Lubbock And Corpus Christi To Battle For State Title In Dallas Cotton Bowl

By T. J. HARRIS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

LUBBOCK and Corpus Christi High school officials meeting in Temple late yesterday accepted Dallas' bid to play the state championship game between the two finalists in the Cotton Bowl.

Monday, Dec. 26, was designated as the most desirable date for the title clash and the Interscholastic League executive committee was asked to approve the decision. League rules state that the championship contest must be played not later than one week after the semi-finals.

J. Rodney Kidd, chairman of the league, said he would call a meeting of the committee today to act upon a request for a waiver of the rule, the Associated Press reported.

Lubbock advanced into the finals with a smashing 20-6 victory over the Masonic Home Masons Friday afternoon at Tech field before 12,000 persons. The deceptive Buccaneers of Corpus Christi won the right to oppose the Westerners by toppling Temple's Wildcats 20-7 in Temple yesterday afternoon.

Lubbock officials seeing the game and conferring with Corpus Christi officials included Coach Weldon B. Chapman, Superintendent W. B. Irvin and Business Manager E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey.

This is the first time that a Lubbock High school football team has advanced into the state schoolboy campaign. Critics acclaim the Westerners as one of the greatest elevens to sweep into the title tilt.

Undefeated by a Texas team the Westerners have steadily improved with each game amassing 112 points in their district, bi-district, quarter-final and semi-final clashes. The Chapman squad boasts several all-state performers in its smooth forward wall and versatile backfield. Captain Walter "Jumbo" Webster, 185 pound charging fullback, has been publicized as one of the greatest high school grid players in the South. He was recently named on the All-Southern Prep school mythical eleven.

Corpus Christi's squad of magicians rumbled into the opposing position against the Westerners with a decisive display of

Liberalizing Of Texas' Moral Laws Studied

Need For Additional Revenue Likely To Bring Questions Before Next Legislature

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Dec. 17—The need for additional revenue will be urged at the upcoming general session of the legislature as a reason for liberalizing the most controversial of Texas' "moral" laws.

One of the laws prohibits wagering on horse racing and the other forbids the sale of hard liquors except in packages. The argument will be heard that re-legalization of parimutuel betting and authorization of liquor sales by the drink, both on a county option basis, will help provide cash for old age assistance and other expanding state services.

Tax Boost Hinted

The pressure for increasing the state's income may also lead to increasing the taxes on slot and marble machines, but no question of loosening restrictions on such devices are likely to be involved.

Regarding the probable outcome of moves by "liberals," a sharp difference of opinion has been observed among members of the legislature visiting the capitol. Rep. J. E. Winfree of Houston said a horse race re-legalization bill would be introduced and predicted W. Lee O'Daniel would sign it. Senator G. H. Nelson of Lubbock, author of the measure which in the spring of 1937 outlawed gambling on the ponies, agreed the issue would come up but asserted re-legalization was unlikely.

Advocates Are Hopeful

The attitude of the new governor is regarded as an important factor. Ever since he stated months ago he had an "open mind" concerning the racing controversy, advocates of re-legalization have been hopeful.

Opponents of race track betting, however, point to the fact the governor-elect is an active church member and that his closest advisor, Carr P. Collins, is a prominent Baptist and president of the Dallas council of churchmen.

A year and a half ago, the house of representatives voted overwhelmingly to knock out horse race betting, but the senate approved the

Satirical Warning Is Given FDR To Stay Out Of South At Annual Gridiron Fest

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. — Washington's Gridiron club handed President Roosevelt a satirical warning tonight to "stay out of the South."

He and other distinguished guests heard newspaper correspondents poke fun at the administration's unsuccessful campaign to unseat Senators Smith of South Carolina, George of Georgia and Tydings of Maryland.

Hilarious Southern senators, impersonated y club members, chorused:

"Franklin's on the rampage, a-comin' a-goin',
"Travelin' the time away;
"Ickes and Hopkins the dollars a-throwin'
From now til judgment day.

"Dear old Southland, with its dreamy song,
"Carpetbaggers, you're wrong, all wrong!
"We'll put you Yankees right where you belong,
"When it's purgin' time down South."

For this skit, the scene had shifted to a cotton field in South Carolina—"cotton picking project No. 67." One negro picked the cotton, another put it back.

They were preparing, it seemed, for Southern democracy's celebration of the victory over the purge. They didn't quite understand what it all meant, but one observed: "They got no more chance o' purgin' Cotton Ed (Senator Smith) than they have of puttin' Jimmy Roosevelt on the dole."

Just then, a joyous crowd surged into the field—Southern

Two Plead Guilty In Federal Court

MACHINERY of federal government court procedure Saturday delved further into the "Jayton warehouse case."

A. J. Bell and J. P. Moore, who operated 11 warehouses at Jayton, in Kent county, pleaded guilty of all counts in indictments charging them in connection with their management of the warehouses, and Federal District Judge T. Whitfield Davidson Saturday pronounced sentence on Moore.

Fine Is Assessed

Moore was fined $3,000 and assessed a term in the El Reno reformatory, suspended on condition he pay his fine in six months and make restitution to the government of losses.

The court deferred passing of sentence on Bell until the May term of court, and required him to appear Monday with his bondsmen and execute an appearance bond of $3,000.

Civil actions have been instituted, with the law firm of Crenshaw and Dupree of Lubbock representing the Commodity Credit corporation.

Eleven Warehouses Built

Eleven warehouses, it was charged, had been built by the men. The credit corporation obtained a receiver and the case is to be adjudicated. Frank Taylor, a former assistant United States district attorney, represented the men in the civil action and was induced to enter the criminal case, as well.

The cases grew out of governmental losses occasioned by the acceptance for government loan of 32,720 bales of cotton which had been graded at the Jayton warehouse for several thousand farmers, but which later was charged to have not measured to government specifications.

Loans Were Recalled

Loans were recalled and farmers held mass meetings. The Commodity Credit corporation sent representatives to Lubbock late in the summer to determine action.

The matter remained in abeyance until recently, when it was announced a federal grand jury, the second ever to be impaneled in

Campus Theater Is Planned For City

Announcement that a new theater, fireproof and ultra-modernistic architectural design, to be known as the "Campus" is to be erected immediately after the first of the New Year at 2410 Broadway was made on behalf of Lindsey Theatres, inc., by Manager Arlie Crites here Saturday. Estimates were that the cost, including building, fixtures and new equipment of the most modern type will exceed $50,000.

The building, Crites reported, will have a front of 62 1-2 feet. A depth of 125 feet and will seat approximately 800 persons on the one floor. There will be no balcony. Crystal, brown and cream colored bricks will be used in construction of a front of unusual and striking architectural beauty, Crites said. It will be strictly a first run theater presenting programs designed to appeal to discriminating audiences, he added.

The theater will be the fourth in Lubbock for Lindsey Theatres, inc. Others are the Palace, Lindsey and Texan.

Financial Drive On Final Lap

Thanks chiefly to the generosity of Bricklayers union No. 23, contributions to the Goodfellows' Christmas fund squeezed past the $1,000 mark Saturday.

Their gift of $75 made the day's total $96.50 and increased the total for the campaign to $1,016.04.

Last Lap Begins

Thus, the last lap of the drive begins with nearly $500 still needed to reach the $1,500 goal which the Goodfellows figure is the minimum necessary if the aim of "no empty stockings in Lubbock on Christmas day" is to be reached. And Christmas is just one week away, with much work to be done.

The size of the task confronting those wanting all to share in the joys of Christmas was revealed Saturday in the tabulations of the Goodfellows' listing committee. Those lists show 476 families with an aggregate of 1,727 children who must depend on the Goodfellows for whatever Christmas they are to have.

List Not Complete

That list is not complete. The last few days invariably brings many names of those who should be remembered. It is the determination of the Goodfellows that none will be forgotten. Incidentally, the names are checked as to actuality of need and to guard against duplications by those engaged in the self-imposed undertaking of spreading Christmas cheer.

The Goodfellows, however, want the name of every child between the age of 1 and 14 years who must depend on such organizations for their Christmas.

If you know any such children in Lubbock, regardless of race, color or creed, use the coupon you will find on page 9, section 2 of this issue of The Sunday Avalanche-Journal. Mail it to the Chief Goodfellow, P. O. Box 561, or send or bring it to the Avalanche-Journal office, 1211-13 Texas avenue.

Aristocratic Show Horses are Burned In Fort Worth Blaze

FORT WORTH, Dec. 17 (AP) — Twenty-eight horses—some of them aristocrats of the show ring—burned to death here tonight when a $35,000 fire destroyed the Rockwood stables in Rockwood park, northeast of the city.

Sid Walters, night caretaker, was the only man on duty at the stable at the time. His attempts to get the horses out failed as the animals returned as fast as he led them out.

W. G. Rogers, owner of the stables, estimated his personal loss at more than $25,000 and that of persons boarding horses at the stable at $8,000 to $10,000.

Voice Of Labor Will Be Heard By Democrats

Non-Partisan League Steps Into Political Picture Of 1940; Battle Forecast

By T. C. COMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. — John L. Lewis, as chairman of labors' Non-Partisan League, stepped into the 1940 presidential campaign today with a bid for a voice in the selection of candidates and policies by the next Democratic national convention.

Surrounded by his chief aides in both the league and the CIO, Lewis unfolded to newspapermen a program of political action which has for its goal the election of league-endorsed candidates to the 1940 Democratic national convention.

Shies At Third Term Talk

The CIO leader indicated he was not interested in the third party idea at this time, and shied away from questions as to his views of a third term for President Roosevelt.

But he announced that the league would have a convention in 1939, adopt a platform for the 1940 campaign and aim at the nomination of "progressive" candidates by the Democratic party.

In a statement widely regarded as the beginning of a battle with Democratic conservatives for control of the 1940 convention, Lewis said:

Liberals Must Unite

"It is essential that all the liberal and progressive forces of the country unite to maintain and extend the economic and political gains of recent years for the preservation of democracy."

Close associates of Lewis interpreted his program of political action as an effort to line up as large a bloc of Democratic convention delegates as possible, and thus be able to swing a decisive vote against conservative elements of the party.

Words Of Praise Showered On Clifford Jones In Welcome Banquet Last Night

By OPAL McMAHON
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

A WELCOME mat was laid in glowing terms for Clifford B. Jones when alumni and ex-students of Texas Technological college, representatives of Lubbock business and professional circles, and members of the faculty and directorate gathered 305 strong Saturday night for a banquet in the women's dormitory.

As the third president arose to respond to magnificent tributes, he promised his "untiring support" and offered praise for his predecessors.

Hopes To Carry On Work

"If by dent of hard work, which I promise, and by good fortune I can help to bring into fruition those farsighted plans of my predecessors, Presidents Horn and Knapp, I shall be happy. They laid the foundation well."

Addresses by representatives of the Alumni and Ex-Students association, the directorate, downtown business and professional circles, and the legislature lauded the man who was chosen president Nov. 26 and will actively begin duties in late January.

The Alumni and Ex-Students association was host at the banquet.

Speakers Are Introduced

C. W. Ratliff, 1927 graduate and a former president of the Alumni and Ex-Students association and the student body, introduced the following speakers:

Spencer A. Wells, vice chairman of the board of directors, who said, "I've attended a lot of banquets honoring many distinguished men, but I've never attended one more appropriate than this one for Clifford."

Chas. A. Guy, editor and publisher of Avalanche-Journal publications, representing downtown business men: "There is no better fitted man in Texas for the presidency of Texas Technological college, and there is no finer gentleman than Clifford Jones."

Fine Record Is Expected

Marshall Formby, first vice president of the Alumni and Ex-Students association and Dickens county judge: "We hope that our school under the Joneses will make such a record that other schools have a hard time keeping up with the Joneses."

Sen. G. H. Nelson: "I've heard many expressions of confidence coming from those who have known him throughout the years. What he has done and what he is capable of doing are familiar to those who know him, and those who don't know him will soon find out."

Pity Poor Old Dad For His Problem Is The Greatest

By KENNETH KITCH
Associated Press Staff Writer

ST. NICK may be the patron saint of children, but it's no secret that he's a pain in the neck to papa.

And it isn't the shadow of "January 1, or within 15 days thereafter" that narrows dad's brow. Neither is it the prospect of little Gwendolyn Alice parking her new didee-doll in the middle of his easy chair.

The fly in pop's Christmas candy is nothing else than mom's Christmas present!

About two weeks before Christmas, dad pushes away his breakfast chair, harrumphs while the children scamper away, and inquires: "Well, Minnie, just what can we get old Santa to bring you this year?"

But he says it grimly and with pathos, for well he knows that she'll smile archly across the dirty dishes: "Why, dear, just get me any old thing. It's the children and mamma and you that I want to be happy."

And dad starts his annual pilgrimage.

If he has a secretary who knows pink from lavender, the problem is solved—unless mom finds out who bought the gift. If he hasn't, he's like most men: shopping hopefully at first; and, finally, frantically. At this season of the year—with less than a week to go—he's about prime to poke Santa on the snozzle if the old man so much as looks at him from a billboard.

The tragedy is that if he'd take just one simple (but momentous) step, he'd end his Christmas stalking forever and ever, amen! Buy her a hat!

A husband can dash into a a "hatte shoppe," dash out again, and in a matter of mom-

Europe Looks Forward To January Tests Of Munich Peace With Suspicion

Big Week Seen For Leaders

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Europe's dangerous game of power politics is becoming a noisy forum of suspicious anticipation for the January tests of the Munich peace.

The men who hold the cards face the week ahead in this way:

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain —

The British leader will take part Monday in the last foreign affairs debate in the house of commons before he tries again to make headway with his European appeasement program in his Jan. 11-14 visit to Premier Benito Mussolini.

Chamberlain Has Votes

Laborites want an outright vote on censure for the prime minister's foreign policy—but Chamberlain has the votes.

However, a distinct cooling toward Germany by conservative politicians and business interests may force Chamberlain to take a somewhat stronger line toward Germany's Hitler.

He also will be under pressure to disavow any intention of winning favors from Il Duce by giving him a piece of British East Africa—British Somaliland. Officials have denied reports he plans to do so.

Daladier Is Wary

Premier Edouard Daladier of France —

France's strong-man premier rested warily on the declaration of his foreign minister, Georges Bonnet, to legislators that "France will never cede one inch of her territory."

That was his answer to the Italian clamor for important concessions in Tunisia, elsewhere in Africa and in the Mediterranean.

Despite Germany's pledge to respect France's frontiers, Vice Premier Camille Chautemps today declared France would fight "to the last ditch" any attempt to separate Alsace-Lorraine from her.

Il Duce To Speak

Premier Mussolini —

Il Duce went to Sardinia for a speech tomorrow. The anti-French agitation simmered in the controlled press. Observers believed Mussolini would hold his fire in order to keep from hurting prospects for getting something important from Chamberlain next month.

Chancellor Hitler —

The Reichsfuehrer kept to himself his plans as Nazidom next January 30 celebrates the sixth anniversary of his accession to power.

But signs pointed toward German encouragement of a new Ukrainian national state and possible outright acquisition of war-lost Memel, now a part of Lithuania.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, left London for Berlin after he ran into stiff opposition to plans for exchanging German Jews for foreign funds and for compromising on Britain's announced determination to fight Germany's foreign trade methods.

Swift Contest Is In Making

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 — The resignation of Daniel C. Roper as secretary of commerce creates a new chance for early conflict between the president and the election-altered senate.

Reports persist that Harry L. Hopkins, the WPA administrator, will be nominated by Mr. Roosevelt to succeed Roper. That his nomination would stir a new storm of senate debate over charges of political use of WPA during the primaries and elections this year is already obvious, although veteran politicians are not so sure that it could prevent confirmation. Senate rejection of cabinet selections in any administration is virtually an unheard of proceeding.

Struggle Is Seen

If Hopkins is elevated to cabinet rank, however, a far more bitter struggle could develop over his successor in the WPA. No tradition of non-interference by the senate in the selection of cabinet officers covers the case of nominees to such independent government agencies. Should the president select Aubrey Williams, Hopkins' first lieutenant in the WPA, as administrator, there undoubtedly would be a storm of opposition even greater than any that is apt to develop over a Hopkins' nomination to cabinet rank.

There is much to indicate that there was no planned synchronization of the announcement of Roper's resignation and Secretary Ickes' announcement that, by presidential request, he would remain in the cabinet and not enter the Chicago municipal primaries as an ardent New Deal candidate for mayor. White house intimates appeared much surprised by the Roper announcement, at least as to its timing.

Yet public attention was caught by the fact that it is Ickes, of the more belligerent left-wing group of administration aides who remains, and Roper, rated well over toward the right, who goes.

Many politicians read it as a lightening of New Deal fighting lines for the coming session of congress.

Officers Asked To Help In Search For Missing Woman

ALTUS, Okla., Dec. 17. (AP) — The Altus police department sent out a radio appeal today for Oklahoma and Texas officers to aid in a search for Mrs. M. H. Yowell, 40, who left here last Sunday for her home in Alba, Tex.

Herman Akers, son of Mrs. Yowell, said she left here by bus but never reached home. Her baggage had been sent direct to Alba.

K. M. Renner, head professor of dairy manufacturing at Texas Technological college, and a class in cheese making visited Plains Cooperative creamery in Plainview Saturday. Wallace Laughton, former Tech dairy manufacturing student, is manager of the creamery.

Last rites were read for Arthur White, 48, Saturday morning at Sanders chapel by Rev. Jeff D. Welch and Rev. Jack A. Welch, co-pastors of Central Baptist church. Burial was in Memorial Park cemetery. A cousin, Miss Dolly White of Tulia, attended. Only immediate relative known to survive is his wife, a resident of Phoenix, Ariz. Mr. White resided six miles north of Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Stokes who have been living at 3106 Twenty-second street have moved to Odessa where Stokes is opening a Western Auto association store.

Perhaps the oldest spectator at the Lubbock-Plasonic home football game Friday afternoon was Mrs. Ioway Rodgers, 83, of 2105 Main street who saw her first football game. She went with Ray Grissin, a student who stays at her home.

Motion pictures on fire prevention were viewed by Miss Olga Juniger, public schools fire prevention supervisor of the state department of education, Saturday in the visual education library at Texas Technological college, said Mrs. R. L. McDonald, secretary of the library. Miss Juniger complimented the films. She viewed them for purpose of giving information about them to public schools.

Walter Simer, 27, of Mason suffered only minor injuries when the automobile he was driving overturned early Saturday night about 10 miles east of Lubbock on the Lubbock-Idalou highway, according to investigating authorities. He was going east, it was reported. He was rushed to Lubbock sanitarium here in a Rix Funeral home ambulance and released after receiving emergency treatment.

A 22-year-old Lubbock negro woman Saturday was transferred to the county jail and will be held, pending investigation into a complaint alleging aggravated assault on Amanda Maxwell. The suspect was arrested after an altercation Friday night in which the Maxwell woman required hospitalization. She was treated for a stab wound over the heart. The suspect had been arrested at 9:45 o'clock Friday night by O. E. Rush of the police department and Aubrie Cummings, special officer.

A Lubbock youth, 19, Saturday was detained at the county jail for investigation into a charge he was a hit-and-run driver. He was arrested early Saturday morning by special officers. The accident according to police memoranda, happened about 2 o'clock Saturday morning on East Broadway.

Twelve members of the Texas Technological college band contributed their services to the Salvation Army Saturday night by playing carols for an hour and a half at different points in the city, Envoy V. M. Vansyckle, of the Salvation Army, announced.

Mrs. Matilda Popejoy, 92, said to be Lubbock's oldest mother, is critically ill at her home, 2313 Ninth street. Relatives at her bedside are Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Popejoy and son of Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitlock and children of Ropesville, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Popejoy, Mrs. F. M. Popejoy and Mrs. Remus Bishop of Idalou, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Eaves and daughter of Grovesville. Other relatives were expected to arrive here Saturday night.

W. T. Strassner, about 27, of 1716 Avenue F early Saturday night suffered injuries when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into the mid-section of the east underpass on Broadway. He suffered a laceration of the forehead, a severe laceration of the left arm near the elbow, and possible chest injuries. He was given treatment at Lubbock sanitarium. Melvin Alvey and O. E. Rush of the police department investigated.

Boy's Firecracker Fails To Explode In Garage But Later Is Cause Of Flames

A boy went into his garage and touched a match to a half-cent firecracker.

It didn't go off.

He stepped on it and left—figuring it was "out."

Then the fire department made a run.

It cost the city of Lubbock, making that run.

One Of Many Dangers

That, said Guy Casey, fire marshal, is what happened early Friday afternoon—just a case in point of the dangers of fireworks.

He pointed out a city ordinance that forbids setting off of crackers in fire zones, which take in most of the downtown district.

Merchants who sell crackers are having to pay high insurance, and for a limited length of time, because of the danger of someone's tossing a match or a cigaret butt into powder.

Christmas trees, too, present hazards—even from incandescent lights.

To Turn Off Lights

All schools where Casey appeared have agreed to turn off lights on trees at night, so that foliage, which becomes more dry each day, will not be ignited.

Cotton trimming on trees is likely to flame and cause tragedy, he warned.

The best plan is to keep lights turned off on trees only when the family is around to watch, he said.

And when Christmas is over, get rid of the trees. They may be as dry as tinder by that time.

Dallas Man Dies Of Gun Shot Wound; Said Too Attentive

HOUSTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—J. W. Stokes of Dallas died in a hospital here tonight from a bullet wound received Wednesday as he entered the apartment of Miss Osjetea Briggs, 21.

Homicide Captain George Peytos quoted Miss Briggs as saying she fired because the Dallas photography studio operator, for whom she had formerly worked, had been too attentive to her.

Miss Briggs was released last night under $5,000 bond, on a charge of assault to murder.

Girl Kipnaped After Slayings

type gun which was used in the slayings, Thursday, Lowe said.

"He liked Wilma very much, but I fear he may get scared when he thinks of the penalty he'll have to pay if he is caught, and may do away with her," Lowe declared.

Lowe said he had not determined whether Wilma had witnessed the killings. "He may have induced her to come outside," he said, "taken her some distance away to wait for him, and then gone back and tried to kill the entire family.

Had Violent Temper

"Salazar had a violent temper and because he is mean he may not hesitate to kill Wilma."

The flight apparently was made in the Kennedy automobile, which was missing from the garage. Two slippers, believed to belong to Wilma, were found between the house and the garage.

A blood-smeared ax which investigators believed was used by the killer was found near the garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, apparently shot as they slept, were found this morning by Kennedy's brother, Earl. Kennedy was lying in bed but the body of his wife was found in the dining room, into which she apparently had staggered from the bedroom.

Fay, the youngest child, was found in a bundle of bloody bedclothes on the floor beside the bed in which she and her mother had been sleeping.

Imogene, barely conscious, was found cowering under the quilts on a bed in an adjoining room. Asked whether someone had hit her, she mumbled, "I don't remember."

Stopped At Home

Earl Kennedy discovered the bodies this morning when he and his wife stopped at the Kennedy home to see if Kennedy had gone to San Angelo for an operation scheduled today. Kennedy, about 45, was found dead on a bed, his wife in the dining room. She was about 40.

Kennedy told Sheriff Lowe that Wilma, described as short, blonde and round-faced, "had been going" with the man sought in connection with the case. There had been parental objections, the brother said. The man had been employed at the farm about six months.

Suspected Something Wrong

Kennedy said he "suspected something was wrong" when he heard milch cows bawling in a nearby lot, where they had not been milked or fed.

Bolstering officers' belief the killings occurred Thursday night, aside from the fact the two older girls did not attend school, was evidence offered by schoolmates of the victims.

They said they passed the farmhouse early Thursday night on their way to Miles to a party and the Kennedy watchdog barked at them. When they returned about midnight, however, the animal did not bark.

The next day it was found near the house, killed by a shotgun charge.

Resident Scares Burglar With Broom; Fells Him With Rock

KENDALL, Fla., Dec. 17. (AP)—Resourceful Tom C. Wood found a burglar in his darkened room so he picked up a broom, pretended it was a rifle and ordered the intruder to march to the police station with hands up.

On the street, headlights of a passing auto exposed the hoax and the burglar started to run.

Wood picked up a stone and stopped his man with a direct hit on the head.

Oklahoma Youth Said Fear Was Cause Of Shooting Employer

HUGO, Okla., Dec. 17. (AP)—Testimony by Johnnie Kiser, Hugo farm youth, that fear caused him to kill Jordan Swink, whom he described as his employer in the "moonshine" liquor business, won acquittal from a district court jury today in his second trial on a murder charge.

Kiser was convicted previously but won a new trial.

Swink was shot in April, 1936, in front of his farm near here.

Death Sentences Of Father And Son Commuted To Life

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 17 (AP)—The Anti-Saloon League of America named as its president tonight Bishop Ralph Cushman, of the Denver area of the Methodist Episcopal church, and reaffirmed its stand against liquor at its 30th annual national convention.

Two new offices were created, Sam Morris of Del Rio, Tex., being elected field secretary, and O. G. Christgau of Washington, D. C., field superintendent.

Aged Man Believed In "Early To Bed And Early To Rise"

HENDERSON, Dec. 17. (AP) — A 109-year-old Rusk county resident, William F. Kelley, died today. His widow, who is 106, survives.

They were married in their native state of Alabama shortly after the Civil war and migrated to Texas in 1890.

Kelley did not serve in the Civil war due to an illness which kept him bedridden throughout the conflict.

His formula for longevity was "going to bed early, arising early, working hard and living a Christian life."

Civil Service For State Employes Is Recommended By Governor James Allred

Abolition For Office Asked

AUSTIN, Dec. 17. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred today recommended to the incoming legislature civil service for state employees, abolition of the state auditor's office and approval of the board of mineral development on all leases to state-owned lands.

The recommendations were contained in a portion of the governor's address released for publication.

Civil Service Urged

Governor Allred urged the lawmakers to adopt a form of civil service for employees to permit newly-elected public officials to devote more time to the pressing duties of office instead of to job applicants.

This would also result in securing "more efficient help in the departments," he said.

Since the state comptroller was "supposed to be the real auditor for all departments of government" and, since charges were "being freely made that the auditor, being an appointee of the governor, has lost his usefulness," Governor Allred advocated abolition of the office in the interests of "efficiency and economy." He pointed out the office cost $75,000 a year.

Leasing of government lands were "matters too important, the amounts involved too great, for the responsibility to be borne by any one man," the governor said. He suggested requiring approval of the board of mineral development.

Two Student Members Of Iron Guard Given Life Term

The members of the nazi-styled organization were convicted of the shooting of Colonel Cristesku, president of the court, at Cernauti December 5. Cristesku, whose life was saved by the fact that a bullet was deflected by medals on his chest, was a witness at the trial.

Deadline For The Granting Of Loans Set As Dec. 31

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—The Commodity Credit corporation announced today December 31 would be the deadline for the granting of government loans to farmers desiring to withhold surplus wheat from market for possible higher prices in the future.

The corporation reported it had lent $34,594,361 on 58,808,519 bushels of wheat at an average rate of about 59 cents a bushel since inauguration of the loan program last summer.

At Longer Last: Buster Dogs Dollars, Featuring Fabulous Feet At Fairs

Buster Scoot puts on his shoe (size 42).

BY WATT EXTREMITIES
NEA Service Phenomena Editor

SNOWBALL, Ark., Dec. 17.—Here are the biggest feet in the world—in the opinion of the fellow who pushes them up and down the Alps of Searcy county, Ark. Buster Scoot is the name and 26 summers and winters have passed since he first planted these phenomena on the rocky soil of his home state.

A traveling salesman with an eye for big problems has estimated that Buster would wear a size 42 shoe. Truth is Buster gets his shoes from a man here in Snowball, Ark., which is just five miles from the flinty acreage of the Scoot family.

They Just Growed

There are four stores, a blacksmith shop and a hitching rail in Snowball, and Buster doesn't say whether he gets his shoes at the store or at a blacksmith shop. The Scoot scion has no scientific explanation for the size of his feet. "They just growed that way," says he.

But he has high hopes and aspirations for them the next two years. At the end of that time he wants to return to Searcy county for the squirrel hunting.

Wants To Show At Fairs

In the meantime he would like to exhibit his pair of pedals at both the New York and San Francisco expositions, thereby giving people at both ends of the nation an opportunity to educate themselves on what can be done with a pair of feet in Arkansas.

Buster also hopes to add a little something to the Scoot pocketbook, for possible purchase of new shoes and other incidentals.

Five generations of the Scoots live in Searcy county and Buster isn't sure how many earlier generations lived there.

Buster is 6-foot-3 and weighs 170.

He can run faster than most men, jump as high as any normal person and claims he "can jig-dance with the best of 'em."

Ill Lighthousekeeper Saved By Use Of Breeches Buoy

PLYMOUTH, England., Dec. 17. (AP)—An ill lighthouse keeper, marooned for seven days in a lonely tower off the storm-tossed British coast, was rescued today with the aid of a breeches buoy.

A rescue vessel succeeded in getting buoy apparatus into position at the famed Eddystone lighthouse and removing the keeper, William Jourlain.

For a week gales and heavy seas had kept aid from Jourdain, who is suffering from a severe abdominal illness. He was taken to Plymouth hospital today.

University Students Seek Ugliest Man On Campus; Proceeds Will Go To Charity

AUSTIN, Dec. 17. (AP)—For the sake of Christmas charity five University of Texas students are matching grimaces for the title of "ugliest man" on the campus.

Out of a field of 80 volunteer candidates in a penny-a-ballot election this week, George Mandoki of Mexico, John (Dub) Singleton of Austin, David Crockett of Dallas, Tom Weatherly of Huntsville and Sam Butler, jr., of Eastland polled the most votes.

The campus favorite — "sourpuss sweetheart" — will be named Tuesday night at a student sponsored charity ball. The sweetheart's court will comprise the four runnersup — "deadpan duchesses."

University officials nodded approval of the beauty contest in reverse as "all in fun" and because the proceeds go to the needy.

"It may even increase student spirit," one administrative officer said.

Salute To Pioneers Program Is Scheduled Over KFYO Today

Listerners to a radio program over KFYO from 4:15 to 4:30 o'clock this afternoon will be taken back more than 50 years to a place of worship in a small West Texas community, where a hardy group of pioneers gathered to hear a sermon by the late Rev. Robert Franklin Dunn, pioneer circuit rider.

A severe drouth had lain over West Texas 23 months at the time of the gathering, in April of 1887. One disheartened family intended to return east, but heard a sermon so inspirational that it decided to remain in West Texas.

Salute To Pioneers

The play, to be sponsored by the Texas Technological college speech department and the West Texas Museum association, will be the first of a series of Salute to the Pioneers programs. This afternoon's play will honor the Rev. Mr. Dunn. Sponsors selected for dramatization an incident they believe happened.

The script was written and will be produced by members of a radio speech class at Tech, under direction of Robert Flowers, speech instructor. Cast members will be Noel Edgar Thompson, Lubbock; Kathleen Webb, Lamesa; Lucien Upshaw, Amarillo; James Dunnigan, Fort Worth; and Lee Byrd, Claude.

"Three Musketeers" Of Law In Lubbock Recall Nine Years Of Change Here

Great Changes Seen In Force

Today is more than Sunday to Don Reeder, chief of police, Bill Mabray, his assistant, and Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff.

Nine years ago today they reported for duty with the police department.

Times Have Changed

Times have changed, they recall. In those days John Lemond was chief of police. H. D. Woods was mayor; Gus W. McCleary, chief accountant at Texas Technological college, was city manager; D. N. Leaverton was police commissioner, and Jess C. Levens was "persecuting" (they called him that) attorney.

The scout car was a coupe and the drunks of that time had to ride in a jump seat, which made for a partial sobering effect after corn-drinking sessions of a cold night.

After 1 o'clock each morning the police phone would ring—in Tech cafe, then at Broadway and Avenue K. George Zournas, cafe proprietor figuratively would drop his pots and pans of casseroles and steaks—or whatever he was caught carrying—and play at being chief for the moment.

Force Was Limited

Zournas' action was caused by a singular exigency, or so it would seem now: no one could be found around the station at that time of morning.

For the "force" was more limited. In those days, when the Lubbock hotel was up but the Hilton was only in process of construction, the police department consisted only of the chief; Baxter Honey, assistant chief; J. T. Inmon, justice of peace-elect of precinct 1, place 2, desk sergeant; "Pap" Brown; Orlie Rush; the late Bill Craig, who later removed to the Plainview department; George Eubanks; C. E. Luce and J. D. Johnson, motorcycle officers, Joe Wilson, and M. N. Davidson, present night sergeant.

The "three musketeers," Reeder, Mabray and Harrist, admittedly "were pretty ignorant" of police duties.

Rattled Plenty Of Doors

Mabray and Harrist went on night beats, Reeder on the dayside. "I think I rattled doors clear to the canyon on the east beat," Mabray recalled.

One night McCleary came by. Mabray didn't know who he was. It was freezing. Mabray, then guarding the north underpass, which was under construction, had climbed into a boxcar after grabbing some cakes from a passing breadwagon. Before a fire going in a stove he was "warming my dogs and eating away."

McCleary wanted to know how the new patrolman was getting along.

"Oh, pretty good, only some of these blankety blanks insist on going through the wrong side," he said, not pausing in his eating and warming.

Next time he was in the station house he saw McCleary and learned who he was.

Never Mentioned It

"That settled me from loafing," Mabray admitted, but said the city manager "never mentioned it, so far as I know."

Reeder began marking cars on the beat.

Harrist "went over" to his deputyship after being assistant chief under Bud Johnston, whereup Reeder assumed that capacity. Mabray, in turn, became chief after Reeder's elevation to head of the department.

All are married. Chief Reeder has an 18-months-old daughter, Joy Nell.

Times remain "substantially the same" when it comes to law enforcement, all were agreed.

"We have faster cars, radio and identification aids we didn't have," said one, "but the town was so small then we really didn't need much more."

Young Vernon Man Arrested As Suspect In Burglaries

A 24-year-old Vernon man, suspected possibly in several recent burglaries on the South Plains and eastern New Mexico towns, was arrested by Lubbock police Saturday.

Pickup orders for the man were issued by Bill Mabray, police identifications officer, after communications with other officers of this area.

Teh man was arrested at Avenue J and Broadway by Ralph Goldwater, of the Lubbock police.

Civil Appeals Court Rules That Women Are Not Eligible For Juries In Texas

DALLAS, Dec. 17. (AP)—Women are not eligible to serve on juries in Texas, the fifth court of civil appeals ruled today in denying a mandamus sought by Miss Stella Glover, florist shop operator, to force officials to place her name in the jury wheel.

Action of the appellate court affirmed the ruling of Judge Paine L. Bush in a district court.

"Under the constitution the state has the undoubted right to exclude women from jury service and place the burden of that public duty exclusively upon men," Associate Justice Ben Looney's opinion read.

"Constitutions do not change meanings in response to the varying tides of public opinion," the opinion continued.

Toys Gathered And Repaired By Scouts To Be Put On Display Thursday Night For Public Inspection At Fairgrounds

Toys gathered and repaired through the efforts of Boy Scouts will be put on display Thursday night from 7 to 9 p. m. in the Merchants building at the fairgrounds, according to the announcement Saturday by J. Ray Dickey, chairman of the toy pickup committee.

While the repair work has not been completed, he and Earl M. McClure, council executive, estimated that approximately twice as many toys were gathered in the scout's annual "pickup" this year as last.

Probably 1,000 Toys

How many toys there may be would be guesswork, they said, but 1,000 probably will not be short of the mark. Included among them is almost everything that could be classed as a toy, ranging from trinkets of trivial cost to articles which could not be duplicated as they now stand for several dollars.

All are to be turned over to the Goodfellows for distribution to needy children of the city on Christmas day. And they have been repaired so expertly, Dickey said, they are virtually as good as new.

Mothers Have Aided

The scouts, he added, have received invaluable assistance in making the repairs. Mothers have taken over the job of fixing and dressing the dolls. National Youth administration enrollees have supervised the work. Men of the CCC camp have made many of the more difficult repairs which were beyond the experience of the boys.

Other events on this week's scout program were announced by McClure as including:

Monday, 8 a. m., opening of annual sustaining club membership campaign in Sudan with Reed Markham as chairman.

Tuesday, 7:30 p. m., first court of honor for negro troops in history of Lubbock in Dunbar school auditorium at 7:30 p. m. Judge E. L. Pitts of the 99th district court will be the speaker. E. C. Struggs is court of honor chairman. Members of the two negro troops will receive investiture, tenderfoot pins and credentials.

Wednesday, 3:30 p. m., cub pack to be organized at meeting in Floydada grade school building. Mrs. Roy Snodgrass, president of the Parent-Teachers association, will preside.

Two Victims Of Accident Last Night Missing Early Today

What became of two victims of an automobile accident on North Avenue H at the underpass early this morning was a mystery to officers, ambulance drivers, and sanitariums and hospitals.

A few minutes after midnight, an ambulance was called to the underpass, only to learn that two injured men or boys had been placed in a car. An ambulance driver, who found the car "soaked in blood," said he was told the two victims told the driver of the car in which they were placed they didn't want to go to a hospital.

The car apparently had crashed into a support of the underpass.

A check of hospitals revealed that no accident victims had received treatment. Police continued to search for them.

Opera Star Whose Contract Ended With Cops And Robbers Loved It Every Bit

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17 — Miss Gladys Swarthout, opera and concert star, has just wound up her three-year movie contract with a little cops-and-robbers flicker called "Ambush."

It is not much of a climax to a screen-musical career because, although she received $60,000 for the job, Miss Swarthout didn't sing a note. Didn't even hum. "The only thing musical in the picture," chuckled Frank Chapman, her husband and vocal coach, "is a piano. A guy gets shot and falls on the keyboard."

Chapman has been on the Paramount payroll as vocal coach for the star during each of her five pictures. "But I was not idle while 'Ambush' was being made, even if there isn't any singing in it," he said. "When I read the script and found three places where she had to scream, I decided to be a Scream Supervisor. It's nice work and very remunerative."

Gangster Thrillers At $20,000

You might think that Miss Swarthout, having been the victim of four astonishingly bad musicals, would have regarded as a crowning indignity her role as a leading woman in a class B gangster thriller. Fact is, she accepted it voluntarily. The studio had no musical scheduled, so it proposed to buy up the rest of her contract—at a big discount—and release her. She said no. The studio protested that all it could offer was a modest little melodrama with a three-weeks shooting schedule. She said okay, that it sounded like an amusing way to earn $20,000 a week.

"Actually," she declared, "I loved it. The screen play was written by Laura and S. J. Perleman, and it was the best script I've had. For the first time in Hollywood I could believe the words that were coming out of my mouth. Another thing, although I was born in Deepwater, Mo., and am typically American, this was the only one of my five pictures in which I was an American girl.

First Chance To Really Act

"Everybody in the company was swell. I nearly fainted when the director apologized because I had to work overtime one evening. The producer never set foot on the set. The assistant producer looked in only three times. I was allowed to choose my own wardrobe. And I had a chance to act. I got more from that little picture than from all the others, and for the first time—now that I'm leaving—I feel that I really know something about the job."

This reporter asked: "What if it turns out that you gave a bang-up performance and people come after you waving acting contracts?"

She said: "I'd love that, too. Of course I'd always sing in concerts and opera now and then; that's too much a part of me now. But I think the screen is the greatest possible medium and I'd never want to leave Hollywood. It's crazy—but I'm crazy about it!"

It Did Her No Harm

Such talk didn't sound like the bitter valedictory of an humiliated prima donna. Other singing stars have faded out of Flickerville in a huff. Lily Pons, for example, has been grumbling that Hollywood did wrong by her and Grace Moore and Gladys Swarthout. "I must ask Lily to leave my name out of that," Miss Swarthout said. "I can't speak for her and Grace, but really I think that none of us was awfully smart. Anyway, I don't think it has done me any harm."

You see, Miss Swarthout happens to be honest and well-balanced and tolerant, along with having a sense of humor. Her first picture, "Rose of the Rancho," was a musical western directed by a Russian cut of Siberia and Tibet, and it is a leading candidate for the Ten Worst Movies of the Twentieth Century. Next came "Give Us This Night," with Jan Kiepura, whose fantastic temperament had the whole project licked before it was well under way. Third was "Champagne Waltz," best of her musicals but still pretty bad. Fourth was "Romance in the Dark," notable only because preview audiences were so sorry for Miss Swarthout that they hotly protested her ultimate indignity—being pelted with tomatoes.

She didn't mention a couple of circumstances I happen to know about—attempts by Samuel Goldwyn and Warner Brothers to borrow her for stardom in big pictures which might have established her movie prestige. Paramount wouldn't lend her.

Whether it's the cops and robbers in "Ambush," her last picture with Paramount, or whether it's the fact that her contract is about to expire, Gladys Swarthout appears a little perturbed.

U. S. Commissioner In Dallas Has The Christmas Spirit

DALLAS, Dec. 17. (AP) — United States Commissioner John Davis has the Christmas spirit.

Today he placed Mr. and Mrs. George Jenkins, defendants in a narcotic conspiracy case, under bonds totaling $10,000. A few minutes later Jenkins was brought back to enter a plea that the bonds be reduced so the couple might spend Christmas with their children.

Commissioner Davis sliced the bonds to a $500 total.

Dad's Problem

ents find his Christmas problem solved. He may come out with something that looks like the radiator cap on a sousaphone; and when the wife sees it—.

The bet still holds, never again will she smile archly across the dirty dishes: "Why, dear, just get me any old thing."

During the first nine months of 1938 the number of machine-and-tractor stations (from which Soviet collective farms rent their agricultural machinery) increased 525 to total 6,344.

Immense quantities of water for irrigation purposes have been pumped for 26 years from wells near Plainview, Tex., but there has been no change in the depth of underground water levels.

Death Valley Scotty Loses Old Friend

DEATH VALLEY, Calif., Dec. 17. (AP) — Death Valley Scotty is sorrowfully alone in the quietude of the desert rocks today. He has lost his closest companion, his favorite old pack mule Slim.

Slim, 40 years old, was victim of a mountain lion.

"She's packed a million and a half in plunder," Scotty used to say, fondling the black mule whose hair was graying. "Guess no other mule has done anything like that. I rode 28,000 miles on her through the rocks."

Today the famous 62-year old desert Midas was out alone with Betty, the last of his old string of mules. Betty for 15 years carried his ammunition and medical supplies on pack journeys through the desolate reaches of Death Valley and its forbidding ranges. She is 38.

colonels and their ladies led by Senators Harrison of Mississippi, Bailey of North Carolina, Connally of Texas, George, and Tydings.

Democratic Chairman Farley was greeted by Harrison as "a friend" who never believed in the purge. In song, Farley advised the president that "third term visions, bright and sweet, lead you down a one-way street."

Bailey, taking up where Farley left off, bellowed to the president to stay in the North where "you constantly fork out all of that pork," and "don't come South of the line."

More than 100 summonses for non-removal of snow from sidewalks were issued in Halifax, N. S., by Police Chief Judson Conrad after the season's first snowfall.

Affair Will Be Held Tuesday

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SPUR, Dec. 17. — Joyce McCully, pretty brunette who is a candidate for graduation from Spur High this spring, Tuesday night will be crowned football queen when an annual dinner will be given by the Spur pep squad for the school's grid team.

The browneyed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McCully of 517 North Carroll street was elected in student voting. She will preside at the dinner as Her Majesty.

The program will be in Spur Inn, it was announced by sponosrs, including the pep squad leaders, Miss Hogan, Mozelle Author, Jerry Lee Williard and Pauline Schugart.

Citrus Marketing Plan Is Studied

LAKELAND, Fla., Dec. 17. (AP) — Department of agriculture experts and Florida fruitmen sought to determine the real import today of a proposed citrus industry marketing agreement they have been considering for the past four days.

James E. Cloughley of Winter Garden, probate chief for the 1936 37 state citrus pact, declared yesterday he feared the citrus industry generally misunderstood the real meaning of the control measure.

The basic question behind the proposed pact, he said, is whether a majority of Florida growers want to continue selling their fruit to cash buyers or whether they want to market it cooperatively or individually.

The proposed agreement provides for grade and size restrictions on grapefruit, oranges and tangerines shipped in interstate commerce and for volume control of late season oranges.

Cloughley told government representatives that cooperatives would benefit from the proposed plan but the cash buyers would be forced to become "long range speculators" or merely handle fruit as agents for the growers.

He declared if growers are given "unlimited bargaining power" the cash buyers are through.

Insanity Verdict Returned In Trial Of Donald Covin

LONGVIEW, Dec. 17. (AP)—An insanity verdict was returned by a district court jury here yesterday in the case of Donald E. Covin, slayer of two women.

He was recaptured recently after he jumped from a moving train while officers were returning him from St. Louis to the state hospital at Rusk.

Covin served several years of a 10-year sentence given him for killing a Houston woman. Later he was sentenced to death for killing a Gladewater woman. He was declared insane and sent to Rusk, whence he escaped.

Recommendations For Amending Philippine Act To Be Given

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP) — President Roosevelt said today he would send to congress during the first week of January his recommendations for amending the Philippine independence act.

He said his recommendation would be contained in a special message which would embody the report of a Philippine-United States joint committee's study of Philippine problems.

The president said both the Philippine and American governments were supporting the committee's recommendations for retaining until 1961 preferential trade relationships after political independence in 1946.

Americanity Best Word For Use In Professor's Opinion

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 17. (AP)—That often-used word should be "Americanity," not "Americanism," said Dr. F. M. Kercheville, University of New Mexico language professor, today.

"The isms have come to have a bad connotation," he explained. "Fascism, communism, even Americanism are tainted. Americanity in English and Americanidad in Spanish, I think, express the broad viewpoint and come nearer saying exactly what we mean."

First Of Program Series Is Given At Plainview Club

'The Young In Heart' Picked For Best Of Month; Old Theme In A New Twist

BY ROBBIN COONS
AP Feature Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17. — This time it's a sentimental ditty that leaves a glow, provides many a chuckle, and lives up to its name—"The Young in Heart."

Directed by Richard Wallace, this new Selznick picture has a style—a "dressing" of performance, direction and musical underlining — that lifts it right out of the common run and makes it something to see.

The film was adapted from I. A. R. Wylie's novel. "The Gay Banditti," and relates to the spiritual rebirth of a shifty family of social parasites.

They are lead from ways of darkness by a sweet old lady whose extreme sentimentality about love and life would be slaying but for the fine interpretation by famed stage actress, Minnie Dupree. In theme "The Young in Heart" is not unlike other films of the sort you've seen. In presentation lies all the differences.

Roland Young, who plays "Colonel" Carleton, "late of the Bengal Lancers," and Billie Burke, who is his scatterbrained wife, are equally adept in the ways of polite swindling. Their two children, bred to the code of living by charm and wit, are played by Janet Gaynor and Douglas Fairbanks, jr.

After the Carletons are thwarted in one larcenous enterprise, fortune makes them train companions of the sweet and wealthy old Ellen Fortune. They save her life in the train wreck, and a bonanza ushers them into her home to comfort her loneliness and, incidentally, to await her death and their likely mention in her will.

To keep up the show of being worthy, the good colonel is forced to take up a job of work, and his son likewise, while daughter Janet, pursued by a poor but outspoken young Scot, is weakening on her share of the cold-blooded plan, son Doug is being ridden over the coals of conscience by the girl at his new office (Paulette Goddard).

Gradualllly, through a wealth of amusing detail, the transformation of the four is accomplished. Colonel Carleton, to his own and everybody's amazement, begins to take pride in his salesmanship. His son develops a weird interest in engineering designs. His wife begins to forget that their old hostess is simply a means to an end, and becomes fond of her. And his daughter comes to discover that cheating isn't all the Carletons thought it was.

Miss Dupree's work is easily outstanding, but Roland Young's is right behind. Janet Gaynor succeeds in a new, becomingly unsweetened character; Miss Burke's fluttering is admirably restrained — but not too much; and the younger Fairbanks carries his role with lightness.

Last Month's best — "The Citadel" (MGM) — King Vidor directing Robert Donat, Rosalind Russell.

This month's runner-up — "Submarine Patrol" (20th Century-Fox) — John Ford directing, Richard Greene, Nancy Kelly, Preston Foster.

Star-of-the-month — Charles Laughton in "The Beach-comber."

Best with music — "The Great Waltz" (MGM) — Julien Duvivier directing Luise Rainer, Fernand Gravet, Miliza Korjus.

Also recommended — The Beach-comber, The Cowboy and the Lady, Up The River.

Movie-of-the-month — Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Paulette Goddard in "The Young In Heart."

Cleveland Surgeon Goes To Guatemala In Efforts To Learn The Causes Of 'Shock'

By H. C. McKINLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17. — A quest for the explanation of a spark of life which he saw flickering out in a medical student 51 years ago today lured Dr. George W. Crile, eminent Cleveland surgeon, toward Guatemala.

"In 1887, the day I became an interne, William Lyndman, a healthy young student, was brought into the hospital in a state of profound shock, both legs crushed by the wheels of a street car," Dr. Crile writes in his last-published book, "Phenomena of Life."

Interne Crile administered chloroform, while a surgeon performed an amputation at the thigh. But the patient died from "shock."

Yet almost still flickering was his life, as young Crile looked at the organs and tissues during postmortem. All were normal in structure.

"What was it that this young medical student possessed up to the moment of his accident that he lost by reason of the crushing of his limbs—without material loss of blood?" That was Crile's question.

He has part of the answer. It is energy. This trip to Guatemala is to study a peculiar, slow-motion type of energy, that of the lazy sloth, the generously-snouted anteater and the hard-shelled armadillo.

In the long search he has subjected many animals to physical injury under anesthesia, exertion, stimulation, hemorrhage, and anesthesia and these experiments have led to a fundamental clue.

The clue: these agents produced changes only in the cells of the brain, liver and adrenal glands.

The researches pointed to these three organs, and the thyroid gland and nervous system, as the controlling factors in energy. All through, in death from shock, one factor remained constant—the loss of energy.

In seeking the source of energy the adrenal glands, little organs above the kidneys, stood out most prominently. They manufacture a substance, adrenalin, which is used as a powerful heart stimulant.

Dr. Crile has given particular attention to the adrenals of all the animals. He will concentrate on them again in Guatemala.

Alabama Convicts To Get Holidays

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 17. (AP) — The metallic rasp of keys turned in steel-grated doors was music today to the ears of more than 600 Alabama convicts leaving prison on Christmas paroles of two weeks.

For the 11th year, Alabama granted "good behavior" Christmas paroles for convicts, mostly long termers whose wardens deemed them worthy of consideration and trust.

Governor Bibb Graves decreed that prisoners who had "A" conduct records for the last year, and who were recommended by wardens, could go home for Christmas if they'd promise to come back. That's their only bond—their "word of honor" to return. No probation officers will check up on them while they are away.

Joseph R. Griggs Preparing To Move To Wichita Falls

Joseph R. Griggs, retiring county superintendent of public instruction, will leave soon for Wichita Falls, where he will live incident to his duties as deputy state superintendent of district 4.

Eventually, possibly after the present school semester, he will move his family there. He has three children in the public schools here.

Griggs' appointment, made by State Supt. L. A. Woods, becomes effective Jan. 1. There will be approximately 10 counties in his district.

He attended school at John Tarleton and Texas Technological college, became school principal at the Draw community in Lynn county, moved to Lubbock county in 1928 as principal of the Woodrow school, now a part of the Cooper district, and, in 1934, came to Lubbock where he served four years in the Junior High school.

He was elected county superintendent and took office Jan. 1, 1935.

He received his B. A. degree in Tech in the summer of 1932 and this summer will return to complete 10 hours of work and his thesis, so he may take his M. A. degree.

Instructions On How To Celebrate Yule Season In Nazi Fashion Being Given

BERLIN, Dec. 17. (AP)—Instructions on how to celebrate Christmas in acceptable nazi fashion have gone forth from various cultural departments of the national socialist regime.

Emphasis is laid on the principal that observance of Yuletide is an ancient Germanic custom and should be followed as such.

"Under national socialism," one order observed, "Yule has regained its ancient traditional character of winter solstice rejoicings.

"Our Germanic forefathers celebrated Yule which is older than Christ and which Christendom borrowed from the Germanic prototype."

Orders are to the effect that the place for religious Christmas exercises is church and must "on no account be introduced into community celebrations.

Christmas plays must not be performed in schools. Instead, reversion to the old custom of presenting dramatic versions of ancient legends bearing on the battle between light and darkness, good and evil, is recommended, with full allowance for old local customs. Meanwhile, Christmas trees are as popular as ever.

Speculation Aroused As FDR And Garner Confer

Texan Refuses All Questions

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—President Roosevelt talked over the congressional outlook with Vice President Garner today in a conference which led to speculation the chief executive would try to reunite his party on the common ground of national defense.

The more conservative Garner, ruddy and joke-cracking as ever, returned to the capital ahead of most members of congress, at the request of "the boss."

Retire For Long Chat

He and the president retired to the chief executive's study in the residential quarters of the White House for a long chat.

Two hours later, Garner strode swiftly from the White House. He motioned for his car, and then, when reporters started asking questions, pulled off his gray, cowcountry hat.

"I'm perspiring," he remarked with a grin. "It's awfully hot up there."

"What did you talk about?" a newsman asked.

He Can't Remember

"I can't remember," the vice president shot back.

Garner stepped quickly into his car, remarking that he was "already an hour late" for another appointment.

There were reports Garner previously had conferred with Postmaster General James A. Farley but he said:

"Ask Jim."

Farley could not be reached immediately.

Garner and Farley, understood to entertain similar political views, have been represented widely as being cool, generally speaking, toward the president's efforts to "purge" anti-administration Democrats from congress. Both have been advocates of party solidarity.

Foreign Policy Outlined

White House attaches said Mr. Roosevelt gave Garner a comprehensive outline of American foreign policy. The fact that it was the only subject mentioned publicly led to speculation that great emphasis would be placed in the next congress on international affairs.

There were many topics of mutual interest which could have entered the conversation between Mr. Roosevelt and Garner, including presidential appointments, new legislation and Democratic losses in the recent elections.

Garner is known as an influential, behind-the-scenes leader of conservative Democrats in Congress. Many politicians believe that a program agreeable to him would be acceptable to strong party factions which have fought some administration measures in the past.

Nation's Youngest Congressman Settles Himself In Office And Likes His Work

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—The nation's youngest congressman steeled himself in a borrowed office today and declared he was sure he would like his work because he likes people.

He is Representative-Elect Lindley Beckworth, 25-year-old Gilmore, Tex., Democrat, who unseated Rep. Morgan G. Sanders, a veteran of nine terms.

"I like politics," Beckworth said, in answer to a question about his victory, "and getting votes is part of the job."

He demonstrated to interviewers that he already has mastered the art of keeping his own counsel. He parried questions about controversial matters and indicated he intended to look and listen for a while.

"What do you think of Vice-President Garner's presidential chances in 1940?" he was asked.

"I'm not discussing presidential possibilities," Beckworth demurred with a grin.

Old Man Winter Officially Will Move In This Week

Old Man Winter moves into his South Plains tenement Thursday morning.

At 8:14 o'clock, when the winter solstice occurs, winter officitly will open.

Winter's forerunner, autumn, set an example that may presage three months of cold weather unprecedented in the area. Late in November the mercury dropped to 4.6 degrees, one of the coldest November temperatures on record.

Lower Than Last Year

That temperature was lower than any recorded last year.

Winter makes its appearance, geographers tell us, when the earth's axis is tilted farthest away from the sun, that at 23 degrees 27 minutes. Thus sunlight is minimized, making nights longer than days.

At the summer solstice, June 21, the opposite is true.

Gradually the axis moves back from point of the winter solstice to the spring equinox, March 21, equalizing length of days and nights. Intensity of sun's rays on the northern hemisphere is lessened during winter by the angle at which they strike the earth.

The weather man has the say after the geographers explain reasons for changing of the seasons, so a few preparations might not be amiss.

Vocational Aggie Teachers To Gather Here Monday

The meeting will be the third of a series at which classification and grading of dairy products is being discussed before vocational agriculture teachers.

Youngster Gets To Go Home For Christmas—Forever; He Dies After Horrible Tragedy

BALTIMORE, Dec. 17. (AP) — A truck ran over a big cardboard box in the street—the driver didn't know Robert Schwartz and Harry Schoeffield, 9, were playing inside the box.

Harry died within a few minutes. Robert, his body broken, was taken to a hospital, this was fourteen months ago.

Last night, Robert, 13, whispered to his nurse:

"Can I go home for Christmas?"

She knew the answer and it made her eyes bright. Not trusting herself to speak, she nodded. Robert smiled as he had always smiled. Then his eyes closed.

The nurse bowed her head and the tears came. Robert had gone home for Christmas—forever.

Damages Sought In Suit Filed

Damages of $27,914.55 were asked of the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway company in an action filed Saturday in the 99th district court of Judge E. L. Pitts by Eugene H. Abernathy and others.

The action grew out of an automobile-train collision Christmas day of last year. Damages were asked by Abernathy individually, as next friend of a 14-year-old son, Eugene H. Abernathy, jr., and Mrs. Abernathy.

Suffered Injuries

It was alleged Mrs. Abernathy and the son suffered "serious and permanent" injuries. According to pleadings, the accident happened at 4:45 o'clock on the morning of Dec. 25, 1937 when the car in which the Abernathys were riding was in collision with a Fort Worth and Denver City freight train at a crossing about 7 miles from Lubbock on the Lubbock-Idalou highway. Mr. and Mrs. T. E. McGee and three of their children allegedly were in the car and McGee was driving.

Damages asked included: $15,000 because of Mrs. Abernathy's injuries, $12,500 because of the boy's injuries, $214.55 because of damage to the automobile, and $200 for hospitalization and medical costs.

Response To Christmas Seal Drive In County Sought

If sufficient response meets with the Christmas seal drive of the State Tuberculosis association in Lubbock, this county may receive more money to combat the dread disease sometime in January.

That announcement was made Saturday, after telephone calls to Miss Pansy Nichols of Austin. Usually, it was explained, no money is returned to the county subscribing to the seals. Last year Lubbock received a percentage amounting to $204. Balance in the treasury was hiked to approximately $300 for relief of the white plague in this county. From $100 to $200 should be the county's part this Christmas, it was indicated.

The leopard frog is the species used chiefly for dissection in universities, colleges and high schools.

Corpus Christi Blasts Temple; Plays Lubbock In Final

Buccaneers Run And Pass For 20-7 Victory

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

TEMPLE, Dec. 17—Rugged Corpus Christi — the team without a star—ganged up as one big wedge today and drove to the finals of the Texas Schoolboy race with a thrust that flattened Temple 20-7.

Baffled for a half by Temple's one-man disturbance, Thomas Basden Pickett, jr., the bold Buccaneers hurried back after the intermission and didn't let Temple—Pickett or no Pickett—have much to say about things from there on.

Power outside the tackles swept the Bucs goalward, but it took three forward passes to bring in their scores. After that riotous second half the final statistics showed Corpus Christi to be a versatile steam-roller that should give Lubbock's Westerners a frightful afternoon in the championship game.

Bucs Show Superiority

The Buccaneers powered across 21 first downs to Temple's 9; piled a net gain of 350 yards on passes and runs to Temple's 153 and otherwise showed their superiority.

Not one—but four backfielders paraded in the Corpus Christi triumph. To give an idea of the equality in that backfield, Emory Nix personally accounted for 71 yards; William Dolan chipped in 73; Kenneth Mathews contributed his 71 and Jesus Garza, the blocking back, came in for 34 himself.

On the Buccaneer line there was a single standout, hulking Pat Hall, a 16-year-old, 202-pound end who still has another year of eligibility. He was a lighthouse on the defense, the main blocker in Corpus Christi's sweeps and a capable pass receiver.

Throughout the first period the stubborn defenses threw back running plays, one first down apiece being the only damage done. But Corpus Christi fumbled on their own 48 midway of the second period and that was Tommy Pickett's cue.

Pickett Scores On Run

He faded almost to midfield to search for a pass receiver, didn't find one and then took out laterally across the field. Past the line he winged and into the secondary great blocking aiding his incredible weaving and twisting until he finally stumbled across for the Temple score. He kicked the extra point and Temple held a 7-0 intermission lead.

Mathews speared the kick off on his own 14 as the third period opened and legged it back to his 45 Dolan added 12 on a tackle jab and Garza, on a beautifully executed "bootleg" play, steamed to the Temple 17 stripe. From there he casually passed for a score to Nix on the goal line. Fowler's conversion attempt was wide.

Pickett, a fine back, dropped Corpus Christi back to their 19 with a great punt soon after the kickoff, but Mathews and Nix started punching those tackles again and Dolan tacked on 10 yards to put them at midfield. Nix whipped a pass to Mathews on the Temple 33 and then found Dolan on the 10 with another, the big back ambling across for the second score. Substitute Cooper booted the extra point.

Dolan intercepted Pickett's wild pass on the Corpus 33 to start the third scoring drive. First it was Dolan, then Nix and Mathews as the Bucs poured through Temple's line to the enemy 33. Then Mathews broke wide around his left end to the four.

Casey, a wild little substitute guard, stopped Dolan for 14 yards loss on two running plays, but Nix passed over the Temple secondary to Dolan just across the goal stripe for the third score. Cooper again converted.

Tom Carlile, one of Pickett's backfield playmates, did a grand job of punching the big Corpus line on reverses and Pickett was a big threat despite many injuries, but Corpus Christi was a steamroller today—one of the most powerful schoolboy clubs in recent years.

The lineups:

Corpus Christi	Pos.	Temple
Hendricks	LE	Boren
Conoly	LT	Huffman
Fowler	LG	Roy Goad
Hinnant	C	Mercer
Salyers	RG	Weaver
Vrazel	RT	Dryk
Hall	RE	Pollak
Nix	QB	Pickett
Garza	LH	Burns
Mathews	RH	Carlile
Dolan	FB	Skelton

Score by periods:

Corpus Christi	0	0	13	7	—20
Temple	0	7	0	0	— 7

Corpus Christi scoring: Touchdowns—Nix (pass from Garza); Dolan (2) (passes from Nix). Points after touchdown—Cooper (2) from placement.

Temple scoring: Touchdowns — Pickett. Points after touchdown—Pickett (from placement).

Corpus Christi substitutions: Guards, Tucker and Cooper; backs, Haas.

Temple substitutions: Tackles, McKinley; guards, Casey and Holcomb; backs, Hester, Roper.

Officials: Referee, Higgins, SMU; umpire, McCullough, Texas; headlinesman, Sisco, Baylor; field judge, Gray, Texas.

Nova Certain To Be Next Champion?

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—Write the name of Lou Nova big in your book, for the young man from Alameda, Calif., who pounded Tommy Farr into helplessness in 15 rounds here last night is certain as sin to be the next world's heavyweight fighting champion.

It might be a year, and it more than likely will be two years before the California kid is ready to knock the wreath off Joe Louis' placid brow. But the 10,000 who saw him wreck the durable Welshman last night will bet that he does it sooner or later.

Nova, tempered in only 25 previous professional fights, lived up to the most lavish hopes of his backers. He gave the veteran Farr a worse shellacking than Farr received from Louis, or from Max Baer or from Jim Braddock, and he had the Welshman on the verge of a knockout at the finish.

Needs Knockout Punch

For the last two minutes of the 14th round Farr absorbed perhaps the most cruel beating of his long career. A terrific left hook first sent him tottering and brought his guard to his knees, and Nova must have poured a hundred furious blows to his chin and body before the bell finally ended the round.

But Tonypandy Tommy stood up. Furthermore, he came out for the final round and lasted through that one, too, though the ringsiders wondered what held him up as Nova lashed him with everything in his arsenal. Nova, who was fighting his first 15-rounder, was too tired to put across a finisher.

Fluttering around Nova like a nervous hen was Promoter Mike Jacobs, who has in the youngster one-half of a million-dollar gate in the not very distant future. Mike solicitously examined the two cuts under Lou's eyes and said that the kid's next opponent probably would be Max Baer.

Baer Probably Next

"I can't say for sure if he will fight Baer, but it looks that way now," Mike admitted. "Baer had a representative here to see this fight, and I suppose it depends upon what he reports to Max. I should know within 24 hours."

As for Nova and his manager, Ray Carlin, they are ready for Baer any time. They are willing to fight Louis within a year.

"I'll confess I was a little tired for the last five rounds," Nova said. "But now that I've gone 15 rounds and whipped a man like Farr I feel like I'm over the big hump. Maybe Dempsey and Tunney won't think now that I've been rushed too fast."

Joe Louis was one of the most interested spectators.

Tackled for his opinion on the latest "white hope," Joe said: "He looks mighty good, mighty good."

The one thing Nova obviously lacks is a single killing punch, though he repeatedly stunned and staggered Farr, both with his left hook and his straight right. Boxing men say the knockout punch will come to him gradually.

Boxers Meet In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 17 (AP)—Texas' outstanding amateur boxers will converge here for the three-day Southwestern eliminations of the Hearst Diamond Belt boxing tournament that opens Monday night.

Featuring approximately 150 talented leather-throwers, the bouts will determine representatives in nine weight divisions for the National Diamond belt finals Jan. 27 in Detroit.

One of the highlights will be the appearance of Arthur Dorrell of Tyler, regarded as one of the Southwest's most promising welterweights. In battling his way to A. A. U., T. A. A. F. and Golden Gloves championships within three years, Dorrell has won 80 of 83 fights, scoring 43 knockouts.

Other state title-holders registered include Truett Fulcher, Alex Parrish, Julian Farmer, Lon McMillan and Clyde Jones, of Abilene's crack team; Morris Carona and Dick Menchaca, Port Arthur; Noah Valadez, San Angelo; Eddie Russey, Wichita Falls.

Cities to be represented include: Austin, San Angelo, Abilene, Wichita Falls, Tyler, Corpus Christi, Port Arthur, Laredo.

Houston Junior C. Of C. Plans Sponsorship Of Golf Tourney

HOUSTON, Dec. 17. (AP) — The Houston Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a $3,000 open golf tournament here Dec. 29, 30 and 31. Plans were completed today when Fred Corcoran, tournament manager of the PGA, approved the dates.

Headed by Sammy Snead, leading money winner for 1938, the touring professionals will stop here enroute to California for the Los Angeles open championship.

Raider Gridders Run Navy Race For Traveling

By GERALD SPRAGUE

Join the navy and see the world. Maybe.

Make the Red Raider traveling squad and see the United States. Certainly.

Eastward to New York, northward to Montana and the Great Lakes, south to Louisiana and westward as far as the land lasts—to California, to be exact.

That's where they've been, the Raiders of Texas Tech—not counting the intermediate points, none of them jerkwater stops.

Checking on fingers and toes, it goes down on the records that teams in football alone have trekked into 18 states and two foreign countries, Canada and Mexico.

And, consulting at random a bit of the travel log, you may look into the rambles of one Elmer "The Great" Tarbox. Around Higgins, where his father owned a dairy, the most exciting thing he did probably was milk an assorted bunch of cows.

But he came to Tech, with no more knowledge of a pigskin than of a Grecian adverb—except that he'd seen a football game and heard that the Greeks had a name for this and that.

His log slows he has traveled 37,372 miles on football, basketball and track squads of Tech over the four years since he relinquished his milking stool and essayed in search of higher learning.

And consider that the "great one" is only one of a traveling squad of more than 30 gridmen, 10 or 12 basketeers or "as many as they've got" thinly clads—each trip.

Look at the Tarbox itinerary:

Chapman's Victory Grin

It's the famous Chapman grin, folks, and Weldon Bailey Chapman, head man of the Lubbock Westerners, has plenty of right to wear it these days. He has brought his Lubbocks through the state schoolboy grid race smack dab into the final championship game.

Picking The All-Staters

By Collier Parris

IT IS A "CHAPMAN YEAR" in Interscholastic League football, no matter how you figure it or how you consider the tough breaks the Westerner chieftain has experienced.

You recall that Weldon Chapman was offered a fat contract to move to Corpus Christi and coach the Buccaneers this year. He turned down the deal in favor of his Westerners.

Well, he would have been in the state finals any way you figure it. But he must have known what he was about, because by staying in Lubbock he'll win the state championship. Might have done it by going to Corpus, because a team is from one to three touchdowns better for having Chapman as coach, but it is swell for Lubbock that he chose to stay here.

SCRIBES of Associated Press newspapers are being polled for the annual official All-State high school football team.

To this department, it is a simple assignment, picking an all-state team. After this week's championship game, it should be simple for every scribe. All they'd have to do is clip a certain lineup out of the papers and send it in to Mr. Harold Ratliff, the A. P. scribe.

The lineup would read something like this: Ends, Winter and Foster; tackles, Sewalt (or Farris) and Nash; guards, Sanders and Pytell; center, Pipes; the backfield, Parsons, Johnston, Jackson and Webster.

But maybe we're prejudiced, biased and an unmitigated braggart, and in order to appear less prejudiced, we'll make a few substitutions, although we have little heart for it.

The state is overrun by good backfield men, and no doubt there are as many good linemen. Nearly every first class team in the district play-offs had an outstanding back. Right here in District 1 are some of the best. Jumbo Webster of Lubbock, of course, is THE all-state back of the League. Amarillo's Blazin' Bill Thompson is a great player. Borger's Quarterback Allen, Plainview's Graham and Pampa's Graham were outstanding backs.

Vernon had two fine backs in Judd and Maxon, a third in Crooks. It is hard for us to leave Judd off the selection. Breckenridge had its Bill Ramsey, and the Masons had their Gene Keel. These are the boys we have seen in action, and if the southern and eastern sectors of the state have any greater players, we don't believe it.

CORPUS CHRISTI must have some pretty fair lads, too, judging from the manner in which they ran over Temple yesterday and that 40-0 semi-final victory over John Reagan of Houston. Quarterback Nix and Halfback Dolan seem to be the fire-eaters in the Buccaneers' backfield, and in Hendricks, end, and Salyers, guard, they must have something.

For driving as far as they have, Corpus Christi, like Lubbock, should claim the bulk of places on the All-State team.

Temple had a fine back in Tom Pickett, and he'll probably get a lot of all-state votes. The Wildcats also had a great guard in Roy Goad.

McSpaden Has Slight Lead In Miami Meet

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 17. (AP)—Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., came through with a 71 today to retain his lead at the 54-hole mark in the $10,000 Miami Open golf tournament.

McSpaden's 71 added to his previous 66 and 69 gave him a total of 206 and a two-stroke lead.

Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., ended in a second-place tie with Johnny Revolta of Chicago despite a two-under-par 68. Revolta came up with a 67.

Ben Hogan of New York ripped off a 66 to move into a strong contending position at 210 where he was even with Johnny Bulla of Chicago. Bulla shot a 69.

Denny Shute carded 68 to join Ralph Guldahl at 212. Guldahl equalled par 70.

Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., pre-tournament favorite, scored a 70 for a total of 213.

Frank Walsh of Bretton Woods, N. H., duplicated Hogan's 55, and came from the background to the 214 spot which he shared with Jimmy Thomson, who slipped to a 75, Paul Runyan, who shot a 68, John Geertsen of Salt Lake City, Jimmy Hines and Craig Wood.

Lombardi Heads Best Batters

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. (AP) — Just as startling as a disclosure that Christmas comes on Sunday this year was an announcement today that Ernest Lombardi of the Cincinnati Reds was the National league's leading batsman in 1938.

Lombardi's average of .342 was 20 points under the worst winning total since 1919 and was even a notch beneath his own batting mark in 1935.

The big schnozzola man went to bat 489 times in 129 games and rapped out 167 hits, including 19 home runs.

The league's top ten hitters and their averages were Lombardi .342, Mize .337, McCormirk, .326, Medwick, .3220, Arky Vaughn, Pittsburgh .3216, Hack .320, Debs Garms, Boston, .315, Lloyd Waner, Pittsburgh .313, Ott .3111, Phil Weintraub, Philadelphia .3105.

Pirates Get Mueller In Trade With Bees

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates unwrapped their first Christmas package today and pulled out Ray Mueller, alert young catcher who batted .237 for the Boston Bees last season.

The deal, which sent Al Todd, veteran catcher, and Johnny Dickshot, utility outfielder, to the Bees along with a "considerable" bundle of cash was the first consummated by the Pirates in the current trading season.

Major Baseball Leagues Grant $20,000 To Junior Program

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 17. (AP)—Homer L. Chaillaux, the American Legion's National Americanism director, said at headquarters here today the National and American leagues had granted the Legion $20,000 to help support its 1939 junior baseball program.

The major leagues give money yearly to aid in paying transportation and other expenses of boys who play Legion baseball in some 30,000 teams throughout the country. The thirteenth season will start next June 30.

Getchell Tops Oddities For 1939 Sports

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. (AP)—It is late in the afternoon of Saturday, Oct. 22. Carnegie Tech's football team is playing Notre Dame and, in the fourth period, the score is 0-0. It is Carnegie's ball, near mid-field, and as the skibos move into their huddle quarterback Paul Friedlander turns to Referee John Getchell, asks:

"What down is it?"

"Third down," says Getchell.

Friedlander calls for a running play, it falls short of first down and, as the players come out of the pileup and Carnegie prepares to line

WHO'S WRONG NOW?

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 17. (AP) John Getchell said today he had been chosen to referee the Sugar Bowl game between Texas Christian and Carnegie Tech, victim of his now famous "wrong down" decision in the game the Skiboes lost to Notre Dame, 7 to 0. His appointment was recommended by Bill Kern, Carnegie Tech coach. The Sugar Bowl game is scheduled for Jan. 2.

up for a fourth-down punt, Getchell awards the ball to Notre Dame on downs on Carnegie's 46-yard line, the Irish score the game's only touchdown three plays later, and the Tartans absorb their lone defeat of the year.

Vander Meer Honored

That quick mental reverse by Getchell from third to fourth down was tabbed the season's principal sports oddity by 38 of the 70 contributing sports editors in the eighth annual Associated Press poll. While few of the critics attempted to rate the "freak incidents" in the usual 1-2-3 order, and a ranking therefore was impossible, there was a far greater vote for Getchell's momentary lapse than for any other incident.

Second place among the 1938 oddities went to the two successive no-hit, no-run games pitched by Johnny Vander Meer of the Cincinnati Reds. Not far back were the 2-2 football tie between Virginia Tech and Virginia Military, the collision of Stan Hack and Billy Jurges of the Cubs while chasing an easy infield roller (it lost the Cubs two runs in the second World Series game), J. Smith Ferebee's awesome series of golf marathons, and Monty Stratton's hunting accident that ended so disastrously with the amputation of the Chicago White Sox pitcher's leg.

Riggs Says U. S. May Keep Cup

CHICAGO, Dec. 17 (AP) — Bobby Riggs, America's top-ranking amateur tennis player since Don Budge turned pro, has but one burning ambition these days. Keep the Davis Cup in the United States.

And he thinks it can be done if the first flight candidates for the cup team "get into perfect condition and make every effort to reach their peak for the international matches."

"I think," Riggs said, "that we have an even chance to retain the cup even if Budge is gone, but I wouldn't say our chance is better than 50-50.

"We should be able to round up a good team from the candidates. I rate Sid Wood, Elwood Cooke, Frank Kovacs, Gene Mako, Bitsy Grant and Joe Hunt as definite cup possibilities in the singles, but I don't know whether all are available.

"In the doubles, the only thing to do is give all tandems an ample chance to show their stuff, then pick the one with the best record. The United States is bound to miss Budge and Mako in the doubles, but Mako may be able to find another partner who can carry on with him. I hear he's planning now to play with Jack Tidball of Seattle."

Daniel Baker Breaks Plowboys' Home Victory Streak, 26-24

STEPHENVILLE, Dec. 17. (AP)—John Tarleton College's Plowboys, who last year ended a 86-game winning streak, were stopped short in another victory string last night when Daniel Baker's basketball team defeated them 26 to 24.

It marked the Plowboys' first loss on their own court since 1932, when their amazing string of victories started. They had won 10 straight games since San Angelo Junior College defeated them last season.

Daniel Baker was never behind but the half-time score was 15-all. Billy Stewart, Baker guard, was outstanding on the defense.

Southland Splits Series With Highland Boys, Girls Teams

SOUTHLAND, Dec. 17. (Special) —Southland boys defeated the Highland High school quintet here last night, 32-27, but in the girls contest the visitors edged out a 38-34 victory.

Taking high point honors in the boys contest for Southland was Glenn Shelton with 15. Adams grabbed the same position for Highland with 12 points.

Florene Shelton scored 15 points to take second place honors in the girls game. Hawkins rang the bell with 18 points.

Lubbock Making First Invasion Into Finals

gridiron ability that established the Buccaneers as a definite threat to Lubbock's superiority. Their battle against the Westerners will be the Buccaneers' second trip into the state championship finals. In 1934 the coast team met Amarillo's Golden Sandies for the state pennant only to be crushed 48-0, the largest score ever run up in a title game.

Dallas in the next two weeks will see two of the largest West Texas delegations flow into the city in its history. Several thousand are expected to follow the Westerners for their title game and then Jan. 2 approximately 15,000 West Texans will invade the city for the Cotton Bowl classic.

Galento Asks Nova Next

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 17. (AP)—Tony Galento, Orange, New Jersey's globular contribution to the prize ring, headed home today bellowing contempt for "dat bum, Lou Nova."

"Gimme Nova and any three guys like him," the two-ton terror of the taprooms shouted when he learned of Nova's decision over Tommy Farr in New York last night. "I'll take 'em all at the same time. I'll knock 'em loose from their ankles without even gettin' a sweat up."

Cunningham To Enter Sugar Bowl Meet

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 17. (AP)—Glenn Cunningham, holder of the world's record for the mile, today led the invasion of stars who will compete here New Year's day in the Sugar Bowl track program.

The tall Kansan, who ran the mile in 4:04—the best figure on the books, plans to get in 15 days of training before matching strides with Chuck Fenske of Wisconsin, Big Ten champion, Howard Borck of New York, the I. C.-4-A champion, Henry Frederickson of the University of Georgia and Blaine Rideout, holder of the world's three-quarter mile record.

The Sugar Bowl track events include the 120-yard high hurdles, quarter-mile, the two-mile run, the two-mile steeplechase, a sprint medley relay and a Louisiana High school football relay.

Cubs May Get Pitching, Batting Strength In Season's Trading

CHICAGO, Dec. 17. (AP) — Give the Chicago Cubs a little more time—they may yet get the pitching and hitting strength they've been after since the big league trading season opened.

Negotiations are still underway for Pitcher Mulcahy of the Philadelphia Phillies and Infielder Jimmy Brown of the St. Louis Cardinals, Clarence Rowland, of the Cubs' front office said today upon his return from the major league meeting in New York.

The Cubs also still have hopes of landing yound Enos Slaughter, slugging Cardinal outfielder.

Golden Glove Boxers Urged To File Entries And Go To Work In Preparation For Official Tournaments

Leather is pounding against leather, also against sandbags and white flesh; legs and "wind" are being developed in "road work" around a football feld, and a small but select group of young amateur boxers are otherwise readying themselves for the Golden Gloves tournaments.

Some of the Golden Glovers are getting the jump on others by coming out for the free training and conditioning classes at the Lubbock High school field house, located at Ave. X and Twenty-second street, and this is another invitation to all Lubbock and South Plains boxers to take advantage of the same opportunity.

The clubhouse is open from 2 to 5 o'clock each day, or later if the boys desire it, or even earlier. Babe Ritchie, top ranking Golden Gloves heavyweight in Texas for the last two years, now a professional boxer of no mean note, has charge of the training classes, and will have charge of the fighters from now on through the State tournament in Fort Worth.

Following the plans which worked out well last year, the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal is sponsoring a Golden Gloves City tournament on January 9 and 16—Monday nights, one week apart, with preliminaries on Jan. 9 and finals in all weight divisions the following week.

The same paper (all Golden Gloves tournaments are sponsored by newspapers, since they were originated by newspapers) will conduct a District tournament on Feb. 6 and 7. All programs will be conducted at the Auditorium, which has been leased from Sled Allen for the Golden Gloves occasions.

All boxers of the South Plains who plan to compete in the City or District tournaments are asked to fill out the entry blank printed here and mail or bring it to the Golden Gloves Editor, Avalanche-Journal, Lubbock, Texas.

Winners in the District tournament here will receive free trips, all expenses paid, to the State tournament in Fort Worth starting Feb. 16 and running through Feb. 20.

The Westerner clubhouse, where boxers are working out, has been equipped with a ring, a heavy and light punching bag, jumping ropes, a mat and other necessary furniture for a gymnasium. The place is well situated for the benefit of boxers, and absolute privacy is guaranteed. Fans and followers will not be allowed in the gymnasium. The room is equipped with good lockers, which boxers may use free of charge. They should, however, provide their own padlocks. Other equipment the fighters must furnish includes the actual fighting clothes, and towels. Everything else is there, and free.

Fighters who dote on road work—and this is a most essential part of conditioning — may jog around the Westerner football field to their hearts content.

There are no obligations whatsoever except a promise to compete in the Golden Gloves tournaments.

The field house is open each week day afternoon. Boxers not only from Lubbock but from anywhere on the South Plains are welcome to use the field house.

Independent Basketball Circuit Opens Play This Afternoon With Two Games

Court Contests Scheduled At Auditorium

Independent basketball makes its debut in Lubbock this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when four teams of the recently organized commercial circuit clash at the Auditorium.

First game pits Grove's Grocery of Wolfforth against Panhandle Refinery company team.

The second contest lists Hub Clothiers and the Peel-Barnett quintet. Both games are to be played under A. A. U. rules.

Play Monday Night

Accommodations to seat 1,500 persons have been made and a large crowd is expected for the initial tilts. Two more games have been arranged for Monday night as will be the regular schedule throughout the playing season. Terry-Childress meets J. C. Penney in the Monday night opener and Grove's Grocery tackles Peel-Barnett in the final clash.

The six-club circuit will contribute to an All-Star team which will play the House of David squad here Christmas Day. Other outstanding teams including the All-American Redheads, a girls team playing under men rules, and the Olson Swedes have been signed to appear here in January.

Whisker Boys Play Here Christmas

Possibly the most colorful basketball squad in the nation will appear here next Sunday when the House of David five meets an all-star team at the Auditorium.

The Stars will be made up of members of the Lubbock Independent league, recently organized court circuit which opens play today.

The league has made plans to bring several other outstanding professional quintets here during the winter season.

Organized eight seasons ago the House of David club has toured the nation each season averaging 125 games each year. All members of the whiskered five are ex-college stars. The Benton Harbor, Mich., boys have won their way into the ranks of better American basketball attractions.

All Are Tall

Averaging well over 6 feet the House of David team is paced by Don "Horsie" Peterson, 180 pound forward, a former star at the University of Kentucky. Tallest of the entire team is Art Stoelting who towers into the ozone with his 6 feet 11 inches. Add to that height his weight which is 240 pounds and fans have the most unusual court player known. He formerly played with the Olson Swedes, another colorful team.

The team which describes their repertoire as a display of side-splitting comedy, trick shooting and dazzling passing, is making a tour of West Texas.

Raiders Traveling

that Tarbox has covered is equal to something like one and one-half times around the world. In that time Elmer missed 108 days of school, but maintained a B average in scholastic courses. The expense, figuring standard rate of three cents a mile, reaches the sum of $1,118.16.

George Philbrick, senior end from Dallas, has the most envious record —41,000 miles. The itinerary of his travels included Chicago, Los Angeles (twice), and Roswell as well as the cities on Tarbox' list.

And his journeyings were concerned only with football!

Among the teams Tech has played are: Duquesne, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Baylor, Texas A. & M., Texas university, Loyola of the West, Loyola of the South, Centenary, De Paul, Detroit university, Gonzaga, Marquette, and Oklahoma A. & M., and others. Tech has played most of these teams both in Lubbock and in their own settings.

So, it doesn't travel all the time.

The Raiders intend to travel more next year. Their tentative schedule indicates that such places as Pittsburgh and San Francisco are assured. St. Louis likely will be added to the list.

'Mighty Good' Champ Says Of Nova

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—If Lou Nova is brought along right, nothing's going to stop him for a long time . . . He's certainly the best thing among the big fellows since Joe Louis was on the way up . . . Give him a year or so, and he'll be ready to swap socks with the Brown Bomber . . . Manager Ray Carlin oughta take him out in the hinterlands now to fight anybody in the field, so he can learn how to throw punches without leaving himself open, and how to pace himself over the 15-round route . . . Otherwise, he has heart and more ring poise than lots of the fellows who've been around years longer . . . As for Tonypandy Tommy Farr—well, he's had four strikes now and not a base hit yet. . .

Joe Louis is in town, and in A-1 shape . . . Been in the country for six weeks doing light work . . . And scales only 207, plenty under the poundage he usually packs between fights . . . Incidentally, Joe "scouted" Nova last night against Farr . . . And got a great big eyeful . . . Looks like the Brownies are gonna have contract trouble with Buck Newsom . . . He's howling for $20.000 for '39—And they're offering 15. . .

With this colyum, this department leaves for two weeks of doing nothing . . . Dr. Drew Middleton takes over, and we know you'll be just as kindly to him as you always are to us . . . Tigah Jack Fox is out of the hospital—And probably will tangle with Melio Bettina for the lightheavy crown (New York version) in January, just as soon as those knife wounds disappear . . . Fred Bainbridge, who hails from Sweeny, Texas—"where the oil wells are 10,000 feet deep and we dig 'em in 45 days"—writes that Willie Lapalac on the little Belleville High grid team down that-a-way only scored 245 points by himself this season . . . Tie that, boys.

Speaking Of Colorful Quintets—

The whiskered boys from Benton Harbor, Mich., pictured above are about the classiest things to invade West Texas basketball courts, according to advance information on the group. They are the House of David five which appears here Sunday afternoon, Dec. 25, for a game with an All-Star team selected from the city's Independent Basketball league. The rangy sharpshooters plan to play several exhibition tilts over this section of the state. Those in the picture, reading from left to right: George H Johnson, manager; G. F. Deim, guard; Artie Deim, guard; Don Peterson, forward; Elmer Johnson, forward; and Art "Bib Boy" Stoelting, center.

Coaching, Marriage, Pro Football—All Hold Interest Of Senior Red Raiders

By GERALD SPRAGUE

Coaching, teaching, engineering, professional football, geology, government service, Indian service, salesmanship, the ministry, and even matrimony interest the 11 seniors of the Texas Tech Red Raiders football squad.

In a recent survey, teaching and coaching seemed to be the most popular intentions of those graduating.

Gene "Bubbles" Barnett, halfback, said, "The first thing I intend to do after graduation is get married and then get a job, or get a job and then get married. I would like to work for the department of agriculture or Soil Conservation service. I would consider teaching vocational agriculture or some phase of extension work in agriculture. I have no intention of playing professional football unless the pay is worthwhile."

Ralph "Big-Dough" Balfanz, quarterback, said "I intend to be a petroleum engineer for an oil company, but I would consider teaching. I have no intention of playing pro ball under any conditions."

Elmer "The Great" Tarbox, halfback, related, "I will play pro ball and work for an auto company as a salesman. I would consider a good coaching position, however."

Captain Frank "Nutsy" Guzick, center, answered, "I would like to teach. I would consider any position relating to business administration."

Bobby Holmes, halfback, said, "I will enter government service working in the Indian service. I wouldn't think of playing pro ball."

George Philbrick, end, related, "I would like to coach and teach. I wouldn't play pro ball. I will probably get married."

Harris "Preacher" Cheek, manager, answered, "I would consider any sort of physical education work and would like to coach and teach. I may enter the Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary in Fort Worth. I may get married."

Captain Abe "Cush" Murphy, tackle, said, "I am going to teach and coach. I will probably get married. I wouldn't consider pro ball despite the circumstances."

Wilmer "Skinny" Greene, guard, hoped, "I would like to coach and teach. Pro ball doesn't interest me. I would like to get married."

Leonard "Nigger" Latch, tackle, answered, "I would like a position as a petroleum geologist for an oil company. I would play pro ball only if it was necessary. I don't think I would like to teach or coach. I will probably get married."

Forrest "Chief" Jones, guard, said, "I plan to work for the government in the Indian service. I wouldn't consider pro ball. I would teach and coach or enter the Soil Conservation service."

So, employers and pretty girls, be on the lookout for potential job hunters and altar-bound football players.

Club To Meet In Regular Session

The Cotton Bowl, Texas Tech's Red Raiders, Lubbock's Westerners and St. Mary's Galloping Gaels will be the topics of conversation at the Touchdown Club's regular Monday night meeting tomorrow night at the Hotel Lubbock.

Coach Cawthon will be present and will have some pictures of the Gaels in action in a game.

Membership in the quarterback group has been growing fast since the Raiders were invited to play in the Cotton Bowl classic and since Lubbock High school's Westerners have marched to the Interscholastic league championship game.

Announce Winners Of Jitterbug Contest

Joe McAlister and Nora Lee Tew took top honors in the jitterbug contest finals at the Auditorium Saturday night. Other winners were Tuffy Cook and Marguerite Belt, second; and Kay Bradshaw and Gladys Bradshaw, third.

Prizes of $30, $20 and $10 were awarded, respectively, first, second, and third place winners.

Nine couples participated. Music was by Ned Bradley's and Jack York's orchestras. York was director of the contests which began eight weeks ago.

Women Wrestle Again; Mortensen Meets Banaski In Main Event

Leo Mortensen, the brown headed demon who made such a hit with fans here last week, comes back on the main event wrestling card this week to battle Joe Banaski, the boy with the bad temper and the equally bad "alligator clutch."

Making the best and probably most popular debut in a local ring Mortensen proved he could mix it up when the party was rough last week by bouncing Sailor Tex Watkins all over the ring only to lose via the choking and head hammering route.

He is a clean fighter as long as his opponent chooses to fight that way but is an ardent believer in the "eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" expression.

Women Wrestle Again

Wednesday's main event should provide even more thrills than did last week's slug fest, especially now that Banaski has joined the ranks of the "McShain" school of torso twisting.

The women again take the spotlight in a special event, two out of three falls or a two hour time limit. Clara Mortensen, recognized as the women's wrestling champion of the world, pulls hair with Margie Steele in the middle event. The champion defeated Mildred White in two straight last week.

A newcomer appears in the curtain raiser, Frankie Hill of Kansas City. He is reported to be one of the best bone twisters in his circuit and should give Bill Cazzell plenty to do before the 20 minute bell rings. There will be only the regular three events Wednesday because of the special event.

Promoter Sled Allen announced that there would be no advance in prices.

EVER SEE DEER SMOKING?

CODY, Wyo. (AP)—Billy, pet deer at a ranch near here, has acquired the smoking habit from dudes who visited the ranch this summer. He learned to like cigars and goes about puffing one whenever he can steal it at the ranch commissary or whenever one of his countless firends offers him a smoke.

Until 1819 Massachusetts included what is now the state of Maine.

Allison Beats Meadow, 30-6

MEADOW, Dec. 17. (Special)—Allison girls team, state A. A. champions, swamped the Meade girls squad, 30-6, in the second of the two game series here tonight.

The victory gave the champions a clean sweep of the series. Taki high point honors for Allison w Oleta Jones with 16 points. She h been named an all-state forwa the past two seasons. Ruth Garr was another outstanding player the title holders.

Outstanding for the Meadow te was Ruth Deckard, taking high po honors, and Kathleen Garner. T game was played under A. A. rules.

THE GROAN-BERLIN AXIS Stunned Germans cancelled celebrations last June, hardly believing that Negro Joe Louis had so battered Max Schmeling (right), pride of the Nazis, mercifully ending the massacre in 2:04 of first round. In 1936, Schmeling stopped Louis in the 12th.

IT TOOK $75,000 When Don Budge turned pro for $75,000 in order to aid his family financially, amateur tennis lost a man who'd won four major singles titles in one season—the U. S., all-England, Australian and French. "I feel great regret," said the grand-slam winner.

REDS Rookie John Vander Meer of Cincinnati Reds, then 22, outstripped his baseball elders by pitching two successive no-hit, no-run games, against Boston Bees and Brooklyn Dodgers, a record in both leagues.

STOCKS AT LOWER LEVEL

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (AP)—Stocks generally dozed at slightly lower levels in today's brief session although most ended with substantial advances for the week.

Further profit taking on the recent upswing, combined with a little more year-end tax selling, provided sufficient barriers to stem mild advancing tendencies.

There was hardly any change in the favorable business outlook, and apprehension over foreign affairs appeared to have waned considerably, but the buying urged was notably indifferent throughout.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .2 of a point at 51.4. On the week this composite was up 1.2 points, the recovery coming after four consecutive weekly declines. Transfers for the two hours totalled 452,870 shares against 605,610 last Saturday.

Among the day's losers were General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, Santa Fe, Great Northern, John-Manville and Union Carbide.

Boeing moved up, along with Bethlehem Steel, Standard Oil of N. J., United Aircraft, Monsanto Chemical, Consolidated Edison, Eastern Airlines and Owens-Illinois.

The McKesson and Robbins debacle this week was only a mildly chilling market factor, brokers said.

Cotton..

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 17 (AP)—Cotton futures rallied from a slight early decline here today on local and foreign buying and last prices were steady at net gains of 4 points on active positions.

The market absorbed considerable week-end liquidation and profit-taking but Wall street buying and local covering were sufficient to absorb the offerings and hold prices steady during the short session.

Dec. contracts closed at 8.34-bid, March at 8.34, May at 8.15, July at 7.85, Oct. at 7.55-bid. Dec. at 7.52-bid and March (new) at 7.62. Spot cotton was quiet with sales totaled only 77 bales. Middling advanced 5 points to 8.44.

Disappointing cables were the only influence behind the early selling movement which was absorbed at losses of 1 to 2 points.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (AP)—Cotton moved higher today as trade buying against recently improved cotton goods sales found offerings light. March sold up from 8.17@8.24 and closed at 8.21, with final prices 3 to 5 points net higher.

The market opened 2 points lower to 1 higher with the influence of steadier Liverpool cables offset by liquidation and week-end hedge selling. Price fixing orders appeared in nearby deliveries however and carried them up to net gains of 6 to 7 points. The market proved sensitive to small orders and later reacted partially under realizing sales.

Cotton goods sales for the week were estimated at more than double current mill production. Commodity credit corp reported 157,189 bales pledged to the loan this week, bringing the total thus far to 3,436,086.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 17 (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 4 points higher at 8.40 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.50 cents a pound.

He Had To Have High Heels So He Borrowed His Wife's Shoes

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 17. (AP)—Out here in West Texas where cowboy boots are common footgear many a rugged ranchman is uncomfortable in any shoes other than the high-heels he has worn since childhood.

That's why Commissioner Jake Harper created a mild sensation when he swung his feet up on a table at a meeting of the county court.

"You see, boys," he explained, "I had to have my only pair of boots worked on; I don't have any more handy; so I borrowed these high heeled shoes from his wife."

death sentence only by a close vote. Opponents of legalized wagering argue there is no reason to think the attitude of the house has been altered, but others express belief many representatives will change positions if the pressure against horse race betting is relaxed by the new executive.

In the opinion of some, parimutuel re-legalization may be aided by the existence of the anti-bookie law, enacted when race track wagering was banned.

In the last general session, the legislature almost passed a bill legalizing liquor drink sales. The house enacted the measure after a hard fight, but the bill died in a senate filibuster.

stars we may have overlooked or considered because it was not our privilege to see them in action, we're sending in the following lineup to Mr. Ratliff as our vote in the All-State poll:

Player	Pos.	School
Hendricks	E	Corpus
Nash	T	Lubbock
Pytell	G	Lubbock
Pipes	C	Lubbock
Bill Wright	G	Vernon
Minnant	T	Corpus
Moseley	E	Masons
Pickett	QB	Temple
Thompson	HB	Amarillo
Dolan	HB	Corpus
Webster	FB	Lubbock

Wanta Argue, Huh?

WHAT? Leave off Gene Keel of the Masons? and Hugh Munnell of Highland Park? Well, there's room for only eleven players. Keel would be a nice boy to have around, because of his passing ability and his fine generalship, but Keel, good as he is, isn't the all-round ball player that Bill Thompson is. And Thompson can pass just about as well as Keel. The Masons had a passing "system," and Keel was a part of that system, not the whole cheese himself. Before Keel, we'd rather have Wayne Johnston of Lubbock. He is almost as good a passer as either Keel or Thompson, and he is dangerous on the ground. Also, he is bigger.

They say Munnell of Dallas ought to be on the team because of his fine blocking and his weight, but Thompson is a great blocker, and so is Tom Pickett of Temple. The backfield named above can do everything, and do it well. Thompson and Webster can take care of the punting and plunging, and between them all, they could get a complete job done.

There's room for more argument in the line, perhaps. We've seen them all play except the Corpus Christi boys, and we're going by their reputations. We know that the other five may be depended upon, although Moseley's size would handicap him in that crowd. He's a good pass snatcher, and a mighty tackler for his poundage. Lubbock's ends, like the other linemen, turned in some great work, and we'll trust them in the state championship game. Ernest Winter is probably the most improved wingman in the league.

We would also trust Avon Sewalt or Pat Farris at tackle, "Gootch" Sanders at guard, Harold Parsons at quarter and Leslie Jackson at halfback. In fact, we are trusting very sincerely in them come the state championship game. Harold Parsons is just as good a field general as there is in the state, and he is a mighty good blocker for his size. His "calling 'em" out there Friday was sometimes questionable, but for the whole route, he exercised good judgment, just as he has in all games. Leete Jackson can play for our money any time he puts on a suit.

For Boxers Only

TAKE NOTICE, you Golden Gloves entries in another part of this department, and fill out the entry blank.

If this section is to rank high in district and state tournament boxing, it's necessary that work get under way at once.

The Westerner field house, at Ave. X and Twenty-Second street, is still open for all Golden Gloves hopefuls, and they are urged to take advantage of the free training services. The place has been fixed up nicely, and there's plenty of suitable equipment. Babe Ritchie is on hand each afternoon from 2 to 5 to supervise practice and training, and he'll do you some good.

Golden Gloves dates are Jan. 9 and 16 for the City tournament, February 6 and 7 for the District tournament.

Your correspondent, who has been designated by this newspaper to carry the torch for the Golden Gloves in this section, enjoyed a pleasant visit with Floydada men the other day. The Whirlwind Athletic association is planning a preliminary Golden Gloves tournament, sponsored by the high school, for Jan. 19 and 20. All school boys and amateurs not in school, of the Floydada sector, are invited to compete. It is not strictly a Golden Gloves tournament, but winners, runners up and others who "look good" in the Floydada tournament will be especially invited to compete in the District tournament here. Plainview plans a similar tournament, and will send the outstanding boxers here.

Indications are that it'll be a whale of a District tournament, and all local and South Plains boxers are urged to start making preparations.

Basketball Today

BASKETBALL FANS will welcome a new season this afternoon as the Independent League gets its campaign under way at the Audi orium.

A league of six clubs has been formed, and it's probable that two more teams will be added. Considerable interest has been aroused in independent basketball, and with a definite organization here for the first time, the interest should pick up wonderfully.

In games today, the Grove's Grocery quintet of Wolfforth plays the Panhandle Oil company team of Lubbock, starting at 2:30. The second game of the double header will be between the Hub Clothiers and the Peel-Barnett club.

Two games will be played Monday night, Terry & Childress playing J. C. Penney company in the first, Grove's Grocers meeting Peel-Barnett in the second contest.

Admission is 15 and 25 cents, and you're sure to get your money's worth in basketball.

SLED ALLEN has installed a fine set of basketball goals at the Auditorium, the floor has been marked off, and it is a fine place for cage games. Allen plans some interesting situations this winter, what with a string of well known traveling clubs scheduled to play here. The long-whiskered House of David club is due to shine in the Auditorium on Christmas Day.

Man Is Jailed On Spy Count

DOWNEY, Calif., Dec. 17. (AP)—Discovered in the cockpit of a newly-finished army bombing plane at the Vultee aircraft plant here, George H. Miller was arrested today by James Corbett, sheriff's deputy, and jailed for suspicion of espionage.

"I have been engaged in spying for 16 years," Corbett quoted Miller ass aying after the arrest. "I was convicted in 1932 for treason and lost my citizenship."

Corbett said the man told him he was a member of the "international police."

Plane Was Equipped

The plane in which Miller was seated was equipped with machine guns and dummy bombs and to- morrow was to undergo thorough inspection on its trial flight, Vultee officials said.

Several spy suspects have been arrested in southern California in recent weeks. Karl Allen Drum- mond faces trial for theft of 150 photographs and blueprints of new type bombers from the Northrop aircraft plant. Mokhail Gorin and Hafis Salich also are held on es- pionage charges. Soviet Consul Mikhail Ivanushkin of New York said the Russian government will try to have Gorin released on bail.

HAD YOU THOUGHT the main difference between a career and a job is that you get regular pay for the job.

A PEACE BELL

IN THEIR efforts to encourage the cause of peace, members of the Women's Improvement association of Las Cruces, N. M., are bringing to their city a large bell, now being cast in Juarez, Mexico, which is to be hung on a public building. At a stated interval each day the bell will be rung so that inhabitants of the town may hear and stop for a brief instant to breathe a silent prayer for peace.

Las Cruces means The Crosses, so named because of the crude wooden crosses left to mark the lonely graves of the early settlers massacred in the pioneer days of this country's history. Thus the symbol and the setting seems singularly suitable in this day when peace is the goal of womankind.

BESIDE THE POINT

THE OLDER we get the more difficult it becomes for us to undersatnd why so many persons live in terror of "what other people might think." Some allow the worry to make slaves of them. It seems to us as long as we are doing our best and being as kind and fine as possible we should not concern ourselves too much about other people's opinions.

All the "people" cannot know all the circumstances all the time. If we live up to our conscience, isn't that enough? Hasn't that been the real secret behind all the great successes of the world? Why not stop being afraid of people, unless you think they are right and you are wrong.

SCATTERINGS

AFTER being wined and dined for several weeks during his first visit to the United States, a noted English writer recently asked in surprise if everyone in the country was trying to write, added he would like to meet a few readers for a change. . . . Mickey Rooney and Eleanor Powell have formed a new song-writing team. . . . We'd get the Christmas spirit if we could hear Bing Crosby sing "Adeste Fidelis," or hear Lionel Barrymore read "A Christmas Carol." . . . The first printed copy of "Yankee Doodle," which typifies America, appeared in Glasgow in 1782. . . . Elizabeth Hawes, American designer, predicts that hooped skirts, freak hats and upswept hair are due for a disappearance before many more days because of their impracticability for the majority of women. . . . Crosby Gaige suggests "Win him with a Christmas cookie if he respect not ties."

COLLEGIATES HOME

A FEW more days and Miss and Mr. College will be landing in the midst of their families for the Christmas holidays. Whether they get here or leave here by their own car, by plane, train, bus or thumb, they'll kep things stirred up. Wise parents accept the fact that college students don't go home to "be with the family." They go home because they have to go somewhere. But they don't intend that anything shall cramp their holiday.

They'll breeze in, loaded down with luggage, talking in the newest campus lingo, perhaps dragging along a sorority sister or fraternity brother who, because of distance or lack of cash, can't get home.

THE MODERN collegian won't be vague about what he wants for Christmas. None of that "I'd like a surprise" stuff from him. He'll have a list — all practical things — and won't be shy about dragging it out into the light of day. When they are with their own they'll complain about how tough their school is and wonder if they can manage to squeeze through winter semester exams. But they won't crack a book the whole vacation. When the time comes for them to go back, they won't even look decently regretful.

We remember this from our freshman days a few years back.

Parents shouldn't waste time feeling resentful that the youngsters are like they are. College is a kind of disease—like measles—that marks its victim, but only temporarily. Later on, when college is over, and they have been on their own for a while, they'll come home for Christmas if they can possibly scrape the money together. And the reason will be "to be with the family."

ON WRITING LETTERS

DO YOU have a "pen pal"? It's surprising how many people carry on a regular correspondence with some one whom they have never seen. We have a friend who has been writing to an English girl for four years. While we see the benefits from such a procedure, we wonder how they do it. It's worse than taking medicine for us to correspond at far intervals with our brother and sister.

Yule Peace And Good Will Likely To Get Stern Test This Week, Says Olive Roberts Barton

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Sometimes it is hard to keep up the cheerful morale of the house during the week preceeding Christmas. The children are not the cause, although they may be too excited to behave. The trouble is usually with the grown-ups themselves.

Mother comes in, after trying to make three dollars stretch to ten, her feet hurting, to meet father at the front door after a hard day at the office. He had heard talk of a company bonus one day, and then after his hopes were up, the last rumor had it that the mill hands would get it but the office men would not.

Daddy wants to know why dinner isn't ready, and mother snaps that she hasn't more than two feet and the same number of hands. She is weary and worn trying to find things in bargain basements, with crowds tearing her to pieces. And the inevitable happens. She begins at the table with its sketchy meal to blame him for all their troubles. And the poor man retaliates by saying that if she hadn't wanted a new car so darn bad, they would have had the monthly payment to spend on Christmas.

This Provokes Dad, Too

Then she says, "I wanted the car? A lot I see of it. You have it all the time. If I hadn't had to wait on a cold corner for a

Sans Souci Club Introduces Fourteen Pledges Friday At Formal Yule Dance

BY LOIS MARIE DANIEL

A huge jeweled Christmas bell, topped with red satin bow, on a background of scarlet velvet furnished the presentation scene for fourteen pledges of San Souci social club of Texas Technological college Friday night at 10 o'clock at the auditorium. This initiated the season of winter college formal dances.

Grecian columns connected by a white corrugated wall surrounded the ballroom. A white sunburst swept from a modernistic light in the center. Holly was used to top the columns and decorate the orchestra stand.

Ned Bradley, who made the presentations, and his orchestra played for dancing.

Miss Dorothy Kelly, escorted by Frank Jackson wore white slipper satin with accordian pleats and a pearl and crystal bodice. Her accessories were gold and her corsage Bird of Paradise.

Texas Congress Of Parents And Teachers To Place Emphasis On Homemaking For Next Three Years Says President

AUSTIN, Dec. 17. (Special)—Renewed emphasis upon home living, the importance of the home as a character building institution for youth, will characterize the program of work for the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers during the next three years, according to the newly elected president, Mrs. Joe A. Wessendorff of Richmond.

"The Congress concerns itself with projects of parent and home education because we believe that in the home lies the great opportunity for character development," she said.

"The 2,302 local parent-teacher associations in Texas with their 131,000 members are giving up, as rapidly as possible their money-making and material functions which were never for a moment in the minds of the Congress founders. Parent-teacher members are spending more time and more energy in studying subjects related to their homes, their schools their churches and their communities. During the triennium, 1938-41 we hope to see this movement grow in strength until every child shall have a home truly rich in things of the mind and of the heart."

Thrifty Administration

Mrs. Wessendorff has outlined a thrifty administration and hopes, during her term of office, to reduce substantially the debt on the Constate headquarters in Austin.

A great part of Mrs. Wessendorff's life has been dedicated to parent education and child welfare work. Her active service with the Richmond Parent-Teacher association began in 1923. After serving this association in many capacities, she became an officer in the 11th district. At the time of her election to the presidency at Lubbock Nov. 16 she was serving her second term as head of the 11th district, which embraces Houston, and is one of the outstanding parent-teacher sections of the state. She is the first president to be elected from southeast Texas.

Mrs. Wessendorff is an honorary member of Alpha Iota chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma, teachers' fraternity. She is an enthusiastic gardener. Her son, Joe C. Wessendorff, a B. A. graduate of Texas A. & M. college, is now a second year law student in the University of Texas.

December Eighteenth
From 1 P. M. to 6 P. M.

DEAR LOUELLA: I suppose you remember that my marriage predictions of last January caused quite a storm, and I presume you observed during 1938 that more than half of those predictions materialized and that a good percentage of those not yet materialized are likely prospects for 1939.

Well, I'm going to stick my neck out again, come New Year's Day, and tell you who I think will wed in 1939 and when I predict they'll take off. I am issuing this advance warning in the hope that you'll tip off those who might get offended in time for them to tip me off in time for me to avoid the offense. In other words, I'll keep their secrets if they'll just tell me it's a secret.

Lulu's Gonna Help

Lulu said she'd help me with the list, and Lulu ought to know because she is one whom I suspect will tread the altar carpet next year.

The mail brought me a Christmas card from Mrs. John B. Slaughter of the U-Lazy-S ranch, near Post. The card, as usual, is original. It shows her on the patio of her recently enlarged ranch home, and its message is an original poem written and signed by the 83-year-old pioneer.

THE mail also brought a letter from Fredda Hunt who says she will be home from Dallas the night before Christmas and stay until the following Friday. She also invited me to visit her during the Cotton Bowl game, and told me to bring my friends and some cots if I could come.

Lloyd Croslin is certainly taking for himself a lovely wife, in the person of beautiful Frances Jones of Colorado. She is spending the week-end here with Lloyd's sister, Lottie.

Lookin' For The Lowdown

I think I'll stay off the romances until I make my predictions, but I can't help wondering whether or not I should include Catherine Howell on New Year's Day. There's a young man from near Chicago who keeps coming home with her from the University of New Mexico. Maybe I'll get the lowdown while they are here this week.

Marvin Stephens of Cleburne was in the office the day of the high school game. I liked him very much. He's single, too.

IT'S a little early yet to say who is going to the Cotton Bowl game and who is going where for Christmas, but I will pass along this little bit of information:

Roderick Curry is hoping to spend Christmas with his family in Fort Worth. Mrs. R. C. Harvey is hoping to visit her people there. She and Bob are planning definitely to attend the game.

The W. O. Harbisons are going to the game and visit his relatives.

Miss Mattie Clark will spend Christmas with relatives in Hico.

If I could take the time, I'd tell you more but I must get to discussing football with my cronies.

Yours, Lou.

Yule Peace

bus, I'd have been here hours ago."

"I told you when we moved here we'd have to have a car to get me to the works. I didn't want to come to this God-forsaken hole in the first place, but yes, you had to have roses and the children had to have pets, so here we are, a million miles away from anywhere. Eat your baloney, Junior."

"Millers had a sale. I wish you had seen their sofa cushions. I wanted to get two for Muriel's new couch. But of all things, grass green and magneta. And the house coats! I wanted one for Helen. She wants one of those chenille things I call heathen. They're all right on a bed, but for wear, why, I wouldn't be caught dead in one. Annabelle, finish your potato chips."

"Mom, can I have a desk? I haven't a single place to do my night work. And the girls all have them. You promised."

"Desk. I never had a desk in my life."

"You shouldn't promise them things you can't buy," comments father. "Anyway, why should we give presents to all the family? I think Christmas begins at home."

"YOU THINK. If it weren't for me doing all the washing for the last five weeks to save a cent, we wouldn't have a dime. Besides you have to put up a front on Christmas. My people would think we were ready for the poor house if I didn't give them something worth while. And you were looking for an electric toaster for your mother."

"I can get it at a discount and charge it against my salary. Oh, heck, maybe Don will lend me a few dollars until February. Don't look so solemn, kids. We'll have a merry Christmas. I guess mother and I just like to fuss."

Final Tests On Engine Are On

The work of converting the third of the nine Diesel engines in the city electrical plant so that either crude oil or gas may be used as fuel has been virtually completed and is now undergoing final tests, according to information at the city hall Saturday.

Completion of the work, officials said, will cut fuel bills for that particular engine, which is one of the largest in the power plant, by approximately one-half.

Negotiating New Contract

Information concerning work in progress at the power plant led to the disclosure of several facts not generally known. Some of them are:

The city of Lubbock now is negotiating for a new natural gas contract for the year which began last Dec. 1.

The city of Lubbock is the largest user in Lubbock of natural gas, having burned more than 100,000,000 cubic feet last year.

Expected To Be Doubled

Expectation is that the city's consumption of the fuel will be doubled this year.

The city is attempting to obtain a more favorable contract than has been offered by West Texas Gas company, from which it now buys gas under the contract which expired last Dec. 1.

The work of converting the engine on which work now is being done is without cost to the city, officials explained. When it was bought from Nordberg Manufacturing company of Milwaukee approximately five years ago, one of the conditions was that the company would convert it into a dual burner at its expense when the city desired.

Gas Much Cheaper

Based on the present comparative cost of fuel oil and of gas, according to report to the city commission, electric power can be generated with gas at about half the cost of fuel oil. If oil ever should become the cheaper fuel, the dual engines in the plant can be put back on oil with a simple mechanical adjustment.

Under last year's contract, according to report to the commission, the city was to pay 13 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas, with a rebate of one cent per 1,000 feet if more than 100,000,000 cubic feet were used. Since that quantity was exceeded, the refund was earned and paid.

City Asks Revision

Under the new contract tendered by the gas company, a straight charge of 12 cents would be made, with a break down to 11 cents beyond 400,000,000 cubic feet. The city is asking that the break to 11 cents be made at 150,000,000 cubic feet.

The city's argument is that the rate it is offered by the gas company is the same as that charged such other industrial plants as gins. The gas used at a gin fluctuates widely from day to day and even more widely from season to season. During most of the year, no gas at all is used in such plants.

The city's use, in contrast, according to the officials, is every day in the year with comparatively little variation from season to season.

Candle Lighting Service And Cantata To Feature Church Services Here Tonight

The high school chorus sang at the morning church service. Their presentations were described as "thrilling and revealing beautifully trained voices, ably directed by Miss Oulda Clemons."

First Presbyterian young people are to sponsor a candle lighting service at 7:30 o'clock at the church. The program has been scheduled as: Prelude, "Holy Night" (Lorenz), Miss Louise Bynum, organ, Miss Elizabeth Anne Price, piano; duet, "O One With God the Father," Misses Doris Darks and Barbara Ann Read; offertory, "Awakening" (Engleman), Miss Juanita Haynes, organ, J. T. Lamm, piano; junior chorus, "Silent Night"; solo, "The New Born King" (Ambrose), Miss Helen Edgett; postlude, March (Beethoven) Miss Haynes, organ; Miss Carolyn Seale, piano.

Saturday night the group of college students went caroling, singing outside the windows of shut-ins.

"The Story of Christmas" (H. Alexander Matthews) will be presented by the First Baptist choir at 7:30 o'clock tonight under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Hereford with Miss Imogene Webster at the organ.

Solos will be sung by Elizabeth Brooks, Mrs. Carl Scoggin, Mrs. S. H. Reid, Mrs. F. C. Stanley, Rex Webster, James Litton, Mrs. G. N. Atkinson and Miss Margaret Prewitt.

The cantata is in four parts: The prophecy, the vision of the shepherds, the quest of the magi and the fulfilment of the prophecy.

There will be a program of Christmas music at the College Avenue Baptist church tonight.

Study Club Program Will Be Given Tuesday Afternoon

The 1933 Study club will meet at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Alex McDonald, 2221 Eighteenth street, for a Christmas program led by Mrs. R. I. Tubbs. A program of Christmas poems, stories and carols will be presented by Mesdames E. L. Robertson, R. S. Wilkinson and T. E. Hendrick.

Christmas Carols To Be Sung At Every Occasion Here During Next Week

Students Are To Sing Each Day

Continuing their plan of giving Christmas joy through music, the choral groups of Senior High, directed by Mrs. E. Waldo Trotter, will go caroling Monday night via a hay wagon. Members of the school chorus have charge of mapping the journey over the city.

In the morning at 8:50 the mixed chorus will sing carols over the school radio to all rooms. Rooms are invited to sing with the lead of the radio or listen to the carolers.

Tuesday the singers will observe one of the seasonal traditions of the school as each class goes through the halls singing carols. Tuesday evening the mixed quartet will sing for the meeting of the American Association of University Women.

Last week the singers did their part in the Christmas caroling. Sunday 68 of them sang "The First Noel" at the First Methodist church before the presentation of the "Messiah." Carols were sung at the meeting of the Mother's club Wednesday by Jacqueline Davis, Billye Levens, Dorothy James, Betty Jean Jones, Carey May, James Nislar, Carol Claiborne and Armstrong.

At the National Honor society banquet Thursday night and at the party of the 50-50 class of the First Methodist church the girl's quartet, Jacqueline Davis, Reuby Tom Rhodes, Betty Jean Jones, and Dorothy James sang.

KFYO Program Is Featured

Contributing to the Christmas atmosphere of Lubbock through the present week will be the nightly singing of carols in which the entire community will be invited to listen or to join.

Plans for the event, which will include the presentation of programs of carols by the Treble Clef chorus over KFYO each night from 7:30 until 8 o'clock, were announced Saturday at the chamber of commerce.

Merchants To Participate

Request has been made of business men that loud speakers be set up in their establishments and that they be tuned in on KFYO for the singing of the carols. They have been reminded, however, of the city ordinance which forbids the placing of such speaker near enough to entrances to cause disturbance to those on the sidewalks.

Although numerous appropriate numbers will be included on each night's program, according to the announced plans, one particular number will be featured each of six evenings—starting Monday night and continuing through Saturday night.

Story To Be Told

A local pastor will be master of ceremonies each night, and will tell briefly the story of the theme carol. Each will be requested, according to the announcement, to limit their description to not more than two minutes so that the program may include a maximum of music and a minimum of orating.

Theme carols of various nights, and the master of ceremonies of each occasion will be:

Monday, "Joy to the World," Rev. C. E. Hereford.

Tuesday, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," Dr. L. N. Lipscomb.

Wednesday, "Little Town of Bethlehem," Rev. John A. Winslow.

Thursday, "Silent Night," Dr. Jack Lewis.

Friday, "Come All Ye Faithful," Envoy V. M. Vansyckle.

Saturday, "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," Rev. H. G. Gantz.

U. S. Need Not Worry About Bombing Raids—Yet, But They're Quite Possible

Services Making Defense Plans

BY DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The threat of destruction by modern warplanes, swift, implacable and deadly, is giving Europe a restless pillow, but students of military tactics figure continental United States need not worry about bombing raids—yet.

A defense of America against any foreign military aggression, buttressed by an expanded air force such as that proposed by Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, would start with two strikes on the attacker.

Problems Would Increase

The armed services have elaborate plans for a tactical air defense. The problems confronting the army any navy would be increased tenfold for any nation bent on invasion.

The inability of present-day military planes to match the cruising range of warships profoundly affects questions of defending a nation with great oceans to either side of it.

Save for two machines under construction in this country, the world has no bombers which can wing more than 1,300 miles to an objective with a suitable load of explosives and return to their base nonstop.

Have Short Flying Ranges

What is generally regarded as the best of Europe's long-range bombers, the British Vickers Wellesley machine, has a maximum range of 2,590 miles with a 1,000-pound load. Though Japan jealously guards its air force secrets, neutral observers in China report that Japanese bombers have exceptionally short flying ranges.

That reduces the present problem of American air defense to keeping an enemy from establishing nearby bases from which he could launch his attacks, and preventing his aircraft carriers from getting close enough to use short-range, light bombers.

Have Modified Strategy

Warplanes have modified the strategy of warfare because they erase seacoast barriers, leap over international boundary lines and rain explosives on civilians, but air tactics—which means the use to which an airplane is put after the high command has evolved its strategy—are still in a state of flux.

In a tactical defense of America and its possessions, our armed services assume they would have to contend with attempts by the enemy to launch air attacks with incendiary and demolition projectiles as an opening salvo.

The first line of defense is the navy, equipped with pursuit, observation, torpedo and bombing planes. A tactical use of our warplanes would involve spotting an enemy fleet, fighting off its bombers, harassing its surface ships and destroying its submarines.

And not unless another major war bursts upon the world will that argument be settled as to whether an airplane can sink a battleship.

Thirty Senior High Boys Given Hi-Y Sweaters; To Attend Meet

Thirty boys of Senior High school have received Hi-Y sweaters, white with the organizations' triangle in colors, the first of their kind to be worn by the local group of boys, according to Dan W. Powers, dean of boys and sponsor.

Plans are being made now to attend the conference of the northwest division in Amarillo, February 3 to 5. The theme of this meeting is "Finding Christ in the Fellow Next to You."

Boys of Senior High school are showing more interest in this organization this year than ever before, Powers said. The purpose of Hi-Y, a national organization, is "To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian Character." The slogan is "Clean speech, clean sports, clean scholarship, and contagious Christian character." Scholarship requirements are the same as those set in Texas schools by the Interscholastic league.

D. M. Howell and Powers are directors of the group, which has no secret affiliation, and whose meetings are always open to parents, teachers, ministers, and Christian laymen.

Blackburn College In Carlinville, Ill., Is Place Where Students Have To Work; Idle Rich As Students Are Not Wanted There

BY JOSEPH A. RAWLINGS
Associated Press Staff Writer

CARLINVILLE, Ill., Dec. 17.—The signs around the campus tell the visitor it is Blackburn college but they might just as well say:

"Idle rich please keep out."

For no one who is lazy and no one who is wealthy is permitted to enter Blackburn for study.

None unwilling to work his or her way by 15 hours of manual endeavor every week may matriculate.

Just Aren't Welcomed

None who cannot establish that the scraping together of his or her tuition represents a real sacrifice and none who can't prove high scholastic ability is welcomed as a Blackburnian.

It is not that Dr. William M. Hudson, 66, president of this co-educational junior college, has any quarrel with the rich—his chief benefactors are from that class. It's merely that he had dedicated his own life and the work of the college to the job of helping boys and girls—who have everything but money—to help themselves by cultivation of the work habit.

President Gives Philosophy

Seated at his desk, fresh from a quail hunting expedition, Dr. Hudson, keen-eyed and energetic, discussed the educational philosophy behind the college today.

"Some 3,000 to 4,000 high school graduates," he said, "write to Blackburn each year regarding admission. About half of them cannot meet the scholastic requirements. They must rank in the upper one-third of their high school class or be able to pass an intelligence test if they rank in the middle one-third. On account of the limited housing facilities it is practical to accept only some three hundred. The freshman class usually runs from 175 to 185.

Degree Of Correlation Cited

Declaring there was a high degree of correlation between scholastic ability and success in later life, Dr. Hudson said high school pupils who rank in the upper one-third of their classes are "both industrious and intelligent." Those in the lower one-third are usually "lazy and stupid," he added, "and we feel that the intelligent and industrious offer the best material for good citizenship."

Only the teachers are on Blackburn's payroll. All the other work is done by the students themselves under direction of a student work committee. Two and a half hours of manual labor a day is required.

Must Pass Physical Examination

All students are required to pass a rigid physical examination and all work considered too strenuous for young women—such as a heavy dish washing job and scrubbing the steps of the girls' dormitory—is done by boys.

By helping the college reduce its own expenses, the students help themselves cut their own educational costs by trading hard work for part pay for an education, and thereby, Dr. Hudson said, tend to defeat the idea "all too prevalent today" one can get something for nothing.

Is Living Example

Dr. Hudson was described by a graduate of the school as a living example of the work philosophy of which he is such a staunch advocate. It is not uncommon, the informant said, to find him working twelve hours a day.

He accepted the presidency of Blackburn in 1912. Blackburn was bankrupt then, but it had two assets that appealed to the "dirt farmer"—rich soil and a charter that freed it from taxation.

Since then he has raised an average of $1,000 a week for Blackburn, whose endowment now totals $1,000,000.

Buddhism Drive Being Planned

BY LLOYD LEHRBAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HANGCHOW, China, Dec. 17. — A Buddahist reformation designed to achieve Japanese domination of China's millions of Buddhists is envisioned in a "hundred year plant" formulated by the Japanese army.

Spreading 'out from Hangchow, one of the greatest religious centers of China, the special service section of the Japanese army (which specializes in newspaper publishing, radio broadcasting, education, spreading of Japanese culture and inculcation of other pro-Japanese dogmas in conquered territories) plans a cleansing, reorganization and revitalizing of 'Chinese Buddhism which eventually will make it the counterpart of Buddhism in Japan.

Abbott Is Imported

Gyokai Kawata of famous Nara temple in Japan, who was imported by the special service section and made Abbott over the Chinese monks in Hangchow's largest and most famous temple, explained in detail why, how and where the imperial army (which works in closest cooperation with Buddhism in Japan) plans to bring about a Buddhist reformation in China. This would give the Japanese-sponsored and protected "puppet" government a dominating influence and control in the religion of over 400,000,000 people.

Will Counteract Efforts

While Abbott Kawata emphasized only the "reformation" of Buddhism with its beneficial results to the Chinese people who follow Buddha's teachings it is self-evident a strong, virile Japanese-dominated Buddhism will counteract the efforts of the hundreds of American, British, French, German, Italian, Scandinavian and other missionaries who have labored many years attempting to convert the Chinese to christianity.

What effect that Buddhist reformation will have on Christian missionary work—already beset by mounting difficulties intensified by the Sino-Japanese undeclared war—remains for the future to decide.

Christmas Tree Is Planned For 'Flats' Here Saturday Night

Christmas and Santa Claus will come to the needy children of the "flats" and also to needy aged persons, said Will M. Sedberry, one of the leaders of that section, Saturday night.

A tree, with gifts for every one is planned for Saturday night in the Presbyterian church at Seventeenth street and Avenue B.

Sedberry and Thomas White this week will ask for help from those who want to give. It is expected that at least 100 gifts will be made to those who otherwise would not receive any.

Children of the flats, regardless of church and Sunday school attendance, will be asked to the program. Each is to receive a gift from the tree. Churches and residents are cooperating in this, said Sedberry.

West Texas Blessed With Four Essentials Of Profitable Livestock Feeding

Development Of Other Two Fast

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following are comments on "feeding livestock in West Texas," by R. E. Dickson, superintendent of the Spur experiment station and an outstanding authority on feeding in the state. They were made recently over a radio hook-up.

THERE are six essential factors in profitable livestock feeding. West Texas is blessed with four of these and is rapidly developing the other two. No region has superior climate, water, feed or livestock. The other two, feed lot management and markets, are being improved from year to year through research, experience and education. The finishing of livestock for home consumption and market is making satisfactory progress and the future is very promising.

Climate:

West Texas climate, for livestock as well as people, is ideal. While the summer temperatures are frequently well over the 100 mark and the winter temperatures drop below zero they are accompanied by low humidity. It is not necessary, and possibly not advisable, to furnish shade in the summer or protection in the winter for cattle on feed. Many of the most successful feeders provide neither.

Water:

An abundance of pure water which is cool in the summer and warm in the winter is essential to high production or large gains. The underground water of West Texas is a distinct asset in any livestock program, and it can be made available at a minimum cost. The livestock man who makes the most of his opportunities to provide pure water at the proper temperature will be handsomely repaid for his efforts.

Feeds:

High quality products of all kinds are produced with the minimum water requirement for that particular product. It is very easy to supply too much water to the watermelon, cantaloupe, orange, grape fruit, peach, wheat, corn or cotton. Crop yields in West Texas, at times are cut short through lack of seasonal moisture, but they are always of a superior quality whether grass that matures on the range, grain that goes into the elevator, cottonseed meal that goes into the bag or silage that goes into the trench. Quality feeds have much to do with rapid gains and high finish. West Texas farmers have been much more successful in producing high quality feed crops than they have in converting those feed crops into cash.

Livestock:

West Texas has properly been referred to as "the birthplace of the nation's meat supply." This is especially true of beef and mutton. Throughout the years there has been a constant stream of choice feeder calves and lambs shipped from the region to fill feed lots in older agricultural areas. In more recent years, however, there has been a marked increase in the number of finished animals shipped directly to meat consuming centers.

Management:

Possibly the biggest mistake that has been made in West Texas feeding has been adopting feeding practices that have been successful elsewhere instead of developing a program suitable to this region. The production of bundle feeds and silage is much more dependable in West Texas than is the production of grain. The region ships large quantities of cottonseed meal, the finest protein supplement to be found any where on the face of the earth. The problem, then, is one of selling the large rough feed crop and cottonseed meal through livestock with a minimum use of grain. This type of feeding requires more time to produce a high finish, but research and experience have proven it to be the more profitable, as it furnishes a market for a large amount of the quality feed that heretofore has been wasted. The trench silo is the key to converting rough feeds into profits.

Market:

The demand for well finished animals at the meat consuming centers has increased materially in recent years. These markets can use more well finished animals at the meat consuming centers has increased materially in recent years. These markets can use more well finished animals than are now arriving, but possibly the best and largest undeveloped market for superior meat is in the smaller towns and on the farms where it is produced. The Extension Service of the A. & M. College and other agencies working toward improvement of home life on the farm have done much to increase the supply and improve the quality of fresh and canned meats in farm homes.

With all of the essential factors for producing quality meat, and with a potential market that may be developed with some effort, the strides that West Texas is making in farm and commercial feeding should provide the stimulus required to materially improve the diet of West Texas people and to very materially increase the revenues of farm and ranch operations.

Fall Shipments Of Cattle From Dalhart Area Virtually Double Average For Past Six Years

DALHART, Dec. 17. (AP)—Fall cattle shipments from the Dalhart territory and adjacent areas in New Mexico and Oklahoma virtually are double the average movement for the past six years, records of transportation agencies show. Most of the cattle are going to market, shippers say, others to the feed lots.

Stockmen and bankers say the increase is traceable mainly to the shift from one and two-crop cash farming to stock-farming after the drouth in 1932 emphasized need for change.

Main factors are that part of the plowed land is back in pasture, with consequent expanded and improved ranges, which in turn increased the calf crop. Furthermore as ranges have exceeded local needs considerable stock was shipped in last spring and summer for pasture.

R. H. Thompson, Rock Island freight agent here, said the past six authumns his road handled an average of 1,700 cars of cattle. This fall shipments were approximately 3,400 cars. Ordinarily the rush is over Nov. 15, he said, but this year shipments continued in large volume. First shipments also were two weeks ahead of schedule. Reason, cattlemen said, was that grass was better than usual and freedom said, was that grass was better than usual and freedom from flies and other pests allowed the cattle to fatten earlier.

Fort Worth Man Takes To The Air In His Livestock Dealings

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 17. (AP)—Clint Shirley of Fort Worth is going to have the livestock business in "the air" soon. He has purchased an airplane.

Learning to fly was a hobby with Shirley but after he "got the feel" he found an automobile too slow to get over the territory and decided to use the plane to make his calls in inspecting livestock.

It is believed the Fort Worth buyer set a precedent recently after receiving a telephone call from Fred Ragsdale of Clifton to come down and look over his sheep. Shirley did so but used an airplane and served as his own pilot. It was believed this trip was the first made from the Fort Worth stock yards by a commission man who did his own piloting.

Potter County Women Dispose Of Own Produce In Regular Market

AMARILLO, Dec. 17. (AP) — The women of Potter county have their own markets. Members of the home demonstration clubs in the county bring their produce—poultry, vegetables and flowers—to the municipal auditorium each Saturday morning.

Each woman has a booth in which she displays her produce, including canned goods. The market always has a "sell out."

SHIPMENTS INCREASED

LLANO, Dec. 16. (AP)—Livestock shipments from Llano by rail in November totaled 71 cars against 53 in October, railroad records here show. In addition, a large number of truckloads of mixed cattle were taken from this region to Fort Worth. The November movement was largely feeder calves.

Tips On Indoor Planting Are Offered By Experiment Station Pathology Director

(By The Associated Press)

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 17. — Cause of indoor plant seedlings falling over and drying up, says A. A. Dunlap of the division of plant pathology at Texas A. & M. Experiment Station here, usually is located in the soil. Almost any kind of soil, he says, harbors certain fungi that may attack the tender seedlings.

Soil for starting plans indoors should be light and sandy so it will not hold too much water. It is best to obtain it from woods or fields away from cultivated areas. If necessary to use soil from the yard garden, it might be well first to heat it thoroughly for an hour or two in a hot oven, then allowed to cool before planting the seeds. Certain formaldehyde dust preparations are effective in controlling damping-off (diseases of seedling plants) when mixed with soil just before planting.

Should Water Lightly

In watering soil indoors use just enough to keep the plants from wilting. Seed should not be sown too thickly because seedlings in dense stands tend to become long-stemmed and worthless. Place the plants in the sunlight as much as possible, so they will be dark green in color and sturdy. Seedlings grow faster under high temperatures but cooler conditions will produce stockier plants.

In addition to the many seed and soil treatments for damping-off, it has been found that seeds sowed in pure sand will produce seedlings remarkably free from the common seedbed diseases. Sand for raising seedlings should contain no soil nor decaying organic matter on which damping-off fungi might be living. The seashore or a deep sand pit are likely sources of fairly good coarse sands suitable for this particular purpose, but almost any sand can be used after several washings in hot water.

Clean tin cans about six inches tall with a few small holes punched in the bottom make good sand culture containers for a limited number of plants. After filling the container nearly full of sand, the seeds are sowed on the surface and these are covered with a shallow layer of the same clean sand. The entire sand mass is then thoroughly wetted. Because most seeds contain only limited amounts of stored food materials for the seedling, it is necessary to wet the sand thoroughly once or twice a week with a solution made by stirring two teaspoonfuls of a complete, commercial, chemical fertilizer, such as 5-8-7, in a gallon of water. If more watering is required between the fertilizer applications in order to keep the sand constantly moist, the container may be placed in a shallow container of water until the sand has taken up as much water as it will hold. This will prevent washing the fertilizers away from the roots of the seedlings.

May Be Transplanted

After the seedlings have reached a size to permit being handled easily, they may be transplanted into pots or boxes of soil. If desired however, the seedlings will grow into larger plants by continued feedings in the sand, perhaps with a little thinning out, until they are large enough to set directly into the garden.

In addition to the important feature of freedom from dumping-off, seeds in sand always show high germination percentages and the seedlings have large, strong root systems, which enable them to withstand transplanting remarkably well. With a little experience in the use of sand for raising seedlings, one may favor this method over the usual soil culture.

Moving Day Is Near For Tenant Farmers In State; Costs Them More Than $6,000,000

(By The Associated Press)

CORSICANA, Dec. 17. — Moving day now at hand for Texas tenant farmers will cost them more than $6,000,000 and that is only the beginning of the expense to them and to the general public, said C. M. Evans, regional director of the Farm Security administration at a regional conference of Social Welfare here.

Most of the 120,000 Texas tenant families who move yearly can be stabilized through improvement in leasing methods which will encourage them to remain upon the same farm and to improve it, Evans said.

Loses About $50

"The farm tenant who moves loses about $50 in cash at at the time," Evans said. "The final cost to him and to the public is much greater, although it is more difficult to estimate exactly. A tenant who stays upon a given piece of land only a year has no opportunity to build up that land and no incentive to do so. The land owner may also be struggling on an inadequate income. He has his money invested in the land and taxes to pay, so he also is interested in having the tenant get the most possible out of this years crop, letting the future take care of itself."

Evans said that tenant families move after the crops are harvested, or at a time when the children must be taken out of school. "They not only lose several weeks of school, they often stay out for the remainder of the school year. When they do go back to school they are likely to be set back in their classes, and become discouraged and disinterested."

FSA Aids Over 17,000

Evans said that more than 17,000 Texas tenant farmers have made progress toward improved tenure under FSA guidance. Of these, more than 6,000 have obtained longer leases and approximamtely 8,000 raises from "half-and-half croppers," coming no work stock or tools, to third-and-fourth tenants with their own equipment. This was done through five-year loans to purchase needed machinery and animals.

Evans said 150 loans were made last spring in Texas to help competent tenants buy farms which has an average initial cost of $4,583 and upon which repairs and improvements costing $1,006 were made. Loans to 381 additional tenants are being completed, and checks for the cost of the land they have selected, together with improvements, will be in their hands by Christmas. The total amount involved is approximately $2,300,000.

Callahan County Farmers Plan To Continue Wheat Variety

BAIRD, Dec. 17. (AP) — Callahan county farmers who planted Tenmarq wheat in 1937 are expected to continue that variety. Average production from Tenmarq on farms where records were kept was well above that of other varieties.

Figures prepared by County Agent Ross Brison show an average for 20.5 acres of 19.5 bushels from Tenmarq and 13 bushels from black husk. Records from other farms show Tenmarq yields of 18.6, 18 and 17 bushels compared with corresponding yields of other varieties of 15, 10 and 15 bushels.

MANY ANIMALS KILLED

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 17. (AP)—C. R. Landon, district agent of the Texas Predatory Animal control association, announces that 113 men employed in 71 counties took 1,978 predatory animals in October. They included 1,705 coyotes, 201 bobcats, 71 wolves and one mountain lion. Robert O. Calhoun, working in Webb and McMullen counties, led the state by catching 13 bobcats and 124 coyotes.

A bottle containing a note, dropped into the Trinity river 200 miles from the Gulf of Mexico by H. T. James of Palestine, Texas, recently was recovered from the stomach of a 700-pound shark in Galveston bay.

Kiln-Dried Sweet Potato Yields Profits For East Texas Farmer With Foresight

(By The Associated Press)

TYLER, Dec. 17.—Selden Jordan, the Van Zandt county farmer who took first prize at the Gilmer Yamboree, is a husbandman with foresight.

About 10 years ago Jordan believed development of the sweet potato would be good business and today his kiln-dried product is sought by buyers in all the city markets of Texas. Moreover, the value of growing a standard product has been so well demonstrated neighboring farmers also have built kilns.

Built Kiln Himself

Jordan built the kiln himself three years ago at his farm, about two miles from Ben Wheeler on the Van road, and it paid for itself the first year. The kiln-dried quality brings 25 to 35 cents a bushel more than other sweet potatoes, Jordan said.

At present the kiln contains 3,000 bushels of No. 1, 500 bushels of No. 2 and about 1,000 bushels of seed potatoes. In addition the farmer has 2,000 bushels of culls which he feeds to stock.

The Jordan sweet potato business is a partnership between the father and his son, Darwin, a student of vocational agriculture at Van Darwin heads his chapter of Future Farmers of America and when he finishes at Van this year he plans to go to Texas A. & M.

Farms 228 Acres

The Jordan farm contains 228 acres, 18 of which are planted in sweet potatoes and the remainder in tomatoes, beans, corn, cotton.

"We've just mighty near quit that," said Mrs. Jordan when asked how much cotton they grew. She is a member of this farming company, too. This year Jordan sold $300 worth of seed potatoes, enough to pay for the extra labor required on his farm.

The department of agriculture inspector last year gave him a 100 per cent disease-proof rating.

FDR Assures Continued Financing Facilities For Residential Construction

Additional Billion Dollars Provided

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 17.—The action of President Roosevelt in authorizing the Federal Housing administration to insure an additional $1,000,000,000 in home mortgages means the residential construction industry can count upon a continuation of the financing facilities that have contributed so effectively to the revival of building activity since last spring, Administrator Stewart McDonald said today.

Largely as a consequence of the liberalized FHA program put into effect last February, 1938 will be the most prosperous home building year since 1929, and with an extension of present financing facilities assured, next year should show still further gains, McDonald said.

Acted Under Provision

President Roosevelt acted under Section 203 (a) of the amended national housing act which provides that the aggregate amount of principal obligations of all mortgages insured and outstanding at any one time may not exceed $2,000,000,000, "except that with the approval of the president such aggregate amount may be increased to not to exceed $3,000,000,000."

Notwithstanding the gains in home construction registered this year, McDonald declared that "decent housing facilities in the United States are still grossly inadequate."

Enormous Task Ahead

"An enormous task lies ahead in promoting sufficient construction to meet the country's needs", McDonald said.

"Moreover, the public is beginning to understand that the Federal Housing administration for the first time in our history provides an unbiased agency to which the inexperienced layman may go for guidance and protection when he buys a home. The Federal Housing administration protects the buyer and the builder against expensive and unsound financing, second mortgage rackets, high interest rates, nidden commissions, and other discredited devices which contributed so largely to the real estate collapse of the early 1930's.

Eliminating 'Jerry' Building

"In each of the 48 states the Federal Housing administration has established construction standards to eliminate "jerry" building. Through its land planning activities, the FHA is assisting in setting up effective barriers against neighborhood blight and the development of future slums. Accordingly, the demand for the services of the FHA is constantly increasing. FHA mortgage insuring operations are running more than double the rate of a year ago."

As of December 1st, the FHA had insured or had outstanding commitments to insure mortgages amounting to $1,585,000,000. In addition, mortgages in process of appraisal on December 1st amounted to $115,000,000 and applications for mortgage insurance with appraisal fees paid are being received at the rate of more than $100,000,000 a month. These figures, of course, do not include short term property improvement loans amounting to $720,000,000 insured under Title I.

In the transaction of business under the insured mortgage system, the Federal Housing administration has incurred net losses of approximately $153,000, to meet which it has reserves available now in the treasury amounting to $23,000,000. Current income from insurance premiums and appraisal fees amounts to approximately $1,000,000 a month. For the fiscal year 1940 the Federal Housing Administration, therefore, should be able to operate the Mutual Mortgage Insurance System at little or no cost to the federal government and at the same time add substantially to the reserve fund to meet possible future losses.

Promised Extensions In Oil Field Of Cochran, Hockley Areas Highlight Activities

By JOHN B. BREWER
Special Oil Wrier

A promised two-mile southeast extension to the Duggan pool in southeastern Cochran county by the Texas company No. 1 H. T. Boyd and completion of the Texas company No. 1-B Mallett, almost a two-mile west extension to the Slaughter field in southwestern Hockley county, for a 24-hour flow of 170.20 barrels of oil were among principal West Texas oil developments this week.

Both gas and its content of high gravity oil increased as Gulf No. 9 Waddell, half mile southeast o. Ordovician production in the Sand Hills district in western Crane county, cored into the Ellenberger, middle Ordovician, to 5,966 feet.

Standing After Plugging

Gulf No. 1 Swenson, wildcat in the northeast corner of Garza county, which flowed last week from the lower Pennsylvanian at a plugged back depth of 7,352 feet to promise an important strike on the South Plains, was reported standing after plugging back farther in an effort to shutoff some water. It was understood the 7-inch casing cemented at the plugged back depth, would be perforated higher to test saturated sections but official data still was lacking.

The wildcat last week was credited with flowing 259 barrels of 36.7 gravity pipe line oil in 32 hours through casing before dying. Bailing revealing water, failed to lower the fluid below 2,000 feet from the top. Packers run with the tubing reduced the water and 150 barrels of oil, plus 13 per cent water, was reported swabbed in 14 hours. The production, coming through 10 perforations in the pipe between 7,327-34 feet, then was mudded off for recementing. No. 1 Swenson is in the center of the northwest quarter of section 25-2-H&GN, about 20 miles northeast fo the Richards pool east of Post. Gulf holds leases to alternate quarter sections out of the 30,000-acre Swenson ranch.

Completions, Locations Decline

Both completions and locations in the district were less than the week before. Thirty oil producers, a gasser and five failures were finished in 16 counties compared with 33 wells and three dusters in 12 counties during the preceding week. The dry holes were one each in Andrews, Ward, Pecos, Reagan and Menard counties. Locations were staked for 32 field tests and one wildcat in nine counties, four field tests and one wildcat less than the number listed in the same number of counties the week before.

The lone wildcat started this week was R. G. Shaw's No. 1 Carrie Slaughter Dean in Cochran county, 1,158 from the south and 3,921 feet from the west line of league 94, Mills county school land. It is one mile south and a quarter mile west of Geo. P. Livermore No. 1 Wright, a small discovery well, and six miles north and two miles west of Wiggins, Hyde & Lawson No. 1 Dean, a strike four miles northwest of the Duggan pool.

Has 1,200 Feet Of Oil

The Texas company No. 1 Boyd, southeast outpost to the Duggan field in Cochran county, showed gas at 5,015 feet and oil at intervals below 5,039 feet and had 1,200 feet of oil in the hole when drilled to 5,092 feet. Thirty gallons of water were bailed off bottom in 12 hours and testing was under way to determine if the water was from a pocket and might exhaust. Location is in the northwest part of labor 25, league 56, Oldham county school land.

The Texas company No. 1-B Mallett, west extension to the Slaughter field in Hockley county, had been slated for pumping but, after flow valves were installed, flowed 179.20 barrels of 31.5 gravity oil in 24 hours with a gas-oil ratio of 412-1. Lower pay was treated with 4,500 gallons of acid, with the total depth 5,035 feet. The well is in the southeast corner of labor 1, league 52, Scurry county school land.

Shows Little Change

Shell No. 1 Ruyts in Yoakum county, in the northwest quarter of section 743-D-John H. Gibson, seeking a one-mile extension to the Bennett pool, showed little change, pumping 120 barrels of fluid in 24 hours at 5,270 feet, 35 per cent oil and 65 per cent basic sediment and water.

The Texas company No. 1-H State, Andrews county wildcat in section 4-14-U south of Shafter lake, was completed at a plugged back depth of 4,083 feet for 1,600,000 cubic feet of dry, sweet gas daily, having failed to produce oil in drilling to 4,841 feet. Most closely watched Andrews tests were Anderson-Prichard and Osage No. 1 university, southwest of Shafter lake, which had a gas blowout at 2,998 feet from the Yates sand section, and Honolulu No. 1-18 Parker, south of two producers east of the Deep Rock pool, which had drilled past 2,400.

Dawson Test Shut Down

Daw-Tex No. 1 J. E. Neeley, north central Dawson county wildcat, with elevation of 3,045 feet, was credited in an unconfirmed report with topping the anhydrite high at 1,880 feet and shutdown at 1,976 feet. It is in the northwest quarter of section 28-35-6n-T&P.

H. F. Anthony and associates No. 1 Richards-Shaw, Reeves county discovery well 20 miles northwest of Toyah, in section 16-59-psl, flowed a daily average of 15 barrels of oil from the upper Castile, bottomed at 1,630 feet.

Gulf No. 9 Waddell in western Crane county, in the northeast quarter of section 7-B27-psl, showed as high as 22,800,000 cubic feet of gas in coring to 5,966 feet, 30 feet in the Ellenberger, with recovery of 5.46 barrels of distillate in an hour.

Magnolia staked No. 2-6 University in section 6-30-U in eastern Crane county, a south offset to Standard No. 1-6 University, which recently marked a one-half mile northwest extension to the new producing are a three and one-half miles northwest of the Church-Fields pool and six and one-half miles southeast of the Waddell-Henderson field. The new area has been designated the Dunes pool.

Red River County Community Is Winner Of One-Variety Prize

DALLAS, Dec. 17. (AP)—The Rugby community of Red River county, near Deport, was announced winner of the $500 first prize in the one-variety cotton contest sponsored by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Postal Officials Chuckle At Nation's Holiday Postmarks

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. — Postal officials chuckled like Santa Claus today as they looked over the holiday postmarks of cities throughout the nation.

The big business getter still is Santa Claus, Ind., where thousands of folks annually send gifts and cards to have them remailed with the Kris Kringle mark.

While Indiana has the only Santa Claus post office in the in the country, Idaho has a pretty good offering in just plain—Santa.

Florida may not have snow and ice, but it has a Christmas. Kentucky, too, has a Christmas.

The postmark Bethlehem attracts a lot of holiday business. The nation offers seven to choose from, in: Connecticut, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania. All do a rushing business at Christmas time.

In the peaceful town of Bethlehem, Md., 15-year-old Majorie Ann Chambers, has appointed herself cachet director and has designed a special envelope for out-of-town business.

For those who want decorative postmarks there is Holly — in Colorado, Michigan and West Virginia. And in Kentucky there's Hollybush, and Mistletoe.

The country has no Yule, but Florida has a substitute—Yulee.

And a debt-laden head-of-the-family once had the checks for his Christmas bills sent out from:

Hollywood On The Loose..

Harrison Goes Out On Limb Early To Name The 10 Most Popular Stars For 1938

NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17.—Talkietown's opinion, probably in a ratio of 10 to 1, is that Shirley Temple still is the box office queen of the movies. Presently there'll be an announcement of the popularity ratings of the flicker stars, and scarcely anybody doubts that the Marvel Moppet will be right on top for the fourth successive year.

But you can't get anybody to agree on the remainder of the list of 10 biggest fan attractions of 1938. Almost certainly the group of leaders will include some new names, and the ranking of former champions will be changed. I shall go out on a limb right now to predict that Sonja Henie will be found occupying the No. 2 position. She was seventh in 1937, and was the only player ever to reach the top bracket the first year in pictures.

Bears On Ratings

THE biggest money-making stars 12 months ago were Miss Temple, Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, Bing Crosby, William Powell, Jane Withers, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, Miss Henie, Gary Cooper and Myrna Loy, in that order. The rating, together with an estimate of the box office worth of all prominent players in Hollywood, was based on the annual poll among the nation's exhibitors by the Motion Picture Herald.

Naturally some criticism can be made of the accuracy of a poll of theater men, whose votes must be cast according to box office receipts and not strictly according to fan sentiment. Thus William Powell doubtless still rates high in the preferences of customers, but his long illness has kept him off the screen nearly all year, and the survey consequently will show him far down the list.

Astaire and Rogers, who as a team were voted into seventh place in 1937, probably will not reach the championship list this year. Miss Rogers will come close, though, as an individual, because of her greater activity. I believe Myrna Loy also will fall short of the 10-best rating for 1938 because she hasn't been very busy. "Test Pilot" was fine for her; "Too Hot to Handle" contributed little to her prestige. She needed a "Thin Man" picture, or a couple of roles of that type.

Gable To No. 3

CLARK Gable, ranking second last year, is my guess for third place in 1938 if he is topped by the novelty star, Miss Henie. He and Cooper—the latter handicapped by not-too-favorable roles—have advantages possessed by no other male stars in Hollywood: they're admired equally by men and women. Metro's heavy-handed campaign to make a he-man of Bob Taylor may have done him some harm, but he'll remain in the upper bracket.

The picture colony seems to believe that Tyrone Power will reach championship ranking this time. I'll bet he doesn't. Power has been used as 20th-Fox's utility man, being consistently miscast in hokey historical roles and in earnest-young-man parts which emphasize the squaring of his jaw. He is too young and amiable and normal to be treated like that. The Muni stuff can wait for 10 or 15 years.

They'll Take Tracy

YOU can find few people in this town whose personal list of best actors is not headed by Spencer Tracy. But if he reaches the championship list this year it will be a surprise to everybody and a tribute to the discrimination of the fans.

Deanna Durbin seems the most likely of all newcomers to crash the select, 10-best ranking. I'd guess she may reach fifth or sixth place. Jane Withers may skid a notch or two, and she and Miss Temple may find a third juvenile in their exalted company—Mickey Rooney. He by no means deserves more than an equal share of credit for the sensational success of the Hardy family pictures, but he'll get the glory just the same.

And there may be a new team in the list of 1938 box office champions—Bergen and McCarthy. Charlie thinks so, anyway.

"In Society" Is On At Lindsey

LUBBOCK'S theater-minded public is expected to acclaim "Stablemates," which opens today at the Palace for four days, as the best picture of its kind since "The Champ."

Wallace Beery, who appeared with Jackie Cooper in "The Champ," returns in "Stablemate" with Mickey Rooney as his side kick.

Framed In Murder Charge

Beery will be seen in the role of a one-time brilliant veterinarian who changed to a race track bum because he was framed into a murder charge.

Rooney, fresh from his triumph in "Boy's Town" and the Judge Hardy series, is the stable boy and jockey who befriends Beery in order to get him to operate on his injured horse. The two join forces and tour the country with the race horse, which Rooney was given in lieu of his salary.

With the horse in perfect condition, they start for Hollywood Park to participate in the big race. One day Rooney listens to a radio broadcast and learns that his traveling companion is an escaped convict. Having learned to love Beery like a father, he tries to persuade him not to come to the track without letting him know the reason. Capture is sure if he does. But Beery goes along. There they meet the man who was responsible for Beery's misfortune. He is the former owner of Rooney's horse and takes it from the boy because he can't show ownership papers.

Things Start To Happen

Then things start to happen.

The Little Tough Guys make their debut in society at the Lindsey theater when they open in "In Society" today for a two-day stay. With them are three comedy stars, Mischa Auer, Mary Boland, and Edward Everett Horton.

Away to a fast start, the kids ride rough-shod through the realm of frosty socialites on a swanky Long Island estate. Lifted from their usual tenement environment, the boys cavort, dance and clown in a way that adds up to potent screen fare.

Dizzy Mother Worried

Mary Boland, a dizzy socialite mother, is worried because her spoiled son, Jackie Searl, wants to spend his whole life in bed. Upon the advice of Mischa Auer, a dippy psychiatrist, she invites a group of under-privileged boys from an east-side settlement house to be guests at her fashionable home. The idea is that the boys will awaken her son to the joyous possibilities of youth.

In a thrilling climax when a thief tries to burglarize the place, the alley kids capture the robber and prove their regeneration.

It's a crowd of stars in "Four's A Crowd" which opens at the Texan today for two days. It's a comedy starring Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Rosalind Russell and Patric Knowles.

The four persons with whose fortunes it is mainly concerned are: a bright and fascinating newspaperman, played by Errol Flynn; a spoiled but charming heiress, played by Olivia de Havilland; a clever smoothie of a girl reporter, played by Rosalind Russell; and a rich playboy, played by Patric Knowles, who inherits a newspaper.

Also prominent in the proceedings is Walter Connolly as a rapacious buccaneer of the business world who is Olivia's grandfather.

"Sally, Irene And Mary" Is Comedy Bill At Broadway

Lyric Features "Swiss Miss"

THERE are stars enough, laughs, tunes and gags enough for a dozen musicals, plus a screenful of romance and extra zing and sparkle in "Sally, Irene and Mary," which opens today at the Broadway theater.

Alice Faye and Tony Martin sing some of their most tunefullest songs. With Fred Allen, star of the radio, funnier face-to-face, they lead a whole "who's-who" of pepper-uppers frolicking to town.

Other Stars Appear

Joan Davis, the knee-action gazelle, learns some new Durantics from the famous "Schnozzola." Marjorie Weaver and Louise Hovick do things to Gregory Ratoff's blood pressure, who has a champagne bankroll and a gleam in his eye.

Three sirens of swing in search of social security, "Sally, Irene and Mary" find themselves sidetracked by love, laughter and song in this uproarious rhythm romance. The lovely trio, played respectively by Alice Faye, Joan Davis and Marjorie Weaver, are looking for theatrical work but the best their agent, Fred Allen, can do is to get them jobs as manicurists in a swanky hotel.

Fired For Staging Act

They are fired for putting on their act for a rich and high-powered eccentric, Gregory Ratoff. Agent Allen lands them in a second-rate night-spot, where Alice meets and develops a romantic interest in Tony.

Louise Hovick, who keeps Reno busy, falls for Tony, and Allen gets her to finance a show for Tony and the girls. When Louise discovers the Alice-Tony entente, she withdraws her support and "blooey" goes the show.

Allen's offices are thrown into the street, a mighty fortunate thing. He meets Jimmy Durante, a White Wing who dreams about the good old horse-and-buggy days. Jimmy invests in Fred's business just when Marjorie inherits an ancient Hudson River side-wheeler.

Feast Of Melody At Lyric

Featuring Della Lind, Viennese singing star, and Walter Woolf King in the romantic leads, the picture boasts a lilting score.

Laurel and Hardy appear as mouse-trap salesmen about to rid the cheese-making country of its rodent population. At an Alpine inn they come upon a noted Viennese composer who is at work on a new operetta. His wife, an actress, has incurred his jealousy because the critics give more attention to her singing than to his music. She follows him to the inn hoping for a reconciliation but he spurns all her advances. Laurel and Hardy, smitten with her charm and beauty, become foiled in the ruse she employs to regain her husband's love.

Here are the stars of "Sally, Irene and Mary," starting at the Broadway today. They are Jimmy Durante, Joan Davis, Fred Allen, Alice Faye and Tony Martin.

Cactus To Present "In Old Chicago"

Superb Story Of Early Days

A superb screen spectacle, with all the elements that go into making of great entertainment is the offering at the Cactus theater today in "In Old Chicago."

Dramatic laurels most certainly are due Alice Faye, Tyrone Power, Don Ameche, Alice Brady, Brian Donlevy and Andy Devine for their work in the production.

Bound For Chicago

Opening with the O'Learys in a covered wagon, bound for Chicago, Pa O'Leary typifies the grim brevity of existence in those days when he tries to outrace a newfangled locomotive. Molly O'Leary buries her husband in the prairies, only a few hours away from the city he longed so to see.

Then, the next morning Ma O'Leary brings her three sons into this brawling, bawdy city of 1854 and by dint of a fancy lady's mud-spattered gown, launches herself upon a career as laundress.

The boys grow up and by 1870 Bob O'Leary (Tom Brown) is married to a German immigrant girl (June Storey). Jack O'Leary is a struggling attorney and Dion is making his first inroads into politics.

Dion first swings into his stride when he woos Belle Fawcett (Miss Faye) so that he can control the choice site for a saloon which will drive his political boss (Brian Donlevy) out of business. The violent love scenes end with a sightly subdued Belle Fawcett becoming Dion's aide, in a series of machinations which are culminated by a political plot electing Brother Jack O'Leary as reform mayor of Chicago.

The strange O'Leary tribe fights tooth and nail at times, and the climax comes when Dion has his brother perform the marriage ceremony which makes Belle Fawcett the bride of Dion O'Leary. Mayor Jack O'Leary learns that the marriage was engineered by Dion so that Belle could not testify to Dion's political chicanery.

A fight begins here, and far away in The Patch, the cow kicks over the lantern in the barn.

Then the screen flowers forth in the most terrifying beauty. Chicago is wiped out before your eyes . . . to the accompaniment of the most furious sounds and scenes ever captured on celluloid.

The final moment which shows the indomitable O'Learys re-united in the spirit of a regenerated Chicago to come, is a scene that beggars laudatory description.

To Be At Cactus

A stage show is an unusual event for Lubbock. But the Cactus theater this week will present Uncle Ezra Smith's Barn Dance Frolics on Tuesday and Wednesday. Featured in the cast are the Oklahoma hillbillies, Uncle Ab, Uncle Ezra and other comedy stars. Four complete stage shows will be held daily.

Three of the screen's outstanding stars are presented today at the Cactus theater in "In Old Chicago," playing a return engagement in Lubbock and considered one of the finest pictures of the season. They are Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Don Ameche.

'America Sends Greetings' Program Will Be On KFYO Tonight; Glen Gray And His Casa Loma Orchestra On 'Show Of The Week'

"America Sends Greetings"—an extravagant special features production patterned to carry greetings to men and women of America who, by nature of their work, are compelled to spend Christmas and New Year's holidays outside the confines of the United States—will be heard over Station KFYO and the coast-to-coast Mutual Network tonight from 7 to 8 o'clock.

The First Lady of the Land, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, will conclude this one-hour broadcast with a special message of cheer to all Americans. In response, the mayor of little Santa Claus, Indiana, will reply from this famous village which, each year, has its name stamped on thousands of Christmas cards mailed from there.

PETE TO TALK FASHIONS

Pete Cawthon, head coach of Texas Tech, will be interviewed by Gail Northe on her "Fashions" broadcast to be heard over KFYO and the Texas State Network from 9 to 9:15 a. m. Wednesday, December 21. Cawthon will be in Dallas with his Red Raiders preparing for the Cotton Bowl game January 2, 1939, with St. Mary's "Gaels."

"Fashions in Football" will be the subject of the interview between Miss Northe and Pete Cawthon.

Officials Will Be Heard

Among those of the official Washington family who will be heard over KFYO tonight are Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring; Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles; Admiral Emory Land, Chairman of the U. S. Maritime commission; Rear Admiral Russell R. Waesche, commandant of the Coast Guard, and Acting Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison. Each will address a three minute radio greeting to the men of his service. In return, representatives of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, State Department and Merchant Marine will send greetings back to the nation.

In addition, industry and transportation will also be represented.

GLEN GRAY

John Merrill, vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph company, will send an ethereal "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" to all industrial employes outside borders of the United States. A typical I. T. & T. worker will reply from Lima, Peru.

Dick Merrill, famous transport flier who has hopped across the Atlantic four times, will send a radio Christmas card to American pilots the world over. A member of the China Clippers crew will reply from San Francisco before his plane departs for the Orient.

The United States Army band, playing from the Army War College in Washington, will also salute Americans everywhere with appropriate music.

To clear time for this special broadcast "The Catholic Hour", usually heard at 7 p. m., will be broadcast over KFYO tonight only at 6:30 p. m.

CASA LOMA ON TODAY

Long absent from the kilocycles has been Glen Gray and his celebrated Casa Loma orchestra. They return for one performance over Station KFYO and the Texas State Network this afternoon from 5:30 to 6 p. m. on the "Show of the Week" program.

One of the outstanding bands in the country, Casa Loma has won a wide reputation as dispensers of swing and sweet rhythms, extraordinary orchestrations, and the fine vocal work of Kenny Sargent and Pee-Wee Hunt.

Ray Perkins is "The Show of the Week" emcee. Ernest Chappell is the program's news editor.

Ozzie Nelson's band follows Casa Loma on December 25. Abe Lyman's Californians are "The Admiration Show of the Week's" first 1939 band.

QUESTION TO BE ASKED

What does a mother owe her child?

A mother of a five-year-old child will ask this question of John J. Anthony on the "Original Good Will Hour" program tonight at 9:30 over KFYO and the Mutual network.

Beaten by her husband who will not give her a separation unless she gives up the child to him, she has reached the limits of her endurance. But at the same time she doesn't want to give up her child.

MOVE TO BE SIMPLE

When the Mutual network's "Johnson Family" program with all its "twenty-two characters" moved to Cincinnati on Monday, December 12, it was the simplest move in the history of any radio show. For all the characters exist only in the person and miraculous throat of Jimmy Scribner, author and only actor on the show.

Jimmy has an excellent reason for moving to the Queen City. Jimmy wants to be on hand for the arrival of a new character in the Scribner family to be presented to him by Mrs. Scribner.

The program is heard over KFYO daily, Monday through Fridays from 4:15 to 4:30 p. m.

"I Met My Love Again" comes to the Tech on Friday, starring Henry Fonda and Joan Bennett.

Thrills And Action Offered At Tech Today In "Drums"

Story Of India In Technicolor

STIRRING adventure on India's northwest frontier is being served today for patrons of the Tech theater, where Alexander Korda's technicolor production "Drums" is holding forth. In featured roles are Sabu, the little Indian sensation, Raymond Massey, Roger Livesey, Desmond Tester and Valerie Hobson.

Livesey, a fearless British officer, is sent to India to quell the uprisings being fomented by a banatical prince, Raymond Massey, who dreams of snatching the throne of his brother, uniting the various hill tribes and eventually driving the British out of his ever-broadening domain.

Arrived, Livesey and his bride, Valerie Hobson, meet a little prince and a warm friendship results. The prince also becomes friends with a little drummer boy in the regiment and between them the boys work out a private danger signal, which later is to prove of vital importance to the plot.

The fiendish prince murders his brother but the little Prince Azim escapes.

Scorning Livesey's warning that he and his men must stop sniping at British troopers, Massey works out a diabolical scheme for wiping out all the members of the British residency and most of the regiment at one stroke.

He invites Livesey and 50 of his men to his palace for dinner on the final evening of a five-day ceremonial feast, as the climax of which he means to turn machine guns on his assembled guests.

How Prince Azim, aided by the drummer boy, is able to save his friends and bring reinforcements to their aid at the height of the furious fighting, makes for a thrilling denouement.

Usual "Hokum" Is Put Out

But All Hands Know It is Only A Blind

POLITICAL commentators in Washington are going to have to do quite a bit of straining on gnats if they attempt to attach any especial significance to the resignation of Daniel Roper as secretary of commerce.

The resignation has been accompanied by the usual line of hooey which attends such things. Mr. Roper says he wants to get out of public life to attend to his private business. And the President expresses "sincere regret" in accepting the resignation.

All of which is the bunk. If Mr. Roper has much personal business to demand his attention, his intimates don't know what it may be. And it has been shouted from the housetops in Washington the last three or four years that the President has done almost everything his ingenuity could devise except blasting to persuade Mr. Roper to retire.

At Least A Vivid Contrast

A vivid study in contrasts has been supplied by a criminal investigation now in progress in Los Angeles which should cause Americans to give reverent thanks anew that they are Americans.

On one side of the picture we have Mikhail Gorin, a Russian, accused of spying activities in California. On the other side, we have the case of a Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, American citizens, who were jailed as spies in Russia several months ago.

When Gorin was jailed, a Russian vice-consul asked and immediately received permission to see the suspect. A vice-consul, incidentally, is small change in any consular service.

When Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were arrested, the United States ambassador to Russia had to insist before permission was given an agent of our government to talk to Mrs. Robinson. An ambassador is the highest official one government can send as its representative to another, yet to this good day, permission to talk to Robinson has been refused.

When the vice-consul talked to Gorin, they shared the privacy of a large room in the Los Angeles jail.

When our agent talked to Mrs. Robinson, a hulking guard stood over them to hear and report whatever he heard.

No one will ever know what Gorin and the vice-consul of his government may have discussed.

Mrs. Robinson, although disheveled in appearance and obviously at the breaking point because of abuse, assured our representative that she was being treated splendidly and that she wanted no further inquiries made about her. The suspicion is she had been told what to say and had warned that unpleasant things might happen if she disobeyed.

Bond of $25,000 has been set for Gorin, and the only thing needed to secure his release is to provide that bail.

The Russian government refused even to discuss terms under which the Robinsons would be released.

If it happens that Gorin stands trial, it will be in open court where the whole world can learn what goes on.

Only the inner circle of the Soviet knows what happened to the Robinsons. Suspicion is that he was executed soon after his arrest in the typical Russian manner. That is, to fire a dum-dum bullet into the back of the victim's head. The bullet spreads and literally tears the face away.

On the whole, Mr. Gorin should be a very happy man. He knows that the worst punishment he can receive will be a short term in a federal prison where he will enjoy comforts—even luxuries—which cannot be had by anyone in the vast expanse of Russia.

The One-Minute Sermon

Now Jesus knew that they were desirous to ask him, and said unto them: Do you enquire among yourselves of that I said, A little while, and ye shall not see me; and again, a little while, and ye shall see me?

Verily, verily, I say unto you. That ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice: and ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy—John 16; 19 and 20.

A Couple Of Anxious Boys

Reich Still Lacks Helium, But Zeppelin Village Trains New 'Knights Of Air'

German Youngsters Study Dirigibles

By RUDOLPH JOSTEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ZEPPELINHEIM, Germany, Dec. 17. — New life is beginning to pulse through the streets of Zeppelinheim, Germany's youngest village.

The community of 500 persons, built to be the "cradle of Germany's air skippers," was plunged into gloom with the tragic destruction of the dirigible Hindenburg and with America's refusal to send non-inflammable helium to Germany to float her giant ships of the skies.

But the town is nourishing high hopes again. The new Graf Zeppelin, named for Dr. Hugo Eckener's globe-girdling ship of a few years ago, which has become a museum piece here, has passed its trial tests and is berthed in the nearby Frankfurt Rhein-Main Airport. It has been pronounced fit for transportation of passengers and goods.

New Ship Is Building

The keel of another sky giant of the Hindenburg type also was launched last summer. Though plans for the completed ship are in abeyance, and construction of the other is proceeding slowly, Zeppelinheim's residents are optimistic.

They still like to believe the United States has not spoken the final word on the export of helium to Germany.

Known throughout Germany as the "village of the flying burghers" the growth of Zeppelinheim, which now comprises 78 apartments and administrative buildings, was abruptly stopped by the destruction of the Hindenburg and the subsequent docking of the first and storm-tried Graf Zeppelin.

But outwardly, life in the little community in the dense forest surrounding the new Rhein-Main airport, continues normally. The men go to work every morning at the Zeppelin Museum.

And there is no boy among the numerous children of Zeppelinheim who does not look forward to becoming a member of an airship crew. The girls are full of the Zeppelin idea. Many of them would like to be stewardesses on dirigibles.

Airships For Books

THIS air-mindedness of the young generation is systematically fostered at school where Hans von Schiller, captain of the Graf, often takes the teacher's place to lecture on the most modern mode of travel. Models of the Hindenburg and Graf Zeppelin are found in almost every home. They are brought along to school whenever "Uncle Schiller," as the young folks call the village's "Burgomaster" and casual teacher, is scheduled for lessons. A large schoolroom diagram of a modern dirigible helps acquaint the boys and girls with the technical side of lighter-than-air flying.

The youngsters' enthusiasm leaps when the captain-teacher adds to the lessons little stories of his experiences on dirigibles, dating back to the World war.

Thoroughly Modern

Zeppelinheim, designed to become the world's first town of the "knights of the skies," was planned on the most modern lines of city building with accommodation for 5,000 families. Its wide streets and its public buildings are named after German airship pioneers. There is an Eckener Square, a Captain Flemming House and a Captain Lehmann Street.

The town has its own fire brigade, a well-equipped hospital and a modern church besides a large community hall with a theater for festive gatherings and a movie house.

Pending the outcome of negotiations with America over the helium deliveries, plans for extension of the village have been dropped.

Hindenburg models replace school books for these young Zeppelinheimers on their way to Captain Schiller's class.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

CLYDE Herring of Iowa has set a pleasing and gentle pace for other senatorial chairmen in his conduct of the inquiry into profit sharing. The amiable Senator hasn't hollered at a witness, threatened anybody with a private view of the hoosegow or even issued a subpoena to the big shots.

Though a forceful fellow, politically—he's the real boss of Iowa politics—Mr. Herring is a friendly, easy going, conciliatory man, and as such he is rapidly becoming a power in the Senate. He is an inveterate caller on home or hospital invalids, and a habitual sender of flowers to the sick and afflicted. For fun he totes his grandson and the latter's young friends to Capitol Hill several days a month, and entertains them by giving them rides on the subway that carries statesmen from the Senate office building to the capitol.

He's a listener and a mediator, and rarely talks until the other fellow has become winded. He has composed many party quarrels with this cornfield technique. One of his closest friends—and admirers—is Vice-President Garner, who may bob up with Iowa's 1940 delegation after it has given a complimentary vote to Favorite Son Herring or Henry Wallace.

CAMOUFLAGE: Though extremely communicative men as a rule, President Roosevelt and Attorney-General Cummings bamboozled two of Washington's smartest reporters on the eve of presentation of the court-packing bill. The Attorney-General told the story with great gusto at one of the many farewell teas being given him.

The Washington Star's White House newshawk—J. Russell Young—happened to be dining with the President that night. In the upstairs study after dinner Mr. Roosevelt told of his plans for preserving District of Columbia dogwood and preventing pollution in the Potomac river. The inquiring reporter, Mr. Young, scented a swell local yarn, and asked permission to print the hot news. Graciously the President acquiesced.

Another newsman—Walter Trohan of the Chicago Tribune—was dining at the A. G.'s home on the same evening. The two discussed the comparative merits of Walter Hampden, Forbes-Robertson and Fritz Leiber in the role of Hamlet. So heated became the argument that Mr. Cummings delivered the famous passage—"To be or not to be"—in the style of his favorite, Forbes-Robertson. Walter went away with a swell story on the A. G.'s dramatic leanings, and Russ walked out of the White House with a front page yarn on dogwood—but neither dreamed that next day their respective hosts would sponsor one of the most sensational coups in political history!

FRONT: Here's one reason for the high cost of American politics:

A comparatively obscure ad in several New York City newspapers heralds a "big election sale." It announces a "clean sweep of all walnut and mahogany campaign office furniture—now when installed—used by the Democratic and Republican headquarters for only thirty days. Among the bargains are listed such things as "executive and commercial desks, directors' and office tables, leather and wood chairs, leather settees and club chairs—office equipment."

When an annoyingly curious person asked both Republican and Democratic headquarters here why it was necessary to buy furniture instead of hiring it, and why they installed new equipment instead of cheaper, second-hand stuff, the answer was virtually the same: "We gotta look prosperous, even though we're busted." Just another case of keeping up with the Joneses!

DRESSY: The Washington run of "Pins and Needles"—the New York hit presented by David Dubinsky's unemployed garment workers—was packed with irony. The audience staged as good a show as the fast-stepping and fast-talking cast.

It required masterful diplomacy on the part of the play's press agent to prevent those two champions of the oppressed—John L. Lewis and William Green—from appearing on the same night. Had they shown up together, they might have made the "Four Little Angels of Peace"—Hitler, Mussolini, Chamberlain and a Japanese—seem like boarding school pals. Likewise it was thought best to have "Miss Perkins" attend on an evening when the two labor leaders would not be dramatically inclined.

For a play staged by unemployed garment workers, the audience was the dressiest seen in many years. Proletarians John and William wore their best bibs and tuxedos, and Madame Perkins was wrapped in a stunning opera cape—or something like that. In short, the New Deal went to the theater—both on and off the stage.

CONTRACT: No speaker in the history of the National Press club—President Roosevelt, Mayor LaGuardia, John L. Lewis, H. G. Wells, George M. Cohen, etc.—stimulated so much interest and ticket demand as Anthony Eden, the idealistic young Britisher. Within fifteen minutes after they were placed on sale, the 1,000 tickets were gone—a record.

The British embassy didn't share the club's enthusiasm. When a young assistant secretary was asked whether Ambassador Lindsay would hold a press conference for the distinguished visitor, he replied: "I am afraid that a conference for Mr. Eden will be unavoidable. So hold yourself in readiness." In other words, hold everything!

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

ANTHONY Eden came to America, saw the National Association of Manufacturers, reporters and assorted officials—and did a pretty good job of "conquering." Skeptics, however, have been heard to sniff at his statement that Britain wanted no one to pull her chestnuts out of the fire.

As we have previously reported, high New York sources got word before Eden arrived that he might be the next British Ambassador to the United States if he registered well. There is reason to believe that his trip here was arranged with that ultimate objective in mind. The N. A. M. invitation to speak at its convention gave the former prime minister a golden opportunity to sell himself to the United States without making it appear that he was coming to this country on his own initiative (or the British government's) for that purpose.

Insiders state further, on the basis of what they learn from London, that Chamberlain is privately pleased at the cordial reception given his erstwhile critic in New York and Washington.

DEFT: Keen New York observers who listened to Eden's speech with the ambassadorial angle in mind agree that it fitted this picture perfectly.

The speech was a diplomatic masterpiece. It sparkled with eloquent generalities about democracy, which go over big with American audiences. While manfully insisting that Britain would stand on her own feet, he skillfully got across the idea that England and the United States should stick together in defense of their mutual ideals.

Eden carefully avoided any criticism of Chamberlain's policies in general or the Munich Pact in particular. Nor would he comment to reporters on British affairs. Since it might have seemed strange if he made no reference at all to his controversy with Chamberlain, he deftly noted that, though "methods may differ," the common objective is peace.

EFFECTIVE: Realistic analysts contend that it would be a ten-strike for Chamberlain to send Eden to Washington as Ambassador.

Chamberlain's attempts to build up an Anglo-American front have fizzled, but he hasn't given up on them by any means. Eden would probably be a great help in this connection. Many Americans admire him and he is certainly not regarded here with the cynicism that attaches to the prime minister.

Moreover, insiders note that the extremely efficient British propaganda machine in this country appears to head up to Eden rather than to Chamberlain.

Our Curious World --- By William Ferguson

ANSWER: "It's a long time between drinks." This reply was given in pre-Civil War days by a North Carolina governor to a South Carolina governor when the latter, in demanding the return of a runaway slave, asked: "What do you say, governor?"

Here Is Study Of Scottish Implacability

Agnes Sligh Turnbull's 'Remember The End' Is Impressive

"REMEMBER THE END," by Agnes Sligh Turnbull; (Macmillan, New York).

AGNES SLIGH TURNBULL will be remembered well for her "The Rolling Years," and she has done no damage to the memory by publishing her new novel. This is a study of Scottish implacability such as we have not seen before, and she calls it "Remember the End."

It is the story of Alex MacTay, a young Scot who was, to hear Miss Turnbull tell it, as beautiful as Apollo, as gifted as the young Shakespeare, and as energetic as Andrew Carnegie. Alex could have gone to the university in Scotland at the Laird's expense, but he elected to go to America instead. Once here, he did not stay in Philadelphia as he had intended, but went on to Greensburg, Pa., because a young Irishman he met on the boat was going there.

Beautiful Daughter Too

In Greensburg, Alex did two very important things almost at once. He made a convert of an aging Scottish lawyer who was a person of importance in the community, and he got a job on a farm (owned by another Scot) which had, in one field, an outcrop of coal. And in the house was a beautiful daughter whom Alex determined to marry.

Alex made a schedule for himself. He was to straighten up the farm the first year, open the coal bank and found a coal business the second, and the third year he was to marry the girl. This was prophetic—Alex lived always on schedule from that day on. He did marry Meggie, and before anybody knew what was what he was owner of a mine, and then another mine, and so on until he was a power in steel and feared over half America.

Failed On One Thing

Only on one thing did he fail. Back in his youth he had made good rhymes; the sight of beauty brought on the rhymes. He deliberately killed this side of himself. But it reappeared in his son, and so did his strength. Meggie blindly loved Alex all his days, but not so his son.

Much of this is told with grace in a not brilliant, but impressive style. There are two or three very high spots, such as the prologue, and there are two or three low spots such as Meggie's devoted and hopeless lover, and the end of the book.

Books For Christmas

ROBINSON JEFFERS always has been a law unto himself in poetry, as well as in other ways. He will not unbend to an easy popularity, and for that reason his work is not for the average person on your Christmas list. Just the same, there may be some independent spirit for which "The Selected Poetry of Robinson Jeffers" was intended, and he should have it. (Random)

Della T. Lutes is also an acquired taste for some, although the homely quality of "The Country Kitchen" and "Home Grown" was appreciated by a very large audience, much larger than the publisher expected. "Millbrook" is the story of Mrs. Lutes' Michigan home town. It is filled with pungent characters as well as kitchen smells and gentle philosophy. (Little, Brown.)

Smith County Rancher Is Author Of Cattle Book, 'Cattle Clatter'

TROUP, Dec. 17. (AP)—Joe Cross, rancher of Troup, Smith county, is the author of a book, "Cattle Clatter," which was published serially in the American Hereford Journal.

Cross' white-faced beef cattle won many prizes this fall at Houston, Dallas, Tyler and Shreveport.

The story of cattle from the earliest times is told in the author's own way and combines history, humor, romance and observations.

Cross begins his story with "Biblical Cattlemen" in which he tells of the records of the first known cattle breeders. Several chapters are devoted to the different breeds of cattle and others relate the history of the Hereford industry in England and America.

TARZAN AND THE FORBIDDEN CITY. No. 13 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Atan Thome quivered with delight as he held in his hands the route map to the Forbidden City of Athair. There, in the unknown mountains, guarded by a fierce, mysterious race, was the Father of Diamonds. He'd take it from them, by stealth or force.

Now Thome swung into action. He called Lal Taask. "Go tell the captain of the river boat to be ready. I've already bribed him to sail tonight instead of tomorrow. That will leave the Gregorys stranded. There wont be another sailing for a week."

Lal Taask left, Thome turned to Magra. "You must join the Gregory party by any ruse. Contrive to delay them. I know you're strong for that bronzed Apollo; but if you double-cross me, I'll get you both. No traitor has ever escaped Atan Thome!"

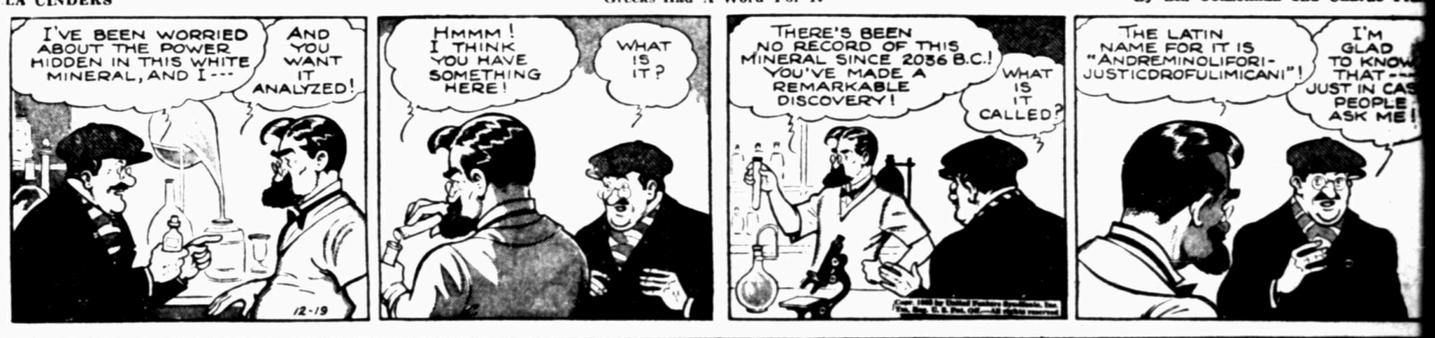

He went then to the room where Helen was a prisoner. Her eyes lighted when she saw the map. "Now you will let me go." "No," said Thome; "you'll come with me to Athair; I'll keep you as a hostage. Besides, I'll enjoy your company." Helen shivered.

Christmas Shoppers Continue To Hold Spotlight Of Domestic Business Picture

Sales Are Up 10 To 30 Per Cent

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—Christmas shoppers, pouring dollars across the counters of the nation's stores, continued to hold the spotlight in the domestic picture this week.

Retail buying jumped 10 to 30 per cent over the preceding week as Christmas trade surged on upward toward the seasonal peak that usually is attained in the final few shopping sessions before the holiday.

Wholesalers Are Swamped

Some wholesalers were so swamped wtih reorders of seasonal merchandise, specifying quick delivery, that business had to be turned away.

Meantime, while store business soared, industrial activity was a shade lower, but held close to the year's best levels. And the stock market turned in its best gain since last October. Bonds rallied with the shares. Industrial commodities tilted higher. Cotton advanced. Wheat and corn, however, lost a little ground.

County Officers Gather In City

Preparations for the convention of West Texas association of County Judges and Commissioners to which Lubbock will be host next March were begun by the three ranking officials of the organization at a meeting here Saturday.

Here for the meeting were Homer Bouldin of Albany, Shackelford county judge, president of the association; John Winters of Amarillo, Potter county commissioner, vice-president; and Marshall Formby of Dickens, Dickens county judge, secretary-treasurer.

Dates Are Not Set

Lubbock hotel, they announced, will be headquarters for the convention, but the dates will not be set until officials of similar associations in other parts of the state have been consulted. Effort will be made, it was explained, to arrange dates so that one convention will follow close upon another.

The program, they said, still is tentative, but plans are to bring outstanding speakers here for the convention.

While here they conferred with officials of the chamber of commerce and were assured complete cooperation of that organization in making the convention a success.

Meeting Of Mayors Is Planned Here

Plans were in the making Saturday for a meeting of mayors and other city officials of South Plains in Lubbock to greet Mayor Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco when he leads St. Mary's Gaels and followers through here toward the Cotton bowl Dec. 30.

Word that Mayor Rossi is to be with the delegation caused Mayor Carl E. Slaton of Lubbock to write a letter Saturday assuring him that every hospitality the city can extend will be at the disposal of the visitors while they are here.

It is his belief, too, that other mayors and officials of the South Plains also would like to meet the visiting dignitary, who is one of the most widely known mayors in the country.

For that reason, Slaton extended informal invitations to all of them to be here. Personal invitations will be sent, he added, as soon as he learns more definitely what the plans of the Californians will be while in Lubbock.

The chamber of commerce will assist in extending the invitations and in arranging appropriate entertainment.

Worship Program Is Planned For Tech Students Today

A Christmas worship program for students of Texas Technological college will be sponsored by the college YM-YWCA at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon in the lounge of the women's dormitory, said Miss Allene Atkinson, secretary of the Christian organization.

A choir will sing "Come, All Ye Faithful" as the processional, and "Joy to the World" as the recessional.

Rev. John A. Winslow, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, will present opening and closing prayers. Frances Titus, student, will present the scripture, which will have a musical background of hymns. Lyman McGehee, student, will tell a Christmas story, "Why the Chimes Rang." All attending will sing "Silent Night, Holy Night."

Since discovery of oil on part of its 2,000,000 acres in West Texas, the University of Texas has received approximately $27,000,000 from mineral leases and bonuses.

End Of 'Horse And Mule Era' In Lubbock Is Near At Hand So Far As Garbage Work Is Concerned; Trucks Are Purchased

End of the "horse and mule era" so far as the official city of Lubbock is concerned is close at hand.

Within the next few weeks at the latest, the motorization of the official city will have been completed.

The two spans of mules, which is all the "horse flesh" the city now owns, then will be sold and Old Dobbin, so far as the city is concerned, will have become a thing of the past.

Final Knell Is Sounded

The final knell for Dobbin was officially sounded with the announcement Saturday that two trucks and trailers have been purchased for the city garbage department. They will replace the two mule-drawn wagons which are all that links the municipality with the horse-and-buggy era.

The two trailers have been purchased from W. C. Nabors company of Louisana at a cost of $595 each. They are identical with two trailers bought several months ago which officials describe as the most satisfactory which have been used in the garbage department.

Also purchased by the city recently were two G.M.C. trucks at a net cost of $705 each. Upon the bed of each truck a trailer will be fitted and equipped with a winch so as to expediate movement. Removal of garbage is facilited with a slide-wall arrangement which is a patented feature of the trailer.

Although the garbage dump is to be moved within the next few weeks at the latest, officials said, to a point approximately a mile further from the city than the present dump, they estimate that the trucks and trailers will make possible the handling at least five times as much garbage as is possible with the mules and teams.

Daughter Of First Man To Grow Cotton In Area Student At Tech

Texas Technological college not only has the Cotton Girl of the Nation but it also has as a student the daughter of the first man to grow cotton on the South Plains.

She is Mary Elizabeth Florence, daughter of W. P. Florence of Slaton. Her father, who was reared in Smith county, came to the South Plains in 1900. He now has a farm a mile southwest of Slaton and raises cotton and has a 20-cow dairy.

Miss Florence is a freshman journalism major.

Cotton is a featured subject at the college, as plans continue for Tech's participation in the Cotton bowl game and the Cotton Bowl jubilee in Dallas.

Thief Keeps Up With Times And He Is Half Ready For Advent Of A New Year

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 18. (AP)—A thief who keeps up with the times was half ready today for the new year.

Allen Grove complained to police that, while he attached one of his 1939 license tags to the front of his car, a thief stole the rear one.

Plans Drawn For Tech Field Trip

Presidents of railroads and automobile companies and other executives of American business and industry will serve as staff for a field course in business to be offered by the department of economics and business administration at Texas Technological college the first term of next summer school.

A tour will be made through 21 states, Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, head professor of economics and business administration, announced. Dates will be from May 29 to July 15, including one week during which the party will visit the World's fair in New York.

To Hear Executives

Persons making the trip may study business as it actually exists, seeing it in operation in the largest cities in the eastern half of the United States. Finance, marketing, international trade, manufacturing, transportation, wholesaling, and other topics will be studied. Business executives at the various places visited will speak to the group.

Persons other than students may make the trip. Approximately $185 will cover cost of registration, travel for about 5,500 miles, and food and lodging for seven weeks. A deposit of $50 is to be made by April 1 by each person planning to go.

HE'S THE OPPOSITION

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—All this talk about Republican resurgence and "effective opposition" down in the states must sound a bit hollow to Le Roy Sullivan of Nome when he looks at the lineup for Alaska's 1939 territorial legislative session. There will be a total of 23 Democrats and one Republican in the two houses. Sullivan, the lone Republican, won by 24 votes.

Christmas Carols To Be Sung Here

Traditional singing of Christmas carols in halls of the administration building at Texas Technological college will continue Monday and Tuesday, final days before opening of Christmas holidays, said Julien Paul Blitz, head of the music department.

Pianists from the music department will present accompaniment at a piano on the third floor of the administration building. Charts showing words of the carols are hung above the stairway.

The carols will be sung between 9 and 10 o'clock classes and 10 and 11 o'clock classes. Carols were sung in the building Friday morning.

Christmas holidays are to open at 6 o'clock Tuesday night. Classes will be resumed the morning of Jan. 4.

Work Is Progressing Rapidly On Union School Addition

Work is progressing satisfactorily on the construction of a $21,004 addition of gymnasium and auditorium to Union school, according to F. Olin Smith, resident engineer, and Harvey C. Allen, architect.

Construction was made possible by a P. W. A. grant of $9,452 and school funds amounting to $11,552.

Sampson Bros. Construction company of Lubbock has the general contract and A. P. Kasch of Big Spring has the mechanical contract. Work was begun Nov. 2 after P. W. A. office in Washington had approved the project.

On Dec. 2 all concrete footings were in place; on Dec. 6 brick work was started and walls were rapidly going up.

March 10 is date set for completion but contractors expressed belief that completion would be at an earlier date. When finished the buildings will be modern in all respects with the existing buildings will complete a modern school plant.

BIRDS GET FISH FOOD

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—Forest officials had forgotten about ducks when they planted several tons of moss, shrimp and other aquatic life as food for fish in Lake Isabel. Migratory flocks came along soon after the planting and cleaned up all the food. Now the fish are hungry.

Liberal Program To Draw Labor And Farm Support Is Urged For Republicans

Vermont Chief Offers Ideas

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP) — Governor George D. Aiken of Vermont said today that if Republicans want to win the presidency in 1940 they must push forward during the next two years with a liberal program that will draw labor and farm support.

The Republican governor, who was one of the first to demand a more liberal G. O. P. political philosophy, told reporters:

"The party has got to realize that it must be liberal if it is going to get anywhere. Those elected to congress have got to realize that if they professed to be liberals from expediency they must back up their views with actions. If they don't their views will be corrected in the election."

Doesn't Expect Too Much

The tousle-haired, quiet-spoken Vermonter, here to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the governors conference, said he did not "expect too much" of the Republican program committee because "the real dirt farmer is not represented to any great extent."

Aiken said that a split between liberals and conservatives in both major parties is possible before 1940. "The voters are pretty footloose," he added.

The governor, who has been mentioned as a presidential possibility, said he was making no effort to line up delegates to the 1940 convention. He asserted that despite Republican victories in the November elections "no logical or outstanding candidate" for the G. O. P. nomination has come forward.

Subsoil Moisture Is Of Vital Interest In Area, Dickson Says

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

AUSTIN, Dec. 17. — "Deficiency of subsoil moisture throughout West Texas, with the exception of local areas, is of vital interest and importance to farmers, stockmen and business men," declared R. E. Dickson, superintendent, in an interview here today.

"It is a well known fact that perpetual subsoil moisture in this section has a decided influence on yields of wheat, cotton and feed crops produced through the following year.

Relationship Studied

"For a number of years, the Texas Agricultural experiment station here, has been studying the relationship between the amount of subsoil moisture in the soil at the end of the growing season and its effect on the following year's crop. The accompanying table shows the inches of available moisture (moisture which plants may recover from the soil) in the upper three feet of the soil at the end of the growing season.

Year	Soil Moisture November 20
1932	4.51
1933	3.38
1934	2.32
1935	1.74
1936	6.21
1937	2.48
1938	.75

It is evident from the moisture data that crops in 1939 will be almost entirely dependent on current rainfall during the next growing season. The average rainfall for January is .41, February .76 and March .91 inches, or a total of 2.08 inches. This indicates that the rainfall during the winter months very likely will not be sufficient to restore normal subsoil moisture.

"Under these conditions it appears that every effort made toward conserving rainfall which may occur during the spring and summer months of 1939 will bring about substantial increases in crop yields."

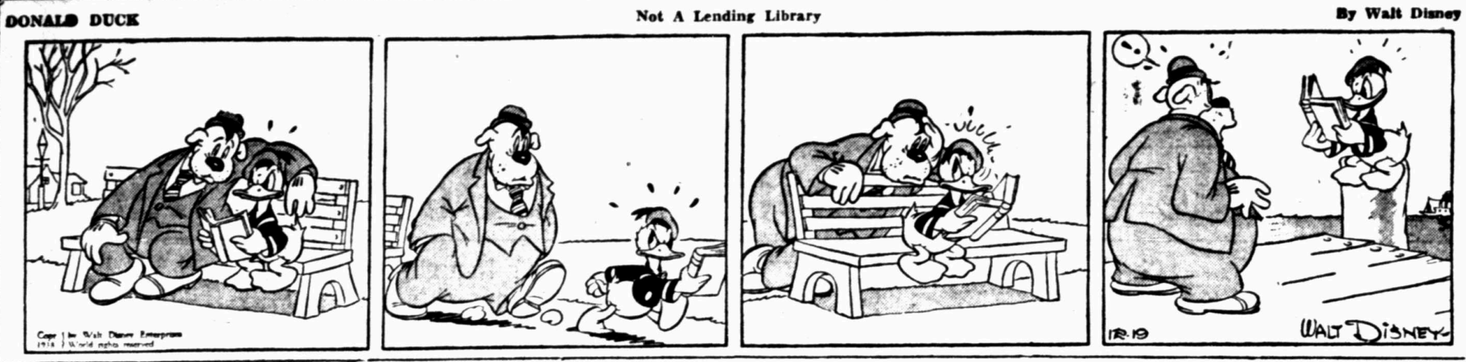

Father Of Arch Lamb Taken By Death Last Friday

Funeral services are to be conducted at 10 o'clock Monday morning in Fort Worth. Mr. Lamb had suffered a heart attack about two weeks ago in Longview. He died at the home of a son.

Arch Lamb, former head cheer leader and former president of the Men's Dormitory association at Tech, had gone to Longview after he was notified of his father's serious illness.

Figures Reveal City's Growth

Hipper-dipper or razzle-dazzle, either describes it, but Lubbock's growth continued at a rapid pace this year.

According to the recently issued city directory, the population increase alone was 3,957. That, however, is purely an estimate, but other statistics contained in the directory show correspondingly startling increases, based on cold facts and figures.

Fast Growing City

The Hub of the Plains is recognized as one of the fastest growing cities in the state if not the nation. Population and business growth has been spread out over a dozen years.

Even the corporate area of the city was increased in the past 12 months. The area in 1937 was 5.76 square miles, in 1938, 5.83. Balloting last summer favored addition of approximately .7 square mile in Central Heights addition, south of the Texas Technological college campus.

Assessed valuations increased $659,761, to $22,045,000. The addition to the city can not be responsible for the hike because it was barren of houses when property was rendered.

Even the city's bonded indebtedness was increased, from $2,068,145 in 1937 to $2,735,400 in 1938. That does not actually put the city an apparent $655,265 in the red, because a 30-cent hike in tax rates will raise more than 10 times that much.

Bank Resources Grow

Bank resources and building permits help tell the growth story. Three Lubbock banks list resources of $10,781,689.98 this year as compared with $9,230,190.38 a year ago.

Building permits for 11 months through Nov. 30, 1937 totaled $1,514,311 and for a like period this year through Oct. 31 the total had reached $2,746,328.

Uncle Sam's postal receipts showed no phenomenal increase, but jumped $7,795.16 to $167,925.85 for an 11-month period.

Public school enrollment increased 1,000 students to 6,000 for the present term, and Texas Tech's 3,500 enrollment is 400 higher than last year. Fourteen members have been added to the Texas Tech faculty, bringing the total to 171.

Les Amies Club Has Yuletide Party In C. A. Ross Home

Les Amies club members attended a Christmas party Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. C. A. Ross, 1924 Ninth street. Games were played and Mrs. Cecil R. Matthews told a Christmas story. The house was decorated with a Christmas tree, and the Christmas theme was featured in the refreshment plate.

The club packed a box of canned foods and other gifts to be distributed by the Salvation Army.

Others attending were Misses Jay Austin, Alva Austin, Erma Lee Gaither and Bernice Grundy, guests, and Mesdames Rudolph Peel, J. T. Terrell, W. J. Whittaker, Claude Martin, J. T. Fountain, Syrian Marbut, Ralph Robinson, W. S. Pool and Clay Lowery.

The club will meet at 3 p. m., January 6, in the home of Mrs. Whittaker, 1909 Ninth street.

Selling Cotton In The Seed Is Said Generally Unfavorable

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—The long time effect of selling cotton before it is ginned and baled is generally unfavorable to producers as a group, the bureau of agricultural economics reported today.

The bureau said a study at selected points in Missouri, Arkansas, Tennessee, and Oklahoma showed that where cotton was purchased in the seed prices generally were based on the average equality of the crop produced in that vicinity. Under these conditions little reward was offered individual growers for improving quality, the bureau said. Selling cotton in the seed also prevented the growers from obtaining government loans, the bureau pointed out.

Water Consumption Records Continue To Show Growth

Water consumption records of Lubbock continue consistent in their evidence of growth in Lubbock.

Reports to City Auditor D. D. Martin showed that pumpage last November totaled 64,942,000 gallons, an increase of slightly more than 16 per cent over the 55,798,000 gallons in November, 1937.

Weather conditions during the comparative months were almost identical, indicating that the increase is due wholly to the increased number of consumers, the auditor said.

The showing, he added, has been in line with comparative records for other months of this year and last.

Paving To Be Given Study

Passage on first reading of an ordinance to provide for the paving of 41 blocks of residential streets is scheduled at the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission Thursday afternoon, according to information given at the city hall Saturday.

The ordinance was to have been passed at the meeting Dec. 8, but lack of a quorum forced postponement of that session. The meeting was held later, but consideration of the paving ordinance was delayed so that property owners on affected streets might be given opportunity to protest on a fixed date.

No Protest Expected

If anyone should appear in protest, it will be the first time that anyone has objected to street paving in considerably more than a year.

Streets for which provision is made in the ordinance are Fourth from J to O; O from Sixth to Seventh; W from Sixth to Nineteenth; S from Seventh to Nineteenth; Twentieth from R to X; and Thirteenth from C to G.

The Avenues S and W projects in the list are regarded as of especial importance because city officials believe the paving there will tend to lessen congestion of Avenue Q.

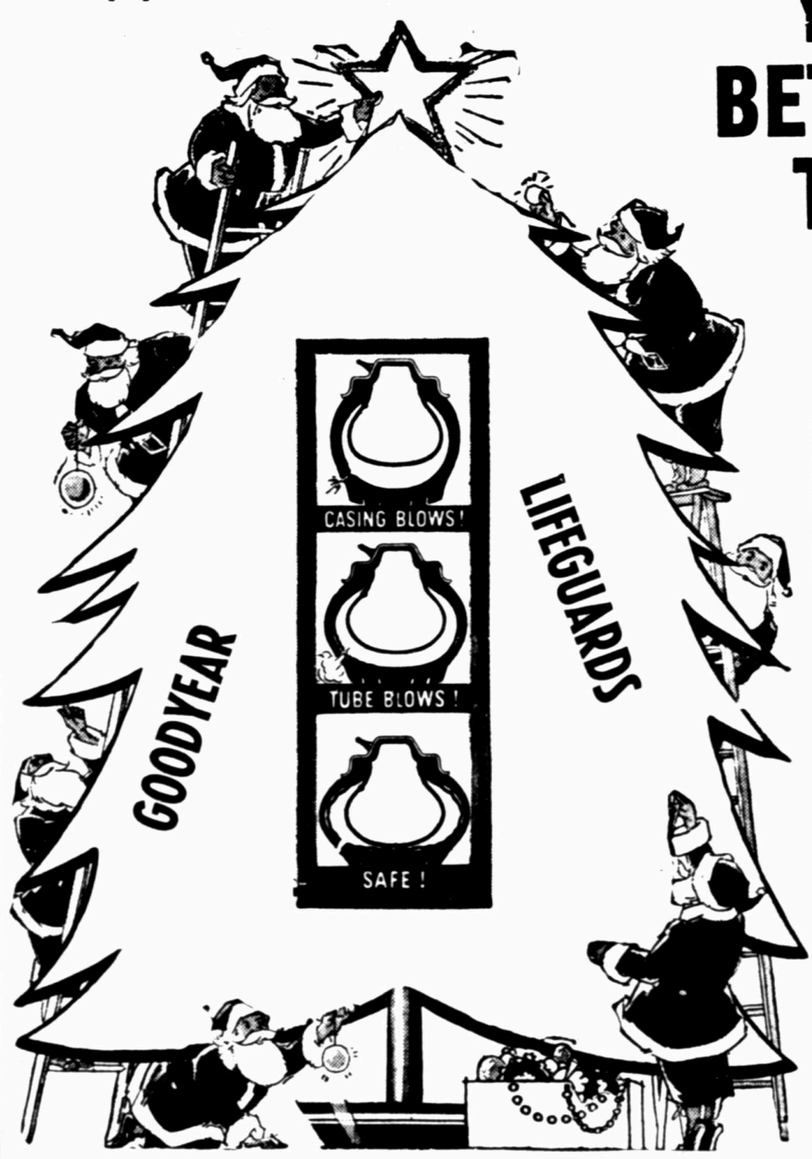

If the ordinance is passed as expected, curb, gutter and base work will be completed during the winter and surfacing will be laid next summer.

Probe Into Notorious Musica Brothers' Biggest Swindle Is Being Extended

Emphasis On Shipment Of Arms To Foreign Nations Is Given

By JOHN FERRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—Investigation of the notorious Musica brothers' biggest and most elaborate swindle, involving millions of dollars of McKesson and Robbins assets, extended to all parts of the globe today with emphasis on reported shipments of arms and ammunition to foreign powers.

Gregory F. Noonan, acting U. S. attorney, said he felt confident federal authorities would develop "conclusive proof" the head of the Musica family—Philip Musica who called himself F. Donald Coster and became president of the $87,000,000 drug corporation—was actually exporting war materials on a large scale.

He Was No Piker

Like Ivar Krueger, the Swedish match king, and Serve Stavisky, the French arch-swindler, Coster-Musica — it became increasingly clear today—was no piker. If he made the beginnings of his fortune, as federal authorities believe, in illicit alcohol during prohibition, he quickly shifted to bigger things.

Gun-running and even possibility the respected head of the great drug corporation even financed the 3-year war between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Gran Chaco border were regarded tonight as likely activities for Coster-Musica.

Conference To Be Held

Noonan said an important conference would be held Monday among representatives of all federal law enforcement agencies to draft a definite plan of coordination for their multiple activities in the future.

Gun-running, liquor shipments, Coster-Musica's political connections, his possible edalings in narcotics and the vast financial tangle he left behind when he sent a bullet into his brain will be discussed.

So extensive were his labyrinthine affairs that federal as well as state investigators believed they had only begun to remove the numerous layers of the scandal. More than 150 subpoenas already have been issued for Wall street operators and brokers, officials of the firm, Connecticut politicians and numerous other persons, and for records which may explain the confusion of questions raised by Coster's fantastic swindle.

Nature Not Disclosed

The nature of the information abount gun-running, now in the hands of Assistant Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall, was not disclosed, but he said he knew things "which may involve living persons."

Giving support to this was a statement of John Kantor, 60, of Montreal, father of MacKinlay Kantor, the author. The elder Kantor, held here in connection with a Connecticut stock case, appeared in the police lineup today.

"McKesson and Robbins offered to sell me some guns," he told acting Lieut. James Pyke who was questioning him about reported gun smuggling to other countries.

"I was asked not to discuss it," Kantor said.

"Was that by order of the attorney general?"

"Yes," Kantor replied, "and also by the securities and exchange commission."

Money Due For Munitions

It was regarded as likely that the $18,000,000 missing assets of the crude drugs department which Coster-Musica and his brother, George E. Dietrich-Musica, operated with non-existent warehouses and detailed reports of purchases and sales, might, in fact, exist as money due for the payment of munitions.

When Coster-Musica, facing rearrest on a charge of violating the securities and exchange act, killed himself yesterday in his Fairfield home, the chances of learning all the amazing details of his incredible swindling career were greatly diminished.

But the authorities quickly recovered their hopes with the arrest of Dietrich-Musica and two other brothers, Robert E. Dietrich-Musica, of the firm's shipping department in Fairfield, and George Vernard-Musica, of Brooklyn, Canadian agent for the firm.

Married 17 Years

Sheriff Edward J. Slavin, of New Haven, said George had been married seventeen years but it was only yesterday that his wife learned he was one of the Italian immigrant brothers who worked a million dollar bank swindle in connection with the collapse of the United States Hair company a quarter of a century ago.

That was a job for which Philip, the "brains" of the family, took the "rap," melodramatically proclaiming the others innocent.

Perhaps even then, he already had a gleam of the brilliant criminal idea he followed through to its ultimate tragic conclusion—hiding his identity under the masquerade of an American name, two Heidelberg university degrees, respectable American parentage and good clothes.

Had Come Far

Even in that day he had come far from the cunning of bribing customs inspectors to mark down the weight of imported Italian cheeses for his father's east side business.

His other brothers, Robert and Arthur who are in jail here, were questioned by Assistant U. S. Attorney Irving R. Kaufman who also questioned Donald McKesson of the New York Quinine and Chemical Works, Inc., Brooklyn. McKesson was a member of the original McKesson and Robbins firm which sold the assets, except real estate, to Coster in 1925.

McKesson, in a formal statement, said he had had no connection with the company since that time.

Four women members of the Musica family have been subpoenaed to appear before the federal grand jury Tuesday. They are Coster-Musica's widow; Miss Marie Girard (Grace Musica) of Westbury, Long Island, a sister; Mrs. Robert Guex (Louise Musica), wife of the gardener on the estate of Henry Morgenthau, jr., secretary of the treasury, at Fishkill, N. Y.; another sister, and Mrs. Marie Girand (Marie Musica) mother of Coster-Musica, of Westbury.

Annual Ball Is To Be Staged

ANSON, Dec. 17. (AP)—For three nights, Dec. 21, 22 and 23, the cowboys of the open range nearby will check their pistols for the one time in the year when they attend the annual Cowboys' Christmas ball here.

The jingle of spurs, staccato stomp of cowboy boots and the swish of flowing skirts, reminiscent of the west in the 80's will harmonize to the strains of the bass viol in the square dances such as were danced at the first Cowboys Ball in the old Star Hotel here and immortalized in Larry Chittenden's "The Cowboys' Christmas Ball."

Fashions Of Old Days

Men and ladies will be attired in fashions of bygone days, music same as the original and the dances—Virginia reel, heel and toe polka, schottische, and the square—will be danced with the informality of the first ball.

Visitors may re-live Chittenden's emotions when he wrote:

"Don't tell me 'bout cotillions, or Germans. No sir'ee.
That whirl at Anson city just takes the cake with me.
I'm sick of lazy shufflin's of them I've had my fill,
Give me a frontier break-down, backed up by Windy Bill."

The ball has attracted nation-wide attention. A group of thirty Anson people have given the old time dances at Dallas Centennial, the Chicago Folk Festival, and at Washington this year where they were given a picnic by Texas Congressmen and Senators and stopped traffic for a block when they were joined by the Congressmen and Senators in a square dance. Later, with whoops and yells they stampeded crowds with a dance on the Capitol lawn.

The ball of today is authentic old time Western cowboy dancing such as the cowboys enjoyed once a year in early day Anson.

Body Of Angelo Salesman Is Found In His Home Saturday

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 17. (AP)—The body of M. T. Tucker, 35, San Angelo salesman, former school teacher at Christoval and several years ago a candidate for Tom Green county school superintendent, was found dead in his home here this morning. A pistol lay nearby. He had been shot through the heart. Investigating officers said he apparently had been dead since last midnight.

The shooting victim was a son of Dr. M. T. Tucker, Baptist minister at Yantis, near Dallas, and Mrs. Tucker, who survive. The body will be sent to Yantis for burial, friends said.

Mrs. Tucker was visiting her mother, Mrs. F. Jones, at Alba when notified of her husband's death. She and other children had gone to Alba in connection with settlement of the estate of Mr. Jones, who died several months ago.

New Jobs May Open As Result Of Defense Plans

Big Industries Will Be Aided

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—Several hundred thousand jobs may develop from administration efforts to strengthen national defenses, informed military officials estimated today, although President Roosevelt says business "pump priming" is not the purpose of the program.

The principal direct beneficiaries probably will be the steel and other industries concerned with shipbuilding and the aircraft and allied plants.

Preliminary Effects

Here are some preliminary effects, together with estimates from official and semi-official sources as to results of the program later:

1. A $150,000,000 increase in the navy's funds for shipbuilding—which Mr. Roosevelt has forecast—will mean new work for a year for 81,000 persons, on the basis of a labor department estimate.

2. Administration plans for warplane orders to assure top speed operation of aircraft factories involve an early expansion of employment in this industry from some 36,000 to 50,000 or more.

Army Orders Increase

3. This year's war department appropriations already have brought a five-fold increase in army ordnance orders to steel and other manufacturing plants. The chief executive is expected by some to ask congress to accelerate still more production of anti-aircraft guns, semi-automatic rifles and other weapons. In addition, the army is contributing to employment by the construction of new barracks, hangars and other buildings.

4. First steps have been taken toward training an eventual 100,000 civilian pilots and 125,000 aviation mechanics as a defense backlog.

5. The fact that the National Youth administration will direct the training at the Charleston, W. Va., naval ordnance plant and the New Orleans navy yard, and numerous proposals that the Civilian Conservation corps be "militarized," suggest at least some relief funds may go to defense purposes.

Charge Against School Denied

AUSTIN, Dec. 17. (AP) — Charges six students at the Austin state school for the deaf were sent home because they were summoned as witnesses before a house of representatives committee investigating the competence of Superintendent T. M. Scott were emphatically denied by a school supervisor here today.

Bert W. Speed, the supervisor, testified the boys were sent home because they were "ringleaders" in a general disturbance and insubordination which followed the committee's hearing two weeks ago.

Boys Were Contented

"When I went to work at the school in September a year ago," Speed said, "the boys were contented, friendly and happy. Since the first hearing before this committee there have been repeated disturbances and refusals to obey orders.

"This uprising reached a climax after the hearing two weeks ago. The boys said Mr. Lewis (Leo L. Lewis of Dallas, president of the Texas Association of the Deaf which brought the charges against Scott) had told them they need not obey us. They said Lewis told them 'we don't have to do anything you tell us. You can't punish us. Mr. Lewis told us you couldn't'."

Speed testified the boys had been sent home upon his and two other supervisors' recommendations and that since they had left, order had been restored among the students.

Cruelty Is Charged

In addition to incompetency, the association has charged Scott with inflicting cruelty on children who disobey the school's regulations and barring use of the sign language.

Scott, at previous hearings, admitted students were punished for rule infractions to keep the discipline necessary in any school and that teaching the sign language was not approved by education authorities since the deaf must live in a world of hearing people and learn to converse with them by lip reading and development of vocal organs.

Charles O'Neal Is Elected Head School's Bar Association

Charles Ford O'Neall, graduate of Texas Technological college and son of Mrs. C. F. O'Neall of Lubbock, has been elected secretary of the Student Bar association of the George Washington university law school at Washington, D. C.

The association was recently organized. Officers were selected by the dean's council of the law school on basis of scholarship, personality, and other characteristics of leadership. All have maintained higher than B average. O'Neall received a bachelor of arts degree from Tech.

Officers For Dallas Club At Texas Tech Are Selected

Officers for the newly organized Dallas club were named at a meeting recently. Jane Davenport was elected president; Guion Gregg, vice president; Stanley Kerr, secretary; Tom Copeland, treasurer; and Linda Chappell, historian.

The purpose of the club is to stimulate interest in Dallas schools toward Tech. Plans are being made to cooperate with Dallas branch of the Tech Alumni and Ex-Students association.

Regular meetings will be twice monthly.

Stirring Events Of Pershing's Life To Be Considered For A Motion Picture

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 17. (AP)—The man who kept the peace in the Philippines, put the fear of Uncle Sam's army into the banditry of Mexico and led the doughboys against the Hindenburg line settled down today at 78 to enjoy a winter of Arizona sunshine and to consider branching out into an entirely new line.

Gen. John J. Pershing is resting in a cottage on the edge of the desert, where he may finish his autobiography and prepare the stirring events of a long life for presentation as a motion picture.

His autobiography, the work of many years, is nearing completion. It deals with his pre-World war days. His memoirs of the expedition to France were published several years ago.

Proposal Considered

A Hollywood producer has been negotiating for the moving picture rights and General Pershing has seriously considered the proposal, and is said to have indicated a preference for Gary Cooper in the principal role. Last winter's illness postponed the negotiations, but the general resumed work on the autobiography while in France this summer and hopes to complete it this winter.

But first must come a little resting and a physical check-up. Since Pershing left Tucson last April, after mastering a critical heart illness, he has travelled to France and back. He is expected to return to the desert sanatorium shortly after Christmas for an examination by his physician, Dr. Roland Davison.

Newspapers Are Rated Most As Effective Advertising Medium

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP) — The Federal Home Loan bank review said today that "the newspaper is the most effective and favorite advertising medium of progressive savings and loan associations throughout the country."

The review is the official organ of the Federal Home Loan bank board. It said that a poll of 271 selected associations showed that 55 per cent of their advertising dollars went for newspaper space and that 72 per cent rated newspapers the most effective medium.

Monument To Alamo Hero Is To Be Unveiled Sunday

DALLAS, Dec. 17. (AP)—A monument to Col. James B. Bonham, one of the heroes of the Alamo, will be unveiled in the courthouse square at Bonham tomorrow afternoon by Mrs. Edgar Wade of Dallas, a great niece of the hero.

Miss Allie Tennant, Dallas, was the sculptress.

Mrs. Fred Schenkenberg, president of the James Butler Bonham chapter, Daughters of the Republic of Texas, will give a sketch of Bonham's life at the unveiling. Governor James V. Allred and Congressman Sam Rayburn have been invited to speak.
