Criminal Career Of Financier Revealed After 25 Years

Grand Larceny Conviction Is Made Public

F. Donald Coster Now Faces Indictment; Other Probes Into Company Are Made

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—F. Donald Coster, indicted president of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., was identified late today as Philip Musica, a man who concealed a grand larceny conviction of nearly a quarter century ago to take a commanding place as head of the $87,000,000 drug corporation now under federal and state investigation.

Four separate inquiries into the apparent overstatement of $18,000,000 in McKesson and Robbins assets are underway.

Helped Build Fortune

Coster, who helped build up the vast concern from its humble beginning as a small hair tonic firm, was identified by police finger prints. The records showed, said Inspector Joseph Donovan, that as Musica he was convicted and given a suspended sentence for grand larceny in the collapse 25 years ago of the million-dollar United States Hairdressing company.

Again as Musica, he was sentenced in 1906 to one year in jail and fined $5,000 in connection with a federal grand larceny case, and in 1920 charged with perjury, the inspector added.

Investigation Started

This disclosure of Coster's identity came shortly after Assistant U. S. Attorney General Brien McMahon announced in Washington that the justice department was investigating leads indicating that Coster "had engaged in shipping arm and munitions to belligerent countries in cases labeled 'milk of magnesia'."

During the day, Coster, George Dietrich, assistant vice-president of McKesson and Robbins, and George Vernard, agent in charge of the firm's market operations, were indicted on charges of conspiracy and filing false statements with the New York stock exchange in connection with McKesson and Robbins securities sold to the public.

This development, which acting U. S. Attorney Gregory Noonan remarked "just scratches the surface," was followed in its turn by new accusations by the securities and exchange commission of chicanery in the conduct of the corporation's bus-

Staccato Sentences Peppered With Slang And Hints Of Scandal Hurled By Snyder As He Pleads Self Defense

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—In staccato sentences peppered with slang and hints of scandal, "Colonel" Martin Snyder today testified on how and why he shot and slightly wounded Myrl Alderman, 30, pianist and former accompanist of Snyder's divorced wife, radio singer Ruth Etting.

The shooting occurred in Alderman's home the night of Oct. 15. Also present were Miss Etting and Snyder's daughter by a previous marriage, Edith Snyder, 21, who is Miss Etting's secretary.

The bushy-browed Snyder, Miss Etting's manager and husband for 17 years, declared he fired only because he believed Alderman was about to try to kill him. Snyder said he had no intention of killing Alderman and merely fired "in his direction," because Alderman had produced a pistol from his pocket while sitting on a piano bench.

Denying prosecution testimony, the 44-year-old "colonel" asserted he never had threatened to "put a bullet through" Miss Etting's and Alderman's heads.

He said he was drunk when he told Miss Etting by telephone from New York last January he would come to California and kill her and himself.

"Did you ever at any time, drunk or sober, have any intent to kill Miss Etting?" asked Defense Counsel Jerry Giesler.

"Never. Not at no time."

"Or Mr. Alderman?"

"Never."

"Or your daughter?"

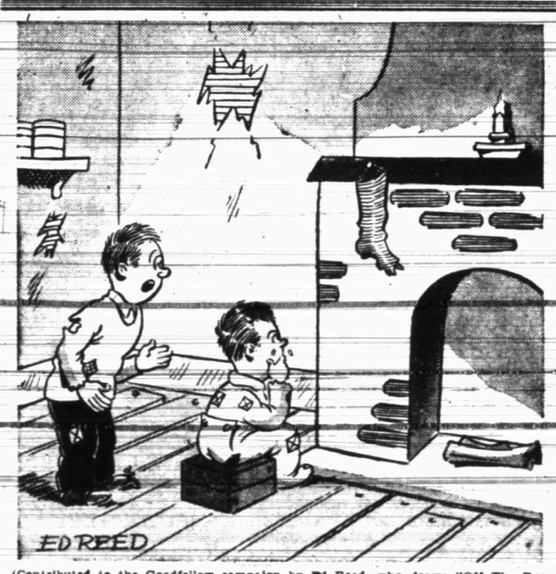

"That's ridiculous."

Snyder is accused of attempting to murder Miss Etting and his daughter as well as Alderman. Miss Snyder testified she shot at her father after he shot Alderman and after he struggled with Miss Etting for possession of the singer's own pistol.

Snyder also denied he kidnaped Alderman, as charged, at a Hollywood radio studio and forc-

Theater Benefits Today Are Expected To Give Impetus To Drive By Goodfellows

THE ALL-DAY benefit at the Cactus theater and toy matinees at Broadway and Lyric theaters this afternoon are today's big events in behalf of the Goodfellows' drive.

Unless all the signs are wrong, the biggest single contribution to the fund of the entire drive may come from the Cactus, 1814 Avenue H.

The indications are that it will be needed, if the drive is to produce the $1,500 the Goodfellows must have if they are to do the work they plan—that of making certain that the poor children of Lubbock will share in the joys of Christmas.

Every penny taken in at the Cactus this afternoon and tonight is to be contributed to the fund by Manager M. A. (Tate) Sanders.

Not only that, but Columbia Pictures is sending, at its own expense, the feature film for this special occasion. It is a comedy, "Come Closer, Folks," starring James Dunn.

Two Inquisitive Mice Are No Longer In Land Of Living After Foray With Matches

FLORENCE, N. J., Dec. 15. (AP)—Two inquisitive mice chewed a box of matches at William Brining's home today with dire results.

The matches fired Brining's hunting coat. The flames set off a box of shotgun shells in a pocket and the pellets scattered through the house.

Brining and his family jumped from bed.

On the floor below the burning coat they found the riddled bodies of the mice.

Defeat Looms For O'Daniel

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Dec. 15—Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel, in the north and east seeking new business for Texas, holds "in one hand an invitation . . . and in the other a whip" over present and prospective industries in the Lone Star state, Clint C. Small, dean of the Texas senate, said here tonight.

Senator Small foresees trouble ahead for O'Daniel's plan to industrialize Texas when coupled with the "politically strong" O'Daniel pension plan.

"How can he expect to attract new industries to Texas when he has outlined the program he has?" the Panhandle senator said, referring to the high cost of the pension plan.

No High Taxes Wanted

"He holds in one hand an invitation to industries to come to Texas, and in the other he holds over them a whip in the form of increased taxes. Business doesn't want high taxes; it wants to be left alone."

Senator Small predicted that most of O'Daniel's measures would face strong opposition in the legislature, and both he and Rep. G. H. "Jack" Little, also of Amarillo, predicted the coming session of legislature will go on record more forcibly for what it does not accomplish rather than for the measures it passes.

C. E. MAEDGEN, president of Lubbock National bank, Thursday accepted appointment as Lubbock county chairman in the "fight infantile paralysis" campaign.

Announcement of the appointment and acceptance was issued by Keith Morgan of New York City, national chairman of the committee for the celebration of the president's birthday.

Held On F. D. R.'s Birthday

Each year since 1934 balls have been sponsored by local and county units on President Roosevelt's birthday, Jan. 30.

Money raised through that method and by direct donations to the president go to the Warm Springs, Ga., foundation and for local fights against infantile paralysis.

Maedgen was out of the city Thursday night and his plans for the campaign were not immediately learned.

Wallace Fears Crop Control Is Permanent

Loss Of Foreign Markets And Decline In Domestic Needs After 1950 Now Forecast

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace declared today that a partial loss of foreign markets and prospects for a declining domestic demand for farm products after 1950 made governmental crop control a "more or less" permanent necessity.

In his annual report to President Roosevelt, Wallace said the nation's agricultural industry had reached a productive capacity considerably in excess of present markets and possibly equal to any future needs.

Face Permanent Problem

"It is evident by this time," he asserted, "that we face a more or less permanent problem in agricultural adjustment, the sources of which lie deep in changed domestic and foreign conditions."

These conditions were described as attempts of European nations to become agriculturally self-sufficient, technological advances and a decline in this country's rate of population growth.

The secretary's report came in the wake of repeated assertions by some members of congress that they intend to ask the new congress to repeal existing crop control legislation and substitute policies which would permit unlimited production.

Looking To Future

Looking to the future, Wallace predicted that the crest of the nation's population—which he placed at 10,000,000 in excess of present figures—may be reached by 1950 or 1960.

"Only a small increase in our harvested acreage will be necessary to provide for the probable future increase in population, even if the demand for exports remains undiminished."

Asserting that governmental action to adjust production was necessary, he told the president no one who understood recent historical and economic developments could propose a "mere let-alone policy."

"The debate narrows down," he declared, "to what the government should do."

He said there were only three principal ways of dealing with the problem of surpluses:

1. Stop production of excessive

Stern Warning From Federal Judge Given

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Dec. 15— Federal officers and city and state officers working on federal cases were warned today by Federal Judge William H. Atwell not to overstep their authority in denying prisoners constitutional rights and in meddling with powers delegated to the federal courts.

"I think of all our people the law enforcement officers should be most careful to observe the law," Judge Atwell said as he discussed the manner in which federal narcotic officers handled members of an alleged dope ring the past week end.

Held Incommunicado

"In the night time during the past week some 80 people were arrested or caused to be arrested by officers and held incommunicado and not permitted to talk to either relatives or attorneys or make bond," he said. "They were held in jail in that unspeakable manner until the next Monday morning.

"In these cases the United States marshal's office did not even know about the warrants, nor who had been arrested under them.

"It seems that they were gotten by narcotic officers, determined to ignore the constitutional guarantees of the unfortunates they were to net.

No Denial Of Rights

"One of the first things a law enforcement officer learns, and one of the things that every citizen knows, is that there must be no denial of a constitutional right, even if the citizen is subject to punishment.

"We do not determine punishment in this country by executive officer. That matter is determined in court by a jury, where a man is heard and represented by counsel."

C Of C Head Springs Wit In Address Leveled At Congress

CHICAGO, Dec. 15 (AP)—President George H. Davis of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States saluted an address on "Congress and Business" tonight with this passage:

"It reminds me of the old 'melodramer' after tying Nellie, the beautiful cloak model, to the railroad track, her life was saved by a hair's breadth, and then after tying her on the saw mill carriage, from which she had a miraculous escape, the villain cornered the maiden and exclaimed: 'Nellie, why do you fear me so?'"

Special Train For Masonic Boosters Arrives At 12:30

Kills Father

Frightened and dazed, 14-year-old Bobbie Russell sits in the Marion, Ark., jail, awaiting a hearing for the shotgun slaying of his father, W. L. Russell, 50, a cotton picker, Bobbie said his father had been whipping him and his brother and "I just got tired of it."

EYES of Texas football fans this morning are glued upon Lubbock.

The blasting kickoff whistle at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Tech stadium will symbolize meeting of two great gold teams, one of which will go into the state schoolboy finals of the football handicap.

Special Arrives At 12:30

Arrival at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon of a gala special filled with rooters of Fort Worth, Dallas, Arlington and other North Texas cities means rousing support of the dynamic little footballers from Masonic Home, Lubbock foemen for the day, is not restricted in any sense of the word to the 140,000 members of Texas Masonic lodges.

Joining of the special by Lubbock Masons and others at Slaton at noon may not be indicative of meeting visitors "half way," but conveys in a measure appreciation at having the fans as guests of the city.

To Drive To Slaton

Representatives of the Shrine, blue lodge, chapter and council will drive to Slaton in automobiles of L. D. Thomas and Ed D. Allen. Shriners will not wear fezes. The chamber of commerce also will send an automobile. Representatives will board the special and accompany visitors to Santa Fe depot, where at 12:30 o'clock a large crowd is expected to crowd the platform with the Westerner band to give greetings.

A parade will form on Main street, wind down that artery to Texas, thence over to Broadway and down Broadway to Lubbock hotel, where the Masonic Home footballers and Coach Rusty Russell are quartered. There will be a motorcycle escort.

Music To Be Provided

In the assemblage coming by specials sponsored by Moslah Shrine of Fort Worth and the Fort Worth chamber of commerce will be the crack ROTC band and the Moslah drum and bugle corps, as well as the Masonic Home's Fort Worth pep squad leaders and cheering units from various other Fort Worth schools.

At 1:45 o'clock, Lubbock automobiles tagged with "Courtesy Car" stickers are asked to cruise slowly around Lubbock hotel and transport guests to the stadium for the game. After the game they are asked to bring visitors back to the hotel.

Just Sound Off And You Likely Will Be Called

By LOIS MARIE DANIEL

"Put up or shut up!"

The quiet preceding the shelling on the Lubbock salient of the Texas grid front is serious enough—since there's a potential state schoolboy championship at stake this afternoon—but there are relieving grins.

Serious, not-so-serious and indifferent betting reports have sprung up all around.

They Bet Most Anything

And, apparently, there's an equal number affecting the Texas Technological college-St. Mary's Cotton Bowl setto Jan. 2 in Dallas.

They're betting a coffee a point, drinks, dinners and, of all things, dates!

One Tech girl may buy coffee for a boy as many mornings as there are points in Lubbock's margin over Masonic Home (she hopes there will be a Lubbock margin).

A girl who believes in the Masons has staked a soft drink on every point Masonic Home (she hopes) piles up over the total Westerner score.

She Believes In Lubbock

Betty Hanks, freshman from Abilene, and Granville Johnson of Lubbock agreed stakes would be dinner in a hotel here. She took Lubbock and gave six points.

Students are not the only ones toying with change. Professors have fallen for the spirit of the odds giving and taking.

Treasury Debt Soars Higher

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. — The treasury's debt soared to a new high of $39,400,000,000 today. This occurred when investors paid for $730,000,000 of new bonds and notes sold by the government.

Meantime another war debt payment day rolled around, and nothing was received except from Finland, which remitted its $232,935 installment in full, as usual.

Makes Partial Payment

Hungary made a small partial payment on its post-war debt, with a reminder that it is still awaiting consideration of its offer of Feb. 7 to make a debt readjustment.

The total amount of debts falling due today from 13 nations was $160,217,334. Previously due, unpaid debts total $1,891,489,906.

An esco of the recent German-Czechoslovakia crisis reached here when the Czech government pleaded "recent heavy territorial losses" as the reason for its inability to reopen discussion of its debt to this country.

Czechoslovakia now is in default on $19,681,026.41 of loans made to that government after its establishment in 1918.

Cotton Acreage Forecast Given

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—Secretary Wallace estimated the new year's cotton allotment today at 27,500,000 acres.

His annual report thus contained a flat rejection to the demand of some cotton belt congressmen that surplus removal be undertaken through drastic reduction of acreage permitted under the 1939 control program.

About Same As 1938

This acreage allotment was approximately the same as that planted to cotton during the 1938 season.

Wallace's report said the current season's cotton marketing would return a smaller total income to growers than in recent years.

The domestic production of 12,212,000 bales, he said, was far lower than the 1937 output but was large enough to hike the total world supply of American cotton to 25,700,000 bales.

Profit-Sharing Plan Drafted

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Members of the senate profit-sharing committee undertook a double-barrelled attack on the nation's unemployment problem today.

At their direction, committee attaches began drafting a formula of profit-sharing designed to stabilize employment and guarantee old-age retirement funds for workers.

Should Be Encouraged

At the same time, Senator Vandenberg (R- Mich), a committee member, disclosed he would try to substitute incentive taxation for government spending intended to "prime the business pump." His idea was that business itself should be encouraged to expand its plants, and thus increase employment by granting tax deductions to firms which do so.

The committee's profit-sharing formula, as outlined by Donald Despain, committee counsel, will propose joint contributions by employes and employers to an irrevocable

Radio Room Hero Of Disaster At Sea Sentenced To Prison

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 15. (AP)—George W. Rogers, radio room hero of the Morro Castle disaster, was sentenced to from 12 to 20 years in prison today on a conviction of trying to kill his superior in the Bayonne police department with a home made bomb.

The sentence was imposed by Common Pleas Judge Thomas H. Brown, who presided over the jury-less trial.

Rogers, 41, who stuck to his post as chief radio operator when the Morro Castle burned off the New Jersey coast in 1934, was convicted of assault with intent to kill Lieutenant Vincent J. Doyle in what the state charged was a plot to get Doyle's job.

Three fingers were blown off Doyle's left hand and his left leg was broken when a "fish tank heater" bearing a typewritten note asking him to repair it blew up in his hand in the radio room at Bayonne police headquarters last March 4.

Judge Speaker To Kiwanians

Functions of constitutional government in the United States and the constitution as the bulwark of civil liberties, were presented in a forceful manner yesterday noon at the Kiwanis club luncheon in the Lubbock hoted by T. Whitfield Davidson, U. S. district judge and former lieutenant governor of Texas. His address was applauded for a minute or more by the audience of business and professional men who heard him.

Dr. O. W. English, outgoing president, announced E. L. Klett would preside as chairman of the day. Before the meeting the Kiwanis Hill Billy band, with Leo Waite as director, gave a short program. A. B. Davis of the chamber of commerce introduced Thomas Boles, superintendent of the Carlsbad National park.

Guests Are Present

Guests of Kiwanian Klett included, George W. Parker, federal district court clerk; Matt McKelvey, Wichita Falls, deputy U. S. marshal and court bailiff; W. P. Walker, Joe H. Jones and W. P. Fonville, assistant U. S. district attorneys and Clyde O. Eastus, district attorney.

"These United States existed 11 years without a president, they existed 11 years without a supreme court and they existed 11 years without a United States senate," Judge Davidson said. Washington's part in writing to friends urging them to save the newly liberated colonies from chaos was praised. "The services he rendered in creating a real government, in drafting and adopting a constitution was greater than that which he had rendered which culminated at Yorktown," he added.

First Proclamation

Washington issued the first proclamation of Thanksgiving, when the United States was formed and he became its president.

The colonies which later formed the 13 original states "were ready to go to war with each other," Judge Davidson pointed out. There was a distrust of the others they had had its origin when the colonies were founded by different religious groups from the old country. "A light shown when a nation came into existence," he said. The distrusts of Puritans, Catholics, Hugenots, Baptists, Church of England and other groups was explained.

Referring to the fact that frequently the United States supreme court held unconstitutional acts of congress, "the Constitution created the supreme court," he pointed out, adding that document gave each American "freedom of action and freedom of speech."

Rights Are Violated

"In Europe today there are millions of people whose property is being taken from them without due process of law," he reminded his hearers. "Human rights and property rights are inseparable."

After quoting statements which he had recently heard about the constitution and its so-called antiquity, he added "there are missionaries in this country seeking to implant ideas here that did not come to us through the constitution."

District Attorney Eastus, called on for a few remarks, urged the audience to reread the constitution. H. N. (Rusty) Russell, Masonic home football coach, told the audience "we don't know whether we will get our pants kicked off Friday or not," but added "we may not like it, but we can take it."

City Commission Permission For Rifle Range Obtained

Permission of the city commission has been secured for the construction of a rifle range approximately one mile north of the city court house. This site has been endorsed by numerous letters from those interested in the range. Caliche walls, perhaps 20 feet high, would protect passersby from stray bullets.

All interested in the project will meet at 3 o'clock the afternoon of Dec. 18 at the American Legion hall to organize.

There is hope the construction may be made into a W. P. A. project.

Stunningest Thing About Some Autos Will Be The Tags

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—These United States are jazzing up their auto license tags with bright paints, slogans, dingbats and advertising.

The result for 1939, says the American Automobile association, will be the gaudiest display ever seen on American highways.

Thirty-one states have new colors, the association says; 16 and the District of Columbia are reversing the numeral and background colors of 1938. Connecticut has a permanent tag.

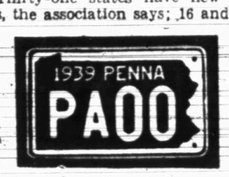

The favorite combinations are their 1939 world's fairs. Maine plugs "Vacationland." Other states use drawings to call attention to themselves.

Michigan is getting a good run in colors next year by issuing two plates. A black-on-buff tag is good for the full year; a white-on-blue one is good for only six months.

West Virginia will be the last to issue 1939 tags. Hers will appear at the end of the fiscal year, in June.

As The Youngster Votes, So Votes Father, Survey Shows

DENVER, Dec. 15. (AP)—Discovery that high school students vote just about as their parents do may result in a new method of forecasting elections in Denver.

Before the November election straw votes were taken in high schools for experimental purposes and an analysis of the results, compared with those in the election, showed with few exceptions they were the same.

The notable exception was one candidate who had a son in high school and all his classmates were prejudiced in his favor. Their parents were not.

Texas state police recently saw a demonstration of a new machine gun that is mounted on the handlebars of a motorcycle and can be aimed and fired without the operator removing his hands from the motorcycle handgrips.

Secretary Of Commerce Daniel C. Roper Resigns Post In FDR's Cabinet

Harry Hopkins May Get Job

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—Daniel Calhoun Roper, secretary of commerce, resigned suddenly today and word circulated that Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, was in line to get the cabinet post.

Roper asked to be relieved for "personal reasons" and reiterated his devotion to the "objectives" of the administration. Those close to him asserted, however, that his determination to resign was hastened by attack from some New Dealers who disliked his conservatism.

Had A Tough Job

His role in the administration was the task of trying to conciliate business men, many of whom were bitterly opposed to Roosevelt policies. He organized 50 industrial and financial leaders into a business advisory council which supplied the president with confidential reports of business' attitude toward New Deal measures and tried to minimize the public antagonism of their colleagues toward the administration.

Coupled with the recent resignation of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, Mr. Roper's departure may cause an important change in the temperament of the new cabinet, especially if Hopkins, crusading member of the administration's left wing, gets the commerce post.

To Build Him Up

One prominent Democratic senator, who declined to be quoted by name, predicted Hopkins would be appointed to the vacancy to "build him up" for the presidential nomination in 1940.

This senator, often a critic of administration policies, said he was convinced that the president believed Hopkins more nearly represented his views than any other nationally prominent Democrat.

The senator said that if Hopkins were placed in the cabinet and given a chance to demonstrate that he could work in co-operation with business men, his political stature might be enhanced.

Will Stay In Harness

Possibility of one other cabinet change faded today when Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes announced he would not run for mayor of Chicago, but at the request of Mr. Roosevelt, would "help continue the New Deal by staying in harness."

Although occasional resignation rumors have touched every member of the cabinet, chief speculation now shifted to the war department. There have long been reports that Secretary Harry H. Woodring would step out.

Roper saw his department systematically stripped of its most prominent activities until now it is little more than a huge statistical agency centering around the census bureau, although it has some steamship inspection and fish law supervision.

Since 1933, congress has set up the maritime commission to take over the department's former administration of the government-owned merchant marine fleet and switched the air commerce bureau to the new civil aeronautics authority.

Unluckiest Girl In Movies Now Smiles With Success

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15.—The unluckiest girl in Talkietown finally has had a break. Luana Walters has had more apparent opportunities that turned out to be floppets than almost anyone in pictures. But she now has a role as a cigaret girl, companion to Shirley Ross, in "Cafe Society," and it can't be cut without remaking the picture.

It all started back in 1930 while she was visiting a friend on the United Artists lot. The elder Douglas Fairbanks was enthusiastic over her screen possibilities and arranged for a test. But three days later Fairbanks hopped off to Europe, and nothing more was done about it.

Joe Looked And Forgot

Not long after, Joe Schenck saw Miss Walters on the dance floor at the Cocoanut Grove. He too was impressed, so after looking at the test she had made for Fairbanks, he gave her a contract with United Artists. But the studio didn't make a single picture during the next six months, so her option wasn't taken up.

"Then what appeared to be my big chance came along," Miss Walters reminisced as she munched a mushroom. "Mr. Fairbanks came back from Europe and made 'Reaching for the Moon.' I got the role of a girl who was no better than she should be, and even got screen credit in the finished picture. My Aunt Beulah flew all the way from Baltimore to New York to see the opening. But she didn't see me. The whole sequence had been cut out; it just wasn't necessary to the picture.

Much Too Much Umph

"You won't believe it, but I lost a good part in 'Seed' by being too—ah—voluptuous. I had an important role, but after the first day's rushes were shown, it was decided the contrast made Genevieve Tobin look like a maiden aunt when she was supposed to be very sexy. Bette Davis got my role, and it was a good boost for her."

That was only the beginning. It looked as if she couldn't miss when she was cast as the sweetheart of Larry Adler, the harmonica player in "Singing Marine." Dick Powell, Allen Jenkins and other marines had girls who accompanied them all through the picture. But it was just Miss Walters' luck to be Adler's girl, and when they decided he wasn't an actor, his sequences were cut, and hers went too.

When "Spawn of the North" first was cast, Carole Lombard had the leading role and Miss Walters was to play the Indian girl. But the picture was postponed a year and then recast without her.

In "Souls at Sea," she was Bob Cummings' sweetheart, a substantial part in the original script, but only two brief flashes in the finished film. Similarly, in "Buccaneer," she played a Creole girl, but the whole sequence in which she appeared was dropped in the cutting room.

It was one of her smallest roles that won her a Paramount contract and her present part in "Cafe Society." This bit was in "Paris Honeymoon," in which she appeared in only one scene. But Adolph Zukor saw and signed her.

Between being cut out of major pictures, Miss Walters resorted to westerns and independent quickies to keep the wolf at a distance. There were 15 of these and one of them, "South of Sonora," is typical. she played the lead opposite Tom Keen, and her entire role was completed in one day's shooting.

Another bit of quick experience came in "Shadows of Chinatown," a Bela Lugosi chillerthriller serial. She worked steadily in that for 21 days, and at the end of that time the whole 15 episodes had been finished. "Working in independents is like trouping with a stock company," Miss Walters said. "They're good training. You have to learn the whole script at once because you can't tell what scene they'll shoot next. But occasionally you do have unfortunate experiences."

Recently she worked in a flicker she hopes nobody will see. Not many will, either, for it has been banned by the Hays Office. That was "Assassin of Youth," a story of marijuana smoking. When the picture was released, Miss Walters discovered that she appeared to have acted in several semi-nude scenes. "I didn't, really," she said blushingly. "The scenes were done by a double."

Molly O'Daniel Better Hurry On Back Home And She Can See Some Fancy Weather

FORT WORTH, Dec. 13 (AP)—Molly O'Daniel, who says she has never seen snow or natural ice, had better hurry on back to Texas.

The governor-elect's daughter, who told Detroit newspapermen she was thrilled at the sight of ice and snow yesterday, could catch some fancy weather pranks back in her own state.

Snow blanketed parts of West Texas and right here in her home town it was 27 degrees—five below freezing, today!

Down in sunny San Antonio—where the sunshine spends the winter—natural ice had formed early today.

Man Who Discovered The First Pink Boll Worm In Nation Is Resident Of Lubbock

Ivan Shiller, the man who discovered the first pink bollworm in the United States, is a Lubbock resident.

He has been here since September working out of the Lubbock office of the United States department of agriculture. He offices with H. B. Prickett, of the U. S. department of agriculture of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine in the federal building.

The first pink bollworm in the United States, Shiller said, was found at Hearne, Tex., more than 21 years ago, specifically, Sept. 6, 1917.

Shiller began working for the department of agriculture that year and has worked with the department at intervals since then.

"The worm is of Indian or Egyptian origin, more probably Indian," he said. "In 1913 or 1914 it was taken to Old Mexico in shipping of seed there.

"The worms came to Texas in 1916 when 90 carloads of seed were imported from Mexico and distributed throughout Hearne, Dallas, Austin, San Antonio, Paris, towns in the neighborhood of Waco, and other Texas territories.

Found In Other Areas

"Soon after they were found at Hearne, they were found in Trinity Bay section, including Chambers, Liberty, Harris, and Galveston counties."

The pink bollworm has become prevalent in the lower Rio Grande valley, near El Paso, in the vicinity of Presidio, the Salt river and Gila river valleys, and parts of Arizona, and Florida.

"The methods generally used by the department, especially in sections of Texas where the worms are most damaging, are to sterilize seeds," he said. "All cotton mills sterilize the seed and gins, in many sections also sterilize it.

"On the Plains the worms are not numerous enough to cause great damage and gins of this area do not always sterilize seed.

"The probable reason for the scarcity of the pink bollworm on the Plains is the climate. This climate is hard on them.'

"In the Presidio area the cotton stalks are cut down immediately after harvest in order to keep the worm damage to a minimum."

GULF STREAM WARMER

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Tropical currents that flow into the North Atlantic are retaining their warmth for greater distances than in the past, says Dr. Bjorn Helland-Hansen, Norweigan oceanographer here for a series of lectures. He says the climate of Spitzbergen has risen ten degrees in 50 years as a result.

THE SNOW SCENE

TRAVELERS on Broadway have been interested this week in a huge, snow scene just east of the Daniel studio. The view is of two small boys with sled who are slowly tugging their way up a snowy hillside in fast gathering dusk. The picture is so life-like that several children who stopped to admire it appeared to us to be a part of the scene.

The Daniels term the interesting scene their "Christmas card." Instead of sending out personal greetings, they decided to have something that the entire public would enjoy. The many compliments they receive hourly testifies to their happy choice.

CONCERNING RECIPES

CONCERNING our recent recipes: The cranberry punch was made for a Christmas tea and pronounced "simply grand"; the unbaked chocolate cookies were termed "grand tasting and more like candy than cookies" but a reader who made the sour cream fudge was disappointed because it tasted "sugary." If anyone else made it and found it went to sugar won't she let us know? We'd like to profit by your trial and error methods in the kitchen.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it better to send friends who are ill or in mourning a special note at Christmas time, than an engraved card such as you are sending to many others?
2. If you are sending a Christmas card to a good friend and wish to include other members of his family, would it be better to include all names on the envelope or to write something like "Will you give my best holiday wishes to your mother and father?"
3. If you are sending a card to a business acquaintance whom your wife (or husband) does not know, should you include her name?
4. Is it better form to remove tissue paper from engraved cards?
5. Would it be all right for a person in mourning to send out Christmas greetings to intimate friends?

What would you do—

About signing your names if you are a married couple sending out Christmas cards and writing on each one by hand? Write—

(a) "Frank and Ann"?
(b) "Ann and Frank"?
(c) Name last of whichever writes the card?

ANSWERS

1. Yes.
2. The latter.
3. No.
4. Yes, unless the ink smudges.
5. Yes indeed, if he feels like it.

Above the mantel was a lighted red cross, and lights above the mantel were decorated with pine burrs and spruce. Also in the room was a poinsettia, a gift from Mrs. Tyner to the Brown family, and an arrangement of greenery and fern.

Mother Gives 18 Pieces Of Her Skin To Be Grafted On The Body Of Her Child

BROCKTON, Mass., Dec. 15. (AP)—Doctors pronounced successful today an operation in which Mrs. Vera Stankus, 26, gave 18 pieces of skin from her thigh for grafting on the abdomen and legs of her five-year-old daughter Lorraine.

Lorraine's mind was on Christmas and her return to play with other girls, a pleasure denied her since lighted matches ignited her clothing and she suffered third degree burns last September 10.

"For Christmas I want some overshoes and an umbrella," she said. "Santa brought new skin and I know he'll bring those, to make me think I will play again like other girls."

Doctors said she probably would remain in the hospital two more months.

Neither Mrs. Stankus nor Lorraine received anesthetics for the operation.

Once Lorraine asked, "are they hurting you, mummy?"

Mrs. Stankus forced a smile and replied, "not hurting a bit."

An hour after the surgery the mother went home, to care for Lorraine's nine-month old sister and a six-year-old brother.

Valleys As Warm As The Tropics Being Found In Frozen Wastes Of Canada

By SAM JACKSON
AP Feature Service Writer

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 15—Strange tales of a tropical valley amid the frozen wastes of the Northland have been largely confirmed by the Provincial Bureau of Information.

Reports show that there is not one but several warm valleys near the British Columbia-Yukon boundary; that they are larger than had been supposed, and that while they are not overgrown with palms and banana trees such flora might well flourish there if they were introduced.

The Bureau does not vouch for the valleys officially, but has made its source material open to inquirers.

First Settlers Gone

The first recorded white dwellers there were a trapper, Tom Smith, and his daughter Jane. T. V. Sandys Wunch, of the Northwest Mounted police, records that the couple lived through two winters in a valley near the confluence of the Liard and Beaver rivers.

The father was drowned in a boat trip in 1924, but Jane reached Fort Liard and worked as a housekeeper for the Hudson Bay factor until her death ten years later. She said that in the valley within seven degrees of the Arctic Circle water never froze.

Note In A Bottle

Frank Perry, a prospector, reported there was a seam of coal 800 feet wide in the valley and he interested Detroit capital in sending an airplane reconnaissance expedition to the region.

The pilot, Lt. Col. J. Scott Williams, set his craft down on a lake and his party discovered a marked tree and a note in a bottle left by Tom Smith. It directed the finder to the valley and to a cache of potatoes and onions.

The party reached the valley and Williams reported:

"The atmosphere became more torrid and languorous as we advanced. . . . Hot springs sprang from the ground all over. The rich and luxuriant foliage was distinctively suggestive of a tropical region. Ferns grew to an enormous height, vines spread in a tangled mess and berries grew in profusion."

An expedition headed by Dr. J. Norman Henry of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, in 1931 located another warm spot at the junction of the Toad and Racing rivers, in the Liard region.

Too Remote For Tourists

H. G. McCusker, a Canadian government representative with the party, said "the presence of tropical valleys, in substance and in fact, was incontrovertably established."

An Indian guide named Charlie McDonald told this expedition is still another steam-heated valley where the Smith river entered the Liard.

Chances of immediate development of these natural curiosities are discounted even by tourist-conscious British Columbia. There is no road or water transportation and even if one could fly by seaplane to a Northland lake he'd have to tramp days or weeks to reach the valleys.

Miner Looks Under Boulder; Finds $50,000 In Gold

PALMER, Alaska, Dec. 15 (AP) — A poke under an unlikely looking boulder was worth a small fortune to John E. Carlston.

Carlston, head of the Tunnel Mining company of Cantwell, says a large part of the season's final gold cleanup of $50,000 came from beneath a boulder the miners nearly overlooked.

"The boulder was about two feet off bedrock," Carlson says. "It didn't look as though there was anything of value under the rock but we took a pan as a test and the one pan was worth $70. Then we took all the gravel from under the rock, using props to hold the boulder up."

Abandoned since 1850, La Purisima mission in California is now being restored.

Rehousing For Cities Okayed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—The United States housing authority announced today loans totaling $29,330,000 to 12 cities for 16 low-rent rehousing projects, which ultimately will provide homes for some 5,933 families.

The largest loan approved today was for $8,390,000 for New York City, which already had received $30,000,000 for two other projects. Today's loan would pay 90 per cent of the cost of a slum clearance project to rehouse about 1,476 low-income families.

The others:

New Orleans, La., $7,070,000; Charleston, S. C., $1,296,000; Columbus, Ga., $1,815,000; Holyoke, Mass., $825,000; Reading, Pa., $1,804,000; San Francisco, Calif., $1,983,000; Frankfort, Ky., $348,000; Lexington, Ky., $891,000; and Warren, Ohio, $990,000.

Shipment of Christmas trees from New Brunswick this season has been lighter than in recent years, apparently due to depletion of those most accessible. Much of the trade formerly enjoyed in this province has gone to Nova Scotia and Gaspe Peninsula.

Grand Jury Completes Work; Court Docket Almost Clear

Civil Matters Get Attention

With the federal grand jury completing its labors and making a final report late Thursday, just prior to dismissal, the U. S. district court for the northern district of Texas had practically completed its handling of criminal matters last night.

Of five bills returned in connection with the investigation into the Jayton cotton warehouse case, only one so far has been contested. It is to be heard this morning following completion of a civil matter, which was uncompleted last night. Indictment was returned yesterday noon against A. J. Bell and J. P. Moore and they entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned before Judge T. Whitfield Davidson, presiding.

Jury Hears Case

A jury heard the case of Mrs. Samuel S. Rendleman against Kansas City Life Insurance Co., on a policy held by her husband, George Berry and W. D. Benson, jr., represent Mrs. Rendleman and E. L. Klett the insurance company. Two cases brought by the widow, one as community administratrix were combined. She and Dr. L. H. McConnell of Altus, Okla., the former physician of the family testified.

Foreman R. L. Durham of the grand jury made his final report. Judge Davidson expressed his appreciation for the "splendid work," of the investigating body.

In a statement made by the jury and signed by 21 members, reference was made to investigations in connection with loans from the Commodity Credit corporation on cotton in the warehouse at Jayton. They divided cases into two groups, producers of cotton which "involved waywardness which, while technically criminal, was not vicious in its inception and the offense was accompanied by extenuating circumstances mitigating the enormity of the crime." In other cases in which those "who were not the actual producers of cotton and who were not landlords."

Judge Is Commended

The report commended Judge Davidson for his "considerate action," and his "gracious leniency," towards the first group.

In another statement signed by Foreman Durham, Joe M. Peterson and John Heck, it was pointed out the CCC had ordered cotton stored in the Farmers' Cooperative gin at Bula moved out. A plea was made for its retention there.

Following close of testimony on a non-jury case involving eight farmer defendants and two ginners, W. P. Walker and W. P. Fonville, government attorneys, argued issues as did G. E. Lockhart, attorney for the ginners. Judge Davidson said he would take the case under advisement and that he wanted briefs filed by Jan. 16, 1939 before him in Fort Worth.

Harold Wagner, a negro, given 18 months, suspended, in the Amarillo division, and who fled to Denver, was brought before the court and his suspension revoked. He will serve 18 months in El Reno reformatory.

Given Until Monday Noon

T. I. Brown, sentenced to 18 months in El Reno reformatory in one of the Jayton cotton warehouse cases, appeared with two bondsmen to ask for a few days in which to close up some business matters. He was given until Monday noon, and was placed under $1,000 bond.

A group of 30 Abernathy senior high school students, with Seth R. Lindsey, a teacher, in charge, were interested spectators. They planned to spend most of the day in court.

Witnesses at the morning session included W. A. Stevens, P. P. Cooper, J. Edwin Brown, a state supervisor for the FCA, Crane, L. B. Wright, Lubbock, supervisor and P. F. Murray, Lubbock, formerly with the FCA.

Judge Davidson asked Brown a number of questions on the operation of the credit setup and the latter explained the agency, while not a competitor with banks, made loans to farmers unable to get credit from other sources.

Papas Get Break; Doll Calls His Name As Well As Mama's

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 15. (AP)—Arthur Petrov spent 14 years of his spare time working on an invention. He finally got it—a doll that says both mama and papa.

People, especially fathers, have long recognized the unhappy fact that pop was getting a raw deal with the dolls. But no one was able to do much about it.

The voice box of the Petrov doll is composed of 36 pieces. The words "Mama" and "Papa" come out as the doll is tilted from side to side.

Originally a steam engineer, Petrov has been in the doll doctor business since 1918.

State Wins In Gas Hearing

AUSTIN, Dec. 15. (AP) — District Judge J. D. Moore today sustained the state's general demurrer and 18 special exceptions to a petition of the Lone Star Gas company protesting payment of pipe line taxes.

Assistant Attorney General John McKay termed the action a "decisive victory" for the state. He said the gas company probably would appeal.

Elation Expressed

Olin Culberson, veteran chief of the railroad commission's gas utilities division, who has waged a long and bitter fight to protect anr expand the state's regulations over utilities, also expressed elation.

The gas company for about five months had paid under protest the 1-4 of one per cent gross receipts tax, amounting to about $9,000. The funds have been deposited in a suspense account, making them unavailable for salaries and expenses in connection with enforcement of the gas utilities law by the railroad commission and attorney general's departments. The departments have been operating with the aid of deficiency warrants.

The company's petition alleged the pipe line tax was in effect a fee and that the railroad commission had been spending a portion of the sums collected for purposes inconsistent with the objectives of the gas utilities law.

No Question Permitted

Among points most strongly urged by the attorney general's department in court were that the levy was exacted under the state's revenue power and the gas company was not permitted to question the expenditures made.

The state also contended the only other material point was the question whether the tax operated as a burden on interstate commerce. They cited U. S. supreme court decisions to the effect that in one instance, the gas originated in Texas and was processed in Texas, although passing through Oklahoma, and in another, that Oklahoma gas lost its identity in processing in Texas and therefore the company's business in that connection was not interstate in character.

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with any ailment is to get at its cause. If you're constipated, don't fiddle with makeshift remedies. Find out what's giving you the trouble!

Chances are you won't have to look very far if you eat just the things most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean just a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1—and it's not a drug, not a medicine!

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

South Sea Islanders Donate Funds For Chinese Cause

PAPEETE, Tahiti, Dec. 15. (AP)—Under direction of an agent for the Chiang Kai-shek government, Chinese in the principal islands and even remote atolls of the South Seas have been solicited for funds to aid the army and refugees.

Most of the Tahiti Chinese are from Canton and since the fall of that city, the response has improved. One Chinese trading house contributed half its capital funds in a lump sum.

Constable Puts Up $2,500 Bond

HUGO, Okla., Dec. 15 (AP)—Constable Oscar Bearden, one of seven Hugo men indicated by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to violate the internal revenue act, posted $2,500.000 bond here today.

Others indicted were Police Chief Jim Lindly, Howard Rorie, former deputy sheriff; Charlie Hall, former policeman; Ernest Steen; Joe H. Mobley and Burl Sayler.

At Muskogee, District Attorney C. A. Summers said the indictments alleged that the group sold untaxed liquor and accepted bribes for transportation of untaxed liquor between Oct. 1, 1936, and Dec. 20, 1937.

Summers said the indictment charged Mobley with acting as "contact man" between officers and bootleggers and the group aided in the sale of whisky allegedly made by Sayler.

Asserting he was innocent, Lindly posted bond and asserted he did not intend to resign.

Negro Whittles Own Wooden Legs From Cottonwood Tree

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 15 (AP)—Unable to buy a pair of artificial limbs after he lost both of his legs in a train accident, Henry Falls, negro youth, whittled some from an old cottonwood log.

Representatives of artificial limb manufacturers who later saw the pair of wooden ones Falls made, said they were a "remarkable piece of workmanship." Falls was guided by the illustrations in a catalogue of artificial limbs he obtained. His only tools were pocket knife, rusty saw and hammer.

Better Educational Facilities For Texas Negroes Are Urged By Governor

Financial Aid To Be Sought

AUSTIN, Dec. 15. (AP)—Asserting Texas has wholly failed to provide higher educational opportunities for negroes, Governor James V. Allred said today the constitution and a "spirit of fair play" dictate better facilities for members of the race.

In the fourth portion of his final address to the legislature—to be made formally after Jan. 10 and released serially in advance for public preview—the chief executive revealed he would recommend financial aid for individual negro students.

Prove More Satisfactory

As between expanding facilities within the state and appropriating funds for those students who wished to follow post graduate work or study the professions in institutions outside of the state the governor said the latter probably would prove "more satisfactory."

"It will not require the outlay of any tremendous sum, and of course, appropriate safeguards will be incorporated in the bill to properly protect the interest of the taxpayers," he said.

He added Texas owes its "neglected negro citizens the duty of either establishing these facilities in a state institution here at home or by passage of a reasonable state aid bill to help deserving negro boys and girls."

Suggestion Not Altered

The governor's recommendation was prepared before Monday's opinion by the United States supreme court, he said, but it did not alter his suggestion. The opinion, in a Missouri case, held negroes must be admitted to state institutions when negro schools did not offer studies they wished to pursue.

He touched also upon increasing state expenditures for public school text books and suggested the legislature limit the amount the state board of education may spend.

This cost has grown from 67 cents per capita in 1933-34 to $1.13 in 1937-38.

The governor suggested a 75-cent or $1 per capita expenditure would be sufficient, especially in view of the accumulation of texts during recent years.

Football Bets

student from Sweetwater, said one of her instructors forgot long enough to admit he "might not miss me from class a day or two if Tech wins the bowl game."

He Just Can't Lose

Cecil Horne, head of the journalism department at Tech, drawled out an acceptance that means he can't lose—either way.

His guess leaves the alternative of being guest of all the girls at dinner in the women's lounge—or of taking one of the girls home to luncheon.

An intercollegiate aspect was infused when it was learned a Texas Aggie student had put up a scotty dog and his college insignia against a Tech girl's fountain pen if Tech wins from the Gaels.

Louis Shows of Donna has a bet with a prominent business man in his home town—involving a ride back and forth to the bowl.

Stands To Win A Date

And one smart fellow has figured the way into a date with the girl who has been evading him. He bet a date! On the Cotton bowl.

Some will sit in the stands this afternoon and the afternoon of Jan. 2 biting their nails and worrying over money they've placed on the outcomes.

But those who will enjoy the game more, perchance, are those who will sit up straight one down, then relax the next and moon over that date with that certain evasive coed, or the free ride home or the series of morning-after-morning coffees with the favorite girl friend or the class not to be met.

On the other hand, of course, there's the possibility of losing.

But they're still making them, the bets, and the more absurd the better!

Any child will be admitted to those theaters on presentation of a new toy, this arrangement having been made possible through the courtesy of Manager Andy Mauldin.

Total Is Given Boost

Contributions totaling $85.99 yesterday boosted the total for the drive to $362.94. The larger contributions were $28.79 from the Kiwanis club and $25 from Lubbock commandery No. 60 of Knights Templar.

The Kiwanis contribution was even more generous than the cash figure indicates. Members had been requested to take to their luncheon yesterday either 50 cents or a toy worth that sum. Many chose to take toys and their average value was a good bit more than 50 cents.

Your help still is needed so that the drive can be brought to an end and the Goodfellows can get along with the work. They will use the money to buy candy, fruits, nuts, toys and other gifts for the city's under-privileged children. Incidentally, they will get wholesale prices on everything they buy.

If you know any children in Lubbock between the ages of 1 and 16 years who should be on the Goodfellow list, use the coupon on page 1, section 2. Mail it in the Chief Goodfellow, P. O. Box 561, or send or bring it to The Avalanche-Journal, 1211-13 Texas avenue.

Send or bring your contribution to either place.

Amazon Of The Becomes Symbol For New Status Of Womankind In Russia

MOSCOW, Dec. 15. (AP)—For weeks Soviet Russia has been throwing its collective hat into the air for Valentina Stepanovna Grizodubova, 28, buxom Amazon of the civil air force.

She was commander of the airplane Rodina which, with an all-woman crew, flew non-stop from Moscow to the Far East, an air distance of 3,717 miles.

Valentina and her companions, Captain Polina Ossipenko and First Lieutenant Marina Raskova, took off just as the western European powers seemed about to plunge into war. But their flight was the big news of the week in Russia, especially after communication with the plane suddenly ceased and the nation for eight days was in doubt as to its fate.

A Triumph

It finally developed the women had landed unharmed in a swamp near Komsomolsk. Their return to Moscow was a triumph.

Not only had they demonstrated again the capacity of Soviet flyers; their flight was a spectacular illustration of the status of woman in the Soviet Union. All three were "daughters of the people" such as never could have hoped to participate in an important venture under the Czars. Ossipenko came from a collective farm, Raskova is a musician's daughter.

As for Grizodubova, one might almost say an airplane was her cradle. Her father, Stepan Grizodubov, was an airplane builder in the days when men who built flying-machines led a precarious financial existence. Her mother kept the wolf from the door by working as a dressmaker.

In Gorky Squadron

In 1928 she entered a school for pilots; she was 18 when she received her license. Soon she was first among pilots of the Ossoaviachim (the voluntary organization for air chemical defense). She trained 86 pilots, then was assigned to the Gorky propaganda squadron.

She has established women's records for altitude, speed and distance, usually in light sport planes.

Between flights, she married an army flyer, Captain Victor Sokoloff; between flights she became a mother. Her two-year-old son, Valery, is nicknamed "Little Hawk."

The non-stop flight to the Far East doubtless was Grizodubova's greatest. She put Soviet women in the world spotlight.

Behind such opportunities for women is, of course, Joseph V. Stalin. That women flyers do not forget this was shown in the message sent by Grizodubova and her companions to Stalin after their flight:

"With your name in our hearts we, the daughters of the great socialist homeland, flew non-stop through clouds, fog, cold and darkness, even to the banks of the Amur."

Grid Fans

aboard the special, it was learned late Thursday night.

Special Coaches Attached

In addition, it was announced, a special coach from Dallas and one from Fort Worth will arrive in Lubbock attached to the regular 8:20 o'clock Santa Fe passenger train this morning.

Hundreds of other Masonic Home fans were expected to come in automobiles, North Texas visitors in Lubbock early this week said.

At 7 o'clock tonight, there will be a banquet in honor of the Masonic Home football squad and the coach.

Hugh McClellan said the public could make reservations for the banquet. Costs are 75 cents for each place. He asked that reservations be made before 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Burks Is Toastmaster

Burton S. Burks, district attorney, will be toastmaster at the program and Durwood H. Bradley, city attorney, will speak.

Coach Weldon B. Chapman, his assistants and Capt. Walter (Jumbo) Webster of the Westerner squad will be among guests.

Masonic lodges of this section are expected to have representatives in attendance.

Herbert Joseph of Fort Worth will be tripper chairman and Elmo Renfro and Mayo Bowen, Fort Worth bankers, will direct the visitors' programs.

Good neighbor committee of the Lubbock chamber will function, said Chas. Whitacre, chairman, who appointed Bob Harvey and John Toles co-chairmen for reception purposes. They will go to Slaton to meet visitors.

Masonic lodge members of North Texas have flung as much challenge as Masonic Home has—inviting their fraternal brethren of West Texas to match, or exceed them, in supporting the football team of the scrappy little gridsters who have won their city championship in Fort Worth and played in the state race four out of the last seven years.

Woman "Can't Remember" In Trial For Man's Slaying

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Dec. 15. (AP)—Mrs. Fern Patricia Dull told jurors hearing her trial for murder today she "can't remember" anything about the fatal shooting of Attorney William Holbrook, her employer and sweetheart.

Holbrook was killed in front of the Benton Harbor police station Oct. 17 after he and Mrs. Dull made an early morning visit during which Holbrook complained that she was "bothering" him and asked that she be detained.

Safeguards Against Foreign Influences Are Proposed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP) — As a safeguard against alien influences, Bishop Adna Leonard of Pittsburgh today proposed:

That the government restore the confidence of the American people by abandoning "experimentation in legislation," placing a man in charge of the labor department instead of Miss Perkins, reducing federal expenditures, continuing to guarantee freedom of speech and the press, and guarding against use of government publication for propaganda.

Veteran Is Puzzled As To How Uncle Sam Found Out

CENTRALIA, Wash., Dec. 15. (AP)—B. H. Rhodes was puzzled today how Uncle Sam learned about it after all these years.

He has just received a medal and citation from the government for "gallantry in action against insurgent forces near Santa Ana, Luzon, in the Philippine islands, February 5, 1899."

Kennedy Is Not Optimistic About Peace For Europe

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to England, returned tonight for a holiday visit "not particularly optimistic about peace" in Europe.

He said he was "definitely" in favor of President Roosevelt's plans for a larger army, navy, and air force.

Don't Get Excited But John Garner Got Hunting Wound

DALLAS, Dec. 15. (AP) — Don't get excited, but Vice-President Garner was wonded while hunting.

When he arrived here today on his way to Washington from his home in Uvalde, Garner's middle finger on his right hand was bandaged. He explained he cut it on a thorn yesterday while taking a last hunt before leaving for the capital.

Full Citizenship Rights Are Restored To Former King

BURGOS, Spain, Dec. 15. (AP) — The insurgent government tonight restored full citizenship rights to former King Alfonso of Spain.

The decree was adopted at a council of ministers over which Generalissimo Francisco Franco presided.

(Last year it was reported that Franco might agree to put Alfonso's youngest son, Prince Juan, on the Spanish throne and that Alfonso, who left the throne on April 14, 1931, would not object.)

Criminal Career

iness.

James J. Caffrey, regional administrator of the SEC, asserted that McKesson and Robbins had carried on its books as sellers to its crude-drug division seven concerns that did not even exist.

Caffrey said, too, investigation abroad had established that legitimate London firms listed on the corporation's books as heavily indebted to it actually owed McKesson and Robbins nothing and never had "any dealings" with it.

Vernard figured largely in Caffrey's story of the fictitious firms.

Discovery Is Made

The discovery was made, he said, by agents who found a printing concern that had provided, upon Vernard's orders, stationery for the seven hypothetical concerns.

Meanwhile, Robert Kline, assistant general counsel for the SEC, issued a statement saying that in his opinion "the principal motive for the filing of false statements" in behalf of the firm was the mulcting of the company by certain persons of about $150,000 annually as commissions on sales which were never made.

"A secondary motive," he added, "was that these persons were anxious to build up the assets position of the corporation."

He did not amplify, nor did he identify these "certain persons."

Another development was the filing in federal court by Anna Liebling, owner of a $3,000 McKesson and Robbins debenture, and two corporations which are creditors of McKesson-Robbins, objections to the concern's petition for authority to reorganize under section 10 of the bankruptcy act.

The "Lindbergh Law" passed in 1936, provides a penalty of ten years in prison or a fine of $10,000 for any one convicted of receiving, passing or handling monef paid as ransom.

Snyder Testimony

ed him to go to the Alderman home, where the women were. He said Alderman willingly accompanied him.

Snyder testified he went to the Alderman home to get to the bottom of reports that Alderman and Miss Etting were married and to discuss property settlement matters in connection with Snyder-Etting divorce of November, 1937.

After he, Alderman and the women gathered in the music room, Snyder said, Miss Etting denied she and Alderman were married.

He said he asked, "then you're living here and Edith knows about it?" And Miss Etting retorted, "that's none of your . . . business."

Alderman echoed, "that's right—it's none of your . . . business," and then produced a pistol, Snyder testified. He said it was then he fired in Alderman's direction.

On the ride home with Alderman, Snyder said, he accused the pianist of breaking up his home, while he, Snyder, was in Chicago.

Snyder said as they approached the house Alderman told him:

"I'll tell you the real truth, colonel. Ruth chased me—I didn't chase her. I had to support my wife and baby. But I was indebted to Ruth. She loaned me $500 at a crack, a couple of times."

Alderman and Miss Etting eloped to Las Vegas yesterday by plane and were married in the midst of the trial. Alderman's divorce from his second wife became final last week.

Curtis B. Dall Is Married To Katharine Miller Leas

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15. (AP) — Curtis B. Dall, former husband of Anna Roosevelt, and Miss Katharine Miller Leas, were married today. Dall is 42, his bride 21.

The wedding of the New York broker and the socially prominent daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stewart Leas was solemnized in the Leas' suburban Haverford home.

O'Daniel Arrives In Akron For Visit With Firestone

AKRON, O., Dec. 15. (AP)—Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas arrived tonight to be a guest of Russell Firestone, rubber magnate. He planned to spend the night at the Firestone home and then inspect the Firestone plant early tomorrow.

Firestone, who is manager of the mechanical goods division of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., said the visit was "purely social."

trust fund to be set up by each participating firm.

This trust fund would be used to pay retirement benefits to all workers who contributed by an agreement between employes and employers. The interest on a previous year's joint contributions could be used, in an emergency period of unemployment, to bolster payrolls.

Despain emphasized that no legislation was to be proposed in connection with this program, that it would be merely offered to industry as the committee's idea of the best profit-sharing system.

Project Approved

Announcing his approval of this project, Senator Vandenberg predicted that some form of tax deductions would be included in next year's tax bill to encourage industrial plant expansion and purchase of heavy equipment.

"I have no doubt that the incentive tax idea is now here to stay," Vandenberg told reporters, "and that it will find its way into the next fine appearance. Garner said he had walked eight miles yesterday, and never had felt better.

Asked if he wanted to go to Washington, he said he loved his Uvalde country better than any place in the world.

His pecan crop was poor this year, the vice-president said, and he has abandoned his custom of taking a number of sacks of nuts to give his friends in the capital.

"The borers got most of the pecans after I got home this summer," he said. "The crop wasn't more than 25 per cent of normal. The pecans are all picked, sold and Mrs. Garner's got the money."

So many volunteers went to the World war from Breathitt county, Kentucky, that none from the county had to be drafted.

Ginning Reports Given In Area

Cotton ginnings in the South Plains up to Dec. 1 totaled 412,795 bales for 19 counties, as compared with 804,281 for the same period in 1937.

Lubbock county still leads the area with Lynn second; Crosby, third; Dawson, fourth; Lamb, fifth; Hockley, sixth; Scurry, seventh, and Dickens, eighth.

Every county shows fewer bales ginned than the previous year. This will continue to be true throughout the season. Several counties have ginned considerably more than half as many as last year. Dickens, Hale, Floyd, Hockley, Motley and Scurry.

State Total 2,888,121

State total is 2,888,121 bales, compared with 4,491,270 a year ago.

In the state Lubbock county ranks fourth, compared with first last year; Lynn is eighth, compared with second; Crosby, 17th; Dawson, 19th; Lamb, 22nd and Hockley, 25th.

Cotton men generally do not expect many more bales to be ginned. Most gins have begun to set dates for ginning and the greater part of the pickers from a distance have moved out.

Grade Is Declining

Grade of the cotton now being ginned is near the bollie stage, with prices down and quality too low to be considered eligible for a government loan.

Ginnings to Dec. 1 for the South Plains were:

Film Library Is Increased

Number of films appropriate for showing at meetings of organizations such as Parent-Teacher associations, Boy Scouts, and 4-H clubs is being increased in the visual education library at Texas Technological college.

"Your Child and You," a film recently ordered and especially appropriate for showing before Parent-Teacher associations, was previewed this week before a group of women representing Lubbock P-TA groups. The women were Mesdames C. V. Cook, Marshall Harvey, O. W. McLeod, O. L. Peterman, W. H. Younger, and S. B. Haynes.

For 4-H Club Work

"Partners Three," ordered for use in connection with 4-H club work, was previewed before Miss Margaret W. Weeks, dean of the home economics division, and Miss Mabel D. Erwin, head professor of clothing and textiles, Thursday morning.

Earl M. McClure, Boy Scout executive, saw a preview Wednesday afternoon of films on "Control of Bleeding" and "Care of Minor Wounds."

The motion pictures were screened in the visual aids office on the third floor of the administration building.

Number Increased

Number of motion pictures on literature and music is being increased, said Mrs. R. L. McDonald, secretary in the visual education library. An order for literary films has been placed and included in pictures ordered are those on Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," "Othello," "Hamlet," "King Lear" and "Macbeth," Scott's "Lady of the Lake," and Dickens' "Oliver Twist."

Number of films in the library, which was established in September, totals more than 200, about half of which are sound and half silent, said J. F. McDonald, director of extension. The film library is a part of the extension department.

Approximately 15 films are rented each week. The films are used principally in class room instruction in public schools.

Chaperone Selected For "Cotton Girl"

The chaperone of Miss Opal Hill, Cotton Girl of the Nation, at the Cotton Bowl jubilee in Dallas will be Mrs. Edna A. Lyles, assistant professor of clothing and textiles at Texas Technological college.

Attached to honor of Miss Hill's position as National Cotton girl are gifts of wardrobe, luggage and expenses of the Dallas trip for her and the chaperone.

Mrs. Lyles will assist Miss Hill in selection of her wardrobe.

The National Cotton girl is a senior textile engineering student at Tech. She was selected Friday by a committee of Dallas men.

Dog fanciers of the United States buy an estimated $2,000,000 worth of cedar shavings annually for dog beds. The shavings are believed to keep fleas from the dog's coat.

Personality May Be Expressed When Wrapping Gifts For Christmas Tree

By MARY BETH CLARK

Express your personality in your gift wrapping this Christmas.

Also consider the personality of the person you favor and kind of gift chosen in dressing up your package. The vanity of your male friend might be hurt if he receives a fluffily or daintily - wrapped gift; the blending of the color of the present and wrapping paper also should be carefully considered. A cleverly wrapped Yuletide remembrance resting against the tree nearly always causes curious and complementary glances from a bystander.

Collecting all needed articles before beginning will shorten and facilitate this Christmas task or pleasure. A ruler, paste, pins, cellophane tape, scissors and a needle and thread should be sufficient. Finish each part before beginning the next will reduce difficulty. Decorative rosettes should be limited to women, for personal delivery and dainty gifts as perfume, jewelry and lingerie. Flat bows are used for men's gifts, gifts for mailing, bold colored or sturdy gifts; often no bows at all are satisfactory.

Start With Loop

In making rosettes, start by forming a first loop, holding it with the thumb and first finger. Make the other loops the same, being careful in not making them too real, but making a series of loops of the same or graduated lengths in folding the ribbon back and forth between the fingers. Put a weight on the bow until you are ready to secure it firmly on the package. A multiple-loop bow, flat tailored bow, "off-center" bow are popular types.

For a western effect, wrap your gift in tortoise shell paper, tie with brown fringed leather saddle string and attach a cowboy and branch of a fir tree at the top. An appreciater of art should be highly gratified to have his gift covered with white canvas, tied with blue linen ribbon with a few artist's tools tied on. A woolen garment wrapped in tissue paper and tied with soft, woolly yarn always proves effective. Tiny silver bells might be added to a simply wrapped gift in red and silver paper. A garden-lover should welcome a gift wrapped in copper paper with gold ribbon and spray of Christmas berries.

Younger persons delight in a package resembling a peppermint stick with red ribbon twisted around it in barber-pole style and a bow at one end. A toy in blue chintz printed with animals with a few toy animals caught on the top should exite the average youngster. A square gift which is simply wrapped in red tissue paper with a white belt in the middle may be attached to a red pasteboard Santa Claus. Two paper buttons are pasted on the top of the box for a more realistic effect, which adds to a child's pleasure.

The special lady-friend would be delighted to break the ribbons of a gift which had been wrapped in white paper lace and purple cellophane, tied with orchid satin ribbon and with sweetheart roses on the lid. Another touch of extravagance might be added by tying a gift with gold and silver plaid cellophane, satin ribbons, and ornamented with a gardenia and pearls. A silk handkerchief knotted with straw braid with a tiny flower caught in the top or a gift in gold striped paper with blue satin ribbon and a dash of rhinestones would be appreciated.

Rich colored cellophane paper is lovely for plum pudding, cookies, jellies. Grape, blue-berry and black raspberry jams call for icy blue shades, and red fruit jellies for pink and white ones. The jar is set in the center of a square paper, the corners pulled up and a ribbon tied around the neck of the bottle. These folds when released will glorify your jar in their lighter and darker tones. Odd shaped packages may be wrapped effectively like crackers.

Not until 1632 was it discovered that, in order for a seed to form, the pollen of a flower must touch the ovule.

Berth In Schoolboy Grid Final At Stake On Tech Turf

Power Vs. Passes Is Large Issue

Two of Texas' four most powerful schoolboy football teams clash at Tech field this afternoon in a game of contrasts for the championship of the upper bracket of the Interscholastic league.

Lubbock's mighty Westerners—undefeated by a Texas eleven, holding 23-pounds-to-the-man weight advantage—are heavy favorites to march into the state pennant contest.

Masonic Home's Masons—mighty mites of Texas football, underdogs all season, yet winners against great odds—hold the sentiment of a large following.

Those are the squads that will trot onto Tech field before an expected throng of 10,000 at 2:30 o'clock.

Probable starting lineups:

No.	Name	Wt.	Pos.	No.	Name	Wt.
7	Clifton Hill	155	LE	6	Melvin Moseley	132
23	Pat Farris	165	LT	40	James Holmans	155
35	Joe Pytell	170	LG	37	Horace McHam	158
24	Wayne Pipes	174	C	22	A. P. Torres	144
26	Lloyd Sanders	146	RG	23	Jack Bates	137
34	Jerry Nash	165	RT	43	Jeff Brown (c)	165
21	Joe Bob Foster	147	RE	33	Norman Strahge	137
29	Harold Parsons	147	QB	24	Gene Keel	150
27	Wayne Johnston	162	LH	35	Buford Hudgins	135
28	Leete Jackson	160	RH	25	Frank Bonds (co-c)	145
77	Walter Webster	185	FB	41	Don Stephens	162

Coaches: Lubbock—Weldon B. Chapman and "Goober" Keyes; Masonic Home—H. N. "Rusty" Russell.

Officials: Referee, Ab Curtis (Texas); umpire, Jimmie Higgins (S. M. U.); head linesman, R. M. Medley (McMurry); field judge, Ray McCullogh (T. C. U.).

Masonic Home's "miracle men" will attempt to upset the dope and the Westerners today to add another chapter to one of the most hectic schoolboy campaigns in history.

At the same time the most powerful team to wear the Black and Gold will be gunning for their first semi-final victory and a chance at the state championship flag of Texas.

Leading the Lubbock attack will be Captain Walter "Jumbo" Webster, 185 pounds of charging gridiron talent that probably has no equal in the state. He will have in the backfield with him such stalwarts as Quarterback Harold Parsons; Left Halfback Wayne "Rusty" Johnston, and Right Halfback Leete Jackson. The forward wall that lines up with that quartet will be one of the smoothest yet ruggedest on any high school gridiron.

Opposing Coach Chapman's team will be a team that resembles a grade school eleven but plays like demons. The little gridders have more hustle and determination than many college squads, and that has been the deciding factor throughout their amazing surge to the finals.

Combining their fighting attitude with their ability to toss deadly aerials all over the field Coach Russell's boys have completely astounded the experts and established themselves firmly in the hearts of those who have seen them overcome almost insurmountable odds to win.

As for the star of their brilliant passing game, he is Gene Keel, 150 pound quarterback. The grinning little backfield ace can tote the mail through the line and around ends when necessary also. He is ably assisted by the Masons' star running backfield player, Don Stephens, who weighs 162 pounds, and is listed among the team's heavyweights.

Both Teams Powerful

On the line for the Fort Worth "giant killers" it is Miller Moseley, 132 pound pass snatching end; A. P. Torres, fiery Mexican center; and Jeff Brown, captain and left tackle who is the heaviest man on the squad at 165 pounds. There are others who have been outstanding in the Masonic drive. There is Buford Hudgins, left halfback; Frank Bonds, co-captain and right halfback; Norman Strange, right end and pass catcher de luxe; and Jack Bates, right guard. To name the stars would be to list the lineup. Coach Russell has an "iron man" team, and seldom makes substitutions.

That is the sum total of Masonic Home's Masons. That is one of the four best teams in Texas. Another is the Westerners. Both have had to display gridiron ability to advance this far.

Today's game will see two and perhaps more all-state candidates in action. Attention of most sports writers and fans will be centered on Captain Webster and Keel. Both are as unlike as any two players could be. Keel is very small, makes most of his yardage with passes, is not noted for any spectacular runs, yet gets the job done to the satisfaction of all Masons concerned. Webster is powerful, a hard running, charging fullback who gains much of his yardage on the ground by driving with his mighty strength, and he also accomplishes everything to the satisfaction of all Westerner followers.

Those are the teams—two of the best squads in the history of Texas schoolboy football. The victor will be favored to win the state championship. That is a fact or the Interscholastic league is the strongest in history.

Final Game Site To Be Determined In Temple Saturday

TEMPLE, Dec. 15 (AP)—The site of the state championship football game will be determined here Saturday night regardless of the winners of this week-end's games.

Coaches and officials of the teams in the semi-finals—Corpus Christi, Masonic Home, Temple and Lubbock—have agreed to work out details and name the site here after the Temple-Corpus Christi game Saturday.

Representatives of Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco and Austin will be present in case the teams decide to play on a neutral field.

Seabiscuit, Stagehand Draw Weights For Santa Anita

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15. (AP)—Topping the list, Seabiscuit drew 134 pounds when weights were announced today for the 107 candidates for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap March 4, 1939.

Rated just behind Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit was Maxwell Howard's Stagehand, the surprise colt of 1938 which nosed out the Biscuit in the last $100,000 Santa Anita classic. Stagehand was handed 128 pounds.

Whether Seabiscuit or Stagehand will come west for the Santa Anita meeting was a matter of speculation tonight.

Raiders Take It Seriously In Scrimmage

Texas Tech coaches recalled a set of sturdy freshman gridders yesterday who were supposed to serve as "live dummies" in a Red Raider workout.

The varsity lads, however, soon were convinced that they were tackling and blocking against some of the "liveliest" dummies in their experience.

Featuring the afternoon's drill was a long scrimmage session in which the boys played for keeps. The "regulars" went through their entire repertoire of offensive plays, with Gene Barnett doing considerable passing and considerable running. It appears that he'll do a lot of left halfbacking against the Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's in the Cotton Bowl game, both as runner and passer. Only in the games near the fag end of the season was Barnett's running game given much consideration, but with Bobby Holmes still on the doubtful list because of a bad ankle, Barnett has been running the ends and tackles ragged.

A backfield combination of Ray Flusche at quarter, Jodie Marek at full, Barnett and Elmer Tarbox at halfbacks looked quite pleasing in the scrimmage. This combination alternated with a set made up of Dudley Akins at quarter, Charley Calhoun at full, C. L. Storrs at left half and Billy Dodd at right half.

But the regulars had very little on the "shock troops" yesterday. The two lines crashed each other furiously, and there was a lot of "scoring" by both teams.

The Raiders will drill here again today and again Monday, entraining Tuesday night for Dallas where they'll set up a Cotton Bowl finishing camp at Southern Methodist university field.

Legion To Organize Local Rifle Club

Organization of a rifle club will be the object of a meeting of local sportsmen called for Sunday afternoon, 3 o'clock, at the American Legion hall.

Certain members of the Legion are taking the lead in arousing interest in a rifle club, and they invite all and sundry sportsmen to meet with them Sunday. Dr. E. F. George of Texas Tech's faculty has been appointed temporary chairman of a committee on plans for organization.

Plans already have advanced to the point of a location. Site of the range probably will be in the vicinity of the City incinerator. Later, if the club gets well organized, it is planned to find a new site suitable for a 1,000-yard range.

All men interested in becoming affiliated with the Rifle club are invited to attend Sunday's meeting.

Miami Open Golf Tournament Opens Florida Winter Sports

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 15. (AP)—Opening of the $10,000 Miami open golf tournament marked the beginning of Florida's winter sports program here today.

Some 200 professionals and amateur golfers wound up preliminary rounds and exhibitions to start in the last big money contest of the year.

Slammin' Sammy Snead, who smacked out a warmup 65 as notice to the field that he expected to repeat the victory he earned last year, needed only third place or better to become the first $20,000 player in professional golf association history. He has stuffed $19,039 in his jeans by winning eight of the 34 tournaments already played.

Gaels Work Harder For Big Game

MORAGA, Calif., Dec. 15 (AP) — St. Mary's football players, preparing for the Dallas Cotton bowl game with Texas Tech, Jan. 2, stepped up the practice program today as final examinations drew near a close.

After tomorrow the way will be clear for the Gaels to really bear down. Coach Ed Madigan plans to conduct two workouts daily until the boys display a return to physical condition enjoyed during the regular season.

J. Curtis Sanford, director of the Cotton Bowl, will be the recipient of a gift from the St. Mary's players, it was learned. Jerry Dowd, center, said in appreciation of the invitation to play in the post-season classic, he and his teammates had raised funds to purchase a gift which "will fill one-half of a baggage car."

"It will make Sanford the happiest man in Texas," he added.

There was speculation over the identity and size of the gift. Somebody suggested it might be an elephant.

Abilene Joins Upper Class AA District

ABILENE, Dec. 15 (AP) — Abilene High school today decided to join San Angelo, Sweetwater, Big Spring, Lamesa and Odessa to form a Class AA district in next fall's interscholastic league football race.

The decision was made at a conference in Cisco with representatives of teams in the former Oil Belt Class A district. Those teams will be in a Class AA district to themselves. They include Breckenridge, Stephenville, Brownwood, Cisco, Ranger and Mineral Wells.

The federal government's exhibit at the San Francisco world's fair will cost $1,500,000.

Record Throng Expected For Temple Tilt

TEMPLE, Dec. 15 (AP)—A crowd of 12,000 persons tonight was expected to see the state high school semi-final football game Saturday between Temple and Corpus Christi, including 2,300 persons who will have to stand up.

The field's capacity, with extra seats installed, is 9,700.

The Corpus Christi team will arrive tomorrow morning, and Temple tonight had forgotten business generally except the business of getting its team over the hurdle.

A. J. Mercer, Temple's center who is suffering from an injured leg, was expected to be able to play some, but Mike Duncan has been running at center with the first string this week and apparently was improving at each practice session.

Most Players Ready

Stumpy Holcomb, substitute guard, has been bothered with a heavy cold, but will be able to play. The rest of the squad was in good condition.

Temple ran through a hard workout today, stressing its defense and kicking, but tomorrow's drill will be light. Corpus will work out tomorrow afternoon.

Three former Temple students who won All-American honors in football—Bochey Koch, former Baylor guard; Sammy Baugh, former Texas Christian quarterback, and Ki Aldrich, center on this year's Texas Christian eleven—will see the game.

Carl Hubbell, major league hurler, also will be in the stands as the guest of Joe Moore, his teammate on the New York Giants. Hubbell is visiting Moore at the latter's home in Gause.

DENVER, Dec. 15 (AP)—William H. (Navy Bill) Saunders' resignation as head football coach at Denver university was announced today.

His assistant, Clyde (Cal) Hubbard, who is also the basketball and baseball coach, was named his successor.

L. H. Mahony, graduate manager of athletics, said Saunders expressed a wish to give up coaching for good.

Geertson Takes Lead In Miami Tourney

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 15. (AP)—John Geertsen, a 29-year-old former candymaker from Salt Lake City, took his best shot at fame and fortune in the $10,000 Miami golf tournament today, clipping four strokes off par with a 66 to share the first-round lead with Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Winchester, Mass.

Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs slipped out of the running with a 76.

The 66's gave Geertson and McSpaden a two-stroke lead over Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee, Pa., whose 68 put him a shot in front of Ben Hogan of New York.

John Revolta of Chicago, one of the pre-tournament favorites, wound up with a par 70. Five others, E. J. "Dutch" Harrison of Chicago, Mike Turnesa of New York, John Gibson, of Chicago, Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del., and Webb Gilbert of Topeka, Kas., were with him.

Frogs Begin Preparations For Contest In Mid-Season Form

FORT WORTH, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Texas Christian university Horned Frogs slipped back into training routine today in preparation for their Sugar Bowl battle with Carnegie Tech at New Orleans on Jan. 2 and whipped through what looked like a midseason drill.

After 19 days away from the field, the top-ranking Frogs responded eagerly to Coach Dutch Meyer's call for blocking, punting and passing practice and signal drills by four teams.

Old plays and formations apparently were performed without a hitch, but Coach Meyer indicated plenty of scrimmage would be the fare next week to pare off excess weight some players gained during the layoff.

Great Feathered Gods Of Zuniland Bring Their Blessing To Fabled Village

Weird Figures In Observance

By JOHN E. BAKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ZUNI, N. M., Dec. 15.—The great feathered gods of Zuniland brought their annual blessing tonight to this fabled Indian village of the remote western New Mexico plateau.

Devout tribesmen consecrated themselves anew to toil, patience and kindliness, as weird masked figures of primitive deities entered the pueblo for the feast of the Shalako.

Combination Holiday

The ceremony, a Zuni combination of New Year and Thanksgiving, is cloaked in a symbolism which no white man fully understands. Its observance is entrusted to Zuni men who have spent years learning the elaborate ritual.

This year, it took on special significance, with Zunis going before the gods in prayer for rain and snow to break a drouth imperiling their crops and livestock.

The ceremony took its name from its central figures—the six Shalakos, or divine messengers, who entered the village at sundown, wearing bird-like masks nine feet tall and bedecked with fur, feathers, abalone shell and turquoise.

Picked Men Of Tribe

They were picked men of the tribe, chosen because of their virtue to become—for 24 hours—incarnations of the deities.

In a night of prayer, feasting and dancing, they dedicated new houses of the village and gave divine blessing to tribal crops.

Nearly 2,000 visitors, both white and Indian, more than doubled Zuni's normal population.

Legend says that once the gods fell in love with the beautiful Zuni maidens and spirited them away. Then, moved by the pleas of the bereft Zuni men, returned them to the village and every year thereafter sent their messengers to see that all was well in Zuni.

Ground Broken For Memorial

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP) — President Roosevelt, speaking at a ground-breaking exercises for a memorial to Thomas Jefferson, praised Jefferson today for "establishing the practical operation of the American government as a democracy and not an autocracy."

Standing on the south bank of the tidal basin, the site chosen for a $3,000,000 shrine to the third president, Mr. Roosevelt said that millions of Americans who visit the capital yearly will have in days to come a sense of gratitude that an adequate national memorial to Jefferson at last has been erected.

Recognized For Services

"For far more than 50 years," he said, "Thomas Jefferson, the third president of the United States, has been recognized by our citizens not only for the outstanding part which he took in the drafting of the Virginia statute for religious freedom, but also for the services he rendered in establishing the practical operation of the American government as a democracy and not an autocracy.

"For very many years, it has seemed appropriate that with Washington and Lincoln, his services should be held in memory by the erection of a monument of equal dignity. We are breaking ground, today, for such a memorial."

The site was chosen after months of controversy, some of it revolving around the fact that a number of the famed Japanese cherry trees bordering the tidal basin must be removed.

Mr. Roosevelt selected the 147th anniversary of the adoption of the American bill of rights for the ground-breaking rites.

Major Leagues End Meetings

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—The Boston Red Sox, looking ahead to the Lefty Grove "question mark," strengthened their pitching at the expense of their infield in a deal with the Detroit Tigers today as the major league moguls wound up their three-day winter meetings.

Otherwise, the only action came from a joint session of both leagues, which approved boosting the club player-limit from 23 to 25 players. After the American and National leagues disagreed to the question, Commissioner K. M. Landis cast the deciding vote.

Red Sox Tigers Swap

The Red Sox-Tigers swap sent Third-sacker Pinkey Higgins and Southpaw Archie McKain to Detroit for pitchers Elden Auker and and Jake Wade and outfielder Chet Morgan in a straight player deal. Auker and Wade won 14 and lost 12 between them during the 1938 campaign. That record, although unimpressive in itself, can't be overlooked in view of some of the pitching the Sox got last season after Grove's arm suddenly went "dead."

Since nothing has been heard by the Red Sox bosses about Lefty's chances of coming back next season, it was imperative that they obtain pitchers in a hurry to take up the slack.

Both clubs did well in the transaction. The Tigers could lose too much in pitching strength, since they obtained Friddy Hutchinson, the young sensation from Seattle, Tuesday night, and they expect Schoolboy Rowe to stage a comeback next year. The Red Sox hope young Jim Tabor can handle the third-basing chores Higgins is giving up.

As the major leagues finished their sessions, these accomplishments stood out for the three days of talking:

1—A uniform baseball was adopted for both leagues.

2—Night baseball was voted for both circuits.

3—The depression apparently is over for the big leagues since both returned, in today's action, to the 25-player limit. This adds two men to the roster limit, which, it is claimed, will help second division clubs.

Warner Says Teams Of Past Stronger

PALO ALTO, Calif., Dec. 15. (AP)—Football players of thirty and forty years ago were tougher and hardier than their cousins of today, but the game itself is more strenuous now than in the chin guard and whiskers era, says Glenn Scobey "Pop" Warner.

Warner, one of the ancients of the coaching profession, speaks with the wisdom acquired over a period approaching half a century. Next year will be his 45th year since he played guard at Cornell, captained and helped mentor the team in his senior year.

For six seasons now he has coached at Temple and he hopes "to continue in the game for awhile yet." He's seen a lot of football—at Iowa State, Georgia, Carlisle, Pittsburgh and Stanford, among others.

"It makes me laugh to think of comparing our old game with the modern variety. It's wide open now. The players have distances to go and gather momentum for their blocks. When they hit, they really mean it. Somebody goes down. It has developed into a slam bang game, played by vigorous young men," Warner said.

"At the same time, I think the earlier day athletes had more stamina. The reason is they were trained to last a whole game. It was longer then, too, 35 minutes to a half. We had fewer substitutes. A fellow who didn't stick out a contest considered himself is sissy, just about."

Top Comeback Honors Won By Moody

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—Helen Wills Moody and Jimmie Foxx staged the greatest comebacks of 1938, with the San Francisco tennis queen earning a slight edge over the slugging first baseman of the Boston Red Sox.

So say the 70 sports editors taking part in the eighth annual Associated Press poll. Twenty-four of them gave the No. 1 spot to Mrs. Moody for winning the Wimbledon title after a three-year absence, and 24 others awarded Foxx first place for capturing the American league batting crown after a poor 1937 season. But Mrs. Moody got sufficient votes for second and third place to edge out Double-X by 113½ points to 97.

Results of the poll:

	Firsts	Tot. Pts.
Individual
Helen Wills Moody, Wimbledon tennis champion	24	113½
Jimmie Foxx, Boston Red Sox first baseman	24	97
Dizzy Dean, Chicago Cub pitcher	1	26½
Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing champion	4	25
Solly Krieger, Brooklyn middleweight	4	24
Hank Greenberg, Detroit Tiger first baseman	3	16
Lefty Grove, Boston Red Sox pitcher	2	11
Howard Jones, So. California football coach	0	11
Vernon Gomez, New York Yankee pitcher	1	7
Paul Derringer, Cincinnati Red pitcher	1	6

The concert was dedicated to Coaches P. W. Cawthon, Russell T. Smith, and Berl Huffman, and the 1938 Red Raiders.

Highlight of the program was the presentation of a Christmas gift to D. O. Wiley, director, by members of the band. He was also presented with a large scroll with Christmas greetings.

The program included a solo, cornet trio, and was closed with several well known Christmas carols. The first half of the program was broadcast over KFYO.

After the scheduled program was over the band played numerous popular college numbers preparatory to the Cotton bowl game.

STOCK RALLY DIMMED

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP) — A further stock market rally was dimmed somewhat today by profit-taking which substantially reduced early gains running to 2 or more points and chalked up moderate losses for many issues.

Wall street was still optimistic on the business outlook, and more or less indifferent to foreign happenings, but this week's brisk run-up in the stock list brought thoughts of a possible technical reaction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .2 of a point at 51.9. It was the fifth consecutive advance for this composite. Transfers totalled 1,798,410 shares against 1,965,054 the day before.

Aircrafts, again reflecting the armament outlook, pushed up briskly in the forenoon, with Douglas, United Aircraft, Sperry and North American posting new highs for the year. Douglas held a gain of 1½ at 8⅝, but Sperry and United ended off a shade and North American was unchanged.

Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio retained modest advances, and Illinois Central registered a new 1938 peak.

Steels ran up in the first hour. U. S. Steel later fell back for a net loss of ¼ at 66⅛ and Bethlehem retained only ⅛ at 75⅛. General Motors was a shade on top but Chrysler retreated.

Anaconda, Kennecott and Phelps Dodge edged upward. Continuance of Texas oil well shut-downs for 8 days a month through January, February and March enabled Texas Corp. and Standard Oil of N. J. to record modest gains.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 15 (AP)—Advances of 25 to 35 cents a bale were reduced by profit-taking in the cotton market here today and closing prices were steady, at net gains of 2 to 4 points.

The early advance was attributed to steady foreign markets and a more favorable interpretation of European advices together with recent advances in domestic securities.

Later, however, recent buyers took profits and there was some liquidation in advance of last notice day for December contracts tomorrow. Hedging increased, the volume of selling and prices slipped off slowly in late dealings.

The close was at or near the lowest with Dec. at 8.52, Jan. at 8.39-bid, March at 8.37, May at 8.17, July at 7.88, Oct. at 7.54@7.55, Dec. (new) at 7.57-bid, and March (1940) at 7.61-bid.

Spot cotton continued quiet but middling advanced 4 points to 8.47. Sales totaled 702 bales.

Another factor behind the early buying movement was improved textile advices.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—Cotton held steady today as trade and foreign buying encountered scattering liquidation. March sold from 8.28 to 8.22 and closed at 8.23, with final quotations unchanged to 5 points net higher.

The market opened 6 to 8 higher on buying stimulated by steadier Liverpool cables. Aside from trade buying and a little early foreign demand, buyers were cautious. Part of the morning steadiness was attributed to initial firmness of stocks.

Hedge selling remained light, with spot houses reporting more cotton entering the loan and little business doing in the southern spot markets.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 15 (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 2 points higher at 8.42 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.52 cents a pound.

Insurance Rate Reductions For Plains Towns Revealed

"Key" rate reductions for two cities of the area have been announced by Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner.

Rate at Hale Center has been reduced from 56 cents to 54 cents due to waterworks improvements. Enforcement of a fire marshal's ordinance was given as reason for a reduction from 69 cents to 57 cents for Olton.

Hall praised officials of those and four other Texas towns for improvements in fire-fighting defenses which made reduced rates possible.

Sonora, Round Rock, Luling and New Braunfels also received rate slashes.

Eden Speaker In Maryland

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 15. (AP)—Capt. Anthony Eden told America today he was proud that in the pre-revolutionary days when his ancestor, Sir Robert Eden, was colonial governor here "Maryland was a center of political and religious freedom" and Sir Robert "a liberal" who sympathized with "the American view."

Standing in the ballroom of historic Hammond-Harwood house, where Sir Robert may have danced with the belles of 1775, the tall British statesman in a brief nation-wide broadcast said he liked to relive the pages of history today—"a history in which we can both take pride."

Friends Of Governed

"I like to think," he added, "that Sir Robert was a friend of those governed and that they were his friends."

Welcomed by Gov. Harry W. Nice and presented by U. S. Senator George Radcliffe of Maryland, Eden was given a medallion and scroll of membership in the Society of the Ark and the Dove, founded in colonial times.

The Rev. James M. Magruder, presenting the emblems, explained Captain Eden was entitled to membership through his descent from Caroline Calvert, the wife of Sir Robert, for whom Caroline county was named.

Rear Admiral Wilson Brown, superintendent of the U. S. naval academy, and his aides, accompanied the Eden party, from the reception at the Hammond-Harwood house to the naval academy and thence to the tomb of Sir Robert, past the Maryland statehouse, of which Sir Robert laid the cornerstone.

Chamberlain Points To Weakest Spot In Germany's Armor As Her Finances

New Warning Given Nazis

LONDON, Dec. 15. (AP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain pointed today to possibly the weakest point in Germany's armor with a warning to nazi leaders that Britain's vast financial resources might prove decisive in a long war between the two nations.

Speaking at a luncheon at the house of commons, the prime minister represented British financial power as a curb on nazi thoughts of war. He said:

Prove Deciding Factor

"We may take it that when German statesmen—I will not say the German people—reflect on the possible consequences of a conflict, if ever a conflict should arise between our two countries, they think not only of our armaments but of our great financial resources, which in a war of long duration might well prove to be a deciding factor."

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the German reichsbank and probably the German statesman most aware of British financial power, was in London, presumably seeking to avert a threatened trade war and possibly to work out some scheme for the emigration of Jews from Germany.

Schacht was conferring with officials of the Bank of England today to try to allay—according to the general opinion of the British press—a British threat to "beat Germany at her own game" in barter trade.

Listen To Reason

Some observers linked today's speech with Chamberlain's statement Tuesday night that "it is to reason we are prepared to listen and not to force" and regarded the relationship as a further sign of a stiffening British attitude toward Germany.

The chief reasons for this appear to be widespread indignation in Britain over the nazi anti-Semitic drive and what one cabinet member, Earl Winterton, chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, recently described as "a growing feeling that there is nothing we can do to satisfy Germany."

Christmas Pageant Offered By Students On Thursday

A Christmas pageant, "Let Us Go Up To Bethlehem," was presented Thursday afternoon by third, fourth and fifth grade pupils of Dupre school, for the school's Parent-Teacher association.

A chorus of 60 sang Christmas carols while the Christmas story was pantomimed. Judy Pierce played the part of Mary; Paul Laverty was Joseph; and the angel was Lynn Marie Ryan. The shepherds and wise men were Jerry Hopson, Tommie Cone, Charles Donald Akey, Sam Davis, Dalton Hamilton and George Thomas Edwards.

Mrs. Carl Willingham, Mrs. George Walton and Miss Jane Wilson directed the program.

The program had been presented before students of Sanders and Guadalupe schools Thursday morning.

Mrs. Gable Is Surprised At Clark's Plans For Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15. (AP)—Clark Gable and his middle-aged wife have been separated three years, but she is surprised, she says, that he is thinking of asking her for a divorce.

After the film star had indicated in a public statement that just about everything was arranged for the legal dissolution of his marriage, Mrs. Maria Langham Gable went to see her attorney and announced:

"It came to me as a complete surprise. I knew nothing about it until I read it in the papers.

"I have not talked to Mr. Gable and know nothing about his intentions."

Gable, who is known to be romantically inclined toward blonde Carole Lombard, has asked a Los Angeles court to declare valid the property pact by which he has paid his wife $286,000 since their parting in 1935.

The case is set for trial Dec. 21, with a ruling unlikely before Jan. 1, after which a divorce suit could be filed.

Little Chance For Epidemics In Lubbock During Holidays Is Seen By Physicians

Broadcast warning against holiday spread of communicable disease does not find an expressed counterpart in Lubbock, a check of physicians showed.

You'll probably have a headache or a cold but, said Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, those just as likely as not should comprise the greater number of ailments.

"Just wait until the holidays and we'll get a rest," the adage runs. Physicians here know it to have more than usual logic.

Exposure Dangerous

In spite of a rather general intemperance — whether because of drinking or eating to excess or sleeping too infrequently—the greatest dangers of the holidays, physicians indicated, possibly will be found in exposure at outdoor athletic festivals or in indoor programs where auditoriums may be too hot and too crowded.

Physicians based their estimates on possible ailments on medical records of the past few years, when there were no general epidemics in Lubbock.

Observe sane hours, eat correctly and do not resort to excesses—and Mr. and Mrs. Lubbock will be healthful Christmas, not to mention most of the Little Lubbocks, physicians advised.

Spanish Explorer Believed To Have Passed Near The Town Of Colorado City

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Dec. 15 (AP)—National park service historians, seeking to establish the route of the Spanish explorer Cabeza de Vaca, found evidence today that the Spaniard passed near the site where Colorado City, Tex., now stands.

When de Vaca started from the Texas gulf coast "toward the setting sun" in 1538, he described one of his locations by noting "the cows came down this far."

By "cows," de Vaca meant buffalo, explained Tom Charles, custodian of White Sands national monument near here.

J. C. Jones, veteran range rider of the old west, told Charles that he believed the "buffalo country" extended north and west of what is now Colorado City.

"I have seen a wagon train a half mile long, with every wagon loaded with buffalo humps and hides," said Jones, "but I never saw a buffalo very far south or east of Colorado City."

The marine and fishing industries consume more than half of all rope produced.

Eat What You Want After You Eat What You Need, Prof Says

CHICAGO, Dec. 15 (AP)—A person should eat what he wants—after he eats what he needs, said Prof. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins university in a speech here.

Each member of the family should have a quart of milk daily, or its equivalent in cheese, butter or other products, he said.

They should also be given two salads, two servings of cooked leafy vegetables, one serving of meat, fish or poultry, four eggs a week and some fresh fruit or fruit juice.

After that is done the person should eat the things he likes best.

Kai-Shek Will Launch Drive

KWEILIN, China, Dec. 15 (AP) — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was disclosed today to have swung toward the political tactics of Chinese communists in a new program to combat the Japanese invasion.

Officers at this South China military headquarters in Kwangsi province disclosed that Chiang had summoned a political-military conference in furtherance of the new program, which was announced to the military staff three weeks ago.

One purpose of the conference, to be held at Chungking, was reported to be to purge the government of "defeatist elements" before embarking on the second phase of the war —hit and run attacks on Japanese forces throughout occupied territory.

Similar To Communists

Chiang's new political program, which he characterized in the slogan "arousing the masses is more important than battles," was similar in many respects to tactics used by the North China communists he had fought against before the war started on July 7, 1937.

It embraced: rapid organization of farm unions, mass education, and mobilization of guerrilla armies in the Yangtze valley similar to those of the communists to the north.

Previously Chiang had frowned on all communist and other mass appeals.

The new policy was said to have been formed after Chiang talked to British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark Kerr in mid-November. Then he was reported to have told the envoy that unless British policies were changed to permit aid to China he would turn elsewhere.

Map-Makers Give Up Trying To Follow Europe Changes

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—Map-makers of the WPA finally have stopped trying to keep up with the boundary changes in central Europe. Directors of the project which makes visual education materials for public schools announced today that map-making would be abandoned temporarily.

Now Enjoying Best Health In Years

Gly-Cas Receives More Praise; Tired, Worn-Out Feeling Gone; Strength and Energy Restored

"It did not take Gly-Cas long to get me up and feeling fine, enjoying life again," said Mrs. Dora M. Scarborough, 317 Sycamore St., Abilene, Texas. "Gas, bloating and indigestion had been a constant source of distress with me. I was tired and worn-out continually, had no energy and did not care for my meals as foods held no temptation for me. It seemed I always had a headache and regardless of my diet the foods simply would not digest properly, often even a drink of water would upset my stomach. Then too, I lost much sleep at night because of frequent bladder action. But once I gave Gly-Cas the opportunity to help me my health troubles were soon ended."

MRS. DORA M. SCARBOROUGH

"All those years of suffering just seemed to 'melt away' when I began Gly-Cas," continued Mrs. Scarborough. "All that gas, bloating and indigestion are now in the past, I eat anything I want and there are no bad after effects. My bladder is now regulated, headaches have left me completely, sleep fine the entire night through, my former strength and energy has been restored. Gly-Cas is a REAL medicine for it did just what it claimed and in exactly the right way."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.—Adv.

Will Rogers Mural Branded As Too Much Hodge-Podge And Not Enough Of Rogers

CLAREMORE, Okla., Dec. 15 (AP)—That Will Rogers mural in the new postoffice here in the late humorist's home town is too much hodge-podge and not enough Rogers, say the homefolk—anyway a vocal group of them.

The newly installed mural is a federal art project, painted by Randall Davey, Santa Fe, N. M.

"The mural cost just $1,018 too much," said Morton Harrison, treasurer of the Will Rogers memorial commission, succinctly. "The government is reported to have paid $1,020 to Davey for the work. I guess the canvas is worth two dollars."

Mrs. Ida K. Bridwell, president of a study club, asserted the big painting failed to capture the cowboy philosopher's life as Claremore saw it. The characters include an orchestra and too many show people, she added.

"It does not portray the Rogers I would like my children to remember," Harrison said.

Surplus Oranges To Be Bought And Distributed To Needy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation announced today it would buy surplus oranges under a program described by Secretary Wallace as another phase of the attack of the current citrus problem.

The orange program, similar to a grapefruit purchase program already announced, was requested by a conference of citrus growers representatives here recently.

The fruit bought will be turned over to state relief agencies for distribution to the needy. The amount of the purchases contemplated was not announced.

The corporation will buy oranges in areas where surpluses glut markets and depress prices paid to growers. The fruit will be bought from growers, grower associations or handlers. Federal-state inspection of the fruit will be required.

Fine Of One Cent Unusual But Verdict Is To Stand

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 15 (AP)—The one cent fine for attempted larceny was unusual and the verdict showed a "marked degree of illiteracy," but the Alabama court of appeals ruled today a circuit court knew what it wanted and its decision must stand.

The verdict as entered verbatim in the appellate court's record:

"We as joury find the defendant guilty of an tempt to commit petty larney and fix the fine at one cent."

Criticism For $2 Jackson Day Dinner In Dallas Is Given

DALLAS, Dec. 15 (AP)—The $2 a plate Jackson day dinner to be held Jan. 7 was "started by those who apparently find it easier to give the Democratic party lip service than finances," Harold H. Young, chairman of the 1938 Jackson day dinner, said today.

"The national Democratic party cannot operate on hot air and enthusiasm," said Young. He termed the $2 a plate dinner arranged by Howard Dailey and Emery Wiley an opposition affair to the official $25 dinner.

Praise Offered Farm Program

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 15 (AP) — President Roosevelt told the American Farm Bureau federation he was "convinced" the administration's farm program is the best "that can be put into operation for the 1939 crop year."

He added, however, in a letter read before the convention here, that "while the 1939 program is being put into operation, farm leaders should be making a diligent study to determine if additional legislation is needed to reduce such commodities, and to provide a more effective farm program for 1940 and later years."

Best Ever Offered

Federation President Edward A. O'Neal, who read Mr. Roosevelt's letter, told the convention earlier he considered the agricultural adjustment act of 1938 and allied legislation provided "the best all-around farm program we have ever had." Other speakers agreed with him.

To this, however, O'Neal and others added the reservation that the act was not perfect and should be stripped of "useless regulations" and given more liberal interpretation. But they shared the president's view that the act was "sound in principle."

Through the AAA and the soil conservation act, O'Neal said in his annual report, farmers were able to keep their production in line with demand, prices were stabilized through commodity loans, consumers were assured ample supplies at reasonable prices and the wasting of soil resources was being checked through payments to farmers for approved soil practices.

Selfish Politicians

Scott W. Lucas, Illinois senator-elect, branded 80 per cent of the opposition to the AAA as "selfish politicians" who "would wreck any agricultural program if such destruction would assure their return to political power."

The distinguished service medal of the federation was presented to Dr. William I. Myers, head of the department of agricultural economics and farm management at Cornell university, and to Mrs. Abbie C. Sargent, Bedford, New Hampshire.

Dr. Myers was honored in recognition of his work as governor of the Farm Credit administration in directing the financing of American agriculture after 1932.

Mrs. Sargent was honored as a farm wife and a grandmother who found time during her busy farm and home duties to take a leading part in every farm movement in her state.

It is a good idea to check automobile spring shackles frequently. It is just as bad to have them too tight as too loose.

Decline In Cost Of Food Is Reported

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—Labor department statisticians reported today a steady decline in retail foods costs which began in January continued through Nov. 15 with a decrease of 7.3 per cent for the period.

Their report said retail costs of all food averaged a .04 percent drop from Oct. 18 to Nov. 15, of this year, the sharpest decline being 1.8 per cent in meat costs.

The department said the November index for all foods was 77.8 per cent of the 1923-25 average, 7.0 per cent lower than a year ago and 27.1 percent below November, 1929.

The percentages of increase or decrease in retail costs of all foods in principal cities between Oct. 18 and Nov. 15 included: (All percentages are decreases unless otherwise designated);

Dallas, Tex., 1.4; Houston, Tex., 0.2; and El Paso, Tex., 1.1 increase.

Motorist Swaps Car For A Cow To Beat License Tax

FORT SMITH, Ark., Dec. 15 (AP)—A motorist was brought before Municipal Judge J. A. Gallher a few days ago on a charge of driving without license plates. He was given a postponement.

He came back today, told the court he had swapped his car for a cow, "because I don't have to have any plates for her."

Okay, said the judge, "but don't try to sell any milk without a license."

Beer Licenses Are Cancelled

AUSTIN, Dec. 15 (AP)—Still in possession of its civil authority, despite a court ruling criminal complaints can not be brought for possession of liquor in a beer establishment, the liquor board today cancelled three beer licenses for that offense.

Liquor Administrator Bert Ford said a ruling of the court of criminal appeals yesterday did not affect section 19 of the liquor control act which provides authority for cancellation and suspension of licenses, a civil matter.

He said the suspensions were applied to L. J. Small of Pelly, Leory Quortman of Crosby and Fred McMichael of Goose Creek.

The criminal appellate court voided two sections of the liquor act authorizing fines for possession of hard liquor on a premises licensed to sell beer because the penalties involved were conflicting.

No Civic Effect

"The fact the decision came from the court of criminal appeals precludes the possibility of any effect on the board's civil authority," Ford said.

"The possession of liquor on a beer premises is still an offense for which the license is revokable."

The appellate court said the conflict in the law undoubtedly was due

Texan Says State May Have To Set Up Its Own Laboratory; Disappointment Shown

AUSTIN, Dec. 15 (AP)—The observation "Texas may ultimately have to build its own laboratory" to the many subjects it covered and possibly to confusion attending the dying hours of the legislative session at which the control act was generally overhauled.

In his opinion Associate Justice F. L. Hawkins directed the matter to the attention of the lawgivers for possible correction at the general session which begins in January.

came from Senator-Elect George Moffett of Chillicothe today, following designation of New Orleans as the site of a federal agricultural research laboratory.

Moffett, a veteran of the house of representatives, said he "deeply regretted" the federal government's action in overlooking Texas.

"The laboratory should be closer to cotton farms than cotton exchanges," he said, "it is to be hoped that it experiments on upland cotton as well as Mississippi delta cotton."

Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas cotton authority who was chairman of a joint faculty-Austin business men's committee which prepared data for the federal government on the advantages of locating the laboratory in the Texas capital, said he still thought "we have the best location for it."

Cox said the university's libraries and laboratory facilities were among the best in the south.

Ladies Night Held By Plainview Club

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 15—The Plainview Kiwanians, their ladies and other guests greeted the holiday season over banquet tables Tuesday night at the Hilton hotel when 95 persons were present for the Kiwanis annual ladies night.

The Christmas spirit, encouraged by seasonal decorations and voiced in song and speech, prevailed in the gathering that annually highlights the club's social calendar.

John F. Mead, president of Amarillo Junior college, spoke on "Americanism." The speaker named democracy, social security, freedom of speech and of press and a free system of public education and freedom of worship as essentials of Americanism.

Jack Skaggs, Kiwanis president, presided at the meeting. Rev. W. F. Bosen, pastor of the St. Alice Catholic church here, led in singing "Holy Night" and "America" and gave the invocation. P. B. Randolph introduced the guests.

Kiwanian Dr. R. H. Mitchell brought greetings "To the Ladies" and Mrs. G. W. McDonald responded.

A highlight of the program was music and a humorous skit by J. S. Pitman and Gibb and Floy Howard, all of Amarillo.

Six-Year-Old Girl Who Never Heard Of Santa Claus Now Finds New Wonders

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 15. (AP)—A six-year-old girl who never heard of Santa Claus found new wonders today in her first Christmas season away from the farmhouse bedroom in which she spent five years.

Crippled by rickets and weighing only about 31 pounds, Alice Harris was found ten months ago in the southwestern Pennsylvania home of her grandfather, David Harris. Humane authorities charged she was confined as punishment for Martha Harris, her unwed mother.

Since then she has grown physically, but still can't walk or talk. She weighs 42 pounds and her full set of teeth are perfect. Sociologist Kingsley Davis, of Pennsylvania State college, reported Alice played and acted like a 13-month-old baby and seemed to be "without much motivation for learning anything."

At her first Christmas party yesterday Alice laughed huskily, waving her hands and dangling her slim legs from a chair as she played with members of her Sunday school class. Her eyes sparkled.

Mrs. Jennie Rowan who recently assumed care of the child said she "never talked to Alice about Santa Claus. We'll have a Christmas tree for her but we haven't decided on gifts."

"She walks a little if you lead her and can stand alone a few seconds," said Mrs. Rowan, 60-year-old widow who has reared five children of her own.

Trust Officer Faces Charge

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Ledyard Knight, one of three heirs to a $14,000,000 fortune, charged an officer of the United States Trust company with defrauding her and her two infant daughters of a portion of the estate.

In a sworn information, Mrs. Knight also accused Thomas H. Wilson, vice president of the company, of perjury and falsification of state income tax reports.

Was Sole Executor

The trust company was appointed sole executor and trustee of the estate of her father, Lewis Cass Ledyard, jr., prominent attorney and a former director of the Chase National bank, who left his money to her and two other children.

Mrs. Knight's information charged that Vincent Astor and other wealthy men were beneficiaries of a conspiracy to cheat her daughters.

Officers and directors of the United States Trust company, she alleged, perpetrated the conspiracy by paying $250,000 out of the principal of the estate in settlement of a stockholders action against officers and former officers of the Chase bank, including her father.

Directors Are Named

She charged the alleged conspiracy was "for the purpose of benefitting its (the trust company's) four said directors, Frank L. Polk, William Vincent Astor, Roland L. Redmond and Francis T. P. Plimpton, and the clients of the said Plimpton and others."

A $2,500,000 settlement of the stockholders' suit resulted from this alleged conspiracy, she declared, but only her father's estate, the estate of Charles Hayden and Albert H. Wiggin, former Chase bank president, contributed to it, although Astor and other also were defendants.

Gloria Baker Will Wed Heir To Fortune Of $14,000,000

PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 15 (AP)—This city was stirred tonight by announcement that Gloria Baker, patent medicine heiress, would wed Henry J. Topping, jr., heir to a $14,000,000 tinplate fortune.

Mrs. Margaret Emerson of Palm Beach and Sands Point, L. I., announced the wedding would take place Monday at the Emerson estate—just six days after Topping's first wife, Actress Jane Shadduck, was granted a divorce at Bridgeport, Conn.

Engineers estimate the abandoned gold mines of Rhodesia, evidently worked in ancient times, yielded their owners $375,000,000.

Certainly Not Lasting

THE world has yet to be enlightened fully as to the exact terms of the so-called "peace of Munich" which was credited with having preserved peace when Europe seemingly had crossed the threshold of war last September.

But regardless what the terms of that agreement may have been, the world was led to believe that the participants in that conclave had pledged to each other that none would engage, for the time being at least, in territory grabbing. Specifically the world was told that Hitler Germany, having swallowed the choicer portions of Czechoslovakia, was content.

It cannot be said that any considerable portion of the world's population believed those pledges, coming as they did from nations which had proved themselves to be habitual international liars.

As a matter of fact, most of the analyses of the conference were that it merely had postponed inevitable war. But those commentators seemed convinced that the postponement might be for years.

It begins to appear now that the analysts were the most optimistic of optimists. Germany's threatening gestures toward Memel and her attitude toward the Duchy of Luxemburg — Italy's outright demands for French territory justify grave fears that any postponement of war may not be for long.

Our 1938 Cotton Record

ONE of the evidences that the South Plains enjoys a farm prosperity which should endure is supplied by the latest cotton ginning figures.

They show that up to this Dec. 1, 60,000 bales had been ginned in Lubbock county, 52,558 in Lynn county, and 412,795 bales in the 19 counties embraced in the South Plains region.

Those figures, of course, are far short of the same period last year, when we were the beneficiaries of prenomenal crops. But if you should tell someone in almost any portion of Texas that Lubbock's ginnings total 60,000 bales, and if you then should remark that the crop is short, you might be called a monumental fabricator.

Because, in this entire state of Texas, there are fewer than 15 counties which ever reach the 50,000-bale mark in their best years.

For All Of Tech's Friends

ONE point seemingly has not been made entirely clear in connection with the banquet to be tendered by the Texas Tech Alumni association tomorrow honoring Clifford B. Jones of Spur, new president of the college here.

Reports from Tech say that many persons seem under the impression that the banquet is for alumni members only.

That is not the case.

Invited is every friend of Texas Technological college who desires to pay honor to one of the truly outstanding men of Texas who has become president of this great school.

Reservations should be made not later than today by calling the alumni office at the college, telephone 1280.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

THE FIRST PROFILE

Antigonus the Cyclops, or Monoftalmus, one of Alexander's great generals (381-301 B. C.), lost one eye in battle. After Alexander's death, he assumed the sovereignty of all Asia. His vanity led to the first profile portraiture. Being sensitive of his defect, he ordered his likeness engraved on coins in profile instead of full face, as was customary until then.

JUDY ALCOTT—admiral's daughter. She faced a choice between two navy suitors.

DWIGHT CAMPBELL—ambitious lieutenant. He faced a choice between his wife and duty.

JACK HANLEY—flying sailor. He faced a test of a patient love.

MARVEL HASTINGS—navy wife. She faced the test of being a good sailor.

Yesterday: At Marvel's party Judy and Jack overhear Cary Tennant predict that Marvel will not stay long with Dwight and Navy life.

CHAPTER XVII

"Her housewarming was even worse than it would have been if no one had come," said Diane. "I, for one, am through. It was bad enough to be laughed at by those phony celebrities. But to keep trying to make Marvel see the light just because Dwight's unhappy—that's too much!"

Judy was forced to admit that Diane was right. She said, "Forget it, Diane. I'll never mention it again. I know you tried, and that was sweet of you. I promise to torture my friends no more."

"But how about yourself? Satisfied to keep torturing Judy?"

Judy dropped her eyes swiftly, and Diane said, "Sorry."

For weeks afterward, the wives on the station talked about the party. But then it died down, and Judy was glad. As Jack Hanley said sensible, "There's nothing you can do for her. You tried, and she queered it herself. Let her alone!"

Dwight did not telephone or come to see her. He had finally realized, Judy felt, that merely telling Marvel wasn't enough. Anyway, she didn't want anyone to tell her. She was running her own show.

The first sharp pain had settled into a constant feeling of emptiness. Judy tried by seeing Jack every night his ship was in, to fill that void. And then, just before the Texarkana was due to shove off for Bremerton to be laid up in drydock for overhaul, Chris Whiting, Jack's classmate, asked her and Jack to have dinner with him aboard the ship.

Judy hadn't been aboard the Texarkana since the night Dwight told her he was going to marry Marvel. She shrank from going. But she couldn't bear to let Jack know, and so she went.

She had hoped that Dwight would not have the duty tonight. She did not want to see him, but if he was aboard, she knew she would. However, she had not expected to find Marvel. Yet when she entered the ward room, Marvel was the first person she saw. Marvel in a stunning green dinner dress that matched her eyes. Marvel sitting in a deep leather chair, smoking, and looking though she were very much accustomed to the hospitality of the mess.

"How nice to see you!" Marvel said. But her eyes were hostile at once.

"Judy!" Dwight held her hand tightly. "Marvel and I have been meaning to get over for a visit but—"

"You must be very busy," said Judy, smiling. It was comforting to know that Jack was close. She turned and greeted Chris, and the moment passed.

At the dinner table, Judy sat between Jack and Chris. Marvel and Dwight were opposite. But Marvel paid little attention to the other girl. She saved her smiles and her conversation for the men. Judy was relieved rather than offended. She listened to Marvel telling Chris how difficult it was to make up her mind. "One minute I want to go to Bremerton, to be with Dwight when he gets there. The next minute, I think I'd have more fun if I went to Los Angeles. Some friends are taking a cruise in their yacht. That would be nice, too."

After dinner, Chris said that he had some new pictures he wanted Jack and Judy to see. "Spanish stuff. I found them in a little shop on the waterfront."

Marvel said quickly, "Oh, mayn't we come too, Lieutenant Whiting?"

"Delighted to have you, Mrs. Campbell," Chris said politely. But he wasn't delighted, and neither was Judy. The whole evening would be spoiled if she had to remain under the unfriendly glance of Marvel's green eyes.

Dwight's wife exclaimed over the pictures. She said, "Some day I'm going to have a great big redroofed house like this one, here." She described the pictures her interior decorator had purchased for her. But when Chris handed one of the pictures to Judy, Marvel lost interest, and drifted toward the curtained doorway, as if impatient to leave.

"Doesn't this one remind you of Balboa and the Conquistadores and all the old romantic history of California?" Judy asked.

"That's why I bought it," said Chris. "As art it's no great shakes."

"Chris paints himself, you know," Jack explained. "At the Academy he—"

Suddenly they were aware of voices from outside. Someone was passing along the narrow corridor and saying clearly, "I'd tell any wife of mine where she got off! Dinner aboard is all right once in a while, but every night for two weeks is too much. Talk about messroom bills—"

Another man's voice replied. "Oh, Campbell hasn't been married long. He'll put her wise as soon as—" They were gone. Out of earshot.

* * *

The picture in Judy's hands fell to the desk. She looked at Jack, whose face was a study. Chris made for the doorway suddenly, as if he wanted to overtake the speakers.

Judy touched his sleeve. "Don't," she said. "It would only make a scene."

But Marvel, standing as if rooted to the spot, was livid with fury. "How dare they!" she cried passionately. "Dwight! You know who they were!"

Dwight was pale. He said slowly, "Just a couple of ensigns. They—it was unpardonable, but they're young—"

"There's too much hot air about these young squirts fresh out of the Academy!" said Chris. "That was raw!"

Judy remembered that in the Junior Officers' Mess, as well as in the Wardroom, everyone paid his share of the expenses. Messroom bills took a large slice out of an ensign's small pay. Entertaining guests would make the figure jump. If a man had his wife constantly to dinner, that was almost like asking his shipmates to pay for her meals. She understood the resentment in that unknown young man's voice, and she realized that Jack and Chris and even Dwight understood, too.

She turned to the pictures again, and said something about them, as if nothing had happened. Marvel was still biting her lip when they left the room, but by tacit consent, everyone else had dropped the matter.

Later, getting up to go into Dwight's room to comb her hair, Marvel said evenly, "Won't you come, too, Miss Alcott?"

Judy understood that Marvel wanted to question her. She was right. "Do you know who those men were?" Marvel asked, as soon as they were alone.

"No, I don't." Judy said truthfully. She looked at the other girl's snapping green eyes, at the way her exquisitely shod foot tapped the deck. She said, "After all, although they were very flibred, it is true that constant company at dinner makes messroom bills go up. I'm sure you didn't know that."

"Listen!" Marvel said tightly. "You know just who they were, and that's the sort of thing you've been saying about me yourself. You and your friends! Well, let me tell you this: I never liked you. I don't like you now. I hate the Navy. You're in love with my husband—you're just waiting around to pick the bones of my marriage." The little comb she had taken from her handbag snapped in her fingers. "I'll show you up yet!"

Christmas Shopping Sales Higher Than During 1937

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP) — Christmas shopping reports indicate Santa's sack will be heavier this year than last, Secretary Roper said today.

He said data on sales of jewelry, household furnishing and general merchandise indicated dollar volume sales as high or higher than during the fairly good holiday trade a year ago. Because prices are lower this year, he added, the actual number of items sold is far ahead of last year.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By RAY Tucker

THE White House has suddenly substituted a molasses for a vinegar diet in dealing with incoming Congressional cooks. From the way they are laying the political table, the Democrats may be partaking of a family feast by the time the Capitol Hill turkey is stuffed.

The presidential summons of Jimmie Byrnes to a White House consultation was the first surprise, in view of the South Carolinian's sly digs during the last session and his support of "Cotton Ed" Smith in the purge. It suggests that FDR may have learned a lesson. But even more amazing were the advances made by the two Rooseveltians who have always been slightly contemptuous of Congressional and outside critics.

Harry Hopkins imitated "the boss" by seeing Mr. Byrnes and agreeing to enactment of the Hatch bill or a similar measure removing WPA from politics, or vice versa. But it was "Madame Perkins" who fell off the famous high horse in a histrionic way. Before American Legion Commander Stephen Chadwick appeared before the Dies committee to condemn her alleged favoritism toward Harry Bridges, she asked the soldiers' spokesman to lunch. She wanted to tell her side of the story. For "Miss Perkins" this step was so remarkable that it would shock nobody if she were telling bedtime stories next.

WEDGE: The State department hears from confidential sources that Herr Hitler's foreign and domestic policies have provoked a fierce battle between two factions in his immediate household.

Messrs. Goering and Schacht, being in charge of military and financial matters, are deeply disturbed over Der Fuehrer's warlike excursions and anti-Jewish excesses. They figure that this program tends to dissipate the nation's material resources and destroy its reputation abroad. Instead of seeking European dominion, they want him to consolidate gains at home and expand trade through more peaceful means. Otherwise, they warn—though they probably don't dare tell it to Hitler himself—that the Reich will become an outlawed nation ruling through fear alone. Spurring Hitler on to an iron policy is Propaganda Minister Goebbels, and a clash between him and Goering—each hates the other—is believed to be imminent.

These reports of internal dissension lie behind the President's repeated efforts to discredit the dictator's more extreme policy. As Woodrow Wilson eventually drove a wedge between the Kaiser and the German people, so FDR feels he has a chance to bring Germany to her senses. The behind-the-scenes feud encourages him in this strategy.

EXCEPTION: Tommie Corcoran has privately rushed to the defense of the legion of lawyers he has placed in policy-making places in old-line and New Deal agencies around Washington. He hopes to keep them immune from the rules that apply to more mortal government employes.

Some time ago President Roosevelt ordered that most of the new bureaus be blanketed under Civil Service. It drew a howl from Republicans, who charged that he was freezing his chosen people into their present jobs, and thus fastening the New Deal upon government. However, it was admittedly a first and necessary move toward extending the merit system into sprawling agencies hitherto susceptible to political influence.

Tommie, however, wants his family of lawyers exempted from the presidential ruling. For one thing, it would require newcomers to his coterie to take competitive examinations, and though they may be gifted men, many would find it difficult to qualify under this system. Secondly, employes under Civil Service advance slowly in rank and pay, and they cannot be shifted around in accord with the Corcoran national plan. And there's the further fact that he might lose his grip on them if they came under Civil Service.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE National Association of Manufacturers "got religion" in a big way this year. Its annual "Program for American Progress", adopted at last week's New York convention, contrasts amazingly in its tempefate and "liberal" tone with the corresponding platforms of recent years.

Earlier ones invariably bristled with denunciations of New Deal agencies and policies, insistence on the "open shop", demands that government and labor quit harrying business. This one stresses the "true harmony of interest" between industry, agriculture and labor, in cooperation with government. Doves of peace flutter through almost every paragraph.

Efforts to incorporate planks demanding amendment of the Wagner act and condemning Secretary Hull's trade policies were squelched behind the scenes. The program does declare against government competition with private enterprise, share-the-wealth taxation, excessive government spending, etc., but even these criticisms are gently crooned, not shrieked from the housetops.

MOTIVE: A strenuous backstage battle preceded the final drafting of this pacific document by the NAM's Resolution committee. There were plenty of hard-boiled right-wingers in the organization who wanted to heave the customary hot bricks at the administration and at labor. But the "liberal" element finally gained the upper hand and kept it.

This should not be taken to mean that a majority of business men have suddenly become ardent admirers of the New Deal and the CIO. They are privately as suspicious and critical of many Roosevelt policies as ever.

But they have reached the conclusion at last that the hammer-and-tongs stuff wasn't getting them anywhere. They decided that a cooperative attitude would improve their practical relations with government and labor. They feel they have left Mr. Roosevelt no excuse to crack down on them as economic "Lord Macaulay." That's the inside motive for their change of front.

ACUTE: Two developments of recent months played a big part in converting the N.A.M. to a policy of pacifism. One is the object lesson in cordial cooperation between the Securities and Exchange commission and the New York Stock exchange, which is plainly beneficial to the latter.

The other is the fact that leaders of both the AFL and the CIO are privately showing a desire to deal directly and reasonably with business instead of leaning on the government and joining forces with it against business. Far-sighted industrial chiefs want to encourage that tendency.

The shift in NAM psychology is likely to have far-reaching effects. Shrewd New York observers comment that the business angle in the government-business-labor triangle has finally changed from obtuse to acute.

FREE: In yesterday's column we reported the view, held in high New York quarters, that the Munich Pact may eventually lead to formation of a United States of Europe if it is able to survive for a few years the strenuous and persistent efforts to wreck it.

Naturally a United States of Europe would have to develop as circumstances direct, not in accordance with our pattern. Differences of race, language and tradition will complicate matters enormously. But the essential point, as keen New York analysts see it, is that, if arms races are to be continued, more jobs must be created in industries of peace. And, if industry is to flourish adequately, the numerous customs barriers in Europe must eventually be abolished.

It is clear that our own country could never have built up a high standard of living based on efficient industrial methods without free trade between the 48 states. Mass production and internal customs houses just don't go together.

* * *

CONTROL: Another point not generally realized: the dictators are compelled to keep the bulk of their young men under arms until there is something else for them to do. The state feeds, clothes and shelters them—and keeps them under control. If suddenly demobilized, they would be on the loose and unable to earn a living, because there are as yet no jobs for them to fill. That would inevitably result in dangerous disorder.

AUSTIN, Dec. 15. (AP)—A four-cornered political race about which the people of Texas have heard little or nothing is going on.

It is a contest for chief clerk of the new House of Representatives and to date the campaigning has been quite lusty.

The candidates are E. R. Lindley, for four years doorkeeper of the house; Pammy Yett, parliamentarian under Speaker Coke Stevenson; Horace Parrish, bookkeeper for six years, and James Wigginton, for 12 years assistant to Mrs. Louise Snow Phinney, who has retired from the clerkship, she says, to give full time to the important job of rearing a daughter.

The baby was born to Mrs. Phinney in September. The former chief clerk is the wife of Carl Phinney of Dallas.

Jimmie Late—Nearly

Gov. James V. Allred almost missed a radio talk the other night. He had accepted an invitation to go on the air in connection with presentation of an award to Elmer Tarbox, star halfback of Texas Tech.

As the governor related it at a press conference, he had had an unusually hard day, with a lot of things coming up at the office and attendance at a funeral in the afternoon. The radio broadcasting company offered to install equipment in the manison but the governor said he would save them that expense by going to the studio.

The program started at 7:30 o'clock. Governor Allred said he was very tired and didn't think of the appointment until he happened to pull out his watch and he saw it was 7:28. Then he dashed out of the house with Mrs. Allred yelling after him to be careful not to run over anybody, backed out his car and hurried the six blocks to the radio station. Turning on his automobile radio, he found the program had started.

At a street intersection he turned left, although he wasn't supposed to, ran into the building elevator and told the operator not to stop to let off anybody until he had him at the radio station floor.

When Allred rushed panting into the studio the man in charge was at the point where the governor was supposed to be introduced. That man, of course, was in a cold sweat. He said he had been trying to call the mansion but the line was busy. He handed the governor the script and Allred started reading.

GOVERNOR Allred was almost a passenger on a transport plane which lost a motor near Waco short time ago, he disclosed at the same press conference.

He had been at Dallas but decided to come back in a National Guard ship so he would have more time to get ready for a banquet at the mansion honoring the Longhorn football team.

"It would have scared me to death to see that motor falling off," he said. The pilot made a safe landing at Waco.

Governor Allred has made many flights but still doesn't especially like it. Mrs. Allred never has become resigned to the idea of her husband's flying.

Warns Against Fires

The State Game department has instructed its wardens throughout Texas to warn hunters of the dangers during hunting seasons from grass and forest fires.

It points out that such fires destroy game, cover and feed and the effects often cannot be overcome for long periods.

Some simple suggestions for preventing fires are:

1. Be careful to extinguish matches before throwing them away.

2. Throw cigarette and cigar stubs and knock out pipe ashes in a place clear of brush, leaves and needles, and always stamp out any fire.

3. If hunting at night with torches be careful not to scatter fire.

A MAXIMUM of 63 jobs to fill and 2,300 aplications for them already received! It is a situation that has Bascom Giles, land commissioner-elect, scratching his head.

As soon as the result of the election in which he defeated Commissioner W. H. McDonald became known, a tide of applicants for positions in the land office rolled toward Giles. It never has stopped.

Giles has explained the land office is one of the smallest departments in the government from the standpoint of personnel, but the applications still are being received.

As a matter of fact, many present employes will be retained. Giles has announced John W. Hawkins, a former chief clerk of the department, will resume that position.

Hawkins was chief clerk when J. H. Walker was commissioner. When Walker retired, Hawkins ran for commissioner and was beaten by McDonald.

TARZAN AND THE FORBIDDEN CITY. No. 11 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Magra slipped cautiously along the corridor until she came to the rooms occupied by the Gregory party. As she had hoped, in their hurried departure they had neglected to lock the doors. She glanced up and down the hall, then crept stealthily inside . . .

. . . . Meanwhile, Tarzan, Captain Lavac and Helen's father were pursuing a fruitless search for the missing girl. In the jungle, the ape-man would have hunted her out unerringly, but here he was utterly lost in this unfamiliar quagmire of civilization.

They returned empty-handed to the hotel to make new plans. Suddenly a window pane crashed, and a missile fell to the floor, a note tied to a stone. Frederick Gregory read it: "If you want your daughter, tie Athair map to stone and throw out window."

"They can have the confounded map," he cried. "It's a cheap price to pay." He dashed then to Helen's room and jerked open the drawer where the map was kept. Gregory gasped. The map was not there. The only means of rescuing his daughter was gone!

Interstate Compact Commission Will Seek Two-Year Extension Of Activities.

Other States To Be Sought

FORT WORTH, Dec. 15 (AP)—The interstate compact commission today voted unanimously to seek, through congressional approval, a two-year extension of life and strongly indicated its intention of including non-member oil producing states to become members of the body.

The action was taken at the final session of a two-day meeting devoted to outlining the compact's future.

May Visit California

The commission left to Chairman Ernest O. Thompson, of Texas the selection of the next meeting place in March, and Thompson inferred he wanted to go to California—in hopes of inducing that great oil-producer to become a compact member.

Thompson so replied to a suggestion from Neal Anderson of Torrence, Calif., that the compact next meet in California while the world's fair is on. An invitation from California's governor, he said, probably would be forthcoming and Thompson indicated he was waiting, before deciding on the next meeting place.

Six states now form the compact—but several compact members at today's opening meeting said other oil-producing states must be induced to join. This is necessary, they said, in order that the entire production of the nation shall be guided along sane conservation lines. If one or two states "kick over the lines," much of the compact's work is nullified, they added.

Tells Of Problems

Anderson, representing the governor of California, responded with an explanation of his state's grave oil problems, chief of which he described as the control of new oil fields. "We are discovering one new field right after another," he said, "and the problems have grown very serious."

He assured the compact commission his state intended "playing the game with the other states," and predicted that during the next California legislative session the state might enter the compact.

Thompson also included Louisiana, second largest oil producer among the non-member states, and Michigan as states the compact would make every effort to enlist. No representative of Louisiana appeared on the floor to express his state's opinion, but from Michigan's unofficial delegates came a forecast that state would enact both conservation statutes and enter the compact next year.

Abilene Horse Likes Bright Lights; Owner Objects

ABILENE, Dec. 15 (AP)—The electric light bills of Rex A. Smith of Abilene are mounting because of his polo mare, Punkin.

Punkin suddenly took a liking to bright lights and turns them on by herself. The lights are the kind with a cord-pull switch and, Punkin learned that by jerking the cord with her teeth she gets illumination.

Frequently Smith has awakened in the night to discover the stable lights ablaze. He plans to install a different type of switch to remedy the situation.

Mrs. Roosevelt Will Enter Business To Protect Son

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will enter the insurance business Monday—not to sell policies but to protect the interests of her eldest son, Jimmy.

White House officials said today that was her purpose in accepting membership on the board of Roosevelt and Sargent, Boston firm formed by James Roosevelt and John Sargent in 1931.

The first lady will be elected a director at a meeting next Monday, Sargent explained in Boston, "and will take her son's place."

Resigned As Secretary

James, better known as Jimmy, recently resigned as his father's secretary to become vice-president of Samuel Goldwyn, inc., in Hollywood, Cal.

Mrs. Roosevelt, it was explained, agreed to become a director merely to do what she could as a mother to take care of Jimmy's interests while he is on the West coast.

Although Jimmy resigned from the insurance firm when he joined the president's secretariat in January, 1937, he continued to receive dividends on insurance he had helped place previously.

Rules For Preventing Tragedy During The Holiday Season Are Announced Thursday

Don't let Christmas be a tragic holiday. Some hazards reach their peak in the holiday season. Observe all precautions and avoid sorrow in your family.

J. E. Maisen, chairman of the chamber of commerce fire prevention committee, suggests the following rules:

1. Drive carefully when you go visiting or shopping. Roads are slippery and pedestrians are hurrying. Don't drive if you drink.
2. Prevent falling on icy sidewalks and steps by using salt and sand.
3. Do not use cotton, pyroxlin plastic, paper or other inflammable objects in trimming the Christmas tree.
4. Use safe ladders—not chairs, boxes or tables—and be careful when hanging decorations.
5. Do not burn candles near flammable materials.
6. Don't use faulty electric wiring or makeshift connections.
7. Tissue paper or other wrappings should not be allowed to collect outside of regular containers.
8. Loose paper or excelsior should not be burned in an open fireplace.
9. Be careful that toys are not left on stairs or on the floor where they may cause a fall.
10. False whiskers and cotton disguise suits are very flammable—take the tip and don't smoke in them.

Montana Youngster Indexes Gifts For Santa's Benefit

HELENA, Mont., Dec. 15 (AP)—One Helena boy believes in simplifying things for Santa Claus.

His letter, addressed to Santa at the "North Pole" contained an alphabetical index of all the things he wanted. It was three pages long and resembled the toy index in a mail order house catalog.

Postmaster Harry Hendricks opened the letter for postal inspection because of the "indefinite nature of the address."

Tech Students Always Busy

Nomination for the "workingest" college anywhere—Texas Tech.

Slightly more than forty seven per cent of the student body of 3,507 earns all or part of its expenses.

The report came from the offices of the dean of men and the dean of women, after a recent employment survey.

Percentage of men students employed is higher than that of women students. A total of 1,331 of 2,242 men students enrolled are employed. Number of women students working is 328.

Applicants Total 1,737

The report given from the office of James G. Allen, dean of men, showed that number of applications for work on file this college year has been 1,737 and the number last year was 1,175; number of men students regularly employed is 1,192 and number last fall was 875; number men students employed by the NYA is 139 and number last fall semester was 140; men students desiring work but unemployed is 400 and number last fall semester was 258; average salary per month for men is $23.07 at 32 1-4 cents average per hour and last year the average was $29.32 at 29 cents per hour; total number of men students regularly employed by college is 276 and total in 1937 was 246.

The report showed 214 of the 473 agricultural students are employed, and 328 of the 778 engineering men students are employed. Those figures include graduate students in those divisions.

Women's employment figures were classified as follows in a report from the dean of women's office: 90, holding NYA student jobs; 80 working for room and board; 25, employed in dormitories; 23 in secretarial positions; 18, regularly employed by college; 33, clerks and cashiers; 6, graduate assistants; 14, student assistants; 10, switchboard operators; 5, teachers; 24, holding miscellaneous jobs.

HEART DISEASE FATAL

ELGIN, Dec. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Frank Hughes, pioneer land owner in Lee and Bastrop counties, died of heart disease at her home here today. Several children, all of Elgin, survive.

FHA Scope Is Now Enlarged

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt greatly expanded the Federal Housing administration's scope today by making a $1,000,000,000 increase in the amount of more mortgages which it may insure.

(The FHA, set up to facilitate the building of new homes, insures mortgage holders against loss. The law says the total of such mortgages under insurance shall be limited to $2,000,000,000 at any one time, but gives Mr. Roosevelt authority to raise this limit to $3,000,000,000. This he did today.)

Increase Necessary

In a letter to Stewart McDonald, FHA administrator, Mr. Roosevelt said it was obvious that the increase was necessary if the agency were to continue granting all eligible applications for insurance.

McDonald had recommended the increase in a letter to Mr. Roosevelt on December 6. He said the unobligated balance of the original $2,000,000,000 authorization stood at $415,000,000 on December 1. In addition, he said, mortgages in process of appraisal on that date aggregated $115,000,000 and applications for mortgage insurance are being received at the rate of more than $100,000,000 monthly.

New Dredge Invented To Get Gold From Ocean Bottom

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (AP)—To work the gold-bearing ocean bottom of Stevens Passage, Alaska, John C. Williams of Reno has invented a new dredge. The mechanism was tried out in Monterey bay recently. It brought bucket after bucket of sand and slime to the surface.

Williams' device lowers two buckets by electric power to a depth of 3,000 feet. The power of the ocean currents themselves are also used to work the machinery.
