Christmas Program Dec. 9

Loraine streets will be lined with people Friday afternoon when Santa Claus comes to town in a pre-Christmas visit. The jolly old man is expected to arrive here about the time the school children of Loraine and the rural schools of the area form a parade in his honor. The parade is scheduled to start at 3:30 and will include units from rural schools and Loraine High School.

Loraine merchants are offering small prizes to the best unit in the parade from the rural schools and also a prize to the best unit from the Loraine school.

Immediately following the parade a short Christmas program will be presented. The program will include Christmas Carols and special songs by the school choral club and perhaps a mens quartet.

After the program Santa Claus will pass out to children 14 years of age and down a bag of candy, nuts and an orange as a token of appreciation from Loraine merchants. Children older than 14 are asked to please refrain from asking for a package until all the smaller children are served.

Loraine merchants have their windows decorated for opening of the Christmas season and their gift goods are on display. They will appreciate showing you what they have.

TWO LORAIN BOYS MAKE GOOD ON McMURRY TEAM

Abilene, December 5.—Roy Baird, Loraine back of last year, made an auspicious start toward a brilliant college career last Friday when he took a lateral from Richard Jay, big end, and ambled off 60 yards to score the first touchdown in a stirring, 20 to 6, victory for McMurry's Indians over the Austin college Kangaroos of Sherman.

Baird, who had seen only two minutes service in varsity competition previously this season, also turned in the afternoon's longest run from scrimmage. Taking the ball on a quick opening play over guard, he dashed 19 yards before being hauled down on the Kangaroo 20. That seat was his first ball carrying effort as a college gridiron performer.

Baird saw service in one other McMurry game during the season just closed—he played two minutes of the St. Edward's-McMurry contest but did not get to tote the pigskin.

Al Simmons, also of Loraine, did not put in a minute's service after a knee injury laid him low in mid-October. At the time of the misfortune Simmons had played eight quarters in three games and seemed destined to letter as a McMurry freshman. However, Coach R. M. Midley of the Indians withheld him from the line-up for the remainder of the campaign to prevent a recurrence of his knee ailment. Both Simmons and Baird are due to figure heavily in Redskin plans for 1939.

DR. JOHNSON ELECTED V. P. MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

In a meeting of the Mitchell, Nolan and Fisher county Medical Society in Sweetwater Monday night Dr. Bruce Johnson of Loraine was elected vice president, Dr. Rosebrough of Sweetwater, president, and Dr. T. D. Young of Roscoe, secretary-treasurer.

He Will Be In Loraine Friday at 3:30 P.M.

PAGE AND STEWART BUY COON GROCERY

V. E. Page and Paul Stewart are announcing this week the purchase of the W. J. Coon stock of groceries. The deal was made a week or two ago but was not finally closed until a few days ago.

Mr. Page has been a Loraine citizen about a year, coming here from Nacogdoches. He is operating the Cities Service Station.

Paul has been employed in the store by Mr. Coon for the past two years or more and is familiar with every angle of the grocery business.

Loraine welcomes these two men into the business interests of the town.

R. U. Parker of Wink is ill in a hospital at Wink. He is a brother to Jeff Parker of Loraine. Jeff took his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Parker, to Wink Monday where they will stay for a while. R. U.'s condition was slightly improved.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE TAKES FOOTBALLS PLACE

Basketball practice at the high school is taking the place of football as basketballers reported to Coach Shults recently for tryouts. The team practiced with Colorado last Thursday night and the game was fought out on even terms. It will not count in the penance race which will start after the holidays.

The Loraine team is handicapped by not having a gymnasium in which to play but coach says he expects to turn out a fair team.

Boys reporting for basketball include Doyle Mathers, Elton Mathers, Elden Adrian, Kenneth Hoover, Ray Sanford, Wayland Bennett, Edgar McCollum, Cecil Mearse, Theron Henderson and H. B. Allbright.

Rev. M. H. Godfrey, pastor of the Baptist Church, is expected to return from Marlin this week.

OPENING NEW GROCERY STORE IN LORAIN

Plez Beaty and his brother-in-law A. L. Smith are preparing to open a new grocery store in Loraine this week. They have leased the Phillips building formerly occupied by the G. K. Baker Cafe in which the store will be located.

Plez is a Loraine boy and has been employed in the Meadows Grocery for some time. Mr. Smith came to Loraine a few weeks ago from DeLeon where he farmed and operated a small store for several years. Both are well acquainted with the business.

Loraine welcomes them and their new store. Read their ad in this paper this week.

Quite a number of Loraine people, with Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Shewbert, attended a meeting of pastors and laymen of the Methodist Church in Sweetwater Wednesday.

AAA Referendum Saturday Dec. 10

College Station, Texas, Dec. 5.—The promise of AAA workers that farmers would know details of the 1939 farm program prior to December 10, referendum date on cotton marketing quotas, continues to hold good.

Because legislative delays threw the program late for 1938, farmers last year were obliged to vote on cotton quotas in "pig-in-the-poke" fashion, without knowing how many acres they would be allowed to plant for compliance with marketing phases of the cotton program.

George Slaughter, Texas Agricultural Conservation Association chairman, said farmers in some 72 counties already have received individual cotton acreage allotments as of the first of this week, and that the rest are due before the polling date.

Slaughter and the members of the state committee here recently urged a large turn-out for the referendum, regardless of what stand any particular producer might take.

Everyone who produced cotton in 1938 is eligible to vote, he said. As in the past, balloting places will be provided in centrally located places designated by the county committees.

METHODIST CHURCH J. E. Shewbert, pastor

We are glad of the opportunity of using the press each week to carry a brief writeup of our church news for our members and friends. Bro. King has told us to feel welcome in using space for this and we thank him very much.

This is our first writeup for our church and you may expect a similar one each week from your pastor except when he may be away. In this way we hope to contact our membership and friends each week and keep them informed as to our program of work and coming events of interest. We hope those of our members who take the paper will look for these short articles each week and read them.

First, let us state we are glad we are here. We have been asked several times if we like Loraine and Mrs. Shewbert and I can truthfully say "yes indeed, we do." The people have given us a splendid reception and opened their hearts and their homes to us. Last Wednesday night after prayer meeting we were greeted with an old fashion pounding by our members which we certainly did appreciate. It just revealed more of that fine Christian hospitality which we have met with here.

The two Sundays we have been here we have been greeted by large congregations which we appreciate very much. A large number of Baptist friends have been in each service due to the absence of their pastor who has been ill. We were glad to have them and members of other churches also. We want you to always feel welcome in our midst. We trust Bro. Godfrey will soon be feeling much better and can be back to carry on his work. We love to work with God's fellow workmen in building the Kingdom of God.

We have had good attendance on our Sunday School the past two Sundays but there are more of our members who will be back with us in the near future we are sure. Plan to come out Sunday for all services.

A committee is working with the pastor on Christmas plans. There will be special music and a pageant on Christmas night. We hope to bring out the Christmas message more effectively by everyone.

Everyone is starting the new year off with a fine attitude of cooperation and enthusiasm. We need the help of each member of our church in carrying forward the work of the Lord and feel sure each one can be counted upon. We will see you Sunday, come to our services.

Prayer meeting each Wednesday evening at 7:00 P. M.
S. S. at 9:45 A. M.; Preaching at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M.
Leagues meet at 6:00 P. M.

L. Hester $1; J. C. Hall $1; K. L. Taylor $1; L. Schwimmer $1.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Patients receiving medical and surgical attention at the Johnson Hospital during the week included the following:

Marland Gibson received treatment for a swollen arm after a mule kicked him, but an X-ray showed no fracture.

Carlos Marshall had his absoids removed last Friday.

Mrs. O. A. Moore has been on the sick list for the past several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Finley are the proud parents of a boy when they named Lester Landis.

Mrs. Henry Eden had her tonsils removed Tuesday.

Charles Page, small son of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Page, had an attack of appendicitis a few days ago but is improved now.

Mrs. Joe Bryant has been on the sick list this week.

JUNIOR PLAY

"When a Woman Decides" a three act play, will be presented Friday night, December 9, at 7:15 in the high school auditorium. The play is sponsored by the junior class and they guarantee about two hours of good entertainment. Special numbers will be presented between acts. Park Briant and his newly organized Mexican Orchestra will furnish music. You'll be glad you went.

FARMERS WILL VOTE SATURDAY ON AAA SETUP

Farmers of this community will join others of the country Saturday in voting YES or NO on the program curtailing production of cotton and other crops. Two thirds of the farmers voting must vote yes for the program to be effective in 1939.

Maps Trade Drive

Job-making plans for 1939 were outlined by leading industrialists in New York Wednesday December 7, when the National Association of Manufacturers opened its annual convention. Charles Hook of Middletown, Ohio, president of the association, was among the chief speakers.

Landon Among U. S. Delegates to Lima Parley

Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, 1936 Republican presidential nominee who has pledged support of President Roosevelt's foreign policy, is among 12 delegates attending the eighth Pan-American conference opening Friday at Lima, Peru. Other representatives pictured here are (upper row) R. Henry Norweb, American minister to the Dominican republic; Secretary of State Cordell Hull; (lower row) Laurence A. Steinhart, ambassador to Peru, and Leo S. Rowe, executive director of the Pan-American society. Defense of the Western hemisphere against foreign invasion is the conference's most important business.

Will Daladier Turn Dictator? Strike Defeat Arouses Fears

By Joseph W. La Bine

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

Foreign

French labor won a 40-hour week in 1936 under Premier Leon Blum's Socialist administration. One of Socialist Blum's henchmen then was Edouard Daladier, who rose from war minister to become a premier himself. But Premier Daladier, though labeled a Radical Socialist, has been growing cooler towards labor's left-wing Popular Front ever since Adolf Hitler became a leading force in European affairs. Reason: Labor and the Popular Front are communistic and Adolf Hitler hates Communists.

Moreover, labor's 40-hour week has needed drastic modification since the September Sudeten crisis. Though anxious to appease the

LEON JOUHAUX
M. Daladier remembered M. Briand.

Reich, Daladier also realizes France must speed armament production to cope with the menace across the Rhine. When French labor first began protesting against increased hours, it became apparent that the ultimate showdown would have tremendous significance. The showdown has now arrived, but the full significance is still to appear.

Under Leon Jouhaux, French composite of America's John Lewis and William Green, 5,000,000 members of the potent General Labor confederation announced a one-day strike. Its purpose: to protest against drastic decree laws which Premier Daladier and Finance Minister Paul Reynaud believe necessary to stave off financial chaos. One protested decree, naturally, was that increasing work hours to 44 a week.

Not even Labor Leader Jouhaux denied the strike was purely political, being simply a Popular Front attempt to test the power of Premier Daladier, who has steadfastly refused to assemble parliament for a showdown on his decree laws. But as the strike hour neared, the premier remembered what another smart Frenchman, Aristide Briand, did under similar circumstances in 1910. To railroad workers and others employed in essential utilities he sent conscription orders. Though they would strike as private citizens, they could not ignore a call to the colors without courting drastic punishment. In the end, M. Jouhaux' one-day strike was a failure.

Immediate significance: a victory for Premier Daladier; failure for drastic French social changes such as the 40-hour week; probable success of the cabinet's daring recovery plan; defeat of the Popular Front; doom for Communism in western Europe.

Long range significance: the possibility that Premier Daladier, swollen with confidence, may emerge a semi-Fascist dictator over his jittery nation; the certainty that he will continue his policy of appeasing Herr Hitler.

Treasury

Mid-December is a regular U. S. quarterly financing date, in recent years a favorite season for predicting (1) how much the national debt will rise during the current fiscal year, and (2) whether federal expenditures can be expected to rise or fall during the next few months. This year, as Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. prepares a $1,642,000,000 financing deal, observers may safely predict that the national debt will rise from its current mark of $38,590,000,000, to $40,000,000,000 before the fiscal year ends next June 30. But they can also detect a downward trend in U. S. expenditures, temporarily at least.

Although the government has spent $2 for every $1 collected since last July 1, although the fiscal year thus far shows expenditures ($3,596,157,000) slightly over the comparable period last year and receipts ($2,204,520,000) slightly under last year's, Mr. Morgenthau says he has "ample cash" on hand without any new borrowing at the present time.

During the current month, however, he is borrowing $700,000,000 in "new money" and refinancing $941,613,000 in notes maturing next March 15.

But the outlook still remains optimistic. Last summer the President and Mr. Morgenthau estimated the treasury would need $2,800,000,000 in new money before the fiscal year ended. December's $700,000,000, plus $800,000,000 borrowed last September, brings the total thus far to only $1,500,000,000. With business on the upgrade, with relief costs expected to drop as a result, and with federal receipts expected to begin increasing immediately, there is every prospect that part of the remaining $1,300,000,000 included in last summer's estimate will not be needed.

Mr. Morgenthau has made no such prediction, however. His explanation of current financing activities is this: "We don't have to raise money now, and we could get by until March with what we have. But we know what we will need between now and July 1. A reasonable way to do it would be not to do it all at one time, so we will do some of it now."

International

French-British fears to the contrary, Europe's next war is not apt to involve western democracies versus Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini. When world-wide military threats are sifted down they appear more certain to center around Germany's drive to the southeast in which the clash will involve Nazi-Fascism versus Communism. This theory even takes into consideration the long-awaited Russ-Jap war, which observers do not believe immediately serious. Japan is shattered by her Chinese conquest and Russia dares not neglect her European frontier to throw military strength against Nippon.

Today, as Reichsfuehrer Hitler transfers Austria and Czechoslovakia from his list of ambitions to his life of achievements, he finds the word Ukraine (see map) awaiting next attention. As self-proclaimed ruler of Germans everywhere, as the covetous statesman whose heart bleeds for raw materials going unused, he can well smack his lips over this choice bit of Russian property. His alleged justification:

Racial Interest. In the Ukraine and along the Volga live 1,000,000 Germans whose Russian background dates back to 1763 when Catherine II invited colonization in the uncultivated steppes. In 1803 came a similar invitation from Alexander I. Clannish Germans developed a thousand "colonies," became wealthy and preserved their racial culture. When Russia's government collapsed during the World War, Germany made a separate peace with the Ukraine and dominated the land until November, 1918.

EUROPE'S UKRAINE DISTRICT
Is it next on Hitler's list?

Resource Interest. In the Ukraine is enough anthracite to run German industry indefinitely, plus forests, wheat lands, Crimean oil, corn, cattle and poultry. Also there is land, which Adolf Hitler would like for colonization purposes because the Reich is now crowded.

Though he bluffed his way to victorious peace with France over the Ruhr basin and with Czechoslovakia over Sudetenland, Hitler cannot expect to bluff Russia out of the Ukraine. Yet he plans to follow this course so far as possible, building up political and economic unity with the rest of southwest Europe in preparation for the day of conquest. Already he has safeguarded his military, economic and propaganda path to the southeast by refusing to give Hungary and Poland a common border at the expense of his new vassal state, Czechoslovakia. More important still is his new understanding with Rumania, which borders on the Ukraine and offers a convenient stepping-off place.

Weighed against these advantages are Poland's new hostility over the Czech border dispute, and the question mark that is named Russia. Will Moscow fight to retain the Ukraine, or will Russia and Germany reach a "sphere of influence" agreement whereby Berlin is left free to exploit the Ukraine in return for Russian aggression privileges in the Finland area?

David, the Shepherd

By Molly Chittick

"YOU can't go out to tend the sheep tonight, Judah," David heard the choke in his mother's voice. "The lion's claws have wounded you sore. I will find someone to send out with them."

"He is hot, so hot," she whispered to David after his father had fallen into a troubled sleep. "It will make him sick unto death if he goes out on the plain."

"Fear not, mother. I will go. Now that I am fourteen, I can prove myself a man. I will go, like my great forefather, David the king."

Rebecca bade him good-by tenderly. "Had I a son older, I should send him. But you are all I have. Take care. The lion may return." So David drove his father's flock out onto the plain where the shepherds watched their flocks by night. The cool breeze from off the mountains made him draw his cloak close about him. He kept his staff in his hand, even as he sat on the hard ground watching his flock.

Suddenly over the hill before him he saw a group of men approaching.

Suddenly over the hill before him he saw a group of men approaching. That was a surprising thing, to see men wandering about at night. But there was nothing alarming in their action. They seemed filled with excitement and joy.

Now one of them called: "Who is this, guarding his sheep here? Oh, is it you, David, son of Judah? Come with us. We have seen your star, brighter than any star of the morning. It is moving, and we are following it. Come with us."

David was on his feet, listening with boyish excitement to their tale of the words they had heard from the heavens, as an angelic host praised Jehovah. His heart burned within him, and he was eager to accompany the band of shepherds. Then he heard one of the young lambs: "Ma-a-a-a." The answering bleat came from a distance. The mother had wandered off in search of tender morsels. David heard again his mother's warning and replied:

"I have come to guard my father's flock. I cannot go with you." "We left our sheep, David. This is the king we are about to see. We must go. You are a fool to stay here with these few sheep, when the king is to be seen."

"I came here to tend this flock. It is not mine, but it is my task," was his only reply.

When they saw that he would not accompany them, they made haste.

At first his excitement over the tale the shepherds had told him kept him awake. But gradually his eyes grew heavy. He was almost asleep when he heard the "Ma-a-a-a," of a young lamb again. He jumped to his feet, conscious that he had forgotten to hunt up that wandering mother. With staff in hand, and his sling ready to use, he listened intently for a moment. Then he saw the sheep, standing some distance from the others, its head raised listening to something he could not hear. But David knew what there was to be found there. With the starlight shining full upon it, crouched a lion ready to spring.

Swift as the David of old, the lad swung his sling, and the stone went straight into the head of the crouching animal.

"I am glad, my son, that you were so faithful," his mother praised him in the morning. "Your father was beside himself, wild with his illness, and had I not been able to tell him you were with the flocks he would have gone out, sick as he was. And now you have slain a lion. Your fame will go before you."

"But mother, I did not see the king," and David's voice trembled. "Do you not think the king would have scorned a lad who would desert his post of duty from idle curiosity? Nay, my son, you have done your task faithfully and well, and proved yourself a man."

Bethlehem Once Unimportant
The city of Bethlehem, birthplace of Jesus Christ, was considered least important among ancient Palestine towns before the Nativity. But tradition has it that the birthplace of Jesus was desecrated by a pagan temple of Adonis before the Emperor Constantine built the Basilica of the Nativity in A. D. 330. The Basilica is one of the oldest churches in Christendom and has a history 1,600 years old. The original building is still standing but it has been altered by additions.

New Dresses for Holidays

THESE two designs bring you brand new fashions for mid-season dresses you'll thoroughly enjoy wearing to all the luncheons and festive afternoons of the holidays. They're so easy and simple to do that you can finish them in plenty of time. Choose truly lovely materials, in colors that make you happy and flatter your eyes—you can be extravagant about the fabrics, when you save by making your own with these patterns (detailed sew chart included with each).

Drape-As-You-Please Dress.

This is not only new—it's the very newest, a real sensation, and so easy to make! It is made with a straight back and bias cut front that you can wear with the fullness at the sides, fullness all round, like a dirndl, or fullness concentrated in front, as the picture shows it. Then fasten the belt around your middle, creating a soft, bloused line above! The shirred shoulders and square

Favorite Recipe of the Week

MAPLE SYRUP CAKE

1 cup sugar	1 tsp. soda
1/2 cup melted shortening	1/2 tsp. salt
2 eggs	1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 cup maple syrup	2 1/2 cups flour
2 tbs cold coffee	1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup buttermilk

Beat the sugar and shortening, add beaten eggs, maple syrup, and coffee and beat until smooth. Sift flour, salt, cinnamon, and baking powder together, add alternately with the buttermilk in which the soda has been dissolved. Add vanilla. Bake in three eight-inch layer cake tins. Oven 350-375 degrees. Put together with the following icing:

Three cups light brown sugar and 1 cup water. Boil to the soft ball stage. Cool slightly and add 1 teaspoon vanilla and enough cream to spread. Beat until ready to spread. This caramel icing never curdles. If icing hardens before spreading, add more cream.

neckline are just as flattering and smart as they can be! For this, choose silk crepe, velvet or thin wool.

Girdle-and-Panel-in-One Dress.

Of course that midriff section isn't really a girdle—it just looks like one, and the way it is extended into the front skirt panel simply makes the pounds melt from your appearance. This is a beautifully slenderizing dress, and so elegant-looking, designed with such good taste! It fits beautifully. Gathers above the middle section and below the shoulder give just the right amount of fullness to the bodice front. You'll feel so grand, and look so slim, if you make this of velvet, wool broadcloth, satin or silk crepe.

The Patterns.

HOW TO RELIEVE COLDS

Simply Follow These Easy Directions To Ease the Pain and Discomfort and Sore Throat Accompanying Colds

1. To ease pain and discomfort and reduce fever take 2 Bayer Tablets—drink a glass of water. Repeat in 2 hours.

2. If throat is raw from cold, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Tablets in 1/2 glass of water... gargle.

THE SIMPLE WAY pictured above often brings amazing relief from discomfort and sore throat accompanying colds. Try it. Then—see your doctor. He probably will tell you to continue with the Bayer Aspirin because it acts so fast to relieve discomforts of a cold, and to reduce fever.

This simple way, backed by scientific authority, has largely supplanted the use of strong medicines in easing cold symptoms. Perhaps the easiest, most effective way yet discovered. But make sure you get genuine BAYER Aspirin.

"It doesn't follow, then," Rex persisted, "that the children of such a patient would be in danger of inheriting insanity?"

"It certainly doesn't. That brain disturbance is a temporary condition," replied Dr. Crosby. "Nothing retroactive. The children of such a patient should be in no more danger of inheriting their mother's insanity than you are or I am. Such cases of insanity," he developed, warning a bit to the theme, "are matters of internal infection—of poisoned gland conditions. You wouldn't understand them. We don't understand them any too well ourselves. But we do know that particular type of insanity isn't hereditary. And the patient often makes a full recovery from it."

The doctor rose.

"Helen, may I use your telephone?"

Hale grinned apologetically. He had made himself something of a nuisance.

"Thanks most awfully." He got up also. "Now for the gaieties of life," he sighed.

Rex made his farewells, and started back to the Camp through the woods. It was almost six o'clock. Approaching a deep clump of trees through which the narrowing path ran he stopped short for a moment at the sound of voices. His feet had made no noise on the sandy soil. Through an opening he saw an impressive little picture twenty feet away. It was composed of an empty basket, a tiny new grave, a red-eyed Jane and a small, alert man, thin-faced and furtive-eyed. The man was smoothing fresh earth above the grave, whistling under his breath as he did so. His cheerful notes were in sharp contrast to the bereaved expression of Jane's face and the nature of the digger's occupation.

"Beat it now," Jane said ungraciously. "I don't want you hangin' around here."

"What's the idee?" the man asked reproachfully. "Ain't I come along just in time to dig this here grave? Ain't I been mother's little helper? All right. Gimme a break. I gotta finish the business this funeral delayed."

Jane straightened from her tragic droop. Her manner was that of one ready and willing to go into action.

"Jim Haines," she broke out, "you ain't goin' to do no business here. How many times have I told you that?"

The man stamped the fresh earth into place about the grave, and straightened slowly. He handed Jane the shovel he had been wielding and showed her a row of discolored teeth.

"Is that so?" he asked cheerfully. "Now I'll talk. I don't leave these woods till I see one of them old dames. Get me?"

Hale had recognized the fellow. It was the unpleasant stranger he had seen in the moonlight the night of his arrival. He had been having some sort of rendezvous then with Miss Hosanna. What association could he have with the "old dames"? Hale pricked up his ears and listened shamelessly.

The man went on.

"Get this, too, Baby. The dame I'm out for is the one from N' York. I do wanta see the fat dame you work for. She's a tight-wad, she is. All she give me las' time was three dollars. Three dollars! Said it was all she had!" He spat disgustfully. "The other dame's got the right idee. She coughs up a five spot."

"Jim Haines," Jane said firmly. "You know what I'm goin' to do to you? I'm goin' to put you in the hands of the po-lice."

"Says you," Haines was still good-humored.

"I tell you I am. I ain't goin' to have you sellin' that filthy stuff here. If Mrs. Spencer Forbes wants it, let her go in town and get it like she used to. I ain't goin' to have Miss Hosanna gettin' into no trouble for her, even if Mrs. Spencer Forbes is a sick woman, like she says she is."

He yawned. "Hop it, Baby. I bet that Forbes dame is thinkin' 'bout me this minute. You're keepin' her waitin'."

"I'll hop it," Jane added, incisively. "I don't care if you are my husband. I'm tellin' the police."

"Yeah? An' what's goin' to happen to our angel child when you do that, my girl? She'll like visitin' Daddy at Sing Sing, she will. She'll like leavin' that boardin' school she's in. Say—" suddenly the man, good-humored up till now, became venomous. "If I hear any more talk about the po-lice I'll shut that trap of yours for good," he snarled. "Now be on your way."

"Wait a minute, Haines." Hale stepped from behind the trees and faced the startled couple. "Better run home, Jane," he advised. "I've a few private words for your husband's ear."

Haines was squirming, looking around him like a cornered rat.

"Shut up, Haines. I'm doing the talking. One minute, Jane. I've a question to ask you. How much dope has this man been supplying to Halcyon Camp?"

"Only a little, sir. Just a little bit for Mrs. Spencer Forbes. It wasn't nothin', really. Only I hate to have him sellin' it to anyone—"

"Listen, Big Boy, I ain't got 'nuff outa that dame to buy me a pack of cig'ettes," Haines volunteered shrilly. "I wouldn't waste no time on her—only I got other customers right near here."

"Shut up. You say Mrs. Spencer Forbes doesn't take much, Jane. How much does she take? How often does she get it? I want the truth."

"Only 'bout twice a month, Mr. Hale. Honest. And only a couple powders then. I heard her tell Miss Hosanna she'd never be a addict. She says she knows too well what it means. She takes it as a spree-like—once in a while. You know, sir. The way men gets drunk."

"She's all right," Haines contributed eagerly. "She's a baby at it!"

"That's why we're not going to let her go on. Now, Haines, here's sailed him, he was not alarmed nor suspicious. Several glasses of iced tea and one long glass of ice-water, drunk in quick succession on an extremely hot day, might upset the most accommodating stomach. Nevertheless the paroxysms were horribly severe and growing more so. The world turned black. He had just time to reach for a flask of brandy on the shelf above his wash-bowl before he felt himself falling. He went down with a crash and heard that, too. Then, in some black and distant world he was fumbling with a flask, trying to get the cap off it, trying to raise it to his mouth. He got a little of the brandy. It didn't help much. He lost it almost immediately, in another rending paroxysm of nausea.

His mining experiences in remote places had taught him something of first aid. By the time the dinner gong sounded he was able to summon Banks and tell him almost naturally that he was a bit under the weather and would not appear the usual house group increased by Mrs. Nash. She looked a trifle flamboyant but very charming in a flame-hued evening gown. She greeted him with a handclasp and an anxious glance.

"A touch of sun," he quoted lightly, and she nodded. "You see, I've come from cool resorts like Spain. I will like a flower under New York's tropical climate."

"The next time you wilt," Mrs. Nash invited in an undertone, "come over to my Camp and do it. I'll feel easier about you, if you will promise that."

He did not promise and she didn't press the point. Instead she abetted him in a program that began with old-fashioned games and ended in dancing. He directed but did not take part in these diversions. The old-fashioned games made a hit, as they had done before.

Dancing followed, but proved less popular. No one seemed to care to dance with anyone else. Admitting this, there was no reason why the dancing should continue. It did,

"You ain't goin' to do no business here."

my last word to you. If I ever see you around this camp again, or talking to any of the people in it, I'll give your name to the police and they'll give Jane the third degree and get your address. We won't have any more dope peddling in this part of Long Island. Have I made myself clear?"

"What right—" Haines broke into a whine. "Say, I'll keep off your place all right. But I tell ye I got other customers near here."

"If you like we'll walk over to the police station now, I'll show you there what right I have," Hale said cheerfully. "Want to come?"

Haines gave him a black look.

"Another thing," Hale went on. "Don't send anyone else in your place. I'll be on the watch. The next man that shows up with dope will go straight to the station house. The day after that we'll have you there, too. I needn't remind you, Haines, that the police don't like dope peddlers. They don't like them at all. Now clear out."

Haines looked at him a moment, his flat head lowered. Then he turned and disappeared among the trees. A little later Hale heard the rattle of his car starting on its return journey through the woods.

CHAPTER VI

Hale deliberately avoided the members of the house-party when he got back to the Camp. He heard their voices in the living-room as he entered the hall. They were having tea and cocktails; but he went up to his room. As he opened the door he cast an apprehensive glance around him. There were no notes or dead animals in sight.

Relieved, he crossed the room to the closet, changed his coat for a thin blazer and his shoes for slippers, and started back toward the davenport between the windows. His idea was to stretch out there, relax, and make some plans for the evening. On the way he stopped and poured out a glass of ice-water from the thermos bottle that always stood on the table at the head of his bed. It was a day that called for cold drinks and Mrs. Nash's iced tea, excellent though it had been, had not wholly quenched his thirst. He drank the water almost at a gulp, went on to the davenport and stretched himself out on it at full length. The moment of comfort he experienced as he did so was the last he enjoyed for several hours.

Almost immediately he was in the bathroom, actively and most violently ill. At first, even during the paroxysms of acute nausea that as-at the table. He sent his apologies to Miss Hosanna, and added that later in the evening he would come down.

He locked the door to discourage callers. An hour later he found an empty bottle in the bathroom, sterilized it, and took it to the carafe for filling. It was possible, of course, that in New York he had eaten something injurious; but if so it was not probable that it would have waited this long to inconvenience him. He inverted the carafe over the bottle and stared. Only a few drops came forth. The carafe, which heretofore had always held several glasses of water, today had exactly one—just enough to fill the glass that stood beside it. He had filled that glass and drunk its contents. The few drops remaining in the bottom were hardly enough, of course, for a satisfactory analysis. Nevertheless, he added them to the drops from the carafe, corked the bottle securely, and hid it in his traveling case. His mental processes were clearing. No one had meant to poison him; but someone had desired to make him desperately sick and had certainly succeeded in doing so.

A little after nine o'clock he went down to the living-room. He found however, on the tacit understanding that a change might mean something worse. When, at Mrs. Nash's suggestion, the affair became an old-fashioned "barn dance," Hale led forth Miss Hosanna and took her triumphantly through a quadrille. He was feeling more like himself, but what he really wanted was his bed.

It was Miss Hosanna who gave him his accolade that night. She had been delighted by the interest Mrs. Spencer Forbes had shown during the evening. Again and again he had observed her sitting quietly in her pet chair, watching her friend with the rapt expression she usually wore when that friend talked. It was increasingly clear that anything which pleased Mrs. Spencer Forbes enchanted Miss Hosanna. When the group parted on the upper landing Miss Hosanna looked at Hale with real emotion in her pale eyes.

"Are you sure you feel quite well again?" she asked anxiously.

"Perfectly sure, Miss Hosanna. I'm all right now."

"You have brightened us up so much," she said. She added unexpectedly, "I begin to wonder how we got along without you."

Bluegill Hooked on Artificial Fly Found as Sporty as the Black Bass

When the average fisherman thinks of game fish he usually associates the term with stream trout or black bass. The so-called pan fishes of our inland waters, bluegills, sunfishes, perch, crappies and rock bass, are essentially food fishes to him, possessing very little fighting spirit or gameness, writes Albert Stoll Jr., in the Detroit News.

Still, many have watched families fishing from docks and out of flat-bottomed rowboats and noticed that all thoroughly enjoyed hauling in wriggling perch and side-sailing bluegills. They appeared to find them sporty, especially the children, and best of all a toothsome, sweet fish for dinner.

Many of us can find sporty qualities in most any species of fish, while others must either play a large brook trout on a dry fly or hook into a record tuna or sailfish to get a thrill. But once for once a one-pound bluegill hooked on an artificial fly and light fly rod is just as sporty as a six-pound small-mouthed black bass on the end of the line. No trout fly fisherman ever experienced more excitement when he hooked into an oversized rainbow or brown than the pan fish angler when he fights a big bluegill on light tackle.

This type of fishing is becoming popular. There was a time when the bluegill fisherman used nothing but crickets, grasshoppers and worms as bait, fishing in deep water, but today he flicks a fly in the shallows as he would for bass and generally returns to shore with a fine string.

The Pony Express Stations

At first the Pony Express stations were 25 miles apart. Each rider covered three stations, or 75 miles daily. Later intermediate points were established. The route of the rider was sometimes doubled, or even tripled, owing to unforeseen circumstances. In changing horses, saddles were not changed. The stationkeeper was required to have a pony ready, bridled and saddled, one-half hour before the express was due. Only two minutes was allowed for the change. But the ponies of the western express were finally defeated by the machine age.

Lesson for December 11

THE SIN OF COVETOUSNESS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:17; Luke 12:15:1. TIMOTHY 6:10. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not covet.—Exodus 20:17.

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

"The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart" (Heb. 4:12). These are the words that came to the writer's mind as he read the Scripture portions assigned for this lesson. He would find have set aside his own comments and used this column to print the words from the Bible. If any reader of these lines purposes to read just these efforts to expound the truth, and not to read the Bible itself, let me plead with you to stop here and turn to God's Word. Let its powerful truth grip your soul and change your life.

It seems peculiarly appropriate that this lesson on covetousness should come right in the midst of our preparations for Christmas, for it directs our attention away from things to God, from outward preparation to the preparation of the heart, from greedy desire to true liberality of heart. Christmas may be literally "made over" for all of us if we receive its truth.

I. A Command (Exod. 20:17).

"Thou shalt not covet."

This last commandment carries us "beyond the domain of civil magistracy into that intellectual realm of motive, desire, and thought, where God alone is Lord and Judge" (Dykes). It deals with the heart, out of which are all the issues of life. It reaches to the root of so much that is wicked and destructive in the world—the covetousness of man. The love of money makes men lie, steal, kill, cheat; in fact, "the whole realm of human interrelations is disorganized and broken up by the dishonoring of the tenth commandment" (Morgan).

II. A Warning (Luke 12:13-21).

"Beware of covetousness."

The teaching of this passage is so directly opposite to all ideas regarding such matters accepted by the world at large, that it may be a total surprise to some readers and attendants at Bible school.

The yardstick of success in the world—for an individual, and organization, or a nation; yes, even for many a church—is the possession of wealth, or property, or other "things." Write it then in large letters on the hearts and minds of our boys and girls, "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth" (v. 15).

The one who was known to his friends (and to himself) as "a rich man" (v. 16), but whom God knew as a "fool" (v. 20), had more than he could use for himself. He had to build new and bigger barns, and could not see the "barns" that were already prepared, for, as Ambrose says, "Thou hast barns—the bosoms of the needy, the houses of widows, the mouths of orphans and infants." He was a fool who loved money for himself. One wonders what he had to say for himself when that very night he was called into the presence of God to give an account of his stewardship (v. 20). If you are similarly situated and have the same attitude, what will you say in that day?

An important point which we must note is that Jesus expressly repudiated the connecting of His name with the so-called "social gospel" in His reply (v. 14) to the question of the covetous fellow who regarded his inheritance as of more importance than brotherly love. Those who are ignoring the gospel of redemption and claiming Jesus as a social reformer or the "judge and divider" of some new economic solution for the world's ills, need to read and ponder this verse. Every Christian is interested deeply in social problems, but knows that the first concern of Christ and His followers is the souls of men.

III. A Way of Victory (I Tim. 6:6-10).

Godliness with contentment."

As a minister of the gospel the writer would first remind himself that this was written by Paul to the preacher Timothy. Brethren in the ministry, let us not fall into the temptation and snare that comes with the love of money.

In this dizzy age when many are so intent on making money that they have no time for home and children, church and fellowship; when men neglect their responsibilities and duties as citizens to get gain; when any dirty business is all right if it produces a profit; when "for gold men betray their country, their friends, their God, their immortal souls" (Farrar)—yes, in this day let us remind men that "we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain that we can carry nothing out." Let us teach and exemplify in our lives the fact that the only real and worth while gain in life is "godliness with contentment."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Recasting The Farm

By T. C. Richardson, Secretary Texas Breeder-Feeder Association

Lost motion is costly whether it is in the factory or on the farm. There are times when an hour means more than a day at some other time. Good farm management, like good factory management, implies getting the greatest results from the time and energy expended. This in-turn calls for the elimination of unnecessary motions. It all adds up to the mathematical axiom that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points and arranging the set-up to use all the practical "short cuts."

Factory managers employ the best engineering talent to lay out the plant for efficient operation and then follow each operation with a keen eye to learn how to perform it with the fewest possible motions. The workman, by reducing the essential motions to the minimum, not only gets more work done, but is less fatigued at the end of the day. All of us have known people who always seemed to be in a hurry and yet got less work done than others who appear to go about the job in a leisurely manner. The difference is simply that the hurried man is usually making a lot of ineffective motions, wasting both physical and nervous energy, while the other sort of worker makes every motion count toward getting the job done.

Women, by recognizing their kitchens, have progressed more rapidly in the saving of steps and time than men have done in the barnyard and on the farm.
The home, and especially the kitchen, is as much a part of the productive farm equipment as the plow land and the barnyard, so perhaps that is the best place to start in stream-lining the farm for more efficient operation. When it has running water, convenient fuel, and its stove, sink, work-tables, etc. are compactly arranged the housewife not only gets her work done more quickly, but does not wear herself out in the process.

This is a good season of the year to study the farm and reshape its arrangements as the women have done and are doing in their kitchens. Next summer, when the seasonal work is crowding, when every hour counts, is too late to do anything about sagging gates, roundabout routes to the field, water where the livestock can serve themselves, pastures which cannot be grazed for lack of fence and water, or somebody's time to drive the cows back and forth.

The ideal situation of course would be to start with the bare land and lay out the home and farm plant for convenience and economy of time as a modern factory is laid out. Most farms trace back to pioneer conditions, however, and the more or less haphazard arrangement of their improvements which cannot be readily or economically corrected over night. This should not and need not prevent a gradual reconstruction and rearrangement for time and labor saving.

Perhaps the most time-consuming and thankless chore on the farm is drawing water for household, poultry and livestock. A hand pump is a long step forward, but a windmill or power pump, with reservoir and watering troughs always accessible, will soon repay their cost by saving both energy and time, besides paying off in better milk production, better health and growth in all animals and fowls on the farm. There is no better place to begin reorganizing the farm plant than with an adequate and efficient water supply system.

Our home economies leaders have shown that a very small plot of garden well watered can supply a large part of the family food and improve its health at the same time. Here again the water supply pays off, sometimes when drouth destroys a garden which depends upon providence.

WINTER GREENS ARE BENEFICIAL TO PEOPLE

College Station, Texas, Dec. 5.
—Texas farm and ranch families over a large part of the state can grow winter greens and prepare them for fullest benefit and enjoyment by following the simple directions contained in a leaflet, C-128 "Starring Winter Greens" recently placed in the hands of county agricultural and home demonstration agents.

The leaflet is one of a series issued by the Texas A. and M.
College Extension Service dealing with the production, preservation, and use of common vegetables.

Winter greens, including such quick maturing vegetables as mustard, tender greens, rape, and kale, the slower growing spinach, turnips, swiss chard, romain, lettuce, and endive, and the slow maturing cabbage, collards, cauliflower, and broccoli, may be grown in the open in many cases or in frame gardens in the more wintry sections.

Extension agents have up-to-the-minute information on the construction and use of frame gardens.

Included in the leaflet are directions for cooking greens and a number of recipes for salads and speigil sauces.

One little sip and the ordinary cough is soon a few doses and that tough old cough is "Gone, by Gosh!" It's really amazing to watch how quickly hard dis-easing coughs respond to Buckley's. Right away that tightness begins to loosen up—the bronchial passages clear—you're on your toes again and breathing easier.
Buckley's—by far the largest selling cough medicine in all cold countries—costs but little at drug stores everywhere.

L. H. S. Band News

The band had night rehearsal on Tuesday and Thursday. We are trying to learn "Hosts of Freedom."

The band received an invitation from Colorado Chamber of Commerce to march in the Santa Claus parade Wednesday, Dec. 7. We have accepted, and have been marching every day in preparation for it.

We also plan to march in a parade in Loraine Friday.

Liberi Romi

The Latin Club was organized last week. It is called Liberi Romae. The officers elected were: Marion Rhodes, president; J. W. King, Jr., vice president; Travis Lucas, secretary; Melvin Maurice King, reporter; Truett Butler, sergeant at arms. The club will meet once a month.

Jokes

The editor of The Mitchell County News received the following letter and turned it over to the joke editor. He decided to use it as the one and only joke.

Abilene, Texas
 December 3, 1938

Dear Santa Claus:
 We have been very, very good little boys and girls down here while we have been away from ma and pa. We would like a few small things for Christmas as follows: Ruth Ann "Goose" Hall--nigger doll; Iris "Lucy" Riden--doll table and chairs; Doris Narrell--little electric iron and board; Dell Johnson--quintuplets dolls; Robert James--sack of marbles; W. F. "Chubby" James--rubber football; Earlene Brown--teddy bear; Ronel Thomas--Shirley Temple doll; William "Al" Simmons--baseball bat; Roy "Birdog" Baird--rubber basketball; Eldon "Broek" Mahon--toy tin trombone; Dorothy Merket--jig saw puzzle; Josephine Palmer--tuning fork; Iris Duke--book of fairy tales; Pauline Parker--big paint book; Nova Lee Groom--Charley McCarthy doll.

Bring lots of candy, fruits, and nuts.

Love,
 Loraine kids in Abilene colleges
 This is a good example of what Loraine High School turns out.

Public Speaking News

During the last week the Public Speaking Class has been studying about "Observation and imagination". Observation was studied but imagination really gripped the class. Mrs. Soules must have been surprised when she called the roll last Friday because when she called the names all the pupils imagined that they were something else. Shorty Baum must have thought he was a pig when his name was called, he only grunted and went back to sleep. When Sidney Meek was asked if he studied, he replied that since the lesson was on imagination that he studied the day's lesson. "Very well" replied Mrs. Soules "I'll just imagine that I gave you a grade on the day's work."

Next week we will start studying "Pantomime and Gesture". We are all looking forward to this because we all wish to see if Wenola Martin can act out a pantomime without talking.

Junior News

Money, Money, Money! That's the cry of the Juniors. Who's going to help? We're leaving that up to you, so please cooperate with us and be at the Junior play Friday night December 9th at seven fifteen o'clock.

The Juniors must complete a term theme from five to ten hundred words by Tuesday of this week. We all are very talkative but when we come to writing themes we seem to be at a total loss for words! Maybe we can at last succeed.

Christmas Program To Be Presented December 20

On Tuesday night, December 20, a play will be presented at the school auditorium in connection with the choral club. It is a Christmas play entitled "A Christmas Carol" under the direction of Mrs. Ison. The characters of the play are as follows:

- Scrooge--Roy G. Edwards
- Bob (Scrooge's employee) Marion R. hodes.
- Fred (Scrooge's nephew) Jack Lankford.
- Mosley (a friend of Scrooge's) Harold Simmons.
- First Spirit--Iona Callahan
- Second Spirit--Margaret Jarrett
- Third Spirit--Opal Narrell
- Mr. and Mrs. Feggingim (Scrooge's old friends)--J. W. King and Frances Riden.
- Girl--Jane Meadows
- Youth--Truett Butler

Bob's Wife--Margaret Glass

These are just a few of the many characters but there will be about 15 or 20 more without spoken parts. We are working hard on the play and we hope it will be a success. We hope everyone will come out to see it.

Senior Dinner

The Seniors were honored with a dinner Sunday in the home of their sponsor Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Ison.

Everyone gathered there after church which was about 12:30.

The tables were set when the guests arrived and the partners were chosen for each table by each one drawing a piece of a picture. When the puzzles were solved all went into the dining room where much delicious food was placed on the dining table. It was served buffet style and after everyone was served they went to their table and enjoyed a feast. Boy did we have the food, or did we? Just ask R. L. Lee.

After dinner, pictures were made and each left for his home. Those present besides the Seniors were the Senior's room mother, Mrs. Rhodes, and Mr. and Mrs. Ison.

We were sorry that Elton Mathers, Kenneth Hoover, Geo. Lee, and Vinnie Lee Neal were unable to attend.

Introducing The Seniors

Kenneth E. Hoover was born November 8, 1921 at Procter, Texas, in Erath County. He moved to the Valley View community in 1924 where he attended school until 1937 when he came to Loraine High School as a Junior.

Kenneth is five feet eleven and a half inches tall. He has blue eyes and black hair.

His hobbies are tennis and basketball. He is a member of the basketball team this year.

Kenneth is good in his books and is known to all as a good Senior, and we know that all of the High School will miss him after he graduates this year.

Junior Play

The Junior play, "When a Woman Decides", is to be given Friday night, December 9, in the high school auditorium. We request your presence at this theatrical drama, because we know you will enjoy it to the fullest extent.

There is to be good entertainment between acts which is to be kept as a surprise.

We'll be looking for you at 7:15 P. M. Dec. 9. Admission 10 and 20 cents.

The cast of characters includes the following:

- Billy Defoe--Carlos Marshall
- Maybelle Toney -- Wenola Martin
- Silas Sawyer--Howard Tartt
- Hilda M. Burl--Doris Mahoney
- Bessie Hayden--Betty Johnson
- Matilda Petter--Ruby Jo Marshall
- Rastus Toll--Travis Lucas
- Mandy Dehaven -- Lorraine McCollum

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin--The "kitchen cabinet" --a group of citizen-advisors who will tell the Governor how to run the State--has long been a dream of certain candidates who aspired to the State's highest office. Tom Hunter was the first to make the kitchen cabinet a campaign issue, way back when he made the first of his many unsuccessful races for Governor. This week the kitchen cabinet became a reality, as a group of 34 Texans--mostly business and professional executives who have made outstanding successes on their own lines--assembled at Fort Worth for a secret conference, closed to the press, with Gov. Elect W. Lee O'Daniel.

The Governor-Elect announced personnel of the cabinet with considerable publicity, pointing out to those selected that their choosing was without political significance or pressure. The list includes heads of utility corporations, major oil companies, educational institutions, wholesalers, an independent merchant, a labor paper editor, a hotel man, and the wife of a tenant farmer.

The committee will not be without some expert political advice, however, should the need arise. After the original list was announced, O'Daniel added the name of Captain J. F. Lucey of Dallas. Capt. Lucey, an oilman and asphalt refiner, was national campaign manager for Herbert Hoover in his pre-convention campaign in 1920, and again in 1928, he was manager for Hoover in five southwestern states, including Texas, which the Republican nominee carried, for the first Republican victory in a Texas national election since the Civil War.

Pension Plan Still Dark

Out of his conference with this group, O'Daniel may formulate some plan of raising money to pay promised pensions, for submission to the Legislature, although he has said he will not reveal his program in advance of his first message to the solons. State Auditor Tom King, completing an audit of the Pension Fund's operations for the year, revealed that to pay even $15 a month to all Texans over 65, estimated to number 284,742, will cost a total of $51,250,000 annually, or about $42,000,000 more than the present pension cost. About 113,000 pensioners now on the rolls receive an average of $13.76 per month each. At present, Texans pensions 392 persons per 1,000 over 65, being outranked by only four States, Oklahoma, Utah, Colorado and Montana in percentage of aged pensioned. Only two states--Illinois and California--actually pension a larger number of aged persons than Texas.

Journalist Urges Force

Isaac Marcossou, noted author, lecturer and student of world affairs, who has interviewed virtually every important world political figure for 20 years, commented on the position of the United States in Latin America while in Austin for a lecture. He praised a proposal by Senator Clint Smull and other Texas legislators to seek adoption of a resolution asking the State Department to take more aggressive action on Mexican seizure of land and oil properties belonging to Americans.

"Mexico is like the European dictatorships", he said, "She respects only force, and that is what the United States should use. The problems never will be satisfactorily solved under this fantastic Good Neighbor policy."

Benefit Aids Refugees

A generous gesture to aid the thousands of European Jews who are suffering medieval persecution in European states were the benefit performances held this week in the 137 Interstate theatres of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. The benefit shows were 100 percent for the cause named, all expenses being paid by the theatre circuit, and the entire gross receipts going to the sufferers. The plan was typical of Karl Hoblitzelle, whose widespread charitable and civic contributions are usually masked behind his extreme modesty, and given little or no publicity. Bob O'Donnell, Hoblitzelle's able associate, worked out details of the circuit-wide benefit performances.

Bruckart's Washington Digest

President Irked by Georgia's Refusal to Alter Constitution

State Will Get No More Money From Federal Government; Possibilities of Staggering Burdens of Taxation Pointed Out by Hoover and Byrd.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — The state of Georgia has a provision in its state constitution that effectively prevents an accumulation of state debt. It is one of the few states having such a constitutional inhibition of that kind. But the fact that such a provision exists in Georgia suddenly has become momentous in the eyes and minds of the New Dealers, headed by the President, himself. Because it is in the news, however, Mr. Roosevelt's criticism of the provision forces a review of the facts and implications flowing from that charter provision.

Mr. Roosevelt said recently while sojourning at Warm Springs, Ga., as he does frequently, that Georgia will get no more federal money. His particular peeve at Georgia resulted from the fact that the state has not amended its constitution to permit it to borrow directly from agencies of the federal government as most other states have done—with federal money flowing like streams at flood. The President was disgusted with Georgia's attitude; hence, the federal government is all through with giving the state more money.

Of course, it is only my opinion—the opinion of only one observer—but it nevertheless strikes me that in years to come, the citizens of many states will have cause to regret the absence of such provisions from their respective state constitutions. It is only a question of time. Politicians and over-zealous advocates of "improvements" and the like have been rushing to the federal feed trough in droves, carrying away checks. They have borrowed billions from the national government; they have received grants or gifts of other billions for the country as a whole on condition that they put up additional funds to match or equal the federal gift, and they, in consequence, now are loaded down with debt. So, I say there will be cause for regret that so few states have the same provision as Georgia has when the time comes for payment. There must be taxation if the debts are paid, or there must be that awful thing, repudiation.

Must Be Additional Taxation, or Repudiation

Former President Hoover has had much to say about the waste that has been going on, and has coupled those observations with the possibilities of staggering burdens of taxation. So has Sen. Harry Byrd, Democrat, of Virginia. Mr. Hoover's criticisms have been laughed off by the administration here because Mr. Hoover is a Republican. Senator Byrd's jibes have been pooh-pooed because he has insisted on sound government and has been frequently anti-New Deal. But Mr. Hoover and Senator Byrd each have stressed a little noted phase of potentialities inherent in the situation. They have talked about moral codes.

Now, it appears, as I said above, there must be additional taxation to meet these loans (whether from the federal government or from private borrowers) or there must be repudiation. Repudiation is simply and plainly a refusal to pay a debt. Refusal to pay an honest debt makes deadbeats.

In the light of these facts, I want to make a little prediction. I am going to predict that there will be movements in many states within 10 years to have the federal government relinquish its claims against these states; to have congress pass legislation that will say to the states, in effect, "Just tear up the papers and we will tear up your notes and bonds and forget about the whole thing." Politicians of the unsavory, demagogic type will leap onto such a thought and shout from the house-tops of every community in the state that the federal government—that great and rich government—ought to forego collection. They will have all kinds of arguments why it ought to be done, but their real reason for doing so will be to obtain votes for their own election to office. They will be saying to the people that it will not be repudiation if the federal government says it does not desire to collect; yet, it is my contention that such proceedings will be thoroughly dishonest. It will be exactly the same as if the state had said: I won't pay.

President on Wrong Track in Lambasting Georgia

When Mr. Roosevelt was giving the people of Georgia a tongue-lashing, therefore, I believe he was on the wrong track. He was lambasting them for continuing to run their affairs on a sound basis, for continuing to avoid subservience to the national government, and for refusing to surrender completely the rights of a sovereign state. For, be it known, there are very few easier ways to force a state or county or city or other subdivision of government to become "bossed" by the national government than the way that has been chosen—through the use of money. In fact, it seems rather a sour note in our national policies to witness almost complete subjugation of states or lesser areas by the use of federal money when, with another hand, the government through the various propaganda agencies or by legal action constantly threatens to send private persons or corporations to jail for seeking selfish control for private gain. The only difference that I can see is that one is purely for monetary gain in the case of private action, while in the governmental situation, the benefits are political from which rascals or crooks eventually get their graft.

Some Washington writers, in considering the President's Warm Springs outburst, attributed his frame of mind to the fact that Georgia's citizens (or a majority of them) refused to follow Mr. Roosevelt's demand for the defeat of Sen. Walter George. You remember, of course, how Mr. Roosevelt went to Georgia and endorsed United States Attorney Lawrence Camp for the Democratic senatorial nomination. It is of fresh recollection, too, how he said that Senator George was old fashioned—out dated—almost a one-hoss shay.

President's Statement May Be Clever Political Move

I am in no position to know whether the failure of Georgia to obey the Roosevelt command entered into the discourse that has since become an issue. Nor am I well enough acquainted with New Deal plans to say whether the President has taken his first step for 1940 convention delegates in this way. It is possible, obviously, that the Warm Springs statement may be a clever political move. Think of it this way: by starting a row, the President possibly could be laying the groundwork for uniting the anti-George forces. If they are united and fighting, it is within the realm of possibilities that they could take the Georgia delegation out of Senator George's control in 1940. That would be a great victory for the radical element of the Democratic party.

Then, too, the Warm Springs declaration may be designed to have an effect on the forthcoming congress. I think it goes without saying that the new congress is going to be very much different than that which it supplants. For one thing, there will be less—very much less—money voted for the administration to use as it sees fit. There will be a bloody battle before congress again writes out blank checks for Hopkins or Harold Ickes to use. It is likely, indeed, that there will be some rather rigorous investigations of things already done under the blank check appropriations of money. If the investigations are thorough, there will be a stench rise from the committee room where the job is done. Thus, if Mr. Roosevelt hopes, by the Warm Springs statement, to awaken a fresh thirst for money among local politicians throughout the country, it may be a piece of clever politics.

Whatever the purpose of the criticism of the Georgia prohibition against borrowing, it can not alter the fundamentals of the situation. Georgia, as a state, is better off. It will be far better off 10 years from now when the country has sorted out the good things of the New Deal and put them to proper use. Its citizens will be happier and less burdened with taxation at a time when the people of Pennsylvania, for example, are using profane language about paying for needless and useless "improvements"—a state of mind they surely will reach as soon as they have forgotten the mouthings of politicians and have begun to pay through the nose.

Can Washington Horn in on a State's Policies?

There is yet another element involved in the situation precipitated by Mr. Roosevelt's Warm Springs statement. It involves the question, directly, whether a state shall determine its own policies or have them dictated from Washington.

Only a few days ago, the department of labor disclosed that it was trying to persuade all of the states to pass legislation exactly like the federal law governing wages and hours of workers. The department's bureaucrats have drafted a "model" law which they are trying eagerly to get the states to adopt, so that business within a state will be subjected to the same provisions as business operating across state lines. That same course was pursued when NRA was young and before it was discovered that the blue eagle had more feathers in one wing than it had in the other.

These things are dangerous. Once such tactics are successful, they are followed by demands and commands of broader scope.

HOW TO SEW by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Homemade dolls for collectors.

THIS Christmas it is not just the children who will receive dolls as gifts. Doll collecting is becoming a popular hobby for grown-ups. The most valued dolls are of whatever materials may be at hand and reflect the individuality of the person who made them. Rag babies of all kinds have an important place in such a collection. You will enjoy making the one shown here. Book 2 offered herewith also offers many suggestions for making and dressing dolls from scraps of materials.

If you want to make the stocking doll, clip these directions and keep them as this doll is not in either of the books offered here. The head and body are made of the foot of the stocking cut off where the heel begins, as shown. Stuff this part with cotton or bits of soft clean rags, sew across the bottom and then wind a thread around so that the toes of the stocking will form the head. Fold the leg and arm pieces lengthwise, stitch, turn and then stuff. Wrap thread around to make divisions for hands and feet. Sew the legs to the body, then add the skirt. The arms are sewn on top of the sweater piece and the sweater collar is turned down over this sewing.

Largest Lake Once Farm

Underneath North Carolina's largest lake lies what was once the state's largest farm. Lake Matamuskeet was pumped dry in a gigantic reclamation project and crops planted, but after spending $17,000,000 in an attempt to keep the sea out, the farm was abandoned to the water and it is now completely submerged again.

The largest water pumping system in the world failed its task. The lake is shallow, ranging from one to six feet deep.

has helped thousands of women to use odds and ends of materials and their spare time to make things to sell and to use. Book 1—Sewing for the Home Decorator is full of inspiration for every homemaker. These books make delightful Christmas gifts. Mrs. Spears will autograph them on request. Crazypatch quilt leaflet is included free with every order for both books. Order by number, 25 cents each book. Address: Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Walking Machine-Gun Nests

WITH all the war talk in the air these days, recent news that the new United States army rifle, the Garand semiautomatic, will make our infantrymen five times as effective as any other soldier in the world, was hailed as very comforting. Most military experts agree that wars are still won on the ground, and so the development of such a super-rifle by United States experts is really more important than many other more spectacular inventions.

Firearms were invented in China, where a primitive form of rifle was in use at least 2,500 years ago. The old Chinese had the basic idea of a straight tube, or barrel, to propel shot by the explosion of gunpowder. It wasn't until some 2,000 years later, early in the fourteenth century, that firearms came into general use in Europe.

And it wasn't until the pioneering period of our own history that any marked advance was made in the rifle. In the forests of eastern America, the pioneer needed three things, an ax, a rifle and ammunition. The rifle was his defense against Indians, and also provided him with meat for food and skins for clothing and trade.

Ask Me Another A General Quiz

- 1. What country claims the land at the North pole?
2. Who wrote the lines, "Oh, what a tangled web we weave, when first we practice to deceive"?
3. How large was the maple leaf that won the prize in Canada?
4. How long did Huey Long once talk in congress?
5. From where do we get the word gospel?
6. What is the correct pronunciation of Daladier?
7. What is the floor area of the United States capitol; the number of rooms?
8. What color were the Conestoga wagons?

The Answers

- 1. There is no land at the North pole, consequently no country has made any claim to it. Robert Ed- win Peary on April 6, 1909, hoisted the American flag on the ice there.
2. They are from Sir Walter Scott's "Marmion."
3. In the national maple leaf contest held last year the winning leaf measured 21 by 22 inches.
4. On June 12, 1935, the late Sen. Huey P. Long began a filibuster in the senate which lasted 15 1/2 hours.
5. Gospel is the Saxon "God's spell"—that is, "God's story."
6. It is pronounced Dah-lah-dyay, the last syllable accented.
7. The capitol has a floor area of 14 acres, and 430 rooms are devoted to office, committee and storage purposes.
8. The underbody was painted blue and the upper woodwork was invariably red. Seymour Dunbar in his "History of Travel" says that these colors were as inevitable as though they had been prescribed by law.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 42), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells. Get more fresh air, 8 hrs sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist in curing jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

NOBODY'S BUSINESS Economy Move Balked

Austin observers were slightly amused, after all of the economy talk that has been going around, when Railroad-Commissioner Lon A. Smith, and Commissioner elect Jerry Sadler were offered a "showdown" on a real economy move this week, and backed away hurriedly. Smith and Sadler have been filling the newspapers with announcements of the firing of various appointees of retiring Commissioner C. V. Terrell, and the appointment of their successors. Thompson quietly submitted a list of 45 employees, including some named by himself, some by Terrell and some by Smith—whose salaries total over $8,000 a month—and suggested they be let out as an economy measure and their salaries saved.

Smith hurriedly announced he thought it would be "bad taste" to ast on the matter, with Sadler not yet in office, and the matter was dropped.
