Warlime Plan Of Operation Is Submitted

Governor's Speech Is Delivered To Solons Today

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 13 — Governor Coke R. Stevenson today told a joint session of the House and Senate of the 48th legislature that is first job was to shape the state's course to meet the war emergency.

He recommended a strict policy of economy, with no new taxes, as a wartime pattern of state operation.

Flanked by the president pro tem of the Senate, Vernon Lemens in his uniform as an Army lieutenant, and by Speaker of the House Price Daniel, the governor read his message.

Resolution To Congress

A few minutes before he came to deliver the address the House passed a resolution urging the Texas delegation in Congress to do its utmost to relieve the "intolerable burden on local taxpayers to retire school district bonds" in counties where the federal government has acquired large tracts of land for army camps or war industries.

Rep. W. R. Chambers of May said that Camp Bowie in Brown county had taken 89,000 acres of land out of one school district, leaving "only a fringe of farms around the edge" to pay a $20,000 bonded debt. Rep. Ben Sharp of Paris said a similar situation existed in his district.

In his address to the 48th legislature the governor, noting members' knowledge of state problems was equal to his, suggested a multiple-pointed program for their consideration.

Legislature More Necessary

"There has never been a time when the legislature branch of government was more necessary to the people than during the present social, economic and military crisis," he reminded. . . .

Briefly, he recommended this program:

Fiscal—Strict economy which will obviate the need for new taxes; appointment of the state auditor by the legislature instead of the governor; re-enactment of the road bond servicing law; maintenance of existing tax levies; minimum appropriations consistent with proper functioning of government so that the deficit will be decreased, vigorous collection of delinquent and disputed taxes.

Redistricting Urged

He promised further communications regarding finances.

Elections—amend the law to clearly require radio time be included in reports any expenditures by or in behalf of a candidate.

Representation — redistrict the state for representation in the legislature so that each section may have an equal voice.

Liquor—stricter control, including restriction of the hours of sale of liquor, beer and wine, prohibition of consumption on pub-

Small Business Main Loser In War Turmoil

Diligent Effort Asked In Behalf Of Small Firms

FIGHT IN PROSPECT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (U.P.) — President Roosevelt's desire to impose a net income ceiling of $25,000 — after payment of taxes, mortgages and other fixed liabilities — promised today to stir up one of the toughest fights of the 78th Congress.

Sen. John A. Danaher, R., Conn., said he was prepared to lead the fight against such presidential plans when the first tax bill reaches the Senate floor.

"Putting a limit on the earning power of men who are capable of commanding high incomes through their individual efforts isn't going to pay the cost of this war," he said. "And Presidential directives which cover only part of the field isn't the answer either. The answer is in the tax laws — closing the loopholes through which some extremely wealthy men are able to evade their honest share of the burden by operation of sideline enterprises which consistently lose them money."

moil of war and called for a more diligent effort to keep him on a going basis.

"We can clearly see the trends," Ickes told a special Senate committee which concerned itself primarily with ways to find a place in the war economy for small mine operators, "—the major portion of war production contracts going to a few large corporations, the hundreds of small businesses closing."

"The fundamental fact and problem that we face," he said, "is that both mineral resources and business talents lie idle. They must be brought together."

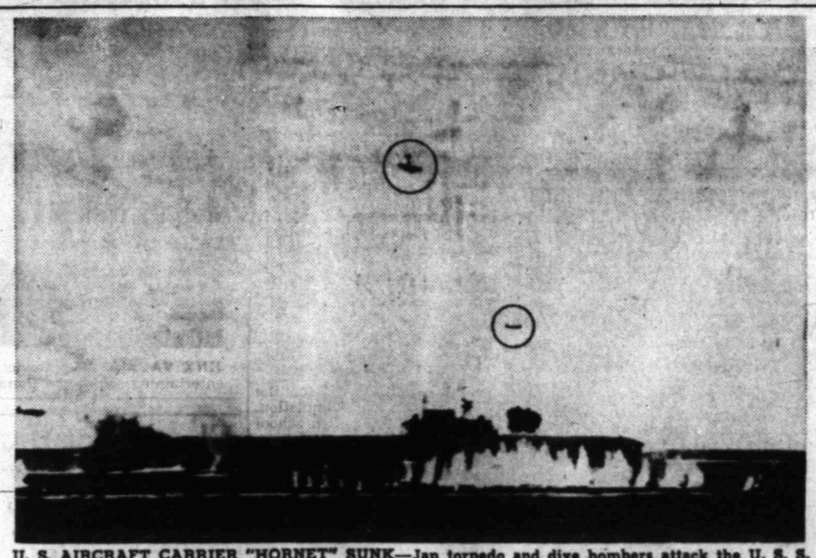

Sales Tax Considered

While Ickes was expressing his concern over this, assurance developed that the new Congress would tackle the issue of a national retail sales tax.

Rep. Robertson (D-Va) announced he would re-offer this method of raising revenue toward the goal of $16,000,000,000 new income proposed by President Roosevelt in his budget message. A similar tax plan died last session but its supporters believe it will command more support now.

Meanwhile, New England members of Congress gathered to discuss the fuel shortage which is especially acute to their states,

Board Cleared In Drafting Of Army's First $190 Per Month Private; He Has 11 Children

(By The United Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 — Draft board 244 was exonerated today of having knowingly made Anthony Arthur Christian, 38, a painter, the Army's first $190 a month private.

Christian was inducted Nov. 7 as a man without dependents, when actually he had a wife and 11 children, ranging in age from 17 years to 20 months.

Military life was a considerable improvement in his fortune, because he had been out of work and receiving $45.95 in public relief every two weeks. Now the Army pays his wife $162 a month to support her and the children, and Christian gets $28.

Received Other Benefits

He has received other benefits. He hadn't been a soldier 10 days when he had appendicitis. The Army gave him an operation, and when he had recovered sufficiently, a 12-day furlough. He left last night for Atlantic City, N. J., to report for duty as a cook's assistant.

Draft board 244 insisted that it had been misled. It said Christian had not listed any dependents in his questionnaire.

Several days ago Mrs. Christian called at the draft board office and asked why she hadn't received any dependency allotment checks. A clerk looked up Christian's questionnaire and asked, "what dependents?"

"What About Children?"

"What about our 11 children?" she replied, producing 11 birth certificates and a marriage license.

Draft board 244 appealed to Col. Arthur V. McDermott, director of Selective Service in New York City, who ruled that the government would have to pay "in spite of the fact that Private Christian obviously had deceived his local

Unrest Rising In Nazi Areas

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Jan. 13. — Reports of unrest in Axis satellite nations, especially in Rumania and Bulgaria, continue to grow.

Radio Morocco, quoting Berne dispatches, said today the Germans have arrested 25,000 persons in Bulgaria, and telephone connections between Bulgaria and other nations have been closed all day.

Arrests Mounting

Tass, Russian news agency, reports from Istanbul that arrests are mounting in Bucharest and other Rumanian cities, with jails packed and several new concentration camps established.

The Rumanian war office is reported to have formed four divisions of "reliable elements" to maintain order.

Sinking Of Hornet Revenge For Raid

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (AP) — A Japanese broadcast asserted today that the United States aircraft carrier Hornet, identified Monday by the American Navy as the aircraft carrier sunk Oct. 26 in the battle of the Santa Cruz islands, was the vessel which carried the planes that raided Tokyo last April 18.

The broadcast, beamed for Japanese communities in East Asia, said, without giving the authority, that it was "disclosed" that the Hornet "brought the North American bombers during the attack on Japan." The broadcast was reported by government monitors to the Office of War Information.

The sinking of the Hornet was "revenge for the raid," the Tokyo radio said, adding that "our imperial air units have been concentrating on this ship."

Professor's Interest Only In Second Cup

PARKVILLE, Mo., Jan. 13 (AP)—Dr. Harry G. Parker, retired Park College chemistry professor, traps coffee vapors for that second cup.

From numerous experiments the professor concluded he could get twice as many cups from the usual portion of coffee by boiling it an hour—and as tasty if he could capture the vapor.

He rigged up a chemistry flask joined to a glass funnel by a hollow cork. As the coffee boils the vapor rises into the funnel where it condenses against a cover and drips back into the coffee.

The professor has no intention of seekin a patent on his glass gadget (cost 60 cents). His only interest is that second cup at the breakfast table.

Farmer Convicted In Boll Worm Case

EDINBURG, Jan. 13 (AP)—Monty Kenyon, farmer, was convicted by a jury in county court last night of violating the pink boll worm law which calls for plowing under of cotton stalks by Oct. 1, of each year. He was assessed a fine of $100 and costs.

Kenyon, one o ffour men to be tried this week and next on charges of violating the boll worm law, contended his field was wet and that he could not get in to plow stalks under.

D. M. McEachern, in charge of pink boll worm law enforcement in the Rio Grande valley, testified that "If pink boll worm infestation continues in the valley there is imminent danger of the valley being declared a non-cotton zone." He called the pink boll worm the most destructive insect to cotton.

British Have More Aircraft Carriers

LONDON, Jan. 13 (U.P.) — The British Navy now has more aircraft carriers than at the start of the war despite heavy losses, A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, said today.

Alexander, addressing members of the Constitutional club, asserted that British losses for the entire war would constitute a great fleet.

"Yet, today, we have far larger naval strength than in 1939," he said.

He revealed that the vast naval building program had been achieved with 100,000 less shipyard workers than in the first World war.

Allied Planes Hitting Japs On Rising Scale

Last Stages Of New Guinea Battle Fought By Japs

(By The Associated Press)

Allied warplanes sweeping the far Pacific skies from Burma to the South Seas were reported hitting the Japanese on a rising scale today, and in land fighting Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced "further gains" against trapped enemy forces on the Papuan beach in New Guinea.

Survivors of a Japanese invasion army originally estimated at 15,000 troops were pictured as fighting the last stages of a losing battle, with American and Australian soldiers hacking deeper into the enemy's narrow defense corridor at Sanananda point.

Clean Out Resistance

At the same time, delayed messages from American-defended Guadalcanal island, in the Solomons, reported that U. S. Army troops and Marines accounted for 186 known Japanese killed and captured a number of guns on Jan. 2 when they stormed a strategic hill and cleaned out Japanese pockets of resistance.

The assault, reported without detail by the Navy on Jan. 5, was carried out under fire from Japanese machine-guns, mortars and rifles, with the Americans capturing the heavily-jungled hill after a day-long advance.

Fifteen For One

Other dispatches said American patrols ,fighting a series of bitter actions in soggy jungles, had killed an average of 15 Japanese to each American lost.

Maj.-Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commanding general of U. S. Army forces in the south Pacific, told newsmen it was "just a question of time" before American troops won control of the key island.

"I don't worry about any offensive effort as far as the Japanese on Guadalcanal are concerned," Gen. Harmon said. "It is a matter of cleaning them out."

In aerial blows against the Japanese ,these were the major actions:

South Seas — Allied warplanes pounded the big Japanese base at Salamaua, in northern New Guinea, strafed enemy coastal targets ,and delivered a low-level attack against the Japanese airdrome at Fuiloro, in Portuguese Timor.

Burma — RAF bombers ranged far into Japanese-conquered Burma yesterday without encountering air opposition from the enemy, attacking railway transportation and river and coastal shipping.

British headquarters said the RAF bombed two villages on Akyab island, on the Bay of Bengal; machine-gunned railway buildings and rolling stock in central Burma; strafed Japanese river craft on the Chindwin and Irrawaddy rivers and in the Rathedaung sector, 25 miles north Akyab; and blasted supply boats off the Burma coast below Akyab.

French Aces In Old Escadrille

(By The Associated Press)

AT A U. S. FIGHTER BASE IN AFRICA, Jan. 12 (Delayed)—The head of an American Indian war chief — the emblem adopted over a quarter of a century ago for the LaFayette escadrille — flew over the Tunisian battlefields for the first time today, once more the symbol of the United States and France united in a war on Germany.

The first squadron of the new LaFayette escadrille, composed of picked French aces who shot down an average of 7 to 8 planes each in the brief battle of France, flew into this base at dusk yesterday, ready to take up the fight where they left off two and one half years ago.

Receive Warm Greeting

This squadron, which also calls itself the LaFayette-Storks, got a warm greeting from the ordinarily undemonstrative American pilots and ground crews.

These men, who seldom waste a glance at the sky unless they think enemy raiders are coming, dropped their work to wave heartily as the group which had fought for France in two wars circled the field and came in.

Fortresses Raid Axis Airfield In Edge Of Tripoli

Fighting Flares Up In Stalingrad As Reds Tighten Ring On 22 Trapped Nazi Divisions; New Soviet Drive Indicated

BY ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor

United States warplanes destroyed 34 Nazi aircraft in the air and on the ground in a raid yesterday on Castel Benito airfield, 10 miles south of Tripoli, it was announced today.

B-17 Flying Fortresses which led the attack into Tripolitania from the west knocked out 20 planes on the ground and downed 14 more during a blazing 75-mile running battle high in the air, a spokesman said.

(This was the deepest reported penetration into Libya by Fortresses based in the west.)

Apparently instructed to stop the Fortresses at any cost, the Germans avoided the escort of P-38 Lockheed Lightnings and raced into the concentrated fire of the big four-engined bombers.

All U. S. Planes Return

Despite the enemy efforts, all of the American planes returned to their base although one plane came home on only two motors.

Red army troops, gouging deeper into the remnants of 22 Germany divisions trapped before Stalingrad, were officially reported to have smashed through to the western outskirts of the long-besieged Volga metropolis today after a night of violent battle in courtyards, buildings and streets.

"The enemy launched six counterattacks, one after the other," Soviet headquarters announced.

"Red army men repulsed all the Hitlerite counterattacks and wiped out about a battalion of German infantry."

Now Tightly Pocketed

Now tightly pocketed in the narrow Don-Volga corridor, Hitler's armies began their costly and ill-fated siege of Stalingrad days ago.

Elsewhere in the global war United Nations airmen delivered a series of tempestuous blows at the Axis in attacks ranging from far-off Burma and New Guinea to north Africa.

United Nations planes struck at Nazi-occupied France by daylight today, following up an RAF night assault on Germany's war industries in the Ruhr.

Two Important Land Battles On In Tunisia

Mountain Passes Vital To Allies Said At Stake

BY EDWARD W. BEATTIE
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 13—Two fierce battles raged in south central Tunisia today over mountain passes vital to the whole Allied campaign in Africa.

In one, French units, strongly supported by the Royal Air force, were trying to extend substantial gains made earlier at Karachoun. In the other, the French had surrounded Italian forces in a valley and were exterminating them

The outcome was a strong indication that the Allies had opened a determined campaign to take all the passes.

Important To Nazis

If the Germans can win control, they can use the mountains, running north and south, as a cover for reinforcements and supplies moving between Tunisia and Tripolitania. If the Allies win them, by a thrust to the southeast, they can prevent a junction of the Afrika Korps. in Tripolitania, and Col. Gen. Hans Arnim's Axis forces in Tunisia.

The British Eighth army was ready for the climactic drive against the Afrika Korps. In fact, Exchange Telegraph agency heard Radio Morocco broadcasting yesterday that British tanks had already opened attacks against enemy positions at Wadizem, 165 miles southeast of Tripoli.

Afrika Korps Threatened

The Afrika Korps was now gravely threatened, not only by the powerful Eighth army, but also by two French columns driving toward Tripoli from southern and southwestern Tripolitania.

Brig. Gen. Jacques Leclerc's Fighting French forces from the Chad region were 390 miles or less south of Tripoli. They were moving north from newly captured Murzuk, capital of Italian Fezzan.

Another French force from Tunisia was about to take Ghadames, an Axis fortress 25 miles inside Tripolitania and 300 miles southwest of Tripoli. American Flying Fortresses had softened it with a heavy bombing.

Allied bombers from both north Africa and the Middle East, bombed and machinegunned Axis port facilities unceasingly.

Nazis Leading Up To Letdown

BY GLENN BABB
Associated Press Staff Writer

The German command apparently is preparing the German people for the abandonment of a great part of the spoils of last summer's campaign in Russia.

Doctor Goebbels' propaganda machine is admitting that the situation in the east is serious; an eminent military authority stresses the Russian advantage in numbers and the fact that this winter's Rusian offensive is of greater scope and more concentrated than that of 1941-42. Meanwhile the main outlines of the German strategy are becoming apparent.

Retreat Under Way

There is no longer any serious doubt that a general retreat is under way in the Caucasus. The speed of the Red army's advance up from Mozdok and Nalchik suggests that most of the fighting consists of rearguard actions, to permit a reasonably orderly withdrawal. The Germans may claim with some justification that they are shortening their lines according to plan, but the plan is

Award Is Given Doyle Settle

An award for meritorious service in the government's most thankless job—rationing—came to Doyle Settle, well-known Lubbock citizen, today from the hands of his chief, Mark McGee of Ft. Worth, state director of the Office of Price administration.

The ceremony took place as a set program for the weekly Rotary luncheon at Hilton hotel. Jimmy Quicksall, club president, turned the meeting over to Dr. Clifford B. Jones, president of Texas Technological college, who in turn presented McGee.

Tribute Paid McGee

Dr. Jones paid tribute to McGee for outstanding service rendered the government, the state of Texas, and the Lubbock section. McGee is a member of the board of directors of Texas Tech. He it was who also received the first, and only other merit award from Leon Henderson for outstanding service.

Settle responded to the tribute paid him by McGee with a brief message of gratitude, explaining that when rationing first started in Texas it was at Austin that a skeleton organization to handle the tire situation was set up, partly with volunteer help, and partly with hired help that had to work long hours in unsympathetic environment. He told his hearers he would do the same thing again if needs be, and reminded the OPA director that only because of other loyal staff members was it possible to operate the rationing program at all.

McGee also paid tribute to local

Five Charged In Lynching

(By The United Press)

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 13.—Five Mississippians faced early trial in federal court today, charged with having been parties to the lynching of a negro.

The indictments, first of their kind in the South since 1904, were returned late yesterday by a federal grand jury made up of local white residents.

The lynching victim was Howard Wash, 47, who was convicted in state court Oct. 16 of murdering his white employer, Clint Welborn, a dairyman. The jury voted 10 to 2 against the death penalty, making a sentence of life imprisonment mandatory. The next day a mob took Wash from the "mob proof" Laurel, Miss., jail and hanged him from a railroad trestle.

Those indicted were Luther Holder, deputy sheriff, in charge of the jail when Wash was taken, and Nathanel Shotts, Allen Pryor, Barney Jones, and William O. Johnson. Federal officials here alleged that they had been leaders of the mob.

The five men will be tried in the federal court in Hattiesburg, Miss., probably in April.

Critics Rate 'Mrs. Miniver' No. 1 Among Ten Best Movies

The picture won 555 ballots out of 592 cast, a 55-vote lead over the No. 2 selection, "How Green Was My Valley," distributed by Twentieth Century-Fox.

The other eight pictures, in the order of the critics' choice, were:

lic premises during curfew hours and improvement of licensing whereby when a permit has been forfeited on grounds of a public nuisance the same premises will be ineligible for a new license for one year regardless of in whose name the license is sought.

Would Cut Down Courts

Courts—eliminate district courts in excess of the number required to enforce the law and give every citizen his day in court.

The governor suggested that the legislators consider effective laws governing the sale of insecticides and anti-freeze products, permitting the state comptroller to deduct the five per cent victory tax from state salaries and establishing new aviation regulations.

Because post-war conditions are difficult to estimate, the best efforts of the legislature and state officials in general can now be employed in wholeheartedly supporting the war effort in order to attain total victory and in keeping our house in order, the governor said.

As to finances the executive noted that the general fund deficit increased a half million dollars last year compared with an earlier rate of increase of several million dollars yearly.

"I think this deficit can be wiped out in a few years," he said.

Thus by indirection the governor did not need a newly approved constitutional amendment which authorizes the legislature to refund the general fund debt, now approximately $31,000,000, by issuing interest bearing bonds.

The House staged late yesterday to finish its preliminary organization, passing and sending to the governor a Senate bill appropriating $350,000 for session expenses.

Both branches appointed permanent officers. In the Senate these were: Bob Barker, Austin, secretary; Lee Madden, Belton, sergeant-at-arms; Miss S. M. McGinnis, Terrell, engrossing and enrolling clerk; Mrs. Martha Turner, Fort Worth, calendar clerk; Noel K. Brown, Austin, journal clerk; R. A. Childress, Abilene, doorkeeper; and the Rev. S. B. Culpepper, Cleburne, chaplain. In the House: Clarence Jones, Trenton, chief clerk; Ernest Boyett, Junction, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Gussie Evans, Austin, journal clerk; Conde Hoskins, Gonzales, doorkeeper; and the Rev. G. W. Coltrain, Mathis, chaplain.

The Senate named a committee composed of Houghton Brownlee of Austin, Jesse aMrtin of Fort Worth, Clay Cotten of Palestine, E. Harold Beck of Texarkana and Charles R. Jones of Bonham to canvass the returns for governor and lieutenant governor, in the last general election, with a joint House committee yet unchosen.

Rep. Roger Knight of Madisonville prepared for introduction a bill levying a 4.2 per cent gross receipts tax against all pulic transportation companies.

Texas legislators lost no time in starting to change the state laws.

Twenty-four bills were offered by Senators and there was also a proposal to change the state constitution to abolish the office of district clerk.

Two investigating committees were proposed. One would make general investigations. The other is to study the election laws. Sen. T. C. Chaddick of Quitman, its author, said the resolution would permit the committee to investigate the 1942 elections, but that the main purpose was to change the present election laws by one bill, rather than confuse the situation by independent acts.

Redistricting Proposed

Senatorial redistricting to more nearly equalize the districts is proposed in a bill by Sen. Rogers Kelley of Edinburg. The proposed districting gives Bexar county a Senator without connection with other counties. Other bills would make theft of a pneumatic tire a felony and change the automobile registration fees so that a passenger car worth $200 or less will pay a maximum of $3. The present fee depends on weight, regardless of value. Tire theft is a misdemeanor.

Taking note of the meat shortage, Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston offered a bill to repeal the six months limit on keeping the carcass of a deer in storage.

Would Reduce Tax

Senator Moore also offered a bill to prevent a member of the Texas Defense guard being liable for damages for acts in performance of his duties.

Sen. Karl Lovelady of Meridian proposed to reduce the Confederate pension tax to one-half of a cent on $100 property value. The present seven-cent levy has produced a rapidly-growing surplus in the fund to pay the few survivors of the Civil war and their widows.

Banking Bills Filed

Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe filed a bill to prohibit sale of misbranded or adulterated insecticides.

Several banking and insurance bills were filed. Principal one would permit insurance companies to include investments in U. S. Government bonds in the per centage of assets that they are required to have in Texas investments. Sen. W. C. Graves of Dallas said there is a provision that such bonds shall be kept in the state.

Sen. Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo proposed to grant permanent teaching certificates to teachers who have taught six years. A shortage of teachers is reported at this time.

Emergency Matters Submitted

The governor submitted as emergency matters, the victory tax deduction from state pay warrants, and appropriations for the adjugtant general's department and to fit the confederate home to house senile patients now in state hospitals.

Both House and Senate adjourned to 10 a. m. Thursday.

Our 'First Enemy' . . . Nazi Subs Still Great War Factor

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—The German navy, it was learned on high authority today, is turning out submarines faster than the sea and air forces of the United Nations can destroy them. This despite the heavy bombing of German factories from British and American bases in England.

At the same time, the United Nations are building cargo and transport ships faster than they are being sunk. They also are building escort and patrol vessels —destroyers, corvettes and subchasers—at about top speed.

Hundred In The Atlantic

The number of enemy submarines operating in the Atlantic at any one time is more than 100, which represents possibly from one-third to one-fourth of their actual sub strength. The rest of their undersea craft are either operating in other waters or at home for repairs and crew relief.

These were described by qualified authorities ,who cannot be idenified by name, as being among the reasons why the U-boat is considered by the Navy to be, in the words of Admiral Harold R. Stark, its "first enemy." They are reasons, too, why United Nations shipping losses still are, in Stark's opinion, 'something to be mighty uncomfortable about."

Situaion Much Better

The situation is considered much better now than it was at the height of submarine operations in American waters last summer, yet it is still so grave that many thousands o ftons of war materials dispatched to overseas war zones find their way instead to the bottom of the ocean.

Fecause of these losses the full power of America's armed might, as measured at portside or factory door, obviously cannot be delivered to the battlefronts. That means in turn that every plan for offensive action in Europe, Asia or the Pacific must take into account not only our production but also our delivery losses.

Naval men say the only solution is constantly heavier protection for convoys.

Condition Improved—Condition of Mrs. Nellie Kilpatrick of Littlefield was reported today as improved by Lubbock General hospital. Mrs. Kilpatrick underwent a major operation Monday following a fracture of her leg while she was loading feed on a vehicle at her home about a week ago. She is a former resident of Lubbock and has a son, Lester, enrolled in Texas Technological college.

Notice, Everybody—If you want to invest your money patriotically and have fun out of your neighbors and other members of your family, go to the courthouse square from 3 to 6 o'clock this afternoon and see how qualified you are to fly. There'll be a flight trainer that won't leave its anchorage, yet will do everything a few feet above the ground that you can do in the air, in a simulated flight pattern. You buy war stamps and bonds for the privilege. American Legion is sponsor. The trainer will be in operation again from 2 to 6 p. m. Thursday.

Copp Rites Set — The funeral of J. M. Copp, about 80, former Lubbock county farmer who died Monday in Norman, Okla., was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the graveside in Lubbock cemetery, with Rev. C. J. McCarty, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, officiating. Copp left this area several years ago after retiring from farming operations. Mrs. Copp died several months ago, and there are no children surviving. Burial was under direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Savage Services Today — Last rites for W. E. Savage, 54, a resident of the Meadow area for 21 years were held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in Meadow Methodist church, with Rev. G. H. Bryant, pastor, officiating. He died Monday night in a Brownfield hospital. Survivors include his mother and three sisters. Burial is planned in Meadow cemetery, and will be under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Jury Completing Work—A 99th district grand jury was nearing an end to its investigations this afternoon and there was a possibility it might vote bills and report them to 110th District Judge Alton B. Chapman of Floydada, delegated by the administrative judicial district presiding judge to hold a court term here, since the 99th judgeship is vacant through resignation of Judge E. L. Pitts. If there is no report today, the jury probably will make returns Thursday, it was indicated.

Defendant Acquitted—A county jury this morning acquitted Mrs. V. H. Morrison in a liquor law violation charge. The jury was composed of C. H. Crump, J. D. Reed, A. A. Marchant, foreman, F. H. Miller, J. W. Durham and Alton Hardy.

Condition Still Critical — The condition of J. W. Kennedy of 902 Avenue L remains critical, a family member said this morning. Two sons, Sgt. J. H. Kennedy of Camp McCoy, Wis., and Bob Kennedy of Borger, are at his bedside. A niece, Mrs. Pauline Womack of Plainview, also is here.

Salvation Army Revival — Lt. Col. Wm. S. Quirk of Manasquan, N. J., veteran Salvation Army officer, began a series of revival meetings at the Lubbock Salvation Army citadel, 1112 Seventeenth St. Services will continue for 14 days, closing Jan. 14, and will be held every week-day night, beginning at 8; on Sundays at 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. H. G. Lambrecht, of the local corps said today.

draft board."

Christian vehemently denied that he had ever represented himself as a man without dependents. His eldest daughter, Anna, filled out his questionnaire, he said, and he signed it without looking to see what she had written.

He Was Surprised

He was "surprised that the father of 11 kids" would be drafted, and said he had told a clerk at the draft board so. The clerk advised him, he said, that since his wife and children were on public relief, they were dependents of the government and he was not supporting anyone.

He then warned the clerk that he had stomach ulcers, sinus trouble and was slightly deaf in one ear.

"But I guess that didn't matter, because I passed my physical examination all right, he said.

Christian said he was well "satisfied" and expected that the Army would treat his ulcers and sinus, and perhaps improve his hearing.

Nazi Letdown

not that of which Hitler boasted last September when he saw Grozny oil fields almost in his grasp. It has been forced on the Nazi command by the slashing blows of Znukov's columns further north. Whether all the Caucasus is to be given up will depend largely on the success of the desperate German efforts, into which strong reserves are being thrown, to hold the northern and eastern approaches to Rostov.

Lend-Lease Helping

It will depend also, of course, on the power of the rejuvenated Red army of the Caucasus. Dispatches indicate that the columns which are pouring over the watershed between the Caspian and the Black Sea consist largely of fresh troops with new arms and equipment. Now the situation of this army suggests that it may be he first considerable Russian force to profit in a big way from American lend-lease aid. Its natural avenues of supply run through the Caspian sea, and the Caspian is the terminus of the longest major military supply route in history, that from the United States, around the tip of Africa, through the Indian ocean and Iran. It would not be surprising to learn that United States tanks are rumbling with the Kuban Cossacks as they ride triumphantly back into their homeland or that American planes are being used for such raids as that yesterday on a German air base near Krasnodar.

McGee came here today, he said, for the sole purpose of paying tribute and expressing his thanks to "a devoted friend, Doyle Settle."

The dining room overflowed with men and women who gathered after the luncheon to attend the ceremony. District officials and members of county rationing panels are meeting this afternoon in business sessions with Director McGee at the Hilton. A number of rationing officials are here today from other counties.

Few Mental Cases Expected From War

EDITOR'S NOTE: War can wreck minds as well as bodies. Americans old enough to remember World war I will also remember the cases of so-called "shell shock" — a misnomer, by the way. The U. S. army has undertaken to keep such cases at a minimum this time. A series of three dispatches, the first of which follows, tells how psychiatry in uniform is helping to keep Army minds stable under the stress of combat.

BY REUEL S. MOORE
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—A far smaller percentage of this war's casualties will become mental cases than in the last war, Army medical men believe.

Reasons include:

1. Most mentally unstable persons are screened out at induction centers by trained psychiatrists. Others are eliminated during training, so that most potential mental cases are combed out before the troops enter combat. This process was employed only in a rudimentary form late in the last form.

Psychiatry Helps Men

2. Psychiatry helps the soldier throughout his career. Psychiatrists find him assignments for which he is best fitted and in which he is happiest, and help him solve personal problems and worries which, if left unsolved, might under war's stresses turn him into an incompetent neurotic. If he cracks under the strain of combat a psychiatrist is ready with quick assistance to restore his normal mental composure.

3. Thus far the present war has been one of action. Action provides healthy release for mental stresses, such as those which registered their worst effects during the prolonged trench warfare of 1914-18. The present war brought new elements of strain in aviation and tank warfare, but happily for the mental condition of those who use these weapons, their moments of greatest strain are the moments of greatest action.

Medical Program Thorough

Thanks to the Army's thorough medical program, including the service of psychiatrists, the Army on the fighting front is a more efficient, dependable army, with relatively fewer potential nervous casualties, than was the Army of 1917-18.

To coordinate the work of Army psychiatrists Maj. Gen. James C. Magee, surgeon general, last February created the neurospsychiatric branch, now headed by Col. Roy D. Halloran with Lieut. Col. Malcolm J. Farrell, assistant chief. Halloran was formerly superintendent of the Metropolitan State hospital, Waltham, Mass. Farrell was assistant superintendent of Walter E. Fernald state school, Waltham.

Consultnants Provided

Psychiatric consultants are planned for the staffs of the nine service commands at home and all large forces overseas. They are attached to all large hospitals, many replacement training centers and induction centers at home, and all general, station and evacuation hospitals at home and abroad where any hospital over 250 beds is authorized to have a psychiatrist on the staff. A psychiatrist ordinarily is available for every 50 men inducted daily at induction stations.

There are approximately 3,000 psychiatrists in the country. Some are attached to hospitals and schools where they are indispensable, some are women and some are too old for military service. Col. Halloran estimates approximately 1,000 are available for Army duty and says that the Army needs the services of every one of them.

Bill Would Outlaw Racing In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 13 (AP)—Two bills were introduced in the Arkansas senate Tuesday to repeal the state's eight-year-old law legalizing pari-mutual betting on horse and dog racing.

The measures were introduced shortly after Governor Homer M. Adkins in his second inaugural address told the general assembly he would approve such legislation.

One bill would outlaw racing, race betting or the owning by an Arkansan of any interest in a racing meet. The other measure would repeal the 1935 racing statute.

Forty-seven per cent of the weight of an empty pursuit plane is composed of government furnished equipment.

DEATHS RISE

Occupational accidents caused 18,000 deaths in the United States during 1941. There were 711 deaths in January, 1942, an increase of 19 per cent over January, 1941.

WOMEN ANSWER AD

YOUNGSTOWN, O. — The response to an advertisement for track laborers — men or women — gave Baltimore and Ohio railroad officials here something of a jolt.

Seventy-five women and only 10 men applied. The men and seven of the women were put to work immediately.

Railroad officials said 40 or 50 more women were ordered to report later this week.

ONLY INTERRUPTION

SHREVEPORT, La. — A cat-and-dog fight caused the only interruption during the city's first blackout test.

Chased by the dog, the cat jumped onto a filling station roof and then down on an electric light cord and illuminated the premises.

PROFITABLE ENTERPRISE

ASTORIA, Ore. — An Astorian who prefers anonymity is rounding up some more paper money to bake in his oven. It multiplies, that way.

He did some bills there once. They were badly charred, so he sent the remnants to the treasury department — and back came a check for $1,445—$5 more than he thought he had baked.

TO ALL MONTGOMERY WARD PEOPLE

1—You are free to join or not to join a union, as you wish. The Company fully respects this privilege. Your opportunity with the Company will be the same whether you are a union member or not.

2—You do not have to join a union to work at Wards.

3—Wards is opposed to all forms of the closed shop. Liberty requires that an employee be free to join, to refuse to join, or to resign from a union without losing his job. Liberty requires that an employer be free to employ the person best suited for the work.

4—The President of the United States has commanded Wards to accept for its Chicago plant a form of closed shop called "maintenance of membership". Under this form of closed shop, employees are not free to resign from the union without losing their jobs. Wards is compelled to discharge every union member who fails to maintain his union membership in good standing (non-payment of dues, etc.). This making of membership in a union a condition of holding a job is the closed shop.

5—Wards did not voluntarily agree to this requirement. Wards believes it to be illegal and uneconomic. Wards has accepted it under duress and only because the President of the United States expressly so ordered.

6—Wards is the only retailer in the United States upon whom the President has imposed any form of the closed shop. It is unfair to impose burdens upon Wards and not upon those with whom it is in competition. If the retail industry is to be subjected to the closed shop requirement, it should be legislated by Congress and applied uniformly against all retail establishments.

7—The National War Labor Board has now called a hearing to determine whether the employees at Wards' six large stores in Denver, Detroit and New York City must belong to the union in order to hold their jobs. Wards will continue to oppose this illegal and uneconomic requirement. Wards will reject any demand of the Board that employees be discharged because they fail to maintain their union membership.

8—The President of the United States has no authority to order Wards employees to remain union members in order to hold their jobs. Congress is the only law-making authority. Congress has passed no law requiring the closed shop.

Here's How I Licked Wartime Constipation!

It was easy after I was told it's often due to lack of "bulk"

"Seems like I was always 'dosing' up on account of constipation. That sort of stuff gets a fellow down.

"Then a friend pointed out that these war days were upsetting our whole way of living. Particularly in how we eat. Said I ought to take care my meals were properly balanced—and make sure I got plenty of 'bulk.' Because lack of 'bulk' is one of the common causes of wartime constipation. Those medicinal laxatives gave me only temporary relief; they didn't get at the cause.

"But, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN really fixed me up. It corrects this kind of constipation by supplying 'bulk.' And it tastes swell, too. Just eat it regularly and drink plenty of water. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek."

War Time Service Stressed In Girl Scout Activities

Stressing the wartime service program rendered by the Lubbock Girl Scouts, Miss Rose Mary Head, executive secretary reported on activities of the 47 troops at a meeting of the Girl Scout Council held yesterday at the Little House.

The outstanding project is the collecting of grease and fat. The girls have collected over 70 pounds. Anyone desiring to help the Scouts in this project can take grease to Furr Food No. 1 where a grease depository has been installed.

In co-operation with the City Recreation department the troops are making posters to be used in the special training unit at the Lubbock Army Flying school. The girls co-operated with the Lubbock County Tuberculosis association by selling tuberculosis seals in the downtown theaters during the holidays.

Cooperate With Red Cross

The Girl Scouts are co-operating with the Red Cross in working out a plan whereby older Girl Scouts can stay with small children while their mothers work at the Red Cross rooms. In the Girl Scout office is a map dividing the city in units and a list of available girls in the various units is being compiled.

A total of $57.40 in defense stamps has been bought by the local Girl Scouts. This amount is to be placed in the National Girl Scout Victory fund and will be used to relieve the suffering of children in the devastated areas of the war torn countries after the war is over.

In the effort of expanding Girl Scouting the Council instructed Miss Head to act as an advisor, where it has been requested, in helping neighboring towns to organize Girl Scout units.

Training Course Planned

Announcement was made of the training course to be given each Tuesday and Thursday through February at the West Texas Gas company from 7 to 9 o'clock in the evening. The purpose of the course is to acquaint parents and others interested in the objectives and principals of Girl Scouting.

Spring activities for the 430 Girl Scouts of Lubbock will include a Court of Awards on March 12; a cooky drive in April; and troop participation in the May Fete.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

Love gets no priorities in wartime. Women understand that—and accept the consequences without complaining.

A bride of a few weeks, or sometimes even of a few hours, is separated from her husband for perhaps as long as the war lasts. But she isn't bitter about it. She knows by now that love comes first only in peacetime.

Women understand this so well that in San Diego, Cal., a girl was recently married to a bridegroom in Australia. He wooed her by letter; she accepted his marriage proposal by cable; and they were married by proxy.

That's probably the last word in making the best of whatever romance the war affords. But in a lesser degree it is what thousands of American women are doing—giving up their ideas of what love and marriage should be like and accepting the best substitute that can be worked out.

Perhaps many of them would wait if they knew when the war would end. But to young folks in love, that time seems unbearably distant.

So, they marry in wartime and take whatever happiness and security they can find. It isn't the best. But when the best can't be had, human beings are quick to accept substitutes.

Is it any harder to understand why young folks, unable to have a secure peacetime marriage, will accept a war marriage (even one by proxy) than that some Bostonians, unable to buy as much beef as they want, are eating horse meat?

It's an elegant comparison—and one romanticists won't care for—but it is a reminder that when war cuts into our lives we make the best of what we CAN have, in love even as in food.

Leathernecks May Be Landing From Air Soon, Marine Glider Base Near Ft. Worth Suggests

By JOHN L. HAMPTON
United Press Staff Writer

MARINE CORPS GLIDER BASE, Eagle Mountain Lake, Tex., Jan. 13—They've had to change that song a bit because the marines'll soon be landing from the air.

To an outfit that's been used to fighting its way for 167 years, with or without customary material, a motorless plane is just another improvision to tinker with. But the tinkering here today is on a grand scale and the improvision is liable to yield startling results, as the enemy will see.

To begin with, this station on the rolling hills and black waters of Eagle Mountain lake 18 miles northwest of Fort Worth is the headquarters for the Marine corps glider schools. Heading the Marine corps glider activities is the much-decorated veteran Marine flier, Col. Vernon M. (Red) Guymon, whose staff bristles with experts and whose "little green men" (in winter Marine uniforms) are everywhere.

No Official Announcement

There has been no official announcement but the lake beside the principal landing field isn't just for scenery or fishing. If the Marines wanted to confine themselves to dry-land gliders, there are a few miles of wide open spaces in Texas not yet filled by airfields. So it seems a safe bet that before long the amphibious fighters will be taking their latest weapon into the drink; that marine gliders will be wearing hulls as well as landing wheels.

If so, the innovation will be following established marine custom of fighting with whatever comes to hand, be it rocks or fists, to get the job done.

May Haul Fighters

South sea islands aren't always equipped with travel-poster beaches, but they might have inlets or relatively quiet waters adjacent. In which case tow planes or maybe speedy PT boats might haul in a group of fighter-laden gliders to quickly flank or ambush the Japs. This base, coincidentally, is equipped with both launches and amphibious planes.

The gliders that marine pilots are learning to fly are big 12-and 24-place jobs. They can carry fully-armed marines and the weapons and equipment needed. The 12-place glider is practically the size of a twin-engine transport and weighs over three tons.

Colonel Guymon and a group of navy-trained pilots went to Chicago in the summer of 1941 and learned the tricks of the glider business. Guymon had won his first medals in the trenches of France and in 1926 got his wings at Pensacola. From then on he flew so much over tropical jungles that he's liable to get lost over the Texas prairie. He won more headlines and the Navy Cross in central American fields.

Opened At Parris Island

Guymon opened his leatherneck glider school at Parris Island, South Carolina, then moved to this new station, it is one of three being operated to train the crews for the colonel's combat organizations. The phases of training include launching of planes by winch; auto and plane tow; cross country towings; precision landings, and strange field landings.

Glider pilots are commissioned officer fliers, who must go through full Navy flying station training. They must be able to operate both tow planes and gliders. Their co-pilots may be enlisted men who earn the designation of naval aviation pilot (glider.)

Planes Used First

After the glider trainees have learned spot landings by cutting the motor of a light plane and gliding to earth, they go into two-place gliders to get the feel of motorless ships. It has to be a precise "feel" too because the glider pilot has only one chance to land—and it must be right.

Besides flying the critters, the marines will train in the art of travel by glider, and in jumping from them with parachutes.

These marines don't expect to know where they're going or who they'll fight when they get there, and whatever they find probably won't be good. So, wrapped in a happy philosophy of disillusionment, these extemperaneous heroes with no dela can spit on their hands and go to work with whatever might be at hand. Gliders, for instance

It's the marines again, Mr. Moto!

ONE OF UNCLE SAM'S DESTROYERS—The U. S. S. Tucker (above), a 1,500-ton destroyer completed March 30, 1937, has a speed of about 36 knots.

Reservists At Tech Facing Early Call

Call into active service about Feb. 1 is in prospect for enlisted reservists at Texas Technological college who are not under contract, according to a letter Tuesday to Dr. Harry L. Kent, college administrative assistant, from Col. E. A. Keyes, assistant in the military personnel branch of the Eighth Service command at Dallas.

"We still have no information as to how the plan is to be carried out, but all indications are the those not under contract in your school are to be called February 1, 1943," he said.

He added that students not yet 18 years of age who agreed to enlist in the reserve on their birthdays probably will be returned to their original status and will be subject to induction by their draft boards following their registration, due to the War department order to stop enlistments in December.

Instructors Wanted At Amarillo Field; Officials In City

Those interested in jobs as civilian instructors, replacing army men about to be called into active service at Amarillo Army Flying school, at minimum starting salaries of $2,000 per year are being interviewed in the Chamber of Commerce today by Lt. Marshall E. Woolever, an assistant, and Louis C. Schwanke, supervisor of instructor training.

Interviews after 7:30 o'clock tonight will be by appointment in Lubbock hotel, they announced. they announced.

Requirements for these positions are such that literally hundreds can qualify, Schwanke said. Physical requirements are not stringent and some men in 4-F can qualify. Living quarters for single men and women are being built on the field, and housing units for persons with families are being built near the field, eight miles northeast of Amarillo. Persons who desire to live in the city of Amarillo may do so, as many instructors are doing now.

Scholastically speaking, here are the requirements necessary for potential instructors to qualify:

Four years of high school, or at least 14 units of high school study (this even can be waived if one is of exceptional qualifying ability), and one or more of the following: one year college, university or teacher-training institution education; one year progressive technical expereience in aircraft mechanics, automobile engine mechanics, or aircraft engine mechanics; possession of a bachelor of science—degree in engineering; bachelor's degree in trade and industrial education or vocational education; possession of CAA airplane mechanic's or airplane engine mechanic's license. Those accepted must have passed their 20th birthday. There is no maximum age.

Positions do not defer employes from the draft.

Raiders Again Best Cowboy Five, 54-33

Head, Allen Lead Tech Scoring In Both Encounters

One thing can be said for the basketball teams of both Texas Tech and Hardin-Simmons—they appear to be consistent, to say the least.

Last night the two quintets finished out a two-night engagemen, with Polk Robison's Raiders duplicating their performance in the opening game in a most exact manner.

In fact, even the scoring leaders were the same. Garland Head, the hard-driving guard who paced Monday night's assault with 14 points, waxed warm again in last night's replica to tally 16 points for high honors. George Allen, Monday night's runner-up with 11 points, also boosted his total by two points to take second honors again.

Cowboys Start Slowly

Like the first game, last night's affair was a rough-and-tumble scramble most of the way. The raiders, holding Hardin-Simmons' shorter boys scoreless for a full eight minutes, moved out into a comfortable lead on two crips and a free pitch by Allen and were never headed.

By halftime, after Raider reserves had seen action in the fracas, the Techsans led by 25-15, and the first team returned to play most of the last period to keep things under control, although the Cowboys did spurt midway in the stanza to pull within six points of the Robisonmen.

Tech, leading by 48-33 into the closing minutes, turned on a torrid drive that netted six points in rapid-fire order to boost them over the half-a-hundred mark for the second night in succession.

McColloch Third Highest

Highlighting the triumph was Head's accuracy from far out, and the brilliant work of Allen under the boards. Head hit six distance shots for 12 of his 16 points. Allen, playing at forward most of the time, gave the Hardin-Simmons' defense no end of trouble with his fast breaking under the basket and fine one-handed shooting.

Third highest scorer for Tech was Lawrence McColloch, the lanky Iowan who also was third high man in the point department Monday night. He dropped in six points—three below his first-game total.

For Hardin-Simmons, Stone at forward and Hedrick at center deadlocked for high honors at eight points apiece. Crain, a sub guard, was close behind with seven counters.

Meet Buffs Next

The game was Tech's last before Friday and Saturday nights' engagements with the ever-potent West Texas State Teachers of Canyon. While these games have no bearing on the Border conference championship (which will be decided at a tournament at Albuquerque Feb. 17-20) they should serve as an excellent standard of measurement upon which to base pre-tourney calculations.

Last night's box score:

Several Clubs To Train In Indiana

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 13 (AP)—Indiana has no palm trees, but it seems to be just what the doctor ordered for professional baseball clubs. In this case the diagnositician was Joseph B. Eastman, national transportation director.

Three major league clubs already have chosen spring training sites in southern Indiana, one minor league outfit is coming to western Indiana and two others—one major and one minor—have all but settled on using the Indiana university campus and fieldhouse here.

LAFS To Enter Five In Gloves

Three Additional Civilians Enter

Lubbock's 1943 district Golden Gloves tournament—set for January 29-30 at Texas Tech gymnasium—enjoyed another boom day Tuesday as three more civilian boxers submitted their entries for this year's big amateur boxing classic and Sgt. W. M. "Babe" Ritchie, Lubbock Army Flying school boxing instructor, announced that a five-man team would represent the post in the event.

Latest civilian entrants are Jack Smith, Texas Tech welterweight; Randall Kearney, Lubbock lightweight, and Wiley McCarty, Littlefield bantamweight.

With these entries, the tournament was assured of at least one representative in each of the eight weight divisions, with indications pointing to a much larger field. In fact, there was already some speculation that it might be necessary to carry the tourney over one addition night in order to accommodate the anticipated large number of entries. Whether or not this will be necessary is still uncertain.

LAFS Boxers Named

The LAFS squad, as announced by Ritchie, former Texas heavyweight titleholder and himself an ex-Golden Gloves ace, will be made up of Ollie Freer, a lightweight; Leroy Warren, a lightweight; Ralph Nordella, a welter; Bernie Siviur, a middleweight, and Warren Stevens, light heavyweight.

All these mittmen participated in the recent warm-up exhibition bouts against South Plains Army flying school representatives, with Freer scoring a TKO over his SPAFS opponent, Stevens and Warren earning draws and Siviur and Nordella dropping close decisions.

Price of admission for the tournament will be 75 cents for general admission, with soldiers being admitted for 50 cents, and $1.10. A special price of 50 cents has also been established for all women fans.

Week's Cage Games Will Test Strength Of Steers, Aggies

(By The United Press)

Two Southwest conference basketball teams will seek their first loop victories tonight as the conference cage race moves into the middle of its second week.

They are Southern Methodist, twice loser to Arkansas last week, who meets the high-flying Texas Longhorns at Austin, and Baylor, losers to Texas and Texas Christian, who plays host to the surprising Texas Aggies.

The games will provide followers of the court game a more accurate picture on the possible future of the Longhorns and Aggies, both of whom share the unbeaten leadership with Arkansas.

Comparison Offered

The Longhorn-Mustang encounter will offer a comparison between the Austin five and the rangy Arkansas lads, who were hard-pressed to nose past the Methodists in a two-game setto. If the Texas quint should overpower SMU, its stock would soar considerably.

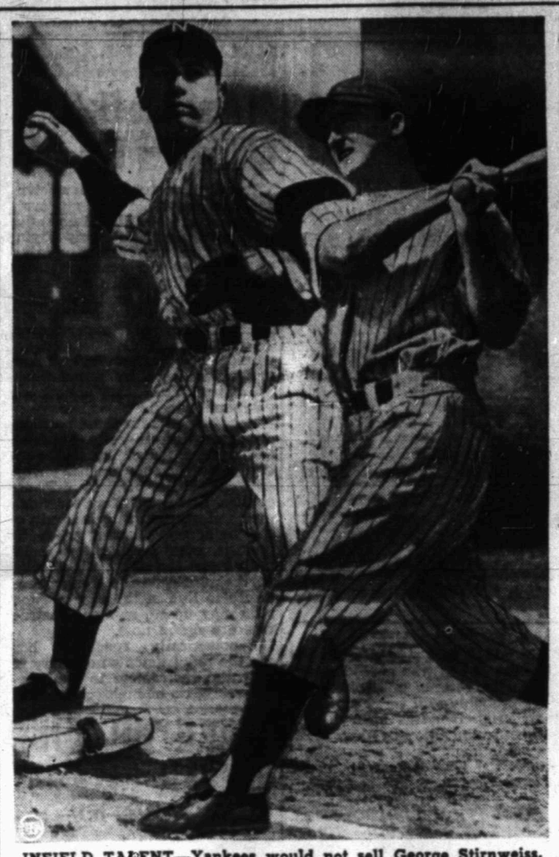

The Baylor engagement is the Aggies' chance to prove that their overwhelming defeat of Texas Christian last week was no flash in the pan. Previously they had not been given a look in at the title

Four Other Games

Four other games dot the conference schedule during the remainder of the week, Rice invading Fayetteville for a two-game series Friday and Saturday night and SMU traveling to TCU's gym and Texas to the Aggies' lair on Saturday night.

INFIELD TALENT—Yankees would not sell George Stirnweiss, left, at any price, and his shortstopping partner, Bill Johnson, right, is a definite major league prospect.

With Most Of Old Hands Gone, Yankee Infield Far From Shot

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—Joe Gordon will be the only holdover infielder when the New York Yankees assemble in the spring, but that doesn't mean the American league champions are going to be worse off than any of the other major league clubs.

This despite the fact that the great Joe DiMaggio is likely to be reclassified 1-A, leaving center field to Roy Weatherly.

Buddy Hassett and Phil Rizzuto are in the Navy. Red Rolfe is coaching at Yale. Frank Crosetti is under suspension for the first 30 days as the result of his World Series run-in.

Second Basing Combine

Oscar Grimes, obtained from Cleveland, and the veteran Bill Knickerbocker will not be the only ones around to plug the gaps, however ,for the Yankee scouting and farm systems once more turn out a second basing combination. A lot of big league outfits would like to have this one in normal times.

It is composed of Bill Johnson and George Stirnweiss, the backbone of the Newark Bears in 1942.

Trosky's Health Okay

Gerry Priddy may go to Cleveland for Hal Trosky, who would solve the first base problem. Trosky was kept out of baseball last season by migraine headaches, but his health is okay again. The Indians have Les Fleming, and it is reported that Trosky would prefer to perform elsewhere.

Experienced baseball men assert Joe McCarthy would have to make room for Snuffy Stirnweiss under ordinary conditions. They say the stocky, 180-pound second baseman who played so much football at North Carolina is further advanced than was Gordon at the same stage. He is a whiz on a double play.

Stirnweiss, 23, and a product of the Bronx, really takes off. He was thrown out only nine times in swiping 73 bases.

Like Johnson, who is a year older, he is versatile . . . can play any infield position except first base.

Chance All He Needed

Johnson, picked up on the sandlots of Montclair, N. J., played third base and in the outfield prior to last spring. He was placed at shortstop when Boyd Perry was hurt in training because Billy Meyer didn't want to break up his infield. He didn't. The change was permanent.

Johnson batted .290 against Stirnweiss' .270. Both are right-hand hitters. Johnson perhaps swats the longer ball, but Stirnweiss pulls it for good distance.

Stirnweiss and Johnson are in 3-A. Stirnweiss is the sole support of his widowed mother. He was operated on for stomach ulcers a year ago last summer, must diet, which is another reason the Army doesn't want him. Johnson is married and the father of a child.

The Yankees wouldn't sell George Stirnweiss for any amount and Bill Johnson is a definite major league prospect. It wouldn't be at all surprising to see Stirnweiss at shortstop, where he formerly played, and Johnson at third.

The Yankees always come up with them and would at a time like this.

Westerners Defeat LAFS Quintet 31-27

The consecutive winning streak of Lubbock High's Westerners rested at three today after the schoolboy cagers eked out a 31-27 triumph over the 84th school squadron of Lubbock Army Flying school in a game played before almost a thousand at the high school gymnasium last night.

With Bobby Downing, Hubert Bechtol and Doug McCurry each pouring seven points through the hoop, the Westerners overcame an early LAFS lead to forge ahead of their more experienced foes, 18-15, at halftime, then preserved that lead throughout the final stanza.

The contest was a nip-and-tuck affair throughout, and not until McCurry dropped in a free throw as the final gun sounded was the outcome beyond doubt.

Grieser paced the losers' scoring with seven points, while Rosenblum turned in a brilliant floor game for the soldier quintet.

Friday night the Westerners take on the 59th troop carrier squadron of SPAFS and New Home High school in a doubleheader at the local gymnasium. Two veterans from last year's cage squad, Bob Brewer and J. A. Raley, will be in uniform for the first time for these two games. The two boys, who are just rounding into condition after missing early workouts, definitely will see action, coaches said.

T. C. U. Cagers Don Ear Muffs To Exclude Din Of Boisterous Cadets' Cheering; Aggies Win

(By The Associated Press)

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 13—Southwest conference sport fans figure they now have seen everything.

Basketball players with ear muffs!

The weather gets pretty chilly down here but those well-heated gyms and the sizzling brand of play don't give ears a chance to get cold.

But ear muffs in this case were not used to insure warmth. They were employed by Texas Christian university's cagers to shut out the noise.

Plenty Of Tumult

To know about tumult in all its phases you must attend a basketball game in the Texas A. and M. gymnasium. There are 2,500 fans and a band and the cadets and the musical organization run a race to see which can raise the roof first.

The scorekeepers and timekeepers use a huge fire gong to stop the game and they have to beat on it several times to make the folks hear.

When Texas Christian's cagers took the floor with their ears encased in muffs the other night they may have shut out the noise but veterans say they also shut out the sound of the ball and that wasn't so good.

A. and M. took the lead in fifteen seconds and never was headed. After five minutes the Frogs threw their ear muffs to the sidelines.

Bill Henderson, Aggie four-sport letterman, declares: "Your mind is on the game and as far as the stands are concerned, you never even know anyone is there."

Navy Transfers Bear Wolf To Texas U.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 13 (AP)—The Observer said tonight in a special dispatch from Athens, Ga., that Lieut. Ray (Bear) Wolf, head football coach at the University of North Carolina until he entered the Navy this year, had been transferred from the pre-flight school at Athens to the Navy flight preparatory school at the University of Texas at Austin.

Lieut. Wolf has been aiding in conditioning aviation cadet sat the Athens school.

Ptcher Ruffing Is Now Pitching Tents

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 13 (AP)—Pvt. Charles Ruffing, who used to be Pitcher Red Ruffing of the New York Yankees tells about his first day in camp:

"A sergeant said to me, 'Ruffing, I understand you can pitch.'

"'That's right,' I answered, and the sergeant said 'Okay, buddy, see how fast you can pitch this tent.'"

MICHIGAN SHARPSHOOTER

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—Harold Gensichen is the ace of Western Michigan College's hoop team. He is expected to surpass his sharpshooting of last year when he scored 400 points in 20 games, a state collegiate record.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—Almost every time you pick up a newspaper these days, you see that a "Golden Gloves" or similar amateur boxing tournament is getting under way—and a good idea. According to Dan Ferris, amateur boxing has been hit harder than any other A.A.U. sport because so many fighters have gone into the armed forces . . . But at the same time there's nothing soldiers and sailors seem to like quite as much as a good scrap, amateur, professional or just for fun . . . These newspaper — sponsored tourneys are going a long way toward bridging that gap . . . Their subnovice classes give kids who never did any formal fighting a chance to do their stuff in the ring without the fear of getting their blocks knocked off by more experienced battlers . . . And soldiers who have been learning to handle their mitts in the Army can test their skill in outside competition—and don't think they're not looking for it.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

The Raleigh (N.C.) Times has come up with a 1943 variation of its Golden Gloves tourney, cancelled because of the war, which sounds like the best idea yet . . . The paper plans to run a service men's tourney Jan. 29-30, giving war bonds as prizes . . . Except for pros among the first 20 in the N.B.A. rankings, it's a come-all affair and entries already have been received from Camp Davis, coached by Johnny Risko, Fort Bragg and the New River marines, where Al Ettore is helping to train the fisticuffers.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

John McGill, jr., Ashland (Ky.) Independent: "Major league teams are considering colleges for spring training purposes. Maybe their managers aren't so dumb after all. Some of the teams could do with a little college spirit."

MAKING TRACKS

After the South had licked the North's picked footballers in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala., Bill Baumgartner, Minnesota end, remarked: "I wish we'd had a little mud out there today" . . . "Mud?" a southern supporter questioned. "Monk Gafford and Blondy Black can go pretty well in mud." . . . "I know," replied Baumgartner sadly, "but then they'd have left tracks so we could see where they went."

RECALL GRID EARTHQUAKE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Many tales have been told of football games but the one they like the best here is about the day the Engineers participated in a gridiron earthquake. Tech ran up the greatest score ever made by a college football team when it defeated Cumberland university 222 to 0!

Most Cardinal Farm Clubs Show Losses In 1942; St. Louis Team Pays Small Dividend

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 13 — The Cardinals' farm system has bitten the hand which fed it folding money and reared it from a pup.

Only the fact the Cards enjoyed a fine financial season themselves—what with winning the National league pennant and the World Series — kept President Sam Breardon from reporting red ink for the entire system.

An excellent home year allowed the Cardinals to pass out one dividend—$2 a share—but it didn't compare favorably with 1941.

Bad Year For Farms

Sacramento, a club battling for the top, was doing well until night games were banned on the Pacific coast.

Houston had one of its bad years in the Texas league and Rochester in the International league was a financial flop.

Only Columbus of the American association—among the larger farm clubs which the parent organization relied upon to be self-sustaining—came out in the black.

As usual all the other, smaller farm clubs also operated at losses.

WEBB FUNERAL SET

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (AP)—Funeral services for Billy Webb, head of the Chicago White Sox baseball farm system who died yesterday, will be held Friday morning.

Approximately one-fourth of the people of the earth speak the Chinese language.

Buffs Win Second From New Mexico

ALBUQUERUE, N. M., Jan. 13 (AP)—The towering Buffaloes of West Texas State Teachers college made it two basketball games in a row over the New Mexico Lobos by rolling up a 57 to 46 victory last night.

As in the first game which the Buffaloes won 58 to 47, the defending Border conference champions piled up their lead in the first half, 27 to 16 tonight, and then had to sweat to keep it during the second period.

New Mexico smothered Charles (Chat) Johnson, high scoring guard who poured 25 points in last night, and he managed to collect only nine tonight. But his six-foot-three-inch brother, Clark (Deacon), found the range for 18 tallies and high-point honors.

Texas-New Mexico and Okla. Coaches

With Your Cooperation, We got 'em home & back for the holidays

Thanks to you, a most critical period in wartime but transportation has been passed with flying colors.

Just before Christmas . . . during the fall of the year, you were reminded that bus travel was not rationed and that the prospects of rationing was not even being considered. You were told also, when you wanted to travel, Texas-New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches stood ready to serve you as in the past. As a result of your cooperation . . . arranging your trips for mid-week, etc., thousands of men and women in uniform were able to go home by bus for holiday leaves and furloughs. While helping members of the armed forces, you also made it possible for agricultural workers in this territory to remain on the job until it was done before returning home.

Texas-New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches will make every effort to see that the service you count on is available when you need it during 1943.

Due to the heavy passenger traffic on all lines, we are compelled to limit all baggage to one piece for each paid fare. May we have your cooperation!

Serial Story—"Is It Love?" . . . .

Uncle Freeman standing in the doorway with an armful of wood.

"Get blankets from the chest upstairs," she ordered. "Then come down and fill everything in the house with water. Heat it."

Uncle Freeman dropped the wood with a thud on the polished floor. He shook his grizzled head. "I knowed somepin' would happen," he mumbled. "All dis day I knowed—"

"Will you hurry," said Sue Ellen sharply. She was already kneeling beside Deedora, stripping off her wet sodden clothes.

'I'll Never Leave You'

At four o'clock in the morning, the fire burned low on the hearth and shed a red glow over the front drawing room at Belle Acres. Uncle Freeman stood with his back to the candlelighted room, warming blankets. Blankets stretched across chairs, shut off the view of Deedora's weary figure on the sofa. Sue Ellen sat in a chair with her disheveled head against the chair back and her arms dangling over its arms. She was tired but triumphant. Across her knees lay a bundle of wrapped in a soft bit of wool, with Sue Ellen's bright yellow scarf swathing its face and body. Just a tiny button nose and a wrinkled red cheek and a tiny groping hand were visible.

The baby was Deedora's son and he was alive and strong, although the struggle to save him had exhausted her so completely that Sue Ellen wondered if she could ever move again.

The storm continued. Any attempt to go for help was out of the question until morning. Then Aunt Pleas would send someone to bring her home and she could call for Doctor Warren. She lifted the baby close to her breast. She was becoming drowsy.

When she opened her eyes, the dawn had come. A grey dawn with the wind still moaning about the house and whipping the trees.

Uncle Freeman tiptoed in and stood in the doorway. "Ain't no way to get back to town," he told her. "Watah's risin' and floodin' all those fields, Miss Sue Ellen. Reckon it will come up here?"

She felt a new alarm. "Of course not," she told him.

Uncle Freeman built up the fire and she realized that there was no food, and what if no one came and she was left alone, with Deedora helpless and the baby waking and crying. . . .

Just then there was a quick step on the front veranda.

Before she could rise, the step reached the front door — it was coming across the hall—

"Johnny! Johnny!"

He looked so tall as he stood there for a minute, before he was beside her chair, and then he stopped and stared down at the bundle of wrappings in her arms.

Sue Ellen pushed back the yellow scarf and showed him the tiny wrinkled face. "It's Deedora's," she said simply. "It was born last night. Uncle Freeman helped me—"

She was shaking all over as she remembered. Johnny's tall figure blurred, grew hazy—everything turned black. . . .

When she opened her eyes, Johnny knelt beside her with a glass in his hand and Uncle Freeman, looking terrified and ludicrous stood beside her holding the baby.

"I fainted?"

Johnny nodded. He sat down the glass and took her in his arms and held her tight against his breast. "I shall never let you go. What a fool I was to leave you," he cried. "After this I'll never, never leave you again."

Her fingers touched his rough brown hair. "You haven't kissed your wife, Johnny Harris," she whispered.

She went away then, but looked back from the stairway and could see Johnny sitting by the fire, awkwardly cuddling Deedora's son. His lean face was tender—one big finger curiously touching a tiny groping hand.

"I love you, Johnny Harris," she said over and over to herself as she ran up the long wide stairs.

We don't know what our teachers are coming to, but, anyway, here's a couple of essays on osculation which appear in the current issue of the Texas Outlook, official publication of state's pedagogues:

"Teacher: Parse the word 'kiss.'

"Pupil: The word is a noun, but it is usually used as a conjunction. It is never declined, and more common than proper. It is not very singular, in that it is usually used in the plural. It agrees with me!"

And:

"A kiss is a peculiar proposition. It is of no use to one, but absolute bliss to two. The small boy gets it for nothing, the young man has to lie for it, the old man has to buy it. It is the baby's right, the lover's privilege, the hypocrite's mask. To a young girl, it is faith; to a married woman, hope — and to an old maid, charity!"

THE Johnstown, Pa., Tribune in a recent issue presented, under the heading "Gone Are The Days", a humorous little parody on the oldtime favorite, "Old Black Joe." The piece was signed by the initials "B.H., jr.," and we think reproduction here may bring some chuckles.

Here goes:

GONE ARE THE DAYS
With Apologies To "Old Black Joe"

Gone are the days when ev'ry wish was free and gay,
Gone are those days, they have rationed them away,
Gone from the shelves are the goods I used to know,
I hear the grocer gently saying, "No, No, No."
I'm rationed, I'm rationed, and my coffee's getting low,
I hear the grocer gently saying "No, No, No."

Gone are the days at fifty miles per hour,
Gone are the days when we bought another tire,
Gone is the smile that the gas man used to show,
I hear the coupons gently saying, "No, No, No."
I'm rationed, I'm rationed, as my sugar book will show,
I hear the coupons gently saying, "No, No, No."

Gone are the days, ev'ry thing is getting tough,
Gone are the days, now the trousers have no cuff,
Gone are the lights when the dim-out starts to blow,
I hear the warden gently saying, "No, No, No."
I'm rationed, I'm rationed, and I'm told just where to go,
It seems that ev'ryone is saying, "No, No, No."

But as amusing as the parody is, we cannot permit it to go unchallenged. We insist that:

If we'll take rationing in our stride, soon we'll be able to sing with the late, Old Black Joe something like this:

Gone are the days when the brutal Axis clan
Ground, into dust, every unprotected land,
Gone from this earth are the fiends we used to know—
We made it stick when we said to them: No! No! No!
What's rationed? What's rationed? Not a freedom that we know!
We carved a bright new world while hearing "No. No. No!"

The OPA's instructions on how to cut beef are not entirely unintelligible. After reading them over, we're sure that a mathematical genius could take a table of logarithms, a slide rule, a compass, a T-square, a yardstick, a comptometer, a hacksaw, a butcher knife and lots of time and follow them to the letter!

INCIDENTAL INFORMATION: Irving Wexler, better remembered as "Waxey" Gordon, a swashbuckling beer baron of the prohibition era, is back in the news. When repeal of prohibition ruined his illicit beer racket, "Waxey" went into other fields, more recently into operation of a sugar "black market." In New York the other day he got a year in the pen upon pleading guilty to charges of selling 50,000 pounds of sugar in violation of OPA rulings. Leopards rarely change their spots. . . Automobile tires, recapped with leather, are being successfully used in the East. A truck thus equipped has gone 6,500 miles on the leather recaps and is still going strong . . . Why an olive in a dry martini? Somebody dropped one in by mistake in staid old Boston in 1895 — and started the vogue. Pickled onions, popular on the border, were first used in Juarez when a popular watering place ran temporarily out of olives . . . Admiral Halsey to the contrary notwithstanding, official Washington has practically no hope of winning the war in 1943. As a matter of fact, the extreme optimism which enveloped the nation a couple or three weeks ago thus far has been entirely unfounded.

That Man on Avenue Q says the shorter shirt tails are likely to prove embarassing to men who can't afford to have their pants seats half-soled!

YOU'VE probably heard a lot of stories about how the term "shave-tail," as applied to a second lieutenant, originated. But here's a new one, just going around the country and allegedly offered by the Army Quartermaster corps.

When men were commissioned from the ranks in World War I, they were permitted to continue using their government issue shirts. Fact is, some of them were commissioned under battle circumstances where they had to continue wearing their enlisted men's shirts—or go without. But these G.I. shirts had no shoulder straps upon which to pin bars, so the newly-made second looies developed a practice of clipping part of their shirttails off and using the material to make temporary shoulder straps.

Hence the term "shave-tail."

Sounds logical, anyway.

THE Plainsman happened to be down at the Santa Fe depot the other day and lying on a side track was a cattle train, apparently headed for the feed lots of Kansas—or even further north. It was a long train, and every car into which we peered was crammed with cattle. But they were not good cattle, like those we see in this section. They weren't Herefords; they weren't Durhams, or milking shorthorns.

They were plain scrubs, with long horns—the kind of critters the like of which this country hasn't seen in years.

Our guess is, they came from the ranges of Northern Mexico, at best, from the scrubby pastures of Rio Grande country barely north of the line between the U. S. and Mexico. At any rate, they won't make beef—real beef, the kind we all like to lap a lip over.

But in times like these, with meat shortages plaguing even cities right here in Texas, they'll make SOME kind of meat.

And it will be better for eating purposes than old horses and mules which are taking the place of beef on many an American table today.

WE have no idea who it was who decided that Milton Eisenhower, formerly of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, should be put in charge of food and clothing distribution to natives in North Africa. But whoever it was, was smart.

With Brother Dwight, the general, in charge of all military operations, Brother Milton should be able to get more help and more enthusiastic co-operation on his job than anyone else; and likewise should be able to work closer with Army men than anyone else.

The setup is logical. Even more, it drips with common sense. Which is to say it is a welcome change from what we too often get in the way of official decision.

Chapter 30
The Rains Came

Sue Ellen was jealous. Insanely jealous of Deedora.

Before she went away, Ginny had told her that Riv refused to see Deedora. That she continued to stay with one maid in the great lonely plantation house which was four miles down a winding road from Belle Acres. Sue Ellen wondered what Deedora thought, shut in with her own thoughts and the rain. Finally, one afternoon, she decided to visit her.

Having made this decision, her mind cleared. Why hadn't she thought of doing this before? No matter how much Deedora hated her, they could talk things over sanely and reach an understanding.

When she announced that she must drive out to Belle Acres to see just how much damage the storm had done, Aunt Pleas objected vigorously: "That place will be cold and damp as the grave, and it's risky to drive those clay roads when they're slippery."

She promised to be careful and stubbornly continued her preparations.

"You can't go alone. Uncle Freeman must go along and build a fire where you can dry your clothes and wait if the storm should delay you."

"The storm won't delay me. Besides—it isn't raining now."

Aunt Pleas stood staring through the windows at the sullen sky. "I don't like that sky," she grumbled. "Aunt Jennie says we're going to have a wind storm."

"Aunt Jennie's a goose." Sue Ellen buttoned her coat about her throat and stopped to drop a kiss on her aunt's forehead. "You miss Aunt Car, don't you, Aunt Pleas?"

"That's no reason why I shouldn't want you out of my sight. But please be careful."

Uncle Freeman sat huddled in the car. "We's agoin' to have a bad sto'm, Miss Sue Ellen." He shook his head gloomily.

Sue Ellen stepped firmly on the starter. "You're as bad as Aunt Jennie. She's always predicting trouble."

"I feel in my bones somepin's goin' to happen," he grumbled, hunching down into his faded overcoat. "I suah don' like that sky."

Aunt Pleas was right. The roads were bad—slippery, washed away in places, and treacherous. Sue Ellen decided to drive straight to Belle Acres and take her aunt's advise and leave Uncle Freeman to build a fire. From there she would go on to see Deedora and later return and pick up Uncle Freeman.

Out Of The Storm

As they turned into the gates of Belle Acres, the rain suddenly ceased, but the wind rocked the car and fairly swept them off their feet as they staggered onto the veranda. The wind caught the door which she finally succeeded in opening and crashed it closed behind them. It was only two in the afternoon, but the sky was black as ink.

Uncle Freeman was terrified and moaned and groaned until Sue Ellen turned upon him severely and ordered him to look for candles in the kitchen. She remembered that some workmen had used candles. She told him to bring in wood from the shed and build a roaring fire.

She was frightened herself. The wind bent the trees — it screamed down the chimney—it died and then arose again, bringing a deluge of rain with it.

The fire blazed up on the hearth and she drew up a chair and crouched over the blaze, hoping Aunt Pleas would not be too frightened, and angry with herself because she had neglected to have a telephone installed at Belle Acres. She watched the eerie dancing shadows in the firelight and the flickering candlelight shining on the walls and carpets, listened to Uncle Freeman puttering about in the distant kitchen where he was building a fire in the range.

"Why should you build up a fire in that cook stove?" she demanded. "You can sit in here with me, Uncle Freeman."

But he stubbornly shook his head. She could hear the stove lid rattle and then every sound was lost in another, which pierced the roar of the storm. A human voice—calling—crying.

At first she thought it some animal in distress. The cry was so piercing—so unnerving, and then she was flying to the hall door and struggling to hold it as the wind and the rain swept through from outside.

She had been mistaken—there was no one there—who could be there?

She ran back for a candle and the wind blew out the flame, and then in the darkness which faced her she heard the cry again.

Piteous—pleading.

She ran out with the wind whipping her hair and tearing at her skirts, and halfway across the veranda stumbled over someone.

It seemed an eternity before her call brought Uncle Freeman to help her, and together they managed to pick up the figure lying face downward on the veranda floor.

It was Deedora who, a little later, lay on the sofa in the front room with the firelight patterning weird shadows on her anguished face.

There was no doubt about the reason for Deedora's coming, even before she murmered: "I was alone — the telephone is out of order, so I drove—you'll have to help me."

Sue Ellen stood staring down at her and every nerve in her body tightened with a fear beyond any fear she had ever known. How could she help her? Deedora needed a doctor — but Deedora, seeming to read her thought, turned her face, twisted with pain. "There isn't time. Don't leave me—" Her voice died away.

Sue Ellen turned and saw

This Curious World

CONGRESS ON THE SPOT AGAIN

President Roosevelt is demonstrating again in his attitude toward requested appropriations that, politically, he is one of the smartest men—if not the smartest—ever to occupy the White House.

He has said, in substance, to Congress: "I shall ask for all the appropriations I think are needed to hasten victory. The responsibility is yours for the consequences of failure to approve them."

The spot on which this places Congress is obvious. Criticisms would be bitter if any military reverses could, by any stretch of the imagination, be laid to failure to provide money asked. The administration would see to it that one mistake like this would be publicized fully. One mistake might cause sight to be lost of a thousand wise economies.

Even so, the nation requires protection as never before against wasteful extravagances. Congress is the agency to provide the protection. And the wisdom of Congress can be trusted in a matter of this kind as well as that of the administration's bureaucratic experts through whom the war cost to the United States has been increased to a point exceeding that of all other nations in the world combined.

Thus, even though the responsibility upon Congress is a heavy one, it is one that Congress should carry. To the credit of Congress, it has shown no inclination to try to shirk its duty.

"So it's a man's war, is it?"

Listen, mister, in order to "feel" my role of the Amazon queen in "By Jupiter," I delved into the stories of nations at war, and found page after page chronicling the heroic exploits of the distaff side of the war machine.

The most famous women warriors were the Amazons. They lived only for war, and refused to fight in the same battalions with men. Of the children born to the Amazons (there were still men in the neighboring provinces), boy babies were killed immediately, and the girls were reared for war. The word "Amazon" means "breastless," and according to Greek mythology, the Amazons had their right breasts burned off, the better to manage the stout bow.

Maid of Orleans: Perhaps the most famous of the courageous women of the world was the little peasant girl who led the French battalions to victory at Orleans in 1429. Among the 12 charges brought against Joan of Arc, when she was tried for being a sorceress, were that of "cutting her hair," and "wearing male attire."

* * *

KITCHEN strategist: During the Civil war, President Lincoln received and studied a series of letters, written by a lady named Emma Ella Carroll. These letters contained complete outlines of tricky maneuvers, to be used by the Northern armies in the war between the States. The successful campaign of Tennessee was fought according to the strategy laid out by this one-woman Intelligence department. The entire Northern command reluctantly recognized Miss (or Mrs.) Carroll as a military genius.

Liberty, Equality, Fraternity: Theroigne de Mericourt, on Oct. 6, 1789, led a battalion of women to Versailles to lay their protests and grievances before Marie Antoinette. It was to this small army of valiant women that the queen uttered the most famous brush-off in history: "Let them eat cake." Theroigne was later apprehended and placed on trial on a trumped-up charge of "attempted assassination" of the queen. Although two would have got you five that she would be beheaded, the rebel leader was acquitted and set free. . . Maria Botchkaeva, who has been called the greatest Russian heroine of World War I, enlisted in the Army in 1915, and later formed the Women's Battalion of Death of which she was commander. She distinguished herself again and again, in rescuing the wounded under fire. She went over the top in eight big battles and 10 counter-attacks.

THEY died with their bonnets on: Mrs. Harley, sister of Lord French, was killed by a shell in Monastir, while helping in the evacuation of Serbian refugees . . . Mrs. Thekla Brown, attached to a French ambulance unit, died while transporting the injured. . . When the Germans invaded a small village in France, announcing that French soldiers were hidden in that town, Madame Marie Masson stepped forward and said, "There are no French soldiers here. But Germans must kill—so here, take me, and do your worst." They stood her up against a wall and shot her dead . . . Belgian Madame Huriex, the last of a group of captors to be shot down by invading Germans, received the hail of bullets and with her last breath cried out, "Vive la Belgique! Vive la France!" . . . At the Pershing Square CDVO center, women—Army wives, debutantes, actresses, white collar workers, socialites and business executives — are working together for Victory . . . Mrs. J. You Can Get All Kinds Of Printed Forms To Fill Out!

Wage And Hour Bureau Controls Hikes In Pay

(Fourth of a series of columns explaining the government's wage stabilization program.)

By PETER EDSON
Journal Washington Correspondent

IF you have any questions about how the government's new wage stabilization program affects your individual case as a worker or an employer, take your troubles to the nearest office of the Wage and Hour division, or write them a letter. There are over 100 of these Wage and Hour offices scattered around the country. Your local postmaster or any one of the 1500 U. S. Employment service branches should know the address of the office closest to you.

EDSON

The point is, you don't have to write to Washington to get information on how these wage control rulings affect your case and whether or not you're entitled to a raise. Right off the bat, when the Wage Stabilization order was signed by the President on Oct. 3, 1942, it became apparent that this control over the wages paid to some 30 million workers in over 300,000 establishments could not be run from Washington, so an organization was set up to decentralize operations.

At Wage and Hour offices you can get all the forms and information needed to file any application for any kind of wage adjustment, and Wage and Hour officials will help fill out the forms.

If the local Wage and Hour office rules that the application for a wage increase must be approved by higher authority, application will be made to one of the 10 regional offices of the War Labor board, in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Kansas City, Cleveland, Chicago, Dallas, Denver and San Francisco. At each of these regional WLB offices there is a regional director who will sit with a regional advisory board of 12 members, four from labor, four from management and four representing the public. Each of the 10 regional directors has power to act on any application for a wage adjustment in his area.

YOU CAN APPEAL

BUT suppose the regional director turns down your application for a raise. You have a right to appeal within 10 days. The regional director then appoints a panel of three from his advisory board, one representative from the labor group, one from the management group and one from the public group, to review your appeal. If the panel overrules the previous finding of the regional director, okay, you get the raise.

If the panel rules that your application should be turned down, there isn't much you can do about it. Any one member of the panel can recommend that the finding be referred to the War Labor board in Washington, or the WLB itself can on its own initiative ask to have the record of the case sent to Washington for review, and WLB can, if it chooses, overrule the panel and grant the wage increase.

The national War Labor board sitting in Washington can, in fact, overrule and reverse any finding made by any regional director, any finding made by any panel.

SETTLING DISPUTES

IN case there is any dispute over a wage agreement being negotiated between an employer and his employes, that case can be submitted to the U. S. Conciliation service, which will then attempt to work out a settlement. In case of inability to conciliate, the case may be certified to the War Labor board in Washington, whose decision is final.

For salaries, meaning pay computed on a weekly, monthly or longer period, the pitch is a little different. Control over salaries of more than $5000 a year and the salaries of executive, administrative or professional workers making less than $5000 a year and not covered by a union labor contract is given to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in the Treasury department, Guy T. Helvering.

Similarly, control over farm wages has been delegated to the Department of Agriculture. Regulations governing them will be dealt with separately, in later articles in this series.

NEXT: Enforcement.

Yanks Destroy 34 Nazi Planes

declared that Axis forces "during fighting which is still in progress" had destroyed 14 Allied tanks, two armored cars and numerous vehicles. The scene of the action was not disclosed.

On the Russian front, indications that the Red armies may have launched a major new offensive in the north were reflected in a report by German military quarters that heavy fighting had spread to the sector between lake Ilmen and the Leningrad-lake Oadoga region.

These quarters said Russian attacks outside Leningrad and south of lake Ladoga had failed.

Caucasus Drive Continues

In the Caucasus, Soviet dispatches pictured the triumphant Red armies as driving the Axis invaders back toward Rostov along a 100-mile front, capturing six more cities and towns, and moving up for the assault on the Nazi-held rail hub at Salsk, 110 miles southeast of Rostov.

Stockholm reports said the Russians were already within artillery range of Salsk and were battling the Germans entrenched northwest of the city.

Frontline dispatches said the Russian come-back sweep through the central Caucasus was moving steadily north along both sides of the Rostov-Batu railroad, scoring a 12-mile gain in a single thrust from Pyatigorsk to Essentuki.

Soviet Forces Join

A Reuters (British news agency) report from Moscow said Red army columns which drove from Stalingrad down past Elista and thence across the barren Kalmyck steppes had now joined Soviet forces from the Caucasus.

On the lower Don front, masses of German reserves thrown into the critical struggle on the approaches to Rostov were making their weight felt, but a Soviet war bulletin nevertheless reported the capture of four more towns and the defeat of a German tank assault after vicious fighting.

The Soviet midnight communique declared 2,000 Germans were killed and 40 tanks destroyed in the lower Don region as the Nazis attacked with reckless fury in an attempt to halt the Red army steamroller.

Nazis Counterattack

On the central (Moscow) front, the Russians said German shock troops again counterattacked northwest of Velikie Luki, 90 miles from the Latvian frontier, ut withdrew after a day of costly battle.

In the north African war theater, British headquarters reported that Allied bombers attacked the big Axis-held base at Tripoli, pounded the Libyan port of Homs, and raided Axis bases in Crete, Sicily and Lampedusa island.

Sandstorms whirled over the desert battlefield, where Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th army still marked time about 180 miles east of Tripoli.

Patrols Continue

"Yesterday patrol activity continued," the British announced. "Otherwise there was nothing to report from our land forces."

In the western air war, Britain's big home-based bombers returned to the assault on German war foundries in the Ruhr valley last night—the seventh attack there in 10 nights.

Only one RAF plane was listed as missing.

Two German raiders countered with a dawn attack on an English southeast coastal town, bombing and machinegunning the area. Dispatches said a number of persons were killed and many injured in the raid.

"G. I." MUSICAL FEATURES GAY TUNES, GAGS, GIRLS—The accent is on music and laughs in the Lubbock Army Flying school original production, "Anything Can Happen," which will be given at the Lubbock high school auditorium Saturday evning at 8 o'clock, and again the following Monday night. The Saturday night show is already a sell-out. The cast includes 20 LAFS soldiers, assisted by 10 Lubbock girls who appear in singing and dancing routines. In the top picture, Corporal Sam Carson of Pittsburgh, Pa., is flanked by four of the dancing stars of the show while he gives out with his version of "I'll Have To Get A Uniform," one of nine hit tunes written for the play by Private Dudley Henriques of New York City and Private Burt Levi of Chicago. Left to right are Joan Hale, Betty Rhea Caldwell, Corporal Carson, Barbara Hale and Marijo Turner. Brunette Harper, well known Lubbock singer who shares top vocal honors with Corporal Carson, is shown in the picture in left center. On the right is Betty Rhea Caldwell, who toured with "College Capers of '42" and is featured in dancing specialties in the production. Perpetrator of a big share of the gags in the show is Corporal Albert Kaplin of Brooklyn, N. Y., shown in the lower picture. He apparently has vermin to contend with before settling down to a well-earned evening's rest.

All Tickets Sold For Opening Performance, LAFS Show To Be Given For Public Monday

All tickets already are sold for the first performance of, "Anything Can Happen," musical comedy to be presented in Senior High school auditorium Saturday night at 8 o'clock by members of the personnel of Lubbock Army Flying school.

So a second performance will be given Monday night at 8 o'clock, especially for Lubbock people.

Tickets are 55 cents each, tax included, with a few center section reserved seats at 75 cents. Sale of the tickets is being handled by the "Hubettes," and will also be on sale at the Hilton and Lubbock hotels. Tickets go on sale at noon Tuesday, Jan. 12, and early buying is recommended because of the limited number available.

Written, produced and directed by enlisted men stationed at Lubbock Army Flying school, the show is original from start to finish. It is designed on the order of "Hellzapoppin'."

The score includes nine tunes of hit caliber which were written by a pair of LAFS privates. The music was composed by Private Dudley Henriques of New York City, who in his pre-army days wrote the selection, "She Wore a Little Jacket of Blue," a song officially adopted by the British Navy in 1935. He also wrote the popular hit of a few years ago, "Whispering Grass," and collaborated on the number, "Under a Blanket of Blue."

Pvt Burt Levi of Chicago, a free-lance writer in civilian life, performs a triple role in connection with the play. He wrote the continuity and also serves as director and master of ceremonies. In addition, he contributed the lyrics for the songs written by Private Henriques.

Singing stars of the production are Brunette Harper, well-known Lubbock vocalist often heard over KFYO, and Cpl. Sam Carson of Pittsburgh, Pa., a member of the LAFS band. The role of No. 1 comedian is handled by Cpl. Albert Kaplan of Brooklyn, N. Y., formerly with Eddie Duchin's orchestra.

Appearing in dancing specialties in the presentation are Betty Rhea Caldwell, Lubbock girl who was featured during the tour of "College Capers of '42," and Pvt. Andrew Martin of Spring Lake, N. J., formerly one of Arthur Murray's dancing instructors.

Howell Arranges Music

Music for the show was arranged by Pvt. Bernie Howell of Lubbock, former music director and arranger for KFYO. The musical background is furnished by the LAFS dance band, under direction of Sgt. Bill Harrod, formerly with Don Bestor's orchestra.

Lubbock girls appearing in the show are Barbara and Joan Hale, Marijo Turner, Katherine Ellis, Temple Joyce McAfee, Carrye Jo McLeon, Olive Rankin and Mary Jo Ryan.

The nine rhythmic numbers featured in the play are "Air Corps Waltz," "Love Devil," "Jeeperoo Jive," "I'd Like to Meet You Again," "Lonesome in Your Arms," "Let's Stay Up Till Reveille," "I'll Have to Get a Uniform," "My Heart Was in My Pen," and the title number, "Anything Can Happen."

Presentation of the show is a project of the Lubbock Army Flying school special services department, headed by Lt. William A. Murphy and assisted by Lt. Leonard Newman.

Centenarian Skates On 100th Birthday

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 13. (AP)—John Jerome White, the man Spokane believes to be the nation's youngest centenarian, skated self-consciously onto the ice at carnival last night, did an easy figure-eight backwards and skated off—just to celebrate his 100th birthday.

The man who was 18 years old when the Civil war started and has been skating for 95 years ate a breakfast of bacon and two eggs, two pancakes and a cup of coffee. At dinner he smacked his lips over a T-bone steak with french fried potatoes.

He reads his newspaper without the aid of glasses.

J. J. is truly hale and hearty—last Sunday he rode his bicycle to Grand Coulee dam.

"Don't worry," is his advice to middle-aged youngsters. "It's like a disease and gets you quicker than anything else. Stay with athletics, but don't overdo. Eat what you like, but don't overdo that, either."

Gyro-Compasses In Quantity Production

DETROIT, Jan. 13. (AP)—Dodge division of Chrysler corporation announced today that it has just swung into quantity production of Sperry gyro-compasses, on a contract with the compass division of the bureau of ships at Washington.

Although the device weighs several hundred pounds, it is described as one of the most delicate pieces of precision work in the war effort.

The Office of Price Administration estimates that American motorists have between 5,000,000 and 10,000,000 tires tucked away somewhere for a "rainy day."

THREE JAPS SHOT DOWN FOR BROWN'S SON—Tears of joy and pride filled the eyes of Joe E. Brown as he and his son, Cpl. Joe L. Brown (left) read a cable dispatch that Col. New Undertones Of Mystery Seen In Darlan's Slaying

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 13 — General Henri Honore Giraud, new high commissioner of French North and West Africa, and General Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French, will meet soon, a spokesman for General Giraud said last night as the assassination of Giraud's predecessor, Admiral Jean Darlan, took on new undertones of mystery.

Gen Giraud's spokesman, disclosing that additional "personages of Algiers" had been arrested in the case and others arrested earlier had been released, said the investigation of Darlan's assassination Christmas Eve was being prosecuted "without consideration of the prominence of the persons involved, nor their political beliefs."

A young man described as a Frenchman whose mother lives in Italy already has been executed as the actual assassin in the killing of Admiral Darlan.

The new "personages" arrested, it was pointed out, are in addition to the 12 seized New Year's Eve as instigators of a plot to kill Robert Murphy, President Roosevelt's personal minister in North Africa, General Giraud and others.

Forms Being Fixed For Farm Census

Plan sheets by which farm leaders and government agencies may enumerate farms and all important data pertaining to each are being prepared at the Lubbock county office of the USDA war board.

This year's census of farm production will be taken in advance of planting the crops. The forms have been used for the last two years, but in a somewhat haphazard manner as compared with the thoroughness to be developed this year.

The census will follow the meetings held Tuesday as a recognition of the President's "Farm Mobilization" day, which was staged throughout the nation as a prelude to getting the 1943 food production program under way, under control, and into some semblance of harmony with the nation's needs.

Community meetings of farmers, previously announced, will begin Thursday night and continue throughout the county through Jan. 22.

Contest Is Filed On Llano Man's Seat

AUSTIN, Jan. 13. (AP)—The House of representatives seat of Harry L. Davis jr. of Borne has been challenged by former Rep. L. L. Bruhl of Llano who was defeated for re-election by Davis who was a write-in candidate in the general election after he was defeated in the Democratic primary.

Papers in the contest were filed Tuesday with the speaker of the House by Secretary of State William J. Lawson.

Bruhl who filed the contest last December said it was brought "to expose election conditions in Gillespie county."

Davis took the oath of office and will retain his seat pending the outcome of the contest which will be referred to the House committee an privileges and elections or heard by the House as a committee of the whole.

House committees have not as yet been appointed by the speaker.

The district involved includes besides Gillespie county, Llano, Kendall, and Blanco counties.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, cautioning against too much censorship during the war, has advised book publishers to "say what you think no matter what some government official thinks is best for the people."

Marriages Set New Record During 1942

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—More than three and a half million men and women in the United States said "I do," and became husbands and wives during 1942, setting an all time high for marriages in America, statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. reported today.

They estimated that about 1,800,000 marriages were performed during the year, an increase of 80 per cent over the number for 1932, the low point of the depression.

Largest gains in the number of wedding licenses issued were in the large cities of the Far West and South. In the northeastern area there were fewer marriages in 1942 than in 1941.

San Diego, Calif., had 176 per cent more marriages in 1942 than in 1941, the largest increase in any of the 86 cities of 100,000 or more population surveyed. The increase in San Antonio, Texas, was 73 per cent.

Sales Tax To Be Presented

heard Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, Democratic floor leader in the House, charge that those responsible for the anthracite strike in Pennsylvania were guilty of "what might well be termed close to treason."

Petrillo Questioned

The efforts of another Congress group to lift the ban by organized musicians against recorded music appeared to begin to bear fruit. President James C. Petrillo of the musicians telling a Senate subcommittee he believed the time had come to "talk business" with radio broadcasters and recording companies.

"I think they've got some justice on their side," Petrillo told the committee. Previously he had said the union would lift the ban on "canned music" if it could receive royalties on all records sold.

As for the retail sales tax proposal, there was no apparent retirement by the administration from its policy of opposition.

A member of the tax-framing House ways and means committee which will start consideration of pay-as-you-go and other tax legislation within the next ten days or two weeks, Robertson said he believed the income tax had reached the saturation point.

Unsuccessful Last Year

"If we are to raise another $16,000,000,000," he told reporters, "I don't see how we can do it without a sales tax."

Robertson was unsuccessful in an effort last year to get the ways and means group to consider a sales tax. The vote then was 13 to 8.

Both houses of Congress were in recess today.

Jumping into the revenue-raising discussion, proponents of a government-operated lottery declared they would renew their efforts to pass such legislation. Representative Knutson (R-Minn) and Representative Sabath (D-Ill) both offered plans which they said would yield the government about a billion dollars a year.

Errol Flynn Trial

jaunt to Catalina island with Flynn last year while she was only 15. The lawyers wouldn't name their testifyers, but promised they'd startle the jury when the time came. Miss Satterlee charges that Flynn attacked her twice during the voyage, he claims he had a bad cold, a runny nose, and no interest in her except as a partner or photographs taken by Peter Stackpole, cameraman for Life and Time magazines.

Testimony Unprintable

Hansen, the Nebraska schoolgirl who came to Hollywood to be a movie star—and wound up as a waitress—accused Flynn of holding her in his lap after dinner in a Bel Air mansion, giving her a drink which seemed to have alcohol in it, taking her upstairs, and locking her in with him in a bedroom. She charges further that he undressed her and then removed all his own clothes, except his shoes.

With testimony going into further details, mostly unprintable, certain to be given, the fatherly-looking bailiff refused admittance to any feminine spectator who could not prove by her driving license that she was at least 21 years old.

Women Bring Lunches

Flynn's feminine admirers, mostly middle-aged and plainly dressed, have been using every recess to seek his autograph, pat his arm, and wish him well. They've also been making the court smell like a grammar school cloak room.

They've been bringing food, mostly peanut butter sandwiches, apples, and bananas, with an occasional thermos jug of coffee, and eating their lunches in court to save their seats from the clamoring women without.

FOOD PRICES HIGHER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP) — Prices paid by the average family for food were 1.2 per cent higher on Dec. 15 than on Nov. 17, largely as the result of the rise in prices of uncontrolled fresh fruit and vegetables, Secretary of Labor Perkins reported today.

Explanation Given On Point Rationing System

1. INDIVIDUAL gets 96 blue stamps in ration book 2. (Red stamps to be used for meat rationing later).

2. STAMPS have different letters for use in limited periods. Number on each shows point value in buying.

3. STORES will post OPA lists showing point value for each type of canned food. Any stamp can get any food.

4. MERCHANT will demand stamps with each purchase, as well as money not exceeding ceiling prices.

5. WHOLESALER gets stamps from merchant for supplies. He must turn in stamps when buying from canner.

The "point rationing" system won't seem so complicated if you look on your coupons as a sort of money.

Beginning probably in February, you will have to "spend" these coupons for most varieties of canned, dried and frozen fruits and vegetables just as you spend nickels and dimes. Of course you will still have to fork over those nickels and dimes too.

Your "Ration Book No. 2" will contain red and blue coupons numbered 1, 2, 5 and 8 and lettered from A to Z. The numbers stand for point values and the letters for time periods. The blue coupons are to be used for the processed foods and the red ones later for meat.

It may be that for the first month of rationing you will be permitted to use all coupons lettered A, B and C. If so, you will have 48 points to "spend" on processed food. If only the coupons lettered A and B are released for the first month, you will have only 32 points. As food supplies vary up or down, the OPA may permit you to use more—or fewer—coupons in any period of time.

Few Substitutes

The OPA explains that point rationing is necessary for things like canned foods where it is not necessary for things like coffee and sugar. The reason is that there are few if any common substitutes for coffee or sugar. If you ration them you've just about covered the field. With canned goods it's a different story. If you ration just one item, like peas, you simply send people scampering to buy other things similar to peas, and before you know it you have a shortage in them too. So you have to ration the whole list of canned, dried and frozen vegetables to keep the supply on an even keel.

Here's the way it will work. Let's pretend for the moment that only dried beans are involved.

Let's say a shortage has developed in navy beans. It won't do any good to ration them, because folks will simply jump in and buy up all the kidney beans, lima beans, black-eyed peas (which are really beans) and pinto beans they can get their hands on. So you ration ALL kinds of dried beans.

But there are plenty of lima beans—skads and skads of them—and just about as many kidney beans. Black-eyed peas and pinto beans are not quite so plentiful. Obviously the thing to do is to push lima beans and kidney beans so that there will still be enough navy beans for everybody to get at least a few.

So you get out a point ration book. You decide that grocery buyers will have to "pay" only one point a pound for lima beans and two points for kidney beans. You decide to charge four points for black-eyed peas and six for pinto beans.

But for navy beans, which are very scarce, you charge 12 points a pound.

Then you decide that the general bean situation is such that you can allow each consumer 32 points worth of beans in February. You announce that coupons lettered A and B are good for that month. That means the housewife can buy 32 pounds of lima beans for each member of her household, or 8 pounds of black-eyed peas—but only 2 2-3 pounds of navy beans. She can take it all in lima beans, or divide it up any way she pleases, but she gets only 32 points worth of beans all told for each person.

Of course this is just a make-believe example. Beans probably won't be handled in just this way at all, but it illustrates the principle. When point rationing comes, nearly every item of prepared food in your grocery store will have its point value—canned soup, dried prunes, frozen peas. If you can't find exactly what you want, OPA hopes that you will be able to find something very like it.

But remember—your coupons are not money. They are simply proof of your right to buy a certain number of points' worth of goods. You will still have to take a handful of change to the store with you.

LAFS To Graduate First 1943 Class At Post Thursday

Graduation ceremonies for one of the largest classes produced at Lubbock Army Flying school, and the first class of 1943, will be conducted Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the post theater, according to LAFS officials.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Alsie H. Carleton, pastor of the St. John's Methodist Church of Lubbock. He will be introduced by Colonel Thomas L. Gilbert, commanding officer of LAFS.

Honor students will be presented their wings and diplomas by Lt. Colonel Howard D. Kenzie, director of training, and Major Charles D. Sonnkalb, director of flying. The honor aviation cadet is William L. Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Adams of Tulsa, who was an assistant purchasing agent prior to entering the service when his National Guard unit was mobilized into service in 1941. Honor student of the aviation students is Joseph W. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon H. Davis of Glenolden, Penna. He was an electric welder prior to enlisting in the air forces in 1941.

Other aviation cadets and students will be presented their diplomas by Captain William B. Perry, Captain Robert L. Spear, Captain John N. Sanders and Lt. William L. Walker. Captain Russell DeW.Shivley will administer the oath to the graduates.

The graduation will not be open to the general public, as have graduations in the past, due to the fact that the exercises during the winter months have to be held indoors and the seating capacity is limited.

Texas still owes a war debt on the money it borrowed to win its independence from Mexico, in 1836.

Mexico Borrows Road Building Method From Texas; Saving Of $140,000 Seen On Highway

CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico, Jan. 13 (AP) — A new method of roadbuilding borrowed from Texas will save Tamaulipas state $140,000 on the cost of the road from here to the United States border at Matamoros, a road which will be partially paved during 1943.

Plans for the road, a joint project of the federal and state governments, were made public by Governor Magdaleno Aguilar, who said he was "very grateful to the Governor of Texas and the Texas Highway department laboratories for their frank and concrete aid."

Cement, Dirt Mixed

The new method provides for mixing cement with the earth surface of the grading to make a firm base for the macadam paving. A delegation of Tamaulipas road engineers who visited the Texas Laboratories to study stabilization experiments said they found the concrete method the most effective.

The state budget appropriates approximately $500,000 for the road next year, of which more than $200,000 will be spent to stabilize the roadbed as far north as San Fernando, roughly 100 miles north of Ciudad Victoria. The road, paralleling the Pan American highway, will open a new gateway to Mexico from the lower Rio Grande valley and open up new areas in the northeast corner of Mexico.

Grading Is Provided

Next year's program, to be financed from Tamaulipas' share of the federal gasoline tax, provides for grading 48 miles of the road, grading the approaches to new bridges to be built, and the paving and stabilization. Four of the five main bridges on the route remain to be built, but temporary spans will carry the traffic during the dry season.

The appropriation for the road in 1943 is about half what it was in 1942, when the state and federal government each gave $400,000 for the work. In addition, the town of San Fernando gave $200 for the construction of a ferry connecting the town with the partially-completed section of the road.

The Matamoros-Reynosa road, paralleling the south bank of the Rio Grande, will also be completed this year, Governor Aguilar said. More than $100,000 was spent on this link last year, with the entire roadbed stabilized with the exception of a few kilometers where the road crosses the new river flood control works.

Aviation Circles Doubt Net Gains In 1,000-Bomber Raids

BY DOUGLAS WERNER
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Those 1,000-bomber raids that jarred industrial Germany last summer were heartening to Allied morale, but aviation circles questioned today whether the results justified the cost of dollars and manpower.

The terrific cost of such large scale attacks explains to a great extent why so few have been carried out.

A five per cent loss in planes is a fair estimate for a major air raid. On that basis, 50 planes would be lost in each 1,000-bomber attack. That would be a loss in money of $8,000,000, or $160,000 for each aircraft.

That figure does not take into consideration the loss of the crews nor the cost of bombs and gasoline used by the planes.

Although the weather would prevent bombing night after night, it was pointed out that London was bombed for almost 100 successive nights at the height of the blitz.

Air experts have estimated that 90 large scale raids on Germany would cost $1,800,000,000. The operations would require 4,500 bombers and more than 30,000 crew members, and 270,000 tons of fuel.

It was emphasized that the results would be too uncertain for such a gamble—one that might weaken Great Britain's air defenses.

The Nazis, it was pointed out, tried to whip Britain by continual bombing but gave it up after less than a year.

Great Britain's present air strength is well divided in support of sea and land operations.

The last 1,000-plane raid was on Dusseldorf last Sept. 10. There were half a dozen raids of 1,000 or more planes during last June and several that employed from 400 to 600 planes during July and August.

Leaverton Well Being Swabbed

Swabbing continues at the Shell No. 1 D. N. Leaverton well with oil standing in the hole within 2,000 feet of the surface, reports received here Tuesday said.

No. 1 Leaverton is classed as the discovery of the Russell area. It is producing from clear fork, lower permian section, at 7,480 to 7,772 feet, total depth, and has been acidized with 6,500 gallons. Its pay horizon may correspond to that found by Amon G. Carter's No. 4-D A. L. Wasson, discovery producer of the one-well "Wasson 72" area.

Heath Below 5,055 Feet

The Barnsdale Oil company's No. 1 H. D Heath, scheduled 7,500-foot deep permian wildcat in northeast central Yoakum county six miles northeast of Plains, is drilling below 5,055 feet in lime.

On the Cochran county side of the Slaughter field, the Devonian Oil company's No. 15-A-8 Duggan flowed 783.84 barrels of 31.5-gravity oil per day, with a gas-oil ratio of 786-1, after acidizing with 12,000 gallons in pay lime from 4,980 to bottom at 5,027 feet.

The two other new Slaughter oilers are on the Hockley county side of the field. The Texas company's No. 135 Bob Slaughter flowed 1,623.40 barrels of 31.8-gravity oil daily, with a gas-oil ratio of 621-1, after acidizing pay lime from 4,980 to 5,000 feet with 9,500 gallons.

Jerry C. Hawkins' No. 9-A Mallet Land and Cattle company rated a daily potential flow of 913.56 barrels from pay between 4,924 and 4,971 feet. It was acided with 11,500 gallons. The oil is 32-gravity, and the gas-oil ratio is 726-1.
