Move Started To Cut Ten Million Acres Of Cotton

Monday Marks Start Of Campaign For Eliminating Vast Acreage

To Offer Cash

Plan To Either Give Cash Payment Or Use Option Policy On Futures

Secretary Wallace Monday issued a call for the destruction of 10 million acres of growing cotton in a long-limbed experiment to retard production and reduce the potential surplus of the South's big money crop.

The secretary announced that maximum processing taxes—about 4.1 cents a pound on the basis of present price relationships—would be levied beginning August 1 to finance the program under which growers will be asked to plow up portions of their crop in return for rental benefit payments and the right to obtain options on government-owned cotton.

A campaign will be started in the South next Monday when growers will be asked to sign contracts to rent cotton lands at from $6 an acre up, depending on the average past yields and estimated production of the land this year.

May Take Cash

The farmer can either offer to take an outright cash payment for plowing up portions of his crop or can take a smaller rental and obtain in addition an option on about 2,100,000 bales in an amount equal to the estimated output of the land he retires from production.

These options will be offered him at six cents a pound or nearly three cents below the current market price. He may order these options exercised at any time up to next January, his profit being the difference between the six cents and the price cotton is selling for at the time he sells.

Cooperation Is Factor

Wallace said operation of the whole plan was contingent upon the degree of cooperation shown by growers during the week's campaign to obtain contracts.

Unless Wallace is certain that he can take a large amount of cotton out of production equivalent to at least 2,000,000 bales production, he is not prepared to proceed further with the plan.

However, he indicated that he was confident of the success of the campaign and his associates and there was virtually no doubt but that the plan would be employed and that about $100,000,000 would be distributed in rentals to growers in the next few months.

Use $54,000,000

Wallace will use about $54,000,-

Fondness For Calf Caused Mule To Kick Swearingen Man

The fondness of a mule for a little calf this week led to injuries for Claud White, who works in the Swearingen community for B. F. Horton.

The mule for some unknown reason defied the generally accepted hatred of mules for calves and took it upon himself to protect a small calf in the Horton lot. The mule was ever on the lookout for the welfare of the calf and as White passed near the calf with a bucket of slop, which he expected to feed the hogs, the mule mistaking White's intentions, landed a neatly aimed blow on the man's face, which was evidently all a mule could do.

White, who now believes any mule to be a suspicious character, says he will certainly take every precaution next time he is around a mule that starts playing caretaker to a calf. His injuries, although painful, are not thought to be serious.

Dodsonville Boy Will Have Chance At State Honors

Walter Fred Hill Wins North Plains District Public Speaking Title

State Meet

Will Compete In State Meet At Huntsville August 1—2 For State Title

Walter Fred Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Hill of Dodsonville, was selected, through a contest held at the Shamrock High School June 9, to represent the North Plains district of Future Farmers in the State Public Speaking Contest to be held in Huntsville on August 1 and 2.

The contest is national in scope and following the state contest there will be four regional contests held in different sections of the United States, and winners from each of the four regions will compete for national honors in Kansas City in November. Each of the four boys going to the national contest will receive prizes as follows: first place, $300; second place, $200; third place, $150; fourth place, $100. All expenses are paid by the national organization.

Hopes that Walter Fred Hill may capture the state championship are seen by the people of Dodsonville and this county, who feel that he has already accomplished an enviable record in winning over representatives from such towns as Amarillo, Pampa, Dalhart and other larger towns.

The Future Farmer organization is national in scope, being limited to boys who study vocational agriculture in the United States.

The Dodsonville School has had vocational agriculture for only one year and they expect to secure one and one-half units affiliation in the work this year.

Frank Deupree, instructor, holds a high record of achievements during the time that he has been teaching vocational agriculture, and before going to Dodsonville, his class of boys at Wheeler won the state terracing contest for this district in 1931.

Seven Arrested For Petty Crimes During Past Week

Six men were arrested on charges of drunkenness here and one negro was charged with having stolen chickens this week.

Three of the arrests were made Saturday night and the other three were made Sunday night. Two of the men were also charged with fighting, according to V. L. Williams, deputy.

The negro was arrested by City Marshal Paul Hardy in connection with the chicken theft. Ed Plyor and Mr. Williams made the arrests of the other six men.

County Council Plans Round-Up

Announcement was made this week that plans are going forward toward the holding of a County Round-Up for farm women of this county, sponsored by the County Council.

The arrangements for the Round-Up are under the supervision of Mrs. Claude Whitfield, vice president of the council, and have not been completed in detail as yet, but indications show that the meeting will be held in August.

In addition to the attendance of the regular members and interested women and girls over the county, the council members expect several visitors from College Station and a discussion of problems faced by the council. The meeting will begin at noon and will extend until about 10 o'clock in the evening.

HEARNS TOUR MEXICO

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hearn returned Sunday after an extended tour in which they visited in South Texas and Mexico.

County Crops Ahead Of 1932 Stand

Crops of this county are, in general, 30 days ahead of the crops at this time in 1932 and hopes for an unusually good yield are expressed by farmers over the county.

The north and west portions of the county are the hardest hit and are suffering considerably from damages resulting from numerous sand storms, hot winds and lack of rain. Many crops in these sections have been replanted, however, and the yield depends largely on future rains.

Although well advanced, many of the crops are exceptionally weedy and the past week has seen farmers busy cutting weeds.

Scout Charters To Be Presented In Joint Meeting

Kiwanis Club, American Legion, And Boy Scout Troops Meet Friday

At a joint meeting of the Kiwanis Club and the American Legion Friday night, June 23, the charters and identification cards will be presented to the two Wellington Boy Scout troops and to the leaders of the two troops.

The charters and cards were delivered to the organization from Pampa, headquarters from this district and are the connecting link between the Wellington troops and the national Boy Scout headquarters.

At the same time a large first aid kit will be presented to the Wellington Scouts for having won the attendance contest at the camp in Nature Park several weeks ago. The scouts won this kit in competition with a large number of troops and district leaders highly praised the work being accomplished by the two troops in Wellington.

The joint meeting will be attended by Kiwanis members, Legion members and members of the two scout troops. Refreshments will be served at the meeting, and a discussion of the work and possibilities offered through scouting here will also hold attention. An-

Farmers Gin Co. Pays Dividends

Announcement was made this week that the Farmer's Gin Company declared $2,300 in dividends for the past year. In addition to the dividends, which were 10 per cent of the capital stock and among the few dividends declared in this county or section of the Panhandle, the gin also installed $3,000 worth of new machinery last fall.

The following officers were also announced: President, M. F. Hunter; Vice-president, J. C. Coe; Secretary-treasurer, A. V. Cocke; Directors, M. F. Hunter, J. H. Vice, J. H. Barton, B. G. Glenn, V. C. Cole, J. C. Coe and A. V. Cocke.

Pruden Moves To New Location On East Side Square

The Pruden Drug Store moved Wednesday to their new location, three doors north of the First National Bank on the east side of the square.

The building has been completely remodelled and contains new window displays and arrangements. The front part of the building houses the drug store and the rear part is occupied by the office of Dr. John W. Harper, who also moved in this week.

Mr. Pruden came to Wellington January 20, 1932, and since that time has operated his store on the east side of the square.

Expect To Open Childress Road Around July 15

Paving To Be Completed From Childress To Red River Middle Of July

Projects Favored

Early Letting Hoped On Collingsworth Projects North To Wheeler Line

Hopes for an early letting on the gap between Salt Fork river and the Wheeler County line, the Salt Fork river bridge and paving from Wellington to the Childress county line were under consideration this week and no definite action has been reported by Senator Clint C. Small, who has been in Austin since Monday negotiating with the state department for a letting on the projects.

That the projects are on the preferred list, however, was indicated by a statement from the commission today in which they favored the completion of all existing highways before adding any more new roads to the system and action was deferred on all applications for new designations.

Paving has already started from Childress to the Red River bridge on the south and this project is to be completed by July 15, according to C. L. Hasie, resident engineer, who stated that the south end of the road from Wellington to the bridge would also be open by July 15, this giving a direct passage over the new road from Wellington to Childress with the road paved from Red river into Childress. The letting of the paving project between the river and the Collingsworth county, however, would delay travel over this section.

All bridges and grading, including the two large bridges which span Buck Creek and Red river are now completed and the road from Wellington to Childress is ready to be paved, subject to the letting of contracts by the highway department, Mr. Hasie said.

The clearing of the right-of-way situation across this county should affect a letting as soon as the

Seven Persons Leave This Week For World's Fair

With more than a score of persons from this county planning to attend the World's Fair in Chicago, seven left during the past week and a number of others expect to leave this month.

Miss Ruth Boarman, Miss Hattie D. Wells, Miss Robbie Wells, Mrs. Fred Boyd, and Mrs. J. G. Nesbit left Sunday for Chicago on a special excursion train from Wichita Falls. Miss Clara Castleberry and Miss Nora Cocke left Thursday from Shamrock and will attend Northwestern University during the summer months and visit the fair.

Relief Work Is Again Started

Relief work continued here this week as 50 men were employed from Wellington and 20 men from Lutie, Dozier and Quail were given work Monday.

The Wellington men have been working on the Wellington-Memphis road under the supervision of the commissioners court, cleaning streets in Wellington and in the new cemetery, west of town.

The work started Monday morning and will be continued throughout the week, Miss Katherine Boverie said. The work was started upon the receipt of $1,900 in relief funds, $600 of which came as a special June allotment from Washington for this county and $1,300 as the final payment on the May funds. Miss Boverie said she did not know whether there would be another allotment for June or not and that no definite information had been sent concerning the funds for June.

Jail Negroes Work Roads; Emancipation Day Means Little

June 19 may not have been a big day for the colored people of Wellington, but plenty of housewives are wishing the Emancipation Day would not fall on Monday, which is generally accepted as wash day in West Texas.

Several other ladies reported that their cooks were A. W. O. L. celebrating the occasion.

Little disturbance resulted from the Juneteen celebration in Wellington, however, due to the fact that the negroes went to Shamrock, where an Emancipation Day barbecue and celebration were held.

Two negroes in the county jail spent the day working on the road—and said that Emancipation Day meant very little to them. Another negro was added to the road list Tuesday morning after he was placed in jail for celebrating the occasion by drinking beer openly at a ball game in Dodsonville.

Teachers Attend Summer Schools

Teachers in the Dodsonville Schools are spending their vacations in numerous fashions, the most popular of which is attending school during the summer months. Each of the teachers have been re-elected and plan to return to the Dodsonville schools next year.

W. V. Swinburne, superintendent and math instructor, is attending the State Teacher's College at Denton.

S. H. Thompson, principal and science teacher, is also attending Teacher's College at Denton.

Frank Deupree, vocational agriculture instructor, is spending the summer months in Dodsonville and carrying on his work. Mr. Deupree expects to have a few weeks vacation toward the end of the summer.

Miss Ruth Boarman, history and Spanish, is attending the World's Fair in Chicago.

Miss Celia South, English, is studying at Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., this summer.

Miss Vivian Davis, grade teacher; Miss Sybie Camp, grades; Miss Auga Dawson, grades are all attending school in Oklahoma.

Mrs. W. F. Roberts, grades, is spending the summer months with her husband on their farm north of Wellington.

Library Receives Books For Texas Shelf This Week

The county library this week received 20 new books for the Texas shelf. The books vary in contents and include a number of volumes concerning early Texas and conditions. Several books by Ruth Cross, J. Frank Dobie and other contemporary authors are also included in the collection.

One of the books which will prove among the most popular is the story of J. Frank Norfleet, famous detective.

The shipment also included a large number of books for small children with several volumes of nursery rhymes.

The books were donated by the 1924 Study Club, which organization is sponsoring the Texas shelf.

Officials Select County Projects For Federal Plan

Application For Money To Build Roads, Gas Plant And Pool Tenative

To Aid State

Fill In Application Merely To Aid Government In Determining Total

The city and county this week considered tentative plans for the application of money to build a municipal gas plant, extend the water system, construct a swimming pool and build up the lateral roads across this county. Applications for these funds will be sent to Lawrence Westbrook, director of the federal public works-industrial program by June 24.

None of the projects have been definitely accepted by either the county or city officials, however, and even if the money is available for these projects their construction is still probable. Officials stated that they were making the applications for tentative projects to help the state secure a larger amount or the federal funds.

The construction of a municipal gas plant is not probable, city officials said, due to the fact that the federal funds are not being distributed for the purpose of creating competitive businesses. Similiar information is being filed by political subdivisions throughout the nation to let the government know how much aid will be requested and the types of work wanted.

Further explanation of the federal acts were heard by the Commissioners Court, the City Council and Chamber of Commerce at a meeting held in Childress, Thursday.

T. W. Hanlon, Jr., personal representative of Mr. Westbrook has briefly explained the situation as follows: "Title 11 of the measure known as the National Industrial Recovery Act is to be the President's ungloved knockout blow at the depression. The act puts $3,-300,000,000 in the President's fist for this specific purpose.

Soft Ball League Organized Here

Interest in play-ground ball this week took a definite form as a soft ball league was organized here and flood lights were erected just south of the high school building to enable night games.

The league at present includes teams representing the North Texas and West Texas Utilities Companies, Fire Department, Boy Scouts, and a Neighborhood Team. Several Sunday School classes and other organizations are also planning to form teams in the near future.

The teams consist of ten players on each side and follow practically the same rules as are applied to regular baseball. The soft ball fad has spread over West Texas and several surrounding towns have teams with which the local league expects to match games this summer.

Loco High School To Graduate First Class From New Building On July 7

Commencement exercises for five graduates from the Loco High School will be held Friday evening, July 7, at 8:30 o'clock, according to the announcement of B. F. Kirk, principal, today. The class will be the first to graduate from the new Loco school building which was completed in November, 1932.

The closing of school was delayed by the construction of the building and the fact that the school did not open until December 1. The graduates are Glenn Thompson, Goldie Sanders, Mary Ruth King, Bessie Stout, and Cecil Elbert.

On the same night graduation exercises will be held for 11 students who will complete their eighth grade work and a series of plays and school programs will be presented Wednesday and Thursday nights.

TOLERANCE GROWING

Most informed observors will agree that in recent years a growing spirit of religious tolerance has been manifested in the world, especially in the United States. It is not unusual to find Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen appearing on the same platform in aid of some worthy movement.

In recent months representatives of these three great bodies of religionists have united in mass meetings and elsewhere to protest against the persecution of Jews by the Hitler regime in Germany.

But an incident hitherto without precedent occurred a few days ago in Cincinnati, when Rabbi James G. Heller of the Center Temple Jewish congregation of that city was elected a director of the Cincinnati and Hamilton County Y. M. C. A. A Jewish official of a Christian welfare society!

And why not? Rabbi Heller, according to the Cincinnati Star, "has so identified himself with the community life of this city that it is quite impossible for any unprejudiced observer to compile a list of its cultural and religious leaders without including this distinguished rabbi among the leaders."

The Ohio Y. M. C. A. organization is to be congratulated on its religious tolerance and good common sense.

A GREAT PUBLISHER DIES

Cyrus H. K. Curtis of Philadelphia, who started his business career at the age of 12 with three cents of capital as a street newsboy, and became one of the world's greatest publishers, died a few days ago at the age of 83.

Born in Portland, Me., in 1850, Mr. Curtis received only a common school education. His first publishing venture was launched in Philadelphia at the age of 26, when he became publisher of a small periodical called the Tribune and Farmer. Later he established Ladies' Home Journal, and afterward became head of the great Curtis Publishing Company, whose mazagines include Saturday Evening Post, The Country Gentleman and Ladies Home Journal.

He purchased the Philadelphia Public in 1913, and the New York Evening Post in 1923, and was the active head of all these important publications until he was stricken with heart disease about a year before his death.

He was widely known as a philanthropist, although his benefactions were bestowed without ostentation. His only daughter became the wife of the late famed editor, Edward Bok, who was associated with Mr. Curtis for many years.

Few men who started to make their way with limited education and no capital have ever traveled farther than Cyrus Hermann Kotzschmar Curtis.

USEFUL EDUCATION

Those who criticize the cost of education in this country almost always direct their charges against the money spent for what they call frills and unnecessary extras.

No one anywhere raises criticism against the cost of giving our young people sound training in fundamentals, but it seems easy for educators in many cases to get away from the essentials and to waste at least part of their pupils' time on unnecessary or profitless subjects.

It is interesting consequently to hear from Madison, Wis., that a model house is under construction there, sponsored by the public school home economics department. The instructor and the students in one high school planned the furnishings of the living-dining room. Other students were held responsible for planning and purchasing the furnishings of the kitchen and laundry.

For these two rooms the expense was limited to $200. As showing how sensibly the pupils did their buying, it is reported that a household washing machine was the one large piece of electrical equipment allowed in the budget for the entire house. The students explained that this was chosen in preference to any other large equipment because they felt that the housewife could make her greatest savings in home operation by doing the washing in the house and with machinery.

Practical training such as these Madison students are being given and such as many individuals do not receive until they are pitched into the midst of household responsibilities, is the kind of education that every thoughtful taxpayer will approve.

THE HIGH FLYERS

Practical air navigation at altitudes of eight miles or more is predicted for the not very distant future by conservative aircraft engineers, and actual plans for such development are being seriously considered, according to Popular Science.

At least two aviators have already attained an altitude of approximately eight miles, at which the temperature is between 60 and 70 degrees below zero. By means of balloons it has been determined that beyond this altitude it does not get any colder, so the problem of temperature might be readily solved.

Owing to the rarity of the atmosphere at such heights an artificial supply of oxygen is necessary and such has been carried by the pioneers in exploring the upper air. This rare atmosphere also presents another problem, in that resistence to the airplane propellor is reduced, making more powerful motors necessary in order to keep the craft aloft. This does not appear to be an insuperable difficulty.

A young German engineer proposes to build a plane to navigate these upper reaches of the air at a speed of more than 650 miles an hour. Recently the famous plane designer, Sikorskj, predicted "a new type of airplane with highly supercharged motors and an inclosed cabin with air kept under approximately normal pressure to permit flying at high altitudes with speeds of say 400 to 500 or more miles an hour."

Sold Bad Eggs, Man Builds Up Flock Of Own

DALHART, Tex.—A flock average egg production of 225 eggs per hen, compared with the seventy-two eggs yearly laid by the average farm hen, will be made by William B. Wagner's English White Leghorn pullets which came into production last October, it is expected. Disguested with the purchase of a dozen rotten eggs four years ago, Mr. Wagner went into the poultry business as a side line but was able to make 100 per cent profit on 7c eggs this spring by using modern methods of housing and feeding.

Mr. Wagner has just completed an expansion program, first step toward a commercial breeding and egg plan. His seventy-five pullets will be eligible for pedigrees November 1 and he is getting fifteen pedigreed cockerels for breeding next year to give his chicks individual pedigrees. By fall he will have 350 laying pullets, continuing trap nesting to build up pedigreed hens.

WELLINGTON People . . . Places . . . Philosophy

By Jimmie Gillentine

The Best Story of the past week took place at the Ritz preview Saturday night—and although it may not sound so good on paper, it was really a scream.

BEST STORY OF THE WEEK

A young man sitting near the back of the show on the south side of the building had evidently indulged in a bottle or so of this new three-point-two beer and was feeling good. His enthusiasm led him, at frequent intervals to make "wise-cracks" aloud concerning the picture. At one certain point in the picture a lady was canning some mincemeat to display at the State Fair—and lifted the spoon to her lips to sample the delicacy.

"Is it good?" asked the young man, lifting his voice so it might be heard over the entire back part of the theatre.

—and the lady in the picture replied, as if in conversation, "It sure is fine."

Nearly everyone in the show burst out with a loud laugh and the young man finally got up and walked out of the show feeling, no doubt, somewhat crestfallen.

MORE PROOF OF PHILOSOPHY

News also comes of a farmer whose place lay right in the line of an approaching railway survey and the company was anxious to conciliate the old man. The diplomatic agent went out to see him, and finally thinking to cinch the matter, said: "Our company offers you $500 in cash and $1,000 worth of stock to let them cross your farm.

"No Siree," replied the farmer, "I don't want no railroad running across my place. Fust thing I know they'll be a'killin my livestock and then making me pay fur them as a stockholder."

A lot of people have been trying to tell me during last week that George Anders was right about his cure for Chickenpox, but I have not found one yet that does not agree with me that it would be a poor cure for Cowpox.

TOO MUCH FOR THE FLIES

If anyone in the community is bothered with flies I wish they would notify me and I will try to help them get rid of the pesky varmints. You probably remember my complaining in this column that the flies around the Leader office were terrible. That really didn't make much difference, but the next week Deck happened to be down here one night and afther they attacked him; he wrote them up in his Didactics. You can just believe it or not, but those flies have all left since he wrote them up in his column. I wouldn't think a fly would care a speck for publicity, but it evidently was too much for them and they left rather than bear the ridicule and scorn of the public after such an incident. Off hand you would not think a common fly had that much pride. As I have said before, however, these were not common flies.

BUY YOUR OVERCOATS NOW!

As little as some people would believe it, right now is the best time in the world to buy an overcoat. Of course the clerk might think that you were crazy if you walked in and asked to see some of his nicest overcoats, but they would certainly be cheap. That's my guess and I learned it from observing women, who have it all over the men in a lot of ways when it comes to being smart. Women buy furs in the summer, which was one of the best ideas that I know of when it first started. But they ran it into the ground. They got so they couldn't wait until winter to wear the furs—and right last Sunday I saw a woman walking down the street here in Wellington wearing a fur. Well, when the women started wearing the furs in the summer the merchants naturally figured them for easy marks and started charging more for the furs—but the idea was a good one when it started.

Another good idea I have learned from watching women buy is how to purchase hosiery. Did you ever notice that women always buy three pair of the same color of hose at one time. This is going to be news to a lot of men, but the women have a good motive. When one of the stockings wears out in two pair of the hose, they just replace them with the extra pair and thus make a pair of hose free.

BILL HOUSE IS STUMPED

It is surprising just how few people know the age of Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the first lady of the land. No one seems to know exactly and the guesses range from 32 to 58 years. Sandy Parsons said Bill House would know and Bill said he didn't know, but he would guess about 45, which should not be far from wrong. If anyone knows the answer to this one, I wish they would please let me know.

Make Perfect Coffee . . . EVERY TIME . . . with These Automatic "Electrical Servants"

Authorities agree that the only perfect coffee is real French Drip Coffee. This is because a perfect brew requires three very definite things. First, that coffee grounds and water should come in contact but once. . . . Second, that the contact should be of about 3½ minutes duration. . . . Third, that the water used in coffee-making should not be boiled, but maintained at a temperature about 16 degrees below the boiling point. When these three definite things are done, the result is a smooth, rich flavor . . . a clear, sparkling amber color . . . and an intriguing, appetite-awakening aroma.

Here are two appliances that enable you to make perfect coffee EVERY TIME! The Manning-Bowman French Drip Coffee Urn, and the Hotpoint Coffee-Maker automatically assure the perfection of all your coffee. No embarrassing failures . . . no disgusting "dishwater" coffee . . . none that would "float an egg." You'll have perfect coffee every time through the automatic perfection of these modern "Electrical Servants."

Specially priced, for a limited time only, you'll find one of these modern appliances an absolute necessity in your home. Like all electrical appliances, too, they may save money for you—for this modern way requires less coffee to produce a wonderful brew. Ask any employe for a demonstration TODAY. Convenient terms if desired!

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

TROOP I

Dewey Ellis, Scoutmaster; S. G. Henry, Assistant; Marvin Somerville, Assistant.

TROOP II

Bennett Bond, Scoutmaster; Charley Lowry, Assistant; Ben Hurst, Assistant.

The Boy Scouts this past week end enjoyed a hike to the caves but some of the scouts had a little trouble in holding out for the long 16 mile walk. The boys also ran out of water and had to drink gyp water until Mr. Ellis arrived with 20 gallons of city water.

One of the most eventful phases of the hike was the four mile walk to the swimming hole three times each day. They were also thrilled as a large headrise came down the river and spent much time exploring the entrance to the caves.

A bob-cat was sighted during the trip and added more interest to the hike. The cat was watering early in the morning near one of the cave entrances. Only two rattlesnakes were seen, but the boys saw several mountain boomers and killed many of them with their their nigger-shooters. They also saw plenty of large lizzards, monkey faced owls, buzzards and coyote cubs.

Henry Sullivan was the authority on bird observance and named 25 different varieties. The camp was visited by Scout Masters, Bennett Bond, Charley Lowry, and Dewey Ellis.

Scouts who made the hike were: Paige Wilson, Mooney Stall, Morris Hopson, D. M. Blanton, Junior Glasgow, Robert Strong, Eddie Strong, C. C. Williams, Joe Langford, Burton Love, Wayne Jackson, Harry Lee Roy, J. P. Clark, Kennard Smith, Bud Scruggs, Silas Henry, John Roy Noles, Henry Sullivan, Robert Scott, Clifford Dickerson, and Billy Massey of Hollis.

The Cubs will go on a hike and spend the night out Saturday night.

TOO MUCH CONCENTRATION

Elementary psychology points to the fact that too much concentration on a given subject defeats its purpose. Every one who has had the experience of a good night's sleep upon a difficult problem knows how easily the work goes on when resumed. Often the solution which avaded one simply pops into the mind then.—Exchange.

Porcine Prowlers Too Much For Law

ARCHER CITY, Tex.—A "prowler" that had attracted Constable Tom Rowlett got the best of the investigation, the officer admitted recently as he recovered at his home here.

With a mighty grunt and a terrific dash the prowler dashed from a clump of bushes on which Rowlett threw his light.

Too late Rowlett realized he had invaded the sanctuary of a mother sow and her new-born litter.

He stumbled and fell in his effort to escape. The enraged animal pounced upon him, broke the officer's arm and left severe gashes with her tusks.

A COMPANY THIRTY YEARS OLD

Last Friday the Ford Motor Company completed 30 years of automobile making.

It is also my fortieth year at the same job. I made my first engine in 1893, and it still runs. This is the engine that won the Selden Patent Suit---which took the motor car out of the exclusive class, and opened the automobile industry to hundreds of manufacturers who started during the last 30 years.

Some of the men who began with me that June day in 1903, are working here yet. All of the principles we laid down then, are still operative; we find that they have great survival value for the future. To date they have produced and sold over 21,000,000 Ford cars.

Although we created the automobile market we have never thought it was good for anyone to monopolize it. We have always believed that before business could be good for one, it must be good for all. Our discoveries and improvements have always been open to other manufacturers without patent restrictions.

Of course, there is one thing we cannot share---everyone must get it for himself---and that is experience. Money could duplicate our buildings and machines, but it cannot duplicate 40 years of experience. And it is experience that makes a motor car.

But the past does not especially concern me; it has all been a preparation for the future. For myself, I feel that I have just been gathering the tools to do something worth while, and that my real task is still ahead.

Great changes are upon the world. False ideas of every kind are vanishing in the general upheaval. Those who built truly on principle will survive---their service will carry over. Business integrity and commodity honor will be fully justified. And newer and better ways of living will appear.

That is the outlook for this young thirty-year old Company of ours.

Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

Last week I was down at Mineral Wells. They had a rain and it was cool, but mercy how I wanted to hear from Wellington. Friday morning I expected to get The Leader and it didn't come and I paced the floor. I had an assortment of papers from the New York Times on down, but they didn't have anything about Wellington in them. What I wanted was some real news. And by the way, The Leader is not the best weekly paper in the state of Texas this year, but it is the second best. The paper at San Marcos edited by Walter Buckner was judged the best all round paper in Texas. Naturally I would have liked for ours to have been first, but coming out second is not so bad when you consider that there are something like 700 papers in Texas most of which are weeklies. Furthermore the judges said that there was only one point difference between that excellent paper at San Marcos and The Leader.

B. F. Snell has been down there for over two weeks, and I am sure that all of his friends in Wellington will be glad to know that he is improving. It is slow and he will have to stay down there longer than he thought at first, but he is definitely on the mend. There is something else I want to tell on Mr. Snell. He was invited out to one of those old fashioned Sunday singings where hospitality reigns supreme, where they eat all day and sing on the ground or something. Anyway friendliness and food are the big words. Well, he and three other men drove out, and they heard the singing all right, but the man who invited them out didn't show up and nobody asked them to eat. Finally they drove down the road a little way and bought enough ice cream to give them strength enough to get back to town. That is what the hospitality of the old West has come to. Why those people down there in the oak woods think they are in West Texas is more than I can see. If this thing keeps up, West Texas will soon extend to the Gulf.

C. C. Bell is also down at Mineral Wells. He is down there to take off some pounds, and Mr. Snell is there to put on some pounds, and they are both there to try to get their stomachs in better shape. I wasn't down there for any reason at all that I can figure out, and I was as restless as a cow with a bunch of dogs chasing her young calf. When I started home I felt like a great load had been suddenly lifted from my shoulders.

About the time school was out I wrote something about the graduates and the let down that was in store for them when they found out what they were up against. Now I want to say something equally as frank to the people with whom they will associate after they get out of school. We don't do right by the graduates that come back home to try to make a living. I know what I am talking about from personal experience, for I went through it nine years ago. We try to make it as hard on them as possible. We want them to prove themselves before we give them an even break. I am just as guilty as any of the rest of you, for I am also prejudiced against the egotistic attitude that graduates seem to have. It is really not that as much as it is a mixture of high hopes and a sense of inexperience that they instinctively cloak with a touch of superiority. It is only human nature for them to do it. And after all it is our fault and our own doing. Since they were little tots we have drilled into them the idea of education being the most desirable thing a person could have, but we did not take the trouble to point out that it is a life long activity and that education and schooling are not necessarily the same thing. Neither did we take the trouble to point out that a man may have either one and not have the other. A person may be educated and not have much schooling, and a person may have been to school and not have very much education. Ordinarily, however, school attendance helps considerably.

With these things in mind, it is easy to realize that we are giving them the supreme double cross when we try to make it hard for them when they come back home. And they are coming back home from now on more than ever before. There are too many experienced men and women in the larger places, for them to have much of a chance elsewhere. Their best opportunity is at home in most instances. And we need those young people. We need that new blood in our community life. For long the best young men and young women have been attracted to the larger cities. It has left us with the old and with the indifferent to carry on the work of building a community. But there is a revolution under way in this country right now. There is no reason to be alarmed. The basic part of it has already happened. Whether you realize it yet or not, the agricultural communities are being restored. Therefore I say from now on our young men and young women will be coming back home. They may be terribly deficient in practical experience, but they have something we need—hope, ambition, energy and enterprise. We may not be able to help them materially, but the least we can do is to give them a warm welcome and let them know that we are glad they have come back home to live.

Here is some heartening news. American cotton mills consumed more cotton in May than in any month since October, 1929. The Census Bureau recently announced that they required 620,909 bales in May as compared to 332,372 bales consumed in May last year and a sharp increase over the April figure of 470,585 bales. All of us are anxiously watching the cotton crop and the cotton market, not knowing exactly what to expect. A crop that is much larger than the average will counteract the effects of inflation to some extent, but the price will still be better than it was last year no matter how abundant the production. A short crop will mean ten cent cotton or better this fall. And the thing we are interested in is the price this fall. What the price is now does not help many of us except that it gives us confident hopes.

EFFECTS OF X-RAY

Exposure of the male cells of the tobacco plant to X-rays for various lengths of time produces wide variations in the product of the seed, causing in some instances the growth of giant plants.

TOWNS WITHOUT RAILROADS

The Interstate Commerce commission says that out of 125,000 cities, towns and villages in the United States, 45,000 either have no rail service at all or lack a freight station. They are served by motor bus and truck lines.

Character Of Children Said To Form Early

AUSTIN, Tex.—According to the State Department of Health a child's habits are responsible, in a large measure, for their mental actions in later life. A child of five or six years may have a bad temper. He can be taught as he grows older, to exercise self control so that it will not often be manifested. It would be better for him though if he had acquired a good temper instead of a bad one.

Now is understood better than before the enduring influence of habits that begin in the earliest years of life, in the nursery, or even in the cradle. In the young child, as a result of habit, certain types of behavior become established.

Perhaps the child had learned while yet an infant, that he could get what he wanted if he cried long and loud enough. Perhaps he had learned, when a little older, that bad behavior, as tantrums, screaming, rolling on the floor or sulking, brought him what he wanted after his request had been refused or ignored. If he had this experience once you may be sure he would repeat the action the next time the occasion arose. If he found that such actions did not bring the desired results he would not try it again.

Other behavior habits, good and bad, are acquired from imitating older children and adults. In this was many likes and dislikes, tastes and ambitions which in later years become crystalized into character habits have their beginning. Calmness and poise, as well as nervous and panicky behavior in the presence of an emergency, are nothing more than behavior habits established by imitation and made permanent by repetition. The elders are responsible far more than they realize for the conduct of the child in the family. In this we see a new meaning of the old adage, "As the twig is bent the tree is inclined."

Prince Ignores Royal Rights To Wed Cuban Beauty

The former Prince of the Asturias, who renounced his rights as heir to the Spanish throne, and the Cuban beauty, Edelmira Sampedro, were to have married this week in Ouchy, Switzerland.

Both the civil and church ceremonies will be public. High Spanish society will attend, but not the Royal family, it seems, since the former Prince received a letter from the Queen detailing complications and expressing disapproval of his marriage to a commoner.

This was contrary to previous reports which said the Queen was happy about it all despite the opposition of the exiled King Alfonso.

The ex-King's eldest son, who changed his name last week to the Count of Cavadonga, and his bride will spend a honeymoon of several weeks at Evian-Les-Bains, fashionable French resort on Lake Geneva.

Latest reports from Paris, near where Alfonso has been living in exile, said the former King was almost ready to change his mind and approve the marriage. The happiness of the young couple and the improvement in his son's health were said to be factors tending to alter his firm stand and it had been thought he might even attend the wedding.

Boy Hangs Self To Atone Death

NAIROBI, Kenya.—A strange story of the influence of tribal laws was told in the High Court at Nakuru, where seven elders of the Nandi tribe received sentences of from two to four years imprisonment on charges of counselling and aiding a 14-year-old boy to commit suicide.

The boy, who was herding goats, was playing with a pointed stock, throwing it as a spear, when it glanced off a tree and hit a playmate, who died. The elders decided that in accordance with custom the boy should pay blood money. As he was unable to pay, it was decided that he must commit suicide. The boy fled to the forest, but was captured, and a few days later was taken early in the morning to a tree. The elders then handed him a rope and told him to fasten it round his neck, climb the tree and jump. The boy obeyed and so hanged himself.

Unusual Lighting In General Motors World Fair Building

CHICAGO, June 21.—"The General Motors Building rears its bulk aloft, a giant shaft of gold," says one writer describing the magnificant panorama of the Century of Progress Exposition by night. With the Fair but a few days old, the General Motors Building is recognized as one of the most thrilling spectacles at night.

Three hundred and fifty flood and projector lamps bathe the orange, yellow, red, silver and blue building. The orange-gold tower is the focal point of attention, rearing its 177 foot height conspicuously into the many-hued heaven created by the genius of Joseph Urban, supervisor of color and lighting for the Century of Progress.

Exterior lighting of the General Motors Building alone consumes enough electricity per night to pump water for a city of 25,000 inhabitants, or to provide home and street lighting for a city of 7,500 inhabitants. An average of two million, three hundred thousand watts of electricity a day is used. Monthly consumption mounts to sixty-nine million watts. This is equal to 92,000 horsepower a month.

Approximately three times this amount of current is consumed in the interior of the giant structure for power in the Chevrolet-Fisher Body assembly plant and other action exhibits and to light the seven main rooms.

Little Doris June Bayless, in one of her many costumes, who is to appear on the Ritz stage Thursday, matinee and night. In the photo with her is her baby sister, Frances, eighteen months old, and she thinks she can do anything her "big" sister can do.

Famous Child Performer To Appear In Wellington

An Event That Will Appeal To Every Age Of Local Society

According to the Ritz management, no added attraction has been offered on the Ritz stage that will compare with the performance scheduled for Thursday, matinee and night, June 22. The special attraction is a personal appearance of little Doris June Bayless, child wonder, five years old and said to possess the mentality and poise of adult professionals. She is one of few her age that has ever achieved such tremendous success.

This Child Wonder Will Appear Twice Daily, One Special Matinee And Once At Night

Although this little performer is only five years old, she has amazed many audiences with her exceptional personality and diminutive grace and charms. She presents a routine of classic dances, the equal of only the highest class Big Time Vaudeville artists, with a degree of efficiency that will baffle her audience. She sings and reads without the aid of a prompter, having committed to memory several thousand words in the lines she speaks. Not all of her repritore will be given at this performance according to Manager Bonner, for it is said that she could stage an evening's performance all by her self.

Special Costumes And Lighting Effects

This dainty juvenile star appears in many gorgeous costumes, and her act is embellished by special lighting effects. The feature number of her repritore is an Adagio Dance Classic. She is supported in this number by Master Joe Bean, another extra-ordinary child personality, her studio dancing partner.

Studio Instructor Former Wellington Resident

Of special interest also, is the fact that this child wonder is a special student of a former Wellington teacher, Miss Crelola Richbourg, who taught in this city during 1920. She is now Mrs. Paul Vickers, conducting a studio that has turned out students which have gained national honors. Little Doris June is a special student by reason of her ability, taking not only the routine work of the studio, but devoting herself to special training that no other child her age receives. Master Joe Bean, her Adagio dancing partner, also receives special training, outside the regular routine of studio activities. These child performers will prboably add new laurels for Texas talent in theatrical circles during the next few years. Manager Bonner of the Ritz is proud of the fact that he gave this child wonder her first opportunity. She has appeared on the stage of theatres under his jurisdiction since she was eighteen months old. She headed a cast of twenty people for the gorgeous New Year's Eve Preview last year, where more than one thousand guests cheered her until she could do no more than come back with a bow, in appreciation of the honors.

Line Parties Given Special Consideration

The Ritz management announces that children's line parties will be given special consideration for the matinee performance on Thursday afternoon. All line parties of ten or more children will be admitted to the matinee, together with their sponsor, for five cents each. This special arrangement is designed to cooperate with local social interests, and Mr. Bonner assures patrons that every precaution will be taken to assist those cooperating in this movement.

Wellington Boy Tells Of Forestry Camp Experiences At Fort Sill

By JOHN HOLT

The life of a C. C. C. boy seems to be a happy one and everyone is having a good time. There are about 8,000 boys here at Ft. Sill and there are 220 boys in my company (No. 1806) but 20 were transferred this week to another company.

Our training includes several different kinds of muscular exercises each day; we also take two hikes a day and generally walk about four miles. We have been on special duty one day. This work included sawing wood, cutting weeds and clearing underbrush.

There are eleven boys in my company from Wellington. They are O. L. Scott, Oran Lemley, Alvis Hudson, Ray Hardin, Vernon Crossland, Ansel Hitchen, Cecil Boker, Jesse Caldwell, Johnnie Craig, Mark Hall, John Holt, and Joe E. King.

Our amusements include music, singing, dominoes, etc. We also have a recreation hall, where we can go and play games, read, listen to the radio and work jig-saw puzzles. We also get to go swimming every Sunday and quite a few of the boys are taking lots of kodak pictures. Another of our pastimes is watching the regular army companys at drill.

When the boys here do anything against the rules they put us on K. P. (kitchen police) duty. It is not an honorable—nor a pleasant—experience, and I know from having done it.

O. L. Scott, Oran Lemley, Cecil Baker and Alvis Hudson were on K. P. the other day and they had to peel so many spuds they can't look a potato in the eye now.

Yes Sir, every C. C. C. boy will have a lot of yarns to spin when he gets back home, but I will bet that Oran Lemley don't tell anyone how his O. D. pants fit him. We are all booked to leave for Turner Falls, Okla., this week.

Historic Pen Record Broken By Roosevelt

During the special session President Roosevelt has set a souvenir pen record.

Many Presidents have followed the custom of signing important bills with a pen to be preserved by some one or other because of its historic significance. Some have used two or three.

Mr. Roosevelt sometimes has used six or eight, signing his first name with one, the middle initial with another, the last name with a third. When he manages to use eight pens in a single signature the last one is used to cross the "t."

He thus has passed out three or four dozen historic pens already.

Broadcast Last Conoco Program

The summer yacht races on Grand Lake, Colorado, where it is more than a mile above sea level, hold a decided appeal for Carveth Wells, Continental Oil Company radio entertainer who on Wednesday, June 28, will devote his last broadcast of the season to a second description of the Columbine state.

Among other Colorado scenes which the famous globetrotter considers phenomenal are the mountain sunsets, the stone formations in the Garden of the Gods near Colorado Springs, Yampa canyon, the Great Sand Dunes in the San Luis valley, and Carbon Mountain, the peak that is shaking itself to pieces.

"Tourists who would like to see a real old fashioned gold rush should go up into the mountains near Canon City," says Wells. "Hundreds of excited people are busy panning the precious yellow metal there right now."

The Conoco program may be heard by local listeners who tune in on station WFAA, Wednesday night at 8:30.

State Department Moves To Eliminate Ring Worm Disease

AUSTIN, Tex.—A common disease, popularly known as Athletic's Foot, is due to a little mold-like growth or fungus. When this appears on any part of the body it is called ringworm. This fungus thrives best where there is moisture and warmth. Therefore the feet make an ideal place for the growth of this germ.

To have Athlete's Foot, you must get the infection from some one else directly or, more commonly, indirectly. The most common places to get the infection are around shower rooms, baths or bath houses, locker rooms, gymnasia and other places used by the public, where persons go barefoot. It is probable that at least one-half of all adults suffer from it at some time.

An individual affected with ringworm of the feet, or Athlete's Foot, should be most scrupulous about having his own towels and soap; and his socks, slippers and shoes should be worn by no one else. The use of light canvas slippers in dressing rooms would probably result in a decrease in this disease.

It has frequently been noted that those going to the seashore and exposing themselves to the sun and salt water often recover in a short time. This observation has lead to the use of ultra-violet light, and, under medical supervision, this remedy is often of great aid. Infected stockings, shoes and slippers should not be worn. The Texas State Department of Health urges everyone having this disease to visit their doctor and continue treatment until pronounced cured.

RESTRIKE OF COINS

A restrike is the stamping of a new design over the old design on a coin. This was often done in the early history of the country when Spanish coins were used, and the restrike simply indicated that the coin was an American rather than a Spanish coin.

He is making settlement for the cotton, which is under the control of the new farm credit administration at the rate of 9 1-2 cents a pound.

Wallace, in whose name the pool cotton will be held, may sell any portion of it he desires up to March 1, 1936, when the law requires that he must complete disposition of it.

Official Diversion

While fixing a 2,000,000 bale minimum, Wallace hopes to take out of production land capable of producing at least 3,000,000 bales.

When the contract offers to be gathered up during the campaign have been brought together, the official decision will be made as to which shall be accepted.

The campaign will be handled by extension workers and other agricultural officials and will involve contact with nearly 2,000,000 cotton producers. The drive will be conducted on a county basis with an effort made to distribute rental payments as widely as possible in order to make the money serve the purpose of widespread business stimulation.
