Election to be Held May 7th, To Secure Fair Ground Site.

With Taxpayers' Interests Thoroughly Safeguarded by Law, It is Predicted the Election Will Carry by Large Majority

At a regular meeting held by the Commissioners' Court, Monday, April 11th, a petition was granted calling for an election to be held May 7th, to determine whether or not the park tax of five cents on the $100.00 taxable valuation be levied and assessed for the purpose of providing a county fair ground and park site.

For the instruction of everybody concerned, the following is a copy of the law relative to what is done with the revenues received from the park.

"Art. 6079. No person, firm or association of persons shall have the right to offer for sale or barter, exhibit anything or conduct any place of amusement where a fee is charged within said parks without first obtaining the consent of the commissioners court or its duly authorized agent, paying for such privilege or concession the sum agreed upon with said court or its duly authorized agent. All revenue from the sale of such privileges or concessions shall go into a fund for the maintenance of said parks."

With the protection which is granted by this law there can be no possibility of graft against the taxpayers as this fund will be audited as well as all other public funds are audited each year. The law further requires that any contract entered into by the commissioners court for an amount of more than $2,000 shall be advertised and bids received in open court together with a certified check for 5 per cent of the amount of the bid. This will mean in this case that if the election carries, before a site for the fair ground can be purchased, bids must be advertised in accordance with this statute.

It is the intention of those interested in this move to have a committee of ranchmen and farmers work in co-operation with the court, should this purchase be made, so there could be no question when the site is purchased about it being located most conveniently for the ranchman and farmer.

In as much as the maximum tax in this matter is fixed by law at five cents on the $100.00 taxable valuation, and every other provision is thrown around the expenditure of the funds that is needed, we believe the move a good one and will eventually prove of great benefit to the county.

COUNTY SHOWS INCREASED NUMBER OF SCHOLASTICS

From the following tabulation of scholastics in the various school districts of the county, it can be seen that we have an increased enrollment of 96 over last year. We feel this increased enrollment is largely due to enthusiasm of those in charge of the enumeration, in getting all the scholastics. It is indicative of the fact that Kimble County is enjoying a steady growth.

It is a well known fact that all West Texas counties and some in other parts of the State have never gotten as much money back as they have paid into the State treasury for school purposes. The per capita apportionment is the same for those in thickly populated areas as it is in a sparsely settled community and the per capita wealth is always more in the thinly settled district. In this county for example, we pay annually five thousand dollars more into the State treasury than we get back in per capita apportionment. We will get back next year about $1,344.00, more than in previous years due to our added ninety-six enrollment.

We are printing a list of the scholastics for each district in order that those interested in school matters will know about what they will get from the State after the per capita apportionment for next year has been definitely announced.

HIGHWAY MEETING HELD AT BRADY

An enthusiastic meeting of delegates representing 200,000 people in twelve counties along Highway No. 10 was held in Brady Thursday afternoon in the interest of promoting Highway No. 10 from Sherman to Del Rio.

Fred Abney of Brownwood was re-elected as chairman and Hilton Burk of Brownwood was chosen secretary.

A committee to confer with the State Highway Commission was appointed. The personnel of the committee is A. B. Reagan of Brady, chairman; Judge Weaver Baker, Junction; Judge W. F. Littleton, Del Rio; Fred Abney, Brownwood; Judge J. T. Luker, Comanche; Senator Bob Stuart, Fort Worth; C. B. Phillips, Stephenville, and Judge Claude Gilmer, Rocksprings.

According to statements by the various delegations great improvement is being made by the counties on their stretches of Highway No. 10 which will facilitate designation and the taking over of the road by the State Highway Department.

Weaver H. Baker, A. B. Hodges and Wiley Fisher composed the delegation from Kimble County.

The Treble Clef Club of Howard-Payne College will be at the Le Roy Theatre Tuesday, April 26.

Rocksprings Relief Fund in Kimble County Passes $6,000.00 Mark.

Soliciting Committee Reached $6,000.00 Mark Monday of This Week; Contributions Still Coming in. Fund to Replace Waterworks

The mass meeting at the Court House last Thursday morning is certainly bearing fruit in abundance. Within 30 minutes, and with approximately 50 men present, nearly $3,000 was contributed at that time.

The chairman of the meeting appointed two committees at that time, one for the purpose of soliciting further contributions and the other to ascertain the immediate needs of Rocksprings. The first committee was composed of C. T. Holkamp, J. L. Wright and P. Joseph, and known as the soliciting committee. These men got busy at once with the telephone and personal calls, with the result that up to noon Tuesday of this week the amount of contributions had reached the sum of $6,035.04, with prospects of more to follow.

The other committee appointed was composed of J. N. Hodges, W. P. Riley and A. O. Lawler, and known as the relief committee, also got busy and ascertained that Rocksprings was in direct need of a water supply, the water works system having been almost completely demolished. So with the consent of the majority of contributors to this fund, it was decided to use this fund for replacing the waterworks plant, and it is understood that no better use could be made of this fund.

It is certainly gratifying to those most interested to note the response made to the call for assistance in this awful calamity to our neighboring town. The contributions were made unhesitatingly and with the spirit of the true giver.

The list of contributors up to Tuesday noon, and the amounts set opposite the names, is given herewith:

C. OF C. SECURE TWO TRAINING CAMPS

Through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce two foot ball training camps will be located in the vicinity of Junction, beginning about August 20th of this year. Mr. Smith of the Winters High School foot ball squad was in town Saturday afternoon making final arrangements for his squad of thirty-five men. They will be camped while here on the Roy Blackburn ranch on the South Llano River.

A coach training school will be conducted on the J. L. Wright ranch below Junction, at which it is expected at least 75 foot ball men will get their pre-season training and foot ball instruction. This will bring to us more than a hundred men and it is hoped that other teams who have been invited to be here will also be our guests for pre-season foot ball training.

DOTTIE FLEMING

Miss Dottie Fleming was born on South Llano, near Telegraph, August 30, 1909, and died in San Antonio, Baylor Hospital, in early morning of April 14, 1927, having been removed to that place after the Rocksprings tornado.

Deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fleming, both of whom preceded her in death. After the death of her mother she made her home with her aunt, Mrs. Hydrie Phelps, until last year when she went to Rocksprings to live with her sister, Mrs. Gus Henderson, and attend the Rocksprings school.

Funeral services were held in Junction last Friday, conducted by Rev. J. A. Dekle.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Henderson and two children, Raymond Clayton, and Lemuel Edward, were killed in the tornado. One son, Gus Henderson, is in the Baylor Hospital, reported in a serious condition.

Dottie Fleming is survived by four brothers, Troy, Lacey, Ira and Lemuel.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Jetton and little son, Ennis, were weekend visitors in London.

LAF-A-LOT CLUB

A bridge was given Tuesday evening at the Hankins home, with Miss Lois Hankins as hostess, honoring the members of the Laf-a-lot Club and a number of friends.

Honeysuckle and roses were used for the pretty decorations. The tables bore the picture of a dainty old-fashioned girl.

Mrs. Dorothy Westmoreland won the club prize, an old-fashioned girl lamp shade. A similar trophy went to Mrs. Guy Wynne, who made high guest score. The cut prize, a small old-fashioned girl tape measure, was won by Mrs. A. L. Mudge, while Miss Ruth Beasley was consoled with a miniature old-fashioned girl lamp shade.

Mrs. Wynne's solo, "You're Just a Flower From An Old Bouquet," was much enjoyed.

Chicken salad, potato chips, nut bread sandwiches, olives, saltines, cake and iced tea were served and the plate favors were colonial bouquets made of candy.

MERRY WIVES

Mrs. Ellis Brown complimented the Merry Wives Club and a number of friends with a bridge at the residence of Mrs. Homer Livingstone, last Thursday afternoon.

Beautiful red roses gave a note of decoration to the rooms. Mrs. C. T. Holkamp made high club score and was presented with a pair of decorated candlesticks. Miss Lois Hankins received the guest prize, an atomizer, while Mrs. Omar Wright was consoled with an Easter rabbit.

Tuna fish salad, saltine flakes, potato chips, olives, maple nut cake and tea made up the refreshment menu. Dainty little baskets filled with candy and ornamented with Easter decorations were the plate favors.

Ground was broken Monday for the Hospital which is to be erected on the lot diagonally across the street from the Powell Motor Co. Lumber is also on the ground and the work of construction will begin at once and pushed to completion.

BLUEBONNET CLUB

(Delayed from last week)
Tuesday afternoon a group of little girls met at the Hodges Hotel with little Misses Brownie and Blackie Motley as hostesses. A sewing club was organized at this time which has been named the Bluebonnet Club. The following officers were elected: Brownie Motley, president; Madeline Ragland, secretary; Blackie Motley, treasurer, and Tommie Jones, vice-president.

Jello and little cakes were served at the close of the meeting. Those present besides the above named were Juanita Cowert and Neva Sorrell.

GRANDMOTHER'S PARTY

The ladies of the Baptist Missionary Society enjoyed a most profitable meeting at the home of Mrs. S. B. Kindrick, with Mrs. Kindrick as hostess. The program and meeting was in honor of the grandmothers.

Cake and iced grape juice were served at the close of the afternoon.

MENARD PUTS ON SHOW IN JUNCTION

The Menard Amateur Theatrical Company billed Junction last week for a date on Monday night of this week, playing a benefit for the Rocksprings tornado victims. Mr. E. G. Lockley of the Le Roy Theatre furnished the house and split 50-50 with the company, each half going to the sufferers from each of the two towns.

The play, "A Little Bluff Goes a Long Way Sometimes," was staged and directed by Mr. Henry Reeves of Menard; the actors each portrayed the character represented to the entire satisfaction of the audience, and as a whole the play was well rendered and received.

There was no admission charge; the public was permitted to give any amount it saw fit, and the proceeds amounted to $39.58, one-half of which went into the local fund for Rocksprings relief, the other half went to the Menard fund for the same purpose.

CHARLIE BAKER

On Friday of last week, following the tornado at Rocksprings, the remains of Charlie Baker were brought to Junction for interment.

Charlie was born in Junction, February 22, 1893, and was reared in this section. He had been in the restaurant business in Rocksprings for two years, and he was one among the many who were killed in the tornado. The remains were laid to rest in the Junction Cemetery Friday, April 15, at 10 o'clock, Rev. J. A. Dekle officiating.

The deceased is survived by one brother, Joe Baker, and three half brothers, Frank and I. W. Baker, and G. W. Moody, and three half sisters, Miss Etta Moody of Rocksprings, Mrs. Henry Taylor of Junction, Mrs. Noie Schriers of Sonora.

The many friends of the family will join with the Eagle in extending sincerest sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Miss Mary Dan Wilson of Sonora visited Miss Lois Hankins this week.

Sallie Buys a Bookshop

Thankful returned and I knew by her flushed face that something had gone wrong.

"What did the book dealer say?" I queried. "d'd you make a date for us to go down?" I had made up my mind that I was going to own that shop.

"A terrible thing has happened," she replied. "I told you that the Russian's wife was a Parisienne and that she was most unhappy here."

"Yes, yes. Go on," I urged.

"Well," she continued so slowly that I thought she would never get to the point, "this wife was highly temperamental, and so she became impatient with waiting and has already returned home." Thankful had the air of one making a startling announcement.

"Well, I must say I don't see anything so terrible in that."

"But," she continued, "you haven't heard it all. She eloped with another man!"

"Oh-h," I exclaimed, "if your book-man loved her, then that is too bad."

"Not only that, but I believe all that they had on earth was hers. So now I don't know what he will do. Neither does he. I suggested that he sell you the shop and help run it with us. We could use his ability for he is one of the most cultured persons I have ever known."

"Let me see if I get this straight. The man who owns the shop will continue in his place of business only I shall be the boss." I smiled, for in spite of myself, the idea amused me very much.

"Yes," Thankful replied, "for, you see, it will take some time for the new shop to become a paying proposition and in the meantime he will have money on which to live."

"Yes, I understand," I was serious again. "I wonder if he loved her very much. Did you ever see them together?" I asked.

"Oh yes, on several occasions. We had mutual friends. She was from a wonderful family but she was also terribly spoiled. I have spent many congenial hours in their apartment and they have been here for tea many times."

"Who was the man in the case?"

"I'm sure I haven't the faintest idea. But I'm quite sure if someone came along she liked better she would not hesitate to leave him, just as she did her husband here. As I said, she is thoroughly selfish and would not hesitate to follow her emotions in any case."

"Did her poor husband seem all broken up?" I wanted to get the whole situation thoroughly in my mind before we went to meet the interesting gentleman who had simultaneously lost his fortune and his wife."

"No, not especially," Thankful replied, "I believe he married her because he was grateful to her and because, as she often said herself, she 'set her cap' for him."

"How do you know so much about them?" I still could not reconcile the fact of Thankful having such an intimate relationship with a couple who seemed so unlike her own conservative friends.

"They brought something into my life that was thrilling and bright," she declared with a far-away look in her eyes, "and though I never say anything about it, Sallie, one does get tired of—oh well," glancing around at the cupboard which held the newly-made jam, "putting up jelly and making cakes and pies."

"Why, Thankful, you're human!" I danced over to her and gave her a friendly little squeeze. "I never would have suspected it. Now I know we're going to have fun running this shop. Go get your hat! For I positively refuse to wait," I declared.

Sallie Visits "The Studio"

From the moment we arrived in front of the book shop I knew it was no ordinary place. Thankful opened the door and we walked into a cozy room lined with row after row of deluxe editions, softly lighted with old parchment shades through which the light fell on fine binding of antique vellum, Turkish Morocco and crushed levant. Over the whole was that intangible odor of books which Thankful had declared she liked so much and I also detected a faint Russian incense which stirred my senses and carried me back into the past. The walls of the room had been papered in scraps of Cubist paper and there were several hundred patterns of various sizes and shapes. The effect was at once attractive and bizarre. A few original etchings, one by Pennell, ornamented the walls and on a railing were a few choice pieces of poetry and brasses of antique design.

An Oriental rug covered the entire floor and here and there were a group of hand-carved walnut chairs, richly upholstered, and foot-stools which gave one the feeling of being a guest in a charming home. The place was altogether unique and exceeded my greatest expectations.

Increasing Use of Figs

The United States Department of Agriculture says that it is estimated that 9,995,000 pounds of figs were preserved in Texas in 1926 as compared with 4,481,000 pounds in 1925 and 2,360,000 pounds in 1924. In 1926, 18 fig preserving plants were in operation in the State compared with 12 in 1925, and 6 in 1924. It is estimated that the total acreage of figs in the Gulf Coast country of Texas in 1926 was 16,200 acres. For No. 1 figs the growers received an average of 6 cents a pound in 1924, 5 cents in 1925, and 4 cents in 1926, the price dropping along with the increase in production. If Texans want to help a growing Texas industry they should buy Texas-made fig preserves, and there is nothing better that can be eaten. They are not in the same class with the almost tasteless jams and preserves of the Northern variety.

Help the Cotton Mill Industry

The Texas Legislature let die on the calendar, along with a lot of bills that should have died, a measure exempting cotton mills from taxation for a period of years. Right now, many Eastern cotton mills are looking for new locations where conditions are favorable and inducements are offered. Texas needs 2,500 cotton mills where it now has only 25. Other Southern states have been exempting these industries from taxation for a number of years to compensate them in part for moving. The Texas Legislature should busy itself in offering every inducement possible to build up the cotton manufacturing industry. This should be a special work for the special session.

Another Growing Town

Pecos has raised $13,000 with which it has bought a site for a $150,000 hotel to be built right away by an El Paso hotel man. The site was given as a bonus to secure the hotel. A splendid investment this is for Pecos, and it shows that Pecos is the fine town—the prosperous town, growing town, the Pecos Enterprise has been depicting it.

Seeing Texas First

It is said that out Marfa way, the tourist parks are even this early in the season hardly able to take care of the tourist business coming that way, but that, foreseeing the influx of summer tourists, provision is being made to make all who come comfortable. Unless all signs fail the Davis mountain section of Texas is going to attract more tourists this year than have gone out that way in any previous five years. Texans are beginning to find that they should "see Texas first," and they are going in great numbers to those places that show a real interest in having them come.

Cotton Dress Movement

The Dallas County Federation of Women's Clubs is going to put on a cotton styles show. Prizes are to be given for the most attractive cotton dresses costing not more than $1.50, and it is said that all the clubs in the country will be represented in the show. This is a good idea that might well be extended to every county in the State. Dallas has no copyright on the movement.

Little Theatre Movement

The Little Theatre or Community Theatre movement, which has been growing in popularity so rapidly in Texas is on the way to end as speedily as it grew popular unless something is done to check the advancing prices charged patrons. When first organized these home talent companies charged a small admission fee, never more than $1.00 and often as low as 25 cents, but there is a growing tendency to charge as much for these amateur plays as the professional companies charge for copyrighted productions. The high prices tend to make the audiences exclusive, and not the popular community gatherings of the early days of the Little Theatre movement.

Coolidge to be Invited

President Coolidge is to be invited to attend the Austin State Exposition to be held some time in the early fall to meet the Governors of all the other Southern States or as many of them as accept the invitation of the Exposition to be its guests. Along with these, Governors of all the states of Northern Mexico are to be invited. It is an ambitious program that is being planned and one that will draw large crowds if it is fully worked out and thoroughly advertised.

Big Bridge Celebration

It is announced that the Trinity river bridge connecting Freestone and Anderson counties will be completed in July and arrangements are already being planned for a monster celebration. The need for this bridge has been felt not only by the people of these counties, but by thousands of other people who have had occasion to try to get across Trinity anywhere in that section of the State after a rain. Texas is badly in need of a road and bridge program adapted to the daily needs of the people.

Organization Worth While

South Texas onion growers have learned some costly lessons. Like people in some other lines of business they have learned that it does not pay for every onion grower to do his own marketing in his own way. The growers in Webb, LaSalle, Frio, Dimmitt, Maverick, Zavalla and McMillin counties, where most of the onions are grown unite this season to control the sale of the 3,000 cars to be shipped from that section, restricting the shipments to meet the demand. If Texas producers would handle all their products in this sensible way there would be less complaint about prices.

East and West

Although Borger continues to get the most "notoriety," Cherokee county in East Texas and Brown county in Central West Texas appear to be attracting the most attention just now from the real oil operators. The oil development in both these counties is just now so inviting that the operators are kept in a quandary as to where to spend most of their time and are keeping the roads hot. There is a rumor that a regular air travel route is to be established between the two fields to speed up the travel. Don't conclude, however, that the oil interest is dying in other parts of the State. These counties are just the present centers of interest.

Another Trinity Project

Permission has been granted T. H. Harbin, of Waxahachie, to make a survey to determine the feasibility of diverting sufficient water from the Trinity to irrigate 90,000 acres of land. Of this, 50,000 acres are near the crossing of the Texas-Midland Railway at Lock and Dam No. 7; 30,000 acres are adjacent to the lands of the Trinity Farm Company between the East main forks of the river; and 10,000 acres are between Elm and West Forks. Watching Texas development is easy, but one has to hustle to keep up with it.

ANNOUNCE LIST OF PRIZES FOR PAINTINGS

The coming competition will close January 15, 1928. Prizes will be awarded as follows:

For the best painting in oils based on the theme of Texas wild flowers, open to competition only by artists resident in Texas: First prize, $1,000; second prize, $500.

For the best paintings in oils depicting Texas cotton fields, open to competition by all artists: First prize, $1,500; second, $1,000.

For the best paintings in oils of Texas ranch life, open to competition by all artists: First prize, $1,500; second, $1,000.

All the foregoing are purchase prizes.

In addition to the purchase prizes, it is provided that 10 additional paintings are to receive honorable mention, and that to the painter of each of these 10 pictures shall be awarded a prize of $100, which shall not purchase the picture.

Further details, entry blanks and rules of the contest can be had by writing to the San Antonio Art League, Witte Memorial Museum, San Antonio, Texas.

MILK POWDER

The Merrell-Soule Company makes what is known as "klim."
That signifies reversed milk, as klim is the word milk spelled backward. And likewise it is milk made backward. Sweet butter, or butterfat and water, properly mixed, becomes milk.
It is interesting to see these two compositions emptied into a machine. The wheels start going around and the stream that comes out of the spout end is a conversion of butterfat and water, by a system of regulated currents of heated air and other processes. The net result is machine-made milk.

Of course the Merrell-Soule Company does not sell milk. It sells "klim," which is convertable into milk. The concern recently sued the Northland Dairy Company for infringements of its patents, and it has lost its case in the Supreme Court. The defendants claimed that the spraying of milk in a desiccating chamber was an old practice, and on that point it won.
History shows that the chemists and the scientists have been taking milk apart and putting it together for so long a time that milk powder and unscreambled milk is not very new.

How to Help the Backward Child

Backward children may not be defective children. By the latter is meant children born with defective minds. Their brains are lacking in quality at birth. Brain quality is believed to be determined by inheritance, or by the quality of the brains of one's ancestors, while one's education and training are determined by environment. If a child is defective, it is too late to complain, or to try to explain. The only thing to do to prepare the unfortunate to compete with his fellows in the battle of life is to begin early to make the best of a bad bargain. A standardized mental test will determine the child's capacity to learn, and perhaps disclose some special aptitude like music, basket making or tool manipulation. The school problem is therefore to adapt the training to the capacity of the child, and to give him individual guidance. Obviously the defective child must have more daily care than the normal child, a duty that devolves upon the mother first, the father second, and the brothers and sisters third. There is established in the home a school of special instruction, though composed of one pupil. It must last twenty-four hours of the day, beginning at getting-up time and not closing even at bed-time; for many sub-normal children are bed-wetters, for example; in which case what is lacking in pride must be supplied in watchfulness. It is established that much may be done by subconscious treatment, as well as by suggestion in waking hours.

Later, at the onset of puberty, defectives sometimes are degraded, in their habits, slovenly in their dress, profane in their speech, and debased in their sex feelings, becoming harmful associates for boys and girls of younger age. They are not to be blamed for some of their practices, as they have not the capacity to form moral judgments, nor can they ever hope to have it. While in their training much patience and forbearance must be used, yet experience shows that the fear of punishment is a potent and useful agency as a corrective. The same is true of the lower animals.

High grade defectives are known as morons, a term defining the mental and not the moral rating, for a moron is not necessarily a harmful person, but one who can not make comparisons, deductions, analogies, or do much thinking. He learns to do by doing, so that his daily tasks are determined by routine. His learning consists of habits. Morons make good janitors, care-takers, watchmen, yard men, and even tool men, provided superiors do the thinking and planning, and then interfere as little as possible with their daily tasks, for they can not break the habits once established.

"Intellectual Immoralities"

Twenty-five kinds of "intellectual immoralities" have been enumerated by Milton Fairchild, Director of the Character Education Institution of Washington, D. C., in an effort to constitute a verification of plans for human welfare. A method to determine those in the individual has been worked out on scientific lines by the Institution. Among these "intellectual immoralities" are the following:

Carelessness in observations, "sloppy work."

Slovenliness in logic, fantastic explanations.

Confusing opinions with knowledge.

Contentment with "discussion."

Wavering interest, flitting attention, attracted by peculiar superficialities.

Opposition to proof of another's theories because of jealousy.

Impatience, unwillingness to proceed step by step through a research.

Indulgence in dense verbiage for the sake of appearing superlearned.

Popularizing tentative generalizations for the sake of personal publicity.

Resort to the authorities, or to sarcasm and ridicule, against data, arguments and verifications.

Character Urges

Mr. Fairchild lists the following under the above heading:

Adjustments with environment—the normal child wants to find out how to get satisfaction out of life and to avoid dangers.

Abilities to do things—wants to learn to do the things others are seen doing.

Activities in organizations and teams—wants to take part in all that is going on.

Associations in clubs and societies—wants to join, and to organize socially with others.

Appreciation of beauty and art—seeks pleasure through the discovery of beauty.

Friendships and loves—craves intimate friends and wants to express personal affection.

Knowledge—likes to learn new facts about people and events and things.

Power and influence—wants a chance to be the boss.

Personal qualities and manners—at heart desires to be a gentleman, a lady.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM AUSTRALIA

Some weeks ago Miss Mary Frances Hodges, teacher in the local school, had some of her pupils write letters to pupils of schools in Australia. Junior Stevenson wrote to a pupil of Gympie, Australia, school and in due course of time, received the following letter in reply:

High School, Gympie, Queensland, Australia. March 2nd, 1927.

Dear Coke:

Gympie is situated on the Mary River about (80) eighty miles from its mouth. The population of Gympie is about (7,000) seven thousand and gold was discovered in 1867 by James Nash. Its original name was Nashville but it was changed to Gympie on account of the peculiar kind of stinging tree.

The chief occupations are banana growing and dairying, since the gold has ceased to pay. I go to the Gympie High School having won a scholarship.

Gympie is surrounded by hills and it is also a very pretty place especially when it is in flood.

I shall be going to another gold mining district by name of Croydon, North Queensland. If you wish it you can keep up a correspondence from there.

We have nine (9) subjects which are, Latin, French, algebra, arithmetic, grammar, geometry, geography, chemistry and history.

I am also enclosing a photograph of the Gympie Court House.

We have nine teachers and nine grades.

Those three postcards in your letter were very interesting. It must have taken some skill and trouble to have made those souvenirs.

I will also give you my new address.

Yours truly,

W. F. D. Hansen, Court House, Croydon, North Queensland, Australia.

PHI BETA KAPPA ELECTS THIRTY-TWO MEMBERS

In an article from the Daily Texan giving the names of the students elected to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa, of the University of Texas, there appears the name of Miss Flora Eckert of Kimble County, and we reproduce herewith an excerpt from the article:

"Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholarship society, elected 32 members from the junior and senior classes Thursday afternoon in the office of Dean Benedict. This exceeds the number elected last year by one member. Last year five men and 26 women were elected; this year there were 11 men and 21 women chosen.

"Phi Beta Kappa, honorary academic scholastic fraternity, was founded at Washington and the University of Virginia about 150 years ago; the second chapter was founded at Yale one or two years later. A chapter was established at the University of Texas in 1904.

"The selections are based upon scholarship, except in the case of alumni members, who are accorded the honor after five years standing, if they have made themselves distinguished in some particular line of work."

A PLACE WHERE ALL MAY FEEL AT HOME.

BEST OF MEALS SERVED AT ALL TIMES

HAVE YOU FIGURED THE COST?

The smallest electric refrigerator costs $325.00. Even if current and repairs were free here is what it would cost you every year: Interest $26.00 plus depreciation $32.50 equals $58.50.

The highest amount spent for ice in a Junction home last year was less than half $58.50.

A block of ice never gets out of order.
