NEW TAX REDUCTION BILL NOW A LAW

COOLIDGE SIGNS MEASURE BEFORE CAMERA BATTERY

NATION'S TAXPAYERS TO PROFIT BY CUTTING OF PERCENTAGE

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The new tax reduction bill became a law when President Coolidge gave his formal approval at 10:22 o'clock this morning.

The measure, which provides for a reduction of $387,000,000 in the amount of taxes to be paid by the American people this year, was signed by the Chief Executive in his offices as a battery of still and motion cameramen recorded the scene.

Dignitaries Are Present
Invited to witness the ceremony were several prominent in the drafting of the legislation. They included Secretary Mellon, Director Lord of the Budget, Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican floor leader of the house, Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee; Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democrat on the ways and means committee, Chairman Simons of the senate finance committee and Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the finance committee.

Was Sanctioned Wednesday.
The bill received final congressional sanction Wednesday and was transmitted yesterday to the White House where it was sent to the treasury for review before being signed by the President.

In signing the bill President Coolidge made no comment verbal or written as to its provisions or probable effect.

The signing was to have taken place at ten o'clock but was delayed by the late arrival of Senator Simmons.

The President's office was transformed into a study with two Klieg lights adding to the illumination. As Mr. Coolidge took up a pen he said to his invited guests: "Come up close behind my chair; short gentlemen in front; tall gentlemen behind."

He used two pens to affix his signature, one of which he presented to representative Green and the other to Senator Smoot.

For ten minutes photographers took shots of the President and the group behind him from various angles, finally swarming up to his desk for closeups.

The clicking and grinding of cameras continued until the President finally said: "That's enough." Then the office was closed and the President went to an adjoining room for the semi-weekly meeting with his cabinet.

DRY ROW HEARD BY RADIO BUGS

Senators Debate Prohibition
And Wayne Wheeler Cites
His Views Over Air

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Prohibition was "our greatest victory in the World War" and was also "foisted upon a crazed people" in the respective opinions of Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, and Senator Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey.

They debated the subject last night over the radio, while Mrs. Mary T. Norton, Democrat representative from New Jersey, was criticizing prohibition evened when Wayne B. Wheeler, general council for the anti-saloon league, issued a statement assailing the views of Senator Edwards.

League Attacked
The New Jersey senator gave much of his time to an attack on the league, calling Mr. Wheeler the "arch traitor of American liberty, freedom of thought and action and declaring that "not even the sacred courts of our land are free from the poisonous taint of the league's filthy hands and breath."

Mr. Wheeler replied that "like a lawyer whose case is bad, they abuse their opponents by calling them arch traitors while at the recent wet meetings he referred to himself and his associates as 'chaotic perverts' who seek to fill the holy grail with 2.75 percent beer."

He said Senator Edwards' "unredeemed pledge to make New Jersey as wet as the Atlantic ocean rankles in his mind."

Senator Brookhart declared the universal ratification of the eighteenth amendment was proof that the majority of the people desired prohibition. He said enforcement was becoming more efficient daily and that if any modification of the Volstead Act is effected it will be to make it stronger. The Iowa senator predicted a vote in congress would reveal many in favor of the dry.

California Tours Campaign Taking On New Interest As the Coming of Spring Heralds Approaching Time For Jaunt

With the closing of the month of February merchants cooperating in the California Tours campaign report that although this time of year is generally considered to be a bad one for collections that they have found the interest of the contestants in the tours offered has been a great boon to the collecting of funds for them. At the opening of this month's business, when collections for January's business were the order of events, many ladies entered in the contest personally collected bills from other houses cooperative in the campaign, thus profiting by votes for their troubles.

WIND AND RAIN, COMING OUT OF NORTHWEST AND TEXAS, DESTROYS LIFE AND PROPERTY IN MIDWEST

SNOW BLOWS AT VELOCITY OF MILE PER MINUTE TRAFFIC AND BUSINESS TIED UP IN MANY SECTIONS OF CENTRAL UNITED STATES

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Eleven are dead and scores injured as a result of a high windstorm in the midwest, sweeping out of the Northwest and Texas yesterday, the storms struck the central part of the country, accompanied by heavy rains and snow at a velocity of sixty miles an hour, causing incalculable property loss. Buildings were destroyed, streets flooded, telephone and telegraph lines damaged and traffic delayed.

Michigan and Wisconsin reported snow a foot deep. Light thunderstorms were general in the Eastern states. Slightly colder weather with snow flurries in the Northern and Eastern lake region was predicted by the weather bureau.

Family Wiped Out
The greatest loss of life was in Chicopee County, Ark., where four white persons and a negro were killed. Levi Lyson and his three children were killed when the home was destroyed. The negro lost his life at Jennie, although virtually the entire town of Jennie was destroyed.

The only death reported was that of the daughter of Mrs. Lena Martin, M. C. Spencer of Ludlow Falls, Ohio was fatally injured by a door blow from his hinges. Two negroes also lost their lives near Cruger, Miss., one was killed at Greenwood and another near Greenville, Miss.

Chicago Street Flooded
Twenty four square blocks on the North-west side of Chicago were flooded deep enough for boating. Children used row boats to get from school and in some districts rafts on flat boats aided householders in their marketing.

A thaw preceded the storm in Ohio, jamming the rivers with broken ice and causing overflows with heavy flood damage. Four mail carriers and two passengers were forced to wade to shore when caught on the ice in Lake Erie in mail trucks a short way from shore.

Factories Closed
Mills and factories were closed and traffic suspended at Escanaba, Mich., where they had the most severe snow storm in four years. Families were rescued in boats from the flood at Rockford. The water was three feet deep one of the avenues.

At Port Clinton, Ohio, fears were expressed that possibly three automobiles had come through the ice between that town and South Bass Island. Three machines were seen starting toward the island yesterday afternoon before reports that the ice had given way were received.

Accident Check Made
PORT CLINTON, Ohio, Feb. 26. (P)—Careful check today by officials and residents here tended to prove groundless reports yesterday that three automobiles may have crashed through the ice of Lake Erie.

The report was that three automobiles started over the ice from here to South Bass Island and were not seen to return. The ice started to break up yesterday. Today it is all gone from near the shore. Residents of various islands have been making the trip to Port Clinton over the ice in winter for supplies.

The same situation will hold good with the coming of the first of March, merchants believe, and the contest, aside from being what they consider the greatest piece of campaign advertising ever staged here, has proven itself valuable along another and unexpected line.

With the coming of Spring, renewed interest, on the part of the ladies who are campaigning for the free tours, is expected. The tours which are being paid for by local merchants are absolutely free to the two winners. The special trains carrying winners from various cities of Texas will leave

CHAPMAN GIVEN THIRD REPRIEVE

Notorious Gunman Saved From Gallows For Third Time
As Governor Acts

(By The Associated Press)
HARTFORD, Feb. 26.—Granted a reprieve which extends from March 3 to April 6, the period in which his last fight to escape the gallows can be made, Gerald Chapman, convicted murderer, is now looking to the United States Supreme Court to save him.

Under protest, Governor Trumbull yesterday for the third time stayed the execution of a death sentence originally set for June 25 last year, nearly three months after the bandit's conviction for killing a New Britain policeman.

Clemency was granted to permit application to the United States Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari, if the writ is granted, Chapman's case on the merits of international questions involved in his transfer to the jurisdiction of Connecticut from the federal prison at Atlanta, will be heard by the Supreme Court.

Should the petition be denied, the Chapman case, insofar as legal technicalities which have kept it before the courts for nearly a year, are concerned, will be at an end.

State's Attorney Alcorn requested the latest stay of the governor as the result of his good faith in the intention of Chapman's counsel to apply to the Supreme Court. Alcorn says this is his final demand upon the governor in the matter.

His disappearance is attributed to loss of memory resulting from a shell shock while serving with the American army in France.

Rev. Fleming left the home of his wife's parents in Mountain View about 10 o'clock in the morning, after saying he was going to town to transact business. He has not been heard from since.

Authorities said today they had learned he had several heavy obligations at Faxon when he left.

BLOODHOUNDS ON TRIAL AS POSSE OPENS ITS HUNT

TWO WOULD-BE ROBBERS ESCAPE AFTER FIGHT; ONE WOUNDED

(By The Associated Press)
FORT WORTH, Feb. 26.—Bloodhounds today were on the trail of two men who escaped from a score of officers and citizens of Aledo shortly after midnight following the foiling of an attempt to rob the Citizens Bank there through the resourcefulness of Tom Gray, a young constable and Gertrude Meador, a telephone operator.

Ed Winton, 27, Wichita Falls, alleged third member of the would-be robber band was wounded and is in the City-County Hospital here but his wounds are said to be not serious. The bloodhounds were taken to Aledo, 18 miles west of here, and put on the trail by county detective Harry Hamilton, accompanied by several city detectives. A searching party of about a dozen men, led by constable Gray, Aledo, who discovered the robbers in the bank, were scouring the country within a 10 mile radius today.

A statement by Winton that he believes one of the two missing men is wounded, encouraged officers in their search. Winton said the three men had an automobile hidden in a ravine three quarters of a mile from the town. It is supposed that the two fugitives reached it and escaped inasmuch as the car has not been located.

Constable Sounds Warning.
Constable Gray, on duty all night at Aledo, discovered three men peering open the front doors of the bank about 1:30 a. m. today. He immediately notified H. E. Law, a citizen, and his brother, S. B. Gray, Justice of the Peace. They then notified Miss Medford, telephone operator, who aroused the neighborhood. She called A. M. Underwood, Texas and Pacific railroad operator at Aledo, and he sent a dispatch to Fort Worth police asking for aid.

The call reached the police station at 1:55 a. m. and in 15 minutes the emergency men had covered the 13 miles to Aledo.

Officers Lay For Bandits.
After the alarm was sent to Fort Worth, the Gray brothers, and Law, hid near the bank and waited for the robbers to make their appearance. About 2:10 a. m. the trio appeared in the door-way of the bank and the two officers and the deputized citizen opened fire, which the robbers returned as they retreated down the street. At this juncture, the Fort Worth officers arrived and joined in the gun battle. Winton fell and his two companions fled without pausing to see how badly he was hurt. The fugitives gained a pasture on the edge of the town and for the minute at least were safe. Examination of the bank revealed that the men failed in their attempt to loot the vault, apparently having been frightened away before they had done more than break the knob off. The knob and a steel punch dropped by it, were brought here to be examined for finger prints.

U. S. EXPORTS ARE FACING CRISIS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Dr. Julius Klein, director of the foreign and domestic commerce department, told a house appropriation sub-committee in testimony made public today that the "export trade of the country faces a serious crisis which urgently requires continuance of the encouraging policy followed since 1921."

"The outstanding problem," he explained, "is the coming conflict for foreign markets attendant upon the economic recovery of our European competitors. Every one of our overseas rivals has launched a most aggressive drive against our export markets, and the pressure of these competitors in many important trade centers, especially in Latin-America and the Far East."

"A further factor of our rapidly expanding overseas economic interest, which makes imperative the steady development of our trade intelligence service, is the growth of American investments abroad, which are now about $2,500,000,000 exclusive of governmental war loans, as against slightly over $2,500,000,000 before the war."

Dr. Klein said the world-wide data which congress in March 1923 authorized his bureau to collect on the rubber and coffee industries "was directly contributory to the evident success of the present campaign against rubber and other monopolies, which has already brought down the price of crude rubber from over $1 per pound on December 1 to 66 cents."

Wisconsin leads in dairy cattle having 1,981,619 head of dairy cows and heifers two years old and over. Texas has only 721,259 head of dairy cattle. Iowa and Nebraska were the only other states having more than one million dairy cows.

Colonel Clarence Owsley, director of the Texas safe farming association, commenting on this report, declared that Texas should develop the dairy business as one element in the diversified farming program on which the state is launched. He pointed to the great wealth that has come to Wisconsin through the many products of the dairy, butter, cheese, and milk, and said that the same thing was possible for Texas.

JURYMEN PONDER OVER UMPIRES' LIBEL CASE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 26. (AP)—A district court jury was still trying today to decide whether the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman libeled Umpires Edwin P. Gaffney and Gerald Hayes of the Western League when it applied to them in print derogatory epithets common in baseball jargon.

Gaffney and Hayes are suing for $5,000 each on the basis of articles published near the close of the 1925 season in which the umpires were referred to as "robbers."

The case is said to be the first of the kind in the United States. The case went to the jury in mid-afternoon yesterday.

HOLD INDIAN FOR TORTURING GIRL

OKMULGEE, Okla., Feb. 26. (AP)—S. C. Carter, Creek Indian living near Castle, Okla., was arrested yesterday on a charge of aiming his 18 year old daughter, Rose, by tying her to a tree and leaving her there all night.

From alleged misbehavior, the girl said, Carter bound her to the tree trunked her hands above her head and stretched her neck up with a cord. When released by her father next morning, the girl fled to Oklahoma City and told her story to Mrs. M. C. Warner, who informed Mrs. Mabel Bassett, state commissioner of charities and corrections.

Mrs. Bassett ordered the Okmulgee County Attorney to file criminal charges against Carter, who was released on $1,000 bond pending hearing in Justice Court at Okemah.

SEARCH FOR THE AMERICAN SONGS OF DAYS GONE BY LEADS TO WEST WHERE MOVIES GIVE UP NEW FACTS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 26. (AP)—Search for the American folk songs, which was brought into relief the negro spiritual and songs of the frontier, has gained aid from an unexpected source—the commonly called silent drama.

Composition of the musical score for a western play sent researchers on a hunt for old songs of the Overland stage and Pony express. They were rewarded by several quaint songs and also the music of the call played by express riders to warn of their approach to a remount station.

Most of the songs of stage coach days have a rhythm that reminds one of the better known "Lone Prairie" of the cowboy. Virtually all of them have a story to tell. Such a one is that of Joe Bowers who, the song tells, came to California to win a stake that he might marry a girl in Pike county, Missouri, only to return to find her the wife of a red-headed butcher. The song, with a lilt that almost sings itself, opens:

"My name it is Joe Bowers, I have a brother Ike, I come from old Missouri, Come all the way from Pike, I'll tell you how I came thus And how I came to roam And leave my poor old mummy So far away from home."

And so it runs through many stanzas. Another sings in a tuncful, haunting strain of a thrifty old Indian Woman of Albuquerque, known as old Bobby Cox. Only one stanza is now remembered:

"Old Bobby Cox, Star-wano, come and ante, She lived in Albuquerque In a 'dobe shanty. She wore a string of beads And had feathers on her legs And peddled beans, and cucumbers And had boiled eggs."

The poor milking qualities of Texas cows is paid sarcasme tribute in another song; while a fourth tells the dire end of George Edwards who fell from the proud profession of stage driver to that of "whacking bulls" on a street car.

The melodies of these songs of the frontier of the day when spaces were notably wide and open, show that the men who were men had a creditable if primitive flare for music.

MODERN GIRL THE BEST

The old ladies and men in their dotage too long have been knocking the young women of this generation. They have called her flapper and meant nothing laudatory by that appellation. Such aspersions as "beautiful but dumb" and "Dumb Dora," they have hurled at her in derision and denunciation.

For months no one came to the defense of the poor abused modern girl. Even her boy friends lacked the chivalry to speak openly in her exaltation. But now she has a champion and a formidable one. She is Jane Deeter Ripplin, national director of the Girl Scouts, and she knows whereof she speaks, which is something that can not be said for some of those on the other side of the fence.

The modern girl is neither dissolute nor weak-willed. Instead she is honest, real and quick-witted. She is frank, courageous and physically fit. I believe that by race progression, and not by reaction, she is superior to the girl of any other age.

HIGH COST OF BOOKS

A chronic complaint among book readers in this country is that book prices are too high for the average purse. When the literati scold the American public for its indifference to good literature, the usual retort is that its cost is prohibitive to all except the wealthy.

There is some foundation to this complaint against the high cost of reading. Popular novels cost on the average of $2 and many are priced higher. Biographical and autobiographical works of which the past five years have produced many worthy ones, range in price from $5 for the single volumes to $10 and even $25 when published in two or more volumes. The average price for other books is probably $2.

If good books could be had for less money there is no doubt that more people of moderate means would have larger libraries. Under the prevailing market many poor but ardent book-lovers must exercise forbearance until the desired volumes make their inevitable way into the secondhand book stalls.

For those who had hoped for cheaper books in 1926 there is no solace in the statement of George Palmer Putnam, New York publisher, that the price of books is low in comparison with theatre tickets and sheet music and will not come down this year.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

PROHIBITION PROBE WOULD BE INTERESTING-AND UNPRODUCTIVE

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.
WASHINGTON—It's a mistake to think that the prohibition investigation that Congress seems likely to vote for will settle anything.

Hill simply believes an investigation will show prohibition up as a flat, hopeless failure.
Upshaw is equally confident it will prove aridity fully as good a thing as the dry claim it is.

Thus it will be next to impossible to get together a commission which isn't somewhat shaded one way or the other.

Even if it's absolutely impartial, it won't help much, for the wets won't admit its impartiality if it makes a pro-dry report, and the dry won't admit it if it makes a pro-wet one.

So there we'll be, just where we started. Still, it will be an interesting investigation.

A scientist finds they had quack doctors in 1600 B. C. You would expect them then. But not now.

In a better light if it could be shown that the same people patronize books, sheet music and the theatre and if there were no complaint against the cost of drama and music.

The YELLOW STUB

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Henry Rand, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Griffin. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with Mary Lowell. She faints when she learns police want her for murder. Mary, out with Samuel Church, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub and handkerchief might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives several mysterious warnings to leave Cleveland but ignores them. Later he is attacked at night by two men. He escapes, after seizing a blackjack from one of them.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church presses his advantage and gets Mary's promise to marry him. Mary tells Jimmy this when they meet in a park. Jimmy, trying to hurt her, accuses her of marrying for money. He goes back to his room and calls up Olga, asking her to meet him.

That evening with Olga he sees the man who is supposed to have got the ticket stub—in an automobile. It is one of the men who had attacked Jimmy. They follow the car, but the man and his companion escape. At the police station Olga recognizes his picture in the Bertillon gallery, in the Bertillon records as that of IKE JENSEN.

That same night Jimmy goes home to his room to find another warning letter. Now Go On With The Story Jimmy in need of a job, finally finds one driving a laundry truck. Finishing up his first day, he sees Church and Mary in Church's Roadster. Mary doesn't recognize him.

Now Go On With The Story CHAPTER XXVII
THE hot color rushed to Jimmy's face. Half angry, half ashamed he shifted gears viciously and drove on. Had Mary Lowell seen him and deliberately refused to recognize him? There was no doubt in his mind that Samuel Church had seen him. Jimmy could still see that contemptuous smile on Church's lips and the possessive air with which he had turned to Mary. It was as if he were trying to flout Rand with his ownership.

"He in an expensive foreign car and I in a laundry truck," Jimmy muttered. "I can't blame her for not wanting to recognize me, and yet I wonder if she really saw me?" His thoughts—as thoughts have an odd habit of doing—jumped back unaccountably to the little curly-headed boy he had seen that morning—little "Harry Smith." It would be wonderful, he thought, a home and a little boy like that.

He groaned. It was no use thinking such thoughts. And Mary was going to marry Samuel Church. They would never have children as beautiful as the little boy he had seen that morning. Bitter reflection hemmed in. Mechanically he drove on. Mary had not seen Jimmy—until it was too late to let him know that she had.

Church had called for her at the office, had offered to drive her home. She had assented without enthusiasm and to Church's efforts to be amusing and conversational on the way home she had been unresponsive and abstracted. "Why so uncommunicative, dear?" he asked her. "Anything on your mind?" "No," she said dully. "I've picked out your wedding present, Mary."

tried unsuccessfully to suppress his anger. His face turned a dusky red and his hands trembled on the wheel. He stepped on the accelerator and the car shot ahead, violently. "It makes no difference where I got my information," she said coldly. "I know that's all."

"Oh well, Mary," he said with an effort at pleasantry. "Let's not quarrel about it. It's not worth it."

The car sped along, as swift and noiseless as the December wind. Mary fell silent and responded to his lame attempts at gaiety with monosyllables. His face clouded and he pressed grimly down on the accelerator. The car fairly flew along.

Up the street a little fox terrier was frisking and leaping about with his young master, a boy of ten. The boy would throw a tennis ball and the dog would retrieve it and then, returning to his master, tantalize him before giving it up again.

As the car with Mary and Church in it approached, the terrier dashed out into the street and barked. Church saw him, and he had plenty of time to apply his brakes and swerve. But he merely laughed. "It all happened in a fleeting instant. The boy's agonized cry: 'Spot! Here, Spot!' Mary's frantic appeal to Church her hand on his arm, the other hand to her throat. The bark that ended in a despairing yelp as the wheels passed over the little animal and left in their wake a broken, bloody form."

The little boy was standing at the curb, his hands covering his eyes, not daring to look at the lifeless thing that had been Spot. Mary turned and saw him and pity struck deep in her heart. "Stop the car," she commanded. "You've killed that little boy's dog. He shrugged. 'It was just a dog. He got in my way; I couldn't help it.'"

"You didn't try. You could have slowed down. I saw it. I could almost say you did it deliberately. Let me out, I'm going back."

He stopped the car, helped her out. "Oh, well, I'll go back with you. I'll buy him another dog."

Mary took the little boy in her arms. One swift look at the dog stretched her. "Here kid," said Church, producing some crisp new bills. "Now you can buy yourself another dog."

"I-I don't want another dog," the boy sobbed. "I want Spot."

"Tell me your name," said Mary soothingly. "I'll see that Santa Claus brings you another little dog just like Spot—maybe Spot's brother."

"No I want Spot." His chest heaved with his sobs. "You see what you've done," she blazed at Church. "You've not only killed his dog—you've killed something inside that boy."

IS DAVIDSON RIGHT?

Lynch Davidson, unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1924, has made a prediction that neither the present governor nor her husband will be a candidate for governor this year. Just what authority Mr. Davidson had for making this statement is not quite clear. Perhaps his own wish was father of the prediction. At any rate he did not give any reasons for his belief, unless his statement that he will bring out an issue when he makes his formal announcement that will overshadow all others, could be construed as an explanation of the decision of the Fergusons not to run this year.—Vernon Record.

Cotton Markets

NEW YORK COTTON NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—The cotton market opened barely steady at a decline of 4 to 12 points and soon showed net losses of 11 to 19 points on a continuation of the recent selling movement. Bearish sentiment was encouraged by relatively easy Liverpool cables, reiterated reports that cotton could be purchased on a tenable basis in some of the Eastern belt spot markets, and claims of continued favorable progress with new crop preparations.

The break extended to 18.31 for May and 17.74 for October contracts by the end of the first hour, new low ground for the movement, and a decline a little over a cent a pound on old crop months compared with the high prices touched early in the month.

Selling continued active later in the morning with prices breaking to 17.61 for October. The decline was accompanied by rumors that Southern mills were offering part of their stock of white cotton for re-sale and that the basis for high grades was easing. Foreign trade interests were buyers of new crop months and there was considerable covering on a scale down but prices were within three or four points of the lowest at midday.

MKTS.—Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25 (AP)—The cotton market opened easy, Liverpool cables were easier than due and there was evidence of liquidation in old crop months. First trades showed losses of 3 to 9 points and prices continued to ease off until March traded at 18.65c, May 18.22c, July 17.79c and October 17.97c, or 11 to 15 points under yesterday's close. Prices rallied for a brief time on covering by shorts, but the improvement did not hold and prices were soon back at the lows.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25 (AP)—Cotton opened steady, January 17.18c, March 18.71c, May 18.30c, July 17.84c, October 17.15c, December 17.12c. MKTS.—COTTON

Strength Of Bears Coming Season Almost Wholly Unknown With Only Seven Men Of Last Year Back On Job

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 26. (AP)—What the coming season holds for the San Antonio baseball club of the Texas League must be known only to the gods. Certainly there is no fan or professional follower of the game who can predict with any seeming accuracy what kind of showing the Bears will make.

For the 1926 aggregation consists mostly of newcomers to this club, and when the bunch trots out on the diamond for a spring training there will be only seven men of last year's team among the 45 or so aspirants for berths. By no means, however, are all of these men unknown. There are several of top-notch calibre, according to club officials, gathered from the four corners of the baseball world.

President Harry Ables and Manager Homer Mitzel are confident of their ball-players will be up among the leaders and give all their rivals strong competition. But with the usual modesty of managers they do not predict that the Bears are a sure-fire pennant contender.

Shortstop Is Big Problem

The club's greatest problem is the shortstop job. It lacks a shortstop of the first rank, the only player as yet unobtained to round out the nine in desired shape, said Secretary Tom Conner, Jr. He said a deal is pending now to get for San Antonio just the kind of player sought, but it is not closed, the position will be filled probably by Miller or Tolar. There are four infielders on the roster who could be used as shortstops. Plenty of material is available for the pitching staff. Five of last year's twirlers are back besides 15 others from which the regular hurlers will be picked. These five are Coachman, Winters, Jennings, Lindsey and Owens. Surplus pitching material, as well as that from the other departments, will be turned over to the Terrell club, owned by San Antonio.

From the Western League, the Bears got Pitcher Wilson, a left hander from the New York-Pennsylvania league, Drake another southpaw; from Shreveport, McCall and from Ft. Smith of the Western Association, the portside hurler, Ward and the right-hander, Paulson. Drake came to the Bears highly recommended and the others also were touted. In first basemen Galvin, said Conner, San Antonio has one of the best initial sackers in the game, and in addition he is a good hitter with men on bases. Gonzalez, one of the 1925 team is depended upon for utility. Other, infield, probabilities, are Lance, Serre or Verges at third, and Hennes second.

In the outer garden the Bears boasts three heavy hitters, Klien hit 365 in Flint league last season, and Blies, from the Western circuit bated 357. Ross comes from the Pacific Coast League, President Ables' old stamping ground—with a reputation of being a healthy swatter. Manager Mitzel, who is managing Bears for the first year, caught more than one hundred games when piloting Fort Smith last season, and likely will do some back stopping here. He also will have his pick of Wirtz, who was with the Chicago Cubs for a time and who is with the seventh survivor from last year, and Henke, Arzati and Price.

The battery men arrived for spring training Monday, and the fielders will arrive the first of March. Sixteen exhibition games have been arranged with St. Louis Cardinals for March, and some games will be played with Minneapolis, Des. Moines, training at New Braunfels, may come here for one or two meetings.

STEERS TO OFFER STRONG BID IN FLAG CHASE

DALLAS, Feb. 26. (AP)—The strong bid of veteran talent boasted in years will report to Manager Snipe Conley of the Texas League Dallas Steers at Mineral Wells, March 1-3 squad that lacks only one essential of a pennant winning aggregation, pitching.

The pitching staff of the Steers is composed of uncertain material as a whole, only a quarter of the 1926 pitchers being available this year. Dick Shuman, Slimmer Love, and Curley Brown, all portside, and Carl Eberhard, right-hander, form the foundation of the staff. McCall, a right-hander who was on the payroll during the 1925 campaign, but out with a bad arm, should be a reliable man. His arm is okeh. Nelson Fotts, another southpaw, Tom Estill, a veteran right-hander and Jimmy Andrews, who for two seasons has tried for a regular job, will be good prospects. Faulk, a recruit with no professional experience is also after a job, as well as Lefty Dargough, from Temple. Thus, the Steers have five southpaws, and should at least be well protected with portside talent.

The infield will shape up with Riley, at first, Bauman at second, Tate at third and Turkey Gross at short. Sergeant, the veteran of five year's service, will be traded. Roper seeks the third base job and Lind the first sacker's position, but they need experience and Riley and Tate have the call. In the outfield, Blaine Williams in left, Hack Miller in right and Bert Griffith in center forms the logical combination, though Chet Chadbourne, Hamel, the slugger from the Mint League, Mouse Woeber Babe Erwin, local lad and a couple of ray recruits are bidding for the assignments.

The catching staff is weakly weak. Hungling and Billings from last year's team will return, but they do not meet with the standard Conley has set. Wicker, a collegiate star, has been signed. But the local club still seeks a couple of veteran catchers with enough life in them to put the pitchers in real form.

Manager Conley may take a turn on the pitching staff himself if necessary but likely will stick to the bench to direct the play. The Steers will get off to an early start, and will spend twenty-one days at Mineral Wells. The pitchers will start March 1, and will be joined about six days later by the regular squad.
