered by visitors to the London museum.

Dear Abby

82, He's Still A Sexagenarian

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 82 and in good health. My wife died three years ago and I live alone in an apartment.

Two years ago a nice-looking 65-year-old widow moved into the apartment across the hall and we became friendly. We started eating together—usually at my place. She would prepare everything at her place and bring it over.

After supper we watched TV, held hands, and exchanged a few kisses. Well, before I knew it, things got out of hand and she was spending the night with me. In my bed!

I finally put a stop to it when she began to tell me she was "in love" with me. At no time did I tell her I was in love with her because I'm not.

Now she comes over every night without being invited, and she's pressuring me to marry her.

I have no intentions of marrying this lady or any other. How do I disassociate myself from her without hurting her feelings?

WANTS OUT

DEAR WANTS: Be honest. Tell the lady you have no plans to marry her and she will probably disassociate herself from YOU. If she doesn't, you could cool the relationship by seeing another lady or two...or three.

DEAR ABBY: Sex is an animal instinct which is normal in animals. Man is an animal, right? SO when man feels the natural urge to have sex, what is wrong with following his natural instincts?

MAX

DEAR MAX: Animals have a natural urge to procreate. The lowest animals mate by instinct. Man, the highest of all animals, mates not only to procreate, but to express the ultimate in love.

Animals have no capacity for love. One mate is a good as the next. Casual and promiscuous mating among civilized people (or simply using another to satisfy one's own selfish sex urge) is not only immoral, it's meaningless. It is for lower animals. It's also for the birds.

DEAR ABBY: We have two small boys. One is 4 and the other is 2½. I feel that my husband expects too much too soon of them.

The little tykes come to the table happy and hungry, but by the time my husband gets through correcting their every move ("Sit up straight, take your elbows off the table, stop talking with your mouth full, you're eating too fast, you're eating too slow etc.") these poor kids leave the table in tears with their plates practically untouched.

How can I make my husband understand that, besides making the boys dread mealtime, it could be bad for their health?

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: You have three "little boys." Tell the one you're married to that there is a more effective way to teach children. It's true that serious digestive problems often develop when children (and adults as well) attempt to eat when they are upset.

Implore your husband to resist the urge to shout criticisms and orders at the table. Gentleness is the key word here. Should he forget, gently kick him in the ankle.

Catholic Diocese To Ordain 33 As Deacons

The Catholic clergy in the Diocese of San Angelo will be increased Sunday when 33 men will be ordained as permanent deacons for the Catholic church.

REV. ZIMMERMAN

The Most Rev. Raymond J. Pena, Auxiliary to the Archbishop of San Antonio, will confer the Sacrament of Holy Orders on the new deacons during ordination ceremonies at Sacred Heart Cathedral in San Angelo at 3 p.m.

The new deacons will serve in various parishes throughout the 34-county area of the Diocese of San Angelo. They will supplement the present 31 permanent deacons who were ordained in August of 1976. Sixty-one active priests are serving the Diocese of San Angelo.

Also with the group of permanent deacons, Frank Colacicco will be ordained a deacon in transitory status. In March of this year, Colacicco is expected to be ordained a priest for the diocese.

Training for the new deacons for the past two years has been under the direction of the Most Rev. Stephen A. Leven with the assistance of Rev. Russell Schultz as director of the academic program. Bishop Leven has personally done much of the teaching during classes held during a weekend of each month. Bishop Leven is unable to confer the Sacrament of Holy Orders because of his recent illness.

Included in the group is Roy Hubbard who will be ordained for the Diocese of Austin where he has recently made his residence.

Additionally, Eddie Bevers and William R. Bolf who have attended training with the group, will be ordained for the Diocese of Ft. Worth at the hands of the Most Rev. John J. Cassata in February of this year.

Those being ordained for the Diocese of San Angelo include:

ROBERT RAMIREZ

ABILENE: Mario Caldron, Isaac Comacho, Thomas Quinlan and Jack Youngblood.

BIG SPRING: Edward Martinez and Horacio Yanez.

CLYDE: Paul Ramos.

CRANE: Julio Carrasco and Apolino Guiterrez.

Say Cults Are Bred By Anxiety

By George W. Cornell
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-A panel of scholars says the rise of new religious cults has been common in past anxious periods of American history, and that the present-day rash of such groups seems to indicate a spiritual void in modern culture.

After a two-day conference on the subject this week, the group of about 25 university professors - sociologists, psychologists, theologians and others - declined to draw definite conclusions about the phenomenon.

But it suggested "there is a deep hunger for some sort of spiritual meaning that is not being satisfied by contemporary society," said Marvin Bressler, a Princeton University sociologist and chairman of the meeting.

He added, however, that the trend's "singular nature is outside the immediate framework of most of our respective disciplines. The general feeling was a kind of sense of dismay at our own absence of knowledge of the entire issue."

He and other participants said at a news conference that there were several general impressions, including the view that cults indicate an "exhaustion of the doctrine of secular salvation."

Apparently modern society with its affluence, various "liberation" movements and technical conveniences has not produced spiritual fulfillment, the panel said, and people seek new means for it.

The meeting was sponsored by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith in the face of widescale questions about implications of the mass suicide of Peoples Temple cultists in Guyana.

Several scholars cautioned against drawing any generalized image of modern cults from the Guyana group, which some characterized as more political than religious.

"The movements ought not to be seen as all cut from the same cloth and lumped together," said Charles Y. Glock, a sociologist at the University of California at Berkeley.

He noted that most new cults are youth-oriented and draw recruits mostly from the white middle class, but that the Peoples Temple was heavily black and drew recruits from the working class.

Theologian Harvey Cox of the Harvard University Divinity School said the "hungers, needs, fears and heartaches of people" are serious problems in society today, and that many "so desperately need friendship, intimacy and community support" that they turn to the new groups.

"They call each other 'brother' and 'sister' and share things," he said. "It also gives them a vision of ultimate meaning in the scheme of things." He added that the historic religious institutions do not seem to be filling that need.

"When the churches accommodate themselves to the consumerist, competitive society, people look for an alternative," he said. "I see the new movements as a challenge to the churches to provide clearer alternatives to the standardized way of life."

Original Work Of Luther Believed Found In Texas

THORNDALE, Texas (AP) - The Rev. Reinhard Wuensche Sr., a religious historian, did not know what to expect when he was summoned to a shed near an abandoned farmhouse suspected of containing valuable church relics.

He opened an old forgotten trunk stashed in the shed and began poring over its contents.

"At first all I found were Milam County archives," said Wuensche. "It was later in the afternoon when I suddenly discovered them."

The rat-infested coffer yielded what Lutheran Church officials believe is a priceless collection of the works of Martin Luther, the church's founder, printed in the 1500s.

Wuensche, archivist for the Texas District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, examined the six volumes and said Thursday, "I honestly believe they are authentic."

Wuensche has arranged to take the 420-year-old books to St. Louis for examination by the church's national archivist, Gerhardt Kramer.

By coincidence, the books were found in the effects of Kramer's uncle, the late Andrew W. Kramer. Andrew Kramer was the first full-time pastor of the St. Paul Lutheran Church in this East Central Texas town, serving from 1894 until 1919.

He used to live on the Reinhard Schneider farm where the books were recently found in an old immigration coffer by its present owners, who summoned church officials.

Afterward, the books were disinfected and deoderized - "rats had gotten in and lived in there and chewed on some of the books." He said the volumes were printed within about a 10-year span with the oldest one dated 1558.

"In St. Louis we'll try carbon dating to see how truly authentic they are," said Wuensche, who lives in Eola in Concho County but has a son who is a Lutheran pastor in Taylor, near Thorndale.

"We have four types of material to date - the paper, the wooden covers, the pigskin stretched over the wood, and the fiber in the bindings," he said.

But Wuensche said they appear authentic. "The deterioration ... the handwritten notes inside .. the quality of the paper. Paper made nowadays is much thinner. These books are straw-weighted for all their size."

He said the volumes, written by the German monk whose teachings were the foundation of the Lutheran Church, still have the brass fittings used to hold them closed. He said notations indicate they were brought to Texas by Kramer and once had been in the possession of the Lambspringen-gis Monastery, but Wuensche said he does not know where such a place is.

One notation, written in Latin, says "Munificiently donated by the royal graciousness of Rudolphi August, duke of Brunswick and Luxembourg."

The volumes are part of "an eight-book set," Wuensche said Volumes 1 and 4 were missing.

In the title page of each volume are the initials "V.D.M.I.AE." Wuensche said this was Latin for "God's word maintains itself to eternity."

Says Grandmother...

Going Elsewhere To Get Laetrile

SCITUATE, Mass. (AP)-Chad Green, the 3-year-old leukemia victim who was made a ward of the state six months ago, has been taken out of Massachusetts by his parents so they can continue giving him Laetrile, his grandmother says.

"I know they have gone against the law," said Mrs. Hollis Green, Chad's grandmother. "But their personal law has been violated. They have been slapped in the face. I think that in a sense now they are free."

On Tuesday, Plymouth Superior Court Judge Guy Volterra had ordered Gerald and Diana Green to stop giving their son Laetrile, a controversial substance that some people claim helps treat cancer but others say is worthless or even harmful. The judge also ordered them to stop giving Chad huge doses of vitamins.

Mrs. Green said she last saw her son and daughter-in-law Wednesday afternoon. "We were going out to dinner and they were going to stay home," she said.

The grandmother said that when she returned from dining, the couple and Chad were gone.

The grandmother, in an interview this morning with radio station WREB in Holyoke, said Chad's mother left a note that read:

"When you find this, we will be safely gone. We cannot en-danger Chad's life and comply with the court order. It is clear the politics involved would take our son's life. Our country was founded on freedom...but the country has changed and the government wants total control even over the food we eat."

Netters Try Panthers Again

FORT STOCKTON —Snyder High School tennis team is scheduled to play in a dual match beginning here 10 a.m. Saturday.

The Tigers were defeated by the Panthers in dual play in Snyder last weekend, 21-5.

Defense Is The Key As...

Westerners Defeat SPC

Western Texas College's Westerners used a pressure defense and good shooting to thump visiting South Plains here last night.

The 96-75 victory slid the Levelland-based team to 5-3 in conference, while WTC retains the top spot with a 7-1 record.

"I think the turning points were the tenacious type of defense played by every kid who went in the ball game. To me it was the difference in the whole game," commented Coach Nolan Richardson.

"They (South Plains) committed 27 turnovers, a lot due to the pressure by our defense."

The Westerners unloaded the bench as every player saw action, and all but one scored.

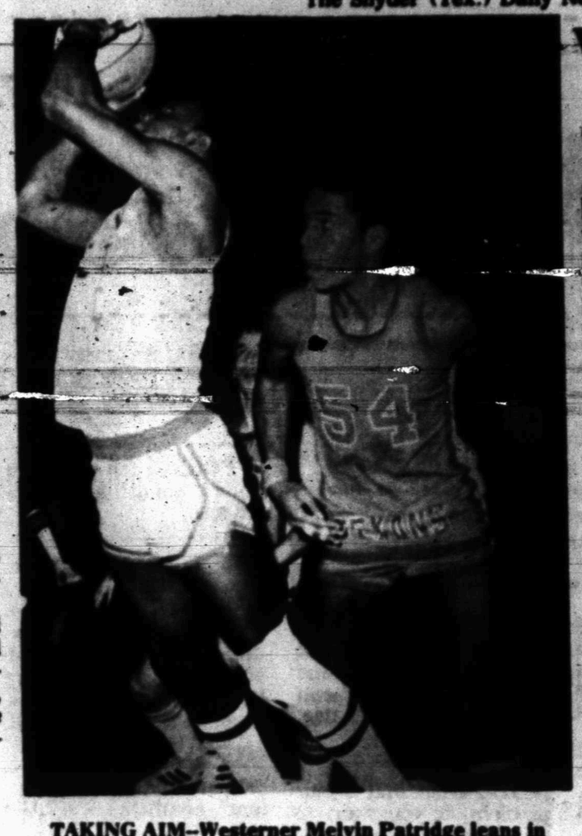

Paul Pressey's 20 points was high for the night, while Bill Patterson scored 13 and Joe Mendoza added 12.

Vaughn and Phillips each scored 17 for South Plains, which found itself behind 45-32 at half time, and by as much as 25 points in the final 20-minute period.

Richardson seemed almost as pleased with the home-town crowd as he did the victory, noting, "We had a good crowd, and I would like to thank the people for coming out and rooting for the kids. They do play to the tone of voices," added the coach, indicating that the team plays better, "when a group of people is up there yelling and screaming for them."

The Westerners - ranked No. 3 in the nation and now 19-2 for the season - will travel to Roswell, N.M. on Monday to face New Mexico Military Institute (13-6, 5-3).

WTC Hosts Judo Meet

Western Texas College judo team members will be holding their final workouts today in preparation for the Texas Collegiate Judo Championships to be held at the college tomorrow.

The matches will get underway at 12:30 p.m. in the WTC gym, and spectators are welcome. There will be no admission charge.

Following the collegiate meet, a senior and a junior judo tournament will be held. The senior competition winners will advance to the Senior AAU national judo championships to be held in San Francisco in April, and winners of the national titles will represent the United States in the Pan American, World Olympic Games.

Junior competition is open to players fromn 6-16.

"We would like to thank all the Snyder merchants who contributed to the purchase of the trophies to be awarded," Dr. Shel Hillis, WTC Judo Club advisor, said. "These are Bruton's Jewelry, C.R. Anthony Co., White's Auto Store, Clark Lumber Co., Ezzell-Key Feed & seed, Marlin Terrell for Farm Bureau Insurance, Burgess - McWilliams Pharmacy, C.A. McCown for the Food Baskets, Western Golfland, Bethel Oil Co., Red Faver's Fina, Mal Donelson Chevrolet, Buddy's Auto Supply, Gary Smith Tank Treaters, and Snyder Athletic Center.

The WTC judo team plans to attend the national championships in Long Beach, Calif., in March.

By going unbeaten in 1978, Penn States posted its 40th straight non-losing season.

Sweetwater Accepts Lady Cats Charity

Snyder gave out so much charity here last night it would have made Goodwill Industries blush, but the Sweetwater Mustangs kept right on grinning and taking.

In all, the Ponies sacked up 20 points from the free line, including 12 in the final quarter, and waltzed home with a 50-47 District 3-3A victory afterwards.

The loss puts Snyder at 0-1 in loop competition while Sweetwater upped its records to 1-1 after a loss to Lake View earlier in the week. Snyder hosts Lake View on Tuesday.

It was a contest the Tigers fought furiously to win - and in the end relinquished with little effort. Sweetwater came on to the court riding high, shooting well and rebounding even better, to take a quick 23-14 lead in the first quarter.

But the Tigers refused to give in that easily, and trimmed the margin to only one point, 27-26, by halftime.

A tough 2-3 zone defense, coupled with warmer shooting and better execution, helped whittle the Sweetwater lead. Early in the third quarter, the Tigers jumped ahead on a pair of Billie Owens free throws. The hosts had numerous chances to extend the lead by as much as five points, but as quickly as Snyder had warmed up, it got cold again.

With 2:14 left in the period Moore tied the totals with a free throw. Brenda Anderson put Snyder back in front with 17 seconds to play, 34-32, but moments later she sent Sweetwater's Sharon Hinshaw to the line for a pair of tying points.

Snyder opened the fourth quarter with another go-ahead basket, but just as quickly, Sweetwater found itself at the charity stripe where Hinshaw locked the totals once more.

The struggle continued until four minutes remained in the battle, when Anderson drew her fifth and final foul of the night. This time it was Carlton at the line, and the Pony player scored both ends of the one-and-one situation to put Sweetwater ahead to stay.

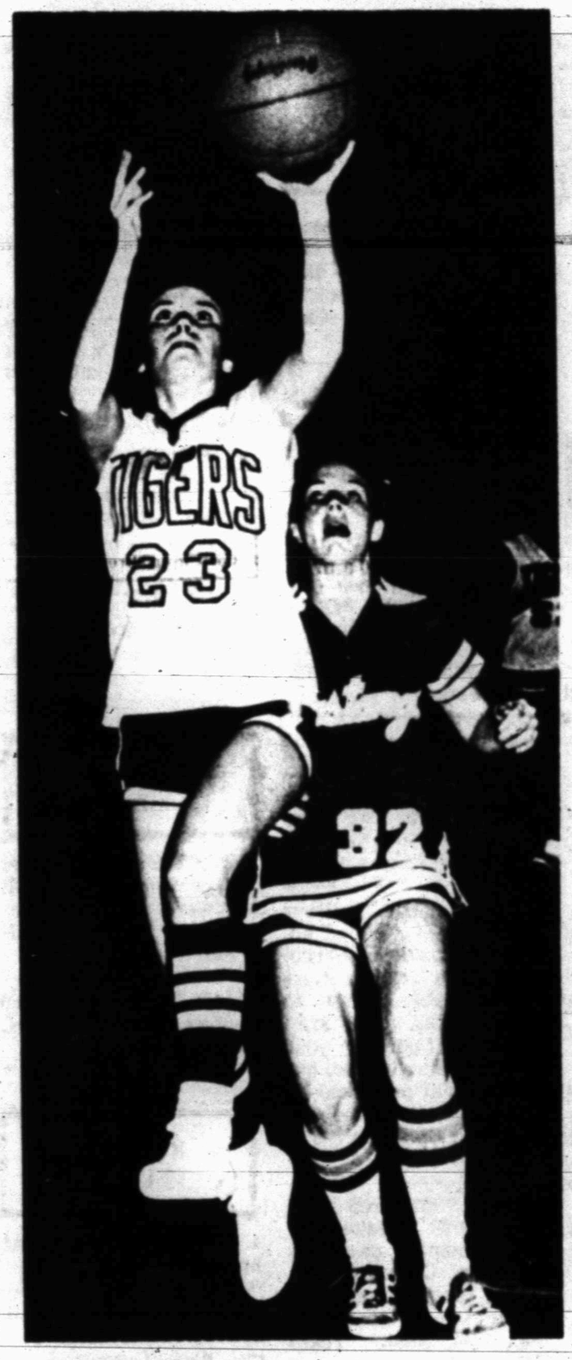

Following some back and forth action, Sweetwater basketed six straight free shots to post a 47-42 lead.

Snyder tried desperately to come back, but could managed only to rally the referees' whistles. Still, Jamie Hataway scored one free shot and Tanya Boydston put in two more points off the second-effort rebound, clipping Sweetwater's lead to 47-45 with two minutes showing on the clock.

Sweetwater's Debbie Garett extended it to 48-45 with 1:24 left, but Snyder still had its chances. Before the final buzzer sounded, the Tigers were awarded two trys at the charity border, but were unable to cash in on either occasion.

Hinshaw scored two more courtsey shots via an intentional foul with a minute left in the game. A long shot by Snyder's Kim Harlin snaked into the basket with four seconds left, but the two points only served as a buffer for the loss.

District Records: Sweetwater 1-1, Snyder 0-1.

Snyder Ninth Pops Coahoma

Snyder ninth grade boys Black team ripped Coahoma junior varsity 66-36 here last night.

Ten players, led by John Wilson with 14, and David R. Rios and James Wallace with 9 each, put points on the board for the Tigers, who shot 44 percent from the floor and 45 from the foul line.

Rios, Keith Wallace, John Wilson and Ralph Hernandez each "did a good job on the back board."

Gold Notes 4th Victory

The ninth grade boys Gold squad outlasted Coahoma Thursday evening, 65-52.

The victory gives the local team a 4-6 record heading into action at Big Spring on Monday.

Scoring for Snyder were Ricky Escobedo 21, Robbie Davenport 10, Danny Ramos, 8, D.W. Loftlon 7, Mark Shaw, Joe Garcia and Raymond Jeffery 4 each, Randy Burrus, Noah Bilano and Jessie Zamora 2 apiece, and John Bloom 1.

Cats Win In Roscoe

ROSCOE—It could be an all-Snyder championship game here Saturday if the Tigers have their way.

In eighth grade boys tournament action Thursday night, Snyder Gold defeated Colorado City B team 38-18 and Snyder Black whipped Colorado City A 51-33 to put both Tiger teams in today's semifinals.

Curtis Gafford fired 15 points to pace Snyder Black yesterday. David Gee and Ken Kitching added 10 points each, while Glenn Parham had 9 and Kirk Herrley scored 7.

Snyder Black will play host Roscoe tonight at 8:30.

Matt Davis led Snyder Gold with 10 points, followed by James Caldwell with 8, David Nicholson with 7, Trey McWilliams with 4, Richard Derrick with 3 and Gerald Hicks, Richard Johnson and Ross Bawcum with 2 each.

The Gold team was to play Winters at 3:30 today.

District Concludes First Round Schedule Tonight

Round one of boys District 3-3A concludes tonight as Snyder hosts San Angelo Lake View and Brownfield entertains Lamesa.

Sweetwater, also in the conference, has already completed its series, and takes the night off.

San Angelo and Snyder both note 2-1 conference records, while Lamesa is 3-0 and Brownfield is 0-3. Lamesa is strongly favored to defeat the Cubs, but a loss would place the district in a two-way tie.

Tonight's varsity games are scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock, with junior varsity contests preceding at 6:15.

Round-two play begins as early as Tuesday when Snyder hosts Lamesa - a crucial game for the Tigers who still have visions of a conference championship.

Lake View is paced by the Clemons brothers, Dwain and Charles, and by Larry Pool. All three have averaged over 14 points per district game. The Chiefs are averaging 55.7 points offensively, and allowing 49.0 points in loop competition.

Sid Everton currently leads the Tigers will an average of 13.3 points per game, though Greg Hinton, Richard Crayton and Brad Richardson all are averaging over 10 points per outing.

For the season, Hinton leads with a 16.3 total, followed by Richardson 15.0, Everton 12.2, and Crayton 8.3.

Snyder has averaged 68.7 points scored and allowed 58.7 in district play.

Dusters Compete In Tarleton Meet

STEPHENVILLE—Western Texas College's Dusters were among a number of schools scheduled to begin competition in the Tarleton State University Basketball Tournament here today.

The Dusters, 12-8 on the season, were to meet Hardin-Simmons University at 8 this morning.

Winner of the game is scheduled to play the Sul Ross-Baylor victor at 4 this afternoon. Losers were to play at 2.

WTC is in what most feel is the tougher bracket of the tournament, which includes Howard Payne, Mary Hardin Baylor, Mid-Western University, Baylor University, Sul Ross and Hardin-Simmons.

The other bracket includes Ranger, McMurry, Angelo State, Weatherford, Cisco and Texas Wesleyan.

Finals in the tournament - which began Thursday - will be held 8 p.m. Saturday. Semi-finals are set for 10 and 12, while consolation will be played at 4.

22 Plead Innocent In Tax Sham

LUBBOCK (AP)-Twenty-two out of 23 persons accused of selling false income tax returns to money lenders against cash advances have pleaded innocent to various charges of conspiracy and perjury, and one man pleaded guilty.

Sentencing for Robert Sims of Wichita Falls was postponed pending a pre-sentencing investigation.

The others, mostly Big Spring residents, will be tried in federal court here March 26. Sims formerly was a Big Spring resident.

They are accused of obtaining blank W-2 forms, filling them out using false names and false earned incomes - but showing a refund due - and then "hocking" the forms to pawn shops or finance companies that routinely lend money to taxpayers against their returns, for a fee.

President

Stennis in seniority on the committee.

Sen. John Tower of Texas, the committee's ranking Republican, was the only member to offer an opinion about the size of the military budget.

"Certainly, in my view, we're not spending enough," he said.

The senators met Thursday with Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Gen. David C. Jones, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, in the first legislative hearing on the administration's new defense proposals. Carter's budget calls for a 3 percent increase after allowing for inflation. In raw dollars that represents a total increase of about 10 percent.

Even if Congress sticks with the president's spending figures, it is likely the House and Senate will rewrite major portions of his proposals to reflect members' ideas about weapon purchases, research and other areas.

The first was at 1:30 p.m. in the 1900 block of 26th St. It involved a 1972 Dodge van driven by Mary Whitaker and a 1970 Mercury driven by Erika Blankenship.

The second was at 3:25 p.m. in the 3600 block of Ave. E. There, according to reports, a 1973 Oldsmobile driven by Laura Lewis Chandler was in collision with a utility pole.

Diphtheria antitoxin was first used on humans in 1891.

A VIEW OF the Green Mountains makes the cold job of stringing cable for a new chairlift a little less onerous for workers at a Vermont ski resort. At last count, 198 lifts were carrying up to 150,445 skiers per hour in the Green Mountain State alone.

Utility Bill Proposal Risky To Other Funds

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)-A proposal to help the elderly pay high utility bills sounds good, state welfare officials agree, but it could jeopardize other medical and social funds supplements.

Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, explained his legislative plan Thursday to divert $69 million annually from natural gas severance taxes to the utility bill relief program.

The Texas Department of Human Resources would administer the program, Patman told the three-member human resources commission.

"I think we can assure you that you have wholehearted support from all of us," said Hilmar G. Moore of Richmond, board chairman.

"We need some flexibility because rules change and then you can get locked in and the whole program goes out," Moore added.

Patman agreed, saying, "It could reduce Supplemental Security Income checks or food stamps if certain disbursement methods are used."

Under the senator's plan, Texas voters would be asked to approve a constitutional amendment dedicating one cent of the 7½-cent severance tax to a utility relief fund.

If the amendment passed in November 1979, it would reappear on ballots in 1984 for a second look, the senator explained.

The human resources department, formerly the welfare department, could choose energy stamps, direct checks to recipients, additions to federal SSI payments or other means to disburse funds, he added.

"Of course natural gas is in large part responsible for a lot of utility bill increases other than just natural gas," Patman said, explaining why he chose severance taxes to fund the program.

"The problem is going to get worse," he added.

Payments would average $10 to $15 monthly, he said. As of December 1978, some 248,000 elderly, disabled and blind Texans living outside nursing homes or hospitals were receiving SSI payments. The aid could be used to pay residential natural gas, electric and butane bills.

Neither the senator nor board members suggested one disbursement method over another.

Never Loved Michelle Testifies Lee Marvin

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Lee Marvin, starring in a real-life courtroom drama, has testified he called Michelle Triola Marvin his "sweetheart," took her to bed and vowed he loved her - but his profession of love was a lie.

The white-haired, craggy-faced Marvin, who was to continue testifying today, averted his eyes from his former lover, who sat frozen in her seat as he spoke Thursday.

"Did you love her?" asked Miss Marvin's attorney, Marvin Mitchelson.

"No," Marvin said bluntly.

But the actor admitted that he had declared his love to Michelle during the affair:

Q-"Did Michelle tell you she loved you?"

A-"On Occasion."

Q-"...And on occasion you told her you loved her?"

A-"Yes."

Q-"But you didn't mean it?"

A-"No."

Mitchelson brought forth a sheaf of letters Marvin wrote to his lover during the 6 years they lived together, tender missives in which he called her "my sweetheart" and "my love."

"I would suggest that when you wrote these letters, you were in love with Michelle," said the attorney. "Am I wrong?"

"You are wrong," Marvin said.

"You didn't love her at all?"

"No," said Marvin.

Miss Marvin, suing the actor for $1 million, claims she deserves the same property rights a wife would have after a 6-year marriage. She legally changed her name to his before the affair ended in 1970. The case has already made legal history with a California Supreme Court ruling that unmarried persons could sue over property rights.

Outside the courtroom, Miss Marvin, 46, said she was stunned. "I don't think I ever thought I would hear Lee say he didn't love me," she told reporters. "It's very painful....I can't catch his eye. He's like someone I don't even know."

Marvin, the villain or tough guy of many a Hollywood film, was called as a hostile witness after his former lover ended her seven days on the witness said.

She concluded by describing the actor's drunken behavior on a movie location which led her to think he was having a mental breakdown.

In court, Marvin was subdued. He wore a dark gray business suit, white shirt and wine striped tie. He sat back in the witness chair and spoke in a low growl.

He admitted he is "a drinking man," and said his fights with Michelle often involved his intoxication.

Police Still Investigating 1922 Murder

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Just because the murder suspect escaped by stagecoach in 1922 doesn't mean that the Unsolved Cases Squad of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department has given up all hope of finding him.

"I just read through it the case file the other day to keep it fresh in my mind," says Sgt. Jack Peace. "It's still open until we're positive the suspect is dead or until it has been adjudicated.

"Of course, about all we can do now is wait for a phone call or tip."

The 1922 murder, the oldest of about 500 homicide cases still in the department's active file, involves the shooting death of a woman named Andrea Hassa de Pacheco.

A murder warrant was put out for her husband, Quirino Pacheco, after a witness to the incident reported that Pacheco subsequently "forced him at the point of his gun to take him to...catch a stage."

Inmate Shot While Trying To Escape

HUNTSVILLE (AP)-A 29-year-old inmate who was shot while trying to escape Thursday night, remains in stable condition in the Huntsville unit hospital of the Texas Department of Corrections, according to spokesman Ron Taylor.

Taylor said Arthur Dean Ingle placed a ladder against the prison wall and had climbed over the top when a tower guard fired three warning shots into the air. The prisoner was shot once in the back of the head with a 12-guage shotgun, Taylor said.

Prison officials are investigating how Ingle obtained the ladder, a straw workhat and jacket usually worn by correctional officers, and a file that had been sharpened into a 12-inch knife. Taylor said.

Swimming for exercise

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 37-year-old male and I have arthritis. I have found that by keeping my body weight down I feel better. I am 6 foot 3 with a large frame and weigh 190 pounds. I am interested in jogging. My stress test was OK. The problem is that there is too much stress on my legs for jogging.

Since strokes are common in my family, I'd like to stay as light as I can and still be healthy. I would also like to be active to the extent that this might prevent problems later on. Is my calculation of an optimal weight of 170 pounds correct? Because of my arthritis, I should do exercises that work my heart and develop my circulation but ones that do not stress my joints. Are there any that I could do at home?

DEAR READER — Regardless of how tall you are or how big your frame is, the rule is always the same. The way to find out if you are too fat is by measuring the fat under the skin. That means literally getting hold of your skin around the waist. If you have a half inch or more, you usually have some fat you could lose.

Since you are only 37, the probabilities are that you have rheumatoid arthritis. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-11, Rheumatoid Arthritis, to give you more information about this condition. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You're absolutely right about your concepts of exercising. One of the best exercises I know for people who have joint disorders of any type, whether they are from osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis or osteoporosis is swimming. The buoyancy of the water helps to support the body and eliminates the undesirable strain on the joints. At the same time, swimming is a good endurance exercise and can build up your heart and lungs.

Now I don't expect that you have a swimming pool in the back yard and since you are from New York, I doubt that you would be able to use such a pool year round anyway. Most communities do have an indoor swimming pool someplace. I would suggest that you check out your local resources for a swimming facility that you might be able to use on a year-round basis.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 15-year-old girl and I don't wear a brassiere. All my friends joke and jeer at me about it. I am writing to prove them or me wrong.

What are the pros and cons on bras? One friend says that I can get breast cancer. Is that true? Should I stay comfortable and not wear one or wear one for health reasons? Or, does it really make any difference?

DEAR READER — It might depend on what you have to put inside your brassiere.

A brassiere does provide support to an ample breast and helps prevent sagging. If you don't wear a brassiere, the ligaments inside the breast tend to stretch. That means the amply endowed woman is apt to have sagging problems earlier in life if she doesn't wear a brassiere.

If you happen to be a jogger or are physically active, you might find that not wearing a brassiere could lead to irritations merely from the clothing rubbing you.

No, you can't get breast cancer from not wearing a brassiere.
