Candidate Tells Of Red Activity In South America

In all ten of the South American republics there is a strong anti-American feeling, L. A. Master, Republican candidate for Congress, warned the Kiwanis club at its weekly meeting Friday.

(Continued from Page One) gon. Wyoming's acting Republican Gov. C. J. Rogers is expected to name a Republican to Hunt's seat, giving the GOP a one-vote margin over the Democrats for the first time since Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) died of cancer last July 31.

He arrived at the Senate office building soon after 6 a. m. carrying a single shot .22-caliber rifle partially concealed under his coat.

An elevator operator saw the barrel of the gun protruding but did not realize that tragedy was impending.

Hunt fired the fatal shot into his right temple just after he reached his office.

The Senate office building was virtually deserted and no one heard the shot.

Found Slumped In Chair — Mike Manatos, the senator's administrative assistant, arrived at 6:35 a. m. and found Hunt slumped in a chair, blood seeping from the wound.

Police said Hunt apparently had been sitting there unconscious and bleeding for half an hour.

He was taken to Casualty hospital at 7:15 a. m. where Dr. William Spence, a brain specialist, performed emergency surgery in a futile effort to save his life.

The office of Dr. George W. Calver, Capitol physician, said the operation disclosed "the damage was too much for him to survive."

Hunt died at 10:32 a. m. east. Mrs. Hunt, who hurried to the hospital when she learned of the tragedy, collapsed from shock and was placed under treatment.

Initial success for the rebel forces also were limited in a Guatemalaan communiqué issued by the ministry of the interior.

The communiqué said the anti-Communist invaders had moved in 15 kilometers (9.3 miles) from the Honduran border.

Guatemala City Bombed — It also revealed that Guatemala City had been bombed from the air three times within the past 24 hours. The communiqué said unmarked P-47 fighters made the air attacks Friday afternoon, at mid-night and again Saturday morning.

The rebel Guatemalaan secret radio station, heard in Mexico City, said Saturday night that rebel planes would "start bombing in earnest in a few hours."

(In Washington, the Honduran ambassador to the United States predicted the invaders would win the battle for Guatemala within a week. Failing that, he said, Helodoro said, "the Guatemalaan army will undertake a coup d'état.")

The revolt was led by Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, former chief of the Guatemalaan air force, who remained in Tegucigalpa.

The invading army started at a reported 5,000 men whose numbers swelled as they crossed the border, taking "several" towns and being joined by local citizens.

Charges Aggression — Guatemala charged to the United Nations that neighboring Honduras and Nicaragua were guilty of "open aggression" in connection with the invasion.

There were conflicting reports about the extent of the invaders' progress but none indicated they were of appreciable resistance.

Five planes attached to the invading forces strafed the president's office in Guatemala City without incident, reports reaching the Honduran capital said.

Guatemalaan embassy spokesmen in Washington said that to the Guatemalan the invaders to admit to the invasion into Guatemala was a "crime of blood."

SCHOOL REPORTS

Due By July 1

Only one public school system in Gray county outside Pampa, McLean, has failed to send its annual report to County Schools Supt. B. K. Nuckols.

Lefors and Alameda have worked up their reports, Nuckols said Saturday, adding he prepares reports for Grandview and Hopkins.

Nuckols receives and audits all annual reports from the public schools in the county outside Pampa, then sends a copy to the Texas Education Agency, Austin, which re-audits the reports. Reports contained data on finances, class rooms, teachers and student attendance.

Visitors at the meeting were Huey Layton from White Deer, J. L. Pettit and A. M. Kirkpatrick, both of Amarillo, Carl Jackson from Norman, Okla., O. L. Flis-Randolph from Boston, Mass., Jimmy McCune and Henry Gordon.

Equipment Order Okayed For Hospital

A fifth set of surgical instruments, to cost $250-$300, will be purchased for Highland General hospital.

Board members Friday night gave Chet Lander, hospital administrator, the go-ahead. A fourth set was bought a few months ago.

Lander said he gave the board for the county-owned and-operated hospital a report on the new water-softening process for the boilers, designed to eliminate the scale on the feedlines. It was installed last week at an estimated cost of $665.

Dr. M. C. Overton Jr. was on hand at the board meeting. Lander went on for a further discussion on the proposed $450,000, $500,000 addition of private rooms. But no formal action was taken and none is expected in the near future, Lander said.

Members present for the meeting were Fred Meslage, Fred Thompson, J. R. Sparkman and J. W. Meacham. Dr. M. C. Overton, chief of staff, was also on hand. Absent board members were George Newberry and George Scott.

A total of $18,000 in monthly bills was approved.

Summer Recreation Program Signs 441 Kids To Top 1953

A total of 441 Pampa boys and girls has been signed up for the 1954 city summer recreation program, already a larger registration than last year.

Average daily attendance in the three-day-old program has been 342 for the three school playgrounds: B. M. Baker, Sam Houston and Carver.

Cost of the program per pupil hour to date has been 5 1/2 cents, Homer Craig, recreation director, reported Saturday.

Two Pampa baseball teams, lost to Phillips outills in the first days of the program. The younger team, composed of boys 5-12, got licked 27-0; while the older team, for those 13 and more, lost 7-1. Bill Conway struck out 10 Phillips batters and batted 1,000 at the plate. Craig said.

Return games are scheduled July 2 in Phillips.

At Baker playground Sonny Winegeart and Raymond Caughey hit home runs, a feat duplicated in girls' softball by Phyllis Powell and Priscilla Turbott. On the winning team in a volley ball tournament were Charley Jordan, Bobby Jordan, Neil Fulton, Bobby Starfield, Charles McClure and Don Hull.

At Sam Houston playground four boys and seven girls hit homers. They were Paul Brown, Butch Dunham, Harold Conway, Dickie Elkins, Kay Tooley, Sharon Osborne, Sandra Dodd, Darlene Adams and Elaine Thornburg.

John Woods, Sam Houston arts and crafts instructor, has more than 80 youngsters in his classes and has to use two classrooms, Craig continued.

Star of the week, Craig went on, could well be Kenny Ray Miller, a 12-year-old at Baker, who went into a baseball game against boys 13-15 and retired the side without letting in a run.

Pampa's recreation program will continue through July 30 when the awards will be presented to the boy and girl from each playground who has exhibited the finest qualities of sportsmanship, the director pointed out. Mayor Tom Rose did the honors in 1953.

"FLYING HARMONICA"—This designer's sketch, looking like a giant harmonica, shows Bell Aircraft Corporation's projected "flying wing" helicopter, now in preliminary design stages at the firm's Fort Worth, Tex., plant. The craft, a straight, flat wing, with just a bit of a nose, represents an entirely new concept of rotor-wing craft. The wing has a rotor mounted on each tip. It has two piston engines, convertible to gas turbines, either one of which can fly the wing adequately. Thickness of the wing permits completely retractable landing gear and interior placement of engines without external nacelles. All passengers will have front-facing seats with forward view. The Bell wing's speed has not been announced, except that it will exceed that of the latest model helicopters. Early models are expected to carry 20 to 30 passengers.

Coffee Men Hit New U.S. Export Prices

By JUAN DE ONIS

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 19—UP

The government's new minimum export price for coffee, pegged two weeks ago at the record level of 87 cents a pound, is under heavy attack from Brazilian planters and exporters.

Whether planters and exporters succeed in making the government revise its position is of vital interest to foreign consumers and to the stability of the world coffee market. The new minimum is scheduled to go into effect July 1 and run for 2 years.

Leading planters, including some members of the Brazilian Coffee Institute's executive board, believe the government's minimum, based on dollar exchange quotations and backed by the assurance that the government will buy coffee before allowing it to be exported at less than the minimum, will prove disastrous.

Loss to Treasury
They argue that green coffee prices cannot be expected to stay above 87 cents through the coming market year, and that the result will be that the government will be forced to accumulate coffee stocks only to be resold later below the minimum price, with the national treasury absorbing the loss.

Many planters strongly favor a plan to set up a coffee stabilization fund in cruzeiros — Brazil's currency — from which planters could receive any difference between the green coffee price in the interior and the fixed export minimum.

The key difference between this plan and the present minimum price is that the planters would be paid in cruzeiros, while the green coffee price would be left free.

Coffee experts stress the fact that this year — barring another disaster such as the frost last year — coffee prices will be under pressure as the time for the new harvest in 1955 approaches. Many predict openly a break in prices in February or March next year as the new supply and demand picture comes into focus.

They believe the government minimum price in dollars will only complicate what they expect will be a thorny transition period even in the best of circumstances.

Resistance Indicated
Government resistance to any change in plans was indicated this week when the Bank of Brazil announced that rumors of any changes in coffee regulations were "completely unfounded."

The government, which receives all dollars earned by coffee exports, apparently is reluctant to allow the dollar price to go free for fear of a downward speculative action in the New York Coffee Exchange.

Renewed confidence in Brazil's financial recovery since last fall has paralleled the world coffee price rise. Coffee represents 70 per cent of the value of Brazilian exports and is the biggest dollar earner.

A speculative premature drop in green coffee prices would prove a severe setback to the government's financial program, a highly sensitive point now with congressional elections coming up this fall and presidential elections in 1955.

Pampa Bird Fancier Raises Brightly-Plumed Pheasants

By ROY SULLIVAN

Pampa News Staff Writer

Have you a hobby?

Even if your answer is "yes," chances are yours is almost commonplace compared to that of R. C. Chisum, 432 N. Wayne, who raises six breeds of pheasants and 17 different kinds of bantam chickens and partridges.

In Chisum's pen, strut are such exotics as the golden, silver, mutant, black-necked, ring-necked and Reeves pheasants. The golden and Reeves are ornamental birds and usually weigh under four pounds when full grown. The golden pheasant cocks are among the brightest colored and most highly prized. Reeves pheasants lack the brilliant plumage patterns of the golden. The best known pheasant is the ring-necked, which is one of the top game birds. The ring-necked cocks weigh between six and eight pounds when full grown and are excellent eating, the meat being mostly white.

"They're just too pretty to eat, though," Chisum's wife, Myrtle, explained. "That's why we don't eat them ourselves."

Chisum sells his pheasants for about $5 a pair, depending on their age, condition and breed. The golden breed sells for about $10 a pair and the ring-necked for $6. The diminutive bantams are Chisum's pride. With one breed alone, he won seven ribbons for excellence at the Levelland fair last year. Among his unusual chickens are silver and golden sebrights, black rosecomb, and black white and buff cochin. The cochin is the breed with feathered legs and are a particular show favorite. Among his Cornish chickens are the spangled, white, dark, black, red spangled white and barred Cornish.

Sells Birds
Chisum sells his birds in singles and pairs and also sells the eggs to other pheasant-fanciers in the area. He keeps his larger birds at Lefors and his incubator in Pampa. He can hatch 900 pheasants and bantam eggs at one time.

Pulling out one of the incubator trays filled with brown eggs and chicks so new they couldn't cheep, Chisum explained his passion for his unusual hobby.

"I've just always admired beauty and liked the birds," he said, smiling. "Other people like stamps. I'd rather look at a beautiful bird any day."

Moving here a few months ago from Levelland, Chisum is employed by Cornelius Motor Supply. He is aided in his unusual hobby by three willing helpers at home: his wife, his father, Fred, and his 15-year-old son, Bobbie.

"Of all people who create, songwriters are the luckiest. They get the most money for the time it takes them to write a song, and the royalties keep coming. Songwriters are the luckiest people alive."

The speaker of those words is, surprisingly, a songwriter. And one of the best, too. He's Arthur Schwartz, who is this year celebrating his 25th anniversary at writing out top melodies. Currently, he's represented by his musical on Broadway, "By the Beautiful Sea," and he's written some of the more beautiful songs of the last quarter-century.

Schwartz, who was a school-teacher and lawyer before he turned composer, doesn't share the view so many people hold that "they're not writing songs today like they used to." He says that some modern songs will last as long time. He singled out "No Other Love" and "Wish You Were Here" as particularly good.

"Of course," he added with a smile, "if I had to debate the question, I'd say the side easiest to argue would be that today's songs aren't quite as good. But you must remember that there were a lot of bad songs written in the old days, too, although you only remember the good ones."

Schwartz estimates he's written more than 500 songs. All but five of which were in his shows and movies. His two favorites among his own compositions are "I See Your Face Before Me" and "If There Is Someone Lovelier Than You." But the biggest hit he's had was "Dancing in the Dark."

"You know," he says, "if I took 'Dancing in the Dark' to a publisher today, he'd say it was interesting but not commercial. That's the worst trouble with songwriting now—they don't want to have anything to do with a number unless it seems to be a surefire hit immediately."

"Consequently, there are very few songs I've liked in the last two or three years. As a matter of fact, I like less and less—even of my own songs."

Jan August, who already had four pianos in his house, just added a fifth. It's in his bedroom. They're very place to play sheet music.

The now-famous incident on "Justice" (NBC-TV), when director Dan Petrie took over the leading role on 70 minutes notice after James Barton became ill, had one frightening moment for all concerned. Petrie was wearing a walkie-talkie, camouflaged as a hearing aid, and he was given the lines as he went along.

But there was one scene in a tangle. Petrie suddenly found he couldn't hear a thing. Desperately, he switched on a second walkie-talkie he wore for just such emergencies, but it, too, was in the same time in the present tense. So he had to ad lib his way through the entire scene. And he made it, despite the walkie-talkie.

Perhaps it was Petrie's success that has inspired George Roy Hill. Hill is assistant producer-director of one of the Kraft Television Theater's ABC-TV units. Casting for a coming play, producer-director Fielder Cook couldn't find anyone for a small but vital part. Looking around, he saw Hill and decided he was just the type.

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

'News' Goes North

Elsewhere in today's issue of The Pampa Daily News, the management has an announcement which we consider of vital importance to the future of Pampa as a retail trade center.

Around the first of this month, The Pampa Daily News instigated home delivery service in the towns of Perryton, Booker, Darrouzett, Follett, Lipscomb, Higgins and Glazier. In other words, the News now offers its advertisers a coverage of the whole Northeast Panhandle in the form of home delivery service.

It is quite basic that for Pampa truly to be a trade center, the merchant must have an advertising medium which takes his sales message into the homes of the prospective buyers.

Too, the paper must give the people of the area served not only news of national and international import but also coverage of happenings within the reader's community. This the News has and will continue to do.

Outside of Pampa, the News has been giving home delivery service to White Deer, Skellytown, Miami, Canadian, Wheeler, Shamrock, McLean, Mobetie, and Le-fors for years so the addition of the great High Plains area is the realization of a long-range plan to completely cover the Northeast Panhandle.

Enlarging Pampa as a retail trade center, we feel, will certainly make our fine city a better and more prosperous community in which to live.

Trouble In Mexico

There are increasing signs that the classic pattern of Communist intrusion is spreading over the Mexican republic. In Sonora, in Mexico, D. F., in Matamoros and in the little community of Rio Bravo there have been demonstrations and even violence.

There is an almost frightening unwillingness among many Mexican businessmen to recognize the nasty facts. The threatened "revolutionary" strike of 400,000 workers is passed off as a union movement, but even the most dedicated unions never use the word "revolutionary" except when they mean just that.

The Sonora demonstrations are out-and-out Communist inspired and even the government has admitted it.

The Matamoros demonstrations supposedly have had to do with the popular feeling against the mayor and his compadre, the governor of the state; but U. S. security officers privately express the belief that while the Communies did not start the trouble they are systematically and devotedly fanning the flames and spreading the embers.

The Rio Bravo affair burst into violence and death the other night. Mexican officials refer to the mob as "agrarians" and deny there is any Communist angle; but it was an "agrarian reform" government in North China that got the blessing of the then Secretary of State George C. Marshall and the agrarian reformers were the same ones who slaughtered American soldiers in Korea a few years later. Remember?

Sonora is 30 miles from the United States. Rio Bravo and Matamoros are next door to the U. S. Comfortable feeling, isn't it?

It is almost impossible to know what is going on inside any Latin American country because U. S. newspapers and press associations are in the habit of covering those nations like a sportswriter who covers a horsehoe tournament — strictly for laughs.

Most Mexican newspapers are incredible; and the press associations take the attitude that you can't give serious news coverage to a comic opera. They are long on sista and short on journalism. But even the unenterprising Gringo reporters in Mexico can't miss what is going on now.

So it must be terribly obvious. Getting back to the Mexican businessman, we have found he says one thing for publication and another for private consumption.

A great many of these men are giving lip-service to the wisdom of devaluation, but one of the most successful of Mexican businessmen has said that the recent peso debacle was a left-wing trap into which the government fell with a loud thud.

Although there has been no news of it, everyone in Mexico City except the American reporters seems to have seen a large sign which appeared last week. It reads:

"Out with the new fools and back to the old crooks!" There is considerable feeling that life under the thumb of crooked politicians was more secure than under an "honest" administration of naive theorists.

A U. S. security officer of long and expert experience in these matters sees in the Mexican picture what he calls "an almost textbook case" of Communist infiltration into the economic and political life of an unrealistic people.

He says it is almost exactly as laid out in print by Lenin and practiced by revolutionaries ever since. "Why they can't see this thing for what it is, I can't understand," he said. "But it seems to be universal that people refuse to want to believe the pattern even when it's pointed out to them. Maybe it's pride or that feeling of 'it can't happen here.' I don't know."

If Communism is a real poison in the Mexican republic the fault is largely ours. We have treated Mexico like an idiot cousin from the country. We have patronized, we have snubbed, we have laughed. We have never respected her dignity and her ability.

We have offered her patronage and bad advice; we have set the example of big government and socialism. We have erected trade and immigration barriers against her; we have permitted foundation endowed college professors to inflict themselves upon her.

A mutual understanding of the problems of the Americas is required. It must be done by the people, not by the State Department Johnnies.

The traditional wop-on of the Communists (and all Communies are revolutionists) is to join the home-grown movements and pervert them to create distrust, suspicion, and a paralysis of a nation's economy.

We'd better rub the Star Spangled Banner dust out of our eyes.

The Income Tax, Root Of All Evil

INSTALLMENT SEVENTEEN

In 1931—that was before the arrogance of federal power had reached the point to which the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt ultimately brought it—the infamous case of William H. Malone began. This man, who ran for Governor of Illinois on the Republican ticket in 1932, had been Chairman of the Illinois Tax Commission. In that position he had offended the Pullman Company and the Chicago Traction Lines; that is, he had made decisions unfavorable to the tax claims of these companies. Their resentment flowered into the passion of revenge. Somehow, the passion found expression in a case against Malone, instituted by the Internal Revenue Bureau, for "willful evasion" of his income taxes.

The case lasted six years. The record of the case, written up in a book entitled They Got Their Man, by Elmer Lynn Williams, indicates that witnesses were coerced and threatened. That bribes were tendered to secure an indictment, that the District Attorney, who later rose to a judgeship, conducted the trial with "the fury of a political feud." The presiding judge, who sentenced Malone to two years in the penitentiary, was known to be active in the campaign of the District Attorney for U. S. Senator. It should be pointed out that Malone had protested certain taxes levied against him, that he promised to pay the sum in dispute if the Board of Tax Appeals decided against him, that he cooperated with the investigating agents, as they themselves testified. Nevertheless, the charge was "willful evasion," which is a criminal offense, and Malone was sent to jail. He was a political undesirable.

Sixteen years later, a similar case sprang up in Boston. A sixty-four-year-old businessman decided to give his time and talents to public service. He ran on the Republican ticket for the General Council and was elected. Before his election he had had some disagreement with the Labor Commissioner, who came from his own town. After election he recommended to the Governor the dismissal of this man from office. The ousted Labor Commissioner thirsted for revenge. He was a loyal member of the party in the federal saddle. Whether this had anything to do with it or not, the fact is that shortly after he had taken office, Alfred Calvin Gaunt was charged by the Internal Revenue Bureau with "willful evasion."

The case involved the matter of evaluating depreciation: there was a dispute over the value Gaunt put upon the plant in 1931, which in turn had a bearing on his tax returns. In the investigation, Gaunt, like Malone before him, had nothing from the agents, but went out of his way to furnish them with every scrap of evidence in his possession as far back as they wanted to go. There was certainly nothing that could be called "moral turpitude" in his behavior or in his background, and it seemed that the most the Bureau could ask for would be additional taxes, based on a different evaluation of the plant, plus interest and penalties. The conduct of the case, however, indicates that the Bureau was acting under political pressure. They wanted Gaunt, not his money. They got him. He was sentenced to serve eighteen months in jail.

The two cases are identical in significance, and are here offered as examples because they occurred under different Washington administrations. The composition of the ruling regime makes no difference; the Internal Revenue Bureau is a self-operating inquisitorial body. It has the means of harassing, intimidating, and crushing the citizen who falls into its disfavor. In the two cases cited the starting point was a difference of opinion on the correctness of a bookkeeping entry. The Bureau could have waited for the recovery of taxes; a civil case, it chose to bring the criminal charge of "willful evasion." The Bureau has that choice. The tax laws are so intricate, and made more so by Bureau rulings and Tax Court decisions, that it is virtually impossible for an accountant to be sure his method of arriving at a taxable income, or his computation of the tax, is beyond question. The technicalities that the Bureau may bring up are legion. Therefore, whenever the Bureau has a reason to "get" somebody it has ample means at its disposal. And its viciousness in pursuing a chosen victim, as in the cases mentioned, is unrelenting, simple because its reputation for success is at stake. It must not fail.

This is what the late Senator Schall of Minnesota had to say about this phase of corruption: "The one glaring governmental agency that constitutes a menace to the citizens is the Income Tax Bureau, which often goes outside the constitutional limitations and frequently harasses citizens by unjust exactions and by the oppressive conduct of its agents. This system has one defect that is fundamental. That is its lack of certainty, involving not only the time and manner of payment but also the clear, definite and fixed amount. While the Bureau is a Babel of conflicting regulations and opinions, it believes it is entrenched by authority granted and assumed, and by its anonymous character, that it even dares

Take It From Me, Kid—

National Whirligig... 'Agonizing Reappraisal' Of US Oversea Commitments Is Due

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration and the American Communist may soon undertake the "agonizing reappraisal" of overseas military commitments which Secretary of State Acheson threatened several weeks ago. It will be due entirely to the Anglo-French failure to contribute their share to the system of "collective security" in Western Europe and the Far East, especially in Indo-China.

Unless the statesmen at London, Paris and Rome mend their ways, and show a keener appreciation of the expanding Communist menace, the United States may fall back on Herbert Hoover's defense program. The former President, who frequently relies on Gen. Douglas MacArthur as a military adviser, has suggested that we use the millions now devoted to foreign aid for making a "Gibraltar" of the American continent. The Dulles "agonizing reappraisal" points in that direction.

Although Hoover's proposal provoked ridicule at the time, the Geneva and Indo-China fiasco have induced a congressional mood in favor of it. It will be revived in the Senate when that body debates the pending measure for the billion-dollar handout to our so-called Allies. There will be amendments that funds be withheld from France and Italy until they ratify the European Defense Community Treaty.

England's economic recovery, as to attack the citizens by a charge of fraud without substantial pretext or cause.

"The bureau is inquisitorial. It is bureaucratic. It is cluttered with its offices, its files, its swarms over the country, and the cardinal doctrine under which it operates is to inspire the citizen with fear. Agents, spies and snipers annoy and plague the citizens. The agents, rarely of high order in point of skill or character, must show some kind of results. The Bureau grades them for promotion to increased salary, or better still for the honor roll, not on what taxes are finally returned to the government, but by the amounts they mark up first or charge against the taxpayer.

"That practice permits and promotes, if it does not direct, a species of blackmail against the American citizen. . . . Once having started in pursuit of the agent, assumes authority to impute fraud to the most innocent transactions, and the perfectly honest taxpayer must submit to indignities, odium and accusations of criminality and be put to heavy expense to prove to his own government that he is not a criminal."

Down South... Principal Benefits Of Greater Production Due The Consumer

By THURMAN SENSING

Southern States Industrial Council, Nashville, Tennessee

For a number of years past, organized labor has used rising living costs as a basis for wage increases, but now it has shifted to productivity — the increased output of goods turned out for a man-hour of work. Some of the unions are even contending that labor should be rewarded for most or all of the productivity gain in order that mass purchasing power may be increased and thus expand the demand for factory products.

Actually, of course, the issues involved go far beyond that of better pay for workers and include a clear understanding of the functioning of our economy and the factors responsible for our enormous productivity in this country. The tremendous output per worker in the United States — two to ten times as much as that of European workers and about thirty times that of the Chinese worker — is not accounted for so much because our labor force is more energetic or skilled as because our productive effort is multiplied manifold by the extensive use of power and machines.

Back of every production worker in this country, varying greatly by industries of course — is an average investment in plant and machinery of about $11,000. This physical equipment is financed mainly by a share of the earnings and by the savings of those who invest in the business and expect to return thereon. As to power, the amount of electrical power produced in the United States last year was equivalent to thirty-three times the amount of human power; in other words, the average worker has at his command the equivalent of thirty-six mechanical slaves.

To supply the worker with twice as efficient a machine or with twice as many mechanical slaves, thus enabling him to double his productivity, is very clearly no reason for doubling his pay. To realize the contribution made by power-driven machinery and thereby share the claim on profits of those who provide them, it should be recognized that without their aid the American worker would be forced to work under primitive conditions; his work period would be more than twice what it is today, while his living standards would be reduced to a subsistence basis.

This does not mean, of course, that the worker should not benefit from increased productivity. He should benefit, along with all other segments of our economy, and he does. Over the decades, labor has shared fully in gains made by American industry. Since 1900, real wages have kept pace with increased productivity, which has allowed modern tools has enabled workers to turn out more goods in fewer hours. It is interesting to note, too, that the amount paid out in employee compensation last year was about twenty-two times as much as was distributed in dividends to stockholders — the owners of American business enterprise.

Since organized labor has the most at stake in job making, it is of particular concern to them that the economy should function smoothly and effectively. Therefore, organized labor should go along with those policies which make for greater productivity. Just as a matter of self-interest — though many labor leaders don't seem to realize it — labor unions should support measures which impose limitations upon output and apprenticeships, permit "feather bedding" and slow-downs, and that perpetuate non-productive employment. All these measures interfere with the flow of goods to the consumer, and invite unemployment and lower living standards for all.

Wages constitute the major element of costs and they must be reasonably flexible. Otherwise, the higher compensation of the few may imperil the jobs of the many. If flexibility is not provided in the wage-rate system, then management will not have control over costs, and as a result will not be in a position to underwrite a high level of employment.

In the final analysis, the main benefits of increased productivity should go to the consumer. Instead

Last Monday we heard some interesting things on television. The commentator told us that the Russians were now equipped to deliver a knockout atomic blow on ninety American cities simultaneously. And that nothing could be done to prevent it. But, the announcer went on cheerfully, there is a brighter side to all this. Before annihilation, we'll all get a twenty minute warning. And, as if this wasn't enough to make everybody light-hearted, he went on to say that the government, lovingly watching over us, might be able to give us a WHOLE HOUR'S warning if the Russians will just hold off their attack for another year. Can anybody ask for more? Yes, I think they can. I think we have a right to ask why our officials have persistently dissipated the invincible might that America possessed at the end of World War II. And we might ask why they've knuckled themselves out taking bows while this work of destruction was going on. The happy television man didn't try to answer these questions. But he found time to deliver a stunted blast at McCarthy, who is fighting to find out just how much Red influence has got into the Pentagon. McCarthy isn't waiting for that twenty minute warning. He's warning us right now.

Jonathan Yank

Question number two is addressed to Senator Stuart Symington.

Dear Senator Symington: In one of the monitored telephone conversations between you and Army Secretary Stevens, we seem to note a certain inconsistency of principle, about which we wish to inquire. You obviously endorse the major argument of all McCarthy opponents that he is too "rough" and "tough," that he does not play "within the rules," and that he "lets below the belt," in his ruthless attempt to root out subversives from our midst. At the same time, however, you appear, in one of your conversations to be advising Secretary Stevens that this is precisely the method he should use in handling McCarthy! You say: "If you are going to play with McCarthy, you have got to forget about any of those Marquis of Queensbury rules." We therefore respectfully ask you, sir, whether it is your opinion that such "rough and tough" methods are inexcusable when McCarthy uses them against subversives, but are quite right and proper if used by others against McCarthy? Sincerely yours,

Question number three is addressed to LIFE editors: In your editorial of June 7th, you write: "Every day, in its story on the McCarthy Army hearings, the New York TIMES prints a little book reminding us of the issues: did McCarthy at all exert undue pressure for Schine? Or did Schine at all use Schine as a 'bribe' to stop the investigation? It's a useful device — except that those questions are not the real point of the hearings. The real point is whether McCarthy can be permanently cracked by this public time exposure of his personality and methods. . . . We are wondering, if you have notified the seven 'judges' of the official charges and counter charges, that these are wholly irrelevant, and that their real duty is simply to prove that McCarthy is a menace, and to permanently clip his wings."

BOGGED DOWN — Although rodeo time still is several weeks away, preparatory work is well under way. Mrs. Iris Hagdale, above left, who has handled details for the big show for the past several years, is shown at her desk in the Chamber of Commerce office, literally bogged down with work. With her is Holly Gray, an official of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association. The show will be held Aug. 5-7.

Envy Causes Many Stars' Divorces

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD, June 19 — UP — Jess Barker found himself in a familiar Hollywood dilemma during his stormy marriage with Susan Hayward — the case where the wife's salary checks and billing are bigger than the husband's.

Many other movietown marriages have gone on the rocks after the actress' name wound up in brighter lights than the head of her family's.

Greer Garson wed actor Richard Dix after he played her son in her Oscar-winning film, "Mrs. Miniver." His acting career foundered; so did the marriage. Finally she divorced him in 1947 on grounds he called her a "has been."

Joan Crawford, another of the veteran actresses with big names and paychecks, married up-and-coming actor, Phil Terry. His star did not progress in the topsy-turvy movie business.

Their marriage ended in 1946. He now sells real estate in a beach resort town near Hollywood.

Finding a suitable husband is a problem to a film star who has reached the peak in salary, fame, public adoration and local prestige.

A man who can keep up with her income and drive for success and cope with the attentions showered upon her is a rarity.

As Barker put it as he stood outside the Burbank courtroom after his wife's divorce trial, "How can you compete with $250,000 a year? What can you do?"

"I tried for work, but you know the acting business," he said earnestly. "I've been an actor for 22 years. What other profession do I know?"

Some men who fall in love with movie stars are happy to give up their own aspirations and take over the job of managing the wife or working with her on her career.

Charles O'Curran became Betty Hutton's dance director after their marriage, but the combination ended last week in a divorce suit. Sid Luff and Judy Garland, however, staged a recent party to celebrate their successful marriage. Luff now heads a company to produce Miss Garland's pictures and stage appearances.

Rosalind Russell is another star who found a happy married life with a man who took over her business affairs. Recently she announced she would appear only in pictures that Fred Brison produces for their independent company.

Loretta Young's husband produces her television program and successfully guides her career. Singers Mindy Carson and Yma Sumac are managed by their spouses.

With the addition of three new trailer-mounted mobile communications centers, Los Angeles becomes the first city in the nation to provide a flexible, integrated communications network for its civil defense organization. These new units, each representing an investment of approximately $40,000, tie into 56 fixed communications centers throughout the city which in turn reach a total of 900 message centers. Perryton Slates Phone Rate Talks

PERRYTON — The Perryton City Council and General Telephone company officials meet Tuesday night for another round in the current discussion regarding a proposed rate increase.

Meeting with Perryton officials will be Vic Reynolds, Guymon, Okla., company district manager; Red Highower, San Angelo, rate specialist; and J. T. Carlson, of the general office.

Phone officials May 18 made a formal request for the rate hike, asking for a 50 per cent increase.

Angeleno Ignores Court, Plans On Scrip

WASHINGTON, June 19 — UP — E. L. Cord, Los Angeles multimillionaire, undaunted by one adverse Supreme Court decision, still hopes to acquire title to oil-rich tidelands off California and Louisiana with old land scrip.

Edward D. Neuhoff, Los Angeles attorney for the one-time auto maker, said Saturday the court's decision — handed down June 1 — "does not mean we are through."

He said there are a lot of questions of law still to be decided and "it is up to the Supreme Court to do it."

Cord's plan is rich in daring and poses legal issues dating back to the post-revolutionary Indian wars. Here, in substance, is what it is all about:

Bought Up Land Scrip
Several years ago the 59-year-old industrialist, producer of the nation's first, but ill-fated front-wheel-drive, began buying up land scrip. The scrip, issued by the federal government in days long past, is supposed to entitle the holder to a parcel of land in the public domain.

Some went to citizens who had performed services for the government. Some was in exchange for private land taken over for national forests. And some paid off soldiers for their services. But none was good for all kinds of land because the government, over the years, had withdrawn some lands from homesteading and passed laws protecting mineral deposits in others.

But Cord acquired enough for several thousand acres, using his own name and a half-dozen companies, and applied to the secretary of the interior for land patents in both tidelands and inland areas. Among the spots he chose were sections off Seal Beach and Long Beach in California, 1932 submerged acres off Louisiana, some upland acreage in Newport Bay, Calif., and a mineral tract called "The Little Placer" in California's Mojave Desert.

Off Long Beach, the Long Beach Oil Development Co., a city-owned enterprise, is producing oil from 80 wells in the area sought by Cord. Off Louisiana, the California Co. of New Orleans, is now operating.

Filed Seven Suits
When the secretary of the interior refused to issue land patents, Cord and his companies filed seven suits here. The secretary said the lands in question had been withdrawn from coverage of the scrip law.

One of the suits — filed by the West Coast Development Co. — brought the adverse Supreme Court decision. This was after Cord had lost in two lower courts. In this case Cord used scrip issued to the heirs of Joseph Gerard who was killed in 1792 while carrying a government message to hostile Indians.

The Court's ruling left standing a court of appeals opinion which held that the secretary had authority to deny Cord's application. This opinion presumably controls the other six cases but Neuhoff does not think so and will press them to a decision.

But Neuhoff did say Cord's case is closed insofar as the Mojave Desert scrip is concerned. Earlier this year President Eisenhower signed into a law a bill handing control of all offshore oil lands, within certain limits, to the states.

"She has the best batting average in the league—six of the seven fellows she dates have proposed to her!"

Summer Health Problems

By Science Features

Beautiful summer weather and pleasant vacations often bring a variety of special health problems that take people by surprise. Usually minor, these ailments can be avoided by taking simple precautions.

Sunburn is, perhaps, the most common annoyance. Overexposure to the sun, particularly the first time out, will not make up for the long winter indoors but will only result in a severe burn. However, short sessions under the sun have the effect of thickening one layer of skin to give the body protection while developing the pigment that produces that healthy "tan" color. To aid this process, there are protective ointments that filter the burning rays of the sun and allow the body to tan at the same time.

A certain group of shiny, red-tinted, green leaves may be nice to look at but not to touch—for they're poison ivy. Contact with the toxic plant results in a severe itching skin rash. Dr. Leon F. Goldman of the University of Cincinnati and other skin specialists have found that hydrocortisone compounds such as Cortril can halt itching within hours and clear up severe cases within a few days.

There are many precautions that should be taken to avoid other maladies. Sufferers of hay fever and seasonal asthma should get special desensitization shots. To lessen chance of catching athlete's foot, toes should be kept dry and clean.

If anyone in the family happens to suffer from car sickness, the U. S. Armed Forces say that a single dose of a new drug, Bonamine, protects most people against motion sickness for at least 24 hours. It's also a good idea to carry a first aid kit on auto trips. And, when you arrive at your destination, check on the location of the nearest physician just in case.

Ike, Churchill Will Review Foreign Policy

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

The week's balance sheet between the good and bad news in the hot and cold wars:

THE GOOD

1. President Eisenhower invited Prime Minister Winston Churchill to visit Washington next week for a thorough review of foreign policy. It was expected that the United States-British conference would be one of the most important since the end of World War II. There was hope that the widening rift in American-British foreign policy would be closed. The way may be cleared for a Southeast Asia security pact.

2. West Berlin and West Germany gave the Kremlin an impressive reminder of the uprising of East German workers against Communist rule one year ago. There were torchlight processions and speeches emphasizing that Germans never will consent to remain under the heel of Soviet Russia. Communist youths who tried to break up a meeting in West Berlin were soundly beaten. President Eisenhower assured the people of Easton, Latvia and Lithuania, Germany's neighbors on the Baltic Sea who now are under Russian rule, that the United States will do all it can to help restore their independence.

3. The situation in the Middle East became steadily more favorable to the West. There is a strong pro-Western trend all the way from Pakistan to the Mediterranean Sea. Britain prepared to resume negotiations with Egypt on the Suez Canal zone and thus remove one sore spot. Pro-Western leaders won the election in Iraq. The United States entered an economic aid pact with Jordan.

THE BAD

1. France seemed to be in for a long period of political instability which would weaken the Allied position in Western Europe and further delay ratification of the European Defense Community pact. A strong France is essential to the defense of Western Europe. Frenchmen realized that their country's international prestige was dropping. They were bitter because France was not invited to the Churchill-Eisenhower talks.

2. The Geneva talks on Korea failed. No hope was left of a peace treaty in the foreseeable future. Talks on Indo-China got nowhere. Chinese delegate Chou En-Lai in an attempt to keep these negotiations from collapsing intimated that the Reds would give up their bid to grab parts of the associated states of Laos and Cambodia. The American delegates thought nothing could come of Chou's proposal. They called it a "nuclear bomb."

3. President Eisenhower, speaking at a press conference, said the developments in Guatemala are very disturbing. The State Department said that Guatemalan government, which is accused of subjecting itself to Communist influence, is still trying to buy arms abroad. There were reports that the army had demanded a showdown with President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman on Communist domination. But the last word was that the reports were at least premature.

Hayward Divorce Pends

HOLLYWOOD, June 19 — A superior court judge who refused to be "rushed" into a quick decision awaited written arguments Saturday before deciding whether to grant actress Susan Hayward a divorce from former film Tarzan Jean Baxter. Judge Herbert V. Walker said Friday he felt the case required more study because, he said in reference to the couple's nine-year-old twin sons "two people are most vitally affected by this case."

Army Major Raymond A. Keller, in co-operation with the Insular Bureau of Agriculture (Philippines), in 1951 produced a vaccine for rinderpest, an acute cattle disease. Within a few years after the development of this vaccine, rinderpest was eradicated from the islands.

During the Communist invasion of South Korea, approximately 10,000 classrooms were destroyed and another 19,000 damaged. As part of its rehabilitation program, the U. S. Army provided materials to repair or construct 1,000 classrooms during a single year.

THESE HORRID AGE SPOTS

FADE THEM OUT

"Weathered brown spots on the surface of your hands and face tell the world you're getting old—perhaps before you really are. Not a cover-up. Acts in the skin—not on it. Fragrant, greasy-free for softening, lubricating skin as it clears up those blemishes. At leading drug and toiletary counters. $2 plus tax. Roberts County To Hire HDA

MIAMI — Roberts county may soon have a home demonstration agent.

County commissioners have agreed to employ an agent as soon as one can be found.

This decision came after County Judge Ed Haynes announced that a recent poll of 70 women in the county showed that 60 of them favored the hiring of an agent.

Judge Haynes has received a letter from Miss Doris Leggett, district home demonstration agent in which she said that agents are scarce, but that she would do her best to find one for this county.

GARY GOSNELL AND PROJECT
A New Feeding Plan For F. F. A.

White Deer F.F.A. Boys Learn And Save With Feed Mixer

WHITE DEER — (Special) — The White Deer Future Farmers of America Chapter has a new improvement in feeding club calves this summer.

President of the school board, John Kotars, Jr., got the ball rolling when the subject of the club owning its own feed mixer came up.

In May, the officials of White Deer Independent School District purchased the mixer which has ground up some 4500 lbs. of food stuff for the project animals which the boys are feeding this summer.

The mill was installed in the School Agriculture building, and was put into operation at once.

The boys who do the mixing must learn to figure rations and ratios, and know why the mixture requirement is not the same on every feed. They also learn the protein value supplied by, and contained in each feed.

For the feeding of their six club calves, the boys have used oats, corn, cotton seed meal, alfalfa leaf pellets, and molasses. The mixer has separate molasses blender attached above the bin. Oats and barley are pinned for a price of next year's feed. The pigs, which are also projects of the chapter, also are fed from feed blended by the mixer.

Boys who are raising calves for project shows are Ray Eller, Jerry Kotars, Maynard Kotars, Bob Kalka and George Collis. The four year old calves have an average weight of 500 lbs. It is said they are some of the best to be fed out by the boys. Raising pigs for the Dallas and Amarillo Fairs are Gary Gosnell, one Hampshire and one Duroc; Alvin and Melvin Kalka, four Chester Whites and two Hampshires; Harice Preston, one Hampshire and one Chester White; Dewaine Clemens, one Duroc; and Harold Isaacs, two Durocs. There will be fourteen boys to start the chapter year this fall. A number of the outstanding boys completed their FFA work at the close of the last school term.

The band played for last year's show. Negotiations were completed Friday night and were announced Saturday by Paul Crouch, association president.

Crouch announced that the Amarillo Air Force band, which also played at last year's show, would again be here for the annual affair.

Who Pours? — Nobody Quit Yet He's Ready — Experts Stumped

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — After writing all the big research controversies now being debated in Washington, there's a social crisis over whether the lady who presides at the coffee-pouring table should be of higher rank than the lady who pours the tea at a reception, or vice versa.

Three of the capital's best-informed authorities on protocol are in disagreement on this coffee-versus-tea issue.

The State Department's protocol office and former White House Social Secretary Edith Benham say this is all very silly and neither pouring operation outranks the other.

Mrs. Carolyn Hagner Shaw, editor of Washington's Green Book and Social Register, stoutly maintains, however, that even if you call your reception a tea, the ranking lady assisting you should be asked to preside at the coffee pot.

The lady with lower rank would get the assignment at the tea kettle, with its infinitely greater responsibility of asking whether you wanted it with lemon.

Dr. Wright has had to admit he can't find the answer. However, he's bothered about ambrosia and nectar being pre-alcoholic.

From his delving into the classics, he has gained the distinct impression that the Greek gods frequently took a nip of something, and that Mt. Olympus saw some scandalous goings on. "And anything nine times sweeter than honey," suggests, "was bound to ferment."

Department of Agriculture has just put out a new pamphlet on how to get rid of wasp, hornet and yellow jacket nests, but the instructions aren't exactly likely to start a new sport craze.

"Hornets and yellow jackets and their nests can be removed as a unit," it says, "by plugging the next opening with a wad of cotton soaked in carbon tetrachloride and then quickly dislodging the nest into a sack that can be burned, buried, or put into a can containing a few spoonfuls of carbon tetrachloride."

As for wasps, it recommends that "Chlorodane or DDT be applied to the nests at night because wasps are less active then and more likely to be in the nest."

There are 2500 different kinds of wasps on North America, it says, but only 80 of them annoy man.

Polish people in the capital city of Warsaw have found various ways to show their defiance of Soviet Russian occupation authorities, according to reliable undercover reports made to the U.S. Free Europe Committee. The Poles have discovered that the Russians will put up with quite a lot of annoyance, because any complaints to the government would be an admission of Soviet popularity. So the Warsaw people have started playing tricks like these:

When a Russian asks for directions, he will be given an answer in such rapid Polish that he can't understand. A similar stunt is to put a Russian on a stretcher going in the wrong direction.

In shops and stores the Russians are given bad advice on their purchases. When a Russian walks past a group of Poles, they stop talking and stare at him. A favorite game is to point excitedly at a passing Soviet car, causing the driver to get out and look to see what's wrong.

House Democratic Minority Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas says he's all set to become Speaker of the House of Representatives again if the Democrats win in November. He made this disclosure in an off-hand comment before the National Rivers and Harbors Conference.

After paying his usual compliment to the present Republican Speaker Joe Martin, Rep. Rayburn said, "You know, Joe and I have been jumping in and out of that job for years. I have served so long I don't need it any more."

Then he added with a twinkle in his eye, "Of course, if the opportunity would come again, I'd take it."

Marketers Must Have Wheat Card

MIAMI — Wheat farmers have been advised they must have marketing cards before they can market wheat without paying a penalty.

This advice came from Claud Seitz, manager of the Roberts County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office.

Farmers will be required to show their cards to wheat buyers so that they will know the farmers are marketing penalty-free wheat, Seitz said.

These cards may be picked up at the local office or will be mailed to producers upon receipt of a signed request from the farmer.

---AND A GOOD TIP FOR YOU

WHEN it comes to sales, every car maker aspires to be up at the top of his price class. Which is only natural. Popularity like that means success.

We know, because for years Buick has held such an envied position — the unquestioned sales leader in its class. And with good reasons in styling, room, power, value.

But today, folks like you have pushed Buick success even beyond such bounds.

Today, the top sales standings of a full generation have been changed. Today, latest sales figures for the first four months of 1954 reveal this phenomenal fact:

In total national volume, regardless of price class, Buick is outselling all cars in America except two of the so-called "low-price threes."

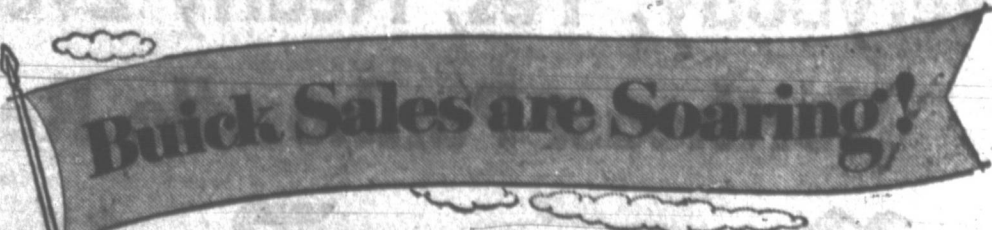

That's a tip too good to pass up.

That's the tip-off that Buick must have the hottest styling of the times and the sweetest performance of the year.

More important, that's the tip-off that Buick prices are well within the reach of more and more people — and that such prices buy a lot more automobile per dollar.

So why not look into the tomorrow-styled Buick that puts you so far ahead today?

Come in, or phone us this week for a demonstration. Then you can judge for yourself that Buick really is the beautiful buy — by far.

Dodger Home Runs Beat Cubs, 6 To 2

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 19. — The three blasts gave the Dodgers a total of 14 homers in their last four games and 29 in their last 24.

Stafford Holds Big State Lead

By UNITED PRESS

Big Dean Stafford, veteran Galveston outfielder, dropped 15 points from his batting average last week but still led the Big State League in runs-batted-in and home runs and his .370 mark was good for fourth place among all hitters, according to latest official statistics.

Stafford had 69 runs-batted-in, picking up five from the previous week, and slugged two more home runs during the week to give him a total of 16.

Three Corpus Christi Clippers topped the batting parade, attesting to the Clippers' fast rise to the top of the league. They were Juan Sentes, leading everybody with a .406 mark, Chit Bigham, with .384, and Al Facchini with .378. Stafford broke up the Corpus Christi monopoly but he was followed by another Clipper, Billy Capps, with a .367 mark.

Following Capps were Moe Santamuro, Tyler, .358; Lorenzo Cabrera, Bryan, and Hank Robinson, Galveston, both with .354; and Chase Riddle, Galveston, .351.

Bigham kept his lead in triples, adding two for a total of 12, and Earl Hamman of Temple was atop the heap in two-bash-hits with a total of 19.

The league's leading pitcher was Ray Nicolosi of Waco, but Nicolosi had figured in only three decisions, winning them all.

Redlegs Nip Phils, 11-2

PHILADELPHIA, June 19. — UP. Cincinnati scored five unearned runs in the third inning for a 7-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday, but for the second game in a row reliever Frank Smith had to come in to chill a ninth-inning anxiety threat.

Friday night, Smith saved a 7-1 triumph for the Redlegs by throwing the Phillies after they loaded the bases with one out in the ninth.

Saturday, he replaced Jackie Collum on the mound with the tying and winning runs in the ninth to fan Willie Jones and force Richie Ashburn to pop up to end the game.

Costly errors by Smokey Burgess and Bobby Morgan and three walks by reliever Thornton Kipper paved the way for the Redlegs' big inning.

Consuegra, Chisox Blank Yanks, 3-0

CHICAGO, June 19. — UP. — Sandy Consuegra held the New York Yankees to 6 hits Saturday for his first shutout of the season as the second place Chicago White Sox took a one-game edge on the defending champions with a 3-0 triumph before 27,995 fans.

It was the ninth shutout of the season for the Sox and the sixth time the Yankees have been blanked. Consuegra gave up 2 walks and struck out 3 in gaining his eighth win against two defeats.

The defeat, his third against seven wins, was charged to southpaw Eddie Lopat, breaking his string of six straight wins over Chicago. It was the first loss to the Sox since June 21, 1952.

Lopat gave up a run in the fourth on a walk, a sacrifice and George Kell's single. Two more tallies came in the sixth when Ferris Fain and Kell singled. Sherm Lollar was hit by a pitched ball and Jim Rivers singled.

Flowers Is New Perryton Grid Mentor

PERRYTON — (Special) — Two new additions have been made to the Perryton High School coaching staff. They are Keith Flowers and Joe Ogden.

Flowers will replace Duane Byars, who resigned to become head coach at Kress, as line coach. He is a graduate from Perryton High School where he was quarterback on the undefeated Perryton team of 1947. He is one of the most famous football players ever produced by Perryton. He graduated from Texas Christian University where he was a team member and co-captain of the TCU Horned Frogs. He was named to the Associated Press All-American team in 1951. At present he is deputy sheriff for Perryton.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — "My kid," somebody will say, "hit .440 in the Little League last year. Oh, but don't bother looking his name up. He's out this year. Too old."

As things now shape up, there is little reason for this kind of talk. That's because the Pony League (Protect Our Nation's Youth) and the Babe Ruth League provide more than a little room for graduates of the Little League program.

Both leagues are for youngsters in the 13-to-15 class. At last count, the Pony League, which started in 1952, had 2,115 teams in some 445 leagues which stretch over 24 states and four Canadian provinces.

The Babe Ruth League, another finishing school for LL graduates, points 16 2000 teams in 29 states and Canada.

Skelly, Cabot Meet In Softball Feature

Cabot and Skelly will meet Tuesday night in the feature game of the Industrial League schedule this week.

Skelly is currently setting the pace with a 6-0 record while Cabot is only one-half game back with a 5-1 slate.

The two clubs will meet at Lions Club Park Tuesday, starting at 8 p.m.

The only other team in the 8-team loop with an outside chance of catching up with the two leaders is Phillips. Phillips has a 5-3 record. They lost two of their three games the past week, both losses coming at the hands of the No. 1 and 2 teams, Skelly and Cabot.

A full slate of eight games are on tap this week. In addition to the

Sens Edge Past Baltimore, 5-2

BALTIMORE, June 19. — UP. — The Washington Senators scored four unearned runs in the ninth inning to defeat Baltimore, 5 to 2, Saturday, and hand the Orioles their sixth straight loss.

The Orioles led, 2 to 1, when the Senators came to bat in the ninth, but three errors let in four runs and cost Joe Coleman his sixth defeat of the year against seven victories.

Tom Wright batted for Ed Fitzer to lead off the ninth for Washington and drew a walk.

Mickey McDermott batted for pitcher Johnny Schmitz and was safe on shortstop Billy Hunter's error. Vern Stephens then fumbled Eddie Yost's bunt to load the bases and Johnny Pesky drove in the tying run with a sacrifice fly. Mickey Vernon singled to score Jerry Snyder, running for McDermott, to put Washington ahead.

Jim Busby followed with another single to score Yost. Busby continued to second when outfielder Cal Abrams tumbled the ball for the third error of the inning.

Howie Fox replaced Coleman for the Orioles and after Pete Runnels was intentionally walked, the fourth run scored as Roy Sievers hit into a forceout.

Father's Day

Father's Day is here, which means Dad is king of the household for a day. During the week, Mother and the children have been busy whispering and making plans, resulting in gifts today for Dad, maybe breakfast in bed and all kinds of attention. It's a day set aside to let him know just how much he means to them.

Shown on this page are some of Pampa's fathers, playing, working or relaxing with their children.

DADDY'S LOTS OF FUN is what J. S. Skelly's family thinks. He is shown tossing up Phoebe, 1, while Natalie, 8, right, tickles his feet, and Prudence, 5, seated on the floor, and John III, second from right, wait their turn to get into the act. The Skellys have seven children. Not shown are Adelaide, 18, a counselor at a camp in New Mexico; Martha, 16, and Rebecca, 14, both on a Girl Scout camp-out. Mr. Skelly is a butane-propane jobber, and the family lives at 916 N. Somerville.

LET'S PLAY HORSEBACK is a favorite of Bill Harris' boys. Shown on his father's back is Ricky, 18 months, while Randy, 4, awaits his turn. The Harris family lives at 1125 Huff Road. Mr. Harris is manager of Western Guaranty Loan company.

ROSES FOR DAD AND GRAMP is one of the ways

BEAVER — Special — Vows uniting Carolyn Ann Hoffer, daughter of Mrs. Jess Hough and Charles Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Clark, were read recently in the First Christian Church, Hominy, Okla. by Rev. Ed Brinkworth, pastor officiating at the double ring service.

White satin robes, contrasting with white stoles, marked the bridal state. From an arch of greenery at the altar hung a cluster of white wedding bells. The bridesmaids of greenery flanking the altar were centered with clusters of miniature white bells, and the bridesmaids holding tall white tapers were garlanded with greenery.

Miss Sue Clark, sister of the groom, and Miss Ann Murphy of Dayton, Okla., were bridesmaids. The bridesmaids wore white dresses with blue sashes and carried white bouquets. A double row of narrow white ribbon trim was featured at the waistline over a full floor length skirt. They wore white tulle coverings of white shoes.

Organ music was played by Mrs. Pauline Williams, Kirby of Dayton, N. M., and Miss Ma. Young, Hoffer, presiding the ceremony. During the ceremony, an organ solo, "There is Love," was played by Mrs. Kirby, and the wedding ceremony by singing "The Lord's Prayer." Traditional marriage vows were read.

The bride's maid of honor was Miss Martin Russell, bridesmaids were Miss Ginger Wark and Miss Young.

'Little Helpers' Housewares Appeal Equally To Mother And Daughter Alike

By KAY SHERRWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

"Little Helpers" in new housewares will appeal equally to mother and daughter alike. Not in any sense toys, some new devices are styled down in size to do small tasks more efficiently, and to fit the needs of limited storage space. That they are also light enough in weight for an eager little homemaker to handle, when the enthusiasm for "helping" mother comes here, is an unexpected but pleasant surprise to me.

Take, for example, a new sponge "mop" I acquired recently. This is a sawed-off version of the sponge mop, with a long handle, but is much easier to handle on jobs such as washing cabinet exteriors, bathtub and windows.

Because the mop is short and light and the push-pull sponge works easily, our young daughter wields it with real energy. An extension handle, center with the mop, a rubber plug with a built-in loop makes it easy to hang up for proper drying.

Armed with the little mop and a new, featherweight, red polycarbonate bucket of mine, our junior homemaker finds housework an exciting pastime.

Another aid that I find particularly useful for cleaning up a handful of dishes is a small plastic squeeze-bottle with a brush cap. After filling with a small amount of detergent and hot water, you squeeze the bottle and the suds squirt out on the dish, ready for the brush to scrub it clean. This bottle-brush is light enough for a little sugar bearer to use, too, and saves a good deal of suds and splash at the sink.

Now, small vacuum cleaners are designed to fill a need in small apartments or homes, and, in larger homes, to perform above-the-floor cleaning more easily. Because they are quickly portable they're also a help in cleaning out car interiors.

Size, weight and the shorter hose make these portables more manageable for young homemakers, too.

I have found that our young one not only enjoys running the regular vacuum but does, when supervised, a creditable job of such specific tasks as scooping up crumbs or paper scraps, or playing the vacuum attachment under radiators.

Bath Powder Helps Summer Freshness

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

During the summer, a fragrant bath followed by a cool shower each day will help to keep you fresh as a daisy.

Your bath water should be warm, but not hot. Add to it bath salts or whatever softener you use. And a bubble bath is sure to take your mind off the weather.

If you have a favorite perfume, by matching your bathroom accessories to that fragrance, you could create bath oil, salts, soap, cologne and talcum powder.

After your bath and shower, give yourself a good rubdown with your towel. This will leave your skin glowing.

Then, have a generous dusting with your bath powder. You'll find that your girlish steps are easily if you use the powder. Pay special attention to powdering your feet and legs. It acts as a smoother for hot, tired feet, so pamper them with it.

Peg O' Pampa

A SALUTE to Dads on their day.
"And fathers are a blessing too, they give the place a tone; In fact each child should try and have some parents of its own."
From Edgar Guest's version of "The Old Woman Who Lived In A Shoe."

BLESS YOU DAD. And, we speak collectively. You're one of us at last. Leave us not get maidin' like some of the stickler songs and poems of home and mother, but you, we think, deserve praise as never before. Much is said about how Moms have changed with such granddams as Marlene Dietrich about, but not much about Dad. A younger gayer more flexible Mom has replaced the long-suffering lady who bravely faced years that were empty once the little ones slipped off her knees for more diverting pastimes. But haven't you noticed distinct changes in Pop? No longer the fearsome stranger called upon only to deliver sentences or wield the belt, Dad has truly become one of us. Now that he's not forced to a primitive life wholly concerned with bread and beans, he's taken on a new role. Being "supporter" of a family now entails much more than bringing home the monthly paycheck and brings much richer rewards to all concerned. His support includes building a boat for Junior or a new wing for the house and long talks with his teenagers about such problems as dating. Now that he's personally involved with the running of the household, he's won for himself greater pride in his home and a wife who has time to be an interesting and interested companion. Look about Pampa and you'll see that the family's education is no longer sloughed off on the wife. Fathers are active in P.T.A., Boy and Girl Scout activities and Adult Education.

WHILE OUR OWN DAD studies the new magazine, Time's "National Sports Weekly," with dogged determination, (it takes that kind with pets, children and TV) let's hear what's new? Must admit that Peg knows rather little, or should I say even less than usual. But I can tell you all about sunburn, mosquitoes, sand in the skillet and beautiful sunsets. All of which should be sufficient to tell you we didn't spend our vacation at Las Vegas on Sun Valley. Reminds us that High School Baseball Coach Deck Woldt and his wife have taken themselves to Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin, in their brand new Ford. Judy and Horton Russell have been planning a trip to Durango, Colorado. . . may be there by now. . . Rilla and Larry Jarrett are vacationing in New York. . . Mr. Peg is a man who feels that he (and we) owe it to him to go back to nature at least once a year. . . Our ideal is slightly different. But what is a perfect vacation anyway? Best thing a successful vacation does for us is simply to give us a slightly different angle on the same old routine that we come home to. Accessories can become so thick that they often obscure the fact that you know what we mean. The words are a bit confusing, but the thought's quite clear really.

OUT AT THE GOLF COURSE, Shorty Heskell, Dallas Bowsher, Grover Austin Sr. and DeLea Vicars (Johnny Foreman too, I believe) are having a great time with their red and green Chinese coolie-like hats. . . Seems they must always remember to wear theirs whenever they play a match, and Mr. Austin was the first to be gleefully fined. . . Somehow that last doesn't sound exactly grammatical but you know what I mean. Besides if you'll remember, Edna Ferber tells us that deliberately sounding illiterate is a proud tradition in Texas. Well hot Peg. She's practicing every day to fool people like Edna. Any day now I'll find an excuse to use words like sanguinary and propitiation and erudite. Wait and see. . .

OUR TEN-YEAR-OLD woman of mystery has a new admirer. Of course he doesn't speak to her, but it's very plain that he's smitten just the same. How does she know? Why everytime he sees her he puts his tongue in his cheek and looks the other way. Inevitable logic!

HEARD MRS. LLOYD BENNETT bought five pairs of shoes in small sizes lately for an orphan's home. . . Ever notice how much alike good friends Mrs. Joe Young and Vena Riley are in appearance? They look so much alike that one of them barely escaped a shot intended for the other. It seems both happened to be in Dr. Kelley's office at the same time. Imagine how the innocent bystander must have felt with a nurse bearing down on her with the wicked needle.

TOWN TRIVIA. . . Mrs. John Heasey's granddaughter has been visiting this past week. Her name is Frenchy-lovely Michele Jarce. Noticed the yard at the H. H. Boynton home on South Hobart. And if you're specially privileged take a good look at her wonderful kitchen. Peg envies that pull-down light. . . At a coffee not long ago, the one for Mrs. Joe Hodge of Alabama, Mrs. Heasey got up early in the morning and whipped up fresh donuts, much to the delight of everyone. Mrs. Hodge was here to attend the Harrah-Hemsel wedding and to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Seitz. Among guests were longtime friends, Mrs. Charlie Thomas, Mrs. Frank Foster and Mrs. Maude Smith, who was a house guest of the Lee Harrah's. . . Mrs. Bill Chapman is due to return to Pampa from Tulsa next week. During her former visit, Mrs. Jim White, her grandmother, had a coffee for her and her friends.

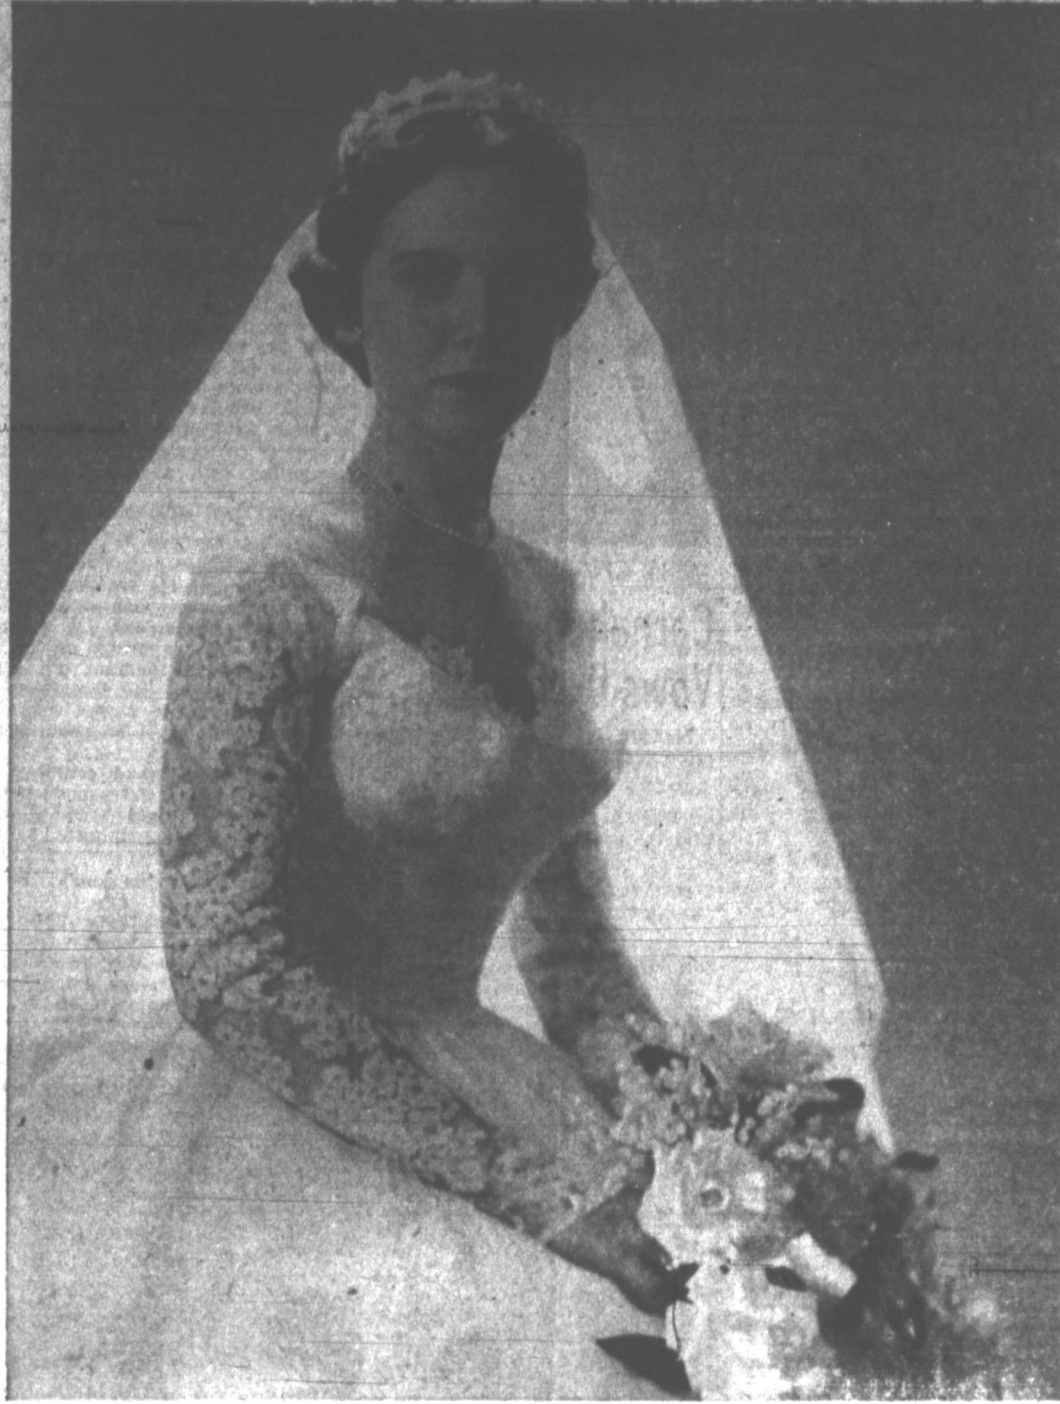

CANDID SHOTS. . . If you long for a coppery hue take Carolyn Price's advice and try the new suntan lotion that sprays on. Carolyn is the charming college sophomore who guards at the Country Club pool this year. . . Heard Lefty Cox telling the boys at the pro shop that son Tommy didn't give Max Hickey an easy victory in their tournament match. . . Saw Mrs. Skeet Roberts shopping. She always has the same warm smile for everyone; no special jobs held in reserve for special people. . . Jerry Sims and his happy-making smile make it an adventure to run an errand at the bank. The kind of person who could be a bill collector. He'd make it so painless. . . Mrs. Martin Lantau, pretty enough to be a photographer's model herself, enthusiastically snapping shots of her chubby little one. . . Pleasant-faced Mrs. Bob Andia. . . hope Margie Long's mother is feeling better. . .

REAL SECOND LOOKABLE is Billie Pulliam in her all blonde outfit to match her all blonde hair. . . Like Lorita Timmons with her dark tresses in a slick hair style. Love her in cannibal style earrings too. . . Mrs. Aubrey Steels always looks cool and collected when we all know perfectly well she does too much to really feel that way. . . takes talent, Jan McWright has a circle skirt, felt, I think, with a sequined bicycle applique that's the envy of many of her teenage friends. . . Wonder what Joe and Gloria Black named their new baby girl? Something sweet and romantic we hope.

MANY OF THE COLLEGE BOYS already have jobs for the summer. Hear Cecil Steward, one of those Texas Aggies, is working as a draftsman in Dallas. Two other Aggies, Harold Conner and Roy Sullivan are working here. Roy is a reporter for The News this summer. . . he expects to report for duty with the armed forces in August. Then there's the two Cornell girls, Lynn and Jean. Jean is to be married soon, as is Joan Lunsford from OU. She's taking the step in August. Makes us oldtimers feel ancient to see these young couples from college, among them Ann and Jimmy Campbell and their 11-month-old son, Bill. They've returned to Oklahoma A&M for summer school, I understand. Also saw Carolyn Groninger from Hardin-Simmons riding around town the other day, looking very cool and business-like. Others home from the three-college town of Abilene are Shirley Cook, Carolyn Carver and Lee Cockrell.

SPEAKING OF COUPLES, home from Baylor are Karl and Phoebe Stevenson. . . from OU, Jewell and Buxy Tarpley. . . from Texas A&M Carol Ann and James Gallimore. Others from Texas U. — Herman Hawkins, Joe Hawkins and Sam Anderson — from OU at Norman, Charles McCray and Richard Qualls — from WTSC at Canyon, Sue McFall, Bill Chapman, Bill Duncan — from TCU, Marvin Overson III — from Stevens college, Jacqueline Merchant.

MRS. DONALD N. EWAN

Wedding Vows Are Exchanged Saturday By Betty Joyce Scott And Donald Ewan

In a double-ring ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday in the First Methodist church, Miss Betty Joyce Scott became the bride of Donald Noble Ewan, Dr. Ronald Meredith of Wichita, Kan., officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Scott, 1304 Mary Ellen, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ewan, Wichita, Kan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a light-ivory gown of Peau d'Ange lace and nylon tulle over taffeta. The bodice featured a wide, decollete neckline with a yoke of nude illusion. Long, tightly fitted lace sleeves apered to petal points over her hands. Tiny covered buttons extended down the back of the bodice into the deep-V waistline, edged with an arrow-hand-rolled cord. The full, gathered skirt of layers of tulle, enhanced by large appliques of lace in a flower-and-petal motif, swept to a chapel-length train.

The bride's veil of ivory silk illusion fell in tiers from a narrow pearl coronet. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Floors Emphasized As Home Decoration

Floors "have the floor" in decorative planning these days. Leading decorators are basing many of their most pleasing room creations on the central idea that beautiful floors enhance immeasurably the charm and appeal of homes and therefore should be seen, not concealed.

In carrying out this theme, which fashion-wise homemakers have embraced enthusiastically, the styling experts are manifesting a hardwood set off with distinctive area or accent rugs.

Various species and types of hardwood floors are utilized in this arrangement. Topping them all in popularity is oak in the strip style. A perennial favorite, oak is famed for its beauty of grain and coloring, its lifetime durability and easy upkeep. Also employed extensively are hard maple, beech, birch and pecan.

The strip style wins the strongest support perhaps because of its versatility and economy. Prominent in the fashion parade, too, are the other major types, plank and parquet floors. The latter include a modern form of conventional parquetry known as unit-block flooring.

Much of the universal appeal of strip floors lies in the fact that they are appropriate for any setting. They are equally "at home" in a small, modestly furnished dwelling or in the most luxurious home. They are "correct" for houses of any architectural style.

As the name implies, strip flooring consists of long, narrow strips. These are laid in random lengths and usually in uniform widths. Despite their widespread use, strip floors are never commonplace. No two are ever exactly alike. Just as the grain pattern of each tree boasts individuality of character, so does the hardwood in each floor.

Plank floors, somewhat higher in cost, are particularly appropriate for ranch type homes. Usually laid in mixed widths, they capture much of the charm which distinguished the early hand-hewn floors of colonial days. Among their appealing features, for example, are the decorative wood pegs employed to simulate the dovels by which the old-time floors were fastened. Ordinarily of a contrasting colored wood, the pegs are inserted near the end joints over the countersunk screws which help hold the planks to the subfloor. Conventional parquetry, the most elaborate type of hardwood flooring, consists of small pieces laid individually in any of countless designs. It is particularly well adapted to rooms where a formal note is desired.

Unit-block floors, considered only slightly less formal, are substantially lower priced. They belong to the parquetry family since they form a definite pattern.

Besides the selection in styles, there is a wide variety of grades and a choice between unfinished and prefinished flooring.

Ann McNamara And Joseph DiCosimo Repeat Nuptial Vows During High Mass

Miss Ann McNamara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McNamara, 1612 N. Somerville, and Joseph A. DiCosimo of El Paso, son of Mrs. Angelo DiCosimo of Mt. Union, Pa., were married at 9 a.m. Wednesday in Holy Souls Catholic church.

Rev. Frank Kunz, C. M., officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The date is also the anniversary of the bridegroom's parents.

The couple was married before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli and asters, backed by palms. The High Mass was sung by the adult choir, under the direction of Bill Haley Jr.

A vocal solo, "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother," was presented by Pat O'Connor as the bride and bridegroom placed a bouquet of yellow roses on the altar dedicated to the Blessed Virgin. Before the Mass, two "Ave Veruns," one by Guilman, and one by Mozart, were presented. Other music included "Andantino" by Cesar Franck, and "Prelude and Fugue in A Minor" by Bach, and "Ave Maria" by Arcadelt. The Mass sung was "Missa Reginae Pacis" by Brangers. The wedding marches, both processional and recessional, were played by Rev. Carlo Rossetti.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waist-length gown of white imported chantilly lace and pleated tulle over white satin. The fitted lace bodice had a high neckline with a Peter Pan collar. The long fitted sleeves tapered to petal points over her hands. The bouffant skirt was fashioned with an apron-effect in front, edged with pleated tulle.

Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a cap of chantilly lace decorated with seed pearls. The veil was worn by her sister on her wedding day. She carried a white mistle topped with a bouquet of yellow and white roses, tied with lace streamers.

Matron-of-honor was Mrs. R. J. Altendorf, sister of the bride. She wore a ballerina-length gown of white organdy over yellow tulle, similar to that of the bride. Her headpiece was a white organdy embroidered picture hat trimmed with yellow ribbon, and she wore white organdy mitts. She carried a yellow organdy basket filled with yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss Celia Saunders of Amarillo, a classmate of the bride at Saint Mary college, Xavier, Kans., was bridesmaid. Her gown of white organdy over blue tulle was identical to that of the matron-of-honor. She wore a white organdy embroidered picture hat, trimmed with blue ribbon and carried a blue organdy basket filled with blue flowers.

Best man was Bernard McNamara, brother of the bride, and ushers were Joe McNamara, another brother of the bride, and Frank Fata.

The bride's mother wore a blue linen dress with a blue bolero hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow gladioli. The mother of the groom was unable to attend.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The serving table was covered with a floor-length cloth of yellow organdy over Simlax. The centerpiece was a bouquet of white gladioli and asters. The crystal punch bowl was at one end of the table, and the four-tiered wedding cake, baked by Mrs. A. B. Zahn, the bride's grandmother, stood at the other end. The cake was topped by a little china angel used on the wedding cake of the bride's parents 27 years ago.

Miss Shirley McGann, cousin of the bride, served the cake. Miss Dorothy Imholz and Miss Jean Chisholm presided at the punch bowl, and Miss Ann McGann, cousin of the bride, at the guest register.

After a wedding trip through the Middle West and East, including a visit in Mount Union, Pa., with the bridegroom's mother and family, the couple will be at home in El Paso. For traveling, the bride wore a navy-blue linen dress with matching bolero, trimmed with white, and blue accessories. Her corsage was of yellow and white roses.

The bride was graduated from Pampa high school in 1948 and attended Saint Mary College, Xavier, Kans., for two years. She received her Bachelor of Science degree, with honors, from the University of New Mexico in 1952 and has been teaching physical education in El Paso high school for two years. While at the university, she was a member of Mortar Board, honorary scholastic fraternity; the Women's Recreation association, and Alpha Delta Pi, social sorority. She was vice-president of Associated Women Students, and was chosen for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." She was also a member of the Newman club.

The bridegroom graduated from New Mexico Western college, Silver City, N. M., with a Bachelor of Arts degree, following three years' service with the U.S. Marine Corps. While in college, he was president of the senior class, musical director of the college's "Aqua-Parade," and a member of the National Education Music conference. He taught for 2½ years in the El Paso public schools, and is now band director in Bowie High school, El Paso.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mrs. R. A. McGann, aunt of the bride, and Misses Ann and Shirley McGann, cousins of the bride, all of El Paso; Miss Dorothy Imholz of Abilene; Miss Genevieve Regan of Wichita Falls, aunt of the bride; Miss Celia Saunders of Amarillo; Miss Marie Stejda of Guyton, Okla.; and Mrs. J. H. Altendorf of Lubbock, sister of the bride.

The rehearsal dinner Monday was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Boyd, 1010 Christine. Other pre-nuptial parties include an outdoor barbecue by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blake in El Paso and a dinner by Miss Dorothy Box of El Paso. In Pampa, a shower was presented at Easter by Mrs. Russ Chisholm, Dan Gribbon, W. C. Dillman, M. F. Roche, R. W. Westfall and William Herr. Mrs. A. B. Zahn, the bride's grandmother, presented a coffee June 5 and the bride's parents honored the bridal couple June 8 with an outdoor dinner.

You can bring your strapless evening gown up to date very easily. One way would be to make an abbreviated shrug. Depending upon the color and fabric of your gown, you could either match shades and material or contrast them.

Save steps in the bedroom by making one side of the bed suitably before moving around to do the other side.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend—
You have given good advice to so many people I wonder if you could help me.

Is there any federal or state agency to which I could write in regard to insurance?
A friend and I each have carried personal hospital policies for four years. A short time ago she had to go to the hospital for one week. When she returned home her policy was cancelled.

The agent said "All insurance is predicated upon the insured being originally insurable and staying insurable."

He also said "I get pretty tired of hearing 'one claim and they'll cancel your policy'."

Is my friend's experience common?
I have several questions for which I would like reliable answers, and I don't know where to find them.

Dear Worried—
You might consult the Better Business Bureau in your city as to the standing of your insurance company.

You also can find out more about the company through your hospital or your doctor.

It might pay you to read your contract carefully to make sure you understand the terms of your policy.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

A man doesn't take the time or trouble to stand up when a woman comes into his office.

He can get by with this in the business world, but he ought to know that women do appreciate the man who is never too busy to be hurried to treat women like women.

RUTH MILLET

He has almost reached retirement age and his idea of how to enjoy the years ahead is to buy a trailer and follow the sun. The only trouble is he hasn't been able to sell his wife on the idea of a home on wheels.

He writes: "The day is fast approaching when I should like to retire. That much is agreed upon by the lady of the house. My idea is to give trailer life a trial. Thousands of couples are choosing that carefree way of living, and I'd like to give it a month's trial before selling our home and pulling up roots, to make sure it is what we want. But I haven't been able to sell my wife on the idea. What do you think?"

That you will need to give trailer life more than a month's trial before you sell your home and pull up stakes. You might well enjoy it for a month — just as you would any vacation — and still it wouldn't be what you want for the rest of your life.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

If you have lived long in the town in which you now live, you have undoubtedly put down many roots. You are known there; you have friends; you feel a part of your community.

All that is pretty important — too important to toss overboard without making sure that you will really be happy calling a trailer "home."

The fact that your wife is against the idea is one big thing against its success.

Couldn't you get her to compromise on some plan whereby you would spend a few months out of each year as trailerites, and the

Don't get discouraged. It is never a simple matter for a couple to work out a retirement plan that gives both the kind of life they want. It usually has to be a compromise.

and ushers were Dr. William R. Lee of Los Angeles, son-in-law of the bridegroom; and Cpl. Larry F. Seery of San Antonio, son of the bride.

The chapel was decorated with floral standards of pink and white gladioli and snapdragons. Dr. E. G. Hoxie was organist; Miss Connie Seery, daughter of the bride, sang "At Dawning" and Mrs. William R. Lee, daughter of the bridegroom, sang "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Hoxie, Glendale, Calif. The serving table was covered with pink nylon cloth, centered with an arrangement of pink and white chrysanthemums. The two-tiered wedding cake was decorated in pink and white and was topped with wedding bells. Surrounding it were roses and greenery.

Assisting at the reception were Miss Mabel McGuire and Miss Annabelle Newfield, both of Glendale. Special music included "Because" by Victor Muth, "O My Papa" by Mrs. William R. Lee, and instrumental variations by Miss Connie Seery.

The couple took a wedding trip to Yosemite National Park and the Colorado Rockies, and are now at home at 912 E. Fisher.

Mrs. Lowe was employed for twelve years with the publishing department of the Seventh Day Adventist church, and Mr. Lowe is pastor of the Pampa SDA church, Texico conference.

THE OLD WAY—Model Eve Ormsby makes like an 1890 bathing beauty during a special fashion show of swim suits at Tamarack Lodge, Greenfield Park, N. Y. Perhaps Dorlene Carpenter left, and Diane Elrod were able to keep their composure on that diving board because they're undressed in modern style.

IT HAS EVERYTHING—No wonder Christine Eschook, left, and her sister Laura are surprised at this unusual wild rose plant clock in Allentown, N. J. It was imported from Germany by Max Hess, Jr., who will exhibit it in a collection of miniatures. Clock gives out a flower scent and its alarm is in the base.

ROOTS OF THE EVIL—Steel scaffolding has been erected around the ancient Colosseum in Rome in order to repair the crumbling walls. Workmen discovered that many stones had been loosened by grass and weeds growing in cracks. As the roots increased in size, so did the danger. Repair of the 170-foot-high structure is expected to take about a year.

WATER BABIES—These smiling faces betray no signs of the battle the youngsters have had with polio. The children are members of the Chicago Polio Swimming Club and are shown rehearsing for a water ballet staged by the club. The youngsters meet once a week for a swimming session which greatly helps strengthen their wasted muscles.

THEY BELONG TOGETHER—Of course, two-year-old Buddy Atwell isn't an actual part of the group, but those 10 collie pups are one family in Hyattsville, Md. There is really one more but it must have been hanging shyly back with its mama.

Eisenhower Favors Vote For Eighteen-Year-Olds

Editor's Note: President Eisenhower will vote on whether to give the right to vote to 18-year-olds. He made this clear in an interview with Joe B. Neely, Jr., Franklin, Ky., and Mary Lou Dibble, 18, Tipton, Mich., delegates to the 24th National 4-H Club camp here. The youngsters, who presented Mr. Eisenhower with a signed volume of "The 4-H Story," a special White House ceremony, tell about their experience in the following dispatch written by the United Press.

By Joe B. Neely and Mary Lou Dibble
 Washington, June 19 — UP — When the President of the United States asks you to do something, you give it some pretty serious thought.

At least that's the way we felt when he asked us, as delegates to the 24th National 4-H Club camp, to help him get the right to vote for 18-year-olds like us. (Congress recently turned down the proposal.)

It was one of the few times the President has ever made a policy statement to a youth organization when he told us he was very much interested in extending voting privileges to 18-year-olds, and that he wanted us to help him support it. We can't help but agree with the President, because a person should be able to vote for his rights and privileges if he has to fight for his country. The young people of today are far in advance of our forefathers 50 or 100 years ago in their basic knowledge of history and world affairs. Because of radio and television, the young people of today live in a much faster age. We are better informed on both national and international affairs as a result, and are therefore qualified to vote.

The President also said he thought the 4-H organization had a very fine attitude toward world relations and understandings, and

Will Rogers' 1935 Visit To Cowboy Reunion Recalled

STAMFORD (Special) — Many traditions enrich the 24-year-old history of the Texas Cowboy Reunion but none is more deeply cherished than the memory of the visit of the beloved Will Rogers to the rodeo in 1935.

Their son, Bill (now a movie star himself) and a former congressman had the measles and Mrs. Rogers was afraid that Will would catch the ailment, too, so she suggested that he leave. Rogers had heard of the Texas Cowboy Reunion — in fact, he knew it was then in progress and so he decided to attend.

From his Beverly Hills home, he phoned the Los Angeles airport and found there was a plane leaving for Texas in an hour and a half. It was an hour's drive to the field but Will packed in a matter of minutes and he climbed aboard at 7 p.m. With him was his portable typewriter and he wrote the long syndicated article that many newspapers published on Sunday.

Arrives Unexpectedly

It was 6:40 a.m. on July 3 that he landed in Abilene, went into town and ate a hearty breakfast at the Wooten Hotel, then hired a taxicab for Stamford, 38 miles away. The driver was Johnnie Schug and the car was brand new. As they passed through Abilene, Rogers remarked, "This is the place Larry Giffenden wrote the 'about' about." He was referring, of course, to "The Cowboy's Christmas Ball."

Nobody in Stamford knew he was coming as he hadn't known it himself till the night before. So, unannounced, he went to the box office, bought a bleachers ticket, seated himself and watched the activities in the rodeo arena.

Pretty soon, a spectator's eye alighted on the visitor and said "There's Will Rogers," and the word spread through the crowd. This was at the morning performance. At the afternoon show, W. G. Swenson, president of the Texas Cowboy Reunion, provided Will with "Tommy," a famed roping horse, and he acted as the pickup man.

"His roping was wonderful," Swenson declares. Rogers himself grinningly described his activities differently. "I was just messin' around, getting in everybody's way."

He greeted old-time cowboys, some of whom he had known in the days when he himself was a range rider. One friend on hand was the noted Texas Ranger captain, Tom Hickman. They had competed in the same rodeos before Will had become a star of stage, screen and radio.

The visitor shook lots of hands and signed many autographs for girls and boys, then said he had to leave and was driven to the Stamford airport where he boarded a plane for Fort Worth. Next day, the millions who read Will's daily syndicated newspaper feature were told of the visit.

Stamford, Texas, July 4 — Cowboy sports and contests are about the most popular thing there is, especially when they know what it's all about. I had often heard of the great time this little city holds each year; it's called a cowboy reunion and it's put on by real ranch hands.

"This is the heart of the old Texas ranch country. The outfits send in their chuckwagons and they have a great time. Lots of good horses and good ropers. Grass is high and cattle are a good price and everybody feeling fine. If Mr. Brisbane don't want to use his old slogan any more, I will take it. 'Don't sell America short.'"

And in his Sunday article soon after he said, "I went to a real cowboy reunion in Texas, not a professional rodeo like you see everywhere else but a real celebration in a real cowtown by real old-timers. I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

And that is the story of Will Rogers' visit, the most treasured tradition of the Texas Cowboy Reunion. Dates this year are July 1, 2, 3 and 5, with a big Western downtown parade at 5 p.m. on opening day and a rodeo every night besides a matinee on the final day. It's still the unique affair that won Will's heart — the contestants, genuine cowboys from the ranches; the old-timers, nearly 600 of them swapping stories, square dancing and some camping out; a feed for the public every day at the chuckwagon from famous ranches; dozens of pretty cowgirl sponsors in an exciting race; visitors from three-fourths of the states of the Union.

Auto Deaths Down In States Taking Part In Safety Plan

Figures from 24 states participating in the 1954 summertime highway safety campaign, "Slow Down and Live," show a reduction of 16 per cent in traffic deaths for the Memorial Day week end this year as compared with the same holiday last year. No deaths were reported in Gray county during this period.

Highway deaths in the region, which includes every state from Maine to Texas, totaled 165 this year on the basis of incomplete reports. Last year's figure was 196.

The reduction, according to J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety association, which is sponsoring the state program in cooperation with the Texas department of Public Safety, came in the face of a near-record death toll for the nation as a whole.

Musick, who is coordinating the project in Texas, also pointed out that this Memorial Day week end covered a full three days. Last year's was listed officially as a two-day holiday.

Pituitary Gland Removal Often Aids Cancer Victims

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19 — UP — Removal of the pituitary gland — a small oval located just beneath the brain — may offer important last ditch help to women with advanced breast cancer, scientists from New York's Sloan-Kettering Institute reported here Saturday.

The report was given before the American Endocrine Society by members of an institute research team including Drs. C. D. West, M. C. L. J. P. MacLean, J. E. Rall, B. S. May, C. G. Harrold and O. H. Pearson.

They said their investigation showed strong evidence that a pituitary hormone directly affects cancer growth in humans and that the removal of the gland may offer substantial benefit to advanced breast cancer sufferers for whom all other forms of treatment have been exhausted.

Reversed the Progress

These researchers were the first to remove the pituitary gland in patients in whom the ovaries and the adrenals had been removed previously.

Earlier experimental surgery showed that removal of the ovaries and adrenals — the body's sources of estrogen — temporarily reversed the progress of the disease.

Removal of the pituitary, they said, also shuts off sources of estrogen in the body, since pituitary hormones stimulate both ovaries and adrenals to function.

Any independent effect of pituitary hormones on cancer growth, therefore, can be evaluated only in women whose adrenals and ovaries have been removed.

The improvement observed (in patients) following the hypophysectomy (pituitary removal) cannot be attributed to the suppression of estrogen since all known sources

Cancer Ceased to Grow

Three months after removing the pituitary, the investigators told the delegates, they gave a patient pituitary growth hormone to determine whether it might be involved in the growth of breast cancer.

After 15 days the cancer began to grow once more. Upon withdrawal of the pituitary growth hormones, the cancer again ceased to grow.

The speakers gave great credit to Dr. Bron S. Ray of Cornell University Medical College for perfecting a procedure for complete removal of the pituitary gland which has made the once-difficult job comparatively safe and simple.

The team reported also that improvement was seen in one out of three patients with cancer of the prostate who were treated by this procedure.

U.S., Canada Rigs Down 41

DALLAS - A total of 3651 rigs was active in oilfields of the United States and Canada for the week of June 14, 1954, according to a report to American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Company.

This compares with 2892 reported a week ago, 2690 a month ago, and with 2822 in the comparable week of 1953.

A comparison by principal areas for the past two weeks shows:

Pacific Coast, 131, down 2; Oklahoma, 340, up 7; Kansas, 170, up 2; Rocky Mountains, 231, down 1; Canada, 113, down 13; Ark-La-Tex, 270, down 1; West Texas and New Mexico, 447, down 12; Gulf Coast, 551, down 32; Illinois, 135, down 9; North Texas, 343, up 13.

Late Thaw, Rains Cut Canada Drilling

TULSA, Okla. - Canada's late spring thaw combined with heavy rains have sharply cut drilling operations in what may be the world's biggest oil field - Pembina, located in the west-central section of the province of Alberta.

This was the report from Dr. Frank J. Gardner, exploration editor of The Oil and Gas Journal. Gardner, who is making a two-week tour of oil activities in Western Canada, describes conditions confronting Pembina operators in the current issue of the Journal.

The field, located 62 miles west-southwest of Edmonton, has been officially defined as covering 193 square miles. Fifteen completed wells are located in this area. However, many observers think the field is much larger and are sinking millions into ventures that may prove their logic.

Low Cost Housing Studies Are Being Quietly Shelved

WASHINGTON, June 19 - UP - The government has quietly halted its efforts to discover ways of building better homes at cheaper prices.

Virtually unnoticed amid the housing scandals and battle over public housing, the government's Division of Housing Research went out of business last month, the victim of congressional economy and opposition of private industry.

The research bureau began its operations in 1950. It was set up the previous year by Congress over the misgivings of industry leaders who feared it would turn into a propaganda mill for public housing.

Penalize the Builder

Some members of industry also thought the program would penalize the efficient builder and manufacturer by "finding" reasons for stringent and unnecessary restrictions.

Congress gave the research division $3 million to work with the first year, and $2.5 million to carry it through the next two years. But in 1952, it whacked it but $125,000 out of the division's budget and last year ordered it to wind up its affairs by this spring.

During these years, the agency launched 59 separate research projects, nearly all of them contracted out to universities and private research organizations.

More than 20 projects, however, are still in the mill but won't be published unless the parent Housing and Home Finance Agency can find the financial backing.

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

By FRANK JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD - (NEA) - Exclusively Yours: The smoke signals from Hollywood's Indian reservation are puffing out an O. K. on Burt Lancaster's "Apache" even if he is the only blue-eyed Indian in American and Technicolor history.

Handsome "Chief" Red Redwing, actor, trick shot and spokesman for the 33 Indian actors of the Screen Actors Guild, lit a cigarette on his gold-plated lighter and said Burt is the first paleface actor since Richard Dix to receive the tribal council's Good Indian seal of approval.

"Jeff Chandler on John Ford were fair," Redwing said, "but Burt's been our No. 1 boy ever since he played Jim Thorpe. He looks and acts like an Indian and I believe he thinks like an Indian."

The war drums are about to roll in anger, though, Rod says, over another forthcoming Hollywood movie, "Sitting Bull."

Winced Redwing: "Imagine, Irishman J. Carroll Nash, who made Luigi famous, playing Sitting Bull, filmed on location in Mexico with Mexican natives playing Indians. Why, they even had to teach them how to shoot with bows and arrows."

A Chickasaw, Redwing has been smothering in movies since 1930 and teaches fast gun draws to stars like Alan Ladd in "Shane." His "Chief" title was given him by pals.

He laughs: "Always too many chiefs and not enough Indians. Hollywood's the same way. Too many stars and not enough actors." His only complaint: "Hollywood prefers to dress up anybody as an Indian in preference to hiring a real Indian. Next thing you know Zsa Zsa Gabor will be playing Minnehaha!"

Ray Milland has hired a smart brain, Harry Tugend, to produce next fall's crop of "Meet Mr. McNutley's" telefilm series.

Indigestion note: Latest delicacy to be offered drive-in theater snack stands is a mixture of vegetables and shrimp wrapped in a noodle jacket. It's only a matter of time before you can eat a seven-course dinner and look at a movie at the same time.

Because of his impaired hearing, Johnnie Ray has to memorize everybody else's lines in Fox's "There's No Business Like Show Business."

Johnnie, emoting without his hearing aids, has the lips of Ethel Merman, Dan Dailey, Milti Gaynor, Donald O'Connor and other cast members to get the cues for his speeches.

Hollywood decided on a New Look for movie screens in its war with TV competition but now that box-office bells are ringing again there's new confusion - too many New Looks.

In an editorial titled "Print Happy," the Motion Picture Herald, a movie trade paper, points out that Hollywood movies are available in 14 different combinations of wide screen and sound systems, and yells, "That's enough!"

The combinations range from standard print with standard sound to VistaVision printed in Super-Scope with Perspecta sound.

But I bet the public's idea of the best combination is: Good story with well-buttered popcorn.

H-Bomb Takes Back Seat

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON - (NEA) - Bill Creasy is Uncle Sam's new agent in charge of custom-tailored killing.

With the means presently at his disposal, he could come closer to wiping civilization off the globe than anyone attempting the feat with all the hydrogen and atomic bombs in existence.

Maj. Gen. William Murfin Creasy, 40, constant pipe smoker, expert bridge player, average golfer and a bit of a philosopher, is the brand new chief of the Army's Chemical Corps.

In his bailiwick are such items of mass death as germ weapons reputedly capable of spreading lethal plagues over a whole continent. His biological warfare center is located at the super hush-hush Camp Detrick, near Frederick, Md.

The Chemical Corps has developed and refined an appalling array of deadly gases which are stored in various places around the country, including an arsenal near Denver, Colo., where nerve gas is kept.

Other items produced by the Corps for all the other services include napalm and the inflammable material used in flame throwers.

Among the most secret group of weapons in the Corps' arsenal are those which spread deadly radioactivity. Only rumors have been heard of such things as radioactive dust and sand, made from atomic wastes. But the whole array of Creasy's means of quick death is under constant test and evaluation at the Dugway Proving Ground in Utah.

Gen. Creasy's job is three-fold: He must constantly improve the efficiency of killing in the field or radiological, bacteriological and gas warfare; he must train U.S. troops to use such weapons if necessary, which means only in retaliation, according to American policy; and he must devise defenses against them.

The philosopher in Creasy shows when he discusses the versatile killing power he has at hand: "Actually, our weapons are the most humane there are. We can tailor them to the exact needs of the situation. We can kill the enemy or we can just make him sick and knock him out for a fixed period of time. And we don't destroy property."

Creasy's philosophy creeps up in many of his decisions, too. When he was boss of the Army's Chemical Center at Edgewood, Md., an argument developed between him and a scientist over the use of a chemical.

Creasy's professional reputation in chemistry is matched by a brilliant military record. During most of World War II he served simultaneously in the China, Burma, India theater as both a planning and supply man for "Vinegar Joe" Stillwell and Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten.

Creasy's duties involve more than working out new ways to kill the enemy. In developing defenses against chemical warfare, the Corps has made numerous contributions to medicine.

It developed a more efficient means of artificial respiration. Most of the insecticides now in use, including DDTs, are products of the Corps' laboratories.

In its work on nerve gases, it turned up substances helpful in arresting some types of cancer. Another product turned out to be an excellent remedy for the eye disease known as glaucoma. It opened up a new avenue of research on a possible cure for epilepsy.

Creasy Arsenal: Mass Death

Creasy isn't all philosopher. In making a deal for a new house in Washington he smooth-talked a real estate man into lopping off $2000 from the financing check and wound up the deal with the warning:

"And look, I don't sign the final papers until the day I move in. No sense to start paying interest on that money before I'm living in his house."

A native of Wilmington, N. C., Creasy still speaks with a Southern accent, but fast. He has gold blue eyes, an abundance of steel-gray hair. He stands and walks exactly the way generals should, and has a chest full of ribbons and awards for his services.

He was the logical man by temperament and experience to succeed Maj. Gen. E. F. Bullene, who recently retired as chief of the Corps.

After graduation from West Point in 1926, Creasy became an Army pilot and tried the artillery before making the Chemical Corps his career. He has an M.S. degree in Chemical engineering from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is a member of the National Research Council.

Creasy's professional reputation in chemistry is matched by a brilliant military record. During most of World War II he served simultaneously in the China, Burma, India theater as both a planning and supply man for "Vinegar Joe" Stillwell and Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten.

Mr. Paul Barrett, southwest of Pampa, has had his Quonset Building erected by Pampa Steel Building Company for less than a year and it is already paying itself out. Mr. Barrett said the building served a multiple service from machine to grain storage. He has found the building adaptable to all his farm needs. This is one of many satisfied customers who will meet who own quonsets erected by Pampa Steel Building Company. It all adds up to the fact that in building, it's experience that counts. And Pampa Steel Building Company has the greatest experience in the quonset building field in the Pampa area.

CLINT CAYLOR'S FARM — Here is Clinton L. Caylor's 200 acre farm two miles north of town. This year Caylor has 220 acres of Wichita wheat which he expects to yield 6 to 8 bushels per acre. The young farmer and his wife, Rosemary, are both graduates of Pampa High school. They have one son, John Paul, 5½ years.

Clinton L. Caylor's

Area Farm Of The Week

An optimistic young farmer, Clinton L. Caylor, is leading a double life — one as a farmer, the other as a cattle trucker. When he's not busy transporting cattle to market, Caylor tends his 200 acre farm two miles north of town where he is raising 220 acres of Wichita wheat.

Expects Poor Yield
"It's pretty spotty this year," he admits with a rueful grin. "Looks like it's all trying to lay down." In spite of his cautiousness, Caylor thinks he will get five or six bushels per acre off his fields, which he probably will harvest in July.

Last year Caylor plowed his wheat under, as did most area farmers. He has always had fairly good luck with maize and other feed crops.

"I've never tried cotton here," Caylor said reflectively. "Lots of people have, but it would be one year in 25 that you'd get a good crop. These wheat allotments just about cut my acreage in half this year," Caylor pointed out. "They offer bonuses for raising legumes on your unused land. I've got

Carson Wheat Growers To Meet
WHITE DEER — (Special) — A meeting of the Carson County Wheat Producers has been called for Tuesday, 8 p.m. in the High School auditorium.

Principal speaker will be Karl Boyd, Dumas. Purpose of the meeting is for a discussion of wheat problems, including local production. Grain dealers are urged to attend the meeting. LaVerne Edwards, chairman of Carson County wheat producers, said.

some winter peas I've had for three years, just waiting for some rain so I could plant them."

A member of the Gray County Soil Conservation District, Caylor has stubble mulched, contoured and terraced his northern acres for most of the 10 years he has been on his farm. This year he has only one milch cow and two horses, giving his 600 acres of pasture a rest. He is a member of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association, the organization which recently denounced beef subsidies.

Dislikes Subsidies
"I think they ought to either cut subsidies out of the agricultural plan or revise them completely. They're sure not doing the best job the way they are," Caylor said. "I voted for the wheat allotment program, but that isn't necessarily a vote for the wheat subsidy."

Caylor, his wife, Rosemary, and son, John Paul, are members of the First Methodist church. They rent their farm from M. A. Graham of Denton, Tex. The young couple has been married since 1944, two years after Mrs. Caylor finished Pampa high school. Caylor was graduated in 1943.

Satisfied with farm life, Caylor hopes his son will also decide to farm someday. Watching the blond youngster playing in the drive, he said simply, "It's the only life."

Swimming Tops In Rec Program
CANADIAN — Swimming classes are topping all other activities in the Canadian summer youth recreation program. Johnny Cardinal, program director, Saturday reported 150 youngsters had participated in swimming last week.

Biggest groups of swimmers were the beginners, with 42 boys and 42 girls in instruction groups. Twenty-seven junior girls and 34 junior boys turned out for swimming sessions. And there were 14 senior girls and three senior boys.

Arts and crafts pulled in 44 youngsters. Card and pool continued. Other activities in the program include tennis, softball, baseball, archery, washer-tossing and horseshoes.

Charles Rogers, local agriculture instructor, is attending the summer session at Texas Tech. Mrs. Rogers and Nancy are visiting her parents at Iran, Tex., while Mr. Rogers is in school.

Miss Kay Gill has accepted a position in the post office for the summer, replacing Mrs. Barbara Dodson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jackson left this week for a visit with relatives in Vandalia, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Craig shopped in Amarillo and Pampa Wednesday.

A group of Miami scouts and scoutmaster Leroy Grantham spent last week at Camp Ki-O-Wah. Thursday evening Messrs. and Mrs. Roy Nott, Joe Cunningham, R. E. Thompson, J. W. Thompson, Hershel Gill, Claude Seitz, Kent Phillips, Grady Bailey, Horace Smith, Leroy Grantham and Mrs. Jewel Rogers observed visitors night by paying the campers a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bill Caldwell and son of Dallas were recent visitors in the Earl Breeding home.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Graf and children of Houston are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Crockett.

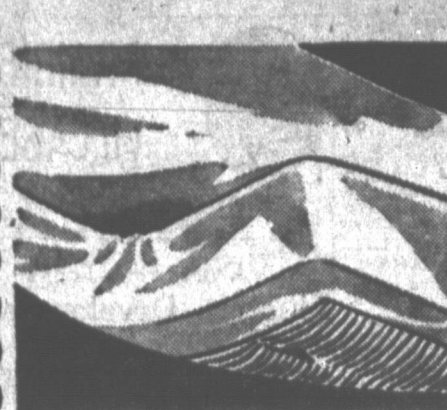

Mrs. Randall Gill and Miss Janita Haynes left to attend the wedding of Miss Jan Davis and Mr. David Stewart at Boulder, Colo., June 18. Miss Haynes was to be the organist for the wedding. Rev. J. V. Patterson, pastor of the Miami Methodist Church, Misses Ann O'Loughlin, Myrna Montgomery and Myles Mathers are attending the Methodist Youth Assembly at the Northwest Texas Conference being held this week at McMurry College in Abilene.

Wheeler Votes For Paving Law

WHEELER — Wheeler residents have voted overwhelmingly for the Texas paving law. The vote was 101-4 in a special city election last week, according to O. Trayler, election judge. Acceptance of the state law means the Wheeler City Council can institute plans for a paving program which will be presented to resident property-owners in the near future.
