Henry Ford is on the war path. He is striking back at those who have been seeking to prevent his acquisition of the Muscle Shoals nitrate plant. He says the fertilizer trust, the power trust, the chemical trust, the Wall street money brokers and all other interests that fear to have Muscle Shoals developed along lines that will serve all the people most, are deluging congress with literature that grossly misrepresents the facts. Henry has the figures. He says his offer of five million dollars for the nitrate plant is 5.62 per cent higher than their cost, or a higher rate of return on salvage than on the Old Hickory plant at Nashville and the wooden ships of the United States shipping board. If all these powerful interests, backed by a political trust, are arrayed against Henry, then he is going to have rough sledding. There is a National Fertilizer Association. All southern planters and farmers are its patrons. This assocation has scattered broadcast its literature and charges that the Ford offer amounts to a subsidy. This is the retort of the courteous western wizard, "Subsidy! A subsidy means getting somethng from the government for nothing. We are not asking the government for a nickle. Instead we are giving the government an offer unprecedented for its generosity." Diogenes is invited to return to the earth. An honest man, a philanthropist who is willing to give and not take from the government, has been found after all these centuries. Just now the agile billionaire of the West has the administration on the hip. If his offer is rejected it will be a campaign issue this year. If it is accepted, there is going to be a tremendnous upheaval the nation over. Henry says there is water power enough going to waste in the states east of the Mississippi river to furnish heat, light and power for all the people in the United States. If so, fuel is going to be cheap some day.

Governor Neff has asked the preachers to preach and the editors to editorialize upon the subject of law enforcement next Sunday. This will work no hardship in these quarters. The Record News preaches and editorializes on law enforcement, written law enforcement, every day that its forms are sent to press. The Record News is for the written law, the enforcement of the written law and the punishment of those who violate the written law regardless of color or creed or condition.

FLOWERS FOR NEW FEDERAL ACCOUNT PLAN

Uncle Sam's New Budget System Is Simple as Tin Cup and Clear as Plate Glass, Replacing—

Slip Shod Method Whereby Treasury Could Be Looted and Looter Get Away Without Being Seen.

By HERBERT COREY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—For the first time since that hard winter at Valley Forge the government at Washington knows how nuch it is spending and on what and why.

This statement is lit ully true. More than that, it is a tale of a revolution. Any citizen with a knowledge of the three Rs and a slight dash of common sense can pick up the Alternative Budget—price a dollar and a quarter of the Public Printer—and discover in three minutes reading that precise fact about the government he is interested in knowin.

"How much does our army cost" he may ask himself.

Very well. He turns to "army" and there it is. The total cost, as planned by the budget doctors, is before his eyes. He runs his eyes down the list and discovers what are the various items of that army cost. When the appropriations bill is finally passed, it will dovetail in with the Alternative Budget.

Government Business Now Clear.

The spending end of the government's business has been made as simple as a tin cup. It is as clear as plateglass. It is a extraordinary that those who have learned of the existence of the Alternative Budget are almost hysterical about it. Congressmen become practically unintelligible in their emotion.

"I have been in congress a good many years," said one to me, "and I have never before known just how the government spent its money."

Under the old rule it was almost literally the case that to discover just how much the army cost the country each year one would be forced to employ the services of a chartered accountant. It needs were set forth in the book of estimates, which is considerably larger and less consecutive than Webster's Unabridged Dictionary. The appropriations made for it were hidden in four or five different bills. This was the case with each department. Some managed to get into seven or eight bills.

"Why was it?" I asked.

Actual Expenditures Concealed.

"A bad system," was the reply from all sides. "Or no system at all. Departmental financial officers got into the habit of asking this committe for money for one thing, and another committee for money for another. They liked the method, for it helped conceal the actual expenditures of a department. The congressmen were helpless."

In one case a congressman was genuinely interested in the expenditures of a certain department. He devoted his time to tracking those exepditures through various committees. When the day came for voting on the appropriations bill he was forced to admit that he did not know how much money that department would spend. No one knew. If any one did know, it was kept a secret. One consequence was that appropriations were made in uneven measure. Instead of fixing the total to be spent

VINSON FLAYS ATTITUDE OF TEXAS SOLONS

"Never Before Have Texas Educational Institutions Been So Hampered," Says University Head.

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 17.—"Absolutely no confidence is reposed in the governing board of any state institution by the legislature of the state," Dr. Robert E. Vinson, president of the University of Texas, declared today before the executive board of the Federated Clubs of Texas, which began a two-day session here today.

"The rascality of the officials is presupposed and we are so hampered by petty restrictions as to make progress very uncertain and almost impossible," Dr. Vinson continued. "Never before in my opinion has the educational system of Texas been in such jeopardy. The educational institutions of the state must be made independent of the governor, the legislature, and supreme court. There is but one way of obtaining this goal, that by constitutional amendment."

D. Vinson asked the support of the board members and the club women of Texas they represent. He also asked that they do not regard the "shacks" on the university campus as indicative of the spirit of the university but said "rather they are expressive of a spirit of determination not to be held back by untoward circumstances."

There were forty members of the board present. Mrs. Lee Joseph of San Antonio, president of the board, presided. Following Dr. Vinson's address of welcome, she reminded the board of its power and said that Dr. Vinson has told them what they wished to hear. She also reminded the board of Governor Neff's declaration in Fort Worth recently that he wold like to see women members of the Texas legislature.

Reports of various committees and officers consumed the rest of the day.

FRUIT GROWERS MEETING OPENS AT FORT WORTH

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 17.—A. D. Hitz, president of the Western Fruit Jobbers association, in an address before the convention of the organization, which is being held in this city, declared that "while it is believed that the 'corner has been turned' business is still in the reconstruction period." Hitz warned members of the association to exercise economy.

"The year 1921, with all its misgivings, is behind us," he said. "Business conditions have been strained almost to the breaking point, but we have weathered the storm. We have much to be thankful for.

Lloyd George Celebrates His 59th Birthday

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Premier Lloyd George celebrated his 59th birthday. He was mundated with congratulations, but spent most of the day in the preparing of a speech for delivery Saturday before an important coalition liberal conference when he is expected to make a party pronouncement.

A week ago it was assumed that the speech would take the form of an announcement of the dissolution of parliament in February, but the political experts now for the most part agree that the fall of the Briand cabinet, entailing disarrangements of the results hoped for from the Cannes meeting has induced the premier to abandon his idea of early elections.

JOHN L. LEWIS ASKS MINERS TO HOLD POSITION

By Associated Press.

SHAMOKIN, Penn., Jan. 17.—John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, today told the anthracite miners wage convention there must be no backward step in their attitude toward the demand of coal companies to reduce wages. Delivering what the delegates in the convention regarded as a keynote speech for the organized miners of the country, Mr. Lewis declared:

"When I say that we will take no backward step I say it with an appreciation of what that policy means if it requires an industrial conflict to avoid taking a backward step, then the industrial conflict may come."

Mr. Lewis is presiding at the hard coal miners' convention which will formulate wage and other demands to be presented to the coal operators before March 31 when the present contract expires. Wage agreements in the soft coal fields expire at the same time for the first time in many years. Predictions have been made by hard coal miners that instead of agreeing to a wage reduction the anthracite men will demand increases, among other things.

After the convention adjourned until tomorrow, a representative of the general committee of anthracite operators gave out a statement that "full time operations of the anthracite mines on scale heretofore maintained will not be possible in the coming year without adjustments which will perdit reducing the price to the consumer."

DEATH PENALTY FOR CONVICTED NEGRO AT WACO

Three Ranger Armed With Pistols and Machine Gun Are Present When Sentence Is Read.

By Associated Press.

WACO, Texas, Jan. 17.—The death penalty was given to George Killough, negro, when he was found guilty by a jury in the Fifty-fourth District court this afternoon of the murder of S. L. Connally, night-watchman, on December 1. The jury reached its verdict in less than 15 minutes.

Three Texas rangers, armed with pistols and machine gun, stood by the negro's side while the sentence was read by the court clerk. The rangers have been here to see that no violence was attempted against Killough. The verdict was quietly received by the crowd that packed the court room. Killough was unmoved by the verdict. Trial of the case began yesterday morning.

Two other negroes, Jake and Elijah Graves, indicted with Killough for the crime, will go to trial tomorrow.

TESTIMONY IS BEGUN AGAINST BUCK GARRETT

By Associated Press.

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan. 17.—The state won first victory in the ouster proceedings against Sheriff Buck Garrett of Carter county today when Special Judge E. D. Oldfield in the district court overruled an objection of the defense and allowed Assistant Attorney General Elmer L. Fulton to proceed with introduction of testimony in support of his motion that a temporary order be issued suspending Garrett from office until the case is brought to trial.

Ouster action against W. R. Highnight, Ardmore chief of police; J. H. Langston, mayor of Healdton, and H. A. (Lem) Bates, chief of police of Healdton, was not touched upon today and it is thought likely will be taken up separately. These officials are charged with misconduct on three counts.

In his argument for Garrett's suspension, Fulton cited numerous authorities and declared it would be impossible for him to try the case if the court refused to suspend the sheriff. "Justice cannot be done in the case," he said, "so long as the defendant remains in office."

U. S. SEEKS TO REDEFINE OPEN DOOR OF CHINA

By Proposal Other Powers Would Agree Not to Violate Principle of Equal Economic Opportunity.

Resolution Is Welcomed by Chinese but Is Not Accorded Cordial Reception by Parley as Whole.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—An American proposal to redefine the open door policy in China and create an international board to examine both existing and future concessions which appear to conflict with it, was debated without decision today by the far eastern committee of the Washington conference.

The British and Italians accepted the plan in principle, but the French withheld assent to some of its provisions and the Japanese reserved judgment pending communication with Tokio. The subject will be taken up again tomorrow with all sign pointing to a long and interesting discussion.

In brief, the American resolution would bind the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, Belgium, Portugal, and the Netherlands not to seek special spheres of influence in China nor secure concessions or monopolies which would abridge the principle of equal economic and commercial opportunity.

China, on her part, would agree to co-operate in maintaining that equality, and the nine powers collectively would authorize establishment of a board of reference to review present and future concessions to determine whether they conflict with the open door thus defined.

It was around the proposal for an inquiry into concessions now establishment in China, as well as those proposed in the future, that most of the debate in the Far Eastern committee centered. By some of the delegates it was understood that such an inquiry might open up the whole question of Japanese boldings in Manchuria, while in other quarters it was suggested that the resolution might, by indirection, lead to a review by the board of the famous "twenty-one demands" controversy.

In that connection it was pointed out that whereas the board's duties in connection with future concessions would be confined under the terms of the resolution to "investigate and report" it would be authorized to inquire into existing concessions "for the purpose of endeavoring to arrive at a satisfactory adjustment on equitable terms."

In the Chinese delegation the American plan was hailed as a long step in the direction of restored Chinese integrity. By American spokesmen a similar view was expressed, but most of the other delegations withheld comment.

So completely unexpected was the proposal that when Secretary Hughes had completed its reading at the committee meeting there was an interim of silence which delegates said became embarrassing before it was broken. After the several delegations had waited for some time without any one volunteering to open discussion, Senator Schanzer, head of the Italians, rose and asked a question about the meaning of some of the provisions. Secretary Hughes' reply opened up a general discussion which continued with some animation for three hours.

WOMAN MAYOR AT AGE OF 80 PLANS TO CLEAN UP TOWN

By Associated Press.

FAILED TO SOLVE PROBLEM OF LOW TEACHERS' WAGES

By Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 17.—School teaching is a difficult job with small pay. Counterfeiting is comparatively easier and much more lucrative.

This was the philosophy of LeRoy Perkins, negro school teacher of Elton, La. Therefore he became a "Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" teaching during the prescribed hours and counterfeiting silver dollars on the side.

Today he plead guilty to the charge of counterfeiting in the United States district court here and Judge G. W. Jack sentenced him to spend 18 months in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga.

WATSON OPENS ATTACK FROM NEW POSITION

Burial of Men Hanged for "Unmentionable Crimes," Beside Dead Heroes Is Sharply Criticized.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—After presentation of testimony by way of denial, war department records, submitted today to the senate committee investigating charges that American soldiers had been hanged without trial in France, showed that on the body of two men dug up in the little cemetery at Bazeiller, the ropes and black caps in which they were put to death on the gallows had not been removed prior to burial.

Edwin E. Lamb of Hartford, Connecticut, a negro, overseas, testified that in the case of one of the men hanged, the body was placed quickly in a coffin and so far as he recalled the rope and cap were left just where the hangman had placed them. But in both cases, other witnesses declared they were removed before the bodies were prepared for shipment home to relatives. Senator Watson, democrat, Georgia, whose charges led to the investigation, sharply attacked the burial of men hanged for "unmentionable crimes" alongside of soldiers who fell in battle. Asking a witness if white men and negroes were buried in the same part of the cemetery, the senator was told that they were. Taking up the charges of former service men that bodies shipped here from France were handled in helter-skelter fashion, without proper effort to establish identity, officers and men attached to the graves registration service denied foundation for such assertions and insisted that not one body was brought home before identification had been established.

Turning from burial methods John Sebastian, Jacksonville, Florida told how, when a prisoner at Gievres, he saw the bodies of two negroes lying face down on the ground and was informed by the guard that two negroes had been lynched. He was unable, however, to say whether the bodies were those of the men put to death by a soldier mob.

NEGRO PACKING HOUSE WORKER IS STRUNG UP

By Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 17.—The body of Jake Brooks, negro, who was kidnapped from his home here Sunday night was found this afternoon hanging to a tree six miles south of town by a party of searchers headed by Chief of Police Clark, according to a telephone message received at police headquarters. Brooks had been employed at a local packing plant since the calling of the strike of packing house workers.

According to the message the body appeared to have been hanging from the limb about two days. It was only ten yards from the roadway.

Brooks was taken from his home by a band of seven armed white men who drove up in two motor cars and called him to the door of his home, according to statements made to police by other persons living in the house.

The men were said to have forced the negro to enter one of the automobiles, after which they dashed away. They were not masked, according to statements to the police. When officers reached Brooks' home in response to a call, the whole neighborhood was in an uproar, but their was no trace of the abductors.

By Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 17.—Fifteen minutes after the body of Jake Brooke, negro, employed at a local packing company since the strike here, had been found hanging to a tree Southeast of Capitol Hill, a suburb of Oklahoma City today, Nathan Butler and Robert Allen, two negro strikers were arrested and held for investigation in connection with the lynching upon orders of W. J. Clark, chief of police.

SENATE VOTES FOR AMENDING RESERVE ACT

Board's Appointive Membership Is Increased From Five to Six Including Farmer Representative.

Adopted Measure Drawn as Compromise After Harding Indicated Disapproval of Original Proposal.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The first step to bring about farmer representation on the federal reserve board was taken late today by the senate in the passage of the Kellogg-Smith compromise bill increasing the boards appointive membership from five to six and providing that the agricultural interests shall have a spokesman among them.

The vote by which the bill was passed was 63 to 9. Seven of those who opposed the proposition were republicans and two democrats. They were Pomerene, Ohio, and Williams, Mississippi, democrats; Brandegee, Connecticut; Calder, New York; Edge, New Jersey; Keyes, New Hampshire; McLean, Connecticut; Moses, New Hampshire and Wadsworth, New York republicans.

By the bill, which constitutes an amendment to the federal reserve act the limited designation of the present law is wiped out and instead of the specific provision for the naming of two bankers to the board, the statutes, if the house agrees, will direct the president, in making appointments to have "due regard to a fair representation of the financial agricultural, industrial and commercial interests and geographical divisions of the country."

The measure also provides that hereafter no federal reserve bank may enter into a contract for banking homes if their cost is to exceed $250,000 unless with the consent of congress.

Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, who first offered the specific provision as to farmer representation withdrew his amendment and called upon his democratic colleagues to support the substitute, which, he declared to be adequate and to meet all demands.

While the senate was moving slowly toward passage of the measure, word was received by senators that Mr. Harding would observe the intent of the legislation and would name the farmer member. He had previously indicated disapproval of the original proposal and the compromise measure resulted.

THREE TESTIFY IN NEW TRIAL OF ARBUCKLE

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—Taking testimony in the second manslaughter trial of Roscoe Arbuckle got well under way here today. Three witnesses were examined.

Leo Friedman, assistant district attorney, made the opening statement for the prosecution, outlining evidence whereby it hopes to prove that Miss Virginia Rappe, died of injuries received at Arbuckle's hands at a party he gave in his hotel rooms here last September.

The outstanding feature of today's proceedings was the submission of a report prepared by Doctors William Ophuls, G. Y. Rusk and D. M. Erwin, which was used in the first trial of Arbuckle.

F. X. Latulip, diagram expert of the San Francisco police department, who made maps and took photographs of the Arbuckle suite in the Hotel St. Francis, was on the witness stand when court adjourned until tomorrow.

SPEAKER CONDEMNS OFFICIALS LAX IN FULFILLING DUTY

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 17.—"Fifteen per cent of the federal judges should be impeached." P. A. Baker, Montgomery, Ala., general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of America, declared in his address at the opening session of the first annual convention of the law enforcement league here today.

Several hundred persons attended the opening session of the convention. An afternoon session was addressed by Cora B. Megrall, president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, Atticus Webb, president of the Texas Anti-Saloon league, R. W. Hall and Dr. J. P. Sewell.

FLOWERS FOR NEW FEDERAL ACCOUNT PLAN

by the Agriculture Department, as an example, which total was to be divided between the various services of the department, the items were taken up separately. In one committee half a million dollars might be appropriated for inquiring into the ravages of the cutworm. In the next committee the cost of combating the cutworm might be fixed at $12.50. It was an absurd and nonsensical system.

Used Pastepots and Shears.

The Alternate Budget was not printed until the original budget had been submitted to congress. For lack of time the original budget was prepared after the old receipt. Then the budget doctors got hold of it with shears and pastepots and cut it up and put the various items of the budget under the heads where they belonged and had the new volume printed. The enlightenment—the electric quality of the illumination—that resulted is almost incredible. Last year no one knew—and that is almost literally true—what the government planned to spend either as a whole or for its various parts. Today these facts are set forth in first reader readability.

One consequence is that it may almost be taken for granted that the budget system has come to stay. Whereas in times past, congress and the officers of the various departments, big and little, engaged at this time in the year in a desperate fight, in which the departmental officers sought to get as much money from congress as they could and congress tried to find out how much the country was being asked for and why, in 1922 it seems likely that the discussion will be as temperate and unemotional as though it were held in the backroom of a bank. Congress knows—and for the first time—just how much money it is being asked for. Instead of being an encroachment on congressional prerogatives congress finds it an immense help. The opinion is very general that future administrations will be held to the budget system. Any effort to depart from it would be regarded with grave suspicion.

TWO NEGROES PUT TO DEATH IN NEW JERSEY

By Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 17.—Louis Lively, negro slayer of Matilda Russo, 7 years old, at East Moorestown last June, and George Washington Knight also colored, who killed Mrs. Edith Marshall Wilson, a church organist, at Perthamboy, last March were put to death in the electric chair at the state prison here shortly after 8 o'clock tonight.

The murder of Mrs. Edith Marshall Wilson was declared to have been one of the most brutal in the criminal annals of the state. The young woman, an organist in a Perthamboy church on her way home the night of March 12 last, when she was waylaid and attacked by Knight, who had been drinking heavily. He afterward confessed that he had assaulted her. Medical authorities, after examining the body, declared the woman had died of fright as soon as the negro seized her.

Lively's murder of 7-year-old Matilda Russo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Russo, of East Moorestown, and the burial of the mutilated body in the cellar of the slayer's home last June, aroused great excitement.

GERMAN SPINNERS GREATLY INCREASE RAW COTTON STOCK

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—German cotton mills were operating at 85 per cent capacity at the beginning of the year with twice as much raw cotton on hand as at the time last year according to official statistics issued today.

The outlook for this year was called "problematical" in view of the slump in business during the last few weeks which followed the preceding drop in the value of the mark.

ELECTRA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HOLDS ENTHUSIASTIC ANNUAL MEETING OF ITS MEMBERSHIP

Special to the Record News

ELECTRA, Jan. 17.—Plans for the coming year and accomplishments of the past as outlined by various speakers featured an enthusiastic meeting of the membership of the Chamber of Commerce here tonight—the annual affair, which drew an attendance of around 200.

Plans for the new year include the continuation of the campaign to hold Electra trade at home and to reach out for trade from new territory; the securing and opening of a good road to the irrigation dam and a continuation of work for civic betterment of living conditions in Electra.

An important announcement of the evening was that the membership campaign just ending was an entire success, and that, with several committees yet to hear from, that the workers had gone over the top on their 1922 budget, which called for $9,500.

The banquet was served by the women of the First Methodist church, and was served in the basement. The meeting was opened by an invocation by Rev. Byron Hester.

E. R. Brown, president, acted as toastmaster for the evening. In giving a summary of the year's work of the organization, Mr. Brown mentioned, among other things, the work toward the securing of good roads; the realization of the city park; the success of the Fourth of July picnic sponsored by the organization; and the saving of a good portion of the cotton crop of the territory by the importation of Mexican labor at a time when it was feared that it could not be gathered.

Mr. Brown was followed on the program by Adolph Boldt of St. Louis Southern secretary for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Mr. Boldt's subject was the "Greatest Room in the World," which he defined as the room for improvement. He spoke of the importance of Chamber of Commerce work and of its benefits to towns and cities. He also called attention to the value of good roads, and that bad roads cost the farmer and the town far more than the cost of good roads amount to. Mr. Boldt also told of wonderful results being obtained by Southern towns through the advertising of their advantages, sketched the improvement of general business conditions, and briefly spoke on the work of the national organization which he represents.

The advantages of good roads, and the advantages of the Colorado-to-Gulf highway were briefly outlined by Capt. Bernard McMahon, field representative of the highway association.

All old directors and five new ones were elected at the meeting. Officers for the new year will be elected during the coming week.

FRANKLIN TO PUT OUT A $1000 CAR EARLY IN YEAR '23

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—A $1,000 car is to be put on the market by the Franklin Automobile company, Syracuse, it was announced today by H. H. Franklin at a meeting of eastern Franklin dealers. A chassis of the new car was exhibited privately on this occasion.

The car has a four-cylinder, air-cooled engine, weighs 1,800 pounds and is of five-passenger size.

Production will commence early in 1923, the actual date depending upon completion of patterns, tools and the securing of machinery. Quantity deliveries are in prospect by April, 1923, at which time output will be nearing the 100 car per day mark.

The new car was developed in 1918 and 1919 and was to have been produced in 1920 but was postponed when business depression hit the country. Franklin officials anticipate that the new car will come on the market at a time when general conditions will be most favorable for volume sale.

The outstanding features of the car, aside from its price, will be its easy riding and handling, road-ability, gasoline and tire economy and the air-cooling system. It will be a "world-wide utility car," Mr. Franklin states.

Besides the $1,000 touring car, a sedan is also to be produced, price of which, although not yet fixed, will be equally low.

Merchandising of the $1,000 car will extend to world markets and will mean considerable expansion of dealerships in this country, the meeting disclosed.

PARRISH IS A CANDIDATE FOR U. S. SENATE

A Native Texan, in Boyhood Knew All About Poverty, but He Faced the Issue and Fought His Way.

School and College Days, His Success as Teacher and Lawyer and Record as Servant of People.

(Reproduced from The Record-News of Sunday to rectify error made in the mechanical make-up of article.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Congressman Lucian W. Parrish, "the man of the West" has announced as a candidate for United States senator as the successor of Charles A. Culberson, subject to the July primary.

He was born in 1878 in Van Alstyne, Grayson county, Texas. In 1887 his father moved to Clay county, settling near a village called Joy. In keeping the wolf from the door during these strenuous days young Parrish had no chance to attend school and his education during that period was confined to such knowledge as one gets in the college of hard knocks.

His mother had ambition for him and she persuaded him when grown to leave the family and go to work on a ranch to get money to pay for his education. He worked for eighteen months and then went to Bowie public schools for a year, returned to ranch work and in the fall of 1899 he entered the North Texas Normal college at Denton.

Leaving Denton in the fall of 1902 he entered the University of Texas. He went there without money, he stayed there seven years, took three degrees, took part in all forms of college athletics, won almost every student honor available, held most offices, won a dozen or more medals as well as an enviable record as a clean, straight forward upstanding man.

Lucian W. Parrish went into the practice of law in 1907 at Henrietta, sitting at a desk that he had bought with borrowed money. He won his cases and made a name for himself by hard work. He always had worked hard and it came natural with him.

He acquired an interest in some land in his neighborhood and it proved valuable. He had triumphed over penury and difficulty in early youth; heroic effort and perseverance placed large achievements to his credit. He found himself respected in his profession, he was honored by his fellow citizens who knew him best and possessed of enough wealth he gave his attention to serving the people of the state.

Having come from the farm he knows the heart of the farmer and he has a heart that beats in accord of the citizen of the soil. During his term of service in congress, Congressman Parrish has devoted himself assiduously to looking after legislation helpful to the farming interest.

Another group that has his fullest support is that composed of our soldiers in the world war and he has given no small amount of his time to secure relief and assistance for the men who fought that human liberty should not disappear from the earth.

Legislation to restrict immigration so as to prevent the entry of radicals and undesirables and afford an opportunity for the assimilation of worthy foreigners now domiciled here has been repeatedly urged in congress by Mr. Parrish.

In the platform on which he made his first race for congress long before war was won, he declared himself on this question and he has consistently adhered to the position which he enunciated then. Congress passed the Johnston-Colt bill operative for two years and at the expiration of that time congress must again face the issue raised by Congressman Parrish and others and determine whether to retain restrictive immigration or, throwing down the bars, admit the host of Europeans, particularly from Poland and Greece and Italy "who look at the United States simply as the land of golden opportunity."

He is for the admission of only those in sympathy with the constitution of the United States, laws of the land, obedient to the flag and willing to accept their full share of responsibility of citizenship.

From first to last he has been for the budget system and was one of the democratic congressmen who voted to pass a measure over the veto of former President Wilson. During his career in congress he has been one of the foremost champions of economy and an ardent foe of deficiency expenditures and appropriations.

He voted for the emergency tariff and did so with the open declaration that democrats who voted for it adhered to the time honor democratic doctrine. It was his contention that while the tariff should be a tariff for revenue only that it should be collected by the government upon the finished products of the farm and ranch co-equally with the products of the mill and the loom. This is known as the Walker tariff and his position has never been assailed in any democratic platform.

No man in congress has been a more consistent advocate and supporter of disarmament than Mr. Parrish. He has voted for all the resolutions, looking or leading to disarmament and led the fight for the Connally resolution which the republican organization in the house was compelled to accept after Senator Borah had forced the issue in the senate.

He fought universal military training. He fought compulsorny military training and ever declared for the national guard or guardsmen as the defenders of their country in time of peril.

Demand for land and value of irrigation to the West and particularly to Texas has been the subject of much thought by Mr. Parrish. He is convinced that in irrigation lies the secret for the great development of Texas and he believes that the next decade or so will see the construction of dams spanning the rivers and water courses of the state, providing vast storage reservoirs from which will be drawn the waters to irrigate unnumbered millions of acres and along with this will come the drainage of enormous tracts of cut over and swamp lands.

As a close friend of those interested in the Wichita Falls project as well as their congressman he has obtained for them whatever governmental help was permissible. First and last, he has been interested in all legislations for the conservation and reclamation of idle lands.

He has voted for all relief measures for the cattle and farming industry, is an unofficial member of the agricultural bloc of the house and his efforts to bring about legislation for the eradication of the pink boll worm and other pests is well known to all readers of the press.

He offered an amendment to the Esch-Cummins Transportation act that would have saved to the state commission not only of Texas, but other states, power and control over purely intrastate rate. This amendment was killed by a republican house. He accepted the Esch-Cummins act as a choice of two evils rather than to continue government ownership of the railways.

It is certain that there is no member of congress who has been indefatigable in the interests of the former service men than the representative from the Thirteenth district of Texas. Speaking of West Texas and the railroad administration, his record of valuable services to the people stands out in bold relief and this covers the interests of those engaged in the live-stock industry, farming, manufacturing and the oil business.

His battle for the income tax payers of Texas which permits them to submit separate returns for the husband and wife on what is termed community property has resulted in the saving to those tax payers of millions of dollars, particularly in Texas.

Representing a district which for several years has produced more oil than any other district of the state his services as representative has been of vast value to all engaged in the industry as it was due to his activities that the branch of the bureau of mines in Texas was established.

Representative Parrish has served the people three years. He has the ability, the physique and the tireless industry as well as the experience which would make him a power in the senate as the servant of all the people and all industries. His record of legislative activity is one he and his friends has every reason to feel a sense of pride for it is unquestionably one of achievement and vision.

He is deemed by all his colleagues as one of the strong men among the newer members of the house. There is team work in congress as elsewhere and many a leader of "a forlorn hope" seeks the assistance of the member from the Thirteenth District because he stands well, is earnest, aggressive and persuasive and above all because he plays the game fair and to the end.

In short this is the verdict of those who are familiar with his early life, his achievements, his congressional career and the services he has rendered in three short years:

"Lucian W. Parrish is by birth and by training peculiarly fitted for public service in a democracy such as ours. He has no boss but his conscience, acknowledges allegiance to no sovereign except the American people, has no enmity for any group of citizens and something in common with all the best elements in our composite civilization. He is a man who is anxious to work for the good of the country and he is both physically and mentally capable of unremitting labor. He is a man to whom his duty to his constituents and to the whole country constitute his pillar of cloud by day and his pillar of fire by night. In honoring him, Texas will honor herself and in trusting him she will trust herself."

Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce Annual Meeting Reflects Spirit of Future Progress and Confidence

By Associated Press.

BURKBURNETT, Jan. 17.—Over 100 men and women attended the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce held here this evening at which more enthusiasm was shown than at previous meeting in the history of the organization. The banquet will be followed tomorrow with one-day membership drive.

Speaking on the subject, "Civic Improvement and Law Enforcement," District Attorney H. R. Wilson of Wichita Falls delivered the principal address of the evening. Stressing the importance of civic improvements in this city and surrounding section now possible due to the fact that the oil boom is over the speaker in a well received address also made a strong appeal for greater law enforcement as an important factor in civic betterment.

Dr. W. F. Martin acted as toastmaster at the banquet. Speakers in addition to District Attorney Wilson included Dr. L. D. Parnell and W. W. Murphy of Wichita Falls, E. D. Anderson, J. W. Woodward, superintendent of the public school, R. H. Henry and A. Samson of this city. The banquet was arranged by Sam Spence, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The needs of Burkburnett and the plans for the coming year featured the talks of the local speakers. In spite of the fact that the day of oil boom business is over speakers expressed confidence that the next year would see greater development along civic and business lines in the city than any previous period in its history. Although no special program for the year was outlined speakers discussed in details various improvements that are needed and will be accomplished this year in so far as possible.

E. D. Anderson told of the plans whereby it is hoped that the city can secure a material decrease in its fire insurance rate. FORD WOULD READJUST U. S. MONEY BASIS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. — Abandoning his fight against the "international Jew," Henry Ford this week will open the greatest battle of his career—a nation-wide campaign to readjust the basis of American money. The Detroit manufacturer made the announcement of his new campaign in Washington, just before leaving for home.

While he was in Washington, pressure was brought upon Ford to continue his anti-Jewish campaign and to "let the money issue alone." This pressure was brought by certain important non-Jewish financial houses.

"They would rather we'd hammer the Jew," he said, "than bring the money question to the front.

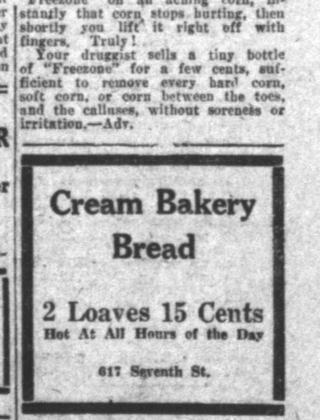

"But the money question today is vital. The world cannot get back to work and prosperity until we have established our money on a basis of productive energy. Our money must create work.

"We have all the gold in the world. We have millions of unemployed; Germany has no gold. Germany has no unemployed. Germany is the busiest country in Europe.

Ford's plan for reorganization of the American money system calls for establishment of a new basis of value behind money, eliminating gold. It is his theory that money should be issued against great government projects which in themselves create work, such as the Muscle Shoals project.

Ford holds that the system of issuing currency against the Muscle Shoals power plant could be used in a great plan for the development of the Mississippi river and suggests that all railroad stockholders be paid off by an issue of railroad currency issued against the value of the roads, which would be operated by the government. This would relieve the railroads of all interest payments, reduce transportation charges and again create work and employment.

WORKERS TELL OF SUCCESS IN TUESDAY DRIVE

Nearly 600 Memberships in Chamber of Commerce Secured in One Day; Represents $14,825 Revenue.

Captains and Team Members Express Themselves as Confident of Obtaining Quota by Tonight.

With a total of 593 memberships representing fee collections of $14,825 as the result of the first day membership campaign of the Chamber of Commerce, confidence was expressed by G. Clint Wood, general chairman of the campaign Tuesday night, that the goal of 1,600 members providing for a budget of $40,000 would be obtained.

The twenty-one teams in addition to the special committee will start work again this morning in expectation of ending the campaign tonight with a 100 per cent report.

Team 20 of which Jack Barnard is captain ranked first with forty-seven memberships according to the reports of the several team captains at a dinner held Tuesday night at the Wichita club. Team 16, E. S. Goodner, captain, was second with forty-one memberships and team 4, Walter Daugherty, captain, with thirty-three memberships were second and third in the first day efforts, according to the reports at the dinner.

Expects Quota Tonight.

General confidence that the quota would be obtained by tonight was expressed by the captains and salesmen in telling of the results of their first day efforts. A general desire to aid the Chamber of Commerce in their plans for the coming year through membership was evidenced by practically all business and professional men, according to members of the teams.

G. Clint Wood, who presided at the dinner reported that the special committee of which he is chairman had secured 121 members with only part of the committee able to work Tuesday, due to unavoidable circumstances. It is expected that this committee which has several of the larger industries in its territory will obtain a total of 600 members before the campaign is ended today.

"The spirit shown by some of our smaller business men who have been hard hit in many instances by the general deflation is remarkable," W. W. Silk, captain of Team 8, said in making his report of twenty memberships.

"We had a section which included several smaller business houses and I was agreeable surprised at the attitude their owners and managers are taking regarding our city and their willingness to aid through membership in the Chamber of Commerce."

A dinner for captains and salesmen will be held tonight at the Wichita club at which a final report for the two-day campaign will be made.

Paving Program To Be Considered By City Council

Plans for the paving of several sections of the city's streets will probably be considered by the city council at an early meeting. The sections under consideration by Waler S. Curlee, street commissioner, include Eleventh street from Ohio to Grace, Ninth street from Broad to Denver, Burnett street from the river to Eighth, and Burnett street from Eighth to the Wichita Valley tracks.

Estimates of the approximate cost submitted to Mr. Curlee yesterday by City Engineer Julian Montgomery show total figures, roughly, of $290,000, with the city's share approximately $96,900. Commissioner Curlee stated yesterday that out of the last bond issue voted, the city still has sufficient funds for the work, dependent somewhat on paving costs at the time the work is started and on other incidental expenses. During the past two years, Wichita Falls has had almost continuously at least one street in process of paving.

The city engineer's figures for the work are as follows, exclusive of an engineering cost of about 3 per cent:

Eleventh street from Ohio to Grace:
Estimated total cost ... $93,747.03
City's part ... 21,936.08
Ninth street from Broad to Denver:
Estimated total cost ... $58,752.78
City's part ... 12,925.20
Burnett from river to Eighth:
Estimated total cost ... $51,414.66
City's part ... 11,991.38
Burnett from Eighth to Wichita Valley:
Estimated total cost ... $86,087.83
City's part ... 20,045.79

SEVEN WATCHED AND FIVE SHOT; SOME IN JAIL, SOME ARE NOT

One of the most remarkable, most unbelievable, most amazing, most impossible and most startling occurrences in the annals of police history was recorded yesterday, to wit: Twelve colored citizens were arrested in one room in a servant house uptown, and SEVEN OF THEM WERE "ONLY WATCHING THE GAME." Yes, sir, only five were imitating the dexterity of Vitus Marsden, the military wildcat, with the polka-dotted cubes.

However, comma, the police officers kindly permitted the seven "watchers" to ride in the same patrol wagon with the five shooters and faders to the city hall, where some of 'em paid fines, some of 'em gave bail and some of 'em signed the city hotel register for the night.

Judge Kay Is Speaker for Women's Club

Speaking on the subject of "Work" Judge John C. Kay gave members of the Business Women's club and their guests an inspirational talk at the weekly meeting held at the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday evening.

"You cannot work if you are thinking about what you are going to get for your work," Judge Kay said, "and what you are going to spend it for, and if I had a job that I did not love, I would never go back. People who do not love their work, can never succeed. Work means to get behind the world and push it forward. It is glorious to work and take a pride in it."

Preceding Judge Kay's talk, R. E. Shepherd sang, "Sunrise and You" and responded to two encores. He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Shepherd.

During a short business session, Miss Frances Brooks, chairman of the social committee tendered her resignation which was accepted, and a nominating committee composed of Misses Bonnie Mae Morse, Mary Hanks and Beulah Hatchett, was appointed to name some one to take her place.

Miss Bruce Dickson asked all who wished to join the Dramatic club which is being organized in connection with the Business Women's club under her direction, to meet her after the meeting, and Mrs. Edna Vogt announced the Howell Store and Woods Shoe store, as gift givers for the next week.

An open meeting to be held Thursday, January 26th was also announced.

In the weekly contest, Miss Annettee Coffield won the prize, a $10 gold piece offered by the Wichita State bank.

Several new members were introduced.

One hundred barrels of oil were put into the tanks between 9 and 1 o'clock Tuesday morning by the No. 14 Burnett of the Groswold Oil company, South Electra, according to the reports received in the company offices Tuesday afternoon.

The well was drilled seven feet into the sand, entered at 1,830 feet Tuesday morning, and started flowing at 9 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the well was swabbed a few times and continued flowing, the reports from the field manager putting the production around 500 barrels.

This is the extreme northwest well on the Griswold lease, and one the most northerly points for the 1,800-foot sand in the pool. It is also the best 1,800-foot producer yet brought in on the lease.

CONNER-M'CLUSKEY WELL PUTS 830 BBLS. INTO TANKS IN 24 HOURS FROM 2600 SOUTH BEND SAND

Drilled into a new 2,600-foot sand, the No. 6 McCluskey of W. E. Conner et al, in the Clear Fork pool, Young county, put 830 barrels of oil into the tanks during the twenty-four hours ending Tuesday morning, according to reports from the field Tuesday. The well is the first producer in the west end of the South Bend field to get production at 2,600 feet, the original producers on the McCluskey being in the 2,500-foot sand. Production in other wells on the Conner property is in the 2,100 and 2,500-foot sands, as is the case on the Panhandle's McCluskey lease to the north.

On the strength of the showing of this new strike the Panhandle Refining company has started three new wells, the Nos. 18, 19 and 20 McCluskey. New wells are also contemplated on the Conner lease, it is understood. Some deepening of old wells is at have fallen off in production is also contemplated, it is understood.

This new strike gives the pool along the Clear Fork of the Brazos it's fifth producing sand. There is production in the 1,800, 1,900, 2,100 2,500 and now the 2,600-foot levels.

Condition of the animals was a consideration of the winner. The race is part of the Frontier Day celebration which opens here Saturday.

Monday, Mr. Willy sold the 80 acres to the Humble Oil & Refining company for $10,000. The lease is located several hundred yards from the discovery well.

York losses, and she and Harold F. McCormick have agreed to cancel the Chicago losses. It is noted that the attendance at the Chicago Auditorium has been larger than ever before, but the losses mounted at a rate of more than $50,000 a week, though they included the pre-season costs of organization and preparation. Chicago is a wonderful city. Chicago has many millionaires and three or four multi-millionaires. Chicago is crazy to be known as the musical city of the North American continent. Grand Opera costs money. Grand Opera managers need angels, and just as long as the Rockefeller-McCormick fortunes last, golden throated divas and silver throated tenors should find the pickings rich on the banks of Lake Michigan.

Boies Penrose was the last of the political bosses of America. He was sixty-one when he died and he had been boss supreme in the state of Pennsylvania for 35 years, and boss supreme of the Republicans of the senate for a quarter of a century. He left behind him one of the greatest stocks of vintage wines and rare liquors in this country. Long before the advent of the eighteenth amendment Penrose planned for the drouth. Contents of the subterranean caches of his Philadelphia home are valued at $250,000. Barrels of the finest whiskies, casks of the rarest wines from Italy and liquors of unusual brands were found in the Penrose cellar. Boies Penrose was a liquor connoisseur, but he drank little in his later life. Interest is widespread in the East as to what disposition will be made of the Penrose stock. His vast fortune goes to his three brothers, who are wealthy men. This vast stock of vintage wines and rare liquors were under lock and key. He held the key and alone knew the combination of the lock. A well fixed man was Boies Penrose. He had $226,100 in cash in a safe deposit box of the American Security and Trust company of the city of Washington and the money included 5 ten thousand dollar bills. A lonely man was this last of the bosses. He was a bachelor. He had no close friends. He lived alone. He had no public funeral. Was there a tear shed when he died?

"The year just passed was the most disastrous in our business history as well as in the packing industry in general," writes J. Ogden Armour in the yearly financial report of Armour & Co. and allied companies. According to this report the company had tremendous losses in the fluctuation in the price of live hogs, which fell from a 14-cent level at the beginning of the year to a 7-cent level at the end. Packers carry millions of pounds of products in process of cure. Armour & Co. carried hogs or rather hog meat. This was only one of their losses. Speaking of byproducts, the fertilizer works of the company lost eight and a quarter million dollars; canned fruit and vegetables lost heavily; big losses resulted in the tanning business. Volume of business last year totaled $600,000,000 and the year's loss, according to the report, totaled $31,709,817.52. Armour's accumulated surplus made it possible to continue payment of regular quarterly dividends at the rate of seven per cent per annum on preferred stock—a total of $3,546,979.40 having thus been disbursed. An Armour surplus of $63,000,000 assures continuance of preferred dividends. A dividend of $2,000,000 on the common stock was paid but the information is volunteered that conditions at this time do not warrant further dividends on common stock. This is the conclusion, "with losses completely written off and with inventory at current market values there is every reason for looking forward to better times. Our raw material prices and our finished product prices are at pre-war levels. Further liquidation is unwarranted and hardly probable. Progress has been made in adjusting operating cost to normal levels. Wages, which constitute the biggest factor in this field, have been reduced approximately 25 per cent. This came too late to noticeably affect the past year's figures, but should prove beneficial this year. There seems to be no serious bar to the profitable operation of our business during the coming year. I firmly believe that our next annual statement will show satisfactory results." J. Ogden Armour appears to have adopted the slogan "Let's Go!"

George Robinson of the Waco Times-Herald takes issue with Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison. These remarkable men insist that the gold standard should be abolished. Editor Robinson, who is a thinker and a scholar, but not a manufacturer nor an inventor, does not take kindly to the proposition that human energy should be made the money standard of civilization after the gold standard has been discredited. "We cannot agree with Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison that gold should be abandoned as a measure of value," writes the Waco thinker and student. "We are persuaded that if Messrs. Ford and Edison, the one the maker of cars and the other the discoverer of the electric light, would go a little deeper into the question they would see that gold is able to oppress only as governments put hobbles on credit. Give to credit free play and nobody need ever see an ounce of gold. All in the world you want with gold is to make sure of a correct measure, and even at that you don't need to ever put it on display. Ever since the war between the states we here in America have had to endure an enslaved credit. President Wilson said that the Reserve Act would set credit free, and he honestly believed that such would be the case; so also those who were conspicuous in enacting the legislation. Instead of choosing the currency system of Scotland, France and Canada, the congress chose that of other European nations, so proclaimed in both houses of congress, and it was a wrong choice, for the reason that credit is not liberated, but is put in hobbles, with a consequent injury to all lines of business. A wrong currency system, and such we have, calls for legal tender backing, and that in turn runs up against Gresham's law, which law, as you know, reader, is the driving out of good money to make place for bad money, and so the last state of the country is worse than the first. It isn't the gold standard that troubles or has ever troubled, gentlemen, but it is the hobbling of credit, and to this phase of the question you might profitably address yourselves."

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON

BALMY SLEEP.

For those who toil, for those who weep, there is no comforter like sleep. Sometimes we think, when making hay, there'll be no finish to the day; the sun is lagging in the sky, and we are tired and hot and dry. We long for evening and repose, but this long day will never close. And yet the longest day will end, the grateful shades at last descend; the wearied plowman leaves the field and hies him to his lowly bield; the plumber doffs his workday garb, the barber will no longer barb; the night is theirs for slumber sleep, and there's no comforter like sleep. This life is like a summer day, and we grow weary baling hay. The hours are long, our burdens gall, the recompense seems all too small; our neighbors get the softest jobs, our smiles all terminate in sobs; we're taxed beyond our modest means, and some one always spills the beans, we get the worst of every deal, and we have corns that will not heal, and so we grumble through the day, in our poor foolish human way. But night approaches and the dark will wipe out all the cares that ark; no more we'll labor in the sun and count the wages we have won; no more we'll sow, no more we'll reap; the greatest comforter is sleep.—(Copyright, 1922, George Matthew Adams.)

DUMM AND DUMMER ON THE ROOT RULES FOR SUBMARINES.

"Eli Root—I always call him Eli for short—has a great head on him and is usually a clear thinker, but I don't get him in his latest proposal for the conduct of submarines," confessed Senator Dumm, as he lighted a fresh stogie.

"What puzzles you?" asked Representative Dummer.

"We wants submarines to fight on the level," said Senator Dumm.

"That's like asking Carl Mays not to do anything underhanded while pitching," returned Dummer. "What's the idea?"

"Root proposes a new set of playing rules for submarine skippers," explained Dumm. "As I understand it, in the next war no skipper of an undersea vessel may have anything to do with a merchant ship without first being polite."

"How?" asked Dummer.

"Well, he must first signal the merchant ship and then stop his submarine and wait for the answer," returned Dumm. "I suppose the submarine skipper will wigwag 'Greetings and felicitations! It's a nice day, isn't it?' I am thinking of approaching you.' Then, if the captain of the merchant ship is at all courteous he will signal back the usual 'Who goes there?'"

"And then what?" asked Dummer.

"Well, the submarine will wigwag, 'I'm an enemy submarine' and wait for the merchantman to signal the customary, 'Advance, enemy submarine, and be recognized.' Then, after they have met and been properly introduced the submarine skipper will say, 'Sorry, cap, but I gotta blow you up.'"

"Suppose the merchant-ship captain says he dowanter be blown up?" asked Dummer.

"The submarine skipper can do no more than say, 'I know you dowanter be blown up, but you've gotta be.' 'Why have I gotta be blown up?' the merchantman may demand. 'Because I've gotta lotta torpedoes aboard and I can't think of anything else that they're good for,' the submarine will naturally reply."

o o o

"And what next?" asked Dummer.

"Well, the captain of the merchantman can demand time to look over the Rules and Regulations According to Hoyle and Root, and if he is a wise bird he will find there is a catch in 'em."

"A catch in 'em?" asked Dummer.

"Yes, sir," insisted Dumm. "And this is it: Section 346 says that no submarine pilot can sink a merchantman until he places the crew and passengers in a place of safety."

"Where's there any catch in that?" asked Dummer.

"Inasmuch as submarines usually attack merchant ships several hundred or even several thousand miles out to sea, this rule forces the sub skipper to tow the merchant ship to the nearest land, get all the crew and passengers off safely, and then tow it out to sea again and blow it up."

"It might be easier for the submarine to find the nearest land and tow it to the merchant ship," suggested Dummer.

o o o

"It looks to me like a proposition to change the submarine branch of the service into a towing and lighter-age business," replied Dumm. "Get me right now, Dummer. I hold no brief for the submarine and I think it should be wiped off the face of the earth, but a submarine is a submarine just as long as it is in existence, and you can't change its character and habits. You might as well try to get a swordfish to use its sword only on Tuesday and Friday afternoons between 2 and 5 and then only after giving three loud blasts with a Ford horn; or to pass a rule requiring a man-eating shark to lay off slow swimmers who have fallen overboard unaccompanied by a squad of harpooners."

"Rules is rules," said Dummer, blankly.

"Yes," but when the next war comes, if submarines are still being used, you'll find alotta skippers will have left their copies at home."

The Inventor as a Wealth Producer

By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1921, by Frank Crane.)

Of all the business of men, production is the most important.

To manage, to direct, to transport and the like, are essential. But most essential of all is to produce.

In production, the man works hand in hand with the Creator.

For this reason the farmer has always held a place of high esteem, because it is his business to make a hundred grains of wheat out of one.

And in like manner the poet, the novelist and the dramatist stand in the front rank of intellectual workers because they actually create and "give to airy nothings a local habitation and a name."

The greatest producer of all is Nature itself. In fact, Nature's fruitful womb ceaselessly brings forth plenty and to spare, for the needs of all life which she has made.

The tropics could easily feed the world, and probably will when transportation is perfect.

There is more to production, however, than the mere making of things or inducing growth. For it is also necessary to adapt things to human use and to bring them from the place of making to the user.

The greater part of Nature's products also need to be worked over. She is prolific in raw material. And it is the ingenuity of man that must change that raw material into a form which shall minister to life.

Therefore, the primary producer is, perhaps, the scientist, for he is the man who studies Nature's laws and lays the basis for the art of harnessing her forces and uncovering the treasures.

In the story of the Creation it is said that man was put in the Garden of Eden to tend it and keep it. This world might be called a vast and weedy garden, which it is man's business to render fruitful; the scientist is the foremost of the gardeners.

The scientist, however, is helpless without the inventor, who, using the gathered material of the scientist, actually tames Nature to man's use.

There never was a greater opportunity for invention than at the present day. The London General Omnibus company says that it is worth a fortune to any inventor who can save the company a penny a mile in petrol.

For that matter, any man who can save a moment or a penny to any great organization, achieves a triumph.

Amazing as the inventions of the past have been, there crowd upon us still more amazing inventions in the near future.

For instance, we await the genius who will bring out the conversion of solar rays to supplant the dwindling supplies of coal and petroleum.

The Desert of the Sahara, 6,000,000 square kilometres in area, daily receives a solar energy equivalent to that of 6,000,000,000 tons of coal. Where is the genius who will convert that radiant energy into electric current?

Dr. Arthur D. Little says that in a sun day of six hours a surface of 10,000 square kilometres receives in a year a quantity of heat corresponding to that produced by burning 3,650,000,000 tons of coal, which is more than double the entire world's production. Who will show us how to use that?

Even more wonderful is the vista opened by investigations of radiant energy. Kinetic energy is possessed not only by radium, but by ordinary matter.

The energy with which atoms are surcharged is of a higher order and magnitude than the energy derived from burning coal or liberated from the most powerful explosive.

We await the creative offices of the inventor who will show us how to utilize that.

The Daily Story

The Corner Flat

Copyright, 1921 by W. Werner

(Copyright, 1922, by W. Werner.)

"Well, Rose"—Ned's face was joyful as he flung his hat on the table and kissed his wife. "I've got my raise. I spent the afternoon slack times in writing letters telling folks of our good luck. Think of it. Twenty-five dollars a month more!"

"I'm so glad," exclaimed Rose. "Now we'll be able to save something. It is terrible the way we've been living up to every cent."

"Now, don't begin preaching," he said with a touch of sulkiness. "After all, I earn the money, and if I don't choose to cheesepare and clutch every nickel I don't see that you've any call to grouch over it. We're going to live and live well. I stopped in at the agent's on thy way home and told old Johnson I'd take the corner flat. We'll have a real guest room, instead of having to curl ourselves around the piano legs every time we want to be a bit hospitable."

"Ned, you never contracted for that flat? Why, it's $12 a month more than we are paying now and——"

"Won't it be nicer for you?" demanded her husband heatedly. "Aren't you at home all day to enjoy it? I want my wife to have the best."

"But don't you see that we'll never get ahead if we keep on spending as our income increases? We don't need a guest room. Our friends just look on us as a free hotel. Last week Mrs. Black and her husband dropped in on us without even sending a postal to let me know they intended visiting us. They came right up here from the station in a taxi and remained four days. They shopped and stayed downtown for shows, but it did not occur to them to invite us to anything. They merely made a convenience——"

"Rose, sometimes I'm afraid you are petty minded. I have nothing to give but hospitality, and I'm proud to give that. A friend or two to share our simple meals will never break us. I wrote mother to send Daisy on here for the winter because we'd have an extra room. She will be lots of company for you, and you will enjoy fussing over her. She's very delicate, you know."

Rose toyed with her food; all her appetite had vanished. They already were slightly in debt and Ned could not be made to understand that guests meant money and work and the putting aside of personal comfort. She would not have begrudged this had it been in any sense required or appreciated, but Ned's folks were wealthy and the presence of Daisy in the flat would entail endless expense. The Blacks had never once entertained them nor had they ever invited them for a return visit except in a casual way that indicated plainly they did not expect them to accept. "If you're ever in Albany drop in and see us, my dear," had been Mrs. Black's cordial farewell.

"I guess I shall have to use a bit of strategy," thought Rose. "And how I hate to do it! Ned is so dear and generous to me as well as to every one else, but I've got to wake him up to the necessity of saving. Promise me this," she asked Ned. "Don't see the agent about the corner flat for a week or two. We don't have to sign our new lease just yet and it's barely possible that rents will lower. Let's wait until the last minute before signing."

"And run the chance of losing the corner flat?" said Ned.

"It won't rent fast, it's too expensive. Will you wait a bit?" coaxed Rose.

"All right," murmured Ned, reaching for the evening paper.

Two nights later Ned opened the door with his key and dashed in gayly. "Got two tickets for the show. Frederic gave them to me and we're going to blow them to a supper afterward to even up things. Passes!" exclaimed Ned.

Rose's aunt, a plump widow of uncertain age and with vague hopes of a second marriage, greeted him effusively. "You dear boy. I'm so glad I came," she said. "I'll go with you tonight. Shall you have some one for me?" She shook an arch finger at him and Ned tried to hide his dismay.

"Why, how are you?" he foundered, "so glad——"

"And one who knows you knows how you love company," agreed Mrs. Timmins comfortably. "I always say that you and Rose are the most hospitable folks I know, and I guess the truth is that you love excitement. Married life is apt to be boring and friends cheer you up. I can stay two weeks and if I'm coaxed," she nodded at him, and he sensed her complete conviction of her welcome, "I may remain a month. I like Rose's cooking and I have shut my cottage up. Living is so high for one alone. When the table is set one person extra makes no difference whatever. Shall you go to a real splendid cafe after the show? You ought to show me the town right;" her tinkle of joyous laughter infuriated her young host.

"Ned, dear, run out to the store and get a good porterhouse steak, will you. Auntie cannot eat round steak, and I'll just stew up what I had planned for our dinner. Get some of those French pastries and some ice cream. Auntie cannot get those things in Milbank and it will be a change for her. We went to a matinee this afternoon and tomorrow she wants to trot around all day. Guess I'll send the washing to the laundry, for I shan't have much time for the house. With only a month to sightsee we shall be crowded to get everything in, but I'll do the best I can. And, Ned, this last in a whisper, "you must bring some of your friends home so she won't be lonely. Will you telephone down for her ticket for the show while I broil the steak?"

That night, when auntie had been tucked into their best bed, Ned faced his wife in the living room: "Say," he said uneasily, "I spent a lot tonight. Supper for five of us."

"I'm afraid auntie was disappointed because there was no one to escort her. Poor auntie, she gets so lonely." Rose looked pensively into the gold mirror above her writing desk. "She is so glad that we're going to live right in the heart of the city next week. She says she'll try and visit us often while Daisy is here. They can share the same room, you know. She says so many young couples live out in the suburbs where it takes a long time to get back after the theatre, and that she would not care for that, at all. She gets tired, being older——"

"But, Rose, listen. I spent $4 extra just for dinner. The supper cost——"

"Surely you would not count up what a guest cost? It was only one ticket for her. Ours were passes——" interrupted Rose simply.

"Passes?" he intervened. "We would have done much better to have bought our seats. I tell you the supper——"

Rose yawned, her pleasant blue eyes smiling back at him drowsily. "Guess we got off cheaply at that. After all we didn't pay for the tickets," she remarked.

"Can't you understand, Rose? I'm out of money and your aunt says she'll stay a whole month. She expects to be trotted around and——"

"I know. When we get the corner flat; where we have a real guest room, we can treat our friends better. Auntie would hate it if we took that bungalow out in Lilac terrace that I liked so well. Daisy will expect a gay winter, coming so far——"

"I'm tired of your extravagance, Rose. I shall telephone that agent for the Lilac terrace house, and if I can make terms with him about the first payment I shall take that house. Don't you want to have anything at all in the future?"

"You earn the money," Rose snapped off the light as she spoke, and if there was a whimsical smile on her lips her husband, frightened at her lack of good sense, was unaware of this.

BEAUTIFUL DINNER FOR BRIDE AND GROOM.

The first of the pre-nuptial hospitalities for the Richolt-Martin wedding in which the groom and his attendants have been included, was the beautifully planned dinner given at the Wichita club on Monday evening by Judge and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, neighbors and friends of the bride since her childhood. The members of the wedding party, numbering twenty-four, with the host and hostess, were the guests on this happy occasion.

One large square table seated the guests, the covers being marked with tiny satin bride's slippers, filled with bonbons, a ribbon reaching from each place to the big centerpiece, formed of a large pink satin slipper, filled with pink rosebuds. Favors for the girls of the party were varied miniature articles, chosen for some particular hobby or accomplishment of the individual guest, and the men were favored with boutonnieres.

With the dessert service, the host and hostess' presented the bride-elect with an attractive, hand-painted mail box. The key in the door contained an invitation to open and inside was found a beautifully worded letter of congratulations and best wishes from Mrs. Carrigan.

An informal musical program followed the dinner.

Those present were: The bride-elect, Miss Pauline Richolt, the groom-elect, Mr. John Z. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Richolt, parents of the bride, Misses Helen Edmiston of Paola, Kan., Maydette Abernathy of Paducah, Texas, Agnes Reid and Annette Walsh, Mrs. Louella Thompson of Dallas, Mrs. A. W. Breihan of Abilene, Dr. and Mrs. N. F. Grafton, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Smith, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Cullum, Messrs. Harry Moss of Mexia, Ira M. Avent of Graham, Bailey Hardy of Mexia, Raymond Meyers, Bill Hoge of Iowa Park and A. C. Scurlock and Judge and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan.

MRS. MURPH HOSTESS TO CIRCLE NO. 3.

Circle No. 3, of the Floral Heights Methodist Missionary society met in the first session of the new year, at the home of the leader Mrs. Harold Murph, Monday afternoon, when a large amount of business was discussed.

Detvotionals were led by Mrs. S. M. Black, who also gave an interesting talk on the book of Mark, after which Mrs. Murph talked on the work for the coming year, to which the members all pledged their support.

A large number of visits to the sick and strangers were reported, also a large amount of clothing given away. The amount of $211.50 was pledged for the year's budget, and a social cal-

Fashions for Americans

The serviceable frock shown in the sketch is for the little gril of two to four years. It is made of heavy white linen, piped with colored self fabric and trimmed about the edge of the skirt with appliqued motifs of the colored material. The dress buttons in the back.

One of the big features of spring apparel for children, whether the material used is cotton or wool, is to have a hat or cap to match every dress or wrap. The vogue for these matching costumes has resulted in many apparel manufacturers adding lines of headgear to their output, and at least one big manufacturer of children's headgear has added dresses. The same rule holds in regard to coats and hats. It is quite the thing to have a hat or cap to match every wrap. For example, a smart little coat of bright green velour recently seen was accompanied by a hat made of the same fabric, trimmed simply with a fabric band about the crown and with a smart little upstanding feather at the back. The hat had a four-section crown and a stitched brim that rolled a trifle.

The popular polo cloth must have its clever tam or hat with brim, and in the frocks shown, English prints will be accompanied by matching sun bonnets of one style or another, organdy frocks will have ruffle-brimmed chapeaux of the same fabric, and so on.

Cotton crepe is being used rather extensively for tub frocks for small children, and there is a veritable rage for natural color pongee. Wool jersey is also playing an increasingly strong role in the development of dresses for very small girls, one smart little model recently seen being made quite dressy by having an accordion pleated skirt bound all around with a narrow silk braid in contrasting color.

Heavy Linen in White and Color Is Suggested for the Tailored Frock Shown.

endar for the year outlined. Ten new members were added to the Circle roll.

During the social half hour, a delicious salad course was served to Mesdames R. E. Schoolfield, S. M. Black, W. T. Ford, Merle Waggoner, Glen Berry, Paul Cotner, Ralph Pond, P. S. Richardson, Joe Stokes, J. P. Witherspoon, W. C. Martin, Durwood McDonald, T. L. Millican, J. B. Reighard and McConnell.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. D. J. Carithers, who took for her subject the life of St. Mark. In the absence of Mrs. W. W. Silk, Mrs. Carithers, also gave an interesting talk on "Christian Stewardship."

On account of the large amount of business to be discussed, the circle dispensed with the entertainment program and plans and pledges were made for 1922.

Why Women Get Despondent

Are not women naturally as light-hearted, brave and hopeful as men? Yes, certainly; but a woman's organism is essentially different from a man's,—more delicate, more sensitive and more exacting. Women in delicate health are more dependent, more nervous, more irritable and more despondent. When a woman develops nervousness, sleeplessness, backaches, headaches, dragging-down pains and melancholia she should lose no time in giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial, as it will quickly dispel such troubles. This root and herb medicine contains no drugs and has been the standby of American womanhood for nearly fifty years.—Adv.

MEXIA ASKS BERTH IN TEXAS LEAGUE PENDING SETTLEMENT AT DALLAS

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Jan. 17.—Legal entanglements surrounding the Texas league due to a maze of suits, countersuits, writs and injunctions involving ownership of the Dallas baseball club has brought a proposition from Mexia, center of a new oil field, to place a team there next season only while claimants to the Dallas franchise battle in the courts. Doak Roberts said the proposal came from a Mexia business man whose financial responsibility is unquestioned. He offers to assume the franchise, organize a team for 1922, furnish a park free and would pay a substantial cash bonus.

"This proposition has been made in good faith," Roberts said. "It will o fcourse have to be acted upon by the clubs but it has good points. Legal delays are certain to impair the value of the Dallas club for the coming year. Protracted litigation will prevent any one from getting together a club that can finish up in the race. The Texas league must have eight clubs. Why not Mexia?"

The next move in the legal fight is set for Thursday afternoon when presidents of clubs comprising the league will appear in district court in an injunction suit brought by Jess Hassell seeking to restrain the Texas league from transferring the Dallas franchise to Halfer Morris and Ike Sablosky, who already have been recognized as owners of the franchise by the league in accordance with an alleged contract signed last fall.

W. & J. COACH DENIES HAVING 'CRIED ROBBER'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Coach Earle E. Neale of the Washington and Jefferson football team, which has just arrived home from the coast, issued a formal statement today emphatically denying he had said after the game with California university, at Pasadena on January 2, that the Presidents were robbed of a victory when Linesman H. H. Heubel called Captain Stein offside at the time Halfback Brenkert skirted the California left end and ran forty yards over the goal line.

Neale's attention was forcibly called to statements in papers all over the east and middle west that he had cried "robber" after Heubel's decision and he asked that he be set right.

"While I did not see the offside play," Neale's statement said, "I was told by several Washington and Jefferson players immediately after the play that Mr. Heubel's decision was perfectly legitimate. I was watching the progress of the ball at the time and did not notice the work of the linesman. I never said we were robbed o fthe game and I never had any intention of even intimating such a thing.

"We were fairly treated by the officials and have no complaint to make. The decision of course, was a 'hard break' against us, but it was one of the fortunes of football. We accept its result as Washington and Jefferson has always done, without any complaint. Personally, I have nothing but the utmost praise for our treatment both on the field and elsewhere while in California."

JUNIOR HI TO PLAY ELECTRA THURSDAY EVE

The Junior high school basketball team will play Electra high at Electra tomorrow night according to an announcement yesterday by Athletic Director Boynton.

"If the high school five can lick Electra's first string team 30 to 10," Boynton promised, "why we'll send the Junior high quintet against 'em with reckless joyousness."

Director Boynton is anxious to arrange a number of games for his team with some o fthe strong teams in the city league. The Junior high players scale from 125 to 160 pounds, and are well prepared physically to tangle with any quintet in the city. Among the players on the Junior high squad are Palmer Harrod, center, who has been playing a forward with the high school five; Carrington, Williams and Bashara, forwards, and Woodson, Wells, Collier and Gildewell, guards.

The school has supplied uniforms, and is backing the boys strongly. They want games, and are not barring any quintet in this section.

"Feed 'em, and bring 'em in," sez Boynton.

Bat Nelson Loses Li'l Word Battle To Ticket Seller

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. — Oscar Mathew Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion of the world, today is "out" $5.50, the price of two tickets for a boxing contest. It's the first time Nelson has been forced to dig into his pockets to see a fight.

Nelson with his little brother, Bat, Jr., attempted to "crash the gate" at a boxing stag and presented himself for the usual passes.

"Who are you, that you should get passes?" queried the man in the ticket cage. "What have you done for boxing?"

"Who me?——I'm Bat Nelson!" shouted the former titleholder.

"That racket don't go here. Lay down the dough."

Nelson, mumbling words of disgust, produced the $5.50 and passed inside.

LEOPOLD NINE SIGNS PLAYERS FOR '22 SEASON

With nine players already lined up, C. Brooks, who will manage the Leipold baseball team this coming summer, has the nucleus of a fast, hard-hitting independent nine to represent Wichita Falls in games against semi-pro teams of this section. Brooks is sending out an S. O. S. now for catchers and outfielders.

Fowler, who guarded the hot corner for the North Methodists, city champions, last summer, will play third for the Leipold nine; Gordon, who played with both the Texas company and the University club teams last year, will probably cover the short field; Martin, of the North Methodists, is a candidate for second base, and Manager Brooks will guard the first sack. Bob McAbee, high school southpaw, who will try out with the Scudders; Stanley Anderson, speed ball dispenser of the 1921 Pond Laundry team, and "Shade" Taylor, of last year's North Methodist club, will constitute the twirling nucleus. Rufus Neal, who a North Methodist, is expected to fill one of the outfield berths. No catchers have been signed as yet, although Brooks is trying to get "Major" McClure, slugging backstop of the 1921 University club outfit, on his roster.

TROOP 15 CAGERS LICK TROOP 6, 32-28

The undefeated Troop 15 basketball five of the Boy Scouts won a hard-fought battle from the Troop 6 quintet yesterday at the American Legion hall. The final score of 32 to 28 is a fair representation of the comparative strength of the two teams.

Tally and Dick Gordon put up a great offensive game for the winners, with Park McKechney and Peyton Thurman doing the brunt of the work for the Troop 6 boys.

HOT TAMALES ON CAGE LOOP MENU TONIGHT

The Elks and the Methodists have two large contracts on hand in the City Basketball league race tonight at the American Legion hall. The schedule calls for the Elks to tangle with the Knights of Columbus, and the Methodists to do their durndest against the brilliant University club five.

If the B. P. O. E. aggregation can stop the Knights, and if the Methodists can defeat the University club team—well, if they do you can check the Colossus of Rhodes and the Hanging Gardens of Babylon off the list of the seven wonders of the world and substitute the Elks and the Methodists!

Both games, however, are bound to be bitterly contested, especially the eye-opener between the Elks and the Sons of Erin. There will be one satisfaction at least connected with the result of the opening game—each quintet already has won its first game, and one of 'em, by heck, will have a battle stuck in the "lost" column of the percentage table after tonight. The Elks and the Knights each have figured in two fiercely-contested games thus far, the two hardest games, in fact, that the league has produced. The Elks on the night of the league opening nosed out the Gaines Motor Co., quintet 22 to 20 in a game where in neither team at any stage of the contest had more than a one-goal lead—while on the same night the Knights won a battle royal from the American Legion five by a score of 29 to 24.

CHAPTER LIV.

Ruth Browning made mistakes at first—who doesn't? But she never made the same mistake twice. Neither did she condone this offense in her staff.

Ruth also studied as well as worked—studied investments. She knew the bond business "upside, downside, inside, outside, and all the way around" so Sam declared. And Sam was pretty nearly right.

This also she impressed upon her staff:

"We are saleswomen. We cannot sell our wares if we know nothing about them," she told them in one of her five-minute talks. "And so know our wares intimately, what we have to sell, we must study them from every possible angle—the customer's as well as our own."

The two girls she had practically now made heads of the respective departments—Selma Thornton and Laura Haynes—she had found in sympathy with her in all she had tried to do. They had taken their work seriously from the first. They were ambitious, too, and had quickly realized their opportunity.

Ruth depended upon them now for much of the detail of the two departments. At the same time she kept a sharp eye on all that went on.

In the main department women investors with large incomes were now no rarity. While Ruth did some advertising, most of these women came to her for advice, or brought their money for investment because some other woman, some friend, had told them of this new and delightful place where women weren't made to feel they were inferior to men in business matters.

"Word of mouth advertising is advertising of the very best kind," Ruth was fond of saying. "And we cannot hope to have this sort of advertising unless we deserve it. We must be courteous, business-like, tactful. A woman without tact never can be a bond saleswoman. Never can successfully get the business of women investors."

Ruth was now earning a large salary—especially for a woman. For although woman's star had arisen, it was not yet in full glory and her remuneration did not quite equal what a man would have received in the same position.

One day she appeared in Mr. Carr's office.

"Mr. Carr, I want more money. I want ten thousand dollars."

The president chuckled.

"You do. Don't you think you are getting pretty well paid now?" He recalled his boast that next time she was raised she would ask for it.

"Well paid for a woman. Not many get what you are getting."

"I may be getting well paid for a woman, but I did not know that you were paying me on the basis of my sex. I want to be paid for my work. I am worth ten thousand and more to you. My balance sheet shows it. There is no sex in figures. They tell only capability."

"What if I do not give it to you?"

"Much as it should regret it, I should have to go to some one who would. "The laborer is worth of his hire," and whether the laborer be a man or a woman he is worth just what his balance sheet proves to his employer." She arose.

"Sit down, Miss Browning. Do you think I am so short-sighted as to let you go? I should have given you what you are asking some time ago, only I was determined you should realize your own worth to the firm and ask for it. An old man's whim, perhaps."

Ruth sat down, as he had requested, and for a few moments they discussed matters connected with her work, especially that having to do with investments for working girls.

"The hardest thing I have to do with the more ignorant of the girls is to impress them with the necessity of investing their small earnings safely. They are commencing to read the papers, the financial pages, and when they see stocks and bonds listed and advertised at a high rate of interest they are hard to convince that safety first should be their slogan."

"That is the case with others be sides poor working girls. But I have noticed in that department especially your investments have been of the soundest. You are doing those girls a real service at the same time that you are building up our business."

"That is what I want to do. Primarily, of course, I must make money for the firm. But, that assured, the welfare of these girls has made a strong appeal to me. Girls who buy the baby bonds of $100 after months of saving. I should feel I was a criminal if I allowed them to take the slightest risk because of larger returns which may be only temporary."

"Your ideas are perfectly sound. I am very proud of your work with us, very proud of you." He held out his hand.

"Thank you, Mr. Carr. Praise from you means a great deal to me."

"Now we can't live in town and rent this old house," Mrs. Browning said when she heard the good news. Mary Browning was blossoming out now that her grief for Henry had dulled. She had grown younger and, Susan said, handsomer, since her relief from the grind of poverty.

"No, mother dear. I hate to disappoint you," Ruth replied. "But until Ted comes we must remain here. It would be dreadful to have him return and not find us."

Panhandle Is Running Seven New Oil Rigs

Seven new rigs are running, or will be running shortly on leases of the Panhandle Refining company in North and Central Texas fields, these marking the beginning of the 1922 drilling program of the company.

Two wells are to be drilled in the Mexia field, near Richland. These, the No. 1 and No. 2 West, are located between producing wells, being only a short distance north of the Meador well. Rigs are now up for these.

The third is two miles north of Terrell, on the Grinam lease, and is in wildcat territory. This test is drilling around 1000 feet at present.

Four new wells are nuder way in Young county. One is a wildcat on the Martin land, about two miles west of the Panhandle's McCluskey lease, where the discovery well of the Clear Fork pool was brought in. The other three are on the McCluskey, to be drilled to the new 2600 foot sand.

PLANET HAS 2 NEW WELLS AT ELECTRA

Two new wells were reported Tuesday evening for the Planet Petroleum company's Burnett lease, South Electra pool, the No. 33 in the 1800 foot sand being good for 300 barrels, one of the best deep wells this company has completed.

The No. 34 was completed in the 1400 foot sand and is making 80 barrels, according to these reports. Both wells are on the west side of the Planet lease, the 1400 foot producer being an outside location.

Stocks

Professional traders were in undisputed control of today's stock market, their bullish maneuvers effecting substantial gain in a wide variety of issues. Unlike the previous session, rails were inconspicuous until the later dealings, when cotton carriers, transcontinentals and coalers came briskly forward.

Speculative interest was not keen in the independent steels, also the motors, oils, coppers and rubbers, with intermittent activity in utilities, especially express company shares and Peoples gas.

Specific instances of strength were furnished by gulf state steel, which enhanced its recent twelve-point advance by four points, later reacting moderately; also Studebaker, the most active feature of the day, Sloss-Sheffield steel, Chandler, National lead, National biscuit and several of the chemical and fertilizer specialities.

Sluggishness was shown by equipments, sugars and minor food suecialties from the best reactions in those groups were moderate. Selling for profits detracted from the best prices in the final dealings but the closing was strong. Sales amounted to 775,000 shares.

The money market encouraged operations for the long account, call loans opening and holding at 4 1-2 per cent against yesterday's maximum of 6 per cent. Time loans running from 30 to 90 days were made at the further concession of 4 1-4 per cent.

Foreign exchanges reflected the further uncertainties arising from Anglo-French relations. Sterling was slightly lower and almost the entire range of the continental bills eased from three to almost ten points.

Grain

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Wheat averaged a little higher in price today, helped more or less by announcement of a good sized decrease in the world's available supply last week. The market closed firm at 1-4 to 5-8 net gain, with May $1.11 7-8 to 1.12 and July $1.00 3-8 to $1.00 1-2. Corn finished 1-8@1-4 to 1-4 higher. Oats up 1-8 to 1-4, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 15 cents.

The decrease in world stocks of wheat amounted to 4,635,00 bushels and was given emphasis by the word that estimates of the Australian surplus were being reduced, official reports from two provinces indicating a yield of 15,000,000 less than was the case last year. Unfavorable crop reports from Oklahoma and elsewhere southwest tended also to lift prices somewhat.

The slight advance in the value of corn and oats was ascribed chiefly to the fact that rural offerings of corn to arrive here lacked volume, especially from Illinois points.

Provisions tended upward in price as a result of a sharp advance in the hog market. Owners of lard, however, showed considerable disposition to realize profits.

Last prices were about the lowest of the day, showing a net decline of 8 to 10 points. Sales were estimated at about 11,000 bags. Cotton

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—A renewal of more or less general selling sent prices still lower in the cotton market here this morning, but a better demand developed around or just below the 17 cent level for May contracts. After selling at 16.94 that delivery rallied to 17.33, and closed at 17.23, the general market closing steady, net 7 points higher to 5 points lower.

The market opened barely steady to a decline of 16 to 19 points owing to weakness in Liverpool, reiterated reports of a poor spot demand, and an unfavorable advice from the goods trade. There was a good deal of southern selling as well as further scattering liquidation, local and Wall street pressure and for a time the market was very weak and unsettled. January sold off to 17.42 and March to 17.25, or 24 to 31 points net lower and about 175 to 195 points low below the high price touched right after the holidays.

Offerings then became less active, suggesting that liquidation had been pretty thorough, and buying on the talk of a firmer technical position was promoted by afternoon reports of a steadier tone in the spot markets and rumors that the pink boll worm had been discovered in northern Louisiana.

January sold up to 17.81 and closed at 17.73 while March advanced to 17.07 and closed at 17.56.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 17.—After declining in the regular trading and advancing rather strongly around mid-session, the cotton market sagged in the late trading today and finally closed net unchanged to 6 points higher. The last quotation on March was 16.62, being strongest on the close.

Poor cables helped to depress prices during the first call but after declines of 20 to 27 points a good deal of realizing by shorts was met and the market began to do better The demand increased sharly following reports from north Louisiana that the pink boll worm had been discovered at St. Maurice.

Highest prices of the session were reached in the early afternoon, following the receipt of private cable messages from Havre to the effect that the demand for cotton held in stock in France was increasing the predicting that French buyers would be found in the American markets within the week. On top of this were telegrams from Galvestou telling of the appearance of large buying orders on the spot markets here.

LIVERPOOL SPOT COTTON.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 17.—Cotton spot quiet; prices steady. Good middling 11.05; fully middling 10.95; middling 10.30; low middling 9.15; good ordinary 7.50; ordinary 6.85. Sales 6,000 bales, including 5,000 American.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Several cotton goods houses readjusted prices on dress ginghams and outings today in conference with new values set by one large manufacturer Saturday.

Trading was moderate, buyers ordering only a part of their fall requirements. Gray goods markets showed a softening tendency following the cotton easing. Yarns were easier and burlaps lower raw silk steadied a trifle but showed an easier tendency. The settlement of the garment workers strike quickened the demand for dress goods.

MUCH IDLE MONEY SEEKS INVESTMENT IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The enormous sums of idle capital seeking investment channels through this market are evidenced not only by lower rates for call and time funds, but more especially by the many actual and prospective domestic and foreign underwrittings.

It was stated today that since the beginning of the new year the bond market had shown such pronounced recovery as to enable the closing out of a number of banking syndicates, which had long been hanging fire.

Today's bond market was strong proof of the confidence shown by investors, the New Southern railway $30,000,000 bond issue, being largely over-subscribed before any public offering was made.

STILL FOUND AFTER GOING UNDER FLOORS

The maxim "if at first you don't succeed try, try again," proved true for officers who raided a still in an old building belonging to the National Steel and Iron company on the North Side Tuesday night. The officers secured 15 gallons of corn whiskey.
In connection with the raid officers arrested F. W. Conley, said to stay at the building. Federal charges of having whiskey were filed against him.
Sergeant McCormick of the state ranger force and Deputy United States Marshal Dodgen discovered the still they report under two false floors of the building after two searches of the building earlier in the evening had been unsuccessful.
According to the officers they first removed a wooden floor in the building only to find a brick floor covered with sand. A hand print in the sand aroused the suspicions of the officers on the third trip and a trap door leading to the dugout was uncovered when two layers of brick was thrown back. A complet still with the 15 gallons of whiskey was discovered in the dugout.
Conley, according to the officers watched them search the building assuring them that they would not find a still.

T. J. TAYLOR DIES TUESDAY AT HIS OFFICE

Drops Dead on Return From Lunch; Had Suffered From Heart Trouble and Expected Death.

Was Pioneer Business Man of Wichita Falls and Had Been Identified With Important Projects.

Thomas Jefferson Taylor, 57 years of age, and a resident of Wichita Falls for 32 years during which he was identified with many important business projects and institutions, dropped dead from heart trouble in his office shortly after 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Taylor had just returned to his office after lunch, had entered the office and depositing his hat on one desk started to walk to another, when he fell to the floor with a groan. His secretary, Miss Mercedes McKenzie, quickly called a physician and went to Mr. Taylor's assistance with a glass of water, but he had died almost instantly.

Mr. Taylor had for several years suffered from heart trouble, and had only recently confided to his close friends that he expected to go at any time. His death came as a distinct shock, however, to many friends and acquaintances who had seen and talked with him within a few hours of his death, and who agreed that he had seemed in better health and spirits than for some time in the past.

Built Way Up.

While Mr. Taylor for a number of years has been one of the most prominent and influential of local business men, he started at the bottom when he came to Wichita Falls nearly 32 years ago, and built his way up. For the past few years oil operations had taken the major part of his time, operations in which he was particularly successful. Prior to that he had been a banker, having with T. C. Thatcher, now of Oklahoma City, organized the First State Bank & Trust company, of which he was president. This bank was a number of years ago consolidated with the First National, of which Mr. Taylor became vice-president.

Identified With Railroad.

In spite of the handicap from his health, he was an untiring worker and builder for Wichita Falls.

He was identified with several of the railroad projects of Wichita Falls people, and at the time of his death he was an officer of the Wichita Falls & Southern. When local people purchased control of the American National Bank a few months ago he was chairman of the board and was in close touch with its affairs between that time and the sale of the assets and liquidation of the institution.

Mr. Taylor had also served the community as a director of the Chamber of Commerce and as a member of the local school board for a number of years. When he first came to Wichita Falls he was employed in a grocery, later acquiring the business. Successful in this, he added cotton buying to his other ventures, in which he was also successful, carrying on this business until he became interested in the First State Bank.

Mr. Taylor is survived by his wife and seven children, Roy Taylor, Fred Taylor, Ervin P. Taylor, Mrs. J. T. Gant and T. J. Taylor, Jr., of this city; Avis Taylor of Los Angeles, and Mrs. James Echols of Muskogee. He is survived also by a brother, Dave Taylor of this city; by another brother, Dick Taylor, of Queen City, Texas, and a sister, Mrs. Georgia Mayes, of Shreveport, La. Funeral arrangements are being delayed for word from Avis Taylor in Los Angeles.

Mr. Taylor was a native of Cass county. He was a member of the First Methodist Episcopal church, south, was a Mason and a member of the Elks lodge.

NOTICE

All voters of South Wichita Falls who are interested in the upbuilding of the south part of town, known as the Sibley-Taylor Addition, are requested to be present at the Mass Meeting at the Yale Street Tabernacle this evening at 7:30.—Adv.

Owner and Workers Confer in Golden Rule Fa[illegible]

Arthur Nash, head of a clothing manufacturing concern in Cincinnati, has applied the Golden Rule to his factory. All employes are shareholders. They have a voice in the operation of the plant, vote to raise or decrease wages as business conditions demand, and in general have as much to say regarding the management as Nash himself. He confers constantly with representatives of the employes and thus is better able to judge the needs of his co-workers. There are 600 women workers and special attention is given to their quarters and working conditions.

CLEO LANIER WALKS OUT OF JAIL AGAIN

Cleo Lanier, 16-year-old boy, with a juvenile court record which started several years ago and who is known to practically every officer in the city and county is once more at liberty.

Tuesday noon a few minutes after he had been found guilty of theft by Judge J. P. Jones of the juvenile court and sentenced to the state training school at Gatesville, Cleo walked out of the juvenile jail and had not been apprehended Tuesday night. The escape was made possible when a plumber was taken to the jail by the janitor to do some repair work. It is believed that Cleo was concealed close to the jail door and walked out while the plumber was working.

He calmly walked down through the second and first floors of the courthouse and when his escape was first noticed was several hundred feet from the building.

A short time ago he got away from police officers at the city hall after he had been apprehended at Fort Worth and returned here for theft. Last week he was again apprehended at Gainesville and returned here.

CALOMEL IS A DANGEROUS DRUG

Next Dose May Salivate You, Loosen Teeth or Start Rheumatism.

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

Sleeping Out

"I don't believe in sleeping out of doors in winter," said the woman who settled all discussions by saying that she did not believe in whatever was under discussion.

"And I couldn't sleep in doors if I tried," said the woman who was aggressive and proud of it.

And the quiet little mouse of a woman, who looked plaintively from one to another hoping that the matter would be dropped, was the one who went right on sleeping out of doors all winter, as comfortably warm as if she had been in bed in a house that was well aired and heated.

It all began the year she spent in the sanitarium beside the big lake high up among the mountains. At that time the little woman had a suspicious cough and a rapid pulse, and a way of "feeling weak all over," not to mention a pain in her side and another in the region in which she believed her lungs to be located.

Enjoyed Sleeping Outdoors.

And in the months she spent at the sanitarium she learned the joy of sleeping out of doors, under the stars, the wonder of falling asleep while snowflakes fell slowly on her bed, on her cheek, and melted into warm little trickles that did not do her a bit of harm.

And she also learned a few little things about the folly of attempting to do anything unless one knows why and how.

She had made the usual mistake of buying a quantity of expensive warm clothing, sleeping bags, and woollen blankets. And she had suffered keenly from the oppression of too much weight over her body when she attempted to sleep out on the sleeping porch of her own home.

At the sanitarium it was very different.

The beds remained out all night, but they were fitted with castors and rolled indoors in the morning, to be made, after they had been aired.

A large double blanket was spread over the wire mattress in such a way that its sides and lower end could be folded up over the mattress when the bed was made. This prevented cold air getting under the covers.

Just Knew She Would Freeze.

The sheets were of flannelet instead of cotton. There was a down comforter and one pair of lightweight blankets on the bed, and when the little woman saw the bed, being made she assured the attendant that she knew she would freeze. She did not freeze. She had reckoned without that blanket underneath the mattress.

After she was tucked into bed, with several flannel-covered hot water bottles around her, the blanket underneath the mattress was folded completely over the foot of the occupied bed. The two sides were folded up and over so that they overlapped. They were secured with large safety pins.

Finally a sheet, doubled, was stretched around the head of the bed and brought down on each side, where it was tucked beneath the mattress. It acted as a wind shield.

And far from suffering from the weight of too many bed clothes, the woman who slept out of doors was cosily warm and comfortable while every breath she drew filled her lungs with pure cold air.
