The SDN Column

The latter days of May and the first three weeks of June brought about a big change in the Colorado River Municipal Water District's supply situation.

The latest figures indicate that the district's reservoirs picked up a total of some 40,000 acre feet of water during that period, 16,000 acre feet of it during the past week.

This completely reversed the picture that existed up to about mid-May. At that time, the district had less than half that amount of water in its two lakes, E. V. Spence and J. B. Thomas.

Lake Spence has made the bigger catch, which was to be expected since it is the bigger lake and has much the bigger watershed. Its catch during the past week was considerably larger than had been expected because some extra heavy rains hit a relatively small area on its watershed early this week.

Meanwhile, Lake Thomas was not completely shut out. Its vertical elevation finally came up by a little over one foot, representing over 1,200 acre feet of water, as the result of rains the past weekend.

Lake Spence now is at its highest level in its brief history and Lake Thomas is at its highest level this year.

At the same time, CRMWD pumps were diverting low-quality water from the Colorado River at Colorado City. This water is used to fulfill contracts with oil companies.

In all, the district had over 47,000 acre feet of water in its surface reservoirs, not counting that in Moss Lake near Big Spring, which has been used as a mixing station for Lake Spence and Lake Thomas water.

Water has been a big factor in the ups and downs of this area throughout its history. The June issue of the Borden Citizen, published by the Borden County Historical Survey Committee, has an article on Maj. W. V. Johnson, who put together ranching ventures in the Borden, Lynn and Crosby County regions back in the 1880's. The ranches were "beset with terrible drouths, die-ups, severe blizzards, market failures," according to the article.

There was no hint of whether a drouth had anything to do with it, but one of Maj. Johnson's daughters-in-law reportedly told a friend once that she "would gladly go to hell" with anyone who would pay her way. — WACIL McNAIR.

Fight Raging Near Fire Base

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy fighting raged today around abandoned Fire Base Fuller and U.S. B52 bombers struck twice in support of South Vietnamese infantrymen hunting enemy mortar crews in the hills below the demilitarized zone.

A military spokesmen, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, reported "large sporadic contacts" around Fuller but said he had no details.

"We have sent reinforcements to the area," he said. "The important thing now is to find and destroy the enemy mortar positions around Fuller. Then a decision will be made whether to reoccupy the base."

Informants in the field reported that the North Vietnamese who overran the base four miles south of the DMZ Wednesday night withdrew from Fuller and took along the American electronic equipment that had been left there.

Associated Press correspondent Michael Putzel flew over the hilltop base in a helicopter today and confirmed that it was deserted.

The U.S. Command maintained that it did not know how many American advisers and electronic technicians had been at Fuller when it was overrun. But field reports indicated about eight Americans managed to escape to a rear headquarters Thursday.

The Command reported another B52 strike was flown south of Fire Base Sarge, which is six miles southwest of Fuller. Heavy fighting has also been reported there. Putzel said the South Vietnamese were still holding the base although U.S. Chinook helicopters pulled its artillery pieces out Thursday after Fuller fell, apparently as a precaution.

The fall of Fire Base Fuller and the precarious situation of Fire Base Sarge weakened the western defense flank along the DMZ and the Laotian border. It could presage a new enemy offensive.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, the commander in the five northern provinces, said in a recent interview that he expects heavier enemy pressure in July and August. But he predicted the fighting would be limited to the unpopulated western mountains, with no real enemy threat to the populous coastal lowlands, including Hue and Da Nang.

Most of the bases along the DMZ and in the mountains of western Quang Tri province have been subjected to stepped-up shelling attacks. Fuller was bombarded by 800 mortar shells in 80 minutes prior to its abandonment.

Medina To Stand Trial

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — A military judge refused today to dismiss murder and assault charges against Capt. Ernest Medina, whose infantry company staged the My Lai assault in 1968.

Col. Kenneth Howard, the military judge, then said the case would go to trial, probably late this summer.

The judge set July 19 as the tentative date for the start of jury selection.

"I do not find this case to be pervaded by command influence," said the judge as he denied the defense dismissal motions.

"I do not find it was the overall policy of the Army to deny the accused a fair consideration of the charges against him," ruled Howard.

The judge added, "I do not find that he was to be tried regardless of the evidence."

President Calls For Generation Alliance

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — President Nixon, calling for a new attitude toward old age in America, said today a generation gap between older citizens and all others "has often been ignored or slighted."

In an address prepared for a joint convention of the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons, Nixon said there is need for "a new alliance in this country between Americans who are under 65 and those who are older."

The President, who flew here Thursday night after making a sentimental journey to Indiana and the home soil of his late mother, said:

"If we allow our society to become fragmented—so that younger Americans are cut off from older Americans—then each member of our society will also become fragmented—with young people cut off from their past and older people from their future."

On one specific point, Nixon complained that altogether too many nursing homes are described as "little more than warehouses for the unwanted, dumping grounds for the dying."

Nixon said:

"I have heard of doctors who refuse to visit some nursing homes because they get too depressed. Too often it seems nursing homes serve mainly to keep older people out of sight and out of mind—so that no one will notice their degradation and despair."

The President said it was his goal to see federal, state and local governments working with the private sector "to transform the nursing homes—for those who need it—into an inspiring symbol of comfort and hope."

In the main, Nixon's remarks were the sort of thing his audience wanted to hear. He placed great emphasis on statistics, showing that the federal spending on aging has nearly doubled in five years, and that Social Security benefits already have been increased 25 per cent in two years, with still another hike in prospect.

The chief executive found a way, too, to appeal to older Americans to support his embattled revenue-sharing program—the centerpiece of his 1971 legislative program.

He declared that sharing federal revenues with the state and local governments "could help stem the ruinous rise in local property taxes," and thus help those over 65.

"When a person retires, his income goes down—and so do most of his tax bills. But his property taxes keep right on climbing—and he may even be forced out of the home he has paid for," he said.

"We must build in this country ... an attitude which insists that there can be no retirement from living, no retirement from responsibility and no retirement from ctizienship," the President said.

Speaking directly to his listeners, he said:

"We need you. We need your experience and we need your perspective. Above all, we need your sense of values. For we can be a strong nation militarily, a strong nation economically, and still be an empty shell, if we forget those moral and spiritual values to which your generation is so deeply committed."

BICYCLE FOR SALE, CHEAP — Seven-year-old Michael Maiefski of Springfield, Mo., has decided to sell his bicycle and "maybe buy a guitar." The youth's decision came after his second accident in two weeks. The latest mishap resulted in six stitches in the upper lip, loose teeth, bruises and abrasions. "We wish we had a siren in our car," said the boy's mother after a repeat trip to a Springfield hospital. The first accident wasn't as bad; Mike said he only had six stitches, in the arm rather than the lip. (AP Wirephoto)

Senate Extends Draft 2-Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to extend the draft two more years, sweeten soldiers' pay $2.7 billion and chart an Indochina withdrawal plan disowned in advance by the White House.

But after seven weeks of debate the Senate's 71 to 16 approval Thursday of the draft extension bill may well be too late for Congress to finish final action before the present Selective Service Act expires next Wednesday midnight.

Some senators threaten a filibuster if a House-Senate conference kills or weakens an end-the-war amendment added by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

The immediate effect on the Selective Service System would be a dilemma over what to do about July and August draft calls which have not been issued.

But the law allows loopholes which could keep the draft functioning after a fashion for a while at least. For one thing the draft still could call up men who had been deferred and lost their deferments.

The Mansfield amendment calls for a phased withdrawal of U.S. troops over nine months if all U.S. prisoners of war are released. It is likely to receive a cool reception both in conference and on the House floor.

House antiwar forces never have mustered more than 158 congressmen to vote for any Vietnam withdrawal amendment.

The conference has more than a dozen differences to reconcile between the House and Senate versions of the bill. One of the most important was an amendment by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., which raised the military pay boost to the same level approved by the House, but spread most of it among lower ranks.

Some senators had hoped to kill the draft outright as a means of forcing the military to adopt the all-volunteer armed force concept now.

The Nixon administration hopes the increased pay can prepare for an all-volunteer force after June 30, 1973. It says the draft will be needed until it is proven better pay and conditions really can attract suitable volunteers.

Supreme Court Sets Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed Friday to hold a hearing on government attempts to restrain publication of articles in the New York Times and the Washington Post on a Pentagon study of the Vietnam war.

The cases will be heard by the justices at 11 a.m. EDT Saturday. Meanwhile, the court barred the two newspapers from running any stories to which the government has objections.

The decision to step into the legal conflict followed a private conference attended by eight justices. The ninth, William O. Douglas, kept in touch by telephone from his summer home in Washington state and then arranged to fly to the capital for the hearing.

Had the court not acted before nightfall, the Post would have been free to resume its series without restrictions. In a plea filed Friday morning, the newspaper said the public interest required free discussion of the war and that any further restraint would be "totally intolerable."

The court split 5-to-4 in keeping the paper from running uncensored articles beginning with the Saturday edition.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices John M. Harlan, Potter Steward, Byron White and Harry A. Blackmun supported the temporary ban. Justices Hugo L. Black, Douglas, William J. Brennan and Thurgood Marshall dissented.

By the same vote the court continued restrictions placed on the Times by the U.S. Circuit Court in New York City. The Times will be able to print Saturday only material that the Justice Department considers safe for public consumption.

The Times told the court in a petition Thursday that the restraint, imposed by the U.S. Circuit Court in New York City, "imposes an insupportable burden on a free press."

The Justice Department, meanwhile, labored to block The Post from resuming its series of reports on the study. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold argued in an application for a stay that publication would damage national security and the conduct of foreign relations beyond repair.

The Post would be free to publish what it wishes by virtue of a ruling by the U.S. circuit court for the District of Columbia.

Griswold said The Post should be prevented at least temporarily from using the items listed in a "special appendix" filed by government attorneys last Monday in the New York court.

Smoke Halts Search For 5

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rescue teams trying to reach five workers still missing in an explosion-wracked underground water tunnel were called out early today because of thick, choking smoke fed by natural gas flames. There were 12 known dead.

"They kept trying, but they couldn't get to them," said Bob Ree, an official involved in the rescue operation. He said they will make another try later.

The gas-fed fire inside the tunnel flared anew before dawn.

Eighteen men were near the end of the 5.5-mile-long tunnel when it was rocked shortly after midnight Thursday by an explosion caused by sparks that ignited a pocket of methane gas. One reached safety.

Earlier, a state mining official said there could be some connection between the Feb. 9 earthquake that killed 64 persons in the Los Angeles area and Thursday's tunnel explosion.

Briton Finds American Legislature Different

Editor's Note: For 25 years, Arthur L. Gavshon has covered the British government for the Associated Press. Now on temporary assignment in Washington, he has had his first look at the Senate in action. Here are his impressions.

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If British lawmakers voted against government policy, as American senators rebuffed President Nixon Tuesday over Vietnam, then Prime Minister Edward Heath would have resigned.

The fact that Nixon did not dramatizes the difference between life on Capitol Hill and in the Palace of Westminster.

Aides shrugged aside Nixon's defeat as a single holdup in his fixed four-year power trail. In Britain's House of Commons, it would have denoted a loss of confidence in the Prime Minister, requiring either a new government or new national elections.

There were plenty of other contrasts on view inside and outside the semi-circular senatorial chamber, in the styles as well as in the working systems of American and British legislators.

Some of the senators, for instance, chewed gum even while they spoke. Others read their speeches with aides beside them holding stacks of reference material. Throughout the day the floor of the chamber resembled a hotel lobby with members of the two main parties criss-crossing, huddling in group consultations, addressing the president pro tempore regardless of the fact that one or another of their colleagues nominally was in full oratorical flight.

For all the House of Commons' studied informality, little of this would be tolerated in Westminister. There Mr. Speaker insists upon strict observance of the rules of order.

Leaders of the government and opposition lean back in their leather seats, it is true, with their feet up on the table before them. And backbenchers lounge nonchalantly along their benches, conversing softly, writing notes. But they cannot read newspapers. They must not step over one of the two red bands on the carpet keeping the rival sides two swords-length from each other.

They dare not, unless they are ministers making formal pronouncements, read their speeches. And they are barred from addressing their colleagues either by name or as "you." It must be "the honorable member for Blank."

In the House of Commons only elected members, and officers of the House, are allowed on the floor during working sessions. A lawmaker cannot pass between a speaker on his feet and the chair. No two members can address the chair at the same time.

These firm procedural rules do not always maintain the stately calm of the Mother of Parliaments. Dignified incumbents in the 630-member Commons have been known to trade enraged insults, even to hurl things at each other. It is NO accident that British MPs cannot carry their brief cases into the chamber.

He's for long hair and legs

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: When I see a woman in pants I wonder what's wrong with her legs. I cannot for the life of me understand why a woman with good-looking legs would wear pants. And another thing, men love long hair on their women. I don't know one man who likes to see a woman in a mannish haircut. Give us men long hair and short skirts!

LOVES THE LADIES

DEAR LOVES: Some women wear pants for convenience, but if a woman wants to please a man, she will indeed let her locks grow and her legs show.

DEAR ABBY: I own a really good horse and I am going to enter him in the horse show soon. My girl friend asked me if she could ride him in the horse show, and I told her she could. Here is the problem. If my horse wins a ribbon, who should get it, she or I? I will leave it up to you.

GIRL HORSE OWNER: KENLY, N. C.

DEAR HORSE OWNER: If your horse should win a ribbon, the ribbon goes to you. [I got this straight from the horse's mouth.]

DEAR ABBY: My 13-year-old daughter Sandra [made up name] has a big problem I am very anxious to help her with. Sandra is a quiet, shy girl who has always stayed in the background. She has a girl friend I'll call Janice. Janice is pushy and loud and has a big mouth. Whenever my Sandra makes friends with another girl, this loud-mouthed Janice takes this friend away from her. If Sandra were aggressive and pushy like Janice she would fight to keep her friends, but she just can't do it. She is too nice. How can I help Sandra so Janice won't take any more friends away from her?

SANDRA'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Sandra will have to cultivate and maintain her own friendships. No one can "take" a friend away as if she were a sack of flour. Mothers who try to run interference for their children in such matters tend to weaken, not strengthen them.

DEAR ABBY: My sister's husband died eight years ago, leaving her with sons, ages 4 and 5. Sis seemed so alone and helpless, so Ralph and I encouraged her to come over often. Ralph and I had a good marriage and a nine-year-old daughter.

It all happened so gradually I never knew it was taking place, but you guessed it. Sis was so much like me, only six years younger, and she soon replaced me.

Ralph is now Sis' husband. He's adopted her two sons, and I am now the extra woman.

How I wish I had told my sister not to come so often. It may have been effective to say Ralph didn't like it.

NOT JEALOUS ENOUGH

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Fonda Charged With Assault

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Actress Jane Fonda has been charged with assault and battery and disorderly conduct in new affidavits filed in connection with an alleged assault on a Cleveland policeman last November.

The affidavits were filed Thursday by Police Prosecutor Everett Chandler. A Municipal Court judge had thrown out an assault charge against Miss Fonda Wednesday on the grounds that the prosecutor failed to put specific information in the affidavit.

The assault charge stems from an incident last Nov. 3 when Miss Fonda was detained at Cleveland Hopkins International Airport after a flight from Canada. A city policeman claimed she kicked him when he went to the aid of a U.S. customs agent. Federal charges of assaulting a customs agent and bringing pills into the country fradulently were dismissed May 28.

Subponea Served With Pork Chop

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) —It took a pork chop to enable Jerry Sheehy to serve a subpoena.

Sheehy, a state's attorney's investigator, was confronted by an unfriendly dog Thursday when he attempted to serve a subpoena to a witness in a murder case being conducted in Circuit Court.

The investigator would not get past the dog until Basil G. Granias, Macon County state's attorney, drove by the house on his way back from the grocery store.

Granias, seeing Sheehy's plight, produced a pork chop from a shopping bag, offered it to the dog and Sheehy walked by the dog to deliver the subpoena.

Record Set At Art Auction

By THOMAS A. REEDY
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Titian's "Death of Actaeon" and 26 other Old Masters were sold at Christie's auction house today for a record $8,735,580.

Although the total was the highest in art history for a one-day auction, it fell considerably short of the $20 million which one expert had predicted.

The Titian went to a London dealer, Julius Weitzner, for $4,032,000. He refused to say who he bought it for, telling an interviewer, "I do not know where the picture is going."

Weitzner said he had been prepared to go higher.

The price was the second highest ever paid at auction for a painting. The record was set last November at Christie's when the Metropolitan Museum of Art paid $5,544,000 for a Velasquez.

The sale was preceded by the usual public outcry that something be done to keep the Titian in Britain. But the National Gallery hasn't the money to buy it, and the government made clear that it wasn't going to help out.

There had been predictions the painting might go as high as $4.8 million.

Dozens of security men were posted in the 205-year-old auction house to protect the art treasures. Police feared that a psychopath agitated by the wave of anger over the prospect of the Titian going to a foreigner, might try to damage the painting.

The painting depicts the legend of Actaeon disturbing the goddess Diana at her bath. For his temerity, she changed him into a stag, and her dogs tore him to pieces. The picture is being sold by the Earl of Harewood, first cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, who needs the money to pay family death duties.

Also up for auction were paintings by Caravaggio, Veronese, Bassano, Rubens, Van Dyck, Frans Hals, Canaletto, Bellotto, Boucher, Fragonard and Greuze.

Crackdown On Drugs Underway

By J. T. WOLKERSTORFER
Associated Press Writer

CAN THO, South Vietnam (AP) — The most sweeping crackdown to date against illegal drug use by GIs in South Vietnam is under way in the Mekong Delta.

The 18,000 soldiers stationed there are confined to their military compounds except for official business, and soldiers, civilians, vehicles and planes are being thoroughly searched for drugs.

In a message to his men explaining the drive, Lt. Gen. John H. Cushman, the U.S. commander in the Delta, said:

"The drug problem is serious. We owe it to ourselves and to the American people, now and in future generations, to solve this problem."

The drive began without prior notice on Tuesday. In the first three days, a quantity of heroin and marijuana was seized and more than 100 American servicemen were arrested for illegal possession of drugs or for being absent without leave.

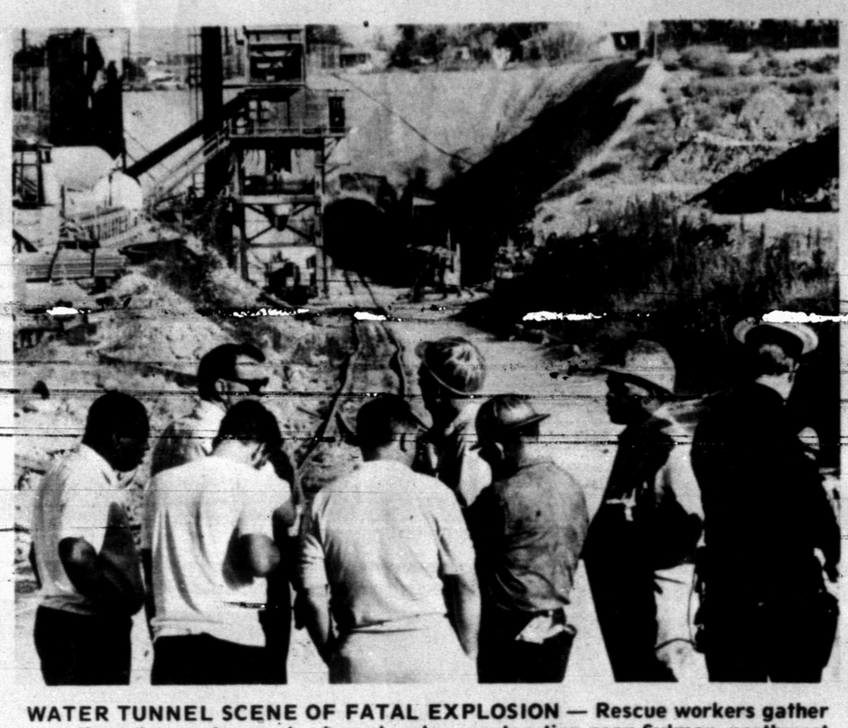

Vietnamese and American authorities are cooperating in the crackdown.

Originally planned for three days, the drive has been extended through next Tuesday and probably will be extended again, sources said.

Officials ordered a thorough search of all persons and all vehicles entering or leaving U.S. military compounds.

Every aircraft arriving at a military airfield or landing pad in the delta is subjected to immediate search, as are its crew, passengers and luggage.

At least 28 states require that trailers towed by car or truck have two safety chains.

Governor Talks Like Candidate

ALBANY, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith sounded more than ever like a candidate for re-election here Thursday night.

He declined once more, however, to commit himself formally to the race, saying it is too early for such a move.

The governor talked to a reporter while attending the Ft. Griffin Fandangle, Albany's annual outdoor musical show recreating this West Central Texas area's history.

Smith said he had no plans other than to run for governor.

"I don't see any serious contenders," he remarked.

Smith said Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, who has announced as a candidate for governor in the Democratic primary, "is a nice young man but I doubt that he'll make a splash."

Asked if he thought Barnes had the support of former President Lyndon Johnson, Smith said he had never seen any direct statement from Johnson backing the lieutenant governor for the state's top office.

Texas needs a "more mature, more businesslike" man than Barnes in the governor's office, he said.

Smith also commented on Houston promoter Frank Sharp, who was assessed a probated sentence and $5,000 fine recently in a federal stock manipulation case. Sharp was granted immunity from further prosecution.

"I have never believed any immunity thing," Smith said.

"It would be difficult for me to understand how government at any level could take testimony from a man who has broken all the laws, then prosecute someone with the information," he said.

The governor declined comment on what part he thought former Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, now chief of the criminal division of the U.S. Justice Department, played in the stock case.

"I just don't know," he said. "I haven't looked into it."

Public reaction to his veto of part of the state's $7.1 billion budget for the next two years and several other big spending proposals has been favorable, Smith said.

He said that since he made the veto announcement Sunday on a statewide television broadcast, his office has received about 1,200 letters and all but six have endorsed the cuts.

"We must weigh the priorities in spending the taxpayers' money," he said. "I didn't discriminate; I just cut out unnecessary parts."

Drug Detection Test Effective

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new heroin detection test now administered to all GIs leaving Vietnam has already proven itself an effective, hard-to-beat means of finding hard drug users, its developers say.

The test, pioneered by a civilian laboratory in the nation's capital, was described Thursday by its developers as 100 times more sensitive than previous methods.

It can reliably detect heroin up to five days after a user has had a "fix," they say.

The test is the key to "a revolutionary mass screening technique for the detection of narcotics in the body on a scale never before achieved," said officials of the Washington Reference Laboratory (WRL).

They said the rapid highly sensitive process, in combination with the best of older methods, is already used by their technicians to screen more than 2500 urine samples daily.

Mrs. Bette Hamman, the laboratory's chief toxicologist, said many of the samples come from patients already under treatment, or about to enter treatment, at centers dispensing methadone, a chemical designed to wean addicts away from heroin.

Dr. Lawrence H. Vineburgh, director of WRL, said he believes the Army's decision to introduce the system in Vietnam June 20 was inspired, at least in part, by information furnished to the Defense Department by his laboratories at the request of Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn.

Steele, of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, along with Rep. Morgan F. Murphy, D-Ill., made a 22-day, nine-nation tour several months ago, studying international traffic in drugs. They were among the first to stress the problem of drug addiction among American troops in Vietnam.

An aide said Steele urged the Defense Department to use test equipment in South Vietnam and throughout the United States.

Whatever the inspiration, the U.S. command in South Vietnam opened up detection centers at Long Binh and Can Ranh Bay employing the new "FRAT" technique on June. "FRAT" stands "Free-Radical Assay Technique."

The system originally was developed by the Syva Research Institute of Palo Alto, Calif., which builds the electronic instruments required. The Army says only about 10 such machines are available, three of which are now in South Vietnam.

The method involves mixing a small urine sample—less than 1-20th of a drop—with a special reagent. When the reagent is mixed with a sample containing heroin, a recordable configuration of electrons is produced and in seconds, a pen describes lines on graph paper showing the amount of drug in the specimen.

France's famous breakfast roll, the croissant, was invented in Hungary.

1,000 Turn Out For Fink Day

FINK, Tex. (AP)—They lived it up in this North Texas hamlet Thursday.

The occasion was National Fink Day, and people came from near and far. Somebody estimated 1,000 turned out.

While the celebration primarily is for persons named Fink, most of those turning up to chew free barbecue sandwiches and swig soda pop bore vastly different names.

It was held for a seventh year by proclamation of Mayor Pat Albright.

Visitors at the general store operated by Willard and Pat Albright in this crossroads village near the Oklahoma border were of all kinds.

Some dressed as if for a lunch in a swank restaurant. Others wore overalls. Most carried newspaper clippings about Fink and asking, "Is this the place?"

Mayor Albright was delighted.

"No question—This year's attendance surpassed anything we've ever had before," she said.

As she unlocked the doors of the store at 6 a.m. the telephone was ringing. It was a New York City radio station that wanted to interview her.

Calls came from dozens of cities across the nation.

A man identifying himself as a Hollywood talent scout said he wanted to put Mrs. Albright into a movie.

Mrs. Albright said she was "fit to be tied." Willard teased, "That scout ain't coming to see her. He's coming to see me. When he gets here, he'll know talent when he sees it."

Along about noon came the first [illegible], 88, of Denison, former justice of the peace there.

FAIR TIME NEARS — Although she is canning for her own family's pleasure, Mrs. Frank Nachlinger is sure to take a jar of the delicious apricot preserves she has just finished making to the Scurry County Fair. Mrs. Nachlinger stole the show in the food division last year when she won sweepstakes with the Sweet Green Pickles which she is displaying and went home with 45 other ribbons in various divisions. The fair is set for September 16-17 and 18.

Mrs. Nachlinger Gives Her 1970 Sweepstakes Recipe

Although the Scurry County Fair is several months away it is time to think on terms of preparing fruits and vegetables and other items to be entered in the annual event. The date has been set for September 16-17-18 this year, which is earlier than usual.

Mrs. Frank Nachlinger, a Sweepstakes Winner last year is already busy in her kitchen preparing fresh fruit and vegetables. She says she "enjoys preparing and canning fresh foods because she feels her family benefits by getting better healthier foods." The ribbons she has won at the fair is just an added bonus. "When company comes for a meal I can't resist asking how they enjoyed eating those blue ribbon winning peach pickles" or what ever the food happens to be.

Mrs. Nachlinger and her husband Frank live on a farm in the Hermleigh community where he owns and operates Nachlinger's Pest Control. They have two sons, Larry, a senior at Hermleigh High School and Butch who is married and has two sons.

Mrs. Nachlinger first became interested in canning when she was in 4-H. They grow most of their own vegetables but "kinfolks usually give me all the fruit I can can." Mrs. Nachlinger said.

Last year at the Scurry County Fair Mrs. Nachlinger won 2 dozen Kerr fruit jars and a canning book as well as sweepstakes in the canned division with her Sweet Green Pickles. She won a score of ribbons in several divisions: 24-1st places; 15-2nd places; 3-3rd places; and 3-4th places.

Although she loves to can, her first love is painting. She is a member of the Palette Club in Snyder and loves to work in all medias. She has painted landscapes, sea-scapes, still life and at the present time is working on portraits. She has been painting for five years and is very excited about selling several of her works.

Mrs. Nachlinger has spent many hours working in her rose garden this year, having added some 20 new bushes. "It delights me to go out and see how many roses each day have opened just for me" Mrs. Nachlinger said.

Some of her other hobbies include bottle collecting, a coin collection, foil craft, decopage, art plaster, leather craft and aluminum etching.

Mrs. Nachlinger is an active member of the Hermleigh Home Demonstration Club and is chairman of the Scurry County unit of the Texas Home Demonstration Association. She plans to attend the state and national Home Demonstration Conventions in Dallas in September.

She is also a substitute teacher in the Hermleigh Schools and works part time for the American Motor Inn in Snyder, but she always finds time to participate in the fair and enjoys doing so.

One of Mrs. Nachlingers outstanding and unusual recipes is for Winter Salad. It is a very colorful dish and is sure to be a conversation piece for any special dinner. It has a mild flavor and a crunchy texture.

WINTER SALAD

2 qts. sliced green tomatoes
4 tablsp. pickling salt
2 cups sugar
1 qt. white vinegar
2 tblsp. pickling salt
2 tsp. ground turmeric
1 tsp. whole allspice
2 tsp. mustard seed
2 qts. chopped onion
2 qts. sliced cucumbers, peeled and seeded
1 cup chopped green pepper
1 1-3 cup chopped red pepper

Mix tomatoes and 4 tablespoons pickling salt. Let stand overnight. Rinse in fresh unsalted water, drain well.

Mix sugar, vinegar, 2 tblsp. salt and spices (tie spices in cloth bag.). Boil 10 min. Add vegetables heat to full boil.

Pour into hot sterilized pint jars. Seal. Process 10 minutes in boiling water bath. Makes about 10 pints.

The recipe that Mrs. Nachlinger used for her Sweet Green Pickles, which won sweepstakes in the canned foods division at the 1970 Scurry County Fair is an asset to any meal but especially good with hamburgers or sandwiches.

SWEET GREEN PICKLES

3 cups pickling salt
6 qts. water
30 whole pickling cucumbers (3 to 4 inches in length)
5 cups white vinegar
10 cups white vinegar
10 cups sugar
2½ tblsp. powdered alum
1¼ tsp. whole cloves
2½ sticks cinnamon

Add salt to water: bring to boil. Pour over cucumbers in stone crock. Weight down with plate. Let stand 8 to 10 days. Rinse well in fresh unsalted water. Slice pickles: rinse again. Let stand in fresh unsalted water 1 hour. Drain.

Combine remaining ingredients (tie spices in cloth bag) bring to boil. Pour over cucumbers; cover and let stand 24 hours.

Drain syrup; bring syrup to boil, pour over cucumbers. Let stand 24 hours. Repeat this process for a total of 3 mornings. On the 4th morning drain pickles, reserving syrup. Pack pickles in hot, sterilized pint jars. Bring syrup to boil. Add green food coloring if you wish. Pour hot syrup over pickles in jars; seal. Process 10 minutes in boiling water bath. Makes about 6 pints.

Carpet Styling Is Versatile

Carpet styles used to be rigid and standardized. A certain type carpet only went with a particular kind of furniture; specific colors only looked well with reds, blues or yellows.

But not any more, says Jan Slabaugh, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist at Texas A&M University.

Today all styles and colors can be combined for an eclectric look, Mrs. Slabaugh explains. The popular trend is to combine carpeting with different moods — matching stripes with circles, velvets with wools, modern with traditional.

Shag, for example, looks sharp when accented with modern or traditional. It even compliments Early American, the specialist points out.

And plushes can be used with chrome, glass, aluminum or velvet.

Orientals provide an interesting contrast with contemporary furnishings but also look well with traditional items.

Rya rugs are naturals in a contemporary setting, yet they can create excitement with Early American or antique styles.

The Successes Of Ten Young Americans

HORATIO ALGER IS ALIVE AND WELL AND LIVING IN AMERICA. By David L. Goodrich. Cowles Book Co. $5.95.

In this book there are 10 interesting sketches of young Americans who made an outstanding success by the time they were 30 years old.

Goodrich selected his examples mainly from "the market place," omitting athletes, pop singers and actors on the ground that youth is a prerequisite for success in their fields, and skipped science, education and law because they are not directly commercial. His viewpoint is that a young person with an intense drive now has more opportunities than ever to make the grade.

Among the 10 are two women —Betsey Johnson, a designer of women's clothing, and Constance Cornell Stuart, chief of staff and press secretary to Mrs. Richard M. Nixon.

There is one black man, Jonathan Blount, chief officer of a company publishing a magazine for black women. One man, Sanford D. Greenberg, became a Ph. D. and founder and president of a major computing firm even through he is almost blind.

"Although religion was in no way a criterion in picking people for the book," says Goodrich, "half of the individuals turned out to come from Jewish backgrounds."

It is surprising how much these 10 individuals differ as personalities, though they all share a will to succeed and a dedication to terriffically hard work.

Goodrich presents their stories in an easygoing but perceptive manner.

The WEEDERS GUIDE

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

The compost pile gives a boost to gardening whether it be organic or otherwise.

Grass clippings, leaves, sod, vegetable leavings, manure, straw and even corn stalks may be put in the compost to provide organic material for soils, for [illegible] proving soils, especially the sandy variety.

Keep your compost pile in a convenient place but hide it behind a wall or fence if it is big or unsightly. Cement blocks a couple of rows high on three sides will make a good screen in a corner of the back yard.

Spread compost material in 6 to 8-inch layers and sprinkle a bit of fertilizer—5-20-20, 10-10-10, or 6-12-12—over it or mix in animal manure. Wet the layer moderately. Build up an additional layer. If you add a small amount of good soil to each layer bacterial action and decomposition will be more rapid. And keep the pile wet.

If you stir the heap every couple of weeks decomposition will speed up.

About six weeks is normal decomposition time in warm weather if the pile is kept moist, but compost piles made in fall may not decompose until spring.

A pound or two of ground dolomitic limestone to each 100 pounds of compost material will counteract excessive acidity and expedite decomposition.

Avoid using large quantities of garbage in compost. This may attract rats or mice. And avoid using disease or insect infected materials.

Rose Tree Pruning

Jerry Olson of Minneapolis, Minn., offers this advice on pruning rose trees:

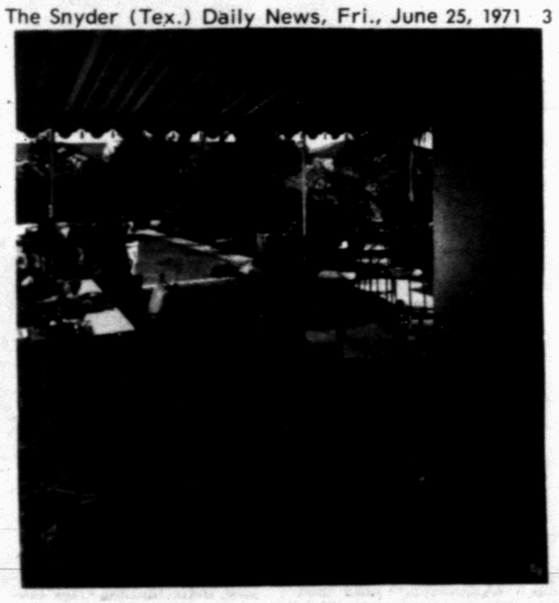

Cut canes back to about 12 inches; thin out head; prune out any crossing or crooked canes; cut out all twiggy growth.

Thumb prune all inside growing buds; paint all cut ends with sealer (pure orange shellac or Treecote). Borers are especially damaging to rose trees.

Spray canes and standard with Wilt-pruf to prevent drying out; remove all sucker growth on standard or at base from rootstock; be sure tree is securely staked and ties are not binding.

During the growing season, remove all spent blooms for quick new bloom; leave at least two five-part leaves below to stimulate development of strong stems for repeat bloom.

Alpha Study Club Has Installation

Alpha Study Club met in a called meeting, Tuesday, June 22 in the home of Mrs. F. D. Sears.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. W. D. Sims. Mrs. Travis Rhoades installed officers for 1971-1973 in an impressive ceremony.

Following the installation, the program and yearbooks were discussed.

New officers are: Flora Hughes, president; Golda Thorpe, first vice president; Anne Mae Sears, second vice president; Velma Lunsford, recording secretary; Fay Harrell, corresponding secretary and Nona Morrison, treasurer.

GUEST SPEAKER — Kenneth Allred, chief chemist at the American Magnesium Co., was guest speaker for the American Business Women Association's monthly dinner meeting June 24. Mr. Allred gave an interesting and informative talk on the plant and told the group of the efforts that are being made to control the pollution problem at the plant. He said that "$1,100 per day is being spent by the company for air pollution control." Pictured with Mr. Allred are his wife (left) and Irene Brooks, program chairman.

Marketing Tips

COLLEGE STATION — Improve your food shopping efficiency with a list, suggests Gwendolyne Clayatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist. And, consider these food marketing tips to find good values this week.

Pork features are scattered between stores so compare prices between markets. Thrifty buys on end chops, rib end roasts, hams, bacon and weiners may be found.

When shopping for weiners, Mrs. Clayatt says to watch labels for quality. An "all meat" label means a combination of skeletal muscle meats. "All beef" means the weiners contain only beef; these are usually higher in price.

Good beef choices include chuck roasts and chuck steaks, as well as round steaks, stew meat and ground beef.

Fryers remain one of the better protein values. Whole, cut-up and fryer parts are featured along with economical buys on turkeys of different sizes.

Vegetable supplies are increasing each week. Local cooking greens, cabbage and squash are good choices. Snap beans are more plentiful and generally of better quality and lower price than pole varieties. Sweet corn is tender and good. Other fresh vegetable selections are celery, carrots, peppers, okra and zucchini squash.

Attractive arrivals at the fruit counters are plums, cherries, white grapes and cantaloupes. Peaches also are beginning to appear.

College Of Insurance Unique In Many Ways

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — American industry has a lot to learn and a lot to teach, but few if any approach the matter in quite the same way as issurance, which operates a campus in the sky, the College of Insurance, in the financial district here.

Fully accredited since 1967 as a degree-granting institution, the college is one of about 200 work-study institutions in the country, but it is perhaps unique in being so closely allied, endorsed and supported by a single industry.

All students have jobs in the industry. Many of the instructors come from nearby insurance company offices.

C of I could become a model for other industries desirous of assuring themselves of highly trained personnel. And it might be a partial answer to the problem of high tuition costs, which affects so many youngsters.

Three hundred undergraduates participate in the college's work-study program. Four months of study is followed by four months working for an insurance company sponsor at a minimum beginning salary of $90 a week.

The student's study in classrooms and lecture halls on the ninth floor of a commercial office building. Fifty per cent of their courses are in liberal arts, 25 per cent in business and 25 per cent in insurance.

They may work just a few doors away, although many of the students return to their home cities for their work period. Those who remain in the city can live in dormitories at $100 a month, room and board.

Tuition is $800 for each four-month semester, but the sponsor pays 2-3 of this, often pays for books and sometimes even helps pay living expenses. And if the student remains with his company after graduation he may receive a refund of his tuition payments.

After five years the student has a BBA in Insurance or a BS in actuarial science, a total of 2½ years of actual experience, at least $12,000 in earnings—more if fringe benefits are included—and a bright future.

"Students may get offers of $9,000 to $11,000 upon graduation," says Dean Robert Strain, a former Texas insurance commissioner and once professor at the University of Texas and Indiana University.

Graduates are readily accepted. Rapport in general between the industry and the school is close. Many executives teach there. Many have taken part-time course. Many use its vast insurance library.

The spirit of the students appears to be high. There is little opportunity for organized extra-curricular activities—although there is a school paper and a basketball team—but the students never expected many amenities.

How does a student apply? By writing to the college at 150 William St. He is then given a test and a personal interview near his home.

"The applicant doesn't have to be a stright-A student," says Strain, "but he must be smart, have the personality to get along well in business and have a real interest in being in the college."

Junior Editors Quiz on RICE

QUESTION: When and where did the custom of throwing rice at a wedding originate?

ANSWER: Rice is a food from the seed of the rice plant. It is included in the diet of more than half of the people on earth. In the Orient, people eat rice three times a day.

The ancestor of rice was a wild grass which grew around lakes or in swampy ground in Asia. It has been grown in India since prehistoric times. The Chinese were growing rice 5,000 years ago. In the 15th century, rice was introduced to Europe. It was grown in the United States before the American revolution.

It became a symbol of prosperity or the good life. Primitive man began to use rice as a symbol in the wedding ceremony. In certain primitive tribes, the eating of rice together was the way people got married. Eating together symbolized living together.

Also, rice was used at weddings to protect the couple from evil spirits. It was believed that by throwing rice after the married couple, the evil spirits were fed and would not do any harm to the newlyweds.

For most ancient people, the throwing of rice was a symbol of fruitfulness. The custom of throwing rice at the bride and groom today means a wish for children and an abundance of the good things of life.

Guide To Tell Hims From Hers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you still having trouble telling the sexes apart?

You are? Well, little wonder. Instead of taking pride in looking different, the members of both sexes seem to be more and more determined to look as much alike as possible.

However, this mutual neuterization hasn't gone so far as yet that in most cases a determined bystander can't still figure out the sex of an individual. The question is why he would want to take the bother.

Here, for example, are a few remaining ways to tell the hims from the hers.

If it will still bend over to pick up a dropped penny, it is a middle-age male. If it won't stretch its tight girdle to retrieve anything less than a dime, it's a middle-age female.

If it is always accused of never listening, that's Papa. If it is always accused of never stopping talking, that's Mama.

Put a dinner check on the restaurant table. Does it make little shrill cries of alarm and say it has lost one of its contact lenses? Undoubtedly it's a career-woman. Does it simply reach into its pocket and pay the bill? Undoubtedly a career man.

If it wants to go out and have a drink during a family fuss, it's the husband. If it wants to cuddle up and kiss after a family fuss, it's the wife.

Can it forgive quicker than it can forget? A woman. Can it forget sooner than it can forgive? A man.

But what if you are walking behind a couple of teen-agers arm in arm, each wearing long hair, sloppy sweaters, faded and patched demin pants, and identical sandals? What about their sex?

If you're real nosy, you might ask them their names.

"I'm Pat," says one.

"And I'm Terry," says the other.

That's no help. What's in a name any more? The only way to be sure of the sex of a teen-ager is to be the parent of one and that's too much trouble to ask anybody to go to just to satisfy simple curiosity.

Libraries Get Spanish Materials

AUSTIN (AP)—Fourteen Texas public libraries have been selected to receive collections of 134 books plus an encyclopedia for Spanish speakers. The materials are being provided under a federal grant administered by the Texas State Library.

Libraries receiving the materials are at Alpine, Bryan, Crystal City, Del Rio, Eagle Pass, Lamesa, Marfa, Mercedes, Muleshoe, Pasadena, Pearsall, San Angelo, Temple and Weslaco.

Books in the collection include "Entretenimientos Radioelectricos," Dr. Seuss's "El Gato Ensombrerado," and "Por Que la Guerra de Vietnam."

All libraries receiving the materials have programs for Spanish-speaking patrons.

Park Cost To Be Split

AUSTIN (AP) — The Parks and Wildlife Department disclosed plans today for the state and federal government to split the $558,600 cost of developing Lake Arrowhead State Park near Wichita Falls.

Development will include camping and picnic sites, boat dock, roads and parking areas, restrooms and a concession building.

The department approved two separate projects totaling $510,400 in Dallas.

Chairman Pearce Johnson said $300,000 will be spent to acquire 209 acres along the Trinity River as a "greenbelt" for Dallas, and $210,400 will be spent to acquire 43 acres for four new neighborhood parks in Dallas.

In each case, the federal government will pay half and the city half.

Some $549,226 more will be used to buy 123 acres for North Lake Park in the northwest Denton, with the federal government and Denton sharing the cost equally.

Other projects approved include:

—$75,200 to buy 12.5 acres for a park in Pasadena, with the government and Pasadena splitting the cost.

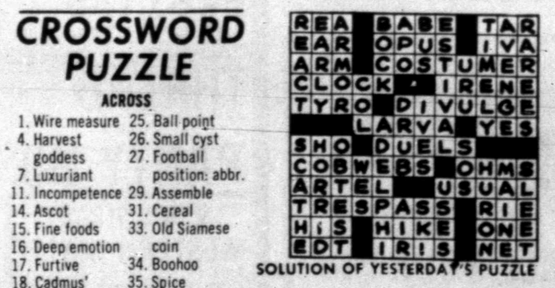

Air Force Funds Spread

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The 16 bases of the Air Training Command have spent 41 per cent of their procurement funds —almost $51 million—with small businesses this fiscal year.

The command, headquartered at Randolph Air Force Base, has installations stretching from Georgia to Texas to California.

Small business specialists are located at each base to see that a fair share of the Air Force expenditures goes to small business industries.

East Squad Not Awed

By DENNE FREEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Scott Hunter would like nothing better than to stand Jim Plunkett and his highly publicized West teammates on their helmets Saturday night in the 11th annual Coaches All-America game.

Hunter, of Alabama, and Buddy Lee of Louisiana State, the quarterbacks for the East squad, have all but been ignored as Plunkett, the Heisman Trophy winner, from Stanford, draws the oos and ahs.

"We've got a bunch of thoroughbreds and we've going to try our best to beat their heads in Saturday," says the 6-foot-2, 205-pound Hunter, who will likely draw the starting nod from East Coach Charley McClendon of LSU.

"Publicity isn't going to win this game," says Hunter. "You get in a game like this and anything can happen. Breaks will play a big factor."

"The best thing to do against a quarterback like Plunkett is to control the ball and keep him sitting on the sidelines. If he throws a touchdown pass from there, it doesn't count."

Hunter, a sixth-round choice by Green Bay of the National Football League, says he is impressed with receivers on the East team. "That Wes Chesson of Duke catches every pass you throw his way... he has the finest hands I've ever seen," Hunter says.

Hunter adds: "Boy, would I like to beat Plunkett. It's something to work for."

"The player from the smallest college in the game is 6-foot-3, 225-pound Bonny Hornsby, a linebacker from Southeastern Louisiana.

"I've never seen so many great players on one field before," says Hornsby, a third round draft pick of the New York Giants. "However, I've played against some good ones like Terry Bradshaw of Pittsburgh and I'm not overawed."

The West is a touchdown choice in the 7:30 p.m. CDT nationally televised (ABC) contest at Jones stadium.

Plunkett, who went No. 1 in the NFL draft to the New England Patriots, is the reason.

Tribe pitchers Brad Browning and Anthony Lewis combined forces for a 4-hitter against the Yanks. They yielded a single and a double by Tom Jones and singles by John Velasquez and Kenny Thompson.

Indian batters rapped 14 hits, including a home run by Darrell Lester and a double and single by Dray Sikes. Brad Browning, Anthony Lewis, Greg Sullenger and Tommy Tullis each stroked two singles. Doug Vaughn, Jay Hammond and David Fleming each hit one single.

Ashe Loses To Riessen

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Arthur Ashe, eliminated from the Wimbledon Tennis Tournament, predicted today that Rod Laver or John Newcombe will win the title.

"But Stan Smith is right there behind them," Ashe said. "Stan has a good chance because he's playing better than he has ever done before."

Smith, of Pasadena, Calif., who is seeded fourth, moved easily into the last 16 Thursday by defeating Andrew Apattison of Rhodesia 6-3, 6-4, 7-5. The tall fair-haired Californian is on extended leave from the U.S. Army.

Ashe said: "Laver and Newcombe, both previous champions, must be favorites to win. I think Ken Rosewall's chance gets a little slimmer each year."

Laver, now 32, won the Wimbledon crown in 1961, 1962, 1968 and 1969. Newcombe won it last year for the second time.

Rosewall is 36. He reached the final last year—as he had done as a youngster in 1954 and 1956.

Ashe, of Gum Spring, Va., was seeded fifth but was upset Thursday by Marty Riessen, of Evanston, Ill., 6-1, 9-8, 8-9, 6-4.

Ashe didn't include Riessen, his close friend, among his tips for the title. But he commented: "Marty is certainly playing well. I hadn't lost to him for about five years until this match."

One of the talking points of the tournament is Laver's service, which doesn't appear as devastating as it used to be. But the little Australian left-hander was still good enough to crush another of the United States hopes, Clark Graebner of New York City, 9-8, 6-2, 7-5.

Smith, Riessen, Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., and Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., are all in the last 16.

A fifth American, Cliff Richey of Sarasota, Fla., can join them by defeating Adriano Panatta of Italy today.

Richey Thursday finished off Roger Taylor of Britain in less than 30 minutes. The match had been called at 7-7 in the final set because of darkness the previous night.

Modern Day Smithy Busy

CHESTNUT, Ill. (AP) — Longfellow's village blacksmith worked under the spreading chestnut tree, but smithy Tom McKinney works throughout the countryside shoeing with a scientific touch.

McKinney measures hoof angle, hoof length, shoe weight and other data, somewhat difficult for a layman to understand.

He serves 31 stables in a 90-mile radius area to care for an estimated 1,500 horses and ponies.

Flames Plan Doubleheader

The Snyder Flames will host Carsbad in a double-header beginning at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in Winston Park. Kathy Weber will pitch the first game.

Next Tuesday, the Flames, Lubbock Roadrunners and Hamby will be involved in a doubleheader at Winston Park.

LA Blasts Cards 11-4

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

What is so rare as a day in June?

Any weekday when the Dodgers play baseball in Los Angeles.

Or a Tom Seaver home run.

The Dodgers made the most of an infrequent matinee home date Thursday, trouncing St. Louis 11-4 with a sunburst of 14 hits.

Then, in a night game, the New York Mets made the most of Seaver's second major league homer—a tie-breaking shot in the eighth inning—to nip the Montreal Expos 2-1 behind their ace right-hander's five-hitter.

In the only other game on the National League schedule, Philadelphia shaded Cincinnati 3-1 on a two-run single by rookie Roger Freed in the 10th inning.

In the American League, Milwaukee trimmed California 6-0; Baltimore whipped Washington 6-1 and Detroit blanked Cleveland 3-0. Oakland and Minnesota were rained out.

The Dodgers, beaten twice by the Cardinals under the lights, bounced back to take the finale of the three-game set before an afternoon crowd of 19,282.

It was the only midweek day game scheduled this season for Los Angeles, where the Dodgers played exclusively at night last year except on weekends.

"I like it," said Jim Lefebvre, who broke out of a two-week slump to pace the Dodgers' attack with a homer and two singles, good for four runs batted in. "Now I can have dinner at home and relax."

Lefebvre, who went into the game with just four hits in his previous 38 at-bats, poked an RBI single as the Dodgers exploded for eight runs in the second inning, then poled his seventh homer of the season with two on in the fourth.

Lefebvre's three hits brought his season average back up to .284.

Seaver jumped on a 1-1 pitch from Bill Stoneman with two out in the eighth and drove it over the left field fence to break a 1-1 deadlock at Montreal. The first homer of his five-year NL career also came at the expense of the Expos—last season with Rich Nye the victim.

He struck out nine Expos on the way to his ninth victory against three setbacks.

Stoneman, 9-6, also gave up five hits before giving way to a pinch-hitter in the eighth and struck out eight, bringing his league-leading total to 134.

The Reds, victims of Rick Wise's no-hitter Wednesday night, finally broke their scoring famine when two-out doubles by Tony Perez and Bernie Carbo in the ninth lifted them into a 1-1 tie.

But the Phils pushed across deciding runs in the 10th on Larry Bowa's single, a sacrifice, two walks and Freed's bases-loaded single up the middle.

Robertson Has Six-Stroke Lead

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Don Robertson of Denton has a six-stroke lead today going into the final round of the Junior Texas-Oklahoma golf tournament at Wichita Falls County Club.

Robertson shot an even par 71 Thursday to take the lead from Phil Green of Richardson. Green shot an 81 Thursday for a 223, compared to Robertson's 214.

In second place is Mike Massy of Austin with 220 and Don Huckabee of Monahans is third with 221.

There's a fourth place tie between Scott Haynie of Wichita Falls and Sale Omohundro of Sherman, both at 222.

Mays Leads In Vote Getting

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays replaced Johnny Bench as the leading vote getter in the balloting for the National League All-Star team, the Commissioner's office announced today.

With over one million ballots counted, and less than one week to go before the voting deadline of June 30, the Giants venerable 40-year-old center fielder has received 540,390 votes, while Hank Aaron of Atlanta is third with 526,386.

The closest race is for the starting shortstop berth. But Harrelson of the Mets leads with 276,809, but he is followed closely by Don Kessinger of the Cubs, 211,885, and Maury Wills of the Dodgers, 197,735.

Willie Stargell of the Pirates, who leads the majors in homers and RBI, is third in the outfield behind Mays and Aaron. Joining Bench and Harrelson as the infield leaders are Willie McCovey, Giants, first base; Glenn Beckert, Cubs, second base; and Joe Torre, Cardinals, third base.

The All-Star game is scheduled to be played Tuesday night, July 13, in Detroit.

Cesar Romero Is Top Hollywood Escort

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Who's the all-time No. 1 champion escort to Hollywood's most glamorous women? By all odds, it is suave, smiling, towering, imposingly handsome Cesar Romero.

On the Latin actor's husky arm at parties and premieres through the years have been the lovely likes of Marlene Dietrich, Carole Lombard, Joan Crawford, Barbara Stanwyck, Loretta Young, Sally Blaine, Virginia Bruce, Ann Sothern ...

At 64, thickly, wavily silver-haired, sunbronzed from Palm Springs weekends and cultivating roses and azaleas at home in Brentwood, the lifelong bachelor continues socializing with a variety of escortees.

Agleam in a tuxedo, 6-foot-3 and 200 pounds, Romero accompanied Miss Crawford, a friend since 1932, to this year's Golden Globe awards of the Hollywood Foreign Press Association.

Miss Crawford, now a soft drink executive headquartered in New York, had phoned him that she was to present an award and would he take her? Naturally.

Hollywood columns record his presence at this smart dinner party or that posh gala with Agnes Moorehead, "a very dear friend and a lovely person to be with," Cesar says.

He dates Elizabeth Allen, a tall Broadway and Hollywood actress, a studio drama coach and once Jackie Gleason's "and-away-we-go!" girl on TV.

Cesar calls her "a marvelous actress and a charming, gay, happy, fun person to be with."

The secret of his long popularity with the ladies?

"There's no great trick to it," he claims with his booming ha-ha-ha laugh. "There aren't too many single men around. And I've got another thing going for me—I'm still alive!"

What's he like on a date?

A "beautiful" escort and dancer, with impeccable manners but annoyingly prompt. He's pleasant to waiters but no judge of wine, which he doesn't drink. He likes vodka but never gets drunk, though when stimulated at a party may burst into song, scoffing at serious suggestions he do a Broadway musical.

The testimony is from the bright, articulate Miss Allen, whom he takes to dinner parties, theater openings, ice shows, movies and once to a pro-celebrity auto race where they served as Dick Smothers' pit crew.

"I enjoy being a girl around Cesar," says Miss Allen.

Both she and Cesar say there's no serious romance between them, and he declares, "I've no intention of getting married at my age."

It almost happened, twice, he recalls. Once to a Hollywood woman, not an actress; another time to a singer, Marian Harris, who later died in a New York hotel fire.

Cesar Julio Romero was born in New York City of Spanish ancestry. As a youth, he worked as a $17.50-a-week bank clerk, then teamed with a girl dancer to perform in supper clubs. He became a stage dancer in musicals with George Murphy and then an actor in "Strictly Dishonorable" on Broadway.

Long cast primarily as a Latin lover, Romero was known in 15 years at 20th Century-Fox as its most worked actor. He starred in the Cisco Kid series and co-starred in other films with Sonja Henie, Betty Grable and other screen queens of the day.

"They were great days," Romero reminisces. "The picture colony was much smaller, everybody was under contract, you knew everybody and formed much closer friendships than you do now. It was like a family.

The White Nun Legend Holds

DURANGO, Mexico (AP) — Townspeople here call her "The White Nun," but by legend she was a beautiful young maiden named Beatriz who was in love with a blonde Spanish captain during Mexico's War of Independence in 1810.

The war, when it reached Durango, resulted in bloody battles between the Spaniards and those seeking independence.

One night, during one of these battles, Beatriz was praying for the safe return of her loved one, Gonzalo. Suddenly, the legend recalls, there was a tapping on her window. When she rose and opened it, there stood her blond captain covered with blood.

Beatriz nursed Gonzalo back to health after which he went into the Sierra Madre Mountains and headed for Mazatlan to rejoin his troops.

A year later, Beatriz's father joined the revolutionists and, afraid to leave his daughter alone, placed her in a Roman Catholic convent.

Legend, which has endured for 160 years, says Beatriz left the convent each afternoon with the nuns to go to the cathedral nearby to say afternoon prayers.

However, each day, the young woman left the group while they prayed and ran to the cathedral's towers and looked to the west in hopes of seeing Gonzalo return to her at the head of his battalion.

She daily scanned the horizon for a few minutes and each day, disillusioned, rejoined the praying nuns.

One day, when she did not return to the convent after afternoon prayers, her body was found at the foot of the steps to the church towers.

Some people say Beatriz, in her haste, died from a fall as she descended the stairs. Others contend she died of a broken heart and sadness.

How she died is a matter of conjecture, but there is no dispute that nightly the white figure of a nun is seen by everyone in an arch of the tower on the right side of the cathedral.

This is no legend.

Some say the neon signs of stores near the church cause the strange apparition.

The enchantment of the legend can be spoiled by this explanation, but many in Durango affirm they have seen the "White Nun" in the other tower and in different parts of the cathedral as well.

Regardless of the many explanations, the White Nun is there night after night—always looking to the west.

CHURCH NOTES

"But this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind." Philippians 3:13.
What child wants to be seven when he is eight, or ten when he's a teen?
Or when one is older who cares
to go back to the twenties or in-between?
So let's drop a tear to memory
and let the old past die,
And be thankful we can't live once more the years that have gone by.

Library's First Issue Published

AUSTIN (AP)—The first issue of the official publication of the Criminal Justice Reference Library at the University of Texas has been distributed.

"The purpose of the newsletter is to select and disseminate capsule-style news of developments and activities in the criminal justice field," says Mrs. Jane Olm, editor.

The library was created in September 1970 by a grant from the Texas Criminal Justice Council.

The library, according to Mrs. Olm, was established because of the need for access to readable and up-to-date materials on various aspects of law enforcement, crime prevention and criminal justice by individuals and organizations working in those areas.

DESPITE RESTRICTIONS

Cuba Churches Holding Own

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Church life seems to be holding its own in Cuba, and even gaining ground in some cases, although under heavy restrictions of Fidel Castro's Marxist-Socialist government.

This is the general picture that emerges from recent reports of churchmen from that island nation or visitors to it.

"Either there is an increased freedom, or the church is just now becoming uninhibited enough to discover the freedoms that it has had," says Joyce Hill, a United Methodist missions official, after a 17-day Cuban visit.

From town to town, she said, "church meetings were held without any difficulty from local authorities," although she heard accounts of some instances of individual harassment and attacks on pastors in small villages.

In a similar vein, two Chilean Roman Catholic bishops, who made a fact-finding tour of Cuba, report that the Church there is "the only institution of the past that has survived the revolution."

They say that despite the rigid limitations imposed on it, and the distrust between the Castro regime and Christians, "the parish communities are stronger now, with more lay participation."

"Christians in Cuba can go to church—that is not the problem," says Auxiliary Bishop Bernando Ariztia of Santiago. But he adds that the Christian message is restricted to the churches, and can't be preached outside them in public places.

"It is impossible for a group of Christians to meet in a private place or at home for discussion," he says. "There are small parish communities, but they must meet in the church or the rectory."

Although the Catholic bishops say that baptisms now are down about half from pre-revolution figures two Cuban Baptist leaders report that baptisms, membership and contributions have risen in the decade since Castro took over.

The two Baptists, the Revs. Manuel Salem and Humberto Donguez, both of Havana, told a recent meeting of European Baptist leaders in Switzerland that most Cuban pastors who had been imprisoned have been released and have resumed preaching.

Miss Hill, executive secretary for Latin America of the World Division of the United Methodist Board of Missions, said there "appears to be a greater openness on the part of the government toward the church."

But she also cited cases in small towns of beatings of parish priests and vandalism against church property.

Methodism, she adds, is not growing numerically, since some members are leaving the Church, but others are coming in to take their places, maintaining membership at a steady level.

Death Sentence Is Commuted

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — A man assessed death in the electric chair seven years ago for the bludgeon slaying of a wealthy Midland woman has received a commutation of sentence to life in prison.

Gov. Preston Smith acted Thursday in the case of James Lee Marion.

Marion was convicted at Lubbock in 1964 of killing Mrs. Fred Turner, 66, in her home here Oct. 29, 1953.

Her husband, one of the Southwest's wealthiest oilmen, was the owner of Tomy Lee, 1959 winner of the Kentucky Derby.

Marion, 22 at the time of the slaying, had been granted 18 stays of execution.

Clyde Whiteside, a member of the State Pardons Board, said the lesser sentence was based on an order by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Defense lawyer Warren Burnett of Odessa based the appeal to the federal court on the U.S. Supreme Court's Witherspoon decision that held automatic disqualification of prospective jurors with reservations about the death penalty is unconstitutional.

Whiteside said the appellate court had ordered the state to resentence Marion to a term not exceeding life imprisonment, to retry him or to dismiss the case.

Burnett said the governor's order "concludes my connection with this case" and he will file a motion in a Lubbock district court asking that he be allowed to withdraw.

Champions Have Separated

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marge and Gower Champion, dancing partners for 25 years and married for 24, have separated, a spokesman says.

A statement issued Tuesday said the separation was made with regret, no other persons were involved, and that the entertainers would not comment further. They have two sons, Greg, 14, and Blake, 9.

Champion has been active recently as a director and choreographer.

Liz Live Target At Circus

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (AP) — "I was scared to death, but damned if I'd show it," said Elizabeth Taylor, after she inadvertently became a live target for a Mexican knife thrower here.

The actress' reaction was recalled today by Phil Ober, a retired actor who accompanied Miss Taylor and her husband, Richard Burton, to the final performance June 7 of the Union Circus.

After Alejandro Fuentes had thrown some long daggars at his sister who assists him in his act, he turned to the audience and, in Spanish, asked if there was a volunteer to take his sister's place.

Fuentes approached Miss Taylor, extended a hand to her, and led her to the center of the circus tent.

The actress speaks little Spanish and said she thought Fuentes wanted only to introduce her to the crowd.

"Fuentes placed Miss Taylor's back to the wall and from about six feet away threw the first knife," Ober said.

"Richard yelled 'no' as the knife hit the wall and he jumped into the ring. But he froze because he didn't want to unnerve Fuentes."

Fuentes was described as obviously nervous when facing his famous target.

Finally, Fuentes had Miss Taylor hold a balloon in each hand and burst them with his flashing blades. Miss Taylor stood quietly watching Fuentes and smiled as he tossed his knives at her.

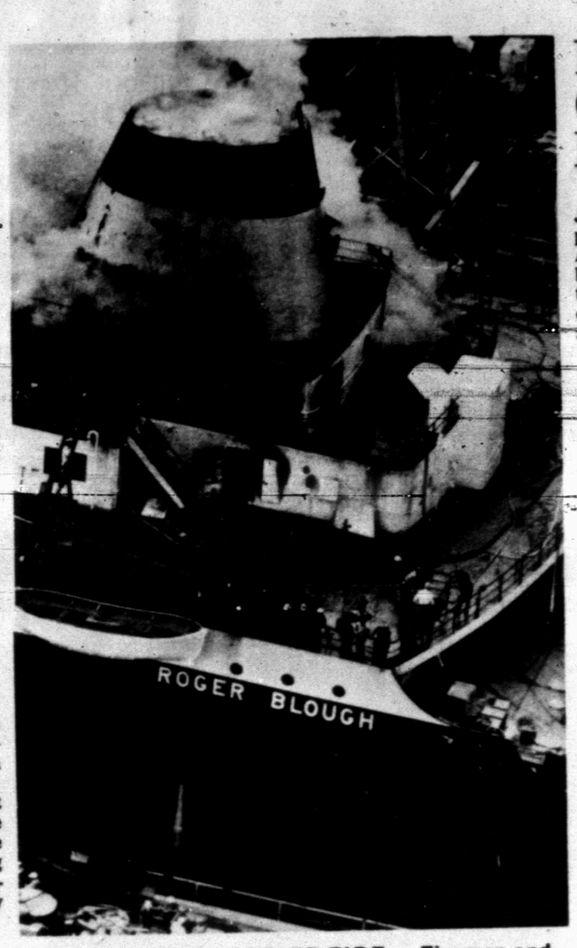

The audience gave Miss Taylor a standing ovation as she returned to her seat—but the show wasn't over.

Fuentes then looked at Burton and said, "Now is your turn," Ober recalled.

Burton, no less courageous than his wife, almost stole the show.

Many Teachers

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — The decrease of the birth rate in the United States along with an oversupply of teachers, will lead to a great deal of competition for teaching positions in 1980, says a new book, "Teaching in the 70's," by Dr. Kenneth R. Briggs, associate professor of secondary education at Lamar University.

FIGHTING ORE CARRIER FIRE — Firemen and yard workers fight flames in the stern of the giant ore carrier Roger Blough at the Lorain yards of the American Ship Building Co. Thursday. Four men were unaccounted for and at least 15 treated for fire inhalation. The ship largest ever built on the Great Lakes, was in final stages of construction and was to start sea trials next week. 20 Vie Tonight For Wool Title

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANGELO (AP) — The long revelry and rehearsals only a memory, 20 college and university coeds vie tonight for the title of Miss Wool of America.

The new glamor and fashion ambassador of the wool industry will be chosen at the close of a musically-oriented show, "Winter Wonderland of Wool," starring singer John Davidson.

She takes the crown from Gail Heinzmann of Carlyle, Ill., and sets forth with a $10,000 wardrobe to convey the merits of woolen fabrics across the country.

The 20 contestants represent wool councils from coast to coast and presumably will be judged on their modeling and public speaking abilities.

There is neither talent nor swimsuit competition, somewhat of a break from the traditional format of beauty pageants. The show will not be televised.

San Angelo's municipal coliseum is the setting and the judges are Peter Diamandis, publisher of Mademoiselle magazine; Miss Eleanor McMillen, executive director of the Fashion Group; and Miss Eleanor Mansfield, national director of training for Faberge Inc.

Unlike most pageants, there was no preliminary competition, thus no clear-cut favorite. But Joanne Diltz, Miss Idaho, leans toward Judy Womack, Miss Texas.

"She's my pick," Miss Dilt smiled. "She's got everything."

Miss Womack did not concurr. She said she was "all simpled out" after collaborating in a round of mischief. This included planting a fish head under the pillow of Leslie Becker of New Jersey, Miss Wool of the Eastern Seaboard.

It seems Miss Becker nearly gagged when served the fish, head intact, at one of the many social excursions of Wool Week.

The revelry picked up a notch with the Wednesday night arrival of Miss Heinzmann, herself a free spirit of sorts.

"This is the only pageant I've ever been in where I can honestly say I liked all the girls," she said. "I was never up-tight once during the pageant because you're really just having a good time."

Gail, nicknamed "Gus" after the "fat, bowlegged mouse in Cinderella," starred in an impromptu swim session last year when she and a couple of colleagues failed to rendezvous with their escorts.

"We took off our badges and we took off our shoes and we jumped into the pool with our dresses on," she grinned. "And everybody was apalled. But it was really a gas."

She found a kindred soul this year in Agnie Otto, Miss Wool of Kansas-Nebraska. The contestants were asked their three wishes. Most responses involved world peace or other weighty matters.

Miss Otto wishes for more wishes.

Texans Vote For Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., and John Tower, R-Tex., voted Thursday for the two-year draft extension bill. The measure passed 72 to 16.

Martin Can Hear Depositions

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes gave permission Thursday for Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin to be present as depositions are taken in the stock manipulation case involving Frank W. Sharp and others.

She said Martin "has an interest" in the sworn testimony as attorney general and may attend without taking part in the questioning of witnesses.

Judge Hughes had refused earlier to let newsmen listen as investigators for the Securities and Exchange Commission question various persons under oath.

Taking of the testimony is a preliminary to trial of an SEC suit, set for Aug. 30, for a permanent injunction against violations of securities laws by 28 individuals and companies.

Martin said earlier this week that his office has been engaged actively since April in an investigation of the case, which involves allegations of insurance stock fraud and manipulation. He added that this probe has intensified since the legislature adjourned.

Top political figures named in earlier depositions as participants in quick-profit deals in shares of National Bankers Life Insurance Co., then controlled by Houston financier Sharp, are due to give depositions next month.

Among those due to testify are Gov. Preston Smith, House Speaker Gus Mutscher, State Democratic chairman Elmer Baum and State Reps. W. S. Heatly and Tommy Shannon.

Sharp, a central figure in the case, has been placed on probation for banking and securities law violations, fined and given immunity from further prosecution in return for testifying before a federal grand jury in Houston about the stock transactions.

Judge Hughes said she will decide Monday whether the immunity granted Sharp by U.S. Dist. Judge Joe V. Singleton in Houston removes him as a defendant in the SEC suit. SEC examiners are due to take a deposition from him July 23.

Queen Isabella enjoyed hunting wild boars.
