HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Countless millions of U. S. citizens can recall when, as children, their first act of the school day was to pledge allegiance to the American flag and to the nation for which it stands. Apparently, even this simple patriotic gesture, requiring a minimum sacrifice of comfort or time on the part of the youthful individual, is to be gradually eliminated as part of the educational process in many areas.

A press item from New York reports that as a result of two 12-year-old girls challenging the requirement of pledging allegiance to the flag, court action has led to a recommendation to principals of New York's 63 high schools that they suspend the practice. If this recommendation is followed, it will mean that about 240,000 New York high school students will no longer be given the opportunity to stand up and commit themselves to the responsibility of supporting the flag of their nation. This also is happening in many others of the "big city" schools throughout the nation and the state. School administrations are bowing to the will of a few who would deprive others of any right to express themselves, and the few are being upheld by the courts. Instances like this should partly clear up the mystery of why lawlessness and lack of respect for persons or property is so widespread in this age.

The "agin-everything-ers" report that patriotism, like religion, should not be legislated—should not, and can not be, forced. Rebuttal would be that "force-fed" patriotism like "force-fed" religion, if it exists, admittedly would be most ineffective. However, the mere asking that the pledge of allegiance be included in the daily exercises of school children is not "force-feeding" patriotism. The fact and the act of pledging do not make a patriot, no more than a half dozen rose buds make a spring. Instead, it is only a placing of a guiding hand on the shoulders of the young, pointing them in the right direction, and giving them starting motion. It is only a part of the process of teaching, of instilling in the minds of the young a sense of respect for in this instance, the flag and what it stands for and what this nation is and what it stands for. After all, that's what it's all about.

However, we should remember that respect—and patriotism, if you will—must be demonstrated a lot before they can be taught a little.

Rehab Center Again In Financial Difficulties

The West Texas Rehabilitation Center is in an acute financial situation. This was acknowledged at the Board of Directors meeting on Tuesday, February 17. The Center has suffered from severely curtailed Medicare payments and spiraling medical personnel costs.

Coupled with increasing patient loads and inflation in general, the non-profit facility has been slowly losing financial ground each month.

Board President, Bobby Sayles of Tuscola, states that after examining last year's records, many regular donors have not responded. After a brief survey of the area, many of the Board members stated that they felt the public has the false assumption that the West Texas Rehabilitation Center was financially solvent.

Sayles stated that the only way the Center would continue to serve as a comprehensive rehabilitation center for the vast West Texas area was with continued public support; that no stop-gap methods would guarantee month by month operations.

It was pointed out that with the present financial situation, emergency funds are needed and it was hoped that an informed public would be a giving public and help the Center again reach monetary stability.

Easter Seal Campaign In Winters To Benefit West Texas Rehab Center

All proceeds from this campaign will be used for the operational expenses of the Center, where the need for funds has become most acute, it was stated.

As a part of the Easter Seal Campaign, local restaurants, drive-ins and drug stores will contribute coffee-sale proceeds to the drive Friday of this week. Participating in this coffee-day will be Main Drug, Dot Dot's Drive-In, Smith Drug, Chick Inn, Fireside Restaurant and Huffman House.

Other campaign activities later in the month will include a street sale of Easter Seal lapel pins, the "Fantasy" autographed Easter Rabbit, distribution of coin folders at school, and the solicitation of businesses and industries.

In charge of the local campaign are H. M. (Jiggs) Nichols, Mrs. David Dobbins and Mrs. Bobby Rogers.

Cornerstone of Methodist Church Removed Sunday

In 1924, N. C. Hinds, as master of the Winters Masonic Lodge, was in charge of laying the cornerstone of the new Methodist Church building on the corner of North Church and Parsonage streets. A small metal lock box, containing records and objects relating to the church, was placed behind the stone, in the brick wall, and the depository was sealed against the elements.

For 46 years, the building served as a seat of worship for the Winters Methodist congregation. In 1969, the congregation voted to demolish the old church building and erect a new sanctuary on the spot. Work on demolishing the building was started in mid-February.

On Sunday, March 1, 1970, N. C. Hinds was present as the cornerstone of the old building was removed. As other members of the church pulled the stone from the brick wall, Hinds removed the metal box from its niche, where it had rested 46 years. The box was locked, and the key had long since been lost, so the lid was pried open.

In the metal box was a Bible, a copy of the Church Discipline, a roll of the church membership, a list of the church officers, and a small pocket-size New Testament. The New Testament had been placed in the box by the Rev. P. T. Stanford, who was pastor of the church in 1924. It had been carried by him during his service in the U. S. Army during World War II, and on the flyleaf was written, "P. T. Stanford, Co. C, 302nd Heavy Tank Battalion, 1917-18-19," and "Pastor, Winters Methodist Church, June 29, 1924."

Also taking part in the informal ceremony at the removal of the cornerstone were the Rev. Glenn Bowman, pastor of the church; Sam Jones, president of the board of trustees of the church; Richard C. Thomas, who is present master of the Winters Masonic Lodge; M. L. Dobbins and La Dell Davis.

CARROLL TATOM . . . "Man-of-the-Year"

Carroll Tatom Man-of-the-Year

Carroll Tatom, superintendent of schools for Winters Independent School District, Friday night was revealed as "Man-of-the-Year" during the annual Winters Chamber of Commerce membership banquet.

Presentation of the award was made by Ray Alderman, who was named Man-of-the-Year at the 1969 chamber banquet.

The Man of the Year award is made each year to a person in the community who is judged by a secret committee to have made sizeable contributions of time and talent to the community.

Tatom has been superintendent of the Winters Independent School District since 1967. A native of Putnam, where he finished school, he attended Tarleton College at Stephenville, received his bachelor of arts degree in education from Daniel Baker (Howard Payne) College, and after teaching several years and serving in the Army during the Korean War, received his master of science degree in education from Hardin-Simmons University in 1959.

He has taught school at Colorado City, was assistant coach at Cisco, coach and teacher at Wink, where his track team won the state championship, high school principal at Wink and high school principal at McCamey. He served as superintendent of schools at Albany for about three years before coming to Winters in the same capacity.

He is married and has three sons, Steve, Stan and Kyle.

Banquet Speaker Deplores Decline of Values, Urges Upgrading Citizenship

"This is an age of confusion," Dr. C. L. Kay, assistant president of Lubbock Christian College, told members of the Winters Chamber of Commerce and their guests Friday night.

"In the first place," he said, "we are confused about our economic system. Then we are confused about the war in Vietnam. And thirdly, we are confused about the philosophical and moral convictions that have been a part of the American tradition."

More than 200 attended the annual membership banquet of the chamber of commerce, held in the school cafeteria. A highlight of the chamber year, the banquet was the occasion of a report on last year's work by the outgoing president, Woodrow Watts, who recognized outgoing directors, and a pledge of "cooperative work within the chamber" by the incoming president, James Cowlishaw.

A new president actually assumed duties of the office in January, and the Friday night banquet was the public acceptance.

In his talk, which was prepared especially for his Winters appearance, Dr. Kay said that a survey made recently indicated that "87 percent of the people have no clear idea of what kind of government the Constitution sets up; 59 percent believed all increases in production should be paid out in higher wages; and 34 percent believe the electoral college is a special school for congressmen's children."

In the second place, Dr. Kay said, we are confused about the war in Vietnam. "A recent survey conducted for Fortune Magazine revealed that responses to the proposition that the war in Vietnam is pure imperialism" as follows: 14 percent of the youth surveyed strongly agreed, and 41 percent partially agreed."

"Thirdly," he said, "a recent taken poll reveals a big contrast between college and non-college students (regarding the philosophical and moral convictions that have been a part of the American tradition). Thirty-eight percent of the college students consider religion very important, while 64 percent of non-college students so consider; 31 percent of college students reject prohibition of marijuana, while only 17 percent non-college reject prohibition; 59 percent of college students want more respect for authority, while 86 percent non-college students want more respect."

Dr. Kay said, "I want a country where the people are proud of the past. America has a great heritage. Our nation—a Republic—was built upon the solid foundation of the unalienable rights of man. . . . We do not need a new system of government, we do not need a new set of laws, and we do not need a new set of principles for as far as the recorded history of man is concerned, our principles are still new, untarnished by the passage of time."

"Second, I want a country where the people assume personal responsibility for solving domestic problems," Dr. Kay said. "Crime in this country doubled in volume during the decade of the '60s. Crime increased 11 times faster than the population. Throughout the decade, we witnessed defiance of authority in the home, in the

...that one U. S. farmer now supplies food and fiber for 45 persons as compared to only 23 persons just 10 years ago? The American farmer-rancher is truly a modern miracle worker!

RUNNELS COUNTY
FARM BUREAU

Farm Bureau Is Building Better Agriculture Image

Runnels County Farm Bureau is making a special effort this year to build a better image for agriculture, according to Doyle Condra of Talpa, president of the local farm organization.

"We hope to do this by explaining to the consuming public how farmers and ranchers are helping hold down the cost of living," the Farm Bureau leader said. Food continues to be a tremendous bargain for consumers primarily because farmers and ranchers have almost doubled their productivity in the past ten years, he added.

The statewide campaign, which is being coordinated by the Texas Farm Bureau, will utilize publicity in newspapers and on radio and television as well as some locally-sponsored messages on those media, Condra said.

As an example of how farmers have increased their efficiency, Condra said that a farmer today feeds 45 persons, compared with 23 persons just ten years ago. To help do this, the average investment per farm has jumped from almost $44,000 to almost $93,000 in the past ten years.

The farm leader said that the average American family spends only about 16 percent of its after-tax income for food, compared to some 30 percent in Europe and 50 percent in Russia. Also, the American housewife has a large variety of wholesome foods, attractively packaged and even pre-cooked in some instances, to choose from, he pointed out.

The Farm Bureau leader pointed out other examples showing that the consumer is still getting a bargain where food is concerned:

(1) To buy a pound of white bread 40 years ago required 9 1/2 minutes of factory labor, and takes only 4 1/2 minutes today.

(2) It took 50 minutes of factory labor to buy a pound of round steak 40 years ago, compared to only 24 minutes today.

(3) A dozen eggs required 34 1/2 minutes of factory labor 40 years ago, yet a dozen eggs today can be purchased with wages from only 11 minutes of factory work.

(4) It took 15 1/2 minutes of factory labor to buy a quart of milk 40 years ago, compared to just 6 minutes today.

(5) An hour's wages today will buy 57 percent more fruits and vegetables than an hour's wages would buy 20 years ago.

What all this adds up to, Doyle said, is that the American consumer of today spends less and less of his income for food, leaving him more money for better housing, medical care, recreation, and all the other things of life.

"The farmer is glad to have a part in providing the abundant life," Condra said. "The outlook is for even increased efficiency, but prices farmers

The Things We Say

By RUBY SHANNON

In the obituary of a popular author, I read the following bit of information: "During the 1930s, he wrote numerous pot-boilers."

"Pot-boiler" is a well-worn expression that means exactly what it says. The writer or artist produces his "art" for whatever money he can sell it for . . . just to keep the pot boiling.

History is full of stories about art for art's sake, wherein the artist or writer starves in a garret while he labors over a masterpiece. Far more stories are never revealed, however, of the ordinary author or artist who gets his start in life writing "pot-boilers."

Stone did not belittle the writing of "pot-boilers." Instead, he said that he saved his money from such works, and with it was able to travel to the Netherlands during the depression years to visit the home of Vincent Van Gogh. Sleeping in Van Gogh's bed, talking to the postman, Stone was able to absorb enough atmosphere to write his popular book, "Lust for Life."

Pot-boilers may not be literature, but they are good practice for a beginning author, Stone said. Work consists of whatever a body is obliged to do. Play consists of whatever a body is not obliged to do.

Women To Play Big Role In 1970 Census

The women of the Nation will play a large and vitally important role in the 1970 Census of Population and Housing, whether doing the counting or being counted.

Of the 160,000 enumerators (census takers) the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce, is hiring for the census, about 90 percent are expected to be women. Of the 12,000 crew leaders and the 13,000 office workers staffing the temporary local census offices across the country, well over half will be women. And according to calculations by Bureau officials, there will be more women than men counted in the census itself. Among the adult population (18 years and older), women may outnumber men by as much as 5 million. In the past, it was usually the woman of the house who greeted the enumerator at the door and answered the census questions for her family. Even when the husband was interviewed, a common observation of enumerators was that the wife was better informed, more knowledgeable about family matters than he. One enumerator commented: "There was not a single instance where the husband was able to answer all the questions without calling his wife."

But in the 1970 census many households will never see a n enumerator. If you live in one of the larger metropolitan areas, you will receive the questionnaire for your household in the mail a few days before April 1,

Census Day, be asked to fill it out and mail it back in a post-paid envelope provided. If you have filled out the questionnaire completely and legibly and mailed it back on Census Day or within a few days afterwards, no enumerator need call on you.

If you live in a rural area or in a smaller city or town, you will also receive your questionnaire in the mail, and will be asked to fill it out on April 1 but you will be asked to hold it for pick-up by a census taker.

The Census Bureau has planned the 1970 census this way so that the questionnaire can be in the home for a few days and give everyone the opportunity to provide the correct answers about himself. Filling out the census questionnaire can be a joint family project, if husband and wife are so inclined.

AUSTIN—Top Texas officials have agreed on general outlines of a plan to combat the rising problem of drug abuse.

Gov. Preston Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin and House Speaker Gus Mutscher are united in a statewide concentration of effort. Plan was announced after a meeting of the four in Smith's office last week. Texas Justice Council will serve as coordinator.

Coordinated law enforcement action will first be called on to try and dry up the sources of dangerous drugs.

Top priority is given a "total education" campaign for youth, adults, teachers and law enforcement personnel on drug dangers and possible solutions to the problem.

Task forces will be named to develop effective concepts and action programs in enforcement and education.

Leaders agreed on this immediate-action program: —One-day seminars for Texas law officers and prosecutors.

—Exchange of vital information with Mexico.

—Assistance through the Justice Council to implement school education.

—Review of successful narcotics programs in other states.

—Greater assistance to local enforcement and prosecuting agencies in evidence analysis.

—Gathering of statistics in major cities on drug-related crime.

—Creation of a model drug information office.

Narcotics strike forces will include local, state and federal personnel, military manpower and use of helicopter patrols along the Rio Grande.

Another task force will attempt to explore causes of drug use and to evaluate proposed research and rehabilitation programs as well as to implement educational programs in the schools.

State officials will meet here March 13 with aides to U. S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell. They will explore federal support possible under remedial programs and the uniform controlled dangerous substances act now before Congress.

TOLL ROADS PROPOSED In a surprise session with the Texas Highway Commission, Texas Turnpike Authority proposed that preliminary studies be made for the development of a massive toll road network estimated to cost more than $135 million.

Last year the Legislature authorized the agency, subject to the Highway Department's permission, to spend money for investigating the feasibility of additional pay-road projects.

Turnpike Authority asked the Commission to let it make exploratory studies of the following projects:

—An 83-mile, $50 million mid-Texas turnpike from Hillsboro to Interstate 45 near Centerville, to provide a direct freeway from Dallas-Fort Worth to Houston-Beaumont areas.

—A 20-mile, $40 million Dallas-Fort Worth-Trinity turnpike connecting Dallas and Ft. Worth parallel to the present turnpike by way of the projected Greater Southwest International airport.

—An 8.8 mile, $18 million airport tollway connecting LBJ Freeway in Dallas to the new airport estimated for completion in 1973.

—A $20 million toll road in San Antonio to follow the route of long-delayed U. S. 281 North Expressway.

—A 1.2 miles, $7 million toll bridge across Mountain Creek lake in Dallas County connecting the Oak Cliff and Arlington areas.

—A turnpike from downtown Houston to Intercontinental Airport and possible other facilities in the state's largest city.

Preliminary studies will take six to nine months. Feasibility surveys may follow where reasonable promise is shown for the projects.

WELFARE CRISIS AVERTED Welfare Board cancelled its April 1 cuts in aids to needy families and medical assistance after Governor Smith ordered $13.5 million in medical school building funds shifted to welfare.

Deputy Welfare Commissioner Herbert Wilson said the fund transfusion will run programs at present levels through August and maybe longer.

Cuts of 12 percent in Aid to Families With Dependent Children and 20 percent in medical aid has been ordered for April 1. In ordering the transfer to make this reduction unnecessary Smith also directed strengthening of the welfare program administration and a step-up in rehabilitation efforts.

APPOINTMENTS Lieutenant Governor Barnes has been named to the advisory committee on National Assessment of Educational Progress and to a 10-member task force to recommend a national policy on student financial aids.

Governor Smith announced these appointments: Runnels County Water Authority: John Brittain Dunnham of Winters, William Cleveland Smithwick Jr. of Miles, Cloy L. Allen of Wingate and Cecil Roper of Norton (reappointment).

ATTY. GEN. RULES Fraternal and veterans organizations operating clubs and serving alcoholic beverages are subject to sales tax as ultimate consumers for mix, beverage, ice or set-ups, says Attorney General.

Grass Drills Are Available On Loan From RS&WD

Two grass drills are now available from the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District, Grider Hays, district director, reminded this week.

During the past four or five years, Hays said, interest in grass seeding has been growing and the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District maintains these drills for the convenience of district cooperators.

Ronald Rugh, range conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, said that these drills are especially designed to handle "trashy" grass seed as well as the small, "slick" grass seed, such as bermudagrass and kleingrass.

Anyone interested in using one of these grass drills should contact one of the district directors, Rugh said.

FROM MORTON

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Mathis of Morton, Lance and Marla Mathis of San Angelo were visitors Saturday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Virden.

FROM AUSTIN

Reid Stoecker of Austin spent the past week end in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stoecker and with his grandmother, Mrs. Noel Reid.

al General Martin in a new opinion. However, Martin said, the "makings" are not subject to further sales tax when incorporated into alcoholic beverage served to guests and members.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that: —Amarillo Mayor J. Ernest Stroud did not automatically resign as mayor when he announced his candidacy for Randall County Judge.

—Alcoholic Beverage Commission does not have authority to construct a revenue station at Eagle Pass from appropriated funds.

—County Commissioners have no authority to budget an amount for the current year which exceeds the county auditor's anticipated revenue.

APPRECIATION

We wish to thank the public for their patronage of the fried chicken supper sponsored by the Methodist Church Choir recently, and the many individuals who devoted their time to this project. — Methodist Church Choir.

CHEERFUL Robin Anderson, 20, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was selected as the nation's best cheerleader. The Duke University junior is majoring in zoology.

Mrs. Juanita O'Connor's Weekly Home Demonstration Agent's Column

The modern-day broiler-fryer is really a bird of history.

It is a member of a zoological family with a pedigree dating back at least 150 million years. Its genetical data can be traced back through Bavaria, India, the East and West Indies, New Zealand, Australia, Greenland, islands in the Pacific, Great Britain, Egypt, China, the Malays, Rome, France and America.

At first these fowls romped freely through forests and fields—but man soon realized what a delicacy he was missing. By the beginning of the Christian Era, he had begun the domestication of chickens through planned breeding and raising.

The chicken still gets around. Its popularity is widespread, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. America is certainly no exception. We consumed about 39 pounds of chicken per person last year—an increase of more than 10 pounds over the last 10 years.

So the report by the USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service that broilers are plentiful is most welcome. Plan to include lots of chicken dishes in the menu this month.

Baked Chicken Supreme (4-5 Servings)

1-2½ lb. broiler, cut up.
½ cup fat for browning
¼ clove garlic, minced
1 tsp salt
½ cup onion, sliced
1 tsp. salt
1 T. chicken drippings
2 T. flour
2 cups dairy sour cream
¼ cup parmesan cheese

To prepare, brown chicken in fat and place in casserole. Cook garlic and onion in the chicken drippings until onions transparent, then add salt. Blend in flour, add tomatoes, stirring constantly, and heat to boiling. Remove from heat, add sour cream gradually, stirring vigorously, blend in cheese. Pour over chicken. Bake at 325 degrees about 45 minutes.

Skillet Chicken With Rice (5 servings)

1 2½ lb broiler, cut up
½ cup flour

1½ tsp salt
1 tsp paprika
½ tsp pepper
½ cup fat for browning
2 cups boiling water
1 onion, sliced
¾ cup rice
Parsley to garnish
Paprika to garnish

Combine flour, salt, paprika and pepper in paper bag. Shake chicken in bag, 2 or 3 pieces at a time, to coat evenly. Brown pieces slowly in medium hot fat in a skillet, turning to brown lightly on all sides. Takes 15 to 20 minutes.

Reduce heat, add water and onion. Add rice. Cover and simmer until chicken is fork tender, and rice is done and all water is absorbed—about 40 minutes. Garnish with parsley and paprika. Serve with buttered carrots and tossed salad greens.

Chicken Pilaf

3 T. butter or margarine
½ cup Brazil nuts or almonds, coarsely chopped
1 can (3 or 4 oz) mushrooms, drained; save liquid.
1 cup celery, diced
½ tsp salt
1 cup raw rice
2½ cups chicken, diced, cooked
2½ cups mushroom liquid plus chicken stock and/or water as needed to complete measure

To prepare, melt butter in heavy skillet, add nuts and cook slowly, stirring occasionally, until nuts are toasted a delicate brown. Add mushroom liquid, mushrooms, celery and salt to skillet. Bring to a boil. Add rice slowly. Cover skillet and simmer 20 to 25 minutes. Add chicken to the last 10 minutes of cooking time. Makes four servings.

Serve Chicken Pilaf with hot buttered toast points for lunch, or as the focal point of a full-course dinner.

Only the individual can make himself a better manager. The company and the boss can help. But in the long run all personal development is just that—personal.

Most outdoorsmen have at one time or another suffered from poison ivy. . . that irritating, itchy skin rash that seems to spread with every scratch.

Here's a simple prescription which will provide much desired relief: Mix 25 aspirin tablets and two ounces of camphor gum in a pint of rubbing alcohol and apply to infected part of the body twice daily.

This poisonous ivy plant is an American climbing plant with a somewhat vinelike habit. Act with leaves in groups of three. Usually, it is a species of sumac.

It is poisonous to many persons merely by touch.

A variant name of the poison ivy plant is poison oak or poison sumac.

It can be identified by its trifoliate leaves, greenish flowers, white berries and an irritant oil. It is the oil which renders the herbage poisonous to touch.

"Poison Sumac" differs from "poison ivy" in that the form is a shrub or tree usually six to eight feet tall, and is found in the swamp lands. Its leaf-stalks bear clusters of smoothly greenish yellow seed pods.

The whole plant is poisonous to taste or touch. Give it wide berth!

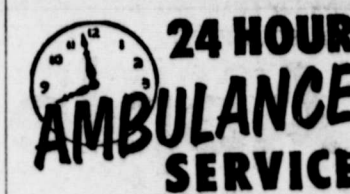

Is there anything more soothing than the quiet whirr of a lawnmower on a summer afternoon?

HALL APPEALS ELECTION RULING

Frustrated in his State Supreme Court effort to get on the Democratic ballot as a candidate for governor, Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwell went to Washington to try to get an appeal before the U. S. Supreme Court.

State Court ruled that the constitutional provision on prohibiting a lawmaker from holding an office for which the pay was raised during his elective term makes Hall ineligible. Governor's pay was raised last year. Hall's senate term runs until 1973. He claims the provision was not intended to apply to the governor's office and discriminates against 15 senators.

Hall hopes to get before the U. S. top court on the contention that the restriction violates due process and equal protection under the law guaranteed by the federal constitution.

Over the Rooftops... London's Big Ben witnesses a spot of magic as the fearless Peter Pan guides the darling children over the rooftops to Never Land in Walt Disney's brilliant all-cartoon production "Peter Pan." Buena Vista re-distributes the sparkling film which is in color by Technicolor.

★ MOVIES ★

"Peter Pan"

Capturing the bright landscape of fantasy and the atmosphere of imperishable youth, Walt Disney's all-animat treatment of J. M. Barrie's "Peter Pan," returns to delight moviegoers of all ages.

In color by Technicolor, the famed story of "the boy who would not grow up" includes such famous characters as the imaginative Wendy; Nan, the patient canine nursemaid; Mr. and Mrs. Darling; the terrible crocodile with his constant longing for another bite of the not-so-excellent Captain Jack; the mischievous Tinker Bell; and the mischievous Michael with his appalling determination.

And running through the story like a bright golden thread are the antics of the incredibly lovely and highly tempered Tinker Bell, dainty messenger and boon companion to the irrepressible Peter Pan.

Disney, knowing as much as Barrie himself about the Never Land of pure fantasy, has garbed the playwright's delightful work with the modern magic of animation synchronized to music, and with all the flexibility of the camera happily married to the Disney brand of artistry. "Peter Pan," a sparkling treatment of the beloved classic, is re-released by Buena Vista.

"The Legend of the Boy and the Eagle"

Eroded cliffs, barren deserts and surging springs provide the picturesque setting for Walt Disney Productions' nature adventure, "The Legend of the Boy and the Eagle," which was filmed in the primitive and majestic Coconino National Park of Arizona.

Director-photographer Jack Couffer chose the park's network of canyons and crags as the location for unusual scenes with a Hopi youth and his golden eagle. This unique pair is seen wandering through the wilderness, hunting rabbits and ducks, and battling vultures and wolves.

The 1,730,000 acre park is named for a now extinct Indian tribe called "Kocconino," who stalked elk, deer, antelope, and wild turkey on this land centuries ago.

But, ever on the search for varied settings, Couffer also journeyed with his camera crew to other locales surrounding Coconino, like Monument Valley and Canyon De Chelly in north-schools, on the college campus, in our nation's streets and in the halls of justice. Never have I seen so much disrespect for authority. Riot, rebellion, and disobedience are on every hand.

"You say, 'Why don't they do something about this crime wave?' What have you done? Have you given of your time to serve on the jury? Have you advocated (through the use of the ballot box) a vigorous law enforcement program with prompt and decisive prosecution, and realistic punishment of criminals? Have you shown respect for the man with a badge, and assumed personal responsibility for upholding the law?"

"Have you, as parents and teachers, emphasized the responsibility of each individual to respect and obey the law, to develop self-control, to exercise self-discipline, and to act responsibly on the basis of his own judgment and convictions?"

"The people continue to be concerned about inflation," the speaker continued. "You say, 'inflation is killing me.' What have you done to keep prices down? What have you done to reduce costs? Were you as productive in your job today as you could have been? Did you put in a day's work for a day's pay? Were you as efficient as you could have been?"

"Frankly, all of us must share the blame for inflationary trends in America. To achieve a stable economy with no inflation will require a statesmanship-like attitude on the part of government, business, and labor."

"Third," he went on, "I want a country where citizens are concerned about the nation's security. . . I wonder if (the United States of America) can continue its business that of preserving the peace for a free people—that of halting enemy aggression. . . Our nation entered the 20th Century as a world leader and a great power. We paid a high price for freedom. American soldiers tramped the ancient battle grounds of weary Europe; and shivered on Korea's frozen ridges. Today they fight and build in a complex war in Vietnam."

"But what about the future? Will we become careless? Will we let down our guard? If we are to stop enemy aggression and insure the peace, we must provide the means necessary to preserve our national security and vital interests throughout the free world."

Dr. Kay said, I take a dim view of what happened in the 60s to the United States' strategic capabilities. . . There must be a new vision on the part of Government leaders, there must be a new commitment on the part of the American people, and a new willingness to engage the nation's total resources in defense of freedom or the United States might find itself at the end of the 70s, a second rate power—a risky place to be if your country is truly committed to the safety of its people."

"I have talked at length concerning the characteristics of my country," Dr. Kay concluded, "because the kind of country I want will have a large bearing on the type of community that you will have. If the citizens of the United States are proud of the past, assume personal responsibility for the solving of domestic problems, and are concerned about survival, then local citizens will be proud of their past, assume personal responsibility for solving local problems, and will be concerned about community survival."
