A fundraiser to support the family of fallen Midland County Sheriff's Office deputy Sgt. Mike Naylor was launched online Thursday evening.

Officer Down Executive Director Jessica Langgin said the page "For Denise, wife of Deputy Mike Naylor of Midland County, TX," was started by a friend of Naylor.

Officer Down is a new nonprofit organization that was founded in Las Vegas following the deaths of two Las Vegas officers on June 8, Langgin said. Officer Down is registered with the IRS as a 501(c)(3) and with the Nevada Secretary of State's office as a nonprofit corporation. Gifts made to Officer Down are tax deductible.

The goal is to raise $10,000 by Nov. 10. As of press time, 49 donors had given $3,530.

Many donors left comments on the website expressing their sorrow and prayers for Naylor's family.

A separate organization, 53 Hours, which is managed by the Heroes Memorial Foundation, has organized a Facebook event called "Lights On for Sergeant Mike Naylor." Anyone can participate by illuminating a porch lamp each night, setting a flameless candle in their home's window or in another personally meaningful way, according to the event.

More than 2,100 people have RSVPed to the event, which is scheduled for Wednesday.

Fiddlesticks Farms announced on its Facebook page that it will be accepting donations to help Naylor's family. Owner Jessica Norton said collection jars will be set at each register this weekend and possibly for the following two weekends, as well. Norton said the donations will be sent to the family through the Midland County Sheriff's Office.

"It really kind of broke our hearts, hit home for us," she said. Although Norton didn't know Naylor, Fiddlesticks Farms hires off-duty deputies to work security on Saturdays and considers many of them friends.

"They support and protect us," she said of the deputies. "I think it's just right."

Fiddlesticks Farms will be open Saturday from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m.

Dan William Higgins is accused of shooting and killing Naylor, who was trying to serve a warrant to Higgins, on Thursday. He has been charged with capital murder, according to the Midland County Sheriff's record department.

Naylor worked his way up from jailer to sergeant. He received an award in 2009 for his work in the Civil Warrants Division. Naylor was commander of the MCSO Honor Guard, according to the county's website.

DA: Shooting suspect charged with capital murder

By Rye Druzin
rdruzin@mrt.com

The man suspected in the shooting death of Midland County Sheriff's Office Sgt. Mike Naylor has been charged with capital murder, according to the Midland County sheriff's records department.

Higgins

Dan William Higgins, 37, allegedly shot Naylor in the head Thursday as the sergeant and another deputy were attempting to serve Higgins with a warrant related to an aggravated sexual assault reportedly committed in August 2013.

"Their line of attack will be (the death penalty). It was an intentional, malicious act of killing, and it was a peace officer."

Steve Herschberger, criminal defense attorney

Naylor, who was 46, was airlifted to Midland Memorial Hospital, where he died at 4:19 p.m. Thursday from his injuries. Higgins was arrested after barricading himself in his home for more than three hours, according to a previous Reporter-Telegram article. He was being held Friday at Midland County jail; bond had not been set.

Perry lawyers seek order for testimony

Associated Press

AUSTIN — Lawyers for indicted Gov. Rick Perry asked a judge Friday to order the special prosecutor in the case to produce transcripts of secret grand jury testimony.

Perry's attorneys said the transcripts are needed for the judge to properly review their previous requests to dismiss the indictment. In their court filing, they said special prosecutor Michael McCrum has said he's "too busy" to call the grand jury court reporter to order the transcripts and would only do so if ordered by the judge.

McCrum said he hasn't reviewed the filing and declined comment in advance of a Monday status hearing on the case. Perry, who had previously scheduled a state business trip to Europe, has been excused from attending that hearing.

Perry was indicted on two felony counts of abuse of power for threatening to veto state funding for a public corruption investigative unit. The governor issued the promised veto after the Democratic district attorney who oversees the unit refused to resign following her drunken-driving conviction.

Perry, a Republican, has denied all wrongdoing, calling the case a political ploy. Perry is not running for re-election this year but is considering running for president in 2016.

The governor's legal team said the transcripts are needed for the judge to review their claims the indictment violates Perry's rights under Constitutional free speech. They said the transcripts of the secret testimony could be filed under seal and available for either side for an appeal.

Doctor recovered from Ebola urges calm in Dallas

Associated Press

ABILENE — Dr. Kent Brantly, the first American flown back to the U.S. for treatment of Ebola, is urging calm for the people of Dallas and elsewhere who are worried about contracting the deadly disease.

Brantly, speaking Friday to Abilene Christian University's alumni magazine, acknowledged fears some have shared since Thomas Duncan was hospitalized in Dallas with Ebola. Brantly said people should be finding ways to help the outbreak in West Africa, "not worrying that because we live 100 miles from a hospital that treated a patient that we are at risk."

Brantly also said he spoke with a doctor caring for Duncan and was willing to donate blood, but their blood types did not match. Duncan died Wednesday.

After death: US Ebola victim updates

Remains of Ebola victim cremated

DALLAS — The remains of a man who became the first person to die of Ebola in the United States have been cremated.

A spokeswoman for the Texas Department of State Health Services announced the development involving the remains of Thomas Eric Duncan in a terse email Friday. Spokeswoman Christine Mann did not say when, where and by whom the remains were cremated.

Duncan died Wednesday after a weeklong hospitalization after developing Ebola symptoms at a Dallas apartment.

Ebola victim's belongings burned

PORT ARTHUR — A Texas incinerator has destroyed drums loaded with items believed to have been contaminated by a man with Ebola.

Veolia North America said the drums taken from a Dallas apartment where Thomas Eric Duncan became ill were destroyed Friday at the company's incinerator in Port Arthur. Veolia said its incineration process destroyed viruses and pathogens with temperatures ranging from 1,500 to 2,100 degrees.

A crew of 15 people spent four days at the apartment where Duncan had been staying when he developed Ebola-related symptoms such as vomiting and diarrhea. They wore protective suits with gas masks while filling about 140 barrels with mattresses, Duncan's sheets and carpet from the entire apartment.

Davis TV ad focuses on Abbott in wheelchair

By Jim Vertuno
Associated Press

AUSTIN — A new television ad by Democrat Wendy Davis goes into territory she hadn't touched until now: Republican Greg Abbott's use of a wheelchair.

A 30-second ad released Friday and titled "Justice" notes the Texas Attorney General recovered millions in a lawsuit after he was injured by a falling tree in 1984, and accuses him of not siding with victims like himself in Texas courts.

It drew a swift rebuke from national conservative groups and the Abbott campaign, which called it "disgusting" and "desperate."

"It's her choice if she wants to attack a guy in a wheelchair," Abbott said in an interview with the San Antonio Express-News editorial board after the ad's release. "I don't think it's going to sell too well."

Abbott lost the use of his legs after his spine was crushed by the falling oak tree. The wheelchair hasn't held him back in his legal or political careers that saw him elected to the state Supreme Court and as attorney general in 2002.

Davis' ad is the first by an Abbott opponent to make such an overt issue of his wheelchair. And it comes with little time left for Davis to close the gap on Abbott, who began the race as the favorite and still maintains sizable leads in opinion polls and campaign bank accounts.

No Democrat has won a statewide election in Texas since 1994. The Davis campaign would not say how much it spent on the ad or how long it will run, but said it would run in major metro areas starting Saturday.

Abbott's own ads have drawn attention to his disability, most notably in spots in which he talks about his recovery and uses the chair to roll past cars stuck in bad traffic. He often mentions it in speeches, and has even been known to joke about it.

"Some politicians talk about having a spine of steel. I actually have one," Abbott said when he launched his campaign in 2013.

Davis spokesman Zac Petkanas defended the ad as a fair critique of Abbott as a hypocrite when it comes to his personal life and public policy.

Abbott "rightly sought justice after a horrible tragedy," Petkanas said.

But the ad also "raises some very serious questions about Greg Abbott and whether (voters) want someone in the governor's office who would seek justice and then spend their career denying justice to others," Petkanas said.

The Davis ad notes that in one case, Abbott argued that an amputee suing for employment discrimination was not disabled because she had a prosthetic limb. It also cites two other cases that have already been the subject of previous Davis campaign spots.

"Greg Abbott. He's not for you," a narrator says.

"It is challenging to find language strong enough to condemn Sen. Davis' disgusting television ad," Abbott campaign spokeswoman Amelia Chasse said. "Sen. Davis' ad shows a disturbing lack of judgment from a desperate politician, and completely disqualifies her from seeking higher office in Texas."

National conservative pounced on the Davis campaign.

"It's gutter politics at its worst," said FreedomWorks for America President Matt Kibbe.

As election looms, where does voter ID law stand?

By Will Weissert
Associated Press

AUSTIN — U.S. District Judge Nelva Gonzales Ramos of Corpus Christi has declared Texas' strict voter identification law unconstitutional, likening it to a poll tax meant to deliberately suppress minority voter turnout. Her nearly 150-page ruling Thursday came barely three weeks before Election Day. Here's some background on the law and where the federal case against it stands.

What exactly is the voter ID law?

Approved by the GOP-controlled Texas Legislature in 2011, the law requires voters to show one of seven kinds of photo ID in order to vote, with or without a voter registration card. The permissible IDs are: a Texas driver's license, U.S. passport, a state-issued ID card, a state-issued election certificate, a Texas concealed handgun license, a U.S. military ID or a citizenship certificate with a photograph issued by the federal government.

How does this affect the Nov. 4 election?

That depends, though early voting will still begin Oct. 20 as scheduled and Election Day won't be delayed, no matter what. If Gonzales Ramos' decision stands, 13.6 million registered voters in Texas will cast ballots under rules that predate the voter ID law. That means presenting only their county-issued voter registration card or a valid government-issued photo identification card. However, the office of Attorney General Greg Abbott said the law is constitutional and plans to immediately appeal, which could suspend Gonzales Ramos' ruling long enough to hold the election with the voter ID law still in effect. Lauren Bean, a spokeswoman for Abbott's office, said officials there will "take all legal action necessary to avoid voter confusion and ensure that the law is in effect for the upcoming election."

Where would an appeal go?

A three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. The court has traditionally sided with conservative causes, and voter ID has been championed by top Republicans in Texas and elsewhere around the country as helping to ensure the integrity of elections. In contrast, Gonzales Ramos, was appointed by President Barack Obama.

How long would it take the 5th Circuit to rule?

That's up to the panel, though it may act quickly to preserve the law in time for this year's election. Once Abbott appeals, the panel likely will allow the law's opponents time to respond, but it could decide on the matter quickly beyond that. Whichever side loses should appeal either to the full 5th Circuit or, perhaps more likely, to the U.S. Supreme Court.

How did the court case against it begin?

Advocates and legal experts sued in federal court, arguing that Texas was deliberately discriminating against poor, largely minority voters by placing an undue burden with the ID requirement. The law was initially blocked after a ruling that found it could hurt the poor and minorities while violating the 1965 Voting Rights Act. But Texas was allowed to implement the voter ID requirements after the Supreme Court last year struck down the part of the act that required nine mostly southern states with a history of discrimination to seek approval before changing election laws. Texas conducted two smaller statewide elections under its voter ID law, during which there were anecdotal reports of confusion but few widespread issues with voters not being able to cast ballots because they lacked proper identification.

3 soldiers charged with human smuggling

Officials say three Fort Hood soldiers have been arrested in an ongoing investigation related to the transporting and harboring of people who have entered the U.S. illegally.

Prosecutors said Thursday that the indictment charges the three active-duty soldiers, two 20-year-olds and a 21-year-old. Also named in the indictment is a 45-year-old man who is an alleged smuggler form the Harlingen area.

The seven-count indictment alleges one count of conspiracy to transport and harbor people who entered the U.S. illegally, and six counts of transporting undocumented immigrants.

Prosecutors said one of the soldiers was initially arrested last month after allegedly trying to smuggle two undocumented immigrants past a checkpoint while wearing his military uniform.

If convicted, each faces up to 10 years in federal prison and a possible $250,000 fine.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported that the Tarrant County medical examiner's office identified the victim as 36-year-old Jose Pena of Fort Worth. He was pronounced dead at the scene early Friday morning.

Authorities said that when the driver lost control of his truck, he took out a street sign and a fence and then rolled into the home. The motorist was ejected during the crash.

Police Sgt. Steve Enright said a couple and three children were in the home at the time of the crash. Officials said a woman in the home was taken to a local hospital with minor injuries.

SAN ANGELO

Shuttered theater to host ballet

A San Angelo theater that closed more than 30 years ago reopens this weekend for a ballet performance.

The San Angelo Standard-Times reported that San Angelo Civic Ballet staff and volunteers spent two months dusting, adjusting lighting and pulling 300 chairs into place at the Texas Theatre, which closed in 1983.

The ballet will perform there for two nights only — Friday and Saturday.

Since there's no working plumbing or ventilation, a restroom trailer will be parked outside and theater doors will be open to circulate air.

Meghann Bridgeman, the ballet's artistic director, said, "We're thrilled to bring a little bit of life into such a beautiful place."

Renovation plans for the theater that opened in 1929 have been discussed over the decades, but haven't come to fruition.

5 men sentenced in racketeering case

Federal authorities say five Aryan Brotherhood of Texas gang members have been sentenced for their connections to murder, robbery, arson and other crimes.

A federal judge in Texas ordered sentences of 10 to 20 years for the men. A sixth man is set to be sentenced Friday.

A group of federal and state authorities helped arrest the men on crimes they say dated back to 2010. The group sentenced this week is part of 36 defendants convicted of conducted racketeering activity through the gang.

HOUSTON

Man charged in wreck that kills 1, injures deputy

A man has been charged in wrong-way collision that killed his passenger and injured a Harris County sheriff's deputy.

The Harris County sheriff's office said the man has been charged with intoxication manslaughter and intoxication assault on a public service in the head-on collision early Friday morning.

The sheriff's office said the deputy's marked patrol unit was traveling eastbound when his vehicle was hit. The woman riding in the car with the man charged was pronounced dead at the scene.

The man charged and the deputy were both seriously injured and airlifted to Memorial Hermann Hospital, where they remain.

BAYTOWN

Woman charged with leaving infant in truck

A Baytown woman has been charged with child endangerment after authorities say another woman found her baby left in a hot truck.

Authorities said 29-year-old Wendy Rico-Montes De Oca was charged with the felony this week in connection to the Sept. 29 incident.

Kristin Wright told KTRK-TV and KHOU-TV she rescued the infant from a truck outside of a Baytown consignment shop.

A Harris County District Attorney spokeswoman said charges weren't pursued earlier because the child wasn't injured and it was unclear how long the mother was gone.

The spokeswoman said an officer reviewed security footage after Wright filed a complaint. She said it showed the child had been left alone for 30 minutes.

CHARGED

From 1A

"I think we're all just stunned," Midland County District Attorney Teresa Clingman told the Reporter-Telegram Friday morning. "You always know it's possible, but you never ever really expect it to happen."

Clingman said that her office is waiting to receive the official investigation from the Texas Rangers.

"We have a lot of hearsay right now, so we (want to) know exactly what is alleged to have occurred," Clingman said. "Once we have reviewed that information we will take the case to the grand jury and seek an indictment."

Ian Cantacuzene — the attorney listed for Higgins on the currently held detainees page for the sheriff's office website — was not available for comment as of press time.

Local criminal defense attorney Steve Herschberger said that he believes the district attorney's office would seek the death penalty.

"Their line of attack will be (the death penalty)," Herschberger said. "It was an intentional, malicious act of killing, and it was a peace officer."

Naylor is the first sheriff's deputy killed in the line of duty in Midland County's history. Survivors include his wife, Denise Naylor, and his mother, Mary Harmon.

Services for Naylor are set for 10 a.m. Tuesday at Crestview Baptist Church, with burial at 3 p.m. (MDT) at Prairie Haven Cemetery in Hobbs, New Mexico. Visitation is 6-8 p.m. Monday at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

Tim Fischer/Reporter-Telegram

Flags fly at half staff Friday outside Midland County Sheriff's Office in honor of their fallen Deputy deputy, Sgt. Mike Naylor.

Quotes from the community

"It's a very, very sad day to lose somebody in law enforcement. It makes it even harder when it's someone you know. Mike Naylor worked very close with our department, not only as a deputy sergeant, but with the mental health unit, he trained our officers, provided updates on mental health, and dealt with mental health patients. He was just a great, great guy. It's a terrible loss for Midland County, the city of Midland and the law enforcement community."

Midland Police Department Chief Price Robinson

"I'm very sorry for the family and their loss. It's a tragedy that should have never happened. We are always praying for our public safety officers and hope that they are careful as possible out there. This hit the community very hard and people are trying to understand what happened. We're not that big of a community, so we don't expect these kinds of tragedies to happen. We're going to have to pray together, stay together, and know that we will get though this."

Midland Mayor Jerry Morales

"Once again our city has suffered a tragic loss. Mike Naylor, with our county Sheriffs Department was shot and killed while serving a warrant to a child molester. Mike headed up Honor Guard for the Dept and served many years at our Show of Support banquet. Our hearts are broken. Please lift his family up with your prayers."

Show of Support on its Facebook page

"Our thoughts and prayers go out to our Midland County Sheriff's office for the great loss of one of their own yesterday. Many prayers being sent to them and to the family and loved ones of this deputy, killed in the line of duty."

Reel Thanx organization on its Facebook page

"It is painful, very painful. I don't think the number matters. You have lost a family member."

Former Odessa Police Department Chief Chris Pipes. He was the chief at OPD when three officers were killed in 2007.

"First, prayers for the family, because it is a lifetime event for the community, but even more so for the family. Let's all help the Naylor family each and every day. It's what we do in a community; we help each other."

Midland County Judge Mike Bradford

"We were close to Mike because he was instrumental in training our three mental health officers for the school district. As a matter of fact, any time we had any questions whatsoever, day or night, we were able to contact him. He was a real asset to the sheriff's office and it's a great loss."

Midland ISD Police Department Chief David Colburn

"All thoughts and prayers are with Mike Naylor's family. He was a friend to anyone who met him."

Books in the Basin fans drawn to 'The Oldest Rookie,' Taylor Stevens

By Rich Lopez
jrlopez@mrt.com

The Books in the Basin literary festival launched on Friday with a luncheon at Midland College featuring former Major League Baseball player Jim Morris, author of "The Oldest Rookie."

With several author appearances and book signings, events continued throughout the day at both the college and the Midland County Public Library Centennial branch. The night finished with an enlightening talk about the power of caring by Clifton Taulbert, a musical performance by Mike Blakeley and capped off with the Literary Death Match.

Drawing power

Author talks at the library had some sparse crowds — maybe because the sessions were during the work day — but devoted fans nonetheless made their way to see Taylor Stevens talk about her Munroe novels, which started with the New York Times bestseller "The Informationist." In spirited fashion, Stevens discussed her eccentric cult-upbringing and world travels. After a brief biographical rundown, she opened the conversation with her fans who were clearly thrilled to discuss her books and potential movie for "The Informationist," which has been optioned by James Cameron, the Academy-award winning director of "Titanic" and "Avatar."

The Buzz

Random House will host its second Book Buzz 12:30 p.m. today at Odessa College. At Friday's Buzz event, a Random House rep detailed a list of new and upcoming books. The list included nonfiction books on the origin of "Wonder Woman" and the life of Charlie Chaplin and the highly anticipated new novel by Jodi Picoult, "Leaving Time."

But one book caught everyone's attention, "Horrorstor: A Novel" by Grady Hendrix is a new release that sets a haunted horror story against the backdrop of an Ikea-like catalog. Yes, the book is laid out as an actual catalog of home furnishings where the novel unfolds.

Night out

Carl Beery Moore opened Friday night at the Yucca by introducing author Clifton Taulbert ("Once Upon a Time When We Were Colored"), who delivered a TED-like talk on the power of caring that cleverly engaged the crowd on his eight habits of the heart.

Mike Blakely followed suit with a quick set-list of Americana tunes highlighted by the song "My Days Are Numbered."

Wild and crazy

Moore described Literary Death Match as "so crazy, it introduces itself." Host and creator Adrian Todd Zuniga, wearing a crushed red velvet jacket, started the show with schtick on Texas author Cormac McCarthy. Round 1 pitted author Deborah Crombie against Odessa native Jeramey Kraatz, author of "The Cloak Society" series.

The first round ended too late to announce the winner.

Grill power

Texas Monthly's Barbecue Editor Daniel Vaughn will sign books noon today at Odessa College and likely will answer the perpetual question about what it's like to have his job.

Would someone ask him why as of 9 p.m. Friday he hadn't tweeted about barbecue in Midland or Odessa? And I'm also crossing my fingers he signs his books in barbecue sauce.

For today's schedule, visit booksinthebasin.com.

The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in the Permian Basin increased six this week to 562, according the weekly rotary rig count report released Friday by Houston-based oilfield services company Baker Hughes.

District 8, which includes Midland County, ended the week with 334 rigs, up four.

Texas gained one rig this week for a statewide total of 896. In other major Texas basins, there were 211 rigs in the Eagle Ford, up one; 64 in the Granite Wash, unchanged; 43 in the Haynesville, down one; and 20 in the Barnett, unchanged.

A year ago this week there were 451 rigs in the Permian Basin and 822 in Texas.

The U.S. rig count was up eight this week to 1,930. There were 1,609 oil rigs, up 18; 320 natural gas rigs, down 10; and one rig listed as miscellaneous, unchanged.

By trajectory, there were 370 vertical drilling rigs, down two; 1,353 horizontal drilling rigs, up 12; and 207 directional drilling rigs, down two.

The top five basins by rig count this week were the Permian; the Eagle Ford; the Williston with 194, down four; the Marcellus with 81, down one; and the Mississippian with 79, up one.

In the U.S., there were 1,859 rigs on land, up nine; 13 in inland waters, up two; and 58 offshore, down three.

The total number of rigs in the North America region — which includes the U.S. and Canada — decreased two this week to 2,350. A year ago this week there were 2,100 rigs in North America.

On Tuesday, Baker Hughes released its monthly international rig count for September. The worldwide total was 3,659. The U.S. ended September with 1,930, about 53 percent of all rigs worldwide.

Senators cite concerns with nuclear investigations

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Two U.S. senators have told the Nuclear Regulatory Commission that they are troubled by reports of an agency reorganization that would make safety investigations less independent. The NRC said no such reorganization is in the works.

Currently, investigations of nuclear plants and other NRC license holders are conducted through an independent office established in 1982.

Democratic Sens. Barbara Boxer of California and Edward Markey of Massachusetts said in a letter to NRC Chairman Allison Macfarlane on Thursday that they have been told the NRC's general counsel is recommending changes that would place it in charge of every stage of an investigation and limit the types of investigations the independent office could undertake.

Pipeline leaks brine in Lake Sakakawea tributary

By James Macpherson
Associated Press

BISMARCK, N.D. — A saltwater spill estimated at 42,000 gallons flowed into a tributary of a Missouri River reservoir in western North Dakota, damaging vegetation in its path but not threatening drinking water sources, a state health official said.

Inspectors and cleanup crews have been on the well site since the spill earlier this week in McKenzie County, said Kris Roberts, an environmental geologist with the North Dakota Health Department. Houston-based Oasis Petroleum Inc. reported the spill Wednesday, Roberts said.

Saltwater is an unwanted byproduct of oil production and can be many times saltier than sea water. It is considered an environmental hazard and can easily kill vegetation exposed to it.

Roberts said the briny water spewed from a corroded steel pipeline near the well site. Some of the wastewater was cleaned up at the site but some of it reached a creek that is a tributary to Lake Sakakawea, about 5 miles downstream. The wastewater contained no chemicals used in drilling operations, he said, adding that the saltwater likely will be diluted to safe levels by the time it drains into the Missouri River reservoir.

Satellite sees hot spot of methane

By Seth Borenstein
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A surprising hot spot of the potent global-warming gas methane hovers over part of the southwestern U.S., according to satellite data.

That result hints that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and other agencies considerably underestimate leaks of methane, which is also called natural gas.

The higher level of methane is not a local safety or a health issue for residents, but factors in overall global warming. It is likely leakage from pumping methane out of coal mines. While methane isn't the most plentiful heat-trapping gas, scientists worry about its increasing amounts and have had difficulties tracking emissions.

A satellite image of atmospheric methane concentrations over the continental U.S. shows the hot spot as a bright red blip over the Four Corners area of New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona and Utah. The image used data from 2003 to 2009.

Within that hot spot, a European satellite found atmospheric methane concentrations equivalent to emissions of about 1.3 million pounds a year. That's about 80 percent more than the EPA figured. Other ground-based studies have calculated that EPA estimates were off by 50 percent.

The methane concentration in the hot spot was more than triple the amount previously estimated by European scientists.

The new study, done by NASA and the University of Michigan, was released Thursday by the journal Geophysical Research Letters.

Governor 'hurt' by fiancee's sham marriage

By Jonathan J. Cooper
Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore. — Oregon Gov. John Kitzhaber said Friday he was hurt when his fiancee revealed she entered into a fraudulent marriage with an immigrant in 1997, and he rejected his election challenger's demand for a special prosecutor to look into her consulting business.

Kitzhaber addressed the stunning confession by his fiancee, Cylvia Hayes, for the first time in a debate with his Republican rival. The confession came just days before voters begin casting ballots in Oregon's all-mail election, complicating the Democratic governor's march toward his likely election to a fourth term next month.

"I learned this three days ago," Kitzhaber said at the City Club of Portland. "I was obviously very taken aback by it and hurt. I have some processing to do on that."

On Thursday, Hayes held a news conference to admit she broke the law and apologize.

Hayes was a 29-year-old college student when she married an 18-year-old man from Ethiopia. She said she was in need of cash at the time, and kept the marriage secret from Kitzhaber because she was ashamed and embarrassed.

Kitzhaber said it took courage for Hayes to hold the news conference, and he's proud of her. He indicated the wedding will still happen, "hopefully soon."

"This is now a very personal issue," Kitzhaber said. "And we just need some time to work through this together."

Ebola screening measures rest on federal law

By Eric Tucker
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The government's authority to screen airline passengers for potential Ebola exposure and order them quarantined if necessary is far-reaching and rooted in the Constitution and federal law, public health experts say.

Temperature checks of passengers arriving from three West African countries experiencing the Ebola outbreak, along with other screening measures, will begin Saturday at New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport and expand over the next week to four other major American airports.

The measures may seem intrusive but are legally permissible because of the government's broad authority in matters of public health and border control, experts say.

"It's really not different in kind to security screenings you have to go through at the airport," said Michael Dorf, a Cornell University constitutional law professor. "If somebody doesn't like being screened for weapons and they sue, they're going to lose."

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention cite as legal authority the Commerce Clause of the Constitution, under which the government regulates trade with foreign countries. The 1944 Public Health Service Act also allows the federal government to take action to prevent communicable diseases such as Ebola from spreading into the country and between states.

"One can argue whether the Obama administration waited too long, but I think it would be irresponsible for the administration not to use its legal authority to protect the health of the public," said Peter Jacobson, a University of Michigan professor of health law and policy. "Otherwise, why bother?"

Beyond the airport precautions, the government has wide-ranging authority to order people into isolation or quarantine when necessary, as happened with several individuals who shared an apartment in Texas with Thomas Eric Duncan, the only person to die from the disease in the U.S.

The Constitution affords state governments "inspection" powers, and a significant 1824 U.S. Supreme Court opinion, Gibbons v. Ogden, specifically references state authority to enact quarantine laws. In addition, states have public health codes that grant authority to issue quarantine or isolation orders, though specifics vary, and governors typically have the ability to declare a public health emergency in the event of, for instance, a bioterrorism attack, Jacobson said.

The CDC has said it issues a few isolation orders a year — which separates sick people from those who aren't ill — and usually for individuals arriving from other countries with infectious tuberculosis. A federal quarantine, which separates people exposed to a communicable disease but who aren't showing symptoms, is very rarely used.

High court lifts hold on gay marriage in Idaho

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court said same-sex marriage can go ahead in Idaho.

The court issued an order Friday that appears to remove the last legal obstacle keeping gay and lesbian couples from getting married in the conservative state.

The federal appeals court in San Francisco on Tuesday declared gay marriage bans illegal in Idaho and Nevada.

Justice Anthony Kennedy temporarily blocked same-sex weddings in Idaho a day later after the state asked for a delay. Idaho officials said county clerks would be forced to issue marriage licenses to same-sex couples almost immediately without the high court's intervention.

Kennedy offered no explanation for his order, but indicated it would not be lasting. The court issued no explanation for its order Friday, either.

Nobel winner: Child labor crime against humanity

By Muneeza Naqvi
Associated Press

NEW DELHI — On his first day in school Kailash Satyarthi saw a young boy polishing shoes outside the school gates. The memory of that incident stayed with him, he said, leading him to give up a career in engineering to spend his life fighting India's endemic child labor.

"It was a very sharp contrast," he said of watching that boy, unable to go to school, clean the shoes of other little children who had the "hopes and aspirations" that education brings.

On Friday, Satyarthi, 60, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize along with Pakistan's Malala Yousafzai for having devoted three decades of his life to defending children's rights.

"I strongly feel that this is a big honor to hundreds of millions of the children who have been deprived of their childhood and freedom and education. So it's a big challenge and this will help in our fight against child labor and child slavery globally, and particularly in my own country," he said.

Satyarthi was born in Vidisha in the central Indian state of Madhya Pradesh in 1954 and studied to be an electrical engineer. He abandoned that career path in the early 1980s to start helping children who were forced to quit school and start working, often at dangerous jobs, to support their families.

He founded Bachpan Bachao Andolan, or Save the Children Movement, because he believed that child labor "isn't just about poverty. It's more than that."

Malala's improbable, dangerous journey to Nobel Peace Prize

By Danica Kirka
Associated Press

BIRMINGHAM, England — Malala Yousafzai celebrated her Nobel Peace Prize where she always wished to be: in school.

The 17-year-old Pakistani girl shot by the Taliban for daring to want an education learned she had become the youngest Nobel laureate ever Friday while attending classes at Edgbaston High School for girls in Birmingham, the city in central England that she now calls home.

The teenager had traveled to Birmingham for medical treatment after being targeted by the Taliban for standing up to the group's hard-line interpretation of Islam that limits girls' access to education. She was shot while returning home from school in Pakistan's volatile Swat Valley two years ago, almost to the day.

"This award is for all those children who are voiceless, whose voices need to be heard. I speak for them and I stand up with them," she said at a news conference Friday at Birmingham Library. "They have rights. They have the right to receive a quality education. They have the right not to suffer from child labor, not to suffer from child trafficking. They have the right to live a happy life."

She said it was an honor to share the prize with Kailash Satyarthi of India, 60, who has spent a lifetime standing up against child slavery and exploitation. And she invited the prime ministers of their two rival nations, India and Pakistan, to attend the Nobel awards ceremony.

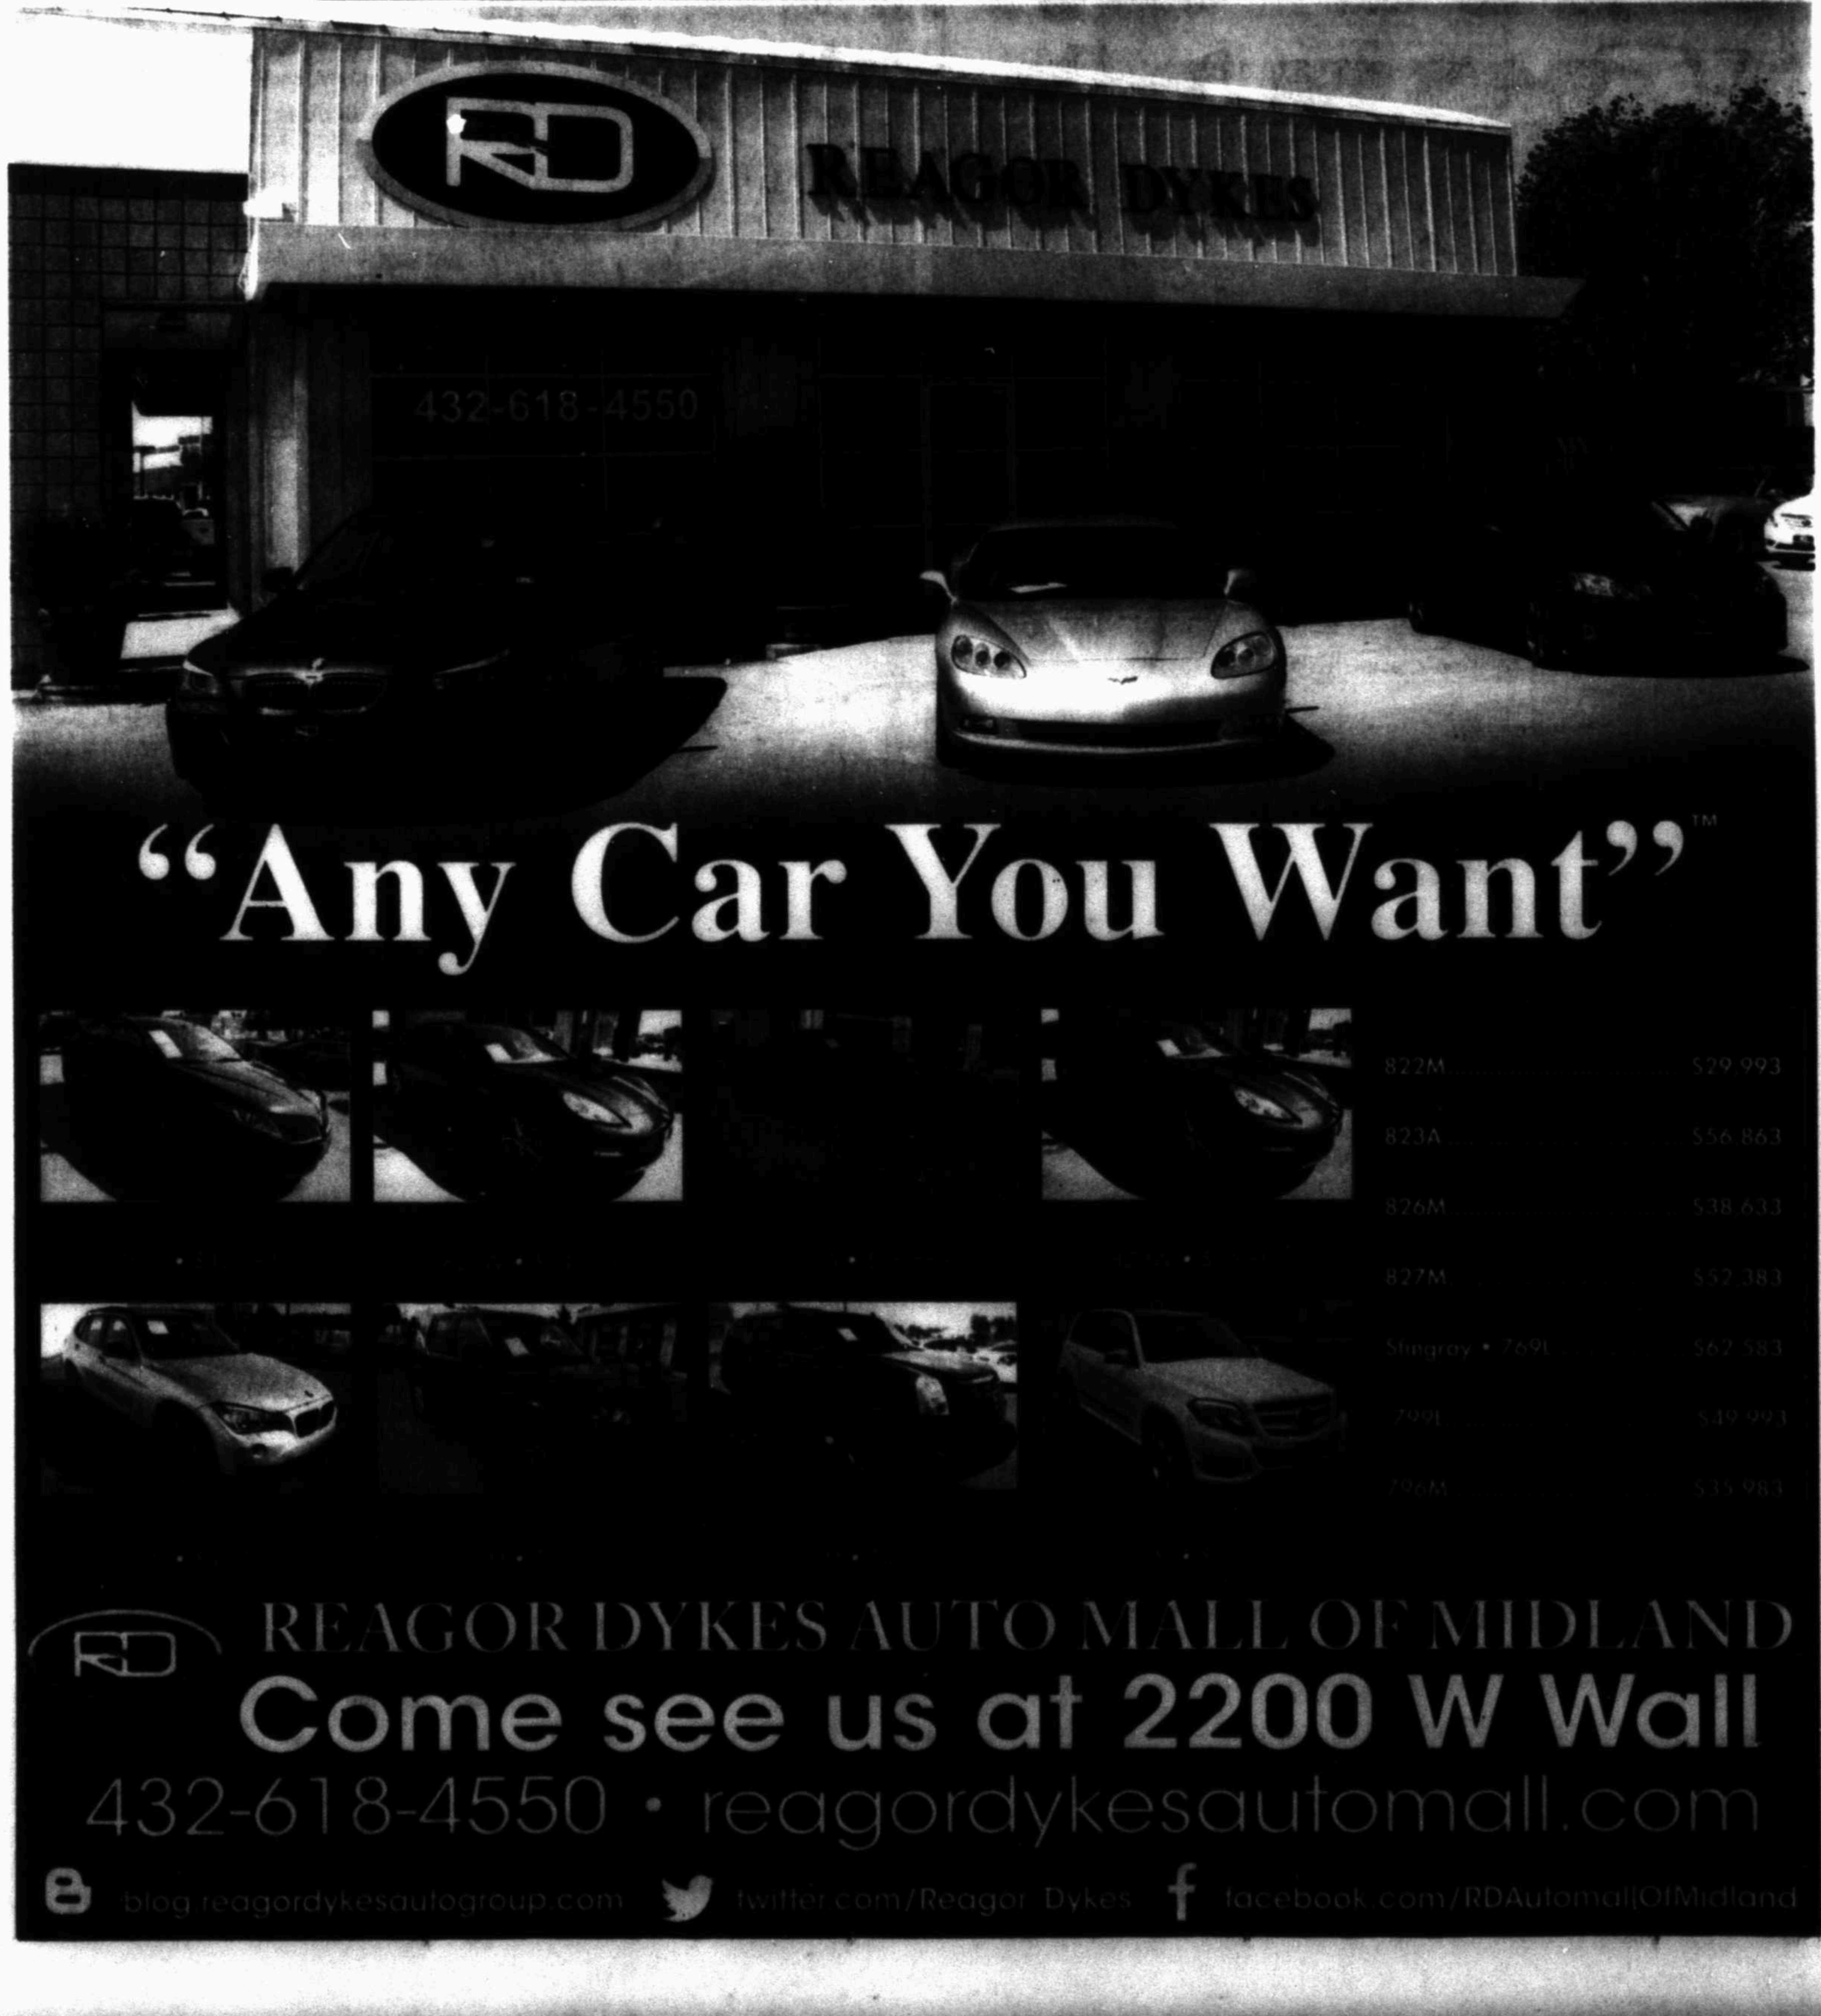
Malala Yousafzai holds flowers after speaking during a media conference, with father Ziauddin obscured behind centre and mother Tor Pekai, left, at the Library of Birmingham, in Birmingham, England, on Friday after she was named as winner of The Nobel Peace Prize. The Nobel Peace Prize 2014, is awarded jointly to Malala Yousafzai of Pakistan and Kailash Satyarthi of India, for risking their lives to fight for children's rights. Malala was shot in the head by a Taliban gunman two-years ago in Pakistan for insisting that girls have the right to an education.



MHS overcomes errors to survive against OHS

Bulldogs	28
Bronchos	21

ODESSA — In what evolved into a battle of mistakes, Midland High did enough in the end to have the clock expire in its favor Friday against Odessa High.

There is always a victor and a defeated in a football game, but both the Bulldogs and Bronchos appeared to be shading toward the later in the fourth quarter. It's a game that, mercifully for the Bulldogs, ended in a 28-21 win at Rattliff Stadium.

Midland High (4-2, 1-0 in 3-6A) had the ball and a 14-point lead with 7:09 remaining, but a drive starting on its own 20 stalled before it could gain steam thanks to four false start penalties within five plays. This backed the Bulldogs and punter Blake Humble into the end zone, and without the space, the Bronchos were able to block their second punt of the night.

The Bronchos took advantage of the blunder on the next play when running back Sebastian Galindo dashed for a 7-yard score.

A seven-point lead looked even more precarious after the Bulldogs went three-and-out on the next drive, giving Odessa High (2-4, 0-1 in 3-6A) the ball with 3:13 remaining. However, after a promising start to the series, quarterback Nick Adams fumbled when he was sandwiched by two Bulldog defenders on a fourth-down scramble, which resulted in Odessa High's third lost fumble of the night.

The late blunders sour the loss a little, but the players were content with a 1-0 start in district.

"You take it, and don't get down about it," said senior running back Darius Reed. "Move on."

In total, the Bulldogs turned the ball over twice and committed 10 penalties for 75 yards. Those numbers don't even include the two punts the team had blocked, each of which resulted in OHS with the ball inside the Bulldog 10-yard line, and eventually, touchdowns.

Odessa High didn't exactly shine either. The Bronchos lost three fumbles, threw an interception and had a number of penalties themselves, one

Panthers	45
Rebels	28

The Lee offense had glimpses of the some explosiveness on Friday night against rival Odessa Permian.

Only problem was, the Panthers were just as explosive. Permian jumped out to a two-touchdown lead in the first quarter and then kept Lee at arms' length by scoring on big plays to take a 45-28 victory at Grande Communications Stadium in the District 3-6A opener for both teams.

The Panthers (5-1, 1-0 in District 3-6A) scored four touchdowns on plays of 30 yards or longer as the Rebels couldn't ever figure out an answer to the Permian offense when they needed to.

Overall, the Panthers' offense rolled up 503 total yards with 349 of that coming on the ground. The Panthers were also playing with heavy hearts as fellow Permian student Hunter Miller died this week because of injuries sustained in a car wreck last week.

"It was an amazing start," said Permian junior running back Brandon Bailey, who had a game-high 228 yards rushing and three touchdowns. "We took that loss (to Lubbock Coronado) and that really devastated us, and one of our fellow Panthers died in a car crash. We really went out and got this one for him."

Permian didn't score on its first two possessions of the game as one ended in a punt and another with an incomplete fourth-down pass. But after that, the Panthers' offense found its groove.

Permian scored on its next three possessions as Bailey scored on a 54-yard run, Kobe Robinson a 14-yard run and the backbreaker in the second quarter might have been Robinson scoring on an 87-yard pass late in the second quarter. Robinson wrestled the ball from Lee defender Garrett Chalker at midfield and then ran the rest of the way for the score.

The Panthers went up 21-7 after Robinson's score, which also came on third and long, and from that point on Lee could never get closer.

"That start was obviously huge," said Lee junior quarterback Wesley Hall, who completed 13 of 23 passes for 178 yards and two touchdowns. "We are not very good at adversity right now, and it's something we need to get better at and something we are working on a lot is handling adversity. They jumped out to that 14-point lead, but we all knew we were still in it but we couldn't overcome it."

Permian added another score late in the first half and was up 28-14 at halftime.

Rangers kick into gear in 2nd quarter to beat Lamesa

Rangers	36
Golden Tors	14

LAMESA — There might be something missing from the Greenwood football team next week.

That something? A monkey won't be on their backs.

The Rangers notched their first district victory since Nov. 11, 2012 with a 36-14 victory over Lamesa. And that made head coach Shad Hanna all smiles after the game.

"What do we have three wins now? Yeah, that's a lot better than 2-8," Hanna said. "A heck of a lot better."

Redwine

Dickie

Greenwood (3-3, 1-0 in District 2-4A Division II) didn't come out of the gate firing, giving up the first touchdown of the game. Lamesa (1-4, 0-1), riding the momentum from snapping their 30-game losing streak two weeks ago against Dimmit, struck twice in the first quarter to take an early 14-6 lead.

"Lamesa was more ready to play than we were emotionally," Hanna said. "We've got to be a lot better football team than that."

But the second quarter was a different story. Zach Redwine ignited the Rangers' offense, using his arm to convert key third downs. And then his legs, scoring two rushing touchdowns on the ground to give Greenwood a six-point lead heading into halftime.

"We just played harder (in the second quarter)," Hanna said. "We just settled in and started doing our job and getting after it. We didn't come out ready to play and it was obvious. I don't know what we expected but Lamesa was ready to play."

The momentum didn't stop in the second quarter. Redwine spun a beautiful spiral on a post route for his third consecutive touchdown to give the Rangers a 28-14 lead.

Redwine finished with 162 yards

Argyle Liberty Christian beats MCS

By Oscar LeRoy

Warriors	20
Mustangs	13

Argyle Liberty Christian took a bend but don't break approach against Midland Christian on Friday night.

While Midland Christian seemed to move the ball on the Warriors, the Mustangs couldn't turn drives into points. Meanwhile, Liberty Christian turned two Mustang turnovers into scores and then held on for a 20-13 victory in TAPPS Division I, District 1 action at Mustang Field.

Midland Christian (4-2, 2-1) actually out-gained the Warriors 410-179 and had 21 first downs to Liberty Christian's nine.

But the Mustangs not only had two critical turnovers but turned the ball over on downs four times, including three times in the red zone.

The Mustangs had an opportunity to tie the game in the final minute, but quarterback Garry Powell was forced to go out of bounds on fourth down at the ALC 15 when he couldn't find an open receiver.

MCS also had an opportunity to tie the game two possessions earlier when they had the ball at the Warrior 3-yard line, but Justin Fender was stopped for a one-yard gain on fourth down to once again come up empty.

"We had some breakdowns, but when it mattered they stepped up and they played hard the whole game," said Argyle Liberty Christian coach Barton Hundley about his defense. "The goal-line stand was huge, and even at the end of the game they were able to step up and make some plays."

Midland Christian coach Greg McClendon took responsibility and said a few things contributed to the loss.

"We made a lot of mistakes and I obviously didn't have them ready to play," he said. "Our defense did a good job, but turning the ball over was a key part of (the loss), the pick six was a key part of it. And we've got to get down there and stick it in the end zone, and that's on me."

On turning the ball over on downs four times McClendon said, "We have to take advantage of the opportunities with the offensive line that we have. We felt pretty strong that we could do that, and it didn't happen."

The Mustangs only ran one play

Keselowksi wins Nationwide race at Charlotte

By Steve Reed
Associated Press

CONCORD, N.C. — Brad Keselowski thought he was in for a long night when a tire went down and he scraped the wall on lap 55 at Charlotte Motor Speedway.

"It was a night of adversity to start and we all got really nervous," Keselowski said.

But once Keselowski settled down, the No. 22 Ford battled back to the front, passing teammate Ryan Blaney with 12 laps to go to win the Nationwide Series race Friday night.

Keselowski passed Blaney on the outside on the straightaway to earn his fourth victory in nine starts this year and 31st Nationwide Series win of his career. That ties him with Jack Ingram for fifth on the all-time list.

"Winning a Nationwide race, to me the novelty of being in victory lane hasn't worn off — at least to me," Keselowski said. "... I don't take these wins for granted or take these opportunities for granted."

Kyle Busch, who was won a record 69 races in the Nationwide Series, finished second. Matt Kenseth was third, Blaney finished fourth, and Kyle Larson, who won here at Charlotte earlier this year, was fifth.

Chase Elliott finished ninth, extending his points lead over Regan Smith to 42. Smith finished in 11th place.

Elliott started from the pole and led a portion of the race but ultimately left the track frustrated with his performance.

"My restarts are some of the worst you can have," Elliott said. "I think I would know how to restart a race at this point. That is 100 percent pitiful, in all honesty."

Ty Dillon, who entered the night third in the standings, was involved in a six-car crash on lap 76, ending his night. He finished in 30th place and fell back to fifth place, 62 points behind Elliott.

"I made a bit of a mistake going four wide," Dillon said.

The race included eight cautions, several the result of blown tires.

"I felt like we were playing prevent defense early in the race," said Keselowski. "Everyone was waiting for who was the next person who was going to blow a tire. You didn't want to run slow and fall back in traffic where you couldn't make passes. But you could see everyone that ran hard kept having tire problems."

Keselowski's crew chief Jeremy Bullins said: "I'm sure it will be on everybody's mind until they get through the first green flag run."

Busch said that's something Sprint Cup drivers may need to be wary of on Saturday night.

"I think Cup cars tend to be harder on tires than Nationwide cars do because they're faster down the straightaway, they land harder in the corners and whatnot," Busch said. "We had issues tonight."

It was a crash-filled night at Charlotte right from the start.

The 200-lap, 300-mile race got off to a less-than-auspicious start with a crash on the first lap that damaged 11 cars and sent seven behind the wall, including those driven by Jeffrey Earnhardt, JJ Yeley, Matt DiBenedetto, Tanner Berryhill, Joey Gase, Jamie Dick and Will Kimmel.

of which reversed a Sebastian Galindo touchdown — the difference on the scoreboard in the game.

Mental mistakes have plagued the Bulldogs all season, and it nearly doomed them again Friday.

"We started out stronger than we have for previous games, but the penalties are what keep getting us," said Reed, who rushed for 115 yards and a touchdown. "(It's) just mistakes we need to fix."

The Bulldogs' defense was staunch against the Bronchos. Odessa High compiled only 153 yards of offense, and the Bulldogs held Galindo to just 63 yards rushing, 223 yards less than his season average entering the game.

"Our defense was real big," Reed said. "(They got) a lot of big three-and-outs and a lot of stops that we needed."

Midland High dominated time of possession in the first half, and much of the game, by keeping the ball on the ground. The Bulldogs ran for 101 yards in the first half, most of which came right up the gut of the Bronchos' defense.

Turnovers were an issue for the Bulldogs in the frame, however. Goodrum tossed two interceptions on his first and last throws of the half. But thanks to a stingy defensive performance, Midland High surrendered seven points. It could have been 14 if it was not for a holding penalty on OHS' first offensive drive of the game, which called back a Galindo 15-yard touchdown run. The penalty and a stymied fourth-down attempt on the same drive swing momentum toward Midland High for the majority of the half.

Midland High opened the scoring on the first play of the second quarter with a Ryan Goodrum 26-yard touchdown pass to a wide open Trevor Abney.

The Bulldogs later added a second touchdown with 3:19 remaining, when Raekwon Anderson punched the ball in from the 1-yard line on fourth-and-goal. The score was the fourth straight rushing attempt by MHS on the 1-yard line.

Odessa High responded on the next drive with a read-option wrinkle. It caught an aggressive MHS defense guessing, and resulted in three straight runs from either Galindo or Adams for 30, 9 and 30 yards — the last being a Galindo touchdown.

Ryan Goodrum threw for 112 yards and a touchdown in the game, while Adams threw for 65 yards. Blake Humble had the Bulldogs' only interception.

Despite the last quarter, Midland High didn't lose Friday night. And as evident by the team's celebration on the sideline after; that's all that matters.

REBELS

From 1B

Lee's defense held the Panthers to two touchdowns in the second half, but Bailey's 56-yard TD run in the fourth quarter marked the fourth long TD allowed by the Rebels in the game.

"They had a lot more big plays than we did, and they answered with the big pass plays at the right time," Lee head coach James Morton said. "I think it's going to be a character check and we are going to come back and go to work on Monday."

The Rebels' offense totaled 352 yards as Dobbins had another 100-plus yard game as he rushed for 158 yards on 23 carries with two touchdowns.

"When it really counted, he made things happen," Hanna said. "He threw some great balls. I think he got a little bit rattled early and then he kind of settled in."

Redwine definitely didn't have to carry the whole load in the second half. Cole Dickie responded to his slow start in the first half by breaking off huge runs to extend drives and grind the clock away. Dickie finished with 138 yards on the ground.

Along with the running game, the defense repeatedly stonewalled the Golden Tors, including forcing three turnovers in the fourth quarter.

And it never hurts to fix the first-half issues by pitching a shutout.

"We've got a really good defense," Hanna said. "I think we didn't play up to par tonight at all. We came in half-cocked tonight."

It may not have been the best first quarter for Greenwood, but the goose egg is on the right side of the hyphen for them in District 2-4A Division II.

"I'm excited to get the first one out of the way but we still have a long road ahead of us," Hanna said. "We've got to get a lot better."

before they turned the ball over, as Powell couldn't handle the punt from the center and the fumble gave the ball to the Warriors at the MCS 29. Three plays later Kyleb Howell punched it in from five yards out for a 6-0 lead.

Liberty Christian (5-1, 3-0) had a 13-0 lead in the second quarter before they had a backbreaking play when Hunter Griffith stepped in front of a Powell pass and returned it 40 yards for a touchdown and a 20-0 lead.

"That was huge for us," Hundley said. "We were up 13-0 and that play helped to build our confidence."

The Mustangs grabbed some momentum right before halftime when Fender (99 yards on 27 carries) capped off a 72-yard drive with a 2-yard TD run to pull MCS to within 20-7.

Midland Christian continued to build on the momentum when they went 90 yards on its first possession of the second half and pulled to within 20-13 when Powell found Reagan Brown on a 12-yard TD pass.

But that would be the last time the Mustangs saw the end zone on this night, as the Warrior defense stepped up and held them twice in their own territory.

"This is an extremely tough place to play," Hundley said. "First of all, you have a five-hour trip out here with lots of distractions that you don't normally have, and you're playing a super team like Midland Christian. We feel real fortunate to win this game."

Tears & hugs but no goal for Donovan in US finale

By Ronald Blum
Associated Press

EAST HARTFORD, Conn. — He had come oh-so-close to scoring during his national team farewell, listened to fans repeatedly serenade him with his name, accepted presents and exchanged hugs.

And then, when he stood on the field at the end and watched some of the many highlights of his 15-year-old international career flashed on the giant video board, Landon Donovan no longer could hold back the tears.

"It was beyond my wildest dreams, for sure," Donovan said after the United States tied Ecuador 1-1 on Friday night in his 157th international appearance. "As a human being, to feel that kind of love and support is incredible. I've put a lot into this game over many years and tonight feels like it was all worth it."

He nearly scored in the 25th minute, when he sprinted onto a backheel pass from Jozy Altidore, took a touch and beat goalkeeper Maximo Banguera with a right-footed shot from 12 yards. But the ball clanked off a post, and Donovan couldn't beat Banguera and Walter Ayovi to the rebound. He sent another long shot just over the crossbar a few minutes later.

Donovan, the American career leader in international goals (57) and assists (58), had been estranged from the national team since coach Jurgen Klinsmann cut him from the World Cup roster on May 22, ending Donovan's dream of a fourth trip to soccer's showcase. The 32-year-old forward announced in August that he will retire from soccer after completing this season with Major League Soccer's Los Angeles Galaxy.

But U.S. Soccer President Sunil Gulati persuaded him to play in this testimonial, which drew a crowd of 36,265 to Rentschler Field. Fans repeatedly chanted "Thank You Landon!" and they gave him a minute-long standing ovation when he was replaced by Joe Corona in the 41st.

Donovan was congratulated by teammates as he left the field. After captaining his country for the 19th time, Donovan handed the armband to Altidore and then exchanged a brief handshake and hug with Klinsmann.

"He told me he should have taken me to Brazil," Donovan deadpanned after the game before quickly adding: "I'm just kidding."

"Jurgen and I spoke today. We had a good conversation," Donovan went on, "and we both agreed that we wanted tonight to be about tonight."

Donovan and Klinsmann had not spoken since the day Donovan was cut after a training session at Stanford University. They criticized each other from afar but finally talked to each other Friday.

"I told him before the game that this door here is always open for him," Klinsmann said. "This is his team. He built this team. He built so many things for U.S. soccer. So he deserves the biggest crowd, the biggest cheers here."

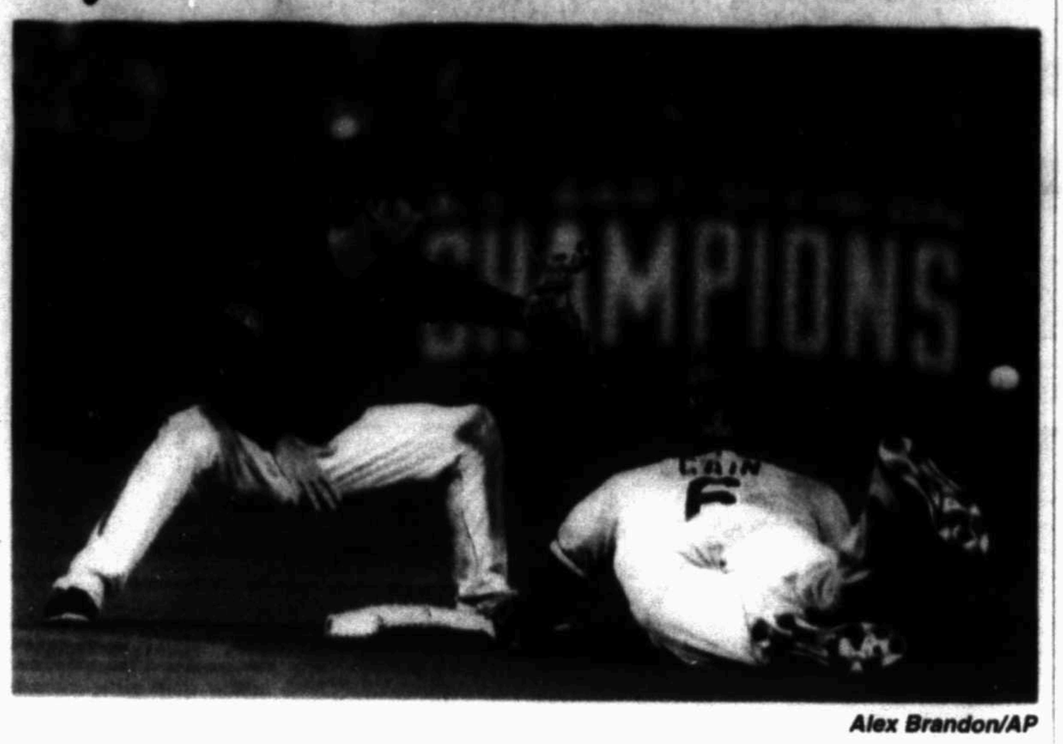
Gordon-led Royals beat Orioles in ALCS Game 1

Royals.....8
Orioles.....6 (10)
Kansas City leads series, 1-0



Alex Brandon/AP

Kansas City's Lorenzo Cain (6) slides into second base as Baltimore's J.J. Hardy awaits the throw during the fifth inning of Game 1 of the American League Championship Series on Friday in Baltimore.

By David Ginsburg
Associated Press

BALTIMORE — These Kansas City Royals, and Alex Gordon in particular, are way more than just speed and singles.

Especially in extra innings.

Gordon hit a tiebreaking homer in the 10th inning, Mike Moustakas added a two-run shot and the Royals defeated the Baltimore Orioles 8-6 Friday night in the opener of the AL Championship Series.

Earlier, Gordon doubled in three runs, was picked off first base, made a great catch in left field and got hit in the neck with a pitch.

But his most memorable moment came when he lined a pitch from Darren O'Day into the right-field seats. That was enough to provide the Royals with their fourth extra-inning victory in five games this postseason.

As the ball soared over the wall, O'Day flung his cap to the ground in frustration.

This best-of-seven series was billed as Kansas City's speed against Baltimore's power, but the Royals didn't steal a base and hit all of the game's three home runs.

The Orioles tried to rally in the 10th. Pinch-hitter Delmon Young hit an RBI single with two outs, but closer Greg Holland retired Nick Markakis on a grounder with two runners on for the final out in the rain shortly before 1 a.m.

Game 2 is today. Rookie right-hander Yordano Ventura makes his second postseason start for the Royals against either Wei-Yin Chen or Bud Norris.

Wade Davis got the win with two shutout innings and Holland got a save.

The fastest team in the majors nearly walked to victory in the ninth. After Orioles closer Zach Britton issued three straight walks to open the inning, Eric Hosmer into a force at the plate — helped by catcher Nick Hundley's nifty pickup at the plate — and O'Day got Billy Butler to hit into a double play.

O'Day wasn't nearly as effective in the 10th.

Down 5-1 in the fifth against James Shields, the Orioles scored three times as 47,124 towel-waving fans cheered them on. Nelson Cruz hit an RBI double before Ryan Flaherty delivered a two-out, two-run single.

Shields made it out of the inning, but did not return after giving up four runs and 10 hits.

The rain that was expected for much of the day finally made an appearance in the sixth, shortly before Baltimore pulled even against the usually reliable Kansas City bullpen. The tying run scored off Kelvin Herrera on a low popup by Alejandro De Aza that dropped behind the mound.

The Royals' frustration showed in the seventh, when pinch-runner Jarrod Dyson complained about being called out at second on an attempted steal before Lorenzo Cain and Butler fumed over called third strikes.

Early on, Kansas City dominated.

After the Orioles left the bases loaded in the second inning, Alcides Escobar drove a 2-0 pitch from Chris Tillman into the left-field seats for the game's first run. It was his 22nd homer in 2,994 career at-bats, including this postseason.

TCU-Baylor steals Lone Star state spotlight

By Ralph D. Russo
Associated Press

The biggest game in Texas this weekend is nowhere near a Ferris wheel — though there are plenty of places in Waco to stuff yourself with sloppy fried foods if that's what you want.

No. 9 TCU turned the Red River Rivalry into an opening act for the Horned Frogs matchup against No. 5 Baylor, when they upset Oklahoma last week.

Sure, the Sooners and Texas will draw plenty of attention for their annual meeting at the Cotton Bowl during the Texas State Fair, but the 110th game between TCU and Baylor will have far more impact on who wins the Big 12.

For Baylor a huge game in their glitzy new on-campus stadium, the first top-10 matchup in Waco since 1956, is another step in the evolution of a program that for years resided in the Big 12 basement.

"It's exactly the stage we want to be where we all kind of want to be, to play the big games and lot on the line for us, as far as nationally, but at the end of the game, it's still just another game," Baylor quarterback Bryce Petty said. "We want to dominate and we want to win. It's good for us as far as we're kind of getting there. We're making steps and making strides. It's just another part of it."

For TCU, the Oklahoma win represented a rebirth of sort. After years of dominance in this conference and that, the Horned Frogs slipped upon arrival to the Big 12.

Now in Year 3 it seems they are ready to be contenders again.

If TCU can pull off a second straight upset of the Big 12's preseason favorites, the Horned Frogs should make another huge leap in the rankings and grab firm control of the conference race. Quite a turnaround after going 4-8 last season, Gary Patterson's worst in 14 years as TCU coach.

"After beating Oklahoma, it probably put a target on us because they were probably one of the top-ranked teams in the country coming in," TCU quarterback Trevone Boykin said. "Us competing with those guys and having a chance to beat those guys probably put us on the map."

Red Raiders face must-win situation against Mountaineers

oleroy@mrt.com

Texas Tech coach Kliff Kingsbury admitted during his weekly press conference on Monday that he doesn't sleep much, regardless of the wins and losses. He said that's part of the profession.

If his Red Raiders (2-3, 0-2 in Big 12) don't find a way to snap out of their three-game losing streak and stop the plethora of penalties and mistakes, Kingsbury will be losing a lot more sleep.

He might also age to the point where he starts to look more like the late Eli Wallach than Ryan Gosling.

Texas Tech will look to snap out of its doldrums at 11 this morning when it hosts West Virginia (3-2, 1-1) at Jones AT&T Stadium.

This game against the improved Mountaineers has to be considered a must-win for the Red Raiders if they want to have any chance of reaching a bowl game. I know, I know, some of you might be screaming, "What bowl game!?" with the way this team has looked through five games this season.

For many, the way Tech has stumbled out of the gate has been a surprise. But if you take a closer look, there are a number of reasons this team has not played well this season.

For one, there are the penalties. Once again the Red Raiders are among the leaders in the league and the nation in racking them up with 55 penalties for an average of 102.2 yards per game. Those numbers can kill any team. Kingsbury said penalties, which he wanted to clean up heading into the season, has been the most disappointing part of this season.

"(Penalties continue) to either move the other team forward or move us back in key situations," Kingsbury said. "That number is pretty astounding when you look at a season total. It's hard to win any games doing that every week."

Junior defensive end Branden Jackson said he attributes the penalties to frustration and guys trying to make a play.

"A lot of times you look at the pass interference calls we get, we have players in (position) and it's kind of just making a knucklehead decision instead of playing technique and things like that," he said. "It's not something we're doing intentionally."

Part of that frustration comes from inexperience across the board. While youth shouldn't be used as an excuse (look at Oklahoma State, for example), Kingsbury admitted his team needs to do some growing up. Right now there are too many first-year starters at key positions who don't know how to handle it when things get tough.

"(We) haven't had a lot of confidence-building moments this season, and we need to build on the positive," the coach said.

While the defense has had to switch coordinators once again, the offense has struggled with inconsistency. You figure a program that has been running the same offense for the last 15 seasons wouldn't have that problem.

"I haven't figured that out," Kingsbury said. "There are moments of greatness and then it looks like the 'Bad News Bears' some of the times. It's puzzling to me because in practice I see positive things and we're just not doing it in games."

And while there have been dropped balls by the receivers, sophomore quarterback Davis

No. 11 OU looks to bounce back vs. Texas

By Stephen Hawkins
Associated Press

DALLAS — Oklahoma needs another one of those bounce-back games that have become so common under coach Bob Stoops.

Without one Saturday in their storied rivalry against Texas, the 11th-ranked Sooners will have a difficult, and likely impossible, time getting back into the mix for a spot in the new four-team College Football Playoff.

"Just worried about this week. Down the road's a long way off — for everybody," Stoops said. "Through the years, when there's only been two teams to qualify to get into the championship game, how many one-loss teams have won it? Quite a few. LSU won it with two losses. So I don't know why it's much different. ... We'll see."

Oklahoma (4-1, 1-1 Big 12) was among the losing teams last week in that unprecedented string of upsets — among five of the top eight ranked teams that lost, and 11 of the top 20. The 37-33 loss at TCU dropped the Sooners seven spots, and took them out a prime position as the Big 12's highest-ranked team.

Eight-time Big 12 champion Oklahoma hasn't lost consecutive games in the regular season since the start of the 2000,

After Alabama, No. 3 Mississippi awaits No. 14 A&M

By Kristie Rieken
Associated Press

COLLEGE STATION — No. 3 Mississippi didn't spend long celebrating its big win over Alabama.

Not with No. 14 Texas A&M up next, a team the Rebels have never beaten and a school that has sent them to close losses the last two seasons on their home field.

Mississippi coach Hugh Freeze isn't concerned about a letdown.

"I think they'll continue to be hungry and want to compete," he said. "That's really not a big worry of mine because of the schedule we face. There are really good teams in this conference that can beat you at any given moment. We've got to play a very good football game to win every game that's left on our schedule in this deal."

The Aggies are coming off their first loss of the season, a 48-31 defeat by Mississippi State, and are looking to get back on track in their first home game in almost a month.

"Our guys are anxious to get back on the field and prove who they are," coach Kevin Sumlin said.

Quarterback Bo Wallace knows it will be a challenge to deal with a crowd expected to top 100,000, but thinks that playing other tough road games will help make things easier today.

"We've had guys that have played at 'Bama and at LSU," Wallace said. "We'll be prepared for that ... this is what it's all about. We're right in the thick of things in the SEC West. Going on the road to a hostile environment is why you go to school here."

The Rebels are 0-6 against A&M. They're 0-2 since A&M joined the SEC after losing 30-27 in 2012 and 41-38 last season.

"They were difficult for sure," Freeze said of those losses. "Our kids bounced back nicely, probably better than the coaches, but they were difficult."

Wallace said those defeats still sting.

"You definitely remember that," he said. "We're a different team. We're a different offense and defense. We'll get to work on them and hopefully come out and play well."

Things to know about the Mississippi-Texas A&M game:

HILL'S SETBACK: Texas A&M quarterback Kenny Hill had thrown just two interceptions through the first five games, but threw three on Saturday in Texas A&M's first loss this season.

He's been solid in his first season after taking over for Johnny Manziel and leads the SEC with 2,110 yards passing and has helped the Aggies score 38 touchdowns, which are the most in the FBS.

OLE MISS' DOMINANT DEFENSE: The Rebels' defense is giving up just 10.2 points per game, which ranks first in the Southeastern Conference. Ole Miss has allowed only four touchdowns all season, which is tops in the nation. Senquez Golson leads the team with four interceptions and the Rebels are aggressive up front — 17 different players have at least one tackle for a loss.

BOUNCE

going 31-0 in the regular season following a loss.

Since 2009, the Sooners have also won 10 consecutive games in rematches against teams that beat them the previous season — like Texas (2-3, 1-2) did 36-20 last year, when Oklahoma was a two-touchdown favorite just as it is now.

Stoops was 9-6 against former Texas coach Mack Brown with a string of lopsided victories.

Like Stoops, new Texas coach Charlie Strong won a national championship as a defensive coordinator with Florida before getting a head coaching job. Strong, whose title with the Gators came in the 2009 BCS national championship game over the Stoops-coached Sooners, already knows the significance of the Red River Rivalry game at the State Fair of Texas.

"The Texas-Oklahoma rivalry is a special rivalry. We know how big it is," Strong said. "Don't have to say much to the players this week. Don't have to worry about them being down. They know what's at stake here. Last year going into this game everyone was kind of throwing dirt on them, and they were able to bounce back and go win it."

Here are a few things to watch when Texas and Oklahoma play for the 109th time, the 92nd time in Dallas, halfway between the two campuses:

MIDTERM GRADE: Strong had to chuckle when he was asked this week what his midseason grade was for his team. "I don't know if I can put a letter grade on it, but we'd like to play better," Strong said. "We're not playing up to our ability. I think that we can play a lot better than what we're playing, and I tell our guys that." The Longhorns are in a difficult stretch, coming off a loss to No. 5 Baylor and with three more ranked opponents (Kansas State, Oklahoma State and TCU) still left after Oklahoma.

SHINING STERLING: Sooners receiver Sterling Shepard has the second-longest active FBS streak with four consecutive 100-yard receiving games, one behind West Virginia's Kevin White. Shepard is second in the Big 12 and third in the FBS with 130.2 yards receiving per game. He had seven catches for 215 yards, only two yards short of the school record, at TCU when he also had a 75-yard touchdown catch.

WINNING WHEN EXPECTED, WITH A BIG EXCEPTION: Oklahoma has won 22 of its last 23 games against unranked teams, including seven in a row. That lone loss in that span was 36-20 to Texas last October. Since that win, the Longhorns have lost five in a row against ranked teams, and are 4-17 in such games since 2010.

CORNY DOGS FOR SPLIT CROWD: The Red River game has been played at Cotton Bowl Stadium during the State Fair of Texas since 1929. The crowd is split 50-50 in burnt orange and crimson. The winner gets The Golden Hat, the rotating trophy in use since 1941. The Longhorns lead the series 60-43-5, and are the only Big 12 team with a series lead over Oklahoma.

GETTING QBS: Texas has 20 quarterback sacks in its first five games for the first time since 1985, and ahead of the pace in 2008, when it finished the season with a national-best 47 sacks. Baylor quarterback Bryce Petty hadn't been sacked this season before getting taken down three times last Saturday in the Longhorns' 28-7 loss.

SPOTLIGHT

From 1C

Some things to watch for when TCU and Baylor — yes, TCU and Baylor — play for first-place in the Big 12.

SPREAD 'EM OUT: TCU's new spread offense is suiting Boykin fine. He leads the Big 12 in total yards per game at 359 and is the Frogs' leading rusher at 65 yards per game. He's blossoming into the player Patterson always hoped he could become. And he's already got a victory at Baylor on his resume. As a redshirt freshman in 2012, Boykin passed for 261 yards and four touchdowns in his first-career road start and ran for a touchdown in the 49-21 victory. The Bears have won 12 straight home games since.

BEARS DOWN? Baylor leads the nation in scoring at 51.0 points per game and is No. 2 in total offense at 590.6 yards per game, but the Bears sputtered last week in a 28-7 victory at Texas. Petty was 7 for 22 for only 111 yards and said his head was spinning after the game. What gives?

"That's what I said, but it was just kind of an in the moment kind of quote," Petty said. "Watching tape, everything I saw on tape is what I saw on the field. I guess I was kind of searching for answers I guess after the game. As far as defensively wise, they played a good game, but just as far as the flow of the game it called for more runs. I was more or less disappointed in myself and how I played. I kind of hold myself to a high standard so, not to say you misquoted me because you didn't, but I guess how I said it wasn't the right way to say it."

BLUE PRINT: The Longhorns forced Baylor to settle for small bites instead of big chunks of yardage. If that's the blue print to slowing down the Bears' warp-speed offense, it looked familiar to Patterson.

"If you want to know the truth about it, I saw similarities to what we've done over the last couple of years, so I'm not sure they were the blueprint," he said. "You've got to be able to stop them, got to be able tackle and you've got to play the run, and you've got to stop them from throwing it over your head and moving the football."

EATS: Locals will tell you the Crazy Wings at George's, chicken, cheese and jalapeno peppers, wrapped in bacon and deep fried, hold their own against anything you can get at the fair.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

A Top-10 matchup of the Big 12 Conference's only remaining undefeated teams, and first game in the most-played series for both teams in which both are ranked. Baylor has won 21 of its last 22 home games over past four seasons, the lone loss being to Baylor in 2012. The Horned Frogs moved up 16 spots to ninth in the AP poll after beating then-No. 4 Oklahoma at home. Baylor is the league's highest-ranked team after the Sooners dropped to 11th.

KEY MATCHUP

All over the field. This game matches the Big 12's top two scoring offenses against the league's top two scoring defenses. Baylor leads both categories, averaging an FBS-best 51 points while allowing only 12.4. The Horned Frogs are second scoring 42.8 points a game and giving up 13.5.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

TCU: Dual-threat QB Trevone Boykin is second in the Big 12 with 359 total yards a game. He is one of only six quarterbacks from a Big Five conference to be his team's top passer (294 yards per game with 10 TDs and two interceptions) and rusher (65 yards per game, three TDs).

Baylor: RB Shock Linwood is second in the Big 12 with 89.8 yards rushing per game, and has eight TDs in five games. He had 148 yards last week at Texas, a game in which the Bears ran for 278 and passed for only 111.

FACTS & FIGURES

TCU is 5-2 on the road against AP Top 25 teams since 2009. ... Baylor's 12-game home winning streak is the FBS' second-longest active streak, behind the 13 by Auburn and Northern Illinois. ... There has been only one previous game in Waco matching two Top 10 teams, in 1956 when No. 7 Texas A&M beat No. 8 Baylor 19-13. ... Only Michigan State has had a bigger jump than TCU in the history of The Associated Press rankings, improving 17 spots from No. 19 to No. 2 on Oct. 2, 1950.

NO. 3 MISSISSIPPI (5-0, 2-0 SEC) AT NO. 14 TEXAS A&M (5-1, 2-1) 8 P.M. (ESPN)

Line: Texas A&M by 3.

Series Record: Texas A&M leads 6-0.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Mississippi is 5-0 for the first time since 1962 when the team finished 10-0 to earn a share of the national title. The Rebels are coming off a big win over Alabama and will try to get their first-ever victory over Texas A&M and stay atop the SEC West standings. The Aggies look to get back on track after Mississippi State handed them their first loss last week before heading to face No. 7 Alabama a week from Saturday.

KEY MATCHUP

Quarterback Kenny Hill and Texas A&M's offense vs. the Ole Miss defense. The Aggies are averaging 47.8 points, which ranks third in the nation and the Rebels are second in the country by allowing just 10.2 points a game. They've given up only four touchdowns all season, with just one of those scores coming against the first-string defense, and Texas A&M has scored 38 touchdowns, which are the most in the FBS.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Mississippi: CB Senquez Golson. He leads the SEC and is second in the nation with four interceptions. His interception in the end zone with 37 seconds remaining sealed Mississippi's win on Saturday.

Texas A&M: WR Josh Reynolds. The sophomore transfer leads the Aggies with 402 yards receiving and his team-best seven touchdowns are the most in school history through a player's first six games. He has three catches this season for 40 yards or more.

FACTS & FIGURES

The Aggies are 4-22 against teams ranked No. 3 or higher in The AP poll and their last win over one came when they knocked off top-ranked Alabama in 2012. ... Saturday will be Mississippi's first trip to College Station since 1975. The teams met in Oxford, Mississippi the last two seasons. ... Mississippi is the only team in the SEC West that hasn't picked up a win over A&M. ... These teams first met in 1911. ... The Rebels lead the SEC and are third in the nation with 10 interceptions. ... Texas A&M has six receivers with double-digit receptions. ... Mississippi has forced a turnover in 28 games in a row, which is the second-longest streak in the FBS. ... Texas A&M has scored at least 10 points in all 84 games under coach Kevin Sumlin.

TEXAS (2-3, 1-1 BIG 12) VS. NO. 11 OKLAHOMA (4-1, 1-1) AT DALLAS 11 A.M. (ABC)

Line: Oklahoma by 14 1/2.

Series Record: Texas leads 60-43-5.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Oklahoma has to keep winning to stay in the mix for the new four-team College Football Playoff. The Sooners were among five of the top eight-ranked teams that lost a week ago, though it is unlikely there will be another weekend like that when 11 of the top 20 teams lost. This is Texas coach Charlie Strong's first game in the Red River rivalry at the State Fair of Texas, where the winner gets the Golden Hat Trophy.

KEY MATCHUP

Strong vs. Oklahoma coach Bob Stoops. Mack Brown isn't around for Stoops to kick around anymore. Texas won last year, but Stoops was 9-6 against Brown and put some serious whippings on the Longhorns over the years. Strong beat Stoops and the Sooners when Strong was defensive coordinator at Florida to win the 2008 season national title.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Texas: Linebackers Jordan Hicks and Steve Edmond. Hicks leads the Longhorns with 55 tackles, and is one of two Big 12 linebackers with at least two interceptions. Edmond has 46 tackles and five tackles for loss.

Oklahoma: WR Sterling Shepard has four 100-yard receiving games in a row, the second-longest active FBS streak behind the five by Kevin White of West Virginia. Shepard is second in the Big 12 with 130.2 yards per game receiving, behind White's 153 per game. Shepard's 215 yards last week against TCU was only two yards short of the single-game school record.

FACTS & FIGURES

Since the start of the 2000 season, the Sooners are 31-0 in regular-season games following a loss. ... Oklahoma has won 22 of its last 23 games against unranked teams. The loss in that span was 36-20 to Texas last October. ... Texas has lost five straight games and 17 of its last 21 against Top 25 teams. ... The Longhorns have 20 sacks, their most through five games since 1985.

WEST VIRGINIA (3-2, 1-1 BIG 12) AT TEXAS TECH (2-3, 0-2) 11 A.M. (FOX SPORTS 1)

Line: West Virginia by 6.

Series Record: Texas Tech leads 2-1.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Texas Tech is trying to avoid starting conference play with three straight losses for the first time since 1990. West Virginia aims to build off its first Big 12 win, a 33-14 victory over Kansas last week that followed a home loss to Oklahoma.

KEY MATCHUP

Texas Tech offense vs. West Virginia defense. The Red Raiders, with the nation's 11th-best passing offense and third best in the Big 12 (335.4 yards per game), are looking to find a consistent rhythm behind QB Davis Webb and WRs Jakeem Grant and Bradley Marquez. The Mountaineers have allowed just three passing touchdowns and rank 21st nationally in pass defense at 186.8 yards per game.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Texas Tech: Webb seems to have recovered from a shoulder injury to his non-throwing arm two weeks ago. He had a tough game in last week's loss, throwing a career-high four interceptions (he has 10 for the season). Still, he's thrown for 1,603 yards and 16 TDs.

West Virginia: WR Kevin White leads the nation in receiving yards (765) and receiving yards per game (153). The 6-3, 210-pound senior also leads the Big 12 in receptions per game (9.6) and is third in the conference in TDs.

NO. 16 OKLAHOMA STATE (4-1, 2-0 BIG 12) AT KANSAS (2-3,0-2) 3 P.M. (FOX SPORTS 1)

Line: Oklahoma State by 20.

Series Record: Oklahoma State 32-29-3.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

The Cowboys are seeking their fifth straight win and even more momentum heading into a showdown with ninth-ranked TCU next week. Kansas is trying to give interim coach Clint Bowen his first win after losing his debut last week at West Virginia. Oklahoma State has won 10 of the last 11 in the series.

KEY MATCHUP

Oklahoma State QB Daxx Garman against the Kansas defense. Garman has thrown for 1,200 yards and nine TDs since taking over for the injured J.W. Walsh. If there is any strength on the Jayhawks, it just may be their defensive backfield, which has kept them in games most of the season.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Oklahoma State: RB Desmond Roland has taken some of the pressure of Garman in the Cowboys' offense. He's scored a touchdown in six straight games, rushing for two of them last week against Iowa State. Roland has 10 touchdowns total during his streak.

Kansas: Whoever plays quarterback. Montell Cozart has been the starter all season, but Michael Cummings and T.J. Millweard saw action last week against the Mountaineers. The Jayhawks would like to have a clear-cut starter, but expect the hook to be quick if whoever ends up under center struggles early in the game.

FACTS & FIGURES

Kansas has only beaten Oklahoma State eight times in the last 34 years. The Cowboys haven't lost a road game to the Jayhawks since 1994. ... Oklahoma State has won 21 straight games when it does not commit a turnover.

LEROY

From 1C

Webb has received the brunt of the criticism, and that only amped up after throwing four interceptions in last week's 45-13 loss to Kansas State.

But getting creamed by the fans and media is part of the gig as the Texas Tech starting quarterback, no matter who it is. Kingsbury and Graham Harrell were almost booed out of the stadium at some point during their Tech careers before they were hailed among the best to put on a Red Raider uniform.

While there are questions on whether or not there should be a change at quarterback, Kingsbury was adamant that Webb was still the starter and backup and true freshman Patrick Mahomes will get plenty of snaps.

Kingsbury also said that Webb's mistakes shouldn't just fall on the quarterback but a combination of bad play calls, tough reads and not being in the right spot.

Webb was quick to point out that no matter what other people do, it's his responsibility to cut down on the mistakes.

"If anything, it's on me," Webb said. "I tell the team it's not Coach Kingsbury. He calls great plays, and we just need to execute them better, and it starts with the quarterback and goes all the way down."

So where do the Red Raiders go from here?

Do they continue this downward spiral or do they find a way to get out of it?

I've been following this program for the last 30 years, and I don't even know what to make of this year's team and where it's headed.

Webb and Jackson said they were going to have a player's only meeting on Monday to air things out and discuss a few things. Maybe that will light a fire under their belts when they face a much-improved West Virginia team.

Because if the Red Raiders continue to play the way they have, Clint Trickett and the Mountaineers will have a field day and have a chance to contribute to Kingsbury's sleepless nights.

UPDATED POWER RANKINGS: Thanks to last week's shakeup, I shook up the Big 12 power rankings. Needless to say, this is subject to change after this weekend.

1. Baylor; 2. Kansas State; 3. TCU; 4. Oklahoma; 5. Oklahoma State; 6. West Virginia; 7. Texas; 8. Texas Tech; 9. Iowa State; 10. Kansas

Overlooked middle child's cries for help go unheeded

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a teenage girl who is frustrated with my family. I am the middle child, and it seems like my parents prefer my brother and sister over me. I am constantly in trouble for things they have done, and my parents are aware that they did.

When I try to express my feelings, nobody will listen. Several times I have almost committed suicide or run away. I am lost and I don't know what to do. Please help me. — NOWHERE IN INDIANA

DEAR NOWHERE: When a person cries out in pain and feels she (or he) isn't heard, it can be doubly painful. But suicide or running away is not the answer. What you need to do is explain to an adult — an aunt, uncle, school counselor or close family friend — how you are feeling, so that person can intercede on your behalf with your parents, who may not realize what they're doing and the effect it's having on you.

DEAR ABBY: How long is too long to wait when it comes to hearing the highly anticipated phrase, "I love you"? My boyfriend and I have been dating for eight months. We have been through a lot together during this time, and his actions suggest that he loves me. When I finally asked him why he hasn't said it to me, he said, "Why haven't YOU said it?" "I want it to happen naturally," and, "Just be patient with me."

We get along amazingly well. We have a wonderful time every time we see each other (which is almost every day), and he has told me he can see a future with me.

Am I wrong for thinking I deserve to hear the "L" word at this point, or am I rushing things? I don't understand why he is so reluctant to say it, and his reluctance makes me think maybe he just doesn't love me. — STILL WAITING IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR STILL WAITING: Not all men are comfortable expressing their emotions verbally. Actions speak louder than words. Many men have told women they "love" them, only to have their behavior prove otherwise.

That your boyfriend has given you three different answers to your question indicates to me that you may have been pushing him to say it. I would caution you against that because it could push him away. Hearing the words "I love you" isn't something a person "deserves." It's important that the words be genuine.

DEAR ABBY: When I approach someone to hug, is there a correct side to go for? Does a relative or friend have a bearing on your choice, or does it matter if it's a man or woman or how well you know them? Is the left side as good as the right side? — WHICH SIDE? IN OHIO

DEAR WHICH SIDE: Hugging anyone you don't know well is a mistake because some people have an aversion to intimate contact with strangers. That said, I don't think it matters a lot which side you "go for" — although I have heard some people bear to the left because that way their hearts are closer together. Personally, I tend to feint to the left because I'm left-handed — but that's just me.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★ Handle an important matter in the morning that could involve a parent or boss. You might hear unexpected news that has the potential to benefit you in some way. Make it OK for a partner to have different needs than you. Tonight: Go where you will have the most fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★ Plans to take off for a day trip or to visit a flea market will need to be made early on; otherwise, distractions could cause a change in plans. A friend might act unexpectedly or do something strange that you need to focus on. Tonight: Reach out to a charming loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★ Honor a change in what a partner wants. This person might have craved closeness in the morning, but by the afternoon, he or she will be fine with you taking off on your own. Confusion seems to surround your plans. Be sure that everyone is on the same page. Tonight: Party on!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★ Someone will want your attention. The uproar that could result from you saying "no" won't be worth it. Still, you'll need to express your feelings in an appropriate manner. A child might mean well, but he or she could cause a problem. Tonight: Make nice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ Clear out any errands in the morning. You might believe that you will have a calm day, but by late afternoon, you will discover otherwise. A friend could surprise you with an invitation. Join in on the fun, and act like a kid again; it will be healing. Tonight: Date night!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★ You might want to dote on a loved one in the morning. By the afternoon, others will want to join you, whether it is pitching in around the house or going to a movie. Make sure that you all are on the same page as far as plans go. Tonight: Call it early.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★ You'll be happy that you don't have to go to work, as you are likely to decide that a lazy day is in order. However, a loved one might attempt to pull you out of the doldrums. With enough sleep, you are capable of being very mischievous. Tonight: Be a wild thing.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★ Make calls and run errands in the morning. You might want some personal time by the afternoon. A loved one could try to get you to go along with his or her plans. Remember that you need to take good care of yourself. Tonight: Nap, then decide.

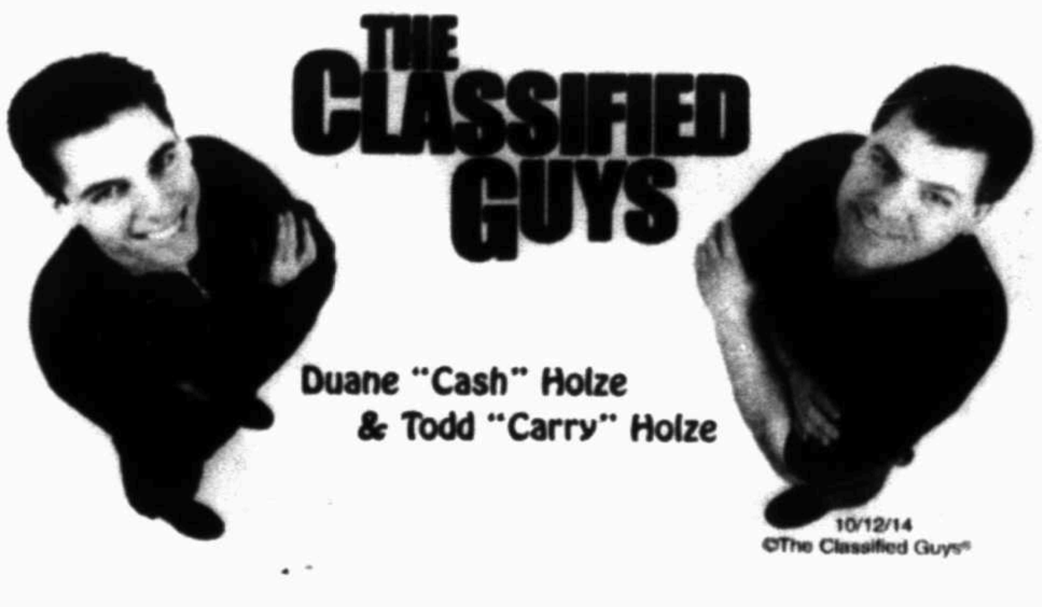
Ask the Guys



Dear Classified Guys,
When my parents dropped me off at college, my mom couldn't wait to get home and convert my room into a home gym. For four summers I slept on a pull-out sofa. Now that I graduated and have a small place of my own, my mom is cleaning out the attic to make a sewing & knitting room. She dropped off a dozen overflowing boxes of memories for me to store. As I sifted through them, I found dozens of VHS tapes of my youth. She filmed just about every minute of every birthday, pee-wee soccer game and off-key grade school concert I was in as a kid. I definitely don't have room to store all these, but hate the idea of tossing them. I see ads in the classifieds where people can convert tapes to DVD, but can't tell if this is a good idea. Can I trust someone with these one-of-a-kind memories?

Carry: Your mom certainly knows how to keep busy. Eventually she'll run out of rooms to convert, unless she moves your dad to the garage!

Cash: You are fortunate to have such a collection of videos from your youth. Despite how off-key you might be in those school plays, you'll probably appreciate the keepsakes more and more as you get older.

Carry: The good news is that as technology changes, keeping those memories is getting smaller and easier! Storing slim DVDs, for instance, is much simpler than storing the bulky VHS tapes. And if you convert the DVD's to files that store on your computer, it would take up practically no space at all.

Cash: Converting your VHS tapes to DVD can be a great idea and worth the small investment. Not only will it save you space, but it will help preserve the video's quality. Extreme temperatures can easily damage VHS tapes. Plus, with DVDs it would be much easier to fast forward through the pee-wee soccer game to the highlights.

Carry: Converting VHS to DVD is fairly straightforward. There are even some consumer VCR/DVD combinations that can do the process for you. Generally speaking, there is very little risk of losing your video memories.

Cash: When you are done, you'll be left with DVDs that should fit in your apartment no matter how small it is.

Carry: And it sounds like the added room will come in handy. You never know when your mom will drop off the sweaters she will make in her new sewing and knitting room!

Voltage Change

Can you image life without electronic gadgets? Not many of us can. However, the engineering of such devices is still relatively new in the course of history. It was only 250 years ago that electricity was even discovered and about 60 years ago that television was introduced. Now we're working with high-definition, fiber-optics and satellite communication. With technology changing so rapidly, just image what could happen in the next ten years.

Coming and Going

There is a term back in fashion these days called, "Boomerang Kids." It's used to describe recent college graduates and other young adults who "Boomerang" or move back in with their parents. According to survey statistics, nearly 50% of graduates said they planned to move home with their parents for at least a little while after college. Over 40% of the previous years graduates were still at home. With unemployment still high for 20 to 24-year-olds, it looks like parents may be holding off on converting that extra room.

Snapshot

My parents try to keep up with modern technology, but fall a little short. When I got a computer for my house, they bought one too hoping to send email back and forth. It's now a year later, and they still haven't figured email out.

So after my daughter's birthday party I mailed my parents a CD-ROM of the pictures. Before sending it, I put a label on the CD showing my daughter's picture and the caption "Birthday Memories".

A few weeks later when I visited them, I noticed the CD was inside a picture frame on the coffee table. Not sure why, I pointed to the frame and asked, "What is this?"

I realized a few more computer lessons were needed when my dad replied, "Oh, that's the birthday picture you sent us."

(Thanks to Amy C.)
