City has job openings, several are critical

The city of Pampa is looking for a few good people.

There are currently 10 job openings with the city, according to Human Resource Administrator Julia Wood. The openings are in several departments and entail various types of work.

Applications for the following positions are currently being accepted: Three school crossing guards, one full-time police officer, one full-time water distribution technician, two full-time heavy equipment operators for the city landfill, one full-time telecommunications operator for 911 dispatch, one full-time building maintenance position, and one part-time library clerk at Lovett Memorial Library.

All applicants must have at least a high school diploma or have passed a high school equivalency exam. All must pass a drug screening test in order to be hired, Wood said.

"The ones we are most desperate to fill are the heavy equipment operators, dispatch, and crossing guards," Wood said. The heavy equipment operators will need to have a commercial driver's license, or CDL, she said. Applicants may still be hired for those positions and be given a certain amount of time to obtain their CDLs.

Anyone interested in applying for employment with the City of Pampa may go to Room 304 of City Hall, 201 W. Kingsmill, and pick up an application. An applicant may apply for more than one opening at the same time, Wood said.

The City of Pampa offers competitive wages and benefits, plus stability, she said.

"The biggest benefit to working for the city is the benefits package. We offer health and life insurance, paid sick leave, paid holidays and vacations, and retirement benefits through the Texas Municipal Retirement System," Wood said. "These are good, stable jobs where you can stay until

Heard-Jones location housed several theaters

By KERRI SMITH

Heard-Jones Health Mart has been in Pampa since 1961, when they bought out Cretny's Drug at 110 N. Cuyler. The store stayed at this location until 1964, when they moved into the new building they had built next door at 114 N. Cuyler. This is the current location of the drug store and fountain.

Some people in Pampa may not be aware that this location has a rich history. Two theaters held residence at this address and thousands of people enjoyed watching movies there for many years in the early to mid 1900s. These were the Crescent Theater and the elaborate LaNora Theater.

The Crescent Theater was opened at this location in the 1920s by Howard A. Gilliland, according to Pampa News articles and research done by Eloise Lane. Gilliland moved from Nebraska to Mobeetie and then to Pampa in 1919.

The Crescent was one of the main sources of entertainment for Pampa residents during this time. The movies seen there were not accompanied by sound tracks, but instead by a player piano in the room. Howard's wife, Nora, worked with him at the theater. The Gillilands often had dances at the theater. Young people could enjoy dancing to the piano music played by someone in the orchestra pit.

In 1929, Nora had a gall bladder attack while on a trip to North Dakota and had to undergo emergency surgery in a small town with limited equipment. She died there at the age of 40.

The Pampa News reported on May 16, 1930, that the Crescent Theater was destroyed by fire in the early morning hours. The fire was so intense that the firefighters had to be assisted by volunteers to battle the blaze.

The elegant LaNora Theater was located where Heard-Jones Health Mart currently resides. This theater was in operation from December 1930 to March 1959 when fire destroyed the building.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the care and support you have given our family during the illness and death of our husband and father, Jack White. We felt such an outpouring of love through the many cards, calls, and personal visits. You have been so generous in bringing food, sending flowers, and making donations in his memory. We appreciate those who braved the ice and cold weather to attend his funeral service. We feel blessed to be a part of such a wonderful community.

With sincere thanks,

Betty White

Rick and Kathy Amerson

Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair.
 Perhaps you sent a funeral spray,
 if so, we saw it there.
 Perhaps you spoke the kindest words,
 as any friend could say.
 Perhaps you were not there at all,
 just thought of us that day.
 Whatever you did to console our hearts,
 We thank you so very much,
 whatever the part.

THANK YOU,

Bush to propose tax break for buying health insurance, limit some tax benefits

By DEB RIECHMANN
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush will propose in his State of the Union address a tax break for people who buy their own health insurance and a limit on how much coverage individuals can receive tax free at work.

The proposal to be announced Tuesday offers a tax deduction to people who purchase coverage and urges those with generous plans to either embrace cheaper insurance or pay taxes on part of it, according to a Bush administration official familiar with the proposals.

If passed by Congress, the plan would be the first time that workers could get a tax break for buying their own insurance. At the same time, it would be the first time that some employer-provided health care benefits could be taxed.

Bush also will announce steps next week to take some federal money now going to hospitals and institutions and give it to states for programs to reduce the number of uninsured people.

The cost of health care is growing more than two times faster than wages, making it harder for families to buy insurance and for employers to sponsor a health benefit for workers, Bush said Saturday in his weekly radio address.

"Our challenge is clear: We must address these rising costs, so that more Americans can afford basic health insurance," Bush said. "And we need to do it without creating a new federal entitlement program or raising taxes."

Further details of the two proposals were to be announced in the State of the Union address.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity so as not to pre-empt the president's speech, would not disclose the amount of the proposed deduction or the top amount of coverage from employer-sponsored plans that would remain free of income and payroll taxes.

"The tax code unfairly penalizes people who do not get health insurance through their job," Bush said. "It unwisely encourages workers to choose overly expensive, gold-plated plans. The result is that insurance premiums rise, and many Americans cannot afford the coverage they need."

He said health insurance needs to be treated more like home ownership.

"The current tax code encourages home ownership by allowing you to deduct the interest on your mortgage from your taxes," Bush said. "We can reform the tax code, so that it provides a similar incentive for you to buy health insurance."

There are an estimated 46 million to 48 million people in the United States who are uninsured at some point during the year.

"Most of the uninsured are people who are working and they've got a little bit too high of income to qualify for Medicaid or other government programs. If they buy health insurance they have to pay for it entirely out of their own pocket," Dr. Mark McClellan, former administrator for the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services and former commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, said in a telephone interview. "This would be a significant amount of new help for them."

William Galston, a domestic policy adviser to President Clinton and a fellow at the Brookings Institution, said making health insurance more affordable for people on the individual market is a good idea. But he said he is worried that the proposal, taken by itself, could make it harder to argue for a more comprehensive measure for widening health care insurance to cover many more people.

'The current tax code encourages home ownership by allowing you to deduct the interest on your mortgage from your taxes. We can reform the tax code, so that it provides a similar incentive for you to buy health insurance.'

Your Life. Your Memories. Our Priorities.

Many families today build a "Wall of Protection" around their home to protect their loved ones to insure against the costs of major medical, home and auto expenses. These decisions are made to insure our families are secure "IF" something comes our way. Families that have PRE-ARRANGED their cemetery property have eliminated the "When Death" portion of the wall. This is something that is inevitable, so why not plan for "When" and complete the "Wall of Protection" for your loved ones and give your home the Peace of Mind they deserve.

the theater, informed his home office of the Griffith Amusement Co. in Oklahoma City about the fire and loss. Officials from that company called Akers a few hours later and said "that an architect had already begun work on specifications for a fine new building in keeping with Pampa's remarkable growth."

On Dec. 29, 1930, the LaNora Theater opened and was billed in the newspaper as the "Panhandle's most elaborate movie house." The theater was named for Gilliland's deceased wife, Nora. The film shown opening night was "Morocco," starring Gary Cooper and Marlene Dietrich. Admission was 10 cents for children and 50 cents for adults.

The LaNora was an elegant theater with 1,100 plush upholstered seats, air conditioning, gas heating and Frigidaire cooled water fountains. It was decorated with red designer carpets, plaster walls and red velvet drapes with gold braids. There was a special cry room where mothers could take their fussy children and still watch the movie through a viewing window. Lounging rooms were available where one could smoke and sit on a divan or in a green rocker.

The screen was made of a special cloth that was covered with millions of tiny glass beads. It was perforated to allow the sound from the speakers to come through the screen. This was exciting since the previous theater showed only silent movies. The stage was large enough that it could be used for vaudeville shows when the screen was drawn.

On July 7, 1958, Gilliland was injured in an automobile accident west of Pampa. He was taken to Highland General Hospital where he later died from his injuries. He was survived by his second wife Ruth, a son, Alfred, and two grandchildren.

Tragedy again struck this location on March 23, 1959, when the LaNora Theater was gutted by early morning flames and was a total loss. The fire was believed to have started shortly after midnight. Thirty-two firemen fought the blaze which was described as "the worst fire in the history of Pampa." The roof was burned away and the steel beams were bent from the heat.

There was no indication of how the fire started and the loss was estimated between $150,000 and $200,000. Adjoining businesses, Ed Cleveland's Southwestern Life Insurance and Kennedy's Jewelry Shop had smoke, heat and water damage. Cretney's Drug also sustained water damage. Luckily, no one was injured in the fire since it occurred when the theater was closed for the evening.

The theater was not rebuilt and nothing was at this address, 114 N. Cuyler, until Heard-Jones Health Mart decided to build a new building at this location. They moved into the new store in 1964 from next door, where they had been operating after buying out Cretney's Drug a few years earlier.

Bill and Ramona Hite own and operate Heard-Jones and are proud of the historic roots at this location. The basement of their store, which they use for storage, was the orchestra pit for the LaNora Theater. Bill Hite has been a registered pharmacist since 1967 and has enjoyed filling prescriptions for Pampa residents over the years.

This drug store is the only one left in Pampa that has a fountain in the rear of the store. Diners range in age from the older retirees that enjoy coffee there to the young high school students that enjoy grabbing a quick lunch during their break from classes. The fountain is open for breakfast and lunch everyday with a different lunch special daily.

Bill Hite said that the busiest day is Saturday when they offer a dine-in hamburger and chips for 99 cents. Another big draw is the freshly baked pies that are different each day.

There are not many stores in Pampa where you can buy a birthday card for a friend, a puzzle for your child, a six-pack of soda, decorations for each holiday, get a prescription filled and have a grilled hamburger, fries and a home-made piece of pie.

Chester Andrews

Mary G. Andrews and family wishes to thank you for the many expressions of love and kindness during our recent loss.

God looked around his garden and found an empty place. He then looked down upon this earth and saw your tired face. He put his arms around and lifted you to rest. God's garden must be beautiful; he always takes the best. He knew that you were suffering, he knew you were in pain, He knew that you would never get well on earth again. So he closed your weary eyes and whispered "Peace be thine". He then took you up in Heaven with hands gentle and so kind. It broke our hearts to lose you, but you did not go alone, for part of us went with you the day God called you home.

retirement. As long as we have a city, we're going to need employees. If you're looking for something long-term, this is the place to be."

Kathy Cota, manager of Panhandle Worksource, 1224 N. Hobart, has also noted more job openings than job applicants.

"We're seeing more jobs than people," Cota said. "We definitely have a shortage of applicants. It's probably primarily a result of the oilfield."

There are currently 79 job openings listed with Panhandle Worksource.

The agency, with offices across the Panhandle, is co-sponsoring a job fair in El Paso on May 23 to help area employers and potential employees connect.

"We're getting ready to send some employers and community leaders," Cota said. "We're trying to attract people to Pampa."

This is not the first time the agency has sought to bring new workers to the area.

"Last time, 1,200 veterans were being released from the military when we did this," Cota said.

Deadline to sign up to attend the El Paso job fair is March 5.

Job applicants who have a skill are in shorter supply than those who are unskilled, according to Veronica Tarango, staffing coordinator of Innovative Staffing Solutions, 1224 N. Hobart. Both Innovative Staffing Solutions and Panhandle Worksource have their offices in NBC Plaza.

"Any shortage has been mostly to our skilled positions and people with experience," Tarango said.

Viewpoints

Let's step back from smelly affair and get some air

If it were not so comical it would be pathetic.

The ranting and raving of Rosie O'Donnell and The Donald Trump reached an excruciatingly ridiculous level before it died down last week.

They took potshots through the media, insulting each other like veteran sailors.

The whole sordid mess started when The Donald, who now owns the Miss Universe Organization which includes Miss USA, one of those goofy beauty pageants where pretty young women parade around in high heels and swim suits, came to the rescue of the current titleholder, Tara Conner, who has an apparent drinking problem.

Instead of stripping her of her title after she was seen intoxicated in public, he gave her a second chance, and O'Donnell thought that was ridiculous. Why, she reasoned, should someone like Trump, who is twice divorced, be a moral compass for a 20-year-old girl who likes to party.

Well, that set off Trump and the name-calling began. "A big fat pig," Trump said.

"A comb-over bunny," O'Donnell said.

"Slob, degenerate, not very smart," he said.

"A pimp," she said.

"A bully who is cracking up," he said.

"Snake oil salesman," she said.

"Mental midget, a low-life," he said.

"Bankrupt," she said.

And caught in the middle was Barbara Walters, the newswoman and interviewer who is an apparent friend to both of the combatants.

Walters is co-owner of a television program called "The View." It is a forum for women to discuss issues and share opinions.

After Walters did not renew the contract of a co-host named Star Jones Reynolds, she hired O'Donnell as a co-host for the show.

Trump has a show called "The Apprentice" where he fires people on the air.

Walters has reportedly been called a liar by both of the combatants.

Trump said Walters told him she didn't like O'Donnell.

Walters, on "The View" with O'Donnell, termed Trump a pathetic person.

Let us step back from this smelly affair and get a breath of fresh air. Do you suppose they knew exactly what they were getting into?

It would not be out of the realm of possibility for this to have transpired:

"Hello Rosie, it's The Donald."

"Hi Donald, what's up?"

"Ratings are not going very well, and I could soon be out of a job."

"Gee, that's tough Donald. What can I do to help you?"

"I think a nasty fight in the media would perk things up for both of us. I'm going to give that girl who drinks a second chance. You can take it from there."

"Wow, that's great. We'll have some fun with that. It will give both of us some really needed exposure."

"OK, so get started. We'll kiss and make up later on."

Of course, neither expected their mutual friend Barbara Walters to get caught in the middle.

On Tuesday of last week, Trump got a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame and said the feud is over.

"If somebody says something on the other side, I always respond. But they have really been well behaved and they haven't said anything so there's nothing to respond to," he told The Associated Press. "If the press would let it die I'm sure it would die."

"Not everybody has to be politically correct," he said. "I think that's why this so-called feud took on a life of its own, because it wasn't politically correct. In a way it's wonderful that she doesn't like me and I don't like her. There's nothing wrong with that."

Yes, there is nothing wrong with getting a lot of free publicity.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Jan. 21, the 21st day of 2007. There are 344 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Jan. 21, 1793, during the French Revolution, King Louis XVI, condemned for treason, was executed on the guillotine.

On this date:

In 1861, Jefferson Davis of Mississippi and four other Southerners resigned from the U.S. Senate.

In 1915, the first Kiwanis Club was founded, in Detroit.

In 1924, Russian revolutionary Vladimir Lenin died at age 53.

In 1942, Count Basie and His Orchestra recorded "One O'Clock Jump" in New York for Okeh Records.

In 1950, former State Department official Alger Hiss, accused of being part of a Communist spy ring, was found guilty in New York of lying to a grand jury. (Hiss, who always maintained his innocence, served less than four years in prison.)

In 1950, George Orwell, author of "1984," died in London.

Our readers write

Crime doesn't occur unless reported?

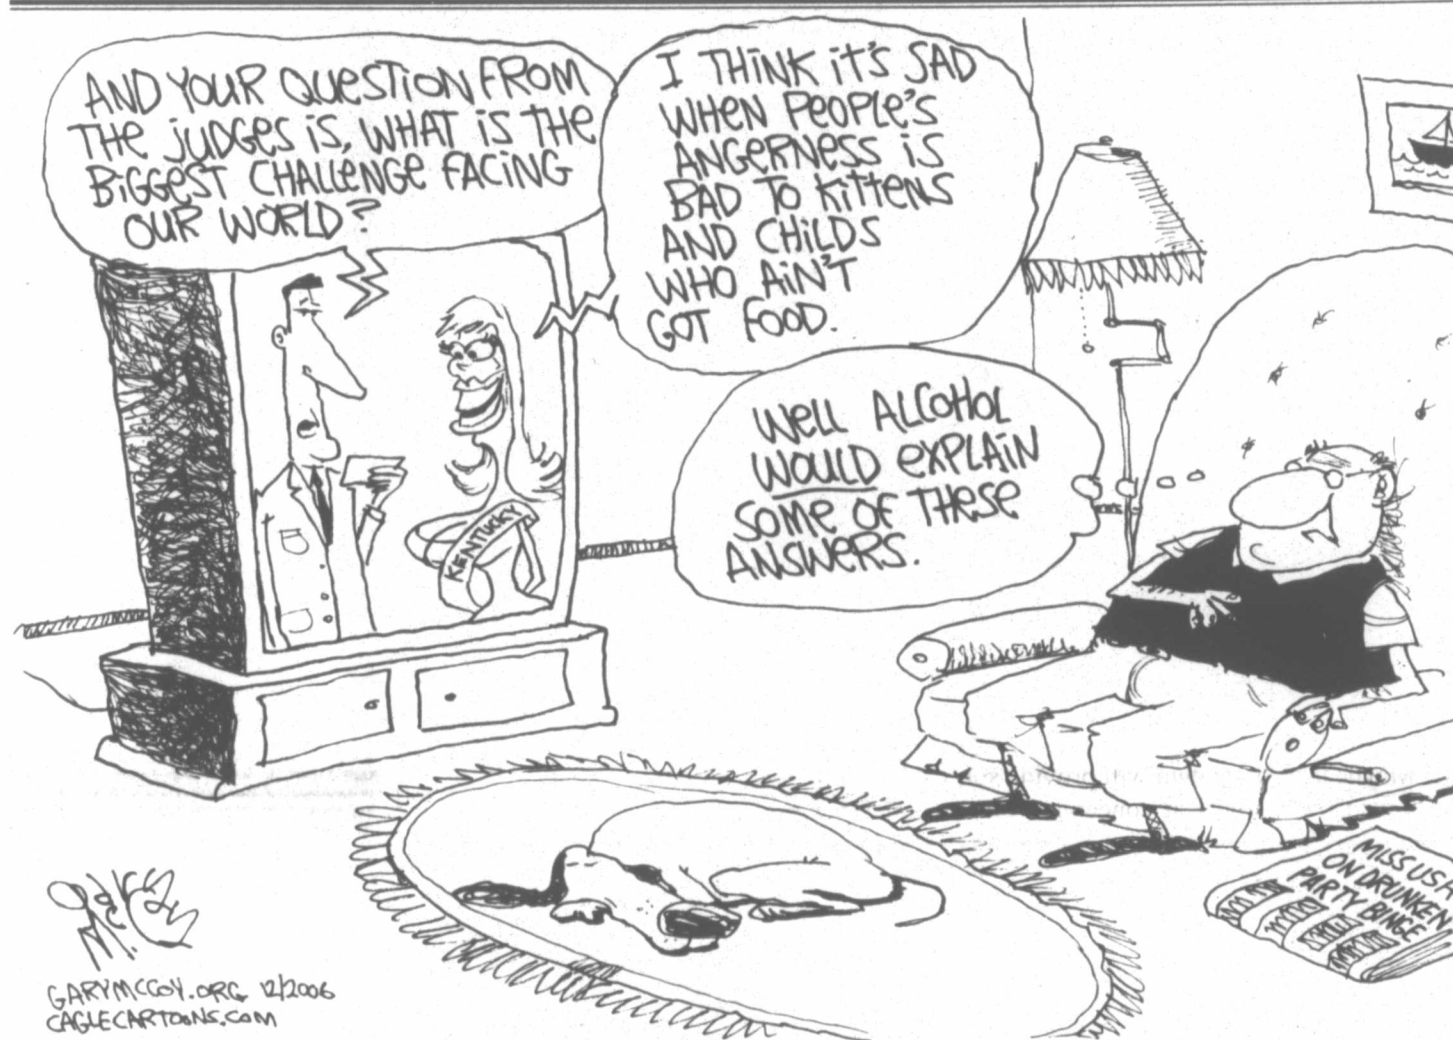

On Jan. 11 on our local Pampa radio news, I listened to claims that parents were having to escort their children from class to class in our middle school because of stalking by trouble-making students. The report was followed up with a school administrator saying the problem was not being reported as much as it had been in previous years, as if that indicated the problem was less. This is the caliber of intelligence we have directing our schools. Crime doesn't occur unless it's reported.

This type of thinking does not help the kid being terrorized and threatened by dangerous individuals. When I was in high school here, a boy at least a foot taller than me hurt me daily as his gang laughed and he threatened both amputation and possible death if I told school administrators. I believed he would do it and most said the administrators were not supportive. Ask the kids today if it's changed.

My daughter still has trauma to this day over gangs of girls harassing her in the Pampa Middle School. She's 35 now. I could share many more horror stories, but the point is that parents and school officials should not sweep the problem under the rug. Such behavior of violent kids not only sets a pattern for their own lives, but forever hurts others. The hearts of the innocent cry out for somebody to help.

Idle American: Oil and life's sharp edges

The Dallas Cowboy nation is in extended mourning for the team's new quarterback, Tony Romo. Fans are sending e-mails, signing cards, offering encouraging words — anything to help him wipe away the tears. Only Cowboy adversaries with coldest hearts fail to feel his pain.

I mean, who wouldn't feel sorry for this gamer who bobbled the placement for a chip-shot field goal that likely would have led the Cowboys to their first play-off win in a decade?

He was as broken-hearted as any athlete I've ever seen. He felt low enough to walk under a bathtub with a drum major's hat on. ...

Cowboy fans realize that this young man's spirited play, unquestioned leadership and humble demeanor revived a team that was spiraling downward.

Romo has learned a bitter lesson: They'll anoint you with oil one month, and boil you in it the next.

Internet bloggers are dissecting the botched play from all angles. One suggests: "Tony, after touchdowns in the pro bowl, go for two. ..."

One scribe had bad feelings concerning the game, figuring that it was a bad sign when Coach Bill Parcells mentioned his "very athletic" cat, Cody, in pre-game interviews.

The writer said men should never publicly acknowledge cat ownership.

And the beat goes on, including advertising on a Dallas radio station plugging 2007 Cowboy season tickets less than 12 hours after the Cowboys' loss. ...

Sportswriters today don't deal with interruptions faced a decade or so ago, when ringing phones were answered by sports desk people, even when deadlines were closing in.

Blackie Sherrod, Dallas Morning News retiree who now is said to be perfecting the art of "curmudgeonery," gets my vote (and those of many others) for best sports columnist — ever. Sherrod, almost 60 years in the business before retiring at age 83 four years ago, recalled how gamblers used to "bug" sportswriters, hopeful of getting tips to help them out in wagering.

He told of one rare admission: "I couldn't pick my daddy out of a Chinese parade if he was on the front row carrying an American flag."*

A recent e-mailer raised this question: "Are Cowboy Bradie James and New England Patriot Tom Brady related?" Sounds like another question posed years ago about possible kinship of Joyce Brothers and the Smothers Brothers. ...

Sometimes both athletes and broadcasters get things backwards.

Following Seattle's one-point victory over Dallas, Seahawk Jordan Babineaux, the cornerback who tackled Romo from behind — a couple of feet away from the

El Paso Times on crime-fighting agencies being cash-poor:

In its first few days back in session, Congress figuratively has been beating itself on its chest to celebrate the progress it's made. But the celebration might be a bit premature in several areas, not the least of which in importance is the funding for some federal agencies that fight crime and terrorism, according to a recent article by The Associated Press.

Government, after all, is essentially a big business. Businesses have to watch the bottom line and occasionally the economic situation demands implementation of such tools as hiring freezes.

However, when the business of government has to do with national security and public safety, care must be taken in using cost-cutting measures that might impinge on the ability of the agencies to do their jobs.

Prime concerns right now include the FBI, the Drug Enforcement Administration and Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives.

Congress hasn't approved the Justice Department's 2007 spending request, and so the Justice agencies are being funded according to what they were getting in last year's budget. There's a hiring freeze at DEA and BATFE. Do you suppose there's a "hiring freeze" in the ranks of narcotics traffickers, gun runners and terrorists? Probably not. In fact, hiring freezes at federal law-enforcement agencies is probably some of the best news the bad guys could get. There's not a hiring freeze as such at the FBI, as reported by the AP. But hey, a rose by any other name...

FBI Assistant Director John Miller said, "We're not in a hiring freeze, but for the time being, we are only filling those jobs that are essential to operations."

There's an ominous tone to that. Lawmakers can pat themselves on the back all they want for passing ethics rules and a rise in the minimum wage and for bracing the administra-first-down marker — had this ringer: "Desperate measures call for desperate times."

A few hours earlier, Dallas Mavericks analyst Bob Ortel got things backwards, too; he referred to star Dirk Nowitzki as the "cowbell." His partner, Mark Followill, gently corrected him with "bell cow." (I guess getting the cow in front of the bell is no worse than getting the cart before the horse. ...)

Maybe this sports item will provide solace for Cowboy fans. It concerns a brain factory in California called Caltech. The little college, with perhaps the stiffest entrance requirements in the nation, plays Division III basketball. The other night, the Beavers thrashed Bard College by 29 points for their first division win in a decade. Put another way, it ended a string of losses numbering 206.

In conference play, it's even worse. Caltech hasn't won a league game in 21 years, and the coach thinks chances for a league win this year are slim. Clearly, neither Caltech nor Bard includes dunking as an entrance requirement. But on this historic night, the math guys put away the poets. ...

Americans tip their hats to the University of Florida — the first NCAA Division I institution ever to win successive major national championships.

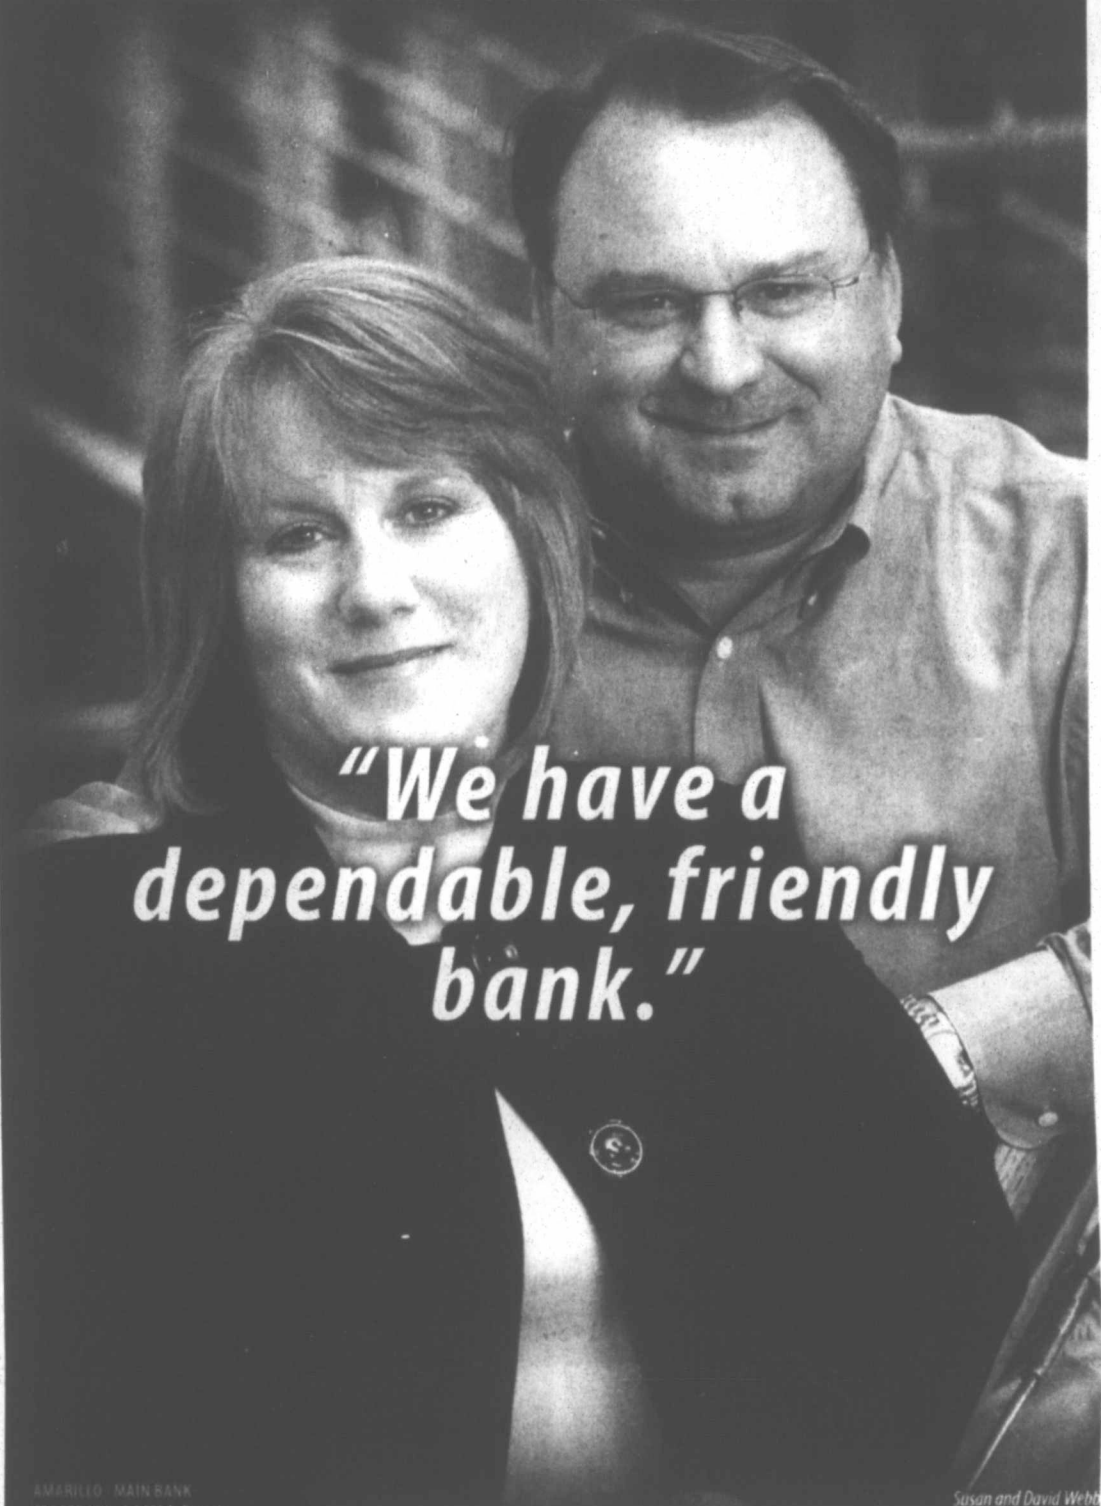

First it was the basketball team last April, and now the Gator gridiron guys have accomplished the same feat, upsetting vaunted Ohio State in the final bowl game of the year.

Seems to me his mom may have misnamed Urban Meyer, the feisty Florida coach. It should be "Rural" after the country lickin' his team put on the Buckeyes.

(*Sherrod and I share two commonalities. Both are graduates of Howard Payne University, and both had the same English teacher. Needless to say, Sherrod, who holds an honorary doctorate from his alma mater, was the better student. Finally, this admission: I think Dr. Sherrod's quote about the inept "picker" was paraphrased at the time, and it certainly is this go-round. ...)

tion on its Iraq war policies. But failing to fund those Justice Department agencies is not only folly, but potentially dangerous folly.

Violent crime is on the increase across the nation. Terrorism remains a growing concern. U.S. national security and interests are being challenged in all corners of the world, from North Korea to Iran to Africa. Border security is of huge importance. Narco-trafficking continues unabated.

Now is not the time to ignore funding for those federal agencies that protect us from both domestic and international threats.

Maryland Democratic Sen. Barbara Mikulski heads the Senate Appropriations Committee panel that oversees spending at the Justice Department. She blames Republicans for the delays in funding.

OK. Whatever. Lawmakers can play the blame game if that's what melts their butter. But they should also approve the Justice Department spending before something really bad happens and another kind of blame game has to be played.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am a friendly, happy, well-rounded student. I am president of my class in medical school, currently a 4.0 student and top-ranked in my class. I have a wonderful life. I am artistic, intelligent, attractive, very successful in work and at school. I have a lovely apartment, a new car, fulfilling hobbies, great friendships, and a fiancé who is kind, loving and supportive. I seem to have it all. In fact, I do ~ and I feel guilty about it. I had an unhappy childhood coupled with a low-income household growing up, and now I feel as if this happy life is too good for me. I know I earned most of what I have ~ I worked two jobs as an undergraduate and have been a dedicated student my entire life. Yet I still feel undeserving. How can I be happy about my happiness? -- DOESN'T DESERVE IT IN LOUISIANA

DEAR DOESN'T DESERVE IT: To use the vernacular, it may take some couch time and the help of a psychotherapist. If I had to take a guess, I'd say your feelings of unworthiness relate to your unhappy childhood ~ or, possibly that you were able to overcome your background while others in your family were not. Please start ASAP because, for someone who has accomplished as much as you have, you deserve to enjoy the psychic rewards of what you have achieved.

DEAR ABBY: I am crazy about a girl at work. I'll call her "Marsha." Marsha is very nice, but she never wants to socialize after work. She doesn't go out with the other men or women either. She always has a weak excuse ~ she has a cold, her dog is sick, etc. For two years Marsha has promised that we would go bowling; however, it has never happened. I would be happy to go out with her as a friend, in a group ~ on any condition. How can I get her to take the next step in socializing? -- "JACK" IN RENO

DEAR "JACK": Has it occurred to you that Marsha might already be involved with someone? It could also be that she prefers to keep her personal life and her business life separate. Whatever her reasons may be, after two years of polite refusals and postponements, it's time to take the hint and transfer your affections elsewhere. It appears that she's not interested in you in "that way."

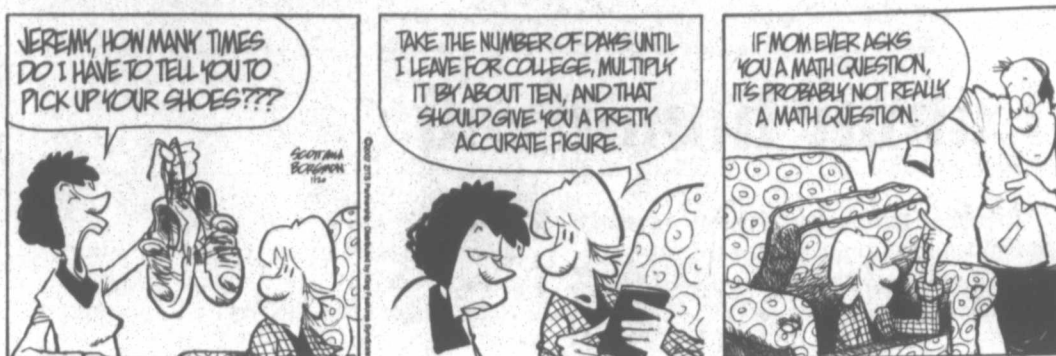

DEAR ABBY: For five years I have exchanged letters with a wonderful pen pal. We are both females in our early 60s and have a lot in common. We trade recipes, bookmarks, etc. Reading her letters has been a delightful experience. Recently she got her letters mixed up, and I got one that was meant for a close friend of hers. When I read it, I realized her life is not at all how she has described it to me! Do pen pals lie because their chances of being found out are slim? I now realize our relationship is based on lies. Why would she deceive me? -- DECEIVED AND ANGRY IN QUEBEC

DEAR DECEIVED AND ANGRY: I have heard of this happening in online relationships, less frequently in pen pal correspondence. If I had to hazard a guess, I'd say that in writing to you this woman has been able to enjoy an idealized fantasy life that is probably far happier than her reality. The person who can best answer your question, of course, is your pen pal. (If the recipes were good ~ look on the bright side!) P.S. If you're curious, return her letter with a short note explaining that she must have gotten her envelopes mixed up and see what her next move is.

Tobacco center receives grant

AMARILLO — The Tobacco Dependence Center at The Don & Sybil Harrington Cancer Center recently received a $5,000 grant from the Texas Medical Association. The 2006 Texas Medical Association Foundation John P. McGovern Champion of Health Award is intended to aid in the continuation of public health and science programs.

Named after Dr. McGovern, president and chairman of the board of the John P. McGovern Foundation, Houston, the award is supported by a permanent endowment that he established at TMAF.

Through Dr. McGovern's generosity, projects that further TMAF's mission and Dr. McGovern's longtime commitment to health promotion and disease prevention will be honored by this prestigious annual award.

The Tobacco Dependence Center at The Don & Sybil Harrington Cancer Center provides a comprehensive tobacco cessation program that incorporates counseling, education and support groups to individuals or groups that wish to quit the use of tobacco.

For more information concerning the tobacco center, call (806) 463-7848.

Texas Farmers Union gearing up for convention

DALLAS — Texas Farmers Union will gather for its 105th State Convention Jan. 26-27 at Holiday Inn Select North in Dallas.

The convention will get underway with a special tour from 1-5 p.m. Jan. 26. Committee orientation will begin at 5:30 p.m. followed by a reception at 7 p.m.

Brittnee Lee, winner of the 2006 "Rural American Idol," will perform the National Anthem. Additional entertainment will be provided by Loris Galloway III and Brittany Richardson and a new "Pioneer in Agriculture" will be inducted.

The Saturday morning President's Breakfast will be at 7 a.m. During the morning, different topics will be brought by various speakers followed by a Legislative Luncheon at 12 p.m.

A seminar on the New Farm Bill will be led by Harwood Schaffer from the University of Tennessee's Agricultural Policy Analysis Center.

Policy drafting will start at 3 p.m. The highest priority policies will be:

- 2007 Farm Bill;
- Disaster assistance;
- Implementation of Country of Origin Labeling;
- Dairy policy; and
- Restoring funding for the Conservation Security Program.

National Farmers Union President Tom Buis will speak at the Saturday evening banquet, and an auction is planned to round off the convention.

Participants are urged to visit their local farm equipment, co-ops or other businesses to acquire items for the auction. Each business sponsor will be announced along with the item when it is auctioned. Proceeds will go to the union's Charitable Fund.

Seminar gets postponed

AMARILLO — Producers needing help in establishing a marketing plan for their feed grains operation in the midst of recent rising prices are invited to attend a two-day seminar, said Dr. Steve Amosson, a Texas Cooperative Extension specialist.

"Developing This Year's Marketing Plan for Feed Grains" will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Feb. 12-13 at the Texas A&M University System Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Amarillo.

The seminar was initially scheduled Jan. 22-23 but was postponed due to inclement weather.

The course will be taught by Amosson of Amarillo and Dr. Mark Waller of College Station, both Extension economists.

"The volatility in the feed-grains market has truly been remarkable," Amosson said. "The increase in ethanol production has and will change the market dynamics for years to come. It will affect the balance between industrial, feed and export use."

The course will allow producers to discuss and analyze these changes and develop a good marketing plan for the upcoming year, he said.

Producers can learn about fundamentals, technicals and seasonal trends in cash, basis and contracts, Amosson said. They also will learn to evaluate pre- and post-harvest marketing strategies and cash marketing tools, such as cover calls, spreads, storage hedging and windows, he said.

The short course is a part of the Advanced Topic Series hosted by Extension's Master Marketer Educational System, Amosson said.

A fee of $125 will cover instruction, materials and lunch. For more information, contact Amosson at (806) 677-5600 or visit the Master Marketer Web site at <http://mastermarketer.tamu.edu>.

Lady Harvesters come close to a comeback, but not quite

By JORDAN REAGAN
Sports Editor

Britteni Rice led the Lady Harvesters with 20 points against the Randall Lady Raiders Friday night, followed by McKensie East with 14, and Tamara Trevathan and Kelsie Wyatt, each with 2.

Pampa suffered a tough loss to the Lady Raiders after having defeated Hereford earlier in the week.

Rice scored 7 of Pampa's 9 points in the first quarter, as the Lady Harvesters were outscored by 6.

Significantly outscored again, Pampa had a very tough second quarter.

Less than 3 minutes into the quarter, Rice was knocked down hard and had to take some time out recovering from the hurtful fall, as McKensie East scored Pampa's only 2 points for the quarter, making the score 27-11.

After halftime, Rice and East teamed up to outscore Randall, scoring 13 points together, but as the quarter wrapped up with one last free throw from Randall, Pampa was still down, 35-24.

Less than a minute into the fourth quarter, Jasmine

Moore pulled down a perfectly unexpected rebound and drove it in for a layup, only to be fouled.

With just over 3 minutes remaining, the Lady Harvesters were catching up fast with the help of East's numerous field goals, getting up to being only 7 points behind.

Nearer to the close, Randall bombarded Pampa with one 3-pointer after another, quickly taking back a significant lead, and ending the game at 54-40.

The Lady Harvesters will take on the Lady Demons at 6 p.m. on Tuesday in Dumas.

Senior Kelsie Wyatt takes a shot over a Randall player in the fourth quarter.

Varsity boys face third district loss

By JORDAN REAGAN
Sports Editor

Following a tough loss to Hereford earlier this week, the Hustlin' Harvesters faced another district loss to Randall Friday night.

Tyler Hall led Pampa with 18 points, followed by Alex Torres with 7, Trent Harris with 6, and Shavious Kelly with 5.

Harris got the ball rolling with a field goal 3 minutes into the game, scoring 2 of Pampa's only 4 points against Randall's 17 in the first quarter.

Hall scored 9 points in the second quarter, which was wrapped up by Kelly, who sank a perfect 3-pointer with 35 seconds left on the clock.

Pampa outscored the Raiders in the second quarter, but still fell short going into halftime, 23-31.

As a wider variety of players contributed to the scoreboard in the third quarter, the Harvesters were set back even further, ending the quarter 37-47.

Though a possible comeback was still within grasp going into the fourth quarter, Randall's strong offense widened the gap as Pampa tried to play catch-up.

With just over 3 minutes left, the Harvesters had gone from 10 to 20 points behind, with the score being 45-65.

3 minutes and 2 points later, Torres ended the game with a 3-pointer with only 10 seconds remaining on the clock, making the final score 72-50.

After taking the weekend off, Pampa will hit the road on Tuesday and travel to Dumas to take on the Demons at 7:30 p.m.

Making the first goal of the game, senior Trent Harris makes a jumping shot 3 minutes into the game.

Hingis, Sharapova, Nadal, Blake breeze into fourth round

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — It was just like old times for Martina Hingis.

The former retiree easily moved past an opponent lacking the power that dominates tennis today, getting plenty of opportunities Saturday to hone her game as she reached the fourth round of the Australian Open.

Hingis' 6-2, 6-1 victory over Japan's Aiko Nakamura came on a day when Maria Sharapova, Kim Clijsters, Rafael Nadal and Nikolay Davydenko raced to quick victories and rain limited play to the two show courts, where the roofs were closed.

No. 5 James Blake had a 7-6 (6), 7-5, 6-2 win over fellow American Robby Ginepri, saving set points in the second and breaking serve six times in the match.

"Change two points and it's totally different," Blake said.

Blake roared and jumped high in the air, pumping his fist, after smacking a backhand winner on match point. He then shook hands with Ginepri, and the two chatted briefly at the net before walking off, with Blake offering a pat on the back.

"He's one of my best friends on the Tour, so that makes it tougher," Blake said.

Nadal, has played all three of his matches with the roof closed.

"I come with the rain," the second-seeded Spaniard said after beating No. 31 Stanislas Wawrinka 6-2, 6-2, 6-2. "I was in Majorca, and it was raining a lot, and the rain came back with me."

Eighth-seeded David Nalbandian struggled again, rallying for the second time from two sets down — and triple match point — to oust France's Sebastien Grosjean 5-7, 4-6, 7-6 (4), 6-4, 6-1. Davydenko needed only 2 hours to beat Fabrice Santoro.

Sixth-seeded Hingis and fourth-seeded Clijsters have had a friendly rivalry going to see who can get off court fastest in the women's draw. Clijsters won for the third straight time, by 2 minutes in finishing off Alona Bondarenko 6-2, 6-2 in exactly an hour.

Hingis considers Rod Laver Arena a second home after winning three of her five Grand Slam titles at Melbourne Park from 1997-99 and reaching the final the next three years. She returned here in 2006 at the start of her comeback from a three-year retirement.

Just as players can feed off frenzied fans, the rapid routs left the crowd unusually flat. The humidity that arrived after the air conditioning broke down also sapped the energy of players and fans alike.

"It was just a very strange feeling to be out there today," Hingis said. "The atmosphere was a little different from usual excitement, what you expect here. I think the crowd sometimes didn't really have that much to clap for."

Players aiming low at MasterCard Championship

KAUPULEHU-KONA, Hawaii (AP) — The windless conditions, perfect greens, generous fairways and reachable par 5s at Hualalai have some players thinking about golf's magic number of 59.

"It would not surprise me for someone to shoot in the 50s here on this course eventually," Brad Bryant said.

Bryant shot a 9-under 63 in the Champions Tour's season-opening MasterCard Championship to take a two-stroke lead over defending champion Loren Roberts and Ben Crenshaw heading into Saturday's second round.

Only five players failed to break par and the field averaged 68.8 strokes on the wide-open Jack Nicklaus-designed course.

Bryant, who putted just 26 times in his round, said the course feels like a par 68. He made putt after putt, birdieing six of the first seven holes, to make the turn at 30. He capped his round by making a dead-straight 58-foot birdie putt on No. 18 that seemed to roll forever across the green.

No one has ever had a 59 on the Champions Tour, but several have gotten close. Six players have shot 60, the most recent being Craig Stadler at the 2005 Blue Angel's Classic.

The 63 matched a career low for Bryant. He shot a 63 in the second round of the 1995 Walt Disney World Classic, his only PGA Tour victory.

"I putted sort of like Ben Crenshaw on steroids," said Bryant, who had 10 top-10 finishes last year, including wins in the Toshiba Classic and Regions Charity Classic and four runner-up finishes. He finished third on the money list with $1.7 million, behind Jay Haas and Roberts.

Jackets knock off Red Wings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Maybe the Columbus Blue Jackets should have more team meetings.

Coming off a shutout loss at Nashville the night before and having lost five of their last six, the Blue Jackets out-hustled Detroit 3-1 Friday night to end the Red Wings' five-game winning streak.

Dan Fritsche, Alexander Svitov and Adam Foote scored and Fredrik Norrena made 41 saves to lead the way. Foote, the team captain, also had an assist.

The Blue Jackets had a brief closed-door talk after the 4-0 loss in Nashville.

"We as players put a lot on this game," Foote said. "We weren't too happy with our play last night. We realize we have to all buckle down and do our own job. If we do that we'll be tough to beat."

The Blue Jackets, 24th in the NHL on the power play, scored twice in eight man-advantage chances while the Red Wings were 0-for-6.

Freaky Friday workout keeps football off season on their toes

By JORDAN REAGAN
Sports Editor

For the few weeks, PHS Weight Training Coach Chad Dunnam will work a special program with the football off season boys, as he has for the last couple of weeks.

The program is called Freaky Friday, and as its name implies, it is significantly unusual compared to the normal offseason routine that the boys may be used to.

"We want to use Friday as a different day, when we will have a different mentality," Dunnam said, "We work two days during the week focusing on core strength training and two days with olympic movements. Fridays will be completely out of the norm."

Freaky Friday is a ballistic resistance training program, which includes 6 different stations, each with 4 different movements through which the players rotate.

A coach is posted at each station to look over the players to prevent slacking and ensure their safety.

Everybody partners up and spends 45 seconds on each movement, 5 minutes total on each station, giving the team a good 30-35 minutes of intense non-stop training, all the while listening to classic Rick James tracks on the stereo.

The stations included are as follows:

Dumbbell Movements - Using dumbbells, players go through several movements, working upper-body strength.

Olympic Movements - Players practice movements 45-pound bars, two of which require them to toss the bar in the air.

Body Weight Movements - Using their own body weight as their equipment, the boys go through several strenuous exercises.

Beer Keg Movements - Perhaps the most interesting station in the program, players use beer kegs as extra weight while performing normal stretching or weight-lifting activities.

Medicine Ball Movements - Players use medicine balls in jumping and tossing exercises.

Manual Resistance Movements - Partners use each other as weight-lifting equipment in exercises such as squatting.

After everyone has gone through all 6 stations, the team comes together during the remaining time to participate in some sort of activity, such as beer keg relay races.

"I really enjoy the new Friday workout," junior Andy Parker said, "It's way different than anything I'm used to - especially the beer keg thing."

Freaky Friday has been implemented for a 6 week time period with the football off season program, in preparation for Spring Ball workout, which will begin after Spring Break.

As Freaky Friday will continue for the next few weeks, and as off season football will continue through the remainder of the semester, the public is invited to come and watch the Pampa Harvesters work out anytime during the week.

Practice for the football off season begins weekday mornings at 7:30 at the high school weight room.

Assistant coach Byron May demonstrates how to squat a person at the Manual Resistance station, using Jacob Davis' partner, Tanner Cochran.

Dolphins hire Cameron as new head coach

DAVIE, Fla. (AP) — New Miami Dolphins coach Cam Cameron has learned from fine coaches, including former bosses Marty Schottenheimer and Bo Schembechler, plus Bob Knight, whom he played basketball for at Indiana.

Yet perhaps his best lesson came from an opposing coach.

He was around Iowa's Hayden Fry one day when the longtime Hawkeyes' coach was asked about his offensive philosophy. Fry's response, as Cameron remembered: "Boys, we're going to scratch where it itches."

"I didn't know what he meant," Cameron said Friday night, telling the story. "But the bottom line is, you've got to take what you have and make the most of it."

That's his plan for Miami, where he'll try to succeed where Nick Saban failed. Cameron signed a four-year contract Friday and left his job as offensive coordinator of the San Diego Chargers to become the Dolphins' fifth coach since Don Shula retired in 1995.

Cameron was one of at least 13 candidates to interview with the Dolphins over the last two weeks.

"He definitely is committed to winning ... and we are committed to winning, whatever it takes, whatever it costs, we want to win," owner Wayne Huizenga said. "He wants to win and he wants to be successful. He has the same driving passion that we do."

That's what Huizenga thought when he hired Saban two years ago.

Saban left for Alabama after a 6-10 season and missed the playoffs in both years with Miami. He left behind an aging defense and a feeble offense.

"It's my job to make this personnel work and find a way to score," Cameron said.

He insisted he has great respect for Dolphins offensive coordinator Mike Mularkey, but said he will call the offensive plays.

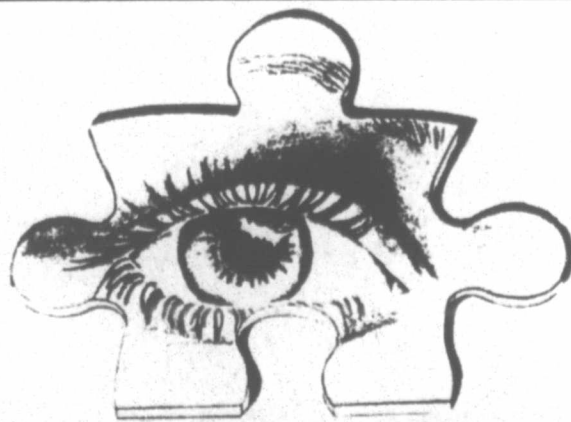

Cameron was an assistant at the University of Michigan for 10 seasons before going 18-37 as a head coach at Indiana, then directed a high-powered attack in San Diego. Led by the NFL's most valuable player, LaDainian Tomlinson, the Chargers ranked fourth in the league in offense this season and finished 14-2, best in the NFL.

An offensive-minded coach appealed to the Dolphins, who averaged 16.3 PPG in 2006.

"Good for Cam," said Schottenheimer, the Chargers' coach. "I think he'll be a very fine, winning NFL coach. He has done a terrific job for us, obviously. We're excited that he has been given this opportunity. I know that there's a lot of work for him to do, but he'll measure up to the task."

Cameron, 45, inherits one of the NFL's largest coaching staffs and general manager Randy Mueller, who will be given more responsibility under the new regime. He also will have defensive coordinator Dom Capers, who signed a new contract — believed to be a three-year pact worth at least $8.1 million — this week.

PUZZLED ABOUT EYECARE?

QUESTION: Does regular health insurance cover eye examinations?

ANSWER: Yes, Many insurance plans cover routine eye exams under the preventative care provisions of the policy. This examination includes screening for cataracts and glaucoma, and eye health examination and vision testing. If your examination is related to such concerns as diabetes, eye infection, eye injury or glaucoma for example then this examination will be considered medical and not routine. We are providers for many plans including: BCBS, Aetna, IMS, United Health, Icon, and First Care. Since coverage can vary we suggest that you call our office with specific insurance questions.

Grants open to small cities

TEMPLE — The USDA Rural Development agency is accepting applications for its "Rural Business Opportunity Grant Program" and its "Rural Economic Development Loan and Grant Program" now through March 30 and Sept. 30, respectively.

Applications for the opportunity grant program are being accepted throughout the nation. The primary objective of this program is to improve the economic conditions of rural areas. Assistance provided to rural areas under this program includes technical assistance for business development and conducting economic development planning.

The grants are open to public bodies, non-profit organizations, federally recognized tribal groups and cooperatives.

Applications for the non-earmarked funds will not exceed $50,000 or $150,000 for multi-state projects.

Applications will be tentatively scored by the state office. The two highest scoring project applications will be submitted to the national office for final review and selection. For more information about this program or to obtain an application package, call (254) 742-9780.

The purpose of the loan and grant program is to provide grants and zero-interest loans to electric and telephone companies that are USDA Rural Development borrowers not delinquent on any federal debt or not in bankruptcy proceedings.

This entity establishes a revolving loan fund that can be used for community facilities and infrastructure. The funds support financing job creation projects and economic development within rural areas.

Priority is given to projects physically located in rural areas with a population of less than 2,500 people. A third-party recipient may be a private or public organization having corporate and legal authority to incur debt.

To find out more about the loan and grant program, call (254) 742-9780.

Panhandle Professional Writers contest entries sought

AMARILLO — Panhandle Professional Writers of Amarillo has launched its 2007 writing contest. Published authors will judge the first round. The top six scores from each category will be submitted to professional, acquiring editors for final judging.

Cash prizes will be awarded to the top three winners in each category.

Entry fees range from $10-$15 for PPW members and $15-$20 for nonmembers. Submissions must be postmarked by March 1. Winners will be announced during the group's annual "Frontiers in Writing Conference" June 9 at Fifth Season Inn.

The contest is divided up into the following categories: Mainstream Novel, Mystery/Suspense/Thriller, Historical or Western, Romance, Science Fiction/Fantasy or Horror, Juvenile, Young Adult, Short Story, Nonfiction Article or Essay, Nonfiction Book, Screenplay, Memoir, Juvenile (fiction or non-fiction), Young Adult (fiction or non-fiction), Poetry Short,

Shephard, Miller Wedding

Kara Shephard, daughter of Dennis and Kay Shephard of Pampa, and Heath Miller, son of Charles and Jeannette Miller of Pampa, were united in holy matrimony Dec. 16, 2006, at Calvary Baptist Church in Pampa. C.W. Parker of Pampa performed the ceremony.

The maid of honor was Monica Eakin of Tyler. The bridesmaids were Ashlee Mills of Erick, Okla., Cassi Shephard of Pampa and Ashley Garner of Lubbock.

Standing up as best man was Evan Miller of Los Angeles, Calif. The groomsmen were Dirk Swope of Canyon, Charles Miller and Cory Dallas, both of Pampa.

Ushering the guests to their seats were Jon

Kara Shephard and Heath Miller

Shephard of Pampa and T.J. Sherill of Grapevine.

Ashley and Amber Shephard of Lefors handled the guest book.

Jay Miller of Clyde provided music.

A reception followed the service in the Knights of Columbus Hall with Jennifer Shephard of Lefors serving the guests.

Both the bride and groom are employed as Realtors at Century 21 Boston and are attending Amarillo College where Kara is pursuing a degree in education and Heath is working on his broker's license.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Cozumel, Mexico, and intend to make their home in Amarillo.

Clardy, Bolin Wedding

Mary Lee Clardy and Darrell Tyrel Bolin were married Dec. 8, 2006, in a private ceremony with Dr. Johnny Funderburg officiating. Standing in as maid of honor was daughter of the bride, K'Lee Jade Clardy.

Mary Lee is the daughter of Bill and Roxanne Giles and Ray and Jeanneta Adamson and is the granddaughter of Lyndelle and the late Floyd "Red Dog" Hatcher, Howard "Blackie" and Mattie Adamson, and Billie and Dorothy Giles.

Tyrel is the son of Tonie

Mary L. Clardy and Darrell T. Bolin

Bolin and Darrell and Cindy Bolin and is the grandson of Tommie and Jimmie Kay Williams and Lyna and the late Wendell Bolin.

This was a special day for the bride and groom to exchange their vows because it was also the groom's grandparent's — Tommie and Jimmie Kay Williams — 44th wedding anniversary.

The newlyweds are planning a honeymoon trip to Las Vegas, Nev., and intend to make their home in Pampa.

Pursley, Jackson Wedding

Mary Pursley of Yukon, Okla., married Sam Jackson of Angel Fire, N.M., on Nov. 21, 2006, in a private ceremony at the MacArthur Church of Christ in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Pampa native Pursley is a 1959 graduate of Pampa High School.

Peggy Morrison, cousin of the groom, and her husband, Frank Morrison, were matron of honor and best man. Presiding over the ceremony was Tim Lewis.

The couple plan to make their home in the Oklahoma City area.

Clarendon College gets new 'smart classrooms'

CLARENDON — Clarendon College classrooms have moved into the 21st century just in time for the spring semester to begin.

All classrooms on the CC campus and at the Downtown Education Center are now equipped as "smart classrooms" thanks to a grant the college received late last fall.

Each classroom has been outfitted with a new podium/equipment cabinet that holds a new computer, document camera, and DVD/VCR combo. The rooms also have new stereo systems, projectors, and screens.

Work began on the classrooms in December and ASI out of Pampa finished installing the new equipment prior to the beginning of the semester.

Ice fishing

Pampa News photo by MARILYN POWERS

This silhouette of a fisherman on the bank of a small pond east of Pampa appears to be trying his luck at ice fishing. Recent cold weather has frozen the pond, with more wintry temperatures in the forecast. The area is expecting a snowstorm Saturday, and another one is forecast for Monday.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Jan. 28, 2007:

You have strong opinions and dynamite solutions. Sometimes others react to your strength. Be true to yourself, and others will adapt. You overworry about associates and partners who often test your ideas and patience. Learn to detach. Let the kidlike Aquarian spirit in you out. If you are single, amorous happenings are slated for you. A friendship might be involved with the right choice. If you are attached, try not to be at odds, but recognize someone's opinions. They might be as valid as yours, but different. Understand rather than judge. You have fun with GEMINI.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ You might feel as if you are simply telling it like it is, but everyone has a bias, even the Ram! Others appear to be negative and challenging. You might be manifesting the same energy. Remember what each person means to you. Tonight: Mail, bills and phone calls.

This Week: Use Monday and Thursday for key actions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ Make it OK not to see eye to eye with someone. You and a partner have totally different perspectives about money, spending and other deeper issues. Rather than make it a big deal, learn from each other. Tonight: Think budget!

This Week: Talk and ask questions Tuesday and Wednesday. Answers will head your way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ You can be generous if you so choose. You can bypass a problem if you decide to. What are the long-term implications? Visualize and talk about what you want to create. Feelings might be as relevant as thoughts. Tonight: Wherever there is music.

This Week: Use Monday to the fullest.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Jan. 22, 2007:

Many changes head your way this year. At times, you might want to toss your hands in the air, but you will land on your feet. While you might think you know what you want, what ultimately lands in your lap might be what your heart and soul want. Get in touch with yourself. You pull the wild card financially. Be careful when dealing with funds: Money could slip right out of your hands. If you are single, you will meet someone special and tumble into a new crowd of friends. You will grow because of this person. If you are attached, agree to disagree, but don't lose sight of your mutual goals. PISCES might not be good to deal with financially.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★ What might seem impossible and difficult could look a lot different in a few days. Pull back and be an observer. You might be surprised by the realizations you'll gain. Tonight: Get some extra sleep and ignore the here and now.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ Remember the old adage: All's well that ends well. Emphasize goals, friendship and meetings. Just when you think you are about to hit the bull's-eye, someone moves the target. Lighten up and work with this situation. Tonight: Let another's judgments slide off you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ You might be the one who's responsible, yet you might not have control of others and the outcome. Someone Return calls Thursday.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ Sometimes the world might seem too challenging for the tenderhearted Moon Child. On some level, you feel very restricted. Don't let that fact color your behavior. Discussions need to revolve around what is good between you. Tonight: Need some extra sleep?

This Week: The Moon highlights you Tuesday and Wednesday.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ You could be a greater source of negativity than you realize. You might not see your role. Look at what you want overall, and you will know what to do. Hook up with a friend or two for a meal or a movie. Tonight: Pretend there is no Monday!

This Week: Monday is great; forget Tuesday and Wednesday. Hoorah when Thursday comes along.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ Take charge of a personal matter. Others will appreciate your role in assuming responsibility here. You might strongly disagree with what is going on. Whether you can put the kibosh on it might be another story. Tonight: Check in on an older relative or friend.

This Week: Meetings and achievement perk Tuesday and Wednesday.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ Hop in the car or explore a new area of town. Your mind needs a change of pace. What does that look like for you? An art exhibit might allow your mind to revel. Opportunities and invitations surround you. Tonight: Experiment with a new type of food.

This Week: Get more facts. Responsibilities build, but to a successful crescendo.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ A partner or friend has his or her eye on you. What this person has planned could be surprising. Let go of control, and you might have quite an adventure. You might need to say "no" to an important person. Tonight: Let a one-on-one talk happen.

actually tries a power play. Don't be overwhelmed by negativity. Look at the positives. Tonight: Duck out as soon as you can.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ You will be one step ahead of everyone if you detach and don't get involved in a hassle. Use care with finances. Be understanding rather than judgmental. Your empathy means the world to a key person. Tonight: Relax your mind. Where are the headphones?

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Success comes through one-on-one conversations. People in general could be reactive. Once more, you don't realize how stern you appear. Avoid all risks, as there is potential for a backfire. Tonight: Go along with another's desires.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ You might feel affected by others who definitely seem to be running the show. A family member or roommate could be touchy as well. Consider vanishing. Don't take events personally. Tonight: Do only what you want.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ "So much to do and so little time" is your motto. STOP. Think of other ways to handle your workload. Streamline your personal life as well. A friendship seems to challenge a love relationship. Don't do anything here. Tonight: An early bedtime.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ Your creativity swells forth. You feel wonderful with the many people in your life, though some can be difficult. Don't take the negativity personally. Let it pass. A financial risk or in a key relationship is a no-no. Tonight: Add your customary zest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

This Week: An important conversation Monday defines the following days.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ Acting like a recluse might be close to impossible. Making plans involves listening to what others suggest. Though you might be disappointed about plans or a call, trust that it will work out well. Tonight: Go with the moment.

This Week: Others give you an earful. Ideas are finally mutual Thursday.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Get a head start on Monday, whether it is simply organizing your desk or relaxing. Put your thoughts in order. An associate or partner might force your hand. You simply don't see eye to eye. Make that OK. Tonight: Easy does it.

This Week: Get as much done as you can before you start networking. Yes, you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ While others are stern and into their issues, you make light. Realize you easily could annoy someone with your devil-may-care attitude. Allow more creativity to flow when talking to those with problems. Tonight: Follow your sixth sense.

This Week: You might focus on responsibilities for only two days if lucky.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ Stay close to home, where you feel comfortable. How you see a situation could change radically with what you are hearing. Don't worry about an issue now. Solutions will appear on the horizon. Tonight: Be instinctive with a roommate or family member.

This Week: Move from quiet to proactive. Add a touch of creativity.

★★ Your rebellious side emerges. Others are pushy, though quite possibly they do not intend to challenge you. Be optimistic and play ostrich at the same time. You will like ducking out of the thunderstorms. Tonight: Run home. Turn on the answering machine.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Give others as much respect as possible. You might not like their reactive tone. Not everyone thinks like you do. Your instincts guide you through unpredictability and surprises. Tonight: Swap tales of your day with someone who has a sense of humor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ You might be questioning how you got yourself into the present pickle. Let it go. Just maintain your budget and stay optimistic. Others could be touchy no matter how kind you are. Don't take comments personally. Tonight: Be happy to call it an early night.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ With the Moon in your sign, you have a natural edge. Still, because of fatigue, unpredictability and an innate desire to please, you could feel frustrated. You cannot fix everything today — maybe tomorrow! Tonight: What would put a smile on your face?

'Life is so fragile,' but wounded vets are strong at sports clinic

By HUGO KUGIYA
AP National Writer
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — In the dining hall of the U.S. Olympic Complex, instantly recognizable speedskating champion Apolo Anton Ohno sat at a large, round table, talking to some unrecognizable young men who had gathered to meet him after the dinner rush ended.

On this night, it turns out Ohno was the ordinary guy. Around him were men who, leaning to one side, wearing baggy shirts, sitting quietly with their hands in their laps, only looked ordinary.

One of Bill Wright's legs is mangled, but at least he has both of them. Anthony Smith's right arm is missing and he doesn't have much of a hip anymore, just a mass of bone-hard scar tissue. Luke Murphy's one leg, if you can still call it a leg, is burned and shriveled and held together by a dozen screws and a series of rings that look like scaffolding.

They are not Olympians, or hopefuls, or even athletes just yet. They are soldiers, or at least they were once.

"We trained hard, too, but we didn't win a gold medal," Murphy, 25, an army sergeant, told Ohno.

The meeting, during which they talked about their hometowns and classic cars, seemed to earn the skater's awe.

"It was an honor for me," he said.

After Ohno left, Murphy explained, "I just wanted to meet a gold medalist."

The occasion for the meeting was the Paralympic Military Summit, an expenses-paid sports clinic for wounded veterans, most of them still patients at Brooke Army Medical Center near San Antonio, Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D.C., or the James A. Haley Veterans Administration Medical Center in Tampa, Fla.

The summit is a taste of the life of an Olympian, a chance to sleep and eat like one, to get instruction in the same facilities, to compete in an event or two, to test-drive their new $30,000 prosthetics, to tease and cheer and make small talk, to feel, for a few days, like life hasn't changed all that much.

Murphy described the purpose of the weekend as the vague but important need to "get stuff straight in my head."

"It's weird to see people back home doing the same things they were doing before the war," Murphy said. "You know, going to bars, getting drunk, stupid stuff. Nothing's different. Life is so fragile. That's why it's good to be able to come here."

Since the start of the Iraq war, almost 20,000 soldiers have been injured. More than 500 are amputees, owing mostly to insurgents' roadside bombs.

"During Desert Storm, we saw injuries related to tanks flipping over, or driving a Humvee too fast, or friendly fire," said Cathy Williams, a physical therapist at the Tampa VA.

"We're seeing a lot more amputations because of the kind of ballistics used," said Robert d'Angelo, a physician's assistant in the Amputee Center at Brooke.

More soldiers than ever, about 90 percent compared to about 70 percent during the Vietnam War era, are surviving their wounds thanks to better armor, advances in field medicine and the swiftness with which the wounded are transported to hospitals.

Some of these survivors are candidates for the U.S. Paralympic team.

The first Paralympic Games (short for Parallel Olympics) were held in 1960, and the first winter games followed in 1976. They are held at the same time and in the same place as the regular Olympic Games.

Often confused with the Special Olympics, the Paralympics began in 1948 as a sports competition for wounded British veterans, held on the lawn of a hospital in southern England. Although the games started as a vehicle for soldiers, the vast majority of Paralympic athletes today are accident victims, cancer survivors, or those with birth defects.

The Paralympics are governed the same way as the regular games. There are 22 summer sports, 4 winter sports. Each sport has different categories to accommodate the range of disabilities. Swimming alone has 12 categories. The competition is fierce and top-notch.

For the U.S. Olympic Committee (of which paralympics are a division), the purpose of the military summits is to stir interest and cultivate a potentially important pipeline of athletes.

"You can already feel the difference" made by the casualties of the war, said Beth Bourgeois, spokeswoman for the U.S. Paralympics.

For the veterans, the purpose is something much more basic.

"Right now they're having to ask themselves some difficult questions," said John Register, himself a former world-class athlete, a veteran of Desert Storm, and an amputee, who helped run the summit. "They're asking, 'Who am I now? Am I still a father? Am I still a husband or wife?' Sports help put answers to some of those questions."

Register, 41, lost his leg 12 years ago as the result of a freak accident unrelated to the war; he suffered a severe hyperextension of his knee while running hurdles and severed a major artery.

"Sports helps you test what's inside," Register said. "Hopefully they'll eventually see they are not that much different than before. This will help speed up that process. Family, religion, friendships, it all gets tested."

Advocates for the disabled predict Iraq veterans could account for 10 percent of the 500-member Paralympic team in 2012 in London.

Thus, the bonding and rigors of the Paralympic Military Summit — which range from having a piece of red velvet cake in the Olympic complex cafeteria with Apolo Ohno to a competitive game of sitting volleyball or even a crash on the first turn of a wheelchair relay race.

That is what happened to Josh Stein that weekend a few weeks ago on an indoor track at the Air Force Academy. He narrowly avoided taking down another contestant. He survived the spill just fine, discovering he is more durable than he thought after losing both legs above the knees in a bomb blast.

In the group at the summit, there are many types.

"If you're dull, nobody's going to like you," said the 23-year-old, who drew a face at the end of his thigh where the rest of his leg was taken. He also severely injured one arm.
