DEEP OIL COMPANY HAS PRODUCER

Producers and Refiners Urge Statewide Oil Proration

LARGELY ATTENDED MEETING OF OIL MEN URGES IMPORTANCE OF CONSERVATION TEXAS INDUSTRY

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

State-wide proration of crude oil produced in the Texas fields, with no special exemptions, was the keynote sounded at a meeting of the North Texas Oil and Gas association held Saturday afternoon at the Wichita club.

The meeting was attended by approximately 200 of the district's producers, refiners and representatives of the different pipe line companies. Several interesting talks were made by members who contended that proration strictly adhered to, will eventually become the salvation of the smaller producers of Texas.

A. C. Smith, of the Texas company, who addressed the gathering, declared that the eyes of not only Texas, but of the entire petroleum world will be focused on Austin Tuesday, when the railroad commission meets in an effort to decide some plan to alleviate to some extent present conditions in the industry. He further stated that unless Texas adhered to a rigid proration system the state can not expect California, Oklahoma and other prorated states to continue their schedule of conservation, and unless some constructive decision is announced at the meeting in Austin Tuesday, it may mean utter collapse of the entire structure.

ROAD BOND PLANS WOULD CUT TAXES WICHITA COUNTY

PROPOSAL WOULD SAVE THIS COUNTY $1,931,000

Launch Campaign to Urge Passage of Legislation To Aid Taxpayers

The campaign launched by a citizens committee in Austin Saturday for the passage of a constitutional amendment designed to lift $85,000,000 bonded indebtedness from the tax rolls of Texas counties is of particular interest to Wichita county citizens, as it would increase the annual income of this county $126,000.

County Judge John Marrs said this would probably permit a reduction of 33 per cent in the county tax rate if the plan should be adopted by the state.

The proposed amendment provides for the state's taking up the outstanding road bond indebtedness of all Texas counties, amounting to about $85,000,000.

Wichita county has issued road bonds totaling $2,750,000 with $1,961,000 still outstanding. The county is paying out approximately $126,200 per year to retire these bonds and that amount would be saved if the amendment should be adopted.

Senator Ben G. Oneal, according to press dispatches from Austin, still has his mind open on the question of the state-wide highway bond amendment. He has sent to citizens of each county in his district data compiled by Senator Walter F. Woodul, sponsor of the bond plan, and invited their comments on

COMMITTEE APPROVES PROPOSAL FOR $1,500,000 STATE OFFICE BUILDING

AUSTIN, March 21. (AP)—Bills by Senator Hornsby of Austin asking $1,500,000 in appropriations for the erection of a state office building and the renovation and repair of the state capitol were reported out favorably by the senate committee on finance last night.

Hornsby asked $1,000,000 for each project. The amount requested for erection of the office building and purchase of its site was halved by a committee amendment. The amendment also stipulated that the building should be erected on present state owned property. Hornsby's bill had asked that the state purchase land which was the site of the old Travis county jail.

Acquisition of Cream Separator Authorized By Association

PLAN PURCHASE OF PIGS TO CONSUME SKIM MILK

Committee Named to Prepare Advertising Campaign in Wichita

Steps intended to increase the demand and to improve the market for milk and its products in Wichita Falls were taken at a regular meeting of the Wichita County Dairy association, held Saturday in the office of R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace, in the basement of the courthouse.

Among principal actions taken at the meeting were:

Authorization given B. F. Greer, the president, to acquire a cream separator for the use of members of the association, to be installed at the Frank Wolf Feed and Coal company, 101 North Indiana avenue.

The launching of an effort to purchase a carload of purebred gilts to which will be fed the skim milk left after the cream has been separated.

Appointment of a committee headed by E. F. Riley authorized to participate with heads of local creameries in conducting an advertising campaign seeking to increase the consumption of milk and its products. Other members of the committee are J. M. Isbell and G. C. McGowan, county farm agent.

Advocacy of a membership campaign designed to bring as many as possible of the dairymen of the county into the association.

Approval of the plan to acquire a separator was given after various members of the association had declared that prices paid for whole milk are such that it is more profitable to separate the liquid and sell the cream. Various of those who participated in the discussion declared that their milk is being pro-

YOUR RUNNERS, LADIES, STARTED WITH QUEEN ELIZABETH

THE art of knitting is modern compared with the ancient method of weaving. No record is found of knitting until the year 1400. The Rev. William Lee of Nottinghamshire, England, about 1600 made a machine for knitting. Seeking Queen Elizabeth's favor, he presented the first pair of knitted hose to her, but being coarse and not silk, the present did not meet with great favor. Lee then improved his invention and knitted the first silk hose. Though pleased, the queen still did not grant a patent, so Lee took his invention to France and became successful. TWO NAVY AVIATORS DROWN WHEN PLANE CRASHES AT PANAMA

PANAMA CITY, March 21. (AP)—Two United States navy aviators drowned in the Panama canal today as their plane crashed into the water midway between the two oceans. Their bodies and the wreckage of the plane were taken out by the destroyer Ellis, which was passing through the canal.

The plane was a utility amphibian from the Coco Solo air base at Cristobal, returning from a flight to Balboa in a heavy rainstorm.

The men killed were:

PAUL AVRIL WILSON, aviation pilot, first class, Billings, Mont.

GEORGE W. VAN WEGAN, seaman first class, Minneapolis, Minn.

Wilson was piloting and Van Wegan was a passenger.

A board of investigation was convened immediately to determine the cause of the accident.

Pilots at the Cristobal base reasoned that the heavy rain, obscuring Wilson's vision, had deceived him as to his altitude. It was not known immediately whether his engine had failed, but it was pointed out that had the motors gone dead while the plane had sufficient altitude Wilson could have guided the ship to a safe landing in the canal.

Army Flier Killed

HONOLULU, March 21. (AP)—Second Lieutenant George C. Baker of the army air corps reserve was killed today when his plane plunged into the ocean off Waikiki beach.

ARKADELPHIA, Ark., March 21. (AP)—Accused of selling a gallon of water as liquor, J. A. Miller was fined $25 for fraud in city court here yesterday.

Alexander Glenn, a negro, was handing Miller a $5 bill for the liquid when two officers appeared, police testified.

They seized the jug and arrested Miller. On the way to jail the officers stopped at a drug store to have the fluid analyzed.

It was perfumed water.

Miller went to jail upon failure to pay the fine.

W. A. Hawthorne with his wife and six children, all of Nocona, were in the Ford sedan which collided with a Chevrolet truck driven by Walter Meyer of 3328 Holliday street, Wichita Falls. Hawthorne and five of the children sustained cuts and bruises and Meyer suffered only minor injuries.

BORAH WANTS EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS

Necessary to Deal With Unemployment, He Declares

CONNALLY OF TEXAS COMMENTS ON REPORT

Republican Leader Watson Says There Will Be No Extra Session

By FRASER EDWARDS
(Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, March 21. (US)—A new demand for an extra session of congress to deal with the unemployment problem was made today by Senator Borah of Idaho, following the official announcement by Secretary of Commerce Lamont that 6,050,000 persons were out of work in January.

Coincidentally, a conference was called for Monday by the people's lobby of which Prof. John Dewey is president, to determine ways and means of forcing an extra session within the next few weeks. The meeting will be held in the office of Senator Frazier of North Dakota, Republican insurgent.

What was accepted as reflecting the determination of President Hoover not to call a special session was voiced by Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, who said:

"Under no circumstances will there be an extra session of the congress. And that includes the suggestion that the senate alone be called into special session in November to consider the league court."

Democrats Attitude

Democratic senators who were demanding unemployment relief legislation on the basis of estimated unemployment of 6,000,000 before congress adjourned were in an "I told you so" position, since the administration was minizing the number of jobless at that time.

Senator Wheeler of Montana, who offered a resolution for the appropriation of $100,000,000 for unemployment relief just before congress adjourned said:

"If these official figures had been

Paroled Convicts Are Required To Leave Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 21. (AP)—Governor W. H. Murray, who has set a number of styles in procedure since taking office in Janurary apparently has added a more far-reaching precedent than wearing a hat in his office. He has exiled paroled convicts.

While the governor has not made public announcement whether he expects to fix a hard and fast rule regarding clemencies, it is true that the three last paroles issued by him were conditional upon the criminal leaving the state never to return.

If they set foot in the state again they are liable to immediate arrest, under the terms of issuance.

Governors of Oklahoma have absolute power over criminals by authority of the constitution—except of course, increasing the penalty fixed by the courts.

She has not lived with her husband since the marriage, the suit recites.

DEEPEST SAND IN HISTORY OF ARCHER COUNTY DEVELOPED BY TEST TO NORTH OF ARCHER CITY

What may become a factor in redrilling of practically the entire northern portion of Archer county is foreseen in the showing of oil from a deep sand at 2,210 feet in the Deep Oil Development company No. 1 L. F. Wilson in block 76 four miles north of Archer City.

The well which is located in what is known as the "Chalk Hill" pool encountered the Canyon formation at 2,130 feet, a formation in which production is found in the Bulcher pool of northwest Cooke county. This was penetrated to 2,208 feet when an oil lime was picked up and drilled into two feet. The well was bailed and showed five barrels per hour. At 2,210 to 2,212 feet a hard oil sand was drilled and bailing brought nine barrels in the hour's operation. Later from 2,212 to 2,214½ a soft flaky oil sand was encountered. This was bailed for some time and 16 barrels of high grade oil was brought forth hourly, the bailer being unable to lower the oil which was coming in at a rapid rate. Later the fluid caused the formation to cave below the 10-inch, which has 144 feet of open hole and further bailing was impossible.

Considerable Interest

The news of the strike has created considerable interest throughout the county and other sections of the district, as it is the deepest pay horizon so far encountered in the county of many sands, and further progress will be watched with the keenest of interest.

The well is in a section where production is obtained from several sands at a much lesser depth, some of which has ceased producing, a number of these will in the event of the Deep Oil well becoming a commercial producer, begin immediate plans to start drilling to the deeper formation.

The finding of this deep pay makes a total of one dozen producing horizons in Archer county. The pays so far uncovered are found at 600, 750, 900, 940, 1,00, 1,100, 1,250, 1,350, 1,450, 1,580, 1,630, 1,720 feet, and is with the exception of Wichita county one of the most prolific pools in the country.

Maryland Solon Hopes to Outlaw Public Whipping

BALTIMORE, March 21. (AP)—A bill to outlaw the whipping post as a punishment for wife beating in Maryland was prepared today for introduction in the legislature, as preparations were made to impose 10 lashes on John Kowalski, sentenced this week for the offense.

Criminal Court Judge Eugene O'Dunne, who sentenced Kowalski after he had heard testimony that the man beat his wife while she was ill, said he had instructed Sheriff Joseph C. Deegan not to draw blood when he carries out the sentence.

Judge O'Dunne rejected pleas yesterday to suspend the whipping post sentence but said he would shorten the 30-day sentence imposed at the same time.

"I have never known a man who was sent to the whipping post to go back home and beat his wife again," Judge O'Dunne said. "The humiliation of being lashed, no matter how lightly, has that effect."

SHOWMAN CHARGED WITH NEGLIGENT HOMICIDE TO FACE TRIAL ON APRIL 7

SAN ANTONIO, March 21. (AP)—Trial of Clark Coley, showman, charged with negligent homicide following the death of Viola Friesen, 2, who was attacked by a mountain lion owned by Coley, has been set for April 7.

PRORATIONISTS IN OKLAHOMA VICTORS AFTER LONG FIGHT

Resolution Pending In House Provides For Popular Vote

CRUDE CURB ORDER TO CONTINUE IN EFFECT

Operators Say Proration Cannot Endure With East Texas Unchecked

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 21. (UP)—The controversy over proration of oil that broke when the 13th Oklahoma legislature convened 11 weeks ago, ended tonight in Oklahoma with victory for those advocating curtailment of production.

The victory however, was not a complete rout for the anti-prorationists. The question of proration may be submitted to a popular vote of the people under a resolution pending in the house of representatives.

Although rumblings of an active minority opposing proration are heard, conservation laws remain on the statute books and the curb order continues in effect.

The uncertainty of the status of proration was set aside this week when the legislative oil and gas committee recommended the present proration structure be retained. The committee found no evidence of widespread curb violations.

Report Attacked

The report was attacked on the floor of the house by R. C. Blocker, McCurdin county representative, who branded it "another Wickersham report." He said he would file the "true facts of the proration question" next week.

Added to the weight of the committee's approval of proration was the power of the administration leaders of Gov. W. H. Murray who

CHECK FOR $3.50 BRINGS PAYEE $50

BOULDER CITY, Nev., March 21. (INS)—The first pay check issued to a workman on the Hoover dam project today brought its payee $50 instead of the $3.50 which was written on its face.

A curio seeker chased the workman to the First State bank and obtained the pay check, which was for one day's work, as a souvenir of the world's biggest irrigation dam.

Ships Carrying Viking Survivors Tied Up by Huge Blocks of Ice And Relief Plane Unable to Take Off

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 21. (AP)—Great blocks of ice, jammed in White Bay by a westerly wind made it impossible today for ships carrying survivors of the Viking disaster to budge.

The Sagona, with 110 of the rescued aboard, was blocked in hummocks five miles off Horse Island, unable to make the slightest progress toward St. John's, where the injured men might ease themselves in hospital beds.

With navigation impossible, the slim hope of finding any of the 26 men now missing was fixed on aviation.

Plane Overloaded

He found he had more weight than the plane could handle. The machine later was placed in a hangar at the St. Johns airport for the night. Balchen said he wanted to make Newfoundland in one hop, having lightened the plane to a satisfactory load weight. Only an emergency, Balchen said, would bring him down after a daybreak takeoff, before sighting Newfoundland.

Balchen planned to cruise over the ice wastes in the hope that Varick Frissell, New York moving picture producer, and others of the missing might still be alive.

No plane could land on the jagged ice, but boats might be able to break through if the wind shifted and the airman located any survivors.

ARDMORE JURY FREES FORMER COUNTY JUDGE TRIED FOR KILLING WIFE

ARDMORE, Okla., March 21. (AP)—A district court jury tonight acquitted A. J. Hardy, accused of murder in the fatal shooting of his wife last November.

The jury was out only about an hour and a half, taking the case at 9:32 p. m., and returning at 11:25 p. m. Hardy was formerly a Carter county judge and county attorney.

Mrs. Hardy was killed while on a hunting trip with her husband in the Newport neighborhood of south Carter county.

Hardy, telling between sobs on the witness stand today the story of how she died, claimed that a shot gun he had just placed in their automobile was fired into her body accidentally when Mrs. Hardy's foot slipped off the clutch and the machine jerked forward.

The prosecution sought to show that Hardy had been intimate with a former stenographer in his law office and produced in the testimony snapshots which the state claimed to have been taken in the nude. Hardy asserted the two wore gray bathing suits when the pictures were taken and that his wife was present.

Kilgore Operators Plan to Fight Proration Through Court in Event Order Made After Austin Hearing

AUSTIN, March 21. — Lawyers were preparing court pleadings here, it became known Saturday, to file an injunction suit against its enforcement if the railroad commission at its hearing here Wednesday orders proration of the new Kilgore East Texas oil field. The suit would be filed in district court here.

Oil men having interests in the Kilgore field said preparations are being made to carry the fight through to the supreme court and unless railroad proration is stricken down to ask the United States supreme court to intervene to prevent what they termed confiscation of the enormous East Texas oil pool.

CARDIFF, Wales, March 21. (AP)—Peace was assured today in the coal mining district of South Wales by a decision of a conference of miners' delegates to continue work under the recent arbitration award, which reduced wages 14 cents a day. The vote was 787 to 767.

Efforts will now be made to obtain minimum wage legislation for miners.

CAPONE HENCHMAN SUSPECT IN MANY SLAYINGS KILLED

CHICAGO, March 31. (AP)—Gangland assassins caught up with Johnny Cenaro tonight. Police found the body of the Capone henchman, shot seven times, in an Normal avenues.

Genaro had been suspected of killing Frankie Uale, Brooklyn gang leader, whose slaying in 1928 has proved a puzzle of New York police, and of shooting James Belcastro, bomber and terrorist.

Eastern authorities investigating the Uale killing came to Chicago and questioned Genaro at length, but apparently had insufficient evidence to make a case against him, and he was released.

Uale once was associated with Capone, and underworld rumor had it the two had a falling out. Soon after, Uale was killed. Genaro was known as a supervisor of Capone's Calumet City beer business.

One theory was that Genaro might have been implicated in the slaying of "Wild Bill" Rooney, a west side labor leader, earlier this week. Police also said Genaro may have been slain by some surviving member of the old Moran-Aiello-Zuta combine.

Genaro and Tony (Mops) Volpe, Capone gunner awaiting deportation to Italy, had attempted to kidnap Zuta. He frustrated it, and soon after Genaro was ambushed and seriously wounded, ostensibly by members of the Zuta gang.

the anti-proration germ, its future bearing on other sections of the state was fully discussed.

T. F. Hunter made his bow to the association as president in an address in which he told his hearers a number of interesting happenings at the state capitol from which place he has just returned. Mr. Hunter also spoke in the highest terms of the untiring efforts of Bob Long, representative from this district in favor of the pipe line, marginal well and divorcement bill now pending before the legislature.

J. S. Bridwell, one of the largest producers in the new East Texas field, in a brief address said that despite his heavy investments in the field, he favored strict proration, not only in that area but in every field of the state.

Before closing the meeting President Hunter spoke on the various phases of taxation, and later an executive committee was named to attend the hearing in Austin Tuesday. The committee is composed of T. F. Hunter, chairman; J. S. Bridwell, O. O. Franklin, John F. O'Donohoe, L. H. Cullum, C. A. King, D. H. Bolin, P. B. Flynn and T. H. Peery.

In addition to the committee many other oil men of the district are expected to attend this important hearing.

East Texas Problem

DALLAS, March 21. (AP)—Robert R. Penn, chairman of the Texas central proration committee, predicted here today that the price of oil, which has dropped rapidly within the last few months, would go as low as 10 cents a barrel within a month unless proration were put into effect in the new East Texas field. Without proration in East Texas, he said, other fields would no longer "hold the umbrella" for East Texas.

Already the loss to East Texas producers due to the low price of crude has been about $600,000, Penn asserted—oil which should have brought a price of 75 to 80 cents a barrel has been selling for 40 cents or less. On a total production of about 1,200,000 barrels, he said, the loss had assumed large proportions.

"Reports from Henderson say I was quoted as having declared that outlets for East Texas to be recommended by the proration committee would be 30,000 barrels," said Penn. "This is absolutely untrue. The railroad commission has not yet met, the meeting being scheduled for next Tuesday, and we of the Texas central proration committee have not received the pipeline nominations. Also, we have not formulated any recommendations to the railroad commission and will not do so, before the hearing in Austin. Agitators in East Texas against proration repeatedly have tried to make it appear that the central proration committee is trying to throttle East Texas.

"This is an entirely false conception. The committee has no power whatever to fix outlets and acts only in an advisory capacity for the best working out of a common purchaser act which provides that there must be no discrimination between the purchasers in any field and no unjust or unreasonable discrimination between the various fields of the state."

NO THREATENING LETTER RECEIVED SAYS MAYOR WALKER OF NEW YORK

LOS ANGELES, March 21. (UP)—Mayor James Walker, of New York, in a long distance telephone conversation with the United Press, denied late today that he had received any threatening letter and that guards had been placed about the Untermeyer estate to protect his life.

The United Press learned from Mayor Walker that the rumor that he had received a letter ordering him to get out of the country "or we'll fix you" was entirely unfounded.

"I have received no threatening letters and have placed no guard about the place," the mayor declared.

Poli Negri Returning To Lots in Hollywood After Long Retirement

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 21. (AP)—One of the greatest "front page personalities" Hollywood has ever known, Pola Negri, is coming back to the scene of her silent picture triumphs to see if the talkies will be as kind to her.

The lovely Pola born Appolonia Chalupez, whose sea green eyes, ebony hair and firm white skin gave her an unusual beauty, left here three years ago because of a dispute with executives of Paramount studio in which no compromise could be reached. She still was a star of the first rank—her income was $9,000 a week—when she retired to her chateau in France.

But she was not in retirement so far as public interest was concerned; her divorce from Prince Mdivani, among other things, kept her in the public eye.

At various times during her three years here she was reported engaged to many men, Charlie Chaplin, Rod Larocque, Rudolph Valentino and Prince Mdivani being the most prominent.

Friend of Czarina

When she was 15, Pola entered the Imperial Ballet school in St. Petersburg and became a friend of the czarina. Two years later she made her stage debut in Warsaw. After several years on the stage she went to work for the Ufa Film company in Berlin.

Negri was not temperamental although she was the despair of studio executives. Instructions meant nothing to her—she did as she pleased. She was not "starry" nor upstage; she was as friendly with the messenger boys as she was with royalty, her friend recalled when it became known she was returning to Hollywood in April.

Pola had one strange hobby; the collecting. She brought trees, big trees, to her Beverly Hills estate from all over the country. Once she paid $25,000 to have two Italian cypress trees transplanted to her yard from northern California. And she was superstitious. On the first day of a new picture she always had a baby pig on the set. Just before going into her first scene, she held it in her arms for a few minutes. Then she was sure the picture would be a good one.

And it usually was, though what the pig had to do with it no one ever has determined.

BILL WOULD CUT WICHITA TAXES

its showing of bonds affected by the state assumption plans.

The nine counties in this senatorial district have issued bonds totaling $10,735,0000, of which $8,862,000 are now outstanding. Wichita county has nearly one-fourth of the outstanding bonds of the district. The nine counties are Wichita, Hardeman, Foard, Knox, Wilbarger, Baylor, Archer, Young and Clay.

Wichita ranks high among Texas counties in her road bond indebtedness and has one of the best systems of pavements in the state as a result. It is one of the few counties with five cardinal highways paved from the county seat to the county line.

Another feature is the fact that most of the pavement in this county is new concrete, while in many counties the paving is of an old type that is wearing badly.

Tax Reductions

AUSTIN, March 21. (UP)—Reductions in county taxes were anticipated today by the citizens committee on good roads as it launched a state-wide campaign for a constitutional amendment designed to lift $85,000,000 from the county tax rolls, which has been expended in the construction of state highways.

The support of Gov. Ross Sterling and civic organizations all over the state has been assured the committee.

"The amendment is needed," said R. T. Stuart, of Harlingen, addressing the committee, "and is one of the greatest tax relief measures ever presented to the state."

"Most of our future road building will be taken care of by the gasoline tax," he said.

BORAH DEMANDS AN EXTRA SESSION

known congress would never have adjourned without enacting some general relief measures."

Senator Connally of Texas, in commenting on Lamont's announcement said:

Figures Staggering

"The figures are staggering. They mean that at least 20,000,000 persons are directly affected. That's the answer to the glowing talk of the tariff bill to bring back prosperity. It is also an answer to the administration's talk about improving conditions and that the situation would cure itself."

Senator Watson, however, took an optimistic view of the situation generally. He returned today from a trip to Chicago where he said he found business men in a happier frame of mind, which he attributed to the fact that congress has adjourned.

While it is doubtful that President Hoover would call a special session unless conditions became acute it is known that he is concerned about the wheat situation resulting from the farm board's policy or huge purchases which has piled up 220,000,000 bushels.

The president discussed this matter with Senators Borah, Watson and McNary of Oregon, before departing for his cruise in the Caribbean.

BENEDICTINE MONKS CELEBRATE FOUNDING OF ABBEY IN 529 A. D.

PROHIBITIONISTS IN OKLAHOMA VICTORS

asked that the present system limiting Oklahoma production to 500,000 barrels daily be continued pending outcome of the oil states conference at Washington March 30 and the committee meeting with the federal oil conservation commission April 9.

Cicero Murray, chairman of the oil states advisory committee, believes that with Mid-Continent states presenting a united front in favor of proration, negotiations with major importing companies to limit imports will be more successful.

Watch East Texas

The crux of the problem, oil men believe, is with Texas authorities and operators. Proration can not endure, Oklahoma operators contend if the new flush pools of East Texas are not prorated.

While efforts of oil states governors to stabilize the oil industry has been approved by many citizens and officials, the move is not without strong opposition.

The current issue of the Oil and Gas Journal, published at Tulsa, says "reliance upon official assistance has proved a rotten reed."

"A year of agitation brought nothing from congress but a resolution for an investigation, that time worn panacea for everything," the editorial says.

"In California the legislature was induced to pass a law which was carried through the courts for over a year and finally found to be of dubious value. In Texas the resort to legislation has provoked a flood of bills mostly designed to harass the industry. In Oklahoma—but why mention that? The oil man in this state must feel like the spectator at the three ring circus who tried to watch all the performers at once. All he got was a crick in the neck."

FORMER AMARILLO MAN SENTENCE TO FROM FIVE TO TEN YEARS IN PRISON

DENVER, March 21. (AP)—S. R. McCorkle, formerly of Amarillo, Texas, convicted recently of obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with stock and bond sales of the J. A. Land and Cattle company, was sentenced today to five to 10 years in the state penitentiary. Misrepresentations of land holdings by the company were charged against McCorkle. A motion for a new trial was filed.

MOVE MADE TO AID DAIRYMEN

duced at a loss. A number of dairymen, it was added, either are not financially able, or produce in too small quantities, to purchase a separator of their own.

To Purchase Gilts

Mr. McGown reported at the outset of the meeting that he has been in communication with a Fort Worth concern which is willing to supply purebred gilts to dairymen, taking notes of those purchasers whom the county farm agent recommends. The notes will be payable next fall, he said. Skim milk, left after the cream has been separated, would form the principal food of the gilts, it was explained.

Several of those present expressed their desire to make the purchases suggested. Mr. McGown announced, however, that a complete and definite report as to terms will be made at a meeting of the association, to be held next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the courthouse.

Charges were made during the meeting that some of the creameries here have been following the practice of importing large quantities of butter from out of town communities and then putting it in packages designed to indicate that it was produced in Wichita.

"I feel that this association should find out whether these charges are true, and that we then should inform the public as to any concern which follows that practice," Mr. Greer declared. "The local dairymen has the sympathy of the consuming public in this fight, and I believe would boycott any dealer following such a practice."

Mr. Greer urged further that the darymen of the county must cooperate if they are to obtain a fair price for their products.

"The dairyman does not take a radical attitude," he continued. "All he wants, and he is entitled to it, is a fair price for his product. He doesn't want to harm anyone, nor does he want to put any one out of business. But we never will be able to be certain of a fair profit for our efforts unless we work together."

Cooperation Urged

Mr. Riley, explaining methods that have been adopted by dairymen in Oklahoma City, declared that the milk producers should unite and market all their products together.

"The milk producer should place himself in position to tell the purchaser what the price of milk is to be from day to day," Mr. Riley said. "That price should cover expenses and allow a profit. If the creameries do not see fit to meet the price, then the dairyman should be prepared to distribute his product himself."

W. K. Bandy declared that published quotations on prices paid for milk here have been in error, and that the producer has received less than has been indicated. On his motion, Mr. McGown was asked to supply the newspapers once each week with the prices actually received by the milk producers for their products.

W. A. Bandy and Charles Carson both declared that the dairyman here must look forward to the time when the association will operate its own creamery.

LIFE SENTENCE OF CONVICTED SLAYER OF WIFE AFFIRMED

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 21. (UP)—The life penitentiary sentence given A. L. Walker in Okfuskee county in the murder of his wife was affirmed today by the criminal court of appeals.

Mrs. Walker's body was found in a well near her home. Walker contended she accidentally fell into the well and was killed by the fall.

Testimony showed Walker had paid a premium on a health and accident insurance policy of $1,000 on Mrs. Walker two months before her death.

The court affirmed the 15-year term given Roy Trainer in Dewey county when he was convicted on a charge of an offense against a 14-year-old girl.

The three-year sentence given Earl Perrin of Pottawatomie county when he was found guilty of an offense against a woman was affirmed. Perrin was found guilty of attempting to assault a 11-year-old girl.

Other opinions included:

Neeley Jackson and W. T. Corban, Pontotoc county, each a year in jail and $1,000 fine for libel, affirmed.

Early Penley, Pottawatomie county, six months in jail and $500 fine for possession of liquor. Sentence affirmed but modified to 60 days in jail and $200 fine.

CHARGE PRINCE AUGUST SAVAGELY MANHANDLED BY NATIONAL SOCIALISTS

KOENIGSBERG, Germany, March 21. (INS)—The charge that Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former kaiser and a strong supporter of the German Fascist cause, was set upon by policemen and savagely manhandled was made by National Socialist (Fascist) spokesmen here today.

The attack, it was charged, occurred when the prince was about to board a train with Joseph Goebbels, Berlin lieutenant of Adolf Hitler, leader of the Fascist party.

The charges declared that the prince was beaten with nightsticks and sent on his way with lusty kicks.

Prince August told International News Service he had been struck "over the shoulder, on the left part of my head, on the ear and on my arm."

FOUR DEPUTIES HELD FOR DOUBLE SHOOTING

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 21. (AP)—Four sheriff's deputies who halted a mail truck last Sunday while seeking a liquor runner, precipitating a gun battle in which the truck driver and a deputy were killed, were charged with murder in warrants sworn out today.

A. P. Gardner, a friend of Lup Roberts, 29, the truck driver swore out the warrants.

Meanwhile, the grand jury reported it had insufficient evidence upon which to base presentments in the deaths of Roberts and W. P. Starling, the deputy.

Roberts, who apparently believed he was being held up, shot Starling and was killed by return fire from the other deputies.

Story to Manage Branch Office of United Fidelity

Fred L. Story, formerly city manager of the National Security Life Insurance company, which has been merged with the United Fidelity Life Insurance company of Dallas, will have the management of the branch office of the company in Wichita Falls. The offices in the Perkins-Snider building will be continued as the branch headquarters, states Mr. Story.

Mr. Story came to Wichita Falls in 1927, having engaged in the insurance business in Sulphur Springs. Last week he rounded out 20 years in the insurance business. In the decision to establish a branch office in Wichita Falls it was done for the purpose of providing policyholders with prompt service, also for collection of premiums. The company will keep balances in Wichita Falls banks.

The United Fidelity of Dallas, since merging with the National Security, has assets of over $3,000,000 and insurance in force is in excess of $40,000,000, states Mr. Story. In merging the companies several officers and directors of the National Security are placed on the board of the United Fidelity. Charles I. Francis, who was president of the National Security, has been chosen as a vice president. W. M. McGregor, N. H. Martin and L. H. Cullum of Wichita Falls, have been added as directors, as well as Daniel Bond of Vernon, and Fred Chamberlain of Clarendon.

"Our new company will be in much better condition to serve the policyholders than we have in the past," states Mr. Story. "I am pleased that I will be able to continue my residence in Wichita Falls and take an active interest in the development of the city and Northwest Texas."

LIQUOR RUNNERS HAD SHORE 'CONTACT' WITH HIGH-POWERED RADIO

NEW BEFORD, Mass., March 21. (INS)—Liquor running vessels all over the Atlantic had a shore "contact" with a highpowered radio and receiving set located in the upper flat of a three-story tenement house here, according to revelations by members of a squad of 12 federal agents following the arrest of two men and the seizure of the radio apparatus today.

Harmon Ogden Winston of New York City, a licensed radio operator and graduate of the Radio institute of New York, was charged with violating the federal radio act and was held in $4,000 bonds for a hearing before Federal Commissioner George E. Lilley, on April 15.

Later John Grace, 19, son of the woman who hired and occupied the flat, was arrested and held in $1,000 bond on charges of aiding and abetting Winston.

Federal agents said that the tenement house station had been detected talking with liquor smuggling vessels in Canadian and Bermuda waters as well as along the entire Atlantic seaboard, from Florida to Maine. The set, they said, was capable of talking with vessels in European waters.

WEWOKA, Okla., March 21. (UP)—George Shaw, 50, Evansville, Ind., was held here today on burglary charges. His bond was set at $3,000. He was arrested at Seminole by Patrolman Cliff Kiersey.

The speakers and their subjects were: "The Child Health Conference," Mary Emily Gilbert; "Freedom for the Philippines," Truett Rivers; "The Rockefeller Radio City," Darline Henson; "Is Prohibition a Failure?" Legal Games of Chance Run Wild State of Nevada

RENO, Nevada, March 21. (AP)—With legal games of chance running full speed ahead, Nevada appeared today to be emerging from its past and living again the lively times of which in recent years it has just reminesced.

Various gambling establishments formerly operated surreptitiously were crowded with three card monte, faro bank, keno, five ball, roulette, twenty-one, craps and chuck-a-luck holding forth in the open as of yore.

Rumors fly about Reno with the wings of old-time gold strike reports.

"Las Vegas is going to build a big race track and casino right on the outskirts of town, the Cal-Neva lodge is going to put a gambling boat on Lake Tahoe and catch all the trade from California—they'll play in California waters and when a police boat approaches scoot for the Nevada side of the lake."

The reports cause Reno to fear the "biggest little city in the world" is going to meet competition which will rob it of its share in the expected influx of persons attracted by the lifting of the lid.

"Nothing to the Cal-Neva report," the chief owner of the famous resort said. "No more of my money goes into Cal-Neva, the season's too short." But the rumors persist.

THREE KANSAS STUDENTS FACING LIQUOR CHARGES

LAWRENCE, Kan., March 21. (INS)—Three University of Kansas students are in the Douglas county jail today facing charges of transportation and possession of liquor. They were arrested early today by Lawrence police.

When arrested two of the youths gave their names as James Roberts and Tommy Wilson. Later, however, officers at the jail said the youths are Frank H. Tuke, 21, Pittsburg, a special student in the school of engineering; Morven Curran, 20, Kansas City, and Hugh L. McClure, 18, Pittsburg.

County Attorney Harry Frazee said he would charge the students with transportation and possession of liquor. The car in which they were riding was confiscated.

FATHER OF SLAIN GIRL FACES TRIAL FOR MAN'S DEATH

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 21. (AP)—More than 40 witnesses, including Robert L. Williams, University of Texas sophomore who was nobilled by a grand jury several weeks ago in connection with the fatal shooting of Miss Elizabeth Johnson of Port Arthur, have been summoned to appear in district court here Monday for the trial of A. B. Johnson, the girl's father, charged with killing Ottis L. Adams there recently.

The Williams youth, in a statement to officers and newspaper men, had claimed Miss Johnson was shot while sitting in his automobile, when he went into a church to ask the pastor to intercede in a lover's quarrel between the couple. Williams claimed a young married man was being attentive to Miss Johnson.

Adams, who had been estranged from his wife, was shot as he entered a cleaning and pressing establishment in Port Arthur, a few weeks after Miss Johnson's death.

UNMISTAKABLE SIGNS OF SPRING APPARENT HERE ON OFFICIAL OPENING DAY OF NEW SEASON

Father bought a spade and some onion sets Saturday, all unmindful of the fact that nobody in the family eats onions, that he ought to be careful about that old ache in his back and that there are some garden tools he bought last year that are still down in the cellar. He's going to plant a garden anyhow.

Mother locked the family out and put the maid through her paces. Rugs were beaten, floors were scrubbed, furniture was dusted, new draperies were hung, and orders were given to the boys about using the new guest towels. And if a sandstorm comes up Monday—well, she'll have the pleasure of doing it all over again on Tuesday.

Big sister spent the afternoon and three-fourths of father's weekly salary on a new Easter outfit—a two-tone ensemble with a large rough straw hat, long gloves, light-colored shoes and all the fixin's.

And little brother got his annual cocktail—sulphur and molasses—partially alleviated by the fact that mother gave him permission to doff his "longies."

Saturday was a big day, in other words—for spring arrived!

RELEASED ON $5,000 BOND ON CHARGE OF ASSAULT

WEWOKA, Okla., March 21. (UP)—W. M. Emery, 23, Wister, was at liberty on $5,000 bond today after a charge of assault with intent to kill had been filed against him.

He was charged in the shooting of Elmer Pinkston, wounded in the arm in a scuffle with Emery at a Seminole apartment house.

PLAGIARISM CHARGED IN $2,000,000 SUIT AGAINST FOX FILMS

PARIS, Ark., March 21. (AP)—Suit for $2,000,000 against the Fox Film corporation, charging plagiarism, was filed in circuit court here today by T. J. Wear of Paris.

He charged the picture "The Big Trail," was based largely on his book, "Liberty and Freedom, or Out of the Mountains of the East Into the Golden West."

Wear, an attorney, charged the plagiarism to Hal G. Everetts, upon whose novel "The Shaggy Trail" the Fox picture supposedly was based.

LEGISLATURE ENJOYS REST FROM LABORS

Decision Affecting Local Laws Causes Consternation

BELIEVED SPECIAL TERM LEGISLATURE NECESSARY

Seek to Repay Counties For Roads Without State Bond Issue

AUSTIN, Texas, March 21. (AP)—The legislative halls were quiet today as tired law makers took one of their two days of rest, anticipating much work scheduled for next week.

Meanwhile, as the legislature gained momentum for the finish, there came a decision from the supreme court Wednesday telling it and Texas that approximately 2,000 general laws with local application were unconstitutional. The decision caused consternation, some legislators believing it would require a special session to re-enact the bills into constitutional law.

Although the $200,000,000 state highway bond issue was due to come up in the senate about midweek, Senator Woodul of Houston, co-author, declined to take it from the table, where it had been placed subject to call because of the absence of Senators Stevenson of Victoria and Holbrook, Galveston.

Proposed Bond Issue

Meanwhile, as the bond issue's zero hour approached and passed with no action taken, opponents were retrenching against the proposed constitutional amendment by getting favorable reports on two bills which would retire the bonded indebtedness of counties without floating a highway bond issue. The house highway and motor traffic committee gave a favorable report to a bill by Representative Stevenson of Junction asking that the state set aside funds to retire the outstanding bonded indebtedness of counties which had contributed funds to state highway building projects. The house committee on revenue and taxation reported out favorably a bill by Rrepresentative Brooks of Bagwell asking that the counties be given one-fourth of the gas tax with which to retire their outstanding bonded indebtedness.

Another move to cut down the number of bond elections was embodied in a resolution by Representative Anderson of San Antonio asking an amendment to the constitution to require tax payers to render their taxes before being qualified to vote in such elections.

The house engrossed the resolution.

Bustle With Activity

The legislative week got away with a program bustling with activity. Conservation of oil and natural resources continued to creep into the legislative limelight throughout the week. Opened Monday by a message from Gov. Ross S. Sterling suggesting the creation of a special oil conservation commission, the matter was under discussion most of the week.

Following the governor's recommendations, both houses put into their hoppers bills asking the legislature to creat the state oil conservation commission.

Mid-week saw the introduction of a resolution by Senators Pollard of Tyler and Parrish of Lubbock asking the legislature to appoint a special committee to work with similar committees from Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Kansas, California and Wyoming in the interests of oil and gas conservation.

Home Rule Resolution

The house engrossed a resolution by Representative Beck of Fort Worth asking that the constitution be amended so that city and county governments in counties of 60,000 and more might operate under home rule, or consolidated city and county government. The house likewise engrossed a resolution by Representative Moffett of Chillicothe, asking that the constitution be amended to limit counties up to 500,000 to five seats in the house of representatives.

Committee meetings continued on a big scale, although the 60-day period had ended. Committees this week reported out favorably bills drawn to divorce the retailing end of the gasoline business from producing, refining and transportation and to limit pipe line companies to an earning of 10 per cent.

The senate committe on criminal jurisprudence reported out unfavorably a bill by Representative Weinert of Seguin asking that liquor law violators over the age of 25 be extended the right to a suspended sentence. Proponents of the bill gave notice of a minority report.

Prince Arrives In Montevideo Minus Topcoat

MONTEVIDEO, March 21. (AP)—Minus his topcoat, which he lost before leaving Buenos Aires, and wearing a flannel shirt something like a lumberjack's, the Prince of Wales accompanied by Prince George, landed here this afternoon in a hydroairplane.

Immediately after landing they began keeping a series of appointments on a program that was to occupy every minute of their time until their departure for Brazil early Sunday morning.

When the princes arrived at the hydroairplane camp at Buenos Aires to take off for this capital, Prince George was dressed in the pink of fashion but the Prince of Wales had donned a grey suit and grey flannel shirt. He was carrying his hat and was without a topcoat. When the loss of the topcoat was discovered at the last moment, a launch was sent back to the ramp where a pile of flying coats was stacked. None of these proved to be the prince's, however, and none was available from the aviators who owned them. So his highness, in spite of the chilly weather, left coatless in the plane.

FLASHES Of LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY—Senorita Toreadora! Girls will try to kill bulls in the ring Sunday.

NEW YORK—She has soared higher in a plane than any other woman but she's afraid on high buildings. Miss Ruth Nichols tells about it in a magazine. Swift moving elevators and roller coasters also give her the jitters.

WASHINGTON—The White House belongs to Joan Hoover, six months old. Her grandfather is at sea. Her grandmother is in the mountains. Her father and mother are in the South. Her uncle is at Harvard. She lies in the nursery and demands her hot milk on time.

NEW DELHI, India.—Mahatma Gandhi numbers his autographs by the hairs of his head. American tourists beseiged him after an open air prayer session for his signature and his picture. "You might as well have asked for a lock of my hair," he said. He is bald.

BUENOS AIRES—Prince George likes mint juleps. He quaffed at the American club.

OTTAWA, Ontario.—The white man's law interferes with Eskimo standards of filial duty. The annual report of the Canadian mounted police gives an instance. A 70-year-old native commanded his two sons to strangle him so life would not become a burden. Warned by authorities, they disobeyed him and he died a natural death. But the Eskimos wouldn't believe it.

BERKELEY, Calif.—"Lost: Lady star C of the constellation of Cancer. Please communicate with Lord Star C." Dr. Maud W. Makemson, astronomer, has issued this call for a celestial body she can't find in her telescope. The lady is hanging around somewhere. "Thousands of stars have mates," she says, "and like people they don't like to be single."

Bogus Count Held By Berlin Police For Bogus Checks

BERLIN, March 21. (INS)—Boris Dobreczinski, whom police charge with posing as Count Dobreczinski and passing worthless checks on American banks, was arrested here today and held for further investigation.

Dobreczinski came to Germany a month ago from the United States. In his company when he was arrested was an American girl who gave the name of Eugenia Jeanne Mourey, 18, a student, who said her home was in St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Mourey asked the American consulate in Berlin for aid, following Dobreczinski's arrest, saying she was penniless and desired to send a cable to her parents in St. Louis. The consul asked her to return later today, but at a late hour she had not done so.

Police say Dobreczinski, who was born in Leningrad, Russia, is an old offender, they have records of his having posed in Berlin in 1906 as Prince Von Magarin.

Dobreczinski lived for six months in West Ninety-sixth Street, New York, before coming here. When arrested, police said, he boasted he had 400 pounds of santonin, an anthelminthic drug, stored in a warehouse in New York, and that this was worth $40,000.

On the basis of this statement police began an investigation of the circumstances of his possessing such an amount of this drug.

NO TRACE FOUND OF AMERCIAN AVIATORS MISSING IN PACIFIC

MANILA, March 21. (AP)—A search by the army and navy had yielded no trace today of Glenn W. Brophy, Los Angeles aviator, missing since he left Macao, China, on a 600-mile flight to Manila three days ago.

Two army planes which flew over the Batanes islands and the sea north of Luzon in the belief he might have landed in that vicinity returned to Manila this afternoon. Three destroyers, which left yesterday for Pratas Reef, reported they were returning after a fruitless search. Three destroyers and two aircraft carriers, together with navy airplanes returned from the vicinity of Lingayen gulf, Northern Luzon.

Virtually all hope had vanished for F. A. Diekhoff, representative of a New York business house, and William F. Scott of Manila, who have been missing since March 9 when they started a flight from Surigao, northern Mindanao island to Davao about two hours distant.

POLICE UNABLE TO ESTABLISH CAUSE MAN'S FATAL FALL

DALLAS, March 21. (AP)—Edmond J. Jares, 35, formerly of West and of San Antonio, was killed today when he fell through a glass window and screen from the second floor of the Bower hotel. Police tonight had been unable to learn the cause of his fall.

Officers said the room from which he fell was not occupied and his clothes were found in his own room. Relatives wired authorities here that they would arrive tomorrow or Monday to make funeral arrangements and aid in the investigation of his death. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. R. Jares, San Antonio; and two brothers, J. J. Jares of San Antonio and William Jares of West.

Jares visited police headquarters yesterday to talk with old acquaintances and went to the emergency hospital for treatment of an attack of indigestion. He had been here several days.

HOOVER ENJOYS SHIP VACATION

Saturday Busiest Day Of Trip for President

U. S. S. ARIZONA, March 21. (AP)—Cheers for President Hoover reverberated today from the throats of 800 gobs in white, massed in the forecastle of the warship Arizona.

The president, bound on the overhauled fighting vessel for Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands on an informal holiday, waved his panama hat in a smiling response.

The sailors had been grouped for a picture after an inspection of the crew by President Hoover. Crowded into the forecastle they covered six 14-inch guns and their turrets. The band played "Anchors Aweigh" as the picture was taken.

Then Captain Freeman called for cheers for "our commander-in-chief" and from the sailors came three lusty hurrahs.

Today was the busiest of Mr. Hoover's trip, which began Thursday morning and will be punctuated early Monday by a landing at Ponce, P. R.

The destroyer Du Pont arrived alongside the Arizona at 2:30 p. m. and passed into its position without ceremony, relieving the Taylor, which is returning to Norfork. President Hoover was taking a nap during the shift of the destroyer escort. Later he spent some time on the aft-deck under the shade of an airplane wing, Reading.

Dr. Joel T. Boone, presidential physician, reported that the trip was benefiting Mr. Hoover's health.

"No work yet," said the president, free from the strain of his daily executive tasks for the first time since he took office. Story telling was the order of the day. Some of the members of the presidential party are invited to have dinner with Mr. Hoover each night, after which everybody attends the talkies on the deck.

TEACHERS COLLEGE FOR MERIDIAN OPPOSED BY RESIDENTS OF BOSQUE

AUSTIN, March 21. (AP)—Senator Poage of Waco received today a petition signed by 150 Bosque county citizens protesting against the establishment of a teachers college at Meridan.

The signers stated they did not need a college because there were 20 educational institutions within a radius of 100 miles of Meridan. The petition also said territory was being satisfactory served by the Clifton Junior college, a school which was established 34 years ago.

There is a bill now pending in the legislature asking the creation of the Central State Teachers college.

'GREEN PASTURES' STAR AWARDED SPINGARN MEDAL FOR OUTSTANDING WORK

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—On the stage of the theater where for more than a year he has played the role of Jehovah in "The Green Pastures," Richard B. Harrison, son of negro slaves, will receive tomorrow night the Spingarn medal, awarded each year for the outstanding achievement by a member of his race.

Harrison was born in 1864 in London, Ontario, the son of negro slaves who had escaped to Canada. The family later moved to Detroit, where he studied dramatic art while his father whitwashed sheds. Later the boy worked as a bellboy and pullman porter and did odd jobs, always saving money so that he could continue his studies.

AGRICULTURAL GROUPS TO CONSIDER PROPOSED PEDDLER LEGISLATION

Proposed legislation to further regulate peddling is to be considered at a joint meeting of the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce and directors of the Wichita Valley Growers association, to be held in the directors room of the chamber Monday morning at 10 o'clock, according to the announcement Saturday of J. N. Sherrill, chairman of the agricultural committee.

The agricultural committee is to consider the proposal that a recommendation be made to the board of directors of the chamber concerning the attitude of the organization toward the proposed measures.

MANY SEEK TO SHARE IN VAST WENDEL ESTATE WHILE MUSTY OLD WILL AWAITS PROBATION

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—A skeleton rattled macabre across the golden floor of the Wendel closet today; tapped complement to flesh and blood's swelling claims against a hundred million.

In Providence, R. I., a woman with a yellowed slip of paper implied a secret marriage, a secret birth; a Baltimore brother and sister pressed their efforts to prove a distant relationship; a Wendel in Jeffersonville, Ind., reached to by-gone times in Germany for collateral connection.

Meanwhile, the will of Miss Ella Wendel, supposed last of one of America's richest and most eccentric families, lay musty in the safe of the family's lawyer. It is expected to be offered for probate shortly.

The woman in Providence—Mrs. Mabel Hayward—claims she is the daughter of John Gottlieb Wendel Jr., son of the man who founded the Wendel fortune in the fur business as contemporary of John Jacob Astor.

Wendel, last man of the line, died in 1915. He was graduated from Columbia university, set up in business in Albany and a year later—so the Hayward claim—married Hannah Holt at East Greenwich, Conn.

Hannah Holt died when she gave birth to a daughter. The elder Wendel called his son home, had the baby placed in a private family. Thus, Mrs. Hayward's story.

The yellowed slip of paper purports to be the marriage certificate.

All that is known publicly about the life of John Gottlieb Wendel Jr. is tht he carried on his father's policy of "buy but never sell Manhattan real estate," that he kept his six sisters in seclusion, frowned on marriage for them, disapproved of any social life.

Alexander Wendel in Jeffersonville, Ind., claims his grandfather was kin by blood to John Gottlieb Wendel Sr., and he was preparing to trace the lineage back to an age before the Wendel family emmigrated from Germany.

The claims of August Soop, theater handy man, and his sister, Jennie in Baltimore, were based on a Wendel quarter in their coat of arms; a visit to Miss Ella at her frowning, barred and shuttered Fifth avenue home, and German ancestry.

The Wendel fortune was willed to charity, it was believed.

Legislative Committee Intimates Changes Will Be Recommended In Joliet Prison Parole Board System

JOLIET, Ill., March 21. (UP)—Responsibility for riots at Joliet and Stateville prisons was placed upon the state parole board today by two prison chapiains who testified before the legislative investigating committee.

Rev. Elijius Weir, Catholic chaplain, testified that months ago he observed growing unrest among the convicts and warned the parole board that if riots occurred it would be "your fault."

Rev. George L. Whitmeyer, Episcopal chaplain who recently resigned by request, said the parole board was principally to blame for the riots, which took the lives of three convicts and culminated Wednesday in incendiary fires that did $500,000 damage in Stateville.

It was strongly intimated the committee would recommend numerous changes in the parole board system, including a proposal that the board hold continuous sessions at Joliet instead of hearing parole and pardon applications only once a month.

Warden Henry C. Hill, whose conduct of the prisons' administration was commended by the witnesses, revealed that 1,200 convicts locked in their cells as punishment for participation in the riots, created a bedlam last night in anger against 600 "privileged" rioting prisoners.

Otherwise, however, both Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries resumed normal routine, with the convicts again fed regularly, letter writing privileges restored, and extra guards gradually being withdrawn.

The priest said he was positive many prisoners were innocent men, but that such a possibility "never enters the heads of the board members." He gave the names of four men he believed were "framed into prison."

Weir assailed the board for asking the prisoners what religion they professed and charged that Catholic convicts were discriminated against.

Slipshod investigations by the board have resulted in a 100 per cent increase in parole violation cases, despite the fact the present board has reduced the number of paroles, Weir said.

Weir was preceded by Rev. Whitmeyer, who admitted he had resigned after he was accused of arranging a rendezvous with a woman prisoner.

Whitmeyer testified many convicts had complained to him of the parole board's handling of clemency applications. He told also of instances where he felt prisoners were unfairly subjected to solitary confinement for comparatively inconsequential offenses. One convict was punished thus because he absent-mindedly poured coffe on his bread, the minister said.

PASSENGERS SAFE AFTER LINER HITS REEF OFF CAMBRIA

GREENOCK, Scotland, March 21. (AP)—Two hundred passengers from the Canadian Pacific liner Montclare, including 20 mothers and their children, were brought here tonight from the little island of Cambria after the Montclare ran hard aground on a reef in the Firth of Clyde.

Bad Hole in Bow

GLASGOW, Scotland, March 21. (AP)—The Canadian Pacific liner Montclair, with a bad hole in her bow, lay fast on a reef off the little island of Cambrai in the Firth of Clyde tonight while her 200 passengers crowded the island cottages waiting to be brought to the mainland.

The liner struck the rocks in a dense fog today while she was bound for Greenock. She settled to a 45-degree list and it was feared she had been badly stove in. The crew remained aboard.

Tugs scuttled out to her assistance at the first word of her distress, but when it was found she was hard aground the boats were put over and the passengers loaded in. The tugs conveyed them to the island where it seemed likely they would have to remain overnight.

PETROLEUM GEOLOGISTS MEMBERSHIP NOW 2,500 LARGEST IN ITS HISTORY

SAN ANTONIO, March 21. (AP)—Membership in the American Association of Petroleum geologists is now slightly in excess of 2,500, the largest in its history, Sidney Powers, retiring president, reported at the concluding session of the 16th annual convention held here Saturday morning.

Attempts to designate the 1932 convention city Saturday were unavailable, both Oklahoma City and Kansas City being bidders for the privilege of entertaining the convention next year. A decision will be reached in the near future by the executive committee.

The Saturday morning session was concerned with discussion of the method of election of officers for next year, and a motion finally prevailed to have nominations made next year by mail ballot.

About 110 delegates left at midafternoon Saturday for Laredo and thence to Monterrey to return here Monday. Another group will leave by bus Sunday morning for a tour of the Marathon field and Edwards Plateau, including the spot near Helotes, Bexar county, where the famous balcones fault outcropping was discovered by Dr. C. T. Hill in 1884.

Testing Race Planes

PARIS.—France's fleet of six super-speed seaplanes, which are expected to participate in the forthcoming Schneider cup races in England this September, are to be tested for speed shortly. It is estimated that more than $500,000 has been spent on construction of these planes. It is expected that one of the six planes will eclipse the record of 355 miles an hour set by Major A. H. Orlebar in 1929.

SANTA FE BEGINS WORK ON BRIDGE NEAR O'BRIEN

O'BRIEN, Texas, March 21.—Material is on the ground and camps have been established for the construction of a new railroad bridge across the Brazos, just north of here. The new bridge, being constructed by the Santa Fe railroad, is to be a steel and concrete structure and will replace the old wooden bridge erected by the Orient railroad in 1907. The old bridge has been washed out almost annually since it was built.

TULSA CONCERN TO BUILD NEW $125,000 LONGVIEW REFINERY

LONGVIEW, Texas, March 21. (AP)—W. A. Geppelt, representative of the Slack Petroleum company of Tulsa, Okla., announced here today that a new crude oil refinery to handle East Texas production would be constructed here by the company within 60 days at a cost of $125,000. The plant will be of 2,500-barrel capacity.

Attorneys for the Slack company were engaged today in closing a deal for a site at Willow Springs, a new industrial site just west of Longview.

Geppelt said if construction were started at once, as planned, the plant would be completed within 40 to 60 days.

The refinery will handle a portion of the crude produced in the Gregg county fields, all of this oil now being shipped out in tank cars.

The East Texas Refining company was making final preparations to open its new refinery here within the next two weeks.

JUDGE BELCHER MAY BE HEAD OF NATIONAL WOOL MARKETING CORPORATION

SONORA, Texas, March 21. (UP)—Judge C. C. Belcher, Del Rio rancher, banker and attorney, was mentioned prominently today as the possible successor to Judge Roger Gillis, who resigned yesterday as president of the National Wool Marketing corporation.

Judge Belcher only recently declined a place on the Federal Land bank, but friends today predicted he would accept the presidency of the wool co-op.

Leaders in the mohair industry throughout this region today deplored the resignation of Judge Gillis, and joined him in denouncing C. B. Denman, livestock member of the federal farm board, whom they blamed for the recent mohair pool break which growers estimate cost goat raisers nearly $4,000,000.

"We tried for four weary days in Washington to persuade Denman to permit cooperative advance of 20 and 30 cents, and he stubbornly clung to 15 and 25 cents, despite the recent report of Jim Coon, farm board representative, who advised an advance of 22 and 32 cents after Denman sent him to Texas to investigate the mohair break," Judge Gillis asserted in a statement issued after his resignation.

CHOC HEMBREE DENIED PERMIT FOR REHEARING

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 21. (UP)—An application for leave to file a second petition for rehearing of the E. C. "Choc" Hembree case was denied today by the criminal court of appeals.

Hembree's death sentence was recently affirmed by the court and the first petition for rehearing was denied.

Hembree received the death sentence in Stephens county where he was convicted on a statutory charge in an assault upon a school teacher.

His execution has been set for April 17.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC

But it wasn't Jack who was waiting at the door when Sue hurried to answer the imperative ringing of the bell. It was Sarah Slade.

"Sue Merryman, if you don't look like a forgotten catnation from a funeral, I'll make up my mind to like my job! What in the world is the matter?" She followed Sue to the dining room.

"Nothing!"

Sarah's eyes opened wider. "Sue, if you are wasting any worry because Jack saw Barbara, stop it! It was business." Then she laughed softly. "Of course you aren't stupid enough to do that. You're afraid you implied that he wasn't a brilliant young attorney, aren't you? You didn't. Your fond and adoring eyes would have belied you . . . they can't keep secrets . . . and men will believe in the eye-sign every time."

"I've got a rotten headache," Sue answered, quite as Corrinne might have done. "And I'm scared to death for fear I said something to hurt him. Men like to believe that they know their stuff and Jack's sacrificed a lot for us. I'm just . . . dumb. I don't rate in brain power."

"Put on some rouge and snap out of it."

The other members of the family had eaten and were in the living room. Sue sat listening to Sarah drinking black coffee, and wondering if the telephone would ring.

Sarah laughed softly at last. "Sue, I'm glad you had some spunk! If the Lily Maid of Astolat had started to flirt with the gardener when Launcelot told her he had important business at the castle at Mamelot, it would have been better for her. And think of Dido, who let herself get burned to a crisp for Aeneas, and Cleopatra who got stung so badly with Anthony. Jack should have told you maybe you would see him sitting at a table for two some place in town but that he wouldn't be saying the things that go with tables of that dimension. Men are dumb."

But Sue wasn't cheerful. She started to put on her old dark blue dress and hat because they were softer and more appealing. Then she remembered that Corrinne had told her she would have changed her mind by morning, and put on the gay black and orange outfit instead. She felt better immediately. She had grace and poise and snap and dash in the ensemble. She was alluring, attractive. She had been these things in the other, but now they were raised to a higher degree.

She would apologize to Jack! She felt better when she had definitely made up her mind. Somehow she wasn't afraid to make amends backed by the new clothes.

Sarah went on to her hotel to attend to her breakfast duties, and after a while Sue found herself going to the courthouse in a taxicab with her mother. Her father had gone to consult some one a little earlier. Sue tried to think that this was the final day of the trial, perhaps. Surely, surely, surely something had to happen! Jack had neither eaten nor slept for the last three days. He had worked too hard . . . And she had scorned his work.

The taxicab swayed around a corner, and she saw the entrance to the building where the Thornton, Curtis and Thornton offices were. Judge Thornton came out as the taxicab swung past.

At the courthouse Sue's heart missed a beat or two as she entered the courtroom. Her blue eyes glanced around quickly, searching for Jack. She didn't see him. He had probably stepped out a minute. The court opened. Then a lawyer who had been assisting Jack leaned across and spoke to Sue.

"Mr. Thornton won't be able to make it this morning so I'm taking his place."

So Jack had taken her at her word!

DIVORCE GRANTED TO COLONEL ZACK MILLER

HARRISONBURG, La., March 21. (UP)—Despite the pleas of Mrs. Margaret Miller, Col. Zack T. Miller, Oklahoma showman, was formally granted a formal decree of divorce in parish district court here yesterday.

The decree had been orally granted earlier in the week.

Mrs. Miller, who appeared in court to fight the signing of the writ asked for the custody of their two minor children.

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me. Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 1141-D Marcellus Ave., Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.—Adv.

County Red Cross News

Barwise School

The first grade children in Miss Coleman's room are illustrating their health lessons on the board. A good breakfast is illustrated by drawing the foods on the board and using cards with the words printed on them to teach the names of the foods.

Miss Pannell's first grade children have learned a group of health verses and have made posters for this period of school.

Fannin School

The low and high third grade children have been working on gardens following their lessons on vegetables. Nearly every home represented has planted gardens and the rest of the children are to have garden seed to plant as soon as it can be obtained.

Austin School

Posters made by the first four grades on health subjects are on display in Miss Miles' room. These posters will be kept in the building until after the regular P.-T. A. and then sent in for the exhibit for the district convention.

Travis School

Lessons on eating between meals and on the eating of sweets at the close of the meals were given to the children at Travis this week. The children chose a good breakfast, a good lunch, and a good supper. The proper sweets for children were included in the choices. Food models were used to set up the meals. A movie made by one of the schools was shown by the nutritionist to the classes at the end of the lesson. An apple box, long strip of wrapping paper, and cut-out food pictures made up the picture.

Draughon's Assembly

An assembly for the students of Draughon's commercial college was held Tuesday. The subject of the lesson was "Factors Other Than Diet That Are Conducive to Health." Mimeograph sheets summing up good health factors were given out at the close of the assembly.

Study Club Meeting

The Sam Houston Preschool Study club met at the home of Mrs. R. A. Fonville Tuesday morning. The subject for discussion was "Play." From a nutritional standpoint play is quite as necessary as food for the well-being of the child. Nutrition includes not only the use of adequate foods but further, as defined by Lusk, "Nutrition may be defined as the sum of the processes concerned with growth, maintenance, and repair of the body as a whole or of its constituent parts." The laws of growth depend upon exercise as well as food. Further, a healthy child is a growing child. Approaching vacation time should be used for constructive play enabling the child to come out in better shape after a summer of play than at any other time.

Child Health Day

Plans for May Day-Child-Health day are being sent by the national organization to all health and educational organizations for use for the first week of May. The keynote to the work this year, "Community Responsibility and Cooperation for Child Health and Protection," has evolved from the findings of the national child health conference held this past winter.

Preschool health conferences are sponsored by the local parent-teacher units will be held in April this year. The chairmen in the various districts are especially anxious to have every child who will enter school this fall taken through the clinic. Reports have come to the local Red Cross office relative to the similar conferences held in St. Joseph, Mo. Ten conferences included 374 children, an average of 37 per conference, have just recently been completed.

Junior membership for Barwise and Austin schools have recently been completed. Some of the schools renew their memberships in the fall of the year while others have spring membership drives.

JEALOUSY WRITES SEQUEL TO ROMANCE OF HEIRESS

RENO, Nev., March 21. (UP)—Jealousy wrote a sequel to a western romance and Barbara Monell Glaze, pretty New York heiress, was free today of a 6-foot rodeo rider, to whom she was married three years ago.

The trail of cowboy boots and high-heeled slippers took up together in Colorado Springs, Feb. 21, 1928, forked in court here yesterday, when Mrs. Glaze was granted a divorce from Kenneth Wilson Glaze, 30. Glaze did not contest the suit.

Mrs. Glaze, daughter of the late Ambrose Monell, former head of the International Nickel company, charged jealousy once led her husband to threaten a gun duel with a man who had danced with her during a party at their cattle ranch home near Guffey, Colo.

MURRAY REQUESTS CORRECTION DROUTH RELIEF MEASURE

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 21. (UP)—A bill, appropriating an additional $300,000 the purpose by the state of field and garden seed for drouth-stricken farmers was returned today by Gov. W. H. Murray to the legislature for corrections.

Governor Murray said the bill provides that before the county commissioners can distribute the seed the application of the farmer must first be approved by the state board of public affairs.

Such a cumbersome procedure would prohibit distribution of seed in time for planting, he said.

He asked the legislature to correct it.

Murray signed a house joint resolution authorizing Pottawatomie county commissioners to levy a tax not exceeding one mill to provide for the employment of a delinquent tax collector.

He also signed a bill authorizing the sale of certain state land to Ponca City for use as an airport. The state retains all mineral rights to the land.

The governor returned to the legislature for revision the firemen's pension bill. The bill, in its present form, provides that all revenue collected under the 2 per cent tax on insurance companies shall be used for the firemen's pension fund.

Murray asked the legislation to amend the bill to provide that 25 per cent of total tax collection on insurance companies should be given to the general revenue fund of the state as a compensation for the state collecting the tax.

NEGRO SENTENCED TO DIE IN CHAIR AMARILLO SLAYING

AMARILLO, Texas, March 21. (AP)—Death in the electric chair was the penalty demanded by a Potter county jury today of Will Moore, negro hotel porter, for the slaying of Mont "Pete" Moore, youthful cowboy, March 4.

The jury reported at 2:50 p. m., after a deliberation of two hours. It was the first time a Potter county grand jury had assessed the extreme penalty.

A crowded courtroom received the verdict quietly. Spectators were instructed by Judge Henry S. Bishop to remain seated until officers had removed the prisoner. The negro extended his arms for handcuffs, apparently eager to escape the crowds.

Moore was indicted the day of the slaying, and his case was set for trial two weeks from that date. The case opened Wednesday morning, as much time being spent in selecting a jury as in hearing testimony and argument of counsel.

The negro's testimony that he killed the youthful ranch employe after being attacked by four men, including Pete Moore, was uncorroborated. Two of the slain man's companions and two other eye-witnesses said the shooting was without provocation or warning.

The shooting occurred when the cowboys went to the hotel where the negro worked, at 2 a. m., to awake some friends that had registered there.

RAILROADS LOSE THIRD OF PASSENGER BUSINESS M. P. PRESIDENT SAYS

ST. LOUIS, March 21. (INS)—In the 10 years between 1920 and 1930 railroads lost a third of their passenger business L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific railroad was on record as saying here today.

The Missouri Pacific, Baldwin said had lost 53.3 per cent in that period and its receipts have declined from more than $21,000,000 to $10,000,000 he said.

FORMER TAX COLLECTOR AT WACO INDICTED FOR SHORTAGE OF $93,000

WACO, Texas, March 21. (AP)—Arthur Mills, former McLennan county tax collector, was indicted by a grand jury today in 10 bills returned charging misapplication and conversion of county funds totaling $93,000. However, District Attorney Willard McLaughlin said part of the money had been refunded, leaving shortages of approximately $70,000. The grand jury returned the indictments after considering an audit.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

PASTOR TO DISCUSS RECENT RELIGIOUS FORUM

"The religious forum" has come and gone. Financially it leaves our much improverished city a few thousand dollars worse off. No hungry child has been fed, nor thin clad widow received a rag to cover her body.

Religiously and intellectually and morally we doubt if one single good has come from it all. On the other hand the darkness which overhangs a sinning, sorrowing, suffering people has deepened and become more dense. Further, the just judgments of God already upon us are increased by the repeated attacks upon His holy word and the Christ which it reveals.

We cannot denounce the word of God and get by with it. We cannot treat Christ thus, and wound Him in the house of so-called friends and get by with it. Do away with the Bible and we have no moral standard for the world, and immorality will sweep our land. Do away with the Bible and all law and fear of punishment is gone, and following in its wake will be the starless night of a God-forsaken world left to flounder against the sharp, just judgments of an offended Judge.

As to the four personnels of the debate, we hold no partiality but have the kindliest feelings for all. As to their several opinions we care less as they one and all alike, either deny in part or whole the infallible word of God and can very easily walk together on some common ground of unbelief.

Never before have we heard as much said against the Bible and the Christ of God, and at the same time much of it be called Christian, and all of it be called "Religious" forum.

What is Mr. Darrow's belief? Then what is his record as an American citizen? He plainly states that he denies his belief in God. Such a denial plainly reveals the grossest stupidity to the voice of nature. All about us are the visible things of creation with the plainest revelation of design in their making and harmony that even the dumb, dark mind of the heathen can see behind this beautiful world a Great Mind, a Person who designed it all. It is so pitiful to see what depths of darkness and ignorance the mind of man can go, that it is best described in the Bible, "The fool has said in his heart, there is no God." Every dewdrop, every flower, every sunbeam with the vast harmonious constellations of stars clearly reveal the fact that an all-wise intelligent creater is behind it all. "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmaments sheweth His handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speach, and night unto night sheweth knowledge. There is no speech nor language where their voice is not heard."—Psalms 19.

So Mr. Darrow turns his face away from the Bible and the God of the Bible to wander into the mist of deeper darkness and ignorance than even the poor jungle-man who knows nothing of even the use of fire. If a man's mind can be so perverted from the path of truth and light as this, it is an object of serious pity instead of censure. The astounding thing about it all is that he would be mentioned among those of brilliant mind, when the greatest book in this world today says, "He is a fool."

The second denial is that he cannot believe a man has a soul or immortality. "If in this life only we have hope, of all men we would be the most miserable." This life with its trials and tragedies cannot suffice to justify our being here. The Bible everywhere teaches that we shall live again. And the most unhappy man in the world is one who denies these great enheartening and purifying truths. Any man who is so dull of mind and premature in his reason as to set his puny pigmy-like mind against the Bible is no doubt wandering through a miserable life of darkness, and deserves the sympathy and not censure of all thoughtful and God loving people.

As to his denial of the Bible, that is nothing new. Many have been the popguns of pigmies against that Rock of Gibraltar of truth. They have come and gone, changed their false theories with every few years, guessed and supposed and rubbed out and started over again and again, guessed gain, gone again and wildly speculated, but the "Word of God has marched on in majestic tread over all the little mutterings and carpings of the critics. And today none of the sensible, serious and sound-brained people are inclined to turn from its light."

We have no quarrel against Mr. Darrow personally; further, we pity him. His record as an attorney has been in defense of the lowest criminals that have appeared as enemies of our nation, our homes, our churches alike. He fought hard to defend Moyer-Heywood and Pettibone when tried for propaganda against our country. He spoke in defense of the Communist of Dallas a few days ago. He tried to clear and cleanse the hands of Loeb and Leopold whose hands were dripping with an innocent boy friend's blood. He tried to break down the anti-evolution law of Tennessee while the immortal William Jennings Bryan opposed him until his dying hour.

The open forum of our city paper is not the place to discuss Christian creeds; therefore we do not ask for space for that, but will make this whole four-sided discussion a theme, for next Sunday night at the Fundamentalist-Baptist church at 2107 Grant street.

The public is invited to attend this service and hear the sum of the whole matter. The message will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Prayerfully submitted.

T. H. MAYFIELD.

Four hundred and fifty-eight new books have been received by the Zundelowitz Junior High school as an addition to the school library, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Cowen of Santa Monica, Calif., who have several times been donors of gifts to the library.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowen are carrying on the work started several years ago by their uncle, the late A. Zundelowitz, for whom the school is named.

Reference books, historical volumes and others of unusual value to a school library are included in the latest gift. Mrs. Cowen also sent a marine collection from Waikiki beach at Honolulu, including various kinds of shells and coral growth. This collection has been placed in the school museum.

IOWA PARK C. OF C. MAKES PLANS FOR MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

IOWA PARK, Texas, March 21.—Dr. Gordon Clark, newly elected president of the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce, succeeding B. L. Bradford, resigned, presided at a meeting of the directors Friday afternoon at the chamber office. Plans were made to increase the membership and 50 names of those who should be members of the organization, were distributed to the directors to interview before the next meeting.

The fair committee was announced as C. C. Hudson, chairman; Earl C. Knox and A. C. Golden. Mr. Hudson has served as chairman of the committee since its organization; Mr. Knox served last year; Mr. Golden will fill the place of J. G. O'Donohoe, who moved to Henderson recently.

Jimmie Searl, secretary of the organization, stated the present enrollment in the "Live at Home Contest," being sponsored by the chamber as 23, with those living in the irrigated section predominating. It was explained that at least 10 contestants from both dry and irrigated farms must compete in the contest, and it was decided to make an additional effort to interest dry land farmers. Mrs. C. C. Burrows, president of the Pleasant Valley Home Demonstration club, at a meeting Wednesday afternoon requested each member living in the dry land district to explain the contest to their friends and neighbors in an effort to assist the chamber in increasing this enrollment.

LLANO COUNTY FARMER ACQUITTED OF CHARGE MURDER AT GEORGETOWN

GEORGETOWN, Texas, March 21. (AP)—Will Edmondson, Llano county farmer, was acquitted by a jury this afternoon on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of Fred Bolinger, bachelor recluse. Edmondson sought to prove an alibi. Witnesses in the trial testified the two men had quarreled over hogs, prior to the slaying.

MADAME GALLI-CURCI TAKES FIRST FLIGHT

AMARILLO, Texas, March 21. (AP)—Madame Amelita Galli-Curci, operatic soprano, boarded a Western Air Express plane at 3:30 p. m. for Albuquerque, N. M., on her first airplane flight.

"I'm up in the air before I start," Madame Galli-Curci said as her plane came in. "I couldn't sleep last night. But I'm just excited; I know it isn't fright. Flying is safe now."

The famous artist embarked on what promised to be a rough flight. The plane was delayed several hours in leaving Kansas City this morning, and had fought a strong headwind all the way to Amarillo.

Wallace Beery, noted movie star and licensed pilot, took off from Amarillo for Wichita, Kan., in a special plane only a few minutes before Madame Galli-Curci left in the opposite direction. He will leave Wichita in his own plane for a 9,000 mile flight that will take him to New York, Florida and Mexico City.

COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF NAVY LEFT WAITING AT RAILING FOR REVIEW THAT NEVER TOOK PLACE

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

ABOARD U. S. S. ARIZONA, At Sea, March 21. (Via Radio)—The commander-in-chief of the United States army and navy was left "waiting at the rail" today for a presidential review that never materialized, but he was the least perturbed of the officers connected with the incident.

President Hoover, en route to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, donned "whites" and a panama hat and went on deck to review two destroyers which were to pass before the Arizona. According to the schedule, the Dupont was to relieve the Taylor as the Arizona's escort, and both ships would pass in review while the president took the presidential salute.

The setting was ideal, a calm sea and a warm, sunny morning, but the charming quiet was not destined to be broken by the roar of salutes, presidential or otherwise. The Dupont apparently miscalculated the Arizona's position. In any event, the review was called off after the president and all hands were at the rails for 45 minutes.

President Calm

The Arizona's officers were inclined to be disturbed about the incident, but they found that Mr. Hoover took the matter good-naturedly and went about a substitute program cheerfully. He appeared to have forgotten the slip in the arrangements when the Dupont arrived several hours late, to relieve the Taylor.

The president inspected the Arizona's crew and later the men posed for pictures. The crew draped themselves over the forward superstructure from the crowsnest to the rail and swarmed over the 14-inch guns.

The program concluded when the men, led by Captain Freeman, gave three cheers for their commander-in-chief.

The president will attend religious services on the quarterdeck Sunday morning. Chaplain C. E. Neyman, assistant chief of the navy chaplains at Washington, assigned to the present cruise, will conduct non-sectarian services. Chaplain Neyman normally conducts the navy yard services at Washington.

The Taylor was ordered relieved at 2:45 p. m. and swung off to the starboard, dropping far to the south to avoid directly passing the Arizona. There was therefore no salute or manning of the rails in connection with the change in escort.

The president was sitting in a deck chair in the shade of the quarterdeck with a closed book in his lap. He was gazing in the opposite direction and apparently did not know that the escort had been changed. The routine of the Arizona was not interrupted.

CHICAGO COURT HOLDS JACK ZUTA DIED INTESTATE

CHICAGO, March 21. (INS)—When Jack Zuta, gangster, was "put on the spot" by his enemies at Delafield, Wis., last Sept. 9, he died intestate, it was ruled today by Assistant Probate Judge Oscar C. Caplan.

As a result, Judge Caplan refused to admit to probate the will of Zuta, which was filed by his uncle, Col. Ike Ginsberg, at Middleboro, Ky. Under the ruling Zuta's $42,900 estate will be divided into thirds Eliza Z. Zuta and Hirsch Zoota, both of Poland and a brother and half-brother respectively, each to get one third, and the remaining third to be divided between Col. Ginsberg and 11 cousins of Zuta.

Judge Caplan based his refusal to admit the will to probate on the ground that Zuta was a resident of Illinois and because the document did not have two witnesses as required in this state. Colonel Ginsberg filed the will in Kentucky shortly after Zuta was murdered.

SECOND TRIAL RUCH MONDAY

Former County Attorney of Frederick, Okla.

GUTHRIE, Okla., March 21. (UP)—The re-trial of Paul V. Ruch, former Tillman county attorney, charged with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws, opens in federal court here Monday.

A jury could not agree as to Ruch's case in the first trial held at Oklahoma City last year. He was indicted with a score of Tillman county residents after a lengthy investigation of liquor conditions in that county by federal agents.

Ruch has been visiting in Indiana where his wife has been ill.

United States District Attorney Roy St. Lewis said the government would use the same witnesses against Ruch that were called in the first trial. Chief of these witnesses will be Bud Walls, former deputy sheriff, who pleaded guilty to the conspiracy charges.

Lewis said he believed Lewis Ward, another defendant in the case, would plead guilty.

Ward, whose home is at Clinton, was granted a new trial with Ruch.

Fifteen of the 29 persons named in the indictment pleaded guilty and six were convicted. Three were acquitted.

Among those convicted was Sheriff Charles Wages. Wages and the other defendants are to be sentenced April 6.

Ten of the co-defendants have been called to testify in Ruch's trial.

BALL BROTHERS GLASS JAR FACTORY WILL OPEN IN APRIL

PLANT TO GIVE EMPLOYMENT TO 100 MEN AND WOMEN WHO WILL RECEIVE STEADY WORK

By FRED L. HASKETT

Ball Brothers glass fruit jar plant will reopen for a long run Thursday morning, April 2, according to T. B. Smock, superintendent. The plant is located in the industrial area of Wichita Falls and will give employment to 100 men and women with a pay roll of approximately $10,000 monthly.

Plant Has Large Capacity

The capacity of the Wichita Falls plant is 750 gross glass jars per day. There are two large Owen automatic machines in the plant. The furnace fires were lighted last week and it requires about 21 days to melt the first furnace of glass. After the first furnace is melted new sand and materials are constantly fed into the furnace.

The furnace is constructed of large blocks of fire clay and on either side are fire-clay ovens from which sweep across the furnace blue flames of natural gas. Every 30 minutes the flames are changed to the opposite side of the furnace. A tremendous heat is created.

The Owen machines are of the latest type and are very interesting machines, working rapidly and doing the highest quality of work. The machines revolve and as each mould passes a certain point of a revolving container of melted glass it picks up a sufficient amount to cast a single jar.

Much Raw Material Used

The operation of a glass factory requires a large amount of raw materials, in addition to the glass sand that is consumed. This past week several carloads of materials were received at the plant and are now in the storage bins.

The plant consumes 75,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily, which means a fuel bill of about $15,000 each month. Raw materials run into large figures and the plant gives to the railroads inbound and outbound tonnage that amounts to approximately $10,000 monthly.

Products made by the Wichita Falls plant of Ball Brothers will be shipped into several states this season, but most of the jars will go to retailers in Texas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Utah.

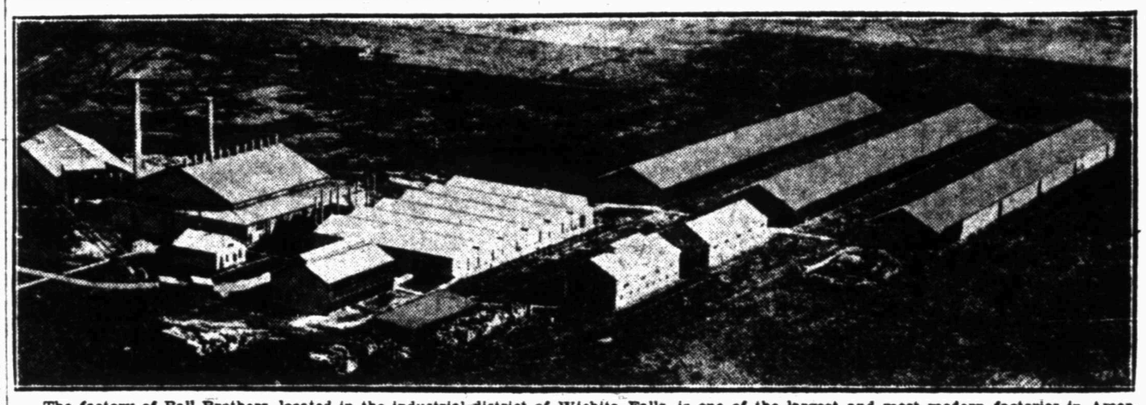

Due to the fact that the plant has not been operated for 18 months the warehouse stock is about exhausted. In fact orders for immediate delivery of jars will run very high this season. There is excellent prospects of a bumper fruit crop and that means lots of home canning, which demands glass jars or containers.

Old Employes Favored

In opening the plant for its run Superintendent Smock states that preference is being shown old employes. Quite a number have already called at the factory to register and for the past few days there have been many men and women to call who have never worked in the plant. These people are told to return to the plant about April 1, for by that time the officials will know the number of former employes who will be on the job.

Opening of the plant comes as pleasing news to the business interests of Wichita Falls. It will add much in reducing the number of unemployed in Wichita Falls and will give to a number of families excellent earning power during the summer and fall months. It is likely the factory will not shut down for repairs and rebuilding of the furnace until about January or February of next year.

AIRPLANE VIEW OF BALL BROTHERS FACTORY IN WICHITA FALLS

The factory of Ball Brothers, located in the industrial district of Wichita Falls, is one of the largest and most modern factories in America for the production of glass jars. The plant has been closed down for 18 months but due to the prospects for a large fruit crop the plant is to be operated to full capacity for several months to come. Employment will be given 100 men and women of Wichita Falls. Opening of the factory is regarded as one of the brightest announcements of Texas industries that has been made since the business depression got its start in 1929

ALFALFA MILLS DESIRED BUILT AT FREDERICK

Alfalfa Hay Crop This Year Will Be Early and Very Large Is Prediction

MILLS SAVE YIELD AND IMPROVE QUALITY OF HAY

Price to Farmers Can Also Be Bettered and Damage By Storms Eliminated

Alfalfa growers residing in the vicinity of Tipton, western portion of Tillman county, Oklahoma, are beginning the erection of large barns to take care of the mammoth alfalfa hay crop that is in prospect during 1931. It is reported that the first hay will cut about the latter part of April, which is several weeks ahead of normal first cuttings.

The alfalfa crop promises to be the greatest ever produced in the famous Red river valley of Tillman county, which is said to be one of the best alfalfa growing regions in the world. For many years Tipton was the largest alfalfa seed shipping station in the world, annual shipments having reached 12 carloads. When prices were high a carload of alfalfa seed brought between $25,000 and $35,000, according to capacity of the car.

Alfalfa hay at Tipton is now selling for a very low price, from $11 to $12 a ton. Because of so much wheat pasture and the mild winter weather there has not been a big demand for alfalfa hay.

The chamber of commerce at Frederick, Okla., is endeavoring to secure the establishment of a mammoth alfalfa mill to handle the hay crop. It is said that milling of the hay gives it greater food value, also saves all the leaves, which have a tendency to shatter. Mill alfalfa products are selling now as high as $40 a ton.

Milling the crop also prevents any waste of the hay by rain or storms, which sometimes follow a cutting of the crop. The fresh alfalfa is taken directly from the field to the mill and prepared into many kinds of dairy and poultry feeds.

Renfro Drug Store Installs Fountain That's Very Latest

A new Liquid Carbonic fountain has been installed in Renfro's No. 1 Drug store, and it is said the equipment is the latest manufactured and cost several hundreds of dollars. The unit is completely cared for by Frigidaire refrigeration, even extending to the salad unit, where cold meats, salads, vegetables and sandwich spreads are kept.

The unit has two complete draught arms and one is featured with an arm so that a customer can help himself to a glass of ice water at any time. In commenting on the installation of the new unit Manager Thos. D. Moore of the store stated:

"We believe that in times of depression that it is best to prepare for better times, which have always followed periods of bad business. We have lots of confidence in Wichita Falls and believe better times are here."

BAPTISTS TO BUILD MODERN S. S. EDIFICE

Construction of the educational building of the First Baptist church at Stamford has been let to E. D. Jones. The building will be of brick construction, 40x80 feet, with basement and two floors above ground. The building will cost $15,000.

The educational building will adjoin the church, facing 40 feet on East Oliver street and east of the church building. The movement for the construction of an educational building was started by Rev. Sam Sparks, due to the fact that the church building had been outgrown.

Contractor Jones expects to get work under way within a few days. Employment will be given to a number of men. It is planned to have the job completed within 100 working days.

Educational church buildings are becoming very popular, due to the reason that attendance at Sunday school by the younger people has grown rapidly during the past few years. It is necessary that a building be provided so as to care for some group almost each day or evening. The cost of maintaining an educational building is less than for the main church, although in most cases the heating system of the main building is used in heating the educational building.

FINISHING PAVING HIGHWAY FIVE FROM CHILDRESS WEST

The gap in the paving of highway 5 between Carey and Childress has been finished and machinery has been moved to complete finishing the pavement in a gap west of Carey to the Hall county line.

The grade for the same highway east of Childress to the Hardeman county line is being constructed, as well as drainage structures. With completion of the paving there will be hard surface on highway 5 from Wichita Falls to the Donley county line.

Building Permits

Two repair permits totaling $1,001 were issued by City Engineer F. M. Rugeley during the week ending March 20. This brings the total for the month to $6,951 and for the year to $20,951.

The permits included a repair permit for $125 to Walter Ashcroft who will repair his residence at 203 Bluff street and one for $876 to C. E. Litchfield who will make repairs on his business building at 2156 Avenue F.

The war department is spending $12,000 for general construction at Palacios, Texas, national guard camp.

Spring Brings to Laboring Men New Jobs Much Needed

A tour through the residential sections of Wichita Falls Saturday revealed that considerable home improvements are now being made. The number of new shingled and composition roofs is large, also there is being considerable paint applied.

The number of jobs being done is far greater than during the early fall period when efforts were made to get as much home improvement under way as possible, so as to provide jobs for the unemployed. Much of this work is being done and evidently no permits have been requested of the city, for the records fail to reveal much work of that character at this time.

Several of the industrial plants are also being repaired with expectancy that operations will again be resumed. Some plants have been operated with just a few employes and then not more than two or three days each week.

Opening of the glass industry is going to do much to relieve unemployment. Construction of the federal building and the educational building of the First Methodist church will be the biggest jobs of the year, as evidenced at this time. These two big construction jobs will employ many men.

Work of clearing the site for the federal building is far advanced. Most of the frame buildings are now out of the way and the old Methodist church will be disappearing by the end of the coming week. This work has given jobs to 50 or 60 men, including a number of truck drivers.

In the business district some of the larger stores are being redecorated and awnings and outside woodwork being treated to new paint.

An interesting experiment was recently conducted in an Eastern candy factory. Men from the ages of 45 to 44 were placed on the night shift instead of girls. It was found that the men operated the wrapping machines with less breakage of candy bars than the girls, also that their speed in packing was equal to and better than the work done by the deft fingers of the girls.

According to Boeing System figures, an increase of 40,000,000 was shown in letters flown over the nation's airways for 1930 over the previous year.

Traveling passenger agents of American railroads feel confident of greater tourist travel this summer. Travel abroad is not expected to be near the figures of 1930.

SWIFT & CO. PRIZE BEEF OFFERED

Folks of Wichita Falls, as well as several other towns in Northwest Texas, are going to feast this coming week on some of the finest beef that has ever been grown and fattened.

Swift and company, packers at Fort Worth, purchased several head of the choicest baby beeves that were exhibited at the recently held Fat Stock show in Fort Worth. Twenty head of the animals were slaughtered for the branch house in Wichita Falls and, according to W. G. Nycum, branch manager, 10 carcasses have been sold to local business concerns.

The beeves dressed approximately 650 pounds, all being about a year old. They were fattened under the best conditions. The entire lot was purebred Herefords, one of the finest meat animals that is grown. The carcasses of the 20 head were received in Wichita Falls Tuesday and placed in cold storage. The carcasses will not be delivered to the shops and catering places until Wednesday, March 25. The price paid for the beeves, on foot, ranged from $12 to $13 per hundredweight.

The Kemp Coffee shop has purchased two of the choicest carcasses, states Larry Schwamb, who is the manager. He is planning some wonderful steaks, roasts and stews from them, which will be ready to serve beginning Thursday, March 26. The Lowry market and Cameron's cafeteria also purchased a carcass each and six carcasses go to Crump Brothers E-Z markets.

Foard County Promises to Be Land Of Milk, Honey and Bread Because Wheat Gives Promise of Big Yield

Mack Boswell, newspaper man of Crowell, is looking forward to splendid business during the summer months. His prediction is that there is going to be a bumper wheat crop and that means plenty of business for the merchants. He says:

"The farmers have gone through the winter with very little expense. They were compelled to plant a crop of wheat and spent as little money as possible. In many instances they have been saved expense of buying feed for work stock, dairy sows and poultry flocks.

"While we cannot expect a big price for wheat, yet it will bring in the cash, and that is what is going to make business good. A bumper crop of any kind in Northwest Texas is always profitable to the merchant, whether the farmer profits or not, but a bumper crop at a fair price means lots of money to the farmer.

"In Foard county we have between 60,000 and 70,000 acres of wheat, which is as fine as can be grown at this season of the year. An April shower or two just means an enormous crop, unless there is hail damage. It is not at all impossible for Foard county to produce 2,000,000 bushels of wheat. That will bring in $1,200,000 of new money.

"According to the 1930 farm census there are 720 farms in Foard county. The likely production and price means $1,686 per family. The farmers with that much money, and other crops and livestock, will simply mean that Foard county will be a land of milk, money and bread this coming year."

In Paris, France, during 1930 over 50,000 horses were butchered and sold for human consumption. In Paris a meat market that sells horse flesh is compelled to place a sign of a horse's head in front of the market. Horse meat is eaten by the poor class, but often it is served in the finest cafes as steak.

The street department of Wichita Falls has had a large crew of workmen busy in the business section this past week filling cracks in pavement with hot asphalt. Pavement, regardless of kind used, if kept in good repair will last many years longer.

Hospitals are now classified as industries but it's said that nothing comes out of them as good as new except babies.

Kellogg Company Aids Boy Scouting In Show Windows

Over 40 men in the Kellogg company, manufacturers of cereal food products, are actively engaged in Boy Scout work as scoutmasters or troop leads, states the Kellogg News, official publication for the industries.

At Battle Creek, Mich., where the main factory and general offices of the concern are located, there is a strong sentiment for Scouting and that city boasts of having more Eagle Scouts per capita of any city in that area.

As a boost to Boy Scout work the Kellogg company has featured Scout windows during the past month, one of which displays was installed on the Seventh street show window of The Daily Times in Wichita Falls.

The value of petroleum products produced in Texas during 1929 was $323,540,667. Other minerals brought the grand total to $483,806,584.

There are three regions in Texas in which copper ore has been found. The Trans-Pecos region in Southwest Texas, Central region of Burnet and Llano counties, and the Permian region south and southwest of Wichita Falls.

Iron ores are found in a large area over East Texas. During the civil war and afterward charcoal furnaces were operated and farming implements and simple household articles were manufactured.

One of the largest graphite mills in the United States is located in Burnet county, Texas. The mineral is found in abundance in that county.

Gold is mined in Texas and during 1929 production amounted to 1,279 ounces and valued at $26,439.

Silver to the amount of 1,020,516 troy ounces was mined in Texas during 1929, and the metal sold for $4,543,936.

Sand and gravel produced in Texas during 1929 weighed 9,409,295 tons and sold for $5,765,943.

Cement manufactured in Texas during 1929 amounted to 7,083,572 barrels and sold for $11,805,779.

BRECKENRIDGE SEES FEDERAL BUILDING SOON

A climax to a continuous fight that has been carried on by public-spirited citizens and the chamber of commerce for the past eight years was reached when Postmaster B. H. Trammell of Breckenridge, received notice that the federal government is asking bids on a site for the new postoffice building to be erected in that city.

The appropriation calls for $140,000, which will be spent in providing a site, the building and its equipment and furniture. This means the building will cost about $100,000, which will give Breckenridge another fine public building. The city has one of the finest courthouses in Texas, and its public school buildings are of the better quality, both in construction and design.

It is proposed to rush construction of the new building, as there is now a surplus of labor in Breckenridge, the city suffering like most cities and towns that have depended solely upon production of petroleum for income.

It is also reported that bids for a site for a federal building at Cisco are being advertised.

Big Increase Sale Rubber Goods Over Territory in Texas

An optimistic light was shed on the future, at least in the automobile and tire business, by M. F. Blakeslee, district manager of the United States Rubber company, in an interview here Friday morning. Mr. Blakeslee is visiting Wichita Falls for the first time and is in conference while here with officials of the Durnal-Jones Rubber company.

"Records from our Detroit plant were broken for all time last week," Mr. Blakeslee said. "The Dallas district office, in which Wichita Falls is located, reports increase in sales for January and February of 70 per cent over the sales for the same period in 1930."

Mr. Blakeslee expressed surprise at the size and completeness of the Memorial auditorium and also at the beautiful homes in Wichita Falls.

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board, Bethlehem Steel corporation, states January earnings of the steel company were better than those of December, and February better than January. "The country is coming back to prosperity," is the opinion of Mr. Schwab.

The value of American foreign trade in January reached the lowest point in close to 10 years, according to the department of commerce. Exports were $250,000,000, smallest since February, 1922. Imports were $183,000,000, lowest figure since September, 1921.

The physical volume of industrial production which has been declining since May, 1929, according to one comprehensive index, reversed its trend in January and advanced 3.8 per cent over the December low. According to the present outlook there is likely to be a small improvement in March and April.

Oklahoma coal mines produced 665,333 tons of coal in the last five months of 1930. One railroad that has used considerable coal from the McAlister region is changing its coal-burning locomotives to oil burners.

The cheese factory at Muenster, on the Katy east of Wichita Falls, is increasing its capacity from 25,000 to 40,000 pounds of milk daily.

A new salt factory is being opened at Houston with a daily output of 20 tons.

San Angelo is preparing to spend $18,000 for park improvements.

Shanks of jack rabbits, which are quite numerous in Northwest Texas, have been styled "Hoover hams."

HUMBLE MEN AT HOLLIDAY WIN BRODAY'S SILVER CUP WITH TOP SAFETY RECORD

The Bert Broday safety trophy, which is awarded some local district of the Northwest Texas district of the Humble Oil and Refining company for each six-month period, was awarded the Holliday district for the period ending the last half of 1930. The cup was presented to the employes at Holliday this past week. The cup is a large and beautiful silver trophy and engraved on it the words: "Bert Broday Safety Trophy, presented to Holliday, 1930."

In the Northwest Texas districts are located several producing districts, being Holliday, Vernon, Burkburnett, Electra, Nocona and Olney. The cup is awarded to the local district that works the most man hours without lost time accidents. In the last period of 1930 there were four districts with perfect records, Holliday, Olney, Burkburnett and Electra, but as Holliday had the most man hours to its credit was awarded the cup by Mr. Broday.

The Holliday district is under supervision of J. D. Faulk, to whom the cup was presented as representing the employes. The cup will be displayed in the Humble warehouse office in Holliday.

Superintendents of the other districts with perfect records are Lee Elizey, Olney; H. Curington, Burkburnett; Guy Hastings, Electra.

HEADLIGHTS

F. L. H.

There is encouragement in the statement of Dudley B. Foy, industrial manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, that requests are being received for information concerning Wichita Falls as a place to locate factories.

Recently three such letter have been received, all for different kinds of plants. One was for a food plant, another a chemical plant and an airplane factory. Wichita Falls offers a wonderful location for many kinds of industries and every effort should be made to locate them here.

Harry A. Gray Jr., who manages one of the largest laundry and dry cleaning plants in Wichita Falls, and that means in all Northwest Texas, is a firm believer and advocate of securing industries to make Wichita Falls grow and be more prosperous. Mr. Gray was among the first to suggest the installation of a vegetable and fruit cannery.

In securing new industries Mr. Gray believes that in many cases it is wise that the plants be fostered by local capital and to expand the plants with the earnings. He is not of the opinion that it is wise to endeavor to start off on too large a scale or spend a great deal of money in erecting buildings. He says there are a number of suitable buildings for industrial plants that are now unoccupied.

The fault in locating new industries, too often, has been endeavoring to make them larger than necessary. Americans just like to boast, and to be able to boast has been rather expensive on the home town investors some times, also has lowered their desire to make further investments in the industrial field.

It is wise to study the growth of a child in building industry. It is far better to start off in a slow way and earn dividends than to start in a big way and make assessments or go into bankruptcy. There are industries that can be operated successfully in Wichita Falls, and these are the ones that should be sought.

Denison has had a problem. The Katy railroad has lowered the number of men employed in the shops in that city, and a result Denison got a back-set, and at a time when the rest of the country was in a prosperous condition. Predictions were made that Denison was through growing. But apparently there is some sort of citizenship there that started building instead of boasting. Denison is making progress and when business starts going again that city will be one of the first to feel its effect and will outstrip some of its neighbors that predicted the city's downfall to be permanent.

In Denison there a plant that is handling peanuts and pecans. The nuts are shipped into many large cities where they are used in the manufacture of confections. This plant now employs 250 women and girls and is doing a big business. Wichita Falls is located ideally for such a business. In the cross timbers there is no better soil for the growing of peanuts and pecans are

LOWER ELECTRIC RATES ORDERED INSULL SERVICE

Many Small Consumers in West and Northwest Texas to Benefit

NEW RATES IN EFFECT OVER AREA IMMEDIATELY

Reduction Made to Keep in Line With General Idea New Business Plans

A substantial reduction in electric lighting rates for the entire Panhandle district has been announced by Manager Frank Houston of the West Texas Utilities district offices in Childress. The saving to small users is 10 per cent for the first 10 kilowatts.

In a letter to Mayor Jas. W. Mitchell of Childress, also addressed to mayors of other cities and towns within the district, Manager Houston says:

"I am pleased to announce at this time that we are making a substantial reduction in electric rates. This is not done as a prosperity move on our part, inasmuch as our business along with every other line of business is suffering greatly from loss of revenue, and we are unable to reduce expenses enough to meet the decreased revenue, but in keeping with general price reduction over the country, we feel that we should do our part, and therefore making this reduction. We will reduce the first step to 10 cents per kilowatt."

The West Texas Utilities now have 1,300 men and women on their payrolls and are serving 59,000 customers in West and Northwest Texas, these being located in 120 cities and towns.

The company is also reaching into the farming sections to provide farmers with cheap power and to enable farm homes to enjoy all the comforts that are possible in even the largest cities.

Work is to start shortly on the big 9,000-foot dam across the Colorado river near Burnett. The dam will cost $6,000,000 and will give employment to 800 workers for two and one-half years.

Annual Audit Bids Asked

Charles Crawford, city manager at Childress, is asking for bids to make the annual audit of the books of the city of Childress. Henceforth the city officials plan to have the books audited once each year.

The recession in building has apparently not ceased, although it does show tendencies to decline less rapidly. In January the value of contracts awarding, according to F. W. Dodge corporation, was 9 per cent lower than in December, and 30 per cent under January of last year.

The West Texas Utilities have announced lower electric rates, and correctly, the greatest benefit comes to the smaller customers.

native. There are two railroads that run southward from Wichita Falls that touch the best pecan growing section in Texas, and that means the world. There is a glass factory in Wichita Falls that could turn out glass container. Why not interest some big concern up North or make the investment a local one and get something like this started.

Then why not interest one of the glass plants, if not both, to manufacture milk and pop bottles. There is a constant demand for such bottles. They are not seasonal and the bottles are being destroyed every day through careless handling. A plant should be operated at a profit, especially since the initial investment has been made for the buildings, furnace, and the sales and management. Such a plant would work at least 10 months out of the year, thus affording employment to a number of men and women.

A little more thought along industrial expansion is not at all unwise.

THE PILLARS OF INDUSTRY

By ALBERT RUSSELL, ERSKINE
President Studebaker Corporation

After more than 40 years' experience and observation as a worker and as an executive in large corporations, I can freely say that the well-informed, ambitious, self-reliant and indefatigable worker, whether in low or high position, is the pillar of industry. He is not a seeker of employment—he is the besought.

Ambition is the mainspring of his existence, and constant and effective work his demonstration of sincerity of purpose. He builds his prosperity and happiness upon his love of work and duty and his will to do the job.

Such men are rare—rare indeed. In fact, I believe the majority of persons lack sufficient ambition to succeed in business, because the price is too exacting. Call it slavery if you like, but it exists in the pillars of industry—in the key men in the shop, in the office and in the executives. Is it worth the price?

America's great aggregation of plant facilities belong to the public—to millions of stockholders, instead of to private families as of yore. Executives come from the ranks of the workers, up through the shop and office. Little pillars grow into big pillars—hard and seasoned pillars. Come on in, boys—the water's fine!

The future holds limitless possibilities for pillars—greater perhaps than ever before, because America is bigger and better than ever.

THREE MORE DEEP TESTS STARTED IN WICHITA COUNTY

Eighteen Locations Staked Out in Different Pools of Wichita Falls District During Week Just Closed

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Eighteen locations were staked out in the different pools of the Wichita Falls district in the past week. New producers were brought in and the usual number of failures was reported, Young, Archer, Jack, Wilbarger and Wichita counties being favored by these locations. As in the preceding several weeks the greater number was made in Young county, in the "spudder" sections of the Orth-Newcastle pool. This field also furnished the district's producers.

Wichita county added three more deep tests to its number of drilling wells during the week by the spudding in of Jack Martin and others No. 1 Kemp townsite, Consolidated Oil company No. 1 Munger brothers, and E. J. Stump and associates on the Barton land. These tests, which are drilling with rotary, will go to a depth of 4000 feet, with the expectation of picking up a paying sand at about 3800 feet, which was found in the Deep Oil Development No. 1 Munger well one mile north of Kemp City. The latter well, the district's best bet for a deep pay, has been plugged back from 5430 feet to test and shoot a sand at 3803 feet which on a swab showed the earmarks of a nice producer, and is being equipped with a standard rig, replacing the heavy rotary.

Two other deep tests are to be started in the next week, Wayne Hammon No. 3 R. J. Bradley in the S. Holloway survey, one mile west of the Deep Oil test, and the Shappell Oil company No. 1 W. P. Ferguson in the Patterson survey three miles south and just over the line in north Archer county. Both of these are rigging up for the 4000-foot depth.

Clay county increased the number of drilling wells to three by the spudding in of the Premier Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Thornberry. This well is located about eight miles northeast of Wichita Falls in block 6, Thornberry subdivision, and will be watched with more than passing interest, as a well here would mean considerable new activity in a section of the district heretofore confined to shallow development.

Wilbarger, Cooke and Jack county fields each showed an increase of drilling over the previous seven-day period.

Pipe line runs for the entire district averaged 60,843 barrels per day, a slump of approximately 464 barrels daily, compared with the previous seven-day run, which was 61,307 barrels. Proration and falling off in the older wells' production are responsible for the weekly loss.

Southwest of the Deep Oil Development company's No. 1 Munger, about one mile, E. J. Stump and associates' No. 1 W. H. Barton in the W. H. Spillers survey, is drilling at 800 feet.

PECOS FIELDS GET THREE NEW OIL PRODUCERS

Crockett County Well to Go on Pump After Shooting

NINTH OF DEEP TESTS BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL

Cardinal Company Operation Tops Shallow Sand

SAN ANGELO, Texas, March 21.—The addition of two producers in the Toborg-Tippett pool and one in the Pecos valley field, both in Pecos county, and one in Irion county were among principal West Texas oil developments this week. A new well in Crockett county prepared to pump after shooting and a test in the Shark area in Upton county showing oil was scheduled to shoot.

As last week closed, Group No. 1 Oil corporation's (Texon) brought under control its No. 4-B university, latest and largest of the world's nine deepest producers, after it had broken loose at an undetermined level on the evening of March 10. Deep Rock and others' No. 1 Kuykendall, for sometime Andrews county's only active test, was scheduled to be shot Friday after plugging back to 4565 from 4648 feet. Tests abadoned included Cranfill Bros.' No. 1 J. T. Muir in west central Crane county, at 4457 feet. Evidence that the cut in crude oil prices has not stopped all drilling were the announcements that San Angeloans will drill three tests, one a Glasscock county wildcat, another a semi-wildcat in Pecos county and the third a wheat field well in Loving county.

Producing wells in the Toborg-Tippett shallow pool in Pecos county immediately northwest of the Yates field were increased to 48 in number by Cardinal Oil company's No. 6-E Tippett and Covette Oil company's No. 1 M. A. Smith. The Cardinal well, in section 40, block 194, G. C. & S. F. Ry. company survey, topped the pay at 446 feet, drilled to 475, pumped 200 barrels of oil the first 13 hours and 325 barrels the next 24 hours. The Corvette wells, in section 39, block 194, G. C. & S. F. Ry company survey, topped the pay at 427 feet, drilled to around 450 feet and pumped 225 barrels of oil the first 13 hours.

The Tex-Mex Petoleum corporation (L. B. Lancaster and others) No. 1 Pure Eaton, offsetting three producers in the Pecos valley field 22 miles northeast of Fort Stockton and in section 34, block 3, H. & T. C. Ry company survey, struck gas at 1596 feet, drilled oil bearing sand from 1597 to 1616 feet, the total depth and flowed 62 barrels of oil the first 12 hours with an estimated 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

The new Pecos county test will be drilled by W. B. Hagan of San Angelo on the W. T. Shearer ranch on a 240-acre lease out of Phillips Petroleum company's 16-section block. It will be 660 feet out of the south of the Pecos valley pool. Penn Oil company's No. 1 Alvis, Pecos county wildcat 15 miles southwest of Fort Stockton, struck a hole full of sulphur water, its third, from 2413-23 feet after shutting off the second dose from 2005-35 feet by underreaming 8¼-inch pipe to 2407 feet. It had drilled past 2430 feet in lime.

To Go on Pump

Chas. Denney, W. R. Andrews and Perry Fox' No. 1 Fayette Tankersley in section 723, H. J. Volker survey, in Irion county, pumped 45 barrels of oil and three barrels of water the first 36 hours from a total depth of 1372 feet, seven feet in the sand. It was possible the water was the residue from that from 1280 feet which broke in when 8¼-inch pipe was raised to be underreamed 27 feet to the top of the sand. If production is maintained at the initial rate it will be an impotant development for the field since the well is three miles north of Perry Fox and others' No. 1 Tankersely, Irion county discovery well.

Texannati Oil company's No. 1 Tankersley, 2½ miles southeast of shallow production, was scheduled to go on the pump after plugging back to slightly above 1234 feet from 1300 feet, where salt water was encountered. The well has four feet of oil sand topped at 1221 feet. F. E. Webb and son and others' No. 1 W. H. Williams, 1½ miles east of production, missed the shallow pay, striking a hole full of salt water at 1455 feet. It is scheduled to go to 3200 feet unless production is obtained at a lesser depth. Stanolind's No. 1 Williams, intended deep test in the southeastern part of the county, had drilled to 2645 feet in blue shale.

Taylor-Link Oil company's No. 1 Mrs. Mary Bullock, indicating a half mile western extension of the south end of the Powell pool in Crockett, prepared to pump with 2,000 feet of oil in the hole after shooting with 50 quarts at intervals from 2635 to 2670 feet before the shot it plugged back to 2675 feet from 2680, where a small amount of salt water was struck. Over two weeks ago No. 1 Bullock pumped off a 70-barrel head in 12 hours, then pumped 30 barrels of pipe line oil daily for two days in succession.

Bennett Oil company and P. H. Williams' No. 1-A Sherk, in section 27, block 2, M-K-T Co. survey, Upton county, was estimated by the operators to be good for 30 barrels daily after drilling to 2727 feet. Lime from 2568 feet to the bottom carried oil but was hard and was to be shot.

Another well scheduled to be shot was J. D. Kugle and others' No. 1 J. C. Wallace, new producer in Ward county, which deepened from 2462 to 2645 feet without apparent increase in pay, continuing to produce a daily average of 70 barrels of oil. The first oil and gas was struck at 2437 feet, the top of the sand, and increased from 2445-55 feet. The well is in section 19, block 34, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, two miles southwest of the Penn-Atlantic Bennett properties.

Will Shoot Well

Deep Rock Oil company and others' No. 1 Kuykendall, in section 24, block A-46, public school land, in western Crane county, uled to be shot with 600 quarts from 4235 to 4550 feet, having raised 6¾-inch casing from 4263 to 4000 feet. It struck the first gas at 4208 feet, which increased to an estimated 1,000,000 cubic feet at 4243 feet, where the first oil was encountered. There were increases in pay from 4260-70 feet, from 4326-30 feet and from 4473-77 feet. A small amount of water struck from 4573-81 feet had exhausted when more water was picked up from 4632-38 feet. No. 1 Kuykendall is about four miles northwest of Fuhrman's No. 1 Ford, largest producer and the highest test structurally in the county.

Cranfill Bros.' No. 1 Muir, in section 23, block B-27, public school land, in western Crmane county, began pulling pipe to plug and abandon at 4457 feet after striking sulphur water from 4452-57 feet which rose 600 feet in eight hours. No oil ever was obtained. No. 1 Muir is 2½ miles south of Cranfill Bros. and Gulf's No. 1 J. B. Tubbs, which since early October has been trying to revive brief, heavy production obtained at 4301 feet, beneath two sulphur water levels. It had drilled to 5180 feet in sandy lime, making a head of about seven barrels of fluid, approximately 85 per cent basic sediment and sulphur water and 15 per cent oil, every 30 minutes. There was a reported slight increase in fluid at 5090 feet. No. 1 Tubbs is in section 8, block B-27, public school land.

Southern Crude Oil Purchasing company's No. 2-A Cowden, 3630 feet south of the same company's No. 1-A Cowden, northern Ector county discovery producer, was fishing for tools at 3935 feet in brown lime. Top of the brown lime had not been picked definitely but according to some correlations, No. 2-A Cowden was running somewhat higher than No. 1-A Gail-Brown and Penn's No. 1 Cowden, Ector county wildcat, about 6½ miles north and slightly east of the Penn field and about 12 miles southwest of the Southern Crude Cowden wells, resumed drilling at 180 feet after being shut down for several months and had drilled past 250 feet in shale.

Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company's No. 1 M. H. Goode, east central Terrell county wildcat, which struck a gauged 6,500,000 cubic feet of dry, sweet gas at 5605 feet on Feb. 13, had drilled to 5,945 feet in black lime, unchanged.

B. C. Mann and S. C. Currie will drill for oil on their nine-section ranch in Glasscock county, in the center of the northeast quarter of section 27, block 34, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey. The wildcat will be drilled to 3200 feet unless production is obtained at a lesser depth.

John W. Emch of San Angelo awarded a contract to the Richmond Drilling company of Texon to drill a 4300-foot test in the Wheat field in Loving county, in the center of the west quarter of the north quarter of section 80, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey.

LOCATION MADE FOR OKLAHOMA WILDCAT TEST

Stephens County Interest Centers in Carter Company Plan

WORK CONTINUES ON WELL NEAR OIL CITY

George Pace Moving in Machine to Complete Operation

DUNCAN, Okla., March 21.—The principal item of interest in Stephens county durinf the last week was the staking of a location for a scheduled Wilcox test by the Carter Oil company on a big block of acreage in the southern part of the county. Derrick has been completed for the wildcat, which is the Carter's No. 1 L. Florence, in the NW-NW-NE of 11-3s-6w, about nine miles east and three south of Comanche.

Crane and Rankin are continuing work on another interesting wildcat, their No. 1 Adkins, in the NE-NE-SE of 14-1n-9w, just north of the Oil City field, northwest of Duncan. The No. 1 Adkins is drilling in shale and shells a little below 3200 feet after logging dry oil sand from 2980 to 2991 feet and sand showing fresh water with gas from 2880 to 2925 feet.

George Pace is moving in star machine to complete his No. 7 Bush, in the NW-NE-S-NW of 3-2s-8w, on the southeast side of the Empire field. Broken oil sand was found from 1598 to 1529 feet and solid sand from 1629 to 1637 feet.

Discovery of Revolutionary New Principle to Kick Knocks Out of Gasoline May Restore Penn Crude

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 21. (AP)—Discovery that anti-knock gasoline can be made by a new process which literally picks the knocks out of the gas was announced at Penn State college today.

The discovery introduces a revolutionary principle, the anti-thesis of present anti-knock fuels which are made by adding a foreign substance to slow down their explosion.

It promises to restore to American gasoline supplies one of the best old-time sources, namely Pennsylvania crudes. The announcement was made by Dr. Frank C. Whitmore, dean of the school of chemistry and physics, as the result of extensive research conducted by Dr. M. R. Fenske and his staff with aid of an appropriation from the Pennsylvania legislature.

Dr. Fenske found that knocking in Pennsylvania gasoline is due to extra explosiveness of only certain fractions of the fuel. The case is somewhat like a striped candy cane, with the red stripes representing the knocks.

By removing the red stripes, only white candy would remain. The gas is surprisingly like the candy cane in one respect—its knock zones exist at all levels. They are as sharply defined as the red and white stripes.

For example, one fraction which can be obtained by distillation at 116.1 degrees knocks almost four times worse than another zone which boils at only six-tenths of a degree cooler.

At 171 degrees the world's record big knock was discovered, a "fraction" knocking so hard it blew the steel pistons of its test engine into elliptical form. Samples only eight degrees lower were almost normal.

Pennsylvania straight-run gasoline, said Dr. Fenske, for years of premium quality, received a setback with development of high compression engines and discovery of the knock in motor fuel.

But now, said Dr. Whitmore, there is prospect of converting about 65 to 80 per cent of Pennsylvania gasoline into anti-knock fuel. Some fractions are even better than standard.

SPUDDERS DROP OPENING EXHIBITION GAME TO STEERS 9-1

"What kind of a ball club are we going to have?" That's a question that's been ringing in our ears for the last two weeks and we can almost hear it in our sleep every night. The answer? It's like that one during the season, while the club is on a losing streak: "What's the matter with the Spudders?" Both questions defy answering. If either question were answerable, this baseball business would be simplified to the extent that it would lose its appeal and soon pass into oblivion. It's the uncertainty, the element of surprise that after all makes baseball what it is. There could be little interest in watching a pennant race, if you knew how it was coming out before it started. Some of us might think now and then that we know how a race is coming out before it starts. But more often than not we discover along in September that we were all wet.

Your view on what the 1931 race holds for the Spudders is as good as the next man's, for there is little of definite quality about the club and its prospects. The situation is just the same as it was this time last year. The so-called experts are consigning the team to the lower depths of the second division just as they were a year ago. The reason is not at all hard to find. The club, just like that of last year, is being built up of comparative youngsters little known in the Texas league. Just as Storti, Burns, Kloza, Levey, et al., were strangers last year, so are Kelly, Badgro, Hassler, Bryant and others of this year's squad. The newcomer in the Texas league always is looked upon with a skeptical eye until he has proved his worth beyond all doubt.

Last spring those who were willing to take for granted the transplanted infield from Tulsa naturally were skeptical about the outfield. Kloza was an unknown quantity in every particular. Bettencourt had been a none too robust hitter the year before, and none had been able to find a place in the field he could play satisfactorily. There were no doubts concerning Fitzgerald, but the outfield had to come from Fitz, Kloza, Bettencourt and Garland Orr. The outfield situation looked none too good because Kloza and Bettencourt were unknown. But before the season was over the trio had established itself as one of the finest outfields, particularly from an offensive standpoint, the league has ever known.

The outfield this year, at least to our way of thinking, is more promising than that of a year ago, especially if you take it for granted that the club is to receive another outfielder from the Browns. But forgetting about the promise of help from the parent club, the trio of Fuss, Kelly and Badgro is fully as promising as that of Kloza, Fitzgerald and Bettencourt of a year ago. You don't believe it? Very well, consider the 1929 batting records of the 1930 trio. Bettencourt played in approximately one-fourth of the Spudders' games in 1929 and batted only .270. Jack Kloza came up from the class B Southeastern league with an average of .299. Fitzgerald in the campaign of 1929 hit .306. Compare these records with those of 1930 for the trio of Fuss, who batted .305 in the class B New York-Pennsylvania league; Kelly, who hit .320 in the class B Western circuit, and Badgro, who hit .239 in the American league, and you can see why.

While none can know positively what the Browns are going to do for the Spudders, we believe they will hustle an outfielder down this way before the Texas league race starts. We also believe that outfielder will be either Ted Gullic or Kloza. It is a certainty the Browns are going to start the season with Goslin, Schulte and Jenkins as the regular outfield. Bettencourt has shown, so well in spring training he is likely to be kept, and it is not probable that he can be waived out of the league. McNeeley will remain with the Browns because of his utility value. Waddey will be retained because he is a drafted player and will have to be kept or returned to Memphis, the club from which he was selected. That leaves only Gullic as a Spudder probability. Milwaukee's outfield is set and there would be no good reason to send Gullic there.

The only reason we believe there is a chance of Kloza returning here is that he is a terribly slow starter in the spring. That is, he was that way last year. If Marty Berghammer, the Milwaukee manager, gauges Kloza on what he shows through the spring season, and if the walloping Jack is performing in the Brewers' camp as he did here last spring, the Milwaukee manager is likely to sour on our Jack right from the start. The St. Louis club recognizes Kloza as a real prospect, and if the Brewers don't want to keep him, it is a certainty the St. Louis club will want to keep him somewhere in the string. Carl Williams will welcome the addition of either of these fellows. He has seen enough of both to realize that either is just the type of player the Spudders are most in need of—a long distance right-handed hitter to occupy the cleanup spot in the batting order.

The infield is different. We'd say that the prospects on the infield are not as bright this spring as last year, even though in each instance an entirely new infield is brought in. The only known quantity of this year's infield is Buck Stanton at first base, and we'd say he is more promising of big things than was Jack Burns at this time a year ago. At the other three positions, however, the Spudders at present have no proven hands, while a year ago Euller, Levey and Storti had all come up with glowing reputations as fielders and hitters, and their records prior to 1930 overshadowed those of the present group of infielders. All we know about Hassler is that he has been good enough to spend the greater part of the last two seasons in the American league. Jim Geygan's hitting is proven, but not his defensive ability at any position. He undoubtedly rates as a powerful utility infielder, though. Garms and Allday apparently can sock satisfactorily, too, and Scharein is not just a good fielder, but a great one. Aside from those things, we don't know much about the infielders. Our guess is that the club is to make important additions to the infield ranks before long.

Rookie Southpaw Suffers One Bad Inning in Defeat

Hillin and H. Taylor Pitch Well but Invaders Fail To Hit

DALLAS, March 21.—Taking advantage of the wildness of Doyle "Lefty" Taylor, rookie hurler, the Dallas Steers went on a scoring spree in the fourth inning to sew up the first of a two-game series with the Wichita Falls Spudders at Steer stadium Saturday, 9 to 1. Three hits, sandwiched in with six walks Taylor issued, gave the Steers eight runs in the fourth.

The victory over the Spudders was the fifth straight win for the Steers, who have bowled over all opposition in exhibition games so far played.

The hurling of Lou Garland and Maurice Main, two Steer youngsters who are expected to bolster the pitching staff in the 1931 race, and Hillin and H. Taylor of the Spudders, was the only outstanding feature of an otherwise uninteresting game.

Take Commanding Lead

After the Steers had piled up a commanding lead in the fourth, the Wichita Falls and Dallas hurlers pitched well, with Main, who pitched the last five innings, getting the best of the argument. Main allowed the Spudders only one hit, a single by Kelly in the sixth. Garland allowed three hits in the four innings he worked.

The heavy hitting usually present in spring exhibition games was conspicuous by its absence. Wichita Falls got but four hits and Dallas five bingles.

Francis Kelly, one of several aspirants from the Steer shortstopping job, was the only player to get more than one hit. Kelly drove in three runs with a double and a single.

Hillin Pitches Well

Ash Hillin and Howard Taylor, the other two Spudder pitchers used, did a neat enough job of stopping the Steers. Hillin, working the first three innings, gave up only one hit, fanned two and walked none. Howard Taylor, the finishing slabster, permitted one hit with two walks in the eighth for Dallas' final run. Doyle Taylor, too, did well enough after his one wild inning and blanked the Steers in the fifth and sixth.

Lefty Martin, Wichita Falls' collegiate first sacker, who is filling in until Buck Stanton arrives on the scene, accounted for the visitors' only extra base hit, a double.

The series will be concluded here Sunday. Manager Carl Williams is to select his three pitchers from White, Vincent, Cooney and Robertson.

JEAN BULLDOGS WIN OLNEY CAGE TOURNEY

JEAN, Texas, March 21.—Jean Bulldogs won the invitation basket ball tournament held at Olney this week under the auspices of the Presbyterian Pals, and sponsored by the Rev. Walton, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Olney.

The Bulldogs won by defeating the Eliasville Independents, 26 to 24, in a game filled with thrills. The Bulldogs were never behind, but with only about two minutes to go, Glover, Eliasville center, made the ringer that tied the game at 24 all. Groves, substitute Bulldog center, pulled the game out of the fire with a field goal with only seconds to play.

Glover, Eliasville center, was high-point man of the game with 14 and the Eliasville offensive star, while D. Allen, Bulldog forward, was high man for Jean with 12 points. Allen also played a great floor game.

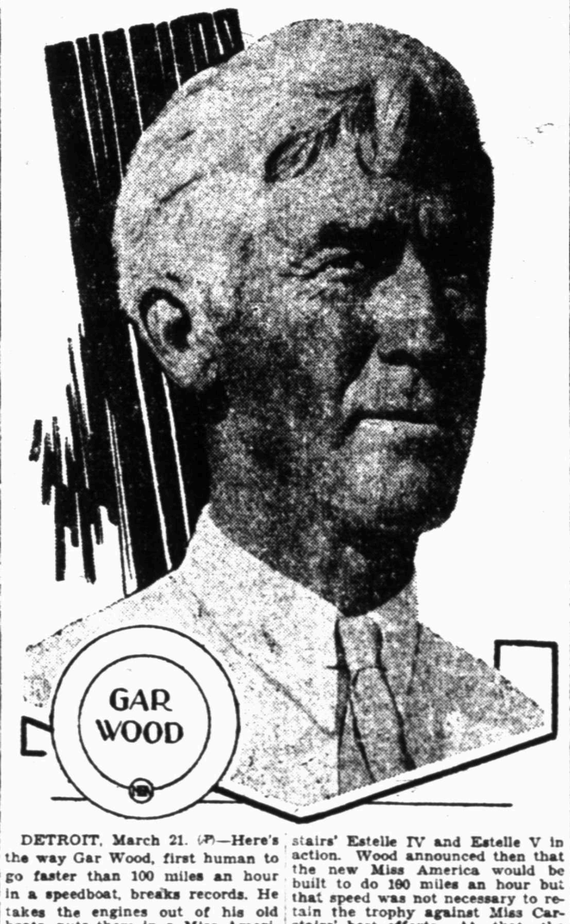

Jean placed only one man on the all-star team that was selected by the officials, Pratt, Bulldog, guard; Wilson, Ingleside, guard; Glover, Eliasville, center; Wright, Texas Cleaners, forward; Martin, Eliasville, forward, were the men making the all-star team and each of these players was presented with a bronze medal for his sterling work during the series. Ligon, Bulldog player and star guard of the series, lost out only because he failed to count points. Webb, Bulldog center, was awarded the trophy for being the best sport on the field during the series. The Bulldogs were awarded a mounted silver trophy for winning the series.

Night Ball in Majors

It will be several years before the major leagues adopt night baseball, Sidney Weil, president of the Cincinnati Reds, thinks.

Buffs Ready for Flag Race Except in Mound Department

AND STILL HE IS NOT SATISFIED

DETROIT, March 21. (AP)—Here's the way Gar Wood, first human to go faster than 100 miles an hour in a speedboat, breaks records. He takes the engines out of his old boats, puts them in a Miss America with a higher number, and the record falls.

Since Commodore Wood went to England in 1920 and lifted the Harmsworth trophy, emblematic of the world's championship in speedboating, it has been his ambition to be the first man to better 100 miles per hour on water. This hope was realized in trials at Miami Beach, Fla., Friday with an average speed of 102.256 nautical miles per hour.

Built in Three Weeks

The Miss America IX, latest of the line with which he has kept the trophy for more than a decade, was used in Friday's effort. It was powered with an engine from the Miss America VII and one from the Miss America VIII.

The Miss America IX was designed and built in three weeks last summer after speedboat king had taken a trip to Ontario and had seen Miss Marion Barbara Carstairs' Estelle IV and Estelle V in action. Wood announced then that the new Miss America would be built to do 100 miles an hour but that speed was not necessary to retain the trophy against Miss Carstairs' best efforts. At that the English girl made the best showing of any invader since Wood took the Harmsworth trophy. She was the first to finish a heat against him.

Segrave Killed

Misfortune always has appeared to thwart the efforts of challengers against Commodore Wood's supremacy on the water. Broken propellor shafts, flaming engines, and broken fuel lines are only a few of the troubles which have beset them.

Major Sir Henry O. D. Segrave, one of the few speed champions believed to have the skill necessary to regain the Harmsworth trophy for England, was killed last summer in England just after he set the record of 98.76 miles per hour which Wood broke Friday. Segrave had challenged Wood for the trophy. If Kaye Don, another Englishman, races for the trophy next September, he probably will drive the Miss England II in which Sir Henry lost his life.

Exporters Pounce on Hubbell to Win 6-5

BEAUMONT, March 21. (AP)—The Exporters greeted their old team mate, Carl Hubbell, with 10 hits in five innings Saturday and the locals took the first of a two-game series from the New York Giants' second team, 6 to 5. Three kid hurlers scattered five hits among the visitors, including a homer by Pickering, but the star Giant southpaw was not nearly as successful.

Blues 3, Buccaneers 1

GALVESTON, March 21. (AP)—With both clubs getting remarkably tight pitching for a March exhibition contest, the Galveston Buccaneers dropped the opening of a two-game series to the Kansas City Blues, 3 to 1. The cool weather kept both clubs hustling.

Two of Del Pratts' younger moundsmen, Russell Brancheau and Wayne Sweet had lots of stuff, limiting the association sluggers to five scattered hits.

FORT WORTH, March 21. (AP)—One bad inning and better pitching than they have been looking at in training, tumbled the Fort Worth Cats into defeat here Saturday afternoon, when the St. Paul Saints journeyed from their camp in Mineral Wells to open the exhibition season. The score was 6 to 2. It was the first game of the year for both teams.

Dallas Sends Six Bowling Teams To State Meet Here

Prospects Point to at Least 20 Five-Men Crews In Tournament

A steady attack on the hardwood pins at the Spudder alleys will be waged the next two week-ends as approximately 20 teams compete in the class A and class B divisions of the annual state championship tournament of the Texas Bowling association.

Entries closed at midnight Saturday, but those sent in by mail bearing postmarks prior to that time were to be accepted, and the exact number of bowlers to participate could not be determined until the final mails were received.

The heaviest out-of-town entry was received from Dallas. This city is sending six five-man teams here in an effort to capture the crown now held by Hub clothiers of Wichita Falls. The Hub team, which won last year in the titular tournament at Beaumont, has been broken up and will not be among the contestants. Dallas' entries included several veteran teams that have participated in important competitions throughout the country and are sure to be strong bidders for top honors in the tourney here.

The only other out-of-town entry received early Saturday night was that of the Schneider hotel team of Pampa. All of the Dallas teams and that of Pampa filed entries in the five-man, doubles and singles events.

Wichita Falls is expected to be represented by at least five or six teams each in class A and class B. The latter is limited to teams of average of 800 pins or less.

HENRYETTA AND GROVE TEAMS WIN CONSOLATION

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 21. (UP)—The high school basket ball team of Henryetta eliminated the Norman team Saturday to win the state interscholastic tournament consolation title. The score was Henryetta 23, Norman 18.

The girls team of Grove defeated the Eureka high girls, 28 to 20, to win the girls' consolation championship.

Electra's Track Team Outclasses Coyotes by 98-40

Surprisingly Strong Tiger Thinly Clads Easily Win Dual Meet

By JACK ALLEN

Coach Wilbur Presson's Electra High school track aggregation crushed the Coyote team, 98 to 40, in dual competition on the local track Saturday afternoon. The visiting thinly clads displayed a well-balanced team that was capable of placing two men in almost all of the events.

From the first, the Tigers assumed the role of the winner and maintained the terrific pace until the Coyotes were thoroughly subdued. In the high hurdles, the first event of the afternoon, the red and white racehorses from Electra won all three places. Raney, Coyote athlete, was disqualified after winning third place. After this fast start the Felines marched on to a decisive victory, placing two men in each of the 13 events and in one or two instances capturing all three places.

Result Is Upset

James Williamson, star of the Coyote squad, was high point man of the afternoon with 15 points, this total being derived from three first places, in the 100-yard dash, 220 hurdles and quarter-mile. Rex Swafford and Cecil Eaton, Electra mainstays, were the chief point-getters for the winners, with 13 each. Rodawaldt was a close second with 11 counters.

The result of the meet came as an upset, as the Pack had held the position of the favorite. Last year the Electra machine came to Coyoteville with the expectation of winning easily, but the Coyotes held the speedy Tigers to a 69-69 tie. The showing made by the Tigers in this dual meet makes them a favorite to capture their fifth successive district crown here in April.

Marks Unimpressive

Coach Presson's athletes were in almost perfect condition and worked smoothly and swiftly, whereas the Pack showed lack of that certain something called good condition. Nearly a month remains of the practice season before the district meet will be run off, and the Pack may improve sufficiently to become a contender for the championship by the date of the district competition.

The winning distances and the times in Saturday's meet were decidedly unimpressive. In the pole vault the height was a mere 10 feet 6 inches, and the high jump was only 5 feet 4 inches. The distance in the broad jump was a fair mark, 19 feet 6 inches, winning that event. In the 220-yard dash, won by Golden from the Electra squad, the time was close to a record, 22.9 being the winner's time.

The summary:

100-yard dash — Williamson, Coyotes, first; Holden, Tigers, second; Lane, Tigers, third; time 10.4 seconds.

110-yard high hurdles—Swafford, Tigers, first; Eaton, Tigers, second; Hogle, Tigers, third; time 18.4 seconds.

220-yard low hurdles—Williamson, Coyotes, first; Rodwalt, Tigers, second; Swafford, Tigers, third; time 26.5 seconds.

220-yard dash—Golden, Tigers, first; Smith, Tigers, second; Campbell, Coyotes, third; time 22.9 seconds.

440-yard dash — Williamson, Coyotes, first; Lane, Tigers, second; Parnell, Tigers, third; time 56 seconds.

880-yard run—Sandefer, Tigers, first; Smith, Tigers, second; Humble, Coyotes, third; time 2 minutes, 15 seconds.

One mile run—Cleninger, Tigers, first; Mauldin, Coyotes, second; Perkins, Coyotes, third; time 5 minutes, 10 seconds.

One mile relay—Electra, first; Wichita Falls, second; time 3 minutes, 10 seconds.

Pole vault—White, Tigers, first; Swafford, Tigers, second; Noey, Coyotes, third; height 10 feet, 6 inches.

Shot put—Eaton, Tigers, first; Parrish, Coyotes, second; Smith, Tigers, third; distance 41 feet, 2 inches.

Javelin throw — Welch, Tigers, first; Long, Tigers, second; Ellis, Tigers, third; distance 136 feet.

Broad jump—Rodwalt, Tigers, first; Satterwhite, Coyotes, second; Golden, Tigers, third; distance 19 feet, 6 inches.

CAMBRIDGE HUSKIES IN EIGHTH STRAIGHT WIN

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, March 21. (AP)—Out-rowing and out-generaling their rivals from the start, Cambridge's sweep-swinging huskies conquered Oxford by 2½ lengths Saturday for their eighth consecutive in an age-old rivalry that began in 1829.

The light blues caught Oxford napping at the start, dashing into a slight lead in the first 100 yards. They opened up the gap gradually until at one stage the dark blues trailed by three lengths. Then Cambridge settled down to a comparatively slow but powerful stroke that ate up the distance and discounted every one of Oxford's gallant challenges.

Ted Brocklebank, 157-pound stroke oar, was the hero of Cambridge's 42nd triumph in the long series. He dominated the light blue's boatload, took the Cambridge shell to the front at the start and kept it there.

Cambridge's time for the 4¼ miles was 19 minutes, 26 seconds, almost a full minute behind Oxford's record time of 18:29, established in 1911.

Cambridge now leads Oxford by a margin of two races in the century-old classic.

Howley Likes A's

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 21. (AP)—After seeing the world champions in action against his own outfit, "Smiling Dan" Howley, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, picks the Athletics to win another pennant this year. But there is a big if in the prediction—if nothing happens to Grove and Earnshaw.

"The two greatest in the business," says Howley.

"Greatest because they are hard to beat and work in so many games. They worked in nearly 100 games last year. Grove won three games in four days. He likes to work. The more Earnshaw is worked, the better he is. The world series proved that. Those two will decide the pennant."

Yanks Rained Out

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21. (UP)—Rain Saturday cheated the New York Yankees of their chance to score their first victory in three years over the Cardinals. Five times have the clubs met since New York swamped St. Louis in the 1928 world series, and five times have the Yankees lost. The game scheduled for Saturday will not be played off.

It was announced that the exhibition game slated for Jacksonville on March 28 will be played against a pickup team, and that the Atlanta club will be met at Montgomery, Ala., March 29.

The Yankees will finish their series with the Braves Sunday and devote next week to meetings with Indianapolis, the Phillies and the bearded nine of the House of David.

Klein Insistent

PHILADELPHIA, March 21. (AP)—The Evening Public Ledger Saturday quoted Chuck Klein, the Phillies' hard hitting, holdout right fielder, as saying he would quit baseball unless the Philadelphia club met his salary demands.

"Klein, speaking over the telephone from his home in Indianapolis," says the Ledger, "declared he would rather stay out of the game than accept the Phillies' terms. He is seeking an annual salary of $14,500.

TEXAS COACHING STAFF IS NAMED BY COUNCIL

AUSTIN, March 21. (AP)—W. E. Metzenthin, chairman of the University of Texas athletic council, said Saturday the council had "recommended the whole university athletic set-up" to the university board of regents. Asked if that included the entire coaching staff, he answered in the affirmative.

Metzenthin's statement followed close on the heels of reports that the athletic council was considering a student petition asking the removal of Coach Fred Walker, basket ball coach. The petition, Metzenthin said, was filed with him some time ago and read informally to the members of the council Thursday night.

Metzenthin said, in addition, that the council had recommended acceptance by the board of regents of all athletic appropriations granted.

All literary events, including finals in debate, will be held in Haskell Friday, March 27, with athletic events scheduled for Saturday at Fair park.

MACK DENIES SIMMONS ASKS HUNDRED GRAND FOR THREE CAMPAIGNS

PHILADELPHIA, March 21. (AP)—Press reports received here Saturday from the Philadelphia Athletics' spring training base at Fort Myers, Fla., said Al Simmons was asking a three-year contract calling for a total of $100,000 to play with the world's champions. Simmons is at Hot Springs, Ark.

The Athletics' management never reveals the salaries of the players but it is understood Simmons received $22,500 last year.

"I have not received any communication from Simmons demanding $100,000 for the next three years," Connie Mack is quoted as saying when informed of the report.

MORE COMPLETE CHECK OF LONGHORN ATHLETIC PARTICIPATION ORDERED

AUSTIN, March 21. (AP)—W. E. Metzenthin, chairman of the University of Texas athletic council, said Saturday the Grover (OX) Emerson ineligibility case had prompted him to insist that a more thorough and accurate record on athletes be kept by the University of Texas coaching staff.

Metzenthin said student managers kept records of the participation of athletes in games. He said he would select a member of the Texas university coaching staff to check these record with the student managers to avoid charges of participation against Longhorn athletes. Under this plan Metzenthin said he would ask the coach and the student manager to check with him at the close of the season all records involving participation in intercollegiate games.

Metzenthin said he understood Emerson and another player had exchanged jersies on the day of the game in which records charge the captain-elect of the 1931 Longhorns played. He said Emerson was a member of the 1928 squad, but maintained he did not take part in an intercollegiate game.

"I want to tell the world Jinx Tucker didn't tell me anything new," Grover (Ox) Emerson, captain-elect of the 1931 University of Texas Longhorns, said.

He said he knew he faced ineligibility "two or three weeks" before Tucker made his comments in the Waco News-Tribune and Times-Herald.

SCHMELING BELIEVES HE WILL WALLOP STRIBLING

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 21. (INS)—Max Schmeling, heavyweight boxing champion, Saturday expressed confidence that he will beat W. L. "Young" Stribling when they meet next June.

"However, I hope I have a hard time with Stribling," the champion said in broken English. "I don't want a setup."

Schmeling was given an ovation here Tuesday night following a three-round exhibition bout in which Tony Murello, New Orleans heavyweight, absorbed the German's blows.

Houston Already Sees Vision Of Pennant Winner

Infield Looms as One Of Strongest Combinations In League

(Editor's Note—This is the first of a series of articles outlining the pennant prospects of Texas league clubs.)

By LLOYD GREGORY
Houston Post-Dispatch Sports Editor

HOUSTON, March 21. (AP)—It is no secret those Houston Buffs must be counted in the Texas league pennant picture for 1931.

Class is stamped all over the outfield Joe Schultz is bossing. Many close followers believe with two more pitchers of proved merit the Buffs will breeze through to the flag. And, of course, it is reasonable to assume the pitching help will be forthcoming from the parent outfit, the St. Louis Cardinals.

An airtight infield that should register many a double killing looms large in Houston's prospects. This inner defense has been working together from the start of the spring training, and the way it handles the ball is a treat for the well-known sore eyes.

Guy Sturdy, former St. Louis Brownie, is on first; Carey Selph, one of the big factors in Houston's winning the 1928 Dixie championship, on second; Eddie Hock, the classiest fielding third baseman in the loop, again will hold down the hot corner; while George Binder is at short. Binder played great ball last season until illness forced him from the lineup.

Outfield All Set

For utility infielder, the Buffs have a real find in Thomas Carey, youngster who played last season for Chambersberg, Pa., in the Blue Ridge league, and hit .310. As a matter of fact, it would not be exactly surprising if Carey should crowd Binder out of the regular shortstop job.

The outfield is all set to go with Homer Peel, right-handed slugger, who last season in 58 games for Houston, hit .384 in left; Joe Medwick or Jimmy Sanders in center, and George (Pooch) Puccinelli in right.

Peel has demonstrated conclusively he is one of the best hitters in the league's history.

Medwick, powerful right-handed batsman, last season with Scottdale in the Mid-Atlantic league, hit close to .400.

Sanders from Greensboro in the Piedmont league is a left-handed hitter, and a more graceful fielder than Medwich, but at this writing Medwick has the edge.

Puccinelli, 215-pound Italian from San Francisco, is expected to prove a sensation. He swings from the right side, and is regarded one of the brightest prospects in all the far flung St. Louis Cardinal system.

George Payne Returns

Hal Funk, with the Buffs the past two seasons, is the first string catcher. The other maskman will be George Sheflott bought from Rochester; Leo Dixon bought from Columbus, or Byron Lackey, former Texas Aggie star. The fact he is a rookie or non-class man recommends Lackey.

George Washington Payne, the screw ball artist, one of the hardest working pitchers in the history of the Texas league, and "Tex" Carleton, with Houston in 1928, but with Rochester in 1929 and 1930, are the only first line pitchers now in camp.

Pete Fowler, southpaw from Reading, was counted on as a starting slinger; but is out now with a broken pitching hand.

Bob Durham, stocky right-hander who last season won 22 games for High Point, N. C., in the Piedmont league, and Paul Dean, 17-year-old brother of Dizzy Dean of the Cards, are the most promising rookie pitchers in camp. Both may make the grade. Dean is a right-hander.

Clarence Heise, southpaw from Scottdale, and Ray Starr and Bob Klinger, right-handers from Danville, are other possibilities.

But the Buffs need two more pitchers of proved merit before they are set for the campaign.

ROUSH MAY RETURN TO REDS IN PLAYER DEAL

SAN ANTONIO, March 21. (AP)—Eddie Roush, veteran New York outfielder, soon may join the Cincinnati baseball club, thus ending the long search of the Reds management for seasoned performer.

Sidney Weil, president of the Reds, was in touch with John J. McGraw, manager and vice president of the New York Giants, by long distance telephone in an inquiry regarding the status of the star.

Roush, out of the game for the 1930 season, was formerly with the Cincinnati club, having been traded to the Reds along with Mathewson and McKechnie in 1916 for Buck Herzog and Wade Killefer. In 1927 a deal brought him back to the Giants. Last year Roush held out for a fat contract, was turned down and eventually placed on the suspended list. He recently was reinstated by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis.

Beyond acknowledging the fact that Weil had been in touch with him, McGraw revealed little regarding a deal for Roush, but stated that Weil was to again communicate with him in 48 hours.

SARAZEN WINS LA GORCE OPEN

Armour, Cooper, Farrell and Kirkwood Follow Tournament Winner

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 21. (AP)—Gene Sarazen sank birdies at all points on this well-trapped course Saturday to win the $15,000 La Gorce open, one of golfdom's richest purses, with a sterling 282 after it looked as if he could do no better than tie Tommy Armour, Detroit, with 285.

Breaking a tie that ran up to the 68th hole, the shining faced Gene picked up a stroke a hole on the last three of the 72 holes to win the match and its $5,000 first money after leading the field through the first two days of play.

Gene sank eight birdies in the last 18 holes, calling upon his putter and short iron clubs to place him three strokes in the lead of Armour. His last 18 holes were accomplished to the tune of a brilliant 32-34—66, within one stroke of the record established last year.

Armour Runnerup

Gene's score for the tournament was 68-71-77-66—282.

Armour's 285, worth $2,500 second place money, was followed at a three-stroke interval by the 288 of "Light Horse" Harry Cooper of Chicago.

Johnny Farrell, winner of the event in 1928, was in fourth place with a 290, while Joe Kirkwood, New York, with 291, was fifth.

Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., and Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., were tied in next place with 292 apiece. A trio of Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, Walter Hagen, Detroit, and Densmore Shute, Columbus, Ohio, was one stroke behind Dudley and Turnesa.

Challengers Drop Out

One by one the early challengers of Sarzen's first day lead fell by the wayside to leave him unchallenged at the 72nd hole. He led alone after 18 holes, but shared second day honors with Joe Turnesa at the half way mark.

The leading money winners and their scores follow:

Tommy Armour, Detroit, 73-69-72-71—285—$2,500.

Harry Cooper, Chicago, 71-73-72-72—288—$1,000.

Johnny Farrell, Mamaroneck, N. Y., 74-70-73-73—290—$750.

Joe Kirkwood, New York, 71-70-76-74—291—$600.

Ed. Dudley, Wilmington, Del., 74-72-73-73—292—$525.

Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., 69-70-75-78—292—$525.

Walter Hagen, Detroit, 71-73-71-78—293—$400.

Denny Shute, Columbus, Ohio, 75-74-75-69—293—$400.

Ralph Guldahl, Dallas, Texas, 72-76-76-75—299—$60.

Joe Exar, Waco, Texas, 76-73-77-75—301—$33.33.

JULY 3 JINX DAY FOR SALLY LEAGUE PLAYER

MACON, Ga., March 21. (AP)—Joe Vance, Macon baseball player, claims the world's record for circulating bases—13 seconds flat—but he can't run away from trouble on July 3.

That's his jinx date, he says, and gives the following reasons:

July 3, 1926—hit over head with chair and seriously injured in free-for-all in Mexico. July 3, 1927—ribs crushed when water tank fell on him. July 3, 1928—two ribs broken by fast ball in Texas.

July 3, 1929—broke a finger playing ball in North Carolina. July 3, 1930—four front teeth knocked out when hit in mouth by high fly at Macon.

Borotra Defeats Bell In Hardfought Final

BERKELEY BELL

Jean Borotra, the French veteran was given one of the hardest battles of his tennis career Saturday in defeating Berkeley Bell, the University of Texas product, for the national indoor championship. The scores were 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

for a doubles match between Borotra and Boussus and the team of George Lott of Chicago and Johnny Van Ryn of East Orange N. J.

Shields will meet Boussus and Bell will engage Borotra on Wednesday night in the concluding play.

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—Jean Borotra Saturday won the United States indoor tennis singles championship for the fourth time, defeating Berkeley Bell, Dallas, in the finals in five gruelling sets and making it a clean sweep for France in the American title play.

Borotra and Christian Boussus teamed up Friday to defeat Cliff Sutter of New Orleans and Pierre Landry, also of France, in the doubles.

The bounding Frenchman, veteran of Davis cup play and second in the French national ranking, had to be at his best Saturday to beat the slightly built American, only eleventh in the United States ranking and handicapped by an injured foot.

Basque Worried

The little Bell slashed back at his rival with all the power of stroke and speed of foot he could muster and at times had the Basque obviously worried and uncertain.

In an exhibition match after the Borotra-Bell duel, the Philadelphia team of George Lott Jr., and John Van Ryn, defeated John H. Doeg, of Newark, national champion and No. 1 in the ranking, and Frank Shields, ranked No. 2, two sets to one, 8-6, 4-6, 6-2.

Team Matches Next

NEW YORK, March 21. (UP)—With the indoor championship out of the way, play in the international team matches between French and American tennis stars gets under way here Monday, when Jean Borotra opposes Frank X. Shields of New York and Christian Boussus meets Berkeley Bell.

Big Leagues Consider Players Salary Limit

By DIXON STEWART
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, March 21.—Major league baseball magnates, emboldened by the success of their united stand against demands for salary increases, now are reported to be advocating the adoption of a fixed salary limit for players.

Sponsors or the plan declare that growing demands of players for more money each year, despite business depression and steadily increasing overhead expenses, make salary legislation a necessity. The plan already has been discussed by several club owners.

Minor leagues of low classification have had limited pay rolls for many years and this season the International league, one of the three class AA minors, adopted legislation limiting the salaries of each club to $75,000 for the year.

Individual Limit

Big leaguers advocating salary limitation favor a rule prohibiting a club from signing a player for more than $20,000 or limiting the club's total pay roll to $200,000 for the championship season, covering a period of six months. They also suggest restricting all contracts to one year.

Such legislation would directly affect high salaried stars like Babe Ruth, Rogers Hornsby, Hack Wilson, Lefty Grove, Dazzy Vance, Bill Terry, Lou Gehrig and others.

A more radical plan would reduce all major league club's pay rolls to $30,000 per month. This would help 10 clubs—the Giants, Cubs, Robins, Athletics, Senators, Indians, Tigers, Cardinals, Pirates and Yankees—which now have pay rolls well in excess of that figure. It would prove beneficial to the other clubs, which under present conditions cannot afford to compete with their more prosperous rivals.

Ruth May be First

Since Babe Ruth inaugurated high salaries in baseball pay rolls have been advancing steadily. This year, for the first time, the magnates presented a united front against demands of holdouts and in every instance recalcitrant players were forced to sign at the figures offered by club owners. It is vata agreement not to increase their believed the magnates had a prioriginal offers and this belief was strengthened by the fact owners showed no willingness to discuss trades for athletes who held out for higher salaries.

Ruth may be the first victim of the magnates' new plan to reduce salaries. His three-year contract of $80,000 per season will expire this year. It is freely predicted the Yankees will offer him a one-year contract with a big cut in pay.

If Ruth is forced to accept a salary reduction, magnates believe the way will be paved for a general cut in salaries and for an early adoption of the proposed salary limit legislation.

Late entrants included Oklahoma university and Southwestern State Teachers college of Oklahoma.

Hornets' Mentor Names All-Time Athens Hi Stars

Greatest of Championship Winners Selected by Basket Ball Coach

DALLAS, March 21. (AP)—Three Texas interscholastic league championships, two national scholastic titles, six district and bidistrict crowns, one Texas A. A. U. championship and runnersup in one national tournament. A brilliant basket ball record, and it belongs to Jimmy Kitts, director of athletics at Athens High school. Coach Kitts has realized all this within five years. His Hornets are the only quintet to thrice win the Texas schoolboy cage title.

During his five years at Athens, Kitts has coached numerous players who made various all-star teams. The Athens boys are noted for their basket ball ability and height. Kitts is a believer in height, and seldom does a boy make his first string team who is under the 6-1 mark.

Kitts closes his 1931 cage campaign with a selectio nof an all-star team from players he has coached the last five years. The Athens coach was a bit shy on naming his all-time, all-star team, but consented to do it for The Associated Press. His all-time team follows:

Fred Tompkins and "Doc" Summers, forwards; Jake Reynolds, center; Ben Tompkins and John Tompkins, guards.

Kitt's all-time team should not make the Tompkins family peeved.

Referring to his all-time aggregation, Kitts said:

"It is as good a team as could be picked. Not only is it favorable with my pick, but is a team that meets with the approval of our Athens basket ball experts such as Assistant Coach Arch Underwood, "Doc" Stirman, Rupert Craig and Dangerous Ike La Rue."

"This team," continues Kitts, "gives me a quintet of six footers. I like a lot of height under the basket. All five are good ball handlers and each can hit the bucket from anywhere. It is difficult to leave off such boys as Brannon, Ware and Connelius. The latter two pulled my team through this season. Out of the five boys I named, four have, during their careers been selected as all-American high school players. All have been all-state selections. Ben Tompkins would be my captain."

Fred Tompkins is the only member of Kitts' all-time, all-star team who still wears an Athens uniform. "Doc" Summers played on the T. C. U. championship quintet this season. Jake Reynolds recently closed a splendid season at Southern Methodist. Ben Tompkins played this year for Dallas Athletic club. All, except Reynolds, played for Dallas Athletic club in the national A. A. U. tournament at Kansas City last week. They lost in the second round after a game that required two overtime chapters. As for next year—Kitts is confident of another team that will go far in the state race. This is not meant to make other 1932 quintets shiver in their boots, but just a fair weather warning from Kitts.

SPEED KEYNOTE OF MAKERS OF PLANES NATIONAL CONTEST

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 21. (AP)—Speed of the 300 to 400-mile-an-hour variety—that is the ambition of manufacturers as they design aircraft for participation in the national air races here Aug. 29 to Sept. 7.

Clifford Henderson, managing director of the races, announced this tonight after an observation trip to some of the principal manufacturing plants. He also told of his plans for innovations at the races to create new speed dash records and to imprint the meaning of rapid flight more strongly on the consciousness of the spectator.

One of the leaders in the competition for miles an hour will be Alford J. Williams, former United States navy lieutenant, who is developing a new motor of 1,000 to 1,500 horsepower, to weigh less than a pound for each horsepower, Henderson said.

Besides developing lighter and more powerful engines to beat the world speed mark of 268.9 miles an hour for land planes and approach nearer to the 345.4 mark set by seaplanes, the manufacturers are running their craft through a "smoothing out process—doing everything they can to cut down wind resistance, Henderson said.

He said there is a great amount of work being done on retractible landing gear to cut down something like 20 per cent of the resistance. There are to be many wing modifications and more stream-lining.

More manufacturers are installing variable pitch propellors to increase top speed as much as 20 miles an hour.

ATTORNEYS EXPECT EARLY COMPLETION OF BROTHERS JURY

JURORS WITH SCRUPLES AGAINST DEATH EXCUSED

Secrecy of State's Plans Leaves Prosecution In Quandary

CHICAGO, March 21. (UP)—Twelve men who will decide whether Leo V. Brothers murdered Alfred J. (Jake) Lingle, will be accepted Monday, one week after the trial's start, opposing counsel predicted today.

Brothers' trial before Judge Joseph Sabath was in adjournment over the week-end, giving prosecutors and defense attorneys an opportunity to prepare opening statements.

Eight jurors sworn and two more tentatively accepted by both sides will be in the jury box when the state takes over the questioning of the talesmen Monday.

Both Tyrell Krum, defense attorney, and C. Wayland Brooks, assistant state's attorney, were of the opinion the remaining four jurors will be found then.

Although Brooks has caused dismissal of all prospective jurors with scruples against the death penalty, he refused to comment on reports that the state would demand capital punishment for the St. Louis gangster.

Defense Plans

The secrecy Brooks and Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Rathburn have thrown around the prosecution's plans left the defense in a quandary as to its own procedure.

Krum indicated, however, the defense was prepared to proceed along three lines:

1. Testimony by eye-witnesses that Brothers was not the left-handed gunman who shot down the Chicago Tribune reporter in a Michigan avenue tunnel.

2. Testimony by Frank Bell, "confessed" driver of the killer's automobile, that Indiana gangsters committed the murder.

3. Attacks upon the credibility of John G. Hagan, former Kansas City private detective, whom the defense expects to be called as the prosecution's star witness.

Hagan, who has been registered in a loop hotel, changed his quarters last week, presumably to avoid newspapermen.

Brooks declared today that Hagan, said by the defense to have been promised a $10,000 reward for first bringing Brothers' name into the Lingle murder investigation, is not on the list of state witnesses.

"I never heard of the man and don't know a thing about him," Brooks asserted.

COMMUNISTS BOYCOTT REICHSTAG'S TRIBUTE TO MUELLER'S MEMORY

BERLIN, March 21. (AP)—The gesture for which Hermann Mueller's political opponents never forgave him lived after him today as the Nationalists and Communists boycotted a reichstag session paying tribute to the memory of the chancellor who signed the Versailles treaty.

One Communist attended and he refused to rise with the other members as a token of respect for the statesman whose creed was conciliation. There was a near riot and members loyal to Mueller's memory spat upon the offending Communist.

The former chancellor, who was 54, died Friday night after a long illness.

OKLAHOMA CITY YOUTH STRUCK BY MOTOR TRUCK AND CONDITION SERIOUS

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 21. (UP)—Johnny Taylor, 10, was struck by a truck near his home today. He was taken to a hospital where his condition was reported as serious.

S. E. Williford, the truck driver, said the boy, his arms full of bundles, stepped in front of his machine. The boy had been to the store for his mother.

TEXAS HAS ONION CROP 21,130 ACRES THIS YEAR

SAN ANTONIO, March 21. (AP)—Texas will have an onion crop of 21,130 acres this year, more than twice as much as all other producing states combined, according to reports to G. D. Clark, truck crop estimater, reported through the market news bureau here.

Most of the Texas acreage is in the early crop, Bermuda and Creoles, the total of these varieties being 19,580 acres. The acreage in the Collin county section of North Texas will be of the Prizetaker variety, totaling 1,550 acres.

The total of all other states is 9,110 acres, there being only 2,500 acres of the early varieties competing with Texas.

Texas also holds the predominance in the tomato crop, according to Clark's report. There are 33,100 acres of tomatoes in the state this year, compared with 42,030 in all other states combined.

COMEDIAN AT HOUSTON THEATER NEAR DEATH

HOUSTON, March 21. (AP)—Billy Smith, a wise cracker who could "wow 'em," had laid aside his comedy role today for another and a grim one.

Smith, who came here four weeks ago to play a local theater, didn't go on, but went to a hospital instead with typhoid fever. Today it was disclosed that he was near death—would die without a blood transfusion. The hospital called for volunteers and two responded. Meanwhile the theater manager announced he would get the players on this week's bill together and lay Billy's case before them.

SINGING SISTERS FROM SOUTHLAND "STOP THE SHOW"

By GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, March 21.—Whether it's population be 300 or 500 at the present moment, the town of Meadville, Miss., has been placed on the rather elastic map of Broadway.

For it has provided the main stem with its latest "show stoppers." Now it so happens that this has been a slow season for "show stoppers," for some reason or another. To be sure, there have been the usual number of newcomers who arrived in sackcloth and walked away with laurels.

But it remained for the Forman sisters—Hilda, Louise and Maxine—to "stop cold" so important a musical production as "America's Sweetheart."

And in all New York you'll find no performers who seemed to make less effort.

The production, which is a registered hit, is another dig in the hardened ribs of Hollywood. Toward the mid-rift of the show, the curtain rises on a mountain scene and three "hill-billy" gals are shown enjoying movie fan magazines. Then, when on the opening night, they burst into low-brown harmony, it was all over. And so it has been ever since. For the Forman's are just barber shop harmonizers, who bring out such classics as "Tennessee Dan" and "Sweet Geraldine."

There are a number of important people in this show, by the way—stars in the bright lights. And the Forman gals appear but three times—yet, in those few minutes, they all but "steal the show." And since all romances of Broadway have to start somewhere, their story goes like this: as youngsters—and they're not so old now—they sang in the choir of a "Primitive Baptist" congregation.

They happened to have an aunt in Memphis, Tenn., and while visiting her they were asked to appear at a charity affair. It so happened that a southern road show, "The Dixie Follies" was being organized and they "joined up." Their parents thought, for a time, that they were still with their aunt but there came a showdown and letters from their mother and father met them at every town, begging them to come home. It was too late—the stage virus had given them the fever.

It wasn't long before they had secured a vaudeville engagement. Which was but two years ago. About a year ago, their stage meanderings brought them to New York. And last winter, patrons of a certain night club that happened to be getting the swank trade, found that small town Mississippi gals could give the Broadway performers a run for their money. Whereupon Laurence Schwab, of the firm Schwab and Mandel, happened to drop in on the club and signed the sisters up for "America's Sweetheart."

Hilda, Louise and Maxine Forman, three little girls from down in Mississippi who came to Broadway and "stopped the show" on their very first appearance.

With Ted Healy at the helm, "The Gang's All Here" hove into port, heavy with columnists gone playwright, and with a crew of important playerfolk. Yet, with all the important playerfolk, the various and sundry columnists gone playwright seemed to have reserved their fun for the columns, rather than for their show. For such elegant performers as Zelma O'Neil, Gina Malo, Ruth Tester, Tow Howard and Healy are asked to appear before the footlights with materials as slim as a lady after a 10-day diet.

But there are tunes from the pen of Lewis Gensler that you will hear and hear and hear—by radio, phonograph and way points. These alone may not save the show, but they will insure a neat income for at least one of the authors.

"Heat Wave" turned out to be one of those torrid opuses about a torrid British colony. I have a theory that the heat wave will be at an end almost as soon as this is being read.

"Topaze," translated from the French, became one of the hits of last year, so a traveling French company, carrying slightly frayed scenery, arrived in town after a long road trip over the world showing how the players presented it in the original French. It was a much more spiced and farced arrangement than that which New Yorkers saw in the English version. Yet it was too close to Paris for New York audiences to grasp all the nuances. It's interest remained chiefly in the changes that can happen during transiation and adaptation.

Finally there came "The Great Barrington," with that excellent actor Otto Kruger. But, in so far as I can figure out, not even the oldest of the Manhattan critics are quite sure yet what it was all about. Its chances for life are slim.

YOUTH HELD FOR SHOOTING DALLAS CO-ED AT PARTY

HARRIMAN, Tenn., March 21. (AP)—Physicians today held small hope for the recovery of Miss Anna Grace Gilliland, 21, who with Miss Virginia Morrow, 24, Univesity of Tennessee co-ed and resident of Dallas, Texas, was shot and wounded at a high school party and dance here Friday at midnight.

Roy Chitwood, 22, whom officers said was a former sweetheart of Miss Gilliland, is in jail at Kingston, Tenn., charged with felonious assault upon two young women. He will be given a preliminary hearing Tuesday. Sheriff W. W. Roberts said he has the names of four witnesses who say they saw Chitwood fire at his former sweetheart.

The sheriff quoted the youth as saying, "I drank a pint of liquor before going to the party; remember being there, but remember nothing about the shooting."

Miss Gilliland was shot twice through the left side and once through the left arm. Miss Morrow, a university senior, who came here from Southern Methodist university, Dallas, last fall to enter the University of Tennessee, was shot through the right leg.

Miss Morrow, the sheriff said, was apparently shot accidentally. She was standing beside Miss Gilliland.

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT MAN HELD AT LAREDO ON EXTORTION CHARGE

LAREDO, Texas, March 21. (UP)—A writ of habeas corpus was denied Charles Schwartz, alias Victor Milles, linked with the Arnold Rothstein murder case in New York and known as "The Count," by district court here tonight.

Schwartz is under indictment by the Webb county grand jury on a charge of extortion of $50,000 from Joseph Rosenblum, prominent Laredo onion and produce broker. He presented, through his attorneys, a motion for habeas corpus release charging that he had been extradited from France to this country, and according to a treaty between the United States and France, he could be tried only for the offense for which he was extradited.

The court ruled today that when he was tried, Schwartz will have the right to present his defense in the manner prescribed by law. The judge refused to free him and placed him in the custody of the sheriff.

Officials said that Schwartz' record showed that he had been arrested in many parts of the country since 1906 and that previous to that time he was a well known police figure in Europe. He was arrested on March 17 at Eagle Pass, Texas, on a counterfeiting charge.

The car was badly damaged and Carruth was cut, perhaps seriously, about the head.

Attending physicians said his condition might be found dangerous at the conclusion of further investigation.

HIJACKERS GET $55 HERE FROM HEAD OF PLANT

Eentering the establishment of the French Dry Cleaners, 2102 Avenue E, through a rear door, two negro hijackers forced H. L. Porterfield, manager of the place to accompany them for a distance in the alley where they robbed him of about $55, according to a report to police Saturday night.

They then threatened Mr. Porterfield with death if he made outcry before they were out of sight, police were informed.

The negroes crept into the place so quietly that they had him covered with pistols before he knew of their presence, Mr. Porterfield said.

The bandit pair were believed by police to be the same ones who have committed eight hijackings here within a week.

Amphibian Plane For Coast Guard Stops at Abilene

ABILENE, Texas, March 21. (AP)—The United States coast guard is 140 years old, but is new in the air game—only six years. The first amphibian plane bought for that arm of Uncle Sam's service arrived here today en route from the factory at Santa Monica, Calif., to Cape May, N. J. While the plane itself is new, the two 300-horsepower motors are service motors, and the tie-up here was made for adjustments. Needed parts are being ferried tomorrow from Kelly field, San Antonio.

The Amphibian is flown by its manufacturer, Maj. Carl A. Cover, vice president of Douglas Aircraft company, and is bearing Commander N. B. Hall, chief of the aviation section of the coast guard, and C. J. Carr of Santa Monica. The trip will be resumed Monday morning, with St. Louis the night stop. The ship is destined for Gloucester, Mass., for service with the fishing fleets in locating lost craft.

SAN ANTONIO MAN KILLED IN BATTLE RESISTING HOLDUP

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 21. (UP)—Paul Kardow, 58, butcher, was killed tonight by three pistol bullets fired by a 22-year-old bandit who invaded Kardow's shop.

Kardow walked into the butcher shop while his employer, L. R. Graham, was being held up by the bandit. The robber told both men to lie flat on the floor.

Kardow responded by lunging into the bandit, who fired six times. Three bullets struck the butcher in the abdomen. Although mortally wounded Kardow continued to grapple with the bandit and Graham rushed to his aid. With a customer, J. B. Mildored, they overpowered the intruder.

Kardow died en ruote to a hospital. The bandit gave his name as R. C. "Bob" Edwards. He was treated for scalp wounds inflicted by Graham who wrestled the gun from him and beat him over the head with it.

PHARR, Texas, March 21. (UP)—The widow of Ora J. McClinton, U. S. Cavalryman who 50 years ago recaptured the flag taken from Custer after that officer and his men were massacred, has received citation from the United States War Department, it was learned here today.

McClinton slashed his way through the Indians at the village of Slim Butte, to retake the flag. The citation, a tiny star, has been attached to a medal given Mrs. McClinton three years ago, just after the death of her husband, for services during the Indian wars.

SENATOR WAGNER PROPOSES REPEAL AND STATE ACTION

NEW YORK, March 21. (UP)—Repeal of the 18th amendment and state action on prohibition were proposed in a speech before the national Democratic forum today by Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York. Such a course would, he said, "conserve the single achievement of the prohibition era, the elimination of the pre-prohibition saloon."

Remarking that in both major parties there has been an attempt to meet the prohibition issue with silence, he declared "I am satisfied that the American people will not let us forget it. The issue cannot be avoided or evaded."

"Let the federal government repeal the 18th amendment without substitute, without trimmings and without reserve," he urged. "Let the friends of change combine repeal and state action into a single program and many will flock to their banner who have thus far hesitated."

For Unqualified Repeal

NEW YORK, March 21. (US)—On the strength of the Wickersham report, the Voluntary Committee of Lawyers, Inc., was urged by its board of managers today to continue to work for "immediate, unqualified repeal" of the 18th amendment.

"A most effective means to that end is the dissemination among the public of a knowledge of the findings of fact of the Wickersham commission," the board added.

The committee has selected membership of more than 3,000 lawyers in all parts of the country, with special committees in many of the larger cities. Joseph H. Choate Jr., is chairman of the board.

In the opinion of the board, the large majority of the lawyers of the country are convinced that the amendment must be repealed.

YOUNG MOTHER HELD IN JAIL

Mrs. Creighton Unable To Make $10,000 Bond

HASTINGS, Neb., March 21. (AP)—A young mother arrested in connection with the Hastings National bank robbery last month was held today under $10,000 bond for trial in district court on charges of being an accessory to kidnaping a policeman and of receiving stolen property.

The woman, Mrs. Thelma Creighton, wife of Jimmy Creighton, now sought in connection with the robbery, was placed in jail on her failure to make bond.

Her attorney said they would ask that her trial be continued until next fall. She is about to become a mother again.

Her year-old son, Bobby, was present in the courtroom during the preliminary hearing today before County Judge J. Halsey Bohlke. The child is being cared for by her relatives, who live at Seminole, Okla.

No testimony was offered for the defense at the hearing. State witnesses testified to finding money in Mrs. Creighton's clothes after her capture along with Jim Thomas. Policeman J. L. Wood told of being forced to accompany Thomas and Mrs. Creighton on their unsuccessful flight from Hastings.

Charged with being one of the three men who robbed the bank of $27,000, Thomas is in the penitentiary at Lincoln for safe keeping. He and Volcott Condit, a special officer, were wounded in a gun fight following the robbery.

Joe Moore, Amarillo, Texas; A. R. Enfield and Fred G. Apt, both of Iola, Kan., and John Lawler, Hastings, represented Mrs. Creighton today.

The seeds of the Russian steppe grass are thrust into the ground by the plant itself. The plant forms a coil of fiber and on wet days the fiber twists and works its way into the ground. On hot days the fiber untwists, but remains in a fixed position by means of a barb at the end holding it firmly under the soil.

In some Japanese temples may be seen suspended coils of rope woven from human hair. Such ropes, made of hair sacrificed by thousands of women and girls, were used to hoist stone and timber when the temples were built.

HAVANA PREPARES TO GUARD AGAINST REIGN OF TERROR

HAVANA, March 21. (AP)—The Cuban government today threw additional troops into Havana and made preparations to guard against possible acts of violence during the next few days.

A woman, whose identity is unrevealed, came to a close friend of President Machado with a startling story of "72 hours of terror" which she said were to begin tomorrow midnight and end Wednesday.

The city was to be cut off from electric lights and water to make the trouble more complete, the woman said, confusion was to reign, blood was to be shed and destruction was to be caused on every side. During the terrorism, the assassinations of the three officials were to take place, the men who were to perpetrate them being assigned to the task under pain of death, she said.

Although numerous "cranks" have come to the government with similar stories of plotted violence and bloodshed, and all have invariably failed to materialize, President Machado felt it wise to take no chances. There have been a number of disturbances recently, together with an attempt or two upon his life.

Sprague of Harvard university, who last year was attached to the bank as statistical advisor. Norman declined to state the purpose of his visit.

Without Significance

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—The visit to the United States of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, reported to have left England yesterday aboard the Berengaria, is regarded in banking circles here as without special significance.

Bankers pointed out that in recent years the heads of the central banking systems of England and the United States have exchanged visits to keep abreast of banking developments in the two countries. It was suggested that Mr. Norman's visit was for this purpose.

SALE SAUNDERS STORES SCHEDULED FOR APRIL 7

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21. (AP)—Sale of all assets of the Clarence Saunders Stores, Inc., was set for April 7, at a meeting of its creditors here today. A re-organization committee plans to buy them.

The Southwide Serve-Yourself Grocery chain, went into receivership last summer.

Leslie Stratton, Memphis and J. R. Peters, New York, the Southern chain's receivers, and A. G. Riley, Memphis attorney, were elected trustees for the property today.

Under a plan perfected with the cooperation of the receivers and a majority of creditors, a re-organization committee formed to take over the business when the receivership ends, intends to buy in most of the 134 stores. They will be offered for bidding in units and as a whole. Until the sale, all stores will continue business.

Mail Pilot Medals

WASHINGTON.—Recent rules set up by President Hoover provide that he can award medals to air mail pilots. Not more than one medal can be awarded a pilot. For additional feats of bravery, heroism and extraordinary achievement, the president can award a pilot a suitable bar or some other device.

Former Police Woman Threatens Exposure Of Political Graft

CHICAGO, March 21. (UP)—The most sensational exposure of police and political graft in Chicago history was threatened today after Mrs. Shirley Kub, former police spy, had made good her promise to "tell all" rather than remain in jail for contempt of court.

Mrs. Kub, who once was quoted as boasting she knew enough about graft "to blast half the politicians and policemen in the city out of their jobs," was released early today by a special grand jury before which she had testified almost continuously for 15 hours.

Mrs. Kub formerly was an undercover agent for Acting Police Commissioner John Alcock. It was said that in that capacity she carried on extensive investigations and obtained valuable and exhaustive information concerning graft. She was discharged by Alcock for failing to report to him all she learned.

Mrs. Kub gained public attention in January when the special jury was investigating the case of Police Sergeant Jack Herdegen, who was dismissed from the force after his former sweetheart, Bernice Shaw, testified that Jack Zuta, a gang leader, had furnished $1,500 which Herdegen used to buy a promotion.

Miss Shaw, angry at Herdegen because he had jilted her, named Mr. Kub as "knowing all about police graft," but Mrs Kub disappeared when called to testify. She reappeared this month, was taken before the grand jury, refused to testify and was sent to jail on March 13 for contempt.

Yesterday she sent word that she had all the imprisonment she wanted and would "tell all." She went before the jury at 10 a. m. and it was not until about 1 o'clock today that she finished her story.

BRITTEN SAYS RECENT CRITICISM U. S. NAVY BRITISH SMOKE SCREEN

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—Chairman Britten of the house naval committee said today recent criticism in the British parliament of naval aircraft expansion in this country was "but a smoke screen behind which their seapower rests very contentedly."

"The United States leads the world in naval aviation," Britten said in a statement. "This is admitted in England, France and Italy where they point to the progress made in this country. My thought is we will be still further ahead of the world in aviation in the next four or five years."

The next naval program he added will provide for not less than two airplane carriers, two flying deck cruisers, 10 submarines and 12 destroyers.

"Any foreign criticism directed at our commercial or military aviation," he said, "should have no effect on future appropriations by congress."

TWO WOMEN INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

NACOGDOCHES, Texas, March 21. (AP)—Mrs. J. H. Wisely and Mrs. W. D. Sepaugh, both of Nacogdoches, were in a hospital at Henderson today under treatment for injuries received in an automobile wreck near there yesterday. Their automobile was forced into a ditch by a big oil truck, officers were told by Rev. and Mrs. Bonnie Grimes and Mrs. Link Summers, of Nacogdoches, who were in the car with them, but were uninjured.

LONDON.—A survey of Europe's airways show that air mileage of the continent has multiplied more than 20 times since 1929. That year there were 3,000 miles in operation. Today there are 60,000. It is estimated that Europe now has 45 per cent of the world total of 136,000 miles.

Policemen Chased From First House Second Has Still

DALLAS, March 21. (UP)—After bearking into the wrong house and being chased out by the ill and highly indignant owner, officers today raided a large country home near here and found 2,000 gallons of mash and a whisky still.

Promising faithfully to pay for the screen door and lock they had broken, officers retreated in haste before the irate resident of the first house visited.

Still warm, the still at the second house was deserted when the raiders arrived. No liquor was found.

POLICE INVESTIGATING SECOND JEWEL ROBBERY AT MIAMI BEACH, FLA.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 21. (AP)—The second jewel robbery in eight days in Florida's winter playgrounds was being investigated by police today.

Moescha Rosenberg, salesman for a New York jewelry firm, reported to police last night diamonds valued at $37,450 wholesale were stolen from him by three men armed with pistols.

March 12 in nearby Palm Beach jewels valued at $750,000 retail were taken from the show rooms of a branch of Charlton & Co. of New York. The manager of the branch, Otis Wegener, told police he had been kidnaped by four men who forced him to give them the key to his store and the combination to the safe.

DALLAS GRAND JURY HAS RECESS PENDING ARRIVAL OF TWO MEN FLOGGED

DALLAS, March 21. (AP)—The Dallas county grand jury took a week-end recess today, still awaiting word from Kansas City as to when C. J. Coder and Lewis Hurst, Communist organizers, planned to leave Kansas City to return to Dallas and relate the story of their kidnaping and asserted flogging by armed men here March 5. District Attorney William McCraw said the investigation could make little headway until Hurst and Coder returned and attempted to identify the alleged kidnapers. Approximately 75 witnesses have appeared before the grand jury during the investigation.

BROOKLYN JUDGE QUITS BECAUSE OF ILL HEALTH

NEW YORK, March 21. (UP)—"Because of ill health," Magistrate Leo Healy of the Brooklyn homicide court, resigned today and remained in seclusion.

Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee accepted his resignation. Mayor James J. Walker had appointed Healy in November, 1927, to fill out an unexpired term.

Healy's action in freeing an intoxicated hit-and-run driver two weeks ago is under investigation by the Kings county grand jury jurors' association. Last summer he was investigated, and absolved, after he had been accused of having bought his position, of intoxication and of assaults.

Friends said today Healy has been suffering from grippe and laryngitis and must take a long rest after he has recovered from acute phases of the illness.

PLAN STATEWIDE CAMPAIGN DRIVE ROAD BOND ISSUE

AUSTIN, March 21. (AP)—The citizens' committee on good roads, concluding a three-day executive meeting here today, decided upon a state-wide campaign for the proposed $200,000,000 state highway bond issue.

Members of the committee said added support was being received from organizations throughout the state interested in both the tax relief which they contend the bond issue would bring about, and the creation of a complete highway system. Persons from all over the state attended the meeting.

"The bond amendment," said R. T. Stuart of Harlingen, chairman of the committee, "constitutes one of the greatest tax relief measures ever presented to the state. The present economic crisis demands that the situation be alleviated. The people are struggling under such a load that progress is stifled. The passage of this amendment should be a partial solution to the problem."

"With the retirement of county indebtedness and the refunding of county money spent in building state roads, this tax burden will be materially reduced."

REWARD $6,000 OFFERED FOR ARREST OF SLAYER NEW YORK STATE POLICE

ALBANY, N. Y., March 21. (INS)—A reward of $6,000 was offered today by the New York state police for information leading to the arrest of a man who last Wednesday night fired a bullet through the heart of Sergt. John E. Frey on a lonely road in Rensselaer county, four miles from this city.

Announcement of the reward was made by Maj. John A. Warner, superintendent of the state police. Each of the six troops in the state will contribute $1,000, Major Warner said.

State and local authorities are conducting the most intensive manhunt in the state's history for Stanley Chero and William Schemnitzer, Broughton, Pa., youths, as the slayers of Sergeant Frey, but as yet not one clue to their whereabouts has been uncovered.

AMARILLO DELEGATION TO PROTEST PROPOSED TAX ON NATURAL GAS

AMARILLO, Texas, March 21. (AP)—Carrying statistics to show the tax proposed by the legislature would bring ruin to the Panhandle gas field, approximately 25 land owners, gas producers and business men left here tonight for Austin to fight the measure and urge substitute tax which they believe would be equitable to all gas and oil interests.

Among the delegation were Ray C. Johnson, Lawrence Hagy, Bob Lynn, Charles Keffer, T. E. Johnson, Mack Sanford, Col. R. B. Masterson, Hugh Aispaugh, Tex McIlroy, C. T. Fowlston, O. V. Vernon and Avery Rush, all of Amarillo; George Briggs and Mel Davis of Pampa; Guy Hill and Hal Vaughn of Shamrock, and B. F. Bennett of Borger.

HANDSOMEST MAN ON VICE SQUAD DISMISSED

NEW YORK, March 21. (UP)—Andrew G. McLaughlin, former police vice squad member who banked $35,000 in two years on a $3,000 salary, was dismissed from the force today.

McLaughlin had been known as "the handsomest man on the vice squad" and testimony indicated he utilized his appearance in approaching and "framing" women. In 1923 he arrested Vivian Gordon and she was preparing to testify against him when she was strangled to death recently.

The program of popular and classical ballads will include the following numbers:

"Sing, Sing, Birds on the Wing" by Nutting.
"My Shadow" by Henry Hadley.

The government of Malta keeps a number of cat-servants of the state, to guard the underground granaries from the hungry rats who would soon make short work of the stores were it not for pussy. These cats lead a life similar to that of mine mules, in that once they are taken below the surface it is very seldom that they ever see the light of day again.

DIVERSE TRENDS IN WEEK-END TRADING CURB MARKET LIST

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—Curb market shares followed diverse trends in an active week-end session today.

Week-end profit-taking, together with bullish activity in some of the Utilities, Aviation and Specialty issues, were contrary influences. Sales 400,100 shares.

American Superpower displaced Electric Bond & Share as the active feature of the session, and sold up ⅝ of a point to 19⅛, a new peak for the year. It closed at 18¾. Electric Bond & Share lost a fraction. Other leading Utilities moved narrowly.

Transcontinental Air Transport and National Aviation rose about a point to the best levels of the year.

A notable move in the high priced group was a jump of 20 points in Great Atlantic and Pacific, which reached the year's best price at 250.

Metal issues quieted down. Noranda, a buoyant feature this week, yielded ½ point in profit taking. Teck Hughes, a low priced gold mining issue, sold up a fraction to a new peak.

Oils were sluggish. Cities Service was active, but closed only ⅛ higher.

In the Investment company issues, United Founders and Shenandoah were up fractionally.

STOCKS LOWER IN WEEK-END TRADING MANY ISSUES LAG

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—Stocks eased gently in the week-end trading today. In and out speculators accepted the fair profits made during three successive days of rising prices and shorts extended their positions.

A few specialties swung below the 1 to 2 point range of losses prevailing among the Industrials and Utilities, but these included issues whose dividend rates have been open to question. U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Liquid Carbonic and Westinghouse were off 3 to 4. Air Reduction, which has a substantial interest in Industrial Alcohol, was also heavy, so were General Railway Signal, Allied Chemical and Eastman Kodak. Auburn, Auto, Freeport Texas, Reading Coal & Iron and Jewel Tea worked against the trend.

Declines in U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, American Tobacco, Anaconda, Bethlehem, Case, Radio, Public Service of New Jersey, Electric Power & Light, Byers and Columbia Graphophone ran from 1 to 2 points. Consolidated Gas, which is undertaking a large piece of financing in senior securities, sagged.

General Motors: After touching 48, the highest price since last summer, closed fractionally off. Rails were mixed.

Sales totaled 1,313,197 shares.

Illinois Steel company's advance of $2 a ton on bars shapes and plates, following the rise of $1 by Carnegie, was taken to mean that definite efforts are to be made to stabilize the industry further. The test period for the higher prices lies in the weeks just ahead and it is pointed out that when the demand becomes leveller negotiations on prices will doubtless be resumed, with competition active among the large producers.

FIRM UNDERTONE IN COTTON MARKET ON TRADE BUYING

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—Cotton opened steady today in response to steadier Liverpool cables and maintained a firm undertone on trade buying and week-end covering and in absence of more than a very moderate amount of selling. May advanced to 11.02, a gain of 12 points from the previous close, and closed at 11.01, a net gain of 11 points, while the general market closed very steady at 10 to 13 points net higher.

The market opened steady 4 to 7 points higher on the Liverpool market, which advanced from an early setback, and was 3 to 6 English points higher than had been indicated by the action of our market on Friday. There was a conspicuous absence of contracts throughout the day and while the demand was not of large volume prices were easily influenced and the technical position appeared to have been strengthened.

The department of agriculture in a report showed that loans of $15,159,000 had been made to farmers in the drouth area of the country of which was said about $13,000,000 had been loaned to farmers in the South. The October position advanced to 11.58, closing at 11.57.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, March 21. (AP)—Today's short week-end session on the cotton market developed very moderate trading but prices were steady with the trend moderately upward. Cables were decidedly better than due and was the cause of the slightly higher range of values here. Although the stock market showed some liquidation the cotton market was unaffected and prices were supported by moderate trade buying and by covering by shorts for over the week-end. After opening 4 to 6 points up prices eased off 3 points on week-end realizing but soon firmed up again on shorts covering and made new highs near the finish 5 to 6 points above the early lows. The close was at or near the best, the general market showing net gains for the day of 7 to 10 points.

GRAIN DECLINES AFTER DISPLAYING EARLY STRENGTH

CHICAGO, March 21. (AP)—Grain prices relaxed late today after displaying an early upward trend. Indications were that on Monday a new increase of this country's unwieldly wheat visible supply would be revealed, and the breadstuff supplies afloat for Europe would likewise show enlargement, notwithstanding that North American export business appeared to have ceased for at least the time being. Selling pressure, however, was checked by prevalent talk that under any conditions prices were low enough at present throughout the world.

Wheat closed irregular, ⅛@¼c lower to ¼c higher, corn ⅛@½c off, oats a shade to ⅛c up, and provisions varying from 2c decline to 5c advance.

Corn duplicated the action of wheat, and was also affected by reports of an impending larger movement of corn in the Southwest.

Oats were sustained by extreme scantiness of receipts.

Provisions were easy, owing to downturns in hog values.

Closing indemnities:

Corn—May 63⅝@½c, 64⅝c; July 65⅞@66c, 66⅝@¾c; Sept., 66c, 66¾c.

Midwestern Livestock Review

KANSAS CITY, March 21. (AP)—(USDA)—Livestock trade around the 11 market circuit was featured by fairly active trade on fat lambs. Prices the fore part of the week on lambs advanced to new high levels for the seasons but declines on closing sessions left quotations steady to 35c higher with a week ago. On the high spot Chicago secured $9.65 for choice lambs. Mature killing classes of sheep firm to 15c higher for the week. The supply approximated 325,000 as compared with 329,856 last week and 335,028 the corresponding period a year ago.

Increased receipts resulted in a 10@50c break in values in hogs. St. Louis had a closing top of $8.15. Offerings 502,400, an increase of 86,000 over last week and 117,000 heavier than the same week a year ago.

A liberal run of cattle on Monday gave packers an opportunity to enforce an uneven decline on killing classes but with a reaction on ensuing sessions a good portion of the loss was recovered. Most points report the better grades of strong weight steers 25@50c lower. Other killing classes unchanged. Eastern dressed beef trade was slow with prices working lower. There was a fair demand at most centers for replacement stock and thin steers suitable for grazing were on a firm to 25c higher basis. Industrial Activity and Employment Reach Highest Levels Since Holidays Approach of Easter Helps Retailers

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY
United Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 21.—Business conditions in various sections of the country have shown further improvement with the coming of the spring season, industrial operations and employment during the past week reaching their highest levels since the holidays.

The approach of Easter has given impetus to retail trade; the building industry is showing signs of a revival and the continued expansion of automobile output has given employment to thousands of workers in that line and in the steel industry, which is receiving large specifications for automobile materials.

In addition, sentiment has shown further improvement and the feeling continues to grow that any seasonal recession in business during the summer will not carry business activity to the low levels seen last winter. Improved sentiment is based on several significant recent developments.

Of major importance has been the sign of strengthening in steel prices, which reached record low levels during 1929. The Carnegie Steel Co., United States Steel Corporation, subsidiary, this week posted second quarter prices of bars and plates at $1 a ton above those of the first quarter.

To Stimulate Buying

Steel authorities claim that this advance which will be followed by other major producers, will serve to stimulate buying, which has been held up because of price uncertainties.

Already the building industry has shown signs of a revival. The largest order in history for structural steel, involving 125,000 tons, was placed this week with the United States Steel Corporation, which will supply the material for the construction of the Rockefeller "Radio City" in New York. This project is expected to eventually involve $250,000,000 and will give immediate employment to 8,000 workers.

Another source of potential demand for the building and Allied lines is the present electrification program of the Pennsylvania Railroad which already has called for large equipment orders.

Reflecting the steadily mounting output of automobiles and the current large inquiry for building steels, operations in the steel industry have been stepped up to 57 per cent of capacity, against 55 per cent last week, the highest rate since December.

Prices have shown renewed steadiness with the firmness in steel prices and have favorably influenced the stock market, where the prices rallied to their best levels since the February rise terminated.

Southwest Review

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 21. (UP)—Territory in the Southwest never was in better position to produce generously than at the present time, the Commerce Trust company of Kansas City reported today.

"The region has a bright winter wheat crop prospect, with the lightest winter killing in many years," said the mid-month survey of the local institution on Southwest business conditions.

The review reported as follows on other phases of the situation:

Mercantile Trade

A more hopeful feeling pervaded the atmosphere in the mercantile trade, but it was not reflected generally in actual business. Extremely mild weather, continuing almost uninterruptedly through the winter, proved a serious deterrent for retailers, although the approach of spring has been a stimulating influence in early buying of season merchandise. Much of the business of wholesalers was in small orders, the retail trade in cities and in the agricultural districts manifested a widespread disinclination to book ahead in normal volume.

Motor Car Sales

Keen selling efforts were exerted last week by automobile distributors, but met with strong resistance. Motor car sales broadened slightly, but was under that of a year ago. Tires and accessories moved at a better rate than a month ago.

Commercial and agricultural borrowing was reported light throughout the district. On the other hand, in the money market a heavy increase occurred in the output of new security issues, including borrowing by the federal government.

Deposits of banks showed little change from last month, while a slight decrease was reported in loans.

Agriculture

The dominant feature of the Southwest was the exceptionally good condition of its grains. According to the department of agriculture the March reserve of wheat on farms will be about 14,000,000 bushels more than this time last year. Corn reserves are 28,000,000 bushels under last year, while oats are 10,000,000 bushels above that of a year ago.

Livestock

One of the bright phases of the livestock trade situation was the evidence that prospective supplies from feedlots will show reductions through the spring season. This winter will be recorded as one of the most unprofitable in the experience of livestock feeders. A 27 per cent decrease was recorded in the number of cattle moved from stock yards since the first of the year compared to last year. Fewer hogs and sheep were moved back to feedlots. The contracting of summer pastures in Kansas and Oklahoma was slow, while contracting of range cattle in Texas for movement northward was almost at a standstill, even with prices around 50 per cent lower than two years ago.

Demand for flour was slow, with sales about 25 to 30 per cent of full capacity. Production was also slow, only little better than 60 per cent of full time for mills in the Southwest as a whole.

Prices increased on many farm commodities last week such as milk, butter, eggs and poultry. Eggs were six cents above the price received a month ago, while butterfat rose four cents.

TRADE TREND

(By The Associated Press)

Aircraft—A sharp increase in sales was reported by Douglas Aircraft company for the quarter ended Feb. 28. The total was $1,261,606, against $773,440 for the like period of the preceding year. Unfilled orders also increased, totaling $2,958,127 on March 1, against $2,341,338 Nov. 30 last.

Automobile—An output of 400,000 automobiles is now forecast for April, against a February output of about 280,000 units and estimates of close to 300,000 for this month. Such an advance would be more than seasonal and would compare favorably with the best months of the industry in the past.

Building—Construction work east of the Rocky mountains bids fair to show an increase this month of 45 per cent over February, on the basis of results for the first two weeks of March. The daily average of contract lettings for that period showed an increase of $3,000,000 over the first two weeks of February. The normal seasonal increase of March over February is 24 per cent.

Electrical Equipment—Current activity in the country's electrical equipment markets is holding on a reasonably satisfactory basis, electrical world reports. Buying interest is spirited in the east, where railroad bookings are a feature, with fair demand in New England and coast centers.

Railroad—Following announcement that southwestern railroads will inaugurate store door delivery, executives of eastern railroads are expected to give their final answer to demands for such service next Friday at a meeting of the Atlantic states shippers' regional advisory board.

Retail Trade—An improved pre-Easter demand is reported by New York retail stores, sales figures for the month to date comparing fairly well with a year ago. However, reports from out of town stores show a considerable disappointment in trade in a number of centers.

Silver—Bar silver sagged three-eighths of a cent in New York today, dropping to 29¼ cents an ounce. The metal also was weak in London, where it fell one-quarter of a penny to 13 9-16 pence.

Steel—Operations of steel plants in the Youngstown district will continue unchanged next week at 51 per cent of rated capacity, Dow, Jones & o. reports.

LOGAN PRAISED FOR SERVICE AS PORT MANAGER

Present Head of Municipal Field to Retire April 1

MANY IMPROVEMENTS DURING TWO YEARS

Erection of Administration Building and Runways Important

C. P. Logan, who retires as manager of the Municipal airport here April 1, received the commendation of city officials Saturday for his services while in charge of the post.

Mr. Logan's retirement from the management follows the leasing of the port, effective April 1, by the city to Fulcher Armstrong, who has been operating Staley field, which will be closed.

Although not announcing definite plans, Mr. Logan asserted that it is his intention to continue in the aviation business. He has been a resident of Wichita Falls for 18 years.

Mr. Logan has been manager of the port since it was established nearly two years ago, and during his tenure, it was pointed out, it has been developed into one of the best in the southwest. Many important improvements have been made at a comparatively small cost, it was added. The record of the port as to accidents has been exceptional, it was said, only one major accident having occurred, and that due to the structural failure of a plane. The accident cost the life of Burton Walker, a transport pilot and veteran instructor, who was fatally injured when a fin of his plane became detached while he was flying at an altitude of about 1,000 feet.

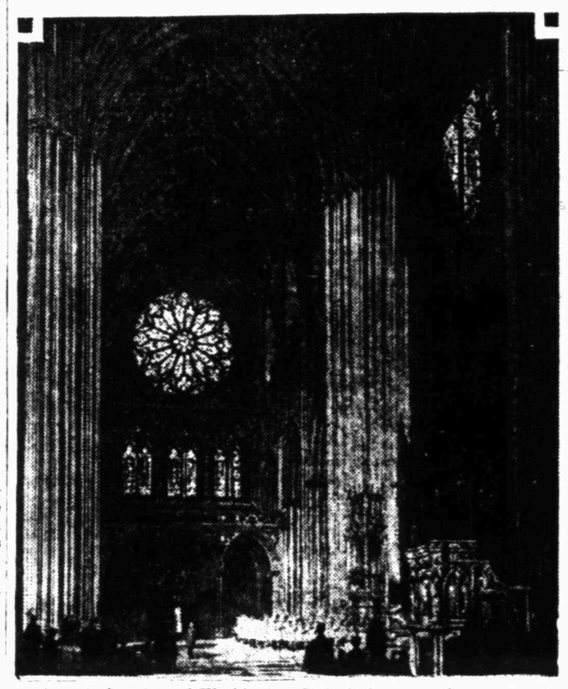

When Mr. Logan took over the management of the port, the equipment consisted of the hangar and a small residence which served as offices. During the nearly two years that have elapsed since, the improvements have included a modern administration building which serves also as a waiting room and for offices, a lunch room, the construction of an ornamental fence to keep spectators from encroaching on the field, the leveling of a depressed section of the field and the construction of four runways ranging in length from 2,000 to 3,000 feet. The field is of sufficient size to permit the landing and the take-off of the largest planes.

Another improvement has been the installation of weather observing equipment, with Mr. Logan as weather observer. Reports as to weather conditions are made at three-hour intervals throughout the day.

One particular problem in connection with the port, it was declared, has been the systematic handling of traffic. At one time, 10 passenger line planes landed and took off daily. In addition, several thousand pilots of privately owned planes have registered there.

Mr. Logan has been assisted in the management by his son, Tex Logan.

Wild Home Brew Hidden in Church Disturbs Worship

WHITESBURG, Ky., March 21. (UP)—The congregation in a little church at Vico was kneeling in prayer last night when someone stirred restlessly.

Other worshippers looked up and beheld a stream trickling down upon them. Outside it was not raining. For a moment they were puzzled. Then, also from above, suddenly came the faint but unmistakable scent of home brew.

Investigation disclosed a 16-gallon container of home brew and two buckets full of beer which bootleggers had secreted in the church.

The congregation knelt and prayed for the salvation of the intruder who had used their house of worship so sacrilegiously.

PAYING OF JUDGMENT IS FINAL CHAPTER IN LOCAL SUIT FIXING TAXING POWER WATER DISTRICT

Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 1 has just received a check from the Western Union Telegraph company in payment of a judgment received by the district against the Western Union for taxes.

This is the final chapter of a matter that has been in the courts since July 22, 1927, when the irrigation district filed suit against the Western Union for taxes due the district on property belonging to the Western Union within the district. The suit was originally filed in the 78th district court before Judge W. W. Cook, but was transferred to the federal court, subsequently remanded on motion to the state courts and tried before Judge Cook, who entered judgment in favor of the district, March 9, 1928. This judgment was affirmed by the court of civil appeals May 22, 1929, and, a writ of error having been granted, the matter was heard by the supreme court, which, on June 25, 1930, in an important opinion, affirmed the judgment. The final motion for a rehearing was overruled Nov. 12, 1930, after which in due course the judgment was paid.

In this case the district as a whole was attacked as having been formed under statutes unconstitutional and void and also it was contended by the Western Union that it was not proper or legal to tax personal property in the district. This last question had never been decided by the supreme court of this state. This case, therefore, decided definitely that not only this district, but all districts of its kind in the state were legally and constitutionally organized and that all personal property within the district was subject to be taxed for the purpose of maintaining the district and paying off its bonds.

The above case was filed and carried through the courts by Raymond M. Myers, local attorney. A. H. Britain of the firm of Britain & Cheek, local attorneys, was associated with Mr. Myers in the supreme court.

Wichita Falls Girl Mighty Hunter of Four-Leaf Clovers

Little Miss Mary Phyllis Patterson, 1523 Britain, believes in going out and grabbing good luck while the grabbing is good.

Mary Phyllis, who is 8 years old, read in a newspaper a few days ago that someone had found 19 four-leaf clovers and was sending proof to Robert (Believe It Or Not) Ripley.

Across the street from the Patterson home on Britain street was a vacant house in which was a clover patch about six feet square. Mary Phyllis and her playmates in the neighborhood had often found four-leaf clovers there. She began a more systematic hunt.

Saturday afternoon Mary Phyllis visited The Daily Times office, beamingly proud of her collection, as any one right well might be. For in the past two or three days, she had not only found 32 four-leaf clovers, but one five-leaf specimen.

The five-leaf clover is unusually large and has five perfect leaves of different sizes. One leaf overlaps another so that at first glance it appears to be a four-leaf specimen.

Engineers express the belief that the road can be completed and open to the public before the ed of the year, connecting up the last remaining gap in highway 30 through this section.

JAMES J. HILL
Founder of an Empire . . .

"THE Empire Builder" . . so they called gruff "Jim" Hill . . . the man who made the West. Rapid industrialization in the 1880's was causing the manufacturing East to look for a new market, for a new source of raw materials. And in Hill's brain grew the vision of a mighty railroad that would tap the great Northwest and link it with the East.
Hill's dream needed capital for its fruition. And Hill's vision is a reality today because he let his banker in on his dream. With a new phase of industrial expansion in the offing, this bank stands ready to transmute new foresight into golden reality.

Austin School Study Circle to Meet on Tuesday

At the Austin school study circle meeting Tuesday morning Miss Bessie Stewart will give the mothers present an idea of how Texas grade schools compare with the same type of school in the Northeast which she recently visited. Some of the new teaching methods and experiments in child management will be explained. Miss Stewart has also brought back some new ideas for study circles and parent-teacher work in general.

The regular lesson will be on "Harmony in the Home," under the leadership of Mrs. C. R. Neal. A general discussion will follow the lesson.

All members of the circle are urged to be present and to bring guests who are interested in the new trends of child training. Visitors are always welcome.

The publicity record book is in the making and will be completed by March 25. It is reported that the entire executive board has had photographs made for this book, the majority going back to the photographer for a second sitting. The scrapbook committee wishes to thank these ladies for such loyalty.

Mrs. W. J. Fitzpatrick, health chairman, of Austin, P.-T. A. is making preparation for the summer roundup of pre-school children, which will culminate in a free health clinic early in April.

The annual report which precedes the district convention has been filled out and sent to the district president, with the stories of how this unit observed the state birthday and Founder's day. These stories will be entered in the district contest for the most outstanding observance. The report shows that the average attendance for this year has been 201.

There is still a shortage in membership and magazine subscriptions for attaining the standard of excellence. Loyal patrons are urged to help in this matter. Membership must be completed before March, 1931. Telephone Mrs. Claggett at 9091 and dues will be called for.

Mrs. W. E. Corder, telephone 2-4036, will give information about magazines, and will call for subscriptions. The two magazines, which are invaluable to parents and interesting to children, cost $1 per year.

The play, "Wrong Impressions," to be presented by Austin P.-T. A. next Thursday evening is reported to be full of laughs and well worth the price of admission. In addition there will be other interesting and amusing features which are being kept secret. Every one is urged to attend.

Original Musical Program Will Feature Annual Junior Forum Mother and Daughter Luncheon

Members of the Fort Worth Junior Woman's club will be guest of the Wichita Falls Junior Forum when the annual mother and daughter luncheon takes place at the Forum clubhouse next Saturday. The program this year, written and adapted to music by Mrs. Darrold Kahn assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Taylor as accompanist and Miss Marjorie Bright as stage manager, promises to be one of the most beautiful amateur productions ever given locally.

Stage settings for each act will be appropriately arranged and costumes worn by those taking part will make the little operetta as vivid in coloring as rhythmic in music. "Opera Versus Jazz" is the title of the production with Miss Marguerite Peery personifying opera and Miss Jenny Louise Hindman, Jazz.

The introductory chorus, explaining the theme will be led by Kay Cason with Jane Adams, Charlotte Joiner, Dorothy Lee Taylor, Estelle McPhail, Helen Ruth Connelly, Phoebe Jane Filgo and Mary Maples a charming chorus in pastel sport suits giving jazzy steps and syncopated music.

The second scene will be from "Madame Butterfly," with Mary Virginia Barron leading and the Japanese maids played by Dorothy Pounds and Pauline Jane Art. Cherry blossoms and Japanese lanterns will make the colorful background for this pretty opera number.

Jazz comes to the front in the third scene when Johnnie Green Hawkins will lead a snappy chorus of pretty girls personifying young men in white trousers and blue coats. The chorus is composed of Misses Jane Man, Eleanor Weller, Lenora Walker, Betty Jane Sehmann, Dorothy Cline, Bertha Mae Kruger, Matilda Donnell, Marjorie Bright, Sadie Shain, Mary C. Boone, and Mary Sue Gilbert.

Margaret Spangle, who is one of the most graceful dancers among the young set, will give solo ballet dances as the fourth number.

Mrs. Maurice Adams will direct the fifith scene, featuring a Spanish tango by Senorita Maurine Adams and Senor Scott Griffis with Misses Lois Campbell, Mary Aileen Newton, Betty Claire Lomax, Joan Fox, Elizabeth Albritton, Virginia Green and Janell Eichelberger in the graceful chorus. Spanish shawls and brilliant costumes will furnish the exquisite setting for this number.

Mrs. Lloyd Taylor at the piano will demonstrate the beauty of classical music and Miss Lorene Tucker will give jazz numbers.

Following this music, one of the most poignantly beautiful numbers in the operetta will be given when the prison scene from Il Trovatore will be shown with Miss Harriett Bradley and Baldwin Montgomery singing the haunting "Home to Our Mountains." Miss Bradley's rich contralto with Mr. Montgomery's clear tenor blend exquisitely in this haunting song and the chorus of gypsies in brilliant costume will include Misses Adeena Kouri, Dorothy Knight, Laure Burns, Betty Broeche, Lucille Whitman, Lydia Cook, Mary Collier, Melba Miller, Phyllis Creighton, Mildred Johnson, Katherine Melat, Louise Van Emden and Mrs. Robert Moore.

Pink and blue, with pastel shades of spring will make the setting for the concluding number a delightful scene. "Blossom Time," from Hollywood Revue furnishes the musical theme with boys in the number in jaunty tux suits and girls in quaint evening dresses in pastel shades. The leading girl will be Miss Christine Burton and the boy, Miss Mary Claire Burton. The girls chorus will include Misses Madelyn McCarty, Roberta Shaw, Wilma Brown and Mary Alice Johnson, while Misses Maxine Duffy, Nell Duffy, Mary Lou Hull and Mary Leona Robertson will impersonate the boys.

A delicious luncheon is planned for the occasion and the Junior Forum members will, as usual have beautifully appointed tables where they will honor their mothers. Reservations should be made as soon as possible with Mrs. T. A. Hicks, 5625 and Miss Mary Tancred 9131. Reservations will be closed Friday evening.

Celebration of Egyptian King's Birthday Will Climax Round of Washington Social Activities

GEORGINA WASHINGTON
Universal Service

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Capital society has been drifting leisurely through the Lenten season. But the remaining days will be filled with brilliant affairs typical of Washington's everlasting social program.

Many of the congressional set, who left immediately after adjournment of congress on short trips are returning to the city to participate in the approaching whirl.

With the annual society circus, the dinner parties, and balls scheduled, the coming week will take on the appearance of a holiday season. Easter week will have no larger or more brilliant affairs.

While the younger set a-dancing goes, teas, dinner and theater parties are planned for the older generation. And for all of social Washington, particularly the diplomatic set, comes the "Festival of Nations."

Mrs. John C. Breckinridge is entertaining at tea Sunday afternoon in the spacious home of Mrs. Fleming Newbold, which she and Mr. Breckinridge have occupied since coming to Washington last fall. It will be one of those delightful gatherings for which the charming hostess is noted.

Cupid seems to be aiming arrows in the direction of diplomatic circles. The latest to wed will be the lovely Loranda Prochnik, daughter of the minister of Australia and Mm. Prochnick, whose marriage to Mr. Francis Lecompte Spalding will take place on Thursday.

Much entertaining is being done in Miss Prochnik's honor. On Monday Miss Laura Tuckerman will entertain at dinner for the bride-to-be, while on Tuesday Miss Margaretta Wright will give a luncheon in her honor.

There will be theater parties galore when the local Columbia players present the revival of "Nellie the Beautiful Cloak Model" Tuesday evening. With Mrs. Nicholas Longworth reserving seats for a party of friends, and many others prominent in Washington society giving theater parties, the event promises to be one of the smart society theater affairs of the season.

On Thursday evening the ambassador of France and Mme. Claudel will be the guests in whose honor Mr. Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone will entertain at dinner.

The celebration of the birth anniversary of his majesty King Fouad I of Egypt on Thursday at the Egyptian embassy will climax a round of brilliant diplomatic activities. The Charge d'Affaires and Mme. Aly Ismail Bey will receive a group of distinguished guests. Cabinet officials, the diplomatic corps and a few of the socially prominent have received the coveted invitations to this unusual reception.

AUSTIN P.-T. A. PRESIDENT

MRS. R. H. CLOUGHLEY

By MRS. JOHN M. FOX

In a city whose record for the excellence of its parent-teacher accomplishments has been the subject of favorable comment from state and national sources, Austin School P.-T. A. of Wichita Falls has taken its rightful place in the progress of the work, as an example in group leadership.

Always setting the pace for others, and showing each year more and more devotion to parent-teacher ideals, initiative in carrying out the scheduled program recommended by state officials, and cooperating in a real service to childhood, this unit ranks high. It is the oldest association in the city and was the first to install a cafeteria to serve the children.

Under the careful leadership of Mrs. H. R. Cloughley, who is the 11th president of Austin P.-T. A. the unit has sponsored this year the first group of mother singers in the city. It has achieved and maintained the standard of excellence which stands for faithful work in any unit. It has a live parent education club which meets bimonthly to discuss the intricate problems of child training in a constructive way. It has done invaluable work in welfare and health clinics, and its membership of 300 is working in harmony for the common good. Three consecutive years this unit has been awarded the gold star for the quality of the publicity recorded in the annual publicity record book, and this is an honor which only hard work and continuous, consistent attention to the importance of publicity can gain.

Mrs. Cloughley's first office was publicity chairman of Austin unit, after which she had charge of this branch of work for the City Council P.-T. A. She is general chairman of the literature exhibit for the coming convention on April 8, 9 and 10, and will lead the preschool sectional meeting on Thursday afternoon, and will also assist in the publicity classes to be held each morning at 7:30. As president of Austin unit her work this year has been an unqualified success.

Luncheons and Programs Combined In Friday Study Club Meetings

An interesting surprise program was featured when members of the Travel club met Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. Will McKemie on Avondale with Mrs. Ola G. Hamlin assistant hostess. Mrs. Conrey, president, opened the meeting and Mrs. Hamlin took charge of the program. Accompanying herself, Mrs. McKemie opened the program with three cowboy ballads, "The Old Chisholm Trail," "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie," and John Gurley's "Comprenero," all of which were beautifully interpreted.

Mrs. Hamlin stated that she and Mrs. McKemie had requested the privilege of changing the program and as a pleasant surprise introduced Harry Lee Stewart of Oklahoma City, a nephew of Mr. McKemie's who has become widely known as a travel magazine writer.

Mr. Stewart talked on a recent trip he had made to Hawaii and read an exquisitely written story of the visit that had appeared in The Nomad, an international travel magazine. The story of how he happened to be sent out by the publishers of this magazine to write travel stories was particularly interesting.

Luncheon followed the completion of the program. Mesdames W. W. Fraser and T. M. Conrey poured coffee from the handsome silver services on the dining table where the fragrant center of peach and plum blossoms made beautiful decorations.

A delightful luncheon plate was served to Mesdames J. W. Akin, T. M. Conrey, C. H. Clark, W. W. Cook, E. T. Duff, W. W. Fraser, Henry C. Fulcher, Ola G. Hamlin, Homer Lee, Q. B. Lee, John M. Mrs. Franklin Henderson was hostess to the young members of the Twentieth Century Junior club at a delightful covered dish luncheon. A dainty motif of green and silver was used with a handsome Italian lace cloth furnishing the background for the bowl of sweet peas in the center and green tapers in silver holders. Place cards, which also served as favors, were exquisite little crystal trees with holders for the guests' names.

After luncheon Mrs. James E. Hay, president called the meeting to order and presided during a short business session.

The program was given by Miss Jeannette Moore in a splendid review of Marquis James "The Raven," which led to an interesting open discussion.

Members present were Mesdames James E. Hay, A. L. Hecht, R. K. French, Jack H. Rankin, True Cauble, A. A. Werlla, Lloyd Taylor, Misses Jeanette Moore and Marjorie Woolsey with Mesdames Shadie Hale and Carl E. Mangum as guests.

New Century Club

Mrs. C. R. Hartsook was hostess to members of the New Century club when Brazil was the South American country studied.

Roll call was answered with current events and Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, who was leader in the absence of Mrs. J. L. Jackson, read the paper Mrs. Jackson had prepared on "Brazil, Its History and Its People." Mrs. R. W. Gutzler's interesting paper on "South American Trade," was read by Mrs. Hartsook.

An interested round table discussion followed the program and following a short business meeting, Mrs. Hartsook served a delightful refreshment plate to Mesdames S. H. Burnside, Fred Couper, W. D. Cline, T. P. Duncan, C. W. Gilliland, W. J. Grisham, J. C. A. Guest, Luke McCrory, T. T. T. Reese, M. D. Rowe, C. W. Snider, Mack Thomas and J. L. Waggoner.

Unity Club

Mrs. J. A. Kemp, assisted by Mrs. J. C. Hunt led the program given when members of the Unity club met at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Friday.

EXHIBIT ANNOUNCED FOR BARWISE SCHOOL

Miss Bettie Dilworth, principal of Barwise school, has announced that an exhibit of 150 of the finest reproductions of recognized masterpieces of art has been engaged to be placed on display to local students and the general public in the auditorium of the school building for March 24 through March 27.

A small admission charge will be made, and the fund thus raised will be used to purchase pictures for Barwise school.

In making the announcement Miss Dilworth said, "It has been the privilege of students and the general public to enjoy the masterpieces of music and literature for generations; but an enjoyment of the masterpieces of art has, until very recently, been restricted to those who were wealthy enough to travel throughout the world, visiting the museums in which the original paintings hang.

"Recent improvements in color photography and printing now make it possible to bring the art of the world to even our smaller towns and villages through the medium of faithful reproductions. These reproductions are true to the originals in all respects, with the possible exception of size. Even the most delicate variations in color are maintained. In most instances the brush strokes in the original picture are clearly discernible.

"I feel that we are fortunate indeed to be able to bring to Barwise school a collection of these splendid pictures."

The table was elaborately arranged with cloth of Italian cut work and centered with a huge bouquet of yellow jonquils. The yellow and white color scheme was exquisitely featured in all appointments including place cards behind which was a small nest containing a large Easter egg filled with smaller Easter candies and beside stood a miniature yellow chicken. A four-course menu was served.

In the bridge and 42 games which featured the entertainment for the evening, Mrs. W. T. Wells received the high score favor at bridge among the women and Dr. Mangum was high among the men. Low scores were made by Mrs. H. P. Ledford and Dr. Wells. Dr. Hartsook received the high score 42 favor. Dr. and Mrs. Mangum were presented a pretty pewter relish dish by the hosts.

GIRL RESERVES GIVE PATRIOTIC PROGRAM

An interesting affair at Austin school Friday afternoon was the annual patriotic program presented by the Girl Reserves. This splendid organization is a project of the Y. W. C. A. and is fostered in the public schools. The Austin school chapter numbers 70 members, with Miss Blanche Dean and Miss Zoe Liles, sponsors.

Mary Kolb, president of the reserves, called the meeting to order; Frances Morgan, secretary, read the minutes; and May Opal Payne presided during the program, all these girls being sixth grade students.

The choral club, consisting of 50 young singers, under the direction of Miss Frances Smith, opened the program with a group of patriotic songs, followed by the flag service which proved so popular at the recent citizenship program of Austin Parent-Teacher association. The children taking part in the service were: Ruth Thomas, John O'Brien, Frank Alexander, Lathaniel Willis, Oscar Offeriee, Ronald Getchus, and Marjorie Cecil.

A group of young women from the Major Francis Grice chapter of the D. A. R. dressed in beautiful costumes of the colonial period, then took charge of the program, with Mrs. Walter Bachman, flag chairman of the chapter, presiding. Mrs. Clifford Deaton, chairman of patriotic education, assisted Mrs. Bachman, and Mrs. Joe Austin made an interesting synchronized drawing while the audience sang America. Mrs. Bachman gave an entertaining and instructive history of the evolution of the U. S. flag, using 11 small flags as illustrations.

A framed copy of the flag code was presented to the school in the name of the Major Francis Grice chapter of the D. A. R. The gift was received with fitting thanks by a school girl, and will be given a place of honor in the school building.

Miss Catherine Walker, secretary of the Y. W. C. A. complimented the Little Sister organization on its work, and the school on the presentation of the flag service. Mrs. H. R. Cloughley, president of the P.-T. A. also complimented the Girl Reserves, wishing them success in the coming year, in the name of the P.-T. A.

All clubs of the school were guests of honor, among them being the Nature club and sponsor, Miss Lucille Rountree; the Art club and sponsor, Miss Mattie Mae Haynie; the Blue Bonnet Players and director, Miss Oma King; the Choral club with Miss Frances Smith, and the Boys Council sponsored by Miss Lelia Heaton and Miss Eva Stevens.

Other guests were Mrs. E. C. deMontel, regent of the D. A. R., Mrs. Walter Bachman, Mrs. Clifford Deaton, Miss Bessie Stewart, Miss Catherine Walker, Mrs. Wilbur Newberry, Mrs. S. Y. Ferguson, Mrs. J. E. H. Ralley, Mrs. Joe Austin, Mrs. J. C. Martin and Mrs. H. R. Cloughley.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.—Adv.

P.-T. A. NEWS NOTES

THIRTEENTH DISTRICT NEWS

With the 13th district convention slated to begin in two weeks, every committee is working, and every member anticipating the event with enthusiasm. Programs will be ready for the printer this week, and release of convention news will be mailed to the county newspapers functioning in 13th district so that each county will receive proper publicity at the same time.

Those who will finish the correspondence course and receive special honor at the graduates table during the luncheon for delegates Thursday are asked to please send names to Mrs. Frank B. Creighton, president of the district.

Publicity scrapbooks must be in the hands of the committee by March 25, and should be sent to Mrs. John M. Fox, 1605 Thirteenth street.

Those wishing homes should send names to Mrs. Paul Barnett, 1307 Marshall street as soon as possible.

Clay County

A visit to the recently organized unit of Linville in Clay county on Friday revealed an eager, interested group of members, in which the men outnumbered the women. This unit has made rapid improvement on the school grounds, has a new building on the campus, and is calling a meeting on April 2nd of every one in the community to assemble in an effort to further beautify the school grounds. A fence has been erected and will be painted and worked upon by the men while the women help by cooking and serving the lunch at the all-day community meeting. This is an ideal arrangement and will inspire community betterment and an organized step for improvement and the joy of working together. Friday's meeting was on health and Mrs. J. Z. Steinkoenig of Wichita Falls made the principal address on health, pre-school study circles and clinics.

Wichita County

Fairview School P.-T. A. has a membership of about 100, with a great many men enrolled and interested in the work of this unit. Mrs. Troy Miller is president, and the group is doing fine work along parent-teacher lines. On Thursday night a Wichita Falls group visited the school at its regular monthly meeting. In the party were Mrs. Frank B. Creighton, Maynard Creighton, Mr. W. A. Franklin and Mr. and Mrs. John M. Fox. Talks were made by Mrs. Creighton, Mr. Franklin and Mrs. Fox. Officials expressed themselves as being much pleased at the work being done at this unit.

Hardeman County

A report from this county and community show that organized work has been done here this winter and spring. Mrs. Fred Major, president of the city council of Quanah reports three graduates of the correspondence course and three still studying it. She reports that "the feeding of the needy children has been the major project and accomplishment. A hot lunch is served every day and the milk is donated. The teachers attribute the high average of scholarship to the nourishment thus received. The Travis School P.-T. A. has a charge account at a school store. The Horace Mann School P.-T. A. attends to the children in their own homes with the help of welfare clubs. The High School P.-T. A. workers put up lunches and send them to the school and let home room teacher give the child lunch. This is done to save the pride of the child as other children do not know who is being fed. This P.-T. A. has also put on a quilt show which was a social and financial success and had a threefold purpose: 1—To put money in the treeasury; 2—To encourage household industry, and 3—To stimulate buying of piece goods. The project interested merchants in our P.-T. A. organization and there were 1,000 people in attendance on the quilt exhibit which was a two-day event. Prizes were given for fancy quilts, unique and radio quilts, and for the most antique. Some were 108 and 115 years old.

The oldest lady making an exhibit was Grandma Hawkins who is 84 years of age. A boy of 12 years cut and pieced the quilt which was exhibited and won second prize in this division. A homespun sheet from flax grown on her grandfather's farm in Virginia, woven over 85 years ago was exhibited by Mrs. Jack Phillips. Mrs. John Wood entered a baby dress 70 years old."

Mrs. Major's report is the most refreshing officials have noted from any unit in a long time. The quilt exhibit idea is quoted here as an absolutely new and novel way in which to raise finances. A small admission fee was charged and the response was hearty. The Quanah City council and the schools comprising it are surely putting over a piece of work there which compels admiration and congratulation on their success.

BOWIE P.-T. A.

The association boasts of the best year's work in its history. Up to now it has complied with every requirement for the standard of excellence. This is the first time the organization has had a yearbook with a complete program outline based upon the national program suggestions. It has been an inspiration to the members. Our membership consists of 60 per cent of the patrons and all the teachers, with an average attendance of 65 at the regular meetings. We have 14 subscribers to the Child Welfare and Parent-Teacher magazines.

With all officers and committees functioning a stimulating interest is shown among the members at all times. The association has sponsored a box supper, a bake sale, sale of tickets to a marionette show for a small commission, for the purpose of raising funds. Hot lunches have been provided at the school cafeteria for several children during the term. The association is making a publicity record book and looking forward to a greater work in the future.

FANNIN P.-T. A.

Mrs. C. P. Fore, who is chairman of the welfare committee of the Fannin P.-T. A. has been in charge of the gathering and distribution of clothes for the needy children of Fannin school. Mrs. Fore has attempted to teach the children thrift and the necessity of doing everything possible for themselves. One of the things she has taught the children to do for themselves is to half sole their shoes. At least 50 children have mended their shoes.

Mrs. Fore has two other plans for the good of the school and the children that she expects to put over with the help of the citizens of the city.

The first plan is to beautify the school grounds of Fannin school. She is asking any one who is able to do so to give shrubbery and any other plants that will be suitable for planting on the school grounds.

The other plan Mrs. Fore has in mind is to collect all kinds of garden seeds to distribute among the children. The parents of many of the children attending Fannin school are unemployed and are unable to secure seed to plant gardens. It will be a wonderful help to the parents and to the children if they can raise some garden vegetables. It will save the parents from asking the charitable organizations for help and it will help teach the children to be self-sustaining instead of expecting the public to feed them, and tend to prevent them from growing up to be paupers.

Any one who has shrubbery, flower seeds or garden seed they are willing to give please telephone Mrs. Fore either at Fannin school, phone 5484, or at her residence, phone 2-0996.

CARRIGAN P.-T. A.

Visits totaling 2,187 were made in the homes of Carrigan school patrons this year by the representatives of the parent-teacher association and the school.

Calls numbering 1,630 were reported from room sponsors, some of whom visited all the homes on her list each month. This is a wonderful example of loyalty declared Mrs. R. M. Hurst, second vice president in making a report of activities of sponsors of P.-T. A. for publicity record book.

Teachers of the school made 505 visits, according to J. T. Rundell, principal of the school.

Fifty two visits in the homes of needy children were made by Mrs. C. B. Clement, welfare chairman, and Mrs. J. B. Hawthorne, her assistant.

These visits were made during the past six months. A year's total of over 2,500 visits was the conservative estimate of Mrs. Alex Michael, president of the organization.

The sponsors for this semester were Mrs. John Yates, Mrs. D. L. Luce, Mrs. H. H. McBee, Mrs. Paul Woodward, Mrs. A. B. Kepley, Mrs. J. H. Douglas, Mrs. J. M. Ferrell, Mrs. M. Holt, Mrs. R. L. Raney, Mrs. L. Cygon, Mrs. G. Galmiche, Mrs. R. E. DeWoody, Mrs. C. B. Clement, Mrs. W. L. Shipley, Mrs. F. E. Warfield, Mrs. John Reynolds, Mrs. George Anderson, Mrs. H. H. Siegley, Mrs. Fred Cone, Mrs. Penrod, Mrs. N. V. Horton, Mrs. W. R. McKinney.

ROCKY POINT

Members of the Rocky Point Parent-Teacher association have been busy the last few weeks improving the school campus. Some of the activities planned are to plant trees and flowers; build two rock fountains with flower beds around them; built 640 square feet concrete walks; piped water into the school grounds and helped with the school gardens. All work and material except cement for walks were donated by the association. Forty-four members were present at the session held recently.

Knife Wounds Fatal

TULSA, Okla., March 21. (AP)—Mrs. M. C. Little, 67, Sherman, Texas, died in a hospital here today from knife wounds about her throat.

Mrs. Little had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Francis P. Colby, who said her mother had been despondent because of ill health.

Camp Fire Girls International Party Y. W. C. A.

Approximately 150 Camp Fire Girls, parents and friends enjoyed the international birthday party in the parlors of the Y. W. C. A. on Friday evening. Every group in Wichita Falls and two out of town groups were represented.

An interesting group of exhibits showing some of the 1931 count books which are under construction by the various members, a clever display of tiny dolls dressed in costumes representing Spain and Mexico, and wonderful treasures from Norway, Japan, and Russia were on display.

A get acquainted reception line started the activities for the evening, which was folowed by the grand march which included all the Camp Fire Girls present. The line of march included: Lorita Tanner, bearing the Camp Fire Girls banner; the Ahsonzong group, wearing the Japanese costumes, and bearing the Japanese banner; Acancan group wearing costumes and carrying Italian banner; Adi-Iwah group wearing costumes and carrying banner for Russia; Oawakiya representing France; Mankilo, representing Germany; Tanokiwin representing Spain and Mexico; Anolews, representing Norway; Nowetompatimmin, representing Ireland, Hanewgo group of Archer City, representing China, and the new members from Burkburnett wearing the middies and skirts.

An interesting program was put on by the different groups. The Tanokiwin group of which Miss Thelma Bridges is guardian, put on a clever skit, called "The Mothers' Strike," depicting the tired mothers demanding an eight-hour day. The historical setting and some interesting facts were also given concerning Spain and Mexico.

The Nowetompatimmin group of which Mrs. W. E. Polk is guardian, and Mrs. O. M. Pierce is assistant, presented a pretty sight with each girl dressed exactly alike in clever costumes of green, black and white. Each member contributed some part of the interesting bits of Old Ireland, and made one feel the usual pride that the Irish take in their home country. Mrs. Pierce gave Will Rogers' St. Patrick day message concerning Ireland.

Bernice Cyr, of the Oawakiya group, gave a clever and original talk concerning an imaginary trip of her group to France. The group also sang a French song in the native tongue, and Dorothea Whitehead gave some interesting facts concerning France.

The Ahsonzong group of which Mrs. W. J. Willis is guardian, gave an interesting program on Japan. Dorothy Gothard told something of the setting of Japan and historical background, after which the group put on a clever Japanese folk dance. A game called the Chinese puzzle was also demonstrated by the group.

The Mankilo group of Crockett school of which Mrs. E. D. Steward is the new guardian and Miss Zona Younkin is assistant, put on Germany's part. Patricia Shipley told interesting facts concerning Germany; Mary Louise Yeargin gave a clever tap dance, and the group sang the national song of Germany.

Members of the Acancan group of Reagan junior high, of which Miss Leska Howard is guardian, put on a clever skit which included stories, bits of history, folk dances, and "Santa Lucia" typical of Italy.

The Anolewa group of Zundy Hi, of which Mrs. G. O. Loughridge is guardian presented an interesting picture in costumes of Norway. Several girls gave interesting bits of history and facts concerning Norway. These girls also had charge of planning the punch which was served.

The Adi-Iwah group of which Mrs. Frank Michaux is guardian, gave a pretty musical skit which was woven around a number of records of lovely Russian music. The girls looked the part, wearing the Russian costumes.

The Manwego group of Archer City of which Mrs. Sam Newman is the guardian took the visitors to China and fed them on favorite Chinese dishes, and told of other interesting facts about China.

The group of about 12 new girls from Burkburnett was introduced with the guardian and assistant. This group wil be registered in a short time.

Popcorn balls, wrapped in pretty rainbow colored paper, and punch was served to the guests. The girls made a pretty picture while waiting for the group picture to be made. "The costumes, flags and happy faces of that many Camp Fire Girls is an inspiration to any one," said Miss McIlheran, in commenting on the party.

On next Saturday evening, March 28, the Junior chamber of commerce will present the Camp Fire Girls in a radio program at their usual broadcasting hour.

Radio Artists Will Entertain At Spring Show

Radio artists from KGKO will play an important part in the annual spring carnival which the Benjamin Franklin Parent-Teacher association is giving at the school building Friday night, March 27. Mrs. Carl Waelder who broadcasts over KGKO every morning has charge of the big show of the evening which will be given along the style of a Majestic vodivil, the numbers to be entirely by radio artists from the local station.

This show is called the "Radio Review" and will include numbers by Old King Cole and Humpty Dumpty, the artists who every evening delight hundreds of children with their stories and jokes; "Sunbeams" by the radio male trio which will sing many of the popular ballads of today; and the Kekuna Royal Hawaiians, favorites of the local station who will entertain the audience with their Hawaiian music. This show will be given in the new school auditorium starting at 9:30 and lasting for about 40 minutes.

The carnival is the one big event of the year which the P.-T. A. puts on for the entertainment of children in addition to making money for the year's budget providing for such things as a stage curtain for the new auditorium, books for the library, rubber caps for the first grade chairs, balls and bats for the boys, etc. Besides the big show, there will be five room shows starting at 8:15 o'clock and running continuously until 9:30 o'clock when everything will give way for the radio review. In addition to shows there will be the fish pond, possibly the biggest drawing card for the children and this year there has been quite a large donation of gifts for this fish pond. There will also be peanut, pop, ice cream and sandwich booths and a convenient check room. Admission to the room shows will be one ticket, the same as in former years and tickets will also be accepted at the booths, however, two tickets will be required for admittance to the radio review.

Chairmen of the committees follow: Tickets, Mrs. Harold Murph; auditorium show, "The Radio Review," Mrs. Carl Waelder; fish pond, Mrs. O. T. Kimbrough; pop booth, Mesdames Jimmie Elliott and Ralph Fidler; ice cream booth, Mesdames Hubert Lesley and Walter Prechel; peanut booth, Mesdames Rex Murphy and J. W. Ginsburg; check room, Mesdames A. L. Proctor and M. S. Kauffman; and sandwich booth, Mrs. F. A. Rinehart.

GREASY HAIR FROM—

LAZY GLANDS

Hair that is full of grease and has an odor is due to a gland disorder. Soap and water won't help. Face the truth about your scalp!

When the scalp oozes oil from every pore, the glands are wasting nourishment and need attention. Stimulate those lazy glands and all that grease and scale will go. And watch what happens to the hair itself, when properly nourished!

Gland stimulation gives hair new life and new color. You won't have any streaks to "touch up" or gray locks to hide. Pigmentation will slowly but surely revive the natural color of any hair not completely and permanently gray. Start stimulation of those lazy glands tonight! The way to wake them is by massage. Use your finger-tips, dipped in Danderine. The Danderine will cut through the pore filth and get at the gummed glands.

One treatment will dissolve every particle of dandruff. The first week will give you a healthy, wholesome scalp. But keep the treatments up until the very feel of your hair tells you it is in perfect condition.

You can get Danderine at any drugstore. It is a marvelous medicine for sick scalps.

The Mother Who Kills Her Daughter -:- By Kathleen Norris

MRS. NORRIS SAYS:

They were moving slowly along the boardwalk at Atlantic City on a soft, clouded February day: the mother and daughter.

The mother looked about 65, the daughter about 60. Probably their actual ages were 65 and 38.

The mother was pretty, delicate, frilled, important. The daughter was—but you know the daughter.

We all know that daughter, that fine, gentle, self-sacrificing, cheerful girl who travels all over the world, lives in every nice hotel and boarding-house, walks along every sunshiny drive in Florida and Southern California and Nice, on pleasant mornings.

Mornings, not afternoons. After luncheon mamma dear rests, and Louise sits near her couch writing post-cards, reading aloud, perhaps looking up occasionally to say some bright, amusing, soothing thing, perhaps very silent, so that mamma dear may drop off.

They both come down to dinner, because the music and lights and dancing and movement generally amuse mamma. They sit about until well after 9—sometimes, if anyone is talking to mamma, until almost 10.

Then gently, smilingly, Louise steers the frail little lace-draped figure through the admiring crowds; time for mamma to go up to bed. That is the end of both, for the night; they will reappear sometimes in the morning tomorrow, for mamma dear's airing.

Sometimes there are two daughters, dancing devoted attendance upon the useless, superfluous little being who gave them their useless, superfluous lives. More rarely, it is a son who is chained to mamma's chalot wheels. But the mamma dear type doesn't so often victimize man; it is more apt to spoil and lionize the male.

Everytime I see such a mother, with such daughters, I would see red if I had the remotest idea what seeing red is. Gracious and sweet and helpless and smiling, they drain the sap from their children's lives; they are life-pigs, not only living their own full days of youth and love and marriage and child-bearing, but absorbing these other lives, too, keeping these other women from all the normal joys of a woman's existence.

Usually there is just enough money upon which to live. Not too much, no money enough for any expansion, any real self-expression on the part of the daughter. No, just money enough for the hotel bills, and the post-cards, and the mother's frills, and the daughter's decent, lifeless costumes.

They talked to me, the mother saucily, prettily, gith great spirit and fun, from her wheeled chair, the daughter rather quietly, with an apathetic look in her fine, dulled eyes.

The particular pair who were taking an airing at Atlantic City talked to me; the mother saucily, prettily, with great spirit and fun, from her wheeled chair, the daughter rather quietly, with an apathetic look in her fine, dulled eyes.

Mamma dear told me that they sufficed each other; Pauline didn't want any husband to come between her and mamma, and mamma felt that she was baby enough for Pauline. No, they didn't keep house, because mamma loved crowds and music and excitement, and as, when Pauline had been a baby, mamma had sacrificed everything to Pauline, so now it was only fair that mamma should have her little fling.

A hundred indications in our five-minutes talk, showed me that this was one more case of a cannibal mother, devouring her young. Merrily, yet with deadly persistence, she reminded Pauline that the orange juice that morning had been made with horrid, decaying oranges, that Pauline had forgot to ask the 'specially nice boy to wait to wheel mamma's chair, that it was because naughty Pauline had played a rubber of auction last night that mamma's shoulder was lame this morning, that dear old Mrs. White would be deeply hurt when no note came acknowledging her dear little girl, and of many another sin of omission and commission on Pauline's part.

"I don't know how she'd manage a household of babies, and a husband," mamma wound up reproachfully, "when she can't even keep a little scrap of a woman like me comfortable!"

And later she added, "Of course, I'm selfish with this dear girl—I know it. But she's all I have. My boy—and my dear, dear husband, both dead. Both 20 years dead. And it won't be forever that her tiresome old mummy burdens her."

No, it won't be forever. But it will be long enough to rob Pauline of any hope of a life of her own.

She ought to be in the full high-tide of living now, with a home, and a man, and children, and clubs, and sports, and trips, and dinner parties absorbing her. She ought to be giving mamma only the overflow, the spare moments, now.

Instead mamma absorbs every particle of her; Pauline can't go out to buy a surprise for mamma's birthday without an explanation, she can't take a bath without calling out to the older woman: "I'm taking my bath now, darling! Back in 10 minutes—"

One cormorant mother of my acquaintance, many years ago, quietly monopolized the lives of three fine, dutiful girls. How she did it, how one gentle, complaining woman could do it, perhaps they themselves didn't fully understand.

Year after year after year their beauty faded, their heads turned gray, their good times changed from the occasional breathless excitement of a dance to the decorous entertainment of a lecture; they never rebelled. When young men came to the house mamma entertained them. The household moved about her. She didn't want her girls to marry. She didn't want them to take dirty, dangerous office positions like men.

One of the girls actually got engaged once. Mamma's opposition was not violent. Neither is the approach of the octopus, or devil-fish, who darkens the surrounding waters to confuse his victim, and then clamps it in gentle arms that are composed of deadly sucking mouths.

This mother smiled cryptically at Belle's beau. No, she would say with a naughty little smirk of penitence, she really likes Kane—poor Kane. Certainly Belle could marry him—but not now. There was no hurry about it—Belle would be washing didies and soaking mush saucepans in some dark basement flat soon enough!

When Kane was there—poor, bashful, inarticulate Kane, Belle's mother was full of bright, hard questions for him. His salary was—what? And he had to help his mother? Of course, he had to help his mother, he couldn't stop that when he married! Perhaps, Belle's mother suggested, Kane's mother would want to live with the young couple?

Of course, Belle should have laughed at this persecution, of course, she should have walked off and married her man. But Belle had been in this atmosphere of maternal tyranny for all her 23 years. She loved her mother, and thought she loved her much more than she did.

Kane faded from the picture, and so did the other few men who now and then appeared on the scene. Belle became exactly what her sisters were, a pale, thin, smart, always older woman, with a library book, and a telephone bill that had to be straightened out, and a few daffodils for mamma.

It seems to me terribly unfair. It seems sometimes as if the very worst enemy some growing girls have is their mother. When mothers tell me that the girls are as independent as the boys nowadays, that they want to get away from home, that they have no sense of duty, I never feel as sympathetic as I should. Rather I am conscious of deep inner rejoicing that one more case of stifling love and merciless exaction has been nipped in the bud.

It isn't natural for a young life to be closely strapped to an empty, older life. Far better for Pauline to make her youthful, unconsidered marriage, bear her children, struggle with all the problems of husband and nursery, home and budget and health, joy and sorrow and change, than that she should satisfy her hungry heart with the leavings of mamma's memories.

How patient they are, these Paulines! How nobly they renounce the friendships that mean nothing to mamma; how sweetly they cultivate the chance acquaintances that arouse mamma's interest.

No army of eager fresh boys on the march seems to me a sadder sight than do these daughters, and these mothers.

The Girl Who Pays

"Dear Zoe—There are two boys. One of them is going to buy me a diamond ring but I don't love him enough to marry him. If I did I would have a good man and a wonderful home, which tempts, for I have no home. The other boy gets a very small salary but I am willing to pay his way and mine no matter where we go because I care so much.

—EVERYDAY READER."

Oh, dear girl, let me beg you not to fall into the fatal habit of paying a man's way. There are circumstances where it is all right to do this, upon occasion, and if the man is a real worker and is simply up against it temporarily. Or if the girl, having received many kindnesses, wants to do something to reciprocate—like getting tickets to a show or throwing a little party. But something tells me this man is willing to let you do the paying, and would even rejoice if you made a practice of it.

ZOE BECKLEY

Let me warn you against such a man, and such a practice. In time you will not only despise him and yourself, but he will despise you. It is, somehow against nature. A man must not be dependent on a woman.

Don't get me wrong, now. I am the greatest of believers in woman's independence and cooperation with man. If a man and woman truly love each other it is natural for them both to do their share in any and every way possible. If the man is incapactitated, it is clearly up to the woman to help if she can. But what you are telling me is not love. It is the merest infatuation of a tired, hard-working girl for a fellow who, to her imagination, represents romance.

It is wrong of you, my dear, to let the other chap—the good one—buy you an engagement ring, feeling as you do. You are not being square. He deserves better treatment. Think it over and see if you don't agree with me.

Way to a Girl's Heart

"Dear Zoe—How is the best way to go about winning a girl's love?

—MICKEY."

Just two things are necessary, Micky: Love her devotedly, faithfully, passionately. And be something she can be proud of. Sounds simple, doesn't it? But it takes a lot of doing. Not every man knows how to love, nor is he willing to learn. Yet love, to a woman, is the greatest thing in the world.

Not every man can make a woman proud of him. Oh, boy, not by a long shot! But any man, if he try hard enough, can make a woman proud of him in some way. Maybe he can only be kind and tender, sweet-hearted and unselfish. That makes her proud. Maybe he can be strong, not only with a healthy body and grand biceps, but firm in character. That makes her proud too, and how! He can be successful in his work. Sometimes I think that makes her proudest of all. He can cultivate neatness, nice manners, charm. And what woman is not proud of a man who pleases?

Of course if he can be all these marvelous things, he is a king among men and can take his pick of women.

The Timid Soul

"Dear Zoe—I am a boy 18 and have never been out with a girl. Am not popular except with a few friends—just can't seem to get in with the gang. Also I am very interested in a girl but feel sure I couldn't hold her interest long. How can I tell my family about her, or that I am going out with her—if I should? —L. W."

Spunk up, old kid, and believe in yourself. Read the answer to "Mickey." Be your age. A lad of 18 should begin to have confidence and independence and not be entirely over-ridden by his family. You have nothing to be ashamed of, nothing to be timid about. These things can be controlled by your mind. Don't allow the thought that you cannot hold the girl's interest to stay in your mind a single instant. Shove it out with another thought:

"I'm a decent, average fellow. I can hold that girl's interest as well as any other fellow can. I'll see what she seems to like in a boy, and cultivate it in myself. I'll make her like me. I'll make people in general like me."

Remember, the mind cannot hold two thoughts at the same time.

In the Rut

"Dear Zoe—I see him almost every night and have known him two years. He loves me dearly and wants to marry me but I just can't love him that way. There is no other boy. He likes petting and I don't. He likes to stay home and I'd rather go to a dance or show. I hate to hurt him and don't know what to do.

—KITTY."

I know, Kitty, I know. One gets sort of tired and fed up and wants a new adventure and a thrill. It's natural you should want a dance and a show and my advice is to have them. Your trouble lies in that one sentence: There is no other boy. There should be other boys. And that's that.

Annual Easter Sunrise Service to To Be Held at Bluffs on Seymour Road Sponsored by Ministerial Alliance

An annual Easter sunrise service will be held again at 5 o'clock Sunday morning, April 5, in the hollows and cliffs off the Seymour road so fitted to the beautiful pageant.

The Ministerial Alliance is sponsoring this service, in the fifth consecutive year of its presentation. Rev. Patrick Henry will act as chairman this year, arranging the Easter talk, the prayer and the song service.

Ella Merle Mathis Bristol, who directed the 1930 pageant, will again have charge of the pageant, which is always the feature of the service.

The pageant is entirely original, being the director's story based on familiar Scripture and connected with her own words. Action, characters and music will be changed to a large extent from last year's service.

Roy J. Daniel will read the script again this year and the characters will act in pantomime four episodes in the life of Christ.

The first episode will be the birth of Christ, with shepherds, Mary, Joseph, and Simon the priest taking part; in scene two, the carpenter shop where the boy, Jesus, works will be pictured with Him leaving to go about His Father's work. In the third episode, the miracles will be shown in a group of three acts of Christ. The resoration of the lifeless child of the widow will be one; the scene where Jesus comforts and helps Mary Magdalene will be second, and last the lovely picture where the little children are brought to Him to be blessed.

In the fourth episode, the resurrection will be featured, the beautiful climax of the service; in this, the guards, the three Marys and the angels will take part.

Special music will climax each episode, the numbers to be given being entirely different from those of any previous year.

Boy Scouts will again assist in making all the properties. The entire cast will be announced later.

Canon Arthur Rudd of Washington To Preach Sunday at Episcopal Church; Illustrated Talks Tonight

Canon Arthur B. Rudd of Washington, D. C., prominent in the work of the Episcopal church through the country, and particularly active in the building of Washington cathedral, will speak Sunday morning at the Church of the Good Shepherd, it was announced by Rev. W. D. Bratton, rector.

In addition to preaching at the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning, the visiting clergyman also will speak before the church school, and at 8 p. m. will give an illustrated lecture in the church on Washington cathedral.

Slides of Building

A total of 65 slides will be used in Canon Rudd's address on the many-spired cathedral which for 24 years has been under construction on Mount Saint Alban, a commanding elevation in the District of Columbia overlooking the Potomac river from a height of 400 feet. The site was obtained by the Episcopal church 33 years ago, and contains almost 70 acres of ground.

Although it will require yet several years for completion, the imposing structure already has attracted much attention. Gatherings held in and near the building have sometimes numbered 20,000 persons, and in the yrar 1929, it was estimated that more than 300,000 visited the cathedral. Designed to include "schools of learning for the promotion of religion and education and charity," the institution will be unique on this continent.

Plans of those who undertook the building of Washington cathedral, and of the congress which in 1893 granted the charter for the cathedral foundation, indicates that it was to be a church for national purposes at the seat of government. In its crypt chapels already repose the remains of Woodrow Wilson, Admiral George Dewey and other national figures of recent years.

Room for 27,000

Some idea of the size of the growing edifice may be drawn from a survey of its general dimensions. The total length of the building will approximate 534 feet, while at the transepts it will measure 215 feet in width. The two front towers rise to a height of 193 feet, while the eight-pointed central tower will reach a height of 261 feet. The ridge of the nave, or central portion of the building, will be 135 feet above the ground. When completed, the Washington cathedral will provide standing room for 27,000 persons for great services there.

Many units of the cathedral already have been finished, and all phases of the architecture and construction of the building will be reflected in Canon Rudd's illustrated lecture, it was said.

THREE SERVICES SUNDAY AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Three services will be conducted by Evangelist J. E. Montgomery of Graham, at the Highland Heights Christian church Sunday. A decision service for the church school will be held at 10 and the morning service will follow at 11:40 o'clock. The closing service of the revival will be held during the evening service at 7:30 o'clock.

The members of the Zindelowitz Junior High school orchestra, under the direction of Miss Minnie Baker, will play a sacred concert at the evening service, and the Junior college trio, composed of Misses Evelyn and Ella Rose Franklin and Stella Evans, will sing.

About 80 per cent of the population of Haiti is engaged in agriculture.

TIMES AND RECORD NEWS FREE COOKING SCHOOL NEXT WEEK

Mrs. Frances Northcross Engaged for Four Lectures and Demonstrations in Household Arts Beginning March 31

Mrs. Frances Northcross, a cookery authority of national reputation, has been invited to conduct The Times and Record News free cooking school next week at Memorial auditorium. There will be four sessions, starting on Tuesday, March 31, and running through Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons. Everybody is invited to attend. The lectures will be free—no tickets of admission will be required. Under the leadership of so noted and widely admired a lecturer, this occasion will be full of real inspiration and helpfulness.

The Times and Record News cooking school is being brought to the housewives of this community because it will be a delightful occasion. Mrs. Northcross, over a period of many years, has appeared before thousands upon thousands of women throughout different sections of the country. The Times and Record News is making this contribution to the women of Wichita Falls and vicinity in the belief that wives and mothers engaged in the complex and responsible duties of managing a home will welcome constructive suggestions.

The stage setting at Memorial auditorium next week will include a modern kitchen for the demonstration and explanation of many practical recipes. There will be many simple explanations of time and labor-saving devices. Handy kitchen utensils will be used to make the preparation of ordinary as well as unusual dishes a delight.

There will be no cut and dried procedure for handling the various phases of each day's program. The demonstrations will be informal and conducted in an interesting manner. The various stage equipments will be explained as they are used. This will make an entertaining as well as an instructive presentation of methods used in the normal home.

Question and answer blanks will be provided at the hall each day. This will enable Mrs. Northcross to fit her talks and demonstrations to the problems of the audience. A liberal use of these question blanks will ensure a far more definite benefit to each individual attending. Every housewife has such problems in cookery and housekeeping. This will be an opportunity to have them discussed by a nationally famous adviser whose wide contact with such problems makes her eminently fitted to pass observations on to others.

No detail is being neglected to make this a successful event. Attractive programs, including the demonstrated recipes, are being prepared for daily distribution.

An especially enjoyable feature of the cooking school will be the daily awarding of a number of well-filled market baskets through the audience. Various dishes, also, prepared during the sessions will be given away daily.

There will be a display of many major gifts donated by Wichita Falls merchants. These will be awarded at the final session on Friday. All gifts will be worthwhile additions to the comfort of any home. Many of them will be articles to reduce time, labor and energy in housekeeping, and therefore, quite in keeping with the principles advocated by Mrs. Northcross throughout the week.

It will be particularly important to bring pencil and notebook to each session. Many little pointers will arise to jot down for immediate application at home. Tradesmen's calls and marketing duties for next week should be planned for mornings. This will make afternoons available for attendance at all sessions. Remember the days—next week Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Memorial auditorium. Doors will be open at 1 o'clock, and lecture will start at 2 o'clock.

Make a special effort to attend.

FUNDS EXHAUSTED IN MANY RURAL SCHOOLS IN STEPHENS COUNTY

DUNCAN, Okla., March 21.—With funds exhausted and no additional state aid in sight, public subscriptions are being taken in some Stephens county school districts to enable teachers to complete their terms, according to Ray O. Sutherland, county superintendent. Some teachers are teaching without pay, anticipating some form of state relief.

At least 41 of the county's 65 schools need state aid to have full terms, Sutherland said, while only 33 will receive aid this year. Under present state aid plans, no school is guaranteed more than an eight-month term.

WEDDING FORECAST IN SPANISH ROYAL FAMILY

MADRID, March 21. (AP)—Court gossip today had it that there soon is to be a wedding in the Spanish royal family.

Beatriz is 21 years old and Antonio is 20. They have been seen together frequently and are said to be genuinely attached to one another. Young Antonio Alvaro probably will be made an infante shortly in anticipation of the formal engagement announcement.

BIDS TO BE ASKED APRIL 25 ON HALL COUNTY HIGHWAY

MEMPHIS, Texas, March 21.—The commissioners court of Hall county voted to ask for bids for the paving the new highway from Memphis to Lakeview on Saturday, April 25, at a special meeting last Thursday. It is estimated that the actual work will begin about the last of May, and will reach Indian creek by July 25, then extended to Lakeview.

The road bed from Memphis to Indian creek is believed to be settled enough that work may be started by the last of May and it has been decided by the commission that, provided sufficient rain falls by that time that the bed to Lakeview would be settled.

Judge A. C. Hoffman, in speaking of the project, said: "We are holding up the biggest project in the county now. Let's start this work and give our unemployed some work all summer." Commissioners were in favor of starting the work at once, provided the bed was in proper condition.

ON TH' ELEMENT O' BOLDNESS AN' ITS RELATION T' SUCCESS

A Venerable Example o' Penniless Old Age

We're livin' in an age o' sharp competition, when no element is so indispensable as boldness in th' attainment of all that is desirable in life. A finished education, purty hair, finely chiseled features, th' form of an Apollo, a fine tenor voice, fashionable raiment an' good folks avail but little in th' battle o' life when unaccompanied by th' element o' boldness—or nerve.

Boldness is a positive characteristic o' th' spirit. A feller may be bold thro' fearlessness, but he may be fearless where there is no apprehension o' danger or no cause fer apprehension, but he is bold only when he is conscious o' apprehensive o' danger an' has th' nerve t' encounter it.

Th' venerable example o' penniless ole age who loves t' chew t'backer an' refer t' th' time when he could have bought th' ground where th' postoffice stands fer two dollars, an' th' spinster who could have married th' best man in town, both illustrate t' us how a whole life may be changed an' soured thro' th' lack o' a little nerve.

Th' best maxims o' t'day were written almost a century ago, an' if they fitted conditions as they existed then how much truer are they t'day when th' minds an' energies o' th' most resourceful amongst us are often exhausted in an effort t' even rise about mediocrity. If "Strike when th' iron is hot" meant anything in 1886 how much more must it mean t'day? If he who hesitated 50 years ago wuz lost what chance is ther t'day fer th' feller who says, "I'll think about it?" "Nothin' ventured nothin' won" wuz a pop'lar sayin' long before th' death o' Cornwallis, an' yit t'day ther's folks tryin' t' succeed without advertisin'.

So in our modern system o' reachin' th' front boldness is th' all important, overshadowin' pre-eminent an' dominant requisite. If we're t' git a seat on th' end o' the aisle in th' third row we'll have t' beat somebuddy t' it.

As Tell Binkley says, "Faint heart never won fair lady or sold any life insurance."

SIMPLE TO LOSE A POUND OF FAT A DAY ON A FULL STOMACH

Do Just These Two Simple Things ... Fat Melts Away

MODERN science has made important recent discoveries in fat reduction. You can lose four to seven pounds a week, if you are a normal, overweight person, on a FULL STOMACH. Instead of tiring exercises and starvation, you now—through a simple substitution of foods—know never a hungry moment and YET GROW SLENDER—See your excess fat fade away safely, comfortably in a simple, healthful way. To stay fat now is folly. You can look so much better, feel so much better and enjoy life so much more that it's foolish not to.

WHAT YOU DO

There are just two simple things to do: Clear your system—and keep it clear of waste matter, toxins and depleting poisons with ordinary JAD SALTS obtained at any drug store. Start with a teaspoonful in a full glass of water tomorrow morning—a sparkling and pleasant drink.

Then EAT YOUR FILL—as much as your appetite can stand—of meals consisting of the following foods:

At breakfast eat two oranges, or the juice of two oranges. Eat also two slices of toasted whole wheat or bran bread. Eat rolled oats (with milk, not cream).

At luncheon eat a good size piece of lean meat, then see how much spinach, lettuce, sauerkraut, boiled cabbage, green peas, broccoli or fresh turnips you can eat. EAT ALL YOU CAN COMFORTABLY HOLD of these foods. For dessert have any fresh fruit; cantaloupe, berries, apples, sliced oranges, pears—any except bananas. Substitute turnips for potatoes. Substitute lean meats—beef, chicken, veal, white fish, trout, bass, etc.—for pork or any fat meats.

At night, have another FILL-UP-FULL meal as above. Cut down on butter and sweets—eat half of what you eat now. That's easy. For with your stomach full of other foods you'll never notice it. Drink water or not as you like.

4 TO 7 POUNDS GONE IN WEEK

At the end of a week, you'll see the scale down four to seven pounds—according to how much overweight you are—from what you weighed the day you started. Your health, too, will be better. You'll be more active, more vigorous than perhaps for years. Your friends will soon begin to notice your increasing slenderness. You'll soon avoid the embarrassment of being called fat or bulky. AND—you'll do it with NEVER A HUNGRY MOMENT!

If in doubt about this safe and simple way, ASK ANY DOCTOR. Show him this article. Ask him whether or not it is safe and sure. It marks the latest findings of scientific men in the field of weight reduction. For it performs two necessary and important functions:

The JAD SALTS clear the bowels and system of the excessive toxins most overweight people have. The change in diet—the FILLING OF THE STOMACH TO ITS LIMIT—with foods that turn to energy instead of fat, decreases the weight day by day. The salts build up your health. The change in food eases off the fat.

Start today. Clip this dietary out and save it. Get big package of ordinary JAD SALTS for the cleansing part of the method at any drug store. A large bottle costs less than a dollar.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.—Adv.

THE RELIGIOUS FORUM

Many of those who attended the religious forum last Thursday night came away feeling a bit bewildered. New experiences are usually bewildering and it was a new experience for practically all of those present. It was an adventure in tolerance and the adventurers left feeling something of the thrill of discoverers.

Comparatively few of those present had ever heard an agnostic publicly explain his agnosticism. Those who perhaps feared the effects of an agnostic appeal by so noted a speaker must have had their fears quieted. For an agnostic, being himself convinced of nothing, cannot hope to bring conviction to others. He may deride, cavil at, probe into, or besmirch, but he cannot destroy because he lacks the tools of destruction. Judge Darrow was highly entertaining, but the faith that was shaken by what he said must have been a flimsy faith to begin with.

The three speakers who had faiths to defend followed the same general lines. If a Mohammedan or Buddhist or follower of some other faith not represented on the platform, someone able to listen with utter impartiality, had been present, we fancy he would have said to himself that the speakers for the Jewish, Protestant and Catholic churches each took a great deal for granted. From the detached point of view, it must have appeared that these speakers assumed much without undertaking to offer proof. But together they made a far better case for religion than Judge Darrow was able to offer against it.

It was an instructive occasion for all who attended. The fact that such a discussion can be staged shows growth. There was a time, not so very long ago, when it would have been impossible.

HUMAN NATURE AND THE SOVIET SCHEME

The Soviet agricultural plan, under which the individual farmer owns nothing himself, but works simply as a servant of the state, is running into difficulties. According to the Soviet Commissar of Agriculture Yakublev, the farmer does not, under the new dispensation, try to see how much work he can do. On the other hand, he is inclined to do just as little as possible without getting into trouble.

Commissar Yakublev has suggested that the government would do better if it established a piecework system and gave the individual some incentive for extra effort. Such a system would of course strike at the very vitals of the communist principle.

The trouble with the Russian plan is that it doesn't take human nature into account. In theory, the peasant is so imbued with and inspired by the Communist idea that he will labor just as long and just as hard for the state as he would for himself. In practice, it doesn't work out that way. Ivan becomes so afraid that he will do a bit more work than Boris that he makes it a point to do less. And Boris, being human, slackens his efforts to avoid outworking Ivan.

Not only is there no incentive to excel; there is a compelling incentive not to excel. The worker who can realize that strenuous labor will not bring him any better food, shelter or clothing than nominal effort is going to take things as easy as he can.

That is human nature. The so-called capitalistic system of private property, of special rewards for special effort, has its drawbacks, but it takes into account the ineradicable frailties of mankind and adjusts itself to them. Sooner or later Soviet Russia will re-discover some simple facts that it is trying to overlook.

THE SHORT BALLOT RESOLUTION

The house at Austin showed no disposition at all to deal favorably with the proposed constitutional amendment for the short ballot. The resolution received only 30 affirmative votes. It needed 100 for passage. Apparently the time is not ripe in Texas for that kind of reform. The present effort must be viewed as an opening wedge which didn't get very far into the log.

It may be taken for granted that the effort will be renewed. The states which have already adopted the short ballot have found it much to their liking, and it is probable that the number of such states will be increased this year.

The ballot is too long in Texas. It is too long because it includes offices of no tremendous importance, in such number that the voter must vote in the dark. He does not know, in the first place, what are the requirements of the place to be filled. He does not know, in the second place, the qualifications of the candidates who seek the place. The contests for minor offices are overshadowed by those for the senatorship, governorship, attorney generalship and perhaps lieutenant governorship. Further down the ballot, the voter is voting blindly.

Many voters tacitly acknowledge their inability to wisely choose the minor elective officers by scratching the names of all candidates. Thus in the first primary last year, there were 833,442 who voted for one or another of the candidates for governor. But only 712,000 voted in the race for comptroller, 703,000 for state treasurer, 665,000 for commissioner of agriculture, 685,000 for land commissioner. In each of these contests more than 100,000 Democratic voters refused to try to choose between the candidates.

In the light of these figures, the average voter isn't as jealous of his right to vote for every office to be filled as might be supposed. And thousands of those who did vote did so very casually.

The short ballot idea is new in Texas and its defeat at this session was ordained. But it gained enough support to encourage the belief that Texas will before many years embrace it.

WILL TWO COURTS SUFFICE?

One of the three district courts serving this county is slated to be discontinued, under the judicial redistricting bill which has been favorably reported in the house at Austin.

Abolition of one of the local courts will, we may be sure, encounter vigorous opposition locally. All three of the district judges serving this county are excellent gentlemen and it is not pleasant to think of any one of them being legislated out of his position. That, however, is not the point to consider. The question to be answered is whether there is actual need of three district courts in this county. We cannot answer that question, but if it is found that Wichita county can get along with one less court than it now has, one of them should be abolished. It is a question of arithmetic and not of personalities.

There is little doubt that the business of creating new district courts has been grossly overdone in the past decade. Seldom has the legislature denied a county's request for an additional court. It has created new courts again and again, giving no thought to the possibility that existing courts might be eliminated. If it is found that Wichita county is among those that can get along with fewer courts, there should be no complaint locally.

The judicial redistricting bill contemplates a ratio of one court to each 50,000 of population. Wichita, Archer and Young counties now have three courts. The total population of these counties is 104,000. On the proposed population basis, two courts should be considered sufficient for the three counties, which would mean abolition of one of the two courts serving Wichita county alone. We would not want to see this section singled out for reduction in its court facilities, but if the reduction is general throughout the state, as the bill contemplates, we can hardly ask that Wichita county be excluded from its provisions.

Stabilizing Want

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

The incomparable Balzac once suggested that there is nothing so terrible as the rebellion of sheep.

Sheep are supposed to be followers extraordinary.

They are models of docility.

Even their remonstrance is a courteous baa!

They do not snarl or growl or gnash their teeth!

Just what Balzac meant by the terribleness of the rebellion of sheep I do not know, but I suspect that we are in danger of encouraging the rebellion of hitherto sheep-like masses unless we bring a creative intelligence to the current problem of adjusting the processes of production, distribution, and consumption wisely.

It is now said on all hands that the way out of all economic troubles lies in controlling production in terms of active demand.

If every man, woman, and child in the United States and in the world were on a civilized standard of living, this formula for economic health might be accepted without question.

But until the human race is lifted to a civilized standard of living it is treasonable to talk of scaling production down to an existing cramped demand.

Some temporary adjustment of production to an abnormally low demand may be necessary; I am not romantic enough to think that the manufacturer can go gaily on producing without regard for his market.

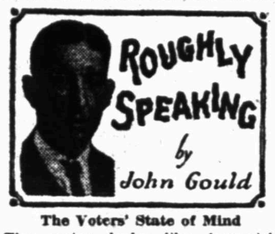

But in thinking of long-time national economic policy it is, I suggest, the small talk of small men to say that the market should willy-nilly dictate production.

The producing forces of the machine age have it within their power to remake civilization the world around.

If the minority of great industries that have found it workable to operate on a basis of high wages, short hours, and low prices would only take national leadership in helping all of American business and industry to shift to this operating basis, we could create markets that are yet unborn, for we should be creating prosperous consumers who are in turn profitable customers.

Adjusting production to an existing cramped demand is urged in order to stabilize business.

But while millions of men, women, and children the world around are still at or near the subsistence level, this policy is not so much a stabilization of business as it is a stabilization of want.

The Voters' State of Mind

The water looks like brownish paste,
We like it.
It has a most lugubrious taste,
We like it.
The ditch wherein to town its brought,
With various kinds of life is fraught,
We never give such things a thought,
We like it.

Still and all, the election result was in keeping with Scripture. See Revelations 22:11, the second clause of the verse being the one that applies.

The Brazen Hussy

Winter is a forward dame,
She lingers in the lap of Spring,
Each year she does that sort of thing,
Has she no sense of shame?

Perhaps winter figures that, considering that spring has been hanging around her house ever since December, they are well enough acquainted by now for a little petting.

Ode to My Onion Patch

You are so frail and innocent,
It's hard to think that, before long,
You will be big and succulent,
And likewise, strong.

It seems that we were wrong in our predictions about the new postoffice. We said a while back that work wouldn't start on it until the building material could be delivered via Red river after it is made navigable. We are beginning to think we might be wrong. However, it will be quite a while before the new building is ready. They have to get the gold out of which the railings and lock-boxes will be made and the diamonds with which to stud the stair-posts. And they haven't decided yet what material to use in making floor for the lobby entrance. This material must be chosen carefully because there's gonna be a rule, in the new postoffice, that all Democrats must pause in the lobby and touch the floor three times with their foreheads. So they have to find a material that will stand the wear and tear. That is to say, something harder than a Democrat's head. It may take a long time to find it. But let's not be impatient. They used to use marble, but cracked inside of a week. Maybe the new postoffice will have to wait until they find something really durable.

Headaches

There was a piece in the paper the other day about a man up in Chicago who has a kind of permanent headache and who was hired by the doctors so they could study him and see how to cure such cases. It seems that the man is about to lose his job because he can't keep his headache.

It seems to us that there is no excuse, in times like these, for anybody being without a headache for very long. It is one thing that can be acquired readily and promptly.

The Chicagoan ought to read the full text of the Wickersham report and try to understand it. That would be good for two months headache if he couldn't understand it, and for a permanent headache if he could.

Most of the state legislatures are in session just now, and a few minutes a day at any one of them ought to suffice for a jim-dandy headache. About half a minute's contact with the oil proration problem in East Texas should keep his head hurting for a month. And then he might read some of the statements that politicians are issuing about prohibition not being an issue in the next presidential campaign. They look like sure-fire stuff for not only head-aches, but maybe for stomach-aches as well.

Opportunities

A man living in Chicago, which is the town that Big Bill Thompson is running for re-election in, certainly ought not to lack for headache material. But if he wants to travel around a bit, he might come to Wichita Falls and ride the Southland carline twice a day, with a big drink of Lake Wichita water before and after each ride. In between rides he could put in his time trying to figure out what is going to become of Wichita Falls' dairymen. If that doesn't develop a good 16-cylinder headache, let him try to figure out what is going to become of Wichita Falls' oil men.

A few minutes spent on figuring the Spudders' pennant chances might not give him a headache, but it certainly ought to help him keep one if he already has it.

The reading of half a dozen or so assorted prosperity interviews every morning should be conducive to a condition that will help him hold his job.

If Married

The newspaper item didn't say whether the head-acher was a married man and kept house. It may be assumed that he is single. The head of a family has too many opportunities to develop headaches to ever lose out for the lack of one. Coming home in the afternoon, for example and finding that salivas and spetunias have been planted in the place that he had laboriously spaded up for a strawberry bed. A jolt like that means more than a headache. It means a heartache, too . . .

Does the head-ache man ever play bridge? Did he have to make out an income tax report? Does he have a neighbor who plays the saxophone?

Life these days is just full of material for headaches if one knows where to look for them. The Chicagoan ought to take advantage of his opportunities.

And trying to write a colyum the day after you've listened to a four-cornered religious discussion isn't exactly an aspirin tablet, itself.

We don't understand why Theodore Dreiser smacked Sinclair Lewis, but it certainly seems like a good idea.

Our Third Set of Teeth

There were teeth before there were dentists—but there were also toothaches. Since a tooth pain is about as agonizing a thing as one can feel, various races in the past have found means of extracting the teeth. Tongs or pincers were used by some of them for this purpose, but the original method was to hammer the tooth loose with a mallet and crude bone maul so that it could be pulled out with the fingers. In some countries various prayer methods were used in cases of toothache, and even yet in Catholic territories, St. Appollonia is the patron saint of toothache.

The Chinese have a very effective method of curing toothache by puncturing the gum under the aching tooth and inserting capsicum or some other counter-irritant into the wound. This is, still a useful remedy. You should have a small vial of tincture of capsicum in your home, and the next time you have a toothache, just dip a small piece of cotton on the end of a toothpick into the capsicum and then place the cotton in the cavity of the tooth. This will usually give immediate relief. Be careful not to get any of the capsicum on the tongue, however, since it is manufactured out of the same kind of hot stuff as tobasco sauce.

The art of manufacturing false teeth is not a new one, since the Eskimo and a few other primitive races manufactured false teeth by carving them out of tusks, hard bones, and horns of various animals.

Some aborigines have a very painful and useless custom of mutilating the teeth by knocking out or filing down to a point some of their front teeth. This is considered a proof of their courage and an enhancement of their beauty. At least there may be some truth to the first statement.

There are said to have been several individuals who grew a third set of teeth, but most of us will have to be satisfied with our third set in the way the dentists make them.

The dentists have developed a wonderful skill in advancing their profession. It may be interesting to my readers to know that many dentists are referring their patients to my menus for keeping their teeth in good condition. They are realizing that teeth may be destroyed as much by acidosis as by uncleanliness, and that the daily use of the toothbrush will not magically brush away the cause of tooth decay when the teeth require special foods containing mineral elements for their nourishment.

In treating pyorrhea, it is advisable that a patient go on an orange juice fast for a few days to alkalinize the blood and then to the dentist for local treatments. It the patient will then follow a correctly combined diet during the course of his dental treatments, he is sure to get more permanent results.

Do not have teeth pulled unless absolutely necessary. Children should be encouraged to chew raw vegetables, such as carrots, turnips, cucumbers, beets and celery. The fibers of these vegetables will require enough chewing to strengthen the teeth and pretty nearly keep them clean. And, most important, these vegetables will supply the elements to maintain the teeth's nourishment.

The foods that are best suited for tooth development are: Spinach, lettuce, tomatoes, celery, beets and beet greens, blackberries, figs, asparagus, cucumbers, dandelions, strawberries, watercress, cabbage, turnips, milk, rutabagas, pine nuts and cottage cheese.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Bright's Disease

Question—M. E. B. asks: "In a mild case of Bright's disease do you forbid all salt in food? And if so, what substitute will make food palatable?"

Answer—I do not find it necessary to eliminate all salt from the diet of the one suffering from Bright's disease. It is difficult to make cooked food palatable without the addition of a small amount of salt. I believe that one should keep the amount of salt used down to the lowest minimum and still make the foods pleasing to the taste. There's no good substitute for salt except to cook your vegetables carefully so that the natural salt is not cooked away. Slow cooking by the waterless method in heavy aluminum vessels is the best method to use to preserve the mineral salts in foods.

Operations

Question—G. N. asks: "Is one's life shortened by gall bladder or appendix operation?"

Answer—The shock to the nervous system from an unnecessary operation will undoubtedly shorten life, but if the operation is successful and a diseased organ is removed the effect may be to greatly lenthen the life of the patient whose life would otherwise be shortened by the disease.

Anemia

Question—M. H. H. asks: "What are the best foods for an anemic person?"

Answer—The first thing for the patient to do is to eliminate the excess toxins in the body which are causing anemia, then to use foods rich in iron and other blood building elements. These are found mostly in the greens, such as spinach, kale, watercress, beet tops, etc.

NEW YORK.—"If you want to go in for the exotic, the orientally romantic and the legendary in a big way, why don't you bust around your own mid-fifties instead of runing off to Africa?"

And so, thus cnided, I started out on a little serious sleuthing. With the result that I have a tale from our own Bagdad-by-the-subway.

Over in India, so I have been told, the marble domes and towers of the Taj Mahal gleam in the burning sun. And were these domes the basis of a theme song, rather than the historic gems that they have become, crooners might now be crooning, "I built them all for you."

For, as the story goes, there was once upon a time a certain Shah Jahan. And there was also a certain fair maiden. Now the Shah was a man of great wealth. His empress was a lady of great beauty—at least, so he thought. And when she died he grew disconsolate and built the most beautiful of tombs to hold her remains—the Taj.

There in Agra still stands the great work of art—"record of a deathless love," as the movie captions might put it.

Oh, yes, her name was Mumtaz-Mahal! And one of the love trinkets he bestowed upon her was a necklace of emeralds, so carefully matched that none—at the time, at least—could equal them.

Injecting the tale into the New York of today, their present possessor—Edwin H. Tompkins of 57th street—believes they are the finest matched in the world at this moment.

The necklace first arrived in America in the care of an Indian and were intended for exhibition at the late sesquicentennial fair in Philadelphia.

Now it was not the good fortune of Mr. Tompkins of New York to know the Shah, but it was his fortune to know emeralds. And here were 204 in a double strand, weighing 300 karats. No one knows how long it took the Shah and his experts to assemble them, but it didn't take Mr. Tompkins long to put them at the head of his collection, once he learned that they were purchasable.

And so it is that right here in New York it's possible to glimpse the baubles intended for the lady of the Taj Mahal.

Having gone in for emeralds over a period of 30 years, Tompkins holds that, with pearls, they are the favorite gems of almost any woman. He points out that almost every great painting has a considerable spot of emerald green—indicating that it is a great favorite with artists.

Diamonds, he holds, are a substantial background to a jeweler, but emeralds and pearls never go out of fashion whatever the passing fancy.

And innumerable legends are related with this stone.

Nero's fabulous monocle, they say, was of emerald. When Cleopatra had her features engraved, she chose emeralds and sent the gems about to her friends—if any.

The finest collection in the world today is believed to be owned by Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, who has collected for years and had the greatest experts on the watch.

Most of the great jewels, as a matter of fact, are today in private hands. GILBERT SWAN.

Confidence

By Edgar A. Guest

They little trust their Lord, I think,
Who from the test of battle shrink,
And stay in gloom which never lifts,
Doubting the purpose of His gifts.

The weapons of a man are these:
A reasoning mind, an eye that sees,
A hand that can to skill be brought,
Courage and understanding thought.

No more God gives to men who rise
Than those whom duty terrifies;
Hands, eyes and brain, and yet with these
One dares the test another flees.

O Boy, of self be not afraid!
Doubt not that you are nobly made.
Be not so foolish as to fear
That God has sent you helpless here.

These are His weapons given to you,
The power to think, the power to do,
And if you fear to test their worth
You doubt the God who gave you birth.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Now here is Mr. John J. Raskob back again as a political issue, more of an issue than he was in the 1928 campaign and much more so than the Republicans, try as they would, were able to make him in the congressional campaign of 1930.

You may hear more about him from the throats of members of both parties in the next year or so than of anyone else in politics except President Hoover. After the 1928 campaign, the soft-spoken little chairman of the Democratic national committee retired gracefully into the background, fading away as a political issue while Executive Chairman Jouett Shouse and national headquarters took the stage for the Democrats. But now he is in the ring again, trying to bite off more than any national chairman has ever before dared to bite at, let alone prove himself able to chew.

All little Raskob has undertaken is to finance the party personally, make it good and wet, furnish it with a conservative economic policy, set up the national committee as a guiding body for the national convention and to name its next presidential candidate. At least, so it appears. And the belief that he is up to all those things is what makes Raskob, himself and his policies, such a major issue.

Upsets Precedents

A national chairman's unprecedented advocacy of such an unprecedented number of unprecedented proposals is unprecedentedly bold. There are many who admire Raskob and believe he is right in some or all of his tactics. But his position has also been made correspondingly dangerous; he has opened himself to a variety of attacks from a variety of elements. Some of these attacks have been delivered since he made a target of himself at the committee's meeting here; others, perhaps the most important ones, are still to come.

In the first place, Raskob has been the object of considerable personal dislike within the party. He gave it infinitely the best between-election organization it ever had and took care of its bills. But there were many who felt his selection by Al Smith gave the South too much to swallow. And others who consider him primarily an ex-Republican wet.

There was a feeling for several months among others that Raskob had virtually "bought out" the party. Most Democrats, accustomed to hard times, were sincerely grateful for Raskob's financing, but it was easy to argue that it wasn't good publicity for the party. Some of the curse has been taken out of that, of course, by adoption of the party's new fund-raising plan.

Well, Raskob has now stirred up the drys against him to a new pitch. The progressives in the party are lamming away at him because he warned against general assaults on the "power trust" and favored more aid for big business. The many supporters of Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York have turned on him or are preparing to do so because they think he is opposed to their candidate. Old-time Democrats in some cases are worried by his general tactics.

G. O. P. Whets Knives for Him

Middle-of-the-road politicians, including moderate wets, believe an attempt to put the committee on record as to Raskob's "home rule" prohibition plan will be a serious error and hence may be counted among his personal opposition even if they would vote wet as committee members in case of a showdown.

On top of that, of course, the Republicans are sharpening their knives for Raskob and that is bound to affect the chairman's position in his own party to the extent that Democrats fear he may become a liability.

Raskob has important strength in the potent Democratic wet element, the conservative group in the party which wants it to appeal to big business, those who like him because Al Smith likes him; others who say his organization and financing have proved a godsend and those who believe that his action in bringing prohibition out as an issue at this early date was a fine thing for the party.

But Raskob's fate as a chairman and as a politician will finally depend on whether the party's most influential leaders decide that he and his theories will be any help to Democratic success. Those boys will determine whether they want a Raskob label on their candidate or in their platform. Meanwhile, the degree to which the chairman flames or fades as a national issue will depend on the extent of his own sweet reasonableness.

CHILDRESS RELAYING BIG WATER MAIN ALONG ROAD

The city council of Childress has ordered that a large cast iron water main that runs down Avenue F, northeast part of the city, be removed and placed in the alley to the north. Fifteen or 20 men are being given employment and the pay is 25 cents per hour.

Avenue F will be used as a highway street when highway 5 is completed through the city. Work is now in progress on the paving of the highway. Highway 5 is the main road that runs northwest from Wichita Falls to Pacific coast points, also all resorts cities and towns in the Rocky mountains.

BIG ROCK QUARRY OPENED NEAR QUANAH CITY LIMITS

A big quarry where a very hard quality of limestone is secured has recently been opened just north of the city limits at Quanah. Material from the quarry is being used to pave the new hard-surfaced highway from Quanah to the new free bridge across the Red river.

The quarry is giving employment to quite a number of men and it is not at all unlikely that the new quarry will prove a valuable business income for Quanah.

Amusements

Ruth Chatterton in 'Unfaithful' Strand Theater Through Thursday; Followed by 'Man of the World'

"Unfaithful" the new Ruth Chatterton picture, is now showing at the Strand. It is a vigorous, well told story, built upon a firm dramatic structure, and containing elements of an emotional theme which are given force by the intelligent and imaginative handling of the story. The play itself is concerned with a young woman (Ruth Chatterton) who marries a popular and titled English aristocrat (Paul Cavanaugh). Cavanaugh, admired and respected by all who know him, is falsely set up as a public idol. His wife, played with consumate skill by Miss Chatterton, loves him dearly until she makes the stunning discovery, shortly after their wedding, that Cavanaugh has never given up his love for another woman. When she confronts her husband with indisputable proof of his infidelity, he laughs off the matter, claiming that it is nothing for her to worry her pretty head about. But Ruth, her dream of ideal happiness irreparably shattered, warns him that she will not remain his wife; that she will insist on a divorce no matter who it hurts. He is forced to name the "other" woman in order to prevent an open scandal. The other woman is the beloved wife of Ruth's own brother. Her hands tied by these unusual circumstances, Ruth remains the wife of Cavanangh in name only. She becomes the mad seeker of unending pleasures, while London society, not understanding, pities her husband and wags its malicious tongue, with Ruth the victim.

This is the basis of the suspense-filled, dramatic story which John Van Druten has written expressly for Miss Chatterton. It shows her living lavishly and foolishly; it reveals her first meeting with an artist, Paul Lukas, he falls in love with her, and Ruth, once again learning the real meaning of true love in the protecting arms of another man. There is an unusual and effective twist to the plot's development emphasizing the unique story value of "Unfaithful" and making its climax particularly impressive and convincing.

On the same program there is a Laurel and Hardy comedy, "Chickens Come Home" a rollicking farce that's sure to please, and the latest issue of the Paramount news.

The picture's action takes place in Paris where Powell makes his livelihood off women through blackmail. He meets Carole Lombard, falling in love with her. He can neither live down his past, nor his love for this beautiful woman. Powell adds another unforgetable characterization to his long list of successes. Carole Lombard, who was last seen in "Safety in Numbers," gives a fine performance. Wynne Gibson, noted stage star, will be seen in a very sincere and convincing role.

Wheeler-Woolsey Team Comedians Gem Three Days

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, featured comedians, have gained such a hold on the public during the last year that the studio is now being stormed by interviewers wanting to know, how, why, when and where.

It is useless to ask them the reasons for their success.

"Are we successful?" they inquire. "Gee! Tell us about it!"

It remained for Paul Sloane, who directed them in two of their greatest successes, "The Cuckoos" and "Half Shot at Sunrise" to tell "whether comedians are born funny, or just intelligent enough to make people laugh." The latter production, an all-talking wartime comedy dealing with a couple of A. W. O. L. soldiers, opens Sunday at the Gem theater.

Team Brought to Millions

"They had been successful," Sloane explained, "but too successful to be well known. Broadway loved them so much they were never allowed to leave. If it wasn't for 'Rio Rita' they would probably be on Broadway yet, their fun-making a secret to all but New Yorkers.

"When RKO made 'Rio Rita' they were brought to Hollywood. When the public saw the movie version of the famous stage operetta they began talking about the 'new' comedians. But it was just old stuff to them.

"And as to why they are successful, I believe it is because they are the most remarkable pair of performers in the business today. They work with absolute cooperation, and as long as I have known them, I have never seen them vie for laughs.

Teamwork Always Wins

"They know that comedy teams must strive to be funny together, not as individuals. Nor do they even discuss which one is to spring the final gag.

"They realize that each of them represents a type and they put on their comedy stunts like one would fit a shoe. Then they wear it, and that is that.

"Usually it works out that Woolsey is forever getting Wheeler into jams. Wheeler is a 'scream' when he is in a jam. Woolsey is the wisecracker. Wheeler is the butt."

'Beau Ideal' Sequel to 'Beau Geste' At the Majestic Sunday and Monday 'The Devil to Pay' Coming Tuesday

The demand of a million film fans has been answered. A sequel to Herbert Brenon's silent film masterpiece, "Beau Geste" has been filmed, with the same famous director at the megaphone. The demand for the film originated before C. P. Wren, the author of the best-seller "Beau Geste," had written a sequel or had any intention of writing one. Four years elapsed, however, before Brenon was in a position to give the screen "Beau Ideal," the talking film sequel to his "Beau Geste," and the screen version of Wren's fictional sequel. The book, like "Beau Geste," was a best seller, and the talkie sequel is equally as sensational, colorful and sweeping a tale of adventure and desert drama.

Ralph Forbes, who played "John Geste" in the original, is the romantic figure in its sequel at the Majestic Sunday and Monday. He was discovered by Brenon in "Beau Geste," which brought him screen fame. Brenon discovered another newcomer for the heroic lead in "Beau Ideal" in the person of Lester Vail, a young stage actor. There are many of the old players also. Paul MacAllister, seen in "Beau Geste" as a corporal of the legion, is now a sergeant in "Beau Ideal." Several other men, aged appropriately, are found promoted or "broken." Even the children of "Beau Geste" appear in retrospect in "Beau Ideal," but since the youngsters grew in the four-year interval, the same one could not play their parts. The cast includes such stars as Loretta Young, Irene Rich, Don Alvarado, Leni Stengel and others equally prominent.

There are other units of entertainment on this program that will prove popular with the audiences. First will be the first appearance of the Dogville comedies. There have been all kinds of different comedies but here for the first time will be presented some of the smartest dogs the screen has been able to locate and their fun is equally as good as that presented by monkeys and other animals. Marion Harris will be heard in another of her popular song presentations and Majestic talking news will be unusually interesting.

"The Devil to Pay"

Ronald Colman fans turned out en masse Saturday night at the midnight preview to see his latest picture, "The Devil to Pay," coming Tuesday and were more than rewarded.

Ronald Colman captivates his audience in one of his happiest roles. The dialog is brilliantly witty and excruciatingly funny, and the fast pace of the star is followed by a very fine cast. Loretta Young, youthful and attractive, justifies Ronald's quick appreciation of her charms. Myrna Loy, as the actress, was well chosen and plays convincingly. Frederick Kerr and David Torrence as the fathers, gave the finished performance to be expected from such veteran players.

There will be plenty of variety with the above program. The Boy Friends will be back in another comedy which is said to be even funnier than their last, "High Gear." This time it is "Ladies Last." There will also be a Krazy Kat cartoon and a scenic by Bruce Holmes entitled, "Dublin and Nearby."

"The Last Parade"

The events that leap from the headlines often find their parallel in motion pictures. This is illustrated in "The Last Parade," which starts a two-day engagement at the Majestic next Friday. Briefly, the story concerns a bootlegger, Big Marino, who warns Larry Pearson, a reporter, to stop writing stories about him in the newspaper. When Larry ignores the warning, Marino puts him on the spot.

Another racketeer, Cookie Leonard, avenges Larry by taking Marino for a ride. From that point the screen sequences proceed with increasing tensity, to a climax said to possess unusual dramatic power. The leading players in "The Last Parade" are Jack Holt, Tom Moore, Constance Cummings, Gaylord Pendleton and Robert Ellis. The supporting cast includes Edmund Breese, Jesse De Vorska, Vivi, Robert Graham and Earle D. Bunn. This is the story and picture gangland defied Hollywood to make. It has been a sensation where ever presented and will undoubtedly prove such in Wichita Falls.

With "The Last Parade" will be seen another of those Slim Summerville comedies. Slim is still in the army and having his troubles. There will also be a Terrytoon comic, "Go West Big Boy."

Fancy Eggs Laid By Wichita Hen Woodrow Street

Business genius in the United States may prescribe curtailed production as a cure for current economic ailments, but there's a little white hen in Wichita Falls that pooh-poohs such an idea.

This ambitious hen is one of a flock of Ferris White Leghorns owned by Mrs. R. A. Dees, 1821 Woodrow street. The chicken which believes in bigger and better eggs is about one year old, and has been laying for about five months. She is one of a dozen young hens comprising a separate pen of good producers. Among the many eggs gathered from that flock in recent weeks, there have been many of unusual size and excellent shape. While the pen is not equipped with trap-nests, this particular three-pound hen has been credited with the conspicuously large hen-fruit.

To impress her owner definitely with her capacity for producing eggs that are eggs, chick-abiddy made last Monday an eventful day in her life by laying down a perfectly proportioned egg which tipped the scales for all of 3½ ounces. Now three-and-a-half ounces isn't much pork or beef, but it's a lot of egg, all in one shell. The standard weight for the common run of eggs, it is said, is two ounces. And this egg-maker is a little Leghorn.

Wrapped on its length-wise circumference with the tape, the egg revealed a measurement of 7⅞ inches. Around its waist line it is a perfect 6¼ inches. Its shell is of smooth, firm texture, and when candled, the giant egg seemed to be but one inside as well as out.

Legislatures and Politicians Are Busy With Redistricting Problems To Conform With Reapportionment

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The grand old game of gerrymandering is under way in many parts of these United States. Legislatures and string-pulling politicians have set about the task of redistricting their states to conform to the congressional reapportionment act that became operative with the adjournment of congress on March 4.

Redistricting must be done in 32 of the 48 states before the 1932 congressional elections, else representatives from those states must be elected from the state at large. That is provided in the reapportionment act of 1929 compelling a redistribution among the states of house membership after each decennial census.

Gambling With Future

No members of the house except some who seem pretty certain to lose their seats anyway through reduced representation wants that for going into state-wide primaries and elections would be gambling with his political future with the odds likely against him.

So it seems pretty certain most, if not all, of the 32 affected states will work out some form of redistricting before next year's nominations are in order, even if it means calling extra sessions of the legislatures to do it.

It appears that extra sessions will be necessary in some states, due to the constitutional limitations on the length of regular sessions, some of which expired before March 4 and others now in the fag end of their sitting with redistricting unattended to.

Vermont Has No Worry

Vermont is one of the 32 states that does not have to worry. Its house membership is reduced from two to one, so it will just go ahead and elect one from the state at large.

Alabama, which drops from 10 to 9 representatives, but whose legislature meets only once every four years and then for only 50 legislative days, made quick work of redistricting by passing a bill before its January session ended early this month. Five districts were left intact with the other five merged into four by the shifting of a county or so here and there in the center of the state.

Kentucky, which loses two and Mississippi and Virginia, each of which loses one have no legislative sessions this year, but will in January, 1932, so they have plenty of time to figure out their changes.

Massachusetts, Rhode Island and South Carolina, each of which loses one, have annual legislative sessions, so they can get around to the job next January. Likewise with New York and New Jersey, each of which gains two, if they don't finish the job this spring. There is no fixed limit to the length of Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey sessions.

Florida and Georgia

Florida, which gains one, does not begin its legislative session until April, while Georgia, which loses two, convenes its assembly in June of this year.

The Tennessee legislature, which reconvened last Monday after a seven weeks' recess, and which has another month to go, is now struggling with the redistricting to reduce its 10 districts to 9.

The legislatures of California, which gains nine; Maine, which loses one; Michigan, which gains four; Nebraska, which loses one; North Carolina, which gains one; Ohio, which gains two, and Pennsylvania, which loses two, all of which convened in January, can continue in session for unlimited periods, so they can be expected to work out solutions before adjourning.

Have Plenty Time

Connecticut, which gains one, is allowed 157 days. Iowa, which loses one, holds its legislature 100 days, while Minnesota, also losing one, is permitted a 90-day session, all opening in January. They have enough time ahead of them to do something with redistricting.

The tough job falls on the legislatures of Indiana, Kansas, Missouri, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas and Washington. Kansas is limited to 60 days, Indiana to 61, Missouri to 70 and the others 60 each. Texas gains three representatives, and Oklahoma and Washington one each. Missouri loses three and the others lose one each.

It is in this last group of states where extra sessions may have to be called or the congressional races next year may be thrown into the state at large.

AL SMITH SAYS PROHIBITION ISSUE CANNOT BE ESCAPED IN 1932

Language Cannot Be Found to Hide Issue in 1932 Conventions of Two Major Political Parties

By ALFRED E. SMITH

When any group of men desire to have their own way about a problem of government, whether right or wrong, they attempt to find justification for an unreasonable attitude in some construction that they themselves place upon spoken or written words of eminent American statesmen or in their construction of constitutional or statute law or established precedent.

Just prior to the recent meeting of the Democratic national committee, held in Washington, a number of statesmen throughout the country worked themselves up to a white heat over the idea that the chairman of the committee was going to suggest that the national committee make recommendations of planks for the Democratic platform to be adopted in the national convention in 1932. They discussed precedents, rules and regulations and what not, all apparently in an attempt to forestall the national committee from expressing itself on the important issue caused by the complete failure of the 18th amendment.

Not one of them seemed to be aware of the fact that the rules and regulations of the national committee distinctly provide that committee with power to make recommendations to the national convention. In accordance with the convention manual issued by the Democratic national committee, in the definition of the duties and powers, among other things it states that they "ordinarily include" "recommendations of the policies or the procedure of the convention . . ." Even assuming that was not so, what possible harm could come from making a recommendation? Under our theory of democracy you would imagine that any considerable group of people in any part of the country in meeting assembled would have that right. The constitution of the United States guarantees to the people the right to assemble peaceably and petition the government for redress of grievances.

Already groups of citizens throughout the country have in mind appearing before an appropriate committee of the national conventions to urge various platform planks. At a national convention, when the committee on resolutions gives public hearings, even individuals are permitted to express themselves. Still we find influential members of a political party attempting to find grounds upon which to deny that same right to the organized representatives of that party coming from all parts of the United States.

The object that these individuals have in mind is apparent to the man on the street. They are afraid of the political issue growing out of the failure of the 18th amendment. In my opinion any group of representative Democrats afraid to express themselves frankly on any subject affecting the welfare, comfort and safety of the people of the United States is turning its back upon real democratic principles.

Jefferson, himself, said that we were endowed by our Creator with certain unalienable rights—life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. He further said that when a government was destructive of these ends the people had the right to alter or abolish it and set up a new government, organized in such form as to effect their safety and happiness.

If all that be true in regard to government why is it not equally true in regard to political organizations? When they cease to represent the sentiment of the majority, will they not cease to be democratic? It is difficult for a man to call himself a Democrat who for reasons of political expediency will make any attempt to stifle the expression of that majority. The refuge of the statesman who seeks to promote minority rule seems to be a reference to precedent. I care very little, myself, about precedents. I believe that every new situation requires new treatment.

Courts have been known to reverse themselves. What may have been good law and procedure a half a century ago may not meet present-day needs. Certainly nobody can say that that which is all right today is bound to be all right 50 years from now, unless it goes to the very basic, fundamental question of our form of government itself; and certainly amendments to the constitution recently enacted cannot be said to be clothed with the same sacred reverence for constitutional law that we find in the bill of rights.

On this very question of the 18th amendment, President Hoover in his speech of acceptance, while applauding the nobility of the experiment, said that "common sense compels us to realize that grave abuses have occurred" and further that "organized searching investigation of fact and causes can alone determine the wise method of correcting them." Following his election, he appointed the so-called Wickersham commission, every member of which distinctly and definitely concluded that the 18th amendment is a failure because of the impossibility of its enforcement.

If that is fact, what becomes of the argument that nothing should be done to the 18th amendment simply because it is in the constitution? The same people who raise that point would probably raise the same point were it statute instead of constitutional law. It is an indication of how far men will go that the statement was made at the recent conference of the Democratic national committee that the chairman by expressing his own views openly and frankly with respect to the 18th amendment was helping the Republican president. The further extraordinary statement was made that to speak out frankly and make even a suggestion with respect to the 18th amendment was political suicide. A distinguished Democrat made the statement that prohibition was not a political issue, disregarding the very palpable fact that its discussion in a political conference makes it a political issue.

Not only is the 18th amendment a political issue as between the parties but it is a political issue inside both of them. President Hoover says he does not favor repeal of the 18th amendment. Still, Republicans are being elected to office all over the United States on a promise to the people that they do favor the repeal of the 18th amendment. Democratic governors were elected in the eastern and midwestern states only last election, running on platforms distinctly declaring in favor of the repeal of the 18th amendment. In some states both parties declared for its repeal. If it is not a political issue, why is there any attention being paid to it in the political parties and how did it get into political platforms? Not only has prohibition been an issue at the general elections, but it was an issue between the candidates of the same party at last year's primary elections.

No man or group of men in either party will be able to stifle the issues growing out of the enactment of the 18th amendment in either of the two conventions to be held in 1932. The platform makers of both parties have come to the ends of their ropes in devising ambiguous language and catch phrases that protect them from honestly stating where they stand.

The man on the street will ask the natural question, why do the political parties seek to dodge this issue? The answer is apparent. Both parties are making a bid for the support of both factions and political expediency suggests that in order to get everybody you had better say nothing. But the time is bound to come when that policy will result in having nobody.

A political convention is based upon identically the same theory as government. It is representative. The right, straightforward, honest way to do is to submit the question directly to the duly elected delegates to the convention and let the majority rule. Anyone who opposes that program puts himself in direct opposition to the fundamental and cardinal principle of democracy. Instead of handling it that way conventions leave it to a committee and that committee proceeds to attempt to please everybody. And the result of their deliberations is the mealy-mouthed, soft, evasive, ducking and dodging language that we find in the platforms of both parties. Of course, patient people will stand for that for a certain length of time, but if that can continue indefinitely then I see very little reason for the adoption of any kind of platform. It does not mean anything if you can keep out what the majority sentiment insists should be in it. You can afterwards disregard any other thing that you put in it. Both proceedings are politically dishonest.

The latest authentic document concerning the 18th amendment, in the records of our government, is the report of the findings of the President's commission on law observance and enforcement. Unless and until it can be proven that the 18th amendment has been successful in accomplishing its purpose, that document must be respected by the people of the United States who believe in orderly government. That document unquestionably declares that prohibition of the sale, manufacture and distribution of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes as demanded by the 18th amendment is a failure. No man in any government of our citizens can fairly say that the determination of the question of what to do with respect to the 18th amendment is not a political question. He may desire it not to be but it still is.

Later I will write upon the constructive suggestions so far advanced that propose such alteration or amendment to the fundamental law as will make effective true temperance and honest enforcement.

Negroes Plan for Pageant Scheduled For Last of March

Tickets will be on sale in a few days for "Heaven Bound," a musical pageant to be presented by the Colored Methodist Episcopal church, according to the pastor of the church. The pageant is to be presented at the Memorial auditorium on Tuesday evening, March 31, at 8 o'clock.

One hundred voices will be featured in old-fashioned melodies and folk songs of the South. Proceeds from the ticket sales will go toward the building fund of the church.

Zoo Doctors Get Strange Job

BERLIN.—Doctors at the Berlin zoo have many problems to overcome in the treatment of animals which the ordinary physician doesn't encounter. Here are some of them: Harry the zoo elephant, needed medicine but refused to take it until it was mixed in a huge bowl of rum. He liked it so well in this form that he was disappointed when he recovered that he was given no medicine. An ostrich had its neck cut open in order to have a piece of coal removed that it had greedily gobbled. To operate on an elephant, the doctors find that they have to administer an anesthetic three times as strong as that given a horse before it will lose consciousness. This is about ten times the dose given a man.

THE LITERARY LANTERN

The Literary Lantern burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writing around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

It seems that any of our accepted and familiar truisms are subject to attack these days. However, we are a little surprised to find R. L. Duffus in "Books: Their Place in a Democracy" (Houghton Mifflin, $2.00), quoting the sceptical remarks of Anatole France, "I believe it is wiser to plant cabbages than to write books. There are bookish souls for whom the universe is but paper and ink. The man whose body is animated by such a soul spends his life before his desk, without any care for the realities whose graphic presentation he studies so obstinately. Of the beauty of women he knows only what has been written about it. He knows of the labors, sufferings, and hopes of men only what can be sewn onto tapes and bound in morocco." Agreeing with France that books cannot be the whole of cultural life, Mr. Duffus passes quickly over their spiritual values—rather too quickly perhaps—and points out that reading leads to self-improvement, progress, success; it even encourages group discussion and a real mental democracy. Towards the problem of the publisher and bookseller he returns optimistic replies and he has figures to back him up. America is reading more and better books and ought to be able to read all the good books that can be found, in his opinion, but the public requires training before its reading and its desire to own books creates a demand which shall put the business on a safe basis. In spite of book clubs, renting and lending libraries, reprints and dollar editions, the publishers will make a go of the financial end of book-making.

In a chapter on "The Geography of Reading," Mr. Duffus rubs it into us again about the illiteracy of the South. But he is light-hearted about us. He thinks we are awakening and he quotes a statement of Dr. Edwin Mims "that one of the South's leading bankers has read the Harvard classics entirely through, thus establishing what Dr. Mims seems to regard as an all-time free-for-all, catch-as-catch can world's record." Take us in the mass, we are discouraging subjects, or as he politely puts it, the South is a fit field for an "enormous laboratory experiment in the popularization of books." He adds: ". . . If we are to regard reading as a knack any race may acquire, and in a democracy must acquire, we must look upon racial and sectional variations in literacy as historical accidents which can be corrected"—and strive for mass education.

Expected Miracles

Mr. Duffus' prophecy that miracles will be worked among southern book buyers in the next 10 or 20 years is echoed, not so hopefully, by W. T. Couch, assistant director of the University of North Carolina Press in a paper on Booktrade Problems appearing in The Publishers Weekly for Oct. 11, 1930. Mr. Couch allots two or three generations to the revolutionizing of the booktrade in America. Answering a query about over-production, he declares, "There is no more stupid assertion than that often made by members of the trade that 'there are too many books.' Any publisher can look into his stockroom or any bookseller can look at his shelves and parrot to you that there are 'too many books.' It is certainly true that there are too many incompetent books, dishonest books, stupid books, and books which are not being sold at profitable or any other prices; but it does not follow that there are too many good books, or that anything can be done about it even if there were too many." Here Mr. Couch takes a gibe at the reviewer who fails in discriminating critical guidance for the reader, and at the bookseller in the shops who likes a small list of standardized books, rather than a large variety from which to choose for the individual needs of each customer. But he finds the main responsibility rests with our educational system and our libraries which do not sufficiently encourage the reading and owning of books.

Prof. Hamilton Holt of Rollins college, Winter Park, Fla., inaugurated four years ago an interesting experiment when he established a professorship of books and appointed Edwin Osgood Grover to teach three courses, recreational reading, history of the book, and literary personalities. One of his students says of Professor Grover's methods, "He realizes the error of forcing a student beyond his depth in the sea of literature, and so encourages him to paddle around a while just where he is—whether it be detective stories, wild westerns, or sentimental ballads. Then after cultivating a liking for books, he begins to guide the reader and student to better ones. Professor Grover himself declares he wishes the college student to learn to "love books, to read books, to build private libraries, yes, even to collect books for their literary worth, their historic interest or as a good business investment. When we do this, books will occupy a larger place in the life of the nation, and the cultural life of our colleges will be greatly stimulated."

Stimulate Book Market

All of these above mentioned writers are more or less concerned to stimulate the buying of books. Now we find Grover C. Orth of Williams & Wilkins company, Baltimore, asking, "are books expensive?"—that is relatively and philosophically and economically speaking. Why is $10 a high price for a book and a low price for a suit of clothes? The potential buyer is led to undervalue books for several reasons, the most expensive processes of manufacture are not apparent in the finished product, the book is easily rented or borrowed and can be returned instead of be must always be comparing the almost negligible cost of the advertising supported magazine and the wealth of free printed matter thrown at him continually. So that unconsciously he has cultivated the impression that publishers are great money-makers, that the buying of books is an extravagance. And the funny thing is that the reader cannot anywhere else obtain so much just plain diversion for his money, reckoned at so many cents per entertainment hour, if we want to consider books of diversion as case in point.

And even there we can only speak relatively and tentatively for what amuses me may bore you to death. A book read alone may be dull, and aloud roaringly funny. Such a book is "Boners," compiled from schoolroom examinations—many in Tennessee—and published by the Viking Press, and containing such raspberries as "They gave William IV a lovely funeral. It took six men to carry the beer." We found these "Boners" like puns, rather unequally appreciated.

"Bird Life at the Pole," by Wilcott Gibbs (Morrow, $2.00), is a take-off on the exploits of the Virginia explorer and aviator and struck this reviewer as very funny. On the other hand a reader who had not read the Byrd book, "Little America," might wish he had his two dollars for five tickets to the movies. Recommending humorous books is a great gamble. But the disgruntled reader can always give the thing away for a prize or something.

You wouldn't give your worst enemy a copy of "Palm Beach" (Macaulay, $2.00) although it has already gone through two printings and will probably make a lot of money for its editor, publisher and author. The name of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., is advertised as "the boy who can snitch on the idle rich," and the promise of sensationalism will give it a circulation among readers of tabloids. Avoid it—dull and cheap.

The fact that Sara Haardt recently married H. L. Mencken should make her first novel, "The Making of a Lady" (Doubleday, Doran, $2.50), widely read by the curious. They will be puzzled and somewhat disappointed, for the book is a queer combination of excellent writing, tenderness and sincerity, good description and poor characterization, with a heroine about whom Miss Haardt never seems to make up her mind, and a plot foreordained and rambling. The background, the sub-plot of the novel, is the story of the growth of the new South as illustrated by a town which might be a fusion of many in the Black Belt of Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi. We look for a much better work next time and in the meantime recommend the reader to an uneven but nevertheless worthwhile volume.

In closing we might mention the amazing success of Anne Green's widely advertised "Reader I Married Him" (Dutton, $2.50), a sprightly tale which has already run through 21 printings in two months.

Over-Production

From a Poem by Sidney Lanier

And presently says he: "Hit's true,
That Clisby's head is level;
Thar's one thing farmers all must do,
To keep themselves from goin tew
Bankruptcy and the devil.

"More corn, more corn," must plant less ground
And mustn't eat what's boughten;
Next year they'll do it, reasonin's sound;
And cotton'll fetch 'bout a dollar a pound
Tharfore I'll plant all cotton."

EXPLANATION OF LAST SUNDAY'S CARTOON—Alexandre Dumas: Alexandre Dumas the elder (1803-1870), the most prolific as well as the most popular French romancier, wrote 1,200 books between 1830 and 1870, at the rate of a book every 12 days for 40 years. The great Frenchman, whose genius and brilliant imagination are the admiration of the whole civilized world, was probably the fastest longhand "copyist" who ever lived. In addition to his tremendous literary output, he wrote about 12,000 letters. Archduchess Isabel of the Netherlands: Archduchess Claire Eugenie Isabel of Austria (1566-1633) was the daughter of Philip II of Spain and Elizabeth of France. She obtained the sovereigney of the Netherlands as a wedding present from her father. As Ostende rebelled against her rule she besieged it in person to bring it to terms. It was during that siege that she made the vow never to change her linen until the fortress was captured. As a result, the determined archduchess succeeded in creating a new color, the "couleur Isabelle." The Dog "Kaiser Bill" was Sentenced to Death: Early in the spring of 1929 a dog owned by Mrs. Henry J. Gay of Mount Sterling, Ky., was tried in the county court and sentenced to death. An appeal was made to the circuit court where he was again tried and sentenced to death, but after an appeal to the Kentucky court of appeals (the highest court in Kentucky), the death sentence was set aside, for the reason that the law under which the dog was tried was faulty.

Representative of the former category will be a waltz medley by the orchestra and Roundtowners, comprising "Merry Widow," "After the Ball" and "Yip I Addie I Aye."

Accompanied by the orchestra, Miss Baker will sing a special interpretation of the current song success, "Just a Gigolo."

Feminine celebrities who will grace subsequent Vitality Personalities broadcasts include Claudette Colbert, Ruth Etting, Grace Hayes, Beth Challis, Dorothea James, Nan Halperin, Ginger Rogers, Billie Burke, Gertrude Lawrence, Evelyn Hoey, Catherine Fields, Lee Morse and Aileen Stanley.

Filipino Revolt Of 1899 Will Be Given Over Radio

The story of the Philippine revolt of 1899, with especial attention to Emilio Aguinaldo who for years evaded capture, will be presented to school children throughout the nation by the American School of the Air at 1:30 p. m., central standard time, March 23. The dramatization will be broadcast by WABC and a coast to coast Columbia network.

The drama will open on the afternoon of March 1, 1901, at the headquarters of General Funston in San Isidro, not far from Manila. His aide Mitchell brings in a Filipino, late of the forces of Aguinaldo, who has in his possession some valuable dispatches which he turns over to the American forces.

How General Funston and a small body of loyal soldiers planned to capture Aguinaldo, how they proceeded in disguise for days and days through territory infested with the insurrectionists, forms the basis of the remainder of the program. The drama was adopted for the radio by Henry Fisk Carlton.

Diamonds are obtained from the bed of a Brazilian river by divers, who imperil their lives in a swift current that sometimes cuts their air lines against sharp rocks.

First Lady Will Speak Over Radio Monday Evening

For the third time since occupying the White House Mrs. Herbert Hoover will speak over a National Broadcasting company network on Monday night, March 23, 7:45 to 8:05 o'clock, under the auspices of the women's division of the president's emergency committee for employment.

As she faces the microphone and just before she goes on the air the first lady of the land will receive from a Girl Scout, a young girl who will represent all other Girl Scouts in the country, a report on what the scouts have done as their bit to help the cause of the president's committee. The Girl Scout has not yet been selected. After Mrs. Hoover receives the report she will make a reply which will be broadcast.

Three years ago Mrs. Hoover spoke to members of the 4-H clubs, addressing them from the president's camp at Rapidan, Va. Two years ago she spoke extemporaneously at a meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution. It is expected Mrs. Hoover will speak from the White House.

HUMAN SYMPHONY TO BE BROADCAST SUNDAY EVENING

Kedroff Quartet Will Give Program Over National Radio Network

RUSSIAN ARTIST FIRST TO USE ENSEMBLE IDEA

Folk Music of Director's Country Is Feature Of Program

The nearest approach to a human symphony, in which the voices of four men are so delicately synchronized as to make one harmonious tone, is the Kedroff quartet, to be heard in the Atwater Kent radio hour at 8:15, central standard time, Sunday evening, March 22 with the Atwater Kent concert orchestra directed by Joseph Pasternack. This organization, which includes two professors of music and two former opera singers, has revolutionized the presentation of quartet singing, according to American and European critics.

The idea of developing a human ensemble was first put into practice by Prof. N. N. Kedroff, who was connected with the Russian Imperial conservatory in 1897. The director's brother, C. N. Kedroff, who was a professor in the School of Musical Technique of Petrograd, joined the group as basso in 1910 and in 1920 I. K. Denisoff and T. F. Kasakoff—both formerly with the Imperial Russian Opera company of Petrograd—became members. This is the group that will be heard in the Atwater Kent radio hour. They first came to the United States three years ago and are now being heard in concert for the fourth season.

One of the chief features of their programs has been Russian folk music, much of which has formed the foundation of the symphonies and operas of the great composers of that country. Several of the numbers used by the Kedroff group are traditional melodies and in the presentation of these voices of the four men are so blended that they make one tone. They were acclaimed the most remarkable vocal ensemble in the country when they appeared as "soloists" with the New York Symphony orchestra during their first season and sang, without accompaniment, as part of the orchestral concert.

The Kedroff concert will be heard through a coast to coast network of radio stations including WEAF, New York; KSD, St. Louis; WSAI, Cincinnati; WGN, Chicago; WOC, Davenport; WOW, Omaha; WFAA-WBAP, Dallas-Fort Worth; KPRC, Houston; WOAI, San Antonio; WKY, Oklahoma City.

Noted Composer To Be Guest of Texas Station

Harry Carroll, composer of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," "By the Sea," "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows" and many other hits, says he became a musician because his brother liked to play football. That somewhat ambiguous statement Carroll explain this way: His father had paid for the brother to take a number of piano lessons. When he learned that the youngster was spending the time he was supposed to be at the piano kicking the pigskin, he made Harry take the lessons. On Tuesday evening Carroll will be guest composer on station WBAP at 8:30 o'clock. Several of his many hits will be played and sung and Harry will entertain at the piano.

Carroll was born in Atlantic City, and it was there, incidentally, that he wrote "By the Sea," one of his most popular numbers. He remained in the famous resort town until he had completed high school and then hit for the bright lights of Broadway. His first job was playing piano—"song plugging" they call it along Tin Pan Alley—for Joseph W. Stern & Co., music publishers. In those days every one was singing and playing "Glow Worm." Harry wrote a number called "Nix on the Glow Worm Lena," a comedy song about a young lady who could play only one tune on the piano. It was quite a hit; Ziegfeld used it in his Follies of 1909. Its success decided for Carroll that he'd make his living writing popular songs. And he has, very well indeed.

Stop Sign Causes Death

LOS ANGELES.—A "stop" sign flashed at a boulevard here and Frank D. Lovett, 61, brought his automobile to a halt. When the "go" sign came the Lovett car failed to move. Other motorists honked horns for a time and then investigated. Lovett had died from heart disease.

The famous European news agency, "Reuter," started business some 86 years ago with a pigeon post service.

Suit Filed for Damages

LOS ANGELES.—A tumble from a "bucking horse" on a merry-go-round at a beach amusement park at Venice resulted in injuries for which Miss Marie R. Knapp, 20, wants $25,267. She filed a suit for that amount here against the California Racing Derby, a Venice concession.

PORTABLE MIKES WILL BE USED BY ROVING REPORTER

BROADCAST DESCRIPTION OF DIRIGIBLE DISASTER

National Broadcasting Company Engineers to Assist Visitor

Armed with two portable microphones and a kit-sized short wave transmitter, a new type of good will ambassador arrived in New York recently on the North German Lloyd liner Bremen.

He was Hellmut H. Hellmut, roving German radio reporter, come to consult with National Broadcasting company officials on the possibility of relaying eyewitness descriptions of typical American scenes to a network of listeners in his native country.

Hellmut hopes to set up his microphones in several world-famous spots in the United States, and to give his European audience its first audible contact with the scenes they know only through literature, news reports and the tales of travelers. His itinerary may include "spot" rebroadcasts to Germany from the Statue of Liberty and the summit of a skyscraper in New York; the White House and capitol in Washington, and the grain pit in Chicago.

C. W. Horn, NBC's general engineer, is cooperating with Hellmut in plans for the necessary wire lines and pickups from the various points, and the General Electric and Westinghouse short wave facilities at Schenectady and Pittsburgh will probably be enlisted to send his first-hand descriptions abroad.

The young German radio announcer has already distinguished himself as a reporter of important events in Europe. His most spectacular feat occurred last fall, when he broadcast a description of the R-101 disaster from the side of the demolished hulk only nine hours after the great dirigible crashed on the hillside near Beauvais, France.

While racing by plane to the fallen dirigible, Hellmut narrowly escaped disaster on his own account. Mechanical trouble forced his pilot down within a hair's breadth of high voltage power lines, and the cockpit came to rest between two masts, one of which clipped off a wing of the plane. Hellmut proceeded to Beauvais by automobile, established hasty contact with Germany, and gave his hearers a complete description of the disaster.

Hellmut is representing the Reichs Rundfunk Gesellschaft, the association of German broadcasting stations. His programs from this side of the Atlantic will be rebroadcast over networks in Germany, Austria and Hungary. And it is possible that NBC will also transmit some of his descriptions in this country.

The promotion of better international understanding by means of radio exchange, Hellmut declares, is one of the chief purposes of his visit. He expects to remain in America about two months.

YOUNG MUSICIANS WILL BE FEATURE VIGORO PROGRAM

A quartet of the youngest musicians ever to reach the heights in ensemble playing in America will be guest artists in the Swift "garden hour" program which will be broadcast Sunday, March 22, from 2:30 to 3 p. m., central standard time, over the National Broadcasting company's red network of 19 radio stations. The program, sponsored by the Vigoro plant food division of Swift & Co., is the sixth of a series of 13 Sunday broadcasts over the same network.

The quartet, Jacques Gordon, its leader, Josef Vieland, Edwin Eidler and Nahoum Benditsky, have played before the most critical audiences in the country, according to its sponsors. They have given 12 concerts under the auspices of the Library of Congress and appeared in recitals at Yale university, the Boston Public library and the festival at the congressional library in Washington, D. C.

Jacques Gordon received his early musical training in Odessa, Russia, his birthplace, and came to the United States at the age of 13. His musical career was a series of many successes until in 1921 he was made concert master of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the youngest musician ever to be appointed to this post with a major symphony orchestra. He recently resigned from this post, in order to devote all his time with his quartet.

For his garden talk during the "garden hour" broadcast, Sunday, March 22, Swift & Co.'s master gardener has chosen the subject, "Man's Love of the Soil."

Radio Announcers and Engineers Battle Snowstorms to Broadcast Remote Control Programs Chicago

"The show must go on!"

But it is not the old trouper this time. It is the radio.

The blizzard out of which Chicago is digging its way gave an opportunity for the National Broadcasting company announcers to show the stuff of which they are made.

With two of the network announcers, Ted Pearson and Wallace Butterworth, confined to their homes by illness, the blizzard swept down upon the city Saturday with only Jean Paul King and Bill Kephart, old network announcers, and Everett Mitchell, Garnet Marks and Gene Arnold, recently taken over from WENR, on the job.

Already they had been working long hours, some of them at the microphone or standing by from 7 o'clock in the morning until 2 o'clock the next morning. Butterworth got up from a sick bed Friday night to announce the Griffith-Levinski fight to relieve part of the burden.

Saturday night the five announcers and 10 engineers made their way through the blinding snowstorm to remote control points and the shows went on without difficulty. Kephart and Marks remained in the loop Saturday night so they could be in the studios for the opening broadcast Sunday.

But the announcers were not the only ones to bear the brunt of the storm. Engineers and telephone company employes also took their part in keeping the network functioning.

Storm-torn wires in the Middle West made it necessary to re-route many of the programs so that they might reach their stations.

Artificial worms that bear a remarkable resemblance to the genuine have been made for fishermen. They can be cut into desired lengths.

RADIO COMEDIANS WILL INAUGURATE SERIES PROGRAMS

Bradford Browne and Al Llewelyn, radio comedians, will inaugurate a new series of "Premier Chefs" programs on WABC and the Columbia Broadcasting Systems, Thursday, March 26, at 8 p. m., eastern standard time, featuring their original "synchronized conversation" acts.

The "Premier Chefs" heretofore have been heard over the same network on Tuesday nights. In their new series the radio comedians will be assisted by Freddie Rich and his orchestra, and Harry Grey, pianist.

In the coming series Browne will attempt to write a new song for each presentation. In past months as the Premier Chef, Browne has introduced "I Love the Dictionary," "My Old New Hampshire Home in Tennessee," "The Question Song," and "Good Clean Fun," all his own compositions.

The new series will be heard every Thursday night from 8 to 8:15 p. m., central standard time, over WABC and the entire network excepting KMOX, St. Louis, but with the addition of KTRH, Houston.

JUNIOR C-C TO VISIT PLANT OF S. W. BELL CO.

Plans Made for Second of Industrial Tours on April 3

LARGE GROUP INSPECTS WICHITA MILL FRIDAY

More Than 50 Get Inside Facts on Making of Flour

An inspection of the plant of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company here was decided upon Saturday as the second of the industrial tours of the Junior chamber of commerce, according to the announcement of T. J. Waggoner Jr., chairman of arrangements.

The visit will be made following the luncheon Friday, April 3.

The first of the visits was made Friday, when more than 50 members and guests of the junior chamber inspected the Wichita Mill and Elevator company plant.

Upon arrival at the mill employes were assigned to small groups, which were taken from the first, or shipping flour, to the eighth flour, where the grain comes from the enormous concrete elevators that hold 2,000,000 bushels of wheat. The grain is first taken through machines that extract foreign substances, and among the things picked out are nails, tacks, pieces of metals, pocket knives and even sometimes coins are recovered.

After the grain is cleaned it goes through a washing process, which washes each grain and at the same time moistens the husk about the wheat so that it can be more easily separated after going into the roller mills. There are two batteries of 19 mills each, and through each flour is recovered. After grinding even the residue goes through giant sifters where more flour is recovered.

Bleaching Process

The flour after it is finished by machinery is given a treatment of chlorine gas and a saline solution, which not only gives immediate age but also bleaches the product. The flour after being finished is conveyed to the top floor of the mill, where it is dumped into large containers and from there it comes through metal tubes to the packing room.

The Wichita mill is one of the largest in Texas. It has a capacity of 3,000 barrels of flour daily, in addition to a large amount of feedstuff. The flour is not only shipped to many states in America but much of it goes to the export trade. Flour that is exported is packed in sacks of 200 pounds weight, and the lettering on the sacks is in Spanish.

In the process of manufacture human hands never come into contact with the finished product, except when it is placed in sacks. Automatic machinery is used throughout the mill, but in packing the automatic scales do not always get the exact amount of flour to fill the sack. Sometimes it is necessary for a workman to take a few ounces from the sack or to add a small amount.

The mill employes 120 men and women, but during the grain marketing season it is necessary to add 20 extra men to the grain storage or elevator force.

The trip through the mill was very interesting, and from the top floor, over 100 feet above the ground, an excellent bird's-eye view of the city can be obtained.

THE OVER TRAINED CUCKOO—By James J. Montague

He'd cock his haid an' look at the clock every time it struck.

"I thought I could do anything with animals an' birds," said the guide, "but I found they was limits. I got a lot of experience with them when I was a hermit down on one of them hammocks in the Everglades. Hammocks is islands in big swamps, with trees onto 'em. I don't know why they call 'em hammocks, for they don't swing none, but that's been their name down this way ever since I been in the country, an' I was borned here.

"I was a hermit because there was money into the hermit business then. Like I told you about once before, people would come to see me as soon as they heard about me, an' listen to my story about how I'd been shipwrecked on a island an' worked my way into the hammock, an' settled down there to make friends with the wild life. They paid me good, too, for souvenirs and stuff.

"But I was goin' to tell you about animals. Bein' alone so much, I got to know the critters of the wild life pretty well, an' to understand 'em. If you let a animal see that you don't mean him no harm, an' now an' then do him a good turn, he'll meet you half way an' do anything he can for you. Like that fellow that was put in the lion's den to be et by the raging beasts, an' one of 'em recognized him as the lad that had pulled a sliver out of his paw, an' refused to take a bite out of him.

"So when I got acquainted I trained a big blue heron to ketch fish for me—that is to work for me on shares, so to speak. He'd stand out on the beach on his long slim legs, an' spear the fish as they come swimmin' past, thinkin' they was goin' somewhere. By an' by, after I'd worked with a him a while an' let him have his pick of a boat load of sea trout I'd brought in he got grateful. So when the weather was too rough for me to go out he'd stand in the aidge of the surf an' nail small fish, an' ever second one he nailed, instead of swallerin' it he't toss it up onto the beach for me. By an' by I put a basket up above where he worked an' learned him to put the fish into it, so's all I'd have to do would be to carry my part of the ketch home with me.

"The trouble with the heron was that he only got the little fish that come close in shore, an' there was lots of days when the water was so rough that he couldn't work good. He was like everybody else, if they was only enough for him—he wouldn't give me any. None of that crust sharin' stuff for birds an' beasts. They're learned by livin' a hard life that they've got to look out for number one.

"So, aimin' to get me bigger an' tastier fish I began trainin' a pelican, which could work on the wing, an' go wherever theys fish was runnin'. I ain't got time to tell you all about trainin' that pelican. I ketched him young out of the nest, an' put a line one him when he learned to fly, an' let him feed just off the beach. Then when he dove in an' grabbed a fish I'd put a strain on the line an' make him fly inshore an' take it out of his pouch. He made a row about that at first, but by an' by he got used to it, an' in a week he'd always stow away five or 10 pounds of fish in his pouch an' bring 'em right up to my cabin.

"At first I was afraid to let anybody come an' see him work for fear some of the other hermits would get onto my stuff an' spile trade. But by an' by, when some of 'em snooped around an' saw what was going on, an' couldn't get the trick, I see that I was specially gifted with the art of animal trainin', and didn't worry no more.

"By an' by people began to read books about the Everglades, an' how full of wonder they was that had never been seen by the eye of man. City folks would hire boats an' guides an' go into camp on hammocks, an' business fell off on my island, so I got me a hammock an' a canoe an' set up business.

"I had a lot of new stuff to learn, but by that time I was a great hand with the simple creatures of the wilderness. I had rattlesnakes trained so they would set around a fire in a circle an' rattle for my parties. Flamingoes would come an' light on my shoulder, an' coons an' possums would play around the camp just like kittens. If I was there, that is. But if I wasn't, you'd never see one of them.

"Well, one day a feller come down there an' stayed a week, an' allowed I was pretty good, but not good enough.

"'What do you mean—I ain't good enough?' I says. 'I know more about animals than anybody in Florida.'

"'Yes,' says he, 'but you can't do anything really out of the ordinary. You just appeal to the stomachs of them animals. You couldn't make them do anything that they ain't doin' right along in their own way. What I mean is that you couldn't make a rattlesnake wag his tail at 5 o'clock every morning so as to tell you it was time to get up an' start the fire, an' you couldn't get one of those cuckoos out there in the woods to cuckoo the hours, like a clock which ain't got no sense at all, can do without the suggestion of man.'

"That set me thinkin'. The next spring I ketched me a young cuckoo out of a nest an' started in trainin' him. It was the hardest work I'd ever done, for he wanted to cuckoo whenever he felt like cuckooin', an' he couldn't get it into his haid that it ought to be done on schedule. Then I had an idea. I went into town an' got me a big strikin' clock, an' kept it around the place, and put a line on the cuckoo an' tied him right by it. He'd cock his haid an' look at the clock every time it struck, an' by an' by, when it got through strikin' he'd cuckoo hisself, just to see what he could do in that line.

"By an' by every time the clock struck he'd cuckoo, but he never counted right an' I was afraid I'd never be able to tell the time by him. But I never seen no grit like that bird had. He kept at work sometimes way into the night, an' in six weeks he could imitate the clock up to five strokes. Then he got determined an' kept at work all the harder, till in another six weeks he could cuckoo up to seven. But he knowed that wasn't any good, so day after day an' night after night he worked on higher numbers. And then one day I see he was droppin' an' saggin', an' tried to make him quit for a week's rest by stoppin' the clock.

"But no sir. He wouldn't stop. All day long an' far into the night he racked his poor brains an' voice tryin' to cuckoo up to 12, an' one mornin' I found him on his back near the clock, dead as beach crab. So the feller that twitted me about not bein' able to train all animals, was right about it, after all.

Land Junk Man Has Prototype In N. Y. Harbor

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—The land junk man has his prototype on water.

More than 100 collectors make a living about the waters of Manhattan island, riding in motor boats instead of horse drawn carts, and stopping beside ships instead of in back alleys.

Whenever a freighter comes through Sandy Hook and drops anchor in the harbor or proceeds to a pier, one of her first callers is the waste dealer. He pulls alongside a ship, hails the deck officer and offers to pay cash for old sails, old rope, discarded metal fittings, and the waste which accumulates on ship board.

A few years ago the Southern Pacific liner El So inbound from Galveston with a million dollar cargo, including bales of cotton, sank off the Statue of Liberty after a collision with the freighter Sag City during a dense fog. The next day the water was strewn with bales of cotton from the mouth of the Hudson to the narrows. The waste dealers descended in full force. One by one they hooked the bales and towed them ashore to dry. Some salvaged eight or ten in a day and disposed of them at $15 a bale.

The March term of federal district court for the northern district of Texas will open in Wichita Falls in the 89th district courtroom Monday, with Judge William Hawley Atwell on the bench.

Miss Sarah Menezes and E. Crippen, assistant district attorneys, are already in Wichita Falls preparing to present their cases to the grand jury. Other court officials are expected to arrive some time Sunday.

The entire docket will be called Monday for settings after the grand and petit juries have been impaneled and sworn in. Docket dates have been announced as follows: All criminal cases on call for Monday, March 23; all civil cases on call for Wednesday, March 25, and equity cases, Monday, April 6.

WELL KNOWN NEGRO MALE QUARTET TO BE HERE APRIL 3

Under the sponsorship of the Booker T. Washington school, the Bishop college male quartet will give two programs in the school auditorium Friday, April 3. The first, a matinee for the children, will begin at 2 p. m., followed by the evening program, which begins promptly at 8:30.

The quartet is directed by Prof. L. B. Ross, teacher of voice in Bishop college. Two tours are made annually. The first or fall tour of the school year of 1930-31 carried them through the principal cities of Arkansas and Louisiana; the second will be confined to the large cities of the state, including Beaumont, Houston, San Antonio, Waco, Dallas, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls.

Music lovers of Wichita Falls are expected to enjoy hearing them, as they are said to be among the best to be found anywhere in negro schools. It will be interesting to know that "Bob" Burney, former Wichita Falls boy, is singing tenor with this group, and that he is giving a good account of himself. He writes that the quartet is "going stronger" than ever before.

Burney enrolled in the theological department of the school two years ago from Waco, where he had lived before coming to Wichita Falls.

The quartet will spend the weekend in Wichita Falls, and will be available for Saturday club meetings, as well as Sunday services at the churches of the city, it is announced.

WHAT IS PROHIBITION, ANYHOW?

They had to have some place to go.

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. And I dont mind telling you that since Congress has adjourned, I am not able to pick up Scandal. Course they left an awful lot of investigations to be carried on during the summer, for they had to have some place to go. They call it "junketing." thats getting a trip at Government expense. They investigate everything from Bird life to prehistoric Mamals and radio wave lengths.

Mr. Hoover seems to be doing a little better since he got rid of the Gang. A President just cant make much showing against that Mob. They just lay awake nights thinking up things to be against the President on.

Work all round the Country is kinder picking up. Los Angeles voted five million the other day to be spent right away putting men to work on street and municipal improvements and most towns have done the same. We are liable to run into some pretty good times this summer just accidentally. Of course the big time is going to be in 32. That's the year of election and as I have always told you the Republicans see that things are fine on election years. Oh, I guess in the long run this whole thing has been good for us. I believe we all got a little more common sense than we had before; we are kinder more down to earth.

In the old days we had had good times so long that we dident think anything could happen. Now we know it can, and we will be sorter watching for it in the future. We won't let it sneak up on us again.

Well, a couple of weeks ago the Democrats had a preliminary row. This one was just a rehearsal for the big one. It had nothing to do with anything in particular. They just decided to meet, and did, and when they did, wow. It was a foolish kind of a thing as most rows are. Raskob is supposed to be head of the Gang, and there is a lot of opposition to him that has been held over since the last election. They seem to think that he, on account of his money and personal friendship for Al, is trying to run everything. I don't hardly think it's that way at all. He just wanted to make a suggestion, and did. Well you wouldent think that would cause a row, would you? Yes, but look what the suggestion was. It was on Prohibition. Well, that was the Skunk that they dident want to let out of the bag till they had too. Of course both sides would like to see the whole thing buried till after election, but there is a big gang on both sides that just make life miserable for the ones that don't want it mentioned. Some speaker gets up and says, "Ladies and Gentlemen, I want to speak to you on the economic problems of the day." "Never mind the problems of the day, what about Prohibition?" And they make life miserable for the poor Devil from then on.

Well, the Democrats met in Washington to try and dig up ways and means to get enough dough to carry on another Campaign. They had just called the gathering to order, and said, "We will take up the business of the meeting," and somebody blatted out, "What about prohibition?" and oratory, denunciations, threats, and almost mayhem was committed before they could get the house to order. Then to add to the dog fight, Mr. Raskob got up and delivered himself of a speech that he has been cooking up all winter. He told em it was just his idea and that it wasent made in the nature of an Amendment, it was made just as a personal suggestion. Well that dident matter what it was made as, it could have been told as a dream, or as a fairy Story. The minute it was told, Democratic bedlam, (by the way what is bedlam anyhow?) well it broke loose. It always does when anybody is writing about something that come up quick. My mighty good friend Joe Robinson was on his heels in a jiffy. Joe was for Party harmony, and he knew there could be no harmony when the mention of Prohibition had been allowed to perculate. Course Joe was right. It shouldent have been among anything that had anything to do with harmony, cause harmony and Prohibition is two things that just wont jibe. (Say what's that jibe mean, I always hear it used at places like this, so I know it is used right, but what I mean is what is it?) Well there was a lot of support for Joe and his arguments "to not start anything that would be an argument."

Well, that was fine till another Gentleman arose. You would think that up to now you either had to be on one side or the other, you wouldent have thought there was another side would you? But there was, and that was the one Al Smith was on. He said, "What is Democracy? I thought it was to discuss whatever anyone wanted to bring up. When did we get so that it was a crime for anyone to mention certain subjects?" He just wanted to fix it so they would be argueing there all the rest of the summer. He really dident speak for or against, but he did speak for arguments sake. He wanted to see the whole thing dragged out and start the split in the Democratic Party right away. He couldent see any use in waiting till voting time to split. Get it over early and see how they stood. But Joe and the others were for a late split.

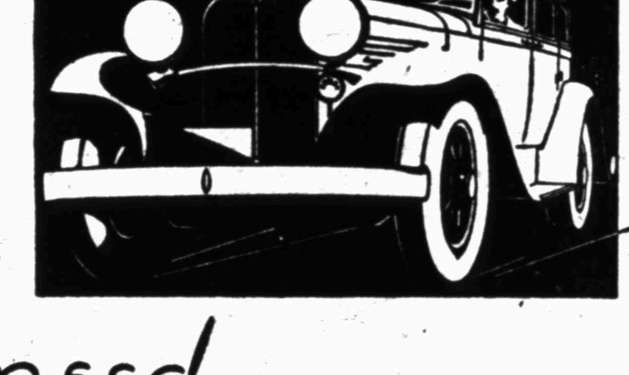

But they finally got the thing kinder half way straightened out, and then somebody proposed that they raise six million dollars for the coming campaign. Well that flabbergasted not only one side like Prohibition had, but all of em. Six million for the Democrats? Why they were becoming Republicanized over night. If they had six million they wouldent want the Presidency. Where was they going to get it? Nobody knew any more about that than they did about where was prohibition coming from. But they decided it was a good fantastic idea, so they are now on the search of it, and the Republicans all laughed and had a lot of fun at the Democrats plight, cause they are so united on the subject of prohibition.

They cant even find out how Hoover stands, much less the rank and file of the voters. But aint it wonderful to have something come up in a country where you can find out just how many Political cowards there are?

A few weeks ago she lost four of her second set and just lately four of the third set grew in to replace the missing teeth.

THE WICHITA VALLEY FARMER

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE FARMER, DAIRYMAN, POULTRY RAISER AND FRUIT AND TRUCK GROWER

Another Tenant Farmer's Wife Writes About Turkey-Raising, Offers Some Interesting Hints

An article which appeared on this page several weeks ago, dealing with the raising of turkeys under tenant-farming conditions, appears to have been widely read. Today we have a letter from Mrs. T. C. Lewis of Blue Grove, Clay county, giving some additional hints about raising turkeys on rented farms.

Oatmeal and skim-milk cheese are important items in the ration of the Lewis turkey flock. Dairymen who are now separating their milk and selling the cream may find that hint a timely one. Mrs. Lewis' letter follows:

"We read recently how one woman raised turkeys and made a success. We are renters too and raise turkeys. We had gobblers weighing 28 pounds and hens weighing 17 at the Thanksgiving market, and thought you might be interested in our method.

"First we get the largest breeding stock we can. We keep our own hens to breed from, about half young ones and half old hens. The old hens lay a larger egg and have large, strong poults. However, the young hens are earlier and are the best shaped birds of the flock so if we can get well-marked young birds with weight we choose those, if not, we set the old ones. They lay as early and almost as many eggs as the young ones.

"We feed plenty of grain through the winter and get the first eggs the last of February or the first of March. We let the turkey raise the poults, putting two hens together as that takes less running after them and fewer pens. We make wire pens 8 by 10 feet or larger, either cover them over or build them eight feet high. In the pen we have a coop with a top and two or three sides. Never close the coop on the south. At night we put the hens in the pen and they can go in the coop or stay out. They will stay out unless it begins to rain, when they will take the young in even though it's night and black as black cats. We move the pens every year and always keep them away from the chickens.

"We feed young turkeys nothing but oatmeal and cheese made from skimmed milk. We have plenty of range. We watch the turkeys closely until they are a month or a month and a half old, when we bunch or herd them. By doing this we keep them away from stagnant water, which will surely give them the black head, and it keeps them near home.

"Last year we raised 177 turkeys from 182 hatched, and one died when almost grown. We never expect to equal this again.

"We put 40 to 60 poults with two hens. Feed oatmeal three and four times a day and clabber cheese twice a day if you have it. Turn them out of the pens early in the morning, rain or shine, dew or no dew. We have never lost any from getting wet unless they got in a low place and drowned. We try to keep track of them and can go to them any time of the day, though a quick shower will often catch them so far off and so widely separated we cannot round them all up. Last year we fed only four sacks of oatmeal by the middle of August, then we began feeding about a quart of wheat and gradually increased until they were getting all the wheat and corn they would eat by selling time.

"Drive the young poults in late in the evenings and feed them. At noon we feed each bunch wherever they are unless they are too far away, then we drive them a little nearer home. We also feed when we turn them out in the mornings. We always try to herd them on new ground each day if possible and let them take their own time, but they will be through feeding by 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning on clear days. When you bring them in give them plenty of fresh, cool, clean water. In the afternoons they stay in the shade from 4 until 6, then they will wander around some but they don't go far as it is late. We don't go with them on this round but watch to see that they don't go too far. Ours run in the oat stubble in the evening.

"By selling time they stay close to home all the time except on rainy days when they will run for a mile or two without stopping and rove all day. Wolves are bad on these days and a person earns his board following them. We have a whip, a long stick with a long strap fastened to it, which we crack in front of the leaders to turn them back.

"When we set the hens we dust well with sodium floride and apply again three days before hatching. We set the hens on the ground in an open coop, with top and sides but no front except wire. They come off, eat, drink and dust, then go back. We have no trouble in moving the hens to the nests on the ground generally, although once in a while we have one that won't move. We just turn her out.

"Never put small turkeys together if there is a week's difference in age. Range the two hens in the same direction and soon they will go on together."

Every Day Life of the Farmer's Wife

Well, folks! Spring is with us, and we hustle to get something in the ground to feed our stomachs, but don't forget that we also need food for our souls. We had better plant a few flowers and some vines. Now please don't say, Oh! I like on a rented place and can't have flowers. I live on a rented place, too, and have for 12 years, but I always manage to have a few flowers and vines.

Some of the years when my home would be a two-room unpainted shack and I would have no yard fence, it would be awfully discouraging. I would have to keep my flower bed covered half the year to keep Biddy and her family out. But I would always say to myself that I never saw a shack, no matter how fixed it was to falling in, that a few flowers and vines would not improve, and so I acquired a habit that I am going to tell you about.

When I first began to live on rented farms I formed the habit of trying to leave the place looking better than it did when I found it. I usually put out shade trees and I always plant vines around the porch. When I leave a place I take some of the roots of the vines with me and start vines and flowers growing on the new place. I always use ivy, rudsu and medory vines. After they are once established they come up from the roots every spring without any more planting. I always leave a good supply of soul food at the place I am leaving, vines, flowers, some of everything I have planted.

Another habit I have is that of keeping three little glass jars of flower seed. In the first I keep hollyhocks, in the second phlox, in the third petunia seed. When I move to a new place I plant generously of all three of these, and after they once get a start they come up from the roots like weeds every spring. I always save the seeds. I always have lots of flower seed. I dearly love to give every renter's wife I meet a start of flowers. This old state of ours would look quite different if every renter's yard was full of petunia, phlox and hollyhocks. There are many other hardy flowers that do not have to be so carefully nurtured, and if every porch had vines for shade. Just think what little effort this would require and no expense at all, for if you don't have the seeds or plants just inquire if your neighbors have. They are always glad to divide with you.

Another thing I always try to do is to plant something around the base of the house. I think it helps the looks of a place so much: I usually use castor beans and burning bush as they both stand dry weather well. Let's get busy and brighten up the corners where we are. A renter's wife and children have just as much right to a little beauty as the millionaire's wife and children and these old favorites that I have mentioned stand dry weather like a weed. Last summer they bloomed all summer in my yard and all the water I have is a cistern so you know they don't get much water.

Now folks! It matters not whether your home be a mansion or a shanty, a few flowers and vines will improve it. Were you ever driving along a country road and came to one of those little old shanties with one room and a side room, and the yard would just be abloom with old-fashioned flowers? I have and it would take all my will power to keep me from stopping. And a few times when I would see a well close by I would get thirsty at once. But whether I stop or not I always put those folks down in my mind as clean, honest, hard-working people any my friends. A yard like that or a window full of red geraniums always captures my heart.

INSPECTOR TELLS VALUE OF GRADE A MILK TO CONSUMER

In connection with the efforts of Wichita county dairymen to create a wider demand for dairy products, the importance of grade A milk to the consumer is discussed in a statement by Dr. J. M. Farrell, chief inspector of food products for the city. Dr. Farrell says:

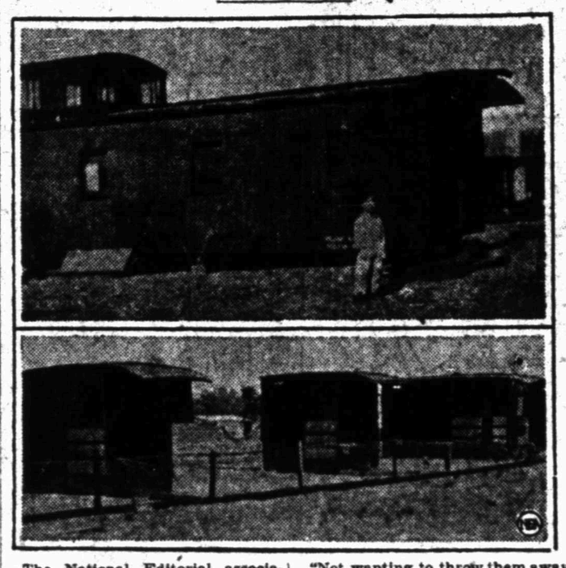

Grade A means that the tuberculin test has been applied to the dairy herd and reactors removed; that a physician has examined the dairy personnel and that none was found to have any disease which might be transmitted through the milk to the consumer; that in constructing the barn certain sanitary arrangements have been observed providing for plenty of light, ventilation, painted or whitewashed inside walls; the cows milked on a clean and well drained concrete floor; that the milking process has been done in a clean manner by removing dirt or loose hairs from the cows' flanks, cows' udders clean, milkers' hands clean and disinfected, milk stools and milkers' clothes clean, and the milk not exposed to contamination by straining in the barn but that it has been strained, cooled, handled and bottled in a clean, well lighted, fly-proof, sanitarily constructed and maintained milkhouse; bottled in a sanitary manner; that the milk utensils and bottles or cans have been cleaned and thoroughly sterilized; that safe water is used; toilets so constructed as to prevent access to germ carrying flies or disease transmitting agents; that the milk has been produced and handled in cleanly surroundings and all practical safeguards taken to prevent disease producing infection.

It means further that the milk has been produced, bottled, handled and labeled under the supervision of the city and state health authority and the United States public health service. The same supervision applies to the milk if it is pasteurized. No other milk regulation has the advantage of such a triple supervision by local, state and United States health authorities and this is the best guarantee the consumer could have that grade A milk is the safest and highest quality on account of so many reliable check-ups. All the local creameries are pasteurizing grade A raw milk.

Justice?

KABUL.—There are many sympathizers with the stand Hazrat Sher Agga, Afghanistan minister of justice, has taken in handing in his resignation after the execution of Ahmad Shad, rebel leader, who surrendered to King Nadir Khan with the understanding he would be allowed to seek a pardon here. Instead, officials disregarded their pledge and ordered him executed by shooting his body through a canon.

Improvised Farm Buildings Here Given Wide Publicity in Article Circulated by Newspaper Syndicate

The National Editorial association, which provides news features to many newspapers, is giving publicity to what some Wichita county farmers have done in the way of improvising buildings and equipment for their farms. C. A. Lasater's freight caboose chicken houses and J. M. McFall's truck-body turkey shelters are pictured in the illustration accompanying the article, shown above.

Under a Wichita Falls date line, the NEA article says:

"The railroad, automobile and oil industries are furnishing farmers in this vicinity with improvised farm buildings at a cost of almost nothing.

"Within a short distance of this city you can find freight cabooses serving as poultry houses, old truck bodies being used as turkey shelters, and old oil tanks serving as cowsheds and silos. These are only a few of the improvisions that have been made.

"One farmer, C. A. Lasater, learned that a railroad line was planning to burn up several cabooses that had become obsolete. For less than the cost of the lumber he purchased five of the cabooses, trucked them to his farm and set them up as houses for a large flock of White Leghorn and Rhode Island Red hens.

"Very little remodeling was needed on the cabs. The interiors had to be equipped with nests and roosts, and the outsides had to be painted, but that was practically all the labor entailed.

"In addition to the cabooses, Lasater converted an old oil tank into a cowshed.

"Another farmer, J. M. McFall, is an automobile dealer on the side, or an automobile dealer who does farming on the side. He raises turkeys. During his automobile business he accumulated quite a few light truck bodies.

"Not wanting to throw them away and lose his investment entirely, he took them to his turkey farm and revamped them in to shelters for the birds.

"Frank Emmert wanted a silo, but decided he could make one more cheaply than he could buy one. He succeeded in buying two old 250-barrel oil tanks.

"These he placed one above the other to make a small but adequate silo.

"Gail Mitchell, a dairy farmer, built himself a similar silo."

Cutting beds have been established by demonstrators in yard improvement in Trawick and Appleby communities, Nacogdoches county, in order to multiply cuttings of desirable yard shrubs for general distribution among both home demonstration club members and others.

TEXAS FARM LIVING ROOM IMPROVEMENT ON INCREASE

COLLEGE STATION — Hard times have increased rather than diminished interest in home improvement on Texas farms according to the enrollment of demonstrators in the 1931 improved living room contest of the extension service of Texas A. & M. college in cooperation with a state farm newspaper. Announcement by Mrs. Bernice Claytor, home improvement specialist, shows that 798 home demonstration club women in 85 counties are participating this year as compared to 695 last year. "The harder the times the more families need the comfort and good cheer of a pleasant living room and the modern home-makers are helping the men forget the grind of hard times during the family social hour," is her explanation of the increase.

In 1930, contest demonstrators and cooperators, of whom there were 6,183, added 3,846 pieces of furniture in 1,900 living rooms, and 5,843 pieces were refinished. Draperies were added in 1,823, walls were refinished in 1,966, wood work was refinished in 1,356, floors were improved in 1,794, the artificial light in 1,077 was improved and the natural lighting of 761 rooms was made better. In 3,410 living rooms improvement was made by a rearrangement of furniture to advantage.

Mrs. Claytor points out that in a time of financial depression there are many improvements that can be made without expense such as having the room spotlessly clean and achieving an atmosphere of "spic and spanness;" removing all undesirable articles from the room, checking each object by the question "is it useful, beautiful or interesting enough to deserve space?" putting everything in the room in the best condition, which means repairing, mending, retouching, as the furnishings need it; arranging everything in the room to best advantage, taking family comfort and convenience as the standard; adding life, beauty and interest with flowers, leaves, berries, or something from out-of-doors.

Of the 7,200 acres of land terraced under county agent supervision in Williamson county in 1930, 2,775 acres were surveyed by farmers trained to use the farm level.

Records kept on 2,000 acres terraced in Grayson county show that the terrace construction cost is 87 cents per acre where county road machinery is used.

Federal Aid More Readily Given Than Many Farmers Here Realize; Much Assistance Is Given Locally

FEEDING HENS SAVED CULLING AND CANNING

PALESTINE.—It's an injustice to a hen to cull her and can her until she has a chance to see what she can do on a better ration, Mrs. C. L. McKinney of Friendship community, Anderson county, will tell you. Late in January she had her 60 Silver Laced Wyandottes penned awaiting the arrival of Mack McConnell, county agent, but he refused to cull her poor ones until all had had 30 days of good mash feeding. The previous ration had consisted of cracked corn and garden greens, a ration lacking in protein. One month later egg production had increased from 12 eggs to 50 eggs daily, and only five hens were culled out. Mrs. McKinney figures she is more than making expenses on a low egg market.

BOY SELLS BIG CORN CROP FOR $1.54 PER BUSHEL

LAVACA.—Not content to raise 70 bushels of corn to the acre, Paul Janak, 4-H club boy of Wied community, Lavaca county, fed the crop out to five pigs and got $1.54 per bushel for the corn instead of the 60 cents the market paid. It cost $14.85 to produce this acre of corn, according to J. M. Parks, county agent. Two hundred pounds of 4-12-4 fertilizer was used and the crop side dressed with nitrogenous fertilizer when knee-high. The five pigs cost $20.65, the protein supplement $4, and labor $10. The pigs sold for $131.66, leaving $97.01 as cash received for the corn crop.

Spinach worth 50 cents on the local market in Willacy county was canned into 40 No. 2 containers worth $4 by Mrs. C. A. Havens, home demonstration club member.

Salamanders threatening the sweet potato crop of Camp county are being poisoned with the use of sweetened strychnine as shown in demonstrations with the county agent and U. S. biological survey.

More than 1,450 beacons have been installed to aid night flying in the United States.

The idea which prevails among many farmers, that federal loans are too difficult to obtain and that it is not worth while to apply for this form of help, is not justified by a study of the loans that have already been made.

No applications have been turned down. In a number of instances applications were returned for correction because of technical errors in making them. In a few instances there has been reduction in the amount of the loan. But no application properly filled out has been rejected.

The field of federal aid was broadened recently by making funds available for rehabilitation loans. The earlier loans were authorized for buying feed, seed and fertilizer. The later authorization makes money available for actual living expenses.

Farmers who do not apply for federal aid are depriving themselves of assistance that might mean much to them this year, the records show.

CLEANS SURFACE TANK WITH DYNAMITE CHARGE

BELTON.—The mud has been cleaned out of the 36x72-foot surface tank on the farm of J. B. Childers near Oenaville, Bell county, for about $75 by the use of dynamite in an exhibition by V. W. Woodman, , farm demonstration agent. The cost per cubic yard was about 16 cents, which is half or less the cost of the laborious hand and team method formerly used. Three hundred pounds of dynamite was set off with 12 electric caps, the first shot being fired with about eight inches of water in the tank. About 50 farmers witnessed the work, and several plan to use the same method on their own tanks.

Forced to adventure in the field of lower egg production costs, J. L. Hammond, poultry flock demonstrator at Arney in Castro county, cut out the mash in December and fed skim milk, scratch grain and sprouted oats to his 538 hens. They averaged 8.4 eggs each, which compared favorably with the production in flocks where mash was fed. The feed cost per dozen eggs was 12.2 cents.

Peter Piper's Pickle

"CA C'EST PARIS," said Peter, flinging open the window of the bridal suite in the Continental Hotel. "In other words," he added, performing that trick with his hat which made all London laugh, "so this is Paris, eh? And here begins the honeymoon which we'll remember all our lives."

"Yes," said Pansy, who, having been in the same musical play for a little over two years, was obliged to force a smile. "It's going to be wonderful."

With a boyish air of off-stage pride at being a man of wealth he slapped the place in which he kept his pocketbook—and nearly uttered a scream. The smart new leather case, on which there were the initials of his comic though actual name, was no longer there. In it had been every cent of his money, the money which he had saved by dint of gruesome economy so that he might give his tiny wife a gorgeous honeymoon. Either it had been stolen by a peculiarly heartless bandit or he had dropped it in the cab. If the first he would be marked down forever by the shrewd and careful Pansy as an irresponsible; if the second he would hear the story of his gross stupidity until he doddered to the grave. Something had to be done. Something which would get him out of this most frightful hole. He had no father upon whom to draw, no friends to lend him money, nothing that he could sell. He was in a foreign city in which no one knew his name. There was not a living creature to whom he could appeal.

"What's the matter, dear? Still feeling a wee bit giddy after that tossing on the sea?" A little thing she was, with amazingly small bones, baby eyes and a round face, a very kissable mouth and something that passed for a nose. Noticeably and charmingly pretty, with the fine emergency manner that goes with a Red Cross nurse.

"The least little bit," he said, giving a beautiful imitation of a land lubber walking a tilting deck. "What you need," he thought in anguish, "is time. You must earn, borrow or steal money before Pansy knows of this. You must make her blissfully unconscious with one of your sleeping draughts." In a medical voice he spoke. "Dearie, I think you ought to lie down. All this excitement calls for quiet and rest. You don't look frightfully well."

SHE had felt all right, though tired, half a minute ago. But nothing is so instantly calculated to make one feel unwell as to be told that one looks so in a sympathetic way. "Bed has a lovely sound," she said. "I will lie down for a bit."

And so he mixed the dose, a big one, said that it was bicarbonate of soda, and hoped that she would go to sleep for fourteen hours at least. A good little man was Peter, wiry and well-built; not much more than five feet six on a brick; very smartly dressed. Nature, who had endowed him with every comedian's trick, had very usefully provided him with a tragic face. Usefully, because thus it instantly awoke the laughter of the crowd.

With a monocle screwed in his eye he kissed his charming bride and left her lying in bed with the clothes about her ears. What was he to do?

Like a man who drops eight thousand feet in a faulty parachute he went into the passage and walked downstairs. Much life was going on. People arrived and departed. The inevitable crowd of inquirers surged round the concierge. A queue of eager women booked seats to see the French plays that were better left unseen. Lonely men whose wives were shopping had tea at marble-topped tables in the wide courtyard. Behind three tempting martinis were three young and good-looking Americans to whom Paris was a dream. And there, alone and desperate, the tragic little comic without a single cent. He had read in daily papers of hold-ups in the streets, of men who stuck a gun into people's terrified ribs, collected all their money and went off at a run. But Peter hadn't and never had had, a gun. He simply hated guns. And so he took his growing headache into the busy, chattering streets and was clapped on the back by a cordial creature who said, "You! By gum, what luck!" He was English and very well dressed. He wore the affluent and joyous air of an extremely wealthy business man in Paris without his wife.

PETER didn't know him, but he said to himself, with excitement and a great spasm of hope, "He has seen me in 'The Powdered Lady' or 'The Girl on the Motor Bike'. I must have made him laugh! He's the sail on the horizon. I can touch him for a bit." He agreed to wet his throat. He could do with a well-mixed Side-car or a gurgle of vermouth.

He found himself sitting on a high stool in the nearest American bar. And there he sat for an hour, in higher and higher spirits, with his kind and cordial friend. The number of their Side-cars would have made a traffic jam. Finally, having come to that subtle moment when he felt that a touch could be made, he turned to his providential companion and laid his hand on his knee.

"—Peter was wholly alone, faced with the dire necessity of paying for all those drinks—"

"It's too long a story," he said, "and almost too impossible as to why I'm out of cash, but if you will lend—"

He got no further than that. By an extraordinary process of elimination the man had disappeared. Peter was wholly alone, faced with the dire necessity of paying for all those drinks. And this, with one horrified look at the barman's pugilistic fist, he did by placing on the counter one gold link from his cuff. He said, steadying the tremble in his voice, "Take it out of that. I'll look in for the balance tomorrow about twelve." Climbing down from the high stool he tottered into the street. He was followed by a growl. Among the jostling crowd of the city he felt like a pet canary which had flown away from its cage.

BUT at the instant that he was tempted to throw himself under a car and let life and his ghastly crisis squash him as flat as a frog, he spied the well-known figure of a London theatrical agent on the other side of the street. "Lockett!" he shouted, ignoring the screech of blasphemy and brakes, "Lockett, my dear old pal."

Having been on the stage himself though never able to act Lockett recognized Peter with theatrical surprise, "Upon my word, it's Peter! What are you doing here?"

Peter gave his hat a tilt, touched his tie with a loving finger and walked all around his stick. "Honeymoon, old boy," he said, "just dashed over the pond." He was happy again. His spirits went up like a cork from a bottle of high champagne. In his old friend Lockett to whom in his early days he had paid fees for several engagements was the needed patch of blue sky in that dark mass of cloud. After a burst of "shop" he drew up short and backed his friend into the doorway of a store. "Percy, old boy," he said, "you're going to save my life and my future happiness with Pansy, who is indeed my life." There was a tremble in his voice.

"Oh," said Lockett, "how's that?" He wore the expression that comes into a man's face when he sees the approach of a "touch."

PETER told his story in the shortest number of words, adding with perfect confidence, "And so you will lend me a hundred pounds. That goes without saying, of course. I'll give you an I.O.U. and pay interest at the rate of—"

A hand fell on his back, a large and hearty hand. And at the moment of its impact there was a roar of mirth. "I always said you were the funniest man on earth," said Lockett. He dived across the street.

Peter dropped his stick, his old and reliable prop. "This is the end," he said. He turned dismally into the archway of that huge and expensive hotel from which he and his darling Pansy were going quickly to be chucked, groped his way through a fog of humiliation, and plodded up to the fourth floor, forgetting such a thing as an elevator, with a wobble in his knees. He must confess his ghastly pickle to dear little Pansy as soon as she woke up.

As he appeared in the bedroom something fat and bulgy hit him in the face.

"Your dose worked like a charm, old dear. I've slept in one long piece. Oh, and here's your nice new pocketbook. You gave it to me to carry after you had paid the cab."

And as Peter did one of his best and most mirth-provoking exits back into the sitting-room through what appeared to be a blinding glare of sun, tears of gratitude—scalding tears—trickled down his nose.
