STANDARD OIL CHIEF FACES ARREST

Fall River, Mass., Razed by Fire

LOSS IN HOLOCAUST ESTIMATED AT 25 MILLIONS AS INSURANCE MEN BEGIN CHECK FIRE'S TOLL

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 3. (AP)—The Fall River business district lay in ruins today. Only a few gaunt walls stood in an area of five blocks which was swept by fire last night and early this morning.

The loss was estimated by the mayor and police chief as between $7,000,000 and $12,000,000. Some insurance men thought it might run as high as $25,000,000.

There was no loss of life. Several firemen and others were slightly injured by falling walls and the effects of smoke. Two thousand workers in offices, banks, hotels and stores were without employment today.

Six Banks Destroyed

Starting at the corner of Poccasset and Main streets, the flames swept northward to Bank street and eastward to Rock street. They destroyed three hotels, six banks, two theaters, a church, a newspaper plant and several office and store buildings.

Firemen from all cities and towns in this vicinity and from cities as far away as Providence and Boston helped in the all-night fight. It was 2:30 a. m. before they were assured that the flames would not spread into the residential district and result in a still worse conflagration.

To the heroism of five firemen, who came from their homes in other cities to aid in fighting the fire in this city last night, Fall River today gave a large measure of credit for halting the spread of the flames along North Main street. The five include Fire Chief Dailey of Brockton and four men of the Taunton department.

Flames Travel Fast

The flames had swept through the Mohican hotel and the Rialto

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 3. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the plant of the Muchenberger Wall Paper and Paint company with a loss of $125,000 here early today.

HOME TOWN TALK

By B. N.

Substituting for B. D. D.

"'Twixt optimist and pessimist
The difference is droll
The optimist sees the doughnut,
The pessimist the hole."

Wichita Falls optimists are now viewing some sizable doughnuts, their inning having opened in the latter part of 1927, following closely upon the perception of a number of holes by the pessimists earlier in the same year.

Men and organizations whose records elsewhere show both faith and works in heaping measure have recently exhibited possession of the former in Wichita Falls in the manner proclaimed by the Bible as essential to its life.

M. Johnson of Bowie, known the world over as one of its greatest breeders of efficient White Leghorn egg producers, is nearly ready to place in operation here the initial units of a chicken ranch which be intends to make the largest in the world.

The Kraft-Phenix Cheese company, now doing an annual business of approximately $100,000,000 in gross sales, will open its first Southwestern factory here this month, offering steady employment to every milk producing cow now residing or hereafter to reside in this neighborhood. President Kraft, speaking at the chamber of commerce banquet here January 13, declared that there was no limit to the demand for good cheese. The only limitation on the expansion of the company's production in the Wichita Falls and later-established Texas factories will be that imposed by scarcity of milk, he stated, adding that the company will convert into cheese all the milk of the desired quality that is offered.

This week remodeling of downtown buildings began for the accommodation of retail stores of the world's two greatest mail order houses, the Montgomery Ward company and Sears, Roebuck and company. Both expect to open for business here before the end of February.

Building permits for January did their bit by showing an increase of more than $10,000 over the total for January, 1927.

Not to be outdone, postal receipts for January swung into line Friday, when Postmaster Maricle reported a gain of $1639 over the total for January, 1927.

ELECTRA MAN ONE OF TRIO IN CRASH PLANE AT PAMPA

PAMJA, Texas, Feb. 3. (AP)—Three persons in a Curtis biplane, piloted by J. S. Phillips of Electra, escaped with minor bruises here last night when the plane crashed into a telephone pole while taking off. The plane, which barely missed a house, fell on the lawn and was badly damaged.

MRS. TOM J. M'GUIRE, FORMER BURK RESIDENT, DIES HARLINGEN HOME

Word was received here Friday of the death of Mrs. Tom J. McGuire of Harlingen, well known in this city, and a former resident of Burkburnett. She was formerly a teacher in the public schools of Burkburnett and was a member of the Baptist church of that city. Mrs. McGuire had suffered a leakage of the heart for several years but was ill only a short time before her death Tuesday. Burial was to be made Friday in the Harlingen cemetery.

Surviving her are her husband and two children, Geraldine, 9, and Tom Jr., 7, who reside in Harlingen.

J. HAM LEWIS NOT YET READY TO JOIN ANGELS

VIENNA, Feb. 3. (AP)—J. Hamilton Lewis, of Chicago, former United States senator, who has been visiting here, is in a local sanitarium recovering from a slight attack of congestion of the lungs.

A report that he was seriously ill at a sanitarium at Auersberg, Jugo-Slavia, proved erroneous.

NIGHT MAIL PLANE CRASHES IN FOREST NEAR KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 3. (AP)—Landing with a disabled motor and in the light of two parachute flares, the Chicago-Kansas City overnight air mail plane, piloted by Charles E. Peoples, was wrecked when it struck two trees three miles west of Missouri City, north of here. Peoples was unhurt.

Flying nearly two hours late, Peoples' plane developed motor trouble southeast of Liberty, Mo., at 3 a. m. He released the two parachute flares and by their light made out a field on the banks of the Missouri river.

Peoples landed, but the plane rolled too far and crashed into the trees. Three wings and the landing gear were smashed.

Herbert Kindred, Kansas City to Dallas pilot, was held here while a motor truck was sent to take the Chicago mail from the wrecked plane. It was brought to Kansas City and placed aboard Kindred's plane.

Plane Quits Texas Late

FORT WORTH, Feb. 3. (AP)—With a cargo of 53½ pounds of mail, Pilot Richard Dobie left Fort Worth at 7:40 o'clock last night, 10 minutes late on a flight to Chicago and intermediate points. It was the second night flight of a mail plane out of Fort Worth.

The 10 minute delay was caused by the plane's tardy arrival from Dallas as it was not delayed at the municipal airport here. Favorable flying weather was the forecast handed to Dobie when he landed here.

The first plane to arrive at Fort Worth from Chicago yesterday since the new night flying schedule became effective was four hours late.

Winds Aid Texas Fliers.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 3. (AP)—Delayed by waiting for mail from other air mail lines and by inclement flying weather, the United States air mail plane which was due here at 8 o'clock Friday morning probably will be about six hours late, according to information from the municipal airport, headquarters in this city for the national air transport.

High winds that are hampering the night fliers on their trips south from Chicago are aiding the fliers who leave here for Chicago.

"LAME DUCK" BILL GIVEN TOP POSITION IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. (AP)—The constitutional amendment to change the presidential inaugural date and the convening date of congress was given preferred legislative status in the house today by its rules committee.

The measure would prevent what are known as "lame duck sessions" of congress, in which men serve who have been beaten previously at the polls.

PRICES SLIDE AS OPERATORS DUMP STOCKS

INCREASES IN BANK RATE SIGNAL FOR FLOOD OF SELLING ORDERS

HEAVY BLOCKS PLACED ON SELLING MOVEMENT

N. Y. Market Responds to Bear Rush in Orderly Fashion Despite Big Volume.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—The stock market today twice reversed its trend and as the close approached prices were quite heavy under a new wave of selling. Recessions of $1 to $6 a share were numerous in the early dealings, on selling inspired by the rise in the federal reserve rediscount rate, but lower call money rates, brought a brisk rally which wiped out many of the early losses.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—The unexpected increase from 3½ to 4 per cent in the New York federal reserve rediscount rate, which was widely interpreted as an official warning against a further expansion of speculative credit, brought a flood of selling orders into the stock market today, which sent prices down one to nearly six points in the early trading. Trading was in heavy volume, with blocks of 2,000 and 10,000 shares changing hands.

The rise in the New York rate coincided with a further increase of more than $27,000,000 in brokers' loans, bringing the total to within $4,000,000 of the record high established three weeks ago, and more than a billion dollars above the loans outstanding a year ago. While an increase in the New York rate was regarded as certain before spring, it was not expected so soon, particularly as no change had been made earlier in the week in the Boston, Philadelphia and St. Louis rates, all of which were acted upon this week.

The reaction in stocks was an orderly one, most of the standard industrials and rails dipping a point or two on opening transactions, while larger losses were recorded by the more volatile specialties, which have been under pool manipulation. U. S. Steel common opened 1⅞ points net lower at 144⅞, and General Motors showed an initial loss of two points at 132½. Radio corporation opened with a block of 10,000 shares at par, off 2⅜ below last night's final price.

Rossia Insurance broke 5½ points, American Zinc preferred 5, and Gold Dust, Houston and People's Gas sold off 3 points or more.

Mrs. Schmidt and Mrs. Fred Gensler, sisters of Mrs. Klotz and Miss Wirth, today were reported seriously ill at their homes.

The two deaths originally were attributed to typhoid fever.

STORMY PETREL OF LOCAL JAIL AMONG 16 RECAPTURED AS BREAK FROM PEN COSTS LIFE OF GUARD

Marion Fetters, one among 16 convicts recaptured after escaping from the Eastham farm near Huntsville early Thursday, had participated in several attempted breaks and disturbances in the Wichita county jail, according to Sheriff W. G. Bralley, before he was transferred to the penitentiary less than a month ago.

He was said by court officials to have been probably the first defendant to be convicted in Wichita county under the habitual criminal act, receiving a 12-year sentence when found guilty of an indictment charging burglary which alleged that he had previously been convicted on a felony charge.

William Winfield and George West, two others convicted in Wichita county several months ago, also were listed among participants in the break, which cost the life of D. E. Long, a prison guard, who was shot by Tom Bozeman, a fellow officer, when mistaken for one of the fugitives.

Winfield and West, testifying at their trial that they came here with a circus, were sentenced to two years each on charges of burglary. They were arrested by police who testified they found them during the night inside a secondhand store. The men pleaded guilty.

Fetters was declared by Sheriff Bralley Friday to have caused officers more worry while in jail than any other prisoner he has ever had in his custody. On one occasion he was named by other prisoners as being the leader of a "hunger strike" declared in protest of their transfer from one jail tank to another, less accessible to visitors to the jail. Two or three times, it was said, prisoners in the tank occupied by Fetters jammed locks on doors and then staged miniature riots while officers were attempting to get inside. On those occasions, hydrants within reach of the prisoners were opened so that the floor was flooded before officers could subdue them.

The charge against Fetters grew out of the robbery of the safe in the Parker and Topper grocery in Scotland addition. The man exhausted all possible appeals in an effort to have the conviction set aside.

GAIN IN POSTAL RECEIPTS PAST MONTH $1639

Postal receipts in Wichita Falls for the month of January totalled $28,085.21, showing a gain of $1,639.10 over receipts for the January, 1927, which aggregated $26,446.11, according to the report announced Friday by Postmaster O. P. Maricle.

Postmaster Maricle said that the sale of air mail stamps had shown a steady increase during the past several months and that he expected local business men to patronize the air mail much more now that a new service has been inaugurated saving 18 hours from Wichita Falls to New York and eight hours to Chicago.

The new route to be established February 6 giving air mail service to South Texas should also increase the use of this branch of the postal service, he said.

Dallas Receipts Increase

DALLAS, Feb. 3. (AP)—Postal receipts here showed an increase of 1.8 per cent in January over the same month of last year, 1928 figures being $316,629.

Will Rogers News Digest

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Feb. 2. There was a piece in the paper this morning where somebody back home was seriously proposing me for president. Now when that was done as a joke it was alright, but when its done seriously its just pathetic. We are used to having everything named as presidential candidates. But the country hasn't quite got to the professional comedian stage. There is no inducement that would make me foolish enough to ever run for any political office. I want to be on the outside where I can be friends and joke about all of them, even the president. As long as its alright with him, why my conscience is clear. So I hereby issue my statement, which is as follows: I don't contemplate becoming involved in a political conflict of any nature during the autumn of 1928.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

P. S. Should the Democrats, however, become successful I would accept the postoffice in Beverly Hills and Claremore, Okla. I can take care of both letters.

"Secrets" of John McCormack's Singing Are Many, But Best of All Is That He Is "Just Boy"

By ROBERTA CLAY

There are always "secrets" of the success of great persons, whether they be singers or politicians. And the secrets have no value until they are made public.

It is so with John McCormack—but not all persons agree as to the exact "secret" of his wonderful voice and his marvelous personality.

It may be that he sings so beautiful because he manages to relax in each town he visits, usually going to a movie. (He admits he is a movie fan.)

The secret may be that he is happily married and has two children who also sing, besides his 10 adopted children, the family of his wife's brother, whom he adopted after the death of their father and mother.

It may be because he "lives almost like a hermit" while on a tour.

Or because on the days of his concerts he hardly speaks above a whisper and will see no one.

Or—a theory we rather like—because he is "just a boy," as his mother considers him, and because he sings with a small boy's joy and abandonment.

The latter suggestion came to our mind after Edwin Schneider, who has been Mr. McCormack's accompanist for the past 16 years, told of a Christmas spent in Ireland with Mr. McCormack's parents a year ago. During the dinner Mr. McCormack reminded his mother that it was the first time he had spent Christmas with her in 25 years. She was inclined to dispute the matter, but he said that he had not been in Ireland on Christmas since he first went to Italy to study for grand opera. When he finally convinced her that he was right, she said, "Ah, but sure John, you have never grown up. To me you are still the same boy that you were then."

That Christmas celebration was a unique affair, according to Mr. Schneider's story. There was a family party of 26 at the dinner, with Mr. Schneider and a friend of McCormack's son as the only out-

COUNCIL TAKES UP SUGGESTED AMENDMENTS

SPECIAL COMMITTEE DECIDES TO SUBMIT SEVERAL PROPOSED CHANGES

CHANGES IN TAX LEVIES NOT TO AFFECT $2 LIMIT

Funds Involved Include Library, Park, Cemetery, Street, Sanitation and Health.

The Wichita Falls city council was scheduled to meet at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon for the purpose of considering proposed amendments to the city charter as outlined Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the special committee appointed last Monday night by the council.

The committee, headed by E. M. Mann as chairman, decided to submit several proposed charter amendments in addition to those which would make the city manager plan here mandatory and set the salaries of the mayor and commissioners at a nominal amount.

The city manager amendment was prepared by a committee, headed by A. H. Britain, which was appointed at a mass meeting held recently in the Memorial auditorium.

Among the changes considered by the committee Thursday was one that would change the levies for the various funds. These changes will not affect the present city tax limit of $2 on each $100 valuation.

The proposed amendments will provide for an increase in the library fund from three to five cents. During the past several years the Kemp Public library has enjoyed a remarkable patronage and the present funds are not sufficient to provide for any expansion.

By the proposed changes the park and cemetery levy would be increased from 12 to 15 cents and the street levy from 15 to 20 cents.

Abolition Sewer Tax

Another change would be a 10-cent levy for health and sanitation purposes. This levy has never been made before and funds for this purpose were obtained from the general and sewer funds.

These various changes mean an increase of 20 cents and this will be secured by a reduction in the $1.10 now allowed for interest on bonds and sinking funds. The city has never used over 76 cents of this amount and last year only 50 cents was used. By the proposed amendments the levy will be only 90 cents in the future.

Creation of the 10 cents levy for health and sanitation purposes will make possible the abolition of the sewer service charge. This charge is now made by the city through an ordinance passed sometime ago. However, the council has been presented with a petition signed by several hundred persons asking for a referendum vote for its repeal.

SENATE OIL COMMITTEE ASKS ORDER FOR ARREST OF STEWART REFUSES TO ANSWER QUESTION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. (AP) — Decision to ask the senate to immediately order the arrest of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil of Indiana, was reached late today by the senate oil committee.

Senator Walsh of Montana, the committee prosecutor, said he would seek to get action before adjournment today and have the wealthy Chicago oil operator before the bar of the senate tomorrow to answer there for his refusal to reply before the committee to questions as to his knowledge of what became of the Liberty bonds of the Continental Trading company of Canada.

Should the senate order the arrest, Stewart could apply to the District of Columbia supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus and have a hearing in that court.

Senator Walsh said that unless he could show cause why the senate should not proceed against him he would again be remanded to the custody of the sergeant at arms of the senate for such punishment as the law making body might decree.

The penalty under civil law is imprisonment in a common jail for not less than one month nor more than 12 months and a fine of not less than $100, nor more than $1000.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. (AP) All the battering of Senator Walsh of Montana, and the persuasiveness of Chairman Nye and other members of the senate oil committee failed today to shake the determination of Robert W. Stewart, Standard Oil magnate, to refuse to answer question concerning the disposition of profits of the Continental Trading company of Canada.

Under a gruelling examination, in which various members around the committee table took turns in examining him, Stewart talked freely up to one point, and that point was on whether he had discussed the profits of the Continental and their disposition with Harry F. Sinclair. There he raised a barrier which the committee could not surmount, try as it might.

Stewart Stands Pat.

Each rephrased question touching this phase of the case, Stewart replied that he respectifully declined to answer on grounds previously given—that this story must first be told to a judge and jury. He is a witness in the Fall-Sinclair case, growing out of the lease of Teapot dome to Sinclair. The government charges that $230,000 of the Continental profits went to Fall.

Before Stewart was excused from the stand, Chairman Nye told him he must understand that the committee must reach the conclusion that it was possible that he and his associates knew the purposes of the Continental before it was organized. The company, whose good faith was guaranteed by Stewart and Sinclair, bought 33,000,000 barrels of oil for $1.50 a barrel and

ED HICKMAN'S ALIENIST SAYS HE IS INSANE

PARENT OF TOT'S SLAYER TELLS OF CHANGE IN BOY'S MENTALITY

FATHER OF DEFENDANT ALSO TALKS TO JURY

Relatives of Accused Youth Rally To His Defense in Effort To Prove Insanity.

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3. (AP)—Today was alienists' day in the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman, kidnaper-killer of Marian Parker with one of yesterday's defense alienists resuming the witness stand. Defense attorney Jerome Walsh indicated before the session's opening that most of the day would be monopolized by his medical experts.

Wet weather and spasmodic downpours outside, the first inclement weather since the trial opened, failed to dampen the ardor of trial fans.

The first witness on the stand was Dr. R. O. Shelton of Los Angeles, former member of the San Diego County Lunacy Commission. He resumed the medical explanation he began late yesterday of the reasons for his opinion the defendant suffered from dementia praecox, "one of the worst types of insanity."

Hickman's Judgment "Bad"

Walsh attempted to ask Dr. Shelton how many times he had examined the defendant. He testified there were four visits, and that the first, a three-hour examination, was the longest one.

Hickman's judgment was testified to be "extremely bad" because of his "insane delusions and faulty emotion."

The witness cited Hickman's belief in "divine guidance," as one "insane delusion," which indicated a condition of insanity.

A conversation the physician held with Hickman in the county jail was quoted by the witness at the request of Walsh.

It was testified that Hickman declared the killing of Marian Parker was at the direction of providence to bring "attention of the world to me"; that if his mother had "stood in the way of providence," he would "have killed her without emotion," and that he "was the theater and were licking at the walls of the Merchants' building northward toward Bank street. Chief Daley was fighting the fire at that point. He called for volunteers to enter the building and the Taunton men responded. Under the leadership of the Brockton chief, the men went into the smoking building dragging a hose line. From the interior they gradually forced back the flames and held them until the danger passed and the fire was under control.

FALL RIVER, MASS. RAZED BY FLAMES

The fire started in what was formerly the No. 1 mill of the Pocasset Manufacturing company. The four units of this abandoned textile plant were in process of demolition.

Oily Floors Aid Fire

It was the oil-soaked floors of the old mill that gave the flames their tremendous force at the start. A strong wind carried burning embers long distances. Almost immediately the Fall River fire department realized that it could not cope with the fire and hurried calls for help were sent out.

This was early in the evening. Downtown theaters were filled. Warning was given to the audiences and they filed out without panic. Guests at hotels in the path of the flames were notified in time to leave before the fire reached them.

Relentlessly the wall of flame pushed forward into the heart of the business district. At the height of the fire all communication with outside points was cut off. The Western Union and Postal telegraph companies lost their quarters.

The telephone exchange on Bank street was saved, but the operators were ordered out when it appeared that the building would go. They returned this morning to find everything intact but a church wall leaning against one side of the building.

Many Buildings Burn

The principal building destroyed were:

Mohican hotel, largest in city, with 400 rooms.
Wilbur hotel.
Bay State house.
Massasoit-Pocasset National bank, an eight-story building.
Metacomet National bank.
Citizens Savings bank.
Fall River Cooperative bank.
People's Cooperative bank.
Granite building, largest office building in the city.
Buffington building.
Old Fall River Herald building.
Plant of Fall River Independent, French language newspaper.
New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad bus terminal.
Temple Beth-El.

SIX BLOCKS IN PRINCIPAL BUSINESS SECTION DESTROYED

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 3. (AP)—An irregular area covering six city blocks was a mass of charred and burning debris today as the result of a fire which swept the center of this city's business district with a loss estimated at from $15,000,000 to twice that sum.

More than a score of buildings including three theaters, three banks, three hotels and several of the largest office structures were reduced to blackened walls and glowing pits of ruins.

Fire apparatus summoned from points as distance as Providence, R. I., and Boston and a dozen other cities jammed the streets and continued to pour thousands of gallons of water into the debris.

The blaze which started in the abandoned No. 1 mill of the Pocasset Manufacturing company on Pocasset street swept with startling rapidity all before it, and it was not until 2:30 o'clock this morning that it was finally under control, eight hours after the first alarm had been sounded.

400 Flee Hotel

The burned area reached from the corner of Pocasset and Main streets north to bank and east to Rock streets.

The Mohican house, the city's leading hotel, quickly emptied its 400 rooms, and an hour later was destroyed. The Granite block, the largest office building in the city, was another early victim as was the Rialto theater, where an audience was viewing a picture when the first alarm came. Other theaters destroyed were the Premier and the Majestic.

Members of the 241th coast artillery company were called out to supplement a force of 20 state policemen rushed from the Holden barracks. In addition every member of the local force was on duty but there was no looting and an almost total absence of disorder.

Five Firemen Hurt

Despite reports that several firemen had been killed by falling walls, a check showed only five had been injured. None was believed seriously hurt.

Throughout the height of the blaze the city was cut off from the outside world. Telephone service failed at 11 o'clock when operators were ordered from the Exchange building on Main street. For a while it appeared certain that the telephone plant was doomed but today service was normal except in and near the burned area.

Both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph offices were burned. At the former the operators worked feverishly to send out news of the fire until their own building was in flames. The record in the log of the office said the men "stuck until their shoes were burned."

Lack of water pressure was a constant handicap to firemen who also suffered from the cold wind which whipped the flames before it.

One newspaper lost all its equipment while another suffered severe damage. The plant of L'Independent, French language newspaper was destroyed. The Herald-News, which had just moved into a new building, was a heavy loser. The basement of the Fall River Globe was flooded by water.

The old Herald-News building was one of the burned structures.

Beside the Mohican house, the Wilbur hotel, and the Bay State house, the latter a comparatively small establishment, were swept. As at the Mohican, all guests escaped but not all were able to save their belongings.

The last big building to go was the eight-story Massasoit-Pocasset National bank, opposite the city hall. Firemen seeing that their efforts to save it were unavailing, concentrated their endeavors on the city hall, which escaped with only a scorching.

Other banks to lose their quarters were the Metacomet National and the Citizens Saving. Hastily summoned employes succeeding in removing cash, securities and records from all three institutions and similar precautions were taken by several other banks when it appeared they might be in danger.

The Pocasset Mills where the fire started were in the process of being dismantled. The property was formerly used for textile manufacturing purposes but has been idle about two years and is owned by Louis K. Liggett, of Boston, head of the United Drug company.

Mr. Liggett, who is at Palm Beach, Fla., was notified by telephone.

Mill Fire Starts It

The blaze was first discovered in the large six-story mill No. 1. The building proved a veritable tinder box and within a half hour all four units of the plant were on fire and shortly thereafter the flames leaped across to the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad bus terminal. There, an unverified report said, a tank containing 5,000 gallons of gasoline exploded.

The fire soon raced its way through the Mohican hotel and the Granite block and for several hours seemed to threaten the entire city.

Numerous small blazes in the residential districts were caused by flying embers but these were extinguished without difficulty. One fire, however, destroyed the tower of the Merchants' Mill two miles from the business district.

Boy Scouts on Duty

Many families prepared themselves against the possibility of having to abandon their homes, stacking their goods in the streets, but firemen successfully confined the major blaze to the business area. Boy Scouts and Salvation Army workers supplemented the efforts of other authorities in giving first aid and serving refreshments to the firemen.

The guard room at police headquarters was turned into an emergency hospital where many persons including firemen who had been slightly injured were given first aid treatment.

Ice formed quickly on the ruins as tons of cold water quenched the glowing debris. Fire apparatus, hose lines and even one fireman froze to the pavements. The fireman had to be chopped free by his comrades.

Many Narrow Escapes

Numerous narrow escapes from serious injury marked the progress of the blaze. One fireman saved his life by jumping beneath his truck when a wall of the blazing Temple Beth-el crashed, showering masonry about the apparatus.

The fire deprived scores of lawyers, brokers and agents and other professional men of their offices, particular in the Granite block and the Buffington building, another large structure which was razed. In many cases valuable records were lost.

The progress of the fire up Main street was halted on one side of the street by the fire wall of the Merchant's building and on the other by the Globe building.

Public buildings fared better than others. The city hall, postoffice and customs buildings all escaped, although threatened for hours.

FIVE OF FAMILY BURNED TO DEATH IN MINNESOTA

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 3. (AP)—Leon Wiley and four of his children were burned to death last night and his wife and their fifth child narrowly escaped cremation when fire destroyed their cottage at Lake Minnetonka. The children's ages ranged from 6 to 12.

Screams of Wiley awakened his wife in another room. She took the baby and tried unsuccessfully to reach her husband. After being severaly burned herself, Mrs. Wiley with the baby in her arms leaped from a window. Mrs. Wiley's condition was reported as critical today.

The cause of the fire has not been determined.

DAMAGE IN B.-O. RAILWAY SHOP FIRE SET AT $100,000

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 3. (AP) The damage resulting from the fire in the Baltimore & Ohio railroad locomotive shops and adjoining structures, will be slightly less than $100,000, officials of the road said today after inspecting the ruins. At first it was believed that 30 locomotives in the round house had been injured beyond repair, and that the total damage would run more than $3,000,000. However, today's inspection disclosed that the locomotives were not damaged seriously, and could be repaired for about $1,400 each.

METHODIST WOMEN AT TIPTON TO GIVE SHOW

TIPTON, Okla., Feb. 3.—The ladies of the First Methodist church are preparing a novelty entertainment to be given at the Dixie theater soon, known as the "Follies of 1928." The directors, Mrs. J. E. Childress and Mrs. W. B. Slack are selecting the cast for the production.

The proceeds will help pay debts on church and parsonage improvements made at the beginning of the conference year. Sixty dollars was recently added to the fund when the ladies cleared that amount from the annual banquet given last week.

Youth Breaks Arm.

ROCHESTER, Texas, Feb. 3.—Cathey Bagwell, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Bagwell, sustained a broken arm as the result of an attempt to crank a car at his home, five miles east of here, preparatory to attending a Boy Scout meeting. The youth was rushed to the office of a local physician for first aid.

STEWART REPEATS DEFI TO SENATE

sold it back to Stewart and Sinclair at $1.75.

"Have you any statement to make about that?" Nye asked. Stewart was silent.

No Bonds to Politicians.

One of the final questions asked the witness dealt with the angle of the case involving whether any of the profits went to a political fund.

"Do you know anything about any of these bonds going to a political party?" Stewart was asked.

"No sir," he replied.

Before Stewart testified, several witnesses denied that they had heard of $1.75 was to be asked for the Continental oil, as testified yesterday by Stewart, among them Beman G. Dawes, of the Pure Oil company, a brother of the vice president.

After Stewart was excused he was instructed to remain here until tomorrow. Intimations had been given that he might be cited for contempt.

Dawes Takes Stand

Before he appeared, Beman G. Dawes, brother of the vice president, former Senator Thomas of Colorado and A. E. Humphreys, Jr., of Denver, were placed on the stand to dispute his testimony that a price of $1.75 for the Continental oil had been mentioned in their presence at the conference in New York where the famous deal was consummated.

After preliminary sparring between Walsh and the witness when Stewart was recalled, the prosecutor finally asked:

"Did you know anything about the purchase of Liberty bonds by the Continental?"

"Repeating what I have said before," the witness replied, "I don't think I should answer."

"Were you ever consulted about the purchase of these bonds?"

"I reiterate what I said before."

"Were you ever consulted about the disposition of the bonds?"

Stewart hesitated.

Stewart "Talks Back"

"Why did you hesitate?" Walsh asked.

"That is none of your business senator, nor is it any of the business of the committee. I say that with all deference."

Walsh propounded a series of questions as to what Stewart knew about the disposition of the bonds and he declined to answer again on the grounds given yesterday—that the case was in the courts.

Senator Bratton, Democrat, of New Mexico, then took Stewart over some of the ground covered yesterday.

"I am not here to argue these matters with you, Senator Bratton," Stewart said at one point.

At another point he said questions put to him were "irrevelant."

Asked about the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve which was leased to Harry F. Sinclair, and later recovered by the government, Stewart said he never "even knew there was a Teapot Dome until after it was leased."

$10,000,000 Profit Seen

Bratton went back to the $8,000,000 the Continental might have made on the contract for the oil bought from the Humphreys interests and resold to the Sinclair and Standard subsidiaries.

"I was interested in the $10,000,000 profit my stockholders stood to make," Stewart said.

"We were paying 25 cents a barrel more than the Continental, but I was not interested; I was interested in getting the oil."

The Standard oil official leaned back with a chuckle and said:

"I've never lost my respect for eight million dollars. That's a large sum. But this eight million dollars didn't cut any figure with me. I was looking at the great big proposition."

"The problem was to get crude which had been up to $3 a barrel. We wanted this crude badly and we had a chance to get it for 25 cents less than in the open market. What did I care about somebody getting a commission?"

Stockholders' Profit

"Our stockholders have profited tremendously by the making of these contracts," Stewart went on. "We bought it at a time when we could not get crude."

At another part Stewart told Bratton again that the "senator was just trying to argue" with him. That the New Mexicoan denied.

Stewart Refuses to Argue

Stewart refused to argue with Senator Kendrick, Democrat, Wyoming, over the question whether the Continental deal, as he described it, was against Stewart's reputation as "a good trader." He reiterated his statement that what interested him was that his stockholders "were getting this crude and getting it cheap."

Senator Cutting, Republican, New Mexico, took up the questioning.

"You have told us repeatedly that you were making a good deal; can't you tell us some other things that passed through your mind?" Cutting asked.

"I can't say that I can," Stewart replied.

"Have you ever heard of a proposition of this kind before; that of guaranteeing such a contract?" asked Cutting, referring to the action of Stewart and Sinclair in guaranteeing the Continental's contract on which it bought the oil sold back at 25 cents a barrel profit.

"If you ask me about a specific case, I might be able to tell you," Stewart replied.

Stewart Resents "Insult"

Cutting got into a realm of assumption and once he said that it was a "possible assumption" that Stewart was committing perjury.

"I say that's an insult," Stewart shouted as he banged the table and leaned forward toward the senator. "I shall leave this room instantly if that is to go on. The senate of the United States has not authorized you to insult me."

"I think that statement should be withdrawn," Walsh interjected.

"Then I'll withdraw that from the record," Cutting said. "I did not mean to insult you."

Replying to Chairman Nye, Stewart said that when the Continental trading took place in 1921, the Standard Oil of Indiana did not own the Midwest company, of which H. M. Blackmer, a missing witness in the oil cases, was president.

Stewart testified that if Blackmer made a brokerage fee out of the deal it would have been proper. He said Blackmer, who was a party to the Continental deal, "had a perfect right to make a commission."

Blackmer Made Profit

The witness disclosed that when the Indiana Standard got control of the Midwest, Blackmer offered to resign and permit the Indiana company to put in new officers and directors.

Walsh asked if Stewart thought Blackmer had committed "a grave offense" in holding out 25 cents commission on the Humphreys oil.

"Oh, I don't think so, Senator," the witness replied.

"Well, if some one had written me the letters that Blackmer wrote you and then held out a commission of 25 cents a barrel on me," Walsh returned, "our relations would not have been so cordial thereafter."

Chairman Nye repeated his question of yesterday.

"Do you know of anyone who received these Liberty Loan bonds of the Continental Trading company?"

"For reasons I have given, I must respectfully decline to answer."

"Very well," said Nye. "I repeat another question. Have you had any conversation with Harry F. Sinclair about these bonds?"

Refuses to Answer

"I respectfully decline to answer."

"Have you ever talked to Mr. Blackmer about those bonds?"

"Not that I recall."

"Have you ever talked to Mr. O'Neil about these bond transactions?"

"I have not seen him in a number of years."

"Do you know anything about any of these bonds going to a political party?"

"No, sir."

Stewart was then excused from the witness stand by the committee, but was told to remain in Washington for at least another day.

"SECRETS" SINGER M'CORMACK MANY

side guests, and every one there could sing, and did sing—"Adeste Fidelis" and other Christmas carols.

"It was wonderful," said Mr. Schneider. "I don't think you could find another family which could sing so beautifully together without even practicing. He had a wonderful letter from his father afterward, saying it was the greatest moment of his life.

Mr. McCormack is very devoted to his family—although that information came from others of his party and not from himself—and the first thing he did Thursday on arriving in Wichita Falls was to call his wife and daughter in New York. He calls them every day he is on tour, except the days of his concerts. The daughter is named Gwen, and she is 18. The son, Cyril is 19. Both can sing and have been making records since they were five years old. Mr. McCormack received a photograph of the daughter Wednesday, in the Gainsborough costume in which she appeared at the Beaux Arts ball in New York recently, when she was the beau to the belle of the ball—and he is very proud of it.

The wife of Lauri Kennedy, cellist, who has been accompanying McCormack for the past 10 years, is teaching piano to McCormack's daughter. Incidentally, she has also been given charge of the musical education of Gloria Caruso, the eight-year-old daughter of Enrico Caruso, who up to the time of his death some five or six years ago, was acclaimed by many as the world's greatest tenor.

Which brings us to another story—not told by any of the McCormack party, but remembered from a newspaper squib which appeared in the papers at the time of Caruso's death. One morning McCormack met Caruso and greeted him with the question, "And how is the world's greatest tenor?" To which the other replied, "Since when did you become a basso, John?" One of the last things McCormack did before leaving New York was to take Gloria Caruso to the laboratories of the Victor Talking Machine company, where she made her first record, singing "The Holy Child," by Easthope Martin.

COUNCIL TAKES UP AMENDMENTS

If it is repealed the 10-cent health and sanitation levy set out in the proposed amendment to the charter will take care of the money now derived from the sewer service charge, committee members say.

Another amendment which the committee was scheduled to present to the council Friday afternoon is one for the creation of a park department board. This amendment is expected to be worded so that the board will be appointed by the council and have the power to appoint the park superintendent. However, contracts made by the board will be subject to the approval of the council.

Another proposed amendment outlined by the committee Thursday was one to correct an existing "error" in the charter and allow the council more time in passing its tax assessment ordinance after the appropriation ordinance for the fiscal year is adopted.

Members of the committee who met Thursday were E. M. Mann, chairman; W. B. Hamilton, T. R. Noble Sr., W. S. Curlee and Thelbert Martin.

At its meeting Friday afternoon the city council was expected to issue a call for a public hearing on the proposed changes for the night of February 27. The public hearing on the city manager amendment will also be held on that date.

COSDEN TO ENTER OIL WORLD AGAIN VIA TEXAS FIELDS

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—The New York Times today says that Joshua S. Cosden, for many years a leading figure in Wall street and the oil industry, has recouped his fortunes and is re-entering the oil business on an extensive scale.

He is organizing a new company with the backing of Wall street bankers to be known as Cosden & Co., with an initial capital of $5,000,000, the Times says.

The control of his old company, now the Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation, says the Times, was wrested from him in the hectic markets of 1920-21. He later sold his home on Long Island, at which he entertained the Prince of Wales and later sold his villa at Palm Beach. The Times says that for the last year or so he has been successful in investments in oil properties in the Southwest.

The new company will be incorporated in Delaware, but will have its headquarters in Fort Worth, Texas.

HEADS OF RIVAL IRISH FACTIONS IN NEW YORK BUT THEY KEEP APART

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.(AP)—The head of the Irish government and the opposition leader were in New York City today, but their plans contemplated no meeting. William T. Cosgrave, president of the executive council of the Irish Free State, ends his two weeks' visit in the United States and Canada tomorrow morning when he sails for home on the Olympic. Eamon de Valera, who come to this country December 21, returned to New York yesterday preparatory to sailing for Ireland some time next week.

FORMER RICH STAR FOLLIES TELLS HOW SHE LOST FORTUNE

CHICAGO, Feb. 3. (AP)—All the thrills of winning and losing both a fortune and husband were related to Judge Sullivan yesterday when Avonne Taylor asked a divorce from Louis Gess, a musical director, charging desertion.

Miss Taylor, who came from Hollywood, Calif., seeking the decree which Judge Sullivan indicated he would grant, said her husband's temperamental insistence on how she should play the stock market with her own $500,000 was the cause of much domestic strife.

The fortune, she said, was won over a period of years as the result of market investments made on the tips of friends. Then, she said, she plunged, and "when the stocks crashed, 'I crashed.'"

Benjamin Ehrlich, her attorney, told the court that Miss Taylor once had been described by Flo Ziegfeld as the most beautiful girl who ever took part in the Follies.

Gess is musical director for the Fred Stone show, "Criss-Cross," now playing here.

WATER FLOWS OVER NIAGARA AGAIN AS ICE DAM COLLAPSES

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 3. (AP)—The American falls of the mighty cataract of Niagara were roaring and booming again today after restriction by ice. For several hours an ice jam in the Niagara river yesterday diverted the water to the Canadian shore and over the Canadian falls, causing less water to go over the American falls than in any other time in thirty years.

It was possible almost to walk across the river channel from the mainland to Goat Island just above the American falls, and with the aid of a pair of boots it would have been easy to walk across above Goat Island bridge. No one attempted the feat, however.

With the breaking of the ice jam late last night water again crashed over the ice-coated American falls.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. (AP)—Commanding officers of vessels and stations have been ordered by the navy department to inform the next of kin of all the circumstances definitely known in case of death or accident involving serious injury to any person in the service.

Several complaints of inadequately or belated information grew out of the recent S-4 disaster, but whether the new order was prompted by these or similar expressions of dissatisfaction was not announced.

The communication to the family, the order read, "should be by letter and in such language as to show personal consideration for the next of kin."

A rich mingling of many flavors

—now pleasing more people than any other coffee ever offered for sale

COFFEE blended with coffee, patiently and skillfully—taste joined with taste! Uncounted natural flavors to try out—to combine and recombine! "Winy" coffee from Abyssinia, sharply "acid" coffee from Costa Rica, syrupy rich coffee from Sumatra! Hundreds of different kinds and grades from many distant lands. But each one lacking in something.

It was a flavor no one had ever tasted—a special shade of smooth richness that a southerner created years ago in the South.

Among the great families of old Dixie, the news of his rich mingling of flavors—of that extra touch of mellow goodness in Maxwell House Coffee—spread rapidly.

Today his blend has won such fame as never before came to a coffee. It is the first ever to please the critical men and women throughout the entire United States.

In that shade of difference—in the full-bodied smooth liquor of this blend—you and your family will find new contentment. Your first breath of its rich fragrance will tell you why Maxwell House Coffee has swiftly become so famous. Grocers have it in sealed, blue tins.

"Mastery Minds of Thievery"—Also Called "Fences" Responsible for Loss Three Billions in America Annually

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 3. (AP)—State authorities are seeking to curb master minds in thievery, whose loot is estimated at three billion dollars annually in this country.

Conviction of a "fence," or receiver of stolen goods, would be possible upon the testimony of the person who stole and sold him the material under the provisions of a bill introduced in the legislature today by the state crime commission.

Holding that the "fence" is a master mind of the criminal world, "if not the absolute dictator of crimes," the commission embodied in the measure a provision that the person who furnished the "fence" with the stolen goods shall not be deemed his accomplice, and shall be free to furnish a jury with testimony.

Another bill, introduced by the commission seeks to provide that a person who does not ascertain by reasonable inquiry that the person selling or delivering property to him has a legal right to do so shall be presumed to have purchased such property with the knowledge that it has been stolen.

"No acts are more destructive to the pursuit of our commercial lives than those acts which are instigated by this master mind," says a report of the commission concerning the fence.

"It is a gigantic business in itself, this trafficking in stolen property, and is said to total more than $3,000,000,000 a year in the United States. This master mind has an accomplice—the thief. Together they make the most effective and most business like combination of modern times. The frustrate public prosecutors. Bamboozle juries, and befuddle judges. Honest business stands aghast, stunned by the amazing audacity of the crooked pair."

In the majority of the states which have passed upon the "fence" question, the report notes that the rule of the courts is that the thief is not an accomplice of the receiver within the rule requiring corroboration of the evidence of an accomplice.

HINDU PRIESTS ON VERGE OF ASSENT TO RAJOH'S MARRIAGE

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 3. (AP)—The suggestion of a Punjab Moslem that the former Maharajah of Indore turn from Hinduism to Mohammedanism apparently convinced Hindus that after all it will be possible to convert Miss Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, Wash.

After conversion she would be able to marry the former ruler under Hindu rites and the religious obstacle to their marriage would be surmounted.

The proposal that both the former maharajah and Miss Miller become Moslems and marry with Mohammedan rites changed the former unbending attitude of the Hindus toward the supposed unfitness of Miss Miller to embrace their religion.

No sooner had the Moslem proposal become public than editors of two vernacular papers devoted to the Hindu cause telegraphed to the former maharajah. They told him if he would say the word they would make all necessary arrangements for Miss Miller's conversion. They assured him that the American girl's initiation into Hinduism could be arranged easily.

Many inquiries at grand opera headquarters and letters to people in Wichita Falls from other towns show a great interest in the all-expense-special" which leaves Dallas at 8:30 on the morning of March 1 and reaches this city at 2:45 in the afternoon. The return train will leave immediately after the performance of "Resurrection," reaching Dallas about 5:10 the next morning.

The round trip fare will include railroad fare, Pullman, lunch and dinner, ticket for the grand opera and all expenses of the tour.

Parties have already been arranged at Southern Methodist university at Dallas and College of Industrial Arts at Denton and a large crowd of students are expected from the three colleges, McMurry, Abilene Christian and Simmons university, and many parties are being formed of club and society women at Abilene and other towns.

Increase In Crude Shipments.

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Feb. 3.(AP) The Prairie Pipe Line company today reported shipments of crude oil for the month of January as $39,475,912 barrels. This was an increase of 4,994,789 barrels over the month of December.

Flag's Designer Defends Chicago Six-Point Star

CHICAGO, Feb. 3. (AP)—Wallace Rice, who designed the Chicago city flag with the six-pointed stars to which Mayor Thompson has taken exception, came forward today to defend it.

"I purposely made the stars six-pointed," he said. "Five point stars are the symbols of states and could manifestly have no place in a municipal flag. Mayor Thompson is making not only himself but the flag ridiculous by ordering the change."

The reason given by Mayor Thompson for asking an ordinance to make the stars five-pointed was a desire to have them conform with stars in the American national emblem.

FIVE CHINESE ARRESTED AS COMMUNIST PLOTTERS

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Feb. 3. (AP)—Four Chinese men and one woman have been arrested in what is believed by the authorities to be the headquarters from which communist propaganda was disseminated here and in the East Indies. A large quantity of communist literature was seized.

U. S. OFFICER KILLS REBEL WHO PRETENDS TO BE FRIEND OF U. S.

PATROL ROUTS SANDINO REBELS AFTER BATTLE

Seven Dead Counted by Marine Commanders After Defeat of Attacking Forces.

MANAGUA, Nic., Feb. 3. (AP)—Fresh graves along the trails of Northern Nicaragua today indicated that an indeterminate number of rebels had been slain in recent encounters with an American marine patrol.

The patrol reported to headquarters that seven rebels were known to have been killed and four wounded in five engagements, but that the marines were unable to determine the exact number of casualties since the rebels carried off their wounded. A wounded pack animal was the only casualty to the patrol.

The patrol, under Capt. Roger W. Peard, consisted of 80 men and left San Albino mine, once the headquarters of General Augustino Sandino, rebel leader, on January 20, going south to Buena Vista. The patrol returned to San Albino two days later after five engagements with rebels. Marines believed that the rebels encountered were sniping expeditions.

Scouting airplanes flew over the region of the fighting yesterday after belated reports of it were received at Marine headquarters. There was no evidence of rebel activity.

In one attack a rebel approached an advance squad of marines shouting, "Amigo" (friend). He was shot down in his tracks by Lieut. W. S. Brown.

Rebels attacked the patrol just as it was preparing to leave camp on the morning of its first day out from its base. The marines had not packed their machine guns upon the mules. These were immediately turned on the rebels, who were concealed in the jungle.

Three other brushes between the rebels and Captain Peard's patrol took place en route to Buena Vista and the other as the marines were making their way back to San Albino.

Along the trails on the way back the marines noticed many fresh graves, indicating that the rebel dead had mounted beyond the seven they had counted.

PORTO RICANS PAY TRIBUTE TO DARING ARGONANT OF SKIES

LINDBERGH EXTOLLED AS MODERN WINGED MERCURY BY GOVERNOR TOWNES

CARNIVAL BALL STAGED IN HONOR OF AIR ACE

Lindy Hopes to Be In St. Louis By February 13 He Tells Friends in San Juan.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 3. (AP)—A plea for the freedom of Porto Rico in the form of a "message from the people of Porto Rico to the people of the United States" was entrusted to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today a special session of the Porto Rican legislature, which conferred a medal of honor upon the American aviator.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 3. (AP)—A people in whose veins flows the blood of the Spanish Conquistadors today honored an American who conquered their hearts without bloodshed.

Coming to this sixteenth century Spanish city, now one of the Caribbean suburbs of the United States, from St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, detoured to pay his respects to St. Croix, another United States island possession, by flying over it. His flying time from St. Thomas to San Juan was two hours and five minutes. While Lindbergh flew alone a West Indies aerial express plane, the Santa Maria, carrying a dozen passengers, accompanied him.

In greeting Lindbergh, Governor Horace H. Towner said he voiced the heartiest spontaneous welcome of all the people of the island. He continued:

Lindbergh Is Praised

"Among those honored for great accomplishments and noble virtues, your name will ever be enrolled.

"Your success has not been won by bloodshed, or by making wars, but, while in every test of valor and daring your accomplishments are at least equal to any of either fabled or historic heroes, you have not caused a single heartbreak or a moment's suffering to others by your rise to fame."

A salute of 20 guns, one less than a presidential salute, greeted Lindbergh on his landing. Thousands gathered along the sea front of this ancient port to cheer the Spirit of St. Louis and its pilot as they passed overhead to the flying field. Sirens and ships' whistles added to the din of welcome.

At the federal building he was proclaimed an honor guest of the city by Mayor R. H. Todd.

"The Modern Mercury"

Welcoming Lindbergh, Governor Towner called him "our modern winged mercury—not merely a classic figure, but a real American youth winging your way to fame and immortality, not by imaginative dreaming but by hard work, by dauntless courage, by high and steadfast purpose."

The greatest service Lindbergh has rendered in Europe and America, Governor Towner said, was that the nation he represented could not be considered in reality unfriendly or unjust.

After the ball he retired to the 400-year-old La Fortaleza, once the palace of the Spanish captains general and now the executive mansion. In this imposing edifice upon an embattlemented platform, Lindbergh will be a guest, until he hops off tomorrow for Santo Domingo. From there he will go to Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, Monday and expects to arrive at Havana Wednesday afternoon.

Due in St. Louis Feb. 13

Lindbergh believes he will return to his home port of St. Louis on the afternoon of February 13. After his return there he intends to fly on his old air mail route between Chicago and St. Louis a few times.

JONES FORESEES TRIAL TO CANCEL ARMS PACT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. (AP)—Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, told the house naval committee today that at the preliminary naval arms conference at Geneva in 1926 he had "gathered the general impressions" that an effort would be made to terminate the Washington naval arms agreement in 1936.

STRONGER AFTER SHE TOOK CARDUI

"Health Soon Began to Build Up, and I Improved Rapidly," Says Lady—Had Been Thin and Weak.

Huntington, W. Va.—"I have found Cardui to be a fine medicine," says Mrs. Ida E. Crawford, who lives at 1618 Charleston avenue in this city. "After I took it, I was much better in health. My experience with the Cardui Home Treatment has extended over twenty-nine years, and I have thoroughly tested its merits.

"My use of Cardui was followed by an increase of strength. Shortly after I was married, I was run-down and grew weak and thin. I was worried and did not seem to get on my feet.

"I had read of Cardui, and so I began to take it. My health soon began to build up, and I improved rapidly.

"From that day to the present, whenever I have felt in need of a tonic for weakness, or for run-down vitality, I have always returned to Cardui as a trusted friend, for I realized the value of my experience in such matters.

"Two years ago, when I needed a tonic, I took Cardui for several months, and afterwards felt better than I had in a long time."

Cardui is a purely vegetable tonic, and may safely be taken by the most delicate young girl or feeble old lady.

Senator James Reed Halts Recount Ballots in Wilson-Vare Difficulty While Opinions on Senate Act Clash

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. (AP)—Dissatisfaction with the manner in which the senate elections committee is handling the contest of William B. Wilson, unsuccessful Democratic opponent of Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, has led Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, to prevent the committee from counting disputed ballots.

As chairman of the special slush fund committee, Senator Reed has directed David S. Barry, senator sergeant-at-arms, not to surrender ballot boxes in his custody to the elections sub-committee of which Senator Waterman, Republican, Colorado, is chairman. Waterman's committee had decided to begin the ballot recount next Monday, but after a conference late yesterday with the chairman, Senator Reed issued his instructions to Barry.

He reminded the sergeant-at-arms that the ballot boxes he holds were brought here from Philadelphia and Allegheny counties under authority giving them to the slush fund committee and that the Reed investigators have first call upon them.

Whether the committee differences can be smoothed over or will have to be submitted to the senate itself awaits settlement in the future. Senator Reed has been displeased with the election committee's conduct of the case for some time and only recently threatened to ask the senate to override the committee when the latter dismissed Wilson's contest petition. The committee quickly reversed itself, however, when Wilson field a new petition giving particulars of conspiracy charges which had been requested.

The new petition charged Vare and his managers in six counties with conspiracy to defeat him and the ballot recounting was to have been made in investigation of those charges.

VERNON, Texas, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Phebe K. Other women speakers who will be here are Miss Mildred Horton, state home demonstration agent, and Mrs. W. C. Williams, Iowa Park, subject, "Egg Production and Marketing."

Miss Gunter is making plans to have representative women of the state speak here, but as yet her program is incomplete.

Miss Gunter's demonstrations at the courses will deal with food dishes which can be made of canned chicken. The first meeting place for the short courses will be at the farm of Rudolph Hoffman in the Lockett community. L. E. Key's farm at Odell will be the meeting place February 29. Farm locations in Fargo and Elliott for the other two meetings have not been selected.

Mrs. Hoffman Chosen Chairman For Forum Art Department

Election of officers for the art department of the Woman's Forum was held Thursday afternoon at the clubhouse with Mrs. Luther Hoffman chosen chairman, succeeding Mrs. Lyle Sproles. Mrs. C. C. Jones Jr. was elected vice-chairman and Mrs. Frank Shackelford, secretary-treasurer.

Following the business session, Eliot Clark, well known landscape painter and member of the National Academy, talked on the "Genesis of Painting." After his address he conducted the group through the auditorium and explained the pictures in a delightful gallery talk.

"When the eye is trained, a world of beauty opens to the beholder, and it is a profound thing to train the eye," Mr. Clark said in his main address. He explained the thorough training necessary to make one able to see beautiful relations in the painted picture and not the mere objects and things that stand by themselves.

Mr. Clark divided his lecture into three parts, giving a brief historical sketch of the beginning of modernistic art, the esthetic significance of that art, and briefly discussed the forerunners of the type of painting.

At the close of the meeting tea was served by the following hostess: Mesdames E. H. Eddleman, Ben Ackerman, J. W. McReynolds, C. J. Holland, Guy Rogers, Miss Alice Welty, L. L. Boardman, Nat Inge, J. W. Nossett, Burl Bryant.

FORMER PRISON GUARD UNDER CONVICTION FOR ASSAULT ASKS REVERSAL

AUSTIN, Feb. 3. (AP)—W. T. Hill, Harris county, under 45-day aggravated assault sentence in connection with the death of Wiley Zeigler, allegedly fatally whipped, seeks reversal of the case on the claim that trial court erred in permitting introduction of photographs of the corpse, record in the court of criminal appeals revealed Friday.

Hill was indicted for murder in Harris county, but finally was tried in Falls county. Although papers did not show it, he apparently was some sort of prison guard.

GRAND EXALTED RULER ELKS AT FORT WORTH IS GUEST SHADY OAK FARM

FORT WORTH, Feb. 3. (AP)—Something of the earnestness and spirit of an old-time camp meeting was in evidence last night at Shady Oak farm, near here, when John F. Malley, Boston, grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks climbed on a table and standing bareheaded, outlined the visions and future aims of Elkdom.

"Our plan is to build a great endowment fund which we believe in a short time will reach $20,000,000," Malley said.

"The income from this endowment will be used for welfare activities in the various states." Closing, he said, "Our new objective will mean the uniting of all Elkdom in one great plan to carry on the work according to the true philosophy of the order, which dedicates the lives of its members to the service of their fellowmen."

Amon G. Carter, host at the barbecue, was toastmaster and called the crowd to order by ringing a bell. He announced the speakers from notes written on the table cloth.

Malley was presented by Joe B. Hines, past exalted ruler of the Fort Worth lodge as "the leader of 1,000,000 American citizens."

At 10 p. m. at Shady Oak farm Malley spoke over station WBAP, and by remote control his message was put on the air.

Malley is accompanied on his trip by J. E. Donnelly, Lowell, Mass., district deputy of that state.

BURNS ATTORNEYS DEFEND SHADOWING OF SINCLAIR JURY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. (AP)—Arguing that keeping a federal court jury under surveillance is not unlawful or in contempt of court, counsel for Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and their four associates continued today their efforts to have Justice Frederick L. Siddons dismiss criminal contempt charges against their clients.

Charles A. Douglas, counsel for Burns, completed his attack on the government's case today and was followed by Daniel Thew Wright, counsel for Henry Mason Day, a Sinclair official, who closed for the defense.

'Hell Week' Ends In Hoosegow for Frosh Students

LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 3. (AP)—Determined to end the outside activities of fraternity pledges during "Hell week" which precedes initiation, Lawrence city and county police last night rounded up 34 University of Kansas freshmen fraternity pledges and held them in jail overnight on vagrancy charges.

The three youths arrested by the county officials were released with a warning today, but the city authorities announced the 31 students they picked up would be brought into police court Monday and possibly fined on vagrancy charges.

University and police officials recently warned the fraternities to confine "Hell week" stunts to their respective houses as the practice of sending roughly dressed "frosh" out on secret missions was considered dangerous and was causing many reports of prowlers being about with the possibility that some one might be shot.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith had no opportunity to read her letter from Nils Jonson until after Cherry and Bob had departed for the office, and even when she found herself alone she held the big square white envelope in her hands for a long time, dreading to open it.

Despising her own cowardice, Faith seized her amber-handled nail file and slit the envelope.

"Dear Faith—" Hope quivered in her heart. He would not address her in that way if he intended to retract his confession of love for Cherry— "Rhoda writes me that you have been dangerously ill, but that you are now recovering. I am still suffering from the shock of the news. Please take the best possible care of yourself.

"I'm rather keen to get a report from Rhoda's singing teacher on her progress and prospects, and still more eager to see you. I want to see for myself that they are taking good care of you. As it happens, business is taking me to Darrow this week, and I'd like to drop in on you on Wednesday or Thursday, if you'll let me. I shall wire or telephone from Darrow on Wednesday to confirm, but until then I'd appreciate it if you kept my prospective visit a secret between you and Hathaway and me. Of course you may drop a hint to Rhoda, if you like.

"Now, please, don't be ill again. There are too many of us who need you. Nils."

"Rhoda!" Faith sang out joyously when she heard the patter of quick busy feet down the hall. "Nils is coming Wednesday or Thursday. He has business in Darrow—or so he says," she laughed, when Nils' sister came running breathlessly into the room.

"If that isn't just like a man!" Rhoda scoffed when she had read the letter. "Wednesday or Thursday! As if Cherry didn't have a thing in the world to do but sit around with her hands folded, waiting for that conceited brother of mine to show up! Cherry said at breakfast that she was going to a masquerade ball with Mr. Warren. Wouldn't it be awful if he came on Wednesday night and missed her?"

"I hadn't thought of that," Faith confessed dubiously. "I wish Nils had been more definite, or that he had not asked me to keep his coming a secret from her. I can't ask her to refuse the invitation, without giving any reason at all. I told her I was glad she was going—that I thought she needed some gayety. What shall we do, Rhoda?"

Rhoda tucked her honey-colored head on one side and studied Faith through guileless China-blue eyes. "You look awfully pale to me, Mrs. Hathaway. I honestly think you're going to be feeling just awful by Wednesday night, and I shan't be able to stay with Hope. I—I have a previous engagement."

"You're a shameless little liar, Rhoda," Faith laughed. "No, I'm not going to cheat Cherry out of her party unless I'm absolutely sure Nils is coming on Wednesday. If he phones that he is, I shall tell her the truth and let her decide whether she wants to see him or go to the ball."

"I've always found that it pays to obey Nils, and Nils said she wasn't to know," Rhoda protested apologetically.

The Constant Flame

By Winifred Van Duzer Author of "THE GOOD BAD GIRL," "GOLDEN ROADS," "THRILL HUNTERS" and Other Popular Serials (Copyright, 1927, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

What Has Happened So Far

Emily Day and her lively sister, Kitten are daughters of a worker at Rossiter factory. Both are prevented by poverty from mingling with the society elect of the little town. Emily has made an ideal of Kent Rossiter. Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy" is devoted to her and she is astonished at his popularity with the rich girls who snub her. Mrs. Frances Halden, a wealthy interior decorator, gives Emily a job and tells her the only aristicracy is that of work. Emily grows jealous of Marilee Grainger, supposed to be engaged to Kent, but he follows Emily into a moonlit garden, after a party, kisses her and calls her beautiful. He leaves town to study law but remains a vivid memory to Emily. Marty tells her he too is to become a lawyer. Emily's father dies and Frances Halden introduces her to Kingdon Coles, a dramatic critic who is greatly taken with her. Emily sees Stella Brent, daughter of a neighbor and Skeets Bradley, a reckless youth of wealthy parents, drinking liquor on the sly. Meanwhile Emily finds her hands full with Kitten. Stella confesses that she's in love with Skeets.

She and Stella see Marty kissing Avis Rossiter and hear him tell her he wouldn't marry her in a million years.

Kitten meets Ted Lanier, goes on an auto ride with him and promises to meet him again.

Marty calmly tells Emily that some day he intends to marry her.

Now Go On With the Story

Kingdon Coles makes love to Emily, but she finds she cannot forget Kent.

CHAPTER XX

Three little girls were rushing down Main street again; fleeing before long rays of light thrust far out by the sinking sun.

Three heads nodding, the black, the brown, the red; three pairs of eyes darting this way and that, coming together, glancing away. Three pairs of scarlet lips—too scarlet for young faces—smiling at anything or nothing.

People turning. Some saying, "There's the Brent kid. They're telling how her sister—"

Some asking, "Who's the little devil in the middle; one with the bright hair?"

One who said nothing but stared. Not a tall man, but one women usually saw. A dark face; depths in the eyes. Depths with an undertow. A half smile, inviting as an upraised hand, curiously mocking.

Trim, dancer's figure in gray flannels; bronzed skin. A person someway akin to the huge, sleek wolf-dog pacing beside it.

Flossie wriggled and pinched Kitten's arm. "Know who it is? Nicky Wickert. Gosh! Say, look't the hound. Say—"

Kitten snapped. "Be yourself can't you? What do I care who he is? Hope he remembers us next time."

But she knew he hadn't seen the others. And when she tried to stare back at him her lashes drooped and her face stained brightly.

Just passing there on the street his personality was like a flame searing through her; she quickened her step—hurried the other two on—but even when they stopped before the ice cream shop she could feel the tingle.

Now she glanced backward; he was standing where she had seen him first, the dog at his side, looking after her.

"Well, they say he's a great ole sheik. All the swells crazy over him. What you sore about, Kitten? Sure gave you a tumble, he did."

"Will you shut up? Talk like a rubber dumbbell. I'm not going in here with you."

"Ah, we didn't mean anything Kitten. C'mon now—"

"No. Listen, Dottie; sneak home the back way so Em won't see you. If she snoops over stay out of sight. I'm with you, see? How about it?"

"Oh, Kit, tell us! Is it a date? Listen—"

"Maybe I will sometime. You'll do that, Dottie? Em's that grouchy."

Dottie said she would, her eyes very round. She turned into the icecream shop reluctantly, and Kitten went on down Main street alone.

She turned at the River road and began to walk slowly. At Brookside the big car of another adventure drew up and Ted Lanier helped her in.

"Thought you'd come, Red-head. Hows my new girl?"

"You needn't be so sure of yourself and I'm not your girl."

"All right, Spit-fire. Will be, though. Where'll we go?"

"You're driving."

"Careless as that, eh? Right-o, and don't forget you asked for it."

She stretched herself out on the deeply-cushioned seat and took off her hat. The car moved rapidly and smoothly and the feel of luxury wrapped her like velvet.

Living, this was; not the stupid, cat-on-the-hearth nonsense Emily always was dinging at her.

What did it get Emily? Working her head off, getting all her kick out of scrimping to buy a shop. As if a girl wanted to slave all her life! Em never did know how to play; when she found it out some day she'd be wrinkled and gray and nobody'd give her a tumble. Some people were so darned goody-good it hurt to look at them.

"What you thinking about, Firefly?"

"Not you."

"Sweet tempered little thing, aren't you? Need taming."

"Suppose you're the one can do it, too."

"Maybe," the boy drawled with a laugh. He turned the car up South Mountain and headed for the country, the way they had taken the other day.

He was a good looking chap, Kitten decided, and not stuckupsie even for the Norrises. A slender young fellow, not more than 21, with a pleasant, frank face and eyes that looked straight at her when he spoke.

His hands weren't like a rich boy's, either; they were hardened and stained. But that, she thought, might come from working around the car, since he probably drove a lot. She asked him if he were visiting in Lyall.

"Beginning to take an interest, I see."

"Don't flatter yourself."

"Yeh? Say, I like 'em snappy. No, I'm living here and now I'm glad I am. You know why, too, Pepperbox. With the wind blowing your hair that you you look like a three-alarm fire."

"Old stuff."

"Well, you're no Miss Methusalah," he remarked and grinned at her look of fury.

When they came to Deep Valley inn he turned up the drive. A half dozen cars were parked in the grounds and he moved in beside them, shutting off his engine without a word. Kitten protested.

"I didn't say I'd come here."

"You said I was driving. Of course if you don't want to stop—"

But she did. She had heard about this place; curiosity burned through her. She walked beside him up one of the verandas and into a long, low hall hung with antlers and hunting pictures. No one was there and she found this disappointing; she was still more disappointed when they were conducted to a little square room opening directly on the grounds.

"Didn't need to be tucked away in here," she complained.

"But you don't come here to be seen exactly." He looked at her curiously. "Honestly haven't you ever made this dead-fall before?"

She wouldn't let him think she never had been anywhere. Just a stay-at-home kid. No way to get along, that wasn't. Floss had told her better.

So she smiled in Flossie's best manner and he said, "Oh, I see, that's all right then." And when the waiter put before them something pinkish that smelled like lemonade she remarked more graciously, that she liked the color.

"Yeh? It's that sloe but sure shade. Two of those and—"

But she didn't drink two. She laughed a great deal after the first and made many witty and interesting remarks and couldn't imagine why everything seemed so comical. Even Ted, who hadn't been especially funny at first, suddenly was very much so indeed.

It was about half way through the second that something heavy seemed to fall from nowhere and strike the top of her head. After that there was a dim impression of one asking "All right, now?" And of strong arms gathering her up.

After a longer while a rush of wind against her face made her wonder dizzily if they were driving again.

ANTI-BRITISH RIOT GREETS ARRIVAL OF KING'S COMMISSION

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 3. (AP)—Because natives had threatened a hostile demonstration armed police guarded the docks this morning when the Royal Commission on Indian Reforms headed by Sir John Simon, arrived. A procession of demonstrators gathered outside the entrance to the docks but were unable to enter.

The Simon party was welcomed by the governor and officials and stayed aboard their ship for some time. They later went to the government house.

A procession of about 350 persons clad in white paraded through the streets with black banners inscribed with denunciations of the commission.

Agitators touring the city in automobiles urged the people to observe "a hartal"—a day of mourning signalized by the closing of the shops. Some shops did close, as did several colleges and the cotton market. Mill owners decided they would run their mills as long as workers appeared.

The commission left later in the day for Delhi.

Demonstration at Calcutta

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 3. (AP)—A day of mourning known as a "hartal," organized as a boycott of the Royal Commission on Indian Reforms, gave Calcutta a holiday appearance today. Most Hindu and some Mohammedan shops were closed.

Hooligans in South Calcutta smashed the windows of trams and busses. Twenty of them were arrested by police and later released. Tramway and bus service was continued under police protection. Four armored cars patrolled the district in which disorder occurred.

Police Fire on Rioters

MADRAS, India, Feb. 3. (AP)—Police fired on persons staging a demonstration in connection with the arrival of the Royal Commission on Indian Reforms in India today.

One person was killed and five seriously injured.

The trouble arose when the crowd attacked a shop which had remained open despite the hartal—day of mourning—proclaimed in connection with the arrival of the commission, headed by Sir John Simon.

The crowd stoned the shop and broke its windows. Empty bottles were thrown at the crowd which replied with a fusilade of stones.

Armed police soon arrived on the scene but the stone throwing continued. Some constables were injured. The shop was closed eventually.

Practically all shops and Indian business premises were closed here. Omnibuses and rickshaws are not running.

Noted Baritone Marries.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—Reinald Werrenrath, noted baritone, and his bride, the former Verna Nidig, of Chevy Chase and Washington, were on their honeymoon today after a quiet marriage in Weehawken, N. J.

WIDOW OF SLAIN COWBOY OF FILMS WINS LONG FIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3. (AP)—Mrs. Sarah Kerrick, widow of Tom Kerrick, film cowboy who was fatally shot during an early morning drinking party in his home here several months ago, was free today after a long legal battle to clear herself of manslaughter charges.

Mrs. Kerrick was found not guilty by a jury in district court here yesterday after deliberating an hour and a half on the case. It was her second trial, she and four others having been convicted of manslaughter in the first case.

The other defendants, Iris Burns, Henry Isabel, and Anita Davis, all film extras, and Joe Hunt, Arizona cowboy, were freed by the district attorney's office after the appellate court reversed the findings in the case and ordered a retrial. The prosecution then dismissed the charges against all but Mrs. Kerrick.

Mrs. Kerrick testified that her husband was killed during a free for all scuffle for possession of a pistol, and that she did not know who was responsible for firing the shot. The testimony of several witnesses was that all five of the defendants were so intoxicated that they had no clear recollection of the tragedy.

WOMEN—FREE!

You BUY 2 Boxes of Kotex for 98c

You GET One Full-Sized Box FREE

Thus you receive 3 boxes on payment of only 98c—Offer Limited—Act Promptly

Made to acquaint all women with the remarkable protective features of KOTEX—features found in no other sanitary accessory known

TO show women the remarkable difference and vastly greater protection of Kotex over any other sanitary accessory known, this unique offer is made . . . three regular 65c boxes of Kotex, a $1.95 value, on payment of 98c.

Go today to any store in this city, or out of town, where Kotex is sold and take advantage of this opportunity. But do not delay. All dealers' stocks are limited. If you come late, you cannot be supplied.

The difference between Kotex and other sanitary pads

Kotex is utterly different from all other sanitary pads. There is no other "like" Kotex.

Kotex is the one and only sanitary pad filled with the super-absorbent Cellucotton wadding.

Thus Kotex has the amazing power of absorbing 16 times its own weight in moisture! Thus Kotex has 5 times the absorbency of the ordinary cotton-filled pad! Think what this means in protection.

Because of these exclusive features Kotex has changed the hygienic habits of the world. It has made sheerest frocks safe under the most trying hygienic handicap women know. Eight in ten better-class women of America have adopted Kotex—for health's sake and for peace-of-mind.

Discards like tissue—No disposal problem

One uses Kotex, then discards it—as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry. No problem of disposal. Think, too, what this means.

Deodorizes while it acts

Another factor is that KOTEX is scientifically permeated—under a process applied to no other sanitary pad—with a highly effective deodorant.

That means that Kotex deodorizes thoroughly and absolutely as it acts. Which banishes another old-time fear of women.

More than a "sanitary pad"—True Scientific Protection

Kotex comes as the result of years of scientific experiment.

It is made under hospital standards of sanitation and safety.

It embodies scientific protection that is sure and positive . . . features unknown to any other sanitary accessory in the world today.

Accept this offer

Today accept the remarkable offer named above on Kotex.

Find out for yourself why millions of women use it. Find out why experts say, "Only Kotex itself is 'like' Kotex—Only Kotex itself is Kotex."

This amazing bargain now on display at your favorite store. Take advantage of this offer today

IMPORTANT!

Why gamble with substitutes hospitals have tried and rejected?

More than 75% of all recognized hospitals in America use Cellucotton absorbent wadding in their surgical departments—the same material that is used exclusively as a filler in Kotex pads.

Many hospitals have tried substitutes for Cellucotton wadding, but have returned to the exclusive use of this marvelous absorbent, which towers above all low-quality absorbents.

Good hospitals and reputable surgeons take no chances with their patients. Why then should you allow any merchant to substitute a pad made of inferior material when you wish the only original Kotex?

In spite of cheaper substitutes, hospitals have purchased at regular prices 1,441,152 Kotex pads this year for their patients. Doctors insist on Kotex for patients. Will you accept less?

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin—Matt. 6:28.

Faith is the soul going out of itself for all its wants.—Boston.

A BRITISH JOURNALIST'S VIEWPOINT

The trouble with many American newspapers, according to J. A. Spender, noted British publisher, is that they are not run by newspapermen. He went on to explain that such newspapers are directed, not from the editorial office, but from the business office; in other words that reporting and editorial work are subordinated to the advertising columns.

Mr. Spender is correct, as far as he goes. He might have gone further, and noted that the most readable newspapers in this country are those where the condition of which he speaks does not obtain. He might have observed, even, that not only the most readable papers, but the most successful ones, as those which are "run" by men who have had editorial experience and who do not permit the business office to dominate.

There are, as Mr. Spender observes, a good many newspapers of the other kind. Within the past decade there has been a decided trend in American journalism toward business office domination. Just now, there are signs of a contrary trend. It has been found that where the dollar-mark has ruled a newspaper, that paper has become of less value to the advertiser. It has forfeited public good will and public confidence, and that condition has reacted on the advertiser. In the long run, the newspaper which endeavors to be fair and untrammeled in the news and editorials it publishes is worth far more to the advertiser than the one which permits its editorial policy to be colored by the buyer of advertising space.

THE SEARCH WARRANT LAW AGAIN.

The confusion which has encompassed the search warrant law in this state for several years past has been dissipated to some extent by the most recent ruling of the court of criminal appeals, in holding that warrants may be based only on "information and belief." This ruling reverses one formerly handed down by the same court, holding that officers desiring to search a residence for liquor must have positive evidence, supported by affidavits, in order to obtain a legal search warrant. That ruling resulted in the dismissal of hundreds of cases in which indictments had been returned, prosecuting attorneys realizing the futility of obtaining valid convictions.

The latest ruling seems to have common sense as an ingredient. There are places in practically every community that are known to be retailing liquor, yet which, under the previous ruling, could not be raided unless some purchaser could be found who would make an affidavit. The newest ruling puts the responsibility upon the justice of the peace in the issuance of warrants, and indicates that where such a magistrate abuses his discretion, the warrant will be held invalid.

The previous ruling made a mockery of the law. It offered a measure of protection that was illogical. The new ruling serves to clear the way, but it does not obviate the need for additional legislation that will make plain the duties and rights of peace officers in this respect.

ATHEISTIC "MISSIONARIES."

Something of a stir was created in school circles at Amarillo recently by reports that a representative of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism was at work among the high school students, trying to enlist them in that organization. There have been reports from other cities, of efforts of this Association to recruit members among high school and college students. In Amarillo, steps are being taken to combat the association's work.

Any movement for the spread of atheism is foredoomed to failure, in the long run, and yet we can see wherein such a movement may be of benefit. If it wakes up the churches and social agencies to the fact that the youth of today is more apt to think for himself, less apt to be bound by tradition, than the youth of a generation ago, it will have served a useful purpose. If it helps to put parents and teachers on notice that it is time to renovate old ideas and methods, it will have done some good; not along the lines that its backers contemplate, but some good, nevertheless.

THE CITY MANAGER PLAN.

Near 400 American municipalities now have city managers, according to a recent compilation. The city-manager communities range in size from 500 population, represented by McCracken, Kansas, to 800,000 population, represented by Cleveland, Ohio. States in which the idea has gained most headway are Texas, Michigan, Florida, California, Virginia, Oklahoma and Ohio, a rather diversified group. In all there are 34 states in which there are cities with city managers. The city managers range in age from 21 to 70 years and the salary range is $1500 to $25,000. A competent city manager, presumably, gets better pay than the governors of most states.

The city manager idea is 20 years old, having started in Staunton, Va., in 1908. By 1918, there were only fifteen communities that had employed city managers. Since 1920 it has spread quite rapidly, especially in the West.

We have not seen any figures on the number of cities which, having once adopted the city manager plan, later discarded it. Probably the number of such cities is small. It would be interesting just now to learn why they were dissatisfied with it.

RECALLING OUR KISSING GAMES.

She is very proper now, there are furrows in her brow,
And her hair is tinged quite visibly with gray,
And I chuckled as I heard her deploring as absurd
The doings of the youngsters of today.

In a manner dignified, she most fluently decried
The passing of the generation old,
And she gave it as her view that the things the youngsters do
Are decidedly too brazen and too bold.

And she said, though not in rhyme: "Necking parties are a crime.
We never acted that way in our youth."
But I knew her as a maid; recalling games we'd played
I knew that she had wandered from the truth.

Oh, her cheeks went flaming red, as I looked at her and said:
"Mary, dear, with that you cannot get away.
In the days which you review, many a kiss I gave to you
In those parlor kissing games we used to play."

To her face there came a grin, as I named "Clap Out! Clap In!"
"Post Office" as the games we used to play.
And I said: "Though older grown, let the dreadful truth be known,
We did our share of kissing in our day."

Adult Education—a Fear

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine

The American has a genius for organization.

We are adept at putting over an idea quickly.

This genius is invaluable in the building and management of a great civilization, provided the organizer is kept in his place; but in America most movements get into the hands of the organizers too soon; the moment an idea looks good in the abstract we get busy with organization charts, and before the idea has accumulated enough meaning and momentum to stand alone and head itself toward a well-considered goal, it has a national secretary, a board of directors, and local chapters throughout the country, with the result that the busy organizer is dictating policy as well as procedure.

Efficient organization at a too early stage has killed many creative ideas.

I fear that adult education is in danger of being ruined by its over anxious friends.

The budding adult education movement represents one of the most significant impulses and ideas of this generation; it assumes that education is not an affair of the schools that ends with a diploma, but a process that must continue throughout life, a process in which a man's school days are but an incident.

Here is a magnificent chance to do something new and creative and real in education; in adult education we are not tied hand and foot with a thousand and one academic traditions about what shall be studied and how it shall be studied; there are no vested interests of professors and departments and courses of study standing in the way of a fresh facing of the question—How can a man best go about the business of becoming an educated human being?

Let's be honest; our schools are loaded down with things to study and ways of studying them that bear little if any vital relation to the human problem of getting ourselves in position to live happily and work effectively.

Suppose no college existed. Suppose we had a clean slate upon which to write. I cannot conceive a dozen highly intelligent men, faced with the problem of preparing 3,000 young Americans for intelligent and effective participation in modern society, setting up for the first time in 1928 the courses of study and the methods of teaching now employed in any American college.

The fact is that the American college, in its course of study, the arrangement of the subject-matter presented, and the methods of teaching, is almost wholly dictated by the professional interests of the teacher rather than by the educational needs of the student. And yet all these things are sanctified by a century of usage and entangled in vested interests that nothing short of a revolution will change.

What a chance in adult education to bring a new reality into education!

And yet the danger is that, in our passion for organizing nation-wide movements, we shall do little more than lift over into the field of adult education all the artificialities and sterilities of our conventional schooling.

In the field of adult education, we must either think faster or organize more slowly.

The Insanity Defense

Characterizing as disgraceful attempts to make mental irresponsibility an excuse for behavior not in accordance with accepted standards, Dr. Frederick W. Parsons, head of the Department of Mental Hygiene, in a radio talk over WGY last night made scathing reference to "brainstorms," "emotional insanity," "transitory insanity" and "twilight states" in obvious reference to recent notorious criminal trials.

The result, Dr. Parsons declared, is public suspicion of the medical and legal fraternity, with accompanying that such "insults to group intelligence will continue as long as they succeed."

Translated, it is apparent that Dr. Parsons has George Remus in mind when he speaks of "brainstorms" and "transitory insanity." "Emotional insanity" is now being pleaded for Edward Hickman, the Los Angeles child murderer, and "twilight states" took its place in medical jurisprudence along with efforts to keep Ruth Snyder from the death chair.

"When," declared Dr. Parsons, "we speak of mental conditions which range all the way from absolute insanity to superior mental ability, we are dealing with something of which we have incomplete information. At either extreme there is no difference of opinion, but in the middle group contention arises. Mental diseases, presupposing prolonged departures from mental health, fall as to do physical diseases into fairly well settled groups. They are understandable and to persons suffering from a well defined mental disease the world owes protection.

"To individuals who for years have gone about their ordinary affairs, associated with their friends and prosecuted their business, having been generally accepted as rational beings, the world owes nothing. Theirs is the debt. They owe to society obedience to its conventions, and if they transgress the law the penalty should be enforced.

"To painstakingly search their past in attempting to discover an illness which was unnoticed by those with whom they were in daily contact is to magnify out of its real importance every advantageous feature which can be marshalled by a paid advocate, resourceful and often none too scrupulous."—Albany dispatch to Buffalo Evening News.

Tom Connally of Texas

Tom Connally is a native Texan. He is a product of the public schools and Baylor university and the state university. He was a student at Baylor when the Spanish-American war came. He deserted his classes and made his way to San Antonio bent upon serving his country as a soldier.

For a young man he has had long service in the lower house of the American congress. He is a member of important committees. He is active in the councils of the Democratic party in state as well as in nation. He held public office before he became a congressman. For years and years Robert L. Henry was the representative of the Marlin district. He aspired to a seat in the senate. What happened to Henry is ancient history.

He is an eloquent speaker as well as a ready debater. He has been a soldier in two wars as well as a lawmaker for years.

When the world war came, or rather, when the United States, under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson, entered the world war upon the side of the allies for the purpose of ending all wars in future, Connally of Texas deserted his seat in the lower house and offered his services to his country as a soldier.

He has a record as a lawmaker, a soldier who saw service under the flag of two wars, a citizen who has served his state in minor positions before he won his place in the national sun, a president maker who has served as a delegate in several conventions and was an eye-witness to the falling of the flag on the political fortunes of William Gibbs McAdoo in the Golden Gate city of California, and four years later in the imperial metropolis of America at the Madison Square Garden convention, where the Democrats of America appeared in their old role of suicide makers.

There is going to be a fierce battle for the possession of the senatorial prize in Texas this year.—Waco Times-Herald.

Young Men and Politics

The professional politician is passing; the political leader in America of tomorrow will be the young man who has made a success of business life and who takes a thorough knowledge of business and human nature into politics. So equipped, he will owe no debt to selfish interests and will be capable of running government on the business basis which the American people are coming to demand.

I don't think highly of a professional political career for anybody. Politics is not a separate branch of knowledge. It needs a very deep background of general experience.

No man, in my opinion, is qualified to assume political power until he has served a long apprenticeship in private business and has learned its connection with public affairs. It is on the broad basis of sound business economics that the business of the state should be conducted.

Let the young men and women with ambitions to hold office first demonstrate in other lines, in business, economics, finance, social service that they are fit to be trusted in office. Otherwise we shall never reach that point where other nations shall cease to marvel that private business in America is so marvelously efficient and public business so notoriously inefficient.—Governor Harry F. Byrd in McClure's Magazine.

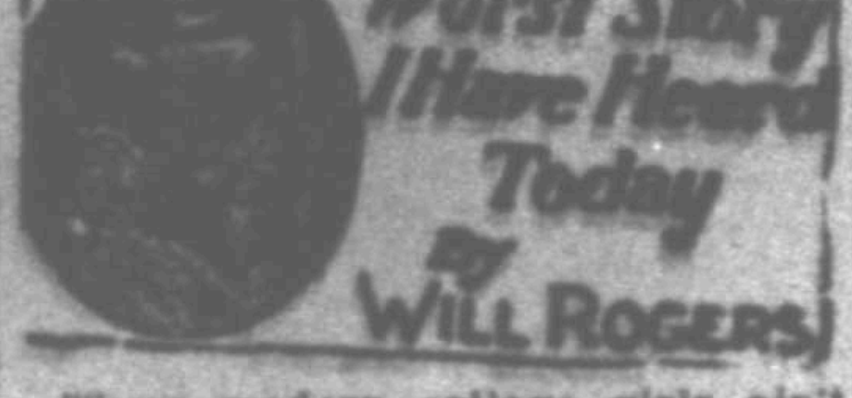
Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS



These modern college girls ain't afraid of anybody. Especially, I understand, they ain't afraid of their teachers. Well there was a girl that wanted to get out of going to classes for a couple of weeks and she went to the president of the little college she was going to, and says, "Say, I gotta get away for two weeks. I have a letter from my mother, and she says I have to go home and take care of her while she gets over the grip."

"Well," says the prexy, "I guess I got you there. I got later news. I got a letter right here in my desk from your mother, telling me to keep you in school at any cost."

The girl was a little bit puzzled. "You're a better liar than I am, I reckon, and you win," she says. "I ain't got any mother, and haven't had any since I was two years old."

20 Years Ago TODAY

From the Files of
THE WICHITA DAILY TIMES

February 3, 1908

(Editorial) A short time ago the esteemed Abilene-Reporter referred to Wichita Falls as being a town of about one-third the population of Abilene. These figures will have to be revised now, according to the poll tax record. There were just 727 people who paid this tax in Abilene in time to qualify as voters, while 662 did the same thing in Wichita Falls—a difference in favor of Abilene of only 65. At the same rate of increase, the difference one year from now will be in Wichita Falls' favor.

Climax in Student Debate Reached When Leader of Faction Gets "Bath" As Masked "Valets" Shave His Pate

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 3. (AP)—Seized by nine hooded men when he was called to the door, Marian A. Zioncheck, president of the University of Washington student body, last night was bound and gagged and driven to the shores of Lake Washington, where he was ducked, paddled and his head shaved.

The kidnaping was the high spot of two months of dispute between campus leaders over student policies, Zioncheck being the center of one group while the university daily newspaper headed the other faction.

Zioncheck said he was called to the door presumably to receive a letter, but was grabbed by nine hooded men who whisked him away in an automobile to an unfrequented spot. There he was trussed to a tree, and all but a small portion on the top of his head shaved.

He declared he was paddled when he refused to take various oaths. Later his clothes were removed and he was again tied and thrown twice into the water. Then he declared he was left to find his own way home.

HICKMAN'S MOTHER TELLS OF BOY'S LIFE

only person in the world entirely free of emotion."

A written relation of these claims, asserted to have been penned by Hickman was offered in evidence by Walsh.

District Attorney Asa Keyes protested the introduction of "tommyrot" written after the prisoner had confessed the crime and been incarcerated in jail for several weeks.

Judge Trabucco ordered "no argument" as Walsh hotly replied to Keyes. The court glanced over the written sheets and quickly ruled "objections sustained." Walsh retrieved the papers.

Hickman declared that if he was hanged there would be a great catastrophe or earthquake that would shake down the jail, the witness testified under cross examination.

Hickman was "very serious" about his delusions of Divine guidance, but at the same time "would laugh in telling about it," the witness declared to Keyes.

The state attacked the witness' declaration that Hickman's insanity was "an early and not a tail end case." Keyes asked him if he had not testified that the disease began when Hickman was about 12 years old. The witness stammeringly admitted he had.

Eight-Year Disease

"That's eight years of development of the disease, isn't it?"

"Well, I don't know; well, I couldn't say how fast it had developed," the witness testified.

"But eight years wouldn't be called an early case?"

"Well, I couldn't say."

As the witness started his indefinite and uncertain replies some of the jurors exchanged glances and grins.

Dr. A. L. Skoog of the University of Kansas and staff member of a Kansas City, Mo., hospital, the next defense alienist, testified to examining the defendant six times between January 25 and February 1 and that on his diagnosis he "believed him to be insane."

The horrifying details of the murder and mutilation of little Marian Parker, the fitful thoughts and schemes of the killer and the innermost secrets of the Hickman family have found their way into the records of the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman, confessed slayer.

Before the close of yesterday's court session two of the three expert witnesses for the defense had started to draw from the evidence the conclusions with which his attorneys will attempt to convince the jury of eight men and four women that Hickman was unable to distinguish between right and wrong at the time he kidnaped and murdered the Los Angeles school girl.

Mother Takes Stand

To the evidence was added a mother's story of grief, a father's tearful account of his married life and a brother's matter-of-fact idea of the prisoner's mental status as well as the grim testimony of a police officer.

It was the latter and a newspaper photographer who brought into the court records the morgue photographs of the girl's dismembered body and the big jackknife which Hickman declared was the weapon he used.

As the afternoon session came to a close a defense alienist, Dr. R. O. Shelton of Los Angeles, declared from the witness stand that Hickman was insane—a victim of dementia praecox, paranoid type, a sufferer of delusions of grandeur and megalomania.

The other defense scientific man to testify was Dr. J. M. Fettus of Los Angeles, a physician. Hickman, he said, was undersized in makeup, had low blood pressure and had "serous meningitis." This last in ordinary language means that the brain covering is inflamed.

The final witness for the defense will be Dr. A. S. Skoog, Kansas City alienist and considered by Hickman's counsel as their star witness. Attorneys said it was possible that the prosecution would be hurling its rebuttal evidence against the defense's case before the close of court today.

The appearance of the prisoner's mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman of Kansas City, on the witness stand was one of the dramatic events of the trial. His father, William Thomas Hickman of El Paso, Texas, and the defendant's brother, Alfred Hickman of Kansas City, had preceded her as witnesses.

"He is my son," said the mother, identifying the youth in whose defense her own past and alleged mental weakness have been paraded through the trial. "He was good to me and then he changed," she continued. That change, she declared, occurred when he had returned to Kansas City after his arrest and conviction in Los Angeles of check forgeries.

That change also was noted in the testimony of the brother. He declared that the accused youth seemed to have things on his mind which he did not want to tell about. He said that he didn't think the fact that Edward, as he was known in the family, had murdered a man here in December, 1926, had any part in causing him to be sullen when he returned to Kansas City last summer.

In contrast with the relative composure of mother and son on the witness stand, Hickman's father testified in a voice that trembled and tears rolled down his face as he told of his married life. He told of threats made against his life by his wife, and declared he believed she was insane and her father "rational, but peculiar."

He admitted that, after leaving his family while William Edward still was a small boy, he married again in northern Mexico.

Mrs. Hickman in her testimony had declared she once had attempted suicide "because nobody seemed to want or care about" her. Hickman denied that his relations with other women, which featured defense depositions, had anything to do with his wife's mental condition.

C. OF C. MAY BRING VALLEY SETTLERS FROM WISCONSIN

The agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce was instructed to confer with local landowners and members of the real estate board in connection with plans for running a special train from Wisconsin to Wichita Falls next spring, it was announced following a meeting of the board of directors at the chamber of commerce Friday morning.

The purpose of the train will be to bring Wisconsin farmers to the Wichita Valley to assist in colonization of irrigated farms.

The directors went over the plans for this year carefully and passed a resolution opposing the proposed discontinuance of two trains to Abilene by the Wichita Valley railroad.

J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial manager, was authorized to appear before the Texas Railroad Commission in opposition to the proposed discontinuance.

The directors heard a report from the grand opera committee.

UNIDENTIFIED MEXICAN KILLED AT FORT WORTH

FORT WORTH, Feb. 3. (AP)—An unidentified Mexican about 40 was murdered and robbed Thursday night in an alley in the downtown section. The man had been shot once through the heart, police who investigated, found.

Pockets in the dead man's coat and trousers were rifled, indicating that robbery was the motive that prompted the shooting.

The Mexican fell 30 feet from the place where a small note book was discovered by Police Captain George Hale. Two empty shells from a .45 caliber gun were discovered by officers who searched the alley.

An abandoned coupe, found a block distant from the place where the Mexican's body was discovered and a leather scabbard which Captain Hale discovered in the car may be the means of determining the slayer, according to police.

Mexicans and neighbors living in the neighborhood told of hearing two shots fired shortly after 11 p. m. Thursday.

DALLAS, Feb. 3. (AP)—Describing himself as an escaped convict who had surrendered to Greenville officers Wednesday night because he was "tired of running from the law," a man who claimed to have spent 10 years in the Argentine since his escape from the penitentiary was brought to the Dallas county jail by Hunt county officers Thursday. The man said he was convicted 12 years ago of bootlegging.

SONS OF BRITAIN'S KING MARCH BEHIND WAR HERO'S CASKET

ENGLAND HOLDS LAST RITES FOR GREAT GENERAL OF WORLD WAR FAME

FINAL SERVICE FOR EARL HAIG IMPRESSIVE RITE

Marshal Foch and Other Great Leaders of World War Act As Haig's Pallbearers.

LONDON, Feb. 3. (AP)—While all England mourned and three sons of his king led the three-mile procession from St. Columba's to Westminster Abbey, the body of Field Marshal Earl Haig today was borne through the streets of London in one of the greatest military pageants in the history of the historic British capital.

It was a pageant of poignant memories. The casket was wrapped in a weather-worn Union Jack which had served a similar function on the Cenotaph—Britain's memorial to her hero dead. The body also was borne on the guncarriage on which had been mounted the gun which fired Britain's first shot in the world war. It was the same guncarriage, too, on which the body of Britain's unknown soldier was taken tenderly to his last resting place.

Today seven mounted men drew it slowly and men's heads everywhere were bared as the casket came into sight and passed along the thoroughfares.

Great Military Pageant

To the muffled music of a military band whose strains the field marshal had loved, the procession moved through silent streets crowded with tens of thousands of men, women and children. There were many weeping women and most of them wore black and carried little bunches of red paper Flanders poppies, symbolical of heroic sacrifice and devotion.

There were numerous medalled men along the line of march and other veterans who had fought in France and Flanders fields under Britain's great soldier. Many of them, carrying sad scars from the battlefields, made no effort to hide their emotion.

Behind the casket were the pallbearers chosen from among the great leaders of the allied forces. They were headed by Marshal Foch, generalissimo of the allied and associated armies in the war, and Marshal Petain, commander of the French armies. Both wore the long light blue coats of the French army, and their caps were of red and gold.

Even Skies Weep

Lieut. Gen. Baron De Ceyninck, representing the Belgian army, came next with Field Marshal Lord Methuen, despite his 82 years, alert and firm of step, marching with bowed head. The plumes on the hats of the field marshals waved gently in a breeze which at times was dampened by mists and a suggestion of rain as the long procession slowly made its way to England's great abbey of remembrance.

Two others of Marshal Haig's allies, those of the sea and the air, Admiral Earl Jellicoe and Admiral Earl Beatty, walked side by side, while Sir Hugh Trenchard, in royal air force blue, represented the flying service.

Then came perhaps the most touching spectacle of the procession as seen by the public—Earl Haig's batman or devoted servant for nearly 30 years, Sergeant Secrett, who was with the field marshal when he died, and walked sorrowfully with bowed head in the wake of the guncarriage.

Three of King George's sons were in the said procession, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and Prince Henry.

England began its final farewell to her great field marshal who led Britain's armies to victory in the war, at a service in St. Columba's, Earl Haig's own little church in London, this morning, and again at Westminster Abbey. But it was mostly by the crowded thousands in the streets that the nation paid homage to the man who led the military forces that saved it, and whose body now is on its way back to Scotland for a simple burial among his ancestors.

The great military funeral procession, the like of which has not been seen in London for generations, preceded the main service at Westminster Abbey, where the great men and women of the country assembled to honor Haig's memory, and with them the envoys of all nations, including Alanson B. Houghton, American ambassador in London, representing the United States.

FORT WORTH MAN DEAD RESULT AUTO ACCIDENT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 3. (AP)—One man lost his life when struck by an automobile as he was crossing the street to board a street car and another narrowly escaped death when the car he was driving was hit by a freight train here early Friday.

T. O. McIntosh, 58, died in St. Joseph's infirmary this morning 20 minutes after he had been knocked to the pavement by an automobile driven by Hoy B. Huff.

T. A. Powers, 32, sustained cuts and bruises about the face and head and injuries to his shoulder when his automobile was struck by a Santa Fe switch engine at a crossing.

In a statement made to Assistant District Attorney McConnell, Huff, a high school student, said that he was returning home after delivering milk on his route when he struck McIntosh.

Huff said he was driving 20 miles an hour when a man stepped off the curb, apparently with the intention of boarding an approaching street car and Huff did not see the man until he was about 20 feet away. Although he applied his brakes, Huff said he couldn't stop in time to prevent hitting the man.

A Leap Year Duel

PILISVOEROESVAR.—Leap year was ushered into this town with a duel between two young maidens who had matrimonial designs on the same man. Luise Fazekas met her rival on one of the main thoroughfares. When they could not agree as to which should have the man of their choice they drew penknives and proceeded to slash away in such a convincing manner that the crowd had difficulty in stopping the combat. They were hustled off to different physicians for repairs.

POLICE SEARCH FOR HIJACKER OF SWITCHMAN

Police officers were searching Friday for a man who is alleged to have beaten and robbed Sam Woods, a railroad switchman en route from Texline to Fort Worth, on the road to Lake Wichita Thursday night.

E. F. Fruechte, assistant district attorney, who questioned the taxi cab driver who was present when the robbery occurred, said that charges would probably be filed some time Friday.

The story told to police officers and to Mr. Fruechte was to the effect that two men had engaged a taxi Thursday night and started toward Lake Wichita.

While en route to that place the taxi was stopped and both men got out. The other occupant covered Woods with a gun and began searching him. The hijacker is said to have struck Woods over the head with the gun during the robbery when Woods lowered his hands slightly.

After robbing the switchman, the bandit ordered him to start walking back to town and fired in his direction after the robbery victim was about 50 yards away. Woods was not hit by the bullet, Mr. Fruechte said.

The bandit then rode back to Wichita Falls in the service car and told the driver that he thought he had gotten $70 or $80.

No arrest had been made in connection with the case Friday morning.

ARCHER COUNTY HOLDS ANNUAL C. C. BANQUET

ARCHER CITY, Feb. 3.—The capon banquet at the annual meeting of the Archer county chamber of commerce was worth waiting for. Such was the unanimous declaration of members and visitors attending the banquet Thursday evening at the American legion hall. The banquet had been announced for Thursday of last week, but was postponed because of a misunderstanding of the contract which resulted in just plain hen appearing on the menu instead of capon.

The Archer county chamber is making a special effort to forward the poultry industry in the county during the next year, and to boost the Daub capon farm at Archer City, the only capon farm in this section of the country. Thursday afternoon several visitors were shown through the plant, which has a hatching capacity of about 1500 birds a week.

H. G. Bell, W. A. Cooper, Sam Newman and H. V. Pearston were elected directors of the chamber for a three-year term, at the balloting, which closed the meeting. T. B. Wilson and L. K. Hyer were elected for two years.

The speeches, the jokes and the special entertainment features were uniformly good throughout the banquet, and an air of hilarity prevailed. C. E. Graham of Anarene, toastmaster for the occasion, managed to get in some unusually good stories in introducing the speakers.

Forgy Speaks.

W. E. Forgy, resident of Archer City for "nigh onto 40 years," as he stated, gave a short review of the progress of Archer City, especially of the work accomplished by the chamber of commerce. That organization has helped Archer City to get a high line, helped the town to get natural gas, put over the road bond issue and looked after various civic interests, he said.

Ralph Crowell, introduced as "an Archer county product," presented the farmer's problems from the viewpoint of the farmer himself. "The farmer got a dirty dig in 1920," he declared, "but there is no other class that can come back as quickly as the farmer can. If you'll meet us halfway, in five years we'll make the American nation hum with prosperity."

D. F. Daub, owner and manager of the Daub capon farm, spoke briefly on "The Capon Industry." Caponizing was practiced some 2,000 years ago in China, but up to 100 or 200 years ago was not generally practiced, and capon was considered as meat for the king, he said. On his own farm Mr. Daub expects to raise about 2,000 birds this year, he said.

The principal address of the evening was given by Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, who stressed the relation of city development and community development. His subject was "The Need of a County Agent."

"I think you need a county agent and a home demonstration agent in Archer county more right now than you need a commercial secretary," he declared. "Patriotism begins at home, and love of one's home is a close, intimate thing. A good store can't succeed in a poor town. A man should put some of his time and talent in his city."

Important Things.

"To my mind, the most important question before us is, 'Where do we park?'" was the statement of Frank M. Power, Archer City banker and city builder, who spoke briefly on "The Most Important Thing." To further his point, Mr. Power quoted a little verse about "the most famous mariner of all time":

"When Noah sailed the ocean blue,
He had his troubles the same as you.
Day after day he drove the ark
Before he found a place to park."

Mr. Power continued with a number of witty stories, but concluded with a serious thought, quoting the closing lines of "Thanatopsis." The Rev. C. W. Thomas, speaking on the same subject, urged that "we may not disregard the source from which all these blessings come."

The cooperation of Olney in any program for the development of Archer county or of Archer City was pledged by W. C. Harrell, president of the Olney Chamber of Commerce. "Archer City, Olney, Graham and Wichita Falls can all develop, and in developing one we develop all," he declared. Major Turner Camp of Graham, secretary of the Graham Chamber of Commerce, brought greetings from that organization.

Special entertainment numbers included two readings, "How the Young Bride Buys Meat," and "Apples," by Miss Clara Mae Lloyd; two readings, "Ma and the Auto," and "The Cremation of My Dog Bill," by Miss Lois Mangum; a dance by Miss Mildred Powell, and a piano solo by Miss Leta Stovall. The Rev. R. J. Fletcher pronounced the invocation.

STRICKEN SUDDENLY

Almost daily we hear of it—the story of some man, probably a friend, suddenly cut off in the midst of his usefulness, in the very prime of life. That's what high blood pressure and heart trouble will do—snap off life without warning. All due to our abnormal living habits which put too great a strain upon the vital organs, especially the liver.

The liver becoming weak and sluggish fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. The whole system then becomes toxic, with stomach, kidneys, heart and blood vessels affected.

The liver, especially at middle life, needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as physicians today know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a great natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to health and vitality. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing ten drops of pure ox gall. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and one or two days' use will prove a revelation. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, ask for Dioxol.

BAPTISTS AT RULE TO DEDICATE NEW CHURCH

All former members and pastors and members of other denominations of the town have been invited to the dedication service. The membership of this church is around 400.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. The commission itself has yet to pass on the proposal.

CONDITION OF TEXAS FARMS FAIR TO GOOD

AUSTIN, Feb. 3. (AP)—Conditions on the approximately one-half million farms and ranches of Texas are from "fair to good," but a good, slow general rain would be of untold benefit, H. H. Schutz, federal crop and livestock statistician for Texas, reported Friday on January surveys.

As a result of diversification, reduced cost of production and a higher price received for most crops, the financial condition as a whole in the rural districts is better than in the past few years, he said.

Reports from some of the representative counties on which the general summary was based are:

Dawson county—Crop of 1927 made at smaller expense and old debts have been paid, bank deposits heavy.

Donley—Farmers better off than in many years, as a result of diversification.

Childress—Buying new implements, lack of moisture giving concern, dairying increasing and may become firmly established, finances best in years.

Hall—Most farmers have milk cows, hogs, chickens and plenty of feed.

Lubbock — Financial conditions good.

Stonewall—Finances best in two years, rain badly needed.

Wheeler — Finances good, no moisture to put season in ground.

Midland—Drouth past year left financial situation poor, discovery of pink boll worm discouraging.

Sterling—County in best financial situation in years, crops last year fairly good, ranchmen prosperous.

Fayette—Need more moisture, finances not very good.

Bell—Out of money and cannot borrow much.

Williamson — General conditions better than during past few years, finances growing better.

Vaccination All Dogs Is Urged by Health Official

In order to eliminate as much as possible the danger of rabies, all persons who own dogs should have the animals vaccinated as soon as possible, Dr. L. I. Lucey, director of the Wichita Falls sanitary department, said Friday.

Dr. Lucey said that several cases where children have been bitten by dogs that had not been vaccinated have been brought to his attention recently. Although vaccination is not a 100 per cent guarantee against rabies, it will eliminate to a great degree the danger that might exist if a person was bitten by a dog that had not received the treatment, Dr. Lucey said.

HUTCHESON DELAYS SENTENCE FOR RAIL HEAD ON CONTEMPT

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 3. (AP)—Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson today postponed until February 19 passing sentence on H. M. Lull, executive vice president, and three other officials of the Southern Pacific lines in Texas and Louisiana for contempt of court.

Judge Hutcheson gave no reason for deferring sentence.

The officials were found guilty a week ago of violating the court's injunction enjoining them from pursuing methods which union officials said were calculated to influence and coerce company clerks and like employes to join a company union instead of leaving them free to affiliate with the Brotherhood.

The case was instituted last July by the brotherhood under provisions of the railway labor act of 1925. A month later after a number of hearings Judge Hutcheson enjoined Mr. Lull, G. S. Waid, general manager; J. O. Torian, Mr. Waid's assistant, and W. R. Mann, superintendent of the El Paso division of the Southern Pacific, from using undue influence in fostering the company union.

In September, John W. Harper of San Antonio, chairman of the clerk's brotherhood's grievance committee appeared as an officer of the court to inform the judge that the injunction was being violated. A number of hearings ensued in which it was alleged that the railroad was using its railroad mail facilities to strengthen the company union, had removed Harper and others, former employes of the railroad, from its seniority list and had recalled their railroad passes. The case was taken under advisement in December and judgment was rendered last week.

The injunction is said to be the first secured by a labor union against a railroad under similar circumstances.

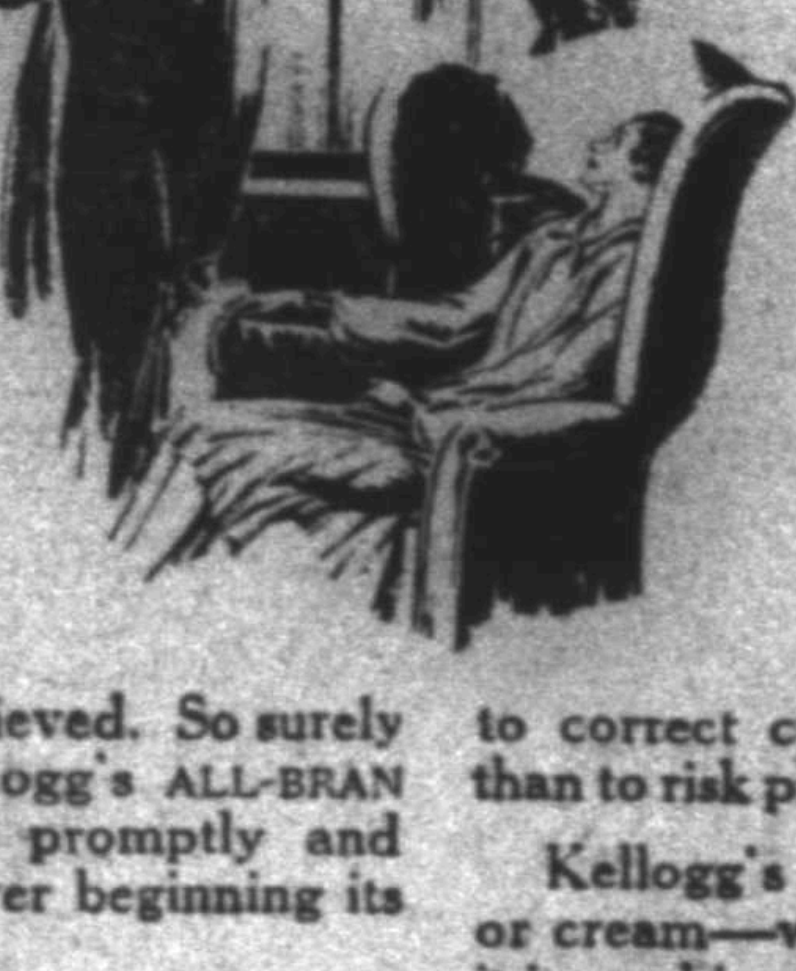
Tired people . . .



SO MANY women, so many men, can't last through the day. Even mid-afternoon finds them listless and spent. Hopelessly tired.

What a difference it would mean if they but realized how constipation saps health and energy. How it steals youth. Mocks beauty. Kills ambition. How it leads in the end to untold diseases.

And it can be so easily relieved. So surely and safely prevented. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve it promptly and pleasantly. To prevent it ever beginning its deadly work.

Why "all-bran" is necessary

To relieve constipation naturally, the system must have plenty of bulk. ALL-BRAN, because it is 100% bran, furnishes bulk in generous quantity. It carries moisture through the intestines—exercising them, gently sweeping out poisons and wastes. There is seldom enough bulk to properly do this work in a part-bran product. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN — the 100% bran.

Farewell, dangerous drugs

How much better is ALL-BRAN than habit-forming pills and laxatives — whose dose must be constantly increased to remain effective. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a pleasant, healthful cereal food. Don't you agree that it is far safer and far better to correct constipation in this natural way than to risk pills, drugs or part-bran products?

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—with fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking too. Sprinkle it into soups. Mix it with other cereals. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

But insist on genuine Kellogg's. Don't risk part-bran substitutes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants. On dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Guaranteed!
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

POLICE BENEFIT BOARD SUES ON REWARD CLAIM

DISPUTE OVER $500 PAID FOR ARREST OF PAIR HERE REACHES COURT

FORMER POLICEMAN IS NAMED IN INJUNCTION

Division of Sum Posted for Bank Robbers to Get Airing Before Judge.

A dispute of several months' duration over the disposition of $500 reward for the arrest and conviction of two Arkansas bank robbers captured here more than a year ago finally reached the courts Thursday afternoon.

The newest development in the tangle occurred when Judge C. M. McFarland of the county court at law issued a mandatory injunction requiring W. M. Davidson, a former city policeman, to endorse a check which will make it possible to place the $500 on deposit here.

The application for the injunction was filed by Harry Bunnenberg, local attorney, on behalf of R. E. Shepherd, mayor, W. E. McBroom, city clerk, and Frank Burns, chief of police, who, because of their official positions, are trustees of the police benefit fund. It was in their capacity as such trustees that they applied for the injunction.

The question at issue, Judge McFarland was advised, is whether the reward money shall go into the police benefit fund, as applicants for the injunction insist, or whether Mr. Davidson shall individually receive a share of the amount for having participated in the arrest of the fugitives who later were convicted and sentenced to long terms in the Arkansas penitentiary.

Judge McFarland is not asked in the application for an injunction however to decide the disposition of the money. The application, he advised, is designed only to bring the $500 here for deposit in a local bank, to there remain in escrow until some disposition of the sum has been arranged.

Arrest Two Here.

The background for the petition was laid in July or August of 1926 when W. W. Allen, N. A. Perdue, W. P. Belcher and Mr. Davidson, all policemen, surprised two heavily armed men as they slept in a local rooming house. The two men later were convicted in Arkansas on charges of holding up a bank at Alvy, in that state.

A reward which had been posted by the Arkansas Bankers association became payable on conviction, and in August, 1927, a check for $500 was received here, made jointly payable to the four officers. The check, it is alleged, cannot be cashed until all the officers have endorsed it, which, the petition continues, Mr. Davidson has refused to do.

The petition also traces the history of the police benefit fund created in 1924 and into which, it is alleged, all rewards payable to local police are paid. The petition sets out that Allen, Perdue and Belcher, who still are in service, do not individually claim any portion of the reward, agreeing that the sum shall be paid into the benefit fund.

The actual serving of the injunction order, Judge McFarland said, awaited the filing of a bond on behalf of the official Friday. Bunnenberg said that the filing of the bond, described as a technicality, would occur during the day.

COTTON MEETING TO BE HELD IN 78TH COURTROOM

A meeting of farmers scheduled for Saturday, called for the purpose of discussing a cooperative ginning arrangement for the handling of the cotton crop, will be held in the 78th district court room instead of in the courtroom of R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace. The meeting will be called to order at 2 p. m.

H. A. Goad, who called the meeting, announced that all sections of the county will be represented. Subjects for discussion will include methods of developing "boley" cotton to a strict middling grade.

The change of meeting place was made so as to insure that seats will be available for all attending, Mr. Goad said.

AUSTIN, Feb. 3. (AP)—The Lone Star Gas company, which supplies gas for Fort Worth, was made a party Friday to the appeal of the distributing concern, the Fort Worth Gas company from a refusal of the city commission to grant increased rates claimed as necessary to insure the profit agreed upon in the city's contract.

The appeal had been set by the state railroad commission for hearing February 20 at Fort Worth but entrance of the supply company as a party to the appeal may require a change in the date, Commissioner C. V. Terrell said. A conference was held by the commission in that connection Friday.

EXPERTS SEE DEMPSEY RETIREMENT AS MERE BALLYHOO ACT

SHELVING OF FORMER CHAMP TURNS SPOTLIGHT ON WINNER AMONG FOUR IN TOURNAMENT

By ALAN J. GOULD,
Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—The experts seem to feel they cannot be blamed for sprinkling some salt and skepticism on Tex Rickard's idea that Jack Dempsey has fought his last big fight.

There are various and sundry reasons why the "boys" believe everything is not exactly as it appears on the surface. They feel that when the proper moment comes Dempsey will suddenly decide he is in shape again and ready for another two-million dollar battle with Tunney for the championship, probably in New York.

Just now, for instance, Mons. Rickard, the chef de guerre of the heavyweight eliminations, is casting about for an early summer opponent for Tunney, who wants no less than two title bouts this year. But so long as Dempsey has been looked on as the one and only outstanding contender, it has been difficult to work up enthusiasm for any other aspirant.

Remove Spotlight

In other and perhaps plainer words it will better serve the main purposes of the ballyhoo and focus more undivided attention on the other contenders to shelve Mr. Dempsey for the time being, or at least until after Tunney's contemplated title defense in June.

Critics make the point that a third Dempsey-Tunney melee requires no great stimulation in a public eye that retains a vivid picture of last September's thrilling bout. It is a natural return bout that needs no particular ballyhoo. On the other hand, considerable "building up" is considered essential before Sharkey, Heeney, Delaney or Risko is accepted as a logical foeman for the champion.

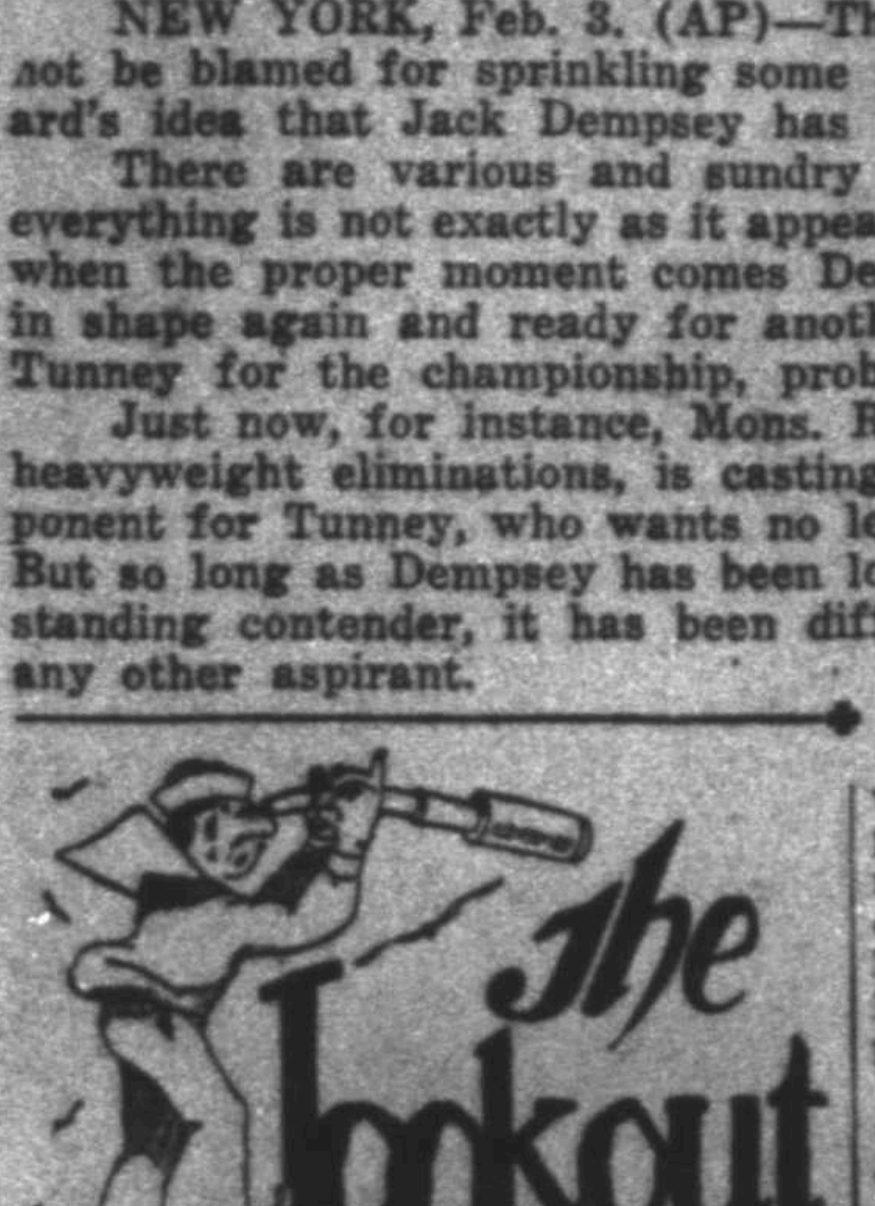
Lure of Fat Purse

It seems to these observers to be a trifle premature, anyway, to put the old champion definitely on the shelf when he has from now until September to determine whether his condition will permit another title bout. Many a fistic mind has been changed in less time than that. Dempsey has been off and on again too many times in the past for boxing fandom to be entirely convinced he is yet through at the advanced age of 32. It is just as well to keep in mind his own statement that he "may or may not fight again."

It appears incredible to those acquainted with the big business methods of the modern prize ring that Dempsey or any one else would retire when a purse of close to $500,000 is all wrapped up and ready for delivery in return for not more than about 45 minutes of actual ring action.

Even if money was not a sufficient attraction, Dempsey undoubtedly retains enough of his fighting spirit to desire to try once more where he has failed twice. As long as the old punch remains there is the chance of its crashing through. Tunney found that out.

Furthermore, Rickard himself appreciates the magnetic effect of Dempsey's drawing powers too well to abandon any thought of the former champion's come-back without a determined argument.



It has long been a belief of baseball that youngsters never prosper in their home towns. Tank Horton, Wichita Falls' premier sandlot catcher for the last few years, has signed a contract with the Houston club and expects to report at the Buffs' camp early next month. Horton earned letters at Wichita Falls High school in three sports, football and basket ball, besides baseball, but the latter is his game. Tank has little or no chance of playing Texas league baseball this season, but he may be able to make the grade in class D company.

The biggest handicap the Wichita Falls youngster will face in the professional ranks is his size—or rather his lack of it. Size is much to be desired in a baseball player in any position. But Tank can point to some of the greatest catchers in the game, who were mere dwarfs in comparison to some others. Ray Schalk, considered by many the peer of them all, is among the smallest of major league players. Horton is an excellent receiver and thrower and if he can learn to hit, he has everything in his favor.

As in other branches of sport, baseball prefers its good big men to its good little men. Football always has been that way, even with the advent of the open game that requires more speed and technique than brawn. Size is an advantage that hardly can be overlooked in any branch of sport. This is true in golf probably to a less extent than any other sport. Some of the longest drivers are the smallest men in the game. Bobby Cruickshank is the leader of the half-pint brigade—there are few smaller or better professional golfers. Not many of the outstanding link stars have been exceptionally big men. In all likelihood size plays a more important role in basket ball than in any other game. A team of six-footers can whip the sox off a smaller crew any day in the week.

Speaking of basket ball, it has been many a day since cage fans have been treated to as many games as this season in the commercial and girls' leagues. Most of the games in each league are tossups from the start, and picking winners is a tough job. Bookmakers could make a killing on these basket ball races. Both leagues start all over again next week after voting to split their seasons with this week's games. If you haven't been a customer during the first half, you are going to miss something if you don't fall in line for second half play.

Those among us who have doubted the ability of the feminine sex to fall into competitive sports and display the sportsmanship expected of those more experienced with the stress of heated battles, should witness some of the girls' basket ball games. If there was an unsportsmanlike act in those two games Thursday night at the junior college, it didn't appear on the surface. In fact, there was every evidence of the opposite kind of conduct. The girls took their penalties with smiles, lifted fallen foes from the floor and never failed to verbally atone for accidental flagrant fouls. And they played the game hard, too; just as hard as any team ever played it. That the fans were just as interested as the players was evidenced in the noise that floated down from the gallery. Numerous times Referee George Blackerby was forced to delay free throw attempts until the balcony calmed down.

President Jim Jones of the girls' league is hopeful of arranging a post-season game here between the league winners and the Trezevant and Cochran team of Dallas. The Dallas team has not been defeated in years and undoubtedly is one of the best girls' clubs in the country. Wichita Falls' best would hardly have a chance against this sort of opposition but the proposed game should do much to stimulate interest in the girls' game. The Dallas team plays under girls' rules, but probably would be willing to switch over to the boys' code for a game here.

The importance of size in basket ball is brought home in the success of the Arkansas university team in the Southwest conference. Arkansas won the crown last year and is undefeated thus far this season. Tom Pickel, center and scoring ace, is six feet, five and a half inches in height and Glen Rose, captain and guard, is just a half-inch shorter. The team averages better than six feet.

Dr. Peltzer Is Impressive in First Big Race

German Runner Outsteps Field in Half Mile Millrose Race; Hahn Easy Winner.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—Dr. Otto Peltzer, German philosopher and foot-racing champion, has to his credit a sensational victory over some of America's foremost middle-distance runners as a result of his much discussed indoor debut.

While the doctor's most formidable American rival, Lloyd Hahn, spent his time coasting to an easy victory in the mile run, the German star Friday night brought a Madison Square garden crowd of 12,000 spectators to its feet yelling as he raced to a thrilling triumph in a 1000-yard race over nine American runners. The occasion was the annual meet of the Millrose A. A.

There was no record-breaking to the debut of Dr. Peltzer, who holds the world's half-mile standard, but the tall, blond Teuton exhibited a flashy brand of speed as well as unusual gameness in winning under strange and difficult conditions.

Nip and Tuck Duel

Ray Dodge, member of the 1924 Olympic team and former national 1000-yard champion, furnished the chief opposition for Peltzer after the pack sifted out. These two put up a stirring nip-and-tuck duel over the last three laps of the six-lap race, but Peltzer had the most in reserve and won by five yards in two minutes, 13 3-5 seconds. The world's record for the distance, 2:12 4-5, is held by Hahn.

Considering that he had just completed a transcontinental trip, that he was unfamiliar with indoor racing conditions and badly pocketed on the first two laps of the race, Dr. Peltzer's performance was regarded a brilliant exhibition by experts. He was not in his best racing condition, but showed ability to produce a kick when it was necessary.

Last Minute Decision

He did not decide until the last minute to enter this event, and did so only on the insistence of Amateur Athletic union officials, who notified him he must start in an open event and not the special 800-meter race originally carded for the invader. Besides Dodge, the 1000-yard field included such veterans as Schuyler Enck, formerly of Penn State and one-time intercollegiate mile champion, and McCloskey of the Boston A. A. J. L. Robinson of the University of Virginia finished third.

Hahn had no difficulty in winning the Rodman Wanamaker mile for the second straight year, hanging up his seventh consecutive triumph of the season as he romped ahead of Ray Conger and Joe Sivak of the Illinois A. C. in 4:18 3-5.

Basket Ball Leagues' Playoff Games Likely Wednesday

Coyotes Ready For Lion Clash Friday Evening

Pack Hard Pressed in Taking Down 21 to 18 Decision Over Hawks Thursday Night.

With a 20 to 18 victory over Iowa Park High school dangling from their belts, the Coyotes of Wichita Falls High school Friday were all set to mix it Friday night with two teams in their first appearance in more than 10 days on the home court. The Vernon Lions were scheduled in the feature event of Friday night's double header, starting at 7:30 o'clock on the junior college floor. Holliday high is to provide the opposition in the second game.

The Pack was hard pressed to earn its victory at Iowa Park Thursday night, the Hawks sticking close on the trail all the way. Captain Mills provided half the Coyotes' points, with five field goals, and Anderson registered six points. Cheeves was the heavy scorer for the losers, with 11 points.

The summary:

WICHITA FALLS—	FG	FT	Pts
Anderson, f	3	0	6
Perry, f	0	2	2
Mills, c	5	0	10
Allred, g	1	0	2
Hodgkins, g	0	0	0

VERNON, Texas, Feb. 3.—Vernon High school's cagers will be handicapped by injuries to Virgil Thompson, who will not be in the game, when the team meets the Coyote quintet in Wichita Falls Friday evening. John King, hitherto second squad forward, will likely be in the game in Thompson's place.

The probable starting lineup for the Lion-Coyote game will be King and Crawford, forwards; Waggoner, center; Coffee and Key, guards.

Frog Dribblers Primed for Last Shot at Leaders

T. C. U. Cage Quintet Hopeful of Stopping Mustangs in Saturday Night Game at Fort Worth.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Feb. 3. (AP)—The T. C. U. Horned Frogs will finish up 10 days of hard practice Saturday afternoon — 10 days of careful and laborious preparation for their last shot at the leaders of the Southwest conference basket ball race.

The Frogs clash with Coach St. Clair's Southern Methodist university Mustangs here Saturday night. The game will be played in the T. C. U. gym and the biggest crowd to attend a game this year is expected to be present.

Of course, the Mustangs are tied, technically, for the conference leadership with Arkansas, but the Ponies are conceded the leaders of the parade because they have played and won more games than the Porkers. Then too, the Frogs have played their two games with Arkansas, losing both and have dropped two games to Southern Methodist university, so after all, Saturday's tussle will be the Christians' last chance to be distinguished by downing the leaders.

Coach Bell is not positive yet who his starters will be but it is most likely that the Ponies will be faced by Captain "Slim" Steadman and Lowell Parrish at forwards, Clyde McDonnell at center and "Rags" Matthews and Albert Acker at guards.

TWO WORLD SWIMMING RECORDS ARE BROKEN

CHICAGO, Feb. 3. (AP)—Two world's swimming records were broken Friday night in the Illinois Athletic club pool at a dual meet between the Illinois Athletic club and Northwestern university.

Ethel Lackie of the I. A. C., world's woman's free style champion, did the 100-meter event in 1:10 2-5, bettering by one-fifth second the former mark of Eleanor Garatti established in 1926 at Santa Cruz, Calif.

The men's 160-yard relay event resulted in the other record breaking, being won in 1:14 1-5 by the I. A. C. team—Johnny Weissmuller, Paul Samson, Paul Manovitz and Hugo Miller. This was three-fifths of a second faster than the old mark established in 1922 by the I. A. C., team of which Weissmuller was a member.

The I. A. C. won the meet, 57 to 34.

WHITE SOX MANAGER TURNS OVER NEW LEAF

CHICAGO, Feb. 3. (AP)—A stern master will direct the White Sox through the coming season, if baseball observers have correctly interpreted Manager Ray Schalk's change of attitude.

Last season, those who watched the White Sox often expressed the opinion that Schalk was too easy on some of the veterans. Many times when plays went wrong, Schalk took them smilingly and forgave easily.

This season, matters appear different. Those who have observed the manager say he threatens to be sterner than John J. McGraw of the Giants. His first rule of the training season is that all players must train twice daily instead of the usual single session. Fines and other penalties, unheard of on the club last year, are also to be applied this season.

GOLFERS START TEXAS OPEN PLAY OVER DRENCHED COURSE HOT SPRINGS TOURNEY NEXT

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 3. (AP)—In spite of lowering skies and frequent flurries of rain, golfers here for the annual Texas open golf tournament drove off Friday in the opening event, an amateur-pro best ball team contest. The greens were very soft and water was standing in the lowest places on the course, but the weather was better than that of Thursday which forced postponement of the opening of the tournament for one day.

The teams will play 18 holes Friday, the winning pro receiving $100 and the winning amateur a gold medal. Saturday and Sunday the field will play 18 holes of medal competition daily for the Texas open crown, ending up Monday with 36 holes.

Move Southward

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 3. (AP)—The golf pendulum swinging southward next week to Hot Springs, Ark., where the nation's leading professionals will engage in the South central open finds numerous championships to be defended in rapid succession from now until the middle of May in Dixie.

Bobby Cruickshank, the little Scot, will be attempting to hold his South central open title at Hot Springs.

The Florida open, which this year will be held at Jacksonville, finds Billie Burke, the former caddy master of Clearwater, Fla., and late sensation in the professional ranks attempting to cling onto his title.

Cruickshank will defend his North and South open crown at Pinehurst, having won it two years in succession.

Glenna Collett, former national women's champion, will be defending titleholder in the North and South women's amateur at Pinehurst.

The North and South men's amateur will find George Voight, of Washington, D. C., the defending champion.

Mrs. Dalton Reymond of Louisiana is holder of the Southern women's amateur, which will be held this spring at Birmingham.

The national intercollegiate title will be defended this summer by Watts Gunn of Georgia Tech.

Bobby Jones has announced that he would not defend his Southern open title, although there is now doubt that this tourney will be held at all.

Women's Tourney

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 3. (AP)—Semi-final rounds in the mid-South women's open championship here Friday found the favorites, Miss Glenna Collett, former national champion, and Miss Virginia Van Wie, young Chicago player, fighting in separate brackets for appearance in Satem.

Miss Collett was pitted against Mrs. Emmett French, of Southern Pines, while Miss Van Wie played Miss Louise Patterson of Plainsfield, N. J.

Stage Well Set For Mantell and Ketonen Strife

Promoter and Principals Go to Much Trouble to Interest Fans In Coming Scrap.

After a couple of weeks of intensive ballyhooing on the part of the promoter and the principals, all is set for the return meeting of Dutch Mantell and Waino Ketonen, welterweight wrestlers, next Monday night at The Gym. It is a long story, this return match that has been so well advertised.

Its origin was in a previous meeting of the pair, in which Mantell knocked out the veteran Finn with a flying fist. Then came announcement of a match between Mantell and Lee Meyers, after Promoter Alec B. Ross had spread the word that Mantell had refused to meet Ketonen in a return match. After the announcement, the promoter also went to the trouble of getting it whispered about that Meyers on the night of the match would turn up with an injury and that Ketonen would substitute.

But Mantell vehemently refused to meet Ketonen until a doctor had examined Meyers' bandaged arm and declared him unable to wrestle. The upshot of it was that Meyers went ahead and wrestled. The Dutchman then dramatically proclaimed he would wrestle Ketonen, with the lone provision that the promoter receive no profit from the match. The next step was the announcement of the match, with Ross saying that his profit of 10 per cent would go to charity.

So, Mantell has suffered a sudden change of mind, the promoter has turned philanthropist and the ringsiders probably are nervously awaiting the opening gong Monday night.

Jack Larry of Portland, Oregon, and Meyers are scheduled in the preliminary, also a finish match.

The meeting is being held more than a month earlier than last year as a result of requests from college coaches, who will be represented at the session by an advisory committee for the first time.

McTigue Back in 'Action Against Punching Lomski

Veteran Light Heavyweight Starts His Attempt to Climb Championship Ladder Third Time.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP) — Mike McTigue, carrying the scars of some 150 ring battles, returns to the pugilistic wars Friday in a 10-round bout in Madison Square garden with Leo Lomski, hard-hitting youngster of Aberdeen, Wash., who aspires to scale the heights of the light heavyweight division. Lomski is favorite at 2 to 1 to take the verdict.

McTigue twice wore the 175-pound mantle, stripping it from the shoulders of the singular Senegalese, the late Battling Siki, in a 20-round bout in Dublin, Ireland, in 1923.

In 1925 Paul Berlenbach wrested the title from McTigue in a 15-rounder and the following year saw the championship pass from Berly to Jack Delaney in a 15-round tussle.

Delaney Retired.

Delaney voluntarily relinquished the leadership of the light heavy ranks when he found it impossible to make the 175-pound limit. Then the New York State Athletic commission tossed the title back to McTigue.

Burdened with the age of 35 years, Mike found himself outsmarted by the agile Tommy Loughran last fall and so must start all over again in a campaign for the emblem.

McTighe's record in about 17 years of boxing includes knockouts over Berlenback, King Solomon, Billy Vidabeck and Soldier King. He has been knocked out by Jack Delaney and Mickey Walker, the latter turning the trick in Chicago last November.

Lomksi Is Youngster.

Lomski at the age of 24 shapes out as a solid boxer who has no respect for the scientific points of the game, but instead relies on two hard fists which whip furiously in close fighting.

Lomski threw a big scare into Loughran in their recent struggle here when the Aberdeen youth sent the Philadelphian to the resin twice in the first round for counts of nine. The champion steadied during the remainder of the fracas and piled up enough points to save his crown.

The victor of Friday night's fray has been promised consideration in the elimination for Loughran's next challenger. Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo lad, and Joe Sekyra of Dayton, Ohio, are also in the running. Sekyra has been matched to box George Gemas of Philadelphia next Monday night at the St. Nicholas arena.

MRS. MALLORY EXTENDED TO WIN TENNIS MATCH

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, eight times former national tennis champion, was extended to three sets Thursday by Mrs. J. L. Bremen of Boston before triumphing in the third round of the Heights Casino invitation tournament. After an erratic start Mrs. Mallory steadied to win at 2-6, 6-1, 6-4.

ELECTRICS BEAT P. B. M. FIVE IN GIRLS' FIRST HALF FINISH TO GET TIE FOR TOP POSITION

Draughon	5	1	4	.200	43	64

First half play in both the commercial and girls' basket ball leagues has ended in two team ties, and a double-header playoff was in the making Friday. President Jim Jones hopes to line up the two titular games in a single night's play next Wednesday evening, if the junior college gymnasium is available on this date.

The girls' league first half ended Thursday night in a tie between the P. B. M.-Whippets and Texas Electric Service company, the latter having turned in a 14 to 11 victory in the final game of Thursday night's program.

Real Thriller

The Whippet-Kilowat skirmish was one of the most exciting and best played in the history of the girls' league. The Whippets stepped out in front in the early stages and finished the first half with a 7 to 2 lead that loomed large. But in the last half the Electrics soundly outplayed their foes and deserved their victory.

Shortly after the start of the fourth period, T. Holt dropped in a two-pointer to tie the count at 11-all. F. Garner looped a free throw and M. Garner a few minutes before the finish sank a pretty floor shot for the remaining points. The Electrics' passing game, led by the brilliant play of M. Garner at guard, was so good that the P. B. M.-Whippets failed to register a point in the fourth quarter.

Draughon Girls Win

The splendid floor work of East, center, and Captain Arbuckle, guard featured the Whippets' game. The former also registered six points and encountered much tough luck in watching many shots rim the hoop and roll out.

These two teams will clash in the playoff for the first half title and another great game is in store for the fans.

Just like the top half, the lower division of the league ends in a deadlock. Draughon Business college climbed into a tie with Continental Oil company for third and fourth places with a decisive 11 to 2 victory in the opening game. The conocos could never get started and a lone field goal by L. Holt constituted the evening's work for the Conocos could never get started and Tutt, center, and Capp forward, aided by the excellent defense of the team's guards, featured Draughon's first victory of the campaign.

How to Buy Food How to Prepare

Eleven Ways to Prepare Appetizing Dishes Ham and Bacon Told by Mrs. Jordan, Times Economics Expert

By DELTA JORDAN

When we sit at the breakfast table and have the crisp delightful bacon served us we scarcely give a thought of the different methods used in the farmers way of feeding the hog to give the tender lean stripped meat. Some years ago it was thought that to fatten a hog so that it was so heavy that it could scarcely walk before time to butcher it was the ideal way to produce the best meat for the table. For several weeks before the time to butcher the hog was fed nothing except water and corn. The result being that there were many pounds more fat than lean. The sides, hams and shoulders were so excessively fat that it was necessary to trim it down to find the lean strips of meat that was really the flavor in the breakfast bacon. Today the hog is fed scientifically so that the meat is well streaked with lean. As the housewife turns her attention more and more to the vegetable oil shortenings, there is less use for the fat of the hog and the producer has turned his attention more to the producing of good hams and bacon.

Bacon is one meat that is used in more different ways to the delight of the table than any other meat. Modern methods of curing the meat give it a rich delightful flavor that is not obtained in any other meat. It is the most easily digested of meats. It may all be used. When the rinds are trimmed, before broiling they should be saved as they make excellent flavoring for vegetables. In broiling the bacon you will find the flavor improved if it is broiled instead of being fried in its own fat.

The most economical way to buy bacon is by the whole side, as it will keep and none of it will be wasted, and is sold a little cheaper than where it is sliced and sold in pound or half pound packages.

Olives Wrapped With Bacon

Around either stoned or stuffed olives wrap a slice of bacon and broil to a crisp and serve on a slice of buttered toast. This is an appetiser that will be found to be very delightful. It is wonderful used as a garnish for poultry and adds a flavor and a tasty touch of richness to the meal.

Crown Roast of Lamb With Bacon

Select part of a loin of lamb. Scrape the flesh from between the ribs as far as the lean meat and trim off. Scrape each piece in a semi-circle having the ribs on the outside. Sew the piece together to form a crown; wrap strips of bacon around the lower part of the crown. Fill the center of the crown with hamburger steak mixed with ground lamb trimmings. Cover the filling with bacon. The end of the bones should be trimmed very carefully. See that they are not too long. Wrap each bone in a thin strip of bacon, or a small potato may be placed at each bone end to prevent it from burning. Sear for 20 minutes in a oven 450 degrees F. Reduce the heat to 350 degrees F. and roast for about two hours. Serve on chop plate garnished with saut'd pineapple slices, radish buds, candied sweet potatoes and broiled bacon.

Spanish Lima Beans

½ cup of bacon diced.
1 cup dried lima beans.
2 onions.
1 can tomato puree.
2 bay leaves.
¼ teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon pepper.
½ teaspoon paprika.
2 tablespoons flour.

Soak the beans overnight in cold water and cook slowly for two hours or until soft. Fry the diced bacon in a skillet, add the onions and cook until evenly browned. Add the tomato puree, bay leaves, seasoning and flour. Cook for a few minutes and then add the beans drained. Serve as the main dish. Garnish with saute tomatoes, chopped parsley and saute rings of green peppers.

Ragout of Bacon and String Beans

1 cup diced bacon.
3 onions.
6 small potatoes.
1 quart string beans.
Salt and pepper.

Cooked the diced bacon in the skillet, add sliced onions and string beans and cook five minutes, add one quart of boiling water and cook until beans are half done, then add the potatoes cut in halves. When the potatoes and beans are done serve in vegetable dish with gravy.

Turkish Stuffed Egg Plant

Cut tops off small egg plants, remove and chop the inside, add ½ cup of bacon diced and cooked until a golden brown and an equal amount of bread crumbs and one egg. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Fill the eggplant with the mixture. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake one half hour in the oven.

Veal Loaf

1½ pound of veal.
3 slices bacon, grind all together and add
1 cup sweet milk.
1 cup cracker crumbs
3 eggs, well beaten.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon pepper.

Mix all together and mold as a loaf. Place in the pan and strip with slices of bacon and bake 1½ hours. Serve with tomato sauce.

Calf Liver and Bacon

Place in a frying pan as many strips of bacon as strips of calf liver and allow the bacon to start

Ways to Prepare Ham and Bacon

fat in the pan. In another pan pour hot water over the calf liver and dry well. Season with salt and pepper and lay the pieces over the frying enough that there is some bacon and allow all to fry until tender. Serve hot, garnished with parsley and very thin slices of cut lemon.

Boiled Ham With Vegetables

1 shank of ham.
5 small potatoes.
1 small head of cabbage cut in fifths
5 small onions.
3 small turnips cut in quarters.
3 medium size carrots cut in quarters.

Place the ham in a pan of hot water and simmer one hour before adding the vegetables. At the end of the first hour's cooking add the turnips. And when these are cooked 15 minutes add the potatoes and cabbage, cook 30 minutes longer. Remove the vegetables carefully and place on serving platter, arrange with the ham in the center of the platter and surround with the vegetables.

Spiked Baked Ham

12-pound Star ham.
1 tablespoon mustard.
½ cup brown sugar.
1 cup vinegar.
6 red apples.
¼ dozen whole cloves.

Place the ham in boiling water, boil 10 minutes and then reduce the heat and simmer two hours. Take the ham from the water and remove the skin from 2-3 of the ham and leave the skin on the shank end. Bake slowly at 300 degrees Fahrenheit one hour with the fat side up, baste with the mixture and rub the surface with brown sugar, place the cloves in the fat side of the ham and place cored apples round the ham and bake until done. About five hours are required for the finishing. Serve sliced with the apples used as a garnish.

Curried Ham On Toast

¾ cup minced ham.
½ teaspoon curry powder.
6 slices of hot toast.
1½ cups white sauce.
1 hard boiled egg cut fine.

Mix all the ingredients and serve very hot on buttered toast. Garnish with parsley.

Casserole Ham and Rice

2 cups cold boiled rice.
1 cup brown gravy well seasoned.
1 cup boiled or baked ham, cut finely.
½ cup chopped green peppers.

Arrange in layers and bake 30 minutes in casserole or baking dish in hot oven. Serve very hot.

Ham and Bean Salad

1 can baked beans.
1 cup cold boiled ham, cut in small pieces.
1-3 cup green peppers.
½ head lettuce.
½ teaspoon salt.
Minced parsley.
½ cup boiled dressing.

Arrange the lettuce on the individual plates. Mix the ham, salt, beans and peppers. Arrange in lettuce cups enough for one serving. Hollow out a space in the top and pour in a teaspoon of salad dressing, chill and serve.

Ham Loaf

2 cups cooked ham.
1 cup bread crumbs.
½ cup milk.
½ cup water.
2 eggs.
½ teaspoon dry mustard.
¼ teaspoon black pepper.
1 tablespoon fat.

Put ham and bread through a food chopper, add the eggs well beaten. Scald the liquid and add with the seasonings. Grease a small pan and shake in some crumbs and pack in the ham and bake in a moderate oven until the top is well browned.

Creamed Ham and Potatoes

1 cup finely chopped ham.
2 cups new cooked potatoes cut in dice.
3 tablespoons butter.
3 tablespoons flour.
1½ cups milk.
1 teaspoon minced parsley.
1 tablespoon minced green pepper.
Salt and pepper to season.

Melt the butter, add the chopped parsley and pepper and cook slowly for five minutes, stir in the flour, then add the milk. Cook until thickened and smooth, then add the ham, seasoning and cold potatoes. Cover and reheat over hot water or a very slow fire for 10 minutes, sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve very hot.

To reopen a sealed envelope, lay a wet cloth or paper over the flap and press with a warm iron.

GERMANY ELATED OVER ATTITUDE OF FRENCHMEN

BERLIN, Feb. 3. (AP)—The speech of Foreign Minister Briand of France yesterday in which he asked that Berlin make a proposal for the evacuation of the Rhineland was greeted on the whole in German official circles today with satisfaction. It was regarded as a distinct step forward in Franco-German discussions.

REPRESENTATIVE PURL WOULD CURB SPEAKER OF TEXAS LEGISLATURE

DALLAS, Feb. 3, (AP)—Representative George C. Purl has launched here a campaign to "overthrow the monarchic rule of the speaker of the house" and divest him of much of his power in naming committees and employes. Purl denounced the "dominating force" of the "czar" of the legislature.

Mr. Purl's efforts to bring about changes will reach the peak when the campaign opens for speaker of the 41st legislature to convene in January, 1929, he said. He intends to run for the post of speaker if no one else runs on a platform such as he has outlined, he declared. Otherwise he feels he can do more good from the floor, he explained.

Tom Mix Willing to Provide Funds For His Daughter But Movie Actor Balks at Helping His Former Bride

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3. (AP)—Just how much money it takes to meet the needs of the 16-year-old daughter of a $7500 a week "horseman" in this case Tom Mix of the films, is not a question which Judge Fletcher Bowron of the superior court cares to decide hastily.

And although he declared he didn't want to "spoil anybody's child by giving her too much luxury," Judge Bowron declared the sum would be sizeable enough so there should be a guardian appointed to account for its expenditure. Therefore, he delayed decision on the plea of Mrs. Olive Stokes Mix, the actor's former wife, to have the amount paid by him for his daughter's support increased from $50 to $1500 a month.

The bill of yearly expenditures presented by the mother to the court, included: Dancing lessons, $1000; vocal lessons, $1000; piano lessons, $1000; clothing, $4000; groceries and milk, $1200; rent, $2400, and tutor, $1200.

Mix, on the witness stand, said he was "willing to do the right thing," but he didn't want his former wife to profit by his generosity. He thought just a little automobile—one costing about $2000—would be good enough for Ruth Jane. He admitted he made $7500 a week.

Judge Bowron ordered that, pending the appointment of a guardian, Ruth Jane be placed in a girls' boarding school.

BIG BILL THOMPSON CHEERED AS SAVIOR BY LOUISIANA FOLK

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3, (AP)—Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, in a midnight theater demonstration early today was acclaimed by Huey P. Long, Democratic nominee for governor of Louisiana, as a friend of the South.

Mayor Thompson, Mr. Long declared, is too good a Democrat to be a Republican and too musical and hospitable to have been born north of the Mason and Dixon line.

In the pages of modern history, Mr. Long said, it will be recorded that the city of New Orleans was as ably defended from the forces of nature in the flood control battle of 1927-28 by William Hale Thompson, as it was from the forces of the British in 1815 by "Old Hickory" Jackson.

The demonstration of tribute to Mayor Thompson for his support of federal Mississippi flood control reached its peak when the Windy City's chief executive declared: "The South must be protected from the waters of the North by Uncle Sam and he alone should pay the cost."

Mayor Thompson arrived last night, accompanied by 330 Chicagoans and a brass band. He will attend a flood control conference Saturday morning and a civic banquet in the evening along with Congressman Reid, chairman of the house flood control committee, who will join the party here. Today he will present the $5,000 gold prize and gold cup to the winner of the Los Angeles handicap.

STEEL COMPANY SUIT SET FOR FEBRUARY 20

AUSTIN, Feb. 3. (AP)—The Texas Steel company's suit for freight rates to put it on a better competitive footing with Mississippi Valley and Chicago fabricating mills shipping into Texas through the gulf ports has been set for call February 20 in district court.

Assistant Attorney General Joe Brown, who is defending the State Railroad Commission from whose recent order the steel company is appealing, arranged the setting with District Judge George Calhoun.

After a recent hearing, the railroad commission granted the steel company, located at Fort Worth, a lower rate on scrap iron shipments stopped there for manufacturing and reshipped as finished products. This only partially granted the company's petition, which later sued for emergency rates to Amarillo and San Antonio and a general reduction to the level in effect on interstate commerce.

"PUSSYFOOT" JOHNSON LECTURES AT VERNON

VERNON, Texas, Feb. 3.—"Pussyfoot" Johnson, internationally known advocate of prohibition, and Maj. F. B. Ebbert, former associate general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, lectured here Wednesday evening to an audience of more than 1000 persons in the First Baptist church.

Mr. Johnson's lecture, "As the Orient Sees America," dealt solely with the attitude people of Europe and the Orient have assumed toward America.

Major Ebbert, first speaker of the evening, gave a warning against modification of the prohibition law,

NATURAL GAS IS CHEAP RESULT OF PRICE WAR

BROWNWOOD, Texas, Feb. 3. (AP) Natural gas is one of the cheapest commodities here as a result of a three-cornered "price war" that has been raging for several months.

The Brown County Gas company today announced a flat rate for domestic consumers of 35 cents, the Natural Gas and Fuel company is selling it at 30 cents, and the Community Gas company, Lone Star subsidiary, holds its rate at 65 cents per thousand.

TURKISH HIGH OFFICIAL CARRIED OFF TO PRISON

All That Be Lacking Were a Kirtle And Kilt With the Clogs of Auld Bogs Clattering to the Tune of Bag Pipes

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3. (AP)—It was a great day for the clan McNaught-McNitt-McNaughton-McNutt of Kilquhantie, Kircudbright, Scotland, in superior court here yesterday. It was quite a day for the presiding jurist, too. He learned how to look at "Kilquhantie, Kircudbright," and say "Kilwanity-Kirkoobry."

It came about thus:

Hugh McNitt and his wife parted in divorce several years ago. About a year ago she married a man named Jackson and had her children's names changed to Jackson.

Curtis, her eldest son, resigned himself to being a Jackson until he married recently. Children came.

Hugh McNitt heard all about this and it worried him. He could not see how he was ever going to be the grandfather of any McNitts if this sort of thing went on. So he sought the advice of Counsellor Rollin McNitt. Counsellor McNitt appeared in court with a petition asking that Curtis Jackson's name be changed back to Curtis McNitt.

"McNitt, McNaughton, or McNutt, we are all McNaughts," the attorney told the court. "It's one of the great clans. Who has not heard of the glories of Kilquhantie, Kircudbright? It is the crest of the McNaughts, and the deeds of McNaughts, McNitts, McNutts and McNaughtons have made it famous.

"My client and clansman has been deprived of the glorious name to which he is entitled. I ask that justice be done."

"Kilwanity-Kirkoobry," remarked the judge, rolling the syllables out with satisfaction.

"Who would have guessed it? Petition granted."

45 REBELS KILLED SAY MEXICAN ARMY REPORTS

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 3. (AP)—Dispatches from Guadalajara today said that General Anselmo Garcia, under chief of the presidential guards, announced that a Catholic priest, Crescencio Esparza, and 45 rebels, were killed as a result of a clash with federal soldiers on the hills near Cotija, state of Jalisco, Wednesday.

Vernon Hears Cowboys

VERNON, Feb. 3.—The Simmons University Cowboy band gave a concert here Wednesday evening before a crowd of more than 800 people. The musicians drew enthusiastic applause from the audience time after time.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION EMPLOYED IN FIGHT TO SAVE GIRL'S LIFE

CHICAGO, Feb. 3. (AP)—A blood transfusion, performed in a last minute attempt to save the life of Miss Sadie Holland, whose legs were amputated when gangrene set in following a "beauty" operation, had resulted in a slight improvement in her condition today.

Dr. Paul Magnuson, performed the transfusion yesterday after Miss Holland suffered a secondary hemorrhage and her condition became alarming.

Miss Holland underwent an operation several days ago in an effort to have her limbs, which she said were slightly bowed, straightened.

Dr. Henry J. Schireson, prominent plastic surgeon made a general denial, both to authorities and to the press, that he had performed the operation.

At a hearing yesterday he told John W. Follmer, chief inspector for the state department of registration and education, that an assistant, Dr. S. D. Zaph, professor of surgery at the Chicago Osteopathic hospital, had operated on Miss Holland. Dr. Schireson explained that he himself had removed a scar from Miss Holland's shoulder during the progress of the leg-straightening operation, and that was how he happened to be present.

"But," interrupted Charles Mueller, assistant state's attorney, "I understood Dr. Zaph to state here Wednesday that you operated and he assisted."

"He operated," repeated Dr. Schireson. "I had nothing to do with the leg operation. There were about 12 witnesses—the surgical nurse, the anaesthetist—the whole surgical staff, in fact."

DALLAS CANDIDATE FOR ENFORCEMENT OF LAWS

DALLAS, Feb. 3. (AP)—Laws of Texas need enforcing, more than they need changing, Seth Shepard Sibley, Dallas attorney, declared here with the announcement of his candidacy for flotorial representative from Dallas, Kaufman and Rockwall counties.

One change he would make, he said, would be to reduce the registration fee on automobiles to about one-fourth the present rate.

LETTER THREATENS LIFE OF SWEETWATER MAN

DALLAS, Feb. 3. (AP)—A letter threatening the life of a Sweetwater man and signed "Jack Long" may lead to the apprehension of Long, under indictment for the robbery of the East Grand Avenue bank here last fall, the sheriff's office, which is holding the letter as a clue, said Thursday night.

The letter, signed and ready for mailing, was found on the street here.

Sheriff Allen Seale conferred with detectives and deputies about the letter Thursday.

CURB MARKET QUOTATIONS

Sales of stocks, 480,900 shares. Sales on bonds, $3,240,000.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—After suffering losses extending from 1 to 10 points in the initial trading on the curb market today many stocks became strong and moved up again to new high records. The early selling came through wire houses and professional traders who based their operations on the increase in the Federal Reserve bank rate announced after the close Thursday. Actual holdings, however, were not disturbed to any extent and those who have been concerned in absorption of stocks over a long period took advantage of the early pressure to add to their long lines.

American Light & Traction indicated the general market course, first dropping 10 points to 181 and then rallying to 190. Electric Bond & Share, which moves in line with American Light & Traction, dropped 3 points and quickly recovered most of its loss and American Rolling Mills after falling 2 points had a sharp advance.

Commonewlath Edison was strong after the opening, advancing about 2 points. Deere & Co., which dropped over four points at the start, recovered its loss and an early loss in Johns-Manville was later turned into a gain. Lehigh Coal & Navigation was one of the few weak features, selling ex-rights quoted at 6 per cent down to 112½ a loss of over a point.

Celanese rallied after a weak opening and Melville Shoe, which rose over 11 points yesterday, after declining 4 points, recovered all its decline. Shawinigan was a strong feature at the opening, advancing 11 points, but had this gain cut in half before midday. For dMotor of Canada was quiet with trading at 525. The chain store group moved within a narrow range and showed little net change for the day.

Oil stocks were irregular. Vacuum started with a loss of nearly 2 points, which was more than regained before midday. Standard Oil of Indiana dropped a half and then moved back again.

Newmont Mining also rallied after dropping 3 points in the early trading.

REACTION FOLLOWS AN EARLY ADVANCE IN COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—An early advance of 25 to 35 points in the cotton market today was checked by a renewal of liquidation or further local and southern selling. There were sharp reactions in later trading, when selling seemed to be promoted by prospects for rain in parts of West Texas. The midafternoon market was within 6 or 7 points of yesterday's closing quotations.

The market opened firm today at an advance of 23 to 30 points on active covering, foreign buying, believed to be for trade account, and some commission house demand, which evidently was inspired by unexpectedly firm Liverpool cables. Prices sold up to 17.45 for May and 17.29 for October, or about 25 to 35 points above yesterday's close during the first few minutes but the rally attracted realizing and there were reactions of 10 or 15 points.

Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to trade calling, covering and rebuying and said there was an absence of selling pressure.

The reaction from the opening advance carried the market off from 17.26 for May and 17.13 for October or about 12 to 18 points from the best. The volume of business tapered off on the decline, however, and the market held fairly steady on continued covering, while buying was also reported for continental account. Reports that spot cotton was offered less freely in some parts of the South contributed to the steadiness of the market. Prices at midday were about 18 to 24 points net higher.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3. (AP)—The cotton market was quite active today and fluctuated broadly. Following an early advance on better Liverpool advices prices eased off under selling inspired by reports of rains in the West. Near noon, however, the market stiffened again on good trade buying and March sold up to 17.13 and May and July to 17.15, or 25 to 30 points net up.

In the early afternoon the official forecast for rain in the drought section of the belt brought out increased offerings and March sold off to 16.92, May 16.93 and July 16.99, or 16 to 22 points down from the highs.

Exports today 45,488 bales; for the week 182,274 bales.

The market was steady in early trading today and prices advanced over $1 a bale. First trades showed gains of 15 to 19 points in sympathy with higher Liverpool cables. As New York showed a better response to Liverpool, the local market continued to advance after the start until March traded at 17.09, May 16.11 and July 17.15, or 24 to 28 points net up.

Towards the end of the first half hour selling induced by the forecast for rain in the western belt, carried prices off 9 points from the highs. Weakness in the New York stock market helped the decline.

The market steadied later in the morning on good trade buying and prices traded to new highs with March at 17.13 and May and July at 17.15, or 25 to 30 points above yesterday's close. Near noon the market eased 13 to 18 points on a renewal of hedge selling and on an official forecast for rains in the drought section of the West. The undertone, however, continued steady.

Cotton futures closed steady at a net advance of 15 to 20 points.

Sugar and Coffee

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today at 4.24 with no sales reported.

Raw sugar futures again were unsettled under continued tired long liquidation and selling by houses with Cuban connections, prices at midday showing net losses of 1 to 2 points. Cables from Europe were rather disappointing, and conditions in the refined sugar market were none too reassuring, although there appeared to be enough covering and new outside buying to absorb the early selling, and to give the market a steadier tone. Private cables from Havana said European buyers were again showing interest in Cuban sugars at 2.33 to 2.40 f.o.b. Cuba, or slightly above prices prevailing here. A prominent European authority reduced his beet sugar crop estimate to 8,024,000 tons against his previous estimate of 8,103,000 tons and the world's crops at 26,221,000 against his previous estimate of 26,261,000 and the last year's outturn of 24,712,000 tons.

There was not much activity in the refined sugar market and prices were unchanged at 5.70 for fine granulated. Beet sugars were being offered in increasing volume in outside districts in competition with cane sugars.

CORN SCORES FRESH GAIN AS OFFERINGS TO PIT ARE SMALL

CHICAGO, Feb. 3. (AP)—Fairly good export demand for corn helped to make corn values today average higher. Profit taking sales, however, broadened out on all the bulges and tended to check the gains. Country offerings and consignments of corn were again small, but weather conditions were favorable for the crop movement.

Corn closed firm ⅛ to ⅜c net higher, wheat unchanged to ⅛@⅜c lower, oats a shade to ⅛c up and provisions 7c to 17c down.

Corn market leaders pointed out today that although this is the time for the peak of the winter movement of United States corn, Europe this season is short of corn until the new Argentine crop arrives. It was also asserted that the official report of domestic production of corn is a decided over-estimate and that commercial demand is the best since the war.

A forecast of unsettled weather in the plains states, as well as big shipments of wheat from the southern hemisphere, counted as a weight today on wheat prices. However, many traders showed a disposition to purchase on declines, being influenced by unsatisfactory reports of the domestic crop outlook.

Grain Pit Notes

CHICAGO, Feb. 3. (AP)—An indication of the change in sentiment in corn was the active demand for bids on May for next week, with a decline from 89½ to 88 cents.

Local traders, who have been bullish on corn, were largely out of their line at the close yesterday, and one of them said he expected prices to go somewhat lower. Those friendly to corn have worked hard all week to get prices up, with indifferent results.

Bond Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—Easing tendencies appeared in the bond market today as a result of the unexpected increase yesterday in the federal reserve rediscount rate. There was no general rush to sell, however, and prompt oversubscription of the $20,000,000 Argentine 5½s indicated confidence in the fundamental soundness of the market.

United States government issues began to sag early in the session. Treasury 3¾s, offered in rather large volume, fell back more than a quarter-point. Popular issues such as General Motors Acceptance 6s, Rock Island 4½s, Erie 5s and Frisco 6s declined fractionally, and Seaboard 4s dropped about a point.

Public utility liens, which have been advancing steadily for a few days, showed considerable resistance to selling pressure, and in a few instances recorded slight gains. Convertible issues generally inclined to heaviness.

Trading in the foreign group was in moderate volume, and the general trend was fractionally higher. French issues again were among the leaders.

PRICES BREAK OFF SHARP AT OPENING STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—The stock market turned heavy in the last hour of trading today, following a brisk rally which succeeded the reactionary opening. Many stocks which had recovered losses of 1 to more than 3 points were headed downward again when pool operations were abandoned because of inability to arouse a large following. International Business Machines went off 8 points from its early peak and U. S. Steel lost 3. Hudson Motors was under pressure just before the close.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—Stock prices broke sharply at the opening of today's stock market on selling inspired by the unexpected increase on the New York federal reserve bank rediscount rate, and then rallied in sensational fashion. Early losses of 1 to 6 points were materially reduced, or wiped out, and in many cases supplemented by gains, some of which ran to nearly 9 points. Trading was unusually heavy at the opening but turned dull on the rally.

Early selling was based on the belief that the federal reserve bank's action was intended as an official warning against the further expansion of speculative credit. The reaction was an orderly one, and there were no wide open breaks. Lowering of the renewal rate on call money from 4½ to 4¼ per cent, which served to dispel fears of an immediate credit stringency, started the covering movement.

Speculators for the decline hammered stocks at the opening in expectation of forcing a major reaction such as swept through the market in March, 1926. Operators for the rise contend, however, that a major bear market is only warranted when there is a general necessity to convert securities into cash, which they assert does not exist. They therefore bought stocks freely after the initial break.

Burroughs Adding Machine, which broke 6 points to 156 at the opening, rallied to a new high record at 164½. Detroit Edison and Burroughs Adding Machine each soared nearly 9 points above yesterday's closing quotations to new peak prices. New Haven common and preferred, "Katy" preferred, Vanadium Steel, Consolidated Gas, Continental Can and Cudahy Packing sold at their best prices in five years or longer. General Motors recovered an early loss of 2 points but U. S. Steel common had only recovered part of its initial decline of 1½ points by early afternoon. Public utilities were again heavily bought.

Prices broke sharply at opening of today's stock market on selling inspired by the unexpected increase of the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate. Radio corporation opened with a block of 10,000 shares at par, an over night drop of 2⅞ points, and losses of a point or two were recorded by General Asphalt, U. S. Rubber, Union Carbide, Hupp Motors, Anaconda Copper, Atchison and several others.

Much of the early selling apparently was based on the belief that the higher New York rate was intended as an official warning against a further expansion of brokers' loans, which are more than a billion dollars above the total a year ago. The splendid resistance to pressure shown by many stocks was taken as an indication of a large short interest, the covering operations of which acted as a cushion for the flood of selling orders. The sharpest losses were recorded in the specialties which have been under pool manipulation. Early declines of 3 to 6 points were recorded by Warren Brothers, Christie Brown, Montana Power, Gold Dust, Midland Steel Products preferred, American Zinc preferred, Burroughs Adding Machine, Rossia Insurance, Houston Oil and Peoples Gas. U. S. Steel common opened 1½ points lower and General Motors dropped 2 points on the first sale. One lock of 14,000 shares of Chrysler changed hands at 56½, off ½. Heaviness of sterling exchange, due to selling inspired by fears that the higher interest rates here would result in the withdrawal of funds from London, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Sterling cables sold off ⅛ of a cent below yesterday's high to around $4.87. French francs held firm but most of the other continental rates were heavy.

The complexion of the market underwent an immediate change, prices rising briskly when the renewal rate for call loans was placed at 4¼ against yesterday's figure of 4½. A rush to cover cancelled much of the early losses of 1 to 3 points in the active stocks, and put a number of specialties to new record figures. International Business Machine rallied from 136 to 147½. Vanadium sold at 79½, the highest since 1920. New Haven touched 67⅞, the best since 1916.

The closing was heavy. The bull movement in some of the public utilities grew stronger than ever before the market succumbed to a new flood of selling orders. Adams Express climbed 15 points and Vanadium Steel reached 82⅞ before the downward movement was resumed. Some representative industrials touched their lowest prices of the session in the final hour. Total sales approximated 2,500,000 shares.

BURGLARS TAKE BIG LOOT FROM STORE IN OLNEY

Sheriff W. G. Brailey was asked Friday to keep watch in Wichita Falls for burglars who took merchandise valued at from $300 to $400 from the W. C. Harrell store in Olney during the night.

Breaking into the place through the front door, the burglars apparently had then proceeded to load their automobile with goods selected carefully from the stock. By working from the front, they avoided leaving tire prints which might have served as a clue. The burglary was discovered about daybreak.

The loot consisted largely of women's clothing, a large number of silk stockings, a considerable number of men's hats and general merchandise. A check of the loss had not been completed Friday morning.

FIFTEEN STARTERS ARE ALL SET FOR BIG RACE

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3. (AP)—Fifteen starters were announced ready Friday to compete for the $50,000 purse in the fourth annual renewal of the New Orleans handicap at the fair grounds.

In the event the entire field faced the barrier $15,000 would be added, running the gross purse close to $70,000.

Justice F, imported four-year-old of William Daniel, ruled the favorite. Among others well liked were War Eagle, Boon Companion, Oh Susanna, Helen's Babe and Jock, a McLean entry, who drew top impost of 126 pounds.

Rothermel, Dangerous, McTinkle, Saxon, Peter Peter, Ruane, Marconi, Percentage, and Laddie were in the brilliant field.

Weather reports indicated slight possibility of rain.

SOONERS IN BIG GAMES AFTER SIX WINS IN ROW

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 3. (AP)—Exhibiting the scalps of a half dozen valley basket ball teams, the undefeated Oklahoma Sooners moved up Friday for initial meetings with Washington and Missouri.

While the Oklahoma-Missouri clash Saturday night at Columbia has been heralded as the feature event on the week's slate, Washington supporters promised the Sooners plenty of competition at St. Louis Friday night.

The Oklahoma Aggies, tied with Washington for third place with five wins in eight games, also were in foreign territory. The Aggies meet the Kansas Aggies at Manhattan Friday night and jump to Lincoln Saturday to engage Nebraska.

SAMMY BAKER FAVORED TO WIN OVER ATTELL

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 3. (AP)—Sammy Baker, New York aspirant for a crack at Joe Dundee and his welterweight crown, will take on the scion of a famous fighting family Friday night—Gilbert Attell of San Francisco.

If the glories of ring honors of more than a generation ago can hurt, then Baker is in for a hard night of it. Attell can "point with pride" to his family tree which bore such fistic fruit as Abe, Monte and Caesar Attell. However, the modern fan apparently thinks more of punches than ancestry for Sammy is the favorite.

The fight is scheduled for 10 rounds.

RECORD ENTRY LIST TO COMPETE IN BOWLING

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 3 (AP)—Claiming a record breaking entry list of 2,240 teams for the American Bowling congress here March 3 to April 2, local bowling officials Friday plunged into preparations for the congress. Entries closed Thursday night with 40 more teams entered than were at Buffalo in 1925, the previous banner year.

A total of 1,440 local teams are entered with 800 foreign entries.

DRILLING IN TEXAS DROPS TO LOWEST MARK IN JANUARY

AUSTIN, Feb. 3. (AP)—Oil drilling activities in Texas dwindled to the activities in Texas dwindled tto the lowest mark in more than a year during January, presumably on account of the current price depression, it was revealed Friday from the oil and gas division of the state railroad commission.

Only 272 producing wells were reported for the month, while applications and filings covering the main phases of activity, including drilling, shooting and plugging, dropped to a new total of 1619, as compared to the 2955 for January 1927, since when there has been a steady decrease.

In January, 1927, producing wells reported totaled 608 and the lowest mark for the year was 290 for September.

R. D. Parker, supervisor of the oil and gas division, said the crude oil price depression is the only way he can account for the curtailed activity.

For the month just passed, the division received 527 applications to drill, 127 to shoot, 261 to plug. Two hundred and one wells were reported dry and the same number plugged. Thirty gas wells were brought in.

AT THE THEATERS

Bert Southern's Vanities to Close Engagement Here

Bert Southern's Vanities will give their closing performances at the Mission theater Friday and Saturday and have what they consider one of the best plays on their repertoire, "Smiles." Saturday is their last day in the city and the company will no doubt be greeted by packed houses at the several performances.

This organization has become popular with the theater going public of Wichita Falls, who will welcome their return at some future date.

"Hickville Follies," featuring Lillian Murray, will open an engagement at the Mission on Sunday.

Five Good Acts On This Week's Vaudeville Bill

Ned Wayburn's "Buds of 1927" heads a bill of five excellent acts at the Majestic theater this week.

The "Buds" form a chorus of beauties who certainly knock out an eyeful when they are cavorting around on the stage. It is a difficult matter to decide which one of them should receive first mention.

Frances Short in her oriental dance, "East of Suez," was warmly applauded. The set for this scene is especially beautiful. Helen Shapiro, a little brunette, demands a fair share of the honors with her dances and songs.

The opening scene portrays a garden of girls, while six different rose songs are sung by Patricia Patti, Floyd Carder and Miss Shapiro. Girls in elaborate costumes illustrate "Rose of Picardy," "China Rose," "Wild Irish Rose," "Persian Rose," "Rose of Washington Square" and "Last Rose of Summer."

Peter S. Larkin, dancing comedian, shakes a wicked pair of loose jointed legs that set the audience in convulsions Thursday.

The bill opens with "Something Different," featuring Marshall and La Rue. The gentleman member of the pair is a contortionist, but the lady brings a pleasant surprise when she does a yodeling solo with a specially illuminated set.

The biggest act in vaudeville is second. This is staged by Haynes, Lehman and Kayser, three human behemoths who range from 250 to 500 pounds in weight. They sing, dance, play the piano and pull a few clever gags in order to put over a really good act.

May Usher in "Modern Moments," sings, declaims in an oratorical accent and gives humorous reading in order to appeal to all of the emotions from tears of sentiment to sobs of hysterical laughter.

Mable Walzer and Eddie Dyer stage a good song and dance act. Mable says, "They ought to put ashes on this floor," as she skids back and forth across the stage, experiencing more trouble than a drunken man on roller skates.

Tickets for Both Operas Are Ready At Headquarters

The public can now buy tickets for both operas at the Grand Opera headquarters, Hamilton building, ground floor, and receive the ticket.

Those wanting ticket for single performance will mail their order, with remittance attached. After February 10 you can buy tickets for one opera or for both operas at headquarters and receive ticket.

Chile Puts Ban On Spicy Movies And Love Plays

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 3. (AP)—The minister of interior has decreed motion picture censorship.

Minors under 15 may see only movies of legends, historical voyages and comedies. They must not be permitted to view films portraying crimes or love scenes.

At the same time the importation and showing of films which might cause ridicule or outrage against the authorities or against persons, or offend national pride and patriotism at home or abroad, or offend the morals or customs of foreign countries or religions was barred.

Films claiming to point a moral by showing immoral acts or which might incite to crime were also banned.
