Question Of The Week

Will Baseball Get Bigger Crowds?

By T. D. ELLIS
Quizzing Cameraman

"Do you think being in class B baseball will increase the attendance at Oiler park this season?"

Each year fans all over the nation watch baseball on television and from the bleachers. They watch every class of baseball from the major leagues to the Little Leaguers here in Pampa.

The Pampa Oilers will play their first home game in Oiler Park tonight. What will the attendance be?

Only one of the 10 persons interviewed on Pampa streets had any doubt that the hike from class C to class B baseball would increase attendance.

Pampans said:

Coleman Williams, 709 N. Wells, owner Tux Cleaners: "I feel the hike to class B will create more interest in the Oilers this year than was shown last year. I also feel that Grover Seitz coming back will help the attendance a great deal."

Mrs. Eugene Bass, 920 Magnolia, housewife: "Yes! It seems to me that with better competition and with better teams playing, the fans would enjoy the game more and thus increase the attendance."

Edward T. Adkison, 416 Elm, porter for Murfee's: "Yes I think anytime the Oilers get a better baseball team there will be more people go out to watch them play."

Mrs. Ruth Jordan, courthouse, housewife: "If the Oilers were in class D I would enjoy watching them play but being in class B will be better. I think more people will be interested in baseball this year."

Harold Scrimshire, 2124 Hamilton, service mgr. Cornelius Mtr. Co.: "If the Oilers get their team up to compete in class B then the attendance will be better. It's as much difference between high school and college football. The higher the class the better grade of ball consequently more interest."

Lucille Turner, 1225 Terrace, Mgr. Levine's Ready To Wear Department: "Sure! I think being in a class B league will increase attendance and I also feel that Red Dial will be a drawing card this year to help boost attendance."

Dean Monday, 220 N. Nelson, owner service station: "I don't see that it will increase attendance to hike the Oilers from C to class B baseball. I think Pampa will go out to watch a good ball game whether it is class A, B or C. I feel the season tickets will have more to do with the attendance increase than anything."

Bob Young, 1116 Prairie Drive, fireman: "I think it should increase the attendance quite a bit but I wouldn't attempt to say how much. I think the manager, Grover Seitz, will help a lot because I

Segregate Coverage Criticized

Editors Told Press Not Doing Good Job

By JOHN L. CUTTER

WASHINGTON — Newspaper editors were told Friday they have not done a good job of covering the story of racial integration in the public schools.

C. A. McKnight, director of the Southern Education Reporting Service, told the American Society of Newspaper Editors the story has received "minimum coverage" and that it has "all too often been unbalanced and frequently distorted."

McKnight is a member of ASNE and a former editor of the Charlotte (N. C.) News. The Southern Education Reporting Service, financed by a subsidiary of the Ford Foundation, was set up after the Supreme Court decision against public school segregation to report events in 17 southern and border states. Its policy-making body is a board of 12 newspapermen and educators.

McKnight told the editors that desegregation is a bigger and more important story than the coverage would indicate.

He said Negro migration out of the South has made the race question "almost as much a national dilemma as it has been a regional dilemma." He said that "too few of us in the newspaper business grasp the full dimensions of the race question as it affects our regional, our national and our international existence today."

Austrian Talk Set May 2

Western Big Three To Meet With Reds

LONDON — UP — The Western Big Three agreed Friday to meet with Russia May 2 to draft an Austrian state treaty and called a conference of diplomats in London to lay the groundwork for still broader Big Four talks.

The West swung into a summer diplomatic offensive as French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay flew back to Paris after London conferences designed to align French and British policies towards world trouble spots.

British officials disclosed the three western ambassadors in Moscow delivered to the Soviet foreign ministry Friday identical notes calling for a meeting of Big Four ambassadors in Vienna May 2 to write the treaty freeing Austria from military occupation.

The western replies side-stepped Russia's proposal for the Big Four foreign ministers to meet urgently to complete the long-delayed treaty. The Soviet proposal was made after agreement was reached with Austrian officials in Moscow on a treaty draft.

Reliable sources said Friday's western notes told Russia the Big Four ambassadors should meet first to get diplomatic spadework out of the way. The West added that the foreign ministers could then meet afterward to sign any treaty agreed on, the sources said.

'Co-Existence' Critic Angers Prime Minister Of India

By GENE SYMONDS

BANDUNG —UP — Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru exploded with anger Friday at the Afro-Asian conference when the Turkish delegate expressed open skepticism of the idea of peaceful co-existence with communism.

Nehru, who had joined forces earlier Friday with Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-Lai in a defense of Communist policies in Europe, took bitter exception to remarks by Turkey's Fatin Rustu Zorlu in a no-holds barred meeting of the conference political committee.

"War is approaching," Nehru said, and the only way to avoid it is to "lessen tension through peaceful co-existence."

Issues Passionate Appeal

Nehru then issued a passionate appeal to the United States and Russia to stop making atomic and hydrogen bombs and submitted a proposal to place the conference on record as opposed to nuclear weapons of any type.

The clash between Nehru and Zorlu was touched off when the Turk made a speech upholding the principles of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and said his country was extremely skeptical of Nehru's principle of co-existence.

It came during a discussion by the 29-nation conference of world peace and relaxation of international tension, taken up by the political committee when the conference became hopelessly snarled on whether Communist "subversion and infiltration" constituted a new form of colonialism.

Subcommittee Adjourns

A nine-nation subcommittee trying to write a resolution condemning colonialism was unable to reach agreement and adjourned until Saturday without a decision.

The main political committee moved on to a study of world peace and co-operation under which Ceylon is expected to ask that Formosa be placed under a trusteeship.

Sir John Kotelawala of Ceylon, who suggested trusteeship at a press conference Thursday, failed again Friday in his efforts to call an eight-nation conference on the subject of Formosa.

Montgomery Ward Control Fight On

CHICAGO —UP— The multi-million dollar battle between young financier Louis E. Wolfson and iron-handed Sewell L. Avery for control of Montgomery Ward & Co. reached the showdown Thursday at a climactic stockholders' meeting.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the nations' second biggest mail order house opened in the Medinah Temple on Chicago's near north side. A $721 million nest egg in cash and bonds, was at stake.

Wolfson, handsome "golden boy" of modern finance, and Avery, 81-year-old lord of Ward's since 1931, both put up a slate of nine directors for election.

Five Members Needed

Election of five members to the board would mean control. Avery forces said they were sure of at least seven seats. Wolfson claimed he had four directorships in the bag and the fifth would come Friday, either by a defection in the Avery ranks or a sudden switch-over at the meeting.

Upwards of 4,500 stockholders were expected to choose between the slates at the tense, heated meeting. But their final decision will probably not be known for about three weeks, when the millions of votes have been counted and validated.

Avery and Wolfson, both outwardly exuding confidence, saw eagh other face to face for the first time in their lives at Friday's meeting.

Two more strangely - matched opponents would be hard to find.

Wolfson, 43, is dark and magnetic, with an athlete's build he has preserved from his days as a University of Georgia football star.

Farlayed Junkyard

The soft-spoken tycoon has parlayed a family junkyard in Florida into a $231 million industrial empire. He heads a group of fast-moving, fast-thinking businessmen who have taken over a number of top businesses and now have their sights set on the juicy plum of Montgomery Ward.

Avery, on the other hand, is the white-haired, crusty veteran of a score of financial battles.

He took over Ward's in the depths of the depression and in three short years turned a $9 million loss into a $9 million profit.

But he ruled Ward's with an iron hand and through the years many of his top executives resigned rather than accept his absolute control. During World War II Avery allowed himself to be carried bodily from his office rather than submit to a War Labor Board directive.

89 Persons Attend Class On Uranium

The first class of the five-class uranium prospecting course began 30 minutes late last night—there were so many applicants.

A total of 89 persons—most of them Pampans—signed up last night for the course and planked down $5 apiece.

The first class, which was on geology and map reading, was scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., but at 7:25 prospective class-goers were still lined up on the stairway to the third floor of the Courthouse where the 31st District Courtroom is. Two girls kept busy taking applications.

In the last five or six years, W. M. Fitzgerald, course instructor, began encouragingly, amateurs "have found as much uranium as professionals." He held the class' interest for the next two hours.

Fitzgerald had some specimens of uranium-bearing rock on display on the front bench of the courtroom and, before the actual class began, classgoers were inspecting them. An Amarillo department store had a display on Geiger counters.

William Soule, assistant head of the Amarillo College vocational department which is sponsoring the course, introduced Fitzgerald. Scule told The Pampa Daily News that he would be glad for some local firms to contact him so they could display any wares in the next four classes having to do with the uranium prospecting course.

The second two-hour class of the 10-hour course will be held at 7 p. m. next Thursday and will concern mineralogy and uranium minerals. A film will probably be shown, Soule said.

Lawyer Killed By Car Bomb

PORTLAND, Ore. —UP— Oliver Kermit Smith, 35-year-old attorney who police said recently purchased a gun for protection, was killed Thursday night when a bomb wrecked his car as he started home from a country club.

Police described it as a slaying and said it was "the most vicious" they had seen in years. The motive was not known.

Last month Smith, a purple heart war veteran, told police he was assaulted in the garage of his home by a man who struck him on the head several times.

Last week Smith applied for a permit to carry a gun saying he needed it for "protection", police said.

Virgil Crum, Smith's law partner, had no theory to explain the blast or the March assault.

Traffic Rolls Over Bridge

Charles W. Smith, Amarillo, assistant district highway engineer, was at the site of the Canadian River Bridge, between Pampa and Perryton, late this morning to make the final official inspection.

If the bridge is accepted by Smith, the bridge will become the property of the state. Up to this time, resident highway engineers explained today, Frost Construction Co., Hydro, Okla., the contractor, has actually owned it.

Accompanying Smith to the bridge site this morning were G. K. Reading, senior resident highway engineer, and George Jones and Lewis White, who have been supervising the construction job.

Today was the first day the public has been permitted officially to use the 29-span, 3,250-foot-long bridge. Reading yesterday announced the opening day for vehicular traffic. The dedication of the bridge will be one week from today.

Tax Touch Plans: $6 Billion Monthly

WASHINGTON — UP — The Treasury hopes to tap the weary American taxpayer for nearly $6 billion every 30 days during the final months of the current fiscal year.

If the taxpayer can come up with it, he may and probably will be rewarded with a tax reduction in 1956. What President Eisenhower is shooting at is a modest, general tax cut next year giving a break to rich and poor, alike.

The Treasury reported this week on the first nine months of the fiscal year to March 31. As of that date the deficit was a staggering $3.1 billion. But better times seem to be coming.

Stands Pat on Estimate

The Treasury is standing pat on its estimate of last January that the budget will be no more than $4.5 billion in the red when the fiscal year ends next June 30. To reduce the deficit to that figure the Treasury must take in about $5,630,000,000 in taxes in each of the three final months, April, May and June.

That compares with an average tax take of about $4,660,000,000 during each of the preceding nine months. There is not much doubt that American taxpayers will come up with the larger figure. It is quite likely they will make it more.

The lesser figure is about what taxpayers poured into the Treasury in the final three months of the fiscal year in 1954. The 1955 April-May-June take could be more on the basis of:

1. Postponement of individual income tax payments this year from March 15 to April 15. That was the deadline date for payment of 1954 individual income taxes which had not been paid already by the withholding method.

Near-Record Earnings

2. Current withholding is from near-record individual earnings. During the 1954 April-May-June withholding period there was a slump in individual earnings.

3. Corporations will pay on June 15 50 per cent of the tax due on 1954 income. On June 15 last year they paid only 45 per cent.

Modifying the foregoing is the fact that 1954 was a year of moderate business recession which must be reflected in the April 15 individual tax payments and the June 15 collections from corporations.

The Eisenhower administration is making steady progress toward the spending and revenue figures at which the President believes Treasury books might level off in the black—for a change. That would be at about $60 billion of spending and revenue annually.

Murder Trial Venire Due

District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich and Dist. Clerk Helen Sprinkle today were scheduled to pick a special venire of 100 men and women for the May 23 trial of Fred C. Williams, 31, of Pampa, charged with the Feb. 23 murder of Oran J. Payne, Pampa laundry operator.

The list of 100 persons will be turned over to the sheriff's office and each will be notified in person of his or her selection.

By law, Williams had the right to be present when the special venire was pulled.

District Atty. Bill Waters will be the prosecutor and Dusty Miller, noted Amarillo criminal lawyer, will defend Williams.

The Pampa News has learned that Payne's family is attempting to employ a special prosecutor in the case, but nothing definite has come to light.

TEXAS HAS SMALLEST MEN YANKEE SURVEY SAYS SO

NEW YORK —UP— Texas is big. Texas oil wells are big. Texas ranches are big. Texas hats are big. Texas banks are literally bulging. But—Texas men are the littlest men in the United States.

The United Press takes no responsibility for this statement. It is told to us by the public relations firm of Zachary and Liss, New York City, who say it was discovered in a poll of haberdashers made for the sport chief company, "Casual Wear Stylists." Texas men: Write them, not us.

Texas stores it is reported, sell more short, small men's clothes than those in any other state.

The tallest sizes in the United States, the survey showed, are sold in Rutland, Vt.

Baraboo Still Waiting For TV Apology

BARABOO, Wis. —UP— Baraboo's outraged citizens waited Thursday for an apology from television star Danny Thomas after hearing reports that his April 26 show pictures them as hicks.

Some riled-up residents, including the chamber of commerce, demanded that Thomas grant them "equal" to "show a true picture of Barbara" and correct an "injustice" to their fair city.

In Hollywood, Thomas blamed the whole thing on his writers. He said he told them to use a fictitious name for the town. But he denied Baraboo was slandered.

He said that in the end "the program glorifies Baraboo and all the small towns like it from coast to coast."

The filmed show reportedly depicts Thomas a protesting a visit to in-laws in Baraboo.

"These people don't talk, they oink," Thomas says. At another point in the show, he says, "your mother's hometown don't even have electricity yet—I'll bet they are waiting to see if it's gonna catch on."

Fat Man Tells How He Keeps His Trim, 260-Pound Figure

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTO N—UP—Jim Beard makes a fat living by eating and he can prove it. He weighs 260 pounds, without the elephant blanket he wears for a sports coat.

"Want to know something about fancy cooking?" he said as he tested his tonnage on an office chair.

I said I wasn't interested in any fat man's meals. How about the poor fellow's lunch pail?

"Well," he said, ignoring the poor man, "if you can afford it and know how to cook, you ought to start off the day with some ham, half a dozen eggs, and maybe a big hamburger and some cold steak and some tea. No milk. It's fattening. That menu should hold you until the first coffee break."

The fat man said if you want to break from the midriff, for lunch you should reserve yourself with a consomme, a large platter of lobster and an egg dish and a large bowl of fruit.

"Don't walk away from your lunch," Jim said. "You can have seconds—or the other half of the lobster."

As for the working man's lunch pail, he said:

"You can have a big steak, rare in the middle. And maybe a few mushrooms and a couple of deep fried chicken livers with tarragon and white wine. This, you must remember, is a meal for two. And asparagus, cut in shreds and cooked for two minutes. Some cheeses and some (meaning a lot) of thin pancakes. And some bananas, which you bake in their hides and then peel and cook in cognac."

Jim was a good, and a fast talker, but I still was thinking about the working man.

"Well," the fat lad said, "If you want to be plebeian."

According to the well-known expert and "consultant" on cooking who claims he was born in a kitchen, the lunch pail of the worker should contain:

A large portion of beef, potato, onions and salt and pepper. This should be baked by means ahead of time and tucked into a couple of hunks of Cracklich pastry.

"It's pretty good when cold," said the fat boy. "I've eaten it myself a couple of times when I was real hungry."

If the pail is big enough, the expert added, it also should contain some fruit and bread, and a thermos jug of coffee, tea or wine, and any left-overs from the ice box.

"I realize that doesn't sound like lunch," Jim said, "but a working man ought to take it easy at lunch time. He can let his belt out at the big meal at supper time."

Lost 48 Pounds With Barcentrate

"I weighed 178 pounds when I commenced to take Barcentrate", writes Mrs. Clifford Morgan, 3212 Tenth St., Port Arthur, Texas. "I lost 5 pounds the first week. I now weigh 130 pounds. Barcentrate makes me feel better and keeps me regular."

Just get 4 ounces of Barcentrate at your druggist. Mix with grapefruit juice as directed on label. Then take according to directions. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the way to take off ugly fat, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Benson To Visit Amarillo On Area Tour

WASHINGTON —UP— Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson said Thursday he will visit five Great Plains States next week to investigate drouth and dust conditions.

He will inspect affected areas in Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. The department said April 13 that more than 5 million acres of land in these states and Nebraska and Wyoming were damaged by severe wind storms during March. This brought the total land damaged by wind erosion since last November to more than 10 million acres. Another 20 million acres in the area are ready to blow.

Benson will leave by plane Monday for a meeting that night at Denver, Colo.; and Johnson, Ulysses, and Liberal, Kan., where he will remain overnight. A lunch meeting is being arranged at Lamar.

Wednesday, he will go to Guymon, Okla.; Stratford and Amarillo, Tex.; and Tucumcari, N. M. He will fly back to Washington from Tucumcari.

Benson also announced appointment of a committee of agency heads within the department to draft a new program of action getting at the cause of the drouth and dust conditions.

"For years we have been treating the effects of these conditions," Benson said. "This committee is set up to develop an action program growing out of a thorough review of present programs of the department and to make recommendations which will treat the cause of the problem, but just the effects. Through courageous leadership and close team work with people in the states, the department will make a determined effort to assist in getting land into its best use. This is an action committee and not a study group."

The committee will evaluate present programs, recommend changes and develop new programs in an effort to provide effective means to prevent extensive land damage.

Sponsor Predicts Colorado River Project Will Get OK

WASHINGTON —UP— A house sponsor of a bill to authorize the $1.5 billion upper Colorado project, passed by a 58 to 22 vote in the Senate late Wednesday, predicted Thursday the project will get House committee approval early next month.

Rep. Wayne Aspinall (D-Colo.) said, however, the House bill may "differ in many respects" from the Senate measure. He is author of one of several house bills to authorize the project and is chairman of the Interior Subcommittee handling them.

He declined to predict whether the House committee will keep controversial Echo Park Dam in the project. The Senate voted 52 to 39 to retain the dam, which conservationists have condemned as an invasion of Dinosaur National Monument.

The Senate bill woud authorize immediate construction of five other major dams and 12 participating water supply units in the four-state area of Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and New Mexico. Twenty-one other units would be authorized conditionally, subject to further congressional action.

Early Construction

Aspinall said the House committee is likely to stay closer to administration recommendations for early construction only of two dams and 14 water supply units.

The committee added another dam, Curecanti in Colorado, to the administration recommendation for Echo Park and Glen Canyon in a bill it approved by a 13-to-12 vote last year. The measure did not come to a house vote.

Aspinall said if additional units are put in the House bill they probaby will be placed in a programming section, setting priority for further studies on them.

His subcommittee will not be able to take the bill up again until after May 1, Aspinall said, but will work "as rapidly as possible" on it after that. It has been holding hearings on it over the past two months.

He termed the Senate vote on the project "very good."

Senate passage of the bill was assured with the defeat of the Park Dam. It was proposed by Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) who said it has been national policy for 50 years to exclude commercial development, "whether by the government or others," from national parks.

Recent Invasion

"That policy will be breached if this amendment is not adopted," he said.

Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) replied that there were assurances when Dinosaur National Monument was enlarged in 1938 that power site reservations would be respected.

He said people in the upper basin "resent this invasion by conservationists into this area set aside for powe development."

Neuberger voted for the bill on the final roll call.

California's two senators, Republicans William F. Knowland and Thomas H. Kuchel, voted against the bill and for elimination of Echo Park. Southern California interests have contended the project will jeopardize their water supplies from the Colorado River.

All the senators from the six other states of the Colorado Basin voted for the bill and against elimination of Echo Park.

Soviet Warns Of Military Plans

MOSCOW — UP — Communist leader Nikita S. Khrushchev repeated his warnings Wednesday night that Russia and her allies will set up a "joint military command" to counter West German rearmament.

Khrushchev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist party, also said that although "contradictions do exist between capitalist and socialist countries... peaceful coexistence is the only correct and wise path of development."

He spoke in Warsaw at a celebration of the 10th anniversary of the signing of the Soviet - Polish treaty of friendship and mutual aid.

Texas Skies Clearing Up

By UNITED PRESS

Texas skies were generally partly cloudy Friday and forecasters said all the storm activity had moved eastward out of the state.

A tornado struck Wardview, La., southeast of Texarkana, Thursday, and severe hail was reported at Plain Dealing and Princeton, La., between Texarkana and Shreveport.

That tornado came after an earlier one in Arkansas that killed Mrs. Odessa Leslie when her house near Pine Bluff collapsed.

Baseball-sized hail also hit at along with the tornado at Wardview. The Shreveport Times said the storm left smashed windows, damaged buildings and broken trees.

At least one residence was demolished and many others damaged. A store front was blown away.

Baseball-sied hal also hit at Plain Dealing. The roof of the Canfield variety store was damaged. Hail smashed in the windows of the telephone exchange there, but operators stuck to their jobs, although soaked by rain coming in the window.

The Shreveport weather bureau said nine tenant houses were destroyed along the Red River in Bossier parish.

The only rain reported in Texas for the 24 hours ending at 6:30 a.m. Friday was .01 inch at Texarkana. Weather bureau forecasters said there may be some scattered thundershowers Friday or Saturday in the eastern half of the state. Temperatures will continue warm.

High temperatures in Texas Thursday ranged from 97 degrees at Mineral Wells to 79 at Galveston. The coolest spot in the state early Friday was Dalhart, with a low of 48, while at Corpus Christi the temperature didn't get below 74.

Other lows included Lubbock 49, Amarillo 50, Presidio 52, El Paso 60 Midland 64, Wichita Falls 65, Lufkin and Texarkana 66, Abilene 68, Mineral Wells, Waco, Austin and Houston 69, San Antonio 70, Port Arthur, Dallas and Fort Worth 71, Del Rio 72 and Brownsville and Galveston 73.

DAR Ladies All Shook Up Eisenhower Stood 'em Up

WASHINGTON —UP— President Eisenhower angered the Daughters of the American Revolution Friday because he failed to make a personal appearance at their 64th annual Congress which is meeting only two blocks from the White House.

Some of the daughters were reported "absolutely furious" that Mr. Eisenhower sent only a brief message to greet them on the last day of their meeting.

The congress program had announced that both President and Mrs. Eisenhower "have accepted the invitation to the 64th Congress" and delegates had been anxiously awaiting a promised personal visit all week.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who to the daughters' delight became a member and personally greeted the DAR in 1953 bowed out earlier in the week, choosing to remain at the presidential farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

But there still were no hard feelings until the President still failed to show after returning to Washington Wednesday from a visit to his Augusta, Ga., retreat. Nothing, at least, like the 20-years of "no speaking" between Presidents and the DAR during the Roosevelt-Truman days. That started when former President Roosevelt addressed the daughters as "fellow immigrants." Mr. Truman did nothing to heal the breach.

The daughters were ready to report to the President that a marker had been placed at Mrs. Eisenhower's birthplace at Boone, Iowa, last November by the DAR, and that the Kansas state DAR society already has raised $15,000 of a planned $20,000 donation to the Eisenhower memorial at Abilene, Kan.

Drug Men Ask Vaccine Controls

WASHINGTON —UP—The drug industry urged the National Polio Conference here Friday to recommend creation of an impartial committee to ride herd on the distribution of all Salk vaccine.

It said this would be the best way to assure fair handling of the life-saving shots during the next 180 days when supplies are especially short.

The secret conference sessions got underway Friday morning with about 100 delegates on hand from the government, public health services, medical profession, drug industry and National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Mrs. Buddy Eppersen, 323 N. Ward, housewife: "I think now that the Oilers are in class B the attendance will increase. I think the season tickets sales and the team being a community project will help the attendance also. More people will be interested in baseball now that it is not a private business.

Mrs. E. A. Mack, 1116 S. Barnes, housewife: "I would think having a better brand of baseball would increase interest and attendance. I certainly hope it does because I think we need our baseball team. With the civic clubs operating the club I am sure more people will be connected with the team and therefore more people will attend.

Lions Club Has Twin Bill

Lions Club luncheon Thursday featured a twin bill.

Amos Harris, Kingsmill farmer, was presented with a plaque recognizing his work in the field of farming conservation, in connection with the Fort Worth Press' "Save Our Soil and Save Texas" contest. He was named the "Best Conservation Farmer" in Gray County by the local Soil Conservation District during 1955.

Ralph Thomas, chairman of the Lions agriculture committee, in presenting the award said that Harris "was one of the most enthusiastic supporters" in Gray County of agricultural and conservation experiments, taking an active part in the conservation district ever since its formation in 1946.

In connection with the celebration of "Insurance Week" in Pampa, Hollis L. Manly, Jr., insurance company executive from Waco, pointed out what makes the insurance business "tick." Essentially, he felt, three fundamentals were essential to its existence, a set of essentials which, he emphasized apply to all business.

Fundamental to the growth and existence of the business, he asserted, was that it fulfills a want, shows faith in the American system and business, and that there were men "fired" with an idea as to its worth and were willing to work for it.

Manly said life insurance as we know it today, is only a recent phenomenon in this country, beginning with the first policies being issued in 1843.

Today, he said, there is some $200 billions in life insurance in force in the United States, as compared to only $45 billions only 30 years ago. The average man according to Manly contributes 3 per cent of his income to life insurance, but at the time of his death, it constitutes 85 per cent of what he is able to leave behind.

Conservation District Hires Allen Hoover

Allen Hoover, local implement dealer, was appointed manager of conservation equipment in the Pampa area. The appointment was reported today by the board of supervisors of the Gray County Conservation District.

This represents the completion of plans outlined two years ago by the board to station the equipment throughout the district in places where it would not only be cared for but be easily accessible to area farmers. Previously, arrangements have been made with Peb Everett of McLean, Bill Eberting of Laketon and Curtis Schaffer of Grandview to manage the equipment owned by the district in their communities, according to Jim Strawn, district conservationist.

Equipment to be cared for by Hoover includes the recently-purchased land plane, grass drill and manure spreader. He will also be in charge of the upkeep, routing and rental collections for the machinery.

Equipment owned by the district includes seven grass drills, two manure spreaders, a sweep plow, fertilizer distributor, a legume seeder and land plane.

Noted Lawyer Dies In Dallas

DALLAS —UP—Maury Hughes, one of the most noted defense lawyers in Texas and a candidate in 1934 for governor, died in St. Paul's Hospital Thursday night.

Hughes, 60, was hospitalized on Monday after suffering a heart attack at his home. His heart failed him again Thursday night and at 7:30 p.m. he was pronounced dead.

Hughes was the son of a native Texan but was born in San Diego, Calif., where his attorney father, J. W. Hughes, moved because of his health. His father was a California circuit judge until his death.

When his father died, Maury's mother brought the family back to her home in Gainesville. Maury attended Austin College in Sherman and gained his law degree from the University of Virginia.

He returned to Texas, established a law practice in Dallas, and then joined the Army as a private in World War I. He was discharged a captain and decorated with a French Croix de Guerre for leading a bunch of Texans to wipe out a German machinegun nest.

After the war, he was elected district attorney of Dallas county and, as an opponent of the Ku Klux Klan, was elected president of the county and district attorneys association of Texas.

Hughes, who owned a farm near Mesquite on which he liked to throw barbecues at election time, headed the state Democratic executive committee from 1932-1934. He resigned to run for governor but was defeated by former Gov. James V. Allred.

Funeral services are pending. Hughes was survived by his wife, two sons, Maury Jr. and Robert, and four grandchildren.

Cons With Legal Gimmicks Flood Courts, Shepperd Says

DALLAS —UP—Attorney General John Ben Shepperd said Friday convicts employing legal gimmicks in an effort to get out of prison are flooding the courts with petitions that are "generally preposterous and groundless."

In a speech prepared for a conference on administration of criminal justice at the Southwestern Legal Center, Shepperd said numerous petitions for writs of habeas corpus filed by "convict writers who have achieved a degree of legal skill" are causing waste of time and money in reviewing criminal cases.

"One convict has presented so many that he now calls the court clerk by his first name when he writes," he said.

Commenting on the "willing assumption" of federal courts that defendants have not been granted fair trials in state courts, Shepperd urged adoption of a model post conviction procedure act by the states to establish a means for reviewing cases where defendants' constitutional rights are questioned.

"Federal courts should recognize that our state courts have integrity and ability and are just as concerned for the rights of the accused as they are," he said.

"There is no reason for the federal courts to review the constitutional points already studied by the state's highest criminal court in sustaining a conviction," Shepperd added.

Scouts To Practice For Circus

Bicycle riders will be jumping through flaming hoops and off 14 inch springboards at the set practice session for the Boy Scout Circus Bicycle Act in Harvester Stadium at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

This practice session will be the last one open for new riders wishing to be a part of the act. A new 14-inch springboard has been obtained for the act and practice also will continue on the flaming hoop act.

Troop 22, sponsored by the First Baptist Church; Troop 14, sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church; Troop 4, sponsored by the First Christian Church, and Troop 24, sponsored by St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, are the groups entered in the act but any scout may enter the act if he does so by Sunday.

The uniform for the act, chosen at the last practice session, will be a T-shirt, blue jeans, and red caps.

Identification Tags To Be Available Here

Civil defense identification tags for Pampans are becoming a reality with the announcement by Pet Milk Co. that they will supply I. D. tags through the local stores.

Civil Defense Administrator, B. R. Nuckols, has urged citizens of Pampa and the surrounding area to watch for announcements of when the tags will be available.

The tags would aid in identifying persons killed or injured in event of atomic attack or civil disaster. The names of children and their parents would be inscribed on the tags, thus assisting in finding homes of lost children or returning them to their family in case of a tornado or other destructive storm.

Federal Civil Defense Administrator, Val Peterson, recently urged Americans to support identification tagging programs for civilians, "Because, in natural disaster, the tags can help reduce anxiety, in war they could be essential to the national well-being."

Lions To Aid 4-H Team Make Trip

Representing Gray County on the team are David Miller, Mike Price, John Dial, and Sam Condo. Price was high individual scorer at the district elimination. Following the Oklahoma City contest the boys will compete in the state contest at College Station June 8-10.

Tax Hearing Due In May

The annual public hearing of the tax equalization boards for the Pampa Independent School District and the City of Pampa will probably be held in mid-May.

School Business Mgr. Roy McMillen said his equalization board, selected Monday night, would not meet till the Pampa City Commission picks its equalization board. For two weeks now, the city commission has had that item on the agenda, but each time something has caused a delay in action.

The oil hearing on evaluation, which concerns only the schools and not the city, has been tentatively set for May 16, McMillen said.

On the schools tax board of equalization, picked by the Pampa school board, are DeLea Vicars, Ray McKernan, L. L. Sone and F. M. Samples. The city commission will pick three or four from its tax advisory board: C. P. Pursley, H. E. Schwartz, A. C. Troop, Gene Lewis and George Scott.

The tax equalization boards for the City of Pampa and the Pampa Independent School District meet together for the sake of convenience, but they are strictly separate bodies and act accordingly.

The result is that you are liable to follow these lower patterns, limit your lifework, and adopt into your experience the angular outline and deformity of matter models. MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH

THE MIRACLE CALLED MAN

Read Hebrews 2:1-8; Philippians 4:4 - 8

Man has intellectual symptoms of greatness. Nothing in all creation can compare with the mind of man. Make a list of the truly great gifts with which you are endowed—reason, memory, imagination, judgement, inventive ability, creative powers — and bow your head in gratitude to God for your rich estate. Glance for just one little minute at the amazing satisfaction made available by these powers.

Estimate if you can the vast range of knowledge covered by just one man's mind, in comparison with the intellectual capacity of any other creature. Leaf through the catalog of some great university and count the number of graduate courses offered to research students. Then there is the miracle of any great library wherein are stored the treasures of wisdom brought down from the past. The intellectual giants of all the yesterdays have made their deposit in that bank; the great thinking of the centuries is there.

At the edge of a small Missouri city there lived an eccentric old man. The townsfolk said he was very poor, and that he lived alone. But a stranger was invited one evening to share the old man's simple hospitality, and he discovered the humble little living room lined with shelves whereon stood books containing wisdom out of all the past. After the plain meal was finished, the old man took down the great masters and began reading from them. Then it was that the stranger discovered the old man was neither poor nor alone. The riches of all time were there within his arm's reach, and he companioned every evening with the greatest minds of history. No man in the community was as rich as he was, nor entertained such guests.

I may not be able to understand all thy mysteries, O God, but I can comprehend enough of thy truth to enable me to live above the level of the brute creation and share some of thy thoughts. I will rejoice in the noblest thoughts that have come to me this day, and accept them as coming from thee. Amen.

What give the greatest satisfactions in life: Physical sensations? Mental efforts? Spiritual joys, such as come with moral victories? Which are you cultivating?

Women In The Church

Kwassui Junior College, Nagasaki, Japan, is celebrating the seventy - fifth anniversary of its founding. In the years since 1897, when Miss Elizabeth Russell, an American missionary, opened the school with one frightened little Japanese girl on a cold winter morning, the school has grown to its present enrollment of 800 high school girls and 430 college students. In spite of the fact that part of the school was demolished by the atomic bomb, the campus has now been expanded to meet the increased demands. One of the recent new buildings is a dormitory for forty high school girls. The fund for the building was given by the alumni. Kwassui is a college of the Methodist Church.

Members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church — totalling 1,632,000 persons in 30,305 societies across the nation — have been alerted by Miss Thelma Stevens, national executive secretary, to write their national legislators concerning "many issues now in the legislative hopper of grave concern to the nation and to the peace of the world." While the national group, the Woman's Division of the Board of Missions, adopts a policy or makes a recommendation, Miss Stevens points out, it does not "speak" for the total body of women, but "hopes that you will study the recommendations and the issues involved and formulate your own judgments, and act (write) accordingly." Among the national Division's recommendations which it asks local bodies to study and then write concerning are: opposition to Universal Military Training "which would bring virtually every 17-year-old male under control of the military for from six to ten years of his most formative years"; revision, of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952; approval of U.S. participation in and funds for the "Atoms for Peace Plan", the international finance corporation to aid underdeveloped countries, Technical Assistance, and the Children's Fund — all UN projects; restoration of funds to provide control of the tuberculosis problem in Alaska; support of legislation for Federal aid for education; support of the refugee resettlement program.

PAYDAY

There are many "special" days in which folks are interested. One of these "special" days is payday. The laborer looks forward to his pay envelope, and to the blessings that are made possible by it. All men are more or less interested in payday! Considering this from a spiritual sense, there are two paymasters. One is the Lord and the other is the devil. Our pay will depend upon which one we are working for — in whose vineyard we labor.

Payday came to Adam and Eve. God had placed them in a perfect environment. They could eat of the fruit of all the trees of the garden, save one. Of the fruit of this tree they must not eat. God had said: "But of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." Gen. 3:4. Here was a plain contradiction of what God had said. Adam and Eve yielded to the temptation and disobeyed God, thus sin and death and all their woes were brought into the world. The man and women were driven out of the garden. Even the ground was cursed because of their sin. And so we have the thorns and the thistles. Tragic payday!

Almost two thousand years later another payday came to the human family. God saw that the wickedness or man was great in the earth. Every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually. God decreed that He would destroy man from the face of the earth. Only Noha found grace in the sight of the Lord. God told him to build an ark to the saving of his house. Noah built the ark. All who were not in the ark were destroyed from the face of the earth. And so another payday had arrived. And what a day it was!

Judas betrayed God's Son for thirty pieces of silver, but what good did the money do him? He threw it down, and then went out and hanged himself. What a bitter payday!

Abraham was faithful to God. His years were spent in humble service to God. The end came. He was ready to go. Good payday!

Joseph was sold into slavery. In the king's palace he had temptations hard to bear, but through it all he was true to God. He became governor over all the land of Egypt. God used him to save his people from destruction. Great payday!

The first Christian martyr was Brother Stephen. The enemies could kill Stephen, but they couldn't kill his faith in Christ. Faithful was he unto death. They could stone his body to death, but they could not stone out his hope in Christ. "And they stoned Stephen, calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jesus, receive my spirit. And he knelled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he fell asleep." Acts 7:59,60. He looked steadfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God and Jesus standing on the right hand of God. Wonderful payday!

Perhaps the greatest gospel preacher of them all was Paul. A third of a century did he toil in the vineyard of the Master. And how he did suffer! Oft times he was hungary, without sufficient clothing, thirsty, and in all kinds of perils. Year after year of this did he undergo. But the last year came. The last sermon had been preached. His toils and his tears are over. Paul, how does it look as you stand at the end of life's little pilgrimage and look back over your faithful life and just across the river of death? "For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love His appearing", II Tim 4:6-8. Glorious payday!

The further along the road we travel the more we are going to think about the end of the way. The race will be over soon. "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Hom. 6:23. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the spirit shall of the spirit reap life everlasting." Gal. 6:7-8.

Poison By Decree

When all the facts are in and the curtain rung down on America's experimentation in protectionism, it is quite possible that the so-called Pure Food and Drug Law will prove to have been the open doorway to mass poisoning.

When the Pure Food and Drug Act was first unveiled, the announced purpose was to establish a standard of purity in food and drugs so that individual buyers would not be gypped by conscienceless merchants. Stories were rife at the time of grocery clerks who sold sacks of brown sand in lieu of brown sugar, and drug store operators who watered their chemicals, or who permitted them to age past a date when they were effective.

So the law was enacted, and a great bureau was established which was supposed to rule over purity by forcing a standard acceptable to everyone. There is little doubt but that certain standards of cleanliness were obtained. But in the process two other results were secured.

1. Search for standards far higher than those of the bureau were virtually abandoned, since compliance with the law of standards was mandatory. Therefore, we can ask with candor, who knows just how high our standards might have risen had it not been for this enforced leveling?

2. Since the government was watching over us and protecting us, it became less important for us to personally know and understand the meaning of cleanliness and the real values of merchandise. We no longer had to recognize quality when we saw it. We became a nation of placid conformists whose only judgment indices related to quality were a government label and a price tag.

But the real harm of depending on government is now startlingly revealed in an article in Harpers Magazine. Ralph G. Martin has done a piece entitled "How Much Poison Are We Eating?" which tends to establish that the conformity engendered by our government overseers may have paved the way for illness and death to great masses of our people.

Of course, Mr. Martin leaps to the same old hackneyed conclusion that "there ought to be a law with teeth in it" in an effort to prevent mass poisoning. And he finds comfort that such a law has just been enacted. But by so doing he has completely overlooked the fact that the reason for the poisoning in the first place has come about because there already had been a law with teeth in it.

The target of Mr. Martin's venom in this instance is principally the spray insecticide known popularly as DDT, which has met the scientifically applied standards of the Pure Food and Drug Administration. DDT is revealed as a deadly poison which attacks the nervous system and, finally, the brain.

An investigation reported at a recent meeting of the American Public Health Association revealed that no meal had been found in which some trace of DDT did not appear and that the daily menu for the average American contained 184 micrograms. Although this amount is far below the dose certain human volunteers have taken without harmful effect, the doctors are still worried about the tendency of DDT to store up in the fatty tissues of all animals, men included.

The truth is, that DDT just like the Salk vaccine for polio, the fluoride effects on teeth, and a host of other ideas, is fundamentally in an experimental stage. By means of such standards as our Pure Food and Drug Administration cares to apply, the American people are in the process of being used like some 160,000,000 guinea pigs.

When will we learn that laws and bureaus and governments will not protect us? When will we realize that good sound common sense, individually developed, is a far greater protector of our health and welfare than all the rules and regulations which can ever be written or enforced?

WATCH OUR EDUCATORS!
(Methodist Challenge)

The eleventh report of the California Senate Committee on Education contains 200 pages of the most revealing and sensational information thus far published. Briefly stated it (1) pictures a most formidable conspiracy of subversive forces to infiltrate California education. (2) It calls the names of scores of men in public and semi-public life who are undoubtedly seeking to inject Socialistic and Communistic ideology into our schools. (3) It exposes the widespread effort of UNESCO and its supporters to re-write American history and gradually cause California sudents to cool in their love and loyalty toward the United States, while they trend toward internationalism in their thinking and in their loyalty. (4) It frankly tells the story of the subversive battle against loyalty oaths in both our schools and our churches. (5) It proves conclusively that great damage is being done in our school class rooms and pulpits, by the subtle and cunning tactics of Communist infiltration, through stooges and fellow travellers who do not belong to the Communist party. (6) It gives the amazing list of Communist fronts operating in California, many of them linked with education, and recounts the activities of many in schools and churches, who operate through them.

It is certain that we battle in vain, be it a cold war or in a hot one, so long as such home-grown, foreign Moscow inspired, subversive elements in our school houses and in our churches. The report to which I refer is published by the State of California and is an official report of the California State Senate. It is reliable and its documentation is complete. With the revlations therein contained, it is amazing that any good, loyal, patriotic citizen of this great state can sleep soundly at night, having read the annihilating facts of this report. It has now been established in Court that a true Communist, seeking the overthrow of our form of government, is a criminal. In the light of that fact, it is almost horrifying to read the revelations of this report.

The Hollywood Cinema industry, according to this report, has been one of the chief offenders. Through subversive organizations, set up within Moviedom, the moving picture has become a powerful, though cautious, ally of Socialistic and Communistic efforts to propagandize youth and set going streams of anti-American influence among our people. Many publications have appeared that undoubtedly seek the same objectives. Our School libraries have been used. Subersive teachers have been quietly slipped into places of influence and power in our schools. This has not been simply a happen-stance. It has been deliberate and deliberately planned. It has been systematically accomplished.

According to the Report of the Senatorial Committee, a prominent down-town church in Los Angeles has been made into a forum for the futherance of propaganda in keeping with this un-American program.

Believing In Taxes Leads To Belief In Many Other Injustices

I recently heard a liberatarian discussing sacred cow beliefs—that is, beliefs that neither political party will even consider or discuss. They are regarded as sacred and not discussable. He mentioned some of these sacred cows: drafting soldiers, the right to strike, government schools, "society security," the graduated income tax and irredeemable paper money.

It occured to me that he didn't mention the most sacred of all sacred cows—taxation. If people didn't believe in taxation, of course, they couldn't believe in a graduated tax. If they didn't believe in taxation, they couldn't believe in government schools or "social security" or drafting soldiers to make men fight other peoples' battles. Drafting soldiers is just a form of taxation.

When people start with the premise that a man or a majority that has the power has the right to coerce or force another individual or another group to pay for something they do not want, then we have a belief or a practice established that leads to one form of tyranny after another. How could people believe in government schools if they didn't believe that the majority has a right to force the minority to pay for something they don't want? How could they believe in government post offices if they didn't believe that the agents of the majority have the right to force everyone to help pay for the post offices whether they want to use them or not? And by the way, the government post offices cost every man, woman and child in the United States about $6.00 a year to keep them going, plus what they pay for postage. This is true because the government will admit it loses between $600,000,000 a year on the post offices, and if they included other real costs such as their tax free buildings and interest on their investment, the cost per year for the post offices runs into a billion dollars. Since there are about 166 million people in the United States, that means that everyone on an average must contribute about $6.00 a year. This is all because people believe in taxation. The post offices would simply go out of business if they couldn't be supported by taxation and did not make it a crime for private citizens to compete.

The belief in taxation is so engrained in most people because most other people believe in it, and to a large degree they believe what their "educators" and church leaders and politicians tell them they should believe.

If people didn't believe in taxation, we would not have irredeemable paper money that is getting worth less and less and is bound to continue to get worth less and less. The government printing bonds and using them as a base for currency and bank deposits is just a form of taxation for certain groups. And when people believe in taxing other people to pay for something they want, we have no ethical or just standard of human relations or of rightness.

Taxation Comes From Exaltation

Belief in taxation comes from people exalting themselves. Invariably when you trace the belief in taxation back, you will find that those people who believe in it will admit that they would help support the government on a voluntary basis, but they believe others would not. In short, they exalt themselves over and above other people and are willing to use the taxing pistol to make others comply with their will. The belief in taxation is a nice illustration of Pope's statement:

"Vice is a monster of so frightful mien
As to be hated needs but to be seen;
But seen too oft, familiar with her face
We first endure, then pity, then embrace."

Most people have come to believe in this vice of the tax pistol. And when they believe in that, they naturally sanction other initiating of force that gets us into the predicaments we are in today with fear of unemployment, fear of atomic bombs, fear of war, fear of security, fear that we will not become educated to the degree we are capable of becoming.

It is a little hard to see how we can correct the trouble we are in as long as so many people who are considered as virtuous and educated continue to sanction the vice or the crime that is doing more to degrade our souls and our character and our material well being than most anything else.

Power To Destroy

It is hard to conceive how we can have a limited government when people believe in the power to tax. Remember Supreme Court Judge John Marshall said that "the power to tax is the power to destroy," and we are using it to do just that.

If people do not believe that our government is our enemy with its taxing pistol, let them read "Our Enemy the State" by Herbert Spencer, "Our Enemy the State" by the late Albert J. Nock and "The State Our Enemy" by Sir Ernest Benn, or All Taxation is Robbery by Frank Chodorov, Editor of Freedom Magazine.

Let's get down to the most sacred of all cows and find if there is anyone who can harmonize taxation with the Coveting Commandment and the Golden Rule. If it cannot be harmonized with these great eternal, moral laws, it is our real enemy.

War Or No War, GOP Feels Ike Can Win Again In '56

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON,—War or no war between now and the Presidential election in November, 1956, Republican political strategists are convinced that President Eisenhower can be re-elected against anybody the Democrats may name as his opponent. Their belief is based on a confidential canvass of representative leaders throughout the country by National Chairman Leornard W. Hall and Congressional pollsters on Capitol Hill.

Eisenhower will fare as well or better than he did in 1952, according to this roundup, if he can avoid an armed conflict without further appeasement of Russia.

A war precipitated by a decision to defend the Quemoy and Matsu Islands, it is admitted, would be extremely unpopular. Nevertheless, once the United States is engaged in a clash with Red China, no matter the cause of the encounter, the survey suggests that Ike's political stock would rise.

Without war, he would campaign as keeper of the peace, as against the GOP's argument that our three costliest conflicts occurred on "Democratic time." With war on our hands, he would be hailed—by Republican orators, that is—as the right man in the right place at the right time.

The We-want-Ike-again faction of the Republican Party—and that takes in almost everybody, including the right wing represented by Senators McCarthy, Bridges and Dirksen—rejoice over Chief Justice Earl Warren's public and vigorous renunciation of any Presidential ambitions. They figure that it will force Eisenhower, no matter how reluctant he may be, to run again.

So long as the eminent and popular Californian was a prospect, there was a chance that the President might bow out after a single term. As a progressive and liberal figure—too progressive and too liberal, some GOP-ers believe —Warren could probably win as the 1956 candidate.

A generally unnoted but extremely significant political twist is the current meticulous behavior of the pro-McCarthy and pro-Chiang Kai-shek bloc on Capitol Hill. Dispite their distaste for certain Eisenhower-Dulles policies, they have fallen back on the regular reservation.

Chief Justice Warren's renunciation, oddly, contributed to their conversion. With the Californian out of the political picture, it becomes certain that Ike will be the 1956 nominee. So, they cannot afford to bicker with and oppose the man for whom they will ask votes only 18 months from now, especially as foreign policy may Moreover, two of the McCarthy men must face the voters under possibly troublous conditions, and will need Ike's full and generous support. Although Styles Bridges received the largest majority ever given a United States Senator in his last political appearance, New Hampshire has shown Democratic tendencies now and then. Last year, such a GOP Gibraltar as Maine elected a Democratic Governor. Bridges must run again next November. He will need Ike.

Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois, who sided with McCarthy invariably during the Schine-Cohn inquiry, will want White House help when he faces the voters in 1956.

Ike cannot and will not urge Dirksen's re-election unless "Dirk" behaves in the meantime. Recent Democratic victories in Chicago and Michigan indicate that the "boy orator" with a Bryanesque flair may also need Presidential reinforcement.

McCarthy himself has hardly "made" the front page since he lost the chairmanship of the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, which provided him with a publicity pulpit. Several of his sturdiest House supporters were shelved by the voters in the 1954 Congressional elections.

As a result of political acrobatics, National Chairman Hall believes that the threatened split in Republican ranks will not materialize. In fact, he predicts that, "We will be more united than the Democrats, with their Harriman-Lehman and George-Byrd factions.

The Doctor Says
By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Nearly everyone is familiar with the fact that the giving of blood to a patient during certain kinds of operations or immediately thereafter has saved many lives. The same thing is true following serious accidents, and one does not need a war in order to require the gift of blood by healthy persons in order to aid others.

Of course it is true, too, that we should always have on hand a good stock pile of blood in event of war or other major emergencies. If an atom bomb should fall, for example, it might leave some 100,000 people injured and for them availability of blood transfusions or its products would probably be the greatest single life-saving preparation we could have. While we do not want this to happen, we would be blind not to consider this frightening possibility.

THERE ARE SEVERAL questions with regard to the giving of blood which people frequently ask. One of them is how much blood the body normally contains and how long it takes for the body to replace a pint of blood removed for transfusion. These questions can be answered rather definitely. The blood makes up about 1-13 of the total body weight and a normal person who weighs between 133 and 165 pounds generally has from 5.2 to 6.3 quarts of blood.

After the removal of a pint, for example, the fluid portion of the blood is made up rapidly and in a healthy person the blood cells and coloring matter are also restored within a few days. In spite of this it is usually not considered advisable for a person to give blood more often than every few weeks.

A QUESTION RELATED to this subject comes from Mrs. B. who says that her 35-year-old son has been giving a pint of blood every three months for 2½ years. Lately, she writes, he feels tired and has headaches and she wonders if this frequent giving of blood might be responsible.

Yalta Only A Consequence Of Recognition Of Reds

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In our excitement over the Yalta papers, we forgot that Yalta was only a consequence of the "recognition" of Bolshevik Russia. That "recognition" was a final triumph of E. M. House, William C. Bullitt, Jacob Schiff and other persons, and anonymous "forces." The identity and motives of the forces which fought for "recognition" in the beginning of the Bolshevik regime are like unpleasant family secrets. The truth can never be extinguished. But it is forbidden to discuss the truth even in history classes in universities.

One might twit President Eisenhower on this point, referring to his crack about bookburning at Dartmouth, which was, in fact, a backhand smack at Joe McCarthy. Here is a majestic job of bookburning ordered and directed by the same political and intellectual powers which resent Joe McCarthy's "methods," but Mr. President seems sincerely unaware, for he consorts with the incendiaries.

Well, anyway, we are allowed to know that old House, who picked Wilson for president and advised Roosevelt in his first term, was very enthusiastic about the Bolsheviks at the Versailles Conference. He even had the gall to send an American "mission" to Moscow which came back burbling with rapture. Bullitt was chief of that mission and he was Roosevelt's first ambassador to Moscow.

After House, the most obstreperous and impudent apologist for actual Marxian Communism is Joseph E. Davies, a tin-pot campus bumpkin from Madison, Wis., who married Mrs. E. M. Hutton, a rich woman ronowned for her "looks" and extravagance. He lately was unlatched by divorce. Davies is a gas-bag of heroic pomposity. Roosevelt sent him to Brussels on one embassy and later sent him to Moscow where his personal conduct endeared him to students of the silly side of history.

Davies was a friend of House and consulted him early in Roosevelt's presidency. House was a close friend of Roosevelt's mother, Sara, and had worked on her for political effect on her son. Davies, too, had made some social and political passes at the old girl, who had the soul of a bucko-mate, hardened by trips around the horn to the Hong Kong opium trade with her father, Warren Delano, during her childhood. And Davies tells us in his neglected but fruity "Mission to Moscow" that his own mother, who was, it seems, a preacher, also was cozy with Sara up at Hyde Park.

There are two prime facts which I will try to set forth. First, House wanted "recognition" of Boshevik Russia in 1919. Second, Davies reconciles atheist marxism with Christianity.

God knows, what gave House his power over Wilson, but the reality of that power is not denied as of any time in Wilson's pernicious career as president. It waned only when Wilson became a mental basket-case toward his end. By then, a less determined villain than House would have been willing to call it a career. But this nasty little plotter bided his time until the first Roosevelt nomination when Roosevelt, by his advice, descended on Chicago from the clouds to accept the mandate of an unwitting political party. Immediately after that, Roosevelt paid homage to House at Beverly, Mass., although Roosevelt was a helpless paralytic and House was quite fit to make the trip to Hyde Park. You are bearing in mind, I hope, that this House is the one who wrote anonymously "Philip Dru: Administrator," a plan of dictatorship, court-packing, inflation and dissolution of the integral sovereignty of our several states which has been put into effect in all respects save the actual military war.

In the memoirs of Wickham Steed, a Northcliffe editor who had great weight in Britain at the time of Versailles, we learn that House picked William C. Bullitt and Lincoln Steffens to go to Russia and, as it were, case the joint for him. Bullitt is a frivolous fathead, important only because he had twice the gall of horsepark Herbie Swope and, if anything, less ability. Steffens was an inveterate brain-picker, a meandering potboiler who wrote familiar facts about booze, prostitution and graft and sold it for high prices. His was a dilettant Communist who thought it was sweet for other people to get massacred. Steed says Jacob Schiff, of Kuhnoloeb, N. Y., was anxious to secure recognition for the Bolshevisis and that "potent international financial interests were at work for immediate recognition" at a moment when the Bolshevists were doing their utmost to spread revolution throughout Europe.

Bullitt and Steffens came tripping back to Paris. Bullitt had an authorized Soviet bid for recognition. Steffens was chirping that he had looked into the future and that it "worked." Steed wrote a blast against recognition in the London Mail. He said the Bolsheviks were offering lucrative concessions and guarantees of imperial Russian debts abroad if Wilson and Lloyd George would fall down and worship Lenin and Trotsky. Steed claims that his editorial queered the deal. Nevertheless, Wilson was honing to recognize Russia, perhaps at House's instigation. And Roosevelt put through recognition 14 years later after a parley with the same plotter at Beverly.

Hank's New Fascination Concerns Home-Made Zoo

By HENRY McLEMORE

When my April copy of "Driftwood Carving for Profit" didn't arrive on time I hurried to the library lest their copy be read to bits. Sure enough, another driftwood fan had beaten me to it, but as it turned out I am glad he did.

Otherwise I would never have made the acquaintance of "Home-Made Zoo," a volume I took from the shelves while the man was taking notes from the driftwood magazine on how to carve a step-ladder. Once I fell under the spell of "Home-Made Zoo" (David McKay Company, Inc., New York), I lost track of time and the fellow could have copied instructions for carving a funicular railway for all I cared.

I opened the book at random and the first sentence to hit my eyes captivated me. "There's something especially charming about a mouse." For the next three hours I was lost in the charming revelations of how easy and gratifying it is for a householder to keep mice, frogs, guinea pigs, turtles, snakes and salamanders.

By the time the library closed, and I was ushered out by the librarian, I was convinced that what Edgar Guest really meant to say was: "It takes a heap of living creatures to make a house a home."

I am all hopped up about having a home-made zoo and if mice are to the home-made zoo what, say, lions are to public zoos, then I'm just plain lucky, because our house doesn't have to take off its hat to any house when it comes to mice.

The book stresses the importance of the house owner's getting to know his mice. "Feeding time is get-acquainted time and one of the most enjoyable activities for the pet owner," the book says. I have been slack in this respect, so it is no wonder that some of our mice are a trifle bashful and won't come any closer to sitting on my lap than to scamper halfway up my trouser leg. But in fairness to myself, I must say that our mice don't look underfed. Most of them have bay windows that would do credit to a gold watch chain.

"Mice are easily trained because they are lively and active and are always glad to have something to do. Rewarding them with a tasty bit of food every time they do something correctly will make them learn quickly. Peanut butter is a good bait." That's a quote, and I believe it, because our mice, which have never had the benefit of training, do a lot of things well, being especially good at games.

I know they play football in the attic at night, because only good, bone-rattling tackles and blocks could make the noise we hear over our heads. It could be lacrosse, but I think it's football. They do a form of skiing, too, to judge by the sound, and every now and then they cause a racket that could result from only one sport—putting the shot.

This, mind you, without ever having had so much as one nibble of peanut butter, unless they have learned how to open the refrigerator door.

I just have to get some frogs. I knew this the minute I read under the heading Fun With Frogs: "Playing with a frog is not only good sport for you but means freedom and exercise for the pet..."

Just what games to play with a frog are not listed. I never have seen frogs playing golf, but there is no reason why they shouldn't like it, particularly on a course with water hazards. I can't imagine bowling with a frog being much fun, but what about fishing? A bullfrog might well know some deep holes filled with big ones.

"When a salamander gets to know you it will follow you around wherever you go." That's another quote, and just about decided me against any salamanders in my zoo. True, salamanders are bright enough, faithful to a fault and, as a rule, good conversationalists. But there are times in a man's life when he feels the need to get away from everybody, to be all alone. And that, it seems, is impossible with salamanders.

ACCESSORIES ADD SO MUCH to appearance — men, as well as women — that I thought I'd include this article on the latest in men's accessories on this our good-grooming and beauty day. It's quite fascinating, and if you've got a birthday or anniversary coming up . . . and father's day isn't too far off — you just might get some gift ideas from the article.

LIGHT - HEARTED SPRING is ganging up on the men this year. If you have any doubts, gentlemen, take a look at the jeweled accessories for 1955. They sparkle with a brand-new styling, with new, exciting use of colors and with new importance in size.

The Jewelry Industry Council predicts that even the skeptics will be won over when they see the handsome coordination between colors of suit, shirt, socks and tie with the new designs in links and tie clips. And color isn't all. With narrow ties so popular, and tie clips correspondingly smaller, cuff links have come into their own with increased diameter and increased variety of design.

For fun there is the pink elephant, also available in other pastel shades, and matched with a smaller elephant to be worn as a tie clip. This, of course, is a natural with a pink shirt. Pink crops up in other cuff link designs, too; there are pearly discs rimmed with gold colored metal and enamel designs in round, rectangular and free-form shapes, to highlight a few.

For the sportsman who likes a touch of color in his accessories, there are cuff links and tie bar designs featuring ducks, horses, sword fish, autos and miniature checkerboards in colored enamel. There is even a camera with a "lens" of lavendar stone. As we all know, it has been well established among male circles that pink is no longer considered a sissy color. This happy fact paves the way for smart lavender-tinted accessories for men. But whatever the color of the shirt — pale yellow, minty green, lavender or light blue — there is a pair of color-coordinated links to compliment it.

Mosaic patterns are springtime news, too, and many of the pieces take their design inspiration from American Indian motifs. For modern design enthusiasts, there are striking designs reminascent of whirlpools, stylized fish, zig-zags, stars and chevrons, each one simple and clean-cut.

Sterling silver and gold-filled are seen in simple, classic cuff link designs to please a man's conservative mood. Neat geometric patterns are available in even greater variety, owing to their popularity in past seasons. Some of these are set with a tiny sparkling stone in ruby red or sapphire blue. Others have open-work panels, like tiny sections of ornamental grille. High on the list of favorites is the plain oval or rectangle, sometimes ornamented with a tailored engine-turned border or with a center panel for initials.

For added color there are bright touches of enamel, and for interesting texture there are inlaid panels of simulated mother-of-pearl. Plain round links are popular in any season and the range of new designs for spring makes at least one pair a "must" for every man's jewelry wardrobe.

In line with springtime additions to a gentleman's accessories, the Council adds the suggestion that a new belt buckle, tie chain, collar pin and handy money clip might be heeded to replace those that are worn or outdated.

We attended the National Nutrition Conference at the Hollywood Beach Hotel in Florida. Top biochemists, doctors and nutritionists came from all over the country. The purpose of this conference, sponsored by Swift & Company to celebrate their 100th birthday, was to focus public attention on the need of better diets for health, stamina and happiness. Most of the distinguished speakers warned against overweight.

Dr. W. H. Sebrell, Jr. director, National Institutes of Health, U.S. Public Health Service, made several statements so important that we pass them on to you and your family.

"Let's look for a moment at a form of malnutrition that affects at least a quarter of our population, and therefore is of serious concern to you. I refer to obesity. The figures show clearly that obesity in men results in illness and earlier death. Health officers and physicians are waging a ceaseless war against it. The fat man is fat because he eats too much; the remedy is to get him to reduce his caloric intake until he uses up his own excess fat. If he's seriously overweight, he may die as much as ten years earlier than if he were normal weight.

"One of our greatest needs today is better nutrition education. In a survey covering nearly 60,000 children in 33 states, it was found that diets tend to become poorer as children grow older; that 52 per cent of high school girls' diets were poor; that the diets of boys were notably deficient in fruits and vegetables; that the adequacy of the child's diet relates closely to the occupation and economic status of the parent; and that adolescent girls drink far too little milk in the belief that it is fattening.

"In another study it was found poor diets were most conspicuous in teen-age girls — a situation particularly alarming because of its potential effects on the next generation. In New York state, records of 10,000 children, half of them in the fourth and half in the tenth grade, revealed the poorest food practices among the older girls."

Dance Numbers And Film On Cancer Presented At Meeting Of Golf Group

"Preview-Syncopated Super Circus" was the program presented by students of the Beaux Arts Dance Studio at the luncheon Wednesday of the Ladies Golf Association in the Pampa Country Club.

The dance numbers were under the direction of Jeanne M. Willingham, who also acted as master of ceremonies. Pianist was Mrs. Kenneth McGuire. Miss Willingham announced that the program was a preview of the review to be presented May 30, in the Junior High School auditorium.

The group numbers included "The Greatest Show On Earth" by Susie Fillman, Martha Price, Anite Guidry and Karolyn McGuire; "The Little Clowns" by Pamela Jeanne Parker, Neilya Olson, Susan Tabor, Joyce Fischer and Karen Hoover, and "The Acrobats" by Susie Fillman, Martha Price and Anite Guidry.

Solo presentations were "The Ringmaster" by Jan Dyer; "Tootie, The Tightrope Walker" by Jennifer Eaton; "The Juggler" by Kennye Sue McGuire; "Military Tap" by Karolyn Kay McGuire; and "The Balloon Vendor" by Phyllis Parker.

Following the program, a film on cancer was shown, and pamphlets put out by the American Cancer Society were distributed.

The all-day session began at 10 a.m. with bridge and golf, which were continued following the luncheon. Mrs. H. H. Hicks, president, presided. It was announced that Mrs. D. L. Parker and Mrs. Oaklee Whittle won the golf balls at the last meeting, and the $2 door prize for bridge players was awarded to Mrs. Marvin Harris.

Mrs. Hicks announced that the program for the April 29 session will be a style show presented by Leslie's Dress Shop. Reservations for the luncheon must be called in to the Country Club by noon Thursday.

RUTH MILLET

"How can you say I'm too young to marry? You were exactly my age when you married Dad."

That is the answer a mother gets to her protests that her daughter is too young to marry and the mother wants to know how she can answer that logical reply.

She and her husband had planned on sending their daughter through college and they hate to think of her marrying a nineteen-year-old boy as soon as she finishes high school in June.

It seems to me that frankness is your only hope of persuading your daughter to finish her education before she marries.

Tell her from your own experience all that you feel you missed by marrying at 17.

Paint a clear picture of what it was like to be faced by a woman's responsibilities when you were still just a girl.

If you gave up the chance of a college education for marriage, tell her why you wish you could have had the college education and marriage, too.

There is no disloyalty to your husband or your marriage in this kind of frankness. For you aren't saying you are sorry you married, only that you wish you had waited until you were a little older, a little more ready for the responsibilities of marriage.

But in all of your talk, try to remember how you felt at her age, when faced with the same decision that faces your daughter today.

If you can do that she will feel your sympathy and understanding. And anything you say will, therefore, carry more weight.

Blankets made of either wool or Dynel, the new science fiber, should be washed alike, in lukewarm water (120 degrees).

Donald Dickson, Baritone, Scheduled To Present Concert In Pampa Tonight

DONALD DICKSON

An established star of opera, concert and radio, Donald Dickson, will appear in Pampa at 8:00 p.m. today in the Junior High School auditorium.

Much in demand for concerts, the baritone has toured extensively in recital and has been soloist with a score of America's first symphonies. Among the orchestras with which he has appeared are the Philadelphia Orchestra, Los Angeles Philharmonic, Cleveland Orchestra, Cincinnati Symphony, National Symphony, as well as those of Detroit, Oklahoma City, Toronto, San Antonio and many others.

A summer festival favorite, he has sung, in addition to the Worcester and Chautauqua Festivals, with the Cincinnati May Festival and in Robin Hood Dell and the Hollywood Bowl.

In radio also Dickson has made a great name for himself. Like other singing stars, he has made frequent guest appearances on the big radio musical shows, such as the Gulf Hour, Alec Templeton Time and the Coca-Cola Show. But Dickson's popularity is such that he has been engaged for a year or more at a time as the regular star of musical broadcasts. He has appeared for 39 weeks on the Bromo-Seltzer Program; Groucho Marx Show; three and one-half years on the Chase and Sanborn Hour. This is a rare tribute to the appeal of an artist.

Recently Dickson appeared as soloist with the Bell Symphony Orchestra in a program that was broadcast around the world by the Voice of America with the cooperation of Radio Free Europe, Radio Tokyo and other foreign facilities. His appearance was such a success that he was immediately re-engaged for the orchestra's annual concert in New York's Carnegie Hall. Of this performance, the critic of the New York Post wrote: "Dickson has a magnificent voice and uses it with great skill."

Other highlights of recent seasons include his television debut, two performances in the role of the elder Germont in a concert version of "La Traviata" with the Erie Philharmonic, an appearance at the Bynden Wood Music Festival, a return engagement with the Cleveland Orchestra. Of this last performance the critic of the Cleveland Plain Dealer wrote: "Dickson's rich masculine voice rolled out into the audience with gorgeous ease, yet his deep tones were securely anchored."

Donald Dickson is a handsome six-footer with an engaging smile and a genial friendliness that communicates itself across the footlights to his audiences. Being American-born and American-trained, he is most enthusiastic about the growing future of opera in English. His recital programs always include a liberal number of English and American songs together with arias and Lieder in French, Italian and German. At his memorable New York recital last season he sang the first local performance of a new set of songs by Aaron Copland. His prize possession is the original manuscript score of "Garrick," the opera that started him on the road to fame. Married at seventeen, a father at eighteen, Dickson now boasts of a family of one boy and three girls.

Those persons with new memberships for the 1955-56 season will be admitted to this concert by showing their ticket receipt at the door.

Florida Invents Some Tasty, Appetizing Orange Recipes

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

We were in the Florida citrus country while the trees were in blossom. The fragrance was heady. In Lakeland, headquarters of the Florida Citrus Commission, we talked with Dr. L. G. McDowell, director of research. He told us that during the last growing year, Florida produced 138,300,000 boxes of citrus (grapefruit and oranges, tangerines and limes), that being 66 per cent of the world crop.

Lakeland is a lovely little city built around lakes. Florida Southern College is on the shore of one, with its startlingly modern buildings designed by Frank Lloyd Wright. Orange and grapefruit groves surround the city for miles and miles. And everyone looks well fed.

Here is a local recipe based on Florida oranges and sunshine.

Orange Sherbet Cups

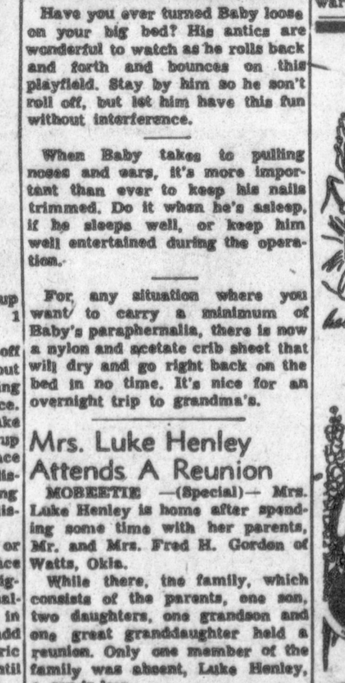

(Yield: 3 quarts orange sherbet)

Eight oranges, orange juice, 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup lime juice, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg white.

To prepare orange cups cut off slice from top of orange; scoop out pulp. Make picot edge with paring knife. Strain pulp; measure juice. Add enough orange juice to make 4 cups. Sprinkle gelatin on ½ cup of the orange juice to soften. Place over boiling water; stir until dissolved. Add sugar and remaining orange juice; stir until sugar is dissolved.

Pour into an 8-cup loaf pan or several refrigerator trays. Place in freezing compartment of refrigerator; freeze, stirring occasionally. Break up frozen mixture in tray; turn into chilled bowl; add egg white and beat with electric mixer or rotary beater until smooth.

Return to freezing compartment; freeze until firm. Scoop approximately ½ cup into each orange cup; garnish with mint and serve immediately. Serve remaining 1 quart sherbet as desired.

Have you ever turned Baby loose on your big bed? His antics are wonderful to watch as he rolls back and forth and bounces on this playfield. Stay by him so he won't roll off, but let him have this fun without interference.

When Baby takes to pulling noses and ears, it's more important than ever to keep his nails trimmed. Do it when he's asleep, if he sleeps well, or keep him well entertained during the operation.

For any situation where you want to carry a minimum of Baby's paraphernalia, there is now a nylon and acetate crib sheet that will dry and go right back on the bed in no time. It's nice for an overnight trip to grandma's.

Oilers Host Ponies In 1955 WT-NM Home Debut Tonight

Press Box Views

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

PAMPA HAS A GOOD CHANCE to win her first opening day attendance trophy in the West Texas-New Mexico League tonight.

The reported top attendance of the first four opening sites at Plainview, Abilene, Amarillo and El Paso is an estimated 3,000.

By filling Oiler Park to its capacity tonight we stand a chance of capturing the opening night attendance cup.

Oiler Park seats 3,500 and unless one of the other three cities yet to open their home slate draw this many, the Oilers could win the opening day attendance cup with a capacity house tonight.

That would be a feather in our cap to win this prize since five other cities in the league boast from two to ten times larger than Pampa.

Albuquerque hasn't opened her home slate yet and the Duke City stands the best chance for the top opening crowd. Albuquerque sold season ticket books at only $10 per and as result sold more season books than any other club.

Then Albuquerque has a population of some 200,000 from which to draw.

Oiler fans who don't have season books may still get one at the ball park tonight.

Just as a final reminder, you don't have to attend all of the Oiler home games this season to save money by buying a season book.

If you attend 50 of the games, the price per ticket would average 40 cents or if you attend only 40 games, the average would be 50 cents, both far below the regular single admission price of 85 cents per game.

Several members of the Pampa Oilers Community Baseball Association will be at the entrance tonight with season books.

VIBERT CLARKE, ONE OF the hardest throwing left handers ever to hurl in the West Texas-New Mexico League, has gotten off to a rousing start for Charlotte in the Class T Sally League.

Clarke, as a member of the Pampa Oilers last season, tied Red Dial for the strikeout title in the WT-NM, each recording 234 whiffs.

Charlotte is a farm club of Washington's Senators who purchased Clarke from the Oilers during the winter months.

A team mate of Clarke at Charlotte is Jo Valdivielso, Lubbock's fine shortstop of the past two seasons. In the season opener, Valdivielso collected two-for-five and participated in one double play.

A crowd of 4,101 home fans saw Clarke hurl the opening win for Charlotte.

PLAYER AUCTIONS IN THE local kid baseball leagues will get underway tonight.

Managers of the Pony League will convene tonight to purchase players for the forthcoming season.

Eastern Little League managers will gather Saturday night to select their new players.

And the other league, Western Little League, managers of this loop will meet Monday at 5 p.m. to make their player selections.

Each manager will be allotted 10,000 points to buy new players. (Players who were on the rosters last year and who are still eligible this season remain the property of the club they played with last season and they won't be put on the "auction block.")

All these boys and the ones who have been attending the tryout sessions will be placed on a team roster regardless whether the player is bought or not.

When the managers exhaust all of their points, the skippers rotate in choosing the remainder of the players if there are any left.

In other words, each boy aspiring for a position on a Little League or Pony League team will have two weeks to show his stuff. Team workouts will begin immediately following the auctions and league play will get underway May 10.

Boys who were on a team last year are reminded that they are going to have to battle to retain a spot on their respective team rosters this year.

PHS Thinlies Leave For Region Meet

Eleven members of the Harvester track team left today for Lubbock where tomorrow they'll compete in the Region 1-AA meet.

The region meet will be run off on the Texas Tech cinderpath at Jones Stadium.

Harvester Jon Cantrell is one of the favorites to win the shot put while Harold Lewis stands a good chance of winning the 440-yard dash.

Cantrell has the best shot put mark in state schoolboy circles this year with a 54 feet plus heave. And in a workout this week Cantrell tossed the iron ball better than 56 feet.

In previous meets this year, Cantrell set shot put records at the Possum Kingdom Relays in Graham, the West Texas Relays in Odessa, the Brady Relays, the District 1-AA meet, and the Sandie Relays.

Lewis also has done well in the 440 and 220-yard dashes. The swift-running Lewis set a District 1-AA record in the 440 and set a record in the 220 at the Possum Kingdom Relays.

Following are the boys who will be entered in the region meet.

Harold Lewis — 220-yard dash and 40-yard dash.

Jon Cantrell — Shot put, discus and high jump.

Ed Strickland — Shot put, discus and broad jump.

Don Hinton — High jump.

Charles Cooper — Discus.

Dickie Mauldin — 110-yard dash, 440-yard dash and mile relay.

Jim Green — 440-yard relay and low hurdles.

Jerry Neef — 440-yard relay, mile relay and either 100 or 220-yard dash.

Tommy Rhoten — Mile relay.

Carl Blonkvist — Mile relay.

Bobby Marlar — 440-yard relay and 100-yard dash.

Dial To Toe Rubber For Oiler Nine

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

Pampa's Oilers and the Plainview Ponies, all square in their series unreeled at Plainview the past two nights, switch to Oiler Park tonight to resume their five-game setto.

Tonight's game will mark the opening home tilt for the Oilers in West Texas-New Mexico League play. Game time has been called for 8 p.m.

However, a pre-game ceremony will commence at 7:45.

Red Dial is Manager Grover Seitz' choice to hurl for the Oilers tonight. Dial was the winningest pitcher in the WT-NM last season while hurling for the Clovis Pioneers.

Dial posted a 25-12 record last season and he won 28 games the year before.

Plainview squared the series last night at 1-1 by coming from behind in the seventh inning to snatch an 11-6 victory.

The Oilers had won opening night Wednesday, 16-6, with a 20-hit attack that included seven home runs.

In last night's game, the Oilers picked up from where they left off the night before when they jumped into a 3-0 lead in the first inning, thanks to Paul Halter's second homer in as many nights with two mates aboard.

Rach Slider and Sonny Tims worked starting pitcher Don Tierney for base on balls and Tierney was pulled at this point. Halter then greeted relief pitcher Ken Harrington with a home run that cleared the bases and gave the Oilers a 3-0 lead.

Plainview came right back to drive starting pitcher John Coddington of the Oilers to the showers in the first inning with a four-run uprising, giving the Ponies a 4-3 lead.

The Oilers regained the lead in the second with two runs, 5-4, and it stood that way until the seventh when the Ponies erupted for seven runs to put the game on ice.

Pampa's two runs in the second by Rach Slider and a sacrifice fly by Halter

Dean Higgins, who relieved Coddington, breezed along well for 5 2-3 innings, blanking the Ponies on four hits but the NDS right-hander ran out of gas in the seventh and the Ponies rallied for the victory.

Fluke extra-base hits by Dick Vizkoski and I. B. Palmer, both left hand swingers but who dropped base hits along the left field line, got Higgins in a jam that he couldn't work out of.

Sports Briefs

PHILADELPHIA — UP— The Philadelphia Phillies' roster was reduced to 24 players Tuesday with the optioning of four men to the Syracuse team of the International League. Sent out were pitchers Tom Casagrande and Paul Penson, infielder Bob Micelotta, and first baseman Jim Westlake.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. —UP— Danny O'Connell is now the Milwaukee Braves' regular second baseman against all kinds of pitching. O'Connell previously had started only against left-handed pitchers, with Jack Dittmer starting against right-handers. "Dittmer hasn't been hitting," said manager Charley Grimm in announcing the change. "So we'll use O'Connell against both right-handers and lefthanders."

LAUREL, Md. —UP— Willie Hartack turned in a near-record riding performance Monday at Laurel when he won the first five races on the opening program and then finished second in the sixth and seventh events. If the Johnstown, Pa., youth had swept seven races he would have equalled the world's record set by Albert Whittaker of New Zealand in 1910.

Frank Dial To Toss Out 1st Ball Tonite

Tonight could well be called "Dial Night" at Oiler Park.

Frank Dial, mayor pro-tem, will throw out the first ball while Red Dial, no relation, will take the mound for the Oilers against the Plainview Ponies to open the 1955 home schedule for the Oilers in WT-NM play.

Mayor Lynn Boyd is out of town.

On the receiving end of Mayor pro-tem Dial's pitch will be Harold Miller, president of the Pampa Oilers Community Baseball Association. Both Mayor pro-tem Dial and Miller will be dolled out in complete uniforms.

And at the plate tonight to try and hit the first pitch will be Sheriff Rufe Jordan. Jordan has promised that he will smack Dial's pitch in the wild blue yonder if the pitch is within reach.

Red Wedgeworth, manager of the local chamber of commerce, will serve as master of ceremonies in tonight's pre-game program.

The pre-game festivities will start at 7:45.

All players of both squads will be assembled along the first and third base lines and will be introduced to the fans.

Members of the Pampa Oilers Community Baseball Association will also be introduced.

After the introduction of the players and the board members, the flag will be raised in centerfield by the National Guard, and Coy Palmer at the organ will play the National Anthem.

Then will come the Dial-Miller-Jordan combo who will form the opening battery and batter.

And then it will be:

"PLAY BALL!"

Harvester 9 Opens Series With Lubbock

The Harvester baseballers are in Lubbock today to battle the Lubbock Westerners in a District 1-AA game.

The two teams will then come back to Pampa tomorrow for a doubleheader at Oiler Park. First game of tomorrow's twinbill will start at 1 p.m.

Cecil Reynolds was the expected starting hurler for the Harvesters in today's game. Reynolds hasn't seen any mound action since turning back Clinton, Okla., 6-1, early in the season because of a sprained ankle.

Reynolds, although he has been playing regularly at shortstop, has been withheld from mound duty because of his injured ankle. If Reynolds still isn't able to go today, coach Deck Woldt will call on either Johnny Claunch or Bobby Conway.

John Perkins, ace of the Harvester staff, will hurl one of the Saturday games.

Remainder of the lineup will likely reman the same as in the past with exception of one position, right field, where James Evans will replace Tommy Darling.

The starting Harvester lineup today will likely be, if Reynolds pitches, Bobby Conway catcher; Jerold Clark, first base; Bill Fulenwider, second base; Jimmy Parrish, third base; Gary Herr, shortstop; Buddy Sharp, left field; Harlan Boyle, centerfield; and Evans, right field, and Reynolds.

Early Wynn of the Cleveland Indians needs 16 wins to reach the 200-win mark this year.

The Baltimore Orioles drew an attendance of 632,932 in 39 night games in 1954.

The Baltimore Orioles best series in the 1954 season was an even 11-11 split in games played with the Boston Red Sox.

Last time the Washington Senators finished in the first division was in the season of 1946 when they wound up fourth.

Clovis Only Unbeaten 9 In WT-NM

By UNITED PRESS

The Clovis Pioneers have grabbed an early lead after two nights of action in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

The Pioneers beat Amarillo 11 to 10 for their second straight victory Thursday night while in the rest of the circuit the opening night losers turned the tables. Abilene beat Lubbock 15 to 7, Albuquerque stopped El Paso 7 to 6 and Plainview beat Pampa 11 to 6.

Friday night, the same teams are still matched but they switch sites with El Paso at Albuquerque, Amarillo at Clovis, Plainview at Pampa and Abilene at Lubbock.

At Amarillo, Gene Balderee moved in and out of the pitcher's box three times in relief roles, twice in the ninth inning, and finally received credit for the one-run Clovis verdict.

At El Paso, home club jumped on Albuquerque starter Bud Bauhofer for six hits and four runs in the first two innings, but Mike Conovan couldn't hold the lead even after Chalo Garcia had added two more runs with a homer in the fourth. A five-run Dukes' outburst in the fifth wiped out the margin.

Four doubles were among the 15 Abilene hits as George Socha went the route to beat Lubbock. The Gold Sox stole six bases in the game.

DODGERS WIN 10TH IN ROW

Senators Win 1-0 Behind Porterfield

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Easy-going Bob Porterfield, popularly known as "Porterhouse" around the Washington clubhouse, could be just the man who'll help the long-starved Senators to a rare slice of first division money this year.

The Senators haven't cut into the first division pot since 1946 but Manager Chuck Dressen says he thinks they'll do it this year, particularly "if Porterfield comes through for us."

Porterfield came through like a charm Thursday when he struck out seven batters, bore down especially well in the pinches and pitched the Senators to a three-hit 1-0 triumph over the league-leading Boston Red Sox. Only one Boston runner, Faye Throneberry, got as far as third base but he was stranded there in the ninth inning as Bullet Bob retired Harry Agganis on a fly ball for the final out.

Senators All Even

The Senators broke through Tom Brewer for the only run of the game — and their first run in 20 consecutive innings — in the ninth on a walk to Roy Sievers plus back-to-back singles by Eddie Yost and Pete Runnels. The victory, Porterfield's second of the season, reversed a 1-0 Red Sox triumph Wednesday night and gave Washington a .500 mark for six games so far this year.

In other American League games Chicago defeated Detroit 9-1 and New York walloped Baltimore 14-2.

In the only National League game the Brooklyn Dodgers bounced Philadelphia 14-4.

George Kell and Mike Fornieles combined talents to give the White Sox the victory over the Tigers. Kell smashed a grand-slam homer off loser Ned Garver in the third inning while Fornieles limited the Tigers to five hits. Detroit's lone run was the result of Al Kaline's sixth inning home run. Chicago moved to within a game of pace-setting Boston by winning.

In the only other game scheduled in the American League, the Yankees crushed the Orioles, 14-2. Bob Turley, acquired from the Orioles during the winter, had things all his own way as he struck out eight, gave up only five hits and was given a four-run cushion in smashed a homer for the Yankees leading off the first inning and Les Moss connected for one for Baltimore in the ninth. Lou Kretlow, first of three Orioles hurlers, was charged with the loss.

New Record Set

The Dodgers trampled the Phillies, 14-4, thereby setting a modern major league record of 10 consecutive victories at the start of the season.

Routing Robin Roberts with a seven-run rally in the seventh inning, the Dodgers erased the previous record of nine victories in a row at the outset held jointly by St. Louis Browns, who did it last in 1944, the year they won their only pennant.

Brooklyn hammered three Phillies' pitchers for 17 hits, including home runs by Jackie Robinson, Duke Snider, Sandy Amoros and Don Zimmer, who also had two doubles and a single. Russ Meyer started for the Dodgers but was relieved by Joe Black in the third. Black was the winner.

The only other national league game scheduled, New York at Pittsburgh, was postponed because of wet grounds.

Thursday's star — Bob Porterfield of Washington for his three-hit 1-0 victory over Boston.

NEW YORK —UP — Officials of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association met Tuesday to tabulate penny votes on a proposal to stage this year's national singles championships at Forest Hills, Sept. 2-11.

Giants Out To Snap Dodger Win Streak

By FRED DOWN

BROOKLYN —UP— All good things must come to an end, but you can't make 'em believe that in Brooklyn where they're sending southpaw Johnny Podres against the Giants Friday night in an effort to land their 11th consecutive victory.

Leo Durocher countered by nominating Jim Hearn to face the onrushing Dodgers, who set a modern major league record for fast getaways at the start of the season opens most Giant-Dodger set-to Thursday for their 10th triumph in a row.

"We're doing everything right," beamed Dodger Captain Pee Wee Reese, following Thursday's conquest. "I don't know how long this will keep up, but it sure is wonderful."

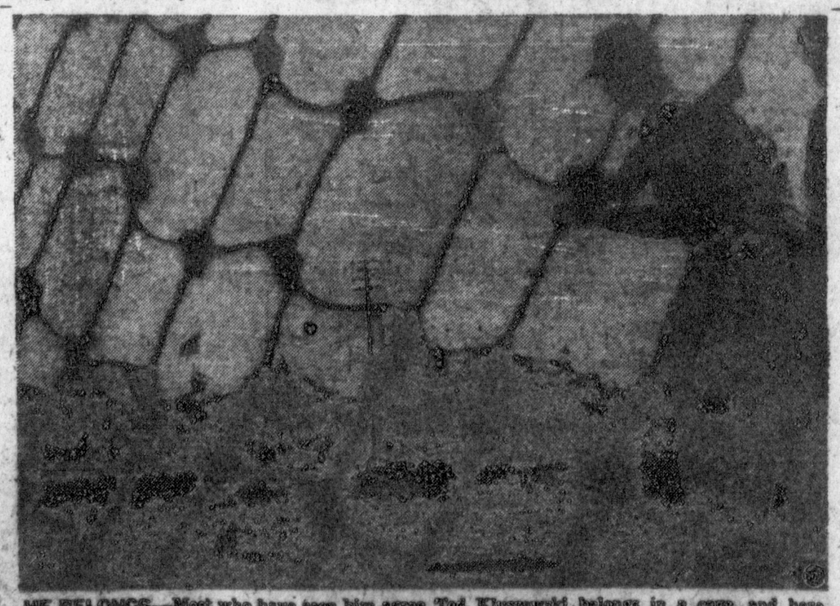

Confidently, Sal Maglie, the veteran Dodger-tamer who had a 22-8 lifetime record against Brooklyn before the start of the current season opens most Giant-Dodger series but these aren't ordinary circumstances.

Maglie, showing signs of wear after a year at it, has dropped two decisions already and failed to last five innings in his only start against Brooklyn, April 14. Hearn, on the other hand, has looked like the most improved pitcher on the Giants' staff and may give the Dodgers more trouble.

Although it is rather early in the season to label any series a crucial one, the Dodgers can dispose of the Giants for some time to come if they should add to their 6 1-2 game lead over the defending champions during the current three-game series.

The Giants, coming off three postponed games in a row, have won only two of the five they've played so far. Durocher admits the club "hasn't looked good." The Giant manager said part of the blame might be due to the fact some of the players may have tired from the spring barnstorming trip with the Cleveland Indians.

In any case, it was squarely up to the 23-year-old Podres and the 23-year-old Hearn as they squared off in the opener of the series at Ebbets Field Friday night. The clubs have met twice so far this season at the Polo Grounds with the Dodgers winning both games.

HE BELONGS—Most who have seen him agree Ted Kluszewski belongs in a cage, and here numerous catches the Reds' slugger in mesh-framed shot. Klu awaits batting practice toss from pitcher Fred Baczewski, neatly framed in one of mesh squares.

Roswell Takes Early Lead In Longhorn

By UNITED PRESS

The Roswell Rockets are the only undefeated team in the Longhorn League after the circuit's second day of action.

Thursday night Roswell outslugged Carlsbad, 10 to 7, Hobbs edged Artesia, 3 to 2, San Angelo beat Midland, 8 to 4, and Big Spring downed Odessa, 12 to 6.

In Friday play, Roswell will be at Big Spring, Artesia plays at Midland, Carlsbad will host Odessa, and Hobbs will play at home against San Angelo.

Dean Franks, a 20-game winner for Roswell in 1951, gave up 13 hits to last-place Carlsbad, but his teammates pounded out 17 blows off two Potasher pitchers to gain a 10 to 7 slugfest victory.

Roswell manager Stubby Greer was the night's top hitter, slamming out a home run, two doubles, and two singles in five trips. Six back-to-back singles by Carlsbad in the first inning produced five runs, but Roswell came back with three doubles, two singles, and a walk in their half of the first to get four runs. A three-run sixth inning iced he game for Roswell.

Romeo Romero didn't give up a hit after the fifth inning, and only four in the game, to steer Hobbs to its 3 to 2 win over Aresia. With th Hobbs victory, the two teams split their first two-game series of the young season.

Gil Guerra struck out eight and walked but four Midland batters and Jim Williams knocked in three runs on two singles to give San Angelo its 8 to 4 win over Midland. Williams also scored two runs and stole three bases to pace the game's batters. Frank Pickens took the loss for Midland after San Angelo had broken a 2-2 ie in the fifth inning with three runs.

Five runs in the eighth inning decided the Big Spring-Odessa contest in favor of Big Spring. Until the eighth frame, Odessa held a 6-3 lead, but Big Spring came up with four hits, two walks, and an Odessa error to score the quintet. Dwayne Peters was the loser.

Ex-Oiler Aldridge Wins For O-City

By UNITED PRESS

The San Antonio Missions stretched their Texas League lead to two and one-half games Thursday night as their big bats continued to punish enemy pitching.

The Missions made it four out of five over the sixth-place Shreveport Sports with a 15-to-4 lacing, while second-place Dallas kicked away a 6-to-5 verdict to Oklahoma City to slide further off the pace.

Beaumont blew a 6-to-4 lead as the Houston Buffs rallied for five runs in the ninth to take a 9-to-6 decision and Fort Worth ranbied for eight runs in the ninth to hand Tulsa its 11th loss in 13 starts.

The clubs swich game sites Friday night with Tulsa going to Dallas, Oklahoma City at Fort Worth, Houston to San Antonio and Shreveport to Beaumont.

San Antonio had two four-run innings, the third and sixth, and piled five more runs across the plate in the eighth to make the most of 13 hits off three Shreveport pitchers.

Mel Held had to have help in the seventh when Jack Hollis hit a three-run homer for the Sports, but got credit for his third victory of the young season. Kal Segrist hit two homers for the winners.

Bob Upton came in to relieve Roger Aldridge and shut off a Dallas rally after two runs had scored in the ninth to save Oklahoma City's victory. Dallas committed five big errors, three of them coming in a two-run Indian rally in the seventh. Jim Clark singled in what proved to be the winning run in the eighth. Bill White hit a solo homer for Dallas in the eighth.

Ten Houston Buffs went to the plate in the big ninth inning that stopped a five-game Beaumont winning streak and that offset a similar 10-man, five run inning by Beaumont in the second. Reliefer Vern Kennedy was charged with the Beaumont loss.

Umpire Sam Carrigan chased Buff Manager Mike Ryba and George Lerchen in the Buffs ninth-inning rally.

Two big home runs by Danny Ozark and Frank Jeffers featured the eight-run Fort Worth rally to wipe out a 7-to-2 Tulsa lead in a game called at the end of the eighth to enable the teams to catch a train.

Trabert Top Choice To Win River Oaks

HOUSTON —UP— Nimble-footed Bernard (Tut) Bartzen, Texas southpaw who knocked Ham Richardson out of the River Oaks Tennis tournament Thursday, met top-seeded Tony Trabert in a semi-final match Friday, but was given slight chance of pulling a second big upset.

Trabert has been red-hot on the current tennis tour. He has won the last eight tournaments he entered and is favored to make the River Oaks title No. 9 in a row.

Trabert walloped eighth-seeded Sammy Giammalva of Houston and the University of Texas 6-1, 6-2, 6-1 Thursday with a spectacular display of power and finesse.

Seixas Advances

Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, ranked No. 1 nationally but seeded No. 2 here behind Trabert, also advanced into the semi-finals. He will meet the winner of an uncompleted match between defending champion Dick Savit of Houston and attorney Tom Brown of San Francisco in a semi-final match Saturday.

Savitt was leading Brown 6-4, 6-6 when the match was halted Thursday after an hour and 40 minutes.

Bartzen bressed past Richardson, the young Tulane University star, in three straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 8-6. Richardson, ranked No. 3 nationally said he "just didn't have enough energy to last and Tut hit back everything I could give him and just played good tennis."

Bartzen, of Dallas and San Angelo, Tex., said "all I did was get back to the fence and hit everything I could." That was enough for victory for the national clay courts champion, although Richardson contributed to his own downfall with frequent errors.

Doubles Halted

Seixas advanced to the semi-finals by knocking out the only unseeded player in the quarter-finals — Armando Vieira, Brazil's No. 1 Davis Cup star now attending Lamar Tech at Beaumont, Tex., 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Doubles play was also halted Thursday before the schedule was completed.

In the only match played, Seixas and Trabert, seeded No. 1, bressed by Whitney Reed and Gene Land of Oklahoma City 6-2, 6-2.

Friday's pairings had Bartzen and Vieira against Billy Talbert, New York and Frank Guernsey, Houston; Brown and Ulf Schmidt, Stockholm, Sweden, against John Bean and Robert Lovelace of Houston, and Richardson and Savitt against John DeWitt, San Francisco, and Seymour Greenberg, Chicago.

SURE-NUFF DAVEY CROCKETTS

Davy Crockett, fabled frontiersman, would be proud of his namesake and descendant in Houston. For Davy Crockett III, great-grandson of the Alamo hero is a modest man who acts like he doesn't give a whoop or a holler for the current jukebox glorification of his name. (NEA TELEPHOTO)

Gene Kelly's Wife A Star Finally In Her Own Right

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD —UP— Betsy Blair, an actress noted chiefly as Gene Kelly's wife, finally has reached her own stardom—because of her admittedly "plain, ordinary" face.

The red-haired actress and Ernest Borgnine, the sadistic sergeant in "From Here to Eternity," have emerged as the hottest screen romancers of the year. They portrayed two lonely, non-beautiful souls who find love in "Marty."

The film, produced by Harold Hecht and actor Burt Lancaster, had no big-name stars nor staggering budget but won enthusiastic cheers from critics and ticket-buyers.

Miss Blair sat down to her first interview as a new star to honestly say "I'm a plain, ordinary-looking human being."

"I never would have been considered for the role if I were a Marilyn Monroe type," she said.

"I've never tried being that way because I don't feel like that. I don't feel that's what womanhood is. Besides, I don't think the movies should be some fairyland."

In most films the heroine is beautiful, perfectly groomed and poised, and the hero is a walking toothpaste ad. But in "Marty" the characters are "homely," as the critics called them, or "real" as Miss Blair prefers.

"It's flattering to have a role that's a human being," she said, "and not just a flat picture.

"Nobody looks like those beautiful people in the movies. Even those people in the movies aren't like that off the screen! Except perhaps Elizabeth Taylor. She always looks beautiful, but she's rare."

It took Betsy 15 years of acting to reach acclaim. She began as a Broadway dancer and graduated to starring stage roles. But in Hollywood, after becoming Mrs. Gene Kelly, she won only supporting character parts.

"Most people here think I really don't care about working but I do," she said. "I suppose being Gene's wife is somewhat of a handicap, but I don't care.'

Betsy has long hair, won in a school-girl style. She wore a simple jumper and blouse Thursday, and no make-up. She looked like Julie Harris in "East of Eden," and "everybody tells me that."

"Marty" has brought her a new career. As we spoke she packed to join Kelly in France for the Cannes film festival where her film will be shown. Then she'll star in a French film.

"And I had to turn down offers here to go," she beamed.

"I suppose for a while the offers will be to play 29-year-old spinsters, but I don't care."

Hoover Says UN Has Failed

WASHINGTON —UP— Former President Herbert Hoover said Thursday the United Nations "has not fulfilled our hopes" but "I have no notion that we can abandon any organization of nations that makes for peace."

He told a Senate foreign relations subcommittee he has "no belief that under present circumstances" the UN charter can be "effectively amended because of the weight of the Communists in the security council."

The 80-year-old former chief executive added, however, that there is "no reason why amendments should not be proposed and effectively ventilated" for the world to study.

Mr. Hoover got a round of applause as he entered the big marble-walled Senate caucus room in the glare of klieg lights and photo flashbulbs. He chatted briefly with Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga.) before beginning his informal testimony with a hearing aid unit on the witness table in front of him.

The subcommittee, studying proposals for UN charter revision, heard Harry S. Truman, the nation's only other living ex-President, Monday.

First Round Polio Shots To Be Completed Today

The first round of Salk Polio Vaccine inoculations for Gray County first and second grade students is slated to be finished today with the giving of shots to students at the Lefors, Hopkins, and Woodrow Wilson schools.

With today's quota included, the total number of children inoculated with the immunity-producing drug is expected to reach approximately 1,150. Only about 25 absentees were expected for the whole week's operations and these will have an opportunity to get the shots at a make-up clinic planned by County Health Officer, Dr. Joe Gates for Saturday morning at 8:30 at Highland General Hospital.

The last day of inoculations began today at 2 p.m., in the Lefors and Woodrow Wilson schools. Hopkins students are to take their shots at the Lefors school.

Nurses at Highland General Hospital, who have been cleaning, sterilizing, wrapping, and re-packing the individual kits used by the doctors in the inoculations, will have a week's rest before starting the process again for the second round of shots scheduled to begin May 3. The third shot, a booster recommended by Dr. Jonas Salk, will be due in seven months and will be the responsibility of the parents.

The first two shots are paid for by the National Polio Foundation but the third booster and vaccinations for all children not in the first and second grades must be paid for by the parents. Vaccine for private use by physicians should be available by May 1.

Big Eater Sets Two Records; Eyes TV Show, More Eats

CHICAGO — UP— Phil Razdzik returned to Chicago Thursday to show a television audience how he ate his way to two unofficial consumption records.

Yazdzik gobbled down 77 hamburgers at one sitting here Tuesday and polished off 31 orders of fried chicken Wednesday in Detroit to claim records for both achievements.

He said he would attempt to continue eating through a two-hour television program before returning to his job in a coal mine at Olymphant, Pa., next week.

After establishing his chicken-eating record, the 194 - pounder said he would challenge anyone in the word to match his record. He said he would especially enjoy a match with Herman Hickman, hefty former coach at Yale University.

The 42-year-old miner said he had been told that Hickman once put away six chickens and boasted he could have eaten more.

Hedged on Trimmings

Yazdzik's 31 helpings of chicken was equivalent to 15 1-2 whole chickens but he hedged by avoiding trimmings such as potatoes. However, he drank at least a dozen bottles of cola and milk along with his meal.

He had hoped to eat 40 orders of chicken to put his record further out of reach but was unable to reach that mark.

"I started getting a little full," he said. "And I don't like to make myself uncomfortable."

Although he said he was usually the first one finished at the dinner table at home, it took Yazdzik more than three hours to get his fill of chicken.

Apparently it was easier for him to establish his hamburger record. He ate the equivalent of 20 pounds of hamburger in two-and-a-half hours and his publicity agent said he was ready to eat again several hours later. The chickens he consumed totaled more than 23 pounds.

"I don't know if there were records for eating hamburgers or chickens before I set them," Yazdzik said. "But I'm confident no one can eat more of either than I did.

Natural Appetite

"I guess I just naturally have a big appetite," he said. "I wasn't trying to set any records when I first started eating and I ate almost as much then as I do now."

Yazdzk's current record attempts were sponsored by Sidney Smith, owner of a restaurant chain. The meat consumed in establishing the two records ordinarily would have cost $81.75.

He said he works at two jobs which pay average of $130 a week to keep himself, his wife, and seven children in victuals. All are hearty eaters, he said, but only his daughter, Catherine, 18, approaches his appetite.

In order to help him toward his chicken record, Yazdzik skipped his breakfast and went without food for 12 hours. He said his usual breakfast consisted of 14 hot dogs and two quarts of milk.

For lunch he usually has about three dozen eggs, several pounds of cold cuts, and two more quarts of milk. His favorite dinner is four huge servings of spaghetti and meat balls.

"The idea of setting records all started because somebody bet me I couldn't eat an 18-pound ham at one sitting," he said "I won the bet and bought food with the money I won."
