George Von Elm, Amateur Champion, Enters Golf Tourney At New York

Among the stars of the links who will compete in the United States Open Golf tournament at New York is George Von Elm, National amateur champion. He entered the tournament late yesterday along with a number of other celebrities of the Scotch pastime.

when the Browns made their single run. Thomas had pitched 25 score- less innings.

At the same time the Sox were winning the Yankees were losing to the Senators 3 to 2, enabling the Chicago club to cut down the New Yorker's long lead to less than 100 percentage points.

Sluggers Produce Both of the New York runs were scored on home runs by "the home run twins," Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, and both came in the first inning. The third man up, Ruth, smacked one into the center field bleachers for his eleventh circuit wallop of the season and Gehrig, who followed him, knocked another ball over the right field fence for his tenth, but that was about all the heavy hitting there was in Yan- kee bats for that day.

A double header between Cleve- land and Detroit gave those two members of the second division an even break, the Indians taking first, 9 to 4, and the Tigers the second, 7 to 5.

In the National league the Pitts- burgh Pirates tightened their hold on first place by walloping 3 to 1 Cincinnati Red pitchers for an 8 to 1 victory, while the Phillies renew- ed their effort to climb out of the second division by beating the Brooklyn Robins, 7 to 1, in revenge for the 29 to 4 walloping the Robins inflicted on them the day before.

And speaking of pitchers—the Hubbers have "them" —"Terrible" Terry and Taylor, out of Uncle Bil- ly Ditch's lads, of Texas University, Frank Wright and Woman Sand- ers, a couple of wrong handers. And there are lots of them in the city league to look over before defi- nite decision is made.

Hitting Sports High Spots James R. Dow

They are coming—the Pampa Oil- ers with old "Emmer" Gober at the helm. "Gob" writes us that he has a fast nine and for the Hubbers to get humped up for a fast nine. Looks like the Hubbers will have a merry time in their opening game.

Sunday and Monday the Hubbers battle their first game—and believe "muh" 'tis a fast nine that have banded themselves together to rep- resent Lubbock in the baseball col- enders. And but for old Skipper Sled Allen, the daddy of baseball on the South Plains it would be "the old original" Hubber line-up—but we don't have old Skip and will try just for one season to do with- out him. We will miss the old war horse and his spirit of fight believe me.

But the lads that have mixed in the games for several years by the side of Skipper Allen have inher- ited the fight and will carry on. There is Gib Jackson, Chester Shep- ard, Alex Hensley, "Woman" Sand- ers, "Red" Gaither and J. B. (Red) Hamilton, who have entered into many a baseball attack with Sled Allen and they have taken up his old battling air. These lads will at- tempt to carry on the mighty Hub- ber baseball achievements.

There is young blood in the Hub- ber forces too—Raymond Ater, flash of the Westerners at the short field, will be snagging them going and coming in the short stop position.

State Federation Finishes Good Year, Convention Heads Report

(By The Associated Press) WICHITA FALLS, May 24.—The State Federation of Labor has just concluded one of its most prosper- ous years, the annual report of the legislative board and individual re- ports of officials to the thirtieth annual convention of the organiza- tion here disclose.

The reports show the Federation to be in excellent financial condition and to have made marked growth in membership, 5,909 new members having been added since the last convention.

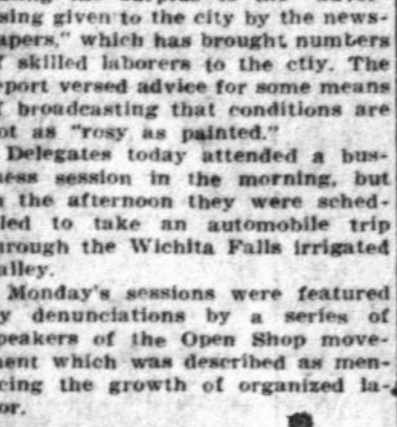

The principal recommendation to the convention, three of which were made, suggested an amendment to the constitution of the Federation which would provide that the annual convention be held the second Monday in May. At present the legislative board selects the conven- tion date. Another suggestion was that the work of the label and shop card department be continued with Miss Emily Jordan in charge.

Watch Solons Actions A third recommendation was that no legislative program be adopted until the 1928 convention, except as regards matters which may be sub- mitted to the special session of the legislature by Governor Moody.

The following officers made in- dividual reports: President Hermann Kachael, Denison; First Vice Pres- ident George Wilson, Houston; Sec- ond Vice President, Mina Boone, Fort Worth; third Vice President Samuel Goodman, San Antonio; fourth Vice President R. E. New-

LOCKNEY, May 24.—Newspap- ers bearing date of 1894 are very rare outside of the newspaper files, and a rare place for a paper of that date to be found was in a miner's cabin at Arroyo Hondo, N. M., northwest of the city of Taos, N. M.

A San Francisco Examiner bear- ing a date of September 6, 1894, was found by Mr. Ryan Speegle in 1925. The paper was used as a chair in the place of mud in a log cabin that was standing, however, most of this miner's village had been torn to the ground by the waters of a swollen river nearby.

In the paper were a great many advertisements in regard to the land and possibility of its culture in California, also there were a great many stringed instrument and cor- set ads.

The Lubbock Hubbers will make their formal appearance for the 1927 season Sunday and Monday when they meet with the Pampa Oilers at the Merrill Park. The Pampa Oilers are managed by a former Lubbock resident and Hub- ber veteran, E. B. "Emmer" Gober. The South Plains and Lubbock fans know who "Emmer" is and know the brand of baseball he puts out and they know well he demands good baseball from his players.

Gober has had charge of the Pam- pa nine for the past month and has turned in numerous victories since the opening game.

The Hubber outfit is primed and cocked to do business with the ad- ded strength of Gilbert Jackson and Alex Hensley, two veterans of the Hubbers, who have played numer- ous games in the Merrill lot be- fore the South Plains fans. Both Jackson and Hensley are excellent hitters and yet better in their field- ing.

A nice little puff in the paper

BACK in my home-town, this meant a "notice" in the newspaper. But I'm talk- ing about another kind of a puff and another kind of a paper—a puff of a cigarette made with Prince Albert and a makin's paper. Here's a thrill you can repeat every few minutes!

Cool as a conductor telling you it's the wrong ticket. Sweet as the remembrance that you have the right one in another pocket. Mild and mellow and fragrant as any smoke could be. Mild, but with that full, rich tobacco body that bangs your smoke-spot in dead center.

Get some Prince Albert and the papers and start rolling today. The instant you get a full breath of that wonderful P.A. fragrance, your fingers are set to roll. Then you make one and light up. Here's a taste you never had before in any home-rolled cigarette.

Do you ever smoke a pipe? I'd like to bet that you will—often—when you find out how good it tastes with P.A. for packing. Here's double-barreled smoke- joy. Pipe or cigarette, you can't beat good old P.A. Beat it? Why you can't even catch up with it! Try P.A.

Eye Can't Travel Beyond Borders of Miller Bros.' 110,000-Acre Ranch in Okla.

By NEA Service

MILLAND Okla., May 24.—Three American kings live on an empire within an empire here in north central Oklahoma—in an empty that stretches east, west, north and south over the limitless Oklahoma prairie as far as the eye can reach.

The three kings are Joseph, Zack and George Miller. Their empire is the famous 110,000-acre ranch of the best land on the continent.

From their home—the "White House," as they call it—they can see nothing that they do not see clearly in the horizon and beyond rolls their domain, the largest diversified farm and ranch in the United States. It is so large that a city of a million people could be placed within its borders with room to spare. And it is one farm that is not expected to ask for relief from Washington.

On a Huge Scale
With such a vast domain to rule over it is quite natural that the Miller brothers should do things on a big scale. They do. A city man, visiting the ranch is quite apt to have his breath taken away at the scope of their operations and the calm matter-of-fact way they go about them.

For instance, they may decide on a Tuesday to start drilling a couple of new oil wells on Wednesday. This may not sound like much unless you happen to know that the average cost of sinking a well is about $100,000. If it goes very deep it may run up to $200,000. But the Millers don't haggle over figures. They make up their minds and go ahead.

Old timers hereabouts, who can remember the "good old days" when cattle were driven up from Texas along the old Chisholm Trail through Oklahoma and into Kansas for the eastern market, are amazed or less flabbergasted over the tradition-shattering, cattle movement that has just been engineered by the Miller brothers.

A Record-Breaking Herd
The old timers remember that 1500 head made a sizable herd of steers. It's pretty hard for them to reconcile this with the fact that the Millers have just shipped 35,000 from Florida—bought them with all the nonchalance of a man flipping a dime with another to see who gets far—the drinks—does about shipping them as though a movement of 500 freight cars, with all its attendant worries and ramifications, were an everyday job.

But it was just another, little deal for the Millers. Someone got the White House on the telephone one night and asked for Zack, who is in charge of live stock. Zack was told there were 21,500 head of cattle in Florida that could be bought at a good price.

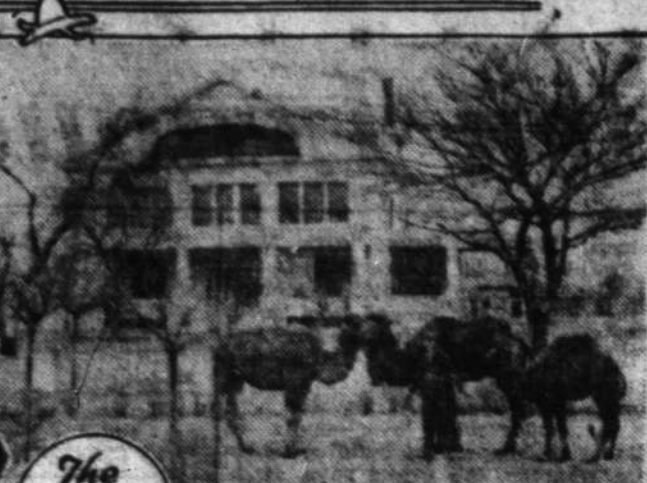

The price sounded right. Zack told his two brothers. It took them just two minutes to decide to buy. Zack left immediately for Florida to engage the freight cars and get the herd started west. George got busy and sent out scores of letters to bankers and others who might be interested in buying cattle. Then he went to Memphis, Tenn., to meet the shipment, dispose of those cattle that had been sold, and route the remainder down to the ranch.

A small profit on each head and a quick turnover. Joe Miller said: "That's the way we do it. It doesn't take our money up. The deal should be completed in three or four weeks."

Three brothers never lived who were more dissimilar in appearance and character than the Miller brothers. Joe, the oldest—he's nearing 60—is the farmer. He also travels with and heads up the Wild West show that is another of the many activities of the Millers.

Mammoth Fruit Orchards
Joe is, and looks like, a man of the soil. His face is weather-beaten and tanned by the wind and sun. His hobby is fruit trees. He has 50,000 walnut trees, 12,000 warding the verses through megaphones.

They Want to See Him
But the people are not satisfied with talking and reading about the hero; they want to see him, and they have had little opportunity thus far in his rapid trips from the American embassy, escorted just like a sovereign by secret service men.

It was with the idea of satisfying this popular desire that the city council fixed Thursday, which is a convenient day and a public holiday, for a reception, so that as many as possible can get a glimpse of him.

On that day the president of the council, the vice presidents and officers of the assembly will go in state to the embassy to accompany Lindbergh in an open carriage through the Arc de Triomphe through the Champs Elysees and the Rue Rivoli to the city hall, on the steps of which he will be presented to Parisians. Later he will sign the "Golden Book" as did Louis Blériot after he flew across the English channel 20 years ago.

Lindbergh knows that the people above all, want to see him in action in his element, and he is going to try to give them an exhibition of the still which brought him across the ocean with the regularity of a crack express train. He is planning to make a slight over Paris Thursday aboard his "old bus," "The Spirit of St. Louis."

At his request, mechanics at Le Bourget airfield have already started overhauling his motor and repairing the damage to the canvas done by souvenir hunters immediately after the plane touched the ground Saturday night. Pleased by his simple kindly manner, the mechanics offered to do anything for him.

The blonde youth from the west, the Dublin, Lindbergh said: "I go from joy to joy, and this is one of the greatest."

Receives Decorations
Another big moment of the well-filled day came at the Aero club, where, in the presence of a notable group of birdmen, he was presented with the club's great gold medal. After hearing his grateful song by Minister of War Poincaré and other gentlemen, he made a three sentence speech which was sufficient to endure him further to the hearts of Frenchmen.

"Friends," he said, "I am not going to try to make a speech. I am just going to tell you how important it is for me to express my feelings. The only thing I can say is how deeply all the United States felt the loss of your two great aviators who undertook something far greater than the flight from New York to Paris."

From now until he flies to Brussels Saturday, virtually every hour of Lindbergh's days has been assigned to some official or semi-official function—luncheons, banquets and receptions. From Brussels he expects to fly to London on Monday.

He is not in a hurry to get home, and there is a possibility of his going to Sweden to visit the birthplace of his father.

"I want to see a little of Europe while I am over here," he said. "I haven't accepted any offers that have come to me from America and I am not going to consider any until I get home. We didn't make the flight with that idea in mind. We didn't come over here with any million dollar ambitions."

Cheering Crowds See American Airman

PARIS, May 24 (AP).—Windows were crushed in by the dense crowds that came this afternoon to catch a glimpse of Captain Lindbergh, as he entered the hotel Ambassador for a luncheon of the American club.

When word of this came to Percy Pelto, president of the club, he took Captain Lindbergh and Ambassador Myron T. Herrick to the balcony, where Captain Lindbergh waved the French flag. The crowd, delirious with joy, cheered and cheered.

"A flood disaster makes all skin," said R. R. Ellis, of Memphis, Tenn., vice-president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who spoke before delegates to the W. T. C. C. convention in Wichita Falls.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, May 24 (AP)—Stock prices displayed an undertone at the opening of today's market, which was featured by a revival of activity and strength in the railroad shares. Rutledge preferred opened 2 points higher and Canadian Pacific 1 1/4. Lambert company and Simmons established new record high prices. Selling pressure was renewed again in International Combustion, which quickly sagged over a point. Early buying centered largely in the rails and public utilities with major rumors and earnings reports playing a prominent part in the advance. New peak prices were quickly established by West Virginia, Peoria and Eastern, Chesapeake and Ohio, Banzor and Apogee, Western Maryland common, and American Sugar Refining. With a tremendous volume of funds still seeking investment, and only a relatively small yield obtainable on most high-grade bonds, the accumulation of high grade industrial and railroad stocks was regarded as natural. The rapidity of the advance in many issues induced profit-taking by conservative investors and speculators with the result that the market became rather spotty towards the end of the first hour. Foreign exchange opened steadily, with demand sterling quoted around 14.85 1/8 and French francs around 2.91 3/8 1/8.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, May 24 (AP)—Despite Liverpool quotations higher than expected, wheat averaged lower today during early dealings here, except May delivery. Profit taking sales were in evidence and Liverpool advances were ascribed to speculative buying orders from America. Opening 1-8 cent off to 5-8 cent up. Chicago wheat later showed declines for July and September. Corn started at a shade to 1/2 cent higher and gained a little more, oats and provisions were easy.

BIG ADVANCE MADE

CHICAGO, May 24 (AP)—Grain traders stampeded to the buying side in all the pits today, and prices made an excited advance. Radically unfavorable crop reports from Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, with heavy unwelcome rains in Canada and the corn belt were largely responsible. Prospects of a diplomatic break between England and Russia contributed to the buying fever.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, May 24 (AP)—Wheat No. 2 hard 1.39 1/4 @ 1.51; No. 2 red 1.35 1/2 @ 1.40 1/2. Corn No. 2 white 20.92; No. 2 yellow 22 1/2 @ 24 1/2. Oats No. 2 white 52 1/2 @ 55 1/2; No. 3 white 51 1/2 @ 55.

Lindbergh—He's No 'Flying Fool' But He's Only Airman Who Flies By Periscope

Youthful, open-faced, gink-cheeked is Captain Charles A. Lindbergh. But he's no "flying fool."

By NEA Service. NEW YORK, May 24.—The youthful, gangling, open-faced, pink-cheeked Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, who has become a household name, is no "flying fool." "I'm no flying fool," was the way Lindbergh put his sweeping reputation. A Periscope Pilot. Lindbergh, whose six feet of height and personality might to the imagination have just stepped out of the movies, is the first periscope aviator yet reported. From the cockpit of his one-seater monoplane he can see to the front, in that direction from his wicker chair there is to be seen only an instrument board that looks like the control center of a great power house or a telephone exchange. To look ahead, as for instance in landing, Lindbergh has to push the periscope out over the other machinery. If the vision it affords is limited—well, Lindbergh doesn't land very often. He made only one stop between San Diego and New York, and none between New York and Paris. Lindbergh also denied reports that there was a device about his plane which controlled it automatically, thus allowing him to sleep while en route. "I don't get sleepy," he explained. In the line of navigating instruments Lindbergh carried only a compass, a watch and a screw driver. Careful humorists asserted. But in the cockpit of his plane were more instruments than many humorists could count. And he has a compass inside his head," fellow flyers commented.

Nebraska used to be Lindbergh's home. He started flying at 19. He entered the army air service, and to become a civilian pilot, and finally went into the air mail service between St. Louis and Chicago.

Twice he made night parachute jumps from airmail planes after getting lost in heavy fogs. Twice he made forced landings in cabbage patches, also at night.

At Kelly Field, Texas, he piloted an army plane which collided with another in mid-air. Again his parachute saved him.

Lindbergh is quiet, modest. He doesn't like to be called a "dare devil." He doesn't like to be considered excessively brave.

"I've been scared plenty of times," he said. "Any flyer who says he hasn't been is a liar."

The idea of flying to Paris sprouted in Lindbergh's mind about a year ago, he said. His flair for adventure features him in this.

He abandoned the prevalent idea that a New York-to-Paris flight requires a crew of two or more.

St. Louisans provided him with capital for the venture.

Lindbergh is unmarried and has no "girl." He doesn't smoke. Most of his only grins and frowns.

He is flight commander of the 11th Observation Squadron of the Missouri National Guard.

His apparel accentuates the impression of Lindbergh as a movie character. It's always immaculate—his for instance upon his arrival in New York at the end of a 2500-mile, two-hop flight from San Diego.

After Orteig Prize. No velocity remarks came from Lindbergh to the effect made the Paris flight for the sake of science.

He took care to qualify for the $25,000 Orteig prize, but betrayed no other indications that he hoped for quick wealth from the venture.

Brownsville Happy Over Rail Addition

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, May 24 (AP)—Revelry at the news that the Interstate Commerce Commission had granted permission to the Southern Pacific and Missouri Pacific to extend their lines in Cameron county was followed by a hastily organized celebration here, in which the fire engine and all factory whistles in the city participated. Within half an hour the entire city was decorated with flags and bunting.

The route for the Southern Pacific extension from Harlingen to Brownsville, as specified by the commission, runs about nine miles due east of Harlingen, and thence almost due south to Brownsville.

Good Rain Drenches North Plains Areas

CHILLRESS, Texas, May 24 (AP)—The lower Panhandle counties were drenched Monday night, the precipitation averaging about two inches over Chillress, Cottle, Hill, Donley, Collingsworth, Gray, Wheeler, Motley, Hardeman and Wilbarger counties.

A garage roof here collapsed from the weight of water. Lakes are filled and a splendid range for cattle is assured. Late wheat and oats will be benefited.

Too much Mexican immigration into Texas will cut down the high standard of American living by lowering the wage scale, is the assertion of James J. Davis, secretary of labor.

In authorizing the railroads to proceed, the commission requires the San Benito to begin construction by July 1 and complete the work before June 30 of next year.

As to the Harlingen-Brownsville extension, the Arkansas Pass company was ordered to begin construction within sixty days after it has trains operating into Harlingen

"Wide Open Spaces" Surprising To Him, "King Of Ivories" Confesses

HARRY SNODGRASS, OF RADIO FAME, PLAYS HERE TONIGHT

By BLANCHE E. BEAN
Playing a piano for a living is like any other work, according to Harry Snodgrass, "King of the Ivories," who is in Lubbock for the day. One goes to work when it is time, does his best while there and then goes home to rest, he says. If the piano is in tune and the audience is enthusiastic that is well, if they are not, it doesn't hurt for one to go on and do his best, he thinks.

HARRY M. SNODGRASS

It was while playing over radio station WOK, Jefferson, Mo., while an inmate of the state penitentiary that Mr. Snodgrass first became known as a pianist, and although he has played throughout the United States and Canada since he was pardoned, he still feels the fascination of playing over radio and prefers this to playing in any other way.

"You Just Know"
"Oh, you know people are listening, whether or not you can see them," he explained, adding as an enlightenment, "You just know."

The artist studied piano much for two years under a teacher and after that has been playing. As a youngster he performed in theaters at dances and upon the other occasions that presented. Later he had his own orchestra, and in this played a saxophone. He agrees with Will Rogers in thinking West Texas towns are mighty good "if he can find them," and expressed surprise that there is so much country out here that is not settled.

He Fears Wind
He was frankly astonished at the fury of the wind here, describing a sandstorm into which he had been driven between Amarillo and Lubbock yesterday afternoon. "It was like riding in an airplane and finding the air pockets around clouds, the sand obstructing one's view as the clouds do," he said. Mr. Snodgrass drives his own car over the country, his announcer, J. M. Witten, and another young man, who travels with them, driving another car. Until three days ago, Mrs. Snodgrass and their 11-year-old son traveled with him, but they have returned to their home in Springfield, Ill.

The pianist proudly displays a picture of his son, who is indulging in a broad grin, saying that the latter does not play and has no ambitions for the future other than "running a store." And he is hopeful that his son will be "just a successful business man."

He's Widely Known
In every country hamlet where the troupe stops, at every wayside store or filling station, they find that Mr. Snodgrass is known by the people who have listened to his playing during the last few years. The pianist esteems these radio friends of his and is proud that they remember him kindly, but when asked about the "feeling of being famous," he seemed surprised and denied this with "I don't know, I'm not famous."

It is with pride that he remembers the 4,000 telegrams and thousands of telephone calls that came the station at Jefferson, Mo., the last evening played there, but he has no explanation for his success. "People just happened to like my playing," he smiles.

From Lubbock this party is to go to Childress and from there to other points in Texas, the present tour lasting until the last of June. Sometimes they have a jump of 100 miles to make in a night and often they go several hundred miles between consecutive performances. Only once has Mr. Snodgrass been late for an appointment, even though he has met rats and many other unforeseen obstacles.

Traveled In Airplane
Recently while traveling in Kansas and when the floods were raging, he traveled for ten days in an airplane.

Although small of stature, the pianist does not use a chauffeur, explaining that "I want to be the one who is sleeping while I am riding" and something of his nature may be found in the fact that he does not find a companion necessary even when making long jumps over a sparsely settled country. His deliberation in speech leaves the impression, also, that he weighs his remarks before making them.

He finds his best audiences in college towns and likes to play for them. He finds every make of piano and every stage of being in tune and out in making tours over the country and finds every type of theater to play in. "It is grand to play on a good piano," he smiles, but ever finishes his remarks with "but that doesn't matter, I try to play my best. That is my business."

Lubbock Has Chance To Get 1928 State Convention Of Carpenters

FELIX KELLY, LEADER HERE, RETURNS TO HIS WORK

That Lubbock has an excellent chance of securing the next convention of the State organization of the carpenter's unions is reported by F. O. Kelly, who with Frank Robinson, have just returned from the meeting in Wichita Falls.

According to Mr. Kelly the matter hinges practically on the passage of an amendment by the union in regard to method of selecting the convention city. Heretofore the carpenter's unions have always met in the same city with the State Federation of Labor. An amendment was introduced to the constitution of the group, whereby the union would select its own convention city in the future, and in the case this amendment is approved, the next meeting will probably be held in Lubbock. Otherwise the next meeting will probably go to San Antonio, it was stated. Kelly said that it would hear from the state organization in this respect within the next few days.

Re-instatement of the 8 hour day work law for construction of public buildings, which was repealed a few years ago, and a move to amend the child labor amendment prohibiting working of children were the main subjects of discussion before the convention.

A report was also made by Geo. Lacey, second vice president of the National organization, that work has been started in a $700,000 home for disabled carpenters. This home will be supported by all the unions of the country. Kelly is secretary and Robinson treasurer of the local union.

Putty Anonymous Note Case Begins In County Court

Mrs. Milly Putty, charged with having written an anonymous threatening letter to her daughter-in-law Mary Putty, went on trial in county court here today, before Judge Chas. Nurdyke.

The text of the letter in question reads as follows: "Marry Putty: You have sworn lies on people, the best ones in our town, and we give you till Saturday night to leave hear or we will attend to you K. K. K."

Witnesses were called by the state in an effort to prove that the letter had been taken from the mail box and delivered to Mary Putty. Later Mary Putty testified that she had received the letter and that she did not know who sent it.

R. H. Hester, presented as an expert witness, stated that he had seen specimens of Mrs. Milly Putty's handwriting and that in his opinion the handwriting in the letter was the same as that of Mrs. Putty.

John Denman of the First National bank also testified that he is familiar with Mrs. Milly Putty's signature and that it is similar to writing in the anonymous letter.

The state rested, and the defense placed Mrs. Milly Putty on the stand. She testified that she did not write the letter and knew nothing about it.

The state contends that due to circumstances in which the elder Putty's devoted lands to their son after his marriage, and he later left his whereabouts now being unknown, that Mrs. Mary Putty brought action to be made guardian of the children, and was so appointed, the action being opposed, however, by her husband's parents, and it furnished a motive for Mrs. Milly Putty having written the letter.

The trial will be completed afternooon, court officials predict in case of a verdict of guilty insupportable jail sentence and a would have to be imposed, according to the law.

State is represented by County Attorney L. A. Howard and City Attorney L. E. Howard is represented by Lockhart and Garrard.

SAINT AND SINNER

BY ANNE AUSTIN

THAT in the world does Church-ill demand of Bob Hathaway, a furious whizzer.

"You must remember, honey," he hissed her, "that Churchill has to hunt for Cherry's and Chris' arrest on our wedding night, the 'She isn't to be spared anything, she?' Faith's brown eyes blazed. 'Cherry had kept from answering a long minute while the lawyers wrangled over the point as to whether the question was 'leading' not. Finally Judge Grimshaw in-structed her to answer."

"I got over my infatuation for my husband on our wedding night, for we were married," Cherry answered bravely, but her voice was low and strained and her golden hair darkened with dreadful mem-ories.

"Now Cherry, we will leave the subject of your husband tempo-rarily," Churchill said very gently, and turn to my previous line of ques-tioning. Did you tell Mr. Bohn that you could not marry him?"

"I did. I told him that I was in-fatuated."

"Cherry, you use this 'infatuated' preference to the word 'love'. Can you say why?"

"I realized after my marriage to Mr. Bohn that I had never really loved him, that my feeling for him had been infatuation. I tried a great many times to break his hold over me, but could not—until after I married him." Cherry answered with painful conscientiousness.

"Now, Cherry, after you left Mr. Bohn's office, where were you en-joyed?"

"By Mr. Curtis Preston, an ar-chitect," Cherry replied. "I worked for him until the middle of Septem-ber."

"And why did you leave his em-ploy at that time?" Churchill pro-duced.

Tears of anger and pity stung Faith's eyelids as she watched Cherry's lovely little face redden again with embarrassment.

"Because—because Mr. Pres-ton tried to make love to me," Cherry altered.

Reporters stared at Stephen Churchill with amazement; a faint wave of laughter swept over the audience.

"Mr. Preston was a married man, was he not?" Churchill went on, regardless of the amazement of pro-secution counsel and audience.

"No, sir, Mr. Preston had recent-ly been divorced."

"Now, Cherry, what did you know of the financial status of your former employer, Mr. Bohn and Mr. Preston?" Churchill asked signifi-cantly.

Over the district attorney's yelp of objection that the question was a leading one, Cherry was instructed to answer.

"I knew that they were both wealthy men, rich, I would call them," Cherry answered steadily.

"That," Bob whispered to Faith "is brought out to counteract the state's evidence that Cherry was a gold-digger, was marrying merely for money."

"When did you enter the employ of Mr. Ralph Cluny?"

Cherry did not change color at the mention of the dead man's name, nor did her voice falter. "I went to work for Mr. Cluny on Wednesday, September 15. I had met Mr. Cluny's nephew, Mr. To-let Hathaway, on Tuesday evening, September 14. He told me that he would speak to his uncle, who was in need of a secretary. The next day—I went to see Mr. Cluny and got the position. I worked for him until Wednesday, September 23."

"And why did you leave his em-ploy, Cherry?"

"I was engaged to be married to him, and he did not think it looked well for me to continue working for him," Cherry answered steadily.

"When did this engagement take place, Cherry?" Churchill asked softly.

"On Monday, September 27. He had asked me on Friday, the week before, to marry him and I had re-fused. Then on Monday, because I was very unhappy and—and sorry for something I had done, I was crying when Mr. Cluny came back from lunch. He had bought a soliti-taire ring and when he was trying to comfort me, he slipped the ring on my finger and—and I decided to do it."

"Cherry, will you tell the jury whether you were in love with Mr. Cluny when you accepted his offer of marriage?" Churchill astounded the crowded courtroom by asking:

Another Success

The "Success Story" is more or less an American institution. It had been told so many times, in so many different ways, that we sometimes get tired of hearing it.

Yet it is a good thing for us, that perseverance, dogged determination and plain, every-day honesty have their reward occasionally.

The latest variation of the heartening but hackneyed success story concerns a young man named Jack Hohenberg.

Four years ago Jack, who was then 17, walked into the office of the Seattle Star and announced that he wanted a job as a reporter. He was told that the staff was full, and was advised to resume his studies at the university. But he wouldn't be discouraged.

"See here," he said. "You're passing up something. I don't just want a job—I don't even want any pay. All I want is a chance to get somewhere. This is the place I'm going to work. If I'm willing to put my time against your experience, work early and late and hit the ball just as if I were getting a fat salary, I don't see that it's going to be any money out of your pocket."

The city editor relented. Hohenberg was given a job... without salary.

All summer he worked as a cub reporter. He worked hard. He was given all of the disagreeable news that are to be found around a newspaper office. He took them without a murmur, and thought up assignments on dull days.

To shorten the story, Hohenberg eventually won a regular job that had money attached to it. He stayed with the Star for a while, then he went to New York, seeking to improve his ability by a wider range of experience.

In New York he worked at night on a newspaper and by day studied in the Columbia University school of Journalism. It was long hours and hard work with little time left for play, but Hohenberg plucked away steadily.

And now comes the climax of the story. The other day when the Pulitzer prize committee met, to make awards Jack Hohenberg was given a $1800 traveling scholarship. He will sail soon for Europe to spend a solid year in Paris studying at the Sorbonne—the goal of every student.

Pretty soft? Well, he's going to have it nice for the next year, but he earned it. And it is heartening to read about him.

For A Medal

If American prohibitionists have any appreciation of bravery they will try to confer some sort of a medal on Joseph E. Sheedy, director for Kansas of our Merchant Fleet corporation.

Not long ago, to celebrate the fiftieth sailing of the Leviathan under our flag, Mr. Sheedy threw a big party aboard the ship at Southampton. A special train from London took some 400 British shipping and industrial leaders to the pier. They were given a royal reception and an elaborate meal, and they got the best of their lives.

Mr. Sheedy made them wash their hands down in pure water—nothing else. More he made them stand up and drink a toast to King George—again in water! They had never done it before; they will never do it again. But Mr. Sheedy made them like it.

Too Many Laws

Legislative assemblies meeting in 44 states at the union this year introduced some 40,000 new bills, 10,000 of which have become or are soon to become laws.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says:

Of course I guess it's everybody's privilege to name their own kid as they see fit but it does seem like, in some cases, fond parents would make an effort to fit the name and the occasion in such a manner that the mention of the two in later years would not be a certain reason for gasps of laughter. You can't blame anyone for his name but if the Plainsman was in lots of people's shoes he'd never have spoken to his parents after he became old enough to see what had happened.

Most folks, you'll observe, have fairly good luck with their last names because they're arranged automatically and have very little opportunity to be monkeyed with. It is the first and middle names, chosen by more or less dotting parents, aunts and grandmothers that do the most damage and it does seem a shame, I know two or three men whom I believe would have been popular and successful had their names been Bill, Mike, George, Jim or something like them instead of the handles they got. Clip this out and read it over the next time you have to make arrangements for a christening.

*** The Plainsman believes that when a woman reaches 35 that it is time that she forgets some of her "girlish" frivolity adopted at about 17 in an effort to fool folks in regard to her correct age. There is nothing more revolting than a mature woman, trying to act kiddish—unless it is a full grown man trying to slip into the jelly-bean class.

*** Did you ever stop to think how many men there are who can't think of your name to speak to you on the street but who can recall the name in full when they want a favor from you?

*** It is much easier to "get by" than it is to "put by" but the results in the end are not nearly so gratifying.

*** Efficiency is not to be denied. Prior to the war it was considered that any male who wore a wrist watch was a "sissy" and an object of scorn. Then when the time came of the country to don pants which had no watch pocket the wrist watch became just as symbolic with men as chewing tobacco used to be. Then after the war the wrist watch showed a temporary decline but once again it has come back into favor—come back because it takes less time for a busy man to glance at a watch strapped on his wrist than to tug one out of his pocket, look at it, and then stuff it back. Efficiency is not to be denied in any respect in this day of hustle and bustle.

Old Master's

I've plucked the berry from the bush the brown nut from the tree. But heart of happy little bird never broken was by me. I saw them in their curious necks, those cunning, slyly peer. With their wild eyes, like glittering beads, to note if harm were near. I passed them by, and blessed them all, I felt that it was good. To leave unmoved the creatures whose home was in the wood.

—William Motherwell: "Sing, Oh, Blithe Bird."

Justajingle

"I'll bet he'll miss me when I'm gone." The golf ball said, no kid. And then the golfer swung and that's exactly what he did.

It is also to be gathered that the commerce department sympathizes with the Argentine meat barons, whose beef is barred from this country through fear of the hoof and mouth disease. Most of the Argentine delegates were incensed about the beef ban. The commerce department is opposed to the beef and mouth disease, but it rather regards as brusque and undiplomatic the action of the Department of Agriculture in suddenly barring the Argentine beef without any preliminary salvo or warning. The annual Argentine beef shipments to the United States were only 2,000,000 pounds, so the ban seems a catastrophe, but that is only a very small fraction of what Argentina sells to Great Britain and the Argentine is worrying lest Britain take a tip from the United States.

Lampert Tells One

Thomas W. Lamont told a story at the annual dinner of the American branch of the International Chamber of Commerce which will bear repeating partly for itself and partly because it came from the great Lamont, member of the House of Morgan and one of the world's biggest financiers. A 100 per cent American married a 100 per cent English woman and they lived in England and had a little girl. Whether the kid would be British or American was of great concern to both parents. Time came when they were to go to the United States and on the night before departure the misbegotten child emerged triumphantly from the bedroom and announced that little Lucy, in her prayers, had said: "Goodby, God. We're going to America."

Lucy's pop rushed to the bedroom and soon emerged. Lucy, he shouted, had been misinterpreted. "Good! By God! We're going to America!"

WASHINGTON LETTER

CHEAP SILK HOSE FOR CUBAN FLAPPERS MEAN CHEAP CIGARS FOR U. S.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Silk stockings and cigars are two principal factors in one problem of international relations which the American people seem to know little about.

The two nations who are parties to this momentous bit of dickering are Cuba and the United States.

There is no danger of a war, of course, but just the same there is an "issue" and diplomats love "issues."

The question was formerly, "Shall the Cuban flapper have inexpensive silk stockings, or shall she not?" It was settled amicably and the brown legs of the senator may now be made as sleek and shiny as those of her American cousin at just about the same price.

That was that, but events came to pass, and one thing led to another till the "issue" is now stated in these terms:

"If the Cuban flapper has cheap silk stockings, why shouldn't your old man and my old man have cheap cigars?"

Your correspondent owes his information on this burning question to delegates to the Third Pan-American commercial conference in Washington. The United States and Cuba some time ago negotiated a parcel post convention to extend some of the benefits of the great parcel post system to the smaller republic. Today we send almost everything to Cuba by parcel post except automobiles and apartment houses, which are too large.

The small Cuban merchant is able to buy a gross or two of silk stockings, the principal item of Cuban-bound parcel post traffic, and sell them at moderate prices. If he were to depend on freight consignment, prices would have to go up. Cuba is a foreign country and the smallest possible freight shipments costs $15 by the time all the charges are added.

Works but One Way So far so good, but tobacco isn't included among malleable commodities. The Cuban merchant can eliminate the middleman in ordering silk stockings, but the American small merchant or big consumer can't do much in ordering Cuban cigars, and the Cuban idea is that the whole plan should work both ways.

The Department of Commerce seems to side with the Cubans. It is also to be gathered that the commerce department sympathizes with the Argentine meat barons, whose beef is barred from this country through fear of the hoof and mouth disease. Most of the Argentine delegates were incensed about the beef ban. The commerce department is opposed to the beef and mouth disease, but it rather regards as brusque and undiplomatic the action of the Department of Agriculture in suddenly barring the Argentine beef without any preliminary salvo or warning. The annual Argentine beef shipments to the United States were only 2,000,000 pounds, so the ban seems a catastrophe, but that is only a very small fraction of what Argentina sells to Great Britain and the Argentine is worrying lest Britain take a tip from the United States.

PLAYGROUNDS

The Big Bend country of Texas has much of one element of which many other sections of the country cannot boast—much mountain scenery. It is a natural playground, which has not yet received national recognition. Some effort at state recognition through establishment of a state park in the area got nowhere because of niggardly appropriations to this end. Now the Big Bend country proposes to capitalize on the scenery by the concerted effort of all chambers of commerce in the area to give it some good sound advertising. A meeting has been called for Monday at Alpine for the discussion.

California and Colorado count more on the tourist crop as meaning sure money than on the crops that nature provides bountifully. The Big Bend country can do the same. Automobiles are getting everybody back to nature for a few months of the year, and West Texas has an advantage of a moderate climate in winter time to attract winter tourists.

Nothing can keep the Big Bend from being a big tourist resort in the next decade but the residents of the section if they fail to realize the advantages they possess in the natural setting for the greatest playgrounds in America—San Angelo Standard.

CROP REPORTS

Indications being that the wheat yield in the Southwest generally this year will be as heavy as that of 1925. If not a good deal heavier, and that there will be a greatly increased acreage harvested by the combined method, the Santa Fe is making strenuous efforts to handle that part of the crop which is scheduled to come to its lines—The Earth (Santa Fe Publication).

Aside from wishing prosperity for the wheat growers, the Stantonite is glad the Santa Fe will likely have considerable wheat hauling to do, because, heavy winter transportation means heavy winter employment and a bigger payroll for the Stanton Division of the Santa Fe—Stantonite.

No more guns by mail after May 30. The picture wire people evidently have been doing a little lobbying.

There was also a Hungarian place in the upper nineties, where could be heard a little fellow who played the cymbalium with great skill.

Returning after a long absence, I learned that a "bigger and better" place had been opened two blocks away and had been given some fancy name. A liveried doorman opened the taxicab door and inside were half the motion picture and theater cliques of Broadway. A snappy limousine waited across the street for the proprietor.

A year ago she had to venture in a dark hallway and grope for a door to reach the entranceway of the "place where it began."

A Thought

For the wages of sin is death—Romans vi, 23.

How immense appear to us the sins we have not committed—Madame Necker.

IN NEW YORK

SEE-SAWING and DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, May 24.—The jazz palaces of Harlem's great black belt have long since "gone tourist."

When a year or so ago Harlem "alumni" was the fact of the Bohemians and jazz explorers, today slight-seeming-busses draw up at night and let out their crowds.

Formerly a few white couples might be seen scattered about in the cellar-crowds, but now Saturday night find buyers from Kokomo, college boys from Yale and butter-and-egggers from everywhere dancing about. Mixed dancing has become a commonplace.

Small's, which was the first to taste tourist prosperity, has moved from its snug basement on Fifth Avenue into Broadway, and has grown quieter and vastly more respectable. The girls now are covered with gold embroidered Chinese handbags and the air of carnival and revelry is greatly subdued. But for the parsimoniousness of the negro band and the entertainers, it might be almost any cabaret.

Recently I took a visitor to a place where, when I was last there some six months ago, three young darlings from Chicago were singing a bit naughtily in nature.

Now their repertoire is made up of spirituals.

"That's what they want now," one of them told me. "So we learn a new one every week."

Whereas the ballads about "Dear Old Girl" and "My Old Pal" used to make the boys maudlin after the sixth hipshot, they find that "Swing Low" and "Deep River" are now vastly more popular and just as effective.

Prosperity seems to have touched most of the out-of-the-way dining places in the "foreign quarters."

When I first began penning this column I often dropped into a little Russian place on Second Avenue to hear the balalaika orchestra. It was an obscure, little one room place then.

Going back the other night for the first time in a year, I found the walls torn away to double the seating space, chromo Lussiat paintings on the wall, and signs everywhere telling how the music could now be procured on phonograph records. A hat-check concession had been added and Russian cigarettes cost fifty cents a package.

There was also a Hungarian place in the upper nineties, where could be heard a little fellow who played the cymbalium with great skill.

Returning after a long absence, I learned that a "bigger and better" place had been opened two blocks away and had been given some fancy name. A liveried doorman opened the taxicab door and inside were half the motion picture and theater cliques of Broadway. A snappy limousine waited across the street for the proprietor.

A year ago she had to venture in a dark hallway and grope for a door to reach the entranceway of the "place where it began."

DAMAGE SUIT OPENS TODAY

$10,000 Case, Berringer vs. Bus Men, Being Heard By Judge Mullican

The case of A. M. Berringer vs. the South Plains Bus Lines, Inc., opened in Judge Clark M. Mullican's court Tuesday morning, in which Berringer is asking $10,000 damages of the bus company for alleged injuries received in an accident near Post several months ago. At the time Berringer received severe scalp wounds when thrown violently against a glass wind-shield, it was stated.

Counsel for the defendant is represented by Lockhart and Garrard, supplemented by John Autrey of Dallas, while counsel for the plaintiff is represented by the firm of Vickers, Campbell and Schenck.

Judge Mullican has taken under advisement a petition by the Western Union company against County Judge Nordyke seeking mandamus to enforce entering judgment, heard in the court yesterday afternoon.

The case involved recent damage trial in the county court in which judgment was entered against the bus company, but in the opinion of the judge the verdict of the jury was conflicting.

Lubbock Seeks 1928 Retailers Meeting

Lubbock's bid for the 1928 convention of the Retail Merchants Association of Texas in the annual convention now under way at Port Arthur is being supported by practically all cities and towns in this part of the state, and in the opinion of those in close touch with the situation, this city has an excellent chance for the meeting.

Information was received here late Monday from R. O. Walkup, manager of the Amarillo Credit Bureau, that all of Amarillo's 200 votes at the convention will be registered for Lubbock.

W. W. Rix, president of the local association, is in attendance at the convention, which started Monday for a three-day session, and in addition to offering this city's bid for the next convention, will respond to the address of welcome.

Sherman, Corsicana, and Wichita Falls are understood to be seeking the convention, and it is expected that some city in the Rio Grande valley also will apply.

Robert F. Blake, held in the Swisher county jail at Tulla since his arrest April 22 at Fort Smith, Arkansas in connection with the murder of Fred Conner, Tulla automobile dealer, is to go on trial in criminal district court at Tulla Wednesday on a charge of murder, according to information received here.

Blake, who was arrested on authority of J. Frank Norfleet, well known Halecenter ranchman-detective, after a chase over several southern states, is said by Swisher county officers to have signed a confession statement in the slaying of Conner, but the statement has not been made public.

Conner was slain the night of July 16, 1925 on the highway just south of Kress, and his blood-stained body was found early the following morning by searching parties.

again--the house--to--house peddler is selling inferior merchandise at exorbitant prices to Lubbock homes

The smooth-talking house-to-house canvasser is at it again, and this time the housewives of Lubbock are being talked into buying merchandise of inferior quality and paying exorbitantly high prices for the privilege.

Where can you find tomorrow, the smooth-talking peddler who sells you something today? Consider if you please, how easy it is for him to transact his business without fear of future complications. He doesn't need to worry about the inferiority of the quality of the product he sells you today—he knows that you can't find him tomorrow. Whether it lasts a day or a year is of no consequence to him. He has your money—what are you going to do about it?

This store is definitely and permanently established in your community. We strive for your business today because we want to serve you tomorrow—and we intend to deserve it by offering only dependable quality, reliable branded merchandise and substantial values.

Our duty and responsibility are not to be questioned—they are as steadfast as the foundation of the store we occupy.

HERE IS THE EVIDENCE! READ!

One of our customers informed us that she had been solicited by a house-to-house peddler who was endeavoring to sell her a set of Health Cooking equipment—the waterless method of cooking—the method that seals the natural properties into food. Upon investigation of the matter she found that his wares were priced at $11.50 per set more than she could buy a superior quality set that performs the same functions, at this store. Think of it!

WAGNER WARE HEALTH-COOKING SET

The manufacturer who makes these sets has been in business for over 30 years—a mark of distinction in the quality and distinction of the products made. Not only Wagner Cast Aluminum Utensils built for waterless healthful cooking, but are fashioned to serve many purposes. It is sufficient to say that one of these sets will lighten your work and help guard your health. Investigate their practicability.

for an unknown and inferior quality waterless cooker set of these pieces is

$27.50

for Wagner Ware Health Cooking set, guaranteed by the manufacturer and this store, three pieces

HERE'S ANOTHER EXAMPLE!

This same peddler was solicited with the idea of interesting her in the purchase of a Vapor cooker, one which cooks a complete meal at one time. Again she found that she could do better at Sherrod Brothers, with the added advantage of buying a guaranteed product—one that is proven in service and efficiency.

NATIONAL STEAM PRESSURE COOKER

Simultaneous cooking with the National Steam Pressure Cooker has given thousands of housewives better balanced meals and cut in half the time needed to prepare them. It is a product that we fully guarantee in performance and serviceability. It saves time, labor and fuel, and foods are never scorched or burnt in cooking. An entire meal including the dessert can be properly cooked in thirty minutes and there are many more features that space does not permit describing. Our guarantee and the manufacturer's means that every National Cooker must be right and satisfactory or we will make it so. Can the peddler with his inferior Cooker offer you that much and be in a position to give it?

for an inferior cooker, with no tangible guarantee is

$27.50

SHERROD'S PRICE

for the fully guaranteed National Steam Pressure Cooker is

$18.50

On these two items mentioned Sherrod's with fully guaranteed products saves the consumer $20.50 over what the house-to-house peddler charges for products that carry no tangible guarantee.
