...oot- ...day after the Levelland Lobos managed to score on their first three possessions of the second half. The first half had been a defensive struggle, highlighted when Snyder held Levelland out of the end zone on two occasions. The non-district tilt, played in Levelland, ended 20-3. Shown here is SHS halfback Jeff Rose. Snyder fans will see their first home game Friday as the Tigers host Fort Stockton. Homecoming activities will be observed at the game also.

SHS Homecoming events scheduled over 2-day period

Exes from Snyder High School will be welcomed back this week as homecoming activities are planned--to be capped next Friday with the first home game for the Ragin' Tiger football team.

Theme for homecoming, conducted every two years at SHS, is "The Year of the Tiger," following the traditional Chinese calendar.

Friday's game versus Fort Stockton will also feature the announcement of this year's homecoming queen. She will be selected by a student body vote.

Candidates this year are Seniors Allison Adams, Kristi Neill and Leslie Light; and Juniors Christi Comer, Kirsten Miller and Ashley Miller.

While work activity related to homecoming will be underway all week, the schedule of public events will begin Thursday.

At 5:30 p.m. that day, a homecoming parade will head down College Ave. to circle the square. It will form in the Varsity Square shopping center.

The parade will consist of the SHS Pride of the West Tiger Band, floats, the homecoming queen nominees and decorated bicycles.

Money prizes will be given out in the float competition with first place to receive $75; second place, $50; and third, $25.

Any organization can enter floats.

Prizes will be given for kids decorating bicycles also.

Following the parade will be a pep rally on the west side of the courthouse.

In addition to the hometown opener for the Tigers, Friday will include a pep rally and an after-game reception and dance.

The pep rally will be in the SHS gym at 2:05 p.m. with the public invited to attend.

State sets hearing for FM 1611 plan

A public hearing to determine the fate of the proposed extension of FM 1611 has been set by the State Department of Highways.

Although the exact location here is yet to be determined, the hearing will begin at 7 p.m. on Nov. 18. A meeting room will be included in public notices to be published in the SDN two weeks and one week prior to the session.

County residents will have an additional 10 days following the meeting to submit written statements to the department's Abilene office.

Some 30 to 45 days after statements are received, highway officials will release their final decision on the proposal noted W.R. Walker, a representative in the Abilene office.

As proposed, the extension is designed as a western truck bypass to redirect truck traffic around the city. A map designating the exact route will also be included in the public notices.

If completed, the 1611 bypass would connect the Lubbock Highway (U.S. Hwy. 84) to the intersection of the Big Spring Highway (State Hwy. 350) and FM 2763, the farm-to-market road which runs east and west in front of Western Texas College.

Monday last day for leader signup

Monday is the last day to apply for membership in the fourth series of leadership classes offered through Western Texas College and the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

The first class meeting of Century II: Leadership Scurry County is due Thursday.

The class will meet 12 times from September through May. Topics to be covered include city and county government, law enforcement agencies, local media, the public schools, Western Texas College and its related museum, health care facilities, local economics, the oil and gas industry and farming and ranching in the county.

A tuition fee of $175 is asked for the program, which was developed here to train and identify future leaders.

Members of the first three classes included:

—1983-84: Diana Allen, Don Cheek, Ronnie Hines, Wayne Hoskins, Eunice Irwin, Murray Anne Ray, Darlene Robbins, Roy Rosson, Shannon Shane, Gloria Shaw, Rodger Sullenger, Jim Tully and Troy Williamson.

—1984-85: Bobby Beard, Karen Carmichael, Rick Cohagen, John Derouen, C.D. Gray Jr., Donna Gray, Jackie Greene, Mike Jordan, Lee McNair, Susan Neves, Darrell Stout and Jerry Vestal.

—1985-86: Stanley Allen, Temi Tanner Matthies, Lenora Boydstun, Kent Horsley, Gilbert Merritt, Harold Miller, Kathy Minemier, Bill Moore, Kathy Roberts, Jack Smartt, Wedge Turner, Tony Whittenburg, Sammie York, Fred Cross and Gene Cutler.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "It takes two to make a marriage--a single girl and an anxious mother."

The TV football season is underway, and spirits were improved in Snyder in view of Monday night's victory by the Dallas Cowboys.

The new Dallas running back, Herschel Walker, gave Cowboy fans plenty to talk about this week. Over at Snyder National Bank a group was discussing Dallas and Walker, who gave the Cowboys their winning touchdown.

Teller Paula Cobb chimed in, "I like him. Once the camera gave a closeup of him and he winked at me."

We've often heard of the home field advantage--something the Snyder Tigers won't get to enjoy until Friday night when they host Fort Stockton--which is the first district game as well as homecoming.

Azle High School really knows how to take advantage of the home field. Several years ago, the Jacksboro Tigers had the ball inside Azle territory. One of the Azle coaches accidentally turned off the field lights, and it takes several minutes for them to come back on.

In the fourth quarter, a maintenance man knocked them off again. Jacksboro concluded that it was Azle's best defensive play--turn off the lights when they get inside the 20.

Last week when Haltom was playing at Azle, the lights again went out. But there was a new dimension to the defense. With Haltom inside the Azle 20, the automatic sprinkler system came on--drenching the offense.

About Azle's secret defensive weapons, one scout in the press box observed, "The season just got started. Hope Azle doesn't show too much, too soon."

Scurry County Fair activities to start Tuesday

Beginning with booth construction Tuesday and ending with a full day of fun next Saturday, the 21st annual Scurry County Fair is set for its four-day run this week.

The yearly event is the product of the 22-member fair board and the work of hundreds of other volunteers.

President of the fair board this year is Charlie Bell, assisted by Jerry Baird, first vice president; Donna Gray, second vice president; Lisa Blume, secretary; and Judy Church, treasurer.

Board members are:

—Pct. 1: Barbara Hamlett, Kent Mills and Carl Burleson.

—Pct. 2: Sue Lloyd, Mrs. Billy Huddleston and Orval Mathis.

—Pct. 3: Danny Beddell, Keith Clements and Donna Gray.

—Pct. 4: Jon Derouen, Mrs. Johnny Richardson and Linda Roemisch.

—Snyder: Mrs. Fred Bullard, Kathy Key, Charlie Bell, Art Feinsod, Judy Church, Jerry Baird, Karen Ritchey, Fred Castillo and Jim Judah.

This year's fair again offers a variety of activities for the family. The schedule includes:

TUESDAY

—8 a.m., booth construction begins.

—2-7 p.m., entries accepted for art exhibits.

Ask Us

Q. — What was enrollment like this fall in other District 2-AAAA high schools?

A. — Of the nine schools, seven reported less enrollment and Snyder and Pecos reported a slight increase. The counts on the first day, with last year's shown in brackets, were: Snyder, 873 (865); Pecos, 948 (940); Big Spring, 1,122 (1,348); Lake View, 988 (1,016); Fort Stockton, 816 (843); Monahans, 797 (844); Sweetwater, 761 (780); and Lamesa, 685 (735). There were no first day comparisons for Andrews High, but they reported system-wide they had 67 less students.

Restaurant business drops

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Restaurant business in the Permian Basin has plummeted in the wake of a contagious bacteria infection that has left more than 100 people ill in the Midland-Odessa area, a restaurant group official said.

"And it's getting worse instead of better," said Sid Clark, Permian Basin Restaurant Association president.

Clark estimated Friday that business at various restaurants has fallen anywhere from 40 to 90 percent since the areawide outbreak of shigellosis, which causes symptoms such as diarrhea, headaches, nausea and stomach cramps.

Kathy Wythe, community relations coordinator at Odessa's Medical Center Hospital, said Friday that more than 140 people have visited the hospital emergency room to report the symptoms. Of 140 stool samples, 40 came back positive for shigellosis, she said.

As of Friday, the Health Department said 102 people in Midland and Ector counties were confirmed to have contracted shigellosis.

San Angelo health officials reported two shigellosis cases since Sept. 1 and Fort Stockton health officials reported one case on Thursday.

Local health officials said they could not find the source of the disease, which spread in the Permian Basin last week.

A statement jointly released Friday by Dr. James Humphreys, Midland Health Department director, and Dr. Robert Rowntree, Odessa-Ector County Health Department medical director, said:

"At this time, the data collected so far cannot definitely implicate a food distributor, a restaurant, or even lettuce."

Health officials said lettuce is considered a prime carrier of the shigella bacteria.

Fred Phillips, regional manager of Taco Villa fast-food restaurants, on Friday placed losses to the chain at "hundreds of thousands of dollars" because of rumors concerning the source of the infection.

Phillips emphasized "it is safe to eat" at Taco Villa restaurants.

"If a restaurant was serving unsafe food, it would have already been closed," Phillips said, noting that no Taco Villa restaurant has been closed by the state Health Department.

Phillips said about 2,000 pounds of lettuce were destroyed by the chain Sept. 6.

Initial test results on that lettuce came back negative Thursday, said Dennis Baker, Texas health department director of food programs in Austin.

Taco Villa supplied samples for the Health Department Sept. 5 and destroyed the lettuce from the 19 stores Sept. 6, said Phillips.

"The lettuce that was discarded was the exact lettuce that was tested by the state," Phillips stressed.

"I don't know if the public understands why we destroyed that lettuce," Phillips added. "The purpose of destroying it was we did not want to take any chances with the public safety. We were willing to throw away 2,000 pounds, at almost a dollar a pound. We were willing to bite the bullet," he said.

Contributions of Tejanos in Texas are to be honored

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Tejanos who were ignored by the new republic they fought to create 150 years ago should not have to face that same fate today, say officials who are sponsoring a ceremony to honor them.

"Tejanos" refers to Hispanic residents of the Mexican territory that later became the state of Texas. Scholars say many of them were ignored or persecuted as Mexican sympathizers after Texas won its independence in 1836.

But that wasn't fair to heroes such as Capt. Placido Benavides, the "Paul Revere of the Coastal Bend" whose horseback rides alerted scores of residents about an impending Mexican invasion, says State Board of Education member Mary Helen Berlanga.

So on Sunday afternoon, Benavides and other Tejanos who fought for Texas independence in the late 1830s will be honored in a memorial service in Sherrill Park.

The service, sponsored by Image de Corpus Christi, will include reading a list that Dr. Clotilde Garcia compiled of 167 Tejanos known to have taken part in the struggle.

In addition, Ms. Berlanga says she wants more Tejanos mentioned in Texas history books and that she will be looking for their names when the state board reviews history books for adoption in November.

By one account, Benavides is credited with saving the lives of many Coastal Bend residents by riding through settlements to warn that a Mexican army was pushing through the region.

Benavides made his ride, reminiscent of that of Revolutionary War hero Paul Revere, after fighting with fellow Texas patriots in the Battle of Agua Dulce Creek in 1836.

The patriots were defeated, and Benavides was captured. But he managed to escape and as he rode to Goliad to warn Col. James Fannin, he warned colonists as well.

Although a staunch Texas patriot, Benavides was never recognized for his efforts. He died in Louisiana in 1837, shortly after he was forced to flee the republic he fought to create.

Some historians say the town of Benavides in Duval County is named after Benavides' son.

City backs down

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — City negotiators have backed away from requiring random mandatory drug testing of firefighters.

However, they forged a tentative agreement that would lead to prescribed standards under which a firefighter could be ordered to take a drug test.

The lead negotiator for the city, Ben F. Foster Jr., said Friday he agreed not to require random drug testing of personnel in the Fire Department, but without retreating from a City Council anti-drug directive.

"The city is not going to sign a contract without some sort of drug and alcohol abuse prevention program," Foster said, adding that city negotiators still maintain random testing will be required for police officers.

"We just feel that there needs to be a more stringent standard imposed for police officers because of the carrying of weapons than there needs to be for firefighters," he said.

Foster said a contract would be signed before the details of the testing program are written, provided other points are agreed upon.

If city and firefighter negotiators cannot reach an agreement on the specifics, "We would probably go ahead and unilaterally impose a standard and let them take us to court," Foster said.

FBC plans revival here next week

Jon Moore and Ron Lowry will lead revival services Sunday through Wednesday at First Baptist Church.

A noon brown bag lunch is scheduled each day with services set for 10:45 a.m. Sunday and 7 p.m. each evening. A women's Bible study is also scheduled from 11 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. Monday through Wednesday.

A former pharmacist, Moore currently heads Jon Moore Evangelistic Association in Euless. He served as pastor of Purdon Baptist Church in Purdon for 2½ years before becoming a full-time evangelist in 1974.

Moore is a graduate of Hillsboro High School and Navarro College in Corsicana. He earned a bachelor of science degree from the University of Texas at Austin in 1961 and a master of divinity degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth in 1973.

He practiced pharmacy for 10 years with over the last three years as co-owner of Gibson's Discount Pharmacy in Corsicana.

Phyllis Moore travels with her husband to lead women in Bible studies, personal counseling and music.

The Moores currently hold revival meetings, Bible conferences and retreats as well as offer messages through an extensive cassette tape ministry.

Lowry of San Angelo will lead music for the services each evening. A graduate of Houston Baptist College, he attended Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in San Francisco and received a master of religious education degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth in 1963. He has served as pastor and as director of music and youth in churches in Arizona and California.

A charter member of The Centurymen, a men's choral group sponsored by the Southern Baptist Convention, Lowry currently serves as the development administrator for the Baptist Memorials Center in San Angelo.

Domino contest slated Monday

Senior citizens are invited to enter a domino contest in the Senior Center Monday morning.

Play will begin at 10:30 a.m. Ribbons will be awarded to the winners about 11:30 a.m., and they will also receive a certificate good for a hamburger at Whataburger.

Swimnastics for senior citizens has been resumed at the Western Texas College indoor pool with the start of fall classes. The group meets from 2-3 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Senior citizens eligible to receive surplus commodities are to pick up their goods from 9-11:30 a.m. Tuesday in the center. Senior citizens will assist with distribution of goods to all eligible community residents on Wednesday.

The center's Kitchen Band will resume fall rehearshal on Sept. 25 and men and women interested in joining the group are invited to meet with the band at 1 p.m. in the dining room.

Seek dismissal

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas State Teachers Association and the National Education Association said Friday they have filed motions in federal court in Tyler to withdraw two lawsuits challenging the state teacher competency test.

Officials of the groups said the cases were being withdrawn.

Thrift to battle fed insolvency decision

DALLAS (AP) — Owners of a $2 billion thrift vowed to fight the federal agency that shut them down with claims of mismanagement and shoddy record-keeping.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board declared Western Savings Association insolvent late Friday and transferred its assets to a new group headed by a University of Texas dean, FHLBB spokeswoman Rebecca Vail said.

"The insolvency was caused by speculative lending and regulatory violations, including deficient or nonexistent appraisals, inadequate loan documents, inaccurate accounting and shoddy record-keeping," Ms. Vail said.

The board said Western, whose assets had ballooned more than 5,700 percent under an ambitious expansion plan, was also "unsafe and unsound" because of high-risk commercial and industrial loans that were going sour, she said.

But officials at Western Capital Corp., Western Savings' parent company, said Friday night they would "aggressively pursue all legal remedies to rescind all actions taken by the bank board," spokesman Ken Fairchild said.

"Western Capital said it was shocked and outraged by the bank board's action and believes it to be illegal and totally without justification," Fairchild said.

"Western Savings is not insolvent, and the Federal Home Loan Bank of Dallas won't even tell us why they think it is," said Jarrett E. Woods, sole stockholder in Western Capital.

"The bank board has consistently demonstrated its total unwillingness to work with Western Savings to resolve these disputes in a constructive manner," he said.

The board chartered a federal mutual association called Western Federal Savings and Loan Association of Dallas to take over the failed thrift and open the offices as usual on Monday with the Western Federal name.

The new institution acquired all the assets and liabilities of Western Savings, a state-chartered stock association headquartered in Dallas and with 18 offices in Texas.

State bar neutral on judge selection

BANDERA, Texas (AP) — The board of directors of the State Bar voted to take a neutral position on proposed legislation that would launch sweeping changes in the way Texas judges are selected.

Amarillo lawyer Don Dean was unsuccessful Friday in his bid to convince the State Bar of Texas' board to back a proposal for appointing judges instead of electing them.

The secret ballot, in which directors voted 21 to 19 for the neutral position, followed two hours of debate on the need for judicial reform during the board meeting at Mayan Dude Ranch near this South Central Texas city.

Board members, following the decision not to include the proposal in the state bar's package of legislation, took preliminary steps toward polling the entire bar membership on judicial selection.

A formal vote on whether to take the poll was scheduled today. Some board members indicated the poll results would serve as the bar's stand on the issue.

Several board members argued that an issue as controversial as changing the state's system of selecting judges should not be acted on without an in-depth study on the how the state's lawyers feel.

Dean led efforts to convince the board to include the judicial selection bill in its 1987 legislative package.

Stock market drop is blamed on panicky small investors

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street's second big drop was sparked by investors' panic at news of the record plunge the day before, say analysts, blaming that decline on computerized selling amid nervousness about interest rates.

The market's best-known indicator, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, ended Wall Street's busiest week by tumbling 34.17 points to 1,748.72 on Friday after the record 86.61-point drop Thursday.

Thursday's selloff was due in large measure to "program trading," the computerized selling by professional investors playing individual stocks against futures contracts on market indexes, analysts said.

The progams allow traders to move huge sums at a moment's notice.

On Friday, by contrast, the primary sellers at the opening appeared to be individual investors frightened by news accounts about the market's plunge.

"This is the people, as opposed to the programs yesterday," said William LeFevre at the firm of Purcell Graham & Co.

The five biggest declines in the Dow Jones industrial average have occurred in the first nine months of 1986. In the same period, the market has also witnessed five of the 10 biggest gains on record.

In Friday's trading, four issues fell in price for each one that rose on the New York Stock Exchange, as volume soared to 240.49 million shares, breaking the previous record of 237.57 million shares set Thursday.

"We've never had numbers like this before," said LeFevre.

This week the Dow Jones average plummeted 141.03 points, easily surpassing the previous record weekly drop of 82.50 points in the week ended April 4.

However, no percentage change for the Dow in any single session this year has come close to the 12.9 percent loss — on a drop of 38.33 points — recorded on Oct. 28, 1929, in the Great Crash. Thursday's drop amounted to only 4.6 percent of the market's value.

The market has had an extraordinary rise since August 1982, when the Dow Jones industrials stood at 776.92.

"When the market has been as strong as this one, there's a lot of nervousness," John S.R. Shad, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, said.

4,779 volunteer hours recorded

Senior citizens gave a total of 4,779 hours of volunteer work to the Senior Center and the community during August, members of the center's Advisory Council were told at their September meeting on Wednesday.

The center will be participating in White Buffalo Days with a parade entry and volunteer hours in October, Gloria Shaw, Senior Center Director, said. The center won prizes for its entries in both the Scurry County Rodeo and the AJRA National Finals Rodeo parades in July and August.

Margaret Johnston, Wilma Dillard and C. D. Gray, Jr., were named to the nominating committee to suggest a new chairman and vice chairman for the council. The new officers are to be named in October and three new council members will also join the board at that time.

Government approves merger of airlines

WASHINGTON — The Department of Transportation, rejecting Justice Department warnings that competition will be hindered, is allowing Trans World Airlines to take over Ozark Air Lines.

The $250 million merger was approved Friday, the department said in a statement.

The department said it agreed with findings by Administrative Law Judge John M. Bittone, who ruled on Aug. 7 that the merger would not lessen competition on routes emanating from St. Louis. The Justice Department antitrust division had argued the opposite, saying there would be a substantial decrease in competition if the merger occurred.

Ozark, principally a regional Midwest carrier, is based in St. Louis, and TWA has a major hub there. Together, they control more than 75 percent of the air traffic there.

The takeover will lead to a "considerable amount of overlapping service" but "adequate facilities will be available at St. Louis for an expansion or institution of service by other carriers that can effectively discipline the behavior of TWA and Ozark," the Transportation Department statement said.

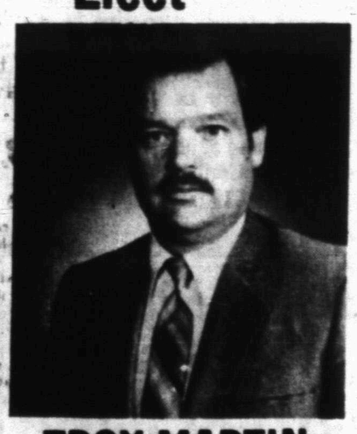

"DOT noted that Southwest Airlines was already serving the St. Louis market and has a right to obtain enough gate space to operate 60 flights a day at St. Louis," the department said.

Hawaii was organized as a territory of the United States in 1900.

Tax hearing set; progress reported

AUSTIN (AP) — With the chairman of the House taxation committee planning hearings next week on tax increase ideas, Gov. Mark White said Friday he believes the Legislature is moving to solve the budget crisis.

"I'm very pleased with the Legislature. They're dealing with the issue today," White said.

White has proposed a one-year, 1⅛-cent sales tax increase to be combined with spending cuts to erase the $2.8 billion budget deficit. The Senate supports higher taxes, but House opposition so far has stalemated any action on a tax bill.

However, House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, Friday said he plans a hearing "on the concept" of new taxes. "We're going to try to make Wednesday the first day," he said.

Schlueter also said that if a tax bill, which must start in the House, is to be introduced, he would sponsor it. "That's my responsibility," he said.

During his weekly news conference, White said lawmakers finally may be reaching the same conclusion he did before the first budget-balancing session ended Sept. 4.

"Looking at it from the best advice that we have been able to find, it appears that the recommendation I made on the first day ... is more and more appropriate," White said.

"I hope they'll consider it and adopt it as quickly as they can," he added.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby now backs a temporary sales tax boost and said he also favors a nickel hike in the state's 10-cent gasoline tax. But White stopped short of endorsing the gas tax idea.

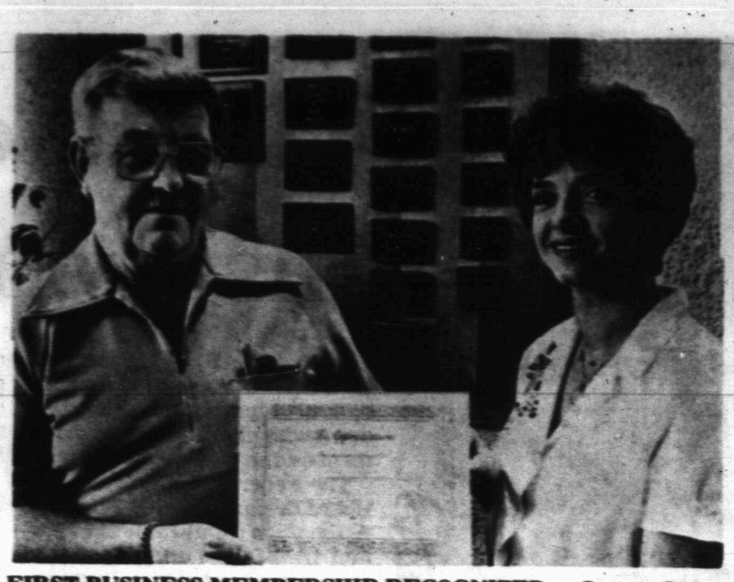

"I would hope we could avoid that," White said. If not, he added, "Then it would (have to) be a temporary tax only."

House Speaker Gib Lewis, meanwhile, continued to insist that spending cuts be completed before any tax action occurs.

"You pass a tax bill when it is needed, and we have not gotten to the point where it is needed," he said.

Lewis also sounded a warning that the 30-day time deadline for the second special session that began Monday could pose a problem in completing work on the fiscal crisis.

Asked if he was upset about time running out, Lewis replied, "That concerns me more than it concerns you, I assure you."

Police seek man who fled accident

MANSFIELD — Last year a total of seven Texas law enforcement officers were killed in the line of duty by criminal action.

What is not generally known is that seven others were killed as the result of an accident in the line of duty.

Enforcing the law in Texas can be a hazardous job at best, especially when an officer is confronting someone who is armed with a deadly weapon. But when you figure in the hundreds of thousands of miles that lawmen drive on patrol each year in this state, the risk of being hurt or killed in a traffic accident make the job even more dangerous.

Such was the case involving the death of Mansfield police officer, Danny Cordes, 46, who was killed in a freak traffic accident May 23, 1986.

Police reports indicate Officer Cordes was on his motorcycle patrolling westbound on East Broad Street in Mansfield. A green pickup truck pulling a U-Haul trailer was headed eastbound at the same time.

Witnesses say the trailer became disconnected from the pickup truck and swerved in front of Officer Cordes, striking him head on. Officer Cordes died while being transported to the hospital.

The driver of the pickup truck fled the scene of the accident and abandoned his vehicle about a mile away.

Investigators were able to trace the pickup truck's registration back to a Barbara Jean Hartman of Arlington. Witnesses were able to identify Ms. Hartman's husband, James Neil Hartman, as the driver of the pickup truck involved in the fatal accident.

A warrant has been issued for James Neil Hartman, charging him with failure to stop and render aid.

However, that is only the beginning of Hartman's worries. He also is a prison escapee from Missouri and is wanted by the FBI for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

This week James Neil Hartman has been added to the Texas Most Wanted list. A reward of up to $1,000 is being offered by the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council for information leading to Hartman's arrest.

Hartman, 33, is described as a white male, 5-10, 180 to 200 pounds, with brown hair and brown eyes. He has a number of tattoos on his body, including a panther on his upper right arm, a peacock on his upper left arm, an eagle on his lower left arm and a heart on his right back shoulder. He also uses the name Robert Lee Schrand.

Investigators believe Hartman is accompanied by his wife, Barbara Jean.

Anyone who might have information concerning Hartman's whereabouts is asked to call the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council toll-free at 1-800-252-8477 or their local crime stoppers program. In all cases, callers do not have to reveal their identities.

Texas Most Wanted is a cooperative program between the Department of Public Safety and Texas Crime Stoppers.

State Department of Human Services is planning layoffs

AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas Department of Human Services official says the agency will begin to trim its payroll by 200 positions, with layoff announcements scheduled next week.

Human Services Commissioner Marlin Johnston said on Friday layoffs were planned to meet anticipated reductions in the agency's budget. It is being cut as the Legislature tries to overcome a projected $2.8 billion deficit.

Johnston said the reduction in staff will not be completed until late October. He said employees whose jobs will be abolished will be notified in the next week.

"Right now, we don't know how many people will be laid off," he said. "Some people already know they're in a function (position) that will be deleted."

He said the number of jobs being cut was based on the assumption that the House-Senate conference committee on spending revisions will cut no deeper than what was proposed by the Senate.

The Senate voted to trim the agency's budget by abolishing about 200 jobs. The House proposed cuts that translate into a loss of 404 positions.

The conference committee resumes work at 2 p.m. Sunday. It will try to reach a compromise on the budget cuts, which are part of the effort by lawmakers to bring spending into line with revenues.

Johnston said he could not afford to wait until the conferees finish work.

"The longer I wait to get something in place, the more (layoffs) it will take to take care of the problem," he said.

TSTI staff, faculty defends degree plans

WACO, Texas (AP) — Texas State Technical Institute staff and faculty members are trying to stop legislators from considering a plan that would strip the institution of its one- and two-year degree programs.

Staff and faculty members on Friday began contacting more than 3,000 businessmen and other friends of TSTI to rally around the degree programs.

Officials told TSTI-Waco department chairmen on Friday that the TSTI system could "quickly cease to exist" under a proposal brought before the Select Committee of Higher Education earlier this month.

The plan by the select committee's Task Force on Research, Technology, and Higher Education-Business Relations presented a working paper to the committee on Sept. 2 that recommended TSTI be limited to industry-specific job training.

Gov. Mark White and state legislators appointed the committee to evaluate the state's higher education system and make recommendations for its improvement to the Legislature by its regular session in January.

Two-year associate degree plans and one-year certification programs, under the task force proposal, would fall to Texas community colleges which would remain funded by the state.

Officials said TSTI would retain and increase training programs geared for specific industrial needs, but such training programs would be funded primarily by Texas industry. Students in such programs would not receive a degree for their work.

TSTI officials first heard the proposal Sept. 2 at a meeting of the task force. But upon hearing a clarification of the report's recommendations on Thursday, TSTI leaders decided to take immediate action to ask their industry and business contacts for support, Krienke said.

Building stopped

AUSTIN (AP) — A city building inspector ordered construction halted on a downtown parking garage after a concrete support beam broke loose and crashed through four levels of supports below it, said officials.

A fire department dispatcher said the beam dropped at 2:18 p.m. Friday from a section of the fifth floor of the structure at First Street and San Jacinto Boulevard.

No one was injured.

Radio course offered at WTC

Bob Clifton, program director for radio station KSNY, will teach a 21-hour radio broadcasting course through the Continuing Education Department of Western Texas College starting Oct. 7.

Students in the class will write commercials and news stories and study salesmanship, programming, FCC rules and regulations. On-air experience will be available for those interested.

Classes will meet from 6:30-9:30 on Tuesday nights from Oct. 7-Nov. 18. The first class will meet on the WTC campus, with other classes to be held at the radio station on KSNY Drive.

Fees will be $35 per person.

Enrollment in the class will be limited to 12 persons. Persons wishing to enroll are to pre-register by calling the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, ext. 240.

Lamaze space still available

Registration is continuing for a Lamaze childbirth class set to begin Sept. 23 at Western Texas College.

Freda Murray, a registered nurse with a specialization in Lamaze, will be the instructor for the 18-hour course. Classes will meet from 6:30-9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays through Oct. 28. Minimum enrollment for the course will be 10 couples, with fees $55 per couple.

To pre-register, students are to call the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, ext. 240.

Why You Should Buy Your New Car In Snyder

There's a definite dollar and cents advantage to purchasing your transportation requirements locally.

First, you buy from a dealer you know. Your dealer and his staff are a part of the community and you know first-hand their reputation.

Second, your dealer is there to help you when you need him. If you need warranty work, you don't have to drive 100 miles to get your car serviced. The local new car dealers have invested a large sum of money in their service departments for your convenience.

Third, you get a fair deal on the car you want. If you don't see what you like on the dealer's car lot, just tell the salesman. He can usually get it for you in just a few days from their dealer hotline.

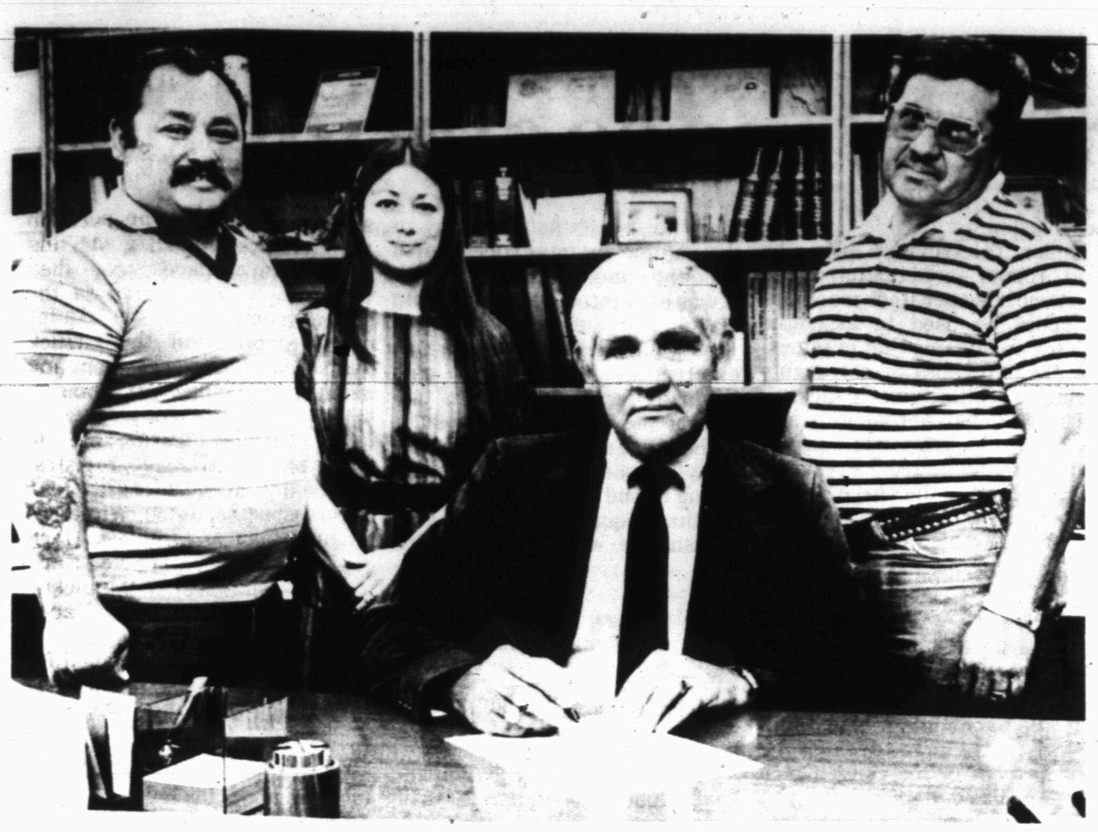

When you go "car shopping" start here at home. You'll find you really do get a good deal, from the PEOPLE YOU KNOW'

Contestants tie early in swimsuit prelims

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A country fiddler and two more Southerners joined the ranks of Miss America Pageant preliminary winners, a select group that may be fretting a little less going into tonight's finals.

Friday's competition, the last of three nights of swimsuit, talent and evening gown rounds, had a few surprises for the audience at Convention Hall.

Miss Tennessee Kellye Cash, who had won the talent competition Thursday, shared swimsuit laurels with Miss South Carolina Dawn Smith.

And the talent winner, Miss Michigan Kelly Garver, bucked two trends: she wasn't a singer or Southerner, as were the two previous winners.

Winning a preliminary competition is a sign that a contestant may well be among the finalists tonight, when the 10 women who have accumulated the most points in preliminary competitions and interviews with the judges will compete to succeed Miss America 1986 Susan Akin.

Miss Garver, 23, of Farmington Hills, whooped and stomped her foot before a cheering audience as she played "New Country" and "Orange Blossom Special" on an electric fiddle.

"I wanted to win talent more than anything in the world," said the 23-year-old Michigan State graduate.

She said "Orange Blossom Special" is a longtime bluegrass hit that she learned from a record.

Miss Garver said she has had no formal training and learns country songs by ear.

"I maybe had two or three lessons, but I quit. I said this is for the birds," she added.

The jazzy sounding "New Country" is a Jean Luc Ponty song suggested by her boyfriend, she said.

She performed on a white violin that matched her white cowboy hat and black and white sequined, gingham dress.

The swimsuit tie came under a new judging system designed to be more equitable.

The eight judges each assign points from 1 to 6 to each contestant and then all points are totaled.

Under the old system, ties were possible but rare, pageant officials said.

On Thursday night, Miss Cash, a 21-year-old Memphis State University junior and grandniece of country singer Johnny Cash, accompanied herself on piano and sang "I'll Be Home" to win a talent trophy.

Miss Smith, 22, of Columbia won her state crown just a year after her younger sister, Shari, 1, was kidnapped near the family's home and murdered. A 37-year-old electrician was convicted of the murder in February and sentenced to die.

"I think everybody has tragedy in life and this was my hard thing," she said after her victory Friday.

"But I learned so much from this — you only have one life to live and you only have one time to do anything."

The 5-foot-3, 100-pound Miss Smith wore a white "supersuit," a simple suit designed by Ada Duckett of Arlington, Texas, but she said she wasn't superstitious about the success of previous contestants who have worn the style, including Miss Akin.

"I don't think it's the suit. It's the person," said the graduate of Columbia College in South Carolina, who sang an aria from the opera "Romeo and Juliet" for her talent.

The preliminary awards also carry scholarships: $3,500 in the talent division and $2,500 in the swimsuit competition.

The other talent winner earlier this week was Miss Texas Stephany Samone, 25, of Dallas.

Miss Missouri Tamara Tungate, 21, of St. Peters and Miss Virginia Julianne Smith, 21, of Yorktown won earlier swimsuit competitions.

The names of the women who win the preliminary evening gown competitions are kept secret in order to heighten the suspense for the finals.

Cake decorating course scheduled

A 12-hour cake decorating course will be offered by the Continuing Education department of Western Texas College in evening classes starting Oct. 7.

Classes will meet from 6:30-9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays through Oct. 28. Tori Lyons, who has taught several previous decorating classes, will be the instructor.

Fees will be $25 per person and students are to provide their own decorating kits. These may be purchased from the instructor at a cost of approximately $20.

Minimum enrollment for the course is 10, with a limit of 15. Pre-register by calling 573-8511, ext. 240.

Daniloff...

U.S. reporter leaves prison

MOSCOW (AP) — American reporter Nicholas Daniloff spent his first night at the U.S. Embassy after being imprisoned for 13 days on charges of spying. The Communist Party press today reported the arrangement that got him and a Soviet citizen in New York out of jail.

Daniloff, haggard but elated, was released to the custody of the U.S. ambassador Friday from Lefortovo Prison where he had been held since his arrest Aug. 30.

He emerged cheering, his hands clasped over his head, and shouted that he felt "terrific."

But the 51-year-old correspondent for U.S. News & World Report added, "You must know that I am not a free man today." He said he must call a KGB investigator every day and was restricted to the Moscow area.

"I have changed one hotel for a much better hotel and I am looking forward to it immensely," he said. A crowd of reporters outside the prison responded with a cheer as television camera lights flooded the street in a working-class section of eastern Moscow.

His wife, Ruth, beamed at him and snapped pictures with a small camera. Just before his release, she said, "I'm ecstatic but he's still a hostage."

Daniloff, who spent the night at U.S. charge d'affaires Richard Combs' official residence, had planned to speak to reporters late this afternoon, but decided to postpone the news conference one day.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said, "The investigation into Daniloff's case continues. He must not leave the territory of the Soviet Union and in case of need report to the investigating authorities on their summons."

Under the arrangement, U.S. authorities on Friday freed Soviet U.N. employee Gennadiy Zakharov, pending his trial, into the custody of Soviet Ambassador Yuri Dubinin in New York. Zakharov was arrested Aug. 23 and charged with espionage. U.S. officials said Zakharov cannot leave the New York area.

Pravda, the Communist Party daily, and the newspaper Sovietskaya Rossiya today printed the Tass announcement.

The statement, which had been read over nationwide television Friday, included the first mention in the national press of Zakharov.

Although it said Daniloff was facing espionage charges, it said only that Zakharov was "arrested by United States authorities."

Daniloff, who had been reassigned and was preparing to leave after 5½ years in Moscow, told his wife that eight KGB agents grabbed him moments after a Soviet acquaintance gave him a sealed package saying it contained news clippings.

The secret police later opened the packet and said it contained documents marked secret.

Daniloff was indicted on charges of spying Sunday. If convicted, he could face penalties ranging from a possible prison term to death.

At the U.S. Embassy, Daniloff reiterated that he is innocent of the spy charge, saying, "I have never had any relationship with any intelligence service with any country."

Commodities schedule announced

Commodities of cheese, butter and flour will be distributed to senior citizens and handicapped persons on Tuesday from 9-11:30 a.m. and on Wednesday from 9-11:30 a.m. and from 1-4 p.m. to the general public at the senior center located at 2603 Avenue M.

If you are a first time applicant you must come in person and have proof of identity, proof of residence and proof of income. If the applicant receives AFDC, food stamps, medical assistance only (MAO) of SSI they must bring proof of being in the program by bringing forms number 1009, 3087, 3088, or 1027, which establishes income eligibility.

Income eligibility guidelines are posted at the Senior Center for citizens of Scurry County. There will be no make-up day and participants are asked to follow the schedule as stated. All individuals are asked to enter through the north door of the Senior Center and to bring paper sacks in order to carry the commodities.

Reynolds criticizes high court justice

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — William Bradford Reynolds, the assistant U.S. attorney general for civil rights, sharply attacked Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan Jr. on Friday for liberal views and his "radical egalitarianism."

Reynolds, in a speech to University of Missouri law students, said Brennan "has allowed his liberal orthodoxy to shape his jurisprudence."

Reynolds quoted from a speech Brennan gave to the American Bar Association in New York on Aug. 8, when Brennan said the 14th Amendment is "the legal instrument of the egalitarian revolution that transformed contemporary American society."

Brennan had said that despite progress, the promise of the 14th Amendment remains unfulfilled. The 14th Amendment says that a state must provide equal protection under the law to any person within its jurisdiction.

Reynolds, in his attack on Brennan, said, "Many of these civil rights and liberties of which the justice speaks are without clear textual roots. And herein lies the crux of Justice Brennan's radically egalitarian jurisprudence."

"It is a theory less concerned with the past or the present than with the future," he said. "It is a theory that seeks not limited government in order to secure individual liberty, but unlimited judicial power to further a personalized egalitarian vision of society.

"Where did Justice Brennan's definition of the 14th Amendment come from?

"This brand of jurisprudence and its policy particulars derive primarily from a liberal social agenda in which Justice Brennan shares. And that agenda has little or no connection with the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, or any subsequent amendment," Reynolds said.

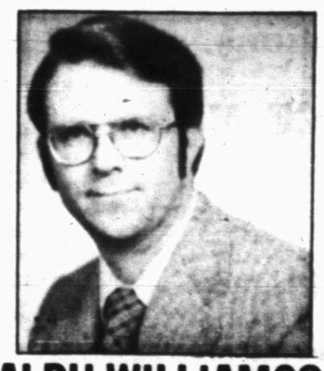

Justice Department spokesman Terry Eastland said from Washington that Reynolds mentioned Brennan by name because he was responding to remarks made specifically by Brennan.

Reynolds, the principal architect of the Reagan administration's civil rights policy, has drawn criticism for his stand in cases involving voting rights and job discrimination.

Supreme Court spokeswoman Toni House said Friday that Brennan would have no response.

Robots may be important to space station

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Robots may be given a bigger role in the assembly in orbit of America's $8 billion space station, a NASA official said at a briefing Friday.

Andrew Stofan, the boss of NASA's space station program, said a study group developing a plan for the assembly of the station believes that the use of robotics could help limit the amount of space walking that would be required by astronauts.

Stofan is leading a task force that is reviewing the space station plans. Early concepts for the orbiting station have come under criticism by astronauts because it would require almost 700 hours of space walking, or extravehicular activity, to construct in space. No project requiring this amount of space walking has ever been attempted.

Engineers, said Stofan, have determined that EVAs should be limited to no more than a total of 24 hours for each of the shuttle missions that will be required to assemble the space station. He said earlier concepts called for up to 48 hours of space walking per mission.

Under the revised plan, he said, robots — computer-driven or remotely-operated machines — could be used to assemble trusses and beams that previously were to be built by astronauts acting as orbiting steeple jacks.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is working under a mandate from President Reagan to have the space station in operation by 1994.

Astronauts also had criticized plans to use EVAs for many of the routine maintanance chores once the space station was built. It was estimated that a minimum of 391 hours of spacewalking a year would be needed to work on electronics equipment and payloads located on beams outside of the pressurized modules of the space station.

Stofan said the review team is trying to find a way to move some of that equipment inside the pressurized modules so shirt-sleeved astronauts can perform maintenance without going into the vacuum of space.

To accommodate the equipment, Stofan said the review team is considering enlarging the modules or adding other modules to the two that are now planned.

The baseline design of the space station calls for two 320-foot beams joined at either end by crossbeams, forming a rectangular figure.

Store, station holding gas happy hour

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Gasoline has not been cheaper at Ed Bowdish's store since this West Texas city was hard-hit by an energy slump that sent oil prices plummeting and the industry into a tailspin.

Bowdish announced a half-price sale for regular, unleaded and super unleaded gasoline during two "happy hours" at the Taylor Food Mart on Friday. Gas sold for 36 cents a gallon.

The promotion drew enough people to make part of East Second Street a crowded place for several hours on Friday. And two more sales were planned today.

But Bowdish said he could not reveal when today's happy hours will be scheduled. He said motorists will have to watch the sign in front of the convenience store and gas outlet.

Bill Fales said his business, Lone Star Glass, is next door to the Taylor outlet, but that didn't mean he was going to ignore the promotion.

Fales watched the dial on the pump crawl up to 60 gallons as he filled the tanks on his motor home.

"I'm not empty," Fales said.

The promotion saved him on topping off the motor home's 95-gallon tank — something that would have cost about $100 a year ago, about $60 more than his Friday fill-up. But Fales was not entirely happy about the sale.

"I'd rather pay $5 a gallon and have more jobs here," said Fales.

Ninfa Hernandez, 30, said the promotion was great.

"I drive a lot, and I think this is great," Ms. Hernandez said. "I wish it would last forever."

She said she was usually in too much of a rush to check out the new Taylor store, but she didn't mind waiting about 20 minutes for a tank of 39-cent unleaded gas.

Clint Harless, 69, waited patiently by a pump for the clerk to ring up the previous sale and said, "I don't remember the last time I saw 39-cent gas."

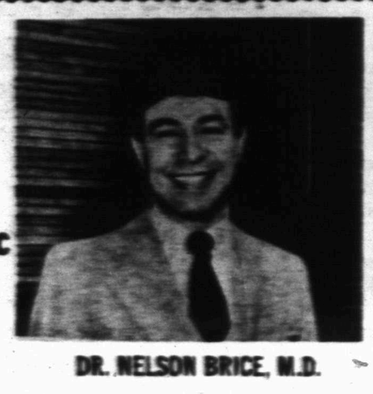

Oscar Castillo, 29, said a friend told him about the half-price gas. As he waited in the morning line for the gas, he made plans for the afternoon.

"I'm going to come back later and fill the other car," Castillo said.

He said his Datsun was near empty, but "probably $2 will fill it up."

King Farouk ascended the Egyptian throne in 1936 on his father's death.

Ruth Daniloff's life chaotic during ordeal

MOSCOW (AP) — During the 13 days of her husband's imprisonment, Ruth Daniloff couldn't complete a sentence without being interrupted by a telephone call, the ringing of the door bell or a question from one of the journalists camped out in her apartment.

"I'm getting very little sleep at night, and around four or five o'clock, I start getting a little punchy. I'm always losing my keys," she said Friday, hours before her husband, Nicholas, was released into the custody of the U.S. ambassador.

Daniloff was arrested Aug. 30. A week later he was charged with spying.

Mrs. Daniloff has said her husband was framed in retaliation for the Aug. 23 arrest in New York of a Soviet man, Gennadiy Zahkharov, on charges of espionage.

Zakharov was released into the custody of the Soviet ambassador to the United States Friday.

During her vigil, Mrs. Daniloff slept on a bare mattress in the couple's apartment. By day, it stood behind bags, boxes and suitcases — evidence of the move that was in progress when Daniloff was arrested.

The Daniloffs already had shipped off their household goods in preparation for his transfer to another post after 5½ years as Moscow bureau chief for U.S. News & World Report.

Mrs. Daniloff, 51, lives as a guest in what was her apartment but now is occupied by Daniloff's replacement, Jeff Trimble.

"I'm sort of camped out here," she said.

Senate version of sanctions okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, in a bipartisan challenge to President Reagan, voted 308-77 Friday to accept a Senate package of strong economic sanctions against South Africa's white minority government that Reagan is almost certain to veto.

The bill being sent to the White House would, among other steps, ban new U.S. investments and bank loans in South Africa, clamp down on mineral and food imports and end regular airline service between the two countries.

"The president just feels that strongly on it that, in my opinion, he will veto it," White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters. "... We do oppose this legislation and I am sure the president's advisers would recommend veto. If the president vetoes it, which I'm confident he will, then we will work to see the president's veto sustained ...."

But House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. urged Reagan to change his mind, telling the House that the president has in the next few days an opportunity "to serve as a champion of freedom."

"He has an opportunity to make it clear that this great country of ours is willing to once again pay the price of freedom," O'Neill, D-Mass., said.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he still hopes Reagan can be persuaded to sign the bill. He predicted that a veto would be overridden "by a fairly large majority."

Lugar predicted Reagan will not make a final veto decision until next week after representatives of the European Economic Community meet to adopt their own package of sanctions against South Africa.

A veto would be "a political move because it still leaves the issue out there," said Rep. Dante Fascel, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. "We have strong support to resolve the issue."

"For the president to veto this message seems to me to be a total contradiction by him of any statement that he is opposed to apartheid," the South African system of rigid racial separation, said Rep. William H. Gray III, D-Pa.

Ninety Republicans joined 218 Democrats in voting to approve the bill, while 73 Republicans and four Democrats voted against.

District 2-4A roundup

Five District 2-4A schoolboy football teams will enter loop wars next week with undefeated records after Friday night action ended the non-conference season for all but Monahans.

The Lobos, idle last week, made their debut by thrashing Hobbs, N.M., 46-6. Monahans plays host to 2-4A rival Pecos next week, then picks up a non-district opponent in Crane before resuming conference action again on Oct. 3.

Monahans' runaway was just one of several lopsided scores Friday. District 2-4A winners all scored 21 or more points; the losers meanwhile got no more than 6.

Seventh-ranked Sweetwater rolled up a 33-0 halftime score at the Mustang Bowl and went on to whip Class 5A opponent Abilene High 40-14 to remain undefeated on the season. Lake View also stayed among the undefeated by whipping Lubbock High 21-6, while Pecos trimmed Carlsbad, N.M., 7-0, on a fumble recovery in the end zone and Fort Stockton blanked Alpine 20-0. Pecos and Fort Stockton are also 2-0 for the season.

Big Spring won its opener a week ago but didn't have a chance Friday as second-ranked Estacado rolled into town. The Mats ran back two punts and coasted to a 56-6 victory.

Lamesa, mauled by Levelland a week ago, handed Class 3A opponent Brownfield its second straight loss, 41-20. In other games, Snyder and Andrews fell for the second straight week. Andrews lost to Midland High, a 5A squad, 21-6, while Snyder stumbled at Levelland, 20-3.

Both of those teams will look for their initial wins of the season next Friday when Snyder plays at home for the first time against Fort Stockton and Andrews entertains Lamesa.

In other games, Pecos is at Monahans in a clash of the unbeatens and Big Spring treks to San Angelo to meet Lake View. Sweetwater is idle and will open 2-4A play Sept. 26 at Big Spring.

Area six-man roundup

Jayton and Trent remained as the only undefeated teams in District 1-4A East Zone play after Friday night's six-man football action.

Jayton, two-time defending state champ, defeated Klondike 63-13, while Trent edged Rule 39-34.

Highland, a winner last week, fell 32-14 to Panther Creek this time out to go 1-1 on the season. Blackwell is also 1-1 after upending Grady in a 74-42 slugfest.

Yet to find a victory in the 1986 season are Hermleigh, Ira and McCaulley. Hermleigh, playing its first varsity ballgame after a two-year drought, lost 46-0 to Southland. McCaulley was dumped for the second straight week, 49-7, this time by Weinert.

Ira, picked by many to contend with Jayton for the East Zone title, was blanked 45-0 by Christoval.

LEVELLAND – Levelland's Lobos scored on their first three possessions of the second half to break open a close game and defeat Snyder in a non-district ballgame here Friday night, 20-3.

Snyder, still looking for its first win of the 1986 season, will celebrate its first home game, homecoming, and the start of District 2-4A play, by hosting Fort Stockton next Friday. Coach Dennis Tomlin, though obviously disappointed, took the Ragin' Tigers' second straight loss in stride.

"We said they had a good football team and they did. They came out in the second half it looked like we were playing an entirely different team there," he said. "Now, we've got to get ready to play Fort Stockton. There are three parts to a season - non-conference, district play and the playoffs. In reality, we start a new season next Friday. We've played two fine football teams. This team is wounded, but it's not dead. We're going to come back."

The first half had been a defensive struggle, highlighted when Snyder held Levelland out of the end zone on two occasions.

Levelland took its first possession at the Lobo 44 and drove it to the Tiger 25 before the defense challenged. Cotton Merritt and Jeff Rose clamped down on Lobo running back Ron Arrington for a one-yard loss on third down, and on a fourth-and-four situation, linebacker Michael Long dropped Michael Shepherd for a seven-yard setback.

Later in the first half, Arrington broke free on a 63-yard scamper that took Levelland to the Snyder 10-yard line. Rose and Long caught the speedy back from behind to save a would-be touchdown.

From the 10, the Lobos challenged the Tigers four straight times but couldn't crack the pay vault. On fourth and goal from the one, Snyder stopped Arrington for no gain, and the Tigers took over possession.

Snyder's lone score in the game came in the first half on a 26-yard field goal by Randy Townsend. The Tigers had recovered a fumble at the Lobo 42 and marched to the 8-yard line. Snyder converted two fourth-down plays along the way, but when middle linebacker Timmy Escoe split the gap and caught Michael Riggins for a two-yard loss at the 10-yard line, the Rage couldn't recover.

The Tigers went to the air on second down but quarterback Brad Gartman - under pressure - overthrew Steven Mack. Then, on third down, Gartman found Alan Holt in the end zone. Holt made a fine, diving catch, but came down out of bounds. That set up Townsend's field goal, making him two-for-two for the season. The score came with 4:03 left in the second quarter.

But if Snyder had expectations of going on to win the ballgame, the Lobos quickly dispelled such thoughts in the second half. Levelland took the opening kickoff and drove 77 yards in eight plays to score. Michael Shepherd completed with drive with a 19-yard scoring run that came with 8:39 to go in the third quarter. Benny Rodriquez tacked on the extra point.

Earlier in the march Shepherd had another 19-yard run. Arrington sparked the effort with runs of 16 and 12 yards.

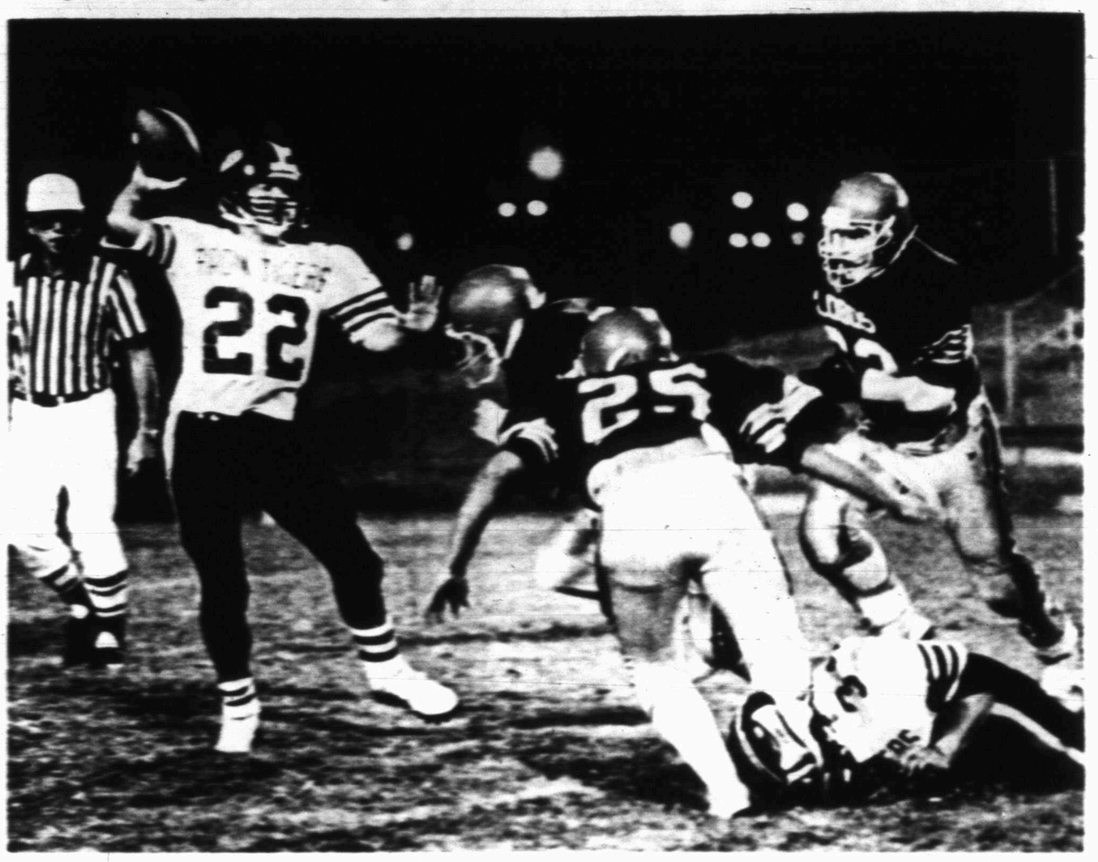

"They talked about it at halftime and came back out and just ran right over us," said Coach Tomlin. "They did a good job of coming right at us. You have to give them credit."

Snyder got its only first down of the second half in the second series, but was stopped after that. A 16-yard punt by Gartman - who was having to jump high for the deep snap all night - gave Levelland the ball back at the Tiger 43.

It took the hosts just seven plays this time. They scored when Eddie Dent fumbled into the end zone after a 15-yard run and teammate Dennis Cunningham recovered. Again, Rodriquez put up the PAT.

Levelland's final TD of the night was again set up by a short

Christoval crushes Ira, 45-0 but Lee remains optimistic

CHRISTOVAL – Christoval turned on the speed and turned off the lights here Friday night, defeating Ira's Bulldogs by the 45-point rule, 45-0.

The loss was the second straight for Ira, which fell to Southland 28-26 in its opener a week ago. Coach Mitch Lee was suprisingly optimistic, however.

"People are going to think I'm crazy but I'm not all that disappointed in the way we played," said the coach. "We played much better than we did last week. People don't realize that we're basically a young team. We're starting a couple of sophomores and this is just the second week for our quarterback to play his position."

And Christoval, 2-0, is no pushover, either.

"Christoval, I feel right now, is the best team in the state. They have a lot of team speed and they are huge," said Coach Lee. "They had everybody back and we knew they were going to be pretty tough. The score wasn't indicitive of the way we played, however. We didn't make any mental errors. We were at the right place at the right time, we just didn't always make the tackles. We tried to arm tackle them and when they broke loose they had all that speed and we couldn't catch them."

Christoval ran up a 16-0 lead in the first quarter on a 25-yard run by Philip Montalvo and a 21-yard scamper by Chaci Chavez and two Edward Garcia conversion kicks.

It was 32-0 at halftime as Montalvo scored on a 56-yard blast and Chavez snared a 40-yard pass from Homer Galindo. Garcia also added two more conversion kicks.

In the third quarter, Jason Ussery got into the act on a 48-yard run. A PAT pass from Galindo to Bobby Luce was successful. Christoval turned off the lights with 4:31 to go in the period when Montalvo sprinted 74 yards to score.

"I don't feel good about the loss but I feel good about the improvement we made," said Lee, whose Bulldogs made a long drive in the second quarter but ran out of time before the half, and who reached the Christoval 1-yard line later in the game, but fumbled.

Leading passer was Reyez Juarez who was 6 of 13 in passing for 64 yards. Lancer Hughes led the ground game with eight carries for 34 steps. Gary Gunset caught two passes for 29 yards; Mike Martini two for 15 yards.

The Bulldogs will be at home next week, hosting Klondike.

Sands blows through Gail; conquers BC Coyotes, 40-26

GAIL – Sands blew into Gail Friday night and went away with a 40-26 victory over the Borden County Coyotes in non-conference six-man ball.

The visitors got on the board quickly in the first quarter with touchdown passes of 31 and 11 yards from Jay Fryar to Chad Nichols.

BORDEN- 4th qtr., 10-yd. pass from Murphy to Key. Kick fails.

SANDS- 4th qtr., 18-yd. pass from Fryar to Martin. Conversion successful.

The difference in the ballgame came in the second quarter when Sands scored back-to-back again on a 60-yard scamper by Fryar and a 48-yard toss from Jerry Long to Paul Martin. The visitors went on to score more in the game - on a two-yard pass from Long to Nichols and an 18-yard toss from Fryar to Martin with four seconds to go in the ballgame.

Borden's other scores came on a 60-yard toss from Bond to Key and a 10-yard pass from Murphy to Key.

Key geared the Coyote offense by running for 60 yards in five tries and catching three passes for 82 yards and two touchdowns. Mickey Burkett added four catches for 72 steps as Borden County tallied 240 yards through the airways. In contrast, the hosts had just 98 yards on the ground.

"I was disappointed in our rushing game," said Coach Joe Bond, whose Coyotes are now 1-1 on the season. "Our passing game was pretty effective. We gave up a lot of yardage and we aren't happy with that. But I think even though we lost the ballgame we got some benefit out of it. Sands has a good ballclub, there's no doubt about it."

The Coyotes will take a week off before opening district zone play with Klondike on Sept. 26.

Mets have to wait to clinch NL East

by The Associated Press

Because Mike Schmidt and the Phillies are professionals, and because they care when they lose, they played to stall the inevitable.

Schmidt's three-run home run in the fifth lifted the Phillies to 6-3 victory over New York Friday - meaning that the Mets will have to wait at least one more night to win the NL East title.

Schmidt said no team wants to allow a clincher in its ballpark. "But heck, they're 21 games ahead and they're going to drink champagne."

He knows the feeling. "I've been in that position four or five times, trying to clinch a division," he said. "That last win is the toughest."

The Mets were expecting resistance to their clinching. New York's starter tonight, Bob Ojeda, said, "Nobody is going to lay down for us. Everybody has pride. We'll survive the next 24 hours."

Elsewhere, Houston beat San Diego 5-3, Chicago edged Pittsburgh 9-8 in 10 innings, Montreal beat St. Louis 4-3 in 11, San Francisco routed Atlanta 11-2, and Cincinnati beat Los Angeles 8-3.

The Mets' Dwight Gooden, 14-6, said he started the game with good stuff but had trouble with his location. On the pitch to Schmidt, "I wanted to get a fast ball to go up but it didn't go up enough."

At least not until Schmidt propelled it over the 408-foot sign in center field for "the most thrilling home run I ever hit. It came off a guy I think is the toughest at bat in the National League for a righthanded batter, and in that situation."

Red Sox are red hot

by The Associated Press

The Boston Red Sox are red hot, thanks in large measure to a sizzling Bill Buckner.

"I've been hot like this before - with hits, not home runs," Buckner said after his second straight two-homer game helped the Red Sox defeat the New York Yankees 7-2 Friday night for their 12th victory in 13 games. "I've never been this way with home runs. I can't really explain it."

Buckner now has five homers and nine RBI in his last three games, and he has a career-high 17 homers this season. He had 16 last year and in 1983 with the Chicago Cubs.

"The most important thing is I've been able to help this club win," said Buckner after the victory put the Red Sox 10 games up on the second-place Toronto Blue Jays and 11 on the third-place Yankees in the American League East.

In other AL games, Detroit beat Baltimore 5-3; Cleveland routed Oakland 9-3; Seattle turned back Kansas City 4-2; Minnesota defeated Texas 4-2; Milwaukee whipped Toronto 4-1 and Chicago edged California 3-2.

Twins 4, Rangers 2

Kirby Puckett hit a three-run homer, making Tom Kelly's managerial debut a success and lifting Minnesota over Texas. Kelly was named interim manager earlier in the day after the Twins fired Ray Miller.

The loss was the Rangers' sixth straight on the road. Overall, they are 11-15 in their last 26 games, a stretch that has seen them fall from 1½ games out in the AL West to 9½ games behind the division-leading California Angels.

Tigers 5, Orioles 3

Kirk Gibson's two-out single in the seventh drove in Tom Brookens with the tie-breaking run as Detroit beat Baltimore.

Indians 9, A's 3

Joe Carter doubled twice and singled, scoring four runs and driving in another, as Cleveland defeated Oakland.

Carter went 3-for-4 with a walk, stole his 22nd and 23rd bases and threw out a runner at the plate from right field.

Mariners 4, Royals 2

Bob Kearney hit a two-out, two-run single to highlight a three-run 10th inning, leading Seattle over Kansas City and snapping the Royals' four-game winning streak.

Brewers 4, Blue Jays 1

Paul Molitor had two hits, scored twice and knocked in a run to lead Milwaukee over Toronto.

Jim Clancy, 14-10, lost his third game in a row for the Blue Jays despite giving up only five hits in seven innings.

White Sox 3, Angels 2

Harold Baines' one-out, 10th-inning single scored Daryl Boston with the winning run as Chicago beat California.

California catcher Bob Boone caught in his 1,791st game, moving him past Gabby Hartnett into third place on the career list. Al Lopez holds the record with 1,918 games behind the plate.

Walker brings enthusiam to Coach Landry, Cowboys

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - Life in the NFL was getting pretty dull for Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry. And then Herschel Walker came along.

Faced with an aging team and the prospect of a long rebuilding program, Landry - the only coach the Cowboys have ever had - had been making noises about retiring.

But after watching Walker's dramatic debut Monday night, Landry was suddenly thinking Super Bowl as he prepared for Sunday's game against the Lions in the Silverdome.

"If we played every game like we played against the New York Giants, I'd be happy to stay on another 20 years," Landry said.

The Cowboys, who were a dismal 0-5 during the preseason, suddenly are a force to be reckoned with again.

"With Herschel's signing and all, it's been a hectic summer for us," Landry said. "We really didn't get into a groove until the Giants game (Monday night)."

Trailing the Giants 28-24 with 2:10 remaining, the Cowboys drove 72 yards in six plays to score the winning touchdown with 1:16 left on Walker's 10-yard run.

Landry, the dean of NFL coaches, is in his 27th season at the helm of the Cowboys. His 254 career victories place him behind only George Halas (325) and Don Shula (255) in National Football League history.

The Cowboys have enjoyed 20 consecutive winning seasons and been in the playoffs 18 of those 20 years.

"You can't have anything but great respect for Tom Landry," said Detroit Coach Darryl Rogers. "I don't know if anyone has done a better job than Tom.

"We're looking forward to playing them. It's going to take a great effort on our part to stay in the football game."

The situation was exactly the same last season as it will be Sunday. The Lions opened with a victory on the road while the Cowboys were coming off a dramatic Monday night triumph.

But it was all Lions in Game 2 last year.

The Cowboys turned the ball over four times in their own territory to set up three Detroit touchdowns and a field goal as the Lions took a 26-0 lead in the third quarter, then hung on for dear life and a 26-21 victory.

"The Lions beat us soundly last year," Landry said. "You have to adjust to their three-man (defensive) front, but you still have to do the things you do well."

Landry hopes that will include more heroics by Walker.

"Obviously, Herschel has given our team some confidence," Ladry said. "That's how you gain confidence - having someone like that coming in and doing well.

"I'm sure there were doubts. You had to see if he could take the pounding."

Landry wasn't discounting the possibility of using both Walker and veteran tailback Tony Dorsett, either. But Dorsett's sore left ankle has been a question mark all week and will continue to be right up until the 1 p.m. kickoff.

"Tony Dorsett is a premier running back and with the addition of Herschel Walker, their offensive backfield is greatly enhanced. The Dallas Cowboys are an extremely formidable opponent," Rogers said.

Strange locked for Classic lead

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) - Curtis Strange, one of the top money winners in professional golf, wants "to go back to Mr. Consistency."

Strange fired a 6-under-par 65 on Friday, two strokes off the course record, to forge into a tie for the lead with Mark O'Meara midway through the $450,000 Bank of Boston Classic golf tournament.

O'Meara had a 67 on Friday to join Strange at 138, one stroke clear of the field and three under par for the 7,110-yard, par-71 Pleasant Valley Country Club course.

"This game will surprise you when you least expect it," Strange said after a bogey-free round. "I played very well today for a change. I drove well and I hit a lot of good iron shots, which I haven't done in a while."

"Mr. Consistency" was at his peak in 1985 when he won three tournaments and set a tour record by winning $542,000. He ranks 12th on the PGA Tour's career money list with more than $2 million.

Curt Byrum, Mark Calcavecchia, Wayne Levi and Australian Wayne Grady were tied at 139, one stroke off the lead. Byrum had a 68, Calcavecchia a 69, Levi a 71 and Grady, a co-leader after the first round, a 73.

The group at 140 included first-round co-leader Brian Claar, who had a 74; Bobby Wadkins, 72; Bobby Clampett, 69; D.A. Weibring, 68; Bill Glasson, 72; Robert Lohr, 71; Antonio Cerda, 71; and Blaine McCallister, 68.

O'Meara, at 29, is one of the newest millionaires on the Tour, and ranks 43rd on the career earnings list with $1.2 million.

CALLED BACK – Snyder's Michael Riggins sprints down the sideline enroute to a 101-yard scamper Friday night but the apparent touchdown was called back for a clipping penalty. It was Snyder's only offensive spark in the second half which came in a 20-3 loss to Levelland. (SDN Staff Photo by Noble Young) punt - this one of 15 yards. The ball was hiked over Gartman's head, and he had to run inside the 15-yard line to retrieve it before he could get the boot away. The Lobos took over on the Snyder 45.

RAGIN' TIGERS DEFEATED

It took five plays for the Lobos to score their final TD of the night. The perfect offensive call came as quarterback Jeff James faked to Shepherd up the middle, then passed to a wide-open Cunningham along the left sideline. The toss went for a 32 yard touchdown with 10:20 still left in the game. Rodriquez was wide on his kick-after try, leaving the score at 20-3.

Snyder's only offensive spark in the second half was a 101-yard punt return by Riggins, which was called back on a clipping penalty. Riggins faked-out a half-dozen Lobo defenders at the 8-yard line, then sped around several others to get to the sideline.

Levelland never threatened again either, getting only one first down in the final 10 minutes of the contest.

"We did better later in the ballgame defensively, but we just couldn't get any offensive going at all," said Tomlin. "I'd say Levelland and the punting game killed us."

The passing game didn't help either. Snyder completed just one of 13 passes for a skimpy four yards - Gartman to Chris Garrett.

The Tigers ended the game with 128 yards rushing. Troy Burton led the way with 72 yards on 17 carries.

Levelland, which had 292 yards on the ground, was led by Arrington's 125 on 15 carries. Shepherd picked up 100 steps on 16 tries.

The Loboes, now 2-0 on the season, had just four first-half first downs, but added 12 in the second half.

Spy suspect released to Soviets' custody

NEW YORK (AP) — A Soviet physicist accused of spying is back with his comrades, released from jail in a deal that has officially linked his case to that of an American journalist similarly under suspicion in Moscow.

Gennadiy F. Zakharov smiled broadly and said he felt "OK" as he was handed over to Soviet officials in Brooklyn about 12:25 p.m. Friday, about the time reporter Nicholas F. Daniloff was freed from Lefortovo Prison in Moscow.

As part of the deal, Zakharov, 39, is in the custody of Soviet diplomats, must check in regularly with U.S. marshals, cannot stray farther than 25 miles from the United Nations building and must show up for his trial.

U.S. Marshal Charles Healey said the Soviets who accompanied Zakharov were "all in a jovial mood" as they went to the basement garage by elevator.

"They all shook our hands and thanked us," said Healey. He said Zakharov asked, "Marshal, are you the one I have to call?"

"I said 'You better,'" Healey reported.

Two large, gray cars and a dark station wagon, all with diplomatic plates, were waiting, said Healey. Zakharov got in the back of one car between two men and both cars drove off, he said.

Daniloff, a veteran correspondent for U.S. News & World Report, was seized and accused of spying in Moscow on Aug. 30, seven days after Zakharov was arrested in a New York subway station.

Zakharov pleaded innocent to charges of conspiracy to commit espionage, obtaining classified defense documents and communicate the material to Soviet agents.

Prosecutors say he tried to pay $1,000 to an employee of a defense subcontractor, who was actually an FBI informant, for classified documents on military jet engines.

Zakharov's release came after U.S. District Judge Joseph M. McLaughlin was given written assurance from Soviet Ambassador Yuri V. Dubinin that Zakharov would show up for all court appearances.

"The defendant's release is conditioned on the prior or simultaneous release of U.S. citizen Nicholas S. Daniloff," U.S. Attorney Andrew Maloney told McLaughlin during the brief courtroom proceeding.

After the conditions of release were enumerated by Maloney, Zakharov was handed over to three Soviet officials sitting near the defense table.

Maloney told the judge, "Your honor, based on the assurances contained in that letter and after consultation with appropriate authorities in Washington and on consent with defense counsel, the government proposes that the defendant be released on his own recognizance."

Maloney said he would contact the judge later to set up Zakharov's next court date.

Zakharov was taken temporarily to the Soviet Mission to the United Nations. Valentin Karymov, a spokesman for the mission, said Zakharov might eventually move to the Soviet compound in the Bronx.

At the time of his arrest, Zakharov was employed as a scientific affairs officer assigned to the United Nations Center for Science and Technology for Development.

Reagan wants Daniloff home

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration says Nicholas Daniloff, out of a Soviet prison after 13 days, is still a hostage and warns that a drive for better U.S.-Soviet relations will remain off course until the American reporter heads for home.

"We are so relieved and happy that Mr. Daniloff is out of that 8-by-10-foot cell, which he was sharing with someone we think was an informant, and that he won't be subjected to four hours of interrogation every day," President Reagan said Friday after Daniloff was released to the custody of the U.S. Embassy.

He is "our hostage in Moscow," Reagan declared.

"We have in mind the situation of M. Daniloff in a prison cell and he is better off with his friends and his wife than in a cell," Secretary of State George Shultz said.

Daniloff, Moscow correspondent for U.S. News & World Report, held on suspicion of espionage, was freed to the custody of the U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union and allowed to return to his apartment. Under the arrangement, a Soviet physicist, Gennadiy Zakharov, held on spy charges in New York was freed to the custody of the Soviet ambassador.

But both men still face trial on the spying charges, and Daniloff must report daily to Soviet authorities and may not leave Moscow. "I'm not a free man, but I'm changing one hotel for a better hotel," he told reporters as he left Moscow's Lefortovo Prison.

As a result, the administration continued telling the Soviets that the case could disrupt the delicate attempts to improve relations on several fronts.

Trespass arrest among 7 noted

Police logged seven misdemeanor arrests Friday evening including one 22-year-old man taken into custody for criminal trespass.

That suspect was jailed at 1:21 a.m. Saturday after refusing to leave a residence in the 1000 Block of 23rd St. at the owners request.

Other arrested included five charged with being intoxicated on a premises licensed to sell alcohol and one charged with public intoxication.

Bitter strike leaves wounds

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Meatpackers who said they wanted labor peace more than paychecks ended their strike against Hormel after a bitter and violent walkout that for more than a year divided a town and a union.

"There are wounds out there and they are deep, but this is a step in the right direction," said Chad C. Young, who on Friday helped observe the vote by Local P-9 of the United Food and Commercial Workers that overwhelmingly ratified a new contract.

The union voted 1,060 to 440 for the pact, ending the strike at the Geo. A. Hormel & Co.'s flagship plant in Austin.

The settlement in the dispute over wages and benefits was reached last month after a year that included a series of violent demonstrations outside the plant and a feud between Local P-9 and its parent union that resulted in the dissident local being placed into trusteeship.

Hormel reopened the plant in January with about 550 replacement workers, many of whom joined the union and were authorized to take part in the contract vote. Another 550 P-9 members crossed picket lines to reclaim their jobs.

Austin Mayor Tom Kough, a Hormel meatpacker who has not returned to work, said the settlement would do much to heal the city of 26,000 people.

Still, Kough said, "I don't think this thing will ever end. There are families whose lives have been changed, and a lot of people have left town already. I don't think anyone can continue to wait for a job that may be there or may not."

David Ring, 42, who helped observe the ballot counting, is one of those hoping to be recalled to work.

About what he and other out-of-work Hormel employees desired even more than paychecks, Ring said, "They want peace, and I guess people like myself who have been babysitting want to try and regain our pride.

"I've worked there 19 years, and I just qualified for food stamps this week. You talk about swallowing your pride. I feel so humble."

But Jim Guyette, the ousted local president who lost a federal court challenge earlier Friday to postpone balloting pending appointment of a neutral observer, vowed to continue his efforts with other dissident members in a national boycott of Hormel products. He also is appealing the parent union's decision to place the local in trusteeship.

"What the international did is they held a vote among themselves. They were not negotiating back the jobs for the people in Austin ... It's one of the biggest sellouts I think has ever occurred in the labor movement," Guyette said in St. Paul, where he was meeting with supporters.

The approximately 800 workers who have not returned to their jobs at the plant will be allowed to return on the basis of seniority as they are needed.

While Hormel President and Chairman Richard L. Knowlton said he had no immediate plans in light of the settlement to recall workers, he said, "We're obviously pleased that it was ratified ... We hope it will be the start of a long relationship."

The contract restores 1984 wage concessions by providing a raise of 70 cents an hour during the next three years on a base salary of $10 an hour. In the agreement's fourth year, wages and benefits for Austin will be tied to those at the seven other Hormel plants.

Homecoming set this week

Kickoff for the homecoming game is 8 p.m. Immediately after it, the SHS National Honor Society will sponsor a coffee reception for exes in the high school library.

Also after the game is a dance sponsored by the student council in the student center. Admission is $2 per person and may be purchased at the door.

All students and exes are invited to the dance. It will end at 12:30 a.m.

Homecoming activities are sponsored by the SHS student council.

Hit-and-run case worked

Police are investigating a hit-and-run accident reported Friday night.

At 10:49 p.m., Terry Thames of 1812 38th St. told officers his 1986 Chevrolet had apparently been struck by an unidentified vehicle.

The mishap is thought to have occurred while the Thames car was parked in the 3100 Block of Cherry St. earlier Friday evening.

In 1559, the English Parliament approved "The Book of Common Prayer" of the Church of England.

The Rush-Bagot Treaty was signed in 1817 by the United States and Canada. The treaty limited the number of ships of war the two countries could maintain on the Great Lakes and Lake Champlain.

Texas House...

'Rainy Day' fund okayed

AUSTIN (AP) — By the thinnest possible margin, the House approved Friday the establishment of a "rainy day fund" to prevent Texas from going through another deficit crisis.

The proposed state constitutional amendment was sent to the Senate on a 100-12 vote. Constitutional amendments must get two thirds of the votes, or 100, in order to get out of the House.

"The House passed this in 1979 and it failed in the Senate," said the sponsor, Rep. Stan Schleuter, D-Killeen. "If we had had that 1979 fund today we would not be here today."

The Legislature is going through its second special session of the year in efforts to solve a projected $2.8 billion budget shortfall.

If approved by the Senate, the proposed constitutional change will be on the 1987 general election ballot for a statewide vote.

Although about 35 House members were absent Friday, efforts to delay a vote on the measure until Monday failed.

Ruling doesn't worry White

AUSTIN (AP) — A federal judge issued a temporary order Friday to keep Texas from moving 300 prison inmates to a National Guard barracks near Mineral Wells, but Gov. Mark White said he believes the judge ultimately will OK the idea.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice in Tyler issued a temporary restraining order sought by inmates wanting to block the move.

The order forbids relocation of prisoners to Fort Wolters, said a spokeswoman for Justice. The order is effective until further court action.

Justice will consider the Texas Department of Corrections' motion for emergency relief, asking permission to move the inmates, at an 11:30 a.m. hearing Monday in Tyler, she said.

The inmates' motion, contending that the temporary Fort Wolters facility lacks requirements estabished by the courts, also will be heard then.

White said he believes Justice wants time to analyze the plan to ease prison crowding.

"I think the court will be persuaded," White told his weekly news conference. "It was a well-thought out, well-described plan for solving a temporary problem until we can bring additional (prison) capacity on line."

The governor said the current prison crowding problem won't lead to quicker release of inmates. "No early release," he said.

White said the Mineral Wells plan isn't meant to evade Justice's reform orders on prison conditions, but to provide temporary additional space at a time when large numbers of criminals are being sentenced to state prison.

"We're not trying to avoid the impact of his (reform) order. We're trying to expand capacity in the prison. We've had a remarkable increase in the number of people sent to the prisons," White said.

TDC officials said as many as 300 inmates could be housed at the Fort Wolters barracks, which would be converted into a minimum security facility.

TDC spokesman David Nunnelee said the inmates would be trusties who had behaved well in prison.

The Fort Wolters facility is to be used while the TDC awaits completion of 10 trusty camps that will hold a total of 2,000 inmates. The camps are being built at existing prison sites. The first two are scheduled for completion in March. The others should be ready by May, Nunnelee said.

Scurry County Folks...

By Vicki Brown

The painting depicting a desert landscape hangs in a place of honor behind the desk in his office at H.D. Hines Construction Co. on Avenue T. For David Hines, the artwork is a reminder of the sometimes difficult years that led to the realization of two dreams — to own a company and to serve as a city councilman.

"I like to take something new and make a challenge of it. I like a challenge and I like to make a goal of it," he said.

The desire for challenge and the opportunity to express his feelings also led him to discover a "hidden side" of his personality. "People look at someone like me, just a common man, and don't expect a rough oil worker or a city councilman to enjoy the things I do." Hines' "hidden side" pursues music, painting and poetry.

He believes that his love for the arts is a result of difficult childhood days. His mother died when Hines was young. After her death, his father could not care for the family. Family life became a circle of the homes of four sets of aunts and uncles. "I never really had a home until Margie and I got married," he said.

Born in Colorado City, he lived there until his mother's death. He moved to Sweetwater with an uncle for a few years, then returned to Colorado City.

Employed in various phases of oilfield and construction work all his life, he moved to Snyder in 1959. "At that time, I told Margie that Snyder held the future. I felt like we would have more opportunities here."

Ten years ago he realized his first dream by opening his construction firm "with me, three men and one pickup." Business peaked with 56 employees in July, 1982. Currently, he has about 20 on his staff.

His love for music began at age 16 when he learned to play the guitar. After his move to Snyder, he performed with the "Boomtown Boys" and was a member of the now defunct Snyder Country Music Association. He once sang at the Globe Theater in Odessa.

Although he doesn't pursue performance as much as in the past, he occasionally sings at Snyder Oaks Care Center with E.V. Hill.

His most satisfying accomplishment in the music field is the acceptance of lyrics for 13 songs by a Nashville music publisher. "But, unfortunately, no one has performed them yet," he added.

Hines turned to painting in 1973 as the result of a challenge from his wife. "My wife Margie had open heart surgery in 1972," he explained. "I bought a set of oil paints and books and tried to get her interested in doing it as something less strenuous.

"When I told her anyone can do it, she opened the book and said, 'Paint this picture.' So I did. I hadn't painted before that time, but I had always wanted to," he said.

Even though he loves both music and oil painting, he pursues them only for limited amounts of time. Poetry, however, draws his creativity sometimes even in the middle of the night.

"Sometimes I think of something I want to say, but just can't seem to express it the right way. I can get up at night and put the words on paper so much easier than saying them face to face," he explained. "It's my way of expressing myself when I can't say what I feel."

He added that his poems are rarely shared with anyone other than his wife. "This is a private side of me that very few people see. Most people here see me as a Gold Coater at ribbon cuttings and so on. I have only given a copy of two different poems to an individual who was a close personal friend.

"One uncle gave a copy to several people in Midland when I was growing up and it was printed in the newspaper. Other than that, my poems have been private."

Although he has written poetry since his student days, he didn't pursue the craft seriously until 1965. "I wrote some in school like the other kids because we were required to," he added. "But I didn't start really writing until 1965."

Hines doesn't limit himself to composing stanzas about one subject, but covers a wide range of topics from the oilfield to family concerns.

Over the past nearly 30 years of residence here, Hines has contributed to the community in a number of ways.

Because he understands the feelings faced by children without one or more parents, one year he organized a softball team of boys who, for various reasons, did not have fathers living at home. "I picked up every little boy playing in Farm League who didn't have a daddy," he noted.

In 1982, he was chosen by members of the petroleum relations committee to receive the McLaughlin Award from the chamber of commerce. The committee, composed of a combination of businessmen and oilmen, awarded the honor primarily in recognition of Hines' efforts to secure the oilfield "Christmas tree" fountain placed in front of the coliseum.

Then in 1984, Hines realized his second dream when he was elected to fill a city council position. "Being a city councilman was a personal goal I had set as a young boy," he explained. Dad worked for city government in Colorado City. My mother had cancer and the city council allowed him to have the necessary time off to tend to her. I've always seen city councilmen as good guys."

Hines believes that anyone can succeed if he prepares himself to meet challenges and if he believes in himself enough to set goals. "Jim Cox of Arkansas, a football coach in junior high school, had the most influence on me. He taught me not to go out to meet the world until I was ready.

"If people have a desire, they really can succeed. A lot of people when they want to do something, let fear keep them from doing what they want. Most people will surprise themselves if they will just try," he said.

The first two stanzas of his poem, "American Dreamer," sum up his efforts to reach established goals.

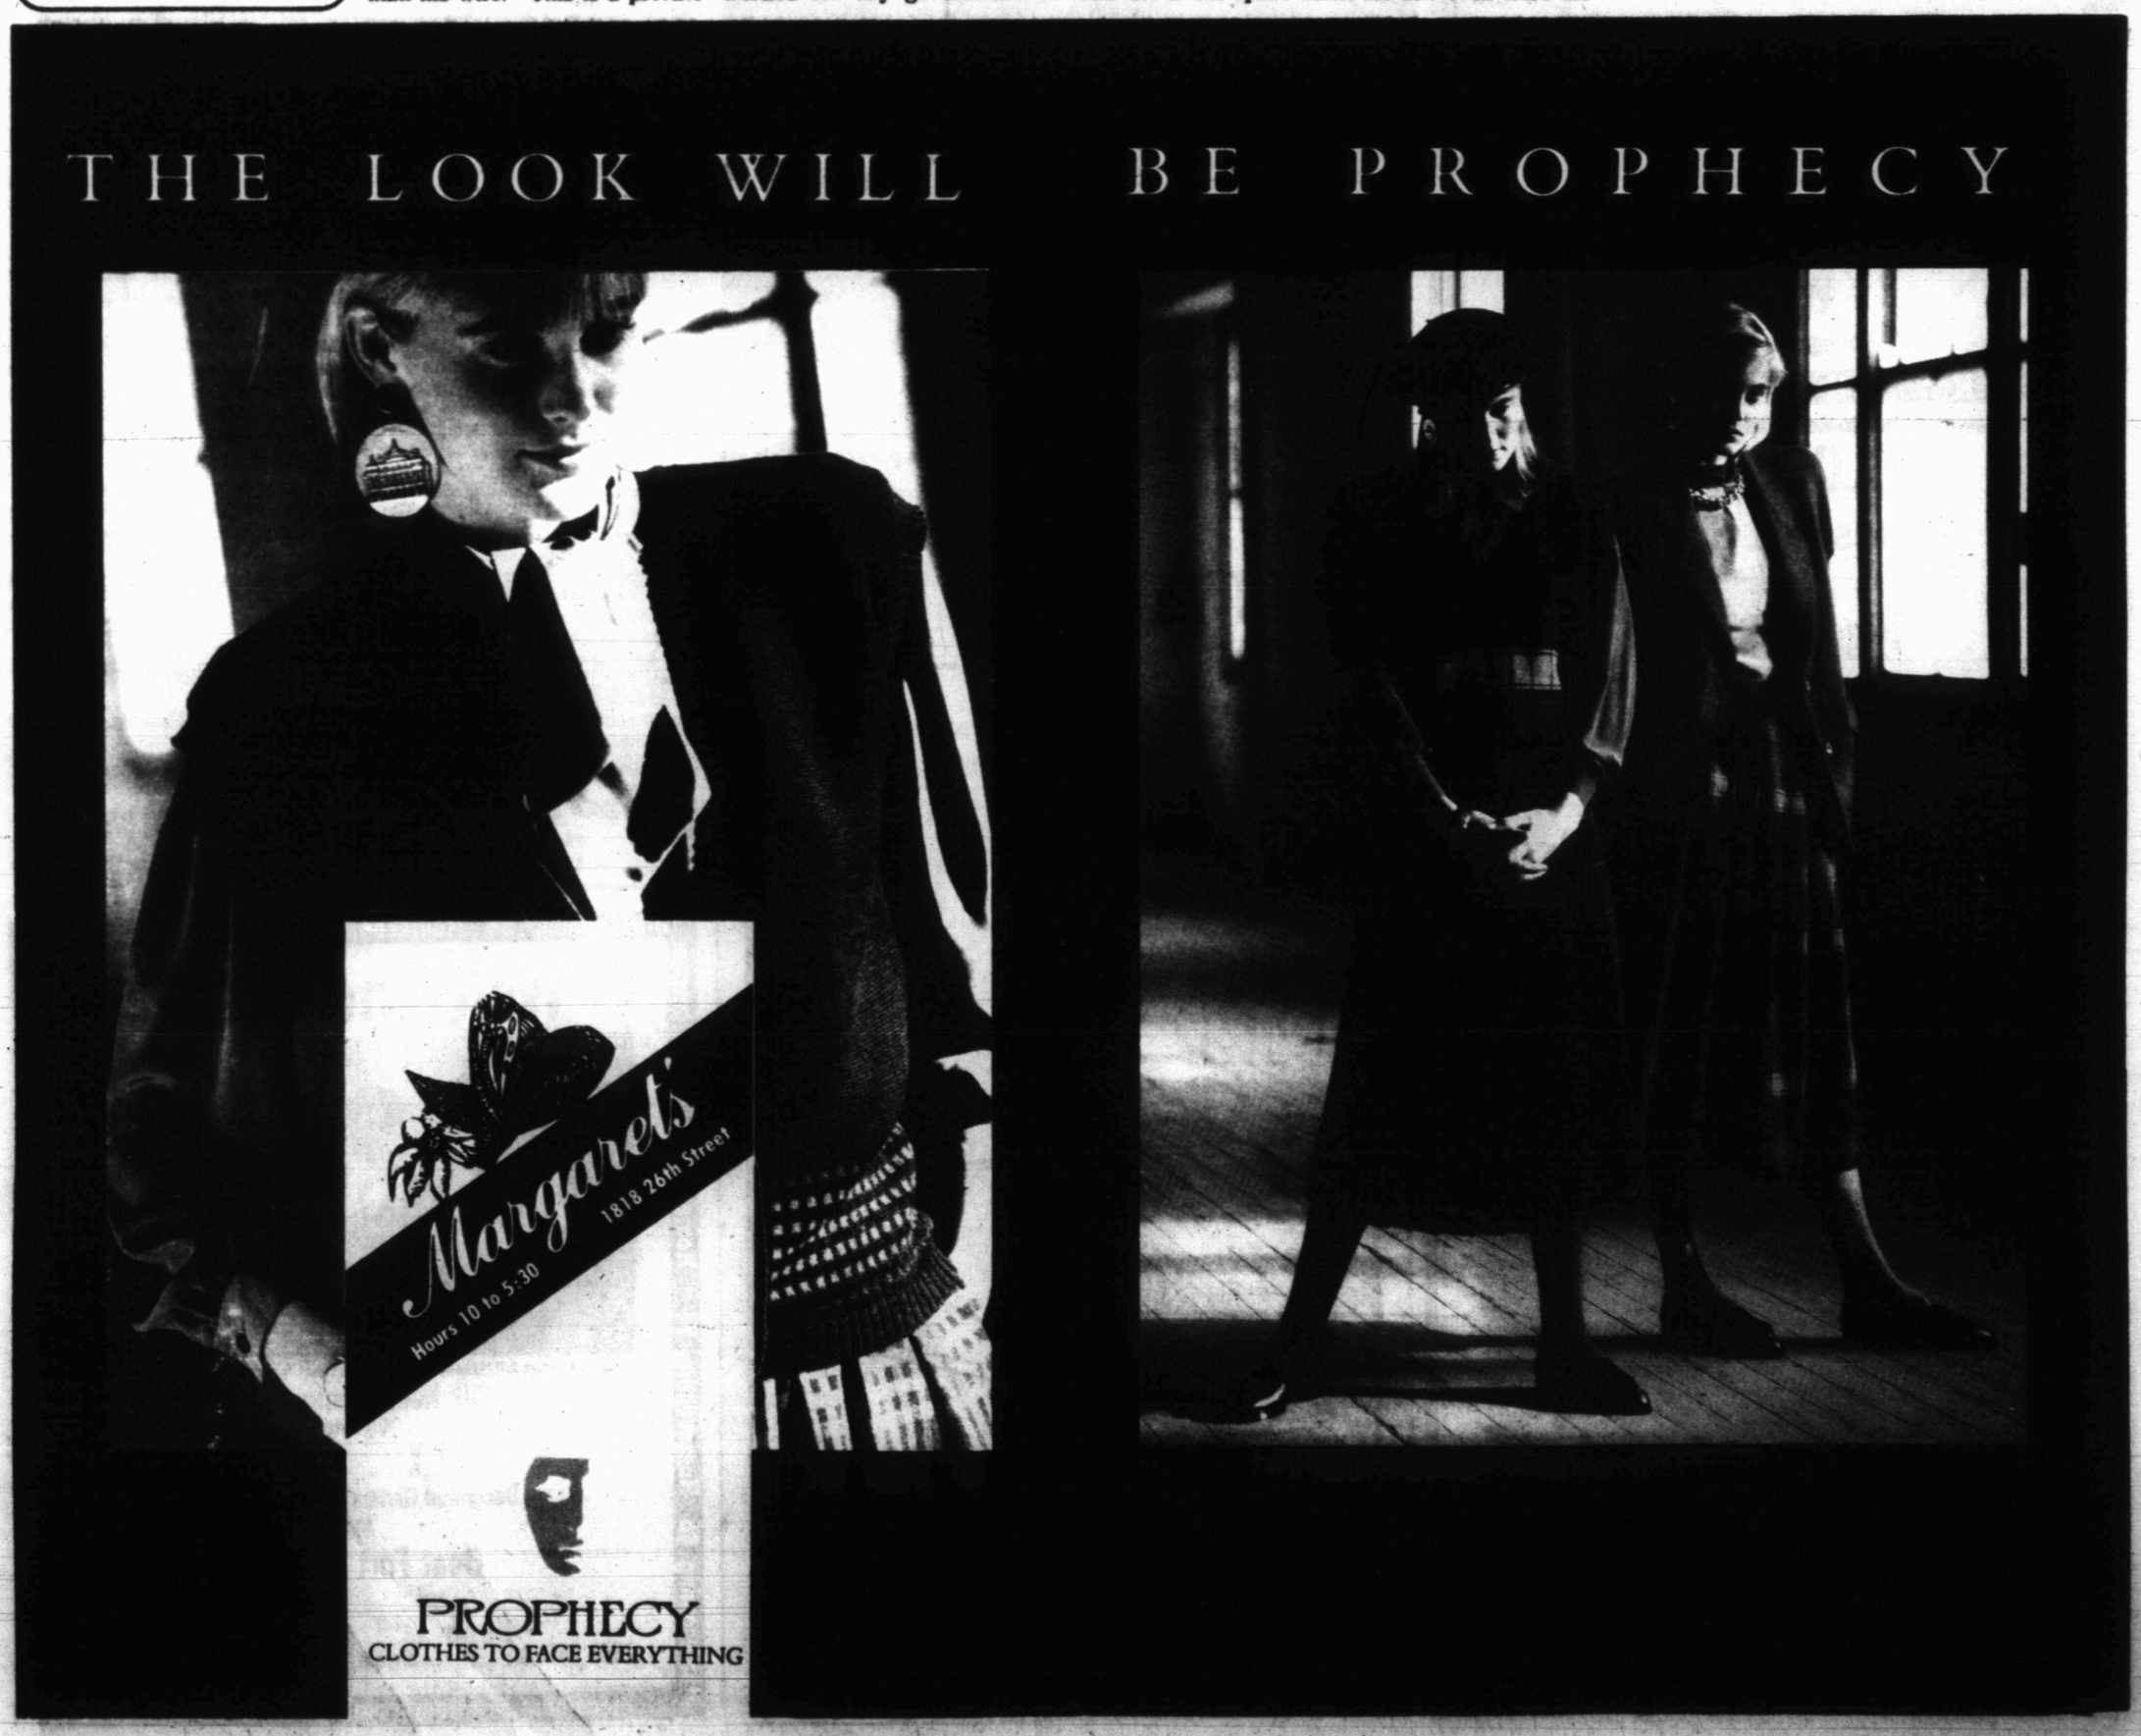

"While writing this poem at my desk,
Thinking of the days of yesterday yonder;
What has happened to people I like best?
Have the dreamers gone? I often wonder.

Yes, where are the dreamers who made this land?
A land as we know it in our life.
I'm talking about people with stretched out hands,
Who take a dream and block out all strife."

The couple has three children, Ronnie, Dana and Debbie of Snyder, and four grandchildren. Hines added, "I just want to leave my children with a family name they can be proud of."

Americans enjoy lots of bagels

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans eat 6 million bagels a day, and some $350 million is spent annually on the doughnut shaped bread, according to a bakery trade journal.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says the average bagel has 165 calories, two grams of fat and 198 mg. of sodium, compared with 217 calories, 12 grams of fat and 261 mg. of sodium in a typical croissant.

Freedom of the press was established in France in 1796.

Practice shot goes astray

Bridge fans in Florida are in for a treat, starting today. In Miami Beach for the next two weeks there will be non-stop world championship play. During that time, winners of the World Mixed Pairs, World Open Pairs, World Ladies' Pairs and World Teams will be determined. No one knows how many participants in these events would make six hearts if they were sitting South for today's deal. But I would hope that most of the aggressive bidders getting that high would play the hand better than today's declarer did.

At trick one, declarer played dummy's diamond queen, losing to the king. Although he later correctly guessed the location of the club queen, he could not shut out the spade ace and was set a trick. Playing the diamond queen was that terrible bridge sin — the practice finesse. Instead of finessing, declarer should rise with the ace of diamonds and draw trumps, ending in his hand. He still has certainly not made the hand, but should he decide to play West for the club queen, he can pass the jack of clubs, then finesse the 10, cash the ace and get back to his hand with a third trump to shed the diamond queen on the club king. Of course he is set if he plays East for the club queen. The reason for refusing the diamond finesse is that if declarer has luck in clubs, he will be able to shed the losing queen of diamonds from dummy. In addition, in six hearts he needs to find the club queen regardless, so it is foolish to be set immediately whenever East has the red king.

Pasta enjoyed hot, cold and often

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are eating pasta hot, cold and often, according to a Better Homes and Gardens survey.

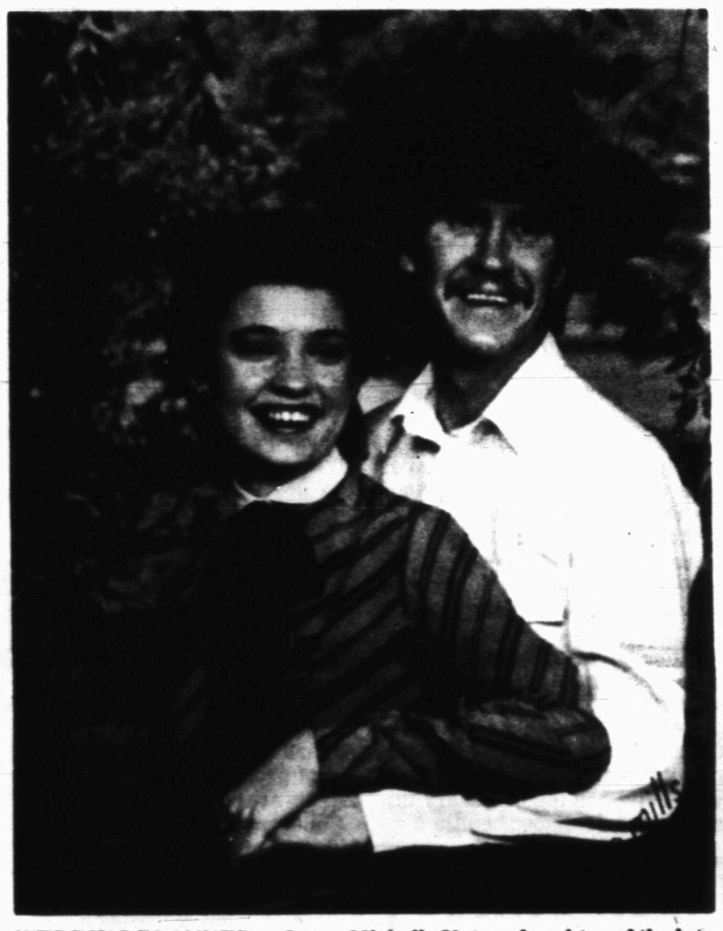

In the year prior to the survey, 91.7 percent of those who responded said they had served hot pasta while 57 percent had served cold pasta salad.

Nearly half of the pasta-eaters surveyed were satisfied with their current brand of dry pasta. About 20 percent found their pasta broken in the package when they bought it, while fewer than 20 percent said their brand was too starchy or sticky.

Fewer than 10 percent said they considered pasta made in Italy better than that made in the United States.

Dunn native wed in West Germany

SPANGDAHLEM, WEST GERMANY — Rebecca Len Harty and Sgt. Todd Hosler were united in marriage on Aug. 9 at 1 p.m. in the Spangdahlem Air Base Chapel. Eddie Buford, pastor of Eifel Baptist Church in Herforst, officiated the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are MSgt. and Mrs. John M. Harty of Dunn, currently stationed at Pruem Air Station. Ronald Hosler of Portland, Ore., and Betty Lois Newkirk of Salem, N.J., are the groom's parents.

The bride's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Fargason of Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. H.T. Harty of Albany.

The couple exchanged vows before an altar highlighted by two seven-branch silver candelabra and flanked by tall silver urns of pastel silk flowers. The unity candle was placed before an open Bible. Single candles in silver holders adorned each side.

Rhonda Gardner of Candler, N.C., provided musical selections including "Marriage of Love," "Letter to My Mother" and "Through the Eyes of Love." Soloist Mrs. Willie Ezell of Houston sang "Woman's Prayer" and "Flesh of My Flesh."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose a gown of white satin created by her mother. The gown featured a fitted bodice with a dropped waistline and gathered skirt that extended into a chapel-length train. The long capped sleeves tapered to the wrist. Lace appliques adorned the wrist and neckline as well as the bodice front. The skirt was trimmed with scalloped lace at the hem. She also wore a tulle veil and blusher attached to a floral headpiece.

The bride carried a bouquet of roses and rose-colored carnations accented with baby's breath, Boston fern and rose ribbon.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore a gold ring belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. H.L. Fargason of Dunn, as something old. Her dress served as something new with her garter as something blue. She also borrowed her mother's wedding pearls.

Susan Harty served as her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Denise Hosler of Salem, N.J., sister of the groom, and Renee Walker of High Point, N.C. The women wore rose satin tea-length dresses featuring full gored skirts gathered to fitted princess-seamed bodices. Full capped sleeves extended just past the elbow and a large satin bow accented the back at the waistlines.

They carried bouquets of rose-colored carnations and greenery. They also wore dark pink carnation corsages provided by their escorts.

Flower girls Stephanie Jaquess of Herforst and Brandy Barrentine of Dover, Del., wore cream-colored polyester dresses featuring a sweetheart neckline and a full gathered skirt. Full puffed sleeves extended to the elbow. Matching satin ribbon sashes completed the outfits. They also carried pink wicker baskets filled with carnations, Fuji pompoms, mums and greenery.

Attired in military dress uniforms, Sgt. Doug Shedd of Washington served as best man with AIC Steven Coombes of St. Paul, Minn., and AMN John Vanlenten of Lancaster, Pa., as groomsmen. SSgt David Shambaugh of San Bernadino, Calif., and SSgt. Edward Carroll of Sperryville, Va. were ushers and Mark Barrentine of Dover, Del. was ringbearer.

A reception followed in the ballroom of the Spangdahlem Recreation Center.

Cindy Baker, Paula Buford and Tracey Chalette served from the bride's table covered with a rose-colored cloth and highlighted in the center with matching candles in crystal holders.

The four-tiered cake was decorated with pink roses with the top tier featuring a fresh nosegay of tiny mums, roses and baby's breath. Matching lace ribbon cascaded down the sides. Fay Castillo of Marysville, Calif., and Carol Chalette of Oakland, Calif., created the cake.

The groom's table was covered with a cream-colored cloth and held a large cake decorated with pink roses. Missy Baker, Tami Giusto and Karen Gariss served.

Following a honeymoon trip to Interlaken, Switzerland, the couple have made their home at #i Margaritenstrasse, Herforst 5522, West Germany, while the groom is stationed at Spangdahlem Air Base.

CARING PARENTS IMMUNIZE THEIR CHILDREN

Unlike children in the past, today's youngsters don't have to suffer from common childhood diseases and their consequences — if they receive immunizations.

Still, many parents don't get shots for their children. Why?

Some parents mistakenly believe that childhood diseases are under control, so there is no need for immunizations. That's not true. Only smallpox is controlled in this country. Children can still get mumps, measles and even polio.

Other parents simply don't know about the many diseases that vaccinations can prevent, especially the new class of immunization such as measles and mumps. Parents may believe that because they had these diseases, it's natural and normal for their children to have them too.

A few parents think possible side effects from immunizations outweigh the risks of childhood diseases, when the opposite is true.

The rate of immunization for young children has fallen, and as a result, disease rates have gone up. For example, the incidence of pertussis (whooping cough) in Texas increased 532 percent from 1984 to 1985. Almost a third of the youngsters who got the disease had no history of immunization.

Although the state of Texas requires children to be immunized before enrolling in kindergarten, parents shouldn't wait that long. Check with your doctor or a community health clinic to see that your child has the necessary immunizations for good health.

If you have trouble keeping track of your children's immunizations, call or write the County Extension office at 2605 Avenue M, 573-5423, for a copy of the "Family Health Medical Record," a useful booklet for recording important medical information.

PARENTING SKILLS ARE LEARNED

Almost any adult can become a mother or father, but parenting has to be learned. And in families where parents care about childrearing, they will make the effort to learn what they can about this important job.

The foundation for developing parenting skills is understanding the developmental stages children go through. Relating to your children — as well as teaching, guiding and disciplining them — will be easier once you understand the basic principles of growth and development.

There are many places you can get information about child development.

Yet even after you have informed yourself about child development and parenting, you may be among the many parents who never feel completely comfortable with their skills.

Part of the reason for this discomfort is that parenting styles are in a state of flux. Today parents may raise their own children one way, but see and hear about many other approaches in the homes of friends, on television, in books and magazines and in classrooms and parent groups. No wonder many parents are confused.

Children can and do thrive under many different styles of parenting. The choice of an effective style is not a matter of "either-or," but of finding a comfortable and consistent balance.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A major exhibition of 13 internationally recognized Hispanic photographers, including Benedict Fernandez, Marco Kalisch, Becky Mayer and Geno Rodriguez, will open at the New York State Museum here Sept. 13.

"New Traditions: 13 Hispanic Photographers" comprises more than 110 images, representing a wide range of innovative styles, techniques and subject matter.

The exhibition is currently scheduled to tour 20 American cities after closing here Dec. 28.

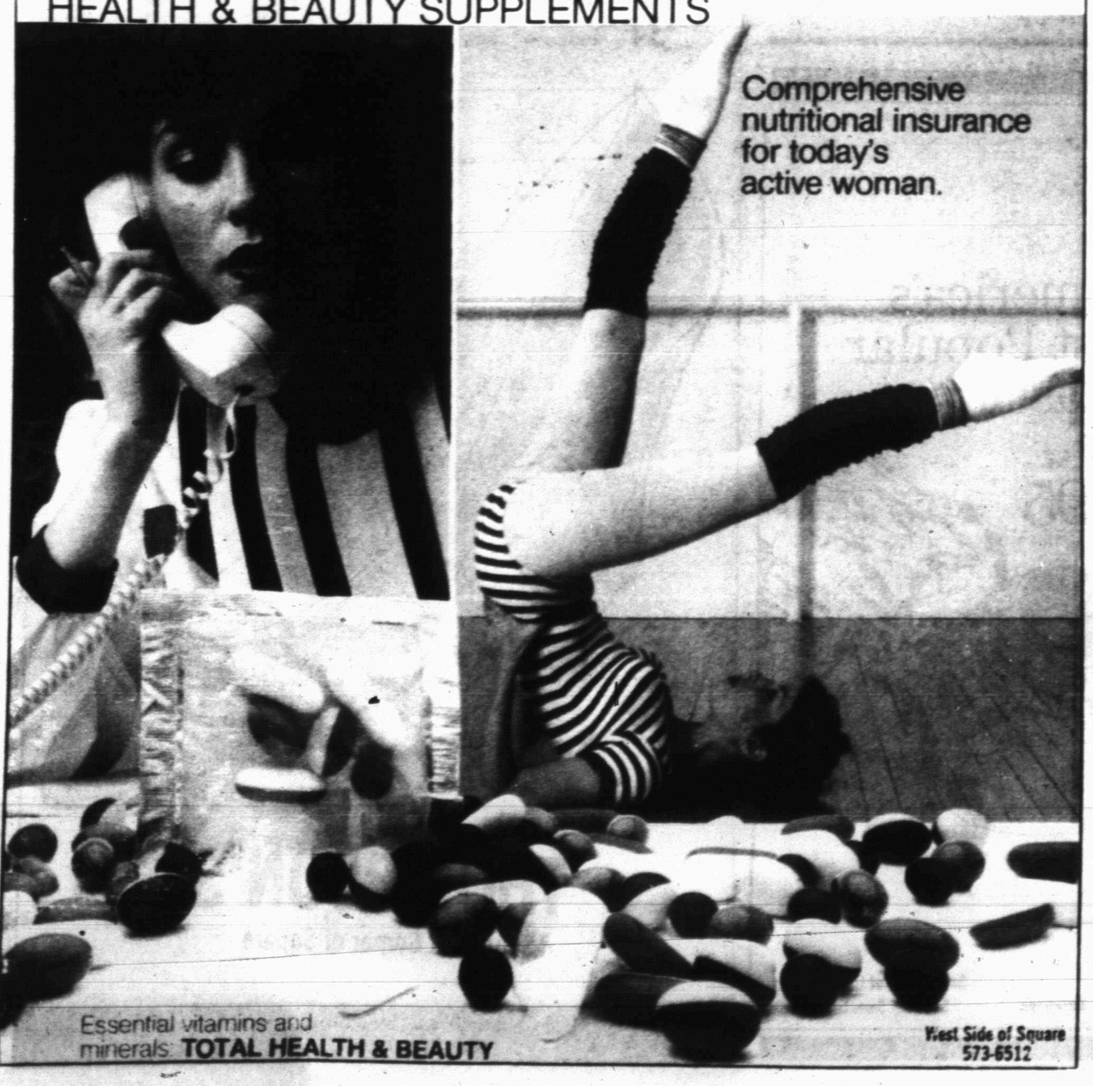

A union between England and Scotland was formed in 1707 under the name Great Britain.

The Duke of Wellington, who defeated Napoleon at Waterloo, was born in 1769.

AARP slates next meeting

The next meeting the local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons is set for Tuesday at 6 p.m. in the dining room of the Senior Citizens' Center on Avenue M. Homemade ice cream, cake and sandwiches will be served.

Membership in the local unit stands at about 150 persons currently. Officers note that individuals holding national membership are invited to join the local group.

National members and other interested individuals are encouraged to attend Tuesday's session.

Quilts still used

KINGSTON, R.I. (AP) — Quilts nowadays are used in much the same way as in olden times — as centerpieces that set the color scheme of a bedroom, for example.

One way they are not used today is to provide warmth under heavy, metal suits of armor, as was done during the Crusades, according to the curator of a quilt exhibition here at the University of Rhode Island.

The Snyder Christian Women's Club luncheon held Wednesday at the Snyder Country Club featured a style show presented by JM's Fashions Unique for the Full Figure. Gloria Shaw narrated the show which was coordinated by Becky Johnson, Sherry Bryant, Shirley Snyder and owners of the store, Jean Birdwell and Mary Pherigo. Judy Billingsley provided accompaniment on the piano.

Musical selections sung by Troy Martin were "More of You" and "Two Winning Hands."

The speaker for September's meeting was Ann Horton of Lubbock. She is the single parent of three children and spoke of facing life's adversities with scriptures, fellowship with church friends and belief in God's goodness. Ann's daughter, Carrie, accompanied her. Carrie has battled luekemia for the past three and one-half years, making Ann's faith firm in the belief that God does keep His promises.

Next month's luncheon will feature a Lubbock attorney who juggles her career with a family of five.

Children's museum a source of wonder

By DIANE M. BALK
Associated Press Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Children's Museum likes to think of itself as grown up enough to be the largest of its kind in the world, but still a source of wonder for youngsters.

Like the millions in the audience it serves, the 60-year-old museum continues to grow and attempt to adapt to changes in the era of computers, a global society, and a high-technology world.

David Cassady, educational director at the world's fourth oldest children's museum, remembers coming to The Children's Museum on an elementary school field trip and visiting it on his own after school as a child of 9 or 10. He began working for the museum in 1958, intending to use the post as an interim stop until he got in or out of law school.

But he has been there ever since. "I fell in love with The Children's Museum," he said.

Today's children, who have been exposed to computers and television, are a lot more sophisticated than children several decades ago, he said. The museum, which is also a treat for adults, has changed too.

"We want to make sure we serve kids in a world that's changing rapidly. You have to be as flexible and adaptable as you want these kids to be," said museum director Peter Sterling, whose office is decorated with everything from ethnic art to toys.

Remember when the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal--a newspaper permanently landlocked in the semi-arid region called West Texas--printed blue-ink rain drops across its front page every time it came a good, hard shower?

This early bit of media showing off first illustrated to us the magic image that rainfall enjoys around these parts.

And that image has stuck in our memory, coming to represent a kind of totem for West Texans. A symbol for our clan which represents all of the good things we might hope for.

Saying this, we'll note the recent days experienced hereabouts would have probably taxed that newspaper's supply of blue ink.

Not to mention the patience of its water-logged beneficiaries.

Back at the Snyder Daily News, it even got to the point that we dreaded making those after-rain phone calls, normally one of the better jobs on any West Texas newspaper.

To their credit, our list of rain callers stayed agreeable to the final stretch as we asked them for the 14th day in a row if they'd mind walking out at 8 a.m. in the morning to check their gauge.

Most of the time it was still raining, but they assured us they didn't mind looking anyway.

It would be nice to say our personal good humor weathered the storm as well. It did not.

But we'll admit our growing dissatisfaction was tinged with the guilt all West Texans feel anytime ill words are spoken in connection with rain.

We were only a baby during the terrible drought of the early 1950s, but the stories told us since childhood have placed a scald in our memory.

Families selling their land to pay off accumulated debt is a bitter story told and retold by many West Texas families.

And all of us have seen the result of too little rain--when the wind broils up a duststorm as angry and fast-moving as a turpentined cat.

Or when the sun dries the creek beds into channels of uneven brick; or the heat turns cotton from a rugged green stalk into a struggling sprout as limp as old shoe laces.

Most folks agree fish and company don't linger well. And at this point, some would likely consider adding rain showers to the list?

But having suggested it, we'll again point to that guilty rush anytime anyone mentions "too much" rain.

For all the choruses which bemoaned the sorry state of the weather last week, we'll offer up this epistle of thanks.

And hope that whoever is in charge of registering these type complaints realizes that even a kid with the world's worst bellyache will be ready for another bite of ice cream tomorrow.

Rain is too precious. And saying this, we'll add it needs a little superstition surrounding it.

Rain is like any other form of good luck. If you choose to abuse it, it's just liable to go away for keeps.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

There is something about a foggy weekend day that mellows out a country family. You see, country families, especially the men, thrive on guilt.

This is because there are so many things to tend to on a farm/ranch: fencing and outbuildings and livestock and plowing...the list is endless. For those folk who work in town during the week and try to get it all done on weekends, well, you can imagine what an afternoon nap, for instance, or a Sunday afternoon football game can do to a good Guilt Trip.

Comes the fog. It's not that fog is all that cold or miserable to work in, especially if you have things to do in the barn, it's just that, on foggy days, nobody seems to care anymore. You stand around and peer out the window. When it's thick and you can't see past the lots in back of the house, you get this eerie feeling that your little family is all alone in the world. There is no traffic, you see, to shatter the illusion. Somehow, that makes it All Right to stay indoors.

Around our house, that usually means one thing: drag out an old movie that a friend taped off cable in town and loaned us, heap on plenty of popcorn, crack open the Coke, and get out the jigsaw puzzle!

Yes, that's right. The jigsaw puzzle, or one of them, anyway, preferably a brand-new one.

Jigsaw puzzles come in all shapes and sizes, but for a young family, we have found the Casse-Tete brand to be the best; they come in the large flat boxes. The Springbok brand is also good; they, too, come in those big boxes. The number of pieces is important. Anything less than 500 isn't enough of a challenge, but anything more is too overwhelming for children.

Because the whole family is working on them, it's best to avoid those impossible pictures, such as a huge pile of red-hot candies, or something else in which everything looks the same. Besides, it's boring. We have several that depict a collection of antique toys, one that is simply a large group of teddy bears, and some Grandma Moses-type pictures that show lots of people doing different things.

One of the neat things about puzzles is that, once you find other puzzle-families, you can swap puzzles and have the variety without the expense.

You can tell a lot about someone by the way in which they work on a puzzle. I'm the compulsive type who likes to be in control of things, so you'll find me over in the corner, scrabbling frantically through the box, searching for all the straight-edge pieces, so that I can construct the borders first, like a frame. My family loves me and tolerates this strange behavior.

My husband is the patient type who likes a challenge. He always works on the large section of same-color background, such as the sky. He sits over there piddling around happily for hours, making slow, steady progress like the turtle, while I'm yelling, "No! That is NOT a straight-edge piece!"

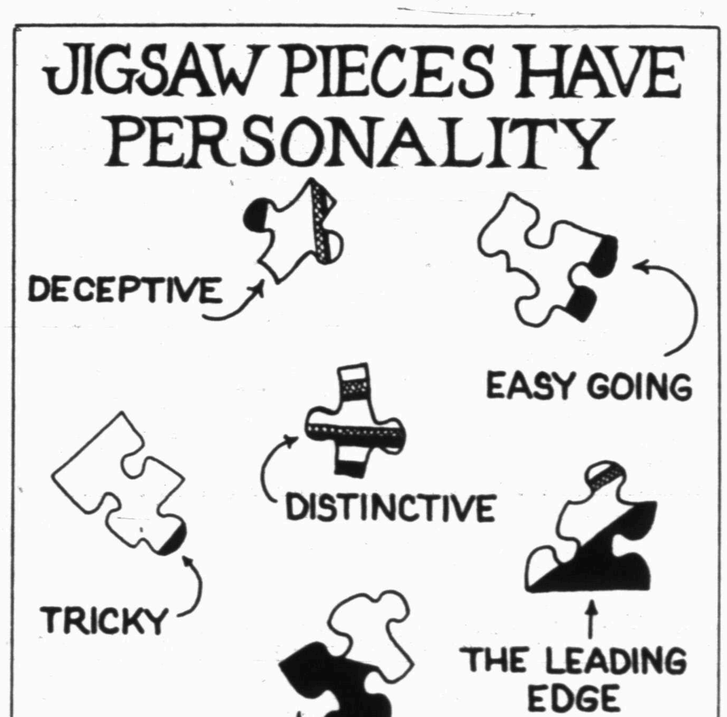

Meanwhile, my son, the Show-Off, will gather together all the pieces of a large, flamboyant section, like the biggest teddy bear, and will put the whole thing together at once with a flourish and a drum roll.

But my daughter is the sneaky one. She's The Collector. Quietly, she assimilates several little piles of pieces that appeal to her, without ever putting any into the puzzle. You don't know the true meaning of frustration until you've raked through a box of 400 little teeny look-alike pieces of cardboard, trying to find that one piece that will complete your section, before giving up and burying your nose in the carpet to grope under the couch for it, only to have an innocent little voice pipe up, "Is anybody looking for this piece?"

Near the end, Mom and Dad back off a little to let the little ones have the joy and satisfaction of The Finish--and what a race it is! Inevitably there is one piece missing, somebody says, "I KNEW that piece was lost!" And somebody else says, "Oh yeah? Move your foot, dummy. You're standing on it!"

The movie is long over by now. Popcorn litters the floor and furniture. Coke cans are empty. We run our hands over the completed puzzle like a sculpture and exclaim over it as if we were the artists.

We always leave it up for a couple of days, living testimony to what a family can accomplish together with laughter and love, on a foggy day in the country.

SDN Week in Review

SUNDAY
September 7

As rainfall and cool weather continues in Scurry County, the clock is running on this year's cotton crop, local ag officials reported in Sunday's edition.

In particular, they note late planted cotton--that placed underground in late May and June--is now threatened unless dry and hot conditions return locally.

A lower count of part-time students is expected to keep Western Texas College's enrollment this fall short of the record numbers counted two years ago, it was reported Sunday.

But as classes started on campus Friday, the number of fulltime students was already near the final figure for this category experienced in 1984. Enrollment was just under 1,000 students Friday.

Lake J.B. Thomas may catch up to 8 additional feet from runoff due to the recents rains, water district officials predicted Sunday.

The county's unemployment rate--while continuing to run in double figures-- dropped by over 1 percent in July, according to preliminary figures recently released by the Texas Employment Commission and reported Sunday.

In June, the slumping oil industry forced unemployment here to 12.5 percent. For July, this dropped to 11.1 percent.

MONDAY
September 8

A self-study now underway at Western Texas College will serve to identify the long range "vision" of the school, promised the staffer responsible for its completion Monday.

Associate Professor Richard Lancaster told the WTC board the study would serve to "determine what makes WTC unique." And accomplishing this, Lancaster said he hopes to use these findings "to make it work for us."

"Changes" were implemented by the Snyder city council Monday to include a switch for the city's bank depository as well as a "changed" speed limit for the recently completed Houston Parkway.

Councilmen unanimously chose West Texas State Bank as the city's depository for the fiscal year, basing its decision on what they forsee as a higher interest rate for city money on deposit in excess of $100,000.

Regarding the Houston change, council members raised the speed limit from 30 to 45 mph.

TUESDAY
September 9

Saying that they feel the terms of a salary overpayment agreement will be fulfilled at the end of this school year--while admitting that money will still be owed the school district--a local teacher group representative and her legal counsel brought their case to the school board Tuesday.

But board members, characterizing the original agreement as "bending over backward to help the teacher," declined to take any action regarding the request.

A "drug deterrant program" which will include a drug-sniffing dog will be implemented within the Snyder school system following board approval Tuesday of a contract agreement with a Gainesville-based firm specializing in such services.

Under terms of the contract, the dog will be used no less than four times monthly.

THURSDAY
September 11

The effort to establish a Billy Bob McMullan scholarship fund at Texas Tech University passed a milestone here Thursday as donations collected since last May were presented to Tech officials.

Charlie Bell presented Dr. S.E. Curl, Dean of the Tech College of Agricultural Science, a check for $6,075.

Accepting it at Stanfield Elementary where she teaches was Brock's wife, June. The district honored Brock for his years of service in promoting UIL literary contests.

Division goals for this year's United Way campaign were announced Thursday along with division heads and this year's honorary drive chairman.

James Vincent, a member of the Boys Club board of directors for more than 15 years, will join United Way volunteers this fall as the honorary drive chairman.

FRIDAY
September 12

A recess was in effect Friday for the pre-trial hearing on the "voluntariness" of written statements given law enforcement officers by capital murder defendants Dorsie Lee Johnson Jr. and Amanda Lynn Miles.

District Judge Gene Dulaney recessed the case shortly before midnight Thursday.

According to District Attorney Ernie Armstrong, evidence remains to be presented in the hearing, but schedule conflicts for both Dulaney and defense attorneys Peter Sheridan and Frank Conard of Sweetwater forced the postponement.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Chairmen for the 1981 Scurry County United Way campaign named this morning — Sept. 8 — included Elizabeth Potts, drive chairman, and Rex Robinson, advance gifts chairman.

The 1981 Scurry County cotton harvest began Monday — Sept. 8 — when Ben Orosco brought in the first bale of the season to the Paymaster Gin west of town. The 450 pound bale was picked on the Moses Rodriquez farm north of Snyder.

Josie Rios was crowned Queen of Mexican Independence Day in ceremonies Saturday night — Sept. 12 — marking the annual Diez-y-Seis celebration sponsored by Our Lady of Guadalupe Church. Runners up in the Queen's contest were Patricia Quiros and Joann Gutierrez.

10 YEARS AGO

Jerry Baird, representing WTC, won first place in the World Championship Goat cookoff held Saturday in Brady. Baird — who has represented the college in the cookoff for the past three years — credited his success to "the handsome, secret recipe of the barbecue sauce and the dynamically designed barbecue pit."

Open house was held Sunday — Sept. 12 — at the Scurry County Library marking two new additions to the building. The new children's addition to the facility was formally dedicated to the late Faye Deene Campbell, children's librarian for the past 10 years.

15 YEARS AGO

Presentation of awards at a noon luncheon at the Towle Park Barn climaxed the annual Scurry County Farm Tour — Sept. 9 — sponsored by farm agencies, the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and Snyder Public Schools. Doyle Wemken of Hermleigh was named conservation farmer of the year while Arlon Youngblood of Borden County was named conservation rancher of the year.

Jimmy Smith of Snyder turned in Scurry County's first bale of cotton for 1971 this morning — Sept. 13 — at the Paymaster Gin.

Letters to the Editor

To the editor,

I just wanted to let you know that everytime I have gone through your town I have always had a pleasant experience due to the fantastic people who live there. I travel through there quite often because my parents live in Carlsbad, N.M.

The people who work in any of the many restaurants have always been friendly and concerned if there seemed to be a problem.

On one occasion my car broke down at 6 in the morning 12 miles outside of Snyder. I was traveling alone with my two-year-old and eight-month-old daughters. I had to go to a total stranger's house to use the phone. I was scared to death!

Mr. and Mrs. Swanson Aucutt offered all the help they could possibly give. Mrs. Aucutt was one of the sweetest and most giving people I have ever had the good luck of meeting.

Just a thanks to her and the fantastic people of Snyder for making a seven-hour trip a lot nicer.

To the editor,

A recent tragedy in our family gave me the opportunity to renew an already existing pride in Snyder's medical facilities.

My sister was killed in an automobile accident at Lamesa. Her 17-year-old son and his friend were injured.

We wanted them transferred here so they could be with the family and we could have someone with them night and day. Dr. Thompson did not hesitate when I asked him to accept the transfer of the two boys. He consulted with the doctor in Lamesa and made the necessary arrangements for them to be admitted to Cogdell Hospital.

Town's eyesore turned into miniature park

COOPER, Texas (AP) — From the rubble of a torn-down building comes a work of art that displays community pride and an appreciation for history.

What was an eyesore of weeds and rubble at the southwest corner of the square in Cooper has been transformed into a "minipark," complete with neatly trimmed green grass, trees, flowers and benches.

On the south side of the small park, a plain, brick wall has been transformed into a wall-size artist's canvas, painted the blue of a clear summer sky.

In the middle of the wall, painted brown, is the rectangular outline of a building with two small eagles painted at the top of two spires. Work on the project is still going on, but it catches the eyes of motorists driving by the park on Dallas Avenue.

The painting is of the old Delta County Courthouse which was located in the middle of the square, but torn down around 1939 to provide work for the Works Progress Administration, which then constructed the current courthouse one block west of the square.

The artist is Foy Burns, a local accountant, who said he agreed to paint the mural because "Someone asked me to do it."

The "someone" who asked Burns to paint the mural was a member of the Professional Women's Club, a local organization which is sponsoring the project originally as part of a Texas Sesquicentennial project.

"It started back last year kind of as a project of the Sesquicentennial group," said Nell Hardy, president of the Professional Women's Club. "We tried for some time — and it took us about a year — to get down to the point where we could get approval because that is a privately owned lot.

ment here, there were not less than two people in each of their rooms at all times. One evening as many as four or five were there, as late as 10 or 11 o'clock. With only a gentle reminder for quiet the first evening, the staff did not restrict in any way the flow of young people and visitors. They went out of their way to provide pillows, blankets, call a member of the family to the phone, etc.

Patient care involves more than just meeting physical needs. The staffs' efforts in this respect were above reproach. The fact that they recognized the emotional needs of these two young men and cared enough to bend a few rules makes each and every one of them more dear to me and my family.

Again, our deepest gratitude and appreciation to and for Dr. Thompson and the staff of Medical Four.

REGULARITY
A change in eating habits often can restore bowel regularity. Drink several glasses of water or dilute fruit juice daily. Add fiber to your diet: fresh fruit and vegetables, bran, whole grain breads and cereals. These fiber foods draw water into the stool, making it softer, bulkier and easier to pass. For chronic constipation, consult your doctor.

Border Patrol agents have finished training exercises

DALLAS (AP) — As U.S. Border Patrol agents in four states finished anti-narcotics training and anticipated more weaponry in an effort to beef up the fight against drug smuggling, the U.S. House gave final approval to a bill designed to further escalate the war.

Provisions related to the U.S.-Mexico border included in the bill, approved late Thursday night in the House and now headed for the Senate, are instructions to the President to send military forces to U.S. borders to stop drug smuggling and give them power to make arrests.

Despite opposition from Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and others to military involvement in drug enforcement, the bill also orders radar aircraft deployed for surveillance and drug seizures, and use of the National Guard and Army Reserves.

Meanwhile, training specialists from Drug Enforcement Administration headquarters in Washington, D.C., and DEA agents from Dallas and elsewhere trained hundreds of agents last week on stopping drug trafficking.

The agents were from 39 Border Patrol stations in Texas, four in New Mexico, six in Arizona and 19 in California, said Philip Jordan, regional DEA special agent in charge.

"We're getting prepared for the harvest season of marijuana in Mexico. It gets really active until December," said Silvestre Reyes, chief patrol agent in McAllen.

Each of the patrol agents was granted new drug-fighting authority, Jordan said.

The training, which concluded last Friday, allowed the DEA to "cross designate" the border agents with the DEA's sweeping search and seizure powers, officials said.

"This is a tremendous boost to federal narcotics enforcement," Jordan said. "All the border states will benefit without a doubt."

Jordan said agents have more power to investigate suspected drug-runners.

Mineral Wells site picked for temporary home of state prison

AUSTIN (AP) — The mayor of Mineral Wells is less than thrilled about state officials' decision to set up a temporary prison near his city.

Gov. Mark White and the Texas Department of Corrections on Thursday announced that as many as 300 inmates would be housed at a National Guard barracks at Fort Wolters in an effort to reduce prison crowding.

The barracks will be a minimum security facility with a fence around it, according to TDC spokesman David Nunnelee. The inmates will be trusties who have behaved well in prison, he said.

The building is about five miles from Mineral Wells. Mayor H. Arthur Zappe said local residents are not happy about having a prison — even a temporary one — nearby.

"If these trusties get out you can't tell what will happen," Zappe said.

The Fort Wolters facility will be used while the TDC awaits completion of 10 trusty camps that will hold a total of 2,000 inmates. The camps are being built at existing prison sites. The first two are scheduled for completion in March.

The others should be ready in May, according to Nunnelee.

White said he asked prison officials to find ways to increase capacity on an emergency basis. In addition to using Fort Wolters, TDC will transfer 150 illegal aliens from prisons to alien detention centers.

"The board is taking these steps in response to the unprecedented increases in prison admissions that have occurred in recent weeks. Admissions are up 20 percent over the prior year," White said.

"The citizens of Texas have indicated through the sentences they have handed down in our state courts that additional prison capacity is needed," he said.

Zappe said city officials were notified of the decision Wednesday.

"I would be very much opposed to it as a permanent institution, and most of our people feel the same way," he said in a telephone interview. "As a temporary situation we can live with it. (White) has assured us it's a temporary situation. Anyway, there's not much we can do about it."

Nunnelee said the barracks could prove vital in avoiding speeded-up release of inmates.

"It was available and we took it," he said of the TDC decision to use the building. "We're hoping that by doing this we can stay below the 95 percent capacity level until we can get the trusty camps on line. We've been awfully close for awhile."

Under state law, all inmates in the parole process get an additional 30 days of "good time" credit when the prisons reach 95 percent of capacity.

Contraception and older women

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is the best contraception for a woman over 40?

DEAR READER — As a general rule, women over 40 tend to develop more complications from contraceptive pills than do younger women. Therefore, barrier methods of birth control are less risky and more appropriate for older women. Permanent contraception, such as vasectomy and tubal ligation, are even better options for couples over 40 to consider. I usually suggest vasectomy, rather than tubal ligation, because the procedure is safe, relatively inexpensive and easily performed in the doctor's office.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I used a home permanent, and when I started to style my hair, it came out in wads. What on earth in happening and what can I do about it?

DEAR READER — Women sometimes develop hair damage from the compounds in home-perm solutions. This can result in hair brittleness or hair loss that is usually temporary. Ask a beautician or cosmetologist to give you advice when you are ready for your next permanent — and, by all means, avoid the product that gave you trouble.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've recently had a colostomy because of a sigmoid tumor. I had a major infection in the incision and now have a sizable abdominal hernia. My surgeon passes it off lightly. I've always prided myself on my appearance (I'm 62), and the scar and hernia are affecting that. Is there anything I can do?

DEAR READER — Once the infection has cleared up, the abdominal hernia can be repaired. Your surgeon may have been grateful to have been able to remove the sigmoid tumor; the resulting weakness in the abdominal wall may have been an unavoidable consequence of the operation. Nonetheless, the defect can be repaired, either by the original doctor or by a surgeon who is familiar with such a procedure.

DEAR DR. GOTT — For the past two years, my husband has had considerable discomfort because of excessive saliva and a hot, burning sensation in his mouth. Two doctors — one an ear, nose and throat specialist — have found no physical cause. Is there any explanation?

DEAR READER — Your husband may have developed an infection in one or more of his salivary glands. I suggest that he check with his dentist to determine if the problem is caused by an abnormality in the mouth or in the surrounding tissues.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report on ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE discusses symptoms, management and new studies of this tragic and irreversible disease. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

Have M.D.s' views really changed?

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

A great deal of written material has been devoted to the relation between doctors and their patients. Much of it criticizes the medical profession. "At the social gatherings of laymen, physicians are flogged in absentia for charging too much or keeping people waiting too long or refusing to go out on night calls or failing to diagnose a simple ailment or seeming callously indifferent to the hospital patient's comfort."

Do these complaints sound familiar? There's more. A poll by the American Medical Association showed that "60 percent of the public thought physicians give patients less time than the patients would like, 51 percent thought physicians are hard to reach in emergencies, 43 percent thought physicians charge too much."

If you believe that these quotes are from a recent publication, you're wrong. They come from a little book ("The Doctor Business," by Richard Carter) published in 1958. This paperback makes interesting reading because it addresses several issues that were popular 30 years ago, before health insurance and Medicare became part of the American scene. At that time, doctors viewed public dissatisfaction as forcing the political socialization of organized medicine.

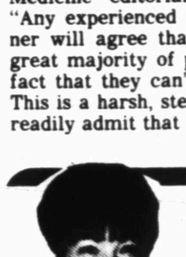

Doctors opposed health insurance in any form. In 1957, Dr. Samuel Hadden (president of the Philadelphia County Medical Society) wrote: "Blue Cross is now promising a plan to extend coverage for medical services on a hospital outpatient basis in order to cut down on bed occupancy. This we oppose as a most discriminatory procedure. Such a plan permits the subsidized, tax-free institution to compete unfairly with the individual physician who provides his own equipment and is subject to many taxes."

Yes, organized medicine was incensed about health insurance. In 1949, the New York State Journal of Medicine editorialized as follows: "Any experienced general practitioner will agree that what keeps the great majority of people well is the fact that they can't afford to be ill. This is a harsh, stern dictum and we readily admit that under it, a certain number of cases of early tuberculosis and cancer, for example, may go undetected. Is it not better that a few such should perish rather than that the majority of the population should be encouraged on every occasion to run sniveling to the doctor?"

This comforting perception was echoed in 1955 by Dr. Walter Martin, past president of the AMA. "The best health care an individual receives is that which he gives himself merely through common-sense application of health rules or by acquiring information that he can apply to the benefit of himself and his dependents. Regular habits of living in regard to rest, exercise, diversion, food habits and moderation in all things, together with a spiritual, rather than a materialistic outlook on life, may have more to do with personal health than all the other factors combined."

Apparently, mid-century doctors had a penchant for putting their feet firmly in their mouths. Here's another pearl from the 1949 New York State Journal of Medicine: "What does 'illness' mean? Cowardice, malingering, laziness, maladaption, cussedness, pure worthlessness ... The Declaration of Independence said that man was entitled to the 'pursuit of happiness.' Any man who wishes to pursue happiness had better be able to stand on his own feet. He will not be successful if he feels he can afford to be ill."

Clearly, patients' needs and concerns appear to have changed little in 40 years. On the other hand, we doctors like to believe that our attitudes have been altered.

Your Birthday

Sept. 15, 1986

Sept. 14, 1986

There is a possibility that you may make a major change in the year ahead where your work or career is concerned. This shift will expose you to many new opportunities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) People who want to help you today will back off if you are too critical about the way they are doing things. Be grateful for any support you get. Searching for the right mate? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, PO Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A social contact you know just casually might have an investment proposal for you today. Don't commit yourself without further investigation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Even though your intentions will be good today, it will be your actions that count with others. Don't behave in a manner that will cause them to question your motives.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Members of the opposite gender will find you extremely appealing today. However, you must be careful they don't take your harmless flirtations seriously.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be on your guard today or else you might be drawn into an expensive outside activity by a friend that neither you nor she can afford.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Look out for your own interests today, but do not put your needs head and shoulders above others. Persons with whom you associate will resent your selfishness.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Compassion and generosity are two of your outstanding virtues, but today you must be careful not to give more to an individual than he or she has the right to request.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Without jeopardizing your friendship, you'll have to be rather firm today if you expect a pal to clear up a long-standing obligation he or she owes you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you unwisely yield to pressure from another in making a major decision today, the end result may be good for the other person but not for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's best not to attempt to palm off your responsibilities on others today. They'll resent this imposition and are apt to turn you down.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Guard against tendencies today to try to foist your will on one you love. You may think you are being protective, but he or she won't.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Make every effort today to honor promises that you have made to those who believe in you. If you let them down, it may leave an open wound.

It's to your advantage in the year ahead to constantly increase your list of social contacts. Knowing people in the right places will prove to be a valuable asset.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It is never a good policy to let things go until the last minute. However, today others may marvel at how you squeeze things in just under the wire. Major changes are ahead for Virgos in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, PO Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A social situation in which you're involved with friends requires some reorganization. You're the person who can put it back together properly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Things should work out rather well for you today regarding your material interests. If you have a way to add to your resources or holdings, act on it at once.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you have something special you've been anxious to sell or promote, this is a good day to sound it out with your potential prospects. You should get a "yes."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If time permits, this is a good day to browse through offbeat shops that feature unusual wares. You might find a real bargain.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You should be quite lucky today with any dealings you have where friends play key roles. Your pals are eager to help you all they can.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have in your possession some confidential information that can be of great advantage to you today in furthering your ambitions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Good things can develop today through friends who are progressive thinkers. Pal around with persons whose ideas always stimulate you mentally.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something unexpected could suddenly develop today, which will be of benefit to you financially and careerwise. Act fast, because it's of a fleeting nature.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) When conversing with a wise companion today, try to do more listening than talking. He or she can furnish you with valuable viewpoints you haven't considered.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is the right day to implement new methods or procedures that can save you time as well as money where your work is concerned.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a unique ability today to analyze things on the spot and come up wth brilliant conclusions. Be sure you put your ideas into practice.

Larger numbers of Americans are dying from cancer. Between 1970 and 1983, the annual total of cancer deaths increased by 25 percent — from 331,000 to 443,000.

Clements says....

'Gov. White's been ugly to Reagan'

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans would have a better chance of solving problems in the oil and agriculture industries if they had a governor who could talk with President Reagan, former Gov. Bill Clements says.

"This governor that we have seems to have a fetish, if you will, to say ugly things about President Reagan," Clements said Thursday.

Clements, who lost to White in 1982 and is challenging White this year, said White has been so criticial of Reagan that when the state needs help, no one in the administration wants to listen to him.

"You can't be governor of Texas and, so to speak, fall out of bed every morning saying ugly things about the president and then pick up the phone and say, 'You know, we've got a little problem in petroleum I'd like to talk to you about,'" Clements said.

His comments came in a speech to the Austin Young Council of Realtors.

Clements said that even though Democrat Jimmy Carter was president for two of the years that Clements was governor, the state's access to the White House remained good.

"I did not admire everything that he (Carter) did. I think some of you may remember that. But that didn't alter the fact that our line of communication was constant and good on issues that affected us in Texas," Clements said.

Clements said that White has damaged the state's ability to get federal attention on issues involving oil and gas, agriculture, defense contracts or the expansion of military bases.

"He does not seem to understand that President Reagan is the most popular president that has ever been so far as Texas is concerned. He (Reagan) has a 77 percent favorable rating in Texas today," Clements said.

For months, White has urged Reagan to impose an emergency tariff on imported oil

Relations subject of study

MEXICO CITY (AP) — An independent commission made up of 18 top-ranking officials, intellectuals and business leaders from both sides of the border was formed Thursday to study the future of U.S.-Mexican relations.

The target is to have a report ready by the time new presidents take office in Mexico in December 1988 and in the United States in January 1989, said Sen. Hugo Margain, a former ambassador to Washington who is the chairman of the Mexican group.

The U.S. group is chaired by William D. Rogers, a Washington lawyer who was a former assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

Margain said the commission would meet for the first time on Oct. 9 in Tijuana, Mexico, and the following day across the border in San Diego to "catalog" the problems for study.

Three joint meetings are scheduled next year, the first in Mexico in January.

"This was not done by a government agreement," Margain said at a news conference. "There is absolute independence."

Here is it sponsored jointly by the Ford Foundation and other private organizations, while the Ford Foundation announced the commission's formation in the United States.

Margain said the study will be of "all types of bilateral problems," including economic, political, social and cultural issues. He said the focus will not be on "immediate problems" but rather will be on the long term.

A statement describing the goals said the research would identify "those issues that will affect the agenda of the relations between Mexico and the United States from now until the end of the century."

It said the commission also would seek "solutions and recommendations of long range tending to strengthen and make mutually more advantageous these relations."

Court voids acquittals

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The Supreme Court on Friday voided December's acquittal of 26 people charged in the 1983 assassination of Benigno Aquino and ordered a new trial, the Philippine News Agency reported.

Chief Justice Claudio Teehankee and seven other justices voted to invalidate last year's trial of then armed forces chief Gen. Fabian C. Ver, 24 other military men and one civilian, the agency reported.

Copies of the decision were not immediately available. Employees at the court clerk's office said they were not aware that the court had reached a decision although court sources said earlier the tribunal was to release its ruling Friday.

Aquino, a former senator and outspoken foe of Ferdinand E. Marcos, was shot on Aug. 21, 1983, at Manila International Airport as he returned from three years of voluntary exile in the United States.

His wife, Corazon Aquino, ran against Marcos in the fraud-tainted Feb. 7 presidential election in which Marcos was declared the winner.

Mrs. Aquino became president weeks later when Marcos fled to Hawaii after being toppled in a popular revolt.

Dear Abby

Men Give Wives a Failing Grade on First Aid Test

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: You have many faithful readers who are senior citizens, so we wish you would print more in your column that would benefit us. We are a large group of over 65ers in Brighton Beach, Brooklyn, who have a problem we need your help to solve.

There are more widows than widowers here, and we now know why. First we questioned the women on first aid: "What would you do if your husband suddenly collapsed with a heart attack, and was laid out on the floor just staring at you?" Nearly all the wives came to the same conclusion. They said it would be so traumatic and unnerving that they would first have a glass of tea, then finish the lemon meringue pie, then spring to action and try to revive the husband. If they failed, they would call for help.

We husbands concluded from this that when a man reaches the age of 65, he should immediately divorce his wife and marry a nurse who doesn't care for lemon meringue pie.

What do you think?

BROMAL AUERBACH,
DEBORAH HOSPITAL
FOUNDATION,
BROOKLYN, N.Y.

DEAR BROMAL: All kidding aside, I think you men should stick to your wives and forget the nurses. Furthermore, if more over 65ers would learn CPR, their spouses would live longer and they could enjoy tea and lemon meringue pie together! (P.S. CPR courses are offered by your local American Red Cross and/or American Heart Association.)

• • •

DEAR ABBY: First, let me say that I love my daughter-in-law as I would my own daughter. Now the problem: Some years ago, my son and his wife were given a lovely sterling silver heirloom tea service by a family member. It was complete with coffeepot, teapot, cream pitcher, sugar bowl, tray, etc. Over the years, it has become tarnished. I doubt if it has ever been polished. It is out in the open, and I cringe every time I go to their home and see that lovely set so badly tarnished.

I do not want to tell my son privately to tell his wife to polish it. She is a good homemaker, and we get along beautifully, and I want to keep it that way; however, this oversight bothers me.

Last year I brought a jar of silver polish to her saying I had extra jars, but she didn't get the hint.

Am I being petty? My husband says I should mind my own business.

MIDWEST MOM

DEAR MOM: Petty? No. Your husband is blessed with sterling wisdom. Heed his advice.

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-seven years ago I wrote to you for advice, requesting a personal reply. I was a pregnant, frightened, Ohio farm girl with no one to turn to. You sent me to the Catherine Booth Home for Unwed Mothers in Cincinnati and you added, "I care" on your letter. I can't tell you how much those two words meant to a young girl who felt like no one cared.

My daughter was born at the home and I placed her for adoption. I saw her only once, briefly, through the nursery window — then no more. Since she was born on the Fourth of July, I was reminded yearly of her birth in a "bang-up" way. I'm sure some people wondered why I cried while watching fireworks.

Well, my daughter found me after an eight-year search! What strong feelings surfaced after all those years. I was in a daze for a while. We sent pictures and talked on the phone, and now she, her husband and their two children are coming to see me! I want you to know about this, Abby, because I have always considered you an important part of my life.

Thank you, not only for your column, but for the personal help you give people privately. I'm signing my name, but please don't use it.

Lab restores historic letter

AUSTIN (AP) — Time has been kind to the memory of Col. William Barret Travis since he took command of the besieged Alamo in February 1836 and promptly dashed off his defiant "Victory or Death" letter.

But the letter itself, addressed in Travis' florid style "To the People of Texas and All Americans in the World," did not fare so well.

Faded, stained, torn in half, crudely mended here and there with tape, the letter marked its 150th anniversary earlier this year as a sadly tattered reminder of the glory won by Travis and his men.

But that was before it went to the conservation laboratory at the Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center, a rare book and manuscript depository at the University of Texas.

The HRC lab was asked by the Texas State Library to restore the letter as well as the badly deteriorated Texas Declaration of Independence for a Sesquicentennial exhibit this fall at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas.

Work on the documents, mostly undertaken by conservator James Stroud, went so well that "we hope they won't deteriorate any more," said Don Etherington, the HRC's assistant director and chief conservator.

The HRC also designed cases for the documents so they can be displayed without damage from light, and so the declaration, which was written on both sides of six sheets of paper, can be viewed in its entirety.

About $20,000 worth of work was involved, Etherington said.

"We're doing this sort of as our contribution to the Texas Sesquicentennial," he said. "It's our gift to the state."

Chris LaPlante, director of the archives division of the State Library, said, "We couldn't be more pleased" with the restoration.

"As with everything else that the HRC does, this was first-rate," LaPlante said. "We think now that if these documents are kept in a proper storage environment, as we have at the archives, they will last for many hundred more years."

The HRC was a natural choice for the restoration because "there is no other place in Texas that could have done the work, and few other places in the United States," Etherington said.

Etherington's staff fights a never-ending battle against deterioration of the 800,000 books, 9 million manuscripts and 4 million photographs in the HRC collection.

Preserving books printed before the mid-19th century "is a piece of cake," Etherington said, because of the high-quality paper that was made from rag and was low in acidity. The real problems come with later books and manuscripts that use paper made from wood pulp, he said. Without proper storage and treatment, they will fade, grow brittle and crumble away to dust.

"The deterioration is usually not gradual, but drops dramatically after a while," Etherington said. "There comes a point when it becomes so brittle that it is sort of like rust, so that if you touch it it will just fall apart. What we do is try to preserve it before it reaches that point, but we can only do so much. One could argue that we could use 100 conservators."

Instead of 100, Etherington has 14 conservators plus six other staff members. A committee that includes HRC curators meets annually to decide which parts of the collection have the highest priority for preservation treatment.

"No part of the collection is too brittle to be used, but perhaps a couple million out of the 9 million manuscripts couldn't be handled without some form of physical support," Etherington said.

Staff members are continually putting materials in transparent, protective sleeves that will prevent damage by researchers. "All the staff helps with this," Etherington said. "Even the receptionists, when they have free time, will be putting things in sleeves. We couldn't do it with only the conservator staff."

The long-range hope for saving information in many documents may be to use optical discs that preserve an image of a document electronically, Etherington said.

"It's a difficult balance, because people come here to see the originals, and basically we want to preserve the artifact, not just the information," he said.

One of the oldest artifacts Etherington's staff has worked on recently is the almost 700-year-old copy of the Magna Charta owned by Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot. The HRC repaired holes in the document written on animal skin, "relaxed" the vellum parchment so it would lie flat and designed a case.

Temple hospital reviews security

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — Officials at Scott & White Memorial Hospital said they will review security at the facility after an infant was taken from a viewing room at the nursery just hours after he was born.

But Executive Vice President Robert Mason and assistant nursing administrator Karen Cure said at a news conference Thursday that they won't recommend "knee-jerk" security enhancement that would detract from the festive occasion of childbirth.

"When someone comes in to have a baby, that's an exciting time," Ms. Cure said. "So we try to celebrate. We don't want to do anything so dramatic, to overreact in a way that would turn this into a prison."

Jeremy Scott Bobo was abducted from the viewing room about 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, eight hours after he was born. The child was found at a residence west of Temple Wednesday evening, and two suspects were taken into custody, police said.

Valerie Elaine Dach, 19, was charged with kidnapping Thursday, and was being held at Bell County Jail on $100,000 bond. Her common-law husband was not charged in the kidnapping, but faces a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle because the truck the couple were in was reported stolen from a Temple car lot, police said.

"We talked with her, and she indicated she acted alone," said police Capt. Dave Wilde.

Police said the woman had donated blood at the hospital's blood bank prior to the kidnapping, and received a free child car seat the hospital gives to donors. Witnesses told police they saw a woman matching the suspect's description at the hospital Tuesday evening, and looking at the baby just before his disappearance.

The 6½-pound boy was found unharmed at the residence, police said.

The child's father, Hank Bobo, said Thursday he was tired, and upset.

"Anger is not the word for it," he said Thursday afternoon as he and his wife, Laura Bobo, waited to leave the hospital. "You go through a lot to have a baby, and to take it out from under you — there's no excuse for it."

He said he didn't blame the hospital, but added, "I do think they should do something a whole lot different than they've been doing so it won't happen again."

Executive Vice President Mason said prevention is difficult because it is "not unusual to see women carrying infants in the hall.
