

Democrats Select Al Smith On Opening Ballot Platform With Prohibition Plank Adopted By Demos

Honest Effort To Enforce Dry Laws Is Party's Pledge

Republican Party Assailed Throughout 4000 Word Document, Shortest of Recent Years.

TREATMENT OF FARM PROBLEMS ATTACKED

Foreign Policy Of Present Administration, Taxation And Tariff Likewise Come In For Fanning.

By JAMES L. WILLIAMS (Associated Press Staff Writer) SAM HOUSTON HALL, HOUSTON, June 28 (AP)—The platform framed by the resolutions committee of the Democratic National convention was adopted by the convention tonight by a viva voce vote including the much discussed prohibition plank, over which a fight threatened almost to the last.

The prohibition plank pledges the party to make an honest effort to enforce the 18th Amendment and all other provisions of the constitution and laws. It was written by Senator Glass of Virginia, a dry leader, who explained it to the convention, as a pledge of the nominee of the convention "to do promptly and honestly and efficiently that which the Republican party failed to do."

The vote of approval accompanied by only a few scattered "nos" was preceded by a short discussion during which Governor Moody of Texas told the convention he would rather have had a plank directly endorsing prohibition itself but would present no minority report, and Governor Ritchie of Maryland likewise pleaded for harmonious acceptance of the plank, although he said he personally favored local option as to prohibition.

Summary Shows Wide Scope of Platform

HOUSTON, June 28 (AP)—A pledge for an honest enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, a wide-open door for agricultural legislation to aid agriculture, and a slashing attack upon "republican corruption" constitute the major points in democracy's 1928 platform declaration on dominant national issues approved tonight by the convention in Sam Houston hall.

Throughout the four thousand word pronouncement—the shortest national political platform of recent years—the republican party is assailed, with special attention given to its treatment of agriculture, foreign policy with special reference to dealings with Latin America, its taxation and tariff systems and its failure to enforce prohibition.

No mention is made in the platform of either the League of Nations or the World Court, but there is a strong declaration against entanglement in foreign wars.

AUTO ACCIDENT MAY CLAIM WAR VETERAN

Veteran of many battles of the World War, C. O. Hightower, of Albany, lies in a local sanitarium apparently fighting a losing fight with death.

His skull fractured and with bruises over almost his entire body, the injured man had not regained consciousness at a late hour last night. He was injured Wednesday night when the car in which he and M. N. McCaskill, of Breckenridge, were riding near Tahoka.

McCaskill received only slight bruises. He stated yesterday that Hightower had replaced him at the wheel of the car, which had a tendency to turn to the right. Unaccustomed to this peculiarly high tower jacked the car back to the center of the road too quickly causing it to overturn, according to McCaskill's version of the accident.

Hospital attaches last night declared that there was little hope for the recovery of the injured man. His condition had not improved since the accident, it was said.

Retailers Agree On Holidays For Oncoming Season

Annual Session of Local Merchants' Association Is Held Yesterday At City Hall.

July Fourth, Armistice day, and Thanksgiving and Christmas, and a half day on "Lubbock" day at the Panhandle South Plains Fair, will be observed as legal holidays by Lubbock merchants, it was agreed at a meeting last night of members of the Lubbock Retail Merchants' association. Over 30 members were present.

The business session was presided over by a Dutch lunch, prepared by a committee composed of R. D. Frewin, chairman; J. D. Hassell, Joe Casarino and H. A. Davidson.

After the merchants had partaken of sandwiches, beer and other trimmings, the retailers took up the holiday agreement. After this was agreed upon, President Hassell made a report on the state convention of the Retail Merchants' association of Texas that was held at Wichita Falls in May where he represented the association as a delegate.

A. B. Davis, manager of the association made a talk on "gyp" and "sucker" advertising schemes and on behalf of the directors of the organization urged the co-operation of the entire membership in combating such schemes.

Pandemonium Breaks Loose Over Hall

Nomination of Smith Is Signal For Most Colorful of Convention Outbursts

(By Associated Press) SAM HOUSTON HALL, HOUSTON, June 28 (AP)—When Chairman Robinson formally announced nomination of the New York governor, Alfred E. Smith, tonight, pandemonium broke loose all over the hall.

Somebody turned loose a fire stream. It belled and whirled as the crowd about the stage roared. The standard was again, but there was little whirling of trouble here and there. A row started over the Texas state flag. Grover Sellers trying to take it into the Smith parade. Police finally took the big flag away and carried it out of the hall.

From the platform front, the state standards moved over to the side where Mrs. Smith still sat in her box. They grouped down in front of her, waving frantically. The floodlight leaped to blaze the scene in a white glow as she nodded and smiled and waved happily down to the cheering thousands below.

More than 400 boy and girl club members, representing sixty-one clubs in seven counties, registered for the encampment, breaking all previous attendance records.

Grain, livestock, and poultry judging constituted the main activity for the boys yesterday. Winners in the contests will not be announced for several days. STUDIES FARM RELIEF

The Republican Position Is Hoover Worry

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—Republican position on farm relief legislation absorbed Secretary Hoover's personal attention today, although most of the day he shunted aside presidential campaign matters to plunge into a whirl of departmental business.

On the farm relief subject, the republican nominee had the counsel of Governor Hammill of Iowa. The governor who was one of the corn belt leaders in the agitation for farm marketing legislation last winter, but only saw the secretary of the commerce department but also went with him later to the Hoover home.

Secretary Work, now republican national chairman, likewise was engaged chiefly in clearing up departmental business preparatory to resigning. But he also went over campaign problems, discussing his financing with J. R. Nutt, the national committee's treasurer.

She'll Write For Lubbock Parents

Oliver Roberts Barton, pictured above, is the author of the new series of articles on child training which starting Saturday will appear exclusively in The Avalanche. For five years she was a teacher in the schools of Pittsburgh, Pa., and was active in social service work. After she had married, and had children of her own to care for, she began writing stories and books for children.

Newspapers began to seek her services for articles on education, and she soon became one of the best known writers for women on subjects of general interest. Now in the field of child psychology and training, she is writing a daily article of advice to parents.

Argument Starting Over Crops Has Fatal Climax

(Special To The Avalanche) MATADOR, June 28 (AP)—W. A. Neal, age about forty-five, is in the jail here, pending $7,500 bond on a charge of murder as a result of alterations on the Batties' farm, seven miles of Roaring Springs, last night. Neal was said to be a son-in-law of the slain man.

Neal is charged with murdering the older man by crushing in his skull with the butt of a gun, then shooting him. Neal was a sharecropper on the Batties' farm and the argument between the two is said to have started over the crop.

Sherriff Claude Warren declared tonight that Neal attacked the older man, hitting him several times with an automatic then shooting him through the forehead. Neal was arrested soon after the shooting and placed in jail. He had not made bond tonight.

Batties is survived by a wife and one child here, but has several children scattered over the country. He came to this section last winter from El Paso and bought 200 acres of land over Roaring Springs. The body will be sent to El Paso, his former home, for burial.

Neal came here this year and rented the Batties' place on the halves. He had made no statement concerning the shooting.

Delegates, Weary Of Oratory, Meet For Nomination

Presentation of Platform Report Made Amid Quiet Setting; Moody and Ritchie Speak.

HALL OVERTAXED AT LAST NIGHT SESSION

Convention Is Surfeited Of Speech Making And Platform Chairman Has Hard Time With Audience.

(By Associated Press) SAM HOUSTON HALL, HOUSTON, June 28 (AP)—With the Smith forces in complete control, the Democratic National convention met in another night session here to drive through a platform on which the governor of New York could stand, and to nominate him as the standard bearer of the party in the November elections.

It was a weary set of delegates who struggled back to the auditorium after two tiresome day sessions, heavily laden with oratory in praise of favorite sons whose cause obviously was lost before the convention began.

As a preliminary to the session, the three big brass bands in the bleacher settings, got into a musical wrestling match of their own.

The delegates cheered the bands. Just before the convention was opened to order, word reached the auditorium that Governor Moody would make no fight on the prohibition plank in the platform, apparently removing the big threat to a quick decision on nominees and an early adjournment.

Chairman Robinson called for attention at 8:30 p. m.

The invocation was delivered by the Rev. E. P. West, pastor of the Second Baptist church of Houston. He invoked blessings on the important session of the convention, as those in the convention hall stood dead quiet.

Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the resolutions committee, then brought the platform to the stand to read it to the convention.

SINGLE DICE GAME BRING CITY $240

The rude interruption of a "big time" Black Jack game by local officers in a downtown office building yesterday afternoon enriched the city coffers some $240, but it didn't add any to the pocket books or the good feelings of the twelve players who paid off.

The game was said to have included several hundred dollars. It was halted at about 7 o'clock when two police officers walked in on the game and rounded up the dozen players. They were arraigned in city police court and each paid fines of $20. Pleas of guilty were entered in each case.

It was said that one player came out of the game $600 winner. Perhaps the arrival of officers was in answer to his prayer—to have the game ended at that time.

Maintenance Of Road Leaving City On Plainview Highway Ordered, Settling Long Dispute.

Location of highway number 53 between Lubbock and Idalou has been definitely made, according to word received from the state highway department by George A. Fields, division highway engineer here.

Definite location of this highway was a controversy of several years. Two routes, one going straight east out Broadway and the other starting north on Avenue H then following the railway, have both been considered as the main road. The latter which starts out on the Plainview highway was selected by the highway department as the official highway.

Maintenance was ordered for the new located road, with discontinuance of maintenance of the previous location.

Work on the crossing over Yellow House Canyon is expected to begin in the near future. Approaches to the crossing are being made by the highway department at the present time.

Final Tabulation Showed That Smith Obtained 849 Of 1100 Votes; Band-Wagen Rolls.

By BYRON PRICE (Associated Press Staff Writer) SAM HOUSTON HALL, HOUSTON, Tex., June 28 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith, four times Governor of New York and long the favorite son of the Empire State Democracy, was nominated tonight by the Democratic National convention.

A single ballot was sufficient to break through the last resistance of the group of candidates opposing him. Although at the conclusion of the roll call of the states he was short of the two-thirds needed to nominate, he was so near the mark that state after state broke away from the favorite sons they had been supporting and voted in a noisy bandwagon rush to be the first to lay their support at his feet.

The official tabulation, after all changes of votes had been recorded, gave the New Yorker 849 2-3 of the 1,100 votes in the convention. He needed but 733 1-3 to nominate.

Colorful Demonstration

Announcement of the nomination was followed by a loud and colorful demonstration on the convention floor, with the Smith people parading about the hall shouting to the skies their approval at their victory. In some parts of the hall the bitterness of the contest was carried along by heated arguments among divided Southern delegations, but for the most part the defeat of the anti-Smith group, forecast for days, was accepted philosophically.

Missouri, the home state of Senator "Jim" Reed, who stood in the forefront of the last ditch attempt to stop Governor Smith, tried unsuccessfully to circumvent the rules and have the New Yorker declared nominated by acclamation, after he had polled more than the number needed on the roll call, and when he heard the final result Senator Reed himself left for the convention hall to exhort his fellow democrats to unite under the banner.

Vice-President Today

Nomination of a running mate for the new party standard-bearer will be accomplished at a final session of the 1928 convention tomorrow. As the delegates separated late tonight, it was the expectation of most of the leaders that the vice-presidential choice would be Senator Robinson of Arkansas.

It was the Ohio delegation that won out in the scramble to supply the votes that actually nominated Smith. As soon as the roll call had reached its end, delegates from men in parts of the hall mounted their chairs and shouted for recognition. So great was the disorder that for several minutes none of

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner

Summer

Living alone is becoming a great national habit, a movement, a trend, a situation and perhaps a problem according to a current magazine article. Mabel Abbott, who treats this fact in her article, "The Technique of Living Alone," discovers that the United Real Estate Owners' Association of New York City admits that there are not nearly enough one-room apartments to supply the demand.

In the last five years, their figures prove, the average number of rooms in apartments dropped from 4.64 to 3.38, the lowest figure ever reached, and interpreted as meaning thousands of one-room apartments, meaning living-room with in-a-door bed, kitchenette, and bath.

Miss Abbott draws some interesting deductions. In the first place, she insists that one-room apartments mean that people are really living alone, because it is more impossible for more than one to do it without murder and mayhem. One-room apartments cost infinitely more per room, of course, than several-roomed apartments.

Now why is the demand? Miss Abbott writes it like this: "The glamour of living alone is of course in its freedom. There is a tremendous appeal in the idea that it is nobody's business if you prefer to play all day and wash your stockings and mend your clothes in the middle of the night, or if you like to read in bed, or if you find that the most comfortable and rational verb in which to clean a kitchenette on a hot day is a pair of tanning trunks.

"Undoubtedly the determination to be independent is the deciding factor when two friends choose two one-room apartments at $200 each rather than one two-room apartment at $1200."

APARTMENT PARTIES
Miss Abbott brings out the point that the desire for freedom is for freedom in its mildest form, and the neighborhood complaints of the noise of wild revelry are not directed at people living "in freedom" alone.

"Building managers agree," writes Miss Abbott, "that lone tenants, even when they are nearly always the quietest, it is not they who give the wild parties. It is the two or three kindred spirits who take an apartment together and give each other one."

Even more often it is the young married couple and their young married friends.
"Very likely this is because by far the larger number of the one-room and kitchenette houses are busy people," Miss Abbott touches on the cause as well as the pros of living alone. "That the problem is grim, too, an occasional news-item proves," she writes.

"Perhaps the adventures in loneliness will find a technique to meet it. At present they seem to be going cheerfully and undauntedly ahead, facing undisturbed the fact that living alone entails the possibility of dying alone, too."

But they do vacate these one-room apartments. That's why the rent must be high, say the managers. The turn-over is too frequent. All of us try it once, and love it for a time. And most of us learn to measure values, and finally are glad to go home.

Lace Keynote Of Convention Fashion

Floodgates of Feminine Oratory Released When Al Smith Placed In Nomination

By MARTHA DAIRYMPLER Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON, June 28. (AP)—The full in leaping oratory that marked the opening sessions of the democratic convention has been followed by the proverbial storm, women walking away with the honors in seconding the nomination of Governor Smith.

M. Dairympler

Three of the gaily-clad sex broke loose the floodgates last night. Nellie Taylor Ross, one-time governor of Wyoming, was the first woman to appear before the speaker's table and her microphone. Her eyes shaded her from the glare of the photographers' lights, much to the picture makers' disgust and to her delight.

Her eulogies of the New York Governor were cut short by the shouts from the floor of "time's up." With a gracious bow to chairman Robinson she relinquished her place.

This One Business Like
Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, representative in black lace evening dress under which gleamed a pink satin slip, launched into her subject.

Her draped shoulders waved an accompaniment to her forceful words and the black lace floated about her arms in strange contrast to the deep voice that was booming from the hall.

Mrs. Stella Hamlin, newly elected national president, upheld the honor of her sex and gave the women the last word. Her second to Smith's nomination concluded the evening's performance and she retired from the platform amid congratulations that sounded so small a part of relief that the long session was at an end.

Interest in Mrs. Hamlin
Interest was centered in Mrs. Hamlin's first public appearance in view of the fact that she is considered a possible successor to Mr. Emily Newell Blair, retiring committee woman from Missouri, as vice-chairman of the national committee.

She wore a heavy, coffee-colored lace gown and a small tan braided hat of the cloche variety.

Lace seemed to be the keynote of the evening's fashions, for everywhere curious eyes turned to see the gowns of the famous they saw lace in some shape or form.

Mrs. Smith, whose self-imposed seclusion in Houston was shattered when hundreds of yelling and singing Smith supporters besieged her box after the nominating speech, wore an all-over blue lace dress, with a large straw hat to match.

Mrs. Wilson, who graciously relinquished the spotlight for the evening to the wife of the leading presidential candidate, also appeared in lace, a gown of black chiffon inset with heavy lace. Her hat, an enormous one of opaque velvet with the crown's edge heavily laden with matching roses, was the landmark of the platform. By her hat she was known.

The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

LUNCHEON: Creamed asparagus on toast with poached eggs, hearts of lettuce, rice pudding with fruit sauce, lemonade.

DINNER: Onion soup, croquettes, casserole of ham and potatoes, beet greens, strawberry shortcake with cream, milk, coffee.

Since a creamed vegetable figures prominently in the luncheon menu, lemonade is substituted for the required amount of milk. If the required amount of milk is used for children in creamed dishes and over cereals the desserts or fruit beverage can be given to good advantage during the hot weather.

Onion Soup

Three Bermuda onions, 4 tablespoons butter, 3 sprigs parsley, cups beef broth, 1 cup water, 1-4 cup grated cheese, salt and pepper.

Melt butter and add onions cut in thin slices. Cook and stir until onions are soft and a pale straw color. Add parsley, broth, water and simmer fifteen minutes. Strain and season with salt and pepper. Serve with grated cheese and croquettes.

Onion cream soup is suitable for luncheon but the recipe given above is ideal for a dinner soup.

4—PRE-EMPTIVE BIDS

When to make a pre-emptive bid and when not to do so is explained in the following illustrative hands:

Hearts—A K Q X; spades—A K X; diamonds—none; clubs—A K J X X X.

X X. This is a very strong hand. It holds support for either a spade or a heart bid. There is no necessity of pre-empting, as there is nothing to fear. Clubs may not be the best game-going declaration. Encourage bidding on part of partner to determine best declaration. Encourage bidding on part of opponents, as you may collect large penalties. Bid one club.

Spades—A K Q X X X; hearts—K; diamonds—Q X; clubs—X X X X.

X X. To pre-empt, bid three spades, to shut out a possible heart bid. If you were to bid one spade, it might encourage partner to show hearts, and you have no support for hearts.

Spades—X X; hearts—X X; diamonds—A Q J X X X; clubs—X X.

X X. This hand does not contain two quick tricks. Past Notices are tempted to bid on such holdings. These are dangerous, not because you may not make one or two diamonds, but because you may mislead your partner.

Spades—A K J 10 X X X; hearts—none; diamonds—K Q X; clubs—X X.

X X. This hand is blank in hearts. In all probability opponents hold great strength in hearts. Bid four spades to shut out all bidding. Hand is valuable for any other game-going declaration.

Spades—X X; hearts—K Q J 10 X X; diamonds—A J X; clubs—X X.

X X. This hand is weak in spades, and in all probability strength in spades is with opponents. A bid of three hearts may shut out bidding. Bid four hearts.

Spades—X; hearts—X X; diamonds—A Q J 10 X X X; clubs—A X.

X X. This hand is weak in both major suits. Bid five diamonds to shut out all bidding.

Spades—K J X; hearts—A K Q X X; diamonds—K X; clubs—X X.

X X. This hand contains support for a spade bid. It may be more advisable to play it in spades. Some experts pre-empt when holding A K Q J X X, although suit does not contain seven cards. Bid one heart as there is nothing to fear from opponents.

Economy Mills Enlarged, Formal Opening Planned

Many Improvements Made Recently At Plant Here; New Parts Widen Scope Of Work.

Completion of recent improvements at the Economy Mills Co., Inc., here, has been made and a formal opening of the transformed plant will be made in the near future, it was announced yesterday by Claude Tatum, president and general manager at the plant.

The mill, when founded, was designed only for feed grinding, but according to Mr. Tatum, as the South Plains developed, the demand increased for variety of feeds. A commercial product or two were added.

Later other feeds were added, and today there are some 12 or 14 different products manufactured at the mill, and a general custom grinding business is done as well.

Demand for Sweet Feed.
During recent years there has been a great demand for sweet feed. There was no mill in this section equipped for the business, but after Claude Tatum had been thoroughly convinced that there was a demand for the product he made a trip through the north and east and inspected a number of sweet feed mills. The result was this: before he returned home he purchased many thousands of dollars worth of machinery for the manufacture of sweet feed.

UTILITIES PROBE
Disclosures Made At Session Yesterday

WASHINGTON, June 28. (AP)—Disclosures of destruction of some records of the Indiana Public Utilities Commission, which is supervised by the Indiana legislature, were made today in the federal trade commission's public utility investigation.

Testimony of William Stokes of Indianapolis, secretary-treasurer of the Indiana committee on public utility information, which is supervised by the association, developed that certain old records had been thrown away when Stokes succeeded in his present position John C. Mellett of Indianapolis, last September. Mellett's testimony showed that the association had employed the lobbyists to prevent passage of legislation objectionable to the public utility industry.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Diversified Farming Gets Its Reward

BIG SPRING, June 28.—Never before in the history of the town and country has the outlook been more promising for Big Spring and surrounding trade center, than now, says T. S. Currie, active vice-president of the Big National bank.

The farmers of this section have for the past two years practiced diversification devoting more time to dairying and poultry. The pastures are extra good and cattle are getting fat on grass. Dairy men are reducing their feed and depending more on the pastures. Many farmers are paying their grocery and dry goods bills with butter, eggs, and cream as a result of which the banks are carrying very little long time paper but helping the farmer finance himself on short time loans. Diversification methods being practiced enable the farmer to pay his way easier than when he got his money only once each year generally from cotton.

Attention of Democrats Now Turns to Vice-President

More Than Score Of Aspirants In Line for Battle

Choice of Vice-President Promises Much Interest; Many Convention Leaders Predict Robinson.

HOUSTON, June 28.—With a dozen or more delegations cocking their ears for a signal from New York, boosters of more than a score of aspirants for second place on the democratic ticket spent today in efforts to maneuver their men into a favorite position.

Colors of Senator Robinson of Arkansas still cling close to the rail with those of Hull of Tennessee, Barker of Kentucky, Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming, Evans Woolen of Indiana, Hitchcock of Nebraska, and several others bobbing about in the mad scramble.

Leaders said that they had received no word from Al Smith, which would indicate that Gov. Smith had any preference.

There was talk again of Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Wilson cabinet, but the impression that grew was that Robinson probably would draw the support of New York.

Some of the ultra-dry Southern delegates were thinking of Hull and there was a move toward Governor Moody of Texas.

Jones Nominated

he declared he had "no unkind word to say of any democratic whose name has been presented to the convention, because I expect when the choice of this convention is made to follow the democratic line as I always have followed."

Before describing Jones in terms of high idealism, Col. Hall took occasion to interpret his view of the trend of Texas politics, many of his statements bringing applause.

those pleading for a chance to move over to Smith could be heard to the chairman, Ohio finally got recognition ahead of the others, and changed 44 of her votes from Pomeroy to Smith. Mississippi, which at first voted for her favorite, Pat Harrison, followed with a switch of 3-1-2 to Smith; Indiana came in next, giving the New Yorker 23 that at first had gone to Evans Woolen; then Nebraska gave him 12 that had been cast before for former Senator Hitchcock; Kansas, voting on the first call for Representative Ayres turned over 11-2 to the victor; and Tennessee, leaving her favorite Smith, Representative Hull, gave Smith 23.

NEAR RIOT MENACES

Attempt to Grab Texas Flag Creates Stir

HOUSTON, June 28.—A near riot threatened the Texas delegation when supporters of Governor Alfred Smith set out to deliver the Texas flag to Mrs. Smith in a democratic national convention box at 11:30 p. m. Thursday night in the demonstration shortly after her husband was nominated for president.

The delegation flag was reported to be badly torn and in the hands of police. Another flag from Galveston was delivered to Mrs. Smith by John Boyle, of San Antonio and others. Boyle said that Myron Blacklock, Marshall, vice-chairman of the delegation, in absence of Governor Moody, had given permission to take the flag, but that George Purcell, Dallas, Alvin Moody, of Houston, and W. A. Keeling of Austin apparently did not understand the situation and a tussle followed.

CHILD RECOVERING

Safety Pin Removal In Difficult Operation

MANCUM, Texas, June 28.—The two and a half year old daughter of A. D. Ratliff of Duke is recovering after an operation in which a safety pin was removed from the esophagus.

The pin was swallowed more than a week before the operation. It was discovered she could not eat solid foods and she was brought here for examination. The x-ray disclosed the obstacle.

The pin was removed through the mouth. The point of the pin was sticking up and it was necessary to turn it over before being taken out.

"HAPPIEST MOMENT"

Mrs. Smith Thrilled At The Choice of Husband

HOUSTON, June 28.—This is the happiest moment of my life. With these words Mrs. Alfred E. Smith greeted the hundreds of admirers of her husband who crowded about her tonight to help her celebrate the nomination of the New York governor as the Democratic presidential candidate.

THE SEVEN AGES OF AL SMITH

① The Sidewalks of New York—Al Smith as a boy.

② The Fishmarket—Clerk—Al when he got his first job.

③ The Assemblyman—Smith in politics, in 1903.

⑦ ALFRED E. SMITH

④ The Alderman—Smith in 1917, before becoming Governor.

⑤ The Brown Derby—Smith in 1922, running for re-election.

⑥ Ambition—Seeking the presidency in 1924.

Major Hoople Has The Right Idea

Hold Next Convention On Leviathan and Exile Credentials Committee, His Idea

BY MAJOR AMOS HOOPLE

Staff Correspondent

HOUSTON, June 28.—Egad folks, after three weeks of convention observations I feel now that I am in a position to give my honest opinion as to the difference between the republican and democratic parties as seen thru the delegates.

The republicans can eat more and sleep longer than the democrats, but the democrats can stay up later and talk longer.

Being neither a republican nor a democrat, I have spent the last three weeks thinking I have drawn up a program of how a national convention should be run, and will present it here for the nation's consideration during the next four years.

I am positive that I will be proclaimed the patron saint of the millions of radio fans throughout the land for relief of their suffering with my convention program.

Here's My Plan: Has-rum—I offer for your approval and prayers of blessing, the Hoople national convention plan, to wit: That a national convention be held on the Leviathan ocean liner, covering a six weeks voyage to the Mediterranean, and allowing a ten day stopover for rest in Paris; that the credentials committee take a dirigible to the Polar region during the six month night period, since they are always apologizing or seeking sympathy for staying up all night getting the credentials in order.

That the reading of the majority and minority reports be set to music with full orchestra accompaniment.

That the presentation of gavel to the convention by state societies be changed to xylophones or Swiss bell ringers.

That the change of convention chairman, be settled by a wrestling match, two out of three falls. That the keynote speech be given by a ventriloquist with little Johnnie on his knee.

Urges "Sign" Speeches: That all speeches granted by the chairman to floor delegates, must be presented in the finger sign system, or lip reading.

That the platform speech be sent out by circular letter to wrong addresses.

That nominating speeches of a candidate be limited to the truth which would only require three minutes to deliver at the most.

That speeches seconding the nomination be given by minstrels with end-rhymes.

Zigfield Chorus Parade: That parade of state banners be given by a Zigfield chorus.

That the balloting of candidates be determined by a grand dance given by the delegates, in the form of a robber dance imitating the different state delegates to rob each other of dancing partners. After five minutes a halt on the dance would be called and a poll taken of the majority delegates robbed of each other, to nominate the presidential candidate. That the selection of candidate for vice president be settled by the quaint old parlor game of easy money many mo.

Read friends, this plan I have for your earnest consideration. If you have any suggestions to offer them in my care to the national Merry-Go-Round corporations of America of which I am pony trainer in chief, have by jove, make mine plain, thanks.

Delegates Weary Of Oratory Meet For Last Session

part testimony was heard on the prohibition plank. The farmers, he said, had told the committee they had received the sympathetic consideration they expected at the hands of the Democratic party. There was no complaint against any feature of the farm plank, he declared.

While Pittman was explaining his platform, word came that Governor Moody, while not disposed to make a fight on the prohibition plank calling for the enforcement of the 18th Amendment and all other provisions of the constitution, would file a minority report for the record.

Robinson Gets Dictatory. The convention was fired with oratory and would hardly listen at the Nevada senator explained the efforts by which the committee had arrived at the platform: plowies.

There was much noise and confusion and once, when a gate-crasher at a far entrance was eased out with some show of force, Chairman Robinson broke in to best a mighty tattoo with his heaviest duty weapon of his collection of gavel. Folks who wanted to talk could go outside, he said, and those who failed to do it voluntarily would be summarily "removed from this presence." Galleries and floor clapped loudly but kept right on talking more or less.

Pittman finally gave it up. He turned the platform reading over to "Pat" Hattigan of the house in Washington and "Pat's" tremendous tones roared out the remainder of the message so loud two blocks away could hear. The galleries cheered him appreciatively.

Hall Overtaxed. The limits of the hall's seating capacity were far overtaxed at tonight's session—overtaxed everywhere but in that little corner coop for colored.

There were still vacant seats there although it would hold less than 200.

Nobody could do more than guess how many thousands were under the vast roof. Guesses ran as high as 20,000.

There was a stir of excitement in the center aisle before the grand platform reading was completed.

A. S. Aston, a delegate from Maryland, Va., was overcome by heat and carried out.

A moment later Hattigan's leather lungs also surrendered under the platform reading strain and he gave place to Delegate Michael L. Hays of Illinois, who was the third relay leader on the job. When he got to the prohibition plank, a whoop of delight swept through the hall, which was about the only visible or audible notice the delegates had taken of proceedings up to that time.

When the reading of the platform was concluded Governor Moody took the speaker's stand amid great applause from the dry element of the convention.

Moody Speaks. "I am in a rather unfortunate position. The platform contained a plank on law enforcement maintaining the Eighteenth Amendment and pledging the party enforcement of the constitution. For some time in committee we have been discussing this question. The authorship of the plank belongs to Senator Clegg of Virginia. Believing that any political party can afford to endorse any part of the constitution of the United States,"

Moody said he had advocated in committee a plank declaring against any change in the prohibition amendment.

"I accept the matter," Moody concluded, "and I shall not carry the minority report to the convention."

When Moody concluded, Governor Ritchie of Maryland, took the stand to answer him. Ritchie wanted to oppose the Moody report, which had not been submitted and Chairman Robinson interposed an objection. Ritchie was permitted to continue.

The governor said his state formed the doctrine that the way to get tolerance "for your own ideas was to give tolerance to the ideas of others." Ritchie was rather perturbed over the objections made to his speaking. He endorsed the report of the resolutions committee, although it did not meet his views entirely. He urged the return to Jeffersonian principle of state determination, local option, and home rule. "I plead for party unity," he said, "in the interest of other great issues at stake."

CHICAGO, June 28.—(AP)—Wet harvest conditions tended to lift wheat values today, but it was shown that new wheat is arriving here just as early as in 1927.

Three United States senators and one former senator are included. The senators are: Peter G. Gerry, of Rhode Island; Key Pittman, of Nevada; and Kendrick of Wyoming; Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska. Others mentioned were: Cordell Hull, of Tennessee; J. Bruce Kremer, of Montana and Arthur Mullen, national committeeman from Nebraska. Friends of Governor Smith would not do more than say that all of these names had been given consideration.

HONOR COURT TODAY. Twenty-three merit badges will be presented tonight at the Boy Scout Court of Honor at 8 o'clock at district court room.

L. G. H. Williams, Scout commissioner, is expected to make the presentations. Three first class Scouts and three second class Scouts will be given rank at the meeting tonight.

HOUSTON, June 28.—(AP)—Interest in selection of a new chairman for the national committee to direct the national democratic campaign increased tonight. Names of half a dozen men became known as having been given consideration in the Smith camp.

Three United States senators and one former senator are included. The senators are: Peter G. Gerry, of Rhode Island; Key Pittman, of Nevada; and Kendrick of Wyoming; Sena-

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

TAX HEARINGS

Twenty Claims Disposed of By Equalizers

Hearings of claims of "over-valuation" continued before the city tax equalization board yesterday with about twenty claims being disposed of following the night session last night.

Eighty registered for the hearing yesterday but it was impossible to take care of all of the claims. About fifteen claims were heard by the body Wednesday.

Hearings will continue throughout today in an effort to clear up all of the claims.

Hearings of 160 similar cases by the school tax equalization board was completed yesterday after three days and three night sessions.

Practically all valuations have been settled as originally, tax officials announced.

G. W. Whitney, of the Stoner Tax System which was recently installed here, has assisted in both the school and city tax hearings.

The champions now lead the A's by twelve games. Ruth's 29th and 30th homers as well as a circuit blow by Meusel swelled the Yankee total.

Mr. Debnam has made wonderful strides in the agricultural extension work since coming to Hockley county. SAN ANTONIO, June 28.—(AP)—Shreveport won the first game 5 to 4 in 11 innings, while San Antonio copped the nightcap, 5 to 3, but not until a moshion and pop bottle shower was staged as the outgrowth of an umpirical bout.

In the fourth Umpire Hayes at first base called Meyers of the Bears on a double play and after the Sports protested he conferred with Umpire Countryman, and declared the runner out.

Then Umpire Barr at third base ordered Riviere, coaching at first base out of the game, which started an uproar from the fans and cushions and pop bottles were hurled at Barr, one bottle narrowly missing his head and another striking him on the hip.

to Second Annual "Dinner" Tournament to Be Held Sunday

John Jarrott And Jack May Elected Chiefs of Teams

First Match In Annual Contest Will Begin At 8 o'Clock Sunday Morning; Close Matches Seen.

The second annual chicken dinner golf tournament for the Lubbock country club members and associate members will be held Sunday, July 1, with the first match starting promptly at eight o'clock.

Captains of the two well-known teams for this season are: John Jarrott for the Necks, and Jack May, leader of the Gizzards.

Teams chosen for the dinner play were made yesterday by the team captains.

The following teams were chosen by their leaders:

Necks—John Jarrott, captain; Grady Higginbotham, Henry McLarty, Spencer A. Wells, Eric Power, J. O. Smith, John Crider, Willie Kelly, George Radabaugh, Elmer Conley, Dr. O. A. Eshelba, Walter A. Myrick, Jr., Floyd Bowen, Boyd Adcock, Harold Gelin, Clayton Gamill, Chas. A. Read, and Campbell Anderson.

Gizzards—Jack May, captain; Clifton Bussey, E. T. Daniels, Ross A. McWhorter, Willie Gray, Bud Roberts, Hurley Carpenter, I. F. Holladay, Carl Patton, Dr. M. F. Swartz, John Edmiston, Dick Smith, Fred A. Owens, Horace Hawkins, Sam Lightfoot, D. D. Roderick, Edward King, and Clarence Wigginton.

The idea of the dinner tournament was instigated by Ross A. McWhorter, member of the Lubbock country club, and last year's leader for the Gizzards, champions of the first chicken dinner tournament.

Scoring for the play is one point for low score on first nine holes, one point for the eighteen holes, and one point for lowest total score of the match.

Veterans Listed.

Veteran members listed in the tournament are: Grady Higginbotham, one time winner of the open city tournament; E. T. Daniels, erstwhile mayor of the city of Idaho, and a consistent representative of the South Plains in the matches over the state; Spencer A. (Bobby) Wells, renowned tournament player and one of the toughest in tournament play; John (Carmen) Jarrott, one of the pioneers of the game in Lubbock.

As is the usual custom of raising the relative members of the two teams early predictions were that in all probability Ross McWhorter would no doubt be matched with Henry McLarty, a match that has been the standard bearer of every tournament play of the local club.

McWhorter stated not long hence that if he were chosen to meet McLarty in the annual chicken tournament, that he would go after that neck.

No question as to the interest that will be shown in the match as the initial dinner tournament was one of the most successful exhibitions ever staged by the Country club for the golfing members.

Parking for the matches will be announced Sunday.

AUSTIN.—Motions for new trial of the state's thus far unsuccessful suit for more than 500 acres of Hutchinson county oil lands, were filed today in district court here by some of the sixty odd defendants, present holders of the tract.

A jury Tuesday, upholding the theory that the article vacant of local title, and should revert to the state, rendered a verdict involving several millions. The motions will be acted on late in July.

OLYMPIC HOPES

GEORGE H. BAIRD

If George H. Baird, Iowa's star sprinter, makes the Olympic squad this summer, the American athlete won't suffer for lack of music when he is around because he is a pianist of no mean ability.

Baird, at a sophomore, won all his dual 440 races against Michigan, Illinois, Minnesota and Wisconsin. He won the quarter-mile event in the Big Ten meet last year and finished second to Walter of Northwestern in the same meet this year. He was fourth in this event at the national intercollegiate at Chicago.

FOG INTERFERES

Rescue Attempts In Arctic Blocked

KING'S BAY, Spitzbergen, June 28.—Fog blanketed the Spitzbergen archipelago again today, preventing further flights for the rescue of the men left behind on the ice floe when General Umberto Nobile was taken off a few days ago.

Refusal of those in command of the Città Di Milano to allow newspapermen to interview the General has thus far prevented the telling of what happened when the dirigible Italia crashed and just what circumstances led three of the party to seek safety aloft instead of awaiting the aid that had been promised by radio.

The disappearance of these men, coupled with the long delay in reporting the death of Vincenzo Fumella has given rise to many rumors respecting the cause of the disaster and the present condition of the leader of the expedition. Experts have said that if Nobile followed his usual practice of flying very low the peril of the voyage to the pole and return must have been accentuated.

Mr. Rickard took a load from the mind of the anxious fans the other day. He says there will be ring-side seats enough for all at the Tunney-Hooney thing, at $40 a piece.

Roberts, Prexy Of Texas League, Has Eventful Career

Biggest "Regret" Is That He Once Turned Down $200 Purchase of Ty Cobb; Has Long Record.

DALLAS, June 28.—Although he is president of the Texas league, one of the most successful minor circuits in the country, J. Donk Roberts never played but two weeks of professional baseball in his life.

Roberts, then a right-hand pitcher of some promise, joined the Waco club in 1888, leaving a perfectly good job as grocery boy to seek some of the supposedly "easy money" to be derived from the national pastime.

The league blew up after two weeks and not until this day has Roberts received the salary stipulated in his contract.

The future league officials, by the way, was not a right-hand hurler by choice. An accident early in his career forced him to switch from the perside. He is one of the few players in history to turn the trick and get away from it. Eddie Roush, one of the greatest of outfielders started out a right-hand thrower and changed to his left wing.

Following his short tenure at Waco, Roberts was in turn manager of clubs at Temple and Houston.

One of the saddest memories of his life is the fact that he turned down a chance to purchase Ty Cobb from the Augusta, Ga. club for $300. Not only that, but he refused to give Rogers Hornsby a tryout when that young Texan was seeking to break into the game.

FACE TOUGH BATTLE

Mustangs Will Meet Two Texans At West Point

DALLAS, June 28.—When the Southern Methodist University Mustangs of the southwest conference tackle the vaunted Army eleven October 6 at West Point they probably will find a couple of Texas boys lined up with the opposition.

Merimer (Bud) Sprague, Dallas former star at Texas University will captain the West Point gridmen this year, while "Red" Carver, quarterback on the 1928 Oak Cliff eleven which went to the finals in the State High School championship race, is being groomed for the signal-calling post on the army team. Carver was captain of the freshman squad last year.

Honest Effort At Pro Enforcement Platform Pledge

Democratic Statement Of Policy Severely Criticizes Preceding Republican Regimes.

line political alliances with foreign nations. Endorsement of the League led to a bitter fight four years ago in the Madison Square Garden.

The tariff pronouncement also came in for special attention by party leaders since it asserted that the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, with adequate safeguard for the wage of the American laborer, must be the extreme measure of every tariff rate.

The law enforcement plank of the democrats consists of only ten lines, saying at the outset that the republican party, after eight years of control of the government, presented "the remarkable spectacle" of feeling compelled to apologize to the country for its failure to enforce the dry laws. Then it adds:

"Speaking for the national democracy, this convention pledges the party and its nominee to an honest effort to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment, and all other provisions of the federal constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

The high lights of the democratic declaration aside from prohibition are:

Agriculture
Credit aid to co-operative marketing organizations; creation of a federal farm board to assist the farmer in the marketing of products as the Federal Reserve Board has done for the banker and business man; reduction of the spread between what the farmer receives and what the consumer pays and the distribution of the cost of hauling with crop surpluses over the marketed units of the crop whose producers are benefitted by such assistance.

Finance and Taxation
A further reduction of the internal taxes of the people; administration of the Federal Reserve system for the benefit of the farmer, wage earners, merchants and manufacturers and not to the advantage of "stock" market speculators.

Tariff

Enactment of a measure designed to maintain legitimate business and a high standard for American labor with duties that will permit effective competition, insure against monopoly and free the tariff commission from "the executive domination which has destroyed the usefulness of the present commission."

Foreign Policy

Outlawry of war; freedom from entangling political alliances with other nations; protection of American lives and rights; reduction of armament and non-interference with the elections of other internal political affairs of other foreign nations, including "Mexican, Nicaraguan and all other Latin American nations."

Water Power, Water Ways

Deep waterways from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, and to the Atlantic ocean and the expeditious construction of flood relief works on the Mississippi and Colorado rivers.

Labor

Collective bargaining, exemption of labor from operation of anti-trust laws, correction of the abuses in the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes.

Veterans

Generous appropriations, honest management, removal of obstacles and administrative delays and sympathetic assistance for the veterans of all wars.

Unemployment

Correction of this misfortune by adoption of a scientific plan for construction of necessary public work during periods of labor-unemployment.

Women and Children

Equality of women with men in all political and governmental affairs and protection of children through their infancy and childhood.

Immigration

Preservation of the quota law but with elimination of provisions that separate husbands from wives and parents from infant children.

Congressional Elections

Abolishing "lame duck" senators of Congress by advancing the date for the new Congress to meet to two months after the general election.

Campaign Expenditures

Improper and excessive use of money in elections is condemned; a pledge made for publicity of democratic campaign receipts and expenditures in the coming election every thirty days beginning with August 1.

Merchant Marine

Continued government operation but with the gradual sale of ship and lines to private owners.

Monopolies and Anti-Trust Laws

Strict enforcement of the anti-trust laws and the enactment of others to control monopolies and protect the small merchant and manufacturer.

Flood Control

Endorsement of the Jones-Whit bill for Missouri river and Sacramento river flood control.

Rights of States

Constitutional rights and power of the states shall be preserved and the multiplication of offices and office holder sharply checked.

Other planks declare for restoring the mining industry; a living wage for federal employees; moral liberal compensation to federal employees who are injured or killed in operation and maintenance of Panama canal in all positions above messenger with liberal compensation; fulfillment of the promises made to Armenia for local self-government by the allies and America after the world war and preservation of the civil service.

Judging by the letters to the sporting editor, arguing over the matter of the Yankees' superiority and suggesting ways to meet it, the postoffice is having a splendid year.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service

THIS HAS HAPPENED VIRGINIA BREWSTER is in love with an artist, NATHANIEL DEAN, but she is tricked into promising to marry FREDERICK DEAN in one year if she fails to earn $100,000 that he alleges her father cheated him out of. BREWSTER had lost his fortune before his death and VIRGINIA is left destitute.

She pawns some of her jewelry and OLIVER CUTTER promises to invest the money for her. She seeks work without success. She discovers that she is being shadowed and suspects that DEAN has bribed the agencies not to help her.

OLIVER rains her confidence and shows her attentions which NIEL resents, but, then she does not like the familiarity with which his model, CHIRL, treats him.

VIRGINIA is lucky enough to obtain a position which she likes in the early autumn she is amazed when charged by CUTTER'S wife with trying to alienate his affections.

She appeals to OLIVER to exit of her investments. Then he confesses that he has not made a penny for her, but that he will give her the money if she will go away with him. She denounces his guaviness and leaves his office.

Her company offers to send her on a six-weeks' cruise as ship hostess, but before giving her answer she goes to see NIEL. His model greets her at the studio with such an air of proprietorship that VIRGINIA is angered.

Meanwhile, DEAN has written NIEL of MRS. CUTTER'S charges and when he asks for an explanation, VIRGINIA lets him think that her love for him is cooling.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII VIRGINIA could see Nathaniel's point of view easily enough but it did not suit her purpose to admit that she could. Had it not been the source of her greatest fear? The fear that Frederick Dean would communicate with him as he had with Jeanie Cutter?

And didn't she realize that any lover, no matter how trustful, would be sunk in suspicion when he learned of his sweetheart's meetings with another man under the conditions that she had been meeting Oliver?

Virginia forgave Nathaniel his brief period of doubt. But it was a great pity that he did not know she had forgiven him, because he was in a wretched state of suspense over the outcome of the whole miserable business.

"I suppose it did look bad," she said laughingly, "but I think you might have found out why I did it before jumping to conclusions about it."

That hurt him, she could see, but she went on mercilessly. "You'd have tried to stop it if I'd told you; you know you would, I didn't want to quarrel with you."

"I can't see why you had to meet Jim after office hours to transact business," Nathaniel returned stubbornly.

"How could I meet him during office hours? You know I am not at liberty to leave my work whenever I like."

"Because Mr. Dean had written Mrs. Cutter. She took the stand that I was trying to lure Oliver away from her. We had to settle everything without delay."

"Then you're through with him?" he pressed eagerly.

Virginia hesitated. "Oh, I don't know," she said thoughtfully. "Perhaps we can manage by meeting each other at noon. That is if Jeanie doesn't object."

Nathaniel took note of this fact that she utterly disregarded his ob-she reasoned hopefully. The morning after her personal of the dairy she telephoned to Mr. Gardiner to ask if there was any record of a business transaction between her father and a man named O. D. Leigh.

She surmised that "Oddly" Leigh would insist upon repaying the loan her father had made in gratitude when he sold the plantation. The dairy had closed some few weeks previous to her father's death. Perhaps the sale had been made in that time.

Virginia did not believe so but she wanted to find out if possible. She remembered that Mr. Gardiner had spoken of the money her father had obtained on the estate at Glen Cove. He had not mentioned a sum of $25,000 as he might have done if it had come to the estate so recently.

Besides, if her father had received it, Virginia thought, it would have gone to Frederick Dean; and he had not acknowledged receiving any part of the money he claimed her father had cheated him of. Mr. Gardiner replied by letter after looking into the matter and informed Virginia that there was no record of the Brewster estate containing the name of Leigh. Virginia breathed a sigh of thankfulness. She regretted, however, that Stacy was away on his ship. She wanted to ask for more information concerning "Oddly" Leigh particularly regarding the bad news that Stacy had spoken of in connection with him.

She had no idea in which part of Haiti his plantations were located or how to reach him by mail. Stacy had said that he was a well-known character, however, so she set herself to making inquiries at every likely source of information. Among the few men on the Capella liners whom she knew there was one who gave her the information she wanted not long before the Agena sailed. Leigh owned a goodly sized plantation just outside of Port au Prince, she learned.

"You can drive out in one of those coaches, as they call their horse cabs. It's a great sight if you go on market day. An endless chain of natives in and out of the city. You'll find Mr. Leigh a great fellow, too."

Boost Airport Slaton Committee Busy on Project

SLATON, June 28.—A committee has been appointed by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce to work on the matter of establishing an airplane landing field here, says J. W. Hood, president of the Slaton chamber. Hood declared that, owing to the city's location on what is believed sure to become a principal east-west-north-south route, it is highly important that a field properly equipped be provided for accommodation of fliers.

FUTURE GENERATIONS.

Large bodies move slowly, has been a saying for many years, and we presume that most people have observed that this is really true. Some of the great movements take several years to develop, and reach the point where they can go over to the accomplishment of the objective. Some things have to be brought up through generations, and we seem to be facing a crisis now the seed of which was planted far back in history. The question of evolution has been coming up through a series of textbooks that have been forced into the hands of students. The people have paid the expenses of sending their boys and girls to colleges, where these text books have been used, and these boys and girls have studied them, and have sat under the instructions of instructors who have taken for granted that the text books are right, and for many years the diabolical plot got by without notice, until the minds of thousands upon thousands of boys and girls had been poisoned and their faith shaken in the God that they had been taught to believe in around the home altar and at the little red school house on the hill. Many other things have gotten into the text books of our colleges and schools that should never have been there, and now comes the discovery that in the state of New York it has been shown through testimony given to the Federal Trade Commission in Washington that the great water power and public utility corporations of the state have been using the schools of that state for the spread of their propaganda. Even to the extent that $227,000, it has been shown, has been spent in the last six years in the distribution of textbooks which have been colored to favor the objects sought by these powerful financial interests. The questions involved in water power and utility control are debatable. But this is not the point. The crime lies in the fact that these great corporations have been willing to brush aside all sense of fair play and decency and crowd their way into that most sacred of institutions—the public school.

The monopolists are merely following the classic instruction: As the twig is bent the tree inclines. And the dangerous fact is that in our day economic power seems unchallenged by any effective criticism. The first to discover these ramifications are usually the Socialists, and with their doctrinaire use of them and our tendency to shy at anything coming out of their camp we go to the other extreme of indifference. Still this charge, if true, is the most important matter for consideration that the American people have had to face in some time. And it is just one more argument against giving a bureaucracy carte blanche in the matter of education. If our public schools are to become the private property of monopoly, then we have no free school system.

AUTOMOBILE PROTECTION

There has been much said and written in regard to compulsory insurance law for motorists, and bills are continually coming before legislative bodies regarding this matter. There is much interest in the passage of a bill that will protect motorists, but a state law would be of very little benefit. It would necessarily have to be a federal act, and effective with all people no matter where they lived if it would be of any great benefit. However, there is much to be desired in the two bills awaiting the December term of Congress. There are several objections to the bills, and it may be possible that these objections cannot be ironed out at this time, but there is need for some sort of law. One of the desirable features of compulsory liability insurance is that it can be enforced. Many other safety laws passed cannot be. We have a law requiring motorists to have their lights set at a certain angle and adjusted to prevent glare, but it is common knowledge that hundreds of automobiles are operated in the state of Texas with headlights that completely blind motorists who must face them at night. The law is not effective because of the difficulty of enforcement. It is possible to force each motorist to obtain a certificate showing that the lights have been approved by a certified inspector, but often these inspectors are not thorough in their tests, and then it is easy for the motorist, so inclined to readjust the headlights after getting the certificate.

It is easy to see that the compulsory feature of the proposed insurance bills can be enforced by making each motorist present a liability insurance policy before a license for the year is issued.

One of the chief advantages of liability insurance is that it would enable motorists not at fault to obtain compensation for damages sustained when struck by irresponsible motorists. Today negroes and many white people, often operate machines which should have been left in the scrap pile several years ago. Usually these machines have no brakes, inadequate lights, and defective mechanism throughout. They often figure in accidents, and because of their defects, usually are at fault. However, it is impossible for any motorist to collect damages, because people who operate such vehicles do not have money or property, and a court judgment against them is worthless. If these people were forced to take out liability insurance, they either would have to leave the old wrecks standing where they should be, or the public would be protected in a measure.

Of course there is a possibility that compulsory insurance of this type might tend to encourage recklessness among some drivers, who might feel that insurance relieve them of responsibility. And the problem of determining who is at fault in each case naturally would offer many difficulties.

However, the advantages offered by the bills more than offset the faults. It is the motorist who cannot be forced to pay for damages caused by him who is a great menace to traffic today, and any measure which would eliminate this menace is very desirable.

THE ROAD HOG

Most of us who have traveled on the roads, and have observed the road hogs and we have also learned that the average road hog is also a professional speeder. We read in the San Antonio papers, and other state papers of a fatal accident that occurred on the San Antonio-Austin highway last Sunday in which one lady was instantly killed and others were seriously injured. After the entire paving had been surrendered to the "killer," he crowded over still further and in his great speed side-swiped the car that the lady was in who was killed, turning it over, with the result stated above, and without stopping to see what all had happened he disappeared down the highway in a cloud of dust, leaving the injured to care for the dead, and trusting to the kindness of other passers by to render them assistance. Eyewitnesses did not have time to get the number, but said the car was a heavy sedan. This is a slight clue on which to work, but the authorities should make the most of it. So flagrant an offense should not go unpunished. It's revolting—yet just such a deed as any roadhog is capable of: cruelty and cowardice characteristic of the person who operates a car on the apparent theory that he has an exclusive right to the highway, and that others use it at their peril. Such driving is to be seen any day on a busy thoroughfare. That serious accidents do not result more frequently, is due principally to chance. Indeed, numerous instances of automobiles being forced off the road lately have been reported in South Texas. Of course, the public does not hear about the many narrow escapes.

No amount of educational effort will reach such offenders. They are perhaps incapable of learning better—devoted alike of common sense and decency. Anti-social by instinct, they are turned loose against a defenseless public. What can be done except to put them where other enemies to society belong?

There is one good thing about Lubbock and that is we have a few people here who will keep the weeds cut off their property. There are some people, however, who own property and do not live in Lubbock who will not spend a few dollars to keep the weeds and trash removed from their property. People who have no more civic pride than that should not own property in Lubbock, and there should be some way by which this property could be cleaned up, and make them pay the bill.

While a certain business man in Lubbock was howling about a certain printer in Lubbock buying some supplies from an out-of-town merchant, the merchant's wife was sending an order to an out-of-town printing establishment for cards that she could get in Lubbock. We should all get together on this trade-at-home proposition.

Lubbock may not be in the oil district. There may never be a producer within 50 miles of here, but that should not stand in the way of Lubbock being the base of operation, if the people here will get busy and see that everything is made ready for the coming of the oil boom to the west and southwest.

We have heard a few people complain that people who water the lawns allow the water to spray out across the sidewalks. This is rather an inconvenience, and while it is very hard to avoid sometimes, those who have been guilty of such should try to avoid it as much as possible.

OUT OUR WAY—

By Williams

SO THINK WE

We think a great many people who have been done a wrong, feel that they should even themselves for the wrong that has been done them. When they do that they simply place themselves on a level with the wrong doer, and that is far from what you think you are doing. This is a little thought that possibly you had not figured out, and if it is not then we have just wasted a little time saying something that we hoped would result in good for humanity.

We think in this day and time many people are afflicted with hurryitis. They seem to be in such a hurry that they have no time for anything, and that is a very bad state of affairs.

We think it will come a time when we will have to place the State highways in the hands of the state, and eliminate the counties as feed-aid seems to be slipping fast. We note now that the federal road aid is going to be forthcoming as a state unit proposition, and counties will not be given this aid separately.

We think those fellows who are building that huge passenger ship to be 1,000 feet long and cost $30,000,000 to be completed in 1932, will possibly find that people are traveling mostly by air, and it may be a very poor investment.

We think it is a very hard job to sit as a board of equalization when there are a hundred or more who are dissatisfied with the rendition made on their property, but there are very few people who can understand why it is that the same property is valued at $1000 by one set of men, and at $3000 by another and possibly $2500 by another. It is certainly not worth any more to the owner, and it seems there is room for debate over the question to say the least of it.

We think that the fewer planks they put in the democratic platform the fewer the candidates for president will break if elected. We go into campaign as to who we shall nominate for president, who has really no law making power, and pay no attention to the election of congressmen and senators, who have the making of the laws in their power. Texas has a strong line-up this year of congress and senate, and there is little chance for the Lone Star state to go wrong, but other states may not be as fortunate. A strong force will have to get behind the campaign of good men—men who are religious, or at least moral, and elect them to office if we are to build up a nation morally.

PRSSS COMMENT

OUR CITY PARK

Substantial progress is being made at the city park on South Broadway. Many trees have been planted and despite an adverse spring and early summer, due to the care taken of them, are in a thriving condition. Future years will show the wisdom of this move and future generations will pause to do homage to those who have had the foresight to look into the future for their benefit. But future generations are not all who benefit this splendid park. Each afternoon scores of kiddies and grown-ups are to be seen at the park enjoying the cool shade, the playground equipment, and the association with their fellows who have come for a common purpose.

Now is the time for the city to acquire other needed park grounds. It can never be done more cheaply. Our parks should be so distributed that they will be readily accessible to all the people. The present park, admirably adapted to the uses to which it is put, is not centrally located with respect to population. In these days when the rule is a fifty-foot lot, additional space is needed for the youngsters and the grown-ups, especially the youngsters.

As new additions come into the city provision should be made before they are admitted for park grounds suitably situated to care for the lots in that addition. Thus when the present city is once provisioned with parks an automatic provision will be in effect for the future growth of the city. It is estimated by those who have followed the growth of various cities that five per cent is a suitable portion of any residential section for park purposes.

A fitting vision into the future will assure the growth of a well balanced city in this regard—Plainview Herald. Vision is one of the great arts of nature. It does not seem that all are endowed with a very great amount of it, but thanks to the few who have vision, this great world is going forward. The development of states, as well as the growth of cities and communities has been possible only as it has been visualized by people. The Constitution of the United States, the State Constitution, and the city ordinance are all monuments to the vision of men and women, and we only hope that others may continue to visualize and see the needs of the people of Lubbock and other cities of the South Plains and the South Plains as a whole. So that progress may not be checked for one minute, but we may go forward and develop one of the greatest sections of the southwest.

YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

In their interesting guide on home problems, Miss K. W. Kinyon and Prof. L. Thomas Hopkins devote one chapter to a discussion of the manner in which sickness should be controlled in the home.

The systematic outlines that they present are safe guides to healthful living. For instance, one statement gives briefly and succinctly the elementary facts for the control of the sickroom. The room must be clean and simply furnished and be provided with plenty of fresh air and sunshine. Heavy furniture, curtains and rugs and bric-a-brac merely provide places in which to accumulate dust and are of little value to the sick. All unnecessary furniture and ornamentation should be removed.

Flowers may be placed in the room, but even these are frequently distasteful to patients and should not be urged upon the sick who do not care for them. Particularly distasteful are faded or dead flowers.

No medicine should be given which has not been prescribed by the physician. Medicine should always be given at the specified time and in the amount prescribed. The patient's own judgment in this matter is certainly not to be trusted but even his judgment is better than that of the untrained attendant.

Few people without training are able to take care of the patient's bed. Everyone apparently is anxious to make the patient feel comfortable, to shake up his bed, move him around, and adjust his pillow. The patient may prefer to be left alone.

If such happens to be the case he probably will be fully compensated to manipulate his own pillows. If a person is sick, the sheets, pillow cases and bed linen must be laundered frequently. If the patient has a communicable disease, these should be washed at least every second day. The night gown or pajamas also should be washed often, certainly at least once every two days.

Communicable diseases are spread by people who carry the germ of infection from one person to another. When infectious disease is present in the home, the hands and face should be washed by every person both on entering and leaving the sickroom.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that those Londoners take murder seriously. In 1927, there were twenty-seven murders. Every murder mystery was solved, and ten of the twenty-seven committed suicide before their trial. This simply goes to show that the old saying that a Britisher cannot see a joke is fully demonstrated.

It is reported that hostesses cost $10.00 each on some of the European nations. Aren't you glad you do not live in Europe?

It is reported that the old timer is defined as being the man that can remember when a woman could not roll a cigarette and a lady wouldn't.

It is reported that the Huhbers are getting shaped up to win some tall games. We hope they will not suit too long.

It is reported that Al Smith is the only man that can beat Herbert Hoover in the race for the presidency. In that case Herbert must be a pretty hard fellow to handle.

It is reported that people are wild over the prospects of the opening of a new oil field in New Mexico around Hobbs. It would seem that people would get kinder used to such stuff, now and refrain from throwing a fit and dumping their money in holes where they can never get it back.

It is reported that there is going to be a big celebration somewhere in the South Plains, in honor of the Denver railroad. In all probability the people of the South Plains will be mighty busy looking after the bumper crops by that time, and it may not be such a big thing but the people appreciate it.

It is reported that some one has said they doubted if Volstead was functioning. We are rather of the opinion that Volstead is alright, but he trouble with Volstead is that his friends all went fishing, and quit the job, and left the operation of the law in the hands of its enemies, which of course had a bad effect. If the prohibition forces expect Mr. Volstead to function, it will be necessary for them to get in behind him, and help him to carry on.

It is reported that some of the more progressive owners of vacant property are cutting the weeds. That is a mighty good example to those who have not even cut them off the property where their home is.

It is reported that most people thought Hoover only had a band wagon while as a matter of fact, it was a steam roller.

COMPANY ORGANIZED TO MANUFACTURE WEED KILLER.

A local company has been organized, and is now in process of incorporating for the purpose of manufacturing a preparation perfected by a local doctor to combat the blue weed menace on the farms and ranches of West Texas.

As was announced in these columns two weeks ago this compound is a liquid which when sprayed on blue weed, or any other vegetation having a green leaf kills the plant down to the smallest root. We understand that experimenters have been carried on at various places for many years to obtain a formula which would accomplish the same result, but up to the present no effective preparation could be found that would not injure the land. The inventor of this formula claims that it does not injure the land for productive purposes, but is really a fertilizer, only so little is used in the killing of obnoxious plants that it would scarcely be noticeable.

Also it is claimed that it can be sold cheaply enough to become of practical use on the farms of this section. In some localities blue weed are real menace to farming operations, as it requires long and tedious cultivation to kill them. They like Johnson grass, have a tap root that extends for a long distance underground, and not only is the surface moisture used but the subsoil dampness as well, to the injury of growing crops. To be able to kill these weeds with a single application or spray will be a boon to farmers and enable them to rid their fields of this pest. Also, the loco weed which has caused such a loss to ranchers can be eradicated the same way. After making many demonstrations, quite a few of the farmers and business men of this section have become thoroughly convinced that this preparation will do all that is claimed for it—Hockley County Herald.

Twenty-three head of registered Jerseys arrived in Snyder last week for distribution among the farmers of Scurry county, reports the Scurry County Times. Every one of the new arrivals was placed on a farm without difficulty.

The Cross Plains Review reports that the new Cross Plains ice plant, a 30-tonner, is now operating at full capacity, giving regular employment to eight men with two extra on rush days.

"A hog will find shade in hot weather if he can," remarks the Roscoe Times, in a dissertation on livestock and their care. Yes, and so will a man, if he's right sensible!

Six school districts of Nolan county will vote July 14 on a proposition to consolidate to form a rural high school. The districts, says the Nolan County News, of Sweetwater are Blackwell, Decker, Antelope, Collins, Bollen and Rocky Crossing. A similar proposal is pending in Taylor and other counties.

Will the luscious apricot grow in West Texas? Yes, says the Stanton Reporter. It reports six large apricot trees loaded with fruit growing in the front yard of S. D. McWhorter of Stanton.

Public Opinion

In the "good old days" when the price of American "liberty" was 3 cents a glass and the rotten-eggging of a prohibition speaker was no offense, but only the pursuit of happiness, a then distinguished democratic politician somewhat sacrilegiously declared:

"You could no more run the democratic party without whiskey than you could conduct a church without water."

These "good old days," a saloon at every corner, a beer joint in every block, the breweries controlling political nominations and carrying the names of some public officials on their secret payroll and whiskey-debaunched voters sent in squads to the polls. That was the life—with liberty unrestrained and the pursuit of happiness wide open.

And now, the gentleman boot-licker—so called because he boasts that he sells only to "gentlemen."

And now, the college professor who is horrified by the infringement on personal liberty and the pursuit of happiness by the prohibition laws, but proclaims his unalterable opposition to the liquor evil—asserting, however, that the best way to control it is not to control it.

And now, the "law-abiding" citizen who violates that prohibition law and proclaims that it should be repealed because it cannot be enforced—giving himself, of course, as a living example of the non-enforcement of the law.

And now, the "high society" lady with her moral-sensationalism, who shakes her head and says: "I will not associate with them in such a low and vulgar way as to see how far a candidate for my vote can get by a dry platform for my wet candidate. Anyhow, you Southerners may enforce the prohibition laws in your states, but my candidate will not enforce them in mine for a constitutional amendment and then repudiate it when adopted. We offer you a candidate who is willing to uphold the Constitution and abide his oath of office—provided that sacred document is not permitted to interfere with whiskey. Now you Southerners have your prize and we will promise to pay provided that the right of Texas is nullified by a constitutional provision is considered in the interest of whiskey—so necessary to run the democratic party."

And what do the people of the South get if the bargain is struck by the politicians? Perhaps the dose of some political issue if its citizens amendment and then repudiate it when adopted. We offer you a candidate who is willing to uphold the Constitution and abide his oath of office—provided that sacred document is not permitted to interfere with whiskey. Now you Southerners have your prize and we will promise to pay provided that the right of Texas is nullified by a constitutional provision is considered in the interest of whiskey—so necessary to run the democratic party."

And now, the politicians of great states whose official oaths require them to obey an amendment to the Constitution adopted by the states close one eye when any reference is made to obedience and rely in the words of the Tammany politician to President Cleveland: "What's the Constitution among friends?"

And so on down the list—or up the list—until you reach Tammany Hall, not a political party, of course, merely a place where assembly politicians who believe in "honest graft," corruption of electors and elections, institutional moral debauchery, and that the democratic party can not be run without whiskey.

And so the Tammany Tiger comes to Texas with a prohibition ribbon merely a place where assembly politicians who believe in "honest graft," corruption of electors and elections, institutional moral debauchery, and that the democratic party can not be run without whiskey.

You can not run the democratic party without whiskey. Tammany is for whiskey, ergo, you can not run the party without Tammany, ergo, on with the dance, let whiskey be unconquered! Spread the Tammany!

Today's Poems

Man impatient to possess.
All he wants of happiness,
Works with feverish hands,
Striving for his whim today,
But Old Father Time says: "Nay!
Till and till your hands,
O'er that wall will I climb
Not tomorrow, but in time."

TIME
Father Time is never swift
In the making of a gift.
Slowly he goes,
Man who wants life's beauty soon
Flee to wait till middle-age,
For the budding rose,
Unto all who would be great
Father Time says: "Work and wait."

Oh, be patient, eager man,
Life is purposed to a plan.
Wisdom comes with years,
Time will teach you as you grow,
Everything you want to know
Will be there, when the need appears.
Even mysteries sublime
You will understand in time.

One Well for Each Forty Acres, Plan In Winkler Field

Change Is From Former Basis of One Test to Each
Ten Acre Tract In Famous Pool.

(By Associated Press)
FORT WORTH, June 28.—Change in Winkler pro-rata rules which would limit drilling to one well in the center of each 40 acre unit, in the north Winkler or Leck area instead of one well to 10 acres, as in the older field, was unanimously approved at a conference of operators of the district here today.

Proposal of allocating production on the basis of average potential, instead of the sum of potential of wells on each unit, was also favored, though not as decisively.

The sense of the meeting is to be embodied into a proposed order, which will be submitted to the Winkler advisory committee at another meeting Tuesday for transmission by the latter to the railroad commission. Rules calling for fewer wells, it is believed, will get all of the oil and eliminate considerable waste, as well as simplifying over-production problems in the field, operators expressed themselves as feeling.

Only one new test is underway. It is a location by the Texas-Pacific Coal and Oil company, and is made one, the old basis of a well to 10 acres.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 28. (U. S. Continued nervousness over the coming crop prospect was reflected in an advance of about $2 a bale in the cotton market today. After selling off to 22.18 early, October sold up to 22.75, a net advance of 41 points and a new high record for the season, and closed at 22.69. The general market closed steady at net advance of 31 to 37 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 5 to 9 points, active months quickly showing net losses of 11 to 18 points under realizing and local selling. No very particular news factor was mentioned in connection with this initial decline, but buyers found little encouragement in the ruling of Liverpool, while there was talk of domestic mill curtailment which probably accounted for some of the pressure.

Arrival of Gas At Tahoka Celebrated

Entry of West Texas Firm
Into Field Welcomed By Program Held This Week
At Lynn Capital.

(Special To The Avalanche)

TAHOKA, June 28.—The turning on of gas in Tahoka by the West Texas Gas Company was celebrated here last night with a program on the court house lawn. Judge B.
P. Maddox welcomed the company's entrance into this field, and he was answered with addresses from W.
W. Graves, Amarillo, assistant general manager, and Jno. R. Thompson, sales manager. The Wells-Edwards orchestra furnished music.
Several hundred people and a number of gas company officials were present.

The city mains have been completed, and gas became available for use by the citizens of Tahoka Monday of this week. Some work remains to be done on the station two miles west of here. A down-town office and sales room has been established with six employees.

The line through here extends from the Panhandle oil fields northeast of Amarillo to Plainview, Floydada, Crosbyton, Lubbock, Slaton, Post, Tahoka, and intermediate points. The pipe line crew has passed through O'Donnell and Lamessa and will extend the line to Stanton, Midland, Odessa, Pecos, and possibly El Paso. Work is being rushed to have gas in all of these towns by early fall. Plans have already been made for extending a line
west from Canyon to Hereford, Clovis, and various New Mexico points.

INSCRIPTION ROW Louvain Library Tablet Reading Bothers

LOUVAIN, Belgium, June 28. (U. P.)—Herbert Hoover, who is still director of Belgium relief, sent a cable message to Monsignor Laguerre, Rector of Louvain Library, granting full jurisdiction to the university over what inscription is to be placed on heated controversy with Whitney Warren, American architect, who has insisted on the inscription used in the original plans, including the words "destroyed by German fury."

First of Slaton Wheat Gathered

Average Is Nineteen Bushels An Acre, On Joplin Farm, Seven Miles Southwest of City.

(Special To The Avalanche)

SLATON, June 28.—The first 1928 wheat to be harvested here came from Jess Joplin farm, seven miles southwest of Slaton, averaging nineteen bushels per acre, and being harvested with a combine.

Wheat in this section, while the average is not exceptionally large, will average fifteen to twenty bushels per acre this season according to estimates. This is better than the yield of last year, and is principally due to more seasonal moisture.

According to W. H. Smith, Santa Fe agent here, the Slaton division of the Santa Fe will handle more South Plains and North Plains
wheat this season than was handled a year ago. The car supply is adequate to accommodate the wheat rush now starting. Mr. Smith said.

Gas At Father's Service

We always think of gas service as benefiting Mother—for her it cooks the
meals, heats the water, operates the gas refrigerator.

But who is it that sits down to those
well cooked dinners
—that enjoys instant
hot water for bathing and shaving—
that is saved all the work of furnace tending in winter-time
because gas heats the house automatically?
After all, we're serving Father, too, and in commemoration of him, Gas Service re-
dedicates its efforts
toward giving Father
the most comfort
and satisfaction with the least bother and exertion.

It's done with heat, you can do it better with GAS!
