

Judith Coplon Tells Court That She 'Will Never Break'; Hears Sentence

'40 Months to 10 Years in Prison'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Judith Coplon today was sentenced to 40 months to 10 years in prison for spying for Russia.

The tiny brunette former Justice Department worker heard the sentence unflinchingly.

A short time before hearing her penalty, she made an impassioned statement to Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves, but she did not ask for mercy.

Miss Coplon was taken into custody by a marshal pending the posting of a new $20,000 bail—double her previous bond.

Stock Market Tries Climb From New Low

NEW YORK—(AP)—The stock market woke up from a winter sleep in the first half of 1949—and promptly tumbled to a 4 1/2-year low.

At the half-way mark, the market now is feebly picking up the pieces and trying to climb out of the low hit on June 13. There is little or no public support behind the recovery attempt and its future is doubtful—to say the least.

Since the turn of the year the national economy generally has been going through what may turn out to be the most painful period of the post-war readjustment.

Some of the wrenches were violent, some accomplished with comparative ease. Prices declined, personal income contracted, the unemployment figures steadily increased, production in virtually every industry was cut back. Caution—which is only a step removed from fear—dominated the thinking of countless business executives.

The stock market celebrated this period of stress and strain by quietly plodding along one of the narrowest price ranges on record. In mid-May, at the very start of a one-month drop, the price level was almost exactly where it was on Dec. 31.

In mid-May prices started to slide, day by day, in Wall Street thickened little more.

The slide was greased when the price level broke through the lows hit when the market tumbled after the presidential election and again in late February. Wall Street has a superstitious generation of the lows and heights of the price average. When a low is broken, for instance, the downward trend is usually accentuated.

On June 13 the downward rush (See STOCK, Page 10)

Officers of Lions Club Are Installed

O. E. McDowell, manager of Plains Creamery, was installed as president of the Pampa Lions Club last night at the summer Ladies' Night banquet meeting in the basement of the First Methodist Church.

McDowell was born at Clovis, N. M., and lived on a farm north of Roswell until 1912. His experience in the creamery business began in 1939 when he took a job as bookkeeper with the Price Creameries, Inc., at Hobbs, N. M. He resides at 1120 N. Williston with his wife and a daughter, Erwina.

Highlighting Ladies' Night was the guest speaker, Herbert C. Petry, Jr., second vice president of Lions International. His address was centered around old Mexico Lions Clubs and their part in raising the standard of living there. He said many Mexican schools are under the sponsorship of Lions Clubs.

The meeting was opened by H. P. Dosier, past president, and the master of ceremonies for the evening was Frank Culbertson.

Dr. Douglas Nelson delivered the invocation and John Kinard introduced the guests. Special music and dinner music was furnished by the Mello-Airs.

Officers were installed: Dosier, vice president; O. K. Gaylor, secretary-treasurer; Veri Hagaman, district trustee; Paul N. Brown, Lion tamer; and C. A. Cryer, district governor.

Ralph E. Dunbar was named speaker for the forthcoming year include: Dale Pinson, Ray F. Kuhn, O. L. Blinn, Joe J. Calhoun, Waldon E. Moore and R. H. Nensiel.

House Leaders Await Word From President on Labor Law Strategy

Seven Injured In Explosion Of Gas Truck

HAWKINS—(AP)—Seven persons were injured, four seriously, when a 1,000-gallon bottled gas truck exploded at Hawkins, two and one-half miles away, Hawkins is in Wood County, 100 miles east of Dallas.

The bottled gas truck was being loaded at the plant when fire broke out. The explosion followed seven minutes later, J. S. Berton, chief engineer of the plant, said.

The flashing fire of the explosion caught persons who were directing streams of water on the gasoline plant's office building.

The most seriously burned were E. H. Davis, driver of the bottled gas truck.

Less seriously burned were T. T. Stevenson of Hawkins and Red Hare, superintendent of the Humble Oil and Refining Company at Hawkins.

Berton said one end of the exploding bottled gas tank was hurled 260 yards.

"We don't know what caused the initial fire," said Berton. "The tank was being filled by the G. H. Burt and Propane Service of Arlington (Texas) was being loaded. The fire could have been set off by a short in the truck or by static electricity. It was a hot fire. There wasn't any thought of trying to save the truck."

"All the loading equipment at the plant burned up."

"The men were putting water on the office building when the explosion happened. No one was within 100 feet of the truck at the time. The concussion knocked the men to the ground."

"The truck had twin tanks, one of the tanks did not explode. I took a rifle and put eight holes through the remaining tank," said Berton, to let off the pressure.

The fire was still burning at 12:30 p. m. he said, but he considered it under control.

Girl Injured In Turn-Over

One girl was hospitalized and two others escaped injury when their 1942 Chevrolet sedan rolled over at 7:30 p. m. yesterday near Lefors.

Transported to Worley Hospital by a Duanel Carmichael ambulance was Barbara Jean Anderson, 17, 407 Lefors. Her two companions, Harriet Nash, 1233 Christine, and Violet Riegl, 1232 S. Wilcox, were uninjured.

Patrolmen and Constable Bill Langley investigating the roll-over said they traced the car's path by tire marks on the pavement and shoulders of the road. They said it appeared to have been coming toward Pampa, from a heart attack. He had been in ill health seven years.

Miss Anderson's conditions was described by hospital attendants as "resting comfortably today."

Fire Destroys Large Barn on Koehler Farm

A large barn measuring 80 by 200 feet, belonging to Paul Koehler, was completely destroyed by fire at 10 p. m. yesterday.

Ernest Winborne, fire chief, said this morning.

The barn, located eight miles northwest of town, contained blacksmith equipment, which had been gathered by Koehler for the past 30 years, as well as some feed.

The fire had a good start. A shortage of water hindered the men, but they were able to keep the fire from spreading to surrounding buildings with the water that was available. They worked with the blast for about an hour, Winborne said.

Meanwhile, someone turned in a false alarm at 5:05 p. m. yesterday and said the house at 806 S. Barnes was going up in flames. Firemen took two trucks to the house but found no fire.

"People who willfully turn in false alarms can be prosecuted," Winborne said. "We are checking on last night's false alarm and if we are able to catch the person, he will be prosecuted."

The fire chief knows the alarm was turned in from a party line and the parties on the line are being investigated.

Senate Will Be Consulted

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson has assured Senate foreign policy leaders they will be consulted before any decision is made on recognizing a Chinese Communist government.

State Department officials said today word had been given Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Acheson will consult fully with the committee on the recognition question when it arises.

There has been recent criticism from some senators of administration policy toward China. Twenty-one senators sent President Truman a protest last week against establishing diplomatic relations with expected Communist regime.

At the moment, State Department officials take the position there is no real issue, because the Chinese Communists have not yet formed a government.

But most diplomatic officials feel that if the Communists are going to run China this government should establish contacts with them and have trained observers in their country as it has done in the Communist nations of Eastern Europe.

W. B. Vandover Succumbs Here

William Boyd Vandover, 66, a resident of Pampa 22 years, died unexpectedly at 2:45 p. m. yesterday at his home, 317 N. Dwight, from a heart attack. He had been in ill health seven years.

He came to Pampa from Neas City, Kans., and had operated the Vandover Feed Mill & Store, 541 S. Cuyler, for the past 17 years. He was a member of the Baptist Church, the IOOF, and the Modern Woodmen.

In addition to his wife, Clara, he is survived by two sons, Charlie and Ralph, a grandson, William Boyd, and a niece, Nona Jean, all of Pampa; by a sister, Mrs. Grace Osborne, and by a brother, J. D. Vandover, of St. Joseph, Mo.

Funeral services to be conducted by the Duanel-Carmichael Funeral Home, are pending.

U.S. Pushes Europe for Freer Trade

PARIS—(AP)—Pushed and prodded by the United States, Western Europe moved one small step towards free competition in trade today.

W. Averell Harriman, U.S. ambassador at large to the Marshall Plan countries, announced early today that a midnight session of Europe's top economists had reached a compromise between American demands for freer trade among European nations and British demands for continued stringent regulation.

The economic differences between free enterprise America and Socialist Britain were resolved on a basis which eased—but did not abolish—restrictions.

A small amount of trade—less than two percent of the normal $8,000,000,000 yearly volume—will be conducted on a multi-lateral competitive basis. Since the war most European trade has been conducted on a barter system.

Last year, when distributing Marshall Plan dollars, the U.S. was careful to make no moves which might upset this delicate barter balance. This year, however, the men running the European Recovery Program felt the time had come to loosen up trading practices.

Britain, her dollar and gold reserves dangerously low, argued (See U. S. PUSHES, Page 10)

Patrol Area Record Clear 1st Half '49

The "bearing down" on traffic violators by the State Highway Patrol has apparently paid off in four Panhandle counties this year.

The counties of Hemphill, Roberts, Gray and Carson have come through the first six months of 1949 without one fatality.

Highway Patrolmen here, however, were pessimistic about the whole thing.

"At the rate they have been going the past week or ten days, we're expecting a fatality—or fatalities—any minute now," they prophesied this morning in looking over the deathless record of the four counties for this year.

They made no bones about continuing to give traffic tickets to those exceeding the speed limit, passing in no-passing zones—the latter, the cause of most wrecks—drunken drivers and other violators.

Oil Paintings Are on Display

As the first in a planned group of exhibits each week, the City Library in the basement of the City Hall has on display this week several oil paintings by Hernal Waters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Waters, 1145 Starkweather.

Waters is a completely untaught artist. He has had no formal lessons, but apparently has, nevertheless, mastered many of the difficult laws of perspective.

One painting of a mountain, painted principally in shades of maroon, looks heavy and somber when seen close, but from a distance of a few feet the play of light and shadows become quite apparent.

Several other works in the exhibit are simply studies in color. With the popular interest in recently in ceramics, Mrs. J. Facker's pottery is a study in color.

Legislative Building

AUSTIN—(AP)—The state building is under way.

THE GOAL HAS BEEN REACHED—More than 5,000 Gray County residents this year have had red "I've Been X-Rayed, Have You?" tags pinned on them as they left the American Legion-VFW Hall, as has Jack Stephens, Sr., (above). By 6 p. m. yesterday 5,003 people had been X-rayed. Tomorrow—between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m.—is the last day for Pampans to have the opportunity to receive their free chest X-rays.

Canadian's Rodeo Said Heir Of First Rodeo in Texas

CANADIAN—(Special)—Canadian's Fourth of July Rodeo and Reunion has the citizenship in a bustle of preparations for the three-day event.

The T. J. Tidwell Shows and Carnival began their four-day stand today.

Dale Nix, director for Monday's parade, said a long list of prizes is offered for the best entries in many events.

Prizes will be given for: Best dressed cowboy and mount; best dressed cowgirl and mount; best ox-cart; best covered wagon; best buggy; best side-saddle entry; four prizes for best floats; three prizes for bicycles; three prizes in the pet division; and a prize for bicycles for two.

An interesting sidelight on the forthcoming rodeo is that it will be held near the site of what is conceded by most old timers to have been the first rodeo ever held in Texas. J. C. Studer was present at that first rodeo on July 4, 1888, and Carl Studer, himself a pioneer in the rodeo business, bolsters the Canadian's claim to being "the first in Texas."

In an article written several years ago, when the famous Anvil Park Rodeo was going strong, Studer quoted the late J. Ellison Carrol of Big Lake, one of the Southwest's rodeo greats, to prove his point.

Studer wrote, "J. Ellison Carrol is responsible for the statement that the first rodeo ever held in Texas was at Canadian in the summer of 1888. It was in the form of a two-day celebration, with steer roping contests as the main event, and the other events included tournament races."

Tournament races were run on a straight track. Poles were erected a given number of yards apart along the course, each supporting a horizontal bar from which was suspended a clip holding a ring over the track.

The rider, equipped with a long spear, would race his horse at full speed down the course and attempt to spear the rings as he sped past. The rider who could spear the greatest number of rings without falling below the required minimum time was the winner.

This year's Canadian rodeo will have three performances. The first will get underway at 8 p. m. tomorrow. The other two performances will be staged on Sunday and Monday, at two p. m.

Pampa Stores Will Be Closed Monday

Pampa stores, as in the past, will be closed all-day Monday, July 4, it was announced today.

July 4 is one of the major holidays that has been observed in Pampa in recent years. The Retail Trade Committee of the Chamber of Commerce decides which holidays should be celebrated to the extent of closing.

The committee also decided to postpone one Dollar Day until Monday, July 11.

Cowboy Reunion Begins Today

STAMFORD—(AP)—The 19th annual Texas Cowboy Reunion opens today.

The colorful opening day parade was scheduled for 11 a. m. The reunion claims the world's largest rodeo in number of contestants. Prizes this year total $6,500 in cash and merchandise amounting to almost as much.

THE WEATHER

WEST TEXAS: Generally fair this afternoon, tonight and Saturday; not much change in temperature.

$1.95 Bushel Grain Assured

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Wheat farmers with acceptable storage facilities were assured today of a national average payment of at least $1.95 a bushel for their 1949 grain crop.

The Agriculture Department announced that it will make loans on wheat at rates averaging that figure, or that it will agree to buy grain later at the same rates. The department's offer was made under terms of the Price Support Law.

The support rate average for this year's crop is five cents a bushel below the average for the 1948 crop. This decline reflects the fact that the parity price of wheat is lower than a year ago.

The law requires a support rate of 90 percent of parity. Loans will be available to wheat acceptably stored on the farm or in elevators and warehouses. Farmers will have until Jan. 31, 1950, to take advantage of the support program.

Secretary Brannan is expected to announce about July 12 whether rigid marketing quotas on the 1950 crop will be submitted to a grower referendum for approval.

Tribe Descended From Feared Geronimo Starts Four-Day Feast

MESCALERO, N. M.—(AP)—It's coming out time for a couple of teen-age Indian maidens. And the debutant's have made big plans. The Mescalero Apache Indians began their annual ceremonial at sunrise today. It lasts until the sun sets July 4.

All 800 members of the tribe made notorious by old Chief Geronimo crowd onto their reservation headquarters in southern New Mexico. They pitched teepees there in lieu of hotel accommodations, and stockmen, living all over the 500,000-acre reservation. But once a year they move into the village of Mescalero for dancing and a feast—a coming out party like no white girl ever had.

Guests of honor this year are Miss Caroline Sundayman and Miss Cleo Comanche, who tribesmen believe are ready to settle down and marry.

There are other girls of marriageable age on the reservation, but coming out parties cost money in any language. And the way the Mescaleros do them up, they burn a considerable chunk from the family budget.

There isn't just one day of dancing—there are four. There isn't just one dinner party—feasting lasts through more than 100 hours. When it is considered that the girls' families bear the chief expense for the 800 Indians and some 1,500 white guests, it isn't surprising that most of the girls must be presented with less fuss. The celebration dates way

"way back." Besides the social implications for the debts, the festival has a deeply religious tone.

The ceremonial starts with the raising of the teepee where the debutants hold court, a sacred ceremony.

During the morning of the first day, the social dances begin in front of the girls' teepee with visiting Indians, decked-out in their tribal costumes, taking part.

Scores of visitors from New Mexico, West Texas and throughout the Southwest come each year to watch the fun. They are welcomed everywhere, but at the sacred, private initiation rites.

But the white man has done more to the ceremonial than just visit. A feature of this year's entertainment is a baseball series—between the San Carlos Reservation team from Arizona and the Mescaleros.

If you tell most people of the world that the United States wants world government they will get scared. They will think the movement bears the dollar in one hand and the atom bomb in the other.

Garry Davis, who renounced his U. S. citizenship to become a self-styled "citizen of the world."

It is the universal custom to display the American flag only from sunrise to sunset.

PUBLIC NOTICES NOW MANDATORY — Governor Beauford Jester is shown here as he affixes his signature to Senate Bill No. 375. The bill, known as the Mandatory Publication Law, requires that all public notices called for by Texas Statutes be published, or the official responsible for such publication suffer loss of salary, or removal from office for neglect of duty. Senator James E. Taylor of Kerens, pictured on Jester's left, sponsored the legislation through the Senate. House sponsor was Philip L. Willis of Kaufman. Covered by the law are all public officers of the state, counties, cities and school districts. Governor Jester signed the bill into law June 8, and it became immediately effective.

Canadian Drive-in To Open Tomorrow
CANADIAN — (Special) — Canadian's newest business, "Traylor's Steak House and Drive-In," is slated to open for business at 11 a. m. tomorrow.
Mr. and Mrs. J. R. (Jim) Traylor have lived in Canadian about thirty years with the exception of a few years in Amarillo during the war.
The new business is located on the highway about two blocks east of Main.

FRESH CORN PREPARATION
If you want corn to taste its freshest don't husk it until you are ready to cook it, and store it in the refrigerator after buying or picking it until the moment it is to be prepared. If any corn is left over, cut the kernels from the cobs and use in corn fritters. Serve them with maple syrup as an accompaniment to fried chicken or baked ham. Or use the leftover corn (again cut from the cobs) in a vegetable soup.

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — M-G-M's campaign to cast its stars in "different" roles may be the answer to a slumping box office. The studio is assembling an outstanding list of properties in which stars will enact roles novel to postwar filmgoers.
Clark Gable, Deborah Kerr, Greer Garson and Lana Turner are switching to comedy. Bob Taylor, who has been starred in sinister roles since his return from naval service, goes to westerns.
Musical comedy stars Gene Kelly, George Murphy, Ricardo Montalban and Cyd Charisse will debut in dramatic films.

In television he'll have to memorize the script, as he did when he was getting his start in show business. This will allow him to manipulate two Doubling Back On Itself?

Leon Demmen, special European correspondent for NEA Service, has turned up a smashing story that Communist Russia is seeking a trade treaty with Fascist Spain. He says the dealings might even lead to a political understanding between Stalin and Franco.

If this agreement should come to pass, it will provide the stiffest test for Russia's propaganda acrobats since the cynical Hitler-Stalin pact of 1939 was signed. For years now they have been heaping abuse on Franco as a vile character with whom no decent "people's democracy" would associate.

For people with short memories, it would furnish a useful lesson in the basic nature of the Soviet system. It would help to drive home a point that apparently nothing but a small group of ruthless men who wield fierce instruments of power to maintain themselves supreme.

Some of our "progressive" zealots, like Henry Wallace, profess to understand this. Wallace, who prides himself on ever letting a fact go, has long been apologizing for Russia's misbehavior on the ground that the United States has goaded Soviet leaders into their present course.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Reports of the thwarted airborne invasion against the Dominican Republic — eastern half of the island of Haiti — mentioned "The Caribbean Legion" as having a part in the plot.

This Caribbean Legion is an outfit about which not too much is known. It may be a unit in an outfit for a number of years. But it has possibilities for making continued trouble. And it is being closely watched by American authorities.

From its own somewhat fuzzy statements passed by word of mouth and the Central American papers, the aim of the legion is to overthrow Central American and Caribbean dictators. It wants to establish true democracies throughout the area.

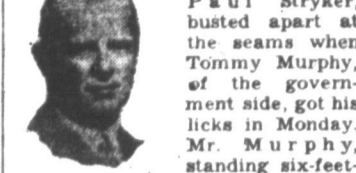

On its face, there could be much merit in such a program. The United States is so busy promoting democracy and overthrowing dictators in other parts of the world, a little more of the same in underdeveloped Central America might be in flight.

But some things don't work that way. U. S. policy — if it is policy — seems to be to let Central American people work out their own destinies, just so they don't rock the oil barrel or banana boat and spill the coffee while doing it. Also, the Caribbean Legion itself does not seem to be too respectable an outfit. It apparently made up having given $3,000,000 support and some arms and planes for the revolt. Where they would get this wealth might be some-

Fair Enough - Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1949)

NEW YORK — The great game of name-dropping which has been played by Alger Hiss and his learned counsel, Lloyd Paul Stryker, burst apart at the seams when Tommy Murphy, of the government side, got his licks in Monday.

Mr. Murphy, standing six-foot-four and twitching the sprigs of an old-fashioned walrus mustache, took up the questioning where he had been forced to leave off when Justice Felix Frankfurter was on the stand last week as a character witness for his protegee, Mr. Hiss.

Chambers said Hiss turned over secret documents and digests of secret information for transmission to the Soviet government. Last week, Frankfurter, another justice of the Supreme Court, gratuitously came into this trial to chuck their weight about in the interests of a man accused of betraying the government which they are sworn to uphold.

Frankfurter awagtered in the special way he has and he seemed to assume that when he appeared as a character witness for Hiss, he was granted. Mr. Murphy thought otherwise and showed him marked reverence. In particular, he pinned Frankfurter's ears back in one exchange that would have delighted many a trembling barrister before the Supreme Court who have to submit to heckling and lint-picking, feeling that they can talk back only at the peril of their clients.

For all his inexplicable reputation as a savant, Frankfurter is the gabbiest, foggiest bore you would find in a guardhouse full of AWOLs. He takes off into space and whips around and can't get his flaps down until he finally finds himself in the trees, but nevertheless some mysterious force of propaganda has put him over on the American public as an intellect of enormous brainpower.

From the way he used the name of Holmes and the way Hiss himself intoned it and spoke of relics from the old boy, you would have thought they were talking about personal relations with God Almighty. To many of this cult, Holmes ascribed the late Roosevelt do suffice for gods, at that.

Frankfurter said that Holmes, the solicitor general and others had turned to him "while I was at Harvard Law to recommend men of competence and character."

Murphy wanted to ask Felix whether Pressman met his standards of character when Stryker protested and Judge Samuel H. Kaufman, a New Dealer and an organization Democrat, sustained him. Had he been allowed to proceed, Murphy could have mentioned a lot of Communist names that got into the government and asked whether they represented Frankfurter's idea of character.

But that didn't stop Murphy dead. It just detoured him until Monday when he got Hiss on cross-examination. Then Murphy sort of sidled up to him. They were talking about the time when Jimmy Byrnes, who also became justice of the Supreme Court but let Roosevelt seduce him off on other jobs, warned Hiss that people were saying he was a Communist.

"Did Byrnes say anything about your association with Pressman?"

mine and the jury's and the responsibility of this case." But, of course, he wasn't. He was showing off in the manner that so often in Washington has had Bill Douglas down the bench cranking up with a spittoon to crown him. And Tommy Murphy upped and knocked him through the skylight. This was less majestic Tommy might get hung for that.

I think that for documentation I ought to give you one prime example of this fantastic old gas-bag's wisdom straight from the record so that you will know what I mean when I speak of his double-talk. This is it: "I have a vague memory that sometime while I was away in '33 and '34, when I was one year abroad visiting a professor at Oxford, and while abroad, unless I am wrong there, but about that time, during that period, there were some differences of opinion among lawyers and judges in the Department of Agriculture, and since several of them were my friends, including Judge Frank, I heard about that."

That is by no means the worst and assure you it is not a freak. That is the way he speaks. Then Murphy asked him to name some other bright study boys whom he had recommended for jobs in the New Deal back when the Harvard Communists were just beginning to take over Agriculture, the Labor Relations Board, the Department of Justice and the State Department. Reds from Harvard Law were planted all over, but the stock phrase was and still is that "Frankfurter had no more to do with my appointment than you did."

Did you recommend Lee Pressman? Murphy asked Felix. That was a hot one because Pressman later became chief counsel of the CIO, and last summer refused to answer on oath whether or not he ever had been a member of the Communist Party.

Mr. Stryker for the defense hopped up and said it was "immaterial whether Felix had recommended Pressman. After all, it was Hiss who was on trial. Yes, but Felix Frankfurter's reputation was on trial, too. Felix was tossing the name of the late consulting about his own intricacy with the cynical and a little Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes all over the place and modestly brutalizing to whom, in his doddering days, Frankfurter recommended law secretaries who also doubled as male nurses.

These included Alger Hiss, who was the Trueman social-economic program law, it is forecast that this number will increase to 10,000,000 direct or indirect employees of Uncle Sam.

Since practical political enforcement of Hatch Act restrictions is applied to families and relatives of these public workers, the number whose elementary rights to citizenship might be jeopardized could amount to 20,000,000. They could be in one day out of the 365, but that is all.

RULINGS — Under the Hatch Act and the U. S. Civil Service Commission's rulings, as they would be projected by pending legislation, every physician, building inspector, every physician, every nurse, every teacher — mention only a few affected — would have to abstain from all political activity, local as well as federal.

Otherwise, they would lose their jobs, or the state would have to forfeit a percentage of the fund due it. And this would happen, despite the fact that many states would be paying And Hiss said yes.

"He was a very close personal friend," Hiss said, "and I believe he was in the same law office with Jerome Frank, now Judge Frank."

If Frankfurter had been forced to enlarge on the list of young men of "character" whom he recommended for jobs in the New Deal, he might have been a member of the International Judicial Association and that seemed to be a strike for Mr. Murphy. This organization is mentioned twenty times in the index of the Dies Committee.

Anyway, this gives a potential lineup. It includes the self-styled liberal and democratic government in Guatemala and Costa Rica, plus a host of revolutionaries from Dominican Republic, Cuba, Venezuela and Nicaragua. Panama and Mexico seem to be out of it.

How much strength the Caribbean Legion may have, nobody knows. One informed guess is that it never got more than 150 members together at one time. That would have been in Costa Rica or Guatemala.

Supporting the Legion may be a few plain freebooters and adventurers, possibly some Americans who learned how to fly or shoot in the last war and liked it. But nobody has ever identified or named any U. S. citizens as having had an active part in its affairs.

There are of course a lot of surplus arms lying around from the war. There are even some planes. The Legion may at one time have had a dozen aircraft. The raid on Port Limon, Costa Rica, was the first Central American revolution launched by air attack. In this last Dominican affair, two flying boats brought in the rebels.

From the dictator charges there have of course come charges that all these uprisings and the legion are Communist-backed. That has yet to be proven conclusively, though it's possible,

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — The Pfitzinger affair in a small New Jersey township may force Congress to amend federal housing, health and education bills to prevent any incumbent administration at Washington from controlling and restricting the political lives of millions of citizens and the local affairs of thousands of small communities.

Had it not been for this otherwise insignificant incident, which will be described in detail below, few members of Congress would have known that a social welfare measure, known as the Roosevelt - Fairley - Truman organization, despite the "grimme" appeal that won six straight presidential victories, would be no more than a cub Boy Scout troop.

Then, as James F. Byrnes warns, many citizens would be pulling an economic oar in the galley of state. Or, to paraphrase Educator Eisenhower, they would become victims of "outright socialism."

MANAGER — This warning of a scourge of locusts over the land has nothing in common or in origin with hysterical partisan denunciations of "bureaucracy," "regimentation" or the "Truman Fair Deal." It is the kind of case against governmental domination which a lawyer could submit to a court, and receive a favorable verdict without the jury leaving the box for a second's deliberation.

Russell J. Pfitzinger of Springfield Township, Union County, N. J., has been a materials inspector for the State Highway Commission for 31 years, under both Republican and Democratic administrations. When off duty, he takes an interest in home government. Last year, in a council election, he was the Republican campaign manager. The outcome was split, each side electing two.

Some angry Democrat apparently wrote a letter to Washington and then the mills of the gods began to grind, but quickly.

FORFEIT — The U. S. Civil Service Commission ruled that Mr. Pfitzinger's participation in the contest was a violation of the Hatch Act because, as materials inspector, he passed on a and bought staff paid for with money from the U. S. Public Roads Administration. That is his only thin tieup with the federal government.

Washington then ordered the New Jersey highway commissioner to remove Mr. Pfitzinger for 18 months from his job within 30 days, or else forfeit $5,760 in federal aid money, which is the equivalent of the offending individual's pay for two years. Moreover, there were stern orders that Mr. Pfitzinger could not be shifted to another state pay roll nor dependent upon Uncle Sam's grants.

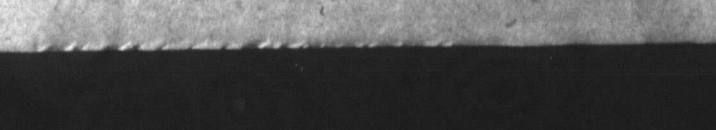

It was dock him — or else! PARDON — Civil Service spokesmen say the commission's action taken similar action in about a score of cases. They admit that there would have been many more instances of crackdown if, as in the Pfitzinger affair, angry politicians had sought vengeance. This method of rubbing an opponent off the pay roll may now become more popular, in view of the publicity attending the New Jersey incident.

The commission's handling of these questions in the vicinity of Washington — Maryland and Virginia communities — shows what would happen when Hatch Act enforcement is carried to its logical but absurd extreme. So many inhabitants of these suburban work for Uncle Sam that only a tiny minority could indulge in hometown affairs if the law were applied literally. Therefore, a special pardon is given to residents roundabout the Capital.

But if the pending social welfare measures pass, the pardon may have to be nationwide. Skilled military leadership is the indispensable ingredient to victory. We must insist that the quality of the individual, if selected for entry into the commissioned rank of the armed services, is of the highest. To do this, we must provide reasonable incentives.

How Can Public Educators Teach Americanism?

Frederick Bastiat, years ago, said he could not explain what he did not understand.

The question as to how public teachers can teach Americanism is very much to the point since more and more people have less and less conception of Americanism.

The early Christians called the Christian religion a way of life. Americanism is also a way of life. It is an entirely different way of life from any other government prior to its time. As the late Everett Dean Martin said, the Declaration of Independence and the philosophies it represented were the first time in all the history of man that it was ever attempted on a large scale to put the ethics and ideologies of the Sermon on the Mount into practice in a big way.

The essence of Americanism is that all men are equally free to pursue happiness; that no man is good enough or wise enough to coerce another man to obey his will; that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed; that the only purpose of government is to stop some individual from initiating force against another individual; that all men are endowed by the Creator with certain inalienable rights, self controlling and therefore responsible for his acts.

If that be what Americanism is, then how can public tax supported teachers teach these American principles? The answer is simply that they cannot. The best way to teach is by example. One cannot teach another to believe in a certain moral act when the individual trying to teach is doing the exact opposite. When a teacher is being a party to initiating force and a recipient of the results of force, he cannot teach the pupil not to believe in initiating force.

What Kind of Public Educators Have We? Most people think that public educators are the salt of the earth. That is why they are so dangerous. In reality public educators are either inexperienced individuals who have not developed and have not come to understand the ethical codes of laws or principles of the American way of life, or else they are men who are mentally lazy, and even in many cases physically lazy. They are mentally too lazy to test their acts and what they advocate. And when they are mentally too lazy to test their acts, they are babes in the woods when it comes to praxiology.

If public educators were interested in the science of means or praxiology, they would jump at the chance to test their ideologies. Instead, they are babes in the woods when it comes to praxiology. A single public school teacher who will attempt to answer questions without evasion for $100.00. In addition, they would have the opportunity to ask questions of those who believe there is a man who can answer them.

I recently talked to one of the leaders of public educators. I asked him why none of the teachers would accept the challenge to attempt to harmonize tax supported schools with the Ten Commandments for $100,000 and agree to answer questions without evasion. His answer was that they wanted to be sure of winning, and so it took them time to prepare, tried to explain to himself as the discussion was not for the purpose of winning or victory, but the sole purpose of such a discussion was to find the truth. That the best way to do this was to determine which party was obliged to contradict himself or face a dilemma. The man who faced a dilemma or con-

ISLAND OF ESCAPE By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

THE STORY: It was a dark, stormy night, and the sea was running high. A small boat was tossed about by the waves, and the crew was in a state of panic.

"No," Silwell said. "If any of us had shot a dynamite, we'd have stepped forward and got a medal."

"That's reasonable," Ben admitted. Fred Silwell nodded soberly. "I don't much like the spot I'm in. I can take care of myself, but telling you this gives me a little protection. It'd be harder to get rid of us both."

"Well of you to include me in," Ben said. "Skip the sarcasm. You're in already and you know it. This island! I wish we'd get away. It's beginning to give me the creeps. Now, the rifle. I want it. We'll have to figure out some way to get it from George."

MABEL JONES stung down an armload of wood and watched Ben Cosgrove stack it around a central post. "It gives us something to do," Mabel said. "We won't sit around and mope."

"You sound as if you expected to be here a long time." "Why not? The Simpatoo isn't due back for a couple months. We were to have a three-month trial, remember. About our only other chance is a fishing boat, and this kind of weather they'll be smart enough to be somewhere else."

Bea kept still, but the last few pieces of wood on the growing pile. "And what difference does it make anyhow? To the three of us and Harding, I mean. The outsiders want to leave, sure. But we came here expecting maybe to stay. I don't see the loss of the house, some comforts and supplies makes much difference. We still got the island. We can still live. I don't get it concentrating everything on being 'rescued.' Rescued from what?"

As the late Everett Dean Martin said, the Declaration of Independence and the philosophies it represented were the first time in all the history of man that it was ever attempted on a large scale to put the ethics and ideologies of the Sermon on the Mount into practice in a big way.

The essence of Americanism is that all men are equally free to pursue happiness; that no man is good enough or wise enough to coerce another man to obey his will; that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed; that the only purpose of government is to stop some individual from initiating force against another individual; that all men are endowed by the Creator with certain inalienable rights, self controlling and therefore responsible for his acts.

If that be what Americanism is, then how can public tax supported teachers teach these American principles? The answer is simply that they cannot. The best way to teach is by example. One cannot teach another to believe in a certain moral act when the individual trying to teach is doing the exact opposite. When a teacher is being a party to initiating force and a recipient of the results of force, he cannot teach the pupil not to believe in initiating force.

What Kind of Public Educators Have We? Most people think that public educators are the salt of the earth. That is why they are so dangerous. In reality public educators are either inexperienced individuals who have not developed and have not come to understand the ethical codes of laws or principles of the American way of life, or else they are men who are mentally lazy, and even in many cases physically lazy. They are mentally too lazy to test their acts and what they advocate. And when they are mentally too lazy to test their acts, they are babes in the woods when it comes to praxiology.

If public educators were interested in the science of means or praxiology, they would jump at the chance to test their ideologies. Instead, they are babes in the woods when it comes to praxiology. A single public school teacher who will attempt to answer questions without evasion for $100.00. In addition, they would have the opportunity to ask questions of those who believe there is a man who can answer them.

I recently talked to one of the leaders of public educators. I asked him why none of the teachers would accept the challenge to attempt to harmonize tax supported schools with the Ten Commandments for $100,000 and agree to answer questions without evasion. His answer was that they wanted to be sure of winning, and so it took them time to prepare, tried to explain to himself as the discussion was not for the purpose of winning or victory, but the sole purpose of such a discussion was to find the truth. That the best way to do this was to determine which party was obliged to contradict himself or face a dilemma. The man who faced a dilemma or con-

FORFEIT — The U. S. Civil Service Commission ruled that Mr. Pfitzinger's participation in the contest was a violation of the Hatch Act because, as materials inspector, he passed on a and bought staff paid for with money from the U. S. Public Roads Administration. That is his only thin tieup with the federal government.

Washington then ordered the New Jersey highway commissioner to remove Mr. Pfitzinger for 18 months from his job within 30 days, or else forfeit $5,760 in federal aid money, which is the equivalent of the offending individual's pay for two years. Moreover, there were stern orders that Mr. Pfitzinger could not be shifted to another state pay roll nor dependent upon Uncle Sam's grants.

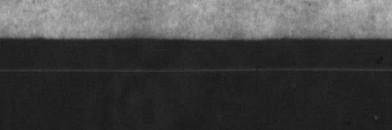

It was dock him — or else! PARDON — Civil Service spokesmen say the commission's action taken similar action in about a score of cases. They admit that there would have been many more instances of crackdown if, as in the Pfitzinger affair, angry politicians had sought vengeance. This method of rubbing an opponent off the pay roll may now become more popular, in view of the publicity attending the New Jersey incident.

The commission's handling of these questions in the vicinity of Washington — Maryland and Virginia communities — shows what would happen when Hatch Act enforcement is carried to its logical but absurd extreme. So many inhabitants of these suburban work for Uncle Sam that only a tiny minority could indulge in hometown affairs if the law were applied literally. Therefore, a special pardon is given to residents roundabout the Capital.

But if the pending social welfare measures pass, the pardon may have to be nationwide. Skilled military leadership is the indispensable ingredient to victory. We must insist that the quality of the individual, if selected for entry into the commissioned rank of the armed services, is of the highest. To do this, we must provide reasonable incentives.

This young girl's campaign against blackheads begins with scrubbing, for which she uses a soft complexion brush and rich lather.

Blame Lazy Habits With Skin Care For Teenage Complexion Troubles

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Many of those blackheads which polka dot young faces can be blamed upon lazy habits of skin care.

Case in point is the lick-and-promise method of washing faces which so many girls' mothers report. If that describes your method of scrubbing, take warning. Fail to wash an oily skin—that is the type of skin which is indeed a pushover for blackheads—and you are pretty certain to have dirt-laden pores. Oil on the skin provides an untiring attraction for dirt.

Before you begin casting around for other ways to free your skin of blackheads, start scrubbing your face. You may be surprised to discover that daily scrubbing may be all that's needed for a spring clean-up.

The best scrubbing aid besides soap is a soft complexion brush which will create the mild friction needed to dislodge embedded soil. Load the bristles of the brush with rich soap lather and scrub face and neck not once but twice. Whisk the brush in little rotary strokes around the blackhead areas. Rinse thoroughly after you have your face with lather to make sure that no soapy residue is left on the skin.

Calvary Church Will Begin Meeting Tonite

The Calvary Chapel Church at 701 N. Lefors will begin a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock which will last for ten days.

Ora Mae Frye, evangelist, will present the sermons. The American flag should be hoisted briskly and lowered ceremoniously.

Games were played and refreshments of cake and ice cream were served.

Attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Belton Beardon, and Gloria and Johnny; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gunkel; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Culppepper; Mr. Dale Butler and Gary; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd King; Miss Jean Ann Essex; Mr. Don Larley; Miss Cynthia Hogsett; Mr. Dale Conners; the host and hostess and the honored guests.

If you want to separate the leaves of a head of lettuce, remove the core, then hold the head (core side up) under cold running water. The pressure of the water will usually force the leaves apart. The leaves should be dried on a tea towel before using.

Book of Psalms: Religion in Poetry

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

During the coming weeks many Sunday Schools will be studying lessons in the Biblical Book of Psalms. The comment in these columns is directed to many readers not in Sunday Schools, but interested in religion and the study of the Bible.

It is my hope that it may be of help to those who teach and learn in Sunday School. But, in view of this wider constituency, it is my aim not to confine the comment to any particular theme, or lesson, but to present backgrounds, highlights, and illuminating details. The object is to increase the intelligent use of the Bible, and bring its guidance and inspiration into immediate influence upon character and daily life. This is particularly necessary in contemplating and studying the Book of Psalms.

The Book of Psalms must be studied as a whole, if one would grasp their nature and significance in the faith, worship, and life of ancient Israel, and their place and effect in relation to religious life in general.

Only as one reads the Psalms as a whole can one grasp the depth and immensity of their exploitation of every mood and emotion of which the human soul is capable, and their reaction to every experience that mankind has known.

Here are souls in the very heights of exultation and religious ecstasy, dwelling on the mountains, with the clear view of God, and the full inspiration of His presence. But here are souls, also, crying out of the depths of despair, and finding light in the valley of darkness. Here is realism in the face of suffering, and persecution, and the designs and hatred of enemies. And above all realism in the face of change and decay, and the grimness of death itself.

Here, too, is the voice of friendship and fellowship, the pilgrim songs of those who through life are journeying and worshipping together.

There is nothing left out in the whole range of human emotions, doubts, fears, inspirations and ecstasies—all of life's experiences from the cradle to the grave are there.

From the opening Psalm 1, recounting the blessedness of the man "that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly—but his delight is in the law of the Lord," to the closing 150th Psalm with its typical song of praise the Psalms move in the rich areas of nature and human nature.

Here, in addition to the exploration of the heart of man, and the visions of the glory of God, are the observations and reflections of inspired poets near to every phase of nature, with eyes lifted to the hills, meditations in green pastures and beside still waters, the mystery of the sea, the anger of storms; and towering over man and nature the Holy City and the House of the Lord, to which devout souls ascend with gladness, to worship in the sanctuary of strength and beauty with the word of God hidden in their hearts.

"God" Lesson at Science Church Sunday, July 3

"God" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 3.

The Golden Text is: "I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress; my God; in him will I trust" (Psalms 91:2).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For the Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our law-giver, the Lord is our King; he will save us" (Isaiah 33:22).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "There is no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all-power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God" (page 228).

STOCK

(Continued From Page One) reached a climax. Prices plunged to the lowest level, according to the Associated Press average of 90 stocks, since January, 1935. And, even worse, the average broke through a famous triple low, one first established in 1946, again in 1947, and still again in 1948.

In the one-month period the market value of all stocks listed on the New York Exchange was reduced by around $6,000,000,000. During the period since June 13 the market has wearily tried to come back and, despite a severe contraction in trading interest, has managed to recoup about one-third of its losses.

The AP 60-stock average closed 1948 at 64.5, on June 30 at 59.9. In between the average cracked to a low of 58, reached a high of 66.2.

Today opinion in the financial district is clearly divided over prospects for the second half of the year. One side feels that a summer rally is at least a possibility. The other side claims that the market will drop through the June 13 low.

Woman, Boy Hurt in Crash

A woman and a young boy were treated and released from Worley Hospital at 6:18 a.m. today following a two-car crash at the N. Starkweather and Kentucky intersection.

Injured were Mrs. Mary J. Hudgel, 1218 S. Barnes, and Jerry Dean Pope, 9, of 818 1/2 N. Frost.

City Police reported a 1930 Ford roadster, driven by Robert W. Dixon, 16, 818 1/2 N. Frost, was traveling south on N. Starkweather and was not quite through the intersection when a 1938 Chevrolet tudor, driven by Mrs. Mary J. Hudgel, 55, of 1218 S. Barnes, traveling east on Kentucky, struck the roadster in the middle of its right side, partially caving in the door.

The Pope boy, riding with Dixon, was thrown to the street by the impact and rolled under the roadster.

X-rays at Worley Hospital revealed he suffered no fractures except a possible incomplete break of one rib. He also suffered multiple abrasions and a sprain of the upper arm, right hip, and right chest.

Mrs. Hudgel suffered abrasions and contusions of the left arm and other parts of the body.

Damage to each car was estimated at $100 by police.

Five men from the Pampa Lions Club attended the Canadian Lions Club meeting at noon today to install officers.

Arthur Teed headed the group and performed the installation ceremony.

Besides Teed, the group was composed of O. E. McDowell, Ken Bennett, Hunny Shultz and E. O. Wedgeworth.

40 MONTHS

Just before passing sentence, Judge Reeves said: "I thoroughly approve of the verdict of the jury."

Judge Reeves ordered Miss Coplon to post a new bond of $20,000.

Her old bond here — $10,000 — automatically expired with the passing of sentence.

She also is under $20,000 bond in an espionage conspiracy case in New York.

Under today's sentence, Miss Coplon would be eligible to apply for parole in 40 months, should she lose the appeal her attorney announced would be made.

Judge Reeves recommended that the sentence be served in the Women's Reformatory at Alderson, W.Va.

He explained, however, that this is a mere recommendation and that the prison will be selected by the Justice Department if Miss Coplon actually serves the time.

Judge Reeves rejected a demand by Prosecutor John M. Kelley, Jr., that Miss Coplon be held in jail of $100,000.

He did go part way with this request by doubling her bail here.

Long speeches by the 28-year-old Harvard College honor graduate and by her attorney, Archibald Palmer, delayed the sentencing.

Judge Reeves expressed impatience with Palmer as he talked on and on.

When Miss Coplon finally stood up to hear her sentence she told the judge that she did not think she had received a fair trial.

"I understand that I can plead for mercy," the former political analyst in the Justice Department began.

"It will not do. To me that would be an admission of guilt."

"I'm innocent — the Kelleys and the Wheartys may gloat, but I am innocent."

She referred to the prosecutors, John M. Kelley, Jr., and Raymond P. Whearty.

Whearty once was Miss Coplon's boss in the Justice Department.

Miss Coplon, her voice frequently rising with emotion but never reaching hysteria, said Kelley and Whearty "want to break me, but I will never break."

She then told Judge Reeves that she does not think she got a fair trial here. She added that she hopes "to get a fair trial" in New York where she and Valentine A. Gubitchev, a Russian, face trial July 11 on the conspiracy charges.

Her association with Gubitchev, Russian engineer on the staff of the United Nations, was part of the core of the government case. They were arrested together in New York March 4. Federal agents said they found Miss Coplon's pocketbook filled with government secrets on subversion and counter espionage.

Miss Coplon complained that the press had pictured her as hysterical at times during her long appearance on the witness stand.

She insisted that she never was hysterical "and I'll never be hysterical."

"I don't want sympathy," Judge Reeves spoke at considerable length, reviewing the evidence before telling Miss Coplon the penalty she must pay unless higher courts intervene.

The judge then indicated that Palmer may never be allowed to try another case in the federal courts here.

He suggested that the attorney's conduct during the long, turbulent trial may warrant withdrawal of further "courtesy" here.

He said Miss Coplon's conduct at the time the FBI took up her trial was such as to arouse "great suspicion," particularly in view of the tense relations between this country and Russia.

He remarked that Miss Coplon a college graduate with a "very brilliant mind," knew the im-

Baker Hotel Of Dallas Sold

DALLAS — (AP) — Sale of the Baker Hotel here to Dallas Rupe & Son, investment bankers here, was announced today.

Fenton J. Baker will continue as manager. The hotel will continue to be known as the Baker.

The announcement said Dallas Rupe & Son has contracted to buy 90 percent of the outstanding voting stock of the Baker Hotel of Dallas, Inc., and that actual purchase will be consummated in the near future.

Price was not disclosed. However, the hotel has 640 rooms, valued at a replacement cost of $14,000 per room, or a total value of more than $9,000,000. The Dallas Times-Herald said "the purchase price was believed to be considerably below this figure."

Architects have been commissioned to plan a 350-room addition. The entire hotel is now being remodelled, at an average cost of $3,500 a room.

The 17-story Dallas landmark was formally opened in October, 1925.

Dallas Rupe & Son have been national leaders in hotel financing for 20 years.

U.S. PUSHES

The opposing points of view clashed at the annual policy meeting of the OEEC (Organization for European Economic Cooperation) — a group which suggests how Marshall Plan money should be split up among the European states.

The new compromise plan provides that 25 percent of the loans given by one European country to another may be transferred by the recipient to still a third country. Twenty-five percent of the $1.175 involved will be transferable too.

NEGROES VOTE

NEW YORK — (AP) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said today that nearly three-quarters of the South's qualified Negroes voted in the 1948 presidential election.

propriety of her association with a Russian in view of the tense situation.

Judge Reeves said the defendant's pocketbook was "literally bulging with highly confidential secrets," most of them referring to suspected Soviet espionage agents.

He recalled her testimony that 34 summaries of confidential FBI reports, included among her papers, were for use in connection with a civil service examination. She could have "gotten obsolete slips," instead of current ones that would be of interest to Russia, the judge said.

"She is charged with a serious offense," Judge Reeves said. "She violated a high trust. She was in a highly confidential position. She attempted to betray the country although she had taken a loyalty oath."

Judge Reeves then remarked that "comparisons are odious," and that he did not want to make any. But he recalled that Benedict Arnold was "one of the bravest men who fought in the Revolution — a brave and fearless soldier — yet who in the end became a traitor to his country."
