A 33-year-old Hereford man accused of selling heroin was found guilty and sentenced to 10 years in prison Thursday by a 22nd District Court jury.

The nine-man, three-woman body deliberated about an hour before returning the guilty verdict against Alex Mendiaz, who had been tried on charges he sold $40 worth of heroin to an undercover policeman. After hearing testimony in the punishment phase of the trial, the jury took a little more than two hours to decide on the jail term.

Jurors heard testimony from Mendiaz' parents, sister, sister-in-law and past employers as defense attorneys sought a protracted sentence for their client. The jury did not recommend probation.

Mendiaz himself took the stand, telling the jury his wife and four children needed financial support and his father depended on him to help with his business.

In closing arguments during the guilty or innocence portion of the two-day trial, prosecuting attorney John Davis told jurors the case was

"a tale about a den of heroin users and peddlers."

Davis reminded the jury of the dangerous assignment taken on by the undercover policeman who went into the Mendiaz home to attempt to purchase the drug, referring to the "courageous DA (Deaf Smith County Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul) who called on some courageous officers."

The case was prosecuted by Davis and Vicki Howard, both of whom are Randall County Assistant District Attorneys, after Saul asked to be removed from the case. That request came last Friday during pre-trial motions before 22nd District Judge David Wesley Gulley, at which time defense attorneys indicated they would call Saul as a witness.

Saul, who was present the night Mendiaz and his wife Diana were arrested for possessing and selling heroin, testified on Wednesday. He said before the trial began that he had no information not available from other sources, and that he being called as a witness was a defense ploy to get him taken off the case.

Diana Mendiaz, indicted along with her husband in March, earlier this week was granted a continuance of her trial. Defense attorneys argued that if her husband were found guilty, it would prejudice jurors trying her on identical charges.

The undercover officer who testified he made the drug buy last February, said he was led to the home by George Bazan, who had been arrested that day for possession of marijuana.

Bazan, now incarcerated in the Texas Department of Corrections, testified during both phases of the trial. He said he took part in the arrest because he had offered to help the district attorney's office with drug cases in exchange for a lenient sentence on the possession charge.

Bazan was given five years probation, but violated that probation soon afterward and was sent to TDC.

Exhibitors won't miss school

Students who enter the Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock Show will not miss any days of school this year.

To conform with stricter attendance policies brought about by the Education Reform Bill, the HYF voted last fall to hold the competitions at night instead of during school hours.

This year's show, open to 4-H and FFA members from Deaf Smith, Castro, Parmer and Oldham counties, is planned for Jan. 23-26 at Deaf Smith County Bull Barn.

The broiler show will begin at 4:30 p.m. Jan. 23 with the steer show to follow at 6 p.m.

Market hog showing is set for 5 p.m. Jan. 24, with the lamb show planned for 5 p.m. the next day.

This year's auction is to get underway at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 26. Along with finalizing plans for the annual show, HYF directors at their January meeting heard a report on stock market prospects and learned of the results of a recent fund-raising pheasant hunt.

Despite inclement weather, the hunt netted the chapter $3,087, which will be used to fund local chapter activities and an agricultural scholarship for a Hereford High School graduating senior.

Ike Stevens, limited partner with Edward D. Jones and Co. of Hereford presented a program during the recent meeting, including his own personal observations on the stock market and where it may be headed in 1985.

"It's very important for folks in a high risk, cyclical business like farming to put back some money in the years they can afford to as a form of security against the lean years," Stevens told HYF members.

"Bonds are a good form of investment right now since inflation is fairly under control. Government guaranteed bonds and tax exempt municipal bonds are excellent investments at this time because there's a lot more certainty associated with them. The real return on your money on bonds has never been higher than it is right now," said Stevens.

Members also discussed plans for the annual Young Farmers of Texas State convention to be held in Ft. Worth Jan. 12. Fourteen members and their spouses expect to attend the convention.

Reagan eyes department cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, shifting three veterans of his administration into new Cabinet-level jobs, is asking them to study a proposed merger of two of their departments and elimination of the third.

Wants two merged, third eliminated

But White House spokesman Larry Speakes said that does not necessarily mean the president will try again to get Congress to abolish the Energy and Education departments, as he pledged to do in his 1980 campaign. That proposal died after congressional critics objected that it would produce no savings.

Reagan announced Thursday he will nominate Donald P. Hodel, secretary of energy since 1982, to be secretary of the interior, replacing William P. Clark, who is resigning to return to California.

To replace Hodel, Reagan picked John S. Herrington, chief of the White House personnel office since 1983.

The president named William J. Bennett, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities since 1981, to succeed T.H. Bell as secretary of education. Bell has resigned.

Rounding out the latest in a series of personnel shuffles, Reagan decided to nominate Richard G. Darman, deputy to White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III, to be Baker's deputy secretary if the staff chief is confirmed as secretary of the treasury. Baker and Treasury Secretary Donald Regan are proposing to swap jobs.

Speakes said the president had instructed Hodel and Herrington, if confirmed by the Senate, "to conduct a study of their respective departments and to propose reorganizational options to the president."

"These options should be designed to recognize the interrelationship of energy, natural resources and defense policies," Speakes said.

The spokesman said Bennett had been directed to study the Education Department "to determine the proper organizational structure and role of the federal government in education."

"Although the president has often stated his belief that the Education and Energy departments could be

Venezuelans here to talk corn

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

The Texas Corn Producers Board, headed by Carl King of Dimmitt, hosted four major Venezuelan corn handlers this week to discuss the possibility of a contract to sell area food-grade corn to Venezuela.

The group toured facilities and farms in Dimmitt and Hereford Tuesday and Wednesday. At a breakfast meeting in Hereford Wednesday morning, King said the TCPB was "hopeful of signing a contract to deliver at least a portion of the 450,000 to 500,000 metric tons of food-grade corn Venezuela will need this year."

Hosted by Texas Corn Producers

After a breakfast meeting here Wednesday, the group toured the Arrowhead Mills plant and inspected storage and drying facilities on the George Sides farm, west of Dimmitt.

King said the four visitors "represent 90 percent of the corn shipped into Venezuela annually, and use it in dry milling processes and breweries." Also with the group was Manuel Rodriguez, manager of the Caracas office of the U.S. Feed Grains Council.

Assisting with the talks was Jerry Vanderbeek of the Central Bank of Cooperatives in Denver. The CBC and the TCPB worked out a financing plan more than a year ago. Also accompanying the team were Lynn Kemper and Bart Kaderly of the Texas Department of Agriculture.

King and Bill Clark, general manager of Dimmitt Agri Industries, spent three days in Venezuela last October, meeting with industry and government representatives. King said the group was hopeful of signing a contract to deliver the corn from the seven-county checkoff area. Members of the TCPB check off a half-cent per bushel to further the group's efforts.

Venezuelans Visit Hereford

The Texas Corn Producers Board hosted a team of Venezuela food processors to the Hereford-Dimmitt area this week to discuss a food-grade corn contract. Shown among those at a breakfast meeting at Caison's Restaurant are, left to right: Jay Boston, Ricardo Poncelon, director of Molinos Nacionales in Caracas; Hugo Arce, plant manager at Protinal de Casa in Valencia; Carl King, TCPB president; Jerry Vanderbeek of Central Bank of Cooperatives in Denver; Efrén Figueroa of Promasa in Caracas; and Weldon Davis, TCPB member.

Governor to stick with reforms

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Mark White, angry with critics who want to water down public school reforms, said he will veto any bill the Legislature sends him that dilutes the changes.

"There will be no dismantling. There will be no retreat," White declared Thursday.

The governor, who pushed school reforms and a $2.6 billion tax hike to fund them through a special legislative session last summer, said he wants to keep all those changes intact.

"I intend to make certain that our teachers are going to have better pay scales, that there are going to be smaller class sizes, that there will be improved (performance) standards for both teachers and students, that we'll have additional funding for poorer school districts," White said.

His comments came a day after one of the state's largest teacher organizations - the Association of Texas Professional Educators - launched a drive to scuttle the reform law's requirement for competency tests for teachers.

White said he agreed with legislators who say some modifications in the law may be needed, but warned lawmakers that they shouldn't consider dismantling the reforms "unless they have a two-thirds vote in both houses" needed to override his veto.

Former mental patient charged

HOUSTON (AP) - A 25-year-old Vietnamese man - who was in a mental hospital until he was released two months ago at his request - has been charged with murder in the savage stabbing slaying of a young boy who was waiting for a school bus.

Police said Huy Nguong Duong walked up as Shane Smith, 9, and a friend were waiting on the bus at 7 a.m. Thursday. Without warning, Duong burned the boy with a cigarette, then threw him to the ground and began stabbing him in the chest with a kitchen knife, police said.

An apartment maintenance man who saw the attack rushed to the boy's aid and wrestled his attacker to the ground, police said, while someone else grabbed the knife from his hand.

They were too late to save Smith's life, however. Smith, a fourth-grader at Shadow Oaks Elementary School in west Houston, was pronounced dead at 8 a.m. at Memorial City General Hospital.

The Harris County medical examiner's office said the boy died of 20 stab wounds to the chest and two to the back.

Arms talks may delay MX vote

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Reagan administration's success in reopening arms talks with the Soviet Union may cause Congress to delay a showdown vote on the embattled MX missile, a key House leader said.

Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said Secretary of State George Shultz made "very persuasive" points Thursday when he appealed privately to members of Congress not to undermine the arms talks by voting to kill the MX or by crimping military spending.

Fascell said "it's entirely possible" that votes on continuing MX procurement may now be delayed even though he emphasized that House leaders have yet to discuss the issue and no decisions have been made.

Under a compromise struck between President Reagan and Congress late in September, four separate votes will be held in April on whether to permit the MX program to go forward or to kill it.

A loss on any one of the four tallies on Senate and House authorization and spending bills would end the administration's hopes of deploying at least 15 of the modern strategic missiles, each equipped with 10 warheads.

Peace Corps seeks new workers

WASHINGTON (AP) - The work is tough and the pay is bad, but the Peace Corps is confident that the spirit that moved Americans to send millions of dollars to Ethiopia will spur U.S. farm experts to consider becoming volunteers in a war on African famine.

In the most specialized recruiting drive since President Kennedy founded the agency in 1961, the Peace Corps is looking for agriculture specialists to keep two dozen African countries from suffering Ethiopia's fate.

The most urgent need is for 600 recruits to fill vacancies opening as early as this spring and summer. The other successful applicants will be sent later, as the Peace Corps gears up for a 10-year program to help African agriculture build its own foundation.

Peace Corps Director Loret Miller Ruppe told a news conference on Thursday that to build a talent pool, she needs 10,000 applicants to choose from. And she's confident she will get them.

"I see a tremendous willingness to share," she said of college students. "I know they will."

Keyboard helping handicapped

PITTSBURGH (AP) - By typing with their eyes on a special keyboard, the physically handicapped can perform meaningful jobs involving word processing almost as easily as they watch television, an engineer said.

The EyeTyper, a camera-equipped keyboard controlled with staves, can be connected to computers that store such data as accounting figures, make airline reservations or list stock quotations.

"This lets you work independently at roughly the same speed as a non-physically handicapped person in jobs that require word processing," said Mark Friedman, a Carnegie-Mellon University research engineer who helped create the EyeTyper.

"Anything with a keyboard can be controlled by eye movement alone," Friedman said in a recent interview. "The utility of it is basic, independent communication for the severely handicapped. It's also a way for someone who can't earn a living to find paid, productive employment."

The EyeTyper, commercially available since December, retails for $8,000.

Ambassador denies resignation

MEXICO CITY (AP) - U.S. Ambassador John Gavin has denied that he has submitted his resignation or plans to leave Mexico soon.

"Speculations about my departure are just that or perhaps just wishful thinking in some quarters. I trust this is clear," the ambassador said in a statement issued Thursday through the U.S. Embassy's office. "As Mark Twain might have said in my place, reports of my leaving Mexico are greatly exaggerated."

The Dallas Times-Herald, quoting unidentified sources, had said Thursday that Gavin is expected to resign soon as part of a major shakeup of the U.S. diplomatic corps in Latin America.

Gavin's statement said the reports of his leaving remind him "of something Mark Twain once said: 'Truth is the most valuable thing we have. Let us economize it.'"

"Evidently, those who are spreading these rumors also believe in economizing the truth."

Laborers eligible for unemployment

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas farm laborers, largely Mexican-Americans, will be eligible to draw unemployment checks from the state under a district judge's ruling.

After a four-day trial, Judge Harley Clark ruled Thursday that portions of the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act that have excluded most farm workers are unconstitutional.

The Texas Employment Commission was ordered to handle jobless payment claims from about 104,000 migrant and seasonal workers who are among the 250,000 farm and ranch laborers in the state.

The ruling came in a lawsuit brought by the United Farm Workers and was fought both by the state and the Texas Farm Bureau, which maintained that the costs of farming would be driven up if employers were forced to pay extra taxes to fund the unemployment benefits.

It was Clark's order in March 1984 that gave farm workers medical protection for on-the-job injuries.

The exact wording of the injunction to TEC officials will be written at a Jan. 16 session between the judges and attorneys for the state and the farm workers.

The judge and attorneys agreed Thursday afternoon that the injunction would force the TEC to set up new accounts for farmers liable for payment of state unemployment taxes and start collecting the taxes at a date to be decided.

Farm workers would become eligible for benefits after they have drawn at least $500 in pay for this year.

United Farm Workers attorney Jim Harrington said the injunction would name only the 11 named plaintiffs in the suit, 10 individuals and about 4,000 UFW members.

"However, with the judge's declaration that the exclusion provision is unconstitutional, it has the effect of a class action, affecting all farm workers," Harrington said.

Clark's decision was hailed as a victory for all working people in Texas by some legislators and labor leaders.

There was no immediate comment from the attorney general, who represented the TEC in the suit.

"Texas has treated farm workers as second class citizens for 48 years," Rep. Lloyd Criss, D-LaMarque, told a Capitol news conference. "The state has denied them equal minimum wage, access to unemployment compensation and until only last year, workers compensation protection. Judge Clark's decision will help us to reverse this half-century of neglect."

Efforts by the state and the Texas Farm Bureau to delay action on the unemployment pay issue until the current Legislature had a chance to act on it were brushed aside by Clark.

"I believe the Supreme Court will be looking at the purpose of the legislation (the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act) and I do believe the purpose of the legislation is not being served by the exclusion of agricultural workers," Clark said.

Criss said his pending House bill to put farm workers on an equal basis with all other Texas workers would guide the TEC in administering Clark's decision. He said farmers and crew leaders would share the responsibility for taxes to pay for the unemployment benefits.

Criss said the estimated 30,000 growers to be brought under the unemployment compensation act would pay about $97.20 a year per worker, 27 cents a day. He said the average farm worker gets only $58 weekly.

Criss said the growers' payments would compare to the average $3,489 that other employers are now paying for each worker per year.

Rep. Al Luna, D-Houston, chairman of the House Mexican-American lobby, predicted Criss' bill would have wide support in the House.

Harrington argued during the trial that present law hurts both seasonal workers and their communities.

"It also discriminates against the counties and the taxpayers who have to provide medical needs, food and other economic essentials for these unemployed workers," he said.

Ortega knocks United States in first speech

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - With Cuban leader Fidel Castro and 4,000 other guests looking on, former guerrilla Daniel Ortega was sworn in as Nicaragua's president and gave an inaugural address assailing the United States.

Castro, who like Ortega wore a military uniform, was believed to be the only foreign head of government on hand Thursday for the inauguration of Ortega, the 39-year-old coordinator of the leftist Sandinista junta that took power in 1979 after overthrowing the pro-American Somoza dynasty.

The Cuban president, whose arrival was not announced in advance, was embraced warmly by Ortega at the airport. Castro, 58, overthrew the pro-American Batista regime and established leftist rule in Cuba 26 years ago, and Cuba was a supporter of the Sandinista revolution.

Carlos Nunez, president of Nicaragua's new National Assembly, draped the blue and white sash of office over Ortega and swore in the new president for a six-year term. The ceremony took place in the outdoor Plaza of the Revolution alongside Lake Managua.

An estimated 40 nationals were represented at the ceremony, but most delegations were relatively low level.

"We are not warlike nor militaristic," Ortega said in his address. "The war is forced on us by the United States and we can only end this aggression if we can convince the American government that this revolution cannot be defeated."

For the Sandinistas, Ortega's election on Nov. 4 with 63 percent of the vote and his inauguration were seen as crucial to gaining international acceptance and badly needed economic aid from West European democracies that have grown uneasy with the Sandinistas' authoritarian rule.

In his speech, Ortega said the United States had sent "nightmares" to Nicaragua to spoil the dreams born with the revolution.

The Sandinista government estimates more than 8,000 U.S.-backed rebels roam the jungles and hills of northern Nicaragua, waging hit-and-run warfare almost daily.

Ortega's speech was largely a repeat of standard accusations, but he also said he would welcome normalization of relations with the United States and called for ratification of the so-called Contadora peace plan for Central America.

Western diplomatic sources, who spoke only on condition they not be identified, said Castro was expected to confer privately today with the foreign ministers of the Contadora group, Mexico, Panama, Colombia and Panama.

The Contadora group has been trying for the past two years to come up with a regional peace plan for Central America.

After being sworn in, Ortega embraced the other eight "commandantes" of the Sandinista National Liberation Front and his vice president, Sergio Ramirez. Ramirez was a member of the three-man junta that governed the country until Thursday but is not a member of the nine-member Sandinista Directorate.

The commandantes, who call their ruling body the directorate, have wielded authority in Nicaragua for more than five years, and Ortega's inauguration is not likely to change that.

eliminated, he feels any such reorganization should be fully studied and considered before any final decisions are made to "reorganize," said Speakes.

Administration sources, speaking on condition they not be identified, said Harrington was picked to oversee the merger of various Energy Department functions into the Interior Department.

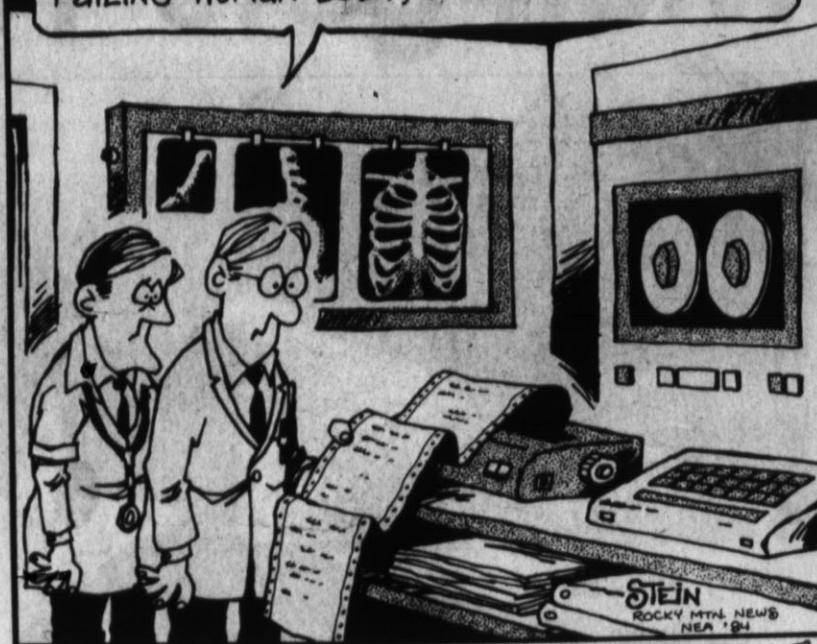

Speakes said a proposal for a new Department of International Trade and Industry was also discussed in a Cabinet meeting Thursday, and that the president "took specifically under advisement the reorganization of the trade, commerce and industry functions of the federal government and promised a decision at an early date."

The Washington Post, citing unidentified administration officials, reported in today's editions that during the Cabinet meeting Secretary of State George P. Shultz raised "quite vigorous" objections to the proposal for a new department.

Reagan earlier had promised Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige that he would support the plan, but officials quoted Shultz as telling Reagan, "I wish you hadn't done this," the Post said.

Kennedy responds to minister's aspersion

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) - Sen. Edward M. Kennedy issued a sharply worded rebuttal after South Africa's foreign minister said Kennedy should be more concerned with the plight of American blacks than with South Africa's racial policies.

The Massachusetts Democrat, visiting South Africa at the invitation of Nobel Peace Prize winner Bishop Desmond Tutu, released a statement defending the status of blacks in America after Foreign Minister R.F. Botha criticized him Thursday in a statement broadcast on South African television.

Kennedy's sometimes tumultuous visit to the white-minority-ruled nation continued today with meetings with two South African ministers in charge of the major mechanics of the apartheid system that Kennedy says he wants dismantled.

The senator accused Botha of making an "untrue attack on the United States" when Botha said the death rate for American black children was twice that of whites, and the black poverty rate was three times higher.

Botha said Kennedy should stay out of South African affairs and be more concerned with blacks in the United States. He contended 17,500 black youngsters suffer from malnutrition in Kennedy's home state.

Kennedy responded: "The infant mortality rate for blacks in South Africa is not twice as high, but six times as high as for whites. Black people in South Africa are not three times as likely to be poor, but 30 times."

He acknowledged that "there are disparities in the United States between black Americans and white Americans."

"But they are disparities between Americans who have equal rights politically, not between whites who have the privilege of citizenship and blacks who are treated as aliens in their own land," he said.

The U.S. Census Bureau says 12.1 percent of white Americans were considered poor in 1983, compared with 35.7 percent of blacks. A separate agency, the National Center for Health Statistics, reported that 1,018 per 100,000 white infants under 1 year old died in 1982, compared with 1,963 per 100,000 black infants.

South Africa's more than 22 million blacks cannot vote or live where they wish. They are dominated by the 5 million whites, for whom the law preserves the best jobs, homes, business opportunities and health care.

The Kennedy visit has angered whites who think the senator is meddling in complex racial problems. He and his aides have often clashed with South African white officials during the visit, and the South African media have published bitter attacks on Kennedy that include references to his personal life and past.

Arms Race

Cain klobbered Abel with a four-pound club.

Had Abel had a five-pound club, Cain might not have dared.

It is the history of military weapons, tactics and strategy that each weapon was a "decisive weapon" only until it was superseded by something more deadly.

Through the development of the slingshot, the crossbow, the catapult and the invention of gunpowder...

Through the development of automatic weapons, the cannon and the blockbuster bomb...

None was the last word in weaponry.

The A-bomb was - for but a little while.

The A-bomb which brought Japan to surrender has long since been neutered by H-bombs and C-bombs and no nation enjoys any degree of exclusivity in any category.

You are hearing suggestions that such advanced weaponry technology should be shelved so that nations can go back to fighting wars with "conventional weapons."

Outnumbered as is our 6 percent of this planet's population, anybody who wants to fight tomorrow's wars with the weapons with which we lost the last two wars is no friend of ours.

Asiatics could overwhelm our Western civilization in either of two ways: Protracted footsoldier war - or - a decapitating first strike with nuclear forces.

We can protect ourselves from either and both of those threats only with technology and only by keeping ours at least abreast of theirs.

It is known that the Soviet Union is expanding its military capability for combat operations on earth and/or for "space war."

We have irrefutable evidence of Moscow's intention to acquire military superiority in outer space.

That we have a 1967 treaty with the Soviets prohibiting placing weapons in space means nothing; they have completed and completely breached 10 treaties in 12 years.

So... Inexorable advances in Soviet technology and the Soviets' unwavering adherence to their strategic goals require us to prepare to defend our interests in space.

Last June it was demonstrated that we can in fact shoot down an inbound intercontinental missile.

We must expand that capability so that the ICBM will never be "the ultimate weapon."

Moscow will behave only as long as our technology allows them no alternative.

Cook beef carefully advises Dr. Marchello

A recent study conducted by Dr. John Marchello of the University of Arizona showed some consumers don't know the best way to cook the beef they bring home. The questionnaire asked how the shoppers cooked the roasts and steaks; the six choices listed were broiling, charcoal grilling, roasting, panfrying, pot-roasting and "other." In the 3,000 answers he found these astonishing results. One-fourth of the consumers grilled the roasts and 11 percent panfried or broiled them. "They couldn't have done anything that would have made the roast more unpalatable and less tender," he said. (Let's hope the consumers forgot to tell him they poured liquid smoke over the roast and wrapped it in foil or marinated it in coke, etc. before grilling it...slowly.)

Fifty-two percent panfried round steak—a percentage, Marchello found "appalling." (They probably forgot to mention they tenderized it by beating it before flouring and frying or maybe the bunch that grilled it, marinated it in something like soy sauce overnight before grilling). Let's hope so. Another 11 percent roasted or pot-roasted sirloin tip steak, a tender cut that should be broiled or grilled, but instead turned out dry and tasteless after roasting. For that mouth-watering, tasty beef, be sure to cook it correctly. You can actually toughen muscle fibers in meat rather than make them tender if you cook it incorrectly.

Today in History

Today is Friday, Jan. 11, the 11th day of 1985. There are 354 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On Jan. 11, 1964, the U.S. surgeon general, Dr. Luther Terry, issued the first government report saying that smoking may be hazardous to one's health. That report remains strongly disputed by the tobacco industry to this day. On this date: In 1757, the first secretary of the U.S. Treasury — Alexander Hamilton — was born in the West Indies. In 1805, the Michigan Territory was created. In 1861, Alabama seceded from the Union. In 1913, the first sedan-type automobile, a Hudson, went on display at the 13th Automobile Show in New York. In 1928, author Thomas Hardy died.

In 1943, the United States and Britain signed treaties relinquishing extraterritorial rights in China. In 1977, France created an international uproar by arresting, then releasing, a Palestinian militant suspected of involvement in the murders of Israeli athletes at the 1972 Munich Olympics. Ten years ago: The Soviet Union launched Soyuz 17 with two cosmonauts aboard. One year ago: The pilot of a U.S. helicopter forced down in Honduras by Nicaraguan gunfire was killed. Today's birthdays: Actress-director Eva LeGallienne is 86. NBC president Grant Tinker is 59. Actor Rod Taylor is 56. Singer Bobby Goldsboro is 44. Golfer Ben Crenshaw is 33. Thought for today: "Everything is funny as long as it is happening to somebody else." — Will Rogers, American humorist (1879-1935).

HOW YOUR IRA CAN SAVE YOU TAXES WHILE YOU BUILD YOUR RETIREMENT FUND!

Q What is an IRA?

A IRA stands for Individual Retirement Account. An IRA is a special savings account which is tax-deferred. This means you pay no federal taxes on annual contributions or the accumulating interest until funds are withdrawn at retirement.

Q Am I eligible for an IRA?

A If you're a wage earner or you're self-employed you can start an IRA. Contributions are limited to earned income only. Income from other sources such as investments and inheritances may not be sheltered in an IRA. Contributions may not be made for or after the year in which you reach 70½.

Q What if I'm already covered by a Pension Plan?

A New laws now permit every wage-earner even those covered by company pension plans to start their own IRA.

Q How much can I contribute to my IRA?

A Every year you can contribute up to $2,000 or 100% of compensation (whichever is less) to a regular IRA.

Q Must I contribute the full amount every year?

A You can contribute any amount your budget allows. In fact, if you choose, you need not make any contribution in any given year.

Q Can I use my IRA funds as collateral for a loan?

A Pledging an IRA as collateral for a loan would subject the amount pledged to be treated as a distribution and that portion subject to taxation and penalty.

Q When do I pay taxes on my IRA?

A When you begin making withdrawals, you will be taxed on only the amount you withdraw each year. The remaining funds continue to earn tax-deferred interest.

Q When can I make withdrawals?

A Withdrawals (distributions) are permitted anytime after age 59½, but must start not later than the end of the taxable year in which you reach 70½. After age 59½, you may make withdrawals even if you continue to earn income. It is not necessary to be retired in order to make withdrawals.

Q What is a spousal IRA?

A A Spousal IRA is a dual account IRA specifically for married couples with one non-employed member. To qualify for the higher Spousal IRA maximum of $2,250, you and your non-employed spouse must file a joint return. Yearly contributions may be unequally divided between the accounts provided the total contribution does not exceed $2,250 and neither account is allocated more than $2,000.

Q My spouse is employed, can we both have separate IRAs?

A Yes, and each of you may contribute up to $2,000 or 100% of compensation (whichever is less). You can each take your respective deductions on a joint return or separate returns.

Q How does my IRA save me tax dollars?

A You save taxes in three important ways. Your annual IRA contribution is fully deductible from your gross income. The more you save in your IRA the bigger your deduction. All the interest you accumulate in your IRA remains tax-sheltered until you withdraw it. When you retire and begin making withdrawals from your IRA you will probably be in a lower tax bracket.

Q What is the deadline for opening my IRA?

A You can open or make deposits to your IRA anytime up to and including the due date of your tax return for the previous tax year (April 15th).

Q Can I withdraw my IRA funds if I become disabled?

A Yes, if you are disabled you may make unlimited penalty-free withdrawals.

Q What interest rate will my IRA earn?

A Depending on the IRA plan you choose and due to interest rate fluctuations, it is necessary to quote interest rates on a daily basis — call us for the most recent rates available.

McEnroe still complains, wins

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It was vintage McEnroe: terrific tennis and terrible temper. And it was Anders Jarryd playing at the top of his game.

In the end, it was the same as always, McEnroe moving on to the semifinals where he will face Swenden's Mats Wilander on Saturday.

The other semifinal pairing in the $400,000 Volvo Masters at Madison Square Garden will be decided today when Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, the No. 3 seed, meets Joakim Nystrom of Sweden, and second-seeded Jimmy Connors takes on fellow American Elliot Teltscher.

Saturday's semifinals and Sunday's championship match will be televised nationally by NBC. The winner of the elite 12-player, season-ending tournament will collect $100,000, with $60,000 going to the runner-up.

McEnroe escaped the quarterfinals with a 2-6, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Jarryd. Wilander, the No. 4 seed who's also from Sweden, outlasted Johan Kriek 6-4, 3-6, 7-6.

"The way he played today, he'll be in the top 10 for a while," McEnroe said of Jarryd. "He has improved tremendously. He can hit the ball well from the back court, he's quick, he's a very good player."

But, in the end, McEnroe changed his game a little and raised his game a notch.

"He started picking up my serve pretty well, so I'm not going to give him the passing shot," said McEnroe, explaining why he decided to trade baseline rallies with the 23-year-old Swede rather than rush the net at every opportunity. "I was going to make him work for it. It's good to change things against anybody."

One of the things McEnroe didn't change was his on-court antics, snarling at the crowd, photographers, linesmen and the judge. And at one point, while he was serving, the head of his racket broke off and flew into the air, narrowly missing the volatile New York left-hander when he crashed to the synthetic carpet.

"I didn't know where it was," McEnroe said of the flying racket head, "and that's the way I felt things were going at that stage. If it landed on my head, I think I would have lost 6-0."

Jarryd, who also took McEnroe to three sets the last time they played, in the semifinals of the Stockholm Open the first week in November, knew why he lost after jumping out to a one set, 3-0 lead.

"I should have won the match when I had 3-0, but I choked," said the right-hander.

Wilander, who led the four-man Swedish contingent into the tournament, had to stave off three match points enroute to his victory over Kriek. He saved the last one with a perfectly executed forehand topspin lob that caught Kriek at the net, sailed over his head and landed just inside the baseline.

"I felt that was the only thing I could do to take a chance," Wilander said. "His approach was very deep and I was very lucky to get away with it."

WANT TO DIET?
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Take it from Coach Bill Walsh of the San Francisco 49ers, if you want to diet become a football coach.

"I get so nervous for days before a game that I can't eat," Walsh said. "I'll go to the refrigerator, look at it, close it without taking anything out and most times I don't even have any recollection of doing that."

Rangers kill talks with former player Sundberg

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers have ended their pursuit of Milwaukee Brewers catcher Jim Sundberg, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today, quoting an "inside source."

Rangers officials will announce today that talks with their former Gold Glove catcher have been broken off, the newspaper said.

Sundberg would not comment late Thursday night on the report.

"There will be a statement in the morning (Friday)," Sundberg said. "That's all I can say right now."

Sundberg was traded to Milwaukee after the 1983 season because of personality conflicts between him and Texas manager Doug Rader.

However, catching was one of the Rangers' weaknesses last season, and after Sundberg demanded that the Brewers trade him, Rangers officials began trying to get him back again.

Club officials publicly admitted how much they missed and needed Sundberg's talents behind the plate.

Their efforts included a much-heralded airport meeting between Sundberg and Rader, who apologized for critical remarks he made just before and after Sundberg was dealt to the Brewers in December a year ago.

The trade possibility flourished during half a dozen meetings between Sundberg, owner Eddie Chiles, club President Mike Stone and General Manager Tom Grieve.

But it languished as time passed and no answer was forthcoming and it died, once and for all, Thursday night when the Rangers reportedly notified Sundberg that they had decided against pursuing a trade with Milwaukee, the Star-Telegram said.

Grieve's obvious problems in trade talks with Brewers General Manager Harry Dalton may have also been a factor in the decision, the newspaper added.

"It's just off, that's all," the source said. "But it doesn't come down to the fact that he (Sundberg) didn't want to come back."

The Star-Telegram reported that during the day Thursday, Sundberg had made it clear his decision on whether to return to Texas hinged on something he expected to hear from Stone.

Deadline extended for girls basketball

First- and second-grade girls interested in playing in the YMCA Youth Basketball still have until Jan. 18 to sign up at the YMCA, officials reported Thursday.

Only girls in the first and second grades have this chance, as not enough others in that age group indicated interest by the original deadline. If not enough take advantage of the opportunity by the 18th, the age division will be combined with an older group.

For more information, contact the YMCA, 500 15th St., at 364-6990.

A LONG WAIT
MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — It was a long time in coming and the West Virginia fans went wild before the final gun sounded. The 17-14 decision for the Mountaineers over Penn State ended one of the longest no-victory streaks in the history of college football.

It had been 28 seasons without a West Virginia victory over Penn State, an 0-27-1 span marked only by a tie in 1958.

Penn State had defeated the Mountaineers 25 times in a row from 1959 to 1983.

After second round

Simpson overcomes odds to take lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A week ago Tim Simpson was bedded with the flu at home in Atlanta. His doctor told him not to even bother going to the Bob Hope Classic golf tournament.

His father-in-law, who Simpson said is dying of cancer, told him to go out and win it.

He came to the California desert, still suffering from a heavy chest cold, and, after 36 holes of the inaugural event on the 10-month PGA Tour, moved himself in front of the field with a 36-hole total of 133, 11 shots under par.

"Whatever I do, if I can hang on and win, I dedicate to my father-in-law," he said after a 6-under-par 66 at Tamarisk Thursday in the second round of the five-day, 90-hole tournament that offers $500,000 in prizes.

"We're very close," Simpson said. "He's a great fan, a great sports fan. I think if I could win, it might add a few days to his life. That means more to me than all the money in the world. It's a great incentive for me."

Simpson, who has yet to win in eight full years of Tour activity, said he felt he could "keep up the pace. I started playing well last summer and played well through the fall."

With 54 holes to go, 18 players were within three shots of his lead.

A single stroke away, at 134, were Craig Stadler, Mark O'Meara, Doug Tewell, Paul Azinger and Lanny Wadkins. Azinger, who has been working with a hypnotist, matched the best round of the tournament with an 8-under-par 64 at Tamarisk. Stadler, a former winner here, and Tewell each shot 68 at Indian Wells. O'Meara, the No. 2 money-winner last year, and Wadkins, a former PGA champion, each had a 67 at Tamarisk.

The group at 135 included defending champion John Mahaffey, Canadian Dan Halldorson, Ron Streck and Larry Rinker. Rinker and Halldorson each shot 66 in bright sunshine at Tamarisk. Mahaffey, twice a winner of this event, had to scramble for his 69 at the same course. Streck had a 67 at La Quinta. Calvin Peete, the 1984 Vardon Trophy winner, headed a group of nine other at 136.

Arnold Palmer, the only five-time winner of this tournament, and Jack Nicklaus were well back at 140. Nicklaus had a second round 69, Palmer 71, both at Tamarisk.

The pros play one round on each of the four desert courses, each day with a different set of amateurs, before the field is cut for the pros-only finish Sunday at Indian Wells.

San Francisco lineman

Carter wants another shot at Marino

By STEVE WILSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — From the Olympics to the Super Bowl, Michael Carter has had quite a year.

Carter, a 6-foot-2, 290-pound defensive tackle for the San Francisco 49ers, won a silver medal in the shot put at Los Angeles last summer, and now hopes for a Super Bowl championship ring.

He would also like to get his big hands on Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino at Stanford Stadium on Jan. 20. They met before, when Carter, a junior at Southern Methodist, sacked Marino, a senior at Pittsburgh, in the Cotton Bowl two years ago. SMU won 7-3, and Carter's hit late in the game was the last time Marino was sacked in college.

"I was pretty thrilled at the time," Carter said Thursday.

At 24, Carter is a rookie with so many big moments that he feels he will take all the hoopla of the Super Bowl in stride. He hasn't spent this season just learning from the sidelines like some rookies.

As the season progressed, he played more and more, usually entering the game on the second series and shuttling with the veterans on different situations in the 49ers' complex system.

"I've been going from one high to another," he said. "It's been a great, outstanding year for me, '84 going in to '85. I was just hoping to go to the Olympics and then make a football team. All this stuff is extra."

Carter, who spent many hours lifting weights preparing for the Olympics, is among the strongest players in the National Football League. He has bench pressed up to 450 pounds and lifted over 700 pounds from a squat.

At the Olympics, he weighed 310 pounds, but shed some of that for the quickness needed to play nose tackle.

In order to get to Marino in the Super Bowl, Carter will have to get by Dolphins' Pro Bowl center Dwight Stephenson.

"Stephenson is by far the best center I've seen," said Carter, who has never played against him but has been studying films this week. "He's got good strength and he's a good athlete. From the rumors I heard about him, I thought he'd be about 6-5, 270 pounds. But I saw the statistics. He's only 6-2, 255. He's doing some job for that size."

Carter said he's practicing several moves, with help from veteran teammate Gary Johnson.

"It seems a lot of guys try to muscle him and that's playing right into his hands," Carter said. "Once you try to go right down the middle on him, he has you."

Ann Landers

Not indispensable

DEAR ANN LANDERS: At times, all of us have a tendency to overestimate our importance. A little humbling can be a useful thing. I found this poem in a Rotary newsletter and thought it should be shared with many. Your column reaches everyone, so please find room if you can.—Constant N.D. Reader

DEAR N.D.: Loved it. Thanks for sharing, here it is. I'm sorry the author wishes to remain anonymous. I like to give credit where credit's due. INDISPENSABLE

When you're feeling so important
And your ego is in bloom
When you simply take for granted
You're the wisest in the room
When you feel your very absence
Would leave a great big hole,
Just follow these instructions
They will humble any soul.

Take a bucket filled with water
Put your hand in to the wrist,
Pull it out, the hole remaining
Is how much you will be missed.
Splash wildly when you enter,
Stir a lot and splash galore,
Then stop, and in a minute,
It looks just like before.

The moral of this story
Is do the best you can
Be proud, but please remember,
There's no indispensable man.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am in love with a beautiful young woman (age 23). We have been living together since 1983. She has moved out three times to live with other guys but never stays away more than a week or so.

She has almost killed herself three times since I've known her. First she drank three bottles of wine and freebased a load of cocaine. The second time she swallowed some pills, jumped out of a second-story window and ended up with a fractured skull. The third time she mixed pot and booze and drove off the road into a clump of trees. The car was totaled and she walked away without a scratch.

This is a kind and gentle person, very sweet and easy to get along with. How can I help her?—Worried In Corning, N.Y.

DEAR WORRIED: First, the girl needs counseling desperately. Second, the best way to help a person who has a drug abuse problem is to become well-informed on the subject. Write to the American Council for Drug Education, 5820 Hubbard Drive, Dept. A, Rockville, MD. 20852 for a list of their literature. This agency does a terrific job and their material is the best I've seen.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

New case workers introduced Wednesday

New case workers of the Child Protective Service for Palmer, Deaf Smith and Oldham counties were introduced during the Child Welfare Board meeting held Wednesday afternoon in the Commissioners Court Room of the courthouse. Bill Johnson, new chairman, presided during the first meeting of the year.

Case workers include Collin Weaver, Barbara Geiger and Lindsey Shank. As they were introduced to the group, each told of their background so that the board could better acquaint themselves with the workers. The workers also reported on the lack of supervision and sexual and physical abuse in the three counties.

Johnson volunteered to attend training classes in Amarillo so that he will be qualified to show a sexual and physical abuse film to local schools. Also, volunteering of their time were Avis White, board vice-chairman, and Lavon Nieman, secretary.

During the session, it was announced that there are two vacancies to be filled on the board and that they need to be presented for approval at the next Commissioner's Court meeting scheduled Jan. 28.

Ms. Nieman gave a report on a used trampoline that was donated before Christmas by the Loren Nixon family. Recipient of the trampoline is a foster family who reside in Friona.

Repairs donated on the trampoline were made by Saul Upholstery, White Implement and Friona Canvas. Delivering the trampoline to the Friona family were Bill Devers and the Rev. Ron Cook.

Minutes were read by Wanda Spain and a financial report was presented by Judy Baker.

Those in attendance included ex-officio members, Judge Glen Nelson and Baker, and Weaver, Geiger, Shank, Spain, Johnson, White and Nieman. Absent were Devers and the Rev. Cook.

Local residents return from Tournament of Roses

Seventy-seven people from the Amarillo area participated in this year's Tournament of Roses Tour.

Grace Tinnin, Ursalee Jacobsen, Hilda Havens, Dr. I.M. Atkins and Robert and Alice Thompson, escorts, travelled from Hereford.

Leaving Amarillo on Dec. 28, the group travelled by way of El Paso, Phoenix, Ariz., and Palm Springs, Calif., to the Los Angeles area. In California, the group visited Universal Studios for an escorted tour, travelled across the metropolitan area of Los Angeles, shopped and browsed at Knott's Berry Farm.

After celebrating New Year's at the hotel in Anaheim, Calif., the travelers journeyed to Pasadena where they viewed the Rose parade from their reserved seats on Colorado Boulevard. In the afternoon, they joined other fans for the Rose Bowl game.

After a day at Disneyland, the sightseers travelled to San Diego for two nights at the Viscount Hotel on Harbor Island. They visited the San Diego Zoo, enjoyed a cruise of San Diego Harbor and dined on Harbor Island.

From San Diego, the group went to Las Vegas for a dinner and show at the MGM Grand Hotel. On the way back to Amarillo, the group visited Hoover Dam and Lake Meade, and stayed overnight in Gallup, N.M.

First execution held in nearly 23 years

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Joseph Carl Shaw, a former altar boy and military policeman convicted of killing two teen-agers, went to South Carolina's electric chair today in the state's first execution in nearly 23 years.

Central Correctional Institution officials began preparing Shaw about 3 a.m. and strapped the 29-year-old man into the electric chair before dawn. He was jolted with 2,400 volts of electricity and was pronounced dead at 5:16 a.m., said Deputy Corrections Commissioner Doug Catoe.

"First I want to say I'm sorry to all three families, the Swanks, The Taylors and the Hartnesses for the grief and loss they have suffered," Shaw said in a last statement. "I realize their grief will continue, but I hope they have some peace once all the publicity about me ends."

Catoe said that while Shaw was being strapped into the chair, "there was a last minute call to the governor's office just to check to see if there was a last-minute granting of clemency," but there was none.

Shaw pleaded guilty to killing Tommy Taylor, 17, and Carlotta Hartness, 14, in October 1977. He also admitted raping and shooting to death 21-year-old Betty Swank 12 days earlier, but received a life sentence for that crime.

State Capital Highlights

Falling oil prices concern state

AUSTIN—The New Year's holiday combined with a brief snow storm to slow down government and political activity at the Capitol last week.

Three inches of snow fell onto the unprepared city and state employees were sent home to safety.

Meanwhile, falling oil prices on the world market continued to cause concern among the Legislature's leadership on the effect of the decline on dwindling state revenues.

Governor Mark White, along with governors of several other states, questioned whether President Reagan's budget and tax proposals would cause yet more loss of state government dollars.

White asked the 30-state Interstate Oil Compact Commission to form a task force to study the impact of the tax revision proposals to determine whether they will further depress oil and gas production in Texas.

Revenue Sharing

Two other federal budget proposals worry Texas officials: the elimination of the federal revenue-sharing program within three years and the repeal of itemized deductions for state and local taxes.

The revenue-sharing program allocates millions to cities for such basic services as schools, police protection and sanitation. The elimination's effect would be either a cut-back in services at the local level or an increase of state and local taxes to pick up the burden.

Another federal proposal would eliminate the tax exemption for interest on bonds issued by state and local agencies, a method of raising money for housing and other loans.

Texas Unemployment

Unemployment figures for Texas were reported a little higher in November, and the Texas Employment Commission reported it was due to an increase in workers looking for temporary Christmas work.

Nearly half a million workers, or 435,100, were reported unemployed, a rate of 5.4 percent.

The McAllen-Pharr-Edinburg area suffered the highest jobless rate of 21.1 percent.

Other Rio Grande River towns showed rates in the high teens, while cities in the refinery areas of Beaumont-Port Arthur had a jobless rate over ten percent.

GOP Director Leaves

The executive director of the Texas Republican Party said last week he will leave his job in March to direct the political committee of New York Congressman Jack Kemp. Presumably, the committee is a prelude to Kemp's candidacy for president in '88, and the addition of John Maxwell would increase Kemp's hopes of carrying Texas.

Maxwell is highly regarded for his work at Texas GOP headquarters over the past two years. In his statement, Maxwell warned against a renewed surge of party infighting.

State Sued

A state employees union last week filed a lawsuit against the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, alleging the Austin State Hospital harassed workers who reported poor conditions.

Prison Plan

A federal judge last week approved a plan to cut down on guard-against-inmate brutality in Texas prisons, but he warned prison officials against evading the plan's terms by claiming they don't have enough money.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, who's court ordered prison reforms a few years ago marked the beginning of a scandal-ridden scenario in the prison system, ordered the anti-brutality plan implemented immediately.
