Hog Contracts Not To Eliminate Feed On Cotton Acres

Ruling Says Feed On Cotton Acreage Not To Exceed Past Two Years

Give Particulars

County Agent Urges Interested Farmers To Visit Office For Details

Farmers may plant feed or foodstuff for their own use (not for sale) on government cotton rented acreage—and still sign the Corn-Hog Reduction plan, according to announcements today.

The amount which is to be planted is limited, however; the farmer entering the agreement may plant feed, not to exceed the amount planted on his 1932 or 1933 acreage, the choice being left to the farmer as to which year he will not exceed in order that he may choose the year in which he had the largest number of acres.

No feed on corn rented acres, in accordance with the reduction plan, may be planted, and the only thing which can be planted on this acreage will be crops for permanent pasture, including alfalfa, clover, etc.

Feeling that this change of interpretation on the cotton acreage will make much difference in the opinion and actions of the local farmers, John O. Stovall, county agent, made the following statement:

"All farmers that are interested in making the Hog and Corn contract and have attempted to make out a contract, but failed to complete the job on account of question of using the rented acres, come back to the County Agent's

Jack McLaughlin For County Clerk

Jack McLaughlin this week authorized the Leader to announce his candidacy for the office of County Clerk of Collingsworth County, subject to the action of the democratic primary in July.

After being solicited by many friends, both farmers and business men of this county, I have decided to enter the race of County Clerk.

I feel that I am qualified for this office, having done active clerical work for nine years. For the past eight months I have been enployed in the Collingsworth County Agent's office, and in this capacity have met many people and have always tried to serve them courteously and efficiently. In addition to a high school education and two years in college I graduated from one of the South's leading business schools.

I feel that I am fully qualified to capably perform the duties of this office and if elected, I promise the people of this county, a courteous and fair service.

I expect to personally call on as many voters as possible before the election. I am basing my campaign upon my ability and will appreciate the consideration, influence and vote of the people in the coming election.

Dodsonville Trio Injured; Pressure Cooker Explodes

Lid From Cooker Hurls Jerry Martin Into Wall; Ladies Badly Burned

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Martin and Mrs. W. F. Vaughan, living near Dodsonville, were severely burned about the face, head and shoulders last Friday when a canner exploded in an attempt to remove the lid while canning beef in the Martin home, Friday afternoon.

Lid Is Blown Off

The accident occurred when Mr. Martin, thinking the pressure had gone down, loosened the screws, the lid blowing off, knocking him backward, and bruising and scalding him badly. Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Vaughan (who were standing by were also scalded by water and hot grease. A physician was called to the scene immediately and announced their burns were severe and painful but were not serious.

Mr. Martin suffered the most serious injuries of the trio, due to the fact that he was working over the cooker and received the full effect of the explosion, when the cooker top hit him squarely and hurled him into the wall. In addition to bruises, he was also severely burned by the hot steam.

Gauge Fails To Work

The kitchen was completely covered with steam and grease, and in addition to their injuries, Mr. and Mrs. Martin also lost the entire quarter of beef (which they were canning.

It is supposed that the cooker, which had been sitting for some time to cool, still contained almost full pressure. The gauge, which showed it cool enough to have relieved the pressure, was thought to have hung on a piece of the beef, which was being cooked for canning, and for that reason failed to register the correct pressure of the cooker.

Oklahoman Thinks Leader Is Good Paper

Last Week John Bonner, manager of the Ritz Theatre, was visiting in Hollis. A local business man of that town said to him: "Say, I do believe that Wellington Leader is the best weekly paper I ever saw anywhere. I wish we had a paper like that over here."

In relating it Mr. Bonner said: That may not be quite as good as showing a man from Missouri, but considering it was an Oklahoman speaking about a Texas paper, it is just about as strenuous a test.

County Pioneer Laid To Rest Here February 27

Norman Kesler Came To This County Twenty-Eight Years Ago

Funeral services for Norman Kesler, 81, were held from the First Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon, February 27, at 2 o'clock with Rev. Greenwood officiating.

Mr. Kesler was widely known over this county, having come here 28 years ago. When he arrived here the county had no railroad and he came to Memphis on the train and crossed into this county in a wagon. He bought his farm in the Bowen community for $10 an acre and has resided there since.

Wellington was only a village when Mr. Kesler arrived here. The town had only two brick buildings and the livery stable business was one of the most flourishing in

Hope Expressed For Paving Highway In County During Year

Expressing a hope of completing the paving through this county during 1934, W. R. Ely, this week wrote John Puryear, representative, every effort would be made toward the completion of the road.

"We are anxious to complete the paving through Collingsworth County and will undertake to let a contract during the year," Judge Ely wrote. "If we get an additional allotment of Federal money, it is certain that we will concentrate our efforts on the completion of No. 4. In event we fail to receive more Federal funds, we will do the best we can with the small amount of state funds available."

Work on the project north from Wellington to Shamrock was also in good shape and progressing nicely until the recent cold weather, (which delayed road construction. The bridge across Salt Fork should be completed in approximately three weeks after the weather permits actual work to be resumed on the structure.

Willoughby Out For Marshal

Homer Willoughby has authorized The Leader to announce his candidacy for the office of City Marshal of the City of Wellington in the election to be held April 3. Mr. Willoughby is well known in this community having lived here for the past ten years. He has issued the following statement:

I am asking for the office of City Marshal, because I need the job and I believe I am qualified to fill it as is should be filled. If I am elected I will stay on the town section and attend strictly to the city's business. I will do everything possible at all times to make an efficient peace officer, and I solicit your vote and support. I will sincerely appreciate any consideration that the people may give me in the coming election.

Twenty Boys In Tennis Tourney

W. F. Decker today announced that the high school tennis entrants would begin a round-robin tournament Monday, March 5, to select a tennis team for the county meet. The five players with the highest average will be placed on the team and the players will be chosen by the percentage of games they win.

Twenty boys who have entered the tournament are: Hugo Hauter, Robert Scott, Joe Alley, Marshall Wells, Allan Rayl, Bobo Castleberry, John Powell, L. C. Hill, Estes Jones, Elmer Goforth, Buster Stafford, Silas Henry, John Ben Castleberry, Clifford Dickerson, Joe Parker, Henry Sullivan, John Roy Noles, Harold Hardy, J. A. Muncie, and Jack Powell.

Mr. Decker and Vernon Stafford will conduct the tournament and coach the teams this year.

SERIOUSLY ILL

Mrs. John O. Stovall, wife of Collingsworth County Agent, was reported today to be in a slightly improved condition, but still critical.

Mrs. Stovall has been seriously ill for the past week and is suffering from a severe case of pneumonia.

School Trustees Will Be Elected Here On April 7

Two New Members To Be Named As Time Expires For Holton And Harper

Time Limit Is Set

Candidates Names Must Be Filed With Board Secretary By April 1

Members of the Wellington High School Board met this week and appointed J. S. Dorn as election judge for the school trustee election to be held in the County court room on Saturday, April 7.

Two trustees will be named in the election to succeed Judge Holton and John C. Harper, who were appointed to fill unexpired terms.

All applications for trustee positions must be filed with R. F. Curry, secretary of the Board, and no names can be listed after April 1, Mr. Curry said. To place a name on the ticket, a petition must be drawn up and carry the names of five qualified voters.

Present members of the school board who will hold their positions through the coming year are. L. A. Manzer, president; J. C. Ford, Gibbs Glenn, John Wallace and J. D. Thomas. Next year terms of three trustees will expire, while only two are to be voted on this year.

With tax collections better than in recent years the board has stated that the Wellington schools will finish their present term on a cash basis, a policy which has been adopted and carried out by the local system, while many schools over the state were issuing scrip.

Will Vaccinate Children Friday

Dr. J. W. Harper Will Administer Serums; Nothing Definite For County

Serums for vaccinating 540 children in Wellington (arrived this week, according to the announcement of Dr. John W. Harper, city health officer, and inoculations will be given in his office Friday, March 2, between the hours of 8 and 5:30 o'clock.

The offer is available only for children who live within the city limits of Wellington and according to a health survey, conducted by the C. W. A. division, 540 children are expected to take advantage of the offer.

All vaccinations and serums will be furnished free of charge to the children, whose parents have signified that they are not able to buy serums and who desire their children to be vaccinated.

On Friday dyptheria serums will be administered and on Wednesday, March 7, typhoid serums will be given. It is possible for children to take both serums, where desired, and the days have been set different to make the vaccinations in these cases possible.

County officials stated that no definite information had been received concerning the serums for rural children, but word was expected in connection with the work this week.

District O. E. S. Grand Deputy Will Be Here March 7

Announcement was made this week that Mrs. Hildagerta Wirt, District Grand Deputy, of Canyon will be in Wellington, March 17, to inspect and help the Wellington Eastern Star. The meeting will be at Masonic Hall at 7:30. Special work will be put on and all members are urged to be there.

Mrs. Wirt will be in Dodsonville March 8 to assist that chapter.

Cold Spell Grips County As 'Early Spring' Is Joke

Old Timers Estimate Little Damage To Fruit Trees Despite Freeze

People over Collingsworth County placed another log on the fire Sunday, spread another blanket over the bed and poured another gallon of alcohol into the automobile radiator, for winter had not left at all and it was merely a February joke for Texas that spring time appeared to have arrived last week.

The cold wave hit this county Saturday evening in the form of a mild sandstorm, which rapidly subsided and turned into one of the coldest periods of this year. Tuesday saw a continuation of the cold weather and during the afternoon a light snow fell in Wellington at 3:15 o'clock with the mercury standing at 35 degrees above zero. The snow lasted for only a short period, however, and was followed by an afternoon of sunshine.

Cattlemen and ranchers received warnings from the department of agriculture to be prepared for a temperature drop of 14 to 18 degrees over the state, especially in West Texas, but no serious results were reported in this immediate section of the state as appearances Wednesday indicated some more fair weather.

Coast towns, however, suffered more serious results as high winds turned into gales and persons were driven to shelter.

Old timers estimated that little actual damage was inflicted on the fruit trees of this county, due to the fact that a limited few of them were out enough to suffer from the severe cold.

Paul Hardy In Marshal's Race

Paul Hardy this week authorized The Leader to announce his candidacy for the office of City Marshal, subject to the city election set for Tuesday, April 3.

Mr. Hardy was elected to fill a five month term before his election to the post two years ago. As a peace officer in this city, Mr. Hardy needs no introduction to the voters, having served both as marshal and deputy sheriff.

Mr. Hardy said that he would appreciate the vote and influence of his friends in the coming election and, if elected, that he would continue to serve the people to the best of his ability, working for the interests of the city and the welfare of the voters.

J. M. Holloman Buried Saturday

Funeral services for James Madison Holloman, 73, were held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Pentecostal Church with Bro. Elgin Smith and Rev. Henry West of Hollis, in charge.

Mr. Holloman was a native of Tennessee and was born January 7, 1861. He passed away in Wellington Friday, February 23, at 2:40 o'clock. He was converted at the age of 19 years and became a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. He had resided in this county for 18 years and was known as a good neighbor and a devoted father, loved by many friends including many old settlers of this section.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Holloman of Wellington. Eight children, A. S. Holloman, Melrose; J. E. Holloman, Taylor; Mrs. Mary Lou West, Sudan; Mrs. Pearl Lawrence, Mrs. W. D. Forbes, Mrs. Eddie Smith, all of Wellington; John Holloman, Borger and J. B. Holloman, Pampa. Three

Chicken Theft Lands Two In County Jail

Two negroes were held in the county jail this week in connection with the theft of chickens from Mr. Colson and Mr. Woods, both of the Bowen community, according to Geo. Corry, sheriff.

Two boys were also out on bond in connection with the theft of coal from the Pleasant Point school, and a negro was held for possession of a purse containing $104 which was lost by J. C. Doneghy. The negro reported, however, that he merely found the purse.

Last Rites Held Here Sunday For J. S. Campbell

Collingsworth Pioneer Is Buried In Pine Casket Last Earthly Request

Funeral services for John Samuel Campbell, 84, were held Sunday afternoon, February 25, from the Campbell residence with Rev. T. M. Cornelius and Minister H. V. Hendry in charge.

Mr. Campbell, who was popularly called "Uncle Sam" was well known over this county, having resided here for the past 28 years and witnessed the changes undergone in the past three decades

He was born in Obion County, Tennessee, May 20, 1849. He joined the Methodist Church when he was very young and was an ardent member, attending church until his health prevented in recent years. He was a Mason and was well known among the young people as well as old timers.

The last business in which he was actively engaged was the furniture business with W. D. Collins and he has been retired for many years. He was constable of Precinct 1 from 1906 to 1908.

On February 4, 1869, he married Rilla Luker. February 4, 1934, marked the event of Mr. and Mrs.

League Questions Will Be Answered By Local Director

Urging all students and teachers over the county who were in doubt as to any particular phase of the Interscholastic League Meet to be held here March 16 and 17, W. V. Swinburn, director, today asked that they submit their questions to him and said that he would publish the answers in the next issue of the paper.

Mr. Swinburn also stated that plans for the meet were working out and that he believed the meet this year would be one of the most successful in the history of the county. Teachers and students from every section of the county are preparing and training for various contests.

Rural High School Grouping Election Date Set March 24

Presiding Officers Named To Hold Election In Seven School Districts

J. P. Pritchard Is Buried Friday

Funeral services for John Pinkney Pritchard, 62, were held Friday afternoon, February 23, from the Goodson Funeral Home under the direction of Rev. Meredith.

Mr. Pritchard was born in Hamilton County, Texas on May 16, 1871, and had lived in this county for 22 years. He settled on a farm one mile north on the Shamrock highway. After leaving the farm he went into the real estate business and in 1912 went into the grocery business. After quitting the real estate business he sold Saxon cars and then went back into the real estate business. He was well known here having seen Wellington grow from a promising village into the center of one of the best agricultural sections in the state.

Mr. Pritchard is survived by three children, John Pritchard of Wellington; Jeff Pritchard of Oklahoma City and Mrs. Davenport Strong of Oklahoma City. Two brothers, Sam Pritchard of Temple and Henry Pritchard of Gorman. Three sisters, Mrs. Claude Burnett of Los Angeles; Mrs. Sam Whittenburg and Mrs. Will Clement. Also three children, who died before him, Joe Pritchard, Nugent Pritchard, and Bertie Pritchard. He is also survived by six grandchildren.

Pall bearers were: Ab Breedlove, Joe Compton, Jim Black, Robert Breedlove, Bud Higon andd J. L. Anderson.

Flower bearers were: Bula Bess Bell, Marianna Scott, Margaret Goforth, Lois Miller.

Interment was made in the Wellington Cemetery by Goodson Funeral Home.

Local C. W. A. Workers Face Cuts Between Present Time And May 1

C. W. A. payrolls in this county this week faced a cut of more than $500 with orders in the local office to continue cutting the local rolls 10 per cent each week until May 1, 1934. Last week 76 men were cut from the rolls, which then included 436 men. The cuts are taking place in every phase of C. W. A. work in this county and result in the discontinuation of drouth relief, ex-service men and every other phase of the work, according to Miss Katherine Boverie, administrator.

Last minute reports today requested that the rolls of this county be cut to 300 men Friday, March 3.

Future work will be confined to present projects with no prospects of new projects in this county, Miss Boverie said. At the present time the Dodsonville road is nearing completion, the portion leading south on the Memphis highway is already complete, while work is being continued on the Quail- Marella road, the Samnorwood road

SCOUTING IN WELLINGTON

Announcement has been again made concerning the resumption of Boy Scout activities in Wellington. Two Scoup Troops sponsored jointly by the Kiwanis Club and American Legion Post, flourished here during the past summer and these two organizations have again taken active steps in the reorganization of the troops for the coming summer months.

Merchants and parents of this city have been unusually progressive in Scouting as far as financial support was required—but when it came to a question of live, active interest in the meetings and hikes we have all been negligent.

Scouting means good training. Good training means good citizens. Good citizens mean a safer, saner and happier community. The 12 Scout laws read: A scout is trustworthy; A Scout is loyal; A Scout is helpful; A Scout is friendly; A Scout is courteous; A Scout is kind; A Scout is obedient; A Scout is cheerful; A Scout is thrifty; A Scout is brave; A Scout is clean; A Scout is reverent. These points, every person will agree, are indeed for the making of better citizens and the failure to follow one of them has cost many of us hours of trouble, worry or shame.

What our Scouts need is encouragement from the men of Wellington. Every boy thinks that his dad is the greatest man who ever lived. What could be finer than for a boy to accomplish Scouting feats before his Dad. Certainly occasional visits by men of this commnuity will add much interest to the Scout meetings—and will pay a just tribute to the leaders and men who are giving their time in the training of boys. It is our duty to the community as a whole to attend these meetings whenever possible—and such visits are encouraged by the boys and Scoutmasters.

FOOLISH WASTE OF LIFE

We point with pride to the fact that nearly 26,000,000 motor cars are in use in the United States, and it is something of which the country may be proud. But the further fact that these cars are now killing people at the rate of 30,000 a year and injuring 800,000 more, is almost a national disgrace.

The amazing thing is that most automobile accidents might be prevented by taking ordinary precautions. Obviously there are only two principal causes of accidents—careless driving and defective car equipment. Even the most careful driver is helpless when his car fails to function in an emergency.

It seems almost impossible to drill enough common sense into a reckless driver's head, but it would be perfectly easy to avoid most mechanical breakdowns by frequent inspections.

Pennslyvania and several other states are getting excellent results by the enforcement of compulsory automobile inspection laws, and motorists' associations are urging their members to have frequent inspections made voluntarily.

Any means whereby the present foolish waste of life may be reduced is worthy of consideration and support.

NOSE RING WEDDINGS

It may be surprising to many to know that even today among the Kamia Indians of California the wedding ceremony requires the placing of a ring in the bridegroom's nose, instead of the bride's finger.

The nose-piercing is itself a ceremonial event, and takes place some time before the wedding, the operation being performed with a wooden needle. Four candidates for matrimony must submit to this ordeal at the same time, after which they must run 15 miles, then remain four days on a restricted diet, while women nearby sing continuously. Following this the youths must go naked for a month, not being allowed to eat deer, jackrabbit or fish. Then they are all set for the wedding.

Perhaps the Kamia bride employs the ring as an aid in holding the spouse's nose to the grindstone, as many of her white sisters do without any such device.

A CHAMPION SPELLER

Notoriously poor spellers as most Americans are, once in a while there is foundone who can really spell. And such a one is 12-year-old Courtney B. Lawson of Chautauqua, N. Y., state spelling champion.

In the contest in which he won his title by spelling 350 words of unusual difficulty without a miss, the first three places went to boys, which is unusual. Girls generally rank higher than boys as spellers, unless, as a cynic remarks, they happen to be stenogprapher.

Anyway, here are a few of the 350 words which young Lawson negotiated successfully:

Auxiliary, Equinoctial, schellac, succinct, perennial, liquefy, scrupulous, infallible, silhouette, convalescent, repellent, macaroon, tyrannical, personnel, ennoble, malefactor, panacea, rihnocerous, jeopardize, portiere.

We haven't the complete list, but assume that such old favorites as Britannica, parallel and battalion were not ommitted.

Hats off to Courtney B. Lawson! He may be a great proofreader some day.

As a defense to a charge of theft, Thomas Moring of Chicago pleaded that he "had five children and a nasty-tempered wife to keep."

Wayward!

WELLINGTON

People . . . Places . . . Philosophy

By Jimmie Gillentine

The best story of the week concerns the division of a herd of cows. It is not a new story, but it may be of interest to those who have not heard it. Anyway, it is a neat problem in trick mathematics.

Best Story Of The Week

A farmer died possessed of a herd of 17 cows, of which he willed his wife one-half, his son one-third, and his daughter one-ninth. The executor of the will was stumped, but called a mathematical shark to his aid, with this happy result:

A cow was borrowed from a neighbor, making 18. The widow was given 9, which was one half; the son got 6, which was one-third; then the daughter received 2, or one-ninth. This totaled 17, the number to be divided, while the borrowed cow was left. She was returned to her owner, and everybody was satisfied.

All of which goes to show what a little figuring will do for you. Lots of young men and women will recall Bill Boston, former math teacher and principal of the local schools; he was such a good mathematician that I believe he could have figured this problem out if it had been presented to him.

Remember This Old Timer?

Every once in a while I meet someone who tells me that his training under Mr. Boston was the most valuable bit of schooling he ever received in his life—and many of them are college graduates, too. They say that they learned how to get down and reason with a math problem. Algebra was Mr. Boston's hobby and I remember how he used to figure out problems occasionally to find that the answer in the book was wrong . . . and when he go ta new book or wrote in, sure enough the answer got was invariable right. He is running a grocery store out on the Plains now—and I understand is getting along nicely. If he never does another thing I will say that he sure has plenty of friends . . . boys and girls who attended his math classes.

Reports come that two men, stranded near Plainview in the big sandstorm last week, and who could not start their car just opened both doors and rode "on the wings of the wind" twelve miles into Plainview.

A Genuine Biscuit Eater

It looks as if this Cornbread and Buttermilk eating contest of mine is going to be a success. Leonard Bumpass claims to be one of the best biscuit eaters in this entire section and will enter in the contest. One time when Leonard and Wesley McClure were batching several years ago they got real hungry and cooked up a big batch of biscuits. The idea was that the one who ate the fewest biscuits had to pay the other one's way to the show the following Saturday night. Leonard said he finally got down 19 biscuits and Wesley had put away 21 biscuits, and Leonard says, "I simply could not have eaten another biscuit."

Well, they got through and Leonard, noticing a big bulge in Wesley's shirt made a hurried inspection and found that Wesley had six biscuits crammed down his shirt front. Wesley paid the ways to the show.

But Folks, that is really eating biscuits and I believe Leonard is going to make a strong bid for the Buttermilk-Cornbread eating championship. If about ten more persons will just enter this contest we will set the date—and a nice prize will be given to the contest winner.

A Farmer With Foresight

....Not long ago I heard a man talking about what a good farmer Henry Fourmentin is, due to the fact that he always keeps his equipment and farm tools in the very best of shape. The man said that Mr. Fourmentin always got his money's worth out of farm implements because he protected them from weather and kept them in working order. Mr. Fourmentin is certainly to be congratulated upon this record, because out here in this country where the sandstorms rage and we are frequently faced with bad winter months it seems that such care would indeed be an asset to every farmer. Everybody knows that you can't do your best work with broken and ill-used tools and everybody also knows that a farmer cannot buy a ney set of tools each year . . . so the best thing to do is just to follow Mr. Fourmentin's example and take care of what we have.

That is some mighty good advice and I wish I could always follow it in taking care of my own typewriter, because typewriters, just like farm tools, are quickly ruined by being left uncovered in these sandstorms—even if they are inside of a building.

Burglars in the home of James Norris of Chicgao carried away about $1,000 worth of whiskey, but left $800 in cash undisturbed in a dresser drawer.

Robert Sogren of Duluth fired a pistol as a salute to a newly-wedded couple, shooting off a guest's finger and slightly wounding the bride.

Bruce McQuillen of Philadelphia leaped in midocean from a steamer in midocean but his cork leg kept him afloat until he was rescued.

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

More Texas history was made in the month of March 1836, than in any other like period of time.

On March 1, a representative group of Texans met in the town of Washington on the Brazos river.

Alarming news was continually coming from San Antonio that Santa Anna with a large Mexican army was invading Texas.

Colonel Travis with about 188 men was stationed at San Antonio in the old Spanish mission, the Alamo.

Travis sent a message to the meeting at Washington requesting more men and supplies.

When Travis' message was read to the convention, Robert Potter moved that the delegates adjourn and hasten to the relief of the Alamo. Sam Houston took the floor in opposition to such a move, and declared that it would not only be folly, but would be treason to the people.

This committee got down to work without delay, and the next day, March 2, it reported the draft of the "Declaration of Independence," which was unanimously adopted.

Some of the delegates had not arrived by the time the "Declaration of Independence" had been adopted, but the convention voted for all present to sign the document. It was decided to permit all the absentees also to sign it, and the original copy of the declaration contains fifty-eight signatures.

Sunday morning, March 6, the battle of the Alamo was fought, one hundred and eighty-eight Texans loosing their lives. Several hundred Mexicans were killed.

The battle began at daylight and lasted until about 9:30 a. m.

Immediately after the close of the fight, Santa Anna ordered his men to cut wood, to be used in burning the dead Texans, they were burnt at 4:00 p. m.

Santa Anna requested a Mexican that knew the Texas officers to point them out to him.

Travis was in full command of the Texas force, due to the fact that their commander Bowie was stricken with typhoid-pneumonia several days before. A Mexican soldier stuck his bayonet through Bowie, killing him on his cot.

On March 6, the same day the Alamo fell, the convention, through its president and Collinsworth, as chairman of the committee on military affairs, provided Sam Houston with formal orders to take command of the Texas Army.

On the same day that the convention adopted the "Declaration of Independence," it appointed a committee to draft a constitution. This committee worked so fast, that by the 9th of the month they were ready to report.

By 2:00 a. m. March 17th the convention had adopted the Constitution and adjourned, at this hour of the morning.

The men choosen to fill the first offices of the new republic were:

Jesus' Testimony About Himself

Text: Matt. 11:2-12:50

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Mar. 4.

What did Jesus say concerning himself? It is instructive to note that when John the Baptist, who had been thrown into prison, sent his disciples to Jesus inquiring whether he was the Messiah whose coming John had predicted, and for whom he had prepared the way, Jesus did not answer by making great claims for himself, or by speaking in any theological and fetaphysical terms, such as historic Christianity and the great creeds have used.

It was in accordance with the simple life and teaching of Jesus that he should point to the outward evidences and send the disciples back to John to report the things that they had heard and seen.

If Christians everywhere since the day when Jesus was on earth had interpreted the divine character of the Master and expressed their belief in him by emulating his example in loving thoughts and in good deeds, what a different world we should have and how much nearer the great organized forces of religion would have been to the realization of God's will!

It is not in theories concerning Jesus, but in the fact of the response to his life, that men recognize his divinity and find life in him.

It is futile for us to speak in honor of our Master except as we honor him by following him and making our likes like his. It is as true today as it was in the day of Jesus himself that the spirit of Christ is manifest in acts and works of blessing.

Those who live in the spirit of Jesus cannot ignore the blind and the deaf and the lame, the sick and the sinful. No correctness of theory, no soundness of doctrine will make our lives speak forth the glory of God and the praise of Jesus unless our words of faith and profession are backed up by lives of love and usefulness toward our fellow men.

Here in human life was the testing ground of the divinity of our Master, and here in human life is the testing ground of all who would share that divine life with him.

How accurately Jesus describes the people of his own generation, their prejudices and insistences on unimportant things, and their carelessness and preverseness in the presence of truth! Is our generation very different?

Do not the great mass of our people still cavil and romplain, and enter into controversy over unimportant things, neglecting the soul of truth and the presence of the Master who still would lead us into lives and acts of love and goodness?

Wisdom still is justified by her children.

From this picture of Jesus and his own generation, how inspiring it is to turn to Jesus himself in the prayer of thankfulness to his Father and his simple appeal to all who would find in him rest from their labors and the blessedness of bearing his yoke.

What a strange invitation it is that Jesus gives to men in his offer of rest through bearing the yoke; yet that is how rest really comes to men.

It is not in the shirking of responsiblities, not in getting away from their fellow men, from life, that men find rest, but it is in the communion that brings to men the sense of a great peace and a new strength to bear their burdens.

That is what yokes are for, to make the burden lighter and more easily borne.

The Shamrock Texan: "During the various exciting periods in small town life, organization activities are apt to be neglected. Club members, even committeemen, become less enthusiastic over their favorite clan when it necessitates countless regular meetings, much routine and work. But there is one organization in Shamrock in which routine and work play the greatest roles. Its members attend regularly, participate in its group activities with vim and are always ready to answer any call for help in civic undertakings. This is the Shamrock Municipal Band."

John L. McCarty in The Dalhart Texan: "I'm keenly interested in what I hear about the Maverick Club in Amarillo. The club, I understand, has a membership of about 450 boys and a group of business men is sponsoring it. Their idea is to take the boys off the streets and give them something to do in a busy gym or at something else. The idea is working like magic both for the boys and men. Dalhart could well have such a movement or a lot more pep put behind the Boy Scout movement."

The Hereford Brand: "Considerable interest and comment were engendered throughout Texas a couple weeks ago by the Young Democrats of West Texas when they came out flatly for sweeping constitutional reform in Texas. The people generally hope that the first is true, rather than believe that Lindberg sought publicity to cover up the contracts which have met with executive disapproval.

The Higgins News: "Don't try to tell folks what Washington would do were he on earth today. Selections From McGUFFEY'S Fifth Eclectic Reader

THE FISH I DIDN'T CATCH

1. Our bachelor uncle who lived with us was a quiet, genial man, much given to hunting and fishing; and it was one of the pleasures of our young life to accompany him on his expeditions to Great Hill, Brandy-brow woods, the Pond, and, best of all, to the Country Brook. We were quite willing to work hard in the corn-field or the haying-lot to finish the necessary day's labor in season for an afternoon stroll through the woods and along the brookside.

2. I remember my first excursion as if it were but yesterday. I have been happy many times in my life, but never more intensely so than when I received that first fishing-pole from my uncle's hand, and trudged off with him through the woods and meadows. It was a still, sweet day of early summer; the long afternoon shadows of the trees law cool across our path; and leaves seemed greener, the flowers brighter, the birds merrier, than ever before.

3. My uncle, who knew by long experience where were the best haunts of pickerel, considerately placed me at the most favorable point. I threw out my line as I had so often seen others, and waited anxiously for a bite, moving the bait in rapid jerks on the surface of the water in imitation of the leap of a frog. Nothing came of it. "Try again," said my uncle. Suddenly the bait sank out of sight. "Now for it," thought I; "here is a fish at last."

4. I made a strong pull, and brought up a tangle of weeds. Again and again I cast out my line with aching arms, and drew it back empty. I looked at my uncle appealingly. "Try once more," he said; "we fishermen must have patience."

5. Suddenly something tugged at my line, and swept off with it into deep water. Jerking it up, I saw a fine pickered wiggling in the sun. "Uncle!" I cried, looking back in uncontrollable excitement, "I've got a fish." "Not yet," said my uncle. As he spoke there was a splash in the water; I caught the arrowy gleam of a scared fish shooting into the middle of the stream, my hook hung empty from the line. I had lost my prize.

6. We are apt to speak of the sorrows of childhood as trifles in comparison with those of grown-up people; but we may depend upon it the young folks don't agree with us. Our grief modified and restrained by reason, experience, and self-respect, keep the proprieties, and, if possible, avoid a scene; but the sorrow of childhood, unreasoning and all-absorbing, is a complete abandonment to the passion. The doll's nose is broken, and the world breaks up with it; the marble rolls out of sight, and the solid globe rolls off with the marble.

7. So, overcome with my great and bitter disappointment, I sat down on the nearest hassock, and for a time refused to be comforted, ever by my uncle's assurance that there were more fish in the brook. He refitted my bait, and, putting the pole again in my hands, told me to try my luck once more.

8. "But remember, boy," he said, with his shrewd smile, "never brag of catching a fish until he is on dry ground. I've seen older folks doing that in more ways than one, and so making fools of themselves. It's no use to boast of anything until it's done, not then, either, for it speaks for itself."

9. How often since I have been reminded of the fish that I did not catch. When I hear people boasting of a work as yet undone, and trying to anticipate the credit which belongs only to actual achievement, I call to mind that scene by the brookside, and the wise caution of my uncle in that particular instance takes the form of a proverb of universal application: "Never Brag of Your Fish Before You Catch Him."

Mrs. Tucker's Recipe of the Week

MAYONNAISE

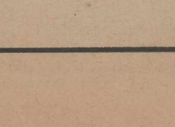

Break an egg into a bowl; add a lump of Mrs. Tucker's Shortening the size of an egg, and beat vigorously and swiftly—about 50 turns of the egg-beater—until thoroughly mixed. Add a lump of Mrs. Tucker's at a time until 2 cups have been used, beating thoroughly each time.

Add seasoning after Mayonnaise is made. Mix well ½ tsp. salt; 2 tsps. sugar; 1 tsp. mustard; and a generous pinch of paprika or red pepper. Add 2 Tbsps. lemon juice or vinegar; and stir until salt and sugar are dissolved; then pour into Mayonnaise and beat well.

If you like a sweet Salad Dressing, use one-half seasoning given above; or add any amount or kind of seasoning you prefer. Mrs. Tucker's Shortening creams so easily, and this makes such an inexpensive Salad Dressing.

Rural Colony To Be Established Close To Lubbock

Colony Will Be One Of Five In Texas; Experimental Relief Measure

LUBBOCK, Tex.—Approval of the Texas Rural Community homestead colony to be established near Lubbock has recently been given by the board of directors, according to Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological College and member of the board. This is to be the largest homestead colony in the state, to be made up of 100 families who will settle on 40 acres each.

A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, presented the proposed brief and application to the board. Dean A. H. Leidigh, Prof. W. L. Stangel, and Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, all of Texas Technological College, together with Don Jones, superintendent of the state agricultural experiment station of Lubbock, P. T. Montfort, county agent, and Miss Hazel Brantley, home demonstration agent, were instrumental in drawing the plans and carrying out the work of introducing the plan.

This is one of five to be operated in the state. Others are at Woodlake, Nacognoches, Mexia Wichita Falls. "Present indications are that this one will be established near Ropesville, 22 miles southwest of Lubbock," President Knapp stated.

Mrs. H. K. Thompson of Trinity county will be supervisor of the project. Cooperative work in canning and meat curing ,in addition to farming, will be done. A small acreage of each farm will be devoted to irrigating vegetables. Each tract is to have two mules, ... cow, two meat hogs, and 50 ...

Suitable dwellings connected with water, sewage, gas, and electricity are to be constructed. Poultry houses, storage houses, garage, and wash room are to be on each farm to complete the building requirements.

This is an experiment in relief measures and is to provide for selected families of farm experience who are not at the present time on farms and are out of employment.

Each homesteader is to buy the tracts, valued at about $3,500 complete, payable in small installments extending over 20 years. Cash income is to be derived from planting a certain amount of cotton, engaging in hog raising, dairying, or poultry raising.

The administrator of the colony is to determine the major crops to be grown, selecting those which he deems most profitable.

Additional income may be secured from such home industries as weaving, meat curing, livestock feeding, home canning, dairy manufacturing, and poultry production.

Date for occupancy has been set for May 1, 1934.

One Thing Is Sure: Mrs. Whitney's First Ministrel Won't Be End Man In Kentucky Derby

By PHILIP MARTIN

The two-year-olds of 1933 are Kentucky Derby candidates for this year—and more than likely, when the thoroughbreds are paraded to the post at Churchill Downs, May 5, a likely looking colt named First Ministrel will be the Derby favorite.

Already this horse of Mrs. Payne Whitney's has been made winter favorite — although it's rather strange, as First Ministrel won only $5945 in 1933 campaigns.

Favorites have had the nasty habit of running any place but first in Derbies the last few years. Last year Ladysman was baddyhooed, and he was beaten to the wire by Both Broker's Tip and Head Play. But keepers of the winter books are acting on the idea that they can't be wrong all the time, and there's First Ministrel at the top.

The second choice horse, odd as it may seem, won more than 16 times as much money as First Ministrel. He is Mrs. J. H. Whitney's Singing Wood, the colt that took the Belmont Futurity and $82,950 along with it last season. Both he and First Ministrel are sired by the same horse, Royal Ministrel, and both babies can go.

Third and fourth in the rating are Chicstraw and High Quest.

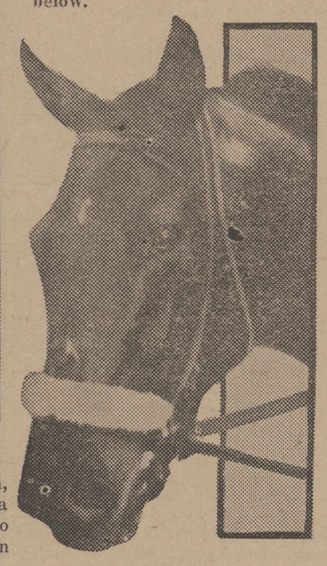

A lot of competition this year is expected to come from the fillies. Only once before in the long history of the Derby has a lady horse copped the classic, and that was when Regret romped home ahead of the field

This year, however, two great fillies, Tatanne and Mata Hari, carry threats in all four feet.

Tatanner an up a record of six straight wins at the New Orleans winter meet, and Mata Hari was the leading two-year-old gal on the tracks in 1933.

They are apt to give the gentlemen a run for the dough—which, incidently, has been sliced to a peltry $30,000 this year, due to the depression, which has been over since March 4, 1933.

Like the postman who took a hike on his day off, Jimmy Foxx, left, Connie Mack's star club wielder, has been practicing with a bat during his outing at Miami Beach, Fla. Tatanne, which won six straight races at the New Orleans winter meet and may prove a strong contender in the Kentucky Derby, is shown below.

Three surprises are in store for American League baseball fans in 1934. The Detroit Tigers are going to finish among the first three teams, the Red Sox will be in the first division, and Lou Gehrig is going to be home run king.

The first two surprises may not be as astonishing as the last—for everyone has been figuring Jimmy Foxx to be the likely successor to Babe Ruth.

But two factors enter into the build-up of Lou and the downfall of Jimmy. One is the inability of Babe Ruth to hold up his end of the batting twin act at Yankeetown and the resulting increased responsibility thrust upon Gehrig; the other, the salary slice Connie Mack has handed Foxx.

Gehrig, with Ruth an unknown quantity, is going to be in there trying for all his worth to supply the lost Ruthian punch. Foxx, on the other hand, peeved at Mack's treatment of him after he led the league in home runs for two years, may lose his enthusiasm for knocking homers for his boss.

'Twould pay Connie to give Jimmy more dough instead of lopping off 25 per cent from his pay check.

Tenant Farmer Aided Through New Federal Cotton Reduction Rulings

Believed to be the outgrowth of discoveries in some North Texas counties that some landlords were attempting to deprive tenants of their share of Federal cotton money, stringent rulings have been sent all county agents in all cotton producing States by C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section of the agricultural adjustment administration.

The rulings declare that any contracts obtained by subterfuge will not be accepted by the AAA, and that any money paid on the contracts will be subject to recovery by Secretary Wallace, whose approval is given the rulings.

Discovery recently that landlords were coercing tenants resulted in a representative of the AAA coming to Dallas, from where he investigated the violations of the spirit of the agricultural adjustment act. When he left to return to Washington, he said he would ask Mr. Cobb for additional rulings concerning the measures believed being taken in Texas.

Claims Waived

Mr. Cobb's letter to the county agents says that the administration has received copies of contracts used by certain large land holding companies and individual landowners in which the owners require from the tenant a supplemental agreement waiving the tenant's claims to any rights to receive part of the rentals paid by the Government.

"The use of such agreements in any ofrm will be construed as prima facie evidence of an intent on the part of the landowner to violate the spirit of the cotton acreage reduction contract," Mr Cobb's letter says, "and to collect from the Government that part of the cotton acreage reduction rentals that should go to the tenant, and it will be incumbent on the administration to refuse to accept contracts offered by any landowner who is making use of such supplemental agreements."

H. H. Jobson, Dallas County committeeman, said that to the knowledge of the committee comprised of himself, W. H. Coyle and Yalter Stark, no contracts have been accepted in Dallas County that would be unacceptable to the AAA. He said, however, that in accord with the instructions from Mr. Cobb, the committee is reviewing the contracts to make sure no such violations have occurred.

To Review Contracts

With 48,294 acres contracted in Dallas County in 2,469 contracts, the committee will appear before the board of review at Arlington Wednesday for a preliminary hearing.

The rulings received Tuesday by County agent A. B. Jolley and the committeemen hold that no contracts signed either by a landlord or a tenant will be accepted if it appears there before or after the signing of the contract, if such an agreement would have any of the following effects or purposes:

To cause or obligate either landlord or tenant to pay to the other his share of any benefit payments under the contract.

To change the status of any tenant for 1934, whether the tenant rents for cash or a share of the crop, or for the purpose of causing the contract to be signed by the landlord as producer in order to deprive the tenant of any part of the payments or of any other right or privilege.

To reduce the tenant's proportionate share of the crops raised on that part of the farm not rented to the Government.

To increase the rent paid by the tenant for the part of the farm not rented to the government.

To give any reason to believe that the owner or landlord has adopted any device or scheme of any sort for the purpose of depriving the tenant of his share of the payments or of any other right of the tenant under the contract.

Any contract will be subject to cancellation if the landlord and tenant have entered an agreement either before or after signing, and any payment under any such agreement out of the Federal money will be subject to a trust in favor of the Secretary of Agriculture and will be repaid to the secretary by the person receiving it, in addition to costs of collection, the secretary to have the right of collection if he deems it necessary to effect the purposes of the adjustment act.

Local Students On Honor Roll

Olson Sweat and Burnalee Beaird of Wellington were listed among those students making the honor roll at the West Texas State Teachers College for the first semester. This honor roll, according to the Registrar, Dr. D. A. Shirley, is one of the largest in the history of the institution.

In addition to having an increase in honor students, the plant of the college is undergoing several improvements at the expense of the C. W. A. $7,500,000 is being expended from the relief funds for a terrazzo floor in the main corridor, and a complete painting job for the Administration Building.

Warden Can't Get Safe Open, Jeering Convicts Won't Aid

JOLIET, Ill.—Warden Frank B. Whipp at Stateville penitentiary this week was in a delimna.

He can't open the burgler-proof safe in his office. There are any number of his guests who probably could open it, but won't.

It all started last Monday when Worden Whipp sent his chief clerk, Harry Baxter, to get some papers out of the strong box. Several hours elapsed and Baxter appeared empty-handed.

"I can't get the dang thing open," he said.

Said Warden Whipp:

"I'll do it." But he didn't.

Tuesday the prison "grapevine-system" was working and the warden started receiving anonymous and highly embarassing billets-doux. They read:

"Read up on Jimmy Valentine,"

"Use some soup," and "Try a toothpick."

Kidnap Victim

Convalescing from ill-treatment at the hands of kidnapers, Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker, is shown above shortly after his release by abductors who had held him 23 days after demanding $200,000 ransom. A nation-wide search for the victim, who at times had been believed slain, ended with his return.

By Birdie Francis

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Price have been staying at the homeof Mr. and Mrs. Homer Logston while Mr and Mrs. Logston visit with her parents in Fort Worth.

Miss Lorene Williams and little Charlene Goodson of Wellington, spent last week end with J. H. Williams and family.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Raper returned this week from Durant, Oklahoma, where they have been visiting relatives.

Arthur Saylors left for Burkburnett yesterday to attend the funeral of his nephew.

Mrs. Roy Price visited Thursday with Mrs. Kenneth Johnson.

Rufus and Elvis Francis of Wellington spent last week with Floyd Francis.

Mr. and Mrs. Opal Fisher of Childress, visited last week end with their nephews, Floyd and Loyd Francis.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of thanking our many friends for their kindness and untiring efforts during the illness and death of our darling Ruby. Their comforting words were so sweet, but we realize that time only can heal that awful wound in our sorrowing hearts.

Especially do we thank Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goodson, as they do all that lies within their power to sympathize, cheer and help the broken hearted. To know them is to love them. May God in his wisdom and Love spread a wing of protection over you all, is our prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hobbs and children.

Scientists Point To 4,000,000 Jobs From Inventions

Dispute Idea That Science Tends To Cut Down Human Employment

Four million jobs created by science were cited in New York this week by America's foremost scientists in answer to the widespread hints of the past three years that science made unemployment.

The four million was mentioned as only a fraction—probably a minor one, in the total scientific job-making.

The end of the year was foreseen in the scientific offing by one of the speakers, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, Nobel prize winner. He and Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and head of the President's science advisory board, made the principal addresses at a joint meeting of the American Institute of Physics and the New York Electrical Society.

Before the meeting an exhibit of the cavalcade of scientific jobs was given at the New York Museum of Science and Industry. Machine tools were shown as creators of 87,000 jobs; electrical industry 1,000,000; radio 100,000; motion pictures 389,000; telephone 357,000; airplanes 50,000; rayon 41,000; steamships 217,000; refrigeration 72,000; automobiles 2,400,000. These totaled 4,713,000.

It was pointed out that these new creations involve more jobs than the old lines they supplanted. Autos give jobs to more than twice as many persons as the old carriage and wagon industries.

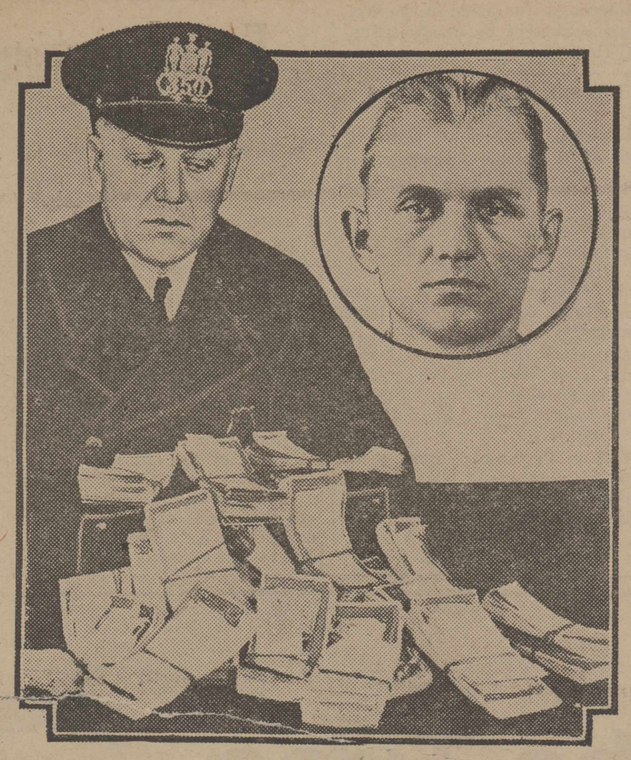

For the immense power industry no job figures were available. Likewise for cotton, except the statement that since Ely Whitney's gin cotton production increased more than 4,000 times while population went up only 31 times.

"The world's drudgery," Dr. Millikan said, "that used to be done by human slaves is now done by soulless, feelingless iron slaves, and the human being is freed for the more interesting jobs of building, running and keeping in order the machines of his creation.

"Developments in the natural sciences are rapidly rendering it inimical to national interests to embark upon an aggressive war. So soon as the jingoes have seen that light, or have ruined their nations by shutting their eyes to it, another social miracle will have happened."

Both Millikan and Compton said it is true that with new inventions there have followed losses of jobs, but they asserted these were not only temporary but that it is possible by wise planning to take care of the workers without losses.

Nab Factor Kidnap Suspect

With the capture of Basil (The Owl) Banghart, inset, said to be one of America's cleverest criminals, wanted in Chicago in connection with the kidnaping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, police found, in his apartment, $12,945 in $5 bills. A policeman is shown above with some of the money. Banghart was seized in Baltimore after a search that extended through many states.

Missing Persons Bureau Baffled By Large Number Of Disappearances

Young Girls Lead In Number Of Reported Missing Cases

The number of missing girls has grown to such an alarming total that the question has become a national problem. Nearly every village and city in the United States has its cases of missing girls.

Many reasons have been advanced for this epidemic, which is sapping the happiness of American homes, and prominent social workers and civic authorities have given the matter much serious thought, but the disappearances continue to be reported in increasing numbers from every walk of life. Exceptional publicity has been recently given to the cases of daughters of wealthy parents, but thousands of girls of less prominence receive but a mere mention in the daily newspapers. The fact that they have been swallowed up in the great unknown has become an everyday occurrence.

Why do girls run away? What impels them to leave home and lose themselves in the shadows of big cities to face unknown perils, while frenzied relatives and police search the world for them?

What is the psychology that seals a girl's lips and makes her adament to the frantic appeals of her agonized family to return?

What happens to these girls that they do not return to their homes, if able, and prefer to face the vicissitudes of life, perils and hardships rather than have their loved ones learn of their harrowing adventures?

Diverse reasons for the strange actions of modern youth have been suggested. Noted novelists have given us stories of Flaming Youth and the Restless Sex. Peculiar conditions arising out of the World War have been blamed; then the undress of the modern girls attire, the Wolstead law, automobiles and jazz.

Freakish solutions have been advanced by scientists and medical men, and enlarged thyroids and the presence of pituitary glands have been solemnly pointed to as the cause of the unrest among the new thoroughly restless sex.

Where do these countless girls go? Do they seek adventure? Tire of school? Resent discipline? Seek "careers"? Become victims of forbidden love? The subject has become a national problem.

Now comes a well known motion picture producer, Willis Kent, who has made a study of the situation for several years with a view to dramatizing the possibilities of his theme. He has produced a sensational photoplay, showing the perils and pitfalls of the modern flapper, without preachment called "The Road to Ruin" coming to the Ritz Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

In the case there are such well known players as Helen Foster, Nell O'Day, Glen Boles, Paul Page, Mae Busch, Virginia True Boardman, and Richard Tucker. This is one all talking picture that not only talks on the screen but will be talked about wherever it is shown.

Lost Dog Found Twice Through Classified Ad

There is nothing like a classified advertisement for recovering a lost dog according to a Montgomery, Ala., citizen, who recovered his canine twice from the same ad. The day after running the classified his lost dog was returned by an observant reader, but the dog escaped again the same day.

The next day another newspaper reader brought the dog back. He had read the same advertisement in the Montgomery Advertiser.

Spring Accessories

The day when a woman purchased a necklace for the sake of the nevklace alone is gone forever. Today every accessory is chosen with an eye toward its purpose in completing a fashion picture. Nothing could better illustrate that point than the sudden trend for tailored accessories which has sprung up with the fashion for tailored tweeds. A woman would no sooner think of wearing a rhinestone neckless with her tweed than she would think of wearing that tweed to a formal dinner!

Sports Jewelry

First among the type of jewelry for tweed wear and all sports wear is wooden jewelry. The introduction of this fashion was several seasons ago, and it has grown so in popularity that it is almost a jewelry classic. All wood or wood with metal is extremely smart and is perfect for the tweed picture. There are various length necklaces novelty clips and brooches, and smart wide bracelets. With three quarter and shorter sleeves the fashion, the bracelet continues to be very important.

Tailored Bags

Right next to the wooden jewelry comes the tailored handbag. It usually assumes giant proportions and becomes the kind of bag that will stand much good, hard wear. There are any number of leathers used but the smartest are those rather rough grains that are in perfect accord with tweeds. Many concealed pockets are an important feature of these bags. They have spaces within them that one would never dream could be encased in one single handbag.

Swagger Shoes

When the handbag is of grained leather, so are the shoes. There is a group of shoes which many stores class as their swaggers, so called because they are the perfect walking shoe to be worn with swagger suits. Oxfords are the leader, with the tailored one-strap and ghillie following. The ghillie is more in keeping with an active sports costume, however. Brown is the principal color in these shoes for most of the sports woolens are of a tawny cast.

Gloves For Tweeds

The past few seasons have found the fabric glove graduating into a fashion item. It continues to hold that place for spring. There are any number of good looking fabrics that are perfect for tweed clothes. But for the woman who cannot desert the leather glove, nothing is smarter than pigskin, especially if she carries a bag of grained leather. Still another choice is offered in the washable doeskin glove.

Colorful Handbags

When the good old standby leather bags have been included in the wardrobe, then smart women are turning to these colorful new bags. No color combination too bright, no fabric is too novel to be included. The Russian influence is seen in some bags that have been made of Russian peasant shawls which are in bright challis with flowers and paisley prints. Another colorful fashion is of Mexican inspiration. Made of soft suede, it is painted in brightly colored stripes of true Mexican colorings. How smart they will be with a simple dark spring dress! How unusual with an all white frock this summer. Other gay bags are made of straw cloths, or printed linens, and shantungs. They are usually of envelope shape with handle at back or top, and more often than not they are devoid of any ornamentation, being complete in their attractive fabrics and colorings. A few patent leather handbags are being sighted. This is a smart fashion to carry with tailored suits for it gives just the desired brightness.

Grain Leather Belts

There is a new leather for belts. It is pliable, slightly boarded with a slight criss-crossing of grain. It is developed in both sportive and softer styles and can do a lot toward rejuvenating any frock or adding more chic to a new one. Most of the new belts are simple in styling, the importance lying in the material and in the closing. There are many trick fastenings on belts, made of metal, gold or silver and self material. It is the smartest to match your belt to your handbag and many good stores are making this possible.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for the many deeds of kindness shown to us during the illness and death of our husband and father, J. S. Campbell.

Especially do we thank Dr. Moss who so patiently administered to his needs. We want to show our appreciation to Mr. Jack Knight who had charge of the men who came each night to sit up and to watch him. The food which was brought in and the beautiful floral offerings will always be remembered.

BUFFALO MEAT TASTY

Buffalo meat has all the juicy tenderness and flavor of the finest western beef, and is highly regarded as an article of food, says a bulletin issued by the Canadian government. In pioneer days only the tongues and part of the carcass surrounding the hump were utilized for food, but modern butchering methods have provided many choice cuts from different sections, and the palate may now be indulged with a variety of steaks, chops and roasts. The hides of the buffalo after tanning lend themselves to manufacture of many articles. North American buffalo robes and floor rugs are known the world over, while in recent years improved fur-dressing methods have produced a pelt that makes up into coats for both men and women. For warmth, durability and appearance, buffalo coats compare favorably with those made from other furs.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Glenn were Amarillo visitors Tuesday.

Director Lists Rules For Conducting Extemporaneous Speech Contest

Bq B. W. Beaird

Probably one of the most important contests of the Interscholastic League is the contest of extemperaneous speech. It requires a great deal of resourceful reading and tabulating of materials in order to be a successful contestant. It requires persistent effort on the part of the student and instills a desire for current reading. The practice of learning to think on one's feet is the principle value to be derived, no doubt. It offers to the student a training that can scarcely be gained from any of the other contests.

The work should be begun early, but if you never begin until late sometimes the work can be successfully done them. We should like to see as many entries as possible this year. The contest has improved year by year in the quality of its speakers, and we hope for this year to be the best of all.

There are two divisions in extemperaneous speech: boys and girls.

The competition in extemperaneous speech during the current year shall be based upon five general subjects, as treated in one or the other, or both of the following periodicals. The Scholastic, The News-Week. The first general subject is The New Deal. The other four general subjects will be dictated by developments in the news and have been announced during the fall months of the Leaguer.

March Is The Time to Dress Up Your Spring Advertising

March brings a definite merchandising season. It is true that the spring season opens in February, but during March wise merchants are promoting spring heavily. Everything is beginning to look and act springlike. Customers, the stores as well, know spring is the merchandising theme. With the exception of Autumn no other season offers the bountiful opportunities for profitable Advertising.

Easter comes early this year—April 1, and the merchant who delays in acquainting his customers with his new merchandise will find that he has waited too long for some of it. The firm that tells them first will sell them first, for people are hungry for what's NEW.

And The Leader is prepared to render an advertising service that will fit the needs of any store—no matter how new or resplendent their stocks may be. Two of the foremost advertising services in the world are available to furnish you illustrations that are just as new as your own merchandise. Two experienced advertising men are ready to prepare copy that will pay its own way. Start now and make March what it is supposed to be—A month of opportunity.

"A Builder In Collingsworth County"

With His White Brother, the Red Man Shares Roosevelt's New Deal

The American Indian of today looks to the U. C. Capitol for the Justice denied him for generations. Below is John Collier, commissioner of Indian affairs and true friend of the red man.

Washington at last has become a happy hunting ground for the Indian in his search for justice. After being plundered for generations of his lands and other possessions, he has found a Great White Father who has his interest at heart. And now he, like his white brother, is getting a New Deal.

Uncle Sam unquestionably has not done right by his wards. The history of his treatment of the red man makes up one of the most sordid pages in American history.

First by violent robbery and deliberate massacre, and then stealthily, under a pseudo-legal system, a great portion of the lands guaranteed to the Indians in the past have been taken from them. These facts tell the story:

In 1887 the Indians had 113,000,000 acres of land. Recently, statistics showed they have less than 50,000,000. The lands the white men took were the best. Tribal funds in those years melted from more than $500,000,000 to less than $12,000,000.

Wasteful Indian bureaus have dissipated the Indian's own money in various ways. An inefficient demoralizing boarding school system, which keeps children from their parents for years at a time, has used up $7,000,000 a year.

The 194,000 Indians under federal guardianship have had to share in supporting employees of the bureau which victimized them. Indian money is spent profligately to irrigate lands, much of which is poor, cheap, and worth far less than the cost of irrigation. In many instances whites possess land which the Indians pay to irrigate.

The bureau forestry service has lived off the Indians by selling their timber. And most everyone remembers the typical Navajo oil case where an agent, appointed by Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, sold Rattlesnake Dome for $1000 to his friends, who resold it for $3,600,000.

The allotment plan, especially, plagues the Indian. Each man, woman, and child is granted a piece of, and when he dies, the land cannot be passed on to his heirs; it must be sold to a white man.

When an Indian is propertyless, having been unable to inherit, he is kicked out. He becomes a demoralized, broken down, untrained has been leading crusader for Inhuman being. There are about 106,000 such cases.

First indication of a New Deal for the red man came with the appointment of John Collier of California as a commissioner f Indian affairs. For years, Collier

A second New Deal portent is recent news from Washington that soon the government will hear the claims of California Indians to lands taken from them 82 years ago, under 18 treaties, a bargain which Uncle Sam never kept.

And legislation is on its way which will permit tribes to organize for self-government and self-help, give them civil rights and due process of law, substitute for the present one an economical day school system, with children living at home and, in general, start the Indian problems on the road to solution.

Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

In turning through the papers that come to my desk, I ran across John McCarty's comments on his eleventh wedding anniversary. I am reprinting it below, for it has what I call heart interest although there is no such term strictly speaking in newspaper work. It grows out of any story that is written truthfully, sincerely and with feeling. I was particularly interested in John's account of using apple boxes for chairs when he was first married. It struck a warm spot in my heart, for my own wife and I had a bedroom that was improvised in much the same way, and I can still remember how proud I was of her management. But maybe you will be more interested in John's own account of his matrimonial adventure.

The queenly lady who shares with me the responsibility of our home and our children helped me observe our eleventh wedding anniversay Sunday. The day was an enjoyable one, the event a precious memory observed by us along life's journey each year. She baked a fine cake and we enjoyed soup, strawberry preserves and baked chicken.

Eleven years of married life brings much of living to anyone. It affords many opportunities for good sportsmanship, giving and taking and for unselfishness, devotion and duty. You just don't exist along with another person for eleven years without meeting and having to solve many problems in human relationship.

Our eleven years have been very satisfactory to me. I have tried to make them for the most part interesting and beautiful experiences for my wife. Sometimes I have succeeded. At other times I have failed. Perhaps I have succeeded more times than I have failed, otherwise the days would not be as happy for us as they are in spite of hard times and thwarted ambitions. The past eleven years have been busy years for us, filled with much more sunshine than shadow, much more of health and happiness perhaps than is the average share. We've been lucky, happy folks all of these years. We've tried to pass on and share with others as much of this happiness as possible.

Not once have we regretted our decision to start out trying to make a home on my small salary and with little of household necessities or furniture in our possession. Love and confidence have played the major roles in our decisions and in our life tgether thus far. Frankly, I am inclined to think that Love was and still is the stellar actor.

For quite sometime in our early married life we got along on just what furniture we had and our dinner chairs consisted of apple boxes with a neat cover over them. We haven't much better today but we have found, so long as we have one another, our children and our parents in fairly comfortable circumstances we are lucky and most happy. Ours has been the privilege of happy years of hard work at a task each of us wanted to do. We can only hope for a future as busy and as interesting and filled with as much of the worthwhile as the past.

John's story, which you have just read, reminds me of one of my pet theories, which I have repeated frequently in this column. That is that two women are largely responsible for any man's success—his wife and his mother. And it takes two of them to do it. One can't do it alone. A man goes out of the hands of one into those of the other, and his whole life is influenced by them. I know that you can show me examples of men who have both a good mother and a good wife and are still no account. That is simply a case of his own consciousness, his own cussedness, for a man has to do some things himself. While this is true can you, on the other hand, show me any man of average temperament who ever amounted to anything who had a neglectful mother and an indifferent wife Generally, one alone of this is enough to ruin the effect, and two of this sort provide a certain recipe for failure.

The roses bushes will be here as soon as the present cold spell breaks, and if you want any of them you had better let me know now. I am ordering only two varieties, pink radiance and red radiance. Only one order will be sent off, so act now if you want any of these bushes.

County Joins Nation In Celebration 202nd Birthday George Washington

As millions over the nation paid tribute to George Washington, upon the event of his 202nd birthday Thursday, Wellington also commemorated the occasion. School children celebrated the event Friday, due to the fact that it afforded an extra holiday and gave the school a three day recess, including Saturday and Sunday.

Various clubs and organizations also remembered the occasion with special programs. J. D. Wilson, speaking before the Kiwanis Club at the regular Friday meeting, cited the aims and purposes of Washington as carried on by the club as a builder of the community and citizenship for the county.

At the Nation's capital, named in honor of the statesman and commander of the American forces in the Revolutionary War, present day statesmen paused to pay homage to the great Virginian.

Washington's farewell address was read in both houses of Congress. Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, one of the newest members, read it to the Senate. Representative Smith of Virginia did the same in the House. Except for the two legislative branches, official Washington enjoyed a holiday.

Rocsevelt Visits Tomb

President Roosevelt visited the Washington home and tomb at Mount Vernon, Va. Secretary of War Dern, addressing a gathering of patriotic societies, asserted that President Roosevelt had taken the country back to the traditions of the first President, and away from Communism or Fascism.

A touch of sadness marked the observance at San Francisco. There survivors of the wreck of the liner City of Rio de Janeiro, which thirty-three years ago on Washington's birthday crashed into a sunken rock ledge, held their annual reunion. The grim sea tragedy carried 128 passengers and seamen to their deaths.

C. I. A. To Erect Dormitory And Hospital Soon

DENTON—Advices received at Texas State College for Women (CIA) indicates that the grant of $220,000 for the erection of buildings on the campus includes a three-story fireproof dormitory to house 200 students and a new hospital.

Authorization of $185,000 of the total sum has been given for the construction of the dormitory which will probably replace Stoddard Hall, and $35,000 will be used in the present Hygeia Hall.

Seventy per cent or $154,000 of the total grant will be loaned to the college and $66,000 or 30 per cent is an outright gift to the institution. The loan will be secured by four per cent revenue bond.

After the money is placed at the disposal of the college by the government, the Board of Regents will meet and draw up final plans for these buildings. President L. H. Hubbard, today, was unable to state the exact date of the next board meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Crow and Mrs. Edgar Davis of Haskell returned to their home Monday after attending the bedside and funeral of J. S. Campbell, and visiting other relatives and friends.

Nazarene Revival Holds Attention

Rev. Herschel Meredith Arrives From Cisco To Conduct Meeting

Rev. Herschel Meredith of Cisco, who has made a name for himself over the Southwest as a radio evangelist, arrived here Monday afternoon and is now conducting a revival at the Nazarene Church.

Rev. Meredith was accompanied by his wife and baby and will be active in conducting the revival here. He is popularly known as the "high-toned" Irishman" due to his tenor voice, which has been heard over many leading broadcast stations of the South.

Rev. Herschel Meredith

Rev. S. L. Wood, pastor of the local church, expressed his appreciation in being able to secure such an outstanding evangelist for the revival here and extended an invitation for the public to attend the meetings. The revival meeting opened Friday night and featured large crowds until the cold spell hit here during the past few days.

MY FAVORITE RECIPE

NUT BREAD
By
Mrs. Austin O'Neil

Midwinter, with its usual lull in society activities, has offered splendid opportunity for house wives to devote time and energy to persual of home arts, cooking, sewing and various home crafts. A delicious nut bread recipe by Mrs. Austin O'Neil will be of interest to those engaging in special baking. Nut bread makes lovely bread for sandwiches for the children's lunches.

1 1-2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1 to 2 cups of nuts (English walnuts are better)
4 cups flour
1 tsp. salt
1 cup of milk or more
4 tsp. baking powder

Cream eggs and sugar, add nuts, then milk and dry ingredients.

Leader's Recipe for Winter Fruits

Broiled Canned Peach Halves

Drain canned peaches and put on a broiler covered with moistened parchment paper to prevent from slipping through the grids. Turn when hot and cook on other side. Broil bacon until crisp and garnish steak or other meats with peaches around and bacon on top.

Peach Dreams

Drain the syrup from canned peach halves. Partly melt a jar of cranberry jelly. Put the peaches, hollow side up, in serving plates. Fill the hollows with chopped peanuts. Cover the peaches with the partly melted jelly. Cranberry jelly is more piquant for this but currant jelly may also be used.

Fried Apple Ring With Jelly

Core tart apples, cut a thin slice from top and bottom and discard. Cut apples in half inch slices and pan-fry in sausage, fresh pork or other fat until soft but not broken, turning once. Serve with a cube of bright jelly in the center of each ring.

Dried Apricot Jam

If your summer supply of canned fruit is beginning to run low try varying it with this delicious jam. Take two pounds of dried apricots, let soak over night. Simmer well, covered, for half an hour. Drain the fruit, crush thoroughly and mix with three pounds of sugar, or seven cupfuls. Put to boil and when at full boil continue one minute, remove from the fire and add one bottle of pectin, stir and let stand a moment and skin. Then pour into glasses and cover with paraffin.

Baked Bananas

Peel the bananas. Arrange in shallow baking dish and sprinkle with lemon juice. Bake in a moderate oven for 10 or 12 minutes, or until tender. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve hot.

Dr. C. E. High Honored With Birthday Dinner

On Friday evening, February 23, Dr. C. E. High was honoree at a dinner party given by his wife. The dinner was given in honor of Dr. High's birthday which came on that day.

Two tables were decorated with St. Patrick decorations and place cards were found by sixteen guests. Tall green tapers at either end of the table with a large birthday cake with green candles and decorations completed the table decorations. Buttoniers of pink roses were at each plate.

A Mexican dinner was served to J. N. Wallace, Dewey Ellis, J. B. Castleberry, L. Z. Cone, T. E. Benge, Dr. E. W. Moss, Dr. E. W. Jones, S. R. Pinkston, Jack Deahl, Deskins Wells, Morris Wells, Arthur Bailey, Bennett Bond, Bob French and Dr. High, honoree.

Bridge games were played following the dinner.

Misses Lelia and Louise Stall spent the week end in Hollis visiting with Mrs. Bess Kromer.

Entertainer

Mrs. Fred LeDerer entertained the members of the Kiwanis Club Friday with several accordion numbers. J. D. Wilson assisted in the entertaining with a talk on the progress of the nation since the birth of Washington, two hundred and two years ago.

"Mickey Mouse" Party Enjoyed By No Trump Club

One of the cleverest parties of this month was given at the home of Mrs. Wade Mahan Tuesday evening when she entertained the members of the No Trump Club and several guests.

Tallies were pictures of Mickey and Minnie Mouse and each tally had to be matched for partners. All other bridge appointments were of the Mickey Mouse idea. In the contract bridge games, Mrs. Charles Crews won high score prize, which was a handmade Mickey and Minnie Mouse. Miss Patti Lee Lewis received low score prize.

A delicious plate lunch was served to: Misses Elizabeth Gillentine, Lois Miller, Margaret Goforth, Carrie Nola Campbell, Patti Lee Lewis, Thelma Masten, Margaret and Argen Hix, Bula Bess Bell, Marianna Scott; Mesdames Charles Crews, Dempsey Harrell, Sandy Parsons, Jr., Ansel McDowell, Wilson Mahan, Loren Thompson.

MARELLA
By Joe Claunch

Miss Willie Marie Melton spent Sunday with Miss Alyne Daves.

Marella was well represented at the tournament held at Quail, Saturday, February 17, playing in both the semi-finals and finals.

The local junior boys defeated the Lillie quintet by a small score of one point and in the semi-finals defeated the Ring five by a close score but lost to the King quintet in the finals. The line-up for Marella was: Herman Melton, Buel Taylor, forwards; Cleo Robison, center; Harold Young, Weldon Gilbreth, guards.

The junior girls broke even in the tournament winning the first and losing the second. They were greatly handicapped by the absence of one of their players but played through the tournament with only two forwards and three guards. In their first game they were victorious over the Salt Fork junior girls by the score of 16-5 and losing to the Lillie sextet in the finals. The line-up was: Hazel Self and Lena King, forwards; Frances Nunnelly, Hazel Bennett and Christine Carmack, guards.

Those who attended the tournament from here were: Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cheves, Miss Mabel Jones, Mrs. French Self, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Payne and son, Donald, Nina Melton, Gerald Carmack, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. King, Kenneth King, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Morris, L. B. Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Claunch, and son, Robert, Mrs. R. E. Farmer, J. A. Production Credit Association Head Explains Methods On Federal Loans

Applications for production loans to farmers and stockmen in Collingsworth, Hall, Childress and Donley counties are now being received by Marvin P. Bryan, secretary-treasurer of the Memphis Production Credit Association. According to Mr. Bryan, all loans will be made on business basis and according to the security furnished by the applicant.

"The loans that will be made in this county and the other three counties served by the Memphis association must be good loans and loans that are collectible if a permanent service to farmers in this and other communities, as intended," Mr. Bryan said.

"Fortunately, not many farmers in this county need credit," he continued, "but for those who do the association stands as a business organization—not as a charity institution. Loans may be obtained for periods of 3 to 12 months by any eligible deserving farmer or stockman who needs credit and has security; but if a farmer or stockman is eligible for credit it must be extended in a business basis."

Each applicant has to state in his application what property he is offering to secure the loan, Mr. Bryan said. Security for these loans will consist of first liens on crops, livestock or other personal property on which a lien or chattel mortgage may be taken to secure the loan adequately. The lien may be taken on property already in the possession of the borrowers, or to be purchased with the money borrowed. It is not intended that production loans shall be secured principally by mortgages on real estate. Where this type of security is taken it will be regarded only as additional collateral.

Mr. Bryan said that the charges on production loans would be as low as possible in keeping with business credit. A small fee is charged to inspect the property offered as security by the applicant, but usually no charge will be made for inspection if the loan is not granted.

The minimum amount that can be loaned to anyone eligible borrower is $50.00. The interest rate is 3 per cent above the discount rate of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, and is charged only for the actual number of months the loan is outstanding. The present, discount rate of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank is 3 per cent, which would make the interest rate to the farmer-borrower 6 per cent per annum.

Loans may be obtained for general agricultural purposes including the costs of growing, cultivating, or marketing crops; and for the production of livestock, and dairy and poultry products.

Most of the loans will run from 3 to 12 months, and are to be due and payable at the time when the crops and livestock financed are sold.

Each farmer or stockman borrowing for the first time automatically becomes a member of the association, since each is required to own voting stock in the association equal to $5.00 for every $100.00 or fraction thereof he borrows. The stock may be purchased with a part of the loan proceeds. It is the only voting stock in the association, and may be purchased only by borrowers each having only one vote regardless of the amount borrowed.

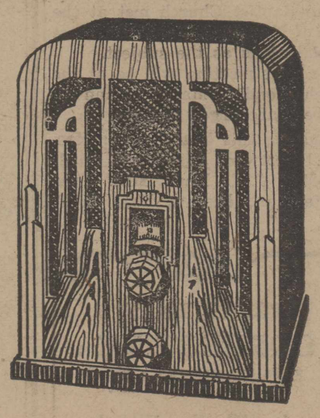

A farmer or stockman who becomes a member of an association does not have to "stand good for" the loans of the association or the debts of other borrowers. The stock carries no double liability.

The Memphis Production Credit Association, which is authorized to make loans in this county, is one of the 50 which have been established in this state. Most of the capital of the association is provided by the Production Credit Corporation of Houston, which is supervising the work of associations in Texas.

Health Department Favors State-Wide Clean Up Campaign

AUSTIN, Tex.—The warm days of spring will soon be here and the Texas State Department of Health urges everyone to see that their property is cleaned of the winter's accumulation of trash. It is only through individual responsibility and effort that one can have a clean and neat appearing city.

In planning your spring cleaning start with the house itself in the attic and work down, not forgetting the basement. Attics and basements are the greatest collectors of refuse and therefore of dust and dirt that the house possesses, and their neglect often constitutes a serious fire hazard. Do not forget to screen against flies and mosquitoes. The better the job of cleaning, and with a garbage pail kept tightly covered, the fewer flies there will be, because flies love dirt and filth and breed in garbage and other filth.

Under the C. W. A. sanitary project pit privies and septic tanks may be installed at no cost for labor, also private water supplies may be sanitated. This will be a great improvement in rural sections and towns that do not have a city water supply or sewer system.

We are prone to judge people in no small measure by the kind of yard keepers we think they are. Many times you have heard some one say, "No, I don't know the people next door but they cannot amount to much because their yard is cluttered with tin cans and papers and their garbage can is always open." Do not let your neighbors be able to pass judgment on you on such grounds.

Low Cost Buildings Made of Adobe Brick

Adobe brick for walls of homes and other buildings is practical in the arid Southwest and frequently in humid sections where the climate is favorable for curing the blocks. The material, clay loam, straw or other suitable fiber for bonding, and water, are to be found on almost every farm and cost little if purchased. The blocks can be made with unskilled labor, which makes for low building costs.

In humid climates abode walls must be protected against moisture with some kind of coating and the building sites must not be subject to flood waters, according to T. A. H. Miller of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Engineering. The roofs should slope and should have wide eaves for protection.

Homes made of adobe brick are durable, fire resistant and comfortable. The earth insulates interiors from winter cold and summer heat. This insulating quality also makes adobe especially desirable for some farm storage structures.

In Farmers' Bulletin 1720-F, Adobe or Sun-Dried Brick for Farm Buildings, just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Miller gives detailed information on the making of adobe brick and on the laying of the brick in different types of structures. He also discusses various coatings for outside and for inside walls, and different types of roofs and roofing materials for the arid and humid sections.

The bulletin which can be purchased from Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., for five cents, includes illustrations of adobe structures but no working drawings. It does, however, include detailed drawings of footing and foundation connections, setting of windows and doors, anchoring of roofs to walls, and chimney construction which can be used in connection with plans for masonry structures.

In the locality of Las Cruces, New Mexico, 80 percent of all structures are of adobe. Adobe buildings are to be seen throughout the Southwest—in western Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, southern Colorado, Utah and Nevada, and southwestern California. Adobe structures are also found in western Kansas, in northern California and Nexada, and in southeastern Oregon and southern Idaho. A few of these structures are scattered throughout the country.

Adobe can be used for fences and boundary walls for barnyards, which in arid sections will last longer, even without foundations and stucco, than the average fence. If stuccoed and provided with good foundations and caps, the fences and walls are ornamental and durable.

Woman's Lips, Not Eyes, Index To Soul

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Look at her lips, not into her eyes, says Henry Clive, noted artist, to know a woman's soul and temperament.

His beliefs, which contradicts the theory that a woman's eyes are the "mirror of her soul," were expressed after he had completed a study of the lips of eight prominent motion pictures actresses. They were: Jean Harlow, Miriam Hopkins, Carole Lombard, Claudette Colbert, Ginger Rogers, Sally Rand, Esther Ralston and Lupe Velez.

"Miss Harlow's lips," he said, "are full and firm, indicating a temperament of great extremes, utter happiness or utter despair.

"Miss Hopkins' lips offer a great contract. The upper lip is full, the lower one an almost horizontal line. To paint her on canvas an artist would have to understand the meaning of those lips. They tell one important thing. She is inwardly emotional, outwardly calm, giving to her countenance a sleek, sophisticated look.

"Sally Rand's lips by their fullness and suggestion of looseness reveal a woman of great determination.

"Miss Lombard's disclose a girl who could weather emotionol storms without concern.

Miss Colbert's disclose a nature that is strikingly ambitions.

"Miss Rogers' tell a story of contentment.

"Miss Ralston's lips denote great love for the domestic.

"Miss Velez'," he concluded, "show strife, fighting and accomplishment."

Clive has been in Hollywood for several months seeking new types of beauty.

Road To Ruin

Above is a scene from "Road to Ruin," which shows at the Ritz for ladies only Wednesday and for men only Thursday. The picture is listed as one of the most startling presentations of the "follies of youth" and is one which Manager Bonner urges every mother and father in the county to see.

and in Wellington, which includes Childress Street, East Avenue, Fifteenth Street and Haskell Street.

Have Sent $49,000 Here

"All orders to cut the staff of the local C. W. A. come directly from Washington and not from this office, nor from the state office," Miss Boverie said. "As the cuts are carried out each week we will necessarily have to make cuts in the number of men working here. There is no choice in the matter, however, since a reduction in our supply of money will create the situation."

C. W. A. work began in this county November 22 and since it began $49,440.06 has been expended in this county through C. W. A. channels. Until February 15 a daily crew of 496 men have been employed during recent months and most of the income has been directed through business channels of this county for medicine, groceries, rent and dry goods.

County Pioneer-

in the town. He was leader in the development of this county as one of the states leading cotton producing sections.

As well as being one of the leaders in the development of the county, Mr. Kesler was also known as a neighbor and a friend to many of the old timers in the early days of the county. During later years he has been handicapped by his age, but still retained many faithful friends at the time of his death.

He was a member of the Baptist Church and watched the local church grow from a few members into a large congregation. He was also a member of the Masonic Lodge and was active in county and community affairs.

He is survived by four children: Mrs. J. W. Culp, Wellington; C. A. Kesler, Wellington; J. O. Kesler, Etter, Texas; Mrs. C. A. Dysart of Mobeetie. Also thirteen grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Pall bearers were: J. W. Payne, B. F. Snell, T. H. Rainer, J. O. Wells and J. L. Burt. Honorary pall bearers were: Joe Jones, J. O. Woods, E. B. Haralson, and J. T. Baldwin. Flower bearers: Fannie Lee Kesler, Ozada Kesler, Otha Kesler, Clara Kesler, Ruby Kesler and Helen White, all granddaughters.

Interment was made in the Wellington Cemetery by Goodson Funeral Home.

trict shall be entitled to vote at said election and all voters who favor the grouping of the aforementioned school districts shall have written or printed on their ballots the words:

"For the Rural High School District."

And those opposed to such grouping shall have written or printed on their ballots the words:

"Against the Rural High School District."

Grade Schools Continue

The election, if carried, will be the first step in creating a rural high school to be located north of Salt Fork River and will serve students not only from the districts mentioned, but other districts in that location where students transfer aid money. The rural high school will in no way eliminate the present schools in the districts included in the election.

Schools which are now operating there will continue, teaching up through the seventh grade, while high school students will be trained in a more complete and direct manner, through the medium of an organized staff of high school teachers, assisted by complete laboratories and libraries.

Last Rites-

Campbell's sixty-fifth wedding anniversary .To this union were born four children, two boys, both deceased and two girls, Mrs. Alice Brickey and Mrs. Sammie D. Davis. He is also survived by a sister, Mrs. Sally Buchanan, age 90 years, of Obion, Tennessee. He is also an uncle of Mrs. L. C. Jones and L. J. Campbell of this city, and Russell Campbell of Gainesville. Grandchildren: Miss Sammie Alice Brickey and Walter Brickey of Sunray; Glenn Brickey and Bernice Brickey of Wellington; Lavan Davis of this city; Mrs. Riley Williams of Roswell, N. M. Several grandnieces, grandnephews and great-great grandchildren.. He is also survived by his wife, Mrs. Rilla Campbell.

Mr. Campbell was born in Obion, Tennessee, and as one of the pioneer Texans and early settlers in Collingsworth County, he recalled many stirring incidents in the early days of this section. He also held to many pioneer customs of the old days.

He was laid to rest in a pine casket, which he ordered constructed eight years ago. One of his last world requests was that he be buried in this casket. His death followed an extended illness which left him in bed for the past three weeks and delirious most of the time.

Pall bearers were: Walker Brickey and Walker Brickey of Campbell, Lavan Davis, W. E. McDonald, and Jack Knight. Flower bearers :Vivian Porter, Edith Hare, Geraldine Fisher, Grace Moore, Vivian Royal.

Songs were: "The Old Rugged Cross," Mrs. V. A. Porter and Mrs. S. K. Parsons, Sr.; "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder."

Interment was made in the Wellington Cemetery by Ellis Funeral Home.

ABOUT SANDPAPER

Sandpaper is a misnomer, according to the Los Angeles Times. A writer in Scientific American says the average person may be surprised to learn that the fine abrasive particles on sandpaper are specially crushed flint or garnet, or are products of the modern electroc furnace—aluminum oxide or silicon carbide
