Our membership committee is small, and is made up of men and women who have their own jobs like you. We would like to ask you to join the Chamber of Commerce in person, but because to the time involved, we hope you will accept this letter as our invitation.

However, if you are interested in joining the Chamber, but would like some information about our activities, please contact the Chamber office and we'll make a point to see you in person.

All you have to do to join is sign the enclosed card and we will bill you monthly. Or if you don't want to bother with mailing a check every month, just sign the other card and the bank will charge your account for you.

Dedication Services At First Baptist

The First Baptist Church of Rockport will have dedication services Sunday, Feb. 7, for the newly restored church plant. The church suffered more than $88,000 damages from Hurricane Celia, but now has been completely rebuilt and the members say that the buildings are nicer than ever.

Dr. Charles McLaughlin, state missions secretary of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, will speak at the 10:50 a.m. worship service, and a special music program will be presented at 2 p.m.

At the afternoon program, Hermann Gruneberg will give a 30-minute concert on the new organ. The new piano will also be dedicated at that time. The choir and other musicians will sing at the afternoon service, which will be followed by open house from 3 to 5 p.m. Films will be shown at the evening service at 7 p.m.

"We cordially invite all the people of the community to these dedication services," Rev. Charles Fake, the pastor, said. He further stated, "This has been a difficult period in the history of our church, but one in which there have been more blessings than problems."

The church also lost a building during the 1919 Storm, but the members at that time picked up the pieces they could find, and used them to construct a new building at the present site. The building was later moved and many of the materials were used again in the construction of the Bethel Baptist Mission.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Secondhand Bargains

Buy a secondhand lawn mower from the man next door and, generally speaking, you take your own chances. If it falls apart sooner than you expected, you would have small chance of getting your money back—at least, in a court of law.

For in the eyes of the law, the typical secondhand purchase is the buyer's acceptance of extra risk. You pay less not only because there is less wear left in the article but also because you don't get the implied assurances that come along with something new.

However, even in a secondhand purchase, you still have a certain degree of protection.

To begin with, you are entitled to know that the article is indeed secondhand. Consider this case:

A music dealer put a used piano, nicely polished, on display among his new pianos—and an unsuspecting woman bought it. When she discovered the instrument was second-hand, she sued the dealer for deceiving her.

"I told her no lies," he protested in court. "She just failed to ask me whether the piano was new."

But the court ruled in the woman's favor. The judge said the dealer had an affirmative duty to clear up a misunderstanding for which he himself was to blame.

Besides information that the merchandise is used, you are entitled also to a fair description of its identity. Thus:

A man who bought a "1964 Ford," which turned out to be a 1963 Ford, won damages in court—despite the fact that he had bought the car "as is."

The court decided that "as is" does not include "as isn't." Where does the law draw the line between "new" and "used?" In one case an appliance dealer insisted that the TV set he had sold as "new" really was new, even though he had already repossessed it from an earlier purchaser.

"It was new," he explained in court, "in the sense that it was this year's model."

But the court held the second sale invalid because, to the average customer, "new" meant never-before-used.

In short, even in secondhand transactions the law fixes a basic standard of fair dealing.

Honest men need not fear it," said one judge; "dishonest men should fear it."

Income Tax News

The Federal income tax tables for 1970 take into account the low-income allowance added to the law by the Tax Reform Act of 1969. As a result, said Asa L. Crow, administrative officer of Internal Revenue Service, Corpus Christi, taxpayers do not have to figure the low income allowance.

For 1970, the maximum low-income allowance is $1,100. The effect of the $1,100 allowance and the $625 personal exemption on a single person with no dependents is to eliminate liability tax until income reaches $1,725, ($2,850 for a single person 65 or over.)

The tables reflect whichever is the larger for each income bracket—the low-income allowance or the percentage standard deduction. The tax tables cover income up to $10,000. Until this year, tax tables covered income under $5,000.

Taxpayers with incomes of $10,000 or more or who expect to itemize deductions will continue to compute their own tax instead of using tables.

Q—Who must file an income tax return this year?

A—The 1969 Tax Reform Act raised the gross income levels at which returns must be filed. Previously a return had to be filed when gross income reached $600.

A single person must file if his income is $1,700 or more. Married persons living in the same household and filing jointly must file if their income is $2,300 or more. These totals are increased by $600 if a person is 65 or older. Other married persons generally are required to file if they have income of $600 or more.

Taxpayers due a refund of taxes withheld must file a return to get a refund.

Q—Have you made it any easier for retired people to figure the retirement income tax credit?

A—Yes, the IRS will figure the credit and the income tax for them in many cases. To qualify, they must take the standard deduction and have income not over $20,000 coming only from salaries or wages and tips, pensions and annuities, dividends and interest. Then, following the instructions, they should make entries on the return and mail it, with attachments, to the IRS Service Center where it will be computed.

For those who don't meet these qualifications or who decide to figure the credit themselves, the Schedule R Form has been changed to try to make the computation a little easier.

Q—Does a dependent have to be someone related to you?

A—No, you may claim someone who is not related to you if he or she was a member of your household and lived with you the entire year. In addition, the other dependency tests such as support and income must be met. Check the 1040 instructions for details.

Q—Where can I get copies of the tax forms?

A—Everyone who filed a return last year will receive a package of forms and instructions in the Mail in January. Extra copies of the forms and instructions will also be available at local offices of the IRS as well as many banks and post offices in January.

Remember to take the blue name label off the cover of the tax package you received in the mail and put it on the return you file. This label identifies your return for speedy processing and avoids refund delays. Any corrections may be made on the label.

Q—How should I handle income from land I rent to a farmer?

A—Unless you are materially involved in the management or farming of the land you rent, you should report from the land as rent. Use Schedule E, Form 1040.

Q—Twice a week I drive my mother to her doctor for therapy. Can I deduct my driving costs?

A—If you are allowed to deduct medical expenses for your mother, you may include such travel costs. For car travel, you may deduct 6c a mile or the actual cost of gas and oil.

This 6c a mile rate is a penny higher than a year ago and may also be used for travel costs associated with charitable contributions.

Q—I mailed some contributions to a charity in December. Can I deduct them on my 1970 return if they weren't cashed until this year?

A—Yes, a check mailed and dated should be reported in your 1970 income year.

Q—Where can I get a copy of Your Federal Income Tax?

A—A copy of Your Federal Income Tax, Publication No. 17, may be obtained from all IRS offices for 75c. It may be also ordered from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.D. 20402.

Q—I have all my tax records. Can I file without my W-2?

A—No, a W-2 withholding statement from each job held during 1970 should be attached to your return. Failure to do so delayed the refunds of many taxpayers last year.

Q—I was out on strike last spring. O I have to pay tax on the strike benefits I received then?

A—Yes, Strike benefits are taxable, unless the facts clearly show they were intended as a gift.

Q—I was asked for identification when I went in to buy some shotgun shells. Haven't the federal laws on ammunition been changed?

A) Yes, there was a change last year involving dealers records but it did not affect the conditions under which ammunition may be sold. Federal law prohibits the sale of handgun ammunition to anyone under 21 and the sale of rifle and shotgun ammunition to anyone under 18. Dealers must still require purchasers to identify themselves if there is doubt about age.

The change involving dealers removes the requirement that they keep records on the sale of ammunition suitable only for rifles or shotguns. Records must still be kept on sales of ammunition for handguns and for ammunition that can be used either in rifles or handguns.

Q) Can I file my tax return now? I'm through working and back in school.

A) A tax return can only be filed after the end of the tax year, which is December 31 for most individuals.

Make sure you have the Form W-2 wage and earning statement your employer gave you after you stopped work. A copy of the W-2 must be attached to your return when you file. If you did not receive it or lost it, contact your former employer and ask him to send you the W-2 or another copy.

Weiners and other cooked sausages may not contain more than 30 per cent fat, according to a new Department of Agriculture regulation.

Our America---

We think it is time more people spoke up for America—what it represents, what it means to us as individuals and its relationship with the rest of the world.

It seems to us that it is time to stress in our thinking and in our conversation what is right about America, and there is a lot that it right about our country.

So, through a series of newspaper advertisements, we at First National plan to discuss some of the many things in which we can all take pride—things we have accomplished and things we enjoy here in America which are only an improbable dream in most countries.

It is our America. And it is a great privilege to be an American.

For more than 80 years First National has been a part of the economic fabric of the Rockport area, providing business and individuals with essential banking services. We are proud of our community and proud that we have played a part in its progress.

shorter, broken trips in adjacent waters. Catches ranged from 200-500 pounds per night. Trawlers working white shrimp in bay systems and in Gulf waters around major passes found very few workable concentrations of shrimp as water temperatures fluctuated drastically and rough seas and fog made trawling hazardous in inshore waters.

The statutory shrimp season closed at mid-month for commercial bay boats and will remain closed until the spring season in May. Preliminary reports from Campeche indicate another poor season for these distant grounds.

Oyster fishermen harvested a record 55,000 barrels of shell oysters in December, surpassing the previous December 1965 record. Meat yields from current December landings, however, will be slightly less than the previous record due to higher water temperatures and near drought conditions throughout the producing area. These weather factors control meat yields in oysters, consequently, meat recovery on a given reef may vary 8 percent during a 30-day period. Fishermen received $7-$8 per barrel for shell oysters. Shell oysters selected for half-shell trade brought $9.50 and above.

Blue crab landings amounted to 500,000 pounds in December, compared to 438,000 pounds in December 1969. The slight increase in landings was attributed to an increase in effort and good, fair to good, fair to good, weather conditions.

Six large vessels and three small documented units entered the Texas fishery in December. All were built for domestic use. One vessel was lost at sea.

Phones Increase 10 Per Cent Here

In December, Rockport had 4,861 telephones in service, an increase of 10 per cent during 1970, Ron Maples, district manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, said this week.

Reviewing telephone plans and progress, Maples said that for the decade just ended Rockport's telephone system grew by more than 2,867 telephones—a 143 per cent increase over the 2,000 phones in use here at the end of 1960.

Maples said it appears growth and expansion will continue to be a way of life for Rockport's communications system. "Our engineers are predicting that the city will have 7,400 telephones in service by the end of 1974," he said.

Southwestern Bell will finish installing dial equipment this year in the new 729 building which will be completed this year. The equipment will provide 5,000 new telephone numbers.

The company will also begin a job to provide submarine and buried cable along Highway 35.

Maples said a $114.1 million construction budget has been set for the company's San Antonio Area, of which Rockport is a part. The area covers the western half of Texas, extending from Amarillo to Brownsville and from Waco to the Big Bend.

"The construction program includes land, buildings, central office equipment for local and long distance, new telephone growth and outside plant construction, such as cable and conduit installation," he added.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

The so-called New Morality is in reality the old immorality with a new name. But the game's the same, the lust of the flesh; the lust of the eye; the pride of life.

When the desires of the body rule the life of a person, then he is living as the Bible says "in the flesh". And St. Paul says that the result of this kind of living is "sexual immorality, impurity, sensuality, idolatry . . . jealousy, anger, envy, drunkenness, and the like," just to mention a few. (Galations 5:19).

Paul the Apostle urges Christians to cast off "the works of darkness" and put on the "armor of light".

World War I and II Vets to Receive Higher Dividends

P. J. Mims, director of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Houston, announced today that 195,009 Texas veterans holding World War I and World II insurance policies will receive $13,694,300 dividends this year.

Mims said these dividends are part of a record $275 million in annual dividends Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson approved for distribution in 1971.

The higher dividends, he noted, were made possible because of increased interest earnings of the World War I United States Government Life Insurance (USGLI) and the World War II National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) trust funds.

Mims noted that nationally dividends totaling $255 million averaging about $64 apiece will go to about 4,000,000 veterans with NSLI policies.

The 163,400 veterans with USGLI policies will receive $20 million in dividends, averaging about $122 apiece. All dividends will be paid in 1971 on the anniversary dates of the policies, Mims said.

He stressed that since payment of dividends will be automatic, veterans need not write

Fat Texas Oysters Are Plentiful

AUSTIN—The Texas oyster harvest is off and running and fresh oysters are in excellent supply, according to Parks and Wildlife Department biologists and industry spokesmen. It is also reported that they are extremely plump and juicy this year due to favorable water conditions in the various oyster-producing bay systems.

The winter months have always been the best time to purchase fresh oysters. This is because water temperatures are cold, and the oysters have prepared themselves for winter by gaining weight. Later in spring, when water temperatures rise above 75 degrees Fahrenheit, oysters begin to spawn, and stress from this activity causes them to lose much of their winter fat.

Oysters on the half shell fanciers are reminded that they can eat Texas oysters with complete confidence, since dealers are required to meet strict quality and sanitation requirements imposed by the State Department of Health. Oysters can legally be taken only from those waters certified to be clean and free from harmful contaminants. Shucking plants are inspected regularly, and each plant is issued a certification number which must be affixed to every container of marketable oysters from that plant. This number is the consumer's final assurance of wholesomeness.

To judge for yourself just how wholesome fresh Texas oysters are this winter, try them soon on the half-shell, or in your favorite recipe for oyster stew. If you're having guests, you can make believers of them all with the following recipe called "Angels on Horseback."

- 1 12-oz. jar fresh oysters
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 10 slices bacon, cut in thirds.

Drain oysters and sprinkle with parsley and seasoning.

Wrap bacon strip around each oyster and secure with toothpick. Place oysters on broiler pan and broil about 4 inches from heat for 8 to 10 minutes. Turn carefully and broil 4 to 5 minutes longer or until bacon is crisp. Makes approximately 30 hors d'oeuvres.

THIS WAS A CAR. At one time this scrap heap was an automobile parked in New York City. When it was hit by another vehicle, it disintegrated. Even more startling, police said a man and a boy emerged from the mess unharmed.

Increased Pension Payments Due Vets

Increased payments averaging between 9 and 10 per cent for approximately 1.6 million veterans and survivors on the Veterans Administration pension rolls are provided in a bill signed into law by the President on Dec. 24 according to P. J. Mims, director of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Houston.

He reported the bill also raised income limitations that determine if, and how much, VA pension can be awarded to disabled veterans, and widows and children of deceased veterans.

VA pension is paid for disabilities and deaths not due to military service.

The new law was designed to avoid a drop in income for those "current law" pensioners whose Social Security increased during 1970 and who would have had veterans pension benefits reduced beginning Jan. 1, 1971.

An increase in benefits was also given to parents receiving dependency and indemnity compensations (DIC).

Mims said the income limit controlling the receipt of pension was increased by $300 for both "protected" and "current law" pensioners, as well as parents receiving DIC.

Increases of 10 per cent were also authorized for veterans on the current law pension rolls entitled to aid and attendance, as well as for widows receiving death compensation, DIC or current law pensions. The housebound rate for veterans entitled under the current pension law was also increased by 10 per cent.

The new law removes the requirement for persons age 72 or older who have been in receipt of VA benefits for two consecutive years to file annual income questionnaires.

although they are required to report changes in income or net worth. This provision applies to income reports to be filed at the end of 1971.

Five additional exclusions from the counting of income for current law pensioners have also been provided. These are:

1. Payments from Service-men's Group Life Insurance;
2. Amounts equal to a prepayment on a secured debt on real property, the principal residence of veteran or spouse during the year of death or the year following;
3. Amounts in joint bank accounts;
4. Payments received by a retired employee from a former employer as reimbursement for Social Security supplementary medical premiums;
5. Certain payments from the military retired family protection plan.

The exclusion applying to the military retired family protection plan also now applies to DIC parents.

In cases where a veteran who was receiving aid and attendance had his pension stopped due to income in excess of the limit set by law, drugs and medicine may still be furnished where his income is not more than $500 over that limit.

The law also extended wartime service entitlement to certain Mexican Border period veterans who served for 90 days or more between May 9, 1916 and April 5, 1917, in Mexico, on its borders or in adjacent waters.

Provisions of the bill became effective Jan. 1, 1971, except for the provisions relating to reporting of annual income. Those provisions will be effective Jan. 1, 1972.

MAKE THIS 10-SECOND BATTERY CHECK TODAY
Raise the hood of your car and look at the battery. A green or white formation around the battery or terminals means sulphation and sulphation means your car's battery is dying. You need V-6 immediately, or you will soon have to spend money for a new battery. If there is no sulphation, you can prevent it by adding V-6 now — it takes just a minute to increase the life of your battery by years. V-6 is backed by an unconditional money-back guarantee, for 6 or 12 volt batteries.

Open Records Offer Anglers Opportunities

AUSTIN—Catching a record-sized fish in Texas may not be as difficult as one might expect.

In fact, record fish probably are going unrecognized into frying pans all over the state each year.

But now that a newly-formed committee of Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials has taken over the official list of salt and freshwater fish records, the state's anglers have the opportunity to get into the record book by catching species for which there presently is no recorded champion.

The committee's first official act, after taking the records over from the Texas Outdoor Writers Association, was set minimum weights for the fish species that are "open."

For instance, one record which is bound to be filled soon is in the flathead (or yellow) catfish category. The category is "open" and the minimum weight requirement is 35 pounds. Every spring, flatheads of that size and larger are caught by fishermen.

Other records could conceivably be broken soon simply because the current record-holder is not exceptionally large. One example is the present record carp, a 23-pound, 12 ounce specimen. Larger ones may be caught during the coming year, perhaps nearer to the size of the carp speared with bow and arrow last April by David Smith of Austin for the record in the unrestricted division. It weighed in at 41 pounds, 12 ounces.

The unrestricted division (which is also new) recognizes record fish taken by legal means other than rod and reel. This includes trotlines, cane poles, handline, spear, gig and archery.

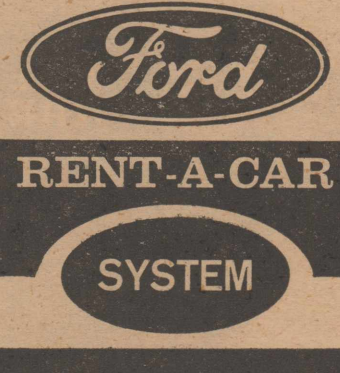

One category in the unrestricted division was accidentally omitted in the list of present records published by the Department on Dec. 14. This was the alligator gar record of 302 pounds held by T. C. Pierce Sr. of San Antonio and Albert Wolley, address unknown. The fish, measuring 7 feet, 6 inches in length, was caught on a trotline in the Nueces River above Cotulla in 1953.

That's one record not likely to be broken soon. Likewise for the rod and reel record for an alligator gar—a 279 pound monster caught in the Rio Grande in 1951.

Fish submitted as state records must be weighed on an inspected scale (certified for trade by the Texas Department of Agriculture) with statement of weight signed by two witnesses, one of whom must be a disinterested person. The statement must include, in inches and fractions, the length and girth of the fish. A photo, or clipping of a published photo of the fish must be included for positive verification.

Persons submitting the fish must list where the fish was taken, the date, type of fish-

Oyster Harvesting Is In Full Swing

Harvesting of oysters in the coastal waters is in full swing, and purchasers of the delicacy should have no qualms about eating them provided the oyster come from certified sources says the Texas State Department of Health.

Although mercury pollution has caused a small portion of Lavaca Bay to be closed to oyster harvesting, other approved areas are providing the well-liked seafood. Even the oysters in the closed portion of Lavaca Bay appear to be cleansing themselves. Samples of oysters collected from this area are now showing a substantial reduction in mercury densities.

If the reductions should continue at the present rate, there is a possibility that at least a portion of the area closed can be reopened by next oyster season.

D. J. Johnson, director of Marine Resources of the State Health Department, noted that oysters should be taken only from areas approved by the State Health Department. He advises all processors and harvesters to make certain that their oysters are taken from clean waters. State regulations also specify that all oysters be processed in clean, certified shucking plants.

Consumers can help protect themselves. When purchasing oysters, look for a state certification number on the can, jar or package. It is there, it means the oysters have been processed in accordance with state laws. It is not there, you may be dealing with oysters taken from polluted waters or processed under insanitary conditions, says Johnson.

The reason for concern over "bootleg" oysters is that they may have come from waters of questionable quality, have been opened under insanitary conditions and stored in unclean containers without adequate refrigeration. Contaminated oysters have been known to transmit all the water-borne diseases — including typhoid fever, gastroenteritis and infectious hepatitis.

The Shellfish Sanitation Law of 1965 makes it unlawful for any person to take, sell, offer for sale any shellfish from an area declared by the Commissioner of Health to be polluted.
