Stans Strikes Back At Demos

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's chief fund-raiser, Maurice H. Stans, has struck back on two fronts at Democrats who he says are trying to make political capital out of Republican campaign-money controversies and the break-in at Democratic headquarters.

Stans accused the House Banking and Currency Committee of "partisan misbehavior and discourtesy" after its staff report questioned his denials of involvement in a transaction linked to the Democratic-headquarters-bugging affair.

And Wednesday Stans joined in filing a $2.5-million civil suit against Lawrence F. O'Brien, former Democratic chairman and now chairman of Sen. George McGovern's presidential campaign. The suit charged O'Brien with abusing the federal-court process in connection with O'Brien's $1-million suit stemming from the break-in and alleged bugging of Democratic national headquarters.

A spokesman for O'Brien said the GOP suit was frivolous and "an attempt to intimidate us from pursuing our own suit against the Republicans. We will not be intimidated by such desperate tactics."

The Democratic National Committee, meanwhile, said a small black gadget described as a listening device was found in a telephone Wednesday at party headquarters.

Committee officials said the device was removed by the FBI after a secretary reported that the phone line was not functioning properly. Newsmen were not allowed to see the device. The FBI would not comment on the incident.

Stans' attack on the House committee report and the GOP suit further escalated the political battle which has developed since five men, equipped with eavesdropping and photographic equipment, were arrested in the Democratic offices June 17.

Stans, former Commerce secretary, has been drawn into the controversy because $114,000 in Republican campaign funds was held for a time in the Miami bank account of one of the men charged in the break-in. High-level officials say neither the White House nor the GOP was involved in the burglary.

A confidential Banking Committee staff report, issued to committee members Tuesday night, said Stans had approved the transfer of at least $89,000 of the money from Mexico to Nixon's committee in Washington hours before a new federal law would have required disclosure of the contributors.

Stans, in a statement Wednesday, said reports "that I knew of an approved complex plan to transfer funds from contributors to Mexican banks and then to the Finance Committee to Re-Elect the President (are) not true."

The Banking Committee investigation quoted another Nixon fund-raiser as saying he had cleared the legal aspects of moving the money from Mexico with Stans.

Stans did not comment directly on that statement by William Liedtke, president of Pennzoil Corp. in Houston.

McGovern has been using the bugging controversy as a major campaign issue and both sides have traded charges on a variety of campaign-finance matters.

Antiwar Group On Way To Escort POWs Home

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Four militant opponents of the Vietnam war were en route to Hanoi today to bring home three American fliers the Communists have promised to release. The wife of one POW and the mother of another accompanied them.

The group left New York Wednesday night. They were to stop briefly in the Danish capital and to arrive Friday in Hanoi for a two-week stay, according to the head of the delegation, Cora Weiss, co-chairman of the Committee of Liaison with Families of Servicemen Detained in Vietnam.

The POWs to be released are

Shooting Death Of Area Man Investigated

Ochiltree County sheriff's officers were investigating this morning the shooting death of a Perryton farmer-rancher in his home on Wednesday.

LaVaun Pattison, 48, was pronounced dead at his home at 11:55 a.m. Wednesday after he was shot in the groin about 11:45 a.m.

Pattison died almost immediately because of a massive loss of blood, sheriff's officers said. Justice of the Peace H. F. Hulsey pronounced him dead. Hulsey has ordered an autopsy before announcing the official cause of death.

Officers said Pattison was found near the front door of his house at 1102 S. Baylor. A bullet was found lodged in the cushion of a couch inside the house.

Pattison was shot while he was sitting or lying on the couch in the living room, officers said. A rifle found at the scene is believed to be the murder weapon.

Pattison's estranged wife, Mrs. Gloria Pattison of 1101 S. Colgate, was found in a hysterical condition in the front yard. She was taken to Ochiltree County Hospital and placed under heavy sedation, officers said. They had not been able to question her.

The shooting was reported by an unknown person to a telephone operator. The call was not able to be traced.

Funeral services for Pattison were pending with Boxwell Brothers Funeral Home of Perryton. He is survived by his wife; one son, Bill, and one daughter, Angela, all of Perryton.

Navy Lt. Markham Gartley, 28; Navy Lt. Norris A. Charles, 27; and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, 34.

Accompanying Mrs. Weiss were Gartley's mother, who is from Dunedin, Fla., and Charles's wife, from San Diego, Calif. Elias's father, who lives in Valdosta, Ga., said he could not make the trip.

The remaining members of the delegation are David Delinger, the other co-chairman of Mrs. Weiss's committee; Richard Falk, professor of international law and practice at Princeton University; and Yale University's chaplain, the Rev. William Sloan Coffin Jr.

Coffin said he had "no precise idea" why the North Vietnamese were going to release some Americans for the first time in three years.

"My guess," he said, "is it would be a way of trying to tell the American people: We are prepared to release prisoners. It's three today and it's over 400 tomorrow."

Coffin urged that the U.S. government reciprocate with a temporary halt in the bombing of North Vietnam while the group is in the country.

Mrs. Gartley was carrying presents for six prisoners other than her son, Mrs. Charles, when asked what presents she was taking, said: "I'll be the greatest present for my husband—except for our daughter." Their 3-year-old Kersten is staying with relatives in Tampa, Fla.

Sheriff And Judge Leave For Meeting

Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan and Gray County Judge Don Cain left today for Austin to attend the law enforcement conference sponsored by Texas attorney general Crawford Martin.

Sheriff Jordan is scheduled to appear on the program during the course of the conference.

Purpose of the annual conference is to brief those across the state involved in law enforcement on certain phases of that work both technically and legally.

Too, these various officers pool information and experiences through seminars or personal contacts.

Sheriff Jordan has appeared on the program or at various seminars during the year.

JUST THE PUSH OF A BUTTON—Tony Anderson, water superintendent of the Pampa Municipal Water Treatment Plant, pushed a button about 11:30 a.m. today to begin the flow of Lake Meredith Water into the city's distribution system. The lake water will be distributed on a sporadic schedule for the next few days to allow for checks. It will take several days for the lake water to displace the well water currently in the system.

PLANT IN OPERATION

Lake Meredith Water Turned Into City Distribution System

By TEX DEWEESE

An historic milestone in Pampa's public utilities development was reached at approximately 11:30 a.m. today when a button was pushed at the city's new $14 million water treatment plant.

At that time Tony Anderson, city water and sewer superintendent, pressed the button that opened valves and began the flow of Lake Meredith water into the city's water distribution system.

The flow started from the plant on Kentucky Ave., a quarter mile west of Price Rd. It moved east on Kentucky and began spreading into the water mains leading north and south to mix with the well water that has served Pampa residents.

The lake water, which already had been turned into the plant but not yet into the mains, was tested this morning by two Pampa News reporters. They drank from the fountain in the plant's front lobby. Each approved of the water's taste and said they could tell no difference from the city's well water.

The green light to automate the water plant was given by City Manager Mack Wofford after he had received word from Burger's test laboratory that the final 18-hour test on water samples had proved to be negative.

This meant the lake water ready to be distributed into Pampa homes was sterile with no pollution or contamination of any kind, Wofford said.

Wofford immediately called the Texas Health Department in Austin with notification of the final test report. The city manager was then given the go-ahead to have the water turned into the city's distribution system.

The city manager said tests of the water also have been made for some time at the state health department's regional laboratory in Austin and all had been returned negative.

He said the plant will be operated on a sporadic schedule—sort of an on-again-off-again operation for the first few days to allow complete checks to be made on all equipment.

"We will turn it on for an hour and then shut down," he said.

"The time periods will be sporadic to enable the checks to be made."

Officials at the plant said it would take several days for the lake water to displace the city well water now in the mains.

Eventually, it was added, all water in the mains will be lake water and there will be no mixing with the well water.

Wofford made it clear the city's 14 water wells will not be abandoned. They will be kept in operation for use if and when needed.

Supt. Anderson said it probably would be Wednesday of next week before the water distribution system is completely cleared of well water and the plant is in full, steady operation. This, he said, will be due to the shutdown periods between now and then.

With complete operation of the plant approximately 4 million gallons of lake water will be pumped into the mains each day. Peak periods in summer will require around 8 million gallons daily.

Today's culmination of the Lake Meredith project dates from 1960 when voters in 11

Panhandle and South Plains cities voted for the huge federal project.

Pampa voters in 1964 okayed a bond issue in the amount of $750,000 to build the plant, but by the time construction was ready to start in 1969 a federal grant of $650,000 was necessary to build it.

The A.E. Mitchell Construction Co. of Dallas, contractors, were beset with many delays caused by weather and difficulties in obtaining materials from suppliers.

The substantial completion date which fell with today's automation of the plant was approximately 180 days behind schedule.

City Manager Wofford said the contractor still has cleanup operations and other details to wind up.

A regional inspector from the State Health Department is due in Pampa within a day or so to make final inspection of the plant, Wofford said.

He also stated plans will be announced later for an open house to give the public an opportunity to visit the new water treatment plant.

Bunker-To-Bunker Fight Going On In Quang Tri; 700 Reds Die

SAIGON (AP)—South and North Vietnamese forces were locked in savage, bunker-to-bunker combat at Quang Tri today, field reports said. It was the third straight day of heavy fighting there.

South Vietnamese marines have made no progress since Tuesday when a company of about 200 men fought their way into the southeastern corner of the 19th century Citadel.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen, reporting from the front, estimated the South Vietnamese held only about two acres of the 50-acre fortress.

Lt. Col. Do Viet, a spokesman for the Saigon command, said marine reinforcements got into the Citadel, but field reports said these were replacements for casualties. There were no indications the North Vietnamese were able to get reinforcements into the Citadel.

Officers told Jensen nearly 700 North Vietnamese troops had been killed in fighting in and around the Citadel during the past five days. The South Vietnamese were said to be losing about 25 men killed and 125 wounded each day.

The South Vietnamese had anticipated clearing out the Citadel by the weekend, but it now appears it will take much longer. Tropical storm Flossie is due in the Quang Tri area over the weekend, and is expected to curtail American air strikes.

Nearly 50 U.S. B52 bombers struck on both sides of the demilitarized zone in support of the South Vietnamese at Quang Tri.

The eight-jet Stratofortresses hit at North Vietnamese supply dumps and troop positions at points ranging from near the port of Dong Hoi to within one mile of Quang Tri, dropping more than 1,100 tons of explosives.

U.S. fighter-bombers pounded rail lines and supply depots between Hanoi and the Chinese border for the fourth successive day Wednesday.

Price Pushes For Full Details Of U.S. Grain Sales To Russia

WASHINGTON — "I feel the Congress and the public have a legitimate interest and a right to know the full details of this historic and important transaction," Congressman Bob Price said today in regard to hearings on the wheat sales to Russia which opened today.

Price, who is a member of the subcommittee on livestock and grains said, "The record we build in our hearings will show that the Russian grain sale has been a great boost for our farmers, our economy, our nation and for peace."

"For instance, those who are knowledgeable such as the Great Plains Wheat, Inc. organization; and the chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, Senator Herman Talmadge (D-Ga.), consider the sale a tribute to American Agriculture."

"I only hope that the hearings will not be conducted in a partisan atmosphere for narrow political gain for McGovern and Purcell, at the expense of the public's interest in keeping this transaction going."

"As we examine this action, we should also examine the alternatives as Secretary Butz has already pointed out—less income in the farmer's pocket; larger surpluses, lower farm prices and tighter controls on farmers; higher government tax costs with farmer getting more of his income from the government rather than businessmen conducting our export business; putting our farmers in the position of trying to compete individually against the subsidized sale of wheat by every other exporting country in the world."

"We have heard criticism from those who sold their wheat early and didn't get in on the higher prices for this year's wheat crop. I understand their attitude, but I am also sure they realize that they are in line for greater profits from the 1973 crop and so far I have heard absolutely no complaints from anyone about receiving $2 a bushel for their wheat."

Secretary Butz Quizzed On U.S.-Soviet Trade

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today trade documents indicate that about 15 million bushels of U.S. wheat have been sold to China.

The department's export marketing service said export payment registrations it received under a special wheat export program, in effect from Aug. 25 to Sept. 1, indicate that quantity has been designated for delivery to the Communist nation.

The service said, however, that even though export payments on the grain have been certified, it doesn't necessarily mean that sales were made by U.S. exporters directly to China.

It said that sales made through third parties for re-export to China also qualify for U.S. export subsidies.

The subsidies are paid exporters to make U.S. wheat more competitive on the world market.

The department's announcement was the first official word of the deal with China. Earlier, Washington sources indicated a 20-million-bushel order had been obtained from China.

At current wheat prices of around $1.65 a bushel, a 15-million-bushel order would be worth about $25 million.

The department issued its statement at about the time Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz went to the Capitol to face congressional quizzing about aspects of the U.S.-Soviet multimillion dollar wheat deal.

"The sale (to the Soviets) is good for all citizens," Butz said in testimony for a House Agriculture subcommittee. "It is a major contribution to better commercial and political relations between two powerful nations."

Butz, in his prepared testimony, made no reference to the sale of grain to China.

But Butz, after Washington sources said Wednesday that a U.S. grain firm had obtained a 20-million-bushel order from the People's Republic of China, said if a deal was pending or concluded he was unaware of it.

However, Butz said after a speech to a farm meeting "Down the road sometime is a substantial trade agreement with China. I don't know how close it will be. The President opened the door a little bit with his China trip."

Washington sources, meantime, said they expect that payment for this first American grain sale to Communist China in more than 20 years would be made in cash.

The sources said the Agriculture Department received applications for export subsidies on wheat shipments to China. Subsidies are paid exporters to make U.S. wheat more competitive on the world market.

The reports came on the eve of a House Agriculture Committee probe of charges the Nixon administration favored big-business grain exporters and secretly exploited U.S. farmers in the Soviet deal.

Sales of 400 million bushels of wheat to the Soviet Union—one quarter of the U.S. crop this year—helped sharply boost wheat prices this summer. In July, the White House announced a three-year, $750-million credit arrangement with the Russians.

Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern has accused administration officials of joining with big grain exporters in a "conspiracy of silence" to exploit unsuspecting farmers who missed out on the rising market because they sold grain at lower prices.

Butz termed such accusations "bald-faced lies" calculated to win farm votes for McGovern.

A House Agriculture subcommittee, headed by Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., called Butz as lead-off witness in the scheduled three-day probe starting today.

Pontiff Bars Women's Role In Ministry

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI barred women today from even the smallest formal role in the ministry of the Roman Catholic Church. He also restated celibacy rules for deacons and priests.

In a motu proprio—a decree by his own hand—the Pope extended the lower church ministries of Bible reading and altar service to lay Catholics provided they are men.

In accordance with the venerable tradition of the Church, installation in the ministries of lector and acolyte is reserved to men, the 74-year-old pontiff declared.

The ruling does not actually prohibit women from Bible reading or from performing some altar services, but it bars them from formal investiture by a bishop to do so.

The ban was a setback to many in the Church, from cardinals to nuns, who had called for a role for women among Church "ministers" in keeping with the modern principle of equality of sexes.

The Pope said he made the decision after "having taken into account the views" of bishops around the world. However, he has not implemented a recommendation by the 1971 Synod of Bishops which urged the Vatican to set up a special commission to seek ways to enhance the role of women in the church and in society at large.

By his decree, the Pope denied Catholic women formal ministerial recognition of what they have been doing since the 1962-65 Ecumenical Council.

The decree radically revised the "minor and major orders," the traditional stages by which candidates were prepared for priesthood.

Saying he was removing "what is obsolete," the pontiff dropped the orders of porter, exorcist and subdeacon.

He retained two, those of lector and acolyte, and called them "ministries" rather than "minor orders." This was to indicate they also were being extended to laymen who did not intend to become members of the clergy as deacons or priests in the future. He also abolished the tonsure—the custom of shaving the crown of the head—for lectors and acolytes.

Lay lectors were given the functions of reading the Bible—except for the Gospel—and direct singing during mass. Acolytes are to assist priests at the altar and even give Communion to help the priest with large crowds or when priests and deacons are not available.

In recent years many bishops have allowed nuns to give Communion when there were no priests available.

The celibacy rules for deacons and priests were restated in a separate motu proprio. In it the Pope said the ceremony of ordination was being revised to include a vow of chastity for unmarried candidates.

The two decrees will come into effect Jan. 1.

WILLIE NEWBURY LEWIS
...writes "Range Life" book

AT LOCAL MUSEUM Authoress To Appear At Autograph Party

The publication of the 11th book in the M.K. Brown Range Life series, entitled "Tapadero: The Making of a Cowboy," written by Willie Newbury Lewis of Dallas, will be celebrated with an autograph party from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday in the White Deer Lands Museum, 1165 Cuyler.

Sponsoring the reception will be the University of Texas Press. The White Deer Lands Museum and The Gift Box.

All 11 books of the M.K. Brown Range Life series will be available for purchase during the reception, which honors Mrs. Lewis, who will be on hand to autograph her book.

The subject of Mrs. Lewis' biography of William J. Lewis is pure Texas, but not the Texas so often portrayed in synthetic westerns. She describes the development of a boy from Maryland into a cowboy in the rough-and-tough world of the Texas Panhandle of the 1880's.

Always an individualist, William J. Lewis, by his late thirties, was a highly-regarded cattleman who was able, not only to purchase his first great Panhandle ranch, but to lease, also, a ranch of over half a million acres. Not too many years later, he realized a boyhood dream of acquiring the R.O. Ranch.

Willie Newbury Lewis, a native and life-long resident of Dallas, went, as a bride, to live on the Spur Ranch, which her husband had under lease at the time. From his tales of frontier life and her own efforts to acquire a greater understanding of the region.

State May Complete Case Against Accused Slayer Of Kountze Woman

BELTON, Tex. (AP) — The state may finish its case against Fred F. Young Jr. today, and the defense is expected to offer a "surprise" in the grotesque murders of a Kountze grandmother and her three-year-granddaughter.

Young's former codefendant, Dennis R. Anderson, already has pleaded guilty in the slaying of the grandmother, Mabel McCormick, 50, an antique dealer in Kountze. He was given a life sentence.

A reliable source told the Associated Press the defense will try not only to claim Anderson did the killings, but also try to link him with the unexplained suffocation slayings of antique dealers in other states. The defense lent support to this prediction Wednesday by asking two state witnesses if they thought, after looking at the bloody and battered body of Mrs. McCormick, it was "the work of a madman."

One witness replied, "Yes." The state objected before the second witness could respond, saying the witness lacked necessary psychiatric training. The witnesses said they found Mrs. McCormick in her burning home with a pillow over her face, Anderson, 26, of Houston, reportedly wanted to open an antique shop in Pearland, near Houston, with $6,000 worth of furniture and brassware taken from Mrs. McCormick's shop Jan. 5, the day she and her granddaughter, Leslie Bowman, 3, were slain.

If the defense can make the jury think Anderson is a madman and that Young, 22, also of Houston did not realize it when he got involved with Anderson, then Young conceivably would get a lighter sentence if found guilty.

Young wore a beautiful pearl-gray suit—the one in which he was to have been married—as the state put on witnesses Wednesday who described the bodies in gruesome terms.

Young's father said his son was to have married Cheryl Scisco of Houston in April. The father said he thought the state subpoenaed Miss Scisco as a witness in order to exclude her from the courtroom. This eliminates any sympathy value she would have been to the defense.

E. Z. Harper, a Kountze fireman, told the jury how he called through Mrs. McCormick's smoke-filled house, looking for the granddaughter, reached into a toilet and "felt some legs sticking straight up."

A woman in the audience let out a low moan.

"They (the legs) were stiff," Harper said. "I jumped up to

Shriver Wins Cheers As He Gives His Views Of Connally

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Sargent Shriver moved into John Connally's country Wednesday and won cheers as he gave his views of the former Texas governor who now heads the Democrats for Nixon drive.

Campaigning on the third and final Texas city of the day on a fast jaunt through the state, Shriver called Connally a "former Texan."

A crowd of more than 2,000 cheered him on.

"I happen to say a former Texan, because I read in the paper he just built himself a $200,000 house out in Jamaica," Shriver said.

"How many people here have got $200,000 for any house, or 10 houses? Nobody has, but he built it down in Jamaica. I suppose he used Jamaican labor, too, instead of Texas labor."

The Democratic vice presidential nominee also told the crowd that Connally "says we've got to get accustomed to five per cent unemployment in this nation. Let's make sure that he's one of the five per cent unemployed."

Cause of the fire and damage estimates were undetermined.

Church Plans Saturday Film, Music Festival

Mini Explo '72...a four-hour production of music, film and fellowship sponsored by First Assembly of God Church...offers the young people of Pampa an opportunity to see and hear how an unusual power for living can be tapped.

The music of the Agape Force, a film starring Nicky Cruz, one of David Wilkerson's earliest converts from the New York ghettos with Art Linkletter. Food and a surprise guest will make the four-hour festival seem all too short, so promises church leaders planning the event.

The Agape Force, a group of consecrated Christian musicians offer an unusual sound and a strong testimony, according to those who have heard them.

Mini Explo '72 starts at 6 p.m. Saturday in the First Assembly Annex, 500 S. Cuyler.

'Suitcase Baby'

LOCKHART, Tex. (AP) — L. E. Tally, a 79-year-old widower, heard a muffled cry outside his rural farmhouse a few hours before sunrise Wednesday.

Thinking the cry came from some distance away, he did not check.

But just after first light he heard the cry again. Looking out the front window, he saw a faded blue suitcase on the lawn.

Inside was a newborn baby girl. By 7 a.m., Tally had turned the unidentified baby—just called Baby Doe for the time being—over to Dr. Phillip Wales at Lockhart Hospital.

The child was reported in good condition late Wednesday night.

Tally said he had no idea who might have left the baby, which Wales said was about 12 hours old and weighed about six pounds.

John Schmitz Sees 20 Million Votes

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The aide to John G. Schmitz will only allow press interviews with his man on one condition. That John G. Schmitz not be referred to as a minority candidate for president. "John G. Schmitz," says the aide, "is not one of these nuts. John G. Schmitz is not one of these people nobody ever heard of, who comes along every four years to run for this or that office. Now, what do you say? If you don't call him a minority candidate I can get you right in."

Agreed.
Enter.

First question then: Who in blazes is John G. Schmitz?

According to his biography, John G. Schmitz, the American party candidate for president (what is the American party?), born 42 years ago in Wisconsin, is a lame duck congressman from Richard Nixon's home district, is a lieutenant colonel in the USMC Reserve, once taught anti-communism in a school for military pilots, has been named "Statesman of the Year" by We The People (who is We The People?), is married to the former Mary E. Suehr (pronounced Sear), has seven children—John, Joseph, Mark, Kay, Theresa Ann, Elizabeth, Louise, Phillip—and does not believe in abortion.

He also has a moustache, which, even if he isn't a minority party candidate, may spoil his chances for this election, because nobody will vote for a man with a moustache. Look at Tom Dewey, millions did, and voted for Harry Truman. But never mind this drivel. John G. Schmitz probably wouldn't have voted for Dewey either. Not because Dewey had a moustache, but because John G. Schmitz hasn't really favored any presidential candidate since 1956.

Russia Has Tough Law For Addicts

MOSCOW (AP)—In a surprising admission of a growing drug problem, the Soviet Union has introduced tough new legislation for the compulsory treatment of narcotics addicts.

A decree distributed Wednesday by the Russian Republic's Supreme Soviet, or legislature, provides for detention of persistent drug-takers for up to two years in "curative-labor dispensaries."

The decree, in the legislature's latest official bulletin, referred to an unpublished government order on "curative-labor dispensaries." The reference suggested a network of special labor camps for drug addicts was being set up.

John G. Schmitz

That was the year he voted for T. Coleman Andrews, of the Constitution party, who lost so badly nobody remembers if he had a moustache or not.

Let's get on with it.

"Look," says John G. Schmitz, "I'm in the major leagues. I regard the American party as the second party. George Wallace was right: The Republicans and the Democrats are just two wings of the same party, the Socialist party. Last election, the American party (Wallace) polled 10 million votes. It looks this year like we'll get 15 or 20 million. Does that sound like I'm a minority candidate? I'll tell you this, I think more people will vote for me this year than for George McGovern."

Were it not John G. Schmitz sitting there on the couch, neat and trim, sounding confident, were it instead George Wallace sitting there, the words could be believed. George Wallace, after all, is the American party. (George Wallace could run for the Fleabite party and get 10 million votes.) But the Alabama governor is sitting this election out, in a wheelchair, the victim of a would-be assassin's gun. And regardless of how John G. Schmitz tries ("I'm working harder than any candidate; since I was nominated I've really been moving"), regardless of his claim to major billing, he is in fact merely an unknown Wallace substitute. John G. Schmitz boasts this. And John G. Schmitz demands that. But the question remains: Who in blazes is John G. Schmitz?

He is, he says, a man concerned about America. He thinks the country is going to the dogs, or, more specifically, the socialists. He looks at the platform promises of the Republicans and the Democrats and his stomach turns. "Totalitarianism," he says, "phony as a professional wrestling match." He can't understand the way things have gone. What in hell has happened to people? "When I was a kid I didn't know what conservatism or what liberalism was. My parents only taught me right from wrong. Narcotics? We didn't worry about that. We weren't taught that you had to go to a pot party to be sociable—we were just taught that you had to be good."

He grew up under that concept. (A fair one, by the way.) And it wasn't until college that he started wondering why everyone didn't follow the same street. "I remember people talking about Joe McCarthy. All these things were being said. All this fuss. So I decided to look into it myself. I read everything about Joe McCarthy I could get my hands on. What was Joe McCarthy doing? It became clear to me. What he was doing was trying to save America!" Schmitz became a political then. And he began to tell the world. "Silence," he recalls, "was not golden—it was yellow."

His lurch to the right was quick and total. "In the Marines," he says, proudly, "I was considered an expert on anti-communism." He served eight years active duty, got out, got a teaching job in a California college, got into the John Birch Society, then into the state legislature, then into the U.S. Congress (in June of 1970, in a special election to fill a death vacancy) — and finally into presidential politics.

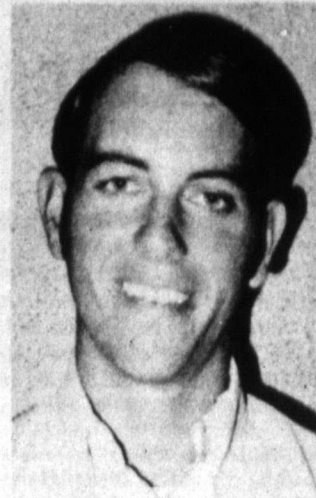

My gosh, he says, it all happened so fast. "I can remember years ago when I would have dearly loved to have a real choice in a presidential election. Now I am the choice." He sits back into his couch. White shirt. After shave lotion. He is slightly nervous. His thoughts jump track often. He looks at his interviewer as if to ask if he's doing all right, because, after all, he's not just a minority candidate.

Is he doing all right? Hard to tell. He is, at least, candid. He is flatly against abortion ("Murder is murder, it can't be condoned"). He opposes, unquestionably, marijuana, school busing ("We don't want to put people together or pull them apart"), gun control, welfare for the able bodied, and, as has every politician since Washington was a whelp, tax loopholes. He supports the local police, consumer protection, national sovereignty (the UN is very pink), the Monroe Doctrine and atomic stockpiling.

Are there 20 million voters who feel the same? Are there 30 or 40 million? Well, there is at least one. His name is Frank. Frank is a songwriter. And he recently gave the Schmitz campaign the following rouser for pep rallies: "Get out the vote for John G. Schmitz boys. Get out the vote for Johnny Hey. Fight, fight, fight for John G. Schmitz. Get out the vote for the USAaaa!" Frank, by the way, has a moustache, too.

MELVIN W. BEIGHLE

Area Youth Joins U.S. Marine Corps

Melvin W. Beighle, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin G. Beighle of Skellytown, has enlisted for four years in the Marine Corps under the Aviation Guarantee Program.

Because Beighle has completed more than one semester of college, he was enlisted as a Private First Class.

Pfc. Beighle reported for recruit training Sept. 5 at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif., where he will stay for about 11 weeks.

Upon completion of recruit training, Pfc. Beighle will receive 10 days leave prior to reporting to his next duty station, which will be in the field of Marine aviation.

Prior to entry into the Marine Corps, Pfc. Beighle graduated from White Deer High School in May, 1969. He has attended West Texas State University in Canyon for the past three years.

Statistics Show Americans Better Off Than A Year Ago

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the administration's greatest tasks, a frustrating one to date, is to convince the American people that they are better off than a year ago.

Official government statistics tend to support this contention, and administration spokesmen have not forgotten to sprinkle the figures liberally throughout their statements. The effect, however, has been questionable.

In all levels of business and personal finance there can be found a feeling that the hard figures are artificial flavoring for an unappetizing mixture of inflation, unemployment and social unrest.

To a great degree, the administration itself is responsible for the rejection of the official statistics because it has used them defensively and sometimes without an understanding of the modern mood.

Expectations are higher today, part of the unfolding American dream of economic progress on every front, private and public. The idyll is displayed constantly before the public by media, public officials and others.

Moreover, government has more than ever committed itself to actively speeding the process. It promises more. More is expected.

As increasing numbers achieve some measure of financial success, the quality of life risers in their list of priorities. A clean environment, social justice, the dignity of life become elements of their broadened outlook.

Statistics do not measure these, and that appears to be a major reason for the credibility problem involved with those old sets of figures that are used to measure progress.

Gross National Product, unemployment, cost of living, and other statistical series fail to tell the complete story. They are not suspected of being adulterated; but they are considered to be incomplete measures.

The statistics show that in the past year people built their savings, reduced their debts, found more jobs. They bought new homes at a near-record rate.

The latest Survey of Current Business published by the Commerce Department states that total personal income rose nearly 7 per cent from 1970 to 1971 while the rate of consumer prices rose 3 1/2 per cent.

Farm-Bargaining Bill Killed By House Unit

WASHINGTON (AP)—An intensely controversial national farm-bargaining bill was killed by a House Agriculture subcommittee Wednesday.

The vote was 5 to 3 against the legislation, sources close to the subcommittee said.

Backers insisted the defeat should not be taken as rejection of the basic principle involved in the controversy. They said the measure died because of the concern of some subcommittee members over various details of the bill. Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., chief sponsor of the legislation, had modified his original proposal, but the revised version also drew heavy attack from organized critics such as the National Farmers

Organization and National Farmers Union.

Originally, Sisk wanted a three-member national agricultural bargaining board to set standards for groups of producers qualified as bargaining associations to negotiate with handlers and to determine mutual obligations on price, terms of sale and other contract provisions.

Sisk's revised measure would have made it a five-member, bipartisan board; would have related directly to contract sales of agricultural products; let a producer decline to join an association, cover independent contractors, clarify terms of bargaining, and restrict an antitrust exemption just to activities detailed by the bill.

Martha Mitchell Denounces Republicans For Report On Husband's Resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Martha Mitchell, saying there's nothing wrong with her mind, has denounced Republicans who are contending her husband's resignation from President Nixon's re-election campaign came because she suffered a nervous breakdown.

"I think it is rotten after all I have done for the Republican party for them to cast aspersions on me," the outspoken wife of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said in an interview published by the Evening Star and News Wednesday.

"I want to be sure my side is revealed and that people know I'm not sitting here a mental case or an alcoholic," she told the Star-News.

The newspaper said Mrs. Mitchell talked freely about her much-publicized ultimatum to her husband last June that he get out of politics or she would leave him but refused to discuss the alleged bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Some highly placed Republicans have contended, the newspaper said, that Mitchell left his post as head of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President because Martha suffered a nervous breakdown. Democrats, however, have sported "Free Martha" buttons and claimed she was silenced because she knows too much.

The Star-News said Mrs. Mitchell elaborated on her account of what occurred in a hotel room in Newport Beach, Calif., last June when her telephone conversation with a reporter was cut off just as she was about to answer a question on the alleged bugging incident.

She said in an article published Tuesday that Steve King, a former bodyguard who is now head of security for the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, ripped the telephone from the wall to keep her from answering the question.

More elk reside in Yellowstone and Grand Teton national parks than in any other area in the world.

Russian Economy Shows Weakness

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet economy is showing weakness in the sectors which were supposed to lead the nation into the consumer era.

A review of economic performance for the first eight months of the year was published Wednesday by Ekonomicheskaya Gazeta (Economic Gazette) and there was little in it to satisfy the rising expectations of Soviet consumers.

When the Communist party general secretary, Leonid I. Brezhnev, unveiled the contours of the 1971-1975 economic plan last year these were the very items he singled out for "appreciable" increase in production.

Two-Thirds Of S. Viet's Papers Appearing To Be Out Of Business

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu's tough new press law appeared Wednesday to have forced about two-thirds of South Vietnam's daily newspapers out of business.

With two days left before the Sept. 15 deadline, 16 dailies were reported to have made the required "financial responsibility" deposits of $46,000 with the national treasury.

Sources said only a handful more were expected to make them.

Before Thieu signed the press law in August, South Vietnam had some 26 Vietnamese-language dailies plus 15 in Chinese, two in English and one in French.

As of today, eight Chinese and eight Vietnamese papers were reported to have made deposits. None of them is an opposition paper. One of the Vietnamese-language dailies, Vietnam Nhut Bao—Vietnam Daily News—was just created. Its publisher, National Assembly Deputy Nguyen Tan Doi, is a millionaire banker who is known as pro-Thieu.

Among the newspapers that have announced shutdowns are Duoc Nha Nam—Vietnam Torch—identified with backers of retired Gen Duong Van "Big" Minh, and Xay Dung—Reconstruction—a militantly anti-Communist organ of Roman Catholic refugees from the North.

The Saigon regime has acknowledged that its aim was to reduce the number of newspapers and improve their spotly record for accuracy. However, the stated hope that papers would merge has not been borne out.

The law calls for deposits as a guarantee against stiff fines for press code violations. It also stipulates that papers will be shut down after two violations of national security restrictions.

Shriver Endorses Strike By Mexican-American Workers Against El Paso Firm

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Shouting "viva Huelga," "viva la causa," and "viva la union," Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver Wednesday endorsed the strike by Mexican American workers against a local clothing firm.

Shriver said the action against Farah Manufacturing Co. was a "justified strike," and drew a cheering response from the estimated 1,000 persons and more who filled a small pavilion in an El Paso park to hear him.

The overflow crowd stood patiently in a light rain outside the pavilion as Shriver spoke. He called their cause "a question of individual human beings against the power of money."

The labor speech began a full day of campaigning in Texas for Shriver, including stops in Houston and San Antonio.

Referring to the Watergate bugging incident, Shriver said, "The rights of individuals to privacy and possession of their own official and personal papers has been violated at the highest level of this government by unprecedented attempts to break in."

He said this was "participation in what is known as political espionage. They were caught red-handed stealing documents from the other political party."

He said, "the human rights, the right to privacy, the dignity of the human being is being assaulted at the very top of our government by mercenaries of the Republican party. If they can invade Larry O'Brien's office, they can and will invade your office."

Shriver made reference to former Democratic Gov. John Connally at the breakfast meeting and again at the Pavilion.

"Not long ago former Gov. Connally said we have to become accustomed to having five per cent of the people unemployed. If John Connally feels that way, he ought to join the five per cent unemployed," he said.

He said it is a "question of the right of an individual's dignity against the power of money."

Shriver spoke to more than 1,000 persons in a pavilion at a city park while it rained outside.

Virtually all of those in the audience formerly were employed at Farah before they left their jobs last May over the right to organize and for increased wages and job security.

About 3,000 are on strike at three Farah plants in Texas.

Shriver, who came here late Tuesday on a campaign swing through Texas, said, "I have never met an American man or a woman who would rather beg than work. The men and women want to work and they deserve to work."

Shriver told the workers they have "a right to work and a right to have a union of your own choice."

He told the enthusiastic crowd, "You represent the people who are struggling for human dignity and human freedom all over the world. Your fighting struggle is not just for economic independence but you are struggling to assert your rights and your dignity as human beings created by God in his likeness and not in the likeness of Farah Manufacturing Co."

Shriver told 100 persons the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America is "carrying the torch for human liberty and for human dignity" in the walkout against Farah.

FONTANA, Calif. (AP) — The largest Steelworkers Union local west of the Mississippi River has endorsed the presidential bid of George McGovern, whom one official described as "the lesser of two evils."

Some 500 members of the 7,000-member Local 2869 of the United Steelworkers of America approved the McGovern resolution here Tuesday night upon the recommendation of the local's nine-member education committee. The national steelworkers union is following the AFL-CIO in not endorsing the presidential candidate.

"The majority thinking was that McGovern would be the lesser of two evils," said Cal McElwain, sub-district chairman of education for the local.

"The Nixon administration has had time to prove whether it is for labor—and it has not," Local President Dino Papa-vero said. "The decision was made after careful consideration of the promises of the present administration, the wage and price controls imposed on us and the labor record of McGovern."

Papavero and McElwain said they believed the local's endorsement would have an effect on other locals, unions and individuals who have been reluctant to endorse a candidate.

Down One Unnecessarily

about the bad luck in trumps.

We said nothing because kibitzers should be seen and not heard. Still, we can use this column to show how South should have made his contract.

He should have led a club to dummy's ace; discarded his two remaining clubs on two hearts; ruffed dummy's last club; entered dummy with the king of diamonds and played dummy's last heart.

If West-ruffed that trick he would be hopelessly end-played. If he discarded a club he would only postpone the inevitable. He would be thrown in with the queen of trumps and caught in that same end play.

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1♥	Pass	Pass
2♦	2♥	3♦	?

You, South, hold:

♠ A Q 8 7 ♥ K J 4 ♦ 3 2 ♣ K 9 8 4

An acre of growing trees in a commercial forest consumes 14 tons of carbon dioxide a year, gives off four tons of oxygen and produces four tons of new wood, according to the American Forest Institute.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South took his ace of hearts and cashed his ace and king of spades. East discarded the seven of clubs and South paused for a moment before leading a third trump.

West took his queen and got out with a heart. South played on a while but eventually misguessed the queen of diamonds and was one down.

This was a very nice rubber bridge game. South apologized at length for misguessing the queen of diamonds. North apologized for having a poor no-trump and commiserated with South

Business For Beauty Program Announced

WASHINGTON, D.C. —Business for Beauty, a national awards program recognizing firms that improve their appearance through landscaping and renovation, has been readopted by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Kermit V. Haugen, president of the GFWC, announced that sponsorship is again being provided by Cities Service Oil Company, through the Cities Service Foundation.

Initially adopted in 1968 by the GFWC—the largest organization of women in the world—Business for Beauty has helped motivate facelift efforts by over 5,000 businesses.

Through their work on this program," Mrs. Haugen said, "GFWC clubs across the nation will be furthering the objective of more attractive and liveable communities. The overall visual environment of any town or city is heavily influenced by appearance standards in the marketplace. Working on the program will also enable clubwomen to establish closer ties with the business community."

During the 1972-74 GFWC administration, Business for Beauty is being promoted within the new Consumer in the Marketplace division of the organization's Home Life department. Mrs. John E. Yahr, Sr., of Norristown, Pa., is GFWC Home Life chairman and Mrs. Herbert Walker of Opelousas, La., is Junior Home Life chairman.

To encourage action by businesses there will be a continuation of local, state and national awards, climaxed in spring of 1974 with an awards luncheon in Washington, D.C.

At the local level, clubs will be honoring businesses that improve their appearance with certificates of commendation. One business will be singled out in each participating community for special recognition and entry into state competition. State business winners will receive plaques and judges will then select six national winners. The clubs sponsoring them will share $6,000 on the basis of $2,000 first place, $1,500 second, $1,000 third, and three runner-up grants of $500.

Additionally, clubs sponsoring the state winner and runner-up business in each state will receive, respectively, $100 and $50 cash awards.

The program includes expense-paid trips to the awards ceremonies in Washington for the top six business winners and their spouses, along with representatives of the sponsoring clubs and state federations.

To give businessmen practical landscaping and renovation ideas, clubs will be distributing copies of a revised Business for Beauty Idea Book, a condensed version of the original Idea Book developed for the program by Cities Service.

LETHARGIC NEWBORN

The most responsive, vigorous newborns may not be the infants who develop into the most intelligent and active children. Rather, according to scientists from the U.S. National Institute of Mental Health, babies who are more passive during their first few days of life are often the ones who are more apt to mature into intelligent, responsive youngsters.

Children of Spaniards, born in Mexico of pure Spanish blood, were known as Creoles.

Miss Glenna Hudgins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Hudgins, 2523 Aspen, is one of eight persons selected from 100 who auditioned, for the nationally-known Revival Time Choir.

Miss Hudgins auditioned at Central Bible Institute, Springfield, Mo., where she is a student, majoring in music.

The choir will be heard from coast to coast on radio and seen on many television stations across the country. Miss Hudgins will travel throughout the country and abroad with the choir.

How do you tell a grown man to bathe?

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have read your column for years, and still can't believe I am actually writing a "Dear Abby" letter, but here goes: This is the second time around for my husband and myself. We are both middle-aged and lost our mates in death.

My question: How do you tell a full grown adult about personal hygiene? He bathes once a week, at which time he changes his socks and underwear. This came as a terrific shock to me as he always appeared to be so well-groomed and immaculate when we were dating.

I just don't know how to tell him that I find his personal habits extremely offensive. He douses himself with sweet smelling cologne between baths.

Believe me, Abby, he is a fine man otherwise. He is a faithful reader of your column and is always quoting you to me, so if you print this letter he will see it. I don't have the nerve to tell him.

DISMAYED

DEAR DIS: Here's your letter, and I hope it helps. [P.S. Marriages in which both partners do not bathe and change underwear daily risk being all washed up.]

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I disagree on something and want you to settle it. My wife says it is perfectly all right to ask a man who is wearing a toupee where he bought it.

I say that if a toupee LOOKS like a toupee it is no commitment, so it's best not to ask such a question.

My wife insists that I am wrong—that the wearer would be complimented, and more than happy to share the information.

What do you say, Abby?

CONSIDERING ONE

DEAR CONSIDERING: I wouldn't recommend "complimenting" a stranger with an inquiry concerning his toupee. However, if you are friendly with the man when his hair was thinner, and consider the toupee a perceptible improvement, go ahead and ask.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me, and please put the answer in the paper. It may help somebody else.

How does one discourage persistent invitations from somebody they do not want to have more than a business relationship with? I have been going to the same beauty shop for five years. The operator I have is a very nice, tho somewhat aggressive person. The hairdresser I go to does my hair exactly the way I like it, but she keeps suggesting that we go here and there and the next place together.

I don't care to socialize with her and have said I was busy, hoping she would get the hint, but she evidently hasn't. I don't know where she ever got the idea that I would want to become a "buddy" of hers.

She is a married woman with grown children. I am a widow, with grown children and grandchildren, too. I have a career, plenty of friends, and I am not lonely. Please tell me what to do.

NAMELESS, NATURALLY

DEAR NAMELESS: Unless you want to get this woman "out of your hair" professionally, as well as socially, continue to be "busy" when she suggests you go out together.

Phi Sigma Alpha Studies

Texas Delta Alpha Chapter of Phi Sigma Alpha met in the home of Mrs. Curt Griffin. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Harry Cook, secretary, presided. During the business meeting, members voted to continue the club project started last year. Mrs. Cook presented an invitation from Texas Gamma Gamma Chapter, Amarillo, to celebrate Founder's Day with them at a tea Sept. 24.

First program in a year-long study, entitled, "Exploring Art," was given by Mrs. Felton Webb and Mrs. Lonnie R. Kenney, program coordinator.

Mrs. Webb's topic was "The History of Art."

In her talk, she told of prehistoric art, including cave paintings and small female figures, both of which researchers feel had a religious purpose. She told of the Minoan Period on the island of Crete, and of Egypt during the reign of Akhenaten, who tried to establish a monotheistic religion and married the lovely Nefertiti.

"What is a Painting?" was the subject of Mrs. Kinney's presentation. A painting by Jan van Eyck and "The Storm" by Col were used as examples of what art is and is not. Four portraits by 19th century artists were discussed to clarify different artists' purposes and philosophies as shown in their paintings.

Mrs. Hugh Peeples, chairman of the yearbook committee, reported that the yearbook has been assembled and typed by Mrs. Robert Baker, with Mrs. Baker's daughter doing the art work.

Other members present were Mrs. Bernard Organ, Mrs. Tom Dunn, Mrs. Lawrence Paronto, Mrs. Lib Mitchell and Eula Johnson.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

ting to the causes is the answer.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Your energies are running so effectively others can cope with you only partially, may diverge from ordinary cooperation.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Resistance provokes you to use drastic methods or find a new and more direct approach to almost all obligations.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Your efforts at leadership defeat themselves today. Let others carry the ball for the time being, and learn from observation.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Other people have awkward encounters. The delays offer a chance to re-think your progress, make plans for future action.

FRIDAY, Sept. 15
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Pressures build to the point that you must conquer limitations you haven't met before. Today's natives tend to be hard-working realists, often have a natural gift for music.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: A moment of truth arrives, all you've promised lately comes up for redemption. Let nobody rush you into closing a contract.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Nothing should put you off your earlier decisions. Discussions brought forward from yesterday make little progress, should be abandoned.

PERSONALIZED OFFICE — Mary Roberts, officer of a textile firm, is an executive who is rebelling against staid, impersonal offices. Here is what she's done to make her office a more comfortable place to work.

Executive Creates Personalized Office

NEW YORK (AP) — As more women climb the executive ladder, they're not only changing their own images they're doing their best to dispel the business myth that cold, impersonally decorated offices are best suited to corporate life.

For instance, Mary Roberts, co-founder, stylist and officer of Isabel Scott Fabrics, a 23-year-old textile firm, has managed to balance marriage, motherhood and career while reaching the top of her profession. And much of that career has been spent in an office made warm and inviting with a prized collection of family portrait photographs and memorabilia.

"I don't believe in a strict separation of home and business," says Mrs. Roberts. "How you relate each to yourself is interchangeable. I work better surrounded by things that remind me of happy times and good moments with my family and friends."

To create that atmosphere the walls of Mrs. Roberts' office are covered with one of her fabric designs. The soft color and muted pattern serve as appropriate background for portraits of her husband, daughter, granddaughter, niece and close friends, hung with a textile collage and photographs of the Roberts' western vacation retreat.

"Family portraits are an easy way to personalize any office and create a pleasant working environment," maintains Mrs. Roberts. "An office with displays of carefully arranged portraits combined with other meaningful objects has an esthetically satisfying feeling it wouldn't have otherwise."

She advises changing the office environment at intervals, however, for added stimulation. "Each design collection brings a new set of challenges and problems. At the same time, new things are happening to my family and friends which result in additional portraits for my office display. I find that changing or adding to the arrangement creates inspiration and relaxation when I need it."

Three Major Networks To Present New Shows

NEW YORK (AP) — The 10 o'clock—Eastern time—hour on Wednesday nights this fall looks like one that'll leave viewers two options: gripping at network competition or going in for second and third television sets.

There are three good reasons for this. They are CBS' "Cannon," NBC's "Search" and ABC's "The Julie Andrews Hour." They could provoke fist-fights in the one-set family over who gets to watch which.

Cannon, shifted from Tuesday nights, is back for a second season with William Conrad starring in the tautly written, well-acted series about a pudgy private eye with a heart and a head of gold.

He only used to have assorted villains to worry about. Now the opposition includes that Mary Poppins lady and a fine new gumshoe series resembling a cross between "Star Trek" and "Mission Impossible."

Miss Andrews may be the toughest foe. Her 60-minute debut may have been a videotape editor's nightmare, but from start to finish it was a delight to the eye and ear.

It traced her career from London music halls to Broadway and Hollywood, a path lined with the songs she made famous in "My Fair Lady," "Sound of Music" and of course, "Mary Poppins."

She sang them all and sang them well. And at one point, though electronic wizardry, she even formed a singing trio consisting of Julie Andrews as Julie Andrews, Julie Andrews as the ragamuffin Liza Doolittle and Julie Andrews as the prim and proper Mary Poppins.

She put her best foot forward at the onset with a tap dance number that began as a soft-shoe solo and rapidly grew into a clattering crowd whose members ranged from a fat lady to a skin diver.

Who it came time for comedy, she had excellent support from actor-impressionist Rich

Little and comedienne Alice Ghostley, either of whom could make the phone book come out funny.

In short, the entire show was one of those rare television birds that gives you a mental lift and a vague curiosity as to where the time went.

NBC's "Search" does the same thing for those who like their detective shows crisp and full of high-voltage gadgetry.

The series revolves around the World Securities Corp., a private detective agency with scads of electronic and computer aids.

Its opening segment starred Hugh O'Brian as an upper-class private eye who is tuned in as no one ever has been tuned in before.

His head is wired for closed-circuit sound broadcast from afar. He has a miniature television and telemetry transmitter concealed in his ring and he often appears to go about talking to himself.

But he's actually talking with Burgess Meredith and other equally fine supporting actors back in the agency's Mission Control, which radios information only he can hear and receives telemetry data on both his vital life signs and those of the people he meets.

Oh yes, it also gives instant computer read-outs on the background of anyone who counts in the world of bad and good.

The plot of Wednesday's "Search" concerned a evil State Department bureaucrat in charge of hiring top-level consultants he ultimately black-mails—if they like gambling—into spilling top-level secrets to foreign agents who may be up to no good.

The show was well-written and moved briskly along. But the electronic tomfoolery was the most fascinating and chilling of all. If it's a look at the future, heaven help us all.

New TV Season To See More Black Performers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Black performers, rare in a television series five years ago, will be more in evidence than ever this season.

As the 1972-73 season begins, television viewers will be seeing more blacks.

The reason is pressure from the government and Negro organizations and concerned whites who believe that black representation on television is long overdue. Also, advertisers consider it good sense, blacks buy their products, too.

Blacks star in three of the new shows. Bill Cosby has returned to television with a Monday night CBS variety show (he also presents a children's show on Saturday morning). Cleavon Little, who won a Tony for his Broadway performance in "Purlie," is costarring with James Whitmore in ABC's "Temperature's Rising," a hospital comedy. Georg Stanford Brown plays one of the crime-fighters in "Rookies."

Among the other new shows featuring black actors: "MASH" — Timothy Brown and Odessa Cleveland; "Maude" — Esther Rolle; "Emergency" — Ron Pinkard and Lillian Lehman; "Search" — Albert "Poppy" Popwell; "Bridget Loves Bernie" — Otis Foster; "The New Bill Cosby Show" — Lola Falana, singer-dancer, comedian Oscar DeGray and musical director Quincy Jones.

Five of the returning series spotlight black stars.

The winner and still champion of the television variety sweepstakes is NBC's Flip Wilson. Greg Morris remains a regular on "Mission: Impossible," and Clarence Williams III on "The Mod Squad." Lloyd Haynes returns as history teacher Pete Dixon on "Room 222," with Denise Nicholas as his love-interest costar.

Redd Foxx and Demond Wilson are back as the battling "Sanford and Son."

Gail Fisher continues her long-running role as secretary to Mike Connors on "Mannix," and Don Mitchell returns as Raymond Burr's aide in "Ironside." Mike Evans will again be bugging Archie Bunker on "All in the Family."

Terry Carter plays Detective Sgt. Joe Broadhurst on "McCloud" with Dennis Weaver. John Amos remains as the television weatherman on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

HOOPING IT UP in championship style, Patricia Morton, 12, is the 1972 winner of the Chicago Park District's annual hula hoop competition. Next, she hopes, may be the national championship.

LOOK AT THAT TOMATO—Things grow big in Texas, especially during the warm summer months. Mrs. Thressa Patterson, 1304 Garland, displays the "giant" tomato she found in her garden recently. Measuring 17-inches in circumference, it easily dwarfs a regular tomato taken from the same garden.

Accent on Health

What's the biggest communicable disease problem in Texas today? Diphtheria? Polio? Measles? Rubella? These are serious diseases and are distinct threats if the immunization levels decline. But the ones getting highest priorities in Texas and the nation right now are venereal diseases, says your State Health Department.

If that comes as a surprise, there's a reason. VD is something people are unaccustomed to talking about. It has always been there, silently exacting its toll as a dangerous and killer. But venereal disease was and is a silent epidemic. There are no preventive vaccines to take for syphilis and gonorrhea, so the diseases keep occurring—and spreading under a mantle of secrecy, fear and social stigma.

The Texas State Department of Health, with federal assistance, has started a state-wide public awareness campaign to let the public know what is happening—and what can be done about it.

In addition to public service advertisements in the state's local newspapers, and a radio and television campaign, the state Health Department plans to conduct a series of seminars or conferences.

The first conference for health professionals and community officials is scheduled September 20-21 at the Royal Coach Inn in Dallas. It is jointly sponsored by the state Health department and Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Texas. All participants will be provided with an information kit, a distillation of the most current authoritative literature put together by the American Social Health Association.

The seminar is a high-level one, with separate symposiums for physicians and pharmacists. The program is accepted, hour for hour, for a maximum of 15 1/2 elective hours by the American Academy of Family Physicians.

Keynote speaker at the conference will be Dr. J.D. Millar, chief of the Venereal Disease Branch of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Georgia Dr. Millar supervises the federal VD control effort and will explain how the massive, new national VD control program affects Texas communities. Several other federal officials will also address the conference.

The Texas VD Program will be discussed by Dr. M.S. Dickerson, Chief, Communicable Disease Services Section, Texas State Department of Health.

Speakers will focus on the VD problem in Texas, state and local VD control efforts, health aspects of untreated venereal disease, current research in the VD field, development of a VD community educational campaign, and community action prototypes.

Texas does have a problem, along with the other 49 states in the nation.

In 1971, for example, the number of reported new cases of syphilis and gonorrhea in Texas exceeded 55,000. But that figure is just the tip of the iceberg. Experience shows that only about one in five cases is actually reported to health officials.

Last year in the United States the number of reported gonorrhea cases exceeded 624,000, according to the U.S. Public Health Service. In this country it is estimated that there are a half-million cases of syphilis infecting people who don't even know they have it.

The awareness campaign has several purposes, but there are two or three major ones. First, the extent of the problem must be made clear to everyone, along with the knowledge that VD can happen to anyone. Secondly, the campaign will emphasize the method of transmission—from one infected person to another person through intimate contact. And, thirdly, it will stress the necessity for immediate treatment should disease symptoms appear.

Early diagnosis, early treatment and good epidemiology in tracing VD to its source are three essentials in curbing this VD epidemic, says the State Health Department.

People In The News

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Julie Eisenhower, President Nixon's younger daughter, says she would be willing to die in combat to save the South Vietnamese government.

Mrs. Eisenhower, here for a speech Tuesday to a Kiwanis women's gathering, was asked at a news conference if she would "willing to die for the Thieu regime." She replied, "Yes, I would," and went on to defend Nixon's policy of gradual withdrawal.

She said Nixon "doesn't feel we can pull out of Vietnam now without supporting our troops and POWs." She also said South Vietnamese President Thieu was an elected public official and deserved American support.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Betty Friedan began teaching a Temple University sociology class with an admonition to her 115 students — about half male and half female — not to pit one sex against the other.

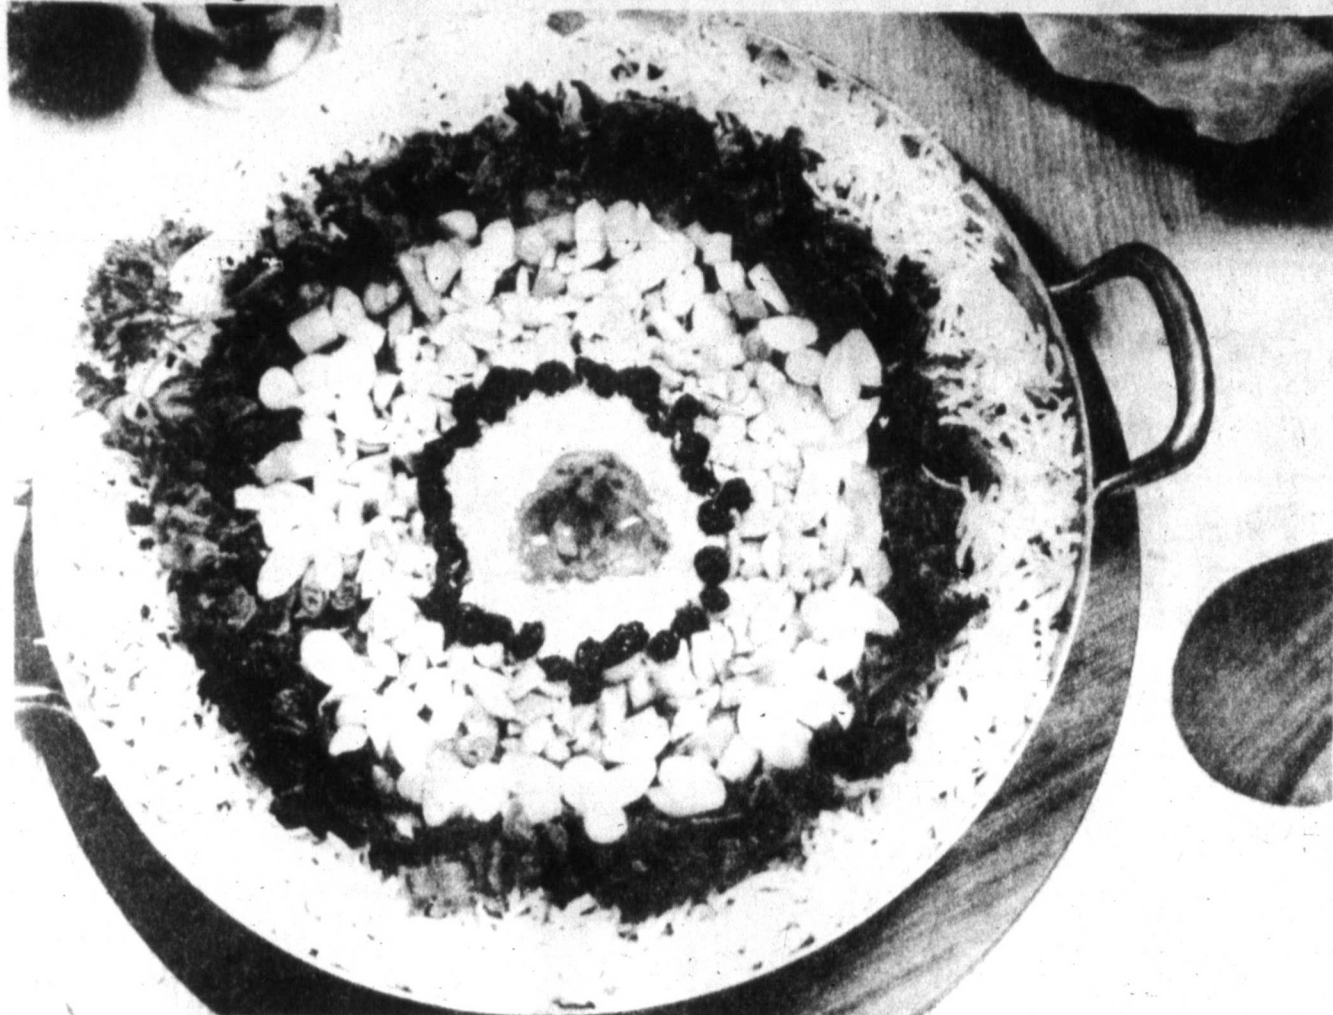

"We must now move beyond the rhetoric to a new human liberation," the women's movement leader said Tuesday. "I don't see a polarization of women against men, which at the moment seems to be too much the essence of the women's movement, but true liberation of both sexes."

The 51-year-old author of "The Feminine Mystique" plans to commute once a week from Manhattan to teach two courses on the revolution in sex roles and sexual politics.

Curried Tuna Is Popular As Quick One-Dish Meal

CASSEROLE COOKERY—American women have turned the art of one-dish meals. For a hearty, nutritional meal-in-a-dish, try curried tuna casserole, sure to

Although casserole cookery originated in France, American cooks have expanded the basic idea until now the word often has become synonymous with the one-dish meal.

Dinner-in-a-dish is popular with harried homemakers, career girls and bachelor cooks. Convenience foods make today's casserole cookery a breeze even for the inexperienced cook. Hearty and economical casseroles are favorites for family or company meals as they can be prepared in advance, cooked and served in the same dish.

Curried tuna casserole offers picture-pretty fare for family or guests. Fast to fix, except for the toppings, both casserole and toppings may be prepared in advance. The traditional curry toppings (or condiments) used to circle the top of our curried tuna casserole pictured include sieved hard cooked egg yolks, crumbled crisp bacon (or bacon-onion bits), sliced green onions, crabapple jelly, plumped currants and chopped peanuts. Parsley is used as garnish, and because the condiments are added in circles a wedge-shaped serving includes some of each.

Enriched bread contributes essential B vitamins as well as iron to this curried tuna casserole which is loaded with good flavor as well as nutrients. Here's the recipe from the test

Canadian-Style Bacon Crowns Delicious Autumn Casserole

Seasonal change is reflected in food as well as foliage. Inspired by harvest time, a cook can convert Canadian-style bacon, an all-season breakfast favorite, into an autumn casserole to enliven dinner. Just arrange slices of this flavor-some smoked meat atop a mellow mixture of squash, cranberries, cinnamon and nuts, says meat expert Reba Stagg, of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Canadian-Style Bacon and Squash Bake

- 1 1/2 pounds Canadian-style bacon
- 2 packages (12 ounces each) frozen cooked squash, defrosted
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped fresh cranberries
- 1/4 cup coarsely chopped nuts

Cut Canadian-style bacon into 9 slices approximately 1/2 inch thick. Remove casing from slices. Combine defrosted squash, sugar, cinnamon, cranberries and nuts. Turn mixture into a greased shallow 1 1/2-quart casserole. Top with overlapping slices of Canadian-style bacon. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 30 minutes or until cooked through. 6 servings.

PLATELESS ENTREES

When you are serving meals out-of-doors, you can eliminate both the pans and the plates by wrapping the food in foil. Meals should still include a variety of nourishing foods. For instance, wrap slices of canned meats with canned whole potatoes and carrots and wedges of pineapple—your family may enjoy these foods more without plates.

kitchens of the American Bakers Association.

CURRIED TUNA CASSEROLE

- 6 slices of white bread, crusts removed
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 teaspoons curry
- 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) cream of mushroom soup
- 3/4 cup milk
- 2 cans (6 1/2 oz. each) tuna, drained and broken into bite size pieces
- 1 cup diced apple

Cut bread into cubes. Heat oven to 350 degrees. Brown butter or margarine, curry powder and onion in small skillet until onion is tender but not soft. In a bowl, mix cream of mushroom soup, milk, tuna, apple and cubes of bread; add butter-curry-onion mixture; blend well. Spoon into buttered 2 quart casserole and bake uncovered 30 minutes. Top with condiments before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Variations:
Cream of celery soup or pea soup may be substituted for the mushroom soup. Shrimp or salmon may be substituted for the tuna. Condiments may be varied to suit your taste; also seasonings.

Diced cooked (leftover) lamb or chicken may be used in place of fish. Cream of chicken soup goes well with either meat or poultry; also mushroom.

Chopped olives (1/2 cup) should be substituted for the diced apple with the curried lamb or chicken, plus 1 cup cooked and drained peas. Hard cooked eggs, chopped, may be added to any of the combos. Chopped peanuts add texture. More curry powder may be added, to taste.

Here is another, quick to fix casserole.

DEVILED HAM AND CHEESE

Remove crusts from 5 slices of toasted white bread, butter the bread and cut into cubes. In a buttered casserole make alternate layers of bread cubes and shredded sharp cheese (1 1/2 cups or about 1 1/2 pounds), reserve some of the bread cubes and cheese for top layer.

Beat 2 eggs slightly, add 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 teaspoon chili powder and 1 can (4 oz.) deviled ham. Scald 2 cups milk and add to egg-deviled ham mixture; pour over bread cubes and cheese in casserole. Scatter reserved toast cubes on top; sprinkle with grated cheese or bacon-onion bits. Bake in 350 degree oven, about 40 minutes, or until silver knife inserted in center comes out clean. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

QUICK TREATS

CURRIED BREAD SLICES
Melt 1/2 stick of butter or margarine in small skillet. Add 1/2 teaspoon curry powder. In a small, deep casserole arrange slices of bread upright; pour curry butter between and over slices. Bake in 400 degree oven 8 to 10 minutes. Delicious with soup or salad.

TOASTED BREAD CUPS

Cut crusts from slices of bread, spread with melted butter or margarine to which any one of the following—snipped parsley, chopped onion, curry, celery seed, thyme or marjoram has been added. Press onto muffin cups. Toast about 10 minutes in 400 degree oven.

Consultant, National Dairy Council
BACK TO SCHOOL

Each year, as our children re- turn to school in the fall, the interest increases in seeing to it that they receive nourishing school lunches. This is encouraging, particularly as it applies to schools that have not had food service facilities at all - and to children who cannot afford to pay for lunch.

More and more schools are being served - even where no kitchen facilities exist. Airline-style, pre-prepared lunches are brought in. And school lunch programs increasingly provide that children receive lunches, without discrimination, when they cannot afford to pay for them.

Many Will Eat Better

So it is a happy thought, in this respect, when one thinks of the kids being back in school. Many will eat better than during the summer through both school breakfast and school lunch programs.

All told, children will also learn from the school lunch program. It's not just a question of feeding. In modern education the school lunch program also is a demonstration and an experience in eating a proper selection of foods that give one a balance of the nutrients needed each day. The four food groups always are represented in the required school lunch. Meantime, of course, there are children who prefer to one reason or another to take their own lunch to school. And there's nothing wrong with that if the lunch is nutritionally adequate.

The Four Food Groups

Mothers should be guided by the four food group plan, making sure their children receive food from the meat group, the milk group, the fruits and vegetables group, and the breads and cereals group in each meal.

It isn't difficult. A packed lunch for a child most often contains a sandwich or two. So with meat, cheese, egg salad, or some such food as the sandwich filling, the meat and breads and cereals groups are covered. To help complete the meal, give your child some kind of fruit, and/or celery or carrot sticks, or vegetable soup in a thermos. If your girls want to get fancy, make a small salad and put it in a plastic container. Then have your children buy milk at school. That's all there is to it.

Casserole Uses Cabbage

CABBAGE CASSEROLE - It's made the quick way and is delicious to serve with roast beef and other meats.

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor

A group of women in Louisville, Ky., has put together an interesting and unusual collection of recipes called "The Farmington Cookbook" for the benefit of Farmington, a historic house near Louisville, that has been restored and opened to the public.

This Cabbage Casserole was adapted from "The Farmington Cookbook" and we found it economical and especially delicious. When we offered it at our house we accompanied it with a two-rib roast of beef. Both the casserole and the meat made four to six servings.

KENTUCKY CABBAGE CASSEROLE

- 1 small head green cabbage, about 1 pound
- 1 cup thinly sliced celery
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of celery soup, un-

- 1/3 cup milk
- 4 teaspoons American-style soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- Generous dash of tabasco sauce
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup finely crushed round buttery crackers
- Knife-shred cabbage coarsely to make 4 cups packed down
- Into a large saucepan turn the cabbage, celery, water and salt; cover and boil 5 minutes; drain well.
- In a 1 1/2-quart round glass casserole (7 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches) or similar utensil whisk together the soup, milk, soy sauce, onion and tabasco; add drained cabbage and celery and mix well.
- In a small skillet melt the butter, mix in cracker crumbs. Sprinkle over cabbage mixture. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until bubbly-hot and topping is browned - about 40 minutes.
- Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Texas Voters Will Decide If State Employees Can Hold Civic Job

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
Texas voters decide Nov. 7 if they want state-paid employees to have the same rights that other Texans have to be elected to city councils, school boards and other local offices.

Those backing Amendment No. 12 claim that 350,000 Texans are disenfranchised by the state constitution.

The proposed amendment to the already much-amended 1876 state constitution will be among a total of 14 proposed changes offered voters on the general election ballot.

The one-third of a million Texans who would be affected by passage of Amendment 12 are those who receive all or part of their pay check from the state of Texas.

And the Texas constitution prohibits payment of state money to "agents, officers or appointees" who hold "any other office or position of honor, trust or profit under the state."

This just knocks out any state employee from fulfilling his civic duty and running for city council or the school board, says D. A. Anderson, College Station, head of the information and education department of the Texas Forest Service.

Anderson knows what he's talking about. He was mayor of College Station until an adverse court ruling in 1971 cut off his state pay check and he had to resign his unpaid city job. Now he's heading a statewide committee urging adoption of Amendment 12.

"This is not any little thing," Anderson said. "Five other councilmen of College Station, who worked for Texas A&M, had to resign and so did every member of the school board except one."

"I've got a list now of more than 50 Texas cities where the same thing happened. They had to resign their local positions, which were unpaid, to keep from losing their state pay checks."

There are 22,504 elective positions in local government around the state and, according to the court ruling, no one paid by the state can run for them. That includes school teachers, highway department personnel, conservation district workers, police, firemen, medical technicians, state hospital employees, secretaries and clerks, university and college faculty and many others.

It is an old common law principle that no person may hold two or more public offices if there is any chance of conflict of interest between those offices, the Texas Legislative Council says. Since its adoption in 1876 the state constitution has prohibited dual office holding any dual compensation. In 1926 and 1932 it was amended to let National Guard, reserve officers and retired military personnel hold civic jobs in 1967 the legislature passed and voters approved an amendment that would let state-paid employees hold local civic job that were appointive, but not elective.

The 1971 test suit was filed by a group of tax payers in College Station. Anderson said they were disgruntled because they had suffered defeat on some issues and felt that "the bunch from A&M" was trying to run the town.

An Austin district court first decided against those on the College Station city council and was later upheld by the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals and the Texas Supreme Court.

The courts overruled the employees contention that the state constitutional provision on dual employment violated the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution.

After the Supreme Court ruling Oct. 20, 1971, the resignations began. Some employees had already had their pay check held up since March of that year.

The provisions of Amendment 12, as passed by the 1971 Legislature and sent to the voters, would allow state employees, or those paid by state funds, who are not state officers, to serve as members of the governing bodies of school districts, cities, towns or other governmental districts, while still drawing a state salary, provided they receive no salary as a member of the local government body.

The section on dual compensation also would be changed to prohibit holding more than one "civil office of employment" rather than the present language of "office, or position of honor, trust or profit."

"It looks very good now," Anderson says. They have encouragement from such diversified organizations as the Texas Civil Liberties Union, Texas State Teachers Association, National Association for Advancement of Colored People and many others. Some of their backers are ultra-liberal and some are ultra-conservative.

"I really haven't found any real opposition at all over the state," Anderson said, "but we don't want to get overconfident. Sometime voters get mad at one proposition and mark out all the others just for spite. But we think voters are about ready to give us a chance on this one."

Governor Smith Defends Use Of State Plane For Vacation

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith says it's okay to use his official state airplane for vacation trips because he works even when he goes fishing.

The subject came up at his news conference Tuesday when a reporter asked if he flew to Colorado on vacation last week in the plane.

"Sure I did," he replied. "Do you think that was state business, Governor?" Smith was asked.

Yes, sir," Smith replied emphatically.

What state business did you conduct in Colorado?"

Lots of state business. I always take with me folders and folders full of boards, possible appointments and matters of that sort wherever I go," Smith said.

Governor, did you catch any fish?"

You bet," he answered.

American Motors' Matador—choice of the Los Angeles Police Department, and other law enforcement agencies for patrol car service—incorporates a number of exterior refinements for 1973, including a new grille appearance. Fresh interior colors and fabrics, plus a wide choice of optional features, continue Matador's reputation for luxury car appointments in an intermediate-size automobile. Station wagons offer optional side and rear simulated wood trim panels in a new Cashmere Walnut grain pattern with the rear panel being light reflective for greater highway safety. All American Motors cars are covered by the company's exclusive Buyer Protection Plan. The Matador will be on sale in AMC dealerships in mid-September.

With the addition of 10 popular items as standard for 1973, American Motors' Ambassador Brougham greatly enhances its reputation as one of the industry's most completely equipped cars. Standard equipment includes air conditioning, automatic transmission and 304 CID V-8 engine, power steering, front power disc brakes, white sidewall tires, AM radio, tinted glass in all windows, undercoating, hood insulation, remote control left outside mirror, visor vanity mirror, deluxe electric windshield wipers and an electric clock. Three models will be offered in the 73 Ambassador Brougham series—two-door hardtop, four-door sedan and station wagon. All American Motors cars are covered by the company's exclusive Buyer Protection Plan. American Motors dealers will be showing the 1973 Ambassador Brougham in mid-September.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE,
PH.D., M.D.

Noel wonders why presidential candidates will list membership in luncheon clubs and college fraternities; yet omit their church affiliations. Take the test below. Answers are given at the bottom of the column. But don't look at them till you've matched all names!

CASE U-588: Noel B., aged 22, is a seminary student.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "recently I happened to look up the biography of Teddy Kennedy in WHO'S WHO.

"But I found that he omitted claiming membership in any church."

"Weren't the Kennedys faithful Roman Catholics?"

"So I checked on several others who were vying for leadership, such as Muskie, Humphrey, Lindsay and the rest."

"Although they would mention their membership in such luncheon clubs as Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions, etc., they often failed to list any church affiliation."

"Were they afraid it might cost them votes?"

"Yet Christ warned us that we must confess him before men, or he will not confess us also before God."

POLITICAL DECEPTION

When people are invited to send their pedigree for inclusion in WHO'S WHO, they are asked specifically to designate their religious affiliation.

So those who omitted stating the church to which they belong, must have done so intentionally.

Of the many aspirants for the presidential nomination, not only did Teddy Kennedy decline to list his church membership in the 1971 WHO'S WHO but so did Humphrey and Muskie.

Were they just "playing politics?"

Maybe they figured it would win more votes if they appeared to be neutrals regarding religion.

But most of the aspirants for leadership of the major political parties did state their church affiliation.

As an interesting game, I'll list the chief contenders and see how many you can match correctly with their denominations.

Since there were Methodists and 2 Episcopalians, I'll tell you in advance that Spiro Agnew is an Episcopalian while Sen. McGovern is a Methodist.

Now try to match the rest of them.

Remember, too, that the church name opposite each aspirant is NOT the one to which he belongs! The men are listed alphabetically.

(A) Hartke (U) Quaker
(B) Jackson (V) Methodist
(C) Lindsay (W) Lutheran
(D) McCarthy (X) Roman Catholic
(E) Nixon (Y) Episcopalian
(F) Wallace (Z) Presbyterian

Among the "10 Commonest Fallacies in Logic," as explained in the booklet below, the first is called "Ad Hominem."

This means your foes try to divert attention from your logical arguments by emotional diversionary appeals.

So they engage in mud slinging or try to diminish your popularity by saying you are divorced or have served a prison term or are of a different religious faith or belong to a minority group, etc.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, September 14, the 258th day of 1972. There are 108 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, President William McKinley died in Buffalo, N.Y., from gunshot wounds inflicted by an anarchist. Theodore Roosevelt became the 26th president.

On this date—

In 1628, the second settlement in Massachusetts, Salem, was chartered by John Endecott.

In 1778, Benjamin Franklin was named as a special U.S. minister to France.

In 1812, Russians set fire to Moscow after an invasion by Napoleon Bonaparte. In America, forces under General Winfield Scott occupied Mexico City.

In 1940, Congress passed the Selective Service Act, which was the first peacetime draft in U.S. history.

In 1963, Mrs. Andrew Fischer of Aberdeen, S.D., gave birth to quintuplets.

Ten years ago, The Soviet government said it accepted, with reservations, a U.S. declaration that no American military intervention in Cuba was planned.

Five years ago, The U.S. government ordered a $100 million cut in long-distance telephone rates.

One year ago, Mainland China made it clear it would refuse a seat at the United Nations as long as the Chinese Nationalists remained.

Thought for today: Happiness consists in the attainment of our desires—St. Augustine, early Christian leader, 354-430.

Panhandle Doctors, Therapists, Nursing Personnel To Attend Symposium In Amarillo

Medical doctors, respiratory therapists and hospital nursing personnel from throughout the Texas Panhandle will attend a respiratory disease symposium on Saturday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Northwest Texas Psychiatric Pavilion auditorium in Amarillo.

As an effort to update knowledge of respiratory disease, its diagnosis, treatment, and hospital care, the symposium is jointly sponsored by Top of Texas TB-Respiratory disease Association and the Texas Society for Respiratory Disease.

Guest faculty will include Dr. W.G. Johanson, director of the Dallas Outpatient Clinic for Chest disease, and Ray Masferrer, technical director of the Pulmonary Function Laboratories of Dallas County Hospital District.

The Christmas Seal organization revealed the Panhandle had 2,070 hospital admissions for emphysema and chronic bronchitis from June, 1970, through June, 1971, representing 15,000 days in the hospital at an estimated cost of $1,500,000.

Hosting the symposium will be the Potter-Randall Medical Auxiliary. There is no registration fee.

Junior Highs To Play Here Today

Pampa Junior High's Reapers play their second game of the year and the Rebels of Robert E. Lee take the field for their first contest of the season this afternoon at 4 p.m.

The Rebels play Hereford La Plata at Harvester Field while the Reapers take on Burger White at the Shocker field.

In addition Lee Red and PJH's eighth grade Reapers are matched up in a game at Lee field. It is also set for a 4 o'clock kickoff.

In last week's season opener, coach Don Drinnon's Reapers

Registration Being Held

Registration is being conducted this week for boys ages 8-13 who wish to enter the Punt, Pass and Kick contest.

Boys who desire to compete may register during the week at Harold Barrett Ford or Warner's Janitor Supply.

A clinic will be held this Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Harvester Field. Preliminary competition will be conducted Sept. 23 at 2 p.m. in Harvester stadium.

The finals will be held during the halftime of the Shokers versus Perryton game on Sept. 28, also in the Harvester Stadium.

Each age group will compete against itself.

The event is sponsored by the Pampa Jaycees, the National football League and Ford Motor Co.

FINAL PREDICTIONS—NFL

PROSPECTUS—The business of professional football continues to dominate the American sporting scene. It has peaked. That doesn't mean it's going into downturn—yet. It's just that there are no more tickets to sell and the TV rate-per-minute can't go higher. Only new direction is expansion, still some time off. So they worry about such prosaic problems as the zone defense and how to legislate against it (moved the hash marks in three yards on each side this season). More logical solution would be to take all those big studs they're drafting for defense and use them on attacking units. Anyhow, NFL should be more concerned about potential viewer saturation because TV eventually gulps all (as it did with boxing). It'll be a problem in a couple of years. For now, they've got a product everyone wants. And a competitive situation in which any one of half a dozen clubs are good bets for Super Bowl nomination.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE

Eastern Division—The reign of the Dallas Cowboys is a lot shakier than people think. Not only have they continuing doubt at QB but a defense that could suddenly get old. The Redskins really threatening and could knock them right out of the play-off spot.

Central Division—The Minnesota Vikings are the continuing powerhouse of the NFC and now they have Francis Tarleton to lead them. Unbeatable combination. But Detroit's good, too, and should rate a place in play-offs on basis of season record.

Western Division—Although Atlanta's coming on, the battle remains a San Francisco-Los Angeles duel. The 49ers are beginning to show some chinks, haven't had much draft help last couple of years. The Rams, stimulated by new ownership and Tommy Prothro's guidance, should prevail.

NFC Play-off—This has to be the Vikings' year. They've won their division four years in row, have best win-loss record in all pro football for that period. And Fran the Man should make the difference in the play-offs.

AMERICAN CONFERENCE

Eastern Division—A real rat-race. Darkhorse factor is what Joe Namath does to uplift Jets. That Baltimore defense always keeps Colts in contention. But for balance you still have to go with the Miami Dolphins, who also have added maturity from Super Bowl appearance.

Central Division—Weakest in conference, and maybe in NFL. The Cleveland Browns keep losing ground as dominant team. The Cincinnati Bengals are too up-and-down to merit confidence. This should be the breakthrough year for long-suffering Pittsburgh Steelers fans.

Western Division—Suddenly everyone's wondering about trade-happy

Harvesters Have Final Practice For Dumas Game

The Pampa Harvesters were to take the field in shorts and tee-shirts today in final preparation for tomorrow night's game with the Dumas Demons.

The Harvesters are coming back from last week's defeat at the hands of the Hereford Whitefaces and two Pampa coaches, head coach Buddy Williams and offensive backfield coach Jim White, had almost identical words for the practices this week. "We've improved a little bit every day."

The Pampa team looked good on occasion last week but lacked the consistency necessary to put the ball across the goal line. On several Pampa drives, Richard McCampbell, Mike Robbins and Steve Mathis showed the running ability that Pampa fans had been counting on.

On defense Robbins, Billy Lemons, Jesse Hunnicutt, Harmon Staus and Ed Townsend cracked the Hereford ball carriers the way it's supposed to be done on numerous plays but again the Harvesters were not able to hold consistently.

Steve Mathis, on at least two occasions, separated a pass receiver from a Keith Kitchens' toss with complete authority.

It is hoped that things will all come together this week against the Demons.

Several changes in the line-up have been announced this week. Robbins, who suffered a leg injury in the Hereford game, will be replaced at fullback by junior Jack King and at right linebacker by Kim Lindsey. King is also slated to start at right end in place of David Nipp who has been moved to linebacker.

Steve Mathis, who is just getting over the effects of a broken hand, will start at right half back in place of Chuck Reeves, who also had a leg injury in the Hereford contest.

Sophomore Rick Leverich is slated to start at the strong safety position in place of Rick McGuire who will maintain his starting slot at split end.

Pampa's defense, the "Mean Green Machine" will see Jody Johnson at left end, Lemons and Staus at tackles, Townsend at the nose guard position and

In the secondary with Leverich will be McCampbell at free safety and Mathis and Reeves at the cornerbacks.

On offense, McGuire and Hunnicutt will be the ends, Larry Johnson and Harmon Staus are the tackles, Lemons and Townsend are the guards and David Lanehart will be at center.

Joining Mathis, McCampbell and King in the backfield is Rick Musgrave, senior quarterback.

Commenting further on this week's practices coach Williams stated, "Our practices have been real good. The kids know what we have to do to get there and they've made the effort to do it."

Baseball Roundup

By Associated Press

It is September in the National League and with the division races all but clinched, this has become the silly season for the also-rans.

Take, for example the Philadelphia Phillies and New York Mets who put on quite a show Wednesday night.

The Phillies, besetting a team with the worst record in the Western Hemisphere, came out on the short end of the 11-6 score in a debacle that lasted three hours, 35 minutes—the longest nine innings of baseball this season.

The game featured 11 pitchers, 17 walks, 26 men left on base, two wild pitches, a passed ball and two errors. But none of that was as funny as the frantic contact lens search staged by rookie catcher Bob Boone of the Phillies.

Boone started pawing the ground around home plate in the seventh inning after losing his lens. Soon he was joined by plate umpire Doug Harvey, other players and coaches. Caught up in the emergency, Phillies pitcher Jim Nash rushed from the dugout with a head set over his ears and began scanning the ground with the jack end as if it were a geiger counter.

The fruitless search lasted four minutes, 10 seconds before the umpires ordered play resumed. Boone worked the rest of the way with a spare lens and after the game ended, the rookie and a couple of helpers showed up with flashlights to resume the search.

Perhaps they were looking for the end of this long, long season.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, division leaders Cincinnati and Pittsburgh both reduced their magic numbers. The Reds got theirs down to nine with an 8-6 victory over Atlanta in 10 innings and the Pirates cut theirs to five by beating Chicago 6-4. Houston edged San Diego 6-5, St. Louis nipped Montreal 5-4 in 11 innings and San Francisco whipped Los Angeles 7-1.

Baltimore Colts Put End Mackey On Waivers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Mackey, voted the best tight end in pro football's first 50 years, now is up for grabs in the National Football League after being put on waivers by the Baltimore Colts.

The 30-year-old veteran had told the Colts he wanted to be traded or put on waivers if he would have to play behind Tom Mitchell, who was elevated to the starting tight end position last season.

The Colts announced Monday that Mackey had retired. He denied it and said he just wanted to go to another NFL team. So Coach Don McCafferty announced Wednesday that Mackey had been waived. If he is not claimed before 4 p.m. Friday he will become a free agent.

Elsewhere, Coach Don Shula said he would use a three running back rotation in the Miami Dolphins' season opener Sunday against Kansas City.

Shula said Mercury Morris, Jim Kiick and Larry Csonka are "all first stringers." Morris said after the Dolphins' 24-3 loss to Dallas in last year's Super Bowl that he wasn't getting enough playing time, and indicated he wanted to be traded unless his status changed. He has led the Miami rushing game in preseason action with a 6.9 yard per carry average.

Roster changes made by NFL teams Wednesday included the acquisition of running backs Charlie Pittman and Dave Kopay and wide receiver Jon Stagers by the Green Bay Packers. Stagers was claimed on waivers from Pittsburgh

Cerrudo Completes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The revived Texas Open will feature two former champions, Ron Cerrudo and Chi Chi Rodriguez, and 1969 U.S. Amateur champion Steve Melnyk, sponsors said.

Lee Trevino, Frank Beard and Bobby Nichols have indicated they will compete in the $125,000 tournament but their names were not on the first list of entries released Wednesday.

Senior center Don Thompson of Rexdale, Ont., led Michigan State's hockey team in scoring last season with 35 goals and 32 assists, both Spartan records.

COUSINS? The follow-throughs and the names are nearly identical but Hungarian Olympic javelin thrower Angela Nemeth Ranky, right, is not sure if she is a relative of New York Jets quarterback Joe Namath, above.

District 3-4A Football Roundup

The game of the week in District 3-4A has to be the one pairing Palo Duro against Hereford. As everyone knows Pampa was handled by the Whitefaces last week to the tune of 20-0.

While that game was going on the Dons were mauling the Harvesters' opponent this week, Dumas, by the score of 42-7.

The outcome of this week's contest will be of interest to every team in both District 3-4A and in District 4-4A. Judging from each team's performance last week it should be a great game.

Tascosa, which lost to third-ranked Odessa Permian last week 27-0, takes on Plainview tomorrow night in another 3-4A—4-4A matchup.

Plainview won its game against Lubbock Estacado last Friday 14-7.

Estacado is still thought of highly enough to be ranked 10 in the state this week. Plainview is certainly not conceding the 4-4A championship to Hereford. This should be another exciting game.

Amarillo High takes on fifth-ranked Wichita Falls at home. That will probably not make much of a difference. While AHS was being blanked by Odessa 28-0 last weekend the Coyotes were rolling over Lubbock Coronado 35-14.

Borger goes to Canyon in the other 3-4A Friday night game. Each team lost its season opener last week. Borger was blanked by Perryton in a defensive battle and Canyon lost to Spearman 18-13.

Saturday night Caprock travels to El Paso to meet El Paso Andress in a battle of the unbeaten. Caprock whitewashed Odessa Ector 20-0 last Saturday and Andress beat cross-town rival Ysleta 21-8.

45. Improving Your Defensive Lob

Why is it that my defensive lobs always seem to land too shallow in the court?

Chances are you are not making a complete stroke. It's very seldom that the average player hits a defensive lob past the baseline, so if you are lobbing short, it might be a good idea for you to say to yourself, "If anything I'm going to hit this lob over the baseline but I'm not going to hit it short." This will help you get more depth on your lobs.

You can take a full swing at the ball when making a defensive lob. Let's say the ball goes up in the air 40 feet and you have hit it from behind the baseline, which means it can travel the full length of the court which is

Dallas Cowboys Keep 8 Rookies On Squad

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys have kept eight rookies on their 47-man squad in an attempt to avoid a Green Bay type decay of the late 1960s when all the Packer greats retired.

Coach Tom Landry of the National Football League champions said Wednesday, "We've got quite a few new players for a championship team. The rookies we kept have potential. It will give us the continuity we need."

Ermal Allen, one of Landry's top aides, added, "We've got 12 new people in our top 47 when you count the four trades. You've got to do this to keep our squad from getting caught in a spot like Green Bay several years ago when all the regulars decided to retire."

The rookies kept by the World Champions and comments by Landry:

Bill Thomas, Boston College.

No. 1 draft pick—"We don't know much about him because he's been injured and hasn't played a down for us. We think he will be a good running back."

Robert Newhouse, Houston, running back. No. 2 draft choice—"He's starting to come mmm he's hitting the holes ... an excellent blocker ... perhaps the best in our backfield. He returns those kickoffs hard and recklessly."

Gene Fugett, Amherst, tight end—"Most improved player during training camp. He's a good youngster for the future."

John Abinecz, Villanova, linebacker—"By the end of camp he looked as good as (former Cowboy) Steve Kiner. Age is creeping up on Chuck Howley and Abinecz is a good one to have around."

Ralph Coleman, North Carolina A&T, linebacker—"Great physical potential. Big and explosive."

San Diego Chargers, who've jacked up their roster with lot of name players. For squad depth, though, you don't beat the Oakland Raiders and the Kansas City Chiefs. The Raiders are the hunch choice because they're hungry.

AFC Play-off—Quite likely you'll see Chiefs and Raiders from same division in finals. Nod goes to Raiders—watch out for their young quarterback, Ken Stabler, who protects against Lamonica letdown.

SUPER BOWL VII

A Minnesota-Oakland showdown would match two of the strongest squads in the game. Raiders play it a little fancier. Vikings grind people down. The choice here would be Minnesota.

Major Hoople's Forecast

Sooners, Ohio State Picked To Win Openers

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Peerless Predictor

Egad, friends the season is only one week old but already the Hoople System is functioning in mid-season form. Last weekend, despite some astonishing upsets, The Hoople Football Forecast came through with a sterling — kaff-kaff — performance recording 25 correct selections, only 7 losses and 2 ties for a brilliant .781 average — har-rumph!

But loyal followers of our prognostications know that — hak-kaff — this is the rule and not the exception, so on with this week's card.

There are many top-notch contests on tap this week with one of the best matching those great intrastate rivals Florida State and Miami in the Orange Bowl. In a great offensive show featuring the aerial magic of the Seminole's Gary Huff and the infantry tactics of the Miami Hurricanes' speedy Chuck Foreman, the Hoople System foresees a narrow 23-21 win for Florida State — um-kumph!

Another battle that will go down to the wire will take place at Norman, Oklahoma, where Coach Chuck Fairbanks will unveil his '72 Oklahoma Sooner club playing host to Utah State. Your Peerless Predictor sees the Sooners finishing on top, 36-24, over a splendid Aggie club.

The Colorado Buffaloes should have an easy time of it as they take on undermanned Cincinnati. It will be Colorado 34, Cincinnati 6. At the same time powerful Arizona State will prove to be rude visitors as they thrash host Houston, 31-12.

There are several Big Ten meetings on the schedule but most of the conference teams will be looking toward Columbus as Woody Hayes takes the wraps off his talent-loaded Buckeyes. For the Iowa Hawkeyes it will be a long afternoon as the Bucks roll to a 42-6 triumph.

The Old Boy Himself

Out west, Southern California, which lived up to our expectations — kaff-kaff — in upsetting a strong Arkansas aggregation last week, will roll on in high gear spanning Oregon State, 35-0.

And journeying east to show their wares, the surprising UCLA Bruins, who jolted the football world by conquering mighty Nebraska, will take on the Pittsburgh Panthers. We confidently predict a 30-7 victory for the Uclans!

The Hoople Special of the week is the Fighting Illini of Bob Blackman to derail Duffy Daugherty's Michigan State express, 26-24 — har-rumph!

Now go on with the forecast.

West Texas Buffalos Meet Drake In Opener

CANYON, Tex. — West Texas State University's young Buffalo football team opens its season and Missouri Valley Conference schedule Saturday afternoon in Des Moines, Ia., against the team which paced the conference in passing and total offense last fall.

Starting against that strong offense, headed by quarterback Dennis Redmond, will be five sophomores on defense. The Buffalo offense will have four sophomores starting.

Redmond was the MVC's total offense leader last fall, averaging 169.9 yards per game as the Bulldogs of coach Jack Wallace won seven of 11 games.

The Drake quarterback threw for 2,182 yards last season. Also returning is Redmond's top receiver, split end Doug Winslow, who caught 56 for 964 yards to also lead the conference.

Redmond's throwing will certainly test the young Buffalo secondary. Linebackers Bruce Davis and Steve Rogers are sophomores, as are corner backs Scott Hindman and Juan Garza. Linebacker Willis Haws and safety men Daryl Carr and Steve Sydow are the only returning veterans in the Buff secondary defense.

Because of the inexperienced secondary, a great deal must depend upon the front four on defense — seniors Bill Trischiani, Robert Jensen, junior Walter Hibbler and sophomore Tony Gorman. Hibbler earned second team all-MVC honors last fall as a junior.

Coach Gene Mayfield's Buffalo backfield on offense will also be inexperienced, with three starters being sophomores. The sophomores are former Marine Robert Sweat of Suffolk, Va., and halfbacks Cole Fraley of Borger and Jimmy Lisle of Rule. Sweat has edged in front of Hereford sophomore Mike Wartes for the quarterback starting berth.

The fullback is Billy Pritchett, a 6-4, 240-pound junior from Van Vleet. He rushed through Buffalo foes for 1,128 yards last fall and earned all-conference honors.

Although the offensive line is not as young as some other parts of the Buffalo team, playing time on the varsity level is not high. Merced Solis, 206-pounder from Mission, is the only sophomore on the starting offensive line. The rugged tight end is considered a strong pass receiver.

Returning to the offensive line are center Dewayne Sexton and Carl Brown, the split end. Both started some of the time last fall. The guards are Billy Taylor, a senior who saw enough playing time at tackle to letter last fall, and junior college transfer Mike Delaney. The tackles are Gary Fennell, another junior college transfer, and Jim Hankins, a converted center.

The Buffaloes will open their home season Sept. 23 in Kimbrough Stadium against Colorado State University.

Pronghorns Increasing By Leaps And Bounds

SAN ANGELO — West Texas Parks and Wildlife Department reports that 60 percent of pronghorn does in the Trans-Pecos and Permian Basin had fawns this year. Panhandle antelope crops shape up to be the second best in the past 12 years.

Department biologists out west will issue special permits to landowners which are required for coming hunts in the fall.

George Litton of Parks and Wildlife will issue 163 permits to landowners in nine Permian Basin counties.

Tom Hailey will allocate 938 permits to Trans-Pecos landowners.

Panhandle landowners will receive about 381 permits from Dick DeArment.

All permits will be issued by department officials prior to Sept. 20.

In the Panhandle Regulatory

Bob Grossman, Maryland junior right handed pitcher who hurled two no-hitters this season, was voted the player of the year in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He's a Salona Beach, Calif., native.

District, the pronghorn season runs from Sept. 30-Oct. 3 with a bag limit of one.

The season is open Sept. 30-Oct. 8 in the Possum Kingdom, Permian Basin and Trans-Pecos Districts with a bag limit of one.

Parks and Wildlife Department biologists report that the herds are in excellent condition as a result of good range.

In the past, one lucky hunter in the Permian Basin bagged an antelope with horns exceeding 19 inches in length. The Boone and Crockett record is over 22 inches but the Texas animal is rated as one of the four best pronghorns killed in the state.

Imagine the possibilities for this year.

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Draft Machine To Stay

So you thought the military draft was to be ended, did you? Think again. More and more the promised "end of the draft" takes on all the earmarks of a temporary political expedient calculated to garner votes for the Nixon administration in November.

Whereas the American people were led to believe that the drafting of human beings was to be abolished, to be replaced with a system of voluntary recruitment, it now develops that such is not to be the case at all. The tip-off came with the gradual shift from use of the unqualified terminology "the draft" to "selective" to the definitely qualified phrase "peacetime draft" to "end of the draft." As we warned in our editorial, the two expressions do not mean the same thing.

That the federal government has no intention of really ending the draft was made abundantly clear by a series of direct questions put to defense department and draft officials by U.S. News and World Report which were published, along with the answers received, in its September 11 issue. Since USN & WP forbids direct quotes, we won't repeat the questions and answers verbatim as published, however, the sense of both questions and answers can be made quite clear without direct quotes.

Question: Will draft age youths still be required to register with their local Selective Service boards after actual induction stops?

Answer: Yes, and for an indefinite period. Registration must be accomplished during the 60-day period between a month before their eighteenth birthday and a month after.

Question: Will the draft law expire on June 30, 1973?

Answer: No. The present authority to carry out inductions expires on that date, but the basic law authorizing and setting up the Selective Service System will remain in effect. Plans call for continuing registration and processing of draft eligibles so they will be available in case of need.

Question: Will yearly draft lotteries still be held?

Answer: Yes. In all probability in January or February of each year, and for an indefinite period. As in the past, such lotteries will determine draft-lottery numbers for youths who reach 19 years of age during each year.

Question: Does all this have a purpose and, if so, what is it?

Answer: Yes. The purpose is to have, in case of an emergency, a ready pool of youngsters, all processed and classified, so they can be inducted on short notice.

There were other questions and answers, but the foregoing will suffice to make the point.

In short, although actual draft calls will probably cease for a while, the draft machinery will remain intact ready to be activated at such time as the government decides to involve us in another bloody Korea or Vietnam.

Your Miraculous Car

With the internal combustion engine, as used primarily in the automobile, being increasingly depicted as the epitome of evil, it's about time someone said something in favor of the machine which, more than any other single invention, has relieved mankind from grinding toil. Some moving statistics compiled by the Highway Users Foundation do just that.

According to the foundation: The average car travels about 10,000 miles a year. But that's only the beginning of the story. To odometer mileage, add another 2,000 miles for the time the engine was idling, for a total of 12,000 engine miles.

In a typical eight-cylinder model, the spark plugs fired 15 million times in the past year, and each spark plug cable delivered a total of 250 billion volts.

Each piston went 3,000 miles up and down inside its cylinder. The carburetor mixed nearly three billion cubic feet of air with 666 gallons of gasoline and each valve opened and closed 15 million times.

The coil delivered 120 billion jolts and the fuel pump pulsed 15 million times.

Thousands of other interrelated parts also opened and closed, went up and down, in and out or around and around, compiling equally impressive statistics.

The miracle is that with only normally prudent maintenance, all these parts go on doing their thing for year after year.

And isn't it strange that the auto's most violent critics continue to make use of the critter they profess to abhor?

Democrats Wrong On Secret Plan

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) —In the heat of battle, Republicans and Democrats alike tend to destroy each other's performances and proposals. They need to be called on it. And right now the Democrats are wrongly proclaiming that President Nixon said he had a "secret plan" to end the war in Vietnam.

This misrepresentation has been repeated so often that even some detached observers are taking it as fact.

The whole thing stems, of course, from a Nixon speech in New Hampshire roughly a week before that state's primary in March, 1968. At the American Legion Hall in Hampton, he said:

"I pledge to you that new leadership will end the war and win the peace in the Pacific—and that is what America wants."

Since at least November 1967, Mr. Nixon had been saying that only a new administration could negotiate a settlement that would end the war. The Hampton utterance was his first flat promise to do so.

His Democratic critics, and a whole body of newsmen, immediately demanded details. They reasoned that a hard pledge implied a specific plan to fulfill it.

But Mr. Nixon never, never said he had such a plan, secret or otherwise. In truth, he went out of his way, again and again to say he did not.

Richard J. Whalen, a former Nixon adviser-writer who has written a critical Nixon book called "Catch the Falling Flag," says of the demand for details on the New Hampshire promise:

"There weren't any. Nothing lay behind the 'pledge' except Nixon's instinct for an extra effort of salesmanship when the customers started drifting away."

What Whalen seems to be talking about is this: At that stage in New Hampshire, it was apparent Democratic challenger Eugene McCarthy was making headway with antiwar assaults on President Johnson. Furthermore, GOP Gov. George Romney's withdrawal had deprived Mr. Nixon of a valid primary opponent. To sustain interest in this candidacy, Mr. Nixon sought to make LBJ and his war policies his target.

Author Jules Witcover, in his book, "The Resurrection of Richard Nixon," brands the end-of-the-war pledge a blunder. It evidently originated with Herbert Brownell, former Eisenhower aide. Whalen has Nixon adviser John Sears calling it "dumb advice."

Nevertheless, in trying to get out of the box, Mr. Nixon did not ever concede he had a plan. Even at Hampton he said he could promise "no push-button technique" to end the war. He said simply that the goal could be achieved if we "mobilize our economic and political and diplomatic leadership."

Next night, at a Washington fund-raising dinner, Mr. Nixon said Johnson had put too much stress on the military side. He said we should use trade leverage to get the Soviet Union to use its power in the Vietnam matter, and called this a possible "key to peace."

In a 90-minute interview with the New York Times on March 10, Mr. Nixon said he would not explain in detail how he might carry out his pledge, that no one seeking the presidency should give away bargaining positions in advance. Yet, once more, he did not indicate he had a real plan.

Indeed, he told the Times ending the war was "an objective" that he had "no magic formula." He said that "one of the advantages of a new president is that he can start fresh without being imprisoned by formulas of the past." Several times in that period he said it would be unwise not merely to say but to plan specifically what he would do the following January, in possible altered military circumstances.

Howard Hughes Fleeced In Countless Swindles

By PAUL HARVEY

Howard Hughes, if only he were less shy and less elusive, might enjoy the anonymity of any other billionaire.

J. Paul Getty could shop at any dime store without being recognized because he hasn't tried to hide.

But Mr. Hughes is entitled to do it his way. I respect his right to privacy.

Others do not. Others have been taking advantage of Mr. Hughes. Friends took him to the cleaners and foes are picking his bones.

There's an old Paiute Indian named Boone Wilson now in court in Las Vegas, Nev., trying to take the old Krupp Ranch away from Howard Hughes on the presumption that previous sales of the property were technically illegal.

Mr. Hughes can lose that piece of desert and feel little pain; he's been scalped so much and by so many in Las Vegas that he's used to it by now.

The Wall Street Journal recently audited the residual Hughes Nevada estate and computed that he'd been taken for countless millions through fraud, theft, waste and bungled business dealings.

H. L. Hunt Writes

SAVING THE TRIDENT

Constructive members of the U.S. Senate have fortunately been able to save the Trident missile-firing submarine from farleft attempts to slow down its production. By a vote of 47 to 39, the Senate rejected an amendment to the military procurement authorization bill which would have reduced funds available for Trident production by well over half.

This action will make it possible for the first four of the ten proposed Tridents to go into production two or three years ahead of the initial 1981 target date.

Admiral Hyman Rickover persuasively put the case for Trident in a letter to Senator John Pastore of Rhode Island: "The oldest Polaris submarines are wearing out. They were built to specifications based on a 20-year life; the machinery is wearing out. It is unreasonable to expect them to operate more than 20 years without having major breakdowns."

Admiral Rickover further pointed out that Tridents "are being designed with all the latest nuclear propulsion and submarine design technology. They will be much more difficult to detect and attack than our Polaris submarines for two reasons: the new longer-range Trident missiles will give the submarines vastly more ocean area to hide in, and the new submarines will be much quieter than the Polaris submarines." This is especially important, Rickover added, because the Soviets have been concentrating on anti-submarine warfare.

Saving the Trident is doubly significant to our country since our defenses have been drastically weakened in so many other areas. The Senators who voted in favor of Trident deserve our congratulations.

Treatment for Heart Murmurs

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—My husband is 73 years old and has a heart murmur which he has had for many years. Most doctors have made light of it, but the last doctor he saw gave him digitalis tablets and the doctor said his heart was sluggish. Is there an exercise to strengthen his heart muscle? He also has to take a Hydrodiuril pill once a day. He was X-rayed and they found the bladder was holding water. What causes this? Is the Hydrodiuril pill for the bladder? I'd appreciate your explaining this and would like to know the best thing to do and if there is a cure for the heart murmur through exercise.

Dear Reader—Heart murmurs can mean a number of different things. They can be innocent findings in a young child, or they can be an indication of disease of valves in the heart or other evidence of heart disease. Whether or not the murmur is important the older a person gets in our society it is common for there to be fatty changes or atherosclerosis in the arteries to the heart muscle.

If this condition or other defects of the heart cause the heart muscle to become weakened, then the individual has what we call heart failure. Expressed simply, this means that the heart muscle is too weak to do an efficient job of pumping the blood. When this occurs the body tends to retain salt and with the salt, the body retains water.

It's a common and very good treatment in most of these conditions, to give the patient digitalis. This heart medicine stimulates the heart muscle to contract more efficiently and helps the heart to improve its ability in pumping blood. When it does this successfully, the improved circulation mobilizes the excess fluid and salt and they are eliminated by the kidney.

Sometimes to help the elimination of the excess salt and water, the patient will take a water pill or Hydrodiuril to help. The purpose of this pill is strictly limited to helping the person get rid of the excess salt and the water. It has nothing to do with the bladder.

It is very important that a person who is taking any of the digitalis medicines and a water pill for heart problems continue to take them exactly as he has been told to do. Usually the individual needs to take the digitalis for life. It is dangerous to stop taking such medicines without the specific approval of your doctor.

Although exercise is wonderful for preventing heart disease and preventing heart attacks, it has absolutely no use whatever in the treatment of heart failure and can even be harmful. The heart fails because the muscle is already overloaded or worked beyond its capacity. The heart's capacity has been limited because the disease is already present.

Inside Washington

Panthers Having Trouble Finding Another Den

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — That pack of Black Panther fugitive criminals holed up in Algeria—sonorous posing as the International Section of the Black Panther Party—is having a tough time finding another cozy sanctuary.

They are being bluntly cold-shouldered by Libya and Guinea.

Although both countries call themselves "revolutionary" and make a big show of extending hospitality to militants and dissidents on the run, their authoritarian rulers are emphatically evincing no desire to have any part of the Panthers who have worn out their welcome in "revolutionary" Algeria.

That's the inside reason Kathleen Cleaver, wife of Eldridge Cleaver, is in the U.S. trying to make a deal for her return to California without going to jail as a parole violator.

So far she has made no headway.

Authorities are firmly insisting that Cleaver, onetime Panther minister of information who organized the International Section as a grandiose pose after fleeing to Algeria, must go back to jail to serve out his time for assault with intent to commit murder.

Significantly, Mrs. Cleaver is concerning herself only with the affairs of her bail-jumping husband. Apparently she is not acting as emissary for the other Black Panther fugitives who are wanted on charges ranging from murder to skyjacking.

Evidently Cleaver, the self-designated head of the International Section, is letting the other Panther members take care of themselves.

With "revolutionary" Libya and Guinea slamming the door, their outlook is bleak. If they remain in Algeria, they will be subject to increasingly onerous restrictions; none of the Communist countries will have them; and they face certain imprisonment if they return to the U.S.

What happens next remains to be seen.

SOUL SISTER

Cleaver has written Angela Davis, now touring Russia as a distinguished Marxist revolutionary, asking her to go to bat for him as a long-suffering "political prisoner."

Cleaver wants Angela to use her influence to "mobilize world support for his 'right' to return to the U.S. to stand trial without having to go to jail."

Although the darling of the Panthers in the U.S., Angela has ignored Cleaver—who is at violent odds with Huey Newton, supreme commander, and other Panther leaders. Cleaver and Newton have been venomously feuding for several years.

Obviously, Angela doesn't consider Cleaver to be the right kind of Black Panther. He may profess to be "revolutionary," but apparently is not her type.

Every Panther holed up in Algeria has a criminal record.

Following are examples:

Donald Lee Cox, charged with murder; Nathaniel Jerome Burns, also known as Sekou Odinga, wanted for attempted murder; Larry Neil Mack, charged with conspiracy to commit arson and murder; Michael Tabor wanted for the same offenses.

The Algerian government says it is still deliberating what to do about the two groups of Panther skyjackers in their custody. The $1.5 million they extorted from U.S. airlines has been returned, but nominally still pending is this country's request for their extradition to stand prosecution.

Recently, the skyjackers have not been seen around the Panther compound outside of Algiers. Exactly what this means is unknown.

With the Boumedienne government making multi-billion-dollar oil and gas deals with U.S. corporations, it clearly wants to get rid of the Panther skyjackers in one way or another. How that's being done remains to be seen.

McGOVERN VS. McGOVERN

Whatever else Sen. McGovern is, he certainly is "flexible."

Examination of the printed record shows clearly the South Dakota radical has remarkable dexterity in being on all sides of major issues. His consistency in this capability is as distinctive as his flexibility.

Following are striking examples from leading newspapers:

VIETNAM — Providence Journal, July 13, 1972: McGovern said he was not changing his views on the need for withdrawal from Indochina. He recalled the "flat pledge" he had made to take every American soldier out of Southeast Asia (which includes Thailand), and to cease all aid to the South Vietnamese region.

"I do not have the slightest doubt that every American troop and soldier will be out within 90 days of my inauguration, and that's the pledge I make."

Miami Herald, Aug. 12, 1972: McGovern told POW wives that he would leave troops in Thailand: "While I am fully confident that there would be no such need, I would also retain some military capability in the region, in Thailand and on the seas."

Newsweek, Sept. 11, 1972: To further confuse the issue, Abram Chayes, foreign affairs adviser to Sen. McGovern, said if Hanoi insists then Sen. McGovern would dump Lon Nol and Souvanna Phouma in Laos and Cambodia, and dismantle all bases in Thailand.

VISIT WITH LBJ — Washington Post, Aug. 31, 1972: McGovern described his visit with Johnson in Texas as "one of the treasured experiences of my life." He added that "he (LBJ) inherited that (war), he didn't start it. He gave up his chance to run for reelection in an effort to end it."

In 1967, Sen. McGovern met with President Johnson and discussed the Vietnam war. Following that session, McGovern described President Johnson as "rambling and incoherent." Later he wrote (what he carefully does not mention now): "The President is a tortured and confused man...literally tortured by the mess he has gotten into in Vietnam. He reacts violently to suggestions that our involvement there is immoral."

ABORTION — Time magazine, June 26, 1972: "Abortion is a private matter which should be decided by a pregnant woman and her own doctor," says McGovern.

CITY OF PAMPA TEXAS
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
PROCLAMATION

The Constitution of the United States of America was adopted September 17, 1787, ratified June 21, 1788, and entered into force on September 17, 1789.

On January 5, 1856, Senator William P. Knowland introduced the following Senate Joint Resolution:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the President of the United States is authorized and requested to designate the period beginning September 17 and ending September 23 of each year as Constitution Week, and to issue annually a proclamation inviting the people of the United States to observe such week in schools, churches and other suitable places with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

This Resolution was adopted July 23, 1956, and signed into law (Public Law No. 84-602).

WHEREAS, September 17, 1972, marks the One Hundred Eighty-Fifth Anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States of America by the Constitutional Convention, and

WHEREAS, To accord official recognition to this memorable anniversary, and the purpose of the proclamation which will form a noteworthy feature of the occasion, seems fitting and proper, and

WHEREAS, The President of the United States has issued a proclamation designating September 17 through 23 as Constitution Week, and by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Pampa, Texas, do hereby proclaim such week of September 17 through 23, 1972, as
