Local offshore oil, gas production low

[By Becky Werhan]

Gas and oil production in the Gulf of Mexico and its bays is higher than ever, but local offshore production isn't going along with the trend, according to recent figures released from the Texas Railroad Commission's Oil and Gas Division.

The Commission's latest figures, from July production reports, indicate a Gulf-wide total of 88,960 barrels of crude oil produced offshore during the month while local wells produced no oil in July. "Yes, it's down," says Benny McLester, lead pumper operator for

Houston Oil, one of the local production companies. "The production situation is a funny thing. It'll be real good for six months or a half a year, then it'll start to dry up."

One oil well in the Copano Bay South field, shows a cumulative total as of August of 2,636 barrels, though none of that was reported in after July.

Due to a delay between actual production and production reports, this well and others may well have been producing since July but no figures are yet available from the Railroad Commission.

The Exxon Corporation has brought in a new rig off of Key Allegro, but no production report of any kind is yet available from the outfit.

The oil production may rise. "There's quite a bit of drilling," says McLester. "Exxon should start showing something."

One local well is currently producing high amounts of natural gas. Fulton Beach West Field, rig A-3, showed a total of 9,590,000 cubic feet for the month of August. Total reports from the well from January through August amounted to 102,709,000.

The well's total output, from beginning of production through September is 6,482,811,000 cubic feet.

Gulf-wide gas production for August came to 20,072,450 cubic feet, according to commission reports.

"Right now, there's just more money in gas," says McLester. "Companies would rather have gas — it's easier to handle and it's paying more than oil now. This area has a high gas ratio, as opposed to oil."

"The decline of the area's oil and gas production dates from the late fifties," says McLester. "The heyday of local production was around 1957-1958 and its gone down since then."

While the Aransas County area is not a production leader, the offshore support industries in the area are beginning to boom, according to many reports. At present, Ingleside stands as an important support center, due to its closer location to much of the Gulf drilling.

"In a few years," says McLester, "the support center will be in Rockport. It's closer by air. The helicopter traffic is beginning to grow already."

"This whole area's fixing to boom."

Digital dilemma

Barbara Nowotny checks the time before she sets her — pen? Yep, pens are just one of the many items that now come with digital clocks. And all of those, not to mention the ordinary clocks and watches around the house, will need to be reset this weekend as Aransas County joins the rest of Texas in a return to standard time. For those who don't recall which way the hands go, it's "Spring forward, fall back." [Or is it "Spring back, fall forward" or . . .]

Don't forget to reset your . . . pen?

By Pat Blair

When you reset your clocks back to standard time at 2 a.m. Sunday, don't forget: you also need to reset your watch, your clock-radio, your . . . cigarette lighter?

In this world of pocket calculators no thicker than a dime, of computer components that have to be viewed with a microscope, one of the latest things on the market is the tiny digital clock.

You can buy digital travel alarm clocks as small as 3-1/2 by 1-1/2 by 5/8-inches — including a model that has a "nite-lamp for reading in darkness."

Of course watch-necklaces have been on the market for some time, but now you can get them in digital.

For the busy executive, there's a digital clock-paperweight about 1-1/2 inches diameter. You can even get a model that displays the time and date alternately, up to every other second.

Do you smoke? Or know someone who does? Well now you can get cigarette lighters with built-in digital clocks. Some of these models also show the date as well as time and you can get them with backlight "for night-time viewing."

And for the really busy executive who's always on the go . . . There's the digital watch pen (these are available at the Pilot Office Supply, by the way). It too shows date and time.

So when you're setting all your time-pieces this weekend, in the return to "regular time," don't forget the clock-necklace . . . and the clock-paperweight . . . and the clock-pen . . . and the clock-lighter . . . and . . .

Sue Wilcox: her job beats bookkeeping!

By Pat Blair

It all started because Sue Wilcox needed a job — "bad" — and didn't want to go back to bookkeeping.

"I heard about this job from a friend, so I came down and gave it a shot — and I found out I liked it," says the woman who is now the chief corrections officer for the Aransas County Jail.

"When they bring 'em in, I book 'em — I get information, take fingerprints, take photos," Sue says, describing her work. "If they're placed upstairs, I take care of 'em. If they need to make a phone call, if they need to see a doctor, things like that — I make the arrangements."

"They" of course are the prisoners housed in the jail — the men who have nicknamed Sue "Den Mother" as a result of the work she does.

Sue started work with the sheriff's office on April 24 and in June attended Jailers' School, a 40-hour course for corrections officers. Course graduates, like Sue, receive certification under the Texas Jail Standards.

"When I went to jailers' school," Sue recalled during a recent interview, "there was one other woman in my class." Today, thanks to women like Sue, other women are going into this field — including 18-year-old Julia Castillo who is Aransas County's second woman corrections officer and, says Sue, "a darn good jailer!"

Sue, 31, has been chief corrections officer since her appointment to that post last Aug. 1. Although the "average" working day for a jailer is an eight-hour shift, she usually puts in a nine-hour stint and sometimes more.

"I work normally Mondays through Fridays," she said, adding, "Sometimes I think I work eight days a week — but I love it!" Her normal shift is from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"Born and raised" in Aransas Pass, Sue has lived in Rockport since 1974 and she and her husband, Doug Wilcox, have two children, a daughter, 12 and a son, 9. It was one of her husband's early experiences with the law — and with jails — that has shaped Sue's attitudes about her work: "When he and I were going together,"

Whoopers are here

Welcome home, old friends. It's good to see you!

The coastal bend's most celebrated winter visitors — the whooping cranes — are back. Three of the majestic birds were sighted near their winter home, the Aransas National Refuge, on Wednesday, Oct. 21.

The whoopers were sighted by the man who has been fortunate enough to see more of the endangered species than probably anyone else in the world — Captain "Brownie" Brown, skipper of the Sea Gun Motel's sightseeing charter, "The Whooping Crane."

Brown and his visitors made the sighting on the captain's first birding trip of the year. An unofficial sighting of one bird had been made to the refuge personnel the day before, but was not verified.

The endangered flock will number 79 this year, which is an addition of only two more than last year's total of 77. Three young birds were born this year in the whoopers' spring home in Canada, but one was fatally injured when it flew into a power line in the Saskatchewan region.

Much controversy still surrounds the possibility of a state takeover of refuge lands used by the whooper, but due to bureaucratic delays, the birds' habitat will probably remain in federal hands for one more season.

Undercover work nets five in County drug bust

Aransas County Sheriff Bob Hewes announced the arrest of five persons and confiscation of approximately 103 pounds of marijuana in a drug bust about midnight Tuesday in Rockport.

Hewes said his department along with officers from the Rockport Police Department, the Corpus Christi Police Department and the Drug Enforcement Agency made the arrest at a drive-in in Rockport at 11:59 p.m. Tuesday.

He said the Sheriff's department had several undercover agents working on the case for several days in an effort to make the arrest.

The undercover work began earlier in the week with arrangements to make a buy in Corpus Christi. Hewes said the agents showed $40,000 "flash money" but said they wanted to make the buy in

Third in a series

Proposition 3 would set up finance committee

By Pat Blair
Editor's Note: On Nov. 3, Aransas County residents will go to the polls to vote on seven proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution. This is the third in a series that examines each of the proposed amendments.

Texas government at present has no central fiscal agency, nor is there any provision for such an agency.

"After the appropriations acts are passed," in the words of the Joint Legislative Committee on Organization and Economy, "the spending agencies are left to operate much as they please in financial matters, and to use appropriations as if they were bank accounts."

Although those words were written more than half a century ago, according to a Texas Research League (TRL) bulletin published this month, that situation has not changed.

Proposition 3 would set up a fiscal control in the form of a state finance management committee whose duty would be to oversee the expenditure of appropriated funds — other than those constitutionally dedicated to a specific purpose.

This "budget execution" authority would be subject to conditions and limitations imposed by statute, according to information from the TRL. On the ballot, this amendment will appear as: "The constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to grant to a state finance management committee the power to manage the expenditure of certain appropriated funds."

In practice, the legislature would be empowered under this amendment (if adopted) to set up a seven-member committee consisting of the Texas governor, lieutenant governor, speaker of the house of representatives, chairman of the senate finance committee, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee and the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

According to the TRL, state agencies can — "and often do" — spend every penny appropriated to them, regardless of how necessary such expenditures might or might not be.

Underexpenditures in one area are often used to cover excesses in another. For example, funds allocated for salaries, that might otherwise become surplus because of unfilled employee positions, are appropriated for some other purpose within that agency.

An agency may accelerate spending at the end of the fiscal period to keep funds from reverting to the state treasury — and to insure that the agency's budget allocations will not be cut in the next fiscal period.

An agency's workload may not reach the levels anticipated by the appropriation bill, but there is no method to control or redirect expenditures.

Texas, the TRL notes, "is one of the few states that lacks the fundamental control over state spending."

Proposition 3 follows the current state practice of sharing budgetary duties between the governor and the legislature by vesting expenditure controls in a committee drawn from both legislative and executive branch of government.

Noting that the state budget for 1982-83 approaches $27 million, the TRL observes, "Any mechanism that facilitates better fiscal control over those expenditures is worthy of careful consideration by Texas voters."

Coming in the midweek: Creation of a water assistance fund.

The guys at the top are always the last to get the word.

Attorney General

AUSTIN — Texas Viet Nam veterans who may have been exposed to Agent Orange can turn to the Texas Attorney General's Office for help in securing their complete medical records, including information related to the effects of Agent Orange exposure.

Legislation recently passed by the 67th Session of the Texas Legislature can be of help to Viet Nam veterans. I strongly supported this legislation and Texas was the only state to provide such an act. The act gives authority to the Texas Attorney General to bring suit on behalf of veterans seeking information regarding Agent Orange and the chances of a veteran being exposed to the chemical.

The Attorney General is not authorized to bring damage suits. Damage suits would have to be initiated by private attorneys. However, as Attorney General I can act under my statutory authority to sue to secure complete medical records including information directly related to the effects of Agent Orange.

The same legislation also allows the Texas Department of Health and the Health Science Centers and medical facilities of The University of Texas System to provide assistance programs for information. For information on these programs, veterans seeking assistance should contact the Texas Department of Health at 1100 West 49th Street, Austin, Texas 78756.

If you are a Viet Nam veteran and would like to institute a suit on your behalf to secure the information described above write to:

Mark White
Attorney General of Texas
Post Office Box 12548
Austin, Texas 78711
If you know other Viet Nam veterans who may be in need of assistance, refer them to the Texas Attorney General's Office or to the Texas Department of Health.

Feel that I must express my opinion of last weekend (Oct. 10-11) at SeaFair.

It was not blessed with much quality. There were isolated pockets of fine work, but the majority of booths contained buy-in-the-store type items, i.e., cosmetics, barbecue pits, financial advice, plants, high-priced imports from Mexico, etc. And, it seemed the reg. art/craft work, for the most part, was bland, lacking creativity.

To me, such a display is an affront to creativity. Why are the artists/craftsmen not joined? Maybe the committee is content to "fill space"? It was a disservice to Rockport's art/craft tradition. It seemed no more than a flea(flee?) market.

Did the committee stoop too low in its attempt to attract the dollar? My answer is obvious.

State Of The Region

By Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend Council of Governments

"The pink-collar job" is one way of saying "women at work." For a span of years, women have been moving into careers outside of their traditional fields of teaching and nurturing. Dr. Ann Prewitt of Kingsville, a psychologist, looks at directions women have taken and some of the change in courses.

Dr. Prewitt finds that at first there was the mistaken idea that women had to be like men to fill positions that had not been open to them before. Now, women have become more comfortable in being themselves, making the most of valuable assets such as perception and intuition. She feels that recognizing this would help the woman's movement find more acceptance.

Dr. Prewitt has worked with the CETA program, helping men and women strengthen characteristics that open up opportunities to them in the job market. She also screens applications for positions in law enforcement for several counties in the Coastal Bend. She says the flurry of women seeking careers in law enforcement has now subsided, and there are much fewer than had been predicted getting into the work. There has been no general acceptance of women in the field.

The vast majority of women working are in clerical positions. In urban centers, much of the clerical work itself is changing. Words processors, computers, and other highly sophisticated equipment in offices requires the secretary to have new skills and gives her new responsibilities. Salaries are reflecting this.

A change that has come about with surprising rapidity is temporary work. With higher wages and benefits, some employers find it is inefficient to have staff members who are being paid when work is slow, to pay insurance, retirement and vacations. They are calling, instead, on the increasing number of companies which offer a pool of temporary employees. Some of these companies pay the benefits themselves. Others do not. The temporary employee is a way of avoiding problems which arise in firing a permanent employee who proves to be unsatisfactory.

Dr. Prewitt finds the temporary job to be a boon for women in many ways. It gives them the opportunity to try different types of work, so they will learn what they do best. It broadens their experience rapidly. If they have families who are accustomed to having them at home, it provides a trial period when both the women and the families can evaluate problems realistically.

Families may be enthusiastic about the woman working, extending her interests, and augmenting the family income. It takes a few weeks to learn what the reaction will be to changes in family life, and whether the amount of additional money is sufficient to make the changes worthwhile.

Surveys have been made by personnel firms to show what influence grooming and dress have upon employers. The surveys show that a job applicant's dress and grooming is influential with 91 percent of employers, and that these are considerations with 95 percent of employers when deciding on promotions.

Dr. Prewitt finds that employees like for women to wear subdued make-up and neat hair styles, nothing conspicuous. They prefer suits with either skirts or slacks and skirts that are not extremely short. Provocative clothes are unacceptable to a majority.

She considers it important for women to look attractive, but adds that one of the skills they must learn is how to reject without giving offense when they receive attention they don't want.

Self confidence is a skill that women frequently have not developed. Dr. Prewitt says this means the woman may not apply for the better job for which she is actually qualified, or for the promotion or pay raise.

Women more comfortable in being themselves

Editor's note: The Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher on his grassy ranch comes to the defense of Congress. Dear editor:

I read a letter-to-the-editor in a newspaper the other day written by a college professor who said that one trouble with the country today is that the intellectual level of Congress is too low.

"On the whole," he wrote, "Congress is not smart enough to handle the problems facing the country."

He didn't suggest that the problems be turned over to professors, or editors or poets or school superintendents. He didn't say who to turn them over to. I sure don't want 'em.

But on the question of how smart Congress is, don't underestimate that bunch.

For instance, they've got a job where they can set their

Pet Talks Veterinary schools going coed

Questions and Answers

Dear Dr. Lutz,
I am a freshman student at Texas A&M. I graduated from Rockport-Fulton High School. I have had very good grades through high school, and am maintaining good grades in college. I have always wanted to be a veterinarian. I have had several interviews with the career advisor, and he thinks I am well qualified for a career in veterinary medicine.

I don't want to get my hopes up, but I am a female. Will this have any bearing on my being accepted into the professional College of Veterinary Medicine of Texas A&M University?

Signed, Lois

Dear Lois,

Being a female will in no way influence the Committee that evaluates the prospective students. To give you an example, the applicants accepted in the 1981 entering class were almost evenly divided — 64 women and 74 men. I just returned from a seminar at the college, and it was a pleasure to see so many pretty girls in the class rooms. This is a far cry from the class of 1942 when all the students were ugly men. I was born too soon.

Signed, Dr. Hap Lutz

Haunted house personnel

The goblins are already getting into practice for the Rockport-Fulton Choir Boosters' Haunted House. The spooky house will be in an appropriately scary part of West Terrace and will be open Oct. 29, 30 and 31, offering thrills and chills to young and old. Price of a good scare will be one dollar for visitors above the sixth grade level and 50 cents for those younger. All proceeds from the house will be used to help send the Rockport-Fulton High School choir to the 1982 Vienna International Youth Music Festival. The goblin, by the way, is choir co-president Bill Weaver, who doesn't seem to be doing a very good job of terrorizing fellow co-president Gloria Dominguez. (Pilot photo by Becky Werhan)

Sure you've noticed it, everyone has. Fall is here and almost everyone is darned happy about it.

Everytime winter is here I can hardly wait for summer.

First freeze worries not too premature

By Ted Brice, Garden Editor

Though the first freeze of winter may be only a few days off or several weeks off it is time to get ready for it. We have already had temperatures that have set records in this area this year. You can learn a lot from old Mother Nature about weather conditions.

In observing the squirrels you will note that they are extremely busy gathering their winter feed supply. This is quite natural but this is the first year in a long time that the squirrels have not been chattering among themselves as they gathered their food. They are busy working very quietly and fast. Does this tell us that we are going to have an early winter or a hard winter?

I have already seen flocks of geese going over this southwestern area. Another factor to consider is that the trees in the Ozarks have already changed colors about three weeks ahead of schedule this year.

I feel sure that we will have an early winter or a hard winter if not both.

Plant material freezes at different temperatures. Some plants freeze at 38 degrees while other plants freeze at 28 degrees or lower. Still there are tropical plants that cannot take temperatures below 60 degrees.

For plants in your yard, a good application (two inches deep or better) of mulch should protect your root system against a freeze. Stop all fertilizing now. This will prevent new growth that could be nipped by a freeze. When a freeze is predicted, you should water your plants heavily the night before. This will help to protect them if it does freeze as predicted. However, some plants will need additional protection. A simple framework can be constructed to cover the particular plant that needs this additional protection. You can stretch either cloth or plastic over this framework. Remember that hanging baskets are very easy to freeze but are also very easy to protect from possible freeze damage. After thoroughly watering your hanging baskets, pull a plastic leaf bag up over the basket and tie it at the top of the hanging wire. Leave your basket protected this way until it warms up. This should give you ample protection from the freeze.

If you have a greenhouse at home you may want to take your plants in for the winter.

Wouldn't it be ironic, I often catch myself thinking, if one day somebody got something on Mike Wallace, like he wet his bed at camp, and made him squirm by bringing it up in front of the entire country?

I can dream, can't I? (Released by The Register and Tribune Syndicate, 1981) essay I did in high school on the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty which won first place in the county literary meet.

"Did you actually write this essay without notes, as the rules of the literary meet indicated, or did you, in fact, smuggle in your history book and write your essay by copying word-for-word from your book?"

I begin to squirm. "Look at that, Martha," says the guy in Des Moines. I did smuggle in my history book because how else could anybody write five pages on the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty? But how did Mike Wallace . . . ?

"You're probably wondering how we found out about this fraud," says Mike Wallace. "We were first contacted by Arthur Norbert, who finished second in that contest, and who just happens to be Harry Reasoner's nephew . . ."

I usually awaken before breaking down in front of the cameras, disgracing not only myself, but all my family, not to mention everybody who signed the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty.

column each day, I enjoy a few sets of tennis or maybe relax at home with a good book . . .

At this point, Mike Wallace interrupts me and says, "That's enough beating around the bush, Mr. Grizzard, why don't you come clean?"

Startled, I begin to stutter. "What on earth are you talking about, Mike?" I finally respond.

"This," says Mike Wallace, holding a copy of an

Tis' the season to be confused when one season ends and another begins. Most people use only the temperature as their guide to tell when the seasons change but I have several ways of telling.

Of course in Rockport you only need to look at what birds are feeding in Little Bay to tell what season it is or what season it is about to be.

Several weeks ago while driving past Little Bay I saw a Kingfisher sitting on the Connie Hager sign and it reminded me that his, (or her) arrival meant fall would soon follow.

Then last week several commorants arrived in the bay and I knew it was time to get the ladder out and climb up in the closet and get out the long-sleeve shirts and windbreakers because fall would soon arrive.

The next morning it sounded, and felt like spring had come and gone and winter was here as the season's first real norther was slamming against the shutters and rattling the palm trees.

Of course I had turned the air conditioner on before going to bed and I awoke wrapped in a sheet, and a bedspread that had been on the floor last night.

When I opened the door to search for the morning paper the cat nearly knocked me down trying to get in the house — usually you can't beg her to come inside.

The small, newly planted chinese tallow was bending to the ground in the gusty wind and the yard was decorated with the trash from several houses down the street as the north wind greeted me.

Fortunately, and as we all suspected, winter was short-lived and that afternoon we slipped into fall and the next day we eased back into a mild summer. But fall did arrive.

Of course another way of telling fall is here is to watch the parade of campers and trailers coming across the Copano Causeway bridge and down Highway 881 into town. When the snowbirds arrive fall can't be far behind.

Of course the best sign is when the office air conditioner that didn't work all summer begins to work, you know it's fall.

One stormy night our lights went out. The blackness was total.

Little Mary screamed and grabbed me. The boys, trying to be brave, banged across the room.

I comforted them, trying to hold all against the terrors of the dark.

Then the back door banged, and there was Bob standing in the door holding a lighted candle.

"Daddy, Daddy," cried the children, their fears forgotten, as the room resumed its safe proportions in the light. Gaily they helped to light the candles and build a roaring fire.

How like that candle is my church. The spiritual resources it offers light my life with a sense of proportion and confidence, no matter how dark things seem.

Your church can brighten your life, if you give it a chance.

The Shepherd's Staff

By Barrett Renfro, Pastor
First United Methodist Church

There's a channel out at Holiday Beach that is inhabited by some used-to-be wild ducks. A lady there feeds them. It reminded me of a parable that is absolutely true.

One time there was a wild duck who was used to the freedom of the trackless wilderness of the air. On one of his migrations north he chanced to alight in a farmyard where the tame ducks were being fed. He ate some of their corn and liked it so much that he lingered until the next meal, and then the next week, and month, until the autumn came and his old companions flew over the farmyard and gave their cry to him that it was time to be away. The old ecstasy roused within him again and he flapped his wings in order to join them, but he could not leave the ground.

He had grown fat on the farmer's corn and the indolent life of the barnyard. He resigned himself to remain there, and each season until his death the calls of his fellows aroused him - but each year the calls seemed fainter and further away.

The Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center had a very nice week. We had various groups and programs, as well as a good many visiting volunteers. Also, relatives and friends were out to see their loved ones.

Tuesday morning, our faithful mending ladies, representing the First Presbyterian Church of Rockport were over to do any sewing that our residents had need of.

Tuesday evening, the Pruitt family from the Pente-coastal Church of God of Aransas Pass were out to make a lot of people feel better with their beautiful singing.

Wednesday morning, Delma Rodgers was out to do her good deeds, which she performs weekly for our people. She was out again on Friday also.

Gary Bennett, his wife Brenda and other members of the Church of Christ of Aransas Pass were out to lead our weekly Bible Study which many of our residents look forward to with great interest.

Also, Wednesday afternoon, our Cadet Girl Scout Troop No. 145 and their leader, Gloria Haskett, were out to visit their adopted grandparents and to decorate some more for Halloween. They came back again on Thursday to finish decorating and did some more visiting.

Thursday afternoon, the Order of Eastern Star No. 1037 of Ingleside came over and entertained our residents by playing games.

Thursday afternoon, the ladies from First Presbyterian Church of Rockport were over to visit one-to-one, and to bring name plates for new residents, which this group has been doing for seven years plus.

Friday morning, Sadie Flirt and Frankie Edwards were on hand to lead our paint class. Friday afternoon, the members and friends of the Rockport AARP group were over for our monthly "Old-fashioned sing along". Mrs. Young played the piano and Ranous was on the saxophone. All of us had a good time.

The play, written by Rice, is set for performance on November 20 and 21, and will have a cast of more than 30 students. Ingrid Little feted with Dallas shower

Ingrid Little of Rockport was honored with a baby shower Sunday, Oct. 18.

The shower was held in the Dallas home of Terri Marshall. Hostessing with Mrs. Marshall was her mother Minnie Woodliff.

Mrs. Little received many handmade gifts and was presented with a corsage fashioned from blue lace baby socks and pink silk flowers.

Refreshments of punch, coffee and cake were served to the 15 shower guests. The cake was decorated with rattles and baby booties and was served from a table centered with an arrangement of pink, blue and yellow carnations.

Mrs. Little is the wife of Russel Little.

First National donates to Young Life

George K. Taggart, III recently accepted a donation for "Young Life" from First National Bank. Presenting the gift was James H. Sorenson, Jr., President of First National.

Young Life is an organization nationwide in scope, most often found in the large, metropolitan areas. Rockport is one of the first cities of its size to sponsor a group.

In Aransas County nine adult leaders with thirteen additional adults serving in a support capacity furnish the impetus for this high school group. Meetings are held each Tuesday night at 8 p.m. at the Women's Club building. Each meeting features skits, guitars and singing, and a message delivered by one of the adult leaders. The message pertains to problems which face young people today and dealing with them from a Christian perspective. The club is open to all area high school students and has no memberships or dues.

The local group went to Taft last weekend for the "Mud Olympics", and a bus load will go to New Braunfels on October 24 for a one day canoe trip.

Rockport Elementary PTA gearing up for carnival

Rockport Elementary PTA is getting set to welcome all the kids in town to a safe and fun Halloween at their big carnival, Oct. 31. The doors will be open at 5 p.m. Halloween night with activity tickets going on sale for 10 cents apiece.

John Hughes, everyone's favorite clown, will circulate through the crowd with free balloon animals. Trick or treaters may also meet the "wicked pocket witch". Upon meeting the pocket witch, for the price of one ticket, kids may search the pockets for a prize, if they're brave enough...

The costume contest is scheduled to begin at 5:30 in the auditorium. All children who wish to enter should be there at that time. Judges will group children into two age brackets — kindergarten, first and second grades and third, fourth and fifth grades. Pre-schoolers may enter with the first group. In the categories of spookiest, funniest and most original, prizes for first, second and third place will be awarded.

The magic show, which features well known magician Del Edwards, will be performed three times during the evening at 6:30, 7:30 and 8:30 in the auditorium. Mr. Edwards' outstanding shows were complete sellouts at last year's carnival.

The spook house is located in the cafeteria this year and is guaranteed to scare the daylight out of all visitors. It's bigger and better than last year's, according to all reports.

All visitors are urged to bring their appetite to the carnival, as there will be sandwiches, candied apples, frito pie, popcorn, cold drinks, and many other goodies at the "Witches' Gingerbread House" and "Witches' Cauldron".

Games, a "wee" spook house for the little ones, a cake walk, helium balloons and a hayride in the P.E.

field are all on the agenda. A special feature this year is a fortune teller, who will be escorted in a spooky tent set up outside under some twisted oak trees.

Every child in town is invited to the carnival for some "good old fashioned fun". A prize will be awarded every child in every game and no carnival-goer will leave empty handed.

Extension agent Woodward receives national honor

COLLEGE STATION — Kaye Harkey Woodward, Aransas and San Patricio Counties Extension Agent for Home Economics, has received the Distinguished Service Award for 1981 — the highest honor given by the National Association of Extension Home Economists.

One of six Texas County Extension agents chosen for the honor, Woodward received the award during the national association's annual meeting last week (Oct. 11-16) in Las Vegas, Nev.

The award recognizes

Woodward's creativity and outstanding leadership in educational programming on health education throughout Aransas and San Patricio Counties, according to Ilene Miller, Bell County Extension Agent for Home Economics, awards committee chairman for the Texas Association of Extension Home Economists which nominated the agent.

Extension educational programs created and implemented by Woodward and the Aransas and San Patricio Counties Family Living Committees have reached more than 11,000 individuals.

The major activity was a health fair at which participants were screened for diabetes, anemia, blood type, temperature, pulse rate and blood pressure, along with several others.

Participants saved about $3,600 by taking advantage of the free screening.

One third of those screened were advised to see a doctor, and about 40 percent of that group did have a health problem, according to a follow-up survey.

Other activities in health education included programs on coping with stress, a cardiopulmonary - resuscitation (CPR) workshop, first-aid series and tours of area health facilities.

In addition to serving as home economics program leader, Woodward also serves as extension county chairman.

Woodward holds a bachelor's degree from Texas Tech University and a master's degree from Sam Houston State University.

She is a member of the Texas and National Associations of Extension Home Economists, the Texas and National Associations of Extension 4-H Agents, the Texas and American Home Economics Associations and Epsilon Sigma Phi, national Extension fraternity. In 1977, she was named to "Who's Who of American Women."

She and her husband, Bob, are residents of Sinton and are residents of Sinton and are members of the First Baptist Church of Sinton. A native of San Angelo, Woodward is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K.B. Hallmark of Lampasas, Texas.

Healthful hints

By Jean Glowka
[Most Often Asked Questions On Nutrition]

Q. I drink distilled water and am concerned that I'm not getting all the minerals I need. Someone told me to add sea water to my distilled water. Would this help? How much should I use?

A. Yes, adding sea water to your distilled water would be helpful. There are some rather startling facts concerning sea water that may interest you.

Your blood stream, for instance, contains the identical minerals found in sea water. When emergency blood transfusions have been necessary, and no blood was available, doctors have successfully used sea water for the transfusions. And, if the human body were squeezed like a lemon, the approximate eleven gallons of water obtained would have the same minerals in the same proportion as sea water!

Sea water that's safe to drink should be obtained 30 or more miles out to sea and at the greatest possible depth or obtained in a filtered, unheated form from a health food store.

The amount to use appears to be four teaspoons added to each half gallon of water.

Q. I love butter — real butter, but I'm afraid to eat much of it because of all the hoopla about its being bad for your cholesterol level. Do you have a hint for me?

A. You're not alone, and I do have a good hint for you!

Allow one pound of butter to warm to room temperature. Put it into the blender with one cup of cold-processed vegetable oil (such as safflower or soy oil) and liquify. Pour into a bowl (or whatever) and refrigerate.

This simple concoction spreads easily, tastes delicious, and is high in the essential unsaturated fatty acids (the "good guys" of the fat family!)

Until next week, Folks, stay happy and healthy! It's a beautiful world!

Area fishing report

Key Allegro — High winds have just about shut down the offshore fishing and limited the bay action.

There are no reports of any catches from the marina. Frozen bait available. 729-2761.

Kleine's Rattlesnake Point — Lots of nice reds and trout are being taken at the camp and a few drum are being landed. Dead bait is available. 729-2892.

Copano Causeway Pier — Everyone was catching trout Wednesday night under the lights and some sheephead were taken, live bait, dead bait and mullet available. 729-8633.

St. Charles Bay — Fishing is excellent here. Thursday morning two boats were working off the reefs and everyone was getting their limit. Trout is the big item the last few days here. Dead bait is available. 729-2053.

Sea Gun — Everyone that went out on the charter boat caught fish. Trout, drum and red being landed. Some fishermen even got to see the first three whooping cranes to arrive in the area. Live bait is available. 729-2341.

Palm Harbor — Some nice reds being caught and several good stringers of trout brought in. Most of the action is around the wells and trailer island. A lot of boats are at California hole to the flats and the shallow water areas. There should be plenty of live bait for the weekend. 729-8540.

Fulton Beach Marina — No report. 729-8609.

Fulton Harbor Bait — Fishing has been good off the wall and along the beach road with some nice reds, trout and some flounder being caught.

Hunting prospects bright

AUSTIN — Prospects are excellent across most of Texas for the upcoming hunting seasons, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists.

Favorable weather conditions with plenty of rain during the first half of 1981 boosted populations of deer, turkey and quail. Biologists said turkey and quail made the most immediate progress, with reproduction and survival rates good enough to prompt rosy predictions for the hunting seasons. Deer also are in excellent shape, but herds in some areas still are down somewhat in population after last year's severe drought, particularly in western portions of South Texas. The deer and turkey season in most Texas counties opens Nov. 1.

Habitat conditions may, in fact, be too good in some areas from the hunter's viewpoint. Biologists said the abundance of vegetative cover and easy availability of acorns and other forage could cause deer to move less, making hunting more difficult.

Throughout most of the traditional deer range, hunters may see slightly fewer bucks than in recent years, but there should be a higher percentage of trophy quality racks than normal in the herds.

The following is a wrap-up of hunting prospects for the major game species by region:

South Texas

The sprawling brush country of South Texas is a trophy deer hunting Mecca, and it should live up to its reputation this year. The western portions of South Texas suffered from dry conditions last year, when fawn production and survival were extremely low. This reduced populations, but the deer responded this spring with an outstanding fawn crop. "There won't be as many yearlings as normal this fall," observed biologist Jerry Cooke of Pearsall, "but there ought to be an ample number of bucks, and the mature bucks should have outstanding antlers." Habitat conditions are superb in the Brush Country, and the deer should find plenty to eat throughout the fall and winter, Cooke believes.

Wild turkey also are having an excellent year, with populations up in most areas. "The birds are more scattered than normal, possibly because of the good habitat conditions, but there are lots of them," He said good reproduction and survival this year should make the 1982 spring turkey gobble season outstanding, and possibly even carry over to the fall season of 1982.

The quail hunting prospects, in Cooke's words, are "fantastic" in South Texas. He said some extremely large coveys, up to 30 quail, have been sighted this year. Spring and summer rains are at the right time to provide ample food and nesting cover, he said.

Squirrel and white-tailed deer are the most-hunted game species in the Piney Woods, and the outlook is moderately favorable for both. Biologist Gary Spencer of Jasper said squirrel populations still are suffering from the effects of last year's poor mast crop. "Populations are down somewhat, but we got good production this summer because of the rains," Spencer said. "Still, I think we are about a year away from having high populations." He added that the mast crop is improved over last year, although spotty in some areas. "Hunters need to find where there are beech, white oak and hickory trees, because those are the main mast-producers this year," he said.

Spencer said deer populations have been on the upswing in East Texas for the past several years, and favorable weather has fattened them this fall. "Antler growth has been good this year in areas where the deer are not overpopulated," Spencer said. He said, however, that conditions for the hunter may be difficult, especially if rains come during the early part of the hunting seasons. "The deer won't be moving around too much to find food, and rainy weather could cause them to move even less when hunting season opens," Spencer said. East Texas is not blessed with much quail habitat, but Spencer said populations appear to be up this year in the few pockets of good habitat.

Fulton pier project 'first'

FULTON — Fulton's new fishing pier, which will officially get under construction in ceremonies Monday, will be the first major community project completed in the coming year — but two others are waiting in the wings.

The first shovels-ful of dirt will be lifted at 2 p.m. Monday at the pier site near the old lifeguard station. Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline and members of the city council are expected to be at the ceremonies, along with representatives from Ogletree, Gunn & Associates, engineers for the project.

The council has invited members of the Navigation District — from whom the city is leasing the land on which the pier will be located — the Aransas County Commissioner's Court and Judge John Wendell and representatives from the Rockport area Chamber of Commerce and the Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association.

Casterline added that he expects some representatives from the Coastal Bend Council of Governments which assisted in securing the $217,500 federal grant that is paying for the pier.

The pier is expected to be completed by the end of January. By September, 1982, another project is expected to be completed: the restoration of Fulton Mansion.

The mansion, which overlooks Aransas Bay, is being restored and refurbished by the Texas Department of Parks & Wildlife and will be opened to the public upon completion.

A third project for the Fulton area is in preliminary planning stages. Aransas County is applying for a grant from the Texas Parks & Wildlife to develop a "bike-way" along the entire length of Fulton Beach. The bike-way is part of a park proposed between the roadway and the water's edge.

Casterline said this is the county's project with cooperation from the City of Fulton. If the project goes through, the long narrow strip of land would provide setting for some of the best birding in the Coastal Bend, according to some sources.

Suspect charged with burglary

A quick-acting witness was responsible for the arrest of a 28-year-old Victoria man Wednesday on a charge of burglary after the suspect, Jose Angel Bautista, was seen running across FM 1781 "with an armload of guns."

Formal charges of burglary of a habitation were filed against Bautista Thursday morning, according to Aransas County Chief Investigator Ricky McLester who was in on the arrest.

A dispatcher at the Aransas County Sheriff's Office said she received a call about 12:34 p.m. from a witness at the Nesloney's Makhoe Sales & Lease on FM 1781 who said he saw a man "with an armload of guns running across the street" into brush on the other side.

Deputies arriving at the scene found a residence had been broken into. At the time it was believed only the guns — five rifles — had been taken, but McLester said Thursday morning that some other items had since been reported missing.

He said Petroleum Helicopters Inc. (PHI) loaned a 'copter to search the area for the suspect, then "about an hour and a half later" law enforcement officials began tracking the man.

McLester added that the searches included, in addition to the PHI helicopter, four county officials and two Texas highway patrolmen.

As the officers began tracking the suspect, McLester said, they found the rifles — apparently abandoned in flight — and a hat, believed to belong to the suspect, on a tree limb.

The suspect was traced to Phillips Dock where a crew for Culberson Well Service was working on a rig.

"We shut the job site down," McLester said, and the witness subsequently alleged Bautista was the man he saw running across the road.

Absentee voting slow in county

With only a week left before the deadline, absentee balloting on seven proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution is going slowly in Aransas County.

Voter Registration Clerk Fran Gudim reported only three absentee ballots had been cast as of midmorning Thursday, and two absentee voter applications were in the mail.

Deadline for absentee voting is 5 p.m. Friday in the office of County Clerk Ruby Hart. Voting hours are 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. daily starting Monday.

Absentee ballots returned by mail will be accepted as long as they arrive in the county clerk's office by election day, Mrs. Gudim said.

Anyone who will not be in Aransas County on the Tuesday election day, who is age 65 or over or who is physically unable to go to the polls, regardless of age, is eligible to vote absentee under Texas election laws.

Police report

An estimated $3,000 in stereo equipment, including speakers, an eight-track recorder, cassette, turntable, amplifier and AM/FM, was taken when the residence of Norman Scott was burglarized recently.

Police said entry was gained to the residence at 2210 Cape Charles after someone broke the glass in the rear patio door and removed the sliding screen.

Estimated time of the burglary was between 3 p.m. Oct. 16 and 8 a.m. Monday, Oct. 19.

Boat, trailer

A boat and trailer were reported stolen from Coastal Marine after the craft was reportedly loaned to a man who said he was thinking of buying it.

Michael Shedden called police Wednesday to report the theft of the boat which was loaned to a man about 10 a.m. Sept. 28. The man told Shedden he was thinking of buying the craft and was told he could use the boat for a one-week trial.

Value of 1972 "Phantom" outboard was estimated at $1,000 and of the 1972 trailer at $400. Value of the boat motor was undetermined.

Gas theft

Nancy Johnson, an attendant at the Billups Station on West Market at Bronte told police a man in a copper-colored Ford Thunderbird put $10 in gasoline in his tank Wednesday and drove away without paying.

The incident occurred about 9:05 p.m.

Theft of service

Allen Ray Moers at Surf Court Motel told police a man, woman and child checked into a room in his motel earlier this month, stayed three days then left owing an $86.55 bill.

The incident, reported Tuesday afternoon, occurred between Oct. 13 and 15.

Hit-run

Someone driving a dark blue car struck a city fire hydrant about 9:30 p.m. Monday then left the scene.

The incident occurred at the intersection of Lakeview Drive and Cape McCan. Police believe the car involved was a Toyota.

DOC

Mary C. Thomas was released on personal recognizance after being charged with disorderly conduct

Tuesday morning.

Thomas was arrested after police were called to Roatan Drug Store on report that she was involved in another offense. No charges were filed in connection with that offense, according to the police report.

Intoxication

Alicia Herrera Garcia, 42, of Aransas Pass was fined $58 after being arrested on a charge of public intoxication and a capias pro fine warrant Monday.

The incident occurred about 8:38 p.m.

Vandalism

Police were called to Ray's Texaco about 7:10 a.m. Tuesday on a report that someone shattered the glass lens window on one of the pumps.

Mischief

Police were called to the Rockport Linen Service Monday on report that someone broke a window in the building. The incident apparently occurred between 12:01 a.m. and 8 a.m.

Police believe entry was not gained into the building.

103 pounds of marijuana

Rockport.

Hewes said the suspects arrived at the Rockport drive-in in a 1977 Dodge Goodtime Van and a 1979 Ford Thunderbird. Both vehicles were confiscated in the arrest along with two .22 caliber pistols and an army knife.

Arrested and charged for delivery of marijuana were Mario Morin, 28, of Robstown; Jimmy Tijerina, Jr., 30, of Corpus Christi; Carlos Castro, 24, of Corpus Christi; Nerio Torres, 41, of Corpus Christi and John Whitfield, 35, of Lubbock. Two of the men are reported to be members of the Corpus Christi chapter of the Banditos motorcycle club.

Hewes said when the men arrived at the Rockport drive-in a signal was given and police moved in to make the arrest. He said the five men made no attempt to resist arrest.

The five were taken to the Aransas County Jail and held in lieu of $100,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Bonnie McCarty. Bond was later reduced to $50,000 each.

The sheriff said the arresting officers were assisted by lights from a Department of Public Safety helicopter that followed the two vehicles from Corpus Christi to the Rockport drive-in.

Wilcox

she said, "he got picked up once in a little town for not having any taglights. He was put in a cell where an animal didn't belong — I thought that was terrible that they would put a human being in a place like that!"

After that experience, Sue vowed if she ever had charge of a jail, it wouldn't be like the one her husband was thrown in.

At that time, such a possibility seemed remote. A graduate of high school, Sue didn't go to college but took a job as bookkeeper with a local company where she received her on-the-job training.

But, she said, "I got tired of bookkeeping — it's so repetitious."

Then she got the job with the sheriff's office here — a chance to put into practice some of her feelings about jails and prisoners.

"I'm proud of my jail!" she said. "With the sheriff's and everybody's help, it's a pleasure to work here."

"This job has really helped me to understand people," she added. "It's helped me to accept people more — accept them as they really are. I used to think everybody should be a certain way, meet my standards — but this job has helped me, and I hope I've helped those who are jailed here."

Part of her attitude too is based on a desire to treat her prisoners with respect. "I'm not a judge and jury," she says, "and these people haven't been convicted of a crime."

"I try to make their stay as pleasant as it can be under the circumstances."

The jail accommodates approximately 40 prisoners, "could probably handle more in a pinch," according to Sue and usually averages about 15 inmates a week though that number may jump to 25 during the week or two before the grand jury meets. To take care of this load, the jail employs four fulltime jailers and one standby.

A big plus for Sue in her business is "an understanding husband, I am fortunate," she said, "especially because, before we got a full staff, it seemed like they knew me better down here (at the sheriff's office) than my family did."

Asked if she's ever had any scares on her job, Sue said, "There have been scary times — mostly with people that are really, really intoxicated."

"But most of the time they're mouthy, not really violent," she said. "I've never had anyone hit me. They can be giving (the arresting) officers all kinds of mouth, but when they get in here, they calm down."

"Of course," she added, "you have to keep your guard up at all times — check on 'em (the prisoners) every hour. You have to constantly be alert."

"I guess," she mused, "if it came to fisticuffs, maybe a man could handle it better physically — but it's never come down to that, so I don't know for sure what would happen."

"I've proved to myself," she said, "and to other women (that) a woman can handle this job."

Sue Wilcox seems to handle it very well.

The Real Estate Consumer

The changing mobile home scene

The status of mobile homes in Texas seems to be changing.

More recent models are better built and less mobile, and that tends to make them retain value as time passes. Thus, mobile homes have taken on some of the characteristics associated with real property rather than personal property.

In most cases, Texas laws treat mobile homes as personal property. Mobile homes are titled like automobiles, rather than like real estate. Texas, however, considers mobile homes real property for taxation. The local taxing authorities tax mobile homes much as they do other homes — even when the mobile home owner does not own the land.

This tax treatment entities qualified owners to various homestead exemptions allowed by Texas property tax law. If you think your mobile home might qualify for a homestead exemption, contact your local tax office.

Safer homes for older adults

Here are some ideas which will make a house safer and more comfortable for an elderly resident.

To reduce the possibility of falls, floors should be smooth and level. Weatherstripping the bottom of doors helps eliminate the need for floor thresholds which hinder wheelchair movement.

Wall-to-wall carpeting — preferably short piled — provides warmth and comfort while reducing bothersome noises. Carpeting can be a problem, however, for people in wheelchairs, and it is best to avoid carpeting on stairs because it may contribute to loss of balance.

Select floor coverings that will not absorb grease and become slippery. Unwaxed vinyl is ideal for wheelchair users. Avoid throw rugs. They can obstruct wheelchair movement and are easy for the elderly to trip over.

Drawbacks to home ownership

The idea of owning a house appeals to most people. In addition to being a source of pride, a home can prove to be a good financial investment. But home ownership also can be a source of problems.

Instead of appreciating, a house could actually lose value, and that would mean you cannot even get your money back when it comes time to sell. Maintenance on a home can be expensive and time consuming, and neglected repairs can decrease the value of your property.

Finally, a mortgage is a long-term and often expensive commitment. Money you could have spent on vacations or new cars instead will have to be used for house payments. As you can see, home ownership does not fit everyone's pocketbook or lifestyle. Before you buy a house, consider the possible drawbacks as well as the anticipated benefits.

Cutting the price of your home.

As high mortgage rates continue, more and more homeowners are offering to help finance the sale of their home. Should you desire to sell your home, consider reducing the price rather than accepting a second mortgage.

All sellers hate the idea of reducing the price, but there are some reasons why doing so might be a better alternative. A number of significant changes associated with the home sale transaction are calculated as a percentage of the sale price. Reducing that price reduces the amount of the sales commission and the closing costs.

Finally, as a seller, you may offer a price reduction to obtain concessions from the buyer, such as passing on part of some other closing cost that is customarily paid by the seller.

Drawing house plans

A good set of plans is an absolute necessity if you are going to build a house.

Stock plans can be ordered from plan books, but sometimes these plans will not meet your needs. While it will cost more to have plans drawn, you will be more apt to get what you want. Rarely do architects draw plans for the average home today. They deal primarily with luxurious homes and commercial buildings.

An architectural draftsman may be your best bet. Ask at lumber companies for the names of draftsmen who draw house plans. Talk with homeowners who have used local draftsmen.

Shop prices as well as quality. Charges may be based upon square footage, time or even a percentage of the cost of the house. Be receptive to the draftsman's suggestions while keeping in mind your needs and wants.

Rockport records tax return increase

The latest sales tax payment report is out and recorded a 32 percent increase over the same period last year and the city got a total of $15,618.28 returned for the last reported period.

At this time last year Rockport had only received $9,903.68 in returned sales taxes.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office issued checks totalling $37.9 million to Texas cities as their share of the one percent city sales tax for the period ending Oct. 1, 1981.

The October payments push the 1981 yearly total of city sales tax payments to $518.3 million, up 16 percent over the same period in 1980.

Houston's check this month was for $7.7 million, bringing that city's 1981 payments to a total of $107.7 million.

Aransas Pass received $17,310.14 for that city's share of sales tax payments and recorded an increase of 17.92 percent over the same period in 1980.

Library notes

By Eunice Hamon

Aransas County Public Library, located at 318 N. Church, is open Monday through Friday, 9:30 a.m. - 6 p.m. This facility offers varied programs to be enjoyed by all residents and visitors. Winter visitors are cordially invited to become regular users of any library materials and services.

Films are scheduled every Friday for pre-school children. Interest and attendance in this activity has necessitated two film sessions. Films are shown at 9:30 and again at 10:30.

New additions to the 23,000 volume library collection includes a 15-volume series of books designed to aid children to start reading at an early age. "Acorn Magic Readers," published by Macmillan Pub. Co., uses easy and delightful visual cues to teach young children the pleasure of learning to read. The books are designed to be used by parents who are interested in their child's early development.

For the parents of older children, a 4-volume set, "The Life Cycle Library," has been added to the collection. This series will be helpful for those parents who need answers to questions asked by the young adolescent.

An exhibit of sculpture by local artist Phyllis Morrison, is now on display at the library. Plan to come by the library to see this interesting exhibit.

Aransas Pass holds Shrimporee

A year's worth of preparation has come to a close as the 33rd annual Shrimporee celebration in Aransas Pass is at hand.

Oct. 23, 24, and 25 are the three days set aside this year that will entertain thousands who annually flock to the Shrimp Capital of the World for three days of fun, frolic and pageantry.

Good food, coastal hospitality and contests for the whole family will abound in Roosevelt Stadium in Aransas Pass as the community celebrates and gives thanks for its economic dependence on the shrimping industry.

The Great Outhouse Race, The World Famous Men's Sexy Legs Contest, and the Shrimp Eating Contest are the three most popular and well known contests.

This year Shrimporee will come a benefit performance by Pau's Keolaomai Polynesian Dance Troup from Corpus Christi. The talented dancers will take you on a journey from the mainland to the most remote islands of the South Pacific.

Authentic native dancing lets you share the great joy of living characteristic to these distant lands of swaying palms.

Their performance will follow the beauty pageant.

There will also be a hula hoop marathon, a bubble gum blowoff, and a cowboy-hat contest.

In addition to the live music and entertainment planned the festival goers will be treated to the finest arts and crafts in South Texas in over 100 booths that will be displaying works for sale.

A virtual smorgasbord of good food awaits the festive appetite in the form of Mexican cuisine, western barbecue, baked goods, cotton candy, foot long hot dogs and an assortment of differently prepared bounty from the sea with shrimp, crab, oysters and fish.

Aransas Pass, will welcome you to the 1981 Shrimporee and hope you enjoy the results of year long preparation.

Focal point of the celebration will be the traditional blessing of the fleet at 5:00 p.m. on Shrimporee Friday, Oct. 23, to take place at the city docks.

An ecumenical group of clergy will board the Mother Ship along with banner-bearing teenagers and women carrying wreaths to be tossed into the waters of the Conn Brown Harbor in memory of those seamen who did not return.

The clergy will ask the Lord's blessing on the shrimp boats, and their crews and give thanks for the bountiful harvest they hope to get from the sea.

In keeping with the old world custom of blessing vessels, the revelry and fun will begin following the blessing with games, contests and beauty pageants.

Country Fever with a special appearance by Buddy White will thrill country music lovers. Their first show will begin Friday evening at 8:30 p.m. and the second show beginning at 10:30 p.m. on the stage in Roosevelt Stadium.

Aransas Pass is prepared to offer visitors the weekend of a lifetime, one that will make you want to come back again year after year.

Live entertainment, street dancing and good old-fashioned family fun awaits you at the 1981 Shrimporee in Aransas Pass, Oct. 23, 24, 25.

For further information call the Aransas Pass Chamber of Commerce Shrimporee Hot line at 512-758-3713.

Park animals unpredictable

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. — One of the first things I did upon getting settled in here was to drive into Yellowstone Park to see some of my favorite spots along the Madison and the Fire Hole Rivers. At the entrance gate I was handed my admission receipt which I was informed would be good for two weeks. (I don't know why; after all, they presumably should be selling the Golden Eagle Passport at $10 for unlimited entrance instead of giving 14 days' worth for only $21.)

At any rate it has been some years since I have fished the park and it was with distinct pleasure that I recognized spots where I had in the past been successful ... and gotten skunked. It was also with considerable irritation at my fellow humans that I recognized two animal jams between the West entrance and Madison Junction. The first, about halfway there, was caused by a magnificent bull elk feeding at a grassy bend of the Madison. There had to be at least 25 people, including women with toddlers clutching their hands, within 20 feet of that royal rack.

The second one, which was on the meadow through which the Gibbon River flows to join the Madison, was caused by about 12 moose cows, some with calves. While the people (of all ages, again) were less concentrated because of the spread of the meadow, there were several who were much too close for wisdom.

I can only assume that these people were given an entrance, as I was, a bright red folder marked DANGER. Among other things, it clearly points out that park animals are "wild and dangerous" and are "aggressive and unpredictable." Looking at these people one wonders if they can — or did — read what they were handed.

Purely as a spectator, I would not have wanted to see that tow-headed youngster skewered on the bull elk's sharp points nor that overweight woman trampled by an irate moose mother.

While it's true that many bears have been transported back into the wilds of the park, the fact remains that all those other animals are equally dangerous. Out-running them or outmaneuvering them is out of the question for us two-legged animals.

Novack named extension economist

COLLEGE STATION — James L. Novack has been named economist in management for the Coastal Bend area by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Novack assumes the position Oct. 21 and will be headquartered at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Corpus Christi. He will be responsible for conducting educational programs in farm and ranch management for a 16-county area stretching from Gonzales and Lavaca counties to the north to Kenedy County to the south. Novack fills the position formerly held by Lawrence Lippke who transferred to Bryan as Extension economist in management for South Central Texas.

Mr. Novack is experienced in such vital areas of farm and ranch management as budgeting, cash flow analysis, goal programming and computer programming, and we feel he can make an outstanding contribution to our overall programs," said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, Extension Service director.

Novack will be working with county Extension agents and county program building committees in planning and implementing educational programs aimed at more efficient farm and ranch production.

The newly appointed specialist most recently was a graduate research assistant at Clemson University where he was working toward a Ph.D. degree in applied economics. He holds B.S. and M.S. degrees in resource economics from New Hampshire University.

Novack was a visiting instructor in the Department of Agricultural Economics at Clemson University for more than a year.

Drivers to show proof of compliance

AUSTIN — Beginning Jan. 1, 1982, Texas drivers contacted by Department of Public Safety officers during traffic stops and vehicle accident investigations will be required to furnish proof of compliance with the new compulsory liability insurance law.

Under House Bill 197, an amendment to the Safety Responsibility Act approved this year by the Texas Legislature, all driver must carry minimum liability coverage for medical expenses of $10,000 per person ($20,000 for two or more persons) and property damages of $5,000.

Colonel Jim Adams, DPS director, said troopers will accept as evidence of insurance coverage the policy for the vehicle being operated or a document issued by the insurance company.

"Such a document must contain a statement that the liability coverage for the motor vehicle is the minimum prescribed by the law," Adams said.

Blair's Corner

Winter, winter — Where?

tioner is still on.

At work everybody is all smiles. "Fall is here!" you all say and you're all ready for it after the past 10 months of summer.

But it doesn't stay. By noon the mercury is edging up around 70 and by mid-afternoon you can put on your bikini and go to the beach again. Like the thief it is, autumn had stolen out of town...

But like the whooping crane, false autumn is a seasonal feature down here. It comes, stays a day or two then packs up and goes again, a pattern repeated sometimes for months.

Meanwhile we continue getting up and putting on sweaters in the morning and exchanging them for shorts in the afternoon. I don't know how the men feel, but for a woman deciding what to wear can be a real dilemma: it's too hot to wear your fall clothes — but you feel silly wearing sundresses in October...

Also, speaking of clothes, the "layered look" is not a fashion trend in this area; it's a way of life. You start out bundled in sweaters and coats over your shirt and pants or skirt, and the rest of your day is marked by little bundles of discarded clothing as the temperatures get warmer...

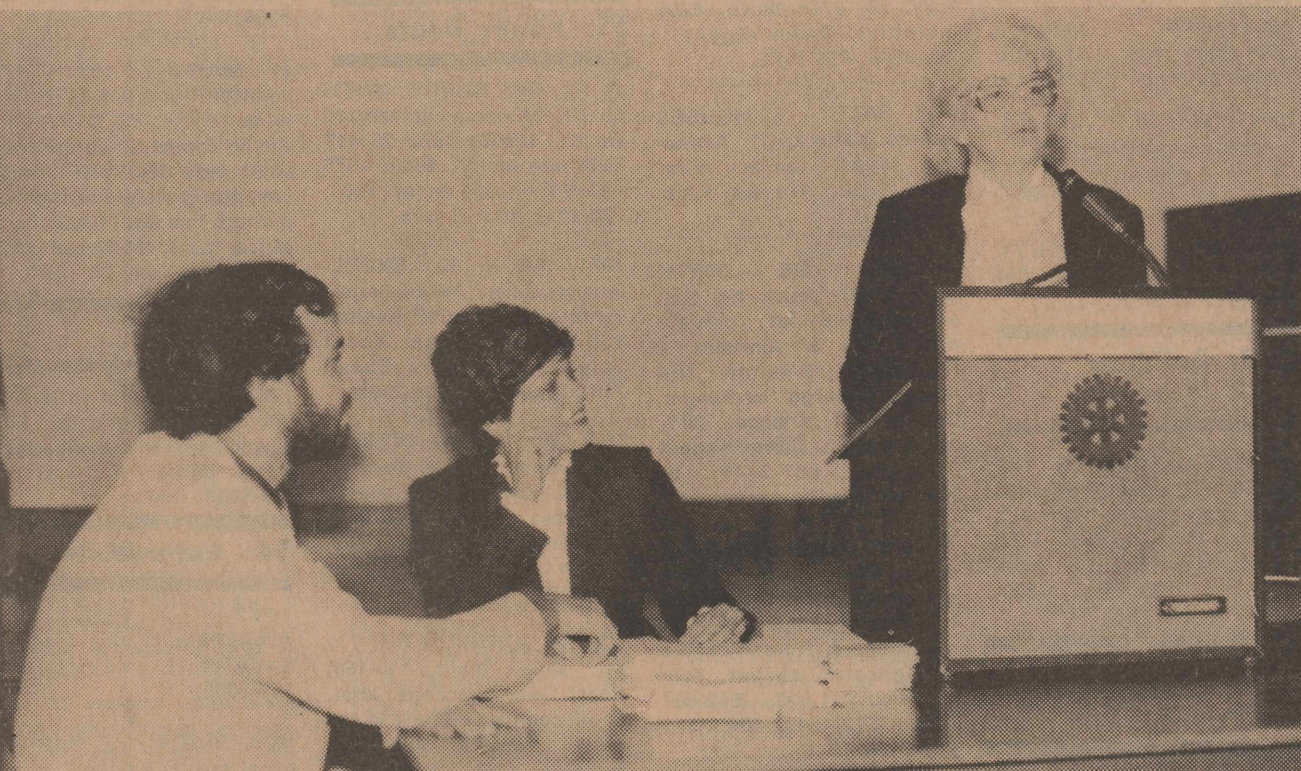

It could be worse, I, for one, would not enjoy life in the more northerly climes where fall is followed by a couple of weeks of winter, announcing its arrival by dumping 17 feet of snow on everything. I have a distinct aversion to frostbite.

By October, I'm tired of a summer that has dragged out since last April. I'm ready for a brisk touch of frost in the air — and when it does come, I'd like it to linger instead of burning off with the morning dew.

I'm ready for an autumn that will arrive now and stay until it yields (gracefully, I hope) to a winter that will arrive somewhere around late December or January.

I'm ready for an end to summer.

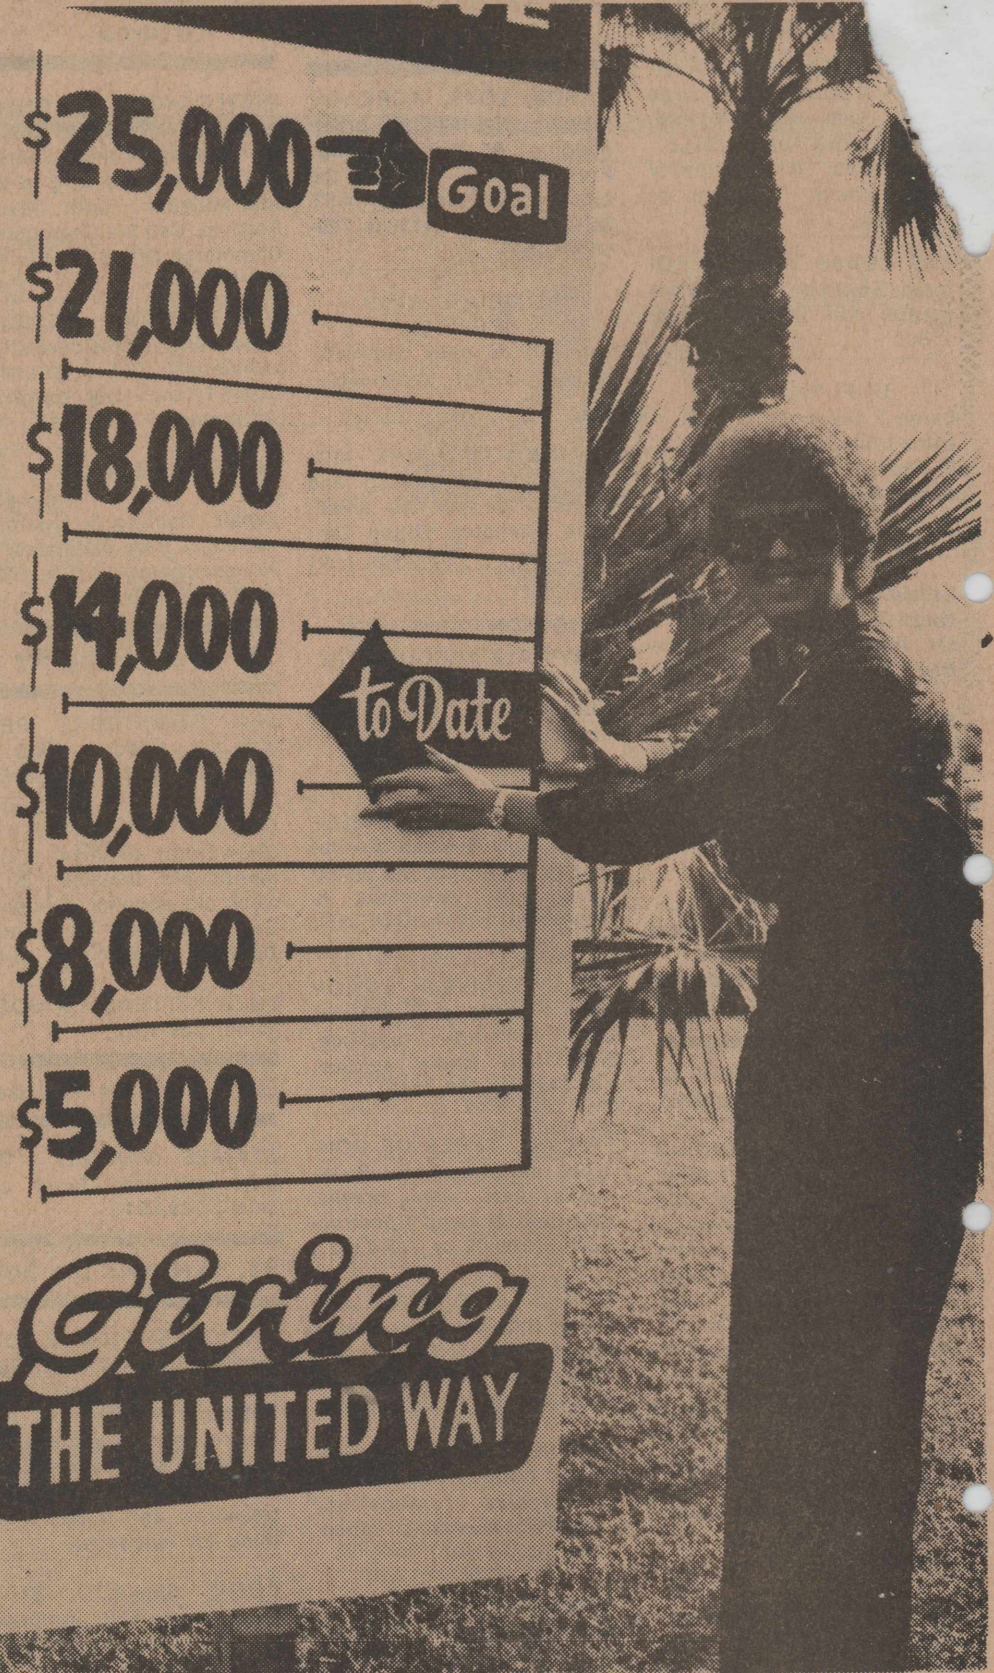

Health seminar

The Rockport Business and Professional Women's club sponsored a seminar on women's health on Wednesday, Oct. 21. Speakers for the informative program were [l to r] Phillip Levin, M.D. Charlotte Bell, a pharmaceutical representative and Helen Crutchfield, an assistant professor in the nursing program at Del Mar College. All three speakers were from Corpus Christi. Topics covered included breast cancer, human sexuality and women and stress. The seminar was part of the local B&PW chapter's observance of National Working Women's Week.

United Fund halfway there

United Fund Drive Chairman Johnette Brown had "did the honors" of announcing the first fund total of the drive, Thursday Oct. 22. The fund is nearly halfway to its goal of $25,000, with donations of $11,500. With only a month left in the drive, more donations are still badly needed to make the goal. Remember, "thanks to you, it's working, for all of us."
