Today is Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, but it is going to be a strange Thanksgiving for followers of the football teams of the University of Texas at Austin and Texas A&M University. For the first time in some 58 years their teams will not be playing their annual game against each other on Thanksgiving Day.

After these many years, thousands of these fans will, for the first time, have Thanksgiving dinner some place other than the parking lots around Memorial Stadium in Austin, or Kyle Field at College Station.

Let us hasten to add that Congress cannot be blamed for this sudden change. Television is responsible. The network which has the NCAA contract this year (ABC) decided it wanted to put the Texas-A&M game on national television this time, but thought Friday would be a better day than Thanksgiving. So it is that this traditional Thanksgiving game will kickoff at around noon Friday instead of this afternoon.

Mayor Bill Vestal, like a true Snyder sport, surrendered his gallon of "Billionth Barrel" crude last Friday night down at Abilene, but he came away with Brownwood Mayor W.T. Harlow's gallon of pecans also. Under the circumstances, Mayor Harlow could well afford to be magnanimous about it.

And now that things have sort of settled down and all of us have had time to regain our objectivity, [illegible] is a good time to repeat a piece from this [illegible] which some anonymous reader clipped a few [illegible]s ago and just this week returned to us. We got it from another publication, which, in turn, had picked it up from still another. Here it is again:

"A manwho can't find his way from the ticket booth to his seat in the stadium without asking someone gets red in the face and leather-lunged when some young high school kid can't carry a football the length of the field with 11 other boys grabbing at him. A woman who spills a Coke or drops her billfold through the stands is indignant when a kid can't catch an oblong ball thrown somewhere near him while somebody else is about to knock the bejabbers out of him.

"That is football—high school style—and it gets out of perspective about this time of year.

"A fan expects more out of his team than he has a right to. He expects a degree of perfection which he doesn't expect from his wife.

"He'll tolerate his own kids bringing home a report card that shows barely passing marks and pass it off as unimportant, but he is less understanding of the boy who misses a block.

"A woman will light the wrong end of a filter-tip cigarette and scream at a halfback who goes the wrong way.

"There ought to be some way each September that a fan can be made to remember that high school football is just a game and not a single boy on the playing field is capable of perfection.

"It ought not to be hard to realize that, because the boys have learned most of their imperfections from the adults who are screaming at them."

This little piece is as appropriate in November as it is in September.—WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Nov. 28, the 332nd day of 1974. There are 33 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1520, the Portuguese navigator, Ferdinand Magellan, reached the Pacific Ocean after passing through the South American strait which now bears his name.

On this date:

In 1821, Panama declared itself independent of Spain and joined the Republic of Columbia.

In 1843, Britain and France recognized the independence of Hawaii.

In 1843, Americans observed the first Thanksgiving Day set aside by national proclamation.

In 1919, the first woman to be seated in the British House of Commons, Lady Astor, was elected.

In 1942, President Franklin Roosevelt, Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill met at Tehran, Iran to map World War II strategy.

Ten years ago: Mobs of young demonstrators attacked the U.S., Belgian, British and Congolese embassies in Moscow to protest U.S. and Belgian intervention in the Congo.

Five years ago: West Germany's new government under Chancellor Willy Brandt took its first major foreign policy step by signing the nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

One year ago: Arab leaders ended a summit meeting in Algeria with an announcement of oil embargoes against Portugal, Rhodesia and South Africa.

A TIME OF THANKSGIVING—Snyder area residents could find many things to be thankful for on Thanksgiving Day, 1974, despite problems that often appeared to prevail on every hand. Among the bright spots is a West Texas sunrise on a clear, autumn morning. (Photo By Paul Gilbert)

Nation Pauses To Give Thanks Despite Inflation

By MIKE DUFFY
Associated Press Writer

Turkey dinners in which only the turkey is relatively untouched by inflation, parades to introduce Santa Claus, some of the nation's keenest rivalries in football and a high school reunion at the White House were some of the highlights for this year's Thanksgiving Day.

Turkey generally cost less this year than in 1973, making the main course for Thanksgiving dinners a rare bargain in this year of inflated food costs. The rest of the fixings on the table, including the stuffing and cranberries, were more expensive.

Football fans could savor two professional contests on afternoon television — Detroit vs. Denver and Dallas vs. Washington. Then, Pittsburgh and Penn State face each other in a nationally televised night game that leads off a weekend round of top collegiate football rivalries.

New York had a forecast of clear and cold weather for the 48th annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, with Santa Claus making his official entry into a city already several weeks into the commercial Christmas decoration scene. Other major Thanksgiving Day parades were scheduled in Philadelphia, Detroit, Hawaii and Toronto.

This year's annual Thanksgiving reunion for the members of the Grand Rapids South High School football team of 1930 was moved from Michigan to the White House in honor of team member Gerald "Junie" Ford. The "Junie" was for the junior in the name of the all-Michigan center who went on to become President of the United States.

In his Thanksgiving Day proclamation, Ford acknowledged that the nation faces some serious problems but said there is still cause to be thankful: "It is a time when the differences of a diverse people are forgotten and all Americans join in giving thanks to God for the blessings we share — the blessings of freedom, opportunity and abundance that make America so unique."

The jurors in the Watergate cover-up trial were to take advantage of the day off for a reunion with their families. The 12 jurors and five alternates have been sequestered for 42 days and will be accompanied by 17 U.S. marshals to make sure they don't discuss the case with relatives during their turkey dinner.

The National Safety Council estimated that Americans taking to the highways for Thanksgiving outings will cause between 525 and 625 deaths over the holiday weekend, compared to 542 last year.

Educators Will Seek More Money

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Board of Education is asking the 1975 legislature for more money for bilingual and driver training and for a law making it a crime to assault a teacher.

No price tag was placed on the recommendations, which were sent to the legislature and Gov. Dolph Briscoe, along with the board's previously released school finance plan.

Bilingual instruction is now available to first graders, but not to youngsters in the free public kindergarten program that began this year. The board asked the legislature to extend the program to kindergarten, requiring training for more bilingual teachers.

The board said driver training is under-funded, thus keeping it out of the reach of thousands of eligible high school pupils. School districts get $16.85 per pupil taking the course, with the money coming from federal funds and the Texas Traffic Safety Fund.

"It is doubtful that funding at this level would make it possible to reach the 210,000 or more newly eligible students each year ... Even with the present state and federal support, in the majority of the districts it is necessary for students to pay a laboratory fee, often as much as $45, thus preventing participation by many students—usually those from lower socioeconomic levels," the board said.

Also sought was a new law making it a crime to threaten or assault school teachers.

"In recent years the number of incidents of students threatening and-or attacking school employes has increased to such an extent that teachers in many schools are reluctant to enter school buildings alone," the board said.

The board requested increased state funds for the instruction, required by state law, on drugs and crime prevention.

The main need in this area, the board said, is more training for teachers. It also said the programs, now given in grades 5-12, should be expanded to include kindergarten through fourth grade.

Also included was a request to change the textbook adoption law so a variety of instructional materials—in addition to texts—can be used.

The board sought funds for a pilot program for not more than 100,000 pupils in which youngsters could attend school more than the required 180 days without paying tuition.

Under the new three-quarter system that starts next year, a pupil can attend school an additional quarter, but only if he or she pays tuition. Coupled with that recommendation was a request for authority to allow school calendar designs other than the quarter system.

BY TWO-VOTE MARGIN

Cambodia Keeps UN Seat

By GENE KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — By a two-vote margin, the United Nations General Assembly today staved off Chinese and Third World demands to oust the pro-American Lon Nol government of Cambodia from the United Nations.

The assembly voted 56-54 with 24 abstentions for a resolution aimed at conciliation between President Lon Nol's government in Phnom Penh and the rebel followers of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, whose exile regime is based in Peking.

In Cambodia, observers speculated that the war would continue for some time despite the U.N. resolution. The Phnom Penh government offered on July 9 to start unconditional negotiations, but the insurgents have not replied.

Lon Nol was said in Phnom Penh to be gratified by the vote but was withholding reaction until he read the resolution.

His prime minister, Long Boret, said at U.N. headquarters the vote was a victory that he hoped would entice the other side to talk. "If the other side now refuses to proceed to negotiate, it will no longer be just against us but also against the recommendation of the General Assembly," Long Boret told newsmen.

The assembly vote after midnight climaxed a tense nine-hour session. It approved a resolution calling on "all the powers which have been influencing the two parties to the conflict" in Cambodia to "use their good offices for conciliation between these two parties with a view to restoring peace."

It also asked U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim to "lend appropriate assistance to the two contending parties claiming lawful rights in Cambodia" and to report to the General Assembly in a year.

The resolution specified that the assembly would take no further action until after Waldheim's report.

The issue had split the Arab and African blocs, who when united often dominate the assembly. Some of them abstained or voted with Southeast Asian, European, South and North American countries — including the United States — who opposed seating Sihanouk's exile regime at the United Nations.

IN HI FI CASE

Judge Stays Executions

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Two men convicted in the murders of three ogden residents are to be shot at sunrise next Jan. 21, but a judge has permitted stays of execution to allow appeals.

Death sentences for Dale S. Pierre, 21, Brooklyn, N.Y., and William A. Andrews, 20, of Dallas, Tex., were formally pronounced Wednesday in a hushed courtroom.

Jurors assessed Pierre and Andrews the sentence last Wednesday on three counts of murder each for the killings at the Hi Fi shop here April 22.

Shortly after sentencing, Pierre and Andrews were put in unmarked cars to go to the Utah State Prison, where there has been no execution since 1960.

District Judge John Wahlquist gave the defendants two weeks to present information they thought the Board of Pardons should have.

Pierre, identified in the trial as the triggerman in the execution-style shootings, declined to make the decades-old Utah choice between death by hanging or a firing squad. He was sentenced first, and stood motionless with his right hand over his heart while Wahlquist ordered death by the firing squad and set the Jan. 21 date.

Andrews gazed at the ceiling and around him as he was sentenced. His lawyer said he would choose the firing squad, but under protest on the ground that the choice no longer is provided in Utah statutes.

Each man was sentenced on five counts, including two five-years-to-life concurrent terms for aggravated robbery and three for the murders of Sherry Michelle Ansley, 18; Mrs. Byron Naisbitt, 52, and Stanley Walker, 20.

A third defendant—Keith Leon Roberts, 20, of Lawton, Okla.—was sent to the prison Tuesday to begin serving two five-years-to-life concurrent terms for aggravated robbery.

The jury that convicted Andrews and Pierre Nov. 16 of murder and robbery was unable to reach a verdict on murder charges against Roberts.

All three defendants were airmen at Hill Air Force Base when armed men entered the Hi Fi Shop in Ogden the night of April 22. Three persons were forced to lie on the store's basement floor and shot to death.

Two others survived being shot. One of them—Orren Walker, Stanley Walker's father—testified at the trial that Pierre shot the victims in an apparent attempt to silence witnesses to the theft of stereo equipment.

Weather Smile On Texas Today

By The Associated Press

Skies were clear in most areas as the weather smiled on Texas for this Thanksgiving Day.

Forecasters warned, however, that some of the nastiest weather this season was on the way with a cold spell southbound from Colorado. They predicted it would bring rain in the Texas Panhandle tonight, changing to snow before morning, and rain in the eastern two-thirds of the state by Friday.

Travelers were advised to look for snow spreading through the South Plains during Friday and as far south as Midland by that night. The prediction called for snow to end on the South Plains by Saturday morning and rain tapering off in all but extreme East Texas and coastal areas by Saturday night.

It was still chilly in parts of the state this morning, and the mercury plunged to 18 above zero at Marfa in the West Texas mountains.

Santa Claus Is Due On Monday

Snyder area residents are preparing to turn their attention toward the Christmas season during the next 3½ weeks, as the month of November draws to a close.

The street decorations for the Yuletide season have been going up the past week and lighting is due to be switched on Friday, Chamber of Commerce spokesmen said.

Also, arrangements have been made for Santa Claus to make a visit to Snyder on Monday, Dec. 2. The old gentleman in the red and white suit is scheduled to arrive in the downtown business areas at around 4 p.m. Monday.

He will visit with youngsters for the remainder of the afternoon in various stores in the central business district.

Meanwhile, Snyder merchants reported that they had gone all out to provide great slections of Christmas gift merchandise during the remianing days between now and Christmas.

Old Santa Claus will forego the use of any special transportation facilities this year in the interest of safety. In years past, Santa has arrived here by helicopter, by fire enfine and by the traditional sleigh drawn by reindeer. In their eagerness to visit with Santa some youngsters have narrowly averted accidents around Santa's vehicles. So, this year, he will come to the square without fanfare, and visit around the stores.

WTC Sets Midwinter Sign-Up

Registration for a midwinter session at Western Texas College is scheduled Dec. 13-31 at the office of the registrar.

Classes will be held from Dec. 31 - Jan. 11, meeting from 8:30 - 11 a.m. and 2-4 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Students may earn three hours of college credit in the session, with a minimum of 10 students required to form each class. The minimum $25 tuition plus fees will be charged as for a three-hour course in the regular session.

It is important that students register as early as possible so that classes can be arranged, Dr. Duane Hood, Dean of Student Services and Registrar, said. The registrar's office is open from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. each week day except Friday when it closes at 4 p.m. Students may also register from 6-7:30 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays.

Courses tentatively scheduled for the mini-season are:

Business Law, Office Accounting, Principles of Accounting, Chemistry 123, English 131, English 132, English 233, History 132, Elementary Algebra 131, Algebra 132, College Trigonometry and Modern Mathematics.

Persons wishing additional information may contact the office of the registrar.

Kissinger Tours Temple

PEKING, China (AP) — As Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger toured the 15th century Temple of Heaven, U.S. and Chinese officials today began drafting a comunique on his latest stay in Peking.

The communique presumably will give a report on the status of U.S.-Chinese relations. Kissinger's talks have been conducted in almost total secrecy, so the statement will offer the first clues to how rapidly Washington-Pekino detente is developing.

The Chinese are said be looking for signs that Washington is reducing its commitment to the Nationalist government on Taiwan. They believe that would advance normalization of relations between Washington and Peking, as outlined in the 1972 Shanghai communique issued at the end of former President Richard M. Nixon's visit.

But Kissinger apparently is treading water on the Taiwan issue and pondering the question of eventual succession to Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung, who turns 81 next month.

While drafting the communique, the lower-level negotiators also continued negotiations on about $200 million worth of American assets frozen for a quarter of a century, since the Communist revolution.

Banti To Head Ethiopia

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Pres Writer

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopia's young military rulers chose a new head of government today: Brig. Gen. Teferi Banti, an ally of the former chairman who was shot to death six days earlier.

Banti succeeds Lt. Gen. Aman Michael Andom, who the government said today was killed by soldiers when they tried to arrest him. It was reported earlier that he was executed along with 59 other officers and former officials.

In Bern, the Swiss Foreign Office said today it has received reports that Emperor Haile Selassie, whom the Ethiopian soldiers deposed, has authorized return of his funds from Swiss banks.

Estimates of the former king's wealth range from $100 million to $15 billion, but Swiss bankers say the estimates are "legendary."

Ethiopia's provisional military administrative council announced through the official Ethiopian News Agency that Gen. Banti, 2nd Army Division commander, was sworn in at the Grand Palace.

He was elected by a majority vote of the anonymous 120-man ruling committee of officers. Reliable sources said several other figures, including at least one civilian, had been in the running.

Banti, 53, was expected to act as head of state but to exercise only minimal authority. Aman's attempt to obtain more than a figurehead role led to his dismissal and death when he refused to be arrested at his home.

Banti is the fifth head of government since the Ethiopian military began its slow-motion revolution early this year with the declared aim of modernizing the feudal society.

Radio Ethiopia declared, meanwhile, that complete peace and tranquility prevailed in the country.

The broadcast repeated previous assertions that the people of Ethiopia will determine the fate of Selassie, held at the military headquarters in the Grand Palace. The military council denied reports that it is preparing to execute the emperor.

Heart Patient Doing Well

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Ivan Taylor, the world's first person with two hearts, has an excellent appetite and is in "most satisfactory" condition, Groote Schuur Hospital said today.

The latest medical bulletin on the 58-year-old engineer, who received the heart of a 10-year-old girl on Monday, said his cardiac condition is excellent. Earlier bulletins reported that a minor stroke during the operation weakened the patient's left side, and today's said he is "still weak on the left side, but this should recover."

As earlier bulletins, today's report did not mention Taylor by name because of South African law forbidding identification within the country of a heart recipient without written consent from the patient or his family. A Groote Schuur source revealed his identity, however.

Taylor is a resident of Langebaan in the Saldanha Bay area near Cape Town. The hospital sources said he is married.

To help his diseased heart function, Taylor received the heart of Jennifer Schrikker in a five-hour operation by heart transplant pioneer Dr. Christiaan Barnard. The child was killed in an auto accident on Sunday.

Security Tight For Tom Jones

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Scores of heavily armed policemen, about 50 newsmen and cameramen and four middle-aged women greeted Welsh-born pop singer Tom Jones late Wednesday.

This occurred after the city government ruled his singing was too expensive, which meant that he may not be able to perform after all.

Mexico City police posted a strong police detachment at the city's international airport because of published reports that thousands of teeny-bopers planned to turn out to welcome Jones.

Newsmen reported no teenage girls were around when Jones deplaned. They saw only four matronly-looking women there to get autographs from the singer.

Jones had no comment on the city ruling threatening his deput later in the week.

The city said the $80 price announced by the club where Jones was scheduled to open was too steep and a $40 admission fee would be acceptable.

Germans Favor Pardoning Hess

ALLENSBACH, West Germany (AP) — A survey by Allensbach Institute shows 69 per cent of West Germans asked favor the pardoning of former high-raking Nazi Rudolf Hess.

Hess, who was chief of the Nazi party organization under Adolf Hitler, has been in prison since he parachuted into England in 1941 in a self-styled peace mission.

He is the last Nazi to be held in Spandau Prison.

The Institute said 1,000 persons were surveyed and the majority favoring Hess's freedom said it would be a humane act. The Soviet Union has rejected such suggestions from the World War II allies.

'JR' Finds Home With Debolts

PIEDMONT, Calif. (AP) — Ten-year-old John Robert DeBolt, blind and partly paralyzed, had much to be thankful for today — a new home, two loving adoptive parents, and 16 brothers and sisters.

He flew here Tuesday from New York with his new parents, Robert and Dorothy DeBolt, who have adopted or become legal guardians to 10 of their 17 children.

"He's a fantastic boy who has the same unbelievable spirit of the other children," said Mrs. DeBolt.

The DeBolts first became aware of "JR" when a nurse at a New York hospital wrote asking them to find parents for him. When they failed in this, they adopted him themselves.

"She explained that he's always wanted to be adopted and he's never had a family of his own," Mrs. DeBolt said. "We couldn't locate a family for him because multiple handicaps are frightening to many people.

"But we've had so much experience with paraplegic kids and with kids, so we thought, 'Hey, this special kid should be a DeBolt.'"

The DeBolts have been accepting handicapped children since 1957 — blacks, whites, Koreans and Vietnamese. Youngsters, ranging in age from 6 through the teens, who have been crippled by birth defects, battered by abusive parents or scarred by war.

"They all have an unbelievable spirit," said Mrs. DeBolt. "They're not thinking about being paralyzed or blind. They're determined to do everything they can with what they have."

The DeBolts have set up a nonprofit foundation — Aid to the Adoption of Special Kids — to help people adopt handicapped children.

It began when Robert, a divorcee with a 9-year-old daughter, married widow Dorothy Atwood in 1970. Mrs. DeBolt brought seven children, two of them adopted, to the family.

"We said then that we were going to open our hearts at home to all who would enter," she recalled. "I don't think we realized then that so many would be knocking on our door when we said that.

"But so many people send us letters telling us about children and asking us to find parents for them. We look at the kid and say to ourselves, "Gee, wouldn't he make a great addition to our family?'"

SHS Grad Heads TCU Department

Dr. Kenneth T. Lawerence, assistant professor of religion, has been named chairman of the department of religion at Texas Christian University, a position he will assume at the opening of the spring semester.

"We are pleased to have a person of Dr. Lawrence's ability, youth and enthusiasm giving leadership to a program which has recently undergone a major curriculum revision. We anticipate many more good things in the future," said Dr. Thomas B. Brewer, vice chancellor and dean of the University in announcing the three-year appointment.

Dr. William L. Reed, noted Biblical scholar who has chaired the department since 1968, resigned the post to devote more time to teaching when he returns from a spring research leave. Dr. Reed accepted the endowed John F. Weatherly Professorship of New Testament earlier this year.

Dr. Lawrence who directed a TCU study tour of Rome and Florence to explore religion in art and architecture this summer, earned the Bachelor of Music Education and the Bachelor of Divinity degrees at TCU. He received the Ph.D. degree from Boston University in 1970.

Moroney Is Board Chairman

DALLAS (AP) — James M. Moroney Jr. became chairman of the board of Belo Broadcasting Corp. as the firm's directors approved creation of the new position Wednesday.

Moroney formerly was president of the company and will continue as its chief executive officer.

Mike Shapiro, formerly executive vice president, will be president and continue as the firm's chief operating officer.

Shaprio announced other changes effective Jan. 1:

Ward L. Huey Jr., vice president and general manager of WFAA-TV in Dallas, will move to vice president and general manager of Belo Broadcasting. Huey also will be on the board of directors.

David T. Lane, vice president and station manager of KFDM-TV in Beaumont will become vice president and station manager of WFAA-TV.

Directors elected Terrence S. Ford as a Vice president and promoted him to station manager of KFDM-TV. He is now general sales manager for WFAA-TV.

Paternity Suit Is Dismissed

NEW YORK (AP) — A paternity suit against Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., has been dismissed, according to his lawyer.

Morton Levine, the congressman's lawyer, said Wednesday the ruling had been issued by Domestic Relations Court Judge Nanette Dembitz.

Bunnye Hearne, 30, who worked for Biaggi's campaign for the democratic nomination for New York mayor last year, said the congressman fathered her daughter, Jessica, born last January.

Levine said medical testimony and evidence of Biaggi's whereabouts at the estimated time of conception proved he was not the father.

Case Before Jury Tuesday

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Tomie Lee Case, charged in a Padre Island slaying and kidnaping, will appear before a Kleburg County grand jury next Tuesday, prosecutors say.

Justice of the Peace Keith Bray set bond at $175,000 during arraignment Wednesday.

Case, 35, is charged in the Nov. 17 killing of Tom Turner, 19, of Dallas and the abduction of Turner's girlfriend, Frances Gardner, 18, of Dallas.

Miss Gardner, Turner and two companions had camped on Padre Island near Corpus Christie.

Investigators said Miss Gardner identified Case as the man who ordered the campers from their tent, shot Turner and forced her to accompany him. She was released the next day near Dallas.

Louisiana officers arrested Case last Friday at Bossier City, where he formerly worked in the oilfields He was charged in Louisiana with car theft and forgery. Texas charges included murder, kidnaping and aggravated robbery.

Actress Claims She's An Individual First

By WAKA TSUNODA

NEW YORK (AP) — A star, a woman, a mother, a wife and the author of a children's book. Susannah York is all of these and none of these.

"I'm first and foremost me," she proclaimed. "Every human being is first and foremost he, or she, and that is the most important thing about anybody. I don't want any labels stuck on me. I don't want people making an easy assumption about me, because the most important thing is the person. The individuality."

The blonde British actress with the throaty voice was here on a promotional tour for her latest film, "Gold," a drama set against South African gold mines.

"Like when I did 'The Killing of Sister George,'" Miss York went on, warming up to the subject. "It was exploited as a film about lesbians. But first and foremost, it was a film about a tired marriage, and the marriage happened to be between two women.

"For instance, 'Childie,' whom I played ... It's not that 'Childie' was a lesbian, but she was 'Childie.' And one of many things 'Childie' was happened to be a lesbian. First, it's her. The person."

Well, then, what kind of a person is Miss York? A very successful, busy, happy and fulfilled one, thank you. "I've been incredibly lucky," she declared.

Careerwise, it has been smooth sailing ever since she left the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. Making her film debut in "Tunes of Glory" as Alec Guinness' daughter, she has appeared in such well-known films as "Tom Jones," "A Man for All Seasons," "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" "The Killing of Sister George," "Sebastian," "Duffy," "Country Dance" and "X,Y and Zee." Her co-stars range from Michael Caine, Peter O'Toole and Dirk Bogarde to Roger Moore. In a few months, she'll start filming "Conduct Unbecoming" in London with Michael York.

"I've had marvelous parts," she said, explaining she has won all of these parts without begging or resorting to politics.

"I'm very proud," she said. "I wouldn't dream of bowing or kowtowing to get parts. Anyway, I've had a good agent and have never had to push. I've proved myself enough now."

Miss York is also having a very serene private life. In her teens she married Michael Wells, a former actor who now writes plays, and she is still happily married to him.

"We live in a big, strange, lovely house an hour out of London in the country. It's Victorian Gothic and was built in 1850," she said. "We've put much work into it. I'm a great painter and plasterer."

There, when she is not working, she cooks, looks after their daughter, Sasha, 2, and Orlando, 1, and writes children's stories. Her first book, "In Search of Unicorns," was recently published.

B&PW Meet Tuesday Night

Ethel Mae Sturdivant was hostess and Mrs. Sterling Taylor was program chairman for the Thanksgiving dinner meeting of the B&PW Club. Mrs. Florence Leftwich quoted the "Women's Collect" after the members and guest were seated.

Mrs. Lester Victor reported to the group from the Martha Ann's Board of Directors concerning the Tour of Homes and the Christmas Bazaar on December 6.

Mrs. Kathy Cawley, consumer specialist from the Lone Star Gas Company in Abilene, presented a discussion entitled, "Christmas Is..."

Frances Brown made the club's appreciation token to Mrs. Cawley and Florence Leftwich quoted poetry as a tribute.

Guests were Mmes. Clarence Payee, J.N. Dennis and Ted Young.

Mrs. Faye McCollum and Gladys Spikes will have the Club's Christmas party on December 10.

Members were urged to invite and sell tickets to the Sandwich Supper.

Secret Service Agents Keeping Eye On Albert

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Day after day since the evening of Aug. 8, a team of neatly dressed Secret Service agents has been following Carl Albert as he moves through the routine of the Speaker of the House.

From his apartment in a high-rise complex in Arlington, Va., to his suite in the Rayburn House Office Building. From the Rayburn building to his offices on the second floor of the Capitol. From the Capitol offices down one floor in the elevator, through the revolving doors, to the waiting limousine. From the limousine to, perhaps, a reception or some other Capitol Hill social function and, eventually, back across the Potomac River to his home. The agents are constantly in his shadow.

One of these days — the day the nation has a new vice president — the agents won't be there anymore. Carl Bert Albert will no longer be one heartbeat away from the presidency.

As Speaker of the House, Albert has been first in line for the presidency since Richard M. Nixon left the White House and Gerald F. Ford entered it, just as he was during the 58 days between Spiro Agnew's resignation and Ford's swearing in as vice president.

With Ford out of the country, as he was for one week on his Far East journey and for a one-day trip to Mexico, Albert has been the top official in the United States.

The unique position, which he describes as "one of the spare tires of the presidency," is a bit easier now than it was one year ago.

That burden last year was increased because the President's own hold on the office was becoming tenuous.

"I realized that if I did anything that gave any impression that I was trying, through the impeachment process and the resignation process to veto an election, it would cause a major and perhaps permanent division in this country," Albert said in a speech at Oklahoma State University.

"I have had no problem with my conscience and I have come through the experience feeling that I could have done no better," he said.

Sitting at his desk, Albert discussed his new, but temporary, job as President Ford's understudy.

"I don't feel like some shadow of gloom is hanging over me," said the man known as the "little giant" in the House because of his 5-foot-4 stature. "The chances of Jerry Ford, who's a terribly athletic man, of anything happening to him are very slim. So, I've got mathematics on my side."

But maybe, Albert thinks, he should never have been in this position. Maybe the Congress, in writing the 25th Amendment to the Constitution, should have provided for an election of a new vice president, rather than the appointment and confirmation of a presidential nominee. Meanwhile, Albert has waited, next in line, with the president pro tem of the Senate, James O. Eastland, D-Miss., right behind him.

"It might have been a good thing when they enacted the 25th Amendment if they had thought to have an election at a reasonable length of time if you were a long way from an election," Albert said.

Should the odds fail him, Albert admits he has a few ideas about what he would do as president; as a Democrat inheriting a Republican administration; as a chief executive who, for the second time in a row, had not been elected to the position by the people.

"I have my own ideas but I would rather not speculate on that. I would rather not talk out loud about that because it might cause me and others some problems," he said.

Albert, a member of the freshman congressional class that included John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon, professes no desire to move to 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

He was born in a miner's shack in McAlester, Okla., and was raised in the town of Bugtussle.

Austrians Find Tests Hard

By WERNER VOLLMANN
Associated Press Writer

VIENNA (AP) — It's tough and expensive to get a driver's license in Austria.

Last year nearly 132,000 persons received their pink-colored driver's license but 57,000, or 44 per cent, failed to pass the test on the first run. They had to come back for a second time, some of them even a third time.

As the failure rate ranged from a high 55 per cent in the province of Styria to a considerably lower 23 per cent in Carinthia, minister of traffic and transport Erwin Lanc ordered an investigation.

He said he could not believe that the traffic situation could be so different in the provinces. He suggested written tests instead of the direct confrontation between traffic officers and applicants under the present system. Most applicants stumble on theoretical questions.

People who passed the driver's tests also admitted they became nervous when facing traffic officers to explain such things as traffic laws and engine functioning. Some even claimed the traffic officers liked to make applicants nervous, and to catch them off guard with tricky questions.

Although it is possible to get a learner's permit in Austria just as in other countries, hardly anyone bothers to get one, as too much red tape is involved. Instead, learners go to driving schools.

Some 1.6 million private cars are licensed in Austria. The saturation point is expected to be reached in about ten years and driving schools are still booming.

An applicant must count on spending a minimum of 3,000 Schillings ($162) before getting his driver's license. The average monthly wage is 5,500 Schillings ($297).

Driving schools on the average charge 1,200 Schillings ($64) for 40 hours of theoretical lessons and for fees for paper work. One hour in the driving school car with an instructor costs an additional 130 Schillings ($7).

Applicants who have had some experience such as driving their father's car may be able to get by with ten hours. Others may need as much as 40 hours before getting the nod of the driving school for taking the test.

However, Austrians, who otherwise have a reputation of being courteous people, seem to forget this once they have a driver's license and a car. Speeding seems an obsession for Austrians.

While insurance companies in other countries try to tell their clients to "take it easy" and that "speed kills," a top man of the Insurance Branch here in a television interview said he did not care for speed limits. "I have a quick car and I like to drive fast," he said.

Junior Editors' Quiz on YEWS

QUESTION: What is a yew?

ANSWER: The yew is a handsome everygreen tree or shrub with dark green needles and red berry-like fruits. It belongs to the genus taxus and is somewhat similar to hemlock. It is a slow-growing and a long-lived tree. Some specimens in England are estimated to be over 1200 years old.

Since antiquity, the yew has been associated with death and funeral rites. Before gunpowder took the place of bows and arrows, the strong and elastic wood of the yew was in great demand in England for the making of bows. The wood is highly valued for cabinet making because of its fine grain and hardness.

Yews are prized for foundation planting around the home because of their slow growth. They may be clipped into various shapes if desired. They are often trimmed into hedges as a dividing line between properties. Most species are poisonous, especially to horses and cattle.

Short-Term Rotation In Grazing Paying Off

Several ranchers in the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District are beginning to manage their ranges a little differently than in the past—and it is paying off good returns.

Dick Hagelstein, Soil Conservation Service Range Conservationist on the Snyder Field Office staff says the short duration-rotational grazing system is "catching the eye" of many ranchers.

Hagelstein, who assists the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District in Scurry and Borden counties, said the system offers advantages that continous grazing does not.

One is increased forage production and quality. In the rotation, livestock are confined to only one pasture at a time.

Because they are concentrated in this one pasture, they are forced to utilize all grass species—not just the ones they like to eat.

Hagelstein said after about half of the grasses are grazed, livestock are moved to the next pasture. This allows the grazed pasture six to nine months of rest before grazing begins again.

"This in effect," he said, "increases the population of the most desirable grasses because now, these good grasses have the opportunity to seed out and reproduce themselves."

He said that under continuous grazing, reproduction would be constantly grazed down. These REST PERIODS allow each pasture to give desirable grasses a chance to compete more favorably with the less desirable species.

This same rest period also keeps the most palatable young grass plants from being grazed off before they can establish themselves.

"In short," he said, "this type of management each year allows the range to improve—simply by giving the better grasses a chance to reproduce and establish themselves."

Hagelstein said that confining livestock to one part of the ranch at a time makes it much easier to locate, work and keep records of stock. In addition, brush control and seeding can be scheduled to fit into the system - allowing several pastures for grazing while deferring the newly seeded pastures until the grass becomes established.

"Also, in many cases," he said, "problem areas such as bare spots and old trails are given the chance to re-vegetate when this proven method of range management is practiced."

Another benefit of the system is flexibility under drought conditions as the rancher will have several pastures where he can go with his livestock.

"This is in contrast to the rancher who practices continuous grazing and has no place to go with his livestock where the drought hits."

He said that the drought during the summer months of the year proved this point effectively.

During the summer when many had to sell from being out of grazing, some ranchers were able to hold on to their stock because they had grazing available, he said.

"This isn't to say that this type of range management is a 'cure-all' for all ranching problems, but it will help ease the stress periods of a drought and could mean the difference between financial failure and success."

Winter Texans Welcomed

WESLACO, Tex. (AP) — Colorful billboards just north of the Lower Rio Grande Valley proclaim, "Welcome home winter Texans—Valley folks are glad you're here."

When one looks at statistics from the Valley Chamber of Commerce, it's easy to determine why the valley is glad to greet persons who choose to spend at least part of the winter in the semi-tropical valley.

The chamber estimates that 1,278,000 persons, "winter Texans" they're now being called, visited the Valley last year. The chamber estimates each person stayed an average of six weeks and spent an average of $15.92 per day. That's $668.64 per person, a whopping contribution to the Valley's economy.

The billboards were erected by the chamber and a "winter Texan" committee was formed to make the tourists more welcome. Someone apparently believes the term "winter Texan" sounds better than "snow bird" or even "winter visitor," the old terms.

C. L. "Smokey" Boyle has been named to head the "winter Texan" committee. Boyle said the project has two purposes.

"The first is to make them feel welcome and that they are part of the communities in which they spend their winters. The second is to make local people aware of what these folks really mean to the economy and to encourage a friendly, helpful attitude toward them," Boyle said.

In addition to the billboards, window cards and decals that say, "We Like Winter Texans," are being distributed.

There are predictions that more persons will spend at least a part of the winter in the Valley this year because more gasoline is available now than in the winter of 1973 and because of predictions of a colder winter this year.

Redd Foxx Gives Money For Pool

TAFT, Okla. (AP) — Television star Redd Foxx turned over $10,000 to this tiny eastern Oklahoma community for a start on a swimming pool so the chilren "won't have to go 10 or 12 miles to go swimming in the summer."

Foxx, star of "Sanford and Son," came to this predominantly black community recently. An estimated 500 persons — probably more than the population of Taft — jammed the Taft elementary school auditorium for the ceremony.

It was Foxx's second trip to Taft. Last summer he was named chief of police of Taft.

Asked why he picked Taft to help, he told newsmen, "Taft selected me."

And the townspeople said they will ask the state legislature to change Taft's name to "Redd Foxxville, Okla."

Scrimshawing Is Back In Lahaina

MAUI, Hawaii (AP) — The old art of scrimshawing is coming back to Lahaina, once one of the leading whaling ports of the Pacific.

In the early 1800s as many as 100 to 200 whaling vessels would anchor off shore during the winter. The whalers, when they weren't ashore carousing, could be found finishing the scrimshaw work they started when at sea. Scrimshawing is recognized as an original folk art developed by whalers during their long voyages. They used the teeth and jawbones of the sperm whale for their carvings. The sperm is the only whale with teeth. The whalers also employed the black fibrous whalebone from the mouths of toothless whales.

A good-size sperm whale has about 42 teeth.

Dallas Win Could Keep Playoff Hopes Alive

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

"Every time the Redskins and Cowboys play each other, it's a championship game," says Washington Coach George Allen, whose club was in a position today to do something about moving into official National Football League title competiton.

The Redskins were at Dallas and a victory would assure them of a playoff berth at least as a wild-card team. A victory also would make their record 9-3 and put pressure on the St. Louis Cardinals, who currently lead the National Conference Eastern Division with a 9-2 record.

Dallas, 6-5 and a 28-21 loser to bitter-rival Washington Nov. 17, must win to keep alive its hopes for a wild-card.

Duane Thomas was to start for Washington at one running back slot in place of injured Larry Brown; while Dallas was expected to play Robert Newhouse in place of Calvin Hill, who has a toe injury.

Quarterback Greg Landy was on the spot in Detroit, where he was to replace Bill Munson, out for the year with a shoulder separation as the Lions, 6-5 and a game back of Minnesota in the NFC Central, met Denver, 5-5-1.

In key games this Sunday, Pittsburgh, 8-2-1, entertains Houston, 5-6; St. Louis, 9-2, plays host to Kansas City, 4-7; Buffalo, 8-3, is at home against Baltimore, 2-9; New Orleans, 4-7, is at Minnesota, 7-4; and Green Bay, 6-5, is at Philadelphia, 4-7. Cincinnati, 7-4, is at Miami, 8-3, Monday night.

Elsewhere Sunday, New England, 7-4, is at Oakland; Los Angeles, 8-3, is at Atlanta; San Diego, 3-8, is at the New York Jets, 4-7; the New York Giants, 2-9, play at Chicago, 3-8; and San Francisco, 4-7, is at Cleveland, 3-8.

Terry Bradshaw is set to start at quarterback as Pittsburgh tries to clinch the American Conference Central with a victory over Houston, which had a four-game winning streak snapped last Sunday by Dallas.

St. Louis will again look to the passing of Jim Hart and the placekicking of Jim Bakken in search of its 10th victory. Kansas City's offense has sputtered all season.

Buffalo, led by O.J. Simpson, hopes to run over struggling Baltimore in an effort to apply pressure to Miami, which is tied for first place with the Bills in the AFC Eastern Division.

Minnesota will be trying to snap a two-game losing streak at the expense of New Orleans, which has been having offensive problems much of the season, and hold on to its NFC Central lead.

Green Bay, currently tied with Detroit, will be looking for its fourth straight victory since John Hadl became starting quarterback. Philadelphia has lost six straight.

Miami, bidding for a third straight Super Bowl victory, will be counting on Bob Griese quarterbacking against a tough Cincinnati defense and hoping its own defense can stop the pinpoint passing of the Bengals' Ken Anderson. Even if Pittsburgh wins, the game would be important to Cincinnati's playoff hopes as a wild-card team.

Pitt-Lion Clash Kicks Off Big Grid Weekend

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Established Penn State meets emerging Pitt tonight on national television, and Nittany Lions' safety Jim Bradley says he's pleased the Pitt Panthers aren't patsies anymore.

Although Pitt led 13-3 at halftime last season, Penn State went on to a 35-13 triumph. That's the closest Pitt has come in eight straight losses to Penn State.

"I like these big games much better," said Bradley. "They're more fun that the ones which get out of hand in a hurry. I'll get to play in only so many big games in my life, and this is the biggest one I've played since I've been here."

Penn State is ranked 10th and bound for the Cotton Bowl, while 18th-ranked Pitt was snubbed by the bowls. Yet a Pitt victory would leave both teams with 8-3 records.

The game kicks off a big Thanksgiving weekend of college football action in which seven of the nation's top ten teams will compete, countless other traditional rivalries will be renewed and television audiences will have a chance to watch five of the top games.

The Penn State-Pitt series is deadlocked at 35-35-3 over-all, and the intra-state rivalry will be fueled by friendships across the line of scrimmage.

For example, Bradley once played on a high school all-star team with Pitt quarterback Billy Daniels, who'll miss the game after undergoing knee surgery.

Daniels, hurt in Pitt's 14-10 loss to Notre Dame two weeks ago, will be replaced by senior Bob Medwid, who played well in the second-half with Notre Dame.

Friday, the Southeastern and Southwest Conference championships will be decided in a pair of nationally televised clashes.

Eighth-ranked Texas A&M, 8-2, can clinch at least a tie for the Southwest crown and a berth in the Cotton Bowl against Penn State by beating No. 17 Texas, 7-3.

The offensive might of second-ranked, Orange Bowl-bound Alabama, 10-0, goes up against the defensive strength of seventh-ranked Auburn, 9-1, which is headed for the Gator Bowl. The winner will become Southeastern Conference champion.

One team not headed for any bowl action is top-ranked Oklahoma, 10-0, ineligible because of NCAA probation. So the Sooners will get their last chance to prove they deserve to be national champions on Saturday against traditional rival Oklahoma State.

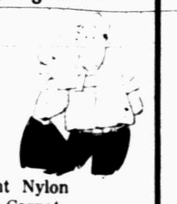

In Saturday's nationally televised doubleheader, Army will meet Navy at Philadelphia in the traditional service clash, then No. 5 Notre Dame, 9-1, visits No. 6 Southern California, 8-1-1.

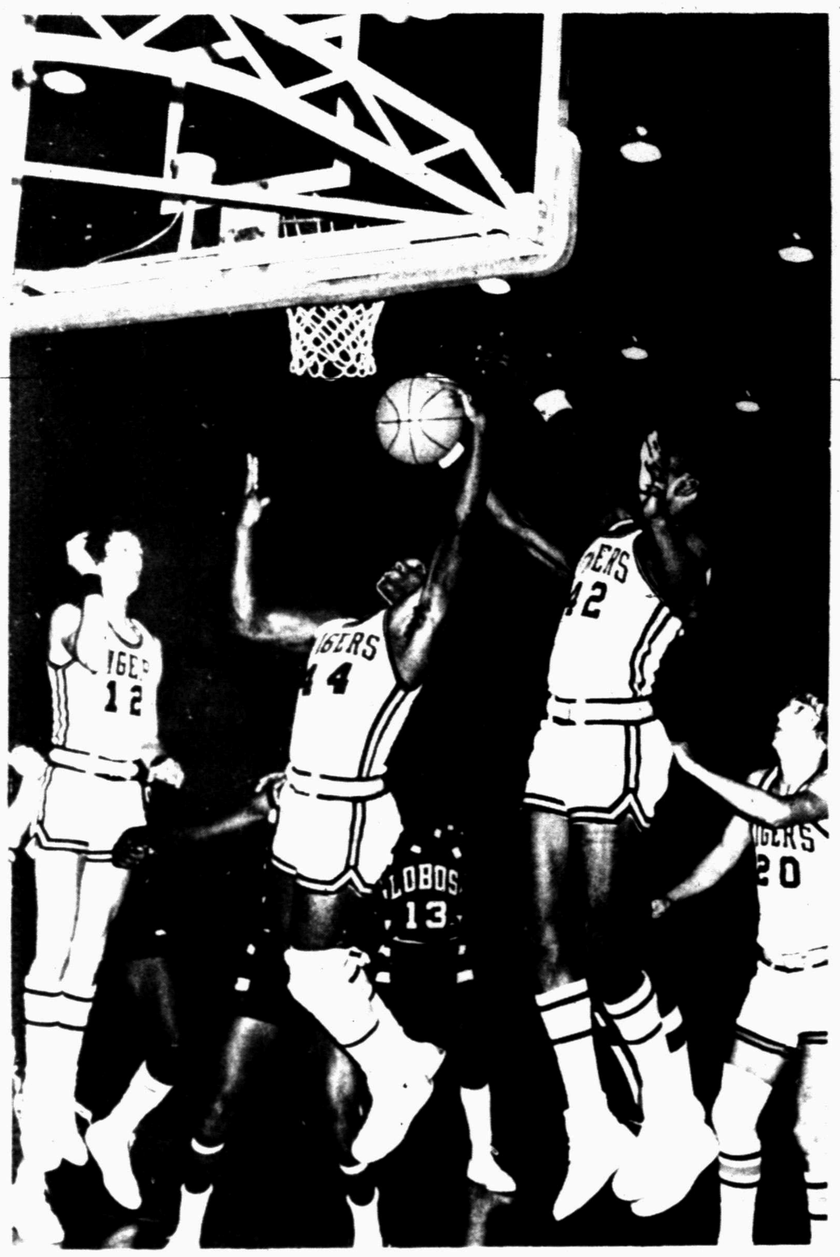

No. 16 Baylor, which can win the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl berth should Texas A&M lose to Texas, entertains Rice Saturday. No. 15 Houston is the only other ranked team to play this weekend, traveling to Tulsa Saturday.

In some other traditional rivalries Saturday, Miami, Fla. visits Florida, Georgia Tech is at Georgia, Tennessee plays at Vanderbilt and Arizona State is at Arizona.

In NCAA College Division playoffs, it's Western Carolina at Louisiana Tech, Boise State at Central Michigan, Alcorn at Nevada-Las Vegas, Youngstown at Delaware, Central Iowa at Evansville and Slippery Rock at Ithaca.

Arizona captured Western Athletic Conference crowns in baseball and tennis in 1974.

Ags, Horns Ready For Big Game

HOUSTON (AP) — Under different circumstances, Texas Coach Darrell Royal would like to be a spectator for Friday's Southwest Conference showdown against the eighth ranked Texas Aggies.

"It should be an interesting matchup ... our offense against their defense," Royal said Wednesday during a Houston Touchdown Club news conference. "I wish I wasn't so involved in the game. I'd like to buy a ticket and sit back and enjoy it."

The only enjoyment Royal will have, however, will be in a victory over the Aggies in the annual grudge match in Austin before a national television audience.

It's an unusual arrangement for the Longhorns, who normally are headed for the Cotton Bowl by the time they meet the Aggies.

But this year the Baylor Bears and Aggies have broken the Longhorns' seven year hold on the SWC title.

But that hasn't diminished the excitement of the game for Royal and his Longhorns.

"If they can't get excited about a capacity crowd, a national television audience, and a rivalry like this, then they can't get excited. I can't tell a bit of difference in the excitement than if we were playing for the national championship."

A&M Coach Emory Bellard, who coached under Royal at Texas and helped install UT's wishbone offense, won't be thinking friendly Friday afternoon.

"I consider them (Royal and Texas assistants) good friends, but this isn't a friendly rivalry," Bellard said. "I don't even consider that aspect. I want to win because of the stakes."

Bellard praised Texas' offense. "They change the routine plays into big yardage plays," he said. "(Quarterback) Marty (Akins) is a master at running the option. There's not a finer running quarterback in the country. He's big, strong and very talented."

BirminghamNipsHawaii, Wins World Bowl Trip

By HOYT HARWELL
Associated Press Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Receiver Alfred Jenkins got an award, quarterback Matthew Reed got the game ball, runner Joe Profit got the yards, Coach Jack Gotta got "my best Thanksgiving ever," and the Birmingham Americans got into the first World Bowl with a 22-19 victory over Hawaii.

"Our goal all along has to be in the World Bowl, and now we're going," Gotta said after his Americans won their 12th game at home without a loss in the semifinals of the World Football League's playoff Wednesday night.

Memphis and Florida play the other semifinal game Friday night. If Memphis wins, the World Bowl will be played here Dec. 5; if Jacksonville wins, it will be at Birmingham.

"All the problems we've had seem to be forgotten when we're practicing or playing," Gotta said, referring to tax liens and debts that have piled on the Americans despite the best home attendance in the league.

In fact, federal, state, county and city tax authorities had to give special permission for the game to be played.

Attendance was announced at 15,379. The Americans had averaged 37,226 in their 11 previous games, but the turnout dropped sharply after the first seven contests.

Jenkins set up Birmingham's first touchdown with a running catch of a short punt and, after receiving the team's most valuable player trophy for the season at halftime, caught a 32-yard scoring pass from Reed to put Birmingham ahead for keeps.

"We gave the game ball to Reed and I really thought he deserved it," Gotta said. "He came in during the second half and really did a great job."

Reed hit on five of nine passes for 79 yards, and scored Birmingham's final touchdown on a three-yard keeper.

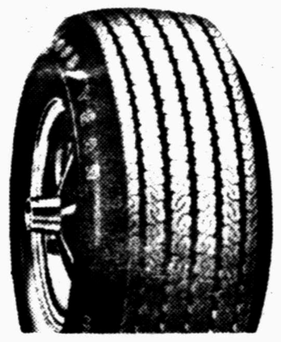

Profit rambled 147 yards on 20 carries, a club record, as the Americans rolled up 308 yards on the ground.

Hawaii went ahead 11-7 on a field goal by R. A. Coppedge and a one-yard run by Randy Johnson. After Birmingham went ahead 22-11, Johnson hit Vin Clements on a 17-yard scoring toss to put the Hawaiians within three points.

But Reed directed a time-killing drive that kept the ball away from Hawaii the rest of the game.

Parents Losing Children To Sect Despite Battle

EDITOR'S NOTE — Even after he was "deprogrammed," the Neves felt they were losing their son, and they were right. Derek soon returned to his commune, and to his devotion to the Children of God. "Forget about me," he had said. But his parents couldn't.

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

BETHEL, Conn. (AP) — A week after Derek Neve abruptly joined a secretive religious sect called the Children of God, his worried parents were startled by the suggestion of a senior Canadian police officer: "If I were you, I'd knock him on the head, bundle him in your car and take him home."

Three years later they did just that. But even that didn't work.

In the intervening years Brenda and David Neve said they used tears, angry words and hours of patient argument to change their son's mind.

They flew in an evangelical preacher from Texas to reason with him. They brought in a Roman Catholic priest who specialized in exorcism.

They said they finally decided to kidnap Derek, and to hand him over to a team of professional "deprogrammers" flown in from San Diego, Calif., to do overnight what they had failed to do in four years.

"It was a cold, calculating thing I was doing. I was going 100 per cent against what I always thought was right. And it was probably illegal," said the father, David C. Neve, general manager of an electronics company with a factory here.

His 25-year-old son was furious. "You've gone too far this time, Dad," his father quoted him as saying after the first few hours of captivity. Ten days later Derek was back with the Children of God, his parents' expenditure of heavy emotional stress — and $2,600 — all in vain.

The frustration that pushed the Neves toward direct action has gripped thousands of other parents in America. Their sons and daughters have helped swell the ranks of the proliferating religious sects spawned by the hippie and Jesus movements of the 1960s.

Some parents have resigned themselves to the aberrant way of life of the youngsters.

Others fight back. The most visible battle is against the Children of God, with more than 100 communes in North America and Europe. It is a fundamentalist sect which applies a sexual as well as a spiritual interpretation to the Bible.

According to a recent report by the New York attorney general's office, the sect has changed "from a religious hippie-oriented group to a cult subservient to the whims and desires of its leaders."

The report outlined what it called "shocking testimony of sexual abuse, rape, brainwashing, solitary confinement of recalcitrant proselytes and demands that children kill their parents."

But the report said the attorney general could take no direct action because the Children of God has an "outwardly religious appearance" giving it First Amendment protection.

A leader at the sect's Dallas headquarters, Cornelius Copp, charged that the attorney general's report relied "on false witnesses to vilify us" and resulted from religious intolerance.

"The accounts contained in the report of incest, rape, sexual promiscuity and cultish behaviour, while sensational and lurid, are simply false. We deny them," Copp said.

The Neves had never heard of the Children of God when the phone rang at 2 one morning at 1971. It was Derek, their eldest son.

They said he calmly told them: "I have called to say goodby, you will never see me again. We are going underground because God will destroy America."

When his parents tried to remonstrate, to seek an explanation, they said Derek slammed the phone down.

That was the first of a series of shocks. And the Neves were ill-prepared. They had raised three children in the Canadian arctic where Neve worked as a government administrator after migrating from England in 1957.

Derek went to grade school in places like Great Whale, Yellowknife and Annlavik, remote settlements at the edge of the Arctic Ocean where he was one of a handful of white kids among scores of Eskimos and Indians.

"He was a big, goodlooking boy and a born leader," said his mother. "He loved dogsledding and the everyday tests of endurance required when you spend a lot of your life in below zero weather."

The Neves said they were brought together as a family not only by the elements but also by their faith in God. They were members of the theologically conservative Christian Missionary Alliance that has 1,000 churches in the U.S. and emphasizes missionary work in undeveloped areas such as Indochina and Africa.

"We prayed together and he believed in high moral principles," said the elder Neve. Derek had wanted to be a minister and was ending his second year at the Canadian Bible College at Regina, with a year to go for his doctorate of divinity, when he had his fateful meeting with the Children of God.

The Neves had moved to Connecticut by then. The shock of their son's phone call was not tempered by a letter a few days later explaining: "I am as sure of it as anything I have done. It is radical but so was Jesus. We are selling out to God. We are the underground church of America."

Neve said he decided that his son had become involved with something evil, "I wouldn't say he was possessed by a demon. Oppressed by a demon is more like it."

The parents said they thought their son was undergoing a Jekyll and Hyde transformation. "He had been a trim 6-foot-3, with neatly clipped dark hair when he entered the Children of God. But since then we have seen him always in dirty, tattered clothes, bearded and with unkempt scraggly hair," Mrs. Neve said.

And they felt he abused his sister Wendy's trust by attempting to have her join his sect. "My parents asked him to leave me alone, but he wrote me convincing letters, and in a visit home at Christmas, 1972, he won me over," Wendy said in an interview.

Her parents told Wendy: "You're 21, you know what you're doing. But you are breaking our hearts." Wendy changed her mind in the end, "because I couldn't answer the question that if the Children of God has a worthy movement, how come it hurt my parents so much?"

It was after Derek's attempt to have his sister Wendy join the sect that her parents said they began feeling serious concern.

At first, they thought the Children of God was just a youthful, rigidly fundamentalist group of Christians who were disillusioned with the world and sought isolation in communes.

But as the Neves acquired more literature and information about the movement, they said a seamy side appeared. Through a national organization called "The Parents Committee to Free our Sons and Daughters from the Children of God" (FREECOG), they learned about the "No" letters written by the man who founded the sect in 1968, David (Moses) Berg.

These rambling letters written from Europe, where Berg is in hiding, give the movement guidance on everything from international politics to sex. They are spiced with four letter words, sexual instructions and crude line drawings. The New York attorney general's report interpreted the No letters as advocating incestuous behavior and the nonsanctity of marriage and family.

This reporter phoned Derek at his commune in London, Ontario, to get his comments. A man who identified himself as Derek said that a "general statement" on what he called "press misrepresentation" of the sect would be issued soon. Then he hung up.

Increasingly concerned about their son, the Neves flew in to Toronto the Rev. Buddy Hicks, a Texas preacher who had worked with young sect members. A Roman Catholic priest, a specialist in exorcism, also talked with their son. He said he could do nothing.

So Neve decided that force was necessary to remove his son from the sect. That meant "deprogramming," a technique requiring that his son be kidnaped and held in seclusion while a team of skilled operatives tried to talk him out of his beliefs.

Derek agreed never to return to the Children of God.

"It was just too wonderful to hear," said his mother, and soon afterward they all left for Bethel, Conn.

But the ordeal was not over.

Derek didn't settle down in the Neves' white frame ranchhouse with blue shutters. He was restless, and his parents said they wanted to separate him from his wife "because we know that at night they are talking about the sect, the old days."

They felt they were losing their son, and they were right. Ten days after he had gone home to Bethel, Derek left again, and his parents reluctantly paid his bus fare back to Toronto.

The Neves say they still haven't given up.

They recalled that during the deprogramming, Derek said to them: "Mom and Dad, why don't you give it up, go home, forget about me."

"We told him we're doing this because we love him. We're not going to stop," the Neves said.

Cleveland Goes Quad On Radio

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Orchestra's home concerts are carried in quadraphonic sound by 75 radio stations nationwide this season.

A spokesman for the orchestra says it is the first in the world to furnish quadraphonic stereo tapes on a regular basis to all outlets carrying its concerts.

The quadraphonic broadcasts began in Cleveland Oct. 6 and were added on 74 other stations in November.

The orchestra uses a quadraphonic system that permits transmission by any station equipped to broadcast two-channel stereo, the spokesman says. In turn, a stereo listener may receive it in quadraphonic sound by adding a decoder, an amplifier and two speakers to his current equipment, he added.

Scouts Learn To Raise Rabbits

NORTH BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Boy Scouts can now learn to raise rabbits by the book.

To stimulate interest in the beneficial hobby, the Boy Scouts of America is selling a new, 32-page merit badge pamphlet, "Rabbit Raising." Not only will the booklet help as a major reference tool for Scouts in preparing for the BSA's Rabbit Raising merit badge, according to the youth group, but the publication can also be of great assistance to animal husbandry students, teachers, farmers, game wardens and Scoutmasters.

The largest camera ever built was the Anderson Mammoth camera built in Chicago in 1900. When extended, it measured 9 feet high, 6 feet wide and 20 feet long.

And now for the good news...

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR READERS: It's Thanksgiving, and I am mindful of my many blessings. Among them is the privilege of writing this column. The responsibilities are awesome, but the rewards are great.

May I share a few of the choice "rewards" of 1974 with you?

Dear Abby: Our problem son left home two years ago, giving us no clue as to where he was headed.

Then out of the blue we got a phone call from a volunteer from "Operations Peace of Mind" in Houston, Texas. (We live in Maryland.)

She said our son had dialed the toll free number he got from the DEAR ABBY column, and he wanted someone to call us to say that he was doing fine.

When we got that message, we told the volunteer that if our son called again to tell him that we would gladly accept a collect call from him.

The next morning our son called! He told us that he had been living in a religious commune in Santa Barbara. It's Christian with Jewish overtones.

The end of this wonderful story is that our son came home to spend Thanksgiving with us.

Will you please publish that toll free number again, so other runaways can establish communications with their families? Our son said he posted that number near phones in all the places where runaways hang out.

Thank you for returning our son to us, Abby. We love you!

ETERNALLY GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL: With pleasure: Runaways, call this toll free number: 1-800-231-6946.

An operator will telephone your parents anywhere in the United States and convey a message from you. There will be no lecturing or counseling. Your call will not be traced, and the only question asked of you will be, "Do you need anything?" If you do, you will be told where you can obtain it, free. I repeat, no one will attempt to contact you or bring you home regardless of your age.

Runaways, please forget the past and send that message to your parents now. They will sleep better tonight and so will you. God bless.

To date "Operations Peace of Mind" has been responsible for reuniting 2,054 runaways with their families. Beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago, my mentally ill mother had been temporarily released in my care from the state mental institution. I doubted my ability to cope with her, and wrote to you in desperation.

You wrote me a beautiful letter which I came across again yesterday. I want to thank you for encouraging me to give my elderly, sick mother six months of freedom, church visits and home life after 35 years of confinement in a mental institution.

For the benefit of those who must care for their aging parents and feel it burdensome, I felt the glorious feelings you said I would feel after my mother passed away.

Being a semi-invalid myself then and now, your reminding me of Him who cares gave me the extra strength and patience I needed to cope with my mother's quarrelsome and sometimes irrational behavior.

You were right, Abby. Love found a way. May the Lord ever bless you.

GRATEFUL IN ILLINOIS

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for being an understanding friend when I was unable to turn to any of my friends here at home.

I am the 45-year-old widow who believed herself to be pregnant. I wrote that I was putting my son through medical school, and asked you for abortion information. No one could have been more desperate than I.

Thanks for telling me about Planned Parenthood. I had no idea they would help in an emergency of that kind.

I really believed you when you wrote, "Please let me hear from you again. I care."

It is a great comfort to know that there is someone like you out there who cares enough to want to help others. Bless you.

PROBLEM SOLVED

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

THANKSGIVING PLAY—Miss Vestal Maner's first grade class at Stanfield Elementary presented a play, "Our Thanksgiving Story," in the school auditorium Wednesday morning.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

* * *

Q. Can I begin making tax deductible contributions now to an individual retirement savings program under the new pension reform legislation?

A. No. The legislation does not permit such contrubutions until January 1, 1975. Starting next year, both employees and self-employed persons receiving compensation will be able to establish individual retirement savings programs if they are not covered under qulaified employer plans, Government plans or certain annuities.

Q. While looking for a new job, I've had to pay for transportation to interviews, duplication of my resume and fees to employment agencies to look for a position for me. Are any of these expenses tax deductible?

A. No. Job-hunting expenses--those you incur with the hope of future employment--and fees paid to employment agencies for seeking rather than securing new employment are not deductible. The fee you pay to an agency for actually getting you a new job is deductible.

Q. Which fees that I pay to my broker are deductible income-producing expenses??

A. Fees you pay to your broker, a bank, or similar agent to collect your bond interest or dividends on shares of stock are deductible. But a fee you pay to your broker to acquire investment property, such as stocks or bonds, is not deductible. It is added to the cost of the property.

Q. I just found an error on an income return I filed two years ago. Is it too late for me to file an amended return to correct this mistake?

A. No. An amended return or refund claim (Form 843 or 1040X) must be filed within three years from the date you filed your original return ( a return filed early is considered to have been filed on the due date) or within two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever is later.

Jackie Buys $200,000 Estate

SOMERVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis has bought a $200,000 estate in Bernardsville, according to a deed filed in the Somerset County clerk's office here.

The deed filed Tuesday shows the purchase date as Nov. 19. Mrs. Onassis bought the two-story frame house on 10 acres in the center of New Jersey's horse and fox-hunting country from Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Emmett of Katonah, N.Y.

The property is known in the area as the Burden estate because it once belonged to Betsy Chance Burden, sister-in-law of banker and horseman James Cox Brady.

Reports had circulated for several months that Mrs. Onassis was planning to buy a house in the area, where she has often visited friends and brought her children to ride.

Boars Favor Civilization

KRIVA RIJEKA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Milos Stupar, 45, has four boars in his pig sty that have completely accepted the regime imposed on them. Milos says they have no desire to return to hazards of forest life.

They joined his own pigs in the forest while still young and never left them. However, every fall, when acorns fall off trees, the boars stay in the forest for three days and then return to "civilization," Milos says.

Woman Is A Tank Mechanic

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — When the new tank mechanic reported for duty at Camp Pendleton, they didn't know what to make of this Marine.

That was last February and the Marine Corps Base had never had a woman tank mechanic until Regina T. Musser arrived.

"Our restroom facilities and our language had to be changed," said Master Sgt. William R. Rowell, tracked vehicle maintenance chief.

"Neither were acceptable for women, but we needed someone in optics and she fit the bill."

Lance Cpl. Musser, 19, of Youngstown, Ohio, works on everything from binoculars to tank sights to ballastics computers.

"I was unhappy when I first learned I was going to be a tank repairman," she admitted.

After boot camp they sent her to an Army post for 19 weeks to learn about fire control mechanics.

"I didn't even know what fire control was," she said. "Now I can maintain all the units responsible for launching ammunition and that's what fire control is all about."

The 5-foot-5 tank repairman, who spends her off duty time painting, drawing, writing poetry, singing and studying the Bible, said, "I enjoy my job very much now because I do different things every day."

ZENITH ALLEGRO 1000

ALL THESE MODELS HAVE:

Allegro 1000 speaker systems
Zenith's new Allegro speaker systems have a 6½" woofer and a 3½" horn tweeter plus an opening on the front, called a tuned port. The tuned port works in conjunction with the woofer to extend and reinforce low base frequency response.

Digilite Automatic FM/AM Scale Selector
Eliminate tuning confusion. Select the FM band only the FM tuning scale lights up. Select the AM band, only the AM tuning scale lights up.

Stereo Precision II record changer with Micro-Touch® 2G tone arm. Fully automatic changer plays 33⅓, 45 or 78 rpm records. Features cue control, automatic shut-off, and 45 rpm adapter. Micro-Touch 2G tone arm exerts a mere 2 grams of pressure. Won't damage your fine records if you accidentally drop or slide it. Diamond stylus for stereo and LP discs; 3-mil manufactured sapphire tip for 78 rpm discs.

Two Plus Two Matrix
Simply add two more optional Allegro speakers and you can enjoy 4-dimensional sound from your regular stereo records and added realism from the new 4-channel matrix records.

Anne Armstrong To Leave Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential counselor Anne Armstrong, top-ranking woman in the Ford and Nixon administrations, is leaving her White House post by Jan. 1, sources say.

By the end of the year, Mrs. Armstrong will have served nearly two years in the $42,500-a-year counselor's job that former President Richard M. Nixon gave her with Cabinet rank.

She had been co-chairman of the Republican National Committee from January 1971 until she started the White House job Jan. 19, 1973.

Mrs. Armstrong went home to her Texas ranch for Thanksgiving after a meeting Tuesday with President Ford.

It was later learned that though the meeting with Ford was on business matters, Mrs. Armstrong's desire to leave the administration for personal reasons had already been conveyed to the President.

Mrs. Armstrong has been given a wide range of assignments in domestic fields, including the Bicentennial and areas of special interest to women.

She promoted passage of the Equal Rights Amendment and recruitment of women to top-level posts in government, a project that recently has been ranging at the White House.

There was no immediate indication whether Ford plans to replace Mrs. Armstrong with another woman in that post.

Gliding Record

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A South African pilot, Miss Joanne Leeman, has set a world gliding record for women in the Rhodesian National Gliding Championships.

Officials of the Central African Soaring Assn. authenticated the record when Miss Leeman flew at an average speed of 113.9 kilometers (70.69 miles) an hour over a 500-kilometer (310.68 mile) triangle.
