At the extreme right, County Attorney Robert J. Allen, left, and Senator G. H. Nelson, both of Lubbock, stand at attention at the Armistice Day program just before noon at the City Hall park. The observance was sponsored by local American Legionnaires and Veterans of Foreign Wars. Allen was master of ceremonies and Nelson made the principal address at the ceremony which climaxed the holiday parade.

Gains In Business Are To Continue

Good Recovery Signs Found

Experts Are Hopeful For An Upward Cycle In Business For Couple Of Years

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—Wall street and Washington economists, with few exceptions, are looking for continuing business recovery, at least into the spring, with prospects for further gains regarded as "good."

While there is general reluctance to try to look farther ahead than six months, some think the outlook for an upward cycle lasting "a couple of years" or more is very hopeful.

Progress To Continue

A canvass of candid, off-the-record opinion among expert business analysts, both in the federal administration, and in business and financial offices of Wall street, found a widespread expectation that the gaining momentum in heavy goods would carry on in the main, at least for several months, barring unforeseen upsets.

One of the government's veteran economists said:

"We have the best basis for stable recovery now that we have had since perhaps 1926. We have a reasonably balanced price structure. There is an absence of speculation which might throw things out of balance."

Workers Given Jobs

Washington sources interested chiefly in relief problems estimated that of some 3,000 workers (exclusive of agricultural) who lost their jobs in the slump starting in the spring of 1937, roughly a third have been re-employed.

These analysts regarded it as something more than a good guess that a million more will be back on payrolls by next spring, with a

Father Of Tech Student Is Claimed By Death Friday

Miss Mary Beth Tomlinson of Pendleton, journalism student in Texas Technological college, Friday received word that her father, R. G. Tomlinson, about 64, of Pendleton had died of a paralytic stroke. She is a junior at Tech.

Miss Tomlinson immediately went to Slaton after which she and a sister, Mrs. C. A. Porter of Slaton, left for Pendleton to attend funeral services.

Arrangements for funeral services were not known here Friday night.

Other than the two daughters, Tomlinson was said to be survived by his wife, Mrs. Mollie Tomlinson, and two grandchildren.

King And Queen To Confine U. S. Visit To Washington

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP)—The visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the United States next spring is likely to be confined to a stay in Washington, it was said in usually reliable quarters today.

There was said to be little likelihood of their majesties' going to New York and its world's fair because the invitation they accepted, that of President Roosevelt, was a personal one to visit him in Washington.

Offer Of $100 To Any Person Who Can Prove A Scientific Error In Bible Stands

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11 (AP)—An offer of $100 to any person who can prove a scientific error in the Bible has withstood the challenge of more than 2,000 persons over a 15-year period and the offer still stands, Dr. Harry Rimmer, of Duluth, Minn., said today.

Noted Political Boss Is Dead

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—John J. "Bathhouse" Coughlin, who served 46 years in the city council without the inconvenience of campaigns, was unseated today by death.

The career of this colorful caliph—ended by pneumonia in his 78th year—seemed almost incredible.

Old Political Boss

So did the philosophical and flamboyant "Big Jawn," one of the last political bosses of the checker-vested school.

He started as a rubber in a steam room patronized by tipplers of a two-fisted drinking era. He became alderman and ruler of one of the nation's wealthiest wards, "uncrowned king" of his loop bailiwick, owner of a string of race horses, poet laureate of the city hall, arbiter of fashions.

Rose From Fire's Ashes

Coughlin rose, like a florid Phoenix, from the ashes of the great Chicago fire. He saved his money, opened a Turkish bath. He met Michael "Hinky Dink" Kenna, keeper of a saloon, during the boisterous reconstruction period. Both were free-handed alms givers. They made many friends. They formed a Damon and Pythias political team within the Democratic ranks. They assumed control of the first ward. They had retained it ever since.

"The Bath" took his place in the

Philadelphian Was "Taken For Ride," But Turned Tables

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11 (AP)—Joseph Pugliese, 26, seized a pistol from one of three men he said "took him for a ride" today to a gangland "burial ground" on a city dump, and fired two shots which brought police in time to save his own life.

Pugliese, kept in custody for his own safety, told Detective Lieutenant James Ryan he was on his knees, pleading for his life, when he snatched the pistol.

Cruising patrolmen caught three men whose names Ryan gave as Joseph Dilucas, 27, known as "Broadway Joe"; William Passivo, 25, and Fred Perardi, 26, all Philadelphians.

Famous Yankee Lieutenant Is Death Victim At Age Of 97

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11. (AP)—The Yankee lieutenant who captured Confederate General Joe Wheeler at Athens, Ga., in 1865 died here last night at the age of 97.

He was John W. Hamilton, native of Vinton, Ohio, who commanded a cavalry regiment when he came upon Wheeler, who had refused to surrender and had fled into Georgia. The Confederate finally was captured after a two-day chase.

New Uses For Cotton Must Be Located

Secretary Roper Admits There Are Discouraging Factors In Nation's Cotton Industry

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Nov. 11 — Secretary Roper, admitting there were "discouraging factors" in the cotton industry, said tonight the United States must intensify its efforts to expand exports, must research diligently for new uses for cotton, and must support this "with the spread of increased purchasing power."

Roper said the entire world was curtailing its demands for cotton, and nations which formerly were outlets for large quantities now are making industrious efforts to make themselves independent of us.

Discouraging Factors

"Other discouraging factors are the development of substitute fibers at lower cost; increased production in new areas; impoverishment of foreign purchasing power by war stress; trends toward trade controls and our high production costs."

The secretary of commerce, speaking at a banquet for the department's advisory council, said "the cooperation of all is needed for the solution of present problems in production and distribution."

Stand Is Repeated

Roper, recognizing Armistice day, repeated the administration's stand for strong defense, saying "our people definitely desire internal and external peace, founded on righteousness and justice. But it should be well understood that we stand ready to utilize our resources in defense of our national honor."

Cotton was prominently involved, Roper asserted, in the struggle between "two divergent ideals, with democracy on one side and the fanatically self-contained philosophy of the totalitarian state on the other.

". . . to be forewarned of the dangers to the present cotton empire of our country is to be forearmed."

New And Secret Guns Being Added To Army Equipment

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — The war department announced today the army would be equipped with two "new and highly effective" guns to cope with airplanes and tanks.

The weapons, a fast firing anti-aircraft gun and a light but powerful anti-tank gun reflecting military lessons of the Spanish conflict, have been standardized after extensive tests.

Heavy Volume Of Fire

Both are of 37 millimeter calibre, hurling shells about one and one-half inches in diameter.

The anti-aircraft weapon, weighing about 5,000 pounds, is designed to pour a heavy volume of fire against hostile planes flying up to 10,000 feet.

To deal with more distant bombers, the army is turning out some 340 guns of 3-inch calibre. Heavy machine guns would be employed against low flying raiders.

Only Peek Allowed

Permitting only a peek at the weapon, the war department said it was mounted on a four-wheel trailer which could be towed by a light truck at maximum speed.

Officers who saw the gun in action last month at the Fort Bragg, N. C., maneuvers said it could fire at least twice a second and its shells would spread destruction up to 10,000 feet upon light contact with a plane's wing fabric.

It may be fired in batteries of four from a central control system, in the same manner as the .50 caliber machine gun. Germany tested one of the same general type in Spain.

The new anti-tank gun, smaller and lighter than the usual field artillery weapon, may be towed behind high speed trucks or hauled

Parents Will Tell Strange Death Dream Of Daughter

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 11—Parents of a six-year-old girl who was killed by a truck said they would tell a coroner's jury Monday of a strange death dream related by the child and would ask mercy for the negro driver.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lee visited the driver, listed as Henry Mike, 19, in his jail cell and told him they believed the accident was an act of fate, that the child lived with an ever-present premonition of death.

Mrs. Lee said her daughter, Irene, had talked of dying since September and that she told of the dream last Sunday, the day before the accident.

"Mother, I dreamed a truck was bearing down on me," Mrs. Lee said the girl told her. "It was riding me, killing me. A colored man was driving the truck."

Shadows Of Hatred Blanket World On Armistice Day

(By The Associated Press)

AMERICAN and European peoples—their governments arming anxiously and some suspicious of each other—yesterday marked with prayer or proud neglect the 20th anniversary of the Armistice in the war they fought to end wars.

Shadows of force and hatred still lay over the old world, undispelled by the newer "armistice of Munich," and clouded the horizon of the Americas.

FDR Deposits Wreath

On a hillside splashed by bright autumn sunlight in Arlington cemetery near Washington, President Roosevelt laid a wreath of white chrysanthemums at the marble tomb of the unknown soldier.

The national chamber of the American Legion, Stephen F. Chadwick, made an Armistice day call for enactment of a universal service law in the United States.

The president paid America's tribute to her war dead at a time when army and navy chieftains were outlining the largest peacetime armament budget ever to be presented to congress.

Action Is Needed

Gen. John J. Pershing, who commanded that now anonymous doughboy entombed in Arlington and his thousands of buddies, had said the world situation demands "immediate and vigorous action" lest the United States encounter "the recent experience of England and France."

The peace of Munich—satisfaction of Germany, a World war loser, at the territorial expense of Czechoslovakia, born of that war—placed Germany in a dominant position in Europe.

In London, King George VI bowed in the rare November sunshine at the foot of the cenotaph in Whitehall and placed a wreath of tribute to Britain's own World war dead.

Trenches Still Seen

Trenches in parks along the route of the king's pilgrimage to the cenotaph still gaped as reminders of the fearful days of September before the pact of Munich brought what some European leaders thought only tenuous assurance of peace.

Westminster's scarlet-robed dean, Bishop Paul De Labilliere, prayed for "the Jewish people in their troubles." British resentment over the upsurge of anti-Semitism in Germany impeded the eager plans of the Chamberlain government to carry forward the peace of Munich.

Clement R. Attlee, leader of the opposition in the house of commons, served notice he would ask the government on Monday for information as to the disorders in Ger-

Several Events Are Held Here

Heads were bared at 11 o'clock Friday morning, when an Armistice day program was conducted in Lubbock.

In martial order, former soldiers marched in a parade that included bandsmen and floats. There was a stag breakfast, speaking in the park near the police station, and a chow line at the Legion hall.

Nelson Principal Speaker

Sen. G. H. Nelson, principal speaker, discussed saber rattling in Europe and compared the danger there with the freedom of this country. He said there was no room for totalitarian force on "this continent" and made a plea for "perpetuation of American ideals of peace."

Cong. George Mahon, speaking briefly, said America does not want to war with other nations, but that the American congress would vote necessary funds almost immediately for a defensive struggle. America never will fight a "war to end war or a battle to save democracy."

There was cause for gayety at the dance held Friday night in the gymnasium as the final event on the homecoming program.

Victory Bells Ring

The Victory bells in the east tower of the administration building had proclaimed triumph of the Red Raiders over the Gonzaga university Bulldogs as a crowd of approximately 10,000 persons filed from the stadium Friday afternoon.

From every point of Texas and from several other states "exes" returned for the homecoming program. The largest delegation, from Amarillo, left early this morning. Approximately 30 came by special bus and several dozen others in automobiles from Amarillo. The delegation was headed by J. H. Smith, president of the Amarillo Texas Tech association, and Ward Garrison, chairman of the On-To-Lubbock committee.

Mrs. John A. Haley of Midland, treasurer of the board of directors and acting president of the college, attended the game.

A chuck-wagon feed at noon in the livestock pavilion was a feature of the day's program. Fairly presided. He introduced County Judge Marshall Formby of Dickens, first vice president of the Alumni and Ex-Students association.

The Woman's Angle

By Margaret Turner

SUMMING up the portents of a recent nation-wide survey, Fortune says: "There is one thing on which the public will not support the president—and that is an attempt by any means to increase his personal power."

IN THE MAIL

"Dear Miss Turner: I am sending you a recipe for fruit cake which is truly a fruit cake. This is an unusually large amount but can be made for Christmas gifts if made in two or three pound cakes. Another suggestion is that several women get together and then divide it equally. Here's the recipe:

Two lbs. currants, 3 lbs. raisins, 1 lb. citron, 1 lb. figs, 1 lb. candied orange peel, 1 lb. lemon peel, 1 lb. candied red cherries, 1 lb. candied green cherries, 1 lb. candied pineapple, 1 lb. dates, 2 lbs. pecans, 1 lb. almonds, 1 lb. hazel nuts, 1 lb. Brazil nuts, 2 lbs. dark brown sugar, 18 eggs, 1 lb. cinnamon, 2 grated nutmegs, 2 lbs. flour, 1 lb. butter, 1 ounce cloves, 1 ounce allspice, one-fourth pint peach brandy.

Method: Prepare fruit and nuts the day before cooking. Shred citron, orange and lemon peel quite fine, also dates, figs and pineapple. Cut cherries in half. Chop nuts but not too fine. Mix fruit, nuts the day before cooking. Keep them in the refrigerator until ready to use. Brown the flour in the oven and use half of it to flour fruit and nut mixture. Cream butter and sugar, add the well beaten egg yolks. Then the other half of the flour. Next add spices, blending well, then the brandy, and the whites of eggs which have been beaten stiff. Steam in cooker 4 or 5 hours.

If the cakes are baked in oven bake 3 or 4 hours in covered tins first greasing tops to prevent steam from forming. Keep large pan of water in oven. When cakes are removed wrap in heavy cloth, then waxed paper. If you like you can prick the tops and add 2 tablespoons of brandy to the cake until they age. These cakes are better when they are from 6 months to 1 year old.

GOOD NEIGHBORS

COMES now a guest columnist, none other than the lady who brings the moon over the mountain, one Kate Smith. You're on Miss Smith:

How well do you know your neighbor?

Do you know her well enough to borrow a pattern or a cup of flour or to send Johnny over to borrow her lawn mower when yours is broken?

I'm afraid that the answer is "no" in a surprising number of American homes. The faster pace at which we travel these days has done a lot to remove the old feeling of neighborliness we used to experience not so many years ago.

I've often heard my friends in New York say, "Why, I don't know the people who live in the apartments on either side of me." Because they have come into New York from other cities and towns it seems strange to them. Folks in towns outside of New York generally have at least a speaking acquaintenance with the people whose houses are next door and most of the time they know all the folks who live in the block. Smaller towns provide the best means of knowing the people who live down the street.

I REMEMBER when I was a girl, if somebody mentioned a family in our town it didn't sound odd to say, "Why, they're neighbors of ours," even if they lived a dozen blocks away from us. I think the feeling was a closer one, even if we didn't have the telephone. We used to speak when we'd meet at the store, at a school festival or at the railroad station. Furthermore, we used to chat often and we knew and they knew what was going on in our community.

If a new family moved to our street, everybody on the block called and did everything possible to make them feel at home quickly. Perhaps they'd get in town on Friday. By Sunday the minister had introduced them to a lot of townfolk, some that lived close by and others that didn't.

CITY dwellers explain a lack of neighborliness by saying that in smaller villages everybody's community of interests is narrower—there aren't so many movies, concerts, plays, shows, sport events to keep folks busy—and that's why a favorite pastime is a Sunday evening get-together among the neighbors. But even in these busy, bustling times, I believe we'd enjoy knowing our neighbors better—after all, the busier we are the more we have to talk about.

The spirit of being a true neighbor is a very sound one. A lot of American progress has been based on just that, in the early days when little communities stuck together and became cities, cities grew up and spread, and the perfect endorsement was, "Why you must know her, she comes from our home town."

I, for one, think, that knowing and being friendly with your neighbor is an important part of the complete American life.

Doughboys Find That Father Time Is A Relentless Foe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP)—The doughboys who crashed through the Hindenberg line and ended the World war 20 years ago today are finding father time a more relentless foe.

The veterans' administration estimates that 545,139 former soldiers have died since the first armistice day, or 10 times as many as fell in action.

The roster of 4,088,784 living veterans is dwindling fast.

The church at Buckland-in-the-Moor, Devon, England, has a clock without figures on its face. Erected as a memorial, the numerals on the clock are replaced by the legend: "My dear mother."

Roosevelt Expects No Coalition Opposition Which Has Been Widely Forecast

Conference For Press Is Held

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—President Roosevelt met his first post-election press conference with little to indicate clearly how he interprets the strong Republican trend or how he may reshape his tactics or program in the new congress.

The single clue he gave was his assertion that he did not expect to encounter the coalition opposition which has been widely predicted. That view was not enlarged upon by the president, but it was regarded by some commentators as an indication that he regarded the Democrats' first election reverses in a decade as exerting more pressure on avowed anti-New Deal Democrats than on administration followers to sink their policy differences.

Comes From Republicans

Most of the election comment raising the possibility of an anti-Roosevelt coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats came from Republicans.

Southern conservative Democrats, including those so designated by the president in his purge campaign, formed the core of past party opposition. Their ranks were unchanged importantly either by the primaries or the elections. What their course will be in the next congress is now as unpredictable as is that of the president himself.

Yet this substantial force for party harmony is working on both sides as a result of the Republican election sweep: there can be no hope for Democratic retention of national political power if continued party discord leads to such a liberal-conservative break as wrecked a long period of Republican dominance in 1912.

Must Have Support

Democratic conservatives cannot hope to win the 1940 national election without Roosevelt and New Deal support. It may be equally true, of course, that the Roosevelt faction also cannot expect to win without the conservatives. But there apparently is widespread feeling in the administration that he will be able to hold them in line.

The promptness with which Secretary Ickes again raised the third-term draft idea to back up his interpretation of the election as a third national endorsement of the president and his policies is highly significant of the thought stirring in administration inner circles.

Balance Of Power

Southern Democrats appear to hold a sort of party balance-of-power position in the new congress. They alone are reasonably certain as a group of staying in office two years from now, whatever the Republican trend of 1938 may indicate for 1940.

That would seem to leave them peculiarly free to maneuver effectively in any future legislative policy clashes with the White House. Yet administration leadership, from the president down, by all signs, seems to anticipate that even among the most hostile anti-New Dealers of the south, the 1940 goal of retaining the presidency in Democratic hands will be the dominating consideration that motivates the group.

Without that, dispensation of an eight-year flow of federal patronage into the south would fall into Republican hands. It is for that reason, obviously, that Mr. Roosevelt can say he expects no serious inter-party coalition in the next congress.

Man Receives $1,000,000 For His Business And Distributes $250,000 To Employes

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Nov. 11. (AP)—John F. Webendorfer received $1,000,000 for his business and distributed $250,000 of it among his employes.

"What could I have done without them?" Webendorfer asked. "They were responsible for my success in business and it is only fair that they should have a share in the profits."

The business was the Webendorfer-Wills company, manufacturer of printing machinery, principally off-set presses. The purchaser was the American Type Founders.

Sharing in the $250,000 were 115 employes, their share based on length of service. Four men, who had served 15 years received $10,000 each; two received $8,000; five, $7,000 and several others $5,000 each.

The company was established 30 years ago.

Negro Woman Is Being Held After Complaint Is Made

On the heels of a complaint from a man who lives in a Lubbock tourist camp that two negro women had "strong-armed" him and taken his money, a 22-year-old negro woman was arrested by police and lodged in the city jail.

She was transferred to the county jail Friday and held, pending investigations.

The man said the two women accosted him in the 1400-block Avenue G and took in $51 in bills from him. The money was said to be four $10 bills, two $5 bills, and a one-dollar bill.

He said one of the women grabbed his billfold and threw it. The other one got the money, discarded the wallet, and escaped, he said.

The woman held was arrested by W. J. Tucker, Ralph Goldwater, and Lewis Kittrell of the police department.

A man also was arrested in connection with the case. He assertedly transferred the negro woman here from New Mexico.

Niaufocu Island in the South Seas receives its mail in tin cans. Passing steamers throw the canned mail overboard, and a native swims out after it.

Highway Plans Being Drafted

AUSTIN, Nov. 11. (AP)—A new link in Texas' $12,276,000 highway building program—for the year beginning July 1, 1939—was shaping rapidly today.

The highway department said it would submit immediately to the U. S. bureau of public roads scores of projects proposed for the next federal aid program in which the national and state governments would share the cost.

Proposed projects by counties, highway numbers, extremities and type of improvement included:

Webb, 81, Rio Grande international bridge.

Lamar, 24, Lamar county line 'ot a small bit," but studios generally are learning that seasoned players of yesteryear are a valuable scurce of trained talent.

Making Strong Bid

George Bancroft, given a break recently in two important films, "Submarine Patrol" and "Angels With Dirty Faces," is now making a strong bid again for stardom.

Julia Faye, once the glamor brigade, got a vital character role the other day in "Union Pacific."

Betty Compson, tops in melo-dramas of the '20's, is working with newcomer Isa Miranda in "Hotel Imperial." Other oldtimers at work: Antonio Moreno, Bryant Washburn, Raymond Hatton, Ethel Clayton, Polly Moran, Agnes Ayres, Billy Elmer, Inez Seabury, Harry Myers, Herbert Rawlinson, Eva Novak and Flora Finch.

Oldest Sob Story In Hollywood Now Is Being Given A Much Happier Ending

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 11. (AP)—The oldest sob story in Hollywood—the faded star who lost everything but his memories—is told with a happier ending these days.

A few former favorites have to look far for a job. Often it's only

Cooper, surfacing 24, Paris to Sulphur river, roadbed treatment.

Howard, 87, Big Spring south, grading and drainage structures.

Denton, 377, Tarrant county line north, grading and drainage structures.

Harrison, 43, present junction with 59 to proposed junction with 59, grading, drainage structures and surfacing; 59, intersection with 80 in Marshall to junction with 43, grading drainage structures and surfacing.

BARELY ESCAPE DAMAGE

AUSTIN, Nov. 11. (AP)—Valuable records of the Texas unemployment compensation commission barely escaped damage early today from fire originating in a furniture store on the first floor of the building housing the commission. The commission, which estimated damage to its furniture at $500, will move to a new fireproof building December 1.

American paper currency is printed in 11 denominations.

Special Dedicatory Service Is Staged At Levelland

LEVELLAND, Nov. 11. (Special)—In special dedicatory ceremonies, Thursday, a permanent flagpole and base were donated and erected upon the high school grounds by the faculty, the service having been sponsored by the American Legion post.

Denominational Schools Are Urged To Employ Only Baptists Upon Faculties

State Session Ended Friday

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Nov. 11—Resolutions urging denominational schools to employ only teachers and officers who are members of a Baptist church, and deploring what was characterized as a tendency bringing church and state closer together were passed today as the Baptist general convention of Texas closed a week-long meeting.

The resolution regarding Baptist teachers was modified by floor interpretation, which emphasized a clause excepting emergency cases. This was interpreted to mean emergencies would mean that no Baptist could be found for a given post.

On the closing program were M. E. Andrews of Texarkana; Porter Bailes of Tyler; Fred A. Eastham of Wichita Falls, George W. Green of Austin who brought an armistice address. Members of the executive board named for the coming year included the following:

C. B. Jackson, Greenville; J. F. Murrell, Denison; Douglas Carver, Harlingen; E. S. Hutcherson, Houston; Porter Bailes, Tyler; C. H. Slimp, San Antonio; J. M. Dawson, Waco; M. A. Jenkens, Abilene; I. L. Yearby, El Paso; M. M. Wolf, Houston; M. T. Andrews, Texarkana; Mrs. C. M. Caldwell, Abilene.

Armistice Day

many. Richard Austen Butler, foreign affairs undersecretary, received a delegation of Jewish leaders who were understood to have protested the German campaign of terror.

Violence Is Denounced

Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the liberal party, denounced German violence against Jews, saying there was urgent need "for generous fulfillment of British obligations to world Jewry."

Until Thursday, when mob disorders reached a crest of vengeance for the assassination of a German diplomat in Paris there had been rumors that Prime Minister Chamberlain soon would seek an opportunity to discuss German colonial demands with Reichfuehrer Hitler.

Yesterday in London there was no lunatic's cry of "hypocrisy!"—as at last year's ceremony—but dynamite blasted the two-minute silence in Belfast, Northern Ireland. The explosion, causing no injuries, was described as a protest against conditions.

At Weymouth, England, a woman broke the hush with a scream—"you are being sold by financiers, you sissies!" Angry men dragged her away.

Uneasy Paris echoed the tramp of troops. War veterans who had thronged to Paris were forbidden to march by a government fearing disorders and rumored plans to establish a more powerful government to restore French prestige in Europe.

Italy, one of the World war victors but now a friend of ascendant Germany, celebrated the 69th birthday of King Vittorio Emanuele, having observed a week ago the anniversary of her own Armistice with Austria-Hungary.

Illness kept Belgium's king, Leopold, away from the Brussels ceremony at the tomb which commemorates Belgium's tragedy and sacrifice as the World war's first battleground.

Germany marked the day with only scattered newspaper references centering on the treaty of Versailles which Hitler has cast aside.

The Berlin newspaper Morgenpost said, "We can remember the date with composure and proud knowledge that Nov. 11, 1918, definitely belongs to the past."

Regent Horthy of Hungary headed a ceremony at Kassa where he claimed the last territory taken from Czechoslovakia in post-Munich arbitration by Germany and Italy.

Horthy rode his white horse into town at the head of troops of occupation and told a throng in cathedral square, "This is only the initial success." Kassa used to be Czechoslovakia's Kosice, largest city of the 4,875 square miles taken by Hungary from the Prague government.

Vocational Ag Leaders Speak At Cooper High School

R. A. Manire, state director of vocational agriculture; Ray L. Chappelle, head of the department of agricultural education at Texas Technological college, and O. T. Ryan, area supervisor of vocational agriculture, spoke to Cooper Rural high school students, it was reported Friday.

Twenty-four fathers, 28 homemaking girls, 14 mothers and the school board of trustees attended, as well.

Manire discussed "Vocational Agriculture in Texas," Chapelle "Responsibility of the Parent," Ryan "Responsibility of the Boy."

Musical numbers were played by the school's FFA band.

Supt. B. M. Hays, Principal E. P. Dawkins and Miss Louise Wilke spoke briefly. Refreshments were served.

Dairy Session Held Friday

Approximately 85 persons, including visiting legislators, attended a Dairy club breakfast Friday morning in the livestock pavilion at Texas Technological college.

Mart G. Pederson, associate professor of dairy manufacturing, introduced visiting dignitaries. Besides the state officials, Judge Marshall Formby of Dickens and Judge Alvin R. Allison of Levelland, representative-elect, were guests.

Team Is Presented

L. G. Harmon, instructor in dairy manufacturing and sponsor of the Dairy club, introduced members of the senior dairy products judging team that competed in a national contest recently. Members were Van Scheid of Whitesboro, Arch Lamb of Fort Worth, Clayburn Harrell of Spur, and Charles Gillham of Hughes Springs.

K. M. Renner, head professor of dairy manufacturing, introduced alumni of the department present: Wallace Lauthan, Plainview; Earl Collins, Joseph Nelson, Roe Babcock, Raleigh Middleton, Lubbock; Jim Williams, Amarillo; Willis Tinney, Fort Worth; Sam Hill, Abilene; Jack Jacobs, Tulia; Jack Huber, Littlefield; Lawrence Sides, Amarillo; Paul Wilkins, Portales, N. M.

Scheid is president of the club. Members of the arrangements committee for the breakfast were Lamb, Kenneth Reast, James Huffman, Nathaniel Nelson, and Dayton McWhirter.

New Building For Meinecke Hardware Being Planned

A. S. Meinecke, member of the firm, said bids would be opened this morning by Meinecke Brothers Hardware store for a new building at 1631 Broadway.

The structure, to be of brick and tile and designed for a second story to be added when necessary, will be 50 feet wide by 115 feet long, just double the space of their present location. Foundations and walls are to be heavy enough for additions.

"We hope to be able to move into the building by the last of January, or the first of February at the latest," said Meinecke. "We are planning a structure designed to meet our needs for display and storage. The front will be of the semi-modern type, with plenty of display space."

Deal for the purchase of the building location was closed Monday. For some time it has been rumored that another location would be made. The owners have spent some months in making their selection of a location, since their decision to move farther out on Broadway from the downtown location. Other members of the firm are Truman O. Meinecke who operates the Plainview store and Mrs. R. L. Meinecke of Plainview, widow of a brother who operated the Plainview store.

Today Is The Deadline For City Directory Listings

If you're not sure whether your name and address will be listed in the new city directory, and if you want them there, today is your last day to do something about it.

Though the entire city has been canvassed by crews working for several weeks, if you have any doubts about the inclusion of your information, it will be checked for you if desired, according to Lambert Smith, head of the group in charge of securing names and addresses. Smith can be reached at the Hotel Lubbock.

Some of the data gathered has been sent to El Paso, headquarters of the Hudspeth Directory company, publishers of the book. The final shipment will be made today.

Seniors At Texas Tech Will Be Chosen For Judging

Six seniors of the Texas Technological college department of animal husbandry will be selected today for membership on the livestock judging team.

Competing for a place on the team will be 14 men. The final contest in which eight will be eliminated is to be held this afternoon at the college, and will be conducted on the same basis as international college competition. The winners will judge cattle, hogs, sheep and horses at contests during the year.

Assisting in the selection of members of the team will be R. H. Davis of Ropesville, a graduate of 1935, who was a member of the winning international team in 1934.

G. A. Sadler Here Friday But Unable To Attend Game

G. A. Sadler, of Longview, railroad commissioner-elect was here Friday morning and planned to attend the Texas Tech-Gonzaga university football game but had to leave at noon, said Sen. G. H. Nelson.

Sadler had arrived Thursday night with a cousin, a Merkel physician. They were accompanied by their wives. A message called them to Merkel.

The railroad commissioner-elect said he hoped to attend a later Tech game, according to Senator Nelson. He plans to return to Lubbock early in December.

imagination of the entire Southwest," he said. Sen. Nelson also mentioned the college's growth. Tech is "as outstanding on the football field as in the classroom," he said.

R. Emmett Morse, Houston representative slated to be next speaker of the house, spoke. "We all have the interests of Texas Tech at heart," he said.

J. Doyle Settle of Lubbock, retiring representative, introduced Morse and other visiting representatives.

They included G. H. Little of Amarillo; C. L. Harris of Spur, a former student of the college; Max W. Boyer of Perryton; Travis Dean of Stamford, another Tech ex-student; Homer Leonard of McAllen; Bose Reeder of Stephenville; H. A. Hull and B. T. Johnson of Fort Worth; and R. A. Harp of Kirkland. Rep.-Elect Alvin R. Allison of Levelland, and J. L. Patterson of Fort Worth, of the secretary of state's office, and B. M. Brittain of Amarillo, also were introduced and spoke briefly.

Dean James M. Gordon and Calvin Hazlewood, administrative secretary of the Alumni and Ex-Students association, made announcements concerning the banquet for former students to be conducted in Dallas Nov. 25, when the Texas State Teachers association is in session there.

Amendment Is Voted

The Alumni and Ex-Students association voted an amendment to the constitution providing for the board of directors to set date of the annual banquet, eliminating necessity that it be conducted at commencement time as formerly specified in the constitution.

More than 300 were present for the chuck-wagon feed. Steaks cooked over an open fire were served.

The homecoming program otherwise included a reception given by the Men's Dormitory association Friday morning.

Numerous entertainments also were held by various campus organizations and alumni associations of campus groups.

Ned Bradley's orchestra played for the dance.

Several From Houston

Probably the second largest delegation present was from Houston. Garland Smith, president of the Houston Tech club, led the group, other members of which were Floyd Wooldridge, Jack Hardy, Dyche Kelly, Carson Leatherwood, Hal Hitchcock, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Grundy, Miss Bill Grundy, and Winburn McAlister.

Gene Worley, state representative of Shamrock, arrived in Lubbock Friday morning, and attended the homecoming game at the college.

One of the homecoming visitors was Wyatt C. Hedrick of Fort Worth, architect who has drafted plans for the major campus buildings.

Famous World War Ace Declares Airplane Has Become Greatest Of All Instruments

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, America's leading ace in the World war, wrote for the Associated Press the following appraisal of modern air power on the twentieth anniversary of the World war armistice.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Twenty years have passed since that Armistice day in 1918, and those 20 years have endowed the airplane with a deadliness which, by the mere threat of its use, wrecks nations and creates new empires.

At the close of the World war the airplane was a new-found and relatively insignificant instrument of warfare. Its potentialities were not fully appreciated even by the major military strategists.

That is evidenced by the fact that Billy Mitchell was court-martialed for expressing himself so positively and strenuously.

Has Come To Pass

Yet all he said has come to pass, and gone far beyond.

In the World war aviation was used in Indian fashion. Pilots hid in clouds, as Indians in this land used to hide behind trees, and swooped down on an adversary.

Times change. America's engineers, in cooperation with the army and navy, have trebled the warplane's speed, multiplied its range 100-fold and added to its armament. Indian fighting is a thing of the past. Modern air war will be a matter of mass formations, commanded by a senior officer just as troops are commanded on the ground.

Have Superior Engines

We in America have superior engines, plans and instruments. But we are weak in the air. We lack plane-power. Nor do we have sufficient productive facilities and the man-power to meet a threat of air war.

Good planes, good personnel and production capacity was the weapon which Hitler held over England and France, bringing about the peace of Munich.

The airplane has changed the entire technique of warfare. No longer is it possible for a handful of diplomats or a roomful of legislators to declare war for the masses and not for themselves. They are in the line of fire.

It has been my hope that we, as a nation, would develop our air arm to the point where it could prevent war. It prevented war in Europe—in the wrong way. If England and France had been armed in the air, there would have been no threats, no need for the peace of Munich.

If we have the will to do it, the airplane can be made an angel of peace.

attend.

On the platform at the public speaking also were George Brewer, commander of the Legion, and Terrell St. Clair, commander of the VFW, which jointly espoused the day's observation; Mrs. St. Clair and Mrs. Marvin McLarty, respectively head of the women's auxiliary of the VFW and the Legion. The 28-piece band of the 131st field artillery, directed by Mr. Norman K. Snodgrass, played. Part of the three companies of the ROTC that had marched in the parade were in the crowd that ranged in a semi-circle and heard speakers.

Reveille Is Sounded

Reveille was sounded at 5 o'clock in the morning by Walter Smith and Roy D. McKinney.

The parade, colorful, also had the Tech band, the drum and bugle corps of the Sons of The American Legion, the two companies of the 131st artillery and their band, representatives of labor unions, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Red Cross and Salvation Army.

Numerous business establishments were closed, proprietors and clerks attending the Tech-Gonzaga or the Lubbock-Pampa grid games.

A dance at the Auditorium topped off the day's celebration.

John O. Slaton, 42, will be buried today at Morenci, Ariz. Mayor Carl Slaton of Lubbock said. His brother died of heart attack when on a hunting trip in the mountains near his home Thursday.

Firemen were called to the 500-block Main street at 3:20 o'clock Friday afternoon on a report that an automobile was burning. However, the blaze had been controlled by the time firemen arrived.

E. H. Tatum, Lubbock barber, Fri-day afternoon was given emergency treatment at Lubbock sanitarium for a laceration of the head. He suffered the cut when a piece of lumber fell on his head. He was working at a church, it was reported.

Bobbie Hurley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hurley of Littlefield, was admitted to the Lubbock sanitarium Friday afternoon after a piece of steel flaked off a bolt and into his eye. It was indicated surgery would be required to remove the particle. It was reported the father was hammering on a bolt in a trailer when the steel flew into the boy's eye.

Jack Sikes, charged in justice court here with theft over $50, has been apprehended at Paris, according to Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff. It was indicated the sheriff's department probably would send an officer for the man today or early next week.

A 40-year-old man, wanted at Gainesville, was arrested south of Slaton Friday morning by Lubbock county authorities and detained in the Lubbock county jail. Gainesville officers indicated they would send for him immediately. The man was arrested by R. L. Wicker, Slaton chief of police, Tom Abel, Lubbock county sheriff; and Grady Harrist, a deputy. Nature of the complaint on which the suspect is wanted, was not known here.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Jackson of Ropesville are parents of a son weighing 5 pounds 14 ounces born at 5 o'clock Friday morning at Plains hospital.

A 48-year-old Lubbock Mexican was arrested early Friday by H. B. Brown and Roy Sanford of the police department for investigation into a compiaint he stole $10. Officers also said the man was drunk.

Bond in the sum of $1,000 was made late yesterday by R. H. Crawford, charged in the court of Peace Justice S. E. McMillan with driving while intoxicated. D. O. Wilkerson, of the highway patrol, signed the complant.

Something New In South Plains Agriculture Reported Here

Something new in South Plains agriculture—a shipment of sugar beets—was reported Friday afternoon.

Two cars were sent from Roundup and Anton to Colorado for processing, said R. C. Hopping of Lubbock.

Hopping said digging the beets was begun Thursday afternoon and that there would be two other men besides himself shipping from Roundup, on the Hockley-Lubbock county line. Ed Bigler and C. A. Boucion are the other shippers.

Two beets were brought to the Hopping office here. They measured two feet in length and 18 1-2 inches around the largest part. One acre, said Hopping, had good crop while the other was not so good.

Four men are to ship from Anton, J. B. Haire, L. J. Swanson, B. Y. Rea and R. P. Mayes. Sugar content percentages ranged from 13 to 15.7.

Cotton Uses

socially "will depend on our wise and continuous use of the conference method in getting truth and in adjusting differences at home and abroad," the secretary declared.

"However much we may disagree about some features of the Munich conference, we should prefer to think that the controlling effort was to seek peace and safety. Certainly, that was the purpose of our nation."

The phrase "remember the Alamo," Roper said, "is needed as a national slogan to prompt and keep alive the patriotic spirit of the nation to resist all influences that would weaken and destroy our democratic institutions."

Texans Fully Alert

To come to Texas "is to be thrilled by the impulse of Texas history and the dynamic character of this people. There is no record of a time since statehood when Texans were not fully alert and fully conscious of their responsibilities in cooperative action to defend national honor and contribute to the solution of national problems," he said.

The secretary praised the "contributions" of Vice-President Garner Jesse Jones, RFC chief; Gov. Allred; Gov.-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel, and Texans in the senate and house.

good prospect that employment should get back to 1937 peak levels sometime in 1939.

Some of the prognosticators say one subject on which they are keeping their fingers crossed is Europe, that renewed war threats would be disturbing, but since the Munich pact, the tendency has been to regard that danger as at least deferred well beyond the nearer future.

The new session of congress is awaited with much interest and conjecture, as to its bearing upon the recovery problem. Taxation, railway rehabilitation, and national defense are subjects in which Wall street is particularly interested.

Some Wall street leaders have enthusiastically predicted a shift in administration policy involving a new plan to stimulate heavy industry, in which railway aid and national defense expenditures would play a prominent part, and a trend toward pay-as-you go in government financing, including revision of the tax base and curtailment of relief spending.

New Deal Loss To Be Severe

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 — The newest compilations of Tuesday's election results only served to emphasize, in the opinion of most analysts, the magnitude of the reverses suffered by the New Deal.

The turnovers of offices fell short of a political revolution only because of the stupendous congressional majorities the Democrats accumulated between 1930 and 1938. In almost any other election year, such a sweep would have meant actual transfer of party control of either house or senate.

Safe Margin Retained

President Roosevelt's party, however, retains numerically that "safe" margin of control of the new house. It still dominates the senate two-to-one and is intrenched there so firmly that even a Republican sweep of the presidency and the house in 1940 would leave the senate still Democratic.

Yet the nose count of party strength in the new congress is only part of the political story. It does not take account of the opposition President Roosevelt has encountered from members of his own party.

That opposition found its leadership and chief spokesmen among Democrats from the north and the west; but the core of its strength lay among southern Democrats.

Coalition Big Problem

It was among anti-Roosevelt southern Democrats that talk of a definite coalition with the Republican minority to block New Deal measures arose last session. In the light of Tuesday's election some believe such a coalition may be a major problem for the president the remainder of his term.

It projects a question mark as to whether any important legislation can flow from the new congress except where no political or policy controversy is involved.

Even though Republicans and many Democrats present a united front of opposition to Mr. Roosevelt, he still retains the power of the veto.

Whether it comes to a struggle between the president's veto power and a congress dominated by a majority hostile to the president, as it did in Cleveland's day, remains to be seen. Much depends, observers believe, on what road the president takes. For that reason, his every word and act between now and the January day when the new congress assembles to receive his report on the state of the union will have special meaning and significance.

TO DEMAND RECOUNT

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 11. (AP)—Arch N. Bobbitt, Indiana's Republican state chairman, announced last night he would demand a recount of the vote for United States senator between Raymond E. Willis (R) and Senator Frederick Van Nuys (D) in Marion (Indianapolis), Lake, Vigo (Terre Haute), Sullivan, and Vanderburgh (Evansville) counties.

Man Believes He Has Stood About Enough From Spouse

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—A complaint by the "bonded husband" of a Brooklyn wife led to the indictment today of the woman and her mother on charges of grand larceny and conspiracy.

Timid-looking Joseph Newrick, 38, said the pair had fleeced him out of his $2,500 life savings by forcing him to post the money pledging:

1. He would be a good husband.
2. He would not run off to his native England.

For two weeks after the marriage, he said, he was not permitted to move into his bride's home until he had put up the cash.

Even then, he declared, he had to sleep on a couch in the living room while his bride, Elvira, 35, slept with her mother, Mrs. Katherine Suero, 66.

To cap the climax, he asserted, he later discovered that his wife had made prior arrangements to divorce him after their marriage in September, 1937.

Dallas Negro Is Given Death For The Slaying Of Wife

DALLAS, Nov. 11. (AP)—Bluitt Hampton, 27-year-old negro, was given the death penalty Thursday by a Dallas county jury which convicted him of the slaying of his wife, Clara, 20.

The woman's body, stabbed with an ice pick and battered with a blunt instrument, was found in a field last August 21.

Third Quarter Rush Brings Tech 7-0 Win Over Gonzaga

Rugged Bulldogs Give Raiders Big Scare In Bruising Game; Ramsey Sets Up Victory With Aerials

BY COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

TEXAS TECH dipped its colors to a great Gonzaga football team yesterday, then just as promptly elevated them in triumphant salute to a scarlet and black Homecoming.

A timely bit of "managerial strategy," as we say in baseball, gave the Red Raiders life, a touchdown, new hope and still a place among the nation's untrod, untied elevens.

Texas Tech defeated Gonzaga, 7 to 0.

But for that strategical move on the part of Coach Pete Cawthon, the Techs and the Gonzagas might have been battling and butting and tackling and blocking each other all over the field until yet, with a touchdown still unsighted. So lustily had the big and powerful Bulldogs been batting the Raiders and thwarting every scoring attempt that said Raiders had ceased to think clearly for themselves, and it was high time something was being done about it—the game had progressed well into the third period, and all Tech had done was make a couple or three first downs.

Call For Ramsey

The Bulldogs had been set for three of Texas Tech's star backs; namely, Elmer Tarbox, Bobby Holmes and Gene Barnett, and this trio found itself behind the eight-ball all afternoon. Barnett, sent in to start the aerial artillery after Holmes had failed to scram and Tarbox had failed to scat—but Barnett also failed to "get 'em out" with his curve balls. He was chunking them to the spot; George Webb and Prince Scott had to catch them or lose an eyeball or two, but always there were a couple of pass defensive men who tackled the ball as soon as it hit the target.

Seeing that this might keep up indefinitely, with no worthwhile results, Coach Cawthon withdrew Barnett and sent wee Woodrow Ramsey scooting into the game. Now Ramsey does a lot of this and that in practice, but hasn't played much football, being a sophomore and about the third or fourth quarterback in line.

With Barnett out, the Bulldogs figured there'd be a "cease firing" order, but they were fooled. Ramsey, who wears the "62" featured by his illustrious older brother, faded back on his first play and shot a flat-zone pass which Jodie Marek gathered in on the Gonzaga 30-yard line and with which he rattled down to the 18 for a first down. Ramsey drew back and flung another flat-zoner, and Elmer Tarbox came up with it. He raced down the sideline, was pushed out at the red flag. Officials tracked him out on the 1-foot line, but it was first down, and on the next play Marek rammed over for the precious touch. He then went back, donned his rubber kicking toe-plate and booted the conversion point.

Hill Boots One

The story of the scoring ends right there, and, in the words of Coaches Cawthon and Smith, "we're mighty proud of those seven points."

The touchdown drive started on the Gonzaga 38-yard line, where Tech took over after a Bulldog punt into the wind had traveled 19 yards. The Bulldogs had been backed up to their 9-yard line by a 68-yard punt off the foot of Milton Hill, another Tech sub who almost stole the show. Tony Canadeo, ace back for Gonzaga playing safety, argued the kick had bounced temporarily out of bounds up about the 30-yard line, and he made no attempt to retrieve it, the ball coming to rest finally on the 9. The argument, supported on Canadeo's behalf by a number of Tech fans in the east stands, was overruled by the officials.

A Homecoming and holiday crowd of about ten thousand persons witnessed yesterday's game, a ding-dong affair most of the way between two of the most stubborn lines ever seen here.

Gonzaga brought from Washington the heaviest and most rugged team local fans have witnessed in years and it went about the business of football with all the vim and determination you could ask.

It was an old-fashioned "rock 'em and sock 'em" contest, featured by vicious blocking and tackling, hard running and lots of mistakes. But rough and rugged as it was, there were no penalties for unnecessary roughness; each team drew a 15-yarder, for holding.

Outweighed something like 8 pounds to the man—worse than that in the backfield—Texas Tech was quite stumped from the very start. It was easy to see that they had bumped into something unexpected, and they started making mistakes right away. They made more mistakes, more fumbles and more boners than they have in any three pervious games, and the mistakes were costly. They had the edge in experience, but they didn't capitalize all the time on that.

Folks Get Jittery

For better than two quarters, it appeared that the Raiders had met their match at last, and there was a loud huzzah as the touchdown play was set up and executed.

Milton Hill, running mate of Johnny Sims in the backfield, brought the fans to their feet with a fine 28-yard dash down the middle in the second period. He twisted and wormed his way through the secondary, after lineman had opened a nice hole, and finally was dragged down from behind on the Gonzaga 37-yard line. It was the first show of offensive spirit Tech had demonstrated, but, with a heavy wind supporting them, the Techs failed to score in that period. The game was played mostly in midfield.

Tech did itself proud defensively, especially against passes and through the middle of the line. Rex Williams and Bull Rankin, backing up the line, performed yeoman service, as did Dixie White at guard and Abe Murphy and Leonard Latch at the tackles. Webb and Prince Scott at ends did fairly well, and it wasn't altogether their fault, and certainly not the fault of Barnett, that they didn't complete more passes. Webb looked good once coming out on an end around play; it was good for a long gain, but nary a point.

Gonzaga's backfield brother act, Cecil and Ray Hare, lived up to expectations, plus; Tony Canadeo, safety man and general handy man, had trouble with his punting, but otherwise was a threat every time he handled the ball. In the line, Hubert Croteau, a guard; Ralph Schlosser, reformed tackle now playing center; Seaton Daly, tackle, and Victor Van Dyck, guard, were outstanding, along with the ends, Weed and Lansing. Other backs who made things tough were Pat La Marche, Bud Zumwalt and Adolph Selka, the latter going to cloud the air with passes.

The Red Raiders, possibly with all cockiness out of their systems, will work out today, rest Sunday, and start making plans for the trek to Albuquerque and the game with the University of New Mexico on Saturday.

And if you're still in doubt about Tech's being well matched up yesterday, have a look at the statistics.

SPUR, Nov. 11. (Special) — The Spur High School Bulldogs conquered Paducah High here today, 27 to 0. The victory gave Spur a needed 4B conference win in order to keep its record undefeated. Alert Spur backs intercepted Paducah aerials and returned them for touchdowns to annex the game. Hurst, Murphy, Haralson and Willhoit were outstanding for Spur.

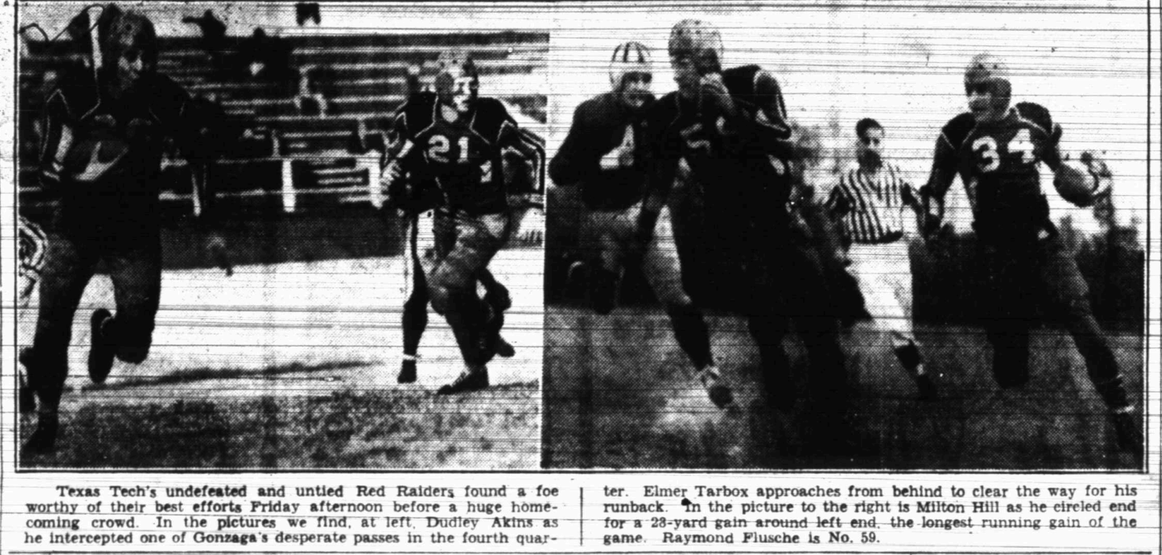

Spur scored 14 first downs against Paducah's 7. Spur intercepted 6 of Paducah's 26 pass attempts.

BAYLOR CUBS WIN

PARIS, Nov. 11. (AP)—The Baylor Cubs, the university's freshman football team, stuck a 26-6 defeat against the record of Paris Junior college today.

The Cubs scored twice on intercepted passes, once on a pass, and once on a 63-yard sprint by Dwight Parks. Mims scored for Paris on a short plunge.

Tech's Undefeated Red Raiders Find Rough Going Against Stubborn Crew From Gonzaga

Texas Tech's undefeated and untied Red Raiders found a foe worthy of their best efforts Friday afternoon before a huge homecoming crowd. In the pictures we find, at left, Dudley Akins as he intercepted one of Gonzaga's desperate passes in the fourth quarter. Elmer Tarbox approaches from behind to clear the way for his runback. In the picture to the right is Milton Hill as he circled end for a 28-yard gain around left end, the longest running gain of the game. Raymond Flusche is No. 59.

Here's The Schedule, Also The Dope On Games Today

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 — Members of the country's fast-shrinking group of unbeaten and untied major football teams swing into action this week end against opposition that looms as formidable as any they will be called on to face between now and the approaching end of the wide-open, high-scoring 1938 campaign.

Dartmouth in the East, against well-primed Cornell before a capacity house of 29,000; Notre Dame in the mid-west, against burly Minnesota in a game that was a 65,000 sellout a week ago; Tennessee in the South, against resourceful Vanderbilt; Texas Christian in the Southwest, favored but in no position to be caught napping by Texas, and Santa Clara in the Far West, matched with rugged St. Mary's in a Sunday game, furnish the program's high spots.

Duke Faces Trouble

Of the other all-winning survivors, unscored-on Duke faces Syracuse; Georgetown meets West Virginia; Oklahoma and Iowa State, tied for the Big Six lead, tackle Missouri and Kansas State, respectively, and Western Reserve plays neighboring John Carroll.

Bolting the doors and windows against misleading last - minute hunches, this observer submits the following forecasts:

Tennessee-Vanderbilt—They say Tennessee still hasn't shown its full hand. This might be a good spot to have an ace up each sleeve.

Cornell-Dartmouth—Cornell's line strength and reserves against Dartmouth's high-geared backs. That Indian line can't be too bad either. Dartmouth, and close.

Notre Dame-Minnesota—After the Gophers, Notre Dame gets Northwestern and Southern California. The way Elmer Layden has been sending his men in by platoons should give this to Notre Dame.

Texas Christian-Texas — Looks like the year's eighth straight victory for T. C. U., and eighth straight loss for the Longhorns.

Washington - Southern California — Southern California, though Washington may make it close.

Princeton-Yale — Princeton, but watch out for those Eli passes.

Nebraska-Pittsburgh—Pitt. They have an incentive now.

Syracuse-Duke—Each beat Colgate 7-0. Banking on the Blue Devils' stout defense, Duke.

Michigan-Northwestern—A good spot to duck and run. Doing both in the same motion, Northwestern.

Oklahoma-Missouri—Missouri has scored in every game but the Sooners have the type of crashing ends to blanket Paul Christman, Oklahoma.

Iowa State-Kansas State—Everett Kischer and Iowa State should continue undefeated.

Alabama And Tulane

Chicago-College of the Pacific—Chicago.

Georgia Tech-Alabama—Alabama packs more punch.

Fordham-North Carolina—A nice spot for an upset. Still, Fordham.

Tulane-Georgia—Tulane, on the theory they're better seasoned.

Santa Clara-St. Mary's (Sunday) —Santa Clara.

U. C. L. A.-Wisconsin—Having had bad luck going against the Bruins when they were at home, and finding little else to choose between the two, U. C. L. A.

Here and there:

East — Navy over Columbia narrowly; Carnegie Tech over Duquesne; Pennsylvania over Penn State; Georgetown over West Virginia; Amherst to beat Williams for Little Three title; Kansas over George Washington; Harvard over Virginia; Lafayette over Rutgers; Villanova over Temple; Army over Chattanooga.

Mid-West — Indiana over Iowa; Illinois over Ohio State; Michigan State over Marquette; Western Reserve over John Carroll.

South—Louisiana State over Auburn; Clemson over Kentucky; Mississippi State over Centenary; Mississippi over Sewanee; Florida over Maryland; Detroit over North Carolina State.

Southwest and Far West—Arkansas over Southern Methodist; Rice over Texas A. and M.; California over Oregon; Oregon State over Stanford; Washington State over Idaho; Utah over Colorado State.

Littlefield Wins From Levelland

LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 11. (Special) —In a bitterly fought Class B-5 game here today, Littlefield High school defeated Levelland High, 20 to 12. It was a regular "movie finish" game. Levelland led, 12 to 6, at the start of the final period but Littlefield staged a touchdown rampage that quickly erased the lead and paved the way to victory. Hammons, who had been warming Littlefield's bench, went into the game and completed 15 out of 25 passes to completely bewilder Levelland. Two of the passes netted touchdowns.

Littlefield registered 13 first downs against Levelland's 3. The winning team gained 180 to the losers 51-yards on rushing plays. Littlefield sliced off 145-yards through the air against 53 for Levelland.

Outstanding stars were McKnight, West, Sullivan, O'Bannon and Hammons.

North Texas Teachers Defeat Austin College Team, 32-2

SHERMAN, Nov. 11. (AP) — The North Texas Teachers came to life in the second half to run roughshod over the Austin college Kangaroos 32 to 2 today.

Riola passed seven yards to Burns for the first touchdown. Shoemaker took the second half kickoff and ran 90 yards for the second. Shoemaker intercepted an Austin aerial and returned it 23 yards to the Kangaroos' 27, whence, six plays later, Ricks passed to Killian to score.

The fourth touchdown was made when Riola plunged over on the last down. Zachary pegged a 25-yard aerial to Taylor who sprinted over for the final score.

Los Angeles Pros Turn On Whizzer White, 17-6

COLORADO SPRINGS, Nov. 11. (AP)—Refusing to play the fatted calf role in Whizzer White's homecoming to his native state, the Los Angeles Bulldogs trimmed the Whizzer's Pittsburgh Pirates, 17 to 6 in an Armistice Day professional grid game in the Will Rogers Memorial Stadium today.

White, Colorado University's All-American back last year, had an in-and-out day in his first appearance before a mountain crowd as a $15,000 performer. His only fumble was quickly coined into a Los Angeles touchdown by Homer Beatty, former Southern California end, who scooped up the ball and ran 35 yards for the score in the third period.

Miners Trounce Arizona, 26-14

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 11. (AP)—Ken Heineman, Texas Mines' brilliant quarterback, was too much for the hapless University of Arizona football forces today as the Muckers counted three touchdowns in the final period to wipe out an early deficit and trounce the Wildcats, 26 to 14.

Heineman passed to End Kenneth Stice on the Arizona five at the start of the fourth, then scored on an end run. Heineman failed to convert, and Arizona still led, 14 to 13, five minutes before the final gun.

Fullback Fred Barrett of the Miners grabbed the ball from the hands of Fullback Walt Nielsen of Arizona, who had received a pass, and dashed 50 yards before lateraling to Salcido, who was downed on the Arizona five. Heineman plunged over and then converted for a 20-14 lead.

With two minutes to play, Heineman intercepted a pass on the Wildcat 45 and ran to the Arizona four. Heineman fumbled as he crossed the goal line on the next play, but the ball was recovered by Charles Dean for the final Mucker score.

Howard Payne Defeats Saints To Hold Conference Lead

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 11. (AP) — Howard Payne, driving toward retention of its Texas conference championship dropped the St. Edwards' Tigers 16-0 before 5,000 persons here today.

After a scoreless first half, Chris Sunderman, sub sophomore halfback, sparked the Yellow Jackets to the victory.

Early in the third, Suderman entered the game and on the first play kicked a field goal from the 20-yard line.

Next he intercepted a pass on his own 45 and led an off-tackle campaign to the 1-yard line. Terrell plunged across.

In the fourth period, Minor, on the fag end of a 66-yard drive, drove around right end for five yards and a score. Suderman kicked goal.

Howard Payne made 12 first downs to St. Edward's 8.

Oklahoma Aggies Nose Out Oklahoma Goldbugs, 19-12

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 11. (AP)—The Oklahoma Aggies, on the short end of the score for six straight week-ends, won their first football game since Sept. 17 today by nosing out Oklahoma City University's Goldbugs, 19 to 12, in a non-conference contest that packed all its excitement into the final period.

About 3,000 homecoming fans saw the Aggies take a seven-point lead in the opening period and most of them waited around until both defenses suddenly fell apart in the last quarter and both teams scored two touchdowns.

Duke Scorns Bowl Games

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 11. (AP)—Wallace Wade, the thin miracle man of Southern football, a coach whose teams never have lost in the Rose Bowl, is not interested in a bid to any post-season game for his Duke team, currently the nation's only major unbeaten, untied and unscored-upon eleven.

"I do not think we're interested," Wade said with a smile when he asked if Duke would accept a bid should it get past Syracuse tomorrow, North Carolina State and Pittsburgh. "Even if we're bid, I think Duke will just finish off the season and let the Bowl games go. We've already rejected a proposal to play Santa Clara New Year's Day.

"This has been a long, hard year for us. Should we go through undefeated—and that's a real long shot —the boys will have had enough football.

"An Educational School"

"You know, we're an educational institution down there at Duke. We do not exist merely for football. Our boys have their studies and they're right hard. We're interested in seeing them get good grades. By the time the season is over they have a lot to make up."

Does he think his 1938 team is of Rose Bowl calibre?

"We'll know after tomorrow," he said. "We have been hampered by injuries and, though our defense had been good, our offense has been downright disappointing. Just the same it is a fine, fighting team. It will have to be tomorrow. Every one tells me Syracuse is a tough team to beat; a courageous, resourceful squad with great versatility and spirit."

St. Mary's Triumphs Over Trinity Tigers, 21 To 0

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 11. (AP)—St. Mary's Rattlers won their first homecoming game since 1935 here today, taking down the Trinity University Tigers, 21 to 0.

Curtis Sandig was outstanding, making two St. Mary's touchdowns. The first came in the opening period from the 5-yard line, after he had led a drive from the Trinity 35. The other came as the final play of the game, reversing his field and picking his way around left end by himself for 18 yards.

Hampton Potts scored in the second from the 3-yard line. Mouton kicked all three points.

Baylor Bears Show Life On Coast To Trounce Loyola Lions 35-2; Patterson Pitches Four Counts

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11—A Baylor thunderstorm broke over the luckless heads of Loyola today and drowned the Lions under a 35 to 2 touchdown deluge.

Thirty-five thousand football fans turned out to watch the aerial magic of slender Billy Patterson and his mates from Waco, and saw Blond Billy, chief thunder bird of the storm, strike with four touchdown passes and send the losing Lions deeper into the loss column.

Patterson went further than that. He presented Loyola with its lone two points. Standing in his end zone, he flipped a short pass that fell incomplete back of the goal, automatically giving Loyola a safety.

Graham Catches First

The Baylor Bears sailed 73 yards downfield behind Patterson's pitching soon after the game opened, the last one a 30-yard affair to Fred Graham for the first tally.

Loyola fumbled on the next kickoff, and Baylor scored in two plays — Patterson on a 23-yard sprint, and a 15-yard pass to Sherman Barnes, his left end. Bob Nelson, Bear center, converted on both occasions.

Patterson quarterbacked the Bears 72 yards down the field on straight running plays in the third period, but the Lions held for downs on the 2-yard line. Baylor promptly came back, lugging the ball to the 5, and Patterson passed over the goal to Sammy Boyd, the other wing.

Interception Counts

The next Baylor score came when Jack Lummus, substitute end, snared one of Loyola's passes and galloped 40 yards over the line. The final tally came after a Loyola fumble on its own 34. Patterson, Lider and Lewellyn ran the ball to the 10, and Bullet Bill passed into the arms of "Wimpy" Wimpee, another substitute end.

Loyola made but one real scoring threat. Jack Lyons tossed a long pass to Carl Hovland, good for 38 yards, and the Lions drove on to the 1 yard line before Baylor stiffened. It was on the next play after Baylor took the ball that Patterson threw the "safety" pass.

Ralls High Defeats Crosbyton, 19-6

RALLS, Nov. 11. (Special)—Featured by Little's touchdown gallops of 95, 76 and 11-yards, Ralls High school smothered Crosbyton High here today, 19 to 6. Light, staging a one-man show, aided his team in making 9 first downs against Crosbyton's 6. An aerial, Walters to Blackwall, netted Crosbyton a touchdown. It was an official 5-B district game.

Westerners Drive Toward Title In 6-0 Win Over Pampa

Fired-Up Harvesters Prove To Be Plenty Tough But Lubbock Lads Offer Staunch Defense

By TOM MILLER
Avalanche Sports Staff Writer

HARVESTER FIELD, Pampa, Nov. 11—A second-period touchdown and a staunch defense let the willing Lubbock High Westerners keep their District one record clean here today as they defeated Pampa, 6 to 0.

No second stringers were in there playing for the Westerners, but the fired up Harvesters were found to be plenty rough for the regulars.

Coupled with Amarillo's 14-7 licking of Plainview, the Lubbock victory put the Westerners in a continued tie with the Sandies for the district lead. Pampa and Plainview were dropped from titular running.

The Pampas made a ball game of it all the way, and even made so bold as to advance to the 10-yard line in the fourth quarter on a 43-yard run by J. W. Graham. He constantly was a threat to Lubbock's defense.

Opportunity Is Wasted

Lubbock wasted a scoring opportunity in the opening chapter when Howard Alford fumbled on Pampa's 13-yard stripe. In the third quarter the Westerners again drove to the six-yard line for a first down, then failed to get closer than the two.

Coach Weldon Chapman's boys had a stiff wind to their backs on the first period, but almost "blew" their every chance. Finally as the minutes faded a sustained drive started in the center of the field when Howard Martin took Graham's wind-blown five-yard punt on the 45 and returned to the middle stripe.

Webster scuttled through the center of Pampa's line for four yards, and Leete Jackson circled left end for five more. Martin then scampered around the opposite terminal for 15 yards and a first down on the 25.

Pick Up First Down

Again Webster made five, Martin picked up another first down on the 13, and Webster plowed to the five as the quarter ended.

The big Lubbock captain plugged three times at the line, driving over the Harvesters line on the final attempt for a score. Joe Bob Foster miscued on the try for extra point, which went wide.

From there until the field judge popped his pistol the game was a thriller, although the Westerners consistently prevailed in statistics. Fumbles played a big part in aiding the Pampa eleven. Lubbock muffed five times, Pampa twice, the latter recovering five.

Starting on their own 17 the Westerners had driven within whispering distance of the second score when the rest period came. Webster, Jackson and Harold Parsons combined on line plays to carry to Pampa's 46 from where Webster kicked into the teeth of the wind to the Harvester 25 and out of bounds.

Passes Are Completed

Graham then hit little Grover Heiskell and Bob Andis for pass completions of five and 10 paces. Rusty Johnston intercepted another Graham heave on the Pampa 43.

Webster stepped off eight yards, Johnston made five, Jackson gained five, and Webster arrived at the 15-yard line after a 10-yard jaunt as the half ended.

The punting of Graham in the third quarter nullified a nifty march barely less than the distance of this Harvester field. He got off a 45-yard boot which Webster took over the goal and returned to his 18. A holding penalty against the Lubbocks set them back to their eight after Webster had gained five.

Lateral Proves Good

The Westerners pilot streaked outside right tackle for seven yards and lateraled to Jerry Nash for five more when tackled. Webster's punt went out of bounds on the 48.

Pampa tried three passes there, all incomplete and Nash broke through to block Graham's punt in midfield. The entire Westerner backfield took a hand in driving the ball to the two where it went over on downs.

Graham pulled the prize boot of the day from behind his goal line. The ball sailed over Parsons' head 60 yards via air and rolled an additional ten, then rolled lazily out of bounds.

After making a first down, Webster kicked over the goal. Three tries at the line convinced the Harvesters of Lubbock's stubbornness and Graham kicked to his 49.

Howard Martin fumbled on a try at left end and Cal Montgomery recovered for Pampa. Melvin Watkins picked up 12, then lost 16, and Graham took the spotlight.

He started through center—got through—cut to the right and ambled down the sideline almost into the clear. Martin "made up" for his fumble by blocking Graham out of bounds on the 10.

Four Attempts Fail

Four attempts at the Lubbock line netted Pampa nothing and the final quarter became a dog fight in Lubbock territory.

Webster single-handedly gained a net yardage of 200, to run the Westerner net total to an even 300. The big boy was worked overtime, carrying the sphere 42 times, plus frequent punts, two kickoffs, and a pass attempt.

Back in uniform after six weeks, Johnston was the shadow of his old self, showing the spirit characterized by his early season play. However, Johnston failed to show the confidence he once had. As the game wore on he ran harder and was a defensive standout.

The other backs—Parsons, Jackson, Martin and Alford — were equally tough defensively.

In the line it was Joe Pytell, Pat Farris and Clifton Hill who were readily stopping Harvester plays, while Nash, Lloyd Sanders, Foster, Ernest Winter weren't much outdone. Wayne Pipes helped them all from his line-backing position, probably playing the best game of his career.

In Andis and Kenneth Kyle the Harvesters presented two stellar ends. Montgomery and Welby Parish were defensive stars, with Pete Dunaway and Graham taking a big hand on defense.

Lubbock led in first downs, 17 to 4.

Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan To Show Golf Stuff In Country Club Exhibition

Two of the nation's finest young golf professionals, Byron "Lord" Nelson and Ben Hogan will compete here Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock against two local stars. The foursome, scheduled for the Lubbock Country Club course, will pit Nelson and Joe Bihl against Hogan and Charlie Akey.

Nelson, winner of the rich Augusta Masters tournament, the $2,000 Belmont, the Thomasville and the Hollywood Open, is one of the greatest subpar shot-makers in the Professional Golfers Association. He is listed as one of the ten best playing professionals. Hogan of the Century Club at White Plains, N. Y., has toured with the money professionals for two seasons, and has finished in the money in eight tournaments this year to win over $5,000.

Started In Texas

Nelson and Hogan started their careers as amateurs on various Fort Worth courses where they formerly caddied with Charlie Akey, current pro at the local country club. Nelson and Hogan are extremely long off the tees, and both are among the country's best short iron players. Nelson has won over $7,500 in tournament money this year.

Low Scoring

While visiting in Fort Worth, Hogan played 14-rounds over the tough Colonial Country Club course and his highest score was a 71. He clicked off a 64 in a recent tour of the Fort Worth Rivercrest course. His lowest card over the Colonial course was a breezing 66 in which he claimed his putts were going astray.

Akey has been hitting his shots well and his putting is satisfactory. Bihl is the current West Texas city open and Meadowbrook Invitation champion. He is on top of his game and is plenty capable of showing the two hot-shot professionals some A-1 golf.

Hogan and Nelson will arrive here Saturday afternoon and hope to get in a practice round over the par 35-36—71 country club layout. But Old Man Par is in for a sure beating with these four torrid subpar blasters firing at him. Tickets for the match will go on sale Saturday at the country club. Members of the Texas Tech golf team will be in charge of the gallery.

Brownfield Defeats Slaton In Crucial Class B Contest

(Special To The Avalanche)

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 11.—The Brownfield Cubs made a definite bid for the District 5-B football championship here this afternoon by defeating a fighting Slaton Tiger crew, 27-6, in one of the craziest endings seen here in some time.

The score was 7 for Brownfield and 6 for Slaton up to the last three minutes of play, then Brownfield got in motion and scored three touchdowns for its victory, a minute for each.

Brownfield took the lead in the second quarter when Martin caught a pass and ran 17 yards to score. Jenkins kicked goal.

Slaton got its counter early in the fourth when Clack, center, blocked a punt, picked it up and ran 27 yards for touchdown. He failed to kick goal.

Then came Brownfield's counters. Quarterback Brown passed to Rowden, an end, good for 40 yards and a touch. Jenkins again converted. A minute later, Brown passed to Rowden again for 32 yards and a touchdown, and Jenkins missed the try for point. A minute later, Brown passed to Bowers, who stepped 7 yards for touchdown, and Jenkins converted.

The teams scored five first downs each; Brownfield gained 195 yards, 63 of them from passing, and lost 43; Slaton gained 161, 49 of them from passing, and lost 47.

Sandies Snatch Fourth-Period Win, 14 To 7

(Special To The Avalanche)

AMARILLO, Nov. 11.—Amarillo's Golden Sandies again waited long to get the margin of victory, but a fourth-quarter touchdown was enough against Plainview today.

Trailing 7-0 going into the second half the Sandies scored once in the third stanza and again in the final to win 14 to 7.

The Bulldogs drove from their own 48-yard line to a counter in the second period, when Ray Schneider skipped 17 yards over the goal. Bobby Graham added the point after touchdown.

Amarillo started from their 20 in the third quarter and on ground plays carried to the Bulldogs 14. There the Plainview line stood its ground on one try and a pass was knocked down.

Thompson Passes To Score

On the next play Blazin' Bill Thompson pitched a strike to Andrews in the end zone, Thompson knotted the count with a perfect placement.

The third period ended with Amarillo's kickoff. Beck intercepted a Bulldog pass on the Plainview 34. The Sandies drove to the three. Three line plays and a pass left the locals stranded on the half-yard line.

Graham punted out to Thompson on the 25. The Blazer took off for the score on the first play, then converted.

The game ended with the Sandies on Plainview's six-inch line after two plays had brought them from past midfield.

Doyle Webster Is Injured As Gun Is Accidentally Fired

Doyle Webster, known as "The Texas Kid" who sings for the radio station here and who operates a grocery store and market at 1802 Sixth street, suffered an injury to two fingers of his left hand Friday when a rifle was accidentally discharged.

A magazine had slipped from the rifle and in replacing it, it was reported, he struck the trigger of the rifle, discharging it.

He was admitted to Plains hospital for treatment and it was indicated extent of the hand injury would not be known until today.

O'Donnell Gridders Win From Tahoka Bulldogs, 7 To 0

TAHOKA, Nov. 11. (Special)—An O'Donnell grid team that rolled to 111 yards from scrimmage had difficulty with Tahoka's schoolboy footballers here this afternoon but made one ground drive that ended in the end zone and a 7 to 0 win.

Robertson dived over in the last period and a pass to McLaurin accounted for the extra point. The first half was "all Tahoka," the Bulldogs racking up three penetrations of the O'Donnell 20-yard zone. In first downs Tahoka made 10, O'Donnell 5. O'Donnell made 58 yards from scrimmage.

Frogs Plan Ground Attack Today With Rain Threatened; Owls And Aggies, Hogs And Ponies, Prep For Games

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, Nov. 11 (AP)—Unconquered Texas Christian, the nation's top ranking football team, planned a shift to its ruthless ground game tomorrow against feeble University of Texas when bleak skies threatened rain.

Prohibitive favorite to rack up its eighth triumph over a Texas team that has dropped seven straight games, although scoring in five of them, TCU, nevertheless, evidenced deep respect for a Longhorn team improving with age.

Of the 2,368 yards Texas Christian has piled up in smothering seven foes, 1,156 of them were gained on the ground. Rain won't hamper the Horned Frog offensive too much, even with two starting halfbacks, Johnny Hall and Earl Clark, on the sidelines with minor ailments.

Fullback Connie Sparks, the conference's leading scorer, will be back for the first time since the Baylor game, and Davey O'Brien will be calling signals. Also out of the Christian lineup will be Capt. I. B. Hale, 246-pound tackle, and Guard Forrest Kline, 240 pounder.

Vital Parts Missing As Owls Set For Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 11 (AP)—The Rice Owls' rickety grid machine, some of its most vital parts missing, continues defense of its Southwest conference crown here tomorrow against a Texas Aggie team primed for a return to the win column.

Tied together by reserves, the Owl team owned two wins and no losses in conference play, but wineed at the thought of meeting a big Aggie team which has fallen just short of being a serious title contender.

Rain threatened and the Aggies planned to trot out their two big powerhouse line smashers, John Kimbrough and Jim Thomason, with Dick Todd and his broken fielding thrown in. Rice, with Ponderous Ernie Lain, the passer and plunger, still out with ankle hurts, had only crippled Ollie Cordill and Scat Sullivan to rely on for ground gains.

If Razorbacks Can Last, It May Be A Ball Game

DALLAS, Nov. 11 (AP)—Arkansas' Razorbacks, whose greatest enemy is time, wind up a disappointing Southwest Conference season tomorrow against the Southern Methodist University Mustangs.

Coach Fred Thomsen of the Ozark Hill boys believes that if his pass-mad students can restrain S. M. U., from scoring in the last minute of play, they may take back their second league victory and the scalp of a surprise team edging near Texas Christian for a photo finish.

Three of the four conference losses for the Porkers were the result of opposition scoring in the last 60 seconds.

None too soothing for their mental condition was the recollection that last week S. M. U., defeated Texas A. and M., just that way—knocking over a final-minute field goal.

Church Wants Furnace Back And Will Ask No Questions

COLUMBUS, Miss., Nov. 11 (AP)—The First Christian church today advertised for the return of the church furnace. The ad said no questions would be asked "if the party who took the furnace from the church basement will return it."

The First Christian church is almost 100 years old. In 1849 the state legislature held a session in it.

Tyler Defeats Longview, 20-0 To Take Spotlight In School Race

(By The Associated Press)

There will be a new champion in Texas Interscholastic League football this season and quite a few believe the team that took the defending titlists—Longview's Lobos—out of the running Friday will wear the 1938 crown.

Tyler's mighty Lions rolled over the Lobos 20-0 to eliminate Longview and make Tyler overwhelming favorite to come through with the District 9 crown. Gladewater remains with a mathematical chance of tying for the title but Tyler can defeat or tie Marshall, the remaining team on the Lion schedule, and take the championship.

The Western division of the Oil Belt ended up in a tie—but Abilene, the 1937 champion, was not in it. San Angelo beat Abilene, 15-7, today while Sweetwater was downing Big Spring 19-0. San Angelo and Sweetwater will now play off the deadlock.

Gainesville's undefeated, untied Leopards pushed Denison out of the way, 13-0, today and have only Sherman remaining in their path to a district 5 championship. Sherman has one tie—that with Denison.

Highland Park Wins

Highland Park (Dallas) blasted McKinney 33-7 to virtually clinch honors in district 6. The Highlanders have only Sulphur Springs, a team beaten by McKinney, 34-6, to dispose of.

Beaumont defeated Galveston to leave only two unbeaten teams in district 14—Beaumont and Port Arthur. The latter did not have a conference game this week, playing an intersectional tilt and winning it, 28-21, over Mesa, Ariz.

Donna and Mercedes were eliminated in the lower bracket of district 16, Donna falling before Weslaco 7-0 and Mercedes losing to Pharr-San Juan-Alamo 12-0.

The Characters

Archie Lumsden, myself visitor to the French Riviera.

Ottilie Wills, beautiful American heiress.

Rene Geiss, head of a murder conspiracy.

Yesterday: Ottilie and I are caught in Geiss's house between Geiss and Henrietta Adams on the one hand, and crazy Noah More on the other.

Chapter 38

Night Of Horror

There was one chance only and that a thin one. I gripped Ottilie's wrist and drew her after me round the angle of the stairs to the studio door. As I did so, finding it mercifully ajar, I heard Geiss's step on the marble flags.

I thrust her inside, slipped after her myself. The footsteps passed our door and proceeded down the passage to the secret room; I heard the sound of a key turning and next minute the click of a closing lock.

Escape by the front door was impossible, and I looked round desperately for some corner where we could hide ourselves until the inmates of the house had gone their dark and devious ways. Even as I hesitated, I heard a shuffling tread in the hall. There was a second door on my left, which must lead to the secret room, and now I realized that it, also, stood ajar, for a murmur of voices came faintly through the crack. I drew her towards it, and as I did so, turned my head and saw the door we had entered slowly move inward.

There was only one thing for it. I caught her by the shoulders and gently thrust her into the second room, so that she stood flat against the wall behind the heavy curtain, and as I followed her and softly closed the door behind us, it seemed to me that the situation had reached pinnacle of fantastic horror.

I moved stealthily a fraction to one side, where the division of the curtains showed a thin line of light, and found that by putting my eye to the crack, I could get a very fair view of the upper end of the room. The housekeeper stood, watchful and defiant looking up to the dais, where, behind the monstrous statue of the goat Geiss was doing something that I could not see.

"Come then, Henrietta!" he called mockingly. "Do you not wish to se where I have my secret hiding-place, now that it is too late to be of use to you?"

The woman walked slowly forward, rounding the long, black table that stood before the dias, and stood between it and the statue, and it seemed to me that now her watchfulness was redoubled, for her angular figure was poised and tense.

"I'm not going any nearer," she said. "And I think I'd better tell you, Rene Geiss, that there's a revolver under this coat of mine. If you try anything, I know how to use it."

"A gun!" he exclaimed. "You are a resourceful woman, Henrietta, but I promise you that you will have no occasion to use it—I, Rene Geiss, promise you that!" And as he spoke, he stooped swiftly, disappearing behind the statue. There was a moment's silence and then, to my horror, I saw the white, monstrous shape suddenly tilt forward. The woman beneath screamed, once, horribly, and tried to spring backward; but the long, black-draped, stone table was close behind her, shutting her in. She swung over it, and as she did so, the thing toppled forward and fell straight down on her, with a thunderous crash that almost drowned the second dreadful scream that rang out.

Locked In

I clapped my hand over Ottilie's mouth, and slid my other arm round her waist, feeling her shaking as if with a palsy.

"You see, Henrietta," said Geiss's voice gently, "you did not need the gun." The moans ceased and I knew that the woman was dead. He stood there for a moment, while I held my breath, and then moved swiftly, his pebble-eyes turning, animal-like, to right and left, over to the curtain that shroudded the farther wall. A moment he fumbled behind it, then turned back, thrusting what appeared to be a wad of notes into his pocket, and crossed to the table.

He picked up something that looked like a pack of cards, flicked them over with practiced fingers, and dropped five cards, one by one, on the velvet cushion, then stood staring at them, with a face suddenly drawn and contorted by fear. Suddenly he clapped his hands over his eyes. "I do not believe it!" he shrieked, in a voice so hoarse that I harly knew it, and turning on his heel, dashed from the room. The next minute I heard a confused uproar in the studio at my back.

"You!" came Geiss's voice in a frenzied scream. "You would dare to spy on me, you drug-sodden half-wit! If I did not need you tomorrow, I would kill you now! As it is, go at once, before I change my mind!"

There was a scuffle, a half-strangled groan close to the other side of the door, and then silence, broken only by a small sound that seemed to drain the blood from my veins, leaving me cold and shivering, for it was the sound of a key turning in a lock.

The door behind us was locked, and it was odds that the other door, through which Geiss had fled, was also fastened. Only to well did I know how impossible it was to break down either of those two doors, and yet the alternative, the long hours that must be spent in that deadful room, shut in with that gruesome, broken body, waiting until Hugo or Dunning or the police should come to free us, was a prospect almost too awful to contemplate.

I stood there listening for another five minutes, for if the madman who roamed the house learned of our presence, I dared not imagine what would happen.

At last I moved. "I think we can shift ourselves now," I whispered. "Our host wouldn't wait longer than he could help, after that last effort."

"But, Archie," Ottilie said, very low, "what happened? What was that awful cry, and the crash?"

"That," I answered slowly, "was when Geiss killed Henrietta Adams. She's out there now, Ottilie—but there's worse than that to face."

"I can guess," she said. I felt her tremble my arm, but her voice was amazingly steady. We're locked in."

You've said it," I agreed with a groan. "Stay here for a minute, like a good girl, and don't look until I tell you."

Swiftly, I dragged down the heavy wall curtain and covered the body. "You can come out now, Ottilie. But you've got to face the fact that we're stuck in this room until Dunning or Hugo—or the police, even—think to come and look for us here."

Then I caught sight of the playing-cards Geiss had used. They were like no cards I had ever seen before. Queer little pictures they were, crudely drawn, yet startingly vivid.

The girl was standing at my elbow. "The tarot!" she said. "Don't tell me he took time to consult them before he left! I wonder what they told him?"

"Whatever it was, he didn't like it," I answered, with a vivid recollection of that frenzied cry: "I do not believe it!" But Ottilie was bending over the cards, fingering them intently.

"I don't wonder he didn't like it!" she said under her breath. "Here's the reading of his fortune. Failure, madness, death, and eternal damnation, all caused by a dark woman."

"Strange," said I. "He was always scared of dark women. He said one would cause his death in the long run."

She stared at me. "Melanie was dark," she said slowly. "Her name means 'the dark girl,' and if we ever get the better of Geiss, it'll be through what she managed to discover."

It was true enough, and a queer thought at that, but as she spoke her sister's name, I saw her lip quiver, and I swung round searching for something to divert her thoughts. An idol gloomed at us from a niche on the wall, and as my eye lighted on it, something suddenly clicked in my brain.

"Ottilie," I said, "there's a connection here. Geiss was busy behind that curtain before he cleared out, and he came away with money in his hand."

"Archie, there's something funny about that statue."

"You bet there is!" said I, and in a couple of strides I was across the room.

The image stood there staring sardonically at us with its twin faces. It was carved, as far as one could judge, from a solid block of smooth black stone, and when I struck a match to examine it more closely, there seemed no crack or joint that could conceal an opening.

But Ottilie reached over my shoulder and gripped something that looked like a simplified Tudor rose, turning it with all her strength, and as I looked, I saw the image slowly swing to one side, disclosing a deepish hollow in the center of the plinth.

There was something lying at the bottom, something long and gray-black and sinister, and as I recognised it for what it was, I drew a long breath of relief, for it seemed to me that we had rounded the last bend of the road.

"My!" said she, with a sort of triumphant gasp. "What wouldn't I give to have Mr. Hugo Stern here this minute!" And as she spoke she reached her hand down into the opening, but I gripped her by the wrist.

"Don't touch it," I told her. "It's a gun all right, and I'll take a bet it's the one we're looking for, but if so the fingerprints on it are precious to us; we're not going to disturb them. And futhermore," I added, as she jerked her head impatiently, "we're leaving it exactly where it is for the police to discover."

Tuesday: Ottilie disappears again.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

RAILROADS of the U. S. will get their best break in twenty years from the rehabilitation program President Roosevelt's transportation experts are framing for the next Congress. It will be their reward for calling off the proposed wage cuts on the eve of the recent election.

Although only a few lines need loans, Jesse F. Jones will accommodate them with money at extremely low rates of interest. Bankruptcy laws will be revised so that reorganization moves may start in Circuit instead of District Court, reducing the wringing-out period from many years to a few months, if all works out as Mr. Jomes promises. The government, through the R. F. C., will become the long-time financier for reorganized roads. Besides reducing fixed charges, the substitution of Uncle Sam for Wall Street as the industry's banker may remove the roads from the field of partisan and demagogic politics. It won't be so popular to attack them if the taxpayers are putting up the dough.

Most far-reaching reform contemplates stripping the I. C. C. of its supreme authority over rates. It would be transformed from a court of last and final resort to an advisory agency. Underlying idea is to give greater flexibility to the rate structure, allowing the roads to change enough to pay all costs and yield a reasonable return.

FADING: The most influential backstage group which Washington has witnessed since the days of Andrew Jackson's kitchen cabinet may soon disband. It may mean the breakup of the whole brain trust brood.

Supreme court attaches understand that Justice Louis Brandeis will soon resign to devote himself to the Zionist movement, which has suffered serious setbacks under the threats of the dictators. With him may go Benjamin Cohen, who recently went to Europe on a special mission for F. D. R. on behalf of Jewish refugees. Despite Mr. Roosevelt's public and private boosts, the scheme to aid oppressed races has not succeeded, and the next move contemplates a mobilization of world sentiment for the victims of racial prejudice. Mr. Brandeis would be America's contribution to this relief army.

The distinguished justice, together with Felix Frankfurter of Harvard, has been the sire of the Roosevelt brain trust. He often provided both inspiration and recruits. Although Tommie Corcoran is the more vocal and ubiquitous member of the team, Ben Cohen is generally recognized as the behind-the-screens planner and strategist. So these two men's retirement would effectively cripple the New Deal's board of strategy.

AROUSED: "Uncle Dan" Roper has been caricatured as a time-serving politician for so long that he almost believes it himself. But in the last few months he has shaken his department out of its long sleep and reinforced it from a showdown battle with the State Department in the field of foreign trade.

Mr. Roper has advanced career and non-political men until his various divisions are now staffed with some of the Capital's ablest experts. He brought back Willard Thorp to serve as representative on the anti-monopoly committee, despite the politicos' notorious dislike for the New Yorker. He listened to and accepted Assistant Secretary Patterson's suggestion for revitalizing the department. He promoted numerous other brilliant but unknown men, including E. A. Tupper, M. Joseph Meehan and Robert Nathan. Result is the burgeoning of an up-and-coming spirit, an esprit de corps, lacking since Herbert Hoover's days.

It's almost time that "Uncle Dan" fought back. They've been chipping away at his department for years, robbing him of his control of foreign markets, the merchant marine, civil aeronautics. But now he appears to be in a fighting mood.

NEW YORK
By James McMillan

WHILE Armistice Day in organized labor's civil war is still in the indefinite future, next week's C. I. O. convention won't do anything rash to impair the prospects for an eventual reconciliation with the A. F. of L. Some of the boys may feel impelled to toss verbal brickbats at the Federation's bitter-enders, but responsible C. I. O. leaders will take care to keep the door open for future negotiations.

John Lewis and his aides are privately more peace-minded than the Frey-Woll-Hutcheson group that dominates the A. F. of L. executive committee. They are going ahead with plans to form a permanent C. I. O. organization because these were announced months ago, and it would look too much like a major retreat to cancel or postpone them at this late date.

But the new setup will be so designed that it can later be easily incorporated as an autonomous unit in a super-federation, along with the A. F. of L. and the Railway Brotherhoods.

ENFORCEMENT: One provision that will certainly be made at the convention is that all member unions shall pay substantial and regular dues to the new C. I. O. headquarters organization. Up to now Lewis' United Mine Workers and Sidney Hillman's Amalgamated Clothing Workers (plus David Dubinsky's Ladies Garment Workers until recently) have carried most of the C. I. O.'s financial load and are getting fed up with it. It has therefore been decided that the burden must be more equitably distributed hereafter.

This move may cause trouble in some of the newer industrial unions—notably the United Automobile Workers—which have been rather lax in the matter of dues collections. Plants where the workers are too casual about payments are likely to be picketed—and that in turn will probably lead to tieups and squabbles with employers.

The C. I. O. heads, however, are determined to enforce the principle that all those who enjoy the benefits of belonging to their unions shall pay their fair share for the privilege, even though this policy may cost them quite a few members before it is generally accepted.

TIMING: The anti-trust action instituted by the Department of Justice against Columbia Gas and Electric for an alleged natural gas monopoly is not essentially a violation of the government-utility "peace."

For one thing, the suit is not a sudden bright idea. It has been in preparation for many months. For another, it does not involve Columbia's activities in the electricity field at all.

But New York sharps figure that the timing of the D. of J.'s announcement—four days before election—had a certain political connotation. Comment runs that the administration probably wanted to reassure its "liberal" supporters that it had no idea of becoming too chummy with the "power trust."

TRIBUTE: The volume of U. S. currency in circulation last week was $6,706,000,000 the highest figure on record except during the 1933 bank holiday and only about half a billion short of the peak reached then. Published reports fail to find an explanation for this strange phenomenon. Obviously American business needs do not account for it. The trend has been steadily upward for several years.

Astute New York analysts find strong circumstantial evidence that European hoarding is the answer. Probably more than a billion dollars in American bills have found their way into the strong-boxes of wealthy and not-so-wealthy foreigners—a startling tribute to their faith in our currency as the safest last-ditch resource in the world.

Texas Topics---By Howard Marshall

AUSTIN, Nov. 11. (AP)—Evidence that controversy over the tax on oil, Texas' greatest rescurce, will occupy much of the legislature's time at the session starting in January has appeared with increasing frequency.

There have been few sessions in recent years in which the tax on the petroleum industry has not been one of the main issues. The production levy on oil has been boosted 37 1-2 per cent since Gov. James V. Allred's administration began but thousands of persons think it still is not high enough. The current rate is 2 3-4 cent a barrel or 2 3-4 per cent of value, which is greater.

Invited to speak to oil men at the San Antonio meeting of the Texas division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association last month, Governor-elect W. Lee O'Daniel said it looked like the state might have to have more tax money for old age pensions and the money must come from those who had it. He intimated he believed the oil industry was in that position.

Here's The Talk

There has been some talk that the several additional millions needed annually for more liberal old age pensions, aid to the dependent children and blind, and state matching of teachers' contributions for retirement, might be obtained through reductions in ordinary expenses of government.

It is almost impossible, however, to bring about a large cut in state governmental costs without slashing salaries and many persons hold that would be but of line with the federal government's drive to boost wages. It is difficult to consolidate departments or curtail their personnel because every department has many friends.

Numerous observers feel that if the legislature cuts expenses to the extent that the general fund deficit can be retired at a rate of about $3,000,000 a year, it will have done about as much as can be expected in the way of economy. The deficit has been rising each year for several years. At the start of this month, it was more than $18,000,000. However, it always is higher in November and December than at any other time.

MOST of the arguments for and against an additional oil tax are familiar. Those favoring it say Louisiana has a higher rate than Texas and oil men of this state could afford to pay more. Texas has an advantage over states other than Louisiana because it is closer to tidewater, they contend.

One reply to that argument is that many producing sections of West Texas are farther from tidewater than Oklahoma and enjoy no natural advantage over the Sooner state. The question of whether Oklahoma or Texas oil taxes are higher often is debated. Taxing systems in the two states are somewhat different.

The principal argument against a greater oil levy is that it would force thousands of small pumping wells to close, thereby leaving in the ground oil which otherwise would be recovered. In view of that argument, some persons have proposed a graduated tax according to a well's production. Whether such an impost would be constitutional has been a subject of frequent debate.

Permanent Fund Suggested

Talk has been increasing concerning the desirability of putting part of the oil tax into a permanent fund, which still would be drawing interest when Texas no longer has oil, if that time ever comes.

Those who advance the proposal say this generation has no right to reap all the benefits from oil production because oil is an irreplacable resource. Citizens owe it to succeeding generations to let them have revenue from oil, these persons assert.

Texas unquestionably can keep producing in excess of a million barrels of oil a day for many more years. Eventually however, discoveries might fall behind production.

JAY TAYLOR, of Amarillo, an official of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association and the American National Livestock association, says there is a decided trend toward limiting range herds in a majority of the western cattle country.

"The cattlemen are guarding against over-grazing," Taylor said. "They have found that too many cattle on a pasture can take all the expected profit and retard or ruin the grass. The idea is to prorate the cattle to the grass with the view of producing better animals and at the same time protect the grass."

TARZAN THE FEARLESS No. 78 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Jeff raised his rifle slowly and took a preliminary sight. Tarzan was much too far away to offer an easy target. Now Nkima saw his friend Tarzan approaching, and he saw Jeff's action. The little monkey knew well the meaning of the deadly thunderstick.

Immediately Nkima set up a fearful screaming and chattering. Mary turned quickly and ran to the mouth of the cave. She too saw the distant Tarzan, and Jeff's ready rifle. "What are you doing?" she demanded. "I'm going to shoot him," Jeff answered sullenly.

"He's our enemy," the man added; "he's probably coming to kill me and steal you." Mary was dismayed. She trusted Tarzan; she believed that in him rested the only hope of saving her father and Bob Mason, the man she loved. She must not let them die!

"Jeff," she pleaded; "spare Tarzan, and I'll marry you." Jeff looked up. For a moment he weighed his decision. He wanted this girl; but he wanted, too, the giant emeralds which would be his reward for Tarzan's capture—or death. Which did he prize most?

Public Opinion Being Aroused

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP)—British public opinion has been so outraged by German violence against Jews, informed quarters said today, that Prime Minister Chamberlain's program of appeasement with Germany may be considerably hampered.

The government meanwhile took steps to protect British Jews from violence in Germany after the wave of anti-Semitic destruction that swept the country yesterday.

Until yesterday there were persistent rumors that the prime minister soon would seek an opportunity to discuss the colonial question with Reichsfuehrer Hitler as part of a general European settlement. Now it is believed any such negotiations with Germany probably will be postponed.

To Enforce Accord

A reliable source, nevertheless, said the British-Italian accord of last April 16, held in suspense by Chamberlain's demand for "settlement" in Spain, probably would be put in force next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Prayers for the Jewish people "in their trouble" were said by Bishop Paul De Labilliere, dean of Westminister, in a last-minute change in the abbey's Armistice day remembrance services.

British official quarters studied an article which appeared in German Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbel's newspaper Der Angriff. It was believed Britain might ask if the article were officially inspired and, if so, might protest to Berlin.

Der Angriff said "it is no coincidence" that the Polish Jew who killed a nazi diplomat in Paris "took the same line" as Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden and Alfred Duff Cooper.

Sixty-seven per cent of fatal motor accidents occur in small towns and rural districts, according to estimates.

Who Was It That Threw The Ink Well At Satan Is Big Question Among Baptists

DALLAS, Nov. 11. (AP)—Was it St. Paul or Martin Luther who threw the ink well at Satan?

Dr. Porter Bailes of Tyler, in illustrating a point in an address before the Baptist general convention today, said it was St. Paul.

A slight murmer came from the audience.

"My error, it was Martin Luther who threw the ink well," said Dr. Bailes.

Red Cross Service To Men In U. S. Service Is Increased

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 11. (AP) — Red Cross service to American soldiers and sailors has increased steadily since Armistice day, 1918, William M. Baxter, jr., midwestern manager, said today.

"A total of 8,564 Texas veterans and service men now active in the United States army and navy and their families were aided with hospitalization, claims adjustments and family problems last year," Baxter said.

Christmas kits containing diaries, stationery, playing cards and other items were prepared by Texas Red Cross chapters for 381 military men in foreign posts and fleets. Holiday remembrances were sent 3,750 men in government hospitals by Texas Junior Red Cross members.

The Red Cross annual roll call begins on Armistice and continues through Thanksgiving.

Ralph Lane, Virginia's first governor, is credited with the introduction of the tobacco pipe into Europe in 1586. He taught Sir Walter Raleigh how to smoke a pipe.

CARROLL, Ia., Nov. 11 (AP)—J. K. Towne has been ded since Oct. 29, but apparently 1710 Carroll county voters didn't know it.

They cast their ballots for him for the office of sheriff, for which he was nominated by Republicans in their county convention last July. Towne died of a heart attack the day he opened his campaign.

"NO MORE NAVY," cry the wives and the sweethearts of the men who man Uncle Sam's fighting ships, during the long dangerous practice days of maneuvers, during the endless torturing nights when anything can happen "out there." "No more navy," they vow, gathering in the gray morning at the Commandant's house after some new casualty, a fleet disaster. Yet they go on, these women, loving and losing and enduring, as stout-hearted as the men they stay at home to await. Read the story of their magnificent courage in an intimately touching new serial of the sea, "Lovers Aweigh," by Betty Wallace.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 11 (Canadian Press)—Elderly J. Sartor, clad in potato sacks, was found dead on his bed Thursday in a tumble down shack. Investigators reported he had a $14,257 account, opened 28 years ago, in a Bank of Montreal branch here.

"Keep Your Chin Up And Hunt For Good Things In Life," Grandma Neal Says

Mrs. Mary Neal, of 1613 Tenth street, who has lived in Lubbock since the days when history of the southwest was in one of its earliest chapters, will observe her 87th birthday Saturday.

"Grandma" Neal, as she is known, came to Texas with her husband, J. B. Neal, in 1866. They lived near Ft. Worth two years, then moved to Parker county, where they made their home near Weatherford nearly 40 years. They came to Lubbock in the springtime, 31 years ago.

Wide Place In Road

"It was just a wide place in the road then," said "Grandma", "and it was so rough and wild that I used to be frightened all the time."

She told of days when cowboys, whose favorite recreation she thought then was frightening settlers like herself, rode the plains, and how she locked the door at night, fearing one of them might decide to come in and make himself at home.

She likes to reminisce about the early days, and about pioneer life.

Helped Make History

"Not only was I here while history was being made," she said, "but I helped make some of it myself." When friends comment on her excellent memory, she replies, "It's easy to remember things that are good."

Her husband died in 1921. None of her six children are living, so she is the sole survivor of a family of eight.

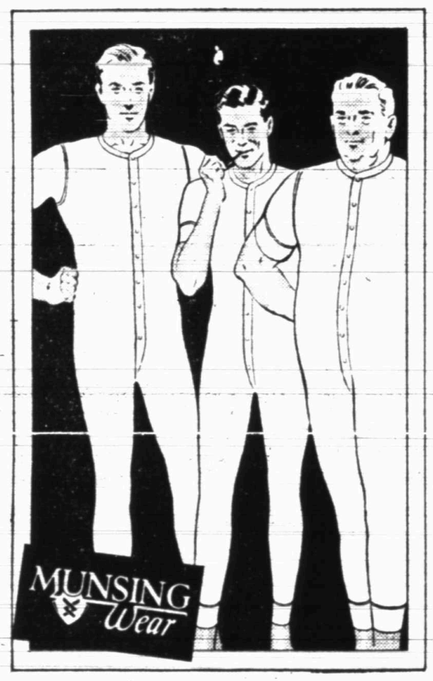

Happy and healthy, she says she enjoys life as much as she did 80 years ago and hopes to continue so long as she can "laugh and be happy." She is unusually active, takes pride in doing all her own work, and in her ability to "keep my chin up."

Greetings Are Received

Birthday cards and letters of greeting have been coming in during the last few days from several states, along with numerous telephone calls from friends and well-wishers in Lubbock. She takes special delight in exhibiting a letter from a niece in Atlanta, Ga. "Grandma" last saw her when she left for Texas in 1866. She likes small gatherings, so old friends bringing presents will "drop in" for a quiet chat.

Relatives near Ft. Worth want her to live with them. She declines. "West Texas," she repeats, "is a wonderful country, and the people here are the best on earth."

"The Lord has been good to me these 87 years," says Grandma, "and my advice to everyone is, keep your chin up and hunt for the good things in your life if you want to enjoy it."

Celebration At Tahoka Staged

TAHOKA, Nov. 11 (Special)—Armistice day did not mean a quiet observance in Tahoka.

Bands paraded, followed by 50 ex-service men, Boy Scouts and floats. Truett Smith, district attorney, spoke at the high school, where Gold Star mothers and former soldiers were honored.

Business houses were shut tightly.

At noon those who formerly were in the service of their country in time of war were guests with their families at a dinner prepared for 250 persons by Marion G. Bradley post 250 of the American Legion. W. E. Smith is commander.

Former Students Organize

The day was not limited strictly to observation of the armistice. Former students of the high school were organized in the afternoon. Claude Donaldson was elected president, Mrs. Oscar Roberts vice president, Mrs. Wade Holland secretary.

Between halves of the grid game played between Tahoka and O'Donnell a cake was presented to the oldest ex-student, going to E. T. Wells of O'Donnell, who attended school in the court house when Tahoka was founded in 1909. He was graduated in 1910, said Frank Hill, newspaper editor.

Well Known Shreveport Man Claimed By Bullet Wound

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 11 (AP)—Yandell Boatner, 47, well-known Shreveport attorney and civic leader, succumbed early today to a small calibre rifle bullet which entered his left side near the heart last Tuesday at his home here. He was alone when wounded, although his wife and two children were in the home. Friends stated that apparently the rifle fell and was accidentally discharged when he was seeking winter clothing in a closet. He is survived by his wife and three children.

Mr. Boatner was past president of the local chamber of commerce and of Norwela council Boy Scouts of America.

Prison Whips Called Relics

HOUSTON, Nov. 11 (AP)—The bat—a whip used for corporal punishment of Texas prisoners—was condemned today by Dr. Sidney M. Lister, member of the state prison board, as "a relic of the dark ages."

The attack on the instrument used to punish recalcitrant prisoners was made last night at a meeting of 300 doctors at the Central State prison farm near Sugarland and reiterated today by Dr. Lister upon his return here.

Disgrace To System

"Only the other day I examined two prisoners who had been beaten brutally," Dr. Lister said, "it was a disgrace to the Texas prison system and to members of the prison board, me included."

The board member said the bat—a thin strap of leather four inches wide, four feet long and attached to a wooden handle—represents the major form of punishment in the Texas prison. Twenty lashes from the bat are the maximum allowed by state law. Prisoners are stripped of their clothing and whipped in the presence of a physician.

Relics of Dark Ages

Dr. Lister proposed that all whips of this type in the prison be placed in museums and labeled "relics of the dark ages of the Texas prisons."

"I have reached this conclusion after seven years of study and observations of prisoners in the Texas prison systems," he said.

The doctor recommended other forms of punishment including the dark cell and a restricted diet as a more humane means of punishment. He said another form of punishment found effective was to compel prisoners to stand on the end of a barrel for a required number of hours.

Thousands Of Men Found Jobs In October, AFL Estimates

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The American Federation of Labor estimated that from 300,000 to 500,000 jobless found work during October.

In its monthly review of business the federation also called yesterday for a "new conception of wages—wages based on producing power with machines" rather than human skills and energy alone.

The federation asserted that maximum production, properly distributed, would mean an income of at least $4,000 a year for every family.
